

Counter High Cholesterol Level With Proper Diet and Exercise

By Joe Porter

What's your cholesterol count? Is it dangerously high or does it reflect a proper diet low in saturated fats? Well, 48 people in Floyd county last week had a chance to find out as a team of health educators screened them at the Floyd County Health Department. The results were: 67 percent had higher than acceptable levels.

Heart disease is the number one killer in the United States today, and a cholesterol screening test measures the amount of cholesterol in your blood to determine whether you have an increased risk for heart disease. High cholesterol along with cigarette smoking and high blood pressure are the major risk factors for heart disease. And when these factors are reduced, the risks of heart disease are also reduced.

The people were screened this way: using a finger prick blood sample and a portable blood analyzer, the person's cholesterol count was determined in five to eight minutes. Then, after they were told the results, each person was counseled on ways to reduce their cholesterol through proper diet and given educational material and recipes.

It is recommended that all adults keep their cholesterol below 200 mg/dl (milligrams per deciliter). The three main ways to lower cholesterol are through a low-fat diet, a high fiber diet with fruits, vegetables, and whole grains; and regular exercise, for at least 20 minutes, three times a week.

"I think we accomplished our goal and that was to make people aware that this program exists and that it's possible to get it in this area," said Melissa Reynolds, a nutrition graduate student, who came to Prestonsburg from the Lexington-Fayette County Health Department, along with Karen Thompson and Cindy McIntosh.

Thompson said that while 67 percent of those screened had levels above 200, the figure is not surprising, considering the way the group was selected and the fact that 50 percent of the adult

American population have high cholesterol levels. "The screening is a first step," said Thompson. "It just means that if a person does have high cholesterol, they should look into it further, and perhaps see a physician to have more tests done. The one good thing about cholesterol is that it usually responds to diet and exercise."

Your blood cholesterol level is influenced by the foods you eat and by your particular body chemistry. "It's what you eat and what your body does with it," said Reynolds. "People who are not overweight will say they don't have to worry about it, but this is where they're misinformed. Weight has nothing to do with it. Sometimes it's a person with a slim build who has a high cholesterol level."

The trip to Floyd county was Reynold's idea. She is formerly from Allen and will graduate this May from Eastern Kentucky University. It is her hope that with interest generated by the screening the Floyd County Health Department will now invest in a blood analyzer. "People were saying why don't you do this more often?" Reynold said.

"It's a good service and it gives an accurate reading," said Earl Compton, Floyd County Health Administrator, about the cholesterol screening procedure. And of the possibility of the county purchasing a blood analyzer, Compton said, "I'm going to talk with my board members and see if we can't get one. I'll take their recommendation. I can't say definitely, but hopefully, we will get one in the future. I think it's probably worth the expense."

80th Birthday

Pikeville College To Host Coal Preparation Workshop

A coal preparation workshop will be held at Pikeville College's Armington Science Center Saturday, March 12. United Coal Company Research Corporation from Bristol, Virginia will present a program entitled "Centrifugal Dryer and Froth Flotation Developments."

Registration begins at 8 a.m. with coffee and donuts and the workshop begins at 8:25 a.m. continuing until noon. This workshop is sponsored by the Central Appalachian Coal Preparation Society and Pikeville College.

Appalachian Art On Exhibit at PCC

"Images From the Mountains: A Traveling Exhibit of Appalachian Artists" will be on exhibit from March 4-18 in the Library in the Johnson Building at Prestonsburg Community College.

Twenty-three artists from 17 Appalachian counties are included in the show, which features both established and emerging artists from eastern Kentucky. Dr. William Hennessey, director of the University of Kentucky Art Museum, juried the exhibit.

Merit awards totaling $500 were given by the Endowment for Appalachian Artists, UK Appalachian Center, to Gretchen Bainum, Robert Franzini, Charley Kinney, and Lester Pross.

The exhibit will tour throughout the state through May 1988. It is sponsored by the UK Appalachian Center with a grant from the Kentucky Arts Council.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Albert C. Miller, would like to express our thanks to the family and friends who comforted us in our time of loss. The outpouring of love shown by your visitation, prayers, and your gifts of flowers and food was overwhelming. We give our special thanks to Rev. and Mrs. Lorie Vannucci and the church family of the First Assembly of God Church at Martin, Ky., for spiritual support and ministry in word and song during the funeral service. Also, special thanks to Dr. Cook, Dr. Arnett, and the emergency room staff at Highlands Regional Medical Center for their efforts and caring; and to Larry Burke and the staff at Floyd Funeral Home for their patience, comfort, guidance and help.

Mrs. Maggie Wilburn, of Toler Creek, was honored on her 76th birthday, February 25, at the home of her son, and daughter-in-law, Clifford and Brenda Wilburn.

She enjoyed a birthday dinner which was also attended by son, Howard, his wife Martha and their daughter, Lora; another son, Curtis Wilburn, daughter Janet Roberts and her husband, Clinton, and their son, Bradley, and by other family and friends, Reba Hale, Bonnie and Danielle Boyd.

Economic Development Bonds Targeted To Rural Kentucky

For 30 months, Wallace Wilkinson criss-crossed Kentucky talking about the need for county by county economic development. Bringing jobs to Kentucky counties was a principal theme for candidate Wilkinson and is a priority for Governor Wilkinson.

"Fifteen counties in Kentucky can't continue to support the other 105," Wilkinson said repeatedly during his campaign. "Kentucky can't prosper until every county prospers."

The Executive Budget proposed by Governor Wilkinson, and now before the General Assembly, reflects the themes Wilkinson has talked about for many months. Rural Kentucky, says Wilkinson, has been neglected for far too long.

The Governor has proposed $40 million in economic development bonds targeted to Kentucky's rural counties to provide infrastructure needs and other incentives, particularly for small and medium size companies.

While Kentucky will continue to aggressively pursue new industry, Wilkinson is focusing special attention on stimulating growth and expansion of existing Kentucky companies. Without these funds, Wilkinson maintains that rural Kentucky would once again lose the opportunity for vital economic development resources.

"Rural Kentucky has waited a long time," says Wilkinson, "for a governor who understands how important it is to bring jobs to our counties."

