Four New Schools Slated For Completion, Fall '89

By Tim Sizemore

Superintendent Ray Brackett expects the Allen Central High School roof to be replaced by the beginning of the next school year, although the $250,000 in emergency funding requested by the Board was pared down by the state to $200,000.

A progress report on schools scheduled for construction which include the Prestonsburg Middle School, Allen Elementary, Right Beaver Elementary, and the Left Beaver High School lists all four as expected to be completed and open by the beginning of school in 1989. Bids for the Prestonsburg, Allen and Right Beaver schools are expected to be advertised in February and the Left Beaver school bids will be advertised in May. Three of the new school bonds will be sold in March and the Left Beaver school bonds will be sold in June.

Other business transacted at the January meeting included the retirement of Josephine Robinson, a teacher at Allen Elementary; the resignations of Willis Sexton as night watchman and custodian at Allen Central High School, Rebecca Spears as custodian at Prestonsburg High School; Susan Stumbo Bailey as a teachers aide at Wayland Elementary, and Joe Ed Slone as bus driver. Those non-certified personnel hired by the board were Willie Akers, Jr., as substitute custodian; Lori Coats as custodian at Prestonsburg High School; Vanidan Ferrell as security guard at Betsy Layne High School; Bobby Bartley, as night watchman and custodian at Allen Central High School; Sharon Scott as teachers aide at Garrett Elementary; Brenda Martin, teachers aide at Wayland Elementary; Charles Ousley as a bus driver at Prestonsburg; Ruth Hamilton as contract driver and Barbara Parsons a part-time cook at Allen Central High school. Certified substitute teachers hired were Edith Hopkins, Anthony W. Moore, Ruth S. Reynolds, Sheila Ortega, Deborah L. Bradley, John W. Back and Denese Amburgey. Emergency substitute teachers hired were Peggy S. Westfall, Jerry L. Little, Johnny Dale Pack, Angela D. Tackett, Sherri Dusing, Jamie C. Adams, Robin Roope and Terri S. Bailey.

Among other business conducted was the awarding of food service bids to Frank's, Independent Distributors, Uncle Charles, Uni Jax and Somerset Foods; approval of use of school facilities contracts for use of Martin Elementary by the Beaver Creek Historical Society and Maytown Elementary for Kentuckians for the Commonwealth. Also the Board approved field trips, bills submitted to the board for payment, disbursements, and directed the superintendent to make necessary purchases to prevent the disruption of services in the school system.

PREVENTIVE MEASURES were taken on US 23 between here and Paintsville, this week, as highway department members blasted dangerously loose rock from the near-perpendicular cuts in a hillside bordering the road. This is being done to avert the rock falls which plague the road and its travelers.

Industrial Park Plans Include New Channel for Middle Creek

IF PLANS FOR A NEW INDUSTRIAL PARK are realized, one result will be the re-channeling of Middle Creek as shown in the drawing above. The creek would no longer meander in a U shape but would be straightened thus freeing land for development and lessening the danger of flooding.

By Tim Sizemore

A new industrial park may soon be a reality, according to Prestonsburg businessman, James Arthur Hughes, who has options on property that will entail the changing of the course of Middle Creek.

Hughes, corporate head of Hughes and Associates, says that his firm has options to buy the large level tract of land, originally belonging to Sally Stevens which borders Middle Creek near Glyn View Plaza.

Work on the site could begin as early as March 1, according to Hughes, with an estimated cost of approximately $15 million. The cost of the half million-ton fill alone is projected at $2.5. Plans for the new site consist of a light industrial park with a variety of small businesses.

In order to begin construction work, the site will have to be filled 10 feet higher creating 12 usable acres of land. The creek, which presently takes a wide U curve, will be straightened to allow water to flow faster. The new channel will run nearly parallel with the present railroad tracks.

Hughes is now awaiting conclusion of the deal with the landowners and issuance of field permits by the state.

The proposed industrial park will provide 300 additional jobs, according to Hughes.

The developer said he welcomes the park and other centers' being annexed into the city of Prestonsburg because of the many services offered here.

Authorities Hold Three In Taking of Children

By Megan E. Corcoran

The father of three small children lies seriously injured from knife wounds after the forceable abduction of his children in Martin, Saturday night.

Eddie Jones, 27, of McDowell, who was stabbed seven times and is also suffering from a collapsed left lung, said Tuesday that his estranged wife, Mary Jones, 22, formerly of Salyersville, abducted their two sons and daughter late Saturday evening with the help of her boyfriend, 16, and others he declined to identify.

Jones is a patient at Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Trujillo, grandmother of the children, turned herself in to authorities, here, Tuesday afternoon, admitting her complicity in the plan to take the children from her son-in-law. She is charged with custodial interference and is being held in the county jail.

Mrs. Jones and her 16-year-old boyfriend took the children to Ohio where she is now being held by authorities. The juvenile was returned by State Police Detective Danny Stumbo and is being held in the Regional Detention Center, here.

The children, Eddie Dean, II, 4, Mary Frances, 2, and Jim Bob, nine months, were brought back from Gallipolis, Tuesday evening, by their aunt, Glenda Pitts, and her husband, Larry Pitts.

Telling of Saturday night's events, Eddie Jones said, "They waited outside my house until the children went to bed. Then my wife forced her way in, and pushed me down the front steps. Then they just came out of the weeds at me. I got stabbed by two knives at once," Jones said.

He also said that his four-year-old son attacked his wife during the commotion with a broken piece of glass in an attempt to help him.

Eddie and Mary Jones had been married nine years before their separation two months ago.

Fearless Forecast For '88

(Editor's note—The sage of Floyd County, the Fearless Fosdick and dean of the Floyd County Bar Association, Woodrow W. Burchett, once more has come up with prognostications for the coming year and some noteworthy philosophical observations.)

PREDICTIONS 1988

By WOODROW W. BURCHETT

For more than 40 years at this time of year I have stood before Kiwanis Clubs and told inquiring and suspicious minded people what is just around the corner and what they might expect in the coming year. I don't know whether it is arrogance or ignorance that prompts me to do this. It may be a little of both, coupled with an embarrassing measure of stupidity. I am not, and cannot be positive of anything I predict and it should not be so construed. It is satire and any reference to actual persons, living or dead, is purely coincidental.

Let's take a look at some of the hits for '87. We said, U.K. will have a new president and Kentucky will have a new governor—neither will be female. 1987 was the year of the Bimbo, Dumbo, I dunno and Oh No.

The big politics in Kentucky will be the gubernatorial. If it holds true that the candidate that spends the most money will win, it will be a toss-up between Wilkinson and Brown. The next governor will live within 50 miles of Lexington and have an "o" in his name.

There will be an unusually large amount of money spent in the race for Lt. Governor.

There will be a 75% increase in the pay of our Congress and it will be accomplished without a vote being taken.

The Dow Jones may move up or down more than a hundred points in a single day. All the way from 1500 to 3000.

The 100th Congress will convene. Democrats will be in power and push for a tax increase to balance the budget.

Speed limit will be increased to 65 mph.

Be more soldiers than Pilgrims in Bethlehem.

The big news of 1987 will be the investigation of the secret dealings between the United States and the Nicaraguan Rebels. There will be a lot of money spent on the investigation, but no one will go to jail.

'87 is a year not to remember in Washington. Ollie North knew it all and told it. General Poindexter did not remember 264 times in seven days before the Congressional Committee and Atty. General Meese did not remember 413 times in two days. When asked what did we propose to do to keep this from happening again, President Reagan did not remember.

THE POLITICS FOR '88

In 1988 we will elect a new president for the first time in eight years. He will have only four letters in his last name. The governor of New York spells his name Cumo doesn't he? When Gary Hart was regenerated and reentered the presidential race the Dow Jones advanced 65 points. More people were talking about Gary Hart than Santa Claus. One candidate said, "If it weren't so funny, it would be serious and, if it weren't so serious, it would be funny." He passed Jessie Jackson and took the lead in the polls. When Mikhail Gorbachev was here at the Summit with President Reagan, he was ahead of all the presidential candidates in the public opinion polls, and was named Time Magazine's Man of the Year—Beat out the Stock Market Crash and Aids Epidemic. Does this tell you something about the candidates, or does it tell you something about the American people? When Mrs. Gorbachev was a visitor in the White House, she knew more about American History than Nancy Reagan. What does this tell you?

The Democratic nominee may be someone who has not been in the polls.

Gary Hart changed his name, lied about his age and was involved with Donna Rice.

Senator Gore smoked pot.

Senator Gephardt changed his position on abortion.

Court Hears Sewage Problems; Recommendations of Auditor

By Tim Sizemore

Garbage, faulty septic systems and the lack of a culvert, were among the woes aired by a Mine Branch resident at Friday's meeting of the fiscal court.

Larry Lankey, of Mine Branch at Bull Creek, says that his property value has dropped considerably, because some Mine Branch residents will not install proper sewage systems or clean up around their property. He also claims that several households run raw sewage into the creek or ditch line and that in the summer the smell is nauseating. Another complaint voiced by the Mine Branch resident concerned improper installation of culverts at private residences. He said that one culvert in particular is stopped up and that the homeowner has refused to let the county unstop it. Magistrate Gerald DeRossett, District One, confirmed that his men had attempted to fix the culvert but had been run off by the homeowner. Magistrate Eddie Caudill, District 3, said that probably 90% of the ice on secondary roads is caused by poorly installed culverts. According to County Attorney David Barber, a landowner cannot legally stop the county from unplugging a drain on their property.

Blake Meadows, of the State Auditor's office, presented the court with copies of the audit report for the fiscal year 1985 and 1986 which made three recommendations to the county. The first called for increasing the Sheriff's revenue bond, which is now set at $50,000 an amount said insufficient to adequately protect the county from potential loss. The second recommendation in the report called for the keeping of an inventory control ledger. The audit said that the ledger was needed, because absence of an accurate inventory control system could also result in financial loss and potential liability to the county. The third recommendation set forth in the report, concerned purchasing procedures. Among the several weaknesses noted in the audit were the amount of materials purchased exceeded the amounts authorized by the purchase order; weight tickets could not be found for all purchases; invoices could not be found for all disbursements and purchase requisition numbers were used to purchase materials but no purchase order could be found.

The report also noted that the county has implemented a computerized system for the fiscal year '86 and '87

Paxton Heads County Bar

By B. A. Heinze

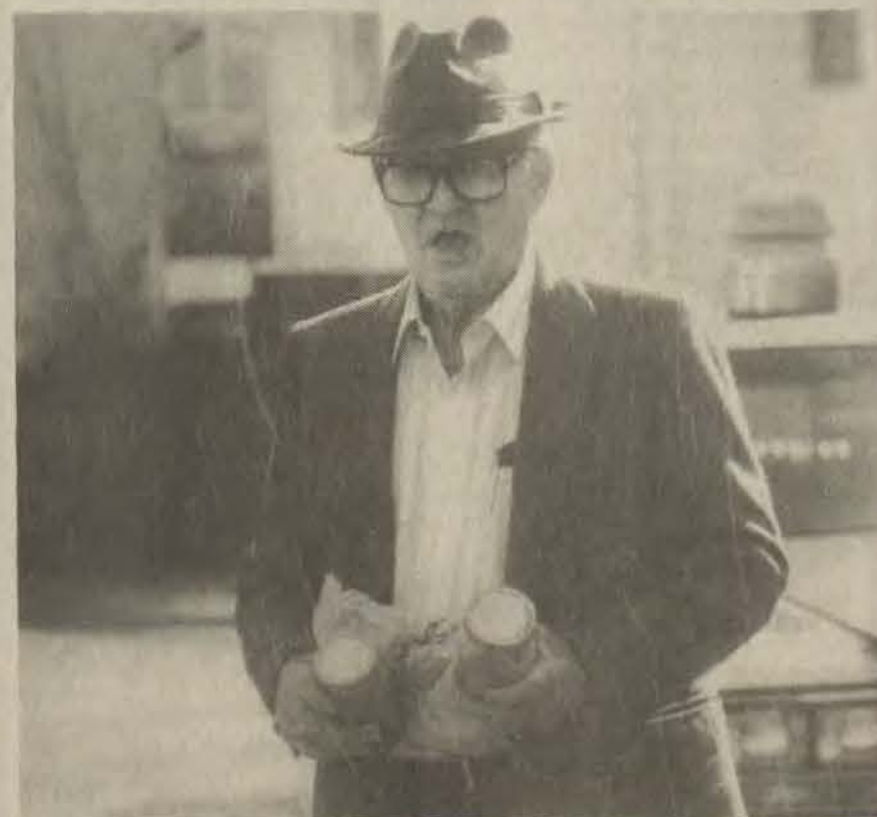

Julie Paxton last Friday became the first woman to head the Floyd County Bar Association, and she and her husband, Martin L. Osborne, who was named vice president, are the first husband and wife to serve the association in these offices.

Paxton, native of Muhlenberg county, is assistant county attorney and a member of the law firm of Barber, Rowland, and Paxton. Her father, Billy Paxton, is also an attorney and a former circuit court judge and member of the court of appeals. He also served three terms as a state representative and is a former secretary of the Department of Transportation.

Mr. Osborne, native of Prestonsburg, is a member of Francis, Francis, and Kazee law firm and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Osborne, of Prestonsburg.

Commenting on her responsibilities as president of the bar association, Paxton said, "Floyd county has many women who are practicing law and (the county) is very liberated in regard to the number of women who are lawyers. I look forward to serving the Floyd County Bar and hope I can be of some help in making it a more active association."

ASCS Office Is Serving Two Counties Unequally

HOBART YOUNCE BROUGHT SOIL SAMPLES to the ASCS office, here, Monday, and was vocal in his disappointment that the office was not open. The Spurlock Creek farmer said he would be back Wednesday, but like many other Floyd county farmers he feels that the office should be open every day.

By B.A. Heinze

After a year of having only one day each week to transact ASCS business, here, farmers in this county—513 of them—are of the opinion that they don't count for much on either the state or federal level.

The ASCS main office was moved from Prestonsburg to Hindman in Knott county about a year ago although Knott county has only 311 farmers compared with 513 in this county who participate in ASCS programs. Adding insult to injury is the fact that the office is open five days a week in Hindman but only one day each week, here.

When the office was moved, one of the reasons given was that the office in Hindman was equipped with computers. Why the office in Hindman was so equipped while the former main office in

BOOKS AND THINGS

By Trisha Morris
Librarian,
 Prestonsburg Community College
 Quilt making was one of the first crafts practiced in the New World—born of necessity and raised to an art of artistic beauty and symmetry. The need for warmth led to the padding and layering of fabrics, the need to utilize fabric scraps led to piecing and patchwork and the need for artistic expression led to individual design and fine needlework. The following books from the P.C.C. library will teach you how to recreate the traditional favorites, offer ideas for self expression or simply provide a pleasant look at the beautiful world of quilting.

Kentucky Quilts and their Makers
 By Mary Clarke
 Quilting has been a significant craft in Eastern Kentucky since its pioneer beginnings. This little book is a sampling of Kentucky quilters and their work. Here are the traditional, the non-traditional and the extraordinary along with the stories and folk lore that accompanies the craft.

The Mountain Artisans Quilting Book
 By Alfred Lewis
 The Mountain Artisans is a West Virginia cooperative started by a group of young women to market their quilting craft. This is their instruction book. It will teach a novice quilting from building the frame to using the finish product.

Prize Country Quilts
 By Mary Johnson
 Each quilt a prize winner and each quilt described with step by step instructions so that its layout, design and techniques are fully understandable. The reader is given hints on fabric, color and design and is encouraged to stretch their creative imagination. To enhance the quilt, instructions are given for embroidery stitches, trapunto and tufting.

Quilting Manual
 By Dolores Hinson
 An encyclopedia of quilting with chapters on the history, the terms, the names and the superstitions of the art. Here you will learn why 17th century quilts were always made with a flaw in the design, what significance the industrial revolution had for quilters and how to recognize a Chicago Star from a Rocky Road.

The McCall's Book of Quilts
 The traditional designs are here along with the contemporary design that modern taste has bent this craft to. The book is a browsers delight with wonderful color photos of many famous quilts. Full instructions are offered including designs for stitching patterns, finishing techniques and care of the finished product.

Quilts and Coverlets
 By Jean Laury
 An unusual book which urges the reader to treasure the quilting art of early America but not to slavishly copy their designs. Two methods of quilt making are explored—using the entire fabric to embroider or dye and forming the quilt by building up piece by piece. Striking photographs of contemporary works show the results of combining a nostalgia for the past with a delight in the present.

Quick and Easy Quilting
 By Bonnie Leman
 A method of quilting known as lap quilting or no frame quilting is described here in step by step details. Make yourself a pillow, a potholder, a hat, a vest, a tote bag and—oh yes—a quilt. With pictures and detailed instructions a beginner can complete an item on an economy budget and in an economic time frame.

Count On Domino's
Begins Third Year

The Count on Domino's math program will once again be challenging thousands of students across the nation to use their ingenuity and at the same time develop math skills.

Domino's Pizza, Inc., together with the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics (NCTM), developed the Count on Domino's program for K-12 classrooms in 1985.

Count on Domino's is a supplemental mathematics program designed to encourage students to create, demonstrate and solve mathematics and math-related activities, such as games and problems, by using sets of double-six dominoes.

NCTM President John A. Dossey said the program is unique because it promotes private-public sector partnerships. "Last year, more than 5,700 teachers and thousands of students all across the country participated in 'Count on Domino's,'" said Dossey. "We're encouraged by the level of interest educators have in the program, and the support from Domino's Pizza, Inc. for this educational partnership."

The program is available to all elementary school and secondary school math teachers thru March 15. Teachers who want to participate should mail their name, the school's name, address and telephone number to: Count on Domino's, Post Office Box 1990, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48106-1990, or call 1-800-777-7450 between 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays. A program kit will be mailed to the school.

To encourage program participation, Domino's Pizza and the NCTM invite teachers to submit an activity for judging in a national competition. The entry must be postmarked and mailed to the NCTM by April 15. National winning mathematics activities will be selected in each of four grade categories, K-3, 4-6, 7-9, 10-12 to receive a $1,000 prize award.

After submitting an entry to the national competition, participating students will receive participation certificates and student packages at an awards presentation. Each school will be awarded a one-year NCTM institutional membership.

The National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, based in Reston, Va., is a 64,000-member professional organization dedicated to the improvement of the teaching and learning of mathematics. Domino's Pizza, Inc., based in Ann Arbor, Mich., is the world's largest pizza delivery company with 4,200 stores in all 50 states, Australia, Canada, Costa Rica, Honduras, Hong Kong, Japan, Portugal, the United Kingdom and West Germany.

System Works

After months of hearing testimony from all sides, the Liability Insurance Task Force determined that there was no litigation explosion in Kentucky; that Kentuckians don't file frivolous law suits, and that the recent insurance crisis was not related to our right to trial by jury. In other words, our present system works, and that's good news for all Kentuckians.

The Kentucky Academy of Trial Attorneys urges the public to look very closely at any recommendations from the insurance industry that take away victims' rights.

Kentucky Academy of Trial Lawyers

Wants A Vote

Kentuckians for the Commonwealth (formerly known as the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition) is organizing an effort to get the 1988 legislature to pass a resolution to put on the ballot a Broad Form Deed Amendment to the Constitution. In this way no court could strip the surface owner (the real taxpayer) of his right to control his land. With this amendment the coal companies will have to make agreements with the surface owners and get his consent before any mining can take place. If you own land in the coal fields, but not the mineral rights, now is the time to defend your rights as a taxpayer and citizen of this state. Now is the time to join others and make your voice heard. You are invited to meet at 7:30 a.m. on January 21st at the Western Sizzlin' restaurant at the junction of U.S. 23 and the Mountain Parkway in Prestonsburg. From there we will all car pool and proceed to Frankfort to stage a rally and lobby our legislators for justice. This is your chance to do something to defend your land. I look forward to seeing you all there. You are welcome to call the main KFTC office at 886-0043 for more information.

Resource Center Will Open Here

A Parent Resource Center will be opening soon in the office building located across from the Old First Commonwealth Bank. The center will offer varied information to parents and other family members of handicapped children.

The information might be legal, medical or educational. It could pertain to the handicapped person's social life, school life, or legal rights. Articles from medical journals or books on a variety of disabilities will also be available.

Parents will learn about such things as how to adapt furniture for the physically handicapped child, where to get trained and caring babysitters, or how to order special toys or gifts.

Local, regional, state and national agencies, schools, associations and clubs that offer support and assistance to the handicapped will also be registered with the center.

A parent support group that has been meeting since April will now meet monthly at the center.

An advisory group consisting of parents, teachers, counselors and others will oversee and direct all the affairs of the center. The funds will come from a small state grant, fundraising activities and through donations.

Advisory board members are Harmon Leedy, chairman, Betty Leedy, Rita Conley, Eileen Schepers, Ogie Stone and David Evans.

For more information, or to make a donation, contact Harmon or Betty Leedy at 886-1723.

Says No to Lottery

Our state legislature is currently considering a state operated lottery for Kentucky. Responsible citizens must take a stand against what will be a tragic mistake. There are several reasons this would not be in the best interest of the citizens of Kentucky.

1—A lottery is the least effective way to raise state income. The average cost of raising $1 with the lottery is $1.71. The estimated cost of traditional forms of raising state revenue ranges from .01 to .05 cents per dollar. The cost of prizes and administration range from 60% to 75% of income, leaving less than 40% for the state. No state instituting a lottery has been able to avoid a tax increase. Another factor that must be considered in evaluating the real lottery income to the state is the loss of sales taxes involved in the transforming of consumer spending to lottery spending. Rarely have lotteries contributed more than 2% of a state's budget needs.

