

JUST WHEN THINGS SEEMED TO BE SETTLING DOWN nicely with the worst of the forest fire danger past, two of three cables pulled loose from an insulator on Graham Street, leaving one-third of Prestonsburg without power for several hours, Monday afternoon. This triggered one bank's security system to ring loud and clear until shut off, and a massive traffic jam quickly got under way at the intersection of the Bert Combs bridge and North Lake Drive where the traffic light was out of commission due to the outage. Kentucky Power Company repairmen came from Pikeville, but before they could mend the lines, another section of town was left without electricity for over an hour. A spokesman at the power company's office in Pikeville said that in addition to this, six power poles were down yesterday in the three-county area of Floyd, Johnson, Pike as a result of the forest fires.

Weary Firefighters Relieved As Rain Douses Forest Fires

By B.A. Heinze

Rain which for many came too little and too late, Monday morning, gave relief from the heavy blanket of smoke which enveloped Floyd and surrounding counties and doused fires which burned out of control in many areas over the weekend.

Whipped by gusting winds, woodland fires threatened homes and outbuildings this weekend, burning at least two homes, one at Wheelwright and one on Martin Branch at Wayland. Weary firefighters could do little to stem the spread of burning as back fires were prohibited by the wind which made them difficult if not impossible to control. Several fires are said to have originated when landowners set back fires in an effort to protect their property.

Homeowners in eastern and southeastern sections of the state were warned by the Division of Forestry to protect their homes by moving brush and leaves away from buildings, roofs and gutters. Making firebreaks around homes was also advised.

Sunday, fire was reported at the city limits, here, and golfers were limited to the back nine at the Paintsville Country Club where firefighters worked to control fire which burned part of the course and threatened one home at the back of the course. Homeowners there wet down roofs and lawns with garden hoses. Those travelling to Pikeville and Williamson reported the situation at least as bad there with heavy ash falling.

Forestry Division officials reported 13 new fires from last Friday through Monday morning in this county with the largest spreading over around 2,000 acres on Dicks Creek, located on Dewey Lake behind Daniels Creek. Two other fires of approximately 1500 acres each were burning over the weekend at Drift and at Hippo.

There have been 27 fulltime foresters, 120 National Guardsmen, and 50 Job Corpsmen divided into crews working 16-hour shifts in an attempt to bring the flames under control. Of 22 fires in the neighboring six-county area, 18 were new over the weekend. Of these 17 had been controlled, Monday. Average size of these fires said to be 274 acres.

Although Kentucky and West Virginia reported the worst incidence of burning timberland, the destruction of woodland is being experienced also in Ohio, Virginia, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Arkansas, North and South Carolina and Mississippi.

Though it came too late to save thousands of acres of timber and wildlife in this and surrounding counties, the rain starting around 8 Monday morning and continuing Tuesday was looked on as a lifesaver by weary firefighters and worried landowners.

Whether all fires are completely doused is doubtful, but all have been reduced to no more than smouldering. Homes and outbuildings are no longer in imminent danger, and the thick smoke which blanketed most of the county for several days, causing irritation to some, acute discomfort to others, is gone.

A spokesman at Highlands Regional Medical Center said that an increased number of persons brought to the emergency room for treatment of respiratory problems has been noted though there has been no increase in those hospitalized. He explained that the smoke lessened the oxygen supply causing fatigue and sometimes nausea even in persons without apparent respiratory trouble. Those suffering asthma, emphysema, chronic bronchitis, black lung, or other respiratory trouble were being advised to stay indoors. Even there, a haze and odor of smoke was noticeable over the weekend.

For now, the rains are widespread, the smoke has settled, the flames are quiescent, and over Eastern Kentucky and much of the southeast, there is a feeling of relief.

City Selects Insurance Coverage After Discussing Pros and Cons

By Kurt Pickering

Prestonsburg City Council voted Monday night to continue its coverage with Hatton-Allen Insurance, choosing a 30 per cent premium reduction from Hatton-Allen over a lower but less firm bid from the Kentucky Municipal Risk Management Association.

The KMRMA had been negotiating with Prestonsburg for months, but Derril Allen's presentation won out, apparently because Hatton-Allen's $73,000 bid was a firm premium for one year while KMRMA's plan included an assessment option that could have doubled the cost.

The presentations by Allen and Robert Vaughan, of Alexander and Alexander, KMRMA's underwriter, were often tense, sometimes heated and always at cross purposes. While Vaughan pointed out that KMRMA had signed up 58 cities since beginning business in July of this year, Allen pointed out that several cities—he mentioned Frankfort specifically—had turned the plan down. Again, when Vaughan said KMRMA-type plans are now operating in 25 states, Allen noted that in an unnamed "neighboring state" a similar self-insuring cooperative system folded after seven years. After Vaughan stated no judgment exceeding $100,000 had ever been awarded against any Kentucky city other than Louisville or Lexington, Allen pointed to a successful $130,000 claim against Prestonsburg. "Let's keep it on the top of the table," Allen chided, and Vaughan then clarified that he was referring to judgments, not claims paid without a court fight.

Essentially, the KMRMA plan has member cities pay a premium into a pool, and the pool then serves as the source of money to pay claims. The liability limit in any one claim is $1,000,000, but $700,000 of that is reinsured—underwritten by another carrier with premiums paid from the pool.

What happens if a sudden spate of claims depletes the pool appeared to be the deciding question for the council. According to Vaughan, the response to such a situation would be an additional assessment of "up to one times your annual premium"—that is, up to the same amount again, on top of the already-paid premium.

Vaughan painted that as highly unlikely, pointing out that only $5,000 in claims have been paid out since KMRMA began operating five months ago.

Allen drove that point home, though, pointing out that his company's premium was firm for the one-year period quoted. He may have won the day when he asked council why they would want a situation where someone can come in and lay a check out and say 'fill it in,' and Mr. (City Administrator) James might have to run to the bank to try to cover it.

Vaughan also pointed out that KMRMA was specifically "formulated in response to...the cry from the cities for help. It's as much your program as my program."

Allen, however, pointed out that his firm wrote the city's coverage two years ago when no one else would, and added, "This city has just gone through the experience of Mountain Trails which bit the bullet." Allen implied that Mountain Trails, which was dissolved by the state when it outgrew itself in writing health insurance policies, would still be in business had it been able to assess its clients additional money—but the clients would be out the additional money.

Finally, after over an hour's debate, Councilwoman Margie N. Osborne moved to remain with Hatton-Allen. Harry Ray Porter seconded, and the motion passed unanimously.

The Hatton-Allen bid of $73,136.77, down from about $104,000 for 1987, dropped only one item covered in the past year—insurance against employee discrimination suits.

Council wrapped up its remaining business in about half the time spent on the insurance matter.

Council cleared the way for Elkhorn Coal to move its corporate headquarters from Wayland to Prestonsburg by agreeing to waive property taxes on the new building for a period of five years. Elkhorn has an option on 11 lots on Lake Drive, plans to build a $40,000 complex and offered to do its own construction regarding hooking into the city sewage system in exchange for the five-year waiver. Councilwoman Osborne resisted the idea, saying the city should negotiate for a shorter waiver. Councilman Callihan responded that the agreement was a result of negotiation, that Elkhorn had originally asked for 10 years and to

Brackett Asks 6% Raise For Those Non-Certified

By Tim Sizemore

Solving the legal problems concerning the site of the new Left Beaver high school and fiscal matters dominated last Wednesday night's meeting of the Floyd County School Board.

The regular meeting first took up the question of acquisition problems of the Mitchell-Meade property located on Left Beaver. Superintendent Ray Brackett said that a suit had been filed and the process to condemn the property had begun.

Although the school system remains under financial management by the state board, Brackett recommended a 6% increase in salary for all non-certified personnel. He said non-certified employees had taken the brunt of cuts last year; that they had worked hard and deserved the salary increase.

The superintendent also recommended that Head Start Director Janet Smith receive a 6% salary increase, commanding her highly, saying she "has done a great job."

The board gave Brackett the nod to open up a $500,000 line of credit at the Bank Josephine to purchase building sites and settle some existing debts with the architect of the proposed Left Beaver school.

The board agreed to begin accepting bids for food services and custodial supplies at the next regular meeting, adding that they would accept contracts for use of school facilities by private organizations.

Attendance was reported up nearly 1% during the first month of school, and Brackett said that he hoped for a 1% increase during the current school year. He said that the parent-teacher meeting had been a great success with a turnout of 2,895 parents. Prestonsburg Elementary had the best attendance with 686 parents attending the meeting.

BROUGHT TO THE COUNTY JAIL, here, following the shooting death of his brother, Tony Carroll, at Martin, Walt Carroll, Jr., was flanked by officers. He is closely followed, here, by Deputy Antony Castle.

FIRES LIKE THIS, blazing up steep hillsides over the weekend, made their control a dangerous task for weary firefighters.

Court Dismisses Charges Against Former Officials

By Tim Sizemore

A three-year ordeal for former assistant Judge-Executive Thomas Lafferty and his son, Thomas Lafferty, Jr., former County Court Clerk, ended yesterday in Pike Circuit Court, with Judge Will T. Scott dismissing the remaining charges against the two.

The two men were originally indicted in December, 1984, along with 14 others. The Laffertys were charged with theft by deception concerning the use of credit cards for meals.

Phillip Damron, attorney for the accused, explained to Judge Scott the history of delays and negative press coverage, claiming that the two men had already been tried by the press and had suffered from accusations and innuendoes.

Damron told the court that the Laffertys had already been indicted on the same court three times with the two previous trials ending in a hung jury. Damron said that the last trial had been hung in the defendants favor.

The attorney said that 15 witnesses in the former trials had sworn that they had not been deceived, and they were unaware of any theft. He declared "Justice delayed is justice denied," and that his clients had not chosen this fight but were prepared to face their accusers.

Judge Scott, in ruling on the case, said that the whole affair had been a waste of time, and added, in moving for dismissal, that he saw no reason to continue the case.

The last person involved in the original indictments is District 3 Magistrate Eddie Caudill whose conviction is scheduled for appeal.

P'burg To Receive Award In Lexington, Thursday

By B.A. Heinze

Prestonsburg is, by virtue of receiving for three consecutive years the Certified City Award, being honored as one earning a Certified Cities Silver Award.

Travelling to Frankfort, tomorrow, (Thursday) to receive the award to be presented by Governor Martha Layne Collins and Commerce Secretary Carroll Knicely will be Mayor Ann Latta, City Manager Fred James, Bill Harvey Howard, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, Chalmer Frazier, executive director of the Chamber, and Burl Wells Spurlock, immediate past president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce. The awards will be given at the Marriott Hotel in Lexington where more than 900 are expected to attend the sixth annual luncheon sponsored by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

The Certified City Award is presented by cities that undergo an extensive on-site evaluation and meet specific standards in these areas.

Mayor Ann Latta said, "We are certainly pleased to have been named a Certified City for the third." Among the things included in Prestonsburg evaluation, she said, were the downtown revitalization program, public utilities, city planning, and tourism.

Other communities earning Certified Cities Silver Awards are Calvert City, Central City, Corbin, Florence, Franklin, Georgetown, Harrodsburg, Hopkinsville, Levanon, Lexington, London, Madisonville, Mayfield, Owensboro, Paducah, Pineville, Radcliff, and Versailles.

Gold Award winners, signifying five or more consecutive years of certifications, are Ashland, Bardstow, Bowling Green, Carrollton, Danville, Elizabethtown, Fulton, Greenville, Hazard, Maysville, Mt. Sterling, Murray, Richmond, Shelbyville, Somerset, and Winchester.

Those earning Certified Cities awards for the second year are Berea, Frankfort, Glasgow, Henderson, Middlesboro, and Paris.

First time award winners are Campbellsville, Covington, Crestview Hills, Cynthia, Hartford, Morehead, and Russellville.

A new category was also added to this year's list of winners. Honorable Mention will be given to the cities of Beaver Dam and Elkton.

Dr. G. Edward Hughes, president of the Hazard Community College, will also be honored. Hughes is the first recipient of the Volunteer of the Year Award sponsored by the Kentucky Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives.

The Certified Cities Program works under the direction of the KCC's Economic and Community Development Committee chaired by Jack Kain, president of Jack Kain Ford in Ver-

11 Are Jailed In Drug Bust

Four Floyd county men were jailed here after State Police officers concluded a yearlong undercover investigation with the arrest of these four and seven others in Pike county.

Floyd countians jailed are Billy Whitt, 21, of Prestonsburg; Jerry Rowe, 36, and Randy Manuel, 28, both of Langley, and Stacy Hamilton, 41, of McDowell.

Those jailed in Pike county are Harold "Snag" Tackett, 37, of Robinson Creek; Vivian Arias, 29, and Robert N. Maynard, 27, both of Millers Creek; Joann Damron, 28, of Millard; Debra Ann Bevins, 36, of Racoon; Sabrina Elswick, 27, and Jesse "Bud" Thacker, 31, both of Pikeville.

Trooper Kenneth Frost, public information officer at the Pikeville state police post, said those arrested were charged with selling marijuana, cocaine or LSD to undercover agents. At least 11 more arrests are expected to be made as a result of the investigation, he said.

If the air conditioning were turned off in the Houston Astrodome, the entrance of warm humid air could cause it to rain in the stadium.

HELICOPTERS LIKE THIS ONE have been a familiar sight in much of this section for the past week or more. They carried water to help in battling the worst of forest fires.

Job Corps Now Open To Women Students

The non-resident (NON-RES) training program at the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center, here, is now open to women as well as men ages 16 to 21. "This change is part of our continuing effort to better serve the needs of our area," according to Center Director Rod Chambers.

NON-RES training is relatively new, having been instituted this year. A NON-RES student receives all the benefits of the Job Corps except that they live at home starting classes at 8 a.m. daily and leaving at 3:40 p.m. These benefits include a monthly cash allowance, an allotment for personal clothing, and free medical and dental care.

The training program involves six periods of school daily with a combination of skill training, academic schooling towards acquiring a GED, and drivers' education. Although, more typically female oriented skills will be offered in the future, the present skill training involves electricity, plumbing, carpentry, brick and stone masonry, building and grounds maintenance, and culinary arts (cooking).

For additional information concerning this program, please call 886-1037, between 8:00 and 4:30 daily.

KET Will Air Art Showcase

A salute to the performance and design artists found throughout Louisville is featured in an upcoming installment of "River City" which airs Tuesday, November 17 at 7:00/6:00 p.m. CT on KET.

Host Peter Van Howe visits "A Tribute to Bob Thompson: A Black Artist Showcase" at the Kentucky Center for the Arts. Ken Clay, director of cultural diversity, organized the event. Planned as an annual affair, the showcase focuses on Louisville's artistic community. Local poet Umar Williams delivers a touching tribute which is followed by several jazz and gospel performances.

Thompson, a Louisville artist, gained national and international acclaim for his unique artistic expression. Bob Douglas, an art history professor at the University of Louisville, remembers telling the former medical school student to draw for seven years before touching the canvas with a paint brush. The eager and determined artist disregarded the advice of his mentor; and the community is grateful he did. Bob Thompson died before Douglas's recommended seven years were up. "River City" is a KET production which focuses on the people, places, and events found throughout the greater Louisville area.

ANNOUNCE BIRTH

ET3 Gregory A. Barnett and Judith Mae Barnett announce the birth of their first child, a son, Jonathan Edward, born October 19, at Norfolk General Hospital, Norfolk Virginia where G. Barnett is stationed in the Navy.

The grandparents are Billy and Judy Barnett, of Bucks Branch, and Zella Slone, of Hueysville.

Great-grandparents are Daisy and Raleigh Barnett, of Bucks Branch, and Arlene Griffith, of Hueysville, Rhomer Osborne, of Eastern, and the late Ada Osborne.

The baby is the fifth generation. Her great-great-grandma is Nettie Wright, of Bucks Branch.

County's First SADD Chapter Organized at McDowell High

McDowell High School students last week organized this county's first Students Against Drunk Driving (S.A.A.D.) chapter.

As part of the national organization, goals of the local chapter will be to help eliminate the drunk driver and save lives; alert and inform students of the dangers of drunk driving; help students deal with peer pressure which too often promotes reckless and drunken driving, and organize a peer counseling program to help students who may have concerns about alcohol. The McDowell students have pledged to become active in the fight to eliminate drunk driving, the major cause of injury and death.

