2% Restaurant Tax Is Passed Here After Opposing Views Are Voiced

By Tim Sizemore

By a vote of 5 to 3, a 2% gross income tax was enacted on restaurants at Monday's Prestonsburg city council meeting, with over 30 taxpayers airing their views, both pro and con, as to the effect of the new tax.

Before the tax debate was taken up, three amendments were added to the original proposal. The first lowered the tax from 3% to 2%; the second clarified the meaning of restaurants and exempted schools and temporary non-profit refreshment stands, cold cut sandwiches and pop machines. The third amendment provided for the reimbursement of restaurant owners for extra bookkeeping necessary to comply with the tax.

The tax, revenue from which is earmarked to improve recreational facilities and to promote tourism, met stiff opposition from members of the Floyd County Restaurant Association whose spokesman, attorney Ned Pillersdorf, said that the tax would be devastating to the restaurant owners who already have a small margin of profit. He presented the council with a petition signed by 3,700 people, of whom he said 75% were not residents of Prestonsburg. "To stay alive we need outside money, and the feelings of these people should be taken into consideration," Pillersdorf argued.

The pro tax people contended that the money was needed to promote tourism, upgrade Archer Park and for the creation of mini parks and possibly a youth center. They pointed out that Jenny Wiley State Park, the summer music theatre and the Holiday Inn are major tourist attractions, and that as such the city has donated money to the music theatre even though it is not within the city limits. Those favoring the tax said that if other facilities such as Archer Park are improved, more tourists will take advantage of the recreation offered with the new business thus generated offsetting the cost of the tax.

Dale McKinney, resident of the Middle Creek Road, said the picture painted for the tax was rosy, but that non-residents of Prestonsburg are being overlooked. He argued that only 5,000 people live in the city limits as opposed to 50,000 in the county. "I'm amazed about all the money that will be poured into Archer Park. How do you renovate a swamp," he asked. McKinney also said that many businesses in town have gone under, because they did not serve the needs of the people of Floyd county.

Councilman William O. Goble answered McKinney saying that this would be the first major renovation plan submitted in 23 years. He countered that Prestonsburg is not overlooking the people of Floyd county, because "we need their business and it's their park, too."

Chalmer Frazier, spoke in favor of the tax saying that the tax dollars would help the area's economy. He said that it was time we showed the rest of the state and nation that we are willing to do something for ourselves.

Brackett Pledges Cooperation, Asks Early Review of Contract

By Tim Sizemore

A spirit of detente prevailed last Wednesday night's school board meeting as Supt. Ray Brackett pledged cooperation with organizations and groups committed to the betterment of the school system.

Addressing the group not as superintendent but as a private citizen, Brackett told the gathering that he feels many of the communication barriers of the past have been removed and that better lines of communication are now opened with the public.

In review, he said that two years ago there had been a lot of animosity between various concerned parent groups and the board, which he had tried to alleviate during his tenure as superintendent.

"Parents represent an important resource for the board and their help should be enlisted for positive changes within the school system," he said.

Brackett said that parents have a right to be involved in the board's decision-making process even though neither he nor the board would give up any statutory authority.

Deloris Smith, of the Floyd county Education Forum and Community Partnership, and Burl Wells Spurlock, president of the First Commonwealth Bank and a leader in the business community, partnership for education to join with Brackett as an advisory capacity.

Mrs. Smith said of the superintendent's remarks, "We want to work together to make the Floyd county school system the best in the state." She also commented that a meeting she and

Mr. Spurlock attended with the superintendent had been very productive.

In a move which apparently was not anticipated by the board, Brackett asked for an early review of his contract which is coming up for renewal. The contract can be renewed now or delayed until the end of the fiscal year.

His announcement was made just before the board went into executive session, and no comment was forthcoming from the board.

In other action, the following certified staff were employed by the board:

Antony Moore as emergency LBD teacher at Prestonsburg High School;

Nola F. Newsome at Stumbo Elementary; Sheila Ortega at Betsy Layne Elementary; Debbie Bradley at Betsy Layne Elementary; Danese Amburgey at Allen remediation, and Davida Ruth Bickford as a certified substitute teacher. Non-certified staff hired for the remainder of the school year, 1987-88 include teachers aides, Debbie Hall, Melvin Elementary; Annette Jackson and Teresa Akers, Osborne Elementary. Phyllis Stratton was hired as substitute cook at Betsy Layne High School, and Desirae Kidd as substitute custodian at Harold Elementary. Substitute contract drivers hired were Zina Kidd, Honaker; Ronald Hunt and Carolyn Hall, Weeksbury.

A policy adopted by the board places a floor of 2% on wage increases of non-certified personnel, contingent upon funds being available. Board member Arvil Duff said of the employees, "We are very fortunate to have people of such caliber for low pay," and added he hoped the pay could improve in the future.

At Supt. Brackett's recommendation, the board also gave the nod for architects and construction managers to prepare bid specifications for the preparation of the sites for, Prestonsburg Middle School, Allen Elementary, Right Beaver Elementary and Left Beaver High School. The board approved employing Law Engineering to do geotechnical work for the Allen and Left Beaver school sites.

IT TOOK AT LEAST 30 MINUTES for members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad to free Roger D. Marsillett and George Nunemaker from this car late Tuesday night. The top of the car and a door had to be cut away before the two men were freed.

Marsillett, 28, of West Prestonsburg, was traveling north on the Lake Road, near here, when he lost control of his car which left the road and struck a tree, according to investigating officer, Trooper Greg Roberts, of the state police.

Both Marsillett and Nunemaker, 18, of Allen, were taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center from which Marsillett was transferred by helicopter that night to U. K. Medical Center. Both his legs are badly broken, and a medical center spokesman said yesterday (Tuesday) that he is in intensive care with his condition reported as fair.

Nunemaker was treated at Highlands Regional for multiple lacerations and released.

Capt. Chuck Akers, of the Rescue Squad, said it was one of the worst accidents he had ever seen not involving a fatality.

Seventh District Leaders Stress Educational Needs

More than 200 Eastern Kentucky business and education leaders met at Morehead State University, Saturday, in what was heralded as a Seventh Congressional District Summit.

The daylong meeting was held as a group effort seeking answers to the problems confronting the 23-county district and a solution to the theme question of the meeting, "Where do we go from here?"

While most urged a basic and broad involvement of the public in educational efforts if the area's economy is to improve, Judge-Executive Paul Patton, of Pike county, proposed an easier, less expensive solution.

According to Patton, "You can't have a good educational system unless your primary purpose is to educate," and he says that the primary concern of an estimated three-fourths of elected officials in the Seventh District is their own political survival. He emphasized his belief that if legislation proposed to eliminate vote fraud is enacted, the district would see permanent improvement.

The Seventh District meet was arranged by a committee appointed by Morehead State President C. Nelson Grote after several people asked him to organize a group for the Seventh District similar to the "Forward in the Fifth" movement organized in 1986. The Fifth District movement followed the release of studies which put Kentucky at the bottom of the educational scale nationally with the district ranked lowest in the state but not far below the Seventh District.

President Grote and Representative Chris Perkins jointly announced the "summit" of which Perkins was the keynote speaker.

Among those speaking at the meet was State Superintendent of Public Instruction John Brock, a former Rowan county school superintendent, who termed the gathering, "The one most positive thing to happen in the Seventh District in my memory." He cited bad roads and the lack of communication as reasons for low opportunity in the Seventh District, adding that those who drop out of school never realize the value of education.

Some, like Jack Foster, state secretary of Education and Humanities Cabinet, feel that no one group will ever be able to accomplish what the district needs but that a concerted effort of (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

Ex-Floyd Clerk Wins Acquittal In Pike Court

By B.A. Heinz

Former Floyd County Clerk Thomas Lafferty, Jr., was acquitted Monday of theft charges on order of Pike Circuit Judge Will T. Scott after only three hours of testimony were heard. In ordering the acquittal Judge Scott said special prosecutor Assistant Attorney General Barbara Whaley had failed to produce sufficient evidence.

Lafferty was being tried on a charge of illegally using county credit cards to buy $1,792 worth of meals for some 60 people during 1984.

Although Whaley produced witnesses who identified signatures on credit cards receipts as that of Lafferty, Judge Scott pointed out that no link was made between Lafferty and those who were identified as receiving the meals.

Regional Jail Control Awaits Court Decision

Questions as to who should control and operate the problem-plagued Big Sandy Regional Detention Center in Paintsville are now before the Kentucky Court of Appeals, and no quick decision on these issues is in sight. Amid the discussion of constitutionality and legislative intent, Appeals Judge Charles B. Lester, of Fort Mitchell, advised those present at a February 1 hearing that he wanted "everyone present to know that we recognize the common thread" in the issues before the court. That thread, Lester said, was politics.

The 110 bed, $2.6 million regional jail, located on land owned by the Johnson County Fiscal Court but designed to serve the needs of Johnson, Lawrence, Magoffin, and Martin Counties, has been troubled for some time by operating delays and questions of who should pay for and run the facility. Originally scheduled to open when construction was completed in March 1987, it began receiving prisoners only in late January 1988, due to delays caused by disputes and lawsuits.

The main questions before the three-judge Appeals Court panel are who has the responsibility for running the center, the four-county Big Sandy Regional Jail Authority or Johnson County Jailer Thurman Tackett, and whether one of the original parties to the authority, Lawrence county, can now withdraw from membership.

Unlike the 14 other regional jails across the state, which feature facility ownership by a single county and contract arrangement with other counties to accept their prisoners, the Big Sandy facility is co-owned by all members of the authority. The experience has been so discouraging that state Corrections Cabinet officials and the Kentucky

Jailers Association doubt that other counties will want to repeat the pattern of joint ownership.

Legislation permitting the creation of regional jails was passed by the 1984 General Assembly in its final days and allowed regional jail authorities to "provide for the operation and maintenance of jails owned jointly." In a suit brought on behalf of Tackett, Paintsville attorney and State Senator David Lemaster argued that Kentucky's Constitution and state law require the county's elected jailer to run "the jail in the county." Given the jail's Johnson county location, running it should be (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

We Apologize— One-Sided Account Given in News Story

When you're wrong, the least that can be done is to apologize.

Lee Mueller, Lexington Herald Leader writer, has a just complaint with a story run in last week's Times. The story concerned the dismissal by County Attorney David Barber of a speeding ticket given Dana C. Batten at the request of her father, Appellate Judge Dan Jack Combs, candidate for election to the state supreme court.

In the story, Mueller was accused of going through private messages on a secretary's desk.

Mr. Mueller, on the other hand, says that he went through no papers but saw the note in question lying in plain view on a desk at which he had been given permission to make a call.

We make no judgment on the issue, but both sides of the matter should have been reported in the first place.

To See Ourselves As Others See Us:

A National Review of Kentucky And Its Educational System

"Kentucky is the quintessential contrast state—rich and poor, beautiful and ugly, peaceful and violent, advanced and behind." That's how Harold L. Hodgkinson, one of the nation's foremost authorities on educational trends and problems, describes this state in his just-published profile publication, "Kentucky: The State and its Educational System," (January 1980). Hodgkinson, who has written similar profiles of states such as California and Texas, was commissioned by the Office of the Governor and the Kentucky Council on Higher Education in the summer of 1987 to produce an objective appraisal of this topic and to suggest effective steps Kentucky can take to improve its situation.

Hodgkinson is also the author of "All One System: Demographics of Education—Kindergarten through Graduate School" (1985), "Higher Education: Diversity is Our Middle Name" (1986), and numerous other books and articles on education and demography. He is following up "All One System" with a series of reports on the individual states, of which the one on Kentucky is the most recent.

Allan W. Ostar, president of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, has called Hodgkinson "one of the most thoughtful and far-sighted people in American higher education." (Chronicle of Higher Education, March 19, 1986, page 28). Before assuming his present role as a senior fellow of the non-profit, Washington-based Institute for Educational Leadership, Hodgkinson had been director of the National Institute of Education, president of the National Training Institute, and director of the American Management Association.

Hodgkinson found that Kentucky is 49th among the 50 states in the percentage of its population that was born in another state or country. This means that those who are Kentucky's children today will be its adult citizens tomorrow, more so than in every other state except one. At the same time Kentucky is 48th in the number of adults who have completed college and 50th—dead last—in the number who have completed high school. Therefore, Hodgkinson concludes: "Education is the critical lever for the state to use in improving its future."

The greatest problem facing Kentucky, according to Hodgkinson's research, is "rural poverty, one of the most intractable problems in America..." With regard to rural poverty, Hodgkinson writes: "Behind the low ratios on adult educational attainment, low high school graduation rates, and difficulty in finding skilled workers, one finds this as a root problem in the state." Almost 15 percent of all Kentuckians live in poverty. The levels are even worse for school-age children—21 percent, and for all children—30 percent. In Kentucky, "the poorest are the youngest." Hodgkinson's analysis shows that "it is entirely safe to say that more than one-third of Kentucky's little children have the cards stacked against them..."

While recognizing that "the quantity and quality of reports analyzing Kentucky's educational problems and the alternative solutions thereto is simply amazing," Hodgkinson sees many factors in Kentucky working against educational reform and improvement. He points to the excessive number of counties—one of the highest rates in the nation—which segments the educational effort, and makes it attractive for politics to take charge of it; to the limitations on the terms of governors and other high officials, which make it impossible for the state to mount a long-range attack on educational problems; and to low levels of financial support for education at all levels.

Hodgkinson dedicates a large portion of his review of Kentucky to the economic as well as the educational facets of the state, and sees the two as closely interrelated. He indicates that Kentucky is much too dependent on agriculture and mining, and does not have jobs where they are needed the most. And too many jobs pay too little for a viable middle class to develop in the state.

Van Lear Man Held For Robbery, Arson

Two Johnson county men are being held in the county jail, here, on $20,000 bond after being arrested Thursday night for burglary and arson in the Mine Branch area of Water Gap.

Mike Fitzpatrick, 19, and John D. Fitzpatrick, 18, both of Van Lear, are being held in the Floyd county lockup accused of second degree burglary and second degree arson. Their arrests stem from a January 27 trailer fire at the Mine Branch property of Mark Sanders.

It is alleged that the two men burglarized Sanders' vacant trailer and then set fire to the structure in an attempt to cover up the crime.

A video cassette recorder belonging to Sanders which was pawned in a Paintsville shop led to the arrest of the men who had in their possession several items of clothing belonging to Sanders.

The duo were arrested by Sheriff Henry C. Hale and Chief Deputy John C. Blackburn at a relative's home at Mine Branch. Deputy Blackburn commented on the case. "This should be a lesson that people don't always get away with arson and burglary."

With regard to higher education, Hodgkinson notes that Kentucky "has had to run to keep up." He foresees declines in the conventional-age college enrollments unless more of Kentucky's young people graduate from high school and a larger percentage of high school graduates go on to college. He points out that for the next decade, adult students (those 25 and older) will likely represent the major source of enrollment expansion in higher education in Kentucky.

Hodgkinson includes a number of specific recommendations on ways that Kentucky can address and overcome these problems. Among them are:

—"The approach which has the best chance of making a long term difference is a stress on early childhood programs of the Head Start variety. Programs for four and five-year olds, especially those emphasizing parent participation, have an excellent track record..."

—"The state does not have a single document which represents the state's consensus on priorities for action. Each section plans its own future, with not enough concern for the entire state's needs. It seems important that energy be focussed on action programs for the next decade, making use of the many fine analyses already completed."

—"There is a root cause of Kentucky's problems—rural poverty. A systematic attack on this one issue, pulling together local, county and state leadership, and working through a strategy focused on early childhood preschool programs, would have the best chance of success."

Rock Slide Blocks Rt. 80 Near Martin

A rock slide near an exit at Martin blocked one lane of Rt. 80 for almost an hour, Thursday afternoon, and traffic was diverted into another westbound lane until the debris could be cleared. This was done within 20 minutes after the call was received, according to Leo Roberts, of the state Transportation Department, who said slides of this nature are a continuing problem during the winter months, particularly. He explained that a cold snap freezes the rock causing it to break, and then when this is followed by rain, soil is loosened allowing the rock to fall. Highway crews are out almost constantly, he said, answering calls to clear roadways.

On US 23 between here and Paintsville which is noted for massive rockfalls, crews have been working daily, blasting away loose boulders from the sheer highwalls bordering the road.

"Kentucky needs to generate a large number of small businesses which would in turn develop well-paying jobs in both services and in certain manufacturing areas. There is a need for additional jobs, but these need to be middle income, and need to be located where they will do the most good..."

—"Given the very small number of people who move to and from the state, tomorrow's Kentucky is clearly today's Kentucky if you wait a bit. Education becomes a vital matter here, as the kids in school will actually become tomorrow's Kentucky's voters, workers and consumers. All the parties of interest would have to get behind early childhood programs. Higher education would have to publicly support programs of early childhood education as a major solution for the long term. To the charges that such a program would be expensive, one can only answer that the absence of such a program would be ten times as expensive, in terms of jails to be built, poverty handouts, drug clinics, etc."

Although "Kentucky: The State and its Educational System" paints a grim picture of the state as it exists today, its author, Harold Hodgkinson, presents a ray of hope for the future: "Kentucky has developed, over the past few years," he concludes, "a variety of excellent studies of the state, particularly its educational system (and) has made a good start at grassroots activity...The state must get its act together on the education agenda."

Floyd County Gets Wild Turkeys

Four gobbler and 12 hen turkeys were recently released in Floyd county by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources as part of a project to restore this species to much of its former range in the state. Floyd county will remain closed to turkey hunting for five years to give the flock time to become established. It is important that these birds not be molested, particularly during the early stages of restoration when populations are low, and anyone with information about illegal turkey poaching should call the fish and wildlife department toll-free at 1-800-25ALERT.

PRESTONSBURG WILL ONCE AGAIN have bowling when Rebel Lanes on South Lake Drive opens here next week, barring unforeseen delays.

Not only will there be bowling, but there will be an eight-table pool room, video game room, men's and women's locker rooms, a lounge and snack bar open to the public as well as for private parties—a little of something for everybody.

For the first 90 days, owner Henry Louis Mayo says there will be only open bowling. After this initial settling in period, summer leagues, morning leagues, and a junior league will be formed, but Mayo points out, there will be lanes open for bowlers not in league play.

Mayo, who has had the project under way for several months, said, "I want to provide a recreational area where persons of all ages can come and enjoy themselves."

