Suit Is Filed As Child Hurt On Playground

By Ron Marstin

A school playground mishap last fall resulted in the filing last week of a damages suit in Floyd Circuit Court.

Rebecca Blevins initiated the action on behalf of her son, Frederick Nathan Collins, a fourth grader at Prestonsburg Elementary School. Named as defendants are William Hitchcock and Katie Hatfield, who are parents, respectively, of two sixth graders at the school. Plaintiff and defendants all live on Stephens Branch, near Prestonsburg.

The suit stems from a Nov. 19, 1986 accident in which Collins broke his leg, apparently after falling from one of two uprights used to support a volleyball net. Blevins said the upright toppled when the sixth-graders pushed it. Their negligence is attributable to their parents, her suit says.

Also named as defendant in the action is the Floyd Board of Education, which plaintiff claims was negligent in allowing a dangerous situation to exist on the school playground and in not providing adequate playground supervision.

Prestonsburg Elementary School Principal Thomas Tackett said the accident occurred while students were waiting to board buses at the end of the school day. At the time of the mishap, the attention of two teachers on bus duty was diverted by a fight among several other students and they did not

181 Students To Be Graduated AT PCC Commencement, Friday

The twenty-second annual commencement exercises at Prestonsburg Community College will be held Friday, May 8, at 7 p.m. at the First Baptist Church in Prestonsburg. Dr. Grady Stumbo, Hindman physician and gubernatorial candidate will deliver the commencement address. Dr. Stumbo is a graduate of Alice Lloyd College and the University of Kentucky College of Medicine. He is president and medical director of the East Kentucky Health Services Center, a nationally recognized primary care center in Knott county. For his work in rural primary health care, Dr. Stumbo has received several awards, including the John D. Rockefeller III Public Service Award. He was chosen by the National Jaycees as one of the Ten Outstanding Young Men of America in 1977. From 1979 to 1982, Dr. Stumbo served as Secretary of the Department for Human Resources.

Degrees will be awarded to 181 graduates. They are:

Literacy Council Seeking Ways To Reach, To Teach Unlettered

By Louise Houghton

How do you get a message to a person who can't read? That's the dilemma the Floyd County Adult Literacy Council is facing today as it moves into its second year of operation.

The message is that the ability to read is a kind of freedom that enables a person to take more opportunities and make better choices. No one is ever too old to learn, and help is available for local non-readers who want to change their lives.

Much of the council's first-year grant of $9,000, received from the state last summer, has been spent—to install a central telephone line, buy teaching materials, and stock the public library with books for adults who are just beginning to read. Announcements have been placed on radio stations, brochures have been distributed at stores throughout the county, and posters have been put up at many locations featuring the words most likely to be recognized by people with poor reading skills: "pay," "job," "money," and "free."

Those efforts have been successful, to a modest extent. But making a dent in the number of Floyd county adults who are "functionally illiterate" is a slow and at times discouraging task, according to one toiler in the field.

"Somehow we're still not reaching the people we need to reach," said Sister Mary Gervase Lochotski, a council member and adult education teacher for the Christian Appalachian Project. "All the numbers are down." The distribution of 4,000 brochures has brought fewer than 50 responses, she added, and today she has about the same number of reading students and tutors-in-training that she had a year ago.

About 3,600 Floyd county adults over the age of 25 cannot read at the third-grade level, according to her statistics. That means that one out of every eight adults here cannot read road signs, food labels, bank statements or the bills that come in the mail.

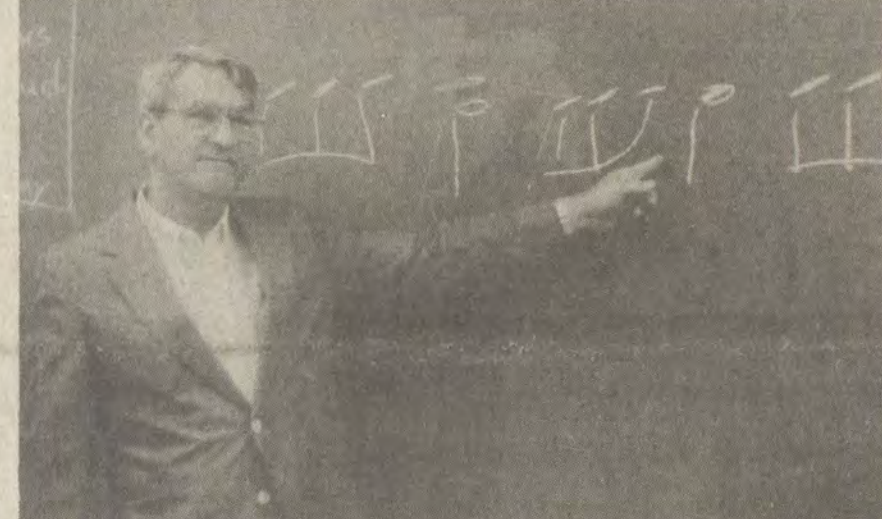

Although these non-readers often are intelligent and have learned to hide their handicap successfully, it's not hard to see why brochures and posters will have only a limited impact. Personal contact is a much more effective way of getting students enrolled, she has learned.

"I am here because we need you," she told members of the Floyd County Ministerial Association, Tuesday. The ministers can help by spreading the word among their flocks, she said, or they can invite her to speak to various church groups.

Making the community aware of the literacy council and its work has been a major goal for the council's first year and it is being accomplished, according to Mike Vance, administrative director at Mountain Comprehensive Care and vice-chairperson of the council. Vance said he has spoken to several groups in the last few months, including the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and the Chamber of Commerce.

A second goal has been to establish a central telephone number—886-8811—where people can get confidential information about all the reading programs in the area, Vance said. The confidentiality is important, he stressed. "A lot of people don't want anybody to know they can't read," he said. "They will go to great lengths to hide it."

MUSIC PROFESSOR Gus M. Kalos points out a line from Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, third movement, for students at Prestonsburg Community College.

PCC Concert Sunday To Mark Retirement

By Louise Houghton

When Gus M. Kalos lifts his hands to direct the Prestonsburg Community Chorus in its annual spring concert next Sunday afternoon, he will be signaling both a beginning and an end.

It will be a moment of rare pleasure, undoubtedly. Of all his duties as music professor at Prestonsburg Community College, Kalos says that directing the chorus gives him the most enjoyment. His own daughter, a voice teacher who lives in Paintsville, will be one of the solo performers that afternoon. And the piece that the group will present, a German Requiem by Brahms, is one of his all-time favorites.

It will also be his last concert. He chose the Brahms requiem for the occasion, because "it's the piece I wanted to go out with," Kalos said. "I'd love to have it sung for my funeral."

A requiem is a musical piece honoring a dead person, and the Brahms work is no exception. But the tone of the piece is not sad or somber, Kalos said. Instead, it is rich, romantic, and full of melodic lines, a celebration of the salvation that follows death. Parts of it are slow and lyrical, while others are fast and lively. The community chorus has not performed the piece here for several years, he said.

Kalos, who will be 55 later this month, is retiring from his college position at the end of this semester after 22 years of teaching area residents to sing, play instruments, and understand and appreciate the classical music that he loves. The community chorus, which he organized shortly after he came here in the 1960's, has by now become a Christmas tradition for many Floyd countyans when it presents its annual performance of Handel's "Messiah."

A reception in his honor, to which the public is invited, will be held immediately following Sunday's concert in the foyer of the Pike Building, hosted by the newly-formed PCC Alumni Association.

Through his work with the chorus, with his church, and as a private teacher of voice and instruments, Kalos has affected the lives of many people here who have no other connection with the college.

"He was able to discover a lot of people who just enjoyed singing," said Kathryn Frazier, a former chorus member who has attended many of the group's concerts since she dropped out several years ago. "He did a really good job" of motivating members and conducting their performances, she said.

"I suspect that his retirement will mean that for a while the community chorus will not be active," she added, a little sadly.

"Gus has brought a quality of music to our church that's far above what anyone would imagine," said Steve Hopkins, pastor at First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial), where Kalos has directed music programs ever since he came to this area. "There is a quality of

Chessie Worker Pleads Guilty To Theft Charge

By Ron Marstin

Among several defendants entering guilty pleas last week in Floyd Circuit Court was a railroad employee accused of selling on the side automotive supplies he had purchased on the railroad account.

Gregory Conn, 28, of Allen, was sentenced Thursday to a one-year jail term on two counts of theft. Except for the 60 days he had already served, the sentence was probated by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

Conn was indicted in February on charges that he bought oil and antifreeze from an Allen dealer last November, charging the purchases to the C&O Railroad, and later sold the merchandise to Thurman West, operator of R&T Trucking, at Ivel.

Chessie System security officers said they recovered oil, antifreeze, railroad jacks, sledge hammers, and come-alongs—a kind of manually-operated winch—in a storage trailer at R&T Trucking's Ivy Creek plant. The merchandise was valued at $1,418.

The two counts with which Conn was charged occurred on November 13 and 17, 1986, and involved oil and antifreeze worth $567. West was not charged in the transactions.

The truck operator told railroad police he had made four purchases from Conn at Conn's instigation but was unaware the goods were stolen. Conn told him a friend who worked in a warehouse was able to get the merchandise wholesale. West said.

But Conn said the idea originated with West one day last fall, when the two of them were drinking at Conn's

Waste-to-Energy Plants Said Viable Trash Disposal Means

By Ron Marstin

Recent news footage of a bargeload of rotting New York garbage, plying up and down the eastern seaboard for six weeks in fruitless search of a community willing to take it, makes an old idea newly attractive: why not recycle it, tap it as a source of energy, turn an embarrassment into an asset?

After a few years of faddish attention in the 1970s, recycling fell from grace when cheaper oil made waste-to-energy schemes uncompetitive. But growing pressures on sanitary landfills—combined with significant improvements in so-called "alternative" technology—are causing local government officials to take a new look at the possibilities.

Some of them will be gathering in Louisville next week for a state-sponsored conference on the topic, and Bob McAninch, designer and director of Floyd county's solid waste program—which actually boasts a landfill with an enviably long life expectancy—said Monday that he intends to be among them.

The conference, "Energy from Solid Waste: An Option for Local Government," promises to teach county and city officials how they might kill two birds with one stone—both reduce the amount of trash that has to be buried on scarce landfill sites and save on high energy costs—"even turning a profit for their city or county," according to a press release from the office of Gov. Martha Layne Collins.

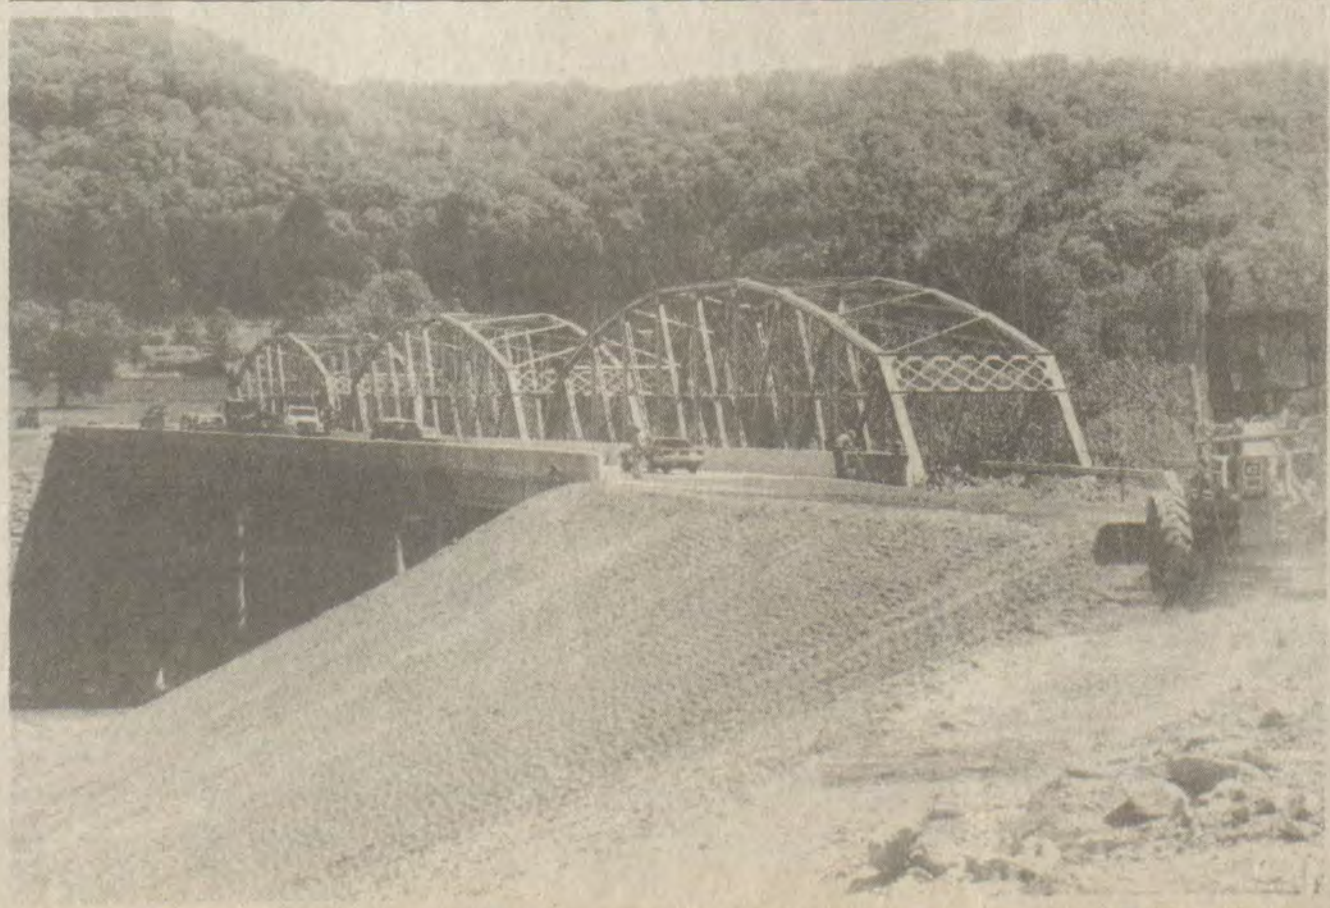

McAninch, who has advocated consolidating county-based solid waste systems, said this week that their current fragmentation makes it unlikely that individual systems will generate the waste needed to make energy production worthwhile. "You need volume," he said, "or it's just not economically feasible."

Nevertheless, organizers of next week's meeting say it will include practical advice from officials with experience in recovering energy from the burning of solid waste on both large and small scales.

"Disposing of solid waste remains a serious problem in most Kentucky communities and counties," said Carol A. Wallace, conference coordinator from the Kentucky Energy Cabinet's division of alternative energy development. "Converting this waste to energy can offer an attractive, useful and economic alternative to landfills and the environmental and other problems they pose."

A waste-to-energy plant typically reduces landfill waste by 75 percent, with a proportionate reduction in the groundwater pollution garbage dumps

Redwine Will Run For Wildlife Commission

John R. Redwine, of Sandy Hook, a lifetime outdoorsman and a retired 28-year veteran of the state Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, has announced that he will be a candidate for 7th Wildlife District Commissioner in the election to be held May 27 at Hindman.

Redwine is a former regional director of the district, which includes Elliott, Lawrence, Johnson, Martin, Floyd, Magoffin, Breathitt, Knott, Leslie, Perry, and Letcher counties.

He began his career with the Fish and Wildlife Department in 1952 as conservation officer in his home county of Elliott, and served as an administrative assistant to state Wildlife Commissioner Earl Wallace in 1953, later becoming director of the 7th Wildlife District.

An avid outdoorsman, Redwine currently owns and runs 16 fox hounds and is president of the Southeastern Fox Hunters Association. He also enjoys hunting upland game and owns and hunts nine bird dogs. He is a strong advocate of keeping Kentucky's present small game regulations unchanged, and he says he strongly favors the return of a larger share of Fish and Wildlife revenues to the district "to stock more fish in our streams and game in our fields."

Redwine also is a Master Mason.

The 7th Wildlife District Commissioner's election will be held Wednesday, June 2, at 7:30 p.m. at Knott County Central High School.

A Clear Choice

In the upcoming democratic primary for governor the people will have a clear choice between candidates that refuse to uphold the Constitution of Kentucky and one candidate that vows to throw special interests out of the governor's mansion and represent the people. All the candidates save one oppose the unmined minerals tax. Any candidate opposing the unmined minerals tax, when taking the oath of office, will in effect be lying under oath. Two court decisions have already declared that the current tax exemption on unmined minerals is unconstitutional. Former Governor Brown has proposed repealing the limit on property taxes that surface owners pay to raise revenue for our schools. Most of the coal producing counties have already seen their property taxes increase by as much as 100%. Wallace Wilkinson's plan is to have a state lottery; is a plan that has failed to pass several times before, are we willing to take the chance of securing funds in this manner for our schools.

Grady Stumbo ran four years ago to end the injustice that the energy corporations have imposed upon the people of the coal fields. If he had been elected four years ago, Floyd county, for example, would have realized 6 million dollars over his administration in revenue for schools and county services, and the recent tax hike of 79% on property would not have been necessary. Grady recently pointed out that it isn't fair for a company like Pocahontas Development Corp. to own 80,000 acres of mineral reserves in Martin county and pay only $74 a year in taxes, while the working man pays more than that on his pickup truck.

It's sad that a candidate who has run his campaign from funds received from the people can't compete with a big media barrage. It will only further demonstrate the control the boob tube has over the electoral process and only those who receive substantial financial backing from special interest groups can wage a successful campaign. Of course, the big loser in the final analysis would be the people of Kentucky who will have to live four more years under the rule of the energy corporations if anyone but Grady Stumbo is our next governor.

It's Our Turn

Friends, we have the opportunity of a lifetime for East Kentucky: the election of one of our very own for Governor of our state.

Can a man, much like you, born and reared in the East Kentucky coal fields, who worked his way through medical school and serves us as a doctor here in East Kentucky, be elected Governor of Kentucky? Yes, he certainly can!

Grady Stumbo has proven as the chief executive officer of the state's largest and most complex agency that he can lead and manage this state's business affairs. He proved by the 200,000 votes he received in 1983 that he is a winner. He has proven during this campaign by addressing the issues and demonstrating vision that he is the leader we working people all over Kentucky need. He is a man of intelligence, leadership, energy, creativity, compassion and experience to deal with the most difficult issues.

Grady Stumbo is an East Kentuckian and proud of it! His children go to our schools. He drives on our roads. He works in our hospitals. Grady Stumbo doesn't have to "claim" to know us and our problems; he was born and reared here and has lived his life here. He's a lot like you!

Neighbors, of the candidates for Governor we in East Kentucky have but one clear choice: GRADY STUMBO! It's been 28 years since Bert Combs was our Governor. Just as he did us right and made us proud, so will Grady Stumbo. The late Carl D. Perkins said that he just could not understand how anyone in East Kentucky could vote for anyone else.

East Kentucky has long been ignored by Frankfort. Our roads are in their worst condition. Our schools need attention. The coal business needs a boost in the worst way. Which of the candidates do you think will help us? Doesn't it stand to reason that one of our very own will help us first? If there was a time we in East Kentucky must get out and vote it's NOW! It's a once in a lifetime opportunity that we cannot afford to let pass by. Don't stay home on May 26. Go vote for Grady Stumbo! It's a voice for all of us. Remember, it's our turn!

We all need our uncle Joe's. As I watched and admired uncle Joe Marrs, I also watched and admired his cheerful way of accepting pain, when seriously injured in the mines. Any time we neared his home he had a cup of cool water for the youth in our crowd. He was equally graceful at meal time in sharing food from God's abundance. Many years later, I missed him.

We can live without our uncle Joe's only by focusing on God's grace, and becoming uncle Joe's for others.

Quick Action Asked

There is an abandoned railroad bridge that crosses the Right Fork of Beaver Creek to what was originally called Glo. Kentucky. This bridge is responsible for damaging flood waters to a host of families that resides along this creek. In addition to that problem, it also deposits huge mounds of trash that, besides being a threat to health, is a disgrace to our county and state by people who come back to visit.

This bridge needs to be removed. It serves no purpose to the railroad or anyone else.

We have a serious problem that needs quick action.

A Better Way

Og Mandino, a bestselling author, provides a message exceedingly appropriate to those concerned voters in the present gubernatorial campaign. The message is "The Choice."

There must be a better way to live! There is a better way of life! The key is choice, and Dr. Grady Stumbo is that choice. The time has arrived when we can exercise the freedom of choice with which we can unlock our poverty doors to live a richer future we all want and deserve.

Dr. Stumbo is giving Eastern Kentucky the choice of electing a governor whose roots are embedded in the mountains as he has known no other home.

Dr. Stumbo is giving the people a choice for electing a "working" governor as he has done little else during his life. Although the strenuous struggle was immense, Dr. Stumbo worked "his way" through school and achieved scholastic excellence.

Stumbo is giving every Kentuckian the choice of electing a governor who cares for all the people as his professional dedication exemplifies. He hurts when his people hurts.

Stumbo is a leader, not a leaneer. He is a director, not an imitator. He is a guide, not a follower.

Stumbo is characterized by positive qualities, personal initiative, prompt decision, force of character, kindness, the ability to plan and put an undertaking to the finish.

There is a better way to live! The answer is so obvious. The choice is Dr. Grady Stumbo!

Accounting Seminar Is For Small Businesses

"Simplified Accounting Systems," a practical seminar for small business owners, will be presented May 19 at the Quality Inn in Ashland. The two-hour program, which begins at 7 p.m. is non-technical and will include a discussion of recordkeeping systems, an explanation of the difference between cash basis and accrual basis records, and comparisons of manual, pegboard, and computer systems.

The program is sponsored by the Kentucky Society of CPAs, the Chamber of Commerce of Boyd & Greenup counties, the East Kentucky Small Business Development Center, and the Small Business Administration, for the benefit of small business owners.

Robert L. Abrams, principal partner of Abrams & Company, CPAs, in Paintsville, will conduct the seminar which will also illustrate how to use a CPA and why a small business would need a CPA.

Arts Council Accepts Awards Nominations

The Kentucky Arts Council is accepting nominations for 1987 Governor's Awards in the Arts. The deadline for nominations is June 1.

Each year, the governor and the Arts Council board, a unit in the Kentucky Department of the Arts, honor individuals and organizations with awards for significant contributions to the arts. The prized Milner Award has been presented annually since 1977 to an artist or patron for outstanding contribution to the arts. In 1986 Gov. Martha Layne Collins, in an ongoing effort to recognize outstanding artists, individuals and organizations, expanded the arts awards program to include the following:

Artist Award for lifetime achievement;

Business Award for significant corporate support of the arts or artists;

Education Award for a school which has an outstanding arts education program or to an individual or organization which has made advancement of arts education a priority;

Community Award to an individual or group for an outstanding community arts project;

Government Award for a local, regional or state agency or individual for major contributions toward the arts;

Media Award to a media organization or reporter that has covered the arts in Kentucky in an exceptional way.

Nominations for the awards may be made by individuals or organizations within or outside of Kentucky. Those eligible for awards include organizations in the state or individuals living in or closely associated with Kentucky. The awards will be presented at special ceremonies in late November.

For further information and nomination forms, contact: Governor's Awards in the Arts, Kentucky Department of the Arts, Berry Hill, Frankfort, ky. 40601, (502) 564-3757.

music here that I've seen in few churches this size."
The professor, trim and youthful-looking though his black hair is turning silver, says he has few definite plans about the next phase of his life. "I might not do anything," he laughed. But he probably will spend more time working with the church, he said, and may give more attention to the B.G. Kalos Construction Co. that he and his wife, Betty, own.

Kalos is a skilled carpenter and enjoys pointing out the buildings around town that his company has put up.

But, for the most part, he said, "I just want some freedom." His wife, also a teacher, retired two years ago, and the two of them will welcome the ability to take off and travel when the mood strikes them. Kalos fulfilled a lifelong dream a few years ago when he learned to fly, and he now owns a four-passenger Cessna 182 which they used to fly down to Myrtle Beach, S.C., for a weekend last month.

Teaching has been a "very satisfying" career, he said, especially watching the gradual development of young students and seeing how music appreciation comes to enrich their lives. But he calculated last week that he has taught one introductory class no less than 1,760 times, and he figures that he's done his time in teaching.

Before coming to Prestonsburg, he taught high school music at Owensboro, led high school band in Louisville, and also worked with church music in Louisville. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Kentucky in 1954.

Music was the factor that introduced him to his wife when they were high school students, she in Louisville and he in Fayette county. She was a bassoonist in her school band, and she played trumpet for him, when both were chosen for the All-State band. They now have three children, all grown, and four grandchildren.

In District Court

Sentenced in Floyd District Court, following guilty pleas or verdicts, were: Helen Ross, 29, Hindman, theft by unlawful taking, 30 days in jail and $107.50 in fine and court costs; Steven Carroll, Martin, unlawful transaction with a minor, six months in jail and fined $557.50; Rodney Eric Fraley, 29, Sandy Hook, shoplifting, 30 days in jail and fined $257.50; Anna Mullins, Harold, theft by deception, two counts, 30 days in jail and fined $157.50; Larry Little, Weeksburg, assault 4th, fined $297.50; Walter Canada, Harold, theft by deception, 30 days in jail and fined $157.50; Tom Hagans, Langley, menacing, five days probation and fined $157.50; Danny Goble, Auxier, theft by unlawful taking, ten days in jail and fined $157.50; Romain Shepherd, 68, Blue River, theft by unlawful taking, fined $82.50 and ten days in jail probated on condition defendant not enter Hecks for one year.

