

Stumbo Attends Democratic Convention; Likens Event To "A Very Large Pep Rally"

By Joe Porter

Floyd County's lone delegate to the Democratic National Convention — Deborah Stumbo — recently returned home after four hectic days of speeches, voting, and hand shaking. She called the trip worthwhile, and said, "It was interesting to see how the selection process works and hear the speakers."

Stumbo is the wife of Kentucky House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo. She said going to the National Convention was something she has always wanted to do; she was one of six delegates elected to go from the 7th Congressional District.

A total of 66 delegates represented Kentucky. Besides the congressionally elected delegates like Stumbo, there were also state-at-large delegates chosen by the Kentucky Central Executive Committee, and "super delegates" appointed by the governor.

Stumbo had worked for Tennessee Senator Al Gore for over a year and had intended to go as a Gore delegate. Yet Gore was so far back in the delegate count that Stumbo and the other Gore delegates in the state were released to endorse Dukakis, which they did.

Being a delegate is costly. Delegates are expected to pay their own way there and back — food, hotel accommodations and transportation. Stumbo drove and stayed in a very nice hotel on the outskirts of Atlanta. Daily, the Kentucky contingent was shuttled back and forth. Nice accommodations have their trade off: the way it works, according to Stumbo, is that the best seats on the convention floor go to the delegation with the least preferable accommodations, and it alternates with each convention.

Speaking candidly, Stumbo likened the convention to "a very large pep rally," called it well organized, but exhausting, after hearing speech after speech for six or seven hours, four straight nights.

The Omni has a capacity of 12,000 and the Atlanta Fire Marshall wouldn't let the people exceed that number. With 5,000 delegates, thousands of people with press credentials, and honored guests, the hall quickly filled at peak times. One such time was Tuesday night, July 19, just prior to the Jesse Jackson speech. And Stumbo made the mistake of walking out for a few minutes with a friend to get a sandwich, only to be denied readmittance. She wasn't the only one though; Georgia Sen. Sam Nunn also couldn't get back in. Stumbo ended up seeing the speech on TV and said, "the next night we took our sandwiches in with us."

On Wednesday night, former Kentucky Gov. Martha Layne Collins and Gov. Wallace Wilkinson addressed the convention. Asked how they did, Stumbo said, "I thought they were very good, but I'm biased."

That wasn't the last of Stumbo's travels this summer. Last week, from Sunday to Thursday, she attended the National Conference of State Legislatures with her husband in Reno, Nev. "It was a convention seeking better ways to run state legislatures and an opportunity to exchange new ideas," she said.

Stumbo met many interesting political leaders in Atlanta, but as exciting and informative as the trip was, she said she isn't sure whether she would want to do it again.

Deborah Stumbo, delegate to last month's Democratic National Convention in Atlanta, stands next to Tennessee Senator Albert Gore, who she had originally supported for the nomination. Prior to the convention, however, Stumbo was released to support Michael Dukakis, the party's choice.

Veterans' Memorial Work Continues

Large sections of granite inscribed with the names of Kentuckians killed in the Vietnam conflict are being hoisted into place by a crane to form a monument to those soldiers in Frankfort.

The monument, which will be a functioning sundial when completed, is scheduled for dedication Nov. 12.

Several Floyd, Martin, Magoffin, Johnson and Pike county soldiers' names are listed on the monument.

Gov. Wallace Wilkinson will be the keynote speaker for the dedication ceremony, and the state's Vietnam veterans, as well as all veterans' groups in the state, will be invited, according to Jim Halvatgis of the state Department for Military Affairs.

Halvatgis said former governor Martha Layne Collins donated $100,000 from a state contingency fund toward the construction of the memorial on state property at the Department of Libraries and Archives. It will be turned over to the state at its dedication.

The Kentucky Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund is working to raise $1 million for the construction and a maintenance trust fund. So far, said Halvatgis, about $600,000 has been donated. Tax-deductible contributions may be sent to 3 Riverfront Plaza, Louisville, Ky. 40202; checks may be made payable to the Kentucky Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund.

Area soldiers listed on the monument are:

Floyd County: Danny Eugene Blevins, Ira Charles Brank, Andrew J. Campbell, Lawrence Edward Clark, Phillip Rodney Coleman, Donald Hall, Donald Ray Haywood, Andy Johnson Jr., Lowell Johnson, Jeff Mulkey, Billy Jay Pitts and Ansel James Terry.
Martin County: Roe Hopson Jr., Jacob Andrew Horn, Thomas Randell Ramsey, William Howard Stepp, James Lloyd Stewart, Danny Russell Ward.

Magoffin County: Ralph Honaker.

Leedy, Hunter To Wed Aug. 6

Anna Leedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harmond Leedy of David, and Ron Hunter, son of Sadie Hunter of Martin and the late Everett Hunter, will wed Saturday, Aug. 6, at 7 p.m. at Trimble Chapel on Lancer-Watergap Road.

The gracious custom of open wedding will be observed.

Boaters Beware

Despite recent rains, the water level at area boating facilities remains lower than normal. Boaters are asked to be on the lookout for sandbars, and be cautious in normally navigable waters, according to Ranger Bonnie J. Caples, above, with the US Army Corps of Engineers. (Photo by Allen Bolling).

Brackett Responds To Times Article

Dear Editor, In response to an article in the Floyd County Times July 27, the following information will give the Floyd County citizens a factual and correct statement regarding the Floyd County School District Annual Financial Report for 1987-88.

former superintendent...he will have to take a wait and see attitude...the assistant superintendent of finance gave Mr. Hager a preliminary financial report approximately two weeks ago...

Reader Questions Modern Science

Dear Editor, Modern science, even though great in many respects, remains ignorant of true values. It does not know the road to peace! It has failed to deliver the world from diseases, and heartaches.

The eternal science of the mind, body, and soul, led by the Holy Spirit, is the answer. God sent His only son to lead us successfully in all things, because He loves us, not because we deserve anything.

Sexist Wording Draws Readers' Ire

We fully recognize that if "a woman driver lost control," (caption to photograph, front page, July 20), it is certainly a newsworthy event, as it is such a rare occurrence; however, this headline is in danger of being perceived as one of those double-standard sexist language traps that some journalists fall prey to.

ANNE MEIMAN, DONNA YELLEN, MEGAN CORCORAN, Floyd County residents

Reader Angered By Recent Caption

Dear Editor, I was quite surprised to read the caption under the picture in the Wednesday, July 20 edition of the Floyd County Times where a woman lost control of her automobile and crashed into a house injuring herself and an occupant.

