Sixth Jenny Wiley Festival To Continue Thru Saturday

By B.A. Heinze

Shops and stores are this week displaying a varied collection of antique items as reminders of our pioneer days, especially the early settlement days being celebrated here with the sixth Jenny Wiley Festival, which began Monday and will continue through Saturday.

Parade marshal this year is William M. (Bosh) Petry, well-known Martin businessman and Deputy Grand Master of Kentucky Masons. He will be honored with a reception given by John W. Hall Lodge No. 950 at the Holiday Inn, here, from noon until 2 p.m., Saturday.

Today (Wednesday) the children's competition in the Jenny Wiley Pageant will be held at 7 p.m. at the National Guard Armory, and at 8 p.m., Thursday, eight young women will compete there for the title of Miss Jenny Wiley. They are pictured elsewhere in this section.

Also on Thursday, there will be a fashion show at 7:30 in the auditorium of Prestonsburg Elementary School.

Friday's football game between the Prestonsburg Blackcats and Leslie county will let fans on both sides give a few war whoops to encourage the warriors on the field.

Saturday's events begin with a volleyball tournament at Prestonsburg Elementary playground, followed by a horseshoe tourney to be held at 9 a.m. adjacent to Collins Service Station.

One of the day's highlights will be the dedication of the Jenny Wiley marker to be unveiled at its location next to the Municipal Building. Then the costume contest will begin at 11 a.m. when everyone, young and old, will have an opportunity to compete in a kind of pioneer fashion show.

With a break for lunch, there follows the change-of-pace race known up and down the valley as the Terrapin Trots. After a warm-up appearance last week at Paintsville's Apple Day, and a week's rest, the four-legged, 'slow but steady wins the race' philosophers should be in fine fettle.

Then for those who survive the excitement of the Turtle Trots the highlight of the day will come at 3 p.m. with the parade which will begin at the intersection of South Lake Drive and Richmond and continue down South Lake Drive to the high school grounds where it will disband.

All through the day, there will be on

Court Street a variety of activities calculated to appeal to all but the most hardened iconoclast. There will be a Merchants Bargain Mart, dunking booth, face painting, bake sales, baby wild animal zoo, something called a "Moon Walk," miniature train rides, bowling game, free health screening by Highlands Regional Medical Center, and for those who are hungry or expect to be, bake sales, and cotton candy. There will also be the kind of music Jenny Wiley, herself, probably like best, as played by The Bottom of the Barrel Bunch and others.

The sixth Jenny Wiley Festival will conclude in authentic fashion with a real, old-fashioned square dance beginning at 7 p.m. at the municipal parking lot across from the courthouse. Charlie's Coal Country Cloggers, of Stanton, will get the dancing off to a lively start, and then Clarence Henson will take over calling the sets, and Dave Sizemore and the Festival Band will back him up with toe-tappin' music.

The word around the county is, "Y'all come. If you can't dance, you'll have fun watching."

GINGHAM AND CALICO DRESSES are among the items displayed in store windows, here, this week during the Jenny Wiley Festival. These with a washboard, which was as automatic as the pioneer woman's laundry equipment got, remind us that the 'good old days' were filled with a lot of hard work.

SNAKES ALIVE! This one was until it met up with a tire iron, Friday evening. Ambers Brown, who killed the copperhead outside a housing complex at Warco, said, "It r'ared right up on its little legs and feet."

Copperhead—Plus Legs, Feet Is Biological Oddball Rarity

By Paul N. Allen
Nashville Correspondent

A two-legged serpent in the parking lot of a Warco housing complex—and a poisonous copperhead, no less! Portent of evil? Harbinger of a half-runner blight? Or just a weird snake? Well, weird, for sure, probably to the point of being a biological rarity in the extreme.

Certainly Ambers Brown, resident of an apartment on John M. Stumbo Drive, recognized that "something wasn't right" Friday afternoon when the two-foot-long pit viper r'ared up in a threatening stance, partially supporting itself, he says, "on its two little feet and legs," which appear as two distinct, flipper-like appendages about four inches from the tail. Brown, armed with a tire tool, dispatched the unseemly serpent with a well-placed blow to the head. If that hadn't done the trick then it would have been high time to get the children off the street and start worrying about next year's bean crop!

Realizing the oddity of the creature, Brown borrowed a couple of pints of formaldehyde to assure the snake's 'keeping.'

Literature on the subject and discussions with a Nashville, Tenn. naturalist and herpetologist disclosed that snakes at one time were elongated lizards, complete with legs. When it became more advantageous in an environment of (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Gov. Collins Present At Bridge Dedication

By Tim Sizemore

Under sunny skies Governor Martha Layne Collins, along with other state and local officials, spoke at the dedication of the new Goble-Roberts bridge, here, Monday morning.

Governor Collins told the gathering of Goble-Roberts residents that the new bridge, a result of the partnership between the community and state legislature, would provide convenient and uninterrupted service to residents of the addition. Persistence, she said, had been a key in bringing the project to realization.

Among others who spoke at the dedication was Kirby Isom of the Department of Transportation's Pikeville office, who said that over $9,000,000 in road work had been done during the last two years in Floyd county. He pointed out some of the bridges that have been recently constructed in the county and said that it constitutes the most road work he can remember being done in such a short time.

Older Workers Are Found To Be Reliable Employees

By Tim Sizemore

Need someone who is reliable, experienced and willing to work? Well you may find the person you are looking for in the Older Workers Program.

The program, funded by the Jobs Training Partnership Act, is designed to place people 55 and older in the job market. The purpose of the program is to provide experienced people who do not wish to retire with limited training and job placement services.

Glenda Hall, who is helping to coordinate the program, says that there has been a tremendous response by many older Floyd countians and that there is a surplus of applicants. It is hoped that more employers will take advantage of this virtually untapped resource.

According to Mrs. Hall, when the baby boomers turn 55, more emphasis will have to be placed on the dislocated and older worker. Now is the time, she adds, for employers to set an example and hire older Americans, so that when they reach 55 the program will be in place to help them, also.

The goal of this new program is to help find employment for 60 participants a year, and the quota for this year is more than half filled.

The program also offers training skills for older workers requiring further education by providing short term training workshops. J.T.P.A. can furnish up to 50% of training costs for those eligible. Some of the work shops include employability skills and how to react in a job interview. A video camera is utilized to allow participants to judge their own performance during a interview and discuss ways of improving their approach.

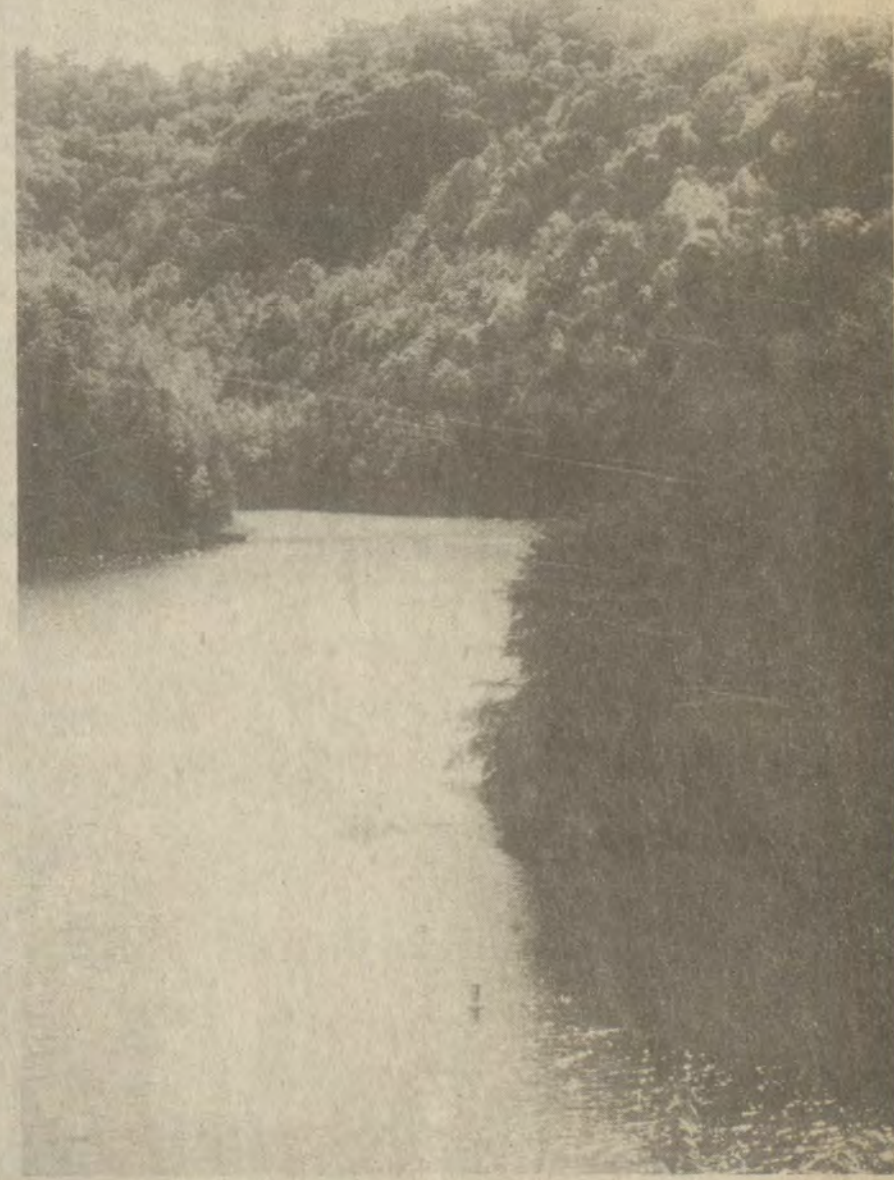

Among things that Mrs. Hall said would be attractive to prospective employers is the reliability of the older workers. She said some of the advantages include experience, more free time to devote to their jobs, no maternity leave, and no young children at home.

Those interested in the program can either be placed in fulltime or part-time employment, and it is unlikely that the older workers will interfere with young people's chances of finding a job since they will not be competing in the same job market.

Marie Slone, of Wayland, a participant in the program, says that a whole new world has been opened up for her. Mrs. Slone, who is working for Add-A-Touch Florists at Martin, says that this is the first job she has held in the community. Raising seven children took up most of her early years, and she says that she is thrilled by the older workers program and the opportunity to be useful.

Klora Osborne and Charles Newsome, owners of the business, say that Mrs. (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

$1.3 Million HUD Grant Funds Handicapped Units

By Tim Sizemore

A 1.3 million dollar grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development will mean 32 new housing units for the area's disabled and long-term mentally ill, according to an announcement by Mountain Comprehensive Care Executive Director Steve Schenk.

The purpose of the new apartment complex, says Schenk, is to provide housing for citizens in the community who have need of special accommodations. He said the project is intended to serve local people's needs and to provide a permanent home for those accepted for the housing. It is designed for those with limited income, and they will be expected to pay a proportion of the rent with the remainder being paid by H.U.D.

Several sites are now being considered for location of the new complex in the counties served by the Prestonsburg office. A time frame of at least 18 months is expected for completion of the project which will likely consist of one-story single bedroom units.

Schenk says MCC will continue to work for projects to benefit the area's disabled and mentally ill to enable them to remain in their home area.

Campbell Victim In Gun Accident

By Tim Sizemore

An accidental shooting ended in tragedy, last Thursday, for 21-year-old Miners Branch man, Gregory D. Campbell.

Campbell was pronounced dead at his home near here by Coroner Roger Nelson after he was discovered by his father at 11:30 a.m. in his bedroom.

Nelson said that the victim was shot once in the side with a 12-gauge shotgun around 11:15 a.m.

The Coroner said that it appeared that Campbell had either been cleaning his (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Parent-Teacher Meets Set

By B.A. Heinze

Wondering how Johnny or Jane is really doing in school this year? For those harried parents who work and haven't been able to attend parent-teacher conferences scheduled during the day, the districtwide parent-teacher conferences scheduled from 5 to 8 p.m. next Monday night, will be especially welcome.

All parents of school children are invited by the Floyd County Board of Education to attend the conferences to be held at each local school in the county.

At this time, parents will be able to discuss with the school staff their child's educational progress and how they can work with teachers as partners to provide the best possible education for their children.

"After all," Ronald L. Hager, assistant superintendent, said, "we talk about someone very special at the parent-teacher conference. That special someone is the child we share with the parents we serve."

The parent-teacher conferences are being supported by the Floyd County Education Forum, an advocate for several years of such meetings, and its members and those of the Floyd County Board of Education are hopeful of a good parent attendance of these conferences.

Continuing Education

COPYRIGHT 1987 KVMA

Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association Did you know that your veterinarian hasn't finished school yet? Nor is he likely to finish within his career!

The reason he hasn't finished school is simple. He is required to keep himself updated on advances in veterinary medical matters by completing a certain number of continuing education courses each year, all designed to keep practicing veterinarians informed on the latest developments in their field.

