WORK IS NOW UNDER WAY to extinguish this slag pile which has been burning on Stone Coal Creek near Garrett since last fall's forest fires raged. Noxious fumes from the smoldering fire have kept some residents housebound much of the time.

Stormy Fiscal Court Session Hears Sheriff Threaten Suit

By Tim Sizemore

"I am definitely suing the Fiscal Court Monday and the courts will then decide the issue," were the defiant words of Sheriff Henry C. Hale at Friday's fiscal court meeting after court members refused to consider his request for aid in paying social security and Blue Cross and Blue Shield health insurance for his personnel.

"I am going to ask you once more to pay my S.S.I. and health insurance, or I intend to bring suit," Hale said and added that he would not get a Floyd county attorney.

County Judge Executive John M. Stumbo requested three times that Hale submit a breakdown of his budget to the court, but Hale said that the court has already been supplied with the information through his yearly audit.

Hale blamed his financial woes on poor payment of taxes, and said that he was trying to survive on fees, warrants and summons monies.

Judge Stumbo explained that the money was just not available to pay the benefits, adding that fiscal court is not required by law to pay the expenses since Hale's office is a fee office. But Hale was adamant, contending that his officers and staff are county employees and deserve the same benefits as other employees of the county. The sheriff pointed out that his men have much more responsibility now than they did during his first term as sheriff. "Look at our log books, we are out 24 hours a day. I have to transport prisoners to hospitals and deal with child welfare. Anymore, the Sheriff's department plays the role of babysitter, and it's become an around-the-clock business," he said.

Judge Stumbo countered Hale's argument by saying that the sheriff had failed to present a breakdown of his budget which he said is due January 1. "We want to know what money he takes in and how it's spent," he said.

Magistrate Eddie Caudill of District 3 and Eral Tackett of District 4 concurred with the judge's opinion and said that they would have to see a breakdown of figures before they could vote on the question. Caudill said that he sympathized with Hale and knew his job was difficult, but before he could help he had to see where the money was going.

Judge Stumbo also stated that since the fiscal court does not hire the sheriff's employees, it is up to Hale's department to pay the benefits, which the judge said would amount to $50,924.32. He also said that the fiscal court gave the sheriff's department $38,000 and paid the workmen's compensation for the sheriff's department.

District Two Magistrate Jackie Ed-ford Owens made a motion to help the sheriff, but the motion failed for lack of a second.

County Attorney David Barber, who represents the sheriff's department in civil rights actions and also represents the fiscal court said that it would be best if other attorneys represent the court and the sheriff, because he feels that it would be a conflict of interest for him to do so.

Moving on to other matters, Kirby Isom, of the Department of Transportation's Pikeville office, presented the court with its recommendations on how

Smouldering Stone Coal Slag Pile Gets Action from State Officials

By Joe Porter

Eminent danger priority No. 1. That's how the slate dump fire now burning up on Stonecoal Creek near Garrett, has been rated by state officials. Monday trees were cut and a gas line detoured as work began to put out the smoldering hillside fire.

Concerned residents are relieved but still cautious after months of wrangling with county, state, and federal officials over the seriousness of the problem and when it would be solved. "It's a wait and see game, but when I went up there to fight the fire every night I wondered how long we were going to have to play this game," said Cherrie Howard, a resident of Stone Coal, who has spearheaded the drive to get the government to act.

The slate, dumped there between 1913 and 1946 by Elkhorn Coal Corporation, caught fire in November of last year when forest fires scorched the mountains. And since then, residents have had to battle the fire with shovels and rakes and breathe the toxic smoke. "It gets so thick you can even taste it," said Bertha Hackworth, who lives just below the dump. Hackworth has a good reason to be alarmed; her husband has emphysema and the smoke poses a definite risk to his health. Other residents like retired miner Aaron Howard have black lung and are forced to stay inside their homes. The smoke is thickest when it's cold, or when it snows or rains and Hackworth describes the fumes as having, "an oily type of burning smell."

Dave Rosenbaum, state director for the Division of Abandoned Lands, said that Randall Blackburn, a contractor from Betsy Layne, has been hired to do the excavation work and that he expects it to be completed within 30 days. "They'll perform earth moving, excavation, and grading to establish drainage and vegetation in the area," Rosenbaum said. The project will be funded by the federal government, according to Rosenbaum, but agents from his department will oversee the contractor and make sure the work is done properly.

Yet it has been a long and frustrating fight for Howard to get the government to finally realize just how serious the problem is and then act. For months she had to ask herself, "What are we going to do if our houses catch on fire? What are we going to do if someone dies or the gas line blows up?" She spoke several times with state and federal inspectors

JOINT EFFORTS of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad and the Prestonsburg Fire Department were necessary to extricate John Hill, II, and Chris Haley from this auto after it plunged over an embankment across from the Ray Howard Furniture Barn at Briarwood, Friday night. Both youths were taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center, and after examination, Hill was taken to a Huntington hospital where he underwent surgery necessitated by a back injury. Haley was less seriously injured. Both are seniors at Prestonsburg High School.

Hill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hill, of the Abbott Road, and Haley is the son of Mrs. Wilma Haley, of Prestonsburg.

Yes, It's Flu, but Peak Of Epidemic May Be Past

By Janice Shepherd

The flu virus that has been plaguing other parts of the state recently reached the epidemic stage here, according to Dr. James D. Adams, who reports seeing 10 to 12 patients daily with flu-like symptoms.

Dr. Reginald Finger, communicable disease branch director with the Department of Health Services, identified the virus, Tuesday, as Influenza Type A from a specimen taken at Morehead. Dr. Finger stated, "The eastern region is just now getting hit by what the rest of the state has been suffering."

Dr. Mary A. Hall also voiced concern about the rise in flu victims. Dr. Hall, with Hall and Associates at McDowell, is averaging 10-15 patients daily. According to Dr. Hall, "Most of the patients we are seeing with the flu did not receive their flu vaccine last fall. About 500-600 patients were vaccinated in the fall, and none of those patients reported bad symptoms."

The virus begins with a scratchy sore throat, hoarseness and in some patients an earache, progresses to headache, generalized body ache, lethargy, a dry

Juvenile Arrested On Drug Possession

By Tim Sizemore

A juvenile was arrested by Sheriff's deputies Monday at Allen Central High School, after it was learned that the youth had marijuana in his possession.

Deputy Antony Castle said that the youth had the illegal weed hidden on his person and that it amounted to $25 street value.

Also arrested on the same day was Berline Jacobs, 51, of Eastern, for trafficking in and possessing marijuana. Deputy Castle said that an undisclosed amount of 'pot' was discovered in the accused man's trailer and he was lodged in the Floyd county jail.

Officers assisting in the arrests were Chief Deputy John K. Blackburn and Deputies George Hale, Antony Castle and Randy Johnson.

THIS FOREST FIRE, whipped by gusting winds, threatened to get out of control, Monday, on the Leonard Stephenson property on the Middle Creek Road. At one time, two trailers were seriously threatened by the blaze which forestry personnel were able to contain.

Joseph Resigns from City Job; Council Commended on Finances

By Joe Porter

The Prestonsburg City Council got a pat on the back at Monday night's meeting from auditor Jerry Hensley. "It's an overwhelming accomplishment for one fiscal year in my opinion," Hensley said, referring to the fact that the city has cut its deficit in the general fund from $219,854 to $46,757 for the 1986-87 year.

Hensley, who works for the firm, Allen England & Hensley, which did the city's annual audit, also urged the Council to create a holding company, as a legal arrangement to gain long range financial capability, consolidate its loans, and thus, shrink its debt service. The same idea was put before last year's council but was voted down, according to Councilman William O. Goebel, because of a lack of understanding of the concept. Goebel is hopeful that this year's council will see its benefits and quickly adopt the measure.

The Council passed an ordinance annexing a tract of land adjacent to the western limits of the city. The land, owned by Ed Music of Archer-Music Enterprises, was omitted from city records due to an oversight but will now be incorporated.

Mayor Ann R. Latta announced that next Monday evening at 7 p. m. the Safe Street Committee will meet at the Municipal Building to discuss traffic signs and other safety matters.

"The state will build a previously proposed boat ramp, and the city will maintain and assume responsibility for it," City Administrator Fred A. James, told the members. According to the plan, the ramp will be built on the bank of the river behind the Playhouse Restaurant, and the city parking lot will be used as a driveway. The council gave permission for the state to draw up a contract with the city, but before it is accepted by the Council, Mayor Latta said she would like to find out from the city's insurance company if it will mean increased premiums due to the additional liability.

The Council voted to establish a new committee system with five standing committees: Council Committee, Finance and Revenue, Building and Equipment, Administration and Personnel, and Economic Development. Goebel was named Dean of the Council Committee and will be joined on the committee by Paul E. Joseph and Danny H. Hamilton. The Council Committee will make all committee assignments.

Fire Chief Thomas A. Blackburn delivered the fire department's Statistical Report for January 1988. According to the report, 24 runs were made by the department including 10 Emergency Medical Service calls. "We're not experiencing the fire losses like our neighboring cities, so we're in pretty good shape," Blackburn said.

Mayor Latta announced that Ricky Conn has been hired as police recruit and Mike Meade has been hired as maintenance worker II. Superintendent of Public Works Leonard "Lightning" Joseph has been asked to resign, and his resignation is effective February 23.

Sloane Pushes State Jails As Judge-Executives Meet

The Kentucky County Judge-Executive Association's new president, Harvey Sloane, met at the Holiday Inn, here, Friday, with other judge-executives of the Big Sandy ADD region urging them to support legislation allowing the state to take over the control of jails—county as well as regional.

The idea met with no dissension from the seven judge-executives present, although Johnson County Judge Wayne Blevins was not among them and could not be reached for comment. Jailer Thurman Tackett, who is in charge of the former Big Sandy Regional Jail at Paintsville, was reported to have said he was "dead against it."

The Court of Appeals ruling last week which abolished the troubled regional jail and placed it in control of Johnson county was a sore point with both Judge John Callahan, of Martin county, and Judge Paul H. Salyer, of Magoffin. Salyer expressed the view that the state should long ago have taken over control of jails. Lawrence, the fourth county planned to share the Big Sandy Regional Jail, had petitioned to get out of the agreement almost a year ago and apparently doesn't care who controls it.

On the surface, Sloane's plan was considered to have merit in that it would relieve counties of the financial burden of funding jails to meet state standards. Sloane's aide, Joe Schweinhart, said the state would be liable for all jail operations as well as assuming responsibility for insurance and other expenses.

The plan favored by the group was in-

"Super" Birthday Observance To Stress Foster Parent Need

Kentucky's foster child program and D.C. Comics, Inc. are sponsoring a weeklong "super" birthday celebration across the state as part of a continuing campaign to attract direly needed foster parents.

Meetings, public displays and actual parties for foster children will mark the 50th anniversary of the "birth" of the D.C. Comics character "Superman" and the midway point of the Cabinet for Human Resources year-long "Superman Had Foster Parents" recruitment campaign.

Human Resources Secretary Harry J. Cowherd, M.D., said state foster care workers will use Feb. 29 as a day of intensely seeking greater public awareness of and response to the plight of Kentucky's foster children.

"Even if we were to find one new foster home in every one of Kentucky's 120 counties, we would still have a tremendous need unmet," Cowherd said. "That's how vital this recruitment campaign is."

During the week of Feb. 29-March 4, the cabinet's Department for Social Services has planned local and area events ranging from informational sessions for prospective foster parents to booths in shopping malls to newspaper and broadcast public service announcements.

Rev. Buddy Bell is an exciting minister with a unique and dynamic call of God on his life. He's known first as a servant in the ministry of helps. After graduating from Bible school he began serving at Faith Christian Fellowship International Church doing whatever his hand found to do. From there he began traveling, teaching and helping church staff and congregations prepare for the move of the Spirit. Buddy has personally taken this message to churches and Bible schools across the USA and Canada. His videos, cassettes and books have gone around the world. His enthusiasm and humor have brought life and joy to this misunderstood area of ministry. Buddy's message is designed to awaken people to the power and plan of the Holy Spirit in accomplishing the work of the ministry with greater success. It is for all those who would like to be a help to the Church but need some enlightenment, definition and encouragement on the subject. Buddy's zeal in presenting the Ministry of Helps will motivate and aid in helping people find their place in the Body of Christ. His two books entitled "Ministry of Helps Study Course and Faithfulness - The Crowbar of God" are being used by churches and ministers all over the world.

To Oppose Perkins

Former Pike Circuit Judge William T. Scott, Friday, announced he is a candidate for Congress from Kentucky's Seventh District. Scott said his first hurdle would be the Republican primary, May 24.

Scott resigned his post as circuit judge in order to oppose incumbent Chris Perkins for the congressional seat.

Scott said his campaign theme would be, "Winning respect for Kentucky."

"The people of the Seventh District of the great state of Kentucky want a change," he said. "Whether I am a Democrat or Republican should not be an issue. When I returned from Viet Nam in 1969 I registered as a Republican—we're all miners, storekeepers, housewives, servicemen, salespeople—what it says on one document doesn't change us."

"I know the problems of Eastern Kentucky, because I was born and raised here and except for war and getting my law degree, I've always lived here," Scott said that if elected, he would fight to keep Social Security and watch over black lung compensation programs.

Scott, 40, was elected circuit judge in 1983. From 1981-82 he served as assistant commonwealth's attorney for Pike county.

In 1966-69 Scott served in Viet Nam as a paratrooper with the 82nd Airborne Division. He was awarded the Bronze Star, Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry and Combat Infantryman's Badge.

Scott is a graduate of Pikeville College and of the University of Miami, Fla., law school.

Here's An Idea Promising More Efficient Irrigation

A "mechanical root" may hold promise as a means to help farmers efficiently irrigate their fields.

The mechanical root is something scientists call a tensiometer, said Richard Warner, Extension agricultural engineer with the University of Kentucky.

"A tensiometer is a device that indicates moisture tension in the soil, he said. "Although it does not actually measure the amount of water in the soil, it does measure the relative ease of the water movement to the plant root."

Warner said when the soil is dry, moisture tension increases and the water movement to the plant is restricted. He added that water tension measured by the tensiometer is directly related to the moisture available to the plant.

"In a way we consider the tensiometer a mechanical root because it responds much like a crop's root does to water stress," Warner said.

He said a vacuum gauge on the tensiometer shows a low reading when the soil is wet and a high reading when the soil is dry. The important factor is to learn how to read the gauge for the specific soil used.

By learning to use a tensiometer a farmer can learn when water is needed and can avoid wilting and stress in crops that can inhibit an overall yield.

Warner said the best place for the tensiometer is a representative location deep enough to read the moisture level where the root of the crop is located.

He said the tensiometer costs about $45 and an additional $45 to install it.

Marshall U. Offers Medical Videotapes

The Marshall University School of Medicine is offering a new videotape series designed to help doctors, athletic trainers, and coaches prevent or treat sports injuries.

The videotapes are loaned free to interested persons as part of the school's Home Video CME Program.

"The program was originally created for rural physicians who find it difficult to leave their practices as much as they would like to participate in continuing medical education events, although the sports medicine tapes certainly can be useful to people involved in school athletic programs as well," said Dr. Ernest Chick, director of continuing medical education.

The new tapes are the second set produced for the program, which has been used by physicians throughout the state. The tapes are made during actual continuing medical education events such as conferences and special lectures.

New entries in the sports medicine series and the family medicine series are:

- * "Ankle Rehabilitation and Ankle Taping"
- * "Knee Examination and Knee Bracing"
- * "The Coach's Perspective on Knee Injuries and the Official's Role in Knee Injury Prevention"
- * "Arthroscopy"
- * "Sports Medicine: Then and Now"
- * "Socio-Economic Issues Facing Family Medicine"
- * "The Seven Stages of Woman."

Earlier tapes are still available:

- * "Parasites of West Virginia and the Eastern U.S."
- * "Snake and Insect Bites in West Virginia."
- * "Language and Culture in Appalachia," and "Pacemakers."

$274,944 of road maintenance money could be spent in Floyd county. Isom said that he was there to listen to recommendations of the court and to make his department's recommendations. He said that his agency considered the following as top priority roads—Branham's Creek, Stevens Branch, Bucks Branch, Jacks Creek, Stumbo Trail and the Arkansas Creek road. Magistrate Owens asked Isom if the money was divided up by districts, to which he replied no. Magistrates Tackett, Owens, and Caudill had recommendations as to needed road repairs in their districts with Owens pointing out that the Turkey Creek road was in bad need of repair, and adding that the state had neglected his district because he said "they had not done enough crying". Eddie Caudill requested wire baskets to shore up broken shoulders on Fraziers Creek, and Ermal Tackett asked the state to look into the condition of the bridge at Branham's Creek. Isom said that the magistrates' recommendations would be taken into consideration and that the bridge at Branham's Creek may be repaired by emergency grant money which would not take away from the road maintenance money. Bill Arms, Bear Hollow resident, asked if any work would be done on his road. He said that a few years ago the state fixed the road but since that time it had once again become a mud hole. Isom promised to look into the matter and see if anything could be done.

At this time, Brent Allen, who came to the fiscal court meeting to voice his opposition to the proposed Minnie-Garrett road, took the opportunity to question Isom about the new thoroughfare. Saying that the people of Floyd county do not want to spend their money on a useless road, Allen asked Isom if a needs assessment had been done on the road. To this, Isom told Allen that he would have to contact Frankfort, that he had nothing more to say on the matter. Although Allen attempted to question Isom further, the transportation official simply said goodbye to the court and left. Judge Stumbo told Allen that he was out of order because the proposed road was a state project and was no concern of the fiscal court.

Another complaint aired by Allen concerned the county road that runs by his Gosling Fork home in District Two. He said that one of Magistrate Owen's grader operators threw dirt up on his fence while working on the road. Owens countered that he had sent his men up to Allen's place twice with hoes and shovels to clean up the problem. Allen then inquired as to who was responsible for damages done by a county road crew, with County Attorney David Barber answering that the county was. Allen also asked why his road had not been graveled this year, to which Owens replied that he did not gravel or red dog a road every single year but had worked on it last year.

Jailer Lawrence Hale then requested of the court that his employees be given a 4.4% raise which he said was due them in 1987. Judge Stumbo said that the money for the raises was not mandatory but was predicated on the assumption that funds were available in the county coffers. County Attorney David Barber advised the court that money for the raises would have to come out of the road fund which at election time could prove embarrassing. The magistrates, however, agreed to the requested raise. Two residents of the Martin area came to the meeting to ask that the Guaranty road which they now say is blocked by a trailer, be reopened. Phillip Dingus and George E. Barnett asked what steps would have to be taken to reopen the road. County Attorney David Barber replied that he could write a letter to the trailer owners and if there was no response the court could take legal action.

Following this, Ronald Ray Prater, Brush Creek resident, complained to the court about a road on Prater Fork adjoining property belonging to Magistrate Jackie Edford Owens that had been taken into the county road system. Prater said to his knowledge no one was asked about adding the road to the county system and blamed Owens; Judge Stumbo, coming to Owens' defense, told Prater that the road had been added before Owens' tenure of office began. Judge Stumbo put the argument to rest and referred Prater to the civil courts.

Among other business transacted by the court were bids accepted for mowing equipment, paying a match grant on three vans for senior citizens, and the drawdown request on the Mud Creek Water District. These items concluded a stormy session of the court which will convene next on March 17.

and made numerous telephone calls to different government agencies. Finally, she spoke to State Representative Greg Stumbo, and he played a major role as a shaker. "He was the initial pusher," Howard said. "He went right to work. The same day he spoke to Willard Stanley. Then, I also got a letter from Chris Perkins' office, saying 'I have acted upon your complaint.'"

What has angered Howard and the other residents is the lack of county government help in the matter. "The county has never done anything about the problem," Howard said. "What kind of problem do you have to have before they help you?"

cough and a high fever. Although hospital admittance has increased, Our Lady of the Way Hospital reports that 30 percent of their admittance for February was flu related, and emergency rooms are filled.

In the school system, county grade schools seem to be hardest hit, and age proves no barrier with teachers as well as students stricken. Clark Elementary recorded six teachers absent as well as 120 students absent, Monday. Prestonsburg Grade School had five teachers and approximately 200 students absent. According to Prestonsburg Principal Thomas Tackett, classes are being doubled, particularly in the Junior High area, due to a shortage of substitute teachers. This is a problem constantly recurring throughout the county.

At Betsy Layne Elementary 74 students and three teachers were absent, Monday. McDowell Elementary showed 59 students absent, Tuesday, and Harold, 31.

High schools appear to be faring better with lower absenteeism recorded. Allen Central reported two teachers and 70 students absent; Betsy Layne, 88 students and two teachers out; McDowell, which has the highest attendance record in the county, had 32 absent. Statistics were unavailable at Prestonsburg High School.