Not the Same Person

The Randy Hamilton listed in last week's Times as defendant in a civil suit in Floyd Circuit Court is not Randy Hamilton, of Banner, son of Eddie and Hazel Hamilton, of Harold.

Democratic Women Sponsor Forum

The Floyd County Democratic Womens club hosted a Democratic Forum at the Prestonsburg High School cafeteria on April 16. Several candidates or their representatives were present to discuss their platforms before the May 26 primary. In addition, music was provided by Lisa Collins and Pam Baldrige and refreshments were served by club members. Voter registration and club membership tables were set up also.

see Collins get injured, the principal said.

The two sixth graders denied having pushed Collins or the upright on which the boy was said to be climbing. Tackett said. No administrative action was taken as a result of the incident.

The freestanding volleyball uprights, which are weighted with concrete at the base, are still in use at the school. Tackett insisting they are not intrinsically hazardous. "Who would have believed a volleyball stand would be a dangerous item?" the principal said. "Kids can think of all kinds of ways to misuse playground equipment."

In another suit, a Mare Creek excavating firm has sued an Ivel coal operator, the excavators claiming they were misled as to the quantity of material needing to be removed in preparing a Turkey Creek site for a mining operation.

In bidding on a $109,256 contract to face up a mine for Buck Coal, Inc., officials of Big D Excavating said they relied on engineering maps and projections provided by the coal operator, which indicated that 27,162 cubic yards of overburden would have to be removed. An agent of Buck Coal also marked off the area to be excavated, the suit says.

In fact, the job required the removal of 30,584 cubic yards over and above what the contract indicated, a fact that became apparent only as the job was in progress, the excavator alleges.

For removing the extra material, they are owed an additional $99,398, which the coal operator refuses to pay, plaintiffs allege.

The playground accident suit was filed by Paintsville attorney G. C. Perry III, the excavator's suit by Prestonsburg attorney R. Don Goble. Suits filed in court outline only the plaintiff's version of the issues in dispute.

house. West complained of the high cost of keeping his truck fleet in oil and antifreeze and asked if "the railroad had any lying around that they wouldn't miss." Conn said in a statement to Chessie police Sgt. L. M. Goodman, Jr.

"I have never done anything like this before," Conn told the officer.

Harold Robert "Robbie" Baer, 28, of Betsy Layne, pleaded guilty to stealing a car and cash last September from Kathleen R. Sweeney, also of Betsy Layne. Baer was extradited from Florida in October to face charges that he had taken Sweeney's 1980 Chrysler LeBaron and $600 in cash. He received two one-year sentences, to be served concurrently.

James Crabtree, 19, of Hueysville, pleaded guilty to assault, criminal mischief, and two counts of burglary, drawing a two-year sentence for each, the sentences to run concurrently.

Crabtree was accused of slashing the face of another Hueysville man. Charles Ray Taylor, with a switchblade last Dec. 19, and of breaking into the Hueysville homes of Wanda McCown and Allen and Barbara Bailey on Jan. 31 and Feb. 1 this year.

Also entering a plea of guilt was Moore, Oklahoma truck driver James E. Phillips, 23, who was charged with wanton endangerment for trying to run over park ranger Jerry Daniels in front of May Lodge on New Year's Day. Phillips was sentenced to a year in jail, all of it probated except for the 92 days he had already served.

As his case was about to go to trial Monday, Paul Miller, 50, pleaded guilty to a charge of receiving stolen property. Under a plea bargain, the felony charge was reduced to a misdemeanor and the Commonwealth recommended a one-year jail term. Sentencing was set for June 26.

Miller was accused of having tools and household goods stolen from Betty L. Hall, who claimed she later saw the goods being offered for sale last June at a Maytown yard sale.

Terry Dean Newsome, 25, of Price, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of theft and received a probated one-year sentence, on condition he make $500 restitution to Sam Martin III, operator of the Auto Trek store in Martin. Newsome was accused of stealing tools from the store while he was employed there.

Rex Frasure, of McDowell, pleaded guilty to defrauding the state Cabinet for Human Resources by collecting $840 in unemployment benefits last summer, while he was working for Jena Coal Co. He was given a one-year sentence, probated on condition that he make restitution at a rate of $75 a month until the debt is paid. A similar case against Levi Blankenship, also of McDowell, was dismissed when Blankenship paid back the $420 he had received in jobless benefits while working for B&B Heating and Cooling, Inc., in April, 1986.

Bits and Pieces

A LEGAL CONUNDRUM

The Darby boys at State Wide Press sent us the following. We have all enjoyed it, and they say we can share it with you.

Please Help Our Cousin Carol!!!
John Oldham was born Nov. 07, 1878, he was married to his first wife Connie in 1901. They had 11 children. Connie died and John married his second wife Sandy in 1917. They had 6 children. Sandy died and John married his third wife, Cathy, in 1928. They had three children and divorced in 1935. All of John's children are living except Alfred, John's first born, who died an infant in 1902, and Bill, a son of John and Connie, was murdered in 1930.

Bill died intestate, survived by his widowed Janet, their six children and an adopted child. He also had five illegitimate children by Roxie, his mistress of many years. Janet had a son, Timothy, born 13 months after Bill's death, which she claimed was Bill's by a freak of nature.

One of Bill's six natural children was Lanna, who was committed to an insane asylum after being charged with killing small animals with a fork. It was always suspected she had a hand in Bill's murder, because she hated her father and was reported fleeing the stabbing with blood stained clothes and screaming Rose Bud. Nothing was ever proved and no charge was ever brought against Lanna.

Lanna, who never married, had only three children, all born in the insane asylum, fathered by three different doctors. Lanna died in 1950 when she jumped off the cliff in an attempt to prove she could fly. All of Bill's other children are living and all of Lanna's children are living except Tera, a real estate broker who died from boredom taking real estate law.

Tera died intestate in 1981, survived by husband, Oliver, who reputedly has underworld ties, and two children, Lucinda and Carol. Both Lucinda and Carol are living.

On December 13, 1983, John Oldham married Cindy Winston, a 25-year-old hat check girl at the Boom-Boom Room, a local club. On their wedding night, John dies instate when he is shot by Tania, the girl he jilted to marry Cindy.

Assuming John has sole ownership of Blackacre, what fractional interest would Carol have in this property?

WHAT NEXT?

Could be the Justices of the U.S. Supreme Court are just bugged because a woman finally invaded their own august precincts, but for whatever reason, they've done it again. With a 7 to 0 vote, they have made a decision which may well mean that Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, and many other clubs heretofore for men, will now accept distaff members, whether they like it or not.

So, okay. This must mean, on the other hand, that The League of Women Voters, American Association of University Women, Woman's Clubs, Homemakers Clubs, what have you, will now accept men as members.

Personally, I have always felt that it was nice for the boys and the girls each to be able to get together occasionally without the other.

In case no one has noticed, lately, we're different.

In fact, the whole human race is around, because we're different.

Resource Team To View City In Visit Here

A resource team from Kentucky's Main Street program will visit Prestonsburg next week to assess the city's downtown roads.

Mayor Ann Latta said the group will be here Monday and Tuesday to tour the downtown area, meet with local people, and make recommendations to the local Main Street Board.

A public hearing is scheduled Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the Floyd County Library. Anyone interested in the downtown area is invited to attend, the Mayor said.

Proposals for a new logo for Prestonsburg will also be unveiled at the public meeting. Mayor Latta said public comment on a selection will be welcome.

Members of the Resource Team who will be here are Scott Barksdale, Kentucky Main Street coordinator; Sheila-Lauren Murphy, resource manager; Sayra Hutchison, architect, who is restoration project manager; Mac Nichols, from the National Main Street Center, Washington, D.C., and Ray Rothgeb, Main Street manager for Independence, Kans.

Rhondetta Goble, Prestonsburg's Main Street manager, will conduct the group on a tour of the downtown areas, Monday, and set up interviews with local citizens.

"The Resource Team is here to give assistance," she said, "and anyone who would like to meet with team members may call me at 886-9066."

Team members have expertise in architecture, historical renovation, promotion, design and economic restructuring and are available for individual or group consultation.

Prestonsburg was selected as one of six demonstration Main Street cities in Kentucky, last October.

According to Vance, the number of students enrolled in MCC's reading classes has increased since last year, due in part to the council's radio announcements. What's needed now, he said, are more volunteer tutors to work one-to-one with the students.

The volunteers do not need to be teachers, according to Sister Gervase, who certified four new tutors this week and is training about 30 others. The training takes about 10 to 12 hours, usually spread over four to six weeks.

Many tutors volunteer because they want to help a specific friend or relative who can't read, the sister said. The best situation is for a non-reader to be tutored by a close family member, because their weekly sessions aren't as likely to be interrupted by winter weather or other transportation problems.

Even when the tutor and student are strangers to each other, she added, a strong bond often develops between the two. "There's a real emotional thing there," she said, and tutors often gain from the experience as well as giving help to the students.

About a third of this year's grant money was set aside to buy new books for the public library, and that plan is now producing results. About 200 volumes were received last month, both fiction and non-fiction, covering subjects of interest to adults but written for people who are just learning to read. More will be ordered soon.

"We hope to get close to 1,000, and perhaps more than 1,000," said library director Terry Manuel. The books are important to the literacy effort, he explained, because many students lose interest and drop out if they can't get books to read for fun, outside of the "work" reading they do for class.

"We're trying to avoid that," Manuel said. Before the council money became available, he added, the library had only about 20 volumes appropriate for adult reading students. The number of people inquiring about such books has increased since the Literacy Council was established, he said.

cause, Wallace said. While recycling plants can generate hazards of their own, any built in Kentucky would be required to meet state clean-air standards, she said.

Among the waste conversion plants in operation around the country, some tap the methane gas produced when garbage decomposes. Others process the refuse into fuel pellets. However, the vast majority are high-temperature incinerators, which produce steam and sometimes generate electricity as well.

Typically, the energy produced runs the plant itself and provides power for nearby industries.

No such plant is yet in operation in Kentucky, Wallace said. An incinerator in Franklin, in Simpson county, is capable of converting refuse into energy but lacks a market for it, she said.

Participants in next week's conference will be bused to Gallatin, Tenn. to tour a waste-to-energy incinerator that has been in operation for three-and-a-half years, producing steam for sale to an industrial park.

The Gallatin plant consumes 200 tons of garbage a day, but some successful plants operate on a daily input of less than 50 tons, Wallace said. The Floyd landfill at Garth probably handles about 75 tons of garbage daily, said McAninch, but that volume could be increased to as much as 400 tons if the landfill here were operated as a regional facility, he said.

New technology will almost certainly make energy production feasible even from relatively small trash volumes and will mean a marked reduction in current pressure on solid waste landfills, McAninch predicted.

Wallace said next week's conference will include advice on how to gather the data needed to determine whether the waste-to-energy alternative is suited for a particular city or county, how to initiate a project, and how to finance it. She knew of no state money available for such a project, which is typically financed by revenue bonds, she said.

Seventy-two participants had signed up Monday for the conference scheduled for May 13-15 at Louisville's Seelbach Hotel, Wallace said. Most of the participants are from out of state, however, and none from eastern Kentucky had signed up so far, she said.

The conference is sponsored by the state Energy Cabinet and Cabinet for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, the Tennessee Valley Authority, the U.S. Department of Energy, and Argonne National Laboratory.

Burglars Foiled But Make Getaway

The thieves got away, but an intrusion alarm system and Prestonsburg Police stopped a burglary at Hecks Department Store, shortly after midnight, Friday.

At 12:08 a.m., a silent alarm alerted police that a burglary was taking place.

According to one of the investigating policemen, the burglars entered the store through an air conditioning duct in the roof, climbed down a rope, and escaped out the back fire door.

Store manager Robbie Patton said that while nothing was taken from the store, the burglars ransacked an office desk and filing cabinet, and made an unsuccessful attempt to open a safe.

Fine Arts Festival To Be Held Here, May 14

High school art and music departments in the county will be presenting the Floyd County Fine Arts Festival, Thursday, May 14, at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse. Art work will be on display at 6 p.m., and the concert will begin at 7 p.m. Special clinicians will be conducting the bands and choirs. Winners of the art contest will be announced at the end of the program by Master of Ceremonies, Dale McKinney, and the music queen will be crowned at the end of the program by the 1986 queen, Delilah Rice.

Selected for Cast Of Summer Music Theater

Tim Jessen, his daughter Ruth, and Dorothy Howard are the three from this county who will be among local actors joining the 1987 Jenny Wiley Summer Theater cast. In addition, Malisha Ratliff, Misty Daniels, and Martin Childers, from Pike county, Eileen Aranas and Lynette Muncy, from Martin county, Melissa Park, from Johnson county, and Amy Grigsby, Susan Grigsby, Benny Ray Bailey, Jr., and Chet Bailey, from Knott county, were chosen for the cast after recent auditions.

The Summer Music Theater's 23rd season opens with an all new Jenny Wiley Story on June 9.

Clinic Founder Honored

Eula Hall, social worker at the Mud Creek Clinic which she founded 14 years ago, added to a growing list of awards and honors Sunday, when she was inducted into the Kentucky Women's Hall of Fame in a ceremony at Central City. A certificate noting her "outstanding achievements" was presented to Mrs. Hall by the Central City B & PW club, which sponsored her.

Labor-Management Group A First For Big Sandy

By Joe Porter

"This is a milestone in this part of the state," said Gary L. Moberly. "A lot of people said it couldn't be done." Moberly's remarks followed the establishment of the Big Sandy Area Labor Management Committee.

Moberly, who is executive director of the state office of Labor Management Relations, chaired the April 28 meeting at May Lodge. During the meeting, by-laws were adopted, and the board of directors, co-chairmen, and vice co-chairmen were elected.

The committee's purpose is to promote economic development in the area by supporting and encouraging labor management harmony, industrial development, education, recreation and tourism, and employment. The group will not intervene in labor management disputes, but concentrate on improving communication between labor and management through informal meetings and programs of interest.

Jim Perry, who works in the personnel department of American Standard, was elected management's co-chairman. Leo Slone, a member of the United Mine Workers and an employee with Beth-Energy, will serve as labor's co-chairman. The vice co-chairman for management is Russell Briggs, assistant administrator at Highlands Regional Medical Center; for labor, the vice co-chairman is Hubert Halbert, a member of the Oil, Chemical & Atomic Workers Local 3510, of Prestonsburg. They all have a one-year tenure.

Moberly said that now that the two groups have co-chairmen, he will step down as acting chairman and let Perry and Slone alternate chairing the monthly meetings. If a co-chairman can't make a meeting, the vice co-chairman will fill in.

Although the committee has now been set up, the office of Labor Management Relations will continue to play an advisory role. "The first year it's real important to attend the meetings, make suggestions, and act as a sounding board for the committee," Moberly said. His office will also handle the committee's mail, assist with grant applications, and serve as a voice in Frankfort for the Big Sandy Area Labor Management Committee.

Holly Leach, project administrator with the Big Sandy ADD, has served as the recording secretary for the meetings. The next meeting will be June 9 at 6 p.m. at the UMWA District headquarters, Williamson Road, Pikeville. The public is invited to attend.

A SPECIAL THANK YOU CARD

I would like to thank my mother Lonnie, Faye, Elwood, Dennis, and Gary for coming to me so quickly when Chuck got killed. Also thanks to Bulah, Jeff, Wanda, Karen, John and Linda for your continued help during, and after the funeral.

Thanks to my brother-in-law, John Dwayne Lawson for breaking the terrible news of Chuck's death to his father and mother. Thank you John for taking care of them and Charlotte during this sorrowful time.

Thank you David, Cathy, neighbors and friends for helping me so very much.

Mr. Owens and Chuck's fellow workers, thank you for standing by us too.

Thanks to Barbara Slone and others for working those long, long hard hours in the Rebecca Church kitchen serving those who helped us in our time of grief.

I would like to extend a special thanks to my brother, John Edward King and his wife Linda, for staying and helping me take care of all the legal matters afterwards.

Court Sends Custody Case Back for New Trial, Here

By Ron Marstin

Whether a three-year-old Floyd child, taken from home by district court order within months of the child's birth, will be returned to the mother or placed for adoption remained unresolved last week, when the state Supreme Court in a split decision sent the case back to Floyd Circuit Court for a new trial.

Acting on a petition filed by the state Cabinet for Human Resources (CHR), Circuit Judge Hollie Conley ruled in 1985 that the mother's parental rights should be terminated because she had "substantially neglected" her baby.

In response to an appeal filed on the mother's behalf by a legal services attorney here, the state Court of Appeals overturned the lower court decision on grounds that a social worker's case record had wrongly been used as evidence and that, in any event, the evidence of neglect was not sufficient to justify taking the child from the home.

In a decision handed down Thursday, the Supreme Court panel agreed with the Appeals Court that at least some of the case notes of Prestonsburg social worker Maria J. Bradley—who could not be present to testify personally in the circuit court trial—should not have been admitted into evidence. Contrary to the appeals court, however, the higher court held that the evidence of neglect was not insufficient to justify terminating the mother's parental rights.

In a separate, concurring opinion, one of the five Supreme Court judges recommended that, were Judge Conley to rule in the new trial that the mother's rights be terminated, Conley should spell out the facts justifying his decision. Two Supreme Court justices dissented from the majority opinion.

The possibility that a parent's rights may be violated by admitting a social worker's notes into evidence arises, the Supreme Court majority noted, from the fact that, once CHR has formed the opinion that a child should be taken from the home, the social worker's notes may be slanted by the need to justify that opinion in court.

There is no reason to doubt the veracity of factual observations contained in Bradley's 19 pages of closely-written notes, but a question remains about the objectivity of the case-worker's opinions and conclusions, the court held.

As to whether the facts of the case justified terminating the mother's rights, the Supreme Court held that "there was ample evidence that this child was suffering from malnutrition (indeed starvation) and that the mother was unwilling and incapable of providing for the child." Evidence presented by the mother's attorney, who argued that her lack of care was due mainly to the fact that she was poor, was inconclusive, the high court held.

Social workers investigating the case reported that they found the infant starving and dirty in a rundown, crowded home, which lacked running water, often had the utilities shut off, and smelled of feces.

The Supreme Court's majority opinion appeared over the names of Chief Justice Robert F. Stephens and Justices Charles M. Leibson, James B. Stephenson, and Donald C. Wintersheimer. A concurring opinion was written by Justice Joseph E. Lambert. Justices William M. Gant and Roy N. Vance dissented.

The case for the Cabinet for Human Resources was argued by Patricia J. Shipman, of the Cabinet's office of general counsel; the case for the mother by Stephen A. Sanders, of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund.

Chorus Presents Brahms Requiem

Health Festival In Return Visit

By Louise Houghton

Maybe you've been thinking of having your blood pressure checked but haven't gotten around to making a doctor's appointment yet.

Maybe you'd like to have your hearing tested to find out why you didn't hear what your spouse was saying the other day.

Maybe you've wondered about taking classes in aerobics or CPR but aren't sure what you might have to do.

All of these questions, plus many more, could be answered at the second annual area Well-Fest to be held Saturday, May 16, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Prestonsburg municipal parking lot in front of the courthouse and postoffice. More than 50 health-care agencies from throughout the Big Sandy region will be there to give free tests and demonstrations, hand out coupons for free or discounted health services, and offer advice and information about a wide variety of health concerns such as nutrition, exercise, heart disease, abortion, cancer, and AIDS.

At least one area radio station will be broadcasting live from the event, and local bands and choral groups will offer on-the-spot entertainment. There will be balloons for the kids, arts and crafts booths, and numerous prizes and gift certificates to be given away. Concession stands will be selling hot dogs, hamburgers, soda pop, ice cream, and other summertime snacks.

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann R. Latta is expected to proclaim May 16 as "Community Health Day," according to Taunya Shelton, coordinator of the event and staff member at Mountain Comprehensive Care. About 1,500 people from the Big Sandy area attended the Well-Fest last year, Shelton said, and at least that many are expected this time.

One highlight this year will be the "Caddyshack," a booth featuring the University of Kentucky Wildcat mascot as one of the governor's "Champions Against Drugs." The Prestonsburg Police Department also will join the effort against drug abuse, handing out pamphlets for parents and teenagers.

The Floyd County Library will have its bookmobile at the site, stocked with health-related materials as well as a sampling of its usual fare. The Prestonsburg Fire Department will demonstrate its new "aerial" truck with an 100-foot ladder and will distribute tips on fire prevention.

Loyalty, Betrayal Told On 'Great Performances'

"Quartermaine's Terms," based on the work by British playwright Simon Gray, premieres Monday, May 18 at 8 p.m. on KET as part of the "Great Performances" series. "Quartermaine's Terms" is a comic yet poignant drama which reveals the life of a kindhearted, absent-minded teacher who is searching for his place in society.

"Quartermaine's Terms" unfolds in the 1960s and depicts the ordinary lives of the teachers at an English school for foreigners located in Cambridge. While the characters try to sort out all their problems, John Quartermaine (portrayed by Edward Fox) remains the amiable yet incompetent teacher in their midst. Quartermaine's life is the exploration of loyalty, betrayal, and true values in contemporary society.

Distinguished British actor Sir John Gielgud, seen earlier on "Great Performances" in "Wagner" and "Brideshead Revisited," is Quartermaine's supervisor. Loomis, Eleanor Bron and Paul Jesson also star.

KSP, Education Dept. Promote Chemical-Free Graduation Parties

High school graduation is a time of celebrating achievement and looking with expectation to the future.

Unfortunately for some American teenagers, last year's graduation season brought tragedy instead of triumph. These teenagers were killed in alcohol or drug-related accidents.

Commissioner Morgan Elkins of the Kentucky State Police said 31 Kentuckians aged 16 to 19 were killed in alcohol and drug-related accidents last year.

"This represents a 17.36% increase over the number killed in 1985," he said. Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald recently released the results of a survey that confirmed that drug and alcohol use is widespread among secondary school students.

Nearly three out of four had tried alcohol and one out of three had experimented with drugs. Half of all seniors had used alcohol and one out of nine had used marijuana within the past month.

To combat this problem, the Kentucky Department of Education and the Kentucky State Police are sponsoring Project Graduation for the second year.

Project Graduation promotes chemical-free graduation parties to reduce the number of teenagers who might drink and drive at this special time in their lives. Project Graduation activities such as bowling, bands, bingo and other games help teenagers realize that they can have a good time without intoxicants.

Parents help the student planners seek support from businesses in the community, which provide door prizes and food to make the parties very special events. The program focuses on graduation, but applies to proms and other social occasions.

Project Graduation is modeled after a highly successful program that was begun by a group of students in Maine after eight students from one district were killed in alcohol-related traffic accidents during the 1979 graduation season.

After Superintendent McDonald's first Student Advisory Council indicated that drinking and driving was a major concern, the Department of Education formed the partnership program with the state police.

The first year, invitations were extended to 100 high schools, 74 of which sent representatives to a training conference in Lexington. Thirty-nine graduation parties were held last year, and this year that number has doubled.

"The enthusiasm for Project Graduation has spread like wildfire," McDonald said. "We have proven that traditional choices, such as drinking, can be replaced with appealing options."

"While our immediate goal is a safe graduation," the Superintendent said, "we believe that we can have a long term impact on changing attitudes toward drug and alcohol use."

Nancy Furnish, youth alcohol coordinator in highway safety for the Kentucky State Police, said her agency hoped that as more communities become involved in Project Graduation, they would begin to see a decrease in teenage deaths and accidents.

"Other states that have participated in this program over the past few years have seen a decline in teenage fatalities involving alcohol," Furnish said. "The Kentucky State Police hope Project Graduation becomes a tradition."

A Project Graduation planning kit with planning instructions and examples of successful events is available from the Office of Instruction, Kentucky Department of Education, Capital Plaza Tower, 18th Floor, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Dearinger-Johnson Vows Are Said in Georgetown

Mrs. Debora Dearing and Mr. David Michael Johnson exchanged wedding vows at the Penn Avenue Baptist Church in Georgetown, Ky., at 7 p.m. Friday, April 3. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Lowell Coats, pastor of the church.

Preceding the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Grace Cloch, pianist.

The bride was given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Allen Kenneth Jones.

Mrs. Barbara Dewes, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Amy Dearing, daughter of the bride, and Miss Michelle Johnson, daughter of the groom.

Mr. Joe Estep, cousin of the groom was best man, and David Michael Johnson, II, was groomsman.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Benjamin Dillon and Mrs. Patricia Dillon Jones, both of Georgetown. She attended Scott County High School and is employed in Lexington.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Betty Johnson, of Georgetown, formerly of Dwale, and the late Bill Johnson. He attended Prestonsburg High School and is employed in Lexington and is a member of the Army reserve unit in Georgetown. He is the grandson of Mrs. Sinda Johnson, of Risner, and the late Frank Johnson, and of the late Arland and Mary Page, of Dwale.