An example of where these continuing education courses are offered is the annual Mid-America Veterinary Conference, held Oct. 3-6 this year in Louisville. Regarded as one of the best in the nation, the conference brings speakers in the specialties of large animal practice, small animal practice and equine medicine to Kentucky, where Kentucky veterinarians (and many from out of state as well) can learn about recent advances in veterinary medicine.

Constituent associations (regional veterinary groups) as well as specialized groups such as bovine, swine and small animal practitioners also hold conferences throughout the year for the same reason.

On a national basis, the American Veterinary Medical Association convention includes workshops which are attended by Kentucky veterinarians, who also attend the Western States conference in Las Vegas.

In recent years Kentucky has come to the forefront as a conference site. The American Association of Equine Practitioners will meet in Lexington in December, 1987.

Last year, the national association of bovine practitioners met in Louisville. Veterinary medicine is not a static science, not one in which all the knowledge there will ever be has been gathered into one pool which you can memorize. The knowledge changes, sometimes daily, as new diseases are recognized, as new treatments and medicines are developed.

An excellent example is Potomac Horse Fever, a disease first recognized in 1979. Now, only eight years later, highly effective methods of treatment have been developed and a vaccine made available. Kentucky veterinarians who specialize in horses—and some for whom treatment of horses is only part of a larger scope of practice—have become authorities on the diagnosis and treatment of this disease, thanks to a process of continuing education.

If your veterinarian is absent from the office around the first of October, or at other times of the year, and gone to a convention, now you know why. Veterinarians feel an obligation to give you their very best—and keeping abreast of the latest knowledge is an important step in that direction.

Fasten sausage together on a meat skewer before frying—one flip with a spatula turns them all, and you cut down on spattering.

Four from County Attain Excel Academic Honors

Excel College students from Floyd county who attained the Director's and President's List for the past semester are listed below. Those who maintained a 4.00 grade point average carrying at least three classes with no absences are members of the President's List. They are Brenda Conn, of Martin, medical administrative assistant, and Janice Prater, Prestonsburg, medical administrative assistant.

Those on the Director's List maintained a 3.50 grade point average or better and carried at least three classes. They are Judy Meade, of Hi Hat, medical administrative assistant, and Tammy Music, of Prestonsburg, medical administrative assistant.

Morehead Is Test Site For GMAT

Morehead State University will serve as a testing site for the Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT) Saturday, Oct. 17, and Saturday, March 19.

The GMAT is used by approximately 900 graduate schools of management as a predictor of academic performance, according to Dr. Ray Bernardi, coordinator of graduate programs for MSU's School of Business and Economics.

Additional information is available through the GMAT Educational Testing Service, CN 6101, Princeton, J.J. 08541-6101, or by contacting Dr. Bernardi at 215 Combs Building, or calling (606) 783-2183.

To serve as a test site, a college or university must be approved by the Graduate Management Admission Council, Princeton, N.J.

Community Education Sets Annual Meeting

The Kentucky Community Education Association is celebrating its tenth anniversary this year with a special theme for its annual meeting. The theme, Dreams Becoming Reality, represents the dreams of about 50 people who met ten years ago at Rough River State Park to formalize an association of Community School administrators, community council members, educators, and volunteers. One of the group's goals was the enactment of legislation that would allow the community school concept to spread through the state. That goal was reached in 1982 and in 1985 funding was provided to help communities develop programs.

As community education has grown, so has the association, with representatives from regions across the state participating in the activities. And so have the dreams, as more and more towns and counties begin to make full use of their school facilities, and to involve local citizens in their programs.

This year's conference will be held November 5th and 6th at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Louisville. The first day KCEA will present Tracey Dunning in a seminar on the Design And Administration of Community Programs. Dunning was Executive Director of Learning Unlimited, formally Denver Free University, and for the last eight years, she has been a LERN seminar presenter.

A wine and cheese reception will be held following the seminar with special exhibits available. The annual banquet will begin at 7:30 p.m. with guest speaker Dr. John Brock, Superintendent of Rowan County Schools.

Amendment Proposed To Limit Liability Awards

Proponents of Constitutional change to relieve the medical liability problem that threatens health care in Kentucky have praised a special task force recommendation to give the General Assembly the power to limit damage awards for non-economic losses in lawsuits.

A proposal to restrict the amount of non-economic damages that can be awarded in injury cases was one of the 10 top-ranked suggestions for Constitutional Amendments included in the final report of the Special Commission on Constitutional Review released on August 25 in Frankfort. The commission was created by the 1986 legislature to make recommendations for modernizing the state's 96-year-old Constitution.

"In our opinion, this action is long overdue and would have a positive impact in regarding the medical liability problem in Kentucky," said Dr. Richard Hensch, a Lexington internist who serves as president of the Kentucky Medical Association. "The proposed Constitutional Amendment would in no way limit a person's right to sue when he or she has been truly injured through negligence. In fact, cases for the truly injured will have a better change of swift justice and fair compensation if the courts are not burdened with unwarranted suits."

Dr. Hensch noted that a recent survey of 330 Kentucky doctors in family practice or in obstetrics and gynecology showed that over the past eight years 36 percent simply quit delivering babies and another 19 percent cut back. In addition, another 12 percent said they might stop soon.

The proposed Constitutional Amendment as recommended by the Commission would be to amend Section 54 to read as follows:

"The General Assembly shall have no power to limit the amount to be recovered for economic loss, including medical expenses, property damage, and lost earnings arising from injuries resulting in death, or for injuries to person or property. The General Assembly shall have the power to limit the amount to be recovered for non-economic loss, punitive damages and all other non-pecuniary damage arising from injuries resulting in death or from injuries to person or property."

Third Birthday

Zach Hilton celebrated his third birthday, August 3, at the home of his parents, Chuck and Sherry Hilton, of the Auxier Road. A train cake and ice cream were served to his friends and family.

He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Kinzer, of Allen, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hilton, of Prestonsburg.

Although many schools closed in May, some jobs in elementary, secondary and higher education extended into June before those people left the payrolls for summer break.

The Mountain Heritage

Written with love, in honor of Edward and Lillian Stewart

There is a place called Hi Hat, Kentucky.

If you can find, you are lucky. It's not on a map and far in the hills, It's like the fifties and has its thrills.

To most of us it is our home, Those are the hills we like to roam. I love the sweet memories of our homeplace.

With mawmaw's great cookin' and country grace. Everybody says she cooked the best.

Those hillbilly recipes beat the rest. That downhome cookin' I just can't forget.

Those delicious pies haven't left me yet!

My grandad was my best friend, I watched him plow and the soil would blend.

To me he was big, handsome, and strong.

He could plow a field all day long. My grandad and I used to play, I followed him a lot, and most of the day.

Mawmaw always kept the Bible close at hand.

She is a saint to the people of our land.

She surely is one of a kind, I'm glad the Lord stayed on her mind.

The mountain heritage is the love they shared.

With inheritance of brotherhood because they cared.

There were many times hard and sad.

Like the ones we lost, and times we had.

They had 13 children that they raised.

And in church on Sunday it's the Lord they praised.

These parents taught us love and respect.

In time of the needy they didn't reject.

It would be nice for us all to meet again.

And have a reunion like we did once then.

Remember the reunions and all the food.

It would have fed a great multitude. They left in our hearts their love and ways.

I thank God for those memorable days.

With Love Forever,

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: I know that a diet high in fiber and low in fat may reduce my risk of cancer. So I'm trying to increase the amount of fiber I eat. But I'm curious, is there a limit to how much fiber a person should eat?

ANSWER: Good nutrition means eating for variety, balance and moderation. While the National Cancer Institute recommends increasing the amount of fiber in your diet, their dietary guidelines also emphasize the need to eat a balanced diet.

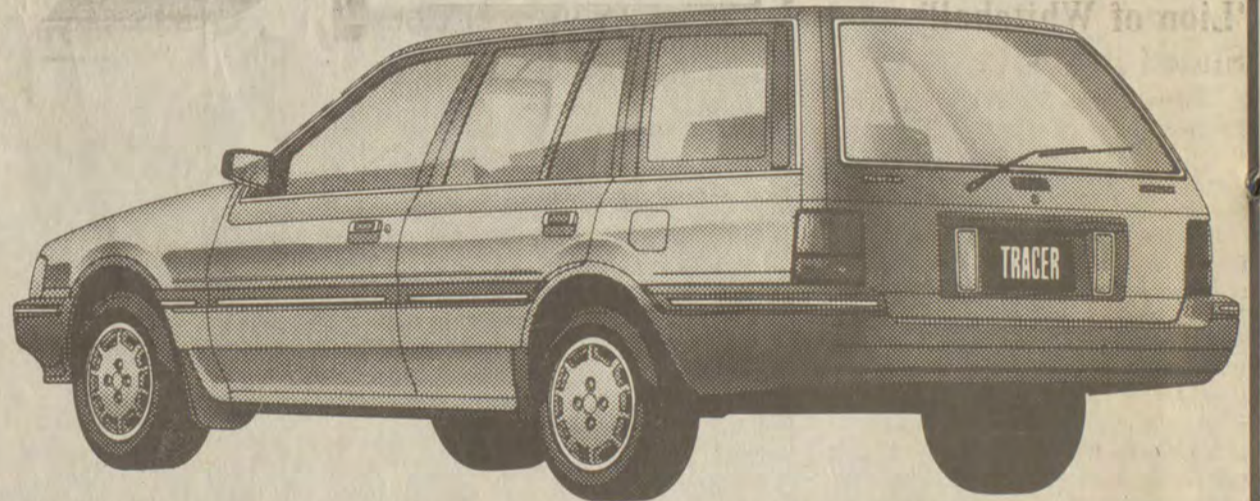

Americans now eat 10-15 grams of fiber daily. Populations that have diets with twice this amount have a lower rate of cancers of the colon and rectum. Therefore, the National Cancer Institute advises Americans to double the amount of fiber they are currently eating. A minimum of 20 grams and an upper limit of 35 grams daily are considered safe and suitable levels. The amount of fiber in foods can be determined from many product labels.

The lower limit of 20 grams is consistent with NCI's recommendation to double current fiber levels, estimated to average about 11 grams daily. However, fiber helps to move food quickly through the intestine and out of the body. Eating too much fiber may upset the digestive system and interfere with the absorption of essential vitamins and nutrients. NCI views the 35 grams limit as a safety factor to caution against over consumption of fiber.

As always, it is a good idea to check with your doctor before making any major change in your diet, particularly if you have any other medical conditions that might be affected by a change in diet.

Col. Clark, Army Band To Perform at Marshall

Marshall University alumnus and Prestonsburg native, William E. Clark, is coming back to his alma mater—and bringing about 100 of his favorite people with him.

Colonel Clark, who earned his bachelor's and master's degrees from Marshall, is commander and conductor of the United States Army Field Band. The internationally-popular group will perform at Marshall's Henderson Center Friday, Oct. 9, at 8 p.m.

The performance is being sponsored jointly by Marshall and the Huntington Herald-Dispatch.

Tickets for the free performance may be obtained at the Herald-Dispatch, Marshall's Athletic Ticket Office in Henderson Center, the First Huntington National Bank, all locations of Gino's Pizza, the Twentieth Street Bank, the Card Shop and at Marshall's Military Science Department in the Gullickson Hall section of Henderson Center.

A 1952 graduate of Ashland High School, Colonel Clark earned his A.B. degree in music from Marshall in 1956 and his M.A. degree in music education in 1959.

Prior to joining the active Army, he taught instrumental music in Kentucky and Ohio and was bandmaster of the Kentucky National Guard. Clark was commissioned in 1966 and was assigned as staff bands officer at Headquarters, U.S. Army-Europe. This was followed by an assignment to the Staff Bands Office, Headquarters, Department of the Army, Washington, D.C.

After a tour with the 199th Infantry Brigade in Vietnam, Clark served as executive officer of the U.S. Military Academy Band at West Point, N.Y., and then as commandant of the U.S. Army Element, School of Music, in Norfolk, Va.

He was named the U.S. Army Field Band's sixth director in June, 1979.

Colonel Clark's military decorations include the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star Medal, the Meritorious Service Medal with two oak leaf clusters and the Army Commendation Medal with two oak leaf clusters. He is a graduate of the Armed Forces Staff College and recently was elected to the prestigious American Bandmasters Association.

The 100-member unit, formed in 1946 as the Army's musical ambassadors, is headquartered in Washington, D.C. The band and its Soldiers' Chorus annually travel about 40,000 miles, presenting 500 performances.

Colonel Clark and the band will be

'Lion of Whitehall' Slated in L'ville

Louisville actor Steve Wise will bring the colorful legend of Cassius Marcellus Clay to life in a dramatic and historical one-man show based on the statesman's memorable career.

Part One of the presentation: "The Lion of White Hall," is a solo dramatic performance taken directly from Clay's Memoirs and other first person sources. Part Two: "The Legendary Lion of White Hall" is an historical presentation that utilizes Wise's extensive collection of Clay artifacts, documents and slides to complete the depiction of Clay in historical perspective. Audience participation and discussion is encouraged at this time.

