

New 23 Link Gets Push As House Okays Funds

By B.A. Heinze

The first step toward the proposed four-lane link between Prestonsburg and Paintsville was taken last week when the House of Representatives approved $2.5 million for the project. Funds for the work were included in the appropriation of general revenues contained in the appropriation bill for the U.S. Department of Transportation.

According to Congressman Chris Perkins, who is credited with getting House approval of the appropriation, the engineering and design work for the road are complete, with right-of-way acquisition and construction estimated at around $70 million. The state, according to Perkins, has a little over $20 million put aside for the work, and the $2.5 million would constitute a down payment of additional federal money.

This, however, is dependent on Senate approval of the appropriation. "Without their (Senate) approval," Perkins said,

For Effect, Senate Must Also Approve

"complete funding for U.S. 23 between Paintsville and Prestonsburg will be in jeopardy."

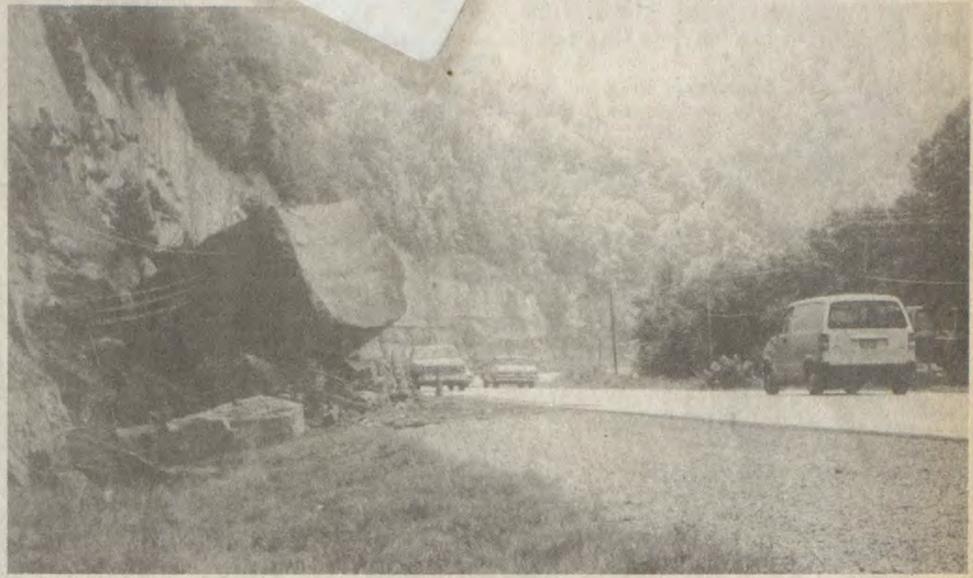

He went on to say that with help from the Senate, he is confident of additional funding to complete the road in the next few years.

Those who travel the present two-lane, slide-prone road refer to it as "running the gauntlet" or liken it to playing Russian roulette. Last Wednesday, a massive slide south of Highlands Regional Hospital blocked traffic for several hours.

Two amendments which would have eliminated funding for the project were offered before the House voted the bill's passage. One was by Rep. Crane (R-Ill.) and the other by Rep. McMillan (R-NC). Both amendments were defeated, 264-126 and 217-177, respectively. Those from Kentucky voting to eliminate funding were Rep. Bunning and Rep. Hopkins, both Republicans, and Rep. Hubbard, Democrat. In the final vote on the bill, of those from Kentucky, only Bunning and Hopkins voted against it.

Although the appropriation has cleared the House, it must now be viewed by a Senate sub-committee, which could meet in about two weeks. If the sub-committee does not approve it for senate vote, further action would be delayed by at least another year.

Kentucky senators are Wendell Ford (D) and Mitch McConnell (R) who may be contacted c/o United States Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510.

A MASSIVE ROCK SLIDE LAST WEDNESDAY NIGHT on U.S. 23 near Highlands Regional Medical Center blocked traffic from about 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. A state highway department crew cleared all but this 500-cubic-yard boulder, which had to be blasted more than once. The clean-up is expected to be completed today (Wednesday).

Pikeville Moves To Ban Male Dance Group There

By Jeff Weddle

Nude dancing will not be tolerated in Pikeville, say city officials who have proposed an ordinance banning it.

The proposal comes as a result of Chippendales, a Cincinnati based all-male dance revue performing last May at the Boulevard, a popular Pikeville night spot. The act consisted of men dancing and stripping down to g-strings.

Pikeville City Attorney Russell Davis, Jr., said Monday that he had not heard much response to newspaper stories about the proposed ordinance. "I don't think there's really been a whole lot of reaction," he said, adding that there has not been a meeting of the city commission since the stories were published.

The commission last met July 13, when the ordinance was given a first reading. The next meeting will be July 27. A second reading will be given then, and the measure will be voted on.

Pikeville City Manager Frank Carlton said he had not heard any reaction to the proposal, either. He said the ordinance is meant to serve notice that this type of entertainment will not be tolerated in Pikeville. "I guess it's more an ounce of prevention," he said. "It would not stop anybody from having that Chippendales show as long as they keep their clothes on. The idea was that we don't want to encourage nude or semi-nude dancing, and this is our way of telling the businesses that."

Davis said that as far as he knows this is the first instance of either male or female nude or semi-nude dancing at Pikeville bars.

State law does not prohibit topless dancing, but communities have the option of passing ordinances which ban it. Such an ordinance is in effect in Newport and the proposed Pikeville ordinance is patterned after it.

A similar situation occurred in Floyd county in January. A nightclub on the Lake Road, the Silver Fox Lounge, was reported to have topless female dancers performing. County Attorney David Barber, Sheriff Henry Hale, two deputies and a state police detective made a surprise visit there and found women dancers not topless, but clad in skimpy bikinis.

Barber said the officials talked with the club's owner and explained that while there is no county ordinance prohibiting such activity, it would not be tolerated here. The owner voluntarily—but under protest—stopped the shows, said Barber. There is still no ordinance in Floyd county banning nude or semi-nude dancing, though Barber said if another establishment initiated the practice, one could be passed.

He said there is strong public sentiment against topless dancing here, adding that public reaction was "about nine to one favorable" regarding the county's handling of the situation. "Generally, the only people we received any complaints from were the ones

Fiscal Impasse Puts Magoffin Gov't. on Hold

Magoffin county government was still on hold yesterday (Tuesday), as the fiscal court had not yet approved a budget.

Now in its third week, the shutdown has halted or impaired all county services. This includes garbage collection, as well as community center programs. About 20 county employees have been idled, and electricity has been turned off in most courthouse offices.

The deadlock, according to Judge-Executive Paul H. Salyer, is the result of a dispute between himself and Magistrates Ell Howard and Joey Isaac. A major point of contention, he said, is the county's road plan. Both sides in the dispute want power to authorize road work.

Government services were halted June 6 after Department of Local Government official Dan Tuttle warned that it is unlawful to incur debts with no approved operating budget. As expected, a law suit was filed by the state last week with the intention of forcing the fiscal court to approve a budget.

Fire Departments Compete For Right To Protect Area

By Joe Porter

"We don't care who provides the fire protection as long as the people are served," Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said after Friday's Fiscal Court meeting. The Judge's remark referred to a heated debate during the meeting over who will provide fire protection for Bull Creek, Town Branch, and Water Gap—the Prestonsburg Fire Department or the Allen Volunteers.

The hearing came up because the Allen Volunteer Fire Department petitioned the court to expand their fire protection district. Allen Fire Chief Roy Compton informed the court that his firefighters have upgraded their equipment, have three trucks, and the highest rating for any volunteer fire department in Floyd county. Compton said that their request was made because a number of residents from Bull Creek have asked them for fire protection after the city of Prestonsburg raised their fire subscription rate from $25 to $100.

While a number of residents at the meeting sided with the Allen Fire department's request, Town Branch resident Ted Nelson turned over a petition to the court with 18 signatures, mostly from Water Gap residents, asking for continued Prestonsburg Fire protection. "I hope our people stick with Prestonsburg," Nelson said after the hearing. "I think they're the best equipped department in the valley."

Superintendent Bill Harvey Howard of the City Utility's Commission made it clear that the hydrants and water in those areas belonged to the city of Prestonsburg, and that if Allen was going to tax those people for fire protection, there would be a charge for the water used.

Compton did not appreciate the suggestion that they would have to pay for water to put out fires and shot back: "we're not making any money on this. If you want to charge us—go ahead." He said the money the department collected would be used for equipment and improvements.

"We've never charged you a dime before, but it costs us money to run the system," Howard said, "and we've got a bond indebtedness to pay." Bull Creek Water District has a bond debt of $224,000. "We have no objection to you using the hydrants. We've got meters to put on them. As long as you go through the proper channels."

Howard said he was taking a strong position because volunteer fire departments in the county have stolen water to fill wells, swimming pools, and clean parking lots. July 3, he reported that another fire department was caught taking water from a hydrant on Highway 3 in Bull Creek to wash South Central Bell's parking lot. "That's an unlawful taking of water," he said. "Now if Allen is going to tax people to pay for their services then we feel we should be compensated for our utilities."

Compton said he was aware of the problem, but his department would be careful not to abuse the privilege of water use.

Prestonsburg City Administrator Fred James said it was necessary to raise its fire subscription rate because of the loss of revenue sharing funds. Currently, the city must pay $29,000 a year

Wheelwright Black Community Works To Honor Its Ancestors

By Jeff Weddle

It has taken the money, effort and prayers of a few believers, but some concerned citizens in Wheelwright are working to restore the Peaceful Garden Cemetery there to a place of beauty and dignity.

The cemetery, used since at least the 1920's by Wheelwright's black community, had fallen into sad disrepair, with weeds growing as tall as tombstones and hiding many graves. A treacherous, rutted road for years has afforded the only access there.

Things probably would never have changed, were it not for the Wheelwright Foundation Reunion last summer, a gathering of many blacks who grew up in Wheelwright but had since moved away.

Among those at the reunion was James R. Tyson, now living in a suburb of Columbus, O. His mother, Mrs. Gertrude Tyson Smith, still lives in Wheelwright. Tyson said then that he took his family to the cemetery during the reunion and was appalled by the deterioration. He decided to do something.

As coordinator of the reunion, Tyson donated the $325 which was left over from that event for restoring the cemetery. He said the money was well spent. "The people resting in that cemetery deserve more than having weeds growing over them," he said. "Whether I do it, or somebody else does it, it's very important that it gets done."

Tyson contracted a local man, Donald Johnson, to get the cemetery in good shape. This included cutting many weeds and trees. Another improvement, the installation of steps for easier access to one section, was paid for by his mother.

Mrs. Smith's plans call for a sign to be placed at the cemetery entrance as well as a bench at the foot of her late husband, William "Bill" Smith's, grave.

Writers Workshop, Arnow Celebration At Hindman School

The Hindman Settlement School's tenth annual Appalachian Writers Workshop will be held August 3-7. As part of the tenth anniversary of this workshop, a special celebration honoring the late Mrs. Harriette Arnow will be held the afternoon and evening of August 7. Mrs. Arnow, author of the Dollmaker, Hunters Horn, *Seedtime on the Cumberland*s and other books, was a staff member of the first eight Appalachian Writers Workshop.

This celebration will begin at 3:30 p.m. with presentations by John Flynn, a personal friend, whose topic is entitled, "A Friend's View of Harriette Arnow." Sandy Ballard, a Ph.D. candidate in English at the University of Tennessee, will discuss, "Harriette Arnow and Her Writings" and Joan Griffin of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln will give a presentation of "Harriette Arnow and Her Sense of Place." Once the papers are presented there will be a cookout on the grounds for everyone in attendance. At 7 p.m., Herb E. Smith, of Appalshop in Whitesburg, will premier his film on Mrs. Arnow. A panel discussion with the three afternoon presenters will follow the film. Dr. Jim Wayne Miller, poet, essayist and recognized authority on Appalachian literature will be the moderator. All of the Arnow Celebration is open free to the public except for the cookout.

Outside of the featured Arnow celebration, the Appalachian Writers Workshop will once again have an outstanding staff. They will include: James Still, poet, novelist and Dean of Appalachian writers; Dr. Jim Wayne Miller; Dr. Robert R. Morgan, keynote speaker/reader on Monday evening August 3 who is a nationally known poet from Cornell University; Maggie Anderson, poet from Pennsylvania; Dr. George Ella Lyon, poet, playwright and children's author; Richard Day, short story writer from California; Gurney Norman, novelist and short story writer from Lexington; Ron Short, musician, actor and playwright; Dr. Barbara Smith, novelist from West Virginia and poet, Llewellyn McKernan of West Virginia.

The evening readings begin each night at 7:30 p.m. and they are open free to the public. On Monday, August 3, Robert Morgan will read. A reception and book signing for all the authors will take place that evening. The staff will be reading on August 4 and 5. Selected participants will read on Thursday, August 6.

For further information call 606-785-5475 or 785-5024 or write to P.O. Box 844, Hindman, Kentucky 41822.

Understanding Love, Keys To Teen Cares

It's summertime and a flock of teen-agers with new driver's licenses are grabbing the car keys and heading for part-time jobs, the beach, camping trips and parties—lots of parties. Because those celebrations often involve alcohol and drugs, many adolescents will have to decide for the first time whether to drive after they've been drinking or using.

Even teen-agers who don't have their licenses confront the drunk driving issue when faced with the choice of riding with a friend who is intoxicated. Apparently, teen-agers don't consider the choices very carefully.

Alcohol-related accidents, which are the leading cause of death among those aged 15 to 25, claim 5,000 victims in that age group annually, according to the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism. Another 100,000 young people are injured each year in drunk driving collisions. The FBI also estimates that 30,000 teen-agers under 17 are arrested each year for driving while under the influence. In addition, a 1984 Gallup Poll found that 58 percent of the 16 to 18 year olds surveyed—as well as 2 percent of the 13 to 15 year olds polled—had driven under the influence. More than one in four had ridden with a friend who was intoxicated.

Rather than displaying a reckless disregard for their lives, teen-agers who drive drunk, like most adolescents, believe they're immortal. Even if they've had friends or classmates killed while driving drunk, they firmly believe "it will never happen to me."

Although some adolescents would never consider driving after using "heavy" drugs such as LSD or PCP, they may mistakenly believe their judgement is not impaired by what they assume are "lighter" drugs such as alcohol or marijuana. Some, in fact, falsely believe that a substance such as cocaine sharpens their senses, making them more aware when they drive.

Teen-agers also don't have the experience necessary to judge whether they're too intoxicated to drive. Many believe that as long as they can stand up straight and think clearly, they're sober enough to get behind the wheel. In addition, because so many adolescents do drive under the influence, peer pressure often mandates that it's "cool" to drive even if the teen-ager has had one too many.

To educate adolescents about the dangers of drunk driving, parents need to share information in a loving, honest and nonjudgmental way. It may help to initiate a discussion by giving your teen the following quiz developed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Read each statement, then ask your child to indicate how he or she feels about it by using the following numbers:

- One for strongly agree.
- Two for agree, but not strongly.
- Three for neither agree or disagree.
- Four for disagree, but not strongly.
- Five, strongly disagree.

Set 1:

1. If a person concentrates hard enough, he or she can overcome any effect that drinking may have upon driving.
2. If you drive home from a party late at night when most roads are deserted, there is not much danger in driving after drinking.
3. It's all right for a person who has been drinking to drive, as long as he or she shows no signs of being drunk.
4. If you're going to have an accident, you'll have one anyhow, regardless of drinking.
5. A drink or two helps people drive better because it relaxes them.

If after adding up the numbers, your teen scores from 15 to 25 points—as did approximately half the 3,000 high school students to whom the NHTSA gave this quiz—he or she is probably fairly well informed about drunk driving. If your child scores less than 15—as did 50 percent of the sample—he or she is more likely to take chances based on lack of knowledge. However, whatever your teen-ager's score, use each question as a source of discussion for reviewing issues, including how alcohol, in any amount, can delay response time.

Because your adolescent may challenge you on some of what you'll discuss, check with the local library, your child's school or the Adolescent Care Unit Our Lady of Bellefonte Hospital in Ashland for good sources of information on drunk driving. Also be willing to offer your child the option of calling you to pick him or her up when he or she is intoxicated.

If your child does take advantage of your offer, be sure not to launch into an angry tirade when picking him or her up. Instead, wait until the next morning to talk calmly, but frankly about your concerns. Many parents may also want to impose some form of punishment such as putting the adolescent on probation or withholding car privileges. But keep in mind that if the consequences are too severe, your teenager may be inclined to get home by him or herself the next time he or she drinks or uses.

If your teen-ager calls continually asking you to pick him or her up after drinking or using drugs, you should consult a local treatment program as soon as possible since your child may be severely chemically dependent.

Above all, when talking to a teen-ager about drunk driving two things you can't emphasize enough are how much you love him or her and that you're genuinely concerned for his or her safety.

"I'm just a gigolo." According to Ranger Rick magazine, male bees' only job is mating. As soon as they become adults, male bees, called drones, fly away and mate with queen bees from other nests. They die soon afterwards.

Neither State Nor County Claims Stratton Br. Road

THEY'RE MAD AND THEY DON'T WANT TO TAKE IT ANYMORE. (from left) Robin Jervis, Janice Crider, and Jewel Crider, residents of Stratton's Branch, stand on a dirt road that leads to their houses. The road needs to be paved and drainage ditches dug. Dust is a problem in the summer and ice and mud is a problem in the winter, they say.

By Joe Porter

The county says the road is the responsibility of the state; the state says they gave it up years back, and it's a county road. Meanwhile, Stratton's Branch residents want their road paved and made safe for school buses and traffic.

"It's really pitiful," Jewel Crider said. "There are potholes all over the place." Crider lives up toward the head of the hollow and what angers her, she says, is that she knows for a fact that other roads throughout the county are being graveled and paved. "It's a funny thing. You go down and complain, and they don't have gravel. And then you drive down a county road and see it six inches deep in some places."

"I know I pay taxes and have for years," said Robin Jervis, Crider's neighbor. "Look at what they did at Cow Creek and Cow Mountain. You can fly over that."

"Every time we ask for gravel we get the run around," said Janice Crider, another Stratton's Branch resident. "They say there's no problem. We'll bring you three loads of gravel. Then they come and drop one-half truck load and drive away. I watched them."

All three ladies are concerned about the welfare of their children who are being forced to walk down the hollow to meet the school bus, because the road is either impassable, or because the bus has no place to turn around. They report broken car springs and accidents that have been caused by the road's condition. In one place, they point out that erosion has washed away the shoulder of the road.

Dicky Stumbo, with the State Highway Department in Allen, admitted that the state used to maintain the first-half mile of the road. "We used to maintain it up until about four years ago," Stumbo said. "But now, it's completely the county's."

Both Magistrate Gerald Derossett and Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said they were aware of the road's poor condition, but before they send a road crew up there to work on it they want to determine if it is in fact a county road. Judge Stumbo said that action will be taken before school buses start rolling if it is the county's responsibility.

PCC, Pike College Offer Credit For KET Courses

Registration is underway at Prestonsburg Community College for the Fall 1987 KET telecourses, and at Pikeville College.

More than 20,000 Kentuckians have earned college credit through telecourses broadcast on KET. KET, the Kentucky Council on Higher Education, and representatives from state universities, community colleges and independent institutions have made the telecourse project possible since 1978.

KET telecourses are fully accredited college-level courses. Just as with on-campus courses, students have textbooks, professors, assignments, tests and tuition. However, with telecourses the majority of classes are broadcast on KET.

The Fall 1987 telecourse semester begins August 30. The curriculum includes courses in American history, business, accounting, psychology, English composition and a graduate-level education telecourse "Dealing In Discipline."

Course descriptions and broadcast schedules are included in the Fall 1987 Telecourse Booklet. For a free copy, call KET at 1-800-432-0970.

Food Index Pushed Up As Beef Price Surges

A 14 per cent jump in the cost of beef cuts propelled Kentucky's statewide retail food price index up better than 5 per cent during June, according to Kentucky Farm Bureau's marketbasket survey.

The higher-priced roasts and steaks follow well-publicized reductions in cattle herds and higher market prices across the nation.

Smaller increases for pork, dairy products and some fresh produce combined with beef to push the average June marketbasket cost to $65.32. That's 5.3 per cent above the May figure and nearly 12 per cent higher than June 1986.

Pork cuts were up 3.5 per cent for the month, dairy products averaged 2.6 per cent higher and fruits-vegetables rose 6.4 per cent.

Going the other direction, grain-based foods declined 2.8 per cent during June and poultry-eggs dropped 3.3 per cent.

Market analysts say the meat price increases, which began in earnest three months ago, trace primarily to sharp reductions in herd numbers by cattle producers. Those same growers, responding to the current high prices, are now holding breeding stock off the market to rebuild their herds, further reducing supermarket meat supplies.

Kentucky Farm Bureau's market analyst Jeff Hall says beef producers, who just recently began funding a major new media promotional program, are watching closely to see if today's higher prices seriously dampen consumer purchases.

"Sales held up very well during the early stages of the price increases," Hall said. "Now the industry is anxious to see if beef customers continue buying the products."

Hall said lower poultry prices pose an increased risk of defections by beef customers. But he noted that consumers have shown better product loyalty since the national advertising campaign began last year.

just for its aerial truck that serves Highlands Regional Medical Center, May Lodge, and other businesses for the benefit of all county residents.

"All I want is the cheapest rate and the best protection," said Magistrate Gerald Derossett. And that seemed to be the consensus. The debate closed with Prestonsburg prepared to match Allen's tax rate; one dollar for every thousand of evaluation. That is, if a resident owns a $30,000 home, his fire tax would be $30. Now the residents of those areas will meet and vote on whose fire protection they want.

The court passed a resolution to advertise for the installation of 400 fire hydrants to be placed throughout the county. Bids will be accepted until its August 21 meeting. Also, Judge Stumbo opened and read bids on materials and supplies for the 1987-88 fiscal year.

The state sets the standards and the county must meet those standards for operating its jail, but the trouble is the state doesn't always provide the financial assistance needed to do it. Twenty county jails in Kentucky have been closed, and Floyd county has its own problem. "The main thing they're after us now on is outside recreation," said Judge Stumbo. "They haven't pushed us that hard, but I don't know how we're going to be able to do it." One suggestion the Judge made was the possibility of fencing in an area behind the jail for them. He also mentioned the idea of taking the inmates out to work, but the catch with that is that if someone gets hurt, they could sue the county.

The court made no decision on the jail, but something will have to be done in the near future. The next state inspection is this September.

The Judge accepted the resignation of road worker Carl R. Bays and replaced him with Denver Lee Shepherd at a rate of $7.52 per hour. A resolution was also passed to hire two part-time deputy jailers: Robert Willis and Dewey Hackworth, effective July 16, both at a rate of $6.10 per hour.

A similar incident occurred last year when the same men were unable to agree on a county budget. The courthouse was closed for about a month until special Judge John Gardner told the magistrates to approve a budget or go to jail.

County Clerk H.B. Arnett filed a lawsuit last Friday against the fiscal court and Jailer Josephine Borders in an attempt to restore electrical service to his office. District Judge Graham Martin signed a court order "authorizing me to do whatever was necessary to get my lights on," Arnett was quoted as saying. Arnett, with Isaac and Howard, gained access to a breaker box after cutting a lock on its door. The breakers were already turned on but there was no power. The lock was replaced and a breaker was later thrown in another part of the courthouse, restoring power to the clerk's office.