A New Generation of Leadership

"Everybody talks about Kentucky's future, but to me, it's more than words. It's the quality of our schools -- the opportunities we give our children."

"As Governor, I intend to make education a top priority. We must provide our children with an education second to none -- to prepare them for the new economy of the twenty-first century. I want Kentucky to be the state with the best schools and the best minds in the nation. Only then will we permanently overcome Kentucky's difficulties in finding jobs to keep our young at home."

Academic Team Loaded With Honors

Prestonsburg High School's Academic Team took a lion's share of trophies and honors at the Second Annual Awards Banquet of Eastern Kentucky Academic Conference on Friday, April 24, at Pikeville High School.

The team received two trophies—as conference champion and overall winner of the conference tournament held earlier in the season. The conference championship trophy is a "traveling" trophy, won by Pikeville last year. It will be retained permanently by any team which wins the championship three years in a row.

Prestonsburg's coach Nell Lawson was voted coach of the year in three categories: overall, quick recall, and science. English teacher John Patton received a distinguished service award for moderating quick recall matches throughout the season.

Senior Chris Croot received a $1,000 EKAC scholarship, one of three awarded by the three Pikeville banks. Nine additional scholarships were awarded by Morehead State University and Pikeville College.

The team as a whole won first-place trophies in math, science, and quick recall; second place in social studies. The following individual members won trophies for outstanding achievements: Tony Skeans, Chris Croot, and Dusty Weathers, in math; Scott Wells and Mike Parker in social studies; Mike Rosenberg, David Spiggle, and Chris Croot in science; and Scott Wells in quick recall.

Fourteen high schools, including two in this county, make up the conference. They are: Prestonsburg, Allen Central, Mullins, Belfry, Paintsville, Dorton, Phelps, Feds Creek, Pikeville, Johnson Central, Johns Creek, Sheldon Clark, Maggoffin County, and Virgie.

Pre-Measurement Use Recommended by SCS

"Farmers who use pre-measurement service before planting their spring crops will be guaranteed that their field sizes are accurate for the 1987 program year," said Ruby Akers, chairperson of the Floyd County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Pre-measuring is recommended because it assures farmers that they are in compliance with acreage reduction requirements, and eliminates worry over the loss of farm program benefits, she said.

ASCS offers pre-measurement at cost. The service includes measuring, referencing and marking out fields with stakes before planting. Farmers are required to plant within the stakes that are placed when the land is pre-measured.

Pre-measuring is also important because it helps producers plan the amount of land to devote to acreage conservation reserve and planted acreages of program crops. Acreage conservation reserve (ACR) is cropland removed from production and put into conserving uses under the 1987 acreage reduction and land diversion programs.

To be eligible for price support loans, deficiency payments and other 1987 farm program benefits, all program participants must report their planted crops, ACR and other acreage. The ASCS official said pre-measurement helps assure accurate reporting.

Farmers may request this service at their county ASCS office.

ACCOUNTABILITY AND THE TRUTH

For the past 24 years my opponent has been entrusted with public funds, and some of these have been reported as missing. Specifically $21,915 found in 1983 to be missing from funds of the Circuit Clerk's office have yet to be accounted for. Nobody—not the Clerk or anyone else—can give an answer as to what happened to these funds. However, one thing is apparent—the Clerk was not on top of the situation as he should have been. CAN FLOYD COUNTY AFFORD ANOTHER SIX YEARS OF THIS?? I say NO. My opponent must admit the truth about his record in office. It is obvious from the above that his performance has been less than praiseworthy. Too, he must stop trying to shift the burden of blame to others and face the fact that the Clerk's office is his responsibility and HIS ALONE—the buck stops with him. He is accountable to YOU, the PUBLIC. Frankly, our present Clerk has shaken considerably the confidence the public has accorded him in the past. Now we must look to the future. A vote for DAVID HEREFORD is a vote for HONESTY, INTEGRITY and SERVICE to you, the citizens of Floyd County. Give me one chance to prove to you what I can do for the office...YOU WON'T BE SORRY YOU DID.

Noted Surgeon To Speak At Pike Commencement

Dr. Harold C. Urschel, Jr., noted cardio-thoracic surgeon from Dallas, will be the Pikeville College commencement speaker at exercises May 2 at 2 p.m. in Faith Chapel of the Record Memorial Building. Urschel is the son of Loma Powell Struck, who was Page Hall dormitory director at the college from 1969-1972. Mrs. Struck will accompany her son on his visit to Pikeville College.

Urschel first became acquainted with Pikeville College through his mother and step-father. Raymond "Dutch" Struck joined the staff at Pikeville College in 1969 as a professor of physical education, at the invitation of President Thomas Johns. Johns had played college football under Struck. With "Dutch" was his wife Loma Powell Urschel Struck. She became the much beloved director of the men's dormitory, Page Hall, until 1972. According to a source close to the Struck's, "She was like a second mother to those boys."

During the Struck's tenure at Pikeville College, Urschel made several trips to the eastern Kentucky campus to visit the Struck's. In effect, the college became a sort of summer home to the young surgeon.

Urschel put himself through Princeton University (graduated cum laude) and Harvard's Medical School. "I think you value education more if you have had to work for it. I know I did," says Urschel. He did his internship and residency at Massachusetts General. Urschel taught at Harvard Medical School and the University of Texas; most recently as a professor of thoracic and cardiovascular surgery at the Southwestern Medical School. He has held professorships at thirteen medical schools, clinics, and hospitals.

Dr. Urschel has consistently held important positions within his field, even being named one of the 50 outstanding heart specialists in the world in 1976. In the last three years he has served as a member of the Board of Governors of the American College of Surgeons, the Advisory Council for Cardiothoracic Surgery of the Cardiovascular Surgery Committee of the American College of Cardiology (chairman), and the Audit and Pension Profit Committee of the board of directors for Electronic Data Systems. He has been a member of the Society for Medical Consultants to the Armed Forces, and has served on the editorial boards of three publications.

Urschel is a senior attending physician at Baylor University Medical Center and Parkland Memorial Hospital; and is a senior consultant for the Children's Medical Center. He is also an attending physician at the Presbyterian and Methodist Hospitals of Dallas, and a visiting teaching staff member of the St. Paul Hospital.

His professional memberships include the American Surgical Association, American College of Surgeons, American Association for Thoracic Surgery, and the International Cardiovascular Society. He has authored more than 200 published articles and books.

"After meeting with Bill Owens and talking again about Pikeville College," commented Urschel, "I feel honored to be speaking at graduation. Getting an education is tough, especially in that part of the country; and I admire the students for their commitment."

The Pikeville College commencement exercises are open to the community.

The first magazines were probably catalogs that reviewed books on sale, appearing during the 1600s in France and then in other countries.

ACHS Hosts Math Day '87

The third annual Allen Central Math Challenge was hosted by the math club, April 18, with four schools participating. The written assessment competition was won by Wayland Elementary with Garrett placing second. The oral quick-recall competition was won by Garrett with Martin placing second.

Garrett team members, coached by Stanton Watson, are Robby Sexton, Tonya Shepherd, Heather Watson, April Reed, Stephanie Shepherd and Diane Martin.

Martin team members, coached by Vivian Tackett, are Jane Gray, Maria Crum, Beth Horn, Steve Robinson, Miki Gayheart, Melanie Stokely, Marty McKinney, Reva Hale, Mark Saylor, Joanne Adkins, Anna Crum, Jamie Shepherd, and Chris Lafferty.

Maytown members accompanied by Forest Hughes, are Millie Gibson, Teresa Martin, Patty Baldrige, Claude Webb, Evelyn Howard and Missy Goble.

The Wayland team members, coached by Ronnie Patton, are Rhonda Ratliff, Nikki Ratliff, James Ratliff, Jeff Aldrich, Philip Ritchie, Chuck Clark.

The students were involved in a statistical game room and computer demonstration. Refreshments were provided by members of the math club.

The math club is sponsored by Joyce Watson and Charlotte Moore. Libby Gibson is president; Steve Hughes, vice-president, and Melinda Martin, secretary.

Adventure Portrays Boy's Determination

Adventure, an unexpected friendship and the determination of a young boy are depicted with spirit and humor when "Wonderworks" presents "Colour in the Creek," beginning Saturday, May 23 at 8 p.m. on KET. The story concludes Saturday, May 30 at 8 p.m. on KET.

The first part of "Colour in the Creek" will repeat Sunday, May 24 at 11 a.m. The conclusion will repeat Sunday, May 31 at 11 a.m.

In Australia in 1931, the Depression results in 12-year-old Alec Fletcher (Ken Talbot) and his family falling into hard times, seeking work in the country and the outback. Then Alec's father (Dennis Miller) hears news of gold discoveries and sets up a claim in a small settlement.

Though he dreams of being a pilot, Alec has some fun with the new adventure, helping in the mine and getting into scrapes with the children of other miners.

Alec learns to take mining more seriously, however, when his father is badly injured in a mine-shaft accident and the family is threatened with the loss of their claim. In desperation, Alec decides to work the claim himself, with help from his old enemy, Robbie. As the neighboring miners look on in admiration, Alec finds his adventure holds unexpected rewards.

Two Are Awarded ALC Scholarships

Bill Melton, director of admissions at Alice Lloyd College, has announced the recent recipients of ALC's most prestigious scholarship. Carmen Willis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Willis, of Wayland and Paul Prater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Prater, of Prestonsburg, have accepted Memorial Scholarships for the 1987-88 school year as an incoming freshmen.

The Memorial Scholarship guarantees the student will have no out-of-pocket expenses for room, board, or tuition at Alice Lloyd College for the academic year. The scholarship is the equivalent of a $7858 yearly grant. It is renewable each year the student is at Alice Lloyd College and as long as the student maintains a "B" or better average while completing a minimum of 15 hours each semester.

FINANCIAL PLANNING

TAXES—YOU'RE NOT FINISHED YET

Now that April 15th is past, you may be eager to forget about taxes for awhile. However, you're not finished until you've taken care of these tax requirements for 1987.

- *Get Social Security numbers for all dependent children five years or older. They will be required for your 1987 tax return. Ask for Form SSA-5 at your local Social Security office.
- *File a new W-4 or W-4A with your employer, preferably by June 1 to avoid penalties if your taxes end up being underwithheld.
- *If you make estimated tax payments, be sure you are avoiding penalties by paying in at least 90% of your actual 1987 tax liability or 100% of your 1986 liability.
- *Monitor the investment income of your children under the age of 14. If any of them has more than $1,000 of unearned (investment) income in 1987, it will be taxed to them at your highest tax rate.
- *Consider paying off consumer loans and credit card debt as soon as possible. You'll get a deduction for only 65% of the interest you pay on this debt in 1987.
- *Keep track of your tax-exempt interest income this year. You'll have to list it on your 1987 return.
- *Meet the active participation requirements on real estate investments if you can so you don't lose any loss deductions (up to $25,000) against active income (if you otherwise qualify).
- *If your business operates on a fiscal year, check with your accountant to see whether the new law requires that you shift to a calendar year.
- *If your business is a regular C corporation, analyze the benefits of electing S corporation status.

Have a midyear tax planning session with your accountant. 1987 is a transition year under the new tax law; planning is a must to keep taxes to a minimum.

New Director Named For Unemployment Insurance

A 12-year veteran of Kentucky's unemployment compensation program has been selected to head that unit within the Department for Employment Services, Commissioner James Daniels announced last week.

Ron Holland, 41, of Monterey in Owen county, is the new director of the department's Division of Unemployment Insurance. The division is responsible for collecting unemployment insurance taxes from employers, processing UI claims and paying benefits, resolving disputed claims and investigating suspected cases of fraud.

A native of California, Holland began working for the division in 1977 as an administrative hearing officer. He earned a bachelor's degree from the State University of New York in 1967.

"Ron's background as assistant UI director for five years and two years as legislative liaison for Employment Services gives him the knowledge and expertise needed to lead this division," Daniels said.

Holland also worked closely with business and labor leaders on the legislative overhaul of the state's UI program during the 1982, 1984 and 1986 sessions of the Kentucky General Assembly.

Forestry Camp Is Challenging, Fun

Each year the Kentucky Forestry Council sponsors a summer camp at the J.M. Feltner 4-H Camp near London, Kentucky. This camp for students will be held July 20-24. Plans are for accepting two qualified applicants from each county. All students must have completed their freshman year in high school and must be entering their sophomore, junior, or senior year in the fall of 1987. This year scholarships are available through the Floyd County Conservation District.

There are five major areas taught at the camp: silviculture and forest ecology; forest management; forest measurement; wood utilization; and tree identification. In addition, there are programs in prevention, detection and control of fire, wildfire, fish management and forest recreation. Classes are held outdoors at various locations. Students should plan to wear sturdy shoes or boots and suitable clothes for walking in the forest. Examinations will be given in the major program areas and the top students will be awarded prizes. All participants completing the course will receive a certificate. While the Kentucky Forestry Camp is primarily an academic camp, there is plenty of recreation time available daily. The camp has facilities for swimming, canoeing, fishing, volleyball, basketball, baseball and other activities. Call the local Conservation District at 886-3128 for an application and more information.

It has been a privilege for me to have served the people of Floyd County, both as County Attorney and Commonwealth Attorney. My family has always given me support in my efforts. It gives me great pleasure to introduce them to you. They are Amy, Robyn, Alison, and my wife, Rita Goble Allen.

Plant Using Clean Coal Technology Scheduled for June 1988 Operation

An electricity-generating plant near Paducah using a new technology that burns coal cleanly should be able to begin operating in June of 1988, the group in charge of the project agreed this week.

"We're on target for demonstrating to America that we will soon be able to use this technology for the commercial generation of electricity," Evans said of the construction schedule for the 160-megawatt plant at Shawnee near Paducah. "Once this plant begins operating, it will be clear that technologies such as atmospheric fluidized bed combustion are far better economic and environmental investments than current technologies."

Evans said the steering committee that oversees the project met jointly with its senior management group at the Energy Cabinet in Lexington on April 28. In addition to agreeing on a June 1988 start-up date, the group learned that the plant is expected to be built without any cost overruns.

The $220 million project is a cooperative venture among the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Electric Power Research Institute, the Commonwealth of Kentucky and a number of coal companies, electricity utilities and railroads—all of which are represented on the steering committee.

Gov. Martha Layne Collins said, "Progress on the Shawnee Plant is important to everyone in the coal industry and to everyone concerned about cleaning up America's air and avoiding the higher electric bills that would result from acid rain legislation. I'm pleased that the commonwealth of Kentucky is a partner in the project, and I'm especially pleased that Kentucky coal will be demonstrated in the plant once it begins operating."

Steve Dixon, project manager for the Energy Cabinet, said two significant construction milestones have been reached recently: On March 15, the plant's control building was completed, and on April 1 the last of more than 6,400 tons of structural steel was put in place for the boiler building.

"Reaching these milestones on schedule was an impressive achievement and what made it even more impressive was the outstanding safety record maintained during the process," Dixon said. Some 400 workers are employed in building the plant, he said, and the incidence of accidents requiring first aid has been one-fifth the national average.

Atmospheric fluidized bed combustion is a technology that removes pollutants while the coal is being burned rather than afterwards as is the case with current scrubbing technologies. Moreover, the new process produces a dry residue that research shows can be useful in many applications, including as a soil conditioner and as a concrete. Scrubbers, on the other hand, produce a sludge that is difficult to handle and costly to dispose of.

A 20-megawatt fluidized bed unit has been operating at Shawnee since 1982. In addition, the Kentucky Energy Cabinet operates a pilot unit at its laboratory in Lexington. Evans said laboratory personnel also assist with any engineering problems that arise at the 20-megawatt Shawnee plant as various boiler designs and materials are tested.

Health and Fitness Task Force Created

Improving the health and fitness of Kentucky's children will be one focus of attention for a newly created task force announced April 29 in Louisville by Gov. Martha Layne Collins.

"People of all ages, except children, are exercising and watching their health," said Collins. "However, our young people are now developing lifestyle habits which could pose serious health risks later in life. It is time to reverse that trend."

The Governor's Task Force on Health and Fitness will be a source of information about health and fitness and will promote physical activity with a special focus on children.

Collins said the group will work to enhance health and fitness programs in public schools and will improve the physical education and health curriculums in school by emphasizing the importance of keeping fit.

Experts in the fields of medicine, nutrition, nursing and aging will make up the membership of the task force which will be chaired by Susan Johns of the Kentucky Department of Education. Other members will include representatives of the Governor's Office, the Cabinet for Human Resources and the Bluegrass State Games.

The task force will also review ways that Kentuckians of all ages can improve their health. Collins said the task force will help to coordinate current state programs with the private sector to develop community programs that will promote health and fitness in every part of the commonwealth.

In 1869, the first national black labor organization was formed, the Colored National Labor Union, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Prepare your child for KINDERGARTEN

State law requires that children must attend Kindergarten before entering 1st grade.

Children 5 years old before October 1, 1987 are eligible for Kindergarten. Screening for Kindergarten readiness will be held on Closing Day at your school.

Parents are to pick up packets containing entrance requirements at this time.

See your Principal for Closing Date and designated area.

Patton Proposes Jobs for Floyd County

We need to keep our people at home, and it is jobs -- good jobs -- that will allow them to stay here in Floyd County. The Patton plan will bring jobs to the people, not take the people away from the county in search of jobs.

Patton's first priority is to keep the jobs we now have and help our existing small businesses grow. But we can make even more progress by creating new jobs in manufacturing.

Patton is county judge/executive in a rural area with high unemployment like Floyd County. He understands the difficulty in getting manufacturing plants to locate here. He knows we will need help in getting our fair share of jobs.

Under the Patton plan, companies will be encouraged to locate in Floyd County by giving them a reason to come here. Patton has proposed that companies be offered a building rent free for up to five years -- financed from the income taxes paid by the company and it's employees and not your tax dollars.

Paul Patton is well qualified to make his plan successful. As an engineer, Paul Patton knows how a manufacturing facility operates. He is a businessman, and understands what a business must have to grow and create jobs for our people. He is a local elected official and knows what government can and cannot do.

Paul Patton has the background and knowledge to make it happen, right here in Floyd County!

Job Program Aims At Older Workers

The Kentucky Literacy Commission will receive $180,000 under the Job Training and Partnership Act to carry out a new program for persons age 55 and older who want to enter or re-enter the job market.

The Literacy Commission, in conjunction with local cooperating agencies, will develop Older Worker Readiness Centers at three sites in Kentucky, according to Jane Beshear, chairperson of the commission.

Beshear said the centers will provide a combination of literacy training and job search skills and one-on-one support to help prepare the older person seeking a job.

The Division for Employment Insurance in the Cabinet for Human Resources reports that the number of persons over the age of 55 who are registering for work is increasing. However, a smaller percentage of these potential workers actually obtain employment.

"We know from experience that it is often the older individual who was not able to take advantage of educational opportunities earlier, or whose first jobs did not require a lot of education, that is being shut out of the workplace," Beshear said.

Beshear added that she feels the program also will demonstrate the value older workers have in the workplace and that barriers to jobs will be easier to overcome as a result of the program.

"We are very excited about this project and through it hope to develop a model to be utilized at other locations in the state," Beshear said.

One site, at Northern Kentucky University, has already been confirmed. Tentative arrangements have been made for the other two sites to be located at Somerset and Elizabethtown Community Colleges.

The centers are scheduled to begin operation this summer.

D.A.R. HOLDS NAT'L MEET, CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

The annual meeting of the National Society, Daughters of American Revolution, known as the Continental Congress, convened in Washington, D.C., April 20-24, with registrations beginning April 18.

A memorial for all departed daughters, and the placement of a memorial wreath, in tribute to the founders of the Society, followed the memorial service, Sunday, April 19. A reception was held in the D.A.R.'s museum at the invitation of Mrs. Raymon F. Fleck, president general and Mrs. Joseph W. Towle, curator general, for the opening of the exhibition, entitled, "In the Style of the Signers: The Decorative Arts of Philadelphia." This special exhibition to celebrate the bicentennial of the signing of the United States Constitution, has been open since March 23, and will run through July 5, 1987.

Sunday night was celebrated with a "We the People" music extravaganza in Constitution Hall, featuring the Colonial Color Guard, of Virginia, sounds of the Revolutionary War and Scottish Melodies. Many old favorites were performed by the United States Army Band.

All daughters were invited to tour the White House, Monday, April 20, with the only identification needed being their D.A.R. ribbons or insignia pins.

With a tap of the gavel, the 96th Continental Congress was called to order by the President General, Tuesday, April 21.

The message was read from President Reagan, and greetings were conveyed from the mayor of the District of Columbia. Keynote speaker was the Honorable Elizabeth Hanford Dole, U.S. Secretary of Transportation.

On the evening, of April 22, Mrs. Phyllis Schlafly, chairman of national defense, introduced the guest speaker, Howard T. Markey, Chief Judge, U.S. Supreme Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, who spoke on "The Constitution—Key to Economic Freedom."

Following the keynote address, Mrs. Schlafly presented "The Remarkable Results of Economic Opportunity," a multi-media production which she narrated.

A recommendation from the Board of Management was the establishment of an NSDAR Long-Range Planning Commission to be comprised of nine members, who serve on a rotating basis.

Another speaker was Mrs. David (Julie Nixon) Eisenhower, currently living in Berwyn, Pennsylvania.

Representing John Graham Chapter, as its chapter registrar and the State Society as organizing secretary, was Mrs. James B. Goble.

ASHLAND CHAPTER, S.A.R., MEETS

The Ashland Chapter, Kentucky Society, Sons of the American Revolution, held a luncheon meeting at the Bellefonte Country Club in Ashland, Friday, April 24. James B. Goble, Prestonsburg, chapter president, welcomed guests, members and their wives.

Also attending were Jacob and Bertha Savage, of Wurtland; Bradis and Sally Goble, of Prestonsburg; Clay Russell, chapter secretary, and wife, Georgia Ann, of Ashland. Guests attending were French Harmon and his brother, Clyde Harmon, of Ashland and Catlettsburg.

The Kentucky Society was founded April 30, 1889, and the Ashland Chapter was formed June 17, 1950.

Membership is based on authenticated descendancy from a person active in the American Revolution.

The next regular meeting of Ashland Chapter, SAR, will be held Saturday, September 12, at May Lodge, in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the Constitution of the United States.

For information regarding membership in the Sons of the American Revolution, call 874-2325.

ABBOTT HOMEMAKERS TO MEET MAY 12

Mrs. Sharon Sparr, president of the Abbott Homemakers' Club reminds members and persons who may be interested in becoming members of the meeting to be held at the church annex there, Tuesday evening, May 12, at 7 o'clock, and she urges them to attend.

ATTEND ALC LUNCHEON

Members of the Floyd County Alumni Association of Alice Lloyd College were special guests, Saturday, of Dr. Jerry C. Davis, college president, at a luncheon honoring Dr. June Buchanan, president of Caney Creek Community Center, and Founder of the June Buchanan School, on her 100th birthday, and Dr. Palmer L. Hall, an outstanding alumnus, formerly of Floyd county, presently of Morehead.

President Davis expressed his regrets and those of "Miss" June's, that, due to a fall earlier in the day, she was unable to attend. Dr. Hall, who has been ill, was represented by relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Hall, Mrs. Alta Leslie, and Mrs. Sylvia Newman.

Giving the invocation was Chester Patton, and bringing the welcome address was Mrs. Eva Hale, president of the F.C.-A.L.C. Alumni Association.

Ernest Hayes, chairman of the nominating committee, asked that officers for 1986-87 be re-elected for the ensuing year. These officers were accepted by acclamation: President, Mrs. Eva Allen Hale; First Vice President, Mrs. Clara Hicks Johnson; Second Vice President, Delmas Saunders; Secretary-Publicity chairman, Mrs. Docia Baldrige Woods, and Treasurer, Arthur W. Haywood.

Attending other than these officers, were Dr. Jerry C. Davis, Wallace Campbell, Billy C. Melton, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Hall, Mrs. Alta Leslie, Harmison Hale, Mrs. Arthur W. Haywood, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Patton, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Laven, Mr. and Mrs. Don Fraley, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lowe, Misses Ruby Akers and Ashley Wills, Mesdames Florence C. Ison, Bessie R. Conley, June Stephens, Mildred H. Whitaker, Anna Sue Stumbo, Brenda Wills, Norma S. Stepp, Opal S. May, Sylvia Hall Newman, Alice O. Martin, and Mr. Earnest Hayes.

The 1988 dinner meeting of the Floyd County Alumni of Alice Lloyd College is scheduled for May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

EASTERN STAR MEETS

Adah Chapter, No. 24, Order of the Eastern Star, held its regular meeting at the Masonic Lodge Hall, Monday evening, April 27, with Mrs. Jewell Bays, worthy matron, presiding. The minutes and communications were read by the secretary, Mrs. Patsy Evans. Plans were made for the initiation to take place on May 11, at 8 p.m. All members are urged to attend and to bring their favorite snack food. The plans for inspection were continued.

At the close of the meeting, a memorial service was held for Mrs. Alta Malone. Present were Mesdames Jewell Bays, Janie Hicks, Lorena Wallen, Belle Conn, Rebecca Rasnick, Roberta Sloan, Patsy Evans, Lillia Mae Price, Sue Wells, Hollie Blanton, Emma Horn, Mollie Hyden, and Paulena Owens.