The center will be the largest of its kind in Eastern Kentucky.

Floyd Students To Test Bridge Building Skill

Floyd county high school students who look forward to careers in engineering are being given an opportunity to display their skills in model bridge building.

The Floyd County School-Community Partnership Program, with the help of several area businesses, high schools in the county, and the University of Kentucky will provide $1,000 for the Floyd County Schools Model Bridge Project. Each of the county's high schools will select a team of five to 10 students who will construct a model bridge using balsa wood and glue. To help the teams get off to a good start, engineers will visit each school to advise members.

Judging will be done April 5 at May Lodge by engineers from the University of Kentucky who will test each bridge to measure the amount of weight it can withstand.

A similar project is sponsored each year by the University of Kentucky College of Engineering for area colleges, and with a level also for high school students. Judging for this annual competition will be held on the UK campus, February 27.

The Floyd County School-Community Partnership Program has sponsored several projects during the past three years, among them the Literary magazine, "Mountain Magic," several writers' and artists' workshops, small grants for teachers, and Young Authors Programs.

Auxier Fire Dept. Gets $10,000 Grant

Fire protection for residents of the Auxier area in Floyd county will soon be improved as the result of a state grant announced recently by Gov. Wallace Wilkinson.

A $10,000 grant from the Area Development Fund has been awarded to the Auxier Volunteer Fire Department toward the purchase of a pumper truck. According to local officials, the Class "A" pumper will provide more adequate fire fighting ability and could help reduce insurance premiums for residents by improving insurance ratings in the area.

The Big Sandy Area Development District Board of Directors recommended the project for funding.

ITI Is Ordered To Stop Service Within Kentucky

The Kentucky Public Service Commission has ordered International Telecharge, Inc., a Dallas based telecommunications company, to stop providing telephone service within the state until the company's rates are approved by the Commission.

The Commission stated in an order that ITI is offering service throughout Kentucky in a manner which is inconsistent with statutory requirements. Complaints from consumers to the Commission staff as well as a Commission investigation, indicate that ITI is completing long distance and local telephone calls. ITI has applied unapproved operator service charges and toll charges to calls handled by ITI operators. In some cases toll charges have been applied to local calls.

Typical complaints have been from consumer's who used privately owned pay telephones to complete telephone calls that were initiated by dialing zero. People who use telephone credit cards are accustomed to beginning a dialing sequence with zero to place calls that are to be billed to the telephone credit card. Some privately owned pay phones within Kentucky apparently have been programmed to divert such calls to ITI which completes the calls and applies its own rates. ITI's rates, which are typically much higher than the operator assisted rates of PSC approved local or long distance telephone companies operating within Kentucky, have not been approved by the Commission.

Complaints received by the Consumer Service Branch of the PSC include one from a pay phone customer, relying on a credit card for lack of a quarter, who made two local calls that resulted in charges of $3.50 per call. In another situation, a weekend call from Morgantown to Bowling Green was more than three times what another approved long distance carrier would have charged.

Confusion may be increased for consumers by the fact that ITI has used the billing and collection services provided by at least three Kentucky local exchange companies including South Central Bell, GTE South, and Cincinnati Bell, for the unauthorized service. The Commission has also ordered ITI to stop using the billing and collection services of Kentucky telephone companies.

ITI is one of a number of "alternate operator service" companies that have sought the approval of the PSC to offer service to the owners of private pay phones in Kentucky. Such companies are attractive to the owners of pay phones as well as hotels, motels, hospitals and colleges, because commissions are typically paid to the owners of the telephone equipment from which the service is provided to the public.

ITI has a case pending before the PSC and a hearing is scheduled for Feb. 17, 1988. Questions about specific telephone bills from calls made on privately owned equipment may be directed to the PSC's toll free Consumer Hotline at 800-772-4636.

DAR TO MEET TUESDAY

Against Garrett-Minnie Road

I have exhausted every resource in attempting to convince Kirby Ison with the Dept. of Transportation Pikeville, Ky. and Spaulding Engineering, Hazard, Ky. in not building the proposed Garrett to Minnie road.

There are many aspects of this road, you along with other taxpayers of the State of Kentucky should be made aware.

First we had two public meetings, where our input was not even recorded by the Transportation Department. These were conducted by Aubrey Onkst in the Dept. of Transportation, Pikeville, Ky. One meeting at Allen Central H.S. and the other at the Baptist Church, located at Minnie, Ky.

I along with other residents of right and left Beaver Creek expressed our concern and reservation about the proposed route. The consensus of 99% of the residents at both meetings was that Rt. 122 should be upgraded and renovated. Also questions were raised at these meetings. (1) Why should the residents on left Beaver be forced to drive to Garrett, Ky. to get to Martin, Ky.? (2) Was there ever a needs assessment made by the Dept. of Transportation for this road? Mr. Onkst, stated there was not. (3) Did Spaulding Engineering bid for the engineering contract with the State of Kentucky according to State of Kentucky bidding practices? Mr. Onkst stated they did not. (4) Did any politicians gain monetarily by the proposed road, on either end of the route, in relation to where their property is located?

Another aspect of this proposed route, which is not wanted by your constituents, is its grade, which I have begged Mr. Ison and Spaulding Engineering to change. This useless, serveless road needs to be moved to the top of the ridge adjacent to our home, so that the coal trucks will not be burdened with such a steep grade. With the route moving farther up the 4-lane hill on Rt. 80, this would solve that problem.

This route, as it is now proposed, will take our only supply of water. I along with my two retired aunts, have tried on both sides of the branch, and the existing well is our only source of drinkable water.

I ask you to have (2) more public meetings, so that these questions can be answered and the truth about this useless route be put to rest, for the taxpayers sake as well as the media's.

Road Fund Proposal Is Said 'Deplorable'

Governor Wilkinson's proposal to divert $35 million annually from the Road Fund to supplement the General Fund is nothing short of deplorable.

When the General Assembly voted to increase the state gasoline tax a nickel in 1986, we voiced concern at that time that the additional revenues might be siphoned off to the General Fund.

By law, Road Fund money is earmarked for highway construction and maintenance. Deteriorating roads mean that every motorist suffers direct economic loss through increased damage and maintenance costs to their vehicles.

Presently, Kentucky has $1.5 billion in major highway needs that are unfunded. Additionally, Kentucky ranks at the bottom of the national bridge survey with 90 percent of its local bridges rated substandard.

The Road Fund is already depleted by various factors. The recent ruling that the supplemental highway user tax is unconstitutional will cost the Road Fund $60 million annually. And, $43 million in coal-severance tax monies are diverted annually from the Road Fund and kept in the General Fund (One of Wilkinson's campaign promises had been to discontinue this practice.)

To maintain the fiscal integrity of the highway program, the Road Fund must continue to finance highway projects. Failure to do so violates its purpose and intent. It also penalizes highway users who in the end suffer when less money is available for legitimate purposes.

We hope the General Assembly won't ask motorists to make up the difference for the General Fund shortfall.

ANTS IN YOUR PLANTS: Some plants actually play landlord, housing ants in their leaves. The bullhorn acacia, for instance, has leaves with hollow spines that look like bulls' horns. According to International Wildlife magazine, fierce stinging ants cut entrance holes into the horns and eat the sweet-tasting pith inside. The ants then have an ideal home, and the plant has a legion of well-fed protectors.

milmen Bill Callihan, Mike Vance and Adrian Blackburn voted against the tax, with the remaining members voting in the affirmative.

The new restaurant tax will go into effect April 1.

Another issue before the council involved extended weight coal trucks passing through Prestonsburg. City Manager Fred James told the council that he had contacted the State Department of Transportation where he was told the city did not need to pass an ordinance but only to request the department's enforcement of extended weight laws. He said that since the road from Cow Creek to Upton Mining was not an extended weight haul road, it is illegal for overweight trucks to travel through Lancer. James suggested that signs be posted informing truck drivers of the road's status.

In a final transaction of business, Fire Chief Thomas Blackburn asked the council to clarify the boundaries for the fire department and the Squad 6 Emergency Unit. He said that he would hate to be put on the spot in a life and death decision. The council decided that if the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad or any surrounding area fire departments needed assistance, they could request it.

Similar charges against Lafferty's father, Thomas Lafferty, Sr., were dismissed in Pike Circuit Court last November.

Sixteen persons, including the Laffertys and three magistrates, were indicted following a state police investigation into county finances during the early 80's.

Retrial of former magistrate Kenneth Roberts is scheduled to begin before Judge Scott today (Wednesday). Accused of taking between $3,000 and $4,000 in goods and services from the county, Roberts was convicted on the charge in 1986, but the conviction was later overturned on appeal.

various groups is required. One of those speaking was Al Smith, of London and Lexington, who commented on the suggestion of merging some counties saying that he knew it was not going to happen. Smith put forth the more practical idea of merging some county services.

The commission set up by President Grote will study suggestions made by speakers and discussion groups at the meeting, and a second gathering or 'summit' will be held to further explore possible avenues leading to a solution of the problems besetting the troubled Seventh District.

Attending the meeting from this county were Supt. ## U. of K. Dean Will Address Kiwanis Here

Dan Fulks, associate dean of undergraduate studies in the College of Business and Economics at the University of Kentucky, will be the featured speaker at the meeting tomorrow (Thursday) of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club at the Holiday Inn, here.

Fulks will present an update on the latest achievements of UK, Kentucky's 123-year-old grant institution, and review goals for UK's future. Topics will include:

UK students ... The "average" freshman admitted to UK this year scored three points higher than the national average score on the American College Test.

UK faculty ... University faculty attract some $50 million a year in research grants and contracts—a very significant industry in the state.

Service to Kentucky ... With the UK Community College System, UK Agricultural Extension Service, the UK medical center and a wide variety of continuing education programs, UK touches lives throughout the Commonwealth every day.

Tomorrow ... Working in greater partnership with industry and business, seeking non-traditional sources of support and providing expanded service programs across Kentucky are central in UK's plan for the future.

Floyd County Judge Henry Stumbo was elected chairman of the Big Sandy Community Action Program at the recent election of CAP board members which was marked by a contest for one of the appointments from Martin county. Eighteen men were arrested last Thursday afternoon by Sheriff Doug Lewis and deputies in a raid on the Eagles Club here, and three of the group were charged with illegal possession of intoxicating beverages. A tentative agreement reached in Washington Monday could end the nation's longest coal-mine strike, but the agreement announced by UMW President Arnold Miller at the conclusion of bargaining in the offices of federal mediators must surmount two possible roadblocks before a new contract becomes final and miners return to work. The Floyd County Board of Education last week purchased from the state of Kentucky an 86-acre tract at Mare Creek as the future site of Betsy Layne schools. Although Floyd county's schools, as well as other districts in the state, will lose "bonus unit" funds—hitherto appropriated to encourage districts to start special programs, Governor Carroll's recommended budget will mean that this county's school system will have a net gain for the next fiscal year of $922,542. Tackett's responsibility, Lemaster said. He further noted that the 1984 law does not permit regional jail authorities to appoint administrators to oversee jail operations. But attorney J. K. Wells, representing the jail authority, said that the 1984 legislation did confer operation responsibility upon the authority and suggested that the high technology equipment to be used in the new jail would be too complicated for most jailers.

Recent disputes have featured the January 18 ousting of Tackett from his post as operations manager of the regional facility and the hiring of Magoffin county deputy sheriff Benny Patrick, January 26, as the jail's security chief.

Judge-executives from Johnson, Magoffin, and Martin counties had agreed to hire Tackett for his position in October 1987, while Lorna Cassidy, of Martin county, was named executive director to handle the jail's business affairs. Tackett's removal came on a vote by members of the Regional Jail Authority's 10-member board. The board's membership includes four members from Johnson county and two each from Lawrence, Martin, and Magoffin counties. The motion to rescind Tackett's management contract was made by Magoffin county board representative Vicki Collingsworth. Joining her in voting for Tackett's removal were board members John Callahan and Mike Cassidy, of Martin county; Paul Salyer, of Magoffin county; and O. T. Dorton, of Johnson county. Three other Johnson county board members, including Tackett, Rick Preston, a proxy for Judge Wayne Blevins, and Jerry Daniel, a proxy for board member Randall Daniel, walked out of the board meeting as the vote was taken, and no Lawrence county board members were present. The decision to fire Tackett followed a report filed by Lorna Cassidy with the state police, January 13, alleging that Tackett and several other men had her "penned up" in the jail and would not let her out. Cassidy was subsequently escorted from the jail by Johnson county Sheriff Gene Cyrus.

Tackett's firing drew a day-long protest at the new jail site, at the junction of US 23 and 460 on the north side of Paintsville, and broke a hard-won compromise in the long-standing dispute among the authority's member counties over who should operate the facility. For its part, in a separate suit, Lawrence county has sought to withdraw from the regional authority and has taken no part in efforts to open the jail for several months. Lawrence County Attorney Nelson Sparks indicated that the Lawrence County Fiscal Court had never enacted an ordinance to join the jail authority, but authority attorney J. K. Wells maintains that a resolution approved by the fiscal court has the same effect as an ordinance and should be so recognized and honored. Meanwhile, the tangled web of charges, countercharges, in-fighting, and political parrying as to who will be in control of the regional jail continue while the Court of Appeals reviews the pros and cons of the situation before giving its decision.

Bentley was arrested at his home at Allen around 9 p.m. and charged with trafficking in marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia. Sixteen bags of marijuana valued at over $300 were confiscated, and Bentley was held in the county jail, here.

Undependable Weather Makes Patton's Job More Difficult

By Meg Corcoran

Ed Patton is the man in the hot seat when it comes to deciding whether the county's students will be in school or not, especially during the winter months when road conditions can change as quickly as the weather.

Last Thursday morning, for instance, was a hectic one when a school cancellation announcement was made at a time while most buses were still on the roads bringing children to school. The order went out after Patton, director of pupil transportation, and his assistant, Adrian Bentley, received a call from a teacher in Auxier who reported the rain there had changed to sleet and that icy road conditions were worsening.

Telling of Thursday morning's events, Mr. Patton said Friday, "The call came in just before 7 a.m., and all our buses were out on the roads then. We contacted the school principals and told them to hold all the buses; that the children were to be sent back home right away."

Weather reports from the National Weather Service predicted snow and colder temperatures for the day. Obviously, it was too late to call off school, but by contacting the principals, the children were all taken back home by midmorning.

When the rain and sleet stopped falling just before noon and the sky cleared, the cancellation of school seemed unnecessary to many parents.

Ray Brackett, superintendent of schools, said Friday, "It is an ultimate responsibility the transportation director has. The decisions he makes can save or jeopardize lives."

The Floyd county school system runs 78 buses everyday, transporting over 8,000 students daily. The mileage covered in one day by the buses is estimated to be over 1,500 miles. To this Mr. Brackett added, "What an awesome responsibility the decision maker has. A day at school can be made up anytime, but a day in the hospital cannot."

Before a cancellation decision is made, the transportation director and his assistant travel roads like Cow Creek and the Abbott Mountain area where icy conditions can first be seen. There are contacts all over the region where weather and road conditions can be reported to the director before making a decision by 6:30 a.m., in time for the announcement to reach homes before people get started in the mornings.

Thursday, a decision was not made until after 7 a.m., and the delayed announcement caused much confusion in the early morning rush.

Mr. Brackett said that he does receive many complaints concerning school cancellations. He recalled the Lawrence county accident which occurred a few weeks ago when a school bus hit an icy patch, went over a hill, and 23 were hospitalized. "After that incident, the complaints stopped," he said.

One factor that affects each school cancellation decision is the accident 30 years ago in which 28 children were killed. "Chances just cannot be taken. The risk is too great, and it will be a long

Floyd Man Charged Following Car Chase

An early morning car chase through Pikeville resulted in a Floyd county man's arrest Friday morning.

Just before 1 a.m., Robert A. Hunter, 29, of Allen, was seen traveling the wrong way on the Prestonsburg/Williamson Road in Pikeville by Police Sergeant Randy Ferrell, who began the chase by attempting to pull him over.

Hunter took off, and the high-speed chase proceeded through the center of Pikeville, turning in and out of streets until Hunter increased his speed to over 45 miles per hour on Sycamore St., then ran off the road with his car overturning twice.

Hunter was treated at Methodist Hospital for minor abrasions and bruises. He was taken into custody by Pikeville Police, arrested and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, reckless driving, speeding, attempting to elude an officer, operating on a suspended license, no insurance and expired tags on his vehicle. He was also charged with wanton endangerment and lodged in the Pike county jail.

time before the accident in '57 will be forgotten," said Mr. Brackett. When asked, Mr. Brackett said the problem of continuity for the pupils is one the school system must deal with every winter and flood season. Normally, Mr. Brackett receives few complaints concerning the continuity problem in the schools.

William Hughes, principal of Martin Elementary School, also spoke of the continuity issue. "When school is cancelled, it upsets things. It usually takes the kids a couple days to settle back down."

So far, Floyd county schools have missed eight days of school, all of which must be made up at the end of the school year. There are 20 weather-related days set aside in the school calendar, and 20 more days can be missed but must be made up in June.

New legislation has been introduced which would open schools following Labor Day. Commenting on this, Supt. Brackett said, "This would create a hardship on mountain schools. We miss school so frequently that we'll be making up days through July if this bill is passed."

McAninch Chosen To Tour Russian Waste Facilities

Russia and the United States may yet find that they have a basis for understanding of common problems in more mundane matters than arms reduction and Star Wars.

Robert McAninch, Floyd county solid waste director, is one of 30 persons from this county who will visit the Soviet Union to study the solid waste problems there.

The tour is part of a People to People exchange between the two countries.

McAninch will be briefed at the Russian embassy in Washington, D.C., May 9, and will leave the next day for a two-week, four-city tour of Soviet solid waste sites. Cities to be visited are Vladimir, Novosibirsk, Moscow, and Leningrad, each of which has its waste problems to be studied by the visiting delegation. These include the effects of water and canal pollution in Leningrad; how the Siberian city of Novosibirsk deals with solid waste in frozen conditions; a revolutionary plant in Vladimir where solid waste is converted into energy; and in Moscow, the way in which the city deals with its volume of solid waste.

In addition to being director of the county's solid waste agency, McAninch is professor of political science at Prestonsburg Community College, and expects that the tour will be enlightening in many ways.

Melvin School Fire Is Said To Be Arson

By Tim Sizemore

A fire early Saturday morning at the Melvin Elementary School has been attributed to arson.