Arnett said that although the first two floors of the courthouse were without power, the county jail, on the third floor, still had electricity. He questioned how Salyer could comply with the state law forbidding the incurring of debts and still leave some electricity on.

who wanted to go to it," he said, "and that wasn't very many."

Davis said the Pikeville proposal was partially the result of complaints from other establishments holding liquor licenses. He said some were afraid that public sentiment against this type of entertainment might cause enough controversy to spark another wet/dry vote. Liquor sales in Pikeville have been legal since 1984.

Alfalfa Is Noticed As Tobacco Declines

Gov. Martha Layne Collins has created a 17-member task force to study the alfalfa hay situation in Kentucky. Established by executive order, the group has been charged with developing an alfalfa program for the state.

Gov. Collins stressed the need for establishing the task force and cited the economic decline of tobacco as a major cash crop as one of the key motivators. "Tobacco receipts have dropped by nearly one-half since 1984," Collins said, "and this has had a major impact in the overall economic decline of the agricultural sector."

The governor said that action needed to be taken now to ensure the economic future of agriculture in Kentucky.

"If Kentucky is to share in the nation's future economic growth, the agriculture community must be stabilized," she said.

Task force members will review and analyze the various marketing methods currently in existence for alfalfa producers and recommend methods of grading alfalfa for quality assurance.

The sign is being donated, she said, by Wheelwright craftsman Joe Yates.

She said that she has put a lot of energy and hours into cleaning and maintaining the facility, and at first was afraid people would find her behavior odd. But, "To my surprise, the people weren't talking about me or making fun of me. They were interested," she said.

The project is not without problems, however. Weeds, which were completely cleared as of Memorial Day, have grown again to hide many graves and make visitation difficult. The rough, rutted road that led to the cemetery a year ago has not been improved. "If anything, (the road) has gotten worse," said Mrs. Smith. She hopes to get assistance from the county in repairing the road.

In a recent letter to the Times, she wrote "Since so many of us have donated our energies and monies for this project, it seems that the county should spend some of our tax money toward improving the road that leads to the cemetery. It is in such a deplorable state that most visitors walk to the cemetery, rather than risk their cars on the road."

Some work has already been done by the county. Mrs. Smith said Magistrate Ed Caudill recently authorized the installation of a drain pipe along another section of road there. While she is most thankful for that help, she said more work needs to be done, because installation of the pipe left the road rough and impassible to vehicles. She hopes the county will pave the main road and apply red dog to the side road where the drain was added.

Judge Stumbo said last week that the county will grade the main road to the cemetery and put in a ditchline. Beyond that, he wasn't sure how much could be done but would check to see if it had ever been brought into the county road system. If it is a county road, it will be eligible for more extensive work. Mrs. Smith insists the road is in the county system.

Tyson agrees with her, but adds "The real question isn't whether this is a county road. The important thing is that a lot of people up there worked and paid taxes all their lives. Many of these people worked all their lives in the coal mines and died in the coal mines." County officials should be willing to participate in the project because of contributions made by those resting in Peaceful Garden, and by those who are now trying to maintain the cemetery, he said.

Regardless of county involvement, Mrs. Smith hopes that Wheelwright citizens will join in supporting further maintenance there. She noted that if everyone with loved ones in Peaceful Garden would work to keep things there nice, it would be relatively easy to keep the cemetery in good condition.

Anyone interested in helping to maintain the cemetery or in making a financial contribution may contact Mrs. Smith at P.O. Box 332, Wheelwright, Ky., 41669, or call (606) 452-4215. Calls may also be placed to Annabelle Scott at 452-2557.

Tyson summed up his feelings about the project with a line he attributed to Shakespeare. "You can judge the character of a people by the respect they pay their dead," he quoted. "And I hold to that."

TUNNEL OF LOVE

Britain recently dedicated what may be the world's first tunnel of love for toads. The 10-inch-wide tunnel, which runs 60 feet under a busy country road some 35 miles west of London, will enable lovesick toads to proceed safely to a nearby lake for romantic encounters.

Bits and Pieces

IT'S CRITICAL

When it gets so hot, or is it humid, or a bad combination of the two—that, in any case, I'd rather stay inside and cook than venture outdoors, the situation is getting critical.

SUMMER REWARD

Fresh peaches constitute one of summer's best rewards, it seems to me. Sunday, I made my first, and if the weather improves, possibly my last peach cobbler of the season. No apologies, either. I paid my peach cobbler dues for life when my children were at home.

My mother-in-law, Ethel Heinze, gave me this recipe, and it's the best I've come across. I pass it along to you.

Slice 4 or 5 cups fresh peaches in baking dish (8x9x2-inch)

Mix together
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
2 tbsp. flour
Sprinkle over peaches and dot with 4 tbsp. butter.

Now for the crust.

Sift together 1 cup flour, 2 tsp. baking powder, 1/2 tsp. salt. Cut in one-third cup shortening with pastry blender. (I use margarine or butter.) Add one-third cup milk or enough to hold ingredients together.

Turn onto floured board and pat to fit pan. Place dough over fruit. Dot with 2 tbsp. butter and sprinkle with 2 tbsp. sugar.

Score and bake in hot oven (425 degrees) for about 30 minutes. Check in 15 minutes—heat may need to be adjusted down.

If you like this, I may someday give you Ruth Patrick's Scalloped Oyster recipe.

Sorry, I have no recipes of my own, but I've known, and still do, a lot of good cooks.

Teachers May Apply For McAuliffe Funds

Kentucky teachers may now apply for a $25,300 federally-funded fellowship being awarded in honor of the late Sharon Christa McAuliffe, the teacher who served as an astronaut on the Challenger Space Shuttle in January 1986.

The Christa McAuliffe Fellowship Program is now available to full-time, public/private elementary and secondary teachers throughout the state. Teachers must contact their principal or local school superintendent for information on the application process. Because of federal guidelines, applications must be completed and postmarked no later than July 23.

The fellowship may be used for sabbaticals for study or research directly associated with the objective of academic improvement, consultation with or assistance to other school districts or private school systems, development of special innovative programs, or model teaching programs and staff development.

An applicant must submit an application including a proposal, with two letters of recommendation from other teachers, and recommendations from the applicant's school principal and superintendent on the quality of the proposal and its educational benefit to the Christa McAuliffe Fellowship Selection Committee. Candidates must also indicate their intention to continue teaching for at least two years following completion of the fellowship.

A seven-member state panel including parents, teachers, school administrators and higher education representatives will review all applications and recommend one candidate to the U.S. Department of Education. At least one fellowship will be awarded to each state. Fellowships will be announced in September.

Groundbreaking Held For Plant In Berea

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held July 7 in Berea for the new Tokico Manufacturing Corp. plant that is expected to employ up to 150 people and represent an investment of some $20 million.

Gov. Martha Layne Collins told the crowd gathered at the new Berea Industrial Park that Kentucky is gaining prominence in the world economy, saying that "Tokico's presence in Berea enhances the recognition Kentucky is gaining throughout the world." Gov. Collins joined Chairman Abe of Tokico Ltd., and Hisashi Nishigohri, president of Tokico Manufacturing Corp., in the traditional groundbreaking and also the traditional Japanese ceremony. The latter, featuring the opening of the sake barrel and the Japanese toast, was conducted by Commerce Secretary Carroll Knicely.

The new plant will manufacture automotive shock absorbers. Nishigohri said the plant will supply the company's Japanese and American automobile customers. Both Abe and Nishigohri praised the support given by the state of Kentucky and the local community.

Initial employment during the first phases of the company's operation, which is expected to begin in October of 1988, will be 60. Initial investment in the 28,600 square-foot facility will be $5 million, with an additional $15 million to be invested by 1993. With the expansion, employment will increase to 150.

Secretary Knicely said Berea's investment of local resources in the new industrial park helped the city to attract the new Tokico plant. He said the state Commerce Cabinet has talked with Tokico officials about employee training, but that no cost figures have been determined.

County Studies Home Sentence Vs. Jail Time

By Tim Sizemore

Soon lawbreakers in Floyd county may experience an official form of cabin fever.

David Barber, commonwealth attorney, stated that a home incarceration program is currently under study for the county, and may go into effect in the near future.

Barber who just returned from a prosecutors' convention, said that the program has been successful in four Kentucky counties and has effectively cut the cost of jail administration.

The program as outlined would consist of a 30-day mandatory sentence at home, allowing the participant only to attend work. A person qualifying for the program must either have a phone or spend their sentence near someone who does so they can be contacted day or night by the jailer. The violator will be expected to pay a fee of $10 per day and have someone go their bond. The names of those participating in the program will be given to a deputy from their district, and if they are caught away from home without a permit, an escape warrant will be issued, which is a felony charge.

Barber said that only minor offenders would qualify for the program, such as first and second offense D.U.I. or petty theft.

The jail, he explained, collects a $10 bed and board fee for each day served. With the home incarceration program, Barber feels that the money collected could go into a jail fund to help defray the cost of upkeep of the facilities. Also the proposal has the added attraction of easing the overcrowding conditions at the jail.

The prisoner would have the option to serve a regular jail sentence or participate in the program, Barber said.

The public is encouraged to address comments about the proposal to the commonwealth attorney's office.

May Their Tribe Increase

With apologies to Thomas Wolfe, you can go home again.

Especially is that true, if home is Abbott Road, (We called it Abbott Creek). Recently, after a rugged bus trip, I stood on the corner of Court Street and Lake Drive in Prestonsburg.

Having learned in Paintsville that my prospective hostess had recently died, I came on by instinct homing instinct? My physical handicap was at its worst, and I was loaded with luggage, never having learned to travel light. Personnel from the pharmacy fountain across the street rescued me and took me to a table inside.

From there one of them took me up dear ole Abbott in his car.

Alta Hall and her daughter seem to run a Hall's House of Hospitality for I seem not to be the first wayfarer to have been welcomed inside. I lived the life of Riley for more than a week, getting over the exhaustion of a long journey.

There have been changes. The Bee Fork school house where we learned our ABC's is not there. I saw no corn on the hillside, and neither did I see one mule our old method of transportation. The roads—how they have improved.

Yes, there are many changes physically, but the hearts in the highlands have not changed.

Mr. Caudill wrote "Night Comes to the Cumberlands". But darkness cannot dim the glow of warmth and compassion that thrives in the hearts of our mountaineers. They will continue to say "Come in, have something to eat, stay all night with us."

May their tribes increase.

Excellent Care

Recently my mother was a patient at Highlands Regional Medical Center. While there we were so impressed with the excellent care she received. From a patient on the floor—to ICU, the nurses were so caring and responsible. The doctors in this facility merit our praise also. The food service department, respiratory care and social services were quite commendable.

Truly, we in Eastern Kentucky can be proud of such a facility. Highlands Regional Medical Center has my family's support.

Older Women Are Asked Views On Early Suffrage Movement

By Jeff Weddle

A project is underway to record the feelings and memories of mountain women regarding the suffrage movement.

Betty Nave, assistant professor of English at Kentucky State University, and Linda Wireman, her former student and now partner, have been awarded a $1,900 grant from the Kentucky Oral History Commission, and are engaged in a project to interview older women from Eastern Kentucky to find what they experienced during the early days of women's involvement in political activism.

Nave said the pair has already interviewed five women in Floyd county and seven in Pike, and hope to talk to at least another dozen before completing the project. "We're in the process of doing what the name implies," said Nave. "We're tape recording people in order to preserve their stories." She said topics of discussion include social, political and economic issues.

After the interviews are complete, the tapes will be stored at the University of Kentucky library and at the state library in Frankfort. At both places, special, climate-controlled areas will be set up to preserve the tapes from deterioration. The interview subjects will also be given copies of the tapes.

There are no definite plans on what else will be done with the study. Nave said there is a possibility she will write an article for a scholarly journal on her experience. She said also that she and Wireman might distill the interviews into a dramatic performance for the stage. She stressed that if this was done, names would be changed and no one would be quoted directly.

To prepare for the interviews, the women began by studying old newspapers from the area. Nave said that issues of the Times yielded the surprising fact that only in 1930, 10 years after women got the right to vote, did the first woman work at the polls in Floyd county.

The average age of the interview subjects is between 80 and 85, said Nave. She said they had talked with one lady who is 90. Most of their contacts have come from Floyd and Pike senior citizens centers.

Nave said the project is important because it will help provide a new perspective on history. "So much of what we put in history books comes from what important people in public places have had to say about events," she said. "We're just beginning to discover women's stories, and that's the sort of thing that tells how life has been."

She said the idea for the project grew out of a course she taught on women's literature at KSU. Wireman, a student in that course, is a native of this region and "loves her roots."

"We did a lot of reading of women writers not in the anthologies," said Nave. She pointed out that far more male writers are studied in American colleges, and that in their readings they "suddenly found a number of blank spaces." They hope to fill in some of those blanks with this research.

The interviews usually last about a half-hour, but Nave and Wireman will continue a session as long as the subject wants to share her memories. One conversation lasted an hour-and-a-half, after the subject began by telling the interviewers "I don't have anything to say."

Nave and Wireman will be conducting interviews here again beginning Monday, July 27. Interested parties should call Nave collect at (606) 866-3585, or Wireman at (502) 875-4350.

Archer Park Funds Approved by Senate

By Jeff Weddle

Funding for improvements at Archer Park's senior citizens center was approved this week, according to a spokeswoman for Senator Mitch McConnell.

A grant of $24,259 was effective yesterday (Tuesday), according to press aide Jill Logan. It will be used for a two-phase project.

In phase one, a croquet court, shuffleboard surface, horseshoe pits, nature trail and picnic shelter with benches will be added in the Peppermint Park area. Phase two calls for the replacement of the foot bridge which crosses Middle Creek, there. The children's play area will be kept, but confined to a smaller area.

Patsy Evans, center director, said recently that, on average, 60 members visit the center every day. Sometimes that figure climbs to more than 100.

Park Board Chairman Bill Ray Collins said a spokesman for the state Land and Water Conservation Fund indicated that one reason the grant was funded was because the request for senior citizen's facilities was unique. He said no other community applied for similar funding, adding that he hopes Prestonsburg will serve as an example for other cities with regard to such programs for their older citizens.

The city applied for the grant about eight-and-a-half months ago, with hopes of getting enough money to replace the Archer Park swimming pool, also. Collins said the LWCF refused to fund pool construction, because it was only used seasonally. He said that renovation has since been done on the pool, and that it is in "the best shape it's been in eight years."

According to a Department of Local Government press release, the grant was not awarded in an earlier funding selection process because of the demand made on the state's limited annual parks and recreation appropriation from the National Park Service.

Reclamation Contract Awarded By Cabinet

Gov. Martha Layne Collins has announced that a contract for reclamation of abandoned mines in eastern Floyd county has been awarded by the state Finance and Administration Cabinet.

Coalfields Reclamation Inc. of Betsy Layne was awarded the contract based on a low bid of $64,263. The project is located adjacent to the Floyd-Pike county line, five miles north of Galveston. The contract calls for channel restoration and bank stabilization work.

The work will be completed in September.

Charged in Girl's Murder, Jacobs Seeks Mental Test

Psychological testing has been ordered by Knott county Judge Robert Morgan in the case of Clawvern Jacobs, after hearing defense attorneys explain bizarre beliefs held by Jacobs.

Jacobs is charged with the murder, abduction and attempted rape of Alice Lloyd College student, Judy Ann Howard, of Martin county, in Sept. 1986. Jacobs was diagnosed in 1980 as having serious mental problems and was suffering from delusions that make his defense impossible, Jacobs' attorneys explained.

Gary Johnson, one of Jacobs' attorneys, said that Jacobs wished for him to keep secret his beliefs, which Johnson said were "apocalyptic and messianic delusion because he is a member of a secret organization. Those are the words he told me to use, the secret organization prevents him from talking about it."

Johnson said, "If you didn't have enough grounds already to order this man evaluated, then that just gave it."

The testing is to determine Jacobs competency at the present time and not his sanity at the time of the offense.

Judge Morgan agreed with prosecutor Barbara Whaley of the state Attorney General's office, that the defense had ample time to prepare their case, because of the delays.

Attorneys for Jacobs counter, saying they only found out about Jacobs mental condition by accident.

They say a diagnosis in 1980 revealed organic brain syndrome, which is brain damage that can be permanent, and maintain that Jacobs has a "fluctuating psychosis with paranoid thought processes." The attorneys also contend that Jacobs is heavily medicated and suffers from headaches and acute alcoholism.

Jacobs also attempted suicide while in custody in the Knott county jail.

Jacobs has not instructed his attorneys to "inform the court of his delusion—we are ethically bound by it" the defense stated.

Attorney Gary Johnson said a report by a Dr. Maggard on Jacobs mental condition could be released if Jacobs changed his mind.

Prosecution council Whaley expressed dismay at the postponement, after nine months of Jacobs remaining in jail, and that Jacobs had been examined without the knowledge of the commonwealth. Whaley also felt more testing down the pike could cause further delays.

A pre-trial hearing is set for September 10 and the trial date is October 26.

Prestonsburg's Firefighters Give 100% To Attain Area's Best Rating

By Joe Porter

When Fire Chief Thomas A. Blackburn started with the Prestonsburg Fire Department in October 1966 the department had a desk, a telephone, and two pumps. He was one of three paid firemen. Today there are 12 full-time firemen, 22 volunteers, a computer to retrieve information, five fire trucks, and two stations serving the community.

Not only has the department grown in size, but it's also grown in its ability to fight a fire and meet any emergency situation. Preparedness is what the department strives for. "Our goal is to stay as well-trained and modern as possible," Blackburn said, "and be prepared to cope with any situation that might arise."

If you live in town, and there's a fire in your house or business, the department will be there within three to five minutes after the call comes in. But reaction time is just one reason why the department has the highest rating of any fire department in eastern Kentucky. The Insurance Service Office (I.S.O.) rates every fire department based on their equipment, maintenance records, water supply, personnel, and the time it takes them to respond to a fire. Prestonsburg has a Class IV rating, which qualifies its citizens for the lowest insurance premiums.

Many things go in to making a strong firefighting force, but first of all it must have men who know what they're doing, and leaders who can direct less experienced men in putting out a blaze. Leadership is the strength of Blackburn's department. "I've got officers working now who, if I quit tomorrow, could take over for me, and we wouldn't suffer," Blackburn said.

The chain of command is set in the department. After Blackburn, there is Major Paul Chaffins, and following him are captains Larry Adams and Paul Burke. Then come the sergeants and firefighters, and finally, the volunteers. "I've got the manpower to move up and fill in if I lost a man," the chief said.

The department is built on a base of volunteers. Blackburn was once one, as were Chaffins, Adams, and Burke, and the rest of the men, too. All started out donating their time and energy, learning as they went. "If you ask any of us what's the difference between a volunteer and a fulltime man, the answer is money," Adams said. According to Adams who is the city's fire inspector, it's not that one is always more qualified than the other, for some of the volunteers have been on the force for five or six years. Tom Hereford, the newest paid member of the department, was a volunteer for seven years.

According to Blackburn it takes years to learn all the materials and skills needed to become a qualified fireman, and he believes in giving his volunteers responsibilities from the start. "I don't want to limit them," Blackburn said. "Volunteers in some departments are expected to take the ladder off the truck, and that's about it. If you don't challenge the men, they stay ordinary people. They won't grow."

While a volunteer can join the department at 16, he or she can't enter a burning structure until they are 18. Yet Blackburn and the other officers provide the volunteers with the experience and skills needed to make them ready when they do turn 18.

"It's great. I love it," said Jim Conley, a 17-year-old volunteer. "I've already attended the state fire school in Lexington. Some day I'm looking forward to being a paid man. That's my goal."

But whether the firefighter is a paid man or a volunteer, they must attend fire drills the first and third Monday of every month. They have to take First Aid and CPR, and they're encouraged to get as much schooling and training as possible. Every paid member is required to have a high school diploma or GED, and some members have college backgrounds. "The better educated we are, the better we fight fires," Blackburn said. "The training is the most important thing."

Yet firefighting is only part of the what the department does. In 1978 they started their rescue unit, which is assembled on the Squad 6 truck. Today, 19 members of the department are certified Emergency Medical Technicians.

In 1983 they added a diving team. Sergeant Kenny Crisp, a master scuba diver, attended a special diving school in Hamilton county, Ohio, then later trained in evidence gathering. Sergeant Bob Carpenter and firefighter Mike Moore have also received training. Now the team responds to drowning accidents, floods, and water search operations for the state police.

In the last year, Prestonsburg has been plagued with bomb threats. In response to that problem, the fire department has trained 26 bomb search technicians. In April, Prestonsburg hosted the first training session in the area on bomb search operations. "Larry Adams got training films and taught the class," Blackburn said. "We hid the bombs and had the students search for them, using the proper techniques."

Chaffins, who works as the city's Fire Marshall and Building Inspector, is the county's coordinator for its Disaster Emergency Services. Using the County Annex as his base of operations, Chaffins said their job is to coordinate disaster assistance in the form of evacuation, rescue, deliver food and medical supplies, and assist the Red Cross. "If you can prepare for a disaster—a flood or an earthquake—you can cope with any other emergency," Blackburn said.

Being prepared is the goal, but to get there, it takes commitment and dedication. "The fire department comes first," Blackburn said. "Everything else comes after that. I put the fire department before my family." And the Chief isn't the only man who gives 100 percent. "Each paid man has given up a lot for the fire department itself. They're the best firefighters we've ever had." Blackburn's grandfather, Arthur Blackburn, was the city's first paid Fire

Chief, and his father Vernon Blackburn was also a Fire Chief. And when he was a small boy, he used to ride on the truck to all the fires, sitting on the booster between the two spools. Today when there is a fire, he drives his red Chevy pickup. Once on the scene, he takes charge and directs his men with a walkie-talkie. The ladders go up, the hoses are dragged out, and the water pours. Not a minute is wasted. Everyone is moving. Everyone knows what to do. Everyone is prepared. They're the Prestonsburg Fire Department.

Tax Reform Is Changing Real Estate Financing

Tax reform is changing the financing of investment real estate. According to a National Association of Realtors' spring 1987 survey of commercial transactions, investors are returning to economic fundamentals, and are borrowing less and using more of their own money to buy investment properties.

The overhaul of federal tax laws curtailed the tax shelter advantages of purchasing commercial real estate, and implemented provisions that force investors to set investment goals around properties that generate income.

According to the NAR survey, conducted by the forecasting and policy analysis division, commercial office properties were sold for the highest average sales price of all types of investment properties. The average sales price was $1.613 million, with an average down payment of $573,000.

Industrial buildings sold for an average of $1.41 million, including a $622,600 down payment. The average sales price of multifamily apartment or condominium projects was $1.25 million, including a $622,600 down payment.

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 caused a substantial loss in tax savings benefits for investors who are not actively involved in property operations. According to the act, "passive losses" (expenses and depreciation from passive investments) can be deducted only against "passive income" (income generated from passive investments.) The regulations apply to purchases made on or after Oct. 22, 1986, the date the act was signed into law. For previous purchases, the law phases out passive loss deductibility against non-passive income over a five-year period.

The survey reported an overall average interest rate of 9.53 percent for first mortgages and 9.94 percent for second mortgages for investment financing, with payment terms lasting about 19 years and 11-and-a-half years, respectively.

For retail properties, the first mortgage terms were 18.7 years at a 9.71 percent rate. For office properties, first mortgage terms were 17.7 years at a 9.57 percent rate. For multifamily properties, first mortgage terms were 21.8 years at a 9.71 percent rate. For industrial properties, first mortgage terms were 15.5 years at a 9.44 percent rate.

