Court Overturns Conviction Of Former Magistrate Roberts

By B.A. Heinze

Conviction of former Magistrate Kenneth Roberts was unanimously overturned, Friday, by the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

He had been convicted in Pike Circuit Court in April 1986 of one count of theft by deception and in May was sentenced to a 2½-year prison term. Since then, he has been free pending outcome of appeal of the case.

His conviction stemmed from the use in October 1982 of a county credit card to pay his share of a hunting trip to Wyoming. The Court of Appeals ruled that even though Roberts may have used the credit card, there was no deception.

Roberts, 62, of Garrett, who served four terms as magistrate and before that was a four-term constable, was but one of 16 persons indicted by a grand jury, here, in December 1984 after an investigation by state police into the county's finances during the term of County Judge-Executive Jerry B. Lafferty, Jr., who died in office in May 1983.

Although three magistrates, Roberts, Eddie Caudill, and Lowell Samons, were among those indicted, thus far, only Caudill's conviction stands, at this time. The state Supreme Court has denied his appeal, but his attorney has asked for a delay in order to appeal Caudill's case in U.S. District Court in Pikeville. The petition has been scheduled to be heard Tuesday, September 8. Ironically, this is the same date that Caudill has been ordered by Special Judge Will T. Scott to begin serving his sentence in the county jail.

Ned Fillersdorf, attorney for Caudill, said that unless the delay is granted, it is possible that Caudill might serve time in jail for a charge he could be found innocent of at a new trial.

Despite the fact that the charge against Samons was dismissed, both he and Roberts laid their failure to win reelection to the indictments brought against them. Caudill, however, was re-elected after being convicted of possessing a forged check.

The trials of former deputy judge-executive Thomas Lafferty, Sr., and his son, former county clerk Thomas Lafferty, Jr., two of the 16 originally indicted by a grand jury, here, and who were re-indicted last March 19 by a Pike county grand jury, are scheduled next month in Pike Circuit Court.

Fire Tax Pros, Cons Aired At Fiscal Court Meeting

By Tim Sizemore

Protesters lined the walls at the courthouse annex last Friday, as residents of Middle Creek attended the monthly fiscal court meeting to voice their opposition to a proposed fire tax for their area.

Glen Vaughn, president of the Middle Creek Volunteer Fire Department, presented Judge Executive John M. Stumbo with a petition favoring the tax and requesting immediate action to be taken because the department is without operating funds. The judge told Vaughn that the sheriff collected the taxes and turned them over to the fire departments. He added that $2,000 had already been allotted to fire departments in October.

Eugene Prater, representing opposition to the tax, said that people needed to get together and work out an alternative. Prater admitted that people had been negligent in the past about the fire department's welfare and that it needed more support from the community. He presented a petition signed by 290 Middle Creek residents in opposition to the tax and proposed that those on both sides get together and come up with a viable alternative to taxation. David Barber, county attorney, agreed, saying he would be glad to answer questions concerning legal aspects of a tax or any decision that the community might make. Judge Stumbo stated that he wanted "what the community wants."

Many people opposed to the tax feared it would lead to reassessment of property values, but Barber said there had never been a reassessment due to a fire tax and that property had to be reassessed over a large region.

Judge Stumbo told the two Middle Creek groups to get together and come back with proposals approved by a majority of the community.

Bids for the installation of fire hydrants around the county were accepted and low bidders approved by the court were C and H Contractors, of Langley, and Mountain Enterprises, of Lexington. C and H bid includes work on the Mud Creek and Beaver Elkhorn water systems at $450 per hydrant, and Mountain Enterprises received the remainder of the county hydrant work at $600 per installation. David Barber requested the public be informed as to the location of the hydrants, and Judge Stumbo said that despite rumors, there would be no charge for hydrant installation.

Fiscal court also heard road problems around the county. Joe Roberts, of Stumbo Hollow at Drift, asked the court to investigate the dust problem caused by trucks hauling coal from two mines to a preparation plant located there. Roberts said that the dust was unbearable and no efforts were made by the companies to alleviate the problem. Barber told the court that he had twice warned the companies and had received no satisfaction. Magistrate Jackie Edford Owens, of District 2, then proposed a three-ton weight limit to be placed on the road if the coal companies failed to keep them properly watered, saying fiscal court members should put pressure on the companies to do what is right. Judge Stumbo concurred with Owens saying, "There is no excuse for the companies' failure to water the road." Another bone of contention was the Bear Hollow road located near the Johnson county line. Bill Arms cited culverts and ditches full of debris and declared unless something was done before winter, travel on the road would be impossible. Arms also complained of cars parked on the road right-of-way, partially blocking the road. The Stratton Branch road was added to the coun-

Council Debates Cruiser Question, Health Insurance in Long Meeting

By Kurt Pickering

Prestonsburg police officers who live within four miles of the city limits will be allowed to take their cruisers home for a two-month trial period.

That was the final outcome of a lengthy and often-spirited debate at Monday night's session of the Prestonsburg City Council.

The city recently purchased nine surplus cruisers from the City of Louisville, obtaining them in a package deal with the idea that each police officer would be assigned a vehicle. The home fleet plan for each officer to drive a vehicle home after duty hours was raised in the August 10 council session.

Officers say the vehicles will get better care and overall department morale will be higher if the officers are given custody of the vehicles. Officers told the council that some work had already been done, including a paint job on one of the cars.

Mayor Ann Latta and City Manager Fred James, however, expressed concerns over the city's liability if vehicles are driven home by officers who live outside the city. James indicated that six of Prestonsburg's 11 full-time officers live outside the city limits, calculating their driving to and from home would total 96 miles per day. With 183 work days each, yearly, this would add up to 17,520 out-of-town, off-duty miles annually. James estimated the gasoline usage at 1,460 gallons and the cost at $1241. "It's not the issue of the $1200 for gas," James added. "I'm sure they'd pay their share of the gas. But our exposure to liability increases if the vehicles are taken out of town daily."

At another point, however, James pointed out, "We're quoted every other week by the news media as suffering through a budget crisis. We're going to be driving 17,520 miles outside our city that is—unnecessary for police business."

Mayor Latta, along with council members William O. Goebel, III, and Margie Osborne, repeatedly zeroed in on the liability issue.

Also at issue was whether an off-duty Prestonsburg police officer could be put in a no-win situation by being in a cruiser. Contradictory court cases make it unclear whether Prestonsburg city police officers can make an arrest or take charge should they happen across an accident outside the city, and a case was cited in which a Paintsville police officer was reportedly sued for making an arrest outside the city limits. Opponents of the home fleet idea said, too, that an officer could be sued for not taking action if it was obvious he or she was an officer as would be the case when driving home in a cruiser.

Mayor Latta indicated she had talked with several other city officials and found no fourth-class city with a home fleet policy that included officers living outside the city except in Mt. Sterling, and there a three-mile limit had been set. "Mt. Sterling tried this (county wide) and they said it just didn't work," Latta said. "They allow up to three miles outside the city because they have so many nearby subdivisions that are not actually in the city." She went on to give several other cities which limit home fleet to those who live within their city limits.

Another question raised was whether implementing the home fleet policy constituted extra pay for police officers, compared with other city workers who have no vehicles to drive to and from work. City Attorney Larry D. Brown said he had contacted the state Attorney General's office for an opinion on that question and was told Prestonsburg "would be opening up a possible Pandora's box."

Ojo, the Tree Frog, Takes Over as Bird House Tenant

By Jeff Weddle

"He's a loner. I never see other tree frogs up there," said Roger DeRossett, Monday, of his family's "pet": Ojo, the tree frog.

The amphibian took up residence about a month ago in a birdhouse the DeRossetts have hanging from a tree in their front yard. Ojo, named by Mrs. DeRossett's three-year-old nephew, Ricky Joseph, sits for hours every day with his head and forelegs perched outside the birdhouse entrance waiting for ants.

"Yeah, that's all we ever see him eat," said DeRossett. "He just sits up there waiting for some stupid ants to crawl by, and then he eats them. Maybe he's a frog that lives in a tree house and thinks he's an aardvark."

But Ojo's life is not just day after boring day, waiting for ants. "He goes out at night and makes frog noises, then comes back the next day and sits," said Mrs. DeRossett. She was the first to notice Ojo, one day when the family was leaving on a trip. Getting in the car, she looked at the birdhouse and was startled by what she thought to be a large lizard.

The creature turned out to be a frog, and, in truth, DeRossetts aren't sure just how big Ojo is. They never see more than the front half of his body. "He won't come all the way out and let anyone look at him. He only comes out at night, and then you can't see him. You can just hear him."

BIRD, FROG—OR AARDVARK? Ojo the frog has taken up residence this summer in a birdhouse at the home of Roger and Pam DeRossett, here. DeRossett says the frog sits all day, every day in the birdhouse door, waiting to make a meal of unwary ants.

Death of Clark Is Ruled Suicide

The death of an elderly Honaker man last Wednesday morning at the home of a brother apparently resulted from a self-inflicted gunshot wound according to Coroner Roger Nelson.

Irvin L. Clark, 82, of Honaker, ended his life around 11 last Wednesday morning.

Deputy Sheriff John K. Blackburn, who was the first officer on the scene, said that Clark died of a severe chest wound.

A World War II veteran, Clark has been a resident of Riverview Nursing Home, here, until recently when he went to live with a brother on Honaker where the incident took place. He was in failing health and is said to have been suffering depression for some time.

Eula Hall, of the Mud Creek Clinic, said that Clark had been a patient at the clinic for years and that he was liked and respected by its staff. She said that Clark had contributed to the establishment of the medical facility.

He was a member of the Free Will Baptist Church and the Betsy Layne Chapter of Disabled American Veterans.

Clark, a retired farmer, was born Oc-

Drainage Problem Raises Ire of Garrett Residents

By Tim Sizemore

West Garrett residents are raising a stink because of a damaged drainage system.

The controversy concerns a drainage pipe that was damaged last winter and has since been discharging a foul smelling flow they say is sewage. Residents also complain that school children have to walk through the mess.

According to District 4 Magistrate Jackie Edford Owens, the damage was not done by the county grader but by trucks hauling red dog to put on the road. Owens said that due to the narrowness of the right-of-way the trucks were forced into the drainage ditch containing the pipe.

Kathy Dye, of West Garrett, said she contacted Owens on several occasions concerning the drainline but nothing had been done. Owens responded by saying he realized that there was a problem in West Garrett and that work was needed to alleviate the problem. Concerning the sewage and odor, Owens said that the pipe was only a drainage ditch and if sewage was in the pipe then someone had hooked to it illegally. He also said that he had asked the fiscal court to place a three-ton weight limit on the road so in the future the trouble would not recur. Although he said he would like to see the road blacktopped, a lack of manpower makes this difficult. "We have four men to take care of 10,000 people, with 104 jobs to be done on the work list," Owens said.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Don Kidd, of Drift, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Brenda Faye, to Mr. Joseph Neil Rice, of Banner.

The ceremony will be solemnized at 5 p.m., September 26, at the home of Don and Georgia Kidd at Drift.

The custom of open ceremony will be observed.

Drug, Alcohol Abuse Problems of Seniors

Drug abuse. Alcoholism. Human problems most frequently associated with teenage and young adult years.

However, just as age barriers are being removed from the good things in life, there is another group of Kentuckians becoming more susceptible to the lure of drugs and alcohol—the elderly.

"Many people in their later years need daily medication to combat aches, pains and diseases which attack them," said Mike Townsend, director of the Division of Substance Abuse in the Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services. "Many also experience loneliness, financial problems, loss of work responsibility and physical and mental health problems."

"The growing combination of age, self-administered medication, depression and diminished mental capacity is creating an alarming number of cases of older abusers and addicts."

Although the elderly represent approximately one-eighth of the U.S. population, they consume one-fourth of all prescription drugs, according to Gloria Doughty, a social worker and staff pharmacist at the University of Kentucky's Chandler Medical Center.

Doughty, who has a specific interest in counseling geriatric patients, is a frequent instructor at workshops on substance abuse among the elderly.

"On any given day, 95 percent of the people over 65 years of age are at home and able to take care of themselves," she said. "But members of this age group may face a significant loss of all their senses, and sometimes are not able to feel the side effects of drugs—including alcohol."

Doughty said that when people lose their senses of smell and taste, they also lose their appetite. That void is often filled with drugs and/or alcohol.

"Elderly people develop two kinds of dependency," Doughty explained. "One I call 'necessary for life' and is based on medical needs and necessity for life functions. The other is 'necessary dependency,' generated over a period of time through increased tolerance or frequent use."

"You'd be surprised at the number of times I hear 'How could it be habit forming? I've been taking it for 30 years.'"

Doughty said that many older people use drugs based on self-diagnosis, impulse or suggestion, taking the advice of a neighbor instead of seeking help from a physician. Others often mix alcohol and over-the-counter drugs, unaware of side effects that can result.

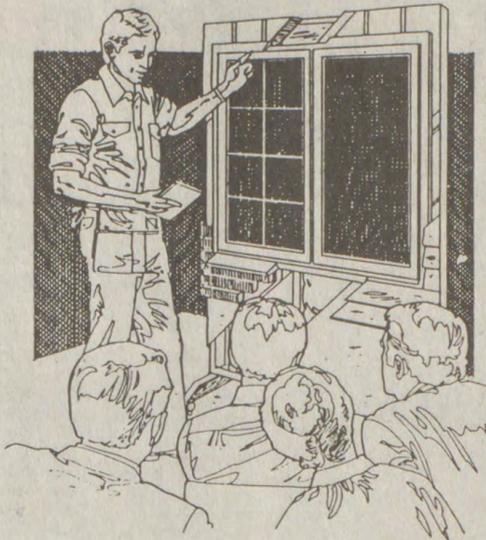

"Many people don't realize how drowsy even simple antihistamines and alcohol can make an elderly person," she said. "And it can become dangerous if someone tries to drive or operate machinery in this condition."

Townsend said that drug abuse among the elderly is just now being recognized as a serious problem.

"A drug or alcohol problem of an older person is not as obvious as it is in younger people," he said. "That's why it takes longer to recognize. I really think that we've only begun to scratch the surface of how widespread substance abuse among the elderly is."

Goebel argued strenuously for tabling the issue until liability and jurisdiction questions could be answered, but the issue was finally put to a vote on motion by Councilman Thomas J. Tackett. He moved to allow all officers to drive vehicles to and from work with officers living outside the city limits to reimburse the city for gasoline used between the city limits and their home for a two-month trial period in September and October. With all eight members present, the vote came down to a 4-4 deadlock. Informed of the tie, Mayor Latta said, "If the Mayor doesn't vote, the motion dies."

She suggested that Tackett's motion failed, because it was too broad. When no one spoke immediately, several police officers who had been observing walked out, and Councilman Tackett left as well.

Council member Dr. Gary Brown then said his problem was that he didn't think it was right for the officers to have to reimburse for gas. During the ensuing discussion, City Manager James said he was sure the increase in morale of the force and care of the vehicles was worth the gas cost, and Police Chief Elmo Allen illustrated the cost saving in maintenance.

In the end, Brown moved that officers living in Prestonsburg or within a four-mile radius of city limits be allowed to take their cruisers home, also on a two-month trial basis. This motion passed 4-0, with Frank Adams, Adrian Blackburn, Brown and Goebel voting for, William Callihan, Osborne and Harry Ray Porter abstaining, and Tackett absent. Blackburn, Brown, Goebel and Osborne had voted against the original motion.