For those individuals steering clear of viral victims, a ray of hope gleams. An employee of the Highlands Regional Medical Center's emergency room indicated yesterday (Tuesday) that the number of flu patients appear to be fewer this week.

roduced last week in the legislature as House Bill 692, and while Sloane said he knew of no judge-executive who opposed it, the Kentucky Jailers Association, according to some of its members, is opposed to what they term "the judges' bill."

The Friday meeting of judge-executives was the second of six regional legislative briefings which Sloane, who is judge-executive of Jefferson county, will conduct.

Floyd Native Works To Help Abused Children

She's doing what many recognize as an "impossible, frustrating, and heart-breaking" job, and Sharon Allen Whitfield's parents, Hollie and Maxine Allen, of Garrett, are proud of her.

Apparently, others share their feeling for Mrs. Whitfield was the recent subject of a feature story in the Tuscaloosa (Fla.) News.

Mrs. Whitfield is a child protective service worker with the Tuscaloosa County Department of Human Resources, and hers is the job of investigating cases of neglect or abuse—sexual, physical, or emotional—of children. Speaking of the frustrations of the job, she said, "We know we can 'fix it.' It's not like a blackboard where you can wipe it off... You can't wipe out what has already gone on, but we can help (the children) in getting them counseling to come to terms with what has happened."

Adding to the job's frustrations, she said, is the fact that while the number of cases are growing, the number of workers are dwindling.

Her youngest case involved a one-month-old child and her oldest case was that of a 15-year-old.

Mrs. Whitfield came to Tuscaloosa with her husband 17 years ago. Before going to the University of Alabama where she received her master's degree in social work, she worked with the Aid to Dependent Children division of the Department of Human Resources. She has been a child protective service worker for the past four years, and she explains that she and other workers keep going, because "deep down you know you are giving the children some kind of chance."

Bits and Pieces

The best thing to be said for February is that it's almost over. Otherwise, it's a pretty forlorn month even in a leap year.

The following, sent by a friend who isn't really old enough to appreciate it, may strike a nerve here and there among our readers.

I HAVE NOTICED

Everything is farther away than it used to be. It is even twice as far to the corner and they have added a hill.

I have given up running for the bus; it leaves earlier than it used to.

It seems to me they are making the stairs steeper than in the old days. And have you noticed the smaller print they use in the newspapers?

There is no sense in asking anyone to read aloud anymore, as everybody speaks in such a low voice I can hardly hear them.

The material in dresses is so skimpy now, especially around the hips and waist, that it is almost impossible to reach ones shoelaces. And sizes don't run the way they used to. The 12s and 14s are so much smaller.

Even people are changing. They are so much younger than they used to be when I was their age. On the other hand, people my own age are so much older than I am.

I ran into an old classmate the other day and she has aged so much she didn't recognize me. I got to thinking about the poor dear while I was combing my hair this morning and in so doing I glanced at my own reflection. Really, now, they don't even make mirrors like they used to.

In District Court

Sentenced in Floyd District Court, following guilty pleas or verdicts, were: Wallace Keathley, 53, Grethel, drunk driving (DUI), seven days in jail and $557.50 fine and court cost; Garner R. Halbert, 25, Langley, drunk driving, 180 days in jail and fined $957.50; Luther D. McKinney, 32, Printer, drunk driving, fined $157.50 and two days public service; Lucas Moore, 30, McDowell, prescription drugs not in proper container, seven days in jail and fined $97.50; Donald Trusty, 20, Salsersville, drunk driving, fined $157.50 and two days public service; Jack R. Marcum, 51, Harold, reckless driving, attempt to elude, resisting arrest, one year probation and fined $707.50; Rudy G. Crum, 45, Wittensville, drunk driving, fined $357.50; Randy Tackett, 32, Teaberry, drunk driving, operating on a suspended license, 180 days in jail and fined $957.50; Herma Lynn Conn Kidd, Banner, harassing communications, five days probation and fined $57.50; Robert L. Williams, 22, West Prestonsburg, operating on a suspended license, improper registration, no insurance, 30 days in jail and fined $567.50.

County Firefighters Move on Con Artists

By Tim Sizemore

People who fraudulently collect money from businesses or on roadsides, claiming their homes have burned, had best beware according to Roy Compton, president of the Floyd County Firefighters Association.

The Association, to which 11 of the county's 15 fire departments belong, voted to require persons whose homes have burned to have a letter from the fire department in their area, on the department's stationary, and signed by a department official before they can collect money.

Compton says that there are people who work up to five counties collecting money. He cited as an example a family run out of Johnson county which then came to Floyd to renew their illicit panhandling on the same day.

He says that it hurts people who legitimately need help. "We feel this will help the public know who should be helped and eliminate some of the con artists," he said.

"We must love men ere they will seem worthy of our love."
William Shakespeare

50% of State's Water Wells Found To Pose Health Threat

With approximately 50 per cent of wells tested in Eastern Kentucky found to be contaminated with coliform bacteria, those who use private water supplies—wells, springs, cisterns—would do well to have them tested.

This is the conclusion of a five-year study conducted by Morehead State University's Water Testing Laboratory which also found that of 468 cisterns and 231 springs, 27 per cent and 43 per cent, respectively, contained the coliform bacteria which is found in the intestinal tract of humans and animals.

"This is an indication that the water supply may be contaminated with raw sewage," Dr. Pass explained, adding that the purpose of the study was not to alarm people but to "heighten the awareness of residents in the laboratory's service area concerning the quality of ground and surface water."

The presence of coliform bacteria, he said, is also indicative of the presence of other microorganisms which can cause hepatitis, dysentery, and other

Wayland Gets Phone Update This Weekend

South Central Bell will complete work the weekend of Feb. 27 on a modernization project to bring telephone customers in Wayland new services and choices.

"South Central Bell is spending $4.9 million in Floyd county," said South Central Bell manager Art Willett. "But once we install new equipment in the Allen, Martin and McDowell offices next year, we'll have the kind of telecommunications network that will lead us into the Information Age and help pave the way for economic development."

Customers will notice some changes, according to Willett, and the new equipment makes new services and choices available.

Customers will have to dial all seven digits to place a local call. And customers may notice a different—softer and more electronic sounding—dial tone.

New services include touch-tone and custom calling services that will be available for an additional monthly charge. Touch-Tone offers easier, faster dialing. Custom Calling features include Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Three-Way Calling and Speed Calling.

Customers will be able to place most of their "1+" long-distance calls through their "preferred" long-distance company. About three months ago, South Central Bell mailed customers a ballot listing the long-distance companies that planned to serve the area and instructions on how to sign up. South Central Bell will be sending another ballot to customers who have not chosen a long-distance company.

Once all the South Central Bell coin telephones in the area are converted to "dial tone first," customers will hear a dial tone before they put in a coin.

"Customers can call the operator, the South Central Bell business offices or repair service, plus make long-distance credit card calls without depositing a coin," Willett said. He advises customers to take a moment to read the new instructions posted on South Central Bell coin phones before placing their calls.

The new switching equipment is completely digital. "Today, so much of the data transmitted is in digital form, and virtually all the services that are becoming available are digital," Willett said. "The new equipment puts us in an enviable position when even more information Age services such as shopping and banking by phone, as well as retrieving information from electronic libraries and data banks."

Berea Offers Two Summer Programs

Berea College has scheduled two summer programs for teachers.

A course in Appalachian History and Literature will be in session June 13-July 1. The course offers three hours of graduate or undergraduate credit through the University of Kentucky.

Instructors will be Gurney Norman, writer-in-residence, UK Department of English, author of "Kinfolks" and "Divine Right's Trip"; Wilma Dykeman, novelist, essayist, biographer and adjunct professor of literature at the University of Tennessee; Dr. Richard B. Drake, Berea College history professor and author of the text "Mountaineers and Americans"; Dr. Alan De Young, educational sociologist and associate professor in the Department of Social and Philosophical Studies, UK College of Education.

To enroll, contact the Appalachian Center, Box 2336, Berea College, Berea, Ky. 40404.

Berea's Mellon Seminars for high school teachers are scheduled June 12-24. This summer's seminar topics will be: The Culture of Japan, Disease and Culture, and Women's Voices.

High school teachers in Kentucky and the eight-state southeastern Appalachian region are eligible to attend.

The application deadline is March 31. Teachers planning to enroll in the seminars should contact Ms. Betts, CPO 67, Berea College, Berea, Ky. 40404, telephone (606) 986-9341, Ext. 6507.

A Legislative Perspective

With Rep. Gregory D. Stumbo, Majority Floor Leader

Solid waste and how to dispose of it is a question facing most communities in the United States. Kentuckians have watched as thickly populated areas on the Eastern seaboard have struggled to dispose of the masses of solid waste generated there.

The reality of the true widespread scale of the problem surfaced in Kentucky during the past year when solid waste disposal systems from other states approached a number of waste sites in the Commonwealth. Their goal was to locate new disposal sites for their garbage. The possible amounts of garbage to be disposed of alarmed local and state officials. The large amounts of garbage proposed for Kentucky posed the question, "Would there be room left for the waste generated in Kentucky?"

A legislative interim subcommittee, in addition to public hearings conducted by the House Committee on Natural Resources, resulted in the passage of a package of solid waste legislation.

House members overwhelmingly approved four pieces of legislation designed to allow Kentucky's local governments a certain amount of control over hazardous and solid waste permits and allows them to impose fees depending on the amount of waste generated outside the planning area. One legislative measure would protect Kentucky's environment from unknown hazardous waste that might be transported into the state.

House members sent Senate Bill 169 to the Governor for his signature. The measure gives fiscal courts much the same authority over hazardous waste incinerators that they currently have over hazardous waste landfills.

The other three measures pertained to solid waste and were approved and sent to the Senate for their scrutiny.

*House Bill 429 gives fiscal courts notice of any application to establish or alter a current landfill in its county. The bill permits the state to require a list of materials to be buried there.

*House Bill 430 allows counties to tax landfills at the rate of 50 cents a ton or 5 percent of the gross receipts. The bill would also allow the county with the landfill to hire an inspector who would be paid from the waste tax revenue.

*House Bill 432 requires landfills that accept out-of-state waste to prove that the waste is not hazardous and if found to be hazardous, to take steps to protect ground water. All new landfills would have to meet those requirements.

Another waste related measure also approved by us extends through June, 1990 the state tax on hazardous waste that aids clean-up of toxic-waste sites.

To continue state government overview of solid waste development in Kentucky, the House of Representatives recently passed a resolution creating a 19 member task force to study waste issues and make needed recommendations to the 1990 General Assembly.

Several groups came to Frankfort last week to appeal to the government for change. Among those people was actress Victoria Principal, who is national chairperson for the Arthritis Foundation. She successfully lobbied for legislation that would lift restrictions in the State Medicaid Formulary for certain types of arthritis medications.

Groups also gathered in the Capitol to support Welfare Reform and Senior Citizen legislation. Groups from Floyd county were represented and I met with them in my office.

McDowell Places In Academic Competition

McDowell Elementary School participated in the District Governor's Cup competition held Saturday, Feb. 13. Three students, Natasha Allen, Lisa Hobson, and Erikson Vicher, placed individually. The Quick Recall Team was runner-up and the school was runner-up overall, losing in the finals to Paintsville.

Team members participating were Natasha Allen, Michael Bakay, Curtis Hall, Doug Hall, Jody Johnson, Matt Johnson, Lisa Hobson, Misty Little, Brad Moore, Olivia Phipps, Eric Reid, Tiana Slone, and Erikson Vicher.

Coaches are Mrs. Kitty Frazier, Mrs. Brenda Hamilton, Mrs. Wanda Johnson, and Mrs. Jerri Turner.

Arbor Foundat on Offers Free Trees

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving 10 free trees to each person who becomes a Foundation member during January, 1988.

The free trees are part of the Foundation's effort to promote tree planting throughout America.

A sugar maple, white flowering dogwood, pin oak, white pine, red maple, birch, American redbud, silver maple, red oak, and Colorado blue spruce tree will be given to members joining during January.

These trees were selected to provide benefits every season of the year: lovely spring flowers, cool summer shade, spectacular autumn colors, and winter berries and nesting sites for songbirds, according to the Foundation. The six to twelve inch trees will be shipped postage paid with enclosed planting instructions at the right time for planting this spring. The Foundation makes its spring shipments between February 1 and May 31, depending on the local climate and this year's weather.

The National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life throughout the country by encouraging tree planting. The Foundation will give the ten free trees to each member contributing $10 during January.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to TEN TREES, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by January 31, 1988.

Named to New Ky. W. Va. Gas Positions

Donald E. Daniel

D.F. Colvin

Joseph C. Pettey

Representatives of Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company recently announced the promotions of Donald E. Daniel, director of human resources, and Danny F. Colvin, superintendent of production, and the recent addition of Joseph C. Pettey as vice president-production.

Daniel, former manager employee relations, will direct the activities of the Ashland and Prestonsburg offices with specific management responsibilities for labor relations, employee relations, employee benefits, worker's compensation and safety. He will also serve as an arbitrator.

Daniel attended schools in Johnson county and is a graduate of Meade Memorial High School. He is a member of the National Management Association and the Paintsville Masonic Lodge 381, F&M. He and his wife, Gayie, reside at Thealka.

Colvin, former assistant superintendent, will direct operations at Prestonsburg, Pikeville, Maytown and Hazard. Colvin is also a Johnson county native and graduated from Paintsville High School. He is a member of the First Baptist Church, past Master of the Paintsville Masonic Lodge No. 381, F&M, the East Kentucky section of Society of Petroleum Engineers and the National Management Association. Colvin and his wife, Phyllis, reside in Paintsville.

Pettey will be responsible for all production-oriented activities including well operation and well maintenance in addition to all contract drilling services. A native of Mississippi, he will reside at Paintsville.

Pvt. Combs Completes Parachutist Training

Lynn I. Combs, son of Jerry L. and Sandy L. Combs, of Prestonsburg, has received the parachutist badge upon completion of the three-week airborne course at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

During the first week of training, students underwent a rigorous physical training program and received instruction in the theory of parachuting. The second week they received practical training by jumping from 34-foot and 250-foot towers. The final week they made five staticline parachute jumps including one night jump.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Betty Sexton Mullins wish to thank all those who were so kind and considerate during our time of grief.

We want to thank those who sent cards, flowers and food. Your comforting words and prayers are greatly appreciated.

A special thanks to the Garrett Baptist Church, Bro. Salmans, Bro. Drew Martin, Sarah Howard and the choir.

PHS To Compete Saturday, In Regional Governor's Cup

Prestonsburg High School will participate at Pikeville, Saturday, in the third annual regional Governor's Cup Competition, sponsored by the Kentucky Academic Association.

The following teams and members of each will represent Prestonsburg High: Quick Recall—David Spiggle, Mike Rosenberg, Byron Crider, Dustin Haley, Ernest Croot, Stacy Webb, David Thompson.

Mathematics—Mike Rosenberg, Dusty Weathers, Dustin Haley.

Science—Stacy Webb, Mike Rosenberg, Ernest Croot.

English Composition—Nyla Ross.

Future Problem Solving—Dave Stanford, Christi Cooley, Chris Haley, Brian Stewart.

Social Studies—David Spiggle, David Thompson, Byron Crider.

Language Arts—David Spiggle, Mike Colvin, Mark Ratliff.

The teams are coached by Nell Lawson.

The competition is a three-tiered academic competition held on the district, regional, and state levels featuring both middle grades (6-8) and high school (9-12) divisions representing 780 schools. Teams and individuals advance on the order of their finish and also earn points towards the Governor's Cup.

Over 7,500 students will advance to 32 regional sites on February 27. The state competition in Louisville on March 13-14 will culminate with a school winning the prestigious Governor's Cup. Teams and individual winners will also receive recognition for their achievements.

The Governor's Cup Competition features four categories of competition. Team events include Quick Recall and Future Problem Solving. Individual events feature written assessment and English composition.

Quick recall involves teams of four students competing to answer questions in a "college bowl" format, with questions divided equally from the areas of mathematics, science, language arts, social studies/current events and humanities.

Future Problem Solving is a team event that challenges teams of four students to develop a solution to a "future problem" during a designated time period. The topic for the district competition will be the elderly, while regional contestants will consider the topic of acid rain.

Written assessment is an individual competition with tests administered in the content areas of mathematics, science, language arts and social studies. Each school may enter three individuals in each content area, but a student may not participate in more than two areas. The tests feature 50 multiple choice questions with an additional 10 questions serving as tie-breakers when necessary.

English composition is an individual competition with all students receiving the same topic and a designated time to develop an essay of approximately 500 words. Schools may enter three students in this event.

Timely Treatment Used Now Can Control Peach Leaf Curl

Cold winter days give peach tree growers in Kentucky a good opportunity to battle an insidious fungus that threatens both yield and quality of the fruit.

Damage from the disease called "peach leaf curl" doesn't have to be extensive however.

A single fungicide spray applied any time after leaf drop in the fall but before buds begin to swell in the spring controls the disease completely, said Don Hershman, Extension plant pathologist for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"But once the fungus enters the leaf, the disease cannot be controlled," Hershman said. "That's why it's important for a grower to apply the fungicide very soon, if he hasn't already done it."

How does a peach grower know if his trees have peach leaf curl?

About a month after full bloom, infected leaves will appear "thickened and puckered with a red or purple color," Hershman said. Heavily infected trees have very large, curled leaves that eventually turn brown and wither.

"If the disease remains unchecked, infected leaves fall from the tree, creating foliage depletion," he said. "The fruit quality and yield decreases."

Although the disease can't be controlled at this stage, there are measures that can reduce its effects.

"You can thin the fruit to reduce stress," he said. "You can apply nitrogen fertilizers to stimulate growth, and you can irrigate trees when rainfall is low."

He cautioned that too much nitrogen can overstimulate the trees and add extra stress.

The best answer for the most effective control, however, would be to spray an appropriate fungicide now before the spring budding season begins. Growers should be careful to follow exact directions on the labels of the fungicides they use.

SACT Mini Grants Made To Floyd High Schools

The Floyd County Board of Education and the Floyd County Education Forum's School Community Partnership Committee, called SACT, schools and communities together, are sponsoring a mini grant program for Floyd county classroom teachers in grades K-12. A local advisory committee has been selected to administer this program. This committee consists of an equal number of teachers, administrators, and community partnership members. The committee accepted proposals from individual teachers which proposed an activity or project that directly involved students in a learning situation and related directly to the educational instruction of students.

These mini grants were open to all Floyd county classroom teachers for the 1987-88 school year. The maximum amount of these grants is $250, and the funds can be used in any manner that relates directly to the instruction of students and the activity that the teacher has in mind. The mini grants give the classroom teacher an opportunity to meet some of the needs of their students or try an activity that they had always wanted to do but were unable to because of the lack of funds.

Funding for these grants has been contributed by several local businesses and individuals.

Grants have been awarded to the following teachers:

Joyce O. Watson, Allen Central High School-Foreign Language Festival, and Lowell L. Martin, Allen Central High School-The Embryological Study of Chicken Eggs; Freddy W. Hall, McDowell Grade School-Computer Math, and Lindsay Blackburn, McDowell High School-Physics, Teach to Learn Program; Dennis D. Bartley, Wheelwright High School, Melvin & Osborne Grade Schools-Christmas Concert; Madeline Gibson, Wheelwright High School-Improving Vocabulary; Doris B. Osborne, Wheelwright High School-Understanding the Basics of Electrical Wiring; Billie L. Damron, Wheelwright High School-Expanding Vocabularies and Strengthening Dictionary Skills; Carlotta Jones, W.D. Osborne Elementary School-Break for Books; Bud Reynolds, Martin Elementary-A Hillbilly "Not Made in Hong Kong."

SACT will be offering these mini grants again for the 1988-89 school year.

Minnie-Garrett Road Will Be Discussed

An organizational meeting of the concerned citizens of Left Beaver Creek will be held March 1 at 7 p.m. at the Osborne Elementary School. The topic of the meeting will be the Minnie to Garrett road.

PCC Program Focuses On Dealing With Loss

A free program on Coping With Loss will be offered by Prestonsburg Community College Saturday, Feb. 27.

The program, which begins at 1 p.m. in room 216 of the Pike Building will focus on understanding loss and the grieving process.

According to Chris Roelker Conley of Hospice of Big Sandy, who will lead the class, "any loss results in a grieving process which must be completed before healing or coping is possible. By understanding how grief works, it is possible to feel more ready to cope with any loss."

The program is open to persons who need to deal with a loss, whatever the cause, and to those who want to assist friends or family members. It is sponsored by PCC's Office of Continuing Education and Community Service. For information, call 886-3863, ext. 215.

Cabin Fever Is Real Problem To Many During Winter Months

To some people, it's cabin fever. To others, it's post-holiday blues. To still others it's just plain boredom.

While the average person may feel a little down during the winter months, the combination of shorter days and colder weather can cause serious emotional stress and strain for those whose lives change dramatically with the seasons, according to Kentucky mental health officials.