Nearly 60 percent of the transactions reported in the survey were financed solely with a first mortgage; 20 percent involved a first and second mortgage. Multifamily purchases were the most likely to involve two mortgages, with the second mortgage rate averaging 9.68 percent. About 2 percent were financed with three mortgages. An additional 20 percent were all cash arrangements, with industrial projects the most likely to be purchased without mortgage financing.

More than 60 percent of the first mortgages for investment properties were provided by commercial banks and savings and loan institutions. Industrial and office properties were most likely to be financed by commercial banks; while multifamily projects were most likely to be financed by S&Ls. Seller financing and assumptions accounted for 15 percent and 13 percent of first mortgages, respectively. Pension funds, life insurance companies, industrial revenue bonds, private investors and other sources comprised the remaining 10 percent.

Performs At Colleges

Wendy Jeanna Cieslak performed with the Prestonsburg Community College Dance Concert held at Faith Chapel, Pikeville College and also at Prestonsburg Community College June 5 and 6.

She danced a ballet solo to the music "Flight of the Bumble Bee" by Rimsky Korsahoff. The dance was choreographed by Robin Carlson, dance instructor at PCC, with whom Miss Cieslak has studied for three semesters.

She is the daughter of Leonard and Patricia Lawson Cieslak, of McDowell. Her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cieslak, Sr., of McKees Rocks, Pennsylvania and her maternal grandparents are Dixie Lawson, of McDowell, and the late Dewey Lawson.

Families Needed Now For Exchange Students

Pam Gilkerson is making an urgent plea to host families who will invite a foreign exchange student into their home for the 1987/88 academic year.

She is the Eastern Ky. Area Representative for Educational Foundation for Foreign Study a non-profit organization which arranges high school exchanges. Students arrive here in just a few weeks and many have yet to be placed with host families.

The difficulty in placing students this year is unprecedented. For some reason American families are not volunteering in their usual numbers.

According to Gilkerson, "Its not only a case of families not having much surplus income. Economic difficulties have been with us for a long time, but we've never had as much trouble placing students before. Besides people in the less affluent states are some of the most willing to host. We're looking for happy, caring homes for our students, not necessarily wealthy ones."

Here are some details for those Eastern Kentucky families who have an interest in international friendship and an extra bed. You can pick your own student, all of whom speak English, have good grades, and will bring their own spending money and insurance. They have a real desire to learn about the "American way of life." The host family doesn't necessarily have to have children in high school.

If you, or someone you know, would be interested in hosting an exchange student, please call 606-789-7183.

The Islam Religion Is Examined On KET

Since the 7th century A.D. when Muslims believe the Prophet Muhammad received the word of God from Gabriel, Islam has grown to be one of the world's three great monotheistic religions. The many facets of Islam are illuminated when "Smithsonian World" presents "Islam" this evening (Wednesday), at 9 p.m. on KET.

"Islam" illuminates this little-understood religion, exploring its Judeo-Christian roots, numerous achievements, current resurgence, and likely future religious, social and cultural force. In Cairo and in Islam's sacred city, Mecca, and in interviews with educators and diplomats, "Smithsonian World" host David McCullough provides Westerners with a rare glimpse into the principles and beliefs that guide Muslim life.

The special offers an important historical religious perspective in its examination of theocracy in present-day Iran, where decades of repression and a headlong rush to modernize presented a situation in which the conservative religious leader Ayatollah Khomeini was able to seize power. There, the Shi'ite majority represents "an oppressed, suffering brotherhood," notes the program's host. "Their piety is distinguished by a mystical sadness and a deeply felt passion." Martyrdom, McCullough explains, is the highest calling for a Shi'ite Muslim; a Shi'ite believes that by sacrificing his life in a holy cause, he passes directly into paradise.

"Smithsonian World" is produced by WETA/Washington, D.C., in association with the Smithsonian Institution.

ACP SIGNUP TO BEGIN SOON

Signup for fall seedings, cover crops, etc. began July 1 in Floyd county and will start July 15 for Knott county farmers. Anyone who is interested in completing a seeding practice this fall must apply before August 15. We are also accepting applications for timberland improvement and tree planting.

Anyone who is interested should contact us as soon as possible as funds are short and needs determinations must be made prior to approval. Practices started before approval are ineligible.

Stuart Anthology Is Again Available

Jesse Stuart's "Kentucky Is My Land" anthology is again in print and on sale to the public, according to Jesse Stuart Foundation Executive Director James Gifford.

"This 107 page hardback includes the "Kentucky Is My Land" poem which has been so popular in Kentucky since Jesse penned it in 1946," he said. The Jesse Stuart Foundation is indebted to Ashland Oil, Inc. for underwriting the reprinting.

"Ashland Oil has donated a copy of the anthology to every public high school library in the state as a part of the company's continuing emphasis on quality education. Ashland Oil's campaign earlier this year to raise Kentuckians' appreciation of their state used the "Kentucky Is My Land" theme.

"It is a very fitting conclusion to that program that the company has underwritten the reprinting of this book and provided gift copies to schools across the Commonwealth," he said.

"Kentucky Is My Land" is available from the Jesse Stuart Foundation, P. O. Box 391, Ashland, Kentucky 41114. Proceeds from the sale will be used to reprint other Stuart books now out of print.

Good Housekeeping

The Better Way...

FOOD POISONING... Outdoor barbecues increase the chances of getting food poisoning from Salmonella bacteria, especially for people taking antibiotics. The Better Way in Good Housekeeping's July issue explains why. Genetically different strains of Salmonella now found in meats and poultry are resistant to some antibiotics because of the widespread practice of adding antibiotics to animal feed. As a result, Salmonella, often present in these animals, have become resistant to the antibiotics, and are then passed on to the people who eat the meat and poultry.

Here are some tips for reducing the risks of Salmonella:

- + Defrost meats and poultry in the refrigerator.
- + Wash all surfaces that come in contact with raw meats and/or meat juices—including your hands—with hot, soapy water.

- + Cook poultry and ground meats thoroughly. Don't eat rare or even medium-rare hamburger.
- + Keep cooked foods hot until they are served; refrigerate leftovers.

VIDEOTAPE CARE TIPS... Blank videotapes may all look alike, but they don't all perform the same way, reports The Better Way in Good Housekeeping's July issue. Here from the Good Housekeeping Institute are some of the things you should know before you buy tapes, and what to do to keep them and your VCR in top working order:

- + Never buy unfamiliar "bargain brands" that are less than $4 per tape. They'll give you poorer images, clog your VCR's heads, and some may even damage the heads.
- + Look for VHS logo; it assures that the tape meets or exceeds specific minimum standards.
- + After watching a tape, don't rewind it until you're ready to play it again.
- + Store tape cassettes in original cardboard or plastic sleeves, upright, full reels on top, away from heat, cold, and direct sunlight. Keep tapes away from electronic equipment, especially stereo speakers.

HELP FOR FOOT PROBLEMS... More than 100 million Americans have some kind of foot problem. Here, from The Better Way in Good Housekeeping's July issue, is some advice on how several common foot ailments should and should not be handled:

- + Ingrown toenails. Toenail grows into the skin surrounding nail. Usually caused by cutting your toenails too short. Prevent it by cutting toenails straight across, leaving them a little long—just reaching the tip of the toe. Treatment: Soak foot in lukewarm water to decrease swelling and redness. Wait for the nail to grow and cut it properly.
- + Bunions: They're not caused by tight shoes. Most sufferers are women and the tendency is usually inherited. To prevent bunions, or delay them, avoid badly fitting shoes. Keep the muscles of the middle of your foot strong with exercises like pointing your foot and rising onto the balls of your feet.

Plantar wart: Caused by a virus which invades through tiny cracks in the skin. It is picked up where people go barefoot—pools, shower rooms and gyms. To prevent: Use rubber thongs in public showers and on the beach. Treatment: Soak foot in lukewarm water and apply an over-the-counter dissolving agent once a day. If it doesn't work in four to six weeks, see a podiatrist.

CARD OF THANKS
The family of Easter Brown Stone extend their appreciation to all those friends, neighbors and loved ones who helped comfort them during this time of sorrow. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers or spoke words of comfort. A special thanks to the Doctors and nurses at the Highlands Regional Medical Center, the minister, Raymond Wright, the singers, and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient services.

Civil War Reunion Sept. In Bardstown

History will come alive in Bardstown September 12-13, when the Orphan Brigade Centennial Reunion is staged with pomp and pageantry.

The reunion will re-create the ceremonies that were a part of the 1887 event, an affair made memorable by the inclusion of Union troops, guests of their Confederate counterparts.

The First Kentucky Infantry Brigade of Confederate soldiers was commonly called the Orphan Brigade.

The nickname may have been earned because the troops were cut off from their home state by the Union army, or because two of the brigade's commanders were killed in battle.

The Orphans are regarded by historians as a brave and devoted group, the elite of the Confederate Army.

The Brigade, formed in 1861 at Bowling Green, originally numbered 5000. By 1864, battle and disease had reduced that number to 1,420. At the time of surrender, there were fewer than 200 men alive.

In 1887, more than 200 veterans and members of their families met in Bardstown.

The day's events included a ceremony at the cemetery, a gathering at St. Joseph College, and a lavish banquet and ball.

The Centennial Reunion will mirror these events, beginning with a ceremony at the Confederate monument in the Bardstown cemetery on the morning of Sept. 12th.

Following, several events are planned, including a welcoming ceremony at Spalding Hall, formerly St. Joseph's College.

A banquet and ball, complete with costumed men and women performing 19th Century dances, is planned.

Re-enactors, representing Confederate and Union troops, will participate in the events, and will stage a mock battle on Sunday, Sept. 13th, at 1 p.m.

Many other activities, including a replica of a Civil War camp, are scheduled.

The Nelson County Historical Society has comprised a list of participants in the 1887 reunion. There were 237 names in published accounts of that event.

Planners of the September event would like to recognize descendants of the original Orphan Brigade members. Anyone with knowledge of Brigade members or their descendants, is encouraged to contact the planning committee at Box 172, Bardstown, Ky. 40004.

A brochure listing time and places of specific events is also available from the same address.

Mental Health Picnic Honors Shirley Hughes

The 1987 Community Mental Health/Eastern State Hospital picnic will be held Wednesday, July 29, at 40 a.m.-2 p.m., Shelter 3, at Dewey Dam.

This will be the 15th annual picnic and will be attended by groups from the five county area served by the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center. Local church groups, representatives from various agencies and interested citizens participate with staff from MCCC and Eastern State Hospital to hold this annual event.

The previous picnics were planned and arranged by Mrs. Shirley C. Hughes, of Prestonsburg, who died in October, 1986. The 1987 picnic has been designated as Shirley Hughes Day, to recognize Mrs. Hughes' efforts in past years as well as her life-long contribution to the community mental health effort in this area.

Everyone in the community is invited to attend the Shirley Hughes Day ceremony, July 29. Any contributions of food or other items can be delivered to the MCCC office at 18 South Front Avenue in Prestonsburg before 11:30 a.m. July 29.

Noted Authors Hold Autograph Session
By Tim Sizemore

An autograph session was held Friday on the porch of the Harkins Law office by two noted Kentucky authors, George Ella Lyon and Ron Eller.

George Ella Lyon, a native of Harlan county, who now resides in Lexington, is the author of numerous children's books. Ron Eller a West Virginia native, currently is the director of the Appalachian Center at the University of Kentucky, and the author of 'Miners, Millhands and Mountaineers,' a book about life in Appalachia.

A workshop was held at Jenny Wiley State Park for school administrators from around the state, at which Lyon and Eller were guest speakers. The workshop was sponsored by the National Endowment for the Arts and the Kentucky Humanities Council. The purpose of the workshop was to instill a sense of community commitment and to stress the historical aspects of the community, said Eller.

Mothers from around the area brought their children to meet George Ella Lyon and have their books autographed by the author. Mr. Eller in explaining his book to a tot said, "It is a book about our grandparents, and how they lived and worked."

The autograph session was sponsored by the Bookworm bookstore.

Three-Fourths Of Nation Home To Cancer-Linked Toxic Dumps

More than three-fourths of the counties in the continental United States are home to toxic waste dumps which have been linked to increased incidence of cancer.

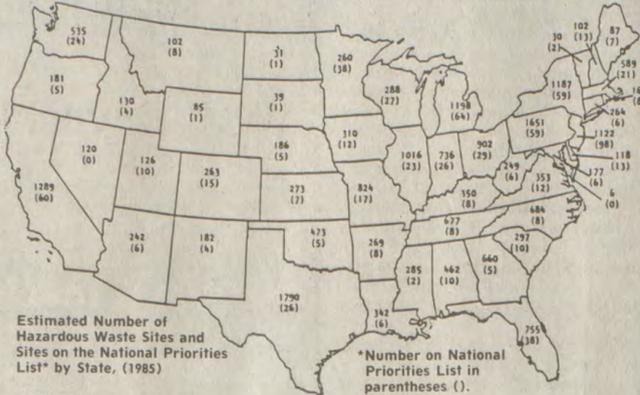

Moreover, those sites associated with the highest rates of cancer are not necessarily those on the National Priorities List, the so-called "Superfund" list intended to identify and schedule for clean-up the nation's most dangerous dumps, said Mary Harmon, a research sociologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"When we compared the rates of cancer in counties with Superfund dumps with the rates in counties with non-Superfund dumps we found no difference, and we should have according to the intent of the Superfund legislation," Harmon said.

"These findings suggest that the incidence, not just the risk, but the actual occurrence, of respiratory and digestive cancer in counties with one or more toxic waste dumps is higher than in areas without dumps, even when other causes of cancer have been taken into account," Harmon said.

Harmon, working with fellow researcher Louis Swanson, found that the incidence of respiratory and digestive cancer increases as the number of toxic dumps in a county increases. Fayette county, the home of UK, has nine toxic waste dumps.

"People often aren't aware of the presence of dumps in their county. There is a popular conception that such dumps are found only in rural areas. That's not the case. Kentucky is a rural state with 120 counties. Only 80, or two-thirds, have toxic waste dumps. Three fourths of the counties in the United States have toxic waste dumps. I'd say that many rural areas are home to toxic waste dumps, and that probably most urban areas are," Swanson said.

Estimated Number of Hazardous Waste Sites and Sites on the National Priorities List* by State, (1985)

"They measure the distance from the dump to inhabited areas and water supplies and subtract points the further away the dump is. The dumps with the most points go on the list, regardless of what's in the dump, how much of it is in the dump, or how dangerous the substance is known to be," Harmon said.

The Environmental Protection Agency has found that up to 80 percent of the nation's toxic wastes are dumped on the sites where they are used.

"Where there is a factory or plant which uses toxic chemicals, there is a tendency for people just to dump the stuff out the back door, so to speak. And to the extent that factories and manufacturing plants are found in cities, so too are toxic waste dumps found in and near cities," Harmon said.

The study, funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, further pointed out that the "Superfund" which was intended to identify the most dangerous dumps and schedule them for clean-up is evidently not being implemented effectively.

The Environmental Protection Agency, which administers the Superfund, essentially uses a yardstick to determine which dumps are most dangerous. The procedure for putting a dump on the Superfund simply measures how close the dump is to inhabited areas and water supplies.

AL-ANON IS IT FOR YOU?

Millions of people are affected by the excessive drinking of someone close. The following twenty questions are designed to help you decide whether or not you need Al-Anon:

1. Do you worry about how much someone else drinks?
2. Do you have money problems because of someone else's drinking?
3. Do you tell lies to cover up for someone's else's drinking?
4. Do you feel that if the drinker loved you, he or she would stop drinking to please you?
5. Do you think that the drinker's behavior is caused by his or her companions?
6. Are routines frequently upset or meals delayed because of the drinker?
7. Do you make threats, such as, "If you don't stop drinking, I'll leave you"?
8. When you kiss the drinker hello, do you secretly try to smell his or her breath?
9. Are you afraid to upset someone for fear it will set off a drinking bout?
10. Have you been hurt or embarrassed by a drinker's behavior?
11. Does it seem as if every holiday is spoiled because of drinking?
12. Have you considered calling the police for help in fear of abuse?
13. Do you find yourself searching for hidden liquor?
14. Do you often ride in a car with a driver who has been drinking?
15. Have you refused social invitations out of fear or anxiety?
16. Do you sometimes feel like a failure when you think of the lengths you have gone to control the drinker?
17. Do you think that if the drinker stopped drinking, your other problems would be solved?
18. Do you ever threaten to hurt yourself to scare the drinker?
19. Do you feel angry, confused and depressed most of the time?
20. Do you feel there is no one who understands your problems?

If you have answered yes to three or more of these questions, Al-Anon or Alateen may help. You can contact Al-Anon or Alateen by calling 886-2893. AL-ANON FAMILY GROUP HEADQUARTERS INC., P.O. Box 182, Madison Square Station, New York, N.Y. 10159-0182

Social Security Disability Reviews

Do you receive Social Security or Supplemental Security Income (SSI) disability checks? If so, you should know that your case will be reviewed from time to time. This is to make sure you continue to meet all requirements for benefits.

The timing of your review will depend on the nature and severity of your impairment, the likelihood of improvement, and other factors. A review could be scheduled as early as 6 months after your first month of eligibility if you have an injury or illness that is expected to improve. Or you may be reviewed only every 3 to 5 years if your impairment is considered more permanent and less likely to get better.

After you get a written notice someone will interview you to explain the review process and your appeal and other rights. You will be asked how your impairment keeps you from working and about your medical treatment and any work you may have done since the latest decision.

Your case then will be reviewed by an agency in your State that makes disability decisions on behalf of the Social Security Administration. The people there will request medical reports from sources that treated you. If additional medical evidence is needed and it is not available from your sources, a special examination or test at government expense may be arranged.

You will be notified in writing when a decision has been made. Benefits generally will continue unless evidence shows that your impairment has improved and you are able to do substantial gainful work. There are some limited exceptions, but they apply in relatively few cases.

If a decision is made that you are no longer disabled, you can appeal the decision and request continued payment. You can meet with a decision-maker during the first appeal step (reconsideration) to explain why you feel you are still disabled. If you appeal within 10 days after receiving the notice, you can request to have benefits continue. You can do this through the second appeal step (decision by an administrative law judge); if you later lose the appeal, however, you must repay any benefits that were not due you.

For more information about disability reviews, contact the Big Sandy Area Social Security office on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under U.S. Government.

The children of
Arthur & Oma Hughes
invite all their family and friends to join in the celebration of their parents'
Golden Wedding Anniversary with a reception Sunday afternoon
July 26, from 2 until 4 p.m. at May Lodge.
The couple requests no gifts.

OBSERVE 51ST ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Osborne observed their 51st wedding anniversary, Sunday, July 19. This announcement was made during services at the First Presbyterian Church, where they have long been active members. They have the best wishes of a host of friends and relatives.

VISIT FAMILIES, HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Burchett, II, and son, Woodrow, III, of Delaware, Ohio, have been here for a visit with relatives, including their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Burchett, Mr. and Mrs. Gale Music, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen and family, and Mrs. Roscoe Branham. While here, they attended services, at the Floyd Funeral Home for a family friend, Mid DeRossett.

RETURN FROM VISIT

Dr. and Mrs. Tim Jessen and children, Ruth, Paul, and Chris, returned to their home here during the weekend, following a visit with his mother, Mrs. Eunice Jessen, in New York, and her mother, Mrs. Frank Turnbull, in Berea. Bringing the messages at he First Presbyterian Church, where the Rev. Jessen is pastor, during his absence were Atty. Arnold Turner, with music supplied by members of the Jenny Wiley summer theatre, and Dr. Jim Bearman, of Alice Lloyd College, with special music by Mrs. Bearman.

VISITING FATHER, HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Joby Ousley, of Ohio, are visting with her father, Jerry Hackworth, at his home on the Abbott Road. Sunday, they attended the foot-washing meeting at the Bonanza United Baptist Church.

ENTERTAINS TO DINNER

Mrs. Laura Virginia Roberts Collins, of Boca Raton, Florida, has been here for a visit with relatives and friends. Sunday of last week, she was hostess to a dinner, at the home of her late mother, Mrs. Lack Roberts. Enjoying her hospitality were Mesdames May K. Roberts, Douglas Perry, Josephine Fields, Geneva Rawlands, and Anna May Mellon.

RETURN TO GEORGIA

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Warrix have returned to their home on St. Simon's Island, Georgia, following a week's visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W.F. Warrix and Mrs. Martha Hicks, and other relatives.

FLORAL TRIBUTES

Flowers on the altar of the First United Methodist Church, during services there, Sunday morning, were in honor of Isaac Neil Cottrell, born June 25 in Lexington, the son of Fred and Kathy Cottrell, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cottrell, Sr., and Mrs. Kathrine Hughes; in honor of Sloane Dixon Onskt on her birthday from her family, and in honor of Kevin and Ronna Yeager, on their third wedding anniversary.

Club Calendar

REBEKAH LODGE MEETS

The regular semi-monthly meeting of Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 was held July 7 at 7:30 p.m., at the L.O.O.F. Hall with Mrs. Mabel Jean LeMaster, noble grand, presiding.

Members who were sick or otherwise in need were recorded, and cards, to be mailed to them, were signed. The noble grand gave a report on the District Meeting held June 20 at Inez. A report was given on a meeting attended by members at the Lexington Rebekah Lodge, July 2, when the state president made her official visit to that lodge.

Present for Tuesday's meeting were Mesdames Mabel Jean LeMaster, Beverly Hackworth, Lorena Wallen, Paulena Owens, Emma Lou Horn, Virginia Goble, Violetta Wright, Maman Leslie, Dottie Lafferty, and Myrtle Allen.

UNITED METHODIST WOMEN MEET

The monthly meeting of the First United Methodist Women was held Monday, July 6, at 7 p.m. in the church parlor. Mrs. Hope Whitten, vice president, conducted the meeting due to the absence of the president. Mrs. Fannie Runnels read from Psalm 19 and led the group in prayer.

The chairman read parts of the "Grapevine," and the chairman presented Mrs. Rose Glenn, who was in charge of the program on volunteers mission and the trip to Costa Rica. She presented slides and a V.C.R. pertaining to her tour of Juanita Maria. She talked extensively about her experiences there and the hard work, and the joy of working to help others. She concluded her program by showing many souvenirs from Costa Rica.

Hostesses, Mrs. Mable Brown and Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey served refreshments to Mesdames Rose Glenn, Hope Whitten, Roslyn Burchett, Edna C. Greenwade, Mildred Branham, Roberta Davidson, Fannie Runnels, Alice Harris, Josephine Fields, May K. Roberts, Virginia Jeffries, Victoria Spradlin, Nancy P. Webb, Jane Wallace, Anna Mae Mellon, Dorothy Wells, Mabel Jean LeMaster, and a guest, Leigh Boswell.

Hostesses for the August meeting will be Rose Glenn and Mildred Branham.

VACATION AT MYRTLE BEACH

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Leslie and sons, Nathan and Michael, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Walters, and daughters, Jennifer and Jessica, and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Wells, and daughters, Charlotte and Stephanie, have returned from Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, where they spent several days.

HERE FROM NASHVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wellman, of Nashville, were here during the 4th of July holiday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Martin, his aunts, Miss Alice Harris, Mesdames Fannie Runnels and Minnie Grace Sutherland, and other relatives.

CONDITION IS SATISFACTORY

The condition of Robert W. Sloan, formerly of this area, now of Lexington, who has been ill, is satisfactory, it has been learned by relatives, here. Mr. Sloan is the author of the book entitled, "Alice Lloyd: Boston's Gift to Caney Creek," which includes a story of "Christmastime at Bonanza," and is available at the Jenny Wiley Gift Shop.

