Bonanza School Closing Elicits Parent Protest

By Tim Sizemore

"Save our school," was the sentiment behind a protest held last Thursday at Bonanza Elementary by parents in an attempt to change the school board's decision to close the two-room school.

"Kids learn better in a small school and the teacher can take more time with individual students," said Helen Williams, a concerned parent who wishes the school to remain open.

Another resident, Ann Stone, said that overcrowding is a major concern of parents. "The bus is overcrowded," she commented, "and some of the kids are standing. Some days there are 90 on the bus."

"Why send them to schools that are already overcrowded? It just doesn't make sense," she continued.

The closing of the elementary school was called for by Superintendent Ray Brackett at this month's school board meeting, after the state recommended the action. Brackett pointed out that the cost of two teachers, a janitor and cook was cost prohibitive because of the school's low attendance of 14 pupils this year.

Acid Spill Forces KY 114 Water Shutdown

By Joe Porter

The state Environmental Protection Agency issued a water consumption advisory Tuesday when a water line break occurred near Clark Elementary school. The break caused a loss of water pressure and hydrochloric acid from Dowell Schlumberger, Inc. was siphoned into the water line.

Van Denton, a spokesperson for the agency, said that the break happened at 10:25 a.m. and that the advisory went out to all residents living in the area west of Clark Elementary School along and in the vicinity of 114. "People are advised not to use water for personal consumption or contact," she said. "No drinking, cooking, or bathing with it."

Denton said she had no report of anyone being injured by the contaminated water. A crew with the Prestonsburg City's Utilities was called out to repair the line, but she did not know when it would be completed. One hundred fifty connections are affected by the contamination. Once the line is repaired and water pressure restored, the system will be flushed out as will each home system.

When the company first discovered the loss of hydrochloric acid from one of its tanks it immediately notified the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Denton said the company was using an illegal cross connection which allowed the acid to escape into the water system.

The hydrochloric acid solution made by the company is used for oil recovery.

$8.1 Million Is Approved For U.S. 23 Four-Laning

By Paul N. Allen

The 13-mile stretch of U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville came one step closer last Thursday to losing its dubious distinction as the "missing link."

It was then that the House Committee on Appropriations approved $8.1 million to continue four-laning along the heavily-traveled and mostly two-lane section of the route, according to a news release from the office of Congressman Carl C. Perkins.

The total federal share of the appropriation would be $50 million with the Commonwealth of Kentucky providing at least a 20 percent match for the work which is one of only 21 special highway projects in the nation.

"We had three major battles to overcome last year to start funding on this road," Congressman Perkins pointed out. "Two were in the House and one was in the Senate. Two Republican amendments were offered on the floor of the House which would have eliminated the funding for this portion of U.S. 23. Both amendments were defeated."

"Then the Senate Appropriations Committee deleted the funding from the bill stating that they rarely include demonstration projects of this type on their appropriations bills," he continued. "Through some investigation we discovered that this was not the case at all, and that the bill actually contained some Senate-originated demonstration projects."

Perkins said Senator Wendell Ford supported the project "wholeheartedly" and with Ford's cooperation the two were able to assure that the funding was put back into the bill.

The section of road in question has been referred to as the "missing link" since it is the only part of U.S. 23 from Ashland to Pikeville that is not four-laned.

Announcement of the appropriation came as good news to the Big Sandy Area Development District (BSADD) which has spearheaded a local faction to join with representatives from North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and Ohio to carry out a multi-state effort to affect completion of the important north-south artery. Resolutions from BSADD and similar organizations in neighboring states have underscored the vital impor-

THE BONANZA SCHOOL, one of the few remaining, two-room, country schools in the county, has closed. While some residents of the Abbott Creek community responded with protest, most others viewed the little school's passing with nostalgic sadness. (See accompanying story.)

Two Arrested On Pot Charges

In separate raids Friday, two men were charged with possession of marijuana and lodged in the Floyd county jail.

Doug Sexton, 30, was charged with possession of marijuana, pills, scales and other drug-related paraphernalia, after sheriff's deputies raided his Stephens Branch home. A live pot plant was growing in a lard bucket in the home, and when Sheriff Henry C. Hale attempted to seize it, Sexton's young daughter began to cry, telling the sheriff it was her "flower." After the sheriff explained to the child that the plant did not bear good flowers, he asked her casually if there were any more "flower" patches near the home. The child responded enthusiastically with a "yes" and led deputies to two separate marijuana patches, which she claimed she watered everyday.

In an earlier raid at Rough and Tough, on the Left Fork of Middle Creek, Irvin Shepherd, Jr., 34, was charged with possession of marijuana after deputies raided his home and confiscated eight ounces of pot, drug paraphernalia and $800 in cash. Shepherd has been charged with possession of marijuana.

The raids were conducted by Sheriff Henry C. Hale and Deputies Antony Castle, Rick Thornberry, Harold Johnson and Ballard Mosley.

After July 15 two counts of possession of marijuana will constitute a felony under a law recently passed by the general assembly, the sheriff's department pointed out.

Rapid Transit Potential Seen By Rep. Stumbo

An idea which State Representative Greg Stumbo admits may seem to some people like "the dumbest thing they ever heard of," may not be far-fetched after all.

Simply stated, Stumbo proposes building an elevated train system which would travel 200 mph and link rural areas to metropolitan centers, and thus help alleviate Eastern Kentucky's chronic high unemployment. As Stumbo sees it, such a high speed train could allow residents of eastern counties to travel on a daily basis to work in Lexington while Western Kentuckians from rural counties could commute to Louisville in a similar fashion.

The idea was said to have occurred to the House majority leader while riding the monorail at Disney World with his two children. "It sort of struck me," Stumbo was reported to have said in a Lexington Herald-Leader article, last Tuesday, "if they can do it in Disney World for two miles, heck, you could do it here for 200 miles."

Although such systems are already in use in Japan, France and Germany, the cost of such a project may be prohibitive, according to Bob Banks, a transportation engineer in Washington who specializes in high-speed rail systems. Explaining that such rapid transit systems cost about $5 million a mile to build, Banks said, "It's not inconceivable, but Kentucky is not necessarily the hottest economic environment."

"If somebody struck oil here, well, maybe."

Some, including Percy Elkins, executive director of the Kentucky River Area Development District in Hazard sees promise in the scheme. "If we don't (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

Glenda Pennington Freed After State Reduces Charge

By Tim Sizemore

After a nine-month stay in the Floyd county jail, Glenda Sue Pennington, 37, of Melvin, is free following a decision on the part of the Commonwealth Attorney's office to reduce a charge of conspiracy to assist her husband, Wiley Keith Pennington, in an escape attempt, to promoting contraband.

Assistant Commonwealth Attorney Danny Caudill said Mrs. Pennington's charge had been reduced primarily because she had already served enough time to be eligible for parole even if she had been convicted.

Caudill said she had pleaded guilty to promoting contraband, which is a Class D felony, and Circuit Judge Hollie Conley had given her a two-year sentence. "Upon the recommendation of the Commonwealth, Pennington was given credit for time served and the remainder of her term was probated," Caudill explained and added that he believed it was an appropriate sentence.

Mrs. Pennington was arrested September 28 of last year at the Floyd county jail, after law enforcement officials learned from an informant that she would either attempt to give her husband a handgun or force the jailer to free him. Three plain clothes state police officers arrested her in the jailer's office and a search revealed she was carrying a two-shot .32-caliber derringer, six extra .32 shells, three 12-gauge shotgun shells and a single blade knife.

Pennington was originally charged with possession of a concealed deadly weapon and promoting contraband.

Jail Search Foils Escape Attempt

By Tim Sizemore

An attempted jailbreak was thwarted Thursday night after state, county and city police conducted a search of the Floyd county jail, discovering in the process, several hidden hacksaw blade pieces and work which had been in progress on cell bars.

Floyd County Jailer Lawrence Hale said six pieces of hacksaw blades were discovered in a prisoner's mattress during a routine shakedown. Hale could only speculate how the prisoners obtained the blades and said they may have been concealed in a letter or book. The jailer said that work has been initiated to repair the bars.

No charges have been filed at this time but jail officials are continuing the investigation.

Senate Bill May Allow Liquor by Drink in City

By Joe Porter

Prestonsburg and other fourth class cities will be allowed to issue liquor by the drink licenses to proprietors within their limits when Senate Bill No. 273 takes effect, July 15. The bill was passed this year by the state General Assembly.

Sponsored by Danny Myer from Louisville, the bill came out of the Senate Cities Committee and passed by an 18 to 16 vote. "They're tough bills to get through," said Senator Benny Ray Bailey, who voted for it. "There is always opposition to liquor bills, but I didn't get a single phone call against the bill." It went on to the House of Representatives and passed there, 59 to 28.

Bailey said he voted for the legislation in order to give cities like Prestonsburg the prerogative. "It's now entirely up to the City Council of Prestonsburg to enact it," he said. "I've consistently voted for local government control."

The law, which affects only fourth class cities, would go into effect once the city council passed a regulatory ordinance. Then proprietors would apply for a license through the city's ABC administrator, City Attorney Larry Brown.

The law stipulates which businesses are eligible: "Licenses shall only be issued to hotels, motels or inns containing not less than 50 sleeping units and having dining facilities for not less than one hundred persons or bona fide restaurants open to the general public having dining facilities for not less than one hundred persons."

The bill's purpose is to foster economic development. Bailey calls Prestonsburg the "center of eastern Kentucky," and he foresees with the building of new highways, "enormous potential for growth." He said that studies have shown that the sale of alcoholic beverages has a positive affect on economic growth.

Presently, Bill 273 will have no impact since the only city establishment that meets the requirements is Jerry's Restaurant on north U.S. 23, but that business has a company policy of not selling alcoholic beverages regardless of whether permitted or not.

One business that could benefit in the future is the Holiday Inn located on U.S. 23. "We feel it would contribute to the economic development of eastern Kentucky and go along with other programs of economic development here," said H.D. Fitzpatrick Jr., one of the owners of the business. "It passed, because we promoted it. It's only an option. We're not trying to force any other fourth class city to adopt it. It's not necessarily what I want or what you want, but it's the consensus of knowledgeable people that it would improve the climate for economic development."

The Holiday Inn is currently negotiating with the city as to the possibility of being incorporated by Prestonsburg, Fitzpatrick said.

Fire Dept. Offering College Credit Fire-fighting Course

By Joe Porter

The Prestonsburg Fire Department will offer a two-day college credit firefighting course to its men starting June 27. The class, called "Attacking the Dragon," will use technical material and information never before taught in eastern Kentucky.

The educational program was developed and is sold by Colorado State University. The cost to the city of $800 includes video films as well as teacher and student workbooks. "It's a self-contained unit of instruction. The whole nine yards," said Fire Chief Thomas A. Blackburn. "It's so different from anything we've had before. We'll be giving them the latest knowledge of firefighting techniques available."

The class will amount to 15 hours of intensive learning with the six modules in the course to be taught by Blackburn, Majors Larry Adams and Paul Burke, Captain Mike Wells, and Sergeant Tom Hereford. The first three modules in-

The bridegroom's parents are John H. and Betty Jean Knapp, of Middletown, Ohio.

The church was decorated with pots of white mums and ferns, and white candelabra with white bows. Pew candles with small hurricane globes lined the center aisle, and large white bows accented with fern leaves and ivy marked the pews.

Music was provided by friends from Mount Vernon Nazarene College, W. Va. During the ceremony, the bride and groom sang to each other, and Rev. Pusey sang a prayer to the couple at the close of the ceremony.

The bride, escorted down the aisle by her father, wore a white satin gown featuring a sweetheart neckline, deep basque waist, and a sweeping chapel-length train was adorned with white satin roses, venise lace, and a scalloped edge. The sleeves were fashioned in ball gown style with hand sewn pearls, satin roses, and venise lace which flowed onto the bodice with more strands of pearls and sequins. Her headband of roses and sprays of pearls dipped to a V in the center of the forehead and held in place a two-tired fingertip illusion with a small pouf. Her crescent bouquet was of white roses, orchids, carnations, and stephanotis framed in Ivy.

They also wore strands of pearls which were gifts from the bride. They carried arm bouquets of long-stemmed yellow roses accented with baby's breath and yellow bows, and they wore baby's breath in their hair.

The four-tiered wedding cake made and cut by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Pat Damron, was served by Mrs. Vickie Adams and Mrs. Carla Enderle, both cousins of the bride. Other servers at the reception included Mrs. Sandy Risner, and Mrs. Daisy Risner, both aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Debbie Keyes, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Debbie Wyatt and Mrs. Cindy Pusey were coordinators, and Tammy Thomas was in charge of the guest book. Out-of-state guests attended from Kentucky, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Kansas.

Appeals Process Offers Assurance Of Fairness

Every year in late May or early June, property owners can expect to see a public notice in local newspapers setting the dates for a public inspection period in the Property Valuation Administrator's (PVA's) office.

This notice, required by state law, is part of a process designed to assure property owners that the assessments made on their property are fair and accurate.

The inspection period is to last 12 days, including two Saturdays, and normally should start on the fourth Monday of May. However, in some counties this period may be delayed if the state has not yet certified the assessments. (One should call their county's PVA office to find out the exact dates of the inspection period.)

Whenever the period is held, the PVA is required to offer prior notice to the public, usually done through an advertisement in the classified ad section of the major newspaper in the county.

In entering the PVA's office, one will find the tax records in one or more large bound books, or "rolls" as they are usually called. Information on every property owner in the county, listed in alphabetical order, should be included on the rolls. This information should include the owner's name and address, a description of the property owned (usually just a listing of the type of property owned or the number of acres of land), and an assessed value for each type of property.

In listing various types and descriptions of property, a number of codes are generally used, particularly if the county tax rolls are set up on a computerized system. If this is the case, one should ask their PVA for a "code sheet" in order to understand the abbreviations and symbols.

The types of property that will be listed include real (surface land, houses, etc.), mineral, tangible and intangible, as well as some information on the use of the property such as residential, commercial or agricultural, and possibly other information such as how much of the surface acreage is subject to a fire protection tax.

State law requires that all property be listed, or assessed, at "fair cash value" or "fair market value." This is the amount that the property is expected to bring if sold on the open market with neither the buyer or seller compelled to enter into the transaction due to force or duress. Usually the PVA will base his or her assessment on the most recent sale price, with updates made periodically based on information on comparable pieces of property.

In examining the tax rolls, a property owner will be mostly interested in knowing if his or her property is assessed at its fair cash value. If one feels that their assessment is too high, and that therefore they are paying too much in property taxes, then the assessment may be appealed according to the process described below.

In other instances, a property owner may want to know how his or her assessments compare with those for neighboring tracts of property. If one's own property is assessed at fair cash value but others in the county are set at below their value, this would mean that the property owner with the proper assessment is paying a disproportionately high share of local property taxes.