The State Police Arson Squad has reported that the fire at the Left Beaver school was set intentionally. Supt. Ray Brackett said that the team informed him that a flammable liquid had been poured throughout the school's kitchen after vandals forced open an exit door.

Besides several thousand dollars of damage to the kitchen, the rest of the building sustained slight smoke damage.

Supt. Brackett said that repair work on the structure had already begun Saturday, and that classes would resume Monday. He also said that students would be required to bring lunch for a few days until the kitchen is repaired.

No suspects have been arrested at this time, but the incident is still under investigation.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

Sexually transmitted diseases (STD's) have been called the number one communicable disease in the United States. Not too many years ago no one mentioned these diseases, however this attitude is changing as more persons become aware of the drastic effects of gonorrhea, syphilis, herpes, chlamydia and AIDS to mention a few of the sexually transmitted diseases.

Many times these diseases have no outward symptoms, and since the symptoms if they do appear, vary from person to person, an examination is the only way to know if a disease is present. If a person thinks he/she may have been exposed to a STD, he/she should have an examination to determine whether or not the disease is present.

The Floyd County Health Department has an STD Control Program, and any person who thinks he/she may have been exposed to a sexually transmitted disease may come to the health department to be checked. This is a free service of the health department. Kentucky law permits the treatment of minors for sexually transmitted diseases without the parent's consent.

A nurse from the health department will be in Wayland Friday, February 12. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, blood pressures, anemia screening and immunizations. This clinic is free and is open to the public.

These same services will be offered Friday, February 19 at the Vogel Day Methodist Church in Harold, from 10-2.

The health department will be closed Monday, February 15 in observance of the President's Day Holiday.

Farm Accidents Claim 44 Lives In Past Year

Farm accidents in the state continued taking a deadly toll during 1987, as 44 Kentuckians were killed in farm-related mishaps, according to Kentucky Farm Bureau.

Victims of the accidents ranged in age from 5 to 88 years, said David Finney, Farm Bureau's safety director. Twenty-four of the fatalities involved tractors, with eight more related to other items of farm equipment.

Farm Bureau conducts the farm fatality survey with aim of raising safety consciousness among farmers and their family members, Finney says.

The 1987 total of 44 farm deaths was the same as in 1986, but below the average of 51 recorded over the past five years, Finney said. During that period, 255 Kentuckians have died, with 57 percent traceable to tractor accidents.

Dr. Held To Chair M.U. Medical Dept.

Dr. Berel Held, of Houston, Texas, will become chairman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the Marshall University School of Medicine, Dean Lester R. Bryant has announced.

Held, 49, currently is a professor of obstetrics, gynecology and reproductive sciences at the University of Texas Medical School at Houston.

"We are most fortunate to have a new chairman of Dr. Held's skill and experience," said Dr. Bryant. "He brings considerable experience not only as a practicing physician but also as an administrator and a teacher."

"He has experience in running a residency training program and in developing and running a department of obstetrics and gynecology, and this experience will be especially valuable to us," Bryant added.

The School of Medicine is in the process of revamping its Obstetrics and Gynecology Department after accreditation for the department's residency program was withheld earlier this year.

Although Held will not join the faculty full-time until this summer, he will in the interim make periodic visits to the campus and begin recruiting additional faculty members.

Held joined the University of Texas faculty in 1972 and was chairman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology from 1972 until 1983. Previously, he served on the faculty of the University of Florida College of Medicine in Gainesville.

He is a graduate of Tulane Medical School in New Orleans and took post-graduate training at Harvard Medical School, Boston City Hospital, and the Charity Hospital of Louisiana.

Held is a consultant to the American Public Health Association, and serves as test material development consultant to the National Board of Medical Examiners and the Federal Licensing Examination.

He is president of the Houston Gynecological and Obstetrical Society and a member of the Committee on Maternal and Infant Mortality of the Harris County Medical Society. He is a former member of the National Perinatal Association's Executive Committee, as well as a past president of the Southern Perinatal Association and of the Texas Medical Association's Obstetrics and Gynecology Section.

From 1969 to 1972, Held was project director of the North Central Florida Maternity and Infant Care Project, and also has served as family planning coordinator for the State of Florida. In addition, he served on the advisory board for a regional training center for family planning operated by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Held is editor of Educational Reviews in Obstetrics and Gynecology, and is an editorial consultant for the journals Obstetrics and Gynecology and Practical Reviews in Medicine. He has been the author or co-author of numerous scientific articles, including two book chapters.

A native of Brooklyn, Held has served as a captain in the U.S. Air Force Medical Corps.

Tractors	—	24
Other Farm Equipment	—	8
Wood Cutting	—	3
Drowning	—	1
Livestock	—	1
Falls	—	3
Lightning	—	2
Misc.	—	2

In the five-year summary, 55 percent of the victims were 45 years or older, with one-fourth over the age of 65. Nearly three of every four fatal accidents occurred in the afternoon or evening hours, and the overwhelming majority of those who died were male (247 of 255).

Other leading causes of death during the period were farm equipment other than tractors, 33; wood cutting, 17; drowning, 25; and 35 listed as due to miscellaneous causes.

There were fewer drownings in 1987 than the year before, but more fatalities due to falls and lightning strikes, according to the latest survey results. Drownings dropped from seven in 1986 to one last year, but falls proved fatal to three Kentuckians and lightning struck two people, the survey found.

10 Free Shade Trees For Spring Planting

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving 10 free shade trees to each person who joins the nonprofit Foundation during February.

A red oak, weeping willow, sugar maple, green ash, thornless honeylocust, pin oak, sycamore, tuliptree, European mountainash, and red maple tree will be given as part of the Foundation's campaign to encourage tree planting.

These trees were selected to provide shade and beauty, and a variety of forms, leaf shapes, and fall colors, according to John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director.

The Foundation will give the 10 free trees to members contributing $10 during February. The six-to-twelve inch trees will be shipped this spring between February 1 and May 31 when conditions are right for planting. They will be sent with enclosed planting instructions, and are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free by the Foundation.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, membership contributions should be sent to Ten Shade Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, postmarked by February 29, 1988.

HRMC's Auxiliary Donates $17,000

Highlands Regional Medical Center's Auxiliary recently made a $17,000 donation to the hospital which is being used to purchase life saving equipment including new defibrillators, crash carts and fetal monitoring equipment. Past donations by the Auxiliary have included a portable ventilator, rockers for the nursery, furnishings for the pediatric playroom and the complete entrance to the HRMC medical offices.

Acting on behalf of the auxiliary, Mrs. Sarah Goble presented the check to Russell Briggs, associate administrator of the hospital, who said, "The medical center is most grateful for this sizable donation. The equipment the Auxiliary has chosen for us to purchase will benefit many areas of the medical center and most importantly contribute to the delivery of quality patient care."

HRMC's Auxiliary consists of 23 members representing Floyd and Johnson counties. These ladies volunteer many hours of service work to the hospital each week. Among their services are providing children in ER and Out-Patient Surgery with small gifts, supplying toiletries for ICCU patients, providing a coffee service for families of surgery patients, delivering patient mail and providing a gift cart service. The Auxiliary is funded through the operation of the hospital's gift shop.

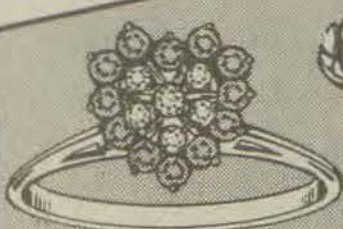

If you are interested in volunteer service work with the HRMC Auxiliary, please contact Sarah Goble 886-8511 or 789-6548 ext. 122.

Campbellsville College Has Scholarship Program

For the second straight year, Campbellsville College is offering an Excellence In Action Scholarship program sponsored by the Church Relations Council of the College.

There are several scholarship awards to be given to the winners including one full-tuition scholarship valued at $14,300 over four years; two half-tuition scholarships valued at $7,100 over four years, and thirty $750 scholarships valued at $3,000 over four years.

To qualify for the scholarships, each Southern Baptist pastor is encouraged to nominate one high school senior from his church to receive an Excellence In Action Scholarship for every 250 church members or fraction thereof.

The nominee should be an active church member who demonstrates Christian commitment and leadership in his or her church, school and community. An Excellence In Action Scholar will be selected on the basis of past and current Christian achievements, merit and potential for future service to Christ in all chosen careers and vocations.

Award winners will be chosen by a committee of pastors from the Campbellsville College Church Relations Council in consultation with the College Financial Aid Committee.

A total of 33 Excellence In Action Scholars will be selected annually to receive one of the awards listed above. Award winners will be announced by May 1. Applications and nominations must be received by April 23.

Send application and nomination to Dr. W.R. Davenport, president, Campbellsville College, 200 West College Street, Campbellsville, Ky., 42718.

Campbellsville College, affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention, offers 25 academic majors and 26 minor programs. The college is a private, four-year liberal arts college located in central Kentucky.

TOMBSTONES SHOW THE EFFECTS OF ACID RAIN

Tombstones serve as outdoor laboratory instruments for the University of Louisville's studies on acid rain. Geologist K. Lal Gauri measures acid rain deposits on the dated stones and on marble samples suspended like wind chimes from rooftop structures. Gauri is seeking hard data for the Kentucky Energy Cabinet on the reaction rate of sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxides on marble so he can predict future decay.

Cattle Farmers Warned Of Grass Tetany Danger

Adult beef cows nursing young calves while grazing grass or small grain pastures in late winter or early spring are especially susceptible to an extremely acute disorder known as "grass tetany."

According to Duane Miksch, an Extension veterinarian with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, affected cattle can die suddenly and in fact are frequently found dead before the disorder is discovered.

Although in some seasons, Kentucky farmers experience losses due to grass tetany from November to April, cows are more susceptible in the later winter and early spring when they graze heavily on the new growth of grass and refuse other feed offered to them.

"Each loss is especially damaging, because it is invariably a big, sleek cow with a healthy young calf that dies," Miksch said. "Grass tetany is a result of a magnesium deficiency in the cow."

Weather and soil fertility seem to be factors, he said. Grass tetany occurs when soil temperature is between 40 and 60 degrees and often during changeable weather. High levels of nitrogen, potassium and moisture in the soil increase the incidence, because they apparently decrease the level of magnesium found in plants naturally.

Symptoms of the disorder usually begin with nervousness and then progress to a stilted gait, staggering, convulsions, coma and death. It always requires immediate veterinary treatment.

Miksch said about two-thirds of cows treated intravenously with magnesium and calcium compounds recover.

"However, to prevent relapses, treated cows should be removed from the pasture. They should be fed hay and grain plus two ounces of magnesium oxide daily for at least a week."

Because animals do not store up magnesium, their dietary requirements have to be supplied on a day-to-day basis, he said. The only way to prevent grass tetany is to supplement the diet with additional magnesium.

To Chair Separate Bike-A-Thons For Stanville and Bevinsville

The Central Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has announced that the following individuals in Floyd county have agreed to chair the 1988 Bike-a-Thons in their community.

Mrs. Marcia Hylton for Stanville and Ms. Pearl Newman for Bevinsville will each chair separate Bike-a-Thons this year. St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and provides medical care to over 4,200 patients.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side by side seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of these terrible killers.

All findings and information gained at the hospital are shared freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world. Thanks to St. Jude Hospital, children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle-cell anemia, and other child killing diseases now have a better chance to live.

The Bike-a-Thon program is dedicated to Brian McCollister. Brian, a native of Louisiana, was diagnosed with leukemia in October, 1984. Since that time, Brian has come to St. Jude every six weeks for treatment, and every 12 weeks for a bone marrow test and spinal tap to make sure his cancer stays in remission. While at home, Brian receives oral medication daily. Brian is a living example of the progress and success of the research, patient care and educational programs of this internationally recognized hospital.

The concern which these children have for the work being done at St. Jude Hospital is greatly appreciated. We also feel assured that the citizens in their communities will support the upcoming events as generously as possible.

For more information, contact Mrs. Marcia Hylton (Stanville chairman) phone #478-2458 or Ms. Pearl Newman (Bevinsville chairman) phone #452-4277.

TO THE HOOP : Tim Trusty takes this one up and over the Wheelwright defense during action last Tuesday night. Trusty finished with nine points as the Blackcats won 86-66. Prestonsburg finished their conference record at 4-4 while the Trojans ended up at 0-8. The Blackcats will play Allen Central in their first district tournament game. Wheelwright will play either Betsy Layne or McDowell in their opening tournament game.

Short-Handed Trojans Hurt At Prestonsburg

They were already down before the game even started. Wheelwright came in without the full service of four starters, and the Prestonsburg Blackcats did little to let them cure their ills.

Some had the flu while others were nursing injuries. Still others were taking the night off due to suspension of a short-term deal.

But the short-handed Trojans, with their subs as starters and their starters out, received no pity from Prestonsburg, not that they were looking for any.

Wheelwright showed the Blackcats no respect either, especially early in the game. With a starting lineup that consisted of guards Vic Cotton and Tony Isaac, forwards Brad Compton and Steve Cole, a starter, and center Todd Bailey, the Trojans enjoyed success early.

They cut what had been a 10-point deficit to only five with two minutes left in the first half, but mistakes on their part allowed Prestonsburg to power out to a 13-point halftime lead.

"We had some turnovers there when we cut it to five points that really hurt us at a crucial time," Wheelwright coach Monroe Jones said.

But what can you expect when a whole new starting lineup hits the floor? "Overall we played pretty well," Jones added. "We started four new guys and we couldn't have asked for much more. They went out and played hard."

The Trojans cut what had been up to an 11-point lead down to five. When Tommy Jones, a former starter forced into a reserve role, hit two free throws with 2:16 left in the first half.

But Prestonsburg's bench took care of that little challenge.

Scott Hall worked free inside for an easy layup, with two minutes to go followed by a Chris Slone basket 28 seconds later.

David Layne then dropped in a pair of free throws, and Slone followed that up with another field goal. Scott Hall ended the second quarter and Prestonsburg's reserve run by canning another short inside shot.

Before it all ended, the Blackcats had reeled off a 10-2 run in a span of two minutes. Wheelwright, a team that had been down by just five, was all of a sudden trailing by 13 points.

Prestonsburg took that lead and built on it in the second half, running away with an 86-66 victory over the Trojans, last Tuesday, in Prestonsburg.

Senior guard Freddie McCoy led a balanced Prestonsburg offensive attack, scoring 19 points. Junior guard Thomas Nairn finished with 14 points. The 5'11 point guard also grabbed nine rebounds and had five steals.

Chris Slone, off the bench, scored 12 points, and another reserve, junior Scott Hall, finished with 11.

Todd Justice also finished in double figures offensively. The junior forward added 10 points, eight of those coming in the opening quarter when Prestonsburg outscored the Trojans, 26-16.

The Blackcats, 9-8 overall, wrapped up their regular season conference schedule, finishing with a 4-4 record.

"Considering the team we've got and with the way we started, I was pleased with the 4-4 finish," Gordon Parido, Prestonsburg's head coach, said. "If you had asked me four weeks ago if I would be pleased with a 4-4 conference record I would've said yes."

For Monroe Jones, whose team finished winless in the conference, it's quite the opposite story.

"It's not been a good year for us," Jones admitted. "What we have to relate to our kids now is that if we come out and play hard and make our free throws the opportunity is there."

"We've played all those guys close. We missed 16 free throws against McDowell and lost by two. We missed 17 against Betsy Layne. We could've won either one of those games if we had hit our free throws."

Wheelwright will play either Betsy Layne or McDowell in the first round of the district tournament, which will be held at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse.

The Trojans finished the conference schedule at 0-8 with their final loss coming at Prestonsburg, last Tuesday.

Wheelwright was led in that game by sophomore Brad Compton, who tossed in 16 points. Tommy Jones, in a reserve role, finished with 15, and Steve Cole, the only regular starter of the opening five, got 11 points.

The game, though, did have its positive side for Wheelwright.

"Our B-team is 8-0 this year, and that's mostly what we played tonight, so those guys are getting a lot of playing time," Jones mentioned.

And it did have its negative side for Prestonsburg.

"I didn't think we did a good job guarding the blocks," Parido said. "They got a lot of easy baskets. I don't know if a coach is supposed to complain when he's up 20, but that's what we talked about during halftime."

But all in all the Blackcats went away happy while Wheelwright hopes their next game against county competition can carry them to a regional tournament.

Individual scoring:

Prestonsburg: Freddie McCoy, 19; Thomas Nairn, 14; Chris Slone, 12; Scott Hall, 11; Todd Justice, 10; Tim Trusty, 9; David Layne, 4; Joey Burchett, 2; Danny Hamilton, 2; Shepherd, 2; John Wright, 1.

Wheelwright: Brad Compton, 16; Tommy Jones, 15; Steve Cole, 11; Todd Bailey, 8; Tony Isaac, 6; Shawn McKenzie, 4; Chad Hall, 3; Vic Cotton, 3.

McDowell Stops Rebels To Earn Tournament Bye

Kevin Webb and Marc Hall got into a minor altercation in the third quarter. Todd Duff and Dickie Joe Shannon waged a heated three-point battle in the fourth quarter, and during both, Allen Central was mounting a comeback through their offensive rebounding warfare.

The Rebels cut a double figure lead to two points, but when it all ended, McDowell had survived, defeating Allen Central 71-63, Friday night at McDowell.

"Our defensive rebounding has been hurting us a lot lately. We've just not been blocking out like we should be. But Allen Central is a big team," McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner said of the extra trips his Daredevils were giving up.

"Allen Central is a tough team to play. They always have been," Turner said, complimenting his opponent. "They've got some good shooters and they've got some strong inside players. We're just glad to get the win."

Marc Hall, for his part in a disagreement, was ejected from the game with 3:23 left. The Daredevils had a 10-point lead at that point, but Allen Central, with their second chance baskets, trimmed the deficit down quickly.

In the final two minutes and 25 seconds of the third period, the Rebels got rebound baskets from Rady Martin, Joey Conn, and Bear Halbert.

By the end of the third quarter, Allen Central had cut the deficit to six points, and when Martin scored again on an offensive rebound, the Rebels were to within four points.

With 4:27 left in the game, Joey Conn, who led all scorers with 22 points, hit a pair of free throws to pull Allen Central to within four points of McDowell.

But they could never pull even. It wasn't because of a lack of chances though. On several different occasions, Allen Central had an opportunity to make McDowell's lead disappear completely, but poor shooting from both the free throw line and the field spoiled those.