"Seasonal Affective Disorder (SAD), also known as 'seasonal depression,' is a very real condition for some people, occurring as daylight hours grow shorter and lower temperatures force people indoors," said Director Jim Roberts of the Division of Mental Health. "People who are very active in warm weather actually react adversely to this drastic change in their lifestyle."

SAD researchers have estimated that as many as one of every four Americans experience a mild form of seasonal depression during the winter.

"Active participants in sports during the summer may find themselves spectators during the winter," Roberts said. "This can create even more feelings of depression in someone who already may be 'down in the dumps.'"

"Many active people become moody and tend to eat and sleep more than usual during the winter months," he added.

Dr. Paul Stratton, staff psychologist at the Bluegrass Comprehensive Care Center in Georgetown, said workers who leave home in the pre-dawn darkness

Sales, Tax Receipts Up; Road Fund Falls

State Finance Secretary L. Rogers Wells Jr., announced today that regular sales and use tax receipts for January, which reflect the Christmas season sales, were up 6.1 percent from last year.

Wells said the General Fund receipts for January totaled $293.3 million and reflect an overall growth rate for the General Fund of 3.7 percent over the same month in 1987. About $10 million in employer withholding, which was due on January 31, was not included in the January figures due to fewer processing days in January 1988 than in January 1987. Adjusting for this difference, the General Fund growth rate for January would have been 7.2 percent.

Also, due to the processing delay, individual income tax receipts decreased by 1.1 percent. Regular coal severance tax receipts continued its trend of recent months by growing 10.3 percent as compared to January 1988. In other areas, property tax receipts increased by 2.9 percent and corporate income tax receipts decreased by 11.2 percent. Corporate license tax receipts, however, reversed its downward trend by increasing 12.7 percent.

The year-to-date growth rate of the General Fund is now 4.1 percent. After an adjustment for the unusually large carry-over of individual income tax refunds from the previous fiscal year, economic growth for the period has been 4.7 percent.

The Road Fund receipts for January were down 36.2 percent as compared to January 1987. Most of the Road Fund's decline is in truck decal collections which was recently declared unconstitutional. The two largest Road Fund taxes, motor fuels and motor vehicle usage, declined by 1.3 percent and 1.6 percent, respectively. So far this fiscal year, Road Fund receipts have declined 8.0 percent as compared to the same period for last year.

EKU Plans College Warm-Up Program

High school seniors graduating this spring can receive an introduction to the college environment in a special program at Eastern Kentucky University, June 13-July 29.

The program, known as College Warm-Up, offers students seven credit hours before they begin their freshman year, according to Benny Hall, director of the program.

College Warm-Up helps students take foundation courses in English composition, college reading and study skills, and academic orientation before they attempt their first full semester of college.

"Credits earned can be transferred to other accredited institutions or applied directly to a degree program at Eastern," Hall said.

Thus College Warm-Up can assist all college-bound high school seniors, but especially those who want a constructive start to their college careers, wish to strengthen their language and study skills, or are not sure about a college major, he said.

The College Warm-Up program, as well as most courses at Eastern this summer, will operate on a four-day week—no Friday classes.

Any student considering applying to the Warm-Up program should have an ACT English score of at least 13, an ACT composite score of 15, and a high school grade point average of at least 2.2 (C+) on a 4.0 scale.

and return home after dusk are more susceptible to seasonal depression.

"Spending all your time at home when it's dark can be rough," he said. "You can't mow the grass, play ball with the kids or go for a bike ride. That's depressing."

John Cooke, mental health director for Mountain Comprehensive Care in Prestonsburg, said some of the most severe cases of SAD have been treated successfully using a new technique—full spectrum light.

"The National Institute for Mental Health and several universities have alleviated symptoms of SAD among patients by using full spectrum lighting, such as sunlamps," Cooke explained. "But this type of treatment should be conducted only under medical supervision, because of dangerous side effects to the eyes and skin from overexposure to 'artificial sunlight.'"

Carolyn Self, of Pennyrile Comprehensive Care Center in Hopkinsville, said that athletic-oriented people aren't the only ones who suffer.

"People who tend a garden, walk their dogs every day or take long leisurely strolls through the woods find that winter weather limits almost any outdoor activity," said Self, who is director of community relations for the center. "Feelings of confinement can set in, especially among mothers whose children are 'cooped in' and can't go out to play."

Self noted that from New Year's Day until Memorial Day, there are no holiday breaks for most workers. This is the same period when most episodes of depression occur.

"Many people experience a letdown after the Christmas-New Year's holiday period and there's no real break in their daily routine until the last week in May," she said.

Cooke advises that people caught up in winter doldrums or "cabin fever" can and should do something about it.

"The best way to cope with this type of depression is to remain active and keep a normal social life," he said. "Do things that make you feel good about yourself."

BIRD BRAINS: Blue jays and other members of the crow family seem to display the greatest levels of intelligence in the bird world. According to National Wildlife magazine, crows, ravens and nutcrackers are able to open and close latches and tie knots. Some captive birds have learned to count and to read clocks. The birds also have good memories. Blue jays, for instance, can recall locations where they have stashed thousands of acorns.

Mrs. Hylton To Lead Stanville Bike-a-Thon

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has announced that Mrs. Marcia Hylton has agreed to be the coordinator of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-a-Thon in Stanville.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and provides total medical care to over 4,200 patients.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side by side seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of these terrible killers.

All findings and information gained at the hospital are shared freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world. Thanks to St. Jude Hospital, children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle-cell anemia, and other child-killing diseases now have a better chance to live.

Sundry Stores Earnings Show Increase in 1987

Retailing Corporation of America (OTC-RCOA), Milwaukee, Wisconsin, (Parent Corporation of Wil-Car Enterprises and Wil-Car Sundry Stores) has announced results for the quarter and nine months ended December 31, 1987. In the third quarter, revenues were up 11% and earnings before interest and taxes were up 7% over the same period last year. Year-to-date revenues increased 28%, earnings before interest and taxes were up 35%, and earnings before income taxes rose 20%.

Vincent W. Dixon, President, stated, "In light of the downward trends occurring in the retail industry, we were pleased to complete the third quarter with increases over the prior year in both sales and profit. The opening of two new Toys for Joy stores in time for the Christmas season contributed to our favorable results."

Bradis Goble Receives Citizen of Year Award

The Citizens Committee for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms is pleased to announce that Bradis Goble, of Prestonsburg, has been selected to receive a Citizen of the Year award.

Mr. Goble has been selected to receive this Citizen of the Year award because of a dedication to the efforts to preserve the right of the people to keep and bear arms as guaranteed by the Second Amendment to the United States Constitution according to Committee officials.

"If it weren't for people like Bradis Goble, our Constitutional rights would have been eroded years ago," stated Alan Gottlieb, chairman of the Citizens Committee.

The Citizens Committee for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms is a national organization with nearly 500,000 members as well as more than 130 members of Congress serving on their National Advisory Council.

Allen Central Students Win in Academic Sweet 16

All of the regional winners of the third annual Sweet 16 Academic Showcase have been determined with the completion of the last regional competition at Morehead State University this past weekend. Again this year, Kathi Keen, of Allen Central High School, is the first place in the Two Dimensional Art category. Another Allen Central student, Patricia Meade, placed second in the English-Creative Writing category.

About 446 students from 45 state high schools competed at Morehead for a chance at scholarships that will go to the winners of the state finals. The finals will be held at Transylvania University in Lexington March 23-25. The top four regional winners in each academic area will go to the finals in Lexington.

The other three regionals were held at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond, Western Kentucky University in Bowling Green and Bellarmine College in Louisville.

Winners at the state level receive the following amounts in scholarships: Individual—first place, $2,000; second, $1,200 and third, $600. Team members—first place, $1,300; second, $800 and third, $450. In addition, each state high school which has a first place state winner receives $1,000 to be used for academic programs.

Money for the scholarships and other program costs come from donations from private businesses and a televised auction in Lexington. About $91,300 has been collected from this year's auction.

Winners at Morehead are:
COMPUTER: first place, Paul Brewer, Matt Cutts, David Fjel and Neil Laferty, Rowan County High School; second place, Patty Lee Ashcraft, Bill Brown, Stephen Deaton and Jeffrey Morrison, Jackson City High School; third place, Billy Bryant, James Gibson, Thomas Massie and Richard Bloomfield, Lewis County High School; fourth place, Marvin Turner, Bret Jackson and James Green, Owsley County High School.

MATH: first place, Dulcena Cantrell, Donald Tackett, Jessie Bagley and Neil Salyer, Pikeville High School; second place, Kevin Prevatt, Yash Patil, Eric McKinney and Brad Scott, St. Carmillus Academy; third place, Mark Hines, Michael Ervin, Tracy Hoskins and Keith Stewart, Leslie County High School; fourth place, Owen Baier, Andy Allen, Ranice Hannah and Brian Stephens, Greenup County High School.

JOURNALISM—ADVERTISING/PROMOTION: first place, Bridgette Thornsberry and Sandra Adams, Knott County High School; second place, Deidre Glasser and Paige Daniel, Rowan County High School; third place, Amy Conley and Christopher Porter, Raceland High School; fourth place, Kerry Hale and Lisa Hicks, Boyd County High School.

Marriage Breakup Topic Of PCC Class Program

Leo Weddle's Modern Social Problems class at Prestonsburg Community College presented a program entitled "The Breakdown of the Family Unit," February 8. Students, faculty, and community members watched as Jody Sammons and Mrs. Geri Montgomery went through a mock wedding ceremony performed by the Reverend Ron Masters, of Community Methodist Church, here.

Students, Susan Hale and Jayne Allen, added to the scenario by presenting videos of the married couple encountering problems eight years later.

Judge Hollie Conley, Attorneys C.V. Reynolds and Jerry Patton followed the dissolution of the marriage through the courtroom procedure. Students watched and learned as the scenario was played out in Floyd Circuit Court. One student remarked, "This courtroom scene brought the traumatic realization of divorce in clear view of everyone here."

Free Bible Course Available Locally

George F. Raines (P.O. Box 97, Newton, MS 39345), a chaplain in the Civil Air Patrol since 1982 and a minister of the gospel since 1953, is now offering to everyone in this area who enjoys studying the Bible in the privacy of his own home a free 30-lesson Bible correspondence course, providing an easy-to-follow step-by-step study, enabling the student to follow a systematic plan in learning the basic truths of the inspired scriptures, which are "a lamp unto our feet and a light unto our path" (Psalm 119:105) and able to make us "wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus" (2 Tim. 3:15-17).

The only textbook the student will need is his own Bible. His lessons will be promptly and accurately graded and returned. Upon completion of the course, he will receive a certificate of achievement suitable for framing.

Interested persons are invited to send their request for enrollment to: Studies in The Bible, P.O. Box 97, Newton, MS 39345. Enrollments may also be processed by phone: 683-3248 (George F. Raines) or 635-3684 (Paul C. Swindle). No one will be asked to pay any fees or make any contributions. Respondents are asked to please allow about three weeks for the arrival of their first lesson.

Amber:

Golden Window On The Past From Insects To Dinosaurs

Although medieval merchants considered amber to be as valuable as gold, for modern scientists the real value of amber comes from the treasures that are locked inside, according to International Wildlife magazine. For many years, scientists have studied the remains of prehistoric insects trapped in amber. By studying air bubbles trapped in amber, they may learn more about the composition of ancient atmospheres. Now, some researchers even believe that amber might hold the key to the genetic code of dinosaurs. International Wildlife is a publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

Amber is fossilized plant resin. It usually takes five million years to form, but not all resins turn into amber over time. Some scientists think that the process requires relatively rare conditions—the right combination of heat and pressure plus interaction with sea water and certain minerals.

It is estimated that one in every hundred pieces of amber contains the remains of insects, other animals or plants. When ancient civilizations fashioned amber into jewelry, they avoided pieces that contained insects for fear of the spirits trapped within. Modern scientists, however, eagerly study the insects, looking for clues to the course of evolution.

The age-old process by which insects are trapped in a golden crypt can still be seen in gardens and forests. It begins when the sticky sap exuding from a wound on a tree touches an insect. In its desperate attempt to pull free, the insect merely quickens its fate.

Micromicroorganisms destroy the inner parts of most of the insects caught in resin. Some of the captives, however, remained sealed from the elements and perfectly preserved for millions of years.

In 1981, Berkeley entomologist Gregory Poinar and associate Roberta Hess sectioned a 40-million-year-old fungus gnat and examined it under an electron microscope. They were able to identify such cell parts as ribosomes, mitochondria and membranes. The cell nuclei were better preserved than those from human mummies, a find that intrigued many scientists.

"Some of us began to believe we could revive ancient cells," Poinar says.

To date no one has come up with a recipe on how to bring fossilized cells back to life. But Poinar and his fellow researchers formed the Extinct DNA Study Group to investigate the possibility of recreating ancient life forms, such as dinosaurs, in a modern laboratory.

Because reptiles have nuclei in their blood cells, researchers think it is possible to obtain a genetic blueprint for a dinosaur's organism from a single blood cell. They hope to find encased in amber an ancient insect, perhaps a mosquito, that had recently fed on dinosaur blood. The trapped blood cells could then, in theory, provide an intact dinosaur nucleus which researchers would attempt to recreate.

Modern science hasn't yet perfected the technique to successfully map the complete DNA configuration of any organism. Even with the help of advanced technology, researchers have not even been able to replicate the DNA sequence of man.

But the Extinct DNA Group has already had some successes. Notably, Berkeley scientists Allan Wilson and Russell Higuchi extracted and cloned bits of DNA from a 40,000-year-old woolly mammoth and a quagga (an extinct form of zebra).

Although the road ahead seems long and arduous, Poinar doesn't see any insurmountable obstacles. "In 10 years or so the technology may be here," he says. "In the meantime we're getting ready."

"Diamonds are a girl's best friend," says one researcher, "but amber is becoming a scientist's."

GREGORY D. STUMBO
STATE REPRESENTATIVE
95TH DISTRICT

The 1988 General Assembly is well underway and Representative Gregory D. Stumbo is serving as the Majority Floor Leader in the House of Representatives.

Representative Stumbo's 1988 Legislative Agenda includes the following Bills or Resolutions that he is sponsoring and supporting:

- ★ Democratic Caucus Resolution which Rep. Stumbo wrote opposing the Governor's proposal to use Fish and Wildlife, Teacher's Retirement and Road Fund Money to balance the Budget.
- ★ Proposal to amend the Kentucky Constitution to prohibit the abuses of the "Broad Form Deeds," HB 228.
- ★ HB 307 grants immunity to director, officer or trustee of non-profit or charitable organization from civil liability.
- ★ HB 332 provides stiffer penalty for persons convicted on second offense of selling drugs within 1,000 feet of school property.
- ★ HB 176 allows teachers who have paid in to fund for 27 years to retire.
- ★ HB 403 grants civil immunity to manufacturer or seller of firearm used in commission of crime unless person or entity involved with criminal. (National Rifle Association endorsed and choose Rep. Stumbo.)
- ★ HB 441 to allow coal operators option of paying workmen's compensation special fund assessment by ton or on percentage of premium.
- ★ HB 169 prohibits a person from intentionally obstructing or disrupting a person legally taking fish or wildlife. (NRA supports and chooses Rep. Stumbo to sponsor.)
- ★ HR 72 LRC to establish commission to study Kentucky Teachers Retirement system and report ways to improve plight of Retired Teachers to General Assembly.

Representative Stumbo is running for re-election as well. He hopes to accomplish many of these goals for Floyd County and asks for your help and support.

Clever, These Chinese...

Enter the Year of the Dragon And Your Year Is Listed, Too

In 1987 we celebrated rabbits. Next year it's snakes. But 1988—starting Feb. 17—is the Year of the Dragon, and it marks the Chinese year 4,686.

These venerated symbols along with nine others (horse, sheep, monkey, rooster, dog, boar, rat, ox and tiger) have been around for more than 20 centuries, according to a recent article in International Wildlife magazine, a bimonthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation. Each symbol ushers in a new year in the Chinese calendar.

The system probably goes back to the Han Dynasty (206 B.C. to A.D. 220), which is credited with establishing a duodecimal calendar, a 12-year cycle based on the revolutions of Jupiter around the sun. As with Western horoscopes, which purport to provide personal guidance based on the supposed influence of the stars and planets on human affairs, the symbols are often consulted for personal guidance.

Not surprisingly, scientists often attack such problem-solving. Yet scholars of Eastern popular culture say the ancient symbols tell much about a society's view of animals and itself. "Westerners have tended to associate the 12 animals with fortune-telling, but their deeper significance lies in a classical Chinese world-view that integrates time, the cosmos and living beings into a seamless continuum," says John S. Major, formerly with the Asia Society in New York.

For astronomers, zoologists and other scientists, the ancient calendar may verge on cosmic mumbo jumbo. For others, it can be enjoyed as cultural legacy. Happy New Year!

Chinese year names listed below are followed by Western dates to enable readers to find which is their Chinese symbol and possibly why some traits are dominant.

DRAGON—1916, 1928, 1952, 1964, 1976, 1988.

Dragon people are accorded the greatest celestial powers; they are endowed with luck, health, courage and sensitivity. Excitability, stubbornness and a quick temper are also dragon traits. Seek the Monkey or Rat; avoid the Dog.

SNAKE—1917, 1929, 1941, 1953, 1965, 1977, 1989.

Those born in the year of the Snake are especially wise. They are also fired with intense determination. Snake men are often handsome, women beautiful, and both are often vain. Compatible with Rooster and Ox.

HORSE—1918, 1930, 1942, 1954, 1966, 1978, 1990.

Horse people are very sociable, elegant and seek to be helpful. They are quite passionate in love. They act quickly, have short tempers and often ignore the advice of others. Seek the Tiger or Dog; beware of the Rat.

SHEEP—1919, 1931, 1943, 1955, 1967, 1979, 1991.

Persons born under this sign are true artists; they are happiest when engaged in creative pursuits. Sheep people are followers (naturally), not leaders, and often insecure. Most compatible with the Boar or Rabbit but never with the Ox.

MONKEY—1920, 1932, 1944, 1956, 1968, 1980, 1992.

Monkey people are usually successful in any field of their choosing. Decisive, they are both skilled and diplomatic, but like to stir up trouble and can create discord at will. Humor is important to them. Seek the Dragon or Rat; beware the Tiger.

ROOSTER—1921, 1933, 1945, 1957, 1969, 1981, 1993.

Those born in Rooster years have great candor. These people are busybodies, deep thinkers and devoted to their work. Their honesty can cost them friends, as can their eccentricities. Seek the Snake and Ox; Rabbits are trouble.

DOG—1922, 1934, 1946, 1958, 1970, 1982, 1994.

Like the creature itself, those born in the Dog years are loyal and possess a profound sense of duty. They are wonderful workers. Their worst faults are sarcasm and fault-finding. Look to the Horse or Tiger; avoid the Dragon.

BOAR—1923, 1935, 1947, 1959, 1971, 1983, 1995.

Boar people are brave and chivalrous. They are blessed with great inner strength. In Asia, it is said Boar people are "broad in front and narrow in back," well-informed only on the surface. Seek Rabbits and Sheep; avoid other Boars.

RAT—1924, 1936, 1948, 1960, 1972, 1984, 1996.

People born under this sign are renowned for their charm. Although easily angered, they appear to be cool, calm and collected. Rat people are ambitious, full of integrity and perhaps a bit stingy. Seek Sheep and Boars; avoid the Rooster.

OX—1925, 1937, 1949, 1961, 1973, 1985, 1997.

Ox people, like their animal counterpart, are placid and easygoing, yet they anger easily and can be pretty and spiteful. Naturally quiet, they can be quite eloquent if need be and are self-assured. Seek the Snake or Rooster; avoid Sheep.

TIGER—1926, 1938, 1950, 1962, 1974, 1986, 1998.

Those born in Tiger years are powerful, courageous and deep thinkers. Decisions baffle them; often they wait too long to make one. Tiger persons can be stubborn, selfish and even mean. Seek the Horse or Dog; avoid the Monkey.

RABBIT—1915, 1927, 1939, 1951, 1963, 1975, 1987.

Humans born under the Rabbit years are gifted, ambitious, smooth talkers. They are often melancholy, too. Rabbits are lucky financially, with a sense for "picking a winner." Seek the Sheep or Boar; your opposite is the Rooster.

Free Career Program For Women Offered

Women 35 to 50 years of age have an opportunity to explore career opportunities and educational interests during a free summer program at Berea College.

The New Opportunity School for Women, designed for those who are in transitional periods of their lives, will be in session June 5-25 this year.

Residents of the nine-state Appalachian region who have completed high school or received a GED certificate may attend, according to Jane Stephenson director of the three-week program. Applicants should demonstrate motivation and an eagerness to learn.

Rooms and meals are provided at no cost and participants can apply for travel and child-care grants. Children cannot accompany their mothers to the campus, Mrs. Stephenson added.