The funds that we have proposed in the budget is a small amount in relation to the opportunity and growth that the money can create. In a $14 billion budget, $40 million less than 3 percent of the total budget is still far short of what we ought to be doing. Wilkinson's budget reflects his themes of education and economic development. "We are fundamentally changing the way we do business in Kentucky and reordering our priorities to reflect the needs of Kentuckians."

"We are making sure that we are getting everything out of every dollar state government spends and we are putting common sense back into the budget process and state spending."

As is usually the case whenever the state budget is reviewed, there is a hue and cry from the special interests for a tax increase. "Kentuckians can't afford higher taxes," says Wilkinson. "We must show the people of Kentucky that state government can more efficiently manage the money we have before we ask people to pay more."

Legislators View Health Club Bill

Kentuckians who join health spa or fitness clubs would be protected against rip-offs by legislation being considered by the 1988 General Assembly. HB 809, a response to numerous consumer complaints in this field, was created through the expertise of Attorney General Fred Cowan's Consumer Protection Division. "The pursuit of health and fitness has turned into a nightmare for too many of our customers. We badly need this tough and thorough new law," according to Cowan.

HB 809, sponsored by Representative Robert "Bob" Jones, of Crestwood, would require all spas to register and file a bond with the Commonwealth. "All too often, Kentucky consumers have been left 'high and dry' without a refund or facility to use when the club they were a member of went out of business," Representative Jones said. The bill also spells out a consumer's right to cancel his/her membership and provides a formula for refunds in the event of cancellation. Another key safeguard would be a 36-month limit on the duration of spa memberships.

The Attorney General is also strongly supporting legislation that would set up a study of Kentucky's New Car Lemon Law enacted by the 1986 General Assembly. Bills, sponsored in the House by Representative Ron Cyrus, of Flatwoods, and in the Senate by Senator Nelson Allen, of Ashland, could lead to an improved law providing better protection for the buyers of new vehicles.

The General Assembly is currently also considering bills dealing with the regulation of so-called "vacation clubs", sponsored by Representative Dorsey Ridley, of Dixon, and the control of the use of academic credentials by health care providers, sponsored by Representative Walter Blevins, of Morehead. These measures also have the support of Attorney General Fred Cowan.

Two Floyd Countians In College Who's Who

Morehead State University will be represented by 46 students in the 1988 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Two Floyd county residents are among those representing MSU. They are Lora L. Hardwick, junior, daughter of James Hardwick, of Betsy Layne, and Sheridan Martin, junior, son of Sherman Martin, of Drift. They join other outstanding students recommended by more than 1,400 universities and colleges throughout the country.

To be selected for inclusion in the listing, a student must demonstrate academic achievement, service to the community, leadership ability in extracurricular activities and the potential for continued success.

Ten White Flowering Dogwoods Offered Free

Ten free white flowering dogwood trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during March.

The free trees are part of the nonprofit Foundation's efforts to encourage tree planting throughout America.

"The White Flowering Dogwoods will add year-round beauty to your home and neighborhood," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director, said. "Dogwoods have showy spring flowers, scarlet autumn foliage, and red berries which attract songbirds all winter."

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between March 1 and May 31 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to twelve inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to Ten Dogwoods, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by March 31, 1988.

Pike College Slates Pre-Admission Meet

The Pikeville College Nursing Department will host a pre-admission conference, Tuesday, March 15 at 3 p.m. in room 010 of the Armington Science Center on the Pikeville College Campus. Admission requirements and application procedures will be discussed.

For additional information phone 606-432-9230.

Save Your Vision Week Proclaimed

"Healthy Lives Need Healthy Eyes" is the theme for the 1988 celebration of Save Your Vision Week, March 6-12, the Kentucky Optometric Foundation recently announced.

Proclaimed by President Ronald Reagan and Governor Wallace Wilkinson, Save Your Vision Week reminds all Americans of the importance of good vision in their daily lives and of the need to take care of their eyes with preventive eye care.

In conjunction with Save Your Vision Week, optometrists across the state will "Give One Day" of free eye examinations to those working poor who have already been approved for this program. This "Give One Day" is sponsored by the Kentucky Vision Project.

Two KET Sundays Filled With Music

Two programs filled with music air on KET in March during TeleFund '88. The first, Stradivarius On Stage, a special dedicated to the work of Antonio Stradivari, airs on Sunday, March 13 at 10 p.m. and Sunday, March 20 at 9. A Grand Night salutes public television's contribution to the performing arts. Violin virtuoso Pinchas Zukerman hosts Stradivarius On Stage taped at London's newest concert hall, the Barbican, and in Cremona, Italy, where the famous creator of stringed instruments worked. Zukerman and Yo Yo Ma play Mozart and Brahms, while Yehudi Menuhin conducts the English Chamber Orchestra celebrating the beauty of these instruments, their extraordinary tone, and the value they hold for their talented owners. An unsurpassed collection of Stradivarius (stringed instruments created by Stradivari) has been assembled for this program. A Grand Night assembles many of today's finest performers in a program saluting the performing arts. This special features Shirley Jones, Samuel Ramey, the Kronos Quartet, Leona Mitchell, Michael Feinstein, Peter Martins and the New York City Ballet, Alexandra and Albert Markov, Jerry Hadley, the Hubbard Street Dancers, and the opera-singing Muppet, Placido Domingo. A Grand Night is a production of WTTW/Chicago. Stradivarius On Stage is produced by Windsor International.

PRESTONSBURG WOMAN'S CLUB HEARS DR. MARY FOX SPEAK

Members of the executive board of the K.F.W.C./G.F.W.C. Prestonsburg Woman's Club met Thursday evening, March 3, at the Floyd County Library to discuss matters to be brought before the club at its meeting there later that evening. Present were Mesdames Boots Adams, Carolyn Traum, Maxine Bierman, Dorothy Stover, and Joyce Allen.

Mrs. Boots Adams presided at this and at the meeting which followed, welcoming those present and leading group in the Pledge of Allegiance. Mrs. Lucy Regan gave the devotional.

Mrs. Carolyn Traum, first vice president, introduced Dr. Mary Fox, of Pikeville, who spoke on "Child Abuse." Dr. Fox said that there are three kinds of abuse: physical, sexual, and emotional, and noted that these abuses are on the upswing and were happening in this area.