In checking to see how one's property assessment compares with those for others, one may consider tracts of property of which they are not sure who the owner is. In such cases, one should ask the PVA for assistance since most counties have plot maps identifying owners for each parcel of property.

If a property owner feels that the assessments on his or her property are too high (above their fair cash value), an appeal may be filed with the county Board of Assessment Appeals.

The appeal must be filed within the 12-day inspection period.

Each county board is made up of three property owners in the county appointed by the county judge-executive. The board will meet after the close of the inspection period to consider all appeals. At that time it may make a decision on the appeal and lower one's assessment. However, the Board often uses this first meeting to simply set hearing dates in order to let all interested parties be present to offer evidence.

Assessment appeals must be made in writing and addressed to the county court clerk. One should state their name and address, and identify themselves as a property owner in the county. This should be followed by a statement of the complaint with the offering of some evidence as to why the writer feels the complaint is justified. Such evidence may include the actual sales price of the property or comparable property as well as a comparison with the assessments of similar property.

The county Board will usually act quickly in holding a hearing on the appeal and making a decision. If any parts involved is not satisfied with this decision, the case may be appealed to the State Board of Tax Appeals, which is composed of three individuals appointed by the governor. It is sometimes necessary to make appeals to the state level in order to overcome local influences.

Manic Depression Targeted On KET

Award-winning actress Patty Duke hosts Four Lives: Portraits of Manic Depression, a one-hour documentary which focuses on the lives of four people who have been affected by manic depression. This compassionate portrait airs Thursday, June 30 at 8 p.m. on KET.

Patty Duke was diagnosed in her 30s as a manic depressive. This disorder instantly can produce dramatic mood changes of an individual. Through the use of lithium and psychotherapy, Patty Duke's rehabilitation began.

Four Lives: Portraits of Manic Depression is based on the lives of four Dallas-Fort Worth residents. All are being tested by two neuro-psychiatrists at the Baylor University Medical Center. The film portrays the illness of manic depression from the perspectives of the psychiatrists, the patients, and the patients' families.

Four Lives shows vividly how this mood disorder affects not only the patients, but their families as well. Patients are seen at home, at work, at meetings of local support groups, and in therapy with their psychiatrists.

The film reveals the progress as well as setbacks of the patients during their course of treatment, and the financial and emotional strains placed on each family.

Ten Years Ago

(June 14, 1978)

Although the employment of teachers and other personnel was the major work of the Floyd County Board of Education at its meeting last Thursday, the matter of getting into classwork and back out again, with the possibility of another horrendous winter considered, also engaged its attention. The Floyd County Board of Education's announced belt-tightening policy to cut expenses and work toward a balanced budget has resulted in the elimination of about 25 payroll salaries, it said following last week's board meeting. Jack Music, detective with the Paintsville Police Department, said this week there is not a "solid" lead to the identity of the person or persons who kidnapped and later killed James Leonard Wells, 27, night clerk at the Heart O' Highlands Motel, Paintsville. And the investigation of the murder of Burton Conn, 47, watchman at the Triple Elkhorn Mining Company mine, between Allen and Martin, April 30, is in the same unsettled stage. Circuit Judge Hollie Conley said Monday that he expects to enter an order directing that the trial of Ralph Anderson, charged with murder in the slaying of Mack Lewis at Ivel last January, be shifted from his court to another county. There died: Jobie Chick, 68, of Martin, Sunday DOA at Our Lady of the Way Hospital; June Irene Fick, 17, of Wheelwright, June 6 at UK Medical Center; William (Bill) Trimble, 56, of Rt. 1, Pike county, Friday at his home; John Allen, 72, of Ashland, formerly of Prestonsburg, Sunday in Veterans Hospital in Huntington, W. Va.; Malcolm Johnson, 49, of Blue River, Tuesday at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Sherman Stumbo, 67, of Martin, Sunday at Our Lady of the Way Hospital; Walter A. Reynolds, 69, formerly of Prestonsburg, Thursday in Louisa; Charles W. Rorrer, 71 of Lancer, last Wednesday at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Mrs. Margaret Conry, 82, formerly of Floyd Co., May 27 at St. John's Mercy Hospital, St. Louis; Mrs. Pearl Shepherd, 60, of Gunlock, at home; William (Bill) Bowling, 69, of Cowpen Creek near Pikeville, Wednesday, May 31, at home; Mrs. Gladys R. Pahon, 67, of Lackey, Sunday, at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Twenty Years Ago

(June 13, 1968)

June 1 marked the seventh anniversary of Floyd county's food stamp program for low-income families. The Upper Cow Creek one-room school was closed, permanently, with the last day of school last week, victim of the current trend toward consolidation. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mullins on old KY 114 near here was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin early Sunday morning. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Burchett, Jr., of St. Albans, W. Va., a son, Richard Sturgill Burchett, May 29; to Mr. and Mrs. Wayne C. Griffith, of David, a daughter May 30; to Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Ison, of Martin, a son, June 1; to Mr. and Mrs. Clinton G. Damron, of Orkney, a daughter, June 2; to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hall, of Topmost, a son, June 2; to Mr. and Mrs. R. L. North, of Lackey, a son, June 2. There died: Hobart Lafferty, 44, of Ashland, formerly of Langley, drowned recently in the Little Fork of the Little Sandy River in Elliott county; Harges Wallen, 72, of West Prestonsburg, Saturday at the Prestonsburg General Hospital; Mrs. Mary Meadows, 57, of Lancer, last Thursday at Mountain Manor Nursing Home, here; Everett Kendrick, 78, of Lancer, last Thursday at the Mountain Manor Nursing Home here; Kenneth H. Brewer, 48, formerly of Floyd county, last Tuesday at Ypsilanti, Mich.; Sam Bayes, 80, last Thursday at his home on Abbott Creek; Andy J. Mitchell, 76, of Grethel, Friday at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville; N. O. (Tavis) Allen, 94, of Martin, last Thursday at the Prestonsburg General Hospital; Charley Layne, 79, June 1 at his home at Honaker; Floyd Stephens, 87, of Allen, May 31 at Mountain Manor Nursing Home; Mrs. Nancy Collins, 74, of Garrett, May 31 at the McDowell Appalachian Hospital; Mrs. Eva Roberts, 60, formerly of Floyd county, May 28 at Greenfield, Ind.; Eugene Price, 51, formerly of Floyd county, May 31 at Athens, Ohio.

Thirty Years Ago

(June 12, 1958)

The House Appropriations Committee called Monday for the earmarking of $140,000 to start advanced engineering on the Fishtrap reservoir, bringing to two the number of impoundments in process of planning to prevent Big Sandy floods. Nineteen persons have been convicted in quarterly court since June 3, records of the court disclose. The so-called Pocahontas railway lines—the C. & O., N. & W. and the Virginian and Clinchfield—have filed notice of plans to reduce their freight rates on fine coal into the Carolinas by 35 cents a ton. A statistical study of the records of the Agricultural Stabilization committee show that 403 Floyd county farmers earned a total of $38,480.02 last year in carrying out accepted practices, according to Elder Goble, office manager. The fourth recipient of the Reatherford-Salyers Award, which is given annually to the outstanding Prestonsburg high school senior athlete, is Paul Phillip Hughes. Married: Miss Dorothy Herald, and Billy Ray Thompson, June 6 at the Methodist Church here. There died: Bascom May, 90, Friday at his home here; Bood Poe, 75, last Thursday at his home at West Prestonsburg; Malcolm Vanderpool, 52, Tues. at his home at Hueysville; Mrs. L. L. Meade, 82, June 6 at her home at Sitka; Sam Carver, 46, of Martin, last Wednesday at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Martin; Wiley Wadkins, 75, of Blue River, Sunday at the Paintsville Hospital; Mrs. Doris Jean Hall Blevins, 28, of Betsy Layne, Monday at Ashland.

Forty Years Ago

(June 17, 1948)

The store of Raymond Turner at Drift was looted, early last Friday morning, of merchandise the value of which may run as high as $5,000. The Dewey reservoir project was allotted $2,071,000 total appropriation for Kentucky flood control and navigation work given final Congressional approval Monday. Top priority among Floyd roads has been given the Prestonsburg-Salyersville highway and the route from a point near David via Brush Creek to Northern on Route 80. The machinery of trial courts in judicial districts over this section ground to a full stop Wednesday as uncertainty prevailed over the legality of old and new statutes as to boundary lines and court terms. Negotiations toward a new coal contract broke down Tuesday with the walk-out of coal mine operators who complained that the parley was accomplishing nothing. Milray Damron, 24-year-old Harold war veteran, died last Saturday, 30 minutes after he was struck by an automobile when the bicycle he was riding suddenly swerved onto the highway. The Black Cats of Prestonsburg high school last Thursday night won at Parkway Field, Louisville, the high school baseball championship of Kentucky. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Webb, a son, Richard Spurr Webb, IV, June 12 at the Prestonsburg General Hospital. Married: Regua Kincer, of Floyd county, to Charles C. Spears, of Pikeville, June 15 at the Methodist Church here; Miss Estelene Webb, of East Point, and James Eugene Martin, of Wayland, June 14; Miss Margaret Douglas Spurlock and Adrian Blackburn, both of Prestonsburg, June 11. There died: Carl Crisp, 25, of Martin, at his father's home near Martin, June 15; Mrs. Molly Spradlin Burgess, 70, of Cliff, Sunday at her home.

Fifty Years Ago

(June 16, 1938)

A verdict of murder and suicide was written by a coroner's jury in a Cow Creek home at midnight Monday where a 47-year-old woman was shot to death by her 50-year-old husband who then fired a bullet into his own brain. Two Floyd county men were jailed at Inez Saturday and Mark Maynard, a 65-year-old Martin county farmer, was near death as a result of one of the two accused men firing his pistol from a speeding automobile "just for fun". Meeting here last Thursday, the Floyd fiscal court ordered the rental of road construction machinery, with options to buy, for use on the proposed Johns Creek road. Governor A. B. Chandler is scheduled for a speech, June 18, before an expected 5,000 persons as one of the highlights of the American Legion's 10th district convention here Saturday and Sunday. John Warrix, salesman for the Howard Motor Company, local Ford dealer, won first prize for June Ford sales in the Cincinnati area. Superstitions, firmly believed by many Floyd county farmers, are among the greatest hindrances to progressive agriculture found in seven years of work in this section, County Agent S. L. Isbell said this week. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Stephens, a daughter, Lydia Morgan, at a Paintsville hospital. Married: Maxine Fraley Walters to Belford Reitz, both of Drift, at Paintsville, Saturday. There died: Mrs. Anna Hatfield, 29, of Estill, at the Stumbo Memorial Hospital, Saturday; Minnie Terry, 13, of Wayland, in the Stumbo Memorial Hospital, Sunday; James Payne, 16, of Hueysville, Monday, at the Stumbo Memorial Hospital; Ebb Waddles, 77, at his home on Middle Creek, Tuesday; Daniel Prater, 64, Sunday, at the home of his daughter at Maytown.

Bits & Pieces

NOT RECOMMENDED

Mule back is not a mode of transportation you hear much about, but the longest trip I ever took was on a razor-backed mule. It was a distance of only about two miles, maybe just one, at any rate, not very far. But relatively speaking, not very far was quite a distance. I think I sort of dimly got a glimmer then of what Einstein had in mind.

The mule is not a means of transport to be undertaken lightly. In fact, I would say 95% of the time, it is undertaken only in desperation or because of blatant stupidity. I plead the latter, but then, I was young and just about as stubborn as my mount. The mule constitutes a slow, steady, often torturous way to get from point A to point B. Most mules are worked hard, and they're tired. There's no kicking up of the heels; no bucking; no rearing up unexpectedly—just a steady, dragging pace.

Somehow, on a horse, I feel I'm suspended at least 50 feet up in the air—and precariously so. In addition, I have the feeling that of the two of us, the horse is the more intelligent, and worse still, the horse seems to feel that I'm right. It's not only discouraging, it's downright scary. I know this is not calculated to raise my stock with the horsey set, but so be it.

On the other hand, on a mule, I feel perfectly safe—miserable, but secure. But to see a mule transformed, just head him toward home. The mule is suddenly invigorated; the pace is increased amazingly; the animal approaches being frisky. Even his drooping ears come to attention. Mules will never rival the sleek, long-legged beauties of racing fame, but they are useful and thinking animals. They know when they're going away from home, and riding is no more pleasure for them than for their rider. On the other hand, they know the return trip means rest, freedom, and food.

Somehow, I must admit, from childhood on, I've always had a wonderful rapport with the mule. For instance, when I go on vacation, I'm in no hurry to get to wherever. I love the byways; abhor the four-lanes; stop at every Howard Johnson's for ice cream; at every Stuckey's, whatever. Why rush to relax?

But the return trip is a different story. For some reason, I want to be home instantly. I can't even stop to buy those peaches I vowed I would on the way down; the antique shops don't tempt me anymore. It's over. I just want to be home now, this minute, instantly.

Comments On S.A.D.D.

My name is Tim Lawson. I am a member of the McDowell High School S.A.D.D. chapter. I recently attended the HOBY-Kentucky State Leadership Seminar in Lexington, Kentucky. It raised some questions in my mind about the S.A.D.D. chapters of McDowell and Wheelwright High School. One was, "What will happen when the schools are consolidated and the S.A.D.D. chapters are combined?"

I know that M.H.S. is small enough to allow the S.A.D.D. committee members to talk to freshmen about S.A.D.D. membership. But, the consolidated high school will have many more freshmen than now at M.H.S. or at W.H.S.

We can't allow our chapters to suffer, which is one reason that I am suggesting that the S.A.D.D. members in each high school talk to junior high school students about starting junior high S.A.D.D. chapters to get them interested and involved before senior high school.

We've got a good thing going...let's not spoil it.

Seeks Family Information

I am researching my family genealogy. My father's family, Stamper, is somewhat of a mystery.

Thanks to you, I've learned more—just enough to what my appetite, so to speak.

My grandfather was B.F. (Frank) Stamper. Originally from Carter County, he settled in the Prestonsburg/Beaver Creek area and was a member of the Freeville Baptist Church. He was married three times; to (1) Mary Frances Frazier; (2) Bertha Smith; and (3) Sarah Prater, and fathered 26 children. Some of those children (or their children) may still be living in the Prestonsburg area.

Any information you or your readers can provide me with regarding my family's background or history will be greatly appreciated. Please write me at: 19344 Wyandotte Street, Apartment No. 211, Reseda, Ca. 91335.

Again, thank you for all of your help!

clude fire attack, scene management, and fire ground ventilation. "Those will set up the last three modules," Blackburn said. Residential fire attack, commercial fire attack, and above ground fire attack are the last three and will be covered in the second day.

One good reason that Blackburn is excited about the course is that, after reviewing the program when it first came in, the department has successfully tried and seen that these new techniques work. For example, the force now uses the concept of positive pressure of ventilation. Instead of the old method of sucking or pulling smoke out of a burning building, they now ventilate by pushing air with fans into a building, thus creating air pressure that can control the smoke. "We used it when smoke filled the Sundry Store and also in the fire in West Prestonsburg. And it works," Blackburn said. "It's so much easier. You save time, and it reduces your fire loss."

