

CLEARING OF GROUNDS on the Mitchell property at Hi Hat, where the new McDowell-Wheelwright High School is expected to be built, has begun prior to surveying work.

22nd Highlands Folk Festival Begins Friday at State Park

Plaintive ballads and lively tunes of the Appalachian mountains will be only a part of the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival to be held for the 22nd year this weekend at the Jenny Wiley State Park Amphitheatre, its parking area, and spilling over to the lodge area with a writers' workshop and Saturday's Shade Tree Pickin'. There will be storytellers, poets, square dancers and cloggers as well as those skilled in arts and crafts, all with the common goal of preserving the cultural heritage of the mountains.

Artists and craftsmen will demonstrate their art and products of their skill on the amphitheatre parking lot beginning at noon Friday and continuing through Sunday until 3 p.m. Exhibited will be heirloom quality quilts, wood carvings, custom furniture, paintings, hooked and woven runs—a treasure of hand-made articles.

One of the most distinctive of these craftsmen is Lyndall Toothman, whose forte is taking fibers no one else has worked with and spinning them into yarn. These include dog hair of which she has made more than one coat, cat, camel, llama, elephant, and human hair. She has been called "The fabulous Granny Toothman" by Country Living magazine and now lives at Morehead, teaching at Morehead State University.

Founded in 1966 by Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James, nationally known for her work in preserving the purest forms of music of the Appalachian mountains, the festival has grown each year until it too has gained widespread acclaim.

Mrs. Kathryn Frazier, who is now director, said this week that barring the caprices of the weather, this should be the finest festival to date.

In addition to favorite veteran performers, this year there will be present composer/musician John Riggs, the International Folk Dancers, and even a performance of the Highland Fling.

Evening programs will begin at 6 p.m., both Friday and Saturday, with Sunday's concluding program of the beautiful hymns of the region beginning at 5 p.m.

Friday evening's entertainment will be led off by a performance by The Festival Band, followed by Posting of the Colors by members of the Job Corp Center and "The Star Spangled Banner" sung by John Skaggs. The Elkhorn Grass Band will then liven things up as will John Riggs followed by Homer Ledford and the Cabin Creek Band. There will be fine pickin' and singin' from Roger Smith, singer/guitarist; Betty Rowland and L.B. Fairchild; Dave Sizemore on the fiddle and John McCoy, mandolin; the Bottom of the Barrell Bunch, and Marcus Owens. The Kentucky Heritage Dancers will perform, and at the conclusion of the evening, the audience will be invited to join performers in a spirited dance directed by Kelver Stiltner.

Saturday evening's festivities will again be opened by The Festival Band and the Hillbilly Square Dancers. Posting of the Colors will be by Boy Scouts led by James M. Goble. Congressman Chris Perkins will give the welcome, and then will follow John Skaggs with Tony Maynard, and line clogging by the Kentucky Heritage Dancers. Marie Howard Bailey will

Month-Long Search Ends In Capture

(State police officers late yesterday afternoon (Tuesday) took Wiley Keith Pennington into custody after an auto chase on Left Beaver. He was brought to the county jail, here, around 6 p.m.)

Residents of the Wheelwright area spent another uneasy week as the search continues for Wiley Keith Pennington, accused of robbery and parole violation.

Pennington, 23, was paroled for the robbery of a Weeksbury man and now faces a second robbery offense and parole violation.

The fugitive, a native of Wheelwright area, continues to elude law enforcement officials, who have conducted a month long search to determine his whereabouts. Deputy Sheriff Harold Johnson says Pennington knows the hills and how to survive, adding that Penn-

Allen Central Parents Protest Leaking Roof

About 50 concerned parents of Allen Central High school students attended last Wednesday night's Board of Education meeting, to voice concern about the leaky roof and the general disrepair of the building.

The problem of the leaky roof has plagued the school since its construction in 1974, with several unsuccessful attempts made to solve the problem with patch jobs.

One parent, Bruce Scott, drew applause when he told the board that the era of the buckets and barrels was over. Another Barbara Yates, said that the school didn't need a patch job, but a new roof and demanded that the board allot money to allow its construction. Superintendent Ray Brackett told the assembly that the money was not in the budget to replace the faulty roof but that he would see that it was repaired and conditions safe before the children were allowed to return to school. He told the group that a Lexington architect, Paul Haupmann, would inspect the roof with infrared to see that there were no leaks.

Concerned parents claimed that water was standing in the ceiling lights, dripping from them in the school kitchen, and that ceiling tiles have collapsed with the expanding insulation resembling straw. Another concern voiced by the parents is the rundown condition of school facilities.

Superintendent Brackett said that a contract had inspected roofs of county schools last spring and concluded that it would cost $150,000 to implement the needed repairs. He said the contractor had recommended that the Allen Central roof needed work done on the edges and also around all vent outlets.

Supt. Brackett drew applause from the assembly when he pledged that no more flat roofs would be constructed on school buildings during his tenure.

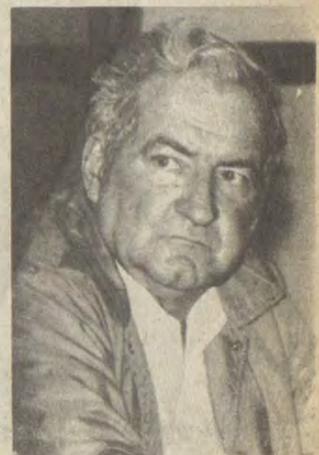

Another item on the Board's agenda was a proposal to increase the general fund tax from 32.4 cents to 40.0 cents for the fiscal year 1987-'88. Supt. Brackett said that more money was needed because of the increase in expenses for maintenance of schools and said the board will hold a public hearing to discuss the tax, September 23, at 7 p.m.

Another request brought before the board was a teacher's grant program. The program is designed to provide mini-grants for teachers to conduct creative and innovative programs in their classrooms.

Brackett recommended to the board that brush cutting and bulldozing begin on the Left Beaver site of the new high

Begins Serving Term

E. Caudill

Although the appeal of Eddie Caudill, magistrate of District 3, has not been heard, he began serving a one-year sentence for forgery in the county jail, here, yesterday (Tuesday).

Caudill's attorney, Ned Pillersdorf, said that he asked for a delay in order to appeal his client's case, but Pike county Judge Will T. Scott turned down the request and ordered Caudill to begin serving his sentence as scheduled.

In the meanwhile, Caudill will remain magistrate of District 3 as long as his appeal is pending.

Skilled Panel To Conduct Student Writers Workshop

Floyd high school students learning to hone their writing skills will have another chance next week to see some accomplished writers in action. May Lodge will be the setting, Monday, for the county's second Student Writers' Workshop.

About 200 English and social studies students selected from all five county high schools will hear Georgia educator Eliot Wigginton, founder and editor of the celebrated Foxfire series. Returning for a second visit is novelist and short-story writer Gurney Norman, a participant in the first student writers' workshop last year and a longtime sponsor of young Appalachian authors.

The panel of writers will include east Kentucky poet Al Stewart, essayist Loyal Jones, playwright and actress Angie DeBord, and newspaper publisher

Al Smith. Also appearing in the tightly-packed, one-day program are folklorist Alice J. Kinder, documentary filmmaker Ann Johnson, and journalists Lee Mueller, Barbara Justice, and Homer Marcum.

Sponsored by the School-Community Partnership Committee—itsself an arm of the Floyd County Education Forum, a citizens' group promoting educational reform—the workshop is benefiting this year from a state Department of Education grant. The school district was awarded the grant to help sustain a student literary magazine, Mountain Magic, now in its third year of publication. Organizers hope Monday's workshop will encourage high school authors to write for the magazine.

"At the core of the current approach to the teaching of writing," said Carol Stumbo, Wheelwright High School English instructor and coordinator of the state-funded student writing project, "is the belief that students need to have exposure to real writers." The project is designed to reach students in grades 7-10 who do not have well-developed writing skills, she said.

Besides Stumbo, those organizing the May Lodge workshop include Allen Central High School English teacher, Patricia Watson, coordinator of Mountain Magic; McDowell High School principal, Gary Frazier; teachers, Jody Blackburn and Judy Slone, (Allen Central), Willie Elliott (McDowell), Shirlene Hamilton and Doris Osborne (Wheelwright), Shirley Harmon and Thelma Spears (Betsy Layne), and John N. Patton (Prestonsburg); Asst. Superintendent Ron Hager; Jean Rosenberg, coordinator of the Floyd County Education Forum; Dolores Smith and Freddie Goble, of FCEF's School-Community Partnership Committee.

Gurney Norman and Eliot Wigginton will open the workshop program, which begins at 9 a.m. Norman, who is writer-in-residence at the University of Kentucky, came to national attention with the publication of "Divine Right's Trip," which first appeared in The Last Whole Earth Catalog. He is the author of Kinfolks, a series of short stories, among other works. Wigginton's acclaimed Foxfire series came out of an experiment begun 20 years ago, when the North Georgia language arts instructor sent his students out of the classroom to

Stumbo Opposes Consolidation; Favors Renovation of Buildings

"I have long been an opponent of the concept of consolidation."

Thus State Representative Greg Stumbo has come out and said what some others have voiced and many have thought. He questions the wisdom of consolidation of schools as a policy for all education systems, particularly those in rural areas such as Floyd county.

Although the Mitchell property site for the new McDowell-Wheelwright High School has been given the nod by both the architect, and the board, Stumbo has asked for an on-site inspection by Superintendent of Instruction Alice McDonald. In a letter to her, dated September 1, he cites the controversy over the location of the Left Beaver school, saying, "Prior to making a decision (on the site) I would formally request that you personally tour the area and make an on-site examination of the proposals."

Assistant Superintendent Ron Hager said Tuesday that it is his understanding that the Hi Hat site has been approved by the Division of Buildings and Grounds, as well as the State Board of Education.

Rep. Stumbo, who is also House Majority Floor Leader, in his letter to McDonald also pointed out that he and other members of the House are now formulating legislation to be taken before the 1988 General Assembly which would allow "new construction monies to be spent to remodel and revitalize existing facilities." This would mark a major change away from consolidation which has held sway in educational circles for several decades.

Stumbo said Tuesday that he believes there is a compelling need to seriously explore the possibility of using new funds to completely renovate present structurally sound buildings. "I sincerely believe that the money might be better spent in the manner I have suggested," he said.

Thirteen years ago when Allen Central High School was built, it had been preceded by several suits filed to prohibit the closing of Martin High School.

In the past year, there has been much discussion of the site for a grade school planned for elementary students of the Wayland-Garrett section of Right Beaver, although this has been mild in comparison with the sometimes heated disagreement among Left Beaver residents as to the location of the consolidated high school to be built in that area. Opposing views have been presented before the school board, in advertisements and letters to The Times. One school board meeting was picketed.

Speaking of this and other consolidation efforts in the county, Stumbo said, "The issue confronting Left Beaver is one that we have faced before in this county concerning dissension between communities over consolidation. In rural Kentucky, I think this is a very sensitive issue."

DUI Offenders Get Essay Assignments As Part of Penalty

If you were a poor student in school, you'd better watch your step in Floyd county, because District Judge Harold Stumbo has been handing out essay assignments to first time DUI offenders.

Judge Stumbo wants to put some bite into the law and allow first time DUI violators the opportunity to contemplate their downfall and perhaps not make the same mistake again.

Last week the Judge sentenced one man to write a 1,000-word report and has given the same assignment to Jerry Kidd, convicted yesterday of driving a school bus while under the influence of alcohol.

Judge Stumbo has designated the subject of the essay to be "Why I Should Not Drive While Drunk," and hopes it will make would-be offenders think twice before getting behind the wheel.

Bus Driver Arrested On DUI Charge

A report received Friday afternoon at the Floyd County Sheriff's office led to the arrest of a school bus driver on Cow Creek for DUI.

Jerry Kidd, 39, of Minnie, was arrested by officers who stopped the bus and was charged with drunk driving, after children who had been on the bus told parents of the driver's condition. When Kidd was pulled over by deputies Roy Blackburn and John K. Blackburn, he still had approximately 30 children on the bus, and Deputy John Blackburn said some of the children were scared and crying when the bus was pulled over.

After Kidd's arrest, he was given a breath analysis test, registering a .19. The deputies said that another driver was dispatched to the scene to take the remaining passengers home although many of the parents had come for their children.

Kidd, who was lodged in the Floyd county jail, pleaded guilty to the DUI charge before District Judge Harold Stumbo who imposed a $200 fine 30-day jail term, the maximum sentence for a first-time DUI offense.

A spokesman for the county Board of Education said that Kidd is no longer employed by the board.

A SPINNER OF YARN AND OF YARNS, Granny Toothman will demonstrate her skill at the 22nd Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival this weekend at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Census Bureau To Collect Data Here

The Census Bureau will collect data on employment and unemployment from area residents the week of September 14-19, according to William F. Hill, director of the bureau's Charlotte regional office.

The local data will contribute to September's national labor force picture to be released October 2nd by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The April through June data showed a national civilian unemployment rate of 6.2 percent for the second quarter of this year. This is the lowest quarterly unemployment rate since the first quarter of 1980.

The Census Bureau's monthly Current Population Survey includes a national sample of some 57,000 households and is sponsored by the Bureau of Labor Statistics primarily to gather employment and unemployment data. Information supplied by individuals is kept confidential by law. Only statistical totals are published.

This week's "Healthy Ways" program discusses alcohol use, alcohol abuse and treatment programs for alcoholics. The film will air Thursday at 7:00 p.m. on WPRG-TV, Channel 5 on Tel-Com cable system.

Local Station Makes Switch To Rock Music

Now, there's a choice for Floyd county radio listeners.

Beginning today (Wednesday), WDOC-AM is switching from its country format to classic rock. Station manager Kurt Pickering said the change is designed to appeal to young adults and teenagers, particularly.

Though much of the new programming will originate in New Orleans, it will all be broadcast live. Listeners will even be able to call in requests using a local phone number which will connect callers, free of charge, with the New Orleans station.

The new format of the classic rock has been tagged "Pure Gold."

Capacity Crowd Hears Exile at Center Stage

By Mike Brugh

The country band Exile entertained a capacity crowd at Center Stage, Tuesday night, September 1. The former pop group performed a multitude of chart-topping tunes, including their No. 1 hit single "She's Too Good To Be True."

Leading off with "She's A Miracle," "Woke Up In Love," and "Hang On To Your Heart," Exile performed a virtual "Greatest Hits" concert, which yielded continuous applause from the audience. Their songs weren't limited to past hits, however, as they also introduced their newest collaboration, "Feel Like Fooling Around." Concluding the set with "She's Too Good To Be True" and "I Could Get Used To You," the group was quickly called back for an encore which consisted of a medley of song hits made famous by other artists: "Take Me Down," "The Closer You Get" (Alabama) and "It Ain't Easy" (Janie Fricke). Pop music fans of the earlier version of Exile weren't to be disappointed, either, as they ended their show with their huge 1978 hit, "Kiss You All Over."