Steve Wise is known to audiences from his roles with Actors Theater, Stage One: The Louisville Children's Theatre, Derby Dinner Playhouse, Shakespeare in the Park and his film roles in Sudden Death and The Act. Television work include appearances on Dallas, Another World, As The World Turns, Search for Tomorrow, KET's Math Series and Another Page.

Beta Club Tours Hospital

Allen Central High School's Beta Club toured Our Lady of the Way Hospital on September 15, the hospital's fortieth anniversary. Their interest in hospital services and educational requirements for various staff positions was quite keen.

The 33 students and their two sponsors, Rita Osborne and Patricia Murphy, divided into two groups for the tour. Jayne Howard, R.N. and Waneta Newsome, R.N. led the groups.

A special moment for Newsome's group happened when they witnessed a young patient receiving a Scrubby Bear. The Beta Club has contributed generously to the hospital's Scrubby Bear program for two years.

Beta Club members watched a video presentation made from old movies of the hospital and its staff while enjoying refreshments at the end of their tours.

Boosting Awareness Is Key To Fighting Mental Illness

For an estimated 250,000 Kentuckians with some form of mental disorder, one of the biggest hurdles they face is making other people understand their problem, state health officials say.

"Mental illness is no respecter of persons," said Director Jim Roberts of the Division of Mental Health in the Cabinet for Human Resources. "It strikes young and old, rich and poor, black and white.

"Mental illness isn't something that just happens to someone else," said Roberts. "About 15 percent of all Americans are expected to suffer a major depressive episode during their lives."

Getting the public to realize that mental disorders are similar to any other long-term disease is a major difficulty for mental health advocates, families and professionals, said Rich Heine, a research psychologist and program coordinator with the division.

"Mental illness may be lifelong, but it doesn't have to be totally disabling," said Heine. "Most mental illness develops when a person is in his or her late teens or early 20s. In some cases, if a disorder can be detected and treated with rehabilitation and personal support before it becomes a major problem, it need not become seriously disabling.

"People with chronic mental problems need continuous medical care and rehabilitation just as patients with heart disease or diabetes do," said Heine. "Although major mental illness can't be totally 'cured,' we can relieve the symptoms and help many people lead useful lives.

"Society has a fear of mental illness," he said, "but most people with long-term disorders are not dangerous. By the same token, a person can be dangerous without being mentally ill."

Many of the major forms of mental illness and its ramifications—depression, schizophrenia and teen suicide—have gotten publicity through television movies in the past few years. But other less publicized forms, such as manic depression, anxiety and paranoia, need similar support for treatment and rehabilitative programs.

Heine said the television programs could help create that support by giving viewers an inside look at the realities of these mental illnesses and how they affect patients and their families.

"There is a grassroots movement across the country to seek better care for and make society more aware of the problems of the mentally ill," he added. "Kentucky is part of that movement, but changes just don't happen overnight. Everyone—family, friends, neighbors, professionals—must work together to open the minds of many to the realities of mental illness."

Roberts said that many Kentuckians are becoming actively involved in two major advocacy groups—the Kentucky Alliance for the Mentally Ill and the Kentucky Association for Mental Health.

"There is also a statewide network of community mental health/mental retardation centers," said Roberts, "which provide education and a myriad of services for mentally ill Kentuckians and their families."

RULES, HELPFUL HINTS, INFORMATION, ETC.

Terrapins must run under own power. Once into starting gate or area, no one may touch them except the officials. Owners and rooters may scream their charges into trotting, of course.

No stimulant - To be doused on, or injected into critter. This includes paint, oils, ointments, etc. Turtle must race in his own birthday suit. The Wildlife Division in Frankfort does approve our races!

Terrapins only! Again, these may go under various names as Box Turtles, Box Terrapins, Land Tortoises, "Hard Hats", Hard Shells, "Tarpins", and Poppers (when hit by a ton and a half of factory-built metal). Ugh!

No Water Turtles! Again, may go under various names as "Snappin Turtles", Leather uglies, mean sliders, mud turtles, mud duddles and stinkers. Ugh! Double Ugh. Don't worry - remember old tale, "they don't let go till it thunders"? True story!

Losing terrapins to be turned into paddock after races to be returned to different woods (unless family pet).

All proceeds go to Our Lady of the Mountains School with donations to Apple Day and Jenny Wiley Festival.

What do you feed your entry? Plenty of water to drink only, earth worms, bugs, garden vegetables and raw fruits and as you well know from last year, an occasional finger! We also had one incident of a nose bite. Some terrapins do not like to be kissed - even if he did win a heat! They also like dirt, moisture, sunlight, warmth, shade and leaves to sleep in.

WHERE TO FIND A SUPER DELUXE RACING STEED

Four Natural Habbits:
First - Soup! Mashed Potatoes! Yuki! The best place to find your trotters is on the worst possible inaccessible curve on your local highway. It's nearly impossible to collect (or save) one of these guys amidst the honking of horns and screeching of tires as you nimbly dash out in front of two tons of factory-made machine. BE CAREFUL!

Second - The second place is your prized vegetable garden. Critters are found nibbling away glorious hunks of tomatoes, lettuce, melon, etc. Save them, though, they may pay you back.

Third - From your kid, baby brother, sister and/or family dog! These are the real aggressors - the real fighters. Don't be alarmed should these fellers not be "all together". Remember, a three legged hoss won a race a couple of years ago! At least, you did it again. You saved HIM!

Fourth - NOWHERE! Good. Rent one of ours. $5 per turtle. Available at track on racing day.

YOU CAN'T DECORATE A TURTLE!
But you CAN decorate a shoebox!

New Medical Claims Contract To Save Ky. $2.5 Million

Kentucky's Medicaid program is expected to save at least $2.5 million over the life of a new three-year contract for a Texas firm to process the thousands of claims made for Medicaid coverage.

Cabinet for Human Resources Secretary Al Austin recently announced that the agreement between the state Department for Medicaid Services and Electronic Data Systems of Dallas has been completed and is pending final approval by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Austin said the EDS proposal was selected from three bids submitted on the basis of ratings given for points including per claim charge, implementation costs, charges for computer services provided by the vendor and technical systems requirements.

Under the new contract, which takes effect July 1, 1988, EDS will receive 40.48 cents per processed claim. The estimated annual cost to the state will total $5.7 million in payments to EDS for claims processing plus an estimated $282,000 for postage.

EDS has been processing Medicaid claims since December 1983 under a contract that is effective through June 30, 1988. Under the existing agreement, the company charges 50.75 cents per claim, including postage costs.

Medicaid Services Commissioner Hughes Walker said the new pact offers some improvements in addition to savings.

"EDS will install state-of-the-art software which will enable its staff to more quickly detect errors on claims."

"The company also will assign additional staff to the task of determining whether health care coverage should be paid by Medicare or a private health insurance policy instead of Medicaid."

Walker said, "When a Medicaid client's health care costs can be paid from another source, we save benefit dollars and are better able to serve Kentuckians who have no health insurance at all."

Payments for medical assistance benefits totaled $606.2 million during the fiscal year that ended June 30. The current fiscal year budget allows for Medicaid benefits totaling $700.8 million.

"We feel our new agreement with EDS will enable us to give health care providers more efficient service, which in turn will solidify their cooperation as we work to ensure continued access to medical care for some 334,000 Kentuckians who are eligible for Medicaid benefits," said Walker.

FLOYD COUNTY EDUCATION FORUM

Parents who are concerned about their child's progress in school will have the opportunity to talk with teachers next Monday evening from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. at every school in the county.

This is the response of the Floyd County Board of Education to requests by the Floyd County Education Forum and the Floyd County Teachers Association to give the community an opportunity to promote communication and cooperation between parents and teachers through parent teacher conferences.

Parents are encouraged to meet with teachers to discuss concerns about their children's performance after the normal school day. The late afternoon and early evening hours will give working parents a chance to get information about their children first hand.

In the past such parent-teacher conferences were out of reach for the working mother and father.

The level of participation in these conferences will be a factor in planning for future scheduled conferences. Therefore, it is very important to support your commitment to parent-teacher conferences by taking advantage of this opportunity to learn about your child's educational progress.

You are urged to meet with your child's teacher, Monday evening from 5 to 8 p.m., at your local school.

The Jenny Wiley Festival Board request the honour of your presence at the Dedication and Reception of the Jenny Wiley Festival Monument dedicated in memory of Edward L. Student From France Visits Maytown Area

Stephan Carteron, of Levallois, France, visited Mr. T.A. Combs family, recently. Mr. Carteron, son of Madame Carteron, and the late Mr. Carteron, chose to spend one month in the mining region. He was a guest of Miss Geraldine and Miss Corrine Allen, of Eastern, while here.

Monsieur Carteron, who studied English in France for three years, was eager to practice what he had studied. However, he found the language almost as difficult as William, son of Mr. and Mrs. T.A. Combs, who studied French for two years, found using his French. Angela Combs translated their conversations.

Having completed a Bac diploma in mathematics and physics, Monsieur Carteron, has returned to France to further his studies on the college and university level.

It is better to ask some of the questions than to know all of the answers.

State Presses Case In Asbestos Costs

Attorney General David L. Armstrong had announced that a critical decision was issued in the Commonwealth's asbestos case against 23 national asbestos manufacturers. The Kentucky Supreme Court refused the request of asbestos manufacturers' to immediately review the Franklin Circuit Court's decision relating to the statute of limitations.

According to Armstrong the Commonwealth will have a 10-year, rather than a five-year, statute of limitations as a result of this ruling. "The decision today will allow Kentucky to continue to bring a very important case to final trial in the circuit court," Armstrong said. "The asbestos products must be removed and will be a very expensive procedure. Manufacturers who had prior knowledge of the hazards should be responsible for the cost and not Kentucky's taxpayers." The lower court had previously ruled that the commonwealth had a 10-year statute of limitations.

The manufacturers had urged the court to exercise extraordinary relief and decide the issue while the case had not yet been brought to final trial in circuit court. The higher court refused to accept the manufacturer's attempt to establish litigation expense as grounds for extraordinary relief.

The decision stemmed from a lawsuit filed in Franklin Circuit Court charging that the manufacturers should pay the expense of removing all of the asbestos in the approximately 5,000 state-owned buildings because of the manufacturers' prior knowledge that their asbestos products could pose serious health problems.

Country music has saved The Judds' relationship

By Wendy Wallace

As relative newcomers to the music business, the mother-daughter duo The Judds took country music by surprise in 1984. Mother Naomi and daughter Wynonna garnered the Country Music Association's Horizon Award, given to the most promising new country artist. Previous winners included such stars as John Anderson and Ricky Skaggs.

Naomi Judd

"It was the grandest moment of our life," Naomi Judd recalls. "There we were, sitting among the greats of country music. And when our names were called, Wynonna and I looked at each other with disbelief. I thought to myself, 'Why can't they just mail it to us? I don't want to go up there!'"

On Monday, Oct. 12, one of five new artists will pick up this year's Horizon Award at "The 21st Annual Country Music Association Awards," airing live on CBS. Host Kenny Rogers, a Horizon winner himself, will be joined by country music's finest at Nashville's Grand Ole Opry. Awards will be presented in 11 categories, with The Judds up for Entertainer of the Year.

"Country music is the voice of the common man," Judd says. "It's the soul of the earth. There's a genuine rapport among country musicians, a sense of family."

A native of Ashland, Ky., Judd married and moved to Los Angeles. But in 1976, after divorcing her husband, she brought young Wynonna back to her Kentucky roots. Inspired by Opry radio broadcasts, the pair began to sing and play together. "We feel that country music has saved our relationship," Naomi Judd says.

The duo won Grammy Awards in 1985 and 1986 for Best Country Performance by a Duo. Last year, their "Rockin' with the Rhythm" LP was the year's best-selling country album. And their fourth album, "Heartland," was released to warm praise earlier this year.

"I suggested 'Heartland' because it meant 'a simple home, a secure home life and a sense of self-identity,'" Judd says of the album's title. And she says that when they aren't touring, the Judds do seek the comforts of their Tennessee home. "It helps us to stay focused," she says.

They are determined to stay sincere, in spite of their success. "If we hadn't made it with the patience and love that we learned as Christians, if we hadn't had that to guide us and nurture us, we wouldn't have made it," Judd says. "That's something we work on constantly."

CRIME STORY

Torello (Dennis Farina, r.) accuses Col. Warner (guest star Tim Carhart) of hiding a nuclear scientist suspected of murder, on "Crime Story," airing TUESDAY, OCT. 13 on NBC. (May be preempted by a National League playoff game.)

SOAP BEA

Kennedy aims to change our image of the disabled

By Marie Michaels

It's not often that daytime soap operas depict the physically handicapped in their story lines. But that's what "General Hospital" has been doing since June, when quadriplegic Nancy Becker Kennedy joined the show in the role of Martha McKee.

