Crimes of Violence Prominent In Grand Jury's Indictments

By B.A. Heinze

Crimes of violence figure largely in the list of indictments returned last week by the grand jury, although there was only one for murder, that of Walt Carroll, Jr., in the fatal shotgun wounding of his brother, Tony Carroll, 16, at their home at Martin, November 10.

Indictments for other major crimes included one for rape, first degree, against Berton Bailey; one for criminal conspiracy to commit murder against Glenda Sue Pennington, who, the indictment reads, was "trying to pass a deadly weapon to Wiley Pennington while he was prisoner in the Floyd county jail which he was intending to use to murder the turnkey." In this same connection, Mrs. Pennington was indicted on counts of criminal conspiracy to commit escape, first degree, and of promoting contraband, first degree.

Her husband, Wiley Keith Pennington, was also indicted for criminal conspiracy to commit murder and for criminal conspiracy to commit escape, first degree, as a result of the same incident.

In addition to the above, Wiley Pennington stands indicted for robbery, first degree, for threatening physical force while armed with a pistol and stealing an auto; attempted murder, two counts, for shooting 12 times at Lt. Gary Rose and at Trooper Lloyd Stapleton, both of the Kentucky State Police, with intent to kill; theft by unlawful taking, in theft of vehicle above; wanton endangerment, first degree, six counts, for intentionally running the following persons off the road with a vehicle, creating substantial danger of death or serious physical injury to them—Bobby Jones, Barbara Sue Jones, Sabrina Hall, Canel Caudill, Monroe Jones, and Betty Jo Hall; possession of a hand gun by a convicted felon; and persistent felony offender, first degree.

Pennington is also named with Carl Newsome and Tracy Johnson in an indictment for theft by failure to make required disposition of property.

Richard Thacker, in one indictment, was listed on two counts of attempted murder for shooting 12 times at Lt. Gary Rose and at Trooper Lloyd Stapleton, Kentucky State Policemen, with intent to kill them, and one count of possession of a hand gun by a convicted felon. He is also indicted of 14 counts of wanton endangerment, first degree, for shooting five times at the following—Benjamin Akers, Michelle Akers, Robert Shell, Holly Campbell, Michael Hughes, Kevin Hughes, Travis Hughes, Justin Hughes, Randy Hughes, Tammy Walker, Mishayle Slone, Sgt. Milton Aldridge, Melton Aldridge, Jr. Micaela Aldridge.

Kenneth Bailey was indicted for attempted murder for running into Maudie Bailey head-on in a vehicle after telling her he was going to kill her, and two counts of assault, first degree, for running head-on in a vehicle into Grace Shepherd and Jennifer J. Wireman, causing them serious physical injury.

Terry Giese, Barry Hamilton and Randy Hamilton were indicted on three counts of wanton endangerment for shooting at Kenneth Farley, Gregory Zadel, and Bobby Blackburn, Sr.

A multiple-count indictment was returned against Hassell Hall, Jr., for (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Through-Town Route Asked At Paintsville for New 23

Paintsville civic leaders, businessmen, and members of the fiscal court in a town meeting held last Thursday opted for the proposed new US 23 route to go through Paintsville. Despite this, many think that, if and when it is built, the route will be the one through Jenny's Creek which has been surveyed and marked for some time.

Three routes are possible and all were considered by those attending the Paintsville meeting. These include Jenny's Creek route; one following the present US 23 going through Paintsville, and the third would go through Burnt Cabin Branch to connect with US 23 near the Second Street bridge in Paintsville.

The route through Paintsville, according to a highway official and engineers, would add more than $10 million to the cost with a year added to construction time, and mean acquiring over 60 homes and businesses. In addition it would limit access to the route for 26 established businesses. It would also mean building the highway below federal standards, thus meaning the loss of any federal funding.

Congressman Chris Perkins' office said last Friday that the question of federal funding will be decided in the next two weeks, and without more help from Senators Ford and McConnell, the prospect is not favorable. Although there is a fund set aside by the state for the road, there still remains at least $20 million to be funded, according to Transportation Secretary Leslie Dawson.

The first proposed plan for the new section between Prestonsburg and Paintsville was to turn west off the four-lane highway north of Paintsville, make a cut-through near Routes 40 and 460 intersection to go up Jenny's Creek. The road would then follow roughly old 23 through the Little Paint section to Abbott Mountain.

The third alternative, the Burnt Cabin route has apparently not received as much attention as the other two possibilities, but last week it was said by state officials to be the most expensive of the three proposals. Too, they said it would create traffic problems.

Most Floyd countians, who travel between Prestonsburg and Paintsville daily, have their own ideas of the best route but don't really care as long as it is built.

School Board Commended For Improved Finances

By Tim Sizemore

"It is a tremendous achievement, I have never seen such a turnaround in this area" were the words Don Wallen, of Linton and Company, Pikeville accountants, used to describe the financial situation of the Floyd county school system at last Wednesday night's board meeting.

The system which was $405,138.22 in the red in July, 1986, now boasts a surplus of $34,905.96.

Wallen told the board members it was obvious that much thought had been taken to decide on cuts in the budget, and he commended the board and superintendent for a job well done.

Supt. Ray Brackett said of the surplus, "We are very pleased with the performance of the administrative staff and school board members who had the foresight to make very difficult decisions to bring financial integrity to the school system."

In other business, the board decided on transfers, the approval of certified and emergency substitute teachers, and hiring new janitors.

William Paul Skeans was selected to replace Jerry Deskins as a teacher at Prestonsburg High School.

Howard Osborne was approved as a certified substitute teacher and Barbara Allen Hall, Patricia Allen, Colleen N. Johnson, Elizabeth Robinett, Alisa F. Huff, Sherry Tackett, Jerald Todd Mullins, Martha C. Howard, Rhoda Paige and Jo Pigg were approved as emergency substitute teachers. Ricky Newsome was employed as a new janitor at Betsy Layne High School and Ellaree Cole was approved as head janitor at Prestonsburg Elementary.

Custodial supply contracts were awarded at the board meeting and the following companies received contracts: Brown Food Service, Share Corporation, Thompson's Sanitary Supply, KenWay Chemical, King Supply, General Sales and Mountain Cleaning.

In an interview, Thursday, Supt. Brackett offered approximate breakdown of the $22,633,453 general fund budget:

Administration costs, $306,091 or 1% Instruction costs, $12,861,543 or 67%; Health services, $34,042 or 0.017%; Food service, $687,356 or 3%; Building sites and equipment, $756,964 or 3% Pupil transportation, $1,358,405 or 7%; operation of plant, $1,498,500 or 7% Maintenance (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Ellis Newsome, 51, of Teaberry, driver of the car, is listed in critical condition at Highlands Regional Medical Center. His car and the truck, driven by Walter Hall, of Pikeville, were both traveling south on US 23 above Archer Park when the accident occurred. Hall, who was not injured, was driving a truck belonging to Shelby Valley Equipment and Sales, of Virgie.

Big Sandy Unemployment Rate Shows Decline from September

October jobless rates in Kentucky counties were broadly mixed, as the state rate rose for the first time since June.

Local unemployment rates rose from September to October in 64 counties, fell in 45 counties and remained unchanged in another 11 counties, according to a report issued recently by the Cabinet for Human Resources.

In the Big Sandy district, the jobless rate declined from a revised 12.2 percent in September to a preliminary 11.7 percent in October. Floyd county's 10.7 was next to Martin county's low of 9.4 for the district, the only single-digit rate in the Big Sandy area, with a 14.3 percent high in Magoffin. Pike county had a 12.4 percentage of unemployment and Johnson's was 11.4 percent.

The monthly sample of claimants of unemployment insurance benefits showed 44.0 percent had worked in mining; 19.5 percent in trade, and 15.8 percent in services.

"Higher unemployment rates, as well as greater employment totals, resulted from a statewide surge in Kentucky's labor force as people began looking for pre-holiday jobs," said Ed Blackwell, Kentucky's chief labor market analyst.

An additional 9,800 Kentuckians had jobs in October, while another 4,500 new or renewed job applicants were unsuccessful in their search for work. This pushed the state unemployment rate up from a revised 6.8 percent in September to a preliminary 7.1 percent in October.

Nationally, unemployment in October remained at September's 5.7 percent. Comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

Compared to October 1986, 90 counties reported lower rates, 29 counties had higher rates and one (Adair county) recorded the same rate as a year earlier. In October 1986, Kentucky's unemployment rate was 7.7 percent.

Nine counties reported jobless rates at 4.0 percent or below. They were Shelby (3.1 percent); Fayette (3.6 percent); Jessamine and Trimble (3.7 percent each); Franklin and Calloway (3.8 percent each); Oldham (3.9 percent); and Madison and Woodford (4.0 percent each).

McCreary county recorded the highest rate, 18.9 percent, followed by Elliott with 16.6 percent and Magoffin and Carter, each with 14.3 percent.

Thirty-five counties reported unemployment at 10.0 percent or higher in October up from 32 in September, but down from 48 in October 1986.

A Department for Employment Services survey shows non-manufacturing jobs accounted for all the growth in non-farm wage and salary employment.

Blackwell said students on college campuses filled most of the 3,800 new (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

One Wounded, Two In Jail In Shooting

By Tim Sizemore

A Sunday morning shooting at McDowell has resulted in the wounding of one man and the jailing of two others.

Micky Sizemore, 24, of McDowell, was wounded at his home early Sunday morning by a juvenile who shot him through the mouth around 5 a.m.

State Police say that the youth borrowed a handgun from Tod Gayheart, also of McDowell, and used the fire arm to shoot Sizemore.

The juvenile was arrested shortly after the crime and charged with first degree assault, and Gayheart was arrested and charged with conspiracy to commit assault in the first degree. The youth is being held in the regional detention center, here, and Gayheart is in the Floyd county jail.

Sizemore, who was taken to the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, was later transferred to the University of Kentucky Medical Center where he is listed in serious condition.

The shooting is still under investigation by State Police Detective Danny Stumbo.

Big Sandy Tumor Board Led In Cancer Patient Service

By Tim Sizemore

Since 1981, the Regional Tumor Board has provided free services to the people of Eastern Kentucky and has served as consultant in hundreds of cancer cases.

The Big Sandy Regional Tumor Board was the first program of its kind in the state. Since its founding several regions in Kentucky and also in other states have created their own boards modeled on the Big Sandy Board. Doctors Gan Maddiwar, William Cook, S.G. Bader saw the need for a consulting board, met and led in the formation of the tumor board.

Set up to help the victims of cancer both physically and spiritually and to provide diagnostic services otherwise unavailable in the area, the board is made up of doctors, health professionals, and social workers, who meet each month to review new cases and to recommend appropriate treatment for each patient.

In big city hospitals it is possible to bring together a variety of health professionals under the same roof, but in this area with its sparse population, a patient may have to drive hundreds of (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Committee Seeks Opinions On New Directions for AG College

A special review committee appointed to make recommendations for the future direction of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture is seeking opinions from all Kentuckians about how the college can meet the emerging needs of Kentucky agriculture.

The College of Agriculture Review Committee encourages everyone to contribute ideas about how the College can better serve the people of Kentucky in the future," said Glenn Collins, University of Kentucky agronomist who is chairing the committee.

Agriculture will change as the environment in which it operates changes. If the College of Agriculture is to remain a dynamic force, leading agriculture into the future, it must take stock and make plans for redirection, Collins said.

Some of the changes that are already affecting agriculture, Collins said, include the emerging world economy, world overproduction of certain crops and new technologies, such as biotechnology, that will have revolutionary impacts on agriculture.

"The committee will provide the university administration with recommendations about research, teaching and Cooperative Extension Service programs to help the College of Agriculture keep up with the changes in agriculture," Collins said.

The review committee, appointed by University of Kentucky Lexington Chancellor Art Gallaher, will be conducting its review through February. A written report will be issued by March 1, Collins said.

Individuals who wish to contribute ideas for the future direction of the college should contact the College of Agriculture Review Committee, S-123 Agricultural Science Building North, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky 40546.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

Cervical cancer is one of the most curable of all cancers, yet it will kill approximately 11,000 women each year. These deaths could be avoided if the cancer were detected in its earliest stages. There is a simple test to determine if cervical cancer is present. This is the pap test, which takes only a few moments of a woman's time and could possibly save her life.

The Floyd County Health Department will have a pap clinic at the health department in Prestonsburg on Wednesday, December 16, from 8 until 3. This clinic is a free service of the health department and is open to women of all ages, however, those women age 45 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this free service since this is the high risk age for the disease. Women will also be taught self-breast-examination at this clinic. No appointment is needed.

A nurse from the health department will be in Wayland, Friday, December 11, at the Methodist Church. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, blood pressures, anemia screening, and immunizations. This clinic is a free service of the health department and is open to the public.

These same services will be offered Friday, December 18, at the Rescue Squad Building in Price from 10 until 2.

Changing Herbicides Might Help Control Ky. Pigweed Problems

If you can't rotate your corn crops, and you're having bad problems with pigweed, you might try "rotating" your herbicides.

That's the advice from J.D. Green, agronomist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, and he backs it up with results from his recent research.

"In some areas of the state, there are growers seeing a problem with pigweed in corn," Green said. "Typical herbicides that have controlled the weeds in the past apparently were not helping now."

This suggests, he said, that one way to manage pigweed problems is to try different herbicides.

So why doesn't everybody switch over to the herbicides he was so successful with?

Easy answer, he said. Money. The traditional herbicides are less expensive than the ones he used. In addition, less is required than the ones he used. So the farmer must decide whether controlling pigweed is worth the extra expense.

In District Court

Sentenced in District Court, following pleas or verdicts were: Gary Bays, 32, Prestonsburg, A.I., fined $47.50; Rodney Baker, 20, Lackey, leaving the scene of an accident and reckless driving, fined $157.50; David Clifton, DUI, fined $407.50 and 30 days in jail; Jonathan Edward Whittaker, Lexington, DUI, fined $500 and 30 days in jail; Johnny R. Smith, DUI, fined $407.50 and 30 days in jail; Paul R. Wright, 36, Prestonsburg, DUI and driving on a suspended license, fined $500 and 30 days in jail.

SIMPLE TEST

The Pap test, a microscopic examination of cells from the cervix, is a simple test that is associated with the marked decrease in deaths from uterine cancer over the past 40 years, according to the American Cancer Society. Make a Pap test part of your regular cancer checkup.

HANDS ACROSS FLOYD COUNTY

Did You Know?

- That "Hands Across America" money came to Floyd County in order to form a "network" of food pantries across Floyd County?
- That FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency) funds of more than $20,000 have been used by this network to feed and help hungry people in our County during 1987?
- That there are six food pantries that are part of the network, and they are located in Prestonsburg, David, Drift, Grethel, Wheelwright, and Wayland?
- That the pantries are operated by people in four different denominations (Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, and Catholic), one is cooperative among several churches (Loaves and Fishes in Prestonsburg), and one is affiliated with a health clinic (Mud Creek)?
- That God's Pantry, a food bank serving many pantries in several counties, recently opened a branch in West Prestonsburg?
- That the Ministerial Association has employed Faye Ruffing as Coordinator of the food pantries and of "Cooperative Christian Ministries"?
- Most important, did you know that YOU CAN DO SOMETHING TO HELP?

Gifts are welcome at this time of year when we think of the needs of others. All monies collected will go for purchase of food for hungry people in this County.

South Central Bell Wins Business Award

South Central Bell has won the Business Award in the 1987 Governor's Awards in the Arts program for the company's efforts to support arts funding and programs in Kentucky.

This is the second year for the program, designed specifically to recognize and honor outstanding artists and artistic support in the state.

"As a corporate citizen of Kentucky, we have a strong commitment to improving the quality of life in the communities we serve," said South Central Bell Manager, Art Willett.

The company supports arts councils, museums, community theaters, drama associations, orchestras, ballet companies and other art forms throughout the state.

Nelson Maynard, a supervisor in our Network Provisioning office in Pikeville, serves on the board of directors for the Jenny Wiley Drama Association.

"We also encourage our employees to support the arts in their communities," Willett said. "They volunteer their time and talent to all kinds of arts activities. And, if they choose to make financial contributions, the company matches their contributions."

Other winners in the 1987 Governor's Awards in the Arts Program are Kentucky author Wendell Berry; textile artist Alma Lesch; Kentucky painter G. Caliman Cox; Emily Wolfson, retired member of the art faculty at Murray State University; the Bowling Green-Warren County Arts Commission; Hindman Settlement School; State Sen. David Karem; and Cass Irwin, publisher of the Disability Rag.

Parents of Handicapped Schedule Meet at Martin

All parents, family members, and friends of children and adults with a handicapping condition of any kind—physical, behavioral, learning, emotional—are asked to come to a meeting at 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 15, at Mountain Comprehensive Care Center's Martin location in the old Mormon Church, across from Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

A parent from Floyd county just got back from an important meeting in Frankfort and has much to share with people interested in helping provide for needs of the handicapped in our region.

For babysitting call Eileen Scheppers or Rita Conley at 886-8572.

During the meeting a social hour will be held for handicapped teens and young adults, and their friends, at the Martin Youth Center.

Statement From The County Attorney

In response to last week's article concerning the Abner Fork water situation, I take this opportunity to respond to the following statement contained in that article: "...the County Attorney's office said they were too busy to get to the problem immediately..."

My office advised Judge/Executive Stumbo that one County Attorney was at a hearing in Pike County, one was at a hearing in Bourbon Circuit Court, and the other was in DUI trials in Floyd District Court. Our office advised them further that someone would be able to talk with them about their situation at 1:00 p.m.

I regret that there was no attorney able to see the people from Abner Fork the instant they arrived. Fifty-Six Thousand (56,000) Floyd Countians is a big load for three people to take care of. We do the very best we can.

Ironic Heresy

On October 9 through 11, I attended the second national conference, Women Church: Claiming Our Power, in Cincinnati, Ohio. The conference was attended by Catholics, Protestants and Jews and was sponsored by twenty-five organizations, including Catholics for a Free Choice, Catholic Women for Reproductive Rights, the Women's Ordination Conference and the Conference for Catholic Lesbians. The conference was not recognized by the Roman Catholic Church and was not a Church function.

I attended two workshops on abortion and all of the women on both of the speaker's panels were pro-abortion. One of the workshops was paneled by three of 24 women who are referred to as Vatican 24, who signed an ad, "A Catholic Statement on Pluralism and Abortion," which appeared in the New York Times three years ago. The other workshop on abortion was paneled by a state coordinator for the Religious Coalition for Abortion Rights, the Executive Director of Catholic Women for Reproductive Rights, and a board member of the National Abortion Rights Action League.

We hear of the shortage of nuns, yet many nuns attended the conference and they are scattered throughout our nation and are working fervently from within the Churches to "reform," to "renew," and to "rejuvenate" them. They are striving to overthrow the institutionalized Church, to overthrow the male hierarchy, including God the Father, and are pushing for their own form of worship, with themselves and a goddess at the center. Their liturgies have nothing to do with Jesus and only once during the entire conference did I hear His name mentioned.