J.P. Pennington, guitarist and lead singer, formed the band (originally called The Exiles) back in 1963 "to have something to do on the weekends," he recalls. He and four high school buddies played school dances, parties and fairs throughout Kentucky, performing locally at Prestonsburg Community College, the Martin Youth Center, and at Paintsville's Apple Festival. "We weren't playing to make any money. We hadn't thought of that yet...it was just a way to express ourselves and have a good time," said Pennington.

By the late 70's, Exile had reached the top of the pop charts with "Kiss You All Over," and a Gold (selling 900,000 units) album, Mixed Emotions. Disenchanted with the direction American pop music seemed to be heading, Exile returned to Lexington and began sharpening their country music skills as well as shifting personnel within the band.

After renaming themselves "Exile" and playing countless club dates as a country band, Exile was released in 1983. Public response to the album was enthusiastic, enabling it to produce three hit singles, two of them rising to the top position.

Today they are among a select number of groups that are routinely nominated for the CMA (Country Music Association) awards: Vocal Group of the Year (1985, 1986, 1987) and Instrumental Group of the Year (1985). Contributing to these achievements are Pennington; Sonny Lemaire; Les Taylor, co-lead vocalist and rhythm guitarist; Steve Goetzman on drums; and Exile's newest addition, Lee Carroll, on keyboards and background vocals.

The concert was co-sponsored by WMDJ-FM100, Martin, and the owners of Center Stage: Clyde Woods, Earl Mulkey and The Full House Band. The latter are mainstays in the music scene around Eastern Kentucky in their own right, performing a mix of country, pop and dance music for about nine years, and serving as the opening act for Exile, Tuesday night. Currently, they have plans to release an album which drummer Kenny Bentley describes as "country rock," and hopes this will stimulate more interest in the music scene in the area. "Foghat was the first big rock'n roll band to play in Eastern Kentucky," Bentley said, referring to the band's July concert at Center Stage. Along with Exile, Bentley feels that these bands are beginning to reach a market for big-name entertainment that, until recently, has been largely untapped. He expects to have more fall shows planned, owing in part to audiences' enthusiastic reception.

make a banjo ring, and Patty Ann Hill will perform a Highland Fling and single sword. Ron Dobler will entertain with storytelling and banjo pickin' with The Boys from Middle Creek picking up where he leaves off. There will be two performances by the International Folk Dancers directed by Carol Prietz and entertainment by Jonda Poynter and Rob McNurlin, after which Dianna Donahoe will sing, and there will be a Scottish Country Waltz with Linda Means and Ted Hill. As on Friday the audience will again have an invitation to join in a concluding dance.

The Sunday program will be devoted to religious music with the invocation given by the Rev. Wayne Burch, First Church of God, Little Paint. The Rhythmic Choir of the First United Methodist Church, here, will sing The One Hundred Twenty-first Psalm. There will be group singing led by the Rev. Tim Jessen, with David Leslie, pianist. The Wesley Bell Choir directed by Elizabeth L. Frazier will perform and there will be lining of hymns by Rev. and Mrs. Jack DeRossett. Founder of the festival, Mrs. Edith F. James, will present Gregorian Chants and the Foot Washing Song, followed by shaped note singers, James and Virginia Goble. Betty Rowland and L.B. Fairchild will perform 'Wayfaring Stranger,' and The Boys from Middle Creek will play favorite hymns.

Newer forms of religious music will be presented by the choir of the First Church of God of Little Paint, directed by Jerry Meek, and by The String Town Gospel Five.

In review, it seems a three-day program designed to delight those who feel a twinge of nostalgia for the way it used to be.

Hitch Hiking Proves Chancy for Ohio Man

Hitchhiking near Glyn View plaza proved the undoing of an Ohio man, after he caught a ride to the Floyd county jail.

Mark Milburn, 23, of Delaware, Ohio, stood by the road with his thumb out hoping to get a ride to Magoffin county where he was staying. Instead, he was picked up by Sheriff Henry C. Hale and lodged in the Floyd county jail. Milburn was charged with AI and is also being held for extradition to Ohio.

Ohio is seeking to extradite Milburn for the alleged kidnapping of a Delaware man.

Sheriff Hale said that at first the prisoner did not recognize him and offered to take him to a party. He said that when Milburn got in the car he was in good if not 'high' spirits and set two full cans of beer on the seat. A call over the car radio first alerted the prisoner to his predicament, and he told the sheriff that he did not wish to go in the direction he was headed.

Milburn was taken to Ohio yesterday (Tuesday) where he will face kidnapping charges.

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: My youngest sister has been diagnosed as having melanoma of the skin. I have been told it might be hereditary. Is this true? Do I need to be concerned for myself and other members of my family? What should we look for? How can we protect ourselves?

ANSWER: Recent studies have shown that certain families may be at higher risk of developing malignant melanoma. In these families, the condition that seems to be inherited is one of developing a typical nevi (moles). This condition, called dysplastic nevus syndrome (DNS), precedes melanoma in only 20-35 percent of newly diagnosed patients. DNS is characterized by the presence of a large number of unusual looking moles. These moles suggest abnormal growth patterns which are more likely to lead to melanoma than ordinary moles.

Dysplastic moles are different from ordinary moles in the following ways. Most people have between 10 and 40 moles on their bodies; a person with DNS usually has many moles, often more than 100. Most normal moles are symmetrical (one side looks the same as the other), are small, have even edges, and are uniform in color—usually brown or tan. Dysplastic moles tend to be irregular in shape, large (bigger than an eraser on a pencil), and may have uneven borders or notches. These moles may have varied mixtures or shades of color—tan, brown, black, red or pink.

Be assured that while a dysplastic nevus is the type of mole more likely to become cancer, the majority of them will never become cancer. In most cases, only those moles which look suspicious, new moles, or moles that are changing will need to be removed. When a person who has DNS is followed closely, changes which might indicate a problem are readily found at an early stage when simple surgical removal can provide a cure.

For more information on Melanoma, call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER or write McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Cancer Information Service.

Laying Groundwork For "Superdrugs"

By Jeff Yocum
Drugs that stay one step ahead of resistant bacteria are still a thing of the future.

But University of Louisville biologist Michael Perlin is laying the groundwork for their creation. He has isolated a protein responsible for making bacteria resistant to amino glycosides, a group of drugs formerly used to treat infections in critically ill patients.

Doctors curbed the use of amino glycosides about five years ago when they began to lose effect.

Perlin is changing the genetic structure of the bacteria to produce an altered protein, then will treat the bacteria with a stronger drug to push it to the limits of its resistance.

Scientists someday may be able to use the technique to create drugs that will outpace the bacteria's defense for years,

Hip-bone Nail May Shorten Hospital Stay

By Krissie Krueer

A European device largely ignored by U.S. surgeons is shortening hospital stays for hip-fracture patients at the University of Louisville.

U of L researchers David Seligson and Stephen Henry, one of only a handful of orthopedic teams in the nation to use the Kuntscher Y-Nail, said it allows patients to stand up the day after their operation.

Patients with hip fractures who don't get Y-Nails spend an average two weeks in bed, Seligson said.

Used in Germany for over 40 years, the scoop-shaped component is driven into the neck of the femur, or thigh bone. An interlocking nail is inserted through the dow shaft of the femur.

"It hurts less, there is less bleeding and fewer complications," Seligson said.

Fear of Failure Leads to Delay

By Thelma Wyland

Most procrastinators have spent years learning to put things off. But facing the reasons for the habit can help you overcome it, says a University of Louisville psychologist.

Paul Simon says many people put things off because they fear failure.

"Postponing an assignment to the last minute allows people to rationalize their failures by saying they could have done better if they had more time," he said.

Others use delays to resist someone or something they don't want to confront.

Breaking projects into smaller units that are easier to accomplish and scheduling enough time to finish are helpful in fighting the procrastination urge, he suggests.

It's tough to find good household help these days—but not for some owls. According to International Wildlife magazine, Texas screech owls capture blind snakes and carry them to their nests. The snakes, which normally live underground and feed on termite larvae, help rid the nests of insects that parasitize young birds. Apparently the housecleaning pays off. Biologists found that young owls in nests with snakes grew faster and had a lower mortality rate than those in snakeless nests.

Handgun/Firearms Laws

By Attorney General David L. Armstrong

Many Kentuckians own one or more firearms including handguns, rifles or shotguns. Therefore, it is important to know the state and federal law governing the use of these weapons.

Federal law governs mainly the sale of firearms by dealers. It also mandates that no one under 21 years of age may purchase a handgun or handgun ammunition. It further stipulates that no one under 18 may purchase shotguns or rifles or ammunition for these firearms.

Kentucky's laws deal mainly with actual possession of firearms. For instance, it is a crime for a firearm to be carried concealed on or about a person. This crime is a misdemeanor, unless committed by a person previously convicted of a felony involving a deadly weapon, in which case it is a felony. Under law, any person convicted of a felony in Kentucky is not allowed to carry a firearm.

In Kentucky it is also illegal to intentionally deface a firearm or knowingly possess a defaced firearm without reporting it to the police. This crime is also a misdemeanor.

For further information concerning laws pertaining to firearms write the Attorney General's Office, Capitol Building, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 or call (502) 564-7600.

Roadside Theater Schedules New Show

Roadside Theater will perform Leaving Egypt, a new dramatic musical written by company member Ron Short, at the Appalshop Theater in Whitesburg, Friday, September 11, at 8 p.m. This will be the first formal, local performance of the new show.

Leaving Egypt tells the story of a mountain family facing the loss of their ancestral homeplace. The characters are a grandfather, who follows the old ways and is a master spinner of tales, a granddaughter recently returned to the mountains from hard times in a big mid-western city, and a nephew just back from combat duty in Vietnam.

The show is filled with dramatic action, vital storytelling, and original music that ranges from rock and roll ballads to mountain fiddle tunes.

Author Ron Short, who also performs in Leaving Egypt, says of the Whitesburg performance, "I hope folks will come out, watch the show, and tell us what they think. We travel all over the country performing, but the home audience is the most important audience to us."

Also performing in the show are long-time Roadside storyteller and musician Tommy Bledsoe from Scott county, and newcomer Kim Neal Cole from Big Stone Gap.

Seating is limited, so make reservations for Leaving Egypt early by calling Jerri at Appalshop (606) 633-0108.

Farm Children Feel Stress, Too As Way of Life Is Threatened

Carefree. That's the way life should be for children. Unfortunately, however, many farm family children experience much of the same stress as their parents when caught in the midst of the farm crisis.

"A great deal of attention has been focused on the stress felt by the farm couple," said Gary Hansen, University of Kentucky Extension specialist in sociology, "but little has been focused on their children who also may be feeling anxiety, anger and fear."

The farm crisis directly touches the lives of many youth in that it is more likely to affect younger farmers whose children probably still live at home.

"These children may experience both anger and fear," said Hansen. "They see but may not understand fully what is happening to their family, especially in times of severe financial distress. Farm children may become mad at or blame either the bank or their own parents for the situation. On the other hand, the children may worry about their parents as they see how the crisis is affecting them."

Children also may experience sadness over things lost or potentially lost. The farm may be just as large a part of the child's world as it is the parents'. One of the things farm children may lose is their own opportunity to go into farming. Their career dreams may be lost.

Both adults and children withdrew socially when experiencing stress, Hansen said. Farm children may withdraw from friends. They may drop out of extracurricular activities at school or through other organizations. In addition, such children have been found to have more physical illness and academic problems.

Hansen said there are a number of ways both parents and other adults can help farm children manage during the current crisis.

Children's fear and bewilderment often are the products of ignorance about the situation. Parents need to realize that they cannot hide the family's problems from the children. Children can tell when their parents are tense, worried and experiencing stress. Problems need to be approached as a family. Children should be included, even in the pain, on a level they can understand.

All adults can attempt to help children look to the future with hope and self-confidence. The current crisis threatens many children's "life dreams." They may need help in finding new ones.

Since parents often are preoccupied during stressful periods, other adults need to reach out to the children in their communities.

"Above all," Hansen said, "adults can listen to children's ideas and feelings. They need to know that someone cares and understands."

"What is true by lamplight is not always true in the sunshine." Joseph Joubert

Rev. 18:1 (A Cloud of Heaven)
6:2 Matt. 26:64

THE HEAVENS AND THEIR PEOPLE

(And God breathed into his nostrils the breath of life and man became a living soul. Gen. 2:7)

Now notice Adam didn't have a carnal body, he didn't have a judgment body, he only had his soul body, he didn't need the other bodies, he hadn't failed yet.

In a vision I saw a man in the kingdom, that mans reward was to carry the book, and if there is any jealousy in the kingdom it will be over that man getting to carry that book.

And when a problem came up in the kingdom that the people didn't know how to solve, then it would be taken up with the Godhead and what ever they decided would appear in that book, then the man carrying the book would go show it to the one that was responsible to the Lord, and he would have it published so everyone would know what the Godhead had decided about their problem.

And when I was shown that book in that vision, the man carrying the book showed me what had appeared in that book concerning all the different churches.

And I wrote down what had appeared in that book, and those words affected me so much that I would go read them several times a day.

I published that writing that appeared in that book.

The article is called "CHURCH NAMES" And when I read that article I can see the great love and compassion God has on man down here in his ignorance and confusion.

That the Godhead would judge those churches that man had established and set them in order according to their obedience.

And then the Godhead reaffirmed what the name of the true church is.

And then without saying goodbye, they cut off all the other churches from any more contact with the Godhead.

(St. John 7:37) In the last day, the great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried.

On the last day of the feast of ingathering, I am usually given a vision that afternoon and showed something that happens in the spirit world that day.

And if you will study the articles I wrote, you will find that some of the big things that I wrote about happening in the spirit world, happened on that day, or was set in motion that day, and I was given a vision a day of two later of what it was.

(Acts 18:21) I must by all means keep this feast that cometh—in Jerusalem. A.D. 54.

(Acts 27:9) Fast was now already past. A.D. 67.

(Acts 20:16) Paul hasted that he might be in Jerusalem by the day of Pentecost. A.D. 59.

(I Cor. 16:8) But I will tarry at Ephesus until Pentecost. A.D. 59.

Jan Hunt, a recent Pikeville College graduate, placed 10th in the National Phi Beta Lambda competitions in Anaheim, California, earlier this month. Hunt was among 65 representatives who took part in the competition in management. "The demanding classes and the dedicated faculty helped me place in the competitions. Pam Stumbo and Howard Roberts, PC faculty members, deserve most of the credit for my success," said Hunt. Participants must first place in the state competitions before they are allowed to compete in the National Conference. Hunt holds a double major in accounting and management. Tobacco Rebates Are Legal In Ky.

By Attorney General Dave Armstrong

Tobacco season is near and with this in mind tobacco farmers should be aware that Kentucky has a law to guarantee them fairness in the marketplace.

Many times, farmers are offered rebates as part of the price for their crop. Rebates are legal in Kentucky, but only if they are offered to each tobacco farmer serviced by an individual warehouse.

Kentucky Revised Statute 248.350 prohibits discrimination against any grower of tobacco in any way, including but not limited to, the sale, transportation, or handling of tobacco. All tobacco growers are entitled to the same considerations as all other tobacco growers serviced by the same warehouse. An exception to this law is that a warehouseman may distinguish among different types of packaging in setting the fee or commission.