Nancy Becker Kennedy

Kennedy, 35, became a quadriplegic when she broke her neck in a diving accident 15 years ago. She joined "GH" hoping to dispel some of the misconceptions about the handicapped.

"I'm really on fire with the potential of what we can do," she says. "The thing that's always there for the disabled is fighting through the thicket of crazy notions that other people have about you. It's real hard, feeling like a regular person but knowing that everyone else thinks you're different."

Kennedy feels that television encourages stereotypes of the disabled.

"A lot of times when TV does a disability story they use it to get quick sentimentality," she says. "The local news, for instance, always looks for some inspirational thing, like a one-legged mountain climber. They treat the disabled like they're objects, not people."

"Another thing TV does is feature the person constantly dwelling on their disability," she adds. "That gets tiresome. I don't spend my day thinking that I'm disabled. I think about whether or not the chicken is defrosted, just like everyone else does."

She hopes that her story line presents positive images of the disabled.

"It would be interesting to have Jake (played by Sam Behrens) and Bobbi Meyer (Jackie Zeman) set Martha up with a blind date," she says. "We could show how the person might react. It would also be nice to have a story in which Martha has a relationship with a man - someone who becomes interested in her romantically and then has to figure out how to show that interest."

Above all, Kennedy wants the soap to show the similarities between the disabled and other people.

"I try to show the 'GH' audience that people with disabilities can be vital, sexy and strong," she says. "I hope the audience sees that we're just like everyone else."

Roseanne Barr updates the battle of the sexes

By Frank Lovece

Given that comedian Roseanne Barr is as funny as she is big, it's tempting to say, "Step up to the Barr for a bellyful." But whether the subject is weighty or witty, it's best to leave the jokes to her, as she demonstrates in her HBO special, "The Roseanne Barr Show," which has its final airing on Tuesday, Oct. 13.

Roseanne Barr

Barr's specialty is the old-fashioned battle of updated with jabs at working women, Donahue and birth control. Some of it seems like the warmed-over Borscht Belt shtick that has been a staple of TV stand-up acts from "The Ed Sullivan Show" to "On Location." But most of it has a more vicious bite. Alluding to her figure, she gets back at those svelte boutique clerks: "I eat the same amount of food you do," she brags. "I just don't puke when I'm done." A mock commercial for FemRage estrogen tablets shows the

THE SURVIVORS

"The Survivors" stars Robin Williams as an unemployed man trying to stay alive in spite of a mob hitman who is trailing him. The movie airs THURSDAY, OCT. 15 on ABC.

Mulch, Don't Burn Is Word For Leaves

Fall leaves, while beautiful to look at, can become a health hazard when burned, Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet officials warned today.

Division for Air Quality Director Roger McCann explained that smoke from burning leaves contains high concentrations of pollutants such as hydrocarbons, particulate matter, carbon monoxide, and nitrogen oxides. According to McCann, the pollutants released by leaf burning are generally the same as those in other burning processes, and because the burning is close to the ground, the smoke is more likely to be breathed before the pollutants have a chance to dissipate.

"Leaf smoke is especially dangerous for persons with respiratory diseases such as asthma, bronchitis, emphysema and pneumonia. Even in healthy people, it can cause nose, eye and throat irritations," said McCann.

Leaf burning is an unhealthful practice anywhere, and in some areas of the state it is actually illegal. "Some communities have local ordinances banning leaf burning, and in some areas that have not attained compliance with national air standards, leaf burning is prohibited by state Air Quality's regulations," McCann stated.

Leaf burning is a serious threat not only to health, but also to safety and property. In addition to the Division for Air Quality's regulations, the Kentucky Division of Forestry has regulations governing leaf burning. During the forest fire hazard season, beginning Oct. 1, Division of Forestry regulations prohibit burning anything capable of spreading fire within 150 feet of a wooded area. The no-burning provision is in force throughout the day except between the hours of 4:30 p.m. and midnight.

McCann suggested other ways to dispose of leaves. "Let your leaves work for you," he said, "use them for mulch, plow them in to enrich soil, or compost them. If you can't use them, then bag them for collection or deliver them to a permitted landfill."

For additional information concerning burning laws in your area, contact the Division for Air Quality in Frankfort at (502) 564-3382, or one of the Air Quality Regional Offices located in Ashland, (502) 325-8569, Bowling Green, (502) 843-5475, Florence, (606) 371-0598, Hazard/London, (606) 439-2391, Owensboro, (502) 686-3304, and Paducah, (502) 444-8295, the Kentucky Division of Forestry, (502) 564-4496, and local government officials.

Other factors influencing a student's tendency to drop out are family and personal problems and economic disadvantages. (Kentucky Dropout Prevention Advisory Committee)

Hospice of Big Sandy In Need of Volunteers

Hospice of Big Sandy is planning volunteer training sessions to acquaint interested community members with the work which Hospice is doing with terminally ill patients and their families in this area. These sessions allow individuals interested in caring for families in crisis to learn of the services they can offer to families in need in Floyd and Johnson counties. Hospice needs volunteers from all walks of life to work with families. It isn't only the professional nurse who has something to offer to these patients and families, often it is the caring neighbor with time to spend in small services who is most desperately needed and appreciated.

Hospice relies strongly on the volunteers in our communities to help provide service to people who need this caring help. Without the help of the volunteer, both lay and professional, the services Hospice has to offer would be limited. The team approach which hospice uses in caring for the patient and family is greatly enhanced by the help offered by caring volunteers.

Training sessions will be offered in the conference room in the Johnson County Courthouse on the third floor and will begin on Tuesday, October 13, continuing for six successive Tuesdays. The sessions will begin at 7 p.m. and end at 9. For more information, call Chris Conley, 886-2721 or 886-8091.

Reddington Collection To Be Exhibited at MUS, Oct. 7 through Nov. 14

A collection of 33 paintings by Charles Reddington will be displayed in the main gallery of Morehead State University's Claypool-Young Art Building, Oct. 7-Nov. 14.

Depicting what he believes is "man's apprehension to natural disasters and eventual death," Reddington's paintings are aggressive and have a Greek mythological appeal.

In addition, he will exhibit 11 of his paintings of life in Italy, where he has spent his summers since 1969.

A professor of painting at Indiana State University, he received the Tiffany Foundation Fellowship and was awarded two research grants from Indiana State.

He received his bachelor's degree from The Art Institute of Chicago and his master's degree from Southern Illinois University and then painted for 10 years in Australia.

Reddington will be on campus Oct. 14 and 15 to address MSU art students and discuss his paintings and time spent in Italy. Additional information is available through the MSU Department of Art, (606) 783-2193.

The gallery is open Monday through Saturday, 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m.

The federal estimate of Kentuckians working in July was 1,531,000, down 13,700 from June, but 3,800 above the July 1986 report of 1,527,200. The July figure remains significantly higher than the average monthly employment of 1,513,600 for 1987.

Future Social Workers Get Work Experience

Morehead State University social work majors are gaining hands on experience in their field and area professionals are providing that experience as a result of the university's new Social Work Mentor Program.

Fourteen area social work professionals will serve as mentors to groups of eight social work students each semester. Students will meet with their mentors a minimum of two times a semester and participate in staff training and workshops hosted by the mentor's agency.

Students enter the program their sophomore year and stay active until their practicum semester. When a student enters the practicum semester, a new student is placed in the mentor group.

Students will work with juvenile delinquents, the mentally ill, abused children and adults, alcohol and drug treatment programs, foster care homes, nursing home patients and halfway houses. They also will learn more about the legal system and its operation in the social work network.

ASPIRIN-SENSITIVITY

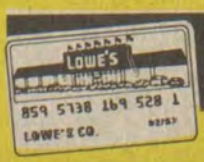

Approximately one million people in the U.S. are hypersensitive to aspirin. There are two major types of symptoms that can result. One type consists of shortness of breath. The other type consists of skin reactions such as edema, rash or hives. Aspirin hypersensitivity occurs more commonly (up to 20 percent) in people who have asthma or chronic itching of the skin. The incidence of aspirin hypersensitivity in the general population is much lower (0.3 percent). If a person is hypersensitive to aspirin, there is a possibility that he will also be hypersensitive to other drugs that have the same chemical structure. This is called cross-sensitivity. For instance, many aspirin-sensitive patients are also allergic to the new nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs.

COOLEY APOTHECARY carries what you would expect to find in a well-inventoried drug store. We are very proud to be able to provide families in this area with all their pharmaceutical needs. Our records are fully maintained so that they can be readily available to both you and your physician. You'll find us located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4. MasterCard and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments.

HANDY HINT:

The aspirin-sensitive patient may also react to a number of foods such as almonds or apricots that naturally contain salicylate.

Trojans Fall To Rebels, 13-12 In Footbrawl Slugfest, Saturday

In a bench clearing brawl, it helps to have a bench to clear. The Wheelwright Trojans, suffering from a season-long string of injuries, entered Saturday's contest against Allen Central with only 21 able bodies.

To make an already bad situation worse, the Trojans lost one of their most able bodies when fullback and linebacker, Doug Little, was tossed from the game following a bench-clearing slugfest late in the second quarter.

Little, Wheelwright's leading rusher on the season and one of their top defensive performers, proved to be the only permanent casualty of the illegal use of hands.

The talented senior, after making his feelings known to Allen Central heads, was ejected from the game. With a gash on his hand, a result of a teething Rebel, Little stood helplessly on the sidelines as his Trojans fell victim to county rival, Allen Central, 13-12.

Little was ejected with 1:13 remaining in the second half. The Trojans had just scored a touchdown and trailed Allen Central 7-6.

During the drive which ate up five minutes, Little accounted for 37 of Wheelwright's 69 yards, 16 of those coming on a second down and 21 pass play.

Handy Jackson, on a seven-yard run, scored the Trojan touchdown, and while Jackson crossed the goal line, Wheelwright and Allen Central fell to fighting back up the field.

After order was restored, the officials tossed Little out, the only player receiving such action.

Down to a slim 20 players, Wheelwright failed to execute on offense and couldn't stop Allen Central from doing so.

The Rebels, playing their homecoming game at Prestonsburg, scored a touchdown in the first quarter when Nathan Shelton hauled in a Darren Conn pass, and added what proved to be the winning score on their first possession of the second half.

Following two consecutive Wheelwright offenses penalties, Jeff Hughes broke loose for a 42-yard touchdown run, capping off a 68-yard, five-play Allen Central drive that took two minutes and 12 seconds off the third quarter clock.

Playing without regular backfield partner Mickey Parsons, Hughes accepted the additional responsibility by running for 115 yards and one touchdown. Hughes, a senior, was Allen Central's and the game's leading rusher.

Ball control was one of the important factors Donnie Daniels, Allen Central head coach, listed as being critical for his Rebels.

Although Wheelwright held the football over five minutes more than the Rebels, Allen Central managed to produce the control offense their coach spoke of.

The Rebels ground out 179 yards rushing the football, and relied on a strong defensive effort in earning the one-point victory.

"We went back to our regular defense this week," Donnie Daniels said. "I think maybe we confused the kids by trying to do too much on defense, so we went back to our basic stuff, and it showed tonight. We played a lot better defensively than we've been playing lately."

Allen Central's defense, although they surrendered two Wheelwright drives, increased their intensity late in the fourth quarter, denied Wheelwright points on good opportunities, and salvaged the Rebels second win of the season.

Trailing, 13-12, Wheelwright recovered a Rebel fumble on the 41-yard line when Brian Ray pounced on the loose pigskin. One play later, Handy Jackson, the Trojans' leading rusher with 99 yards, ran nine yards to the 50-yard line.

With under 10 minutes remaining in the game, Allen Central sacked Bobby Hood for a five-yard loss, and later denied the Trojans a pass completion, forcing Wheelwright to give up possession on a punt.

The Trojans weren't any worse for wear though. On the second play from scrimmage, Wheelwright regained control by recovering another Allen Central fumble.

But Daniels' defense held again. Or maybe Roger Johnson's offense failed again.

Akers Biggest Attraction In Cougar-Bobcat Matchup

His Elkhorn City football team hadn't won a game all season, but in watching Randall Akers perform on the sidelines, one got the feeling that the coach was directing his team through a playoff contest.

In 40-degree weather, Akers, Elkhorn City head coach, had worked up a sweat. His hair was wet from the perspiration of his own energy and clearly visible each time Akers introduced his baseball cap to the Mile High turf.

Stalking the sidelines with the same intensity as a caged lion, Akers yelled out instructions, willingly let his feelings, both good and bad, show, and gained more yards up and down the field than his Cougars have all season.

"Speak to me!" Akers yelled to one of his players who was slow about returning to his feet after being tackled on the Elkhorn City sideline. "Get up from there!" Akers said in the same excited tone. "You're all right."

Emotional, well that doesn't go quite far enough to describe this man. Akers produced as much energy in trying to get his players to give their all as the players expressed on the field.

But it all worked out Friday night. From their high-spirited coach to a young, and at that time winless team, the message was relayed, the effort succeeded, and Elkhorn City enjoyed their first victory of the season, 16-7, over Betsy Layne, Friday night.