The program at McDowell High, sponsored by the McDowell FHA, is headed by a 10-member committee of students who are Michelle Cook, Kristina Bevins, Jesse Osborne, Felicia Robinette, Dickie Joe Shannon, Patricia Tackett, Henry Webb, Missy Ross, Clyde Salyers, and Cathy Stegall. Adviser for the program is Janet Bowling, S.A.A.D. has grown from one chapter founded in Weland, Mass. by Robert Anastas in 1981, to a national organization reaching more than 3,000,000 high school and college students.

Marshall Band Sets Concert

A program of varied works including a full range from the sacred to the comedic will be performed by the Marshall University Symphonic Band at a 3 p.m. concert Sunday, Nov. 15, in Smith Recital Hall.

Lighter offerings include Jacques Offenbach's 'The Drum Major's Daughter' from a 19th Century French comic opera, and 'The Barber of Seville Goes to the Devil' by Gordon Jacob, along with Warren Baker's 'Hurray for Hollywood', a salute to the City of Hollywood on its 100th anniversary through a medley of motion picture themes.

A three-part work, 'Hamlet Suite' by Dimitri Shostakovich, includes dance, funeral and pantomime musical components.

Two sacred works, 'The Final Covenant' by Fisher Tull, and 'A Sacred Suite' by Alfred Reed, express deep religious emotions through dramatic uses of the instruments in the Tull work and use of familiar hymn and gospel tunes in the Reed piece.

The Glory of the Yankee Navy, John Philip Sousa's 70th march, and 'Irish Tune from County Derry' by Percy A. Grainger, a British folk song set for military band and dedicated to the memory of Edvard Grieg, are also on the program.

The public is invited to attend this free afternoon concert.

Scholarship Recipient

Patricia Fulk is the recipient of a four-year, full scholarship at Morehead State University. She received $1200 scholastic and the balance on a volleyball scholarship.

She is the daughter of John and Pearl (Hicks) Fulk, of Antwerp, Ohio and the granddaughter of the late William and Mary Ann Hicks, of Brush Creek, at Hueysville.

She is a 6'1" freshman at Morehead where she is middle hitter for the Lady Eagles. As a freshman she has seen action in approximately 40 games and has made more than 25 solo blocks and as many assists.

The Lady Eagles handed Eastern their first Ohio Valley Conference class in three years September 26. Morehead and Eastern have tied for the OVC championship of the Northern division. The OVC championship playoffs will be held November 20 and 21st.

Columbia Offers Winter Time Saving Tips To Customers

With old man winter peering around the corner, Columbia Gas of Kentucky wants you to be warm and comfortable while keeping your gas bill as low as possible, Jimmy C. Curnutte, manager for the Prestonsburg area, said today.

"Columbia does not want any customers to use more natural gas than they absolutely need," Curnutte said. "We all want to stay warm while the winter winds howl, and there are ways to do this without using any more gas than necessary."

Curnutte offered these tips to help customers enjoy the winter:

- Remember to clean or replace furnace filters regularly. This helps keep the furnace free of dust and promotes proper air flow.
- Weatherstrip or caulk around windows and doors.
- Close registers and doors of unoccupied rooms so that the primary areas used receive the maximum heat benefit.
- If possible, set back the thermostat to a lower temperature. If someone in the family has health problems, first consult a doctor.

- Open drapes during sunny days to use the sun's warmth and close them after sundown to keep the day's warmth inside.
- Wear a sweater to keep comfortable, rather than turn up the thermostat.
- Customers having trouble paying their gas bills are urged to contact the gas company to help make arrangements. "It's much better to do this early rather than wait until a problem gets out of control," said Curnutte.

Columbia has many other helpful tips to save energy, Curnutte said. They may be obtained from the local Columbia office.

...about your Social Security

By JIM KELLY
Social Security District Director
For the Big Sandy Area

Medicare Available For Kidney Failure

People in the Big Sandy Area suffering from permanent kidney failure should know that Medicare health insurance is available for those who need a kidney transplant or regular kidney dialysis, Jim Kelly, Social Security Director for the Big Sandy Area said recently.

A person who has permanent kidney failure can get Medicare if she or he:

Worked long enough, to be insured under Social Security, or already gets Social Security benefits or is the wife, husband, or child of someone who has worked long enough under Social Security.

Medicare coverage generally begins with the third month after the month the person starts getting dialysis treatments.

Coverage can also begin in the first month of a course of dialysis if the person takes part in an approved self-dialysis training program and the person expects to self-dialyze after the course.

Coverage can also begin the month the person is admitted to an approved hospital for a kidney transplant if the transplant takes place within 3 months.

Medicare generally ends 12 months after the month a person no longer needs maintenance dialysis for 36 months following a kidney transplant.

For more information about Medicare coverage for people with permanent kidney failure, contact the Big Sandy Area Social Security Office, located on U. S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under U. S. Government.

County Schools Win Flag Awards

Two Floyd county schools are among 116 Kentucky schools to be honored for school achievements and progress. Allen Central High and Betsy Layne High schools will receive Flags of Excellence and/or Flags of Progress awards Monday afternoon at the Singletary Center for the Arts in Lexington.

Eighty-five schools will be honored in the Lexington ceremonies. Schools in the western half of Kentucky will receive their awards in Paducah on Wednesday afternoon at the Showroom Lounge Executive Inn.

These 12 schools have earned excellence awards annually since the program began in 1984: Calloway county-Murray Elementary; Campbell county-Highlands High, Johnson Elementary and Moyer Elementary; Greenup county-Bellefonte Elementary; Jefferson county-Anchorage Elementary, Audubon Traditional Elementary, Carter Traditional Elementary, Greathouse Shryock Elementary, Jefferson County Traditional Middle and Male Traditional High; and Oldham county-Goshen Elementary.

"We are delighted that more than 50 schools will receive flag awards for the first time," said Laramie L. Leatherman, vice president of the Kentucky Educational Foundation. "It is our sincerest wish that scholastic achievement will continue to improve in all Kentucky schools."

The flags are presented annually by the Kentucky Educational Foundation and the Kentucky Department of Education for progress during the preceding school year.

Criteria for Flags of Excellence include attendance rates of 95 percent or more, dropout rates of 5 percent or less, higher test scores and no major accreditation deficiencies.

Flags of Progress winners must improve in the same areas by certain percentage points.

Kentucky Educational Foundation was created in 1984 to generate creative and effective programs which could not be developed through tax funds. It is directed by business leaders independently from state government and the Kentucky Department of Education, but in concert with state goals and objectives for improved education.

PCC Art Instructor

Magoffin county resident, Pat Frazier, has been employed by Prestonsburg Community College as an art instructor. She is a former P.C.C. student who completed her bachelor's and master's degrees at Morehead State University, specializing in studio art. She and her husband, Tom, own Prater Drugs in Salyersville and Wolfe County Drugs in Campton.

A showing of her art work was held in the Claypool-Young Art Building at Morehead this summer, and her work is being shown in the P.C.C. library, November 9-13, with a reception November 11 from 6-7:30 p.m. The exhibit features a variety of two dimensional work including portraits, pastel, watercolor, charcoal, acrylic, and silver point, which is actually etching with a piece of jeweler's silver.

Legislative Issues Topic of Meet Here

The major business issues facing the upcoming General Assembly will be the subject of 13 regional meetings being sponsored by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce from November 16 to 24. Liability insurance, workers' compensation, health care, education, small business, economic development, constitutional reform, and the effect of the projected revenue shortfall on the state budget will be the main topic.

One of these meetings will be held at May Lodge at 8 a.m., November 24. During each meeting, members of the Kentucky Chamber's government affairs staff will preview the upcoming legislative session as well as the business legislation that lawmakers are expected to consider. The meetings will be held across the state and are being co-sponsored by local chambers of commerce.

"The upcoming session will be an important one for business," said Tony Sholar, vice president of government affairs for the Kentucky Chamber. "With the start of a new administration, this Legislature will help set the stage for the next four years."

Kentucky Chamber President Jim Wiseman emphasized that the meetings will give the chamber staff an excellent understanding of what business leaders perceive as important as well as giving chamber members an opportunity to ask questions and voice their opinions.

"We're going out into the state to find out more about what business leaders view as the key issues," Wiseman said. "As the largest, broad-based business organization in the state, the Kentucky Chamber will represent those views during the upcoming session to promote legislation that makes Kentucky a better place to do business."

The meetings are for state and local chamber members. The public and press are also invited. There will be no charge. A complete schedule follows. For more information, contact Jeff Eger at 502/695-4700.

Local Doctor Recertified Family Practice Specialist

Dr. Ira B. Potter, M.D., of Prestonsburg, has been recertified as a diplomate of the American Board of Family Practice (ABFP) as a result of passing a recertification examination offered by the ABFP. The physician thus maintains a specialist status in the medical specialty of family practice.

ABFP diplomates must continue to show proof of competence in the field of comprehensive, continuing care of the family by being recertified every six years. The family practice specialty was the first to require diplomates to be recertified on a continuing basis.

The written examination is designed to prove the candidate's continuing competence in the basic components of family practice—internal medicine, surgery, obstetrics and gynecology, pediatrics, psychiatry and neurology, and community medicine.

To qualify for certification initially, a physician must have successfully completed three years of residency training in family practice and passed an intensive certification examination. There are some 385 residency training programs in teaching hospitals and university medical centers across the United States.

Prestonsburg Students Are Apple Day Winners

Kulsum (Cookie) Ameji and Robbie Freels, both of Prestonsburg, were winners in academic competitions held in Paintsville on Apple Day. Both are students at Our Lady of the Mountains School, Paintsville.

Ameji placed first in junior high spelling, and Freels received a runner-up trophy for his entry in the intermediate art competition.

To qualify for the intermural competition, students had to place first or second in preliminary competitions held in their respective schools.

Ameji also represented Our Lady of the Mountains in the junior high adding competition because she placed first in her intramural competition.

Four other Floyd countians won competitions held in Our Lady of the Mountains School and participated in the Apple Day event as representatives of the school.

Marty Hall, of David, and April Noplis, of Bull Creek, competed in the primary adding division. Hall also represented Our Lady of the Mountains in the primary spelling competition. Preranna Reddy, of Prestonsburg, competed on behalf of Our Lady of the Mountains in the junior high handwriting category. Mark Rivera, also of Prestonsburg, represented the school in intermediate spelling.

Free GED Testing Offered At PCC

The Division of Adult and Community Education, in cooperation with the GED Foundation, is reinforcing statewide promotional efforts by offering free Saturday test dates in November.

A free GED exam will be administered at Prestonsburg Community College Saturday, November 14, at 8 a.m. Adults without high school credentials, who are enrolled in Adult Basic Education/GED classes, are eligible to participate in the free testing program. Applicants must report to room J129 with an AE-6 form, signed by the local superintendent of schools, along with a completed free testing voucher and proper identification.

The free Saturday testing, a component of Project Second Chance, was first instigated in the Spring of 1986. The special test dates proved highly successful, with 1,747 individuals taking the test in addition to the 6,609 who participated in the regular testing.

For additional information regarding the free GED exam, please contact Mrs. Brenda C. Music, Counselor, Prestonsburg Community College at 886-3863.

JACKIE EDFORD OWENS MAGISTRATE—DISTRICT 2

People, I read the article put in last week's paper by magistrates of Dist. 1—DeRossett, Dist. 3—Caudill, and Dist. 4—Tackett. After I told on these three magistrates for passing a Flood Plain Ordinance of 19 pages of law, they got mad because I told about all three magistrates voting to pass this ordinance without ever reading one word of the 19 pages.

They stated also in last week's paper that I said they raised the tax rate by 4%. That's not right! I never said one word about 4% in my ad. Neither of these magistrates must have read my ad either, before they signed their name to the ad they supposedly wrote. I said that it was raised to 17.7% this year on real property. Magistrates DeRossett, Caudill, and Tackett ALL voted to raise it. I voted AGAINST IT. People, I'm just telling the facts and they can't stand it.

They also made it sound like I've never helped the fire departments any. These three magistrates try to take credit for everything. When it comes to the fire departments they act like they have done so much. When the Firefighters Association had their meeting at Garth and they advertised for all county officials to please attend—at the first meeting I attended. I was the only county official there to listen to their problems. During all meetings, thereafter, I have never seen DeRossett, Caudill, or Tackett's face at these meetings to hear their needs. When the Allen Fire Dept. had problems with their fire tax and fleet insurance—I was there and the other three were not. When Terry Triplett from the Garrett Fire Dept. came to the Fiscal Court and asked for the fire trucks to be put on the county fleet insurance—I asked the Fiscal Court to give them $30,000 out of the million dollars that we had in the bank so they could buy their own insurance. This motion died for a lack of a second from any of these three magistrates. When the Middle Creek Fire Dept. had their problems recently, with no money to operate on, they attended the Fiscal Court meeting and asked the members to attend their first meeting to hear their problems—Although this is in Dist. 1, DeRossett's Dist.—I was the only magistrate to attend this meeting.

People, these three magistrates would love to take credit for the hard work I've done in Dist. 2. Yes, I have voted NO on a lot of monthly bills to be paid, but if you see one item on the monthly bills that you feel is not right or that you think is outrageously high, you cannot single it out. You have to vote YES or NO to pay ALL the monthly bills. For instance, our last month's bills totaled over $450,000. I don't know where this stuff went. This is only one month's bills, people. I'm not voting to pay bills when I'm not sure where they went. As we all know three out of four magistrates got into trouble last term due to bill paying procedures. Although two were cleared, Ed Caudill still faces a possible jail term. I sat on the Fiscal Court the month they went over and brought Ed Caudill out of the Floyd County Jail so he could come over and vote at the Fiscal Court meeting. This is also the month that Caudill, along with Tackett, voted to let surrounding counties bring their garbage into Floyd County.

People, this is how it is. Don't believe this garbage about me being against the fire hydrants. I made the motion to award this job of installing the fire hydrants on Mud Creek and Beaver Elkhorn water systems to C & H Construction and it passed. These are local contractors from Floyd County. I fought hard for them to get this job.

People, there has never been a senior citizen check or fire department check late since I've been in office. I've fought hard for every road that has been blacktopped in my District and had to fight and scrounge to get what gravel we've got. How do you think I felt at August's meeting where $120,000 worth of road material was purchased with Dist. 2 only receiving $3,300 of it. We got less than $4,000 out of $120,000, leaving over $116,000 for the other three districts in which Dist. 1—DeRossett's District—received around $70,000 of this material. Where the other $46,000 went I don't know. People, if I know where the money is going I will vote yes. If I feel something is wrong or if I don't know where the money is going—I'm voting NO. We've been getting our bills sometimes the evening before and sometimes 10 minutes before the meeting. Some counties get their agenda and their bills out to the magistrates 15 days before the meeting so they can check on what's being spent and where it went. Let me give you an idea of how much money is reported to have been spent on road material since I have been in office. With just four companies—the same four companies have collected nearly 1½ million dollars in less than two years from the Floyd County Fiscal Court for road materials. People, I'm not voting to make my friends rich and I'm sure not voting to make other people's friends rich. It only takes three votes to pay the monthly bills. I don't mind letting these other three magistrates stick their necks out and pay the bills because if something is wrong—it will be their hide—Not mine.

P.S.—As you probably have noticed my election is 1½ years off. My opponents have already started to campaign against me and spread rumors. There are so many people taking credit for the work we're getting done in Dist. 2. The only thing I can tell you is pat them on the back, tell them you sure appreciate what they are doing for you, and just remember how much has changed in the two years since I have been your magistrate. If it's wrong—I'm voting no. If it's right—I'm voting yes. I'll stand up for you 100%. Come to the Fiscal Court meetings and see for yourself. Everytime I voted against paying the bills, I am voting against paying myself.

He Took Second Look at College With Family' Security in Mind

Family has been a prime consideration for Eastern Kentuckians, and Elmer Howard is no exception. In fact, the need to provide security for his family at a time when the coal industry seemed shaky led him to take steps which changed his life.

As a young man, Howard attended Morehead State University for two years, but the money offered by a booming coal industry was too much to resist, so he quit school. For 11 years he was satisfied and secure, but when he became a father, the coal industry was facing hard times, and he suddenly felt insecure.

With a college degree, he felt he would be more employable should the coal industry decline even further so in the fall of 1984, he enrolled at Prestonsburg Community College part-time while he worked at Martin County Coal full-time. After three semesters of successful work at P.C.C., he was allowed by the company to attend both summer sessions at M.S.U. in order to complete his Bachelor of Business Administration. In the future, he is planning to do graduate work toward a Master of Business Administration.

According to Howard, the courses he took in Basic Public Speaking and Introduction to Computing at P.C.C. really helped him and he "got a lot of help from P.C.C. instructors, no special treatment, but they were understanding of my place in society as well as in the education system." In his view, "the mood has changed in college instructors; they are more concerned with individuals, more willing to help and friendlier in general. When students feel that someone cares for their future, they think more of themselves."