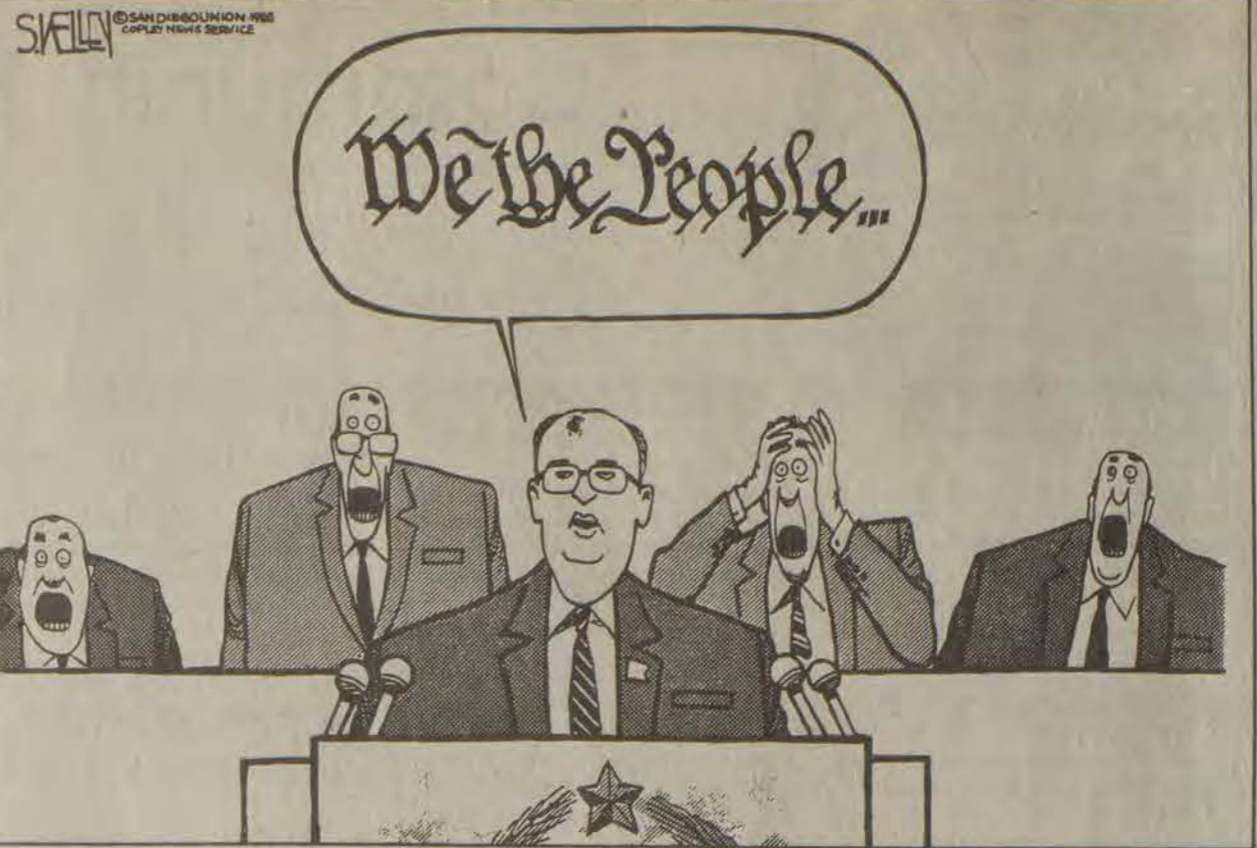

driver of the automobile had been male, the caption would not have read "a man driver lost control."

I have heard more than my share of derogatory comments attacking the nature of women, including their inability to drive. Most of these comments have been delivered by narrow-minded men who are insecure in their male roles in society.

In the future, I expect it would be wise to remember your reading population is comprised of both male and female and edit your paper accordingly.

SAVING OUR CHILDREN FROM ABUSE, POVERTY

It is our nation's children who sometimes suffer the most from poverty, crime, and neglect. Often their pain is endured in silence because they are unaware or unable to turn to someone for help.

As a founder of the Kentucky Task Force on Missing and Exploited Children, I was staggered by the latest figures on problem children. This year, an estimated 1,000,000 children in this nation will run away; nearly 2,000 between the ages of 15 and 19 will commit suicide; 200,000 will become involved in prostitution.

A critical asset in helping these children is legislation I am cosponsoring to reauthorize the Runaway and Homeless Youth Act. Under this act, the Department of Health and Human Services will target nearly $80 million over the next three years to provide grants, technical assistance, and training to states, localities, and private enterprises for the purpose of developing local facilities to deal with the immediate needs of runaway and homeless youths and their families.

This legislation is designed to give local authorities the resources they need to offer children a safe place to go and a caring person to counsel them on how to overcome their problems.

The programs made possible by this act include the Runaway Hotline, a 24-hour toll-free number which children in need can call for assistance and which serves as the national youth suicide hotline; a resource guide on combating juvenile prostitution; a public-private partnership to go into the workplace and inform parents about warning signs of runaway behavior; and Operation Safe Place, in which local businesses are encouraged to display an instantly recognizable safeguard sign and serve as a link to local runaway youth centers.

Runaway and homeless children are often abused and in constant danger as they struggle for survival on city streets. Often they come to the attention of law enforcement officials only as a result of their involvement in illegal activities. It is critical that we concentrate money and effort on programs that can rescue these children before they end up in the criminal justice system or in drug rehabilitation clinics.

If we are to progress as a nation we must start with our youth. The Runaway and Homeless Youth Act has literally saved thousands of children's lives from drugs and abuse and helped them overcome the problems that they faced.

Thanks

Russell and Caren Shepherd of David, who lost their home in a fire July 18th, would like to thank everyone who helped try to save it. First, thanks to God for allowing each of them to escape unharmed. Thanks to the David Vol. Fire Department; without their help three other homes probably would have burned. Thanks also to the Beaver Elkhorn Water Co. who just recently installed a fire hydrant. Thanks to the Branham and Baker's workers and truck drivers who stopped to help. And a special thank you to all their wonderful neighbors and friends who have helped to make this trauma easier to bear.

Minor Injury Reported

Ricky Wright, 5, received minor injuries Wednesday during a two-vehicle accident near Hardee's in Prestonsburg. His mother, Mary E. Wright, and the driver of the second vehicle, Rita Campbell, were not injured. No citations were issued.

5-Year-Old Slightly Injured In Recent Two-Car Accident

A traffic accident near Hardee's in Prestonsburg Wednesday, July 27, at 12:38 p.m. resulted in minor injuries to 5-year-old Ricky Wright, son of Mary E. Wright, 29, of Allen, who was driver of one car involved. Rita H. Campbell, 44, of Prestonsburg, was attempting to make a left hand turn when the accident occurred, according to Prestonsburg Chief of Police Dickie Campbell. Squad Six emergency medical technicians Tom Hereford and Larry Adams assessed the injuries and applied first aid. Ricky Wright was transported by P & B Ambulance Service to Highlands Regional Medical Center's emergency room, where he was treated for minor injury and released. The two women were not injured, and no citations were issued. In a separate accident Thursday, July 28, Peter Martin 21, of Cliffside, was injured when he lost control of the motorcycle he was driving. The accident occurred around 8:30 p.m. on U.S. 23 South and KY. 1428. Martin was treated at Highlands Regional Medical Center and released. In an unrelated accident the same day, vehicle driven by Shirley Poe collided with an auto driven by Damien Fehrer of Virginia. Fehrer, who was traveling west on 1428, was unaware that the road curved to the right, and kept traveling straight ahead to Richmond Street into the path of the car driven by Poe, said Campbell. Poe's 4-year-old daughter and Janice Setser were passengers in the Poe vehicle. No injuries were incurred, and no citations issued.

