★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: I am 55 years old and have breast cancer. My doctor tells me that my hormone receptor test was "positive". Because the cancer had spread to three of my lymph nodes under my arm, she wants me to take a drug, called tamoxifen. Can you tell me what a "positive" finding means in the hormone test? If all my other tests were negative for cancer, why do I have to take anything? How will tamoxifen help me? Are there severe side effects like vomiting or hair loss?

ANSWER: A hormone receptor assay (HRA) is a test done on breast tumor tissue after it has been removed to see if the cancer cells are dependent on the female hormones, estrogen and/or progesterone for growth. Receptors are proteins on the surface of the cell to which specific hormones can attach themselves. A "positive" test means that the breast cancer cells do rely on the hormones in the system for growth.

Tamoxifen is an anti-estrogen drug which has proven effective in blocking the growth of the hormone-dependent breast cancer cells. If the estrogen receptors are "positive", about 60 percent of patients will benefit by hormone treatment. If both estrogen and progesterone receptors are "positive" the response rate rises to 75-80 percent.

When cancer is found in the lymph nodes of a woman with breast cancer it places her at higher risk of relapse. Recent studies have shown that the use of tamoxifen may prevent or delay relapse in women who are over the age of 50 with "positive" estrogen receptors. Thus, for post menopausal women who have "positive" hormone receptors and whose cancer has spread to lymph nodes, hormone treatment with tamoxifen is considered the treatment of choice.

Tamoxifen is taken by mouth on a daily basis. Side effects are usually mild and may mimic the symptoms of menopause. The symptoms could include: hot flashes, nausea, weight gain, skin rash, vaginal bleeding or discharge. However, most patients tolerate tamoxifen very well.

For more information on any cancer related subject, call the Cancer Information Service (CIS) at 1-800-4-CANCER. Or write to the CIS at the Markey Cancer Center, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. The CIS is a service of the Kentucky Community Cancer Program.

The tongue is the strongest and most flexible muscle.

Survival of the fittest: A 14-year study of finches in the Galapagos Islands shows that there is definite relationship between climate and bird size. National Wildlife magazine reports that, during droughts, more large finches survived because they had the strength and big bills necessary to crack open the large, hard seeds that remained after smaller seeds had been consumed. Small birds thrived in rainy years, because the dampness fostered growth of plants that produce small seeds. Larger birds couldn't eat small seeds fast enough to keep up with their energy demands.

ELECT

JIMMY "GABE" TURNER STATE SENATOR

Do you remember when Floyd, Knott, Perry and Martin counties could feed their families with jobs from the coal industries?

Can you remember whenever a man became totally and permanently disabled that he could draw lifetime benefits.

Can you remember when our sons came home from wars?

Have you become depressed worrying about where the future is leading Perry, Martin, Floyd and Knott counties?

We must never forget the sick and disabled, our senior citizens, and war veterans!

Elementary and secondary schools must be upgraded and receive their fair share of revenue.

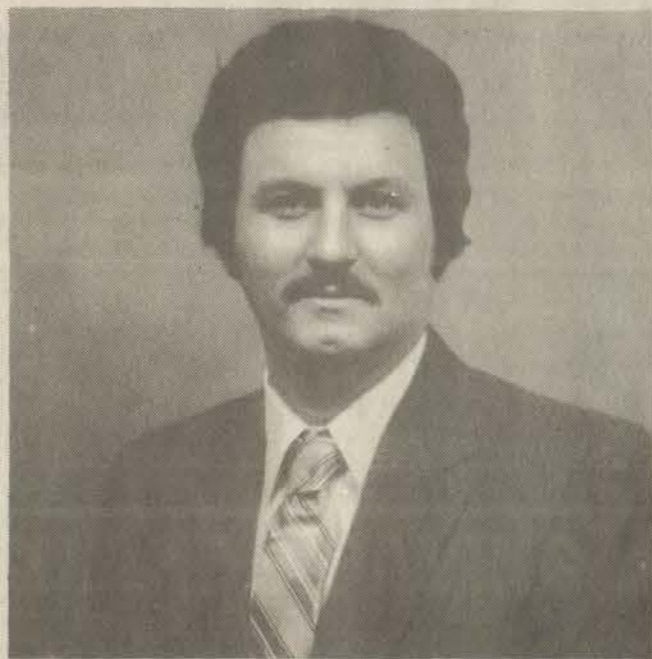

As your state senator in the general assembly I will fight for the interest of the citizens in Floyd, Knott, Perry and Martin counties.

"I Will Work To Reunite All of Floyd County Into One Senatorial District."

Elect A Man You Can Always Talk To!

BOOKS AND THINGS

By: TRISHA MORRIS, Librarian, Prestonsburg Community College

Extraordinary freedom to explore different lifestyles has always been an important element in the American experience. The following books from the P.C.C. library describe some of those lifestyles.

Extraordinary Groups
By: William Kephart

This book deals with seven of the many associational groups which mark America as different from other cultures. The author tells us, in the introduction, that he chose these particular groups for three important reasons: They all illustrate major sociological principals, they are all strikingly different—the Shakers are a home bound group while the Gypsies travel as a way of life; the Amish are rural while the Father Divine movement is urban; the Oneida Community practiced "free love" and the Shakers were celibates; the Hutterites adhered to a system of strict economic communism while the Mormons believed in free enterprise—and, they are all interesting.

Every chapter in "Extraordinary Groups" contains a series of sociological concepts around which are woven the threads and cultural fabric of the particular group. It is a fascinating study which tends to make one wonder about their own chosen way of life.

The Kentucky Shakers
By: Julia Neal

In 1805, at the height of early religious excitement in Kentucky, three Shakers from New Lebanon, New York—John Meacham, Benjamin Youngs and Issachar Bates—came to the new land seeking converts. Soon there were little communities of Believers at Pleasant Hill in Mercer county and at South Union in Logan county. The Shaker text was foreign to the Frontiersmen. It taught that Shakers did not count anything they owned but lay up in store provisions for the honor of God, that no man had to stand aside so that a rich man could be seated in a good place and that equality included women for had not Christ appeared the second time in the woman of Ann Lee.

Ms. Neal uses detailed journals and other records kept by the communities to chronicle the Shakers early struggles against poverty and persecution. Her account of these centers of ecstatic worship and communal life is simple and beautiful. It shows us a fascinating part of Kentucky's past.

Oneida
By: Maren Carden

Among the many communal societies founded in the 1800's, few were as extreme in theory or as successful in practice as the Oneida Community, founded in 1848 by John Humphrey Noyes. Located in New York State, Oneida distinguished itself not only by its long and prosperous career but also by its unorthodox sexual practices. While most of America was pretending that sex didn't exist, Oneida instituted and publicized a system of communal marriage, an unusual and effective method of birth control and a eugenics program.

The result of careful field research at Oneida and a thorough examination of source material, Ms. Carden's history presents a forthright and complete account of the principles and organization of Oneida, past and present.

Oneida Community
By: Constance Noyes Robertson

Taken from the pages of the community newspapers this compilation is an autobiography of one of the most famous utopian experiments in communal living. The Oneida Community was founded in 1848 in upstate New York by John Noyes. Ms. Robertson, a third generation product of the community, has selected excerpts from their own writings so that this story is told in the voices of the men and women who lived "the dream"—how they worked, played, their views on raising children, personal relationships, education and religion. Complimented with pictures, it traces the growth of the community and the stresses, both internal and external, which lead to its breakup in 1880. A labor of love by an author whose grandparents were among the community's founding members.

King of the Gypsies
By: Peter Maas

There are perhaps a million or more Gypsies living in America today. They no longer live in horsedrawn caravans but in crowded cities. They drive cars and have credit cards. Yet the traditional Gypsy does not go to school, cannot read or write, does not pay taxes and exists by time honored ruses and arrangements.

In this gripping and dramatic book, Peter Maas, unfolds an adventure story along with amazing details of the Gypsy life.

Religion and Sexuality
By: Lawrence Foster

Why were thousands of Americans in the days before the Civil War so upset with conventional marriage and sex role patterns that they were prepared to change their entire ways of life? This was the question which caused the author to research three religious groups which originated or peaked in strength during this turbulent decade. These groups—the Shakers, the Oneida Perfectionists and the Mormons—rejected marriage and the nuclear family patterns. Instead they organized new communities around alternative models as diverse as celibacy, group marriage and polygamy.

A well-documented study, this book is a good introduction to the alternative lifestyle experiments of that period.

Supt. Announces New Testing Requirements

Superintendent Ray Brackett announced this week that all Floyd county students would be tested May 10-25 using the Kentucky Essential Skills Test (KEST). The test is designed to measure achievement in reading, mathematics, spelling, writing and library skills. Grades 3, 5, 7 and 10 will also receive the Test of Cognitive Skills (TCS) which measures reasoning, analogies and sequencing.

Superintendent Brackett recommends that students receive adequate sleep and eat a nutritious breakfast prior to the testing. Parents should also make their children aware that the test is important but not so much so that students become overly anxious.

Results of these tests should be received by the schools during the later part of July or early August and parents may contact their children's school at that time to find out the results.

Puffed Vegetables May Be New Process

If dried vegetables are puffed before they are reconstituted, they plump up faster and are more useable in instant soups and other quick-cook products.

Fred Payne, University of Kentucky agricultural engineer, has developed a process that does just that. He hopes to apply for a patent for the device that takes partially dried vegetables and subjects them to a high pressure so that they puff up.

The conventional method of puffing cereals, such as puffed rice and puffed wheat, involves cooking the products with steam first and then releasing it quickly. The sudden release of the steam expands the cereal much like popcorn popping, Payne said.

Payne's method does not require heating the food first. It uses carbon dioxide which penetrates the vegetables. When the carbon dioxide leaves the vegetables, they puff, Payne said.

The advantages to Payne's process is that the vegetables become more porous, letting them take up water more quickly than dried vegetables.

"Freeze dried vegetables also take up moisture quickly for reconstituting, but the process of freeze drying is very expensive—several times more expensive than drying them," Payne said.

His process is marginally more expensive than drying, but he believes industry may find the added cost insignificant compared to the advantages of the puffed vegetables. His device can puff a pound of vegetables for about four cents worth of carbon dioxide.

Payne's research will just be beginning if he is able to patent his device.

"The next step will be put into operation the device on a larger scale to determine just how feasible the process really is. Right now, we can puff only a few ounces at a time," he said.

Payne, who also teaches food processing courses, has a blueprint for a larger scale version that he hopes to build.

"We also have to see if the puffing process changes the nutritional and taste qualities of the vegetables," he said.

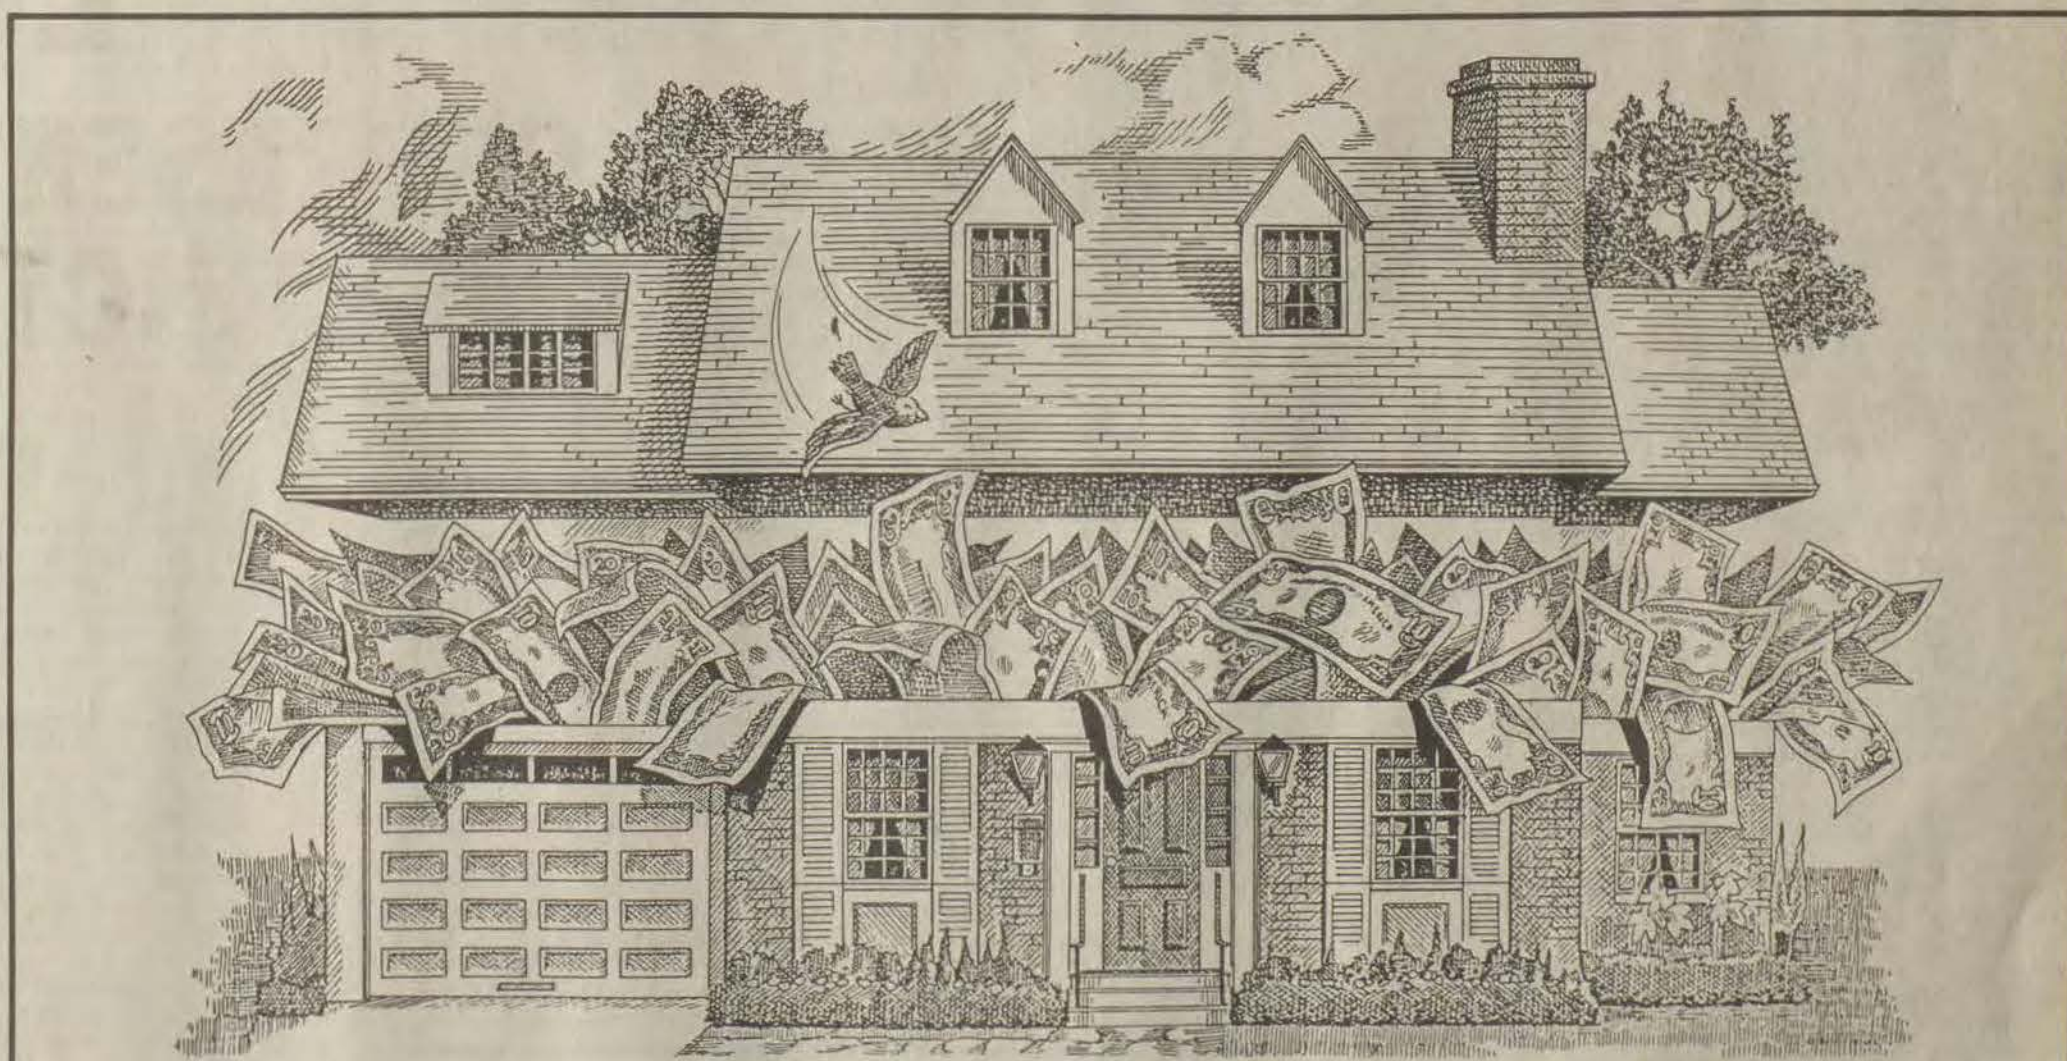

He also plans to see how well the puffing device works with fruits commonly grown in Kentucky.

The world's largest lake is the Caspian Sea with an area of 143,244 square miles.

Myrtle Chaffins, Minnie Music, Johnny James, and Hershel and Okie Shell spent last week vacationing in Florida.

HOLD FRIENDSHIP NIGHT

Adah Chapter No. 24, Order of the Eastern Star, held its Friendship Night, Saturday, April 23. The evening began at 6 o'clock, with a turkey and dressing dinner. A cake, bearing the Eastern Star emblem and baked by Mrs. Mary Zemo, was the center attraction on the desert table. At 7 p.m., Deputy Grand Matron, Maxine Bierman, was honored with a special skit, entitled "God's Glory," and presented a silver tray, on behalf of the chapter. Past Deputy Grand Matron Patsy Evans, and past Deputy Grand Patron Charles Halfhill, were welcomed and each was given a gift.