This law was created to protect tobacco farmers from unfair market practices. To report a violation, write Special Prosecutions Division, Tobacco Rebate Unit, 909 Leawood Drive, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 or call 502-564-7600. All inquiries are kept confidential.

State's First Newspaper Anniversary To Be Marked

Two hundred years ago, Lexington residents were reading something new: a locally-produced newspaper. John Bradford's Kentucky Gazette was not only the first newspaper in Lexington, it was the first printed matter of any kind in the United States west of the Alleghenies, says Paula Pope of the University of Kentucky Libraries. To mark the anniversary, the library and the Lexington Herald-Leader are sponsoring a program Sunday, Sept. 13, at 2 p.m. in the UK College of Law courtroom. Thomas D. Clark, professor emeritus of history, says the newspaper was founded at a time when Kentucky settlers were debating the issue of separation from Virginia to create a new state. "The paper served the purpose of being a line of communication at a time when public opinion was being formed on a crucial issue," he said. Ironically, most of the news in early editions of the Kentucky Gazette was from Washington and Europe, since local news was still carried largely by word of mouth, Clark says. Clark will speak during the Sunday program, along with Creed Black, publisher of the Lexington Herald-Leader, and David Dick, acting director of UK's school of journalism. The program will be followed by a display of early Kentucky printing and a reception in the Peal Gallery, King Library-North. The event is free and open to the public.

Mineral Law Seminar To View Legal Puzzles of Coal, Gas

Broad form deeds, individual liability for corporate officers, taxation, and other controversial issues will be discussed at the 12th annual Mineral Law Seminar Oct. 2-3 in Lexington.

The event, which is expected to attract more than 200 attorneys and managers involved in the minerals industry, is sponsored by the Mineral Law Center at the University of Kentucky College of Law, in cooperation with the Kentucky Bar Association.

"This seminar will be an invaluable resource and help for attorneys, geologists, mining engineers, owners and other mineral-related professionals," said David C. Short, director of the Mineral Law Center.

U.S. Rep. Harold Rogers (R-Ky.) is scheduled to speak at the conference luncheon at noon, Oct. 2.

"Congressman Rogers is most knowledgeable of the concerns and interests of the mineral industry and his remarks offer an excellent opportunity to find out what is going on in Washington and what to expect in the future," Short said.

One of the most controversial issues facing the coal industry in Kentucky is the broad form deed, which opponents say disregards the rights of the surface owner. Paul Collins, of the Hazard law firm of Hollon, Hollon & Hollon, will present the latest developments in the issue and discuss implications in the future.

Another controversial topic, that of corporate officers being held individually liable for corporate actions, will be discussed by Marcus P. McGraw from the firm of Greenbaum Doll & McDonald, Lexington.

Other speakers include Richard Miller and Robert Boldt, representing the federal Office of Surface Mining, Reclamation and Enforcement.

The seminar will be at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in downtown Lexington from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Oct. 2, and 8:30 a.m. to noon, Oct. 3.

For more information, contact the Mineral Law Center, University of Kentucky College of Law, 21 Law Building, Lexington, Ky., 40506, or call (606) 257-1161.

New OLW Administrator

Sister of Mercy Mary M. Fanning, of Baltimore, Maryland, has been named administrator and chief executive officer of Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin, effective September 21.

The appointment was announced last week by Sister of Charity Ann Seton Gallagher, chairperson of Our Lady of the Way's Board of Directors.

Sister Fanning replaces Sister of St. Agnes Monica Justinger, who recently accepted a position as president and chief executive officer of her congregation's long-term care facility in Fond du Lac, Wisconsin.

In announcing Sister Fanning's appointment, Sister Gallagher stated, "We are very fortunate to have someone with Sister Fanning's expertise at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. During the past 14 years, she has had several positions of increasing responsibility in health administration and has developed excellent skills in financial management. She also has experience in working within a rural health care delivery system."

For the past three years, Sister Fanning was assistant administrator at Mercy Hospital in Baltimore, Maryland where she implemented a home health service as a hospital-based agency. She also was responsible for reorganizing the delivery of services for the facility's department of social services and for restructuring three of the hospital's five primary care outreach clinics into private physician practices.

From 1981 to 1984, Sister Fanning was administrative assistant at Mercy Hospital's Department of Finance with responsibility for financial planning and analysis. Prior to her association with Mercy Hospital, she spent two years at St. Joseph Hospital in Towson, Maryland as budget and cost reimbursement manager. Before that, she was director of admissions for Mercy Villa, Inc., a skilled nursing facility in Daphne, Alabama.

In 1979, Sister Fanning received a masters in business administration from Loyola College, Baltimore. Sister Fanning is a Sister of Mercy of the Union, Baltimore Province and is a member of numerous professional and civic organizations.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital is a member of the Sisters of Charity Health Care Systems, Cincinnati, Ohio, one of the five largest Catholic healthcare corporations in the United States. The system operates 22 hospitals, four nursing home facilities, and five life-care retirement centers in six states.

Carl D. Perkins Statue To Be Dedicated Sept. 11

Former Kentucky Governor Bert T. Combs will be the featured speaker at the dedication ceremonies of the full-sized bronze statue of the late Congressman Carl D. Perkins in Hindman, Friday, Sept. 11.

The ceremonies will begin at 6:30 p.m. in front of the Knott County Courthouse. U.S. Rep. Chris Perkins, son of Perkins and Mrs. Carl D. (Verna) Perkins will attend.

The statue committee has raised over $20,000 for the project. The statue was constructed by Letcher county native Sam McKinney, under the direction of the art department at Morehead State University. McKinney sculptured the Vietnam War Memorial Monument in Whitesburg.

Perkins, a Knott county native, served in the U.S. House of Representatives for 35 years representing the Seventh District from 1949 to 1984. He served as chairman of the House Committee on Education for 17 years. His leadership and influence were etched into virtually every piece of social legislation enacted by Congress during his years there.

The 71-year-old Congressman died of a heart attack August 3, 1984 while en route home from Washington, D.C.

The next time you make jokes about pigs, remember, they have been around 36 million years, and according to Ranger Rick magazine, they are very useful animals. Not only can their meat be eaten and made into bacon but pig skin is used for footballs, saddles, jackets and to treat people with severe burns. Chemicals produced from pigs are used to treat humans who suffer from diabetes, and pig heart valves are used to replace human heart valves.

The chiffon elbow length sleeves were sheer and edged with lace embroidery. The long cathedral skirt and train featured motif leaves centered with small pearls. The veil was cathedral length with baby roses accented with pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of silk stephanois, small white gardenias and white roses.

The matron of honor was Theresa Lynn Banks, cousin of the bride. She wore a floor length chiffon pink formal and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Best man was Richard Lee Dillon, brother of the bride. Ushers were Brian Smith, cousin of the bride, and Richard Dillon.

The flowergirl was Jessica Patton, niece of the groom. She also wore a floor length pink formal.

Serving as ring bearer was Jason Patton, nephew of the groom. Sandra Dillon served as the guest register attendant.

Miss Lesa Lafferty sung and played the piano. Mrs. Linda Hager and Miss Sheri Kestler conducted the wedding.

A church reception and also a reception at the house of the bride's parents were held. The couple reside in Prestonsburg.

Psychiatry And Genocide

When Americans think of the crimes of the Nazis, they think of the scenes we have viewed in recent TV programs such as "Holocaust" and "Shoan."

unless we back off and ask who planned, supervised and wrote articles justifying the killing program. Such articles explained why breeding supermen and super-women was important and killing lesser races and the weak was desirable.

Genocide and selective breeding were discussed in scholarly journals before the Third Reich made programs possible. Some of those articles and books were published in England and America—and were later cited at length by German anthropologists and psychiatrists to justify the killing of the Jews, the gypsies and the other targeted groups.

Those who recommended the programs to the Nazi Fuehrer were not, in sum, sadists or illiterate and vulgar brutes. They were professors and Ph.D.s—not to forget the M.D.s. And of them all, as a recent book by a German professor teaching at Cologne University thoroughly documents, the most anti-religious and least impeded by conscience were the psychiatrists.

Like a recent best-seller by the American scholar Robert J. Lifton (The Nazi Doctors), the book by Professor Mueller-Hill of Cologne is a terrible story of the debasement of university education and scientific competence. The first steps in the killing programs were carried out by special troops who used pistols, rifles and machine guns.

The general program was thus launched and implemented, and with the right connections some experimenters were able to get heads, eyes, cadavers and unusual deformations of body shipped to their laboratories. A few medics with psychiatric training were on March 9, 1943 given by Hitler the right to select those they wanted killed for their collections. These records, still in existence as a tribute to the carefulness of the German bureaucracy, were captured by our Army. Along with additional letters and notes kept in the private records of the experimenters, they provide the sources used in the very important book by Professor Mueller-Hill, the leading professor of genetics in West Germany today.

The title has given his report is vivia: Die Toedliche Wissenschaft ("The Deadly Science"). The keen analysis and moral force of Mueller-Hill's report on the debasement of the professions under Nazism is a tribute to a West German of the post-Nazi generation. It is also a warning to all of us against the anti-human and genocidal tendencies of a good deal of modern psychiatry.

Miss Watson-Mr. Lykens Wed

Miss Clearisa Lynn Watson and Tommy Ray Lykens were united in marriage August 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the Big Lick Pentecostal Church at Ivyton. The Rev. Ellis Stephens performed the ceremony.

Miss Emma Marsillett, served as maid of honor and was dressed in blue. The bridesmaids, Rosemary Bailey was also dressed in blue and Paula Heater was dressed in pink lace. San Heater carried an open bible with pink roses.

The groom's brother-in-law, Chalmer Bailey, served as best man. Ushers were Donald Ray Hackworth and Kim Hasting.

The alter displayed two baskets of pink and white silk roses and the three candles displayed there were lit by the ushers and the bride and groom.

Loretta Hackworth and Mary Heater served punch at the reception and Mrs. Ellis Stephens resided at the guest register.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Watson, Mr. and Mrs. James Risley, Jim Risley and Kyle Risley, all of Columbus, Ind., and the brother of the bride, Paul Watson, of Meridian, Idaho, who took the wedding photos.

Everybody's Science

Listening To Insects Munch

By SEAN ADAMS
 J.C. Webb isn't a physician, but you can often see him examining his patients with a stethoscope.
 Dr. Webb is a U.S. Department of Agriculture engineer, and his patients are nuts, fruits and grain. Sometimes these agricultural products are infested with insect larvae that make sounds as they eat.
 You can't hear the chewing with your ear, but Webb can hear it with his stethoscope. He amplifies the sounds through a loudspeaker, and stores them in a computer to be analyzed.
 It's an experimental system Webb began developing several years ago, and it may provide a new way for scientists to tell if produce is infested with insects. A system ready for commercial use may be a few years away, said Webb, with USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Gainesville, Fla.

 Today there is no practical method to tell if produce is infested with munching larvae without damaging it. To check a grapefruit, for example, an inspector has to cut it open and examine the pulp under a magnifying glass—destroying the fruit in the process.
 "With our system, you can rule out an infestation in seconds and you don't have to ruin the fruit," Webb said.
 The system is so sensitive that he's been able to hear, in a few seconds, the movements of a single one-day-old maggot in a grapefruit. It has quickly and reliably detected Caribbean fruit fly larvae in grapefruit, papaya, loquat and guava fruit.
 Inspectors need a way to detect fruit fly and other larvae inside U.S. agricultural products that are exported, since some countries fear the insects will spread in infested fruit, nuts, grains or other commodities.
 In the past, commodities such as grapefruits were fumigated with the chemical ethylene dibromide to kill larvae. But several years ago the federal government banned the use of EDB, so shippers are looking for alternatives.
 Webb said the system will help evaluate the effectiveness of new treatments for killing insect larvae. And if it is commercially feasible, it could replace chemicals or other treatments because shippers would be able to destroy infested fruit and ship only insect-free produce.
 If that happens, the stethoscope will become as helpful in U.S. agriculture and foreign trade as it is in modern medicine. (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture)

Registered Nurses

Nurses Joy Moore, of Garrett, at left, and Frances Isaac Yonts, of Deane, received notice last week that they had passed the exam given by the Kentucky Board of Nursing. Passage of the exam allows both women to be licensed as registered nurses.
 Moore is a 1987 graduate of Hazard Community College and holds an associate degree in applied science.
 Yonts is a 1987 graduate of Southeast Community College in Cumberland, and also holds an associate degree in applied science. She worked for four years as a licensed practical nurse at Jenkins Community Hospital.
 Both nurses have been employed by Our Lady of the Way Hospital since July.

Farmers Receiving Lower Produce Prices

Kentucky farmers continue to receive lower prices for their corn and soybeans, with harvests of those crops not far off, according to Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner David Boswell.
 "Mid-August corn prices are down 20 cents from the July corn average and down 31 cents from the average price a year ago," Boswell reported. "And current soybean prices are down 26 cents from last month and ten cents compared with August 1986."
 Kentucky farmers have greater reason to be optimistic about livestock prices in the Commonwealth. Mid-August beef cattle brought $57.20 per hundredweight, up by $9.50 over the August 1986 level and up by $1.40 over July.
 Meantime, calf prices were up 36 percent from a year ago, reaching $79.30. If the entire month averages at this level, it will be the highest monthly average calf price since March of 1980. Hog prices for mid-August are down, averaging $58.20, compared with $60.10 in July and $61.60 in August, 1986.

Woodlot Management Course To Be Offered

Kentucky has nearly 12 million acres of forest, but only four million acres of that are managed efficiently. University of Kentucky Extension forestry specialist Don Graves wants to change that.
 Graves and others in the UK forestry department are planning to offer a correspondence course to woodlot owners who want to learn how to manage their forests more profitably.
 "We think that if we can teach woodlot owners proper management techniques we could increase the value of Kentucky forest products at the farmer level by 40 percent a year—up from about $224 million each year to $313 million each year," Graves said.
 Overall, Graves said, the forestry industry employs nearly 17,000 workers. With a 40 percent increase in forest products the number employed in the industry should expand considerably.
 The correspondence course will cover topics of forestry management that will have the biggest impact on small woodlot owners, he said.
 "We're orienting the course toward the predominate group of woodlot owners in the state—those with less than 40 acres of forest," Graves said.
 The correspondence course will be offered as a non-credit course. Woodlot owners who want to enroll in the course need to contact their county Extension agent for agriculture for details.
 "We plan to have the course ready to start sending to those who enroll in it in about six months," the forestry specialist said.

 Holiday Foods To Limit Your Labor

From the American Institute For Cancer Research
 Labor Day is looming—time for that one last lazy, long weekend before summer's end. Don't let the hassles of holiday food preparation spoil your relaxation and enjoyment. Sound nutrition doesn't have to mean long hours in the kitchen.
 *Make sure you've stocked up on lowfat, high-nutrient snacks—fresh fruits, raw vegetables and unbuttered popcorn make great between-meal treats.
 *Try planned leftovers (a double batch of your favorite recipe provides two meals for the labor of one).
 *One dish meals—such as a main-course salad or casserole—help limit both preparation and clean up time.
 Here are some holiday menu ideas that will reduce your labor and increase your Labor Day enjoyment!