Every paid man on the force will take the course as well as some of the volunteers. To earn the two college credits, however, the student must have a high school diploma and achieve a high test score. The fire chief expects about 14 men will take it, and six or seven will go after the college credit. "Our boys get bored seeing the same materials year after year," Blackburn said. "It's good to see someone else's ideas even if you don't agree with them. It still makes you think."

Because the course is so advanced, Blackburn is encouraging volunteers who are looking to be hired fulltime to take the course. "They'll see how a professional firefighting force would attack a fire and have explained why it was done that way," he said. "A volunteer around here would have to wait years to get that kind of experience. It's different unless you see it. Newsreels don't show you what you need to see. This course explains everything."

The department plans to offer the same class later in the year to members of Floyd county volunteer fire departments. It also plans to offer a class on "Hazardous Materials for First Responders" this fall.

A CARD OF THANKS

The family of Anna (Doodle) Moore wishes to express their sincere appreciation to all those friends, neighbors, and loved ones who helped comfort them during their time of sorrow. Thanks to all who gave food, flowers, monetary gifts, and words of comfort.

A special thanks to Rev. Ron Kinzel, family and members of the First Baptist Church for their kindness. Thanks also to Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient services. A special thanks to Libbi Hall, Joan Chaffins, Patricia Lawson, for the beautiful music and songs, and also the pallbearers.

Not The Same Person

The Clarence Martin listed among the suits filed column in last week's edition of The Times is not the person of the same name who is proprietor of Martin's Furniture Store.

Scott Denies Drug Allegations, Challenges Opponent Perkins

In answer to rumors that he was a "dope fiend," Will T. Scott flatly denied the allegation and challenged U.S. Rep. Chris Perkins to take part in a round of news media-sponsored drug testing.

Scott, Pikeville Republican, who faces Congressman Perkins for the U.S. Representative's position in November, made the statements Friday, June 3, at a news conference at the Boyd County Courthouse.

Admitting to having used limited amounts of an amphetamines while studying in college and serving in Vietnam during the late 1960's and 1970's, Scott, who resigned as a Pike Circuit Court judge to run against Perkins, challenged the 7th District Democrat to participate in unannounced, verifiable drug tests.

Perkins indicated last Tuesday that he would not submit to such testing. "I'm not going to take part in that process this year in this election," he said.

"I don't think it serves a purpose and like I say, I think it detracts from the process," Perkins commented. "I'm going to talk about what I consider to be the real issues."

Perkins said he would confine his 1988 campaign to issues such as clean water, improved infrastructure and expanding educational opportunities in Eastern Kentucky.

Scott, who also admitted to having tried marijuana, said at the news conference: "I think the most critical thing now that I've had to raise this to protect myself is for it to be taken out of the campaign, and that will require Chris' cooperation." "But it will also require testing,"

Ripped Off

Blue Cross-Blue Shield is supposed to be the premier health insurance organization in the nation. Well, let me tell you, if this is true, we are in big trouble.

Here at The Times, we carry a group policy which is as good as we can get—but not good enough, in my opinion.

First of all, one is expected to show up for major surgery at 6:15 in the morning. Jeez! Well, not being a morning person, I entered the hospital the day before surgery to the tune of $315—in advance, naturally. Some necessary tests were done that night rather than in the morning, and now I'm told my policy only pays for tests done on the day of surgery. Ha! In fact, fie!

So that's another $190 just because tests were done Wednesday night rather than Thursday morning. No one is denying they they were necessary. Of course, one could have spent two hours before surgery, when I'm told it's normal to be scared, or at least somewhat uneasy, being poked, prodded, and otherwise being made as uncomfortable as possible, and then the good, old policy would have paid for it.

Is this the procedure for open heart surgery?

I am not only appalled, I am angry. This just isn't right. These were tests that had to be done. What matter which day? This is just another rip-off, and how many others are being perpetrated on policyholders who are paying handsomely, if not exorbitantly?

In addition to the foregoing—a relatively small complaint, I admit—you should talk to your doctor and really hear it. Physicians can no longer enter an insured patient into a hospital without prior approval from Blue Cross-Blue Shield. And, I am told, there is sometimes a day's delay in getting the required approval. So how about that?

Somehow health insurance doesn't seem quite the right term for it.

Hale said he feels two turnkeys may have been a deterrent to the escape, and both he and County Judge Executive John M. Stumbo are of the opinion that the state should contribute a fair proportion of funds to the upkeep of prisoners convicted of state crimes.

Presently, the county receives only $13.00 a day to board a prisoner as opposed to $28.00 per day for state penitentiary inmates. Judge Stumbo said the fiscal court has requested $22.00 a day from the state to house prisoners, but the court has not yet received any satisfaction from Frankfort.

Stumbo said he is a proponent of the state taking over the county jails. Under such a plan, he explained, jailers would still be elected by the voters, but the state would incur the expense of running the jails.

bring the jobs here, we ought to take people where the jobs here," he commented. Elkins also said such a system could bring city dwellers to Eastern Kentucky who may be more encouraged to take advantage of recreational opportunities in the mountains.

But Ed Houlihan, executive director of the Greater Lexington Chamber of Commerce, pointed to the fact that there are many Lexingtonians who can't find jobs in their home city. "Where are they (rural commuters) going to work?" he asked.

School Board Chairman Dr. James D. Adams pointed out the advantages of a consolidated school. "A large school provides students with programs a small one can't match, such as, library, art, music or athletics." Adams concurred with the state's and Brackett's estimate that the school was economically unfeasible.

Parents say that they have shown their support of the school by contributing labor to improve the 58-year-old structure, with such projects as installing indoor restrooms.

In response to the low attendance, the parents pointed out several had withdrawn from the school during the year and others chose to attend Prestonsburg Elementary.

"The board sent home papers to parents with children attending the school, but they didn't send them to parents with children wanting to start in the first grade," Helen Williams said, adding that with those children included the attendance figure would be higher.

ance of completion of four-laning to the economic development of a large section of Appalachia.

Perkins, who called U.S. 23 a "major north-south artery in the heart of the Seventh District," said a significant effort would have to be maintained to see that the money finally results in the work here.

"I expect that this year will be no different in terms of having to fight to keep this $8.1 million," he said.

Pike Student Winner Of MU Scholarship

Katrina M. Brown, of Robinson Creek, a second-year student at the Marshall University School of Medicine, has been selected to participate in the J.M. Foundation Medical Student Scholarship Program in Alcohol and Other Drug Dependencies.

The scholarship will allow her to participate in the nationally recognized Weekend Intervention Program at the Wright State University School of Medicine. She and other participants will learn to better identify, diagnose and treat chemically dependent people.

"This is the second year we've had students selected to receive this scholarship, and Miss Brown certainly is an excellent choice," said Dr. Patrick I. Brown, associate dean for medical student affairs.

"She made the highest score ever recorded here on an anatomy proficiency examination, and has done quite well in her other courses," he said. "Her ability, professionalism, enthusiasm and maturity indicate she has the potential to be a fine physician."

MU medical student Dianna Dofka-Shipley, of Weirton, also received a scholarship for the program.

The scholarship will cover tuition and living expenses, as well as provide a $200 stipend to cover travel to the Wright State program.

Miss Brown is a graduate of Pikeville College.

Teenage Foster Children Preparing To Be On Own

Preparing for a job interview. Managing money. Shopping smart. Renting an apartment. Watching out for your health.

Sooner or later most Kentucky teenagers face those and similar other challenges arising when the time comes to leave home and go out on their own. If you are a foster child, however, the usual guidance and help from parents is being handed through a combination of the foster family and the social worker.

That's why 45 of Kentucky's older foster children will spend three days this month at Western Kentucky University talking with state social workers and former foster youth about what they need to be ready to live by themselves.

Kentucky's sixth annual Foster Teens' Conference gives older youth the opportunity for some first-hand advice from young adults who successfully made the transition from living with a foster family to having their own home, according to Nancy Rawlings, the department's director of Family Services.

"The whole idea is to allow our foster teenagers to hear from young people who have already made the move and to learn how to work with their foster parents and their caseworker on being prepared for the challenges ahead."

"We call the idea 'Preparation for Independent Living,'" she said. "It represents the focus of most services to older foster children who will, very shortly, not only have to make all of their own decisions but who also will no longer have anyone else to rely on for those decisions."

The conference June 17-19 in Bowling Green will differ from previous foster teens' meetings in that Social Services staff from around Kentucky will be in attendance to themselves be trained in the preparations necessary for an older teenager ready to leave state care.

Social Services staff will then be responsible for carrying out independent living training back in their districts and counties across the state.

This year's Foster Teens' Conference won't be all work and no play for those chosen to participate. In addition to tours of the Western campus and a dance at the student center, some of the teenagers will visit the world's only Corvette Auto Assembly plant, located just north of Bowling Green and all will take in a university-sponsored dinner theatre one evening.

Kentucky currently has approximately 3,000 children in foster care.

Farmers Urged To Apply For Drought Relief Now

With dry weather threatening to create a shortage of livestock feed, the Kentucky Department of Agriculture is urging farmers to apply for a federal program that allows grazing on land that is otherwise restricted from agricultural production.

A drought-relief program administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) allows cropland that is out of production under the feed grain or wheat price-support programs to be used for grazing.

Local ASCS committees must initiate participation in this program by sending a request to the state ASCS office in Lexington. The state office forwards the request to Washington, D.C., and approval can come within two or three days.

When a county gains federal approval, eligible farmers then must apply with the county ASCS office, according to Gene Settles, program specialist at the state office.

This program could involve more than 550,000 acres in Kentucky, Settles said.

Agriculture Commissioner Ward "Butch" Burnette is urging the county committee to act quickly because of widespread fear that the drought will force many farmers to sell cattle due to a lack of feed.

"If we are not allowed to graze this set-aside land before the drought renders it useless, I'm afraid we're going to see a huge increase in the number of cattle sold this year, and that will ruin the market," Burnette said. "Cattle prices have been one of the bright spots in the farm economy this year. We need to do what we can to maintain the strong market."

Settles said the state ASCS office already was expecting applications from 27 Kentucky counties.

The Agriculture Department has received calls about drought-related concerns from farmers in virtually every part of the state, Burnette said.

"I urge each county committee to take a close look at their situation and move as quickly as possible if this program is needed in their area. This could help many livestock producers survive this summer without selling cattle at a loss."

Farmers looking for supplies of hay should call Roger Nesbitt at the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, phone (502) 564-4696.

"I haven't heard of anybody who wants to stop living on account of the cost."

"LEADERSHIP YOU CAN BE PROUD OF"

I want to take this opportunity to thank all of those who supported my successful bid for re-election to the Kentucky State Senate from District 29.

Thanks to the tremendous support of the people, we captured over 75% of the total vote and in several precincts, we received 100% of all the votes cast. This is by far our most impressive win and, perhaps, the biggest win in the history of our district. We carried all four counties in the district.

During the next four years, I will continue to represent you in Frankfort and I will continue to stay in touch with you, to solicit your ideas and be available to you any time you need assistance with any governmental matter. I invite and encourage you to contact me on any matter and while I may not always be able to do everything, I will continue to do my best to see that your ideas and your concerns are considered by state government.

Again, my thanks to all of you and I will keep in touch.

Students Are Advised To Apply for Grants

Students and future students in need of supplemental funding for college were urged today to write to The Scholarship Bank for a free financial aid planning calendar and information on private scholarship sources.

According to the director of this national, non-profit foundation, an estimated half-billion dollars is available to high school and college students, many of whom may not know that they are eligible. Funds are contributed by corporations, trade, civic and non-profit groups and are normally awarded on such basis as academic standing, college major, geographic preferences, areas of special interest and even on the student's willingness to consider a special research project. Parental factors such as union, employer or past military experience are also considered by some donors.

The Scholarship Bank works with financial aid counseling offices throughout the U.S. to assist in distribution of the information on the approximately 3,500 scholarship sources. Each scholarship has a value of at least $1,000 and many are renewable yearly. Graduate level grants with values of up to $25,000 are also available. All students receive from 20 to 65 different aid sources for which they are potentially eligible. For the 1988-89 school year, a number of new aid sources are available to students majoring in law, business, health, engineering, computer sciences and the humanities. Three national organizations are funding older women returning to school.

High School, college and future students should send now for their free planning calendar and information on the scholarships by sending a stamped, self addressed envelope (business size) to The Scholarship Bank, 13944 E. Amar Rd., La Puente, Ca. 91748. For faster service, call toll free 1-800-332-4432 outside Calif. and 1-800-523-6831 in California.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Clinis Johnson wishes to thank all those friends, neighbors, and family who helped them in any way upon the passing of their loved one. Thanks to the ones who sent beautiful flowers and brought food; the Regular Baptist ministers for their kind and comforting words; for the use of the Little Rock Church house; to the Nelson and Frazier Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service, and our special thanks go to the rescue squads for their long hours of work in recovering his body. Our hearts and prayers will always be with you.

GARFIELD'S READING FUN IS SCHEDULED AT LIBRARY, HERE

Starting June 16, each Thursday something special will be happening at your library. Garfield will be having his summer reading club! There will be special people coming to talk to the group, and movies and films for added fun. Everyone who takes part in the club will be given a reward, and the people who read the most books in each age group will receive special recognition.

The club will meet each Thursday, from 10-11 for ages 2-7 and from 3-4 for ages 7-14. Very young children can take part with the "read to me" program. The child selects a reading partner to read to them, and they share the reading experience.

The longest road in the Western Hemisphere is the Pan-American Highway.

Mr. and Mrs. Curt Hamilton, of McDowell, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Kristy Shannon Hamilton, to Stanley Conn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Conn, of Hunter.

A garden wedding is planned at the home of the bride June 25, at 5:30 p.m. An open invitation is extended to all their family and friends. A reception will be held.

Still To Receive MSU Award, Sunday

Writer James Still will receive Morehead State University's first Appalachian Treasure Award at the opening reception of the 12th annual Appalachian Celebration.

The opening reception will be held in the gallery of the Claypool-Young Art Building on the MSU campus from 6:30-8:30 p.m., Sunday, June 19.

The purpose of the Appalachian Treasure Award is to recognize an individual of unusual talent who is dedicated to promoting and preserving Appalachian culture. In recognition of the honor, MSU President C. Nelson Grote will present Still with a hand-crafted rocking chair in a ceremony scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

"James Still's work and his continuing contribution to the culture and spirit of the region make him the most qualified first recipient of the Appalachian Treasure Award," Dr. Grote said.

A special part of the award ceremony will be the public unveiling of a portrait of James Still, painted by Sam McKinney. The painting will be permanently displayed in the James Still Room of MSU's Camden-Carroll Library.

Still has been called the "psalmist of the mountains," and his stories and poems about Appalachia have been praised for their "regional freshness and the lyric beauty of their style."

