

THIS WAS THE SCENE OF AN APPARENT MURDER-SUICIDE which took place here along the Wahoo Trail at Jenny Wiley State Park, Saturday afternoon. Dead are Randy Brown, 22, of Martin and Jeffrey Ratliff, 22, of Mousie.

Deaths at Jenny Wiley Park Are Ruled Murder-Suicide

By Jeff Weddle

Two men were dead of gunshot wounds Saturday at Jenny Wiley State Park, victims of an apparent murder-suicide.

According to Floyd county Coroner Roger Nelson, a preliminary autopsy revealed that Randy Brown, 22, of Martin, shot Jeffrey Ratliff, 22, of Mousie, Knott county, three times in the head with a .22 caliber pistol before taking his own life with a single shot to the head. A handgun of that caliber was found near the bodies. Nelson, who pronounced both dead at the scene, said there was no indication of a struggle.

The shooting is thought to have taken place on the Wahoo Physical Fitness Trail at about 1:45 p.m., but it was not until 8:15 that evening that vacationing hikers found the bodies. The hikers called park rangers who contacted other authorities. Det. Jim Stephens is conducting the state police investigation.

Ratliff had worked at the Food City supermarket here for the past 18 months. Reportedly, he met Brown there about a year ago when he, too,

Victims Were PCC Student, Store Worker

worked at the store. Brown was a student at Prestonsburg Community College at the time of his death.

Ratliff was remembered by Food City manager Bill Potter as "well liked and a good employee." Assistant manager Carlene Burchett said he was "outgoing and joking and loved by everyone." Ratliff's mother was quoted as saying that her son and Brown were very close.

The bodies were taken to Lexington, Sunday, where Dr. John Hunsaker, III, assistant state medical examiner, performed autopsies. Nelson said toxicology examination results had not been received Monday, but there was no evidence at the scene that either man had been drinking or using drugs.

Nelson did not speculate on a motive. Stephens confirmed that two suicide notes were left at the scene. He said a handwriting analysis is being conducted to determine who wrote each note.

Ratliff was born April 13, 1965 at David, a son of Billy and Charlotte Deboard Ratliff, of Mousie. In addition to his parents, he is survived by two brothers, Ronald and William Keith Ratliff, both of Mousie. He was a graduate of Knott County Central High School and a member of the First Baptist Church at Mousie. Funeral services will be conducted today (Wednesday) at 11 a.m. at the Hall Funeral Home. Burial will follow in the Highlands Memorial Park, Staffordsville.

Brown was born June 26, 1965 at Langley. In addition to his parents, Edgar Johnny and Sparkle Hunter Brown, of Martin, he is survived by one brother, Edgar Brown, of Garrett.

Funeral services will be conducted today (Wednesday) at 11 a.m. at the Nelson Frazier Funeral Home. Burial will be made in the Martin cemetery.

Delaying Games Jam Court As Backlog of Cases Grows

By Joe Porter

The backlog of District Court cases grows longer each week as the understaffed court tries to keep up with the flood of cases, and some defendants and defense attorneys play a delaying game, hoping to avoid a guilty verdict.

Most of the cases are DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol or any other substance) and part of the fault may lie with the attitude of the public. People want strict enforcement of the law except when they or a relative or friend has been charged—then they want a break. Yet the law is tough and doesn't give anyone a break. "It used to be it was $10 and cost," said District Court Judge Harold Stumbo, "but now it's very different."

The current law, which took effect in July 1984, sets stiff penalties even for the first offense. If found guilty, a defendant can be fined from $200 to $500 or sentenced from two to 30 days in jail, or both. Two days community labor can be imposed in lieu of the jail time, in addition to loss of license for a minimum of 30 days and possibly for as long as six months. For conviction of a second offense, jail time is seven days to six months, plus loss of license for a year. For the third offense, the penalties about double again.

These penalties are mandatory and can't be plea bargained down with the County Attorney. "The public isn't aware of the limitation placed on the prosecutor by virtue of the new DUI law," said County Attorney David Barber. "People think it's just like speeding, but it isn't. They still think they can come down here and get a DUI or a serious misdemeanor dismissed or amended, but that's not the case."

Barber said he is constantly beseeched by people and county officials to dismiss or reduce the charge of drunk driving, yet he can't; his hands are tied by the statute. "I can be removed from office for not upholding the law," he said.

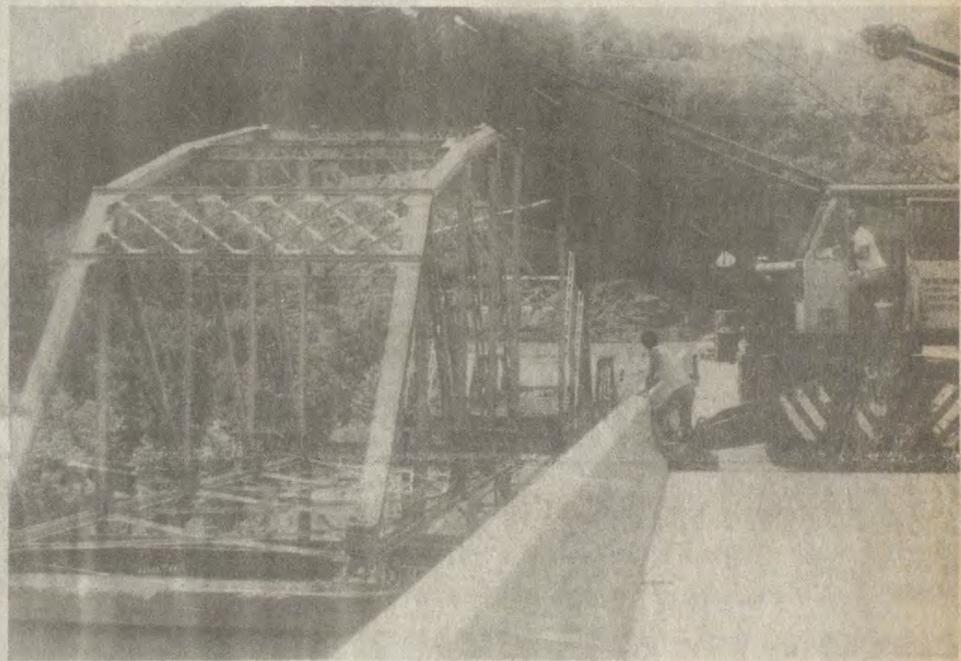

"I've been strict on my DUI cases," said Judge Stumbo. "I do what the law says. Other judges in eastern Kentucky are treating all DUI's as first offenses, but I don't."

And because the penalties are so stiff, defendants are reluctant to plead guilty. Instead, they ask for a jury trial and hire an attorney. Barber said that there are other reasons, too, why people fight the charge.

"There is a stigma attached to a DUI conviction," the County Attorney said. "Because so many people hold jobs that are driving-related. Besides that, they face a tremendous increase in the cost of insurance."

As a result of so many people pleading not-guilty, the court has a difficult time disposing of all the cases, and its docket grows longer. But even if a defendant does hire an attorney and the case goes to trial, it's difficult to beat the charge once the evidence is established by a breathalyzer test and the witnessing officer appears in court to give testimony. "I would say 90 percent of the cases are going to be hard to beat," said Greg Isaacs, a defense attorney who has handled a number of DUI cases in District Court. Isaacs thinks it's a good law overall, but he can see its draw

City Votes Sliding Scale On Fire Protection Rates

By Jeff Weddle

Fire protection rates for property owners living outside the city limits, but within a five-mile radius of city hall, will be changing from a flat rate to a sliding scale.

In an apparent effort to stave off a move by the Allen Volunteer Fire Dept. into areas within that radius, the Prestonsburg City Council voted unanimously Monday night to go to a sliding rate based on property valuation, rather than the flat $100 fee now in effect.

Effective May 1, property owners within this area will be charged a fee of $1 for every $1,000 of property valuation, as set by the county tax assessor. Under this plan, property assessed at $50 thousand, for example, would demand $50 per year in subscription fees. A $25 minimum was set as the lowest rate to be charged.

The motion was made by Councilman Thomas Tackett, who argued vigorously against the $100 rate last April. The old rate had been set at $24 per year, and Tackett said at that time that the increase was too great and might cause hardship on some homeowners. He was the only council member to vote against the rate change at that time.

The idea of basing subscription rates on the same sliding scale had been talked of, and even given a first reading last year. At that time, however, a Bull Creek resident pointed out that not only the house, but also the lot is considered in making a property valuation and that this could prove unfair to property owners with large or valuable lots. The council agreed, but stood fast in its view that the rate had to be raised. The $100 rate was agreed on as a compromise.

After Monday's meeting, Tackett denied that he felt vindicated by the policy shift, but stressed that he wanted Prestonsburg city government to give the best protection and services possible both to those who live within the city limits and those who live nearby and depend upon the city for services.

Property owners outside the five-mile radius will still have the option of subscribing to the city's fire protection at the $100 rate. Such subscriptions will be granted at the discretion of Fire Chief Thomas Blackburn.

As churches do not pay property taxes, council voted unanimously to accept a motion made by Tackett to provide churches within the five-mile radius with free fire protection.

Monday's amendment was promoted in part because of the Allen Fire Department.

Isaacs, 44, Drowns In Swimming Pool

By Tim Sizemore

In an effort to escape the heat, an unemployed Knott county man lost his life, Wednesday afternoon, at the Garrett home of a nephew.

Shirley Isaacs, 44, of Dry Creek, victim of apparent drowning, was pronounced dead Wednesday afternoon by Floyd county Coroner Roger Nelson.

Isaacs who was staying at the home of his nephew, Charles Hicks, was discovered at 2:20 in the family's above-ground swimming pool. Mr. Isaacs who was last seen alive around noon, was found by Hick's small son and efforts to revive him proved futile.

According to family members he was a non-swimmer.

Isaacs was born June 25, 1943, the son of the late Jonts and Victoria Cook Isaacs. He is survived by his wife, Nancy, and two sons, Chris and Jamie; one brother, Burlin Isaacs, of Dry Creek; six sisters, Gertrude Jones and Lilly Coeburn, both of Columbus, Ohio, Flora Hall and Leslie Scott, both of Dry Creek, Hestie Bates, of Wheelwright, and Sadie Hicks, of Garrett.

Funeral services were held Sunday at the Rebecca Old Regular Baptist Church under direction of the Hindman Funeral Home.

Isaacs' death is the second water-related fatality this year, the other one being Mose Adkins on April 20.

Wood Sculptor Finds Retirement A Time for Creative Endeavors

Former Teacher's Work Is Admired By Wide Circle

By Tim Sizemore

Maytown wood sculptor Tom May scanned the lush fields of his 35-acre farm with a certain satisfaction, for here he began life and throughout the years the farm has served as an island of peace in an often turbulent world—a time capsule of boyhood memories.

May, a former science teacher, says that nothing bothers him more than to see a man just whittle away a piece of wood. "All they have to show for their efforts is a pile of shavings, and that's a waste."

After retirement many people just sit back and relax in a rocking chair with little or nothing to occupy their time, but that's not for him. Besides the endless chores around the farm, every spare minute is spent carving a wide variety of objects, from a snake cane to a walking stick that represents Uncle Sam.

A relative once told his wife, Lucille, that she should put a bed in the shop because of May's long hours of work. "I do most of my carving during the winter. Sometimes I work all day and half the night," he said.

He recalled his years of growing up on a farm. Pointing out how the old road ran and where the bridge was located, he told of how high waters often isolated the farm. To May the homeplace is as comfortable as an old shoe, and he remembers fondly when the broad bottoms produced practically all the food his family needed.

In the last few years Tom May's carvings have attracted wide attention, both state and national. Besides being snatched up greedily by private collectors, his work has found its way into the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D.C.

May's work, which is classified as folk art, is both wood grained and painted. He creates every piece with loving care and attention to detail. Mass production is not for him. He sometimes spends hours sitting under massive oak in his back yard perfecting a new work.

An old chicken coop serves Tom as a shop and is packed with the drying wood he uses to make his canes. Many of May's walking sticks have extra features such as marbles, pieces of leather or shiny bits of glass which add charm to his unique designs.

May spoke of his home sickness when he attended college at Western State University at Bowling Green. He relates how he learned at that time how different Eastern Kentucky was from the rest of the state. "They ought to have a separate state for mountain people, maybe combining West Virginia, Eastern Kentucky and Western Virginia," he said.

Besides working the farm, carving and raising two sons, Mike and William, May has always found time for his deep religious beliefs. He believes that God has given every person a talent, and if they work hard, he will show them the way to fulfillment.

For would-be woodcarvers, Tom May offers a piece of advice often quoted by his grandpa, "First you learn to crawl, then you learn to walk, and then you can try to fly." This advice has served May well for more than 60 years.

Deputies on Move Against Marijuana

By Tim Sizemore

Pot growers beware is the message of the Floyd county Sheriff's office, as deputies move to seize illegal crops.

Following the lead of an anonymous tip, deputies Randy and Harold Johnson led raids at Melvin and the Tinker Fork of Mud Creek.

Both marijuana crops appeared to be well-cultivated, and Harold Johnson said that the growers had tied the tops of the plants down in an effort to hide the seven-foot tall plants, located in remote areas where brush had been allowed to grow up to disguise the weeds whereabouts.

"They're going farther into the hills," Johnson related. "It gets harder to find them all the time," he said.

No arrests have been made in the raids, but Deputy Johnson said suspects were being investigated.

Check First On Layaway Purchases

With back-to-school sales soon to begin, you may want to take advantage of the savings by putting your merchandise on layaway.

Layaway plans vary from store to store, so to avoid any misunderstandings, get specific information about a store's layaway terms before you participate. If any of the store's conditions are not acceptable to you, you may want to shop elsewhere for layaway merchandise.

When considering layaway, it is important to find out the following information:

—The terms of the layaway plan. It is important to know how much time you will have to pay for the item; when the payments are due; what minimum payment is required, and what charges, if any, are added to the purchase price, find out if there is a service charge for late payments.

—The refund policy. If you decide you don't want the merchandise after making some or all of the payments, can you get a refund? Retailers' policies may differ. One may refund, others may give you credit to apply to other merchandise purchased in their store, etc.

Also, to avoid any confusion, keep good records of the payments you make on the layaway merchandise. Then when each installment is due, you will have a reminder of the payments made. These records may be useful later, should some problems arise.

There are no federal or state laws that specifically govern layaway plans. However, unfair or deceptive sales practices are illegal. If you feel you have been wronged, complain to the store manager first. If your problem is not solved, contact the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call the Consumer Protection Hotline at 1-800-432-9257.

Coal Production Declined in 1986

According to figures released this week by the Department of Mines and Minerals, coal production in the state dropped more than four million tons in 1986 from the previous year. Department records show the actual coal production in 1986 to be 165,603,339 tons, down two percent from the 1985 production of 169,616,063. The drop came from the eastern Kentucky coal region, where production was off almost 6,000 tons, with western Kentucky mines increasing production by about 2,000 tons.

The department issued mine licenses to 1,098 underground and 1,367 surface mines across the state. These mines provided employment for 40,956 people employed directly in the production of coal, with employment figures also showing a drop of almost 6,000 workers from 1985.

Commissioner Willard Stanley attributes the drop in coal production to the global economy. "As long as the price of foreign oil is low, people will not be looking to make any long term agreement for the purchase of coal. Without the big contracts, operators will not produce the coal just to stockpile," says Stanley.

Stanley went on to say that 1986 was a good year for mine safety within the commonwealth. "Last year was our second best year on record with 14 fatalities," said Stanley. "But even one fatality is one too many. We can and must do more to stop fatal accidents in Kentucky's mines." Last year's fatality record is second only to 1983 when only 12 people were killed in mining related accidents.