The irony of this heresy is that these women are the tools of a small network of men who are exploiting them in their attempt to control the world through a one-world, atheistic, socialistic government and what these women have liberated themselves to is to Satan. What I find more frustrating than anything is that this movement has managed to effeminate, to intimidate, and to emasculate our male hierarchy, and it has managed to brainwash them and our press into thinking that they must protect the feminist ideology or they are not compassionate toward women in general.

Unsung Hero

Recently, perhaps the winningest coach in college football announced he may retire from coaching football. His name and school are probably not known by many football fans. His name is Coach Robinson and his school is Grambling College.

We probably have a local situation as sad. I have followed basketball for over 40 years. I attended a Martin game this week. The announcer announced, "Martin Grade School's record is 18 wins and one defeat." I couldn't believe that statement as I remembered Martin had a tremendous record last year but lost all five eighth graders.

Every year Martin graduates four or five players, but the coach probably doesn't know he isn't expected to win.

I'm sure Coach Sutton and Coach Crum have never heard of Coach Hopkins. Probably some Eastern Kentucky folks haven't heard either of Coach Hopkins.

I take my hat off for respect, character, and championship basketball at Martin Grade School all because of Coach Hopkins. I hope he makes the transition from Martin Grade School to the head coach of the Kentucky Wildcats.

Sincerely,
LORI VANNUCCI
Martin, Ky.

Listing Social Security Number For Dependents Now Required

By: Sherry A. Ward, Staff Accountant Jones, Pack & Associates, CPA's

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 requires that a taxpayer include the Social Security number of any dependent claimed on his or her tax return if the dependent will be at least five years old by the end of the taxpayer's year. This new rule applies to all tax returns for the 1987 calendar year. There is a $5 penalty for failure to include the Social Security number.

To get a Social Security number for your child, you must file Form SS-5 with the Social Security Administration. In Prestonsburg, the office is on US 23 North.

Begging and Bribing

We do not need to beg or bribe God. Just ask him for this or that, according to His will.

We must be sure to admit to God that we cannot handle the problems, and need His mercy, and help. Once again, according to His will.

Close all prayers with the phrase, "in Jesus name, I pray." Amen!" This seals the request, because Jesus has been duly appointed to intercede for us at the right hand of God, the father.

Happy Holiday season to the editor, her staff, readers, and families.

God bless,

Campbellsville College Reduced Tuition Plan

By Deana Duncan, student news writer

Campbellsville College is once again offering reduced tuition for Special Students. Dr. W.R. Davenport, Campbellsville College president, and the administrative council approved this program for the 1988 spring semester.

The Special Students may choose from any of the over 300 courses offered at Campbellsville College. They may take a maximum of two courses in this program. You are not required to take the American College Test (ACT) in order to enroll in the program.

The reduced tuition is offered to non-traditional students, those who have not attended college or did not complete their college studies, those wanting to see what college is like and professionals who want to upgrade their skills.

Campbellsville College is offering the reduced tuition in support of the "Forward in the Fifth" program. Philip Hanna, director of admissions at Campbellsville College, said that the "Forward in the Fifth" program is an effort to promote the fifth congressional district in every area. He also said, "We sit in the middle of a district surrounded by all ages and categories of people who need to continue their education. We are making an investment in the people of this district."

For more information or an application, contact Philip Hanna in the admissions office at (502) 465-8158, ext. 218, 219 or 220. Applications are due in the admissions office Jan. 22, 1988, which is the last day to register for the spring semester. There is no application fee.

Campbellsville College, affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention, offers 25 academic majors and 26 minor programs. The College is a private, four-year liberal arts college located in central Kentucky.

No Kit Necessary For S.S. Numbers

Attorney General David Armstrong recently advised consumers that Social Security number applications can be obtained free of charge by contacting the Social Security Administration and warned that no kit is necessary to obtain the application.

According to Armstrong, companies which identify themselves as "document service" companies are offering consumers a "kit" containing information to receive Social Security numbers for their dependent children for a fee between $10-$20. "Social Security number applications have been distributed free of charge for as long as Social Security Numbers have existed," Armstrong said. "There is no requirement or need for anyone to purchase a 'kit' to obtain an application."

Several companies are mailing consumers purchase order forms enclosed in envelopes that closely resemble those used by the federal government for mailing tax refunds and benefit checks. The "kit" typically contains the actual application which the Social Security Administration distributes at no charge.

If you have a complaint or question concerning "document service" companies, contact the Office of Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 or call the Consumer Hotline at 1-800-432-9257.

MAY THE FLAME GROW BRIGHTER

Christmas Donations To Memorial Fund Make The Season Brighter

Kosair Charities' Memorial Fund, "Flowers For The Living", was established to help friends and families honor the memory of loved ones who have passed away. A donation, in any amount, can be made to the fund in the name of a loved one. The money is then used to help support many child-related healthcare groups assisted by Kosair Charities.

Jack Proctor, Executive Director of Kosair Charities, noted, however, that unlike some memorial funds, a donation to "Flowers For The Living" can be made to honor the living as well as the dead. He said, "While most donations we receive are meant to honor the memory of a lost loved one, a person can donate to the Fund to commemorate a friend or family member's anniversary, birthday, retirement, new baby, or as a very special Christmas gift."

A donation to Kosair Charities' Memorial Fund does much more than honor a friend or loved one. When a donation is made to "Flowers For The Living", the person, or family of the person in whose name the donation is made is notified immediately. The person being honored, or his or her family, has the satisfaction of knowing that the donation may make life happier, more worthwhile and more meaningful for a handicapped child.

Donations to "Flowers For The Living" are used to increase the size of Kosair Charities' endowment fund. The endowment fund is invested at the safest, yet highest possible interest earnings rate. And because only interest on the endowment is spent, a Christmas gift donation to the Memorial Fund continues to help handicapped children for years into the future. As the endowment grows, so does the amount of money spent annually on child care.

Added Proctor, "I can't imagine a better way to keep the spirit of Christmas alive than to donate money in a loved one's name to help children who otherwise may not have any chance at all in life. Donating to 'Flowers For The Living' can make life better for helpless children, not just at Christmas, but throughout the year. It's a great gift to give and an honor for the person in whose name the donation is made."

Those wishing to make Christmas donations to "Flowers For The Living" can contact Kosair Charities, 982 Eastern Parkway, Louisville, Kentucky 40217; or phone 502-637-7696.

Some To Get Refunds For Over-Priced Oil

Farmers, businesses and others who used large quantities of petroleum products and were injured as a result of pricing violations by oil companies are eligible to apply for refunds.

According to the Kentucky Energy Cabinet, at least $80 million has been set aside by the U.S. Department of Energy from a recent court settlement to provide direct restitution to consumers injured by oil company overpricing from 1973 to 1981.

This oil overcharge settlement fund is different from other oil overcharge settlement funds previously received by the states. The federal courts have made these monies available for refunds to consumers and have approved a process for such refunds to consumers who had been injured by the overpricing during this period.

Under the court settlement, about $80 will be refunded for every 100,000 gallons of petroleum products used during this eight-year period.

The U.S. Department of Energy is handling the refund process and has established a minimum refund of $15. At the present refund level, a claimant must have purchased 18,750 gallons in order to get a refund.

Deadline for receipt of applications for refunds is December 31, 1987.

An information packet on the refund process and an application for refund can be obtained by contacting James H. Noland, Kentucky Energy Cabinet, P.O. Box 11888, Iron Works Pike, Lexington, Ky. 40578-1916, telephone (606) 252-5535.

UNDER THE INFLUENCE!

Under the influence: Once a male tree cricket attracts a female, he entices her to stay with the insect equivalent of "buying her a drink." According to International Wildlife magazine, the male cricket lifts his wings, exposing on his back a small depression filled with a thick, scented fluid. The female mounts his back and feeds on this nectar. While she's drinking, they mate.

Fiscal Court Approves School Revenue Bonds

By Tim Sizemore

A special meeting of the fiscal court was held Thursday to vote on the issuance of $1,760,000 in Floyd school refunding revenue bonds.

The purpose of the new bonds is to pay off existing Floyd school building revenue bonds issued in 1968, 1974, and 1975 at their maturity or in advance of their maturity.

The new bonds will allow the school system to refinance at a lower rate of interest and will create a pool of reserve money, which, under the old interest rate, would not have been possible.

All members of the court voted in the affirmative for the refunding bonds.

The court will meet again, December 18, at the courthouse annex.

WALKING FISH?

It's no fish out of water...even on land. According to Ranger Rick magazine, climbing perch spend most of their time in water. But if their pond begins to dry up, they just climb out and "walk" to a new one. The fish use their spiny gill covers and fins as "feet" and push themselves along, lickety-split, at 10 feet per minute. Special breathing pouches near their gills enable the fish to take oxygen right out of the air.

7th District School Progress Salute Set

The school reforms of 1984, 1985 and 1986—the School Improvement Act and more money for power equalization, dropout prevention and school building construction—were designed to have their greatest impact in Eastern Kentucky where the need was the greatest.

And that's where the impact of those reforms has been most visible—in Eastern Kentucky.

Monday, December 14, the Kentucky Department of Education, the Kentucky Appalachian Foundation Inc., civic and business leaders will salute educational progress in Kentucky's Seventh Congressional District—the district represented in Congress for 36 years by the late Carl D. Perkins, who will long be remembered for his service to education as chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee.

Ceremonies will be held at Hindman, Paintsville and Ashland to recognize school districts for improved performance. Citizens and businesses will be honored for their support of schools.

Business and civic leaders will travel to the ceremonies in two 42-passenger buses that will leave Jenny Wiley State Park early Monday morning to go to the three ceremonies.

At each stop, Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald and Dr. Norris L. Norfleet, president of the Kentucky Appalachian Foundation, will discuss overall educational progress in the Seventh District, and will cite specific gains in each local school district.

The schedule for the ceremonies and the school districts participating:

8:30 a.m.—Hindman Settlement School, Breathitt, Knott, Letcher, Perry, Powell and Wolfe counties plus Jackson, Jenkins and Hazard Independents.

11:30 a.m.—Carriage House, Paintsville, Floyd, Johnson, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Morgan and Pike counties plus Paintsville and Pikeville Independents.

MSU To Hold Winter Commencement Dec. 12

Morehead State University will hold its 1987 Winter Commencement at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 12, in Button Auditorium.

Approximately 300 undergraduate and graduate students are candidates for degrees to be conferred by MSU President C. Nelson Grote.

Commencement speakers include MSU Board of Regents Chairman Louie B. Nunn, Dr. Grote and graduating Senior David W. Coleman, of Catlettsburg.

Coleman, a Dean's List student, will receive his B.S. degree in industrial education during the ceremony. A College of Applied Sciences and Technology student, he earned his Associate of Science degree in mining technology from MSU in 1981 and returned in 1985 for his bachelor's degree.

A graduate of Feds Creek High School, he is the grandson of Donald and Okie Ward, of Pike county. His parents are Donetta Shell, of Phyllis, and Wayne Coleman, of Phelps. Coleman, who is married to the former Lisa Ann Rice, plans to teach in the public schools and continue his studies at the graduate level.

Commencement activities will begin Saturday at 10 a.m. with the traditional pinning ceremony for graduates of MSU's associate degree in nursing program in the Eagle Room, Adron Doran University Center. This will be the last class of MSU's two-year nursing degree graduates as that program has been replaced by a four-year nursing degree program.

Following commencement, Dr. and Mrs. Grote will host a reception for all new graduates and their families in the Crager Room, ADUC.

Ten Quit Smoking During Smokeout

Our Lady of the Way Hospital's participation in the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout encouraged ten employees to quit smoking for the day, November 19.

The hospital held a "cold turkey" raffle to draw attention to the Smokeout event. One hundred eight employees participated in the raffle. Of them, 33 were smokers, 64 were non-smokers and 11 were ex-smokers. Several of the ex-smokers said previous Smokeout observations had helped quit. Connie Hicks, an emergency room nurse, won the turkey.

The hospital's dietary department provided fresh veggies, cold lemonade, cheese, crackers, nuts, suckers and gum to help quitters stay quit. Hamm and Public Relations Consultant Gwen Hall distributed pins, stickers and brochures to encourage Smokeout participation. Chaplain Sister Charlene Young distributed Smokeout word puzzles to patients.

Smokeout Day quitters were: Brenda Bentley, Debi Bentley, Lyda Branham, Clyde Boyd, Cainer Hall, Betty May, Rita Slone, Marian Smith, Trish Stepp and Pam Stumbo.

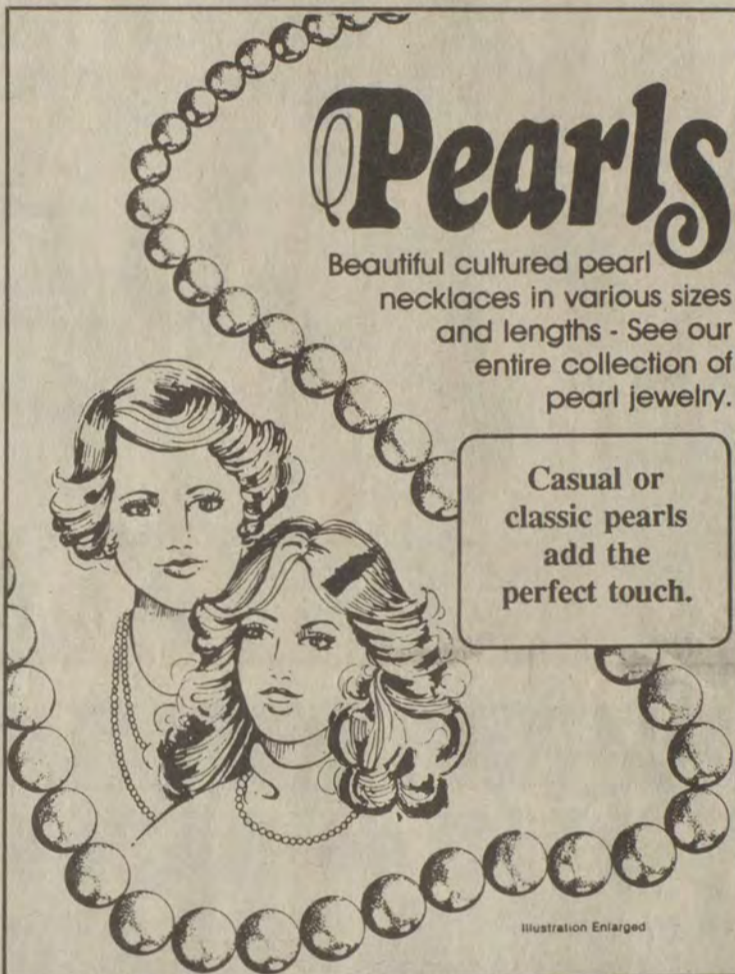

Eleven other employees adopted the quitters and offered incentives, including cash, to them.

Twelve employees gave up soft drinks, coffee, sweets, food or gum in sympathy for the smokers who quit for the day.

Armstrong Supports Iowa In Protecting Children

Attorney General David Armstrong filed a friend of the court brief in the United States Supreme Court to support Iowa's efforts to protect child sexual abuse victims from intimidation by their assailant during trial.

The Court granted review in Coy v. Iowa to decide whether a one-way screen in the courtroom during the victims' testimony violated Coy's constitutional rights to confrontation or due process. Coy could see and hear the victims but they could not see him. Thirty-five Attorneys General joined Kentucky's brief in support of the rights of victims. "The states have a compelling interest in providing the maximum psychological shelter possible for the child victim consistent with the Constitution," Armstrong said.

The court also has pending before it a request for review in Tafoya v. New Mexico, 86-1343, in which the defendant broke into the homes of six young girls, ages 4 to 11, and committed sexual offenses on them. The testimony of the victims was videotaped while the defendant observed and talked with his attorney from a control booth. Tafoya, like Coy, argues he was entitled to eyeball-to-eyeball contact with the witnesses.

"Kentucky has a strong interest in providing psychological protection for our most vulnerable victims," said Armstrong, who personally argued Commonwealth v. Willis in 1986 and succeeded in upholding Kentucky's videotape statute. Kentucky wants to make sure the rights of victims are considered in these cases along with the rights of the accused. Protection of children through child labor laws and juvenile justice systems is well established; protection of child victims in the criminal justice system is long overdue. "We are grateful for the strong support shown by the large number of states joining our brief," Armstrong said. "The decision in Coy could have far-reaching consequences for the emerging nationwide effort to avoid unnecessary trauma for our most vulnerable victims."

Four great ways to make a Christmas wish come true.

Miss Cole, Mr. Tackett Are Wed

Miss Sandra Lea Cole and Mr. Gregory Kenas Tackett were united in marriage Saturday, June 13, at the First Baptist Church, Irene Cole Memorial, in Prestonsburg, Ky. The double-ring ceremony was solemnized by Elder Michael Whitaker.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Artis Cole, of Ivel. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Zella Mae Tackett, of Ivel, and Mr. and Mrs. James O. Caldwell, of Boldman, and the late Mr. and Mrs. James Boone Cole. The groom is the son of Mrs. Gloria June Tackett, of Harold, and the late Clyde Tackett. He is the grandson of Mrs. Inis Little, of Ashland, and Mrs. LuCreasia Tackett, of Grethel, and the late Kenas Tackett.

Nuptial music was provided by pianists and vocalists, Mrs. Billie Jean Osborne and Mrs. Carol Tackett Blackburn, and organist, Mrs. Alicia Hughes. Miss Lisa Cole, cousin of the bride, and Miss Kathy Roop, cousin of the groom, presided at the guest register. Guests were ushered to their seats by Mr. Myles Robinette and Mr. Joe Harrison Steele, cousins of the bride. The wedding was directed by Mrs. Tammy Cordial Tackett.

Escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin, sparkle organza and Venice lace lavishly trimmed with pearls and iridescent sequins. The full skirt, layered with ruffles of sparkle organza, extended into a cathedral length train. The bride's tiara headpiece consisted of cut crystals, pearls, and iridescent sequins as a sparkle illusion veil extended to her fingertips. She carried an heirloom Bible covered with white satin, Chantilly lace, and silk roses that was carried by her mother at her own wedding, 26 years ago.

Maid of honor was Miss Susan Emrick. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jamie Syck Daughterty and Dr. Stacy Conn. Fresh pink rose petals were sprinkled in the aisle by Miss Brooke MaShay Tackett and Miss Amanda Lea Tackett, nieces of the groom. The maid of honor designed and created the dresses of pastel pink satin and daphne rose Venice lace. The attendants' gowns were fashioned with a fitted bodice, deep V back, and asymmetrical skirt. The flower girls wore long full skirts with satin bows.

Best man was Mr. Paul Layne, and groomsmen were Mr. Clyde Tackett, Jr., and Mr. Stephen Tackett, brothers of the groom. The rings were presented by Master Stephen Adam Tackett, nephew of the groom.