Now the former dropout has become involved in an interesting and challenging aspect of mining safety. He is working with a team of researchers from Pittsburgh looking at the behavior of people using pieces of equipment such as the shuttle cart. Funded by the Bureau of Mines under the auspices of the Department of Interior, this program is trying to identify aspects of behavior which could lead to accidents, injuries, and lost production time. A behavioral psychologist and a statistician are trying to determine what can be done to lessen the probability of an accident.

Howard's part in the project is to speak to individual groups of coal miners in safety retraining classes addressing the probability of accidents occurring through their particular means of operation. Computer programs allow them to watch operators, record their actions, and predict the possibility of accidents. By informing them of the ways in which they are increasing the probability of accidents, he is hoping to modify their behavior, but the success or failure of the program will take at least a year and a half to determine.

A NOTE OF THANKS
Thelma and Albert Miller would like to thank all the relatives and friends who helped them so much during their recent stay in the Highlands Regional Medical Center, and since their return to their home. They are grateful for the flowers, cards, telephone calls, and visits, and appreciate the help rendered by the doctors and nurses. They are especially thankful for the prayers of the ministers and members of the various churches. They hope that the Lord will bless each and everyone of these good people.

Fourth Grade Celebrates Daniel Boone's Birthday

Fourth grade Kentucky social studies class at McDowell Elementary celebrated the birth of Daniel Boone, November 2.

One activity for this celebration was a day when students dressed up as Boone, Rebecca, Jemima, Indians, or pioneers. Also, one of the parents, Mrs. Diane Adams, baked a Daniel Boone cake.

GFWC/KFWC DRIFT WOMANS CLUB NEWS

A personal safety workshop to help women deal with crime and violence will be conducted by GFWC/KFWC Drift Womans Club November 16, at 7 p.m. at the Drift Womans Club.

This special one hour program has been adapted from the nationally recognized Du Pont Personal Safety/Rape Prevention Program and is being offered to clubmembers across the country through the cooperative efforts of GFWC and Du Pont.

"Knowing what to do in threatening and potentially dangerous situations is the key to personal safety," noted Mrs. Cheryl Hall, Drift Womans Club president.

"This workshop has already helped thousands of women recognize danger and to reduce their risk of rape and other personal assault."

The program begins with a discussion of attitudes and feelings about violence. Options and safety strategies are explored, and participants learn ways to deal with crime and to support crime victims.

The program includes an award-winning video, "Fear of Crime, which dramatizes several commonplace but dangerous situations and points out the actions and behavior that influence the outcome.

A personal safety handbook developed by Du Pont for its employees entitled "No, Not Me!" is also available for participants from Miss Ruby Akers workshop leader and public affairs chairman.

Du Pont introduced its unique Personal Safety/Rape Prevention Program in December 1985 and has worked with GFWC to tailor the hour workshop component to meet the special needs of GFWC's more than 400,000 members. This is the first use of the program outside the company's immediate workforce. If you plan to attend call 377-2487.

Prichard Committee Launches High School Improvement Plan

At the annual meeting of the Kentucky Secondary School Principals Association in Owensboro, The Prichard Committee announced plans for a major high school improvement program.

Robert F. Sexton, Committee Executive Director, invited all Kentucky high schools to apply for participation in the Kentucky High School Project. Between five to 10 schools will be selected to participate in the project.

The Project is supported by funds from the Kentucky Humanities Council, South Central Bell and the Kentucky Department of Education. Stephen A. Henderson, Principal of Model Lab School in Richmond, will serve as a part-time project coordinator.

Sexton said, "We're looking for a few creative high schools to work together with us planning new ways to inspire, motivate and reawaken students to the vital and lively processes of learning. We want to see schools redesigned as attractive learning centers where students who have to be there also want to be there. This will require reorganizing the way schools do business, perhaps new arrangements of schedules, new ways to help students progress or graduate at varied paces, or different approaches to teaching—the possibilities are limited only by the imagination."

He continued, "The point is to focus entirely on students, and not be limited by traditional organization which has become convenient for management but not always constructive for students."

The project's guidelines, released in Owensboro, say that the "high school has been the neglected partner in the recent national reform movement...the thrust of which has been more regulation than inspiration." The project is designed to "call forth a first wave of high schools to break new ground."

Josephine Richardson, committee member from Whitesburg, says the key to results will be the "serious involvement of teachers in the planning process." The committee sees participating schools emphasizing such approaches as modifying the curriculum; involving students in community service; rearranging school schedules for team teaching, independent learning or tutoring; diagnosing students' entry level skills and tailoring programs to them; and creating ways beyond course completion for students to demonstrate their mastery of learning. The committee will also expect schools to pay equal attention to "both content knowledge and active, engaging teaching approaches."

Schools will be selected on the quality of their applications, their ability to plan effectively, and diversity of school types. "We expect schools from all over Kentucky and from different kinds of school systems," Richardson said. "This is not just a program for schools with the best test scores—it's for schools with potential and with creative and dedicated staffs."

According to Sexton, "This is a major commitment for the next school year and we're looking forward to working with schools that make this commitment with us."

Application guidelines are being mailed to all high schools and to teacher organizations, the committee announced. "We also hope that interested citizens and parents will encourage their local schools to apply. The program could be a lever for starting to move this huge, complex system toward some truly creative thinking."

The Prichard Committee is a statewide organization which promotes and advocates improvements in Kentucky education. Its 85 members come from all across Kentucky, and its offices are located in Lexington.

4th Birthday

Kenneth Jason Goble celebrated his fourth birthday November 10.

He is the son of Kenneth and Wilma Goble, of Middlecreek.

He also won the prettiest smile, prettiest eyes, most beautiful, dresswear, prettiest suit and most photogenic in the Jenny Wiley Festival held recently.

Lindsey Wilson College Celebrates Homecoming

Lindsey Wilson College, 84-year-old liberal arts college in Adair county, will celebrate its Homecoming, November 14. Featured in the day-long activities will be the formal opening of a new addition to the Student Union Building, which includes a bookstore. The project was funded by the Louisville-based Cralle Foundation.

The United Methodist-affiliated college has been one of Kentucky's fastest-growing colleges for the past six years. Its fall enrollment of 1,030 is the largest in the school's long history.

Paul Patton Named To Transport Group

Paul Patton, Pike County Judge/Executive has been named regional chairman of Kentuckians for Better Transportation. KBT President Jack Fish said the region and state are fortunate to have Patton's involvement and continued leadership in efforts to get transportation improvements for the region.

"There is no one in the region who is more interested or who has worked harder to get transportation improvements. Judge Patton is quite knowledgeable about the elements needed for business and industrial expansion, and he is certainly aware of the critical importance of adequate transportation in this," said Fish.

KBT is currently surveying major transportation users and managers, chambers of commerce, and local government to obtain their perspectives on transportation needs in the region and in Kentucky. The information will be used in "Transportation 2020," a national effort sponsored by the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials to develop a transportation program that will meet state and national needs over the next 30 years.

Through the program state and local officials, private industry, and public interest groups are working to: assess transportation requirements through the year 2020; develop alternative proposals for meeting the requirements at the federal, state and local level; and achieve a consensus on the best means of doing the job.

For the last 30 years the major focus of the Federal highway program has been the construction of the Interstate highway system. With the completion of the nation's Interstates during the next five years, Congress will be faced with restructuring the Federal highway program.

"Now is the time," said Fish, "to have a say in what the new highway program and other transportation programs should include and to make sure they are advantageous to Kentucky."

KBT is a private, non-profit association working with government and business from across the state to provide an efficient, interlinking transportation network. While KBT's regional structure conforms to the state's highway districts, the organization represents all modes of transportation—air, highway, public transit, rail, and waterway.

Runner-Up

Savannah Renee Collins, 18-month-old daughter of Toni and Buck Collins, of Prestonsburg, was one of the runners-up in the October Glamour Beauty Pageant, held at the Martin Youth Center in Martin.

She received a trophy and also a loving cup for winning the Natural Beauty award.

She is the granddaughter of Byrdus and Ann McKenzie and John and Ernestine Collins.

Wonderworks Features A Little Princess

Cowboys, Indians and a little princess are part of the featured November lineup on the highly-acclaimed anthology series "Wonderworks."

"Wonderworks," an Emmy and Peabody Award-winning series, focuses on the rites of passage experienced during the growing-up years. It airs on KET Saturdays at 8:00/7:00 p.m. CT and repeats Sundays at 11:00/10:00 a.m. CT.

November programs include: The Lone Star Kid, The Paper Boy, Isaac Littlefeathers, and three-part encore presentation of A Little Princess.

The Lone Star Kid, November 1, tells of a young boy who decides to run for mayor to improve his home town. It is based on the experiences of 11-year-old Brian Zimmerman, of Crabb, Texas, who campaigned against land developers taking over the city and fought for emergency and police services.

The Paper Boy is the story of another youth who finds himself thrust overnight into the increased responsibilities of manhood. Set in Depression-era Australia, The Paper Boy, is the story of Joe, the son of a factory worker. Joe gets more than he bargains for when his part-time newspaper carrier's job must become a full-time occupation after his father loses his job.

Joe's subsequent flirtation with Communism causes a rift with his father that provokes Joe to leave home and live on the streets. Only after Joe learns what it really means to struggle for survival is he ultimately able to reconcile with his father.

Isaac Littlefeathers is a five-year-old who is abandoned by his Native American mother, Abe, a widowed grocer, adopts him and raises him as his own Jewish son. When he reaches his teen years, Isaac Littlefeathers is caught between cultures.

He is forced to define his own identity when external pressures drive him to choose between his own mixed White/Native American blood and his adoptive father's Jewish heritage. Torn between two worlds, Isaac runs away to seek his own identity.

"Wonderworks" also airs a holiday encore presentation of A Little Princess. Sarah Crewe is the gifted daughter of a wealthy man who is brought from India to Miss Michin's Select Seminary for Young Ladies in England.

Sara's capacity for making friends and her father's fortune raise fascination and envy in the hearts of the other students and in Miss Minchin herself. When Sara's father suddenly dies penniless, the little princess Sara is reduced to working as a maid. Amelia Shankley and Nigel Havers star in this Frances Hodgson Burnett classic which starred Shirley Temple in the early film version.

ATTENTION

To Residents living in the Southeast Floyd County Volunteer Fire Department Fire District:

We need your support. We have always maintained our fire department strictly on a volunteer basis. We have shunned going to a taxed fire district. To prevent this from happening, we are asking all residents living in our area to donate whatever you can afford on a regular basis.

Within the past two years, our fire department has been up-graded from a Class 10 District to a Class 9. For those living within a five mile radius of our department, this should be saving you approximately $100.00-150.00 a year on your fire insurance. We ask that you donate part of this savings back to the fire department. If the fire department ceased to exist, homeowners could not even purchase fire insurance.

We, also, are badly in need of volunteer workers and volunteer fire fighters. Our present volunteers have been working many hours with, seemingly, little thanks. We feel it is time more of our citizens bear part of the burden for maintaining adequate fire protection for the residents of Upper Left Beaver.

If you are interested in donating your time or finances please contact us at:

Ext. Service Offers Holiday Travel Tips

Before you set out on your holiday travels, be sure you are prepared for the problems that may be ahead of you. Holiday travel can be dangerous due to the increased traffic and unpredictability of the weather.

"Always make sure you have checked the weather forecast before you start your trip. Because weather can change rather quickly, it is a good idea to make sure that you check the forecast just before departing," said University of Kentucky Extension meteorologist Tom Priddy.

Priddy suggested that you make sure you are prepared for bad weather, even if the forecast calls for clear weather for the entire duration of your trip.

Priddy offered these tips to make your travel safer.

When you plan your travel, make sure you have alternate routes included.

Try not to travel alone: two or three persons are preferable.

Travel in convoy with another vehicle if possible.

Always fill your gas tank before entering open country, even if you are going only a short distance.

Monitor weather conditions on your radio as you travel.

If a bad weather develops, don't hesitate to seek shelter immediately.

In addition, Priddy suggested you carry a winter storm kit in your car. Such a kit might include: blankets or sleeping bags, matches and candles, empty 3-pound coffee can with plastic cover, facial tissue, paper towels, extra clothing, high calorie snacks, compass and road map, first aid kit, knife, shovel, sack of sand flashlight or signal light, windshield scraper and booster cables.

21,700 miles of power lines give you the energy to start your day.

Your local power company is a part of American Electric Power, a family of power companies. So the electricity you use to fix breakfast comes from our shared electrical transmission system, the strongest in the world. We also share a network of people and power and resources that links seven states. That's how we deliver electricity quickly and efficiently, while keeping down the cost. From now on, when you see our name, you'll also see AEP. As a part of American Electric Power, we're still your local power company, with a lot of power behind us.

ATTENDS GRANDDAUGHTER'S WEDDING

Mrs. Otela Smiley returned to her home here from Lexington, Friday, November 7. She was accompanied by her daughters, Dinah D. Smiley, of Louisville, and Mrs. Jerry L. Thompson and small daughter, Brittany Paige, of Lexington, and a family friend, Delores Cooke, of Louisville.

While in Lexington, Mrs. Smiley attended the wedding of her granddaughter, Miss Leann Corley, of Florida, to Mr. Michael Swecki, of Michigan. Also attending the wedding were other members of Mrs. Smiley's family, Mrs. John Sewell and daughter, Timmie Ann; Mr. and Mrs. James Smiley, of Columbus, and Mrs. Dean L. Sinor, of Waddy.

The wedding ceremony was performed at the Southern Acres Christian Church. The bride's uncle, Vyrion A. Smiley, and family are members of this church. Miss Gina Smiley was the soloist, and Miss Timmie Ann Sewell was one of the bridesmaids. Performing the ceremony was the pastor of the bride's former home church, in Michigan. Following the wedding, a reception for relatives and friends was held in the church's dining room.

State's Jobless Rate Falls in Most Counties

Ninety-nine Kentucky counties recorded a decline in jobless rates from August to September, marking the seventh month in a row that a majority of the 120 counties have had lower monthly figures.

Twenty counties reported higher rates in September and one county was unchanged according to a report issued recently by the Cabinet for Human Resources.

"The reopening of schools provided our biggest economic boost in September," said Ed Blackwell, Kentucky's chief labor market analyst. "This, coupled with an increase in agricultural workers for the tobacco harvest, certainly had a positive impact in every county."

Statewide, unemployment dropped from a revised 7.5 percent in August to a preliminary 6.8 percent in September, the lowest rate recorded since September 1981, when it was 6.7 percent. Kentucky's jobless rate in September 1986 was 8.1 percent.

The national jobless rate slipped from 8.8 percent in August to 5.7 percent in September. Comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

"The seasonal increase of 14,600 workers in education reflected the hiring of non-teaching personnel, such as bus drivers, cafeteria and custodial workers, and some college students employed in on-campus jobs," Blackwell said.

"The new school year also meant growth in service jobs, as most of the 2,900 additional workers in this category were in education-related positions."

Agricultural jobs increased by 4,500, mostly due to the tobacco harvest.

"New manufacturing jobs—1,400 between August and September—are providing additional strength to Kentucky's economy," Blackwell said. "We have 7,600 more jobs in this category than we did a year ago, and 2,500 of those are in textiles and apparel." Garment-making employers account for the largest single block of manufacturing jobs in Kentucky.

Job losses in September were either temporary or seasonal, Blackwell said. "We saw a decline in state and local government as students who had summer jobs left to return to school. And rising interest rates contributed to a decline in finance, insurance and real estate and in construction."

"Although preliminary figures showed trade jobs were down, we didn't receive payroll information from some large retail employers in time to include it in our monthly report. Since trade jobs have increased steadily since 1981, we anticipate our revised figures will reflect more jobs in this category."

The Department of Employment Services' monthly employer survey showed an estimated 1,536,200 jobs in Kentucky in September, more than the job estimates for both August (1,518,600) and September 1986 (1,514,800).

The U.S. Department of Labor's estimate of Kentuckians working (both here and commuting to other states) in September was 1,560,300, up 13,700 from 1,546,600 in August but 6,000 below the September 1986 report of 1,566,300.

The federal estimate that 114,200 Kentuckians were unemployed in September was down 10,900 from August's report of 125,100 and 23,500 below the 137,700 who were jobless in September 1986.

Kentucky's civilian labor force estimate for September was 1,674,500, an increase of 2,800 over August's 1,671,700 but 29,500 below the September 1986 estimate of 1,704,000. The civilian labor force includes non-military people with jobs and unemployed people who are actively seeking jobs. It does not include the unemployed who have not looked for a job in four weeks.