In 1986, department officials conducted 9,693 mine inspections and 312,469 analyst contacts and observations all aimed at improving safety conditions in the state's mines.

Copies of the Annual Report of the Department of Mines and Minerals are available. This book includes various statistics on Kentucky's coal industry, as well as a listing of production by mine. For copies of the report, write Department of Mines and Minerals, P.O. Box 680, Lexington, Ky. 40586.

SCS Helps Local School Improve Grounds

County workers Charles Lewis (left) and Billy Merritt stand in front of a bulldozer while operator Denver Shepherd sits behind the controls. The men are doing landscaping and drainage work in front of the Prestonsburg Elementary School. Merritt is also the treasurer for the Soil Conservation District, which is donating the materials for the job.

By Joe Porter

For two weeks landscaping and drainage work has been going on at Prestonsburg Elementary School with the Soil Conservation District providing the materials and the county the manpower.

The elementary school's principal, Thomas J. Tackett said that school was experiencing a drainage problem when it rained hard, or a heavy snow melted. It was Tackett's initiative in contacting Clark L. Allison, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, that got the project started.

"These people saw the need," Tackett said. "They worked on the Clark School in Middle Creek. Then I asked them if there was anything they could do for us. Mr. Allison drew up the plans, brought them to my office, and I said, wonderful, let's go ahead with it." Also largely responsible for the work being done is Magistrate Gerald Derossett, who is providing men from his county work crew.

Tackett said that water had been running off Trimble Branch and streaming into the school's back parking lot. "The biggest problem," Tackett said, "was to get the water to drain past the parking lot and school." To correct that 60 tons of limestone gravel were spread on the parking lot and drainage pipe was put in the ground to take the water away.

On the field beside and in front of the school, top soil was brought in to elevate and reshape the ground, a large sink hole was filled in, and four-inch plaster piping was laid to drain the water. "This will resolve a lot of the drainage problems that have been caused over the years," Tackett said.

backs, too. "I think it impresses upon the offender the seriousness of their crime, while administratively, it might be a nightmare for the clerks."

Because the charge is hard to beat and the penalties heavy, it has become routine for defendants and defense attorneys to stall and put off for as long as possible the jury trial. Some defendants don't appear on their court date, or they call the court and say they can't make it because of the snow or they have a medical excuse, or they will appear and say they are not prepared for trial, and hope the judge will be lenient and give them a continuance for a month or two. Defense attorneys will also file motions asking for a delay for one reason or another. These delaying tactics by the defendant time and allow him to hold on to his driver's license.

Barber said, while not all defense attorneys abuse the system, there are some who hinder the court's effectiveness by presenting frivolous motions to continue cases. "Those attorneys can help police the system by preparing their cases and saying to their clients, the court's not going to give us a continuance, so let's get ready for trial."

Clerks in the District Court feel as if they're walking on a treadmill. Repeatedly they must re-file paperwork and list cases on the court calendar only to see those cases continued again and again. "I've typed some names five times," said Sue Derossett, a District Court Clerk. "They don't show up or they say they don't have a lawyer. They're not ready to enter a plea, and they're not ready to go to jail."

Judge Stumbo said he will grant a continuance to a defense attorney if the attorney has a legitimate reason for not being able to make the court date. For example, if the attorney has a case set in Circuit Court for that date. In other situations, the judge doesn't have much choice but to continue the case: if the witnessing officer isn't able to appear or if the defendant has a medical reason for not being there. Yet one defendant, according to court clerks, routinely checks himself into the hospital the day before his trial. "It would help if we could get the doctor's to be more cooperative," Barber said, "and not let their patients use phony medical excuses to avoid prosecution."

Judge Stumbo comes down hard on people who just don't show up. In some cases, he has tried the defendant in his absence, and if they are found guilty, he will issue a bench warrant for their arrest.

Many of the defendants are repeat offenders, people who haven't learned their lesson or haven't come to terms with their alcoholism. After the first offense, it's mandatory that the defendant attend an alcohol or substance abuse program for one year. Judge Stumbo will order the person to attend AA meetings, and Barber will steer a problem drinker to Mountain Comprehensive Care's Alcohol treatment program. "If they're a chronic case I try to get them admitted into a hospital facility for treatment," Barber said.

Yet the court has no way of knowing if these people are in fact getting the help they need. "When you've got so many cases there's no way of checking to see if they're attending meetings," Judge Stumbo said. "Drunk driving is the hardest problem I've ever tackled. I think we're spinning our wheels, because I don't think the jail time helps. I give some of them 30 days, and they come right back and do it again." One idea the judge has is to impound the defendant's car if he is found guilty. "If you take a man's wheels away from him, he can drink again, but he can't drive."

Barber would like to try the home incarceration program as a cost effective way to punish the drunk driver. "If done properly, I believe it will help people facing jail time to keep their jobs and also pay their penalty," besides alleviating overcrowding in the county jail, it would also generate money to put in the jail fund, since the defendant would have to pay $10 a day bed and board fee to the jailer.

Floyd District Court has the third largest case load in the state for its number of judges and prosecutors, according to Barber and he is hoping that the legislature will address the case load problem here, because, "the number of cases coming in is exceeding our ability to dispose of them." He said the court could use another judge and assistant prosecutor, and clerks to remove the backlog.

Yet whether the court gets help or not, Barber said his office will do everything it can to uphold the law. "I personally feel that 85 percent of the people in the county are solid citizens and feel like I do that DUI cases should be prosecuted. There is a silent public that is strongly in favor of DUI enforcement."

ment's July 17 petitioning of the Floyd fiscal court to extend their fire protection district to cover Bull Creek, Town Branch and Water Gap. City Administrator Fred James attended that meeting and said then that Prestonsburg would offer subscriptions based on the same scale, which Allen Fire Chief Roy Compton proposed to the fiscal court.

In other action, council members groused about the abuse of free, two-hour parking privileges by employees of downtown businesses. Those parking spaces, it was noted, are meant to be used only by customers, not employees. To remedy the situation, a motion was made by Councilman William O. Goebel, III, to limit free parking to one-hour intervals, and to make clear that such privileges are not afforded employees of downtown businesses while they are at work.

In the same vein, council unanimously passed a motion to purchase new parking meters as they are needed and the budget will allow, which will permit one hour of parking for twenty-five cents, as opposed to the current dime.

It was decided to raise monthly fees in all city parking lots, raise the Riverfront lot which will remain the same, from $10 per month to $15. Metered tickets will be available at these prices at city hall.

An ordinance which will slightly increase city garbage collection fees was unanimously accepted after council heard a second reading. Effective September 1, rates will be raised from $6 per month to $8. The city will continue its present schedule of two pick-ups each week.

This averages out to $1 per pick-up, which is still only half as expensive as rates charged county residents by the solid waste commission which charges $8 per month for one pick-up each week. It is also slightly less expensive than the rates currently in effect in the cities of Paintsville and Pikeville.

The first item to be addressed Monday was a request made by Susan Martin that the local Disaster and Emergency Services organization be permitted to hold a roadblock at the intersection of U.S. 23 and North Lake Drive for the American Cancer Society. Council agreed to allow the roadblock, though a date was not set. Plans call for it to be on a Saturday prior to August 15.

Monday's meeting was the first since June 22. All council members were present except Harry Ray Porter. A meeting scheduled for July 13 was cancelled after only Gary Brown, Bill Callihan, Goebel and Adrian Blackburn joined Mayor Ann Latta at the appointed time.

Hundreds of Lunches Supplied by Program

By Tim Sizemore

During the summer months, children in Floyd county can expect a hot lunch five days a week due to a federally funded program.

The Summer Feeding Program, which was last held three years ago, has returned to offer nutritious meals to children from three to 19, regardless of income.

"It gives kids a chance to get a warm meal, otherwise they could have gone hungry" said Wayne Ratliff, director of the program. This month alone, 11,075 meals were served with a daily attendance of between 900 and 1,000, according to Ratliff.

The program which is completely funded by the federal government, also has the added bonus of employing 20 cooks, who normally would be on summer vacation without pay.

Thirteen schools, located throughout the county, serve as the feeding centers. The schools were chosen in central locations so that the most children could have access to them.

The board of education monitors the program to make sure it is cost effective and that all federal guidelines are met. Children participating in the program are required to eat all food on the school grounds.

The Feeding Program which began June 15 is due to end this month.

Bits and Pieces

THEY LOVE KIDS—AND THEIR MONEY

The IRS has hit the news twice in the last two weeks for its attentions to youngsters, or more accurately, to their bank accounts.

In Portland, Oregon, a nine-year-old girl's $70.76 savings account was seized by the Internal Revenue Service to pay her grandfather's back taxes. There's a happy ending though. Within hours of the story's being printed in the Eugene, Oregon Register-Guard newspaper, the IRS relented.

Then, Monday, 12-year-old Gary D. Keffer is reported to have appealed to President Reagan in an effort to get back the $10.35 savings which the IRS has seized because of his parents $900 debt for taxes.

Thus far, young Keffer is getting the old bureaucratic runaround. One IRS office is reported to deny the money was taken, while another said it could not comment on the case.

Tsk, tsk.

A GOOD JOE

This is Joe Porter's last week with us. After eight months, he's going back home to Syracuse, N.Y. Joe will be missed. He's a nice, quiet, laid back fellow, who doesn't understand all our ways, but is willing to learn. He likes people, and we've all liked working with him. During WWII, we used to say someone was a good Joe. He is.

Good luck, Joe.

A DAY OFF—IN MORE WAYS THAN ONE

The best laid plans of mice and men gang aft agley. So said Robert Burns, and it is a lead pipe cinch that Bobby hit the nail squarely on the head.

For instance, I had a day off Thursday. It was a bummer.

I arose at a leisurely hour—never mind when—fed the animals and ventured out to water the parched plants. First things first, you know.

All well and good and as planned. Decided it was time to brush my teeth, etc., and generally face the day.

Just when I had a mouthful of toothpaste—phut and fizzle—the water suddenly stopped running. Let me assure you, it is not refreshing to rinse your mouth with Coke. Jeeminy!

Now, let's think about this. Things could have been worse. What if I had been in the midst of a shampoo—or worse, getting rid of the grey. Oh, come on girls. You all know about Loving Care.

Or what if one were bathing the baby or even the dog? This could have been traumatic.

Could have, heck! It was.

It was too hot to even think of going outside. Couldn't water the plants, anyway, but I ran the sweeper. At least, the electricity was on. Couldn't wash clothes, dishes, or mop the floors. I tried to look on the bright side—at least I had an excuse for not getting all those things done which I usually don't get done, anyway.

It didn't help. Somehow, I knew if the water hadn't been off, this was the day I would have finally got into gear.

It was a day of sheer frustration, and you know what psychologists say, "Frustration leads to aggression."

At this point, I am one aggressive woman.

Argument Leads To One Wounded In Melvin Fray

By Jeff Weddle

A Melvin man was listed in stable condition at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital Thursday after being shot once in the abdomen with a .32 caliber revolver.

Eugene Caudill, 23, was wounded after a reported argument with Michael Newsome, 22, also of Melvin. The shooting took place in the Melvin post office parking lot at about 10:30 p.m.

The shot was fired by Newsome from his car. It passed through the car's side window, shattering the glass before it entered Caudill's body.

Detective Jim Stephens, of the Kentucky State Police, said the shooting was the culmination of several months of bad feelings between the two men. He said Newsome and Caudill had known each other for years, and each claimed harassment by the other finally brought the situation to a head.

"It doesn't make sense to me," said Stephens, adding that "it sounded like something 12-year-olds would have done." Newsome's wife and eight-month-old baby were in the car with him at the time of the shooting.

Though neither man was said to be intoxicated at the time of the shooting, Stephens said Caudill had been drinking earlier in the day.

Caudill underwent surgery Thursday night at the McDowell hospital. Det. Stephens said doctors told him the bullet had not struck any vital organs and Caudill's prognosis was good.

Newsome was lodged Thursday in the Floyd County Jail with bail set at $10,000 and was released Friday after posting a $1,000 cash bond.

Thieves Hit Stores At Highlands Plaza

By Joe Porter

A string of stores were burglarized some time Saturday night as the thieves entered through an air-conditioning duct in the roof. Police suspect that three people were involved in the break-in.

Herrin & Johnson Pharmacy, Shoe Show, and Curtis Mathes, located adjacent to each other in Highlands Plaza, were entered. Police theorize that the burglars hoisted themselves up onto the roof, turned off the air-conditioner's power, removed a filter, and entered the duct. Once inside they crawled above the ceiling panels before dropping down inside the stores.

Police found a large plastic bag inside a closet containing various items such as jewelry and pills from the stores, including hundreds of Tylenol IV boxes. Captain Dickie Campbell, who is investigating the crime, said the break-in was the work of amateurs, for once inside the burglars didn't know how to escape with the loot without tripping the alarm system. "They missed a lot of big stuff in those stores," Campbell said.

Police said Herrin & Johnson Pharmacy was still taking inventory Monday and hadn't determined what drugs, if any, the burglars got away with. The thieves exited through the vacant arcade and thus avoided tripping the alarm.

In another case, residents of Green Acres notified police of a hit-and-run accident at about 1 a.m., July 24.

Police responded and arrested Tyrone Holfield, 24, of Chicago, Illinois, walking near Shell Mart on North U.S. 23. Holfield had abandoned his damaged car and admitted his responsibility for the accident, according to Sergeant Gerald Clark. The police officer said the car Holfield struck was unoccupied and not damaged by the collision.

Police impounded Holfield's car, and he spent the night in jail, charged with hit and run, DUI, and operating on a suspended license.

Board of Educ. Back in Black

By Tim Sizemore

Black ink flows again at the Floyd county Board of Education, as Supt. Ray Brackett announced the end of a $90,467.60 deficit and a surplus of $17,667.00.

The reasons given for the improved financial picture, were tax monies received from the sheriff's office, refunds from miscellaneous services, and projected earnings.

The board has resorted to such economy-minded actions as laying off personnel and limiting the hours of those still employed. As late as February, a deficit of $120,000.00 had been projected. At the July board meeting the figure had dropped to $90,467.60. Carey T. Vinson, sent here by the state management Assistance program, had not been optimistic in his final report to the board.

Supt. Brackett stated that tighter management of funds and a .73 increase in attendance, had substantially contributed to the reduction of the deficit.

Big Name Groups Like Response Of Eastern Kentucky Audiences

DANNY JOE BROWN AND BOBBY INGRAM, lead singer and lead guitarist, respectively, for the band, Molly Hatchet, rocked the crowd Monday night at the Paradise Lounge at Eastern.

By Mike Brugh
As many as 400 people jammed the Paradise Lounge Monday night to hear the southern rock band Molly Hatchet. The group, which gained national prominence almost a decade ago with their self-titled debut album, had fans on their feet throughout the evening, performing a string of high energy songs.

Kicking off the set with "It's All Over Now" from their second LP "Flirtin' With Disaster," lead singer Danny Joe Brown and company established a fast pace that was to continue throughout the show. Concentrating on AOR hits such as "Gator Country," "Dreams I'll Never See," and "One Man's Pleasure," Brown showcased the talents of new lead guitarist Bobby Ingram, who replaced long-time band member Dave Hlubek. Building on positive audience response, he took that opportunity to introduce new material from their upcoming Epic album, tentatively titled "Heads Are Gonna Roll." Performing the title cut and "No Sleep Tonight," the band concluded their set to a standing ovation, returning to finish with "Flirtin' With Disaster" as an encore.

The band formed in Jacksonville, Florida in the mid-1970's, during a period when a number of talented rock musicians were emerging from that area. Other groups whose members played around Jacksonville then include .38 Special and Lynyrd Skynyrd. These bands made a point of touring extensively to promote themselves and their music, an aspect of the business that Molly Hatchet also believes in. "We have always depended on it (touring) to establish ourselves, and not just by playing the big arenas," said Brown. "Small clubs are just as important, especially if we are trying out new songs. Judging from the response (of this crowd) tonight, we hope the new album will be a big success."