'1940s Radio Hour' A Feast Of Fine Acting

By Joe Porter

Every summer the Jenny Wiley Music Theatre puts on a musical it has never done before; often it is more interesting than well known. This summer's surprise is The 1940s Radio Hour — a celebration of a wonderful era and a feast of fine character acting.

A lot of thought and care went into the casting that was largely done by Jim Deaton, the theatre's general manager, who first saw the play in Memphis, Tenn., and then later staged it at the Kincaid Theatre in Falmouth.

Deaton calls it a free-wheeling show with improvisational acting that has to be watched so that the actors — so into their roles — don't get carried away changing bits of action that might throw off the other actors. After casting decisions were made and rehearsals started, Deaton stepped back. "I let the director put his concept together," Deaton said. "It's really a Joe Conger show. The show isn't built around three or four leads. There is no real star. The actors depend on each other, so it's a company show."

Director/Choreographer Joe Conger agrees. "It's very much an ensemble piece," he said. "Everybody gets to show their talent. Everybody has a solo number or a dance number or something." Not satisfied with the script the way it was, Conger inventively added the front row screamers and created the role of Freddie, the usher, besides bits and pieces to flesh out and give more life and texture to the set.

Conger is the head of the theatre department at Northern Kentucky University and has been teaching theatre for 18 years. Directing professionally allows him to test his ideas and stay on top of what's happening in theatre. "To teach young professionals, you have to be a professional," he said.

He describes himself as a "visual" director, who strives to give the audience something to watch. Conger had 12 days to shape the musical, and as Deaton said, "put his stamp on it." The director said he had obstacles to overcome, like the fact that all the actors are too young for their roles and, because of the play's structure, it has a slow start. But Conger makes the beginning interesting by making the stage business, the action of the characters, entertaining and by generating empathy for them individually. Tension and excitement is created by the characters anticipating the radio show's start.

There is not one strong plot in the play, but five or six subplots, dealing with romances, professional ambitions, and personal motivations, like the elderly house attendant, Pops Bailey, who makes book on the house phone. Conger said he got help in creating mood and style by the costume design work of Jeff Dill and Margret Pyfrom. "They did a fabulous job on a limited budget," the director said.

Conger's love of the theatre is infectious. He calls working in the profession, "the hardest work you'll ever love. You sleep, work, play. It's the way to live life, sort of on the edge." Of his young cast he said, "they do summer stock to learn more roles and grow as actors." But he believes they also do it out of love for acting. "Why else would they work 12 hours a day for $50 a week," he said.

Phil Ragazzino, who plays the custodian, Stanley, approaches the role using free form and committed to his character. He credits Conger with helping him realize Stanley's potential. "The director was daring enough to let us try what we thought would work," Ragazzino said. Yet while Conger took suggestions and encouraged creativity from his actors, he said he gave them leeway depending on their understanding of the part and their experience — but most of all, whether it was in sync with his own vision.

What's exciting about attending all four Jenny Wiley productions is that you see the members of the company change roles and play different characters; often you're surprised and delighted to see a new dimension from an actor not seen before. Joe Sturgeon, as Clifton A. Feddington, does his finest work of the season, as the Radio show's voice, and conscience. Joanna Robbins is impressive as the sullen sultry Ann Collier. Kristen Plumley shows a new side as the bouncy sugar-sweet Connie Miller. Cliff Motts — a major talent in the company — delivers another strong performance as the highly energized sound effects man, Lou Cohn.

There's a touching moment when Wally hands B.J. Gibson, in the middle of a song, a highball and cigarette — standards of Johnny Cantone, whose place B.J. is taking. What you love about these characters is that they all in their own special way epitomize the American spirit, all strive to be better, to be loved, to be a star, if not in reality, than in their dreams. They all want to be more, and they are, just by trying so hard.

Summer stock is a proving ground where young actors can learn and be challenged. Finally, Venise Eldridge as Geneva Lee Brown gets a role that's worthy of her many talents. Same with Jerry McIlvain, who plays Neal Tilden; and John Brown as the band leader Zoot Doubleman. Consistently, the company has gotten wonderful performances out of Tyne Firman, and this is his best, as the irreplaceable delivery boy Wally. Jim Barbour is terribly convincing as the swaying disillusioned Johnny Cantone. Another strong performance from Mike McCormick as B.J. Gibson, and Melissa Roach draws laugh after laugh playing the silly sextop Ginger Brooks. Distinctive character acting comes from Ragazzino and Mike Owens as Pops Bailey. Brian Marshall as Freddie and Scott McGuffin as Biff Baker, the trumpet-playing soldier, add their own nice touches to their roles.

The next performance is Friday, Aug. 5, but don't wait — there are only four more performances left. The musical is sponsored by the Jenny Wiley Drama Association, Inc., and the First Commonwealth Bank.

For people who lived through World War II or depended on radio broadcasts for their entertainment, the big band music and manners and costumes will bring back a nostalgic feeling. For the rest of us — there's a variety cavalcade of 16 character actors, tap dancing, studio romances, and slapstick comedy. It's all there. It's The 1940s Radio Hour.

Two Bands To Perform At PCC Benefit Aug. 13

"The Invaders" and "The Torques" bands will play at the Martin Student Center at Prestonsburg Community College Saturday, Aug. 13, at 9 p.m., according to promotion officials.

Proceeds from the concert and dance will be used to help the college raise part of the matching funds needed for a new building; school enrollment has grown to nearly 2,000.

"The Torques", a group from Lexington, will perform, followed by the "The Invaders". "The Invaders" played in Kentucky and West Virginia from 1964 to 1970; this will be the first time the band has been together in 18 years. All of the original members will participate. The band has played at the capital rotunda in Frankfort as part of youth government week, sponsored by the state YMCA; has appeared on television during the March of Dimes telethon; a television talent hunt; and appeared and won a battle of the bands hosted by Jack Oshay of WKEE.

For more information, contact John Herald, head of the student center at the college, 886-3863.

Documentary Debates Smoking Controversy

There is a war in America, and its battles are not fought with guns. Paid advertising is the lethal weapon in this war over smoking. Showdown On Tobacco Road debates the issues surrounding the smoking controversy when it airs Wednesday, Aug. 17 at 9 p.m. and repeats Saturday, Aug. 20 at 11 a.m. on KET.

Do smokers have a right to light up in public places? Do cigarette manufacturers have a first amendment right to advertise their products in newspapers and magazines, and on billboards? Why do 92 percent of the nation's smokers say they would like to quit?

In exploring these questions and others Showdown On Tobacco Road recognizes smoking as the American dilemma. Pro- and anti-smoking activists provide a modern look at the issues surrounding this heated debate. Among those interviewed are United States Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, medical experts, tobacco industry spokespersons, advertising representatives, and attorneys.

The ice man regularly delivered his product to homes containing an ice box. Ice boxes were nonelectrical appliances with a compartment at the top for storing the ice. Shelves situated below were for food storage.