REPRESENT ADAAH CHAPTER

Census Bureau To Collect Employment Data Here

The Census Bureau will collect current employment and unemployment data for this area the week of May 18-23, according to William Hill, director of the bureau's Charlotte regional office.

The local data will contribute to May's national labor force picture to be released June 5 by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). The March data, the most current, showed a national civilian unemployment rate of 6.6 percent. This means that 7.9 million workers out of a labor force of 111.4 million did not have jobs.

The Census Bureau's monthly Current Population Survey includes a national sample of some 58,000 households and is sponsored by BLS primarily to gather labor force data.

Information supplied by individuals is kept confidential by law. Only statistical totals are published.

"Jewel" Sparkles Again On Masterpiece Theatre

The jewel sparkles again when the Emmy Award-winning "Masterpiece Theatre" presentation, "The Jewel in the Crown," returns to KET. Featuring an all-star cast and shot on location in India, the mini-series weaves the story of the end of an empire and the birth of a nation when it airs beginning Sunday, May 24 at 10 p.m.

"Masterpiece Theatre" repeats Fridays at 8 p.m. on KET.

"The Jewel in the Crown" is the television adaptation of Paul Scott's sweeping "The Raj Quartet," a four-novel epic about the rape of a girl and the rape of a country.

A huge cast of English and Indian stars including Dame Peggy Ashcroft, Tim Pigott-Smith, Judy Parfitt, Susan Woodriddle, Art Malik and Geraldine James are involved in the series.

Filed extensively in India, the 15-hour "The Jewel in the Crown"—the first episode is two hours, the others an hour, and the title is taken from the first novel in Scott's epic—begins in February, 1942. India is in turmoil, with the Japanese poised to invade and Gandhi gathering his followers in a bid to end British rule. It ends in August, 1947. During those five years, as one critic wrote, "the depths of passion are plumbed, the terrible secrets of apparently upright men are revealed...it all makes for heady stuff."

Susan Woodriddle plays Daphne Manners, a shy English girl whose alleged rape by a handsome young Indian sends Capt. Ronald Merrick (Pigott-Smith), a sadistic British police superintendent, on an obsessive hunt for Hari Kumar (Malik), an Indian educated at a posh British private school and hated by middle-class Merrick for his superior background.

National Judo Award Goes To MSU Employee

A Morehead State University administrator has become the first Kentuckian to receive the Henry Stone Award from United States Judo, Inc., the national governing body for judo.

Bill Rosenberg, director of communication services, was honored by the USJI for his outstanding contributions to the sport of judo through efficient program administration at the opening ceremonies of the 1987 National Judo Championships last month in Pittsburgh.

As the nation's governing body for judo, USJI also is officially recognized by the U.S. Olympic Committee to develop programs and activities in the sport for the Olympics.

Rosenberg's love affair with judo began in the early 1960's when he saw a sign advertising classes in the sport at his hometown YMCA. He tried it and liked it. Later, when he entered the Air Force, he discovered judo was a part of his training as a military policeman. It's been an integral part of his life ever since.

Leaving the service in 1966, the Chester, Pa., native earned his bachelor's and master's degrees from MSU and established the campus Judo Club while an undergraduate. Today he still serves as the group's faculty adviser.

In 1984, Rosenberg was one of 10 individuals selected nationwide to serve on the judo technical staff for the Olympic Games in Los Angeles.

Now considered an Olympic sport, judo had its beginnings in the martial art of jujitsu, according to Rosenberg. "The sport involves throws and holds rather than the kicks and strikes found in the various forms of karate," he explained. "It's closer in form to collegiate wrestling."

Rosenberg has managed U.S. judo teams for the Canada Cup, the Dutch Open, the West German Open and the Pre-Olympic Tour in 1984. He also managed the country's teams for the Pacific Rim and Pre-World Training Tour in 1985, the Moscow Women's International Invitational in 1986 and the 1986 Jigoro Kano Cup.

Head scorer for both the Olympic Festival and National Junior Olympic Championships in 1986, Rosenberg also was manager for the U.S. Olympic Festival in 1983 and 1985.

The job of a manager is to make certain the athletes are there and prepared to meet the competitors' schedule in the host nation, according to Rosenberg. "The manager arranges for transportation, housing, feeding and uniforms as well as making sure everyone has the necessary equipment," he explained.

The Henry Stone Award isn't the first time Rosenberg has garnered a first for the state with his judo activities. In 1982 he became Kentucky's first certified national judo referee.

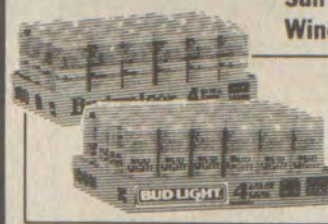

Rosenberg and his wife, the former Alice Clark of Wheelwright, are the parents of a son, William T., Jr.

The most popular form of the card game bridge was thought up by the yachtsman and railroad financier Harold Stirling Vanderbilt on a cruise (probably on the bridge) from Los Angeles to Havana in the mid-1920's.

MSU Alumni Director Returns To Teaching

After 15 years as director of alumni relations at Morehead State University, Don B. Young is leaving the post to return to the classroom. Young has resigned, effective June 30, to rejoin MSU's faculty as an assistant professor of art, according to a joint announcement by MSU President A.D. Albright and Alumni Association President William L. (Bill) Phelps of Versailles.

"Leaving a job you really enjoy is never easy and I know I will miss alumni work," Young said, "but the University and the Alumni Association are going strong and the timing is right for new staff leadership in the alumni office. I will continue to serve the University's alumni, whenever appropriate, as a volunteer."

Albright and Phelps said that a new director of alumni relations would be appointed as soon as possible and that Keith Kappes, MSU's director of university relations, would serve as acting director during the interim. Kappes, a member of Albright's staff, supervises the alumni, development and public information offices.

Phelps announced that Young's service to the Alumni Association would be perpetually recognized through the annual presentation of the "Don B. Young Award for Alumni Service" to the alumni volunteer of the year.

"Don Young has served the University and his fellow alumni with dignity and dedication for the past 15 years and we are deeply indebted to him," Phelps said. "We hope that the naming of this award will reflect the respect and admiration that he has earned during this period."

United Way to Meet Here, Plan Growth

The United Way of Eastern Kentucky was formed in 1986 and held its first campaign last Fall. The board of directors extends thanks to the following contributors: United Way of America, Kroger employees from Paintsville and Pikeville, United Parcel Service employees of Pikeville and Prestonsburg, Lowe's, Foothills Rural Telephone, Martin County Coal Company, Raymond Bradbury, Mary Anderson, Howard Osborne and an anonymous donor.

The next meeting of the group will be held at the Municipal Building in Prestonsburg on May 18 at 6 p.m. Anyone interested in helping UWEK to grow is invited. An election will be held for new officers. Serving on the board of directors from Floyd county are Paul P. Burchett, Chairman; James O. Vanhoose, treasurer; and Pat Phillips

Application Deadline Set For Al Smith Fellowships

The Kentucky Arts Council, a division of the Kentucky Department of the Arts, has announced the deadline for the 1987 Al Smith Fellowship Program for Kentucky artists. All applications must be postmarked by July 1, 1987.

Up to ten $5,000 fellowships will be awarded to visual, craft, film and video artists and artists in new genres. This is the fifth year for the individual fellowship program, and in 1988 writers, composers and choreographers will be eligible to apply.

The purpose of this fellowship program is to encourage and support the professional development of Kentucky artists, according to Arts Council Director Roger Paige. Final selections will be announced by the board of the Kentucky Arts Council in late September, 1987, following a review by a panel of out-of-state professionals in each field. For further information or application forms, contact the Kentucky Arts Council, Berry Hill Mansion, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, phone (502) 564-3757.

TO INSTALL OFFICERS
Members of the GFWC/KFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club will hold their annual covered-dish installation dinner at the First United Methodist Church, here, tomorrow evening (Thursday) at 6 p.m. Miss Ruby Akers, of Drift, former Governor of the Seventh District, will be the installing officer.

EKU Commencement Is This Saturday

Donald R. Dizney, of Orlando, Fla., chairman of the board of United Medical Corporation, Orlando, will be the featured speaker Saturday, May 9, during Eastern Kentucky University's 80th spring commencement exercises.

EKU is expected to confer about 1,222 degrees during the ceremony at Hanger Field, including 147 associate, 1,000 bachelor's, and 75 master's degrees. Many of EKU's 733 December graduates also are expected to participate in the afternoon program.

Dizney, who attended EKU in 1962-63, serves as a member of the ECU Foundation Board of Directors. The Lynch, Ky., native established in 1986 the Mamie Dizney Memorial Endowed Scholarship Fund at Eastern to assist outstanding students from eastern Kentucky who study in the allied health and nursing professions.

In addition to his responsibilities at United Medical Corporation, which owns and operates a chain of acute care and psychiatric hospitals throughout the United States and Puerto Rico, Dizney also serves as managing general partner of the Orlando Renegades of the United States Football League. He is a member of the board of directors of the Loch Haven Art Center, University of Central Florida Foundation, Florida Citrus Bowl, Florida Horse, Inc., and Orlando Chamber of Commerce.

He will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree from EKU during the commencement program.

Angela Renee Ousley, nine-year-old daughter of Debbie and Johnny Ousley, of Prestonsburg, was crowned "Miss Spring Magic," April 26, at the National Guard Armory at Hazard. In the 8-10 category, she placed first in beauty, sportswear, most beautiful, prettiest eyes, churchwear, best model and was crowned "Miss Photogenic" and "High Point Queen." She would like to thank her sponsors, East Ky. Explosives, Napa, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Hicks, Prestonsburg IGA, Prices Piggly Wiggly and Lloyd's Hardware. She is a third grade student at Clark Elementary and is the granddaughter of the late Phenious and Naoma Stephens VanHorn, of Lancer, and the late Sarah and Clyde Ousley, of Spurlock.

New Country Named Transylvania

First State Treasurer John Logan, after his appointment in 1792 by new Governor Isaac Shelby, was for all intents and purposes deputy governor under his good friend Shelby. Logan drafted rules by which local government was to be monitored, drafted Senate rules, insisted on chaplains opening Senate proceedings with prayer and created the office of, and set salaries for, justices of the peace, sheriffs, auditors, surveyors and tobacco inspectors. Logan summoned all papers from Virginia that pertained to Kentucky and commenced to divide the state into county districts for militia quotas. He also called for legislation adopting a state seal and annual elections. He further summoned from county sheriffs all taxes therefore collected under Virginia law.

Until 1802, when a crude form of banking became a reality, he guided a rough monetary system which ingenious pioneers had invented to meet their needs. One unit of exchange was the Spanish dollar or "pieces of eight." The coin, unfortunately, when "doctored" slightly by a good blacksmith, became a "piece of tin."

Another of Logan's duties was to see to the funding of new counties, which were being added at a rapid rate. Thirteen were added in 1798, the latter seven we discuss this week.

Cumberland county was formed from Green county and was named for the Cumberland River, which in turn was named after the Cumberland range of mountains, which were named by Dr. Thomas Walker.

Gallatin was the 33rd county and it was taken from portions of Franklin and Shelby. It was named for Albert Gallatin, a Pennsylvanian who was Secretary of the Treasury under President Jefferson. He served as Ambassador to France and Minister to England. Gallatin was also an authority on North American Indians.

Muhlenberg county was named for Revolutionary War General Peter Muhlenberg and was formed from Logan and Christian counties. Muhlenberg, as a young pastor of a Lutheran church in Pennsylvania, was asked to recruit a regiment for the Revolutionary War. He did this from his pulpit, preached his farewell sermon with sword and military hat, and led his "German" regiment through many encounters. He was promoted to brigadier general and like John Logan, was many years treasurer of that state. He later served three terms in Congress. Ohio county was formed out of Hardin and was named after the river that then formed its northern boundary.

Jessamine county was formed from Fayette and was named for Jessamine Creek which, in turn, was named for Jessamine Douglass whose father settled at the head of the creek. She was sitting on a rock in the creek, unmindful of any danger, when an Indian's tomahawk crushed her skull, killing her instantly.

Barren county was taken from Warren and Green and derived its name from the barren or prairie type land which typified this area.

Henderson received its name from Colonel Richard Henderson, who purchased a large part of the state from the Cherokee Indians. Henderson county was formed from Christian county. Henderson, a self-taught attorney and later judge, formed a company and at the Treaty of Watoga, purchased all lands from the Cumberland River north to the Ohio and west to the Kentucky. In 1775 he was President of this "new country, Transylvania," with its seat at Boonesborough. This purchase was later annulled by act of the Virginia Legislature.

Musseling Boom Brings Stricter Regulations

A dramatic increase in mussel harvesting in Kentucky waters has made necessary a new regulation to help protect this resource.

The revised regulation, which became effective March 17, increases the size limit of shells which may be harvested and differentiates among species of mussels. Previously, shells could be harvested if they were 2-1/2 inches long, measured at their greatest length or width. Under the new regulation, certain shells must be larger than what had been required in the past when measured at their smallest length or width.

The regulation now states that for washboard mussels to be harvested, they must not pass through a circular ring of 3-3/4 inches in diameter. This means that the smallest diameter from any point across to another point must be greater than 3-3/4 inches before washboard shells can be kept.

Likewise, three-ridge mussels that are harvested must not be able to pass through a ring having a diameter of 2-3/4 inches. All other species of mussels, except Asiatic clam, must not be able to pass through a ring with a diameter of 2-1/2 inches. Asiatic clams may be harvested at any size.

Musseling hours are from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., except at Kentucky and Barkley lakes, where musseling hours are from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. This exception was included to allow commercial fishermen who use trotlines in these lakes to remove their lines from the water before musselers begin dragging brails along the lake bottom to harvest mussels.

Musseling has also been prohibited in all embayments on Kentucky and Barkley lakes so that fish habitat will not be damaged by brailing operations. The exceptions for Kentucky and Barkley lakes were made because they are the two major impoundments for musseling in the state.

The Tennessee River, from which Kentucky Lake was formed, is the most important musseling water in Kentucky. Mussels are collected from other waters in the state, but do not compare with the multi-million dollar industry that has come about from harvesting shells from the Tennessee River.

Mussel shells are used to make cultured pearls. Slugs are punched from the shells, rounded and placed inside saltwater oysters. After 12 to 18 months, the oyster will form a layer of mother-of-pearl around the ball of a shell and form a cultured pearl. Valuable freshwater pearls are sometimes found in Kentucky Lake mussels.

Shells taken from the Tennessee River are of a higher quality than most others found in the state, the reason for a higher amount of musseling being done there. Companies that produce cultured pearls favor shells from the Tennessee River because fewer impurities in the shell means less time before the cultured pearl reaches the market.

Due to the increased shell prices in the last year, more people are becoming involved in the musseling business. License sales increased from 42 total (33 resident, 9 non-resident) in 1985 to 176 total (106 resident, 70 non-resident) in 1986. Whether this dramatic increase will continue in 1987 remains to be seen. However, over 50 non-resident musseling licenses and 108 resident musseling licenses have already been sold this year, which indicates interest is still very high.

Mine Rescue Contest Set in Martin Mine

A group of miners will go underground Saturday morning at Wolf Creek Collieries Mine No. 4 in Martin county with one goal in mind...winning. These miners will be participating in Wolf Creek Collieries Invitational Underground Mine Rescue Contest.

This annual contest is held to help miners develop and sharpen skills needed in the event of an actual mine emergency. Rescue teams of six members are asked to complete a problem in which they explore a mine, conducting any rescue and recovery work possible. During the drill, conditions are simulated to follow as nearly as possible those of an actual mine disaster.

Most mine rescue contests are held outdoors, with areas partitioned off to represent the mine and its workings. What is unique about this contest is the fact that it is held underground at a mine at the Wolf Creek site. Underground mine rescue contests are fairly common in Europe, but a rarity in this country.

Bill Prater, safety director for Wolf Creek Collieries, sponsor of the event, says that he is pleased with the way this contest has grown over the past few years. "Because of the time factor, we can only take four teams underground for the contest, but each of these teams will come away with a better understanding of what it is like to go underground following a mine fire or explosion," says Prater.

This is the fifth year for the contest. Participants in this year's contest include: Marrowbone Development, Naugatuck, W.V.; Blue Diamond Coal Co.-Scotia Team, Cumberland; Eastern and Associates Coal, Stone; Wolf Creek Collieries, Lovely.

For more information about the contest, contact Bill Prater, safety director for Wolf Creek Collieries at (606) 395-5361.

BRUCELLOSIS

COPYRIGHT 1987 KVMA

Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association
Some Kentucky farmers apparently have not taken seriously the implications of continuing to maintain a brucellosis-positive herd of cattle. If you're one of these, you might consider that you're no longer in the majority.

In 1986, some 350,000 calves were vaccinated against the disease, up from 240,000 in 1985 and 175,000 in 1984.

An incentive program for depopulation of infected herds was started in November. Of the 115 known infected herds in Kentucky, 48 were offered for slaughter during the first month the program was offered.

At the same time, more stringent rules for quarantine of infected herds are now being enforced. Brucellosis infected herds are now quarantined for up to 300 days after the last reactor is removed from the herd. Heifer calves in infected herds are quarantined until they are tested 15 to 45 days after calving, which may be more than two years after the last reactor is removed from the herd.

One livestock dealer last year lost his license for failing to comply with the Livestock Dealer Law regarding brucellosis. Suspension of a second license is pending.

Movement of infected animals is becoming more difficult, as well.

Beginning in July of this year, "clean" states (those states which have eliminated the brucellosis problem) will refuse to allow importation of heifers from states with high brucellosis infection rates unless the animals have been spayed or branded with an "F" for grazing, feeding or slaughter.

Both the Brucellosis Committee of the U.S. Animal Health Association and the Kentucky Department of Agriculture say they plan to continue strict enforcement of the current regulations.

Brucellosis is a serious public health problem. It affects cattle and sometimes horse farmers in the pocketbook. It infects humans with a disease known as undulant fever.

While there is no cure, the disease can be controlled and eradicated through proper herd management and vaccination. Several states have already done so.

Federal and state programs are available to assist farmers in eradication of this disease. Kentucky veterinarians are kept up-to-date on these programs, as well as new regulations which may affect the interstate movement of cattle. They are also kept up-to-date on information regarding the disease itself.

Your veterinarian is your best source of information regarding both the disease and the current methods being used to eradicate it. He'll be glad to discuss it with you.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., May 4—Fishing activity for the May 2-3 weekend was reported moderate to heavy across the state. Heavy rain over a large portion of the state during the latter part of the weekend could affect fishing conditions early this week, but good catches of bass, crappie and bluegill continued during the past week. The lake-by-lake run-down, as reported by conservation officers or creel clerks at each lake:

KENTUCKY: Creel clerk Buddy Boyd reports that crappie were hitting minnows and tube jigs around shallow brush 5-7 feet deep; black bass were active on plastic worms and spinner baits over shallow flats 2-3 feet deep; clear, stable at summer pool and 69 degrees.

BARBLEY: Creel clerk Norman Brantley reports that crappie were taking minnows and jigs around brush and over drop-offs in 2-15 feet of water; catfish were hitting chicken livers around rocky structure 2-5 feet deep; clear, stable at summer pool and 67 degrees.

BARREN: Conservation Officer Ralph Shipley reports that crappie were hitting minnows over brush piles 6-12 feet deep; black bass were taking plastic worms off rocky points 6-15 feet deep; crappie were hitting minnows and hybrid rockfish were hitting shiners and crawfish in the tailwaters; clear, stable at summer pool and 72 degrees.

NOLIN: Conservation Officer James Shipp reports that black bass were hitting artificial lures along shoreline cover 2-3 feet deep; crappie were hitting minnows in shallow cover 2-4 feet deep; some bluegill were being taken on crickets and worms off shallow banks and some walleye were being taken on combination baits; clear, rising, one foot above summer pool and 70 degrees.

ROUGH RIVER: Conservation Officer Gary Rau reports that crappie were active on minnows and jigs over submerged cover 6-15 feet deep; black bass were being caught on crank baits in the heads of creeks in 2-6 feet of water; bluegill were active on red worms and crickets in cover off shallow banks; crappie and trout were being caught on jigs, worms and cheese in the tailwaters; clear, stable at summer pool and 70 degrees.

TAYLORSVILLE: Creel clerk Bruce Raine reports that black bass were taking plastic worms and jigs off shallow banks in 2-4 feet of water; bluegill were hitting red worms and crickets in the heads of creeks 3-5 feet deep; murky, stable at summer pool and 68 degrees.

HERRINGTON: Conservation Officer Buck Goode reports that black bass were hitting plastic worms and crank baits off points and around submerged cover 2-8 feet deep; crappie were taking minnows over weed cover 2-5 feet deep; some white bass were hitting plunkers and spinners in the headwaters 1-5 feet deep; clear, stable at summer pool and 62 degrees.

GREEN RIVER: Creel Clerk John Williams reports that crappie were taking minnows over submerged trees in 6-15 feet of water; black bass were being caught on spinners and crank baits along stump rows 1-8 feet deep; murky, stable at summer pool and 70 degrees.

CUMBERLAND: Conservation Officer Mike Bowman reports that rockfish were hitting live shad and large jigs off shallow points 6-15 feet deep; crappie were hitting grubs and minnows over submerged cover 6-8 feet deep; clear, one foot above summer pool and 69 degrees.

DALE HOLLOW: Conservation Officer Marvin Edwards reports that black bass were hitting spinner baits off rocky points in 6-8 feet of water; crappie were active on minnows over brush piles in 8-10 feet of water; clear to murky, stable at summer pool and 70 degrees.

LAUREL: Conservation Officer Bob Delph reports that black bass were hitting spinner baits and top water lures off rocky banks and along stump rows 5-15 feet deep; crappie were taking minnows over submerged cover 8-12 feet deep; trout were taking worms and corn in the tailwaters; clear to murky, one foot below summer pool and 66 degrees.

CAVE RUN: Creel clerk Sonny Kearns reports that black bass were active on crank baits, spinners and jigs off points and near brush piles 1-8 feet deep; muskie were hitting jerk baits and medium-running crankbaits in the backs of larger coves near creek run-ins 1-10 feet deep; crappie were active on minnows over submerged cover about 12 feet deep; clear, stable at summer pool and 67 degrees.

PAINTSVILLE: Creel clerk John Stepp reports that trout were hitting nightcrawlers and wax worms off shoreline drop-offs 3-7 feet deep; black bass were hitting minnows off rocky points and over submerged cover 3-8 feet deep; crappie were taking large minnows over shallow cover 2-4 feet deep; clear, stable at summer pool and 68 degrees.

BUCKHORN: Conservation Officer Billy Joe Napier reports that crappie were being taken on minnows over submerged cover 6-10 feet deep; black bass were hitting spinners along stump beds 3-8 feet deep; bluegill were active on worms near cover 2-6 feet deep; white bass and crappie were being taken in the tailwaters; clear to murky, stable at summer pool and 62 degrees.

GRAYSON: Conservation Officer Kenny Skaggs reports that black bass were taking plastic worms and crank baits along mud banks and off rocky points 3-7 feet deep; crappie were hitting minnows over submerged cover in about four feet of water; trout were active in the tailwaters; clear, stable at summer pool and 62 degrees.

DEWEY: Creel clerk John Stepp reports that black bass were hitting jigs and spinners over shoreline cover 3-8 feet deep; catfish were hitting nightcrawlers and cut bait along creek channels on the bottom; some muskie being taken; murky, stable at summer pool and 70 degrees.

FISHTRAP: Conservation Officer Jim McCown reports that black bass were hitting top water lures off points and over various cover 2-4 feet deep; crappie were hitting minnows and jigs in heavy submerged cover 4-6 feet deep; in the tailwaters, trout were hitting corn and cheese and white bass were taking minnows and jigs; clear to murky, stable at summer pool and 62 degrees.

Kentucky Travel Ads Garner Four Awards

"Pure Kentucky," the state's travel campaign, has been recognized in a prestigious advertising contest.

The campaign received four ADDY awards in a regional competition sponsored by the American Advertising Association. The campaign's magazine advertisements earned three awards, while the television commercial received another.

The ADDYs were handed out April 3 in a ceremony in Louisville. The awards drew more than 2,000 entries from Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky.

Tourism Secretary Wendell Combs expressed pleasure at the recognition.

"This is a new campaign, so it is gratifying to see that it is already winning the respect of advertising professionals," Combs said. "More importantly, we are optimistic that 'Pure Kentucky' will prove to be a boost to tourism in Kentucky."

The campaign began earlier this year and is concentrated in major travel markets, such as Ohio, Illinois and Indiana. The campaign uses a mix of radio and TV commercials, and newspaper and magazine advertisements to reach potential travelers. The advertising agency, McCann-Erickson Louisville, created the campaign.

SOUTH HOMEMAKERS MEET

The April meeting of the South Prestonsburg Homemakers' Club was held at the home of Mrs. Karen Colvin. The devotional was given by Mrs. Joyce Allen. In response to the roll-call, members told the names of fiber foods they had eaten that day. The lesson on "Fiber in Your Diet" was presented by Mrs. Frances Pitts. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Carlos Haywood. The hostess, Mrs. Colvin, served refreshments to Mesdames Frances Pitts, Lois Ball, Ora Bussey, Joyce Allen, Theckley Short, and Vivian Fraley.