Brown was very pleased with the enthusiastic response of the crowd, saying "We consider our fans to be a big part of our success, and the crowd was geared to rock and roll tonight." Bass player Riff West, who is originally from Corbin, agreed. "The crowd was really great. I felt right at home tonight."

The band shuffled personnel several times after their first two albums. Brown left to form his own band, then rejoined a few years ago. Bass player Banner Thomas was replaced by West, and the latest change was the departure of Hlubek, a split Brown described as "friendly." Dave (Hlubek) just felt that he wanted to try something different. "We're still on good terms (with him)." The show also featured the return of veteran Molly Hatchet drummer Bruce Crump, as well as the addition of a keyboard player. With the new line-up complete, the group has just finished up a tour with the Outlaws, another Florida-based band. After playing a few more club dates, Brown added, they will begin another major tour with the Pat Travers Band in mid-August.

Molly Hatchet, as are all acts, was contacted by Rick Crum, son of Paradise Lounge owner Ballard Crum. Local bands, such as Monday night's opening act, Foul Play, are also approached for performances. Crum said he wants to provide an alternative in entertainment for the people of Eastern Kentucky. Booking bands as diverse as Molly Hatchet and Earl Thomas Conley, who will appear August 11, provides entertainment for a broad range of people, he said. Although the music now is "80% rock and roll," acts such as Conley will hopefully fill a void for fans of country music, too, Crum added. "We're experimenting right now, but the response of the crowds and the bands so far has been positive." The Dr. Hook show, held at the lounge recently, was a big success according to Crum, and apparently Dr. Hook himself was even impressed by the audience. "Dr. Hook told me after the show that he had been performing for the past 20 years, but never had such a warm response like he had here in Eastern Kentucky," said Crum.

On Garbage Collection

As I read the article in your paper June 24, 23 face civil suits for solid waste violation, and seeing the picture of garbage at Dewey Lake I would like to say I have pictures of garbage dumps in the streams and over the sides of the mountains of Floyd county that makes your picture look like a dozen long stem roses in a pretty lady's arms.

Which leads me to ask why we cannot have a government that respects the constitutional rights of the people and people that respect the right of our future generations to live in a clean environment and to have clean water to drink. I feel I can answer that question with three words—money and ignorance.

Allow me to deal with your article within the technical terms of the law with the knowledge that Floyd county is largely made up of narrow one-lane roads up our hollows.

A county government can and should adopt ordinances that call for the enforcement of state law on dumping garbage in any stream, on any road on private property, parks, playgrounds, or a private property owner to allow public dumping or create any public nuisance with garbage.

The statement that all citizens outside of Prestonsburg city limits are required by law to subscribe to the garbage pickup service, I must take issue with.

The law states if a county is authorized to regulate an area which the state also regulates, the county government may regulate the area only by enacting ordinances which are consistent with state law or administration regulations. Can anyone argue that dumping of waste and solid waste (garbage) is not controlled by the state?

Also the law states, county ordinances which prescribe penalties for their violations shall be enforced throughout the entire area of the county, including all incorporated areas of the county unless they have adopted the same or a more stringent ordinance dealing with the same subject.

This is where a mandatory collecting system and not a mandatory no dumping ordinance comes in conflict with the law, and the constitutional right of the citizens;

The Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc., was created by the Floyd County Fiscal Court, therefore, the fiscal court gave the solid waste the authority to collect garbage in Floyd county. Regardless of how this authority was granted, orally or in writing, it was a grant of franchise. As a franchise is any special right or privilege granted by a government body;

The Ky. Supreme Court has ruled that, the term "franchise" means the grant of a right to use public property, or at least the property over which the granting authority has control. Also, the Court said, a franchise is the privilege of doing that which does not belong to the citizens of the country general by common right.

By the mandatory participation collecting system adopted by the Floyd County Fiscal Court, are they claiming that we the citizens out in the country do not have the common right to feed our table scraps to our pigs or chickens or we have no common right to give our old hound dog a bone?

That we do not have the common right to put our vegetable scraps over our farms and gardens? Webster's dictionary says that vegetables are any plant as distinguished from animal. What about the weeds that grow in our gardens and on our farms? And by this system are the fiscal court members saying that we have no common right or say who is to use our private and public roads up our hollows where neither the county nor state owns any right-of-way for a road.

The Supreme Court of Ky. in 1979 drew a distinction between a public road and a county road, a county road is a public road which has been accepted into the county road system;

The United States Constitution says—no state shall make or enforce any law which abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation; also no warrant shall be issued but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation and particularly describing the place to be searched and the person or thing to be seized. May I ask who is going to get the homes that the solid waste are threatening in their letters to have court action taken to evict the people from their premises; some other poor family that has nothing to live on but food stamps, or is it going to be someone with money, as the letter did not accuse the man of refusing the service or violating any law, only that he was not participating in the county solid waste system. Although they had not picked up his garbage, he was advised that he owed $436. There is a penalty of law for trying to collect for services not rendered. Any ordinance requiring citizens to pay for services not rendered is a tax instituted without stating the purpose for which the money is to be used which is a violation of section 180 of the Ky. Constitution;

The Attorney General of Ky. quoting a ruling by Justice Thomas of the Ky. Supreme Court, said a county or city while enacting ordinances in the interest of the public safety, health, welfare, or convenience, may not abridge the individual liberties secured by the Ky. and Federal Constitution.

How can any government body give anyone permission to use all roads in a county? When the court of appeals has said, while the legislature can enact a statute which mandates or authorizes a right-of-way of a certain width for a particular road, it cannot legislatively appropriate private property to the commonwealth. Private property for public right-of-way must be acquired either by agreement or by the exercise of the power of eminent domain.

A law was passed in 1914 that required all roads accepted into the county road system shall occupy a right-of-way of not less than 30 feet, and has been contained within the law today: The Ky. Attorney General has said all roads accepted into the county road system after the 1914 law it is mandatory that they occupy a 30-foot right-of-way: And if a county has accepted a road into the county road system without a 30-foot right-of-way, they must acquire the additional right-of-way to bring it up to the mandated width of 30 feet if it is to become a county road in the legal technical sense of the law.

The Ky. attorney general has also stated, since the format of "resolution or order" is irreconcilable with "ordinance," the matter of accepting roads as part of the county road system is a matter of general and lasting nature, and the road matter should take the form of an ordinance.

The Ky. Court of Appeals has stated that it is mandatory that all roads proposed for a county road be posted and the property owner have advance notice. Also the Supreme Court of Ky. has stated that compensation must be paid before road is open or owner deprived of possession.

It is contained within the law books that a public road can be determined by the width of automobile tracks, fence post or other markers. Therefore by it being mandatory for county roads to have a 30-foot right-of-way, any property outside the description for a public road is private property, and for a fiscal court sitting in a court house and declaring it to be a county road denies the citizens of the due process and equal protection of the law clause of the United States Constitution.

How many roads does the county fiscal court have control of legally as the court has said, property over which the granting authority has control of:

There can be a workable ordinance adopted against illegal dumping of garbage as the law states, a county government may adopt ordinances which incorporate by reference state statutes and administrative regulations in areas in which a county government is authorized to act: The law also states that the county has exclusive management of solid wastes by ordinance or contract or by both,

Our police force has the authority to patrol any and all roads in the county except private roads for the safety of the public. The state police is charged with protecting the public on our state and federal highways, yes, against dumping garbage on the highways, enforcing the state litter laws.

The law also states that any citizen can prosecute an action in circuit court against any public officer or employee whose duty it is to enforce the law against the illegal dumping of garbage.

For the future generations the protecting of their water and their countryside, I ask all Floyd counties to join with me to see that we have laws that will clean up our county and keep it clean.

Any quotations or statements contained herein are not to be construed that I am an attorney at law or that I am giving legal advice.

Back to Square One

The Kentucky Supreme Court has just taken away all rights that the 1984 Broad Form Deed Bill gave to surface owners whose minerals had been severed. We are now back to the same disgraceful situation where the surface owners only right is to pay taxes. The green light is lit for the energy corporations that own 80% of the mineral property in Kentucky to strip away with little regard for concerns of the surface owner. The court is saying to us that those that own the real wealth of Kentucky—the out of state by in large energy corporations who pay no taxes on their property—have all the rights and the Kentucky citizens and taxpayers only right is to get out of their way and watch their property and homes destroyed.

It was through the efforts of the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition (a non-profit citizens organization) that the 1984 Broad Form Deed Bill was passed. In the next General Assembly Session, the men and women of the K.F.T.C. will again be fighting for the rights of the common citizen of this state. If you own property in Kentucky but not the mineral, you have the choice of letting others do your fighting for you or joining up with the thousands of other surface owners in K.F.T.C. and fight for your home and property against this gross injustice that has been dealt to us by the Court.

McConnell Opposes Senate Trade Bill

Senator Mitch McConnell (R-KY) voted recently for more trade and greater international market access for Kentucky commodities and products by voting against the Senate Trade Bill S. 1420.

"The bill is not good for Kentucky or America," McConnell said. "Instead of improving our trade problems, this bill will make the situation worse." McConnell noted that "America's trade problems should be solved through more trade, not less. This bill erects too many protectionist barriers and anti-competitive regulations for American businesses seeking opportunities in overseas markets."

McConnell concluded that "this bill in its current form would harm Kentucky's exports of commodities and products, namely coal, distilled spirits, tobacco, and thoroughbreds. It harms our Kentucky businesses which manufacture chemicals and other petroleum products, appliances, even light bulbs and computer hardware."

"While the legislation is not complete, I hold out the hope that the Senate-House Conference will report fair-trade bill—a bill that does not harm all American consumers and most U.S. exporters," McConnell added.

"In its current form, the bill establishes at least 570 new government jobs, 81 federal and state agencies, offices, advisory panels and commissions, and calls for at least 165 new reports. This legislation represses trade and investment, violates our international obligations in a way that risks trade retaliation and moves U.S. trade law in a more protectionist direction," McConnell noted.

Kentucky Cited For Poor Enforcement

In a study incriminating to the enforcement efforts of the Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, the U.S. General Accounting Office has found that the state fines only 31 percent of strip mine violators.

And to make matters worse, Kentucky collected only about 5 percent of the fines it did assess, according to the study.

The GAO also specifically singled out Kentucky for its lenient treatment of repeated violators and operators who failed to correct illegal conditions at their mines.

The lax collection of fines meant the loss of $60 million for about 2,000 violations that were not corrected during the year 1983-86. State officials argue that most of the fines cannot be collected.

Kentucky officials improperly reduce or eliminate mandatory fines before and during administrative hearings, the GAO also reported.

A separate report released by the U.S. Interior Department last month said that the state "has tightened up on its settlement procedures," but still cited a number of shortcomings in its efforts.

PSEUDORABIES

COPYRIGHT 1987 KVMA

Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association
A few reported instances of pseudorabies (Aujeszky's disease) seems a good reason to remind swine farmers that the disease does occur in Kentucky and that the U.S. Public Health Service regards it as occurring frequently in all swine producing states. Caused by Herpesvirus suis, the disease is a viral infection that involves the central nervous system and occurs naturally in swine, even though they are relatively resistant. It can occur naturally in almost all mammals except man and the tailless apes.

Clinical signs are generally limited to suckling pigs, though weanlings can be affected. Adult swine are seldom affected except that they may become non-symptomatic carriers.

In suckling pigs, the first signs are sneezing and coughing (also thought to be one of the main ways in which the virus is passed from animal to animal) followed by fever, loss of appetite, culminating in trembling, incoordination, convulsions, paralysis and death. Signs are the same in weanlings, except that fewer die. If the animals live six days, they will may recover.

Pregnant swine may abort, depending on the stage of pregnancy at the time of infection. While there is no effective treatment, once the disease is established in a herd the newborn benefit from passive immunity.

The disease is more dramatic and almost consistently fatal in other animals. Brain inflammation occurs in cattle, sheep, goats and dogs, and the major clinical sign is intense itching—so intense that infected animals will literally rub themselves raw in an attempt to relieve the itch before they die. There is no effective treatment for the disease, and a vaccine manufactured to prevent the disease may not be used on Kentucky farms, except by permission of the State Veterinarian on quarantined farms.

Good herd management is important, including adding only serologically negative animals to the herd, avoiding infected premises and denying public access to swine quarters to avoid carrying the virus, keeping feral animals away from swine and providing separate equipment to service each group of animals. It is also important to isolate infected animals promptly in the event of an outbreak.

Home treatment or vaccination for this disease is seldom effective. Your veterinarian is your best source of help, before an outbreak if possible.

Learning Center To Replace Old Magoffin Complex at PCC

PRESTONSBURG COMMUNITY COLLEGE'S MAGOFFIN COMPLEX was torn down last week to make room for a new Learning Resource Center, which is expected to be in use by the Fall, 1988, semester. The 'temporary' buildings had been in place since 1970.

By Jeff Weddle
Room was made at Prestonsburg Community College this week for the new Learning Resource Center, when the Magoffin Complex, a group of 'temporary' buildings in place for about 17 years, was demolished.

The LRC, basically a library, will occupy about 28,000 square feet. In addition to housing about 55,000 books, it will also include a computer lab, developmental lab and three general purpose classrooms.

Plans call for the LRC to be connected to a new art gallery, which Dr. Henry Campbell, PCC director, termed "beautifully designed." Campbell said the gallery will display major works on loan from the University of Kentucky, as well as hosting other touring art displays.

Plans call for construction to be completed July 1 of next year, and Campbell said he hopes the facilities will be in use during the Fall semester of 1988. Four contractors have submitted bids to the university. The low bidder has not yet been announced, but construction is set to begin August 10.

Ironically, the Magoffin Complex was still in good condition and in use by the college. Dr. Campbell said he fought to keep the temporary buildings, which had been in place since 1970, but UK was firm in declaring they had to go. The LRC will be built on the lot vacated by the temporaries.

To add insult to injury, the contractor who destroyed the buildings was cited by Floyd county Ecology Officer Cleveland Tackett for illegally dumping the resulting trash. The charges were dropped this week after the contractor removed the trash from the illegal dump site on U.S. 23 near Highlands Regional Medical Center where the refuse had been dumped within view of passing motorists.

John Akers, of Akers Construction in Prestonsburg, told officials he had received permission from the landowner to dump there and plans called for burying the waste. He said he wasn't aware that the only legal place to dump refuse in Floyd county is the landfill near Martin.

PCC would not have been liable, even if the charges had not been dropped. It was explicitly stated in the contract between UK and Akers Construction that the contractor was responsible for the disposal of the materials and that such disposal had to comply with Environmental Protection Agency guidelines, said college officials. All of the waste from the destroyed buildings has been taken to the landfill.

Numerous Options For Tobacco Farmers Who Want To Diversify

U.S. Sen. Wendell Ford's advice to Kentucky tobacco farmers is to try to diversify their crops. "You have to have other crops, other ways of making money as it relates to the farm," he said.

His advice comes amid increasingly strict anti-smoking regulations and a decline in tobacco consumption. According to the June 1987 issue of the Tobacco Situation and Report. "For the year ending June 30, Americans will likely consume 2 percent fewer cigarettes than a year earlier." Total U.S. tobacco consumption has declined from 589 billion pounds in 1986 to an estimated 579 billion pounds for the year ending June 30, 1987.

Tobacco has been Ford's major agricultural problem since he arrived in Washington, D.C. 12 years ago. To adapt to the changes in tobacco consumption, he stressed that farmers need to look for other crops which can provide additional income, but won't necessarily interfere with their tobacco crops.

Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner David Boswell has long advocated alternate crops as income supplements for Kentucky farmers. "There's little that won't grow in Kentucky's climate, soil and terrain," Boswell says. "And Kentucky's tobacco farmers, using essentially the same techniques and equipment, can certainly broaden their operations and income with quality vegetable crops."

Studies are being conducted in the research department at the University of Kentucky's College of Agriculture to find crops which can provide that supplemental income some Kentucky tobacco farmers need. So far, the researchers have listed numerous possibilities which include items many Kentucky farmers may never have considered.

One such option is eggplant. According to the Bush Crop article in the series called "Options for Kentucky Farmers: An Introduction," nationwide eggplant production decreased during 1980-84. The prime marketing time for Kentucky producers would probably be during July and August, when the plant usually brings around $8.34 per bushel. As a rule, the price for eggplant peaks during the first week of August.

Another option is spinach. According to the Cole Crops and Greens article in the same series. "The 1971-84 average price data show relatively stable prices with a slight upward trend throughout the marketing period." The peak price level has occurred during the first week in July. The average price for the years 1980-84 has been from $4.55 per bushel in June to the peak average price of $5.60 per bushel during the first week of July.

Asparagus, broccoli, okra, rhubarb and sweet corn are the stalk crops mentioned as possible options for Kentucky farmers. The bush crops mentioned are bell peppers, eggplant, green beans, squash, tomatoes and cherry tomatoes. Cole crops and greens include cauliflower, green cabbage, greens, leaf lettuce and spinach. Numerous other options for Kentucky farmers are also noted in the series.

For more information on alternate crops, farmers should contact their county extension agent and ask for the series called "Options for Kentucky Farmers: An Introduction." For more detailed budgets and a fuller economic analysis, ask for "Prospects for Kentucky Agriculture: A Resource Document."

New Funding To Help Low Income

Gov. Martha Layne Collins has announced plans to spend nearly $17 million in new funding for two major programs for low-income women and children: Aid to Families with Dependent Children and Medicaid.

"An additional 7,000 mothers and children in need will now be eligible for the vital prenatal and well-child care covered by Medicaid," Gov. Collins said. "At the same time, we're increasing the help we give to AFDC mothers who are enrolled in education, training and literacy programs."

The governor said funding is being increased in the current fiscal year in four areas, including higher direct benefits for AFDC recipients and increased reimbursements to physicians providing prenatal and delivery services to Medicaid-eligible expectant mothers.

Collins explained that because of higher federal matching rates previously budgeted General Fund support can be used to provide substantially more assistance in both the programs. "We're using our increased buying power to help these women and children," she said.

Nationally, Medicaid and AFDC assistance is provided by a combination of federal and state funds, currently on a 70/30 matching rate. However, the federal government re-establishes funding rates each year.

Collins said, "The new matching rates allow us to increase this funding—an additional $6 million in AFDC support and $10.9 million for Medicaid—without affecting other segments of either program."

Cabinet for Human Resources Secretary Al Austin said the additional funding will be used in the following manner:

*Effective Sept. 1, reimbursement to AFDC mothers will be increased for child care services in conjunction with education, training and literacy programs. Most individuals will receive the increase in October or November based on school enrollment dates. The maximum monthly payment would increase from $120 to $174 per month. Cost = $1.1 million per year.

*Effective Oct. 1, Medicaid eligibility in Kentucky will be expanded to an additional 7,000 children and pregnant women to address infant mortality, prenatal and well-child care and problems of access to necessary medical care. Cost = $6.45 million in the 1987-88 budget/$8.6 million on an annual basis.

*Effective Nov. 1, Medicaid reimbursement to physicians for prenatal care and delivery services will be increased to an average of 75 percent of current and customary charges, in recognition of higher risk patients covered by Medicaid and higher medical malpractice insurance costs. Cost = $4.47 million this year/$6.7 million annually.

*Effective Dec. 1, an across-the-board five percent increase will take effect in AFDC benefits. Monthly increases will range from $7 for one-child households to $18 for families with seven or more children. Cost = $4.9 million this fiscal year/$8.4 million beginning with the 1988-89 budget.

Austin explained that the program enhancements are timed in conjunction with the change in the federal matching rates, the Oct. 1 start of the new federal budget year and state estimates on how much additional funding those new rates will mean to Kentucky.

"In this manner we sought to assure that the cost of the enhancements and the projected additional funding will balance out when the current budget year ends next June 30," he said.

Austin said the cabinet's Department for Medicaid Services and Department for Social Insurance have already made the necessary budget modifications, allowing increases in benefits and reimbursements to occur automatically on the effective dates, without any additional applications by clients or providers.

Stars Booked, Tickets On Sale For Fair Acts

From the country beat to the salsa sound to the grunts of big-time wrestlers, the Kentucky State Fair is serving up a variety of stars in its special admission concerts for 1987.

This year's fair dates are Thursday, Aug. 20, through Saturday, Aug. 29. The State Fair is at Kentucky Fair & Exposition Center in Louisville.

Opening Day breaks with the return of the World Wrestling Federation, featuring blond mat star Hulk Hogan. It's scheduled for 8 p.m., Thursday, Aug. 20.

The event features an assortment of familiar faces and physiques that have elevated wrestler-watching to a near-fad status. Other wrestlers on the card will be announced as the fair nears. As last year, the action will be in air-conditioned Freedom Hall.

The harmony of the Oak Ridge Boys has blended into the sounds of the Kentucky State Fair for the past seven years, and this year makes Year Eight for the country foursome. Their popularity at the Kentucky State Fair still is strong enough for them to command two shows, the only special-admission act to do so. The Oak Ridge Boys appear in Freedom Hall at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 22. Tickets are reserved. A guest star will be announced soon.

The Kentucky State Fair falls between stops in New York City and Charleston, W. Va., for Gloria Estefan and the Miami Sound Machine's "Let It Loose World Tour '87." Pepsi is sponsoring the group's itinerary, which began in May in Tucson, Ariz., made its way in June to Japan and other points in the Far East, and wraps up at the end of October in Providence, R.I.

Gloria Estefan and the Miami Sound Machine appear at the Kentucky State Fair 8 p.m. Friday, Aug. 28, in Cardinal Stadium.

Opening the show will be The Jets, a group of eight brothers and sisters whose parents hail from the Polynesian island of Tonga.

Hank Williams, Jr., and his BAMA Band will be joined by Billy Joe Royal on the last night of the fair. Their concert start-up is 8 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 29, in Cardinal Stadium.

Tickets for all of these events, plus evening performances of the World's Championship Horse Show (Aug. 23-29), went on sale Monday, July 13. They will be sold at the Freedom Hall box office and at all Ticketron locations. For concert tickets, call (502) 367-0265; for the horse show, call 366-9592 or write: Ticket Office, Kentucky State Fair, P.O. Box 37130, Louisville, Ky. 40233. Everyone entering the fair must also pay gate admission, in addition to concert prices.

Brinkley To Keynote Governor's Meeting

Veteran broadcast news reporter and commentator David Brinkley will be keynote speaker at the Governor's Local Issues Conference, August 20, at the Louisville Galt House East. "Mr. Brinkley's appearance at the conference will provide local officials insight and a timely perspective on local, state and national issues," Governor Collins said.

Brinkley has been a major force in political news coverage for over 40 years. He received acclaim for his reporting on national political affairs and has won virtually every major broadcasting award, including 10 Emmy Awards, during his 14 years on the "Huntley-Brinkley Report." He currently hosts the Sunday morning news program "This Week With David Brinkley" on ABC and will be a major contributor to the network's campaign coverage of the 1988 election.

The Local Issues Conference is hosted by the Department of Local Government. The three-day event concentrates its workshops, meetings, addresses and panel discussions on issues of importance to local government officials throughout the state. Issues such as liability insurance, regional detention of offenders, the new juvenile code and alternative revenue generating methods are among the topics included in this year's conference agenda. All local elected officials in the state are invited to attend.

For further information regarding the Governor's Local Issues Conference, please contact Commissioner of Local Government Richard D. Cole, 502/564-2382.

Local Bank, Employees Support Breast Center

The First Commonwealth Bank has announced a fund-raising drive to benefit the Breast Center at Highlands Regional Medical Center. Bank employees and officers at each location are participating in the drive, and First Commonwealth has committed to a 100% match of all employee contributions.

Prior to beginning the drive, many bank employees toured the Breast Center. Butch Bradley, director of marketing at First Commonwealth and coordinator of the fund-raising efforts, noted, "breast cancer strikes one of 10 women—affecting the lives of all those close to them. Fortunately, the Breast Center at Highlands offers not only the technology and professionalism but also the support critically needed to deal with the medical and emotional implications of breast cancer. Through our fund-raising program, we hope to show support for the delivery of high quality health care services by local facilities to the people in this area."

The matching contribution program offered by the First Commonwealth Bank is the first of this type established by any local organization, according to an official at Highlands. "Hopefully, the lead taken by First Commonwealth will spur other local businesses", stated Susan Martin, administrative assistant at Highlands.

Slime Mold Invades Some Lawns In State

If words like "plasmodia" and "sporangia" remind you of the blob that ate Chicago, you better stay out of your backyard for the next few weeks. The slime molds have arrived, and they may be oozing their way back and forth across your yard at this very moment.

More formally known by the still so-appealing name of Mucilago crustacea, slime molds generally show up in lawns after extended periods of warm, damp weather. Kentucky has had an extended bout of just that kind of weather recently, the kind that tends to keep people indoors for a while. And when they go back outside, they discover that their yard has become home to entire colonies of slime mold.

John Hartman, Extension plant pathologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, says the appearance of the sporangia usually means they are there for good and will return year after year, when the weather is right.

"The sporangia appear in circular patches from one to 24 inches across. They usually are white, gray or purplish-brown and generally reproduce in the same area each year," Hartman said.

When the weather is cool and humid, the sporangia discharge, "motile swarm cells," which gather together to become the dreaded plasmodia. The mindless, slimy plasmodia ooze about, covering lawns and low-growing plants. Usually whitish, looking like giant patches of cigarette ash in the lawn, some plasmodia are bright yellow or red.

Hartman said the slime molds are not eating the lawns or shrubs they splash themselves upon. The slime molds eat dead grass.

Hartman said there's no need to call in the National Guard to get rid of slime molds. Kentuckians, who don't sleep well knowing there are plasmodia loose in their backyard, can get rid of them simply by hosing them away.

But they'll be back next year.

"I don't know if they just pamper heart patients or not, but I had excellent care."

Well, well, well... look who's getting better.

"I been in the hospital in Florida at Gainesville, Huntington, Louisville and Lexington. I get just as good if not better treatment right here."

Foster Tackett

"I don't see how anyone could have had better care than I did."

Mrs. Carlos Haywood

Getting better. To our patients, it means recovery or major progress. To us, it is that and something more: Our own improvement and growth.

We keep getting better at what we do. And that affects your recovery. We study, we train, we practice and we push ourselves to get better.

We never stop making strides in medical and surgical care, while advanced technologies help us get better at everything from monitoring your vital signs to processing your paperwork.

And, we keep getting better at being people—considerate and neighborly. Because that's as important to your recovery as good medicine.

We keep getting better to keep you closer to home, closer to friends and family. That's why more folks are choosing us instead of long trips to distant cities. We're working for you, to be the better choice for a growing list of services in diagnosis, treatment, recovery and rehabilitation.

You'd have to go a long way to get better care.

Eating Habits Change In Last Two Decades

People in the United States are eating more than they did two decades ago. They are eating different foods, too. "The amount of food consumed per person in the U.S. has increased 9 percent during the last 20 years, with consumption of plant-based foods increasing more than animal products," said University of Kentucky Extension agricultural economist Fred Benson.

And with the extra food, average daily caloric intake has increased by some 400 calories since the 1960s. Most of those extra calories come from fats and carbohydrates, he said.

Even though the average U.S. citizen is eating more, he is paying less for the food he eats. In 1965, Benson said, the average consumer spent about 18 percent of his disposable income for food. Now, he spends 14.7 percent.

Foods that seem to be in fad now include: fresh broccoli, corn sweeteners, low fat milk and yogurt, frozen potatoes, soft drinks, cheese and pasta products. Foods whose public favor may be waning include lard, canned peaches, whole milk, refined sugar, coffee, fresh potatoes and eggs.

"How long the public will continue with these performances is difficult to assess. But for the time being, they seem to be fairly stable," Benson said.

The Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (FLSA) as amended, requires that most employees in the United States be paid a minimum hourly wage, and premium overtime pay after a certain number of hours. The minimum wage is $3.35 an hour.

Spectacular Summer Salads

From the American Institute for Cancer Research

Salads are among the most versatile dishes in your meal planning repertoire, and in the summer your salad options reach their peak with the bounty of summer fruits and vegetables. Various types of salads can serve as an appetizer, main course, side dish or special dessert. When prepared with a little planning, salads are hard to beat as delicious, lowfat sources of vitamin C, beta-carotene (a form of vitamin A) and fiber that have been linked to lower cancer incidence.

The key to healthful salad-making is to maximize the most nutritious components—especially dark yellow and dark green vegetables and fruits—and minimize the components that add unwanted fat—such as high fat cheeses and meats or rich salad dressings. Many vegetables are even higher in nutrients and fiber than lettuce, so try a salad based on spinach, broccoli or cabbage instead. Remember to try to delay cutting fruits and vegetables until close to serving time, since they lose nutrients once sliced or chopped.

For the freshest, most tasty salad dressing, make your own rather than relying on commercial dressing. Homemade dressing can be tailored to your personal taste and allows you to control the amount of fat included. The easiest is an oil and vinegar combination (light on the oil) with a few of your favorite herbs and spices, such as pepper, mustard, tarragon, basil, dill, or garlic.

Here are some salad ideas to give you a start:

A B C SALAD

Instead of lettuce, this salad uses cabbage which is a good source of vitamin C. The other vegetables and the apple add contrasts in color, texture and flavor, as well as adding more nutrients.

1 large red apple, cored and chopped
1 stalk broccoli, chopped medium fine
1/2 small to medium head cabbage, coarsely grated
1-2 onions, chopped fine

Dressing:

1/4 cup oil
1/3 cup sugar (or honey)
1/4 cup vinegar
1 tsp. plus 1 tsp. lemon juice
2 tsp. prepared mustard
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. paprika (optional)
Red and/or green pepper (optional)

Place together all ingredients for dressing and mix well (ideally in a blender). Combine the vegetables and apple in a salad bowl and stir in some of the dressing. Refrigerate for at least one hour before serving. When serving add enough additional dressing just to moisten and emphasize the flavor.

This recipe will yield about 6 servings, each with 10 grams of fat and about 170 calories.

Who says males and females can't be "just friends"? Platonic friendships are quite common among African baboons. According to National Wildlife magazine, the male friends protect the females and their young from attacks by other members of the troop and often groom and cuddle the infants. A male's reward is an increased chance of eventually mating with the female, although he may have to wait for up to two years.

MARINATED VEGETABLE SALAD

When looking for a way to use small amounts of leftover vegetables, try this nutritious dish which can be made with almost any vegetables. The cauliflower and broccoli provide vitamin C and the broccoli and carrots are high in vitamin A.

1 cup bite-size cauliflower florets
1 cup zucchini, sliced (about 1 small)
3/4 cup broccoli florets
1/2 cup carrots, sliced
4 tsp. vegetable oil
5 tsp. white vinegar
2 tsp. wine vinegar
3 tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. oregano
1 tsp. dry mustard
3/4 to 1 tsp. garlic powder
1/2 tsp. anise seeds

Combine vegetables in large bowl. Combine remaining ingredients by shaking together in small jar. Pour dressing over vegetables, toss well, cover and refrigerate several hours before serving (or overnight). Stir occasionally.

This will produce about 4 servings. Each 3/4 cup serving contains only 74 calories and about 5 grams of fat.