Master Mason Degree At Outdoor Meeting

There will be an outdoor meeting Saturday, July 25, at John Hall Branch on Mud Creek at which the Master Mason Degree will be conferred. Wheelwright Lodge No. 889 and Thomas C. Cecil Lodge No. 375 are sponsoring the ceremony. Dinner will be served beginning at 2 p.m. The degree work will start at 6 p.m. and all Master Masons are invited to attend.

Signs will be posted to direct members to the site.

OBSERVE 51st ANNIVERSARY

Elsa and Jack Freed observed their 51st wedding anniversary recently. Mr. Freed is a past president of AARP.

PIKEVILLE PAINTSVILLE SO. WILLIAMSON

One of the pleasures of making it to the top is putting the top down.

There are those among us who cannot abide second best. In anything.

They have one simple goal in life. The constant search for perfection. The best in everything they do and everything they own. This is not an easy standard by which to live, but it's the only way to reach the top.

It is a standard that makes unrelenting demands. There are times it take sacrifices. And there are times when it brings rewards.

The Mercedes-Benz 560 SL Coupe/Roadster, for example.

Boasting a powerful heart—a mighty 5.6-liter V-8 engine, generating 227 hp.

Impeccable craftsmanship, with supple leather seats, exotic wood trim and a custom-fitted steel hardtop. All are standard. With standard-setting safety features, like the Anti-lock Braking System (ABS) and the Supplemental Restraint System (SRS). And a fully independent suspension system that makes handling effortless and riding smooth.

If you prefer to deal with people who take the quest for perfection as seriously as you do, talk to us soon. We will be happy to demonstrate our commitment to you and your Mercedes-Benz with outstanding financing arrangements, a comprehensive warranty and exceptional service. Then test-drive the 560 SL. And uncover another one of the pleasures of making it to the top.

Like no other dealers in the world.

See your authorized Mercedes-Benz dealer.

Navy Achiever

Seafood... Making a Great Catch

Navy Petty Officer, 3rd Class Jeffrey B. Wilburn, son of Phil Wilburn and Clara Calvert, of Louisa, recently received the Navy Achievement Award.

He received the decoration for his superior performance of duty while stationed aboard the guided missile cruiser, VSS England, homeported in Long Beach, California.

He is a 1984 graduate of Lawrence County High School and joined the Navy in May 1985.

He is the grandson of the late Joe and Audrey King, of Coldwater Branch of Harold, and Golden Wilburn, of Tolers Creek, Harold.

BSF&CEA Group Meet Scheduled July 28

Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association supports breastfeeding by sponsoring informal monthly meetings for mothers, their babies and their preschool children. July's meeting will be held at Prestonsburg Community College in the Martin Student Center, Room 103, at 10:30 a.m., July 28.

At the meeting, a pregnant woman can learn about the advantages of breastfeeding from nursing mothers who have experienced them. New moms can ask "how to" questions from more experienced mothers. Experienced mothers can share suggestions and explore parenting issues with others who have chosen to breastfeed their babies.

Literature is available at the meeting covering topics from starting solid foods to working and nursing. Breast pump information is also provided. There is no charge and mothers are welcome to bring their babies and preschoolers.

For more information on breastfeeding, the Big Sandy Family maintains a library at their office on the Prestonsburg Community College campus. The public is invited to use these materials by calling the office at 886-3863, ext. 213, or visiting the office.

From the American Institute for Cancer Research
Even if you can't see yourself hanging up a "Gone Fishin'" sign and whiling away a lazy summer afternoon at a shady fishing spot, this is a great time of year to include fish in your menu planning. Fish and other seafood are exceptional sources of protein, vitamins and minerals. Most fish is also low in calories, saturated fat and sodium, so it makes a healthful, nutritious entree for summer dining.

Fish consumption in the U.S. has increased in recent years, but it is only a fraction of the livestock and poultry Americans consume annually. Many people are unsure how to properly prepare fish, and this uncertainty causes many to avoid it altogether.

Overcooking is the most common problem in preparing fish. It dries the fish, destroying its flavor and appeal. So it's best when fixing a meal to save fish preparation until last. Cook fresh fish eight to ten minutes per inch of thickness in a pan or 400 degree oven. If the fish is frozen, a good rule is to double cooking time.

As it cooks, fish loses its normal translucent appearance and becomes opaque. When the fish is completely opaque and its outer surface flakes easily when tested with a fork, it is done.

Cooking fish is easy if you follow these simple guidelines. Try the following recipes to make the most of your seafood catch!

This spicy, flavorful adobo sauce combines orange, spices, tomato and onion to give a real lift to fish fillets. The spiciness can be adjusted to your taste by changing the amount of green chilies used.

- 1 lb. red snapper fillets (or other firm fish)
- Dash seasoned pepper, to taste
- 1 1/2 cups orange juice
- 1 large tomato, pureed

- 1 large onion, finely chopped
- 1/2 tsp. garlic powder
- 1/8 tsp. ground cumin
- 1/2 tsp. oregano
- 1/2 red (or green) bell pepper, cut into strips
- 2 to 4 oz. canned whole green chilies, rinsed and cut into strips
- Orange slices (garnish)

In a 2-quart saucepan, combine 3/4 cup of orange juice with all remaining ingredients except fish, bell peppers and chilies and orange slices. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, and simmer, uncovered, until slightly thickened (about 10 minutes).

Sprinkle the fish lightly with seasoned pepper and place it in a large skillet. Add the remaining 3/4 cup of orange juice. Cover and poach over low heat 8 to 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily.

Add the bell pepper and chilies to sauce and simmer 10 minutes. To serve, place the poached fillets on a warm platter, pour sauce over fish and garnish with orange slices.

This will produce 4 servings, each with only 1 gram of fat and about 163 calories.

Appalachian Lit Workshop at ALC

Thirty elementary and secondary teachers will be spending the week of July 27-31 on the Hindman Settlement School campus studying Appalachian literature. The purpose of this workshop is to show these teachers how to use Appalachian literature in their classes. An outstanding group of teachers/writers have been recruited to teach them how to make their classes more relevant to their students by integrating regional literature into their courses.

The staff will include Dr. Jim Wayne Miller, poet essayist and recognized authority on Appalachian literature; Gurney Norman, writer-in-residence and novelist from the University of Kentucky; Dr. Jeff Daniel Marion, poet and professor at Carson-Newman College in Tennessee; Dr. George Ella Lyon, poet, playwright and children's author; Eliot Wigginton, editor of the Foxfire books and nationally known education innovator and James Still, poet, novelist, short story writer and recognized dean of the Appalachian writers.

Sessions on creative writing in the public schools, the teaching of poetry, short story and novel along with a daily overview on Appalachian literature will be part of the week. Special panel discussions on the teaching of Appalachian literature in the public schools and the Foxfire approach to teaching will also be held. Each evening at 7:30 p.m. a reading or presentation that is open free to the public will conclude the day. The evening programs will include Monday, July 27, Eliot Wigginton will discuss Foxfire's Teachers Project; Tuesday, July 28, there will be readings by the staff; Wednesday, July 29, Dr. Jim Wayne Miller will give a special presentation on "James Still, The Man and His Writings;" Thursday, July 30, Roadside Theatre will present, "Pretty Polly."

This special week is being made possible through major support from the Kentucky Humanities Council, Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, Inc., the Kentucky Department of Education and the Hindman Settlement School.

For further information about this week call 606-785-5475 or 5024.

ATTENTION!

MIDDLE CREEK and ABBOTT CREEK RESIDENTS

A community meeting will be held at the Middle Creek Fire Department and Community Center August 4 at 7:00 p.m., concerning the proposed fire tax, Fire Department, and fire insurance rates. If you are interested in the Fire Department and insurance rates be present to vote at this time.

"The treatment is great and people there are just wonderful. Gary and Don and Liz and Lil, they're real good. They make you feel at ease and very comfortable."

Grace Moore

Well, well, well... look who's getting better.

"My little boy broke his leg. I was very impressed with the treatment that they gave him. With the idea of...driving back and forth to Lexington, we opted to stay here and I don't regret it."

Cliff Latta

"I got great treatment, everything went well and I couldn't have wanted better service."

Henry Mayo

Getting better. To our patients, it means recovery or major progress. To us, it is that and something more: Our own improvement and growth.

We keep getting better at what we do. And that affects your recovery. We study, we train, we practice and we push ourselves to get better.

We never stop making strides in medical and surgical care, while advanced technologies help us get better at everything from monitoring your vital signs to processing your paperwork.

And, we keep getting better at being people—considerate and neighborly. Because that's as important to your recovery as good medicine.

We keep getting better to keep you closer to home, closer to friends and family. That's why more folks are choosing us instead of long trips to distant cities. We're working for you, to be the better choice for a growing list of services in diagnosis, treatment, recovery and rehabilitation.

You'd have to go a long way to get better care.

BITTEN BY THE BUG

Mosquitos are more attracted to some people than to others. The attracting factor appears to be body scent. The more lactic acid that a person exudes, the more enticing he will be. One way to throw insects off the scent is to apply an insect repellent. The most effective and longlasting personal repellents contain Deet (N, N-diethylmetatoluamide). These products are designed to repel, not kill. They are effective against biting insects such as mosquitos, chiggers, fleas, ticks, flies and the like. They are not effective against the stinging insects bees, wasps, hornets, and fire ants. Repellents come in an array of concentrations. A high concentration will not be as necessary in mid-town as it will be in the deep woods.

Here at COOLEY APOTHECARY, we aim to offer you the finest professional service available. We're in the business of helping you stay healthy. We are always readily available to answer any of your concerns and look forward to being of service to you in the near future. Complete patient profiles are maintained so we can further safeguard your health by checking for side effects, drug interactions and for possible allergic reactions. These records will also be of great help to you for insurance purposes and at income tax time. We are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

To Answer Mr. Owens' Question

Jackie Edford Owens:
The streets you referred to, Mr. Owens, in Maytown was not even the street that I was talking about. It was the county road, back street, that I was referring to. Mr. Owens, the shovel was not bought at a nearby store and for that matter is worn out. As for who paid for the ad, I did and if you would like to have copies of the receipt, I would be more than glad to give them to you. The car you referred to in my driveway as junk is all that I can afford. I don't have a full-time job and also getting paid for being a county official.

Trimmers, Dogwoods Are Bad Combination

Trimming the grass has gotten easier since string trimmers. So has the life of the dogwood borer, the tree's most serious insect threat.
"String trimmers are probably the best thing that could happen for dogwood borers. Trimmers tear the bark of small trees and leave an open invitation for the borers to attack. It's like leaving a pizza in the oven with the door open and a teen-ager in the house," said Rudy Scheibner, Extension entomologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "There's going to be some feeding going on very soon."
Dogwood trees are very popular in Kentucky, and many of them are planted in full sun. That type of location, coupled with string trimmer abuse, makes the tree a prime candidate for attack by the small, dark-headed, white-bodied, worm-like creatures.
"Trees in full sun are three times as likely to be attacked as trees in shade. And trees with lawn mower or trimmer injuries are twice as likely to be attacked as healthy trees. That poor tree with the banged-up trunk out there in the middle of the yard is almost bound to be attacked," Scheibner said.
Tree wasp, available at most nurseries, will help protect the tree from wounds.

Gayheart-Lafferty

Mr. and Mrs. Milford Gayheart, of McDowell, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter Cheryl Lynn, to Michael Thomas Lafferty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Lafferty, of Printer.
The marriage will be solemnized August 8, at 2 p.m. at the home of the bride. All friends and relatives are cordially invited. A reception will follow.

Re-elected To Board Of Family Physicians

Allan D. Halbert, M.D., of Martin, was re-elected to the board of directors of the Kentucky Chapter, American Academy of Family Physicians, at the annual May meeting held in Lexington.
As district director, Dr. Halbert will be responsible for the activities, functions, and duties of the state chapter in his district, and help maintain current up-to-date information on district members. He will preside at the annual district meeting for election of delegates and alternates from his district; encourage the establishment of enrollment of all qualified family physicians; plan for an education program in his district; plus various other responsibilities locally and state-wide.
In addition to his position on the board of directors, Dr. Halbert is a member of the finance commission that supervises the keeping of academy records, submits annual budgets for board approval, and arranges for an audit of the books annually by a certified public account.
The Kentucky Academy of Family Physicians is headquartered in Louisville and is the state association representing the state's family doctors. The American Academy of Family Physicians is located in Kansas City, Missouri and was the pioneer among medical organizations in requiring its members to take continuing medical education. Its 55,000 members must complete 150 hours of mandatory continuing study every three years.

Jamie and Jason

Jason Scott and Jamie Leigh Ann Slone, children of Frank and Barbara Slone, of David, celebrated their birthdays with a Big Bird cake, June 6. A swimming pool party was held at the home of their grandparents, Charlie and Ruth Nelson, of David.

Guests attending were Brian and Robin Nelson; Wiley, Karen, Heather and Joshua Neson; Shirley Hicks; David Bates; Vonda and Dustin Robinson; Charlotte and Veronica Shepherd; Herman, Wavel and Petra Baldrige; Ronnie, Dottie and Justin Allen; Ava Lee Allen; Eukie Jean Johnson; Patricia Taylor; Rosa and Michael Shepherd.

Paternal grandparents are Ernest Ray and Pauline Slone, of Prestonsburg. They are the great-grandchildren of Martha Nelson, of David.

'Balled in Burlap' May Not Be So Good

Landscape trees and shrubs that are stressed or poorly growing may owe their troubles to synthetic burlap, according to University of Kentucky Extension horticulturist Bill Fountain.

Burlap is used to ball the roots of the trees and shrubs for planting. Natural burlap, made from jute fibers, begins to decompose within a few weeks of planting, allowing the roots to grow and take up nutrients and water from the soil.

However, new synthetic burlaps, which look similar to the natural fabric, are often unintentionally used for balling, said Fountain.

Once in the soil, the synthetic material shows no signs of decomposition and may remain intact indefinitely. The fabric presents a strong barrier to root growth and can prevent water penetration, Fountain said.

When the plant's roots are unable to grow out of the original root ball, it begins to decline and die.

Homeowners, who have trees or shrubs that were planted within the last few years that are declining, need to check the plants' root balls. They can check by digging around the root system to detect fabric or plastic twine that could bind the roots or trunk.

A soil sampling tube pushed into the root ball also can be used.

Small plants that are still alive can be saved by digging them up, removing the synthetic burlap, and replanting them. Larger plants may not be as easy to restore, Fountain said.

Garage Door Game Can Be Deadly One

Citing 31 deaths since 1982 to children under 12 years of age caused by automatic garage doors, safety experts are again warning parents to prohibit children from playing games with garage door openers.

Reconstructing the accident scenario, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission said children activate the garage door opener, then run out of the garage in an effort to beat the door before it closes. Deaths occur when the descending door strikes the child and pins him or her to the ground. Even garage doors equipped with an automatic reverse mechanism have been involved in fatalities.

CPSC urged parents to keep remote control devices locked in the accessory compartment of the car to prevent access by children. Wall-mounted switches which activate garage doors should be moved far out of reach by young children.

Homeowners should also check the owner's manual for instructions on checking the automatic reverse feature on the doors. CPSC said homeowners may want to adjust the opener's sensitivity switch so that the door reverses under the least possible pressure.

Bigger, Isn't Better For the Thoroughbred

The people who buy thoroughbred yearlings apparently share the notion many mothers have—a chubby baby is a healthy baby.

Research at the University of Kentucky, however, suggests that the racing careers of heavier yearlings may be shortened by the extra pounds.

"They say they don't want them fat, they want them fit. But then they'll go out to the yearling sales and buy the fat yearlings," said John Baker, a UK animal scientist who has been investigating the effects of various diets on young horses.

Baker said the preference for fat yearlings is a matter of habit, not science.

"Back in the '60s the cattle, swine and poultry industries were ahead of where we are today in terms of nutritional research," Baker said. "The horsemen here and in Newmarket, England are probably among the most informed in the world, but there's just not as much for them to inform themselves of."

The study of nutrition in horses started not much more than 20 years ago, Baker said.

Recently Baker, and fellow animal scientist Kent Thompson, studied the effect of different levels of protein, energy, and calcium in the diets of nursing and weaning colts and fillies. They found that high dietary levels of calcium do not increase or accelerate skeletal development, but increases in protein and energy do increase weight.

The result is the same as trying to move a piano in the back of a Volkswagen. The weight of the load exceeds the capacity the structure was designed to support.

"A horse's skeleton does not fully mature until the horse is about five years old. That means his entire racing career takes place on an immature skeletal system. And since we've shown that you can't speed up the development of the skeletal system, the extra weight translates into extra risk."

"Our data suggest that added weight is a large factor in epiphysitis," Thompson said.

Epiphysitis is the increased deposit of minerals in the growing regions of bones. Irritation of these regions, from exercise on hard ground, excess weight, or concussion stress, can lead to epiphysitis which can cause lameness. "Maximum weight gain in a yearling is not the same as optimal weight gain. To put it another way—most is not best. Now that we've seen that, the next step is to begin to determine what is best," Thompson said.

THE WOOL AND MOHAIR PROGRAM
Wool and mohair producers are reminded that marketing charges must be itemized on all wool and mohair sales documents other than sales at a farm or local shipping point. Any transportation charge the producer pays is considered a marketing charge and will be required when a payment application is filed with ASCS.

PROVISIONS OF THE 1985 FARM BILL

Many of you have heard by now that the 1985 Farm bill has linked your continued eligibility for most farm program benefits to controlling erosion on highly erodible fields and not draining wetlands. The requirements of the conservation title of the Bill deal with controlling erosion of highly erodible land and conserving wetlands. Three parts of the Bill address highly erodible land: Conservation Reserve, Sodbuster and Conservation Compliance.

For details on how the bill may affect you, contact this office or the Soil Conservation Service.

Receive Surveyors Certificates

Four residents of this and adjoining counties received their Professional Land Surveyors Certificates at a banquet given in their honor, recently, by the Highlands Chapter of the Kentucky Association of Professional Surveyors (KAPS.) They are, from left, above, Danny S. Maggard, Roger Wayne Cornett, Jefferson Con Burke, and Jerry Wayne Wicker. With them are Robert Baldwin, representing the board of directors of KAPS, and Charles L. Sergent, chairman of the Highland Chapter.

To attain professional standing, each has completed eight years experience and education in the field of land surveying and has also passed 16 hours of examination given by the Kentucky State Board of Registration of professional engineers and land surveyors.

State Goes Forward Against Brucellosis

Kentucky is making substantial progress in the depopulation of herds of cattle infected with brucellosis, according to Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell. Commissioner Boswell noted that the financial portion of Kentucky's brucellosis commitment has surpassed $300,000.

As of July 13, a total of 107 herds have already been slaughtered and agreement has been reached on the depopulation of another 21 Kentucky herds. Of these 128 herds, 124 herds of beef cattle and four dairy herds have been committed to depopulation.

The 107 depopulated herds consisted of 3,800 animals. The owners of these animals received a total of $257,750, for an average of $67.82 per animal.

"For the 21 herds pending, $69,750 is set aside for their depopulation payments," Boswell said. About a year ago, Commissioner Boswell set aside $600,000 for the depopulation program.

Brucellosis, also called Bang's disease, causes reproductive problems and abortions in cattle and undulant fever in humans. It is the target of a nationwide eradication effort.

"Other states—surrounding states in fact—have indicated they plan to blacklist cattle from states where the disease is still prevalent. All states on Kentucky's borders are either brucellosis-free or classed as "A," while Kentucky's status is "B." If we want to preserve our markets for Kentucky cattle forever, we must control brucellosis. There is no question about it," Boswell said.

"The purpose of the depopulation effort is not only to eliminate the infected cattle, but also to reduce the chance of spreading the disease. We believe the diligence of our inspectors in finding the infected herds and the cooperation of the owners in the depopulation effort have helped us make great inroads into controlling brucellosis," Commissioner Boswell said.

Davis Receives K.S.U. Scholarship

Ralph B. Davis, a 1987 graduate of Prestonsburg High School, has been awarded a full presidential scholarship from Kentucky State University. The scholarship covers all costs.

Davis, the son of Ralph B. and Ann E. Davis, will major in liberal studies at the Whitney M. Young, Junior, College of Leadership Studies.

While in high school, he was a member of the Beta Club, the academic team, band, Society of Distinguished American High School Students, and the school newspaper staff. He won first place in the short story competition for the county literary magazine, and was a member of Boy Scouts for seven years.

Lt. Preston Completes Basic In Maryland

Second Lt. Gordon D. Preston, son of Betty J. Becknell, of Prestonsburg, has completed the Army's ordinance officer basic course at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

The course provided orientation in the ordinance field as well as training in administration, management and general military subjects.

He is a 1986 graduate of Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond.

Our Error

Anita Nieland, of Richmond, was named "Mrs. Kentucky," not "Miss Kentucky" as an item in last week's Times stated.

We regret the error.

The Kentucky State Police Professional Association Needs Your Help!!

Presently, representatives of the KENTUCKY STATE POLICE PROFESSIONAL ASSOCIATION (further known as the K.S.P.P.A.) are calling on area businesses to take advertising space in the K.S.P.P.A. official publication "THE THIN GRAY LINE" newspaper. The K.S.P.P.A. has been very active in publishing "THE THIN GRAY LINE", which contains articles on drug abuse, automobile safety, drunk driving and a special section devoted to missing children. The newspaper is a vital communicator between the K.S.P.P.A. and its members. The K.S.P.P.A. membership is comprised of on road troopers, arson investigators and communication personnel of the Kentucky State Police. The K.S.P.P.A. is also active in community projects, such as giving out scholarships at the various State Police Posts, plus providing many benefits for its trooper members. Your support by purchasing an advertisement in "THE THIN GRAY LINE" is greatly appreciated.

Leasing a Car

By Attorney General David L. Armstrong
 In the past few years, automobile leasing to the general public has become very popular with dealers and manufacturers. You may be wondering whether leasing your next car would be a better idea than buying one.
 The attraction of leasing is that no down payment may be required from the consumer and the monthly payment can be less than the monthly payment to purchase. For those on a tight budget, the advantages of no down payment and smaller monthly payments can be worthwhile. However, it is also important to consider what happens at the end of the lease.
 Advertisements for automobile leases are regulated by Regulation M of the Federal Truth in Lending Act. The purpose of the regulation is to assure specific leasing terms are disclosed so that consumers can compare leasing programs and make an informed decision whether leasing is the best option.
 The federal law requires that whenever one or more "Triggering Terms" are listed in a lease ad, then the ad must also contain several other specific disclosures. Triggering Terms are:
 The amount of any payment, such as "$200 per month";
 The number of payments required, for example, a "48-month lease"; and,
 A statement that any down payment or no down payment, is required at the beginning of the lease, such as "no money down" or "only $200 will put you in one of our new cars."
 When any of these triggering terms are used, all five of the following must be disclosed:
 A statement that the transaction is a lease; the total amount of any payment, such as a security deposit or down payment, required at the beginning of the lease, or that no payment is required; the number, amounts, due dates, or periods of scheduled payments under the lease; whether the customer has the option to purchase the car at the end of the lease, and at what time and price, or provide a method for determining the end of the lease purchase price, and a statement of the amount (or method of determining the amount) of any liabilities the lease imposes on the consumer at the end of the lease term, such as exceeding maximum mileage or the difference between the estimated value and the realized value of the car at the end of the lease.
 The law also requires that you be told what kind of insurance you need, any express warranty, any penalty for default or late payment, and conditions for cancelling the lease.
 If you decide to lease, shop around for the best price and terms. Remember, before you agree to a lease, the law requires that you get a written statement of its costs, including advance payments, number, amounts, dates of regular payments, the amount you must pay for a license, registration, taxes, and any other fees, such as maintenance.