Through testing and individual counseling, job skills and interests will be identified and participants will be placed in part-time jobs, either on Berea's campus or in the community. They also will learn to write resumes and practice job interview skills.

Educational and cultural opportunities will include classes in Appalachian literature, lectures and a field trip to the Cincinnati Art Museum. Author Gurney Norman will conduct a writing seminar and other special sessions will focus on stress management and building self-confidence.

The application deadline is April 15. Qualified applicants will be invited to the campus for personal interview, with the College paying transportation costs. Enrollment is limited to 12 participants.

Requests for applications and additional information should be addressed to the New Opportunity School for Women, CPO 2276, Berea College, Berea, Ky. 40404.

Dr. DeGuzman Attends Seminar

Dr. Virginia DeGuzman, of Martin, attended a regional seminar of the Kentucky Chapter, American Academy of Family Physicians, February 6-7, at the Drawbridge Inn at Ft. Mitchell.

The overall theme of the seminar was new trends in medicine and sexually transmitted diseases. Topics included bulimia and anorexia, medical aspects of crack and cocaine abuse, strokes, colon and breast cancer screenings, cholesterol treatment, sexual abuse and disease in children, adult genital herpes, chlamydia, vaginitis and cervicitis.

The Kentucky Academy of Family Physicians is headquartered in Louisville and is the state association representing the state's family doctors. The American Academy of Family Physicians is located in Kansas City, Missouri and was the pioneer among medical organizations in requiring its members to take continuing medical education. Its 55,000 members must complete 150 hours of mandatory continuing study every three years.

Filing Deadline Is Today, Feb. 24

The filing deadline for candidates is today (Wednesday) February 24, not February 27 as printed in The Times, last week, according to Floyd County Clerk Carla Bolton.

16th MSU Jazz Clinic This Weekend at MSU

Morehead State University's Department of Music will host its 16th annual Jazz Clinic, Feb. 26-27.

Open to high school jazz ensembles, the clinic will begin Friday at 9 a.m. at Baird Music Hall. More than 300 students from high schools in Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana are expected to attend.

Headlining the list of guest clinicians will be jazz guitarist and MoPro Records recording artist Cal Collins, who has worked with Benny Goodman, Rosemary Clooney, Woody Herman and other jazz greats.

Other guest clinicians include: Pat Harbison, trumpets, a faculty member with the University of Cincinnati's jazz program; Tom Senff, trombones, freelance musician who has played in the big bands of Stan Kenton and Herman; Jim Rupp, drums, big band veteran musician who toured the U.S. and Europe with the bands of Herman, Maynard Ferguson and Glenn Miller. He also has recorded for several television specials.

The MSU Jazz Ensemble II, directed by David Anderson, MSU assistant professor of music, will launch a series of host concerts with a performance at 10 a.m. on Friday in Duncan Recital Hall.

The clinic's feature concert will be given by The Blue Wisp Big Band, a jazz group from Cincinnati, at 8 p.m. Friday in Duncan Recital Hall.

The host concerts are free and open to the public; however, there will be an admission fee for the public for the Blue Wisp performance. Tickets will be available at the door.

During the two-day clinic, concerts also will be given by the participating high school ensembles. Awards for the outstanding jazz ensemble, outstanding soloist will be presented at the final host concert on Saturday.

MSU music faculty assisting as clinicians will include Anderson, saxophones; Flippin, keyboards, and Chuck Archard, bass.

Atty. General Hails Death Penalty Ruling

A federal district court has, for the first time, upheld Kentucky's death penalty law adopted in 1976. "This is a victory, not only for justice but for the families of the victims of a very horrible crime," said Attorney General Fred Cowan.

The ruling came in the case of 33 year-old Paul Kordenbrock who was convicted of murder, attempted murder and robbery by the Boone Circuit Court in 1981. In January 1980, Kordenbrock and an accomplice robbed a Western Auto Store in Florence, Kentucky. Kordenbrock shot and killed an employee of the store and wounded the owner. The Kentucky Supreme Court and the United States Supreme Court previously rejected Kordenbrock's appeals. The Attorney General's Office, along with Commonwealth's Attorney Willie Mathis, has argued on behalf of Kentucky's death penalty law at each step of the appeals process.

Kordenbrock is the first inmate of the 32 on Kentucky's death row to have his claims reviewed by a federal district court. In U.S. District Court in Covington, Judge William Bertelsman ruled that Kentucky's death penalty statute is constitutional and was constitutionally applied to Kordenbrock. Over 20 other issues such as challenges to jury composition, venue, and psychiatric assistance were considered and rejected.

"Judge Bertelsman's sound and extremely thorough decision will no doubt prove beneficial not only in Kentucky courts but possibly in other states as well," said Attorney General Cowan. If Kordenbrock appeals this decision to the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, it will be the first death penalty case to be considered by that court since the death penalty was struck down by the U.S. Supreme Court.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR IRA B. POTTER, M.D. REACTION TO STRONG DRINK QUESTION: This year I left home and went away to college. For the first time in my life I had an alcoholic drink—I couldn't drink at home because both my parents have had trouble with alcohol and forbid it. What happened is it made me sick, I broke out all over. The same thing happened when I tried again. I'm sure it's psychological, but could it be something medical? ANSWER: It could be. Allergies to alcoholic beverages are among the most common. Many contain traces of denatured protein of the raw materials used in manufacture—grains, cereals, sugars, fruits. Fish glue, egg white, and isinglass are substances used to clear beer, wine and champagne. You would probably be wise to check for physical cause before looking elsewhere, or simply abstain. ### Prestonsburg Academic Team Is Ranked Tenth

The Kentucky Academic Association recently ranked the Prestonsburg High School Academic Team as tenth in the state. Prestonsburg recorded 36 wins and nine losses.

The top 20 teams listed in order of ranking are: Lafayette, Pikeville, Tates Creek, Henry Clay, Pulaski County, Christian County, Apollo, Paul Blazer, Seneca, Prestonsburg, Campbell County, Dupont Manual, Laurel County, Bullitt Central, Elizabethtown, Madison Central, Ballard, Franklin Simpson, Middlesboro and Franklin County.

Other teams receiving votes were Caldwell County, Dixie Heights, Eastern, Fleming County and Woodford County.

American Legion Medal Recipients Are Sought

There's something special about winners of the American Legion School Medal Awards, and a University of Missouri-Columbia professor wants to know what it is.

Dr. Richard English, professor of educational psychology, is conducting a nationwide search for winners of the award. He wants to identify characteristics and values of award winners and their families. The results provide valuable role model characteristics and insight into effective parenting, he says.

For decades, American Legion posts across the country have honored outstanding students who exemplify courage, honor, leadership, patriotism, scholarship and service.

"These are characteristics all the medalists possess," Dr. English says, "but we want to find out what it is in their family lives and backgrounds that influences and nurtures the growth of these characteristics."

School medal winners and parents of medalists interested in participating in the study should contact Dr. English at the College of Education, 5-B Hill Hall, Columbia, Mo. 65211.

A.A.R.P. AWARDS CERTIFICATES
The Jenny Wiley Chapter No. 3528, A.A.R.P., held its monthly dinner meeting, Friday evening, February 19, in the dining room of the Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Mr. Cooley presented Certificates of Appreciation for Outstanding Service to the Community to: Jack Freed, James E. Goble, Harmison Hale, Eva Hale, Dorothy Osborne, Myrtle Allen, Ruby Akers, and Docia B. Woods, and to Mildred (Honey) May, Garnett Fairchild, Sarah Laven, and Delmas Saunders, in absentia.

Harmison Hale led a discussion on "Insurance Coverage," and told of the Tax Aid program, at the Floyd County Library.

Mrs. Patsy Evans, director of Senior Citizens, at Archer Park, gave an interesting discussion on the activities and the services offered there. She told of the exercise program given at 11 a.m., Monday-Friday, of the Meals on Wheels program, and many other services there.

Mrs. Evans ended her discussion with a poem, and with the quotation, "It's not how old you are, but how you are old." Mrs. Cooley read a letter from the A.A.R.P. director in Winchester urging members to visit Veterans' Hospitals. Helpful bulletins were distributed.

Following the regular meeting, a meeting of the executive board was held.

Present were Orville Cooley, Gladys Cooley, James E. Goble, Marie Goble, Harmison Hale, Dorothy Osborne, Patsy Evans, John Evans, Maman G. Leslie, Fannie Runnels, Lucy C. Regan, Otela Smiley, Pearl Robertson, Glenn Anderson, Elva Spradlin, Herbert Spradlin, Hager White, Grady Spradlin, Dixie Webb, Malinda Johnson, Arnold Moore, Ruth Moore, Nick Morris, Trisha Morris, Arlie Lloyd Maynard, Hattie Maynard, Julia Curtis, Hershel Shell, Okie Mae Shell, Ruby Akers, May K. Roberts, Docia Woods, Orbie Vaughan, Ruby Lamping, Lucy E. McGuire, Mary Blankenship, Roberta Sloan, Sally M. Goble, Earliest Hayes, Lillia Mae Price, and Nola Stumbo.

LOCAL CHURCH WOMEN MEET, DISCUSS HOLY WEEK

The Local Church Women met Friday morning, February 19, at the Community United Methodist Church. Mrs. Marian Masters, wife of the pastor of the host church, and new president of this organization, presided. Mrs. Jean Burke gave the devotions. Mrs. Masters welcomed the group and read "The Purpose of the Local Church Women."

In-depth reports were given by the Rev. Tim Jessen, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, here, and Mrs. Faye Ruffing, coordinator of Cooperative Ministries of Floyd County, regarding the Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry, which is sponsored by the Local Church Women and the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association.

The Rev. Steve Hopkins, pastor of the First Baptist Church, announced that Holy Week Services would be held at this church, March 28-April 1, from 12-12:30 noon, with light lunches to be served at 12:30 p.m., and that the World Day of Prayer would be held at the Community United Methodist Church, March 6, beginning at 7 p.m., with choirs from various churches to furnish the music. The Rev. Masters, of the host church, joined in these discussions.

The president, Mrs. Masters, presided at a brief business session. Mrs. Dorothy Osborne read the minutes and gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. Eva Collins, director of the Food Pantry, gave her report. It was decided that a computer and a telephone are greatly needed in the work being done by this group which furnishes food for many needy families throughout this area. It was decided that anyone having a computer to donate, and/or is willing to pay for the installation and monthly bills of a telephone for this endeavor should call Mrs. Marian Masters at 886-8087.

Mrs. Elma Jessen reported that one of the local Girl Scout troops had expressed an interest in helping with the Food Pantry in some capacities, and this offer was welcomed by the group.

Women of the First United Methodist Church will be responsible for helping to give out food at the Pantry during the month of March, and women of the First Baptist will serve in this capacity during the month of April.

Mrs. Elma Jessen closed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served by Mesdames Marian Masters and Jean Burke of the host church, to the following, from these churches: the Rev. Ron Masters, Community United Methodist; the Rev. and Mrs. Tim Jessen, and Mrs. Faye Ruffing, First Presbyterian; the Rev. Steve Hopkins, Mesdames Dorothy Osborne, Lucy Regan, Eva Collins, and Docia Woods, First Baptist (Irene Cole Memorial), and Mesdames Dot Marshall, Jane Wallace, Hope Whitten, Fannie Runnels, and Mabel Jean LeMaster, First United Methodist.

The next meeting will be April 15, at 10:30 a.m., at St. Martha Catholic Church.

There are 56 telephones per 100 people in the United States, Washington D.C. has 130 phones per 100 people. We make 188 billion calls per year.

Miss Porter, Mr. Hansford Wed

Miss Pamela Lynn Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Porter, of Allen, and Mr. Byron Edward Hansford, son of Mrs. Berniece Hansford, of Wayland, were united in marriage, Saturday, December 26, at the Prestonsburg First Baptist Church.

The double-ring ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Mark Tackett, of Allen. Music was played by pianist, Miss Susan Compton, of Martin, and organist, Mrs. Alice Gray Buchanan, of Prestonsburg. Soloists were Mrs. Dee Dee Callis, of Paintsville, and Mr. Ronald Wright, of Water Gap. Mr. Al Peiphrey, of Allen, presided as greeter, and Mrs. Tamyra Prater Hughes, of Langley, served as the guest registrar. Mrs. Paul Spencer, of Prestonsburg, was the wedding director.

The bride's elegant satin gown was hand beaded, smocked with Venice lace, and featured puffed trim long sleeves, a sweetheart neckline, a full skirt with center appliques of Venice lace and pleated ruffles. The back was trimmed with Venice lace, draped with four strands of pearls, a satin bustle, and a cathedral train bordered with lace cut outs and pleated fluted ruffles. The head piece was of silk lilies and pearls with sparkle illusion and a pouffed veil.

Miss Aaronda Derosssett, cousin of the bride, of Allen, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Cincy Wells, of Prestonsburg, Miss Linda Quarles, of Lexington, Mrs. Cheri Hinchman Patterson, cousin of the bride, of Rochester, New York, and Miss Becky Watts, of Allen. The flower girls, cousins of the bride, were Miss Elizabeth Roahrig, of Ashland, and Miss Ashley Boyd, of Ivel. The ring bearer and Bible carrier, cousins of the bride, were Master Orbie Cockerham, of Pikeville, and Master Jason Brewer, of Lexington.

Best man was Mr. Pete Holbrook, of Prestonsburg, and groomsmen were Mr. Greg Porter, brother of the bride, of Greensboro, N.C., Mr. Thomas Murphy, of Wayland, Mr. Wendell Scott, brother-in-law of the groom, of Wayland, and Mr. Randy Hansford, nephew of the groom, of Wayland. Mr. Alan Derosssett, cousin of the bride, of Allen, and Mr. Brad Scott, nephew of the groom, of Wayland, were junior ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn with music by pianist, Miss Susan Compton. A hors d'oeuvres buffet was provided with wedding cake and punch served by Miss Renee Marshall, of Allen, and Miss Jeanna Chaffins, of Huntington, W. Va.

The bride is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and Georgetown College and is a member of the Sigma Kappa Sorority. She is employed by the Floyd County Board of Education as a teacher at Allen Central High School. Miss Porter is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Porter, of Allen, and Ft. Pierce, Fla., and the late Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hinchman, of Trum.

The groom is a graduate of Allen Central High School. He is employed by Elkhorn Industries of Wayland.

After a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the couple now resides in Allen.

Magicians To Perform Feb. 28 At Kentucky Center for the Arts

Illusions from the Orient featuring master magician Mr. Chen Liu and The Chinese Acrobats bring their art of visual enchantment to the Kentucky Center for the Arts on Sunday, February 28, in Whitney Hall. Mr. Chen Liu has taken the secrets of the Orient whence magic originated centuries ago, devising a distinctive creation of magic combined with acrobatic feats which will baffle, delight and amaze the entire family.

Imagine a rope slowly rising in the air just like the snake charmer's snake or think of dancing scarves, this is but the beginning of Illusions from the Orient performed in the traditional Chinese style. Just as the audience believes it can unveil his secrets, Mr. Chen Liu's magical mastery prevails and a lady becomes a skeleton; a ghost becomes a lady; and man becomes three woman during light illusions filled with mysterious friendly characters.

With a career that began early as an acrobat, Mr. Chen Liu has taken his skills as a magician to Japan, Malaysia, Korea, Thailand, India, The Philippines, Singapore, and the United States, where he appeared with Liberace at the Las Vegas Hilton Hotel. This performance is part of Mr. Liu's third tour of America.

Ticket to Illusions from the Orient are available for $9.50 or $5.50 for children and balcony. Call the Kentucky Center for the Arts Ticket Service at 584-7777 or toll-free in Kentucky 1-800-448-7777 for reservations.

Groups of ten or more call 562-0108 for more information.

Local Doctors Retain Membership In AAFP

Dr. Ellen Joyce, of Banner, and Dr. Lowell D. Martin, of Martin, have completed continuing education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors. The Academy formerly was called the American Academy of General Practice.

The requirements call for the members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years. Members become eligible for re-election at the end of the third year following their election to membership. The Academy, the country's second largest national medical association, was the first national medical group to require members to keep up with medical progress through continuing education.

Melinda Gail Parsons
To Compete for Grants

Melinda Gail Parsons, a senior at Betsy Layne High School and daughter of Barlowe and Shirley Parsons, of Honaker, has been recognized by the Who's Who Among American High School Student to compete for a $1,000 grant.

She has been a member of the Beta Club for two years and has also been recognized by the Scholastic All-American to compete for another grant because of her rank of 13 among the 150 seniors there.

Her biography and picture will be published in the annual issue of both books. She was nominated by Arian Issac and teachers at the school.

Miss Parsons has been on the honor roll all through high school.

State Cattle Declared To Be Tuberculosis Free

Agriculture Commissioner Ward "Butch" Burnette and State Veterinarian Dr. Don Notter have announced that Kentucky has been proclaimed a bovine tuberculosis free state.

The proclamation was delivered from Washington by Dr. James W. Glosser, deputy administrator of Veterinary Services for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Kentucky is the 34th state to achieve bovine TB-free accreditation since the national program began in 1917.

The last herd infected with bovine TB was found in the Commonwealth in 1981. In order to qualify for the accreditation, Kentucky had to have no reported cases of tuberculosis in cattle for five years, had to establish a program of surveillance for the disease which was acceptable to USDA and had to have a dealer's records and licensing program established so that infected cattle could be traced back to their herds of origin.

"This is an important achievement for the Kentucky livestock industry," Glosser said. "Elimination of this disease in your cattle will facilitate their interstate and international movement, perhaps opening markets that were closed to them before. It will also make brokers take a second look at the state as their source for animals. They are always looking for areas of regions in which diseases have been eliminated because it lowers their costs."

Dr. Robert Geyer, area veterinarian in charge at the Frankfort office of the USDA, said Indiana has already said it will accept cattle from Kentucky without testing them for TB.

This eliminates the cost of the test, two visits from a veterinarian to administer and read the test, and a three-day wait to move the cattle until the test can be read. It will be a savings to the cattle producer, he noted.

Kentucky Severe Storms Awareness Week Declared

The week of March 6-12 has been designated as 1988 Severe Storms Awareness Week in Kentucky. Sponsors are the State Division of Disaster and Emergency Services, the State Department of Education, and the Kentucky Educational Television Network.

This time of year marks the beginning of the season for severe storms over the state, and provides the major reason to conduct these programs of emphasis. State and local emergency plans and procedures should be examined with particular emphasis on severe weather and on flooding.

Awareness week also marks the time for a statewide test of emergency warning systems, and drills for not only emergency response agencies, but also for businesses, industries and school systems. Only by constructive attention to readiness at the local level will Kentucky be prepared for the worst which nature has to offer.

Wednesday, March 9, sometime between 9 a.m. and noon (EST), the National Weather Service will issue a test tornado warning. The weather service will send the message by teletype wire and over NOAA Weather Radio to many points over the state, including news media, schools, hospitals and emergency groups.

Simultaneously, state DES will use its facilities to activate the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS), a network of broadcast facilities across the state. The Kentucky State Police will trigger the same test warning on the National Warning System (NAWAS) that will go to all state police posts, and from there to the 24-hour warning points in every county of the state.

In 1987 Kentucky escaped any major disaster brought about either by tornadoes or severe storms and flooding. While 28 persons were injured, there were no fatalities reported during the year.

In fact, the decade of the 1980 has been one of outstanding progress in terms of deaths and casualties from tornadoes. Can this be attributed to improved weather forecasting and facilities, or did local warning systems prevent disaster? Could it be a combination of many things?

Disaster and Emergency officials are reluctant to "crow" about such successes. They know tornadoes and other violent storms have a way of happening, no matter what. But when people are ready—and that situation improves every year—the worst aspects of the risk are dramatically reduced.

St. Jude's Names Two To Lead County Drives

The Central Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has announced that the following individuals in Floyd county have agreed to chair the 1988 Bike-A-Thons in their community.

Mrs. Rose Price for Prestonsburg and Mrs. Drema Clay for Dwayne will each chair separate Bike-a-Thons this year.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of catastrophic diseases afflicting children.

All findings and information gained at the hospital are shared freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world. Thanks to St. Jude Hospital, children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle-cell anemia, and other child killing diseases now have a better chance to live.

Mothers Against Drunk Driving

7320 LaGrange Road, Suite 227, Louisville, KY 40222

February 15, 1988

A very serious threat now looms for the citizens of the Commonwealth in keeping drunk drivers off the roads.

House Bill 533, has passed the House and will now be considered by the Senate. House Bill 533 would allow a convicted drunk driver to drive on a restricted license.

The "restricted drivers license" has little merit among the alcohol treatment community, nor do the law enforcement agencies of the Commonwealth believe that meaningful enforcement of such a "restricted" license could be carried out.

MADD OPPOSES HB533 & its SENATE Companion Bill.

House Bill 293 would allow convicted drunk drivers to substitute their jail sentences for time in an "approved treatment program". During the extensive public hearings prior to the passage of the 1984 DWI law, not a single expert in the treatment field would endorse a DWI program without jail time.