Dickie Joe Shannon, McDowell's leading scorer with 21, hit back-to-back three-pointers to put the Daredevils up by 10 points with only 3:42 showing on the game clock.

That's when Todd Duff took it upon himself to bring Allen Central back again.

The Rebels had already proved their comeback ability, and Duff hit consecutive three-point shots to pull them again back to within four points.

But Allen Central went cold from the floor.

They missed a chance to pull closer when a three-point attempt bounced off the rim. They also missed close in shots and with 2:11 left, and still just trailing by three, they missed the front end of a bonus free throw.

McDowell didn't exactly jump on the opportunity of putting the game out of reach. They missed five of their last nine attempts from the free throw line, and took some questionable shots from long range.

The Daredevils scored only one point in a stretch of two minutes and 15 seconds, allowing Allen Central to creep closer.

With 1:39 left in the game, Bear Halbert hit a short jumpshot, and the Rebels were down by only three points.

After Henry Webb, who scored five points in the final two minutes, hit a driving layup, Rady Martin pulled the Rebels back to within three when he scored following an offensive rebound.

Only 58 seconds remained and Allen Central had but three points to make up. It might as well have been 33.

Or it could have been just one, and the Rebels wouldn't have caught up. They didn't score a point after Martin's rebound basket.

On the other end, Webb sank two free throws with 48 seconds left, and Dickie Joe Shannon hit another 20 seconds later as McDowell went up by six points.

The Daredevils got a key rebound after a missed free throw with 15 seconds left and a charging call following another miss.

They had the ball to bounce in their direction in the final minute, and added a final touch when Brent Rose hit a layup with four seconds left to set the final margin of difference at eight.

Allen Central held a lead only once in the game, 17-16 with 7:46 left in the second quarter. McDowell's biggest advantage came in the fourth quarter when they led by as many as 10 points.

The Daredevils, 16-4 on the season, improved to 6-1 in the Floyd County Conference. That was at least good enough for a second place finish, and a bye in next month's district tournament.

Last night McDowell played Betsy Layne for a possible conference championship. With a win, the Daredevils would have locked up a regular season title. If Betsy Layne won, the Daredevils still hold hopes of sharing the title.

The Bobcats still have to play Allen Central (Friday night), and a win over McDowell and a loss to the Rebels means the two teams tie for first in the conference.

The team with the top seed in the tournament, to be settled by a draw if a tie occurs, will play Wheelwright, the conference's last place team, in the tourney's opening round.

The second place team plays the winner of third versus fourth, Allen Central and Prestonsburg, in the district tourney's second round.

Both Betsy Layne and McDowell, regardless of who is first, get byes in the tournament and needs only one win to reach the regional tournament.

INDIVIDUAL SCORING:
MCDOWELL: Dickie Joe Shannon, 21; Henry Webb, 18; Lance Hall, 10; Lenny Hall, 9; Marc Hall, 9; Keith Shelton, 2; Brent Rose, 2.
ALLEN CENTRAL: Joey Conn, 22; Rady Martin, 14; Bear Halbert, 9; Todd Duff, 9; Kevin Webb, 6; Mike Collins, 2.

WITH THE PASS: Allen Central's Tiff Click throws a pass by McDowell's Padra Hall during Friday's game.

Rally Comes Too Late As McDowell Falls To ACHS

The McDowell Lady Daredevils have developed a style that Meridith Slone could certainly do without.

It seems that McDowell rarely starts playing until the second half. But by then they are usually too far behind to come all the way back.

It's a style of saving their best for last. They always enjoy a late run, taking their opponents to the limit, but so far this season their style has led to a winless season.

The latest chapter in their unsuccessful comeback book was written last Friday night when McDowell scored only four points in the first quarter and trailed by 13 at halftime.

The Lady Daredevils rallied in the second half, cutting Allen Central's lead to seven points, but the huge halftime advantage proved fatal for Coach Meridith and his McDowell squad, eventually falling 62-57 to visiting Allen Central.

"Pressure may be on the kids to win one," Slone said, searching for a reason to explain McDowell's cold starts.

"We shot the ball real well in practice. We can really fill it up then, but in the games, we just lose our shot."

Stacy Moore, Allen Central's leading scorer with 15 points, scored six points in the first quarter, and Tiff Click added four as the Lady Rebs outscored McDowell 14-4 in the opening frame.

Moore and Click, both freshmen, finished the game with a combined point output of 27 points.

Another freshman, guard Teresa Gibson, caught fire in the second quarter as Allen Central built on their already big lead.

Gibson, who finished with 12 points, scored eight in the second quarter, powering Allen Central to a 34-21 halftime advantage.

"That's the best game she's played this year," Lady Reb coach Bonita Compton said of Click. But Compton had words of praise for all her freshmen.

"The three freshmen really came through for us; Tiffany, Teresa Gibson, and Stacy Moore. They were the reason we won."

But someone had to do the job. Allen Central was without their leading scorer and rebounder Joann Conn.

Conn, after scoring 19 points last Monday night against Sheldon Clark, injured an ankle during the game. The sophomore center is expected to miss at least two weeks, and possibly more.

"The doctor said she may or may not play again this season," Compton said. "It will be at least two weeks, because I will not play her until she's 100 percent, like I did early in the season."

Conn had struggled early in the season due to sprained ankles, but had led the Lady Rebs in scoring each game after she recovered. Conn will miss Friday's game against Betsy Layne, a game the Lady Rebs need to win in order to earn an outright bye in the district tournament.

If Allen Central loses, they finish in a second placed tie with Prestonsburg. A draw will then be used to determine which team gets the bye.

The Lady Rebs, 5-2 in the Floyd County Conference, at least kept their second place finish alive by defeating McDowell, without Joann Conn, Friday night.

But they didn't do it without giving their coach and fans a scare. After leading by as many as 15 points in the second half, Allen Central went cold from the floor, and suffered defensive letdowns.

Gwen Stegall scored 10 of her game-high 16 points in the third quarter when McDowell cut the deficit to nine points heading into the final frame.

Padra Hall, with 6:36 left in the game, hit a layup and the Lady Daredevils trailed by but seven points.

But then Stephanie Wallen scored off an offensive rebound with 5:53 left. Less than half a minute later, Stacy Moore hit a short jumper, and Allen Central went up by 11.

Down the stretch, the Lady Rebs hit nine of 14 free throws to deny McDowell's second half run and keep the Lady Daredevils winless on the season.

"You can't win in spurts," Slone said of her team's up and down play. "Our shooting and shot selection hurt us in the first half. We had that little run in the second half. We put some points on the board, but we let up on defense."

McDowell, when Gloria Mullins hit a pair of free throws and Sherrie Griffie checked in with an offensive rebound basket, cut Allen Central's lead to only five with 34 seconds left.

Mullins finished as the Lady Daredevils' second leading scorer, tossing in 14 points.

But Allen Central managed to hit enough of their free throws—three of five in the final 16 seconds—to offset Billie Hackworth's three-point bond to the buzzer.

Hackworth finished with seven points for the Lady Daredevils, as did freshman Lori Bryant.

Donna Robinson scored eight points for Allen Central, and the only senior on the Lady Reb squad, Teresa Crum, added six to the winning cause.

The Sporting Times

Basketball may be the favorite pastime of eastern Kentucky, but the favorite pastime of basketball fans is yelling not so sweet nothings at the officials.

The ole nervous may want to take a quick exit when several hundred fans begin their taunting in unison. Making rude remarks about eyesight and embarrassing your parents with choice words might even encourage the body to go out the door with the inner eagerness to continue.

It is all part of the round ball makeup, or so they say. But somewhere along the line, it has to hit home. Or at least ignite a fire that could turn an ordinary zebra into a mass murderer.

And even the uniform brings criticism and added insult to the official.

Zebra! It is used to refer to officials, both in innocence and in hatred. One bad call and a cute little striped animal turns into, in the eyes of fans, an evil beast.

But at least the officials have a scapegoat themselves. Who's to know which official the insults are directed at.

Well, they probably know. It's normally the one that made an upsetting call. But at least they can imagine it going in the other direction.

At least they can imagine.

But not always. Just ask Earnie Johnson. For some odd reason, the officials were side-tracked last Tuesday night.

The players had warmed up. The coaches had their game plans all set, and the fans had settled in their seats. But there was one problem, the officials had grown tired of taking abuse.

Maybe not. But whatever the reasons, they failed to show. Desperate for an answer, Prestonsburg turned to Earnie Johnson.

Maybe the situation wasn't in the desperate zone, but they did put Johnson in a desperate situation. An almost impossible one, too.

Either he is a glutton for punishment, or he's the bravest man in Floyd county. Johnson, a teacher at Wheelwright, agreed to call the game.

Being from the school that is playing on the road is an immediate death. Being the former coach of the team that is playing on the road digs the grave.

Calling a high school girls' basketball game by yourself puts the dirt over and says the final few words.

Nevertheless, Johnson put his head through the whistle cord, that probably felt more like a nose, and went out to handle 10 players, two coaches, and a Prestonsburg Fieldhouse crowd that was bigger than normal.

But the biggest story came after the game started. Johnson, in his one-man officiating crew, did better than most combination crews.

When the fans yelled, he knew who they were yelling at. But they rarely yelled. Prestonsburg basketball fans are laid back in nature, and last Tuesday they were more relaxed than ever.

Johnson's solid job was the reason why.

Prestonsburg boys' coach Gordon Parido went as far as saying that he would like to keep Earnie Johnson for the second game.

It would probably be safe to guarantee that Johnson missed some calls. Everyone does. But if he did, so did the fans and coaches. Neither side complained much.

And the best thing he did, something all officials could take into consideration, was let the two teams play. But he also kept control.

But let us not sing the praises too loudly. Earnie might bear. Then the swelling sets in. The hat size increases, and all of a sudden he might want to officiate on a permanent bases.

KET Will Air Live Sweet 16 Drawings

Drawings for the 1988 Sweet Sixteen High School Basketball Tournament will air live on KET, Friday, February 19 at 2 p.m. from KET studios in Lexington.

The program, hosted by Earl Cox of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association, features the coaches from last year's state championship teams drawing for this year's pairings. The coaches are Bobby Keith, the Clay county boys' basketball coach, and Roy Bowling, the Laurel County girls' basketball coach.

The drawings determine pairings in the first round of this year's Sweet Sixteen competition. The boys' tournament will be held at Freedom Hall in Louisville, March 16-19. The Frankfort Civic Center will be the site of the girls' tournament, March 23-26.

Anne Wesley of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association will assist with the drawings.

Prestonsburg Dumps Lady Trojans In Overtime Game

One team showed character. One team showed youth. One team hit free throws when it had to. One team made mistakes when it couldn't afford to. One team won. One team lost.

The close ones, it seems always boil down to free throw shooting and mistakes. Last Tuesday night, the Prestonsburg Blackcats hit 10 of their last 15 free throw attempts while Wheelwright missed four of their last five, and also made costly mistakes late.

Last Tuesday night Prestonsburg handed the Lady Trojans a 59-53 defeat in overtime.

We missed some key foul shots late in the game when we had a chance to win, and we made some mental mistakes, Wheelwright coach Judy Eversole said.

"We're still young. We've got only one senior, so hopefully we'll be able to correct some of those mistakes," she added.

Wheelwright, after giving the Lady Blackcats all they could handle on their home floor, lost the opportunity to put the game away by missing three free throws in the final minute. Two of those were front ends of bonus opportunities.

The Lady Trojans had a four-point advantage with only 18 seconds left, but junior Karen Frasure made up the difference in a hurry.

With 18 seconds left, she hit a short jumper to cut the deficit to two. With nine seconds left, she stepped to the line with a chance to tie the game.

Frasure calmly sank two free throws, and the game had overtime hanging all over it.

Wheelwright had had their opportunity to put the game out of reach, but with 40 seconds left, they missed the front end of a bonus free throw, missed the front end on a two-shot chance two seconds later, and missed another bonus free throw with 25 seconds remaining.

In the overtime period, after getting behind by six points, Wheelwright found themselves in a position to tie the game again.

With two minutes to go, Kathy Slone, who scored five points in the extra frame, hit a layup, drew the foul, and polished off a three-point play.

It all came about as a result of an Edwina Hale steal, and Prestonsburg found themselves up by one point.

After Amy Hicks hit two free throws with 1:28 left, Wheelwright missed another front end of a bonus foul shot situation.

With the lead and the basketball in Prestonsburg's possession, the Lady Trojans were forced to foul.

But instead of the conventional one, Wheelwright made it a bit too obvious and got whistled for the intentional foul.

This gave the Lady Blackcats two shots and the ball out of bounds. Kathy Slone, with 50 seconds left, hit two foul shots, giving Prestonsburg a six-point advantage.

Wheelwright wasn't through, though. Talitha Hutton hit a short shot that cut the lead to four, and following a Lady Blackcat miss from the free throw line, April Bradford pulled Wheelwright to within two points when she scored on an offensive rebound.

And things got even more interesting when Prestonsburg missed again from the charity stripe. Wheelwright had the basketball and a chance to tie, but with 17 seconds left, they were called for a walking violation before the basketball could be advanced beyond half court.

Karen Frasure, with 13 seconds left, sank two free throws as the Lady Blackcats pulled out their fifth conference win of the season.

"This team is still learning so many things," Bridgett Clay said of her Prestonsburg squad. "Tonight I thought we showed so much character, and that's what we've been working on. We were down, but we weren't out."

"Karen hit the free throws to tie it with nine seconds to go, and that's pressure."

Frasure, who led Prestonsburg in scoring with 21 points, hit seven of her eight free throw opportunities. As a team, Prestonsburg hit 23 of 32 foul shots.

Wheelwright finished the night by hitting 15 of their 25 charity stripe tosses. The Lady Trojans, 5-8 overall, finished the conference schedule with 2-6 record.

"It wasn't going to matter about the standings anyway," Coach Eversole said of the game. "I told my girls that the pressure was off, to just go out and play hard and have some fun."

The Lady Trojans, win or lose, had already wrapped up fourth place, and as Judy Eversole put it, "stayed away from Betsy Layne."

But Wheelwright did prove one thing, they are capable of playing with just about anyone in the district.

"I felt we could play with them all along," Eversole said of playing Prestonsburg into overtime. "But they've got a real good ball club with Frasure in there, and Bridgett Clay is a good coach."

"I was pleased with our performance. Even though we sort of blew it there late, I thought we played a pretty good game."

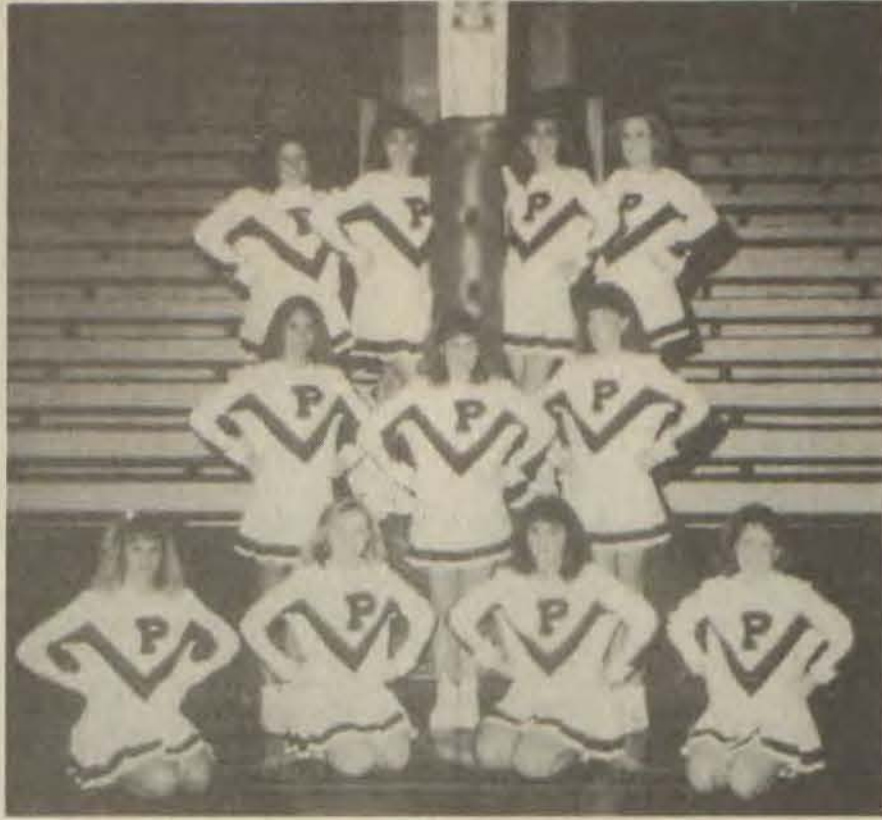

The Lady Trojans were led by their sophomore duo of Jedon Hood and April Bradford. The two combined for a total of 32 points. Hood had 18 of those.

Talitha Hutton finished in double figures with 10 and Tephania Green added eight.

Amy Hicks and freshman Kathy Slone finished the game with nine points each for Prestonsburg, and April Stephens scored eight points.

The biggest lead any team had was the seven point advantage Wheelwright built up in the second quarter. Prestonsburg's biggest advantage was the six points they won by.

Win First Place

The Prestonsburg Varsity Cheerleaders brought home the first place trophy during the Cardinal Classic at Sheldon Clark High School, Dec. 23.

The cheerleaders also performed at the cheerleading competition held during the state fair in Louisville where they received honorable mention. They also attended two camps this summer, the ICF Camp at Eastern Kentucky University where they placed third overall, and the VCA Camp at Morehead where they placed first.

He probably could too. The Prestonsburg Wheelwright game wasn't his first this season. He also called a game between Betsy Layne and Wheelwright earlier in the season.

The Lady Trojans lost that one too. Bad luck? He's two for two. Wheelwright lost to Prestonsburg also.

Earnie Johnson is certainly the best fan from the stands referee the county has. Or he has proven it so far. He is also the best dressed ref.

Nobody calls him a zebra. The Earnie Johnson apparel for referees, we'll market it and make a bundle.

Bowling, golf, and professional basketball all draw higher ratings than the Kentucky-Notre Dame game held recently on ABC.

Two other college basketball games also drew a larger viewing audience than did UK and the Fighting Irish.

But before you start to fault the two school's drawing power just remember who carried the game. ABC is not only the worst network for regular viewing, their efforts at basketball also lack quality and character.