Four Highest GED Scores To Receive Cash Awards

Beginning next spring, four Kentucky adults will receive cash awards of $500 for scoring the highest grade on the high school equivalency exam during the year.

The awards program is the latest incentive in the massive statewide effort to raise the educational level of Kentuckians by encouraging them to complete General Educational Development certificates.

Called Project Second Chance, the effort to reach and teach Kentucky adults lacking a high school diploma has been largely supported by the GED Foundation for Adult Education, a private foundation started by business leaders and Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald to pool business support for public education.

In announcing the GED cash awards at a recent kickoff brunch for the foundation's major fund-raising campaign, foundation director Libby Walthall stressed that the awards were not traditional "scholarships."

The honored adults will be able to choose how best to use their money, she said, "perhaps for college, or for vocational training or maybe for equipment to start a business."

In addition to the cash awards, and more free GED testing on Saturdays in the fall, like the very successful free testing program held in March and April, the GED Foundation is committed to helping businesses establish on-site classes for employees needing basic education and GED preparation.

To raise funds for this continuing effort to provide a better-educated work force for Kentucky's economic future, the foundation has established the Order of the Golden Horseshoe.

Based on the manner in which a Virginia governor in the early 1700s rewarded explorers who helped expand the territory by giving them small jeweled gold horseshoes, the new Kentucky Order of the Golden Horseshoe will honor those who "pioneer" in Kentucky's adult education campaign by donating to the foundation.

Memberships in the order start at the top corporate level of $25,000—"knights" in the order.

"We are not asking for charitable contributions. We are asking you to make an investment," Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald told business leaders at the kickoff brunch. "If I could change Kentucky in just one way, I would have Kentuckians value education more."

Education has to be moved up on the state's priorities if Kentucky is to attract good growth industries, said Lynwood Shrader, senior vice president of Kentucky Utilities Inc., one of the major supporters of Project Second Chance.

"In industrial development, we have always thought of good roads, the arts, recreation...and perhaps we did not put education high enough on the list," he said.

Recent surveys of industrial leaders across the nation show, he said, that those selecting new plant sites rank education No. 1, above "available labor force" and well above "quality of life," which they rank eighth.

McDonald and Walthall stressed that the individual $10 donation for membership in the order was equally crucial—and symbolic—for Project Second Chance.

Like Kentucky's logo, which has two people shaking hands, one grasping the other's, "this is one Kentuckian reaching out to help another," Walthall said.

ETC Is On His Way!

Earl Thomas Conley is on his way to Eastern to perform one show only at the Paradise Lounge, August 11, at 9:30 p.m.

He has just released a fourth single, "Right From The Start," from his RCA album "Too Many Times." Album cuts, "That Was A Close One" and "Can't Win For Losin' You" both took the No. 1 position on the Billboard charts, making 14 career No. 1 singles with 13 in a row.

Achievements of this type are not new to Earl Thomas Conley, who has the distinction of being the first artist in the history of recorded music to have four No. 1 singles off one album on the internationally recognized Billboard magazine charts. "Holding Her And Loving You," "Don't Make It Easy For Me," "Angel In Disguise" and "Your Love's On The Line" were all singles off the RCA album "Don't Make It Easy For Me." "Right From The Start." Earl's on his way to another number one hit.

Good Pasture Management Now Can Mean Less Hay Cost Later

Even with endophyte-infected fescue pastures, Kentucky farmers can save a ton of money on next winter's feed costs if they start smart management practices now.

Basically, cattle in the mild Kentucky climate can be wintered on fescue pastures as late as the middle or late January if the pastures are managed properly. That can eliminate most of the winter feeding costs for many farmers.

"Research at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture has shown that accumulating fescue on the stump has reduced stored feed requirements to one-quarter ton per cow per year," said Curtis Absher, UK Extension beef specialist.

"That same cow would require one to one and one-half tons of hay per year if wintered entirely on stored feed," he added. "It is just a lot cheaper to put the pounds on the animal in the pasture instead of the barn."

However, if a farmer is planning to utilize fescue fields to winter their cattle through January, decisions should be made now, Absher said.

First, cattle should be removed from fescue fields about the first of August and moved into clover or alfalfa pastures. That avoids the "summer slump" associated with endophyte-infected fescue where cattle eat less and gain less. It also allows the fescue to rejuvenate and accumulate for fall grazing.

"Even though fescue has a problem with the summer slump, it has the advantage of hardiness in cooler fall weather," Absher said. "As long as the temperature does not fall below the low 40's it can thrive."

Another phenomenon, he said, is that fescue doubles its sugar content in cooler weather as the plant rebounds from the summer slump. As the plants rebound, so does the cattle's performance.

Average daily gain on fall fescue pastures can be from one and one-half to two pounds per day from Oct. 15 to Dec. 15, Absher said.

"If the pastures are to be intensively managed, that is stocked at a high rate, the farmer probably should add nitrogen to his fields in August while the cattle have been removed to the other fields," Absher said. "Sixty to 80 pounds of nitrogen per acre is recommended. UK agronomists involved in fescue research say that for every pound of nitrogen, it will add about 20 pounds of dry matter accumulated in the fields."

Absher also recommended that cattlemen plan to use strip grazing or rotational grazing so that cattle will consume the grass more evenly. It also helps to let the cattle "get a little hungry" before moving them into a new grazing strip or paddock.

"What we're trying to do is help the producer walk the pounds of beef off the pasture rather than have to haul the hay off and feed it back," he said.

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: One of my four year old son's playmates was diagnosed with leukemia last year. His illness started with what seemed to be a bad cold or flu. Now every time my son gets a sore throat or runs a fever I panic and think that he has a sign of leukemia or some other type of cancer. Can you tell me if there are any screening tests for cancer in children or what signs a child would have if he had cancer?

ANSWER: First be assured that cancer in children is rare. In the United States, only about 6,500 children will be expected to develop cancer in 1987. Nearly half of all childhood cancers begin under the age of four. Leukemia is the most common type of childhood cancer in this country. While cancer remains the second leading cause of childhood deaths (accidents are first) the outlook for children with cancer continues to grow brighter. More than half the children with cancer today will be cured.

At this time there are no special screening tests to detect childhood cancer. Regular checkups when the child is well and an examination by his or her doctor when any illness appears serious, or when any symptom persists, would be likely to detect signs that suggest a possible cancer. Specific tests or x-rays would then be ordered according to what cancer is suspected.

Some of the signs of childhood cancer are:

- an unusual swelling or mass
- unexplained pallor (paleness)
- Loss of energy
- sudden tendency to bruise
- localized pain that is persistent
- unexplained limping
- prolonged fever or illness
- frequent headaches, often with vomiting
- sudden eye or vision change
- excessive, rapid weight loss

While none of these signs mean that a child has cancer, any one of them means that the child should see his or her doctor to determine the cause.

For more information about Childhood Cancer, call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER or write McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Cancer Information Service.

Three Floyd Co. Students Are Governor's Scholars

Lenny Hall, of McDowell, and Martie Lafferty and Michael Rosenberg, of Prestonsburg, are three of 325 students currently participating in the Governor's Scholars Program at Centre College in Danville.

An additional 300 students are participating in the program at the University of Kentucky in Lexington. The five-week program began June 21 and will conclude July 24.

Hall chose mathematics as his major course of study and "Cadillacs and Toyotas, Hamburgers and Eggrolls", a class that compares Oriental and American culture, as his minor. Hall said that the Governor's Scholar Program has been both challenging and fun.

Hall, a student at McDowell High School, is a member of the Beta Club and is listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Lafferty chose political and social theory as her major course of study and "Games People Play", a class that studies the history and evolution of various games, as her minor.

Lafferty, a student at Prestonsburg High School, is a member of the National Honor Society and Beta Club.

Rosenberg chose geology as his major course of study and "Games People Play" as his minor.

Rosenberg attends Prestonsburg High School. He is an Academic All-American and a member of the Beta Club and National Honor Society.

The Governor's Scholars Program is a residential, educational enrichment program for Kentucky's brightest rising high school seniors. The program stresses the development of creativity, flexibility and critical thinking. Applicants to the program ranked in the 96th percentile or better in the statewide Kentucky Essential Skills Test.

Teachers are selected competitively from universities, colleges, and high schools across the state for their ability to challenge the best students to new levels of personal and academic achievement.

Teachers focus on stimulating personal development and actively involving students in the learning process through field trips and special learning experiences. Classes have studied the geology of Mammoth Cave, the lifestyle of the Shakers at Shakerstown and traveled to Louisville to experience Shakespeare in Central Park.

Figures of international importance have spoken to the scholars and held discussions with students in the classroom.

Naomi Tutu-Severs, daughter of the Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu, spoke to the group concerning the current situation in South Africa and its effects on the young people of that country.

Award-winning author Bobbie Ann Mason, a Kentucky native, read from her novel In Country. Leo Burmester, "Monsieur Thenardier" in the Tony Award-winning Broadway musical "Les Miserables," took time off from the show to visit and perform at the Governor's Scholars campuses.

Nobel Prize-winner William Lipscomb, whose discovery of a unique type of chemical bonding important in cancer research, and Phillip Sharp, whose discoveries have caused a revolution in the field of molecular genetics, discussed modern scientific advancements.

The Governor's Scholars Program, now in its fifth year, is nationally recognized for its innovative approaches to learning. The program is unique in that it is jointly funded by government and private sources.

Skin Cancer The Facts

In recent years, there has been an alarming rise in the incidence of malignant melanoma, or skin cancer, reports the National Foundation for Cancer Research. It is estimated that over 6000 persons in the U.S. die of melanoma annually. Furthermore, skin cancer is on the rise among young people.

There is no current cure for the most severe forms of skin cancer, thick primary melanoma or metastatic (rapidly spreading) melanoma. Neither radiation, chemotherapy, or immunotherapy, alone or in combination, are able to alter the progression of the disease.

But there is hope. Dr. Michael Wick, a physician-scientist working with a NCFR research contract, has synthesized a promising drug prototype specifically for aggressive, resistant tumors like melanoma.

Fortunately, the general public is becoming aware of this particularly troubling form of cancer. Greater care is being taken about sun protection. In addition, since melanoma usually originates from the surface of the skin, early detection is possible, if you know what the warning signs are.

Symptoms to check for periodically include:

- *Sore that does not heal
- *Change in shape, size or color of a wart or mole
- *Sudden appearance of a mole.

If you have any of these symptoms, it does not necessarily mean that you have cancer. However, a doctor should always be consulted.

Kidd Finishes High On Floyd County Hit List

Tony Kidd, through correspondent courses, graduated from high school at the tender age of 16. As a student at Mountain Christian Academy, Tony Kidd never swung at a pitch in high school.

Playing in summer youth leagues such as Little League and Babe Ruth accounted for all of Kidd's baseball experience.

Graduating from high school at 16 is an impressive accomplishment, almost as impressive as graduating from baseball's school of hitting, which Tony Kidd did this summer.

Rarely used on Floyd County's 15-year-old Babe Ruth all-star squad last year, Kidd received an opportunity this summer and responded with big offensive numbers.

Kidd, a catcher on Floyd County's 16-18-year-old team, finished the season with a .353 batting average, good enough for third highest on the team.

Used sparingly early in the season, Kidd earned a permanent spot in the Floyd county starting lineup, almost by necessity rather than by decision.

After starting the season with a 4-15 performance in his first 17 plate appearances, Kidd was forced into action behind the plate, because Floyd County has no other catcher to use in the second game of a doubleheader.

Kidd enjoyed a two-for-four performance at the plate in that game against Morehead, and since then saw action in every one of Floyd county's remaining games, either as a catcher, or designated hitter.

After becoming a regular, the hard-hitting Tony Kidd enjoyed a .421 batting average, banging out eight hits in his final 19 times at bat, while playing solid defense.

Kidd has never benefitted from high school baseball experience or the solid coaching that comes with it, but has impressed coaches on every level he has played.

Facing tough pitching of the Senior Babe Ruth, and American Legion circuit, Kidd proved that he can, in fact, hit on any level. Of Kidd's 12 hits, seven were singles to go with five doubles and seven RBIs.

Kidd, two years behind most high school graduates, has two more years of American Legion eligibility, and if the strongarmed catcher continues to make progress, may eventually be college baseball material. Kidd will be a member of Floyd county's 1988 American Legion Squad, which will play their games under the Martin Post. So will Darrin Conn, outfielder for Allen Central and FC's top hitter from this past season.

Conn, 15 for 39, finished with a .385 average, best on the Floyd county roster. The FC outfielder, who also played first base and caught, as well as all three outfield positions, was hitting .415 until the final two games of the season.

Due to a two-for eight showing in a season ending doubleheader against Pikeville, Conn barely missed a .400 season, but nevertheless edged Roger Horne as Floyd county's number one offensive performer.

Horne, another product of Allen Central High School, led the team in hits, 19, and in at bats while finishing with a .365 offensive average. Horne also drove in 19 runs.

Thomas Hall, another member of Floyd county's squad that never played high school baseball, finished the season hitting .345. Hall banged out 10 hits in 29 plate appearances. The FC catcher will be a senior at Betsy Layne High School, and has another year of 16-18 play.

Floyd County had six players, hit over .300, and all except one player, third baseman Roger Horne, will return next season to help what promises to be a quality pitching staff.

Led by 16-year-old Nathan Shelton, Floyd county's pitching staff improved to the point of being stingy, giving up only three earned runs in their last 21 innings.

Shelton, 2-2, was the only FC pitcher to collect two wins, but Tim Trusty, 16-year-old Prestonsburg product, deserved a much better fate than his 1-2 final record.

In three starts, Trusty worked a total of 18 two-thirds innings, giving up only six earned runs against Knott County, Morehead and Pikeville.

Both Shelton and Trusty, along with hard throwing Mark Tipton, have two years of eligibility left, and at 16 years old, can only get stronger.

Brian Hall, former McDowell standout, emerged as a productive mound performer, giving Floyd County a solid fourth starter, and an additional pitcher for 1988.

Looking forward to next season, Floyd County is anticipating their move from Senior Babe Ruth to American Legion baseball. With 11 team members back, and local talent already committed for next summer, Floyd County should be competitive in their first legion season.

The 18-man roster is currently being filled, and soon the schedule, a 45-50 game slate, will be completed in order to get an early start next spring.

A team bus is in the plans also. Two softball tournaments have been scheduled for the last weekends of August and September to help support the local American Legion Squad.

The tournament's, to be held at Allen Park, will feature a 16-team field with an $80 entry fee. Teams will furnish their own Blue Dot softballs.

Team trophies will be furnished to the top four finishers, as well as an RBI and most hits trophy.

Interested teams should see Alton Huff, or call 349-3939, anytime. All proceeds will go toward financing the local American Legion Squad, the final baseball opportunity many of Floyd County's players receive.

Bluegrass Games Begin In Lexington, Friday

The fast-growing Bluegrass State Games are moving into Commonwealth Stadium at the University of Kentucky this year. Next year the games may spill over into Rupp Arena because the 1988 version will include basketball—the state's most consuming sport—for the first time.

"We're known for our basketball in Kentucky—we love it and we're obviously good at it...and next year, we'll all have an opportunity to show off our skills," said Gov. Martha Layne Collins.

The announcement was made July 22 at a news conference on a train between Frankfort and Lexington. The CSX Corp., a sponsor of the Bluegrass State Games, provided the train ride where members of the news media received an update on the Games.

In 1988, basketball will be an official festival event called "Three on Three Jamboree," the governor said. It will be half-court game, three persons to a side...divided into age and skill divisions like all the contests in the games, she noted.

The addition of basketball will bring the number of sporting events to 22. Horsehoes, table tennis and croquet were added this year. A demonstration of three on three basketball will be given by representatives of the Games founding sponsors, Valvoline Oil Co., Coca-Cola, and CSX, during the Corporate Challenge Aug. 1 at 7 p.m. in Lexington's downtown Triangle Park, Collins said.