CARROTS AND ZUCCHINI WITH BASIL
 This quick vegetable dish features just a touch of sweet basil to accent the simple flavors of carrots and zucchini. It goes equally well with fish, poultry, and meat.
 3 small zucchini
 3 small carrots
 2 scallions
 2 tbsp. margarine or oil
 1 clove garlic, minced
 1-2 tsp. fresh basil leaves, chopped (or 1/4-1/2 tsp. dried)
 1 tbsp. chives, chopped
 Freshly ground pepper
 Wash zucchini and carrots, but do not peel. Cut into very thin pieces the size of wooden matchsticks. Cut the scallions into thin slices and use a little of the green, not much. In a medium-sized skillet, heat the margarine or oil. Add the carrots and begin to saute, stirring frequently. When the carrots begin to soften, add the zucchini and scallions. Since the heat should be rather high, do not add the garlic until the vegetables are almost done, in order to prevent it from browning.
 Season with the salt and freshly ground pepper and add a dash of lemon juice (if you like) when the vegetables are crisp-tender. Sprinkle with the fresh herbs and serve at once.
 This will produce 4 servings of about 1/2 to 3/4 cup in size. Each will contain about 6 grams of fat and only 84 calories.
 To ensure the tasty version of this dish, use only very young vegetables. The seed of the zucchini should not be developed and the vegetable itself should measure about five or six inches.

SPICY PORK CHOPS
 These flavorful pork chops require a moderate amount of cooking time, but virtually no effort. To limit fat, make sure to select loin pork chops (which are lower in fat than other cuts), trim off all visible fat, and limit the portion size.
 4 loin pork chops (3/4 inch thick), fat trimmed
 1 cup onion, finely chopped
 2 garlic cloves, minced
 1/4 cup soy sauce
 3 tbsp. lemon juice
 2 tbsp. honey
 1 1/2 tsp. chili powder
 3/4 tsp. curry powder
 Brown pork chops in large skillet over medium-high heat, turning once, about 10 minutes. Add all other ingredients, bring to a boil, then reduce heat to low and cook 30 minutes.
 This will yield 4 servings, each of which contains about 304 calories and 11 grams of fat.

OATMEAL BARS
 A quick summer treat is always in demand, and these oatmeal bars are one that provide sound nutrition: they're low in fat, and made with whole grain flour and oatmeal for fiber and important nutrients.
 1/2 cup margarine
 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
 1 tsp. water
 1 tsp. vanilla
 1/2 tsp. baking powder
 1 1/2 cups whole wheat flour
 1 cup oats
 Cream margarine and sugar. Stir in water and vanilla. Sift baking powder and flour into this mixture, stirring in any remaining bran in sifter. Add oatmeal and mix well.
 Mixture will be rather dry, but spoon it into lightly oiled 9"x9" pan and press down to make firm. Bake at 350 degrees about 15 minutes. (Top will be very lightly browned). Let cool and cut into 24 1 1/2 x 1 1/4 bars. Each will have 4 grams of fat and 90 calories.

Crop Conditions Favorable In Ky.

As of Aug. 30, 59% of the Commonwealth's burley and 59 percent of the dark tobaccos had been cut and were being housed. Only 43% of the burley crop was cut at this time last year, and only 50% of the dark tobaccos were cut, according to the Kentucky Agricultural Statistics Service.

"The high temperatures and dry moisture conditions are causing housed tobacco to cure rapidly," said Agriculture Commissioner David Boswell. "The lack of moisture and the extreme heat are also affecting other crops, pushing growing crops to maturity and reducing the yields of the late planted crops."

Corn is 93% in the dent or beyond stage. This compares to 87% at this stage last year and 72% for the five-year average. 45% of the crop is mature or harvested.

Early planted corn is drying down, while later planted corn is struggling to develop.

The soybean crop continues to progress well ahead of last year's crop. As of Aug. 30, 82% of the soybean acreage was at the setting pods or beyond stage. Last year at this time, only 77 percent of the acreage was at this stage. The five-year average is 70 percent.

Late hay cuttings are short due to lack of rain. Dry conditions are forcing farmers in some areas to feed hay to supplement their pastures. Apples are maturing; peppers are being harvested, and the condition of the sorghum crop is fair.

Fumbles Prove Costly In ACHS Second Loss To Virgie Friday

The Allen Central Rebels lost their second game of the season Friday night, falling 24-8 to Virgie at Prestonsburg High School's field.

Allen Central, forced to use the Prestonsburg facilities due to a lack of lights on their own field, suffered five turnovers, for on fumbles, in dropping their

SHORT SPORTS

The Betsy Layne football game scheduled for Friday night against Millersburg Military Institute was cancelled. The game was to have been played at Mile High Field.

The Bobcats, 1-1 on the season, will return to action this Friday night for a district contest at Prestonsburg against the Blackcats. Game time is 8.

Betsy Layne, coming off a shutout loss to Belfry, is without a record in district play while the Blackcats are 0-1 after their loss to Whitesburg, last Friday night.

Leslie County stands alone atop the district standings at 2-0, followed by Whitesburg, 1-0, MC Napier, and Prestonsburg. Both schools are 0-1, as is Morgan County.

State football schools experienced difficulty in college action last week, with the University of Louisville evolving as the only major college winner.

The Cardinals, after trailing 37-14 with 10 minutes left in the third quarter, rallied to defeat Tulane, 42-40, Saturday night.

With 24 seconds remaining in the contest, Jay Gruden, Louisville quarterback, connected with George Williams on a fourth down and goal from the one to record the winning touchdown. Next up for the Cardinals will be Cincinnati this Saturday in Louisville.

In other games involving Kentucky schools, Morehead State was humiliated at Marshall, losing to the Thundering Herd, 29-0. The Eagles will return to Jayne Stadium this Saturday to play Kentucky State, a team they beat 33-10 last season.

Western Kentucky, also opening the season on a disappointing note, lost 28-24 to Gardner-Webb of the NAIA. Western has an open date this Saturday.

Union College fell to rival Georgetown, 37-10, in a Mid-South Conference game. Pete Greene, former Prestonsburg grid player, caught seven passes for 59 yards.

Cumberland College defeated Tiffin, 38-17, to open their season successfully. Cumberland compiled a total of 379 yards offensively in winning their first game.

The University of Kentucky will open their season this Saturday, taking on Utah State. Eastern Kentucky University will also open their season this Saturday, playing on the road against UT-Chattanooga.

Billy Hatcher, Houston Astros center fielder, is currently serving a 10-day suspension recently handed down by the National League.

Hatcher, one of Houston's top producers this season, was given the 10 days without pay after being discovered with a loaded bat.

The 5'9" 175-pound Hatcher has 11 homeruns this season, five more than his 1986 total output, and this past week may have shown why his numbers are out. In a game with the Chicago Cubs, Hatcher's bat broke, and inside it cork was found.

Hatcher attempted to plead his case, saying the bat belonged to relief pitcher Dave Smith, but the league didn't accept the explanation, and Houston management didn't appeal the decision.

Denny Crum says he can't wait until the opening of this upcoming college basketball season. One reason is Pervis Ellison. Another is Pervis Ellison's talented supporting cast.

The 1987-88 season may be a successful one, but the Cardinals may have already lost one top performer, and practice hasn't even begun.

Tony Kimbro, 6'9" swingman, has been asked by the school to sit out this fall semester due to academic difficulties.

Kimbro, a junior out of Louisville's Seneca High School, hasn't been placed on probation by neither the school or the NCAA, but Louisville officials would like Kimbro to improve his academic standing before continuing his basketball career.

Kimbro is expected to sit out the fall semester, but return to action this coming spring, and be available if the Cardinals see post season action.

The World Championships of track and field were concluded this past Sunday, and the United States failed to produce a strong showing.

East Germany led the gold medal parade, capturing 31 such medals. The Soviet Union finished second with 25, and the United States followed in third place, capturing a total of 19 gold medals.

season record below .500.

The Virgie Eagles converted two of those turnovers into touchdowns while improving their season record to 2-1. Allen Central dips to 1-2 for the year.

"This one was my fault," Allen Central head coach Donnie Daniels said after the game. "Any time a team comes out not ready to play it's the coach's fault, and tonight we weren't ready to play."

Allen Central's defense, although they allowed three touchdowns, stopped Virgie three times after the Eagles penetrated deep into Rebel territory, but turnovers denied the Rebels any points in the second half.

"The kids played hard, and they played determined football," Daniels continued. "They just weren't mentally prepared for this game."

"We moved the football when we needed to, but we just couldn't get things accomplished."

The Rebels, on their second possession of the game, did find offensive success, driving the football all the way to the Virgie 18-yard line, but lost the scoring opportunity by turning the football over on a fumble.

Virgie, after recovering the fumble, responded with an 82-yard scoring drive, capped off by a 58-yard touchdown toss from Michael Roberts, Eagles' sophomore quarterback, to end Earnie Burke.

Allen Central, trailing 8-0 following Virgie's successful two-point try, immediately mounted an offensive move of their own. Powered by the legs of Mickey Parsons, the Rebels took the kickoff back to the 21 where they began a 79-yard drive.

Parsons, sophomore running back, accounted for 52 of the Rebels' yards, running the football a total of nine times during Allen Central's scoring drive. Parsons finished the contest with 159 yards on 29 carries.

Aided by a 19-yard pass play from Darren Conn to Nathan Shelton, which ended up as a diving catch by Shelton, Allen Central moved the pigskin to the one-yard line. Conn, Rebel quarterback, then powered the Rebels to paydirt with a quarterback sneak.

Greg Hughes ran the two-point conversion in, allowing Allen Central to get even with just over nine minutes remaining in the second quarter.

It didn't take Virgie long to get their offense back in gear. On the ensuing kickoff Barry Kinny returned to the Rebel 44-yard line.

Seven running plays later the Eagles went to the air, but defensive back Greg Hughes made that move a mistake, intercepting the pass in the end zone, and giving Allen Central possession on their own 20.

With 51 seconds left before halftime, Virgie once again found themselves inside Rebel territory, but another interception, this one on the 46-yard line by Kyle Newman, allowed Allen Central to stay even.

Turnovers in the second half prevented the Rebels from scoring. After Virgie took the opening possession back for a touchdown, Allen Central turned the football over on each of their four possessions of the final two quarters.

Virgie, led by Brad Johnson, enjoyed success on the ground in the second half, utilizing ball control to eat away at the game clock.

The Eagles compiled a total of 87 rushing yards in the second half, 37 of those coming via Johnson during Virgie's opening drive.

Virgie, following a kickoff return to their own 49, mounted a 10-play drive that ended up with a Kurt Gross seven-yard touchdown run. The drive took up over five minutes.

Leading 16-8 following the two-point try, Virgie received an immediate break when Allen Central fumbled the kickoff, giving the Eagles possession on the Rebel 27-yard line.

The Allen Central defense held that time, taking over on downs on the 12, as they did following the next fumble on their own 46, but turnovers eventually came back to haunt the Rebels.

With the ball on their own 28-yard line, Allen Central fumbled the football on a second down and six try. Virgie recovered the loose pigskin on the 24 with 7:30 remaining in the game.

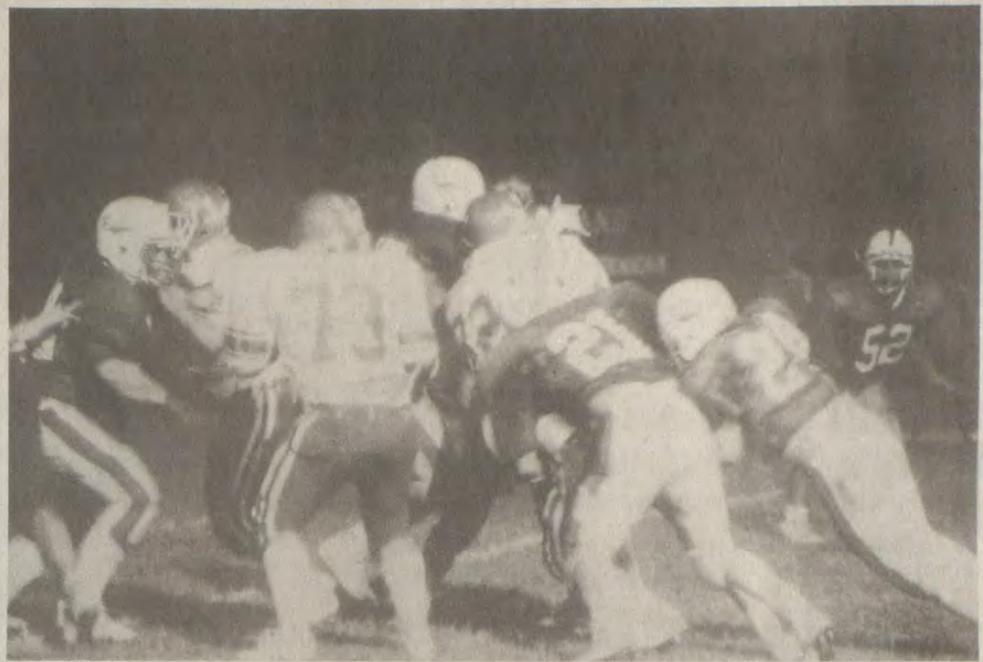

The Eagles, five plays later, turned the fumble into six points when Johnson scored on a one-yard plunge. Another successful two-point conversion increased Virgie's advantage to 16 points, a lead Allen Central couldn't overcome, especially with only four minutes left after the Eagles' final score.

"I can't fault the kids for this one," Donnie Daniels said. "They weren't mentally prepared, so we'll have to go back and better prepare them for Johns Creek."

The Rebels, now 1-2, will try to break a two-game losing streak this weekend when they take on Johns Creek, a much improved program.

"They're a good ball club, and a determined ball club," Daniels said of his next opponent. "They play hard-nosed football."

Allen Central and Johns Creek will hook up Friday night at Betsy Layne's field. Game time is 8.

DEFENSIVE STRENGTH: Anthony Redrick (21) and Kyle Newman combine to stop a Virgie running play. The Rebels enjoyed success in stopping the Eagles, but turnovers stalled Allen Central's own offensive efforts.

Injured Blackcats Fall Victim To Powerful Whitesburg Squad

Playing Whitesburg High School thus far in 1987 has been no easy task. Playing them without a starting quarterback and tailback adds injury to insult.

The injury part was evident this past Friday night, but Prestonsburg High School football Chuke Williams wasn't insulted by his Blackcats performance, especially when the injury part is considered.

"It was a bad blow at a bad time, but it makes me happy that we played as well as we did, and that we were close to them late. They have a real good club," Chuke Williams said.

His Blackcats, playing without senior quarterback Brent Hackworth, and senior running back Johnny Ray Harris, fell victim to Whitesburg, 26-6, in a district game Friday night.

"We had some bright spots, but we had to go with our second and third string backs at crucial times, and it limited us in what we could do," Williams continued.

Prestonsburg made the trip to Whitesburg without Johnny Ray Harris, a starter in both backfields, who was suffering from a bout with pneumonia, and played most of the contest without Hackworth, who re-injured a foot he hurt in the Blackcats' season opener against Lawrence County.