EKU Alumni To Gather For Reunion, May 9

Members of six graduating classes will be special guests during Eastern Kentucky University's annual Alumni Day activities, Saturday, May 9.

Members of the classes of 1917, 1927, 1937, 1947, 1957, and 1962 are invited to participate in special reunion activities during the day-long event.

"Alumni Day provides a unique opportunity for many of our graduates to return to the campus to renew friendships and to acquaint themselves with their university," said Larry Bailey, EKU director of alumni affairs. "We expect a good turnout for the class reunions, and we encourage other Eastern graduates to join us for this special day."

Registration begins at 9 a.m. in the lobby of the Keen Johnson Building. Class reunion luncheons are scheduled at noon in the same building, and tours of the campus and of the Watts' estate, on Lancaster Avenue, will begin at 1 p.m. and continue throughout the afternoon. A special collection of reunion year automobiles will be displayed in front of the Keen Johnson Building.

The Alumni Day awards program will include a reception at 6 p.m. in Walnut Hall of the Keen Johnson Building and the awards banquet at 6:30 p.m. in the Keen Johnson Ballroom.

Luncheon and banquet reservations may be made by calling the alumni office at (606) 622-1260.

Eleven Eastern graduates will be inducted into the prestigious Alumni Association Hall of Distinguished Alumni during the evening banquet. Also recognized will be two recipients of the Outstanding Alumnus awards selected by a committee of the Alumni Association on the basis of professional and personal achievement.

Additional information about Alumni Day activities at EKU is available from Larry Bailey, Director of Alumni Affairs, Richards Alumni House, EKU, Richmond, Ky. 40475-0932, (606) 622-1260.

Friends Of KET Plan Evening With Russell

The Friends of KET, a statewide volunteer organization promoting the Kentucky network, confirmed plans for a September benefit featuring political satirist Mark Russell at their meeting April 14 at the KET Network Center in Lexington.

"Another Gala Evening With Mark Russell" will be held September 25 at the Drawbridge Inn in Ft. Mitchell. Ticket prices for the dinner and performance cost $50 each. Patron tickets are available at $75 each and will include a reception with Russell after the performance.

For information contact KET, 600 Cooper Drive, Lexington, Ky. 40502 or call (606) 233-3000, ext. 275.

The Friends also elected officers and directors for the next fiscal year beginning in July. New officers include President, Wickliffe R. Powell, Ashland; Vice President, Ruth Wesley, Berea; Secretary, Nancy Futral, Peewee Valley.

The following new directors were elected to the Friends board: Betty Pogue, Ft. Thomas; Dorothy Kleindl, Campbellsville; Dr. Patricia Walker, Louisville; O.V. Jones, Dry Ridge; Kitty Shadoan, Wickliffe; Carey Cinnamon, Pikeville; and Dr. James Carver, Albany.

Other board members re-elected include Paul Sartori, Ft. Wright; Bobby Humes, Elizabethtown; Elsa Spurlock, Hazard; Marge Cornell, Lexington; and Harriett Cartmell, Maysville.

Andrew Carnegie, one of the richest Americans ever, was offended by the sight and touch of money and never carried any.

KET Show Features 14-Year-Old Sleuth

Molly McCue is a 14-year-old amateur sleuth who fantasizes about becoming a detective. Molly's adventures will be told in "Almost Partners," a "Wonderworks" special airing Saturday, May 16 at 8:00 p.m. and repeating Sunday, May 17 at 11:00 a.m. on KET.

When Detective Jack Welder (Paul Sorvino) is hired to find a stolen urn containing the ashes of Molly's grandfather, she jumps at the chance to fulfill her dream of becoming a detective.

Molly (Royana Black) joins a reluctant Welder to find a motive for the puzzling theft. Eventually, they stumble into the biggest mystery under investigation in New York City. By the time their case is solved, the "Almost" partnership evolves into a very special friendship.

Stumbo Outlines Coal Policy, Urges Clean Coal Technology

Dr. Grady Stumbo said Thursday that his administration will work toward developing "clean coal technology" to make Kentucky an exporter of energy to the eastern United States.

Stumbo, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in the May 26 primary, outlined his coal policy in a speech to the Pike County Kiwanis. "Transportation costs hurt the ability of Kentucky coal to be competitive in the utilities market," Stumbo said.

Technology now in use in Southern California and Australia would allow the quick construction of power plants near Kentucky's coalfields, he added, providing a stable market for the state's leading natural resource.

In addition, such technology will require the skills of engineers, technicians and other specialists educated in Kentucky, giving the state's brightest students a reason to stay home, he said.

Stumbo also pledged to step up enforcement against illegal mining, calling such practices "a blight on the entire industry."

"We will target illegal mines for extinction," Stumbo said, "and we will give our enforcement agencies the tools and equipment they need to get the job done." Improved cooperation between state and federal agencies will make prosecution more efficient and effective, he added.

The future of small coal operators should be at the heart of the state's concerns for the industry, Stumbo said. The small operators assistance program was designed to ease the regulatory burden on small operators, Stumbo noted. But money collected for that purpose has not been spent on the program. "The bureaucracy has failed this well-intentioned program and should be held accountable."

Stumbo said his administration will establish a set-aside program to ensure that utilities in Kentucky buy a percentage of their coal from small Kentucky operators. He also pledged to streamline the permitting procedure to help expedite the process and eliminate the bureaucratic tangle many operators face.

The centerpiece of Stumbo's plan will be a "key contact"—one person who would be responsible for all elements of an operator's permit application. Under such a system, Stumbo said, an operator would know exactly who could answer his questions and would not get bounced around the system from one office to another.

A new crisis facing the industry is the insolvency of surety companies covering bonds held by operators, Stumbo continued. Many companies which entered the bond market were not prepared to deal with the cyclic nature of the coal market, he said.

As those companies become insolvent, coal operators find themselves holding a bond from a bankrupt surety. As a result, the operators face the possibility of violating requirements for adequate bond coverage through no fault of their own, Stumbo said. His administration will provide assistance to allow operators caught in such a situation enough time to secure a new bond, Stumbo added.

Finally, Stumbo said he would approve the use of incentives to encourage operators to consider reclaiming mined land for such purposes as fish and wildlife habitat, recreation, pastureland, industrial and residential. "Such uses would improve the quality of life in the coalfields. Migratory waterfowl would benefit with more wetlands and small game, deer and turkeys could prosper with proper management on post-mined lands," he said.

"Coal is vital to Kentucky," Stumbo concluded. "While 90 percent of the coal mined in Kentucky comes from 12 eastern counties and five in the west, the economic impact of this industry is felt by all of us. As the nation's coal leader, we must uphold the industry that serves us so well and go progressively into the future—our energy future."

"Home, Sweet, Home" may not be so "sweet" after all. According to National Wildlife magazine, studies have found that the air inside homes may be more dangerous to human health than the air outside. In fact, the number of people claiming to be victims of "building sickness" has tripled in this country since the early 1970s. Some of the indoor pollutants include formaldehyde, radon and tobacco smoke.

THE FLOYD COUNTY RESCUE SQUAD had to be called to pull Dickie Goble, 30, of Auxier out of his 1981 Chevy Chevette after he hit the side of a cliff on Route 3 at Corn Fork in Brandy Keg. Sheriff's deputy Roy Blackburn had followed Goble for six miles with his siren on and lights flashing but Goble didn't stop until he lost control of his car and crashed. The accident occurred at about 3:00 p.m. May 1. Sheriff Henry Hale said Goble will face drunk driving and other charges as soon as he's released from Cabell-Huntington Hospital, where he is presently listed in fair condition.

The first state legislation prohibiting discrimination in employment on the basis of race, creed or color was the Ives-Quinn Act in New York in 1945, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Facilities Must Report Any Hazardous Chemicals

Any Kentucky facility that produces, uses or stores any of a list of 402 hazardous chemicals must notify a newly formed state commission of the fact before May 17.

The new group is the Kentucky Emergency Response Commission, chaired by Col. James H. (Mike) Molloy, who is executive director of the State Division of Disaster and Emergency Services in Frankfort. Governor Martha Layne Collins has named 23 other citizens and state officials to the commission, including Floyd Judge Executive John M. Stumbo.

Molloy said the reporting requirements are part of the 1986 amendments to the federal Superfund Law known as Title III. Under the new provisions, state governors were required by April 17 to create state-level commissions, which, in turn, must organize planning districts and local committees to prepare for potential chemical accidents.

"What the Commission must now ask of businesses and industries in Kentucky," Molloy said, "is to notify in writing the Kentucky Emergency Response Commission at the State Division of Disaster and Emergency Services if they produce, use or store any of these hazardous chemicals." The mailing address is DES Division (Attn: KyERC), Boone National Center, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Molloy said Kentucky facilities which have questions may call the Commission at (502) 564-8660 in Frankfort between 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. (EDT).

The list of toxic and dangerous chemicals covered by the federal law was published in the November 17, 1986, issue of the Federal Register, a U.S. government publication.

AL-ANON IS IT FOR YOU?

Millions of people are affected by the excessive drinking of someone close. The following twenty questions are designed to help you decide whether or not you need Al-Anon:

1. Do you worry about how much someone else drinks?
2. Do you have money problems because of someone else's drinking?
3. Do you tell lies to cover up for someone's else's drinking?
4. Do you feel that if the drinker loved you, he or she would stop drinking to please you?
5. Do you think that the drinker's behavior is caused by his or her companions?
6. Are routines frequently upset or meals delayed because of the drinker?
7. Do you make threats, such as, "If you don't stop drinking, I'll leave you"?
8. When you kiss the drinker hello, do you secretly try to smell his or her breath?
9. Are you afraid to upset someone for fear it will set off a drinking bout?
10. Have you been hurt or embarrassed by a drinker's behavior?
11. Does it seem as if every holiday is spoiled because of drinking?
12. Have you considered calling the police for help in fear of abuse?
13. Do you find yourself searching for hidden liquor?
14. Do you often ride in a car with a driver who has been drinking?
15. Have you refused social invitations out of fear or anxiety?
16. Do you sometimes feel like a failure when you think of the lengths you have gone to control the drinker?
17. Do you think that if the drinker stopped drinking, your other problems would be solved?
18. Do you ever threaten to hurt yourself to scare the drinker?
19. Do you feel angry, confused and depressed most of the time?
20. Do you feel there is no one who understands your problems?

If you have answered yes to three or more of these questions, Al-Anon or Alateen may help. You can contact Al-Anon or Alateen by calling 886-2893.

SCIENTIFIC THEORIES EXPLORED

Einstein searched for a single equation that would account for every fundamental process in nature. Today, in their exploration of subatomic particles, the smallest objects known, scientists are turning up clues to the origin and evolution of the entire universe, postulating theories that promise to realize Einstein's dream.

"The Creation of the Universe," to be aired on KET Wednesday, May 20 at 9 p.m. presents this exciting scientific story. Hosted and written by award-winning science journalist Timothy Ferris, the program identifies and explains some of the most challenging ideas and theories in contemporary science, including the new unified theories and a theory that the universe could have appeared spontaneously—out of a perfect vacuum.

With spectacular special effects, lavish footage filmed on location in France, Italy, and the United States by Academy Award-winning cinematographer Francis Kenny, and an original music score by composer Brian Eno, "The Creation of the Universe" combines animated segments and interviews with internationally renowned physicists to explain these complicated theories to a lay audience.

Among the scientists appearing on the program are Carlo Rubbia, who won the 1984 Nobel Prize for experiments that verified the first of the new unified theories; Murray Gell-Mann, who coined the term "quark"; and Stephen Hawking, who ranks among the world's foremost physicists.

"The Creation of the Universe," which was reviewed for technical accuracy by a panel of science advisors that included five Nobel laureates, is a production of Northstar Associates.

In Loving Memory Of

Mom, Pearlle Compton, whom Jesus called to Heaven on May 2, 1981 and Dad, Floyd Compton, whom Jesus called to heaven on May 12, 1986.

MOM & DAD
Spring has arrived Mom & Dad
Even though you are not here,
We know it was your
Most favorite time of the year.

We miss you so much Mom & Dad
And it makes us so sad,
To see your favorite flower
The beautiful tulips of red.

You both suffered so much
Yet, you were so brave,
And worried about your family
Because, by your side we stayed.

We know you are both with Jesus
In heaven above,
Waiting for your family
With open arms of love.

Mom & Dad, as we go through
This life of trouble and woe,
With Jesus by the hand
We will see you on heaven's bright shore.

Mom and Dad, we love and miss you both so much.

Sadly missed by Linda, Yvonne, David and Bobbie.

In Loving Memory Harmel Roberts

Dad,
We think of you everyday...
Step gingerly back into time and space
And smile inwardly as we behold your face.

We spin dreams of yesterday...
Entangle webs of gentle love sublime
And vision tender moments we've shared thru time.

We walk the same paths you strolled...
Visit the places where you have been
And eat when you have blessed food and said, "Amen."

We see a smile on your face...
Hear you say, "Oh, how good God's been to me;
He gave me such a wonderful family."
We think you were great too, Dad...
Taught us how to work, to learn and to give.

How to love our fellowmen and how to live.
You gave us of your spirit...
Filled with happiness, with love, and with song
With desire to uphold right instead of wrong.

You'll never be forgotten...
Destroyed not by the fingers of Death
Our lives shall always give to you life and breath.

As we live, so shall you live...
Upheld in our hearts with honor and love
Looking forward to that day when we'll meet above.

Ginseng Is Threatened By Illegal Harvesting

People who dig wild ginseng roots before August 15 are breaking the law, and they are endangering a significant natural resource which brings $4 to $5 million into the state each year.

"If someone cuts ginseng from now through about late August, there won't be any new seeds," said C.R. Roberts, Extension horticulturist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"That means that two or three years down the road, the ginseng will be gone from that location," he said. "It's the biggest reason that ginseng is considered a threatened species."

A "threatened" species differs from an "endangered" species in that there is still a considerable amount of ginseng growing wild throughout the state, but that could quickly change if illegal harvest continues.

Roberts said research studies at UK have estimated that as much as 20 percent of wild ginseng is being dug too early, as early as May or June or as soon as the plant comes up. Authorities are trying to clamp down on this, but it is difficult. Even though there is a law on the books prohibiting the harvest of wild ginseng before August 15, there is little enforcement.

"Some people in rural parts of Kentucky have been known to barter ginseng for food in small country groceries," Roberts said.

Ginseng is sold primarily to Hong Kong, Singapore and other oriental markets where it is considered of great value in medicine and for other uses. Its price is about $140 a pound and has ranged as high as $180.

Each state that exports ginseng must meet certain federal regulations. It must have a research program and a system of monitoring wild ginseng. Roberts said UK's College of Agriculture is one of those in the forefront of ginseng research.

Leonard Stoltz, also a horticulturist at UK, is working on embryo propagation and seed germination research to speed up the plant development process so that the plant can be grown profitably.

It is grown now, but cultivated ginseng brings only about $25 a pound. The difference, Roberts said, is that wild roots have a wrinkled appearance that appeal to those in the market for the root. Cultivated types are smoother and less desirable to those markets. Most cultivated ginseng is harvested after about four years, which probably accounts for the difference in root appearance. If growers would wait about eight years, the roots would take on the wrinkled look that buyers desire, Roberts said. But that increases the expense of cultivation.

"A part of our research program is to monitor the wild ginseng in the state," Roberts said. "In Kentucky's 120 counties, we've found ginseng in about 90 percent."

Don't ask him where it is, though. That's confidential. He gets the coordinates locating the root and then enters an agreement with the owner not to tell anyone where it is. Under the monitoring plan, researchers will monitor the plant's development over a five-to-ten-year period to study its growth characteristics—and to find out if anyone else has found it and dug it.

"We eventually want to collect seeds from the different sized plants and get into genetics to see if we can develop new seeds," he said.

But for now, the order of the day is to try to make people aware of the dangers of illegally digging the root "out of season" and to influence them to stop the practice.

MSU Library Receives Gift of Rare Documents

Morehead State University's Camden-Carroll Library has received a rare collection of Civil War, local history and genealogy material valued at more than $6,000.

The Pearl Bach—Hallie Day Blackburn Collection was presented to the university recently by Hallie Day Blackburn, of Dry Ridge, who served as senior extension librarian for the state Department of Libraries and Archives from 1954 to 1977. Blackburn presented the collection to the library through the Morehead State University Foundation in memory of her mother, Pearl Day Bach, a noted eastern Kentucky genealogist.

The collection includes several Civil War period volumes, 32 file drawers of correspondence and other manuscripts on eastern Kentucky genealogy and local history, and copies of a 19-volume diary kept from 1882 to 1930 by an eastern Kentucky circuit preacher, the Rev. John J. Dicke.

MSU's library was chosen as the repository for this collection as a result of the efforts of former state librarian Charles F. Hinds, who was aware of the extensive work in the genealogy of the region's families done by Dr. Stuart S. Sprague, MSU professor of history and noted Appalachian genealogist, according to Larry X. Besant, MSU libraries director.

"We are excited to receive this unique collection which has such special importance to this region," Besant said. "It will be a valuable tool for historical and social research."

The wife of William O. Blackburn, Hallie Day Blackburn was born in Cannel City and received her A.B. degree in education from the University of Kentucky in 1928. Continuing her studies at Pratt Institute, she earned a B.S. degree in library science in 1929.

IN NOSTALGIA

By Paul Elie

From the beginning, the odds seemed to be stacked against "The White Shadow." It centered around Ken Reeves (Ken Howard), a white basketball coach at a predominantly black high school and dealt with the touchy subject of racial tension. And for basketball-team members, it required a young, unknown supporting cast.

Yet the series, which aired from 1978 to 1981, found a comfortable place in CBS's prime-time lineup. Though it never attracted a large audience, it drew praise from educational groups, as well as a memorable spoof on "Saturday Night Live" — "The Black Shadow," starring guest host Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Sitcom journeyman Howard, who looks like a former pro basketball player, was well cast as Reeves. A former NBA star, Reeves had turned to coaching when a his career was cut short by a knee injury. His Carver High team was a collection of distinctive characters: gangling, insecure Goldstein (Ken Michelman), scheming Curtis Jackson (Eric Kilpatrick), love-struck "Salami" Pettrino (Timothy Van Patten), quiet Thorpe (Kevin Hooks), cynical Reese (Nathan Cook) and lethargic Warren Coolidge (Byron Stewart), who played like a star when he made his best effort.

"The White Shadow" tried to be realistic. Like "Quincy," another issue-oriented series that aired in the late '70s, its treatment of topics like drugs, sex and family problems often was simplistic. But the series had its lighter side — especially when the street-wise players interacted with the genial Reeves. And unlike many high-school programs, "The White Shadow" allowed its stars to graduate. Goldstein, Jackson and Reese were written out after the 1980 season. Question: What NBA team had Reeves played for?

Answer: The Chicago Bulls

HABITVIEW

'James Brown & Friends' are as hot as they come

By Marianne Meyer

Musical events, both sharp and flat, make this a tuneful week's viewing on cable:

Aretha Franklin

You've got three, count 'em three, opportunities to see "Cinemax Sessions: A Soul Session: James Brown & Friends" on Cinemax this week (May 10, 13 and 16), so there's no excuse for missing an hour of the hottest soul sounds around. The Godfather of Soul's guests include Aretha Franklin, Robert Palmer, Joe Cocker and Wilson Pickett. That makes for some scorching duets, as well as solo spots. These people don't merely sing - they shout, scream and wail in front of Brown's formidable band. Watch this one and see if you're not rebounding around the living room howling, "I feel good!"

On Sunday, May 10, for those whose tastes run to mellower sounds, The Arts & Entertainment Network brings back a vintage '60s broadcast of

"The Bell Telephone Hour" called "Music in Manhattan." This one-hour song-and-dance salute to the Big Apple and its resident music makers features Lena Horne, Gordon MacRae and Florence Henderson performing toe-tapping standards.

For rock 'n' roll fans, MTV zoomed off to Manhattan's Ritz club earlier this year to catch Hoodoo Gurus, Australian pop-rockers, in a one-hour performance that will be broadcast on Saturday, May 16. The Gurus won many fans when they toured with the Bangles last year. They have a high-energy sound with hooks, quirky lyrics and, yes, a good beat that you can dance to.

Finally, there's a "must avoid": the debut of "Paul Shaffer: Viva Shaf Vegas," airing Friday, May 15, as the newest "Cinemax Comedy Experiment." Shaffer is a great musician whose hot "Late Night" band is invaluable to the tone of "Late Night with David Letterman," but his smarmy comic persona wears very thin when it's stretched out over a one-hour special. There isn't enough music here, and the humor is deadly - infantile, sexist and condescending.

Why is it that so many of the "Saturday Night Live" alumni, when given big budgets and creative freedom, come up with "new" comedy that's as lame as the traditional stuff they want to rise above?

ASK TONI

Scolari's former series

By Toni Reinhold

I say that the man who plays Michael on "Newhart" was also on "Bosom Buddies." My husband disagrees. Was he or wasn't he? - M.H., Augusta, Ga.

Peter Scolari

Peter Scolari joined "Newhart" as Michael Harris in 1984. He played Henry Desmond/Hildegard on "Bosom Buddies" from 1980 to 1982.

Who starred in "V"? Will it ever be brought back to TV? - P.B., South Attleboro, Mass.

This 1984 series starred Marc Singer, Faye Grant, Jane Badler and Robert Englund. It was short-lived, but developed a loyal following. It's doubtful that the series will ever be brought back with new episodes, but we may see an occasional TV movie that will give an update on how the Earthlings are doing in their battle against alien foes. Don't be surprised if reruns turn up on cable.

We're having a family dispute about a show called "Garrison's Gorillas." I say it aired at the same time as "Combat." My brother disagrees. - S.A., Evansville, Ind.

"Combat," starring Rick Jason, Vic Morrow and Pierre Jalbert, was set during World War II and aired from 1962 to 1967. "Garrison's Gorillas," starring Ron Harper, Cesare Danova, Rudy Solari and Christopher Cary, was also set during World War II, but it aired during the 1967-68 season.

Is Marjorie Reynolds still alive? What TV series did she star in? - D.J., North Mankato, Minn.

Reynolds was born in Aug. 12, 1921 and is 65. She played Peg Riley on "The Life of Riley," from 1953-58.

What was the name of the show that starred a character named Jose Jimenez? Who played him? - R.Y., Lyndhurst, Va.

It was "The Bill Dana Show," a sitcom that aired on NBC from 1963 to 1965. Bill Dana played Jose, a character he made famous in his stand-up routines. The show featured Jonathan Harris, Gary Crosby, Don Adams and Maggie Peterson.

High Blood Pressure Can Be Controlled

Approximately 700,000 Kentuckians have high blood pressure (hypertension), almost 30% of the adult population. An estimated 9,149 residents of Floyd county have hypertension which is a major risk factor associated with heart disease and strokes. Although medical experts do not know the cause of most hypertension, research suggests that obesity, lack of exercise, and excessive sodium intake are often associated with the disease.

Hypertension is the most common chronic disease in the country. When hypertension occurs, the heart pumps harder to move blood throughout the body. Left untreated, the heart is forced to work hard and eventually will become strained. Hypertension usually has no physical symptoms and cannot be cured, but it can be treated and controlled.

Choices can be made in everyday lifestyle that can help reduce the risk of high blood pressure. Seeing the doctor regularly, reducing salt and fat intake, exercising regularly, not smoking, and avoiding stress, can help a person reduce their risk of getting high blood pressure.

Many adult hypertensives are aware of their condition, but only 46% maintain treatment that keeps their blood pressure under control.

Houseboating In Kentucky: The Lap of Lakeside Luxury

By BOB BAIRD

The gentle sway of lakeside luxury spangle. Skipping one's floating "home away from home" into quiet bays and coves. Sunrise glistening on shimmering waters. A fresh catch from one's own "pier." An invigorating dip overboard. The creature comforts of one's own "castle on the water."

Ah, the joys of houseboating, which in Kentucky can be as fun-packed, or quiet and relaxing as one likes. A houseboating vacation in the Bluegrass State offers multiple dimensions—or the mere simple pleasures—of exploring the forest-rimmed, cliff-bordered lakes that are pure Kentucky.

A houseboater in Kentucky is treated to an unfolding panorama of trees, hills, water, rocky cliffs, and probably a deer or two. A Kentucky houseboating vacation, thus, combines rugged scenic beauty with the conveniences of home. Many of these "floating castles" sport wall-to-wall carpeting, refrigerators, showers, and gas grills and heaters.

Houseboat rentals are offered at 13 of Kentucky's jewel-like lakes and reservoirs, in all regions of the state. Rentals by day, week, weekend or "midweek" are offered by 36 private and state and county park marinas at diverse locations, including the state's most popular lakes.

Proving particularly popular are Lake Cumberland in southcentral Kentucky, with its steep, rocky shoreline, which has been compared to a "romantic Swiss lake"; nearby Dale Hollow Lake, known for its primitive, undeveloped shoreline; and the watery expanse of Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley in the Western Waterlands, that together comprise one of the largest man-made waterways in the world.

Houseboating is also an option at Barren River, Green River and Nolin Lakes in southcentral Kentucky; Herrington and Taylorsville Lakes in the Bluegrass region; and Cave Run, Laurel River, Paintsville and Grayson Lakes in Eastern Kentucky.