The president, Mrs. Adams, presented a new member, Linda McGuire a year-book.

The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Maxine Bierman, read a note of appreciation from Mrs. Dorothy Osborne, and also read a letter from the A.F.W.C. president, Phyllis Roberts.

Mrs. Dorothy Stover, second vice president, reported that the dates for the club's rummage sale had been changed to May 2, 3, and 4.

Mrs. Lucille Nunnery said that two cookbooks remain to be sold, and Mrs. Mable Brown reported that repairs on the club's Arts and Crafts House have been completed. Mrs. Adams reported that a meeting with the Magoffin County Woman's Club to determine arrangements for the 7th district meeting in October will be held shortly. She also appointed a By-Laws committee, including Mesdames Maxine Bierman, Carolyn Traum, Roberta Sloan, Katherine Frazier, and Dorothy Harris and appointed the following members to serve on the Nominating Committee: Mesdames Garnett Fairchild, Eileen Burchett, Burieta Gearhart, Judy Kittle, and Ditty Tackett.

The club noted to donate $50 to the special olympics.

The president said a Legislative Day would be held in Frankfort, Thursday, March 10, with a coffee at 9:15 a.m., and a tour of the Governor's Mansion, at 2 p.m.

Hostesses for Thursday night's meeting were Mable Brown, Betty Rowland, Martha Johnson, Nancy Martin and Lucille Nunnery, who served refreshments to Boots Adams, Carolyn Traum, Eileen Burchett, Dorothy Stover, Joyce Allen, Maxine Bierman, Elizabeth Ramey, Lucy Regan, Burieta Gearhart, Roberta Sloan, Barbara Dawson, Trisha Morris, Linda McGuire, Myrtle Allen, and Orella McGuire, members, and Dr. Mary Fox, guest.

The next regular meeting will be Thursday evening, April 7.

East Point Club Donations

Landon Tackett, chairman of East Point Area Development Club, is shown presenting a check for $250 to Dwight Crider, of the Floyd County Rescue Squad, at the East Point Community Center.

Other checks were presented to Johnson County Rescue Squad Chairman Bob Dixon, to Mrs. Billie Franklin, Thelma Volunteer Fire Dept., to Reed Omer, Jenney's Creek Volunteer Fire Dept., to Ronnie Robinson, West Van Lear Volunteer Fire Dept., to Russell Rucker, Van Lear Historical Society and $50 contribution to Johnson Central Band Boosters.

Paul Newman, of the Johnson County Rescue Squad, presented the club with a plaque which was accepted graciously.

There were 38 fruit and candy Christmas bags filled for the elderly and shut-ins at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Landon Tackett. Those helping were Mr. and Mrs. Calvin K. Gray, Mrs. Betsy Baldrige, Mrs. Elsie Leake, Mrs. Doris Boggs and Mrs. Lorena Horne and all this help was appreciated very much!

Lloyd's Of London Awards Grant For Research In Horse Disease

Representatives of Lloyd's of London, their brokers, and Kentucky agents presented a $50,000 check to the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture for equine research.

It is the third consecutive year that Lloyd's has funded the college's veterinary science department in its research.

The grant, presented during ceremonies at the Gluck Equine Center on the UK campus, will be used to continue research of foal enteric disease which causes diarrhea and gastrointestinal ulcers in foals.

The disease affects a large percent of foals in Central Kentucky. Ulcers caused by the disease can kill some foals, said David Powell, a researcher who is working on the project.

Already, the three-year project has paid dividends.

"Our research seems to be paying off," Powell said. "The number of cases of the disease is down over the last two years. We feel farms are now making greater efforts to control the disease."

He added, "Last year, we had very little evidence that a virus caused the disease. Now we know that a particular kind of virus called a 'rotavirus' was the primary cause in Central Kentucky."

This year, he said the researchers would be looking more closely at the virus to determine how to prevent the disease. They also want to learn what causes the syndrome to produce ulcers in the foal's stomach.

"We don't understand what causes the ulcers," he said. "Until we do, we don't know how to cure it."

Math-Science Meet Slated Is A 'First'

A first-of-its kind statewide conference of mathematics and science educators from Kentucky's schools and universities will be held in Louisville, March 11 and 12, at the Hurstbourne Lane Holiday Inn. The keynote speaker will be the noted astronaut and educator, Dr. Story Musgrave.

The conference will bring together some 400 Kentucky teachers of mathematics and science from kindergarten through college level to enhance professional development and help establish "academic alliances" throughout Kentucky.

The formation of academic alliances is based on the belief that improvements in mathematics and science education in Kentucky must take place at all educational levels. The elementary, middle, high school and college faculty all share equally in this responsibility, and all have equally important roles to play.

The role of mathematics and science education in Kentucky is crucial as we prepare to enter the 21st century. A Kentucky symposium on "21st Century Resourcefulness," held in November 1986, highlighted the need to have a population well educated in mathematics and science as we compete in this age of information and technology and as we address Kentucky's economic development needs in the information age.

The major purposes of this conference are to expose participants to educational issues pertaining to mathematics and science instruction from national, state, and regional perspectives; to provide participants an opportunity to join with colleagues within their regions to identify and discuss common goals; and to establish leadership groups which will expand mathematics and science academic alliances through four follow-up regional meetings.

The conference is being sponsored by the Council on Higher Education in conjunction with the State Department of Education, the Kentucky Council of Teachers of Mathematics, and the Kentucky Association for Progress in Science. Funding for the conference is being provided under Title II of the Federal Education for Economic Security Act and from private sources.

Lona Akers

A CARD OF THANKS

The family of Lona Akers would like to thank everyone who helped in the passing of our dear loved one. Thanks for all the prayers and words of comfort to support us. Thanks for all the flowers and food. Many thanks for all the kindness and thoughtfulness of friends, family, neighbors, and church members of the Old Regular Baptist Church. Special thanks to Revis and Wonda Carroll for their kindness. We would like to express great appreciation to Brother James Branham for his help and loving kindness toward our family. Also special thanks to the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient services.

I would also like to thank all of my children and their wives for all their help with mom when she was so ill and helpless. Your son Richard and I were so glad to be with you for your last few years. We all miss you, and we hope to be with you again, but this time it will be forever, with our Lord.