Council also specified that the three officers who live beyond the four-mile limit may be given the same privilege if the liability questions can be answered. The matter is expected to come up again at the next council meeting, Sept. 14.

Another question raised was what to do with the extra cruisers. Prestonsburg only needed six vehicles to complete the one car for every full-time officer plan, but the package deal made it "just as cheap," according to Latta, to buy all nine. One vehicle has since been turned over to the City Disaster and Emergency Services office. This led to a spirited debate about what to do with the other surplus vehicles. Allen suggested that the 15 auxiliary members who donate their time should be allowed to share the surplus vehicles on the job, while Mayor Latta pointed out that the cruisers should be kept available at City Hall as back-ups if all or most of the full-time officers would be taking cruisers home while off-duty.

Health insurance for city employees was the next issue viewed by the council. Mayor Latta reported on "a very serious situation at Mountain Trails," the London-based firm currently carrying Prestonsburg city workers' health insurance.

In checking various reports and rumors about the firm, Latta said she had learned that the state insurance department has obtained a court order placing Mountain Trails into "rehabilitation" in an effort "to save the company."

Meanwhile, Latta said "a hold-harmless" clause in the policy means city employees are protected—that no health care provider could—"go back on a client" if a claim occurs and is unpaid due to Mountain Trails' financial condition. She also said Provident Life has agreed to take over all current policies at current rates if necessary.

The situation did spur council to hear from Charles Fain, who handles Blue Cross and Blue Shield out of Pikeville. Fain said his actuarial people would have to compute a rate before he could quote one.

On a suggestion from Fain, Mayor Latta appointed council members Brown, Osborne, Tackett and Goebel as a committee to establish the city's requirements for a plan and schedule meetings with interested carriers.

Council had intended to award a bid on liability insurance but postponed the issue until November.

First reading was given to an ordinance setting minimum fee for use of the municipal parking lot by non-profit organizations. To defray cost of utilities and cleanup, the city will charge $15 per day for use, beginning September 16, if the ordinance is passed.

Mayor Latta announced the approval at the regional level of a $25,000 grant by the Big Sandy Area Development District for Prestonsburg to purchase a new fire engine. She said Floyd county snared a total of $84,000 in such grants, "and Prestonsburg got $25,000 of that, so I guess we did pretty well." The grant is not certain until approved by the state Department of Local Government, but Latta said that is generally forthcoming after an ADD regional board approves.

Ironically, Latta also had to report that Prestonsburg is behind in money it owes to Big Sandy ADD. "The budget each year calls for a cash contribution to the Big Sandy ADD operating budget," Latta said, adding the annual amount is $1500. "It has been budgeted, but I got a bill today, and it has not been paid for the last four years." Council quickly voted to authorize payment of the $6000 out of the general fund as available.

In other action, Council voted to give the old skating rink to the local Army National Guard for demolition purposes after James reported the structure was so solidly built that his workers cannot cost-effectively finish tearing it down. The structure is being removed to make way for a new outdoor sports area at Archer Park.

Council also approved a request from the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad to hold its 29th annual fund-raising Labor Day weekend roadblock. It also heard a request from Prestonsburg VFW Post 5839 Commander Eddie Akers to allow the club to hold bingo games Sunday afternoons from 2 to 5 as a club fundraiser for repairs and civic activities. Latta and City Attorney Brown said they did not think Council approval was necessary and suggested the VFW check to make sure there were no state statutes involved.

Latta had intended to deliver a report on the Local Issues Conference, which she attended. By that time, though, Latta limited her report to: "It's late. You don't want to hear about that. I went and it was interesting,"—providing a light finish to the session.

ty's road system, and work on the throughfare will be initiated before winter as well as on the Johns Branch Road. A resolution was passed to take the Morgan Fork road on Little Mud and the Mountain View Estates road on Abbott Creek into the county system.

Included on the court's agenda was an ordinance concerning electrical inspections in the county. The county attorney read the ordinance to court members and said that it was essentially to oversee out-of-county electricians and insure quality of their work. He said that the fiscal court could appoint an inspector to keep a closer watch on electrical work, adding that he believed that it would reduce fire hazards to control who was doing the inspecting.

The county attorney requested that an ordinance be drawn up to make official the home incarceration program and that until the ordinance becomes effective a motion be passed to begin collecting fees. Barber said that he would like for beeper bands to be purchased to attach to the wrist of prisoners participating in the program to keep tabs on them.

The meeting closed with Magistrate Eddie Caudill's recommendation that the Allen park golf course will be named The John M. Stumbo Golf Course.

Ojo wasn't in residence at the bird house last year, but a bird was. That's an eventuality DeRossett hopes isn't repeated while the frog lives there. "I'm afraid a bird is gonna come and want to live in the treehouse—and eat the frog, too," he said.

There was a mild panic recently, when Ojo vanished for a few hours. "We were having a yard sale week before last, and we thought he'd disappeared," said Mrs. DeRossett. Apparently Ojo just didn't like the commotion of bargain hunters milling about, because after the sale ended and shoppers left, the hopper reappeared.

Both DeRossetts are convinced Ojo is the only frog currently occupying the birdhouse. "Oh, it's the same frog," said DeRossett. "I don't think there're innumerable frogs who want to live in a house."

Mrs. DeRossett added that if Ricky has his way, Ojo might quit his happy home sooner than the frog might prefer. "He says he's going to get his squirt gun and shoot him out of the tree," she said.

Bits and Pieces

GOOD ADVICE

The only piece of good advice I ever gave my daughters is, "Don't ever pick up a paint brush."

Surely I gave my son a pointer, some time, but for the life of me, I can't think what it could have been. Of course, when he was playing football, I told him to always just hand the ball over to those big bruisers. I mean, what's the use making them tackle you? Oh, well, he never listened to me, anyway.

But back to the paint business. In my childhood and up, I had seen those signs that said "Sherwin Williams paint covers the world," but little did I dream that this meant me, too. Then, I found myself married. And the next thing I found was a paint brush in my hand, a gallon of paint at my side, and rooms and rooms to practice my new-found talent on.

In my innocence, naivety, and implicit trust, ignorance, yea, even stupidity, when I was told I could paint the woodwork, I thought this was because it was for amateurs; that it was easy.

So much for girlish innocence. So much for gullible, young brides. It was years before I realized I had been conned.

So much for stupidity.

WE DID IT

You want to know who broke the heat wave/drought? Willie Conley and y'r's truly, that's who. Maybe not entirely without help, but give a little credit where it's due.

As we were leaving work last Saturday, made a predicckshun, "I'm going home and water everything, and it always rains when I do that."

Willie, on the qui vive as usual and not about to let me take all the credit, was quick to say, "Hey, you don't have to do that 'cause I'm going camping tonight."

Well, we did it.

Police Chase Ends Near Magoffin Line

A chase from Prestonsburg to the Magoffin county side of David Mountain ended in a crash for a West Prestonsburg man, Tuesday.

Tom Skeens, Jr., 18, of West Prestonsburg, was charged with attempting to elude a police officer, wanton endangerment, and possession of marijuana.

The chase began at the Bert Combs bridge when Prestonsburg police Gerald Clark attempted to pull Skeens over. Skeens tried to elude the police officer by going up Rt. 404 toward David. Deputy Sheriff George Hale, who joined in the chase, said Skeens was pursued at speeds reaching 85 mph. The two squad cars followed Skeens over the David Mountain to the intersection of Route 7 in Magoffin county, where he wrecked and was arrested.

Skeens, who was not injured in the mishap, was taken to the Floyd county jail and booked. He was later released on bond.

Lions Club Is Organized Here

CHARTER OF THE NEWLY ORGANIZED PRESTONSBURG LIONS CLUB was presented to Earl Compton, president of the club, here, by State Governor John Meyer at the Holiday Inn, last Thursday night. The Lions Club is dedicated to service to the needy with programs of national scope.

By Tim Sizemore

An organization dedicated to service in the community made its debut last Thursday at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn.

The International Association of Lions Clubs, an organization formed to help those in need, will now serve the Prestonsburg area.

Earl Compton, director of the Floyd county Health Department and newly installed president of the Prestonsburg chapter, feels the Lions will be a positive asset to the community. The Lions will not only help indigent persons receive eye glasses but they will also sponsor community activities.

The Lions were founded in 1917 during a time when businessmen's clubs were being formed over the United States. The major distinction of the Lions club was that it was founded to serve the needy and supply eye glasses to children of low income families. The club now has grown in scope to include work with speech and hearing, diabetes awareness, drug awareness, educational scholarships and environmental services.

The new Prestonsburg chapter of the Lions started their fund drive by raffling off a color TV at Wal Mart. The winner of the television set was Jackie Ray, of Virgie.

The Prestonsburg officers installed at last Thursday's meeting were Earl Compton, president; Don Hicks, first vice-president; Ken Addington, second vice-president; Robert Ford, third vice-president; Jody Sword, talltwister. The board of directors members are Dr. Lee Majakey, Tom McIntire, Rick Roberts and Mary Halfhill.

Waterbeds ARE RELAXING!
"I've never slept better! My waterbed is so soothing and relaxing that I don't have any difficulty in going right to sleep without tossing around or waking up in the middle of the night like I used to! I just love it!"
Linda Murphy, Charleston, W. Va.

Waterbeds ARE FUNTASTIC!
"The kids loved our waterbed so much, I was concerned that the wear & tear would be too much for it. That was 5 years ago and now I know it's as durable as it is comfortable, so we're getting the kids one of their own."
Judy Houseal, Louisa, Ky.

Waterbeds ARE THERAPEUTIC
"Many patients who suffered from bad backs, arthritis and circulation problems have told me how much better they feel since they've been sleeping on a waterbed. Total support, lack of pressure points and soothing, healing warmth are genuine therapeutic benefits of a waterbed."

Elliott Supply Moves Operation to Pike Co.

Friday will mark the relocation of Elliott Supply Company from Prestonsburg to Pikeville. The company, first opened here in October 1968, will continue to serve this area with no charge in service personnel, it is said.

The move, according to Edward R. Nairn, secretary/treasurer of The Elliott Company, is part of the ongoing consolidation by the company, designed to increase efficiency of service to its customers.

The parent Elliott Company consists of four separate businesses—Elliott Glass, Elliott Supply, Cline Street Chevron, and Elliott Contracting. The local Elliott Supply, in addition to this county, primarily served Johnson, Knott, Martin, and Magoffin counties.

Mr. Nairn pointed out that a toll-free number as well as a local telephone number is available to customers in this area.

HRMC Pharmacy Head

Paul Hutchison, director of Diagnostic and Therapeutic Services at Highlands Regional Medical Center has announced that Jim Sieg is the new Director of Pharmacy.

Sieg, a native of Janesville, Wisconsin, attended the University of Wisconsin where he received a B.S. degree in Pharmacy, a Masters of Science in Pharmacy, and a PhD in Pharmaceutical Chemistry. Before coming to Highlands, Sieg taught at the University of Kentucky's Pharmacy School for nine years.

Asked about his new position, Sieg said, "I think it will be very challenging. There is a lot of potential for growth in both in-patient and out-patient services at Highlands. I want to emphasize the pharmacy as a sort of 'drug information center' for the rest of the hospital. Also I would like to expand pharmaceutical services wherever possible."

As a part of Highlands' overall commitment to offer the finest in medical services, the pharmacy is an example of that effort. It began as an in-house department serving in-patient needs only, and has since expanded into a full service out-patient pharmacy.

Flue-Cured Tobacco Prices Reported Higher

Most flue-cured tobacco markets opened recently and are reporting sale averages up to $17 more a hundred-weight than in 1986, with leaf going under loan to cooperatives only a fraction of the preceding year.

Opening week sales of flue-cured tobacco in the "sandhills" area of the Middle Belt (type 11); found a much improved demand over the opening of the 1986 season. Grade averages for primings were up sharply from a year ago, with gains of from $17 to $24 hundred-weight.

The Stabilization Corporation received only 1.4 percent of sales, compared to 7.7 percent last year.

Overall demand also was stronger for the Eastern North Carolina flue-cured belt (type 12). The only exception was leaf grades which consisted mostly of "carry-over" tobacco.

Stabilization only received .6 percent of leaf that failed to receive a bid of one cent a pound over the support price, compared to 6.4 percent last year.

The weekly average for the South Carolina-Border North Carolina Belt was $140.64 a hundredweight, compared to $125.13 a hundredweight during opening week last year. Grade prices averaged from $5 to $35 a hundredweight above support prices, with most gains ranging mainly from $5 to $11 a hundredweight on most grades over 1986. Loan receipts totaled .4 percent opening week, compared to 5.3 percent last year.

The second week of sales on the Georgia-Florida flue-cured market still showed a strong demand for leaf. The percentage of leaf placed under loan, however, was slightly higher, but still much lower than during the same time last year. Sales averaged $140.23 a hundredweight, compared to $129.09 last year.

The Stabilization Corporation received .3 percent of sales the second week, compared to .2 percent the previous week, and 3.1 percent at the same time last year.

Price averages are expected to increase later in the sales season as marketings include higher on the stalk. The average price support for the 1987 flue-cured crop is $143.50 a hundred-weight, compared to $143.80 last year.

Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Cooley were married July 17, 1937. They are the parents of nine children: Clettis Howard, Harold Cooley, Hattie Owens, and Carl Cooley, all of Hueysville; Donald Cooley, of Oxford, O.; Mary Agnes Woods, and Rosetta Lou Campbell, both of Hippo; Janet Webb, of Langley, and Glema Hicks, of David. They also have 14 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Cooley is the daughter of the late John Wess and Hattie Allen Prater. Mr. Cooley is the son of the late Oak and Rosetta Osborne Cooley.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooley express their appreciation to all who made this event such a special occasion.

Ice Cream Removed By Florida Company

As a precautionary measure, certain Drumstick brand ice cream sundae cones distributed in 12 Southeastern states are being voluntarily withdrawn by their Jacksonville, Florida manufacturer. The product may contain bacteria that could be harmful to certain individuals.

One production run of Drumstick brand sundae cones was previously withdrawn from the Florida area market due to a product sample that tested positive for Listeria monocytogenes by the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Service. The local manufacturer is now withdrawing all Drumstick brand sundae cones manufactured at its plant in the interest of consumer safety.

The Drumstick brand cones being withdrawn in packages identified by nine or 10 digit code numbers ending in 12431 or 1244. This number is embossed on one of the carton and flaps. Individually purchased Drumstick brand cones are also included in the voluntary withdrawal. The four or five digit code numbers are embossed on the individual wrappers of these products.

The precautionary withdrawal involves the states of Florida, Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

All of the affected product was manufactured by Dairymen, Inc., in Jacksonville, Fla., which is the only affected plant location of eight dairies throughout the U.S. which are licensed to manufacture Drumstick brand sundae cones by Big Drum/ALCO of Columbus, Ohio. Drumstick product manufactured at other locations is not involved with this recall.

Listeria monocytogenes is a bacteria which may cause mild to moderate flu-like symptoms such as fever, headache and/or gastrointestinal upset in certain individuals. The Listeria organisms present little risk to healthy persons. At greater risk are pregnant women and their fetuses, infants, the elderly and other persons with weakened immune systems.

Consumers who have recently purchased Drumsticks are encouraged to check the manufacturing code. If the last digits are 1244 or 12431, the product should not be consumed. The product can be returned to its place of purchase for a full refund.

Big Drum/ALCO and its manufacturer are working with the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to assure that the product is removed from grocery stores immediately.

After completion of the withdrawal, stores will be restocked with unaffected product from other manufacturing locations.