The evening's entertainment was furnished by the Charlie's Coal Country clogging team, from Wayland, and square dancing led by Georgia Muncy, of Pikeville.

Worthy Matron Sue Wells expressed her thanks to each person who attended and offers special thanks to the following businesses for their donations of door prizes: Highland's Florists, Jenny Wiley Florists, Christine's Florist, the Bank Josephine, Mane Attractions, Ultimate Wave, Hair Works, Styl-Rite, Herrin-Johnson, the First Commonwealth Bank, Peggy Lou's, Arrowood's Hardware, Factory Outlet Shoes, and Designer Hair, by Sharon.

Goble, Wood To Wed

Robert B. Wood, of Columbus, O., and Mary Ann Goble, of Auxier, announce their wedding which will be held May 14 at 4:30 p.m. at the Church of Christ at Lancer.

Miss Goble is the daughter of Chester and Edna Goble, of Lancer, and Mr. Wood is the son of George and Jean Berry, of Long Lake, New York.

The Rev. Benny Blankenship will perform the open ceremony and the reception will be held at the Carriage House at Paintsville from 6:30-8:30 p.m. All friends and relatives are urged to attend.

Presbyterian Church Hosts Local Meeting

The Presbyterian Church in Prestonsburg was host Sunday evening to the quarterly meeting of Presbyterians from other area churches. The program was presented by the Choir of the host Church under the direction of James Ratcliff. They were joined by visiting singers from the singing of Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus."

Following the program, the deacons served a meal of sandwiches, soups, and desserts to those attending.

Churches represented at the gathering include First Presbyterian, Williamson, West Virginia; First Presbyterian, Pikeville; Highland Presbyterian, Canada; Peter Creek Presbyterian, Phelps; Shepard Memorial, Stopover; and Drift Presbyterian.

Balloon Launch, Dance Set At MCA, May 6th

Mountain Christian Academy's Students for Child Survival Campaign will be held Friday, May 6, beginning at 1 p.m., when students will launch hundreds of balloons, demonstrating that they care about saving the lives of children around the world. The students will hold a dance later that evening, from 7-1, in the school gym.

As part of a nationwide project, students throughout the country will sell balloon sponsorships to friends, parents, neighbors, businesses and civic leaders. Each school will donate funds raised to an international child assistance organization with Child Survival programs in developing countries.

The Child Survival program is designed to save the lives of thousands of children who die of easily preventable causes everyday. Students for Child Survival combines education and action to support the Child Survival program.

According to Dr. James P. Grant, Executive Director of UNICEF, "We are now talking about a particular opportunity to save the lives of approximately seven million young children a year, and to protect the normal development of many millions more. It is unlikely that there will ever again be such an opportunity to do so much for so many, and for so little."

Represent Ministerial Meet At Louisville

Representatives from Cooperative Christian Ministries of Floyd county made a presentation to the Appalachian Group of the National Consultation on Community Ministries held recently in Louisville.

Four Kentucky organizations that had begun new community services during the past year were asked to present their programs. The Rev. Timothy Jessen, representing the Floyd County Ministerial Association, which sponsors the cooperative ministry, and Mrs. Faye Ruffing, coordinator, presented the work.

The local cooperative ministry administers funds to supply food pantries in the county, and provides other emergency assistance.

Representing the Christian Appalachian Project at the Conference were Donna Yellen and Joe Foley.

Susan Martin To Chair Cancer Society Committee

Susan Martin, has been selected to chair the American Cancer Society, Floyd County Unit's ad hoc committee on breast cancer detection awareness, it was announced by Carol B. Stelling, M.D., chairperson of the state division ad hoc committee.

An immediate objective of this ad hoc committee is the launching of the 1988 Kentucky Screening Mammography Project beginning in May. Many health care facilities across the state will be offering screening mammograms at a low cost, which will vary from place to place, depending on location, volume and equipment.

Dr. Stelling explained that screening mammography is a low-dose breast x-ray for women over 35 years of age with no known breast problems. The woman most likely to benefit from this Project is the older woman who has never had a mammogram.

"One in every ten women will develop breast cancer, the most common type of cancer among women," Dr. Stelling said. "With the exception of lung cancer, breast cancer is the leading cause of cancer deaths among women."

All women are encouraged to take advantage of the 1988 Kentucky Screening Mammography Project.

MSU To Host Three Cheerleader Camps

Morehead State University will be a host site for three Universal Cheerleaders Association camps this summer.

The camps are scheduled for June 21-24, July 26-29 and Aug. 1-4.

Instructors for the camps will be provided by the UCA, and the camp are open to all high school, junior high school and middle school cheerleaders.

Participants will receive indepth instruction in new cheers, sideline chants, pom poms, tumbling, conditioning and safety and will participate in private coaching sessions each day.

Special seminars for cheerleaders as well as sponsors are also planned for the camp.

Further details about the camp may be obtained by calling UCA at 1-800-238-0286.

Lowest Interest Rates Nudge Up Home Resales

Sales of existing single-family homes edged up 2.5 percent from February to March to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 3.33 million units, due to the lowest interest rates in over a decade, and continued consumer motivation, the National Association of Realtors reported recently.

"The March numbers are consistent with all the readings we are getting from the housing market. Lower interest rates have stimulated activity, and the first quarter has turned out better than we anticipated," said Dr. John A. Tuccillo, chief economist of the National Association of Realtors.

"We can sustain this level through the remainder of the year, despite the prospect of gradually increasing interest rates. There's strong demand out there and availability of adjustable-rate mortgages will allow that demand to reach the market," Tuccillo added.

Despite last month's increase, March existing-home sales activity remained 9.8 percent below the 3.69 million-unit pace of a year earlier.

"Although, economic activity in the first quarter of 1988 likely will be slower than in 1987, March's existing-home sales numbers indicate good health on the part of the housing sector, which in the sixth year of expansion, is still growing," said Tuccillo.

"We expect the recovery to continue with April's figures likely to be up also," Tuccillo noted.

"The majority of the increase for March occurred in the South and West, with the Northeast and Midwest virtually unchanged. This shows overall strength of the housing market and sets the stage for a strong spring buying season," Tuccillo said.

In the Midwest, the seasonally adjusted annual rate of existing single-family home sales dropped 3.4 percent from February to March to 860,000 units, 20.4 percent below the pace of a year earlier. The Northeast remained unchanged in March staying at an annual rate of 660,000 units, but was down 8.3 percent from a year earlier. The South saw a 6.7 percent rise in March to a 1.27 million-unit-pace, down 2.3 percent from a year ago. In the West, the annual rate was up 9.6 percent to a rate of 570,000 units, 3.4 percent below that of March 1987.

The national median existing single-family home price rose $600 from February to March to $88,700, up 4.1 percent from the $85,200 of a year earlier.

Half of the existing single-family homes sold in March cost more than the median price and half cost less. Just 1.8 percent carried prices of less than $20,000, while 7.3 percent had prices of $250,000 or higher. Over 34.0 percent of the homes sold in the $50,000-$90,000 range.

Of the four regions, the Northeast, again, was the leader in annual appreciation with an 11.0 percent increase during the past year to a median price of $143,100 last month.

In the West, the median price of $117,100, was 3.4 percent higher than the March 1987 price. The South posted a 3.4 percent annual appreciation rate to a median price of $84,000, followed by the Midwest with a 0.7 percent decrease to $67,800.

"Existing home prices moderated in March following a pattern we saw last year, where prices jumped up early in the year, and then settled down. Our current forecast is for home prices nationwide to increase only modestly for the remainder of the year," Tuccillo said.

"The continuing rise of prices in the Northeast points to the fact that these markets still have a strong level of demand. While the trouble in the financial markets have affected certain pocket areas, like New York City, the region as a whole is still exceptionally vigorous," Tuccillo explained.

During March, 16.8 percent of the existing single-family homes sold had one or two bedrooms, 52.5 percent had three bedrooms and 29.5 percent had four bedrooms or more.

Association economists reported that 2.72 million existing single-family homes were on the market at the end of March, a 9.8-month supply at the March sales pace. This is unchanged from February and up from an 8.5-month supply in March 1987.

"Lower interest rates have been the motivating force behind bringing the consumer back into the market and keeping home sales at a healthy level. And although mortgage rates will begin to edge up, home prices and the housing sector as a whole should remain stable," Tuccillo said.

The association's forecast calls for about 3.28 million existing-home sales in 1988, a 7.1 percent decline from the 3.52 million homes sold in 1987. Long-term mortgage interest rates are expected to average about 10.4 percent.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, represents nearly 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

Free Gov't Brochure Shows How To Make Your Home Safe

If you want to make your home electrically safe, government safety experts will help you do it.

Because May is National Electrical Safety Month, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission is again offering its free 12-page electrical home safety checklist to consumers. The brochure conducts homeowners and apartment dwellers on a room-by-room inspection of the living quarters so that commonplace electrical hazards may be found and eliminated.

CPSC said a home electrical fire happens every three minutes of every day, adding up to an estimated 174,000 home electrical fires each year. These fires claim 950 lives and injure some 5,500 people.

Consumers may obtain a free copy of the electrical home safety checklist by calling the agency's toll-free hotline at 1-800-638-2772 or by writing Electrical Safety, Washington, D.C. 20207.

The United States Achievement announced recently that Letitia Michele Ray has been named a United States National Award winner in science.

Miss Ray, who attends Wheelwright High School, was nominated for this award by Harold G. Newman, a science teacher at the school. Her biography will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

She is the daughter of William D. and Benita Ray and her grandparents are Victor and Mary Ray, of Beaver, and Ruth Hall, of Hi Hat.

Appointed As HCK Regional Chairman

Dr. Fon R. Belcher, of Belcher, Kentucky, has been appointed to the Executive Committee of the Historical Confederation of Kentucky (HCK) as the new Regional Chairman for the Big Sandy Area. Organized in 1980, the Frankfort-based HCK is an alliance of heritage-related organizations throughout the Commonwealth.

Dr. Belcher would welcome participation in the Historical Confederation of Kentucky's Big Sandy regional network by history and heritage-related organizations included within this five-county area of Pike, Floyd, Magoffin, Johnson, and Martin counties. Societies and associations within the region are encouraged to send information about their activities to Dr. Fon R. Belcher, HCK Regional Chairman, P.O. Box 10, Belcher, Ky. 41513.

Strawberries With A Capital C

From the American Institute for Cancer Research

There are many things to recommend strawberries at this time of the year when they're at their height of color and taste. Just as important as their delicious taste, however, is the fact that these wonderful fruits happen to be an uncommonly good source of vitamin C, an essential nutrient that some research has linked to lower cancer risk. A cup of strawberries provides as much vitamin C as a medium orange. Low in calories (about 45 per cup), they also are a good source of dietary fiber.

Since heat, handling, transporting and storing strawberries all contribute to the loss of vitamin C, it's best to buy them where you know they're fresh. Strawberries don't ripen after they're picked, so select berries that are bright red and plump, with a natural shine. Avoid berries that are pale or have white shoulders.

At home, don't keep strawberries in an airtight container, since trapped moisture can speed the rotting process, and keep them in a cool place. (The refrigerator may be too cold, but that's better for the berries than too hot.) For the top taste and nutrition, eat strawberries as soon as possible, washing and hulling them just before use.

The really delightful dilemma of strawberries is how to use them: in a cold strawberry soup, in a salad (a gelatin mold, spinach, shrimp or chicken salad), in pancakes, strawberry coolers, pie or frozen yogurt. When they're at their peak, just eat them plain!

Here's a lowfat recipe for a delicious strawberry frozen fruit ice dessert that's quick and easy to make:

STRAWBERRY GRANITE

- 2 1/2 cups strawberries, hulled
4 1/2 tsp. sugar
1 1/2 tsp. lemon juice
3/4 cup water

In a blender or food processor, puree the strawberries with other ingredients until smooth. Pour into an ice cube tray and freeze until solid.

When frozen, remove the cubes from tray and place in a blender or food processor again. Process until cubes are completely crushed and smooth, and a grainy mixture is produced. Spoon into dishes to serve.

Frozen strawberries may also be used, but if they are frozen in syrup, omit the added sugar in this recipe. For a variation on the usual flavor, substitute orange juice for the water or substitute 2 tablespoons orange liqueur for an equal portion of the water.

This recipe yields four 3/4 cup servings, with 81 calories and almost no fat in each serving.

If you'd like to learn more about the link between diet and cancer, write for a free copy of "Dietary Guidelines to Lower Cancer Risk," by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope to American Institute for Cancer Research, Dept. C21, Washington, D.C. 20069.

The material in "Good Food/Good Health" is reviewed by Karen Collins, M.S., R.D., of the American Institute for Cancer Research, Washington, D.C. 20069.

Nairn To Dean's List

A Cumberland College student from Prestonsburg is among 22 students included on the Dean's List for the Fall 1987 semester, according to Cumberland College President Jim Taylor.

The Dean's List is published in recognition of academic excellence of students registered for 12 or more semester hours, who have no grade of "L," and who attain a minimum cumulative scholastic standing of 3.50.

William T. Nairn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Nairn, was named to the Dean's List.

Presidential Election May Be Just Another Horse Race

"I view the average American voter looking at the election campaign about the same way that I look at the Kentucky Derby," said noted political expert Dr. Norman Ornstein at the 66th annual meeting of the Alliance of American Insurers.

Ornstein, resident fellow of the American Enterprise Institute "think-tank" in Washington, D.C., stated that the number of Americans paying attention to the presidential campaigns is at an all time low. He cited a recent poll asking Americans which events they were paying attention to. The election came in dead last—behind the Olympics, the Academy Awards and the Miss America Pageant. Only 14 percent of the people surveyed paid close attention to the election.

Probably the biggest contributor to the lack of interest is what Ornstein called the "Kentucky Derby Factor."

"If the broadcast starts at 5 p.m., people know that probably 53 minutes will be devoted to interviewing everyone who has anything at all to do with the Derby. Therefore, people don't actually tune in until about 5:53 p.m., when the action really begins," said Ornstein.

Ornstein compared the first 53 minutes of the Derby broadcast, when every jockey, trainer and celebrity at Churchill Downs is interviewed, to the last four years, when every candidate, potential candidate and non-candidate has been analyzed.

"Now we're at the point where we're seeing the horses entering the starting gates... and we're seeing voters begin to get engaged but just at the time when they have to," he said. Although voters are becoming more interested now, Ornstein doesn't believe a Dukakis/Bush race "will make our hearts go pitty-pat with excitement."

"A Dukakis/Bush race is going to be a little bit like 1976," he said. "Bush is Jerry Ford without the pizzazz. Dukakis is Jimmy Carter without the humor," and Ornstein concludes that won't get people geared up about the election.

The Alliance of American Insurers is a national trade association representing approximately 175 property and casualty insurance companies.

Ashland Gets Laugh From Phyllis Diller

America's leading Lady of Comedy, Phyllis Diller, will present an evening of laughter and fun at the Paramount Arts Center, Monday, May 16, at 8 p.m.

Although films and television have been important to her success, Diller maintains a special fondness for live performing. She has drawn capacity crowds to virtually every major supper club and concert hall coast to coast, from Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas to the Waldorf-Astoria in Manhattan. She is equally well-known on the international scene, having toured Canada, England, Monte Carlo, Bermuda, and Australia, where she is preparing her 11th tour.

A late bloomer, Diller started her show business career at age 37 as a working housewife and mother of five. Urged by her husband, she prepared a night club act and was booked into San Francisco's Purple Onion. Booked for two weeks, she stayed 89, delivering a non-stop line of humor characterized by irreverent attacks on high fashion, married life, and life in general.

Successful club booking soon led to network television appearances and films. Bob Hope, her co-star in three films has remained one of her biggest boosters. On one of his Christmas trips to Vietnam, the irrepressible Hope included Diller among his guest stars. He later quipped to reporters that the war would have been over in three days if Phyllis had cooked for the enemy.

Tickets are on sale at the Paramount Ticket Office, 1300 Winchester Avenue, Ashland. For more information call (606) 324-3175.

Eye Surgeons Obtain Cataract Equipment

Drs. Wilson, Wheeler and Hazlett, Pikeville ophthalmologists have obtained an Opacity Lensmeter, an instrument for evaluating the density of cataracts. States Dr. Charles Wheeler, "Cataracts are very common for mature Americans and can result from a clouding of the normally transparent lens of the eye. Without treatment, they continue to progress to blindness. The new Lensmeter will detect whether or not there is a cataract developing and will also document the actual degree of the cataract.

Because the device effectively tracks change ophthalmologists are now able to monitor objectively the future progression of cataracts during their patients' subsequent visits. Until recently the only way to evaluate cataracts was through subjective interpretation.

The computerized test generated by the Opacity Lensmeter is totally painless, and unlike other methods, can be performed in a matter of seconds. The instrument uses a 1.5 mm beam of red light and tests for haziness of the eye's natural lens by measuring the percentage of light reflected from various parts of the lens. It performs an average of 1,250 measurements in a single 10 second test and then prints out a single number which represents the degree of lens cloudiness.

"Patients commonly monitor their cholesterol levels, blood pressure and caloric intake. Now they will have a single number to indicate their lens opacity. This will give people a much better understanding of this degree of cataracts," Dr. Wheeler stated.

Drs. Wilson, Wheeler and Hazlett will be providing free evaluation with the Lensmeter. To schedule a test contact them at 437-7355.

The Lensmeter is manufactured in Switzerland and is marketed exclusively by IntraOptics, Inc. of Huntington, West Virginia.

RECC Members Will Meet June 22

Big Sandy RECC is preparing to hold its 48th annual meeting of members June 22, at the Johnson Central High School.

Among the items expected to be highlighted in its report to the members will be:

Saving members over $1,000,000, over the last four years in Fuel Adjustment Credits.

The average monthly electric bill (1000 KWH/month) decreased from $66.54 to $60.79 and stable rates are being forecast for the future.