2—A lottery preys on the poor. When a tax takes proportionally more of the income of people in low income brackets than it does of those in higher income brackets it is considered "regressive." Studies have proved that the lottery primarily attracts poor, long-term unemployed and less educated participants. Poor families spend a five times greater percentage of their income on lotteries than do upper-middle class families. The lottery operators recognize this fact and lottery outlets are concentrated in poorer neighborhoods. The lottery represents the breakdown of a society's obligation to protect its own weak. The preamble of the Constitution states that we formed our national government to "establish justice, insure domestic tranquility...promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty." We ignore this when we take advantage of the weaknesses of a minority to raise money to benefit the entire population. Is this how government should be supported? This should be a special concern for us in eastern Kentucky.

3—A lottery is bad for business. People cannot spend their money twice. Money spent gambling is money lost to consumer business and reduced consumer business leads to a loss of tax revenue.

4—A lottery leads to the degradation of society. How can we teach our children that hard work is the way to success if they are constantly being told by our government that the way to get rich is to bet on a number? Classic values of honesty, thrift, hard work and intelligent actions are undermined by the lottery. A healthy society prospers by hard work, creativity, and thrift, not the roll of dice. The Wall Street Journal recently wrote "It is ironic that today not even the sleaziest moneylender is permitted to do things that state lotteries do as a matter of routine." States which have introduced lotteries have experienced a comparable growth in the gambling rackets of organized crime. Government is to protect the general welfare of its citizens and when it profits from the weakness of those citizens the integrity of the entire institution is a risk.

5—A lottery is clearly against Christian ethics and Biblical principles. Some of God's most stinging judgements are upon those who oppress the poor and exploit others. Love, the central moral imperative of the Bible, is surely violated when personal pleasure and profit are gained at another's pain and loss. The Biblical view of work and the principle of stewardship are violated in a lottery. Gambling violates the two great commandments of Christ: To love God with all of your heart, soul and strength; and our neighbor as ourself.

Sometimes is the responsibility of Kentucky's legislators to protect us from ourselves, and the greed which others will prey upon, by making well informed decisions for us. Kentucky's constitutional process demands such responsibility by the legislature. Responsible citizens should write their state legislators now concerning the lottery. Representative Greg Stumbo; Senator David LeMaster; Senator Benny Ray Bailey, State Capitol Annex, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

These legislators need to know that you could not support and vote for any one who votes for a state operated lottery in Kentucky.

EKU Honors Program For the Outstanding

Eastern Kentucky University has established a new academic honors program for academically talented students.

The program will provide stimulating academic opportunities for outstanding students at Eastern, according to EKU President Hanly Funderburk.

"Our program is designed to challenge Kentucky's brightest students by combining a rigorous academic program with meaningful academic enrichment experiences," Dr. Funderburk said.

The new programs will feature a series of honors seminars within the University's general education program. Intensive study will focus on the interrelatedness of knowledge, influences of the past on the present and future, methods for acquiring, analyzing, synthesizing and evaluating information, and experience and skill in oral and written communication.

Additional enrichment opportunities will include presentations by guest speakers, selected readings and discussions, and special projects and activities.

The program will be implemented and EKU's first honors program class will be admitted to honors study at the beginning of the 1988 fall semester, according to Dr. Jack Culross, dean of academic support and undergraduate studies. Completion of the four-year program will entitle students to graduate as "Honors Scholars."

"Students in the honors program will participate in exciting learning experiences," Culross said. "These students will also interact with senior members of the EKU faculty in smaller, informal class sessions.

"Students who are national merit finalists or semifinalists are automatically eligible to enter the program," he said. For other students, preference will be given to those who meet the following requirements:

A high school grade point average of 3.5 on a 4.0 scale; completion of the Kentucky pre-college curriculum or its equivalent, and a composite score on the American College Test (ACT) of at least 25, with no individual score below 20.

Culross said that students who meet honors program eligibility requirements may qualify for one or more academic scholarships. Eastern recently revised its scholarship program to automatically provide substantial awards to students who excel academically.

Application forms and additional information are available by contacting: Director, Honors Program, Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, Ky. 40475-0947, (606) 622-2262.

Martin Grade Students Plan Town's History

By Tim Sizemore

If history repeats itself, then an eighth grade class at Martin Elementary will have an insight into the future, due to an innovative program that delves into Martin's past.

A new program in cooperation with Foxfire of Raeburn Gap, Georgia and the Appalachian Center at the University of Kentucky is capturing the enthusiasm and imagination of Bud Reynolds' english class.

The Appalachian Center and Foxfire have contributed $500 to the project and Mr. Reynolds is hopeful that more funding will become available.

Students have purchased tape recorders, a camera and a typewriter, and plan to do a history of Martin, recording conversations with older residents and examining records and genealogies. Ultimately students will transcribe the material into a book.

Reynolds says that Carol Stumbo, of Wheelwright High School, has been a great inspiration and help in establishing the program. Stumbo started a similar program at Wheelwright that has led to state and national recognition of the student publication "Man Trip."

Agencies Work Together To Help Area Homeless

By Megan E. Corcoran

There are said to be 600 individuals who are homeless in the area. One example of how the system works in helping the homeless of Floyd county is the case of Shirley Berger, 29, of Price. Homeless for five months, she is a divorced, burn-out victim and has two children, ages six and 12.

"We stayed in our car on and off for a long time. We stayed with relatives, but they just didn't have the room. My children were cold and scared," Berger said. "Faye helped us get our first month's rent together, and C.A.P. helped us with our electric bill. I'm going to pay back my loan by working at the Wheelwright Youth Center. They really helped us through a hard time."

Help is being provided through the cooperation of several different associations in Floyd county. Although there are no long-term projects in the area, emergency needs are being met.

Two years ago, the Ministerial Association was founded through money from the "Hands Across America" project. Every year since, the Ministerial Association has applied for a $36,000 grant from the Federal Emergency Management Association, (FEMA), for aid for the homeless.

In cooperation with the Ministerial Association, an organization called Christian Cooperative Ministries was founded to help answer the needs of the homeless in the area. Through this organization and several churches in Floyd county, aid is administered by pastors and workers.

Rev. Steve Hopkins, of the First Baptist Church, and Rev. Tim Jensen, of the First Presbyterian Church, here, are both a part of the Ministerial Association who work with Faye Ruffing, director of the Christian Cooperative Ministries.

Ruffing said that FEMA money is provided for the people who need help with rent, utilities and sometimes groceries. Emergency prescriptions are filled and those in need of further medical attention are sent to a doctor with FEMA covering the cost.

Expenditures for March 1987 through Sept. 1987 were $33,000, and $20,000 of that money was spent on the six different food pantries across the county.

Doreen Martin, director of the food pantry located in Drift, works through the Presbyterian Church and an organization called Christian Service Ministries. Martin says that people ask for help due to many different reasons.

"There are burn-out victims, people lose their jobs, or a husband dies and the widow is left with children to feed. There is a transition period here of at least three months until social security comes through. She has no job and has never worked before in her life. These are the needs we are meeting," Martin said.

Rev. Jensen said the homeless problem here is not like that found in big cities. "The people here are temporarily homeless and need emergency help due to eviction, burn-out, or they simply don't have a decent place to live. The problem here is housing."

When a person has no place to stay, the Ministerial Association will set them up in a motel temporarily and in the meantime help them search for a place of their own, and a job if needed.

The Christian Appalachian Project receives referrals from the Ministerial Association and Christian Cooperative Ministries. Through C.A.P., clothing is provided or a loan to pay a utility bill.

"When a person receives a loan, they repay C.A.P. by working in one of our programs or paying the loan back a little each month. This is not charity; we just are trying to help people get back on their feet," Donna Yellen, director of C.A.P.'s Emergency Assistance Program, said.

Members of the ASCS board, Miss Ruby Akers, chairman, Hansford Spears, and Joe Ed Slone, alternate; met last Wednesday with Sharon Conley, senior ASCS staff member, to express their concern at the present situation and to formulate a request that separate offices be established for Knott and Floyd counties. Failing this, the board will request that the office here be open a reasonable number of days to transact business.

The county ASCS helps farmers in the county in administering federal farm programs such as the burley tobacco, feed grain, and conservation cost-sharing programs.

Ten Years Ago

(January 18, 1978)

The weather was more than a mere conversation piece this week as 10 to 12 inches of snow temporarily ended many normal activities, seriously curtailed others, and affected the entire population. More than 60 persons, including representatives of federal and state funding agencies, braved falling snow and icy roads Friday, to attend an all-day meeting hosted by Carl D. Perkins at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. The Prestonsburg Fire Department was credited with containing a fire last Tuesday which destroyed two buildings and threatened an entire block of downtown Salyersville. A second fire, the following night, burned two more buildings on the same block. Charles Nicklas, enterprise development specialist, Big Sandy Area Development District, told the Prestonsburg Area Chamber of Commerce at its luncheon meeting Monday that the local economy had lost $2,130,000 and 495 jobs due to the closing of the U.S. Shoe Company plant. State Senator Jim Hammond last week announced in Frankfort details of a tax program he is seeking for the benefit of the state's coal counties. There died: Edgar Charles (E.C.) Slade, 82, of Martin, January 11, at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Mack Lewis, 65, of Banner, January 6 at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Arthur Vance, 64, formerly of Floyd county, December 28 at Ohio's Madison County Hospital; Thomas Duty, 67, of Meally, Friday, November 30 at Mountain Manor Nursing Home; Miles H. Cook, 84, formerly of Melvin, Saturday, January 7 at his home near Hindman; Sam Tackett, 58, of Little Paint Creek, Friday at his home; Mrs. Flotilla Burke, 71, of Halo, Tuesday at St. Joseph's Hospital in Lexington; Mrs. Mamie Setser Leslie, 60, of Emma, Sunday morning, dead on arrival at Highlands Regional Medical Center; J.I. Soad, 90, of Pikeville, Saturday at Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

Twenty Years Ago

(January 18, 1968)

Floyd county's schools reopened this morning (Thursday) for the first time since Christmas vacation began. Wayland is one of seven Kentucky towns which were given a last warning Tuesday before the state takes legal action to force them to build adequate sewage treatment facilities. Major part of a Floyd county family fell afoul of the law last Thursday when officers found two moonshine stills near Risner and jailed a father, his two sons and his son-in-law. Conservation officers are engaged in a crackdown on stream pollution which, they say, will extend to all offenders. Married: Miss Glenda Amburgey, of Allen, and Mr. Eugene Blackburn, of Endicott, Dec. 22 at the Free Will Baptist Church at Endicott. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Snodgrass, of Grove City, O., a son, Christopher Allen, Jan. 10 at Columbus, O.; to Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Lafferty, of Price, a son, Ernie Floyd, Jan. 10 at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville; to Mr. and Mrs. David P. Allen, of Prestonsburg, a son, David Patrick, II, Jan. 4 at the Paintsville hospital. There died: Guy E. Childers, 68, formerly of Allen and Martin, Tuesday at Huntington, W. Va.; Hiram (Hie) Stephens, 77, Sunday at his home at Martin; Andrew J. Brown, 75, of East McDowell, Friday at the McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital; Mrs. Katherine Gayheart, 93, of Garrett, Sunday at the Prestonsburg General hospital; Mrs. Lois Ann Durand, 25, formerly of Auxier, Tuesday at Sacramento, Calif.; Christian (Chris) May, 81, last Tuesday at his home at Regina (Pike county); Ellis Martin, 83, of Garrett, Sunday at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville.

Thirty Years Ago

(January 16, 1958)

Purchase of rights-of-way for the Prestonsburg-Auxier by-pass of U.S. 23 has begun, preparatory to an expected contract on the $800,000 roadbuilding project next spring, it was said here this week. After completion of a special population study on Dewey Lake this week, Bernie Carter, chief biologist for the Kentucky Division of Fisheries, said the fishing prospects at the reservoir "looks pretty bright". The number of persons certified to receive government commodities in this county stood at 6,787 persons for January, but the number is climbing according to G. R. Spradin, head of the distribution program in this county. Sheriff Hershell Warrens' official move against the illicit liquor business in this county came Sunday night when he led a party of four of his deputies in the capture of a moonshine still near Lambert, on Clear Creek. There died: Ivo S. Clark, 83, of Wheelwright, Thursday of last week at the McDowell Memorial hospital; Enoch Hicks, 71, of Garrett, Monday at the McDowell Memorial hospital; Lacy Collins, 73, of Auxier, Saturday at the home of a son; Wilburn Bentley, 92, Tuesday at the home of a son at Beaver; William Floyd Justice, 77, of Endicott, Sunday at the home of a relative; Mrs. Perchie Moore, 63, of Lackey, last Wednesday at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin; Ralph Greene, 31, Saturday at his home at Weeksburg.

Forty Years Ago

(January 15, 1948)

A record two-year budget of $111,197,679.64 was asked of the Kentucky Legislature Monday by Governor Earle C. Clements, but even that figure was far short of the total asked for operation of all the state's agencies. Two miners were killed in accidents during the week: Johnny Meade, 39, of Dema, part-owner of the Rice Elkhorn Coal Company at Lackey, was instantly killed last Thursday when trapped beneath a 10-ton slatefall; Harold Perkins, 45, of Hindman, died at the Stumbo Memorial hospital, Lackey, Sunday five days after his skull was fractured by a flying block of coal in a truck mine at Garner, Knott county. Wider support for the proposed Floyd County Public Library was seen here in the early days of the new year, with local groups planning intensified efforts. Injuries suffered Tuesday night of last week in a fall from the Betsy Layne bridge resulted last Thursday in the death at the Prestonsburg General hospital of J. D. (Joe) Hatfield, 71-year-old Betsy Layne man. Among the projects covered by President Truman's proposed budget of $663,219,000 for waterways over the nation was the Dewey Dam reservoir on John's Creek, Congress is asked $2,071,000 for the Floyd county project. Bill Jack Stephens, of West Prestonsburg, sustained a broken back and chest injuries Friday when caught between a coal car and the roof of the truck mine operated on Middle Creek by Mr. Stephens and W. C. Rimmer, of Prestonsburg. Wheelwright's new $8,500 fire truck arrived Wednesday, and it was announced that immediate training of a volunteer fire department will be begun. Authorities here are unable to connect with any crime, old or modern, the human skull found last week atop a Middle Creek ridge by Goble (Jack) Branham, Jr., of West Prestonsburg, while hunting. "Bay Horse," a rather potent substitute for White Horse and other standard liquor brands, is causing police here and a few business men considerable annoyance. "Bay Horse" is local jargon for bay rum, and its current popularity is even cutting in on the business of those who deal in the bonded variety. There died: Phares Crisp, 73, of Martin, Monday at Our Lady of the Way hospital; Mrs. Elizabeth Ellen Spears, 72, at home at Tram, Friday morning.

Fifty Years Ago

(January 20, 1938)

Alleged irregularities at the August primary and the November election resulted this week in the grand jury returning six indictments naming Floyd county poll officials and a precinct worker on counts including the voting of voters not present at the polls, intimidating voters and electioneering in the voting house. Spinal meningitis outnumbered all other communicable diseases which required field visits of the Floyd county health department last year, the report released this week by Dr. Marvin Ransdell, department director, shows. Prestonsburg's first all home-owned wholesale grocery—Central Wholesale Grocery—will be in operation within the next few weeks and will be located in the L. Richmond Company building on First Avenue. The newly-completed Weeksburg school, consisting of 14 classrooms, study hall and an auditorium and built at total cost of $37,000 is now being attended by more than 400 students in the Weeksburg area. Sixteen Prestonsburg citizens have been selected here as committeemen, with Frank Layne as chairman, to aid in the observance of the President's birthday, with a week of activities culminating with the President's ball, that will attempt to raise funds to fight infantile paralysis. Married: Miss Delpha Johnson, formerly of Prestonsburg, and Mr. C. L. Keeton, of Salyersville, New Year's Day in Lexington. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Brady Shepherd, a daughter, Magdalene, Jan. 6 at their home here; to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Compton, of Dock, a daughter, Sallie Lane; to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ousley, of Dock, a daughter, Julia Ann. There died: Ballard Branham, 47, at his home here last Thursday; Matt Caudill, 26, at home on Stephens Branch, January 11; H. K. Brown, father of E. B. Brown, of Prestonsburg, Sunday at his home in Lawrence county; Dave Wiley, former C. & O. section foreman, January 11 at the Stumbo Memorial hospital, Lackey.

Fearless Forecast For '88

Arizona Gov. Babbitt called out the National Guard to break a strike. Pat Robertson had a child out of wedlock. Senator Biden admitted plagiarism and exaggerating his law school record. Jessie Jackson spit in the food. Gov. Dukakis read a Playboy magazine when he was in Third Grade. Expect some of these men to become disillusioned and quit. Gary Hart and Jessie Jackson lead in the polls. People want their candidates to be sexy—not smart.

The Democratic Convention will be in shambles. Jackson and Hart may have enough delegates to assume the role of brokers in a brokerage convention. We will elect a new Congress. In Kentucky you can expect a nasty race in First District; a hotly contested race in 3 and 6, all incumbents seeking reelection will be re-elected.

Congress will come up with a work-based welfare. Reagan wants to put a body in the empty seat on the Supreme Court. His attempts are like Hadacol's whiskey. A friend gave him a bottle of whiskey. When asked how it was, he said it was just right. If it had been any better he wouldn't have given it to me, and if it had been any worse I couldn't have drunk it. It took three tries to get one. Bork and Ginsburg, the Congress couldn't take, but Kennedy will be accepted. He is important, he is the tie breaker.

There will be a Summit Meeting between Pres. Reagan and Soviet Leader Gorbachev—May not insure peace but will prolong war. Texaco will pay off its judgment with a new product 10w 40 mascara in quarts—advertised by Tammy Baker.

Jessica Hahn is not a bimbo. George Bush may not be a wimp but they are both millionaires. Jessica didn't have to show much to make a million dollars, or collect hush money. Donna Rice didn't get much.

A new administration is beginning in Frankfort. Fasten your seat belts and enjoy the ride, it will be interesting.

The Martha Layne Collins administration will get more criticism in the next four months than it has had in the past four years.

The Governor and General Assembly will have discord and strife. The Governor and Lieutenant Governor will have discord, but no strife.

The General Assembly will convene at high noon on the first Monday in January. It meets 60 days every two years. It has been said that Kentucky would be better off if it was in session two days every 60 years. No man's life, liberty or property is secure while the Legislature is in session.

Wilkinson's talent search across Kentucky ended in his own backyard. He found people who were new to state government but not new in their loyalty to Wilkinson. The talent search was a great idea while it lasted.

House Bill 1 will be the Lottery. Governor Wilkinson's term will be half over before the first lottery ticket is cashed in Kentucky. Wilkinson was the big winner in the lottery. There will be three or four Constitutional Amendments, and the more we have, the less chance of passage they all have.

Lack of money will be the biggest issue facing the legislature. The state will have a $500 million short fall. Over the mild protests of the Governor, the legislature will eliminate the deduction of federal income taxes from state taxes. This won't be enough. You either raise taxes or curtail services. Possibilities are: 5¢ tax on soft drinks; an amnesty on delinquent taxes. There will be an attempt to remove the exemption on certain sales tax items—won't pass.

Expect a tug of war over the Governor's education bill. The Legislature will try to fund the bill it passed last year. The Governor will give in.

New administration will be faced with the problem of whose bust to put in State Capitol. The last three—Col. Sanders, Thelma Stovall, and John Sherman Cooper—who do you say?

Little Tabatha Foster will be alive and walking around next Christmas. Toyota will run its first car down the assembly line and give it to Martha Layne Collins.

ECONOMICS

The Dow, after all its ups and downs finished 1987 higher than 1986—1977 to 1895—4% higher.

There will be concern over the direction of stocks, bonds, the dollar, interest rates, inflation and the trade deficit. Due to lack of confidence, the market will be up and down.

But if you want to worry about something, focus on the country's massive dependence on foreigners to finance our debt.

In '87, Dow reached a high of 2722 and a low of 1738. It won't exceed either the high or the low in '88. The first half of the year will be up and down uncertainty and testing. In the last half, it will settle at around 2500. There will not be another 500 drop like Blue Monday.

There will be general unrest with the brokers and you may find yours selling shirts and ties in the local men's store. When E. F. Hutton speaks, his wife says "shut up."

You may see the biggest bond market in history. The dollar will be devalued but cheap imports will be around for another four years.

Ordinarily and customarily we stoned the prophets and paid needling tribute to some business or profession. This year it will be the political system. There is a thin line between a politician and a statesman. It has been said a politician thinks of the next election; a statesman of the next generation. A politician looks for the success of his party—a statesman for that of his country.

John F. Kennedy said, "Mamas want their sons to grow up to be President, but they don't want them to become politicians."

A. Lincoln, "If ever a free people—if this government itself is utterly demolished, it will come from this incessant human wriggle and struggle for office, which is but a way to live without work."

Since the beginning of our nation, we have sought a method of preventing fraud in high places in our government. Of major concern has been the electoral process. Two hundred years ago at the Constitutional Convention, Alexander Hamilton was dubious of Democracy. He wrote, "Give the vote to the people who have no property, and they will sell them to the rich who will be able to buy them."

For more than a century Party Candidates were selected by a convention in "smoke filled rooms." Men were rewarded for their contribution to government and party loyalty. Presumably, to improve the system, eliminate the appearance of fraud, and maybe elect A. B. Chandler governor, we went to the Primary Election system. I have no way of knowing if this maneuver improved the quality of our elected officials. For almost two decades, the winning candidate has been the one that raised and spent the most money. I am not sure this was an improvement.

A voter fraud panel has been appointed to put an end to voter fraud. They came up with:

1. Purge registration rolls annually.
2. Remove dead people from lists.
3. Require voters to produce identification.
4. Eliminate widespread distribution of voter lists.