Chauffeuring those incredible hulks across calm, azure waters proves not that much different from driving a car, marina operators say. The most important thing to remember is to guard against oversteering which can cause the craft to snake down the water which no self-respecting pilot wants to be found guilty of.

Houseboats also have no brakes, which means you must start and slow down gradually. The boat's forward momentum can be slowed by throwing the engine into reverse. Driving a craft this big requires extra care when rounding turns and maneuvering between boats. The inexperienced helmsman should practice turning when there is plenty of open water around.

Docking while coming into shore may prove the trickiest task in houseboating, operators say, especially as winds come up. Dock staffs routinely offer orientation sessions for embarking houseboaters, to familiarize them with the craft and how it's steered, how to read navigation charts and to be abreast of safety regulations.

Linen, dishes, pots, pans and household appliances are often furnished for the duration of the stay.

After three or four couples go in together, or a group or club pools its resources, renting a houseboat can prove comparable to, or even cheaper than, first-class hotel accommodations. And infinitely more relaxing!

Houseboat rentals range from a $125 daily for a 40-foot boat accommodating four persons to $1,595 for a 58-footer accommodating 8 persons for a full week. Most marinas offer a weekend rate, a midweek "special" (Monday afternoon through Friday morning) and a full-week rate.

The houseboating season in Kentucky normally runs Memorial Day through Labor Day weekend when reservations are absolutely necessary. Marina operators routinely ask for a security deposit, ranging from $100 to half the price of the rental fee.

Kentucky's lakes offering houseboat rentals also prove to be excellent fishing grounds, although the hot, humid months when houseboating is most refreshing is usually not the best time to make those great catches. And houseboating is also not the coyest way to nab an unsuspecting bass, trout, crappie or walleye. "When you come in there with a houseboat, you scare the fish away," a marina operator said.

However, a houseboater can tie up in a quiet bay to catch a scrumptious pan-fish supper, or find great pickings along submerged trees and underbrush, and in deeper waters off rocky points. Night fishing is also popular since lantern light draws microscopic life that in turn attracts schools of shad upon which white bass feed.

Houseboating proves very popular with water skiers who bring smaller speedboats to race across Kentucky's cool, clear waters.

Offering freedom and privacy not often had with traditional vacations, houseboats are the many-splendored option, serving as one's very own sun deck, swimming dock, fishing pier, barbecue deck, dining room and motel room.

★ Cancer Hopeline
QUESTION: I am a 68 year old woman and I have never had an x-ray of my breast. Why should I go to the expense and trouble of this examination when I can't feel any lumps?

ANSWER: The answer to this question is simple. Mammography is essential to a woman's health because breast cancer is most treatable and curable when the tumor is small and a mammogram can detect a tumor even before it can be felt.
Data from the National Cancer Institute show that 85 percent of the women with breast cancer that has not spread are alive five years after diagnosis. That percent drops to 56 when there is lymph node involvement. Only ten percent of women who have widespread or distant metastasis (cancer in other organs such as liver, bone, lung or brain) at the time the disease is first discovered will reach the five year survival mark.
A yearly mammogram, as part of a regular physical examination, will improve chances for a longer and healthier life.
For information on mammography call 1-800-4-CANCER or you can write to Ky. Cancer Information Service, McDowell Cancer Network Program, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536-0093.

Safety Belts Are Best Insurance Policy

Like pilots who complete a pre-flight checklist before take-off, high performance drivers like to minimize risks before starting their engines.
Risks of serious personal injury in motor vehicle crashes are substantially reduced with the proper use of a mechanism supplied as standard equipment on cars sold in the United States, the safety belt. Because human bodies are not built to withstand the bruising impact of collisions, modern belt systems offer remarkable protection, and 26 states and the District of Columbia already require their use.
As with many other safety devices on cars today, safety belts depend on proper usage. Today's belt systems, lap and shoulder type and lap-type, are easy to use, designed to offer comfort and a certain degree of freedom of movement without compromising protection.
Unfortunately, the very features that make modern belt systems comfortable and convenient can, if used properly, make them less effective.
The three-point lap and shoulder belt, for example, is engineered to offer both maximum protection and comfort and convenience. In order for it to work successfully, the belt must fit snugly against the body with the shoulder strap across the shoulder, not behind the back or under the arm.
Too much slack will reduce effectiveness, and placing the shoulder belt behind the back merely allows the upper portion of the body to pitch forward in a collision and strike interior surfaces. Placing the shoulder belt under the arm is extremely dangerous and may actually result in more serious injuries in a crash.
In many cars, tension release mechanisms are built into the belt system to reduce the pressure exerted by the shoulder belt, but these should be adjusted only as much as necessary for comfort.
Lap belts and the lap portion of three-point systems should always be worn low and snug around the hips.
In addition to proper adjustment and use, safety belts should be inspected periodically. Look for twisted webbing, frayed fabric and check the retractor to make sure it is working. Modern belts allow free movement, but lock in emergency situations. If the belts need cleaning, instructions can be found in your owner's manual.

Worn belts or ill-functioning mechanisms should be repaired or replaced immediately.
Attention to these details can substantially improve pleasure and safety, offering those of us on the ground something else in common with our kindred spirits who fly for a living.

Car Dealer Will Raise Heart Research Funds
Music-Carter-Hughes Chevrolet, Inc. will be participating in the American Heart Association's "Key To Your Heart" during May to raise money for cardiovascular research and community education programs. A certain amount of money will be donated by the dealership for every car sold during May, and the owner of the new car will receive a key chain and a flyer explaining the program.

Kindergarten Students Are Budding Authors

Local Roads Slated For Resurfacing Work

The state Transportation Cabinet has awarded a contract to resurface 6.7 miles of various roads in Floyd county. East Kentucky Paving Corp. of Grayson received the $157,169 contract to resurface the following:

—2.5 miles of Kentucky 1428, the Prestonsburg-Lancer-Allen Road from U.S. 23 at Allen extending northeast to Kentucky 194.

—One mile of Kentucky 1498, Jacks Creek Road from the Knott County line extending north.

—1.4 miles of County Road 5043, Buffalo Creek Road from Kentucky 194 extending southwest.

—1.7 miles of County Road 5364, the Auxier-East Point Road from 13th Street extending northwest to 1.9 miles from U.S. 23.

Dandelion Control Is Still Possible

Dandelions are poking their yellow heads up all over Kentucky much to the frustration of many homeowners who work hard to make their lawns an unbroken sea of green grass.

Although the ideal time to control them is early April before they flower or late in the fall after they have finished flowering, homeowners can keep them at bay now by spraying them with a chemical that contains 2,4-D, or one that contains a combination of 2,4-D, dicamba and mecoprop, said J.D. Green, University of Kentucky Extension agronomist.

"Usually one application will kill the dandelions that are actively growing," he said.

Another way to rid lawns of dandelions is to dig them up. Homeowners using this method need to make sure that the plant's root is pulled up entirely, he said.

Homeowners can spray the entire lawn or they can spray only individual plants. They need to be careful, however, not to allow any of the spray to land on any valuable trees or shrubs that may be killed or stunted by the chemicals, he said.

"Be especially careful about using the spray around grape plantings and tobacco beds. Both are extremely vulnerable," Green said.

Dandelions will begin to curl up in a day or two after spraying. Then, the plant will turn brown and begin to decay. Within a couple of weeks, the plant will have withered to a point that it is no longer unsightly. Grass surrounding the bare spot will begin to fill it in, he said.

"It is a good idea to spray once again in October or November to help control dandelions next spring," he said.

Jobless Rate Down; Seasonal Work Up

Broad increases in employment helped push Kentucky's jobless rate down from a revised 11.5 percent in February to a preliminary 11.0 percent in March.

Figures released last week by the Cabinet for Human Resources show the biggest jump was in farm jobs, followed by growth in construction, manufacturing, services and trade.

The nation's unemployment rate declined from 7.2 percent in February to 6.9 percent in March. The comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

"Kentucky's unemployment rate traditionally declines in these late winter/early spring months," said State labor market analyst Ed Blackwell. "This year we can credit warm temperatures with boosting agricultural, construction, services and trade jobs."

Agricultural jobs grew by 4,700, which Blackwell attributed to the early beginning of the spring planting season.

The Department for Employment Services monthly survey of employers showed construction jobs were up by 2,100. "This contributed to the addition of 1,300 trade jobs, where we saw increases in building materials, hardware and garden supply stores as well as in department stores and restaurants," Blackwell said.

Manufacturers reported 2,000 more jobs, pushing employment in that sector to the highest level since December. "Part of this increase was the result of employees returning to work following brief strikes at Eaton Corporation in Bowling Green and General Electric at Owensboro," Blackwell said.

"Originally we thought the employees at G.E. were not back on the job in time to be included in the March report, but some were back at work by the time we collected March employment figures."

"We also saw 500 more jobs in textiles and apparel," he said.

"The manufacturing sector of Kentucky's economy has pretty well stabilized following job losses during the recession in 1982 and 1983," he added.

Kentucky had an estimated 256,100 manufacturing jobs in March. In 1982 and 1983 the state's manufacturing employment fell below 245,000. Since then, Kentucky has averaged between 253,000 and 257,000 manufacturing jobs annually.

Service jobs increased by 1,500, largely in hotels and recreation.

Employment in the education and state and local government categories remained unchanged between February and March. The only sector recording a decline during that period was finance, insurance and real estate, where preliminary figures show 100 fewer jobs.

The federal estimate of Kentuckians working was 1,486,100 in March, up 2,000 from February's report of 1,484,100, but below the March 1986 figure of 1,489,900.

An estimated 184,600 Kentuckians were employed, a decrease of 7,500 from February's 192,100 but an increase over the March 1986 report of 173,000.

The March labor force estimate for Kentucky was 1,670,700, down 5,500 from February's figure of 1,676,200 but 7,800 above the March 1986 figure of 1,662,900. The civilian labor force includes non-military people who are working and unemployed people who actively are seeking jobs. It does not include anyone who is unemployed but not looking for work.

Unemployment statistics are based on estimates and are compiled to measure employment trends rather than to actually count people working.

TAKE AN EXOTIC JOURNEY

The country of Japan occupies an archipelago of 142,706 square miles. One of the larger islands is Hokkaido, located the farthest north of the chain with weather patterns similar to those of nearby Siberia.

Follow the fortunes of a family of foxes in this hostile environment on "Nature: Lords of Hokkaido," airing Saturday, May 16 at 7 p.m. on KET. "Nature" repeats on Sunday, May 17, at 7 p.m.

Foxes are the heroes of many Japanese folk tales. These wily denizens of Hokkaido are active throughout the day and night. "Nature" gives us a profile of their habits following the foxes as cubs after their spring birth through a brief summer of play and learning, and finally to the point the family unit breaks up in the fall, leaving the cubs to face the world alone.

Other fascinating stories unfold in this episode of "Nature," featuring animals and birds unique to Japan. Viewers are treated to spectacular footage of the graceful dances of the red crowned crane; sea eagles coming home to roost; and the origins of the Pacific salmon's journey to spawn.

The first federal activity to promote fair employment practices was the Fair Employment Practice Commission in 1941, which sought to eliminate discrimination in hiring in the defense industry, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Tournament Draw Brings Mixed Emotions From Local Coaches

Junior Newsome isn't exactly thrilled. Neither is Donnie Daniels, but David Hall is all smiles as a result of Sunday's district tournament draw.

"That's about as good as you can hope for," Hall, McDowell's baseball coach, said Monday. "Now if we can go down there and play good ball, we can make it to the regional tournament. That's really what I want."

Hall's Daredevils drew the bye in this year's tournament, to be held at Allen Park. McDowell, by virtue of the free pass, needs only one victory over the winner of Monday's Prestonsburg-Wheelwright encounter to reach the coveted regional tournament.

Unlike Prestonsburg coach Russell Shepherd, Hall is dead set on his starting pitcher. Mark Perkins, one of the top hurlers in the county, 4-2, will take the hill for the Daredevils Wednesday.

Shepherd says he is undecided on his mound starter in either contest. The Blackcats will open play with Wheelwright, Monday. Game time is set for 5:30, and Shepherd says he wants to get the season completed before making a pitching rotation schedule.

If either the Blackcats or Trojans are to capture the district tournament, it would take a three-game victory showing, something Shepherd says he has to consider before selecting a pitcher. The Prestonsburg head man has no less than five capable throwers, but sometime during the tournament, county opposition is expected to see Tim Trusty or Joey Griffith, possibly both.

Shepherd has elected not to use his top two pitchers against county competition thus far, but tournament play is likely to bring them off the hurling shelf.

Making a decision on who to start at the number one position wasn't a difficult process for Betsy Layne coach Junior Newsome. The Bobcats will send out their best in Bud Newsome.

Injuries early, and an 11-day senior trip greatly curtailed Newsome's work this year, but the little lefthander is probably the best southpaw in eastern Kentucky.

Behind him, Newsome has solid defense and a Bobcat team that hit over .376 this season. Betsy Layne boasts the best record of any district team, but they will be playing a good team.

"You've got to play the best to go anywhere," Junior Newsome said. "Allen Central is a good club, and they have been playing good ball of late."

Betsy Layne and Allen Central will hook up in the tournament's second game, to be held Tuesday. Donnie Daniels says that Betsy Layne is probably the favorite. The first year Rebel coach wasn't exactly thrilled about playing the Bobcats, but says he did get what he wanted from the draw.

"I wanted one game and to go to the regional," Daniels revealed. "I didn't really care who it was against."

"I'm feeling good about it right now," Daniels continued. "I wanted that one game, and I got it. It's no time for weak hearts now. The winner goes to the regional, and the loser goes home."

Daniels will probably go with lefthander Nathan Shelton on the mound, but says he really isn't certain. "In the last three games he has pitched, Roger Horne has pitched excellent baseball, so I don't really know."

Horne is currently 3-2 on the season, while Shelton is even at 3-3.

The victor in this Betsy Layne-Allen Central contest gets an automatic bid to the regional tournament, and a date in the district finals, set for Thursday night at 5:30.

This year's district tournament should be both exciting and interesting, but Donnie Daniels says the tournament is abused in judging a team's success.

"Too much emphasis is put on the district tournament, and I think it is sad," Daniels stated. "Win or lose, I think we have had a good season."

IN WITH A STEAL: McDowell's Henry Webb slides into second base as Prestonsburg's Brian Wallace climbs the ladder to prevent the throw from going to centerfield.

McDowell Bats Come Alive As Daredevils Sweep Blackcats

Friday afternoon a concerned David Hall talked of his McDowell Daredevils' troubles at the plate.

"Our trouble is that we're not hitting the ball," the McDowell coach said. "We've got a couple players hitting well, but it would help us if we could get five or six players hitting at the same time."

The first game of the season the Daredevils cracked three homeruns. Since opening day they have had trouble as a team.

Saturday afternoon David Hall said, "We never gave up today. When someone got down, someone else picked them up." "It proved what we can do when we don't give up, and hitting is just a matter of concentration."

Hall's mood hadn't changed his demeanor, and even the just completed doubleheader sweep of Prestonsburg didn't bring a smile.

Hall has the district tournament on his mind, and not until after then will he ease his intensity.

McDowell has begun to show signs of rounding into the expected form that prompted coaches to select them 10th in the region. Playing good baseball, for David Hall, doesn't mean success in the district tournament.

"I remember two years ago when we won 10 games in a row, then lost the last game of the season, and Betsy Layne beat us 10-0 in the district," Hall said then added, "but I think we have as good a chance as anyone else if we'll play good ball."

The McDowell Daredevils did just that Saturday afternoon. They played good ball.

If hitting had been a weak area of McDowell's, Jimbo Frazier didn't know it. The Blackcat starter walked the first three hitters he faced before Russell Shepherd pulled him in favor of Craig Tucker.

With the bases loaded, Tucker got Mike McQuate to fly out to rightfield, but the ball was hit deep enough to score Henry Webb.

Tucker didn't enjoy as much success with catcher Mark Perkins. On a 3-1 offering Perkins lined a double to left center to plate Brian Hall and Kevin Hall. Perkins later scored when John Crisp singled with two out, as McDowell jumped out to a 4-0 lead after the top half of the first inning.

Pitching has also been an area of concern for David Hall, but he also got that problem solved Saturday. With the help of a strong offensive shooting, Brian Hall picked up his first win of the season.

The senior righthander held Prestonsburg scoreless through the first two innings, enough time for the Daredevils to build a 10-0 lead.

After Scott Tackett grounded out to short, McDowell rallied to score three runs in the second inning, thanks to two Blackcat errors, an RBI single off the bat of Kevin Hall, and three walks.

McDowell wasn't through at the plate. With two out in the third frame Brian Hall, Kevin Hall, and Mike McQuate singled. Mark Perkins then collected his second double of the game, and his fourth RBI.

When two innings had ended, McDowell boasted the 10 run-lead, and although Prestonsburg rallied for a run in the bottom of the third, they could never overcome the huge lead, thus a 10-5 Daredevil victory.

The second game wasn't intended to be a pitcher's duel between the two team's top hurlers, but some games don't go as expected.

David Hall sent Jeff Crisp to the hill, while Russell Shepherd elected to throw Mark Tipton. Although neither starter was hit hard, they were both long gone when the second game was finally decided.

Tipton worked three innings, giving up only one hit during that period, but in the fourth inning control problems led to his early departure.

Mark Perkins opened that pivotal fourth inning with a double. With a 5-0 lead, Tipton walked Jeff Crisp and John Stumbo, something Shepherd didn't like.

Jeff Crisp worked four and two-thirds innings before giving way to Mark Perkins. Crisp did surrender six Blackcat runs, but five of those came in the second inning. The fifth inning was unearned.

With no runners on and two out, Hall brought in his ace, Mark Perkins. The righthander quickly set Prestonsburg down, getting Mark Tipton, three for four on the day, to ground out.

McDowell, after Tipton was lifted, jumped on reliever Thomas Nairn, scoring six runs, two charged to Tipton, in the fourth inning.

Prestonsburg 5-13 on the season, tied the contest with the unearned run in the fifth, and took a two-run advantage in the top of the sixth when, with one out, Johnny Ray Harris doubled and went to third on an error.

After a strikeout, McDowell put Brian Wallace on, but Tim Trusty made them pay. Trusty lined a one-ball pitch over short to drive in Harris. Perkins, sporting a 4-2 record, then struggled with his control, walked Joey Griffith, and Jimbo Frazier to give Prestonsburg another run.

In the bottom of the sixth came the 'never giving up' method David Hall talked about.

Although McDowell got some help from shoddy Blackcat defense, they did stage a dramatic comeback. Following a strikeout of the leadoff hitter, Joey Griffith, who came in to relieve Nairn in the fourth, walked Henry Webb. Brian Hall then reached on an error, as did Kevin Hall.

Mike McQuate then went down on strikes. Prestonsburg intentionally walked Mark Perkins to get to Jeff Crisp, and once again the free pass failed to work.

With two out, the bases loaded, and his team trailing by two runs, Crisp strolled plateward. The righthanded hitting Crisp quickly found himself behind in the count, but on a one-two pitch he slapped a soft line drive into right field, scoring Brian Hall and Kevin Hall, giving McDowell, now 7-5, a 9-8 victory.

CROSSING THE PLATE: Johnny Ray Harris crosses the plate with a Blackcat run during Saturday's action against McDowell.

THE SPORTING TIMES

Some say baseball originated from an Abner Doubleday experiment. Some say the game started by other means. History buffs, and fans of this sport tend to argue the theory, but one thing can't be debated—whichever started baseball did America a great favor.

From three to 103, people of all ages can enjoy baseball. Not only is the game fun to watch, a participant doesn't have to be big or strong to participate.

Unlike basketball, the big man does not dominate. Unlike football, the stronger man doesn't have the advantage. Baseball is an opportunity for the person that was left out when it came time to distribute unusual physical ability.

Being a great athlete certainly doesn't hurt, but it isn't a necessity.

Baseball has been said to be a sport of father and son, but there is enough room for mothers, daughters, and sisters.

The game has no special added attractions. It has no cheerleaders, no colorful bands, and no dancing girls to entertain at halftime.

This is not a downfall, though. Baseball is a sport enjoyed by its players and fans for what it is, not for what is brought it to enhance its attractiveness.

After Clay county won the Sweet Sixteen tournament in March, their coach said, "This was for all the little people. This proved that you don't have to be big to win in basketball."

In some cases, Clay county's especially, this is a true statement, but it is the exception rather than the rule. Basketball is a big man's game to be dominated by seven-footers.

A little guy, Spud Webb, may be able to sneak in and steal the show occasionally, but not often. The short man really doesn't have a part in basketball's show, but now baseball, that's a little man's sport.

Joe Morgan, Glen Hubbard, Pete Rose, and the list could continue forever if one had a mind to list all the professional baseball players under six feet. How many basketball players in the NBA are under six feet? How many professional basketball players are there under 6'4"?

Sometimes we all get caught up in the glamour surrounding high school basketball. After all most media outlets in eastern Kentucky promote it and nothing else.

Young people can be attracted to this type atmosphere, and we do live in the shadow of the top college basketball program in the country. Being a Wildcat would no doubt make one's career, but not everyone can be a Wildcat, in fact very few can.

Nobody can tell anyone else what to enjoy most. Nobody can tell anyone else where they should place their priorities, but someone can tell you the fairness of athletic support, and the game that has helped more eastern Kentucky youngsters than all the others combined.

Baseball! While others were busy going to basketball camps, spending their free time on the court, Paintsville third baseman Mike Minix, one of the top guards in the state, spent his summer improving his baseball skills.

As a result Minix is headed to Vanderbilt to play baseball.

His story is only a repeat of several to be told of Johnson county athletes. Willie Blair was an all-around athlete, but he opted for baseball, and now he is playing professionally.

Harry Meek took Johnson Central to the state tournament as a basketball guard. Meek was one of the top guards in the state his senior year, but he didn't let basketball stand in the way of his true ability, which was baseball. Meek is now a diamond star for the University of Louisville.

The two Johnson county schools have consistently produced good basketball, and football teams, but they have never produced a professional athlete in either sport.

Baseball is a different story. Blair, Johnny LeMaster, it's just a matter of getting the help they need and setting their priorities in an area possible to succeed in.

Just across the county line, the same can't be said. Floyd county can't boast of baseball in the fashion their rival neighbor, Johnson county, can.

Are their athletes better than ours? No way, but they do get more support in baseball than Floyd county does.

While Paintsville and Johnson Central go all out to provide their baseball program financial and fan support, this county is busy promoting basketball, a big man's sport.

This isn't necessarily wrong. It's great to show support regardless of the sport, but each to its own and each should get its own just due.

There is no reason why basketball should be supported more, but it is, especially by school money, which is what hurts most. One principal said

SHORT SPORTS

Achieving the impossible, fulfilling your dreams, accomplishing previously set goals, that is John Goble.

Some have described the former Blackcat quarterback as an overachiever, but something no person can call John Goble is a quitter.

After a disappointing encounter with the Marshall Thundering Herd football program, Goble returned to Prestonsburg, but he never turned his back on the game.

"Something just wasn't right," Goble said recently on the reason why he left Marshall. "I don't know what it was, but something just didn't feel right."

Goble, an offensive and defensive back star on Prestonsburg's 1985 football team, signed a letter of intent early in 1986 to play football at Marshall.

When this combination didn't go as expected, Goble left the West Virginia school, attended Prestonsburg Community College in the fall of 1986, then transferred to the University of Kentucky this spring.

With football still very much in his intentions, Goble walked on with the Wildcats. A long shot to even get a shot, he is now a member of UK's fall squad.

"I felt I had something to prove, to myself and everybody else," Goble said of his reasons surrounding his decision to try out at UK.

In a recent interview, Goble said his position with the team was a mystery to him. He wasn't certain if he had a spot on his fall's roster or not, but a UK football spokesman yesterday confirmed that John Goble was in fact a member of the Wildcat football team.

That is if he elects to come back out this fall, the spokesman stated. Goble will be used on the scout team, but with a full slate of eligibility left, the opportunity to move up is there.

Speculation surrounding the fate of Mountain Christian Academy's basketball program is premature, according to their coach, Dave Hensley.

"More than likely we will be joining the district, but we haven't been officially notified," Hensley revealed. "We are eligible to join a district, because we have served our two-year apprenticeship. It's probably 90 percent that we will join the 58th district, but we aren't for sure yet."

According to one report, Mountain Christian Academy will join the 58th (Continued on Next Page)

PHS Boys Tennis Team Continues To Win

Last weeks action for the Prestonsburg High School boys' tennis team ended with two big wins. On Monday, Prestonsburg entertained Russell at home, winning the meet by a strong 8-2 margin. On Tuesday they traveled to Morgan county again scoring a big win, 7-2.

This week Prestonsburg will face some tough meets when they go against some of the best teams in our region. On Monday they will travel to Russell, who will be eager to avenge their loss to Prestonsburg last week. On Tuesday they will play Sheldon-Clark at home, on Wednesday they will travel to Ashland to play Paul Blazer, and again on Thursday to meet Boyd County, who has the top seeded player in our region, Toby Bryan.