The drainage system was simple: a pipe extending from the top compartment carried the melted liquid to a pan located underneath the ice box.

The ice was not only used to preserve food, but was also chipped and placed in glasses of refreshments. According to Horn, the river was so clean then that the ice was beautiful to behold. The same cannot be said of the Big Sandy today with its debris-filled waterways.

Hay Grading System Meeting Set Dec. 7

Plans for a statewide hay grading system and the new brucellosis control regulations will be the chief topics of discussion at nine regional seminars held this year by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture.

In this region, the seminar will be held Dec. 7 at Ashland Community College from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The seminars will give department officials and other agricultural specialists an opportunity to discuss new state programs and other pressing issues with farm interests throughout the state. The agenda will include presentations by Agriculture Commissioner Ward "Butch" Burnette, State Veterinarian Dr. Donald Notter and various specialists in agricultural production, marketing and economics.

The one-day seminars will focus on a $469,000 hay grading system enacted by the 1988 General Assembly, plus major changes in the state's livestock disease control regulations. They will conclude with an "open forum" discussion.

"We will have a very active and comprehensive agenda at these seminars; they should be very beneficial to the various farm interests," said Burnette.

Eastern Ky. United Way Not A 'Sleeper' Organization

By Joe Porter

With a new Executive Director, Lorna Cassidy of Inez now in place, the United Way of Eastern Kentucky is planning its forthcoming 1988 campaign, which starts October 1 and has the goal of $100,000.

The United Way of Eastern Kentucky covers a five-county area and works as an independent community resource that collects donations and funnels that money to health and human service agencies. Yet it does more than just fund raising; it works through its volunteers, putting people in touch with the services they need. It helps a wide range of local community agencies such as Hospice, the Johnson County Rescue Squad, volunteer fire departments, American Veterans, God's Food Pantry, the Salvation Army of Kentucky, the Christian Appalachian Spouse Abuse Shelter, and many many more.

The organization is governed by a local board of directors. Monday morning, Cassidy met with board members Greg Hamlin, home care administrator for Big Sandy Area Development, and Russell Chandler of Paintsville, to organize and map out strategy. Chandler said the months of August and September will be used to do the "leg work," making contacts throughout the business community and soliciting volunteers.

Chandler expects the board will work in committees to focus on certain groups and businesses. Businesses will be asked to donate and employees will also be asked to give either a lump sum or contribute a small percentage through a payroll deduction plan; the money will then be forwarded to the United Way quarterly. While it was formally incorporated as a non-profit corporation in May 1986, the United Way of Eastern Kentucky is still not that well known yet, according to Hamlin. "We're still at a stage where people don't know there is a United Way here, or what we do," Hamlin said. "But as more and more people find out there is an organization and what the money goes to, more money will start to come in."

What Hamlin likes about the United Way is that the money raised in the community stays in the community. After its annual drive is completed, the organization will begin processing applications from groups and agencies that can best use the money. The application deadline is April 1989.

Cassidy has worked as a social worker for the Big Sandy Community Action Agency, and coordinated federal and state programs to get funding for human services to help disadvantaged people. She will work out of an office in Inez and attend a week-long United Way training program in Virginia.

The United Way of Eastern Kentucky is a member of the United Way of America. Contributions are tax deductible. It is currently seeking interested people to serve on its board of directors. "We're looking for real active people who will get out into those counties," Chandler said.

void the law setting up a separate classification on unmined minerals, Floyd County can anticipate increased revenue this year.

From 1880 until World War II, speculators and representatives of large mineral holding corporations traveled through Eastern Kentucky buying mineral rights; in many cases they bought only the mineral rights with the landowner retaining ownership of the surface land. These deeds came to be known as broadform deeds, because they included all the minerals on the properties and the right to extract them as the operator saw fit.

Many landowners claimed that only the right to deep mine the coal had been sold with the broadform deeds, not the right to destroy the surface.

In 1983, the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition (now known as Kentuckians for the Commonwealth) began to help citizens in Eastern Kentucky organize to restrict uses of the broad form and to push for an unmined minerals tax.

The recent court rulings have addressed a key K.F.C. issue, that being a tax on unmined minerals at par with the taxation of land surface owners.

Rotary Raising Funds For Local, Nat'l Causes

By Joe Porter

"Service above self" is the club's motto, but they are more than just words to the members. Giving and helping worthy causes is what the Prestonsburg Rotary Club is all about. "Most of our efforts are directed to fund raising," said Kevin R. Yeager, the club's secretary. "The money is then funneled to various community projects." When Yeager isn't volunteering his time for the club, he works as the comptroller at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

This summer the club is busy working the concession stand at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheater. Each member works selling refreshments, t-shirts and programs from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. twice a week. The increase in theatre's attendance this summer has helped the club's treasury. "The house is up and revenues are up," Yeager said.

The secretary stated that part of the money made at the theatre will go to the Rotary's national treasury to pay for the campaign "Polio Plus," which buys vaccine to immunize children in Third World countries. The Prestons-burg club has pledged $10,000 over five years, and has contributed $4,000 thus far to its goal. "The World Health Organization will provide the medical manpower to administer the shots, and the Rotary Club will buy the vaccine," Yeager said.

Greg Crum, a manager at Lloyd's Hardware Store, is the club's president. He said the organization is planning a Christmas tree sale this year at Highland's Plaza. Events like that will generate money that will go for athletic, academic, and art scholarships for local high school students. In the past, the club has provided scholarship money for students attending Prestonsburg Community College and Pikeville College. Rotary is also one of the larger contributors to the Jenny Wiley Drama Association.

Charles Diskey, vice-president of Dick's Signs, is heading the club's blood drive that will be held Sept. 1-2 at the Prestonsburg Blood Center, second floor of the Municipal Building. Their goal is 100 pints of blood. Each donor will receive a t-shirt, and a savings bond will be given away. "We're trying to make people aware of the need to support our blood center. We're fortunate to have one in this area," Crum said.

The Rotary Club, comprised of professional and business men and women, is the largest service organization in the world with over 1 million members. The Prestonsburg Club, which is just 2 and a half years old, has 20 members. Members meet every Thursday at the Holiday Inn at 12:15. "We're looking for people interested in helping in the community and willing to work. We're not a sleeper organization," Crum said. Dan Lyons and Jeff Meek, both with WKKZ Radio, are its newest members.

Before Pam Shingler joined in November, she thought that its members were a bunch of rich old men, but she soon found out differently. "I've been impressed that they are really concerned about people," Shingler said. "They're interested in service to the community. It's not just lip service."

affordable repayment schedule. James said his goal will be, "whatever we can live with in the shortest possible time."

A street sweeper that won't clean thoroughly is a problem that faces the Public Works Department. Only two years old, the sweeper has also been in and out of the shop repeatedly for repairs. "If someone sold you a $80,000 piece of equipment, you would think it would work -- I would," said James. "On paper it's a good machine. They've sold hundreds of them."

The machine is now in the shop and parts have been ordered. "Parts are awfully expensive," Superintendent Michael W. Meade said. Not willing yet to give up on it, James wants to try to work out the machine's mechanical problems. Charles G. Hale made a motion to put the machine back in working order, use it for a trial period, and then assess its value. If it doesn't work, the council may move to replace it. Paul E. Joseph seconded the motion.