Consumer inquiries may be directed to the Louisville headquartered manufacturer, Dairymen Inc., by telephoning (502) 423-6714.

Opinion...

Time To Scrap The Welfare System?

By GREGORY S. WEIGAND
It is becoming evident that our government's welfare umbrellas have collapsed upon the very people they were intended to protect. That the "War on Poverty" was lost long ago is not a new thought. What is coming into focus, however, is the extent to which failed welfare policies are responsible for the creation of a permanent underclass. The welfare system, far from simply lending a hand to families and individuals who are temporarily "down on their luck," has created a permanent underclass which is characterized by illegitimacy, teenage pregnancy, unemployment and complete dependency upon government assistance. Systematic dependency has thoroughly corrupted the character of this underclass.

Welfare encourages dependency by providing more money for a single mother than to one who is married, and paying a parent more than a person who has no children. This phenomenon has taken its highest toll on the black community, where illegitimacy rates have soared from 25 percent in 1965 to nearly 60 percent today. Although America's underclass is disproportionately black, the culture of poverty affects all races.

Today's welfare state has destroyed the work ethic essentially by paying individuals to stay poor, which discourages self-motivation. Welfare benefits are so generous that a recipient can earn more money on welfare than he or she can by working. Even major workfare programs, such as California's GAIN (Greater Avenues for Independence), overlook this crucial flaw. GAIN stipulates that a recipient does not have to take a job if the job offered is "at a wage level that results in a net loss of income." With benefits as generous as they are, after paying child care, health care and transportation costs, a single mother would have to earn $5.76 per hour—over two dollars above the minimum wage—to exceed the "net" level.

The numerous welfare programs—AFDC, food stamps, subsidized rent, medical care, supplemental income, general relief, and so forth—distance welfare recipients from self-sufficiency while failing to assist those who do work.

Moreover, the array of welfare programs has created a vast bureaucracy whose interest does not necessarily lie in solving poverty problems. For the many social workers who draw their salaries from helping the poor, increasing the volume of business increases their power. Because of their self-aggrandizement, as Heritage Foundation policy analyst Stuart M. Butler argues, "the shape of welfare policy increasingly has come to reflect the interests of suppliers of welfare services, not the consumers."

Large amounts of money allocated to help the poor never reaches its destination. A study conducted in New York City in 1983 found that 74 cents of each dollar spent went to the welfare bureaucracy, leaving only 26 cents for the welfare recipients themselves.

The economic and social failures of the welfare system remain partly masked by the moral imperative: We must demonstrate compassion for our fellow man. But is today's welfare system truly compassionate? Benjamin Franklin expressed well the sentiments of the American Founding when he argued that compassion which blunts the desire or necessity to work for a living is counterproductive. Compassionate welfare grants have turned our inner cities into battlefields of crime. Compassionate welfare grants have all but obliterated the family unit. Compassionate welfare grants have enslaved generations of the poor into a permanent cycle of poverty.

As Mickey Kaus poignantly noted in a surprising article in the liberal weekly The New Republic: "Welfare doesn't work. Work 'incentives' don't work. Training doesn't work. Work 'requirements' don't work. 'Work experience' doesn't work and even workfare doesn't quite work. Only work works."

Kaus and other critics have suggested that the government should discontinue welfare benefits to all but the elderly, the sick, and the handicapped. All able-bodied recipients should then receive a standing offer: if you want a job that pays the minimum wage, one is available. The government would provide numerous work sites, and those who show up and work would be paid; those who don't must accept responsibility for their decision. Labor could be used to fix potholes, clean up parks, clean streets of litter, and so on.

(Such a reform would not be without opposition. Overhauling the welfare system would cost many social workers their jobs. What are they to do? Perhaps they could apply all their expertise in career training and find themselves a job. More formidable opposition—political and otherwise—could be expected from municipal workers and their unions. These people would undoubtedly fight an invasion of inexpensive, unskilled labor into the work force. But putting low-skilled workers to work would provide the additional benefit of challenging the hegemony of the city workers, and eventually increasing their productivity.)

The fact that it would cost more to give people jobs than to give them welfare would pose a short-term problem. But clearly the long-term investment in getting people off welfare and into the labor market would compensate for short-term losses.

Another obstacle is child care; how is a single parent to afford the day care which will enable him or her to hold a job? Expanded tax credits or government vouchers—valid only for day-care—could be provided to new workers who have recently left the welfare rolls.

The final obstacle confronting such a plan is also the most disheartening: what happens to those who will not or do not get by in this system? (Remember, the can not be provided for.) It is likely that some will suffer. Most likely, those who fail at work would resort to an existence of homeless shelters and soup kitchens. But it is unlikely that anyone would have to starve.)

The overwhelming moral advantage of such a plan is that millions of people would gain a sense of pride and self-reliance. They would receive job training through work. They would start working their way up the economic ladder instead of being sucked deeper into the whirlpool of welfare dependency.

Reform of this sort would redress the anti-family side effects of the present welfare state. It would no longer be more profitable to be divorced or separated than married; it would no longer be feasible to have a child in the hopes that society would accept financial responsibility. This plan is not a panacea for all of America's social ills. It does, however, demonstrate that we as people will no longer countenance a welfare system which destroys families and corrupts the character of America's poor. And finally, the much-touted "safety net" would be exposed for what it really is: not a cushion to prevent people from hitting rock bottom, but a low ceiling preventing people from standing on their own two feet.

A bee-coming beard: Every year, beekeepers and their bees gather for a contest to determine who can "grow" the longest or most impressive beard of live honeybees—and do so without swallowing a mouthful of stingers. According to National Wildlife magazine, a Pennsylvania State University student currently holds the record for the most bees piled on a person: He tipped the scales with some 20 pounds of bees.

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: I learned six months ago that my breast cancer had spread to my lymph nodes. Since then, I have been receiving a three drug chemotherapy regimen that is about to end. I haven't felt very sick and I would feel safer if I continued with these drugs. My doctor says "no" that it wouldn't help. If these drugs are known to help prevent the cancer from coming back, why won't my doctor continue to give them to me?

ANSWER: It is understandable that you would feel safer if you were to continue chemotherapy after your present course of treatment ends. But chemotherapy treatment schedules are often based on studies or prior experience that have shown the most effective treatment schedule for patients with the same type of cancer. When the best treatment schedule is not known, studies using varied treatment schedules are done so that they can be compared. If one schedule is shown to be better than another, then that schedule becomes the new standard. There is no evidence that giving chemotherapy on an ongoing basis is of benefit in most types of cancer.

To continue chemotherapy when there is no evidence that it helps, may pose risks to the patient. For instance most drugs have the potential to cause long term side effects and some drugs have been shown to increase the risk of developing a second type of cancer. Also, the longer the drugs are given, the greater the chance that the cancer cells will become resistant to those drugs. This may limit the treatment options should the cancer recur at a later date.

You should discuss your concerns about ending treatment with your doctor. If your concerns and questions are still not answered, you may find it helpful to obtain a second opinion.

For more information about Chemotherapy, call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER or write the McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Cancer Information Service.

55 Years Family Serving Garrett Postoffice Ends

August 1 marked the first time in 55 years that a member of the Conley family has not been in charge of the Garrett postoffice. This was the date that Edna Conley Everidge, who had been postmaster for 25 years, retired.

Her father, Willis Conley, served as postmaster for 28 years, from 1932 until his retirement in 1960. Mrs. Everidge, who began as a clerk at the postoffice in 1946, was appointed acting postmaster in 1961 and postmaster in 1962.

Many changes have come about in the years Mrs. Everidge has been at the postoffice. She began selling stamps for first class mail at three cents each and saw that price rise to its present 22¢. When she began work, the mail came in by train and was sent out for rural delivery by horseback. She saw this change to everyday delivery by truck both to the postoffice and then to rural routes. During her years as postmaster, she also saw the work force dwindle from, in the beginning, two full-time employees, including herself, plus one part-time, too, at her retirement, only herself with one leave replacement. This is an employee who works one day per week.

Despite the migration of many to other areas and a declining demand for postal service, the Garrett postoffice has been third class at 13 level for several years.

Louisville Bluegrass Music Festival

Louisville's 15th annual Bluegrass Music Festival will take place Saturday and Sunday, September 12 and 13 on the Riverfront Plaza/Belvedere in downtown Louisville, Kentucky from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. both days. The event is free and open to the public. More than 100,000 people are expected to attend the two-day festival.

Keeping the event free and in downtown was a major objective of city leaders after they discovered the festival might be discontinued. Louisville Mayor Jerry Abramson was instrumental in securing four corporate sponsors and pledged monetary as well as in-kind support from the city. The Louisville Bluegrass Music Festival has consistently been recognized as one of the top bluegrass festivals in the country and attracts bluegrass music fans from all over the United States and abroad. "Not only does the Festival feature the best in bluegrass music, but it also provides visitors an opportunity to see and enjoy Louisville's renaissance," said Mayor Abramson.

The two-day event will feature nationally-known favorites including Bill Monroe and the Bluegrass Boys, Doc Watson, Peter Rowan, Mark O'Connor and New Grass Revival.

Performers will conduct workshops inside the Kentucky Center for the Arts' new Martin Experimental Theater. The back of the center opens onto the Riverfront Plaza/Belvedere and can be easily accessed by festival attendees. The indoor workshops will provide a pleasing change of pace for both performers and listeners. The workshop schedule will be finalized next month.

The festival will boast more than native music, offering visitors a true taste of the Bluegrass State. Kentucky theme foods and crafts will include burgoo, barbecued pork, beef and mutton, baked beans, corn-on-the-cob, fried cornbread, roast pig, and of course, Kentucky Fried Chicken. Dulcimer, guitar and violin makers, quilters and basket weavers will be among Kentucky artisans demonstrating and selling their crafts.

Achievements of this type are not new to Conley. He has the distinction of being the first artist in the history of recorded music to have four #1 singles off one album on the internationally recognized billboard magazine charts. "Holding Her And Loving You," "Don't Make It Easy For Me," "Angel In Disguise," and "Your Love's On The Line," were all #1 singles off the RCA album "Don't Make It Easy For Me." "Right From The Start" Earl's on his way to another Number One!

HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY

It is the recommendation of many physicians that youngsters should not be lied to by pretending that medicine tastes good when it really does not. By using such subterfuges the first dose might be taken by a child, but most likely a second dose will not. Instead, explain that the medicine may not be the best tasting stuff in the world, but it is medicine and it will make him or her feel better soon. Try offering a small treat after the dosing to take away the bad taste. Such honesty is usually rewarded by the child having more faith in you and in the medication.

CATS AS PETS

COPYRIGHT 1987 KVMA

Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association Cat lovers, congratulations! A recent national survey indicates that cats kept as pets are on the increase and have passed dogs as pets in numbers.

There are likely several reasons for this shift, not the least of them being that a cat is far simpler to care for and poses less of a liability problem for its owner than a dog.

If you're considering a cat for your next pet, a little common sense about breeds and their personalities can help make your selection more rewarding.

Basically, cats are divided into two categories—long hairs and short hairs.

Among the long hairs, the only breed which can be registered is the Persian. It is a big cat, with long, thick hair, is quite affectionate and playful and highly intelligent. Allergic reactions to the long hair, however, are not uncommon.

Most prominent among the short hairs are the Siamese, Manx, Abyssinian, Burmese and Domestic Short Hair.

Siamese are likely best known for their unique markings and voice, as well as their intelligence. The Manx, which takes its name from the Isle of Man where it originated, is without a tail and its hind legs are longer than its front legs which gives it a distinctive gait when it walks.

Abyssinians are descended from the scared cats of Egypt and are among the quietest of cats because of their soft voice and that they infrequently use it. Burmese are similar to the Siamese, except that they are solid in color.

The Domestic Short Hair is what you likely think of as an "alley cat" and is hardy, fastidious in personal grooming and now has its own registry. It is growing quickly in popularity.

If you're considering a cat as a pet for yourself or a friend, it's wise to be aware than allergic responses in people vary from breed to breed, that some cats require more personal attention than others, that their personalities vary from breed to breed. Some are more affectionate than others, some are more independent than others.

Your veterinarian can help you match a cat to your personality or to that of a friend, as well as give you pointers on what to look for and what to avoid in order to pick a healthy animal. Many veterinarians serve as adoptions agencies as well as clinics, giving bulletin board space to help their clients find homes for new kittens and occasionally for mature pets.

Perkins Announces Passage Of Funding

WASHINGTON—Congressman Carl C. Perkins has announced that the House of Representatives passed legislation, 330 to 89, which authorizes $276 million for the Economic Development Administration (EDA), and $162.4 million for the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC). All members of the West Virginia-Kentucky delegations, with the exception of Ky. Representative Larry Hopkins (Republican-6th District), voted in favor of the funding. "This bill will help us to make great strides toward bringing the Appalachian region into the mainstream of American economic life," said Congressman Perkins.

The EDA and the ARC were established to provide aid to economically distressed areas of the country through the development of public facilities such as roads, ports, community water and sewage systems, and education and health facilities, and through grants for private economic development projects. "Since he has come to office President Reagan has been trying to cut out this program," Perkins said, "but we overwhelmingly passed this bill. Throughout Eastern Kentucky, roads have been built, water and sewer systems have been built, vocational education systems and training programs have been started. Permanent jobs have been created as a result of the Federal dollars in this region. I am very pleased to see that this bill has passed and that the EDA and the ARC can continue this positive work."

P'burg Grads Key In Union College Scheme

This is supposed to be the year that a young Union College football squad grows into the Division 11 power that most football people expect the Bulldogs to become.

From a team that finished with a 7-4 record and earned an 18th placed national ranking, Union returns 41 lettermen, leading fans and football followers to expect even bigger accomplishments in the upcoming season.

The Bulldogs, under the direction of third year coach John Ross, returns a total of 16 starters from a year ago, nine on the offensive side of the football.

All signs point toward another successful Bulldog grid season, but everything won't be peaches and cream.

"We're playing the toughest schedule we've ever had," John Ross said. "We're going to be an improved team, but I don't know whether we'll be improved enough to beat some of the teams we've got on our schedule."

"But we won't be going into any games against teams that we won't have an opportunity to beat."

Union College, after enjoying a solid recruiting year in 1986, is expected to also improve their level of play thanks to yet another talented freshman class coming in this season.

"This was our best recruiting year ever," Ross said. "I thought last year would be hard to beat, but we really had a banner year this time around."

Two consecutive seasons have seen John Ross and his assistants recruit throughout the mountains, gobbling up talent that other colleges ignored, and now Union College will showcase that talent in a hard-hitting package.

"This is the most vicious bunch I've been around since 1973—the most vicious hitters anyway," Coach Ross said. "It's been so bad that I had 19 kids on the trainer's list Friday."

Most of those injured troops have returned to practice, allowing the Bulldog staff to work full tilt toward what is expected to be a successful upcoming campaign.

"The offense is looking awesome, and our defense is coming around, but I guess only time will tell how good a football team we'll be," Ross added.

Another factor in deciding how good Union College will be in 1987 comes in the form of a special package of football talent from Prestonsburg High School. Three former Blackcat performers are members of the Bulldog squad, and all three are expected to see considerable playing time.

Pete Greene, a sophomore tight end, finished as Union's second leading receiver a year ago while earning all-district honors in his freshman season.

"Pete's a great athlete, a tough athlete, and can simply catch the football," Ross said. "We've got five receivers that I would put up against anybody's in the country."