Scoring for the meets with Russell and Morgan County are as follows: (P-Burg players listed first)

PRESTONSBURG VS. RUSSELL
Singles:	Aaron Crum/Ben Miller	6-1,	6-1
	Brent Music/Manoj Warriar	6-0,	6-1
	Cliff Miller/Mark Crider	6-1,	6-0
	Joe Burchett/Clay Stinnett	6-2,	4-6, 4-6
	Scott Wells/Jeff Shelton	6-0,	6-4
	Matt Crum/Scott Keeton	6-2,	4-6, 6-3
	Lee Boyd/Tom Scott	6-0,	6-1
Doubles:	A. Crum/Music-Miller/Warrior	6-1,	6-0
	Burchett/Boyd-Crider/Stinnett	0-6,	3-6
	M. Crum/Wells-Shelton/Keeton	6-4,	4-6, 6-3
PRESTONSBURG VS. MORGAN COUNTY

	M. Crum/Boyd-Vest/Pelphrey	9-8	(7-1)

LEADING HITTER: Kevin Hall came in to this weekend as McDowell's leading hitter, and his three for six day Saturday didn't hurt his standing either.

Daniels, Parker Battle Davis For Early Homerun Leadership

Teams fighting amongst themselves aren't strangers to professional athletics. Several years ago Los Angeles Dodgers' pitcher, Don Sutton, and first baseman, Steve Garvey, slugged it out in the Dodgers' lockerroom.

This season Mark Aguire and Rolando Blackmon, of the Dallas Mavericks, had words and exchanged right crosses during a Mav's basketball game.

These two instances in sports history brought much attention to the teams and athletes involved, but the latest intra-squad battle could have the makings of the most interesting of all.

And without controversy.

Three members of the Cincinnati Reds, outfielders Eric Davis, Kal Daniels, and Dave Parker, are currently fighting it out over early homerun supremacy in the National League.

Like the Dodger and Maverick encounters, the sparks have flown in this fight, but neither players nor team will suffer from it.

In fact, if the Reds outfield trio weren't enjoying the high output of longballs, Cincinnati could be chasing the Western Division park, instead of leading it; Pete Rose would get a first hand view at the sight Larry Bowa sees, and Reds' fans would be after Marge Shott again.

But Davis, Daniels, and Parker are producing, and as a result, everyone is happy.

The battle, as closely contested as it is, isn't expected to become heated, and isn't expected to stop. What it could do is lead Cincinnati to the National League playoff series this October.

All indications say these three will be the Reds' major leading post this season. At least they have been so far in 1987.

When Cincinnati begins to struggle, either one or all three come to the rescue. Just like last Thursday. Already having lost two to the Atlanta Braves, the Reds were in jeopardy of being swept.

But up stepped Dave Parker. Atlanta has jumped out to a big lead, sending Ted Power to the showers early, when Parker got his big bat warmed up with a two-run homerun, his 10th of the year.

The Reds' right fielder brought his team back just a bit, but his early shot also moved him ahead of Kal Daniels for the league lead in homeruns.

Cincinnati still trailed, and did so going into the bottom of the ninth. Eric Davis brought the Reds' close with a three-run homerun off Gene Garber, and then the Reds scored the winning run when Rafael Rameriz threw wildly trying to get Buddy Bell at third base. Bell crossed the plate on the play, enabling Cincinnati to salvage one of the three games in Riverfront.

With Parker and Daniels tied at the top of the National League's homerun list, Eric Davis decided to make it a three-man race.

Davis had only seven homeruns on the season, but Philadelphia was kind to him. Before the Reds left for New York, their next opponent, they had claimed two of the three-game weekend series, with their center fielder providing most of the offensive punch.

Friday night, Davis kicked the series off in a big way, collecting his eighth and ninth homeruns, one a grand slam, in support of Mario Soto, 2-0.

Cincy took an early 5-2 lead, but when Mike Schmidt cut the advantage to one run, Pete Rose went to his dependable bullpen. Frank Williams, Rob Murphy, and Ron Robinson, who got his fourth save, allowed only one Philadelphia run in the final four innings.

Pete Rose has had trouble with his starting pitching this season, but all he needs from that rotation is to keep the Reds in the game. Their bullpen ranks third among National League relieving corps, and have been critical in many Cincinnati victories, such as the 8-5 win, Friday night.

Saturday night neither the bullpen, homeruns, nor good defense could have helped Tom Browning. The Phillies jumped all over Browning, now 2-4, scoring two runs in the first, three more in the second to chase the Reds' starter, and cruised to an 8-3 victory.

Any team that is expected to be a contender has to have a stopper on the mound. Coming into the rubber match of this weekend series, Bill Gullickson had been just that for Cincinnati.

Gullickson, 4-1, ranks among the league's top hurlers, but Sunday afternoon Eric Davis proved to be the hero.

Davis swatted three homeruns, including a grand slam, his second of the series, to propel the Reds past Philadelphia, 9-6.

Cincinnati drilled a total of five round trippers off Philly pitching, including one by Gullickson himself, and Kal Daniels, his 10th of the year.

Davis' three homeruns gave him 12 overall, number one in the league. His six RBIs, the first time since 1982 that a Red has driven in that many in a single game, moved him into the first position in that category, and Davis also leads the league in batting average.

By hitting three homeruns in Veteran's Stadium, Davis joins Johnny Bench, Reggie Smith, and Rick Monday as the only visitors to accomplish that feat.

Gullickson was credited with the win, while John Franco, perfect out of the Reds' bullpen, recorded his fourth save. The little lefthander, John Franco, and the big righthander, Ron Robinson, has a battle of their own going. Both have four saves to their credit, but more importantly, together they provide Cincinnati with one of the top lefty-righty relief combinations in the National League.

By taking two out of three from the Phillies, Cincinnati moved a full game in front of a second place San Francisco, who was rained out in Pittsburgh, Sunday.

The Reds boast a 17-8 record overall. Their 41 homeruns lead the league, and coming into Sunday's contest, Cincinnati was tops in the national league with a .279 team batting average. A 14-hit performance didn't hurt that any.

Thus far the Big Red Machine appears to be solid at all eight starting positions, at least all eight have produced. They have depth on the bench. They have a strong bullpen, but starting pitching looks to be a rusty spot in an otherwise well-oiled machine.

Down in the minor leagues there is a man who could just possibly hold the answer to Cincinnati's pitching questions. Former Dodger Jerry Reuss is trying to come back, and if he could make it all the way to his past form the big lefty might just bolster that starting rotation, which does have some ability.

The Reds, especially their bullpen, got a well-deserved rest Monday, then opened a brief two-game stint in New York, Tuesday.

After doing battle with the Mets tonight, they will return to Riverfront, Friday, for a three-game weekend series with Philadelphia.

Note: Barry Larkin, who opened the season as Cincinnati's number one shortstop, will soon be taken off the disabled list. One of the Reds' outfielders, either Paul O'Neal or Leo Garcia, will be sent back to the minors.

district, forfeit their Floyd County Conference schedule, and accept the number six seed in next year's district tournament.

Hensley says there could be some truth to this, but adds that his school is searching for a new administrator, and any decision of this magnitude will be made only after the new administrator is announced, and conferred with.

Mountain Christian Academy already plays in the Three Rivers conference, so a decision concerning the Floyd County Conference would be made only after a new administrator is selected, and definite word comes from the KHSAA.

Morehead State University has placed many athletes in the professional ranks of late. Phil Simms, Walt Terrell, Drew Hall, and now Billy Poe.

Poe, a 6'3" 273 pound offensive lineman, signed as a free agent with the National Football League Tampa Bay Buccaneers, Friday.

And another for Morehead State's offensive line the past three years, Poe earned Associated Press Division IAA all-American honors, as well as being named all-Ohio Valley Conference.

Poe represents the only Eagle football player from the 1986 team to have been offered an NFL contract. None were taken in last week's draft either.

Replacing the awesome talents of Bob McCann is all but impossible. The 6'9" forward, during his three years at MSU provided excellent basketball output.

The Eagles may never have a player with his kind of ability, but last week Tommy Gaither came as close as he probably could have in trying to replace McCann.

Gaither signed one of the top players in South Carolina, 6'7" 200-pound Donnie Mathews, of Florence, South Carolina.

Mathews averaged 17.5 points and 12 rebounds per contest during the 1986-87 season, and led the state in blocked shots, averaging six per game. Mathews represents the only recruit MSU has signed this year.

Hits, Hits, And More Hits Rebels Pound Prestonsburg

Not long ago first year coach Donnie Daniels purchased a pitching machine in an attempt to improve his team's hitting performance.

The Allen Central rookie boss obviously knew what he was doing. At least he didn't waste his funds, because the Rebels have certainly learned how to hit the baseball.

Just ask Prestonsburg pitching. The Rebels received at least one hit from eight of their starting nine, and finished with a total of 16 singles, five doubles, and a Kevin Webb three-run homer to down Prestonsburg, 22-8.

Allen Central jumped out early on Blackcat starter Steve Wells, scoring one in the first, and adding six runs in the second inning.

Todd Duff, recently moving up to the leadoff spot, opened the contest with a single up the middle. The speedy Rebel second baseman then stole second, went to third on a Kelly Nickles single, and crossed the plate when Kevin Webb fled out.

Prestonsburg, a team known to put big numbers on the scoreboard themselves, proved they had some offensive punch in their lineup. Johnny Ray Harris, as he has in just about every Blackcat game, led off with a single.

Harris, a base stealer with tremendous success, didn't get a chance to show off this talent, but did wind up on second as Craig Tucker, first pitch hitting, grounded a single up the middle.

Brian Wallace followed with another single that scored Harris, and Tucker later scored on a fly ball off the bat of Thomas Nairn.

John Hancock, starting for Allen Central, toughened to set down Tim Trusty, and Joey Griffith in order, preventing any further damage.

Then came the Rebels' second inning show.

They sent 11 hitters plateward, scoring six times, four of which came with two out. With one out, Robbie Click walked, Randy Hansford singled, Darrin Conn singled, Todd Duff walked, Kelly Nickles hit into a force play. All of this action produced two runs.

With Duff and Nickles on, Kevin Webb strolled toward the plate. The Rebel catcher had, in the past couple of games, showed signs of power at the plate. Those signs weren't flukes. Webb drilled one-strike pitch over the rightfield fence to collect his second third, and fourth RBIs of the game, and his second longball in as many games.

In the top of the third Allen Central added four more runs to their already huge lead, and after that it became individual numbers time.

During the season Allen Central has had some players roll up impressive personal stats, and Wednesday night proved to be a week of production for most players.

The Rebels' second baseman Todd Duff went three for four at the plate, walked twice, and scored a total of five runs.

Kelly Nickles showed signs of improving his offensive game, collecting two singles while scoring two runs. Kevin Webb, rapidly becoming the district's top longball threat, enjoyed possibly the biggest day of any Allen Central player.

Webb collected a total of three hits in six plate appearances, drove in six runs and scored three himself.

Shortstop Roger Horne didn't exactly suffer with the aluminum. Horne finished with a pair of doubles, three singles, scored twice, and drove in two runs. Darrin Conn, possibly the most versatile of any player in Floyd county, drilled three hits from the ninth spot, crossed the plate three times, and collected an RBI.

At Prestonsburg's expense, Rebel players padded their offensive numbers, but the player who benefitted most never came to the plate, pitcher John Hancock.

Although the Blackcats tallied eight runs, only half of those were earned. Hancock did give up 13 hits, but accomplished what he had to do.

After his Rebel teammates gave Hancock the big early lead, the righthander did not allow a walk, one reason why Prestonsburg failed to mount any major threats.

The Blackcats have proven their offensive ability, and did again Wednesday afternoon. But every base runner Prestonsburg put on they had to earn. Hancock gave up a lone walk in seven innings, surrendered to Jim Frazier in the second inning.

Hancock's opponents surrendered a total of six free passes, all of which scored.

With the victory, Allen Central improved to 6-9 on the year, keeping alive a three-game winning streak.

basketball brought in money, baseball didn't, and this was why his school couldn't support baseball anymore than it was doing.

McDowell principal Gary Frazier, who probably goes farther than any other school official in the county to promote baseball, said basketball receives more funds than does baseball.

Frazier said that without basketball, his school probably couldn't have baseball, because of the revenue created by the round ball sport.

Unfortunately, this is the case, but aren't there anymore Robin Hoods in the world. No, probably not. We can't steal from the richness of basketball and give to the poorness of baseball.

It's sad to think that Johnson county has two high schools and two baseball fields, then realize we have five high schools and only one baseball field.

To make matters worse, Alice Lloyd has played their home games at Allen Park. Due to this, local schools have had to wait until later in the night, move their games, or cancel them all together.

Babe Ruth and Senior League organizations also suffer from only one regulation baseball field in the county.

In talking with Oscar Rice, Allen Park director, there could be another field built on that property.

There is a problem. Money!

A new field would cost some bucks so there goes any chance of having another field in this county. Unfortunately, not only don't schools go out in a financial show for baseball, influential people of the county fail to realize that baseball is the best way to go for a little man.

We could start by asking Alice Lloyd college for some bucks. They have the money because ALC has one of the largest endowments of any school, except Harvard, east of the Mississippi.

They want to keep it, though, but money is all they have to offer in return.

Baseball is not only the greatest sport in the world, it is also the fairest. You can't be ruled out because you're not big enough to play. Just because one man grew more than the other doesn't mean he should be able to dominate because he did so.

Baseball here should be as good as it is just across the border, but it isn't. Whose fault is that? Yours and mine. Our athletes are as good as theirs, but we don't give these young men the equipment, and support in the fashion that our neighbors do.

It all starts in Little League, both in refining raw ability and the need of financial support. Show you care for our young people. Donate to our Little League, Babe Ruth, and Senior League programs.

Help a young person fulfill their dreams. It may end after Little League, then again it might not.

Webb Enjoys Complete Game As Rebels Thump McDowell

There are good games, then there are games that a team had rather forget. When Allen Central tangled with McDowell last Tuesday night at Allen Park the contest featured some of both.

Coach David Hall and his McDowell Daredevils won't reflect on their performance with pleasure. They lost the game, 17-3, and committed several mental and physical errors in the five-inning affair.

McDowell, due to cancellations caused by the weather, and the opponent, has had difficulty completing games. Coming into Tuesday's matchup, the Daredevils had played only seven games, winning four of those.

Coach Hall has said his team needed more time on the field to further develop their skills, and on this night they proved why.

When the Daredevils send Mark Perkins to the hill they are capable of beating anyone, but after the big right-hander, McDowell pitching is slim.

David Hall used four pitchers in last Tuesday's contest. Walks and errors, nine each, proved to be the downfall of each thrower the coach went to.

In the other Allen Park dugout, Donnie Daniels and Allen Central seemed to be enjoying the game, and appeared to be ignoring the rapidly dropping mercury.

Daniels was pleased about the pitching job he was receiving from Kevin Webb, who moved from catching pitchers to being one.

Roger Horne worked five innings, Monday night. Nathan Shelton had just finished beating Johnson Central earlier that evening, and Daniels' staff was beginning to wear thin.

Webb pulled through for his coach and teammates, though. The ex-catcher turned pitcher worked five innings, giving up three runs on only three hits while striking out three McDowell hitters.

All three runs could have been termed as unearned, but in both scoring innings Webb worked himself into trouble.

McDowell got off to a good start in the top of the first when the Allen Central sophomore struggled with his control.

Kevin Webb surrendered a leadoff walk to Henry Webb, who proceeded to steal second and third before scoring on a wild pitch.

In the bottom of the opening inning, Kevin Webb made up for his game opening walk. With Kelly Nickles on base and one out, Webb blooped a single over short to keep an Allen Central rally alive.

The Rebels scored two runs in that first inning. After Webb's single, Roger Horne reached on an error to load the bases. Nickles then scored on a comebacker to the mound. The Daredevils were tagged with their second error of the inning when Nathan Shelton's ground ball was mishandled, allowing Webb to score.

McDowell, struggling at the plate also, went down in order as their half of the second inning rapidly came and went.

In the bottom of that frame, Allen Central continued to take advantage of McDowell mistakes, scoring three runs on only one hit, but that one hit was a big one.

With two out, a runner on, and one run already in, Kevin Webb stepped to the plate. The left hand hitting sophomore blasted a Jeff Crisp fastball over the rightfield fence, giving the Rebels a four-run lead.

McDowell did have one last comeback effort left, and they used it in the third inning. With one out, Webb walked Henry Webb for the second time. Brian Hall then drilled a double down the left-field line. Both Webb and Hall eventually scored on a Mike McQuate fly ball that was lost in the lights.

The Daredevils were back in a contending position, but they let it slip away, and in quick fashion.

David Hall made a pitching change, bringing in Henry Webb to relieve Jeff Crisp, but Webb didn't fare much better than the McDowell starter had.

Nathan Shelton jumped all over the new pitcher, leading off with a single. An error and a wild pitch later, Allen Central added yet another run to their ever-increasing offensive production.

They weren't through either.

In the bottom of the fourth, Allen Central sent 17 men to the plate, and on four hits, six walks, and three McDowell errors, scored 11 runs to break the contest wide open.

Kevin Webb had a walk and a single in the inning. The hit drove in two runs, giving him four on the evening to go with a three for three performance at the plate.

Before the season began Donnie Daniels was high on his youthful catcher, but no one expected Webb to progress as rapidly as he has thus far. Young talent is what Allen Central has a lot of, and young talent is beginning to show signs of growing up, and growing good.

AN ODD SIGHT: Lefthanded catchers are a rare sight, but Darrin Conn defies all baseball probabilities. The Allen Central southpaw, other than catching, has pitched, played the outfield, and first base this season. At the plate he is also one of the Rebels' top hitters.

With Co-operation... Improved Habitat, Larger Wildlife Population Possible in Mountains

By RICH PAIS
Asst. District Biologist

Wildlife biologists are viewed as somewhat of an enigma. What is it that we are supposed to do? People's perceptions of the job inevitably involve Marlin Perkins-type images of wrestling alligators and tranquilizing bears. What most people don't realize is that, to be effective, the most important part of any wildlife biologist's job is managing people.

This is especially true in the mountains of eastern Kentucky. Anyone who has lived here for some time will tell you that life isn't always easy in eastern Kentucky. The mountains are steep and the valleys narrow. Travel is difficult and time-consuming. There is little farmland. These same factors which make it difficult for people in the mountains also make it hard for wildlife. For example, for a deer to escape from a predator in the mountains takes considerably more energy than it would to escape in the flat cornfields and wetlands of the western part of the state. When a deer seeks to replace the energy lost in a chase it must search farther in the mountains because there are fewer agricultural areas available. This lack of good habitat in the mountains affects not just deer but all of our game species.

Three or four wildlife biologists and land managers cannot change much of the habitat found throughout a region as large as all of eastern Kentucky but, with organized clubs and private individuals working together with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife, progress can be made.

In many mountains counties groups are already working with the Department of Fish and Wildlife to improve habitat and increase wildlife populations. For example, the Fishtrap Sportsmen Club is actively developing the Fishtrap Wildlife Management Area by creating wildlife food plots, marking the area boundary and building gates to limit access. The Dewey Lake Fish and Game Club has helped create wildlife openings and plants 70 acres of food plots for wildlife on the Dewey Lake Wildlife Management Area. The Line Fork and Leatherwood Fish and Game Clubs have cleared dozens of acres of wildlife food plots and planted thousands of autumn olive trees for wildlife food and cover on both private and public land. The Leslie and Perry County Humane Society is working diligently to stop the mountains' greatest threat to wildlife, the domestic dog, from roaming free through our woodlands. The list goes on and on. In almost every county there are groups which need your active support to help our mountain wildlife.

In many cases their efforts are already being felt. Turkey populations are on the increase in many counties and more mountain counties will be open to turkey season in the future. There has been a yearly increase in our mountain deer with excellent populations being built in Knott county (where tremendous public support for the recent deer stocking has made the difference) and in Clay county. Raccoon and fox populations are strong on our wildlife management areas; especially where local clubs are planting food plots and building nesting structures.

While joining a club and working on habitat improvement projects are very important, there is another way everyone can help wildlife: report a poacher or game law violator. With the new Department of Fish and Wildlife radio system and toll free telephone number (1-800-25ALERT), a conservation officer can be contacted within minutes of placing a call. All calls are kept confidential and the number is to report violations only. With public support, a conservation officer can have many extra sets of eyes and ears to help patrol our woodlands.

Kentucky Afield... Observing Law More Important With Increased Pressure On Fish, Game

With an ever-growing number of fishermen and hunters continually exerting more pressure on fish and game populations, the need for sportsmen to be aware of and understand fish and game laws has become increasingly important.

Abuse of the laws causes both short and long-range problems, everything from a lower opinion of outdoor sports by the general public to a reduction of hunting and fishing opportunities.

Sportsmen are the most important conservation tool in the management of our wildlife resources and most sportsmen realize that game laws are designed to protect their hunting and fishing opportunities.

Conscientious hunters and fishermen take time to learn all they can about being successful at their sport and favorite kind of hunting or fishing. This same dedication should include being as knowledgeable as possible about the laws and regulations of that sport.

State conservation officers spend much time educating and explaining game regulations to sportsmen and numerous informational brochures about all aspects of hunting and fishing are available. Yet, many sportsmen still do not understand some basic laws, such as that fishing in farm ponds and small private lakes is subject to statewide license requirements, creel limits and size limits.

There are some exceptions to license requirements, but creel and size limits apply to all waters in Kentucky unless otherwise designated by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Fines for violations of game laws range up to $1,000. In addition, equipment and vehicles can be confiscated as evidence by officers or through a judicial order. Hunting and fishing licenses can be revoked and (in some cases) even a jail sentence imposed.

Recently in Fayette county a citation for fishing without a license resulted in a $500 fine, a two year probation and a two year revocation of license. The offender, after being cited for fishing without a license, purchased a fishing license before appearing in court and altered the purchase date on the original to a date prior to the issuance of the citation.

However, when the carbon copy of the license was examined, the correct date of purchase was found and the subject was charged with possession of a forged instrument. Purchasing the necessary license to hunt or fish is a small price to pay to enjoy these opportunities and avoid a citation and other complications that often arise from breaking the law.

With the height of the spring fishing season coming in May, the gigging and snagging season already in progress and the opening of frog season just ahead, sportsmen need to be sure they understand all the regulations to participate in these or any other outdoor sport.

Heightened public awareness of the importance of conservation of resources is bringing harsher penalties and more frequent punishments to abusers of natural resources, including fish and game. Offenses should not be tolerated by the court or by sportsmen who care about the future of hunting and fishing.

Information on all hunting and fishing regulations are available from the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources or a state conservation officer stationed in your local county.

Riley Leaves Prestonsburg For MSU Coaching Position

One school's loss was another one's gain.

Prestonsburg High School lost a good basketball coach, while Morehead State added one when Jeff Riley resigned his post as Blackcat head coach to join the staff at MSU, this past week.

"The opportunity was just too great for me to pass up," Riley said of the move. "If a person wanted to make the move from high school to college coaching this was a great opportunity. I felt that if I didn't take this one I'd never get another chance."

Riley, who began his college playing days at Georgia Tech, will be reunited with his alma mater where he spent three years as a power forward.

After playing his freshman year at Georgia Tech, the former all-stater from Wheelwright, transferred to Morehead State to complete his college playing days.

Riley graduated from MSU in 1982, then served as a graduate assistant coach under Joe B. Hall at the University of Kentucky, before entering the high school ranks.

His first head coaching experience came at Lawrence County High School, where he led the Bulldogs to a 31-25 record over a two-year span. Before returning to Morehead State, Riley made a two-year stop at Prestonsburg where he compiled a 28-26 record.

Now the successful high school coach will join MSU head coach Tommy Gaither, a man Riley has been impressed with. "He seems like he's got a lot on the ball, and he is confident in the program he's trying to build."

Immediately following the conclusion of this school year, Riley says he will move on to Morehead, even though his active coaching duties won't start until the fall.

"As soon as school is over I'll go down, and help with the camps, but my official duties won't start until this fall."

Those official duties have the former Blackcat coach tabbed as graduate assistant coach. Riley defines those tasks as a floor and practice assistant to Gaither.

"Mostly my job will be as an on the floor coach, because the other two assistants will be busy with recruiting, and also I'll have a lot to do during practice."

Riley, although his only experience as a head coach came in the high school ranks, was introduced to college coaching by Joe B. Hall. He says that as a floor coach not much separates high school and college, but off the floor a prep coach has to deal with a variety of different problems from his players.

Lately Morehead State has come under criticism due to their lack of local recruiting, but Riley says he will bring attention to eastern Kentucky basketball talent.

"I don't know how many we will sign, but I will be aware of the players up here, and I'll make Tommy Gaither aware of them."

Some names being shared by area alumni and fans include McDowell's Brian Hall, Knott County's Daryl Slone, and Wolfe County's Steve Johnson.

Riley probably won't be active in Morehead's field recruiting, but being from this area he does have an inside track on area talent. He, himself, agrees that one area of weakness in MSU's program is their lack of obtaining quality eastern Kentucky talent.

By moving on to Eagle country, Riley leaves a coaching vacancy at Prestonsburg High School.

No replacement has been named as of yet, and probably won't be until the Floyd county school system completes its final hiring late this month.

Filling Riley's position won't be an easy task to complete. The big man with genuine concerns, gave something special to Floyd county basketball.