MADD OPPOSES HOUSE BILL 293

House Bill 570 is one of the most misguided pieces of legislation MADD has ever seen. House Bill 570 proposes to "exempt", from any resultant liability, individuals and/or organizations who knowingly serve alcohol to a person who is already intoxicated. MADD believes that "host liability" should be determined only on a case-by-case basis.

MADD OPPOSES HOUSE BILL 570

MADD is deeply concerned about the erosion of the tough DWI stand which Kentucky took four years ago. The DWI law passed by the 1984 General Assembly has been extremely effective. Fewer deaths, as the result of DWI, have occurred since its enactment.

Please help MADD let others know of these proposed changes to the drunk driving laws of the Commonwealth, and how MADD believes they will jeopardize the health and safety of every Kentuckian.

Thank you.

50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George Vanderpool, of Garrett, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Friday, February 5, at Pikeville Memorial Hospital where Mrs. Vanderpool was a patient.

Those present were the Vanderpool's three sons, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Vanderpool, of Hamlet, N.C., Mr. and Mrs. Herman Vanderpool, of Louisville, Mr. and Mrs. Dorlan Vanderpool, of Louisville, and Amber Dawn Vanderpool, their great-granddaughter.

The anniversary cake was shared with the fourth floor nurse's station, other patients, family and friends.

LOVING LEFTOVERS

From the American Institute for Cancer Research

The next time you go the refrigerator and are faced with a crowd of half-empty jars of tomato paste and water chestnuts, leftover broccoli and corn, and picked-over roast chicken, remember this: leftovers don't have to be a problem. They can be turned into the solution for adding pizzazz to future meals. Here are some ideas:

- * Toast and cube stale bread for salad croutons.
- * Mix leftover cottage cheese in a blender with leftover seafood or vegetables and use as a base for dips; season to taste.
- * Spoon warmed-over baked beans on a lean hamburger patty.
- * Marinate leftover vegetables in a lowfat dressing for appetizers.
- * Add leftover vegetables to soups or scrambled eggs.
- * Stir-fry vegetables with bits of seafood, chicken or meat.
- * Add leftover fruit to fruit-flavored gelatins.
- * Mix leftover fruit in a blender with skim milk, honey and vanilla extract for a fruit milk shake.

For safe and nutritious use of leftovers, always store food correctly and use promptly. Refrigerate perishable foods right away; don't allow cooked foods to cool to room temperature before storing; and don't store food in cans—transfer them to clean, covered glass or plastic containers. Keep track of foods that need to be used, but "when in doubt, throw it out!"

This recipe uses leftover rice—a great way to use last night's leftovers for a breakfast treat with a nutty taste and chewy flavor.

LEFTOVER RICE MUFFINS
 1 1/4 cups whole wheat flour
 2 tbsp. packed brown sugar
 2 tsp. baking powder
 2 eggs
 2/3 cup skim milk
 1/4 vegetable oil
 1/4 tsp. almond extract
 1 cup cooked brown rice
 Heat oven to 400 degrees and grease muffin pans.

Sift flour, sugar and baking powder into a large bowl, stirring in any bran that remains in sifter. Beat the eggs, milk, oil and almond extract in separate bowl; stir in rice.

Stir the wet ingredients into the flour mixture, just until the flour is moist and mixtures are blended. Spoon batter into muffin pans. Bake until lightly browned and inserted toothpick comes out clean, about 20 minutes.

Serve warm or cool on a rack. This recipe yields 12 muffins, each with 127 calories and 6 grams of fat.

What's Black or White And Bites All Over

By JESSICA MORRISON

They can make their tiny bodies black, white or somewhere in between—depending on the color of their surroundings. What the young anopheline mosquitoes are doing, scientists think, is matching their bodies to their environment to survive among enemies.

After noticing color differences in baby mosquitoes from different areas in a water body, USDA scientists Mark Q. Benedict and Jack A. Seawright raised them in white and black pans. Result: white ones and jet black ones, respectively.

The scientists think the young mosquitoes, called larvae, produce more pigment in a dark environment.

A larva moved from a white pan into a black one turns black gradually, going through intermediate brown stages until it matches the pan.

If taken out halfway through its color change and put back into a white pan, it stops producing pigment and stays exactly as it is.

Even more interesting, black and white larvae put in the middle of a dual-colored pan tended to wriggle to the side painted the color of their bodies.

"We think the color change is an evolutionary mechanism to protect larvae from their enemies," Benedict said. "After all, if they can't be seen, then they can't be eaten."

The scientists study these biting malaria transmitters at the Insects Affecting Man and Animals Research Laboratory in Gainesville, Fla. They also checked Culex and Aedes mosquitoes. But the kind they tested didn't change color. Culex and Aedes, it turns out, often breed in temporary water spots, like ditches that fill up during a heavy rain, where it's unlikely that a lot of larva-eating predators would be.

Anopheline larvae, on the other hand, have a stable environment like lakes or quiet pools in creeks, where predators abound.

Leaf litter on the bottom or dark dye type chemicals coming out of trees and leaves would prompt the creatures to turn jet black. "Larvae on floating vegetation, on the other hand, would probably stay lighter," Benedict said. "They have to be able to survive wherever they find themselves."

The scientists are looking for the gene that controls the color change and want to use it to genetically engineer mosquitoes that will be sterile. "We could release nonbiting, sterile males to mate with wild females and cut down on mosquito numbers," Benedict said.

Breakfast Raises Funds For U.S. Olympic Team

Despite ominous weather forecasts, over 400 people, encompassing businesses, community leaders and individuals, turned out Thursday, February 11, to help kick off the Olympics and raised over $8,000 for the 1988 U.S. Olympic Team. The Olympic Kick-Off Breakfast, designed by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky to raise funds for the U.S. Olympic Team, was held at the Galt House East in Louisville. The breakfast program featured 1984 Olympic Gold Medalist Mary T. Meagher and University of Louisville Basketball Coach Denny Crum.

Van Horn, Munduga Get Nat'l Coverage

The national sports spotlight will shine on Frankfort on Sunday, Feb. 21, when NBC Sportsworld broadcasts live from the Farnham Dudgeon Civic Center a ten-round junior middleweight boxing match between Darrin Van Horn, of Lexington, and John Munduga, of Uganda.

Peggy Parker, executive director of the Capital Plaza Authority that operates the civic center, said she is happy to have the national exposure the event will give to the civic center. "This is the first live national broadcast of a civic center event and we are eager to work with everyone involved to provide a quality setting for the boxing program," she said.

While the fight promoter, Cedric Kushner Productions, of East Hampton, N.Y., provides the ring and takes care of a lot of the preparation for such a big fight, Parker and the employees of the authority are also working at a feverish pace. "We're getting ready for the television crews and their equipment and preparing for the crowd the boxing program will attract," she said.

Parker said that the boxing card may be the first step in bringing major events to the civic center on a regular basis. "But, it is important that the public supports these events, that we have a good crowd," she said. NBC will black out the boxing event in Kentucky if it is not a sellout 48 hours in advance.

Van Horn is undefeated in 34 fights and Munduga has lost only once in 27 bouts. Van Horn, who is only 19, was on the cover of the January issue of The Ring Magazine and the article inside contained such phrases as "unlimited potential" and "million dollar baby."

Also on the afternoon's card is a 10-round heavyweight fight with Louisville's James Pritchard going up against Steve Mormino of St. Louis and three six-round preliminaries featuring the Brown brothers (Jerry, Bill and Bryan) of Lexington.

The program will begin at 2 p.m. Tickets are available at all Ticketron outlets, the civic center at Frankfort, the Continental Inn at Lexington or by calling (606) 263-5384.

GEORGE WASHINGTON was born on February 22, 1732, in Westmoreland County, Virginia. He was President of the Constitutional Convention and was elected the first President of the United States in 1789. The John Graham Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution honors this great patriot who is known as the "Father of our country", and urges citizens to celebrate the anniversary of his birthday.

Small Counties Are Relic Of Past, Mergers Needed

By John Ed Pearce
(for the Shakertown Roundtable)

Kentucky has 120 counties, more per capita than any other state. Everyone who studies Kentucky government agrees that 120 is too many. They cost Kentuckians too much. They impede progress. Many are too small and too poor to provide people with modern services.

Because there are too many counties, Kentuckians, especially those who live in small counties, pay for more courthouses, more elections, more county officials and more school boards than they need. They could save money, reduce the influence of politics and improve government services if the counties could be consolidated into fewer, larger units.

Kentuckians refuse to do anything about it. They love their counties, no matter how poor and backward they may be, and how great a burden they constitute. They identify with them. Ask a Kentuckian where he is from and he will give you the name of a county. The county high school and its teams are often a Kentuckian's greatest point of pride.

The trouble is that small counties are obsolete, a relic of the past. They were formed when transportation and travel were difficult because of bad roads - or no roads at all - the idea being to make it possible for everyone to visit the courthouse and return home in a day's travel on horseback.

Conditions have changed. The counties haven't.

The existence of so many, separate county governments often complicates life for the people involved. Children living in one county often travel miles to school while a school of another county is only a short distance away. County roads often join those of neighboring counties, and travel is complicated when counties don't agree on road projects. County lines often conflict with private property boundaries or city limits. Counties are often too small to afford a county police force, complicating law enforcement outside the towns.

"The reduction in the number of counties is one of the most pressing reasons for revision of the state constitution," Dr. Brinton Milward told the recent conference of the Shakertown Roundtable that studied the state of the Commonwealth. "Too numerous counties suffer from the lack of unified administrative structures, a constitutional requirement that hampers planning and services; for example, the county judge, the magistrates, the sheriff and the jailer all have a hand in financing and running the county jail. And financing a jail has already become too great a problem for many small counties."

"It is no wonder," Milward said, "that so many small counties are in financial trouble. It costs as much to run an ambulance in Robertson County as in Jefferson. Small counties have too few businesses to provide much revenue from an occupational tax, too few people to produce much revenue from property taxes. Laws designed to protect small rural counties inhibit action by metropolitan counties, and standards needed for large counties often place intolerable burdens on smaller ones."

Another argument for consolidation of counties is the fact that it is harder for one family or faction to wield control. Some small counties have been controlled by family factions for years. This tends to produce

GO ASK ALEX: A gray parrot named Alex has been taught to name objects, identify shapes and perceive quantities up to six. According to National Wildlife magazine, tests show that Alex doesn't just mimic. More than 80 percent of the time the parrot correctly describes an object and color, even if he has never seen that object before.

John Ed Pearce

county governments devoted to politics instead of service. And such groups are naturally among the strongest opponents of consolidation.

Just as they cling to the burden of the counties, Kentuckians also resist all efforts to remove the burden of the constitution though it is commonly judged the worst state charter in the nation. It saddles the state with too many elective officers and with departments of government no longer needed. It hampers especially the operation of larger counties, and makes it difficult for the larger towns and cities to pass laws regulating their own affairs. It requires too many elections; there is an election of some kind every six months, making it hard to get people to participate in all of them, and making them more easily controlled by political machines.

The need for these changes has been obvious for years, and for years Kentuckians have refused to make them. The biggest problem facing Kentucky is the attitude of Kentuckians.

Fourth of a series on the "State of the state" conference sponsored by the Shakertown Roundtable at Pleasant Hill, Mercer County, Nov. 8-9, 1987. Wilson W. Wyatt, conference chairman. Earl D. Wallace, Lexington, is chairman of the Roundtable, a non-profit, non-partisan study group. Al Smith is vice chairman.

Nursing Graduate

Kimberly J. Patton graduated from the Indiana University School of Nursing at a ceremony held December 12. She passed her state exam for nursing this month.

Miss Patton is the daughter of Alex and Glenda Patton, Columbus, Ind., and the granddaughter of Nola Carroll, of Martin, and Bessie Patton, of Stephens Branch.

MARTIN HOMEMAKERS

The Martin Homemakers held their regular monthly meeting February 8 at 7 p.m. at the E. P. Grigsby Senior Citizens Center.

Club president, Gail Osborne, presided and Alice Hayes led the devotional using Matthew 5:14 entitled A Tiny Spark.

Peggy Comstock was welcomed as a new member. Dorothy Tackett gave the secretary-treasurer report.

Frances Pitts informed the group of the Heart Fund's request for homemakers to help with their fund raising drive. She also informed the group of future events including a serger demonstration February 29, a program on Appearance Makes a Difference, April 6, and homemaker's camp June 1-3.

The Floyd county annual meeting will be held September 28 with Terry Curtright, guest speaker, presenting a lesson on color analysis and makeup.

Mrs. Pitts gave the February lesson on how to store and display family keepsakes and the importance of a household inventory.

Hostesses Alice Hayes and Jean Watson served refreshments to Peggy Comstock, Frances Pitts, Jean Meade, Gail Osborne, Alice Hayes, Dorothy Tackett, Altonette Bentley, Geraldine Bartrum and Marena Rowland. Each member received a heart-shaped sachet made by Mrs. Watson.

The March meeting will be held March 14 at 7 p.m. at the E. P. Grigsby Senior Citizens Center.

Dough won't stick to your hands if it is kneaded inside a large plastic bag.

HOROSCOPE

F. D. Smith

- ARIES (March 21-April 20) Stay close to the work scene this week. It will be the place where the major amount of activity is.
TAURUS (April 21-May 20) Matters of an intensely personal nature are emphasized at this point. Go slowly, for you may have to decide on a new direction.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Basic issues surface at this time. Stay with them, since you want to stay in charge of all late-breaking developments.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Communications are a factor to be dealt with this week. Pace yourself, however, and avoid any form of sarcasm that comes to mind.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Money matters are at the center of this week's involvements. Keep those details ready and right where you can find them.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your personal efforts are under scrutiny at this point. Know what you want and be prepared to withstand all opposition now.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Move away from anyone, or anything, that undermines your endeavors right now. Others may try but you're having none of it!
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Romance and mystery stalk you in a way that even you may find overwhelming. Keep a low profile while remaining extremely flexible.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Invite all those who would oppose your views to do so openly. This is the best way for you.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The future is suddenly here as others make their thoughts and feelings known. But the final choice will still be yours.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) The resources of others are part of the scenario now. You will emerge victorious once you bring everything into balance.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Certain individuals would have you think that your current alliances will not work.

Scottie Is Six

Scottie Douglas Samons celebrated his sixth birthday Saturday, February 6, at his home.

He is the son of Doug and Sherry Samons, of Van Lear, and the grandson of Walker and Olive Preece, of Inez, and Mary Samons, of Martin.

Scholars Program Announced At Centre

Senior Scholars at Centre, an intensive three-week course of study for students who have completed their junior year of high school, will be offered June 12-July 1 at Centre College.

Centre faculty members will teach five courses: Computers and Mathematics, Computer Applications to the Physical Sciences, International Affairs, Literature and Writing, and Shakespeare: Text and Performance.

Admission requirements for the Senior Scholars Program include: completion of the junior year of high school; a strong academic record in a college preparatory program; the name of a teacher or counselor who can furnish a recommendation; submission of a current high school transcript, and, for some courses, high school preparation in certain academic subjects.

For further information and application forms, contact: Dr. Preston Miles, Program Director, Senior Scholars at Centre, Centre College, Danville, Kentucky 40422, or phone (606) 236-5211 (office) or (606) 236-8209 (home).

ALEXANDER HAMILTON, a New York lawyer, was the first Secretary of the Treasury under President George Washington under the new Constitution. The John Graham Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution honors these outstanding leaders who were instrumental in establishing the new government.

By HAROLD COOLEY

ANTACIDS AS DRUGS

Antacids may appear to be innocuous over-the-counter drugs to the many millions of Americans who consume them. Yet, these stomach soothers can have some adverse effects on prescription drugs that are taken at the same time. For instance, mixing an antacid with tetracycline will delay the action of this common antibiotic. If an antacid contains the active ingredient aluminum hydroxide, it will delay the rate at which the stomach empties. This slowing action can affect the absorption rate of certain anticoagulants, barbiturates, and certain anti-anxiety drugs. The FDA realizes the dangers that the interaction of antacids and certain prescription drugs poses. It will soon require a warning label on all antacids.

Always follow label directions. Many people think that over-the-counter medications are "safe" to use and do not stop to realize that these medicines if not taken carefully and properly can have repercussions. The literature enclosed in most medications warn the user of any side effects the medication may produce. If in doubt about a medication, ask your pharmacist. COOLEY APOTHECARY takes great pride in the role we play in promoting the health of members of our family. We are located at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. MasterCard and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

HINT: Americans spend one-half billion dollars a year on antacids.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN was born in Boston on January 17, 1706. He has often been called "America's patron saint of common sense" and was successful in many fields—inventor, publisher, author, philosopher, businessman, scientist and printer. The John Graham Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution honors this great statesman.

Engagement Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. Hillard Cecil, of Stanville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rasha Elizabeth, to Joseph Larry Miles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Werner Miles, of Bardstown.

Miss Cecil is a 1987 graduate of Eastern Kentucky University and is presently employed as a paralegal at the law firm of Taft, Stettinius and Hollister in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. Miles is a senior at Eastern Kentucky University and is majoring in business administration.

A May wedding is planned.

Named To Top Position With Extension Service

Curtis Absher, Extension animal science specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, has been named to a top spot in the Cooperative Extension Service.

Absher, 47, assumes the position of assistant director of the Cooperative Extension Service for agriculture. He replaces Mac Whiteker who recently retired.

Absher has served as an Extension specialist in animal sciences at UK since 1969 with primary responsibilities for developing educational programs in beef production. He has been chief architect of the university's Graze More Beef program, a controlled grazing project in which large numbers of cattle intensively graze in small paddocks of pastures for a short period of time and then rotated into fresh fields. Under the innovative approach, cattle have recorded as much as 900 pounds of beef live weight gain per acre while improving the pasture through uniform grazing patterns.

Shirley Phillips, associate director of the Cooperative Extension Service, said, "Absher has served as county Extension agent, state specialist and at the national level as a coordinator of USDA's Integrated Reproduction Management program, all of which provides an excellent background for his new assignment."

ORDINANCE NO. 4-88

AN ORDINANCE RELATING TO THE ESTABLISHMENT OF RECREATIONAL, TOURIST AND CONVENTION COMMISSION.

WHEREAS, The City Council realizes and appreciates the need for the promotion of recreational, convention and tourist activity within and around the City of Prestonsburg, and

WHEREAS, KRS, 91A.350 authorizes the creation and establishment of a recreational tourist and convention commission for such promotional purposes to be maintained as hereinafter set out,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY,

Section 1: There is hereby established a recreation convention and tourist commission to be known as the Prestonsburg Recreation, Tourist and Convention Commission.

Section 2: The commission shall consist of Seven (7) members to be appointed by the Mayor as follows:

(a) Two (2) commissioners from a list submitted by the hotel and motel industry in the city;

(b) Two (2) commissioners from a list submitted by the restaurant industry in the city;

(c) One (1) commissioner for a list submitted by the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce;

(d) Two (2) commissioners named by the Mayor at large;

Section 3: Terms of the commission members shall be for three (3) years, except that in making the original appointments, three commissioners will have one (1) year term; two (2) commissioners will have three (3) year terms; and two (2) commissioners will have four (4) year terms.

Section 4: Commission members shall serve without compensation.

Section 5: The commission shall elect a chairman, and a treasurer, who shall serve without compensation.

Section 6: All vacancies on the commission shall be filled in the same manner the original appointments are made.

Section 7: The commission shall have all of the rights, powers, duties and obligations prescribed by law relating to the promotion of recreational, convention and tourist activity in the city. It may employ such personnel and make such contracts as are necessary to effectively carry out the purposes of KRS, 91A.350 to 91A.390. Such contracts may include but shall not be limited to the procurement of promotional services, advertising services and other services and materials relating to the promotion of tourist and convention business; however, that such contracts be made only with persons, organizations, and firms with experience and qualifications for providing promotional services and materials, such as advertising firms, chambers of commerce, publishers and printers.

Section 8: The books and records of the commission shall be audited by an independent auditor who shall make a report to the commissioner, to the Mayor and the City Council annually.

Section 9: This ordinance shall take effect after its passage and upon publication.

Enacted this 8th day of February, 1988.

ORDINANCE NO. 5-88

AN ORDINANCE RELATING TO THE FINANCE AND COST OF ACQUISITION, CONSTRUCTION, OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE OF FACILITIES USEFUL IN THE ATTRACTION AND PROMOTION OF TOURISTS AND CONVENTION BUSINESS IN THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY.