Third lowest retail rates among the 18 East Kentucky Rural Cooperatives.

Spending over $1,000,000 to improve and expand our power lines without having to borrow additional money because of improved cash management.

Developing a special Industrial/Manufacturing Electric Rate which is competitive across the state.

Promotion of new products, such as the Ground-Coupled Heat Pump and Room-Sized Thermal Storage Units, that will give its members even more value for the money.

Through its power supplier, East Kentucky Power, buying over 2.36 million tons of coal in Eastern Kentucky including 1 million tons used to export power out of the state.

There will also be entertainment, displays and door prizes for all ages. The public is invited to attend.

The first fire fighting organization in America was started in Philadelphia.

Melanie Park, 17-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Don Park, of Hager Hill, and a student at Johnson Central High School has received recognition in Who's Who in Music for outstanding merit and accomplishment. Recently at the KMEA Music Competition held at Pikeville College, she received first place honors by receiving a Superior-Plus, Plus score. She recently appeared on television performing for the Governor's School for the Arts profile on KET where she sang "The Lord's Prayer." She will also be attending the Governor's School for the Arts as a student in vocal music at Bellarmine College in Louisville. Miss Park has also been named as a Scholastic All-American by the National Secondary Education Council for her achievement in Academic discipline. She will also appear with "The Jenny Wiley Drama Summer Music Theatre" this summer.

Mine Jobs Drop As Others Rise

Pre-spring hiring helped to reverse a three-month increase in Kentucky's jobless rate which dropped from a revised 9.7 percent in February to a preliminary 9.4 percent in March.

The monthly report of labor force trends released recently by the Cabinet for Human Resources showed large increases were in services, trade and construction following the usual late winter slowdown in those fields.

The March unemployment rate compares to a 10.2 percent report one year ago and reflects an addition of 34,200 workers over the figures for March 1987.

The national jobless rate fell from February's 6.2 percent to 5.9 percent in March. The comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

Kentucky's chief labor market analyst, Ed Blackwell, said, "Our employment estimate—1,539,300—is a record for March, eclipsing the mark set in 1985.

"A growth in the number of Kentuckians working and declining unemployment are typical at this time of year. For example, this is the third year in a row that people dropped out of the labor force between February and March.

"However, this loss has just been temporary, and we don't think 1988 will be any different. As soon as we start having warmer weather, unemployed workers get out and start looking for jobs again," he said.

Blackwell credited March's moderate temperatures for boosting employment in services, trade and construction.

Hiring in the service sector increased by 1,900 between February and March, mostly in hospitals and other health services, recreational services and motels. Trade jobs were up by 1,700, mostly in restaurants and groceries.

Construction employment rose 1,400, mostly in highway and bridge building and repairs, home building and motel construction.

Gains also were recorded in manufacturing (+500); federal government (+300); finance, insurance and real estate (+200); and education (+100).

Farm employment dropped 1,900, which Blackwell attributed to moderate rainfall slowing spring planting. "Most years we see an increase in agricultural jobs during March. This is the third time during the 1980s that we've had a slight drop at this time of year," he said.

Kentucky's coal mining industry lost 400 jobs. Employment was down by 300 in transportation, communications and utilities.

The figure of 1,539,300 Kentuckians working, as measured by the U.S. Department of Labor's household survey, was up 800 from February's report of 1,538,500 and above the 1,505,100 recorded in March 1987.

The federal estimate of unemployed Kentuckians was 160,100 in March, down from 165,400 in February and below the March 1987 report of 171,100. This includes people receiving unemployment insurance benefits; new and reentrants to the work force; and laid-off workers who either were not covered by UI, did not work long enough to qualify or have exhausted their benefits.

Kentucky's civilian labor force estimate for March was 1,699,400, down from 1,703,900 in February, but higher than the March 1987 figure of 1,676,200.

Unemployment statistics are based on estimates and are compiled to measure employment trends rather than to actually count people working.

Clinics Are Scheduled By Health Department

There will be a pap clinic at the Floyd County Health Department on Wednesday May 11, from 8-3. This clinic is a free service of the health department and is open to women of all ages, however those women, age 45 and over, are especially urged to take advantage of this free service since this is the high risk age for cervical cancer.

A nurse from the health department will be in Martin, Monday, May 9 at the Beaver Valley Clinic from 10-2. She will offer t.b. skin tests, urinalyses, blood pressures, anemia screenings and immunizations. This clinic is a free service of the health department and is open to the public. These same services will be offered at Wayland at the Methodist Church, Friday, May 13 from 10-2.

Family planning clinics for the month of May are as follows: Monday, May 9 at 12:00 noon; Friday, May 13 at 12:00 noon; Monday, May 16 at 12:00 noon and Tuesday, May 24 at 12:00 noon. No appointment is needed for these clinics.

Scrap Crafts Workshop Set At College Here

Creating crafts from scrap materials is the topic of a Prestonsburg Community College workshop set for Tuesday, May 17 from 6-9 p.m. in room 216 of the Pike Building on campus.

According to instructor Monette Sturgill, the workshop can be valuable to teachers of young children, scout leaders, Bible School and Sunday School teachers, or anyone who enjoys leading children in creative, but inexpensive activities.

Sturgill will display examples of "scrap crafts" and will demonstrate how many of them are made.

To register, call PCC's Office of Continuing Education and Community Service at 886-3863, ext. 289.

Youth Bible Drill And Speakers Tournament

The Church Training department, Kentucky Baptist Convention, will sponsor the State Youth Bible Drill and Speaker's Tournament, May 6-7, at the Jonathan Creek Baptist Assembly in Hardin, and May 13-14, at the Immanuel Baptist Church in Lexington. This competition, beginning at 7 p.m. Friday and concluding at 1 p.m. Saturday for both locations and dates, will determine who will represent Kentucky in demonstration drills during Church Training Week at Glorieta, New Mexico and Ridgecrest, North Carolina (Regional Baptist Assemblies) this summer. A representative from each competition will be selected. The winner from Cedarmore will attend Ridgecrest and the winner from Immanuel will attend Glorieta.

Southern Baptist Church Training helps church members in learning Baptist doctrine, orienting new members, equipping members for ministry and building a base for understanding Southern Baptist polity, history and organization.

Church Training promotes Youth Bible Drills to "increase knowledge of Scripture; to deepen understanding of Scripture as it relates to daily Christian living; and to sharpen skills in locating books of the Bible and memorizing selected Scripture verses." The drills are designed for youth twelve to fourteen years old, or those classified as seventh, eighth or ninth graders.

The Speaker's Tournament is designed for fifteen, sixteen or seventeen year olds, or those classified as tenth, eleventh or twelfth graders. Kentucky's Baptist Colleges, Campbellsville, Cumberland or Georgetown, will give scholarships worth up to $3,600 to the state representative and alternate. These renewable scholarships will be applied toward tuition during enrollment. Each speaker is required to compose his or her own four to six minute speech. Judges base scores on content and delivery. This annual competition helps youth in developing their communication skills and approaches to ministry.

Improve Your Child's TV Viewing Habits

What can you do if your child comes home from school, turns on the TV and stays glued to the set for hours? How can you tell if you or your kids are TV addicts? These are among the questions answered in the April issue of PTA Today, which focuses on "Children in the Electronic Age."

Recent research suggests that the average child spends 30-35 hours a week in front of the TV set. The National PTA's magazine offers alternative to watching TV, tips for guiding TV viewing and activities to help watchers become readers.

"Indiscriminately watching endless hours of television to the exclusion of other worthwhile activities can be harmful to the intellectual growth of children and is cause for concern," says Nancy Lee Cecil, associate professor of reading at California State University at Sacramento, writing in PTA Today. However, she believes that if viewed in moderation, with guidance from discriminating adults, TV can actually become a tool to help children think more critically.

Cecil believes that TV provides children with opportunities to meet the world and its people through travelogues. Television can broaden children's interests, understanding and even encourage new hobbies, she says, adding that "children come to kindergarten with a broader vocabulary and a better grasp of concepts than ever before—at least partially due to the influence of TV dialogue."

Therefore, instead of urging parents to turn off the television, Cecil offers three suggestions for making constructive use of children's TV viewing time.

—Limit TV watching to 10 hours per week. Vary it with other family activities such as games, reading, visiting friends, exercising or family conversations.

—Monitor TV watching. View carefully selected programs with your children and discuss each of them afterwards. Ask many "What do you think?" questions about what has been viewed.

—Teach children to watch TV with a critical mind. Help them to become aware of the specific language and deceptive techniques of television productions.

Teaching children how to view TV critically is a difficult task, yet Cecil believes it is the most crucial for children growing up in today's world. The reason is that children don't automatically know how to discriminate between what is good and true and what is merely propaganda.

The ancients believed the emerald had the power to heal diseases of the eye.

Miss Osborne-Mr. Hamilton Wed

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth S. Osborne to Mrs. Richard S. Hamilton was solemnized in a candlelit, double-ring ceremony at the Katy Friend Free Will Baptist Church, Prestonsburg, March 31. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Frank Ratliff.

The bridal gown was fashioned of satin, lace, and pearls with a cathedral length train. The bride's bouquet was made of yellow Princess Diane roses and white snowdrift poms cascaded with exotic greenery.

Bridal attendants wore floor length yellow taffeta gowns made by Henrietta Osborne. Christina Hamilton, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Sondra Rose, cousin of the bride; and Melissa Allen.

Brian Holbrook was the best man. The groomsmen were Bristol Gibson and Steve Hopkins.

The ringbearer was Ervin Osborne, brother of the bride. The flower girls were Arlinda Craft and Amanda Osborne, cousins of the bride.

Mary Ellen Craft and Lilly Ousley, cousins of the bride, served as guest register attendants.

During and preceding the ceremony, piano music was provided by Mrs. Katherine Frazier.

The reception was held in the church annex following the ceremony.

A three-tier satellite cake with a fountain, prepared by Karen Stephens was served along with food and punch prepared by the families.

The couple spent their honeymoon in Gatlingburg, Tennessee.

HOMEMAKERS AUCTION SET

Mrs. Cynthia Frasure, newly-elected president of the Abbott Homemakers, reminds members of the auction to be held at the next meeting, which will be at the church annex building, Tuesday, May 10, at 7 p.m., and urges them to attend, and to bring with them items for the auction. She also invites prospective new members to come and participate in this event.

Strader To Lead Training Workshop

Douglas Strader, director, Church Training department, Kentucky Baptist Convention, will lead a MasterLife/MasterBuilder workshop, May 23-27, 6 p.m.-noon at the Lone Oak First Baptist Church in Paducah. This Southern Baptist program is being used in over 100 countries. The 30-hour workshop has been conducted for more than 115,000 persons in the United States. MasterBuilder is a 13 unit course of study designed to enable MasterLife alumni to develop leadership qualities. It deals with topics such as: planning for ministry, enlisting persons for service, correcting disciples and leading persons to a commitment to Christ.

Strader, a native Kentuckian, received the Bachelor of Science Degree from Campbellsville College; the Master of Divinity Degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville; and the Doctor of Ministry Degree from Luther Rice Seminary, Jacksonville, Florida.

Strader has served on various denominational committees including: the Budget-Finance Committee of the Executive Board, KBC; the Nominating Committee, KBC; as First Vice-President of KBC; the Public Affairs Committee and the Administrative Committee, KBC. He has pastored churches in Somerset, Shepherdsville, Junction City, Harrodsburg, Greenville and McHenry.

ALLEN "LITTLE A" SLONE

#1 ON THE DEMOCRATIC BALLOT
STATE REPRESENTATIVE
92ND DISTRICT

Being a former State Representative, I know our problems and our needs.

Being a former Teacher, I know the priority education must have.

I have always been proud of the fact that I gave the first $1,000 for the procurment of Prestonsburg Community College.

As a former Coal Miner & State Legislator, I was instrumental in keeping our miner's hospitals from closing.

Here's an excerpt of a letter sent to me by Bob E. Hendrix of the UMWA: "On behalf of the United Mine Workers of America, we are pleased to inform you that at our State UMWA/COMPAC "Coal miners Political Action Committee" Council meeting in Lexington, Kentucky, on April 14 and 15, 1988, you were unanimously endorsed for State Representative."

Being a former merchant, I know the concerns of small business and the necessity of bringing other businesses to Eastern Kentucky.

I feel that my record merits your vote. As a candidate I'm begging for it.

ALWAYS A FRIEND!

VISITS IN BEREA

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Haywood went to Berea this past Friday, where they spent the night with close friends, Mr. and Mrs. W.G. Gaffney, of Brentwood, Tennessee. Saturday, they all went to Eastern Kentucky University at Richmond, to attend Alumni Day festivities. Mrs. Haywood, who was a classmate of Mrs. Gaffney's, was attending her 50th class reunion. She was glad to see some of her former Betsy Layne High school students. Mrs. Emogene Hogg Hartman and Dr. and Mrs. Bert Adkins, who are presently members of Eastern's faculty.

PRESENT RECITAL

Students of the David B. Leslie Studio of Music presented their spring recital this past Sunday afternoon at the First United Methodist Church. Participants included: Kimberly Nunnery, Amy Reel, Andrea Ray, Virginia Leslie Fannin, Jack Latta, Jacquelyn Haywood, Leah Ann Laferty, Tanya Leigh Harris, Jason Mounts, Rebecca Howard, James DeRosett, Dr. Anthony Mounts, Prerana Reddy, Kristen Webb, Janet Baldrige, Erickson Vicher, Lynon Frazier, Sloane Dixon Onkst, Justin Reichenbach, Johna Ramaya Lawson, Allison Caudill, Julia Paxton, Margaret Gillespie, Lorena Wallen, Patricia Phillips, Mike Traumm, Dr. Michael Preston, and Crystal Wright.

The program closed with two members by Miss Rebecca Haywood, guest vocal soloist, and an organ and piano duet by Mr. David B. Leslie and Mrs. Kathryn Frazier.

Miss Lynon Frazier is also a finalist alternate for the Governor's School of the Arts (piano). Misses Prerana Reddy, Kristen Webb, and Janet Baldrige and Mr. Erickson Vicher are participating in the Kentucky Music Teacher's Association Regional competition. Miss Paula Goble made pictures of the group.

Following the recital, the students were invited to the Dairy Queen, for dinner and treats.

FORMER PASTOR HERE

The Rev. and Mrs. Taylor Biggs, of South Shore, Ky., were here during the week-end. Rev. Biggs, former pastor of Community United Methodist Church, conducted funeral services for Mrs. Letha Howard Little at the Floyd Funeral Home, Sunday. While here, they visited with several members of his former church.

WELCOMED TO FELLOWSHIP

Welcomed into the fellowship of the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial) recently, has been Shonda Calhoun.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

D.A.R. TO MEET

The John Graham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet Tuesday, May 10, at 3:30, at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center. Mrs. Eleanor Horn, regent, urges all the members to attend. The speaker will be Mrs. Virginia S. Goble, who will report on the 97th Continental Congress. The hostesses will be Mesdames Olga A. Preston, Frances Brackett, and Dorothy Osborne.

ALC ALUMNI TO MEET

The Floyd County Chapter of the Alice Lloyd College Alumni Association will hold their annual dinner-meeting, Monday evening, May 9, with registration to start at 5:30. Dr. Jerry Davis, who has served as president of this school, for the past several years and will assume his new position as president of the College of the Ozarks, in Missouri, this year, will be honored at that time. All "Caney Girls" and "Caney Boys," are cordially invited to attend this event.

ATTEND A.R.H. MEET

Miss Ruby Akers, chairman of the McDowell A.R.H. Local Advisory Council, and Mrs. Anna Sue Stumbo attended the meeting of the A.R.H. Board of Trustees, at the Hyatt-Regency hotel, Lexington, and the 5th annual system-wide auxiliary meeting, at the Kentucky Inn, there, April 28-29.

The Orangutan gets its name from a word in the Malay language meaning "man of the woods."

FAMILY VISITORS

Mrs. T.J. Leake had as her recent houseguests, her sisters and brothers-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Floor, of Akron, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hackworth, of Wooster, Ohio. During that time, all of them went to Riceville, where they visited with another, Mrs. Flora Conley and her daughter.

BIRTH ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. James Wells, formerly of Prestonsburg, now of Lexington, announce the birth of a daughter, Whitney Allison Wells, born April 19, at Central Baptist Hospital, Lexington. The baby's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore and her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wells. The maternal great-grandparents are Mrs. Gypsy Baldrige and Mrs. Ella Belle Moore, and the paternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Sallie Goble.

ATTEND OES SCHOOL

Members of Adah Chapter No. 24, Order of the Eastern Star, who attended practice for the upcoming O.E.S. School of Instruction, at the Magoffin County High School, this past Sunday included: Sue Wells, Jewell Bayes, Maxine Bierman, Janie Hicks, Billie Muddock, Thelma Newsome, Wanda Elste, Mollie Hyden, Paulena Owens, Patsy Evans, Lillia Mae Price, Joyce Allen, Burieta Gearhart, Pat Phillips, Honey May, Sandy Wilson and Chuck Halfhill. Mrs. Maxine Bierman, Deputy Grand Matron of District 5, will help to conduct this school of instruction.

HONOR MRS. MAY

Miss Burieta Gearhart and Mesdames Roberta Sloan and Maxine Bierman were hostesses on Tuesday, April 12, at the Blossom Restaurant, at Pikeville, for dinner, honoring Mrs. Mildred (Honey) May, on her birthday. Following the dinner, decorated birthday cake and other refreshments were served, and gifts were presented the honoree.

INSTALLATION DINNER SET

Mrs. Boots Adams and other members off the executive board of the K.F.W.C./G.F.W.C. Prestonsburg Woman's Club urge all club members to be present for the covered-dish installation dinner to be held Thursday evening, May 5, at 6:30, at the club's arts and crafts house, at Archer Park. The guest speaker will be Mrs. Lorene Salyers, vice governor of the Seventh District.