Dick Vitale is sad. He is a poor clone of Al McGuire, and people simply hate his voice, delivery and attempt to over dramatize the game of college basketball.

Fans can see what is going on. Do your homework, Dick. Find us some information we want to hear.

And please, don't pick anymore all-anything teams.

Oh yea, and when you retire, please take that Miller woman with you. At least tie her chin to her boot strap so her head can stop bobbing up and down.

And tell Joe B. to get a coaching job. At least fan pressure could get rid of him then. Or maybe you could encourage Al and Dan to do some round ball on the side.

February Outdoor Sport Opportunities

While most of the hunting in Kentucky comes to an end in February, several other outdoor sporting activities begin, including some good early fishing, the opening of giggering and snagging season and a special beaver trapping season.

For the anxious angler who is interested in getting an early start this year, there are many good February fishing hotspots. One of the most sought-after species in cold weather is the striped bass. While many anglers have pursued strippers through December and January, February fishing remains good for "rockfish," as many fishermen refer to this species, at Lake Cumberland.

Lake Cumberland and nearby Dale Hollow Lake are also late winter smallmouth hotspots. Both lakes yield good fish from depths of 15-25 feet using live bait such as crawfish.

Sauger fishing has been reported good below the locks and dams of the Ohio River, and often good catches are also made below the dams of the Kentucky River. Sauger congregate in these areas when their upstream progress is halted by the man-made obstruction. Kentucky Lake also offers good sauger fishing in and below the lake in the tailwaters.

Walleye, like sauger, also proceed upstream during February to spawning grounds. Many anglers enjoy walleye fishing in the Cumberland and Nolin headwaters prior to the spawn. Fishery biologists have documented good numbers of walleye—including several five to eight pound females, in the streams and creeks in the upper Cumberland and Nolin rivers. Good numbers of big crappie are always caught in February at Kentucky and Barkley Lakes. Cold weather fishing for crappie has been better than during the spring spawn over the last couple of years, according to biologists. Minnows and jigs are the best baits to try along creek channels with good cover.

One other good opportunity for February fishing is trout fishing at Laurel River and Paintsville lakes. Good numbers of trout fall prey to a froled crankbait during February at both lakes.

Another type of fishing opportunity in February is giggering and snagging for rough fish. Giggering and snagging season opened February 1 and will close May 10. Toward the latter part of the month, back waters and overflow creeks and streams are good sports to gig carp, drum and other rough fish species.

Giggering and snagging are legitimate fishery management tools since they increase the harvest of rough fish which benefits game fish populations. It also allows ample opportunity to harvest a mess of fish in the process.

One other important early spring sporting opportunity is the special beaver trapping season from Feb. 13 through Feb. 29. Beaver populations have increased significantly in the western third of the state and have caused flooding problems in many areas. Regulations permit only water sets of traps No. 3 size or larger and Conibeer-type traps with a jaw spread of at least eight inches.

Although the regular trapping season closed January 31, the special beaver trapping season is a bonus opportunity for trappers to help control the beaver population and aid farmers in saving good farmland.

Soviet And American Teenagers Meet On Ket

On the heels of the recent summit between President Reagan and Soviet Party Secretary Gorbachev, KET plans a live broadcast of a teleconference between American and Soviet teenagers on Friday, March 11 from 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m.

"USA-USSR Youth Summit Teleconference" is a three-program series which will culminate in the live, international teleconference. Timothy Berry, a senior at Lafayette High School in Lexington, has been selected to be among the American students talking with the Soviet teenagers.

Prior to the live teleconference, KET airs two preparatory programs on Soviet life Thursday, February 18, at 2 p.m. and Wednesday, March 2, at 3 p.m. The first two programs will look at the daily lives of Soviet youth and explore similarities and differences between the two cultures in five general areas: education, entertainment, family life, food and fashion.

KET has curriculum materials available to teachers in Kentucky. These materials are organized around the five program topics.

For information on obtaining the resource materials, contact KET/School Services, 600 Cooper Drive, Lexington, Kentucky 40502.

Berea College Summer Program Set June 12th

Challenge '88, a Berea College summer program for outstanding high school students, will be in session June 12-July 8.

The four-week program, which offers college course credit, is designed primarily for students who currently are high school juniors. However, one fourth of the participants can be sophomores who meet course prerequisites. An overall B average is required and financial need is a strong consideration for admission.

Challenge '88 participants can enroll in one of the following courses: Wildlife Biology with Dr. Claude Gentry, professor of Agronomy and biology; Spoken Spanish to be taught by Dr. Fred de Rossett, associate professor of Spanish; English: College Writing with Dr. James A. Gage, associate professor of English, and Mathematical Structures in Computer Science, Dr. Ralph Stinebrickner, professor of mathematics.

Each course offers one college credit, the equivalent of four semester hours. Students will live in Berea College residence halls and eat at the college food service. All cultural, recreational and social services on campus will be available to the students.

To request application forms and course descriptions, contact Charles Morgan, Admissions Office, Berea College, Berea, Ky. 40404, telephone 606-986-9341, Ext. 5083.

SHORT SPORTS

The University of Kentucky Wildcats find themselves in a familiar position that had become a stranger during the past few weeks.

The Wildcats, early in the season, had owned rights to the top spot in the Southeastern Conference but losses to Florida and Vanderbilt took care of that.

But the Cats have enjoyed success lately. They beat Ole Miss, Wednesday, and Saturday took over first place by beating Mississippi State and getting some help from around the league.

Ed Davender scored a game-high 21 points, and Rex Chapman and Winston Bennett added 15 each as Kentucky handed State a 83-59 whipping in Starkville, Saturday.

The Wildcats, 16-3, improved to 8-3 in the Southeastern Conference and put their number one SEC spot on the line tonight in Auburn.

The War Eagles, 5-5 in the conference, defeated Florida, 58-57, Saturday in Gainesville, Florida, allowing the Wildcats to move into first place.

The Gators are 7-3 in the conference. Vanderbilt, tied with Kentucky for second before Saturday, lost to LSU and fell to 7-4 in the SEC.

Auburn, 12-7 overall, will be out to sweep Kentucky this year. The Tigers defeated UK, 53-52, January 9 in Lexington when sophomore John Craylor canned a three-pointer with 10 seconds left.

The Wildcats will continue their trek toward a Southeastern Conference title, Saturday, when they play Alabama.

The NBA all-star weekend brought out the best in professional basketball, and the best proved to be Chicago Bulls' guard Michael Jordan.

Jordan, the NBA's leading scorer at 33.6 points per game, won the dunking contest Saturday, barely edging out Atlanta's Dominique Wilkins.

The hometown favorite, performing in Chicago, needed at least a 49 out of 50 on his last dunk to beat Wilkins. He got a perfect score, and the top prize.

Sunday rolled around, and Jordan continued to shine. In the East-West all-star game, he scored 40 points and earned most valuable player honors.

Wilkins finished with 29 points as the East overcame an early deficit to defeat the West, 138-133. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar also enjoyed himself. He broke the all-time all-star scoring record by bringing his total to 247 points. That's one more than Oscar Robinson scored during his all-star playing days.

Also during the all-star weekend, Larry Bird won his third consecutive long distance shootout by hitting his last three shots.

Bird trailed Seattle's Dale Ellis by two buckets with only three basketballs left. But he rose to the challenge, sank all three shots, and walked away with the $12,500 top prize.

In the NFL Pro Bowl from Honolulu, the American Football Conference dumped the National Football Conference, 15-6.

The XV Winter Olympic Games will begin Saturday and continue through Sunday, February 28. The Games, from Calgary, Canada, features hockey, ice skating, skiing, and sledding, among others.

The Olympics will be aired on ABC. The network, which paid over $300 million for the television rights, begins its coverage Saturday afternoon at 2:30 with opening ceremonies.

ABC will continue Saturday night with hockey at 8. They have scheduled a total of 94½ hours of programming, most of it live.

The games have already attracted more participation than ever before with more than 1,800 athletes from 57 countries are expected to take part.

Worldwide television money for rights surpassed the $400 million mark, but over $500 million has been spent to upgrade and build facilities.

Figure skating, hockey, and the more popular sports are expected to be shown in prime time. ABC will conclude its broadcast of the Winter Olympics, February 28, with the closing ceremony from seven to 11 o'clock.

The Betsy Layne Bobcats won their second consecutive game, and the Prestonsburg Blackcats dropped to 8-10 with a loss in action this past weekend.

Betsy Layne, improving to 15-6 on the season, handed visiting Ashland a 65-60 loss, Saturday night. Duran Newsome led a balanced Bobcat scoring attack, tossing in 21.

Three other Betsy Layne players scored in double figures. Glen Hammond finished with 14, and Sam Stewart and Todd Sturgill finished with 12 and 11 points respectively.

Friday night the Prestonsburg Blackcats came up eight points short of Bates Creek, falling 69-61. The Blackcats outscored Bates Creek by seven points in the fourth quarter, but that wasn't enough to offset the 15-point advantage the Creekers had enjoyed at halftime.

Freddie McCoy led Prestonsburg in scoring with 21 points. Scott Hall finished with 17.

A clothing store in Georgia has run an ad in the same place in its local newspaper since 1889.

Wildlife Camps Offering Unique Summer Program

The National Wildlife Federation's Wildlife Camp has everything that a summer camp should offer: good fellowship, the learning of outdoor skills, and stimulating activities like boating, swimming, and tennis. But Wildlife Camp offers something more—a chance for youngsters to develop their natural curiosity about nature, and to reach a better appreciation of the outdoors, under the guidance of America's leading experts on nature and wildlife—the National Wildlife Federation (NWF).

Wildlife Camp is an outstanding summer program for kids and teens, ages 9 to 17, from every corner of the country. The Eastern Camp is located high in North Carolina's Blue Ridge Mountains, near the town of Hendersonville. Nestled in 1,300 acres of forested property, the camp offers hiking trails, mountain vistas, meandering streams, and a large spring-fed lake. Ten comfortable cabins house 14 kids and two counselors per cabin for four summer sessions, each session lasting from 11 days to two weeks.

The Eastern Camp was created in 1970. Because of the camp's popularity among parents, children, and educators, the Federation opened a Western Wildlife Camp last year.

The Western Wildlife Camp is located at one of the most magnificent sites in the western United States: Arapaho National Forest, in the Snake River Valley, 75 miles west of Denver.

The Western Camp features forested mountains and snowcaps, spectacular vistas, rushing streams, and unparalleled alpine beauty. Campers will be housed in restored cabins at the Old Keystone Village, a cluster of historic log cabins constructed in the late 1800s.

The Eastern Wildlife Camp is accredited by the American Camping Association, and the Federation has initiated the accreditation process for the new Western Wildlife Camp.

Many Wildlife Camp staffers are graduate students, and all staff are required to either hold or be pursuing a college degree in natural resources, education, wildlife biology, or recreation and parks.

Both camps also run "Teen Adventure Sessions," designed for young people ages 14-17. These exciting outdoor experiences include backpacking, hiking, camping, and river rafting.

For more information about the Wildlife Camps, call the National Wildlife Federation, (703) 790-4536.

The National Wildlife Federation is the nation's largest conservation organization, with more than 4.8 million members and supporters and 51 affiliate organizations nationwide.

Confident Van Horn Says Munduga In For Hard Time

If self-confidence was the major prerequisite for winning and losing fights, "Schoolboy" Darrin Van Horn will have no trouble defeating John "The Matador" Munduga when the two junior middleweights meet in their 10-rounder Feb. 21 at the Frankfort (Ky.) Civic Center.

"I can't see how he can beat me," said Van Horn, a Lexington resident who brings a world ranking of No. 3 into the nationally televised bout with Munduga. "At first, I was concerned about Munduga because I heard he was always in good condition. Now I see the condition I'm in and it doesn't bother me. The way I feel, no matter what he has, I'll be in better shape."

The 19-year-old Van Horn, who is 34-0 with 21 KOs, and the 27-year-old Munduga, who is 26-1 with 17 KOs and fights out of Uganda, will battle on NBC-TV for Cedric Kushner Productions. This will be the second time on national TV for both boxers. Last June, Van Horn, in his 30th pro fight, earned a decision over Luis Santana in Lexington on NBC. In June 1986, Munduga, in his 26th fight, was knocked out by Mark Breland in six rounds on ABC.

"I've been watching the tape of the Breland fight and he shows me nothing special," Van Horn said of Munduga. "The more I see him on tape, the more I notice that he doesn't throw as many punches as I first thought he did."

The profile on Munduga, a stablemate of middleweight John Mugabi, reads as follows: He throws good combinations, has a decent chin, good staying power and is a respectable counterpuncher.

Don Turner, who is working as Van Horn's trainer for the first time, has also reviewed the tapes of Munduga and has offered a profile of his own.

"The more I watch this guy, the more confident I get," said Turner, 48, who has been in the Van Horn camp since Jan. 8. "He's only fought once since the Breland fight. (Dec. 5, 1986-W 8 over Alvaro Granillo). He's a blown-up welterweight. He doesn't throw straight punches. He doesn't have a good right hand, and he's not very fast with his hands. What I've seen, it's not a real hard fight for Darrin because Darrin can fight. He's got it all over Munduga. I see Darrin stopping this guy in five rounds."

Turner's optimism is shared by G.L. Van Horn, Darrin's father and manager. "Don is getting a lot out of Darrin," G.L. said. "Darrin has been looking like a real fighter in the gym the last few days. He's starting to take shape. And by fight time, there's no telling what he's going to do to Munduga."

NOTES—As of Feb. 3, Darrin had boxed a total of 60 rounds under Turner. Van Horn's sparring partners have been Cincinnati middleweight Frank Rhodes and Lexington junior middleweight Jerry Brown. Rhodes and Brown will on the Feb. 21 Frankfort undercard.

Ticket sales are steady throughout the state. Over $20,000 already has been taken in. Tickets are priced at $50, $25, $15 and $10 and are available at the Frankfort Civic Center (502-223-2766), at statewide Ticketron outlets, and by calling 606-283-5384.

Building a Team

Football fans, especially those of teams that finished out of the running this season, are looking to the future. They're asking themselves how their team can rebuild or improve before the 1988 season. Trades, of course, are one answer. But the real key to building a team is through the annual draft of college football players.

Fan interest in the draft has grown to the point that it is now televised. Team decisions are instantly met with fan cheers or groans. It's one day when the spotlight is on each team's organization, and recognition is given to the fundamental truth that good teams depend on more than the on-the-field coaches and players.

The president and general manager are critically important to building a solid team. A team, for example, must know when to let a player go. This includes stars who have been in the league for years and are often very popular with the fans.

Having too many veterans in their mid-thirties can spell trouble. When I joined the Bears we had a lot of players from the 1963 championship team who got old overnight. I think this may have happened to the Dallas Cowboys. They have several veteran players who had off seasons in 1987.

Tony Dorsett, for example, doesn't fit into the Cowboys' plans because Herschel Walker is there and he's bigger, stronger and faster. A year ago the Cowboys could have traded Dorsett for a top player or a high draft choice. But now he's coming off a bad season, and other teams are going to question how much he has left. Dallas probably waited a year too long. They may get little or nothing for him.

The alternative to building through the draft is the George Allen method, trading away draft choices for ten-year veterans. To give him credit, he got the Washington Redskins to the Super Bowl. But I don't think it is a good way to build a team. You are trading away the future. If you don't do it in two years, you're in real trouble. The players you traded for get old and there is no way to replace them.

I think you have to do it through the draft. The Pittsburgh Steelers did it very well during the 70s, and won four Super Bowls as a result. The Chicago Bears have done it through the 80s which is reflected by four Divisional titles and a Super Bowl victory in 1985. It takes longer using the draft but that's the only way to build a solid team that will continue to win over a long period of time. ll

Olympics give Giffords a chance to work together

By Paul Elie

The Winter Olympics, which air for nearly 100 hours this month on ABC, are the most expensive morale booster in TV history.

Frank Gifford

In 1984, ABC paid a record $309 million for rights to cover the action in Calgary. Now, the network stands to lose at least $40 million.

Why air the Olympics at a loss? They are a prestigious event for ABC, which has covered nine of the last 11 Olympics aired in the United States. And as ABC Sports President Dennis Swanson has noted, the Games will boost department morale.

As expected, ABC's coverage features anchor Jim McKay and a mix of broadcasting vets (Al Michaels, Gary Bender) and past Olympic stars (Eric Heiden, Mike Eruzione). Other assignments are more unusual. Tim McCarver brings his baseball acumen to freestyle skiing; former NFL star Lynn Swann covers bobsled. And Frank Gifford, usually a skiing announcer at the Games, is co-hosting a late-night show with his wife, Kathie Lee Gifford, co-host of "The Morning Show," a New York talk show.

"They were considering several people," Frank says. "But one night I was out to dinner with (Olympics executive producer) Roone Arledge. I said, 'Roone, why are you considering other people?' We'd worked together before. And she was going to be there anyway..."

Their program is not a wrap-up of the day's events, but a half-hour of Olympic-related features.

"We're looking for the unusual, the bizarre, the moving," Frank explains. "Human-interest stories, stories about individuals."

"A people-type show, not a statistic-type show," Kathie Lee says.

Frank, 57, met Kathie Lee, in her 30s, on "Good Morning America." He was subbing for David Hartman, she for Joan Lunden. They were married in 1986. Calgary marks his seventh Games, her first.

"No, it does not seem like a stretch for me," Kathie Lee says. "Logistically, yes. But I talk to people from all walks of life on 'The Morning Show.' Talking to athletes is like talking to plumbers."

"It's not like she's doing play-by-play or anything," Frank says.

Is he still challenged by the Games?

"Definitely," Frank says. "Everyone gets into it. We work together, live together, stay together."

"Can I stay with you?" asks Kathie Lee.

'Rap Master Ronnie' is a searing hour of satire

By Denise Gorga

The problem with most TV satire is that it's either too gimmicky (as with the syndicated "D.C. Follies") or too mean-spirited (think of "Saturday Night Live" on an off night). But Cinemax delivers with "Rap Master Ronnie—A Report Card," which premieres Sunday, Feb. 14.

Jim Morris

Garry Trudeau, who draws the "Doonesbury" comic strip, created "Rap Master Ronnie" with composer Liz Swados as an off-Broadway "musical revue." The pair's political cynicism and searing lyrics are devastatingly funny—and, for TV, surprisingly intelligent.