Elkhorn City scored a touchdown in the second quarter; kicked a field goal as the first half came to a close, and added another touchdown in the third quarter to spoil Betsy Layne's homecoming, and drop the Bobcats to 1-4 on the season.

"We're capable of winning some games, but we hadn't put it together yet," Akers said after the game. "We thought we had an opportunity to win this game, but we had an opportunity to beat Fleming Neon and Jenkins."

Both of these opportunities had wound up like all other Elkhorn City games, in losses, but Friday night, Akers and his youthful Cougars would not be denied. "The key for us was our offensive line play," Akers said. "We made some adjustments in our line before this game, and our defense just gutted it out."

The Elkhorn City defense, despite two turnovers in the first quarter, shut Betsy Layne out until the 6:30 mark of the second quarter.

The Cougars had already struck for a touchdown minutes earlier when quarterback Chris Rose threw in the direction of wide receiver H.D. Fraley.

John Bush, Betsy Layne defensive back, had set his sights on an interception, but Fraley wrestled the football free of Bush's arms and raced on into the end zone for the touchdown.

Bush, a senior, intercepted two Rose passes, and recovered a fumble, but on this play Fraley and Elkhorn City came out a winner.

Betsy Layne, though, responded with a winner of their own, a 70-yard drive for touchdown immediately following Elkhorn City's score.

On fourth down and 15 from the Bobcat 31, Todd Sturgill connected with Dwight Jarrell, who had beaten the Elkhorn City defense down the right sideline.

Sturgill laid the football perfectly over the left shoulder of Jarrell, who went on in for the score, capping off the four-minute and 44 second, 12-play drive. Jarrell's extra point kick tied the contest at 7-7.

Unfortunately for Betsy Layne fans, that was the final score the Bobcats would get as the Elkhorn City defense "guttled" out a second half shutout.

Five Bobcat turnovers, three coming in the fourth quarter when Betsy Layne was playing catchup, didn't hurt Elkhorn City's cause. Neither did the 106 yards in Bobcat penalties.

Elkhorn City, who took a 10-7 lead into halftime when Chris Coleman booted a 26-yard field goal, held the Bobcats to 85 yards in the second half, and forced five turnovers.

The Cougars, in the third quarter, converted one of those turnovers into six points. Elkhorn City covered a muffed punt on the Betsy Layne seven-yard line, and took it on in when Chris Coleman dashed seven yards for the touchdown on the Cougars' first play.

Betsy Layne, on their following possession, ran one play then fumbled a turnover which represented the beginning of the end for the Bobcats.

On only one occasion in the second half did Betsy Layne hang onto the football long enough to sustain a drive.

With 7:18 remaining in the third quarter, John Bush intercepted a pass, stealing the football out of the arms of H.D. Fraley on the Bobcat one-yard line.

The Bobcats slowly but surely marched up the field. Helped out of the hole by an Elkhorn City offside call, Betsy Layne ran the football 11 consecutive times, moving it to the Cougar 30, but gave the pigskin up when Todd Sturgill was stopped two yards short of a fourth down try for first down.

Betsy Layne could never find their way back into Elkhorn City territory and were denied all possibility to get back into contention in the fourth quarter.

With 5:28 remaining in the game, Mike Mullins intercepted a Todd Sturgill pass, and the act turned into a trend as Elkhorn City picked off three passes in the fourth quarter.

As the Cougars frantically tried to hold onto their apparent victory, Akers picked up his intensity along the way.

One running back made a mistake of not being ready to enter the game. After Akers rounded the youngster up, he sent him in to the game with a reminder, a swift kick to the backside, telling him to be in the right place at the right time.

After Rose picked off the second pass for the Cougars, Chris Hackney, Akers prize tight end, made another mistake.

On a running play, Hackney was confused as to his position, on or off the field, so he sprinted to the sideline. With some words of wisdom that most people in the Betsy Layne area could hear, Akers sent Hackney back into the game.

For his efforts, Akers was awarded with a victory. Not an easy one. His team is young, and when you're young, nothing comes easy.

"You see what we've got," Akers said, waving a hand up and down the sideline he had just kept warm. "We're young, and it'll take a lot of work."

With the win, Akers' team improved to 1-6 while Betsy Layne dropped to 1-4. The Bobcats will be back in action this week, playing their third consecutive game at home, taking on district foe Whitesburg.

BLOCKERS IN FRONT: Todd Sturgill (10) and Dale Spurlock (30) lead ball carrier Chris Kidd up field during play Friday night. Kidd enjoyed a good game as Betsy Layne's leading rusher, but the Bobcats lost to Elkhorn City.

Blackcats Fall Hard To Belfry Eye District Game With Leslie

Friday, September 30, 1977, the Prestonsburg Blackcats, under the direction of head coach Phillip Haywood, upset favored Belfry, 27-6, in a high school football game.

Ten years and two days later Philip Haywood returned to the Prestonsburg High School field, the place of his earlier triumph, to again post a victory.

But this time Haywood was with a different team, and this time he was the favorite.

Now coaching Belfry, Haywood led his team to a crunching victory over the Blackcats last Friday night, 3-0.

Haywood, who coached Prestonsburg from the mid-70s through the 1983 season, posted several victories against Belfry, many of them being of the upset variety.

There is that incredible win in 1980. The Belfry Pirates were ranked second in the state in 3A, but in the season opener fell to Philip Haywood and Prestonsburg, 20-7.

Then came that exciting game in 1981. After taking a 30-6 lead in the third quarter, the Blackcats were forced to stave off a late Belfry rally, winning the game 30-26.

These are what rivalries are made of. Great games like these have a way of building a tradition of excellence, but lately the Prestonsburg Blackcats have failed to hold up their end of the great tradition bargain.

Last season at Belfry, the Blackcats were given a severe beating, and this past week Coach Haywood continued his domination of the two team's confrontations, posting a 33-point victory by leading his Belfry Pirates to a shutout victory over Prestonsburg.

"I really don't know," Haywood said about the self-centered importance of

Eagle Defense Needs Week Off To Heal

With the four-game non-conference season behind them and the all important six-game conference season ahead of them, Morehead State University's Football Eagles took last Saturday off and got "back to the basics" as they prepare to meet Austin Peay on Oct. 10.

There are several reasons for Coach Bill Baldrige's "back to the basics" approach. One is the defense that started the season well, but that has had problems tackling the opposition the last two weeks. Another is a quarterback who suffered a cracked rib just when he was "seeing the whole picture" of the Eagle offense.

"We're almost going to start over on defense," Baldrige said. "We've had some people, especially linebackers, get banged up, and we've gotten away from what we want to do."

On the offensive front, quarterback Chris Swartz, the Ohio Valley Conference's Rookie of the Week, suffered a cracked rib against Southern Arkansas and his status for the next few weeks is questionable.

"Chris could be out for up to five weeks," Baldrige said. "Or, he could be back sooner. It's the type of injury that you can't predict."

"And it's a shame, too, because we've been very pleased with our offensive progression. Hopefully, Chris will be back soon, and we won't lose any of our offensive momentum."

MSU will take a 1-3 record into the Austin Peay game. In their latest game, the Eagles lost 38-23 to Southern Arkansas.

winning in Prestonsburg. "I guess there are still some ties there, but we had lost two games in a row, and any win at that time was important. It just so happened that it came in Prestonsburg, and that kind of made it a little more special."

Haywood coached nine years at Prestonsburg High School, ending his local career following the 1983 season.

The Pirates, 5-2 on the season, scored one touchdown in the first quarter, and posted 20 points in the second to blow the game open while breaking a two-game losing streak.

"We had lost to Mann, one of the best teams in West Virginia, then to Pikeville," Haywood said. "I think the fact that our kids were kind of hungry for a win may have played a part in our playing well."

The Prestonsburg Blackcats, a team that saw its three-game losing streak come to an abrupt halt, dropped to 4-2 on the season.

The Blackcats had just as soon forget last Friday night. After all the loss did no damage except to some egos.

"They are a good ball club," Chuke Williams, Prestonsburg coach, said of Belfry. "We had a good drive early. We took the ball to the four-yard line on our first drive, but fumbled, and after that we kind of fell apart."

"We talked after the game that we would just have to forget about that one, come out next week, and work hard on improving ourselves, and get ready for Leslie County," Williams mentioned, looking forward to this Friday's game.

The Blackcats will welcome in Leslie

County to Prestonsburg this Friday night for what is billed as their most important game of the season.

"This is a big district game," Williams said. "There are two or three people who have lost one game, and if we could pull off the upset we would be right back in the race."

Currently, Leslie County holds the upper hand in the district race with 3-0 record. But Leslie County has Prestonsburg, 1-1 in district play, and powerful Whitesburg remaining.

Whitesburg, Morgan County, and Prestonsburg all have one loss each in district play. Only MC Napier, and Betsy Layne have more than one.

Leslie County was one of the favorites in pre-season, and with a 6-1 record, had done little to dispute that ranking.

"They are a big, strong, physical football team," Williams said. "From what we can gather their backs are as big as their offensive line, and we'll have to out-quick them."

"Their backs go about 210 to 215, and when a team is that much stronger than you are, you have to put people in the gaps and out-quick them."

Prestonsburg has already surprised many people with their successful 4-2 start, but now their real test begins. With four games remaining on their schedule, the Blackcats will be playing three games against district competition.

Chuke Williams listed going to the playoffs as his team's prime pre-season goal, and this Friday night at 8 o'clock, the first whistle will sound as Prestonsburg begins their second leg of a possible playoff journey.

The Sporting Times

Sometimes even the greatest of athletes are forced to sit down and re-evaluate their situation, decide what, if anything, needs to be changed, and take necessary action.

In light of this, maybe everyone should take time out and closely examine what they are or are not doing, and make necessary adjustments.

I don't know exactly where I fit in here, but I do know that something needs to be done about my lack of success.

It could be attributed to a lack of knowledge, but I prefer to say that it is merely a string of bad luck that has come and is now refusing to leave.

I recently tackled the question as to whether I'm a prognosticator or not, and failed to even reach a final decision on that.

If success is a prerequisite, my chances are slim at ever obtaining prognosticator status. Nobody likes a loser, and boy, do I know how the Cincinnati Reds feel.

Finishing second is no stranger to the Reds. They have done it each of the past three years, but I beat that feat in one season.

Way back in late March, I decided to show how much, or little, I knew about major league baseball. Through bad weather, tough injuries, and surprising outcomes, they played to prove me correct.

Unfortunately, somewhere between April and October, things went a bit haywire, and I came up zero for four with four second place finishes.

We could look at it as picking four of the top eight teams in all of baseball, but I guess you wouldn't give me that, would you?

There is something to be said about finishing second. I just can't think of it.

But who thought San Francisco could actually win more baseball games than Cincinnati could. The Reds obviously have more talent. There is something to say about injuries and coaching.

The Giants, during the season, also made a few deals that Cincinnati refused. This is another reason why fans in San Francisco are still enjoying baseball, and we are watching a repeat of stupidity in Cincinnati coaching.

If the Queen City ever lands credible coaching, Bengal and Red fans might have a winner to cheer for.

But who would have thought it? How can a team go from a season where they win a team record 108 games to a season where they can't even win their division? The New York Mets met all challengers on their way to a World Series championship in 1986.

This past season, due to injuries and drugs, the Mets failed to take care of business in their own division, finishing second to St. Louis.

Who would have thought it? New York lost Dwight Gooden, Roger McDowell, Sid Fernandez, and the pitching list goes on. These guys were the glue that stuck the Mets together last season. This year the Mets fell apart without a healthy pitching staff.

Funny thing, I picked Cincinnati and New York to meet in the National League Championship Series, but last night the seven-game event began without either team on hand.

It is any consolation, the people who claim to be baseball experts picked Cincinnati and New York to win their divisions. Obviously, I thought they would, (Continued on Next Page)

NOT THIS TIME: Nathan Shelton, in his first season of high school football, has become Allen Central's leading receiver. The slender end hauled down a touchdown pass Saturday night, but has trouble here against the Wheelwright defense.

KET Scholastic Game Enters Sixth Season

What chemical elements make up hydrogen cyanide? What's a fjord, a fetch, a fault and a floe?

Academic teams from 117 high schools answer questions like these on "KET Scholastic Challenge," now in its sixth season on KET.

Airing Sundays at 1 p.m., beginning October 11, "Scholastic Challenge" is a high-energy, quick-recall game designed to promote interest in education across Kentucky.

"The academic competition craze is stronger than ever in Kentucky and this year's version of 'KET Scholastic Challenge' will be right there again showing our viewers teams from large schools, small schools, urban schools and rural schools," says Sally Lobaugh-Jackson, producer of the series. "These games will be exciting because Kentucky students are sharper than ever and KET is proud to show them all to Kentucky."

Each hourlong program consists of two games, with three high school teams competing per game. Each game has five rounds of questions in the areas of English, history, math and science; one round is devoted entirely to questions about Kentucky.