This year's games will be heralded by a torch-lighting ceremony at noon July 31 at the Old Capitol in Frankfort. Immediately following the ceremony, the first statewide Governor's Pacesetters Capitol Walk for Kentuckians 55 and over will begin with about 1,800 persons expected to participate.

The spectacular opening ceremony of the 1987 Bluegrass State Games will begin at 9 o'clock that night at Commonwealth Stadium and for the first time the event will be broadcast live by the Kentucky Cable Network and WLKY-TV of Louisville.

Special guest at the opening ceremony will be Evelyn Ashford, world-record holder in the 100-meter-dash. The parade of athletes will be led by the Governor's Champions Against Drugs Council of Champions. Ashford's appearance will be sponsored by the Games' founding gold medal sponsor, Valvoline Oil Co. Other sponsors for the Games are Coca-Cola, CSX Corp. and Hardees.

The three-year-old games have grown "beyond our wildest dreams and expectations," noted Collins in announcing "another record-breaking year with 30,644 Kentuckians to take part in at least one event."

There will be participants from 94 of Kentucky's 120 counties, she added. The governor said that the youngest participant will be 3 and the oldest will be 93.

"Meet the Challenge: Be the Best You Can Be," is the theme of this year's Games.

Noting that Kentucky's Games are among the most successful in the nation, Collins said that through this event and "by improving our schools and broadening our economic base, Kentucky is on the road to becoming the best it can be."

The Sporting Times

The County Judge-Executive and the magistrates have battled each other to the point of near non-existence, creating a major stream of negative publicity.

In the past year the city has lost its police chief and fire chief, both of whom were effective and efficient in their respective capacities.

During this period of deception and confusion, major media outlets have taken turns at publicizing their problems, but have never made mention of their successes.

This past week, the Salyersville, and Magoffin County area proved that it is more than just a community filled with political back-biting, and general wrongdoings.

Faced with possibilities, although remote, of being desolved, Magoffin County produced an assembly line of baseball that no area community has equaled in their previous attempts.

Possessing a quality facility such as Ramey Park, Salyersville had the tools and took advantage of it by hosting not one, and not two, but three tournaments during the same time schedule.

It did help to have three fields, and it did help to have cooperative weather, but even with these the tournaments couldn't have been a success without those dedicated people who were determined to prove a point; that Salyersville could be a credible host.

While trying to get the little league tournament back to its initially determined spot, some Salyersville people voiced their objections at a district meeting. Even though they drew some harsh comments, they succeeded in obtaining a goal.

Then Glen Holbrook, league president, and crew went out and put on a smooth tournament, complete with a running scoreboard, an official scorer, and a public address system.

At the same time, Salyersville also hosted the district Senior League tournament, both 14-15 and 13-year-old events.

All three fields were full of baseball for the first few days of the tournaments, with the only problems being obnoxious and baseball ignorant fans.

Salyersville and Magoffin County proved it has competent people capable of succeeding in the task set before them, especially when politics and politicians aren't involved.

What people from Paintsville, Morgan county, and Floyd county proved is why they are known as the less classy fans in eastern Kentucky.

One mistake tournament manager Glen Holbrook made was hiring the wrong people to umpire. He should have hired the lady from Paintsville who complained when Prestonsburg runners were awarded a base after the baseball rolled under the backstop. First of all this lady embarrassed herself with her big mouth, and Paintsville, known as a baseball town, by telling everyone just how little she knew about baseball.

The lady from Prestonsburg should have been on the bases, because from behind the third base fence, she saw a play at second better than the second base umpire.

These people were okay, but those from Morgan county weren't. After the first pitch in the Little League finals, Wednesday, they were asking "How much are they paying you ump?"

Now wait a minute, folks. These boys are 11-12 years old. Who, in their right minds, would call a baseball game against them? Even better, who, in their right minds, would accuse someone of calling against an 11-year-old child?

The language used by one fan was totally unexcusable, and yes, he was from Morgan county. First they accuse the umpire of being biased, but which is worse, having your son lose a baseball game or hear God's name being taken in vain.

Oh, yea, and the father who thinks he knows everything about baseball, or at least more than the coach.

Fathers, brothers, and uncles took their place in line, trying to coach their sons and criticizing those who made mistakes in back of him.

One father even went as far as calling pitches for his son, who was pitching. I wonder if the coach was calling pitches too.

Fans are an important part of baseball, but only if they understand and fulfill their roles as fans.

I remember when I played. After the game my mother would ask, "Who won?"

She knew nothing about baseball, but she and I were the only ones who knew what she didn't know. Fortunately, for my sake, she didn't open her mouth and let everyone know how little she knew.

My father didn't tell me what to do on the field. My coach did that, and he was the only one who did.

Naturally, I was confused on the field. I've lived my life in a state of confusion, but not because I've had one person telling me to do this, and another telling me to do that, and both at the same time.

Sometimes parents are their children's worst enemies, but who is to tell them this. How do you tell a father that the coach may be able to help his son more than he can?

How do you explain to a mother that her unknowledgeable bickering only embarrasses her son?

Find the answers to these questions, and you'll have solved the biggest problem that hampers local summer league baseball.

At an early age, these youngsters need support. They need coaching, and they need encouragement, but they also need to learn through their own experiences.

George Hall, McDowell resident, may have said, "I used to try to coach my boys in Little League, but I found out that they knew more about the game than I did."

Harold-Allen-Prater Title Bid Stopped By Morgan Co.

Before this year's Little League district tournament began, B.J. Newsome, Harold-Allen-Prater league president, listed Morgan County as one of the teams most likely to win the championship.

Last Thursday evening, Morgan County did win the district championship, defeating Newsome's Harold-Allen-Prater all-star squad 7-5, in the tournament's final game.

Morgan County, on the strength of two homeruns, scored five runs in the first inning, and after Harold-Allen-Prater tied the score in the fifth, added a pair of runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to complete the two-game championship sweep.

Derrick Finch, Morgan County's offensive hero from a day earlier, continued to light up the Ramey Park scoreboard by drilling a two-run homerun.

Three hitters later, Seth Griffiths, Morgan County catcher, launched a three-run homerun to send his team on their way to a district championship.

The homerun hitting of Morgan County denied Harold-Allen-Prater a tournament title in both losses, Wednesday and Thursday.

HAP had advanced through the tournament undefeated, and needed only one win over Morgan County to claim the championship. Morgan County had already lost once in the double elimination event.

Harold-Allen-Prater looked as if they would get that one victory in the first championship game, Wednesday.

Thanks to a two-run homerun off the bat of Barry Hall, HAP took an early, 5-0, lead, but Morgan County, a team B.J. Newsome termed scrappy and never a quitter, kept chewing away at the lead.

With three runs in the bottom of the first, in the second, and two runs in the third inning, Morgan County tied the score at 6-6. The other Harold-Allen-Prater run came in the second inning when Barry Hall, HAP catcher, hit his second homerun of the game.

Harold-Allen-Prater reclaimed the lead, scoring two runs in the top of the fourth inning. Leading 8-6, HAP held on to their two-run advantage going into Morgan County's final at bat.

With the district tournament title all but tucked away, Harold-Allen-Prater watched their hopes sail away on the wings of a Derrick Finch three-run homerun.

The blast gave Morgan County new life, and a 9-8 victory, forcing a second contest Thursday.

Finch came back with the same amount of offensive fury, collecting a two-run homerun, a single, and scoring what proved to be the game's winning run.

Harold-Allen-Prater scored two runs in the top of the first inning when Shawn Newsome doubled in James Roberts, and Sean Damron, who had walked and singled.

Morgan County did most of their offensive damage in the first inning, scoring five runs on seven hits, but HAP eventually wiped that big opening inning out. In the third inning, Barry Hall and Shawn Newsome drilled back to back doubles. Both eventually scored to trim Morgan County's advantage to 5-4.

Harold-Allen-Prater tied the contest in the fifth inning when Sean Damron led off with a single. Barry Hall followed with a single, moving Damron to second. Damron, HAP's second baseman, advanced to third on a Morgan County turned double play started by shortstop Nicky Hammonds.

On the next pitch, Hammonds misplayed a ground ball, allowing Sean Damron to score the tying run. Once again challenged, Morgan County responded by scoring what eventually proved to be the game-winning run, on unearned one.

Morgan County plated two runs on three hits and a Harold-Allen-Prater error to take a 7-5 lead going into the final inning.

Harold-Allen-Prater failed to score in the sixth inning, giving Morgan County a 7-5 victory, and the district Little League championship. Chris Trusty, Morgan County right-hander, was credited with the championship game win. Trusty pitched six innings, giving up eight hits while striking out eight and walking one, James Roberts leading off the game. Three of the six runs were earned.

Jason Crisp, in relief of Ronnie Goodman, suffered the loss for Harold-Allen-Prater. Crisp was brought in to pitch in the first inning.

Through five and two-thirds innings Crisp surrendered seven hits and two runs, both unearned. The Harold-Allen-Prater righthander struck out two, and did not walk a batter.

With the win, Morgan County claimed a district title while also bringing to a halt Floyd County's Little League reign.

In 1985, Harold-Allen-Prater won the district championship, and last year Prestonsburg claimed the title, but in the Salyersville hosted tournament Morgan County was crowned 1987 champs.

HEAVY HITTER: Harold-Allen-Prater catcher Barry Hall swings through this pitch, but connected on some others, drilling two homeruns Wednesday afternoon. Hall's offensive performance went for zero though, as HAP lost in the district championship round to Morgan County.

Giants Challenge For First While Cincinnati Struggles

The gift season Cincinnati had been handed came unwrapped this past weekend, and the Reds limped home with a mere one-game lead in the National League's Western Division.

As a result of San Francisco and Houston playing near the break-even point through the first two-thirds of the season, Cincinnati had been staked to a four-and-one-half game lead just last week.

But somewhere between Philadelphia and Montreal the wheels fall off, and the Big Red Machine was open for an Expo ambush, which they received.

Cincinnati had just taken two of three games in Philadelphia, but didn't enjoy the same success against the Expos.

After downing Montreal, 8-4, in Thursday's series opener, the Reds proceeded to lose three consecutive games to the Expos.

Dave Parker drove in six runs in Thursday's contest, including a three-run homerun, to post Ted Power to a come-from-behind win. Montreal scored four times in the first inning.

Cincinnati, following Thursday's impressive showing at the plate, shunned their offensive duties, leading to three losses in the final three games of a four-game weekend series in Montreal.

Eric Davis gave Cincinnati an early lead Friday night with a solo homerun in the first inning, and the Reds added an unearned run in the second to take a 2-0 lead.

Montreal, off Reds' starter Guy Hoffman, wiped that lead out, and scored what proved to be the game winner in the home half of the second inning, scoring three runs.

Hoffman, 7-5, shut the Expos out over the next five innings, but the damage had been done. Montreal outscored the Reds early, and held on for a 3-2 victory.

Winners Of Deer Jaw Program Announced

Two winners have been drawn from the 1,300 entries in the deer jaw program for the 1986 deer season. The drawing conducted by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Tex B. Smith, of White Plains, and Ken McKay, of Owensboro, will be presented with prizes by Commissioner Don McCormick in appreciation for their participation in the program. This is the seventh year the deer jaw lottery has awarded two deer hunters for sending a jaw bone to the department for research.

Smith will be awarded a .270 Remington BDL equipped with a Leupold scope worth $800, while bowhunter McKay will receive a Cougar Martin compound bow, including arrows and sights, valued at $300.

The procedure to enter the drawing is simple. Hunters remove the lower left jaw from their deer, clean away the meat and let it dry, and then place the jaw in an special departmental envelope and drop it in the mail. Deer jaw envelopes are available at all check stations and require no postage. On the envelope there are questions about how, where and when the deer was taken, as well as requests for general information about the animal.

When biologists age the deer from the jaw sample, all the information is recorded and kept with other samples from the same county or area. This information is used to determine deer populations, hunting pressure on a specific herd and the age and growth patterns of the herd.

Information collected from the sample jaws directly affects what opportunities will be available for deer hunters during the upcoming seasons. Many of the decisions on the length of deer seasons, how many deer can be harvested, and the number of doe days are based on the mathematical models formed from data obtained through the deer jaw program.

"We would like to have more hunters involved in the program, since a larger sample helps us develop more precise management strategies, and subsequently better hunting opportunities," said John Phillips, deer program coordinator for the department.

"Our objective is to stabilize the deer populations in those areas that have a higher number of deer and increase the population in those areas where deer numbers are lower. This information helps us to make decisions that keep down problems for over population, such as crop depredation and possibly an unhealthy herd, while at the same time working to provide hunters with the best possible chance to harvest a deer," Phillips added.

One example of the trends developing, according to the data collected by biologists working on the deer program, is that Kentucky's deer population is quickly outgrowing the number of deer hunters. This information was the basis in adopting more liberal limits and seasons in some areas of the state for the upcoming deer season.

For more information on deer season dates, regulations and quota hunts on wildlife management areas, write Ky. Dept. of Fish and Wildlife Resources, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or call (502) 564-4336. For information on quota hunts at Land Between the Lakes (LBL) call (502) 924-5602. Applications should be addressed to Quota Deer Hunt, Land Between the Lakes, Golden Pond, Ky. 42231. Application deadline is 3:30 p.m. on Wednesday, July 29.

Once again Cincinnati gained an advantage early, leading 2-1 and 3-2, Saturday, but eventually lost 4-3 in extra innings.

Terry Francona, Reds first baseman, gave Cincinnati their last lead of 3-2 in the eighth inning when the ex-Expo drilled his third homerun of the year, a solo shot.

Montreal, however, tied the contest, and eventually pulled out the victory on Mike Fitzgerald's bases-loaded single off Bill Landrum in the bottom of the 12th inning.

While the Reds were busy losing one-run games to Montreal, San Francisco was busy beating up on Eastern Division leader St. Louis.

The Giants defeated St. Louis, 5-4, Saturday, moving to within two and one-half games of first placed Cincinnati. San Francisco then swept the Cardinals in a doubleheader, Sunday.

With the two wins and Cincinnati's loss, 6-0 to the Expos, San Francisco found themselves only one game behind the Reds, making up three and one-half games in only three days.

Floyd Yomans, Montreal righthander, shut the Reds out on six hits Sunday afternoon. Yomans, 8-4, also collected his fourth shutout of the season while the Reds failed to score in a game for the fourth time this season.

Montreal scored one run in the second inning, one in the third, and added four runs in the sixth inning to chase Bill Gullickson. Gullickson, Reds' righthander, was tagged with his seventh loss against 10 wins.

With the loss, Cincinnati wrapped up the road trip a loser, compiling a 5-6 record in the 11-game Eastern Division visit.

The Reds limped home to open a nine-game homestand, starting with the much improved San Diego Padres.

Under new manager Larry Bowa, the Padres got off to an extremely slow start, but have played better baseball, recently.

Cincinnati and San Diego hooked up last night, beginning a three-game series. The two teams will meet again tonight and Thursday night at 7:30, before San Diego departs for Atlanta, and the Reds welcome in second placed San Francisco.

In possibly the biggest series of the season for either team, the Reds and Giants will play a three-game weekend series.

The series will open Friday night with a 7:30 start. Saturday's afternoon game is scheduled to be televised by NBC before the two teams wrap the series up Sunday afternoon at Riverfront.

The Reds, after opening up a four and one-half game lead over San Francisco, watched as the Giants moved immediately back into contention.

With the season rapidly disappearing, both teams need a winning head to head series which should make for an interesting and exciting weekend series.

IN LOVING MEMORY

of Bertle Bailey
January 30, 1987

In tears we watched you sinking. We watched you fade away. Our hearts were almost broken. For you fought so hard to stay.