The council recognized its fire department for successfully completing a two-day college credit firefighting course called, "Attacking The Dragon." The whole department took part in the class, held June 27-28, which included 15 hours of intensive training. Mayor Latta cited the work of Fire Chief Thomas A. Blackburn.

Majors Larry Adams and Paul Burke, Capt. Mike Wells, and Sgt. Tom Hereford, who taught different modules in the course.

"It's a complete video program, using tapes and workbooks," Blackburn explained to the councilors. "It's an extremely good program. The boys worked real hard, and I'd like to give them some credit." The fire chief said the department may be teaching the same program this fall to volunteer depart-

1st Presbyterian Plans Bible School

Vacation Bible school will be held at the First Presbyterian Church Aug. 8-12, Monday through Friday.

Morning sessions will be for children age 3 through those entering grade seven, and will last from 9 to 12 each morning. Singing, crafts, Bible stories, and recreation will highlight the theme "Jesus Loves Me," with a special emphasis on the 23rd Psalm. Leatha Kendrick is director, assisted by Linda Taylor.

The adult class will be held at 6:30 p.m. It will focus on contemporary social issues, using resource people from the congregation, under the leadership of the pastor, Dr. Timothy Jessen.

In a separate issue, the city is holding a group of abandoned cars, and the council asked Police Chief William R. Campbell to obtain a court order to gain title to them. After a disposal order is granted, the city will move to advertise and then sell them either through auction or sealed bids. One motorcycle and several bicycles will also be put on the auction block at that time.

10 Coal-Related Permits Issued To Floyd Operations

Ten permits were issued by the State Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement to Floyd County companies during June, according to Susan Bush, spokeswoman for the state Division of Permits.

Statewide, 96 permits were issued: 14 were original permits, 51 were revisions, 18 were amendments, nine were transfers and four were renewals. Forty-five were for surface mining, 41 for underground mining, seven prep plants and refuse areas, two tips and one haul road.

Bush said permitting activities for June authorized the disturbance of more than 8,740 acres of land, for which $167,250 in fees were collected.

Floyd County permits issued were: Branham and Baker Coal Co. of Prestonsburg, surface and auger operation permit amendment for 240 acres; Buck Coal Co. of Ivel, underground mining permit transfer for 325 acres; Chloe Creek Development of Prestonsburg, underground mining permit amendment for one 498-acre tract and one 107-acre tract; Coal Preparation, Inc., of Prestonsburg, refuse storage and preparation plant permit revision for 62 acres; FCDC Coal, Inc., of Drift, preparation plant permit revision affecting 25-acre and 5-acre tracts; Kanawha Enterprises, Inc., of Martin, underground mining permit amendment for 194-acre and 169-acre tracts; Martiki Coal Corp. of Lovely, surface mining permit revision for 125-acre and 2-acre tracts; Peter Cave Coal Co. of Lovely, underground mining permit revision for 1,688-acre tract; Supreme Elkhorn Mining of Prestonsburg, surface mining permit revision for 155 acres; Triple Elkhorn Mining Co. of Prestonsburg, underground and refuse storage permit amendment for 466-acre and 6-acre tracts.

Census Bureau To Collect Employment Data Locally

The Census Bureau will collect data on employment and health insurance from Floyd, Magoffin and Johnson county residents the week of Aug. 15-20, according to William F. Hill, director of the bureau's Charlotte Regional Office.

The local labor force data will contribute to August's national employment and unemployment picture to be released Sept. 2 by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Data on the number of persons over age 40 covered by health insurance will also be collected. The statistics will be used to determine how much the private sector contributes to the health insurance coverage of former employees.

Information supplied by individuals is kept confidential by law. Only statistical totals are published.

Special June AIDS Hotline Answers Approximately 900 Calls

Nearly 900 telephone calls were made to June's special AIDS hotline by Kentuckians, showing residents want to know more about Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, according to health officials.

The inquiries—the bulk of which were about the disease's transmission and testing for the AIDS antibody—will help guide the Department for Health Services' AIDS education effort, said Theresa Gore, acting director of the Kentucky AIDS Education Project. Approximately 27 calls were received from callers in the Big Sandy area (Pike, Floyd, Martin, Magoffin and Johnson counties). Of those, eight requested information about transmission, one about prevention, 10 about testing, five about blood products, and one about resources.

"One-third of the (overall) callers wanted information about AIDS transmission and another one-fourth wanted to know about testing," said Gore. "That indicates that we should continue to stress basic AIDS education to the general public."

"Despite enormous publicity about the disease, people are still asking about how they can and cannot get AIDS," she said. After June, the toll-free line (1-800-654-AIDS) went back to its previous format as a recorded message.

Van Lear Town Celebration Planned

The Van Lear Town Celebration will be held this weekend, beginning with a soup bean dinner and get-together at the Historical Building on Friday, Aug. 5, from 4 to 8 p.m.

On Saturday, opening ceremonies will be held at the Caboose and Mini Park area, with three featured speakers, after the flag raising and dedications. Horseshoes and other games for children and adults will be available, and concession booths will be open all afternoon.

Also Saturday, the Historical Building will be open for tours all day, including a display of historical coal mining equipment and other memorabilia from Van Lear. Arts and crafts will also be on sale.

The bi-annual Van Lear school reunion will begin at 4 p.m. Saturday at Johnson Central High School in Paintsville. Also, a country and country rock music show will be held at 9 p.m. in the Masonic Lodge Hall.

On Sunday, a gospel singing will be held at the Caboose and Mini Park area, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Biliter Named Area Transportation

Transportation Secretary and Commissioner of Highways Milo D. Bryant recently announced the appointment of William D. Biliter as chief district engineer for District 12 in Pikeville.

Biliter began his career with transportation in 1955 and has spent most of his years in the construction section of transportation.

He replaces Kirby Ison, who is retiring.

SSI Programs Alleviate Concern, Says Local Official

A common concern of parents with disabled children is whether there will be enough money to support them throughout their lives. The Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) programs can do much to lessen this concern, according to Jim Kelly, Social Security director for the Big Sandy Area.

These two programs can assure some economic security to disabled children of all ages. Under Social Security, children under 18 may be eligible for monthly benefits if one of their parents receives Social Security benefits or dies. But what happens to a disabled child when he or she reaches 18 or 30 or 45 and a parent retires, becomes disabled, or dies? The answer is "childhood disability benefits."

To be entitled to childhood disability benefits, says Kelly, the child's disability must have started in childhood—before the age of 22. A child over 18 whose disability began in childhood can start getting benefits when a parent (step-parent or adoptive parent), dies or starts receiving benefits. (For example, a worker covered by Social Security dies, leaving behind a 38-year-old mentally retarded daughter. That daughter can be entitled to childhood disability benefits.)

The SSI program is not Social Security, cautions Kelly. It pays monthly benefits to disabled people with limited income and resources. The age at which the disability started has no bearing. Disabled people of any age—young or old—can receive checks. A disabled child under 18 who lives with his or her parents can qualify for SSI payments only if the income and resources of his or her parents are limited. However, once a child turns 18, the parent's income and resources no longer count. If the disabled child has little income and few resources, he or she may be able to get SSI checks.