Prestonsburg started the game on a positive note, taking a 6-0 early lead.

After recovering a fumble on the Whitesburg 42, the Blackcats drove the football into the end zone with just over nine minutes remaining in the contest.

The Yellow Jackets, known as the district's most explosive team, corrected their early game offensive problems, scoring two touchdowns in the second quarter to take a 12-6 halftime advantage.

Whitesburg's defense and a crucial Blackcat turnover in the fourth quarter prevented Prestonsburg from doing any further damage offensively.

With the injuries, and a normally stingy Yellow Jacket defense, Prestonsburg could manage only 16 total yards in the final two quarters, but did have a golden scoring opportunity late in the contest.

Still trailing 12-6, the Blackcats had the football on the Whitesburg 10-yard line but lost the chance to score on a fumble.

"We had the football with a chance to score, but we fumbled," Coach Williams explained, reliving the costly error. "When they fell on it that pretty much took us out of the game."

The Prestonsburg turnover came with seven minutes remaining in the final quarter. Following the fumble, Whitesburg added two touchdowns to put the game out of the Blackcats' reach.

With the win Whitesburg improves to 3-0 overall, and 1-0 in the district.

"It was a tough loss, but if we can bounce back from it and show some character, then I think we still have a shot at having a good season and even making the playoffs," Williams said, looking forward to this Friday's home opener against Betsy Layne.

The Blackcat-Bobcat matchup will also be a district game, and has the makings of a true intra-county skirmish.

"The only indicator I have is that they lost only two or three seniors from last year's team," Williams said of Betsy Layne. The change in coaches brought a new offensive and defensive philosophy and it always takes time to adjust to that, but I know that they have some good athletes. It should be a real knock down drag out.

Betsy Layne and Prestonsburg come into Friday night's affair with identical 1-1 records, but the Bobcats will be playing their first district contest. Prestonsburg is 0-1 in district play.

Chuke Williams says the district race is still wide open, but adds that this contest could be an important one to both teams. For this reason the Blackcat mentor wants his injured troops back in battle.

"Hopefully, Johnny Ray will be back to full strength, and Brent's foot will heal," Williams said. "Brent is a four-year player, and has been with us from day one. In this situation, I can't think of a position a coach would like to lose less than his quarterback."

Betsy Layne is coming off a week of rest and relaxation after their game with Millersburg Military Institute was cancelled last week.

Game time is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Prestonsburg.

Tradition Holds True As Tigers Beat Wheelwright

Tradition, that special mystique which allows one team, even though possibly out talented, to defeat another, goes farther than to just establish past bragging rights.

Take Paintsville High School—completely out of the district as far as Wheelwright is concerned—for instance. The Tigers were reportedly and expectedly down this year.

"If you're ever going to beat Paintsville this year will be the year," many local coaches stated in pre-season.

In the past, Tiger football has run roughshod over Single A competition in this area. Paintsville has built an undying tradition during the years, and that tradition of being a winner isn't going to suffer this season, or at least it hasn't so far.

Paintsville, expected to struggle in a strong district, is currently sitting atop the standings, peering down at the competition.

Starting several underclassmen in a rebuilding stage, Paintsville is 2-1 on the season, and undefeated in district play.

This past Friday night the Tigers upset Wheelwright, a team highly touted as a possible playoff contender, 14-6 in Paintsville.

Wheelwright, possessing one of their most talented teams of the 1980s, kicked the season off on a positive note, shutting out Elkhorn City at home, but after taking to the road the Trojans have lost two district encounters.

Coming into Friday's contest with Paintsville, Wheelwright had never beaten the Tigers, and tradition held true as Paintsville continued their run toward the playoffs.

The Tigers, behind the running of fullback Ray Wells, got off to an early lead, increased it to 14-0 in the fourth quarter, and held off Wheelwright for the victory.

"We came out like we always do—tighter than a rubber band," Trojan head coach Roger Johnson said of Wheelwright's slow start Friday night.

"I think our kids were a bit intimidated by them, but after we realized that they weren't so tough we started to play some football," Johnson said. "We've never beaten Paintsville and I think that that may have caused a mental block for us."

Paintsville, with five minutes remaining in the first quarter, scored their first touchdown when Wells rambled 32 yards for the score.

The Tigers, 226 total yards, had their difficulty with a normally tough Trojan defense, but in the fourth quarter Jeremy Holbrook, sophomore quarterback, connected with Jerry Pelphrey, junior wide receiver, on a nine yard pass play that ended up as a Paintsville touchdown.

Leading 14-0 the Tigers allowed Wheelwright to score late in the contest. With 3:02 remaining in the fourth quarter Doug Little scored the Trojans' lone points on a one yard plunge.

With the win Paintsville improves to 2-0 in district play, and proved that this year's version of Tiger football is no sure win for the competition.

"They played real good football," Roger Johnson said. "They're a lot better football team than I saw a couple of weeks ago. They've got a real good defense."

Wheelwright, now 1-2 overall, and 0-2 against district competition, will return home this Friday to take on Hazard.

"Right now Paintsville has to be considered as in the driver's seat because they're 2-0," Johnson said of the district race. "They play Fairview (1-0 in the district) this Friday, and somebody is going to pick up their first loss there."

"Mathematically we're not out of it, but if we lose this weekend we will be," Johnson predicted.

Hazard, 0-3 on the season, represents the Trojans' third consecutive district foe, and playing at home, a place Wheelwright enjoys success, may prove to be the link needed for the Trojans to put their chain of wins together.

"It's proved out that way so far, but we'll just have to wait and see," Johnson said, looking forward to the Trojans' return to Brackett Field.

"We beat the Elkhorn City up here, and I didn't think they had a bad ball club, but we went on the road...I'm not saying the trip beat us because we just didn't play any football at Fairview, but we went on the road and lost two games."

Wheelwright has three district games remaining, and Roger Johnson says all games will have to go on the Trojan win column if his team is counting on earning one of the two playoff positions being offered to their district's winner and runner up.

The Sporting Times

New faces will mean renewed hope for most National Football League teams when the run for the Super Bowl begins September 13.

Trading early and drafting sooner may spell the difference between those who make the playoffs and those who watch them on T.V. Building via the draft has been a means to a playoff goal for ages, but some teams live and die by the trade.

Not many trades were made during the off season so teams will have to improve through the additional talent created by the draft.

And boy did some improve! Not many names jump off the page as being of the big name variety when glancing at the Seattle Sea Hawks regular picks, but of course Brian Bosworth isn't there.

Seattle, gambling that Bosworth would eventually sign, chose the highly touted line backer in the supplemental draft, and put themselves in the AFC West's driver's seat by inking Bosworth on a 10-year deal.

Offensively the Sea Hawks, directed by quarterback Dave Krieg, are as good as anyone in the NFL. Krieg, throwing to all-pro Steve Largent, and Daryl 'Deep Heat' Turner, finished second behind Dan Marino in AFC passing ratings.

Seattle, when not wanting to pass, has a running game that could rival the great tandems of the past. Kurt Warner ran for over 1400 yards last season while leading the AFC in total yards. Big blocking back John L. Williams rambled for 538 yards and built a 4.2 rushing average.

The line backing corps, that's where Bosworth will play, has long been a sore spot for the Sea Hawks, but shouldn't be anymore.

In addition to Bosworth, Seattle also laid claims to Tony Woods, formerly a Pittsburgh standout, and Dave Wyman, of Stanford. Both are projected as impact linebackers. From this trio, the Sea Hawks are expected to find someone that can team with Bruce Scholtz and Shelton Robinson, two vets with ability.

Seattle already has defensive end Jacob Green, and strong safety Kenny Easley, two proven performers. With this kind of balance and ability, the Sea Hawks might just find themselves ahead of Cleveland as the AFC's best team.

The Browns finished last season with the conference's best record, 12-4. And without their powerful backfield of Earnest Byner and Kevin Mack.

Two seasons ago these runners combined for over 2,000 yards, each rushing for over 1,000 yards. Last year they failed to reach the 1,000-yard level combined. Injuries slowed the Cleveland ground attack, but Curtis Dickey, a rejuvenated veteran, picked up the slack with 539 yards.

Dickey is expected to see action as a backup if both Byner and Mack return to full force.

The Browns also compiled a 12-4 record with a 22-year-old quarterback. Kosar, who should have been a college senior, enjoyed a solid season, finishing seventh in AFC passing.

He is expected to improve, as is his receiving corps. Led by Webster Slaughter and Reggie Langhorne, three year's combined in the NFL, the Browns are explosive through the air.

Cleveland shouldn't have much trouble holding off their competition in the AFC Central. The Browns can score points, but they can also stop people from scoring. They were third last season in fewest points given up in the conference.

New England, last year's Eastern Division champion, should also repeat, especially if their linebacking corps, the best in the AFC, stays healthy.

Andre Tippett, Don Blackmon, and Steve Nelson can play with any trio of backers in the game, and have proven that in the past. The Patriots defensive backs are almost as good. Led by Ronnie Lippitt's eight, New England finished fourth in interceptions, second in completion percentage allowed, and total yardage given up through the air.

Network Telecasts Highlight U of L Basketball Schedule

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Seven network television appearances, an appearance in the Rainbow Classic and 16 home games in Freedom Hall highlight the 1987-88 University of Louisville men's basketball schedule released by U of L Director of Athletics Bill Olsen.

Fourteen opponents on the Cardinals' schedule participated in post-season tournament play last season, including 11 in the NCAA Tournament. Not including the Rainbow Classic field, U of L's opponents posted a collective 429-225 record last season (.656 winning percentage) and the list includes eleven 20-game winners.

"I'm very pleased with the mix of quality regional and national opponents on our schedule," said Olsen. "We have been fortunate to maintain considerable national television exposure. This schedule also means that our student-athletes will miss only five days of classes."

With four starters returning from last year's 18-14 Metro Conference Championship squad, the Cardinals will open the 1987-88 slate in the inaugural Bank One/Big Four Classic on Dec. 5 at the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis, Ind. U of L will face Notre Dame in the ABC-televise doubleheader which also features Kentucky and Indiana.

An exhibition game against the Canadian National Team on Nov. 21 will be the Cards' initial home contest.

In addition to the Big Four Classic, other network telecasts include: Dec. 12 at Kentucky (CBS); Jan. 16, UCLA in Freedom Hall (NBC); Jan. 23, Purdue in Freedom Hall (CBS); Feb. 6 Houston in Freedom Hall (CBS); Feb. 13 at N.C. State (NBC); and March 5 at DePaul (NBC).

WHAS-TV (Channel 11), a CBS affiliate in Louisville, will feature 23 telecasts during the season through local origination and the Metro Conference television package with Raycom.

All U of L games will be broadcast on 50,000-watt clear-channel WHAS Radio (840 AM) in Louisville and other network affiliates throughout the state.

U of L kicks off the Metro Conference portion of its schedule Jan. 9 at Florida State. The post-season Metro Conference Tournament will be staged at Memphis, Tenn. on March 11-13.

BOO ON THE QUARTERBACK: Allen Central's Boo Barnette entertains thoughts of getting a solid hit on Virgie quarterback Michael Roberts.

Waterfowl Seasons Set

Duck and goose seasons, as well as hunting rules for the popular Ballard Wildlife Management Area in Ballard county, were approved by the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission at its quarterly meeting in Frankfort, Aug. 24.

All waterfowl hunting dates and other regulations are tentative pending final Federal approval.

The season for Canada geese in Kentucky's Western Waterfowl Zone will open Dec. 12 and run through Jan. 30, or until the harvest quota is reached. This year's quota for the entire zone is 16,500 geese, a substantial increase over last year's quota of 15,000. The bag limit on Canada geese remains at two per day.

The Ballard reporting area, where geese hunters must register and report their daily harvest, will have a quota of 10,400 Canada geese.

The quota for the Henderson-Union reporting area, where hunters also must register and report their harvest, is 3,300 geese. If quotas in either reporting area are reached before Jan. 30, the season in that zone will close, but the counties associated with that reporting area will remain open an additional seven days, or until Jan. 30, whichever comes first.

Hunting for goose species other than Canada geese will be allowed in the Western Waterfowl zone from Nov. 26 through Jan. 17 or until the close of the Canada goose season.

In the Eastern Waterfowl Zone, hunting for all species of geese will commence on Nov. 8 and will run through Jan. 16, 1988.

Duck season will open Nov. 26, with bag and possession limits identical to last year.

The first phase of the split duck season will run through Nov. 29 with the second segment scheduled for Dec. 12 through Jan. 16.

Once again the bag limit will be based on the point system, with point values unchanged from last year.

Canvasback ducks may not be taken this season under any circumstances.

Goose hunting season on the Ballard county Wildlife Management Area will open Dec. 12, and run through Jan. 30 or until the goose harvest quota is reached, whichever comes first.

The application deadline is September 30, 1987 and applications must be made on standardized forms available from Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources personnel, by writing: Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relations, No. 1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or by calling (502) 564-4336.

A complete waterfowl hunting guide will be available from the sources listed above sometime in mid-October.

Steel shot will be required for all waterfowl hunting in the Western Waterfowl Zone. The boundary between the eastern and western zones begins at the Kentucky-Tennessee line at Fulton then extends northward to the Kentucky-Indiana border at Henderson along the Purchase Parkway, I-24, US 641, US 60 and US 41.

pressure on the opposing quarterback. The Patriots' running game, once solid but slowed by injuries last year, should return to strength.

The National Football Conference will simply be a take two from last year when the New York Giants ran rough shod over the rest of the conference.

The Giants may not be as dominant as they were last season and may have trouble from Washington, but not if they are healthy. New York has stars at every position, and the off-season hasn't brought much distraction.

Although the cancer situation is causing concern, the Giants can overcome just about everything else, especially other football teams.

Only an injury to Phil Simms or Joe Morris, barring an outrage on the rest of the team, can keep New York from returning to the playoffs, and probably the Super Bowl.

Not since the Steel Curtain and the glory days of Pittsburgh has a team repeated as Super Bowl champions, but the Giants will come extremely close if they don't make it.

Some teams will have an opportunity, especially the Chicago Bears, Los Angeles Rams, and San Francisco Giants, but there are some definite ifs there.

If Jim McMahon can return to full form, the Bears could deny New York, but McMahon has to return because Chicago can't win with Doug Flutie at quarterback, of any one else for that matter.

San Francisco would have to have their best season from each and every player in order to contend with the Giants on a regular basis, but in the playoffs it only takes one game. Los Angeles, if Jim Everett grows up in only his second year, has the horses to contend with the Giants, but that is a big task for a 24-year-old quarterback.

The Redskins lost twice to New York last season, and as a result lost their bid for an Eastern Division title. They did not help themselves much in the draft while the Giants may have strengthened their only weak spot by taking three receivers in the first four rounds.

Philadelphia could be a surprise team, and Minnesota may take their playoff bid even further this year, but the big five will be tough to deny in those five playoff spots.

ORDER IN WHICH THEY WILL FINISH:

AFC CENTRAL: Cleveland; Cincinnati; Pittsburgh; Houston. Neither of the final three have enough balance to offset the Browns combination of pass, throw, and defend.