The bride's mother chose a tea-length dress of daphne rose satin and shimmering Raschel lace. The groom's mother chose a tea-length dress of soft pink chiffon and leaf pattern lace accented with matching sequins.

During the candlelight ceremony, the bride's father sang The Lord's Prayer.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, Martin, Ky. The dinner buffet was catered by the bride's cousins, Mrs. Bonnie Ratliff and Mrs. Kathy Spradlin, of the Carriage House Motor Hotel, Paintsville, Ky. A three-tiered cake with cascading fountain and stairways to outer tiers was served by Mrs. Peggy Steele, cousin of the bride, and Miss Rosemary Tackett, aunt of the groom. Mrs. Carla P. Harris, cousin of the bride, served a chocolate groom's cake decorated to resemble the couple's newly built home. Cakes were baked by Mrs. Norma Jean Crisp.

As the couple left, Miss Menda Robinette and Miss Kristen Wagner, cousins of the bride, presented guests with satin roses filled with seeds of love.

After their honeymoon at Cove Haven Resort in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania, the couple resides at Ivel, Ky.

Ky. Farm Bureau Meeting Scheduled Thurs.-Saturday

To farmers, the University of Kentucky is more than a college campus and a national basketball power.

UK is also home to the state's agricultural extension service and research facilities. That's part of the reason new UK President Dr. David Roselle has been invited to keynote the 68th Kentucky Farm Bureau convention this week in Louisville.

Roselle joins Farm Bureau President Ray Mackey and USDA official Richard Goldberg for major convention addresses. The meeting, which is expected to attract more than 2,000 to the Executive West, Thursday through Saturday, December 10-12, will also feature a variety of commodity conferences, competitive events with a rural flavor and a brisk discussion of state and national issues important to agriculture.

A major highlight of the convention is the 1987 Farm Bureau membership report. The organization added some 6,000 members to its rolls during the year, and slipped past Indiana to become the fourth largest state Farm Bureau in the nation, with better than 278,000 family members.

Part of the focus of convention delegates will be on the upcoming state legislative session. Senate President Pro Tem John "Eck" Rose is scheduled to address a special Legislative Breakfast, Saturday, December 12. Farm Bureau's legislative agenda for 1988 will be set by delegates in a business session later that day.

Goldberg, deputy undersecretary of agriculture, will address the All-Commodity Luncheon, which opens the convention on Thursday. The North Dakota native oversees the operation of two key USDA agencies, the Foreign Agricultural Service and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The former deals with farm exports, while the ASCS administrators most commodity support programs.

Six commodity conferences are on tap after the opening luncheon. Separate sessions dealing with dairy, livestock, horticulture, feed grains/soybeans, forage crops and tobacco will feature presentations on current issues affecting the various crops.

A number of important policy changes have been proposed to the delegates by the state Resolutions Committee. Among them are amendments that would:

—Oppose a current rate reclassification program undertaken by the Tennessee Valley Authority. The new rates are bringing substantial hikes in utility bills for farmers in 40 southern and western Kentucky counties.

—Support legislation outlawing the disposal of out-of-state garbage in Kentucky landfills.

—Support an extended doe season and other actions to thin deer populations and thereby reduce crop damage.

—Require auto fuel sold in the U.S. to contain at least 10 percent ethanol.

—Ask for the formation of a state task force to address health care costs.

On the lighter side, the Farm Bureau meeting offers several family-oriented activities, including special women's functions, competitive events for youth and young farmers and various awards programs.

Women's events—Opening day sees women's leadership caucuses, a business meeting and a Ladies' Tea. On Friday, a special Women's Luncheon and Style Revue is expected to draw around 400.

Youth schedule—An Outstanding

Farm Bureau Youth Contest Thursday night offers college scholarships to the top boy and girl. Twenty-two contestants will vie for the awards, the final step in a series of county and district contests involving more than 300 young people over the past several months.

On Friday night, talented young performers will face off in a Variety Show. Two divisions of the show are open, one to 17-year-olds and under, and a separate senior division.

Young farmers—Kentucky's Outstanding Young Farm Family will be introduced at a banquet Friday night. The winner gets one year's free use of a Toyota pickup truck and a trip to New Orleans next month for the national finals.

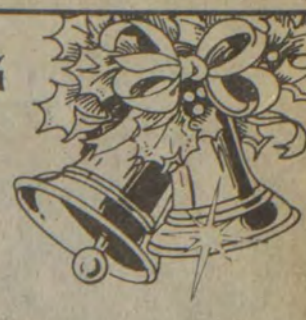

A Discussion Meet is also open for the 30-and-under group. That event, which offers a Polaris 4-wheeler as top prize, matches contestants in a panel setting to test their ability to discuss current farm issues and respond to differing points of view.

Awards—Some 80 county Farm Bureaus will receive awards citing outstanding achievements in membership, programs and insurance sales growth. Two Kentuckians will be honored with distinguished service awards and three communications awards will be granted.

At Saturday's final session, Executive Vice President Paul D. Everman will make his annual report to the delegates. Election of officers and directors and final action on policy resolutions will then precede the final gavel.

Only Screening Will Tell If Your Child Is Dyslexic

Bright children, who encounter unusual reading and writing difficulties when they enter school, may be dyslexic.

If that is the case, they can get help for their problems through a special tutorial program conducted by the Floyd County Reading Research Program.

John Sparr, Prestonsburg, director of the program, said this week, that the only way to know for sure if your child is dyslexic is to have him or her tested.

A special screening for children in this area will be conducted December 16 by Dr. Paul Thompson, director of the East Kentucky Tutorial programs at the Hindman Settlement School. The Floyd county program is a satellite of the Hindman programs and is available to children from Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Magoffin and Pike counties.

Parents who wish to have their children screened should contact Mrs. Denise Clark, Prestonsburg, 886-3698, to arrange a time and receive additional information.

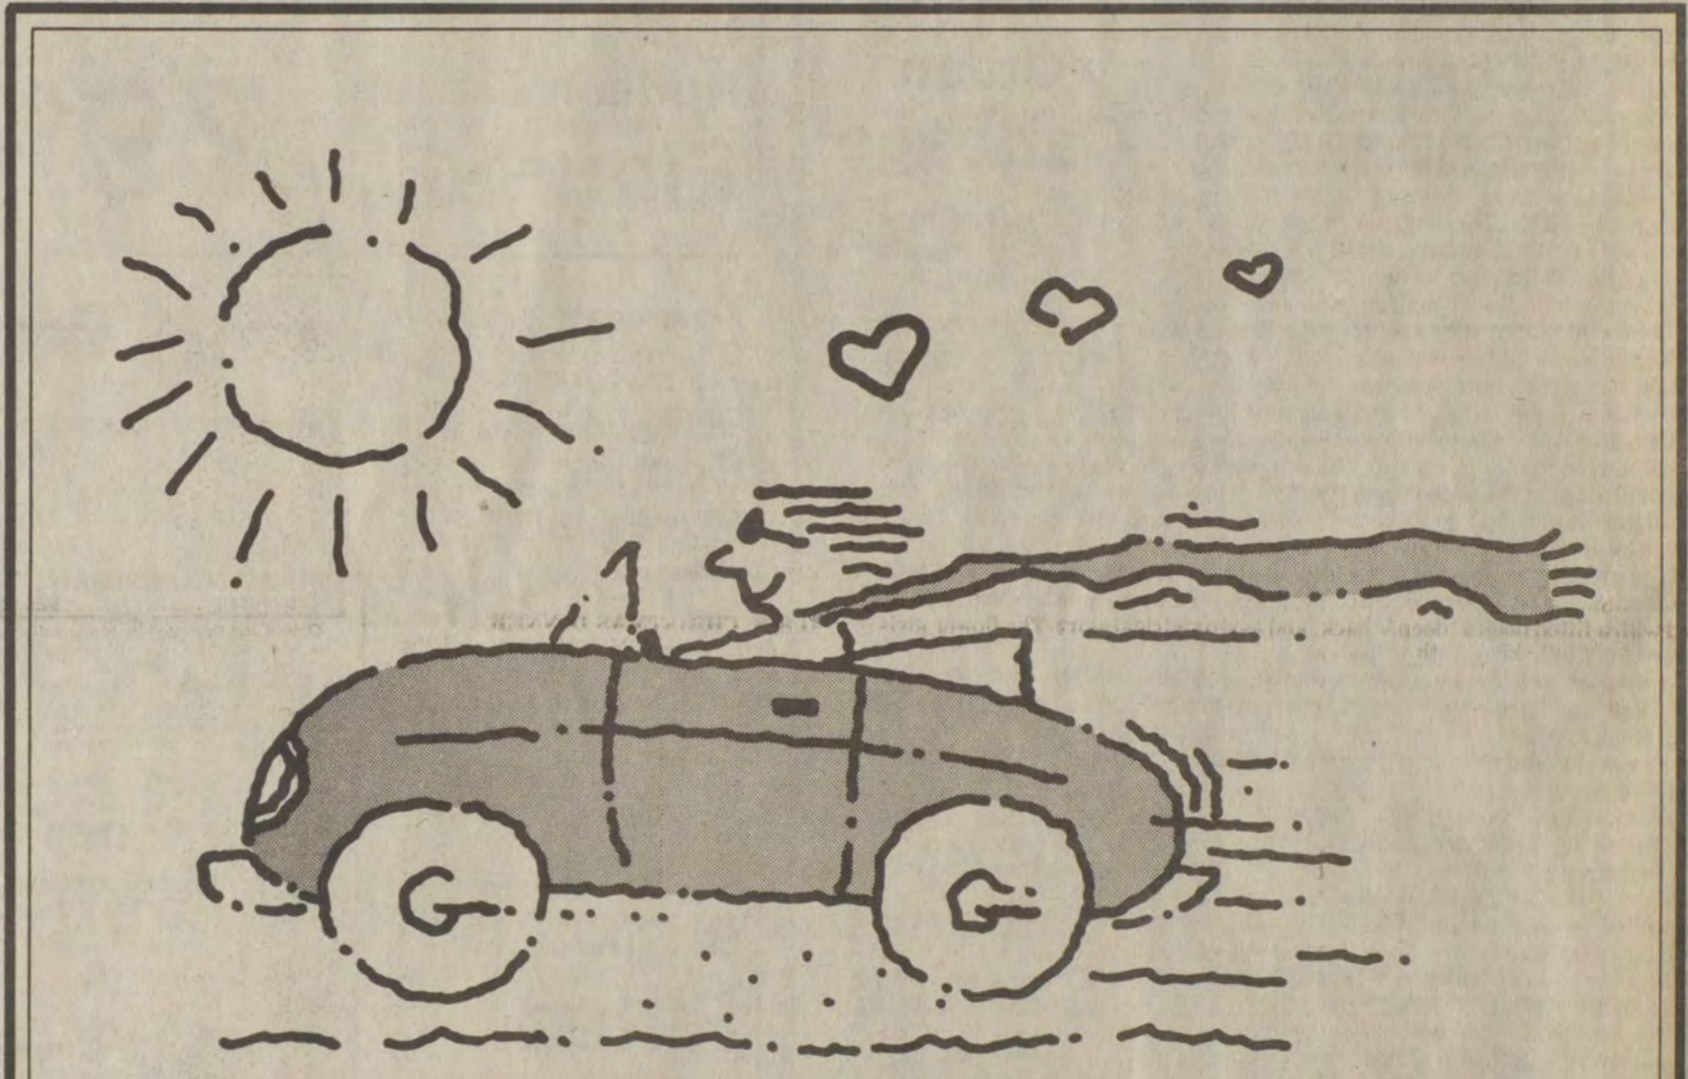

"Approximately 10 percent of the population is dyslexic," Sparr said. "There are several characteristics which distinguish the dyslexic child, including reversals in reading and writing, short attention span, and often hyperactivity."

"Our tutorial program concentrates on one-to-one tutoring and a phonetic approach to reading and writing. Reading gains made by our children vary widely, but average nearly one school year for one semester of tutoring."

The Floyd county program meets on Tuesdays at St. Martha's Church from 4 to 7:30 p.m. Tuition is $50 per semester.

Sparr urged parents who might be interested in enrolling their children to contact Mrs. Clark, who is a supervisor in the program, as soon as possible.

"All children who enter our program must be screened," he said, "and we can only do a limited amount of screenings at one time. This is the only one scheduled for Floyd county this year. Screenings normally are done only at Hindman."

Herbicide Wastes Cleaned To Protect Groundwater

By STEPHEN M. BERBERICH
 An experimental machine breaks down herbicide wastes on farms into harmless byproducts and so helps keep groundwater clean. Wastes pass through two 55-gallon stainless steel drums easily carried on a pickup truck, says chemist Phillip C. Kearney of USDA's Agricultural Research Service. Ozone in the first drum breaks down the chemical bonding of the herbicides. The soil and sand in the second drum contain microorganisms that continue to degrade the waste. Wastewater from the machine then is poured into soil pits lined with clay or plastic, where microbes further break down the waste into harmless products such as water and carbon dioxide. Kearney and co-researchers at the Beltsville, Md., research center have used the technique to turn atrazine and alachlor into "readily degradable products." He adds that residues of these two most commonly used herbicides have been found in groundwater samples at several sites across the country. "If our method can prevent the dumping of pesticide wastes into landfills or leaky disposal pits, we feel that we've gone a long way toward preventing pesticide residues from polluting groundwater," Kearney says. "This is the least expensive, most thorough method we know of." So far, he says, the machine also has tested effective for four other major pesticides: three herbicides—metribuzin, trifluralin and bentazon—and an insecticide, coumaphos. Kearney's equipment cost less than $8000 to construct in the laboratory and runs on about as much electricity as a room air conditioner. It can be plugged into farm current or run off a portable generator. He says farmers and small commercial firms could use the technology to render pesticide wastes safe for disposal. Aerial spray applicators, land-fill operators and pesticide wholesalers also are potential users. Kearney says wastewater contaminated with pesticides is produced mainly from mixing and loading pesticides, removing leftover pesticides from spray tanks, and cleaning equipment.

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: My uncle had a biopsy for an enlarged lymph gland under his arm. His doctor told him he has cancer but the cancer didn't begin there, it had spread there from somewhere else. How can the doctor be sure that the cancer didn't begin in the lymph glands? If it didn't begin there, where did it begin?

ANSWER: When a biopsy is done, the tissue which is removed is sent to a lab for examination under a microscope. In most cases the pathologist (a doctor who specializes in the examination of tissue) can tell from the appearance of the tissue whether the tumor began in that tissue or spread from another organ (metastasized). But it is not always possible to tell where the cancer began.

In order to know how to treat your uncle's cancer, the next step is doing tests to find out where the tumor began. The first organs to be tested are the lungs, the colon and the prostate because they are the most common sites of cancer in men. If a tumor is not found in one of these organs, other organs such as the stomach and the pancreas may be tested. Once a diagnosis is made, your uncle will be given the treatment options for the type of cancer he has.

In a few cases, even after tests have been done, the primary site can't be found. This is called an unknown or occult primary and poses a problem in treatment decisions. Treatment may be deferred until the primary site can be found.

For more information about biopsies, call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER or write McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Cancer Information Service.

The average weekly earnings of Kentucky coal miners increased from $485.75 in August to $494.13 in September.

This Holiday Gift Lasts A Lifetime

More than 900 high school students from Spain, Germany, Japan and many other countries are spending their first Christmas living with U.S. families as part of the Academic Year in America program sponsored by the American Institute For Foreign Study Scholarship Foundation of Greenwich, Connecticut.

Families hosting these students are giving "the gift that lasts a lifetime." In January (and August) more foreign students will be arriving.

Families throughout America are invited to give the lasting gift of international friendship by hosting a foreign student in 1988 under the auspices of the Foundation, a non profit organization founded in 1967.

"I can think of no better holiday gift for parents to give their children," says Cynthia Citron, Executive Director of the Foundation. "You cannot put a monetary value on the exchange of ideas, values, customs and traditions which come from the hosting experience. It's the perfect gift that truly lasts a lifetime."

Families who host a foreign student also receive a monthly tax deduction as well as a study/travel scholarship which can be used on more than 100 overseas programs.

For further information on hosting a holiday gift call the Foundation at 1-800-727-AIFS or write: American Institute For Foreign Study Scholarship Foundation Dept. P-6, 102 Greenwich Avenue, Greenwich, CT 06830.

Free Brochure Available Planning Tree Plantings

Now is the time to be planning ahead for tree-planting projects next spring, and a free brochure is available from The National Arbor Day Foundation to assist.

The free brochure, called Conservation Trees, uses colorful photos and illustrations and easy-to-understand descriptions to guide tree planting and care.

The Conservation Trees brochure includes these sections:

*How to use windbreaks and shade trees to save energy in your home.

*How to attract songbirds to your yard.

*How to save trees during construction.

*How to save topsoil and help farm profits with shelterbelts.

"The National Arbor Day Foundation's Conservation Trees program encourages Americans to plant and manage trees to conserve soil, energy, water, and wildlife," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director, said.

"The Conservation Trees brochure is a central part of this educational project. It serves as a useful guide for people in all areas, whether they live in America's largest cities or in the country," Rosenow added.

For your free brochure, send your name and address to: Conservation Trees, The National Arbor Day Foundation, Nebraska City, NE 68410.

Kentucky Student Wins Nat'l 4-H Dairy Foods Scholarship

A 16-year-old Kentucky student, who taught nearly 300 young campers to make ice cream by placing ingredients in a plastic bag and shaking them in a coffee can containing salt and ice, has been named a national winner in the 4-H dairy foods program.

Gina Neff, of Campton, who received a $1,000 scholarship from the Carnation Company, was presented with her award during the 66th national 4-H Congress in Chicago, Dec. 5-10.

Neff, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Neff, attends the Armand Hammer United World College of the American West in Montezuma, N.M. She plans to take advanced studies at Carleton College in Minnesota before returning to the University of Kentucky Medical School to become a pediatrician.

The Wolfe county girl, a 9-year veteran of the Kentucky 4-H program, said she taught young campers how to make ice cream by using an inexpensive recipe that used powdered milk as an ingredient.

"The children especially enjoyed this project, because they made the ice cream," she said. "They didn't realize they could have such a treat without electricity or elaborate equipment while camping. They just put the ingredients in a plastic bag in a coffee can filled with salt and ice and shook the can until the ice cream was ready to eat."

Neff became interested in food demonstrations through her dairy foods projects. She has won area contests eight times and placed in state competition five times.

"Welcome Dr. Baker"

I would like to personally welcome Dr. Bobby C. Baker and Associates to the Prestonsburg area. Dr. Baker comes to us from the Tri-State Cancer Center at Ashland, Ky. He will provide a much needed medical service to the Prestonsburg area, preventing the need to travel away from home. I can fully recommend him, both as an excellent physician and a caring person.

Wedding Vows Exchanged

Tammy Bradley, daughter of Betty Bradley, of Estill, and the late Rabon Bradley and David Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Wright, of Stambaugh, were united in marriage November 14. John G. Pelphrey officiated at the family ceremony held at the Thealka Free Will Baptist Church. An open reception followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright reside in Floyd county.