Thanks, Jeff Riley, for the class, kindness, and credibility you shared with this county. Goodbye coach, and good luck.

Berea Hospital Benefit Tournery Set June 5-7

The 11th Annual Golf/Tennis Benefit Tournament, sponsored by the Berea Hospital Auxiliary, is scheduled for June 5-7 in Berea. The theme of this year's tournament is "Sleep Easy with Anesthesia". Proceeds will be used to purchase an anesthesia machine for Berea Hospital.

The golf event will be played at the Berea Country Club. The field is limited to the first 112 entrants (21 or older). Participants are entitled to an 18-hole practice round on June 5, 18 holes to determine flights on June 6 and the final 18 holes on June 7. Silver prizes will be awarded to the top four finishers in each flight following Sunday's play.

For more information about the golf tournament, contact golf chairman Chet Copeland at (606) 986-2371 (work) or (606) 986-9200 (home).

The Benefit Tennis Tournament will begin at 3 p.m. on June 5 and run through June 7 on the Berea College Tennis Courts behind Seabury Gym. In case of rain, the tourney will move to the Greg Adams Building on the Eastern Kentucky University campus in Richmond. Dressing facilities are available at either location.

This year's tournament consists of 10 divisions with entries limited to three events. The Mens Division includes Open Singles, B Singles, 35 & Over Singles, 50 & Over Singles, Open Doubles and B Doubles. The Women's Division offers Open Singles, B Singles and Open Doubles. Mixed Doubles is also available. Silver prizes will be awarded to the first and second place finishers in each category.

For more information, contact tennis co-chairman Greg Todd at (606) 986-2093 or co-chairman Mike Ross at (606) 986-9255.

Even those who cannot play in one of the tournaments may participate by sending a donation to: Berea Hospital Auxiliary Benefit, Berea Hospital, Inc., Estill Street, Berea, Ky. 40403.

Checks should be made payable to the Berea Hospital Auxiliary. Entry forms are available at the Berea Country Club. All ticket prices and entry fees are tax deductible.

The first president to accept his party's nomination with a speech at the party convention was Franklin D. Roosevelt, who flew from Albany to Chicago in 1932.

Middlemen Get Largest Share Of Food Dollar

Consumers may wonder why food prices remain stable while prices farmers receive continue to decline. Why is a bushel of wheat a farmer produces worth a fraction of what it was just a few years ago, yet bread still costs as much as a dollar and a half a loaf? "The reason is that food bought at the grocery store has been handled several times over by a variety of processors who extract a fee for their services," said Forrest Stegelin, University of Kentucky Extension agricultural economist Forrest Stegelin.

Consumers paid some $355 billion last year for domestically produced foods. Some $245 billion of that went directly into the pockets of the many people who handled the food after it left the farm and before it went on the table, Stegelin said.

"U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that farming and agribusiness combined employ more than 23 million people. From the farm gate to the consumer's table agribusiness employs people to store, transport, process and merchandise the output of U.S. farms," Stegelin said.

"For every dollar spent at the grocery, 75 cents goes to the various people who have added value to the product after it left the farm; 25 cents goes to the farmer," Stegelin said. One often quoted statistic is that each U.S. farmer feeds about 80 people, a third of whom reside on foreign soil. But what is not so well known, Stegelin said, is that 16 other people supply the inputs that one farmer needs to produce his product.

PET VACCINATION

COPYRIGHT 1987 KVMA

Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association
Looking for a cost-efficient way to assure superior health care for your pet? Consider protecting it against many of the diseases to which it is susceptible, rather than attempting to treat those diseases once they develop.

Vaccinations are available against more diseases than most people realize, and may be started at an earlier age as well.

For example, one of the more deadly viral infections affecting dogs is canine parvovirus. First described in 1977, it is caused by a small DNA-containing virus that requires rapidly dividing cells for its growth. Therefore, young, rapidly growing dogs are the most susceptible. Treatment is sometimes effective, though expensive. However, a highly effective vaccine is available, and it can be given to animals as young as eight weeks of age with no serious side effects.

Another serious disease which can be prevented is canine distemper. Vaccines against it can be given as early as six to eight weeks of age. Protection is also available against canine hepatitis, leptospirosis and respiratory disease complex (canine parainfluenza virus, canine adenovirus 2 and Bordetella bronchiseptica).

Of course, the rabies vaccine is well known, but perhaps not many people realize that it should be first given at about three months of age.

The same age is recommended for vaccinating kittens against rabies.

Other recommended vaccinations protect against feline panleukopenia (beginning at nine weeks) and against respiratory disease complex (viral rhinotracheitis, calicivirus and chlamydial pneumonitis), also beginning at about nine weeks.

The ages given above are generalities. Veterinarians modify recommended ages depending on the incidence of the specific diseases in their area and depending on the condition of the animal.

Prices vary from area to area, but you can be assured the cost of vaccination is a small percentage of the cost of treatment of the diseases, some of which cannot be cured.

Your veterinarian really would rather help you devise a plan by which your animals are protected from disease, than be called in an emergency and asked to attempt to develop cures which simply may not be possible.

An old superstition had it that a newborn baby must be carried upstairs before it is carried down. This act supposedly guaranteed the child would rise in the world and have a successful life.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application
Number 836-5048, Amendment Number 1
In accordance with the provisions of KAR 350.055, notice is hereby given that Wellmore Coal Corporation, P.O. Box 901, Grundy, Virginia, 24614, has filed an application for a permit for an underground mining operation. This proposed operation will affect a surface disturbance of 28.28 acres and will underlie an additional 602.68 acres located 1.3 miles south of Galveston in Pike and Floyd county.

The proposed operation is approximately 100 feet north from Branham Creek Road's junction with Tinker Fork Road and located in the gap at the head of Tinker Fork and Branham Creek. The latitude is 37-24-02. The longitude is 82-37-14.

The proposed operation is located on the Pikeville/McDowell USGS 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed is owned by Wellmore Coal Corporation, B & E Coal Company, Harvey Tackett, and Tilda Ray. The operation will underlie land owned by Wellmore coal Corporation, B & E Coal Company, Harvey Tackett, Tilda Ray, Bruce Hall Estate, Donald and Alpha Hamilton, Ovel and Margaret McKinney, Frank Hamilton, Jr., Sarah Hamilton, Chester Hamilton, Turner Elkhorn Coal Company, Ballard and Bethel Martin, Thomas B. Ratliff, Robert Hamilton, German Hamilton, Martha and Andy Hamilton, Melvin and Loretta Hamilton, Walter and Oma Keathley, Cline and Phobe Blankenship, Elkhorn Coal Corporation, Milford Bryant, William Randall Howell, Donald and Emma Hall, Ellis Keathley, and William Howell.

The purpose of this amendment is to add an additional 14.43 acres of surface disturbance primarily consisting of access road and refuse storage areas. This amendment also includes additional underground acreage.

The proposed operation will affect an area within 100 feet of public road Tinker Fork Road and Branham Creek Road. This operation will not involve relocation of the public road.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must have attached a copy of the newspaper clipping and must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF BLASTING SCHEDULE

Buck Coal, Inc., P.O. Box 203, Ivel, Kentucky 41642, telephone number (606) 478-9243, will conduct surface blasting operations on a 94.88 acre site in Floyd County. This site is located approximately 2800 feet south from KY 2030's junction with Little Mud Creek Road near the community of Blue Moon, latitude 37° 30' 08" N and longitude 82° 41' 17" W. The surface on which the blasting will occur is owned by Elkhorn Coal Corporation.

Detonation of explosives are scheduled to occur between the hours of 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m. and from 3:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Blasting will be conducted only during daytime hours, sunrise to sunset, unless required by unavoidable safety reasons.

Events which could lead to blasting at times other than those scheduled include, but are not limited to rain, lightning, or other atmospheric conditions which involve personnel, operational, or public safety. Residents within one-half mile will be notified orally and the blast shall proceed as a scheduled blast. If a nighttime blast is performed, the department will be notified as required.

Entry to the blasting area will be prohibited by blocking access roads at least 10 minutes before each detonation. Post-detonation access to the blasting area will be allowed only after an inspection determines that no hazards are apparent.

Warning signals and all-clear signals will be generated from an air horn or other suitable device and will be audible within one-half mile of the blast area. Five minutes prior to blasting, the warning will be a continuous one (1) minute signal. One minute prior to detonation, the warning will be a series of short signals. The all-clear indication will be two ten (10) second signals. These signals shall be audible within one-half mile of the blasting area.

This notice is published pursuant to CFR 715.19, Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Provisions, and KRS 350.220 and the regulations relating thereto, Kentucky Permit Number 836-0155, MSHA Identification Number applied for.

UK Studies Soil Erosion On Kentucky's Farmlands

When one talks about soil erosion, the picture of deep gullies breaking through and ruining once fertile soil may come to mind.

Perhaps the more insidious type of erosion, however, is what University of Kentucky College of Agriculture researchers call "sheet erosion," a not very obvious type at all but one in which considerable topsoil "runs off" productive croplands during heavy rains.

It may not result in ditches and gullies, but after years of such runoff, the farmer finds that in spite of his best efforts he is not producing as much per acre as before.

"Soil erosion ranks pretty high on the list as a problem for Kentucky," said David Ditsch, UK Extension soils specialist with the Research and Education Center in Princeton. "Topsoil in this part of the state is only about nine inches deep already where there hasn't been significant erosion."

Farmers need to know how much soil they are losing each year in order to make important decisions about what crops to plant and what systems of tillage to use.

Ditsch is involved in continuing research to provide those farmers that information. He measures soil runoff in carefully controlled experiments and then predicts probable soil loss over a period of time.

"For three years," he said, "we've been taking samples of runoff and testing them in the laboratory to determine the nutrient value of soils washed off the fields. We can determine how much fertilizer is lost through runoff. That allows a farmer to put a dollar value on his lost soil. Until you can put numbers on paper, it's hard to tell farmers just how much they are losing."

Ditsch said the experiments involved five different treatments. Three of them involved full-season soybeans, tilled in conventional, reduced tillage and no-till methods. The other two were double-cropped soybeans grown by conventional and no-till methods.

"We discovered the obvious," Ditsch said. The double-cropped tests had less erosion than full-season beans regardless of type of tillage."

It was not surprising that soil eroded less when there was something growing on it, winter wheat in the case of the double-cropped soybean tests.

However, within the double-cropped category, the no-till soybeans had significantly less erosion loss than the conventional till examples. Also in the full-season soybean tests, the no-till method resulted in less loss than either conventional or reduced tillage. Reduced tillage showed less loss than conventional plowing.

Why? And how much erosion is too much? And what can you do about it?

Ditsch said, "We think it goes back to soil disturbance. Once you break the soil up by plowing it, it's easier to lose it. We don't have data on yield losses resulting from erosion, but we're continuing to study this. We anticipate that at the rate of erosion on conventional tilled lands, we'll see a significant drop in yield. Those are long-term results."

He added, "We don't really know what is an acceptable soil loss rate. That's one of the things we want to find out. Different soils have different rates. Different crops have different rates. Corn, because its roots go deeper in the soil, will have less erosion than shallow-rooted soybeans. Corn also leaves more residue in the fields which adds to the soil."

That means that where soybean farmers show significant erosion, they might choose to rotate those fields into corn production for a few years. Or farmers might choose to change their tilling methods to no-till to preserve their top-soil.

Schools Are Screening For Backbone Curves

Floyd schools are this week screening sixth- and seventh-graders for scoliosis, according to school nurse Jennifer Martin.

Scoliosis is a side-to-side curvature in the spine that affects about four children in every 100. In about a quarter of those children—and much more frequently in girls than in boys—the curvature will become worse as the child grows.

Occasionally the condition is caused by a bone or muscle disease but in most cases no cause is evident, except that heredity appears to play a role. It is not caused by poor posture.

Usually, a child in whom scoliosis is detected will simply be observed periodically by a physician to see that it does not get worse. If the curvature becomes more pronounced it is normally treated by use of a brace and exercises. Sometimes surgery is needed to treat the problem—the spine is fused to prevent further curving—but that can usually be avoided by detecting the problem early.

Screening is important, Martin said, because early detection and treatment is the best way to insure that the condition does not worsen. If scoliosis is unchecked it can stunt growth, cause deformity and pain in the back, and, by deforming the chest cavity, can put a strain on heart and lungs.

Without widespread screening, scoliosis is not likely to be detected until it is too late, according to an informational sheet put out by Cardinal Hill Hospital. That is because it does not usually cause pain in its early stages and young adolescents do not usually have much reason to see a physician.

Staff members at each county school have been trained to check sixth- and seventh-grade pupils not only for scoliosis but also for kyphosis (rounded back), lordosis (hollow back), and other abnormal body alignments, Martin said.

Marco Polo brought from China to Venice an early recipe for an ice milk dessert.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

FOOT FAULT

People who suffer from athlete's foot can find a new medication alternative on the pharmacy shelf. Specifically, it is any product containing the ingredient miconazole. Formerly available only by prescription, miconazole has proven to be a very effective treatment for athlete's foot. Creams and lotion are recommended because, unlike powders and sprays, there is no waste of medication. If the problem does not disappear within ten days, a dermatologist should be seen. Treatment with more powerful prescription drugs may be needed to kill off the fungus that is causing the outbreak. People with this type of foot problem should also know that other skin woes may be mistaken for athlete's foot. Eczema and psoriasis are two common conditions that may mimic the pesky fungal infection.

A host of quality over the counter medications and health care items line the shelves of COOLEY APOTHECARY. When it comes to your health care needs, we have them fully covered. Learn for yourself why so many of your neighbors already refer to us as "The Drug Store With a Difference". Complete patient profiles are maintained here at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT: Athlete's foot is not just a summertime ailment.

Telephone Pioneers... Donate To Child Trust Fund

The Kentucky Chapter of the Telephone Pioneers of America has donated $15,000 to the Child Victims' Trust Fund. Attorney General Dave Armstrong said recently. This is the organization's eleventh contribution, with a total of $42,000 donated since the creation of the trust fund.

"The Telephone Pioneers serve as active advocates for Kentucky's children," Armstrong said. "Their continued support has greatly helped in the funding of local programs designed to prevent child sexual abuse and exploitation. This type of support is essential for the Child Victims' Trust Fund which depends on donations and the voluntary state income tax check-off." The trust fund was established in 1984 without an appropriation from the General Fund.

The money was raised during a statewide fall festival held last year by all the chapter's councils throughout Kentucky. Many of the local councils are also actively working to protect children through volunteerism. For example, Pioneer member Joey Keller, of Owensboro, operates a court watch program which tracks child sexual abuse cases through the court process. The program uses volunteers, many of whom are Life Member Pioneers, to serve as court advocates for child victims.

The Child Victims' Trust Fund is administered by the state Child Sexual Abuse and Exploitation Prevention Board, chaired by Armstrong.

The Board reviews grant applications and awards grants to local prevention programs. For more information about grant applications, contact the Attorney General's Victims' Advocacy Division, U.S. Highway 127 S., Building Annex 4, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. 1-800-372-2551.

Floyd Native Writes Book On Haircutting

Kimberly Wright, Floyd county native, has just published her book titled "Scissor Happy-A Guide To Haircutting." She was born in Prestonsburg and reared in Wayland. She now resides in Henderson, North Carolina but still has many family members and friends in this county.

"Scissor Happy" is the result of years spent in the hair fashion industry. In it, the art of cutting hair and a special technique developed by the author for cutting one's own hair are thoroughly detailed to be understood by the non-professional.

For years, it has seemed as though the hair industry has kept this information to themselves and short of going to beauty school, there was nowhere to turn to learn to cut hair. Finally, all that has changed and not only has Mrs. Wright supplied the general public with a complete step-by-step handbook on cutting hair, she has future plans of a complete series of home hair care books, including coloring and perming. These will be on the market by late summer.

To add to her credits as an accomplished author, she has recently had a collection of poetry published, along with numerous other poets, in a book titled "Hearts on Fire."

Humor and candor, accompanied by the author's expertise in the field of cosmetology, make for informative and enjoyable reading.

"Scissor Happy" is available in most fine book stores, or can be ordered from the publisher, J.T.R. & Co., P.O. Box 203, Kittrell, North Carolina 27544.

Kimberly Wright is the daughter of Joan Moore, formerly of McDowell, and James Short, formerly of Jenkins, and is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Sammons, of Wayland. She is married and has three children.

Attends Teacher Conference

Floyd teacher Pamela Wohlford joined state Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald at a teacher's forum held recently in Louisville. Wohlford is remedial reading teacher at Martin Elementary School.

Revival Will Be Held

Bennie Blankenship invites citizens to hear evangelist Goeble Music, of Colleyville, Texas, preach the gospel of Christ at the Prestonsburg Church of Christ on South Lake Drive, Sunday, May 17, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and on May 18-21 at 7:30 p.m. each day.

"Bring your Bible and Bible questions," Blankenship advised.

Health Council Meets

The Big Sandy Health Council will be meeting on Monday, May 11, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at May Lodge. Agenda items include review of pending certificate of needs and ratification of the council's annual implementation plan. The public is welcome. For more information, contact the health planner at the Big Sandy Area Development District Office (886-2374).

Well-Fest '87 Set for May 17

The Big Sandy Health Council and over 50 health providers in the Big Sandy area are sponsoring Well-Fest '87, in the municipal parking lot here on Saturday, May 17, when free health services and information will be provided to the public. The day will include live entertainment, arts and crafts displays, and concessions; prizes, gift certificates and cash will be given away; awards will be given to the best health exhibit, best entertainment, and best arts and crafts display. Well-Fest '87 will open with a balloon lift off at 11 a.m. and will close with an awards ceremony at 5 p.m.

New State Office Will Assist Senior Citizens

Attorney General Dave Armstrong has announced the creation of a special Office of Senior Citizens Advocacy within his office.

"Elderly citizens, who comprise the fastest growing segment of our population, are vitally important to the state of Kentucky," Armstrong said. "Unfortunately, older Kentuckians also are frequently the victims of crime and abuse as well as consumer rip-off schemes. In order to better meet the needs of our senior citizens, we are launching this new program to address many of their problems."

The Senior Citizens Advocacy Office will serve as a central clearinghouse of information to advise senior citizens about various problems that affect them, particularly consumer protection and victimization. The office will also seek to increase public awareness of elderly abuse and neglect.

The office will be headed by Norris Beckley, a Shelbyville native and graduate of Morehead State University. Beckley also has worked as an investigator in the Attorney General's office. "Norris will act as an ombudsman and will handle complaints from senior citizens," Armstrong said. "He will also train our staff in handling specific problems of older Kentuckians." In addition, Beckley will be available to speak to senior citizens groups.

The Attorney General's office has four major divisions affecting the concerns of the elderly—Consumer Protection, Utility and Rate Intervention, Victims' Advocacy and Medicaid Fraud and Abuse Control. The Senior Citizens Advocacy Office is the first to deal solely with older Kentuckians' concerns, however.

The program is being implemented through a special executive order, and cost of the program is being absorbed within the Attorney General's existing budget. Beckley hopes to establish a toll-free telephone line through which citizens may ask questions or be referred to appropriate agencies.

"Our goal is to give elderly Kentuckians a voice in Frankfort," Armstrong said. "We look forward to their inquiries, whether their questions concern legal issues, victimization, health care or insurance questions. We're here to provide them not only with useful information but also to lend a sympathetic ear to an important segment of our population that is so often overlooked."

The median income of U.S. households grew from around $10,000 in 1970 to some $16,000 in 1977. After inflation and taxes, actual purchasing power remained about the same.

School Bus Drivers Win Trophies

Following the district competition, a regional "Rodeo" was held on April 10. Hall was named first place winner and Clevenger won second place, and the two will go on to the state competition to be held June 6 at Eastern Kentucky University.

Local, State Agencies Save $5.8 Million Plus

Effective records management can be profitable, according to an assessment conducted by the Public Records Division of Kentucky's Department for Libraries and Archives. Department staff estimate that in 1986, $5,858,400 were saved by state and local government agencies due to timely destruction of non-permanent public records housed in the State Records Center or in other state or local office buildings.

The ongoing cost to store and maintain records in an agency office setting is approximately $150 per cubic foot per year. The $5 million savings is based on the destruction of 39,056 cubic feet of non permanent records. The Cabinet for Human Resources alone has saved $2,662,950 in record storage costs.

Under Kentucky's comprehensive public records law (KRS 171.410-171.740), the Department for Libraries and Archives assists all public agencies in making proper, legal disposition of their records.

International Travelers Are Advised To Take Precautions

International travelers should check with a physician about immunizations and other ways to prevent sickness while abroad, Kentucky's chief epidemiologist advises.

"Kentuckians planning a trip should check with a physician well ahead of departure for advice on immunizations and how to avoid illnesses such as traveler's diarrhea and malaria," said Michael Moser, M.D., of the Department for Health Services. "Physicians also can provide specific advice for those who have chronic conditions and general advice on travel stresses, such as jet lag."

Much medical advice to travelers is predicated on the individual's health, sex, age and the area to be visited, hence the need to consult with a personal physician, Moser said, but there are some general precautions.

Diphtheria and tetanus boosters should be updated every 10 years regardless of travel. People who are planning a trip should check the status of those boosters, he said. Adults born after 1957 who have not been immunized against measles and rubella should get these protections before traveling, Moser said.

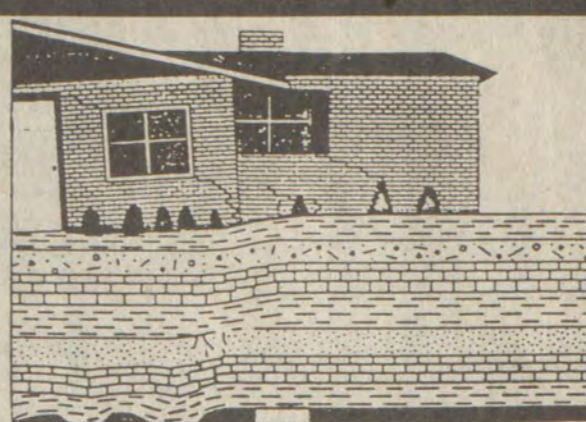

Depending on the area visited, some immunizations that may be recommended are those for yellow fever, Japanese B encephalitis and typhoid. "Travelers should be protected if these diseases are common in the areas they are visiting," Moser said.

If the itinerary includes areas with poor sanitation, travelers may need a polio booster and a hepatitis A immunization. Adults who had the full series of polio immunizations as a child are advised to get a booster before traveling to such areas.

Malaria is common in many parts of the world but can be avoided if anti-malarial drugs are taken before and during travel in areas of risk. The appropriate regimen of medication depends on the area to be visited, Moser said.

"In general, the further one strays from regular tourist areas, the greater the risk of illness and the greater the need for precautions," said Moser. "Anyone who becomes ill after a trip abroad should make it a point to mention their travel to the physician caring for them."

NOW YOU CAN INSURE YOUR PROPERTIES AGAINST MINE SUBSIDENCE

Mine subsidence means the collapse of underground coal mines resulting in damage to a structure. All property owners who live in areas of abandoned and active underground mines can now insure against this potentially devastating loss.

If coverage is desired at this time, contact your insurance agent/broker/company or Kentucky Mine Subsidence Insurance Fund, P.O. Box 517, Frankfort, Ky. 40602 or call (502) 564-6094.

Crothers Selected To Present Paper

Michael Crothers, senior anesthesia student at the Charleston Area Medical Center School of Anesthesia, has been selected by the school's faculty to present his senior research paper during the annual meeting of the West Virginia Association of Nurse Anesthetists at the Marriott Hotel in Charleston, March 8.

The topic of his paper is "Extracorporeal Shock Wave Lithotripsy, Epidural Versus General Anesthesia: Considerations for the Anesthetist."

Crothers, a graduate of Paintsville High School, P.C.C. School of Registered Nursing and former employee of Highlands Regional Medical Center, will complete his anesthesia studies and graduate September 3. He resides in Charleston, West Virginia with his wife, Malinda, and sons, Aaron and Nicholas. He is the son of Colleen Price Crothers and the late Thomas Nicholas Crothers, of Paintsville.

New Tax Requirements Regarding Dependents

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 includes a provision that taxpayer identification numbers (usually individual social security numbers) be provided in most cases when a dependent is claimed on a tax return. The following questions and answers have been prepared to address this new requirement.

Q. My wife and I claim our three children as dependents on our return. Must we do something different when we list them on our tax form for 1987?

A. Yes, if they are at least 5 years old. Beginning with your 1987 return, you must include the taxpayer identification number of any dependent you claim on your return who is at least 5 years of age. Usually, this is your dependent's social security number.

Q. I intend to claim my daughter as a dependent on my 1987 return. She does not turn five until the beginning of December. Must I still provide her social security number?

A. Yes, if the dependent reaches the age of five by the end of the tax year, a number must be provided.

Q. I claim my mother-in-law as a dependent on my return. Does this new law affect my return?

Yes. The reporting requirement affects any dependent, not just dependent children.

Q. If I need more information on this new law, what can I do?

A. You can obtain a copy of the free IRS Publication 501, "Exemptions," by calling the IRS toll free at 1-800-424-3676. If you need information on obtaining a social security number for your child, ask at any Social Security Administration office for the free leaflet, "Applying for a Social Security Number."