Honored by David School

Danny Green, director of the David School, presented Adrian Lafferty and Rev. Tim Jessen with Distinguished Partnership Awards at the David School's luncheon, recently.

The David School sponsored its first annual "Partners in Education" luncheon in the school gym, recently. Over 70 local business people attended the function that was paid for through a donation by the Prestonsburg Rotary Club.

The luncheon featured Bluegrass Music, a video segment done on the David School by the Kentucky Educational Television (KET), and talks by Dr. Henry Campbell, director of Prestonsburg Community College, and Mrs. Louise Lewis, a 1987 eighth-grade graduate, who is a 65-year-old grandmother from Maytown.

The David School also presented two awards for Distinguished Partnership to Adrian Lafferty and the Rev. Tim Jessen. Mr. Lafferty, owner of Mountain Pipeline, has been extremely generous to the school with financial support as well as resource work. His company spent a full week fixing a sliding mountain before it toppled the David Pre-School. Rev. Jessen, pastor at the First Presbyterian Church, here, has always been a strong supporter of the school. He has also volunteered his church as a satellite center for the adult education program that the David School runs and has served on the David School Board of Directors.

Danny Greene, founder and director of the David School, served as the emcee of the luncheon. He said, "We wish to express our gratitude to all of you who have supported the school over the years. With your partnership, we have been able to keep our doors open. We pray that it continues."

Currently, the David School has 100 students in high school and junior high, 20 in pre-school, and 120 in adult education. The High School waiting list is longer than the enrollment. For more information or a tour, please call 886-8374.

Veterans Administration Questions and Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA Counselors. Full information is available at any VA Office.

Q.—I am a Vietnam veteran, and I am concerned about the possibility that I may have been exposed to Agent Orange. What does the VA offer in the way of examination and health care?

A.—Since 1978, the VA has operated the Agent Orange Registry of Agent Orange. Veterans who participate in this program receive a comprehensive physical examination and complete a questionnaire about their service in Vietnam. The veteran is advised of the results which are entered in to the Agent Orange Registry. The examination can help to detect any illness or injury the veteran may have, regardless of origin, and may provide a basis for follow-up. Vietnam veterans are encouraged to request an Agent Orange examination at their nearest VA health-care facility.

Q.—I have questions about my recent Agent Orange examination. Whom should I talk to about my concerns?

A.—If you have any questions about your Agent Orange examination, contact the environmental physician at the VA Medical Center where you had the examination.

Genealogical Society To Meet in Frankfort

The Kentucky Genealogical Society will present its 13th Annual Genealogical Seminar, Saturday, August 1, at Bradford Hall, Kentucky State University campus, East Main Street and M.L. King, Frankfort.

The theme for this outstanding seminar is "New World Immigration and the Draper Manuscripts."

The featured speaker will be James L. Hansen, reference librarian and genealogical specialist, Library of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin.

Mr. Hansen's morning program will include "Naturalization Records" and "Passenger Lists." The afternoon session title is "The Draper Manuscripts: What They Are and How to Use Them."

Other features of the seminar include copying of old pictures; genealogical book dealers displaying books and supplies for sale; question-and-answer session; and the awarding of doorprizes.

Registration forms may be obtained at most libraries or by sending an SASE to The Kentucky Genealogical Society, Box 153, Frankfort, Ky. 40602.

Diet Can Reduce Risk of Cancer

The government estimates that 35% of all cancer deaths are related to what we eat. This may seem like a startling statistic, but it actually translates into some encouraging news. The National Foundation for Cancer Research says that by following a few dietary guidelines, you and your family can dramatically reduce your risk of cancer.

While no food can cure cancer by itself, the following contain nutrients and vitamins which can have anti-cancer properties:

Brussels sprouts, broccoli, carrots, cauliflower, lettuce, leafy green vegetables, whole grain breads, whole grain cereals, cabbage, tomatoes, citrus fruits, yellow vegetables.

Americans tend to eat too many fatty foods, which can contribute to breast, colon and prostate cancer. By cutting down on fats, you will also avoid obesity, which increases the risk of many forms of cancer. Eat lean meats, fish and poultry.

Incorporating high fiber foods regularly into your diet seems to guard against cancer of the colon. Fiber is readily available in bran cereal. Fresh fruits and vegetables are another good source.

Smoked, salty or nitrite-cured foods should be eaten only in moderation. People who eat these foods frequently have a higher rate of esophagus and stomach cancer.

Finally, take care not to char meat when barbecuing.

Creating an "anti-cancer" diet is an easy, effective measure that everyone can take. It not only makes good sense, it's good science.

The National Foundation for Cancer Research is a private, non-profit organization based in Bethesda, Md.

Floyd County Ends Season With Split At Pikeville

For a long time Thursday evening it looked as if Floyd County would end its first season on a disappointing note, but thanks to heavy hitting late the local 16-18-year-old squad managed to split a doubleheader with Pikeville's American Legion team.

Errors, after Floyd County roughed up Pikeville righthander Robbie Wright in the first inning, led to a 5-3 defeat.

In that first inning, Floyd County opened up an offensive attack, reaching Wright for four hits and three runs before the Pikeville pitcher could record the game's first three outs.

Darrin Conn started the offensive wheels rolling, leading the game off with a double. Conn advanced to third as Brian Hall singled. Both Conn and Hall scored when Tony Kidd followed with a double.

After Roger Horne flied out, and Tim Trusty grounded out, Brad Hall drilled a two-out single, scoring Kidd from second base.

With the strong start, Floyd County had jumped out to a 3-0 lead and held that advantage until the fourth inning when Pikeville scored three unearned runs on only one hit.

Defense has been a season long Floyd County problem, and on the occasion Tim Trusty was the victim.

Trusty, 1-2, went the distance for FC, giving up only one earned run on eight hits, but was still tagged with his second loss of the year.

Defensively, Floyd County committed four errors, allowing Pikeville four unearned runs and a 5-3 victory.

While his defense was busy letting him down, Trusty's offensive help didn't give the 16-year-old righthander much help either.

After roughing Wright up early, Floyd County collected only two hits, a third inning Brian Hall double and a Brad Hall fourth inning single, over the last six tries.

Thursday's second game started in fashion similar to that the first game had ended with a lack of hitting and poor defense from Floyd County.

Pikeville reached Nathan Shelton for an unearned run in the second inning. That run held up as a lead until the fifth inning.

Hits had been a rare commodity off Pikeville starter Robbie Simpson. The big righthander enjoyed a no-hitter through three and one-third innings, but Roger Horne broke that up with a single.

Floyd County, in the fifth inning, caught up with the hard-throwing Simpson, scoring three runs on five hits in the inning.

After Pikeville tied the score in the bottom of the inning, Thomas Hall singled and scored to give Floyd County a lead they never surrendered.

Floyd County lefty Nathan Shelton slammed the door in the final two frames, holding on for his second victory of the season, 7-3, over Pikeville.

Shelton, 2-2, scattered five hits over his seven innings of work, striking out three and walking four. Only one of the three runs were earned.

Roger Horne, playing in his final Floyd County game, enjoyed a three-hit performance to pace a 10-hit FC offensive attack.

Horne, three for four with two singles and a double, also drove in two runs and scored another as Floyd County scored all seven of their runs in the final three innings for the comeback victory.

Four county players saw action for Pikeville, including former Betsy Layne performers, Chad Collins and Bud Newsome. Bobcat junior Duran Newsome and McDowell property Mike McQuate also drew starting assignments.

Bud Newsome proved to be the only productive member of the foursome, but his two-for-eight performance at the plate didn't do any major damage.

Collins collected a single in five at bats, scoring one run, but both Duran Newsome and Mike McQuate went hitless against Tim Trusty and Nathan Shelton, possibly the top two 16-year-old pitching prospects in this area.

With the second game victory over Pikeville, Floyd County closed out their season at 6-9-1.

In their first ever season as a team, Floyd County enjoyed success, although their record wouldn't indicate it. FC lost four games by a total of seven runs, and challenged in each of the other losses.

Of the 12 players that finished the season on the roster, 11 return. Only Roger Horne will be lost due to age, and with solid talent returning and probable key additions, Floyd County may not only challenge the best team in the state, they may rank right along beside Morehead.

When this squad opens for American Legion action next spring, seven additional players will be named to fill out the roster. Those selections are expected to be made this fall in anticipation of an early 1988 start.

Hall Avoids Sweep With Strong Pitching Effort

Brian Hall, Floyd County righthander, scattered four hits through seven innings, and Jeff Crisp enjoyed a two-for-three offensive performance as FC downed Knott County 5-3 to avoid a doubleheader sweep Wednesday.

In the complete game performance, Hall struck out eight and walked only one, but hit two. Hall, 1-1, surrendered only one earned run.

Playing their final game at home, Floyd County, after KC had plated an unearned run in the top of the inning, scored two runs in the first inning.

Centerfielder Kelly Nickles, playing in his final game associated with Floyd County baseball, led the scoring frame off with a double. Nickles later scored as Tony Kidd grounded to third.

Knott County third baseman Waylon Estep threw on to second for the force play on Brian Hall, who had reached on an error, allowing Nickles to scamper home.

Kidd, possessing good speed, easily beat the relay throw to first. The 16-year-old catcher proceeded to steal second, allowing him to later ride home on a two-out Tim Trusty single.

Floyd County added one run in the second inning when Kelly Nickles walked with one out and scored all the way from first base on a Scott Hylton, KC center-fielder error.

With Brian Hall experiencing control problems, Knott County scored their lone earned run in the third inning. After hitting leadoff hitter, Kevin Nickles, Hall retired Mason Slone on a popup, and struck out Waylon Estep, but then lost command of the strike zone again.

After walking the next hitter, catcher Chris Nickles, Hall gave up an RBI single to Kevin Webb. Knott County managed only two more hits off Hall, as the improved righthander faced only two hitters above the minimum over the final four innings.

Knott County plated their final run in the sixth inning when Hall hit Waylon Estep with a pitch. Estep then stole second, went to third on a passed ball, and stole home.

But the damage had already been done. Floyd County, after turning an impressive double play in the top half of the inning, scored what proved to be the game-winning run in the bottom of the fourth.

Tony Kidd, who started the double play by scooping up a Scott Hylton bunt and throwing him out at first, opened the inning by drilling a double, his fourth hit of the day.

Roger Horne followed with a single, picking up the game-winning RBI. Starter and loser Mason Slone strengthened to retire Trusty and Brad Hall, but Hall had already proved his importance on the double play.

After Kidd threw Hylton out at first, Brad Hall promptly relayed back to the plate, where Brian Amburgy was trying to score on the play. With pitcher Brian Hall covering the unusual, but crucial twin killing was completed.

Floyd County added an insurance run in the fifth inning when Jeff Crisp, hitting in his fourth consecutive game, doubled in Darrin Conn. Crisp's fifth inning hit, his second of the game.

Pitching possibly the best Floyd County game of the year, Brian Hall was rewarded with the win while Mason Slone also went the distance, but was still tagged with the loss.

Floyd County banged out seven hits in handing Slone the loss, and avoiding a doubleheader sweep. Knott County, behind the offensive punch of Kevin Webb, upended FC, 9-4, in Wednesday's opening game.

Webb, a regular Allen Central performer, was perfect at the plate, three for three, and drove in four of Knott County's nine runs.

With one out in the first, and runners on first and second, Webb blasted a Roger Horne fastball over the center-field fence.

Floyd County rallied from Webb's blast, scoring two runs in the first inning, and took the lead in the second frame when Tony Kidd singled and scored on an error, and Darrin Conn reached on an error, and scored on Tim Trusty's double.

Trailing 4-3, Knott County tied the score as Webb doubled home Chris Nickles in the third inning. Against starter and loser Roger Horne, KC scored what proved to be the game's winning run in the fourth, banging out four hits to power the two-run inning.

After collecting four hits in the first two innings, Floyd County bats cooled off, managing only four hits over the final five innings off Knott County righthander, Kevin Nickles.

FC left a total of 10 men on base, twice leaving the bases loaded. Tony Kidd led Floyd County's offensive attack with three singles in four plate appearances, scoring one run and driving in another.

Roger Horne, 1-2 on the year, suffered the loss. In six plus innings, Horne gave up 11 hits, and six runs, striking out three and walking one.

Mark Tipton relieved Horne in the seventh. The hard-throwing righthander gave up three runs on one hit and four walks, two intentional. Kevin Nickles was rewarded with the complete game win.

Knott County and Floyd County met nine times on the baseball diamond this summer. KC won the series 5-3-1 against upstart Floyd County.

CHAMPIONSHIP SQUAD: This Floyd County 14-year-old Babe Ruth all-star squad captured their district tournament with a 7-3 victory over Hazard Monday. The team will go after a semi-state title this weekend. The double elimination tournament will be played on Lexington's Turfland Field with Floyd County opening the event Friday at 2:00, taking on Ashland's runner-up team.

Heavy Hitting Key As Locals Capture Two District Titles

Floyd County, in 14-year-old action, averaged 23 runs per game in capturing their district tournament this week at Allen Park.

Floyd County advanced to the tournament's final round with victories over Carr Fork, 29-3, and Hazard, 33-2, before claiming the title Monday evening.

Centerfielder Joey Gray, and pitcher Adam Gearheart collected two hits each to pace an eight-hit attack as Floyd County defeated Hazard, 7-3, in Monday's championship game.

Gearheart was credited with the win, pitching six innings of three-hit baseball, before Chad Hamilton, winner of the first two games, came on to throw a scoreless seventh inning.

Gearheart, a righthander, and Hamilton, a lefthander, combined to give FC a productive one-two pitching punch, but remarkable hitting, which produced 69 runs in three games, proved to be the key.

"We've been taking a lot of batting practice," P.D. Gearheart, Floyd county coach, said. "Actually we've worked a lot in all areas. We thought we had a good team, but I didn't expect us to hit like this. No coach can expect his team to score 29 and 33 runs in two straight games."

In their first two games, Gearheart's squad was uncontested, destroying Carr Fork and Hazard, but Hazard, in the championship game, proved they had a talented squad.

"This was a good game for us," Gearheart said after the final contest. "It will do us a lot of good, because it brought us down to earth."

Before Monday's championship contest, the coach mentioned that his team may suffer from being over-confident, and it looked to be the case during the first three innings.

Hazard, with the help of two Floyd

County errors, scored two unearned runs off Adam Gearheart, taking an early 2-0 lead after one inning.

That lead held up until the fourth inning where Floyd County fought their way back into contention.

With one out, Chad Hamilton doubled down the leftfield line. One out later, Hamilton chugged home on Joey Gray's first hit of the day, an RBI double.

Gray eventually scored on a wild pitch after advancing to third on a passed ball. With the score tied at 2-2, Hazard scored another unearned run in the fourth inning, but like they had done all day, Floyd County came back.

In the fifth inning, Adam Gearheart led off with a single and eventually scored on a Chad Hamilton flyball to centerfield.

Once again the contest was tied, and it stayed 3-3 until the seventh inning. Floyd County jumped all over new pitcher Fred Grigsby, scoring four runs on four hits in the final frame.

Mickey Parsons, Adam Gearheart, Stu Robinson, and Joey Gray all singled and scored in the seventh as Floyd County pulled out the come-from-behind victory to win the district championship.

With the win, FC completed the tournament without a loss, and earned an appearance in this weekend's semi-state tourney in Lexington.

"We've got a good bunch of ball players here," Gearheart said. "I'm looking forward to taking them to Lexington. Hopefully, they will give a good showing of themselves."

One group that has already given a good showing is Floyd County's 13-year-old squad, winning the district nine title in Hazard this weekend.

Floyd County, in their first game Friday evening, defeated Carr Fork 10-0, and claimed the title, Sunday, by beating Carr Fork again, this time by the score of 15-4.

Chad Mitchell led Floyd County offensively, going four for six, while Jimmy

Hilton also banged out four hits in one more plate appearance.

Hilton also earned the mound victory in the championship game, going five innings before getting relief help from Keith Hall, who finished the game.

Hall was the winning pitcher in game one, throwing five innings of one-hit baseball. The game was called after five innings due to the 10-run mercy rule.

"We went up there with the anticipation of winning, but we really didn't know what to expect," Ellis Spurlock, 13-year-old squad manager, said. "We hadn't scouted either team. We just went and played."

Floyd County also went with the anticipation of hitting the baseball. Every player, with the exception of two, collected at least two hits.

"We're coming along real well," Spurlock said. "We had a good tournament up there, and we got a good draw at Somerset."

Floyd County will play their semi-state tournament at Somerset, which gets underway for the locals at 3 Saturday afternoon.

"We're in the upper bracket with the Pike County winner, and Powell County. We couldn't have gotten a better draw than we did," Spurlock said.

Note: A bluegrass concert will be held Saturday night at Allen Park. The concert, featuring winning hand, is intended to help fund the 13-year-old team's efforts.

The concert will begin at 7 p.m. Admission is $3 for adults and $1.50 for children. The public is encouraged to come listen to the music, and help support Floyd County's youngest Babe Ruth representatives.

SHORT SPORTS

Adrian Breen, former Morehead State University quarterback, has signed a free-agent contract with the National Football League's St. Louis Cardinals.

Breen, 6'4", 180 pounds, signed with the Cardinals last week, bringing the 1987 total of Morehead State professional signees to three.

Billy Poe, a 6'3", 275-pound lineman, earlier inked a deal with Tampa Bay, and Randy Frazier, a linebacker from Whitesburg, signed with Kansas City.

Breen, a Cincinnati, Ohio native, led MSU to one of their most successful seasons ever, a 7-4 record in 1986.

By signing the contract, Breen joins former MSU signal caller Phil Simms in the professional ranks. While at Morehead State, Breen broke several passing records, some of which were held by Simms, a former first round draft choice.

If Breen makes the final St. Louis cut, he will represent one of the two MSU quarterbacking alumni playing in the NFC East.

Simms is the starting quarterback for the Super Bowl champion New York Giants.

The New York Yankees are beginning to feel some Canadian heat, and the painful sting of injuries.

Toronto has stayed close to New York in the American League's Eastern Division, and now may be ready to re-gain their first place position in front of the ailing Yankees.

Last Wednesday, New York lost starting second baseman Willie Randolph, who underwent knee surgery.

Randolph, an all-star who is enjoying his most productive offensive season ever, was placed on the 21-day disabled list but could be out longer.

Without Randolph, Don Mattingly picked up his offensive output to fill the injury-created void.

In five consecutive games before the all-star break, Mattingly hit a homerun. The offensive hero for the Yankees, after the three days off, continued his streak, homering in the first three games back.

All told, Mattingly hit a homerun in eight consecutive games, tying a major league record set in 1956 by Dell Long. Going for the record, Mattingly doubled in his last at bat, Sunday, against the Texas Rangers.

Possibly the number one receiver prospect in the nation, Chris Carter, of Ohio State, will not be seen on the college football field this fall.

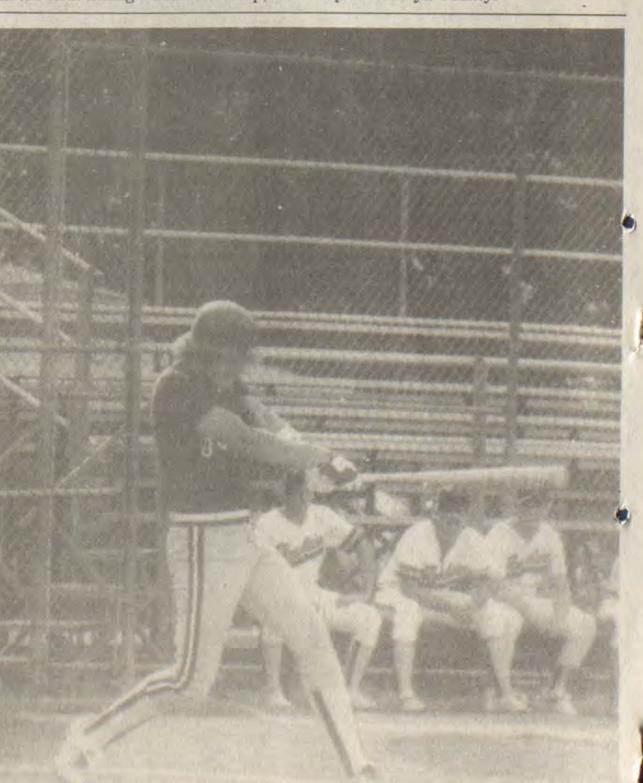

Carter, an all-American at OSU in 1986, has been suspended by the school's athletic director, apparently because the senior to be accepted money and hired an agent.

Both are prohibited by the NCAA, and as a result of breaking the rules, Carter will never finish his college eligibility.

Carter, who led Ohio State in receptions and touchdown catches from his wide receiver position, is asking the National Football League to hold a supplemental draft for him.

Ron Cey, veteran third baseman, was released Wednesday by the Oakland Athletics in order to make room on the roster for Tony Bernazard.

FINAL PERFORMANCE: In his last game associated with local baseball, Roger Horne collected three hits and two RBIs in four plate appearances.

Reds Watch '87

Cincinnati Leads By Forfeit As Rest of West Struggles

Winning a divisional title often means earning a divisional title, but so far this season the Cincinnati Reds have been given a solid beginning toward such a title.

Cincinnati, two months ago, took over first place in the National League's Western Division. Soon after that the Reds improved their record to 10 games above .500, but have lost eight of their last 12 games.

Luckily for Cincinnati fans, neither San Francisco nor Houston, second and third in the West, could mount a successful streak, failing to take advantage of the Reds' lean stretch.

After losing six of their last seven games before the all-star break, Cincinnati continued their less than successful efforts, falling 9-0 to New York in their first game back following the three days off.

Dwight Gooden, New York right-hander, silenced Reds' bats in earning the complete game victory. Gooden, 7-2, surrendered only seven hits.

Bill Gullickson, 9-6, suffered the Cincinnati loss. The Reds, with the defeat, equaled their longest losing streak of the season at four.

The loss also enabled Houston to move within one and a half games of division leading Cincinnati, but the Reds and Nick Esasky made that game up Friday night.

With two out in the top of the ninth inning, Esasky, seeing action on a regular basis, drilled his 12th homerun of the season, a three-run shot that propelled the Reds to a 5-2 win.

Frank Williams, 1-0, worked the eighth inning to get his first win of the year. John Franco came on in the ninth to shut out New York, earning a save.

Cincinnati's four-run ninth inning broke their four game backslide, and when Houston later lost to Philadelphia, the Reds opened their lead up to two and one-half games.

Friday, late offense proved to be the key, but Ted Power did in New York, Saturday. The Reds' righthander gave up only four hits and two earned runs as Cincinnati defeated the Mets, 7-3.

Power, 7-5, got all the help he needed from Cincinnati third baseman Buddy Bell. Bell enjoyed a three-for-four appearance at the plate, including a homerun and three RBIs.

Bo Diaz, Reds' catcher, also had a successful day at the plate, collecting four hits, one being a two-run homerun.

Once again, Philadelphia handed Houston a loss as the Astros fell another game off the pace set by Cincinnati.

Now three and one half games out of first place, Houston continued to struggle, falling 4-1 to the Phillies, Sunday afternoon.

While Philadelphia was busy completing three consecutive wins over the Astros, Cincinnati was busy losing to New York in the final game of their four-game series.

Twice the Reds enjoyed three-run leads, and twice New York came back to tie the score. In the seventh inning Eric Davis singled in two runs, putting Cincinnati up 5-2, but the Mets scored three in the bottom of the seventh.