McDowell ARH, 3 Others Ask To Modify Projects

The Cabinet for Human Resources is reviewing proposals from four eastern Kentucky hospitals to delete components of modernization projects approved in 1981.

Appalachian Regional Hospitals in McDowell, Harlan, Middlesboro and South Williamson were issued certificates of need to implement various modernization projects, which the facilities are now asking to modify.

McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital is seeking to modify its certificate by deleting the installation of a sprinkler system, replacement of the heating, ventilation and air conditioning system and construction of a heliport. Implemented components include replacing the roof and nurse call system, installing two new elevators and resurfacing and expanding the parking lot. The capital expenditure would be reduced from $539,468 to $519,178.

The Harlan Appalachian Regional Hospital request includes the deletion of the following components: sprinkler system installation, air conditioning and heating system improvements, parking lot resurfacing, a heliport construction and patient furniture replacement. The hospital has implemented other parts of the project, including installing a nurse call system and an elevator and replacing laboratory and x-ray equipment and the roof. The capital expenditure would be reduced from $2,978,029 to $2,272,947.

Middlesboro Appalachian Regional Hospital is asking to delete from its approved certificate of need the following: relocation of an emergency generator, installation of a sprinkler system and audio/visual alarms, replacement of air conditioning equipment and construction of a heliport. The hospital has implemented parts of the project, including a roof and nurse call system replacement, elevator installations, parking lot resurfacing and radiology and laboratory equipment improvements. The capital expenditure would be reduced from $1,749,560 to $904,908.

The Williamson Appalachian Regional Hospital request includes deletion of a heating, ventilation and air conditioning system replacement, heliport construction and sprinkler and audio/visual alarm installations. The hospital has completed laboratory equipment, roof and furniture replacements, elevator and nurse call system installations and parking lot repairs. The capital expenditure would be reduced from $2,117,278 to $1,114,451.

The projects are being considered under nonsubstantive review status, which expedites the formal review process required for a certificate of need. Such status can be granted in certain cases involving no substantial change in facilities, equipment or services.

Persons affected by the proposals may request a public hearing on the applications. Requests must be submitted in writing before Dec. 10 to Jack S. Lesshaft, Chairman, Commission for Health Economics Control in Kentucky, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40621.

The agency plans to complete its review by Jan. 8.

Dairymen, Inc. Returns Equity To Dairy Farmers

Members of Dairymen Inc. who marketed milk through their 17-state regional milk marketing cooperative in 1982 are receiving equity checks, interest and reinvestment confirmation notices totaling $12.1 million this week.

This payment to approximately 10,000 equity holders throughout the middle Atlantic and southeastern states represents average payments of $1,251 which is in addition to members' regular milk checks.

The amount described provides for the retirement of over $11 million of per unit capital retains and patronage dividends allocated to members' accounts for the fiscal year which ended Aug. 31, 1982, together with the retirement of approximately $3.3 million of member equity reinvestment program (MERP) series 1984 investments eligible for redemption, plus interest.

Dairymen's Association Board of Directors authorized the retirement of this member equity at its October 1987 board meeting. Each year the board must take the necessary action to authorize the retirement of member equity under the cooperative's revolving program. Dairymen has historically revolved its equity on one of the shortest retirement cycles in existence among dairy cooperatives.

Dairymen members have invested $81.6 million in their cooperative as of the fiscal year ended on Aug. 31, 1986.

"This member equity position reflects that Dairymen is financially sound while allowing the cooperative to carry out its effective marketing program," noted James E. Mueller, chief financial officer.

Dairymen, Inc. is a regional milk and dairy products marketing cooperative headquartered in Louisville, with approximately 5,900 members in 17 mid-Atlantic and southeastern states.

Census Bureau To Collect Employment Data Here

The Census Bureau will collect data on labor force status from area residents, December 14-19, according to William F. Hill, director of the bureau's Charlotte regional office. This month, the bureau also is collecting data concerning agricultural work in the past year.

The local labor force data will contribute to December's employment and unemployment picture to be released January 8 by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The data on agricultural work will help to evaluate policy issues relating to the U.S. farm labor force.

The Census Bureau's monthly Current Population Survey includes a national sample of some 57,000 interviewed households and is sponsored by the Bureau of Labor Statistics primarily to gather employment and unemployment data. Information supplied by individuals is kept confidential by law. Only statistical totals are published.

HARD DECISIONS
By WILMAY

When it comes to trusting any leader of our chief adversary, its poor record of keeping treaties, agreements, etc., prompts many citizens to hope the President gives more heed to various top men in both parties about moving slowly and taking extra caution. MASTERS OF DECEIT, by the late J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI, left an indelible impression on millions because it is an expose of Communist philosophy out to control the world. Since an enormous percentage of countries and people are already under communist rule deep concern over the summit is no surprise for countless reasons.

Reports say the new American embassy under construction in Russia was bugged from the beginning. The United Nations has provided diplomatic immunity for thousands, some of whom had to be deported. As for verification, comparable size of the two nations compels careful and prayerful thought, for Russia is gigantic with Siberia, where almost any breach could likely occur and go undetected. American dealings have always been in the open. Gorbachev favors glasnost or openness, but is not finding it easy to sell the idea to numbers of his leaders and compatriots. His regime and policies may not last forever! These facts alone show how imperative it is that the President continue to insist upon retaining SDI, Strategic Defense Initiative, or Star Wars, we believe, also that Congress should gladly finance same.

Announces Engagement

Delores Newman, of Drift, and G.B. Newman, of Hi Hat, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Diane Melissa Newman, to Martin Woodrow Dye, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andy J. Dye, of Printer.

Miss Newman is a graduate of McDowell High School and is presently attending Eastern Kentucky University.

Martin, also a graduate of McDowell High School, is currently serving in the United States Air Force, stationed in Sembach, Germany.

The wedding will be held at the First Baptist Church of McDowell Christmas Day, December 25, at 4 p.m. The gracious custom of open church will be observed.

Facts You Should Know On Food and Nutrition

JUST THE FACTS—Susan Spain, a registered dietitian with the Dairy & Nutrition Council, answers some frequently asked questions on food and nutrition.

QUESTION: Is it true that frozen vegetables can be just as nutritious a choice as fresh ones?

ANSWER: This is a question that comes to mind as we see the last of the summer garden! Fresh vegetables are the quality choice for peak flavor and nutrition, but frozen vegetables are a great alternative.

The longer the time span from garden to table, the more opportunity there is for the environment to affect the quality of fresh produce. Air, temperature changes, water, and even light can lower the availability of some nutrients, especially Vitamin C. Fresh produce in the supermarket has probably suffered many abuses from the time of picking to the day of purchase.

According to the processors, frozen vegetables are rushed from farm to freezer. Food companies know that the quality of their product depends on quick and careful handling. Concern for such factors as color, texture, and flavor usually means nutrients are also protected and kept close to the quality of well-handled fresh produce.

Choose fresh or frozen vegetables with confidence, but look for signs of mishandling at the supermarket. Fresh produce should have no signs of wilting or drying out since water loss indicates possible nutrient loss. Shop where frozen foods are handled with care. Limp, discolored packages, food shifted to one end, and frost-covered wrappings may indicate the food was thawed and refrozen.

Finally, what you do at home can do more to lose nutrient value than any middleman! Learn to handle both fresh and frozen vegetables with care. Either way, they offer variety and nutrition.

QUESTION: Is it true chocolate can greatly affect the calcium available in foods?

ANSWER: The answer to this question is a qualified no. The presence of chocolate can affect the amount of calcium available, but the end result should not be a great loss.

Chocolate contains small amounts of a substance known as oxalic acid, something that is found in other foods including certain vegetables. In the body, oxalic acid can combine with calcium. This is a natural process that prevents a small amount of the calcium from doing the work it is intended to do. The remaining calcium is still available.

An example is the popular beverage chocolate milk, a high calcium food. Studies have shown that less than one percent of the 280 milligrams of calcium available in eight ounces of chocolate milk is affected. That means about three milligrams of calcium is attached to the oxalic acid found in the chocolate but at least 275 milligrams of calcium is still available to contribute to health and nutrition.

As always, the key to good nutrition is remembering that variety, balance, and moderation are important.

Mark Russell Comedy, Dec. 16 Plus Sherpa Special on KET

With the rousing backdrop of his star-spangled, barrelhouse piano, comedian Mark Russell lashes into official pomposity and pinpoints the utterly outrageous with a wit as deft as a neurosurgeon's scalpel.

A new "Mark Russell Comedy Special" airs Wednesday, December 16, at 8 p.m. on KET. Russell lets his barbs fly in the form of droll commentary that usually ends with a tart twist. And he belts out parodies, based on well-known or original tunes that start out softly cynical and wind up bringing forth rounds of laughter from the audience at the Katharine Cornell Theatre, a theatre-in-the-round at the State University of New York at Buffalo.

Immediately following Mark Russell, KET airs a documentary that focuses on Sherpas, the indigenous people of the Mount Everest region of Nepal. "Sherpa," a 30-minute special, explores the fragile culture of the Sherpas and analyzes the impact of Westerners on the traditional Sherpa lifestyle.

"Sherpa" tells the story of Nima Tenzing and his family. They are members of the legendary race of Sherpas, made famous by the Sherpa Tenzing Norgay who first climbed Mount Everest with Sir Edmund Hillary in 1953.

The U.S. Labor Department found $40.6 million due to 167,401 workers as a result of minimum wage violations during the 1986 fiscal year, according to the department's annual report.

RESERVING SPACE FOR SUPERPLANTS

Researchers are cultivating super strains of lettuce, wheat, potatoes and other common plants, which may one day feed the first colonists in space. So far, they've increased crop yields, cut the growing season for wheat in half and produced mature leaf lettuce in as few as 19 days. According to National Wildlife magazine, the U.S. should be capable of putting a food-growing module into space by the year 2000.

AICR Offers Free Cancer Calendar

Feel Great in '88 is both the title and the message behind the American Institute for Cancer Research's new 1988 health tips calendar. Its colorful format provides a collection of recipes, health information and practical suggestions for healthier living.

Using colorful, light-hearted illustrations and easy-to-understand health information, the calendar provides a variety of information for a healthier lifestyle. Because the American Institute for Cancer Research focuses its research and education programs on reducing cancer risk through diet and nutrition, many of the health tips, including recipes, provide easy-to-follow nutritional information for lower cancer risk.

But the calendar also provides a variety of other health information, including pointers on stress reduction and on the positive effects of sensible exercise programs. The practical advice given can provide a good basis for a healthy start to each day.

Feel Great in '88 is part of the education program of the American Institute for Cancer Research, a national, non-profit cancer organization which provides educational information on cancer and cancer prevention, and which funds cancer research at hospitals and universities across the country.

Although there is no charge for this special calendar, the Institute is requesting a donation, if possible, to help support its research and education programs. A copy of the calendar may be ordered by writing to the American Institute for Cancer Research, Dept. FG88, Washington, D.C. 20069.

Nearly 60,000 Kentucky households received Aid to Families with Dependent Children in each of the past two fiscal years, according to the Department for Social Insurance. This year AFDC benefits in Kentucky will total $147 million.

Holiday Depression Is Not Uncommon

Traditionally the holiday season is associated with times of good cheer and friendly feelings. The reality, however, is there is often something else—depression.

Sam Quick, family life specialist for the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service, said depression is a rather common phenomenon at this time of the year.

"There are a lot of reasons for it, but the main one is that often we have unrealistic expectations of the holiday season," Quick said. "There's a buildup that lasts at least a month and a half, and then, boom, it's over, and sometimes it's not what we had built it up to be."

Quick said popular images such as those sometimes promoted on television may paint an unrealistic image of perfect families which create an "ideal" holiday situation that often cannot be achieved. The reason is that for many people, a large family gathering can be depressing because of internal problems such as illness, death, divorce or certain family members simply not getting along with each other.

Other major reasons for depression, he said, are loneliness the financial burdens of Christmas shopping and even disappointment over the presents received.

Alcohol consumption goes up during the holidays, Quick said, which can compound the problem. "When a person who is already depressed takes a depressant drug, the problems can multiply," he said.

Quick said anyone is susceptible to holiday depression, regardless of age, sex or background.

"It generally affects people who feel they have a lack of control over their lives," he said. "When things are going wrong and they feel powerless and don't have anyone to turn to or confide in, it sets in. "These are often people without a strong social network, be it family or friends. It doesn't mean you need a lot of friends, but you need someone who will be there for you."

Quick said one of the best ways to combat holiday depression is by doing some activity with other people.

"Visit a nursing home; go to a holiday church service; sing Christmas carols; it's a lot harder to be depressed when you're doing something with a lot of happy people."

"The important thing is to have a more positive attitude. You want to be

GRETHEL HOMEMAKERS NEWS

The Grethel Homemakers held their annual Christmas nibble party, December 1 at the Grethel Baptist Church Annex. Foods served included Christmas skillet cookies, snowballs, chocolate nut clusters, chocolate covered pretzels with nuts, potato chip cookies, peanut butter cookies with Hershey Kiss center, cheese and dried beef log, crackers and cauliflower with onion dip. Each homemaker took home samples of the refreshments.

The group voted to use the Homemakers' Fund for the annex curtains, and Barbara C. Newman and Shirley Hamilton volunteered to sew the curtains.

Present were Arietta Hall, Shirley Hamilton, Barbara C. Newman, Glenna Evans, Flora Tackett, and Eileen Martin.

realistic about your situation but at the same time look at what you have rather than what you don't."

Depression is usually relatively minor, Quick said, but sometimes it is quite serious and can be biochemically related. He recommended consulting a physician or mental health professional for extreme or extended bouts.

ARIES

(March 21-April 20)

Develop an immediate sense of what must be done within partnership matters this week. It will certainly affect your income.

TAURUS

(April 21-May 20)

It seems that you are needed in several places at this time. However, your own projects must come first now.

GEMINI

(May 21-June 20)

Close to the heart matters invade your existence as only they can. And you may be off and running in several directions.

CANCER

(June 21-July 22)

Before you become too involved in a certain undertaking, review just what is now taking place in your home life.

LEO

(July 23-Aug. 22)

Pace yourself and what you say to others, including close ties. An element of deception may be right on the horizon now.

VIRGO

(Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Take your time and decipher money matters during this cycle. This must be done before you can say another word.

LIBRA

(Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

This is your kind of week. Calls, conferences and money are all featured and you are in the midst of it all.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 23-Nov. 22)

Review and research at the start of week. In this way, you'll be totally prepared for vital developments by midweek.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

Distractions are all around you during this extremely busy time: That's fine, but remember work still exists in your life.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

See to it that others are aware of your feelings now, especially in your working environment. Avoid, however, any confrontation.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

Be careful that you don't overshoot the mark in your enthusiasm and get ahead of yourself.

PISCES

(Feb. 19-March 20)

Your brand of insight will guide you through what could otherwise be a turbulent week. Money and plans are highlighted.

Series Views Apartheid On KET Beginning Dec. 14

After nearly four decades of apartheid—a policy of racial separation and white rule imposed by the Afrikaner government—South Africa today is dominated by perpetual rebellion and repression.

To help Kentuckians understand what is happening in South Africa today, KET airs "Apartheid—A Special Frontline Series with Judy Woodruff." The five-part special premieres Monday, December 14 and airs Monday through Friday at 11:30.

The five-part series traces 400 years of South Africa's racial history—from the early battles between Afrikaner and African, through decades of British domination, to the creation of apartheid, up to the development of the black resistance movement and the latest attempt to reconcile blacks and whites.

Parts I-IV of "Apartheid" were produced by a team of nine experienced documentary makers from England's Granada Television. Over several months in 1985 and 1986, working without the cooperation of the South African government and under severe press censorship, the Granada team struggled to gather interviews and rare archival footage to create "Apartheid."

This extraordinary historical series details the major events, forces and leaders who guided South Africa from the early settlements in 1652 to 1986. The series provides viewers with a thorough understanding of the roots of today's black activism and the white government's oscillation between reform and repression. The story is told with full range of South African voices—from black miners to white ministers, black rebels to white racists, compliant black cheftains to liberal white businessmen.

Part V of "Apartheid," produced by "Frontline," documents the historic meetings in July, 1987, between liberal dissident white Afrikaners and leaders from the exiled black African National Congress (ANC). The meetings, outlawed in South Africa, were held in the West African countries of Senegal, Burkina-Faso and Ghana. During eight days of forbidden talks, the black and white South Africans confronted the issues and each other.

"Frontline" is produced by a consortium of public television stations: KCTS/Seattle, WGBH/Boston, WNET/New York, WPBT/Miami, and WTVS/Detroit.

Christmas Cookies...

Good-For-You Goodies

From the American Institute for Cancer Research

While many baked goods tend to be high in fat; it doesn't always have to be that way. Lower fat cookies can be just as tasty, but remember that lower fat doesn't necessarily mean low-calorie.

Try making your cookie recipes with only one-half to three-quarters as much fat (butter, shortening, margarine, etc.) as usual. Experiment with including one or two of your favorite dried fruits for added flavor and nutrition. When possible, substitute whole grain flour for all purpose flour.

MERINGUE FINGER COOKIES

These light-as-air cookies are made with no fat at all!

- 3 egg whites, at room temperature
- 1/4 tsp. cream of tartar
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tsp. vanilla extract

In a small bowl at high speed, beat the egg whites and cream of tartar until soft peaks form. Gradually add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition until sugar is dissolved. Add vanilla and continue beating until stiff, glossy peaks form. Heat oven to 200 degrees. Line cookie sheets with brown wrapping paper or foil.

Spoon meringue into decorating bag with medium star tube. Pipe into 3-inch by 3/4-inch fingers, about 1 inch apart on cookie sheets. Bake 1 hour or until set.

Cool on cookie sheets on wire racks for 10 minutes, then carefully loosen and remove cookies from the cookie sheet with a spatula, and allow to cool completely on wire racks. This recipe will yield about 30 cookies, with each containing only 14 calories and no fat.

HOLIDAY SPICE DROPS

Soft, moist and spicy, these pumpkin drop cookies are delicious "as is" or capped with a lemon glaze.

- 2 1/2 tbsp. margarine
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1/4 cup packed brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 3/4 cup cooked, strained pumpkin (or 5 ounces canned)
- 1/2 tsp. vanilla
- 3/4 cup whole wheat flour
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- 1/4 tsp. baking soda
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 1/4 tsp. nutmeg
- 1/4 tsp. ginger
- 1/2 cup raisins
- Lemon Glaze (recipe follows, optional)

In mixing bowl, cream shortening with sugars. Beat in eggs, pumpkin and vanilla. Sift flour, baking soda and spices into bowl and mix. Stir in raisins. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased baking sheets. Bake in 375 degree oven 12 to 15 minutes. Cool; frost with Lemon Glaze or serve plain.