Combine this type of receiving talent with the throwing ability of junior quarterback Greg Duncan, and the Bulldogs have the makings of an explosive air attack.

Greene figures to be a valuable asset for Union's passing game, but maybe not at the position he played last year. In 1986, while playing tight end, Greene hauled in 25 catches for a total of 355 yards and three touchdowns. Ross, however, says that Greene's talents aren't fully taken advantage of at the end position.

"We're really anxious to get Pete outside where he can really fly," Ross mentioned. "He has a special ability to get open, and he has that uncoachability to know where every defender is."

Darrin Flannery, another former Prestonsburg receiver, is also expected to see action this season, especially when Ross has a mind to pass.

Flannery, a signee of Ross's this past summer, has impressed Bulldog coaches during camp and could earn playing time during the season.

"Darrin only played one year down there, and he came in here without the experience that some of these kids have, but he is impressive," the Union coach said. "I would say that he'll see a lot of playing time, because he can flat catch a football."

Both Greene and Flannery will also benefit from having a strong-armed quarterback who is capable of getting the football downfield. Duncan is his name, and throwing is his game.

"Greg does have good receivers, but he is a good passer too. He could be in the top five in the nation this year. He's a smart kid, a great leader, and has a strong arm. Greg is a real competitor," Ross said of his passer.

Offensively Union will score points, and Coach Ross says his defense has showed signs of improving. Prestonsburg has also sent their defensive representative to Barbourville in the form of defensive tackle Donnie Ray.

A fierce competitor, Ray saw action as a backup early last year, but by season's end had earned a starting position. With additional work during the off season, his starting spot should be a reality this year too.

"Donnie came back in real good shape. He's stronger, and he's quicker than he was last year, and he did very well in a scrimmage Saturday," Ross said. "We always knew that Donnie was going to be a good defensive tackle for us, and he's done everything we expected from him."

"I expect Donnie to have a great year. He's had a good camp, and he's really starting to hit."

Recruiting, hard work, and optimism are all traits of John Ross, but apparently these are working for the Bulldog coach. In three years at the helm, he has taken Union from the non-existent to the powerful.

Just how powerful, even Coach Ross can't say, but he admits that the Bulldogs will find out what they need to work on after the season opener with Georgetown, an always strong team.

This big early season matchup is scheduled for September 5 in Barbourville.

Turnovers Help Rebels Earn Their First Grid Victory

The Allen Central Rebels, entering their second season of varsity football, converted two Jenkins turnovers into touchdowns Friday night in earning their first-ever football victory, 20-18, in overtime.

Trailing 6-0 to start the 'second' half, Allen Central recovered the opening kickoff, a kick Jenkins failed to handle, and turned it into a touchdown to even up the score.

"After we recovered that kickoff, the momentum just seemed to swing our way," Donnie Daniels, Allen Central coach, said. "We started ramming the ball right at them, then we threw that little swing pass, and nobody was close to Nathan."

Shelton that is. Darren Conn, Rebel senior quarterback, connected with end Nathan Shelton for a 16-yard scoring pass, the first of two scoring combinations between the two seniors.

The scoring toss capped off a 43-yard

Allen Central drive which began after Jamie Hall fell on the second half's opening kickoff.

The Rebels continued their opportunistic play in the fourth quarter, again turning a fumble into six points.

Robbie Click, Rebel linebacker, recovered a fumble on his own 30-yard line and returned the football 70 yards for Allen Central's second touchdown of the contest.

With the game tied at 12, time ran out, forcing an overtime period, in which the Rebels earned their two-point victory.

After Jenkins scored a touchdown on their first series of downs to start the overtime, Allen Central took their efforts to a final chance, scoring on their final down.

On fourth and goal from the six-yard line, Darren Conn once again hooked up with Nathan Shelton, this time for a six-yard touchdown. Jeff Hughes, with the score, 18-18, ran in the two-point conversion, giving Allen Central the win.

"We paid our dues last year—all year," Daniels said. "We came close a couple of times, but we never made it all the way."

"The kids just wanted to win. They left it all on the field, and now they know what it feels like to win."

"They were tickled to death," Daniels continued. "It was like we had just won the Super Bowl, or a national championship in college."

Allen Central, first establishing a football program in 1985, played last year on the varsity level, finishing the season at 0-8, but are now 1-0 this season.

In the win over Jenkins, the Rebels ran for 110 yards. Jeff Hughes, a senior, led the ground attack with 64 yards on 16 carries, while sophomore Mickey Parsons also toted the pigskin 16 times, finishing with 52 yards.

Robbie Click, an experienced fullback, didn't see any action running the football, but played a big part in the Rebels second half running success.

"We're using the two back set this year," Daniels explained. "Robbie didn't run the ball any, but we used him as an extra blocking back in the second half, and he really cleaned house."

Allen Central threw the football for a total of 51 yards on the strength of a four for nine showing from Darren Conn. The southpaw quarterback also tossed two touchdowns, both to first year senior end Nathan Shelton.

With their first win firmly tucked away, Allen Central is preparing for a touch district battle with Paintsville.

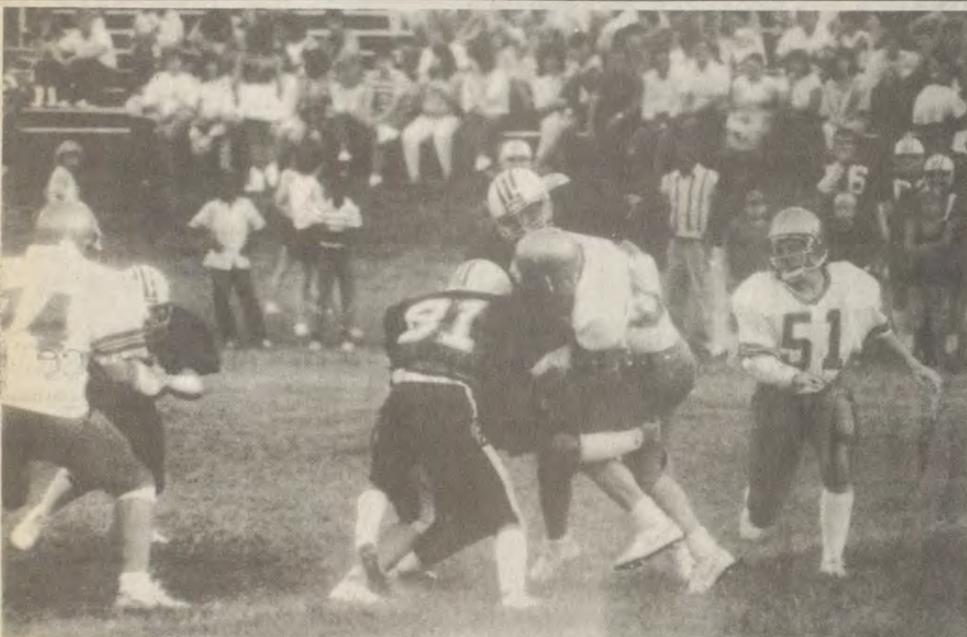

"They're a fundamentally sound team, and a pretty good ball club," Daniels said. "We can't afford to miss tackles, and we'll have to work on our blocking assignments this week. We have to do the little things."

Paintsville, coming off a 28-0 loss to Williamsburg, has been less than spectacular this year, and Coach Daniels is hoping his opening victory can help Allen Central prepare for the Tigers.

"We're not very far away from being a good ball club. We just need to work on the little things that we're doing wrong."

"The kids know now what it takes to win, and they know what it feels like to win. I think they'll come out and work harder in practice. It's something (the win) that will hopefully carry over throughout the season."

Kickoff time for the Allen Central vs. Paintsville contest is scheduled for 8, Friday night, in Paintsville.

STRONG DEFENSE: The Wheelwright defense, led by Steve Cole, 81, shutout Elkhorn City thanks to gang tackling like this. Cole had two quarterback sacks while enjoying a strong punting performance. The Trojan senior also scored a touchdown offensively.

Trojans Dominate Elkhorn City In Winning Opening Game, 34-0

Domination may be a strong word to use, especially in high school sports, but it does sum up Wheelwright High School's opening game victory over Elkhorn City, Friday night.

Controlling both lines of scrimmage, the Trojans rode the crest of a strong running attack while shutting down Elkhorn City's offense, cruising to a 34-0 victory.

Wheelwright, 1-0, with the season opening win, combined on the ground and through the air for 324 total yards, and limited the Cougars to under 100 net yards in completing what head coach Roger Johnson had thought might happen an impressive win.

"I felt that we could do it if we played the way we did last week," Johnson said. "We got off to kind of a slow start, but we picked up our intensity later."

The Trojans, with Doug Little and Handy Jackson once again enjoying big success, ran for 285 yards, exercising the type of ball control offense Coach Johnson had said was a necessity for his team to win.

Little, a powerful fullback with speed, rolled up a total of 127 yards, 117 of those in the first half, and scored two touchdowns in leading Wheelwright's ground attack.

Handy Jackson, 80 yards on 15 carries, also scored a Trojan touchdown on the ground while adding four points on conversion runs. For the second consecutive outing, the Wheelwright backfield rolled up impressive numbers, but the backs may not deserve the total credit.

"You can't have a good backfield if you don't have a good line, and we've got a good, senior line. "We've worked for two years to build up to this level," Roger Johnson said.

The offensive line, possessing both strength and quickness, opened huge holes for Little and Jackson, or anyone else who carried the football Friday night.

rack up 46 yards on two carries and a touchdown. Vic Cotton, another underclassman runner, picked up 26 yards on only five carries.

Little, the only senior member of Wheelwright's rushing corps, but the Trojans on the scoreboard early when his massive offensive line opened a hole that allowed the 5'11", 190-pound back to ramble 33 yards for the score.

With 4:06 remaining in the opening period, Little crossed the goaling, capping off a 53-yard, five play drive. After Jackson ran the two-point try over, Wheelwright led, 8-0, an advantage that held up, thanks to timely defensive plays from Shawn McKenzie.

After Elkhorn City had managed only 11 net yards on their first two possessions, the Cougars mounted a drive. From their own 33 to the Wheelwright 24, they moved the football, but on a third down and six play, the drive was halted.

Shawn McKenzie, Trojan defensive back, stepped in front of an intended Elkhorn City receiver, picked off the Chris Rose pass, and Wheelwright claimed possession on their own 11-yard line.

"Shawn caught one down on about the 10-yard line. They had already completed one there, but he came back and played that one real well," Johnson explained. "That play was a big turnaround for us, and the other one he caught in the end zone was big, too, because they were down on about the 20."

McKenzie, a junior defensive back, later brought an abrupt end to another Elkhorn City drive with his second interception of the night. The Cougars had moved the football to the Wheelwright 20-yard line, but McKenzie, on a third and two attempt, picked off a pass in the end zone, protecting the Trojans' shutout bid.

Following both interceptions, Wheelwright mounted prolonged drives with both resulting in touchdowns. After the first McKenzie pickoff, the Trojans marched 89 yards for a score.

Doug Little capped the 11-play drive off with a one-yard plunge for his second touchdown of the night. On the march downfield, Wheelwright ate up six minutes and 57 seconds of the clock, scoring with only 1:33 remaining in the half.

Leading 14-0 in the third quarter Wheelwright added another touchdown, this one through the air. With 2:31 remaining in the third Bobby Hood connected with Steve Cole on a 20-yard scoring pass, and after Handy Jackson ran in the two-point try the Trojans led 22-0.

Wheelwright added two more touchdowns late in the final frame, one on an 11-yard Handy Jackson run, and the other with 1:31 left in the contest when Benjy McCay broke loose for a 45-yard scoring gallop.

Offensively Wheelwright enjoyed success both on the ground, and through the air. Sophomore quarterback Bobby Hood connected on two of four attempts for 39 yards and one touchdown, but the Trojans also received a strong defensive showing.

Wheelwright recorded a total of four quarterback sacks, two by Steve Cole, in shutting out Elkhorn City.

"Our defense played real well," Johnson said. "They played with a lot of intensity, and I have Chip Little, my defensive coordinator, to thank for that. He's done a good job with the defense."

Roger Johnson will take his stubborn defense, and potent offense to Ashland this week, taking on Fairview High School, a 28-0 loser to Paris, Friday night.

"They run the option, and the wishbone, but we feel that our defense is set for that kind of offense," Johnson said.

"They're a real good technique team. They're not real big, but they are quick, maybe not as quick as we are though."

The game with Fairview represents the first district game of the season for Wheelwright in their new district alignment. Kickoff is set for 8.

SHORT SPORTS

While the rest of Floyd County's high school football squads enjoy the memories of a season opening win, the Prestonsburg Blackcats are busy preparing for their 1987 opening game.

Allen Central, Betsy Layne, and Wheelwright all came away victorious in Friday night action while Prestonsburg remained idle, but the Blackcats will see action this weekend.

Prestonsburg, hoping to climb back into playoff contention, will open their season on the road, playing the Lawrence County Bulldogs.

Blackcat coach Chuke Williams says this game is an important key to success for this year's squad. Last year Prestonsburg lost their season opener in overtime. Williams earlier said that that game took its toll on his young Blackcat squad during the season.

Coach Williams added that a win would go a long way toward making 1987 a better season than the Blackcats experienced last year. Kickoff is scheduled for 8 p.m., Friday.

Due to a lack of support and interest from area softball teams, the American Legion softball tournament scheduled for this weekend has been cancelled.

A double-elimination tournament, designed to help finance Floyd County's American Legion baseball program, had been scheduled for August 28, 29, and 30, but enough teams to hold the event did not enter.

Until this summer, county teenagers between the ages of 16 and 18 had no summer baseball program to participate in, but a team was organized and from that an American Legion program was established.

The softball tournament this weekend and another for the final weekend in September were scheduled in an attempt to raise funds for the newly created baseball squad, but both have now been cancelled due to the obvious lack of interest.

With most pennant contenders looking for starting pitching, the San Francisco Giants bolstered their staff this past week when they acquired Rick Reuschel from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Giants, leading the National League West, have, like so many other major league baseball teams, experienced problems with an unproductive pitching staff.

With the acquisition of Reuschel, and an earlier addition of Don Robinson, San Francisco has gone a long way toward solidifying their staff.

Several teams, including Cincinnati, were showing interest in the former Pirate pitcher, but the Giants worked the trade, giving up relief pitcher Jeff Robinson and a minor league pitcher.

Reuschel currently holds the league's second best earned run average, and could be the final addition that makes San Francisco's final sum a divisional championship.

The Sporting Times

Football at Magoffin County High School?

It is no longer a question of when, but now of how much because Magoffin County does in fact finally have football at the high school level.

For several years the idea had been tossed around the Magoffin county school system, but not until 1987 did it become a reality, and not until interested citizens kicked the idea into action.

Last summer several football-minded members of the Salyersville community put their heads together sometimes banging their heads in frustration, and came up with a youth league team.

Led by those same people football spread from the prep team of last summer into the high school ranks of this year, and now students of Magoffin county at least have the opportunity of trying their hand at the gridiron sport.

Although the first-year Hornets fell short in their first-ever football game, 13-0, to Johns Creek last Thursday, interest and participation appears to be satisfactory in beginning a program.

Thirty-five candidates are learning the system of veteran Louis Spike Berkheimer, who is serving as head mentor in a paraprofessional capacity.

Jim Bill Lyon is recognized as the administrative head coach, but Berkheimer will be in charge of teaching the inexperienced young Hornets the fundamentals of the game.

The first edition of the MCHS football squad will compete on the junior varsity level for the first two campaigns. Plans call for the team to move up to varsity level competition in the third year.