In this one-hour special, an out-of-touch Reagan (played by Jim Morris) tours the country in a limousine in an attempt to keep in touch with the masses. The musical segments address social concerns—the administration's condescending attitude toward blacks and the poor, the proliferation of morally bankrupt yuppies, Reagan's knack for feel-good American myth-making. The only bit that fizzles—wasting a special talent in the process—is a senseless snippet with oddball comic Carol Kane as a schizophrenic government under-secretary compiling statistics on Central America.

But that's only one scene, and as "Rap Master Ronnie" reminds us, "Let's not throw the baby out with the dishwasher." The special avoids taking cheap shots at Reagan's age and mental incompetence, stressing instead his lack of administrative control and political insight. It pokes fun at Reagan the bureaucrat, not Reagan the man—and gives us something to think about.

• The Disney Channel celebrates Black History Month with a broadcast of "Sounder" on Tuesday, Feb. 16. Co-stars Cicely Tyson and Paul Winfield were nominated for Academy Awards for their performances in this story of a family of Depression-era Louisiana sharecroppers.

• Desperately Seeking Stamina: The USA Network's "Premiere Event" for February is the three-and-a-half-hour, romanticized history lesson that is "Reds." The Russian Revolution is the setting for this 1981 film, which won Warren Beatty a Best Director Oscar. It airs in two parts, Tuesday, Feb. 16, and Wednesday, Feb. 17.

Off 'Santa Barbara,' Dusay has a full plate

By Marie Michaels

"I've been lucky to play two fascinating characters on daytime," says Marj Dusay, who played the manipulative Myrna Clegg on "Capitol" from 1982 to 1987, then last December replaced British actress Shirley Anne Field as the mysterious Pamela Capwell Conrad on "Santa Barbara."

Marj Dusay

Last October, when the role of C.C. Capwell's long-presumed-dead first wife was originally cast, Dusay turned it down because of other commitments. "This time around, though, the timing was right," she says. "I think Pamela is more of a whiner than Myrna," she says. "Pamela manipulates everyone around her, but in a softer way than Myrna. Myrna was like a tank going over a hill. Pamela rides in a chariot with silk-spoked wheels that cut you off at the ankles." If Dusay had her way, Pamela would disrupt C.C.'s life and break up his marriage to Sophia (Judith McConnell).

"Pamela's the kind of person who could fall madly in love, then destroy the relationship because she's afraid of success," she says. "She's a damaged person. For years she didn't know who or where she was. Maybe in the end we'll find out she's totally insane."

Dusay, a native of Kansas, began her career by modeling and appearing in commercials, then worked with The Session, an improvisational comedy group formed by Rob Reiner and Richard Dreyfuss in 1966.

Since then she has appeared on series and in TV movies, and in such feature films as "Sweet November" (1968), "Breezy" (1973), "MacArthur" (1977) and the recent comedy "Made in Heaven." She is a two-time Emmy nominee for her portrayal of Blair's mother Monica on the NBC sitcom "The Facts of Life." And she recently appeared in the special "Drug-free Kids - A Parents' Guide," which aired on PBS and several cable channels.

When not before the cameras, Dusay can be found teaching acting seminars for the Kansas Film Commission. She has also co-produced two videos about soccer for young players and their adult coaches.

"I have a full plate right now," she says. "It's important to enjoy what you do."

FAME Heather Thomas signs on as one of the 'Dirty Dozen'

By Wendy Wallace

Since "The Fall Guy" was canceled in 1986, Heather Thomas has set out to prove that she's more than just a scantily clad blonde.

Heather Thomas

"I've gotten to the point where I want to be known as more than just 'The Body,'" she says. "I'm concentrating on doing good work because there are so many different things I can do."

Her latest role is Lt. Carol Campbell in "The Dirty Dozen: The Fatal Mission," an NBC movie airing Sunday, Feb. 14. Campbell is one of 12 renegade soldiers in this third TV sequel to the 1967 film "The Dirty Dozen." Telly Savalas, Ernest Borgnine, Erik Estrada, Jeff Conaway and John Matuszak also star.

"My character was raised with Germans, and she has a love for the people," Thomas says. "She's angry about the killing around her because it has caused her to lose a young German soldier she loved."

In "The Fatal Mission," Gen. Worden (Borgnine) learns of a would-be dictator's secret plan to establish a new regime in the Middle East. He forms a group of military prisoners to destroy the clandestine force, but its mission is disrupted when one member is mysteriously killed and a spy is suspected to be in the group. At that point Campbell - a lieutenant with ties to German Intelligence - signs on.

"She comes to replace one of the dozen," says Thomas. "She volunteers to take his place because she grew up in Europe and was raised among German aristocracy."

Born in Greenwich, Conn., Thomas moved with her family to Santa Monica, Calif., when she was very young. She attended the UCLA Film School, and one of her college plays, "In Best Interests," was later presented on cable TV. Her TV credits include the short-lived CBS series "Co-ed Fever" (1979) and the role of stuntwoman Jody Banks on "The Fall Guy," which premiered in 1981 on ABC.

While "The Fatal Mission" marks the third time Savalas and Borgnine have appeared together in a "Dirty Dozen" movie, Thomas felt relaxed with her co-stars.

"I've known a lot of the guys for some time, and I love every single one of them," she says. "And they're all such gentlemen. So I left with some fond memories."

Hopi Culture— Origins Lost in Time

By William G. Schulz—Smithsonian News Service

High atop several rocky mesas in northeastern Arizona lies the homeland of the Hopi Indians, whose exact origins in North America remain unknown. Hopi legend holds that their ancestors climbed up from four underground holes and lived many places before settling on the mesas. The earliest known Hopi settlements date back to A.D. 600.

During this long history, the Hopi—some of whom still live on the mesas—have witnessed great changes in their territory and culture. Hopi legends, for example, recount the real-life story of a great drought between 1276 and 1299 that brought them in contact with many disparate groups of native peoples in the Southwest. Spanish explorers first made contact with the Hopi in the mid-16th century, followed by U.S. explorers in the 18th and 19th centuries. Today, newcomers arrive daily in the region, yet only about 6,000 Hopi remain.

Despite their relatively small population today, important objects from Hopi culture have been preserved, among them, clay pottery with a distinctive yellow coloring produced by lost firing techniques. These beautiful ceramics, experts say, represent one of the highest technological and artistic achievements of prehistoric Indians in North America. In addition to their unique yellow coloring, some forms of the pottery typically have a broadly angled shape—another example of Hopi skill—and include surface designs of geometric patterns as well as depictions of plants and animals in the Hopi region.

For today's Hopi, and researchers from museums and universities involved in a three-year study, the clay pots are producing a data base that will improve understanding of the ancient Hopi culture, particularly relationships among Hopi villages and the effects of their contact with a variety of other cultures over the centuries.

Perhaps more importantly, information from the project is already being shared with the Hopi people, including contemporary potters who are interested in the artistic traditions of their ancestors.

Appropriately, it seems, the new studies of Hopi pottery require advanced tools developed for Western science, according to Dr. Ronald L. Bishop and Dr. Veletta Canouts, the anthropologists who direct the project. The scientists work at the Smithsonian Institution's Conservation Analytical Laboratory at the Museum Support Center located just outside Washington, D.C., in Suitland, Md.

Using CAL's facilities, and those of other research institutions, Bishop, Canouts and colleagues from several museums and universities examine Hopi ceramics, particularly those housed in the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C.

The project is unique, Bishop says. "It's probably the most integrated study I've been involved with," in terms of using high-tech instruments for physical analysis of the pottery, studying the artistic designs used and combining these results with information from Hopi oral traditions.

A Hopi potter and engineer, Alfred Qoyawayma, who lives in Scottsdale, Ariz., provided Bishop with the original idea for the project. "As a potter, I was interested in finding sources of the yellow-firing clay," Qoyawayma says. He met Bishop at a conference in San Diego and proposed the idea of comparing clay from various places to identify this source. The project—its findings now indicate that specialized firing techniques created the yellow color—grew from that meeting.

Information produced so far, Bishop says, "does... provide great breakthroughs," but will help refine models used by anthropologists studying Hopi culture. For example, he says, a definite focus of production in certain sites and trading patterns among villages are indicated.

"We can actually see the villages where the pots came from and perhaps refine existing models for long-distance exchange patterns," he says. One of the mesas that is no longer inhabited, Canouts adds, appears to have been a frontier area, in terms of the Hopi territory. "We may now have to model trading interactions differently," she says. "Cultural anthropologists can help flesh out what we see archaeologically."

Hopi history, Bishop continues, was broken down into two parts for the project. The first covers the period from 1300—just after the great drought—to contact with the Spanish. The second part stretches from Spanish contact in 1540 to 1890, when U.S. explorers first began collecting expeditions in the West.

Although these periods saw great changes for the Hopi, Bishop explains, anthropologists have little information about their social organization after 1299. During the drought, for example, many Indians from a variety of cultures in the Southwest were forced to move in search of new water supplies. A great influx of these people onto the Hopi mesas influenced the shape and firing practices used to produce the pottery. Similarly, he says, a cheapening of quality may have resulted from contact with the Spanish, who required sheep dung as a firing fuel, rather than hotter-burning coal.

A variety of scientific instruments is used to analyze physical aspects of the pottery to shed light on these and other subtle influences, Bishop says.

Fortunately, only small samples of ceramic paste from the bottom of the pots are needed for this work. The cornerstone of the physical analysis, Bishop says, is trace elemental analysis, which provides a chemical "fingerprint" of the elements. Irradiations are conducted in a small nuclear reactor at the National Bureau of Standards, where samples from pots and sherds are bombarded with neutrons. Gamma rays given off by radioisotopes can be counted and translated into an elemental profile. The chemical profiles, then, are used to create reference paste groups for pottery-producing areas.

The scanning electron microscope—one of the most powerful microscopes available to scientists—reveals aspects of clay preparation, firing habits, paste color, paint luster and adhesion of paint to the ceramic body. These properties can then be used to infer shared technical skills among Hopi potters from different villages. Other sensitive instruments measure variations in the coloring of the pottery.

An experimental kiln at the CAL laboratories, Bishop says, may solve the mystery of how the Hopi achieved the yellow coloring of the pottery. Bishop has already matched clays from original sources with the ceramics, but no correlation has been shown between the chemistry of the clay and the color of finished pots. The secret appears to be a highly controlled firing process. "Despite impurities in the clay," Canouts adds, "the Hopi achieved the colors they wanted. They were just good artisans."

Hopi high-school students will help conduct these tests at CAL this summer on clay from the original Hopi sources. The experiments should pin down the variables of temperature, time and atmosphere used in the original kilns, Bishop says. "We won't be satisfied until we reproduce the yellow color."

Computers are used to help analyze designs on the pottery. "We abstract details for comparison with other pots," Canouts says. The comparisons should provide further data for interpretations about trading and shared artistic traditions. The work is complicated, however, by the immense variation in artistic design. Unlike biology, where comparison of forms is more straightforward, the aesthetics of individual Hopi potters and other factors resulted in widespread variation, she says. More advanced computer graphics programs now being developed should ease this task in the future.

To the Hopi, Canouts says, this work is about their history—recent history, in terms of the culture's longevity. So besides sharing data with other museums and the Hopi people, Bishop and his colleagues are also teaching a course about the project to students at the Hopi Junior-Senior High School on the Hopi Indian Reservation in Arizona. "We can contribute to the student's natural curiosities," Canouts says, "and get them interested in their own past to continue this sort of work."

Cooperation with other museums that allowed the anthropologists to sample their collections—such as the Peabody Museum at Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass., and Chicago's Field Museum—contributed to the project's success in building the data base. For the first time, Bishop says, these collections are bridged, in terms of the information they will continue to provide about Hopi culture.

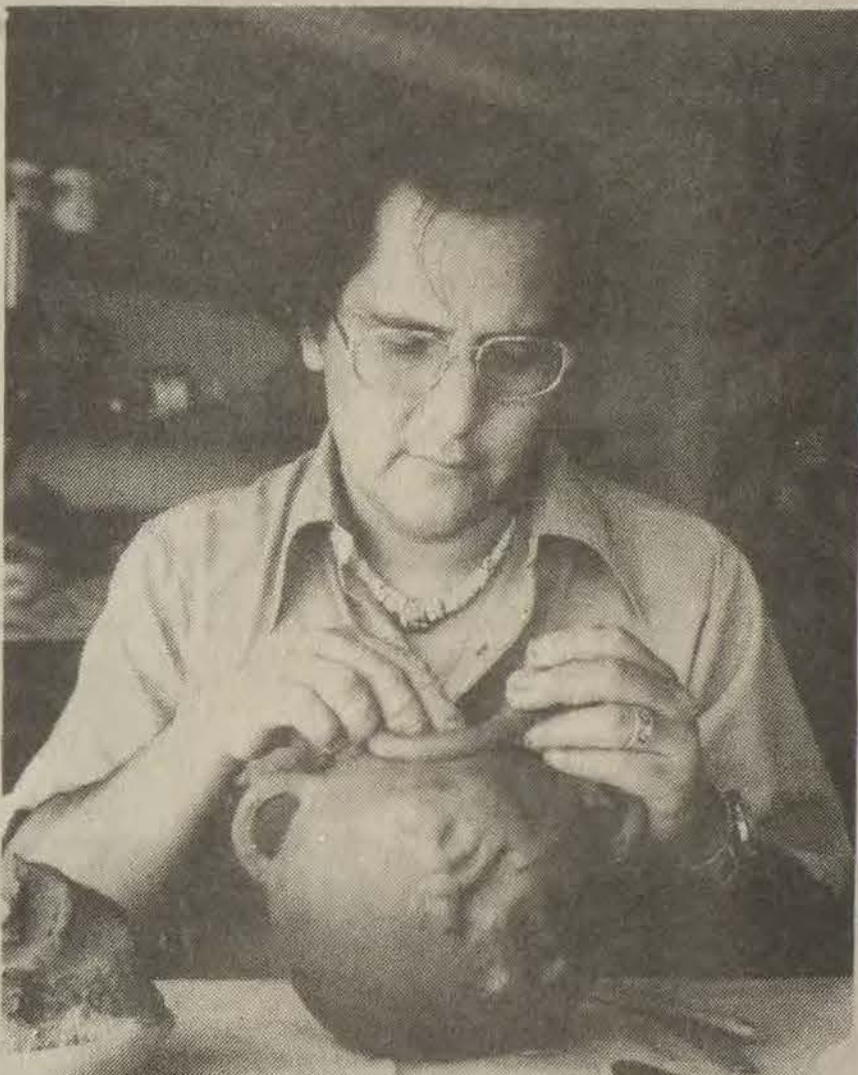

Several related projects have already been proposed to build on this work, the Smithsonian's Bishop says. And the work holds the promise that the next generation of Hopi people will have more than legends of a rich past in their future.

The Hopi Indians of northeastern Arizona created firing techniques that yielded ceramic pottery with a distinctive yellow coloring. Hopi pottery, such as this pot in the Smithsonian's collections, ranks among the highest achievements of prehistoric Indians in North America.

Two Smithsonian anthropologists, Dr. Veletta Canouts and Dr. Ronald Bishop, inspect pottery used in their study of Hopi social and cultural history. High technology tools are used to analyze the ceramics and infer trade and other relationships of ancient Hopi villages.

Pottery crafted by his Hopi ancestors inspires the ceramics made by Al Qoyawayma of Scottsdale, Ariz.

Designs painted on Hopi pottery are analyzed along with the clay used to make the ceramics in anthropological studies of the ancient Hopi culture.

Kentucky River Tour With Gurney Norman

Enjoy a guided tour of the Kentucky River—from its headwaters in the eastern Kentucky mountains to its confluence with the Ohio River near Carrollton with host Gurney Norman, on "Time On the River," airing Sunday, February 14 at 8:00 p.m. on KET.

Norman, the son of a Kentucky coal miner, later worked as reporter and editor for The Hazard Herald. During the turbulent 60s he published his novel, Divine Rights Trip, and while living in Berkeley, Calif., was one of several founders of The Whole Earth Catalogue.

"Time On the River" takes a historical look at the important role this waterway played in the settlement of Kentucky. Boonesboro was located on the river in 1775, and later steamboats and logs for the timber industry floated to their destination on it. In the 19th century, resort areas appeared in Henry County (Drennon Springs). The state's capital was established at Frankfort because of accessibility.

Norman, now a professor of creative writing at the University of Kentucky, explores the contemporary uses of the river, and controversial issues that swirl like flotsam around it. This half-hour special shows the river in its various stages throughout the year.

Norman, as writer and narrator, says, "Spending time on the river causes you to realize not your insignificance in the world, but rather your complete significance as a part of the whole system of nature, and of time."

"Time On the River" is a KET Production.

State Nursing Homes To Fight Diseases

Nursing homes in Kentucky will raise money to fight arthritis, heart and Alzheimer's diseases the months of February through March.

The fund raising is being coordinated through the Kentucky Association of Health Care Facilities (KAHCF) 1988 Rock 'N Roll Jamboree. KAHCF is the trade association that represents 235 licensed proprietary and nonproprietary nursing homes in the Commonwealth.

Since 1977, over $500,000 has been donated to supported charities. A record $78,000 was raised by the nursing homes in 1987.

"Nursing home employees provide direct patient care to a population suffering primarily from arthritis, heart and Alzheimer's diseases," said KAHCF President Mary Ousley. "Kentucky's nursing home industry is proud to raise funds for necessary research, preventive care and potential cures."

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Reynold Nelson, who departed this life, four years ago, Feb. 3, 1984.

There's a little corner of my heart dad, that I keep especially for you. No one else but God can go there, for it's where I spend some time with you.

I tell you how much I miss you, more and more each day. And God holds your memories warm for me, so they won't fade away.

When I join you in heaven, dad, the first one I want to see, is our dear Lord and Savior, who gave his life for me.

And then I want to tell him, make room for more to come, for mom and your four daughters and two sons are making their way home.

Oh, what a glad reunion, when we join hands and sing. Will the circle be unbroken. No, never again.

Well love and kisses for now dad. I guess it's time to part. But I'll visit with you tomorrow, in the corner of my heart.

Your daughter,
PHYLLIS DAVIS

IN MEMORY OF IRENE SLONE

BORN FEB. 11, 1930
PASSED AWAY, SEPT. 27, 1987
THE LADY

It was love at first sight, when she saw him walk by. She said, "See that man, I'm going to make him mine."