For more information, contact the Big Sandy Area Social Security office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Murph Martin would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone for their kindness during our recent time of sorrow. We wish to express our gratefulness to our family, neighbors, and friends who sent food, flowers, prayers and spoke comforting words.

A special thanks to the Doctors and Staff at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, the Regular Baptist ministers and to the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient services.

Perhaps you sent a lovely card,
 Or sat quietly in a chair.
 Perhaps you sent a funeral spray,
 If so we saw it there.
 Perhaps you spoke the kindest words,
 As any friend could say.
 Perhaps you were not there at all,
 Just thought of us that day.
 Whatever you did to console our hearts,
 We thank you so much whatever the part.

ACF Awards Two Grants Locally

The Appalachian Community Fund, a public foundation dedicated to promoting social and economic justice in Central Appalachia has awarded $11,000 to six local non-profit groups in its 1988 grant cycle. Included in the grants program were two organizations in Eastern Kentucky: the Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association in Prestonsburg, granted $1,000; and Kentuckians for the Commonwealth, also in Prestonsburg, $2,000.

Other groups receiving grants were: Community Farm Alliance in Nerinx, granted $3,000; Central Appalachian People's Federal Credit Union in Berea, $1,000; Livingston Economic Alternatives in Progress in Livingston, $3,000; and Whitley County Communities for Children in Williamsburg, $1,000.

The Appalachian Community Fund supports emerging community groups involved in exciting and innovative regional projects, the awards announcement said.

"The organizations chosen demonstrate quality work addressing the root causes of social and economic problems in Appalachia. We believe the work of these groups will bring about lasting social change in our Appalachian region," said Vicki Quatmann, chair of the fund's board of directors.

The Big Sandy Family Childbirth and Education Association serves five counties in Eastern Kentucky with pregnancy and childbirth classes and public education on childbearing. The association is attempting to make childbirth education more accessible to low income women, and second year grant monies are being used to continue an outreach program into the rural areas of Floyd County.

Kentuckians for the Commonwealth seeks proper and prudent use of land, minerals, water and other natural resources, as well as addressing water quality and toxic wastes. The organization has been active in seeking an amendment to the Kentucky constitution to outlaw broad form deeds to stop strip miners from disregarding the rights of surface land owners.

Central Appalachian People's Federal Credit Union is a community development credit union serving 28 groups with low income members, primarily in Eastern Kentucky. This credit union provides access to affordable credit to its members, charging an average 12 percent interest on loans, as opposed to 30-36 percent at local finance companies in the Berea area.

Community Farm Alliance helps farmers in over 20 rural counties, helping them make a transition from a dependence on their tobacco bases to other crops and economic enterprises.

Livingston Economic Alternatives in Progress serves as a vehicle to promote economic and housing developments in its service area, among its programs, Opportunities for Women, which produces sorghum, candies and biscuit mix.

Whitley County Communities for Children is setting up parent groups to advocate improvement of the public school system through better parent-teacher relations and increased state funding. According to the funding announcement, about 60 percent of adults in Whitley County are without high school diplomas and the school system is failing to properly educate young people, leaving many of them unable to read or do simple arithmetic.

The Appalachian Community Fund was founded in 1986 to be a source of funding for community groups addressing critical social issues of powerlessness, declining living standards and inequality, the announcement said. For its 1988 grant cycle, the fund has awarded $60,000 to 25 organizations, including those listed here, to work on issues of illiteracy, poverty, health care, pollution, discrimination and the like.

"We bring new money and resources back to the Appalachian region. The money we raise comes from individuals in the region and is used to solve immediate problems and to change the systems responsible for these problems, explained Kim Klein, executive director of the fund.

Anyone wishing to become a donor to the fund or seeking more information about its programs, should call or write: Appalachian Community Fund, 517 Union Avenue, Suite 206, Knoxville, Tennessee 37902, (615) 523-5783.

PCC Dance Recital Set For August 5

Students in Prestonsburg Community College's annual summer dance camp will have the chance to show off their new steps in a public recital Friday, Aug. 5, at 5 p.m. in PCC's Pike Auditorium.

More than 50 area youngsters are enrolled in the camp which features instruction in ballet, tap dancing, and jazz dancing. Most of the students participate in dance classes at PCC or at the Meade School of Dance in Paintsville.

Instructors for the weeklong event are Jan Hurst, dancer, choreographer and teacher of ballet from Versailles; Lynette Grubb, tap instructor and owner of Dance Stop in Atlanta; and Annie Day, jazz instructor and assistant director of Dance Stop.

The Friday recital is free and open to the public.

The "S" in Harry S Truman is not an abbreviation—it is Truman's complete middle name.

State Schools Popular Among CAP Recipients

This fall, 94 percent of this year's recipients of the Christian Appalachian Project's Community Service Scholarship will be attending Kentucky colleges and universities, according to Glen Taul, CAP spokesman.

Thirty-one of the 33 recipients of $500 and $1,000 scholarships will attend 16 public and private institutions of higher learning in Kentucky. The remaining two recipients will attend schools in South Carolina and Texas.

Floyd County recipients, and the colleges they will attend, are Cindy Leigh Gayheart, Alice Lloyd College; and Rubi Maria Singayao, the University of Kentucky.

Johnson County recipients are Mary Ann Butcher, who will attend

Prestonsburg Community College, and Mary Francis Ratliff, who plans to attend the University of Kentucky.

From Magoffin County, recipients are Kelley Diane Claxton, who will attend Prestonsburg Community College, and Billy Edward Prater, who will attend Lexington Community College.

From Martin County, Elizabeth Rehe Baldwin will attend Berea.

Community Service Scholarships are awarded annually to graduating seniors in 25 eastern Kentucky counties in recognition of their service to their community through church, school and civic organizations.

Recipients choose the school — college, university, vocational school — they will attend, and then the scholarship is sent directly to the schools in the students' names.

A total of $25,000 has been distributed. In Kentucky, public universities have received $13,500. They include the University of Kentucky, Eastern Kentucky University, Morehead State University, University of Louisville, Prestonsburg Community College, Somerset Community College, and Lexington Community College. Private colleges in Kentucky have received $9,500, and they include Berea College, Centre College, Georgetown College, Lindsey Wilson College, Alice Lloyd College, Sue Bennett College, Transylvania University, and Union College.

Several Jobs Available In Floyd, Area Counties

Jobs paying from $3.35 to $10.42 per hour are available in Floyd County, according to Thomas Hereford III, field office manager of the Department for Employment Services.

The local positions and amount of experience required are:

QUESTION: I've told my daughter about the risks of going to a tanning bed, but she is determined to get a tan. Are there any precautions she can take?

ANSWER: If, after thinking about the risks, a person should decide to use a tanning booth, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) gives the following advice:

- Don't use tanning booths if you burn easily. (If you don't tan in the sun you won't tan in a booth.)
- Begin tanning for brief intervals.
- Don't increase the time. Staying longer than you should can cause serious harm.
- Use protective goggles. Normal sunglasses or just closing your eyes isn't enough.
- Make sure the booth has shields and handrails to keep you from touching or falling into the lamps.
- Check with your doctor or pharmacist about how any prescription drug you are taking might react with UV exposure.