According to the high school football classifications by the Kentucky High School Athletic Association, Magoffin County will be classified as double A, the same as Prestonsburg, Lawrence County and Morgan County, to name a few schools in this region.

Berkheimer brings with him to the ground level of the local football program a total of 19 years coaching experience. The Sisterville, West Virginia native played at West Virginia University between the years of 1964-68. He later served as an assistant coach at Morehead State University and became the head coach at Johnson Central High School in 1979. Although he no longer coaches at Central, he remains a member of that school's faculty.

"I'm impressed with the quality of kids we have to work with," Berkheimer said. "They are working their fannies off. They appear eager to learn."

Berkheimer also said he is more convinced now than when he arrived here a week ago that with the attitude of the young squad, coupled with his experience and know-how, the chances are excellent of establishing the nucleus of a program that could grow.

Of the 35 boys practicing with the team, only four are juniors while the majority are freshman and sophomores, along with three eighth graders.

"By the time we're ready for the varsity level in a couple years, we ought to be able to add 20 or 25 more to go with the 25 or 30 we have playing now and that will provide us with the type of numbers you must have to compete in football," Berkheimer said.

The coach said he was surprised at the size of some of the kids when he first arrived.

"We have three or four kids who are around 215 or 220. There are a couple of more big kids around 180 or 190. The size is there, now all we have to do is place our personnel where they are best suited," Berkheimer said.

He said he was impressed with the work done by a group of volunteers, who evidently are responsible for getting a football program started in the school.

"This group does all the dirty work," he said. "They make sure all I have to do by the time I arrive here each day is coach. They truly need to be considered. Any school would love to have them in their corner."

The home opener is scheduled against Morgan County, Saturday, August 29. All games will be played on Saturday afternoon.

Note: Some of the above was taken from the Salyersville Independent.

Bobcats Get Leg Up On Second Winning Season

No one is really bragging about it, and they didn't want to put the football in their trophy case, but the Betsy Layne Bobcats did kick their season off on a successful note, Friday night.

After establishing one of their main goals for this year as enjoying another winning season, Betsy Layne took a solid step toward accomplishing that goal, defeating Fleming-Neon, 8-0.

"It's a win either way you look at it," Bobcat head coach Vince Tucker said about the season's opening victory. "We looked good in sports, on certain plays, but there are still some things we need to improve on."

The Bobcats, managing only 185 total yards offensively, produced the game's only score when John Bush crossed the goal line with a three-yard touchdown run in the third quarter.

Todd Sturgill, Betsy Layne's leading rusher with 75 yards on 12 carries, ran the two-point conversion in, giving the Bobcats an 8-0 lead, and rode a strong defensive effort to the victory.

"We played pretty much the way I expected us to," Tucker said. "I was pleased with our defense because our defensive play definitely won the game for us."

Last season Betsy Layne, finishing at 6-4, enjoyed their first winning season ever, and thanks to Bush's touchdown run, the Bobcats have gotten off to a successful start toward another winning campaign.

The Bobcat score was set up by a 40-yard pass from quarterback Dwight Jarrell to his brother receiver Vince Jarrell. Dwight Jarrell finished the game with two completions for 65 yards.

Betsy Layne, expected to have a strong running game this year, rushed for a total of 120 yards against a not-so-strong Fleming-Neon defense.

"Our running game wasn't that bad," Tucker said. "We ran the ball pretty well at times against them, but we didn't block very well."

"Our blocking will have to improve,"

Tucker continued. "I think defensively we'll be all right, but our offense will have to play better."

The Bobcats will have to improve their total game if they hope to continue their winning ways this weekend. Betsy Layne, 1-0 on the season, is scheduled to travel to Belfry this Friday night to take on a powerful Pirate team.

"I feel like after watching them play that we can at least be competitive with them. If we can get it through our kid's heads that they can be beat we'll have a better chance," Coach Tucker said.

The Pirates, state runners-up in triple A the past two seasons, are once again championship contenders, but Coach Tucker thinks Belfry's advantage is psychological as well as physical.

"Last weekend they dressed out about 95 players, but after their first 11, the level of talent goes down. Sometimes people forget that. They have the numbers, and we'll go there with 40 players. That alone sometimes gives them an advantage."

Coming into the contest, Belfry also enjoys a 1-0 record after defeating Corbin, 14-10, in the Pike County Bowl, Saturday night. The Pirates feature a powerful running attack led by senior Keith May and junior Mike Scott.

May rushed for over 100 yards against Corbin, and Scott added a 54-yard run for touchdown. The contest is set to kickoff at 8.

The Bobcats, playing their first two games on the road, will open their home schedule next Friday night when they welcome in MMI.

Coach Tucker says Betsy Layne needs more work offensively, especially with their line blocking, and the Bobcats have time to iron out difficulties before opening district play. Betsy Layne, playing in a different class level and district, will open their district slate September 11 when they travel to Prestonsburg for an intra-county matchup with the Blackcats.

Betsy Layne Varsity Squad

Kentucky Afield... Dove Season Opens September 1

The statewide dove season in Kentucky will open Tuesday, September 1 and continue through October 31, and then reopen November 28 and run through December 6.

The daily bag limit is 12 and the possession limit is 24 birds after two or more days of hunting. Shooting hours for the first part of the season are from 11 a.m. to sunset, while hunters may take doves from sunrise to sunset during the second part of the season.

Doves are the most popular game bird in the state. Hunting these fast-flying gray wingsters provides a challenge to even the best shooters. The sport is leisurely, since most hunters find a spot in a fencerow to sit or kneel near a feeding area and shoot at passing birds. However, often during the late afternoon the action can become furious as sometimes hundreds of birds may be coming in at the same time to feed before roosting later that evening.

Doves can be found near corn, wheat, millet, sunflower and other seed fields, usually in the afternoon. A good way to find places to hunt doves is to drive along rural roads early in the morning or during late afternoon and look for birds perched on power lines or circling grain fields. They will also congregate near small ponds and along gravelled areas.

Once permission to hunt is obtained from the landowner, hunters should find a spot where birds are passing within range and where the doves cannot see the hunters. Fencerows, hay bales and bushes or trees are good natural blinds. Wearing camouflaged clothing or darker colors will also help disguise hunters.

The best shotgun loads for doves are 7-1/2, 8, 9, or trap loads, especially during the early part of the season. These loads have more pellets, which are needed to bring down a speedy dove. Shotguns with modified, improved cylinder, or skeet chokes give hunters better dove patterns than gun barrels with tighter chokes.

As the season progresses, doves will fly higher and be more wary. Some hunters find that a little heavier load gives them more range and makes longer shots possible during the latter part of the season.

Hunting doves over food plots is legal as long as no other attractants have been placed on or near the field, other than what occurs from normal agricultural growing and harvesting. Fields with salt, grain or other attractants scattered or placed on them to lure doves are illegally "baited" fields.

John Wooden Named Bellarmine Medalist

John Wooden, former head basketball coach for the University of California at Los Angeles, has been named the 1987 recipient of the Bellarmine Medal. Wooden will receive the award on Oct. 2 at a dinner ceremony held at the Galt House in Louisville.

Bellarmine College's Board of Overseers awards the Bellarmine Medal to persons who exemplify charity, justice and temperateness in dealing with controversy. This year marks the 25th Medal presentation in its 32-year history. The most recent Medal recipient was former Ambassador Philip Habib in 1984.

Wooden has been described as "the winningest coach in college basketball." While at UCLA, Wooden led the Bruins to an unprecedented 10 National Collegiate Athletic Association championships, including seven consecutive titles. Wooden's first coaching job was at Dayton, Kentucky, High School.

"John Wooden's most visible successes are in coaching," said Leonard Moisan, Bellarmine's vice president for institutional advancement. "But the Bellarmine Medal honors his success as an educator. He has been and continues to be an outstanding role model for players, coaches and America's youth."

Wooden, a native of Martinsville, Ind., has received the Whitney M. Young, Jr., National Urban League Memorial Award for Humanitarianism and the National Layman's Leadership Institute's Velvet Covered Brick Award for Christian leadership.

The Bellarmine Medal presentation begins at 6 p.m. with a champagne reception, followed by dinner at 7 p.m. Tickets are $60 per person; $480 for a table of eight. Reserved seating is on a first-come, first-served basis. Call (502) 452-8331 for more information.

SHORT SPORTS

Reuchel has already made an impact in the Giant's starting rotation, pitching seven innings in San Francisco's win Monday night.

The veteran right hander gave up only one run as the Giants defeated Philadelphia 6-1.

The United States won a Pan American high of 370 medals, 16 a gold, but found themselves unsuccessful in major sport competition.

The U.S. women's team captured a gold medal with their 111-87 victory over Brazil, and the men's volleyball team defeated Cuba in the gold medal round Sunday, but boxing, baseball, and men's basketball teams weren't as successful.

Brazil, led by Oscar Schmidt's 46 points, upended the Americans, 120-115, Sunday, denying the U.S. a gold medal. Brazil trailed 68-54 at halftime, but with 11:00 remaining in the game, they took their first lead at 83-81, and held on for the win.

The loss, only the third in Pan American games history, was the first suffered by the United States since 1971.

Cuba put an end to U.S. hopes for a gold medal in baseball, upending the Americans, 13-9, Saturday, but by advancing to the finals, the United States earned a berth in the 1988 Olympics.

Cuba also dominated boxing, setting a new Pan Am record by winning 10 of the possible 12 gold medals. The United States captured only one gold medal in boxing.

The National Football League will feature four televised contests this weekend as pre-season action enters its third week.

Saturday afternoon at 2, CBS will carry the Dolphins-Eagles matchup from Philadelphia, and at 9 Saturday night NBC will feature the battle of the Big Apple with the Jets and Giants hooking up.

The Los Angeles Raiders will play in Dallas, Sunday night. This game will be carried by ESPN. Kickoff is set for 7.

ABC will bring to a close this week's encounters by televising the St. Louis at Chicago contest scheduled for 7 Monday evening.

The division I AA poll was released this past week, and two state teams were high on the list of the nation's top squads.

Eastern Kentucky University, and Murray State, both of the Ohio Valley Conference, appeared in the top 10 with EKU ranked third best.

Murray State, expected to challenge EKU in the OVC, was ranked 12th in the nation.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., August 24—Fishing activity over the August 22-23 weekend was light statewide. Daytime highs in the upper 70s and lower 80's and cooler evening lows should lower water temperatures and improve fishing conditions over the next few days. Bass, crappie and bluegill were reported as the most active species during the week. The lake-by-lake rundown, as reported by conservation officers or creel clerks at each lake:

KENTUCKY: Creel Clerk Buddy Boyd reports that white bass were hitting slab spoons over flats near old river banks 22-30 feet deep; catfish were hitting minnows along old river banks about 40 feet deep; black bass were hitting crankbaits and plastic worms in the backs of bays and off points at variable depths; clear, falling, three feet below summer pool and 88 degrees.

BARKLEY: Creel Clerk Norman Brantley reports that black bass were hitting crankbaits and plastic worms over drop offs 5-15 feet deep; white bass were active on slab spoons over old river channel banks and the mouths of tributaries 6-15 feet deep; clear, falling two and one-half feet below summer pool and 85 degrees.

BARREN RIVER: Creel Clerk Ralph Shipley reports that bluegill were hitting crickets off deep banks 6-10 feet deep; black bass were hitting crankbaits off deeper points at night 10-15 feet deep; in the tailwaters, catfish were being caught on nightcrawlers and trout were hitting corn; clear, stable at summer pool and 85 degrees.

NOLIN: Conservation Officer James Shipp reports that crappie were hitting minnows and jigs over cover about 6 feet deep; black bass were hitting plastic worms off deep points in 10-15 feet of water; clear to murky, rising, three feet below summer pool and 86 degrees.

ROUGH RIVER: Conservation Officer Harold Belt reports that bluegill were hitting worms and crickets off rocky ledges 4-10 feet deep; black bass were hitting plastic worms and crankbaits at night off rocky points and drop offs 8-15 feet deep; clear, stable at summer pool and 86 degrees.

TAYLORSVILLE: Creel Clerk Bruce Raine reports that black bass were taking plastic worms along tree lines in the mouths of creeks 10-15 feet deep; bluegill were hitting worms and crickets off shallow banks 2-6 feet deep; clear to murky, falling, one foot below summer pool and 88 degrees.

HERRINGTON: Conservation Officer J.O. Burkhead reports that black bass were hitting plastic worms at night off points 12-18 feet deep; bluegill were active on worms and crickets over submerged cover 4-10 feet deep; some hybrids were being taken in the jumps in the lower lake on spinners and crankbaits; low water level is preventing launching at some ramps; clear, falling 20 feet below summer pool and 86 degrees.

GREEN RIVER: Creel Clerk John Williams reports that crappie were taking minnows around stick ups in 8-12 feet of water; white bass were hitting spoons over mud flats 20-25 feet deep; murky, stable at summer pool and 85 degrees.

CUMBERLAND: Conservation Officer Mike Bowman reports that black bass were hitting live crawfish off rocky points 28-30 feet deep; rockfish were hitting jig-and-rind combinations along creek channels 28-30 feet deep; clear, falling, 19 feet below summer pool and 86 degrees.

DALE HOLLOW: Conservation Officer Marvin Edwards reports that black bass were hitting plastic worms at night off steep banks and over weed beds in 5-20 feet of water; bluegill were hitting worms and crickets off deep banks 5-15 feet deep; clear, falling, one foot below summer pool and 87 degrees.

LAUREL: Conservation Officer Kenneth Mobley reports that trout were hitting worms, cheese and corn at night over main lake drop offs about 30 feet deep; black bass were striking spinnerbaits at night off the points in 8-10 feet of water; clear, falling, 12 feet below summer pool and 83 degrees.

CAVE RUN: Creel Clerk Sonny Kearns reports that black bass were hitting plastic worms and surface lures over creek channels 1-15 feet deep; muskie were hitting crankbaits in feeder creek channels and off points 10-18 feet deep; clear, stable at summer pool and 85 degrees.

PAINTSVILLE: Creel Clerk Jim Marshall reports that black bass were hitting crankbaits around stump rows 1-7 feet deep; bluegill were hitting red worms over brush piles 1-12 feet deep; clear, falling, one foot below summer pool and 86 degrees.

BUCKHORN: Conservation Officer Billy Joe Napier reports that black bass were hitting crankbaits along stump rows and creek channels 1-8 feet deep; bluegill were taking red worms and wax worms over submerged cover 1-12 feet deep; clear, stable at summer pool and 87 degrees.

GRAYSON: Conservation Officer Jeff Adams reports that crappie were hitting minnows over brush piles 8-10 feet deep; black bass were hitting crankbaits and plastic worms early and late over cover 3-7 feet deep; clear, falling, two and one-half feet below summer pool and 84 degrees.

DEWEY: Creel Clerk Jim Marshall reports that black bass were hitting crankbaits along creek channels and in the jumps 1-8 feet deep; crappie were active on minnows over brush piles about 20 feet deep; clear, stable at one and one-half feet below summer pool and 85 degrees.

W.H.S. Cheerleaders Win Honors At Camp

At the International Cheerleading Foundation Camp held at Eastern University, July 12-15, the Wheelwright High School cheerleaders won several honors.

Among the awards they received were: two ICF awards each in Sparkle and Shine; an ICF award each for Outstanding Improvement; an ICF award for excellence and large pyramid competition; and they received 110 percent for excellence, cheering, skills, jumps, pyramids, stunts, and gym. They also brought home the Spirit Stick for winning it two consecutive days, July 14 and 15.