Unemployment statistics are based on estimates and are compiled to measure employment trends rather than to actually count people working.

The jobless rate in the Big Sandy district dropped from a revised 13.6 percent in August to a preliminary 12.1 percent in September. All counties reported rates above 10.0 percent, ranging from 10.2 percent in Martin county, Magoffin county's highest rate of 15.1 percent.

Floyd county's rate is 11.1% with an estimated 1793 unemployed.

Turner Participates In EKU Co-op Program

James Turner, of Floyd county, is among more than 211 Eastern Kentucky University students who are participating in the University's Cooperative Education Program during the 1987 Fall semester.

EKU's cooperative education program provides an opportunity for participating students to apply principles and theories learned in the classroom to practical, on-the-job situations. Participants also receive a salary from the participating employer, which may help to defray college expenses.

"Cooperative education provides exceptional opportunities for students to gain valuable experience outside the classroom environment," said Ken Noah, director of cooperative education at EKU. "Many people don't realize that the majority of our co-op students are paid for their working hours in addition to the academic credit they receive."

Since EKU's program began in 1973, more than 7,000 students have been placed with employers in Kentucky and throughout the United States, Noah said.

Letcher Co. To Be Named As Nat'l Clean Community

Letcher county will become the 15th Kentucky community in the Keep America Beautiful System in a certification ceremony Nov. 12 at 6:30 p.m., at the Parkway Inn in Whitesburg.

Harry Caudill, well known author and attorney who actively worked to bring Letcher county into the national clean community network, will speak at the ceremony. William Nash, vice president of Keep America Beautiful, will present the official certification to Letcher county.

Keep America Beautiful is a national, nonprofit organization that promotes litter control and solid waste management programs. To be certified by the organization, a community must complete a baseline measurement of its litter, do an in-depth solid waste survey, and establish a broadly representative organization to keep the community clean, mainly through educating the citizenry. Currently, there are 400 Keep America Beautiful programs in the nation.

A group of Letcher county citizens began working to get into the system several years ago. The group received support for its efforts from county government, local businesses, and from the state's Clean Community Program administered by the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet.

Letcher county residents already involved with the program and those who wish to become involved are invited to attend the Letcher County Clean Community Program's official kickoff of its anti-litter crusade.

To learn more about Keep America Beautiful and how your community may become a part of the network, contact Vicki Pettus, Division of Waste Management, Department for Environmental Protection, 18 Reilly Road, Frankfort, Ky., telephone: 502-564-6716.

Morehead Agents To Be Here Thurs.

Morehead State University is doing a repeat performance of its Senior Opportunity Night (SON) program which began last year, taking it to Jenny Wiley State Park Lodge Thursday, Nov. 12.

The SON programs, sponsored by MSU's Office of Student Development and Alumni Association, are designed to provide information about the University to high school seniors, their parents and potential transfer students.

Floyd County students attending Allen Central, Betsy Layne, McDowell, Prestonsburg, and Wheelwright High Schools have received a special invitation to attend.

When MSU experienced a 10.1 percent enrollment increase this year, University officials decided to repeat those recruiting efforts that were most successful.

"We think the SON programs give potential students a good look at college life, both from the social and academic sides," said Tim Rhodes, University Enrollment Services director.

Beginning at 7 p.m., the evening's activities include a video presentation on campus life and special door prizes. Representatives from admissions, housing, student development, various campus organizations, and faculty members from MSU's colleges and academic departments will be on hand to discuss their programs.

Additional information on the SON programs is available from Rhodes at (606) 783-2011 or by calling MSU's Office of Admissions toll-free, 1-800-262-7474.

NAR Focuses On Reshaping Policy

Fifty years ago, Congress passed landmark legislation serving as the foundation for a myriad of ensuing housing programs with federal involvement. The U. S. Housing Act of 1937, signed into law on Sept. 1 of that year, established the first program of publicly-funded, publicly-owned and publicly-administered housing for people with low incomes. The U. S. Housing Authority was created to issue bonds to finance loans made to the newly-created local housing authorities. Construction of public housing units and slum removal was to be funded by these loans.

The concepts of federally-subsidized rent and local tax exemption for low-income families, as well as the local governments' role in managing federally-subsidized housing, all developed from the half-century-old housing act. In spite of opponents who declared public housing unnecessary and a "form of socialism," the act led to at least 10 major pieces of housing legislation over the next four decades. Housing programs expanded from the original plans designed to build specific projects for the poor, to ones fostering homeownership opportunities, notably the Veterans Administration home loan guaranty program (the Federal Housing Administration mortgage insurance program was established prior to the 1937 act). Broad forms of aid were eventually developed for localities, such as the Community Development Block Grant and Urban Development Block Grant programs.

One-half century later, providing enough affordable homes and living units for lower-income citizens remains a problem. This year, the National Association of Realtors have underscored the need for a national housing policy that reinforces the government's commitment to "decent, affordable housing" as pledged in the initial housing acts.

According to NAR First Vice President Ira Gribin, prudent solutions combining public and private efforts are needed to muster continued support for low-income housing programs, in the wake of federal budget cuts and deficit reduction measures. Since 1978, annual appropriations for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development have shrunk from 7 percent of the total federal budget to less than 1 percent for the current fiscal year.

Gribin said he is encouraged by what now appears to be a renewed congressional focus on a housing issues. The housing authorization bill currently going through Congress keeps intact several key housing programs previously targeted for dismantling. It is designed to serve as a predecessor to major housing legislation Gribin feels could be developed over the next few years.

STUDENTS AT ALLEN CENTRAL AND BETSY LAYNE high schools will hear Michael Johnathon and Floyd county native, Larry Brewer, member of Johnathon's band, Westwind, in part of a statewide tour of high schools and colleges now in progress. Also scheduled in this area are concerts at Mullins High School, Alice Lloyd and Pikeville colleges. Members of Westwind pictured from above, from front to back, are Michael Johnathon, Todd Alfrey, Elizabeth Price, Larry Brewer, and Bobby Brannock.

Martin native Larry Brewer has joined forces with singer/songwriter Michael Johnathon on a statewide tour that will have him performing to over 200,000 people by December 10.

Brewer, 36, graduate of the old Martin High school, is a member of Johnathon's band, Westwind.

The concert series, named "The Passing" after its title song, along with its video and 45rpm record release, deal with the subject of teenage depression and suicide. Each year nearly 400,000 Americans attempt suicide; 6,000 of the successful are teenagers.

Two hundred thousand Kentucky students will see Johnathon and his band during a marathon 12-week tour to over 100 colleges and high school concert halls in the state. Five hundred thousand more will be able to view the concert via a 30-minute VHS concert video that will be sent, along with a class discussion booklet and a copy of "The Passing" record, to almost every high school and college in the Commonwealth.

Brewer has performed on drums for the past twenty years, sharing the stage with such notables as Ronnie Milsap and Hank Williams, Jr.

"Larry is, in my opinion, the most talented percussionist in the state of Kentucky," said Johnathon during a phone interview. "I think what impressed me most about him, aside from the obvious talent, was his sincerity. This project is not just music. We're dealing with people's hearts and lives. And Larry can show that kind of sensitive concern from stage. Besides, the kids really get into his performing power."

The tour has already produced positive results. One 16-year-old boy dumped a handful of drugs in Johnathon's hand after one concert. Another young girl told him, in tears, about her father abusing her almost everyday after school. The young girl's father was in jail not long after that concert.

"The kids have responded wonderfully," says Johnathon, "and the music has served to be the public vehicle. I am astounded at the need for people to hear the words 'I love you'. So many of them cry to themselves during the concert."

First, the good news: The Environmental Protection Agency reports that the level of lead in our air dropped 32 percent during 1985, due to tough new federal standards limiting the amount of lead in gasoline. According to International Wildlife magazine, other major pollutants, such as carbon monoxide, dust and soot, also declined. The bad news is that nearly 80 million of us still live in areas that do not meet the public health standards for ozone—our most persistent air pollution problem.

Dance Master Class Set At Marshall U.

A dance master class in conjunction with the performance of Ballet Hispanico of New York will be held Nov. 19 for intermediate dancers in the Marshall University Dance Studio, Gullickson Hall, from 10 a.m. to noon.

Led by Tina Ramirez, artistic director of Ballet Hispanico, the session will include classical barre, modern pharaseology, and classical Spanish (Flamenco) movements.

Dancers of at least intermediate level are invited to register, according to Dr. Mary Marshall, director of the Marshall Dance Company, which is co-sponsoring the residency with the Marshall Artists Series. Ballet Hispanico will perform in concert at 8 p.m. in the Keith-Albee Theatre.

Call them partners: birds called egrets feed on insects stirred up by grazing cattle. In return, the egret warns the cattle of danger by flying away.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

THE EXPIRATION DATE

The responsibility for determining the expiration date for a medicine rests with the drug manufacturer. The manufacturer conducts a series of standard tests that measure the rate of deterioration and changes that occur when the drug product is packaged and sitting on a shelf. Expiration dates are reasonable estimates of aging of the medicine. Pharmaceutical manufacturers are required by the Food and Drug Administration to submit expiration date information before the product can be distributed to patients. Exposure of the drug to air, moisture, heat, and sunlight can cause a medicine to degrade. This may result in a decrease in the amount of the active drug in the medicine, or a chemical change to toxicity.

COOLEY APOTHECARY meets the highest level of professionalism in our business and would be honored to become your pharmacy. Our records are fully maintained for all drug warnings, drug interactions and personal drug allergies. Here at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 we also honor MasterCard and Visa plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

Young Performer

Miss Kelli Elizabeth Slone, daughter of Kelly and Mary Slone, of McDowell, will perform in the Kentucky Music Teachers Association Piano Workshop Saturday, November 14 at Pikeville.

The classical pianist is nine-years-old and will be the youngest performer playing for comments in the entire workshop. She has received superior ratings for the past two years in the state piano competition held at the Pikeville College representing the Eastern division. Miss Slone received a special award for her level of accomplishment.

She will be performing works by Burgemuller, Ellemeweick and Bethover. She is a piano student of Susan Compton, of Martin, and has studied for the past three years. She is a fourth grade student of Mrs. Kitty Frazier at McDowell Elementary School, and has been an honor roll student for the past four years.

She is the granddaughter of Oliver and Weeie Allen, of Printer, and Virginia Slone, of McDowell, and the late Helton Slone.

Meet To Discuss Eastern Ky. Youth

The dismal economic climate in many of eastern Kentucky's communities can make life difficult and contribute various emotional problems for the young people living in rural sections of the region.

Many of these problems cannot be resolved immediately, but a knowledgeable professional can help an emotionally-troubled child cope with issues unique to the area, said Commissioner Dennis Boyd of the Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services.

For this reason, the department has invited 200 private and public therapists, school counselors and others to Lexington in November to discuss issues facing the youth of eastern Kentucky and what resources may be called upon to meet their needs.

"We know that certain indicators make children more vulnerable to emotional problems and these indicators are present in eastern Kentucky and Appalachia," said Boyd. "Unemployment is high throughout the area, the dropout rate exceeds that of the rest of the state, and the poverty rate is twice the national average. An increasing number of children are falling below the poverty level and many federal assistance programs are being pared down.

"Although these characteristics magnify the problems of the region's emotionally-troubled children, there are no indications that the number of affected youths is greater than in other areas of the state."

"Serving the Child with Emotional Problems in Rural Settings—A Focus on Appalachia" is scheduled for Nov. 12-13 at Lexington's Hilton Inn.

"The conference will address issues endemic to the region, including the lack of local resources, and look at available programs and services which could be used to help area children with problems," said the commissioner.

Boyd said the shortage of community-based mental health services in eastern Kentucky is partially due to a lack of professionals who specialize in children and families and are familiar with the problems of the region.

Some of the conference workshops are directed at using volunteers to serve troubled children, delivering in-home crisis management services in a rural setting, creating parent support groups and serving the troubled child in a school setting.

Guest speakers include George Ella Lyon, a native of Harlan, Ky., and Appalachian author and Jo Crockett Zingg, a native of the Cumberland Gap area of southwest Virginia who spent 15 years providing maternal and child health and child development services to families in eastern Kentucky.

Workshops will also be conducted by Dr. Melody L. Sovine, a clinical anthropologist in psychiatry who has provided direct mental health services in eastern Kentucky and has taught Appalachian courses at several universities, and Dr. Norman Bissell, author and director of the University of Cincinnati's Center for Parent-Professional Teamwork.

The conference is being sponsored by the department's Child and Adolescent Service System Program and the Children and Youth Service Branch. Anyone desiring additional should contact Bill Scott at (502) 564-7610.

Fed Funds May Help State AIDS Victims

Kentucky's small share of $30 million in federal funds to purchase medication for victims of AIDS will be made available through a plan announced recently by officials of the Cabinet for Human Resources.
The state is receiving $52,916 to purchase the drug Zidovudine (formerly known as AZT) for medically indigent AIDS patients not covered by Medicaid. Kentucky's share of the congressional appropriation was based on the number of known AIDS patients in the state compared to the number of living AIDS patients throughout the nation.
There have been more than 42,000 cases of AIDS positively diagnosed nationwide with 99 of those cases reported in Kentucky as of this date. There are currently 35 Kentuckians alive and diagnosed with the disease.

Human Resources Secretary Al Austin said that, due to the high cost of zidovudine treatment, the cabinet estimates that the funds will cover medication for between six and ten AIDS victims through the Oct. 1, 1988 expiration date on the federal funding.
"Despite Kentucky's extremely limited portion of this funding, we couldn't in good conscience do less than devise a plan to assist as many Kentuckians who are suffering from this disease as possible," Austin said.

Austin said details of the zidovudine purchase procedure were worked out between the state departments for Health Services and Medicaid Services in cooperation with the Kentucky Pharmacists Association.
While Kentuckians with AIDS will be considered for the plan on a first come, first served basis, Austin said a series of medical and income criteria has been established.

"Income eligibility information will be gathered at the local health department in the home community of the AIDS patient, in the same process used to determine income participation in other public health programs," he said.
"Medical eligibility will be assessed by the state Communicable Disease Branch in direct communication with the patient's personal physician.

"Kentuckians determined to be both financially and medically eligible will be authorized for financial assistance to cover part or all of their need for Zidovudine through September 30 of next year," Austin said. "If full coverage is unavailable due to depletion of the federal funds, the patient will either receive a partial payment or be placed on a waiting list."

The fiscal end of the process will be handled by the Department for Medicaid Services under its normal procedures. However, no Medicaid or other state or federal funds not directly appropriated for this program will be used.
Austin said the state pharmacists association has agreed to participate in the purchase and distribution of the Zidovudine to approved AIDS patients.
"I want to emphasize that this assistance by the Kentucky Pharmacists Association was voluntary and necessary," he said. "Without their help, the process of obtaining the Zidovudine and providing it directly to the AIDS patients would have been much more time consuming and cumbersome."

Local health departments have been provided with information on the process and will begin handling applications immediately.

NOTICE

Sealed bids will be received until 7:00 p.m. on December 2, 1987 for the Floyd County Board of Education's Food Service Department's lunchroom food, supplies, and chemicals. These bids will be opened at the December board meeting.

Three-Pointer Is Welcomed Addition Locally

Their reasons are as different as offense and defense, and they often express different views on how it will affect high school basketball, but it's hard to find a coach who doesn't enjoy having the three-point shot.

Used many years in professional basketball and introduced last season on the college level, the three-pointer has caused quite a stir in those two levels of competition.

And now it has trickled down to the high school ranks. Every shot hit from 19' 9" will no longer be merely a long range jumpshot.

It will be the most anticipated rule change, or addition, in high school basketball since the rim replaced the peach basket.

"I think people will like it," Johnny Martin, Allen Central head coach, said recently. "I would have liked it when I played, and I'm glad they put it in. It gives the little kid a chance, it puts them back into the game."

Martin's idea of the small guard becoming once again an important and valued part of the game is shared by many coaches across the state.

The majority of basketball people view the three-point shot as a tool for the little man, but Lee County coach Darrell Hogan says the new rule will force defenses to come out farther on the floor, thus opening up the inside game.

Hogan's Lee County Bobcats, runner-up in the 14th region a year ago, has a front line that averages about 6'5". He is hoping that it will also help the big man.

Paintsville head coach, Bill Mike Runyon, three-time regional champion, says this year's 15th region winner depends on which team learns to stop other teams from shooting the three-pointer.