AFC EAST: New England; New York Jets; Miami; Buffalo; Indianapolis; The Dolphins will be better than 8-8 this year, but John Ofterdahl will miss eight games. Dan Marino may miss Miami's opening game against New England, and the Dolphins may again be out early despite having one of the most awesome passing games ever. Buffalo drafted linebacker Shane Conlon. They will be much improved, but two drafts away from becoming a contender.

AFC WEST: Seattle; Denver; Los Angeles; Kansas City; San Diego. Bo Jackson won't help the Raiders much this season, and they failed to get a quarterback. San Diego is the most improved team in the conference, but they play in the toughest division in the conference.

NFC CENTRAL: Chicago; Minnesota; Detroit; Green Bay; Tampa Bay; Minnesota has improved their situation, and could press for a wildcard spot if their draft choices pan out. The Vikings picked D.J. Dozier in the first round, a big back with speed from Penn State. He should be able to bring some balance to Minnesota's attack. They tried to live by the pass last season. It worked for a while, but they fell by the side late in the season. Tampa Bay could overtake Green Bay for that fourth spot. Vinny Testaverde, their Heisman Trophy winning quarterback, has enjoyed a good pre-season schedule and to overtake the Packers wouldn't demand much of an effort.

NFC EAST: New York Giants; Washington; Philadelphia; Dallas; St. Louis; The Dallas Cowboys, as has Miami, have already suffered from injuries, and the season hasn't began yet. Tony Dorsett and Hershel Walker can't play in the same backfield, and the Cowboys don't have a solid quarterback. Buddy Ryan teaches defense, and the Eagles responded with a total of 53 sacks last season. In Keith Byars, and Randall Cunningham, they also have some offense. If Jay Schroeder slumps the Eagles might even move into second place.

NFC WEST: Los Angeles Rams; San Francisco; Atlanta; New Orleans, Jim Everett sparkled at times last season, and he might just find himself completely this year. Los Angeles has only needed a quarterback for centuries, and now they have one, even though he may still be a diamond in the rough. Atlanta out-drafted the Saints, getting a quarterback and strong runner which should power them past New Orleans.

PLAYOFF PICTURES: AFC: Seattle, Cleveland, and New England will go as divisional winners while the Jets and Bengals should battle for the final wild card spot. Denver owns the other wild card position. Cleveland and Seattle should fight it out for the divisional championship with the victory going to the Sea Hawks.

PLAYOFF PICTURE: NFC: Chicago, the New York Giants, and Los Angeles will go as divisional winners and San Francisco and Washington should earn wild card spots. New York and Chicago are clearly the pre-season favorites but too many questions surround the Bears. New York will win the conference championship, but lose in the Super Bowl to Seattle.

Bassin' With the Pros...

Electric Trolling Motor Tips

"The greatest innovation for bass fishing is the electric trolling motor," states Randy Fite, Johnson Pro Staff member. "I wasn't around to scull a boat or anything of that nature, but I would certainly see how that would hamper my enjoyment of the sport and also my success in the sport if I had to hold an oar in one hand and try to fish with the other!"

The convenience afforded to bass fisherman by the electric motor has made the sport much more enjoyable and made all anglers who use it much more successful at being able to catch America's favorite gamefish.

Perhaps one of the greatest innovations since the utilization of the electric motor was the production, testing and marketing of the weedless prop. "Where we used to have to fish the outer edge, which is still a good place to fish, now the prop gives us access to fishing inside the weeds," testifies Fite.

For Ken Cook, Evinrude Pro Staff member, one of the most important elements in usage of an effective electric motor is its on/off condition.

"I've watched fish a lot in the presence of a trolling motor and you can get right up on fish usually with the trolling motor going. But, if you turn off or on, the fish spook 99 times out of 100. It's the on/off that spooks fish, I believe. A trolling motor at a slow steady speed is much less likely to spook bass than an on/off condition."

"One of the ways to avoid that high speed on/off condition, I think, is to use a hand control-type trolling motor, one that does not have a foot pedal," Cook relates. "The one that I use with my foot is a hand-control model that allows me to turn the trolling motor on and off with a switch on the floor, like a dimmer switch. One push turns the motor on and the second push turns the motor off. I switch the trolling motor on with my foot and then I have an extension on the tiller handle which gives me a little bit more reach for steering, control with my foot or knee."

"I leave it on a low speed. If it's calm, I turn it down to a very, very slow speed and it will take me to my fishing locations one after another—whether it's down the shoreline or bush to bush—a slow, steady speed. I find I turn it on and off much less with this type of trolling motor as opposed to a foot controlled one."

There's one more thing that Cook likes in a hand controlled operated electric motor: the absence of the meddlesome foot control.

"The foot control trolling motor, made with that pedal that you operate to steer the motor is very uncomfortable especially if you stand up to fish, which I do and I think most fishermen who are really serious about it nowadays do. Standing allows a better advantage of vision. Standing up and running a foot control trolling motor is very uncomfortable. I find that I stand on both feet a lot more when I use a hand control trolling motor. With both feet on the ground, I have better control of my body motion."

Owners of Johnson® and Evinrude® electric positioning motors might like to try OMC's new weedless propeller for those motors. It has a close-fitting hub and special swept-back blades that OMC says keep it from snagging without sacrificing thrust. The prop fits Johnson and Evinrude electric motors from 1982 through 1987 and is available from Johnson and Evinrude outboard dealers.

Off And Running In September Is No Surprise For Cincinnati

Good things come to those who wait, but not to those who wait too late. The Cincinnati Reds have finally strung together a group of wins, but they may have waited too long for their consistent play.

Cincinnati, winning the same amount they have lost with 22 games remaining, are trailing both Houston and San Francisco in the National League West, even though the Reds had won five of their last six games going into play last night.

Playing good baseball in the month of September shouldn't surprise anyone. Traditionally it's the Reds' time of year to shine, and so far tradition is holding up.

In 1985 Cincinnati finished the season with a 20-12 spurt after September 1. The following year September produced 22 wins against only 10 losses for the Reds.

Cincinnati, after a month of vacationing from winning, has posted a 5-1 record in September, but have failed to gain any ground on San Francisco, the divisional leader.

The Reds opened play this month with a victory last Tuesday night over East leading St. Louis, won the rubber game of the three game series Wednesday night, and enjoyed success this past weekend in Chicago.

Friday afternoon in the Windy City, Cincinnati stretched their winning streak to three games, scoring four times in the ninth inning to pull out a 4-3 victory.

Trailing by three runs in the top of the ninth, Cincinnati began the inning with four consecutive hits to plate three runs, one on Paul O'Neill's RBI single, and two on Kal Daniels' double.

Dave Parker, nursing an injured knee, drove in what proved to be the winning run with a fly ball. That was Parker's last at bat for the series, and the first game of the current homestand.

John Franco, Reds' bullpen ace, shut down Chicago in the bottom of the ninth to record a save, his 26th of the season. Lee Smith, who pitched the ninth, suffered the Cubs' loss. Frank Williams, 4-0, was credited with the win.

Paul O'Neill, filling in for regular right fielder Dave Parker, led Cincinnati to a 10-5 victory Saturday as the Reds evened their season record at 68-68.

O'Neill, four RBIs in his last four games, tripled and scored in the first inning, and drilled a two run homerun in the fifth inning as Cincinnati jumped out to a 7-0 early lead.

The Reds, aided by the longball, got homeruns from Bo Diaz, a two run shot in the first, and Barry Larkin, three run job in the fourth, to give Dennis Rasmussen his 10th win of the season.

Rasmussen, 1-1 in a Reds' uniform, worked six and one-third innings, giving up five runs on seven hits to record the victory.

The former Yankee did allow the Cubs to make a run when Chicago cut the advantage to 7-5 in the seventh inning, but Cincinnati added three in the final frame to ease the tension, and Cub possibilities.

Trailing San Francisco by five games, the Reds suffered a letdown Sunday, and as a result slid down in the Western Division standings.

Leon Durham made sure Cincinnati lost, and Rick Reuschel made sure the Giants won, boosting San Francisco six games in front of the Reds.

Durham took Reds' starter Ted Power deep over the Wrigley Field fence twice, one being a two run shot, to account for all the Cubs' offensive output. Durham, 24 homeruns on the year, hit his solo homerun in the first inning, tying the score, and drilled the two run longball in the third inning as Chicago beat Cincinnati 3-1.

Ted Power, 4-1 against Chicago in his career before the game, suffered the loss, dropping to 10-10 for the year.

Reuschel, a late season acquisition for the Giants, scattered two hits through nine innings as San Francisco defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 4-1.

Cincinnati, once again below the .500 mark, said goodbye to the road, and Eastern Division competition. The Reds returned to Riverfront Stadium Monday, opening a crucial six game homestand against the Los Angeles Dodgers, and San Francisco Giants.

The Reds opened their homestand on a positive note, defeating the Dodgers 3-2 when Buddy Bell blasted a solo homerun in the bottom of the 13th inning.

Bell, off new Los Angeles relief pitcher Brian Holten, drilled the first pitch thrown in the 13th inning over the left field wall to give the Reds and Tom Hume a victory.

Hume, 2-4 overall, worked a perfect top half of the final inning to record his first win since rejoining the Reds three weeks ago.

Cincinnati, once again even at 69-69, played Los Angeles last night, and will finish up the three game series tonight when Tom Browning goes to the hill against the Dodgers.

The Reds will get Thursday off before welcoming in division leader San Francisco for possibly the biggest series of the season. A Cincinnati sweep could put the Reds back into playoff contention. A Giants' sweep would put Cincinnati out of contention.

The two teams will play Friday night, Saturday night, and Sunday afternoon. Dennis Rasmussen will pitch the opening game for Cincinnati with Ted Power going Saturday, and Guy Hoffman working the series and homestand wrap up.

After the series with the Giants, Cincinnati will travel to Atlanta for a two game series starting Monday night. Tuesday's game is scheduled for 5:40.

Cincinnati is expected to have Eric Davis back for the San Francisco series, and possibly relief ace John Franco, who injured himself in Chicago. Davis suffered bruised ribs after colliding with the Wrigley Field wall.

According to various reports, Dave Parker may miss the remainder of the season, especially if he elects to have knee surgery before the schedule is completed.

News And Notes From The NFL

Through a pre-season cloud darkened by talks of a strike, a glimmer of light can be seen, although it may soon be burned out.

Contract talks between the players and owners have broken off. Efforts are being made to settle broad differences, but Players' Union representative Gene Upshaw has instructed players to prepare for a strike.

The NFLPU has went as far as setting a date, but before the not-so-magical day arrives the National Football League will give it's fans at least one weekend of football.

The players did not file for a possible strike until August 15, making the first day they can walk out as September 15.

Week one, and possibly the last week for some time in the NFL, may not be as exciting as others being scheduled on down the season's Sunday slate, but some games may tell the football tale that fans need to know early in the fall campaign.

Pre-season expectations have been discussed. Experts have computerized their predictions, and fans have listed their 'should do's,' and 'if so's,' but until actual contact occurs on the field, all this is simply pre-season pastimes.

Topped by Monday night's matchup of the New York Giants and Chicago Bears, four games promise to be entertaining while also featuring matchups of possible playoff contenders.

The Giants, defending Super Bowl champs, will travel to the Windy City in an attempt to become ABC's leading attraction for Monday night football.

But playing the Chicago Bears is no easy task, and looking good against them is nearly impossible even for New York, who has a knack for looking good.

In 1986, the Giants tied for the best record in the National Football League, 14-2, and finished as the conference's number two defensive team.

The team New York shared the NFL's best record with was the Bears. The conference's number one defensive squad called Chicago home.

Both teams are being touted as divisional winners—New York in the NFC East, and Chicago in the NFC Central.

The Giants, last season, held off Washington with two head-to-head victories over the Redskins, but may get help from some other folks this season, and that help could come before New York ever takes the regular season field in 1987.

Washington opens their season against Philadelphia, a team much improved under Buddy Ryan. The Eagles lost six of their 10 games by a combined total of 18 points last season and are expected to be much improved this year.

Ryan, in his second year, has his defense playing take away football, posting a plus nine last year, and with the addition of all-American defensive lineman Jerome Brown, the Eagles can only improve in this area. But Philadelphia will be playing in Washington, a place where the Redskins lost only once last season.

Sunday will also be a big day for the American Football Conference's early season races, especially for the Eastern and Western Divisions.

In the East, Miami, without all-rookie choice John Offerdahl, will be taking on last season's champion, New England.

The Dolphins are expected to have Dan Marino back, just in time for the highly rated fifth-year passer to contend with New England's talented defense.

Led by a talented group of linebackers, New England allowed only 307 points last season, second fewest in the AFC. Dan Marino was the highest rated passer in the AFC, and Miami scored 46 touchdowns through the air.

The Patriots have been picked to win the division, but Miami is expected to challenge. One of the East's most critical games may come during the opening week.

The two top teams are scheduled to do battle against each other in the Western Division, Sunday.

Devern, last year's winner, will be in Mile High Stadium for a confrontation with Seattle, another team vastly improved.

The Sea Hawks have been cited as this division's best team the past couple seasons, and with the addition of Brian Bosworth, are once again being selected near the top.

Seattle allowed the fewest points in the AFC last season while finishing at 10-6, not good enough to make the playoffs.

The Broncos, also a top defensive team, 11-5 last year, held off Kansas City and Seattle, and a victory for either team, Sunday, would bolster their efforts this season, especially if a strike becomes fact rather than speculation.

Yesterday was the day NFL teams were supposed to trim their rosters down to the season's normal of 45 players.

Some big names were released, and still others were placed on injured reserve.

The Chicago Bears, proven punless without their starting quarterback, put Jim McMahon on injured reserve, as did the LA Raiders with defensive back Lester Hayes.

Both players will miss at least the first six games of the season.

Miami, already with Offerdahl hurtling, didn't have any additions to their injury list, but did release wide receiver Nat Moore, and tailback Tony Nathan.

The Cincinnati Bengals let Mark Logan, former University of Kentucky runner, go.

Campbellsville Back In Play After 57-Year Grid Absence

Campbellsville College will open its first football season in 57 years, Sept. 19, at Georgetown College.

"We are tickled to death that Campbellsville College has decided to begin a football program again," said Ron Finley, head football coach and head baseball coach at the College.

The team will play a junior varsity schedule during the 1987-88 season and will expand to a regular season during 1988-89.

Five schools will be played this season: Georgetown College, Sept. 19, away; Cumberland College, Oct. 10; Tennessee Wesleyan, Oct. 24; Lambuth College, away, Oct. 31, and Kentucky Wesleyan College, Nov. 7. All of the games will be at 1:30 p.m. and home games will be at Campbellsville High School.

"Our coaching staff is very active," said Finley. "We are working on getting these men into the best physical condition possible at this time. We are also working to establish mental toughness."

Starters have not been determined yet from the 34 players on the team, according to Finley. "We are going to do our best to see that everyone gets some playing time," he said.

Practice sessions began a week before Campbellsville College opened for its 1987 fall semester with two days.