Shawanna Hutton also won an individual award for positive mental attitude and Missy Thornberry was nominated for the LOOG Frog Award.

During the Middle Ages, the year began at various dates in different times and places. In England it was not until 1751 that January was restored to its place as first month, as it had been during the Roman era.

Bassin' With the Pros...

Bait Scents Make Sense

Ever wonder why the bass suddenly turn off after you've wrestled and released a northern pike? Do you think the fish are getting finicky because they no longer want your lure? Well, the answer could be found in some of the odors left behind on your lure, lure or hands!

"If you have gasoline on your hands, you can transfer that to bait," Linda England, Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member informs us. "Cigarette smokers will have a particular odor on their hands; any kind of grease, oil or sunscreen will transfer to a lure. Also, when fish are caught they secrete a substance through their skin that's a fright substance, and if you handle the fish—put it in your live well or release it, whatever—you'll get this substance on your hands. If you readjust your lure or cut and re-tie your line, you transfer this substance to your lure or line. So, if you don't cover that up, it will be a while before you get another bite."

It has long been established that bass have a keen sense of smell, which they use to locate prey, detect predators, select mates, and locate certain vegetation. A bass "smells" through two nostrils, located on each side of the snout. Water is forced through the anterior nostril openings, over sensory nerve endings, and out the posterior nostril.

A bass' sense of smell is part of a complicated nervous system, which includes its lateral line nerve system and its sense of hearing. Combined, these senses allow the bass to pinpoint his prey's position and speed. Smell is an "early warning" system which works at long distances; taste is something the bass can only use at close range.

Bass also have body odors just as human beings do. This odor helps fish to identify their own species and predators. Further, body odor influences the social behavior of a school of fish. It is also an established fact that the older the bass, the more acute its sense of smell has become, as the olfactory folds within the olfactory organ increase as the bass grows in size.

This keen sense of smell can be utilized to the bass fisherman's advantage through the proper and effective use of bait scents. And the use of these attractants can mean a big difference in the number and size of bass you catch.

"I use Fish Formula II and Berkley Strike," states David Wharton, Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member. "I think they really make a difference in the number of fish that you catch. I think they will increase the number of bites that you will get during the day."

"I personally feel that they are most effective on inactive fish," relates England. "They're going to trigger that fish to take your lure. I also think—and maybe this is a thing that a lot of people don't think about—when a fish is very active he isn't very discriminating. A bait scent on your lure helps an active bass choose your particular offering rather than something else that may be nearby."

As a rule of thumb, bait scents should be applied every 15-20 minutes. Plastic lures should be sprayed more often. Some pros reapply the bait scent on every other cast; however, most agree that frequency is not at all necessary.

When properly used, bait scents can act as a screen for repellent odors and also stimulate a bass to attack your lure instead of something else or nothing at all.

...about your Social Security

SURVIVORS BENEFITS PAYABLE
By JIM KELLY
Social Security District Director

If people in the Big Sandy area are anything like those in other parts of the country, many of them do not know that Social Security pays benefits to survivors of deceased workers who worked in jobs covered by Social Security long enough to become insured, Jim Kelly, Social Security Director for the Big Sandy Area, said recently.

More than 7 million people get survivor benefits. It is important for survivors to contact Social Security as soon as possible after the worker's death to make sure that no benefits are missed, Kelly said. In any event, a person should apply no later than the month after the month of death.

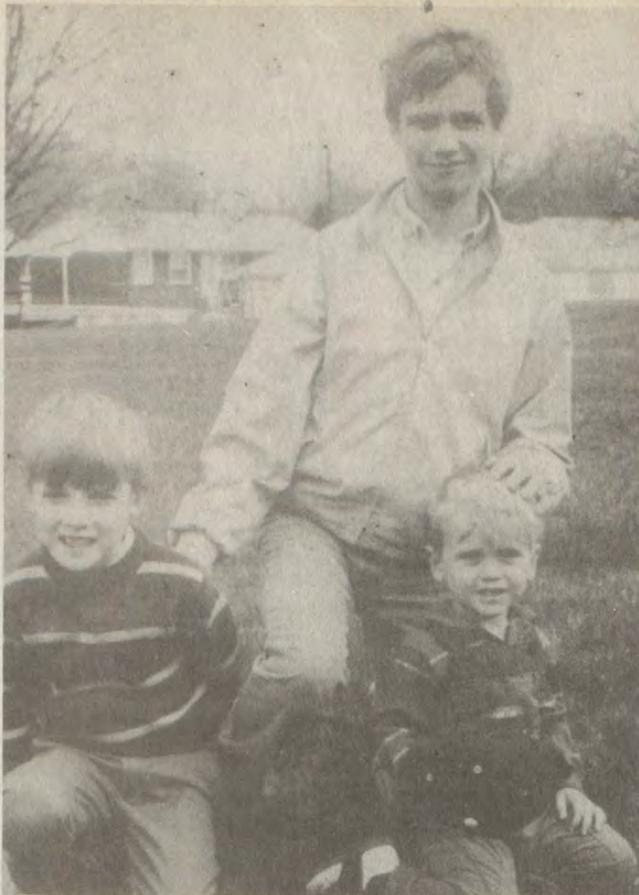

Social Security survivor benefits can be paid to:
A widow or widower 60 or over.
A disabled widow or widower 50-60.
A child under 18 or 18-19 if a full-time high school student, or over 18 if disabled before 22.
A mother or father caring for an entitled child under 16 or disabled.
A parent 62 or older who was dependent upon the worker for half or more of his or her support.

Under a special rule, children and their mother or father can receive benefits if the worker had Social Security credit for 1-1/2 years of work in the 3 years before death. Also, Kelly said, children can receive benefits on their mother's Social Security record as well as their father's.

In addition, there is a $255 lump-sum death payment that can be made to an eligible widow or widower, or if none, to an eligible child.

People who would like more information about Social Security Retirement Benefits should contact the Big Sandy Area Social Security office located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under U.S. Government.

Brothers Need Family

These three, blond-haired, blue-eyed brothers are active and energetic, and they are among those to be placed by the Special Needs Adoption Program, Department of Social Services.

Ted, the oldest, is 15. He was born with club feet but with surgery and the use of a lift in his shoe, he now walks with only a slight limp. He has been diagnosed as having mild cerebral palsy and receives physical and occupational therapy in his school placement. Ted doesn't let his disability hinder him, he enjoys karate, wrestling, and almost all outdoor activities. He takes guitar lessons and dreams of becoming a rock star.

Cory is 6 1/2, and was developing on target until he experienced a near drowning. This episode has caused some degree of cerebral palsy and hyperactivity with attentional problems. He has responded well to medication that controls his activity level. Physical and speech therapy are part of his kindergarten school program. Cory attends a weekly gymnastics session and loves to tumble. He also likes to dance and listen to music.

The youngest member of this sibling group is Chris, age 2 1/2. He loves to play with his toys and his siblings. Chris began receiving allergy shots in January, 1986, after he showed a positive test to environmental and food allergies, especially to milk. Chris is enrolled in a behavior modification day care three days a week to learn appropriate social skills. He likes to be the center of attention as all children his age do.

If you're the family for this trio, or other children in the Special Needs Adoption Program please call your local Social Services Office at 886-8192 or the Special Needs Adoption Program toll free at 1-800-432-9346.

IN THIS WEEK

Smart is exceptional in 'Designing Women' cast

By Paul Elie

As "Designing Women" gears up for its second season on CBS, Jean Smart still feels somewhat out of place.

Jean Smart

The Monday-night series is set in Atlanta, and gains much of its on-air personality from the barbed Southern wit of its four main characters. But Smart, who plays office manager Charlene Frazier, grew up in Seattle. She is the only cast member whose accent is not authentic.

"I'm surrounded by Southerners," she says. "And it's not just the cast. The head writer, the producer, the associate producer, the costumer... I'm definitely tokenism."

Still, Smart feels she understands the regional aspect of the series. "There's something wonderfully romantic and off-center about Southerners, a combination of the traditional and the offbeat," she says. "That's something that the series shares."

The show has been noted for the interplay between the cast members — Smart, Dixie Carter, Annie Potts and Delta Burke. Unlike ensemble shows such as "L.A. Law," which emphasize different plots and characters from week to week, the ensemble format of "Designing Women" requires the four actresses to literally share the stage.

"As far as TV goes, I'd rather be in an ensemble situation," Smart says. "It's a lot of responsibility to carry a show by yourself. If it goes down the tubes, you get all the blame."

"Usually in a series there's a lead girl who's very beautiful and very straight, and a sidekick who's chubbier and funnier," she says. "One of the things I like about our series is that the four characters are very different. Charlene is sort of gullible, naive, traditional and on the old-fashioned side. And that's always the way I've thought of myself. I come across as much stronger, mainly because I'm tall and have a deep voice. But actually I'm real old-fashioned."

In the course of last season the series was canceled, brought back and lost in a scheduling shuffle. It aired on Mondays, Thursdays and Sundays before returning to Mondays, where it has recently surged in the ratings. Smart is looking forward to a less chaotic second season.

"I'm just hoping that they'll leave us in this time slot," she says. "Before, nobody could find us! And I don't think that there are many shows that people will look for."

'Paris by Night' is both a trick and a travesty

By Frank Lovece

Panning George Burns is like panning, well, God. But Showtime's abysmal "Paris by Night with George Burns," which airs Sunday, Aug. 30, would bring out the heretic in just about anyone. This 50-minute special has but one saving grace - it makes one hope for Mr. Burns' continued good health, so this garbage will not be his final work.

George Burns

The central notion of this travesty is a supposed "night on the town" that hits such hot spots as the Folies Bergere and the Moulin Rouge. But from the first frame, there are problems. First, for years these spots have been nothing but tourist traps, like those American theme bars that serve umbrellas in your drinks. Second, we don't see more than a glimpse of any stage show. Thrown into the middle of a bastardized ballet or an 1890s period piece, we jump from show to show without any notion of what they're about. And the cameras seem to be positioned just left of London, so far away that even the loveliest ladies look like ants.

But the special's most obvious sin - and its most unforgivable one - is dishonesty. Its director and producer, Marty Passetta, is the longtime director and producer of the Academy Awards and other TV specials, although his bland, straightforward style has never done anything to advance the form. Here, he has filmed scenes of Burns and two ostensibly French showgirls in a studio, then inserted them in nightclub settings to suggest that the special was filmed in Paris. Shots of George et femmes riding in a convertible against a backdrop of a Parisian night are similarly contrived.

Burns was indeed in Paris at some point, as a sadly ineffective standup routine at the Lido nightclub demonstrates. He is impossible to dislike, but it was painful to see his five-minute bit tacked onto the end of this debacle. It was even more painful to see him go along with Passetta's faked scenes of him tooling around Paris.

It takes a special kind of contempt to try to palm off such phoniness as the real thing. One wonders why Passetta took the trouble. Paris or no Paris, this show isn't worth the videotape it's shot on.

NIGHT HEAT

FAME

Even in primetime, life is tough for 'Adderly'

By Wendy Wallace

The life of any espionage agent is tough. But life has been especially tough for once-renowned agent V.H. Adderly, the title character in the CBS series "Adderly." A run-in with enemy agents left his left hand permanently disabled. Even worse, a transfer to the obscure Department of Miscellaneous Affairs means that now only trivial assignments await him.

Winston Rekert

"Adderly was a top guy in his field until he was captured," says Winston Rekert, who plays the character. "Since his accident, he's turned bitter, because he's gotten all the lousy assignments. Yet because he's so valuable, the department can't dismiss him - they need to keep an eye on him. So whatever assignment he gets, he makes it interesting and resolves it. He has to prove that he can still do it."

The series, which premiered last season on "CBS Late Night," is in the fifth week of a six-week Friday-night run in primetime. Rekert hopes the show has attracted a new audience.

"The numbers and responses that we've gotten from late night have been good," he says. "But it's still too early to know what the outcome (of the move to primetime) will be. If we've done phenomenally well, there's a possibility that we'll be a mid-season replacement."

"Adderly" is different from other sleuth series in that it is laced with humor and offers a wacky cast of supporting characters. In most episodes, while Adderly battles to get out of his mundane assignments, sympathetic secretary Mona Ellerby (Dixie Seatle) must cope with conflicts between him and his supervisor, Melville Greenspan (Jonathan Welsh).

For Rekert, it's the combination of humor and ensemble casting that makes the series work. "Everybody has found out who their character is," he says. "So the characters are better defined, and the interplay between them carries the story. As we work together, it gets better."

Will Adderly ever escape from Miscellaneous Affairs? Rekert says no. "If he did, the concept of the series would be over," he explains. "A lot of times he's come close to saying, 'Oh, just forget it.' But he'd have to go out and start his own business. What could he do?"

STAKEOUT (R - Touchstone) Starring Emilio Estevez and Richard Dreyfuss. ★★

By J.T. YURKO

Richard Dreyfuss is a busy man these days, and judging by the success of his films, he might be a lot busier. He scored big as a harried businessman in "Down and Out in Beverly Hills" and as a frustrated aluminum siding salesman in "Tin Men." Now he's right up front and right on the money in "Stakeout," a comedy-drama that features his best performance to date.

Dreyfuss plays Chris Lecce, a detective who's just about down and out in Seattle. He's a good cop at heart, but he's lost a little of the edge of his younger days. He and his partner, Bill Reimers (Emilio Estevez) are assigned to the most boring of detective duties - a round-the-clock stakeout. But the subject of their surveillance turns out to be inviting - Maria McGuire (Madeleine Stowe). She's the ex-girlfriend of an escaped convict (Aidan Quinn), and the FBI thinks he's headed her way.

He is, of course, and his impending visit gives the film its drama. At the same time, Lecce enters into an incognito romance with McGuire, providing some hilarious moments. And though Reimers does little but play practical jokes, he's everything a movie buddy should be.

Director John Badham ("Saturday Night Fever," "WarGames") knows how to milk each scene for all it's worth. From the ads, for instance, one might judge the film to be a comedy, but the opening scene is a harrowing prison escape, as brutal as any prison break ever filmed. And after presenting its lighter moments, the film climaxes with a chilling chase in a wood mill.

In this respect the film is much like "48 HRS.," which also began with a violent prison break but, thanks to Eddie Murphy, often approached comedy. As that film and the recent "The Squeeze" and "Beverly Hills Cop II" have shown, to achieve just the right balance of comedy and drama is a difficult task indeed. With "Stakeout," Dreyfuss and Badham succeed.

Vineyard Is Seen as Source Of Extra Income for Farmers

Farmers willing to put in the necessary work at the right times could find an extra source of income by starting up a small vineyard for table grapes.

Gerald Brown, Extension horticulturist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, stressed that he was talking about table grapes and not the type used for making wine.

Because of a worldwide wine glut, right now is not the best time for a state not already heavily involved in wine-making to plunge into that area, Brown said, although Kentucky wine aficionados can certainly grow wine grapes to pursue their hobby.

"Still, based on present economic data, the potential for table grapes in Kentucky is good enough to warrant a good look by farmers looking for alternative crops," Brown said.

Brown conducts research at UK's Research and Education Center at Princeton on 12 different cultivars of table grapes to see which produces best in this state. He looks at the vigor of the vine, yield, quality of grapes, disease resistance and hardiness to cold. He also tests for optimum irrigation levels and studies different trellis systems and their effects on grape production.