We need to look down the other end of the gun barrel. In our generation, there is no limit to the amount of money that can be raised or spent, the candidates own or contributions. Nobody contributes to a candidate in the interest of good government but they will contribute in the interest of special favors. The Metropolitan Media has a field day keeping a record of the amount raised by each candidate. They think it is great. A rich candidate puts in millions of his own money and after he is elected people rush in with their contributions and pay it back. They may have spent more than $50 for each vote they got.

Friday's Courier-Journal carried the news story that Lacy Smith will announce his candidacy for Congress from First District. The news focused not on qualifications or programs or what he can do for his country, but that he could spend 1/2 million dollars and his opponent had only 1/4 million. Who will put it up, and how will they get it back?

The late great Senator Dick Maloney had been president of the Kentucky Senate for 8 years. He gave up his Senate seat and ran for the House. When asked, why, he has been quoted as saying, "My Senate seat takes in several of the old 'silk stocking' areas of Lexington. The people live in good homes and are 'old money'. By contrast, my House seat includes Irish Town, and the rest is mostly black. It costs me about $5 a vote and I like the savings. I can finance my campaign for the House out of my own money, and that leaves my hands free after the election. A senate rose requires financing from outside sources—and obligates me to the satchel men." Senator Maloney was describing a condition that seems to raise no eyebrows.

Now, take a poor, uneducated man living in a remote area, down on his luck, out of work, $5 in his pocket and nothing in the bank and three hungry children—probably will never see a Senator or a Governor and expects no special favors. Somebody offers him $50 for his vote. He takes it and ends up in jail. I don't know which is worse.

It is a rare thing for the outcome of an election to be changed by voter fraud. This only reaches a very small portion of the electorate.

This does not mean that the system is bad, but that it is working. Don't throw the baby out with the bath water.

Winston Churchill said Democracy is the worst system of government in the world except all the others. Ours is the simplest, oldest and most copied form of government on the face of the earth, and probably the least corrupt government of all.

We may squabble in our politics and air out soiled civic linen, but we do so that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth.

Dr. Chandra Heads OLW Medical Staff

Dr. Chandra Varia

Dr. Chandra Varia succeeded Dr. Lowell Martin as chief of Our Lady of the Way Hospital's medical staff, January 1.

The election was held at Our Lady of the Way Hospital during the December medical staff meeting. Also elected were Dr. Gan Maddiwar as vice-president and Dr. Gan Clarita Vicher, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Chandra began her practice in obstetrics and gynecology here in July 1979. She is secretary of the Floyd County Medical Society and a delegate to the Kentucky Medical Association.

Dr. Chandra brings personal and professional goals to her new position. She feels that women are second-class citizens in American society and is particularly concerned about the lack of medical benefits for widowed homemakers. She advocates "equal pay for equal training," noting that Eastern Kentucky doctors receive less compensation than their professional peers elsewhere for the same services.

With regard to Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Dr. Chandra will encourage the medical staff to be active on hospital committees and participate in policy and procedure decisions.

Dr. Chandra is also determined to make the general public better acquainted with the hospital's location and services.

"We are qualified and professional," said Dr. Chandra, "and because we are small, we can offer service that is specialized and personalized."

Key Staff Members Are Named By Cowan

A former FBI official and a prosecuting attorney from Lexington are among key players teaming up with Attorney General-elect Fred Cowan.

"I'm delighted to have attracted people of such quality and experience, people who already have a long track record of public service," Cowan said today in announcing the appointments. He said the appointees will enable him in tackling issues like child support, vote fraud and prison crowding.

Appointments to the Attorney General-elect's staff include David Vest, who will be Cowan's Deputy Attorney General. Vest, 41, from Lexington, has been Fayette county's chief assistant county attorney. Reba Cobb will be executive assistant. Before joining the Cowan staff in 1986, Cobb, 44, was a minister at the Crescent Hill Baptist Church in Louisville. Another staff member named is Marsha Morgan, who will be an administrator in the Attorney General's Office. Morgan, 34, is from Lexington and has served for several years in the Cabinet for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Benjamin Keutzer will be the new director of the Special Investigations Division. Keutzer, 54, of Louisville, retired from the Federal Bureau of Investigation in 1983 with 21 years of service. He became Shively's police chief in 1984 and received acclaim for restoring credibility to the department before leaving last January. He is presently a training instructor with the Department of Justice.

Others appointed by Cowan are Andrew Coiner as an assistant for Legislative Affairs; Dr. Deborah Wilson, 38, of Louisville, as Policy Advisor; Phillip G. Miller, 34, of Louisville, as Communications Director, and Maresa Taylor as an administrative assistant.

Winter Travel Risky, But— Commonsense Measures Help

Winter travel can be hazardous and officials of the state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services urge Kentuckians to think twice before taking a long trip during the coldest part of the winter.

If you must travel when roads are affected by snow and ice, then consider public transportation, if it is available. It would be much safer than using your own vehicle.

If you must use your automobile for a trip of any distance, here are some important precautions to consider:

Make sure your car is in excellent repair, properly serviced and equipped with all-weather or snow tires. Snow chains should be considered if your tires are not designed for snow conditions. Check your owner's manual for proper tire inflation.

Make sure someone else knows where you are going, your approximate schedule and your estimated time of arrival. An agreement to contact the person by telephone when you do arrive at the destination could be an added consideration.

Take another responsible adult with you, if possible. Two heads can be better than one in an emergency.

Travel in daylight hours, and keep to the main highways if you can. Keep the car radio turned on for weather information and road advisories.

Start with a full tank, and once underway, keep your gasoline tank at or near the half-full mark or better. If you get stranded, it will allow for vital in-car heat.

Drive sensibly, using all possible caution if the road surfaces are affected by snow and ice. It's better to take your time, and drive at speeds appropriate to road and weather conditions.

Have a "storm kit" in the trunk of your vehicle in winter weather. Include a container of sand, shovel, windshield scraper, tow chain or rope, flares and a flashlight with extra batteries kept separate from the flashlight.

It's also good to have heavy gloves or mittens, overshoes, extra woolen socks and headgear such as a ski mask to cover your head and face.

Don't push your luck. If conditions grow worse, rather than risk being stalled, lost or isolated, use good judgment. Turn back, find a motel or restaurant, and seek help.

Don't be influenced by what somebody else thinks of your taking those extra precautions. It's your risk, not theirs.

If you get caught in a blizzard, seek refuge immediately—do not risk "going on" in the face of severe storm. Nothing good will come of it, and it could cost more than you'd want to pay for your mistake.

IF YOU BECOME STALLED OR YOUR CAR BREAKS DOWN

Keep your wits about you. If you become stalled, or think you are lost, panic is your worst enemy. Carefully decide what's the best and safest thing to do, and then do it slowly and deliberately.

If you're on a well-traveled road, signal that you are in trouble by flashing directional lights, or hanging a cloth from the radio aerial or from your car window.

Remain in your car and stay warm while you wait for help to arrive.

You may periodically run the engine to keep warm, but remember to keep a window open for a little ventilation. It will protect you from deadly carbon monoxide fumes. (Keep your car exhaust pipe free of snow!)

Wherever you are, if there is no house or other place of refuge in sight, do not leave the car to search for assistance. In many cases this will result in your getting confused (in heavy snowfall, etc.), lost or worse.

If you can possibly do it, stay awake—not only for safety, but also to be alert to an opportunity for help. If you have traveling companion, one of you can stay awake while the other gets a little sleep.

Marshall Students To Exhibit Art Work

Cash awards and purchase prizes will be presented during a reception in the Birke Art Gallery Friday, Jan. 22, honoring Marshall art students, whose work was selected for the juried exhibition of student art work to be displayed Jan. 20 through 31.

Submissions were reviewed and prize winners determined by an independent panel composed of Louise Polan and Eason Eige, curators with the Huntington Museum of Art.

Several University and community sponsors donated cash awards, gift certificates and purchase awards for the exhibition.

The public is invited to see the show and to attend the reception and awards presentation from 6 to 9 p.m.

Home Over Nursing Home Is Many People's Choice

Home instead of a nursing home. That's the choice nearly 1,200 eligible Kentuckians made in 1987 by signing up for a special Medicaid project that offers an alternative to institutional care.

Under Kentucky's home- and community-based services plan, private or public home health agencies that meet certain criteria are reimbursed for services not usually covered by Medicaid, thereby allowing some low-income people to remain at home if their families or friends can provide other aspects of their care.

The Department for Medicaid Services phased in the project across the state gradually during 1987, following a trial run in Bluegrass Area Development District counties. By the end of last year, 73 local home health agencies were participating, with more expected to take part beginning in 1988.

Medicaid Services Commissioner Hughes Walker said, "During the three and one-half years this 'stay-at-home option' was offered on an experimental basis in the Bluegrass area, 608 people enrolled."

"This reinforced our belief that a significant number of people would avail themselves of the opportunity to receive medical care in their own home instead of in a nursing home."

"This also benefits the state Medicaid budget," Walker said, "costing an average of 70 percent less than the usual expenditures for nursing home care."

To be eligible for this special arrangement, a Medicaid client must need the type of care offered in an intermediate or skilled care nursing home.

Then, supported by family or friends as needed, a participating home health agency can provide or arrange for such types of aid as homemaker services, personal care, adult day health care and minor home adaptations.

The commissioner pointed out that, because family and friends helped, Medicaid paid for homemaker services for only 68 percent of the participants in 1987 and for help with personal care for only 55 percent. Respite care—short-term relief for family and friends responsible for the patient's care—was provided in 18 percent of the cases.

"Assistance offered through this program supplements that already provided by family and friends," he said.

"Providing round-the-clock care for an extended period of time taxes the physical and emotional strength of the caregiver, who may be the patient's spouse, child, parent or a long-time friend," Walker said. "But with the help of a local home health agency, that burden can be lessened considerably."

The program has no age restrictions—24 of the participants last year were under age 16—but the majority (82 percent) are 55 years old or older.

One-fourth (26 percent) of the participants are married; 45 percent are widowed. Three-fourths (73 percent) of the patients are female.

Nearly half (46 percent) live alone; 26 percent live with someone over age 65. In all cases the degree of family and community support varies.

"Our primary focus is ensuring high quality patient care in the most appropriate and desirable setting," Walker said, "whether that is the patient's own home, the home of a friend or relative or a nursing home."

Highlands Employees' Help Needy

A PARTNERSHIP OF SHARING paid off for the needy when employees of Highlands Regional Medical Center gave donations of food during a three-week drive during the holidays. Howard Sparks, director of the Paintsville Salvation Army is shown above accepting the donations from Rosella Pennington, assistant personnel director at Highlands.

Sparks said, "There are many people in our area who barely have enough food to survive. But, with continued support from the community, such as Highlands gave, we hope to have a steady supply of food to assist them all year round."

Throughout the Big Sandy Area there are 58,894 households; 9,462 of them with incomes below poverty level and 6,906 families on public assistance. Approximately 25 percent of the 65+ age group (4,259 of 16,602) are below the poverty level and 4,267 live alone.

According to Rosella Pennington, assistant personnel director at Highlands, "The 1987 holiday season marked the sixth year HRMC has sponsored a food drive. The basic starting point toward a healthy life begins with good nutrition," she said. "Through contributions of this nature, we hope to provide some members of the community with one of the staple elements of existence—food."

The Salvation Army utilizes community support to help all needy people, many of whom are elderly and have no relatives for support.

Contact the Salvation Army office at Paintsville, (789-2578) if you or someone you know requires assistance or desires additional information regarding donations.

Hogs Must Be Proved Free of Pseudorabies

Kentucky swine producers have begun testing their herds for pseudorabies in preparation of meeting health requirements in the Commonwealth after Jan. 1.

Markets in Kentucky will then require swine producers to show proof that their feeder pigs originate from herds that are being monitored for the highly contagious, transmissible virus before the animals can be sold. Pseudorabies can cause death in young pigs and reproductive problems and abortions in older swine.

"While many other states require herds to be monitored for the disease, Kentucky is the only state offering complete herd testing at no cost to its farmers," said Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell. "State and federal monies are being used to pay the testing costs when a farmer agrees to test his breeding swine for pseudorabies and brucellosis. So, farmers should not hesitate to contact their veterinarians and set up testing."

Farmers in Kentucky can also meet the new health requirements by testing only a percentage of his breeding herd for pseudorabies. However, the farmer must pay the cost of testing under this option.

Producers whose herds test negative for the disease will be given a pseudorabies surveillance card verifying the herd as pseudorabies free.

"The new regulations are a positive move for the swine industry in Kentucky," said Boswell. "Many of the markets to which Kentucky swine are explored—especially in Indiana, Illinois and Tennessee—have these same marketing regulations. These new Kentucky regulations will keep our swine producers competitive in all their major markets and offer long-term economic benefits when the disease is totally eradicated from the Commonwealth's herds."

Approximately 80 percent of the feeder pigs produced in Kentucky are explored to other states; 20 percent remain in Kentucky to be fed out.

With other changes recently made, existing Kentucky swine regulations now provide the following:

—Swine entering Kentucky for feeding and/or breeding purposes from other states must have an entry permit.

—Swine coming into Kentucky must have a negative 30-day test for pseudorabies and brucellosis or originate from a herd verified free of the diseases.

—Breeding swine coming into Kentucky must be quarantined for 30 days on the farm and receive a post movement retest 30 days to 60 days after arriving at the farm.

—All breeding swine sold at stockyards which are going back to a farm must have had a negative test for pseudorabies and brucellosis within 30 days of arriving at the stockyard.

"Right now, Kentucky is not bothered by a high incidence rate for pseudorabies," Commissioner Boswell said. "However, we must keep close surveillance of the disease to keep markets open to Kentucky animals. Feeder pig producers need to get in touch with their veterinarians and get testing of their herds underway."

AN UNWANTED LIFT

The debate has gone back and forth as to whether or not caffeine is good for a person's health. There is one indisputable fact, though, concerning caffeine. It is a drug. Most people do not need a scientific study to tell them that caffeine makes them anxious and jittery. Pregnant women usually wish to avoid caffeine as a precautionary measure. People should bear in mind that thousands of medications contain caffeine. Some use this ingredient to suppress the appetite. Some use it to speed a drug's active ingredient through the bloodstream. Regardless of its intended purpose, consumers who are concerned about caffeine intake should check the labels on all over-the-counter medicines. The pharmacist should be asked about the inclusion of caffeine in prescribed medications.

You will always find the staff at COOLEY APOTHECARY friendly, courteous and most anxious to answer any questions you have about your prescription or over-the-counter medications. We are a full service pharmacy offering you everything you would expect to find in a well-inventoried drug store. ## Stored Grain Management Video Conference Is Set

Many nationally known authorities on stored grain management will participate in an upcoming satellite video conference for grain producers and elevator managers.

The first Stored Grain Management Video conference for the U.S. grain industry will originate Feb. 9 from Oklahoma State University and will be transmitted via Westar 4 satellite, channel 19 to many viewing locations in more than 35 states, including Kentucky. Air time will be 8 to 10 p.m. EDT.

Topics will include management of various stored grain insects, proper use of grain bin aeration systems, mold prevention in stored grain and economic considerations in storing grain.

Specialists in entomology, agricultural engineering, plant pathology and agricultural economics from the University of Kentucky, Oklahoma State University, Kansas State University, University of Minnesota and Purdue University will share their expertise. Taped video segments also will be utilized to demonstrate recommended management practices. Dick Stuckey, University of Kentucky Extension plant pathologist will speak on mold management.

Viewers will be able to phone in questions to the specialists after presentations about each subject, thus allowing more detailed discussion of topics of interest to all the audience. A question and answer session involving all participants then will close the video conference.

A consensus has been building among specialists from several land grant universities with stored grain management programs that a coordinated approach to addressing problems and presenting research information is needed. Planners of this conference have been preparing for this important video conference for several months, said Harley Raney, University of Kentucky Extension Integrated Pest Management coordinator.

The video conference will allow managers of store grain to become more aware of serious problems that can develop during both short-term and long-term storage, Raney said.

More information about receiving the video conference can be obtained from Raney at (606) 257-7476.

KET Gives Look At Congressmen

"Kentuckians in Congress" is a series of shows designed to give Kentuckians a close, personal look at their representatives in Congress, and KET airs this seven-part series beginning Sunday, January 24 at 7 p.m.

"Kentuckians in Congress" explains how our Congressmen divide their time between Washington and Kentucky, how they deal with their constituents, and how their families handle the difficult division of responsibility. They also share with us glimpses of the exciting world of Capitol Hill.

It features interviews with Senators Wendell Ford and Mitch McConnell and Representatives Larry Hopkins, Harold Rogers, Carroll Hubbard, Jim Bunning, and Chris Perkins (Congressmen Romano Mazzoli and William Natcher were unavailable for interview).

In the first program, "Kentuckians in Congress" Producer/Host Sally Jackson visits Senator Wendell Ford in his Washington, D.C. office. Senator Ford has been described as one of the best horse traders in the Senate. A native of Owensboro, he has devoted the majority of his life to the "little man" and to his beloved state of Kentucky. Senator Ford is said to represent the last of old Kentucky politics.

Before his election to Congress in 1974, Ford served as a Kentucky senator from 1965-1967, lieutenant governor from 1967-1971, and governor from 1971-1974.

A BLOOMING SUCCESS: Wildflowers may become a common sight along many of this country's highways, thanks to a law recently passed by Congress. The Federal Highway Administration now requires that a portion of the money spent on landscaping along certain roads be used to plant native wildflowers. According to National Wildlife magazine, wildflowers reduce the need for mowing and watering and also seem to deter people from littering.

Geologic Survey Marks 150th Year of Service

In 1838, William Mather traveled Kentucky, creating the first comprehensive record of the commonwealth's mineral wealth. That marked the beginning of the Kentucky Geological Survey, which this year observes its 150th anniversary.

The sesquicentennial celebration is highlighted by completion of the new $14 million Mining and Mineral Resources Building on the UK campus, which will be occupied by KGS and other mineral-related UK departments beginning in January.

A series of seminars exploring major areas of geological research, and an open house and dinner on June 16, will also be part of the celebration.

The Kentucky Geological Survey traces its roots to 1838, when Mather was appointed by Gov. James Clark as the state geologist of Kentucky. Mather's report, published the next year, outlined Kentucky's two major coal fields and discussed the state's other mineral resources. He also pointed out the importance of Kentucky's waterways as avenues of transportation for mineral commodities.

The coal fields described by Mather today account for much of the activity of the KGS. But the geologists, cartographers, chemists and other KGS personnel are also concerned with mineral resources such as natural gas, oil, limestone and water. They are involved with earthquake preparedness, waste disposal, water management, mine subsidence and a range of other important issues.

The KGS has collected data on an estimated 200,000 oil and gas wells drilled in Kentucky and maintains a well sample and core library that is one of the largest in the nation. This information is made available to the oil and gas industry to promote efficient, successful drilling.

Kentucky is considered the best mapped state in the nation, with complete coverage of both topographic and geologic maps—a fact appreciated by industry and outdoorsmen alike.

The seminar series will bring nationally recognized authorities to UK to speak on a variety of geology-related topics:

Jan. 26 (petroleum); William Fisher, director of the Texas Bureau of Economic Geology and professor at the University of Texas; former Assistant Secretary of the Interior for Energy and Minerals.

Feb. 16 (coal); Harold Gluskoter, chief of the Branch of Coal Geology, U.S. Geological Survey.

March 15 (water); Philip Cohen, chief hydrologist, Water Resources Division, U.S. Geological Survey.

Auction Raises $97,000 For Sweet 16 Academics

Phone bids reached $97,000 at the close of the third annual Sweet 16 Academic Showcase Auction held January 12 in Lexington's Heritage Hall. The three-hour auction was televised live by four local television stations and a Hazard station.

Last year's auction brought bids of $61,000 of which $54,000 was collected. The first auction in 1986 netted $8,300.

Central Kentucky businesses donated about 120 auction items including a car, trips, furniture, UK basketball tickets, a year's supply of gasoline, and a building lot. Over 300 volunteers worked at the auction answering phones, sorting bids and verifying calls. Local news media donated advertising space and air time to promote the auction. General Telephone of the South donated the phones and service.

All of the money collected from the auction will go directly toward the Sweet 16 Academic Showcase and other satellite programs. None of the funds are spent on administrative costs.

Lexington Mayor Scotty Baesler originated the Sweet 16 Academic Showcase in 1985 to spotlight and reward academic skill and enterprise. The statewide program is for Kentucky high school students. Four regional academic competitions are held in January and February. Regional winners in each category compete at the state finals in Lexington at Transylvania University in March.

In the past two years of competitions, more than $141,000 in scholarships has been awarded to 119 students from 56 Kentucky high schools. The scholarships go to state winners in 12 categories. Individual scholarships are: first place, $2,000; second place, $1,200; and third place, $600. Team members receive the following first place, $1,300; second place, $800; and third place, $450. In addition, the high school which has a first place state winner receives $1,000 to be used for academic programs.

Auction funds also pay for the students accommodations during their stay in Lexington for the state finals and other program costs.

Baesler said he was extremely pleased with the results of the auction. "The people of Central Kentucky have shown their interest in educational programs by supporting the auction with their generous bids," Baesler said. "It takes the interest and dedication from everyone: bidders, volunteers, businesses and the media to make programs like this successful."

FIRST BAPTIST TO OBSERVE MEN'S DAY, JANUARY 24

All members of the church are urged to attend these services and to bring their friends.

Brock Budget Key Dropouts, Kindergarten

Superintendent of Public Instruction John Brock presented a budget calling for full state funding for all-day kindergarten programs, expansion of dropout-prevention efforts, and additional aid to local school districts to the State Board of Education, last Wednesday.

The budget includes sufficient money for 5 percent annual increases for teachers and other local school district personnel. Brock said maintaining competitive salaries is the highest priority.

The $85.9 million kindergarten proposal is the largest new program in Brock's plan for financing local public schools and vocational education programs for the next two years.