Lemon Glaze: In mixing bowl, blend 1 tablespoon soft margarine, 1 cup sifted powdered sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1 tablespoon grated lemon peel. Add enough milk to make a thin glaze (about 1 tablespoon). This recipe makes about 3 dozen 2-inch cookies. Each cookie contains one gram of fat and 37 calories unglazed, or 59 calories glazed.

("Good Food/Good Health" is provided by the American Institute for Cancer Research, Washington, D.C. 20069. Recipes are reviewed by Karen Collins, M.S., R.D.)

The average weekly earnings of production workers in manufacturing industries rose from $399.19 in July to $400.60 in August.

Nursing Staff Workshop Set at MSU, Dec. 10-11

Morehead State University's Continuing Education for Nursing and Allied Health professionals will offer a workshop for nursing educators and nursing administrators, Thursday and Friday, Dec. 10-11.

The workshop, entitled "Computer Technology and Nursing," will include an overview of the computer, a review of microcomputers and their applications in nursing, and computer applications in nursing administration, practice, education, research and community health.

Dr. Virginia Saba, member of the graduate faculty at Georgetown University School of Nursing in Washington, D.C., will conduct the two-day session.

All participants will receive continuing education units from MSU. Nurses will receive 12 contact hours from the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

The cost of the workshop includes refreshments and handouts. Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m., Thursday, in the Eagle Room, Adron Doran University Center. Laboratory work will be completed in Reed Hall 426.

Best Tillage System Depends On Soil and Weather Conditions

The advent of chemical weed control in the 1950s and the growth of conservation tillage in the 1960s and '70s has fueled a continuing debate about which tillage system is best—conventional, minimum or no-till.

Farmers and researchers have since learned that no one tillage system can hold the title of "best" under all conditions. Soil type, weather, topography, crops and individual farming goals influence tillage performance. Because of this, tillage choices always have to be site-specific.

"If there is one common thread to follow in choosing a tillage system, it's economics," says Dr. Richard Johnson, senior scientist at the Deere & Company technical center in Moline, Illinois. "Short-term cashflow has to be balanced against long-term soil maintenance."

"A good tillage system should produce profitable crops while also controlling water and wind erosion. It must also be able to incorporate fertilizers, herbicides and pesticides without endangering soil or groundwater supplies."

"Tillage choices can be complex, so the best way to start is by defining the overall goal," says Johnson. "The fundamental objective is to control pests while conditioning the soil for planting."

"Tillage tools and crop chemicals are simply the means to an end. They can be used in any combination. It's important to pick tillage tools with the most flexibility to meet changing conditions. What works one year might be all wrong the next."

Johnson stresses that only a broad range of knowledge and keen observation of advancing tillage technology will help the successful farm manager make the right choices.

"Keep crop yield records and calculate net profits, then relate them to tillage techniques used and the actual costs of production. Jot down field notes on any soil erosion problems or weed infestations you see developing on your farm."

"If you change or reduce tillage, make certain that additional chemical costs for pest control don't cut into your net profits."

"Follow local university literature on new tillage methods, but don't assume that every hot new tillage tip necessarily has a place on your farm."

"If you see a new technique that seems promising, try it on a limited scale. See how it works for you before totally committing to it. Don't commit just because a neighbor or some article says it's the thing to do," Johnson cautions. "Don't be afraid to try something new."

"But leave the 'great tillage debate' in the coffee shop. Anyone who rigidly believes that one particular tillage system beats all others is headed for trouble."

"No-till, for example, can lead to insect and weed problems. Excessive conventional tillage can contribute to soil erosion. Minimum tillage can sometimes lead to reduced crop yields. Yet each of these systems can also offer great advantages in particular situations," Johnson says.

Glenn Olson, manager of tillage and planting equipment planning for Deere & Company, agrees: "As new tillage systems evolve, follow them closely and determine any possible advantages over what you are now doing. Tillage tools are continually improving, and what was impossible last year may well be developed into a successful technique two or three years from now. Keep up with what's going on—it's a dynamic industry.

"One technique that looks promising is rotating tillage practices, such as we rotate crops. Mix different tillage practices together. Switch to disking or field cultivating and leave a lot of surface residue to help control erosion, but then every few years, switch back to deeper tillage with the moldboard plow or chisel plow to incorporate nutrients and control shallow germinating weeds."

"Maybe use a moldboard plow following corn, then the next year, try no-till following soybeans. In wheat country, alternate deep tillage in the fall with deep tillage in the spring. Don't be afraid to mix your techniques. Use whatever farming tools you have to best advantage for the season and the conditions."

"Tillage choices are complex and the selection of techniques has to change as nature changes, or as economic change," Olson says. "Change is the one constant. Whether we're agricultural engineers or farmers, we all have to continue to adapt. That's what makes farming challenging and rewarding."

THE SEARCH IS ON FOR CANCER-FIGHTING PLANTS

Under contract with the National Cancer Institute, botanists are securing the world's tropical forests for plants with cancer-fighting potential. According to International Wildlife magazine, the goal of the search is to find other plants as useful as the rosy periwinkle, which has yielded two powerful drugs against childhood leukemia, and the Pacific yew, which is showing promise against the deadly skin cancer, melanoma.

Univ. Journal Explores Effects Of Radiation

Thomas Coohill, a professor of physics and biology at Western Kentucky University, is the featured guest on this month's edition of "University Journal." This half-hour public affairs series focuses on events and issues of higher education and airs Monday, December 21 at 9:30 p.m. on KET.

Join host Dr. David Lee, history professor at Western Kentucky University, as he speaks with Coohill about his work at a Jet Propulsion Lab in California. Coohill has a grant from NASA to study the effect of radiation on space travelers.

Coohill will send earthworms on a future space shuttle flight in order to study the effects of radiation on several generations of earthworms. Coohill plans to study the changes and possibly come up with some theories about the effect of radiation on humans.

Premature Parenthood—Who Pays When Teens Have Babies?

Any Kentucky parent will testify that raising a child is a costly venture—in terms of time, energy and dollars. But when teens raise children, the costs are greater and reach beyond time and money and the immediate family.

Who bears the cost? The teen parents themselves. Their children. Society as a whole. What are the costs? A look first at the price teens pay for becoming parents too soon.

Eighty percent of pregnant teens 17 and under never finish high school, according to Ted Hanekamp of the Kentucky Department for Health Services. "In today's job market, it's not very likely that someone without a high school diploma, job skills or work experience can support themselves, much less a family," said Hanekamp, manager of the maternal and family planning branch.

Almost a quarter of the teens who have a baby become pregnant again within a year, he said, making it even more unlikely that these girls will accumulate job experience or finish their education.

Those who become fathers before 18 are about 40 percent less likely to graduate from high school, he said.

"When you look at these facts," said Hanekamp, "it's easy to see that a 16-year-old with two kids is facing a rough future. And so are those two children."

Hanekamp says that half of all teen mothers raise their children as single parents. And teen marriage is no guarantee for a stable future—they are two to three times more likely to end in divorce than marriages among older people.

"These facts should very much concern a nation that considers the family—mother, father and children—as the foundation for our society," Hanekamp said. "These young people and their children, for the most part, face a future void of a stable family life and anything but the barest necessities.

"I don't want to paint a picture so grim that it suggests that teen parents can't escape these problems," he said. "Those with very supporting families and a solid emotional background can build a future for themselves, but it takes a lot of determination and hard work."

In 1986, Kentucky teens had 9,028 live births. Hanekamp points out that Kentucky had the highest white and third highest overall percentage of teen births nationwide in 1984, the latest year for available comparable figures. The United States leads the developed world in the percentage of teen births.

Besides affecting prospects for education and employment, teenage pregnancies are associated with serious health consequences for both mother and child, Hanekamp said.

"This department's philosophy has been that we should first try to prevent teen pregnancies, which is the preferable route," he said, "while realizing that once a girl gets pregnant, she needs help to insure her baby a healthy start in life."

Consequences of teen pregnancy include a greater incidence of premature and low birth-weight babies, mental retardation and infant and maternal mortality. Pregnant teens are more likely to suffer prolonged labor. Poor eating habits among teens can complicate pregnancies.

"About 41 percent of Kentucky's teen mothers either receive prenatal care after the first three months of their pregnancy or don't have any prenatal care at all," he said. "Early and adequate prenatal care is recognized as the most important factor in having a healthy pregnancy and baby."

"In fact, physicians in this state have shown that with early and adequate prenatal care, age really doesn't matter and teens can have healthy babies," he said. "We just have to get them into early prenatal care."

Sometimes this is difficult, he said, because a teen may deny or ignore her

KET Offers A Menu Of Holiday Cooking

As you deck your halls with boughs of holly and search for gifts among crowds of holiday shoppers, don't forget an important element of the holiday season—food. In December KET tantalizes your tastebuds with programs designed to help you prepare food for your family and guests.

Novel combinations of imported and American cuisine from Polish mushroom soup to roasted chestnuts are among the highlights of "Holiday Entertaining With Martha Stewart" on Saturday, December 19 at 2:30 p.m.

Stewart, one of America's foremost chefs and author of five books on cooking and entertaining, shares some of her favorite holiday recipes. She also offers creative and practical approaches to every aspect of family entertaining including menu planning, food preparation, table setting, and seating arrangements.

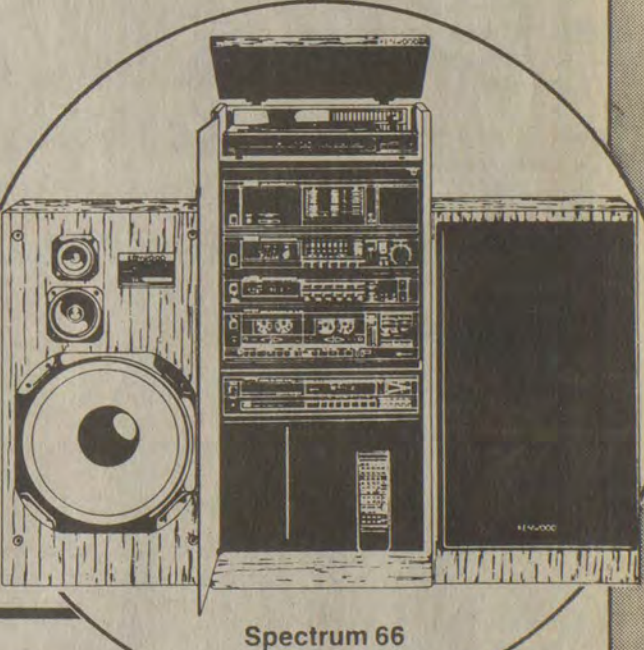

From her restored 19th century Connecticut farmhouse, Stewart demonstrates how to transform a conventional turkey with some show-stopping variations such as smoked pheasant and pastry-wrapped turkey breast. Her home-grown produce provides the inspiration for a variety of relishes, preserves, vegetable dishes, and salads. Tips on preparing hors d'oeuvres and choosing the right wine are included. A traditional pumpkin pie dessert shares the spotlight with Concord grape pie and cranberry sorbet.

Conference Makes Season High And Pressurized

Seeding versus the draw. The conference versus a preparatory season. Both are liked, and both are disliked. Each side gives strong arguments and interesting opinions for both the seeding method and the draw mystery.

Two districts in the 15th region have the draw to settle tournament pairings, while the other two seed their final tournaments.

The 58th district uses a round-robin Floyd County Conference schedule in order to set pairings for its district tournament. The conference's top two finishers are placed in difficult brackets while the third and fourth placed teams play each other in the tournament's opening game.

Unlike those districts that utilize the draw, the 58th district, through the conference, rewards those teams that build a season-long way of winning.

"It assures your number one team and your number two team of being in separate brackets," Prestonsburg coach Gordon Parido said of the conference format.

Parido, a non-believer in the draw, experienced the worst of the draw at Mullins. "When I was at Mullins, we were the number two team in the district four out of five years and four out of five years we drew Virgie in the tournament."

Virgie has long been the best team in the 59th district. Those experiences of building a contending team only to be denied a regional berth by fate of the draw has Parido looking forward to his new seeding environment.

"I had much rather have the seeding," the coach said. "I don't see any use in playing the games during the season if they're not going to count."

Parido's story is an often told one but not always one that carries a negative tone. Sometimes the luck of the draw turns out to be good luck.

"Your stronger team isn't concerned with it," Parido said of the draw. "And the weaker teams like it, because they always have the chance of a good draw and playing each other. It's the in-betweeners, your second and third teams, that end up left out."

Parido's Prestonsburg Blackcats took on the Daredevils in Prestonsburg last night to open the Floyd County Conference's regular season schedule.

"We open our conference schedule Tuesday night and to me that is a much more important game than the loss here," Parido said, comparing the importance of a conference game to one that has no bearing on the final outcome.

Unlike other draw-oriented districts, the 58th district produces an air of excitement and special interest all season long rather than just pre-season development leading up to the "real season"—the district tournament.

"The thing I don't like about the conference is that it puts pressure on you all season long. Starting in January, that's when our conference schedule starts, and all through the season the pressure is on you to perform and win," Johnny Martin, Allen Central's coach, said.

Martin, in the past two seasons, has finished as either the third or fourth placed team in the conference. That has forced the Rebels to play an extra game if they were to make a regional tournament appearance.

One year, last season, Allen Central survived all three games. The year before, they lost their second game in the district tournament to Wheelwright.

"If you're Betsy Layne you probably like the conference, because they never have to play on Wednesday, or I can't remember them playing on Wednesday," Martin said, referring to the district tournament's first game reserved for the conference's third and fourth place finishers.

An appearance on Wednesday also means that three games are a must for an advancement to the regional tournament, something Martin fears come March. The final conference standings establish who gets the gold mine seed and who gets the shaft seed.

But in the conference, unlike the draw, each team has an opportunity to settle its own seeding fate through successful play on the court rather than depending on luck.

"I experience so much during the season and that probably hurts us as far as the conference is concerned," Martin said. "I use a lot of different players, not to try to find the best players but to find the players that play the best together, and I try a lot of different things."

In preparing for the season-ending tournaments, Martin sacrifices conference wins, but four Johnny Martin teams have advanced to the regional finals. Martin doesn't always post impressive Floyd County Conference campaigns, but his tournament record tells the final tale.

"The season in high school basketball in Kentucky is the tournaments. It's tradition. It's how your success is judged and I don't like anything that takes away from that," Martin said.

The conference, though it may help the first, second, and fifth placed teams, doesn't make a regional tournament trip impossible for others.

"The idea behind it is to get the better two teams to the regional tournament. Then if a team can pull an upset they get the opportunity to go, too," Johnny Ray Turner, McDowell's first-year coach, mentioned.

There is, of course, always the pressure and excitement that Johnny Martin mentioned. Winning a regular season conference championship is an immediate step into the district tournament's top seed.

"Theoretically winning it gives you an advantage," Turner continued. "Theoretically, in this county you can't ever count anyone out."

Except maybe the third or fourth placed teams.

In the past two seasons only two teams from Wednesday night's district tournament game here survived the 58th district tourney—Rebels of last year and Lady Rebs of 1985-86.

Since the 1978-79 season the conference champion has gone to the regional tournament. That year, the Lady Blackcats won the conference title, but Allen Central and McDowell represented the district.

In boy's basketball, the last conference champion not to make the regional tournament was Allen Central of the 1976-77 season.

It has officially tipped off, this high and pressurized conference schedule, and the eventual winner and runnerup will reap the harvest of their seasonal growth—the district tournament's top two seeds.

What happens in the event of a tie? Look out, Coach Parido, here comes that dreaded draw.

McDowell Ends Drought With Tournament Title

Johnny Ray Turner stood in the middle of a noisy McDowell locker room. His attention shifted from one happy face to another as he accepted congratulations from all directions.

His face decorated with a broad grin, Turner said, "Everyone loves a winner."

For that lasting moment everyone loved Johnny Ray Turner. He represented something McDowell High School fans have waited and longed for—a winner.

The joy in their faces, the enthusiasm in their voices, it all captured the magic of the moment. It held the meaning of a success story coming true. It truly signified a community in love with its high school basketball team.

"We've got some of the best fans around," Turner said. "I really appreciate all the support from the student body, the faculty, everybody."

Through continuous seasons of one disappointment after another, the McDowell fans have finally been rewarded for their never-ending support. They were rewarded with a Pre-season Tournament championship, Saturday night.

McDowell, with their new-found way of winning basketball games, swept through the pre-season tourney and claimed the first place trophy with a 73-71 win over Allen Central in Saturday's championship game.

"It turns everything around. It puts us back on track," Turner said of the tournament title.

McDowell has been off track for several seasons. The past three years, the Daredevils won fewer than 10 games per season. In the past two years, they had won a total of one game against county competition.

Last week they won two. One was a 14-point win over Betsy Layne. That was McDowell's first win over the Bobcats since 1982.

With a full court press that completely took Betsy Layne out of their offense, and a three-point combination of Henry Webb and Dickie Joe Shannon, the Daredevils not only beat Betsy Layne, they dominated them.

"We just wanted to keep Betsy Layne from doing what they wanted to do, and that's hard to do," Turner said, explaining his defensive theory.

McDowell, Friday night against the Bobcats, placed four players in double figures offensively. Webb, a six-foot junior guard, tossed in 22 points, including two three-pointers. Dickie Joe Shannon finished with 12 points as did senior center Lance Hall. Jesse Osborne scored 11 points in the winning effort.

Duran Newsome led Betsy Layne with 13 points while Barry Hamilton and Sam Stewart finished with 11 each.

The Daredevils, trailing by two points at halftime, outscored Betsy Layne, 19-8, in the third quarter and held off a late Bobcat charge to record the victory.

McDowell, 5-0 on the season, hit three three-pointers in the third period.

And Friday night was only an indication of the outside game that would follow the next night. McDowell held Allen Central scoreless until the 4:45 mark of the first period. By that time Webb and Shannon had hit a three-pointer each, powering McDowell to a 10-0 lead.

"We came down and spotted them by 10," Johnny Martin reflected. "Just the way we came back, I was proud of them, the effort they gave."

Martin's Rebels, already having a 45-43 win over Wheelwright, weren't ready to throw in the surrender towel.

With only one second remaining on the clock and just past the mid-court stripe, Darren Conn, Allen Central's point guard, threw up a desperation shot that drew nothing but net and powered the Rebels to their first lead of the game, a 32-31 halftime advantage.

McDowell, on the strength of five three-point shots, stayed even with the Rebels, finishing the third period in a 54-54 tie.

"We hit a few three-pointers, but they did too. Duff must have had six or eight," Turner said of the newly adopted shot. "We hit 'em when we had to, but we shot some that we shouldn't have."

Todd Duff, Rebel guard, hit six three-point shots to be exact. Two of those came in the fourth quarter.

After Darren Conn opened the final frame with a three-pointer, Duff followed with another as Allen Central opened up a six-point advantage. With 5:41 left in the game, Duff canned another three-point jumper and drew a foul.

The sharpshooting junior hit the charity toss to once again put Allen Central in front by six points.

But turnovers late gave McDowell a chance to catch up, and they did exactly that. Reserve forward Rick Smith hit a pair of free throws with 3:28 remaining to put Allen Central in the lead by seven points, but the Rebels scored only one point the remainder of the game.