Bill Myers returns for his third year as host of "KET Scholastic Challenge." A veteran of more than 30 years broadcasting experience, Myers formerly was an anchor man and now is a weather forecaster in the Cincinnati area.

By May, the 117-team field will narrow to one, and the championship team will receive $500; two runner-up teams will receive $250 each. The money is donated by the Friends of KET and goes to the libraries of the winning schools.

Security.

Most people spend their lives trying to find security. They try to earn it. Buy it. Steal it. Legislate it. And negotiate for it. But they rarely succeed. As United Methodists, we've found security. True security, the security that comes from depending on each other and on God.

Vietnam Vets Memorial Dedication Set Nov. 7

Work has begun on Kentucky's memorial to its veterans of the Vietnam conflict, and a ceremonial groundbreaking and site dedication for the monument is scheduled for 11 a.m., Saturday, Nov. 7. The monument will be built near the Department of Library and Archives building on Coffee Tree Road in view of Kentucky's Capitol.

"We believe this unique monument will be a fitting memorial to the 1,062 Kentuckians who died in the Vietnam conflict, as well as to all of the state's citizens who served in Vietnam," said Adjutant Gen. Billy G. Wellman, who co-chairs the dedication committee along with retired Maj. Gen. Zack Saufley. The monument consists of a sundial with a 25-foot stainless steel pointer, or "gnomon," poised over a granite plaza, measuring 80 feet by 70 feet. The names of the Kentuckians who died in the conflict will be engraved on the plaza, and the tip of the gnomon's shadow will fall across each name on the day of the year that the serviceman was killed. Lexington architect Helm Roberts designed the monument.

The November 7 ceremony will include music by the Kentucky Army National Guard's 202nd Army Band, ceremonial flyovers by both the Kentucky Air and Army Guards, speakers and an artillery salute by the 2nd Battalion, 138th Field Artillery Brigade of the Kentucky Guard. The battalion served in Vietnam and lost several members in the conflict.

"We hope that many Kentuckians will come to the ceremony from all around the state," said James N. Halvatgis, executive director of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund. "We offer a special welcome to veterans and families of Kentuckians who died in the conflict."

Some work on the site will be completed by the groundbreaking date; the memorial is expected to be finished sometime in 1988. The fund is working to raise a million dollars for the monument. For more information, contact its office in Louisville at (502) 589-4549.

ENTEROTOXINS

COPYRIGHT 1987 KVMA

Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association Sheep owners are likely aware of a group of toxin diseases called the enterotoxemias, but swine, goat and horse owners should know that while the problem is not common in their animals it can occur.

The causing agent, Clostridium perfringens, anaerobic bacteria commonly present not only in soil but in the alimentary tract of animals, has the capability of producing at least six potent toxins within the animal's body, four of which are important to farmers.

Type B enterotoxemia is responsible for a disease commonly called lamb dysentery, which occurs in lambs less than two weeks old and which may cause death without any outward signs. Less acute onset may produce severe abdominal pain, refusal to nurse and profuse, bloody diarrhea. Coma and death commonly follow in less than 24 hours. This Type B toxemia also occurs in goats, calves, foals and piglets. Symptoms are much the same.

Type C enterotoxemia causes much the same symptoms but may affect mature animals, and Type A enterotoxemia is not often seen in the United States though it has been reported in California. In lambs, it causes severe depression, pallor, jaundice and rapid breathing and causes the blood to break down.

Type D enterotoxemia is a major problem in feedlot lambs, and is sometimes known as "overeating disease." Sudden death may be the only indication, and those lambs which do not die quickly may show excitement, lack of coordination and convulsions. First affected may be those lambs which appeared to be in the best condition.

Regardless of type, the exact mechanism by which production of the poisons is triggered is obscure. However, under some conditions toxins are produced in excess of the animal's ability to cope with them. Excessive consumption of grain or milk is a known predisposing factor. In feedlots, outbreaks are most common a few days after the animals are put on full feed. In nursing twin lambs, outbreaks are rare because there isn't enough milk available to overeat.

Treating the condition yourself is not effective, it's simply too complicated. Antibiotics may help, though vaccination of pregnant adults and/or newborn animals is probably more effective. Toxoids, antitoxins, antiserums and bacterins are all available.

Your veterinarian is qualified to determine which type may be affecting your flock, whether it is a one-time occurrence or likely to recur, and what method to use to prevent its recurrence.

A THREE-CAR COLLISION, here, Monday, at an intersection on North Lake Drive, scene of frequent fender benders, involved at least six persons, two of whom suffered some injury. Homer Sizemore, of Salyersville, was taken to a hospital for examination, and Teresa Pack, of Eastern, suffered possible injuries. Others in the pile-up were Michael Patrick, of Salyersville, Shirley Akers, of Virgie, and Ricky Pack, of Eastern.

Bell Offers Equal Access In This Area

Now South Central Bell customers in Prestonsburg can place most of their "1+" long-distance calls through their "preferred" long-distance company. South Central Bell will continue to carry long-distance calls inside the home calling zone, which includes calls from Prestonsburg to Middlesboro and Winchester, for example. "This is a significant event because it represents concrete evidence of the increased choices made available by competition in the communications business," said South Central Bell manager Art Willett.

About three months ago, South Central Bell mailed customers a ballot listing the long-distance companies that planned to serve the area and instructions on how to sign up.

According to Willett, South Central Bell will be sending another ballot to customers who have not chosen a long-distance company.

"The ballot will tell customers which long-distance company they've tentatively been assigned," said Willett. "By filling out the ballot, customers still may choose a company. Otherwise, their long-distance calls will be handled by the company they've been tentatively assigned."

"South Central Bell encourages customers to return the ballot to make sure they are signed up with the long-distance company they want to use," he said.

The percentage of customers assigned each long-distance company will be based on the percentage who selected it on the earlier ballot. For example, if 60 percent of the Prestonsburg customers returning the earlier ballot selected a certain company, 60 percent of those who did not select would be assigned that company.

Customers who want to use a long-distance company other than their preferred company will be able to do so by dialing a five-digit access code. Each long-distance company is being assigned a code on a nationwide basis so that it will be the same throughout the country.

Job Corpsmen, Ushers As Local Couple Wed

The depth of a friendship is not necessarily based on its length.

A Prestonsburg couple and two Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center members demonstrated that Sunday when they broke generations of mountain convention separating blacks and whites.

About three months ago, Corpsmembers Curtis Jordan and Nemire Winston, began attending services at the West Prestonsburg Church of God. Since then, Jordan and Winston have become friends with Wendell Burke, a Prestonsburg high school graduate and a stand-out running back for the Blackcat football team until his graduation in 1985.

The friendship led to a quiet public statement Sunday, when Jordan and Winston served as ushers during the wedding of Burke and Paula Meade. Job Corps Center Standards Officer Len Grant pointed out that the short friendship and the resulting black representation in the wedding party was "capable of burying generations of 'mountain' convention and hopefully will bring us all one step closer to equality."

Center Director Dr. J. Rodney Chambers added, "It was a great gesture, and maybe it's the beginning of an acceptance of our Corpsmembers on the part of the community."

Complaint Is Filed Against Winnebago

Attorney General David L. Armstrong has announced that members of the Consumer Protection Division have filed suit against Winnebago Industries, Inc., for failing to abide by the terms of the "Motor Vehicle Arbitration Law".

In the suit, Armstrong alleges that despite repeated requests, Winnebago Industries, Inc., has refused to provide an arbitration form to consider allegations by consumers of defects in small motor homes, which are subject to the definition set out in that statute. "The arbitration form is an important asset to consumers who have purchased allegedly defective motor homes," Armstrong said, "It is our position that the definition clearly includes two-axle motor homes which are purchased for personal and family use and an arbitration form must be provided."

Following the filing of the lawsuit in Franklin Circuit Court, Armstrong said he believes this law to be an effective tool in providing consumers with protection. "I am committed to the effective implementation and enforcement of Kentucky's statutes relating to new motor vehicle problems," he said. "This litigation will resolve important questions about the arbitration statute."

The lawsuit asks for an injunction prohibiting the defendant from violating the motor vehicle arbitration statute, and for all other relief to which they may appear entitled.

PHS Band Is Winner Of Apple Day Award

By Tim Sizemore
Prestonsburg's High School band took top honors at last weekend's Apple Day celebration, winning a first place trophy in class AA competition.

Wayne Bishop, Prestonsburg band director, said that among the awards received was a superior rating, and the best field commander award went to Julie Newberry.

The latest success will allow the Prestonsburg band to participate in state competition to be held in Louisville, October 31.

Bishop pointed out a string of successes, citing as an example second place in AA competition at Pikeville, best percussion and another first place field commander award going to Miss Newberry. He also said that the band had received first place recognition at Morehead, with third place overall and best percussion.

Bishop, who is a native of Prestonsburg, says that he hopes for more success and feels the band will do well in state competition.

Asbestos Victims: Workers' Compensation

By Atty. General David L. Armstrong

Much interest and concern has been expressed in recent years about the health hazards caused by exposure to asbestos. Much of this interest has particularly been focused on the potential health hazards posed by the exposure in the workplace. Employees who have become victims of an asbestos-related disease, which is an occupational disease, have the right to seek compensation.

Up until last year Kentucky's worker compensation laws did not adequately accommodate victims of asbestos-related illnesses. Diseases caused by asbestos, such as asbestosis and lung cancer, generally do not manifest themselves for 20 years or more. However, before 1986, Kentucky's law barred workers' compensation claims of occupational diseases if it was not filed within five years after the date of the employee's "last exposure" to the hazardous condition. As a result, some workers who were exposed to asbestos, were prevented from seeking compensation.

Recognizing the need for this law to be changed to accommodate asbestos victims, the 1986 General Assembly passed a law, which provides an exception for asbestos-related disease victims. The law now states that workers with asbestos-related diseases have 20 years from the date he or she was last exposed to file a claim.

This new law is important to Kentucky's workforce, as virtually everyone could potentially be a victim of an asbestos-related disease. Kentucky's workers are our most vital natural resource and deserve to be protected under the law.

For further information concerning this issue, please contact the Office of Attorney General, Capitol Building, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 or call (502) 564-7600.

Wood Chips and Coal Give Cheaper Power

Kentucky abounds with a cheap fuel to mix with coal which could power utility companies and provide power needs for large industries. So does the rest of the country.

It's called wood, and the mixture could help clean up some of the nastier environmental problems of using coal alone.

Don Graves, Extension forestry specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, said utility companies in some other states, notably Michigan and Vermont, are already using wood chips mixed with coal to provide less expensive electrical power.

"Wood, unlike coal, has practically no sulfur emissions when burned," Graves said. "When it is burned with coal, it brings down the total level of sulfur emissions which occurs when coal alone is burned."

A low level of emissions is not only environmentally desired, it's required by EPA regulations. Power companies and large industries which use coal generally will buy only the top grade coal which emits no more than one and one-half percent sulfur, Graves said. Since much of Kentucky's coal, especially in the western part of the state, tests out from three to five percent, the marketability of that coal is lower.

"However, if that coal were mixed at proper ratios with wood chips, the sulfur emissions could be reduced to within EPA guidelines," Graves said. "And the wood chips are there for the taking, usually right where the coal is being mined."

Most Kentucky strip mine operations have to get rid of the woodlands on the ground before they begin operations, he explained. At present they just cut the trees, stack them, pour diesel fuel on them and burn them which represents a considerable cost just to get rid of them.

A UK research project analyzing the costs of Kentucky surface mining several years ago found that land clearing of surface mines could be done at a profit instead of a cost if trees were harvested as chips instead of bulldozed and burned. With a new machine called a Chiparvester, whole trees can be converted to chips in minutes. Five acres of forest can be cleared each day.

Yet, most mining operations don't bother with harvesting the chips and Kentucky utilities and industries haven't begun to consider using them to any great extent.

Graves said it's the old story of people resisting changes in technology. Coal people are used to working with coal, and they don't want to fool with wood. Utility companies don't want to change their process even though to do so wouldn't cost much—perhaps just an additional conveyor belt for wood chips and a boiler modification.

"You can show people the economics, and they still won't do it quickly, because they have to change their way of thinking," he said.

Eventually they will though, he said, because utilities will learn they can use a cheaper grade of coal which lowers their cost of business. Miners will learn they can sell more of their cheaper grades of coal as well as reduce the costs of their mining operations if they convince users of the advantages of using wood chip mixtures.

"Other states are already using the concept effectively and efficiently," Graves said. "Any state with a large forest supply can. And one thing Kentucky has an abundance of is trees."

Flight Pioneer Yeager To Attend MU Symposium

General Charles E. "Chuck" Yeager, the first man to break the "sound barrier," will celebrate the 40th anniversary of his historic flight, Wednesday, Oct. 14, with the Society of Yeager Scholars at Marshall University.

Marshall President Dale F. Nitzschke said Yeager will be the guest of honor at a two-day Yeager Symposium on "Flight," Oct. 14 and 15. The highlight will be a reception and dinner Wednesday evening at the Radisson Hotel in Huntington, during which General Yeager will speak.