"We just harvested some varieties last week," Brown said. "After two years of study, I feel we have enough information to suggest you can have ripe grapes from the middle of July through early September by using different varieties of grapes."

Using different varieties is the key, he said, because they mature at different times during the season. At an average price of 50 cents per pound, each vine could gross $7 to $10. With a standard 544 vines to an acre, that's $5,000 plus an acre, Brown said.

If that sounds too good to be true, it probably is. A farmer probably doesn't want to plow up his soybeans and start a 500-acre vineyard, Brown said. The trick, of course, is not growing the grapes. It's marketing them.

"They're not worth a darn in the field," Brown said. "You've got to get them to market. Realistically, we think a farmer ought to keep to about two acres at first until he learns how to raise them, how to market them and what the potential problems are."

New Federal Law Will Shorten Wait For Organs

A new federal law should drastically shorten the wait for organ transplants, reports a University of Louisville official.

James Martin, director of U of L's Eye Bank, said the law, scheduled to take effect Oct. 1, will require hospitals receiving Medicare and Medicaid funding to notify families of patients declared legally dead of their option to donate organs.

The procedure should lead to "a significant increase" in the number of organs available for transplants, he said.

Each year, some 8,000 to 10,000 people across the nation await donated kidneys. Another 5,000 need corneas, Martin said, and 400 more await hearts and livers.

Besides shortening the wait, the law may even allow patients to make appointments for their transplants in the future, he said.

Growing grapes doesn't require a great deal of time, Brown said, but it requires a great deal of timeliness.

"If it quits raining today, you have to be available to go out and spray right now," he said. "Grapes require an extensive pest control program, and you have to be handy to do what needs doing at just the right time. You can be a part-time grape farmer, but you can't be a weekend grape farmer."

Brown said his experience shows that people who have grown grapes before in Kentucky tend to be successful, while newcomers to the vineyards often are not.

"They have no idea what diseases like black rot can do to them, and they tend to just let their spraying schedules slide a few days while they do something else. With grapes you have to spray before you see the damage. When you see the damage, the damage to your harvest is done."

That's another reason why Brown recommends farmers looking at the possibility of growing grapes as a supplemental income consider starting with just one or two acres. Eventually, he said, up to 20 acres ought to be a possibility.

New KET Series Looks At Chinese Customs

Sitting in a shady courtyard in a small rural Chinese village, an elderly peasant man points to a pair of toddlers. "That is my grandson. The other is my granddaughter. To give birth to a boy is a big happiness. To give birth to a girl is not exactly a big happiness, but a small happiness."

Though women have made tremendous advances in rural Chinese society, many traditional attitudes continue to shape life in the village of Long Bow, located 400 miles southwest of Peking.

KET will air "One Village In China" in three parts beginning Sunday, August 30 at 8 p.m.

"One Village In China" examines life in Long Bow through the eyes of the people who live, work, worship, and die there. Through the villagers' stories, viewers gain an appreciation of the mix of traditional and modern ideas that influence village life, including the practice of marriage, medicine, religion and agriculture.

That same evening, KET will present an encore "Masterpiece Theatre" presentation of "All For Love" which explores the power of love and the passion for power. "All For Love," a series of six weekly one-hour dramatizations, will begin airing Sunday, August 30 at 10:00 p.m.

"All For Love" reveals the most powerful of emotions—love—in all its different manifestations: from the passionate and ultimately destructive devotion that a woman can feel for an imaginary son, to the innocent affection of a young girl for a lonely invalid; from an imaginary idyll in the south of France, to a woman's growing fondness for her boarder.

"One Village In China" is a production of the Long Bow group and is presented by KQED/San Francisco. "Masterpiece Theatre" is a presentation of WGBH/Boston.

50th Anniversary

Gift Reporter Magazine Lauds Kentucky Crafts

Judging by their success at the recently completed New York Gift Show, Kentucky's crafts continue their winning ways on the national crafts promotion scene.

Gift Reporter magazine, in its August issue, lauded Kentucky's leadership in crafts promotion as well as their crafts, in both an editorial and an article.

"The spirit of the state comes through in virtually every medium...warm, well-made merchandise that you can count on. A lot like the people," noted Editor Adam Ash. "And, thanks to the efforts of Gov. Martha Layne Collins and her staff, Kentucky has garnered a well-deserved reputation for promoting traditional crafts that have wide-spread appeal for the wholesale marketplace." Added Ash, "What started in Bluegrass country has spread across America."

Kentucky, which had the largest number of crafts and craftspeople at the prestigious New York event, continues to expand its crafts industry. "This was our best show ever," said Crit Luallen, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of the Arts, which staffed a large display and coordinated the attendance of 15 of the state's top craft businesses.

Sharon Asher of Country Unlimited in London said that orders for her handmade rugs and placemats "doubled over February's show, and orders are still coming in. I'll have to hire more help." Splurtworks' colorful wearable art and Pauline and Donna's Quilts reported their biggest single order ever, and Gary Barker, Berea College Industries, noted that, "This is the best we've ever done in orders at the show. I think this was a great show for all of us."

Luallen and craftspeople at the show credit a lot of the upswing in business to Gov. Collins' personal efforts there. "She was in our booth area meeting people and talking crafts all afternoon," noted one Kentuckian. "From then on, the buyers swarmed in."

George Little Management, Inc., which sponsors this huge New York International Gift Fair, held a reception at New York's American Craft Museum to honor Gov. Collins for her continued support of the crafts industry all during her term in office.

Noted the Governor, "I'm very proud of our success at this show—our sixth. The craft industry continues to expand in Kentucky with direct sales at the previous five shows totalling over $1.5 million. That's an economic effort that deserves all our support."

This strong business impact of the industry—often in remote areas of the state—led Gov. Collins to institute a unique "Crafts Action Plan" that has spurred craftspeople into even better business methods and expanded returns on their work.

Karen Burnham began by herself making her whimsical wooden folk art at the kitchen table. She recently opened a retail shop in Bowling Green where she employs from four to five "helpers." Fran Redmon, manager of crafts marketing in the Department of the Arts, noted that many of the state's craftspeople who began alone or with just family now need from four to 12 craftspeople to help fill orders. "Crafting is a different type of business, but it can be a good one and one that helps the state," Redmon said.

At the recent show in New York, the Governor and Luallen met with a representative from the British Craft Council and discussed a possible craft exchange program. Publications like the British Craft magazine and Country Decorating Magazine expressed interest in featuring Kentucky crafts in future issues, and the entire nation caught a glimpse of Kentucky's colorful crafts on NBC's Today Show, when Willard Scott displayed a large basket of "Kentucky Goodies."

"Our success at the show and the many new craftspeople able to turn their work into paying businesses have convinced us that we're doing the right thing," said Luallen. Crafts will continue to be important to not only our heritage but to our economy as well."

Some Goods News About Leukemia

Leukemia is one of the most common cancers to strike children. It occurs when blood cells become malignant. Not long ago it was considered an unstoppable killer, but new anti-cancer drugs have resulted in long-term survival for the majority of leukemia's young victims.

Research still continues, however, in the hope of finding an even better cure. Current treatment sets out to destroy cancer cells. Unfortunately, it also destroys normal cells, producing unpleasant side effects.

Two scientists from the National Foundation for Cancer Research (NFCR) are working on opposite sides of the globe to discover a way to change malignant cells back into normal cells, instead of destroying them.

Dr. Hector DeLuca, a professor at the University of Wisconsin, became interested in vitamin D when it was found in Japan, that adding a vitamin D compound to cultures of leukemic cells caused the cells to change from malignant to benign.

Dr. DeLuca is screening a large number of vitamin D compounds to find the one that is safest for humans.

In Rehovot, Israel, Dr. Leo Sachs has proven that cancer cells are not irreversibly malignant. Cancerous cells can be coaxed back to normal, he says, by providing them with the right chemical environment.

Professor Sachs has already "cured" leukemia in the test tube without using poisonous chemicals. By adding colonies of various blood factors to leukemic cells, he transformed those cells back into normal blood cells.

The National Foundation for Cancer Research is a private, non-profit organization based in Bethesda, Md. With the help of donors nationwide, it has allocated more than $50 million to basic cancer research over the last decade.

Fugate is the son of Sharon Boyd, of Prestonsburg, and Homer Fugate, Jr., of Winchester.

Re-enactment of Mock Disaster Realistic at Our Lady of Way

Six-year-old Annie Hall's big brown eyes were full of tears. She hadn't drowned, but faking a drowning was frightening enough.

Annie, her brother, and eleven neighbors staged a mock disaster for Our Lady of the Way Hospital August 7, which was so real they scared themselves.

Annie was supposedly one of four youths involved in a boating accident at Dewey Lake during a church-sponsored picnic. As the story went, Annie nearly drowned.

Annie discovered that life-saving measures aren't necessarily comfortable.

"...I didn't like the board I had to lay on," said Annie. "They had a pillow but they didn't give it to me."

Annie said the ambulance crew was nice to her but some of the conversation made her uneasy.

"They said if I had really drowned, they would have had to put a big tube down my throat... it was white and it was shaped like a banana," she explained.

Things seemed very real when Annie was carried into the emergency room. "Dr. Martin was there and checked me with a stethoscope. A lady asked me questions. There was a nurse there too... They took oxygen and put it in my nose," said Annie in a tone which clearly communicated her dislike for the oxygen treatment.

The oxygen made Annie sneeze. The sneezes brought good-natured laughs from the nurses, but their laughs embarrassed Annie and hurt her feelings. Annie was cold and even though her neighbor, Linda Stephens, stayed by her side because she was scared, the tears rolled down her cheeks.

Seven-year-old Lola Collins faked inhalation of poisonous gases. She and her brothers allegedly mixed household chemicals in the toilet and were found unconscious by their mother. She said her experience of the disaster drill was "scary."

"I'd never been to the hospital before," said Lola. "They (the staff) thought it was real." Lola didn't like getting oxygen either.

Lola's eight-year-old brother, J.J., says he was "scared of the whole thing." "I thought they were really going to put me in the hospital... It felt like the real thing and they treated me like it was real."

John Collins, Lola and J.J.'s nine-year-old brother, was taken into the employee dining room which had been converted into an emergency treatment area.

"They took me into this room and it had this (portable) x-ray machine," said John. "The way it looked, it looked like they were going to operate... They put a liquid on my side... They put me on oxygen, really!... It felt cold. Everybody was nice but I was mostly afraid they were going to operate."

Eleven-year-old Diana Molden, the Collins' cousin, was in the same boating "accident" as Annie Hall and faked a head injury. She said the drill was scary for her because a needle almost hit her in the head. Her neck brace made her feel the bumps of the ambulance ride and like Annie, Diana would have liked a pillow.

"I really felt sick when the doctors asked me questions," said Diana. "I started feeling like I really had fallen out of a boat."

The "disaster" seemed real for the hospital's staff too. The convincing performances of the "disaster victims" and the drill's timing helped make it so.

Pregnant Ann Greene was so calm that, even though she was announced by secretary Diane Stacey as about to give birth, routine admission procedures were begun.

Daniel Collins, four-year-old brother of the Collins children, was so pale by watching the treatments given his sibings, that the attending nurse asked if he too had inhaled the poisonous gases. "I never" was his reply.

Admissions director Ruth Shelton remarked to public relations consultant Gwen Hall, "We didn't need this today. We already had a disaster on our hands. The trauma and emergency rooms were full."

"Didn't the blue food coloring we painted on their mouths give it away?" asked Hall, who'd been in on the disaster drill plans.

"Why, no," said Shelton, "the three little ones we carried in before you all had blue lips just like that. I'm concerned about them."

"Don't be," said Hall. They were part of the drill too."

The drill wasn't totally terrifying.

Lola Collins said, "The people were nice. They didn't give me a shot. I liked getting pushed in a wheelchair. It was the first time I rode in a wheelchair." J.J. Collins enjoyed fooling assistant engineer Cainer Hall who lives across the street from him.

"He had to crawl in the car and get me," said J.J. with an impish grin. J.J. and his brother, John, also liked the plums and pop which were part of the after-drill treats. Docia Molden said the eating was the best part.

Diana Molden said she would do it again as long as she wasn't "in a boating accident." Even Annie Hall conceded that the ambulance ride was fun. She's not sure whether she would do it again, however.

"First, I'll see what they'll have me do—if it's oxygen in my nose, I won't."

Sandy Collins, whose panicky phone call about her "unconscious children" put the mock disaster in motion, said she found the drill "interesting."

"I enjoyed seeing how fast they moved," she said, "and waiting for their reaction when the ambulances came."

The standards of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH) recommend that hospitals participate in two disaster drills each year. Our Lady of the Way Hospital has been fully accredited by JCAH since 1957.

Charm of Chesapeake Bay Subject on KET, Sept. 2

The Chesapeake Bay is known for its tranquility and its beautiful wildlife, flora and fauna. The seacoast community is reminiscent of a simpler life. What makes the Chesapeake Bay special?

"Chesapeake Borne," an encore presentation on the "National Geographic Specials," looks at the Bay and its hardy people when it airs Wednesday, September 2 at 8 p.m. on KET.

Life on Chesapeake Bay often centers around the Atlantic blue crab. Much of this, the Bay's bounty, is processed in Crisfield, Md., the self-proclaimed "crab capital of the world." Other Chesapeake Bay events highlighted include the Crab Derby, an annual summer ritual which includes an actual Hard Shell Crab race; a crab picking contest; and the Miss Crustacean beauty pageant.

"National Geographic Specials" is produced by WQED/Pittsburgh and the National Geographic Society.

Branham Enlists In U.S. Army

James A. Branham, of David, has enlisted in the United States Army and will receive training as a Bradley Fighting Vehicle System Mechanic. Branham was assisted in choosing a skill from among the many skills available in today's Army by SSG Robert Gordon, of the Prestonsburg recruiting office.

Branham is the son of Patricia Branham, of David, and attended Prestonsburg High School, graduating in 1987.

The 18-year-old, Floyd county resident decided to join the Army because "I got the job I wanted and I'm getting some good experience."

Branham will receive basic combat training at Ft. Dix, N.J., and advanced individual training at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Good Food, Good Health...

Salads: A Main Attraction

From the American Institute For Cancer Research

When it's just too hot to even think about turning on the stove or oven, it's time for the main-course salad alternative. Simple and cool, salads are also economical and nourishing.

The key to preparing a healthy main-course salad is to include all the nutrients you would include in a regular meal. With the variety of ingredients available, however, the combinations are almost limitless.

Especially nutritious in a main-course salad are vitamin-packed dark green and yellow-orange fruits and vegetables. Limited amounts of lean meat, fish, egg, cheese or nuts provide protein without going overboard on fat. Legumes are a great high-protein, lowfat salad ingredient. And don't forget the important fiber you can get from salads featuring brown rice, bulgur or other whole grains.

As with any salad, however, don't spoil the sound nutrition of lowfat ingredients with globs of fat-laden salad dressing. Often a simple splash of lemon, or a mixture of vinegar, oil (light on the oil) and fresh summer herbs are best; they allow the full flavor of your peak-season ingredients to come through.

Try these main-course ideas for salads that take center stage:

ORIENTAL-STYLE SEAFOOD SALAD

The mild ginger-style dressing is an excellent accent to this delicious, lowfat salad. It's complete, light meal in itself, but soup, rolls, fruit or dessert could be added for a more filling meal.