One rain delay and four innings later New York scored a run, pulling out a 6-5 victory.

With the disappointing loss just a memory, the Reds rolled on to Philadelphia, but the city of brotherly love didn't appear to hold a better Cincinnati fate.

The Phillies, an the strength of homeruns by Juan Samuel, Mike Schmidt, and Chris James, took a 6-0 lead into the seventh inning.

Former Cincinnati pitcher Tom Hume had given up only two hits. Now Philadelphia property, Hume lost his bid for a shutout when Bo Diaz clubbed a seventh inning two run homerun.

Hume was taken down. Kent Tekulve was brought in to stop Cincinnati's comeback efforts.

Tekulve was ineffective, giving up singles to Barry Larkin and Buddy Bell starting the eighth inning. Tekulve was relieved by Steve Bedrosian, Philadelphia bullpen stopper, who was also unable to snuff out the Reds' rally.

Eric Davis and Dave Parker greeted Bedrosian with hits, scoring Larkin and Bell to make the score 6-4. Davis later scored on an out, and Cincinnati tied the score when Nick Esasky, with two out, singled to score Tracy Jones, who was running for Bo Diaz.

Cincinnati claimed the come-from-behind victory in the 11th inning, scoring four times to pull out a 10-6 win.

John Franco, Reds' reliever, was credited with the win. Franco, 6-3 out of the bullpen, pitched scoreless 10th and 11th innings to earn the victory.

The Reds received help from Montreal and Pittsburgh, Monday night. The Expos defeated Houston, 4-1, forcing the Astros four and a half games off the pace.

Pittsburgh also came to the Reds' aid, downing second placed San Francisco, 7-6. The Giants, who moved into second, Sunday, were four games behind Cincinnati before play last night.

Prestonsburg Older Squad Eliminated By Martin Co.

Martin County, with a 7-4 victory Friday night, ended Prestonsburg's 14-15-year-old all-star season sooner than most people had anticipated.

With players from 1985 and '86 13-year-old district championship squads, Prestonsburg was considered this year's district tournament favorite.

Before the district tourney began, Prestonsburg coach Estill Collins was confident in his team's chances of defending a title they had captured last year at Martin county.

After the season-ending loss, manager Eugene Blackburn echoed Collins' confidence even though his team had been eliminated.

"I can't believe Martin county came out and beat us the way they did," Blackburn said. "This was basically the same team we beat two years ago as 13-year-olds, and again last year."

"We didn't hit the ball like I thought we would," Blackburn continued. "Coming in, I knew that we didn't have a strong pitching staff, but I thought we would be a better hitting team than we showed in the tournament."

Against Martin County, Friday night, Prestonsburg collected only four hits off righthander Donald Farnham, who struck out seven in the complete game performance.

Martin County, off three different Prestonsburg pitchers, enjoyed a seventh hit performance to go with three walks and a hit batsman, all of which eventually scored. They also took advantage of their free passes early when Prestonsburg starter Ryan Porter failed to find the strike zone.

Porter, a righthander, walked leadoff man Kraig Grayson, and ran the count to 2-0 on Mike Cain, the second hitter, before being lifted in favor of Danny Hamilton.

Hamilton surrendered back-to-back singles to Brian Dalton and Roger Maynard, whose hit drove in two runs before retiring the side.

In 13-Year-Old Action

Paintsville Denies Prestonsburg

In 1985, and again last year, Prestonsburg had won the district tournament title in 13-year-old all-star play.

Two years ago Prestonsburg had come from the losers bracket defeated Magoffin County two consecutive games, and earned the district senior league title.

Again playing in Salyersville, and again coming from the loser's bracket, Prestonsburg was faced with the task of dealing with talented Paintsville in the championship round.

In their first year of Senior League existence, Paintsville had moved into the finals undefeated, having already beaten Prestonsburg once in the tournament.

The local squad, having eliminated Magoffin County Friday, and Fleming-Neon Saturday, was forced to beat Paintsville twice to earn their third consecutive title.

That didn't happen. Paintsville handed Prestonsburg a 13-9 defeat Monday evening, eliminating the local squad, and taking the title back to Johnson County.

With the 13-year-old title firmly tucked away, Paintsville claimed rights to both Senior League district championships.

The 15-year-old squad, coached by Paul David Brown, took top honors in their age group Saturday by defeating Martin County in the championship contest.

Both Paintsville Senior League teams advanced to the regional tournaments undefeated.

Known as a baseball town, Paintsville dominated district Senior League play in their first year, but what was made up in the city was lost in the county.

Johnson County, normally supreme in Babe Ruth all-star play, could manage only one district title in three chances this past weekend.

According to reports from people close to summer league baseball in Johnson County, when the city announced they were forming Senior Little League, products of the Paintsville Little League returned to the city, taking talent from Babe Ruth.

Johnson County, with the win, advanced to Saturday's finals, but were denied a title by Paintsville, who captured the district championship in their first year of Senior Little League baseball.

Paintsville, formerly a part of the Johnson County Babe Ruth League, will now see action in the sectional tournament, also to be played at Salyersville's Ramey Park, site of the district tourney.

The tournament will begin this week with Paintsville seeing their first action Wednesday at 5.

Paintsville enters the double elimination tournament without a loss, winning the district in four games, a factor that could play a part later this week.

Any loss occurring in district tournament action is carried over into the sectional tourney, making one loss become the final one.

The Sporting Times

Warm sunshine, crowds cheering, and youthful emotions are all part of this thing some people term a baseball high.

For fans, coaches, and young players, this is the important time of the year, tournament time.

They enjoy the high baseball gives them. So do I, but unfortunately I've overdone on the diamond sport, and now the side effects are setting in.

From Pikeville, to Hindman, to Salyersville, and back to Floyd county, this past week has been filled with nothing but baseball.

Being a fan has nothing to do with it. Too much of even a good thing is nasty, and this baseball stuff is getting close to the filthy stage.

Situations always change, and people often reserve the right to alter a previous statement.

Not long ago I said no way to a comment that I would get tired of baseball this summer. Pete Rose once said he would play baseball if anyone would just pay his bills.

Now, I'm not saying that I'm tired of baseball, but it's close, and Pete Rose must have had one heavy account to pay because he left Cincinnati in search of higher pay.

Baseball is a sport for those loyal people who truly love the game. Unlike basketball and football, baseball doesn't have an attractive flair. Its excitement is limited to those who understood the personal battles and games within a game.

The little things are what makes baseball a special sport, but it's also the little things that have me close to the burnout stage.

The little bleachers I have to sit on, the little thermometer that shows a temperature close to 100 degrees, and the little gnats, which enjoy a feast on me after the sun goes down, all are included in the little things, also.

A total of six different tournaments, all with teams consisting of players from 11 to 15 years old, were taking place this weekend.

It's impossible to be in two different places at the same time, but I came the closest of all time in proving that fact false.

Nevertheless, I did see several baseball games during the course of some exciting play. Many teams were impressive, and some individuals have played their way into my baseball memory bank.

The Prestonsburg Senior League squad, although they were eliminated by Martin county, displayed their talents in impressive fashion.

Topped by shortstop Ray Collins, Prestonsburg had several hot prospects for Russell Shepherd, Prestonsburg High School coach who needs only wait for these young players to grow into maturity.

Collins, possibly the most impressive player of the entire tournament, covers the left side of the infield defensively and carried a potent bat through the district tourney.

Some other names you might want to remember include Roger Maynard, Martin county shortstop, and a third baseman from Paintsville by the name of Tucker Howard.

Both are complete players; mature at an early age, and along with Collins, are being recruited by the local American Legion squad.

Estill Collins, Ray's father, is planning to begin a 16-18 Big League team in Prestonsburg for next summer. His efforts will be aided by Eugene Blackburn if the idea becomes reality.

Oh well, that's next summer, and it includes players over the hill. We're talking young talent here, and the conversation wouldn't be complete without talking about Floyd county's 14-year-old Babe Ruth squad.

I hope they have a good sponsor, because these boys have already worn a collection of bats out.

They take offensive mercy on no one, burying all opponents in an aluminum avalanche. Domination is their game, and they have played their game thus far.

This squad is made up of players from all over the county, but Junior Newsome will benefit more than anyone else.

Seven players on the roster live within the Betsy Layne High School district.

Little Donnie and Allen Central own rights to shortstop Mickey Parsons, and Russell Shepherd could use Stu Robinson if he ever decides to.

Now, all these players are talented, although they are young. With maturity, both emotional and physical, they can only get better. We're in for a treat while we watch them grow.

Not only are they successful on the field, they look and sound like baseball players.

Jason Storey, now that's a baseball name, and he has all the preparatory hitting methods the major leaguers have, Chad Hamilton. You think maybe this isn't a good baseball name?

P.D. Gearheart, 14-year-old coach, has possibly the best Babe Ruth all-star team ever assembled in this county. How far they go in tournament action is important to only the parents, because winning isn't the important thing here.

Folks, stand back out of their way, and let them play baseball. These boys may be headed somewhere, and we shouldn't be in front of them, holding up their progress, or behind them, pressing that progress.

Wait until they are 16-years-old, and make sure they play American Legion baseball under the Martin Post's flag. Throw these guys in with Mark Tipton, Nathan Shelton, Tim Trusty, Brad Hall, and John Crisp, and you have the makings of a solid squad.

Put your shades on. That future looks bright.

Cey, a former player for Los Angeles and Chicago in the National League, signed with Oakland last spring and had been used as a designated hitter by the Athletics.

When Oakland acquired Bernazard, a second baseman, from Cleveland for two minor league players, they let Cey go. The switch hitting Bernazard wasn't the only person Cleveland shipped out this past week.

Pat Corrales, manager, was fired by Indians' management. Corrales, the second manager to get the ax in 1987, was replaced by bullpen coach, Doc Edwards.

Philadelphia boss John Felske was earlier fired by the Phillies. Both Cleveland and Philadelphia were expected to contend for their respective divisional titles, but so far they haven't and as a result two managers have bit the baseball dust.

The Tennessee football all-stars dealt Kentucky a severe blow, defeating the Kentucky squad, 35-8, Saturday night.

Tennessee scored two touchdowns within a 90-second span in the second quarter on their way to revenging a 24-0 loss last year.

With the win Tennessee improves to 3-1 in the young series with Kentucky.

Floyd county's 15-year-old Babe Ruth squad was eliminated from district play with two losses, Saturday.

In the opening game, Floyd County was shutout, 4-0, by arch rival Johnson county. Forced into the loser's bracket, the local squad was eliminated in their next game, falling 4-2 to Carr Creek.

The 15-year-old squad was managed by Blake Meadows. Their coach was Ab Lawson.

Roberts Runs SR 56 Mile Held Saturday In Indiana

Saturday July 18, the SR 56 Mile was held in Salem, Indiana. The event for the last four years has attracted some fast milers. Rick Roberts, of Allen, finished fourth in his heat in 4:10. Gary Costelle, a sophomore track runner for the University of Louisville, won the race in 3:56. There were four heats, three in age groups, while the last heat was the elite field. Robert's fourth place time beat the other winners of the first three heats.

Bald Eagle Makes Comeback At Land Between the Lakes

By BOB BAIRD

Winter finds mid-American sportsmen only dreaming of spring and fall crappie runs at Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley, and the fall "jumps" where bass feed in furiously swirling waters.

But as the sombre grey quietude of winter settles over Kentucky's Western Waterlands, a special breed of "fisherman" emerges as motorboats lay silent.

Undaunted by the winter chill, certain northern visitors opt for remote, rugged spots along the secluded bays and inlets of western Kentucky's teeming waters. Perched in dead or isolated trees, they await a strike at the water's edge.

"Fishermen" in trees? You bet, especially when they're America's celebrated symbol of valor and freedom, the bald eagle.

Since the '70s, however, this soaring, screeching master aviator and angler has symbolized America's vanishing wilderness, an endangered species in 43 of the 50 states, including Kentucky.

Thanks to improved environmental conditions, innovative conservation programs, and growing public awareness about the mighty bird the Founding Fathers made the national symbol, the storm clouds of doom have slackened somewhat as bald eagle populations stabilize and actually increase in the lower 48 states.

This glorious bird, with a wingspan broader than most men are tall, keen eyesight and innate ability to ride the air currents into the heavens, is making a comeback, and one place where its future appears assured is Land Between the Lakes, a unique demonstration recreation area and nature preserve between Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley in western Kentucky and Tennessee.

Managed by the Tennessee Valley Authority, this national environmental area offers 300 miles of prime ice-free wintertime shoreline habitat for these majestic birds that breed in the northern waters of the U.S. and Canada.

More than 90 bald eagles, a modern record, were counted at LBL (as the recreation area is called for short) at the peak of their seasonal influx last winter. And more and more, some of these great birds stay on to mate and nest in the spring. A few even have stuck around in summer to enjoy the great fishing grounds they've discovered along one of America's great waterways. Several eagles were spotted flashing through the skies above LBL last summer—some so high, it was hard for wildlife experts to tell if they were young or adult birds.

The comeback of the bald eagle at Land Between the Lakes is the most tangible evidence that conditions generally have improved for this remarkable species and that conservation efforts are working.

"Eagles are showing up all around in the summertime, which is something six years ago we didn't have," said Bob Smith, wildlife biologist and field supervisor at LBL.

Six years ago the eagle "hacking" program began at LBL. A restoration program, eagle hacking seeks to introduce young birds, or eaglets to an area by raising them in artificial nests on tall "hacking towers" under human care. But they are raised in such a way that human contact is minimized so they remain forever wild and learn to fly and forage for themselves. Generally, bald eagles return to nest in the area where they learned to fly. Hacking, thus, is a way of establishing eagles as year-round residents.

The hacking program at LBL is a joint venture of state wildlife agencies, conservation groups and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Three captive and injured birds on loan from the service are maintained year-round at LBL for observation purposes.

Last winter's record 90 eagles spotted compares with a high of 69 during the winter of 1983-84, Smith said. In addition to the summer eagles at LBL, a nesting occurred last spring at the nearby Ballard County Wildlife Management Area along the Mississippi River. But that nesting apparently was a "false start" which eagles sometimes do, Smith said.

Basically, bald eagles are easily frightened by human activity. "Boats and eagles don't mix," said Wally Brines, a naturalist at LBL's Woodland Nature Center, who leads "eagle tours" at LBL during the winter.

"Eagles can't tolerate people around them," said John MacGregor, a Kentucky wildlife biologist, who pointed out that constant barge traffic along the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers discourages the type eagle activity that was common in the early 1800s when wildlife artist John James Audubon studied and painted the stately bird.

The outstanding success story at LBL was a young eaglet released from the hacking program in the summer of 1981 that returned there summers later and the following summer with a mate, nested in the area, and produced an eaglet each summer. The "hacked" bird had been obtained after it was hatched at the Columbus, Ohio zoo. However, if the bird returned last summer, LBL officials are not aware of where it nested.

It was the first documented return and nesting of a hacked eagle in the southeastern U.S. The LBL program is among some 13 in the country, mostly in the eastern states. The hacked eagle nested at age 3, which is believed to have been a nationwide first since bald eagles normally nest at 4-5 years old, Smith said.

Winter proves an ideal time for catching close-ups of the stately bird, during weekend tours at LBL in December, January and February. During "Eagles Weekend" the third weekend of February, busloads of bald-eagle fans take to the backroads to spot the birds through binoculars and spotting scopes. Admirers can get within a quarter-mile of the birds. Tours last around 2½ hours.

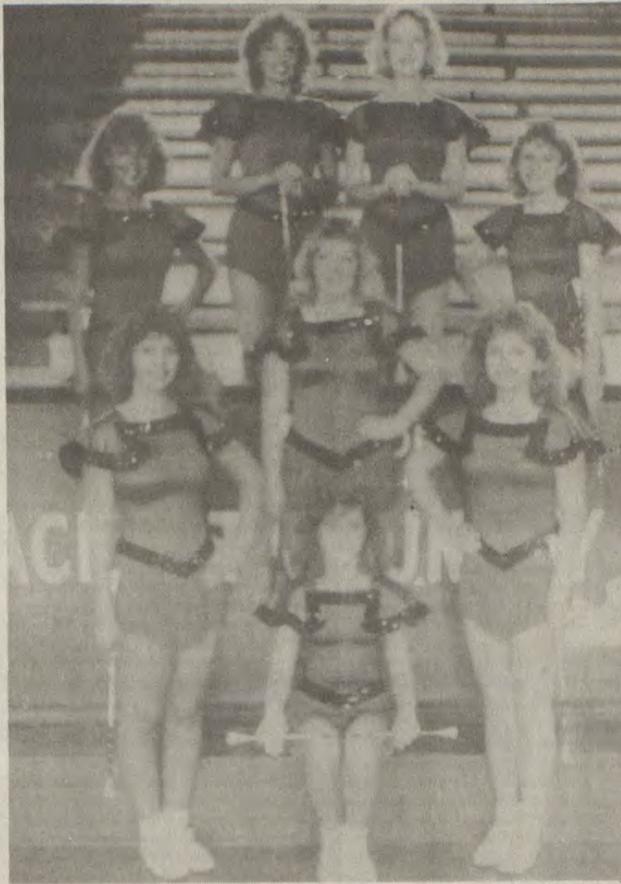

For many taking a tour, it is their first occasion to see the national symbol up close. They may get to see what Brines calls "acrobatic displays," including "talon bonding" in which male and female birds clasp talons and flip and roll in a form of mating ritual. Such displays prove to be "icing on the cake, even for people who have seen them before," Brines said.

The eagle tours attract young and old, environmentalists, school groups, even one gentleman who came one Sunday in his suit and tie.

But perhaps it's best that participants come dressed for the weather and rugged terrain, Brines said. Indeed, eagles don't tend to rush in where man often treads.

PHS Majorettes Attend Camp

The Prestonsburg High School Majorette Corps attended the Smith-Walbridge Camp at Marietta College, Marietta, O., June 21-24. For the fourth year, they were presented a plaque as the outstanding twirling group in their class. In addition, the majorettes were evaluated individually each evening on material taught, and each was awarded a blue ribbon for their performance.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., July 20—Fishing activity over the July 18-19 weekend continued to be light to moderate across the state as most anglers await relief from hot, muggy weather and for better fishing conditions to occur. Bass, bluegill and muskie were the species reported most active during the last few days. The lake-by-lake rundown, as reported by conservation officers or creel clerks at each lake:

KENTUCKY: Creel Clerk Buddy Boyd reports that white bass were hitting slab spoons in open water 15-20 feet deep and surface lures in the jumps; black bass were hitting plastic worms and buzzbaits in the backs of bays 3-5 feet deep; clear, stable at summer pool and 83 degrees.

BARKLEY: Creel Clerk Norman Brantley reports that white bass were hitting slab spoons trolled over old river banks and the mouths of tributaries 20-25 feet deep and spinners and surface lures in the jumps; catfish were hitting catalpa worms and cut bait along river bends 10-35 feet deep; bluegill were hitting flies around willow fly hatches; clear, falling, one-half foot below summer pool and 86 degrees.

BARREN RIVER: Creel clerk Ralph Shipley reports that bluegill were hitting crickets and red worms off rocky banks 6-10 feet deep; black bass were taking plastic worms at night over steep structure 15-20 feet deep; in the tailwaters, trout were taking red worms and corn, and catfish were hitting minnows; clear, stable at summer pool and 86 degrees.

NOLIN: Conservation Officer James Shipp reports that catfish were being taken with cut bait in the upper lake and in the river 5-25 feet deep; bluegill were hitting crickets and red worms off rocky banks 1-4 feet deep; clear to murky, falling, five feet below summer pool and 86 degrees.

ROUGH RIVER: Conservation Officer Gerry Rau reports that bluegill were hitting red worms and crickets along rocky drop offs and over cover 4-10 feet deep; black bass were active at night on plastic worms and crankbaits off rocky points and banks 2-8 feet deep; in the tailwaters, crappie were hitting minnows; clear, stable at summer pool and 84 degrees.

TAYLORSVILLE: Creel Clerk Bruce Raine reports that black bass were taking plastic worms along treelines in the mouths of creeks 10-15 feet deep; bluegill were hitting worms and crickets off shallow banks 2-6 feet deep; murky, stable at summer pool and 88 degrees.

HERRINGTON: Conservation Officer Charles Goode reports that bluegill were hitting crickets off points and drop offs 4-6 feet deep; catfish were taking soft craws off the bottom along channels; black bass were hitting plastic worms and buzzbaits at night off points and around cover; clear, falling, 17 feet below summer pool and 85 degrees.

GREEN RIVER: Creel Clerk John Williams reports that crappie were taking minnows over mud flats in 15-20 feet of water; muskie were hitting crankbaits off rocky slides 15-20 feet deep; clear, stable at summer pool and 85 degrees.

CUMBERLAND: Conservation Officer Mike Bowman reports that bluegill were hitting worms and crickets off points and drop offs about 10 feet deep; walleye were hitting live and artificial bait trolled along mud banks 10-15 feet deep; clear, falling, six feet below summer pool and 85 degrees.

DALE HOLLOW: Conservation Officer Marvin Edwards reports that black bass were hitting plastic worms and jigs at night off steep banks and over weed beds in 5-25 feet of water; bluegill were hitting worms and crickets off deep banks 5-15 feet deep; clear, stable at summer pool and 86 degrees.

LAUREL: Conservation Officer Bob Delph reports that trout were hitting worms, cheese and corn at night over main lake drop offs 20-30 feet deep; bluegill were active on worms and crickets along shoreline 3-10 feet deep; clear, falling, five feet below summer pool and 83 degrees.

CAVE RUN: Creel Clerk Sonny Kearns reports that black bass were hitting plastic worms over brush piles 5-15 feet deep; muskie were hitting crankbaits trolled outside standing timber 10-20 feet deep; clear, stable at summer pool and 84 degrees.

PAINTSVILLE: Creel Clerk Jim Marshall reports that black bass were hitting wax worms over brush piles 1-5 feet deep; clear, stable at one foot above summer pool and 82 degrees.

BUCKHORN: Conservation Officer Jamon Halvaksz reports that black bass were hitting top water lures and spinner baits at night off rocky banks 1-8 feet deep; bluegill were taking worms and crickets over beds, 2-6 feet deep; some muskie were being taken in the tailwaters; clear, stable at summer pool and 83 degrees.

GRAYSON: Conservation Officer Kenny Skaggs reports that black bass were hitting plastic worms along stump rows and off rocky points 3-4 feet deep; bluegill were hitting red worms over mud flats 4-6 feet deep; in the tailwaters, trout were slow on cheese and corn; clear, stable at summer pool and 84 degrees.

DEWEY: Creel Clerk Jim Marshall reports that black bass were hitting crankbaits and spinnerbaits along stump rows about four feet deep; crappie were active on minnows off rocky points about 20 feet deep; clear, stable at summer pool and 83 degrees.

Bluegrass Games To Be Televised

The 1987 Bluegrass State Games opening ceremony will be televised live from Commonwealth Stadium, July 31.

The Kentucky Cable Network and the ABC affiliate (Channel 32) of Louisville will jointly broadcast the state's largest amateur sporting event. The opening ceremony will air at 9 p.m.-11 p.m. EST, Friday, July 31. Governor Collins said, "Televising the opening ceremony will give every Kentuckian an opportunity to see and experience Kentucky's best and most valuable resource, its people, and to see a spectacular olympic-like ceremony."

Sue Feamster, executive director of the Bluegrass State Games, announced recently that Hardee's Food Systems, Inc., has become an official bronze sponsor of the 1987 Games. "We are excited that Hardee's has joined our team. They have given us a three year commitment which will sustain the growth of the games," Feamster said. Hardee's is the fourth medalist sponsor of the Games, joining Valvoline Oil Company, Coca-Cola, and CSX. Hardee's is also co-sponsoring the Kentucky Senior Olympics.