Depending on the individual philosophies of certain coaches, the new rule will either alter a team's offense, relying heavily on the outside jumper, or force teams to change their defensive scheme, making adjustments in an effort to stop the three-pointer.

Regardless of which is most important, shooting it or stopping it, the three-pointer has caused considerable interest in the area beyond 19' 9".

"High school coaches will have to change their way of offense and defense," Martin said. "I know I've changed more for this season than I ever have before."

The three-point shot was designed with the outside shooter in mind, especially the little guard who had become an endangered species in basketball on any level.

"In the past nine or 10 years, basketball had become a big man's game," Russell coach Marvin Meredith said. "This three-pointer will put the little man back in the game. It will give a lot more people a chance."

Meridith, the winningest active coach in Kentucky, says that the three-pointer will revolutionize basketball in this area, and the coach is quick to point out that if a player can hit 33 percent from the three-point line, it is as effective as 50 percent from anywhere else.

But what happens to teams that can't hit from the three-point area?

"I think it's going to change the game a lot, but I don't think it will help us, because we don't have anyone who can hit it consistently," Martin said.

Allen Central lost Rudy Martin, a six-foot-three forward who exhibited long range shooting ability last year. Martin may be back in late January but until then the Rebels will represent those disadvantaged teams unable to take advantage of the bonus shot.

"You can stop it with aggressive defense," Martin mentioned. "As a set shot it might be easy, but it will be tough to hit under pressure. Not many high school kids can hit a jumpshot from that range."

"When you've got somebody that can hit the shot, you'll really have to come out and get them on defense."

Alah, no more packing the zone down underneath to double and triple-team a talented inside player past, we've played a lot of zone, but with the three-pointer, we'll have to come out and guard people more," Martin said.

Meet another reason for the three-point shot.

Most high school basketball experts say the new shot will force teams to play man-to-man defense which is expected to create more one-on-one moves, a quicker pace, and increased action.

The most anticipated addition to high school basketball is mainly for the fans, an added attraction that is expected to pack those gyms that aren't already packed.

"The people will like it," Johnny Martin added. "The crowds will be up more, or at least I hope they will."

Coaches such as Martin, Meredith, and Runyon expect the three-pointer to have a similar impact in high school basketball as it did on the college level.

But then you have Betsy Layne.

"I don't think it'll be a big part of our offense," assistant Bobcat coach Tim Rice said. "If it's there, we'll probably take it, but our offense is geared to go mostly inside."

Betsy Layne does have three-point capability in sharpshooting guard Duran Newsome, but shooting a tough shot, because it carries an extra point isn't Craynor Slone's style.

As far as coming out to defend the shot, Slone sort of re-wrote the book on pressure defense.

The three-point shot is expected to become a major part of high school basketball, especially for teams such as Virgie and Paintsville in the 15th region, and Clay County state-wide, but locally the highly anticipated addition is expected to assist individuals, if not total teams.

McDowell is possibly the most likely to take advantage of the new rule with Dickie Joe Shannon. The 5'11" guard proved last season that he could hit from the needed distance.

Wheelwright also has a consistent long range bomber in Tommy Jones. Those two, along with Duran Newsome and Rudy Martin, appear ready to post some impressive offensive numbers due to the (Continued on Next Page)

Area Teams Struggle In High School Football Post Season

No local teams made the high school football playoffs this year and the area ones that did failed to enjoy much success as post-season action began across the state Friday night.

Belfry, Johns Creek, and Pikeville all represented neighboring Pike county, but only the Panthers could survive, defeating Pineville, 63-34, in Pikeville.

The Panthers got three touchdowns from Robbie Right and Bobby Deramus and Chris McNamee scored two each as Pikeville improved to 12-0 on the season.

Ranked number one for the entire season in single A, Pikeville will put their perfect record on the line this week when they travel to Harlan county to take on the Cumberland Redskins.

The Redskins, 7-4, are fresh off a 51-21 thumping of Johns Creek, runners-up to Pikeville in their district.

Cumberland features one of the top multi-purpose backs in the state in 6'0" 180-pound Eddie Clark. The Cumberland tailback scored seven touchdowns Friday and compiled a total of 399 yards to lead the Redskins against Johns Creek.

The Bear Cats, after opening the season with eight consecutive wins, lost their final two games, to Pikeville and Cumberland, by a combined 85 points.

Johns Creek, though, did advance to the playoffs. Only once before had a team from that school experienced post-season action in football.

Belfry, no stranger to the playoffs, were challenging for their third consecutive semi-final appearance in the State's triple A playoffs but were stopped short Friday night.

The Pirates, hit hard by graduation one year ago, were hit hard by Ashland this past week and fell 27-13 to the Tomcats.

Ryan Blake rambled for 150 yards and two touchdowns for Ashland as they improved to 7-4 on the season. With the loss, Belfry finishes the season at 9-3.

The past three seasons Belfry has won 31 games, three district titles, and appeared in the semi-finals twice.

Ashland will now travel to Mount Sterling this week for a 3A battle with undefeated Montgomery County. The Tomcats lost earlier in the season to Montgomery County by one point.

In other games involving eastern Kentucky schools, Raceland, winner of the district involving Wheelwright and Allen Central, handed Ludlow a 30-0 whipping, and Fairview, runner-up in that same district, fell victim to Beechwood in single A action.

The Rams will now take on Beechwood, 28-8 winners, this week.

In double A action, Leslie County, winner of the district involving Prestonsburg and Betsy Layne, advanced in playoff action while Morgan County, runner-up, had their season ended on a shutout note.

SHORT SPORTS

The University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville suffered big losses, but Eastern Kentucky University kept its Ohio Valley Conference hopes alive in college football last weekend.

UK, with their hopes of a bowl appearance probably disappearing, lost to Vanderbilt 38-29, dropping the Wildcats to 5-4. Vandy had a total of 526 yards in offense.

Kentucky has Florida, this Saturday at 12:30, and Tennessee remaining on their schedule. The 'Cats have not had a winning season since 1984.

The Louisville Cardinals took their talents to Tennessee this weekend only to be sent home dragging a 41-10 loss. The 19th ranked Vols shut Louisville out in the second half while handing them their sixth loss of the season. The Cardinals are now 3-6-1.

Louisville will close out their season this Saturday when they travel to Memphis State for a 2:30 contest. The Cards defeated Memphis State, 34-8, last year.

The Cougars finished the season at 5-6 and enjoyed their first ever playoff action. Their overall record was the only losing record of any area playoff team, but the Cougars finished with a 4-1 district slate.

Leslie County went undefeated in the district.

This year's playoff setup is the first since the realignment of districts and the first since the two teams from each district were allowed to take part in post-season action.

In the past two years the area has been represented by Belfry in the state playoffs, and this year Pike county is expected to send yet another mountain representative in the form of Pikeville High School.

Statewide polls have said all season that the Panthers are the state's best team in the Single A class. After each game their opponents agreed with it, and now some people are calling this year's version of Pikeville football the best ever at the school.

Others may venture as far as to say they might even be one of the best mountain teams ever. As a Pikeville sports writer stated recently, "I followed Belfry the past two years when they went to the semi-finals, and I didn't see any team those two years that was as strong as Pikeville is this year."

The Sporting Times

It's that time again. Another season in the continuing seasons of high school sports has come and gone, but before we make the total transition to basketball, let's first remember and reward those who made the football season available.

It wasn't a special one for most people in this county, and especially for me.

Everyone loves a winner, and I'm not any different. Although I have no special interest in any certain school, but from a writer's standpoint, it helps when teams win.

Coaches don't have much to say when they are disappointed, and not much can be written about a shutout, especially when it goes the other way.

But we survived, and somewhere between high pre-season expectations and a not-so-happy endings, we hope you either read or saw something that pleased your football interests.

In keeping with tradition, we have some awards and rewards to hand out. Some are of importance and some not, but all are designed to congratulate those who win and not to punish those who don't.

COACH OF THE YEAR: From a 1-8 record to a winning season in one year is a credible job on any level. Throw in a tough schedule and the effort becomes almost incredible. Chuke Williams did this at Prestonsburg. Being the only winning team in the county, the Blackcats made Williams a sure choice, but the coach didn't exactly hurt himself. Williams has seldom been complimented at Prestonsburg, but here's giving you a huge congratulations for your efforts.

SENIOR PLAYER OF THE YEAR: Although no one player produced remarkable numbers or showed tremendous talent, several county players displayed enough ability to attract small college interest. Probably the most consistent player overall was Wheelwright's Steve Cole. As a defensive and offensive end, Cole contributed heavily to the Trojans' efforts. The senior receiver caught several big passes and pressured opposing passers. Cole also played on Wheelwright's special teams.

MOST VERSATILE: In high school football most good athletes play both offense and defense, but for Betsy Layne's John Bush his position was the entire field. Bush played defensive back and wing back. From those two positions he intercepted passes on a regular basis, ran the football with consistency, caught passes frequently, and threw some occasionally. Bush was rarely beaten on defense, and was highly vocal in an effort to encourage his Bobcat teammates.

EFFORT AND THEN SOME AWARD: This is a new award added this season, and added for one player in particular. Johnny Ray Harris wasn't blessed with a big body, but through work with the weights and an ability not to be denied, Harris built himself into a good football player. At five-foot-seven and 145 pounds, he was forced to look up to most of his competition, but when the final horn sounded most of the competition was looking up to Johnny Ray Harris. The tiny tailback led Prestonsburg in rushing, returned kicks, and served as a starting defensive back. He also caught several passes out of the backfield.

UNDERCLASSMAN OF THE YEAR: After giving up football following his freshman year, Tim Trusty was encouraged to continue it this season. As a result, he became one of the most promising quarterbacks in the area, and Prestonsburg had a winning season. Trusty has a strong arm and enough speed to outrun most defenses. If Trusty plays next year, he may establish some new Prestonsburg single season passing marks. He is that good. Another junior that has the talent to shine next year is Wheelwright tailback Handy Jackson. The Trojan tailback is small but explosive.

CLASSY COACH AWARD: Once again Donnie Daniels represented the idea of the perfect coach. His actions along the sidelines were never demeaning to Allen Central High School, even though this season's developments could have encouraged it. Daniels' program struggled, but he was the one always pointing out its young age. Daniels never criticized his players for the losing season. In fact, he often commended their behavior, work habits, and response to their difficult situation.

CLASSY FAN AWARD: This is a tough one to judge. In fact, we will vote for none of the above. Football fans in the county weren't exactly prime targets for Sunday School teachers.

CLASSY TEAM AWARD: Prestonsburg High School should be proud of their young people, especially the ones who represented it on the football field. The Blackcats gave it their best effort when they hit the field, but they hit the field to play football. They never fought, and they were rarely tagged with a personal foul or unsportsmanlike conduct call. Blackcat fans could certainly learn from the players' respected attitudes.

FAN OF THE YEAR: It's easy to understand why parents would attend every game, but the test of a true fan is when they attend both at home and on the road just as a fan of the school. Or sport. Perry Jones is a permanent fixture on the Wheelwright sideline as is the out of bounds stripe. I'm yet to find out whether Perry attends games for the games themselves or to chat with fellow sports fans. Regardless, any time you're there, Perry will be also.

STATEMENT OF THE YEAR: This is one that I wish all fans would understand and utilize. After Allen Central and Wheelwright stirred the crowd up with an introduction of fist to face one Wheelwright lady said, "They should get that boy back," referring to an Allen Central player. Standing nearby and not exactly agreeing, another Wheelwright lady said, "Don't say that. That boy is somebody's child too." Remember parents, when you are busy criticizing a player, that player's parents may be busy criticizing your child.

With that note we'll say goodbye, football. We hope you bring us better things next season. Hello, basketball, thanks for the warmth inside you will bring us. Those sidelines were beginning to get cold.

NO SITTING NOW: Craynor Slone, Betsy Layne head coach, sits and watches his team perform. This season Slone, and all coaches in Kentucky, will unbuckle the 'seat belt' and stalk the side lines in the newly adopted box.

Senior Class Not Equal To Past But Created Interesting Season

Football fans across the country were recently given a final opportunity to say "goodbye" to the gridiron class of 1987, and although they may not have been as talented as some of the past, this group has its own individual qualities.

Senior football players from four Floyd county schools played their last high school game last week, and from the class at Prestonsburg, who began the Blackcat re-rise to power, to the group at Allen Central, who began football there, each will long be remembered for their personalities, contributions and athletic success.

The Blackcats are losing five players due to graduation, but their performances and impressions will long remain.

"There isn't a great player in the group, but it's incredible how much we're getting from them." Prestonsburg coach Chuke Williams said earlier in the season. "They are showing tremendous leadership. I'm glad our younger people are getting a chance to rub shoulders with them."

Prestonsburg's senior class may not compare with some of the earlier ones, talent-wise, but their accomplishments just might.

From a season that saw Prestonsburg win only one football game, the group brought the Blackcats out of the gutter and into football prominence, again.

Four graduating seniors were two-way starters for the Blackcats, and Johnny Ray Harris and Jimmy Joe Crace also served as kickoff and punt returners.

Brent Harkworth, a multi-purpose performer, played quarterback, running back, and linebacker during his senior season. Derrick Johnson, a two-year starter, served as a wide receiver and defensive back.

Prestonsburg's graduating class is small in numbers, but Allen Central fans are losing a total of 16 seniors. Thirteen of those were three-year starters.

Back in 1985, the Rebels decided to continue their football program, and those 13 players were the foundation of that pioneer team.

This was one reason why coach Donnie Daniels considered them a special group. "They are the ones who got the program started, and that's something they can be proud of," Daniels said before the season began.

If it's possible for a team to face a rebuilding process in only its third year of existence then Allen Central will.

Over one-third of their total roster will graduate come spring. They may not be remembered for football domination, but forever in Rebel football history, they will be the pioneer crew.

Anthony Redrick and Boo Barnette pioneered many hard hits from their defensive positions, and quarterback Darren Conn pioneered several long drives.

Guys like Randy Hansford and Charlie Martin opened holes for guys like Jeff Hughes and Robbie Click.

The Rebels also lose talent in the form of Robert Halbert, tackle, Bobby Hopson, end, Crusher Blevins, defensive guard, Mike Mullins, defensive end, Kyle Newman, defensive back, Kevin Martin, halfback, Nathan Shelton, end, Ricky Crider, end, and Brian Allen, center.

Wheelwright, unlike Prestonsburg and Allen Central, will be sending away a small group but not on a successful note.

The Trojans lose only seven seniors, one more than Prestonsburg, but this group is leaving following a disappointing season.

Wheelwright was expected to have one of it's best seasons ever, but injuries and sub-par efforts from key players turned that expectation into a 1-10 campaign.

Steve Cole proved to be one of Wheelwright's most consistent players, and Doug Little, when healthy, also enjoyed a successful season.

"Steve Cole sort of stands out in my mind defensively from that end spot," head Coach Roger Johnson said. "Offensively, he was as good an end as any in this area."

Cole played both offense and defense and on special teams. The four-year performer is being scouted by Georgetown College.

Doug Little has also received attention from area colleges. The senior fullback, when available, was Wheelwright's most successful running back, but Johnson says Little may be more talented at his linebacker position.

Then there are those players like Timmy Isaac. Those players who seldom receive headlines or playing time, but are viewed as big losses by their coaches.

"Timmy had a super attitude," Roger Johnson said. "He was the guy who was always trying to get the other players up. He hated to lose probably more than anyone on the team."

The Trojans also lose offensive and defensive linemen Paul Little, Brad Moore, and Jason Hall. Garnis Caudill, a player Johnson said played probably nine different positions during his high school career, is also a senior.

Betsy Layne's senior situation is similar to both the Trojans' and Rebels'.

The Bobcats lost a large number of players, and they went away with the sour taste of a disappointing season lingering.

Betsy Layne was also expecting their best season ever. Their problems leading to 2-7 finish still remain a mystery.

But even though the team struggled, individuals such as Todd Sturgill and John Bush will be remembered for their contributions.

Sturgill was expected to be one of the area's top tailbacks but was moved to quarterback early in the season. The versatile senior threw several touchdown passes and also enjoyed success running the football, but he failed to have the type year most expected.

And speaking of versatility, John Bush did everything for Betsy Layne except sell programs. The 5'8", 160-pounder ran the football, was a prime target out of the backfield, intercepted passes, and sometimes even threw them.

Bobcat first string running backs graduating, as Mat Conn and Jamie Smith, often used receivers.

The Bobcats are also losing Dwight Jarrell, defensive back and kicker, Stacy Hall, end, Chris Hayes, guard, and Vince Jarrell.