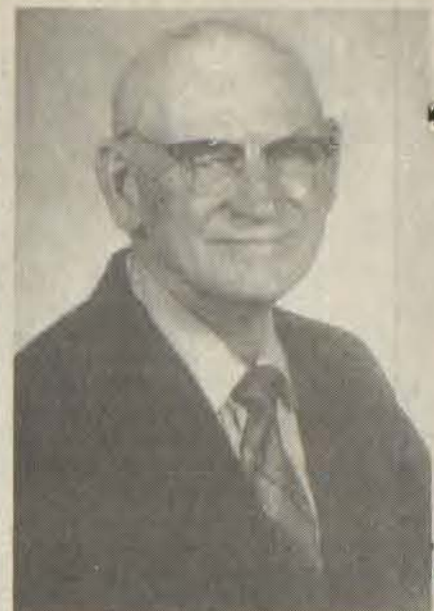

Mom, you're resting back home, back near your son, Ray and his family, that you loved so much.

May God bless you all.

Your daughter Opal Maynard and family, Mom I love you.

Coleman To Publish Poems of Appalachia

IN MEMORIAM

In remembrance of our father the Reverend Charlie Rowe.

All the past we can recall, you had always been there for us. You guided us with your wisdom and patience, then stood back to watch us grow.

We realize now just how difficult it must have been to stand in the background as we made our own mistakes, but you never once turned away.

Your trust in God and in us that we would find our own direction and make the right decisions, we thank you for your faith in us.

We love and miss you more than words can express, and how proud we will always be to call you, our Father.

JAMES F. ROWE FOR THE FAMILY

Coalminer Crossing America in a Camper (And Other Poems of Appalachia), by freelance writer Ron Coleman, will be published in a limited edition about April 1.

Born in Pike county and reared in adjoining Buchanan county, Va., Coleman has written several other works of area interest, including the three-act Appalachian real life drama, The Hanging of John Harden.

He is also the author-photographer of We Dig Coal; The Great Flood at Grundy; and The Story of Breaks Interstate Park.

"This work deals with the life of the coalminer and mountaineer of Central Appalachia. I am trying to speak to and for the coalminer and his family in this work. Most of the poems and monologues tell tales and stories about present-day and past life in Appalachia. Some of my characters are representative figures, but many of them are taken from real life—people like coalminer Enos Pace, Bad Sam Hurley, counterfeiter Doc Mullins, mountaineer Richard Potter and the legendary murderer John Harden all really lived here in the area where Virginia, Kentucky and West Virginia meet," Coleman said.

The life and culture of the coalminer is presented in such poems and monologues as Coalminer Crossing America in a Camper, Coalmining, Appalachia, Widow's Lament, Lasting Image, Ballad of Black Diamond, The Coin of The Realm, and others.

The clannish character and lawless culture of the mountaineer before the advent of coalmining is presented through poems and monologues.

Coleman is a former newspaperman and coal industry public relations director. His freelance articles have appeared in state, regional and national publications. He owns and operates Virginia Air Views, an aerial photography business.

Copies of Coalminer Crossing America in a Camper (And Other Poems of Appalachia) can be ordered in advance of publication from the author, at P.O. Box 676, Moneta, Va. 24121.

Coalminer Crossing America in a Camper

I spent thirty-eight years of my life crawling on hands and knees at the coal face.

I never got killed or crippled like so many of my buddies but I did get Black Lung.

I retired with all the benefits, including UMW pension, union health card, Social Security and Black Lung checks and a new camper I bought to cross America in.

When I hit the road toward Arizona and the dry desert air where my blackened lungs would breathe easier, I got into the habit of sitting out in the evenings listening to the coyotes on the hot empty desert.

But sometimes as I sit here on this vast desert my mind dwells not on the coyotes or twinkling transcontinental jets but on homelier thoughts of loved ones gathered for a funeral or family reunion at the old homeplace in the hollow.

Sometimes, too, as I sit here alone on this dry dark desert I ask myself how I ever made it all those years crawling around at the coal face on my hands and knees like a gopher or groundhog.

I ask myself, when it really worth it?

When the dawn breaks bright and scorching and the desert highway shimmers westward toward the Pacific and the miles grow longer and longer, the answer comes to me, and I know...

that I will never be as content camping anywhere in America as I was, working down in that dark cool coal mine.

IN MEMORY
Vicki Parker McClellan
February 16, 1983

Death... the unexpected event that never seems fair, that drains the joy from our hearts and the energy from our bodies, yet fills our lives with overpowering emptiness.

Is there "good" that comes from the loss of our loved one? Maybe it is "good" to realize that material possessions have little worth in comparison to a radiant smile, the glow of hair shimmering with sunbeams, a calming word of understanding or the tender touch of a hand.

This could be good. Could it be "good" to have to re-examine our own lives for flaws and put priorities on our choices to make them worthwhile?

This should be good. Isn't it "good" to know our inner strength has been tested and we have survived the days and nights of turmoil and loneliness?

This must be good. We have strengthened one another and become friends during our exchange of letters, phone calls and visits. Her family, her students, her co-workers and her friends have been woven together by one thread—the presence and being of Vicki and the way she touched each of our lives. We loved her well, and miss her still.

This, too, is good.

Thousands of U.S. Students Take Summer Jobs Abroad

A record number of American college students will choose to work abroad this summer. According to the Council on International Exchange, the largest student exchange organization in the U.S., more than five thousand students will apply for work permits for countries in Western Europe and other students will choose to work in off-beat locations such as Costa Rica and New Zealand. The Council estimates that more than four thousand students will work in Britain alone, giving a distinctly American flavor to popular London establishments like the Hard Rock Cafe and the Chicago Pizza Pie Factory.

a British royal wedding, sold books in a local shop in Cork, sheared sheep on a farm in New Zealand, and gained international career experience as a banking trainee in a Parisian financial institution. The program's flexibility allows participants to find jobs that fit in with their personal goals and interests.

Now in its nineteenth year, CIEE's Work Abroad Program is the only one of its kind. By cutting through red tape, it helps thousands of students obtain permission for temporary work in Britain, Ireland, France, Germany, New Zealand, and Costa Rica. Through the services provided by the Council and its cooperating organizations in each country, most participants secure work within days of arrival, earning enough to cover room and board as well as some travel once they stop working.