His proposal also includes $4 million for new initiatives or expansion of dropout-prevention programs and $8 million for alternative classrooms in high schools.

Additional aid proposed for local schools included $13.2 million for transportation and $900,000 for the program for gifted and talented students.

"This budget retains the educational reforms of 1985 and 1986 and moves us forward in critical areas of need," Brock said.

"We must increase the number of young people who are graduating from high school. My budget directly addresses that need. We must also address the needs for early-childhood education, and the expansion of kindergarten from a half day to a full day is the first step in that direction."

Brock's budget, a revision of a budget prepared earlier by former Superintendent Alice McDonald, was sent to the governor and legislature for their review.

"I am realistic enough to know that the General Assembly cannot fund all the programs I have proposed during this biennium," Brock said. "But I feel that my responsibility as superintendent is to set forth the needs of education."

Brock restored $6 million for matching grants to local school districts for innovative school-business partnership programs and deleted a $12 million proposal for extending a remedial program for children in the first and second grades to the third grade.

Other Brock initiatives included $50,000 over two years for consultants to the State Board of Education and $181,000 for additional review of textbooks before their adoption for use in classrooms.

Brock retained key elements of educational reform, including further reductions in class size and a continuation of the power equalization program at the 13-cent level. Power equalization funnels aid to the state's poorest districts and is designed to correct inequities in state funding to local schools.

Also retained in Brock's budget was funding for five new advanced technology programs as part of the modernization of adult vocational education programs. His proposal continues the program at Bowling Green and adds programs at Louisville, Northern Kentucky, Ashland, Somerset and Paintsville.

Other proposals retained by Brock include expansion of textbook purchases, extended adult education and literacy programs, more teachers for handicapped children, state funds for counselors in elementary schools, a new arts in education program and expanded services for vocational rehabilitation.

On an annual basis, Brock's budget proposal calls for a 15 percent increase in spending for schools for the 1988-89 fiscal year and a 7 percent increase the following year.

State education spending increased 10 percent in 1986-87. An increase of nearly 13 percent was budgeted for the current school year.

A.A.R.P. MEETS

The Jenny Wiley Chapter, A.A.R.P., met last Friday evening at the Highlands Regional Medical Center Cafeteria with Orville Cooley, the new president, presiding, and opening the meeting with prayer. The Pledge of Allegiance was said in unison by the group. Mr. Cooley thanked the former president, James E. Goble, and other former and present officers and committee chairmen for their cooperation.

David Evans, teacher of handicapped children in the Prestonsburg schools, gave a discussion of his work there. Mr. Evans said that the government offers free and appropriate education for the various categories of handicapped children. He told of the need for help for these children, and of the joy at realizing improvements in them. Following his discussion, he answered questions and furnished pamphlets to the group.

Officers and committee chairmen for the year were presented by Mr. Cooley.

Ernest Hayes and Eva and Harmison Hale told of the meeting regarding income tax aid, which they recently attended in Louisville, and discussed the tax aid program offered here.

Others discussing this program included Arthur Haywood and Arnold Moore. This aid, which is free to senior citizens and others in need of such services, will begin Tuesday, February 9, at 10 a.m., at the Floyd County Library, here, and will continue through April 14. It was learned that several changes had been made in regard to the filing of income taxes, but that only about 9 of these should pertain to this group. Social Security booklets were distributed.

Mr. Cooley urged members to join the National A.A.R.P. New members joining the local organization included Lloyd Maynard, Jean Blackburn, and Ernest Hayes.

A "Thank you" note was read from the Jenny Wiley Nursing Home, thanking this group under the direction of Mrs. Eva Allen Hale for furnishing Christmas gifts for the members there. Mrs. Hale told of the improvements there noted by her during the time she was delivering these gifts.

Mr. Cooley recognized Jack Freed, who was instrumental in the organization of the local A.A.R.P., and James E. Goble, who helped Mr. Freed in this endeavor.

Attending the dinner and the meeting were David Evans, a guest, and members, Orville and Gladys Cooley, James E. Goble, Jack Freed, Eva and Harmison Hale, Grady Spradlin, Glenn S. Anderson, Otela S. ### ACHS Wins Flag Of Progress Darren Conn, Allen Central High School's president of the Student Council, recently accepted a Flag of Progress award in recognition of accomplishments achieved during the 1986-87 school year.

A Flag of Progress is awarded in recognition of a school's outstanding improvement in academic achievement. This award is based on improvement in test scores showing improvement either at or above the national median as compared to the previous school year; an increase in student attendance and a lower drop-out rate; standards maintained for accreditation.

This ceremony, hosted November 9 at the UK Center for Arts at Lexington, was the fourth annual ceremony of recognition held by the Kentucky Department of Education and the Kentucky Educational Foundation.

Teenager Temper Tantrums Can Exasperate Parents

Fourteen-year-old Melissa bursts into the kitchen, grabs a snack and, as usual, commandeers the phone to chatter with friends. Normally her father tolerates Melissa's territoriality over the telephone, but this particular afternoon he motioned to her to hang up so he could call a client.

Though Melissa's father thought his request reasonable, Melissa reacted with the indignation of a queen stripped of her crown. "Everybody gets to use the phone around here except me," she bellowed as she slammed down the receiver and stomped off to her room.

It was a tantrum that left Melissa's frustrated father—like other parents who've been on the receiving end of an adolescent's outrage—wondering if he was raising a teenager or a toddler.

Though a teenager's anger may seem to erupt from nowhere, there usually is an explanation. One of the main causes are the physical changes that occur during puberty, a time when the release of powerful hormones results in see-sawing emotions and confusion over sexuality. Teenagers also are frequently caught in the bind of struggling to assert their independence while still financially and emotionally dependent on their parents.

In the case of teenagers who are physically violent or who express their rage in excessively abusive outbursts, the cause may be severe depression or drug and alcohol abuse.

Though teenage temper tantrums can be exasperating, automatically threatening to put an adolescent on restriction isn't your only alternative. Instead, try the following:

Accept an occasional bout of moodiness—as long as it doesn't disrupt the entire household—as a normal part of adolescence.

Don't always assume that a teenager who is stomping angrily around the house is upset with you. By taking an adolescent's moodiness personally, you may act to quickly in dispensing discipline or getting into a heated argument. Instead, remember that teenagers frequently aren't sure what they're angry about and, from time to time, simply need to vent their frustrations—as long as they don't hurt anyone in the process.

While you can look the other way during an occasional bout of moodiness, you should acknowledge when a teenager is obviously upset about something. But instead of asking "What's wrong?" (to which you might get a surly "nothing!"), make a non-threatening offer such as "I'm willing to listen" or "I care and I'm here if you need me."

Take time to recall the frustrations you used to feel as a teenager and you'll probably empathize more with what your adolescent is going through. You might even share your recollections with your child.

Avoid arguing with your adolescent about insignificant issues. Sometimes a teenager is waiting for you to say something is white simply so he or she can counter that it's black.

When you disagree over a legitimate issue, aim for a mutually beneficial goal. For instance, instead of playing one-upmanship with your son or daughter over who needs the car most that evening, recognize that the real issue is that you both need transportation. If your teenager wants to go to a friend's house and you have to go to a meeting, offer to drop him or her off on your way.

When a teenager is in the midst of an angry tirade, try throwing him or her off guard by doing something unexpected like challenging him or her to scream even louder. While the volume may increase for a minute or two, you'll probably succeed in breaking his or her concentration so you can have a more rational discussion.

Try not to impose punishment during the heat of an argument. Instead, let everyone take time out to cool off and talk about any necessary disciplinary actions later.

Physical violence or extremely abusive verbal outbursts are never acceptable expressions of anger. When they occur you should seek professional help since such reactions may be the sign of serious problems such as severe depression or drug and alcohol abuse.

A NOTE OF THANKS

The Old Stone Coal Church of Regular Baptist at Garrett, would like to sincerely thank all the wonderful people that donated their time, money and skills toward replacing the ceiling in our church this past Thanksgiving Day. More than twenty of you came to our rescue and helped our church out of an emergency situation. We appreciate you giving up your day with family and relatives to help us in an hour of need. We owe you a debt of gratitude.

Since the church has undergone a remodeling phase, there are so many that we need to thank that space wouldn't permit, however, I don't think anyone could have given more generously of his skill and labor than Ova Spencer. The beautiful remodeled lunchroom is ours to enjoy, and a witness to his fine craftsmanship.

Much of the enjoyment that we shared during the special Thanksgiving Day was provided in large measure by our wonderful Sisters. What a beautiful dinner you set before us! It truly is a blessing to have such wonderful cooks and Sisters of our church.

Since the Stone Coal Church was established in 1803 it enjoys the rank of being one of the oldest churches in Floyd County. During our 184-year history, we have had many occasions to thank our friends and members for their support, but none of the occasions out ranks our need and desire to offer to each of you our warm heart-felt thanks for making this Thanksgiving Day one that we will cherish always.

THANKS FRIENDS FOR YOUR CONFIDENCE AND SUPPORT, we will always strive to earn your respect and continued friendship.

Dated and signed by the authority of the Stone Coal Church in behalf of the entire membership.

ASSORTMENT

By WILMAY

There were no known complaints about a recent column concerning some notables in Floyd county and surrounding area, but there should have been, hence my apologies for omitting many well known ones, equally deserving of recognition, and of course, there are numerous others unknown to this writer. To name a few we do know about are Drs. Dick and Jack Allen, Dr. Arville Wheeler, of Peabody, Curtis Owens, (N.Y.), Devard Owens, (U.K.), Monroe Wicker, (M.S.U.), Carl Woods, (U. of S.C., MSU, and ECU.) Many of this group have passed on. It's good to note countless young ones carving a niche for themselves in several fields over the nation.

No one was shocked to see the lottery bill introduced immediately. It's too bad that more Kentuckians did not hear some West Virginia officials and others there tell how far short that state lottery has fallen from expectations and projections. The same thing happened in Illinois and some other state whose name escapes this writer. Bruce Rabbitt, of Arizona, says the lottery has created a culture of gambling. It is no surprise that even some Christians will vote to give the green light to such an evil.

The Middletown road deal sounds as if it may prove to have been some type of scam. Time should tell. It seems that almost every paper contains some exposure of corruption. Doesn't that reflect on all of us, more or less, since parents have the biggest and most influential job in the world. Some think if fraud were eliminated perhaps half of the income tax returns would finance government. As in every profession, occupation, etc., the majority are honest and dedicated, but it appears that politics presents one of the worst temptations on earth.

After hearing Gary Hart define character, I am inclined to think he will not be victorious in his campaign. American ideals far surpass his, many believe. He claims to have ideas that his opponents lack. What a blessing. Teddy might agree with Hart, who says some former officials of the past escaped what confronted him because of the difference in the media then and now. How come???? What of the reports against Harding, FDR., Ike, J.F.K., and even Benjamin Franklin of an earlier period. I happen to be a Democrat, but like millions of others sometimes cross party lines, would be reluctant to predict the winner in either party in the primaries. One thing is obvious. Mario Cuomo, a governor of N.Y., may yet be a push-over. Why doesn't he announce? Your guess is as good as any. He stands out.

If ever a nation needed to go to prayer earnestly about coming elections, it is America now, for these are momentous times. There are many indications, even outside of scripture, that the coming one world-government, religion, language, and currency may start within the years 1989-1993. If so, times will continue to grow worse, for God's World must be fulfilled.

UP AND OVER: Sophomore Guard Bobby Hood continues to prove that he belongs among the region's up and coming stars. Hood scored 12 points against Betsy Layne and 13 against Jenkins. Here he shoots over Bobcat Glen Hammond.

Third Quarter Brings Trojan Doom, Tuesday

The Wheelwright Trojans are rapidly developing a reputation Coach Monroe Jones could probably do without.

It seems that the Trojans can always produce a strong first half showing, but it takes two halves to make a whole, and somewhere along the line Wheelwright has been forgetting the second half.

In two conference games this season, Wheelwright has led going into the locker room at halftime only to suffer a turn of the scoring tide in the final two quarters.

Their second such game came about last Tuesday night at Betsy Layne, and as a result, the Trojans went into last night's game with McDowell sporting an 0-2 Floyd County Conference record.

Wheelwright owned a three-point lead leading into the second half and appeared to be clicking on all cylinders but were outscored 15-5 in the third quarter and eventually fell, 69-60, to Betsy Layne.

The Bobcats, keeping their undefeated conference record intact, went on an eight to one scoring run to open the third quarter and were never again challenged.

Duran Newsome, Betsy Layne's high scoring junior guard, scored nine of his game high 26 points in the third quarter when the Bobcats opened up their seven-point lead.

And the game started in much the same fashion, but Wheelwright didn't recover the second time.

Wheelwright never scored until the 4:57 mark of the first quarter. By that time they already trailed by seven points, but Bobby Hood scored six consecutive points to take Wheelwright toward a one-point lead heading into the second stanza.

Then Tommy Jones caught fire. Jones, Wheelwright's leading scorer with 14 points, scored nine points, including two three-pointers, in the second period as the Trojans opened their lead to three.

Here comes the reputation part. It looked as if Wheelwright brought two different teams to Betsy Layne, one to play the first half and another to participate in the second.

That second group didn't fare so well.

In two minutes and seven seconds of the third quarter, Betsy Layne had performed their magic act, making the Trojans' lead disappear and putting one of their own in its place.

With 57 seconds gone off the third quarter clock, Barry Hamilton found the range on an outside jumper, and 33 seconds later, Duran Newsome followed that up with a jumpshot of his own.

That one enabled Betsy Layne to take the lead. Keith Hall's basket at 5:33 enabled them to keep it.

During this whole stretch, Wheelwright was punchless, going almost three minutes without scoring. In the first four and one-half minutes of the second half, they scored only one point and during the whole third period they could manage only five points.

Betsy Layne, in the fourth quarter, had four different players to score in the first four minutes while building their lead to 11 points.

Wheelwright failed to get any closer than nine points and lost their second Floyd County Conference game in as many tries.

The Bobcats, 9-3 overall, improved to 3-0 in the conference and held on to sole possession of first place.

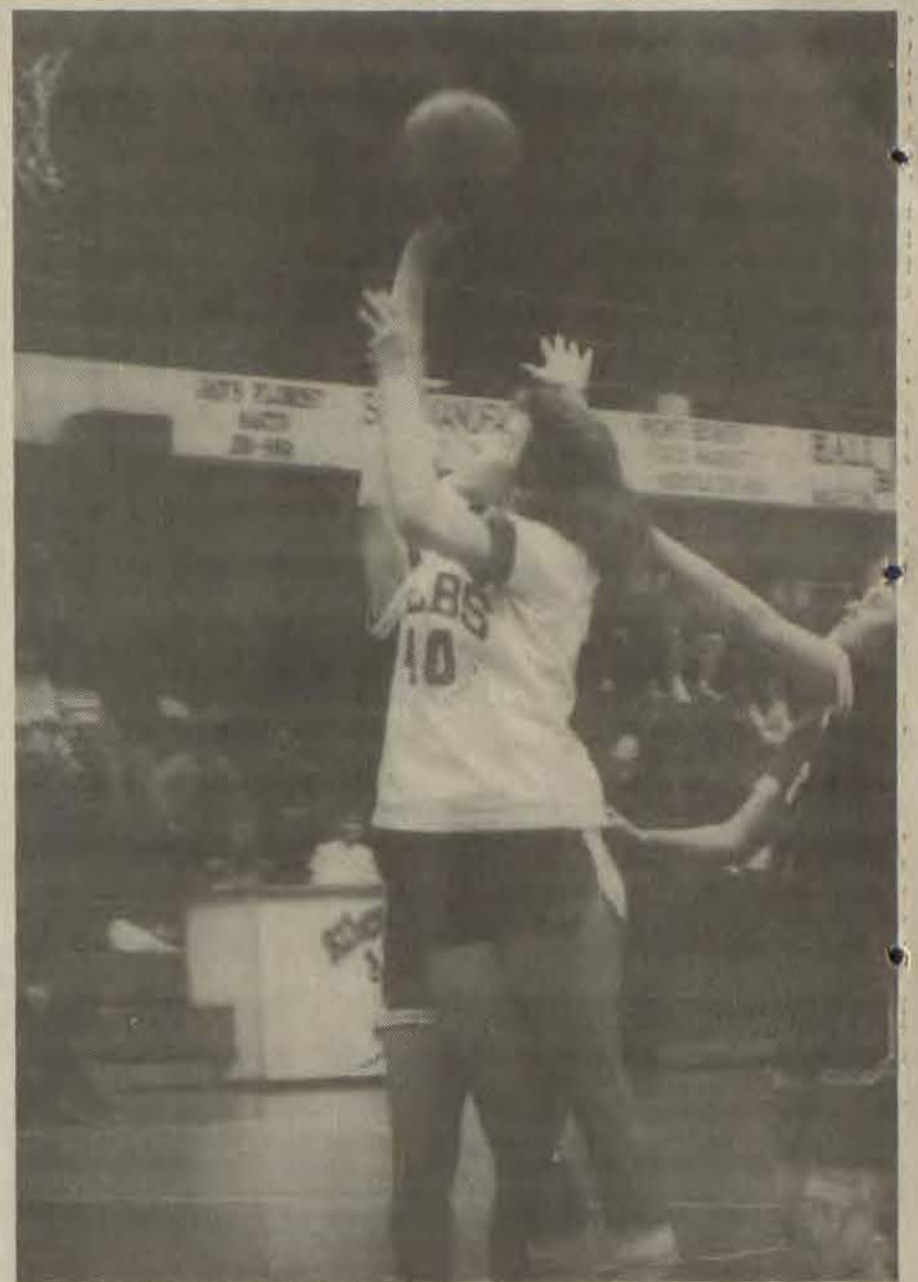

Duran Newsome led the Bobcats with his season high of 26 and got plenty of support from senior forward Todd Sturgill, who scored 15. Glen Hammond, in his new role as a starter, finished with 11.

Tommy Jones topped Wheelwright's scoring charts with 14. Craig Martin ended the game with 13 points, and Bobby Hood added 12.

The Bobcats, recognized as one of the better free throw shooting teams in the district, hit on 12 of their 16 charity stripe chances. Four of those were of the technical foul variety. In comparison, Wheelwright hit only eight of 15 free throws.

INDIVIDUAL SCORING:
BETSY LAYNE: Duran Newsome, 26; Todd Sturgill, 15; Glen Hammond, 11; Barry Hamilton, 9; Sam Stewart, 6; Keith Hall, 2.

WHEELWRIGHT: Tommy Jones, 14; Craig Martin, 13; Bobby Hood, 12; Jason Cook, 9; Brad Compton, 9; Tony Isaac, 3.

TOP NOTCH SCORER: Joann Conn scores two of her team high 19 points against McDowell. Conn, two nights later, tossed in a total of 23 points while hauling down eight rebounds against the Lady Bobcats.

McDowell Survives Free Throw Effort To Down AC

Johnny Ray Turner knows his McDowell basketball team like no other person in the county, but then again, there are times when he may ask himself if he knows them at all.

There was that time at home when the Daredevils didn't score at all in the first quarter against Greenup County.

On another occasion McDowell dropped two straight games at home after opening the season by winning six in a row.

Then came the biggest shocker of them all, a dismal showing from the free throw line against Allen Central, Wednesday night.

Normally a near automatic scoring trip every time McDowell goes to the line, the Daredevils hit only 54 percent from the charity stripe at Allen Central.

That's about 20 percentage points below what they normally shoot.

Turner, like everyone else in attendance, was mystified about the happenings. He even brought up the thought "I don't know why we always shoot so many more foul shots than everybody we play. We always shoot 30 or 40 free throws."

Turner, in his first year at McDowell, wasn't complaining about the number of free throws his team shoots. And he didn't complain much about the number of free throws his team had just missed.

"I'm not going to jump down their throats for missing free throws, because we're a good free throw shooting team," Turner said. "We just had a bad night."

McDowell hit 21 of 39 attempts, but the thing Turner was more interested in was the final stat, and that came in the form of a final score. The Daredevils won 74-60.

McDowell trailed by one point at halftime and found themselves down by as many as four in the fourth quarter but still managed to pull out their third Floyd County Conference win of the season.

"They started doing what I asked them to do," Turner said of his players and their comeback. "We started looking for the open man more, and we played better defense."

And they managed to hit some free throws late in the game.

With 3:44 remaining in the game and McDowell owning a four-point advantage, Dickie Joe Shannon, who led the Daredevils with 24 points, hit two free throws.

Up until that time, McDowell's free throws made could be counted on one hand even though they had shot a total of 17.

Shannon's success sparked his teammates, and the Daredevils connected on 16 of their next 19 opportunities from the charity stripe.

The same thing that prevented them from building an early lead played a key role in a late lead, and the Daredevils won going away.

"I'm real pleased with the team," Turner said after the game. "We had a little letdown before the Christmas break, but we're getting it back together now. I just hope we continue to improve and peak at the right time."

One thing Turner hasn't had to concern himself with much is winning. McDowell owns a 10-3 record and is 3-1 in the conference.

Their only losses have been against Greenup County twice and Betsy Layne. But for a long time, Wednesday night, it looked as if Allen Central would pull the upset.

The Rebels, thanks to some late offense from Rady Martin, took a lead into the fourth quarter but a pair of three-pointers and a couple of baskets from Marc Hall brought McDowell back.

Martin, who has been out with an injured ankle this season, scored nine points in the second half but his offensive production was offset by McDowell's balanced attack.

Martin came off the Rebel bench in the third quarter, hit a jumpshot and two free throws, and gave Allen Central the lead.

Todd Duff, who finished with 14 points, drilled a three-pointer early in the fourth quarter as the Rebels went up by four points with 7:38 remaining in the game.

But Allen Central didn't score again until Martin hit a three-pointer two minutes and 20 seconds later.