The Rebels committed three turnovers in those remaining 208 seconds, and McDowell took advantage of all three.

Shannon scored six of his game high 31 points in the final three minutes, and Henry Webb cashed in on both ends of a bonus free throw opportunity with 11 seconds left as the Daredevils pulled out the come-from-behind win.

Webb finished the game with 24 points, including a five for six performance from the free throw line.

"We missed a lot of free throws and that hurt us," Johnny Martin said. "Last year we were a good free throw shooting team. This year we're a bad free throw shooting team, and McDowell is a good one."

"In close games, you have to hit your free throws if you're going to win close games consistently. Tonight we didn't, and McDowell did."

McDowell connected on nine of their 11 opportunities from the foul line, and Allen Central hit 14 of 26.

The Rebels were led in scoring by Duff, who had 21 points. Robbie Click and Joey Conn scored 15 points each, and Darren Conn finished with 10.

McDowell had only three players to reach double figures. Shannon had 31, Webb finished with 24, and Lenny Hall added 12.

"We've got room for improvement," Turner said. "We did a lot of things that we shouldn't have, but I guess that's just part of our game."

Although the first year McDowell coach is quick to point out the tough competition that his team faced in the Pre-season Tournament, Turner said that he felt his team could play as well as they wanted to coming into the tourney.

Former Blackcat Receives High Post Season Praise

Pete Greene, a former standout football player at Prestonsburg High School, was recently honored for his personal accomplishments during the 1987 gridiron season.

Greene, now a tight end for the Union College Bulldogs, was named as an all-district and all-conference performer.

He was named to the all-district team for the 24th and 32nd districts plus being honored as a member of the Mid-South all-conference team. Both honors included being named to the first team.

Greene was selected all-district from division 11 colleges in southeastern Kentucky and northeastern Tennessee. The Mid-South Conference includes teams from three different states.

"That's two years in a row that he's made all-district and all-conference," Bulldog coach, John Ross, said. "And he was uncontested by anybody as far as tight ends are concerned."

And as far as tight ends go, John Ross thinks he has one of the nation's best.

"The all-American team is supposed to be out sometime this week, and it wouldn't surprise me to see Pete Greene's name on that list," Ross said.

Greene, the leading receiver in the 24th and 32nd districts combined, caught 52 passes this past season. The 6'2", 205-pounder averaged over 10 yards per catch and five catches per game.

In two seasons at Union, Greene has caught a total of 79 passes for almost 1,000 yards. Last year he averaged over 14 yards per catch.

Both of those years, Greene was named to the all-district team, and according to Ross, the best is yet to come.

"We've been trying for the past two years to move Pete outside, but we've just not had anyone to take over that tight end spot," Ross said. "Now we've got someone, and if you thought he was good before just wait 'till we move him out to split. You'll see something awesome then."

The Union coaching staff is expected to make that move in time for the 1988 fall camp.

"He will have so much more room to roam. He'll be able to use his speed more and do a lot more things. He'll be even better next year," Ross predicted.

As a senior at Prestonsburg, Greene received all-state consideration and impressed several college scouts as both an offensive and defensive performer. At Union it has been strictly offense and both sides has reaped the benefits.

Greene finished the 1986 campaign as the Bulldogs second leading receiver, and his 52 receptions this year led the Union team.

"Pete Greene is an outstanding student and an outstanding leader," Ross praised. "He's a great kid with a great attitude. His work habits, his leadership, his attitude, if there is a model athlete, then he is a model athlete."

Greene was joined on the all-district squad by fellow Bulldogs Mike Jones, wide receiver, Tim George, lineman, and Matt Quick, punter.

Greene, a sophomore, was the only Union player chosen to the all-conference's first team. Larry Salyer, of Johnson Central, Mike Jones and Vince Turpin were selected to the second team offensively.

Rob Gabriel and John Burden were second team defensive picks. A total of seven Bulldog players received honorable mention honors. Matt Quick was also an all-conference selection from Union.

Prestonsburg High School also gave Union College Donnie Ray, a starting defensive lineman for the Bulldogs.

Like Greene, Ray is a 1986 graduate of PHS and a starter for the Union Bulldogs.

"Donnie is starting to really show what we've expected from him all along," Ross said of his sophomore defensive lineman. "In defense of our linemen, it really takes them about two years to get the system down."

Ray started his first game as a Bulldog in Union's last game last season. This year the former Blackcat offensive and defensive performer started eight of the school's 10 games and played linebacker in one outing.

Ross is quick to point out his high expectations of Donnie Ray, as well as of the future football prospects at Union College.

"We haven't learned here yet how to give it that little extra that it takes to be a champion," Ross said of his current program. "We haven't learned how to play over our heads, and that's what it takes to become a champion, playing over your heads and winning games you're not supposed to win."

"They go through the motions of off-season conditioning, but they don't give it that little extra and come back stronger and quicker. I think that they now know what it takes. I think you will see a different Union College team next year."

The Bulldogs were chosen as one of the nation's top 20 teams, but Ross thought then that being rated 19th in the country was a bit high. His 2-8 record this past season proved it, too.

"I told them that when they ranked us 19th that they must be smoking something funny," Ross said. "We were just too young. When you have good recruiting years back to back those young kids come in and take other people's positions and you don't have the luxury of a senior class."

"We were a good year away from being a good football team."

"Call me Murphy," Ross said. "Everything that could go wrong did go wrong. We lost Burly (Burkhart) after two games, and we lost two guys from our secondary, and we lost a starting linebacker. We had 15 surgeries, and we were counting on to make a strong contribution."

Ross and Union are expected to bounce back with a more successful campaign in 1988. Greene and Ray figure to be two reasons why.

Ross is looking for other reasons. "We love recruiting in the mountains, and we'll be up there this year. I was really impressed with some of the Pikeville kids and others from that area," Ross mentioned.

NFL News And Notes

Upsets will come and upsets will go. Cinderella makes her run then it all settles down again. The surprise teams make a brief appearance in the playoff race and bow out early.

Soon the turbulence is over, the ride smooths, and out in front are those familiar faces ready to ride the crest into post season play.

One new face, though, has refused to take an early exit off the playoff parkway. And they had never been down that road before.

The New Orleans Saints, with a 44-34 victory over Tampa Bay, Saturday, clinched their first playoff spot ever. The Saints, 9-3, will at least be a wild card team.

New Orleans, although they have won six games in a row, trail San Francisco by one game in the NFC West. The 49ers kept their top divisional position alive with 23-12 win in Green Bay.

Joe Montana, the 49ers veteran quarterback, completed his first 17 pass attempts to establish a new NFL consecutive completion record.

The week before Montana had finished the game against Cleveland by connecting on his final five attempts. He continued that Sunday, stretching it to 22 before throwing an incomplete pass.

The victory improved San Francisco to 10-2. This week, though, they play another 10-2 club in the Chicago Bears. While the 49ers and Bears battle Monday night, New Orleans will be at home entertaining Houston.

With a San Francisco loss and a New Orleans win, the two teams would be tied in more ways than one. They have played twice this season. The 49ers won the first encounter, 24-22, in week seven. Week 10 saw the Saints get their revenge, 26-24.

They have scored the exact number of points against each other. They have the same number of losses in the division. San Francisco has two divisional matchups remaining, one against Atlanta and the other in San Francisco against the Los Angeles Rams.

The Saints have Houston, Green Bay, and Cincinnati left on their schedule.

Both teams have already locked up playoff positions, but they still have to settle the question of who will go as a wild card team and who gets the divisional title.

It also remains to be seen as to who will host the NFC playoffs. That goes to the team with the best record, which could be settled Monday night when the Bears and 49ers play.

Chicago not only improved to 10-2, Sunday, they also clinched their fourth consecutive Central Division title with their 30-24 victory over Minnesota.

The Vikings, in the running for a wild card spot, fell out of the divisional championship race. With a 7-5 record, Minnesota could finish in a tie if they win their last three games, and Chicago would lose their last three. But even so, Chicago still gets the title because of their two earlier victories over the Vikings.

Chicago, in week five, dumped Minnesota's replacement team 27-7 and then proved they could beat the Vikings regularly as well, winning this past week despite three Wade Wilson touchdown passes.

Minnesota, at 7-5, is one of the two teams most likely to capture a wild card playoff spot. The closest team to the Vikings include four teams who are all 5-7.

With a 21-point performance in the third quarter, Washington improved to 9-3 and won another division championship all in the same final outcome.

The closest team to the Redskins in the East is three-fourths of the remainder of the division. Dallas, Philadelphia, and St. Louis are all 5-7 and out of the East race.

The playoff participants are set in the NFC. All that is undecided is who will go as what, and only one division, the West, has that left to be decided.

The AFC, though, is quite the opposite. With only three games remaining in the regular season schedule the AFC has more teams still in the playoff race than teams that are out of the playoff race.

Only Kansas City, 2-10, Los Angeles, 5-7, and Cincinnati, 4-8, are gone from the playoff picture. The rest of the conference is challenging for one of the five post-season positions.

The AFC Central, the closest of all the divisions, has three of its four teams in first place. Cleveland, Pittsburgh, and Houston are all 7-5 as a result of some upsets in week 13.

Indianapolis, now a legitimate contender instead of a Cinderella team, defeated the Browns 9-7 in Cleveland, breaking a Colt 16-year losing streak.

Never in Indianapolis and not since 1971 in Baltimore had the Colts won in Cleveland, but Sunday three field goals were enough to do in the Browns.

Cleveland, 7-5, has lost their last two games and now find themselves in a three-way fight for the division's top spot.

Houston and Pittsburgh both took full advantage of the latest Browns loss. And the AFC West suffered as much as Cleveland did.

The Oilers whipped San Diego 33-18, handing the Chargers their third straight loss and dropping them from the number one position in the Western Division.

Pittsburgh, continuing to keep their playoffs alive, upset Seattle in the steel city 13-9. With the loss the Sea Hawks dropped one game and a half behind Denver.

The Broncos, 2-3-1 after their first six games, drilled New England 31-20 Sunday and claimed sole possession of first place. Denver plays at Seattle this week.

New England, with the loss, dropped to 5-7 on the season and fell to fifth place in the AFC East. The Patriots, tied for first place two weeks ago, have lost two straight and three of their last four games.

They now trail division leader Indianapolis by two games. The Colts, on the strength of their win over Cleveland, own the undisputed lead for one of the few times this season.

The Colts were given sole possession of the East's top spot because Los Angeles defeated Buffalo, 34-21, as Marc Wilson threw for over 300 yards and three touchdowns.

Miami also gave Indianapolis a big boost by beating the New York Jets Monday night. Dan Marino threw a touchdown pass to tight end Dan Johnson, and Troy Stradford ran for three scores as the Dolphins roared out to a 27-0 halftime lead.

After that it was merely coast time for Miami as they defeated the Jets, 37-28.

Two intra-divisional games may clear up the East's picture. Indianapolis plays at home against Buffalo. The Jets and Patriots are scheduled to play in Foxboro.

Elsewhere around the NFL from week 13; Vinny Testaverde established a new mark for most yards passing in a single game by a rookie. Testaverde, starting his first game for Tampa Bay, threw for 369 yards, bettering Steve Grogan's rookie mark by four yards...The Philadelphia Eagles led New York 20-6 but eventually lost 23-20 in overtime, stretching the Giants' winning streak to six over Philadelphia...Jim Everett threw for 324 yards and three touchdowns as Los Angeles made it four wins in a row...Tex Schramm, Dallas GM, called the Cowboys' 21-10 loss to Atlanta the low point of his professional career...Steve Largent, with a catch against Pittsburgh, improved his consecutive catch streak to 149 games. That is the longest such streak of all time.

NO PLACE TO GO: Robbie Click looks to get this shot off but Wheelwright's Jason Cook has other ideas. Cook had three blocked shots but Allen Central won by two points.

SHORT SPORTS

The Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference announced its annual football all-conference teams and four county players were selected to the list of players being honored.

Steve Cole, a senior defensive end, was named to the all-conference defensive squad. Cole represented Wheelwright High School. Another Trojan, offensive tackle Brad Moore, received all-conference honors. Moore was named to the offensive team.

Wheelwright also holds rights to the specialty team player of the year. Vic Cotton, a 5'11" 180-pound running back, received that honor. During the season Cotton, a junior, returned three kicks for touchdowns and returned a blocked punt for another score.

Allen Central placed two players on the all-conference teams. Darren Conn, a senior quarterback, was selected as a member of the offensive team, and Anthony Redrick, a senior linebacker, was named to the defensive squad.

Henry Webb, of McDowell High School, and Sandy Flannery, of Betsy Layne, were the leading scorers of the recent Floyd County Conference Pre-season Tournament.

Webb, a deadly shooter from three-point range, scored 46 points in two games, while Flannery poured in 58 in three games.

Webb, a junior guard, hit seven three-pointers in the two tournament games. He also won the individual free throw trophy, and McDowell captured the team trophy.

The McDowell cheerleaders received the men's cheerleading award, and Allen Central was given the runner-up trophy.

Yolanda Keathley earned the women's individual free throw trophy, and Betsy Layne captured the team trophy.

Betsy Layne won the cheerleading trophy for the women's division, and McDowell received the runner-up award.

award, and in 1936, Larry Kelley, an end from Yale, was voted the Heisman winner.

The University of Kentucky, thanks to solid play on their behalf and some help from Vanderbilt, is now the number one rated college basketball team in the country.

The Wildcats, rated number two behind North Carolina, defeated Indiana, 82-76, in overtime Saturday. The Cats were led in scoring by Ed Davender with 22 points and Rex Chapman with 20.

While Kentucky was busy beating up on Indiana, Vanderbilt was showing number one North Carolina some of that not-so-friendly SEC hospitality.

Will Purdue, Vandy's talented center, scored 23 points as the Commodores upset North Carolina, 78-76, Saturday.

The Vandy win, coupled with the Wildcats' victory in Indianapolis, allowed Kentucky to move ahead of North Carolina in the polls and into the number one slot.

UK's next game is Saturday at home against Louisville, who opened their season Saturday with a 69-54 loss to Notre Dame.

Kentucky is 3-0 on the season, and Louisville is 0-1.

The 1987 Jenny Wiley Invitational Tournament will be held this week at the Prestonsburg High School Fieldhouse. The tournament, featuring six teams from two regions, will tip off Thursday and run through Saturday night.

The host Prestonsburg Blackcats will play in the tournament's opening round, taking of Mullins Thursday at 6:30.

Allen Central and Greenup County, ranked third in the 16th region, are scheduled to play in the second game, starting at 8:15.

Friday night Morgan County, at 6:30, will play the winner of Thursday's first game and Sheldon Clark will meet the winner of the Allen Central-Greenup County game.

The consolation game is scheduled for 6:30 Saturday with the championship game following at 8:15.

Poolplayers Advance In National Tourney

Top amateur poolplayers from 5 states are headed to Louisville to compete in the national qualifying round of the $100,000 Busch Pool League National Singles Championship Tournament, the richest of its kind in the nation.

In all, more than 55 poolplayers will chalk up at the Back Door Lounge, 1250 Bardstown Road on December 12-13.

Each of the competitors earned a berth in the national qualifier by battling off elimination in local contests.

"The players who are going to the national qualifying round represent the best of what was an original field of 5,000 poolplayers," said Terry Bell, president of the American Poolplayers Association, which sanctions the Busch Pool League.

The Louisville national qualifier is one of 11 being held nationwide. In all, 64 men and 32 women poolplayers will earn a shot to compete in the tournament finals, held January 28-31 in Orlando, Florida.

The Orlando championship will feature first place prize money of $10,000 and $7,000 respectively, for the men's and women's divisions.

This is the second year for the Busch Pool League Singles tournament. The competition features a unique, copyrighted handicapping system designed to allow players of all skill levels to compete fairly against each other.

The system utilizes a formula that measures offensive scoring ability by counting the number of turns, or innings, it takes a player to win a game. The result is a handicap of how many games a player must win to capture a match.

The Sporting Times

It is more than just a basketball game. Its interest, although involving two in-state schools, goes far beyond the boundaries of Kentucky.

But it is unexplainable, a basketball phenomenon that goes beyond the realm of realization and into a higher stratosphere of intensity, excitement, and pressure.

It is consistently one of the most visible basketball games of the season. It rates as a major advertising buy because all college basketball fans try to watch it.

Louisville vs. Kentucky? Kentucky vs. Louisville?

This is only one question that the two schools try to answer. Who is the Bluegrass state's top basketball school?

It depends mostly on your geographical location, favorite color, and all that important stuff.

The two schools haven't enjoyed the benefits of a continuous yearly meeting for long, but this rivalry has been at a high point for the longest of times.

Even though they now play only one game a year, the battle is kept alive by fans the year 'round. Its never dying competition keeps fans working with words, numbers, and facts and figures.

They love to get one up on the other. But here only one stat overrules all others, the final score of the basketball game between Kentucky and Louisville.

It doesn't hurt that both schools rank consistently among the nation's best basketball programs. It doesn't hurt that both schools always have some of the best players in the country.

It doesn't hurt that each loves to hate the other, but most importantly and above all else, it doesn't hurt that pride in their basketball teams runs deeper than the ocean and stands taller than the Redwood tree.

Who is best? Right now the University of Kentucky is. They won the battle last year, and in impressive style.

Actually the 'Cats embarrassed Louisville, 85-51, on national television last year. Kentucky shot 54.2 percent for that game, including 11 of 17 from three-point land. The Cardinals struggled early, shot lousy, 36 percent, and were given a whipping in their own house, Freedom Hall.

The loss was Louisville's worst in a season that saw them lose several games by a large margin. But worst of all, it came from Kentucky.

Richard Madison hauled down 17 rebounds for Kentucky, an individual season high, and Rex Chapman scored 25 points, equaling his season high.

Louisville's high scorer, a tie between Tony Kimbro and Felton Spencer, barely hit double figures, scoring 10 points. Kimbro isn't even eligible until January, and Spencer isn't even a starter.

Still they come, guided by eyes of fire and minds of optimism, up 75 for a chance at revenge. They want just one more chance to beat the Big Blue. A win would at least allow them to say that they are Kentucky's true university.

Education doesn't have anything to do with it. Neither does enrollment. This is basketball land and only through basketball can either one earn statewide respect and recognition.

It will all come to a head and probably boil over Saturday. It tips off at 1:30, but the tension has been building since last year. Fueled by pride and powered by hatred, the battle of the Bluegrass is about to lift the curtain on another act in this continuous basketball drama.

The fact that UK has been impressive in 1987 and Louisville a mirror of last season's disappointing show might have taken the edge off sharp pre-game discussions.

Nah, this is Louisville vs. Kentucky, the city trying to capture the state and the Big Blue defending its turf and its pride.

Eddie Sutton captured the hearts of all Wildcat fans early in his Kentucky career when he said that Louisville would always be UK's little brother.

Denny Crum retaliates by asking, who has won the most championships in the 1980s?