- 1 cup uncooked brown rice
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1/2 cup plain yogurt, lowfat
- 3 tbsp. cold water
- 1 1/2 tsp. soy sauce
- 3/4 tsp. garlic powder
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 3/4 tsp. ground ginger
- 2 cups cleaned, cooked shrimp
- 1 1/2 cups cut green beans (fresh, blanched, or frozen)
- 1 cup bean sprouts
- 1 cup red or green pepper, chopped

Bring rice, onion and 2 cups water to boil in medium saucepan; simmer 45 minutes or until rice is done. Meanwhile, combine yogurt, water, soy sauce, garlic powder, pepper and ginger in small bowl. Blend well and set aside.

When rice is done, stir in dressing, shrimp and vegetables. Toss lightly. Serve immediately or refrigerate until serving time.

This will give you about 4 servings of 2 1/2 cups. Each serving will contain only 2 grams of fat and about 202 calories.

This salad can be prepared more quickly without giving up wholegrain goodness by using 1 cup of millet or bulgur instead of the rice. Both will cook in about 20 minutes, but millet requires 2 1/2 cups of water, rather than the 2 cups for rice or bulgur. Other vegetables, such as broccoli, zucchini or snow peas, could be used instead of green beans.

CHICKEN AND ARTICHOKE HEART SALAD

Artichoke hearts add an elegant touch and delicious flavor to this chicken salad, perfect for a summer luncheon or light supper. Serve it with whole grain rolls or muffins and the meal is complete!

- 4 chicken legs or breast halves, skinned
  - 1 9-oz. package frozen artichoke hearts
  - 1/4 cup mayonnaise
  - 2 tbsp. skim milk
  - 1 tbsp. cider vinegar
  - 2 tsp. prepared mustard
  - 1/2 tsp. sugar
  - 1/8 tsp. ground red pepper
  - 1 4-oz. jar chopped pimientos, drained
  - 3/4 cup celery, chopped
- Place chicken in skillet or Dutch oven with 2 inches of water and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low and simmer, covered 25-30 minutes or until tender.

Meanwhile, prepare artichoke hearts as directed on package. Drain. Prepare dressing by using a fork to beat mayonnaise, milk, vinegar, lemon juice, mustard, sugar and red pepper in a small bowl.

When chicken can be handled, remove from bones and cut into bite-sized pieces. In large bowl, combine chicken, artichoke hearts, pimientos, celery and dressing. Toss gently. Serve, or cover and refrigerate until serving time.

This will yield 4 servings. If made with chicken breasts, each serving contains about 15 grams of fat and about 260 calories. If chicken legs are used there will be about 20 grams of fat and about 303 calories per serving.

Academics Not Advisable For Pre-School Children

As a record number of American 4-year-olds head off to school this fall, the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC) is advising against placing too heavy an emphasis on academic instruction in preschools.

"This year, for the first time, approximately half of the country's 4-year-olds will be enrolled in pre-school—that's a jump from 43% who were enrolled just four years ago," says Dr. David Elkind, NAEYC president. "Pre-school can be a wonderfully enriching experience when the program is specifically geared to this age group. Unfortunately, an increasing number of little children are being 'taught' as though they were in first or second grade, and that is totally inappropriate."

During the pre-school years, he notes, teachers should focus on helping children learn how to learn—how to pay attention, how to follow instructions, how to get along with other children, etc.

"At this age, children lack the social and mental development needed to profit from formal academic instruction. A heavy emphasis on it frustrates the child and weakens his curiosity and natural excitement for learning. Moreover, it consumes valuable hours when a child should be learning the skills that will permit him to be successful at home, at school, and with friends," Elkind says.

Elkind gives these examples of teaching practices which are appropriate for pre-schoolers and which parents should look for in selecting an early childhood program, whether pre-school, nursery school or kindergarten:

*When there is little, if any, use of ditto sheets, flashcards, and other rote-teaching materials. "At this age, children learn best by hands-on activities," Elkind says. "They will more quickly learn about 'three', for instance, by handing out three cupcakes to friends than by coloring in three balloons on a ditto sheet."

*When the teacher talks mostly to children individually rather than to the class as a whole.

*When children are allowed to select their activities from a variety of areas—like blocks, music, art, puzzles, etc.—rather than when the teacher initiates and directs all classroom activity.

*When vigorous outdoor activity is recognized as a valuable part of the child's learning experience, rather than as worthless play that interferes with instructional time.

*When children have ample opportunity to interact with other children in ways that help them learn to co-operate, negotiate, help, and solve problems rather than when they spend most of their time working individually at desks or tables.

Elkind said that parents may obtain more detailed information on what to look for in a pre-school by requesting NAEYC's free brochure, "Good Teaching Practices for 4 and 5-year-olds." Interested parents can write the NAEYC at 1834 Connecticut Avenue NW, Washington, D.C. 20009, and enclose a business-sized self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The NAEYC, founded in 1926, has 55,000 members across the United States. It is committed to improving the quality and availability of services for children from birth to age eight, the critical years of development.

Super Men, Women Sought To Help Foster Children

Faster than a speeding two-year-old! More powerful than a trio of siblings! Able to leap big problems for little people in a single bound!

Look—but not in the air, because it's not a bird or a plane. Look in the home, in fact in more than 2,600 Kentucky homes, and you'll find what Superman found when he first rocketed to Earth from the planet Krypton on the pages of D.C. Comics nearly a half century ago: foster parents!

That's the idea behind Kentucky's latest plan to recruit the thousands of temporary families required annually to provide shelter and care for children of broken homes, abused or neglected, in need of protection, guidance and love.

Anna Grace Day, commissioner of Kentucky's Department for Social Services, said the campaign, "Superman Had Foster Parents," is a cooperative effort of the state, D.C. Comics, Inc., and Warner Bros. Inc., the motion picture company with the current feature film "Superman IV."

"Recruitment of new foster families is critical if the state is to be successful in protecting and caring for children while attempting to reunite troubled families," Day said.

"With existing homes in short supply and more children in need of temporary shelter, our efforts to find more Kentuckians willing to open their homes must be continuous and creative.

"That's why we were so pleased when the ideas developed by our foster care recruitment staff received corporate approval from D.C. Comics and Warner Bros. in the use of the Superman theme," she said.

Corporate Superman designs were used by the department's artists in the pro-

Chamber Members Meet For Workers' Comp Talk

Members of the Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce and other area business people will attend one of 12 business caucuses conducted across the state at the Holiday Inn August 27 at 8 a.m. Burl Spurlock, president of the First Commonwealth Bank will be the host.

The meetings, conducted in conjunction with the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, will focus on the critical need for Kentucky legislators to change the state's workers' compensation laws.

"Our legislators need to focus on this issue," said Spurlock. "They need to give it their undivided attention in a special legislative session." Spurlock said the workers' compensation liability that Kentucky businesses face can't be ignored any longer. "We're increasingly less competitive when out-of-state companies are looking for new sites. And many companies already in Kentucky have a difficult time justifying the costs of expanding here versus opening facilities in another state."

Spurlock said the Governor's Task Force on Workers' Compensation spent more than a year addressing the issue. "They did a good job," he said. "It's time to put their recommendations to work." The task force was comprised of seven members of management and seven members of labor.

"They put forth some fair, far-reaching recommendations and it took a lot of compromising on both sides. We shouldn't let that hard work be wasted."

Similar meetings are being held in Ashland, Bowling Green, Elizabethtown, Hopkinsville, Lexington, Louisville, Madisonville, Covington, Owensboro, Paducah and Somerset, August 26 and 27.

duction of posters, bookmarks, magnets, bumper stickers and other materials. Some of the items will be given to visitors to the department's booth at the 1987 Kentucky State Fair.

Ann Cutler, a foster care specialist who is coordinating the project, said the State Fair was the perfect time and place to begin the enterprise.

"We're looking for families, and there's not a bigger family event in Kentucky than the State Fair," Cutler said. "We decided to get the 'Superman Had Foster Parents' theme before the public at the State Fair and then carry it on to all 120 counties through local foster care recruitment staff."

In addition to the tie-in of the mythical Kent family as Superman's foster parents, Cutler said the image of the Man of Steel fits that of foster parents.

"Superman protects the innocent and helps those in need," she said. "Foster mothers and fathers do the same thing for children who, for the most part, are not responsible for their state in life and desperately need a stable source of guidance and care.

"Superman and Social Services is a natural combination and none we hope to turn into a natural attention-getter for prospective foster families."

People interested in becoming foster parents or simply seeking to learn more about Kentucky's foster care program may call toll-free 1-800-232-5437.

Carol J. Rice-Bradley S. Borders

Carol J. Rice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Rice, of Eastern, and Bradley S. Borders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Borders, Jr., of Lebanon, were married July 25 at Southern Acres Christian Church in Lexington. Wally Rendel officiated at the ceremony.

The matron of honor was Melody Newton and the maid of honor was Betty Grey. Bridesmaids were Kris Calvert, Jami McCoy, and Vickie McDowell. The Jr. bridesmaid was Shannon Borders. The flower girl was Leslie McCoey. Best man was Robert J. Borders III. Ushers were Greg Sharp, Kenny Rice, Paul Southall, and Kenny Spalding. The ring bearers were Gennaro Galtieri, Jr., and Robert J. Borders IV.

The church was decorated with 200 candles and candelabra, four ficus trees, two topiary trees of pink and white roses, statice, and variegated fuchsia blossoms, garland roping on the choir rail and satin bows in shades of pink and white.

The bride chose a designer gown of white crystallized organza and schiffli lace. The white satin bodice featured a sweetheart neckline and schiffli lace encrusted with pearls and handbeaded sequins over the lace. The short puffed organza sleeves were off the shoulders in styling, and were detailed with a motif of imported schiffli lace in the center. The full bell skirt of organza fell to slipper length, and the full cathedral train was trimmed with an organza wired ruffle and schiffli lace motifs cascading down the train and around the border. The handmade headpiece was a double strand of sequins and pearls as a headband, the back a bountiful cascade of silk and pearl cora belles, sprays of pearls and organza tulle. The removable chapel length veil was also dotted with pearls, sequins, and silk cora belles which appeared to be flowing from the headpiece.

The bridesmaids wore complementary gowns of hot pink taffeta, which featured a bodice draping across to a self-fabric rose. The bodice featured short puffed sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. The skirts fell to slipper length over dyed-to-match shoes. The flower girl wore a dress of pale pink taffeta trimmed in hot pink.

The groom, groomsmen, and ring bearers wore black pinstripe tuxedos by Pierre Cardin.

The bridal bouquet was an elongated cascade of fresh stems of white dendrobium orchids from Thailand, bridal white roses, several gardenias, freesia from Holland, babies breath, clusters of pearls and silk cora belles.

The bridesmaids carried crescent cascade bouquets of fresh hot pink and white stargazer lilies, stems of variegated dendrobium orchids, purple statice, pink mini carnations, royalty roses, and babies breath. Hairpieces of statice, babies breath, orchids and roses adorned their hair. The flower girl wore a circlet of silk flowers in the colors of the bridesmaids flowers.

Following the ceremony and church reception, there was a private reception at the Headley-Whitney Museum. Music was provided by the Greg Austin Band.

After a wedding trip to the Bahamas, Mr. and Mrs. Borders are residing in Lexington.

Study Shows College Life

With tuitions at new highs, with success in college more than ever linked to success in life, choosing the right college is a consuming yet bewildering concern for today's students and their parents.

But the time is now for next year's would-be-freshmen—the time when they need to think seriously about what college to attend in September, 1988. How can they make a wise choice?

In his study, College—The Undergraduate Experience in America, Foundation President Ernest L. Boyer offers advice on what matters need most consideration before deciding on a particular institution to attend. Former Chancellor of the State University of New York, and former U.S. Commissioner of Education, he wrote the report based on site visits to 29 institutions and surveys of more than 12,000 faculty, undergraduates, parents, and high school seniors.

In a concluding section of the study, entitled "A Guide to a Good College," Boyer lists dozens of practical and searching questions, often overlooked, that students and their parents should be asking before making a final choice. Among them:

•Does the college present itself honestly in promotional material and recruitment methods? Are the criteria used in selecting students clearly described?

•If test scores are required for admission, does the college actually use the results and also make available not just the average scores, but the number of students admitted by quartile, so that the range of students' aptitudes can be taken into account?

•Is the freshman year viewed as something special? Does the college offer a well-planned orientation program?

•Is the faculty available to freshmen to talk about their disciplines, and do faculty give guidance to young students as they consider choices for careers?

•What has been the retention rate of the college during the past five years? Does the college have a program to help identify students who are having problems and give them guidance?

•Does the college give priority to language? Is the reading and writing ability of each student carefully assessed at the time he or she enrolls?

•Does the major not only allow the student to explore a subject in depth, but also to put such study in perspective, providing social, historical, and ethical context?

•Is priority given to the required lower-division courses? Is teaching more than lecturing? Are undergraduate courses taught by the most gifted and respected teachers?

•Is the library more than a study hall? Are students encouraged to spend at least as much time with library resources as they spend in classes?

•Are there well-supported campus-wide activities—lectures, symposia, debates, concerts, and the like—that encourage community, sustain college traditions, stimulate both social and intellectual interaction?

•Does the college actively promote a broad intramural sports program for all students?

•Do college administrators back local and state laws regarding the use of drugs and alcoholic beverages?

•Are commuters simply tolerated or are they fully-fledged members of the community? Does the college meet the needs of such students by providing them first-rate education, social and recreational services?

These, then, are among the enormous range of questions contained in the College guide—ones that students and their parents should be seeking answers to when they visit or contact prospective colleges.

College, published by Harper & Row, may be ordered by calling a toll-free number: 1-800-638-3030, or by writing Harper & Row, Publishers, Inc., 10 East 53rd Street, New York, N.Y. 10022. There is a charge for the study.

What is Head Start?

Head Start is a federally funded child development program serving 4-year-old children from low income families. Head Start programs operate under annual grants from the Department of Health and Human Services/Administration for Children, Youth and Families. Program staff plan Head Start activities and services with the assistance of parents and area residents. They also work with other community agencies to ensure that children and families receive needed services.

The goal of Head Start is to break the cycle of poverty by working with children and the strengthening the family unit.

Head Start is a comprehensive program which involves parents and the community in four component areas: Education, Health, Social Services and Parent Involvement.

The Education component provides a learning environment which helps children develop socially, intellectually, physically, and emotionally in a manner appropriate to their age and stage of development. An individualized approach is taken toward assessing a child's needs and designing a daily program that will respond to those needs. The parent is encouraged to be an integral part of the child's learning process.

Head Start provides a comprehensive health program to promote preventive health services and early intervention. The child's family is provided with the necessary skills and insight to link the family to an on-going health care system to insure continued comprehensive health care. Head Start health services to pre-school children included medical and dental exams and screening, complete nutrition services and mental health services.

Services for children identified as handicapped include outreach and recruitment screening for possible handicaps, professional diagnosis of handicapping conditions, development and implementation of Individual Education Plan (IEP), transition into local school districts.

Parents are an essential part of the Head Start program since they are active participants in classroom and parent group activities, in their child's growth and in the program planning and decision making process.

Head Start Social Services, involves serving as an advocate for Head Start families, counseling, referrals, and assisting families in becoming aware of community resources to improve the condition and quality of family life.

Parents may volunteer time in the classroom, office, or assist in program administration. Senior citizens may volunteer time as story tellers; service clubs may donate time, services or materials; and community leaders may serve as Board or Policy Council Members. Health workers may provide services or their expertise as Health Advisory Council members.

Everyone can find some way to be a part of the Head Start program. For further information contact the Floyd County Head Start Program at 886-1986.