During that time Dickie Joe Shannon hit a three-pointer, Marc Hall scored three points, and Henry Webb cashed in on a three-point jumper.

McDowell, all of a sudden, led by five points.

Martin's three-pointer cut the deficit to two points but missed free throws down the stretch run meant defeat for the Rebels.

Allen Central, 1-1 with the conference loss, missed four front ends of bonus opportunities in the fourth quarter.

The Rebels, not normally a successful free throw shooting team, suffered from a 12 for 22 showing at the charity stripe.

McDowell, explosive when they get their running game in high gear, outscored Allen Central, 15-6, during the first four and one-half minutes of the fourth quarter, taking away any Rebel comeback hopes.

The Daredevils also found a way to control Robbie Click. The senior forward hit for 12 points in the first half but cooled off in the second half. Click, though, still led the Rebels with 15 points.

Besides Click, Allen Central's starting front line scored only 13 points.

McDowell was once again highlighted by their talented guard combination of Shannon and Henry Webb. The two juniors hit five three-pointers and finished the game with a combined 42 points.

INDIVIDUAL SCORING:
MCDOWELL: Dickie Joe Shannon, 24; Henry Webb, 18; Marc Hall, 14; Lenny Hall, 12; Keith Shelton, 4; Lance Hall, 2.

ALLEN CENTRAL: Robbie Click, 15; Todd Duff, 14; Joey Conn, 11; Rady Martin, 9; Darren Conn, 4; Bear Halbert, 3; Kevin Webb, 2; Mike Collins, 2.

The Sporting Times

If there is a player in the National Football League that is more important to his team than John Elway is to Denver, let him please stand.

No no, Jim McMahon. The Bears proved they can also be humiliated with you in the lineup. Sit down, you may hurt yourself and miss all of next season.

Oh yea, sorry Bernie. I didn't see you standing there. Sure, you are a quarterback. Almost a great one, but we have to clock you with a calendar in the 40-yard dash.

You are the highest rated passer in the AFC, but you have trouble with a strong rush. Keep in touch though. You are still young, and with that special talent to win, maybe you'll stand in John's place someday.

John's place is where the greatest magic man in the NFL stands today. His arm has earned him fame, and his feet have brought him greatness.

He can avoid a pass rush like no other quarterback can. He can throw on the run, hurl the football 50 yards in the air, and hit one of the Three Amigos without causing them to break stride.

The Three Amigos are Denver's

UP FOR TWO: Lenny Hall beats the Allen Central defense to the basket and scores two points in McDowell's win Wednesday night.

McDowell Falls To Lady Rebs In Fourth Quarter

Meridith Slone sent his McDowell basketball team out against Allen Central with one instruction—try and stay in the game in the first quarter.

McDowell didn't respond immediately, scoring only three points in the first four minutes and 29 seconds and falling behind 13-3, but the Lady Daredevils survived, played Allen Central tough for three quarters and found themselves in an unfamiliar winning position going into the final frame.

The Lady Daredevils trailed by four points after three quarters but scored only three points in the final eight minutes and wound up losing by a final score of 60-46.

"That's usually our first quarter," Slone said of the poor fourth quarter showing. "I told them to go out and see if they could score more than three points in the first quarter. I guess I forgot to tell them about the fourth quarter."

Slone hasn't lost his sense of humor although his team has lost all its games. He prefers to look on the lighthearted side rather than cry about McDowell's situation, and Wednesday night he may have finally had reason to be relaxed.

The Lady Daredevils, 0-9, have taken their lumps this season but since the return of two players from the injured list, McDowell has given strong challenges in two consecutive conference games.

Wednesday night, Gwen Stegall and Lori Bryant, the returning players, scored 19 and 10 points respectively as the Lady Daredevils gave a better than usual showing for themselves.

McDowell, after trailing by seven points at the end of the first quarter, outscored Allen Central 14-9 in the second quarter and trailed by only one point at halftime.

Bryant scored six of her 10 points in the third frame as the Lady Daredevils stayed close, trailing 47-43 heading into the final frame.

"We kind of lost control of it," Slone said of his team's play in the fourth quarter. "We turned into a one-man show. Everybody wanted to take it down the court and shoot it instead of looking for the open man. Their defense hurt us a lot too."

McDowell scored only one point in the first seven minutes of the final period and posted only three points the entire quarter.

Stephanie Wallen, who hadn't scored in the first three quarters, hit for six points, four off offensive rebounds, to pace Allen Central in the fourth quarter rally.

Senior guard Tonya Kester, who has since quit the team, hit a shot with 7:27 left in the game to give the Lady Rebs a six-point advantage.

Forced to foul in an attempt to catch up, McDowell sent the Lady Rebs to the charity stripe in repeated fashion and Allen Central tried to help the comeback.

The Lady Rebs missed consecutive front ends of bonus opportunities and when Stegall hit a foul shot with 6:20 remaining the Lady Daredevils trailed by only five.

Then though, Allen Central got a free throw from Joann Conn, the game's leading scorer with 19 points, and a rebound basket from Wallen to put distance between themselves and McDowell.

The Lady Daredevils went from the 6:20 mark until the final minute without scoring. By the time they finally found the basket, they trailed 60-44. From that they never recovered and eventually lost by 14 points.

"We're getting better," Slone said, finding positive signs in an unsuccessful season so far. "Our passing is a lot better, just our whole game is looking better. We just need to get that first win."

Allen Central, with the win, improved their record to 3-3 and 2-0 in the Floyd County Conference.

But even though they won their second conference game in a row, their coach wasn't exactly thrilled about the whole situation.

"We played pitiful," Bonita Compton said. "We lost to Sheldon Clark by 10 points Monday night and played great. We came in tonight and just didn't play well."

"The players had heard all about McDowell," Compton continued. "I don't think they've won a game this year and our players thought they could come in and win without giving an effort."

"I had told them that McDowell was a lot better than they thought, and they really tore us apart for a while."

It didn't take Allen Central long to realize just how much the Lady Daredevils had improved and just how potent they could be.

McDowell trailed one by 11 points but came back to trim the lead to only one point. Later in the third quarter the Lady Daredevils found themselves way behind, this time by eight points. They cut that deficit to four but could never get any closer.

One thing McDowell never had though was the lead. When Joann Conn hit a jumper in the paint to open the game's scoring, Allen Central took a lead with 51 seconds gone in the game. They never gave that lead up despite several McDowell challenges.

SHORT SPORTS

The Wheelwright Lady Trojans scored only nine points in the second and third quarters, allowing Betsy Layne to open up a huge lead, and lost to the Lady Bobcats, 64-27, in a Floyd County Conference game held last Tuesday night at Betsy Layne.

The Lady Bobcats led 14-8 after one quarter, but Wheelwright's ineffective offensive showing in the second period, only four points, gave Betsy Layne the chance to blow the game open.

Midway of the second quarter, Karen Henry went to her bench. Leading by 10 points, Betsy Layne enjoyed a strong

Betsy Layne Stays Perfect With Win Over Lady Rebels

The Betsy Layne Bobcats have met every challenge so far this season, and Friday night, despite illness and injury, survived again to keep their perfect record alive.

Allen Central stayed close, making the outcome one of doubt until the final few minutes of the fourth quarter.

The Lady Bobcats opened up a 17-point lead to start the final frame, but Allen Central came back. They cut the deficit to eight points with just under four minutes left in the game, but a three-point playoff, an offensive rebound, and a basket following a steal spoiled their comeback efforts.

With 3:38 remaining in the game, Tammy Hall brought down an offensive rebound, put it back in and drew the foul. She polished off the three-point play at the foul line, bringing an end to an Allen Central run of eight to one.

Not long after Hall's rebound basket, Tracy Hall picked off a Lady Reb pass and drove down court for an easy layup. All of a sudden what had been an eight point lead turned into a 13-point advantage in less than 30 seconds.

It also spelled doom for Allen Central. They had come back from way behind and managed to stay close until late in the fourth quarter.

They never recovered from that Betsy Layne flurry, falling 66-52 at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse.

"They did an excellent job," Lady Bobcat coach Karen Henry said of Allen Central's efforts. "They came out to win."

"I expected it to be a close game," Henry continued. "Everytime Allen Central and Betsy Layne play it's a real tough, physical game. I didn't overlook them. Maybe the players did a little but they played hard and came out with a win."

The Lady Bobcats may not have played as hard in the first half. They led by only one point after the first quarter and led 28-22 at the half.

But then Sandy Flannery took over. The senior center scored 19 straight Lady Bobcat points in the third quarter as Betsy Layne opened up a nine-point lead.

Flannery, Betsy Layne's leading scorer with 19, finished the third quarter with a total of 11 points, but thanks to Joann Conn, the Lady Rebs managed to stay within striking distance.

Conn, a sophomore center, scored six points in the final two minutes, enabling Allen Central to stay only six points back.

But the fourth quarter proved to be the Lady Rebs' worst of the night. They were outscored 23-15 and trailed by 15 points early in the quarter.

Betsy Layne scored the first nine points, five from Tammy Hall who scored 16 points for the game, to open up their huge lead.

When Brenda Hamilton scored a basket with 6:14 left in the game, Betsy Layne went up 52-37. That lead, although the Lady Rebs gave it a strong effort, proved to be too much to overcome.

After Hamilton, who scored 13 points off the bench, hit her basket, Allen Central went on an offensive run of their own.

Or at least Joann Conn went on a run. Conn, who led all scorers with 23 points, scored eight unanswered points as Allen Central proved they had one more challenge left.

With 3:56 remaining in the game, Conn hit a shot from the paint to cut Betsy Layne's lead to 53-45, but then came the rebound shot by Tammy Hall and the steal and basket from Tracy Hall.

"I'm exceptionally proud of them," Allen Central coach Bonita Compton said. "We showed a lot better patience and we never gave up. If we play this well at home, I think we might be able to beat them the next time we play."

The Lady Rebs, 2-1 in conference play, will get their chance for revenge February 12 when Betsy Layne travels to Allen Central.

Betsy Layne, with the win, continues to lead the conference with a perfect 4-0 record. And being perfect isn't any stranger to the Lady Bobcats.

Despite a new coach and three new starters, the Lady Bobcats have maintained an undefeated level of play. They have defeated some of the region's top teams and while doing so have built a 12-0 record.

But the best may not have yet been seen.

"We've struggled every game," Henry said. "We still haven't played a real good game where we put it all together."

The Lady Bobcats win most of their games in much the same fashion as they defeated Allen Central. They hope for strong scoring and rebounding from their front line and good defense from their undersized but quick guard duo.

They got all those things Friday night. Their front line scored 43 of their 66 points and the Lady Bobcats outscored Allen Central 29-18. Their guards, especially Tracy Hall and Jennifer Hunt, caused considerable trouble with their pressing defense.

Lady Reb coach Bonita Compton was quick to point out one factor about the game, a factor she considers as the difference between the two teams.

Compton pointed out the fact that Betsy Layne had experience on their side, starting five seniors, while Allen Central has only one senior on their team. They start three freshmen and two sophomores.

BATTLE FOR THE REBOUND: Allen Central's Todd Duff battles Betsy Layne's Todd Sturgill for a rebound during their game Friday at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse.

talented trio of Mark Jackson, Vance Johnson, and Ricky Natief.

They have earned fame and fortune because of quick moves, good hands, and outright blazing speed. And because of John Elway.

His list of dramatic plays and comebacks engineered outnumber Hoya haters. He takes what looks like a disaster and turns it into a big play.

Most NFL quarterbacks can do that, from time to time. What separates Elway from the others is the fact that he makes a habit of it.

Elway's numbers are remarkable and so is Denver's record with him calling the signals. But what helps the Broncos the most is when Elway performs his magic. He always seems to play his best when Denver needs it the most.

Like last year in the AFC championship game against Cleveland, Elway directed the 98-yard drive that allowed the Broncos to come back and force a tie. They eventually earned a Super Bowl berth with a win in overtime.

That was last year. But despite the year and despite the circumstances, Elway continues to perform like a true professional, with consistency and perfection.

This year Elway has developed the Denver offense into the top group in the NFL. He threw for 267 yards per game during the season, averaged over one touchdown pass a game, and the Broncos passing game ranked second behind only Miami and San Francisco.

Impressed yet? Well, we haven't touched upon what makes John Elway so dangerous, so unstoppable, so truly fun to watch.

He is the Broncos' second leading rusher. This is what hurts the opposing defenders. The pass rush can flush him from the pocket, but rarely can they catch him.

Elway throws on the run better than any quarterback, and he runs as well as any. Denver even puts some special plays in so he can utilize that tough running.

On 66 rushes Elway averaged 4.6 yards for a total of 306 yards. That was a better average than Sammy Winder, the Broncos leading rusher with 741 yards, had.

John Elway completes 54 percent of his passes and threw for 19 touchdowns during Denver's run to the AFC Championship game.

NBC color commentator Merlin Olson said John Elway deserved an insomnia award. He prevented opponents from getting a good night of sleep, especially when they were faced with playing against him the day after.

About the only thing that has slowed Elway down is the new "in the grasp" rule. With Elway's strength, he can break tackles in the backfield but with the rule the defenders now have an equalizer.

They don't always have to bring him to the ground. Just get a grasp on him.

In the second half of Sunday's game against Cleveland, Elway dodged a couple onrushing defensive linemen, then collided with his own lineman but maintained his balance and completed a pass to Mark Jackson.

Jackson then turned and ran the rest of the way, completing an 80-yard pass play for touchdown. What appeared to be a sack turned into a touchdown, and it was started by guess who. Yep, John Elway.

If one play could be used to sum up a player this one would completely describe Elway.

Cleveland had just scored a touchdown following an interception. It was third down and long. The Browns trailed by 10 points and were poised to get the ball back.

But in one twisting, squirming, throwing John Elway play, the Broncos not only kept the football but added seven points to their lead.

Elway didn't enjoy one of his best days against Cleveland but with some help from his defensive buddies, Denver forced three turnovers early, he still took the Broncos to their second consecutive Super Bowl.

And the fact that Denver is back again may be the biggest credit John Elway could ever be given.

The Broncos had their two top defensive backs from the year before retire, and during the season they had a total of 13 players to go on the injured reserve list.

Most of them were starters. But Denver never lost their common denominator, the thing that separates them from the rest of the league—John Elway.

It's hard not to like John Elway's playing style. It's hard not to like his smile. He is a football player that plays football. He is America's latest golden boy, made up of a golden arm, golden legs, and a golden love for football.

He says that the best thing about football is that it is fun. And here is a thought for 15th region basketball fans to ponder: If Magoffin County is considered the best team in the region, and a lot of people are trying to say they are, then where do we rank Paintsville?

Magoffin County has beaten most of the big cogs in the regional wheel, Johnson Central, Virgie, Sheldon Clark, Pikeville. They have all fallen to the Hornets, everybody but Paintsville.

The Tigers have beaten Magoffin County three times in three meetings. According to normal polling, when a team beats another three times they should be ranked above them. But is it smart to rank a team first when they are just barely above .500.

Hey folks, if you want to talk number one you shouldn't leave Betsy Layne out of the conversation.

And not just in the male division. The Lady Bobcats are 12-0 and clearly the surprise team in all of 15th region action.

Bri Boyd, a freshman guard, and Brenda Hamilton, the Lady Bobcats leading scorer off the bench, scored five points each in that pivotal second frame.

Boyd finished the game with seven points and Hamilton tossed in a total of nine. Betsy Layne was led offensively by Tammy Hall's 14 points. Sandy Flannery was the only other Lady Bobcat to reach double figures. She scored 10 points.

Wheelwright, winless in the conference going into last night's game with McDowell, was topped by April Bradford who scored 13 points before injuring an ankle early in the fourth quarter.

Jedon Hood finished the game with 10 pints, all of those coming in the fourth quarter.

They had their chances. Both underdogs in Sunday's conference championship games had opportunities to tie the games but misfired on key pass plays late.

As a result, the Denver Broncos and Washington Redskins will meet January 31 in San Diego to decide this year's Super Bowl champion.

Denver turned back the Cleveland Browns, 38-33, Sunday, to earn their second consecutive trip to the Super Bowl.

The Broncos, thanks to three early Cleveland turnovers, took a 21-3 halftime lead. Denver led 28-10 in the third quarter, but sparked by Bernie Kosar the Browns rallied, tied the score at 31.

Kosar threw for over 350 yards and three second half touchdowns, but it was John Elway who found the last success. (Continued on Next Page)

Strong Start Sends Bobcats To Victory

After weeks of sneaking by, finding ways to win in the final seconds, the Betsy Layne Bobcats finally enjoyed an easy victory, defeating Allen Central, 71-46, at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse, Friday night.

The Bobcats, normally waiting until the fourth quarter to play their best basketball, found their shooting range early, outscored Allen Central, 12-4, in the first six minutes, and rolled to their sixth win in a row.

"It feels pretty good," Craynor Slone said about the uncontested victory. "We came out and played pretty well. Glen Hammond hit some three-pointers there early and kind of got us started."

Hammond, enjoying his role as a starter, drilled two three-pointers and finished the first quarter with eight points as Betsy Layne opened up a seven-point lead after the initial frame.

The Bobcats hit four of their first five field goal attempts, three of those by Hammond, and continued their hot shooting the entire game.

Betsy Layne shot over 60 percent from the floor, got an 83 percent free throw shooting effort from their starters, and made only nine turnovers despite playing 16 players.

"I think this is the best we've played this season. We're still not playing as well as we can play. We're having breakdowns on defense, but we're working on that," Slone said.

The Bobcats, 11-3 on the season, won their sixth consecutive game and their ninth in the last 10 tries.

Allen Central, a team going in the other direction, lost their second straight conference game and find themselves two and half games behind the pace currently being set by Betsy Layne.

A total of 11 players, three in double figures, scored for Betsy Layne, allowing the Bobcats to improve their conference record to 4-0.

The Rebels are 1-2 in the Floyd County Conference.

And they had little chance Friday night to improve their record, because Betsy Layne put together a near perfect game while Allen Central played one of their worst of the season.

It didn't take long either for the tone to be set. The Bobcats came out on fire, and the Rebels were frozen by a cold shooting performance.

Allen Central, after Joey Conn hit a short jumper to open Rebel scoring, missed four consecutive shots and turned the basketball over three times in an early stretch of the first quarter.

Betsy Layne took advantage of that early Rebel difficulty and built a lead that Allen Central could never overcome.

Glen Hammond, a 6'1" forward with a long range jumper, proved to be the hottest Bobcat early. The sharpshooting senior scored his first two points on a jumpshot 19 seconds into the game.

Keith Hall followed Hammond's jumper with one of his own to give the Bobcats the lead again with 6:54 remaining in the first quarter.

Betsy Layne never lost that lead. Hammond made sure of that. He hit a three-point shot from the top of the key to give the Bobcats a 7-2 lead.

Robbie Click, with 6:02 showing on the first quarter clock, cashed in on two free throws, cutting the deficit to three points, but that was the closest Allen Central would come in trying to overtake Betsy Layne.

Hammond drilled another three-pointer and Sam Stewart, who finished with 10 points, scored a basket on the inside, increasing the lead to eight points with only six minutes gone in the contest.

Betsy Layne had five different players to score in the second quarter, and they continued to build their lead. Hammond, who led Betsy Layne with 17 points, scored five in the second frame when the Bobcats went up by 13 points.

The Bobcats led by as many as 27 points in the second half. They managed that by outscoring the Rebels eight to three to start the third quarter and by continuing to pound Allen Central until the final horn sounded.

The Rebels never led in the game, and the closest they came in the second half was the 13 points they trailed by at halftime.

Allen Central, suffering one of their worst basketball starts ever, shot only 64 percent from the free throw line. That included a four for eight showing in the first half.

The Rebels were led by Robbie Click's 11 points. That was the second consecutive conference game where Click proved to be Allen Central's most effective offensive weapon.

Joey Conn, a 6'2" sophomore, was the only other Rebel to play in double figures. He finished the game with 10 points.

January Striper Fishing At Lake Cumberland

Although the days are cold in January, fishing for striper at Lake Cumberland is hotter than any other time of the year.

Beginning in December, striped bass action picks up from the warm weather lull and by January many big fish are being caught consistently.

Lake Cumberland is known nationwide for its excellent striped bass fishing during the winter. Striped bass (also called "stripers" or "rockfish") weighing 40-50 pounds are taken each year, along with several hundred smaller fish.

Striped bass are stocked in Lake Cumberland annually, since this species does not reproduce naturally in the lake. Lake Cumberland has both the cold-water habitat and the open water needed to support a striped bass fishery.

Because early stocking efforts in the 1970's were highly successful, fishery biologist Benjamin T. Kinman estimates that there is a sizeable percentage of large striper present in Lake Cumberland.

"We had several strong year classes from stocking efforts a few years ago, which has now provided anglers a trophy striped bass fishery," said Kinman.

"With continual subsequent stockings, we should be able to maintain plenty of fish for fishermen to catch, including a good number of fish in the 20-40 pound range," added the biologist.

Both casting and trolling are effective methods for catching striper. Live bait such as shad, a striper's favorite meal, works well when trolling creek channels and off points.

If you prefer casting, tie on a white doll fly jig with a white twister tail. At times, a large, shad-imitating surface lure will draw strikes as well. Shad-colored, white or silver are three good lure colors for rockfish, since striper feed heavily on gizzard and threadfin shad.

Striped bass, which are actually a landlocked marine species, are very mobile and are sometimes difficult to locate. During the colder months, however, most fish are found in the creeks flowing into Lake Cumberland.

Beaver, Otter, Wolf, Indian and Lily creeks, located in the lower half of the lake yield some superb rockfish during January. Overcast conditions are the best, since Cumberland is usually a clear lake and rockfish prefer low light.