"I was relieved to discover I was an alcoholic."

One man's story.

The word "alcoholism" is so loaded with shame, it's hard to imagine anyone ever being relieved to discover it applied to them. This is a glimpse of what one man went through to come slowly to that realization.

"The very first time I drank, I got drunk, I got sick, I had a blackout. I didn't intend any of that to happen."

Often from their very first drink, alcoholics seem to respond differently to alcohol. If you sometimes drink so much that you don't recollect certain events, then by definition, you have an alcohol problem.

Normal drinkers rarely lose control to the extent that they have a blackout.

"Within six years, I was drinking round-the-clock, a quart of vodka a day. I didn't care what happened."

As the disease of alcoholism progresses, more and more you don't control alcohol, it controls you. Once you start drinking, you can't be sure whether you'll have two drinks, or twenty.

The consequences—family difficulties, health problems, arrest, loss of job—cease to matter. All you care about is the next drink.

"I thought I drank because I was crazy. I never realized I was crazy because I drank."

The more you drink, the more trapped you become. That's because drinking at your present rate has devastating consequences. But the thought of cutting down is equally awful.

So subconsciously, you seek a way out by flatly denying you have a problem, and laying the blame for your misfortunes elsewhere. You're going insane, people have it in for you or you're simply unlucky.

"Towards the end, I lay in bed, a half gallon on the floor, soaking wet with sweat, a gun in my mouth."

The possibility of suicide is one reason CareUnit likes to treat people as early as possible.

Last year, our program helped over 55,000 people stop using alcohol and drugs.

Treatment is covered by most insurance plans, and includes medical supervision, education, group therapy and free lifetime aftercare.

Incidentally, there's no charge for the initial consultation, which may involve the drinker, or someone close to him.

"Once I admitted my real problem, the worst was over."

It may be hard to believe—and it may not happen until you've been in treatment for a while—but once you admit you have a problem with alcohol, you'll feel a strong sense of relief and release. Then—and only then—can you start to rebuild your life.

The man whose story you've read has been sober 15 years, he's a highly successful senior executive in a major corporation, and he owes his life to one phone call.

And that's the point. If you don't call, we can't help.

Academy Award-Winning Documentary Encores on KET

Throughout the 1920s, a group of about a dozen of America's cleverest and most outspoken writers and performers lunched together daily at New York City's Algonquin Hotel. American Masters presents an encore performance of "The Ten-Year Lunch: The Wit and Legend of the Algonquin Round Table" on Tuesday, Aug. 16 at 9 p.m. on KET.

The Algonquin Round Table began as a practical joke aimed at drama critic Alexander Woollcott and became a legendary gathering symbolizing the quintessence of sophisticated wit. The documentary chronicling the 10-year history of the humor and high jinks of this group was awarded the 1987 Academy Award as Best Feature Documentary. According to The New York Times, "[it] captures the spirit and personality of a time that remains for this century an unparalleled period of excess."

Interviews, vintage photographs, rare home movies, and music of the era evoke the lives and times of the members of the Algonquin Round Table, including writers Dorothy Parker, Robert Benchley, and Harold Ross; columnists Franklin Pierce

Adams and Heywood Broun; critic Alexander Woollcott; comedian Harpo Marx; and playwrights George S. Kaufman, Marc Connelly, Edna Ferber, and Robert Sherwood.

Hosted and narrated by Heywood Hale Broun, son of Round Table member Heywood Broun and Ruth Hale, the program contains first-hand recollections of such eyewitnesses as the late Marc Connelly; statesman Averell Harriman; and Helen Hayes, Ruth Gordon, and Margalo Gilmore, leading ingenues of the 1920s.

American Masters is presented by WNET/New York.

Grant To Educate Private Water Source Users Is Approved

A program designed to educate water users who receive their water from wells, cisterns, streams and other private sources will soon begin in 12 Appalachian counties as the result of a federal grant.

A $5,000 grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission has been awarded to the Kentucky Association for Community Action to develop a program to provide information and assistance to private water users in Eastern Kentucky, according to Commissioner Bill Patrick. Many private water sources in the region are contaminated, said Community Action officials, and present health and safety risks to users.

The counties tentatively approved to take part in the pilot program are Magoffin, Harlan, Knox, Whitley, Rockcastle, Carter, Morgan, Letcher, Owsley, Madison, McCreary and Lewis.

The grant will be used to produce literature concerning potential water problems and corrective measures to eliminate contamination. Community Action agency workers will provide assistance to low-income families to upgrade water supplies.

Church Update

Many people are inquiring about Assemblies of God as the fastest growing Church of God.

The church is celebrating its 75th anniversary as a fellowship although teaching goes back to book of Acts when the early church started.

The current US membership is 2.1 million members and 22 million abroad. They do not count the children or adherence to the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Stephens

Lisa Kay Shepherd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmus Shepherd, of Prestonsburg, and Dewey Edward Stephens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Stephens, of Prestonsburg, were married May 21 at the Pentecostal Church of God at Ivyton.

The Rev. James Sparks officiated. The maid of honor was Miki Lee Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Jones, of Prestonsburg. Bridesmaids were Shirley Shepherd and Patty Shepherd, sister-in-laws of the bride. The junior bridesmaid was Angela Stephens, sister of the groom.

The best man was the father of the groom, Edgar Stephens. Ushers were Mike Rister and Dusty Weathers.

The flower girl was Lisa Ann Shepherd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Shepherd, of Warsaw, Ind. The ring bearer was Christopher Michael Shepherd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shepherd, of Prestonsburg.

The bride is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and a senior at the University of Kentucky, working toward a degree in middle school education. She is currently employed by the Kentucky Geological Survey in Lexington.

The groom is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and a senior at the University of Kentucky, working toward a degree in secondary science education. He is currently employed at Insty-Prints in Lexington.

Chosen Little Starlet

Tiah Alicia Johnson, 3, of Lexington, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnson Jr., recently competed in the Tiny Stars of America Pageant in Louisville. She won the title of Little Starlet of 1988. This entitles her to represent Kentucky in the national competition, to be held in Orlando, Fla. in September. She is the granddaughter of Eloise Lewis, and the great-granddaughter of Ruby Glover, both of Wheelwright.

Hall Receives MSU Scholarship

Christina Gaye Hall has received a Morehead State University Leadership Scholarship for demonstrated leadership and achievement capabilities in school and community activities.

She was a band member and honor student. She served her senior year as a field commander of the Betsy Layne Marching Bobcat Band.

Hall was also a four-year majorette and a two-year head majorette. She is the first majorette in the history of Betsy Layne High School to hold the title of Kentucky State Fair Twirling Champs throughout her four years of high school.

Hall has won three titles as 1988 Miss Appalachian, Miss Eastern Kentucky and Miss Summer Glamour.