NFL News And Notes

If the National Football League enjoys parity then the AFC has fallen right in to line. Only one division has a clear leader and eight of the other nine teams are even in the race for the East and Central division titles.

A strong playoff race is just what the enthusiasm doctor ordered for higher attendance and television viewing.

And the order has come through. Heading into week 10 of the NFL season, all three AFC divisions feature tight races that promise to continue until late December.

The Central Division, formerly led by Houston, now has three teams at the top, and neither are strangers to number one.

The Pittsburgh Steelers dominated in the late '70s and early '80s. Houston made the playoffs earlier in this decade when Earl Campbell ran them to prominence, and Cleveland has won the division the past two seasons.

The Oilers, 5-3 after their loss to San Francisco, Sunday, and Pittsburgh will hook up this weekend in the Steel City while Cleveland plays at home against Buffalo.

The Browns are coming off a 38-3 defeat of lowly Atlanta and with a win this week will at least have a share of the lead come week 11 when they take on Houston.

Cleveland has only one non-division team remaining on their schedule that can boast a winning season. Houston plays two and Pittsburgh three.

Cincinnati, the division's cellar dweller, may have put themselves out of the playoff picture last week when they lost, 20-14, to Miami. The Bengals held Dan Marino to only one touchdown pass, he had been averaging three per game. That one, though, kept his streak alive of throwing at least one touchdown pass in 28 straight games.

They also limited Marino to under 300 yards through the air, but still lost. Larry Kinnebrew, the Bengals sure-handed fullback, fumbled early in the game on the Miami six. The Dolphins not only fell on the loose pigskin, but turned the turnover into points on their way to the victory.

With the win, Miami dropped the Bengals to 2-6 while improving their own record to 4-4. That is good enough for a tie in the mediocre East.

Although New England was the pre-season choice to dominate the division, no team has shown superiority, at least not in the standings.

The Patriots had an opportunity to take an undisputed lead but lost 17-10 Sunday night to the New York Giants. By the time the Patriots and Giants tied the football up Sunday night, Indianapolis, the team tied with New England, had already lost.

But the Patriots followed suit. San Diego handed the Colts their fourth loss of the season by kicking a 39-yard field goal with 12 seconds left. Indianapolis, behind Eric Dickerson, had built a 13-point lead by halftime, but were outscored 16-0 in the second half.

Dickerson rolled up 104 yards in that first half, but was limited to 20 in the final two quarters as San Diego held onto their lead in the West while Indianapolis slipped back into the pack in the East.

The Buffalo Bills rushed for 250 yards and defeated the Denver Broncos at home 21-14. The Bills put themselves into playoff contention, and at the same time gave San Diego a big boost.

The Chargers also received help from New York. The Jets, despite surrendering a 13-point lead, rallied to upset Seattle 30-14 Monday night.

The Jets themselves improved to 4-4, which is good enough for a share of the East lead. Seattle, 5-3, is now two games behind San Diego.

In the game, Seattle receiver Steve Largent caught a touchdown pass which gave him 92 for his career, nine behind all-time leader Don Hudson. Largent also caught four more passes to give him 727 overall. He now trails Charlie Joiner by 23 in that all-time department.

The Jets lost their wide receiver Wesley Walker for four weeks with a separate shoulder. The East may open up some this week. Miami and Indianapolis play each other, and the Jets play at Kansas City.

The NFC is quite the opposite. In each of the three divisions, the leader is up by two games and the San Francisco 49ers could almost clinch a title in the West this Sunday.

Leading New Orleans by two games, the 49ers will welcome the Saints to the West Coast in a contest that could blow the divisional competition.

But with a win, the Saints could move within one game of San Francisco and the top spot. The 49ers are led by Joe Montana, who is tops in touchdown passes and completes over two-thirds of his passing attempts.

He threw for three touchdowns last week.

New Orleans is one of the league's best running teams, but a loss might run them out of the divisional race.

Chicago, in the NFC Central, holds a three-game advantage over Minnesota and Tampa Bay but that cannot be considered a commanding lead.

The Bears have merely survived the past three weeks, being forced to rally late against lesser competition.

This past Sunday, they were down to Green Bay but a 52-yard Kevin Butler field goal late produced a come-from-behind win.

But Chicago wasn't exactly a winner, Sunday.

The Bears lost starting linebacker Otis Wilson for four to six weeks due to strained knee ligaments, and defensive lineman Dan Hampton is expected to be out for at least four weeks. He was hurt Sunday, also.

Chicago plays in the Mile High city Monday night, and Denver is in a must win situation after their loss to Buffalo.

Minnesota plays at Tampa Bay, Sunday, so the Bears will enjoy having one of their enemies knock off the other.

Washington, despite losing to Philadelphia, holds a two-game lead in the East. The Eagles, on a touchdown pass from Randall Cunningham to Greg Gariety with 1:15 left, knocked the Redskins off 31-27. Philadelphia did trail at one point 21-7.

Detroit did beat second placed Dallas in the Silverdome to allow Washington the two-game advantage.

Washington will play those Lions this week, normally an easy game for them. Meanwhile the Eagles will play at home against the apparently resurging Giants.

Dallas plays in New England and needs a win to keep pace. The Patriots may not.

The AFC is clogged at the top of each division. The NFC is much clearer, but not where the two wild card positions are concerned.

Nine teams are currently fighting for five playoff spots in the AFC. A total of 11 are still near the even mark in the AFC. It might make for an interesting next seven weeks of football.

Due to the strike there are only 15 regular season games this year.

JOINING COACH SUTTON at his office is Emi Lyons, the 1987 Kentucky Easter Seal Child. Sutton, head basketball coach at the University of Kentucky, is the chairman of the annual Eddie Sutton Wildcat Basketball Shootout for Easter Seals. Emi is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Lyons, of Nicholasville. She represents all the disabled children and adults who will benefit from this year's Shootout.

8th Basketball Shootout Begins

For the eighth consecutive year, the Kentucky Easter Seal Society and the head basketball coach at the University of Kentucky are joining forces for the benefit of disabled Kentuckians. The Eddie Sutton Wildcat Shootout for Easter Seals is open to any school-aged child in Kentucky. Students obtain sponsors to pledge money for each basket the student can successfully shoot during a three minute period. Students win prizes based on the amount of money they raise through their sponsors. Prizes include free cheeseburgers from Druther's Restaurants, U.K. pennants, Wildcat megaphones, sport bags, basketballs, sport watches, U.K. blankets, and a grand prize of bench passes for the U.K.-Alabama game February 13 at Rupp Arena. Grand prize winners, their parents and coach will be treated to a pre-game dinner in Lexington and the winners will visit the Wildcats locker room after the game for autographs and a photo session.

The Shootout is conducted by schools and community park programs throughout Kentucky. All proceeds from the project benefit the rehabilitation programs of the Kentucky Easter Seal Society. The Shootout is co-sponsored by Century 21 of Kentucky and Druther's Restaurants.

Three-Pointer Activated...

"I think if you had someone who can hit it, it would help," Johnny Martin said. "If you had someone like Roger Horne, I wish we could've had it last year."

The three-point shot will be used to build huge leads, but then again, it will have a tendency to work the other way.

"A nine-point lead with a minute and a half left isn't safe anymore. Three shots and the game is tied," Martin said.

SEAT BELT RULE: In addition to adding the three-point shot, the KHSAA replaced the so-called seat belt rule for a coaches' box that will be in use this season.

In the past two years, coaches have been forced to remain on the bench during play, but thanks to a box located in front of the bench coaches will be able to stand while giving instructions to their players.

"That was the dumbest rule anyway," Rice, of Betsy Layne, said. "If a coach is up coaching they should leave him alone. He can say enough to get the officials irritated sitting down as well as he can standing up."

But here again is a rule change that may not interest Betsy Layne. "He (Craynor Slone) has them drilled in practice to where they know what he wants from them in the game," Rise said.

"I guess the box is all right, but I don't know how much it will help," Johnny Martin said. "I got used to it the other

Football Queen

Shawannah Renee Hutton was crowned the 1987 Football Queen of Wheelwright High School Friday night at Brackett Field.

She is a junior, and has been a varsity cheerleader for three years. She is the daughter of Vanessa Hutton, of Wheelwright, and the granddaughter of Ella Jackson, of Wheelwright, and the late John H. (Stoney) Jackson.

She was escorted by Bobbie Hood, son of Saralene and Robert Hood, also of Wheelwright.

With the win the Colonels, 7-2 overall, upped their OVC record to 4-1. They currently share the top spot with Youngstown State, a team they defeated earlier in the season.

The Penguins barely escaped Saturday, defeating Murray State 20-13 in overtime and staying close to Eastern.

EKU will take this week off before wrapping up their regular season November 21 at home against Morehead State, a team that handed the Colonels an assist this past weekend.

The Eagles upset Middle Tennessee, 7-3, to earn their first conference win of the season, and only their second overall. Morehead will continue to try and play the spoilers' role this Saturday when they travel to Youngstown State.

MSU dropped Middle to 2-2 in the conference and probably out of the championship picture with the win Saturday. With a win over Youngstown, the Eagles could assure Eastern at least a share of the conference title.

Fresh on the heels of one of their best recruiting years ever, the Kentucky Wildcats are expected to get this year off with a big boom today.

Wednesday, the first day of the early signing date, is expected to bring at least two written commitments to UK.

The Wildcats have already received two oral mentions from a couple of the nation's top prep stars and another is possible.

Shawn Kemp, 6'10" forward from Concord High School of Elkhart Indiana, and Sean Woods, also of Indiana, have already said they would attend UK next year.

Kemp has been said to possess more talent than anyone in the high school ranks and has blocked over 300 shots in his high school career. Woods, a 6'2" guard, is rated as one of the top prospects from Indiana.

Kentucky is also in the running for 6'9" Don MacLean, most people's choice for the 'next Larry Bird'. Chris Mills, a 6'7" forward from Los Angeles, has also shown interest in the Wildcat basketball program.

David Robinson is a man in uniform, making $325 a week and probably proud of his service to the U.S. Navy, but soon he will trade one uniform for another and trade his current salary to one just a bit larger.

Last weekend, the San Antonio Spurs signed the 7'1" Robinson to a contract worth from $24 to $30 million over an eight-year period.

Robinson was the first player chosen in this year's draft. The 7'1" center was named as college basketball's top performer last season.

He cannot join the Spurs until the fall of 1989 due to a prior commitment to the Navy.

The Cincinnati Reds have apparently sent out a message to second-year player Jeff Treadway. As a rookie, Treadway was called up late in the season and became the Reds regular second baseman.

Friday, Cincinnati shipped Kurt Stillwell, who had been the second sacker, and starting pitcher Ted Power to Kansas City for lefthanded pitcher Danny Jackson and veteran infielder Louis Salazar.

Bags 9-Point Buck

The last day of Bow season at Dewey Lake, October 30, turned out lucky for Randall Scarberry, of Langley, when he bagged this 9-point buck which field dressed about 175 pounds.

Honored On 80th Birthday

Mrs. Susanna H. Hall, of Hippo, was surprised October 3 with an open house birthday celebration. Hosting the event were her daughter and son-in-law, Leora and Ardice Tucker, of Newman, Ga., Virginia H. Hagans, of Hippo, Dorothy Osborne, of Prestonsburg, and Faye Fraley, of Eastern.

Refreshments were served throughout the day to friends and relatives.

Those who brought gifts, flowers, or called were Ralph and Dema Lafferty, of Hippo; Virginia, Denise and Tabitha Hughes, of Hueysville; Mae Bailey, Linda and Jason Slone, Freda, Irish and Doug Cooley, of Hippo; Margie Chaffins, of Garrett; Thelma Burke, of Hippo; Wanda Hicks, of Hueysville; Harold and Ritchie Fraley, of Eastern; Paul, Ann, Susan and Mike Faulkner, of Hippo; Suzanna Hups, of Berea; Eddie, Reilla and Britta Fraley, of Hippo; Rose and Verna Bowling, of Langley; Jerema Back, of Martin; Carl, Wanda and Nathan Duff, of Langley; Lona Duff Setser, of Prestonsburg; Marie Hicks, of Hueysville; Anthony, Patricia and Miranda Lafferty, W.M. Davis, of Hippo; Molly Owens, of Eastern; Jerry Lee Cook, of London; Leora and Carmel Davis, Jr., Pauline Hicks, of Hippo; Mildred Whitaker, of Prestonsburg; June Stephens, of Hippo; Priscilla Allen, of Hueysville; Cecil and Wanda Caudill, of Sidney, Ohio; Mary Compton, Connie Clark, of Chesapeake, Ohio; Mrs. Gary Shepherd, of Xenia, Ohio; Randolph Hicks, of Morrell, Ohio; Dana Jack Hicks, of Berea; Claude and Jean Hagans, of Ashland. Mrs. Halls' granddaughter and family, Susie, and family, Sam, Sam Jr., and Andy Edge called her.

Book Fair To Feature Local Author

The Kentucky Book Fair, set for November 21 in Frankfort, will feature both nationally-known and home-state authors, including David resident Denise Giardina.

The area writer has been gaining widespread acclaim for her Storming Heaven, to be featured at this year's Book Fair. As fast-paced as a thriller, Giardina's work focuses on mining companies and labor wars in Kentucky and West Virginia, but it does not neglect the gentler pleasures of living on the land, falling in love and raising a family.

Most of the background material for her work came from Giardina's memories of growing up in a McDowell county, West Virginia coal camp. She also is the author of Good King Harry.

The local author will share the spotlight at the 1987 Book Fair—the sixth annual event of its kind—with some 80 writers from across the country, including such headliners as Rosalynn Carter and David Halberstam.

The Kentucky Book Fair is a fund-raising event that provides grants for buying books to public, school and academic libraries. Last year, the Book Fair Committee awarded $8,000 in such grants to six schools and four public libraries. The committee hopes to distribute $10,000 in grants this year.

This year's fair will begin at 9 a.m. EST, Saturday, November 21, at the state Department for Libraries and Archives Building, Coffee Tree Road, Frankfort.

Academic Program Expanded at EKU

Eastern Kentucky University has announced an expansion of its program of academic scholarships designed to recognize the achievement of outstanding high school seniors.

The revision of the scholarship program will provide for automatic awarding of academic scholarships to several categories of students.

Among these categories are National Merit Scholarship Competition semifinalists and finalists, participants in the Governor's Scholars Program, members of the Kentucky Academic All-State Team, and students who record an ACT composite score of 29 or higher.

EKU President Hanly Funderburk, in endorsing a University Scholarship Committee recommendation, called the expanded program "a reflection of EKU's commitment to quality."

He said, "It is important to the academic vitality of any institution to attract the brightest minds available. You cannot overestimate the benefits that all students receive from the presence of students of the quality we seek through our scholarship program."

Dr. Funderburk noted that the EKU Faculty Senate was currently planning an Honors Program for implementation during the 1988 Fall Semester. "Students of the quality we are trying to attract are essential to a successful Honors Program," he said.

He said that he also hoped that the availability of the scholarship at EKU would help keep outstanding Kentucky high school graduates in the state.

"We often hear that many of Kentucky's most talented students do not continue their educations in the Commonwealth," he said, "and we would like to help correct that."

Under the new provisions of the scholarship program, National Merit Semifinalists and Finalists will receive the EKU Honor Award. This scholarship will provide its recipients with full tuition and activity support, plus an additional stipend to help defray other educational expenses.

Governor's Scholars Program participants, members of the Academic All-State Team, and students with ACT composite scores of 29 or higher will receive EKU Regents Scholarships. The Regents Scholarship is a full tuition and activity fee award.

Dr. Funderburk said that award letters would be mailed over the next few weeks to those students who are eligible for the awards.

Students with high school grade point averages of 3.75 and ACT composite scores of 25 or higher remain eligible to apply for Regents Scholarships. Other students may apply for the Presidential Scholarship or for other scholarships which are administered through the EKU Foundation. The University will also continue to offer scholarships to participants in the Commonwealth Scholars Program.

Information about Eastern Kentucky University's scholarship program and application forms are available by writing the Scholarship Committee, Coates Box 35-A, Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, Ky. 40475-0931.

Woody Herman Band To Perform at MSU

Woody Herman's Young Thundering Herd Orchestra will perform in concert Monday, Nov. 16, at 8 p.m. in Duncan Recital Hall on the Morehead State University campus.

Tickets are available in Baird Music Hall Room 212 or from any member of the MSU Jazz Ensemble. Tickets will also be on sale at the door the day of the show.

Herman, who died in late October, had not toured with the Young Thundering Herd for almost a year due to health problems, but his tradition has been carried on during this 50th anniversary tour. His orchestra still plays to standing room only crowds and continues to receive Grammy Award nominations and trophies.