Still's first published work was a book of poems entitled "Hounds on the Mountain," which appeared in 1937. Next came his first novel, "River of Earth," in 1940, followed by a book of short stories, "On Troublesome Creek," in 1941. Evident in all of these works is an unhurried style of writing which has brought Still much recognition.

Still's career has spanned more than 60 years and, in addition to his writing, includes serving as librarian at the Hindman Settlement School in Knott County during the 1930s. His dedication to this work had Still carrying books over miles of mountain paths to provide remote country schools with libraries of their own.

MSU is especially proud of Still's designation as the first recipient of the Appalachian Treasure Award in that he served the institution for eight years as an associate professor of English from 1962-1970.

The Appalachian Treasure Award will be presented as part of MSU's Appalachian Celebration, a week-long summer festival which features traditional music, dance, storytelling, poetry, arts and crafts highlighting the cultural heritage of Appalachia.

More information regarding the Appalachian Treasure Award or the Appalachian Celebration is available by contacting Pete McNeill, Office of Regional Development Services, MSU, Morehead, Ky. 40351, (606) 783-2077.

Nurses To Address Personnel Shortage

More than 4,000 registered nurses from all 50 states, Guam, the Virgin Islands and the District of Columbia will tackle some of health care's most pressing challenges as the American Nurses' Association (ANA), nursing's professional organization, holds its biennial convention, June 11-15, in Louisville.

One of the major issues slated for discussion and action will be the nursing shortage and proposals to resolve this serious problem facing today's health care system. ANA's 615-member House of Delegates, nursing's highest policy-making body, will deliberate on a variety of solutions to the shortage, including one recently proposed by the American Medical Association (AMA). The AMA plan involves the introduction of a new category of health care personnel, "Registered Care Technologists," to carry out many functions and tasks currently performed by registered nurses, licensed practical nurses and nursing assistants.

"The AMA proposal is not a cost-effective response to the crisis in the delivery of nursing care to people," according to Margretta M. Styles, Ed.D., R.N., F.A.A.N., ANA President. "What we need are alternatives that retain well-qualified nurses in the workplace to deliver the vital services they provide to consumers and that encourage new recruits to enter the profession. To achieve this end, ANA and all of organized nursing have prepared plans to mount an aggressive campaign to resolve the nursing shortage once and for all."

Other issues to be addressed during the five day event include ANA progress to date and nursing's next steps in its leadership role in the nationwide battle to combat AIDS; nursing shortage initiatives, specifically adequate compensation and benefits for nurses; substitution of other personnel to replace nurses in the workplace; immigration and naturalization service requirements for foreign nurses.

Association efforts to assure availability of necessary services to all populations through measures to establish safe child care programs; guarantee effective treatment of the chronically mentally ill; resolve unanswered questions in the delivery of long term care; increase access to health care for all populations. Strategies to move the profession into the twenty-first century, in particular, ANA progress in implementing a strategic plan for the profession; how ANA should be structured to best meet the needs of the profession.

ANA is the national professional association representing the nation's registered nurses through its 53 constituent state and territorial associations and serves as the voice for nursing in the United States.

WHAT IS THE BEST WAY TO CARRY YOUR HANDBAG?

What's the best way? The backpack, reports Good Housekeeping in its June issue, because it distributes the weight evenly, lessening the chance of back or neck strain. The next best choice is a shoulder bag slung diagonally across your body; that way the bag's weight isn't concentrated in one area. Third choice is a shoulder bag worn on one shoulder. If you do, carry it on your non-dominant arm—if you're right-handed, put the bag on your left shoulder. This protects your dominant arm from overuse.

LEAD PUBLIC NOTICE NOTICE TO PERSONS SERVED BY MARTIN WATER WORKS PERTAINING TO LEAD IN DRINKING WATER

Read and keep the following information on the potential hazards of lead in drinking water and what can be done to maintain any risk to you. The Martin Water Works, in cooperation with the Drinking Water Branch of the Kentucky Division of water and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is providing this information, as required by federal law.

Lead can occur at potentially harmful levels in tap water if the plumbing fixtures through which the water travels, including the solders and fluxes used to connect them, contain lead. The EPA has recently mandated that all newly installed plumbing materials be essentially lead-free.

"The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

"Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

"EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women. "Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

- if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
- if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
- if the home is less than five (5) years old, or
- if you have soft or acidic water, or
- if water sits in the pipes for several hours."

To find out which type of plumbing you have, look at it and perform the following simple tests:

—Lead pipe is most often found in very old homes and buildings. Lead pipe is gray, relatively soft, and can be easily scratched to shine with a screwdriver, coin, or key. Some iron pipe may look like lead pipe; however, iron pipe is very hard and usually black.

—Copper pipe usually has a characteristic copper color. Until very recently, most copper pipe was installed using lead-based solder. Lead solder is also gray, soft, and can be scratched shiny. Copper pipe that has been soldered with lead usually contributes less lead to the water as time passes because the solder gets coated with minerals from the water. After being installed about (5) years, lead solder usually contributes very small amounts of lead to the water.

—Iron, steel, and "plastic" pipes have not been associated with any health effects from lead since they contain very small amounts of lead or none, and are assembled without lead solder.

You can reduce the possibility of consuming water with high lead concentrations by following these simple precautions:

- If the water has not been used for several hours, flush the cold water pipes before using the water for human consumption. Turn on the faucet and let the water run until the water temperature cools and gets no cooler. If there has recently been major water use, such as showering, bathing, flushing toilets, or cold water laundry, flushing the pipes may take only 5-30 seconds. If there has been no recent major water use, flushing the pipes may take several minutes.
- Use only cold water for drinking, cooking, or preparing baby formula.
- If new plumbing is installed or repairs are made, insist that lead-free materials be used.
- Lead pipes and service connections can be replaced.

The only way to be sure of the amount of lead in your water is to have the water tested by a state certified laboratory. Contact the Martin Water Works or the Drinking Water Branch of the Kentucky Division of Water for information about testing.

The Martin Water Works purchases non-corrosive water that is less likely to dissolve lead from plumbing.
The test results of water samples collected from the Martin Water Works distribution system indicate a lead concentration average of 0.001 parts per million.

The Martin Water Works purchases and distributes water that is within the established maximum contaminant level for lead.

The Martin Water Works does not have lead service lines or other lead-containing materials in our distribution system. Martin Water Works purchases water for distribution from the Prestonsburg City Utilities. The managements of both water systems are working together to provide water that is non-corrosive and less likely to dissolve lead in plumbing.

If you have question concerning this notice or would like more information concerning lead in drinking water, please contact Martin Water Works at 606-285-3402 or the Drinking Water Branch of the Kentucky Division of Water at 502-564-3410.

A copy of this notice has been forwarded to the Drinking Water Branch of the Kentucky Division of Water.

West Liberty Couple Face Fed Tax Charge

Sanford Whitt, Jr., and his wife, Roberta Lynn Whitt, of Route 1, West Liberty, each pled guilty today in U.S. District Court, in Lexington, to one count of attempting to evade federal income tax for the year 1981. In an indictment handed down on April 1, 1988 they were charged with reporting taxable income for 1981 of $5,101 and tax due of $753, when they knew that their correct taxable income for that year was $95,561.96 and the correct tax due was $21,110.38.

The original indictment charged Sanford Whitt, Jr., and Roberta Lynn Whitt with three counts of tax evasion for 1981, 1982 and 1983. In return for their guilty plea on the one count of evasion for 1981, they will not be prosecuted for the charges of evasion in 1982 and 1983.

The date for sentencing has been set for August 5 in U.S. District Court in Lexington. Both Sanford Whitt, Jr., and Roberta Lynn Whitt will remain free on their own recognizance until that time.

The maximum sentence that could be imposed on each defendant for the one count of evasion is five years in prison and a fine of $10,000. They still must pay all taxes plus penalties and interest owed the IRS.

This case was investigated by Special Agents of the Criminal Investigation Division of the IRS. The Assistant U.S. Attorney who is prosecuting the case is Charles Dause.

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: In a recent column you said that interferon has been approved for the treatment of hairy cell leukemia. Can you explain what hairy cell leukemia is? Does this mean that interferon can be used in other types of leukemia?

ANSWER: Hairy cell leukemia is a rare type of leukemia that takes its name from the "hairy" appearance of the leukemic cells when seen under a microscope. Only 150 new cases of this disease occur in the United States each year. It affects more men than women and its incidence increases with age. Symptoms of this disease can include: infection, fatigue, fever, and loss of appetite.

Patients with hairy cell leukemia often have an enlarged spleen and a deficiency of red blood cells, white blood cells and platelets. When these conditions are present, surgical removal of the spleen (splenectomy) leads to prompt, long-lasting relief of symptoms, although complete disappearance of the disease is rare.

Recent studies have shown that interferon, a form of immunotherapy, is highly effective in hairy cell leukemia and may result in a complete remission (absence of signs and symptoms of disease). In 1986, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved interferon for use in the treatment of hairy cell leukemia. This is the first example of an immunotherapy successfully treating a human cancer.

Interferon is being studied for effectiveness in other types of cancer including chronic leukemia. At the present time, however, none of the studies have shown enough benefit to approve interferon for use in these cancers.

For more information on leukemia, call the Cancer Information Service (CIS) at 1-800-4-CANCER. Or write to the CIS at the Markey Cancer Center, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky.

Interest Grows In Christmas Tree Farming In Kentucky

With the sweltering heat of summer just arriving in Kentucky, Christmas trees and where to buy them might not be an important concern for many people.

It is for Gerald Dotson, director of the Marketing Services Division of the Kentucky Department of Agriculture. Expanding markets for Kentucky-grown farm products is one of the programs given priority status by Agriculture Commissioner Ward "Butch" Burnette. And, the Commonwealth's Christmas tree industry could use some marketing assistance.

"Most of the Christmas trees sold in Kentucky are harvested as early as October in Michigan and along the Canadian border," Dotson said. "Kentucky-grown trees will be fresher by a month or more than those brought in from other states, and they will be less expensive. By purchasing a Kentucky-grown tree, we help our farmers as well as provide a fresher tree for our holidays."

Dotson is currently contacting chambers of commerce, county judge-executives and county extension agents across the state to find out who sells Christmas trees in Kentucky.

His findings will be compiled as a list which will be provided to the men and women in Kentucky who grow Christmas trees. The growers then can make contacts with these organizations, groups and businesses who will be needing live trees for the Christmas season.

This year, there will be more than 20,000 trees available for harvest in Kentucky. Most are Scotch Pine, White Pine and Douglas Fir. Several hundred-thousand trees will be available for future harvests.

In Kentucky, about 33 growers have reached the commercial production level, with tens of thousands of trees planted. Many growers operate cut-and-choose lots, as well as wholesale operations.

Any organization, business or charitable group interested in purchasing Kentucky-grown Christmas trees should contact Dotson by writing Marketing Services Division, Kentucky Department of Agriculture, 7th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or calling (502) 564-4896.

KET Looks at World Of Antiques, Collectibles

What is that family heirloom worth? What does one look for at an estate sale? Antique buffs will find out on The Collectors, a lively 13-part series that turns the world of antiques and collectibles into entertainment for seasoned collectors and flea-market sleuths alike. The Collectors begins Sunday, June 26 at 7 p.m. on KET.

Hosts Dana Garrett and Bob Rau take viewers to different locations in the Pacific Northwest to view intriguing collections such as native American art from Pendleton, Ore., a historic sailing vessel from the Pacific coast, and beer steins from the Olympia brewery in Washington.

In each location, local residents have the chance to dust off family heirlooms or estate sale "finds" for an on-camera, on-the-spot appraisal by Rau. Appraisals are held in colorful locations, from the French Renaissance drawing room of a Northwest mansion to the Let 'R Buck Room of the Pendleton, Ore., rodeo grounds.

Each program showcases an interesting collection, such as turn-of-the-century toys, tools, Victorian clothes, dollhouse furniture, model railroads, and kitchen items.

The Collectors is a production of Oregon Public Broadcasting.

BUILDING MATERIALS

Birds have been known to use some rather unusual building materials for their nests. According to National Wildlife magazine, a pair of canyon wrens in Fresno, California, built a two-and-a-half pound nest entirely of paper clips and other office supplies. And Florida bald eagles have used everything from Clorox bottles and light bulbs to magazines and tennis balls.

MANDATORY NOTICE

BY ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY FOR ALL WATER SYSTEMS PERTAINING TO LEAD IN DRINKING WATER

"The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

"Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

"EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to your young children and pregnant women. "Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

- if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
- if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
- if the home is less than five years old, or
- if you have soft or acidic water, or
- if water sits in the pipes for several hours."

The following steps can reduce the possible consumption of water with high lead concentrations.

1. Flush cold water pipes before drinking—5-30 seconds
2. Use only water from cold water pipes for drinking, cooking or preparing baby formula.
3. Lead pipes and service connections can be replaced.
4. Insist that only lead free materials be used in repairs or new plumbing.

The Auxier Water Company purchases water for distribution from Prestonsburg City Utilities. The Managements of both water systems are working together to provide water that is non-corrosive and less likely to dissolve lead in plumbing.

The lead content in Prestonsburg City Utilities, which supplies the Auxier Water Co. Inc. is less than 0.001.

The Auxier Water Company does not have lead service lines or other lead-containing materials in our distribution system.

The Auxier Water Company provides non-corrosive water that is less likely to dissolve lead from plumbing.

The only way to be sure of the amount of lead in your water is to have the water tested by a state certified testing laboratory. For additional information contact the Drinking Water Branch of the Kentucky Division of Water at (502) 564-3410 or Auxier Water Co. Inc. at (606) 886-6240.

The test results of water samples collected March 02, 1988 from the Mud Creek Water District indicates that a lead concentration was less than 0.001 parts per million (ppm), which is well below the safe drinking water standards.

COOL CUISINE

From the American Institute for Cancer Research

It's coming again. That time of year when you'd just as soon avoid the heat of the kitchen as much as possible. It's time to break out your favorite recipes for cold and room temperature foods—and perhaps to add a few more to the repertoire.

One of the keys to successful "cool cuisine" is to prepare dishes in advance. This allows the ingredients to adequately blend or mellow. It also makes this kind of cooking ideal for busy people whose time available for food preparation may not come immediately before the time when they want to eat. And, it can uncomplicate the life of a busy hostess who doesn't want to be tied up in the kitchen until the last minute before a party.

Take advantage of the many fresh fruits and vegetables now available in the market. They not only lend themselves to easy preparation, and light, tasty dishes, but are a healthy addition to any diet. Fresh fruits and vegetables provide many important vitamins and minerals, and are an excellent way to increase fiber intake.

Fresh julienned vegetables and a light yogurt dip can make a pleasant start to a warm weather meal, and fresh fruits can be a very pleasing dessert with which to end.

Tomato aspic is a popular "specialty" salad. Here, tomato juice makes it easy and fresh vegetables make it texturally interesting.