But when we saw you sleeping So peaceful, free from pain. We could not wish you back again To suffer that again.

Although it's been six months now, Since God called you home. Your memory lives on within us For you did not go alone.

We know you're resting peacefully, In that Land so far away It eases the pain within our hearts To know we'll meet again some day

Sadly missed by your wife, Dosie and children.

KFTC Asks Supreme Court To Rehear Broad Form Deed Case

The Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition, July 21, filed a petition with the Kentucky Supreme Court asking it to reconsider its decision in the broad form deed case.

"The Fair Tax Coalition is going to do whatever it takes to get this changed," stated KFTC Chairwoman Mary Jane Adams at a Frankfort press conference announcing the rehearing request.

"We are here today because we are angry at the supreme court," she continued. "They didn't help us a bit. They hurt us, and I think they know it."

"We're telling the supreme court you set us back 75 years," added Floyd County KFTC member Beverly May. "The 1984 law gave us the right to live on our own land and to live in peace. I'm very angry that I now live in the only state where we can no longer live in peace."

On July 2, the supreme court overturned a lower court decision and declared the 1984 broad form deed law unconstitutional. That law, passed with the strong support of KFTC members, said that coal companies could not strip mine for coal under "broad form" mineral deeds without the consent of the surface owner. These turn-of-the-century deeds were signed by unsuspecting landowners long before strip mining was known or practiced in Eastern Kentucky.

In its rehearing petition, KFTC pointed out that all seven supreme court judges agreed that at the time broad form mineral deeds were executed, the parties did not contemplate the "obliteration of the surface." However, the effect of the court's ruling is to allow the strip mining and the destruction of the land.

"This runs contrary to this court's own pronouncements as to proper deed construction," the petition argues.

"The state of the law is certainly unclear since the opinion declaring the (broad form deed) statute unconstitutional was signed by only three justices," the petition concludes. "The matter is further complicated by Justice Vance's concurrence by separate opinion, in which he does not say one word about the constitutionality of the statute in question."

At the press conference, Adams expressed her disappointment in the ruling. "This is a very unfair ruling. Kentucky is the only state that gives mineral owners the right to do anything they want to the surface. It shows who owns Kentucky."

Reporters asked Adams if she was questioning the integrity of the supreme court.

"If the government isn't for the people, it's against the people," she responded. "The problem is the money and the power. I think any decision in Kentucky is influenced by this economic power."

Under court regulations, the coal industry has 20 days in which to respond to the petition for a rehearing. Any time after that, the court may agree to reconsider the case or reject the petition.

KFTC has established a legal fund to assist coalfield surface owners in gaining back their rights taken away by the supreme court decision. "We'll be back before the legislature, before the courts—whatever it takes to get our rights back," stated KFTC Perry County member Sidney Cornett.

Douglas Dwayne Hamilton

Written by Elder Hershell Hamilton

Doug was born December 20, 1964 and passed away July 24, 1987. He is survived by his dad and mom, Hershell and Alberta Hamilton, of Beaver; two sisters, Brenda Howell and Janet Vance, both of Hi Hat, and two brothers, Eddie Hamilton, of Hi Hat, and Dan Hamilton, of Lexington.

Is it vain to serve God? Are there any rewards in the fruit of your labor? I have been in the ministry for thirty-two years, serving the Lord each and every day, often with fear and trembling in my home. Many a time, I have knelt on my knees praying for my children.

About a week before my son, Doug, was called away, I had a vision from Heaven. My wife and I were working very hard operating a coal mines. We had enough money and earthly treasures already in saving, yet the children continue to bring us one hundred dollar bills. Our vessels were all full and there were so much riches left over.

I didn't fully understand the dream at first. Three days later, we received a phone call that our son was in this accident. We rushed to the hospital. When we arrived, Doug was unconscious. We were advised by the doctors to talk to him, he could hear us, but could not respond.

In their experience with patients in a coma, the patients would remember their family talking to them.

I told Doug that Mommy and I were with him and we were praying for him. I told him to pray and he rolled his head on his pillow, as if to say, "I hear you." In all the thirty-two years in serving the Lord, this was enough reward for me. I don't have the wealth on earth that I saw in the dream, my treasures are where my heart and son is today.

My oldest daughter had a vision and saw the River of Life wide and deep. She saw a white horse coming in a mighty rush skipping on the water before it reached her, it slowed down. She saw my baby son, Doug, sitting on a bed smiling as a baby, then she awakened.

After his passing, my neighbors had visions of tall cedar trees around my home, and one of them falling down. No it is not vain to serve the Lord and there is a reward for every good deed that we do on earth.

My gray hair will bring me down to the grave in sorrow and mourning for my son. The resurrection will raise me and my son. I hope my wife, four children, and grandchildren will be ready to ride the white horse through the river to the throne of God.

ELDER HERSCHELL HAMILTON

Southern Gov. Conference To Be Aug. In Louisville

The nation's Southern Governors will literally step into the future and sample life in the 21st century at their annual meeting, August 30th-September 1st in Louisville.

This year's meeting will take place in a specifically designed room where the governors can experience the future technologies firsthand.

The meeting theme, Main Street 21st Century: Leadership Challenges For The South Today, will focus the governors' efforts on the various public policy implications of the emerging technologies.

Working exhibits of the classroom, office, assembly line, hospital, home and communications center will be provided by IBM, Xerox, BellSouth, South Central Bell, Humana, Capital Holding, General Electric and Toyota.

Kentucky Governor Martha Layne Collins, chairman of the Southern Governors' Association, selected this year's meeting theme and setting "to make concrete our best visions of the future. My goal for this meeting is nothing less than to open new vistas in our thinking about the South's future and the challenge it poses for the region's policymakers today."

The Republican and Democratic presidential hopefuls have also been invited to this year's Southern Governors' Association Annual Meeting. More details will follow as speakers are confirmed.

This year's meeting marks the first time the south's top regional policy groups have met concurrently. Joining the Southern Governors will be the Southern Growth Policies Board and the Southern States Energy Board.

Collins stressed that the exhibits will be an integral part of the proceedings.

"We will not simply visit them, then retire to a more traditional meeting room somewhere else," she said. "We'll conduct meetings right there, with these new technologies confronting us, and with knowledgeable speakers who have ideas about how the South might take fuller advantage of them."

Veterans Administration Questions and Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA Counselors. Full information is available at any VA Office.

Q.—Has a law been passed recently that expands veterans education benefits?

A.—On June 1, 1987, President Reagan signed the Montgomery GI Bill into law. The new law, named after Rep. G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery (D-MS), chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, makes permanent a New GI Bill which was started July 1, 1985, as a three-year test program...

Q.—I am a veteran with a service-connected disability rated at 50 percent. I have received an injury which is not service-connected, but which will require a prosthetic appliance. Will the VA supply this needed appliance?

A.—Yes. Any veteran with a service-connected disability of 50 percent or more may be provided with necessary prosthetic appliances for any medical condition.

Q.—Will I lose my VA compensation if I get a job?

A.—Employment is generally a factor in receiving VA compensation only if you are being paid at the 100 percent rate based on your unemployment.

Q.—The IRS withheld part of my refund for a Veterans Administration education overpayment that occurred in 1978. I want to request a waiver. What can I do?

A.—For overpayments incurred before 1983, the VA could consider a waiver request if received within two years of the initial notification to the claimant. In 1983, the time limit was reduced to 180 days. However, if you have evidence that shows you were not afforded due process rights, you should present your case to the VA.

ASK TONI

This Willie Nelson movie was known by two names

By Toni Reinhold

What was the name of the movie that starred Willie Nelson and Dyan Cannon? — R.M., Cleveland, Ohio

Willie Nelson

It's no wonder you can't remember, R.M. "Honeysuckle Rose" (1980), which starred Nelson as — what else? — a country-music star, was renamed "On the Road Again" when it aired on NBC. The film also featured Cannon, Amy Irving, and country-music stars Johnny Gimble and Emmylou Harris. It was based on "Intermezzo" (1939), which has a similar plot but a symphonic setting.

Can you tell me if Cybill Shepherd from "Moonlighting" and Shelley Hack of "Jack and Mike" are sisters, or otherwise related? They look so much alike. — D.J., Prince Edward Island, Canada

While both Shepherd and Hack are blond and beautiful, they are not related.

Who played Tarzan on TV? When did the show originally air? — M.E., Covington, Va.

The "Tarzan" adventure series aired in new episodes from 1966 to 1968 on NBC, and as reruns during the summer of 1969. Ron Ely starred as Tarzan, and Manuel Padilla Jr. played his closest friend, the orphan Jai. While Ely performed many of his own stunts, the thunderous jungle cry heard on the series was a recording of the most famous Tarzan of all — Olympic athlete Johnny Weissmuller, who portrayed the Edgar Rice Burroughs hero in a dozen films beginning in the 1930s and '40s. Ely, incidentally, was the 14th actor to play Tarzan.

When did "McKeever and the Colonel" air? Who starred in it? — E.O., Bethlehem, Pa.

This NBC sitcom about life at a military academy aired from September 1962 to June 1963. Scott Lane starred as Cadet Gary McKeever, and Allyn Joslyn played Col. Harvey Blackwell.

IN A NOSTALGIA

By Tom Eisenmann

"Soap," which aired from 1977 to 1981 on ABC, was a groundbreaking, controversial parody of the daytime soap operas. Its candid and irreverent treatment of sex prompted 32,000 letters of protest before even a single episode had aired.

The series centered on two families, the Tates and the Campbells. The wealthy Tate household consisted of Chester and Jessica Tate, their grown daughters Corinne and Eunice, their 14-year-old son Billy, Jessica's father "The Major," and Benson the butler. Chester and Jessica cheated on each other, Corinne and Eunice feuded, and Benson and Billy cracked jokes about everyone else — all while the Major continued to fight World War II in their living room.

Meanwhile Burt and Mary Campbell were struggling to consummate their recent marriage, since Burt was suffering from guilt and depression. He was also having a tough time dealing with his new stepsons — Danny, who was in the mob and wanted to kill him, and Jodie, who was gay and was frequently seen prancing around the house in his mother's clothes. Burt's own son Chuck also came to live with them, bringing his friend Bob, an obnoxious wooden puppet. In later seasons Chester went to jail, Jessica had a fling with a South American revolutionary, Jodie fathered a child, and Burt was kidnapped by 3-foot-tall aliens — among other odd occurrences.

A number of the series' stars have gone on to greater TV success. Billy Crystal (who played Jodie) starred on "Saturday Night Live"; Katherine Helmond (Jessica Tate) now stars on "Who's the Boss?"; and Robert Guillaume (Benson) starred in the "Soap" spinoff "Benson."

Question: The actor who played Peter Campbell has gone on to star in two detective series. Who is he?

Answer: Robert Urch

HEADLINEVIEW

Cinemax's 'Talking Max' offers more Headroom

By Frank Lovece

Somewhere between David Letterman's sarcastic jive and Gary Shandling's self-referential anti-sitcom lies "The Original Max Talking Headroom Show." The seven-show series of interviews and electronic fun and games will air through October - on Cinemax, appropriately enough.

Max Headroom

Whether this high-tech talk show is "the original" is hard to say. The Max Headroom concept first appeared more than 18 months ago, as a one-hour science-fiction story on British television. Headroom (played by Matt Frewer) became host of a British rock-video "chat show" soon afterward, and last year reprised that role for Cinemax. And in March, a Headroom sci-fi series (also starring Frewer) premiered on ABC.

I've never seen the British chat show, but friends in England report that over there, the novelty is over. That soon may be the case here: For all the dazzling effects and bang-zoom pacing, "Talking Headroom" is still an old-fashioned talk show. The guests plug their latest movie, book or video at the host's gracious prompting, as on more conventional programs. And Max's questions, while sometimes clever, are usually as banal as Johnny's and Joan's.

This being cable, however, the usual niceties get shredded, as they ought to. In this week's episode, Max queries a good-natured Mary Tyler Moore about her Mary Richards character: "Did you ever come to a point where you couldn't stand her?" This is a perfect question, and Moore appreciates the candor. And when Robin Leach offers some Ollie North-like obfuscations, Max just keeps zinging away until Robin finally admits to what he's all about.

Like "It's Garry Shandling's Show," "Talking Headroom" also pokes fun at itself, parodying formulaic monologues and bandleaders who speak in "outdated musician slang." There are some wonderfully weird spots, such as dual Maxes behind the piano, singing about "film clips that nobody knows / what a cheap way of filling the show." Max may have headroom for improvement, but this half-hour show is brisk, even at its worst. The dumb patches fly by, while the good parts stick in your mind

Daytime Emmys lacked excitement, controversy

By Marie Michaels

The 14th Annual Daytime Emmy Awards presentation, held last month in New York City, came off without the fanfare, excitement and controversy that usually characterize such ceremonies. Onstage, even the nominees seemed less than thrilled by the event. And behind the scenes, the gathering of the soap press lacked the buzz and conjecture of past Emmy presentations.

Kim Zimmer

One award did elicit approval from the press - the selection of "As the World Turns" as Outstanding Drama Series. Virtually everyone agreed that "ATWT" deserved the award more than "All My Children," "Santa Barbara" and "The Young and the Restless." And many insiders voiced surprise that "ATWT" head writer Douglas Marland, who has been responsible for much of the show's success this year, hadn't even been nominated for Outstanding Drama Series Writing Team (won by "One Life to Live").

There was also some surprise when Kim Zimmer (who plays Reva Shayne on "Guiding Light") and Larry Bryggman (Dr. John Dixon on "ATWT") were named Outstanding Lead Actress and Actor, respectively. While both of them have won awards before, many people argued that this year their roles weren't prominent enough even to be noticed, much less to garner awards.

Other winners included Kathleen Noone (Ellen Chandler on "AMC"), who was named Outstanding Supporting Actress; Gregg Marx (Tom Hughes on "ATWT"), Outstanding Supporting Actor; Michael E. Knight (Tad Martin on "AMC"), Outstanding Younger Leading Man; John Wesley Shipp (Martin Ellis on "Santa Barbara"), Outstanding Guest Performer; and Martha Byrne (Lily Walsh on "ATWT"), Outstanding Ingenue.

One question wasn't answered at this year's awards: Will there be a 15th Annual Daytime Emmy Awards presentation? This year's ceremony marked the end of a three-year pact between the New York-based National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences and the Los Angeles-based Academy of Television Arts & Sciences, agreeing to jointly present the awards with the networks.

Natl Forum On Welfare Reform Set For August

Kentucky will host a national forum on state and federal proposals for welfare reform next month during a three-day meeting of professional planners of public welfare programs in all 50 states.

The conference is expected to draw 200 government and private analysts and statisticians to the Galt House East, Aug. 4-6 for the 27th Annual Workshop of the National Association for Welfare Research and Statistics.

According to NAWRS President L. Marjorie Barker, more than 40 different speakers are on the agenda to discuss subjects including food stamps, Medicaid, Aid to Families with Dependent Children, quality control in public assistance programs and issues before Congress and the various state legislatures.

Barker, an employee of the Kentucky Department for Medicaid Services, said the highlight of the conference will be an Aug. 5 panel discussion on the current national debate on welfare reform.

Panelists scheduled to participate include Howard Rolston, Associate Administrator for Policy for the U.S. Department for Health and Human Services; James Traglia, Deputy Director of the American Public Welfare Association;

Barbara Matula, Director of North Carolina's Division for Medical Assistance; and Robert Fulton, Director of the Oklahoma Department of Human Services.

"This session will offer an excellent perspective on the federal administration's plans for the nation's public welfare programs as well as some reform proposals under study by the individual states," Barker said.

Established in 1956, the NAWRS is a professional association promoting continuing education and training for research and statistics personnel on the state and federal levels.