Under the direction of veteran saxophonist Frank Tiberi, the 15-member band will lead a trip down memory lane with selections such as "Woodchopper's Ball," "Battle Royal," "Early Autumn" and "Four Brothers," a reflection of the very first days of the Woody Herman Orchestra. In addition, popular tunes including the Miami Sound Machine's "Conga" and Chick Corea's "Samba Song" round out the repertoire.

Members of the Young Thundering Herd include Roger Ingram, Greg Gifford, Ron Stout, William Byrne and Diane Wright, trumpets; John Fechock, Paul McKee and Joe Barati, trombones; Frank Tiberi, Dave Riekenberg, Jerry Pinter and Mike Brignola, saxophones; Joel Wesikoph, piano; Dave Carpenter, bass and Dave Miller, drums.

THIS IS JUST ONE of the many sweet, playful kittens available for adoption at the Animal Shelter. Call 886-3189.

Allen Central Students Win Art Competition

The Kentucky Federation of Woman's Clubs recently held their annual Regional KFWC Art Exhibit at Belfry with four Allen Central Students winning awards.

Heather Bailey won first place in the drawing category with her pastel portrait for the second consecutive year. She is the daughter of Jerry and Brenda Bailey, of Hippo.

Ricky Crider, son of Charles and Jewell Crider, of Prestonsburg, also won first place in the water colors division.

Jeff Hughes, who placed second in the water color category, is the son of Curt Hughes, of Martin and Brenda Hughes, of Corbin.

Kathi Keen also placed second in painting with her acrylic rendition. She is the daughter of Ernest and Roxie Keen, of Wayland.

The first place winners, Heather Bailey and Ricky Crider, will have their work entered in the KFWC State Exhibit this spring.

Mrs. Carolita O'Quinn, art instructor at the school submitted the students' work to the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club. The club entered the work in the five county competition.

EXAMINE YOURSELF

Self-examinations are a vital part of any program of cancer prevention. For example, a simple, three-minute, monthly self-examination of the testes is the best hope for early detection of testicular cancer. Call your local American Cancer Society for a free brochure explaining testicular self-examination.

BAPTIST CIRCLE MEETS

The Annie Allen Circle, W.M.U., of the First Baptist Church, (Irene Cole Memorial), met November 2, at the home of the president, Mrs. Ruby Garrett, who presided at the meeting. Mrs. Goldia Williams led the group in prayer. The minutes of the October meeting were read, and in the absence of Mrs. Rebecca Rasnick, Mrs. Myrtle Allen gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Eva Collins asked for volunteers to work in the Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry. A list of the sick and needy of the church was compiled, and these persons are to receive Thanksgiving baskets from this organization. Mrs. Faye Patton presented the program on "Prayer." She was assisted by Mrs. Lucy Regan. Mrs. Eva Collins read the prayer list for missionaries observing their birthdays during the month of November, and Mrs. Patsy Evans led in prayer for them. Mrs. Garrett appointed Mrs. Faye Patton and Mrs. Sarah Laven to work on a program for the Week of Prayer to be observed at this church. The goal for the Lottie Moon offering was set at $1200.

Members and others listed as among the sick were May K. Roberts, Bill and Dolly Pretrey, Gladys Gunnels, Nell Howard, and Joe Mayo Spradlin.

It was decided that the covered-dish Christmas dinner would be held at the church, Monday evening, December 7.

The hostess, Mrs. Garrett, served a variety of refreshments to Mesdames Vivian Fraley, Faye Patton, Myrtle Allen, Ada Meade, Mamon Leslie, Dixie Webb, Goldia Williams, Sarah Laven, Lucy Regan, Eva Collins, Patsy Evans, and Docia Woods.

GRETHEL HOMEMAKERS NEWS

The Grethel Homemakers met Tuesday, November 3, at the Grethel Baptist Church annex. The meeting was called to order by Arietta Hall, president, and devotions were led by Glenna Evans.

An additional 40 decorative angels are needed for Christmas display at May Lodge, and the next workshop will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., November 20, at the Kentucky Power building in Prestonsburg. Each homemaker is asked to bring a sack lunch.

The lesson, "Make It An Economical Christmas was taught by our Floyd Co. Extension Agent, Frances Pitts, who displayed many Christmas items. Homemakers present also shared their Christmas handcrafts.

Each homemaker is to bring to the Dec. 1 meeting a plastic cover (5" in diameter), scissors, and 1 1/2 yards of ribbon (any width).

The next meeting will be our annual "Christmas nibble party." Each homemaker is to bring a Christmas food to share with others in the group.

Homemakers present were Arietta Hall, Glenna Evans, Flora Tackett, Shirley Hamilton, Christine Crisp, Eileen Martin, Lisa Clark, and visitors, Mattie Crisp and Lois McKinney Tackett.

Recipe brochures, "A Family Christmas" were distributed to the group.

PRESTONSBURG WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The executive board of the KFWC/GFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club met Thursday evening, November 5, at 6:30 at the First United Methodist Church with Mrs. Boots Adams, president, presiding. Plans for the regular meeting were outlined, and the club's annual Christmas party was discussed.

Present were Mesdames Boots Adams, Carolyn Traum, Eileen Burchett, Dorothy Stover, Joyce Allen, Elizabeth Ramey, and Docia Woods.

Mrs. Adams also presided at the regular meeting and welcomed those in attendance. After routine business, Mrs. Wonnell Godsey, introduced Mrs. Belinda Borden from the Kentucky Power Company, who gave a report on ways to conserve energy and illustrated her discussion with slides. On behalf of the club, Mrs. Godsey presented the speaker a gift.

Boots Adams, Judy Kittle, and Joyce Allen conducted candlelight initiation for the following new members: Mary Beth Compton, Shirley Callihan, Janet Whitten, Lida Margaret Howard, Nan Arnett, Teresa Morris, Lee Boswell, Pat Phillips, and Roberta Sloan. New members who were not present included Drema Miller, Melissa Furcolow, Jean Czekaj, and Alice Jane Howard.

Mrs. Eileen Burchett presented them Yearbooks for 1987-88.

Dorothy Stover reported that the Birthday Calendar should be ready by Thanksgiving. She asked members to start saving clothing and other items for the rummage sale to be held next spring.

Mrs. Mabel Brown said that food and monetary donations for the booth which the club sponsored during the recent Jenny Wiley Festival amounted to $510.

Reports were given of the 7th District Woman's Club meeting, which convened at Belfry, recently, and was attended by Mesdames Boots Adams, Dorothy Osborne, and Dorothy Stover. Local club members winning ribbons in the various contests there included Lynn Leslie, Eileen Burchett, Maxine Bierman, Vivian Hale, Mable Brown, Ditty Tackett, Dorothy Stover, and Ethel Burke.

The president reminded members that they may submit recipes to the G.F.W.C. Centennial Cookbook, for possible publication, during the early part of 1988.

A contribution was made by the club for the use of the First United Methodist Church, and Mrs. Adams expressed the club's thanks for this favor. She also thanked the hostesses for serving at Thursday's event. The hostesses were Christine Spradlin, Garnett Fairchild, Wonnell Godsey, Ora Bussey, and Orella McGuire. Refreshments were served to Belinda Borden, a guest, and members, Boots Adams, Carolyn Traum, Eileen Burchett, Dorothy Stover, Joyce Allen, Elizabeth Ramey, Docia B. Woods, Mary Beth Compton, Shirley Callihan, Janet Whitten, Lida Margaret Howard, Nan Arnett, Teresa Morris, Lee Boswell, Pat Phillips, Roberta Sloan, Jane Wallace, Maman Leslie, Dorothy Burke, Alice Harris, Fannie Runnels, Barbara Dawson, Kathryn Poe, Mabel Donahoe, Rebecca Rasnick, Myrtle Allen, Burieta Gearhart, Mable Brown, Ditty Tackett, Judy Kittle, Lynn Leslie, and the hostesses.

The next meeting will be the annual Christmas party, Thursday evening, December 3.

The 80th Anniversary of Christmas Seals

Marking their 80th anniversary, the 1987 Christmas Seals from the American Lung Association are currently being mailed to nearly 40 million households across America, it was announced this week, by the American Lung Association of Kentucky-the Christmas Seal people.

Originated in 1907 by Emily Bissel, pioneer social worker in Wilmington, Delaware, Christmas Seals were known as "The Stamps to Stamp Out Tuberculosis." Over the years the seals bearing the double-barred cross have become an American tradition and a symbol of the battle against all lung diseases.

"Christmas Seals are the primary support of the American Lung Association's programs in research, smoking cessation, patient education, medical training and public education on air pollution and occupational health," according to Carolyn Embry, Development Director in Kentucky. "And it is vital that increased funding be made available to the ALA's growing research program and educational activities if we are to lessen the tragic impact of lung disease in our society."

Embry pointed out that 78.7 million—almost 33 percent of the American population—have some chronic respiratory disease ranging in severity from chronic sinusitis to emphysema. Lung diseases, including lung cancer, rank third among the leading cause of death in the United States, and preliminary estimates indicate that over 265,000 Americans were killed by these diseases in 1985, the latest year that statistics are available. In fact, the lung disease mortality rate is rising faster than any other major disease category.

"It is imperative that the American Lung Association lead an intensified research effort so that, someday, the American people will be freed from this intolerable burden," she said.

Urging increased support of the Christmas seal Campaign, Embry said, "It is funding from this source that makes it possible for ALA to continue its efforts to eliminate these negative statistics and to work toward the prevention, cure and control of all lung diseases."

Those who do not receive a supply of Christmas Seals in the mail are asked to call the American Lung Association of Kentucky at (502) 363-2652.

The Job Corps, a program designed for jobless and disadvantaged youth, serves some 40,500 enrollees annually in 105 centers throughout the country. During the 1986 program year—July 1, 1985, through June 1986—the Job Corps placed 86 percent of its graduating enrollees in the private sector, Armed Forces or educational programs. The Job Corps is administered by the U.S. Department of Labor's Employment and Training Administration.

Lady Godiva made her famous bare-skinned ride through the streets to protest an oppressive tax imposed on the people by her husband, Earl Leofric.

A proud tradition

Our funeral home have been responding to the needs of the community for many years. To continue this proud tradition of helping families in their time of need, we now offer the Sunset SecuritySM Plan.

Sunset SecuritySM, offered by us as a member of the Kentucky Funeral Directors Burial Association, is a plan that lets you reduce the stress your loved ones will experience at the time of a funeral.

Through Sunset SecuritySM, you can pre-arrange a funeral now. The plan offers an inflation-proof feature that lets you save money by freezing the cost of a funeral at today's prices. And it provides special tax-saving advantages.

We'd like to give you a "Personal Record Guide" and tell you about the Sunset SecuritySM Plan. Just complete the coupon below and send it to one of the funeral homes listed.

Christmas Contest Open To Residents of Rt. 122

Father Ralph W. Beiting founder of the Christian Appalachian Project and chaplain to the Benedictine Sisters of Mt. Tabor, Floyd county, recently announced a special contest for the residents of Route 122 which extends from Highway 80 to the Mountain Parkway, extension 114. This area includes Bucks Branch and Sturgill Creek.

The contest is to determine the best decorated residence or church during the Christmas season. Decorations must contain a religious scene in at least part of its display. Other themes such as Santa Claus, etc., can be combined with the religious motif.

Judging will be based on originality, overall beauty, and harmony with the surroundings and will take place Sunday, December 20, from 6-9 p.m. There will be three judges who will not be residents of either Buck's Branch or Sturgill.

Announcement of the winners will be made Sunday night, December 20, after the judging.

Three prizes will be awarded. First prize is a $100 Savings Bond, second prize is a $50 bond, and third prize is a $25 bond. Each of the three winners will also receive a plaque commemorating their achievement.

"The purpose of the contest," Father Beiting stated "is to bring Christ into our Christmas preparation and to create a sense of beauty and pride in our homes and neighborhoods during the holidays."

Everyone along the limits of 122 from Highway 80 to 114 is eligible. It is not necessary to register to win.

A "bomb" is so called from the Greek bombos: a deep, humming noise.

Visit Mr. Cartoon

It was an exciting day for the Martin Kindergarten class October 22, when they visited Mr. Cartoon and friends at WSAZ in Huntington, West Virginia. Pictured in front are: Priscilla Conn, Ethan Anderson, Kirstyn Dingus, Cheryl Combs, Tim Moore, Amanda Clay, Rachel Thornsberry and Heather Greer.

Shown in the back row are Luke McCoy, Jeremy Conn, Freddie Conn, Dustin Conn, Brett Patton, Shanna Howell, Jeremy Sexton, Connie Hale, Scotty Bradley, Brandon Sizemore, Kari Baca, Edward Lafferty and Dustin Crisp.

The youngsters were accompanied by Vickie King Prater, teacher, Mickey Dingus, aide and several of their mothers. They enjoyed pizza and games at Showbiz Pizza before the show.

The trip was partially financed by the Martin Kiwanis Club.

KET Implements Second Channel

Implementation of a second KET channel by satellite has been called one of the most effective actions taken by the Kentucky General Assembly and Governor Martha Layne Collins, according to a former Ashland Oil executive.

KET's second channel "may prove to be one of Kentucky's most effective cost benefit, public investments ever," said retired administrative vice president Robert D. Bell. He also commended the legislature for its other educational considerations made during the 1987-88 biennial budget.

Bell's remarks were made October 28 in Frankfort during a ceremony hosted by Advocates for Higher Education. Bell is founder and chairman of the Advocates for Higher Education and presided during the group's first annual OAK Awards luncheon. OAK is an acronym for Outstanding Alumni of Kentucky.

OAK recipients must hold undergraduate degrees from Kentucky colleges and universities, achieve national stature in their chosen careers, and maintain lifelong attachments to their alma maters.

Highlights from the luncheon and ceremony are features of the KET production "1987 OAK Awards." The half-hour program airs Wednesday, November 11, at 7:00/6:00 p.m. CT and is presented by the KET Special Events Unit.

Honorees of the first OAK Awards featured in the program are: Joseph A. Boyd, chairman of the Harris Corp. and a graduate of the University of Kentucky; Gen. Russell E. Dougherty, former commander of the Strategic Air Command and a graduate of Western Kentucky University; James H. Evans, retired chairman and chief executive officer of the Union Pacific Corp. and a graduate of Centre College; David A. Jones, chairman and chief executive officer of Humana Inc. and a graduate of the University of Louisville; Juanita Morris Kreps, the James K. Duke professor of economics at Duke University; a former U.S. secretary of commerce, and a graduate of Berea College; and Forrest C. Pogue, historian, biographer of George C. Marshall, and a graduate of Murray State University.

Miss October Glamour

Rachael Ann Ousley, nine-year-old daughter of Danny and Glenda Ousley, of Martin, was crowned 1987 Miss October Glamour on Sunday, October 18, at the Martin Youth Center.

She also won first place trophies for best costume, most photogenic and prettiest dress along with two crowns and three banners. She received a first runner up trophy in sportswear and a Miss Glamour Star award.

She is the granddaughter of Arlen and Hazel Shepherd, of David, and Cornealis and Mary Emma Ousley, of Martin. She is also the great-granddaughter of Oscar and Rosie Ousley, of Martin.

Residue Management Is The Key To Tillage

Controlling weeds, insects and plant disease has been a challenge for farmers since prehistoric times, but for the past several years farmers have been using chemicals more and more in place of tillage practices, and these new methods have generated considerable debate.

Concern about soil erosion has led many farmers to fear disturbing the soil with tillage tools, such as plows, but the agricultural chemicals they've used as an alternative add considerable cost, so the debate has been compounded by a serious economic issue.

It is now known that fields covered with crop residues from the previous year erode very little, and that presents a whole new outlook on how to accomplish necessary goals within economic means, according to Dr. Richard Johnson, senior scientist at the Deere & Company Technical Center in Moline, Illinois.

"Today, farmers recognize that residue management is a key to both long-term profitability and erosion control," says Johnson. "If 20 to 30 percent of the soil surface is covered with plant residue, soil erosion is often reduced by 50 to 75 percent."

Actually, Johnson notes, about 60 percent of U.S. cropland has little or no erosion problem, and severe erosion occurs on less than 10 percent of the farmland.

Conservation tillage—any tillage system that leaves at least 30 percent of the old crop residue on the soil surface at planting—is now being used on more than 30 percent of all U.S. cropland. It's a good solution in many cases but it requires a good deal of understanding, Johnson says, because leaving crop residue on the soil surface also brings a whole new set of management challenges along with it.