TOMATO ASPIC WITH VEGETABLES
4 cups tomato juice (regular or low sodium)

2 1/2 cups any combination of the following vegetables, chopped: broccoli (fresh, steamed or frozen, thawed), cucumber, celery, green pepper, zucchini, mung bean sprouts

2 1/2 packets unflavored gelatin (2 tbsp.)

2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1-2 tsp. dried basil

Place 1/2 cup of cold tomato juice in small bowl. Sprinkle the gelatin over it and allow to dissolve. Warm the remaining tomato juice until steaming and dissolve the gelatin mixture into it. Add all the remaining ingredients. Pour into a 6-8 cup mold and chill until firm, at least 3 1/2 hours. If desired, unmold for serving by setting mold into a pan of very hot water for about 3 minutes and then inverting onto the serving platter.

This recipe produces 8 servings, each with 30-45 calories and almost no fat.

Wins Skill Competition

Dustin Conn, 16, won first place in the regional skill and third in state skill competition. Conn attends Allen Central and lives at Martin, with his parents, Delano and Delores Conn. He is a first year carpentry student at the Floyd County Vocational School and is taught by Mr. James E. Taylor.

For the competition Conn was required to build and place two walls with one window and one door opening framed to specifications and to cut rafters, hip rafters and stair stringer. This task was to be completed within a five hour period. He completed it in three hours. All work was done with hand tools only. No power tools were allowed.

His ambition is to be a construction contractor after high school graduation.

DIRTY DANCING: Almost all birds bathe regularly, but not necessarily in water. International Wildlife magazine reports that pheasants, quail, wild turkeys and many other birds prefer to clean themselves in dirt. This process, known as "dusting," is not only pleasurable but also beneficial. Dust absorbs excess oil in feathers, and it may also prevent the spread of parasites.

Eastern Kentucky Residents Are Arrested in Drug Probe

A two-month joint investigation by Attorney General Fred Cowan's office and the Breathitt county Sheriff's office resulted in the arrest of six Eastern Kentucky residents, including one juvenile. The individuals have been charged with illegally obtaining prescription drugs from pharmacies in Perry, Wolfe, and Breathitt counties resulting in the diversion of nearly 2,000 tablets with a street value of over $13,000. William Brewer, of Jackson, who also is charged in the conspiracy, had not been arrested as of June 3.

Arrested were Elizabeth Combs, of Hazard, Robert Spencer and Ada Spencer, both of Lost Creek, A.C. Lewis and Carl Lewis, both of Jackson, and an unnamed juvenile.

According to the Attorney General, prescriptions for Percocet and Tylox apparently were falsely signed using the names of several doctors from Lexington and Hazard. "Many times when we think of drug abuse we think only of illegal drugs such as cocaine or marijuana," Cowan said. "The act of illegally obtaining and distributing controlled substances through prescription forgery is a nationwide problem. As we continue to fight the battle against drugs, we must not overlook this element." Cowan also stated that he plans to fight for stronger legislation concerning prescription drugs during the 1990 General Assembly.

Armed with information gathered from the individuals in custody, investigators expect further arrests and additional charges.

Amazon Adventure Retraced On KET

In December 1896, a young Englishwoman named Lizzie Hessel set out on a journey up the Amazon River. Her destination was the Orton Rubber Estate, which was located more than 4,000 miles from her starting point, the commercial seaport of Belem.

Lizzie: An Amazon Adventure—A River Journeys Special, a personal account of Hessel's experiences, airs Wednesday, June 29 at 8:00/7:00 p.m. CT on KET. The program recreates Hessel's dramatic trip and her life in the Amazon jungle.

In a year's time, Hessel traveled more than 4,000 miles, braving the dangerous river and unexplored jungles harboring hostile Indians, to become the first European woman ever to make the trip.

Another young woman, actress and journalist Maria Aitken, followed Hessel's footsteps 90 years later covering the same territory in 13 weeks.

Although Lizzie Hessel recorded her extraordinary adventures through letters to her family, the letters were discovered only recently by Hessel's great-niece.

Lizzie: An Amazon Adventure weaves Hessel's letters into dramatized sequences of her voyage. These sequences were shot in actual locations and a Brazilian actress portrays Hessel.

Lizzie: An Amazon Adventure—A River Journeys Special is produced by RKO Pictures and the BBC. It is presented on public television by WETA/Washington D.C.

A NASTY HABIT

Many people have a misguided notion of what it means to be "regular." They may believe that passing a movement each day is necessary when, in actuality, there is no such "rule." These people usually turn to over-the-counter laxatives in an attempt to deal with their perceived constipation problem. Despite the fact that most laxatives carry a warning that "continued use may result in dependency," many laxative users become addicted to taking laxatives. If the active ingredient in the laxative works by irritating the intestinal lining, continued use will lead to degeneration of the nerves that control intestinal muscles. As part of the vicious-cycle syndrome, laxative abusers turn to greater doses. This can lead to a real problem that may only be surmounted through a program of gradual withdrawal.

COOLEY APOTHECARY carries what you would expect to find in a well inventoried drug store. We are very proud to be able to provide families in this area with all their pharmaceutical needs. ## Trusty Tough As Floyd County Breaks Four-Game Losing Skid

Tim Trusty looked like everything but unhittable in the first inning, but after the opening frame the righthander from Prestonsburg High School was just that, limiting Flatwoods to only one hit over the last six innings as Floyd County broke a four-game losing streak, beating Flatwoods 9-3 Sunday at Allen Park.

Trusty, pitching on three days rest, gave up three runs on four hits in the first as Floyd County fell behind 3-0, but he faced only one batter over the limit in the last six innings.

The FC pitcher struck out eight, and walked three in the complete game performance. Flatwoods had five hits as Trusty upped his record to 1-2.

Floyd County, led by Mike McQuate and Kevin Webb, banged out a total of nine hits off two Flatwood pitchers. McQuate, three for four at the plate, had a single, double, and triple with two runs scored. Webb had two singles and as many RBIs.

After falling behind 3-0 in the first, FC got their offense in gear, taking full advantage of an inning opening error.

Trusty, leading off the second, reached on an error when his ground ball to third was misplayed. Nathan Shelton, running for the pitcher, stole second and scored when right fielder Tony Kidd singled up the middle.

Jeff Lovely later scored Kidd with an RBI single to right. That run was also given an assist when Kidd moved to second on a passed ball.

Floyd County still trailed by one, but the team quickly wiped that out with another two spot in the third, scoring both with two out. McQuate, with one out, bounced a single into center, and took second on an error. He advanced to third on a ground out, and crossed the plate as Trusty blooped a single over second. Kidd, who also had two hits and a pair of runs batted in, ripped a single to plate Trusty as Floyd County took a lead they never relinquished.

Trusty and a sound defense made sure of that. Floyd County, for the first time this year, played errorless baseball to lend their pitcher a helping hand.

The only base runners Flatwoods could manage in the last three innings came with two out twice, and an inning opening walk in the seventh.

In the fourth, after Trusty had retired 10 batters in a row, first baseman Gary Clarke received a base on balls, but Trusty came back to retire the side, getting Charlie Tackett to fly out to Brad Hall in left field.

Trusty then went on another tough streak, retiring six in a row before Mark Carter collected a solid single with two down in the sixth. But he retired Mickey Adkins on a ground ball to end the inning.

While Trusty was busy mowing down Flatwoods hitters, Floyd County went about the business of buying insurance. They scored three times in the fourth, and added two in the sixth to set the final margin of difference.

With one out in the fourth Brad Hall beat out an infield bouncer, and Mason Slone walked. One out later Mike McQuate hit a hard grounder that whipped second baseman Mickey Adkins, and rolled all the way to the right center-field fence. Hall and Slone scored on the play, and McQuate made it all the way around to third. He scored when Webb, the next hitter, slapped an opposite field single to left.

In the sixth Slone walked leading off, and stole second. On the steal he rounded the second base bag thinking the ball had been hit, but managed to reach third when the rundown went afoul.

He scored on a two-out Webb single, and the latter scored on a passed ball, making the score 9-3. Trusty, after the walk, set Flatwoods down in order in the seventh, securing the win for Floyd County, 4-6.

In the second game of the twin bill, though, Flatwoods got revenge for the earlier loss, downing Floyd County 9-4.

Flatwoods, 2-5 on the year, had five hits in the first two innings, scoring eight times to jump out to a big lead.

They scored three times in the first, two unearned, and added five in the second when they batted around off Floyd County starter Kevin Nickells, an infielder-pitcher from Knott Central. Nickells, a right hander, was forced into action on short notice because of Nathan Shelton's duty seen Saturday in the East-West all-star series. Shelton, who was scheduled to pitch, threw three innings Saturday, and was unavailable for mound duty. But Flatwoods didn't exactly blast Nickells. Two of their hits were of the bunt variety in the second. They had a total of 10 hits off the FC starter, who pitched the whole game.

Floyd County, who left the bases loaded in the first, had a total of seven hits. McQuate collected two of those, a double and a homerun. The speedy center fielder went five for six in the double header with two walks.

Mason Slone, Tim Trusty, Tony Kidd, and Jeff Lovely also hit safely for Floyd County. FC stranded eight base runners.

Their next game is today when they welcome Williamson, West Virginia into Allen Park for a double header scheduled to begin at 5 p.m.

ALL STAR PERFORMANCE: Nathan Shelton, shown here in action at Allen Central, pitched two and two-thirds innings of one run baseball Saturday in the East-West All-Star series. Shelton gave up three hits and struck out two.

Collins Limits FC To One Hit In First Of Double Header Win

Bart Collins did his job in the first game, and Floyd County failed to do theirs in the second as the local American Legion baseball team lost both ends of a double header, Wednesday at Boyd County.

Collins, a left handed pitcher from Boyd County High School, limited a normally good hitting Floyd County team to only one hit in recording an 8-0 shutout in the lid lifter of Wednesday's twin bill.

"He's a pretty good pitcher," commented BC coach Darryl Smith. "He had a good high school year this year." Collins was an important pitching clog in the Lions' trip to the state high school baseball tournament this spring.

"He didn't walk many and I think that's the key," Smith continued, praising his pitcher's performance. "He had good control, and good command of his pitches."

Collins, who faced only three batters over the limit, walked three and struck out 10 in earning his first win in as many tries this summer. He lost his bid for a no-hitter in the fifth when Floyd County infielder Ray Collins lined a one-out single to center. FC had only five baserunners, but a double play in the seventh, and a pick off in the fifth limited their chances of putting together a successful inning.

Tim Trusty, in the first, reached on Jim Delvisis' error, and advanced to second on an Adam Smith passed ball, but was stranded there when Kevin Webb struck out. In the third, Mike McQuate and Mason Slone walked with two out, but were left on base as Trusty went down on strikes.

Mark Tipton, 0-2, suffered the loss for Floyd County. The righthander from Betsy Layne gave up four runs, two earned, in one and one-thirds innings. Boyd County had three hits off him, two triples and a double.

With Delvisis on second and one out, Tipton gave way to Nathan Shelton, who finished the game. Shelton was helped out when Kevin Webb threw Delvisis out trying to steal third, and Mike Burke bounced out.

But in the third, Boyd County, which had six hits in the game, scored three times despite getting only one hit.

Shelton walked Jamie Clark leading off the inning. Clark went all the way to third on a wild pick off attempt, and scored on a balk. Roger Hutchinson walked and scored and Joe Tackett, who singled, scored when Brad Hall missed a pick off throw to first.

Leading 7-0, Paul Miller, an infielder from Lawrence County High School, blasted a long homerun over the left field fence, setting the final score at 8-0.

Floyd County managed to get only six balls out of the infield. Five of those were lazy fly balls. Boyd County committed only one error in the game. Floyd County had six defensive miscues. And defensive execution was the major downfall of Tim Trusty and Floyd County in an 8-4 loss in the double header nightcap.

After playing near perfect defense through five innings, Floyd County fell apart defensively, committing four errors to allow Boyd County to break a 4-4 tie, scoring four runs to go up 8-4.

The first two hitters, Todd Borders and Roger Hutchinson, reached on errors, opening the gates for a four run flood. Boyd County, 4-0 with the sweep, had only one hit in the inning.

Trusty, Floyd County's starting pitcher, allowed BC only five hits in his five and one-thirds innings of work. The righthander allowed only two earned runs while striking out three batters.

Brad Hall relieved Trusty in the bottom of the sixth. With one out Miller reached on an error and Hall hit one, but got Bobby King to bounce into a double play to end the inning. But the damage had already been done, and Floyd County, 3-4 on the year, failed to get anything going in the seventh, and came up four runs short.

It started out in fine fashion for them though, as Floyd County pounced on BC starter Ty McCreary for four runs in the fourth.

Brad Hall kicked the inning off by reaching on an error, and Jeff Lovely, a first baseman from Magoffin County, followed with a single. After Thomas Hall popped up to the pitcher, Mason Slone walked to load the bases. Little Brad Hall lined out to Delvisis at second, but with two out Mike McQuate bounced a double over first base, scoring Hall and Lovely.

Ray Collins, two for three at the plate, singled to score two more, putting FC up 4-0. But Boyd County rallied for two in the bottom of the second, and two more in the fifth, tying the score before breaking the game open in the sixth.

Floyd County had seven hits off two BC pitchers but only once could they put together more than one in an inning's second.

Ray Collins and Jeff Lovely had two hits each, and Big Brad Hall, Kevin Webb, and McQuate collected one hit each.

Errors though, as it has in each game, plagued Floyd County. They committed six in the second game, and 12 in the double header. Collins led FC offensively, going there for five with two singles, a double, and a walk.

Boyd County committed only two errors in the two games. They were led at the plate by Mike Burke's four hit performance. He was retired only twice in eight trips to the plate.

The Sporting Times

Where are the champions? That question can be asked about this time each year, and normally the answer would be... way down in the standings.

But not this year. Oh, does baseball ever dare to be different in the summer of 1988. Since the Cincinnati Reds and Oakland A's of the 1970s, baseball has spread its Major League wealth around, giving division titles out to different people each year. Even the Cubs and Padres, the Brewers and the Angels have had their share of the spotlight in the past decade, only to slide to the bottom of the baseball pile.

One team wins a division then falls completely out of sight. Rarely does a team even contend after winning a title. Repeating is totally out of the question.

In the past 10 years Major League baseball has produced 10 different World Series champions, and no team has won more than one title during that stretch. To go even one better, no team except the 1984-85 Kansas City Royals have repeated as division champs.

Baseball experts have thought long and hard about the reasons why. Everyone was baffled when the New York Mets failed to repeat last season.

Injuries play a major part in a long baseball season. The team that stays healthy throughout has an obvious advantage. But books about winners, books by winners, the hype and hoopla that surrounds winners could certainly play a part in no one repeating as champions.

But take a look at what's happening now. Baseball has thrown its teams a major league curve. And the experts were all fooled by the change.