"We're very pleased that General Yeager selected Marshall University and his native area of southwestern West Virginia as the place in which to celebrate his historic anniversary," Nitzschke said. "Obviously, he had many opportunities to spend the day elsewhere, and we're delighted that he chose to be here on that occasion."

Marshall established the Society of Yeager Scholars in 1986 and named the program in his honor because "General Yeager's life emphasizes that, given sufficient courage and determination, we can overcome tremendous obstacles and achieve greatness," Nitzschke said.

Each year, the Society of Yeager Scholars will select 20 of the nation's outstanding students and provide them with a four-year, intensified academic program at Marshall University, including periods of study abroad. The first class of Yeager Scholars began its studies this fall.

Yeager is scheduled to fly on Oct. 14 from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, Ohio to Huntington's Tri-State Airport aboard a Marine Corps Harrier jet, landing at 11 a.m. After registering at the hotel, he will fly that afternoon aboard an Ashland Coal Co. helicopter to his hometown, Hamlin, W. Va., where the community will unveil a statue commissioned in his honor.

He will return to Huntington for a 5 p.m. session at the Radisson Hotel with representatives of the news media. The reception will begin at 6 p.m. and the dinner at 7 p.m.

The following day, Yeager will participate in meetings of the national board of directors of the Society of Yeager Scholars, have lunch with the board and the students enrolled in the program, attend a 3 p.m. reception to which faculty and students have been invited, have a private session with the Yeager Scholars students and attend a cookout at Nitzschke's home. He will depart the next morning.

Nitzschke said the two-day Yeager Symposium will feature, in addition to General Yeager, six individuals prominent in aviation and space programs. Details will be announced soon, he added.

"It's going to be a week to remember," the Marshall president said.

Everybody's Science

Soil Wars

By JIM BENSON
It's going on right now, right under your feet. Soil Wars. In the top few inches of the soil, "good" microbes are fighting "bad" microbes, and the winner helps determine the abundance and quality of farm and garden crops. Every year, soilborne fungi, bacteria, and viruses attack more than 250 different crops, causing $4 billion in damages. Chemicals used to kill these destructive microbes are expensive. Yet they often can't even get far enough into the soil to reach their target, and even when they do the microbe can eventually develop resistance. Environmental concerns further limit use and effectiveness of chemicals. "It's smart to work toward pest control within the balances of nature rather than to spray pesticides," says Jack Lewis, a soil scientist with USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Beltsville, Md. That's why scientists are taking beneficial molds from the soil, breeding them, and returning them to the soil where they can attack and kill the harmful microbes. Borrowing industrial techniques, scientists ferment the beneficial molds on cheap food sources such as molasses and brewers' yeast. After the molds multiply, the scientists put them in pellets, powders and sprays. Then, farmers and gardeners can apply them to the soil. So far, laboratory tests have shown that the good molds can control soilborne diseases of cotton, potatoes, chrysanthemums, carnations, vegetables, oilseed crops, forage crops, and bedding plants, among others. Several companies are interested in marketing the product, particularly pharmaceutical and other industries that routinely use large-scale fermentation vats. "Safe, nonpolluting disease control sometimes lasts for several seasons," says George Papavizas, an ARS plant pathologist in Beltsville, referring to the results of laboratory tests of the soil wars. When commercial products are developed using these beneficial molds, farmers and gardeners will have to identify the disease attacking their crop. Then, they can buy and apply the specific mold that attacks that specific disease. Even then, however, integrated pest management—an approach that combines chemical controls, resistant crop varieties and proper cultivation with the newfound biological controls—may be the best solution. (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture)

Effort Made To Aid Homeless of State

Gov. Martha Layne Collins is marshaling the public and private resources of the state to help the thousands of homeless people who inhabit the commonwealth.

"The degree to which we solve the growing needs of the homeless, is a direct reflection on the care and concern of our people," asserted Collins in naming a group to find solutions to the problem.

The Kentucky Advisory Council on the Homeless will provide a forum to review, oversee and coordinate all efforts to find long-range assistance for those without shelter, Collins said.

The action is in response to the recent passage of the federal Urgent Relief for the Homeless Act.

"We want Kentucky to be known as a state which accepts and fulfills its responsibilities to its less fortunate," Collins added.

The council includes representatives of state agencies involved in public service programs, education and health services; the religious sector; charitable organizations; city and county government leaders; housing providers and other organizations which contribute to the public welfare.

The Department of Local Government has been named as the state administrative agency for the council. Commissioner Richard D. Cole was named as chairman of the council.

...about your Social Security

By JIM KELLY
Social Security District Director
Applying For SSI

People who believe they may be eligible for supplemental security income (SSI) payments should apply without delay, Jim Kelly, Social Security Director for the Big Sandy Area said recently. Payment can begin only with the day of application or the date of eligibility, whichever is later. In the case of a child, an application can be made by a parent or guardian or by some other responsible person.

The application process can be speeded up if the person brings along certain information at the time he or she applies; however, the application should not be delayed simply because all of the information is not available. Social Security personnel will help obtain whatever else is needed. This information includes:

The applicant's Social Security card; a birth certificate or other proof of age; details of income and assets (such as payroll slips, bank books, and copies of tax returns); details about living conditions (the landlord's name, lease, or mortgage); medical records for applicants claiming eligibility for SSI on the basis of disability or blindness.

Sometimes a blind or disabled person who lives in a public institution becomes capable of living in the community but lacks the necessary funds to do so. Monthly SSI checks may permit the person to live outside the institution.

As an alternative, a responsible person can apply on behalf of the institutionalized person when it appears that he or she will soon be discharged.

Additional information about the SSI program can be obtained at the Big Sandy Area Social Security office located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under U.S. Government.

Also appointed to serve on the council were David Salisbury, executive director, Kentucky Area Development District Directors Association; Ferdinand Moore, chairman, Kentucky Council of Area Development Districts; William F. Taylor, president, Kentucky Municipal League; Mike Miller, president, Kentucky County Judges/Executives Association; Elizabeth McManis, Department of Local Government; Mayor Ronald B. Turner, Covington; Jessie Amburgey, executive secretary, Kentucky Association of Community Action Agencies; Major J.B. Matthews, Salvation Army; Franklin Fogelson, executive director, Jewish Community Federation; Larry Jones, field services manager, American Red Cross; Anne Joseph, director, Kentucky Task Force on Hunger, Kentucky Council of Churches.

Norma W. Johnson, executive director, Volunteers of America; Father Tim Hogan, executive director, Catholic Charities; Dennis D. Boyd, commissioner, Department for Mental Health/Mental Retardation Services; Al Austin, Jr., secretary, Cabinet for Human Resources; Judge/Executive Harvey I. Sloane, Jefferson County, Mayor Jerry Abramson, Louisville; Mayor Scotty Baesler, Lexington/Fayette Urban County Government; Bob Sivley, Ph.D., executive director, Kentucky Association of Regional Programs; Elsie Atherton, executive director, United Way of Kentucky; Anna Grace Day, commissioner, Department for Social Services, Cabinet for Human Resources; Brenda J. Rollins, director, Division of Adult and Community Education; Diane Teasley, director, Unit of Essential Skills Remediation; and Chuck Gutherie, adult literacy coordinator, Murray State University.

Elephant Rodeo Is KET Feature

The five-ton elephant roars and strains against the ropes. One hundred soldiers, together weighing seven and a half tons, dig with all their might, but without success—the elephant wins. This unique tug-of-war is one of a variety of unusual sporting activities shown in "Elephant Games," airing Sunday, October 11 at 8:30 p.m. on KET.

Narrated by Burgess Meredith, this half-hour special is a rare portrait of Thailand's Elephant Festival where 150 elephants are gathered for one of the most spectacular sporting events in the world. The Elephant Festival is a rodeo for domesticated elephants. Trainers and owners can show the strength, speed and skills of their pachyderms.

The festival features speed races, agility competitions, an elephant soccer game, the elephant tug-of-war, elephants walking over men, and other thrilling events. "Elephant Games" also includes scenes from a rural village where almost every house has a pet elephant, a school for training baby elephants, and the forests of northern Thailand where huge working elephants haul 200-year-old trees down the mountain.

The following Sunday (October 18) the work of wildlife filmmaker Wolfgang Bayer is portrayed in a new half-hour special airing at 8:30 p.m. "Wildlife Cinematographer Wolfgang Bayer" shows the talented filmmaker on location as he works on a major documentary and presents segments from several projects he filmed on location around the world.

The challenge of making programs that depend on animals and nature for their subjects is Bayer's world. His films defy time and space. "Yellowstone In Winter," for example, took five years to make, filmed during a time when the national park is closed to visitors.

Bayer's films introduce viewers to the private life of a rhinoceros and the miniature world of a spider. Bayer breaches the barrier of time with time-lapse photography, and in less than a minute, reveals what actually may take days or weeks.

"Elephant Games" is produced and directed by Skip Blumberg. "Wildlife Photographer Wolfgang Bayer" is a production of KRMA/Denver.

An estimated 148,300 Kentuckians were unemployed in July, down 7,500 from June of this year (155,800) and 19,100 fewer than in June 1986 (167,400).

Livestock Expositions Offers School Tours

The popular School Field Trip Program will be part of the 1987 North American International Livestock Exposition for the 10th consecutive year. Each year, area grade school children tour the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center during the largest, all-breed, purebred livestock show in the world. The 14th Annual exposition begins November 7 and continues through November 20.

The Children's Barnyard, is a highlight of the guided tours. The Children's Barnyard features goats, sow and litter, sheep, ducks, geese, guineas, rabbits, calves, chickens and the "baby duck slide." Children can actually watch baby chicks hatching in an incubator at the Children's Barnyard, which opens November 13 in the East Wing.

School groups interested in scheduling a tour should call 502-584-8060 and ask for the North American International Field Trip Coordinator.

Judicial College Held At Jamestown

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, of the 31st Judicial Circuit, was among 86 active and retired circuit judges attending the 1987 Circuit Judges' Judicial College at Lake Cumberland State Park, Jamestown, September 20-24.

In opening the judicial education program, Dean Robert Lawson, University of Kentucky College of Law, addressed issues related to admissibility of trial evidence, including the use of expert witnesses, out-of-court statements made by youthful victims, and medical records.

Northern Kentucky University law professor Martin J. Huelsmann examined the history and current controversial status of judicial and governmental immunity from civil liability. He also provided an update on comparative negligence cases.

Maryland Court of Appeals Judge Charles E. Moylan, Jr., a nationally recognized authority of the Fourth Amendment's limitations on unreasonable searches and seizures, offered a five-hour lecture on the U.S. Supreme Court's recent neo-conservative reappraisal of the amendment's intent. Judge Moylan examined the Court's current emphasis on the reasonableness clause of the amendment and the establishment of a "good faith" exception to the rule prohibiting the admission of evidence improperly obtained.

Other presenters included Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert F. Stephens and Administrative Office of the Courts Director Don. Cetrulo providing legislative and budget proposals for the court system; State Law Librarian Wesley Gilmer with an update on federal and state appellate decisions; and District Judges Michael B. Roney and Henry Weber on substantive issues of the Unified Juvenile Code relevant to circuit court jurisdiction.

The College was sponsored and conducted by the Administrative Office of the Courts Educational Services with program curriculum designed by the Circuit Judges' Education Committee. The College offered 17 credit hours towards the judges' mandatory continuing judicial education requirements.

MDA Centers To Study ALS

The Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA), has created four research and clinical care centers dedicated to fighting the fatal nerve disorder amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS), also known as Lou Gehrig's disease, announced Bob Saunders, president of the Central Kentucky Chapter of the voluntary health agency. "Establishment of the centers greatly expands MDA's multimillion dollar ALS research and clinical services program—the largest of its kind in the world," said Mr. Saunders.

"Thanks to the millions of caring Americans who support MDA's efforts, the association has been able to initiate this new ALS program, which is the single largest ever undertaken in our all-out fight against ALS," stated MDA National Chairman Jerry Lewis, who first announced the news on his 1987 Labor Day Telethon.

The four new MDA ALS centers have been established at major research institutions already leading the assault against the disease—Baylor College of Medicine, Houston; New England Medical Center, Boston; the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, and the University of Wisconsin in Madison.

"The creation of the ALS centers will permit teams of clinicians and basic scientists to pool efforts to find the cause of the disease and an effective treatment," said Mr. Saunders. Major therapeutic trials in ALS are already taking place at the four institutions.

MDA's Houston ALS center, led by Stanley H. Appel, M.D., are investigating the involvement of the immune system in ALS. At MDA's Boston ALS center headed by Theodore L. Munsat, M.D., researchers are looking for a possible connection between ALS, which primarily affects adults, and other diseases that affect the same nerves in infants and children as does ALS in adults. The team at MDA's Los Angeles ALS center, headed by W. King Engel, M.D., will conduct tests to determine whether ALS involves a lack of some essential substance normally produced in the body. And Benjamin Rix Brooks, M.D. has assembled an MDA team of scientists in Madison, Wisconsin, and institutions in Chicago and Cincinnati to find out why ALS—which is not contagious—has occurred with unusual frequency among groups of people who have worked together or lived in the same areas.