VISITORS FROM NASHVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wellman, of Nashville, were here recently, as guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Martin, her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Martin, his aunts, Mrs. Minnie Grace Sutherland, Mrs. Fannie Runnels and Miss Alice Harris, and other relatives and friends.

RELEASED FROM HOSPITAL

Mrs. Sallie Stephens, of Prestonsburg, who was a patient for a week, at the Highlands Regional Medical Center, has returned to the Salyersville Health Center, where she has been a patient for awhile, and is now somewhat improved. She has many relatives and friends here who wish her well.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

Mrs. Phyllis Branham was honored Tuesday, April 19, when members of her family and friends surprised her with a dinner at the Carriage House, in Paintsville, in commemoration of her birthday. Enjoying this occasion were: her husband, Roscoe (Rock) Branham, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gale Music, her mother-in-law, Mrs. Willia Mae Branham, her sister, Mrs. Woodrow Burchett, II, her brother, Jimmy Gordon Music, other relatives, Mrs. Minnie Alice Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Laven, and Mrs. Cynthia Frasure, and friends Mesdames Grace Conley, Ethel Ratliff, and Sue Ward. The honoree was presented with a decorated birthday cake and many gifts and cards, and received calls from relatives and friends.

HOMEMAKERS TO MEET

The Prestonsburg Day Homemakers will meet Tuesday afternoon, May 10, at 1 o'clock in Fellowship Hall, of the First United Methodist Church. Hostesses for this meeting will be Mesdames Eleanor Horn, Peg Hewlett, and Phyllis Herrick. All members are urged by their president, Mrs. Barbara Dawson, to attend and new members are welcome.

NEW CHURCH MEMBERS

Welcomed by baptism, into the fellowship of the First United Methodist Church, during services there this past Sunday morning, was Mrs. Bess West.

KIWANIANNES MEET

The Prestonsburg Kiwanianes held their regular luncheon-meeting, Thursday, April 28, at 12:30 p.m. at May Lodge, with Mrs. Barbara Dawson, president, presiding. The Kiwanianne Grace was said in unison. Mrs. Mabel Jean LeMaster brought the devotions, entitled "Talking Fingers." She read a poem, the title of which was "The Difference," and led the group in prayer. Mrs. Jane Bond gave the treasurer's report.

A discussion was held regarding the heart clinic, held recently, at the Floyd County Health Department, for which the Kiwanianes serve food. Mesdames Myrtle Allen, Dorothy Osborne and Garnett Fairchild served the food this year, which was furnished by the First Baptist (Irene Cole Memorial) and the First Presbyterian Churches.

Mrs. Garnett Fairchild discussed the need for the sale of tickets for a crocheted afghan and sweater "drawing," the proceeds of which were to be used in the Hospice program.

Mrs. Barbara Dawson, president, presented Mrs. Virginia S. Goble, who gave an interesting discussion on Luzier cosmetics, displayed some of those which she sells and presented favors of cosmetics to these in attendance. Mrs. Goble read the poem entitled, "The Silent Partner, (Footprints)," and talked briefly to the group.

Mrs. Faye Patton and Mrs. Virginia S. Goble were welcomed as new members.

Those in attendance were: Mrs. Goble and Mrs. Patton, new members, and other members, Mesdames Barbara Dawson, Jane Bond, Garnett Fairchild, Lucy Regan, Rebecca Rasnick, Myrtle Allen, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Dixie Webb, Maman Leslie, Hope Whitten, Jane Wallace, Mary Margaret Webb, Julia Curtis, and Docia Woods.

The next luncheon-meeting will be Thursday, May 27, at 12:30, at this same location.

CONDITION IMPROVES

The many relatives and friends of Nelson Baldrige, who has been sick for awhile will be glad to know that he was able to attend services, at the First Church of God, where he is a member this past Sunday.

ATTEND WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Archer V and son, Joel Lennon, were in Georgetown, Saturday, April 30, where they attended the wedding of Tricia Lynn Bayer to Michael DeBoarde. The wedding was held at the First Christian Church of Georgetown, at 6:30 p.m. Joel Lennon Archer served in the wedding as ring bearer.

HOROSCOPE

F. D. Smith

Week of May 8-14, 1988

- ARIES (March 21-April 20) Make sure that fun and games do not consume you now. There is still some real work to be done this week.
TAURUS (April 21-May 20) Work-related matters greatly affect what you want and what is acceptable to you during this cycle. Stay with those details.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) People and places, near and at a distance, are in the forefront of your life. They will influence your work.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) At least one special arrangement absorbs you at this point. Revitalization is your aim at this time.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Come to grips with late-breaking developments. Partnerships of all kinds are likely to be affected.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You will learn the fine points regarding certain situations. Take care that this does not pull you away from your work.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) In the midst of new situations you will find new strength. Personal issues will have all of your attention.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Home and home-related matters dominate at this point. See to it that you remain clear thinking in your actions.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Set sail, while staying in touch with those who matter to you. This is complex but extremely necessary now.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) What you have structured is sound. Know it and advance with confidence and steadiness. Money is involved.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) By mid-week, the center of the stage is yours and an eager audience is just waiting to hear what you have to say.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) See to it that no one tries to distract you or pull you off-course. There is a plan which you must activate this week.

SPECIAL DELIVERY

Some drugs are now being delivered into patients' bodies in such a way as to minimize side effects, target specific organs, and control their release. For instance, sustained-release tablets have a coating which slows the release of the active ingredient and controls the rate at which it is absorbed. Other active ingredients are delivered by way of transdermal patches. Worn on the skin like an adhesive bandage, a medicine-saturated patch releases controlled amounts of active ingredients over an extended period. There are also tablets that have coatings which resist absorption in the stomach. In this way, the medicine reaches its intended site, the small intestine, with all its medicinal power intact. These are but a few techniques used to make medicine-taking more specific.

COOLEY APOTHECARY wants you to know that we carry a full line of health care items. If your physician prescribes medication for you or a member of your family, keep in mind that we maintain the highest standards of the pharmaceutical profession. Learn for yourself why your friends and neighbors already rely on us. Complete patient profiles are maintained to aid us in checking for possible drug interactions. It also allows us to quickly give you any information you need for income tax and insurance purposes. We are located at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

HINT: A drug taken with a full glass of water will be absorbed into the system at twice the rate of one taken with a small swallow of liquid.

MANDATORY NOTICE BY ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY FOR ALL WATER SYSTEMS PERTAINING TO LEAD IN DRINKING WATER

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women. Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

- if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
-if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
-if the home is less than five years old, or
-if you have soft or acidic water, or
-if water sits in the pipes for several hours."

The Prestonsburg City's Utilities Commission does not have lead service lines or other lead-containing materials in our distribution system. The water in Prestonsburg City's Utilities Commission's water supply is not in violation of the current standards. The water in your own house piping may be. It is the responsibility of the customer to pay for testing for lead in their own house piping.

You can reduce the possibility of consuming water with high lead concentrations by the following:

1. Flush cold water pipes before drinking—10-30 seconds.
2. Use only water from cold water pipes for drinking, cooking or preparing baby formula.
3. Lead pipes and service connections can be replaced.
4. Insist that only lead free materials be used in repairs or new plumbing.

The only way to be sure of the amount of lead in your water is to have the water tested by a state certified testing laboratory. For additional information contact the Drinking Water Branch of the Kentucky Division of Water at (502) 564-3410 or Prestonsburg City's Utilities Commission at (606) 886-6871.

...about your Social Security

By JIM KELLY Social Security District Director For the Big Sandy Area

Social Security Stresses Reporting Responsibilities

People in the Big Sandy area who receive Social Security checks have an important responsibility to report any event that could affect their right to or the amount of their check, Jim Kelly, Social Security Director for the Big Sandy Area, said recently.

A report can be made by telephone and followed by a letter, or in person and should include the following information: Name of person, what is being reported, date it happened, signature, address, and the Social Security claim number under which benefits are being paid (a nine-digit number followed by a letter).

Kelly said the following events should be reported.

- Change in mailing address.
-Earnings of more than the annual limit—$8,400 for people 65 through 69, $6,120 for people under 65. People getting benefits because of disability should report any work.
-A person goes outside the United States.
-Imprisonment for commission of a felony. Dependents and survivors should also report:
-Divorce or annulment of marriage.
-Marriage.
-Adoption of child.
-Child leaves the care of a parent.
-Child nearing 18 is full-time high school student or disabled.

Change in school attendance for student 18-19.

- A person becomes unable to manage funds.
-A person dies.

More information about Social Security, Supplemental Security Income, or Black Lung can be obtained at the Big Sandy Area Social Security office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under U.S. Government. Free booklets are available which explains reporting responsibilities in greater detail.

AVOIDING HEARTBURN

Heartburn, that burning sensation in the chest, is a daily problem for some 10% of Americans, and an occasional nuisance for most people. Here, from The Better Way in Good Housekeeping's May issue, are some tips for avoiding heartburn:

- Don't overeat at mealtime; avoid spicy, acidic, tomato-based, or fatty foods.
-Limit caffeine and alcohol.
-Don't exercise too soon after eating.
-Eat at least two to three hours before lying down.
-If you smoke, stop.

YOU'RE WELL EQUIPPED TO DETECT A GAS LEAK.

Fortunately, natural gas leaks are rare. But if one should occur, you have everything it takes to spot the telltale signs...the ability to see, hear and smell.

INSIDE

The most obvious sign is the smell. Natural gas by itself usually is odorless, so gas companies add a distinctive odor to gas.

If you smell this telltale odor in your home, don't use matches, electrical switches or appliances. Leave the house immediately, then call the gas company from a neighbor's home or pay telephone. Remain near your home until a gas company representative arrives and checks the cause of the odor.

OUTSIDE

You may detect a natural gas leak anywhere gas lines or facilities are located. Sometimes, the sign may be the odor. But in rural areas, natural gas pipelines may contain non-odorized gas. A leak of non-scented gas means little or no odor will be present. So count on your other senses as well.

Look or listen for these signs. Anywhere a gas line is located, a leak may cause:

- a blowing or hissing sound
• dirt being blown into the air
• water bubbling or being blown into the air at a pond, creek or river
• brown patches in vegetation on or near a gas line right-of-way
• fire coming from the ground or burning above it

If you detect any sign of a leak, follow these steps quickly: 1) shut down any motorized equipment or other sources of ignition in use; 2) leave the area at once, and warn others to stay away; and 3) find a telephone away from the area to call the gas company, and the fire and police departments. DO NOT try to extinguish a gas fire or operate any pipeline valves.

Chances are you'll never need to recognize a natural gas leak. But just in case, we think it's important for you to be able to detect signs of trouble. Together, we'll keep natural gas service safe and efficient.

Fifth Birthday

Bo Lee James Sturgill, son of Michael and Sandy Sturgill, of Prestonsburg, celebrated his fifth birthday, April 22 at Archer Park Skating Rink with Dinosaurs as the theme. A Dinosaur cake with food and refreshments were served. He received many nice gifts.

Attending the party were his mother and father and brother, Cory Belue; his great-aunt, Peggy Ratliff, his aunt, Teresa Ousley, his cousins, Pam Ratliff, Amanda, Andrea and Nickolus, Deloris Ratliff, Mark and Michelle.

Friends attending were: Sharon Setser, Leslie and Matt, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parsons Whitney and Triston, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Greece and Ashleigh, LaDonna Patton, Rory Alex, Leslie Ann Sizemore, Shannon, Stephanie, Brandon, Kara Hall and Nathan, Tim Coleman and Evan, Sharon Sammons and Jesse, Karen Vaughn and Rachel, Mr. and Mrs. David Evans, Emily and Bethany, Polly Bradley and Trent, Louise Elkins, Liz Chaffins, Nick and Heath, Anthony Burchett, Mandy McNabb, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Waddles, Jackie and Marie, Chriss, Ross and Kari, Dwight Stone, Connie Hicks and Thomie.

Alcohol Consumption Is Harmful To Unborn

During Fetal Alcohol Syndrome (FAS) Awareness Week, May 8-14, the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation joins with the National Council on Alcoholism and other organizations to raise awareness of the dangerous effects of alcohol consumption during pregnancy. The Kentucky East Chapter of the March of Dimes is urging pregnant women not to drink for their babies' sake.

"FAS is one of the leading causes of mental retardation," said Janet Estes. "There are many birth defects that can't be prevented, but FAS is completely preventable."

Every year in the United States, about 5,000 babies are born with FAS, which includes birth defects such as facial abnormalities, smaller than normal head and brain, low birthweight, brain damage and heart malformations. As many as 30 to 40 percent of babies whose mothers drink heavily (six or more mixed drinks, cans of beer, or glasses of wine daily) while pregnant have FAS.

Moderate drinking (two to five drinks daily) also may damage an unborn baby. Experts estimate that many more babies may be born with Fetal Alcohol Effects (FAE) than with FAS. Babies with FAE exhibit some, but not all, of the signs of FAS.

Drinking alcohol during pregnancy also increases the risk of miscarriage and stillbirth, as well as the risk of death in infancy.

"There currently is no way to predict how much alcohol, if any, is safe for an unborn baby," said Dr. Richard Morton, March of Dimes Vice President for Health Services. "We strongly urge women who drink heavily to avoid pregnancy until they are certain they can abstain from alcohol for the duration of their pregnancies. A woman who is pregnant or planning a pregnancy should stop drinking alcohol until her baby is born and she is no longer nursing."

FAS was identified by a March of Dimes grantee and reported at a March of Dimes conference in 1973. Since then, the Foundation has funded numerous research projects to investigate the effects of alcohol on pregnancy and has informed the public of the dangers of alcohol consumption during pregnancy.

As part of its mission to prevent birth defects, the March of Dimes also funds efforts to help prevent FAS and FAE, including hotlines for information and referral, and support programs for women at risk of having a baby affected by alcohol.

Contact the March of Dimes Kentucky East Chapter for other information about FAS and FAE including educational brochures, an information sheet, and a film.

Birth defects are this nation's number one child health problem. Every two minutes a baby is born with a birth defect—one of every 14 babies born in the United States.

The March of Dimes partnership of volunteers and professionals has pioneered programs that include diagnosis and treatment of babies before and after birth, genetic counseling, and early and regular prenatal care to help insure healthy lives for millions of children.

Founded by Franklin Delano Roosevelt in 1938, the March of Dimes marks its 50th anniversary in 1988.

Small Town Survival In West Is Explored

There is a certain nostalgia about the ideal of picturesque small town America—the serenity, the cleanliness, the personal security, and the friendliness.

Little Towns Like These visits several of the small towns which dot the landscape of the Great Plains. The special airs Sunday, May 15, at 4 p.m. on KET. The hour-long special explores how residents are struggling to keep their rural communities prosperous and healthy in today's hard economic times.

Viewers travel to little towns like David City and Red Cloud, Neb.; Dorrance and Oberlin, Kan.; Jefferson, Iowa; Sauk Centre, Minnesota; and Overly, N.D. The special features interviews with town residents as well as economists, psychologists, and sociologists who comment on the concerns faced by small towns. The special looks at the following small town concerns—loss of population base, business failures, and difficult times for farmers—and how they are being confronted or mistakenly ignored.

Little Towns Like These investigates the historical role competing railroad companies played in the often ill-conceived planning and colonization of small prairie towns, many of which were destined for failure.

Little Towns Like These was produced by University of Nebraska-Lincoln's cultural affairs unit and is distributed by the Nebraska Educational Television Network.

Honor Student Selected

The University of Kentucky has announced that Scott Little has been selected to attend PEPP (Professional Education Preparatory Program) for honor students interested in becoming doctors or dentists. The program runs June 8 through July 22, 1988. Little is going into Pre-Med and will be attending the University of Kentucky this fall. He is a 1988 graduate of Johnson Central High School where he was selected by the student body as the student most likely to succeed. Scott also has the honor of being salutatorian of his class. His parents are Alvin Little, of Price, and Pat VanHoose, of Paintsville. Scott has one sister, Kim Little Frasure, of Lexington.

Quilt Society Entry Deadline Draws Near

The Kentucky Heritage Quilt Society will hold its annual quiltmakers' seminar June 22-24 at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond. This is open to the general public featuring workshops and lectures of interest to those who share a love for the art of quilting. Activities will begin Wednesday, June 22 with afternoon checkin and an evening lecture/slide presentation by Joy Peterson, of Louisville, on How to Create a Quilt Studio in Your Home. The film Hearts and Hands will also be presented. Full and half day workshops will be conducted Thursday for quiltmakers from beginning to the advanced level. In the evening, the featured speaker will be Sue Ellen Meyer, a noted quilt collector and historian from Creve Coeur, Missouri. Her topic will be Quilts: Pages of Women's History. An informal show and tell will follow the lecture. Additional workshops will be offered Friday. Topics covered during the two days of workshops will include: Choosing and Using Fabrics, Eight-point Star, Patchwork Scenery, English Piecing, Scrap Bow-tie, Pattern Drafting, Tulips and Baskets Table Runner, Invisible Machine Applique, Improving Your Quilting Stitch, Celtic Quilting, Personalized Collars, Kentucky Pride Amish Roman Stripes, Streak 'O Lightning, Fabric and Quilt Drafting, Beginning Applique, Clamshell Medallion, and Double Irish Chain. Lower rates are offered to KHQS members. Dormitory housing and all meals except breakfast are included in the fee. For more information send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Terri Morgan, 2847 Hikes Lane, Louisville, Kentucky 40218, or call 502-239-6497. Registration deadline is May 20.

174 Mine Permits Issued in March

The Division of permits of the State Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement issued 174 permits in March. Of the 174 permits, 42 were original permits, 76 were revisions, 35 amendments, 20 transfers, and one renewal. One hundred-two were for surface mining, 53 for underground mining, 13 prep plants and refuse areas, three tipples and three haul roads. Permitting activities for March authorized the disturbance of 29,203.32 new acres of land for which $309,875.00 in fees were collected.

Mystery Of Disease Studied In Plagues

Terror gripped the world in 1918 when half the world's population was stricken with the Spanish influenza. The deadly virus left 25 million people dead. In 1849, a cholera epidemic killed 500 people on one city block in London. The most rampant epidemic is still malaria, which claims approximately 200 million victims a year. Some scientists believe that half of the people who had ever died, died from malaria.