Over 50 rockfish were submitted last year for trophy fish awards from the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. These fish had to be a minimum of 36 inches to qualify for an award. A large majority of these trophy fish were caught in January and December.

CUMBERLAND, PIKEVILLE TOP MEN'S AND WOMEN'S STANDINGS AS THE MIDDLE OF CONFERENCE SEASON APPROACHES

Randy Vernon's Cumberland Indians have passed two major tests in the past week. First, they beat Georgetown 77-68 on January 9th. They followed with a 65-62 overtime win over Berea last Thursday. Georgetown edged Berea 71-67 Saturday night. As a result, Cumberland is the only undefeated team in conference play with Coach Jim Reid's Georgetown Tigers only a half game behind. This week marks the half way mark in conference play, and the ultimate champion is far from decided.

Pikeville's Lady Bears edged Georgetown in overtime Saturday 99-97 to take the lead in the women's conference standings. Cumberland and Georgetown are right behind, so the outcome of the women's championship is also up for grabs.

LINDSEY WILSON'S MARTIN, PIKEVILLE'S PORTER PLAYERS OF WEEK

Lindsey Wilson's Steve Martin, is the Men's Player of the Week. In leading the Blue Raiders to two wins, including a 67-66 thriller over Georgetown, the 6-7 junior center from Richmond, Ky. scored 46 points, grabbed 13 rebounds, blocked 4 shots, and handed out 5 assists. He was 20 of 26 from the floor and 6 of 9 from the line.

Stephanie Potter, a 6-1 freshman from Whitesburg, Ky. is the Women's Player of the Week. In leading the Lady Bears to two conference wins, she scored 63 points, including 39 against Georgetown. She was 22 of 41 from the field and 19 of 24 from the foul line. She also pulled down 18 rebounds.

Rebels Get Better With Win Over Virgie Eagles

The Allen Central Rebels, after being embarrassed Friday night at Betsy Layne, bounced back Saturday with a 64-61 victory over the Virgie Eagles.

Allen Central, trailing by one point going into the fourth quarter, outscored Virgie 13-9 in the final frame to earn their fifth win of the season.

"We got it together a little bit after that embarrassment Friday night. That was probably the worst we've ever played," Rebel coach Johnny Martin said, reflecting back on the conference loss to the Bobcats.

Robbie Click, for the third time in four days, scored in double figures while also leading Allen Central offensively. The 6'1" senior forward tossed in 16 points, Saturday.

Todd Duff, a junior guard, and Joey Conn, a sophomore center, scored 14 points each in the winning cause. Rudy Martin finished with seven, and Darren Conn added six points as Allen Central improved to 5-7.

Virgie, 3-7, was paced offensively by guard Freddie Bowling, who scored 18 points. Ray Hall scored 13 for the Eagles.

BETSY LAYNE, 61, ELKHORN CITY, 44

Junior guard Duran Newsome scored 20 points and Glen Hammond added 12 as the Betsy Layne Bobcats stretched their winning streak to seven games with a 61-44 victory over Elkhorn City, Saturday night.

Betsy Layne, after trailing 10-8 at the end of the first quarter, outscored the Cougars by 19 points in the second and third quarters to blow the game open.

The win improved the Bobcats to 11-3, the best record in the 15th region. Betsy Layne has won 10 of their last 11 games.

Todd Sturgill finished the game with nine points and Keith Hall, Barry Hamilton and Sam Stewart all scored four points each. Brian Wilson, Kevin Spurlock, John Blackburn, and Cotton Parsons all tallied two points for the victorious Bobcats.

WHEELWRIGHT 97, JENKINS 78

The Wheelwright Trojans had four players score a total of 73 points as they whipped Jenkins 97-78 Saturday night.

Jason Cook led the offensive attack, scoring a game high 27 points. Craig Martin also enjoyed a big offensive night, scoring 21 points. Tommy Jones and Bobby Hood finished with 16 and 13 points respectively.

Senior forward Steve Cole scored seven points and sophomore reserve Brad Compton added six.

The Prestonsburg Blackcats came close but coming close and falling short seems to be their trademark this season. The Blackcats took Greenup County to the limit Thursday night but came up on the short end of a 48-45 score.

"We're playing pretty good ball right now. We just need a win to kind of put us over the hump," Blackcat coach Gordon Parido said of his 3-8 Blackcats.

Freddie McCoy, Prestonsburg's high scoring senior guard, scored 16 points to pace the Blackcats. Tim Trusty hit for nine points and Todd Justice and Danny Hamilton ended up with six each. Thomas Nairn and Chris Slone both scored four points to round out Prestonsburg scoring.

Damin Stephenson, rated as one of the 16th region's top player, scored 16 points for Greenup County.

BREATHITT COUNTY, 78; MCDOWELL, 74

The McDowell Daredevils suffered from a slow start, trailed by nine points at halftime, and eventually fell 78-74 to a strong Breathitt County team, Friday night.

"They're a good ball club," Johnny

Ray Turner, McDowell's coach, said of Breathitt County. "They're rated as one of the top teams in that region."

"They out rebounded us by a big margin and we got off to a slow start," Turner said.

McDowell trailed 35-26 at the half but enjoyed one of their biggest offensive showings of the season in the second half to make the game close.

Junior guard Dickie Joe Shannon scored 27 points to lead the Daredevils. Sophomore Marc Hall added 14 and Lenny Hall finished with 13 points.

McDowell, with the loss, dropped to 10-4 on the season.

SHORT SPORTS

Elway, with the score tied, found Sammy Winder on a crossing pattern. Winder caught the pass and circled around the Cleveland defense and ran into the touchdown, capping off a 20-yard play with just over 4:00 left in the game.

The Browns weren't out yet. They took the ensuing kickoff and drove deep into Denver territory. From the 10-yard line Earnest Byner took a Kosar handoff and headed through a gap that apparently led into the end zone.

But near the two-yard line Byner lost control of the football and Denver fell on it. The Broncos held on for a trip to the Super Bowl.

There they will meet the Washington Redskins, who beat Minnesota 17-10. Washington sacked Vicking quarterback Wade Wilson eight times and got two touchdown passes from Doug Williams in the seven-point win.

Minnesota, though, lost a chance to tie the game late when, on a fourth and goal from the six, a Wilson pass to Darren Nelson fell incomplete.

Rex Chapman scored 23 points, and Ed Davender added 18 as the Kentucky Wildcats defeated Tennessee, 83-65, Saturday afternoon.

Chapman hit eight of his 14 field goal attempts, and all six free throws as Kentucky opened up a two game lead in the Southeastern Conference.

UK, 2-1 overall, improved to 5-1 in the SEC and with some help from Georgia, moved two games in front of second placed LSU.

Georgia, 3-2 in the conference, dumped the Tigers 59-50 and dropped their SEC record to 3-1. Florida and Auburn are also 3-1 and tied for second place in the conference.

The Wildcats return to SEC action tonight when they take on Florida.

Florida, led by senior guard Vernon Maxwell and freshman forward Livingston Chatman, is 12-4 overall and considered one of the favorites to capture a conference title.

The Gators start a front line that averages 6'10" and with Maxwell and Ronnie Montgomery Florida may have a backcourt that can compare and matchup with Kentucky's talented guard duo.

"Jimmy 'The Greek' Snyder, after 12 years of service, has been fired from CBS's NFL Today football show.

The Greek, who served as an odds-maker and prognosticator, was fired due to remarks made in an interview, Friday.

Snyder said that black athletes were superior to white athletes. He also said that it started during the Civil War when slave owners would breed their biggest black with their biggest woman so they could have a big black kid.

Baseball Exhibition Pits U of L Against Redbirds

For the first time in the school's history, the University of Louisville baseball team will play the Louisville Redbirds in a fund-raising exhibition game April 13 at Cardinal Stadium.

"One of the commitments we made when we purchased the team was to work closely with the University of Louisville," said Redbirds' co-owner Dan Ulmer, president of Citizen's Fidelity Bank. "Having this exhibition game with U of L is a natural tie-in and we're very pleased to be able to help the athletic department."

Dale Owens, the Redbirds' general manager agrees, "It will be great to play the University of Louisville and Coach John Mason's baseball team. We are glad we can do something for the community and help Coach Mason's team raise money. It should be good for everyone involved."

The money raised will go towards U of L's travel budget which will need to be increased now that the Metro Conference athletic directors voted for a round robin format for the league's baseball team. The change will bring World Series participant Florida State to U of L for the first time. Previously, the seven teams were divided into North and South divisions which did not play each other until the Championship Tournament.

"The Redbird team has always been a very community-oriented organization," said U of L head coach John Mason, who from 1969-72 was a member of the Louisville Colonels, the Triple A team which preceded the Redbirds. "Besides the added revenue it will provide, our players will benefit athletically by competing with high-caliber opponents. This will be a good opportunity to expose our team to the community. It just seems natural that these two teams collaborate on a baseball-oriented venture."

The U of L baseball team has been one of the university's most community-minded athletic teams. The team has adopted needy families and provided for them at Christmas for three years.

"It is nice that Redbirds want to put on a classy, fun event to raise funds for our team," said Mason. "Minor league baseball has a history of being civic minded. I remember when I was playing, we made a lot of appearances to help give something back to the community which supported us. The Redbirds are certainly traditional in that aspect."

The game is scheduled for April 13 at 6:00 p.m. in Cardinal Stadium with general admission set at $2.

MSU Bowling Team Wins First Place

The Morehead State University women's bowling team won first place in the first annual Atlantic City Collegiate Invitational Tournament recently.

In the finals, the MSU team beat Pennsylvania State and Indiana State University, the number one and two ranked competitors in the nation.

The team had won its division conference prior to this competition, according to Larry Wilson, team coach. "The bowlers have worked long and hard preparing for this meet," he said.

"The five member team included Sharon Owen, Bowling Green junior; Lisa McGinnis, Huntington, W. Va., sophomore; Theresa Burkhardt, Beaver Creek, Ohio, freshman; Terri Kaelin, Louisville freshman, and Christine Gawlik, Rolling Meadows, Ill., freshman.

Owen also was named top female bowler in the competition. Selected All-American Bowler last year, she is eligible for that honor again this year. She was named Academic All-American the last two years.

The team, ranked sixth nationally in the writers' polls prior to the Atlantic City, N.J., meet, will compete in Savannah, Ga., Jan. 28-30.

HOW SWEET IT IS! The Lady Flashes of Martin Elementary again won the section one tournament and went on to capture the Girls' Floyd County Championship at the Wayland gym on Dec. 19. This is the fourth consecutive year. Jessica Wade was awarded the individual free throw trophy.

Their record this season was 20-0.

The Flashes have suffered only five losses over the past five season.

Wayland Cheerleaders Are Winners

The Wayland boys varsity cheerleaders have completed a busy and successful year. The squad earned the first place trophy for the County-At-Large cheerleading competition, Dec. 11, in addition to the first place trophy for the Floyd County Tournament. This completed a perfect season for the Wayland squad. Earlier this season, they won first place in the Garrett Invitational Tournament and the Right Beaver Sectional Tournament. Their sponsor is Mrs. Libby Riley. They are to be congratulated on a job well done.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Sanford Ousley, who left this world January 19, 1987 to join God in eternal peace.
It's been one year Dad since you slipped away that cold January morning. We both knew you had to go, but somehow that doesn't stop the pain and tears that I shed for you. I know that you will never be gone completely because your memory lives on forever in my heart, as well as in your grandchildren, and other family and friends. We love you, we miss you, but most of all, we know you suffer no more and are at peace in your heavenly home.
Sadly missed but warmly remembered by daughter, Kay Shepherd; grandchildren, Sam and Jonathan; family and a host of friends.

In Memoriam

In memory of Robert (Bob) Bentley passed away December 27, 1986.
It's been a year now but we're all still sad since we said good-bye to a husband and dad.
For fourteen months he laid and we never knew why.
It was so hard to understand and try not to cry.
A great man and a tower of strength he had been.
He was more than a father, he was also our friend.
For fifty some years he lived a Christian life.
A great comfort that has been for his children and wife.
We can still hear him singing and giving God praise.
Just like it was in our childhood days.
Now he sleeps in a grave so silent and still.
But he wouldn't want us to cry or question God's will.
As we go to the cemetery with flowers for his grave.
We all hide our broken hearts and try to be brave.
If not for the good memories we couldn't go on.
But we remember his advice and know we're not alone.
For me to live for Christ and to die is gain.
His favorite verse of all helps lessen the pain.
Written by wife and family.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Lonnie Burchett, who departed this life January 1, 1985.
Since you've gone first and I remain,
To walk that road alone;
I've walked in memory's garden dear
With happy days we've known.
In spring I wait for roses red,
When fade the liliacs blue;
In early fall when brown leaves fall
I catch a glimpse of you.
Since you've gone first and I remain,
For battles to be fought;
Each thing you've touched along the way
Has been a hallowed spot.
I've heard your tender voice,
I've seen your smile though blindly I grope;
The memory of your helping hand
Has buoyed me on with hope.
Since you went first and I remain,
To finish with the scroll;
No dark shadows shall creep in
To make this life seem dull.
We've known so much happiness,
We've had our cup of joy;
The memory is a gift of God
That death cannot destroy.
Since you've gone first and I remain,
One thing I'll have to do;
Walk slowly down that long, long path
For soon I'll follow you.
I want to know each step you take,
So I may take the same;
For some day down that long, long road
You'll hear me call your name.
Sadly missed by WIFE AND CHILDREN

IN LOVING MEMORY

Lilly Mae Bradley Prater
In a graveside softly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we love so dearly
But whom we could not save.
God knows how much we miss her
He counts the tears we shed,
He whispers that she only sleeps,
Our loved one is not dead.
If all the world was ours to give,
We'd give it, yes, and more,
We did not know the pain she had
Or hear her final sigh.
We only know she passed away without
A last good-bye.
God gave us strength to face it
And the courage to bear the blow
But what it meant to lose her,
No one will ever know.
It's been a year since she's been gone.
Although it doesn't seem that long, she's missed more and more each day. A loving mother, wife, and grandmother we hope to see again someday.
Sadly missed by her children, grandchildren and husband.

MAKING THE FUTURE GROW BRIGHTER

Kosair Charities Centre Is Home To Many Charitable Organizations

Where do parents turn when their child has serious, long-term health problems? If they have the money they go to their family physician or a specialist. If they're poor, they need assistance from charitable health care organizations; organizations they may not know exist.

There are many groups in Kentucky dedicated to helping seriously ill, handicapped and special needs children whose families are indigent. The problem many families face is finding the proper agency to help solve their child's problem.

In many cases, parents can find the agency their child needs at Kosair Charities Centre in Louisville. Kosair Charities, a non-profit organization which annually donates in excess of $2 million to various children's health care agencies across the Commonwealth, has created a unique situation. The Charities took the former Kosair Crippled Children's Hospital building, refurbished it and renamed the site Kosair Charities Centre. The Charities then offered the very affordable space to various child health care groups.

Kosair Charities Centre is home to ten agencies whose sole aim is aiding ill and handicapped children and their families. By offering these groups affordable housing, Kosair Charities makes it possible for them to remain in one central location. The Charities, whose offices are on the same site, not only bears the cost of maintaining the building, but also annually assists each group with financial grants to help them continue operations.

Having all ten groups under one roof makes referrals much less complicated. If a child being helped by one organization is found to need assistance from another, it is a simple matter to make contact with that group. It may be located in the same building-Kosair Charities Centre.

Here are the organizations headquartered at the Centre and services they offer:

Kentucky Commission for Handicapped Children - Provides diagnosis and treatment for certain handicapping conditions.

Hospice of Louisville - Assists families in a comprehensive home care program which provides reasonable and necessary care for management of terminal illness.

The Family Place - A child abuse treatment agency providing treatment, education and prevention programs.

KIDS Centre, United Cerebral Palsy of Louisville - Services include occupational, physical and speech therapy and individual educational programs for developmentally disabled children and young adults.

Kentucky Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society - Services include education, referral and information services; physical fitness programs; vocational rehabilitation; and social and recreational activities.

Spina Bifida Association of Kentucky - Helps children born with prenatal defects of the spinal column.

National Kidney Foundation of Kentucky - Services include providing medicines free of charge to indigent patients; nutritional supplements for dialysis patients unable to maintain a proper diet; and short-term emergency financial assistance to kidney patients.

Hemophilia Foundation, Kentucky Chapter - Promotes the safe and equitable distribution of blood products; offers patient, public and professional education programs; emergency financial assistance; and air lifts for specialized treatment.

The Morton Center - A private, out-patient center specializing in helping families cope with the complex problems of chemical dependency.

The Dream Factory - Fulfills the dreams of seriously or critically ill children from the simplest to the most complex of wishes.

Each of these organizations is non-profit, and depends heavily for their continued work on grants from Kosair Charities.

Being poor doesn't mean a child can't receive quality health care, regardless of the illness. Continued donations by the public to Kosair Charities means these ten groups and many others across the state can continue to provide much needed health care to indigent children.

Those needing help dealing with a child's illness may contact one of the above agencies. Those wishing to donate money to help Kosair Charities continue its work may do so by writing to Kosair Charities, P.O. Box 37370, Louisville, KY 40233; or by phoning 502-637-7696.

Faces Of Japan Returns To KET

From Sumo wrestler to journalist, from fashion model to Bunraku puppeteer, "Faces of Japan" helps American viewers understand what it means to be Japanese.

A new season of "Faces of Japan" begins on KET Sunday, January 24 at 7:30 p.m. Each of the 13 programs, hosted by Dick Cavett, profiles single individuals from widely different sectors of Japanese life.

The season premiere explores the issue of Japanese identity through the story of Chiharu, a highly successful fashion model, who finds herself ostracized because of her mixed Japanese-American heritage.

Chiharu's struggle is an underlying theme for many of this season's "Faces of Japan" offerings, says Hiroshia Ohta, series executive producer. "The Japanese do not like to touch on this matter (the search for identity)," says Ohta. "Japan is a country that accepts only the Japanese way of thinking, and to question that is very controversial. 'Faces of Japan' intends to do just that."

A future episode looks at the big business of medicine in Japan as it profiles a young doctor who set up a practice in a rural community on one of Japan's tiny southern islands instead of opting for a lucrative practice in one of Japan's cities.

"Faces of Japan" also profiles a popular classical artist who blends traditional art with high technology—utilizing lasers and synthesizers with violins and pianos; a rice farmer who now must rely on government subsidies and outside work to survive; and a "cram school" teacher who instructs Japanese students at a special institution designed to help them study for highly competitive college entrance exams.

"Faces of Japan" is produced by Tele-Japan USA, Inc.

Does Your Child Have A Reading Problem?

Due to numerous requests from parents of children having reading problems, two additional screening dates have been opened up. The screenings are sponsored by the East Kentucky Tutorial Program. The screenings are for children and adults who show characteristics of a learning problem. These are normal, and often bright, children who have trouble with reading, spelling, writing and language arts. These children often have low or unsatisfactory report card grades in reading. They may have trouble with phonics, sounds, and are in remedial reading, special reading and other reading programs. There are presently programs held in seven different counties including Floyd, Knott, Perry, Letcher, Pike, Madison, and Pulaski counties.

The East Kentucky Tutorial Program is a primarily nonprofit parent supported program. It is coordinated through the Hindman Settlement School. This semester approximately 250 students, including their parents are enrolled in programs in seven different counties. The classes involve parental involvement using highly researched reading and comprehension materials. The parents are trained to assist as tutors in the program and are given support in their child's learning programs. Materials are available to take a poor reader from introducing him or her to basic reading patterns to highly advanced high school and college level concepts. A special Saturday math tutorial is also offered as well as a summer program for those students who qualify. For more information, call 785-5024.

'Mary Phagan' explores the nature of prejudice

By Paul Elie

"The Murder of Mary Phagan," which airs Sunday, Jan. 24 and Tuesday, Jan. 26 on NBC, has been billed as Jack Lemmon's return to television.

Peter Gallagher

Lemmon plays John Slaton, a Georgia governor who bucked public opinion when he commuted the sentence of convicted killer Leo Frank in 1915. It is his first TV role since he starred in the TV movie "The Entertainer" in 1975.

But the real star of the five-hour miniseries is Peter Gallagher, who plays Frank. "I'd do the same thing if I were the network," Gallagher says of Lemmon's top billing. "But Leo is really the main character."

As the miniseries begins Frank, a Jewish native of Brooklyn, has moved to Atlanta, where he runs a pencil factory staffed by farmhands who have been displaced by industrialization. When a 13-year-old employee named Mary Phagan is found dead, latent anti-Semitic, anti-Northern and anti-industrial feelings combine to implicate Frank.

"To make a long story short, he is convicted of murder," Gallagher explains. "After 13 appeals are denied, Slaton concludes that Frank wasn't given a fair trial. But this outrages the populace, and Frank is eventually dragged out of jail and lynched by the Knights of Mary Phagan." Frank was pardoned in 1982 after a former witness's new testimony revealed the true murderer.

The miniseries, like the Larry McMurtry story on which it is based, explores the nature of prejudice.

"It's a complicated issue, with your allegiances constantly flipping back and forth," Gallagher says. "And it's also a true story. If we've done our job right it should really resonate."

Gallagher has taken a roundabout path to TV stardom. Early in his career, he starred in the short-lived 1980 series "Skag" and the films "The Idolmaker" (1980) and "Summer Lovers" (1982). But he came to prominence on Broadway, appearing in "The Real Thing" in 1985 and winning a Tony Award for his performance in the 1986 revival of "A Long Day's Journey Into Night," which starred Lemmon as James Tyrone.

Not long afterward, Gallagher and Lemmon were co-starring in "Mary Phagan." "We only had one scene together," Gallagher says. "But working with Jack again was like having a great ally. And we could play golf together on our days off."

SOAP BEA

Meadows doesn't want to star with talking cars

By Marie Michaels

"I don't think Tori is evil," says Kristen Meadows, who portrays actress Victoria "Tori" Lane on "Santa Barbara." "She's just misguided by her emotional instability."