ALS destroys motor nerve cells that control the voluntary muscles, causing progressive muscular weakness and wasting. It generally strikes between the ages of 35 and 65. There is as yet no specific treatment for the disorder, which causes death by weakening vital respiratory muscles.

MDA invested some $7 million in ALS patient services and research in 1986 alone. The disease is one of 40 neuromuscular disorders, including the muscular dystrophies, myasthenia gravis, and spinal muscular atrophies, that MDA strives to defeat through its wide-ranging research, patient care, and public health education programs.

Potash Could Cost Farmers $10 Million More Next Year

Kentucky farmers likely will feel in their pocketbooks the outcome of a lawsuit won by two New Mexico potash producers.

Prices for the fertilizer are expected to jump by $30 to $50 per ton as a result of a U.S. Commerce Department decision which found that Canadian suppliers were dumping their potash in the U.S. at below their cost of production, said Ken Wells, Extension agronomist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"In Kentucky, that could amount to as much as $10 million more than Kentucky farmers may be forced to pay for their fertilizer next spring," Wells said.

Wells estimated that about 85 percent of the potash used in the U.S. is from Canadian suppliers and only about 12 percent from U.S. sources.

As a result of the ruling, Canadian suppliers will have to pay a "dumping duty" ranging from 9 to 85 percent, depending on how much the supplier had been cutting its U.S. price below its costs to entice U.S. buyers.

Although the dumping duties already have been placed on the Canadians, and the price to U.S. buyers has risen, the issue still is not permanently resolved. Final determination of the issue is to be made in February, after the Commerce Department holds hearings, the first of which will be in Washington, D.C. on Oct. 5, Wells said.

Currently, Canadian suppliers have to post a duty in cash or bond until the issue is settled.

Industry representatives, Wells said, suspect that the several months delay in settling the issue will make U.S. suppliers hesitant to order Canadian potash.

"We may find that potash is not only more expensive this year, but also scarce," Wells said.

Even if the final determination eases import restrictions, expectations are that Canadian shipments will not begin with enough strength to meet demands of U.S. plantings which begin during February in the Deep South, Wells said.

Wells said that any relief from current impositions of the stiff import duties from Canadian sources will depend in large measure on testimony heard by the Commerce Department at its scheduled October 5 meeting.

Kid's Art Program Offered At PCC

Children's art will be the focus of a new program, the Children's Art Studio, at Prestonsburg Community College, Saturday mornings beginning October 10, from 10 a.m. til noon.

The program will be held in room 106 of the Pike Building on campus and is open to children ages 7-12.

Ralph Clark, who has taught art to children in Texas, New Mexico and Jamaica, will teach the course, which will focus on drawing with pencil, ink and watercolor. Basic sketching techniques will cover line, form and color.

According to Clark, "Landscapes of the imagination and designs of nature will be emphasized." The aim of the program, Clark said, is to develop in children an awareness of art as a means of expression and communication.

Clark teaches art this year at Mountain Christian Academy and is working on a book about his experiences in Jamaica, where he taught craft skills to handicapped children through the Peace Corps.

For information on the Children's Art Studio, call PCC's Office of Continuing Education and Community Service at 886-3863, ext. 215.

Fresh Ideas for the Lunch Box

School's open and already the lunch box menus may start to seem a trifle boring. Tuna fish sandwich again? More peanut butter and jelly? Some kids, it seems, could eat the same meal 365 days a year, but it's a good idea to introduce a little variety to give them balanced nutrition and to keep them interested in eating well.

There's absolutely nothing wrong with tuna fish or peanut butter and jelly sandwiches—they can be wholesome sources of protein and other important nutrients. Since 60 percent of the sandwich is the bread, however, it's best to use a whole grain bread for added vitamins, minerals and fiber. For variety, try mixing carrots and raisins into the peanut butter spread or prepare the peanut butter stuffed into an apple or celery sticks.

Other non-sandwich ideas include cottage cheese or cheese spread in celery sticks or cucumber boats, tuna salad wrapped in a lettuce leaf, or chicken drumsticks. As the weather cools, send along a thermos full of vegetable soup or stew.

Every lunch should include a fruit or vegetable: pickles, carrot sticks, green pepper strips, cucumber slices and cherry tomatoes are good vegetable choices. Apples, oranges and bananas are fine, but add variety with seedless grapes, peaches, cubed watermelon, pineapple chunks and dried fruit.

For a treat, pack raisins, popcorn, yogurt, cheese and crackers, sunflower seeds, graham crackers or fig bars.

Here are some additional lunch box ideas:

SANDWICH BEAN SPREAD

A bean sandwich may sound a little strange at first, but this delicious spread is nutritious and low in fat. Its mild flavor goes well with tomatoes in a sandwich.

- 1 cup pinto beans (uncooked)
 - 1 dry red pepper
 - 1 clove garlic, minced
 - 1 small onion, chopped
 - 4 cups water
 - 1/4 cup celery, chopped
 - 2 tbsp. taco sauce (or chili sauce)
 - 2 tbsp. ketchup
 - Dash Worcestershire sauce
 - Hot pepper sauce to taste (optional)
- Rinse the beans and remove any stones or foreign matter. Place the beans, red pepper, garlic and onion in the water and bring to a boil. Remove from heat, cover, and let sit for one hour. Then return to the stove and simmer for 1 to 2 hours, until the beans are tender.

Drain off the excess moisture and place the cooked ingredients in a food processor or blender with the remaining ingredients. Blend just until smooth. Add hot pepper sauce or extra ketchup if desired. Serve on whole wheat bread with alfalfa sprouts or lettuce and tomatoes.

This will yield about 8 1/2-cup servings, each containing about 98 calories and no fat.

RAISIN OATMEAL BARS

This economical bar cookie has a moist raisin filling between two crunchy oatmeal layers. The flavor is even better if you wait a day before serving.

- 2 cups raisins, chopped
- 6 tbsp. sugar
- 1 tbsp. cornstarch
- 1 cup water
- 2 tbsp. lemon juice
- 1 1/2 cups whole wheat flour
- 1 cup packed brown sugar
- 1 1/2 cups quick-cooking oats
- 3/4 cup butter or margarine

To prepare the filling, in a saucepan combine the chopped raisins, 6 tablespoons of sugar and the cornstarch. Gradually stir in the water and lemon juice. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat to medium and cook and stir until mixture is thick and bubbly. Remove from heat.

In a mixing bowl combine the flour, brown sugar and oats. Cut in the butter, and mix to a crumbly consistency.

Pat half of the mixture into an ungreased 9 inch by 13 baking pan. Spread the filling mixture, while still warm, over this base. Then sprinkle the remainder of the crumb mixture on top and pat gently.

Bake in a 375 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes, or until the edges begin to brown and the top is golden. Cool and cut into bars.

This will yield about 3 dozen, 1 inch by 3 inch bars, each providing about 130 calories and 5 grams of fat.

Mental Illness Myth...

Children Don't Get Psychiatric Illness

In reality, 12 million children-infants through 18-year-olds can and do suffer from diagnosable psychiatric disorders such as depression, attention deficit disorder and pervasive developmental disorders.

Serious depression, once thought to be an illness reserved for adults, is now known to affect 1 in 50 children. Every day, 18 young people kill themselves, making suicide the third leading cause of death among youngsters. Between 200,000 and 300,000 infants and toddlers are diagnosed as suffering from pervasive developmental disorders such as autism. Thousands of other children suffer from severe depression, anxiety disorders, schizophrenia, or attention deficit disorders, including learning disabilities and hyperactivity.

Some scientists think even toddlers may suffer from a form of depression. Children this age have not developed the intellectual capacity or social understanding needed for guilt, dread of the future or self-reproach. But they can feel sadness and loss, especially when they have suffered a severe deprivation such as chronic illness, physical handicap, parental death or abuse and neglect. As they grow older, children suffering from depression more closely resemble depressed adults.

Young people tend to express their moods more through actions than through words. They may act out in destructive ways. However, they feel worthless, hopeless, helpless, excessive guilty, fatigued, uninterested in activities they once enjoyed. They do poorly in school because they can't concentrate. They may feel suicidal.

Scientists think biological factors may contribute to a predisposition to depression. As in adults, some depressed children and teens have abnormalities in their hormonal systems, particularly the adrenal system, which governs the production of the hormone cortisol. The adrenal system is overactive in depressed adults. Likewise, some depressed children's adrenal systems don't respond normally to the body's regulatory mechanisms.

Because young people change more readily and are more open to help than many adults whose symptoms have become entrenched, depressed children often improve with treatment. Scientists have noted good responses among youngsters undergoing psychotherapy. Other studies suggest that children may respond to antidepressant medications at least as well as adults.

Autism, a rare pervasive developmental disorder that occurs in one out of 3,000 children, appears before 30 months of age. These children don't respond to their environments, fail to make eye contact, refuse affection, have repetitive behavior, and have severe language problems. With autistic children reach adulthood, about 15% will hold down a job and live a more or less normal life. Two-thirds, however, will require life-long care and supervision. Scientists now think autism is caused by a malfunction in the brain, though researchers have not yet pinpointed the problem.

Attention deficit disorder, characterized by excessive activity, inability to concentrate, and inappropriate behavior is another disorder of childhood. Another problem of childhood is conduct disorders, characterized by violence, consistent lying or stealing, and other behaviors that go far beyond normal childhood mischief.

These and other disorders can be accurately diagnosed and treated with individual and/or family therapy and, in some cases, medications.

Morehead State University's 1987 Homecoming activities will offer a night of country music when Lee Greenwood takes to the stage at MSU's Academic-Athletic Center, Wednesday, Oct. 14, at 8 p.m.

Greenwood is known for such tunes as "God Bless the U.S.A.," "Ring on Her Finger, Time on Her Hands," and "Fool's Gold." He was named "Male Vocalist of the Year" by the Country Music Association, NARAS (The Grammy), the Academy of Country Music and the Music City News Cover Awards in just eight months after the release of his first single in August, 1981.

That debut single, "It Turns Me Inside Out," remained on the Billboard country charts for 22 consecutive weeks and his second album earned him "gold" status.

He has made more than 150 concert appearances and has performed on several television music shows. Greenwood is backed up by a six-member band entitled the Trick Band.

Opening for Greenwood, will be Elliott county native, Keith Whitley.

Whitley, who hit the country music scene only two years ago, has already claimed his stake of country music fans. His second album, "L.A. To Miami" placed three singles into Billboard's Top Ten ranking. He is currently working on a third album.

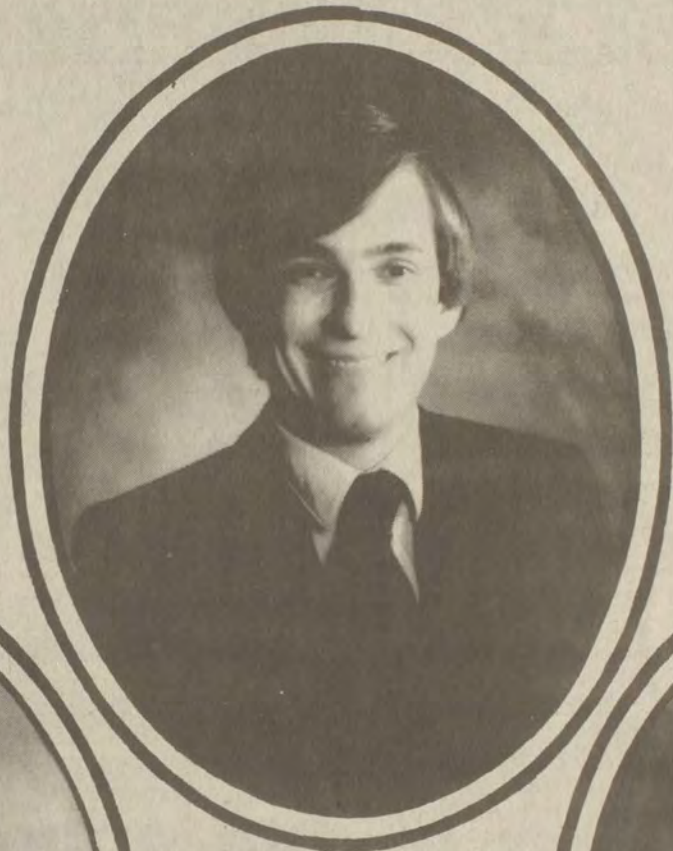

Inspired by the legendary Lefty Frizzell, Whitley offers a return to the steel guitar and fiddle-dominated Frizzell sound.

Tickets may be purchased at the Student Government Association office in the Adron Doran University Center, the People's Store in Morehead or the Music Machine in the Trademore Shopping Center.

Checks may be made payable to MSU Alumni Association. Tickets must be purchased prior to 4 p.m., Oct. 14.