Plagues, a one-hour special, airs May 11 at 8 p.m. on KET. The program shows how diseases develop; how some are controlled; why some will never be eliminated; and why others—like AIDS—will develop despite all our most advanced scientific efforts.

Host for the program is Baruch Blumberg, Nobel Prize-winning cancer researcher and medical historian. He traces the origins of many of man's most frightening epidemics. Blumberg recreates the steps epidemiologists took when they faced the deadly 1918 Spanish Flu, cholera, Legionnaire's Disease, and malaria. Traveling about the United States, England, Australia, and the South Pacific, Blumberg focuses on these epidemics to illustrate how scientists identify a disease, track its spread and understand its many forms.

To illustrate how an epidemic spreads, Blumberg takes viewers back to 1849 London for the cholera outbreak. Standing on Broadwick Street, Blumberg focuses attention on a water pump. "About 500 people dropped dead from cholera within 250 yards of this spot," he says. The pump on Broadwick Street was a valuable clue for epidemiologist John Snow. Snow learned that many of the people who died on Broadwick Street had drunk water from that pump. It supported his theory that the disease was spread from person to person. Snow's investigation also led him to believe poor sanitation helped fuel the epidemic. Poor families were likely to live in close quarters, sleeping and eating in the same room. The people, he said, who usually cared for the sick, prepared meals without washing. The deadly disease was passed through food.

Scientists' latest battle is with the AIDS virus. As deadly as it is, Blumberg says that it acts very much the same as earlier epidemics. That's cause for hope—many of these earlier diseases have been arrested.

Plagues was produced for WHYY/TV Philadelphia.

Hero or Vigilante Goetz Trial To Air

Was he a folk hero or a ruthless vigilante?

American Playhouse re-creates the drama surrounding the controversy of Bernhard Goetz. "The Trial of Bernhard Goetz" airs on KET Wednesday, May 11 at 9 p.m. and takes a shattering look at violence, racism, and the U.S. justice system.

It all began on December 22, 1984 when Bernhard Goetz was a passenger on a New York City subway train along with four black youths. After one of the youths approached Goetz for $5, Goetz used an unlicensed gun to shoot them, claiming self defense. His trial for attempted murder began on April 27, 1987 and concluded on June 16 of that year. Goetz was acquitted of all charges except one—criminal possession of a weapon.

Based entirely on the actual trial transcripts of one of the most divisive and controversial criminal cases in recent history. "The Trial of Bernhard Goetz" stars Peter Crombie, Alan Feinstein and Andrew Robinson.

American Playhouse is a presentation of KCET/Los Angeles; South Carolina ETV Network; WGBH/Boston; and WNET/New York.

Announce Engagement

Robert and Phyllis Wilks, of Hippo, wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Jamie Gillian, to Les Stapleton, son of Fayette Stapleton Hopkins, of Elkhorn City, and the late Lloyd L. Stapleton.

Miss Wells is an employee of Highlands Regional Medical Center, and Mr. Stapleton is a Kentucky State trooper.

The ceremony will be held May 21 at the Fitzpatrick First Baptist Church on Middle Creek Road at 1:30 p.m.

The custom of open church will be observed.

Judge Lively To Speak At Centre Commencement

Pierce Lively, circuit judge and immediate past chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit, will be the speaker Sunday, June 5, at the 165th Commencement of Centre College.

Lively, who lives in Danville and is a Centre alumnus and life trustee, will be awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. He is regarded as one of the nation's foremost jurists.

About 170 seniors will receive bachelor's degrees during the Commencement in Newlin Hall of the Norton Center for the Arts at 3:30 p.m.

All seats have been reserved for the graduating seniors' families and their guests. For information about tickets, call Mona Wyatt, director of alumni, at (606) 236-0980.

Commencement day ceremonies will begin with the Baccalaureate Service at 11 a.m. and the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Daniel Paul Matthews, rector of the Parish of Trinity Church in the City of New York.

Centre, founded in 1819, is among the nation's 20 oldest coeducational liberal arts colleges.

Smith Speaks On Sex Roles In P.C.C. Workshop Series

Amanda Smith, noted North Carolina lecturer and counselor, recently completed two days of workshops at Prestonsburg Community College which looked at sex roles from a variety of angles.

Smith's presentations, attended by both men and women, students and faculty, were much more down-to-earth and practical than her professional title, "gender equity specialist." The North Carolina woman travels across the country to counsel corporate executives and educators alike on building a society that transcends sexual disparities.

Smith spoke on such topics as body language, sexual harassment, working together, and freeing children from sex stereotypes. Her visit was sponsored by PCC's Sex Bias/Stereotyping Program and the Single Parent/Homemaker Career Development Program, both part of the division of student affairs.

A surprising workshop—at least for the men present—was titled "Men Are People, Too." One male student admitted that he hadn't known what to expect when he entered the classroom where Smith was to speak. "But I really liked what she had to say. It hit the mark. I thought she did a great job."

Smith explained that men are often victims of the "Superman Syndrome" where they are expected to have all the answers. And just as women are sometimes characterized as sex symbols, men are looked on often as money symbols, valued in terms of their ability to provide for a woman.

The speaker admonished women to let men know that they have been chosen for themselves, rather than for how much money they make.

Throughout her presentations, Smith stressed that women can gain respect and win the career rewards that many men now enjoy without appearing "pushy and aggressive." Women, she said, have been taught that they must be "invited" to participate in decision-making activities that appear to be dominated by men.

"Men haven't been taught that way. Instead, they just go ahead and take their places," she said.

She cited her own experience in the early '70's as a staff member in Senator George McGovern's campaign for US President. "It became apparent that women campaign workers never joined the candidate at the podium after a speech, as the men did, and I knew this wasn't the Senator's doing," she said. "As I analyzed the situation, I realized that we (women workers) expected to be invited to join McGovern while the men just pushed their way on up. So the next speech he made, I wedged my way to the front, too."

Speaking to students, many of whom are already parents, Smith gave some pointers on promoting trust between the sexes during childhood. Parents should encourage mixed play groups, rather than separating boys and girls, she said. In addition, they should show their children that boys and girls (and later men and women) can be friends, without the sex roles.

She also urged teaching all basic skills, such as cooking and auto maintenance, to both sexes. "Shared skills mean shared respect," she said. Boys and girls should be encouraged to work and play together in teams, and both should be given images and models of men and women doing all kinds of work, together and separately.

A former teacher, Smith directed the Division of Equal Education and the New Pioneers program in North Carolina for four years. The aim of her work was to expand sex roles in the state's education system.

The Virginia native earned degrees at Radcliffe College and Harvard and Columbia universities. She has conducted workshops for such corporations as IBM and Milliken, for federal and state government agencies, and for church groups and professional associations, in addition to educational institutions.

Maurice Strider Honored At MSU

Maurice Strider, of Lexington, described as having a "total commitment to education" was honored at Morehead State University Saturday, April 23. Strider is professor emeritus of art.

More than 100 former and current MSU faculty members, staff, students and friends were on hand for the formal dedication ceremony of Strider Gallery, in the Claypool-Young Art Building. A portrait of Strider by Robert Franzini, MSU associate professor of art, will be permanently hung in the gallery.

Dr. John Phillely, College of Arts and Sciences dean described Strider as being nationally-known for his extensive research in black art, Afro-American culture and having one of the most extensive collections of Afro-American slides in existence.

Strider, described as a role model at MSU, said he too had a role model: James Weldon Johnson. He credited Johnson for instilling in him the determination to never deter from one's goals and beliefs. Johnson, the first executive secretary of the NAACP, was responsible for getting Strider involved in research of Afro-American art.

Strider was also presented the national achievement award from Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc., and a plaque from MSU's Black Coalition for his support and guidance.

The dedication was held in conjunction with MSU's Black Awareness Week. "Our theme this year was 'Each One Teach One,'" said Jerry Gore, Minority Student Affairs director. "There is no one who demonstrates this philosophy more than Maurice Strider," Gore noted.

HAROLD HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Harold Homemakers met April 20 at 10 a.m. at the Free Will Church basement. Club president Ruby Staten presided. Regina Daniels was in charge of the devotional program.

Each member and guest answered the roll call with Ways to Recycle Items. Sylvia Allen gave a report on members at large and the various cancer fund. The lesson for April Quick Meals—A Clock Watchers Guide, was given by Mrs. Frances Pitts. The lesson topic for May will be Accessories, the Finishing Touch.

It was decided that the 1987-88 club officers will remain in office for the coming year.

Malta Yates and Carma Sturgill hostesses served a luncheon to the following members and guests: Lillian Sturgill, Ruby Staten, Elizabeth Little, Regina Daniels, Sylvia Allen, Malta Yates, Frances Pitts, Carma Sturgill, Bonnie Newsome, Ollie Simpson, Elizabeth Wolford and Faith Sammons. The next meeting will be May 18.

We've taken a few lumps in our first year.

Breast lumps. Most are harmless, some are dangerous. Find them early and you reduce your risks of serious problems. At the Breast Center, we concentrate on early detection through state-of-the-art mammography and by teaching you breast self examination—BSE. Both approaches, along with regular professional exams, are necessary and effective in a comprehensive program of personal care for women.

On the left is the average size lump found by a woman untrained in BSE. In the center, is the average size lump found by women practicing regular BSE. On the right is the average size lump found by regular mammography.

The American Cancer Society recommends mammograms on a schedule that depends on your age, as follows:
Age 35-40 One baseline mammogram
Age 40-49 Every one or two years
Age 50-UP Every year
Plan a visit to the Breast Center now. We offer more than just mammography. We are the foremost comprehensive breast cancer detection and treatment center in the Big Sandy.

Over one thousand women have visited the Breast Center since its opening March 28, 1987.

Hearing Test Valued By Top Ear Specialist

People experiencing a loss of hearing often have not one hearing problem, but two, according to hearing health care professionals. The first problem is that the hearing-impaired individuals do not hear as well as they could, a condition that can have a far-reaching impact on their lives. The second problem is that these individuals often don't want to hear about problem number one, often because of embarrassment, or the belief that loss of hearing is a sign of old age. And their reluctance to admit to a problem prevents them from getting help.

Both problems are a concern to many in the health community, including the U.S. Surgeon General, C. Everett Koop, M.D.

Koop is a relatively new voice in the hearing health care community's efforts to educate the estimated 15 million Americans who could be helped by hearing aids, but who presently do not wear them. His views on hearing impairment come at an appropriate time, since his boss, President Reagan, will be serving as Honorary Chairman of Better Hearing and Speech Month, held each May to increase awareness of hearing and speech disorders and the treatments available. President Reagan was fitted with hearing aids in 1983.

"People should overcome their embarrassment if they need a hearing aid," said Koop. "I wear bilateral (two) hearing aids and can tell you what a marvelous difference they made in my life."

Koop compared the difference in his hearing quality made by hearing aids to "like going from an old 78 record on a poor phonograph to a nice compact disk on stereo."

Like President Reagan, Surgeon General Koop's road to better hearing began with a simple hearing test, and as part of Better Hearing and Speech Month, those who suspect they have hearing loss are urged to do the same. In fact, Dr. John House, who has taken care of the President's hearing since 1979, recommends the following guidelines:

- If you have an identified hearing loss...have your hearing evaluated annually, regardless of the diagnosed cause.
- If you do not have an identified hearing loss...have a professional hearing screening every four or five years to detect a possible hearing loss early.
- If you are over age 60...your hearing should be tested periodically, since hearing loss is frequently a partner of the normal aging process. (One in three persons over 60 has a hearing loss.)

Turtles give their young no care at all. The mother sea turtle digs a hole on a beach and lays her eggs, covers them with sand and then returns to the sea. The sun hatches the eggs.

Tournament Time Is Best Time For Blackcats

It's May, and that can mean only two things. It's time for the Kentucky Derby, and time for the Prestonsburg Blackcats to turn their performance on the baseball diamond up a notch.

It could be tradition, or just a simple fact of history, but either way, Prestonsburg always seems to get the job done this time of year. And that job is getting to the 15th regional tournament. For the past 17 of the last 18 years the Blackcats have accomplished that feat, and come Tuesday evening they will be going after another appearance in the coveted event.

"They're a tournament team," said Donnie Daniels, whose Allen Central Rebels play Prestonsburg, Tuesday. The winner gets an automatic berth in the district tournament's championship game while also advancing on to the regional tournament.

"They proved that they were a tournament team by getting to the regional tournament, beating John's Creek, and playing Paintsville the way they did," Daniels continued. "With a couple of breaks they could have been in the finals."

The Blackcats defeated McDowell and Wheelwright on their way to the regional tournament. They lost, though, to Betsy Layne in the district finals, finishing as runners-up. But a year later, and facing a different tournament opener opponent, the road to the region may be a bit tougher this time around.

Allen Central, although this season hasn't been as successful as some thought it might be, is considered to be one of several teams capable of winning a regional title. The Rebels have two of the region's top pitchers in lefthanders Nathan Shelton and Jamie May, and they have the big bats with which to score runs. They defeated defending regional champion Paintsville last week. Shelton worked six innings, yielding only one run, and May pitched another perfect frame in the win. Allen Central's record isn't exactly eye popping at 8-11, but they have lost several games by one run.

"We're not playing that bad," Daniels said. "We've lost some games, but we've not been playing that bad. 'We've lost six games by one run and any time you're in that situation you have a chance to win.'"

Breaks haven't exactly been kind to the Rebels either. It's not that they haven't gotten any. It's just that all they've gotten have been of the bad variety.

"God knows we've had a lot to go against us so it's about time we get one to come our way. We're hitting the ball. In the past week we've hit better than we have all year. We're just making the little mistakes that cause you to lose games."

Daniels says he will probably go with either May or Shelton against Prestonsburg, but the Rebel head man says everyone might get an opportunity to take his turn on the mound.

"I think either one of them are capable of pitching me a good game," Daniels mentioned. "I've got six pitchers and it's a one-chance thing to get into the regional so I will use all of them if I have too."

Prestonsburg, on the other hand, is in a similar position, but maybe more so. Blackcat coach Russell Shepherd has no less than four pitchers he says he might start against the Rebels.

"We'll just have to wait and see how things go this week," Shepherd said about naming his starter. Shepherd is expected to go with either lefthander Joey Griffith or righthander throwing Tim Trusty. But nothing is certain with the coach and his staff. "I might pitch Todd or Thomas," he said mentioning his other two southpaw pitchers.

Griffith, 3-1 this year, is considered to be the ace of the staff, but Todd Justice, in an earlier outing, held Allen Central to only two hits, although they scored a total of seven runs off the hard throwing junior.

"He's really coming around now," Shepherd said of Justice. But he, like most of Prestonsburg's pitchers has battled control problems all season. "They have been trying to place the ball on the corners too much."

And walks is one thing Shepherd says could turn the final outcome toward one side or the other.

"One little rock, one missed call, one missed signal," the coach said, pointing out the little things that could make the difference. "Walks and errors will be the key."

Shepherd says his club has played solid defense all season, with the exception of the last Allen Central contest, and two games with Johnson Central. Prestonsburg has defeated the Rebels twice this season. Shepherd, though, says that those two games are gone and forgotten. He says that the second season is now ready to begin. Shepherd was talking about the district tournament when he mentioned the "second season" and the tourney opens Monday afternoon when Betsy Layne plays McDowell. The two teams have split their games this season, but the Daredevils' victory came when Betsy Layne was without five seniors. The Bobcats defeated McDowell 19-4 in their most recent matchup. But nobody associated with Betsy Layne is calling it an easy win, especially Junior Newsome.

"No matter who you play, especially in baseball, anybody can beat you, and if you come in not ready to play they will," Newsome, the Bobcats' coach, said. "McDowell is capable of beating anybody in the county. They're proved that by beating us, and they beat Allen Central."

"They hit the ball real well," Newsome continued. "They are a capable club."

Betsy Layne is expected to send either Mark Tipton, who beat M.C. Napier in a recent outing, or Duran Newsome, another hard-throwing righty. Glen Hammond and Dwight Jarrell, a winner over McDowell in the 19-4 contest, are two more likely candidates.

But Newsome says his team has more to worry about than who they send to the mound. "We need to get our eye on the ball, and cut down on our errors. We're just simply making too many mistakes in the field, both mental and physical."

The winner of the Betsy Layne-McDowell contest advances to the second round of the tournament to play Wheelwright, which drew a bye.

McDowell, winners of only three games during the season, will probably pitch Henry Webb, their top hurler. Webb was the pitcher of record for the Daredevils in their victory over Betsy Layne.

The Bobcats are regarded as one of the region's best hitting teams, but now they have their coach worried about keeping the opposition from scoring runs in bunches. They are the district's defending champions, and finished as regional runners-up last year, losing to Paintsville in the championship game. Seven of the regular eight position players are around from that team.

The district tournament, which opens Monday, will be played at Allen Park. The umpires are scheduled to be Joe Pelphey and Dale Conn.

Bobcats Get Best Of Both, In Victory Over McDowell

Dwight Jarrell threw a one-hitter, and the Betsy Layne Bobcats collected a total of 16 hits enroute to a 19-4 victory over McDowell, Wednesday night at Allen Park.

Jarrell, recognized as having one of the strongest arms of anyone in the region, left his familiar center field position for a rare starting assignment on the mound.

The senior right hander limited McDowell to only one hit, a Dickie Joe Shannon RBI single in the first, but walks and errors took away from an otherwise solid performance.

Jarrell struck out nine in five innings, but walked seven. All four runs were of the unearned variety.

Mike McQuate, who drew walks all three times up, scored two runs, helped along both times by errors. Betsy Layne committed two errors in the fourth inning to let two additional unearned runs cross the plate.

But the Bobcats didn't need any help in scoring runs. They produced them in bunches, scoring eight times in the first, and adding five in the second to blow the game open early.

McDowell did give the Bobcats a bit of boost when the Daredevils allowed Jarrell to reach base on an error. The Betsy Layne leadoff hitter hit a hot shot that bounced off third baseman Keith Shelton's glove.