As of this weekend, all four of last year's division winners were in comfortable shape for a second half run toward the pennant. With just over a third of the season gone, St. Louis and Minnesota were the only winners more than three games off their division's pace.

St. Louis, who denied the Mets the obvious last season, trail New York by seven games in the NL East. This is after being behind by more than 10 games early in the season, and having most of their starting rotation on the disabled list.

Whitey Herzog seems to have a magic stone in his pocket, or something that keeps the Cardinals in contention. After losing Jack Clark most people figured St. Louis to fold its offensive doors, but they are second in the National League in hitting, sporting a team batting average of .263. Tom Brunansky from Minnesota hits over .300 with eight homeruns and 37 RBIs. Getting him didn't hurt.

Bob Horner, the man who came from Japan to replace Clark, hits only .255, but he has driven in 31 runs. A Jack Clark hitter he isn't, but he has done the job St. Louis so desperately needed.

Minnesota, a team that took all the baseball world by surprise last year, trails Oakland by seven despite the Athletics' incredible start.

Minnesota, as of Sunday, had won seven of their last 10 games and Oakland cooled off a bit, allowing the Twins to move toward the top spot.

And the Athletics, even with their incredible amount of offensive power, may be put to the test in trying to hold off Minnesota. The Twins also hit well, better in fact than does Oakland.

Through 59 games the Athletics had 57 homeruns. Minnesota, defending World Champions, had 61 through 57 games. But Oakland is 22-12 on the road, the best of any team.

Both the Cards and Twins appear primed to make a spurt for the top spot in their respective divisions, but the best chance of a repeat performance appears to be with either Detroit of the AL East, or the SF Giants in the NL West.

Despite losing multi-talented outfielder Kurt Gibson, the Tigers have remained a solid team, and have remained right behind the New York Yankees.

Gibson, long a settling force in the Detroit scheme of things, left the Motor City this past winter in search of surf and sun in Los Angeles. His arrival in LA caused quite a stir. It has helped the Dodgers, but from early indications, it hasn't hurt Detroit.

The Tigers trail New York by only two games, despite the fact that they are near the middle of the pack in both team batting and team pitching. They have the fourth best winning percentage in baseball.

The San Francisco Giants were another team thought to be a fluke last season. Most of their players had career years, and the same production from the same people wasn't supposed to happen again. But it has.

The Giants, despite losing two games to Cincinnati over the weekend, trail Los Angeles by only three games.

All four of last year's winners are more than in the hunt for a chance to repeat, which is a surprise in itself. But probably the biggest surprise in baseball this year in the fact that there haven't been any surprises.

Two years ago Minnesota finished sixth in the AL West. A year later they won the World Series, and made the homer hankie a trademark of baseball in that city. The three other division winners finished in third place the year before, only to make the big jump all the way to the top.

Now, though, the only teams that could be termed a surprise is Toronto and Cleveland, both of the AL West. The Indians were expected to win last season, and their talents were obvious and abundant so they might not even be termed a surprise. They are only two games behind New York.

And Toronto, well the Blue Jays are a surprise, a shock really. But it's the other way. They may be the most talented team in the majors, but talent isn't getting the job done north of the border, and the Blue Jays trail by 10 games in the AL West.

It will be a long hot summer, and some teams will melt in the sun. Those who stay healthy will thrive. Those who suffer injuries may be the ones who wilt in July and August.

But it has already had its interesting developments, and as those who started hot begin to cool off, this baseball season has the makings of a good one.

By the way, the baseball may not be juiced up this year.

SHORT SPORTS

The local American Legion baseball season continues today when Floyd County plays a double header at Allen Park against Williamson, West Virginia. The first game is set to begin at 5:00.

Nathan Shelton, 1-0, is scheduled to pitch the first game while Mark Tipton, who threw three innings against Ashland Saturday, goes to the mound in the second contest.

Floyd County, after Sunday's double header, will be off until June 24 when they travel to Morehead to begin the first of a three-day, six-game road trip. They play Morehead, Berea, and Paris in consecutive days.

Stanford University became only the second school to ever win back-to-back College World Series championships Saturday when they defeated fellow conference member Arizona State 9-4.

The last time one school claimed successive titles was in the early 1970s when Southern California won five straight championships. It was also the first time that two schools from the same conference, the Pac 10, met in the final game.

Stanford, 46-23, finished with the lowest winning percentage of any previous Series champion. The College World Series has been going for 42 years.

A freshman, Stan Spencer, pitched seven innings to claim the Cardinal win. He ended his initial college campaign with a 7-2 mark.

Stanford scored five runs in the first inning, and built their advantage to 9-1 after six, not allowing Arizona State any opportunity to get back in the game.

The West, in the annual Coaches Association East-West All-Star Series, won two of the three games against the East in last weekend's event held at Owensboro.

The West rallied from a 7-1 deficit Friday to record a 12-11 win. The East again lost a lead in the first game Saturday, leading 2-0 early only to fall 7-3.

The East, winners of two games last year and four of the previous six, captured their only win in the second game Saturday afternoon, defeating the West 7-6 after leading 7-1 early in the game.

Nathan Shelton, a graduate of Allen Central High School, was a member of the East Squad. Shelton, a left hander, worked three innings, giving up one run and striking out two in his appearance in Saturday's first game. Shelton, 3-4 in his final year at Allen Central, is now a member of Floyd County's American Legion team. He is currently 1-0 with them, and is expected to get a start today in today's opening game of a double header at Allen Park.

Waylon Estep, a graduate of nearby Knott County Central, was also a member of the East squad. He is another member of the local Legion squad.

A softball tournament, sponsored by the Magoffin County Jaycees, will be

Weak Defense Is Reason For A Pair Of FC Losses

It sounds like a repeating record, a nightmare that is all too real. A misplayed grounder here and a dropped popup there and all of a sudden the opponent is in fine shape.

Floyd County's American Legion baseball team knows all about poor defense, and unfortunately for them, it's rarely in their favor.

Defense, or a lack of it, led to three prior losses, and it didn't exactly help out Saturday when Floyd County lost both games of a double header to Ashland. The game was played on East Carter High School's field, and was rescheduled from Thursday.

FC, scheduled to play Ashland at Allen Park Thursday evening, committed nine errors in the two games, losing 8-2 in the opener, and 12-2 in the second game.

And they saved the worst for last, making six errors which led to 10 unearned runs, and a loss for starting pitcher Mason Slone. Slone, a right hander from Knott Central, pitched three and two-thirds innings, but had to be lifted in the fourth.

He gave up six hits and six runs, but none of the runs were earned. Ashland, 10-3 with the two wins, scored twice in the second with two out and no one on base. Floyd County committed two errors in that inning. Ashland came back in the fourth, scoring four times on two hits and two errors to take a 6-1 lead.

They added four in the fifth, and two in the sixth to invoke the 10-run mercy rule. Floyd County, who held a lead in both games, jumped out in front in the first when Mike McQuate walked and scored on a Tim Trusty single, putting FC up 1-0. But that slim advantage soon disappeared in the second as Kevin Webb, playing third base, misplayed two attempts defensively, opening the scoring gate for Ashland.

Floyd County had only four hits in the game and three of those came in the sixth inning when they scored their other run. Tim Trusty had two of the four hits, a first inning single, and a sixth inning double. Ray Collins and Brad Hall also hit safely.

In the first game Floyd County, leading 2-1 heading into the third inning, received a death blow as Ashland erupted for six hits and six runs, wiping out the FC lead and replacing it with a five run advantage of their own.

Byron Scott, a highly touted third baseman from East Carter, led the inning off with a single off starting and losing pitcher 'Big' Brad Hall, who has since quit the team. Hall then struck out Tony Ratliff, but an error and five hits later Ashland had scored six times in the inning. Mark Tipton relieved Hall with two out and a runner on second, and retired Scott on a fly ball to snuff out the rally. Tipton, who has had strong outings this summer, went on to have another strong performance, allowing only one run the rest of the way. He also gave up only one hit in his three and one-third innings of work.

Floyd County again got on the scoreboard first, scoring one time in the opening inning when McQuate walked, and scored on a throw to second. With one out, Tim Trusty reached on an error, and on the attempt to catch him stealing second, McQuate scored. Ashland tied the game in the second, scoring an unearned run when second baseman Mason Slone booted a two-out ground ball.

In the third Floyd County took another one run lead as McQuate reached on an error, stole second, and crossed the plate on a fielder's choice.

Floyd County had only two hits in the game. Jeff Lovely doubled with one down in the fourth, and Floyd Compton batted out a single leading off the seventh.

Brad Hall suffered the loss, his first of the season. Ashland had eight hits off the right hander, and five of the seven runs were earned.

Floyd County will play Ashland later in the season, traveling to Ashland July 17 for a double header that is scheduled to begin at 1:00. If the field at Allen Park is available for that day the twin bill will be there.

Cincinnati Hands Giants Two Losses Before Heading Home

It is a long season. The 162-game haul isn't nearly half over, and, as they say, a lot can happen during the course of a season, but the Cincinnati Reds would like to make a lot happen in the next 16 games.

One way or the other, a lot will happen towards shaping up the Western Division race heading into the second half of the baseball season.

Cincinnati began a six-game homestand last night, taking on Houston in the first of three games at Riverfront Stadium. They play again tonight and Thursday night. Both are 7:35 starts.

San Francisco then comes to town over the weekend for a three-game series with the Reds. Saturday's game will be nationally televised by NBC.

The Reds, five games under .500 and five and one-half behind West leading Los Angeles, will play their next 16 games against divisional competition. All but three are at Riverfront, and all may be critical if Cincinnati has plans to be around for a chance at a title come September.

Reds Manager Pete Rose said early in the season that pennants could be won in April the same way they could be won in September, but now the thinking has been changed to June.

Cincinnati, 28-33 heading into last night's game, is expected to get outfielder Tracy Jones back today. Jones, who banged up a knee earlier in the year, has played the past two days at Chattanooga.

Leon 'Bull' Durham, recently acquired from Chicago, is also ready to come off the disabled list. The powerful first baseman injured his back soon after coming to the Reds in a deal that sent Pat Perry to the Cubs.

With the return of Durham and Jones, Cincinnati will be forced to make a couple roster changes, and they are still talking trade, possibly involving Nick Esasky or one of their out fielders.

Although Cincinnati's record isn't exactly impressive, and the month of June has been everything but good, they remain in contention for a Western Division title that most thought would be theirs when October rolled around.

But this is reality only because they play in the NL West, probably the weakest of all divisions, and because San Diego swept LA this weekend.

Cincinnati helped cure some ills by winning the last two of a three-game, weekend series at San Francisco. And it was about as close to must wins as early season games can get.

The Reds, losing the opener Friday 9-6 even though they scored six times in the eighth, trailed the Dodgers by seven-and-a-half games heading into Saturday's contest.

Again they scored six in the eighth, but this time they won, defeating San Francisco 7-2, Saturday evening.

Rookie sensation Chris Sabo, with the Reds trailing 2-1, blasted his seventh homerun of the season leading off the eighth to tie the score. Cincinnati loaded the bases, and scored what proved to be the winning run when shortstop Matt Williams threw wide to home in an attempt to force Kal Daniels at home.

On the next play Jeff Treadway went back Williams' way, and again his throw home failed to fill the need as Eric Davis beat his peg to the plate.

Barry Larkin, with two out, scored two runs with a double and Kal Daniels walked with the bases loaded to give Cincinnati added insurance.

Tom Browning, who pitched seven innings, got the win. Browning, 4-3, gave up only five hits and two runs in his seven innings. Craig Lefferts, 1-4, suffered the loss. He had come on in relief in the eighth.

Sunday afternoon Cincinnati continued to pound the baseball, banging out 14 hits in defeating the Giants 10-6. The win, the Reds' seventh in their last 21 games, improved their road trip record to 5-8.

Danny Jackson, 6-3, got the Cincinnati victory while also collecting two hits and driving in three runs.

Jackson, battling his way back to early season form after suffering a hamstring injury, struck out eight batters in seven innings of work, giving up three runs on six hits.

His arm was in true form, and his bat was maybe even more impressive. Jackson, enjoying his first year of hitting after coming to the Reds from the American League, had an RBI infield single in the second, and a two-run double in the third as Cincinnati built a 10-0 lead.

Five other Reds hitters, other than Jackson, enjoyed a multiple hit performance. Barry Larkin, Chris Sabo, Paul O'Neill, and Nick Esasky had two hits each, and Bo Diaz banged out three to pace Cincinnati offensively.

Kelly Downs, who shutout Atlanta on two hits in his previous outing, gave up seven runs in two and two-thirds innings of work. He was tagged with the loss.

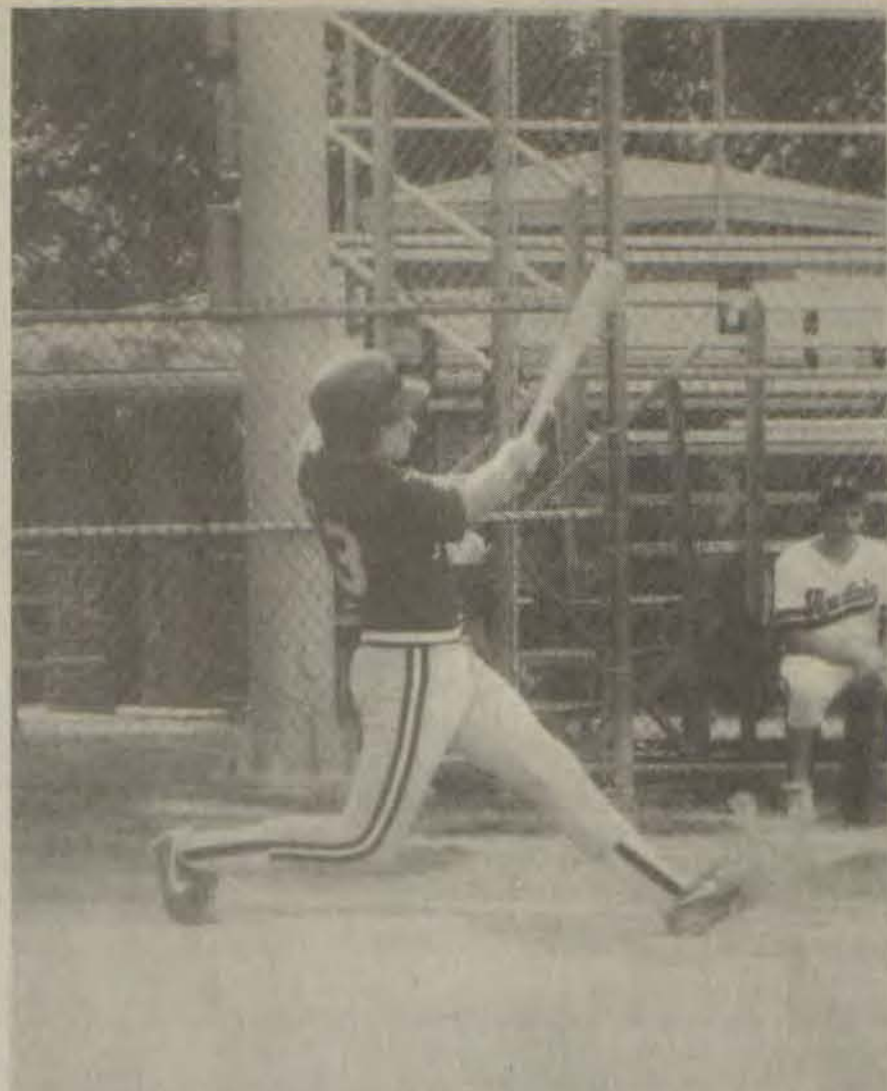

While the Reds were busy hanging the second consecutive loss on San Francisco at home, San Diego was politely going about the task of sweeping the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Ed Whitson, winner of three in a row, gave up only six hits in seven innings to claim the win as the Padres dealt LA a 5-2 defeat, allowing the Reds to pull to within five and one-half games of the first placed Dodgers.