First Calendar Issue of Happy Hunting Ground Magazine Now Available

The first annual calendar issue of Kentucky Happy Hunting Ground magazine, produced by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, is now available from the department.

The calendar issue includes a wide variety of information about wildlife resources in Kentucky and each month is illustrated with a professional photograph of an outdoor scene. Some of the specific information that will be especially helpful to sportsmen is the inclusion of hunting season dates, tips on where and when to fish for certain species, average lake temperatures for each month and a list of approximate water temperatures at which major fish species spawn.

There is a great deal of information about nongame wildlife and tips on how to attract song birds and other wildlife for viewing pleasure. Dates of when wildflowers bloom, waterfowl migrate through the state and many other facts and interesting tidbits of unusual happenings in Kentucky are other examples of what is included in this special publication.

"We're very excited and pleased with this first issue," said Larry Holder, art director and magazine layout designer for the department.

"We have been working to develop a calendar for the sportsmen of Kentucky, as well as for anyone who enjoys nature. We feel we have come up with a quality source of information for both parties," Holder added.

Current subscribers will receive the calendar issue at no extra charge. New subscribers who purchase a subscription during July or August will receive one year of the bi-monthly magazine which will include the first calendar issue. Purchasing a three-year subscription also entitles the buyer to a free, one-year gift subscription for a friend.

"The calendar is the single most comprehensive source of information for the sportsmen available from the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources," said John Wilson, director of public relations and editor of Kentucky Happy Hunting Ground magazine.

"This issue will not only provide immediate hunting and fishing information, but the excellent outdoor photography will also make a pleasant addition to the office and home," Wilson said.

Next year, the illustrations for the calendar issue will be chosen from a photo contest conducted by the department. All entries must be submitted in the form of 35 mm or larger color transparencies and protected by a transparent covering. Photos must relate to fish and wildlife and must be taken in Kentucky and cannot have appeared in any other publication.

One photo will be chosen for each month judged solely on its photographic merits. Winning photographers will receive $50 for an entry and the best overall entry will appear on the cover. The owner of the best entry will receive $100. There is a five-entry limit and one prize limit per photographer.

Entries will be accepted from now through April 30, 1988 and will be returned only if accompanied with a self-addressed, stamped envelope. For more information on magazine subscriptions, purchasing a calendar and photo contest applications, write or call: Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, (502) 564-4336.

Armwrestling: Facts and Fancies

Surprisingly, a sport that's gripped people's interest since antiquity—armwrestling, didn't become an official sport until the 1950's. Wrist-wrestling—the official name for armwrestling when it's done standing at specially made tables, was given its start as an official sport in Petaluma, California in 1953.

In official competition today, competitors stand and put their elbows in a cup on the table. Left hands are clasped and the right hand is placed on the table for leverage. Matches are generally over within ten seconds and a match of three minutes is considered long. The longest official match in history lasted 17 minutes.

According to armwrestling experts, strength accounts for only 20 percent in a match. Technique and mental preparedness are the most important elements. Each wrestler has his own style—from the fast jump to staying power strategy.

SPORTS SHORTS

Today's U.S. Olympic Team is the only one that gets no government funding and relies on individual and corporate contributions for support.

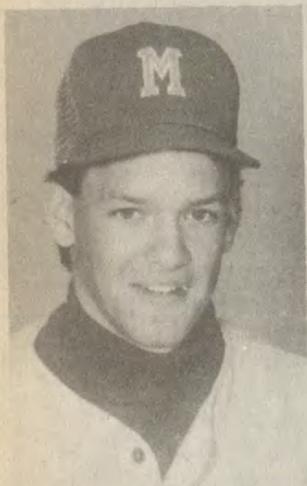

This year, American consumers who use Visa cards for retail shopping and entertainment or buy Visa Travelers Cheques will help support U.S. athletes participating in the 1988 Olympic Winter Games in Calgary, Canada, and the Summer Olympic Games in Seoul, South Korea. Visa U.S.A., as part of Visa International's worldwide sponsorship of the 1988 Olympic Games, contributes to the U.S. Olympic Team each time one of its 100 million U.S. credit cards is used or its travelers cheques are purchased during July through December 1987, and April through September 1988.

MSU Baseball Player Joins Athletes In Action

MOREHEAD, KY.—Kyle Crager, a second-baseman/designated hitter for Steve Hamilton's Eagles, is currently playing hardball for Athletes in Action this summer in Alaska.

Athletes in Action is an organization that sends out teams of college Christian all-stars to tour a variety of countries around the world. This organization started in 1966 when Dave Hannah, now Director of Athletics in Action, approached Dr. Bill Bright with the concept of a worldwide ministry to athletes. Since then, Athletes in Action has been actively involved with professional and college athletes and coaches around the world.

Kyle is a 1985 graduate of Rowan County High School, and like most youngsters started playing baseball at an early age. He first joined organized baseball at the T-ball level before moving on to the little league and then pony league.

Like many from this area, Kyle learned from some fine teachers. He played high school baseball under Larry Hardin, legion baseball under Don Hardin and now college baseball under Steve Hamilton. Last year he played in the Stan Musial league in Ashland.

"It's an honor to be selected to play for Athletes in Action," MSU's head baseball coach and acting athletic director praised. "He's a fine representative of MSU and I'm sure this experience will help him personally and the competition will be of great benefit."

Kyle is a math and public relations major at MSU where he is an honor student. He will also be co-president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes Chapter at MSU for 1988-89.

Kyle is also the third generation to participate in athletics at MSU from the Crager family. His grandfather, Denver Ball, of Ashland, came to MSU on a football scholarship in 1935.

Kyle's father, Buford Crager, a professor at MSU, came to MSU from Prestonsburg on a football scholarship in 1957. Buford holds the MSU record for the longest kickoff return (100 yds). He also played baseball his freshman year.

Tennis Tournament In Paintsville

A tennis tournament will be held July 22-26, at Paintsville. The tournament is hosted by the Paintsville City Parks and the Tennis and Table Tennis Club of Prestonsburg Community College.

Tournament events include Men's "A" and "B" Doubles, Women's Doubles, and Mixed Doubles.

Entry is limited to residents of Johnson, Floyd, Martin, Magoffin, Pike and Lawrence counties.

MSHA Revises Rule For Methane Control

The Labor Department's Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) has issued a final rule which revises existing safety standards for the control of methane gas in metal and nonmetal (non-coal) mines.

The final rule provides a new concept and procedure for categorizing mines other than coal mines according to their history of, or potential for, methane liberation, based on particular conditions in the mine.

When methane, a naturally occurring gas in some mines, exists in explosive concentrations, it can be ignited by numerous sources in the mining environment and can result in underground explosions with a high loss of lives. The potential for these ignitions can be minimized by a combination of methods, including effective monitoring of the mine for the presence of gases, provision of adequate ventilation to dilute and remove the methane, elimination or control of potential ignition sources, and prompt actions by mine personnel when the gas is detected.

Under existing metal and nonmetal mining standards, mines have been considered "gassy" if one or more of the following criteria have been met: (1) a state has classified the mine as gassy; (2) a flammable gas ignition has occurred; (3) a concentration of 0.25 percent or more of methane has been detected; or (4) the mine is connected to a gassy mine. Each gassy mine has been required to comply with identical safety standards regardless of the type and frequency of methane occurrence, the mining method, the combustibility of the ore body, and the geology of the ore body or surrounding strata at that site.

In the final rule, standards have been developed which are unique to each of six categories of mines. Therefore, mines will be required to comply only with standards that apply to a particular category.

Each underground non-coal mine will be categorized based on factors such as the liberation or potential liberation of methane in explosive or non-explosive concentrations; whether a mine has a history of outbursts of gases; the presence or absence of explosive ore dusts; the history and geology of the mine and the area; combustibility or non-combustibility of the ore body; and whether a petroleum-bearing strata has been penetrated in the mining operation.

Five categories will cover mines that have experienced a methane or volatile dust hazard, or have the potential to do so. Such mines will be required to comply with safety standards for methane control which have been developed specifically for particular conditions at the various types of mines.

The sixth category will include all remaining mines—those determined to have no established methane hazards. Mines in this category will have no specific methane compliance responsibilities as long as no methane is liberated. However, should methane be detected in these mines, immediate action is required.

This final rule also contains a mechanism for category placement or changes in placement, notification of the parties concerned, and an appeal procedure.

The final rule, published in the Federal Register, July 1, 1987, will become effective Oct. 29, 1987, and will replace existing gassy mines standards for metal and nonmetal operations contained in Title 30, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 57, Subpart T. It is applicable to all underground metal and nonmetal (non-coal) mines and certain surface mining facilities which process gilsonite, a volatile ore dust.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting the MSHA Office of Standards, Regulations and Variances, 4015 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va., 22203, or phone (703) 235-1910.

Two From Floyd County Attend ALC On Scholarship

Bill Melton, director of admissions at Alice Lloyd College, has announced the recent recipients of ALC's most prestigious scholarship. Alish Gail Parsons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Stratton, of Harold, and Lisa L. Tackett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tackett, also of Harold, have accepted the Memorial Scholarship for the 1985-86 school year as an incoming freshmen.

The Memorial Scholarship guarantees the students will have no out-of-pocket expenses for room, board, or tuition at Alice Lloyd College for the academic year. The scholarship is the equivalent of a $785 yearly grant. The scholarship is renewable each year.

Oscar Wilde Comedy To Encore On KET

Dame Wendy Hiller portrays the indomitable Lady Bracknell when "Great Performances" encores "The Importance of Being Earnest" Monday, August 10, at 8 p.m. on KET.

Oscar Wilde's hilarious 19th-century comedy of errors tells of two friends who, through deception, find themselves assuming the same identity. It is an identity, however, both would like to shed but cannot if they are to marry their respective fiancées.

Oscar Wilde wrote "The Importance of Being Earnest" during the summer of 1894, and the play was performed to enthusiastic reviews the following February at the St. James Theatre in London.

In the work, Wilde satirizes conventional morality by making the heroes people who are unconcerned with accepted ethical standards. Wilde once wrote that he celebrates in the play "the true liar, with his frank, fearless statements, his superb irresponsibility, his healthy, natural disdain of proof of any kind."

"Great Performances" is a presentation of the Great Performances Alliance: WNET/New York; KERA/Dallas-Ft. Worth; KQED/San Francisco; South Carolina ETV Network/Columbia, S.C.; and WTTW/Chicago.

The Tragedy of the Titanic Continues To Fascinate

By Ink Mendelsohn
Smithsonian News Service

"So the crash came, it sounded like this to me, like tearing a strip off a piece of calico nothing more only a quiver..." "...the ship rolling over a thousand marbles..." "...as though somebody had drawn a giant finger along the side of the ship..." "An accident in the kitchen" thought Mrs. John Jacob Astor.

It would be hard to guess these accounts described the collision of the world's largest man-made moving object of its day—the R.M.S. Titanic—with a frozen colossus—a giant iceberg. Their fateful meeting on the night of April 14, 1912, sent the ship the press had dubbed "unsinkable" to the depths of the North Atlantic with 1,523 men, women and children aboard. The Titanic would not be seen again for 73 years.

For three-quarters of a century, the lost luxury liner has captivated the public imagination. And since she was found on Sept. 1, 1985, about 350 miles southeast of Newfoundland at 12,500 feet by an American-French team of oceanographers, interest in her past and controversy over her future have been building.

This 75th anniversary year of one of modern history's greatest sea disasters is being marked by new books, lectures, television specials and even a board game with a ship model that can be raised or lowered. Over the years, there have been at least 100 books, 300 songs, movies, plays, an opera, cartoons and a macabre synonym for an exercise in futility—rearranging the deck chairs on the Titanic. At the Library of Congress, inquiries about the Titanic are second only to those about the Civil War.

With all of the world's distractions and disasters, why the ongoing fascination with a ship that sank in 1912? "Titanic's story has so many facets—historic, scientific and personal," John Eaton believes. Eaton, who in 1963 was one of the founders of the Titanic Historical Society, likens the tale to a kaleidoscope. "Hold it up to the light, see the design. Give it a quarter turn and you have a new aspect."

Charles Haas, the society's president, who with Eaton has written a new book, Titanic, Triumph and Tragedy (W.W. Norton Co., 1986), thinks the fascination lies in the story's inherent drama. "We admire the great displays of courage and heroism—latent qualities in people not often seen in this hurry-up world," he says. "Modern disasters like air crashes and the Challenger tragedy leave little opportunity to be heroic."

The pride of the White Star Line sailed under British and American flags when she steamed out of Southampton, England, on her maiden voyage to New York on April 10, 1912. The ship's builders, Harland & Wolff of Belfast, Ireland, and her owners were proud that she had been built to the highest standards of quality and available technology.

Fully-equipped, the liner had cost $7.5 million. Every detail, from the steel-plated hull to the delicate 21-light chandelier that graced the grand staircase, had been carefully planned and executed. The Titanic was equipped with a powerful Marconi wireless apparatus, a special cellular bottom, watertight bulkheads and doors and four more lifeboats than the 16 required by British Board of Trade regulations.

Sixteen lifeboats, it was later calculated, would hold only a quarter of the 3,547-person certified capacity of the ship. Lifeboats for all on board were not thought necessary in an Edwardian world with supreme confidence in its technology. "I cannot imagine any condition which would cause a ship to founder...Modern shipbuilding has gone beyond that," Capt. Edward J. Smith opined six years before he took command of the Titanic. Smith met a captain's fate when the ship went down.

The Titanic was a post-Edwardian world afloat. The rigid class structure of life before the First World War was protected aboard by distinct accommodations, spaces and treatment accorded first-, second- and third-class passengers.

First class had a lounge modeled after a room at Versailles, a palm court, a Parisian cafe, an Arabian-style Turkish bath, a gymnasium, a squash court, 11 styles of staterooms, a lounge for maids and valets and a first-class kennel for the likes of the Astor Airedale, Kitty. A certain Billy Carter of Philadelphia needed space for 60 shirts, 15 pairs of shoes, two sets of tails, 24 polo sticks and his Renault motor car. The most exclusive suites cost $4,350 for one-way-passage—the equivalent of about $55,000 today.

Second- and third-class one-way passages averaged a mere $65 and $35, respectively. Second-class passengers had spacious staterooms, handsome public rooms and their own promenade. Third-class passengers—most of them immigrants—had far better accommodations aboard the Titanic than such travelers had known before. There were airy and well-lighted public rooms and staterooms with several berths instead of dormitories.

All in all, the ship's company must have been rather content on their fifth night out. The sea was calm and the weather clear but brightly cold. There had been warnings of icebergs in the area, but the ship steamed confidently ahead at 21.5 knots. High in the crow's nest under a star-encrusted sky, at just a bit before 11:40, the lookout suddenly rang the warning bell three times and reported to the bridge: "Iceberg right ahead." In half a minute, the "safest" and most beautiful ship afloat was doomed.

On her starboard side, about 12 feet above the keel, Titanic's underbelly was struck by a spur jutting from the iceberg's mass. Hard as an icy diamond, the projectile caused a wound that exposed the ship's "watertight" compartments to the onrush of the sea.

In the scant two hours and 40 minutes left to the Titanic and the 2,228 people aboard, there was never, according to accounts of survivors on deck in the last moments, any general panic. And some of the behavior was the stuff of legends.

MEMORIES

Today, there are left a scant two dozen survivors of the 705 rescued when the Titanic sank the morning of April 15, 1912, after a deadly rendezvous with a giant iceberg in the North Atlantic, and 1,523 men, women and children joined her in legend. All of the people whose memories of that night are recorded here are gone now with the exception of Eva Hart. These recollections are excerpted from the archives of the Titanic Historical Society, which are housed and cared for in the library of the Philadelphia Maritime Museum.

EVA M. HART, 7-YEAR-OLD PASSENGER: "The lifeboats were lowered, and my mother put into one, and then my father lifted me up to put me in too, and when I clung to him, he said quietly, 'Go with Mummy and stay close to her like a good girl.'"

FRANK GOLDSMITH, 9-YEAR-OLD PASSENGER: "My dad reached down and patted me on the shoulder and said, 'So long, Frankie, I'll see you later.' He didn't and he may have known he wouldn't."

EDITH RUSSELL, PASSENGER: "...she stood there erect, fully eleven to twelve storeys high, like a skyscraper fully lit..."

WALTER BELFORD, BAKER: "I was very lucky. I went over the side with a Bottle of Scotch. I was 5 hours in the water...I kept taking a nip ev ery now and then."

LAWRENCE BEESLEY, PASSENGER: "...we gazed broadside on the Titanic from a short distance. She was absolutely still—indeed from the first it seemed as if the blow from the iceberg had taken all the courage out of her..."

LEO J. HYLAND, STEWARD: "The sea rose higher up into the ship and reached the various fuse boxes. So a section of the electric lights would be extinguished. The ship began to descend at a slightly quickening pace, and now a terrific crescendo splits the air, bursting boilers, bulkheads and heavy machinery crushing through the ship, the finawl plunge is any moment, and now about it all arises the terrified screams and agonizing cries of those left behind, as with a spurt the Titanic's stern dives under the sea, in a very few moments all was silent and stilled."

MAUD SLOCOMBE, MASSEUSE: "...a night to forget."

Mining tycoon Benjamin Guggenheim and his valet Victor Giggio dressed in evening clothes and prepared to go down like gentlemen. Archie Butt, President Taft's military aide, sat down to a last hand of cards with his cronies. Ida Straus refused to leave her husband Isidor, a Macy's partner, and the couple, on deck chairs, awaited the end. John Jacob Astor, one of America's richest men, politely asked to join his 19-year-old wife Madeleine, who was in "delicate condition," in the lifeboat. When refused, he kissed his wife and returned to the deck. The eight bandmen played ragtime and waltzes to cheer the passengers right to the last. All went down with the ship.

There was nobility and there was human frailty. The cry was "women and children first," but there was poor organization and inconsistent policy in loading the lifeboats. Of first- and second-class women and children, 94 percent were saved but only 42 percent of those in third class survived. Of the first- and second-class children, only little Lorraine Allison perished with her family, but 52 out of 79 third-class children died.

One who was saved was 10-month-old Frank (Filly) Aks, on his way with his mother to Norfolk, Va., to join his father in a new life. According to family legend, "a man grabbed me from my mother's arms and threw me into a lifeboat right into a woman's lap." Frank and his mother were reunited on board the Carpathia, the rescue ship that began picking up 705 survivors from lifeboats less than two hours after the Titanic sank.

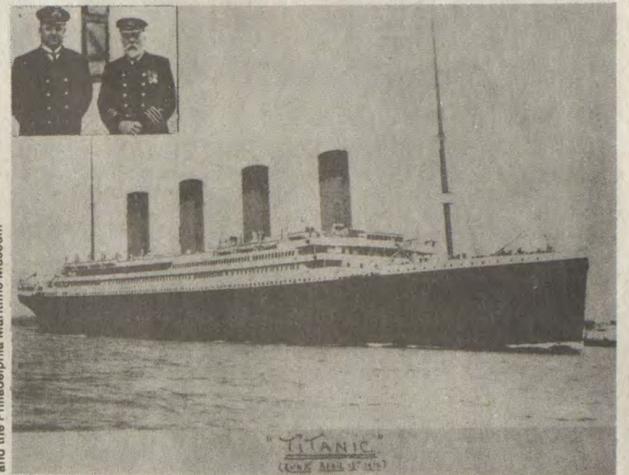

Not so lucky was Marjorie Newell Robb, who today is the only surviving first-class passenger. Marjorie, then 23, and her sister Madeleine lost their adored father. Arthur Newell and his girls were on a world tour. "In those days, it was an honor if your father took you for a Sunday walk," she recalls.

Now that the Titanic has been found in international waters, various groups here and abroad are planning expeditions to salvage artifacts, to produce a television special from 12,500 feet and to attempt raising and refloating the ship.

Dr. Robert Ballard, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution scientist and explorer, led the U.S. team that originally found the Titanic with a remote video camera system. Last summer, he and team members explored the site in a three-man submersible called Alvin. In October 1985, Ballard told a congressional committee: "In short, the great pyramids of the deep are now accessible to man. He can either plunder them like the grave robbers of Egypt or protect them for the countless generations which will follow ours."

In the months before the second Titanic expedition, Ballard and other WHOI officials met with representatives of the Smithsonian Institution to discuss the historical significance of finding the Titanic and the implications of the rapidly developing new technology that did the job. William Withuhn, deputy chairman of the Department of Science and Technology of the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History, expressed the Smithsonian's support for a sanctuary principle.

"Physically having artifacts from the Titanic won't add to our knowledge of the ship," Withuhn says. "We are excited about the results of the Woods Hole expeditions, but we would not accept artifacts brought up by any group. We shouldn't forget that the Titanic's final resting place is also the final resting place of 1,523 people."

MARQUEE

INNERSPACE (PG - Warner Bros.) Starring Martin Short, Meg Ryan and Dennis Quaid. ★★

By J.T. YURKO

In "Innerspace," director Joe Dante and producer Steven Spielberg take the old adage "let's get small" to heart. The movie is a comedy just this side of a comic book, a remarkably precise blend of "Fantastic Voyage" and "All of Me."

The movie's hero, Navy Lt. Tuck Pendleton (Dennis Quaid) is the subject of a military miniaturization project, planned to prevent a "shrink gap" between the U.S. and unfriendly powers. But at the precise moment of shrinkage, the lab is raided by industrial spies led by the villainous Victor Scrimshaw (Kevin McCarthy), and Pendleton is accidentally injected into the body of grocery clerk Jack Putter (Martin Short).

Understandably, the hypochondriac Putter is surprised when Tuck tries to communicate. He wants his body all to himself again. But Scrimshaw and his cohorts have stolen the microchip that can reverse the process, and what's worse, Tuck has less than a day's supply of oxygen. So Tuck and Putter (working together, of course) join Tuck's wife Lydia (Daphne Maxwell) in an antic, frantic pursuit of the crucial chip.

All the actors gleefully overplay their roles, especially McCarthy, who dresses in white but otherwise is the classic caped, mustache-twirling scoundrel. As Turk, Quaid acquires some of the sensitivity of an underdog. Conversely, Short's Putter picks up on Turk's natural bravado. After years of performing on television, Short (who made his film debut in last year's "Three Amigos") may become a first-rank movie star.

Dante ("Gremlins") excels at lowbrow cinema, and Spielberg's productions are tops for special effects. And the pairing of Short and Quaid makes this film an enjoyably silly misadventure.

SOAP BEAT

Soap world, real world keep Linda Dano busy

By Marie Michaels

For Linda Dano, who portrays Felicia Gallant on "Another World," time spent on the set of the NBC soap is the most relaxing part of the day. When not taping "AW," Dano co-hosts "Attitudes," a cable-TV talk show that airs on Lifetime. And for six years she has operated Strictly Personal, a fashion consulting agency that counts among its clients "Another World" and "As the World Turns."

Linda Dano

"When I come home from the studio or shopping all day, I don't even take off my hat, coat and gloves before I toss the salad and start the pasta water," Dano says. "At this point in my life, I don't know how to have 'down time.'"

When Dano was growing up in Los Angeles, her father held as many as three jobs at once. Yet even at home, she was considered unusually energetic. "In my family, I was always the one who said, 'Hey, let's do this,'"

she remembers. "It's my nature always to be in motion."