Students stress that working abroad gives them an "inside" view of a foreign country. "I had a full-filled summer, made friends for a lifetime, got experience that will look good on a resume, and gained knowledge of another country that definitely isn't available through a textbook!" says one University of North Carolina student.

Past Work Abroad Program participants have served food and drink at

The Work Abroad program is open to students 18 years of age or older enrolled in a U.S. college or university. The only cost to the student is a modest program fee and the airfare to the destination abroad—an expense that may be reduced by special student and youth fares available through Council Travel Services.

For more information and application forms, write or call: Council on International Educational Exchange, P.O. Box 205 East 42 Street, New York, NY 10017, (212) 661-1414.

Winter Heating Aid Funds Are Increased

Additional funding of $1,025,000 is now available to extend the crisis segment of Kentucky's Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP) for low-income families with residential heating emergencies.

Cabinet for Human Resources Secretary Harry J. Cowherd, M.D., said the new appropriation follows General Assembly passage and Gov. Wallace Wilkinson's signing into law of Senate Bill 10.

The legislation allows Kentucky to comply with a federal court order on distribution of the more than $39 million in a trust fund as part of a settlement over alleged crude oil and petroleum overcharges in the 1970s. The plan allows the state Energy and Human Resources cabinets to draw upon the trust fund over the next 10 years for conservation and weatherization programs.

"These funds will be put to use immediately in this year's HEAP crisis phase," Cowherd said. "Within 30 days of the opening of this segment, both the original statewide allocation of $8.2 million and an additional $1 million contingency fund were nearly exhausted."

From Jan. 11 to Feb. 12, Kentucky's 23 regional community action agencies, which are processing HEAP crisis requests, approved 57,811 applications for benefits totaling almost $7.1 million. The average assistance in this portion of the program has been $123.

"Despite the delays and ultimate reduction in Kentucky's share of this year's federal HEAP authorization, the relatively mild winter has helped us stretch the money we did receive to this point," he said.

"The new funds should enable the community action agencies, which are processing the crisis phase applications, to help several thousand more families during the remaining weeks of this winter," Cowherd said.

Under the new law, at least $500,000 of the annual distribution from the trust fund will be used by the Energy Cabinet in its institutional energy conservation program, beginning with the 1988-89 fiscal year budget.

The remainder of the additional allocation will supplement the federal funds Kentucky receives to weatherize the homes of low-income families and to provide emergency winter HEAP benefits.

In the current budget, the Senate Bill 10 plan allocates an additional $1,025,000 to both the HEAP and home weatherization programs and $50,000 to the Legislative Research Commission for a study of the state's conservation and weatherization programs.

Rosha Moore, 87-year-old resident of Mt. Manor Nursing Home was chosen as Valentine Sweetheart there last month.

Mrs. Moore is from Garrett, and is the widow of Albert Moore. She is the mother of nine children, seven of which are still living. She also has 19 grandchildren, 27 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild. She is a member of the Regular Baptist Church. She was escorted by John Steele, of Paintsville.

Columbia Customer's Will Get New Bill

Columbia Gas of Kentucky customers in the Prestonsburg area will receive a gas bill with a new look this month.

"The purpose of the change is to make reading and understanding the bill more convenient for our customers," said Jimmy C. Curnutte, CKY manager in the Prestonsburg area. "The new bill provides more detailed information about the services we offer."

"Also, instead of having a separate computer card, part of the new bill serves as a payment stub. Customers can simply tear off the top portion of the bill and enclose it with their payment."

Curnutte said the new bill includes all the current information about a customer's account, such as the amount of gas used and the account balance.

Students Say Gettysburg Address

Eric Johnson

Beau Tackett

Two elementary students said the entire Gettysburg Address from memory before an all school assembly at Mountain Christian Academy last week. Each year the school holds a contest to see who can and will memorize the address and recite it to the student body.

Eric Johnson is 12 years old and a seventh grader. He has attended MCA since the school began in 1983. He is an honor student and is interested in studying science and space technology. One of his goals is to attend Space Camp in Alabama this summer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Johnson, of Martin, and his maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Barnette, of Martin, and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Pastor, of Oxnard, Ca. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Johnson, of Carroga Park, Ca.

Beau Tackett is nine years old and in the third grade at MCA which he has attended for four years. He is an "A" student and interested in basketball and baseball. Also, this is the second year he has said the Gettysburg Address to the school. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Roger Tackett, of Eastern, and his maternal grandparents are Noa and Lizzie Akers, of McDowell. His paternal grandparents are Gaylord and Dixie Caudill, of Martin.

Two Kentuckys require different set of policies

John Ed Pearce

By John Ed Pearce
(for the Shakertown Roundtable)

One big problem facing Kentucky is the fact that there are two Kentuckys.

Kentucky has always been a state of regions - Eastern Kentucky, Western Kentucky, Northern Kentucky, the Bluegrass, Louisville - that at times seem to have little to do with each other. But the gap between the two Kentuckys goes beyond these traditional differences.

Kentucky, like much of the South, is divided between fairly prosperous, progressive urban areas and rural areas that are stagnating and declining, plagued by poverty, inadequate schools and governments unable to deliver modern services.

Because their home counties lack industry, rural residents stream to the cities to find well-paying jobs. But too often they find that they do not have the education or training to hold the jobs if they could find them. They have nowhere to go.

The current national administration, under its program of "handing government back to the people," ended federal revenue sharing last year. The effect on poor Kentucky counties has been shattering. Generally speaking, revenue-sharing funds were intended for capital improvements (roads, sewers, water supplies, buildings). But many counties, pinched for money, had been using the funds for operating expenses (health and welfare services, salaries, recreation, vehicles and programs for the elderly). It was an unsound practice but understandable. They had no money and it is hard to pass new or heavier taxes in poor counties.

When the federal funds ended, counties had to cut back on services. Even then, last fall 18 Kentucky counties could not meet expenses. Some officials in Frankfort estimate that by this summer as many as one-third of all counties will not be able to pay their bills. Frankfort, itself faced with a $420 million revenue shortfall over the next two years, can offer little help.