On April 7th, 1950, dressed in their Sunday best, They really looked nifty; Hand in hand as they said, "I do, For better or for worse, I'll always love you."

With the man she loved, twelve children they had, Sticking together through the good and the bad;

Always following the golden rule, They did the best that they could do. To her husband she gave, Thirty-seven years, five months and twenty days,

Then the good Lord came and took her away. That precious smile, those loving hands, Never complaining, just understands.

She taught, even without her to do the best we can, 'Cause life goes on and she'll understand, Love and laughter, and peace from above,

These are the things our, dear mother loved. Happy birthday, Mommy

He began working in the coal mines when he was a young boy and continued working and learning about coal mining until he became a certified mine foreman and certified electrician. He resumed his studies at Morehead State College and Prestonsburg Community College. He had a great concern for safety for coal miners. He became an instructor at the simulated coal mine for Mayo State Vocational Technical School which is located at Stanville, Kentucky, which gave him the opportunity to fulfill his desire to teach safety in coal mines to many fine young men who learned from their teacher. He was very proud of all of his students who not only respected him as their teacher but also their friend. DEAR BETTY CROCKER

Q. What's the best pan shape for microwaving? B.P., Yakima, Wa.

A. A ring shape promotes even cooking of foods that won't be stirred during cooking—cakes, breads, muffins. The microwaves penetrate food from the center, sides, top and bottom more evenly than with a square or rectangular pan.

Q. I'm on a low cholesterol diet. Will making soup stock from beef bones contribute cholesterol to my diet? W.K., Chicago, Ill.

A. Yes, but only in small amounts generally within guidelines of low cholesterol diets. The beef bones, however, must be well trimmed of fat and meat, since meat is marbled with fat.

Q. What is the shelf life of flour and what storage method do you recommend? Mrs. N.B., Burbank, Ill.

A. From the time it's milled, all-purpose flour will keep for 12 months. Whole wheat flour stores well for eight months. Store either flour at home in a cool, dry place. To extend shelf life, freeze flour in double wrapped containers. Just be sure to bring flour to room temperature before using it.

TIP OF THE WEEK: The best way to warm breads in the microwave oven is to wrap them in microwaveable paper toweling and heat on medium.

Q. What kind of chocolate is used in German chocolate cake? C.A., Reno, Nv.

A. It's "German chocolate," a combination of two kinds of cocoa. One is natural cocoa and the other is "Dutch-ified," a process that makes cocoa less bitter and gives it a deeper color.

Q. My pies are nice and brown on top, but rather raw on the bottom. Why? J.T., Cleveland, Oh.

A. Glass pie plates and darkened pie pans absorb heat and allow for a well-baked, browned undercrust. Shiny metal or foil pans reflect heat, so the bottom crust may remain soggy. It does help to place a cookie sheet under the foil pie pan. Also, be sure to bake the pie in a moderately hot oven (400 to 425 degrees).

Q. What causes popovers to stick to the pan? J.W., Austin, Mn.

A. Grease popover pans very generously with solid hydrogenated shortening. Don't use oil, butter or margarine because these may cause popovers to stick and brown more. Popovers are also less likely to stick if baked in ovenproof glass custard cups.

TIP OF THE WEEK: Sprinkle bananas with lemon juice to prevent them from turning brown on a fruit plate or in fruit salad.

Do you have a question? Write Dear Betty Crocker, Box 1113, Dept. Betty, Minneapolis, Mn. 55440.

Chandler Documentary To Be Seen Nationally

A half-hour documentary on the life of A.B. "Happy" Chandler has been selected for national distribution by the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) this month.

According to KET Promotion Director Ed Mastrean, "Roads Home: The Life and Times of A.B. 'Happy' Chandler" will air on more than 100 public TV channels in 29 states, including Alaska and Hawaii. KET broadcasts the program Thursday, February 25 at 7:30 p.m.

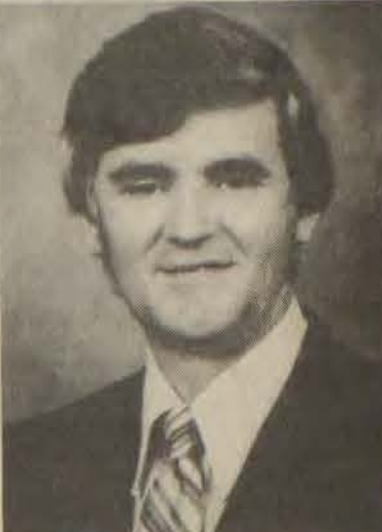

"Roads Home" is a compelling portrait of the stump-speaking politician who rose from rural poverty to become governor, senator, and commissioner of baseball. The half-hour film weaves a rich portrait of Americana filled with stories and anecdotes as it follows Chandler's colorful career as America's youngest governor in 1935, U.S. Senator during World War II, and Commissioner of Baseball during the 1950s, when he helped integrate the major leagues.

In the film Chandler is remembered for his unique abilities by biographer Charles Roland, George Vescey of the New York Times; and former Courier-Journal Publisher Barry Bingham, Sr. "We didn't use the word glamorous so much in those days," Bingham recalls, "but he had it. He had a new look about him."

"Roads Home" was directed by Danville native Robbie Henson for Cicada Films of New York and first broadcast on KET in May of 1987. The program was funded by Philip Morris Companies Inc. with additional support from KET, The Kentucky Network; Ashland Oil, Inc.; and Hillerich & Bradsby Co., Inc.

THERE'S NOTHING AN EGYPTIAN vulture would rather eat than an ostrich egg. But cracking open the hard shell requires a bit of work. According to Ranger Rick magazine, the vulture first picks up a stone with its beak. Then it hurls the stone at the egg. It may take two dozen direct hits, but the shell usually cracks, and the vulture gets its meal!

In Memory of HIRAM R. "BUDDY" COUCH
who passed from this life into eternity on February 11, 1987

Daddy was an inspiration to all who knew and loved him and his loss is still felt throughout our community. His 50 years on earth was spent loving and helping others, and that love was returned to him.

To his family and friends, he was our Rock of Gibraltar, our ray of sunshine on a rainy day, our comfort in time of need and our laughter in tearful situations.

His greatest joy came the day he accepted his Lord and Saviour. The capitalized quotations in the poem below are songs that Daddy sang for the glory of God. He fought a good fight, he finished his course and he kept the faith. I thank God that I was a part of him; my life has become much richer. The tears still flow and our hearts are still broken. Our loss is Heaven's gain, and it was only in dying that he was born into eternal life with Christ.

Daddy,
The day your heart stopped beating
Was the day ours broke in two
Death will come to every doorstep
God says our days on earth are few.

Dad your memories all surround us
And your light will always shine
You've done your job, your debt's been paid.
You have inspired all of mankind.

If you could talk to us right now
I know what you would say
To get ready loved ones to meet my Lord
You have to "WATCH AND PRAY."

You'd say Mom just keep on singing
About that "STAR OF BETHLEHEM"
There is "PEACE IN THIS OLD VALLEY"
There's a smile on every lamb.

Don't weep for me dear children
God "REACHED DOWN HIS HAND FOR ME"
I'm walking "HALLELUJAH SQUARE"
"I'M GOING HOME" to sing you see.

"I'VE CLIMBED A GREAT HIGH MOUNTAIN"
That I'll never climb again
So pick up the "BROKEN PIECES"
And let go of all your sins.

"LET ME TELL YOU ABOUT MY REDEEMER"
Let me tell you about my Lord
"THIS WORLD IS NOT MY HOME" anymore
We've met in one accord.

"JESUS IS KING", a song you wrote
The words came from your heart
Because of Him, we can live again
In Heaven we'll never part.

So goodbye for now dear Daddy
God knows our love for you
He gave us the roses
But the thorns came with them too.

Now God we pray for strength today
You know the load we bear
Please shield us in your loving arms
And keep us in your care.

Written by your daughter,
Sabrina C. Hall

Sadly missed by your loved ones,

Job Corps Program Inspires Area Youth

Linda Clark, of Arkansas Creek, dropped out of high school at 14 to get married. Today, Linda is 18, divorced, and enrolled in the non-residence program at the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center, here. Next month, Linda will take her G.E.D. test, and after that, she plans to enroll at Prestonsburg Community College.

She is one of several young people who are taking advantage of the educational and vocational opportunities at the Job Corps.

The center began its non-residence program in April, 1987, and 14 youths, including three girls, are now in the program. It is open to area youths between 16 to 21 years old.

Dr. J. Rodney Chambers, director, says there are seven openings for females to enter the Non-Res program.

The vocational classes, providing training in carpentry, masonry, electricity, plumbing, building and ground maintenance and culinary arts, are taught from 8 a.m. to 3:40 p.m., and transportation is provided for the student to and from the center.

The program is government funded. So there is no tuition charge. "As a matter of fact," Chambers said, "We pay the student to participate in the program."

A monthly stipend of $40 to $100 a month is paid to each student. Plus a readjustment allowance up to $100 a month, which is awarded after the program is completed.

All medical and dental expenses are paid, and if the student remains for the maximum two years, he or she would earn $2400, plus a clothing allowance of $437. Money earned while in the program does not affect aid for dependent children or food stamps, according to Chambers.

Linda Clark says she likes the program. "It's more fun than high school," she says, "because you work at your own pace, and that inspires me to work harder."

No class size exceeds 15 and Chambers estimates it would take nine months to a year to get the G.E.D. and complete a skill.

Another enrolled in the program is Penny Neeley, who hopes to speed up the process. The 17-year-old Prestonsburg native entered the Non-Res program in December, and took her G.E.D. test, January 26. If she passes the test, she plans to enroll at PCC this June. With the program picking up the tab for tuition.

There are presently nine members of the Job Corps taking classes at PCC. "We have a very high placement for those completing the program" going on to school, a job, or joining the service. The Job Corps is the only government program which is cost efficient in returning to the taxpayers more than it takes. For every dollar the government gives the Job Corps, $1.45 goes back to the United States Treasury."

Child Safety Awareness Week Set Valentine's Day

National Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week is the week of February 7-14. This nationwide effort coincides with Valentine's Day.

Today, the number one cause of death and disabling injury among America's children is the trauma they suffer as passengers in traffic crashes. Only one of every two children is correctly restrained in cars.

Hog Report Is Good For Swine Producers

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's December Hogs and Pigs Report, issued January 6, indicates that expansion in hog numbers is occurring much more slowly than previously thought.
That good news sent hog futures prices upward $3 per hundredweight within two days after the report was issued and provided support that 1988 will be a profitable year for efficient swine producers, said Lee Meyer, University of Kentucky Extension agricultural economist.
"The report is a positive factor for 1988. It indicates that pork production will be lower than previously expected, and prices should remain steady in the low $40 per hundredweight range," Meyer said.
With production costs remaining relatively low, those producers who can squeeze the most efficiency out of their operation will show profits for the year. Offsetting an increase in hog prices that might have been expected with the lower-than-anticipated numbers will be an increase in poultry production. B production, Meyer said, will decline but not enough to have any dramatic effect on hog prices.
The current hog inventory, while larger than the 1985 and 1986 levels is still among the lowest since the 1960s. Production is likely to be up six to eight percent during the next year, Meyer said.
The year's lowest prices likely will be in the spring, when a large number of hogs are sent to market. The number of pigs under 60 pounds on December 1 was up 11 percent over last year, Meyer said.
Farmers may find now a good time to forward price their pigs. Because many futures traders have become suddenly more optimistic, prices have moved to higher levels, the economist said.
"Producers should examine their 1988 pricing targets and consider taking advantage of the current opportunities," Meyer said.

Earthquake In State Said Not If But When

Scientists say the real question about a Kentucky earthquake is not if, but when.
"The New Madrid fault, on Kentucky's western edge, last gave a major heave in the winter of 1811-1812. It has been accumulating energy for another shake since then. When it will release that energy is the question," said Larry Piercy, agricultural engineer with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.
Right now, he said, the New Madrid fault has enough stored energy to cause a major earthquake if it were all released at once.
"According to the Tennessee Earthquake Information Center, the chance of a major quake in the next 15 years is about 40 to 60 percent," Piercy said.

CRP Program Broadens Land Eligibility

The Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture through the local ASCS office has announced its 6th sign-up period for February 1-19th. CRP is a federal program designed to take highly erodible cropland out of production by offering farmers an annual payment for 10 years and reimbursement of 50% of the cost of vegetating the land to prevent erosion.

Some significant changes have been for this 6th sign-up which broaden the eligibility of the land which may be enrolled in the program.

In an effort to get more trees planted, farmers who agree to plant their CRP acres in trees may now enroll land which has not been eligible in the previous 5 signups. For tree planting only, land eligibility requirements have been reduced from an erosion soil loss of 3 times the tolerance factor of the particular soil (3T) to 2 times the tolerance of the soil (2T). Additionally, only for tree planting, only 1/3 of a field must be eroding at or above the tolerance level, where previously it took 2/3 to qualify.

For all cover practices other than tree planting, the eligibility requirements will remain the same as they have been previously. Agriculture and Forestry officials hope that by increasing eligibility of land but restricting this increase only to tree planting, they will induce more trees to be planted under CRP. In some areas this could have a dramatic effect on the program since this will open for eligibility a large amount of cropland which has not been eligible before.

Another change for the sixth sign-up, but probably of less potential impact, will be the inclusion of cropland filter strips, 66-99 feet in width, along streams or bodies of water. Filter Strips will not have to meet any erosion criteria and will be eligible for planting to all types of cover.

Questions regarding these changes or regarding the CRP program in general can be addressed to local officials of ASCS, the Soil Conservation Service or the Division of Forestry.

Wood Preservative Workshop Is Slated

New laws pertaining to the wood preservation industry as well as new techniques of preserving wood products will be among topics discussed at the Extension Wood Preservative Workshop to be held at the Executive Inn in Louisville, Feb. 10-11.

The workshop begins Feb. 10 at 9 a.m. with a joint session with the Agribusiness and Pesticide Conference, said Chris Christensen, University of Kentucky Extension entomologist who is coordinating the workshop.

Later that morning, speakers with the wood preservation workshop will discuss a variety of topics related to the legal aspects of using wood preservatives, he said.

Frank Crews, president of Kentucky Forest Industries Association, will discuss the impact of pesticide regulations on the wood products industry, and Mike Freeman, of Forshaw Chemicals, will speak about new laws pertaining to the industry, Christensen said.

Other topics to be included in the first day's program include: yard design to minimize groundwater contamination; safe handling of surface treatment antimicrobials; and using creosote safely.

Participants will be able to gain wood preservation certification training with a three-hour session that evening, Christensen said.

The second day's program includes information about using various wood preservatives; drying wood; disposal of wood treatment solutions and sludge, and using personal protective equipment when preserving wood.

More information about the workshop can be obtained from county extension agents for agriculture, Christensen said.

School money state's most pressing need, but who will pay?

John Ed Pearce

By John Ed Pearce
 (for the Shakertown Roundtable)

The Kentucky legislature is facing its usual problem of finding the money with which to run the state, but the problem is worse this year than usual. The need for more money is critical. The prospects for getting it are dim. This was the conclusion of a recent Shakertown Roundtable conference on the status of Kentucky.

The most pressing need is for more school money. Kentucky schools are 47th among the 50 states, and threatening to get worse. But the state is already facing a $450 million shortfall in expected revenues, and has been forced to cut spending programs, including the Education Improvement Program passed by the legislature in 1985 and partially funded in 1986.

Shakertown Roundtable

Governor Wallace Wilkinson has not said that he will support the program, and has his own program, based on financial rewards to schools and teachers who excel. And he has also said repeatedly that he will veto any new or increased taxes, that would make these programs possible, until Kentuckians are making more money.

Instead, he proposes a state lottery. But a lottery cannot begin yielding returns until 1989, and then is expected to return only about $60-$70 million a year, whereas schools will need an additional $400 - $450 million.

What is the financial situation? For 1988 the state has appropriated $3,216.8 billion, and expects to receive $3,076.8 billion ($953 million from sales taxes, $970 million from income taxes, $319.6 million from corporate income taxes, $191.6 million from coal severance taxes, $272.2 million from property taxes, and $370.4 million from all others). The 1988 budget also includes $1.8 billion in federal funds; $1.2 billion of this is for human services programs such as Medicaid, social services and employment programs.

This does not include the Road Fund, which is kept separate. This year the Road Fund will take in about $640.2 million from road taxes ($308.7 million from motor fuels, $179.2 million from vehicle usage, $21.1 million from passenger registration, and $131.2 million from all other sources).

Education takes the biggest bite of the $3,076.8 million General Fund; 48.1 per cent goes to elementary and secondary education, 16.4 per cent to higher education. Human Resources gets 16 per cent, and all other departments and agencies 19.5 per cent. That means that education takes about $2 billion of the General Fund.

If increases in education and welfare are voted, where will the money come from? The most common suggestion is to make state tax laws conform with the federal tax code. This would increase state income by $69 million in 1987/88, $91 million in 1988/89, and $111 million in 1989/90, reducing the predicted shortfall by about 64 per cent. A 1 per cent increase in the sales tax would yield about $200 million a year. Applying the sales tax to food and utilities might yield as much as $165 million.

Any of these will, of course, be hard to pass. Governor Wilkinson has said that he will oppose making state taxes conform to the federal code because he believes it would have a bad effect on business. Several business groups and chambers of commerce, however, have said they favor conforming as the easiest and best way to get more school money.

Both labor and social-welfare groups have previously opposed increasing the sales tax or re-imposing the tax on food and utilities, saying that such taxes rest most heavily on the poor. However, many poor people get help on such things as rent, food stamps and school lunches. If utilities were excluded, an increased sales tax would effect them little except in the matter of clothes.

The most direct way to bring help to the schools would be repeal of House Bill 44, which now limits the amount of increase in property taxes that school districts can make to raise more school money. Local school support depends heavily on property taxes, and Kentucky's property taxes are among the lowest in the country. HB 44, however, has become a political sacred cow, and legislators are afraid to tackle it.

Any of these tax raises would require not only courage on the part of the legislators but strong support from their people back home, and it is a matter of record that many of the poorest districts, and many of those making the poorest effort in property taxes, fight hardest against tax increases.

It becomes a matter of leadership. If the governor, the legislators or the people want better school and other state service, they will have to be willing to fight for higher taxes in some form. The governor's anti-tax position is obviously going to make the job harder.