The coaches, highly publicized and as volatile as the two teams' fans, have done nothing more than add fuel to this intra-state fire that shows no signs of burning out.

There are no in-betweeners in this basketball fight. Either fans love Kentucky and hate Louisville or love Louisville and hate Kentucky.

My favorite two teams are Kentucky and whoever is playing Louisville. You could reverse the angle and it would tell the same story. These two programs do not like each other. Fans say it. Coaches agree to it, and T-shirts have been printed up with the same effects.

Most of all they love to beat each other—nothing better in the world than to beat the Cards, or the Cats.

Not many opportunities came around when you see your favorite team win and your least favorite team lose. But then there is always the worst of both worlds. So far Louisville has done little in proving their opinion that they are really Kentucky's best team. Not in these head-to-head affairs.

UK's 34-point win last year remains the highlight of their season and with it the Cats can continue their bragging rights in the Bluegrass area.

And not much is expected to change this time around.

Last year Louisville struggled because of poor guard play. Denny Crum went out and got one of the best prep guards in the nation, LaBradford Smith, but so far his product has been limited. The Cardinals have played only one game but then they failed to hit a three-pointer and fell on their faces in the Big Four Classic.

Notre Dame whipped Louisville 69-54 Saturday. The Cards once again struggled from the outside, shooting 37 percent from the floor and showed their vulnerability to a talented guard.

David Rivers poured in a career high 32 points, proving the Cardinal guards were not only punchless but also defenseless.

Kentucky, on the other side of the win-loss column, defeated Indiana in overtime. The Cats strength appears to be Louisville's weakness-guard play.

Ed Davender and Rex Chapman combined for 42 points against IU, showing why they are regarded as the best backcourt in the nation.

Rob Lock and Cedrick Jenkins scored 14 points apiece and appear poised to give the Wildcats an inside game this year. Freshman Leron Ellis is also capable of pilling up impressive offensive numbers inside.

Kentucky made the necessary adjustments needed for improvement. Louisville apparently didn't. The Cats have been impressive this year. The Cards haven't.

It all points toward another big Wildcat victory. But who knows when these two teams play. Emotions collide, intensity soars. The battle is about to begin but the war may never end.

The Red Rocker

"The Red Rocker" Carlos Reynolds was back in town in wrestling action again last Saturday night in Virgie at "The Holiday Bash"!

Reynolds squared off against "The Dirty White Boy" Tim Powell. The battle went on for 9 mins. 48 sec., then Reynolds (The Red Rocker) ended the match with the D.O.T. on Tim Powell.

"The Rocker" saw a lot of action that night as he was in a second match after being challenged by "The New York Doll." Later "The Rocker" was part of a lumberjack match where he almost squared off against "Hangman" Bobby Jagers. But he did get his lumps in on Jagers, as Jagers left the ring once.

Other matches that night had "The other "New York Doll" over Randy Caudill; Candi Divine over Lisa Crockett; Rick Newsome over "Dirty White Boy" Jim Powell; Bill Ash over Bobby Jagers in the lumberjack match; and "Exotic" Adrain Street and Bill Ash against The Dolls and The Dirty White Boys in a handicapped match that ended in a double disqualification.

Tim Brown, a wide receiver and kick returner for Notre Dame, won the Heisman Trophy, Saturday, easily outdistancing Syracuse quarterback Don McPherson, who finished second.

Gordie Lockbaum, a two-way player from Holy Cross, finished third in the balloting. Lorenzo White, Michigan State's explosive tailback, ended up fourth, and Craid Heyward, the leading rusher in the nation, came in fifth.

Heyward is a 280-pound tailback for Pittsburgh.

Brown was the first non-backfield performer to win the trophy since Johnny Rodgers, a flanker from Nebraska, who won the award in 1972.

Only twice before did someone other than a running back or quarterback win the Heisman Trophy. In 1949 an end from Notre Dame, Leon Hardt, won the

Betsy Layne Beats Prestonsburg Allen Central Stops Wheelwright

The Betsy Layne Bobcats defeated Prestonsburg, 72-60, Wednesday night to advance in the Floyd County Conference's Pre-season Tournament held last week at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse.

The Bobcats, led by Duran Newsome and Sam Stewart, opened up a 16-point halftime advantage and cruised to the 12-point victory.

Newsome, a 5'11" guard, tossed in a game high 17 points and Stewart, a sophomore center, added 12 points to the winning effort. Todd Sturgill and Kevin Spurlock scored six points each and Barry Hamilton checked in with five points. Keith Hall, off the bench, added eight.

The Blackcats, who trailed by 25 points at one time in the fourth quarter, placed only one player in double figures. Senior guard Freddie McCoy scored 10 points.

Tim Trusty and Todd Justice scored nine points each for Prestonsburg, and Danny Hamilton added eight.

Stewart, who scored six of his 12 points in the first quarter, hit a short jumpshot with 4:22 left in the opening quarter and 30 seconds later Todd Sturgill followed with a jumpshot that gave the Bobcats an early 12-3 lead.

Prestonsburg battled back and cut Betsy Layne's lead to four but with one second left Duran Newsome drilled a long three-pointer to put the Bobcats up by seven points at the end of the initial stanza.

Danny Hamilton, with 5:15 showing on the second quarter clock, tossed in a field goal to pull the Blackcats to within six points but Betsy Layne scored the next seven points and was never pressured again.

The Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats got 28 points from Tammy Hall and 19 points from Sandy Flannery in making it a clean sweep over Prestonsburg. The Lady Bobcats defeated the Lady Blackcats 71-60.

Prestonsburg stayed close to the Lady Bobcats, through three quarters thanks to the three-point shooting of Carolyn Short and the inside play of Karen Frasure.

Short, who finished with 15 points, hit three of five from three-point range in the first three quarters, and Frasure scored 10 of her team high 16 points during that same time.

But after trailing 41-39 going into the fourth quarter, Prestonsburg suffered from the offensive showing of Hall.

The 5'10" Lady Bobcat forward scored 19 points in that final frame. Once she scored eight consecutive Betsy Layne points and later backed that up by scoring six in a row.

Hall's 28 points represented the single game high for the tournament.

Thursday Allen Central High School enjoyed a perfect night against Wheelwright, winning both games.

In the first game, the Lady Rebs defeated the Lady Trojans, 49-43, despite not having a player reach double figures offensively.

Donna Robinson tossed in nine points to pace Allen Central's scoring attack. Jennifer Stephens added eight points to the winning effort.

Wheelwright, getting an early break when Allen Central was nailed with four technical fouls due to lineup errors, was led in scoring by April Bradford's 21 points.

Jedon Hood, with 3:21 left in the game, hit a jumpshot in the paint to cut Allen Central's lead to three points, but Wheelwright failed to score again until only 32 seconds remained.

By that time the Lady Rebs had opened up a seven-point advantage and cruised to the six-point victory.

Allen Central, in the nightcap, took advantage of a hot shooting Todd Duff to hand Wheelwright a two-point loss.

Duff scored only four points in the first half but found his shooting range in the second half to finish the game with a total of 21 points.

With his team leading by two points Duff opened third quarter scoring with a four-point play. The 6'1" guard drilled a three-pointer, one of four he hit, and drew the foul.

Three of his three-point shots came in the fourth quarter, including the game winner with three seconds left.

Bobby Hood, who led Wheelwright with 12 points, had just put the Trojans up by one point with 12 seconds left but Duff, from the top of the key, erased that lead and gave Allen Central a win.

Darren Conn, Allen Central's point guard, hit four three-pointers in the first half. He finished the game with 12 points.

Craig Martin, Wheelwright's junior forward, finished the game with 10 points.

Tournament notes: In four women's games, a total of 253 foul shots were taken. That is just over 63 per game... Todd Duff led the three-point parade, hitting a total of 10 in two games for Allen Central. The Rebels finished the tournament with 15. McDowell had a total of 13... Betsy Layne, in their loss to McDowell, shot only 25 percent from the floor... The Lady Daredevils scored 24 points against Betsy Layne. Gloria Mullins had half of those.

DEFENSIVE PRESSURE: Sam Stewart finds himself surrounded by Jesse Osborne (30) and Keith Shelton.

P'burg "B" Team Goes Undefeated

Last year the Prestonsburg Grade School "B" Team went undefeated and this paper wrote an article saying the future looked bright for the Prestonsburg High School Football Program. Well, as one might say, the beat goes on. Again this year, the Prestonsburg Grade School "B" Team, consisting of only fourth, fifth, and sixth grade students, did it again; finishing the season undefeated with a 6-0 record.

On the way to their undefeated season the "B" team captured the "Little Apple Bowl" championship at Paintsville and the "Jenny Wiley Bowl" championship in Prestonsburg.

Probably the greatest accomplishment of the team was winning two games in a period of 3½ hours. Due to scheduling problems, since Floyd County schools dropped fall football, the "B" traveled to Paintsville to participate in the Little Apple Bowl. After winning this game they immediately loaded up and returned to Prestonsburg to play Inez and proceeded to win their second game of the day.

Needless to say, with determination and dedication like this of these young men, one must continue to say that the future still looks bright for Prestonsburg High School football. AND THE BEAT GOES ON...

Head coach: Dick Clark
 Assistant coaches: Sammy Huffman, Butch Joseph, Bobby Joe Spencer.

Talented Trio Leads Betsy Layne To Pre-Season Tournament Title

It's nice to have a star. It's doubly nice to have another star to pick the first one up when it falls to the ground.

And when you have a third guiding light, well then that just makes it all the more fun to coach.

"I was satisfied," Betsy Layne Lady Bobcat coach Karen Henry said just after her team had captured the Pre-season Tournament title, Saturday night.

And reasons to be satisfied, they out-talented all the stars in the galaxy.

Betsy Layne, in three tournament games, outscored their opponents by a combined 75 points. The closest any team came was the 11-point difference the Lady Bobcats defeated Prestonsburg by, Wednesday night.

"I thought tonight was the best we played in the tournament. I could see an improvement in our play each night," Henry said.

"We still have a lot of work to do, before we become a winning team. We made a lot of mental mistakes tonight. We're improving a little each game. I can see us developing as a team."

Tammy Hall, a 5'10" senior forward, developed more than anyone else, especially in the first two games.

Hall, a platoon starter last season, enjoyed one of her best games Wednesday night then continued her sterling performance Friday.

Against the Blackcats, Hall poured in a career high 28 points as Betsy Layne defeated the Lady Blackcats, 71-60.

Proving it wasn't a fluke, Hall backed up her career best with a 21-point performance Friday night while leading Betsy Layne to a 76-24 victory over McDowell.

But then came the championship game.

After getting into early foul trouble, Hall was forced to the bench and as a result scored only seven points. Hall lasted until the third quarter but with 6:19 left, she was whistled for her fifth foul.

Luckily for Karen Henry and Betsy Layne, Sandy Flannery was around to pick up the scoring slack. Flannery scored only four points in the first half, but when Hall left the game, the Lady Bobcat post player caught fire.

Enjoying easy shots off the Betsy Layne fast break, Flannery poured in 20 points in the final two quarters as the Lady Bobcats thumped Allen Central, 81-68, in Saturday's championship game.

Flannery scored her game high 24 points after being in early foul trouble herself. With 7:14 remaining in the first half Flannery picked up her third foul but avoided the problem the rest of the game.

Yolanda Keathley, the third of Betsy Layne's talented three baseline players, added 14 points to the winning effort.

Keathley scored a total of 39 points in the three tournament games, giving strong support to the high scoring duo of Hall and Flannery.

"They won it for us," Henry said of her senior trio. "They accept each other as a team. They are very unselfish and they play real well together."

"When one doesn't play well then there is always someone else who can pick up the slack," Henry continued. "I've tried to stress team play. You can't rely on one player, because they do get into foul trouble."

Saturday night was one of those times that foul trouble plagued Betsy Layne. With both of their leading scorers on the bench, the Lady Bobcats found themselves in a tight contest.

At least they found themselves that way until the final minute of the second quarter.

With 53 seconds remaining in the first half, Allen Central trailed by only three points but then the wheels fell off the Lady Rebel effort.

First, Brenda Hamilton, a reserve guard/forward, cashed in on a field goal with 53 seconds remaining before halftime. Tracy Hall, with 20 seconds left, hit a layup. And to completely deflate Allen Central, Jennifer Hunt stole a pass and hit a layup with only one tick showing on the clock.

Allen Central, as they left the court for the locker room, heard it from their coach, Bonita Compton, who let her displeasure be known. What had been only a three-point deficit turned sour rapidly.

"We played lousy tournament ball," Compton said after the game. "As compared to the way we can play—lousy."

The Lady Rebs, with three of their first seven players either out of action or nursing injuries, trailed by as many as 26 points in the second half before eventually losing by 13.

"We've got to get everybody healthy," Compton said. "Look at that," the coach continued, pointing at the Allen Central bench. "We've got more crutches than a hospital has."

The Lady Rebs entered the tournament without one starter from the 1986-87 season, Michelle Floyd. She, like starter and leading scorer from last year, Joann Conn, is nursing a sprained ankle. Allen Central also lost Tiff Click who sprained her ankle Thursday night in the Lady Rebs' 49-43 victory over Wheelwright.

The final score on the scoreboard had Allen Central with only 47 points, but the official book tallied a total of 49.

The Lady Rebs were led in scoring by Joann Conn and Stacy Moore. Both scored 14 points each.

"Joann's our backbone," Compton said of Conn. "She didn't prove that she's the best player in the county during the tournament, but she is. I don't care what anybody says. Her shot's off. Everything's off."

Playing with a heavily wrapped and painful foot, Conn scored a total of 20 points in Allen Central's two tournament games.

For Betsy Layne, leaders were as numerous as steals created by the Lady Bobcat pressing defense. Most of those came by one of their leading scorers.

"I thought our guards really played well," Henry said. "They played good defense. They had a lot of steals on our trap defense that played an important role."

Jennifer Hunt finished the game with 16 points while fellow back court mate Tracy Hall ended up with a total of eight points.

Last Minute Christmas Gifts For Sportsmen

By NORM MINCH

With Christmas just around the corner, it's easy to find ourselves lagging behind in choosing appropriate gifts, especially for the sportsman who seems to have everything.

Even if there are items the sportsman needs, most outdoorsmen are particular about what kind of equipment they want, so buying for them can sometimes become a rather expensive guessing game.

If you're having difficulty in finding something special, useful and practical but have absolutely promised yourself not to buy another pair of long underwear or wool socks, try these suggestions.

Christmas falls during the heart of the hunting season, and since hunting and fishing licenses expire December 31, a new 1988 license would make a perfect gift. A hunting or fishing license is as essential as a gun or rod and reel, yet much more inexpensive.

Hunters who receive their new license just before the old one expires don't lose time waiting in long lines or trying to get to the county courthouse during holiday hours. That's important when there may be only a day or two available to hunt before going back to work. Likewise, the fisherman who gets his 1988 license for Christmas will be ready to hit the water come the first warm day of spring.

Another important aspect of hunting and fishing is being informed of new regulations, programs, seasons and sporting opportunities across the state. To keep up-to-date on what the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is doing, a subscription to Kentucky Happy Hunting Ground magazine would be ideal.

Not only does the publication provide timely, accurate and interesting articles about hunting, fishing and wildlife management, but it also has features on other outdoor-related activities, Kentucky's nongame animals and wildflowers.

Happy Hunting Ground magazine can be ordered from the department at the rate of $5 for one year, or $9 for two years. For $14 you get a three-year subscription, plus a free one year gift subscription to another person of your choice.

A special feature included with a subscription is the July/August sportsman's calendar issue, which if purchased alone costs $5. The calendar, which contains hunting season dates, little-known facts about Kentucky Wildlife and the best times for fishing, is illustrated with excellent color photography of wildlife and outdoor activities.

Actually, giving these gifts also gives a gift to the conservation of fish and wildlife, since the money is used to manage and protect our state's resources. Management programs and land acquisition for wildlife habitat are two items that are made possible from license sales, and both game and nongame species benefit.

The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is funded through the sale of hunting and fishing licenses. It receives no state tax fund dollars, so sportsmen pay for conservation and the improvement of hunting and fishing opportunities.

SOAP BEA

Soaps are just the latest of Fitzpatrick's careers

By Marie Michaels

Brian Fitzpatrick, who plays Mitch Beck on "All My Children," pursued several successful careers before he became an actor.

Brian Fitzpatrick

While attending West Chester State University, near his Upper Darby, Pa., hometown, Fitzpatrick seemed destined for a pro football career. He was chosen for the Eastern Coast Atlantic Conference all-star team and was named a first team Division II all-America. But he turned down try-out invitations from the Detroit Lions and the Cleveland Browns of the NFL in order to recover from a knee injury suffered during his college days.

With football out of the picture, Fitzpatrick joined the Sea Isle City, N.J., police department. "Working with the police was a great learning experience - the hard times I gave the cops when I was a kid all came back to me," he laughs.

But after two years he left the force and moved to New York City, where he and his brother, Jay, opened the Fitzpatrick Design Group, an architectural firm. He still works there when he's not appearing on "AMC."

"My brother and I started the company ourselves, and we now have 15 people working for us," Fitzpatrick says. "We plan and design retail stores throughout the country and the world."

It was three years ago, while working for the Elite Modeling Agency's commercial division, that Fitzpatrick began to act, taking classes in speech and in commercial acting. While under contract to ABC's Talent Development Program, he took his first screen test, for the role of Mitch, and won the part.

Right now he has no plans to change careers or roles. "My future right now is with 'AMC,'" he says. "I want to make the character work and there's a lot that I can learn from working on the show."

He enjoys playing Mitch because he feels that he and the character are a lot alike.

"When I was growing up, there were a lot of guys in my neighborhood that were like Mitch," Fitzpatrick says. "I've tried to inject a little of that Philadelphia street flavor into him."

"Mitch is a rough guy, very streetwise, but he's got a good heart," he adds. "I play him as close to me as possible."

Reiser celebrates himself in HBO's 'Out on a Whim'

By Denise Gorga

Last year, Shirley MacLaine's out-of-body antics in the ABC miniseries "Out on a Limb" gave non-believers an opportunity to take potshots at the great beyond.

Paul Reiser

Now Paul Reiser launches another dig at the cosmic-minded actress in "On Location: Paul Reiser - Out on a Whim," which airs Tuesday, Dec. 15, and Friday, Dec. 18 on HBO.

"Out on a Whim" begins with Reiser dreaming he is in a cauldron surrounded by spear-toting natives who eye him as cannibal cuisine. He can save himself only by answering a simple question: "What's the 'Main Thing,' Paul?"

A simple question, perhaps, but in this hourlong show Reiser bungles the answer. The main thing, in comedy specials, should be to let standup comedians do what they do best - perform on stage before a live audience. Clips from a stage performance are includ-

Did Clark Gable really enlist in the Air Force?

By Toni Reinhold

A friend and I have been arguing about whether Clark Gable really served in the Air Force during World War II. He says that Gable wasn't really an officer - he just played military roles in films. Could you settle this? Also, when did Gable die? - M.P.A., Peoria, Ill.