Economists predict that over the next ten years Kentucky will see a substantial increase in manufacturing jobs. But most of these jobs, they say, will come to the "golden triangle" of Northern Kentucky, the Bluegrass and Louisville. They foresee little improvement in the rural counties, especially those of Eastern and Southeastern Kentucky that need jobs most.

While nearly all rural counties are in trouble, the trouble is deepest and most persistent in these Appalachian counties. They depend heavily on the up-and-down coal economy, which is an uncertain source of jobs. Every county in Eastern Kentucky has a jobless rate of more than 10 per cent. Leaders work hard to bring in new industry, but they are handicapped by a lack of flat land, trained labor and local financing. Streams in the areas tend to flood in winter, dry up in summer, robbing the region of the year-around water supply needed by many industries.

Efforts to bring in other industries to balance the erratic coal economy are complicated by the fact that many of the towns lack the amenities that business executives expect - good schools, hospitals, libraries, attractive neighborhoods, recreation and efficient local government. Poor counties might attract industry if they could offer these amenities, but they can't afford them until they get businesses to provide jobs and pay taxes. They are caught in a vicious cycle. Many counties are too small (some have as few as 2,500 people) to have enough taxable property to support modern government services, but efforts to consolidate counties have met stony opposition from voters.

Many poor counties are pulled further down by political systems marked by corrupt elections, political patronage and nepotism that weakens services and discourages able people from seeking office or taking part in elections. Absentee owners of coal and timber lands often fight to keep taxes low. Local officials are often afraid to seek fair taxes on unmined minerals for fear that the mineral owners will give up their leases and pay no taxes at all.

The plight of the poor counties is widely understood. But wealthier counties, which pay more state taxes than they get back in state services, complain when the poor counties receive more than they pay into the state treasury.

Even new industry would solve only a part of these problems. New industry would provide jobs for only a few of the unemployed, since most of them are too poorly educated to hold jobs in modern technological industry. State laws, particularly House Bill 44, limit property taxes and the amount of tax revenue new businesses would contribute to local governments.

As economist H. Brinton Milward told the recent conference of the Shakertown Roundtable, the problems facing these counties are so different that they demand a separate and different set of state policies. And neither Frankfort nor the counties involved seem ready to make the sacrifices that will be necessary to end the problems presented by the two Kentuckys.

Sixth of a series on the "State of the state" conference sponsored by the Shakertown Roundtable at Pleasant Hill, Mercer County, Nov. 8-9, 1987. Wilson W. Wyatt, conference chairman, Earl D. Wallace, Lexington, is chairman of the Roundtable, a non-profit, non-partisan study group. Al Smith is vice chairman.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

TEEN ALERT

By now, nearly every parent knows it is potentially dangerous to give a young child aspirin for the symptoms of chicken pox or flu. The reason is that aspirin ingestion for flu symptoms may lead to Reye's Syndrome. This rare disease is characterized by severe tiredness, vomiting, and personality changes. Such symptoms appear with aspirin use at a point when the youngster seems to be overcoming the flu, chicken pox, or other viral infection. Reye's Syndrome is a very serious illness. What may surprise some parents is the news that teenagers as well as children are susceptible to Reye's Syndrome. For this reason, it is important not to administer aspirin to any child with a viral infection up through his teenage years.

Next to your physician, your pharmacist is the most informed about the various remedies and medications available and their contraindications. Here at COOLEY APOTHECARY we have both the prescription medications and the over-the-counter remedies you will require to keep you in the peak of health. We're conveniently located at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

HINT:
In some cases, Reye's Syndrome is fatal.

New Treatment Unit Opened For Teens

Charter Ridge Hospital announces the opening of a 16-bed Adolescent Chemical Dependency Unit. The treatment program is the first of its kind in central and eastern Kentucky, serving teens ages 13-18.

Charter Ridge Hospital believes treatment is not a question of giving something up. An adolescent has to change his whole way of life and even more difficult, he has to change his mind. Treatment involves the difficult work of beginning to rebuild a life.

Treatment is based on the philosophy that alcoholism and other drug dependencies are treatable medical and primary illnesses. The goal is to provide the adolescent with a dependable support system as he/she establishes a new life of sobriety.

Florida Law Officer

Joann C. Livingston, formerly of this county, began her career at Lake Correctional Institution, Lake County, Florida, five years ago. She was recently promoted to Sergeant Co II Supervisor.

She resides in Groveland, Fla., with her husband, Walter G. Livingston, who is a retired air force tech. sergeant. Mr. Livingston has been with Florida Law Enforcement since his retirement eight years ago.

Mrs. Livingston is the daughter of Marie Crider Goble, of Prestonsburg, and the late Woodman Crider. Her mother now resides with her husband, Ted Goble, at Mount Dora, Florida. Mr. Goble is a retired school teacher.

Higher Education Meeting Announced

Everybody's Science...

The Greenhouse Effect: Higher Crop Yields?

By DENNIS SENFT

The greenhouse effect may increase global temperatures, melt part of the polar ice cap, and raise ocean levels in the next century. We've all heard that. Now some scientists think it may also boost crop yields.

The greenhouse effect occurs because of a buildup of atmospheric carbon dioxide, which is caused by burning of fossil fuels.

Atmospheric levels of carbon dioxide are almost 25 percent higher than 200 years ago and 10 percent higher than they were in the late 1950's. Some scientists think levels could double within the next 100 years.

As part of a larger experiment by the U.S. Department of Energy, USDA's Agricultural Research Service (ARS) will undertake a study near Yazoo City, Miss., to find out what projected increases of carbon dioxide in the air will mean to crop growth.

ARS scientist W. Doral Kemper of Beltsville, Md., says agency studies to date indicate that a doubling in the levels of carbon dioxide in the air could increase crop yields by about 50 percent.

The site that agency scientists are evaluating for the study will likely include eight or more plots, each about 50 feet in diameter. At least 200 tons of carbon dioxide, donated by the Mississippi Chemical Co., will be released each day at the site. A computer system will measure the wind's direction and speed and will adjust release rates to provide constant high levels of carbon dioxide in the air surrounding the crop. "We'll have an environment," Kemper says, "that'll be as close as possible to that forecasted for the next century."