Second of a series on the "State of the state" conference sponsored by the Shakertown Roundtable at Pleasant Hill, Mercer County, Nov. 8-9, 1987, Wilson W. Wyatt, conference chairman, Earl D. Wallace, Lexington, is chairman of the Roundtable, a non-profit, non-partisan study group. Al Smith is vice chairman.

THE PILL'S BENEFITS
 The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has recently completed a large study which credits birth control pills with an anti-cancer effect. The study was conducted by the Centers of Disease Control. The study showed that the Pill reduced the risk of ovarian cancer by forty percent, and cut the risk of endometrial (uterine lining) cancer in half. Researchers are not exactly sure why the pill produces these beneficial effects. What they are sure of is that women who take the Pill for only three to six months may gain its anti-ovarian cancer benefit. Taking the Pill for a year inhibits endometrial cancer. What is more, women who have been off the Pill for fifteen years still exhibit the anti-cancer effect.

PLANNED HEALTH CARE

COPYRIGHT 1987 KVMA
 Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association
 Health insurance and health insurance plans came in for some publicity toward the end of the year, most of it brought about by the cancellation of a state insurance contract.

In all of the consequent publicity about insurance, however, there wasn't a word about the increasing number of planned health programs for animals being offered by Kentucky veterinarians and how well they are working.

Veterinarians for several years now have been customizing preventive programs and routine maintenance programs for livestock farmers, designed to meet the farmer's individual needs.

That these total herd health programs are still in existence indicates that the farmers have found them a good investment. They are based on the idea that preventive measures are more economically efficient than is treating animals once they become ill (and some maladies which can be prevented cannot be cured) and that the veterinarian can offer more efficient fees when his services are planned. Farmers also report that animals raised for feeding purposes bring better prices when included in a health care program.

Small animal practitioners are also showing an interest in preventive medicine. A routine treatment plan by which vaccinations are given on a regular bases and in which disease are caught in an early stage when they cannot be prevented is far more economically efficient as well as more successful than a series of emergency veterinary visits.

Most Kentucky veterinarians, whether they specialize in small animals, food animals or horses, can and will devise a customized health care plan for the needs of your animals.

Your veterinarian can give you specific facts and figures concerning an efficient health maintenance plan for your animals, including how much money you will likely save or how much more your food animals will bring at the market. Your veterinarian is also informed about various insurance plans.

To find out more about health maintenance programs might be the best New Year's resolution you ever made for your animals, and one of the best for your pocketbook.

BOOKS AND THINGS

By: TRISHA MORRIS, Librarian, Prestonsburg Community College. Kentuckians have always existed within concentric worlds bound together by jagged geographical and cultural boundaries.

The Kentucky Thoroughbred By: Ken Hollingsworth. A chronical of a few good horses, the people who raised them and the state that nurtured that raising.

Famous American Horses By: Frederick Devereus. This is the story of 21 steeplechasers, trotters, cowponies, hunters, flat racers, show horses and battle mounts that have made history.

The Arabian Horse in America By: George Conn. The history of the Arabian breed of horse is a long and interesting tale. The Greeks found it in Asia Minor, brought it back with them to Europe and made a god of it in the form of Pegasus.

This book traces the relationship of the Arabian breed to the development of several other breeds of light horses in this country—it is the breed that supplies the foundation stock for thoroughbreds, Morgans and saddlebreds.

The American Quarter Horse By: Margaret Self. A lavishly illustrated book, it tells not only the history of the quarter horse but gives a detailed rendition of its present uses.

The quarter horse was developed by the colonists who adapted racing to their land without race tracks by clearing two parallel paths through the forest and racing their horses a measured quarter mile.

Oklahoma Seeks Help With EVA Outbreak

The possible outbreak of equine viral arteritis in Oklahoma led state veterinarian Dr. Robert L. Hartin to contact his Kentucky counterpart, Dr. Don Notter.

He called Dr. Notter to find out how Kentucky has handled the disease. EVA was a problem for the Kentucky horse industry in the early summer months of 1984.

The State Board of Agriculture took action at that time to close thoroughbred breeding operations and stop movement of breeding stock from farm to farm.

EVA is a virus which affects all breeds of horses. Symptoms include abortions in pregnant mares and clinical signs of swelling in the legs, hives along the neck and a nasal discharge.

The disease is an economic threat to any state, especially Kentucky where the horse industry contributes more than $500 million to the Commonwealth's economy each year, Dr. Notter said.

With thoroughbred breeding season opening on Feb. 15 in the Commonwealth, Dr. Notter said it is important that Kentucky breeders be aware of the situation in Oklahoma.

Burn Awareness Week Being Observed Now

February 7-14 has been designated national Burn Awareness Week. The problem of burns is as severe in Kentucky as on the national scene.

Sharon Rengers, burn prevention educator at Kosair Children's Hospital, says, "Burn injuries are a common 'disease' seen at the hospital.

Keep babies out of cooking areas—either by using a play-pen, taking the wheels off walkers, or just keeping children in a safe area.

A report about children seen at the hospital's burn unit in 1987 show that a total of 93 patients were admitted. In addition to the children treated for scalds, 23 were treated for flame burns.

Renger's who was a nurse in the hospital's burn unit for 13 years, currently teaches burn prevention to school classes, groups, and civic organizations.

$469,000 Budget Proposed For Statewide Hay Grading

In what could be a major development for Kentucky farmers, Gov. Wallace Wilkinson has budgeted funds providing the groundwork for developing hay production as a major cash enterprise in the state.

The biennial budget targets $469,000 to the Agriculture Department for the implementation of a state-wide alfalfa hay grading system.

Burnette, a long leading proponent of expanding markets for the Kentucky hay, described the budget allocation as "a clear signal that this administration is intent on bolstering the farm economy."

"Horse farms in Kentucky, as well as dairy farmers throughout the South, have indicated they would buy our alfalfa if they could be assured of its content," Burnette said.

"When you reach a point where you can guarantee a prospective customer the quality desired, you've placed yourself in a strong, competitive marketing situation.

The grading system and a corresponding educational program to advise farmers of proper production practices are the vital steps needed to enhance the state's capacity to sell the high-quality hay required by horse and dairy farms.

The executive budget earmarks $240,000 for equipment and $229,000 for operating costs over the 1989 and 1990 fiscal years.

Kentucky farmers raise some $70 million worth of alfalfa a year, but nearly all of that is used to feed their own livestock.

To Chair Bike-a-Thons For Garrett, Ligon and Martin

The Central Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has announced that the following individuals in Floyd county have agreed to chair the 1988 Bike-A-Thons in their community. Mrs. Sharon Gibson for Garrett, Mrs. Cheryl Hall for Ligon and Mrs. Thomasine Robinson for Martin will each chair separate Bike-a-Thons this year. St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and provides medical care to over 42,000 patients.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side by side seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of these terrible killers.

All findings and information gained at the hospital are shared freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world. Thanks to St. Jude Hospital, children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle-cell anemia, and other child killing diseases now have a better chance to live.

The Bike-a-Thon program is dedicated to Brian McCollister. Brian, a native of Louisiana, was diagnosed with leukemia in October, 1984. Since that time, Brian has come to St. Jude every six weeks for treatment, and every 12 weeks for a bone marrow test and spinal tap to make sure his cancer stays in remission. While at home, Brian receives oral medication daily. Brian is a living example of the progress and success of the research, patient care and educational programs of this internationally recognized hospital.

The concern which these chairmen have for the work being done at St. Jude Hospital is greatly appreciated. We also feel assured that the citizens in their communities will support the upcoming events as generously as possible.

For more information, contact Mrs. Sharon Gibson (Garrett chairman) phone #358-9495; Mrs. Cheryl Hall (McDowell chairman) phone #377-6398 or Mrs. Thomasine Robinson (Martin chairman) phone #285-3956.

10-Year Plan Needed By CRP Participants

Most people don't really plan now for 10 years later, but that's exactly what farmers who participate in the Conservation Reserve Program ought to be doing.

Under the CRP program, farmers receive about $60 per acre per year to set certain highly erodible lands aside for 10 years as an erosion control measure.

Farmers will be signing up for this program during February, and many may not know just what they are committing themselves for.

According to David Ditsch, Extension soil scientist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, farmers may not use the set aside land for any purpose which would provide a financial gain. For example, there can be no grazing nor mowing the grass for hay. The cover crop planted for erosion control must remain on the field. (One exception to the no profit rule is that farmers may charge a fee for hunters to hunt the land.)

The danger is that farmers will take their CRP payments and then just forget about the land for ten years. If that happens, the farmer may find ten years down the road that his set-aside land is just a weed patch. A little planning now could pay big dividends then.

What a farmer might do is consider using the set-aside land as a site for animal waste disposal. That is one of the few things not prohibited by the government program, and it would enhance the soil's fertility, he said.

"If you plan to return the land to row crops after the ten-year period," he said, "you should select the legumes desired for renovation with the idea of asking if that legume will last ten years. Not all of them will. And you need to plan on controlling the weeds, whether chemically, or by mowing or through adequate legume establishment."

Ditsch added, "You should plan to re-soil test during the ninth year of the CRP contract, and begin to improve the soil fertility with needed nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium."

Finally, the farmer needs to realize that the land is being put in the CRP program now because it is highly erodible, and it still will be highly erodible in ten years. So, if he wants to put the land back in crop production, he should plan on using no-till or reduced-till methods.

Fruitful Winter Salads

(From the American Institute for Cancer Research)

Fruit salads are a high-fiber, lowfat delight at any meal—and at any time of year. You don't have to wait for the summer season to enjoy nutritious, refreshing fresh fruit combinations. Brighten your breakfast on a cold winter morning with a citrus fruit cup; lunch on a salad of cottage cheese mixed with diced apples, oranges and raisins; serve a crunchy waldorf salad for dinner; or a fancy cranberry/banana gelatin mold for dessert.

Though winter doesn't provide the range of fresh fruits available in other seasons, you can still find quite a variety of flavorful, nutritious, low-cost, in-season and year-round fruits, even in February and March: apples, bananas, kiwi, grapefruit, oranges, tangerines, and pears. In many produce sections, pineapple and Florida strawberries will also be making their appearance about now.

With any salad, the fat content of the dressing is an important nutritional factor. Avoid adding mayonnaise or sour cream-based dressings. And, don't top fresh fruit with whipped cream. Instead, try a splash of lime juice. Or try a dressing made of 1/4 cup plain lowfat yogurt, 4 tsp. honey, 1 tsp. lemon juice, 1/2 tsp. celery seed and 1/4 tsp. paprika. Just mix all ingredients thoroughly and chill.

This sweet fruit salad can add color to your meal as a side dish or as a dessert. It's also great for a snack or for breakfast.

ORANGE APPLE SALAD
2 oranges, peeled, cut in bite-sized pieces
1 red apple, unpeeled, cut in bite-size pieces
1/2 cup sliced celery
1/4 cup raisins
1-2 tsp. brown sugar
Juice of 1/2 fresh lemon (1-1 1/2 tsp.)
In bowl, combine all ingredients. Chill. This recipe yields about 3 cups (4 servings) each with 100-115 calories and 0 grams of fat.

In the following simple salad, the sweetness of raisins balances the tartness of yogurt and citrus. The carrots provide lots of beta-carotene (a form of vitamin A) and the oranges add vitamin

C—both seem to be helpful in lowering cancer risk.

VERY ORANGE SALAD
2 cups carrots, shredded
1 orange, peeled and chopped
1/4 cup orange juice
2 tbsp. plain lowfat yogurt
2 tbsp. raisins
Dash freshly grated nutmeg
Spinach or lettuce leaves

Combine the carrots and orange sections. Mix the orange juice and yogurt; pour over the carrot and orange combination. Add the raisins. Sprinkle with nutmeg and toss to combine. Chill and serve on spinach or lettuce leaves.

This recipe yields 4 servings (1/2 to 3/4 cup each) with 72 calories and less than 1 gram of fat per serving.

Frontline Explores Air Traffic Dilemma

Every day, the odds of a mid-air collision increase over Atlanta's Hartsdale Field, as the world's busiest airport keeps getting busier.

"Your Flight is Cancelled," a "Frontline" documentary, airs Friday, February 19, at 8 p.m. on KET.

"Frontline" takes viewers inside Atlanta's control center and behind the ticket counters to examine how our nation's busiest airport is coping with the airline mess. While pilots struggle to fly safely in the crowded skies over Atlanta, controllers on the ground are faced with many split second decisions that may mean life or death for hundreds of passengers.

Since deregulation, America's airline industry has become a nightmare of delays, cancellations and near misses. "Frontline" gives us insight into solutions to eliminate the airline mess.

"Frontline" is produced by a consortium of public television stations: KCTS/Seattle; WGBH/Boston; WNET/New York; WPBT/Miami; and WTWS/Detroit.

RE-ELECT STATE SENATOR BENNY RAY BAILEY

Over the past few weeks, Senator Bailey's campaign has attempted to contact every single registered Democratic voter in Senatorial District 29. Over 6000 registered Democrats in the District have committed themselves to Senator Bailey's re-election.

In the picture above, Senator Bailey and his wife, Nikki, are shown presenting the names, addresses, and phone numbers of more than 6,000 people, who agreed to have their names submitted on his re-election candidate petition, to Charollete Mullins of the State Board of Elections. According to Ms. Mullins, this is the largest amount of signors to a candidate petition for the Kentucky legislature in the history of the state.

During the current legislative session, there have been, and will continue to be, proposals made by different legislators and the governor that will affect every single aspect of the lives of people here in East Kentucky. Senator Bailey encourages every citizen to keep up with the deliberations of the Legislature through newspaper reports, T.V. coverage and through the KET broadcasts each evening. Listen to the issues being discussed and let Senator Bailey know of your ideas and concerns either by writing to him at 3rd Floor, Captial Annex, Frankfort, KY 40601, or calling the legislative toll free message line, 1-800-372-7181.

"The more people we get involved in the legislative process, the better state government we will receive," Benny Ray believes. "I'll do the best I can to see that our area is represented and treated fairly. I do need your assistance and your input."

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG:

SECTION 1: Definitions.

For the purpose of this Ordinance the following words and phrases shall have meanings as described to them in this section:

(e) Central Dispatch Office: The communication center of the Prestonsburg Police and Fire Department operated under the jurisdiction of the Chief of Police.

(f) Central station alarm system: An alarm system in which the operation of electrical protection circuits and devices are signaled automatically, to be recorded in, and maintained and supervised from a central station other than the Prestonsburg Police Department.

(g) "False Alarm." The activation of an alarm system through mechanical failure, malfunction, improper installation, without an unlawful entry or attempted unlawful entry, or through the negligence of the owner's or lessee of an alarm system or of his employees or agents or other cause. False alarm shall not include alarms caused by electrical interruptions, floods or other natural disasters.

SECTION 2: Fee charged for false alarms. Any person, firm or corporation having an alarm system as defined in section 1 shall be charged a fee of ten dollars ($10.00) for the sixth false alarm call responded to by the police department or fire department within a calendar year and twenty-five dollars ($25.00) for each false alarm thereafter. If the possessor of the alarm shows to the satisfaction of the police chief that the false alarm was not the result of negligence or improper maintenance, such fee may be waived. Any fine levied under this section may be appealed to the City Council.

SECTION 3: Interference with police or fire department telephone trunk line prohibited. No person, firm or corporation shall use or cause to be used any telephone or electronic device or attachment that automatically selects a public primary telephone trunk line of the central dispatch office, police department, fire department, or any other department or bureau of the city, and then reproduces any prerecorded message to report any burglary or other emergency.

SECTION 5: Connection to central dispatch office alarm permit required. No person, firm or corporation shall cause to be connected to the central dispatch office a private alarm system unless such person, firm or corporation is issued an annual alarm permit by the chief of police.

Those persons, firms or corporations presently having alarm systems which are prohibited in this chapter shall be permitted to maintain the connection until June 30, 1988, after which date failure to disconnect from any department or departments of the city will be deemed a violation of this chapter.

SECTION 9: Revocation. The city council may revoke the permit of any permittee failing to pay any fee or charge required in this article, and for repeated false alarms caused by wilful acts or by negligence or improper maintenance of equipment, for failure to repair or replace equipment when notified by the police department that such repair or replacement is required to meet the standards set out in this code or for failure to keep a hold harmless agreement in effect as required.

SECTION 10: Exemptions. Public schools and places of worship shall be exempt from the provisions of Section 6 (1), the payment of an annual permit fee.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR

JAMES E. VANHOSE, M.D.

HUSBAND'S HEADACHE

QUESTION: In recent years, my husband has been complaining of headaches fairly regularly. All he does is take a couple of aspirins and go to bed. He refuses to see a doctor. Could this be something serious?

ANSWER: Let me begin by saying that the overwhelming majority of headaches do not indicate a serious underlying disease. Even ones that recur frequently most often turn out to be "non-specific", meaning that there is no verifiable cause. However, your husband should definitely be checked if: 1, his headaches are accompanied by dizziness, blurred vision, numbness, mental confusion; 2, if his headaches occur in one specific area, such as the ear or eye; 3, if accompanied by fever and neck stiffness; and 4, if they increase in frequency or intensity.

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: I am very conscious of my diet and I always try to eat foods which are good for me. I often eat nuts and grains since these foods are a good source of fiber. A friend of mine recently told me that these foods can sometimes contain naturally occurring poisons. What are these poisons? Can they cause cancer? Are they any precaution I can take to reduce my exposure to these poisons?

ANSWER: The poisons that are linked with nuts, grains, and seeds are called aflatoxins. These occur naturally and are produced by certain molds, which can occasionally grow during the harvesting, shipment, or storage of these foods.

Studies that have been done with animals show that aflatoxins may cause liver cancer. What these animal studies mean for humans is not certain. Researchers are continuing to study humans to see if there may be any link between aflatoxins and cancer of the stomach, liver, or kidney.

Aflatoxins are most commonly believed to be a problem in Africa and some parts of Asia. In this country, however, commercially sold nuts, grains, seeds, and food products which contain them, are tested for safety and quality by the FDA (Food and Drug Administration) and by industry in an effort to limit exposure to aflatoxins. You can further reduce your exposure to these molds by keeping nuts, grains, and seeds, in dry sealed containers. If these foods become moldy, they should be thrown away.

For more information about aflatoxins and a free booklet called Diet, Nutrition and Cancer Prevention, call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER or write to the CIS at the Markey Cancer Center, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. The CIS is a service of the Kentucky Community Cancer Program.