That seemed to be the best thing that happened to McDowell in the first couple innings. Jarrell stole second and third, and scored on another error for the game's first run.

Barry Hamilton followed with a fly out to center which could have been the second out. But it wasn't.

Duran Newsome singled, but then Todd Sturgill struck out. That should have been the third out, but the McDowell defense hadn't cooperated.

Then, though, Betsy Layne began their offensive assault on Daredevil starter Dickie Joe Shannon. Brad Hall singled, Glen Hammond, hitting for Matt Conn, walked, and the next five Bobcat hitters got base hits, as they batted around while scoring the eight runs. All of those were unearned.

But it didn't help Shannon's cause any. He still felt the sting of potent Betsy Layne bats, and continued to do so in the second.

Todd Sturgill led off with a walk then three consecutive hits from Brad Hall, Glen Hammond, and Kevin Spurlock ended Shannon's night on the mound and also scored three more Bobcat runs.

Henry Webb replaced Shannon on the mound. Webb finished the game, which was officially four innings, surrendering five hits and six runs, two of which were earned. He struck out two and walked one.

Shannon, who was credited with one inning of work, suffered the loss. Jarrell was credited with the win.

Betsy Layne had five players to enjoy multiple hit games. Brad Hall, the Bobcats senior first baseman, led the offensive attack by banging out four hits. He had three singles and a double and also scored four runs.

Kevin Spurlock, a sophomore third baseman, also enjoyed a big night at the plate. He went three for four with two doubles and a single while driving in five runs.

Spurlock had a bases loaded double in the first that scored three runs, and in the third he drove in two more with a single.

Mark Tipton, who drove in three runs, enjoyed a two-hit performance with a single and a double. Duran Newsome and Dwight Jarrell also had two hits for Betsy Layne.

McDowell, though, had trouble even making contact off the hard throwing Jarrell. But they did get enough breaks to the plate four runs.

Jarrell didn't have much trouble throwing to the plate, but to first proved to be difficult. After walking Mike McQuate with two out in the first, Jarrell tried to pick the speedy center fielder off first, but threw it away.

By the time Brad Hall could track down the throw, McQuate had made it all the way to third base. Shannon brought him home with the single.

McQuate, in the third, walked again. Shannon, with McQuate going, bounced to second. McQuate rounded second, and when Hall tried to nail him at third, the throw sailed high, allowing McQuate to score.

With two out in the fourth, Jarrell walked John Stumbo, who reached second on a wild pitch. He later scored when Henry Webb's grounder eluded shortstop Adam Gearheart, who had replaced Duran Newsome at that spot.

Webb later scored when Scott Tackett's fly ball was misplayed in right field. Jarrell, though, retired Shannon on a fly to center to get out of the inning. He then struck out three consecutive pinch hitters in the fifth to nail down the win.

CAUGHT STEALING: Tommy Jones puts the tag on Scott Tackett after taking the throw from catcher Chris Thornsberry. McDowell hit two homeruns and won the game 12-11, Friday at Minnie.

McDowell Defeats Wheelwright On Strength Of Big Come Back

Before the game began Monroe Jones was asked how many games were to be played. "Probably just one," the Wheelwright coach answered. "The way we score runs when we play each other we'll probably just have time to play one."

It didn't take long for onlookers to understand Jones' reasoning. Wheelwright took up almost half an hour in their first at bat, and McDowell did much of the same in the bottom half of the inning. The opening inning took nearly 50 minutes to complete, and the game, scheduled for 4:30 which didn't get underway until 5:00, took just over two hours and a half to complete. But for McDowell, time wasn't a problem. The final outcome made it all worth their while. The Daredevils, after falling way behind early, came from behind to claim a 12-11 victory over Wheelwright, Friday at Minnie Park.

Wheelwright, helped along by a Tommy Jones grand slam, erupted for six runs in the top of the first inning, but McDowell scored five in their half of the first, added one in the second, and took the lead with four in the third and two more in the fourth.

The game marked the third time the two Left Beaver schools have met this season. The Daredevils have taken two of the three, but they have been forced to post some impressive run producing performances in both their victories.

The first game of the season saw Wheelwright pull out a win 14-9. In that game they blasted two grand slams, and feasted off 14 McDowell walks. Last Tuesday they met again. McDowell evened the series with a 23-17 win in one of the highest scoring games in recent memory.

The Daredevils, Friday, claimed the season's battle between the two by earning the one-run victory. John Crisp and John Stumbo hit homeruns, and Wheelwright pitchers surrendered seven walks to assist McDowell in the victory. Crisp drilled his homer in the first, a three-run shot that was the big blow in McDowell's five-run inning. Stumbo's long ball came in the fourth with Brent Rose aboard. Those two runs were the ones that put the Daredevils up to stay. With the score even at 10, Rose coaxed a two-out walk off pitcher Steve Johnson. Stumbo, McDowell's number nine hitter, followed with a blast that Minnie Park couldn't hold, and the Daredevils found themselves up by two runs.

Johnson, who came on to pitch in the second inning, worked five innings. The freshman righthander was tagged with the loss, although he gave up only two earned runs. Johnson walked five, and struck out four while also hitting a batter. He gave up six runs but only two hits. McDowell had only five hits for the game, but six of their walks wound up crossing the plate. The Trojans also committed four errors. Wheelwright took an early 6-0 lead in the first when starting McDowell pitcher Scott Tackett struggled with his control. After Kevin Isaac led the game off with a single, Tackett walked the next four hitters, forcing a run in and leaving the bases loaded with no outs. That's when Tommy Jones cranked a long homerun over the left centerfield fence, putting the Trojans up 5-0. Tackett then walked Shawn McKenzie, and that was enough for Kip Kidd. Kidd, serving as coach in replace of the ailing Johnny Ray Turner, replaced Tackett with Keith Shelton.

But the lanky sophomore didn't enjoy much more success than Tackett had. Shelton walked the first two batters he faced before getting Shawn Roop on a fly out to center. After the out, though, Isaac was hit with a pitch and to load the bases, and Chad Hall drew his second walk of the inning to force Jimmy Helton in with Wheelwright's sixth run of the inning.

But it didn't take McDowell long to catch up. Dickie Joe Shannon's bases loaded double scored Darrell Goble and Henry Webb, and after Shelton flied out,

John Crisp picked up his three-run homerun to bring the Daredevils back to within one run.

McDowell tied the score in the second when Goble led off with a walk and scored on a Mike McQuate fly ball.

The walk, one of two Goble received, came against starter Brad Compton. After the free pass he was replaced on the mound by Johnson, who finished the game.

Wheelwright re-gained the lead with four runs in the third inning, taking advantage of four Daredevil errors. The Trojans had only one hit in the inning. But like they had done once before, McDowell mounted an immediate comeback, and in the bottom of the third they tied the score, and like Wheelwright in the top of the inning, they did it with the benefit of only one hit.

After the Daredevils took their two-run advantage in the fourth, Wheelwright managed to cut that lead in half with a run in the sixth, but they went quietly in the seventh as McDowell preserved the win.

The Trojans scored their run when Jimmy Helton drew a one-out walk, went to second on a Steve Johnson single, and scored as Roop and Isaac both walked. But McDowell pitcher Kevin Shelton retired Chad Hall on a fly ball and struck out Brad Compton to snuff out the rally.

Chris Thornsberry led off the final inning with a single, but he was left on base as Tommy Jones and Chris Bates flied out to center, and Jimmy Helton popped up.

Wheelwright had seven hits in the game. Four of those came via Brad Compton and Tommy Jones, who had two hits each.

Henry Webb was the only McDowell batter that had more than one hit. The junior shortstop collected two singles. John Stumbo and John Crisp had three RBIs each for the Daredevils. Tommy Jones drove in four runs for Wheelwright.

CONGRATULATIONS: Allen Central catcher Kevin Webb gets a high five from Darren Conn following one of his numerous homeruns this past week. Webb has a total of eight round trippers.

SHORT SPORTS

The 1988 district baseball tournament, to decide this county's representatives in the 15th region tournament, begins Monday afternoon and will run through Thursday.

Betsy Layne, the defending champion, opens the tournament against McDowell Monday at 5 p.m. The winner of that game takes on Wheelwright, which drew a bye.

Allen Central and Prestonsburg plays Tuesday afternoon for a berth in the championship contest, and a right to advance to the regional tourney. The winner goes on to Thursday's championship game, and will be assured a place in the eight team event.

The winner of Betsy Layne and McDowell tangles with Wheelwright Wednesday, and the victor of that game goes on to Thursday's championship match to play either Allen Central or Prestonsburg.

Last year Betsy Layne defeated the Blackcats in the district finals. They advanced all the way to the regional finals before being eliminated by Paintsville. Prestonsburg, the runner-up, beat Johns Creek in a first round game last season, but they too were beaten out by eventual champion Paintsville. The Blackcats lost to the Tigers in the second round.

It may not be the biggest sporting event in the U.S.; but it certainly is the biggest horse race, and fans without tickets will be glued to the TV set this Saturday for the 114th running of the Kentucky Derby. The Derby, the first leg of horse racing's famed Triple Crown, will be televised by ABC television. The telecast begins at 4:30, Saturday afternoon.

Favorites to come out on top in the run for the roses include Private Terms, undefeated this year, Risen Star, and Forty Niner. A horse named Cefis and another called Brian's Time are also spoken among most people's top five favorites.

There are no clear out favorites in this year's event, even though Private Terms is the horse being picked by most to hit the finish line first.

It doesn't really mean much though, being the favorite, that is. The last heavily favored horse to do what it was supposed to was Spectacular Bid in 1979. Since then surprise winners have made up the list of Kentucky Derby champions.

It stopped. But it really didn't. Baltimore finally won a baseball game, but a season does not one win make. The Orioles broke their 21-game losing streak which ended the longest such

Reds Watch '88

Perez Begins And Ends Four Game Cincinnati Losing Skid

Wednesday night Pasqual Perez shut the Cincinnati Reds out for the first time this season. The Montreal right hander limited the Reds to only two hits in chalking up a 1-0 win over Mario Soto.

The loss, in which Perez struck out 10 batters, marked the beginning of a four-game losing streak for Cincinnati. It continued until the Expos made a visit to Riverfront Stadium Monday night.

Fresh off a weekend series that produced three losses to visiting New York, the Reds again found themselves going against the rejuvenated Pasqual Perez. Perez, a one-time performer for Atlanta, had fallen upon hard times since becoming famous for losing himself in Atlanta on a day he was scheduled to pitch. Personal problems continued to mount, and his once successful pitching performances turned into just another baseball tragedy. But since being picked up by Montreal late last season, Perez has returned to his former self, and making a habit of winning baseball games again.

Monday night he enjoyed another strong outing, holding Cincinnati to only five hits, but on this occasion all eyes were on Reds' starting pitcher Ron Robinson. Through eight and two-thirds innings Robinson had retired all 26 hitters he had faced. He had only one out left to nail down a perfect game, which would have been the first ever by a Cincinnati pitcher. But his moment in the spotlight, a chance for immortality, was swept away by a Wallace Johnson swing. The Montreal pinch hitter dropped a two-two pitch into left centerfield for the Expos' first hit of the game.

Tim Raines followed with a homerun over the right field fence, and took with it Robinson's chance for a shutout, and complete game. But the burly right hander did record his second win of the season as John Franco picked up the save, recording the game's final out in relief of Robinson. The game, a Cincinnati 3-2 win, was played without manager Pete Rose, who had knee surgery earlier that day. Playing without Rose, though, may be something the Reds will have to get accustomed to. Rose received a 30-day suspension from the National League for his part in a bumping incident with umpire Dave Pallone during the New York series.

But none of that seemed to bother the Reds Monday. Kal Daniels got them under way in a big way with a solo homerun, his fifth, in the first inning. The two out blast gave Daniels, stuck in a prolonged slump, the club lead.

But that didn't last long. Chris Sabo, who continues to fill in for the injured Buddy Bell, drew even with Daniels when he led the sixth inning off with a solo shot to left field. Sabo's homer put Cincinnati up 3-0 after Daniels walked, stole second, and scored on Eric Davis' single. Ron Robinson and John Franco did the rest. Robinson gave up two runs on two hits in his eight and two-thirds innings of work. Robinson, 2-2, struck out four and did not walk a batter. Franco came in in the ninth to retire the final Montreal hitter, and record his fourth save. The lefthanded reliever hasn't given up an earned run this season.

Perez, who worked eight innings officially, suffered the loss. His record dropped to 3-3, and 1-1 against Cincinnati.

The win pulled the Reds back up to the .500 level, and enabled them to pick up a game on Houston. Coming into the night's action the Astros held a one-half game lead over Los Angeles, and were three more in front of the Reds. They lost, though, to Philadelphia.

Cincinnati, 12-12 heading into last night's series ending game with Montreal, also ended a four game losing streak that produced just about everything but a win. First came a brilliant performance from Mario Soto, holding the Expos to only one run, but Perez was more impressive, and Soto got a loss for his strong effort. Cincinnati returned home, but their baseball happenings turned from bad to worse. First came Danny Jackson, and another strong pitching outing. But another defeat.

Jackson, 3-1 this year, gave up only five hits and one earned run in his seven innings of work, but he left trailing 4-2.

Cincinnati rallied to pull even with two runs in the eighth, but Rob Murphy, with two out in the ninth, gave up back to back doubles to Tim Tuelfel and Keith Hernandez, allowing New York to score the go-ahead run. Roger McDowell, 3-0, set the Reds down in order in the ninth to gain the win. McDowell had earlier given up the two tying runs. Rob Murphy, 0-1, suffered the loss.

Saturday came, and with it a whole bunch of excitement. Cincinnati starter Tom Browning hit Tuelfel in the back with a pitch. Daryl Strawberry took it as a personal insult, and charged at Browning. Both players were ejected. At the time Cincinnati trailed 5-2, but they again rallied to tie the score by tallying three runs in the eighth, again off Roger McDowell.

The ninth inning brought more of the same as Friday night's finish produced, but this time some poking and pushing was thrown in.

With Howard Johnson on second, two out, and the score tied at five, Barry Larkin threw to first with what should have been the third out. But it wasn't, although no one knew at the time. Larkin's throw, trying to polish off a ground ball out, drew first baseman Nick Esasky off the base. But umpire Dave Pallone didn't make that call until New York coach Bill Robinson came on the field to show where Esasky's foot was when he caught the ball. While this was going on, and while Esasky watched to see the end result, Ho Jo had rounded third and came on to score.

Out popped Pete, and a nice little argument erupted. But things kind of got away from the two diamond combatants when Pallone poked Rose with his finger. And in Mr. Rose's words, he's a competitive person. To show that Rose pushed Pallone. To show that he shouldn't have pushed Pallone, the National League has handed the competitive Rose a 30-day suspension.

That decision has been appealed, but will more than likely stand.

Meanwhile, back at the game, fans had erupted with more fire than Pete Rose ever displayed as a member of the baseball world. They threw baseballs, golf balls, money, and even clock radios onto the field. For over 17 minutes they delayed the game in protest of Pallone, who finally gave up his duties and retired to the safety of whatever he could find. The game was finished with three ump's.

Cincinnati didn't do any damage in the bottom of the inning, and lost 6-5, their third straight one-run defeat. John Franco got the loss, but the run he gave up was unearned as Larkin was charged with an error.

Sunday the Mets slammed four home runs, and Dwight 'Doc' for shorter signatures' Gooden blanked Cincinnati on four hits to record his sixth win of the season. The Mets won 11-0.

The Reds will close out their homestead with two games tonight and tomorrow against Philadelphia before packing their bags for New York. They play the Mets Friday night, and day games Saturday and Sunday then travel on to Philadelphia for a three game series starting Monday.

DOUBLE PLAY ATTEMPT: McDowell second baseman Darrell Goble makes an attempt to turn a double against Wheelwright Friday.

Roberts Wins Race At Belfry

A strong finish in one race, and win in another highlighted a full weekend of running for Rick Roberts, a local runner from Allen.

Roberts, on Saturday, finished 44th out of 600 starters in the eighth annual Huntington Distance Classic. He ended the 10-mile event in just over 61 minutes. Dave Tabor took top honors with a time of 51 minutes and 20 seconds.

Sunday Roberts claimed the title in the Belfrey Coal Digger's Race held at Belfry. Roberts ran the 3.4-mile event in 18:45. This Saturday he will run in a 5K race at Elkhorn City, which begins at 9 a.m.

Extra Inning Error Allows P'burg To Set Down Rebels

After banging out a total of 14 hits, after scoring a total of nine runs, the Prestonsburg Blackcats still needed some help from Allen Central to earn a victory over the Rebels.

With two out in the Blackcats' top half of the 10th inning, Joey Griffith slapped a grounder to short. What looked like the third out turned into an inning continuing error, leading to two Prestonsburg runs.

Chris Slone, who had earlier reached on an error when his sacrifice bunt attempt was misplayed, scored on the Rebels' second miscue of the inning. Joey Griffith later scored on a Todd Justice double.

Griffith's run eventually proved to be the game winner as the Blackcats defeated Allen Central 11-10 in 10 innings, Wednesday at Allen Park, spoiling a dramatic Rebel comeback in the process.

Prestonsburg, who scored five runs on eight base hits in the first two innings, led 9-4 heading into the final inning, but Allen Central took advantage of walks, errors, and a key base hit to send the game into extra innings.

Danny Hamilton, limiting the Rebels to only three hits in the first six innings, started the bottom of the seventh off by retiring Darren Conn on a fly ball to left field.

The Prestonsburg junior righthander then induced Allen Central pitcher Todd Duff to ground to shortstop. But a routine play turned into an error on Tim Trusty, and the rally was on.

Two walks later another error on Trusty, normally a sure-handed defensive player, allowed two runs to cross the plate. Hamilton, battling control problems the whole game, walked Mickey Parsons to re-load the bases.

A Randy Hansford single that scored Kevin Webb brought the Rebels to within two runs, sent Hamilton to first and brought Thomas Nairn to the mound.