With conservation tillage, soil temperatures tend to remain cooler for a longer period of time in the spring. The soil is shaded by the residue cover, and the lighter color of the residue reflects more solar radiation than the darker soil. The result is cooler temperatures in the seed placement zone, and seedling development can be retarded. The growing season is effectively shortened, which can mean lower crop yields.

Also, the availability of soil nutrients and soil-borne disease can also become more critical in these cooler seedbeds.

"Careful attention to selecting crop varieties with good spring vigor and high seed quality can help offset these conditions," Johnson says. "Choosing a tillage system that incorporates some crop residue, or clears a residue-free band over the seed row, can also help minimize these problems."

The residue cover that retards temperature increase also slows evaporation of moisture in the top few inches of soil, so the soil is usually wetter at planting time than it would be with clean tillage. This means more potential compaction problems, Johnson says.

"This brings some misperceptions," he warns. "The conservation farmer may feel he is reducing overall soil compaction problems because he is reducing the total number of tillage trips, but in fact he may be making the problem worse because he is farming the soil when it's wetter. The answer is to stay out of fields until they have had more time to dry."

Incorporation of fertilizer into the soil can also defeat the attempt to leave higher amounts of residue on the surface: "Shanking-in anhydrous ammonia for nitrogen, for instance—the equivalent of one tillage operation—can bury up to 50 percent of the surface residue," Johnson says.

Reducing tillage means relying more on chemical weed control, which can be expensive, Johnson cautions. Several no-till systems even require a preplant application of burndown herbicide to kill existing vegetation, and such systems can require as much as $20 per acre of additional expense, he says. (No-till is an extreme form of conservation tillage.)

The mulch of residue left for erosion control is also a good habitat for insects, diseases and other pests, he cautions.

Tillage management must be site-specific, Johnson stresses. "What works in somebody else's field is not necessarily the best answer in your field. Heavy bottom soil is usually a poor place for no-till. For hillsides with lighter soils, no-till might be the best answer for controlling erosion."

He points out that a reduced tillage system that doubles chemical costs and risks polluting soil and water is no answer, and an intensive tillage scheme that results in pulverized soil and high rates of soil erosion is equally undesirable.

"The balance is in finding a system that allows moderate use of chemicals while retaining the flexibility to alter tillage techniques as required by specific sites and crops. You can control both profitability and soil conservation if you understand your options."

A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere could be a warning of cancer, says the American Cancer Society. Don't guess. Have your physician check it out as part of your regular cancer examination.

Experts predict there will be 6.1 billion people in the world by the year 2000.

For the first time in modern history, the world population growth rate is declining reports the United Nations.

'Poor Little Rich Girl' is Hutton, warts and all

By Paul Elie

In 1934, 21-year-old Barbara Hutton inherited the $42 million fortune amassed by her grandfather, dime-store magnate F.W. Woolworth. But during the next four decades she dissipated her wealth on seven husbands and countless love affairs, leaving just $3,500 upon her death in 1979.

Farrah Fawcett

Such a life, at once glamorous and tawdry, seems an ideal subject for a miniseries. And sure enough, this week NBC airs "Poor Little Rich Girl: The Barbara Hutton Story," a five-hour miniseries starring Farrah Fawcett. It airs Monday, Nov. 16 and Tuesday, Nov. 17.

"The papers called her 'the madcap heiress,'" says executive producer Lester Persky. "Sensitive, intelligent - yet constantly insecure. I could never understand why she wasn't happy."

Persky, 62, a film producer whose credits include "Equus" (1977) and "Hair" (1979), is best known as a close friend of the late Tennessee Williams, and producer of the eccentric dramatist's 1968 play "Slapstick Tragedy." "Poor Little Rich Girl," which is based on a biography by C. David Heymann, is his first TV production.

"You'll see Barbara Hutton warts and all, but it's not a downer," he says. "The book pulled the leaves off her, showed her incognito. We do the same."

A key sequence explores Hutton's lesbian tendencies. In what Persky calls "one of the most explicit scenes ever shown on television," she staggers from her house, drunk, and later wakes up in bed with a woman. To keep the incident secret she writes the woman a check for $25,000 - "to stay or to go," Persky says. The woman takes the check and goes, prompting Hutton to attempt suicide.

The movie marks Fawcett's first TV project since last season's "Nazi Hunter: The Beate Klarsfeld Story."

"Farrah is an instinctive, emotional actress," Persky says. "I wanted someone who was like Barbara, in the sense that their life wasn't that different from that of a famous beauty who was always in the newspapers."

The miniseries also features James Read in the first posthumous portrayal of Cary Grant, Hutton's third husband.

"When you see James at first, you say, 'No way!'" Persky admits. "But he has the voice and the way of standing. He doesn't copy Cary, he suggests him. It's an impression."

Lynn Herring really affects her audiences

By Marie Michaels

When Lynn Herring joined "General Hospital" in May 1986, she was expected to stay for just 13 weeks. But her character, Lucy Coe, scored with the "GH" fans, and she was given a long-term contract.

Lynn Herring

"Lucy is one of those people who survive," Herring says. "The things she does to people affect her in a small way."
 A librarian by day, at night Lucy becomes the hottest date in Port Charles.
 "She does some pretty bad things, but I don't think she's amoral," Herring says. "She's out for Lucy, so if she has to do something mean, she just thinks that it's what she has to do."
 Herring wishes that Lucy, who now dates Tony Jones (Brad Maule), would meet her equal.
 "I would love to have her run up against some guy who would see through all her ploys," she says. "Someone who wouldn't let her get away with anything."

Herring was named Miss Virginia Teenager in 1977 and Miss Virginia in 1979, and was fourth runner-up in the Miss USA pageant in 1980. She is trying to dispel the stereotype of the beauty queen.
 "I always thought of myself as a brain," she says. "I studied a lot. I entered Miss Virginia Teenager because it offered the winner scholarship money."
 She earned a psychology degree from Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge, and declined acceptances to graduate schools to pursue a modeling career. Like many models and pageant winners, she wasn't taken seriously by casting directors when she began acting.
 "I had a hard time getting acting jobs because I had a lot of commercials running," she remembers. "People knew me as the Jordache girl or the Pepsi girl. They didn't think I was someone who could actually walk and talk and make someone feel something with my acting."
 Before joining "GH," she played Lena on "The Colbys."
 Her latest role is a departure from "GH." She learned to walk a high wire for the upcoming CBS special "Circus of the Stars." But she's not ready to switch careers again. "It was fun but scary," she says. "If they ask me to do it again I'm going to say no!"

Disney Channel special remembers Rick Nelson

By Denise Gorga

On Monday, Nov. 16, The Disney Channel recalls Ricky Nelson with "Rick Nelson: A Brother Remembers," an hour-long special produced by his older brother, David.

Rick Nelson

Nelson, who died in a plane crash in 1985, starred in "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet," and as a singer sold 60 million records, ranking fourth on the list of all-time best sellers.

As might be expected, this family-sanctioned paean omits mention of his alleged drug use and the current battles between his ex-wife, Kris, and her brother, Mark Harmon, for custody of Nelson's 13-year-old son, Sam. David Nelson, who narrates, spends part of the special conducting stilted interviews with family members and bemoaning his inferiority to his brother.

Still, "A Brother Remembers" contains fine footage, including vintage "Ozzie and Harriet" clips, home movies and concert performances. If you're looking for a sanitized trip down memory lane, turn to Disney for this one.

• If you don't care for rock 'n' roll legends, tune in to the old-fashioned kind on "Faerie Tale Theatre," which has its season premiere on Showtime on Monday, Nov. 16.

Producer Shelley Duvall begins the fifth season of this charming series with a tale called "The Dancing Princesses." Lesley Ann Warren and Peter Weller star as a sheltered princess and the wandering soldier who wins her. But the kudos should go to the bit players: Max Wright ("ALF"), who puts his whiny voice to good use as a vain prince, and Zelda Rubinstein ("Poltergeist") who plays a magical old woman.

• Between seasons of "L.A. Law" Harry Hamlin found time to make a film for HBO. "Laguna Heat," which debuts Sunday, Nov. 15, casts the cleft-chinned sex symbol as a Beverly Hills cop who leaves the force after his partner is stabbed to death. Jason Robards and Rip Torn co-star.

• "Holiday Gourmet," a six-part cooking series, kicks off on The Nashville Network on Monday, Nov. 16. Our gourmand-guide is country crooner Sylvia (no last name, thank you). Scheduled to talk turkey are singers Mel Tillis, Dottie West, Roy Clark and Oak Ridge Boy Joe Bonsall.

ASK TONI

Chuck Woolery once spun the wheel of fortune

By Toni Reinhold
Who was the original host of "Wheel of Fortune"? Was it Chuck Woolery? - P.I., Lowell, Mass.

The first show called "Wheel of Fortune" was hosted by Todd Russell, and aired in 1952 and 1953. It had a different format than today's show. Contestants told stories of heroic deeds they had performed, and a "wheel of fortune" was spun to determine their reward.
The current "Wheel of Fortune" premiered in NBC's daytime lineup in January 1975. It was hosted by veteran game-show host Chuck Woolery. He later was replaced by Pat Sajak, and when the show began airing in syndication in 1983, Sajak continued as host, with Vanna White as his assistant.
About 40 years ago I saw a wonderful movie called "Always in My Heart." Would you please print some details about it? - F.I., Scottsboro, Ala.
This 1942 drama

starred Kay Francis, Walter Huston, and Sidney Blackmer. Huston played a convict who returned from prison to find his wife (Francis) ready to marry another man (Blackmer).

The recent Perry Mason TV movie "The Case of the Murdered Madam" featured Vincent Baggetta. Has he starred in any TV series? - B.R., Washington, Ill.
Baggetta played the title role in NBC's "The Eddie Capra Mysteries," which aired during the 1978 season. And he played public defender Lou Pelligrini in the 1982 series "Chicago Story."

What is the name of the movie in which a man (he was played by Cary Grant) and a woman are killed in a car accident, but come back to Earth to haunt another man? Who else starred in it? - W.J.M., Peoria, Ill.
You're thinking of "Topper" (1937), which starred Constance Bennett and Roland Young as well as Grant. Young was the object of Grant and Bennett's pranks. The film prompted two sequels, "Topper Takes a Trip" (1939) and "Topper Returns" (1941), a '50s TV series with a similar premise and a 1979 TV movie remake starring Andrew Stevens and Kate Jackson.

America's Supermarket™

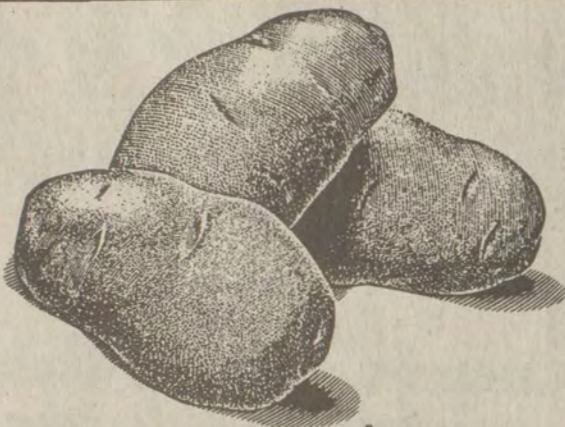

Harvest Fresh from Winn-Dixie and Nature

It starts with nature. A harvest of fresh fruits and vegetables from the good earth. WINN-DIXIE works with nature to keep that goodness going. We start by carefully inspecting and sorting all our produce. Only the finest fruits and vegetables are chosen for display. Hefty heads of lettuce, firm, juicy melons, fresh-picked corn, tender broccoli, plump carrots, cucumbers, and much more. And we know how to take care of the many varieties of produce we offer, what their unique needs are. We do everything we can do to make sure you have your pick of the freshest produce around. Harvest Fresh® Produce. Nature makes the produce. WINN-DIXIE makes the difference.

McDowell High School students Shawn Little, left, Lance Hall and Missy Castle take a refreshment break during Morehead State University's World of Technology Day held recently on the MSU campus. The event, sponsored by the College of Applied Sciences and Technology, featured demonstrations and exhibits by MSU students and faculty in areas of technology and advancement. McDowell and Betsy Layne students were among the more than 2,000 area high school students and faculty, that participated.

CBS "Wonder" Spring Ride-On Horses Recalled

In cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, CBS Inc., New York, New York, today announced a voluntary recall and replacement of the plastic bodies of its "Clippety Clop," "Comanche" and "Colt" ride-on toy "Wonder" horses because the plastic body may break during use.

CBS has received 105 complaints that the body of the toy has broken without warning while being ridden, causing the rider to fall suddenly. Forty of these incidents resulted in injuries, such as cuts, scrapes, and bruises.

The "Wonder" horse is a painted plastic riding toy, sometimes known as a hobby horse. The body of the horse is suspended by four springs from a tubular blue or brown metal frame. Children sit on these toys and rock or bounce while holding onto dowels attached to the horse's head.

Over 114,000 of these ride-on toys, produced and distributed to retailers between March 1984 and May 1986, have been sold nationally for approximately $60 each. Only those units produced prior to June 1986 by the Wonder Unit of CBS Toys are affected by this recall. Any "Wonder" horse with a silver label on the horse's belly, or with a number higher than 86207 stamped on its belly, is not affected by this recall. These toys were produced beginning in June 1986 from a modified mold.

Consumers should immediately stop using this product and retailers should immediately remove the product from sale. To contact the manufacturer's representative, Service Concepts International, Inc., of Santa Ana, California, for return and replacement instructions, or to help you identify your horse, call 800-227-3378; residents of California should call (714) 836-4981.

Consumers may also call the Commission's toll-free hotline number at 800-638-CPSC for assistance in identifying products subject to this recall. A teletypewriter number for the hearing impaired is 800-638-8270.

Light Up America On Veterans Day

"The Veterans Administration wants all veterans to light up America on Veterans Day by driving through the day, November 11, with their headlights on," said John W. Hagan, Jr., director, VA Regional Office in Louisville.

"The light up America program, initiated by national veterans service organizations, is intended to symbolize the camaraderie and mutual concern of the nation's 27.4 million veterans," said Hagan.

The Veterans Administration wholeheartedly endorses this national gesture and asks all veterans to light up America on Veterans Day.

Golden Days Of Hollywood On KET

One of America's mythic eras—Hollywood in its golden days of the 1930s—is the subject of "Tales From the Hollywood Hills," a three-part "Great Performances" series of one-hour episodes airing on KET Monday November 9 and 16 at 8:00/7:00 p.m. CT and Monday, November 23 at 9:30/8:30 p.m. CT.

"Tales From the Hollywood Hills" looks at Hollywood from the perspective of three major writers who knew the film colony first-hand—John O'Hara, F. Scott Fitzgerald and Budd Schulberg.

The premiere episode, Natica Jackson, November 9, is based on O'Hara's story of an ambitious young actress who tires of a boring, loveless life and falls in love with a married man who does not work in the film industry. Tragedy ensues. Michelle Pfeiffer portrays the actress; Brian Kerwin and Hector Elizondo also star.

Schulberg builds his tale, A Table at Ciro's, November 16, around a studio head who holds a dinner party at the legendary Hollywood night club and discovers that everyone wants favors from him, the hat-check girl, the head waiter, even his wife. A startling phone call from the studio's New York money men brings the story to a dramatic conclusion.

In the final tale, Pat Hobby Teamed With Genius, November 23, Fitzgerald tells of a middle-aged, defeated writer struggling to make a comeback at a movie studio. Obviously based on Fitzgerald's own battles as a writer in the studio system, this final episode is primarily comic in nature. This tale, however, gives sharp insight into the fleeting nature of success in Hollywood.

"Great Performances" is a presentation of the Great Performances Alliance: WNET/New York; KERA/Dallas-Ft. Worth; KQED/San Francisco; South Carolina ETV Network; and WTTW/Chicago.

News that can save you money and enhance the quality of your life

Grayhawk Trace Townhomes are priced at $10,000 below their VA/FHA appraised value. This makes them the best real estate value in Lexington, says Tom Lambuth, president of The Lambuth Group, Realtors.

Located in the prestigious Lansdowne/Shadeland East area, Grayhawk Trace Townhomes offer 1,360 s.f. of beautiful, fully-designed living space with 2 or 3 bedrooms, walk-in closets, 2 1/2 or 3 baths, fireplaces, garden patios, kitchens filled with G.E. appliances, optional garages or basements, and exteriors that are virtually maintenance free.

"But the best news," says Lambuth, "is that these townhomes, which are located in a stable neighborhood where homes are considered to be a good investment, are priced from only $79,500." See for yourself why Grayhawk Trace