WHEREAS, the City Council has experienced the need for continued funding for the promotion of recreational, convention and tourist activity within and around the City of Prestonsburg; and

WHEREAS, the City has created by Ordinance No. 4-88 a Recreational, Tourist and Convention Commission for the promotion of these activities within the City of Prestonsburg, known as the Prestonsburg Recreation, Tourism and Convention Commission; and

WHEREAS, KRS 91A.400 authorizes the imposition of a 3% special tax on the gross retail sales of restaurants doing business within the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky for the funding of the recreation, Tourism and Convention Commission;

BE IT HEREBY ORDAINED BY THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY,

SECTION 1: For the purpose of operation of the Prestonsburg Recreation, Tourist and to finance the cost of acquisition, construction, operation and maintenance of facilities useful in the attraction and promotion of tourist and convention business, including the city park system, there is hereby imposed and levied a special tax of 3% of the gross retail sales of restaurants doing business within the city.

SECTION 2: On and after July 1, 1988, every person, company, corporation or other like, or similar persons, groups or organizations doing business as restaurants located in the city shall pay quarterly to the City Treasurer a tax of 3% of the gross retail sales collected by them during the preceding quarter. Such tax shall be due and payable to the City Treasurer thirty (30) days after the last day of each quarter, together with a return on a form furnished by or obtained from the Treasurer, setting forth an aggregate amount of gross retail sales charged and collected during the period to which the tax applies, together with such other pertinent information as the Treasurer may require. Restaurants would begin collecting April 1, 1988 and make the first payment before August 1, 1988.

SECTION 3: Any tax imposed by this Ordinance which shall remain unpaid after it becomes due, as set forth herein, shall have added to it a penalty of 10%, together with interest at the rate of 6% against the total amount of tax overdue at any time. After sixty (60) days, the amount of penalty shall be compounded each month. These penalties are the same as those for late payment of city occupational taxes.

SECTION 4: The tax imposed herein shall be in addition to other general taxes and the occupational or business license taxes payable to the City of Prestonsburg.

SECTION 5: It will be the responsibility of the tax payer to maintain books, records, and papers in support of all amounts reported on the quarterly return. The City will be permitted to examine the books, records and papers of the tax payer upon notification in writing to the tax payer.

SECTION 6: Any person who shall purposefully refuse to file a return, pay the tax due, or who shall knowingly file a false or fraudulent return required herein, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor subject to a fine of not more than $100.00 for each violation, imprisonment for not more than thirty (30) days, or both.

SECTION 7: A collection fee in the amount of 3% of the first $1,000.00 and 2 1/4% of the tax in excess of $1,000.00 shall be retained by the city.

SECTION 8: The Recreation, Tourist and Convention Commission shall annually submit to the City Council a request for funds for the operation of the commission for the ensuing year. The Council shall include the commission in its annual budget and shall provide funds for the operation of the commission in its annual budget.

SECTION 9: The Commission shall include in its annual budget funds for the costs of maintenance, acquisition, construction and operation of city park facilities useful in the attraction and promotion of tourist and convention business, including athletic facilities. For the first five years after the date of the adoption of this Ordinance, the Commission shall budget a minimum of 75% of its funds to the City Park Commission for such purposes. After five years, the Commission shall meet annually with the Park Commission prior to the preparation of the Commission's budget to determine the amount of funds to be allocated to the park system. The city recognizes Archer Park and any other city recreational parks existing now or hereafter established, to be a major attraction for visitors to this area, and it is the intent of this Ordinance to provide sufficient funding to the city park system to maintain city recreational facilities at a high level for future growth and development of Prestonsburg's tourism economy.

SECTION 10: The funds collected from this tax shall be maintained by the City Treasurer in a special fund and disbursed to the Commission in accordance with its annual budget. All such money shall be used solely from the purpose of promoting recreational, convention and tourist activity in the city as set out in KRS Section 91A.390, and shall not be used to provide a subsidy in any form to any hotel, motel or restaurant. Any money not expended by the Commission during any fiscal year will be used to make up a part of the Commission's budget for the next fiscal year.

SECTION 11: The Treasurer and any other officer of the Commission writing checks or handling funds shall be bonded by the City of Prestonsburg in an amount commensurate to the largest amount of money on hand in any given month.

SECTION 12: The Prestonsburg City Council forbids the Commission to issue revenue bonds or to borrow money beyond the fiscal year without the express approval of the Prestonsburg City Council. The fiscal year shall begin July 1 of each year and terminate on June 30 following.

SECTION 13: This Ordinance shall take effect after its passage and upon publication.

Enacted this 8th day of February, 1988.

U.S.S.R. Glasnost Exhibit Comes To Cincinnati

The end result of a cultural exchange agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union signed in Geneva in 1985 is coming to Cincinnati starting Monday, February 29 thru March 27, Cincinnati's Union Terminal will be the site of the Soviet exhibit "U.S.S.R.: Individual, Family, and Society."

The exhibit which will only appear in six U.S. cities, Washington, D.C., Atlanta, New Orleans, Memphis, Cincinnati, and Kansas City, is part of an arrangement made by Ronald Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev. This exposition is an opportunity to learn more about the Soviet Union, its people, and culture, while an exhibit from the U.S. is making the rounds in U.S.S.R., giving U.S.S.R. residents a look at American life.

Yuri V. Dubinin, the Soviet Ambassador to the United States is scheduled to open the Cincinnati stop of the "U.S.S.R.: Individual, Family and Society" exhibit.

The show will be in Cincinnati for twenty-eight days and will give people a chance to reach out and touch a society that for so long has been so far away.

IN MEMORIAM
In memory of Jim Rice, who died February 7, 1983.
On a cold day in February,
When your life had been expired;
You were taken away without warning,
But to many lives you had inspired;
We've got to pick up the broken pieces,
And start our lives anew;
But even with your absence Jim,
I'll always love and miss you.
Sadly missed by

Third Game Dreaded In 58th District Tourney

Bonita Compton didn't want it. Neither did Bridgett Clay. But Thursday morning Compton was given the third seed in next week's district tournament. Compton's Allen Central Lady Rebs finished in a second place tie with Prestonsburg in the Floyd County Conference, forcing a draw to settle the tournament's seeding. The second seed means a bye in the tourney. The third seed means an extra win for any team wishing to make the regional tournament. "It takes only one bad game for you to be eliminated," Lady Blackcat coach Bridgett Clay said of the third seed versus the second. "By playing an extra game, it increases your chances of having a bad game." But Clay dodged the bullet. Allen Central was given the third seed, and as a result has to play Wheelwright on the tournament's opening night. The two teams will hook up Wednesday night at 6:30. In three previous meetings this season, Allen Central has defeated Wheelwright three times, once in the Pre-Season Tournament and twice during the regular season. But last year the Lady Trojans proved that regular season results don't mean much when tournament time rolls around. Wheelwright eliminated the Lady Rebs in last year's tournament. It was in the first game of the tournament then. Prestonsburg, splitting with Allen Central and sweeping Wheelwright in the home and home regular season series, will play the winner of the Lady Reb-Lady Trojan contest. In her three seasons as girls' coach, Allen Central's Compton has received the third seed in the tournament every year. The first year, they made it to the regional tournament. Last season, Wheelwright denied them the trip. In the other opening round game, Betsy Layne will play McDowell. The Lady Bobcats, in the two team's last meeting, defeated McDowell by 42 points. Betsy Layne has been rated as high as second in the region. They won the Pre-season Tournament, captured a Floyd County Conference title, and are the favorite to win the district tournament. The Betsy Layne-McDowell winner advances to the championship game. Prestonsburg won the district tournament last year, and Betsy Layne finished as the runner-up. The same two schools, of the past two tournaments Allen Central and Prestonsburg, are the fourth and third seeds in the boys' district tourney. They follow the girls' game, Wednesday. But playing the third game is no stranger to the Rebels. Last year Johnny Martin made the nearly impossible a reality by directing his team from the third seed to a district championship. That had not been accomplished in several years. But even though they enjoyed success, Martin hates the third and fourth seed. In 1986, Allen Central lost to Wheelwright in a district semi-final game. Two nights before they had defeated Prestonsburg. Martin said playing the extra game may have kept his team from reaching the regional tournament. This year, they play Prestonsburg in the tournament's opening night. The Blackcats and Rebels will tip off at about 8. The two teams split during the regular season. This year will mark the third straight year Allen Central and Prestonsburg have opened the boys' tournament. The Rebels have won the game the previous two seasons.

DOWN WITH THE REBOUND: Prestonsburg junior center Scott Hall pulls down this rebound against Magoffin County.

WELCOMED ADDITION: Bear Halbert is an offensive lineman by trade, but this past weekend he proved his worth on the basketball court. In two games he scored 28 points as Allen Central won both games. Here he sneaks through the Elkhorn City defense for two of his 15 points.

Tough Season For Rebels Made Easier By Two Wins

It's been one of those seasons that Johnny Martin and Allen Central had rather forget. Before the weekend began, the Rebels had won but seven games. Their worst season ever with Johnny Martin as head coach saw them win nine games. With the possibility of worsening their all-time worst, Allen Central went on a two-game weekend war that produced two wins. And convincing wins at that. Friday night, behind Joey Conn's game-high 18 points, Allen Central handed Whitesburg a 57-27 thumping. Bear Halbert added 13 points, and Rady Martin chipped in with 10. Saturday the Rebels continued their winning ways, defeating Elkhorn City 83-72 at home. The win improved Allen Central's record to 9-14.

quarter, Elkhorn City's Kermit Belcher polished off a steal with a layup, and as time ran out in the opening period Charlie Hawkins cashed in on a layup made available when he stole the basketball at mid-court. Hawkins, a 6'4" senior post player, enjoyed one of his best games ever. He scored 23 points, 13 of those coming in the second quarter when Elkhorn City pulled to within one point. Hawkins' biggest shot came at the close of the first half when he launched a shot from half court that drew nothing but net.

It polished off a 9-2 run, wiped out what had been a nine-point lead heading into the quarter and closed the gap to 35-34.

But then was about the time Joey Conn unleashed his offensive attack inside. The 6'2" sophomore, after the Cougars had taken a three-point lead, scored eight straight Allen Central points.

The Rebels followed that up with some strong offensive rebounding. Leading by two points, the Rebels scored six straight points off offensive rebounding, four from Halbert, and opened up a six-point advantage.

The Rebels built their lead to 10 points early in the fourth quarter, and hit enough free throws to earn their ninth win of the season.

The Cougars elected to make Allen Central win the game at the charity stripe while opting for the three-point shot on their offensive end.

And it appeared to be working for a while.

With 1:58 remaining in the game, Mike Mullins buried a three-pointer to cut the lead down to six points. Todd Duff then missed a front end of a bonus free throw opportunity, and the Cougars had an opportunity to pull even closer. But they failed to capitalize on their opportunities, and Allen Central hit six of their next eight free throws to deny Elkhorn City any further chances.

In the fourth quarter alone, the Rebels shot 33 free throws, hitting 22. In the first three quarters Allen Central hit seven of their nine chances from the free throw line. Rady Martin led the Rebels offensively, scoring 22 points. Joey Conn finished the game with 19. Kevin Webb and Bear Halbert both scored 15 points. Elkhorn City, 6-18, was led by Charlie Hawkins' 23 points. Mike Mullins added 20, and H.D. Fraley chipped in with 13 points.

Allen Central will conclude their season Friday night at home when they take on the 14th region's top team, Hazard.

The two teams met earlier this month in Hazard. The Bulldogs handed Allen Central a three-point loss.

But last year the Lady Trojans proved that regular season results don't mean much when tournament time rolls around. Wheelwright eliminated the Lady Rebs in last year's tournament. It was in the first game of the tournament then. Prestonsburg, splitting with Allen Central and sweeping Wheelwright in the home and home regular season series, will play the winner of the Lady Reb-Lady Trojan contest.

In her three seasons as girls' coach, Allen Central's Compton has received the third seed in the tournament every year. The first year, they made it to the regional tournament. Last season, Wheelwright denied them the trip. In the other opening round game, Betsy Layne will play McDowell. The Lady Bobcats, in the two team's last meeting, defeated McDowell by 42 points.

Betsy Layne has been rated as high as second in the region. They won the Pre-season Tournament, captured a Floyd County Conference title, and are the favorite to win the district tournament. The Betsy Layne-McDowell winner advances to the championship game.

Prestonsburg won the district tournament last year, and Betsy Layne finished as the runner-up.

The same two schools, of the past two tournaments Allen Central and Prestonsburg, are the fourth and third seeds

McDowell Wins Two Games, Improves Record To 19-5

About the only remaining question concerning the McDowell Daredevils was, could they win on the road against strong competition.

Nobody will be asking that question any longer.

Going into Saturday's contest with Greenup County, McDowell had lost five games. Two of them came at the hands of Greenup County.

Playing on the road against one of the top teams in the 16th region, all the pre-game indications pointed toward trouble for McDowell.

But the youthful Daredevils once again proved capable of overcoming all obstacles. They got their revenge, beat a good team on the road, and improved their record to 19-5 with a 72-66 win over Greenup County.

"We've had a pretty tough road schedule this past month. We knew that it would be a tough road trip. What we really wanted to do was split, but we only lost one," McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner said.

The one loss Turner spoke of came at Johnson Central. Earlier in the season, McDowell lost at Greenup County and Breathitt County.

Dickie Joe Shannon led McDowell with 22 points. Henry Webb added 15, and Marc Hall finished with 11 points.

Each team scored 13 points in the first quarter, 13 in the second, and 19 in the third before McDowell pulled away in the final frame, outscoring Greenup County, 27-21, to earn the six-point victory.

"They are a big, strong, physical team," Turner said. "But we played a pretty good game. Hopefully all those tough road games will get us ready for the tournament."

Earlier in the week McDowell defeated Dorton, 74-63. Shannon again led the Daredevils to victory, tossing in 26 points. Henry Webb scored 18 to aid in the win, Wednesday night.

ELKHORN CITY, 81; WHEELWRIGHT, 73.

The Elkhorn City Cougars built a 10-point halftime lead and rode that lead to victory, defeating visiting Wheelwright, 81-73, Friday night.

Elkhorn City, 6-17, outscored the Trojans, 19-15, in the first quarter, 21-15, in the second to take their 10-point lead. Wheelwright, although they cut the lead to five heading into the final period, failed to overtake the Cougars, and lost their 15th game of the season.

Elkhorn City was led in scoring by guard H.D. Fraley. He led all scorers with 22 points. Charlie Hawkins added 17 and Brian Justice chipped in with 15.

"We didn't do much in that game," Wheelwright coach Monroe Jones said. "We've gone out the last seven or eight games, and we've not been up for the games."

"I put the B' team in Saturday night, and they were the ones who won it for us," Jones said, mentioning his team's win over June Buchanan, Saturday night at home.

"They just wanted it more than the other kids did. I don't know if it's that they're waiting for that one shot at McDowell or not. It kind of amazes me at times."

Jason Cook, in the loss to Elkhorn City, was the Trojans' top point getter with 14. Craig Martin, Tommy Jones, and Brad Compton all scored 13 points each.

In the win Saturday, Martin scored 16 to lead the way for Wheelwright. Tommy Jones finished with 14.

The Trojans, 9-15, will conclude the regular season this weekend by playing Dorton on the road, Friday, and Mullins at home, Saturday.

"Basically, we'll just go out and try to win the games," Jones said. "We're still working on some things and trying to find the right players that can play together."

BELFRY, 70; BETSY LAYNE, 60. Through 32 minutes of play both teams proved to be on an equal level. Through one overtime they were still even. But in the second overtime, the Belfry Pirates outscored Betsy Layne, 13-3, to record a 70-60 victory Friday night.

The Bobcats came from a five-point deficit in the fourth quarter to send the game into overtime. Each team scored only two points in the first extra period.

Betsy Layne, falling to 17-8, was led offensively by Duran Newsome with 22 points. Sam Stewart added 14 points and Keith Hall chipped in with 12.

Belfry, with the win, improved to 16-10.

Road Trip Brings Two Losses For Blackcats

At one point in the season, the Prestonsburg Blackcats were struggling with a 3-7 record. But then they went on one of the most impressive streaks any 58 district team has enjoyed thus far.

They beat Johnson Central on the road, humbled the Trojans at Wheelwright, and recorded wins at home over Betsy Layne and Allen Central.

But what comes around goes around, and Prestonsburg's winning ways flew off to somewhere out of the Blackcats' reach.

Since evening their record at 7-7, they have lost seven of their last nine games, two of those coming on the road last week.

In one of the worst varsity games of this decade, Prestonsburg dropped a 50-47 decision at Magoffin County last Tuesday night.

Magoffin County scored only four points in the first quarter, but didn't find themselves in a bad situation. Prestonsburg scored only 10 points.

And the low offensive output wasn't exactly due to great defensive pressure. Magoffin County shot air balls from three-point distance, and Prestonsburg answered by missing wide open layups.

But the Hornets did find enough offensive punch, most of it coming from their sticky defense, to mount a comeback.

Behind Neal Adams' 10 second-quarter points, Magoffin County rallied to tie the score heading into the locker room at halftime.

The Hornet point guard, the game's leading scorer with 17 points, scored seven more in the third quarter as Magoffin County built a three-point advantage going into final frame.

They gave Prestonsburg several opportunities to regain an advantage they held most of the first half, but the Blackcats failed to take advantage of it.

With 3:38 left in the game, Scott Hall canned a short jumper to put Prestonsburg up by two points. The Blackcats, after falling behind by five points early in the quarter, had just completed a 9-2 run.

Magoffin County did most of the completing, although Prestonsburg helped by missing several close in shots.

The Hornets hit four consecutive free throws to go back up by two. Freddie McCoy, Prestonsburg's leading scorer with 12 points, cashed in on two free throws, and the game was tied at the 3:15 mark.

Magoffin County scored back-to-back buckets, taking a two-point advantage, and hit three free throws in the final 20 seconds to seal the victory.

Prestonsburg committed two turnovers during that stretch to add to their fall. "We had every opportunity to put them away early," Prestonsburg coach Gordon Parido told the Salyersville Independent after the game. "They came out cold, but we just couldn't get the job done."

"I told Coach Adams after the game that I thought it was the worst played game I'd ever witnessed. He agreed."

Magoffin County scored their first basket at the 6:49 mark of the first quarter and didn't score again until only 52 seconds remained.

But Prestonsburg went over four minutes and tallied only two points, voiding a possible blowout while allowing the Hornets to say close.

"With the exception of a couple breakdowns, we maintained our intensity," Magoffin County coach Danny Adams said. "This is the only reason we won. Our offense took a vacation on us, but we kept plugging away on defense."

Prestonsburg, falling to 9-13, was led offensively by McCoy's 12 points. Scott Hall added 11, and Todd Justice finished the contest with 10 points.

Neal Adams' 17 points paced Magoffin County, 15-8. Greg Cole chipped in with 10 points.

Trouble continued for Prestonsburg Friday night, this time in the form of Powell County.

The Pirates, one of the top teams in the 14th region, had four players score 14 points or more in defeating visiting Prestonsburg, 91-76.

Powell County led by only one point at halftime, but opened up a six-point advantage heading into the final frame. That fourth quarter, the Pirates outscored Prestonsburg, 27-18, to set the final margin of victory at 15 points.

Todd Justice, Prestonsburg's junior forward, led the Blackcats in scoring, tossing in 16 points. Junior center Tim Trusty added 14 points, and Danny Hamilton, another junior, enjoyed one of his best offensive games of the season, scoring 13 points.

Prestonsburg, 9-14, played their final road game last night, taking on Paintsville.

The Blackcats will wrap up their regular season schedule Friday night when they welcome in Sheldon Clark. The Cardinals already own two victories over Prestonsburg this season. They thumped the Blackcats by 32 points in the Jenny Wiley Invitational Tournament.

But in the last meeting Prestonsburg took the Cardinals into overtime before bowing out in the Cardinal Classic held at Inez.

The Sporting Times

As the sports world turns in its repeating fashion, another season draws to a close.

We say goodbye to basketball and look forward to spring, the return of baseball, and probably another freak snow storm in the middle of spring.

Oh well, we have to take the good with the bad, the unexpected with the expected. But what is to be will be even if it has to happen in the middle of the night. There is probably a message there somewhere. My grandfather used to say it all the time, and he wasn't a man to waste breath.

But he didn't hand that trait down. With that in mind, we'll jump right into those awaited, but not so eagerly, season ending awards. It's where those who deserve it are duly and justly rewarded, whether they want it or not.

Every season we try to bring attention to those who made the previous season a joy. Some of it is in a serious, positive manner, and some of it isn't.

Oh well, we have to take the serious with the funny, the sorrow with the fun.

FANS OF THE YEAR: The McDowell Daredevils have long been the best supported high school team in the 58th district. This year was no different. They have been there through the thin, and this year they enjoyed all the thick a regular season could possibly bring. But this bunch knows something about class. They show it in wins, but more importantly they remember how to react when their team loses.