Participants include government employees as well as staff from state universities, private corporations and other agencies involved in welfare programs.

In addition to the seminars, scheduled activities in Louisville include a visit to the Kentucky Show!, a picnic at Locust Grove Historic Home and an evening of harness racing at Louisville Downs.

For more information on the conference, contact Marjorie Barker at (502) 564-3556.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

CALLOUSES

Callouses are hardened growths of skin that usually occur where there is friction or wear. It is the body's way of protecting skin surfaces that are subject to erosion. Skin-softening medications are the best way to reduce these. Foot soaks with an iodine base are another. However, abrasives such as lava and pumice stones that will erode callouses down to the proper layer of epidermis are available. What should not be done is cut, slice or clip the "dead" skin. A non-professional has no way of knowing how deeply to cut and might remove live skin as well. This may induce bleeding and possible infection. If the problem is sufficiently severe, consult with a podiatrist.

Next to your physician, your pharmacist is the most informed about the various remedies and medications available and their contraindications. Here at COOLEY APOTHECARY we have both the prescription medications and the over-the-counter remedies you will require to keep you in the peak of health. We are conveniently located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT: Athlete's foot will not simply "go away" without treatment.

Breeding Is Granted MSU Award For '88

Morehead State University has announced that Bradford Lester Breeding, of Gibraltar, Mich., has been granted a Morehead State University Award for the 1987-88 school year.

He is the son of MSU alumni Lester and Betty Meade Breeding, former Floyd county natives.

A graduate of Taylor Baptist Park High School, he was a member of the National Honor Society and an Academic All-American.

To be considered for a Morehead State University Award, applicants must be admitted to MSU as a freshman or transfer student, have a 2.75 grade point average on a 4.0 scale and have submitted an MSU scholarship application. The award is renewable for four years if a minimum 2.5 grade point average is maintained.

Applications and information on scholarships and award programs at MSU for 1988-89 are available from the Office of Admissions, MSU, Morehead, Ky. 40351, or call toll free 1-800-262-7474 (in Kentucky) or 1-800-354-2090 (out-of-state).

Saturn, the second largest planet in our solar system is also the least dense. It would float in an ocean if there was one big enough to hold it.

JACKIE EDFORD OWENS MAGISTRATE—DISTRICT 2

TO ANSWER MR. RANDY MANUAL:

You make it sound like you have had it so tough in life. You don't know what having it tough is. The car I was referring to was your car and it had the motor out of it and half the front end off it and was blocking a county street from being traveled.

You also referred to me as being Magistrate and working a job too. Out of 520 Magistrates in the State of Kentucky, nearly all hold regular jobs. I'm use to having two jobs. I have had to nearly all my life. I remember when I was in high school and I drove all the way to Prestonsburg after school and worked for 99¢ an hour for Kentucky Fried Chicken. Likewise, when I went to Hazard Vocational School for training in Diesel Mechanics and Heavy Equipment, I came home every evening after all day on the job training and worked night shift at Elkhorn Industries so I could afford to go to school. I worked all day and all night so some people could sit back and draw checks. Tell me Mr. Randy Manual what you have worked at for the last 10 years. Mr. Randy Manual—I know you and you know me. Tell the people how long you have worked out of the last 10 years.

We know who you fought for in the May election and it sure wasn't me. We also know who you fought for in the November election—and it sure wasn't me. Maytown is one of my hometowns and I will get to ditching the town as we can. It just takes time when you are trying to be fair with everybody. You can CRY and BELLYPACHE and PLAY YOUR GAME if you want to—we're doing the best we can and I think the people of Maytown know that.

Kentucky Parks Menu Keyed to Good Health

Visitors to Kentucky State Resort Parks will find new choices on the menu the next time they eat in one of the 15 resort park dining rooms. The Kentucky Park System is now offering Creative Cuisine menus in its dining rooms, announced Parks Commissioner June Hudson.

The Creative Cuisine program, developed by the American Heart Association, makes recommendations on low-fat, low-cholesterol menu selections.

Director of Food Services Bennie Hager contacted the American Heart Association this winter about implementing the Creative Cuisine program in the Kentucky State Parks.

Some of the park dining rooms had already had requests for low-cholesterol foods and several of the state park chefs had put together light menus for their customers. "The public's change in attitudes and eating habits made us aware we needed to offer a heart-healthy menu in our dining rooms," said Hager.

Food services officials worked with an American Heart Association representative to develop menu items and set up training programs for the park system.

A registered dietician approved the new menu, which includes items such as lemon baked chicken, chilled fruit plate, filet of catfish, decaffeinated coffee, egg substitutes and sherbert.

Sessions were held with park chefs and dining room supervisors from the resort parks to discuss food preparation techniques that follow Creative Cuisine guidelines.

The Creative Cuisine symbol is located on the first page of regular menus and indicates to diners they may request the separate Creative Cuisine menu.

...about your Social Security

APPLYING FOR SOC. SEC. RETIREMENT BENEFITS
By JIM KELLY

People who wish to apply for Social Security retirement benefits but who find it difficult to visit a Social Security office can apply by telephone. Social Security personnel will obtain the necessary information and then arrange to complete the application process by mail.

An application for retirement benefits should be made at least two or three months before the person plans to stop working. This will help assure that benefits will start for the month of retirement. The first check should be received early in the month following the first full month of retirement.

Certain documents are essential for establishing eligibility for retirement benefits. They include your birth certificate and social security numbers for everyone applying, marriage records and military discharge—DD-214. These documents must be original records or copies certified by the agency that issued them.

Applicants for retirement benefits should also submit their Wage and Tax Statement form (W-2) for the preceding year, and self-employed individuals should submit a copy of their Schedule SE. The reason is that the most recent reports of earnings may not yet have been credited on the applicant's Social Security record.

Just remember to call the office first and you can receive personal advice on what you will need when you retire.

People who would like more information about Social Security Retirement Benefits should contact the Big Sandy Area Social Security office located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

Diamonds are forever. According to International Wildlife magazine, microscopic diamonds older than the sun and the planets have been found imbedded in three different kinds of meteorites. The diamonds—over four and a half billion years old—may be the oldest particles ever discovered. They were created in the atmosphere of a distant star and were strewn across space when the star later exploded.

"The Art Of Comic Book" Opens At Kentucky Highlands Museum

Giant images of Batman, Uncle Scrooge, and Mighty Thor greet the viewer entering the exhibition "Art Of The Comic Book" which will open at the Kentucky Highlands Museum, August 1. The show includes artists' original drawings, comic book pages and explanatory comments on panels. It is a survey of the best art done for comic books, which are an important but frequently neglected visual medium.

Comic books are a unique and sophisticated form of graphic storytelling. Very different from newspaper comic strips which have been the subject of numerous exhibits.

Comic books evolved from the comic strips, which made their appearance in the late nineteenth century. One of the earliest practitioners of the comic strip, Winsor McCay, whose work set the standard for comic strip art for all time, is represented with a page from "Little Nemo in Slumberland" done in 1907.

Popularity of the comic strips, especially the adventure series led to the birth of the comic book. They became a major part of almost every youngster's early reading experience.

Distinct styles and trends are emphasized in the exhibition. War has been one of the important themes treated over the years, beginning with caped comic book characters trying to beat the Axis in World War II. Pages from John Severin's "American Eagle" and other Indian stories from the 1950's present the American Indian as a glorious and noble figure—quite different from the concept portrayed by most pop literature of the day.

Pages from the comics of Gray Morrow show his tight drafting style, developed from years of science fiction illustration. Among others included in the show are Berni Wrightson, perhaps the best known illustrator working in comics today, and Will Eisner, the undisputed master in defining the nature of comic books.

This exhibition is on loan from the Erie Art Museum in Erie Pennsylvania. It was assembled with the assistance of a grant from the Pennsylvania Arts Council and the National Endowment for the Arts.

An opening weekend of festivities is being planned at the Kentucky Highlands Museum with free popcorn and movies, animated of course, for children. The museum is open Tues.-Sat., 10-4; Sunday 1-4, and closed on Mondays. The exhibition will run through the month of August.

Everybody's Science

A Modern Johnny Appleseed

By JESSICA MORRISON
In the spirit of Johnny Appleseed, a U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist is giving away apple trees across the country.

John Chapman (Appleseed's real name) traveled throughout the Midwest in the 19th century, giving away or selling seedlings.

Now, 150 years later, Dr. Richard H. Zimmerman has given away nearly 1,000 apple trees to scientists in 10 states and two Canadian provinces. He hasn't done it on foot, like Chapman, though; he's had some help from delivery companies.

And Zimmerman doesn't distribute his young trees to get new orchard tree nurseries going, which was Chapman's ultimate goal. He does it to see how his experimental trees will fare in different soils and climates.

He needs to know because he grew them from tissue culture—a biotechnology technique that nurseries might use to multiply a specific tree twice as fast as through grafting, the method they use now. Zimmerman is with the USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Beltsville, Maryland.

Tissue culture goes like this: shoot tips of apple trees are grown in a bottle of agar, a gelatin-like substance, along with mineral salts, sugar, vitamins and plant growth hormones.

One shoot grows four more, each of which is removed to start the cycle again. All shoots are then rooted, with the eventual result being hundreds of tiny trees with identical heredity.

Because cultured trees spend their first few months in a laboratory, a shoot that is originally disease-free is sure to yield disease-free trees, at least until they are planted outside, Zimmerman said.

"We need a few more years to see if these trees will be true to their variety, winter hardy, disease-resistant and, of course, fruitful," he said.

Scientists who have received the trees report on their progress.

Zimmerman also watches his own Beltsville orchard of 1,500 apple trees with about twenty varieties, including Stayman, Red and Golden Delicious, Rome, Jonathan and McIntosh.

When results are in, he will be able to recommend to industry how best to use tissue culture to propagate apple trees.

"This technique is a distinct possibility for orchards of the 21st century," Zimmerman said. (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture).

113 Mining Permits Issued During June

Permitting activities for June authorized the disturbance of 21,410.05 new acres of land for which $107,175 in fees were collected.

Kidney Foundation Plans Door-To-Door Campaign

The National Kidney Foundation of Kentucky will be conducting a door-to-door campaign during August and September in Floyd county. Volunteers will call at every home in the area.

All proceeds will directly benefit kidney disease patients in Eastern Kentucky. Through research, professional education, public education, patient services, and organ donation, the NKF strives to reach its ultimate goal—the complete eradication of kidney and urinary tract disorders. The organization asks that residents give generously and help win the fight against kidney disease.

Food Stamp Program Escapes Sanctions

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has notified Kentucky officials that the state's food stamp program is one of only seven nationwide to escape federal penalties being imposed on states for excessively high error rates amassed during the 1986-87 fiscal year.

The federal food stamp system of certifying applicants and issuing coupons is administered in Kentucky by the state Department for Social Insurance.

"Kentucky is one of only seven states which didn't exceed the error rate limit set by the Agriculture Department's Food and Nutrition Service," said Social Insurance Commissioner Mike Robinson. "Considering that Kentucky's caseload is more than the other six states combined, that's pretty impressive."

By avoiding the sanctions, the state won't have to pay the penalties—in the form of reduced administrative support funds—facing the 43 other states, said Gail Rayburn, director of the department's Division of Field Services. Those states will operate their programs this fiscal year with potential reductions of anywhere from $138,000 up to more than $28 million because of high error rates.

"This is the second year in a row that Kentucky's error rate has shown a substantial drop," said Rayburn. "Much of the credit rightly goes to the workers and supervisors in the local offices, who catch mistakes before they are processed."

Rayburn added that during the same time the error rate has dropped, the number of cases reviewed by supervisors in local offices has more than tripled.

"By reviewing the cases before processing, you catch errors before they leave the local office to be duplicated and compounded," she said. "This is probably the most important factor in reducing errors in the food stamp system."

The department has been so successful in its reduction effort, some of the other states in the southern region have asked a special team from Kentucky to visit and offer suggestions for improving existing food stamp programs.

"Our achievement in error reduction shows the real dedication and total commitment everyone involved has put into making the food stamp program in Kentucky successful," said Robinson.

South Central Bell Earns Nat'l Award

South Central Bell is one of 30 businesses throughout the nation and the only Kentucky company to win a top award in the President's Citation Program for Private Sector Initiatives.

President Reagan presented the award to South Central Bell vice president Stan Dickson in a ceremony at the White House, July 23.

The Citation Program was established in 1984 to recognize exemplary community involvement projects sponsored by businesses.

South Central Bell was recognized for its efforts to improve education in Kentucky. In Eastern Kentucky South Central Bell contributes to Lees Junior College, Pikeville College and also supports the Eastern Kentucky Academic Conference. In addition, one employee serves on a local school board.

Students Get Head Start on College

DAMON NEWSOME, JR. AND BRIAN WALLACE participants in the Professional Education Preparation Program (PEPP) work on a laboratory project at Kentucky State University.

Warm sunshine, new adventures, chemistry problems, writing essays, homesickness and budgeting are a big part of this summer for Damon Newsome, Jr. and Brian Wallace, who are among 22 recent high school graduates planning to become physicians and dentists and participating in the Professional Education Preparation Program (PEPP) at Kentucky State University.

Newsome is the son of Damon and Jeanine Newsome, Prestonsburg. He graduated from Prestonsburg High School and was a Governor's Scholar. Newsome plans to attend Alice Lloyd College and would like to become a physician.

Wallace is the son of Frank and Virginia Wallace, Prestonsburg. He graduated from Prestonsburg High School where he was president of his junior and senior classes and president of the National Honor Society. He plans to attend Georgetown College and would like to become a physician.

The PEPP program is funded by the state Council on Higher Education and is intended to give students an opportunity to experience college-level classroom work, visit health care facilities and talk with medical professionals.

Participants must live in designated Kentucky counties such as Floyd county or parts of Lexington or Louisville that have a low physician or dentist population. The theory of the program is that these students will probably return to their home counties to practice after they finish their educations.

Newsome joined the program to gain an insight into the medical profession.

"What I like best about the program is the academics and the dorm life," said Newsome. "It (PEPP) will help teach me to be independent and to learn to study in a college atmosphere."

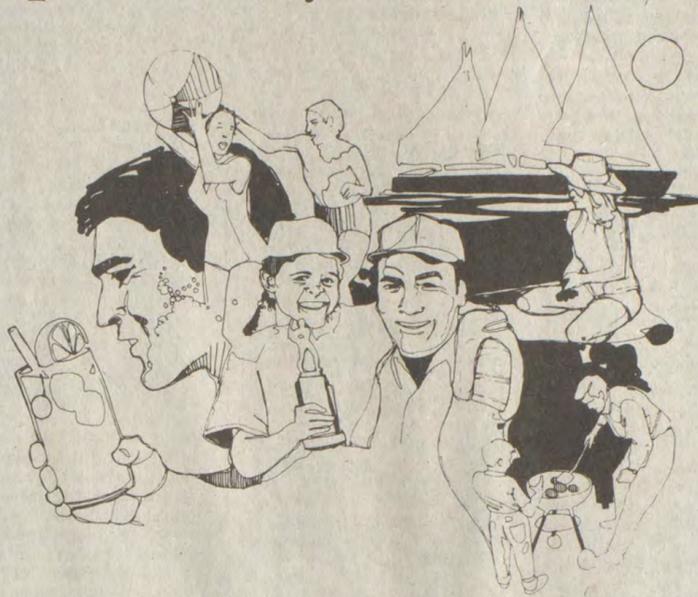

"What I like best about being here (KSU) is the labs," said Wallace.

The PEPP program also has students at the University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville. PEPP students have the advantage of the follow-up programs available at UK and UL during their undergraduate years. These programs include counseling, guidance, and help in preparing for medical or dental school entrance exams.

High school seniors-to-be who are interested in the program should check with their guidance counselors for information forms in January or February.