"All plants and crops may benefit from extra carbon dioxide, including wheat, rice and corn—the three major foods for the earth's population," said Bruce A. Kimball, ARS soil scientist in Phoenix, Ariz., who will work on the project.

At Yazoo City, the first crop to be studied will be cotton. Already, agency scientists in Phoenix have been studying the crop in outdoor carbon dioxide chambers. "The cotton yielded 80 percent more when we doubled the carbon dioxide levels in our chambers," said Jack R. Mauney, a plant physiologist at Phoenix, who will also join the study at Yazoo City. "We look forward to seeing whether we find the same huge response in Yazoo City on an open field." (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture)

FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION

We are authorized to announce GEORGE HALE of Goodloe, Ky., as a candidate for Floyd Board of Education, Educational Division No. 2, to be voted for at the regular election November 8, 1927.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS

The Eastern Kentucky Educational Association meets in Ashland November 10, 11 and 12, and we are hoping that Floyd county's representation will be 100 per cent of its teachers. You are especially urged to attend this meeting. Time lost in teaching by attending will be given to the teachers. JOHN STEPHENS, County Superintendent.

G. M. BUCKLEY DIES

Mr. G. M. Buckley, aged 32 years, died at the Methodist hospital last Saturday afternoon. He was sick only a week. He had been employed for some time with the state highway department. He leaves a wife and two children. He was a brother of Tom Buckley, his father, John Buckley, having died about six weeks ago. He was also a first cousin of Judge J. W. Pruitt. Grundy Mitchell Buckley was born January 2, 1896. The funeral was conducted Monday afternoon at the Buckley graveyard on Buckley's Creek, by Rev. M. C. Reynolds and A. D. Cline.

HOSPITAL STAFF BANQUETED

A beautiful and sumptuous banquet was served Friday night in the parlors of the M. E. Church to the staff and directors of the Methodist Hospital. The tables were lovely with their Hal-loween decorations. Dr. Z. A. Thompson was an ideal toastmaster. Beautiful vocal selections were given by Mrs. S. B. Casebolt, and the Hospital Trio, composed of Mrs. Mary E. York, Mrs. F. W. Baker, and Miss Bertha Kissling, and Mrs. Wood delighted the guests with a reading. The main speaker of the evening was Rev. Overly, of Ashland district superintendent, on the subject, "The Gospel of Healing." All present were made to feel that they were serving the Master when they helped to heal the sick. He urged the ardent support of the Methodist hospital at this place. Four new members were added to the Board of Directors: Rev. H. E. Trent, of Covington, Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Johnson, Ashland, and P. B. Stratton, Pikeville.

REYNOLDS-GATLIN

On Saturday evening, October 15, at the parsonage of Rev. John Carpenter, at Williamson, W. Va., in the presence of Miss Minta Peery and Miss Cassie Martin, Mr. Russell V. Gatlin and Miss Alyce Mayo Reynolds were united in marriage. Mr. Gatlin was reared in Lexington, Okla., but has been living in Ashland for the past few years. He is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma. His father is a prominent business man of Ashland, and is a member of the Ramsey-Gatlin Construction Company. Mrs. Gatlin is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Reynolds, of this city, and is the grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Milt Hager, of Lexington, formerly of Paintsville, and are numbered among the finest families of Eastern Kentucky. She graduated at Pikeville College in the class of 1924. Mr. Gatlin is employed by the state highway department. This marriage was the result of a romance of short duration, they having known each other for only a few weeks.

DIES SUDDENLY

On last Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock, the beautiful life of one of Pike county's beloved old ladies came to a close. Mrs. Minta Thompson, wife of Tom Thompson, died at her home on Chloe Creek. She was 71 years of age. At one o'clock she lay down to take her afternoon nap, which she was accustomed to do. At five o'clock she turned over and gasped. She had breathed her last. She is survived by her husband, Tom Thompson, and several children, Sophia Stone, Maude Robinson, Anthony Thompson, Bessie Campbell, Martha May Ward, Callie Dawson, and Jake Thompson, all of whom live near Pikeville, except Mrs. Callie Dawson, who lives in Chicago. The burial was made Friday afternoon at the home cemetery at Chloe Creek. The funeral will be preached some time next summer.—News.

DANA

Mrs. B. F. Conn has been on the sick list for the past few days, but is some better at this time. Miss Lottie Jarrell is ill, but reported some better. "Uncle" I. L. Clark and wife were visiting their grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Robinette at Betsy Layne, Saturday night and Sunday. Born to Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hall, on October 27, a ten-pound son. Mother and baby are doing fine. Mrs. Malissa Akers, of Harold, is visiting friends and relatives at Dana. "Uncle" Wesley Boyd, who has been ill for the past year, was out car riding Sunday. ONE KILLED IN EXPLOSION

Billie Barnett Cordell, three year old son of Liss Cordell, formerly of this county, is dead, and Willie Moore, also of this county, is perhaps fatally injured, as the result of a gas explosion in the Cordell home at Columbus, Ohio, on Thursday of last week. The child was brought here and buried Tuesday near Ledocio on Little Blaine.

The explosion, so terrific that it jarred window panes out of adjoining houses, occurred when Willie Moore, a brother of Mrs. Cordell, attempted to light a gas stove in an upstairs room. The Cordells had just moved into the new home, and evidently the outgoing tenants had left a gas valve open; for the instant Moore lighted the match the room burst into flames. He managed to get out of the room, but the 3-year-old child, who was standing at the head of the stairway, was knocked down stairs and badly burned. It died Saturday in St. Mary's hospital, Columbus. Moore is in the same hospital with slight chances of recovering. He was burned severely.

Mr. and Mrs. Liss Cordell and another of Mrs. Cordell's brothers, Con Moore, were more or less burned but not seriously. Their home and an adjoining building were considerably damaged before the fire department could extinguish the flames.

FORMER LAWRENCE MAN SLAIN

Alfred E. Brown, 55, who moved to this county a few years ago from Ohio, was shot and killed near West Union, Ohio, Saturday night, according to a telegram sent to officers here requesting that they apprise his family who live on the Mayo Trail near five Forks.