TOP INDIVIDUAL SUPPORTER: As surely as Larry Bird will win the long distance shootout each year, George Hall will be named fan of the year. It's easy to pick a parent. Obviously they will be at most of the games because their child is playing. But even though George's son, Lenny, plays on McDowell's team, the quiet and calm George was quick to point out McDowell's other strengths. He often said the Daredevils had the best two guards in the region, forgetting to overly exploit the fact that they have a pretty decent senior forward. But ask him about his son's score of over 29 on the American College Test and watch his eyes light up. George hasn't missed many McDowell games during the past several years, but the big test of his loyalty will come next season when no immediate family interest will be at stake.

COACH OF THE YEAR: This one goes without saying, so I won't. Okay, maybe I will. A man once said the reason Johnny Ray Turner didn't last in Salyersville was because he had too much class for those around him. It could very well be true. But he did so much more than prove he is basketball's good guy. He made McDowell believe again. And he made McDowell win again. Not only is he just this district's coach of the year, but he takes regional honors. Who knows, if he had done this kind of job in Lexington or Louisville he might have ruled the whole Commonwealth.

CLASS ACT: One of the things Gordon Parido mentioned when he came to Prestonsburg was the behavior of his players, the respect they showed for him, and their unselfishness toward each other. Blackcat players have always been model young people. They set the standard by which others every where could follow.

PLAYERS OF THE YEAR: Normally those officially in charge select players from conference winners as their players of the year. And by doing that they couldn't go wrong. But it may be hard to pass up Freddie McCoy at Prestonsburg, and Wheelwright's Jedon Hood in the girl's category. How's this for a pair of players of the year? Tops in the playground is Sandy Flannery, a senior center at Betsy Layne. She averaged in double figures in points and rebounds, and could be the hottest college prospect in the county. Henry

Webb, of McDowell, is the best of the boy's court. He handles the basketball under pressure, he shoots three-pointers, and he is one of the top rebounding guards in the region. His above 15 points per game average doesn't hurt either. McCoy and McDowell guard Dickie Joe Shannon could just as well be there. They both average around 20 points per game, and are deadly outside shooters.

PLAY OF THE YEAR: This one goes to a cool headed female that just might have eliminated a full scale riot. After Betsy Layne lost to McDowell in a game that meant no conference championship, some of the players took their frustrations out on a row of chairs that had just served as their bench. With a few swift kicks a couple of chairs went sailing into the stands. One struck a not so understanding McDowell fan. The man, poised to hurl the chair back to its original point, was corralled by a nearby lady. She prevented him from performing his intended duty, and prevented that could have turned into an ugly situation. Oh well, we have to take the cool heads with the hot ones.

QUOTE OF THE YEAR: A player, we'll keep his or her name a secret, used these words to describe a loss. "Someone, I won't mention any names, got the big head and tried to shoot every shot. Me and a teammate (who will also go nameless) got cricks from looking up to get the rebound."

GUTS OR JUST PLAIN DUMB: This is a new one that we developed just for Earnie Johnson. He had the nerve to call a girls' game all by himself. Maybe it wasn't a bad idea after all. It has got him more publicity that he's ever had before.

MISCONCEPTION OR NOTHING: I'll have to share in this one. An article on the Betsy Layne-Allen Central game last week mentioned a fight that took place at Allen Central. Principal Don Daniels says that actually it was only a verbal disagreement. He also said that the mention brought several harsh criticisms aimed at his school. In no manner did we intend to hurt the credibility of Allen Central High School. And no where did we mention that it involved an Allen Central student. Actually two students from another school came to the game and reportedly started trouble with an Allen Central student. Our intention was to explain the non-interest showed in the game. Daniels said the article sparked several calls to him and other comments in a negative fashion about the disagreement. We apologize for the misunderstanding. But a lot of fans did show interest in the discussion that did take place. Daniels, though, says he took proper action, has, and always will when an incident takes place during a basketball game involving his Allen Central students.

INTENSITY AWARD: This one may be hard to determine. It seems as if that firebug of old, Johnny Martin, has mellowed a bit. He still gets technical fouls but nothing like last year. A total transformation has occurred. Martin has slacked just a bit, and Craynor Slone picked up the slack. Maybe it's that seat belt thing. Anyway, we'll give it to Slone. He's been up more than usual. Maybe it's a young team that gives him trouble. Or maybe, just maybe, it's his assistants. Tim Rice and Keith Henry have a tendency to get their tempers to flaring. They may have just led the state in getting thrown out of baseball games last season. Na, just an exaggeration.

There you have it. Those dedicated individuals have finally received their just due.

INSIDE STRENGTH: Kevin Webb does most of his work inside the paint. Saturday the junior forward scored 15 points as Allen Central won its ninth game of the season.

Crappie Tag Returns $1,000 Winner Named

Jack Vannerson, Paducah, is the winner of $1,000 cash from the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' crappie tag returns for 1987.

Vannerson's tag number was drawn at random from 1,300 crappie tags turned in from six major lakes across the state where an intensive crappie research study is underway. The winning tag came from Barkley Lake.

"The cash giveaway is a good incentive for anglers to return the tags from the fish they catch so we can have more accurate harvest information," said Jim Axon, assistant director of the fisheries division.

"We will tag crappie in six more lakes this spring including Nolin, Rough River, Kentucky, Green River, Dewey and Cave Run, and anglers will have the chance again next year to win $1,000," said Axon.

All tag returns (including those from last year's tagged fish) earn anglers $5 each. The tags, which are labeled with the words "KY-Fish Wild," a tag number and the lake initials, resemble a strand of spaghetti.

The crappie study will help biologists determine how to improve the quality of fishing statewide. Researchers will examine harvest rates, availability of forage, growth rates and population densities of crappie over the next several years.

"Collecting this data will show us what makes a good crappie fishery and will give us a model for comparison purposes," said Axon. "Then we can determine what measures need to be taken when a particular lake begins showing problems."

According to Axon, some lakes are currently exhibiting stunting, poor growth and over harvest. The study should reveal the causes of these problems and make finding a way to correct them quicker and more precise.

One theory biologists are investigating is that during winter draw down, crappie are exposed to more severe weather conditions, have less habitat and can be more easily washed through the dam.

In order to reduce the stress on crappie during cold weather, biologists are working with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to leave more water in the lakes during the winter months.

Not only would this give crappie more habitat, but it would also likely reduce the number of fish swept through the dam by a strong current. Anglers would benefit as well, with more area to fish and possibly easier boat access.

Kentucky has long been known for its excellent crappie fishing, especially at Kentucky and Barkley lakes. It is probably the single most important factor in attracting spring tourists and out-of-state anglers to the commonwealth.

Close to 140,000 nonresident fishing licenses (3-day, 15-day and annual) are sold each year. A good portion of those are purchased for the opportunity to crappie fish Kentucky waters in the spring. In addition to the revenue realized from the sale of these licenses, there is a considerable amount of money spent on tourist-related items such as lodging, food, bait and other fishing supplies.

Cardinals Collect 26 On First Signing Day

LOUISVILLE, KY.—The University of Louisville football team signed 26 prospects to national-letters-of-intent on the first day of the signing period. Among the signees were two players from Kentucky—Greg Brohm, a first-team All-Stater out of Louisville Trinity, whose father, Oscar, is an ex-quarterback at U of L, and Fred Jones out of Calloway Co. High, the same school that produced starting center Allen Douglas.

"It will be the biggest, fastest, most intelligent class to come in," said coach Howard Schnellenberger. "The kids already here who were their hosts are mature and smart enough to know we need help, even though they may be challenging for a position. I'm very pleased with the ratio."

The Cardinals landed heralded punter/field-goal kicker Klaus Wilmsmeyer out of Mississauga, Ontario. Punting was "our highest priority,"

Schellenberger said. "We rated him (Wilmsmeyer) No. 1 for hang time and technique. He's pretty daggone good, and an excellent field-goal kicker, too."

Louisville signed five players each from Ohio, Florida and Illinois. Alvin Johnson, of East St. Louis, Ill., is a prize catch that Schellenberger terms "as a flier. He'll be the fastest kid on the team. When we signed him today, a track coach was there trying to get him not to play football."

Dennis Truitt, from Decatur, Ala., is the biggest player the Cardinals signed. Truitt, who stand 6-7 and weighs 292 pounds, is one of the biggest players Schnellenberger has ever signed.

Liggett Butler, from Polk City, Fla., is a defensive back who was a 5-A, first-team All-State selection in Florida. Including Butler, the Cardinals signed seven players who played defensive back in high school.

The Cardinals went across the border to Canada for the first time since Schnellenberger's been at U of L to sign two players. Wilmsmeyer and Rawle Bynoe. Both are from the same high school (Lorne Park).

"Overall I'm pleased with the quality of players that signed," Schnellenberger said. "You have to be a giver to come here, where there's no high-fives now. You can't imagine how thrilling it is for me as a coach now that I've got 95 givers."

Roberts Finishes In Sixth Place

KINGSPORT, TENN: The Eighth Annual Warrior's Path 10K Run was held at the Warrior's Path State Park on February 20, attracting over 100 entrants. The hilly course had strong headwinds gusting up to 40 m.p.h. throughout the race.

Tom McCormack of Ireland, a former East Tennessee State runner won the race in 33:22. Terry Campbell of Bakersville, N.C., was second in 34:56. While in the women's race Jan Haney, a Tennessean, won in 39:49 over Heather Batza of Victoria, Australia. Batza finished second in 40:41.

Rick Roberts of Allen arrived at the race one minute before the start after a three hour drive and could not loosen up but still managed a sixth place finish in 36:48 to win his 30-39 age group. Ironically, McCormack spotted Roberts wearing his Kansas University track singlet and assumed him to be a top seed. McCormack raced through the first mile fast not realizing Roberts was four spots back.

The only other Kentuckian in the race was Kevin Martin of Hazard who was in fifth place the first half of the race but fell back to finish tenth in 37:51 and finish third in the 19-29 age group.

Final Deer Tally Surpasses 70,000

The final total harvest for the 1987 deer season exceeded 70,000, according to Deer Program Coordinator John Phillips, of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

This figure includes both the bow, gun and muzzleloader harvest in open counties, on special areas and an estimate of the number of deer taken that hunters failed to check in.

In 1986, 10 counties registered over 1,000 deer taken during the season (bow and gun), but for the 1987 season the 1,000 deer plateau was attained in 19 counties. Three of those, Christian, Hopkins and Muhlenberg, reported over 2,000 deer each and in Ohio County, almost 3,700 deer were harvested.

Biologist Phillips mentioned that a reduction of the deer herd in these counties was needed to control crop damage and to help keep the population healthy. When the population exceeds what the land area is able to support, disease and starvation can become problems.

However, harvest management practices implemented by the department have stabilized the deer population to offer the best hunting opportunities while maintaining a healthy herd.

"That's our ultimate goal statewide," said Phillips, "and we achieved exactly what we wanted to with the 1987 harvest."

"Our projection of the open county harvest was within two percent of the actual number of deer taken, which totaled 59,618," said Phillips.

By taking the right percentage of does in the more populated areas, those herds have been successfully stabilized, and according to Phillips counties which offered 10 days either sex hunting last year reached the peak harvest numbers.

"Since we are projecting the future peak statewide harvest to be around 125,000 and our zone one counties reached their peak last season, the remainder of our growth will come largely from the eastern third of the state," said Phillips.

The predicted open county harvest for the 1988 season is 74,000, which will push the total from all areas to over 90,000. While many counties' harvest will remain close to the same for next year, Eastern Kentucky counties can expect substantial harvest increases, says Phillips.

"The growth of the herd in Eastern Kentucky has been well beyond what we expected, and based on that fact, our recommendations for the 1988 season in Eastern Kentucky could provide a sizeable increase in the opportunities for that area," said Phillips.

The Fish and Wildlife Commission will consider the 1988 deer season recommendations during its March meeting, and will make its final season regulatory adoptions in August.

One important recommendation is that the muzzleloader season be increased to five days. The recommendations also include that the two deer tags allowing hunters to harvest a second deer be sold as a single package for $17.50. As in the past, zone regulations will dictate the use of the two deer tags.

WOMEN'S TOURNAMENT ENDS FRIDAY—
MEN'S BEGINS ON SATURDAY FEB. 27TH

Union will travel to Pikeville and Georgetown will visit Cumberland for semi-final games in the women's KIAC tournament. These games will be played Monday night and will begin at 7:30. The winners will meet for the championship on Friday evening on the floor of the team with the best conference record. Note: Cumberland defeated Georgetown 71-61 and Pikeville downed Union 81-60. The game Friday will be played at Cumberland.

Pairings for the men's tournament are not complete. They are as follows:

Upper Bracket
Pikeville at Cumberland
Campbellsville at Union

Lower Bracket
Thomas More or Alice Lloyd at Georgetown
Thomas More or Alice Lloyd at Berea

Thomas More and Alice Lloyd will meet at Pippa Passes on Tuesday. The winner will play Berea in the first round, while the loser will travel to Georgetown.

Semi-final games will be played on Tuesday, March 1 with the finals scheduled for Thursday, March 3.

BEREA'S STENZEL, UNION'S RHONDA GARNER
PLAYERS OF THE WEEK

Berea's 6-6 senior, Jay Stenzel, is the men's Player of the Week. In two games the forward from Erlanger, Ky. scored 68 points, pulled off 19 missed shots, handed out four assists, and was credited with 4 steals. He hit 29 of 50 from the field and 10 of 11 from the line. Union's Rhonda Garner is the women's Player of the Week. The 5-7 sophomore from Monticello, Ky. scored 20 points as the Lady Bulldogs beat Alice Lloyd in KIAC tournament action. She hit 9 of 16 from the field, grabbed 6 rebounds, handed out 5 assists and had 2 steals.

In Georgetown's win over Thomas More Saturday night, Keith Currens became the first Georgetown player in history to score more than 2,000 points and grab more than 1,000 rebounds in a career. He now has 2,339 points and 1,006 rebounds.

SHORT SPORTS

The University of Kentucky, coming into this past week, had an opportunity to blow open a tight Southeastern Conference race.

And when LSU lost at Alabama, Saturday, open took on a much broader meaning.

The Tigers had worked their way into second place in the SEC, slipped to a third place tie with their 72-59 loss, Saturday.

Kentucky could have been two games up on second place Vanderbilt, but instead, tonight they will be trying to keep place with the Commodores.

The Wildcats lost Wednesday at Tennessee on a last second shot, and Saturday, they were dominated by Florida. Senior guard Vernon Maxwell poured in 32 points and freshman forward Livingston Chatman added 18 as Florida defeated the Wildcats, 83-76, in Gainesville.

From a chance to take command to finding themselves tied for first, Kentucky lost two consecutive conference games. As a result, Vanderbilt moved into a first placed tie with Kentucky.

The Wildcats, reverting back to their style of last year, could find no offensive punch inside. Rex Chapman and Ed Davender scored 24 and 17 points respectively, but UK's inside starters scored only 23 points combined as the 'Cats fell to 10-5 in the conference.

Kentucky, 18-5 overall, still holds its SEC fate in its own hands. They play LSU tonight in Rupp Arena before closing out their conference schedule in March against Georgia and Ole Miss.

Vanderbilt plays Florida on the road, and Florida plays LSU on the road. Both the Gators and Tigers have four SEC games remaining. Tonight, Florida plays at home against Tennessee, and Vandy welcomes Auburn into Nashville. Sunday afternoon Kentucky will step outside the Southeastern Conference to take on Syracuse in a contest to be televised by CBS. Tipoff is set for 2.

Paintsville High School basketball star Keith Adkins announced last week that he will further his academics and athletics at Notre Dame University.

Adkins, the state's leading scorer, is considered one of the nation's top prep shooters. He is currently hitting at over 50 percent beyond the three-point line, and averages just over 30 points per game.

Adkins, an expected all-stater and one of the top prospects for this year's Mr. Basketball, is the second top prospect in the state that Kentucky colleges have lost to Notre Dame in the past two years. Last season, Kevin Ellery, a 6'5" forward, elected to play for the Fighting Irish.

Although the Irish return four guards, most of them seeing considerable playing time this season, Adkins, due to his shooting and passing ability, is expected to receive playing time in his freshman season.

At Notre Dame he will be joining Laphonso Ellis, a 6'10" center. Ellis, recognized as one of the best prep players in the nation, has already committed to Notre Dame.

One of the reasons why Adkins opted for Notre Dame was the exposure the school and its players receive. The Fighting Irish have been on network television a total of five times this season.

If John Munduga was the determining factor as to whether Darrin Van Horn belonged among the world's top junior middleweights, the answer is yes.

One of the complaints about Van Horn, a 19-year-old sophomore at the University of Kentucky, has been the suspect opponents he has faced. Munduga, 25-1 coming in, was supposed to be his toughest to date. But Munduga wasn't exactly tough, not for Van Horn anyway.

With 46 seconds left in the seventh round, Munduga's trainer, George Frances, stepped in the ring to stop the fight.

The referee, after Van Horn backed Munduga into the ropes with a stiff right and kept him there with several head and body blows, saw fit to give Munduga a standing eight count. The trainer saw a much tougher situation for his fighter, stopping the bout before any further damage could be done.

"He was hitting me, but he wasn't hurting me," Van Horn said, responding to a question about getting hit with Munduga's jab early in the fight. "I underestimated his punching power, and I got lazy," he said, continuing an interview with NBC after the fight. "He caught me with a couple good punches, and that kind of woke me up. I knew I had to start fighting, or it would be a battle all the way through."

Van Horn, with the win, improved to 35-0. He has 22 knockouts to his credit.

North Carolina may not have looked like record setters Sunday against Temple, but the day before the Tar Heels established a record that may never be equaled. With their one-point win over Maryland, Saturday, the Tar Heels won their 20th game of the season. It was the 18th straight year North Carolina has won at least 20 games. That is the longest streak ever by a Division 1 school.

But Sunday the Temple Owls proved that they, not North Carolina, are kings of the basketball hill right now.

The Owls, taking advantage of 29 North Carolina turnovers, defeated the Tar Heels in Chapel Hill 83-66. Temple is the number one rated team in college basketball.

The luck of the draw didn't favor either Paintsville or Johnson Central in the 57th district. The two Johnson County schools, considered as the top two in their district, will play each other in next week's tournament.

Magoffin County, losers to both Paintsville and Johnson Central earlier in the season, will play Sheldon Clark. The Hornets have beaten the Cardinals twice this season.

The 59th district, also using the draw, has its two teams with the best records in separate brackets.

Wednesday night the tournament will tip off with Virgie, 16-11, taking on Millard. The winner advances to Friday's semi-final round to play Mullins.

Pikeville, boasting the district's best record, 16-8, will tangle with Dorton, Thursday. The tournament will be held at Virgie.

The 60th district uses the seeding process, but the tournament schedule had not been determined as of yesterday.

THROUGH THE PAINT: Thomas Nairn goes to the basket during fourth quarter action, last Tuesday. Nairn and the Blackcats came up three points short at Magoffin County.

A relief pitcher is allowed eight warm-up pitches when he comes into a baseball game.

IN THIS WEEK

In 'Bluegrass,' Ladd joins thoroughbred racing set

By Wendy Wallace

It was the role of a coal miner in the 1983 TV movie "Kentucky Woman" that first brought Cheryl Ladd to the Bluegrass State. Now, five years later, she has returned to star in "Bluegrass," a four-hour miniseries airing Sunday, Feb. 28 and Monday, Feb. 29 on CBS.

Cheryl Ladd

Ladd plays Maude Sage Breen, who returns to her hometown of Lexington, Ky., to fulfill her dream of breeding, training and racing thoroughbreds. Maude fights to be accepted by racing's bluebloods, although they rebuff her every attempt.

"I respond from gut instinct when I read a script," Ladd says, "and what I saw in Maude was an interesting, down-to-earth individual. She's not afraid to get dirty. I find that very winning."

As Maude buys a farm, hires a staff and tries to find a combination of horses that will produce a champion, her efforts are thwarted by Lowell Shipleigh (Wayne Rogers), a judge and would-be governor who tries to discredit her reputation as a breeder. But a secret that may destroy his own reputation prevents him from running her out of town.

Among Maude's staff are Alice Gibbs (Shawnee Smith), a troubled young woman; Merlin Honeycutt (Kieran Mulroney), a reformed delinquent; and Dancy Cutler (Brian Kerwin), a recovering alcoholic whose admiration for his boss turns to love. But Maude's heart belongs to Michael Fitzgerald (Anthony Andrews), a family friend of the Shipleighs.

"What Maude sees in Dancy is his realness and his honesty as a human being," Ladd says. "With Michael, she's swept off her feet. She's never encountered anyone like him."

Ladd, 36, first became known when she replaced Farrah Fawcett on "Charlie's Angels" in 1977. Since the series left the air in 1981, she has starred in such projects as the miniseries "A Death in California" (1985) and "Crossings" (1986), the TV movie "Deadly Care" (1987) and the feature film "Purple Hearts" (1984). She has also hosted two variety specials and recorded two albums.

While the cast of "Bluegrass" worked individually on horse techniques, one scene took a group effort. "We had never experienced the birth of a foal before, so we had a chance to really get involved," Ladd says. "The scene was tastefully done. We were all happy with it — and like the movie, it was inspiring."