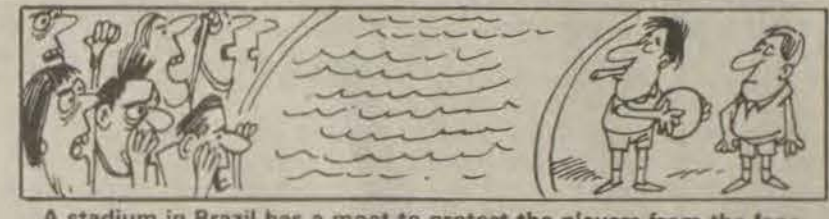

Cincinnati, after completing their current six-game homestand, goes on the road for three at Houston beginning next Tuesday.

The Reds then return home June 24 to open a seven game homestand against Los Angeles and San Diego.

The remainder of June finds Cincinnati playing nothing but teams of the Western Division, and the remainder of June may prove crucial in determining the final outcome among the teams of the Western Division.

HITTING NOW: Floyd County catcher-outfielder Tony Kidd banged out three hits in a double header Sunday, and drove in two runs with a single and a triple in the first game win.

A stadium in Brazil has a moat to protect the players from the fans.

Risen Star's loss to Winning Colors in the Kentucky Derby was the only thing that kept him from matching the greatest feat available in horse racing, the winning of the Triple Crown.

Not long ago Risen Star captured the Preakness Stakes, and Saturday afternoon he ran away from the pack in winning the Belmont by some 14 and one half lengths.

Risen Star, the son of legendary Triple Crown winner Secretariat, finished in the second fastest time, 2:26 and two fifths, ever for a Belmont runner. His win was the largest of margins since his sire ran away from the field for a 31 length victory back in 1973.

But one major difference not only marks the signs of the times, but also shows how much horse racing has grown in both popularity and financial standing.

Risen Star brought home over one million dollars to his owners. By winning the Belmont, he earned almost as much in one day as Secretariat did in his career.

Arnold Adds Cunningham To WKU Basketball Staff

Charles Cunningham, a successful assistant coach on the Murray State men's basketball staff the past two seasons, has been selected to fill a similar position at Western Kentucky University.

Cunningham joined the MSU staff in 1986 and has been a key figure in the Racers' success this past season, helping to guide Murray State to the Ohio Valley Conference regular season and tournament championships and a berth in the NCAA Tournament. The Racers advanced to the second round in the NCAA, bowing out to eventual national champion Kansas in a close one. Murray finished the year with a 22-9 worksheet.

"I am very excited about adding Charles to our staff here at Western," said WKU Head Coach Murray Arnold. "I've known him since his playing days at North Alabama. He has been an outstanding high school coach and a very successful assistant coach at Murray State. We're all glad to have him on board."

The addition of Cunningham to the Hilltopper staff fills a void created when former WKU aide Hank Harris resigned to take over as head coach at LaBette Community College in Parsons, Kans.

Cunningham began his coaching career at his alma mater, North

Alabama, as a graduate assistant (1973-75) and then spent 11 years at Bradshaw High School in Florence, Ala. After eight years (1975-83) as an assistant there, he took over the head coaching reins in 1983. His '83-84 squad went 17-11 and posted an impressive victory over then number one-ranked Decatur High. And, the first team he worked with at Bradshaw in 1975-76 won the Alabama state championship. One of the athletes on that state title team, Otis Boddie, went on to help lead North Alabama to the NCAA Division II national championship and was a second-round pick of the Los Angeles Lakers of the NBA in 1980.

A 36-year-old native of Pickensville, Ala., Cunningham graduated from Kirksey High School in Aliceville, Ala., in 1969, with three letters in basketball and two in football. He was an All-Region center on the hardwood.

He then lettered two seasons in basketball at Snead Junior College in Boaz, Ala., and earned All-Conference, All-State and All-Region (Alabama and Georgia) honors his sophomore year.

The 6-6 Cunningham then moved on to North Alabama, where he lettered twice, set a school record with 23 rebounds in one game and earned All-Gulf South Conference honors his senior season.

Cunningham earned the Bachelor of Science degree in physical education with a minor in history at North Alabama in 1973. He added a Masters of Education in secondary education from UNA in 1975 and then an Education Specialist's degree, also from UNA, in 1981.

He and his wife, Denese, a native of Sheffield, Ala., are the parents of two children, an 18-year-old son, Damon, who will be a freshman at North Alabama this fall, and a 12-year-old daughter, Robin.

Know Before You Go... Filing A Float Plan

Imagine this scenario: A man is out in his boat for an afternoon of relaxing fishing. After a few hours, he stands up to stretch and, in the process, capsizes the boat. He's able to quickly scramble onto the overturned craft, but he realizes he did not tell his wife or family where he would be. It could be hours or even days before he's rescued.

The smart thing to do, according to the National Safe Boating Council, is file a float plan.

A float plan serves the boater the same as a flight plan serves the aviator. It includes the boat's name and number, length, type, color, power, cruising range, and speed. It lists the number of passengers, and their names and addresses.

The most important information is the destination, time of departure, the route, and the time of planned return. The location and license number of the automobile are included.

The plan, which lists the phone number of the nearest rescue or enforcement agency, is left with a reliable person or the marina from which the boat departs.

Most Valuable Player

Terrence Mullins, of the McDowell Junior Pro-All Stars was voted by the coaches of the various teams that participated in the Maytown Junior Pro Journey, as the Most Valuable Player of the Tournament. He also was chosen as a member of the All Tournament Team.

Teams participating were from Martin, Prestonsburg, Maytown, McDowell and Knott county.

Mullins is also an honor student at McDowell where he was a member of Mrs. Kitty Frazier's class.

He is the son of Terry and Kathy Mullins, of Hi Hat.

Bassin' With the Pros...

Solving Muddy Water Fishing Problems

It happens every spring, summer and autumn, to novice and professional anglers alike: a long-planned fishing trip or a big tournament is plagued with rain. The water muddies, and fishing action slows to a standstill.

At times like this, many bass fishermen pack their tackle and head home. Others determinedly stay on the water, trying to salvage whatever they can from the conditions. A few, like top bass tournament professional Denny Brauer of the Evinrude Pro Staff, have learned how to catch bass in muddy water.

"When the water turns muddy," explains Brauer, the 1987 B.A.S.S. Angler of the Year and a four-time winner in national competition, "I move to the backs of tributary creeks. Here, the water will muddy the fastest from shoreline runoff, but it will also clear the fastest, too."

"The backs of creeks have another advantage," adds Brauer, "which is that they will also have the warmest water. This means the bass there will be most active, an important factor if the lake you're fishing is still cold. Most of the pros I compete against agree that cold, muddy water is just about the worst of all possible bass fishing conditions."

At times, the Evinrude pro notes, it is possible to "out run" muddy water by fishing the lower end of a big impoundment. Normally, upper lake tributaries muddy the fastest because they are the most shallow, but on some impoundments that are basically all shallow, even lower end creeks will muddy quickly.

In the creeks, Brauer looks for different forms of cover to fish. Muddy water often means rising water that covers new shoreline, and this "new" cover, such as grasses, bushes and shrubs, frequently attracts bass.

"In rising water, it seems as if the fresh cover filters out mud and silt," Brauer explains, "and bass move into these areas, even into extremely shallow water."

These are active bass, too. Spinnerbaits retrieved beside the brush, or jigs dropped into the cover, often draw vicious strikes. Brauer likes a single blade willow leaf spinnerbait that features a size 5 blade and a white or chartreuse skirt. Crank baits are also good lure choices.

"In newly flooded vegetation," says Brauer, "some of the fish will hold extremely tight on cover. They'll also be suspended, so another way to catch them is by flipping or pitching. For this, I'd recommend a jig or plastic worm, especially if the bass aren't aggressive and won't hit the faster lures."

Another muddy water fishing technique many of the top pros use, particularly on lakes with abundant vegetation like milfoil, hydrilla or water hyacinths, is to fish the outside edge of that vegetation. It sometimes appears as if this vegetation acts like a filter to the silt, so bass concentrate as close to it as possible.

Under these conditions, one of the top lure choices is a buzz bait, especially if the water is warm and the bass are aggressive. Brauer prefers a buzz bait that makes a lot of noise and creates plenty of commotion. He retrieves it as slowly as possible along the edge of the vegetation; the heavier the greenery, the slower he makes his retrieve.

"In really muddy water, I think sound is important," explains Brauer, "so I use lures that create sound by moving water, such as the big blade spinnerbait, a buzz bait, or a wobbling crank bait. If I fish a worm in muddy water, I use one that has a vibrating tail that swims when I move it."

On lakes characterized with steep, high bluffs, bass frequently move to the ends of those bluffs to escape muddy water. There, explains Brauer, where the banks don't slope as severely, the composition of the bottom often changes and more cover, such as bushes or bottom-growing moss, may be present. Bass may be holding tight to this cover, just as they do in creeks where the water is rising.

In this type of water, the jig and plastic worm are excellent lure choices, and should be worked slowly in and around the cover. For active fish, a crank bait can also be tried.

Still another muddy water fishing technique is to work the leading edge of the muddy water as it moves slowly down a lake. Bass probably aren't actually moving ahead of the mud, as some anglers believe, but rather, are simply becoming more aggressive.

Good lure choices for this type of fishing include spinnerbaits and crank baits. Brauer recommends using slightly larger lures that produce a lot of vibration, and working them at various depths between the muddy and clear water.

"The sight of muddy water discourages a lot of anglers," concludes Brauer, "but it really shouldn't. There are a lot of ways to fish it, and in some instances, the bass are almost easier to catch because the muddy water pinpoints their locations so well."

SCHEDULED TO THROW: Mark Tipton is scheduled to throw the second game today when Floyd County takes on Williamson in a double header today at Allen Park.

Know Before You Go... Booze And Boats Don't Mix

Drinking while boating can be a fatal combination, as alcohol affects a person's balance, vision, and judgement. More than 50 percent of the boating accidents that result in death are linked to alcohol.

According to the National Safe Boating Council, one of the first things to go when a person starts to drink is his judgement. After a drink or two, a person begins to loosen up and lose his inhibitions. Poor decisions, bad judgement, and increased risk-taking are the results.

Alcohol also affects a person's sense of balance. A moment of dizziness or a misstep on the patio or in a restaurant may not cause any harm, but it can spell disaster on a boat.

Many of those killed in boating accidents fall out of boats, or capsize boats and end up in the water. A small boat is unstable in the best of conditions, and entering it or leaving it or moving around in it is hazardous even for a sober, agile person. People seldom notice a decrease in their balancing ability after a drink or two, but a small, tippy boat does.

Vision provides 90 percent of the information required to operate a boat. Too much alcohol affects the pupil of the eye, which controls the amount of light entering the eye. Alcohol relaxes the small muscles that allow the eyes to focus on objects. This results in fuzzy or double vision. If there is double vision, the brain suppresses the image to one eye, causing a loss of depth perception.

Peripheral vision is also lost, as well as the ability to distinguish colors, especially red and green, the colors of a boat's running lights.

The "designed driver" concept, with one person staying sober to drive, can be applied to boats and water. However, intoxicated passengers are at risk on the water.

Remembering a few safety tips will keep a person safe on the water, especially where alcohol is concerned:

1. Don't operate a boat while intoxicated. Alcohol impairs balance, vision, and judgment. In most states, impairment is defined as .10 percent, but even lower levels of blood alcohol may affect a person who's tense, tired, on medication, or drinking on an empty stomach. It is a federal offense to operate a boat while intoxicated. Offenders are subject to a $1,000 fine with increased penalties for causing injury or death.

2. The person operating the boat should establish his authority as "Captain" because he is responsible for the safety of passengers, as well as water skiers, swimmers, and boats that will be affected by the wake. Passengers should remain seated. Loud music and rowdy behavior can easily distract an operator from his important task.

3. Keep lifejackets handy, and don't make those who decide to use them feel uncomfortable. People who wear lifejackets don't drown.

Obituaries

Elmer Avery Newsome

Elmer Avery Newsome, well-known Floyd county philanthropist, was found dead Sunday at his residence in Martin, victim of an apparent heart attack. Newsome, 56, who was known throughout Floyd county as the "Fruit Man," owned and operated Newsome's Produce at Martin. Though due to ill health, Newsome could no longer do strenuous work, he still continued to oversee the produce business until his death. Newsome began his business in 1971 using a $10 bill and bought fruit, peddling it from door to door. He started out in the business with his brother and half-brother, later going in to business for himself in the building beside the tracks at Martin where he kept two rooms as his living quarters. He also peddled fruit from stands in Johnson and Pike counties before he became disabled. Newsome received the name "Fruit Man" when he began distributing fruit to the needy. He provided fruit for every visitation at the Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home in Martin and supplied fruit boxes to nursing homes and hospitals. Halloween was a time for free fruit treats for any children who came to call and Christmas became a time of joy for poverty-stricken families who could not afford the produce which he distributed freely. A lifetime member of the D.A.V. Chapter at Garrett, Newsome was a construction worker earlier in his career. He was a son of the late Chester and Minnie Hunter Newsome and was born December 3, 1937 at Hi Hat. He is survived by three sons, Jonah Ray and Daniel Lee Newsome, both of Parliament Calif., and Allen Wayne Newsome, of Norwalk, O.; three daughters, Erlena Medina, also of Parliament, Calif., Glemma King, of Sandusky, O., and Delores Davis, of Norwalk, O.; one brother, Everett Newsome, of Coldwater, Ky.; a half brother, Den Hunter, of Galveston; a sister, Charity Lynn, of Detroit, Mich., and two half-sisters, Armina Jones, of Stanville, and Lola Mae Kidd, of Honaker. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at 11 a.m. at the Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home with Chuck Hall officiating. Burial was made in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel. "Father's Day in Heaven"

Why do we think of dad, only on Father's Day? Or, perhaps those last few hours of his earthly stay? Why don't we "thank" him now, for all the things he's done? And hear his kindly voice say, "Don't talk about it, son." His eyes crinkle at the corners, as he thinks of long ago. His hair is streaked with silver, and, Oh! we love him so! He thinks to himself, as grandchildren run to and fro, "Will be quickly forgotten, when it's time for me to go?" He very seldom thinks, of his worldly "material" worth. But mostly what he's done for God, while trodding on this earth. He knows, he was put here, with heavenly plans for him, And that he will return to heaven, when he's completed them. Years ago, a Father, sent to us, his son... It must have been much harder, as He was an only one! We followed our father to the graveside, and lingered there to pray. Seldom do we realize, this must be, our Heavenly Father's Day. VICKI, GAIL, & GARY Itpd.