Clark Gable

In 1942, after his wife, Carole Lombard, was killed in a plane crash while returning home from a War Bond drive, Gable enlisted in the Air Corps. He was 41 years old. He enlisted as a private and advanced to the rank of captain by the time he was sent overseas. There, in the European Theater, he proved that his enlistment was not a publicity stunt. According to the book "Legends: Clark Gable," edited by John Kobal, Gable was a genuine war hero. "Armed with a 16 mm Cine-Special," the book reports, "Capt. Gable flew five missions over Germany with a price on his head offered by Goering and special instructions from Adolf Hitler, who collected Gable films and longed to have the actor on hand in person - dead or alive. German gunners came close to accommodating him. They shot the heel off his boot on one of his five missions." Gable was discharged with honors in 1944, having reached the rank of major. He died in 1960.

What was the last film that featured child star Dickie Moore? - K.N., Warran, Pa.

You're thinking of "Member of the Wedding" (1952). Moore, now 62, began his film career before he was 2 years old, appearing in "The Beloved Rogue" (1926).

Where can I write to Dolly Parton? - A.A.D., Nashville, Tenn.

Send mail to the host of "Dolly" in care of The Sandollar Company, 8730 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90069.

Did Richard Dean Anderson appear in the series "Emerald Point, N.A.S."? If so, what part did he play? - J.D., Chester, Pa.

Anderson, who stars in ABC's "MacGyver," portrayed Lt. Simon Adams on "Emerald Point, N.A.S.," which aired during the 1983-84 season on CBS.

Warner plays a street kid in 'Father Clements Story'

By Paul Elie

Malcolm-Jamal Warner lives in Brooklyn Heights, one of the most charming neighborhoods in New York City. Shops and restaurants line the main street, but the streets near his house are peaceful, the silence disturbed only by a repertory company rehearsing in a converted church nearby. Not far away, a life-size cardboard Bill Cosby grins in a video-shop window.

Malcolm-Jamal Warner

It is Thursday night, and Warner has just settled down with his mother, Pamela, to watch "The Cosby Show." "Guess what, Mom," he says. "You forgot to tape again." By now, Warner, 17, should be putting together a tape library of his performances. Apart from the role of Theo on "Cosby," his list of credits is growing: "Saturday Night Live," "The Late Show," a video aimed at latch-key children and a learn-to-read film for New York schools. This week he stars in "The Father Clements Story," an NBC movie airing

Sunday, Dec. 13. He plays Joey, a rebellious teen who is befriended by Father George Clements (Lou Gossett Jr.), a Catholic priest who wants to adopt him. As Clements clashes with his superior, Cardinal Cody (Carroll O'Connor), Joey is lured by a local gang. "The movie is a struggle between good and evil," Warner says. "At the same time that Father Clements is trying to adopt Joey, he's asked to be in a gang he's always wanted to join. So he's torn between them." The role is a departure from "Cosby," whose upper-middle-class values, Warner says, are meant to contradict TV's usual portrayal of blacks. "Blacks have been depicted with such low standards," Warner explains. "We depict blacks in a different light, as a middle-class family. So for me to go lower undermines what the show is trying to do." But "Father Clements" is an exception to this. "It's inspirational," he says. "People can watch it and see there's a different world they can reach for." Warner has welcomed the public-service opportunities that come with celebrity. He is spokesman for the Smoke Free Generation, and last January he lectured students in Atlanta, urging them to seek upright values. He denies that these projects make him assume too much responsibility. "These are things I feel strongly about," he says. "So if I think it will help society, I do it. If I believe it, why keep it to myself?"

BOOKS AND THINGS

By: Trisha Morris, Librarian, Prestonsburg Community College

It's the time of year to think about gifts to place under the Christmas tree for loved ones. The following books from the P.C.C. library might remind you of homemade gifts which were crafted with love when times were simpler and money scarcer.

American Folk Toys
By: Dick Schnacke
Here are 85 classic toys with full instructions, diagrams and lists of materials for their construction. Most of these delightful, old time toys can be made from scraps found around the house—a doll from an old sock—a flying machine from a pencil and a shaped piece of white pine—a parachute from a handkerchief and a clothes pin and on and on. This revival of folk toys will bring back memories of times before parents depended on stores to manufacture Christmas for their children.

Basketry of the Appalachian Mountains
By: Sue H. Stephenson
"The people of Appalachia enjoy children's questions and are born teachers,"—so the little girl walking with her grandfather in the mountains of West Virginia learned the ways of her elders by questioning and helping. We are richer because she took the effort to record part of her knowledge in this lovely book that is detailed instruction on basket making woven into a history of the people of Appalachia.

How to Make Whirligigs and Whimpy Diddles
By: Florence H. Pettit
A whirligig is an eighteenth century "Sunday toy"—a Gee-Haw Whimpy Diddle is a favorite mountain toy made by rubbing a stick back and forth over the notches cut in another stick—a right whirl is Gee and a left is Haw. If you don't cotton to Geeing and Hawing, you can also learn from this book how to fashion a butterfly, which will stick to you, out of tissue paper and a cocklebur—make 101 things from a pine cone or form lovely corn husk maidens. With these detailed instruction and expert advice on tools, even the novice craftsman will be soon creating treasures.

Wooden Spoon Puppets
By: Audrey Dean
What child doesn't love puppets? With this book, a handful of wooden spoons and scraps from Mom's sewing basket and Dad's tool shed an entire cast of puppets can be created allowing a child's imagination to soar. There are spoon princesses, devils, angels and even dragons with scripts included for plays starring the stringed creatures. The results are amazing but the materials and directions are simple. If you have doubts about the benefits of battery driven monsters—make some of your own monsters and see how much fun the kids will have adding life to them themselves.

Making Gifts from Oddments and Outdoor Materials
By: Betsy B. Creekmore
"...Not what you give, but what you share—the gift without the giver is bare..."
This book is about putting something of yourself into every gift you give. If you've never acquired the habit of making your own gifts this book will open the door to a new pleasure. The materials are simple—tin cans, cardboard tubes, candle stubs, egg shells, oddments from nature—but the results are wonderfully satisfying. Their crafting will take your time and your effort, but not your money. And when you're done, you'll be giving a gift that says you care.

Left Beaver Rescue Gets $20,000 Grant

Fire protection and rescue services in the Left Beaver section will soon be improved as the result of a state grant announced recently by Gov. Martha Layne Collins.

A $20,000 grant from the Area Development Fund has been awarded to the Left Beaver Rescue Squad toward the purchase of a fire truck. According to local officials, the pumper truck replaces an obsolete model. The rescue squad provides fire protection to approximately 2,000 homes.

The Big Sandy Area Development District Board of Directors recommended the project for funding.

The Area Development Fund is a capital projects program administered by the Department of Local Government in the Office of the Governor.

The state's 15 area development districts make recommendations to the department on the basis of state law and policy for project funding.

Books are so called from the German buche meaning a beech tree, since beech bark was used for writing on before the invention of printing.

Helping Kids Cope With Their Fears

The first day of school, nightmares and the thought of losing a parent are three common childhood fears. While everyone encounters a variety of frightening experiences throughout life, children are more vulnerable to being afraid because they don't know what to expect, according to an article in the December/January issue of PTA Today.®

"The most enduring and common fear of children at any age is the loss of a parent," says Mary Renck Jalongo, professor of education at Indiana University of Pennsylvania in Indiana, Pa., writing in the National Parent-Teacher Association's (PTA®) magazine. Infants and toddlers often express this fear through tears and loud protests during even a brief separation, she says. However, older children most often fear loss of a parent through death or divorce.

The article suggests that parents try to recognize the differences between normal fears, those that are imaginary and phobias. Phobias are illogical fears that are extremely intense and enduring, according to Jalongo. The difference between a phobia and a childhood fear is that a childhood fear disappears or is greatly reduced over time, whereas a phobia usually persists despite considerable efforts to overcome it, she explains.

Jalongo also believes that most imaginary fears of early childhood are outgrown with the support of perceptive, understanding adults. Imaginary fears happen a great deal during the preschool years and are usually in the form of a dream or nightmare. The article suggests that parents talk with children about their dreams and accept their feelings as authentic, no matter how implausible the situation might be. The adult should then deal with the fear in a way that makes sense to children.

The author suggests that parents and teachers support children who are frightened, but stresses that eventually children must cope with their own fears. She offers several ways to help children conquer fears.

Help children realize they don't have to be fearless in every situation. Teach them to recognize that bravery is not an all-or-nothing attribute.

Avoid the sudden and unexpected. When possible, children should be prepared to face unavoidably frightening experiences.

Allow children to proceed at their own pace in facing fears. Fears are best conquered in a gradual way that allows them to gain confidence.

Listen to children and discuss fears. Sometimes what appears to be one type of fear is actually another.

Other topics covered in the December/January issue of PTA Today include peer pressure, how parents can help their kids make decisions, the importance of children's play, and Peggy Fleming's comments about kids and sports.

Copies of the issue are available by sending a check or money order made payable to the National PTA, 700 N. Rush St., Chicago, IL 60611. The award-winning magazine is published seven times a year.

A close encounter of a most unusual kind happened recently over Alaska when an airplane collided in mid-air with a fish! According to National Wildlife magazine, the mishap occurred when a bald eagle dropped a fish that it was carrying in its talons. The fish slammed into a passing airplane, denting its fuselage. Fortunately, the aircraft sustained only minor damage, and the eagle reportedly was not hurt.

Those Troublesome Ticks Stick with Us thru Fall

By William G. Schulz
Smithsonian News Service

The weather in most parts of the United States will soon become mild, but hikers, campers and others who love the outdoors need to exercise caution. Tick season continues, the experts say, almost through November in some areas.

For most people, ticks are simply a nuisance. Doctors and other health professionals warn, though, that ticks can carry a variety of serious—and potentially fatal—disease-causing microbes. In most places, the threat of contracting one of these illnesses does not justify avoiding nature. Nonetheless, preventive measures, and an awareness of ticks in general, might further reduce the hazard.

In the United States, the most threatening tick-borne illnesses to humans are Lyme disease and Rocky Mountain spotted fever. More than 1,070 cases of Lyme disease and nearly 750 cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever were reported in 1986, according to the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga. The ticks that carry these diseases are found in nearly every region of the country. Left untreated, Lyme disease causes a form of arthritis, among other problems, and Rocky Mountain spotted fever—sometimes misdiagnosed as the flu—can be fatal.

Worldwide, scientists have discovered numerous microorganisms that ticks carry and pass on to animals and man, Dr. James Keirans, a medical entomologist with the National Institutes of Health, says. In fact, he continues, these tiny "brown bags of blood" transmit more diseases to humans and animals than any other arthropod except mosquitoes. (Arthropods are a division of the animal kingdom that includes almost 80 percent of all animals on Earth.) In the United States, these include Colorado tick fever, a viral illness, and tick paralysis, a mysterious and deadly condition only cured by removing the offending tick. Agricultural scientists in this country, Keirans says, constantly look out for the introduction of foreign, disease-carrying ticks—such as species carrying Texas Cattle Fever—that could decimate livestock populations.

Identifying diseases and controlling the introduction of disease-carrying ticks, Keirans says, depends in part on the Smithsonian's tick collection at the institution's Museum Support Center in Suitland, Md. "Before you can work on disease transmission or other problems," he says, "you have to know what species you're working with." Keirans uses the Smithsonian's collection daily, identifying ticks sent to him from all over the world, adding new specimens to the collection and conducting research on the biological characteristics of individual tick species. The collection is the largest anywhere, Keirans says, comprising more than 120,000 individual collections. "There's really no other place to send ticks that has the same resources for accurate identification," he adds.

So far, scientists have identified approximately 850 species of ticks, Keirans says. Many of these are poorly studied, though, and the characteristics that distinguish one species from another are often subtle.

For simplicity, Keirans first categorizes ticks into two groups—hard and soft. Hard ticks have an insect's typical shell and are the type most people, at some time in their lives, find attached to their skin. Soft ticks, on the other hand, usually go after birds or bats, feed for much shorter periods of time—perhaps only a few minutes—and have a leathery skin.

Ticks attach to and draw blood from almost all vertebrate animals, including frogs and birds. Keirans, for example, has identified two species from Galapagos Island tortoises. Exceptions to this are the fishes and, inexplicably, whales and seals, which like humans, are mammals. Tick life-spans vary, Keirans says, but in general, they live from one to two years.

"Ticks also live in some inhospitable places," Keirans continues, "such as sea cliffs and deserts." Of course, there are no flying species, but a few tick species have eyes to help them find hosts. Most ticks, however, come equipped with sensory organs for detecting carbon dioxide, which all mammals exhale. In addition, ticks often occupy the same or nearby habitats as their hosts, he says, citing a species of desert tick that lies in the sand waiting to hitch rides on passing camels. Horrifying as it sounds, "some North African and Middle Eastern ticks will come running after you," he adds.

"There isn't any such thing as a 'normal' tick," Dr. Willy Burgdorfer, a medical entomologist at NIH's Rocky Mountain Laboratories in Hamilton, Mont., says. "Ticks of any species are potential reservoirs of disease."

In 1981, Burgdorfer identified the microorganism responsible for Lyme disease in the tick species, Ixodes dammini, the deer tick. The microorganism has also been found in other species of ticks in the United States and in Europe, where an illness almost identical to Lyme disease—Erythema Chronicum Migrans, or ECM—has been known almost since the turn of the century. Telltale signs of both diseases are headache, fatigue and a spreading skin rash that resembles a bull's-eye. Fortunately, both diseases are treatable with antibiotics; however, left untreated, the diseases may cause inflammation of the joints, neurological damage and other serious medical problems.

No one knows when Lyme disease came to the United States, Burgdorfer says. The first known cases appeared in 1975 when children in Lyme, Conn., came down with its typical joint inflammation. Researchers hypothesize that deer imported from Europe earlier in this century might have brought the disease along. Another scenario suggests that the microorganism has been present in deer ticks for some time, but that the disease didn't show up in humans until East Coast deer populations—and thus, tick populations—mushroomed with the advent of strict hunting laws.

When Rocky Mountain spotted fever was first investigated in Montana in 1905, Keirans says, the mortality rate for this illness was 80 percent. Eventually, a bacterium carried by the Rocky Mountain wood tick was identified as the culprit and effective treatments were devised. These and other events prompted researchers to begin collecting ticks worldwide in order to zero in on and stop or control tick-borne diseases.

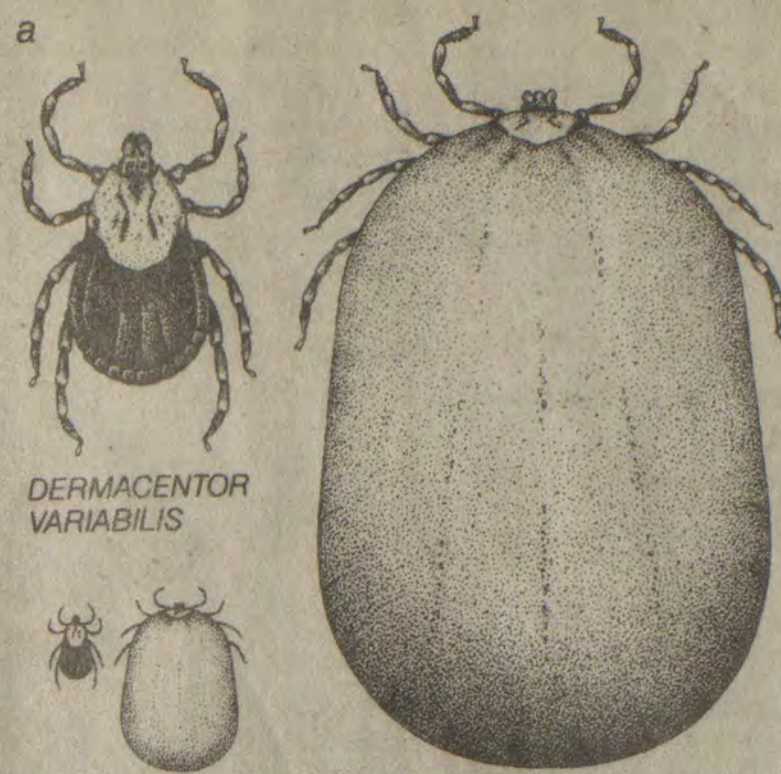

Tick collections—such as the Smithsonian's—have been used to identify several more tick species around the United States that carry the Rocky Mountain spotted fever bacterium. However, Dermacentor variabilis—the Eastern dog tick—now transmits most cases. That species is especially common in the South Atlantic states. Of all the states, North Carolina reported the highest incidence of the disease in 1986.

As with Lyme disease, Rocky Mountain spotted fever begins with a rash, usually around the wrists and ankles. Over the course of days or weeks, the bacterium multiples in the body, enters capillaries and bursts them, causing the black splotches that give the disease its name. At that point, Keirans says, "you're in big trouble." Without treatment, victims can slip into a coma and die within seven days after the onset of symptoms.

Preventing these and other tick-borne diseases is relatively simple. Keirans and other experts recommend that people walking in fields, woods or low-brush areas always wear long trousers with the pant legs tucked into socks. Shirts should also be tucked in. Ticks, Keirans says, usually find feet or ankles first, then crawl up a person's body. "They spend an awful lot of time just wandering around," he says, although researchers don't know exactly what ticks prefer in terms of body parts.

Tick removal methods are a subject of controversy, but the safest, most effective method, Keirans says, is to grasp the tick as closely to the head as possible—preferably with tweezers—and slowly pull it out. "If you yank on it," he says, "you're liable to pull the head right off." That situation is not necessarily serious, but the wound could become infected.

Burgdorfer recommends making a note of the tick bite and even saving the tick for two to three weeks as a reminder in case the symptoms of Lyme disease, Rocky Mountain spotted fever or any sudden, unexplained illness show up. Doctors, of course, should always be informed of any recent tick bite. As Burgdorfer says, "it could be the source of the problem."

Antifreeze Poisoning

COPYRIGHT 1987 KVMA
Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association
It seems redundant to repeat from time to time the warnings about antifreeze and animals.

Such poisonings are most common in fall, winter and early spring, reflecting the peak periods of use of automobile anti-freeze. Sources of ethylene glycol other than automobile anti-freeze include the heat exchange fluid in solar collectors, ice-rink freezing equipment, some brake and transmission fluids,

Another reason for the extremely high mortality rate (88 per cent in cats and dogs) is the extremely small quantity needed for a lethal dose—6.6 milliliters per kilogram of body weight for a dog, 1.5 ml per kg for a cat.

Initial signs appear about an hour after ingestion, and peak blood concentration occurs within three hours. Symptoms of acute poisoning resemble alcohol intoxication.

Effectiveness of treatment varies in reverse ratio to the amount of time lapsed between ingestion and therapy—the faster you get the animal to the veterinarian, the better the chances of recovery. Do not attempt antidotes or treatment yourself unless your veterinarian specifically instructs you to do so.