Kristen Meadows

When Meadows joined the soap in late 1986, Tori would do anything to recapture the love she once shared with Cruz Castillo (A Martinez). Although Tori never succeeded in breaking up the romance between Cruz and Eden Capwell (Marcy Walker), she did get pregnant by Cruz. She married lawyer Mason Capwell (Lane Davies) before she gave birth to the baby, a boy whom she named Chip, and Cruz still doesn't know that he's Chip's father.

"I've had wonderful story lines," Meadows says. "I would like Tori to have a new love interest, though, instead of staying part of the love triangle with Mason and Julia (Nancy Grahn). Since Julia and Tori don't have bad feelings for each other, I don't think the relationship qualifies as a true romantic triangle."

Meadows, a former Wilhelmina model, made her professional debut in the Broadway musical "Fearless Frank" in 1981. She has also guest-starred on prime-time series and appeared in the feature films "The Goodbye Girl" (1977) and "An Unmarried Woman" (1978).

Unlike many soap actors, she says she's in no rush to resume her prime-time TV and film career.

"I get a lot of recognition on daytime TV, both from fans and from my peers," she says. "And 'Santa Barbara' gives me a chance to stretch myself. That sure beats being on a nighttime TV show with a talking car or aliens."

Before joining "Santa Barbara," Meadows played another actress, Mimi King, on "One Life to Live."

"Tori and Mimi are alike in that they're both working women," she says. "They just took different approaches to get what they wanted out of life. Tori is trying to have a career and a relationship, and Mimi broke off her relationship to pursue her career."

"Like Tori, I'm trying to be in love with somebody and have a career, too," adds Meadows, who works in California but dates a New York businessman. "It's difficult to balance."

MARY PHAGAN

Georgia Gov. John Slaton (Jack Lemmon, l.) risks his political career to save a falsely convicted murderer in "The Murder of Mary Phagan," which concludes TUESDAY, JAN. 26 on NBC. Robert Prosky co-stars.

Mel Brooks won an Oscar for 'The Producers'

By Toni Reinhold

How did Mel Brooks get started in movies? Would you please list some of his films? - K.D., Londonderry, N.H.

Mel Brooks

Brooks, 61, first worked as a writer for Sid Caesar on the classic "Your Show of Shows," which aired from 1950 to 1954. He then did stand-up comedy and appeared in the Broadway musical "All America." In 1965, he created the series "Get Smart," collaborating with Buck Henry. In 1968, he wrote and directed his first film, "The Producers," which starred Zero Mostel and Gene Wilder, winning an Oscar for Best Screenplay. Since then he has written, directed and starred in nearly a dozen films, including "The Twelve Chairs" (1970), "Blazing Saddles" (1973), "Silent Movie" (1976), "High Anxiety" (1977) and "History of the World, Part 1" (1981). He directed, but did not appear in, "Young Frankenstein" (1974).

Who were the leading men and the leading lady in the film "Duffy's Tavern"? Are they still alive? If so, how old are they? - J.C., Columbia, Tenn.

This 1945 film starred Barry Sullivan, now 75, and Marjorie Reynolds, 66. It also featured Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour and Alan Ladd.

Who played prosecutor Hamilton Burger in the second "Perry Mason" series? Was it the actor who played Sgt. Carter in "Gomer Pyle, U.S.M.C."? If not, are they related? - H.M., Austin, Minn.

When the '50s series "Perry Mason" was revived in 1973 with a new cast, Burger (originally played by William Talman) was played by Harry Guardino. Sgt. Vince Carter of "Gomer Pyle" was played by Frank Sutton. The two actors are not related.

What is the name of the '70s movie that starred Rock Hudson and Angie Dickinson? I want to look it up at the video store, but I can't since I don't know the title. - R.W., Peoria, Ill.

You're thinking of "Pretty Maids All in a Row" (1971), which was written and produced by "Star Trek" creator Gene Roddenberry. The movie also featured Telly Savalas, Roddy McDowall and Keenan Wynn.

HABLEVIEW

HBO's 'Year in Review' is an uneven recap of 1987

By Denise Gorga

Long before the ball dropped in Times Square, the media had begun to dissect the departing year. Newspapers printed 10-best lists and trend pieces. TV aired video montages of "the year's best." Magazines named the best- and worst-dressed celebrities, the most sordid political scandals, the most newsworthy stories.

Danny Breen

This week, HBO presents what is probably the last look back - "Not Necessarily the News"'s satirical review of 1987. "Not Necessarily the Year in Review" airs Tuesday, Jan. 26, and Friday, Jan. 29.

As a monthly series, "Not Necessarily the News" has a workable and often devastatingly funny format. Using quick-cut sketches and actual news footage, reporters Anne Bloom, Danny Breen and others bring you all the news that's not fit to print. "Not Necessarily the Year in Review," however, moves away from these news-manipulating techniques. Instead, there are silly skits and fake commercials, all of which add up to an unbalanced and not necessarily funny hour.

George Wendt of "Cheers" and newscaster Edwin Newman crop up during the special, with Newman delivering the ubiquitous "Sniglet" segment originated by Rich Hall, whose singular presence is really missed here. There's even a surprise visit from "Saturday Night Live" cult hero Mr. Bill. The man of clay and faithful sidekick Spot are one of the funniest moments in this roundup - along with the roller-applied Tammy Bakker cosmetics line, that is.

Why isn't "Not Necessarily the Year in Review" funnier? The problem is not with the show but with the year itself. 1987 was built on silly moments. We've heard enough PTL jokes to last an eternity, and nobody laughs at Gary Hart cracks anymore. How can you make fun of a year that made fun of itself?

Film has the Oscars, TV has the Emmys and cable has the Awards for Cable Excellence, which will air live on HBO on Sunday, Jan. 24. Barbra Streisand, Paul Simon and Tina Turner are up for Best Music Special, and Best Comedy Special nominees include Elayne Boosler, Billy Crystal, Bob Goldthwait and Robin Williams.

Though Comparatively Low Risk, State Schools Need AIDS Policy

By JENNIFER WARNER
Kentucky Department of Education
It is not important for teachers to know that a student has acquired immune deficiency syndrome, health officials say.

By protecting themselves only against people they know to be infected, school employees may create a false sense of security, explained Judi Phillips, who tracks Kentucky AIDS cases for the state Cabinet for Human Resources.

"The thing we have to remember is that the majority of people who are infected don't know they're infected," she said.

Health experts suspect that one in every 10,000 people tests positive for human immunodeficiency virus, or HIV, antibodies, said Gene Fitzhugh, health and physical education consultant for the Kentucky Department of Education.

Testing positive does not mean someone will have "full-blown AIDS," but people who have the antibodies are infectious whether or not they show symptoms, Phillips said. That's the danger of the disease.

Studies show that of people who have been HIV-infected for seven years, 36 percent have developed AIDS. The federal Centers for Disease Control estimate that 1.5 million Americans are HIV-infected.

Nationwide, Kentucky is seen as a low-risk state in terms of AIDS problems. Only 10.2 percent of the nation's AIDS cases can be found here, Phillips said.

Only 34 AIDS patients in Kentucky are still alive from the 107 cases reported. As of Dec. 10, there were three cases among 14- to 19-year-olds but none in younger children, the Human Resources Cabinet reported. Nationwide, only one in 69 AIDS cases is under 18.

Stringent testing of donated blood is eliminating infections once caused by transfusions, Fitzhugh said. Most other children with AIDS acquired it prenatally, and symptoms would have appeared well before they entered school, the Department of Education's position paper explains.

There are three steps to setting up AIDS policies for schools and businesses, said Tom Stoddard, director of the Lambda Legal Defense and Education Fund Inc. His organization promotes and defends the civil rights of people with AIDS.

A professor of law at New York University, Stoddard has become a national authority on AIDS. He recently spoke to the national Council of State Education Attorneys in Lexington.

First, develop a communicable disease policy, he recommended. (Other communicable diseases, receive less publicity than AIDS but also are often fatal and incurable, he noted.) Second, train all employees in sanitation procedures for dealing with body fluids. And third, educate people about AIDS and communicable diseases.

Georgia law authorizes testing teachers and students for AIDS, Stoddard said. He sees that as a waste of money and builder of anxiety because testing the general population creates so many false positives. One test was designed to err on the positive side to protect the blood supply, and the other is subject to varying interpretations, he said.

"The tests are reasonably accurate dealing with high-risk groups but not with low-risk groups," he said.

Last summer the Kansas Board of Education ordered human sexuality education that includes AIDS education at all grade levels.

The policy has earned "nothing but praise," said Dan Biles, attorney for the board. "AIDS is assisting us in implementing sex education," he said.

Maryland also required sex education without opt-out provisions, under emergency implementation orders.

In Oklahoma, AIDS-prevention education is mandatory for schools to offer, but students may choose not to attend. Discussion limited to the disease and its prevention, without reference to sex education, is optional for the fifth and sixth grades but mandatory for higher levels.

New York, a high-risk state, requires students in public and private schools to attend sessions about the disease and its transmission, but they may choose not to attend the prevention section if their parents so request in writing. Courts upheld the requirement, saying the state had a compelling interest in preventing the spread of the disease.

The AIDS policy recommended to school districts by the Kentucky Department of Education includes setting up a committee including the infected child's parents, three physicians and, with the consent of the child's parents, the school superintendent.

That committee will determine whether the child is physically able to attend school without posing risks to others. The child's status will be reviewed every semester.

The state policy makes no recommendations about children who test negative for antibodies but have family members who test HIV-positive.

Superintendents are given responsibility for maintaining confidentiality about an HIV-positive child. However, the policy recommends transmitting the knowledge to "persons in the school with a direct need to know."

In Fayette county each AIDS case will be reviewed by a panel including the infected child's physician, a county health department physician, a state health department physician and the parents.

Children who pose no risk to others may attend classes, said Dr. Norman Osborne, assistant superintendent for special pupil services. The situation will be reviewed every semester or when the medical condition of the child changes, he said.

Some parents protested this policy, "wanting 100 percent assurance" that AIDS could not be transmitted through saliva, tears or sneezing, he said.

"All we can say is there is no evidence" that the infection can be transmitted in those ways, Osborne said.

The difference between AIDS and other communicable diseases is fear, he said. Information about the disease keeps changing, he added, "but we know that no one has ever recovered from it."

"This is something any school district may face," Osborne said. "They would be well advised to have a policy in place so they don't have to make a decision in the midst of an emotional situation."

Fayette county has supplied vinyl gloves for school employees and held seminars on sanitation precautions. The district has also shown the Red Cross film "Beyond Fears."

The district's policy for employees with AIDS includes empowering the superintendent to require employees suspected of carrying the virus to be tested by the health department.

The health department would then advise the superintendent whether the carrier could continue employment. If the health department determined that the person posed a risk, the superintendent could place the carrier on sick leave or make other arrangements, Osborne said.

Jefferson county devised a comprehensive policy dealing with students and staff members who have or are asymptomatic carriers of any communicable or infectious medical condition. It includes not revealing the identity of infected individuals and requiring those infected to provide information directly to the superintendent.

Decisions will then be made on individual cases. Infected individuals will not automatically be excluded, although they may be if determined to endanger others. Decisions are subject to change.

If an infected student is not permitted to attend school, the district will make "every reasonable effort to provide said student with an adequate alternative education."

Further, the policy notes that routine screening is not warranted. The public health department and the district are working together to inform students, the staff and parents about communicable and infectious diseases.

Unlike the other policies, Jefferson county's policy devotes a page to the rights of infected individuals, limiting knowledge of their condition.

The Hopkins county school board recently approved a policy barring students or staff members diagnosed as having AIDS from school while a committee is formed to determine what steps to take.

Other parts of the policy just adopted by the local board follow the state and Jefferson county policies. However, the policy does not address classroom instruction about AIDS.

Stoddard, the national specialist from New York, said that test cases now in the courts might find that schools would be required to teach students with communicable diseases under laws requiring education for those with disabilities or handicaps.

HUEYSVILLE

FALLS SUDDENLY ILL

"Uncle" Elbert (Cap) Layne, of Smackey Bottom, near here, who has been employed with the Standard Elkhorn Coal Company, Rock Fork, started to his work last Wednesday morning, September 7, and, becoming very ill on the way, fell upon the railroad, where he was found by M. M. Pratt, an acquaintance. The train happening along within a short time, Mr. Layne was placed on it and taken to Beaver Valley hospital, where he underwent an operation and is reported doing fine. The old gentleman has suffered from hernia for years, and this is said to have been the cause of his recent illness.

Mr. Layne is very adept at mechanical work, and does much work of this nature for people of Bosco, Salt Lick, and other parts of this county, besides his regular employment.

SCHOOLBOY HURT

Bert Bailey, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bailey, Salt Lick, was running around the schoolhouse here, where he is attending school, when he stepped on a piece of broken glass and cut his eye badly. The teachers, Mr. Damron and Mr. Bailey, gave him first aid, and he is going ahead in spite of the wound.

BIRTHS

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Whitaker, this place, a fine baby boy, Friday, September 2, named Roosevelt, in honor of the illustrious president, also a fine baby girl to Mr. and Mrs. Bee Hayes, of Bosco.

ESCAPES DEATH

Chester Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Howard, this place, barely escaped being seriously injured or probably killed, a few days ago when his car plunged over a high embankment near Lackey. The car was caught by a wire fence, which probably saved the young man's life. The driver clung to the steering wheel, and came through uninjured. Chester had owned the car only a day or two, buying it from his brother, Morton Howard, of Ashland, who recently visited his parents here. The car needs considerable repairs, it is reported.

DRILL GOOD WELL

The New Domain Oil and Gas Company, having field headquarters here, Wm. Sexton, superintendent, have just drilled in a good gas well on Rock Fork, Esther Horton farm, well No. 3. The drilling site is situated near the top of a high, rough hill. The Louisville Gas and Electric Company own three fairly good wells near the same place. It is thought by Mr. Sexton that the New Domain will drill another well a short distance from the present gasser, whose volume is approximately 350,000 cubic feet.

WIENER ROAST

The following persons engaged in a wiener roast, held near the tippie of Wells-Elkhorn mine No. 6, last Friday night: Tolby Bailey, teacher in the school here this year, Misses Cara Hayes and Golda Huff, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Damron, also teaching here, Mrs. Bud Turner, Commodore Reed, Chester Howard, and Bee Hayes. Cars belonging to Tolby Bailey, Commodore Reed and Bee Hayes were used.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Sallie Ratliff, of Elkhorn City, is visiting her father, J. W. Huff, of this place.

Miss Blanche Allen, who went to Mayo College, Paintsville, last Monday, returned here Saturday to spend the week-end.

Cara Hayes, Golda Huff, Miss Baldridge and Sam Wright left for Maytown High School Monday morning, where they will attend this year, with the exception of Miss Hayes, who went to get them started in. Miss Hayes is acquainted with some of the faculty. Mr. Damron, principal of the school here, went to Prestonsburg last Saturday on business.

Mrs. Lottie Blair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Patton, this place, who was recently married at Pikeville, is now visiting her parents here.

Mrs. Robert Huff, this place, was visiting at Maytown Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Oak Osborne and family were out motoring Sunday.

GLO

TURNER-JENKINS

The marriage of Mr. James Jenkins to Miss Margaret Turner, of Wayland, Thursday of last week, was a great surprise to their many friends. The groom is the popular and worthy meat market man for the Glogora Coal Company, and the bride is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Squire Turner, native of this county. These young folks have the best wishes of the entire community for a long, prosperous and happy life.

SCHOOLS OPEN

The Glo school opened last Tuesday with Mrs. Stephens, of Prestonsburg, in charge. She is being ably assisted by Prof. Otis Cooley, of Maytown. They have a fine enrollment and are moving along quite nicely. The school at Wayland opened September 5, with a full corps of teachers and is reported to have been the largest enrollment in the history of the Wayland school. Much is expected in the way of accomplished work as all the teachers are well qualified and prepared to do efficient work.

The P. T. A. organization, in connection with the two schools, will continue from its last year's organization and will be a helpful factor.

CENTENARIAN

We have had the pleasure of an introduction to William Triplett, a native of this county but late a resident of Knott county, only a short distance from here, having been born in 1827, late in the year, and will reach his 100th milestone in a few days. He is quite "spry" for his years, talks freely of his experiences in the pioneer days of Beaver Creek, and is especially fond of talking of the wars of 1848 and 1861, and the Spanish-American War. While too old to enter service in that war many of his relatives went to the front and served with honor, returning safely, except for the "perils" usually attendant to the life of the loyal soldier.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Only a few days ago the alarm spread through town that a case of infantile paralysis had developed, but the alarm proved false, much to the satisfaction of the people, and up to this time this disease has not developed, although many are fearful that it may reach us yet. Proper precaution is being taken to prevent it.

SUNDAY'S GAME

The Louisa ball team came up last Sunday and crossed bats with the Wayland Regulars, which was a very hard-fought game from start to finish. Each team well knew the ability and determination of the other, and, during the entire struggle the result was in doubt until the last lap of the game when the Wayland boys put one over the Louisa fellows and this won the victory. A large crowd witnessed the game.

SUICIDE

The suicide of Henry Davis at Lackey was the most shocking event of the day. Reports vary as to why it occurred. Some say ill health, others financial reverses; others say he was mentally unbalanced.

GARRETT TROUBLES

An altercation took place at Garrett last Sunday. The real facts with which we are not acquainted, only that the difficulty occurred over a young lady, and the result was that a young man by the name of Skaggs was seriously stabbed in several places. While the injuries are serious they are not necessarily fatal. The injured man was taken to the hospital and the aggressor, whose name we do not know, was promptly arrested and will be given a hearing in due time.

PERSONAL MENTION

Sherman Fannin and family are taking a two weeks' vacation among relatives and friends in Lawrence county and will remain for the Home Coming and Fair at Louisa next week. Wm. Sexton, our genial payroll clerk, returned last Friday from his vacation which was spent at the "Breaks" of Sandy. His fishing exploits do not compare very favorably with his hunting experiences for he presented on his return evidence unimpeachable of his success in that line.

Mrs. H. W. Cooke, of Godyn, W. Va., came over last Sunday for a two-weeks' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Smith.

Mike Gross, who for some time has been the able assistant electrician here, has resigned his position and moved to Weeksbury, to become chief electrician for the Elkhorn Piney Coal Company.

The party given at Wayland hotel Wednesday night of last week was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hughes and Miss Eulah Gambill, Mr. Hughes having charge of the music, which was quite interesting.

John Hampton and family have returned from a visit to the home of his venerable father, who lives in Johnson county.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Harris, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Janie, were week-end guests of friends and relatives at Prestonsburg.

GARRETT

Everyone is very much interested in the new church that is being erected here, and hope it will soon be completed.

A large crowd attended the dance at "Conley's Dance Hall" Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Damper and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Spencer left early Thursday on their vacation and expect to tour several states before returning.

Mrs. Otis Kilburn has returned home after an extended visit in Ashland.

Miss Audrey Sturgill left Monday for Paintsville, where she will attend school.

The small son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bailey was seriously burned Sunday afternoon.

Dr. L. F. Taylor, who has been with us for several months, has accepted a position at Stone, Ky.

J. A. Tracy and son Henry have returned from the hospital and are getting along fine.

Mr. Grover Lowe and S. F. Bradley have taken charge of the Lone Star Hotel, and report a good business.

Ed Moore, who was hurt in an auto accident, has returned from the hospital.

Dr. J. S. Sandlin has opened an office here, and is having good business.

TWO AMENDMENTS ON BALLOT IN NOVEMBER

Besides nine state and five district offices, voters will be called upon in the November election to vote on two constitutional amendments, and now that the primaries are over it is well to give some consideration to the provisions of these two measures.

The first amendment submitted is an act to amend and reenact section 147 of the constitution dealing with the election qualifications. The amendment provides that all persons entitled to vote in cities and towns having a population of 5,000 or more shall register under provisions drafted by the legislature and that the legislature "may provide by general laws for the registration of other voters in the state." Where registration is required only registered persons shall have the right to vote. The general assembly will provide the mode of registration.

The amendment includes the proviso that the general assembly may enact laws to permit electors and voters who are unavoidably absent from their voting precinct to vote, and if such an enactment is passed, the general assembly is authorized to provide all the necessary means for having such votes of absentees cast and counted.

The second amendment would remove what is known as the $5,000 a year limit for salaries and give to the general assembly the power and duty of fixing reasonable compensation for all public officers. The $5,000 a year limit was written into the constitution at a time when a dollar was worth far less than it is today and this limit has been a handicap to the state in obtaining men of the highest caliber as candidates for public office or as appointees.—Big Sandy News.

MRS. EUNICE VANCE SUCCEUMS TO TYPHOID

Mrs. Eunice Vance, 23 years old, wife of Burns Vance, died at her home at Wayland Thursday, September 8, after an illness of about two weeks of typhoid.

The body was prepared for burial by G. D. Ryan, local undertaker, and was shipped to Mrs. Vance's former home near West Liberty, Morgan county.

Surviving her are her husband and three children; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Oney; three brothers and two sisters.

Isolate Infantile Paralysis Patients

This bulletin is issued in collaboration with State Board of Health of Kentucky, in response to the large number of inquiries about infantile paralysis. The questions answered below have been selected as those pertinent to a better understanding of the nature, method of spread and means of prevention of this disease.