Lifetime's 'Motherworks' looks at working mothers

By Denise Gorga

Thirty years ago, new mothers confronted by such infantile niceties as colic or chronic bedwetting would consult Dr. Spock's "Baby and Child Care." But in the '80s, mothers turn to the TV,

Cyndy Garvey

To that end, the Lifetime network offers three series based on the "power parenting" phenomenon. "What Every Baby Knows," hosted by pediatrician T. Berry Brazelton, enters its fourth season in April. Ditto for "Mother's Day," a magazine series hosted by "Good Morning America" host and supermom Joan Lunden.

The newcomer on the Lifetime schedule is "Motherworks," a half-hour series hosted by Cyndy Garvey, ex-wife of former San Diego Padre first baseman Steve Garvey and a former morning-show host in New York and Los Angeles.

Garvey, 38, says that "Motherworks" is less concerned with child care than the other Lifetime shows. "Our focus is on working mothers," she explains. "Every topic discussion has that as a given: working women raising kids - and not necessarily alone."

Garvey, whose two daughters are 11 and 14, can relate to the troubles of single parenthood. "I raised my children alone - even when I was married, my husband was away for much of the time," she notes.

"Motherworks" has a magazine format, mixing profiles of working mothers, group discussions, celebrity interviews and location spots. All of the features deal with the problems of maintaining the delicate balance between family, work and self - a concern of the women Garvey has talked to.

"Many women feel they are alone in their problems, and have difficulty with single-parent mothering," she says. "They really would like the men in their lives to see and hear them more."

"I don't want to say they're angry," she emphasizes. "But they're either uneasy talking about it or they jump forward with an emotional response. Many times their relationships are fraught with stereotypical male-female roles."

Businesswomen will find Garvey's sales pitch hard to resist. "It's narrowly focused - when you watch it, you know what you're getting," she says.

Sharon Gabet portrays characters with spirit

By Marie Michaels

Sharon Gabet, who plays Dorian Lord's sister Melinda Cramer on "One Life to Live," has played some of daytime's most memorable characters.

Sharon Gabet

For seven years she was seen as five-times married villain Raven Whitney on "The Edge of Night." After the soap folded in 1984, she portrayed hearing-impaired Brittany Peterson for two years on "Another World." She took an eight-month hiatus, then joined "OLTL" last September, taking over the role of Melinda, who spent six years in a mental institution.
 "I enjoy playing spirited characters," Gabet says. "I like to make waves, and I think I do it better than anyone in the business."
 Although Gabet, a two-time Daytime Emmy nominee for her performance as Raven, believes "OLTL" has the best writers in daytime TV, she has her own ideas about Melinda.

 "Melinda wants everything that Dorian has — namely, power and money," she says. "I'd like to see her turn the tables on Dorian, take everything away from her. Once Melinda is on top, it would be fun if the two of them battled it out."
 "It's time Melinda came into her own, and I'm just the person to make it happen," she adds. "I want to make the character my own."
 One of nine children, Gabet was born and raised in Ft. Wayne, Ind., and graduated with a degree in nursing from Purdue University. After working in a coronary-care unit for three months, she temporarily left the medical profession to attend Cornell on an acting scholarship. But when she came to New York, she worked in a coronary-care unit in Harlem until she was acting full time.
 While playing Raven on "Edge," Gabet married actor Larry Joshua (who played Brian Emerson on "Search for Tomorrow") and gave birth to a daughter, Jasmine, now 3. Last February she had a son, James Maxwell.
 Like many new mothers, Gabet finds that combining her career and family life is not an easy task. "Trying to find time for my husband and to be a good mother is rough," she says. "But when my children smile at me, it makes the hard work worth it."

ASK TONI

Stallone is often seen with 24-year-old socialite

By Toni Reinhold

How many times has Sylvester Stallone been married? Was Brigitte Nielsen his first wife? - H.J., Lehigh Valley, Pa.

Sylvester Stallone

Stallone, 41, married his first wife, Sasha, in 1970. Scandinavian model Brigitte Nielsen was his second wife. The two are now divorced, and Stallone is often seen with 24-year-old socialite Cornelia Guest.

What has Richard Crenna been working on lately? We loved him in the miniseries "On Wings of Eagles." - A.P., Santa Ana, Calif.

Crenna has been in New York City filming the miniseries "Internal Affairs," which also stars Kate Capshaw and Cliff Gorman. Crenna reprises his role as New York City detective Frank Janek, which he created in the miniseries "Doubletake" (1985). Both miniseries were scripted by Peter Gay, author of the novel "Switch," on which they are based.

I recall seeing a film that starred James Caan as a dancer who died in his home, then reappeared as a ghost. What was its title? Who played the dancer's wife? - S.H.C., Lakewood, Ohio

 You're thinking of "Kiss Me Goodbye" (1982), a remake of the Brazilian film "Dona Flora and Her Two Husbands." Sally Field portrayed Caan's on-screen wife. Jeff Bridges also starred.

Was Dick Powell married to an actress? We haven't read much about him lately, and it's hard to remember so far back. - L.N., Huntington, W.Va.

Powell, who died in 1963, was married three times. His first marriage, to Mildred Maund, lasted from 1925 to 1933. He was married to actress Joan Blondell from 1936 to 1944, and he married June Allyson in 1945.

Wasn't there once a series called "Lanigan's Rabbi"? I seem to be the only person in the world who remembers it. - J.C., Ulster Park, N.Y.

"Lanigan's Rabbi," which starred Art Carney and Bruce Solomon, aired from January to July 1977. It depicted a small-town police chief (Carney) who cracked cases with the help of his best friend, a rabbi (Solomon).

Veterans Administration Questions And Answers

Editor's note: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA Counselors. Full information is available at any VA Office.

Q.—Why is it necessary to have a property appraised under the VA home loan guaranty program?
A.—The law requires that the amount of a VA guaranteed loan may not exceed the reasonable value of their property construction, alterations, improvements, or repairs, as determined by the VA. In order to make this determination, the VA requires an appraisal of the property by a designated appraiser.

Q.—Does a general discharge from military service qualify me for benefits from the VA?
A.—Yes. Honorable and general discharges qualify veterans for benefits, unless other statutory bars to entitlement exist.

Q.—I have applied to have my VA insurance reinstated and I need a physical examination. Can my private physician do this?
A.—Yes. You may have your private physician perform the exam, provided that he/she is a licensed MD or osteopath. Also, the physician must not be related to you or associated with you, in business or financially interested in your insurance.

Men Reaching Age 26 Should Be Registered

The Selective Service System recently announced that men who will reach their 26 birthday in 1988 and who have not registered with Selective Service may forfeit their eligibility for some federal programs.

Men who were required to register with Selective Service in 1981 will be turning 26 this year. The law requires that young men register with Selective Service within 30 days of the day they turn 18. Although tardy registrations are usually accepted, Selective Service does not have the authority to accept registrations after a man reaches age 26. By failing to register before turning 26, a young man may permanently forfeit his eligibility for federal student aid, job training and most federal employment. Likewise, some states require registration for state student aid, entrance to a state supported college or university, state employment and permission to practice law.

Men who have not yet registered should do so at any post office. Failure to register is a felony punishable by a fine of up to $250,000, up to 5 years in jail, or both.

Computers Effective In Teaching Of Deaf

A report on a study by Patricia A. Johnson, assistant professor of education at Pikeville College appears in the November 1987 issue of Thresholds in Education, a research journal published by Northern Illinois University.

Johnson's study compares the results of teacher-directed instruction and computer-assisted instruction on the comprehension of abstract concepts by deaf adolescents. The subject being taught was Euclidean geometry and the computer-assisted instruction used 'Geometry with LOGO' software.

The result of the study demonstrated that computer-assisted instruction (CAI) can be as successful as typical teaching approaches in teaching abstractions to deaf children.

SEIZURES

COPYRIGHT 1988 KVMA
Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association
A recent radio campaign was quite effective in calling attention to management and treatment of seizures in humans.

What it failed to mention is that seizures are the most common nervous system disorder seen in dogs and cats, or that an animal prone to seizures need not be put to sleep nor is it destined to an early death from that cause. In fact, most seizure disorders in dogs and cats respond quite well to treatment.

A seizure is simply a temporary disturbance in the normal electrical activity of the brain. A brief time of unusual behavior may precede the actual seizure, such as restlessness, drooling or whining.

Some seizures are mild and may consist only of a weakness in the rear legs and inability to walk for a short period of time. Others are more severe, similar to the grand mal seen in humans, in which consciousness is temporarily lost, the head drawn backward and the body becomes rigid. This type usually lasts about three minutes, after which the animal recovers spontaneously except that it may appear disoriented.

Whatever the cause, repeated seizures are classified as epilepsy.

Most epileptic seizures in dogs and cats have no identifiable cause. Some known causes include poisoning, especially by strychnine, lead and arsenic, and of which can end in death; brain infections and head injuries; low blood calcium or sugar.

An animal which has had a seizure should be examined as soon as possible by a veterinarian, who may be able to determine the cause and/or find a way to correct the problem.

Often, no cause will be found but a non-specific treatment can be developed and will be effective. Anticonvulsive medications are available but they are not without side effects and the decision to use them or not to use them should be thoroughly discussed between the owner and the veterinarian. A rough rule of thumb is that if the seizures are neither too violent nor too frequent, anticonvulsive drugs will not be used.

Your veterinarian is expert in the administration of drugs and is kept continually updated on new knowledge regarding both diseases and drugs used for their treatment.

Seaman Apprentice Slone Completes Basic Training

Michael Slone, son of Benny Slone, of Whitesburg, and Betty Tyler, of McDowell, has completed basic training and apprenticeship training in Great Lakes, Illinois.

Seaman Apprentice Slone was promoted to his present rank by graduating in the top 10 percent of his recruit training command company. Seaman Apprentice Slone will report to the U.S.S. Mount Baker, home ported in Charleston, South Carolina. He will be accompanied by his wife, the former Robin Weddington, of Pikeville, to his new duty station.

In Newfoundland, it was once believed clover in the bath would cure skin diseases.

...about your Social Security

From: JIM KELLY
Social Security District Director
For the Big Sandy Area

Benefits For Mentally Retarded
People who are developmentally disabled may qualify for monthly benefits under either the Social Security or the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program. The medical requirements for eligibility so far as disability is concerned are the same for both programs. However, other eligibility rules differ.

A mentally retarded person can get Social Security payments when a parent starts getting Social Security retirement or disability payments, or when an insured parent dies. It doesn't matter how old the person is, but he or she must have become disabled before 22. A retarded person who has worked long enough and recently enough under Social Security can also get benefits on his or her own work record.

SSI payments are paid to disabled people of any age, as well as the blind and people 65 and over. However, SSI payments are based on financial need and are made to people whose income and resources are below a certain level.

In deciding if an unmarried child under 18 and living at home can get SSI payments, part of the parents' income and resources may be considered to be the child's. If the parents' resources exceed the SSI limit, the excess may be included with the child's resources. After deducting allowances for the parents' work and living expenses and for other children living in the home, the remaining amount of the parents' income is included with the child's to decide if the child meets the income limit.

Although people living in public institutions are generally not eligible for SSI payments, an application may be submitted when it appears that a person will be able to leave an institution soon.

More information about benefits for mentally retarded people can be obtained at the Big Sandy Area Social Security office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under U.S. Government. The people there will be glad to answer any questions.

Junebug, Roadside Theater, And Bushfire To Perform in Floyd

OPEN WINDOWS, an American Festival of Music, Theater, and Dance will be coming to Floyd county the first week of March with exciting public performances and school programs. Tuesday, March 1, John O'Neal and Roadside Theater will perform at Wheelwright High School at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 3, the African-American theater/dance group Bushfire/Urban Bush Women will perform at Martin Elementary School at 7 p.m. Four workshops with the artists will also be held at Wheelwright, McDowell, and Betsy Layne High Schools and Martin Elementary School.

The Roadside Theater and John O'Neal will conduct workshops for students Monday at the Wheelwright and McDowell High Schools and the group of dancers from New York City, Bushfire/Urban Bush Women will hold a workshop March 3 at Betsy Layne High School and Martin Elementary. The workshops which are only open to students of those schools, will feature a demonstration and lecture.

These performances and workshops are part of a larger festival of over 20 events in east Kentucky and southwest Virginia, sponsored by Appalshop of Whitesburg and many community groups. The participating artists are from different parts of the country, but they all have two things in common. They are creating art from their own particular history and culture, and they have performed to enthusiastic audiences and critical acclaim all over the U.S.

Roadside Theater from Whitesburg will be performing their Mountain Tales and Music, a lively show consisting of Jack Tales and traditional mountain music (fiddle, guitar, banjo, and vocals). All of Roadside's performers were born and raised in the mountains, and the theater has spent 13 years developing plays about their home.

Joining Roadside Tuesday night in Wheelwright will be John O'Neal from New Orleans. John is a master storyteller and actor, who brings alive a whole world of stories from the black, rural, southern, oral tradition through his storytelling character, Junebug Jabbo Jones.

Junebug says, "I call myself a storyteller, 'stead of a liar, 'cause they's a heap of difference between your storyteller and your liar. Now your liar is somebody who tries to cover things up. But your storyteller is somebody who tries to uncover things so's everybody can see 'em."

John O'Neal and Roadside Theater have performed together many times, and the Wheelwright performance promises to be a lively, entertaining, and thought provoking look at two distinct cultures through the art of storytelling and music.

Thursday night, Bushfire/Urban Bush Women will perform their "Life Dances" at Martin Elementary School. "Life Dances" is a dynamic, entertaining performance of music, dance, and theater that is grounded in African-American tradition and takes over the stage like a train bound for glory.

When Jawole Willa Jo Zollar founded Urban Bush Women in 1984, she wanted to bring together the spiritual and secular influences of her rural, Kansas City, Afro-American upbringing with the technical demands of her formal dance training. She teamed up with like-minded dancers, storytellers, and musicians, and made the ideal a reality.

The New York Times said of the group's work, "It isn't often that a dance performance brings an audience spontaneously to its feet in a standing ovation, that sends an audience out singing. But Urban Bush Women did just that... Deeply affecting and stylishly produced work."

The events are sponsored by the East Kentucky Teacher's Network, Martin Elementary School, Wheelwright High School, and Appalshop with support from the Kentucky Arts Council, University of Kentucky Appalachia Center, and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Strawberry Lovers, Rejoice! The Season May Be Forever.

By KAREN MEHALL
Next year might be the year you have fresh local strawberries on your table all summer and into the fall.

Two varieties of everbearing strawberries released to nurseries in 1981 are finally becoming established in the Northeast and upper Midwest. The delay in their establishment was caused by growers' unfamiliarity with proper irrigation techniques for the new varieties and with the plants' smaller root systems.

"Growers are finally saying they are harvesting an abundance of summer strawberries that will continue well into October," says Gene Galletta, a USDA plant geneticist with the Agricultural Research Service's Fruit Laboratory in Beltsville, Md.

If growers irrigate to offset the heat, he said, growers could have "the longest of all strawberry seasons" from Massachusetts to Maryland and west to Minnesota.

Scientists at Beltsville worked for 20 years to transferring a light-insensitive gene from a Rocky Mountain strawberry species into the new varieties, while maintaining their flavor. As a result, the new varieties are unaffected by length of day.

"This makes them different from earlier plants whose biological clocks only initiate flowers in the fall, which keeps them from fruiting until the following spring," says Galletta. These varieties, Tribute and Tristar, have the prefix "Tri" because they develop flowers and fruit over three seasons—spring, summer, and fall.

The new varieties offer several advantages: Their high yields offset their smaller berries, they can be harvested in the summer and fall of the year in which they are planted, they are very winter hardy, and they resist disease.

More than 200 farmers planted these varieties in 1987, and as many as 1,000 plan to try them in 1988. Galletta estimates that a farmer can gross considerably more from selling everbearing berries at higher, out-of-season prices than regular spring-bearing varieties or most any other farm crop.

Tribute and Tristar are valued by homeowners as well. Galletta said that they are the best tasting everbearers yet, and are just as juicy as standard varieties. Their keeping quality makes them ideal for both the fresh market and in processed fruit products such as jams and jellies. (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture)

Berrigan Slated To Speak at MSU

The Rev. Daniel Berrigan, internationally-known social activist, will speak at Morehead State University Tuesday, March 1, at 7 p.m. in the Cragger Room of the Adron Doran University Center.

The topic of his speech will be, "A Peace Making Citizen in a War Making Society." The lecture is free and open to the public.

Berrigan, a Jesuit priest, poet and playwright as well as an activist, has authored nearly 30 books. His involvement in social causes has bridged three decades and has included the Civil Rights Movement, the Vietnam War, Draft Resistance, Nuclear Armaments, and the war in El Salvador.

Additional information on Berrigan's visit is available by calling the MSU Department of Sociology, Social Work, and Corrections, (606) 783-2243 or the Rev. Larry Goulding, (606) 783-4392.

Mrs. Bill Moore Says 95 Not Old

Mrs. Bill (Granny) Moore, of West Prestonsburg, celebrated her 95 birthday, Dec. 23. She received many gifts from family and friends.

Granny says "Ninety-five is not old, the numbers are just getting big."

FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT 87-CI-571

Austin Powder Company, Plaintiff VS: NOTICE OF SALE See Tree Coals, Inc., Greeley D. Ousley, Beulah M. Ousley, First Commonwealth Bank of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, Commonwealth of Kentucky, Revenue Cabinet and Floyd County, Kentucky Defendants

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the November 23 & December 15 term, 1987, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 26 day of February, 1988, at 11:00 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or twenty percent (20%) down with the balance to be paid within ninety (90) days, the following described property, to-wit:

BEGINNING in the center of an existing bridge located across Caney Fork of Middle Creek; thence in a straight line to a stake located at the top of the ridge; thence following said ridge to the intersection of the property line of Adam Arnett; thence going down the hill to a maple tree located on the intersection of Adam Arnett's line; thence too a pailing fence; thence in a straight line to a scrubby white oak tree located on the rock cliff; thence to a marked rock located on Caney Fork of Middle Creek; thence following said Caney Fork of Middle Creek to the beginning.

BEING PART OF THE SAME LAND acquired by Greeley Darrell Ousley and Gary Dale Ousley, by deed of conveyance from Orbie Vaughn and David Vaughn, dated September 8, 1978 and recorded in Deed Book 235, page 250, in the office of the Floyd County Clerk at Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

AND BEING ALL THE SAME LAND described in the deed of conveyance from Gary Dale Ousley and Karen Ousley, husband and wife, to Greeley Darrell Ousley and Beulah Ousley, husband and wife, dated April 24, 1982, and recorded in Deed Book 265, page 494, in the Clerk's Office aforesaid.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $53,416.77 with interest thereon at 12% per annum from November 23, 1987 until satisfied, and the additional sum of $46,120.83 with interest thereon at 24% per annum from the 31 day of October, 1986 until satisfied and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms. Given under my hand, this 8 day of February, 1988.

MARSHALL DAVIDSON, Master Commissioner 2-10-31.

School Board Members To Host Legislators

The Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA) will host a reception for state legislators, tomorrow (Thursday) from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Farnham Dudgeon Civic Center in Frankfort.

The reception is an effort by local school board members "to show their appreciation to legislators for their past support of education and to help build support for keeping education as a priority," explains David L. Keller, executive director of KSBA.

Among those attending the reception will be members of the KSBA Legislative Network, which includes a representative from each school board; legislative coordinators, representing the 22 KSBA legislative areas; and local school superintendents from across the state.

Legislative coordinators and network members have been active for the past several months in working for legislation in the best interests of Kentucky's public schools. They have been keeping fellow members of their local boards informed about legislative actions.

DEAR BETTY CROCKER

Q. Why do recipes no longer specify sifting flour? E.S., Hometown, Ill.

A. Flour is already sifted many times during the milling process. For the most consistent results when baking, dip the measuring cup into flour and level it with a straight-edged knife. Take care not to tap or shake the cup.

Q. My breads always come out with a hard crust. What's causing this? Mrs. A.B., Moorhead, Mn.

A. A too high oven temperature may cause the problem. Compare the temperature on your oven controls to that of an oven thermometer. And, you may want to have your oven controls checked. Be sure to place rack in middle of oven and center food to be baked.

Q. I'd like some new ideas for preparing red cabbage. E.S., Syracuse, N.Y.

A. Stir-fry cabbage with other vegetables in hot oil or make a cabbage soup with potatoes, ham, other vegetables and herbs. Roll a mixture of cooked sausage, rice, sauerkraut and seasonings in cabbage leaves and bake. Or make a simple tossed salad of red cabbage, tomatoes, green pepper and a light vinaigrette.

TIP OF THE WEEK: Self-rising flour makes pie crust mealy and tender rather than flaky and tender. Be sure to omit salt from recipe when using self-rising flour.