Robbie Click rudely greeted the new pitcher with a sharp single up the middle, turning the game into a one run affair. Nairn then walked designated hitter Nathan Shelton to bring the game even. But then the junior southpaw toughened, got Conn to bounce into a forced play of Hansford at home, and struck Todd Duff out, ending the threat and keeping Prestonsburg alive.

On the eighth they went. No score. On to the ninth they went. No score. And on to the 10th, another Rebel nightmare that featured the Prestonsburg Blackcats.

But this time Allen Central did more damage to themselves than Prestonsburg did. Kevin Webb came on to pitch the 10th, relieving Duff, who had worked the first nine.

Webb, already playing a key role in the Rebels' comeback when he blasted a fourth inning three-run homerun, failed to get any defensive support, and as a result of two errors and a walk on his own part, suffered the loss.

Webb, a junior righthander, walked Prestonsburg's Johnny Ray Harris to begin the inning, and when Chris Slone, the next batter, tried to bunt Harris on to second, Webb threw on to Duff, covering first, but he mishandled the throw.

But he made up for that on the next chance. Tim Trusty, again trying to move the runners along bunted back to the mound. Webb fielded the attempt, threw on to third, and cut down Harris.

Then the Allen Central pitcher picked Trusty off first for the second out, and had apparently brought the rally to a scoreless conclusion by getting Griffith to hit the grounder.

But the baseball came up on Mickey Parsons, bouncing off the sophomore shortstop, and rolling into short left field.

Slone came on around to score on the play. The next hitter, right fielder Todd Justice, banged an opposite field double to left center, scoring Griffith and giving Prestonsburg a two-run lead.

The Rebels again rallied in the bottom off the 10th when B.J. Aldridge, hitting for the injured Parsons, doubled home Jamie May, although he went hitless in two trips, scored two runs for the Rebels.

With two out and Aldridge on third, Nairn retired Hansford on a fly to right, earning the win for himself, and securing the one run victory for Prestonsburg. Although it took 10 innings to put Allen Central away, it looked as if Prestonsburg had disposed of the Rebels after their first four at bats.

The Blackcats opened the game by banging out five consecutive hits, all singles, and when Ray Collins collected an RBI single. Prestonsburg had scored four runs in the first inning. Collins, the seventh hitter in the order, was the last to hit safely in the first inning, but Prestonsburg started it all over in the second.

Johnny Ray Harris led the inning off by reaching on an error, and consecutive singles from Tim Trusty and Joey Griffith brought him on around.

Trusty, who went three for six with three RBIs, added a two-run homerun in the fourth as the Blackcats opened up a 7-0 lead.

But Allen Central starter Todd Duff managed to slow down the potent offensive attack, allowing only four hits and two unearned runs through the next five innings, allowing the Rebels to mount a comeback.

They had struggled against Hamilton through six, scoring four runs but getting only three hits. The seventh proved to be a bad one for Prestonsburg, but the Rebels had the last bad effort, and the Blackcats had the last laugh—a winning one.

Joey Griffith, senior center fielder, collected three hits, all singles, and added three runs batted in to the Prestonsburg attack. Johnny Ray Harris, Todd Justice, and Ray Collins added two hits each. Chris Slone and Tim Trusty both scored three runs.

Allen Central collected only seven hits in the game, and didn't have a player to have more than one. Kevin Webb scored three runs.

streak ever in the American League. But for Baltimore, it only represented a disappointing season where even going wrong can't go right.

Baltimore drew much publicity for their prolonged losing stretch to open the season. They set records for the most consecutive losses to begin a season. They followed that by establishing the longest all-time losing streak when they fell victim to Minnesota Thursday night. But by defeating Chicago Friday the Orioles fell two losses short of the all-time mark for all of Major League baseball. Cal Ripken, Jr. and Eddie Murray slammed homeruns as Baltimore shut out the White Sox Friday, bringing to an end their rough 1988 baseball beginning. By Saturday, though, the Orioles were back to their old habits, losing to Chicago to prove that their consistent start was no fluke.

Baltimore fired Cal Ripken after he lost six games. Frank Robinson lost 15 straight games but yet he was allowed to continue as manager. That is one thing the Orioles have managed to do this season, silence those who have accused baseball to be prejudiced toward minorities.

The Big Sandy-UK Alumni Club will "bring the University of Kentucky to the public" May 23 during the Big Blue Spectacular to be held in Paintsville.

The event, which is part of a statewide effort to enhance relations with a wider range of alumni, friends, and every Wildcat fan throughout the Commonwealth, will feature a round of golf with UK coaches Jerry Claiborne and Eddie Sutton, as well as Athletics Director Cliff Hagan.

A low budget dinner to be held at Johnson Central High School is also on the schedule. The golf outing will be of a scramble format beginning at 1 p.m. Hagan, Claiborne, and Sutton will be at individual holes in order to permit all players to enjoy a hole with them.

The dinner will be held from 6:30 until 8:30, and will again feature Hagan, Claiborne, and Sutton as speakers. The golf event will be held at the Paintsville Country Club.

Tickets locally can be purchased at First Commonwealth Bank in Prestonsburg. For additional information contact Big Blue Spectacular chairman Bob Abrams at 789-7058.

The Sporting Times

Here's a question of thought. Parents, or most of them, teach their children to respect other parents, authority figures, and those of an older age, but when such people fail to earn respect what are young people supposed to do?

Respect is not to be given, but to be earned. When adults show their ignorance in a public display of disrespect for their peers, how can younger people, in turn, show respect for them?

This is not intended to be a lesson in child rearing. No one anywhere does that any better than parents of Eastern Kentucky children do. It could, though, be an encouragement for adults to set a better example for impressionable young athletes to follow.

And it is a plea for some to try and send an occasional positive comment their way instead of shouting negatives throughout a seven-inning baseball game. This has even brought complaints from players concerning their own fans. Oh! And when they scream at other people's children. This will someday instigate a full scale riot, because if you ever wish to get on a Floyd county mother's bad side, and like right now, just attack her child. But no complaint can be raised about being protective, although even that can be carried to an extreme.

Poor Oscar Rice. When they don't want to yell at the players and coaches any more, some fans make a day of jumping the umpires, especially when things aren't exactly going to their liking. It seems as if Rice receives most of this verbal punishment.

And he doesn't even have to make a call to get it. Yelling at umpires is part of baseball, as common and accepted as fastballs and homeruns, but to make a big deal about his personal shortcomings is a bit out of the realm of sportsmanship.

One fan said he probably didn't even have any money. Another mentioned that he didn't have anything on his head except a hat. Remember the old saying, you can't have hair and brains, both. Rice probably brings most of it on himself by making calls other umpires don't have the nerve to make. But probably the abuse comes because he knows the rules and those yelling don't.

One fan said he would like to buy Oscar Rice for what he's worth and sell him for what he thinks he's worth. That might be a good financial proposition, but then again, what's wrong with having a feeling of self worth. It could be a nice commodity when times gets tough.

As far as being a good umpire, he's not the greatest. He's missed a few. If he hasn't, then he is the only one in the world who hasn't. Rice is as good as we have in this county, and better than most. His first concern is for the player's safety. Some even ridicule him for that. Maybe with that kind of mentality on the side of those complaining, Rice manages to ignore most of the criticism.

To the local fans, there will never be a good umpire, or referee for that matter, as long as their team comes up on the short end of the final score. Most people make better excuses than they do results, and that is the favorite of everyone when defeat can't be faced.

The unfortunate thing, other than being forced to listen to it, is the fact that it rubs off on the players. They too start looking for excuses, and blaming umpires seems to be a favorite of theirs. Wonder why?

And coaches. They get some of the same. It is more than a little surprising, and hard to understand why people always try and coach from the stands instead of going to practice, hitting ground balls, or throwing at batting practice.

Instead of working on the field, they had rather complain as to why it is in such bad shape. Any time an error is made they cry lack of talent, but no one has as yet mounted a successful attempt to get additional playing and practice facilities, the reason for the error in the first place.

The interest in baseball has been directed more to complaining than doing, and in the past local teams have shown the results of it. Most of the displays have come in the regional tournament, and summer youth league all-star games.

For a true baseball lover, it hurts. Even more so than the 'willer tea' Mama used to produce.

But in the words of Ab Lawson, "You, me, and all of them are to blame!" Lawson is a baseball man's man, and to borrow another statement from him. "You just can't teach baseball in a gymnasium." That, unfortunately, is what many coaches are limited to.

It is kind of odd that every high school in this county has a gym, and three of the four with football teams have those fields. No school in the county has a baseball field.

True, baseball is not a money-making proposition, but how long can we continue to sell our children's opportunities.

Basketball is the big thing here, and living in the shadow of the University of Kentucky is the reason why. It's every child's dream to play at UK, but that is nearly impossible.

Last season only one graduate of a local high school played varsity basketball on the college level. Three played college baseball, and another made it to the professional level. Just think what might happen if the sport was given its just assistance.

For those like Lawson, it is a tough battle to keep the game live. But men like Ab Lawson love a good challenge, they just want a fighting chance.

Talent in this county has increased dramatically over the past six years or so. The sad part is that fields such as the Drift Park have been abandoned. Lawson says the sport may soon follow if a combined effort doesn't come along soon.

The success of the schools, though, continues to increase, and winning baseball is evident. Those in command, the players and coaches, should be congratulated for doing what they have with what they have to do with.

Which brings us back to the fans. For example, last Wednesday some screamed at Allen Central coach Donnie Daniels for an immediate decision he made concerning a runner, and whether he should have sent him home or held him at third.

Daniels, down by two, held a runner at third. This brought about a loud outburst from a pair of fans, but what the coach was doing followed exactly what is considered to be one of the Cardinal rules of the sport.

Even players, waiting to play the second game, made comment on the unprovoked criticism. And the thing about it is, Daniels is one of the most knowledgeable coaches in the region, and very well could be the best baseball coach Allen Central has ever had.

It's sad, and even embarrassing that the players have to perform under these circumstances. But it is nice to know that they have the integrity to handle it, for the most part, anyway.

Everyone has a job to do, but cursing, negative fans fail to add to the sport's personality. If, by now, you're upset, then you know that you're one of the few that has embarrassed yourself and your child. If you're not, they remain the good fan that you are.

Boys Basketball Camps Set

The Western Kentucky University men's basketball coaching staff has announced dates for its Western Kentucky Hilltopper Basketball Camps, which will be held on the WKU campus at various dates this summer, beginning in June.

The Hilltopper Basketball Camp, under the direction of WKU Head Coach Murray Arnold, will feature four sessions—an individual camp, a team camp and two weekend team camps.

The summer basketball camp will commence with an individual camp for boys aged 7-18 from June 5-10. Session II is a team camp to be held the following week (June 12-17) for high school varsity and junior varsity basketball squads. The summer basketball camp will conclude with two short weekend sessions (July 9-10 and Aug. 6-7) for those players on varsity and junior varsity teams.

Among the highlights of the 1988 camps will be special guest sessions with college and professional basketball greats.

The cost (per person) for attending the individual camp session is $210. However, a discounted fee of $195 per camper is being offered for five or more boys from the same school if all applications are mailed together.

The varsity team camp (June 12-17) will cost $160 per person while an $80 fee is being charged for the weekend team camp sessions. Day campers attending the week of June 5-10 can attend at a cost of $175.

For more information, contact Coach Bobby Brown, WKU Hilltopper Camp Coordinator, E.A. Diddle Arena, Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green, Ky. 42101 (telephone 502-745-2132).

EKU's Jones Taken In First Round Of Draft

Aaron Jones, Eastern Kentucky University's All-American defensive tackle, has been selected the 18th pick in the first round of the National Football League draft by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Jones' selection in the first round marked the second time in school history that a Colonel player had been chosen in the first round. All-Pro defensive tackle Wally Chambers was chosen as the eighth pick of the first round in the 1973 draft by the Chicago Bears.

"I'm real excited and real happy. Pittsburgh started showing a lot of interest in me a couple of weeks ago. Joe Greene came down and watched one of my workouts and I must have impressed him," said Jones.

Jones, 6-5, 265, and a native of Apopka, Fla., also became only the third player in Ohio Valley Conference history to be drafted in the first round. Besides EKU's Chambers, Morehead State quarterback Phil Simms was chosen seventh in the first round in 1979 by the New York Giants.

"Aaron has had a great career at Eastern and we will certainly miss him. Pittsburgh has signed an outstanding defensive football player," said EKU head coach Roy Kidd.

Jones was a 1987 first team Kodak and AP All-American and was selected as the Co-Defensive Player of the Year in the OVC this past season. He totaled 40 tackles, 26 assists and had 12 tackles behind the line of scrimmage for a minus 61 yards. He was a two-time All-OVC choice.

Two other Colonels were selected in later rounds of the NFL Draft. Defensive back, kick returner Danny Copeland of Meigs, Ga., was drafted in the ninth round by the Cleveland Browns and offensive tackle John Jackson of Cincinnati, Ohio, was chosen in the tenth round by the Steelers.

Copeland, 6-2, 210, was a two-time All-OVC player, led the OVC in kickoff returns (27.0) and was second in punt return average (8.7). He had 30 tackles, 13 assists and tied for the team lead in interceptions with four.

"Danny has certain goals and will work very hard to achieve these goals. He is determined to make it. Cleveland has signed a good return man who can also play defensive back," Kidd said.

Jackson, 6-5, 282, was a two-time all-conference selection for the Colonels. "John has all the tools—size, speed and a tremendous amount of ability. He could be a sleeper, since he's only played four years of football (one in high school and three in college)," Kidd said.

Eastern finished the season with a 9-3 overall record and as co-champions of the Ohio Valley Conference. EKU participated in the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs and advanced to the quarterfinals before losing to eventual national champion Northeast Louisiana, 33-32.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., May 2—Fishing activity over the April 30-May 1 weekend was light to moderate statewide. Crappie and bass were caught with the most consistency under the mild, breezy weather conditions, but other species are becoming active as water temperatures continue to warm. The lake-by-lake report:

A Family Fish Tale

A four day fishing expedition to Georgia netted 100 bass for a Hi Hat father and son. Earnest Hall, pictured left, landed a seven pound, 2 1/2 inch largemouth bass on his first cast. Two days later his son, Ted Hall, caught a 10 1/2 pound, 23 1/2 inch bass with a stomach measurement of 19 1/2 inches.

Catch Of The Day

Pictured from left to right Dusty and Justin Stephens make the biggest catch ever. The youngsters had a little help from their grandfather, William A. Stephens and Justin's dad, Willie Stephens. The Rainbow Trout were caught at Paintsville Lake.

SOAP BEAN

'All My Children' news: Morgan stays, Tylo goes

By Marie Michaels

Debbi Morgan, who plays Angie Hubbard on "All My Children," has signed a new contract with the soap. But a reliable source has indicated that Morgan's castmate Michael Tylo (who plays Matt Connolly) will most likely be leaving in June.

Debbi Morgan

A recent addition to the "AMC" cast is Kathleen Rowe McAllen, who plays Pamela Kingsley Blackthorne. McAllen, best known to soap viewers as Bilan Marlowe on "As the World Turns," has appeared in the London production of "Les Miserables" and the feature film "Fear No Evil."

Justin Deas, who plays off-center district attorney Keith Timmons on "Santa Barbara," recently took three weeks off from the soap to tape an as-yet-untitled prime-time pilot. Because Deas was originally scheduled to be absent from "SB" for just two weeks, it was necessary to bring in actor Robin Strand to play Keith for a week while Deas finished the pilot.

Finola Hughes, who plays Anna Lavery on "General Hospital," took time off from the role to tape a pilot called "Some Kind of a Woman" for Columbia Pictures Television. Her on-screen husband, Ian Buchanan (who plays Duke Lavery), was also absent from "GH" for a couple of weeks - for a much-needed vacation. Buchanan spent the first part of his vacation in London attending his sister's wedding, the second half traveling in Scotland.

We've been told that Brian Green, the young actor who plays Alan Brand on "Days of Our Lives," will be around longer than his non-contract role was expected to run. Alan has a romantic eye on Jennifer Horton (Melissa Brennan).

If Peter Barton, who plays Scott Granger on "Santa Barbara," looks familiar, it's probably because he played roles on the nighttime series "The Powers of Matthew Star" and "Shirley." Barton, who studied to be a pharmacist, finds it interesting that he wound up playing an intern on "SB."

There was a time, however, when Barton wasn't sure about acting - he went as far as to drop out of show business entirely, and went into real estate. But he later realized that buying and selling property wasn't what he wanted to do for the rest of his life, and returned to acting.

JAKE AND THE FATMAN

On CBS's "Jake and the Fatman," airing WEDNESDAY, MAY 11, Robert Reed (l.) guest stars as a political candidate whose career is jeopardized when one of his assistants is mysteriously murdered. William Conrad stars as the Fatman.

MARQUEE

COLORS (R - Orion) Starring Robert Duvall and Sean Penn. ***

By J.T. YURKO

More than anything else, "Colors" is about hopelessness. The inner-city youths who join the gangs of Los Angeles - or any major city - are looking for a way out and find there isn't any. The gang is a substitute for a broken home, a chance for peer acceptance - or simply a fact of life. The film stars Robert Duvall and Sean Penn as Dets. Hodges and McGavin, who patrol a neighborhood the street gangs have claimed as their home turf. "Colors" is no "West Side Story," though. There are no rapturous romances, no star-crossed lovers, only the bleak graffiti-filled atmosphere of ever-present violence. The film opens with a "drive-by" in which one member of a gang is murdered by members of another gang for no apparent reason. The title refers to the colors the gangs wear as emblems. As in countless previous cop films, a seasoned veteran is teamed with a hotheaded young recruit. McGavin wants to shake up the gang world - but Hodges has seen second- and third-generation gang members, so he knows they're here to stay. When thugs throw rocks at the pair's police car, McGavin takes out a shotgun, while Hodges says, "Hey, this is my office." When they corner a drug dealer, the older cop lets him go, so the dealer will owe him one. There are no heroes here. Hodges is just a cop, no blue knight, and McGavin is always just this side of violent - one gets the impression that he feels the gang he runs with happens to be called the L.A.P.D. And there are no villains, either. The gang members are neither sadistic fiends nor innocent victims - they are casualties, of the violence, of the drugs, of themselves. Dennis Hopper's direction is noteworthy as it neither glorifies gang life nor exploits it for quick cinematic thrills. He has made a violent, gritty movie, with perhaps more curses than any film since "Scarface," but Hopper's style is decidedly unsensational.