According to a dispatch to the Portsmouth Sun, Brown, on his way to see his daughter at Wilmington, O., had stopped at the home of a former wife, Mrs. Will Francis. A number of people were at the Francis home. Late Saturday night Brown and one Jonas Cooper, aged 20, became engaged in a quarrel, the shooting occurring in the kitchen. Brown died a few hours later from a shot through his head. Mrs. Francis, the former wife of Brown, and several children are said to have been eye-witnesses of the killing.

VICTIM OF TYPHOID

Charles Parsley, 17, died at his home on Donithon early this week. He had recently returned from an Ironton hospital where he had a long siege of typhoid.

He was a son of Sherman Parsley, who was killed in the school election battle at Kermit three years ago.

Funeral services were conducted at Webb, W. Va., by Rev. J. D. Marcum, of Louisa.

STEEL FOR HOTEL

A carload of structural steel for the five-story Masonic temple and hotel building has arrived and is being placed on the site of the proposed structure. A second carload is due to arrive today. The two carloads are for the construction of two stories of the building, it is said.

The basement of the building was completed some weeks ago.

PLANNED ROBBERY

According to a confession made to Johnson county officials by a young man who had been arrested for breaking into a store of the North-East Coal Company, near Paintsville, he and other youths had planned to rob W. L. Ferguson's store in Louisa Sunday night. He said that the gang of which he was a member, had stolen 13 automobiles. One of the cars was recovered on Lick Creek, near Louisa. The boy was caught on the eve of the proposed robbery of the Louisa store.

AGED MINISTER DIES

John Miller, 96 years old, and a Free-will Baptist minister of the old order, died at Cyrus, W. Va., Saturday and was taken back to his former home at Torchlight for burial Monday.

Elias Miller, of Louisa, is a son of the deceased minister.—Big Sandy News.

TO MY FRIENDS, BOTH REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS OF THE 31st JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF KENTUCKY:

Ladies and Gentlemen: In pressing my claims for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney of this Judicial District, I first canvassed my own county, that of Floyd, and found that most all my friends in same were enthusiastically for me; however, a few of them had "cold feet," so to speak, but were my friends and would have voted and done all they could to have elected me, but were weak in the faith.

I believe without a doubt I would have carried this county by a good majority. It is not necessary for me to say here how much, but it would have been a large majority in this county, for nearly all the Republicans would have voted for me, as well as a great number of the best Democrats in this county, who are my personal friends.

In Knott county, I found things entirely different. The Republicans were opposed to my running for this office and many of them were actually for my opponent, but said they were my friends and many of them wrote me about withdrawing from the race and I made a visit to see and talk with them personally about this matter, but was unable to convince them and get them to help me, so about half of the Republicans in Knott county would have voted against me, although they said they were my friends and that they had nothing personally or otherwise against me and that I would make a good Commonwealth's Attorney.

The other half of the Republicans were enthusiastically for me and would have followed me until the last vote was cast and counted as cast. There are two factions of the Democratic party in Knott county opposed to each other on most all candidates for county and district offices, but I tried to get the support of one or the other of these factions, but could not get their help. I found, however, a great many of the best Democrats in Knott county for me and would have voted for me, and would have done all they could to have elected me. Knott county would have given a large majority against me; much larger against me than Floyd would have given for me, so that I could not have been elected.

After arriving home from Knott county on Tuesday, October 25, and after reading many letters sent me and taking counsel with many of my friends, both Democrats and Republicans, and after calling the Republican Committee together and after much deliberation and counsel with my friends of both parties here in Prestonsburg, on Saturday, October 29, it was thought to be the best interest of my friends in this campaign for me to tender the resignation of my nomination for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney in the 31st Judicial District, which was accordingly done and accepted by the committee and at the court house at 7:00 o'clock p. m., October 29. I publicly announced my withdrawal from the race for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney to be voted for at the November election on November 8, 1927.

My friends, I would not withdrawn from this race if there had been any reasonable hope of being elected, and would have run on anyway, if my running on had not appeared to be injurious to my friends in this campaign.

I have not words sufficient to express to my many friends, both Democratic and Republican, men and women, the gratitude and the heartfelt thanks I have for my many friends who encouraged me in this race and were ready to help me.

The day or night will never be too dark, cold or wet, that I will not be ready and willing to aid and assist you, if it be in my power so to do, and I will always remember you as my friends and will aid you when the opportunity presents itself. After I have done all I can for my friends, if I can, I am willing to aid my enemies, if I have any.

Your sincere friend, William Dingus

SOAP BEAN

Matthew Ashford likes Devereaux's dark side

By Marie Michaels

"It hasn't been difficult for me to take over the role of Jack, because a lot of his problems were worked out by my predecessors," says Matthew Ashford, the third actor in six months to portray Jack Devereaux on "Days of Our Lives."

Matthew Ashford

The adopted son of sinister Sen. Harper Devereaux, Jack (previously played by Joseph Adams and James Acheson) recently married heroine Kayla Brady (Mary Beth Evans) and was elected alderman. His life is filled with complications: He's suffering from cancer (now in remission); Kayla is in love with Patch (Stephen Nichols), the brother Jack doesn't even know he has; and Harper has been trying to poison Kayla because she found out that Harper adopted Jack when he was an infant.

"Jack is very complex," Ashford admits. "He's madly in love with Kayla and so obsessed with trying to hold on to her that his thinking has become distorted. And now that he knows Patch and Kayla have made love behind his back, he's determined to get revenge."

Ashford says he draws on real-life disappointments to make the character believable.

"I've had my heart broken," Ashford says, "so I know how Jack feels. When someone hurts you, you suddenly find yourself doing things you normally wouldn't. Everyone has a dark side - even a nice guy like me!"

Ashford has fared considerably better than Jack in matters of the heart. He married actress Christine Saffran last June, and says he's found true marital bliss.

"Two years ago, before I met my wife, I had a lot of qualms about marrying someone in the business," he reveals. "Christine changed all that. We have no ego problems - she gives me a lot of support. I married a wonderful woman, and I'm extremely happy."

A graduate of the North Carolina School of the Arts, Ashford played good guys Drew Ralston on "One Life to Live" (1982) and Cagney McCleary on "Search for Tomorrow" (1984) before joining "DOOL" last October.

"I wasn't even looking for a job when I got the role of Jack," he says. "But he's a good progression for me. He's a welcome change of pace - he has a dark side."