"That first week of practice was used to build a closeness among the players," said Finley. "We want our players to feel good about starting school, about being a part of the team family as well as the College family."

"We want our players to be good men for Campbellsville College as well as the community of Campbellsville," commented Finley.

Campbellsville College, affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention, offers 25 academic majors and 26 minor programs. The college is a private, four-year liberal arts college located in central Kentucky.

Whitetail Lore

The Whitetail Deer, A Unique Animal

By RAY BRONK

The whitetails of Kentucky possess many evolved physical qualities which give them advantages not enjoyed by other members of the animal kingdom. Many of these physical features are found in other species, but the wide range of unique qualities seen in the whitetail would be difficult to find in any other animal.

Some of these unique qualities are found at birth. The birth of a whitetail is rapid and apparently bloodless. This is important to an animal when predators are near. During the birth process and immediately thereafter, the hair on the metatarsal gland on the rear hocks of the doe will stand erect, emitting a unique odor. If necessary, the doe can dash off, emitting this odor to attract predators away from the fawn. If left undisturbed, the doe will consume any birth residue, keeping the birth site odor free. The fawn is born free of odor. Dogs have been seen walking past newborn fawns without scenting the newly born animal.

In times of poor range and weather conditions, the whitetail doe is able to resorb the fetus, thus conserving precious body nutritional components, and preventing the birth of a poorly grown fawn into unacceptable living conditions.

The fawn is born with a spotted coat, enabling it to blend into the background while still vulnerable to predators. Although the fawn can move about within a few minutes of its birth, it spends its first few days within an area about 10 feet in diameter. Newborn fawns will instinctively hide rather than flee, although by the fifth day of life, fawns may make a desperate attempt to flee.

The milk of the doe is rich in butterfat. While Jersey cow milk, the richest of cow milk, contains about 5 to 6 percent butterfat, milk of the whitetail doe consists of 11 to 12 percent butterfat. This rich milk provides nourishment for quick growth and energy, and enables the fawn to gain survival strength quickly.

Within a month, the fawn's interdigital glands, located between the hoofs, secrete an individual scent, allowing the doe to track her fawn should it wander away.

The whitetail can bounce back rapidly from herd decimation. When conditions are ideal, a mature buck and doe could increase their numbers to 22 animals in five years. This is possible because some healthy doe fawns are bred their first year of life, producing one or two fawns. Fawn bucks, under a high nutritional diet, show rut behavior as early as five months, although they generally do not participate in breeding until their second rut season. If a doe should die, one of the other does in the herd will care for the fawn as if it were hers.

The whitetail has four stomachs. This is a definite advantage when predators are around. The whitetail can eat food rapidly, spending a minimum amount of vulnerable time, then return to its hidden bed, and leisurely chew cuds brought up from its first stomach. After chewing sufficiently, the cud is then swallowed to the second stomach, starting the digestive process. Another cud is then chewed, until all the stored food has been finally chewed and swallowed.

The whitetail can run extremely fast for short periods of time, but has little stamina for the long chase. It can usually outdistance a predator with a short burst of speed, then has been observed to stop and continue grazing, keeping a wary eye on its backtrail for any continued pursuit. When pursued for lengths of time, the deer has been observed to use cover and water to intelligently confound its pursuer. When cornered, its

Kentucky Afield... Show To Discuss Taylorsville Lake

Taylorsville Lake will be featured on a two-part Kentucky Afield television series, scheduled to air on Kentucky Educational Television (KET) Sept. 16 and 23 at 7:30 p.m. (6:30 central time).

The shows will feature interviews with biologists, fishermen and professional guides and will discuss current fishing conditions and the future of angling on this popular Central Kentucky lake in Spencer and Anderson counties.

Since its impoundment in 1983, Taylorsville Lake has provided excellent fishing, particularly for bass. However, biologists have documented lower than normal spawning success for almost all game fish and are trying to determine the reasons.

There is currently a good population of legal-sized bass in the lake, according to Gerard Buynak, the black bass specialist with the fish and wildlife department's fisheries division. Buynak says that the number of bass available next spring should be about the same as the population this year.

However, many of these fish are the result of a supplemental stocking program the department began in 1985, Buynak says. He expects bass stocking will continue until the causes of poor natural spawns are discovered and corrected.

Without further research, Buynak says that he cannot pinpoint the reasons for the low spawning success at Taylorsville. Several factors, separately or in combination, may be involved, he says.

One problem may be a lack of suitable gravel spawning sites. As the lake ages and the banks erode down to gravel, additional spawning areas may become available, Buynak says.

Heavy boat traffic may be another factor. Boat wakes washing the shoreline keep sediment stirred up. If too much sediment falls on a bass nest, the male bass, which guards the nest, may leave, allowing the eggs to be smothered or to be eaten by other fish.

Buynak is currently working on a proposal with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to close one embayment on Taylorsville to all boat traffic and to restrict another embayment to idle speed only during the spawning season next year. This would allow the biologist to evaluate whether an undisturbed environment would improve spawning conditions and increase bass reproduction.

Another project includes an experimental seeding of some banks with a perennial grass this fall, and possibly flooding some timber and coves in the spring to provide more shoreline area cover for fish to use when nesting. Until the problem is solved, bass will be stocked to continue the angler's opportunity to catch this species at Taylorsville Lake.

Conditions Right For Pond Turnover

Fish kills in farm ponds may be one unwelcome result of Kentucky's recent cool weather, according to fisheries biologists with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Natural fish kills can be caused by a lack of oxygen by what biologists call "turnover," the shifting of layers of water in a pond.

When cool nights lower surface water temperatures, the surface layer sinks, stirring the bottom layer, which is low in oxygen, to the top of the pond.

Fish coming to the surface, plus a darkening of the pond's water, are signs of turnover, biologists say.

Turnover can be prevented by aerating or agitating the water to mix the layers and to add oxygen. Farmers with irrigation systems can use their pumps to agitate the water. An outboard motor can also be used to stir up the pond's waters.

Pond owners who have purchased grass carp for vegetation control should watch closely for signs of turnover, since these fish are particularly sensitive to low oxygen levels.

Turnover is a common occurrence in many bodies of water in Kentucky, but current cool weather conditions may bring it on earlier than usual this year. Pond owners should continue to watch their ponds for signs of turnover as long as there are periods of warm days and cool nights, biologists say.

The banana plant is not a tree. It is an herb. The stalk is made of leaves that overlap each other, like a celery stalk.

McDowell High Asked To Close Up Program

High schools from across Tri-State region have once again been invited by the Close Up Foundation to send students to Washington, DC, for an intense look into the workings of the federal government. McDowell High School is one of these.

Here, the students as well as a teacher from each of the schools will spend a week questioning various Washington officials including members of Congress, journalists, and foreign and domestic issue experts.

"Too often, our national leaders are just faces on television which seem so unreal. By meeting these people as well as those who work behind the scenes in developing policy, they and the issues they discuss become an important part of our lives," said John Pinkerman, Close Up's community coordinator for Tri State Region. "Washington and Close Up are, in many respects, a laboratory for the social sciences."

Approximately 350 students and teachers from 60 schools in the Tri-State are expected to participate in Close Up this year.

To ensure that all types of students are able to participate, Close Up provides fellowship funds for teacher and low-to moderate-income student participation. Funds for these fellowships are provided by a Congressional appropriation and matching grants from RJR Nabisco, Inc., the largest private contributor to the Close Up Foundation, and Martha Holden Jennings Foundation, and MAPCO, Inc.

Teachers participate in a separate program for educators designed to provide them with new insights and materials for classroom use.

Close Up is a nonpartisan, nonprofit educational foundation, which since 1971 has brought more than 210,000 participants to Washington. More than 2629 students and teachers from Tri State have graduated from the program since it was introduced there in 1977.

Close Up also produces televised seminars carried on the C-SPAN cable network which are sponsored by RJR Nabisco, Inc. and The Du Pont Company. In addition, the Foundation conducts similar Washington seminars for older Americans and sponsors the Citizen Bee, a national social studies academic competition.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

A MATTER OF CONCERN

A few years ago, condoms were far from being the contraceptive of choice. Men and women both felt them to be too desensitizing. However, AIDS has given condoms an entirely new status. Now, women are responsible for approximately forty percent of all condom purchases. By blocking the transmission of bodily fluids, condoms can greatly reduce the risk of AIDS being transmitted during sex. According to the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, studies have shown that the prevalence of AIDS infection is four to five times lower among women who regularly use condoms. In addition, when used correctly and with spermicide, the condom should be as effective as the Pill at preventing pregnancy.

COOLEY APOTHECARY meets the highest level of professionalism in our business and would be honored to become your pharmacy. Patient profiles are maintained here at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 so we can check for drug interaction and allergic reactions. MasterCard and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:
Condom use greatly lowers the chances of contracting any sexually transmitted disease.

More Plan To Travel Tho' Gas Prices Up

A recent fuel gauge survey conducted by Blue Grass Automobile Club-AAA shows gasoline prices in central and eastern Kentucky averaging four cents higher than the Fourth of July weekend. The average price of $1.10 per gallon is about 13¢ higher than a year ago.

Prices for full-serve averaged $1.09 regular, $1.14 no-lead and $1.29 premium no-lead, while self-serve averaged 96¢ for regular, $1.01 no-lead and $1.15 for premium, respectively.

The higher fuel prices reflect increased demand, typical of the summer driving season.

AAA's survey of 28 stations show that 80% plan to be open over the holiday weekend.

AAA also reports an estimated 24 million Americans plan to travel more than 100 miles from home by motor vehicle over the Labor Day weekend. Another 3.2 million will travel by other modes of transportation. These estimates reflect a 3 percent increase over the same period in 1986.

CITY OF PRESTONSBURG PROCLAMATION

On September 16, 1987, Americans will have the unique opportunity to honor the Constitution of the United States in "A Celebration of Citizenship." In this year of the Bicentennial of the signing of the Constitution, it is fitting that we celebrate our heritage of freedom under law that was granted by this national charter.

In 1787, the United States was a nation of 13 sovereign states, independent of each other, aligned along the eastern seaboard, from New Hampshire to Georgia. They were the United States in name only, barely held together by the Articles of Confederation. Only six years after the War of Independence, the new experiment in democracy was in danger of collapse. Most of the states had their own armies, printed their own currencies, and charged tariffs to other states for using their ports and roads.

A convention was called in Philadelphia, for the sole purpose of making revisions to the Articles. But national leaders like Madison, Hamilton and Franklin feared that unless a strong central government was created, the country would fall apart, forming independent republics, or coming under the control of foreign powers once again. Despite the odds against success, the writers of the Constitution were able to reach compromise after compromise, until they fashioned a blueprint for a new government—a government of the people. In the 200 years since that Convention, WE THE PEOPLE have been fine tuning that concept of republican government. Today, our Constitution is the oldest written instrument of national government in the world.

We will be celebrating the Bicentennial of the Constitution's signing on September 17, 1987, and the establishment of the new government under the Constitution in later years, through the commemoration of the ratification of the Bill of Rights in 1791. All Americans can participate in this celebration on September 16, during A CELEBRATION OF CITIZENSHIP. On this day, millions of students, across the country and in American schools abroad, will learn about the blessing of liberty bestowed by our Constitution. All Americans can join our youth in recognizing and honoring the rights and responsibilities of citizenship. At 1 p.m., E.D.T., a live national radio and television broadcast from the west front steps of the U.S. Capitol will enable all Americans to join in the Pledge of Allegiance, as well as to hear the words of the Preamble to the Constitution. While our (state/local) government is significant, it is the words of the Constitution that guarantee our freedoms and liberties. Through the reading of these powerful words, it is my hope that all Americans will join in paying tribute to the treasured concepts of our governing document.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Ann R. Latta, Mayor of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, do hereby proclaim September 16, 1987 as A CELEBRATION OF CITIZENSHIP DAY in Prestonsburg, and urge all citizens to take part in this once-in-a-lifetime celebration of our heritage.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this 3rd day of September, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-seven.

ANN R. LATTA
Mayor

VICIOUS DOGS

COPYRIGHT 1987 KVMA
Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association
The recent rash of publicity concerning pit bulls can be misleading, especially if it causes people to believe that only pit bulls can be vicious.
Actually, chihuahuas and some other breeds are more likely to attack though they may do less damage. And any breed of dog can be made vicious, either deliberately, or by accident, or by carelessness.

Beyond that, some incidents begin with curiosity or having fun—such as chasing a bicycle—then a bite or an attack follows what the dog considers an aggressive act on the part of the human. There are some common sense pointers that you may remember for self-protection. They may not always work, depending on the dog and how excited it is, but they can greatly reduce your chances of injury.

Remember that dogs have a chase instinct, and if you're jogging or riding a bicycle and a dog gives chase, stop immediately. Most dogs can run faster than you can sprint or pedal.

Always face an aggressive dog so you can see what it is doing, but do not make direct eye contact. The dog may interpret direct eye contact as a threat or a challenge. Don't try to stare it down. Instead, watch the dog from the corner of your eye.

Respect the dog's territorial instinct and remember that you are likely on its turf. But don't turn your back on the dog, least it think you are afraid. While facing the dog, slowly back off its turf and away from it.

Don't throw anything at the dog or make any direct threat to its well being such as striking it with a stick. It may then act from self-preservation in addition to anger or fear.

Don't go into a protective crouch. From the dog's viewpoint this makes you appear vulnerable.

Do your best to remain calm and cool. Appear to be poised for a fight, the dog will regard you as prey. Talk quietly, calmly and with authority. Don't yell or scold. Be careful to avoid aggressive behavior.

In general, avoid posing a threat to the dog and quickly leave his territory and you can often get away unharmed.

Persons who participate in certain activities—jogging, bicycling, carrying mail—are more at risk than others for animal attacks. A basic knowledge of animal psychology can often help you out of tight spots, or better yet help you avoid them.

Guess who's your most available and best expert on animal behavior? Your veterinarian!

Answering questions like what to do if attacked, how to avoid attack, which breeds are likely most dangerous and such are public service questions your veterinarian expects to be asked.

Fall Grants Deadline Set by Arts Council

The Kentucky Arts Council has announced the 1987 fall deadline for grants to support and develop the arts in Kentucky communities. Oct. 15 is the postmark deadline for the following grants:

- Challenge Grants, which match private contributions raised by arts organizations for general operating purposes;
- Arts Development Grants, which support arts organizations' overall programs and services;
- New Communities Grants, available to groups in communities with little or no existing arts activity;
- Teacher Incentive Project Grants, designed so that teachers can develop artist-in-residence programs for their classrooms on a short-term basis.

There will be no Project Grants or Consultant Grants available at this deadline, according to Arts Council Director Roger Paige.

Those interested in information on initiating new arts events in their communities or helping further existing arts programming are encouraged to contact the council for guidelines. Staff members are available to advise on organizing new arts groups, program planning and grant preparation.

The Kentucky Arts Council, a division of the Kentucky Department of the Arts, is a 16-member citizen board appointed by the governor. The council receives grant applications and disperses the funds made available to it from the National Endowment for the Arts and the State Legislature.

For more information, write the Kentucky Arts Council, Berry Hill, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call (502) 564-3757.