PIKEVILLE

OLD 'BUNCO' GAME

The old saying, "Truth is sometimes stranger than fiction," has been verified in Pike county. Sometime ago the Kentucky and West Virginia Power Company secured from the land owners on Shelby Creek a right-of-way for the extension of their electric power line.

Last week a strange gentleman, presumably clothed in power came into their midst, and gathered together about fifty men to assist him in trimming trees and doing the work necessary for the completion of this electric power line, paying them from $3.75 to $5.25 per day, according to the amount of work done. One citizen, it is said, bought a new axe and sharpened it, saying, "I will show them what a day's work is," hoping to be able to make at least $10 per day.

This impostor seemed to be familiar with the way the work should be done, and no one seemed to have any apprehension as to his authority or power for hiring them. Knowing the Kentucky and West Virginia Power Company to be a big corporation, these mountain people unhesitatingly honored his checks, and cashed them for him. When lo! and behold, last Tuesday morning when these laborers went to their labors, this mysterious personage had disappeared, having taken with him several hundred dollars of money, and has never been heard of since, nor has there been any clue to his identity established. He was in no way connected with the company and had no authority whatever. He gave his name as a Mr. Hatfield, using a name familiar in the history of Kentucky and West Virginia.

MAY DIE FROM WOUND

Casey Kirk, aged 24, of Leckieville, Ky., who was struck in the head last Saturday night while returning to his home from Williamson, is still in a very serious condition at the Pikeville hospital, to which Kirk was brought Saturday night.

The way in which Kirk was injured is unknown, although examination showed that he is suffering a fracture of the skull and authorities believe that it was inflicted by some person intent on robbing Kirk. He was rushed to the hospital at Pikeville soon after he was brought to Williamson from where he was found Saturday night.

WHERE WAS HER RAZOR?

On Thanksgiving morning at the C. and O. railway crossing, near the Sunshine Hotel, a fatal shot was fired. Margaret Wood fired three shots, one proving fatal to the life of Stephen Haywood. He died instantly after being struck with the bullet. It entered his body through the stomach, presumably entering a large artery and causing instant death. Haywood had been rooming at the Sunshine Hotel, and the evening previous to the killing he accused Margaret Wood of having burned some window curtains, and she told him that unless he took back that accusation she would kill him. She claims she had loaned him some money and he had refused to pay her. She surrendered to the officers of the law and was placed in jail.—News.

LOUISA

FACTORY PRACTICALLY ASSURED

Establishment of an overalls factory in Louisa was practically assured Tuesday when a contract was signed by J. A. Auxier, promoter of the enterprise. George Kouns acted as trustee for the Louisa subscribers to the $5,000 fund. The contract stipulates that the factory shall be equipped with not less than $5,000 worth of machinery and shall employ 50 persons to start. Upon the commencement of operations the owner of the factory is to be given $5,000. And should he suspend operations within five years, the factory and $3,000 worth of additional collateral will become the property of the donors of the $5,000 fund. Approximately $4,400 of the necessary $5,000 has been subscribed. Thus, the establishment of the factory depends upon raising the remaining six hundred dollars. Mr. Auxier went to Cincinnati Wednesday to purchase equipment for the factory. He says that after operating 90 days he will be distributing a payroll of $600 a week.

WINS 5, LOSES 4

Louisa High School's victory over Pedro 46 to 0 on the gridiron here Thanksgiving ended a football season which, though not as victorious as last year's, has been successful, and is deserving of praise. Louisa played the strongest high school teams in this section of the country, winning five games and losing four. Louisa defeated Russell, Catlettsburg, Wayne, Matewan and Pedro, and lost to Ceredo-Kenova, Paintsville, South Charleston and Ashland. No schedule with stronger opposition could have been arranged in this section and for Coach Young's players to have won a majority of the games is fitting reason for Louisans to maintain unshaken faith in their school's ability to produce a winning football team. Outlook is encouraging for a victorious team next year. Five players will graduate this year, but Coach Young has been drilling a squad of 26 men and, despite the five graduations, will have a regular team intact next year.

WOMAN IS TRAIN VICTIM

Mrs. Carrie Wylie, aged 37, was killed instantly on Wednesday night of last week when struck by a west-bound freight train at the Madison street crossing near the depot here. It is presumed she attempted to beat the train and had miscalculated its rate of speed. She was hurled several feet and then dragged to about midway of the platform. Practically every bone in her body was broken, her skull fractured and a hand and foot cut off. Mr. Curtright and others took her body from under the train, and Mr. Curtright prepared it for burial. The unfortunate woman was said to be a mental deficient, and until two months ago she and her small child were inmates of the county infirmary. She was a daughter of Harve Church of near Lowmansville. Burial was made Friday. She is survived by three children, one of whom is married.

DEBATE SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

Louisa High School's debating team will meet Catlettsburg, Greenup, Prichard High of Grayson, and Holy Family of Ashland this year, according to a schedule made public this week.

The subject for debate this year will be: "Resolved, That the McNary-Haugen Farm Relief Bill Now Pending in Congress Should be Enacted Into Law."

Students who have announced their intention to try for places on Louisa team are: Miss Juanita Dixon, Wm. Crutcher, Leonard Sargent, Wm. Davis, Wm. Sparks, Hubert Prichard and Bruce Williamson. Others will announce later. Prof. Young will coach the team.—Big Sandy News.

DEC. 14 DESIGNATED AS 'NATIONAL PARK SUNDAY'

Sunday, December 4, being the day before the drive for $2,500,000 to make the Mammoth Cave area a National Park opens throughout Kentucky, has been designated as "National Park Sunday," and is being observed in that way in all parts of the state. The churches of Kentucky are co-operating in this way in bringing the cause, which will mean such great progress for the state, to the attention of the people. Ministers will tell their congregations of the project, prayers will be offered asking divine guidance, and thoughts turned to the movement in a spiritual way.

The forces of the state which will ask contributions from every man and woman in the state, are rapidly mobilizing. The mayors of Kentucky cities are issuing proclamations calling for the participation of every citizen; organizations are endorsing the effort and promising active assistance, and merchants are broadcasting the cause in their advertising, as well as preparing to join the individuals as subscribers to the fund. The week starting Monday, December 5, which will inaugurate the intensive drive, has been set aside as "National Park Week." The $2,500,000 raised through the chase of 70,618 acres in the area to be drive will be used entirely for the purpose presented to the Federal Government for perpetual maintenance and development as a National Park. When Mammoth Cave region, hundreds of this status has been created in the thousands of tourists will visit the state, and thus, it is pointed out, Kentucky will secure its share of the $3,000,000,000 American tourists are spending annually for out-of-door recreation.

Penny Tuberculosis Seals For Health

Ten million tuberculosis seals, enough to provide every person in Kentucky with five seals, are being distributed throughout the state by the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association from Louisville and its sixty-five affiliated county agencies.

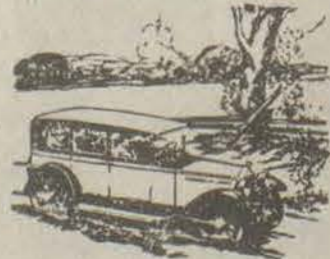

For the past twenty years these penny Christmas Seals, sold during December in every state, have been the means of helping stamp out tuberculosis and promoting good health. The success of the campaign has been due to the earnest work of thousands of citizens who give their services freely every year to help organize and conduct the seal sale in their communities and who later aid the state and county associations carry on a definite program.

In Kentucky the Christmas Seal and its sponsors have done much to promote public health. They have helped get increased appropriations for sanatoria and last year were instrumental in getting an additional appropriation to provide free beds in the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium. The field work of their nurses and a medical specialist in diagnosis who assisted in holding clinics for early discovery of tuberculosis, has resulted in greater interest in the cure and prevention of tuberculosis. The investigations made of health conditions and demonstration programs conducted by the staff workers in many counties have helped to bring about the employment of full-time health officers and public health nurses. These seals are on sale in 5 counties in the state. Yours is one of them. You are urged to call upon your seal sale chairman, Mrs. W. P. Mayo, and offer your services to help in this life saving work by purchasing and aiding in the sale of seals to others.

Our eyes are placed in front because it is more important to look forward than to look back. Cultivate foresight.

DON'T SETTLE FOR LESS THAN GENUINE GM PARTS. DON'T LOSE YOUR 6 YEAR/100,000 MILE WARRANTY.

Your GM car needs some body repair, right. You assume that genuine GM panels and parts will be used. Wrong! Don't assume! Make sure that genuine GM body parts will be used. You assume any body shop can repair your vehicle and you still have 6 year/100,000 mile rust warranty. Wrong!

An Anti-Corrosion Compound must also be applied to your replacement parts in order to maintain your 100,000 mile GM warranty. And you will also receive a written guarantee from GM. This can only be done by a GM Dealer. Repeat, do not risk losing your 6 year/100,000 mile warranty by not coming to us first!

Restauranteurs Make Memorial Contribution

(Due to an error in photos last week, the following article is being reprinted.)

Jack and Nora Absher, owners of Sam an' Tonio's restaurant, Prestonsburg, are donating $1 for every Mexican meal sold through June 4 to benefit Pediatric Services at the University of Kentucky Hospital. The donation will be made June 5 during the Children's Miracle Network Telethon broadcast on WLEX, Lexington.

The Abshers are contributing to the hospital in memory of their infant son, Michael James Absher, who died December 17. Three hours after his birth, Michael was diagnosed as having a heart defect and was transferred to the neo-natal unit at the University of Kentucky Hospital, Lexington, where he was kept until his condition stabilized.

While awaiting heart surgery, Michael became ill with a viral infection, RSV, and was admitted to Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago, Illinois. He was flown back to the University of Kentucky, Friday, November 27, where it was determined that an operation could not be performed.

Having exhausted every medical procedure and with death impending, Jack and Nora Absher discontinued all treatment except for the respirator. For the first time in three weeks they were able to hold their infant son. The Absher's held their son for nine hours, talking, singing, laughing and crying. He died in their arms December 17 at 4:42 a.m.

Jack and Nora Absher and their surviving sons, John George, J.T., and Robert, urge all parents, grandparents and others to donate to this worthy cause. Donations may be left at Sam an' Tonio's to be contributed to the Children's Miracle Network Telethon.

"LEADERSHIP YOU CAN BE PROUD OF"

- Kentucky's Outstanding Senator, 1980
- Winner, John D. Rockefeller Public Service Award
- Chairman, Senate Health and Welfare Committee
- Alumnus of the Year, Indiana State University
- Chairman, Senate Budget Sub-Committee on Human Resources
- Ohio University Medal of Merit
- Member, Senate Appropriations and Revenue Committee
- Member, Board of Directors, Kentucky River and Big Sandy ADD
- Member, Senate Committee on Counties and Special Districts

Benny Ray Bailey has represented Kentucky's 29th Senatorial District since 1980 and all of us can see the results of his work for our area. Benny Ray's understanding of the complex process of state government has earned him the respect of both his colleagues in Frankfort and the people of his district.

Benny Ray was floor manager of severance tax legislation that has seen more severance tax money returned to East Kentucky than ever before in history, his leadership has brought more state monies for school construction to his District than any other Senate District in Kentucky, school children at both Hazard and Prestonsburg Community College will have new learning resource buildings this fall thanks to Benny Ray's leadership, Benny Ray managed legislation in the Senate that sets standards of quality for treatment of our elderly in nursing homes, his budget language guarantees people the right to work without penalty to their educational and scholarship benefits, his work on the Budget Committee resulted in millions more state dollars for educational grants to our young people and, Benny Ray's legislation will place the elimination of the "broad form deed" on the ballot for your vote this November.

The legislative process is a complex one. We need to be sure that our state senator understands the process and that our state senator works to make the system work for us. All of us can be proud of our state senator and the work he has done. That's why we need to keep Benny Ray Bailey working for us. Vote for Benny Ray Bailey for state senator. It's a vote for you.

LILY PAD SERENADE

Puerto Rico's coqui frog is less than two inches long but has a call that can reach 108 decibels. That's louder than a low-flying jet or subway train. According to National Wildlife magazine, the small brown frog is the most abundant native vertebrate in Puerto Rico—not to mention the loudest. Its song is the island's unofficial national anthem. The frog's likeness beams from countless billboards, posters and T-shirts. Tourists can even take home recordings of the coqui's call.

The "bour" in neighbour comes from the Dutch "boer" meaning a farmer. The "neigh" part means "near".

To Observe Kentucky Nursing Home Week

Kentucky nursing homes, which employ more than 20,000 health care workers and provide care for 30,000 patients, will join May 8-14, to celebrate Kentucky Nursing Home Week (KNHW).

The Kentucky Association of Health Care Facilities (KAHCF) sponsors KNHW. KAHCF is the trade organization that represents 236 licensed proprietary and nonproprietary nursing home facilities in the Commonwealth.

Mattie Brame, an 84-year-old resident of Sebree, will serve as chairman of KNHW. Brame was the recipient of KAHCF's 1987 "Retired Volunteer of the Year" award for her 4,000 hours of volunteer work at Colonial Terrace Nursing Home in Sebree.

"Unless you're a volunteer, you just don't realize how special it is to the residents to have fresh new faces to talk to," Brame said. "I don't help others for the recognition. Reward is the satisfaction I get out of doing something for someone else who needs it."

Nursing homes will be coordinating local activities throughout the state in celebration of the 1988 KNHW theme, "Always Caring Always Sharing."

"Kentucky Nursing Home Week is a very special time of the year," said KAHCF President Mary Ousley. "We hope that the community, public officials and local media will pay particular attention to the issues and events affecting local nursing homes during this week."

Spelling Bee Winner, Runnerup

JOBS

In the past two months I have traveled throughout Knott, Floyd, and Letcher counties. I have talked with and listened to hundreds of people to find out their main areas of concern in these trying times. Education is of great concern, high compensation rates, high insurance rates, environment, roads, over inflated weight distance tax, broad form deed and unmined mineral tax.

These issues are also of great concern to me, but the one area of greater concern that I have heard the most often and the loudest is we need JOBS, JOBS, JOBS.

I have lived in Eastern Kentucky all my life and I have never seen the job situation any worse than it is now.

We must diversify our economy, we can not wait any longer. We can no longer depend on the coal industry for our total existence.

Your State Representative for Knott, Floyd and Letcher counties must convince other legislators to support a job development program in Eastern Kentucky. Jim Rose has already proved he can work with other legislators to get the job done; and he'll work hard to get a job development program for Eastern Kentucky that will improve the job situation for ALL eastern Kentuckians.

K.F.T.C. To Host Candidates' Forum

The Knott County Kentuckians For The Commonwealth (KFTC) Chapter is hosting a candidates' forum on May 6 to allow the public to question the candidates running for state representative in the 92nd District. This district covers Knott and parts of Floyd and Letcher counties.

A panel will ask the candidates questions in the areas of roads, coal, the state budget, the environment, and education, with each candidate allowed specific time to answer. Following questions from the panel, the audience will have time to ask questions of the candidates.

The forum begins at 6 p.m. at the Human Services Center in Hindman, Friday, May 6. The public is encouraged to attend.

For more information contact Jay Conley, 358-9704.

Moore Family Reunion

Family members and friends are invited to attend the Harry Lee Moore family reunion on July 2, at the Garrett grade school cafeteria. Participants are asked to bring a covered dish and soft drinks. For more information, contact Arnold Moore, 886-9435.

DAV Adjutant

A Vietnam veteran has been named National Adjutant of the one-million-member Disabled American Veterans (DAV).

Charles E. (Butch) Joeckel, Jr., 40, will assume the DAV's highest professional staff position, May 1. He succeeds Denver D. Adams, who announced his retirement following a 43-year career, of which 25 were spent as National Adjutant.

Joeckel will direct the day-to-day operations of the DAV in his new position. He joined the DAV's professional staff in 1974 as a National Service Officer assigned to the DAV's Washington Regional Office. Two years later, he was promoted to the organization's National Legislative Staff. He was named Deputy National Legislative Director in 1977, National Director of Services in 1983 and Executive Director of the DAV's Washington Headquarters in 1985.

He enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps in 1966. In 1968, the Marine Corps corporal was leading a squad on a river patrol north of DaNang when they came under Viet Cong attack. During a beach assault, Joeckel lost both legs to a land mine explosion. His Vietnam service earned him the Silver Star, the Bronze Star with Combat "V" and the Purple Heart.

Past honors include designation as Maryland Veteran of the Year. The Colmar Manor, Md. native is a life member and past adjutant of Omaha Beach DAV Chapter Number 7, Bowie, Maryland.

JAMES MADISON, born on March 16, 1751 (March 5 old style) in Port Conway, Virginia, was a leading delegate to the Constitutional Convention and wrote the day-by-day record of the delegates' debates. His Virginia Plan produced the basic framework and guidelines for the Constitution. He became known as the "Father of the Constitution" and became this country's fourth president under this new government. The John Graham Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution honors these men who had the foresight and wisdom to create such a document.

"America is an asylum on earth for civil and religious liberty."
Samuel Adams

This Is My MOM

You can make your Mom happy on Mother's Day, too. Our family of drug stores has one of the finest fragrance selections anywhere.

Choose an old favorite like Chloe, Royal Secret, Obsession, Ombre Rose, Krystle. Or something new from Ralph Lauren, Estee Lauder, Calvin Klein, Gloria Vanderbilt, Halston.

From innocent floral to alluring exotic, we have it.

And what would Mother's Day be without a card? Select one that tells Mom exactly how you feel—just the way you would say it. Maybe even better.

This Sunday is Mother's Day. Let Mom use her eyes, her nose, and her mouth. All you have to use is your heart.