After playing Cynthia Haines on "As the World Turns" and Gretel Cummings on "One Life to Live," Dano joined "AW" in 1982. That year, she also began what she considers the most demanding of her pursuits - her marriage to advertising executive Frank Attardi.

"My most important job is my relationship with Frank," she says. "The other things in my life come and go. People come and go, business things come and go. But what I can count on and what I work hard on is this relationship."

Fortunately, Dano says, she and her husband are dedicated to their life together as well as to their business ventures.

"Things could be a lot worse if Frank and I weren't both workaholics," she says. "We're both lunatics about our work. We still have our time together, though. That's essential."

Dano confesses to feeling occasional misgivings about her frenzied lifestyle. "I do wonder sometimes if it's really healthy to have so many activities going on at once," she admits. "Some people say that it could ultimately kill you."

"But the reverse side of the coin is that keeping busy can keep you alive. I also think that one day all of this will be over, so I'd better do everything now while I still can."

HABITVIEW

This week, cable offers many kinds of comedy

By Marianne Meyer

Before sitting down to this week's cable offerings, have your funny bone checked. The networks are featuring so many kinds of comedy that you might hurt yourself if you don't.

Max Headroom
 There's a classic: On Thursday, July 30, The Arts & Entertainment Network airs "The Rink" (1916) as part of its "Chaplin Lost and Found" series. This half-hour gem stars Chaplin as a waiter who skates in his spare time. As one might expect, the film offers both ballet and classic Chaplin pratfalls.
 There's a computer: On Monday, July 27, computer-generated wit Max Headroom returns to Cinemax to host a second season of new-wave talk shows. Here, Max's guests are model Jerry Hall and the comedy-magic duo Penn and Teller. While neither is likely to light up your life, expect the irreverent Max to put them in their place - and to put a smile on your face. The episode also airs Wednesday, July 29, and Friday, July 31.

 There's a cartoon: Kids will chuckle on Saturday, Aug. 1, as two of Dr. Seuss' most colorful characters cross paths in "Dr. Seuss' the Grinch Grinches the Cat in the Hat." This Disney Channel exclusive features the cunning feline in an all-out effort to give the evil Grinch a taste of his own medicine.
 And there are comedians: It's not too late to catch four clever, witty, original comedians sharing the stage in an HBO special. "On Location: Women of the Night," airing Sunday, July 26, and Wednesday, July 29, features four comedians who, incidentally, are women. The special reflects an all-too-common sort of programmer prejudice. Why four women shoehorned into one show? Why the title innuendo, encouraged by suggestive opening credits? And why a male comic, Martin Short, as master of ceremonies?
 Sexism aside, there are a lot of laughs in this hour-long special. Ellen DeGeneres and Rita Rudner perform "lite" comedy routines, and Paula Poundstone's monologue highlights her dry, casual wit. Best of all is Judy Tenuta, who sings accordion love songs to the pope and redefines stand-up daffiness. Both Tenuta and Poundstone deserve full-length comedy specials of their own.

Center: Steps An original work by Oscar-winning director Zbigniew Rybczynski ("Tango") featuring scenes from Sergei Eisenstein's "The Battleship Potemkin". (60 min.)

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 836-0183

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Coal Mac, Inc., P.O. Box 3428, Pikeville, Kentucky 41501, has filed an application for a surface coal mining and reclamation operation. The proposed operation disturbs approximately 184.72 surface acres and will underlie an additional 36.95 acres. The operation is located 0.7 miles southeast of Teaberry in Floyd County.

The proposed operation is approximately 0.4 miles east from KY Rt. 979's junction with Tinker Fork Road and located 0.4 miles east of Mud Creek. The latitude is 37° 24' 37". The longitude is 82° 37' 28". The surface area is owned by Coal Mac, Inc.; Turner Elkhorn Mining Company; Beaver Valley Coal Co., Inc.; Dorothy Blanton, Everett and Carol Blanton; John and Charlene Adkins; Casey Newsome Heirs; The Bank Josephine; Delmer Kizer; and Rexal and Garnet Hamilton. The operation will underlie land owned by Tilda Ray Estate, Willard Johnson, Orville Hamilton.

The proposed operation is located on the McDowell and Pikeville U.S.G.S. 7-1/2 minute quadrangle maps. The operation will use the mountain top removal, contour and auger methods of mining. The application also includes a proposed land use change from the forest land pre-mining land use to a pasture and fish and wildlife post-mining land use.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. 7-1-3t.

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections and/or requests for a permit conference must be received within thirty (30) days of today's date. 1t.

GED Day Planned During State Fair

Carnival rides, beauty pageants, concerts, agricultural exhibits—there is a lot to do at the Kentucky State Fair. Add educational opportunity to the list.

This year at the fair, Kentuckians without high school diplomas can enroll in GED ON TV, and August 26 will be proclaimed "Governor's Day for GED ON TV." Governor Martha Layne Collins will be on hand encouraging Kentuckians to study for high school equivalency certificates.

KET will interview adults interested in studying for their high school equivalency exam. GED ON TV includes a series of 43 half-hour lessons broadcast weekly on KET.

GED ON TV also includes pre- and post-testing services, student workbooks, a test voucher which pays for the GED exam, and a staff providing on-going student support via a toll-free telephone number.

The KET exhibit area at the state fair provides private areas where trained staff will interview potential GED students and enroll them on the spot. The enrollment fee will be waived on GED Day.

A Heartfelt Thanks

The family of Faye E. Braddock would like to try to express their appreciation to all the people who donated or helped in any way toward the funeral service for her.

Even though we were unable to bring Faye home, all donations were sent to Florida, and thus prevented her cremation. She was given a beautiful funeral.

Our brothers, Jarvis, Ray, Rufus, and Jay Moore, went to Florida and were given permission to handle the funeral arrangements. Her final resting place is at Curlew Hills Memorial Garden at Palm Harbor, Florida. Again, thanks, and a special thanks to Monroe Vanderpool.

Easter Brown Slone

Easter Brown Slone, of Martin, died Thursday at the Highlands Regional Medical Center following an extended illness.

Card of Thanks

The family of Bradley Stevens would like to extend their appreciation to all those friends who helped during our time of sorrow. We would like to thank all those who helped out on the hill, sent food, flowers, and visited at the church. We truly appreciate everything you did for us.

Perhaps you sent a lovely card, or sat quietly in a chair.

If so, we saw it there.

Perhaps you spoke the kindest words that any friend could say.

Perhaps you were not there at all, just thought of us that day.

We thank you all for everything. May God bless you everyone.

In Memoriam

In memory of our mother, Virgie Hunter, who passed away July 20, 1964. Twenty-three years have passed and gone,

But mom your memory still lives on. Your tender love, your smiling face, Is something time cannot erase.

You were so young, just forty-three, But Jesus said, come stay with me. We still have dad, he is so dear, But, mom, we all wish you could be here. We know you're happy in your new home, But mom with your memory we're not alone.

Everybody's Science

IMMIGRANT PLANTS
By JIM BENSON

Well, sure. Most Americans are descended from immigrants, and so are apples—from ancestors somewhere south of the Black Sea.

In fact, except for the likes of blueberries, cranberries, sunflowers, and Jerusalem artichokes, most U.S. food plants are natives of other lands.

Lettuce graced the tables of Persian kings in 550 B.C. and was a favorite salad of pre-Christian Romans. Cucumbers were cultivated in India 3,000 years ago. The walls of 5,000-year-old Egyptian tombs include pictures of laborers eating onions.

Remains of peas have been found in prehistoric Swiss lake dwellings, possibly left on their plates by finicky Bronze Age children.

Olives, usually associated with Greece and Italy, are now believed to have originated in India, along with oranges, black-eyed peas, and rice.

Isn't rice a native of China? No, but the Chinese did give the world peaches, apricots, and rhubarb.

Besides onions, citizens of ancient Egypt ate such familiar American foods as asparagus, cabbage, radishes, and watermelons. Centuries ago, Ethiopians ate okra and barley and drank coffee.

Many of the food plants cultivated today in the U.S. are native to the southern part of the western hemisphere. Avocados were grown in Central and South America 9,000 years ago. Corn, cacao, tomatoes, squash, peppers, peanuts, pineapples, pumpkins, and many kinds of beans came from Latin America. So did—saving the best for last—strawberries, natives of Chile.

"If the United States didn't have such a good history of plant introduction and research, our restaurants would have pretty monotonous menus," says Howard J. Brooks, who oversees horticultural research for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service.

Some recent imports through the ARS plant exploration and introduction program include fruits with high content of essential vitamins and minerals. One is the lychee nut, sometimes called "a strawberry with a peel," imported from southern China. The lychee nut can supply 40 percent more vitamin C per pound than oranges. Another is the carambola, a star-shaped fruit introduced from Taiwan and Thailand. Carambola is a good source of vitamins A and C, potassium, and iron, and carambola orchards are expanding rapidly in Florida.

Macadamia nuts are also known as Australian nuts, bopple nuts, bush nuts and Queensland nuts.

Janey Garrett Branham

Mrs. Janey Garrett Branham, 86, of Green Acres, died Saturday morning in the Mt. Manor Nursing Home at Pikeville following an extended illness.

Born June 1, 1901 at Williamson, W. Va., a daughter of the late John L. and Rosie Goodman Garrett, she was a member of the Community United Methodist Church here. Her husband, Turner Branham, preceded her in death November 22, 1968.

She is survived by a daughter, Ruby A. Hopson, of Thelma; a son, John A. Branham, also of Thelma; a sister, Anna Lee Alley, of Prestonsburg; four grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at 11 a.m. in the Carter Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. Ron Masters officiating. Burial was made in the Mayo cemetery.

Pallbearers were Mike Ormerod, Jimmy Joe Derossett, Tom Dillon, Tim Cooley, Hansel Cooley, and Danny Cooley.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Bertha Williams would like to express their deep appreciation to all the friends, neighbors and loved ones who helped comfort them during their time of sorrow. Thanks for the food, flowers, prayers, and words of comfort spoken by all. A special thanks to the ministers and to the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and courteous services.

Needs Host Family

Siw Froyland, of Norway, is coming to our area this August for a high school year.

A family from this area is needed to host her for the 1987-88 school year. She enjoys sports, music, and socializing—so a family with similar interests would be a wonderful match. She has good grades, and is looking forward to meeting Americans from this area and being a part of high school activities next year.

If your family is interested in hosting Siw or another exchange student coming here in August, please contact the local EF Foundation Area Representative today.

Two Appeals Challenge High Court's Decision

The Kentucky Supreme Court decision barring surface landowners from preventing mineral owners strip mining their land is being challenged this week in two appeals.

John Rosenberg, of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund said Tuesday that a third appeal may be filed by state Dept. of Natural Resources in favor of the 1984 statute which was sponsored by House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo (D. Prestonsburg).

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: My wife has advanced breast cancer. Her doctor has suggested a clinical trial. What is a clinical trial?

ANSWER: In cancer research, a clinical trial, sometimes called an investigational study or protocol, is a study conducted with cancer patients to evaluate a new treatment. Each study is designed to answer scientific questions and to find new and better ways to help cancer patients.

The search for good cancer treatments begins in laboratory and animal studies. The best results of that research are tried in patient studies, hopefully leading to findings that may help many people. During a trial, more and more information is gained about a new treatment, its risks and how well it may or may not work.

Patients take part in clinical trials for many reasons. Usually, they hope for benefits for themselves. They may hope for a cure, a longer time to live or a way to feel better. Often they want to contribute to a research effort that may help others.

Patients in a clinical trial are among the first to receive new research treatments before they are widely available. Although there is always a chance that a new treatment will be a disappointment, the researchers involved have reason to believe that it will be as good as, or better than, current treatments.

Only patients who wish to, take part in clinical trials and, of course, the patient may leave the trial at any time. A patient should learn as much as he can about a trial before he enters.

For a copy of the booklet "What Are Clinical Trials All About? A Booklet for Patients with Cancer", call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER or write McDowell Cancer Network, 900 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Cancer Information Service.

All comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be received within fifteen (15) days of today's date.

Job Corps Center Nominated For Employer of Year Award

The Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center has been nominated by the Prestonsburg Department for Employment Services for the American Legion's Employer of the Year Award for hiring veterans of military service.

Once a year the American Legion selects and honors a private business or industry as Employer of the Year. This is a national honor and the chosen company gets the opportunity to attend and be recognized at the American Legion's National convention.

"We've traditionally employed a large number of veterans, and we're happy to be nominated," said Rod Chambers, Job Corps Director. "We hire the best people we can find, and if the person has the requisite skills and credentials and they happen to be a veteran, that's great for us and great for the individual."

Chambers said a person with a military background will often fit in well with the structured environment at the center. "The students here have set hours to get up, eat, and attend classes, the same as in the military, and a person who has been through the service will be able to acclimate to our system."

Claude Ratliff, who has served as the Veterans' Employment Representative at the Prestonsburg office for the last three years, was responsible for making this year's nomination. Ratliff said the selection of the Job Corps Center was based on the percent of total employees at the center who are veterans (30.1 percent) and by the percent of total employees hired last year who are veterans (52.8 percent).

"The Job Corps has consistently proved themselves to be a friend of our unemployed veterans," Ratliff said. "This year over 20 major and minor employers were considered for this nomination, including all federal contractors in our service area, but the Perkins Center won hands down."

Next month the state's American Legion Executive Board will pick a state winner from all the nominees. Then a national winner will be selected to attend the National Convention in Louisville in August, 1988.

"Veterans have intrinsic qualities," Ratliff said. "They've been tested and trained to be dependable, responsible, and productive team-oriented workers. And the Job Corps has essentially said to them one good job deserves another."

K mart Distributes Literacy Dollars

More than 3,000 "Literacy Dollars" will be distributed by the Pikeville K mart store during July. The Pikeville store is one of 2,000 K mart stores participating in the program. Nationally K mart will distribute six million "dollars."

The "Literacy Dollars" are part of the Project Literacy U.S. (PLUS) campaign, Read America, Win America. The dollar will be good for a $1 discount admission at participating members of the International Association of Amusement Parks and Attractions. For each coupon redeemed, the participating parks will donate $1 to the Read America, Win America Fund.

Dolly Parton will serve as chairperson of Read America, Win America.

The fund will be administered by the Kentucky Educational Network (KET). The proceeds of the campaign will support the national literacy hotline, local literacy coalitions and PLUS task forces, the GED (high school equivalency program), and to launch the Student Literacy Corps in the nation's high schools.

K mart, sponsor of "Learn to Read," an instructional reading program for functionally illiterate adults, broadcast on 60 commercial television stations across the United States, will also support the Read America, Win America Fund with a special fundraising program in their stores.

WHEN YOU HAVE SOMETHING TO SELL, NEWSPAPER SELLS IT BEST.

No matter what it is you're selling, newspaper can sell it best. You can show it. Describe it. Explain it. Compare it. Offer a coupon for it. And cover your entire marketplace with it. All in one day. And for a lot less than radio and TV.

And the unique thing about newspaper is that it adds credibility to your message. People believe it when they read it in the paper. Maybe that's why retailers use newspaper more than any other medium.

Newspaper. It delivers.

Income Limit Raised For WIC Eligibility

Beginning July 1, more low-income Kentuckians may qualify for the Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC), the Cabinet for Human Resources announced.

"The federal government is raising the income levels that define poverty," said Peggy Kidd of the Department for Health Services. "WIC eligibility is based on these figures, so families with incomes near the current maximums may become eligible."

For example, the annual maximum income for a family of four will increase from $20,350 to $20,720. The average increase per family size is between four and five percent.

WIC provides nutrition education and specific foods high in protein, iron and vitamins A and C to low-income pregnant women, new mothers, infants and children up to five years of age who have health problems that can be improved through better nutrition. The goal of WIC, which is funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is to improve the health of children through proper nutrition.

Almost 66,000 Kentuckians now receive WIC benefits monthly, according to Kidd. In June 1986, approximately 65,000 Kentuckians received monthly WIC benefits.

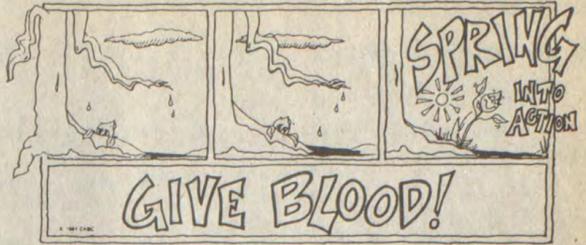

For more information on WIC eligibility, interested persons may contact their local or district health department.

Those With Summer Jobs May Have To Pay Taxes

Many students with summer jobs or part-time jobs no longer can be exempt from federal income tax withholding, because of tax law changes made by the Tax Reform act of 1986. The following material will answer many of the questions students have about the new law.

Q. I am a student and am about to start a summer job. Will income tax be taken out of my pay?

A. When you start work, you must give your employer a filled-in Form W-4 or W-4A, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate." This will tell your employer whether to withhold tax.

Q. Can I claim exemption from withholding on my Form W-4 or W-4A?

A. You can claim exemption from withholding only if you had to pay no tax last year and expect to pay no tax this year.

Q. How can I know whether I will have to pay tax this year?

A. You will have to pay some federal income tax for 1987 if you can be claimed as a dependent on your parents' or another person's income tax return and if:

- 1) You have any unearned income, such as interest on savings, and
- 2) Your wages plus this unearned income will be more than $500. However, if your wages will be $2,540 or less and you have no unearned income, you generally will be exempt from withholding.

Q. If I can't claim exemption from withholding, how many withholding allowances should I claim?

A. Claim one allowance if you have only one job at a time. Or, if you want or need more tax withheld, claim zero allowances. See the Form W-4 or W-4A instructions for details. Also, IRS has prepared Publication 919, "Is My Withholding Correct?" that you can use to see if withholding is correct.

DAMON NEWSOME, JR. AND BRIAN WALLACE participants in the Professional Education Preparation Program (PEPP) work on a laboratory project at Kentucky State University.

Precautions Are Recommended To Avoid Credit Card Fraud

Credit cards are a common luxury that many of us enjoy. Travel and entertainment cards such as American Express, department store charge cards, and VISA and Mastercard are just a few of the many credit cards that allow us immediate access to the things we want and need. Your card in the wrong hands however, could also enable a thief immediate access to those same luxuries, all at your expense.

Attorney General Dave Armstrong urges consumers to take precautions against such credit card fraud.

"Credit cards are rapidly growing in popularity. Unfortunately, the theft and fraudulent use of them has also escalated," he said.

Consumers can protect themselves by doing the following: Carry your credit cards separately from your wallet or purse. This could greatly minimize your loss should either be lost or stolen. Keep all cards in a safe, secure place and take only the card or cards you know you will use when you go out. Check your charge cards regularly to account for them all and if one of your cards is missing, report it to that company immediately. You can be held liable for up to $50.00 per card of unauthorized charges made prior to your reporting. You will not be held responsible for any charges made after you have reported the card missing. Armstrong warns consumers that a charge card does not have to be lost or stolen in order for someone else to use it.

"Never leave your card on a counter in open view while making a purchase and don't give out your charge card number over the phone," he advises. "It is also important to dispose of the carbons yourself. If another person knows your charge number, it can be possible for them to charge items to your account by mail or over the phone when the actual card is not necessary."

For more information or to file a complaint, contact the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. Telephone (502) 564-2200.

Bluestone Dam Site of Dam Builders Reunion

The staff at Bluestone Lake will host the First Annual Dam Builders Reunion July 31 through August 2.

Events scheduled for the occasion will include daytime tours of the dam and a special showing on Friday and Saturday evenings of a movie taken during the actual construction of the facility. An exhibit of early construction photographs will be on display. Also, attendees are encouraged to participate in the "living history" interviews which will be videotaped throughout the weekend.

All former dam workers, employed during the construction period—January 19, 1942 through completion of the dam in early 1952—and their families, including the relatives of now deceased workers, are cordially invited to attend. All past and present employees and their families are also welcome.

The reunion committee requests anyone possessing historical memorabilia, i.e., personal photos, and/or negatives, or anything else related to the construction, to write: Bluestone Lake, 701 Miller Avenue, Hinton, WV 25951-2643 or telephone 304-466-1234/1236.

If interested in attending, call 304-466-1234 by July 21.

A total of 1,067,956 participants were enrolled in Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) Title II-A programs during Program Year 1985 (July 1985-June 1986). Youth accounted for 44 percent of the total, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's annual report for fiscal year 1986.

Mid-June Hog Prices Rises

"Hog prices received by Kentucky farmers at mid-June were higher than both the May 1987 and the June 1986 averages. Beef cattle prices were lower than May, but still significantly higher than June 1986," said Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell.

Hogs, with a mid-June price of $59.40, were $4.50 higher than the May average of $54.90 and $7.10 above the June 1986 price. Barrows and gilts were up $4.70 from May to $60 at mid-June, according to the Kentucky Agricultural Statistics Service.

Beef cattle, with a mid-June price of $55.30 were 10 cents below the May average, but $10.70 above June 1986. The decline in May was due to a 60-cent drop in cow prices, while steer and heifer prices were up 10 cents. Calves, with a mid-June price of $72.30, were $1.10 below the $73.40 May average, but $17.70 higher than the June 1986 price of $54.60.

Honored by Appalred

Ira Newman, directing attorney of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund's Richmond office, who is a native of Floyd county, was honored June 26 with a dinner marking his 10th year of service with Appalred, given by staff of the Richmond office and John Rosenberg, program director.

Newman became a staff attorney in the fund's Lexington office after being admitted to the Kentucky Bar in 1977. He has been directing attorney in the Richmond office since its opening in 1979.

A graduate of McDowell High School, Berea College, and the University of Kentucky School of Law, he is the son of Mrs. Maggie Newman, of McDowell, and the late Green Newman. He and his family reside in Berea.

He was presented with a certificate of appreciation and a copy of Denise Giardina's book, 'Storming Heaven.'

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: We recently built an addition on our home using plywood and paneling. A neighbor mentioned that he had read that these wood products may contain a substance called "formaldehyde", and that formaldehyde can cause some health problems. Does formaldehyde cause cancer? What are the health problems from formaldehyde? What should I do about the addition I put on my home?

ANSWER: Formaldehyde is a common chemical used in many things, including pressed wood products (such as plywood and paneling). When formaldehyde is used to make pressed wood, some of it may not bond or be completely transformed in the wood, and may be released in a gaseous form, especially when the product is new. The release of these fumes increase with rising temperature and humidity.

The association between formaldehyde and cancer risk is uncertain. Formaldehyde has been shown to cause cancer in laboratory animals exposed to high levels of fumes. According to several experts, exposure to formaldehyde is likely to pose a risk of cancer to humans, but it is not known how great that risk may be. Scientists are continuing to do research on the possible harmful effects of long-term exposure to low levels of formaldehyde.

Other health problems caused by formaldehyde depend on the level of formaldehyde in the air. These include eye, nose, and throat irritation; difficulties in breathing; nosebleeds, and asthma-like reactions. Other less common reactions include headaches, fatigue, memory loss and nausea.

Most homes containing pressed wood products do not have levels of fumes which are high enough to cause health problems because the emissions from aged wood products are quite low. However, in recently constructed or recently remodeled homes, the emissions may be higher and may pose problems. If you suspect formaldehyde levels are too high in your home, the use of vinyl wall coverings, insulating paints, or polyurethane to seal bare surfaces may help to lower the levels. Also, assuring good ventilation in your home will help reduce the level of fumes.

For a free pamphlet or more information about testing for formaldehyde in the home, call the Consumer Products Safety Commission at 1-800-638-CPSC. For information on any cancer-related question call 1-800-4-CANCER or write the Cancer Information Service at McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Community Cancer Program.