Shock Probation Said Ineffective

By Jeff Yocum
Shock probation is aimed at discouraging offenders from a life of crime by giving them a brief taste of jail, but a University of Louisville criminologist who has studied the punishment has found that it is no more effective than a suspended sentence and probation.

In studies several years apart, Genaro Vito tracked the records of 1,800 probation cases in Kentucky and Ohio, comparing the crime repeat rate of those on regular and shock probation. "Basically, the shock probation doesn't seem to make any difference," Vito said. Type of offense, age and prior arrest record are more useful in predicting whether a first offender will lapse into a life of crime, he added.

Factors influencing a student's decision to drop out often begin as early as elementary school. (Kentucky Dropout Prevention Advisory Committee.)

IN SUPPORT OF THE BREAST CENTER at Highlands Regional Medical Center First Commonwealth Bank has recently concluded a unique giving program for the Breast Center.

The fund drive encouraged employees to contribute to the Breast Center with the bank matching all employee contributions. The bank is the first business in this area to fund the Breast Center with a combination of employee and organization support.

The bank employees who contributed to the Breast Center represent over 90% of the total work force at First Commonwealth and are residents of Pike, Johnson, Magoffin, and Knott counties as well as Floyd. The contributors represented all bank employees from officers and directors through the various department personnel.

"First Commonwealth and its employees have always been active in civic and professional organizations. We are proud to be the first business instituting a matching gift program for the Breast Center," Butch Bradley, director of marketing at the tremendous support our employees have shown through this program. The fight against breast cancer needs this level of commitment," Bradley added.

Susan Martin, administrative assistant at Highlands, added, "The role of the Breast Center is to fill a vital need for women in this area to have the diagnostic technology needed for the early detection of breast cancer. We appreciate both the initiative taken and the support given by the bank, and hope other local businesses will institute similar programs."

A MESSAGE FROM

Elliott Supply

On Friday, August 28, the Elliott Supply store on South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, began its relocation to company headquarters at 1120 Cline Street, Pikeville (the north end of the boulevard).

The announcement was made last week by T. Bruce Elliott, president, and Edward R. Nairn, secretary/treasurer of The Elliott Company; Dick Jarvis, general manager of Elliott Supply; and Jimmy Humphrey, manager of Elliott Contracting's Service Division.

"This move," Nairn explained, "is part of The Elliott Companies' ongoing consolidation of inventory, facilities, and management. We believe it will result in more efficient delivery of goods and services to all our customers."

The Elliott Companies consist of four separate businesses: Elliott Glass, Elliott Supply, Cline Street Chevron, and Elliott Contracting. Elliott Contracting is comprised of five divisions: Service, Systems, General Contracting, Mechanical Contracting, and Electrical Contracting. With the relocation of all Elliott Supply inventories and personnel to company headquarters and consolidation of management, The Elliott Companies' major expansion, which began several years ago, will be complete.

Nairn emphasized that service personnel will remain the same, and will be dispatched from their homes to avoid any delays in starting the work day promptly. The service crews which worked out of the Prestonsburg store primarily service Martin, Floyd, Johnson, Knott, and Magoffin counties.

He also explained that a toll-free telephone number is available so that customers throughout the region can keep in touch with all The Elliott Companies (1-800-422-1083). In addition, he noted that the Allen telephone number, 874-2727, will remain in effect, and will ring into the Cline Street headquarters.

"We are excited about this consolidation effort," Nairn said, "and want to assure our customers that this will allow us to serve their needs even better than in the past."

ASK TONI

What does the 'J' in Fox's name stand for?

By Toni Reinhold

What does the J in Michael J. Fox's name stand for? Where can I write to him? — A.R.W., Goldsboro, N.C.

Michael J. Fox

The "Family Ties" star was born Michael Andrew Fox in Edmonton, Alberta, in 1961. When he moved to Los Angeles in 1979, he found that the Screen Actors Guild already listed a Michael Fox. He thought of adding his middle initial, then reconsidered. "If I made it big, I didn't want the headlines to read, 'Michael, a Fox,'" he says. So he took the middle initial of Michael J. Pollard, an actor who he admired. However, NBC says "unofficially" that they believe Michael added the J to make his name sound complete. You can ask him yourself by writing to him in care of the series, Paramount Television, 5555 Melrose Ave., Hollywood, CA 90038.

Will Jack Klugman be making any new episodes of "Quincy"? — F.M., Grand Rapids, Mich.

"Quincy, M.E." originally aired from 1976 to 1983 on NBC, and is now seen only in reruns. But series-reunion movies such as next week's "Gunsmoke: Return to Dodge" have become a TV trend, so we may see the "Quincy" cast together again. Klugman starred in last season's failed series "You Again?" and is currently starring on Broadway in "I'm Not Rappaport."

I've read that Vanna White was engaged to an actor who appeared on "The Young and the Restless," until he was killed in an accident. Who was he? What character did he play? — B.H. Goldsboro, N.C.

Vanna's beau was John Gibson, who appeared as Jerry Cashman on "Y&R" and Hawk on "One Life to Live." The pair shared a home in the Hollywood Hills for five years until May 17, 1986, when the single-engine plane he was flying crashed and exploded, killing him.

What was the name of the ranch on the "The Big Valley"?? — A.S., Middleville, Mich.

"The Big Valley," which aired from 1965 to 1969 on ABC, was set on the Barkley Ranch in California's San Joaquin Valley, circa 1870.

SOAP BEA

Quinn Redeker is back on 'Young and the Restless'

By Marie Michaels

In July, after playing Alex Marshall* for eight seasons on "Days of Our Lives," Quinn Redeker decided not to renew his contract with the soap. "The 'Days' writers just ran out of story lines for Alex," he says. "My instinct was to move on."

Quinn Redeker

He chose to rejoin the cast of "The Young and the Restless," where he first entered the world of daytime drama in 1979. His first "Y&R" scenes aired two weeks before the "Days" audience saw Alex sent to jail. "I suspect that the 'Y&R' writers don't really know a lot of things about him yet," Redeker says of his new character, the mysterious "Rex." "Sometimes in the middle of shooting a scene someone will whisper in my ear, 'Rex was in jail,' or 'He was a con man.'"

Rex isn't the character's real name, and his background hasn't been explained yet. So far we've been able to glean that he was a bum, and that Jill Foster (played by Jess Walton) took him off the street and cleaned him up. Now she has plans for him to seduce her arch-enemy, Kay Chancellor (Jeanne Cooper). "There's definitely another life buried in Rex's past," Redeker says.

Redeker began his professional career in 1954 as a comic, and appeared on such TV shows as "The Joey Bishop Show" and "The Steve Allen Show" before retiring from the nightclub stage in 1970. Since then he has appeared in more than 100 series episodes and in such feature films as "Airport" (1970), "The Candidate" (1972), "The Electric Horseman" (1979) and "Ordinary People" (1980).

He first appeared on "Y&R" in January 1979, as Nick Reed, an unlikable fellow who sexually abused his daughter, Nikki Reed Newman (Melody Thomas Scott). The role ended abruptly the next June when, as Redeker puts it, "Nikki killed him in a fit of good taste."

Despite his busy acting schedule, Redeker has also managed to pursue a career as a screenwriter. In 1978 he co-wrote the Academy Award-winning film "The Deer Hunter," and the screenplay was itself nominated for an Oscar. Last year he wrote a television pilot called "P.J. Malone." He's currently writing a new screenplay.

Specials explore history, meaning of Constitution

By Wendy Wallace

"We, the People of the United States." These seven words open the U.S. Constitution, which has been the fundamental law of the nation for nearly two centuries now. We, the people, may gain a greater understanding of the document and its meaning through three news specials presented by the networks this week.

Peter Jennings

The first is "The Blessings of Liberty," a three-hour ABC News special airing Sept. 16. Peter Jennings, Ted Koppel and David Brinkley anchor the broadcast, which traces the 200-year evolution of the Constitution. The program uses a variety of techniques to capture the drama of debates, court arguments, letters, pleadings and news coverage that have brought about changes in the law of the land. One segment presents dramatic interpretations of constitutional history performed by special guests, including Martin

Sheen, Linda Lavin, Richard Kiley, Cicely Tyson and Lou Gossett Jr. Another explores present and future challenges to the Constitution. On Thursday, Sept. 17, CBS offers "We the People 200: The Constitution Parade," hosted by Brent Musburger. Set to begin at Philadelphia's Independence Hall and wind through Center City past the Philadelphia Museum of Art to the Benjamin Franklin Parkway, the parade marks the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution. Opening the parade will be a re-enactment of the Grand Federal Procession, first held in 1788 to celebrate the ratification of the document. That evening on CBS, Walter Cronkite hosts "We the People 200: The Constitutional Gala," from Philadelphia's Convention Hall. This black-tie event honors the bicentennial of the signing of the Constitution on Sept. 17, 1787. Highlights include Gregory Peck presenting the actual document, now housed at the National Archives in Washington, D.C. •If history isn't your thing, a more lighthearted evening is a sure bet when women from the 50 states and the District of Columbia vie for the coveted crown in the 34th "The Miss America Pageant," airing Saturday, Sept. 19 on NBC. Gary Collins returns for his sixth year as host of the ceremony, airing live from Atlantic City.

'Coast to Coast' is an effective music magazine

By Frank Lovece

Magazines don't have to be on paper. We've seen news programs such as "60 Minutes" attempt a magazine format, and a browse through video stores turns up home videos based on magazines ranging from Parents to Playboy. Now Showtime and producer Ken Ehrlich have come up with "Showtime Coast to Coast," a music magazine that is as interesting as its print counterparts — and, given the topic, much more effective. It airs Wednesday, Sept. 16,

Herbie Hancock

Hosted by keyboardist Herbie Hancock, "Coast to Coast" is a melange of music, comedy and discussion. With a little telecommunications here, some mobile crews there, a dash of air travel and a pinch of archival footage, this 90-minute show is easily one of the most entertaining music programs on TV.
 The premiere edition punches through its titular boundaries with a side trip to Rio de Janeiro, where the Manhattan Transfer is seen recording with a Brazilian ensemble that hand-crafts its own spacey-looking instruments. We also fly to New Orleans for the 1987 Jazz and Heritage Festival and to Los Angeles for a jam session featuring Hancock, Joni Mitchell, David Sanborn, Wayne Shorter, Bobby McFerrin and others.

 The quality varies. Self-styled "new wave country singer" K.D. Lang opens the show with an annoying repertoire of vocal tics and falsetto trebling. She would have been better off buried in the middle of the program. And Hancock is a far better musician than he is a host.
 But most of the show is wonderful. The festival segment features gospel, blues, jazz and a terrific photo essay on New Orleans food. The Neville Brothers play their hearts out, and Dr. John contributes a rousing "Right Place, Wrong Time."
 Last and best is the jazz jam. We sit in with the performers, and then we're treated to a cookin' set. Mitchell is extraordinary, and McFerrin, while not in his best vocal shape, still shows that he's the one of the most imaginative singers around.
 Showtime plans to air more "issues" of "Coast to Coast," also hosted by Hancock. Smart subscribers will tape this one, then flip through the "pages" at leisure.

Mrs. Newsome Named To Lead Bike-a-Thon

The Central Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has announced that Mrs. Katie Newsome has agreed to be the coordinator of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-a-Thon in Wheelwright.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and provides total medical care to over 4,200 patients.

The Bike-a-Thon program this year is dedicated to Brian McCollister. Brian, a native of Louisiana, was diagnosed with leukemia in October, 1984. Since that time, Brian has come to St. Jude every six weeks for treatment, and every 12 weeks for a bone marrow test and spinal tap to make sure his cancer stays in remission. While at home, Brian receives oral medication daily. Brian is a living example of the progress and success of the research, patient care, and educational programs of this internationally recognized hospital.

We sincerely appreciate the concern that Mrs. Katie Newsome has for our work, and we hope the citizens of Wheelwright will support the Bike-a-Thon this Fall to help provide the funds that are needed to preserve the world's greatest asset... "Our Children."

News that can save you money and enhance the quality of your life

Grayhawk Trace Townhomes are priced at $10,000 below their VA/FHA appraised value. This makes them the best real estate value in Lexington, says Tom Lambuth, president of The Lambuth Group, Realtors.

Located in the prestigious Lansdowne/Shadeland East area, Grayhawk Trace Townhomes offer 1,360 s.f. of beautifully-designed living space with 2 or 3 bedrooms, walk-in closets, 2 1/2 or 3 baths, fireplaces, garden patios, kitchens filled with G.E. appliances, optional garages or basements, and exteriors that are virtually maintenance free.

"But the best news," says Lambuth, "is that these townhomes, which are located in a stable neighborhood where homes are considered to be a good investment, are priced from only $79,500." See for yourself why Grayhawk Trace

Townhomes are called the "best value in Lexington." Visit furnished models, open daily from 1 to 6 p.m., at the corner of Turkeyfoot Road and Grayhawk.

Alumni To Meet In Lexington For AG Roundup, September 12

More than 1,000 alumni of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture are expected to meet in Lexington, September 12, for a reunion as part of the Fifteenth Annual Agricultural Roundup.

Graduates of the 1937 class of agricultural students, as well as distinguished alumni from each of the 14 Extension areas in the state, will be honored at this year's event.

Distinguished alumni awards will be given to former students of the College of Agriculture who have made a decided impact on agriculture. In addition to the 14 honorees from the state, one alumnus residing out of Kentucky will be honored for his contributions to agriculture.

Also to be featured as part of this year's Roundup will be a reunion of the graduates of the Department of Animal Sciences. That reunion will be held the evening before the Roundup. Some 100 former students are expected to attend.

Featured speaker at the Animal Sciences reunion this year will be Dr. John Walker, associate dean of the UK College of Agriculture. Walker will present a futuristic glimpse of the College of Agriculture.

The Roundup will begin with a barbecue supper in front of the E. S. Good Barn on the University of Kentucky campus. The Animal Sciences reunion will begin with a reception September 11 and also will be held at the E. S. Good Barn.

After the Roundup, alumni will attend the Kentucky-Utah State football game at Commonwealth Stadium.

Alumni of the College of Agriculture who wish to attend either the Roundup or the Animal Sciences reunion may call the Agricultural Alumni office at (606) 257-7200 for more information.

KHC Establishes Program For Senior Homeownership

The Kentucky Housing Corporation board of directors announced this week a new permanent program called the Senior Homeownership Program. The program enables borrowers aged 62 and above to purchase a home at a low, fixed interest rate for a term of twenty-five (25) years.

According to Executive Director F. Lynn Luallen, "The Senior Homeownership Program was approved by our board of directors in August of 1986 as a pilot program. During the first year, more than 50 senior citizens became new homeowners through the program. Due to the success and growing interest from our senior population, the Kentucky Housing Corporation will continue to provide housing capital for this very worthwhile effort."

To qualify for the Senior Homeownership Program, the applicant must be at least 62 years of age and must meet income and purchase price limitations according to current KHC guidelines. The applicant may have up to $50,000 in liquid assets. The property to be purchased must meet FHA or VA mortgage insurance requirements. The mortgage loan must be a new loan, as opposed to refinancing.