'Ring of Fire' Set Saturday's on KET

Discover the largest and last-explored islands of Indonesia. Follow the footsteps of Captain Robert Scott to the South Pole. Sail 4,000 miles across the South Pacific. It's man against nature, and man against himself, in the series Adventure which airs Saturdays at 7 p.m. on KET. A four-part Adventure presentation, "Ring of Fire," begins June 25 and continues through July 16. The creators of "Ring of Fire" are filmmaking brothers Lorne and Lawrence Blair. "Ring of Fire" records a 10-year journey through the 13,000 islands of Indonesia. After sailing 2,000 miles in a native schooner, the brothers are shown standing on the rim of an active volcano which locals call "The Child of Krakatoa." The two go on to track "dragons" on the island of Komodo, meet python hunters, pearl divers and sultans, and embark on a harrowing expedition into the heart of Borneo. The brothers' exploits in "Ring of Fire" are introduced by an old friend of theirs, actor Richard Gere. On July 23, Adventure presents "Struggle for the Pole," an expedition that follows a dangerous 900-mile journey on foot to the South Pole. This season, Adventure also retraces the historic 1789 Tonga-to-Timor voyage of William Bligh, captain of the HMS Bounty. "Captain Bligh and the Child of Bounty" airs July 30. Australian mariner Ronald Bligh-Ware, a direct descendant of Captain Bligh, sails a replica of his ancestor's open longboat 4,000 miles across the South Pacific.

"Native Son" Airs On KET

The dramatic film "Native Son," based on the controversial best-selling novel by Richard Wright, airs on KET Wednesday, June 29 at 9 p.m. as an American Playhouse presentation.

"Native Son" looks at racism in Depression-era Chicago through the tragic story of Bigger Thomas, a poverty-stricken black youth. Found in a compromising position with the girl, he tries to keep her quiet and accidentally kills her. Knowing instinctively he will never be exonerated, Bigger flees, only to be hunted and caught by the police.

SOAP BEAT

Extra-special extras fill out 'Loving' cast

By Marie Michaels

Three power figures behind the scenes of the ABC soap "Loving" — the show's creator and head writer, Agnes Nixon, Capital Cities/ABC chairman Thomas S. Murphy and board member Warren E. Buffett — recently appeared as extras on the soap. Nixon played a restaurant patron who watched Murphy and Buffett, who played waiters, not so delicately evict Egypt Masters (played by Linda Cook) from the restaurant when she tried to join a dinner party hosted by her husband Alex Clay Alden (played by Randolph Mantooth). Nixon, the creator of "All My Children," "One Life to Live" and "As the World Turns" as well as "Loving," had never appeared on one of her own soaps before.

Agnes Nixon

• "The Young and the Restless," which has produced some excellent concert scenes in the past, will feature Michael Damian, who plays Danny Romalotti, in a concert sequence which will air in early July. In the script, the concert is held to raise money to help feed the world's hungry. Damian also showed off his singing talents in an episode that aired on Memorial Day.

• Also on "Y&R," the recurring role of Lynne Bassett, Paul Williams' secretary, is being played by Laura Bryan Birn.

• Billy Warlock, who plays Frankie Brady on "Days of Our Lives," is appearing in "Relay" at the Mainstage Theatre in North Hollywood. The play is being directed by Warlock's "DOOL" castmate Wally Kurth (who plays Justin Kiriakis).

• Robin Strasser, who appeared on "One Life to Live" as Dorian Lord and was recently seen as Elizabeth Stern in the ABC miniseries "Baby M," has been signed to appear in the upcoming NBC miniseries "Glitz." The miniseries, based on the novel by Elmore Leonard, stars Jimmy Smits ("L.A. Law"), Markie Post ("Night Court") and John Diehl ("Miami Vice").

• Frank Dicopoulos, who plays Frank Cooper on "Guiding Light," is excited over the fact that he's been chosen to appear in a fashion spread in an upcoming issue of Esquire magazine.

• On "Ryan's Hope," underworld figure Silvio is being played by Cesare Danova. Danova, who was born in Rome, appeared in the '60s series "Garrison's Gorillas."

IN THIS WEEK

'Try to Remember' is no-nonsense nostalgia

By Paul Elie

After a year of preparation, executive producer Shad Northshield wants high ratings for "Try to Remember," a CBS News nostalgia program that premieres Thursday, June 23. But, unlike many at CBS, he is a realist.

Shad Northshield

"I don't see how there can be any reaction, airing against 'The Cosby Show' on a summer night," he says. "I'm happy just to get it on the air."

The pilot episode, hosted by Charles Kuralt, airs this week in place of CBS News' "48 Hours." Then it will return to a shelf in Northshield's warren of an office, where it, and its producer, will wait.

Which is unfortunate, for viewers and for CBS. Because "Try to Remember," like the recent documentary "The Wall Within," shows that CBS News still makes solid, no-nonsense news programs, despite reports of its demise.

While ABC's recent nostalgia show "Our World" focused on months or seasons, "Try to Remember" recalls the events of a single week. The week chosen for the pilot, Aug. 10-17, 1969, is, of course, one full of news- and nostalgia-worthy events: Woodstock, a parade for the Apollo 11 astronauts, the first entry of British troops into Northern Ireland. And there are predictable montages of faded movie posters, book jackets and record sleeves.

But the show gives equal play to events that would have been the lead stories in a slower news week: Hurricane Camille in Mississippi, a takeover of white-run county government by blacks in Alabama. And the big events are saved from predictability. In the Woodstock segment, Kuralt interviews Martin Scorsese, who went to the festival hoping to practice filming live music and ended up making a hit documentary. In the Camille segment, he talks with a man whose wife and 10 children died in the storm.

At its best, "Try to Remember" spends as much time in the present as in the past. The Northern Ireland segment, for instance, notes that the British troops have never left.

Northshield, 65, who was removed as executive producer of "Sunday Morning" and assigned to "Try to Remember," has strong reasons for wanting the show to air.

"I've been doing this for 35 years and I've come to realize that the only pay that's worth anything is air time," he says. "So I'd like to get it on as a short series during the summer. Then if they brought us back later people would remember us."

As Mac, Robinson keeps 'Night Court' in line

By Wendy Wallace

"Our show is so different from most that you see now," says Charlie Robinson, who plays court clerk Mac Robinson on NBC's Thursday-night series "Night Court." "What we do is very true to real life. It's so wacky, but still, we try to touch someone through all our craziness."

Charlie Robinson

Robinson also stars this week in the rebroadcast of "Crash Course," an NBC movie airing Sunday, June 19. As the nerdy teacher Larry Pearle, he must contend with a mischievous group of teenagers who are enrolled in his summer-school driver's education class.

The role of Pearle represented a change for Robinson, whose Mac normally remains composed among all the madness in the courtroom run by Judge Harry T. Stone (Harry Anderson). "I'm the kind of actor that as soon as I find a role, I begin to research it," says Robinson. "I want to grow with every character I play, and try to learn something for myself. So I went and learned a lot about the judicial system.

"Mac really looks over and takes care of Harry," he adds. "Someone has to keep him in line. So we give a feeling of caring for each other but still we have our own jobs to do. It's amazing how Mac has evolved into a wonderful character that I love playing."

Born in Houston, Robinson studied and later taught acting at Houston's Studio 7 and the University of Houston before he got his first professional job - in a local production of "Damn Yankees." He later moved to Los Angeles, where he appeared in stage productions of "Robeson," "Hamlet," "The Great White Hope" and "The Congo." His film credits include "Sugarland Express" (1974), "The Longest Yard" (1974), "Apocalypse Now" (1979) and "The River" (1984). His TV credits include the role of Newdell on "Buffalo Bill" (1983-84) and guest appearances on "Hill Street Blues" and "St. Elsewhere."

"My co-stars and I all have respect for the other actor and we give them their due," Robinson says of "Night Court." "And that's the way we've always been. I couldn't be happier on a series. We're having such a great time that I couldn't ask for a nicer group of people."

MARQUEE

RAMBO III (R - Tri-Star) Starring Sylvester Stallone. ★★½

By J.T. YURKO

Here's the best line from "Rambo III," a film in which dialogue is not a strong point: Trautman (Richard Crenna) has been captured by a sadistic Russian commander (Marc de Jonge), and is being tortured for information. Rambo (played by Sylvester Stallone) virtually by himself breaks into the heavily armed Russian camp and almost, but not quite, rescues Trautman. The incredulous commander asks: "Who does this Rambo think he is - God?" To which Trautman replies: "No - God would show you mercy... Rambo won't."

That pretty much says it all for "Rambo III," the latest installment in the story of John Rambo, the one-man fighting machine who likes to go it alone no matter who or how large the enemy. In Rambo's last adventure, "First Blood Part II," he was up against Communists in Southeast Asia, and their tanks and helicopters proved to be no match for his exploding arrows and rippling muscles. This time, he faces off against a sizable portion of the Soviet army in Afghanistan. Tanks, helicopters, laser rifles and whatever else they throw against him are shrugged off with a snarl.

Stallone is co-author of the script, and no one could accuse him of overwriting his part. His dialogue is limited to such character-revealing gems as "I'll go in alone," and a few grunts and groans. Remember the scene in "First Blood" in which he gave himself stitches when wounded? Well, that pales in comparison to some self-doctoring here that is definitely not approved by the American Medical Association.

Technically, though, the film is top-notch. Shot in Israel and reported to be one of the most expensive movies ever made ($63 million), its special effects are first-rate, even though they are limited mostly to explosions. Politically, the film is irresponsible, especially in its representation of the Russian commander, who obviously prefers medieval torture rituals to glasnost.

MANDATORY NOTICE BY ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY FOR ALL WATER SYSTEMS PERTAINING TO LEAD IN DRINKING WATER

"The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

"Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

"EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women. "Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

- if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
- if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
- if the home is less than five years old, or
- if you have soft or acidic water, or
- if water sits in the pipes for several hours."

The Floyd County Board of Education does not have lead service lines or other lead-containing materials in our distribution systems. The water in the Floyd County Board of Education water supply is not in violation of the current standards. The water in your own house piping may be.

You can reduce the possibility of consuming water with high lead concentrations by the following:

1. Flush cold water pipes before drinking—10-30 seconds.
2. Use only water from cold water pipes for drinking, cooking or preparing baby formula.
3. Lead pipes and service connections can be replaced.
4. Insist that only lead free materials be used in repairs or new plumbing.

The only way to be sure of the amount of lead in your water is to have the water tested by a state certified testing laboratory. For additional information contact the Drinking Water Branch of the Kentucky Division of Water at (502) 564-3410 or the Floyd County Board of Education at (606) 886-2354.

Lead content in Floyd County Board of Education supplied systems is as follows:

Melvin Elementary	0.004 (ppm)
Osborne Elementary	0.027 (ppm)
Spradlin Branch	0.001 (ppm)

The water in Prestonsburg City's Utilities Commission's water supply is not in violation of the current standards. The water in your own house piping may be. It is the responsibility of the customer to pay for testing for lead in their own house piping.

4. Insist that only lead free materials be used in repairs or new plumbing.

The most common source of lead in drinking water is copper pipe assembled with lead based solder. To determine if you have lead pipes or copper pipes with lead solder in your homes or buildings; lead pipe is gray in color and very soft and can easily be scratched with a screwdriver or coin to shine or cut with a knife. Lead solder is also gray, soft and can be scratched shiny. Copper pipe is the color of a penny. ### Meat Firm Charged With 'Bait, Switch'

A Texas businessman adds another lawsuit to his list today, as the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division filed suit in Jefferson Circuit Court. Robert Brueggemeyer, who has been sued by over 12 other state and local governments and has been featured on ABC's 20/20 for his "bait and switch" tactics, has been charged with violating Kentucky's Consumer Protection Act. Also mentioned in the lawsuit are Quality Meats of Summit, Inc. d/b/a American Beef in Louisville, Ralph Lough of Ohio and Jack Kennedy of Louisville.

According to Atty. General Cowan, American Beef, which is located on South Fifth Street, allegedly advertised 100 lbs. of meat at the cost of 99¢ a pound. Once the consumer entered the establishment to purchase the sale product, the defendant's allegedly attempted to "switch" customers to other, more expensive meat through direct or indirect disparagement of the advertised meat.

"This type of consumer rip-off, 'bait and switch,' is very common," Cowan said. "Consumers will go to an establishment expecting to pay around 99¢ a pound for quality meat and will end up paying sometimes more than $4 a pound. The average individual is far from being an expert on the meat quality and for this reason they are easily deceived, especially by professional con schemes such as this."

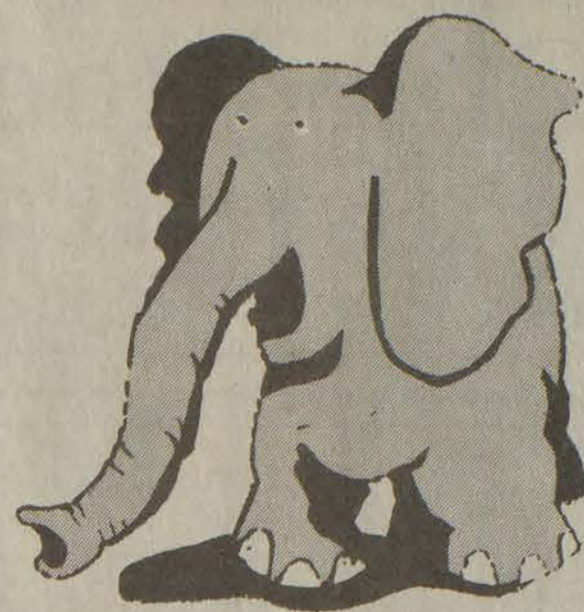

A restraining order issued by Judge Rebecca Westerfield prohibits the defendants from continuing the "switch and bait" tactics mentioned in the lawsuit. The Attorney General is asking for an injunction against "bait" advertising, "bait and switch" tactics, restitution for victimized consumers, and civil penalties of up to $2,000 per willful violation of the Consumer Protection Act.

NOT SO—AT
ED WALTERS MOTORS

We know it's confusing—One car dealer saying this and another saying that. But here at Ed Walters Motors, we lay it "Straight on the Line." When we say we'll sell you a car, we'll sell you a car. We don't add destination charge and options after you get here.