- 1. WHAT IS INFANTILE PARALYSIS? A "catching" disease caused by an infecting agent, or virus, which gains entrance into the substance of the brain or spinal cord.
2. HOW IS THE ENTRANCE GAINED? Through the mucous membranes of the nose and throat, thence by lymph channels to the nerve tissues.
3. IN WHAT WAYS DO EXPOSURES OCCUR? (1) By contact with discharges from nose, throat or bowels of an affected person either directly—person to person—or indirectly by way of some article or food (especially milk) polluted with these discharges. (2) By contact with a healthy individual harboring the virus in the nose or throat—known as carrier.
4. IS THE DISEASE AS PREVALENT AS USUALLY REPORTED? In all probability much more so. A part of those affected do not develop paralysis while in others paralysis is so slight that it is not recognized. It is therefore probable that many mild cases are not recognized.
5. ARE THESE MILD CASES CONTAGIOUS? Yes.
6. IS THERE ANY PREVENTATIVE TREATMENT AGAINST INFANTILE PARALYSIS? No.
7. IS THERE ANY VACCINE OR SERUM TREATMENT FOR THE DISEASE BETWEEN EXPOSURE AND ONSET OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS? From 7 to 14 days.
9. WHEN SHOULD PRECAUTIONS BE TAKEN AGAINST EXPOSURE? Upon the report of one case in the community.
10. WHAT MEASURES CAN BE TAKEN? Any possible avenues by which the virus of this disease can get to children should be cut off (see 3 above). The most important measure of precaution is isolation of the child. By so doing the chances of exposure are minimized. This does not imply that the child should be confined to a room, but rather that its movements should be restricted to the doorway and association with other children avoided. Milk should be boiled before being consumed by the child.

Isolate Infantile Paralysis Patients

- 11. HOW LONG SHOULD THESE PRECAUTIONS BE CARRIED OUT? This period will be governed by the local board of health or until three weeks after the last case develops in the community.
12. WHAT ARE THE EARLY SYMPTOMS OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS? If one or more cases have occurred in the community, a child with fever, vomiting, constipation, (or diarrhea), drowsiness, and irritability, especially when combined with headache, a transient flushing of the face, unusual sweating, or retention of the urine, should be regarded with suspicion.
13. WHAT SHOULD BE DONE WITH SUSPECTED CHILD? Immediately isolate the suspected child in bed, keeping other children in the household from the room and all other children and adults from entering the house. Call the family physician for the sick child and for instructions relative to preventing further spread of the disease.

DANA

Floyd Hall received a stroke by J. V. Davis Sunday just over the heart. He was unconscious for half an hour, but is all right now.

Mrs. R. L. Hall, of Millard, Ky., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Toshie Boyd, who has been ill for some time. John Jarrell, one of our merchants, is having some repair work done on his dwelling by J. M. Boyd and Akers brothers, carpenters.

We are having a fine school this year, large attendance and well conducted by W. H. Howell, teacher. A. L. Smiley is having a blacksmith shop built, construction work is nearly all done.

SAYS SPEEDING MUST STOP IN PRESTONSBURG

"Speeding in Prestonsburg must stop" was the edict delivered this week by Police Judge E. P. Arnold.

A number of motorists were haled into police court this week and fined, and Judge Arnold says that there will be more fines to come if speeding is not stopped. The younger set produces the chief offenders, it is said.

John May, of Langley, was a visitor here Tuesday.

C. L. HUTSINPILLER HONORED WITH TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hutsinpiller, of Ashland, but formerly of this place, left last week-end for Chattanooga, Tenn., to attend a convention of agents of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company.

The trip to the convention was awarded Mr. Hutsinpiller in recognition for his work with the company, which has been quite successful. Only agents doing a certain amount of business receive this honor. The convention was held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week at Signal Mountain Inn, Chattanooga.

Veterans Administration Questions And Answers

Editor's Note: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA Counselors. Full information is available at any VA Office.

Q.—I am a service-connected veteran rated at 10 percent. My service-connected condition has worsened. Can I be reevaluated for an increase of my percentage of disability?

A.—Yes. You should submit a written request to the VA along with any medical evidence you have to substantiate the claim.

Q.—I am a Vietnam veteran and I am rated 10 percent for a service-connected disability. Am I subject to the eligibility assessment procedures for VA medical care?

A.—No. The following veterans are exempt from the eligibility assessment procedures: service-connected veterans; former prisoners of war; veterans exposed to certain herbicides while serving in Vietnam and to ionizing radiation in connection with atmospheric testing of nuclear weapons and in the occupation of Hiroshima and Nagasaki; veterans receiving a VA pension; veterans of World War I, the Spanish-American War and the Mexican Border period; and veterans eligible for Medicaid.

BIG THINGS IN SMALL PACKAGES: Miniature horses—no bigger than Saint Bernard dogs—have been around since the 15th and 16th centuries. Most experts say small ponies such as Shetlands and Welsh were used to breed the first minis. At one time, minis were used to pull carts in coal mines. The horses' small size made them perfect for a low ceiling life. Today, however, miniature horses are used mostly for show. According to Ranger Rick magazine, a mini under 30 inches may sell for tens of thousands of dollars!

In 1984, it became illegal for cab drivers in Greece to chat with their fares.

Live From The Met
Features Turandot

The Metropolitan Opera's production of Puccini's exotic "Turandot" is featured on "Live from the Met" Wednesday, January 27 at 8 p.m. on KET.

"Turandot," set in ancient Peking, is the story of the beautiful but icy Princess Turandot and the handsome prince who awakens her capacity for love.

This Franco Zeffirelli production of Puccini's final opera was videotaped April 4 at the Met.

"Turandot" is sung in Italian with English subtitles and features a cast including Eva Marton as Turandot; Leona Mitchell as Liu; Placido Domingo as Calaf; Paul Plishka as Timur; and Hugues Cuenod as Altoum. James Levine conducts and Joanne Woodward is the host for the evening.

"Turandot" is the first of three telecasts during the 1987-88 "Live from the Met" series, which also presents Offenbach's "Les Contes d'Hoffman" and Strauss' "Ariadne auf Naxos."

"Live from the Met" is produced by the Metropolitan Opera Association and presented over the Public Broadcasting Service by WNET/Thirteen, New York.

He expresses his thanks to his family and friends for the many gifts he received.

What's In A Name? Well, Look at These

In Romeo and Juliet, William Shakespeare asked, "What's in a name?" He seemed to be implying that a name was not really all that important. But a glance at the names selected for new babies at Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center of Paintsville indicates that parents take great care and imagination in choosing the names given their offspring.

Of the 268 babies born at Paul B. Hall in 1987 137 were girls and 131 were boys. There were three sets of twins—two sets of girls and one of boys.

The names selected showed a drastic departure from the traditional. Names such as Sarah, Mary, Irene, and Faye (one each) for girls and Henry, Philip, Eugene and Albert (one each) for the boys lost out to Nicole, Lynn, Amanda and Renee (for girls) and Justin, Joshua, Brian and Brandon (for boys).

Names chosen for girls were by far more unique and imaginative than those for boys in 1987. For instance, Tara, Destinee, Omega and Lagonda (girls) are far more poetic than Kalman, Kyle, Cody and Paris (boys). Perfectly respectable, you understand, but not as musical.

On the other hand, there is something to be said for a name like "Noble", the name of one young man who arrived in 1987. One hopes that the name will one day become a description, as well.

A second glance at the list of 1987 names tends to verify the popularity (and impact) of television soap operas.

One suspects that General Hospital, Days of Our Lives, The Young and The Restless and others had at least a mild influence on the selection of Nicole, Aimee, Brittany, Krystle, Ashley, Hope, Tiffany, Felicia, Kayla, Lauren, Shane, Alex, Marcus, Michael, Justin and Brandon. Summer and Dawn, of course, need no rationale.

What ever happened to such good old Eastern Kentucky names as Hanna, Melvina, Lucinda, Levi, Eliza, Tilda, Asa, Zephaniah, Elijah and Manerva—all popular first names 100 years ago, according to census records? In those by-gone days, the Bible was probably the greatest source of names. Not coincidentally, it was also the most available reading material.

A lot can change in 100 years, including popular first names. Something that does not change, however, is the joy that each new baby brings to the family and the home. The Staff of the Blanche W. Hall Women's Pavilion at Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center has been privileged to share in this joy with 265 families in 1987.

Top Gun And Beyond

How is the pace of aerial combat changing? Will the fighter plane of the future operate without a pilot and be free to produce the most body-crushing maneuvers imaginable?

"NOVA" ponders these questions when it airs "Top Gun and Beyond" Monday, January 25 at 8 p.m. on KET.

"Top Gun and Beyond" looks at how fighter planes have evolved from the slow, aerodynamically unsophisticated World War I fighter planes to today's high-tech, mind-boggling combat jets.

Now faster and more maneuverable than ever, fighting jets have run up against one performance limit that engineers may not be able to overcome: the biology barrier. As "NOVA" cameras show, the newest fighter planes—aerodynamically unstable yet immensely powerful—expose the human pilot to excessive G-forces. These forces can cause the pilot to black out suddenly and remain incapacitated for minutes.

Despite ultra-sophisticated hardware that allows planes virtually to fly themselves, the well-trained fighter pilot still makes the biggest difference in aerial combat. Because of their influence, pilots believe that regardless of how advanced the technology, they always will wind up behind the stick.

"Top Gun and Beyond" is an Independent Communications Associates Ltd. production and is presented on "NOVA" by WGBH/Boston.

Great Gravy— It Doesn't Have To Be Fattening

(From the American Institute for Cancer Research)

Winter meals have long been characterized as "heavy"—lots of meat and potatoes smothered with gravy. With the turn to more health-conscious eating in recent years, winter meals are lighter—less meat and more vegetables—and traditional, fat-laden gravy is served less and less.

Most of us get more than enough fat in our diets without the added fat that gravy provides. Yet at times we miss the flavor and moistness it gives meat dishes. The solution: get the fat out of your gravy! You can do this by skimming fat from the pan drippings that serve as the gravy base, or by making broth-based gravy with a minimum of fatty ingredients. The following recipes demonstrate both approaches.

CHICKEN OR TURKEY GRAVY FROM PAN DRIPPINGS

The secret to lower fat pan gravies is simply to remove as much of the fat as possible. When your chicken or turkey is done roasting, remove the bird from the pan and then drain the pan juices into a jar or cup. Let the fat rise to the top and then remove it by carefully spooning it off, by using a bulb-type baster, or by simply chilling the pan juices, and then removing the hardened fat.

Meanwhile, add a little hot water to the roasting pan and scrape up the tasty scraps. Add them to the pan juices.

To make the gravy, use 2 tablespoons of flour, stirred into 1/4 cup of water, for each cup of pan juices. Place the fat-skimmed pan juices in a sauce pan, reheat, and then stir in the flour water/mixture. Simmer until thick and season to taste with salt, pepper and herbs. For a darker gravy, add a little soy sauce or bottled brown gravy base.

BROWN GRAVY FROM BROTH

- 1 tbsp. margarine
- 1 tbsp. flour
- 2 tbsp. diced carrot
- 2 tbsp. diced celery
- 2 tbsp. diced onion
- 1 cup beef broth (fat-skimmed)
- 2 tbsp. tomato puree
- 1 bay leaf
- 1/2 clove garlic
- Dash pepper
- Dash thyme leaves

In a small saucepan, melt the margarine over medium heat; add flour and cook for 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Add the carrot, celery and onion and continue to cook and stir for about 5 minutes, or until the vegetables are lightly browned. Remove from the heat and stir in broth.

Add the remaining ingredients, return the pan to the heat and, stirring constantly, bring the mixture to a boil. Reduce heat and let simmer, stirring occasionally, for 4 to 5 minutes.

Let the mixture cool slightly, remove the bay leaf and process the gravy in a blender until smooth. This makes 4 servings, about 3 tablespoons each.

(Good Food/Good Health" is provided by the American Institute for Cancer Research, Washington, D.C. 20069. Recipes are reviewed by Karen Collins, M.S., R.D.)

Kentucky's 66,000 non-farm employers had more than 1.2 million workers on their payrolls earning an average $1,500 per month in 1987, according to Department for Employment Services figures. This doesn't include self-employed workers.

Celebrates First Birthday

Brian Patrick Lazar celebrated his first birthday Monday, Jan. 11, at his home at Auxier with his mother and father, Dora Lynn and Kenneth Lazar. Also attending were close friends and relatives. He received many gifts and enjoyed a large white birthday cake with Alf sitting on top.

Low Temperatures Mean Higher Bills

"Chilled to the bone?" You should be. According to National Weather Service records, January's temperatures for the first eleven days of the month were lower than a year ago.

The average temperature for the first eleven days was 21 degrees, as compared to 36 degrees a year ago. Likewise, heating degree days are up by 53%. Degree days are an accepted method of estimating energy consumption during a heating or air conditioning season.

"If the temperatures remain lower than normal throughout January, our customers can expect their bills to increase, said W. W. Zoellers Kentucky Power division manager. He added, "The colder the weather the more energy it requires to keep warm; likewise the more energy one uses the higher the utility bill will be."

Customers who would like information on ways to keep warm, and at the same time save on the winter heating bills, should call their nearest Kentucky Power office and ask to speak to a customer services representative.

"We have information on reducing usage, weatherization, and our budget billing plan (Equal Payment Plan), which can be helpful during the winter. We can also help arrange a partial payment plan for customers who are temporarily having difficulty paying their bill," concluded Zoellers.

Public TV Presents History Of Television

Television turns the cameras on itself in an eight-part series premiering Tuesday, January 26 at 8 p.m. on KET. Edwin Newman hosts the program that explores the first 60 years of what has been called the world's electronic fireplace and the century's most powerful and intimate medium.

"Television" examines the growth, history, glitter and impact of the gigantic global industry built around the small screen. Each hour will have a different theme. "Starting with 1948, we are looking at show types of the last 40 years," says Executive Producer Jack Ameth, "to see how comedy, drama, news and other types of programs developed over those decades. We are highlighting the best of some of those genres."

Episode one, "Live Pictures," looks at television's live presentations of sports and events—from royal weddings and presidential inaugurations to space shots and political conventions, as well as the Super Bowl, World Series and the Olympics.

Upcoming episodes examine such topics as the evolution of TV humor; the intense international race to invent television; the effect television news has on the events it covers; a look at the early days of TV news; how American TV drama has influenced TV drama around the world; music, talk and game shows, once described as "chewing gum for the eyes;" and how television has fulfilled its promise and how it has betrayed it.

Now is the right time to do a series on television asserts series writer/co-producer Michael Winship. "We have virtually 100 percent penetration of television in this country and yet we are still expanding the number of channels. Five or 10 years down the road television is going to expand to such a point that it would be a difficult subject to grasp under the umbrella of a series like this."

"Television" is a production of Granada Television in association with WNET/New York and KCET/Los Angeles.

A Cure for Drunken Peanuts

By SEAN ADAMS

It's in bad taste for people to get drunk. But when parents get drunk, they just taste bad.

Why? Scientists believe that high alcohol content may be one reason for off-flavors in peanuts.

Uncured peanuts produce alcohol and other compounds when exposed to temperatures below freezing or above 95 degrees F. Peanuts are sometimes exposed to sub-freezing temperatures immediately after they have been dug up, when they are left in the field to begin drying. Then, five to seven days later, they are moved to bins where they are dried in hot air. Extremely high or low temperatures during this critical time interfere with respiration, causing the peanuts to produce alcohol and other compounds.

Peanut inspectors cannot accurately measure alcohol levels and related off-flavors because they rely on a subjective test—taste. So scientists with USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Raleigh, N.C., have developed an experimental meter to do the job more precisely.

"It's sort of like a breathalyzer test for drunk peanuts," says chemist Harold Pattee. "It helps separate good-tasting peanuts from bad-tasting ones. The good ones can be sold whole or made into peanut butter, while the bad-tasting ones can still be processed into oil and other products."

In laboratory tests, the meter works like this: About three ounces of peanuts are ground up in a blender for 10 seconds. A sensor inserted briefly into a hole at the top of the blender detects alcohol vapor given off by the peanuts, just as a smoke detector senses smoke.

The sensor causes a buzzer on the meter to go off when the alcohol level is high enough that the peanuts would be unacceptable to a trained test panel, according to James W. Dickens, the agency agricultural engineer at Raleigh who designed the meter.

The meter is being tested in three of the top four peanut-producing states—Georgia, Texas and North Carolina. If it works, it could be useful to peanut producers, processors and inspectors. At a cost of about $500, the meter would also be cheaper and more practical than chemical tests now being developed. (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture)

ORDINANCE NO. 2-88

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY RELATING TO PUBLIC NUISANCE OR HEALTH HAZARD ON LAND WITHIN THE CITY THROUGH THE ACCUMULATION OF RUBBISH OR THE EXCESSIVE GROWTH OF WEEDS OR GRASS.

SECTION ONE. PURPOSE. The purpose of this Ordinance is to declare unsightly accumulations of rubbish and the existence of excessive growth of weeds or grass to be a public nuisance, to promote the public health, safety and welfare of the people of the City and further to protect the people against unsanitary and unsightly conditions.

SECTION TWO. DEFINITIONS. As used in this ordinance unless the context clearly indicates otherwise, the following terms have the following meanings. All words used in the present tense include the future and past tense; all words in the plural number include the singular number, and all words in the singular number include the plural number. The word "shall" is mandatory and not merely directory.

(A) "ACCUMULATION OF RUBBISH" means an accumulation on any premises of filth, refuse, trash, garbage, or other waste material which endangers the public health, welfare, or safety, or materially interferes with the peaceful enjoyment by owners or occupants of adjacent property because of the danger of its catching or communicating fire, its attracting and propagating vermin, rodents, or insects, or its blowing of rubbish into any street, sidewalk or property of another.

(B) "CITY" means the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

(C) "PERSON" is any individual, industry, public or private corporation, copartnership, association, firm, or other entity, whatsoever.

(D) "WEEDS" means the existence of thistles, burdock, jimson weeds, ragweeds, milkweeds, poison ivy, iron weeds, and all other noxious weeds and rank vegetation.

SECTION THREE. GENERAL PROVISIONS.

A. The existence of weeds or accumulation of rubbish as defined in Section Three (A) and (B) is hereby declared a public nuisance, and it shall be unlawful for the owner, occupant or person having control or management of any land within the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to permit such public nuisance or health hazard to develop on said land.

B. No owner, occupant or person having control or management of any land within the City shall permit or maintain on any such premises or adjacent rights-of-way any growth of weeds, grass or other rank vegetation to a greater height than 12 inches on the average, nor any accumulation of dead weeds, grass or brush.

SECTION FOUR. EXEMPTIONS. There shall be exempt from the provisions of this ordinance, the following:

A. Flower gardens, plots of shrubbery, vegetable gardens, and farm land under cultivation. Exemption under the terms of this paragraph cannot be claimed unless the land has been cultivated and cared for in a manner appropriate to such exempt categories.

B. Certain areas, as designated by the Mayor, with approval of the City Council, for the control of erosion, urban forestry, and preservation of any rare species of flora.

SECTION FIVE. ABATEMENT PROCEDURE.

A. It shall be the duty of the City Administrator or his designee to serve or cause to be served a notice upon the owner or occupant of any premises on which there is kept or maintained a public nuisance in the form of any accumulation of rubbish or excessive weeds in violation of the provisions of this ordinance and to demand the abatement of said nuisance within five (5) days unless the nuisance constitutes an immediate danger to the health and well being of the City. If such danger is present, the nuisance shall be abated within 24 hours of notice. Notice shall be served upon persons by certified mail, but if the whereabouts of the persons is unknown and cannot be ascertained by the City Administrator in the exercise of reasonable diligence, the Administrator shall make an affidavit to that effect, and the service of notice may be made by publication in a newspaper of general circulation for two consecutive issues. A copy of the notice shall be posted in a conspicuous place on the premises affected by the notice and it shall be recorded in the office of the County Clerk.

(B) If the person so served does not abate the nuisance within five days, the City may proceed to abate the nuisance, keeping an account of the expense of the abatement, and the expense shall be charged and paid by the owner or occupant.

SECTION SIX. SUSPENSION OF LICENSE.

A. Whenever it is brought to the attention of the City Council that a nuisance exists in the form of rubbish accumulation or excessive weed or grass growth, and the Council deems that there is an immediate threat to the public health, safety, or welfare, the Council may by majority vote suspend the license of any person conducting business upon the premises where the nuisance exists.

B. The City Clerk shall cause notice of the suspension to be served personally upon the licensee or at the premises where the nuisance exists.

C. Upon application of the licensee, the Council may remove the suspension under such terms as it may direct.

SECTION SEVEN. PENALTY. Whoever violates any provision of this ordinance shall be fined not less than $10.00 or more than $100.00 for each offense. Each day's continued violation shall constitute a separate offense.

SECTION EIGHT. All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict herewith, to the extent of such conflict only, are hereby repealed.

SECTION NINE. This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication, as required by law.

Receives First Eagle Scout Rank

In a recent ceremony held at St. James Episcopal Church, Boy Scout Troop No. 877 of Abbott Creek presented its first Eagle Scout Rank to Stephen Hill Davis, of Green Acres, Prestonsburg.

The ceremony included the reading of congratulation letters from Governor Martha Layne Collins, Lt. Governor Stephen H. Besher, Congressman Carl C. Perkins, Rep. Greg Stumbo, President Ronald Reagan and Vice-President, George Bush.

Davis is the son of Betty Archer and Ray Edward Davis, both of Prestonsburg. He has nearly eight years of registered scout tenure. He has earned the God and Country award from the Episcopal Church and has served for three years on summer camp staff at McKee Scout Reservation.

"The road to eagle was not an easy one" said Stephen, "a scout must complete requirements in the areas of environmental science, camping, hiking, swimming, emergency preparedness, first aid, lifesaving and 13 other areas."

His future plans include continued service to scouting as Webelos Den Leader for Pack 32 and Assistant Scoutmaster for Troop No. 877. "Scouting's done a lot for me" he added, "and I want only to return the favor by offering leadership to other boys. My scoutmaster once said 'no one ever stood as tall as when they stooped to help a child'—someone stooped for me and I want to do the same for others."