She is the daughter of David M. and Grace Hall, of Banner, and granddaughter of John G. and Hester Hall and the late Gilbert Samons and Ellen Samons, of Banner.

Scouts Attend Camp, Earn Badges

To spite the heat and the lack of water, Abbott Creek Troop #877 followed through with plans to attend summer camp at McKee Scout Reservation.

Located in Montgomery County near Mt. Sterling, McKee offers a variety of merit badge classes in such areas as nature, archery, wilderness survival, small boat sailing, snorkeling, swimming, lifesaving, hiking, rowing, canoeing, rifle and shotgun, first aid and many more.

"Twenty-nine boys earned more than 100 awards," says Scoutmaster Johnnie Ross, "it was the best year we've ever had." As an additional program feature, the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet presented a program on air quality, which included a hot air balloon. Representatives from the Division of Air Quality assembled the balloon and flew away while nearly 400 scouts watched and even helped with the assembly.

"The balloon was great" exclaimed one scout. "It's the biggest thing I've ever seen."

In addition to the hot air balloon, McKee's program included patrol competition events. Of the three troops representing the Lonesome Pine District of Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties, two made it in the top three. Paintsville Troop #851 came in third in one event, and Abbott Creek Troop #877 came in second in one event and third in another.

"Eastern Kentucky was well represented," Ross said, "with two troops from Prestonsburg and one from Paintsville, we could hardly lose." By the week's end, all three troops won overall blue ribbon awards.

According to senior patrol leader Justin Bilitier Abbott Creek scored 77, 86, 93, 95 and 97 percent on each of five campsite inspections.

"Everyone worked together to be the best we could be," Bilitier said, "and once again we came out on top."

The awards earned and those attending were:

Daniel Adams: Archery, camping, emergency preparedness and woodcarving.

Jackie Akers: Astronomy and emergency preparedness.

Chris Bailey: Astronomy, emergency preparedness, environmental science and pioneering.

Brad Bilitier: Forestry, environmental science, mammals and soil and water conservation.

Justin Bilitier: B.S.A. lifeguard, fish and wildlife and rowing.

Freddie Collins: Camping, cooking and first aid.

Alan Davis: Emergency preparedness.

Kyle Fitzpatrick: Hiking.

Danny Harris: Camping, emergency preparedness, fish and wildlife, forestry, leatherwork, metalwork, pioneering and woodworking.

Matthew Kelly: Emergency preparedness.

John Mattox: Emergency preparedness and pioneering.

Jeremy Minton: Emergency preparedness and pioneering.

Raleigh Nelson: Astronomy, emergency preparedness, environmental science and pioneering.

Shawn Ousley: Camping and hiking.

Mike Shepherd: Astronomy.

Chris Spriggs: Emergency preparedness and environmental science.

John Stout: Canoeing, emergency preparedness, environmental science and woodcarving.

Scott Young: Astronomy and pioneering.

In addition to these boys working through the traditional merit badge program, the first-year campers entered a new curriculum, the Baden-Powell Outdoor Skill Development Program. They earned skill awards in camping, cooking, hiking, swimming and first aid. In addition to the aforementioned skill awards, boys earned one merit badge for first aid.

Those enrolled in the B-P program were: Doug Brown, Aaron Dameron, Mike DeRossett, Kevin Farthing, Robbie Freels, Brandon Kinzer, Jack Latta, Rodney Leckrone, John Moore, Jason Mounts and G.P. Summers.

Cooling Off

Graham, Sexton Set Aug. 13 Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn E. Graham of Thelma announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Glenna Kay, to Rondal Brian Sexton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rondal Sexton of Prestonsburg.

Sexton is the grandson of Lula Sexton of Garrett, Margaret Harris of Prestonsburg and Irvin Harris of Prestonsburg.

Graham is a graduate of Johnson Central High School and has attended Prestonsburg Community College and Mayo State Vocational Technical School. She is currently employed at Highlands Regional Medical Center in Prestonsburg.

Sexton is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and has attended Mayo State Vocational Technical School. He is currently employed at Mine Power Products at Langley.

The wedding will be solemnized Saturday, Aug. 13 at 6:30 p.m. at the Community United Methodist Church. A reception will immediately follow at the church.

The gracious custom of open church will be observed, and all family and friends are invited to attend.

GRAHAM-SEXTON

Never cut your flowers in the morning. Since all day the leaves manufacture food which is transported around in the form of sugars to feed the plant, cut your flowers in the late afternoon when they are the fullest of sugar, if you want the flowers to last.

Card of Thanks

The family of Lila Thacker would like to thank the staff at McDowell Hospital, Dr. Susan Brenner, Dr. James Van Hoose, Ann Cook and Sister Margaret for the comfort and love they gave Lila at her time of need.

We would also like to thank Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home, Shirley Burke, the friends and neighbors that sent food, flowers and their prayers in our time of sorrow. May God bless each and everyone for their thoughtfulness. We love you.

Ancient Civilizations Featured

Discover ancient civilizations on KET. Encore presentations of NOVA's "Secrets of the Lost Red Paint People" and National Geographic Specials' presentation of "In the Shadow of Vesuvius" reveal fascinating and obscure facts about these cultures from long ago.

NOVA's "The Secrets of the Lost Red Paint People" airs Monday August 15 at 8:00/7:00 p.m. CT. It is followed by National Geographic Specials' "In the Shadow of Vesuvius" at 9 p.m.

Archaeologists have discovered a North American civilization that is 7,500 years old, the Lost Red Paint People. The civilization is the first far-ranging, seafaring culture found in North America. The Red Paint People are believed to have been roaming the Atlantic Ocean and founding colonies in Europe about the time Egyptians pyramids were being built. NOVA paints a portrait of life for the Red Paint People.

Following this NOVA special, National Geographic travels to Ercolano, Italy. Here is the site of one of the most important archaeological finds of our times. Herculaneum, an ancient Roman resort, was destroyed when Mt. Vesuvius erupted in A.D. 79. When the ruins of Herculaneum were first discovered, archaeologists believed the citizens had had time to escape. A grim surprise was unearthed in 1980, however, when human skeletons were unearthed on the site of the ancient town's beach.

National Geographic Specials recreates the panic and attempted flight of its doomed citizens and explores the hauntingly beautiful tunnels and rooms of this city under a city.

Everyday objects, preserved for 1,900 years, provide an intimate look at Roman life: a cloth press, a charred doll, a baby cradle, gold jewelry, a bronze door knocker, and even food—walnuts, bread, eggs, and figs.

The flaming Mt. Vesuvius has erupted more than 50 times since the Roman Era. Today more than 2 million people live in its shadow. The special visits some of the nearby towns and ends with a look at how these people live with the constant threat of disaster.

NOVA is presented by WGBH/Boston. National Geographic Specials is a presentation of WQED/Pittsburgh and The National Geographic Society.

Moore Finishes Marine Training

Marine Pvt. Shelly G. Moore, daughter of Willie and Opal J. Moore of McDowell, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

During the eight-week training cycle, Moore was introduced to the typical daily routine that she will experience during her enlistment, and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

She participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including close order drill and first aid. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

A 1987 graduate of McDowell High School, she joined the Marine Corps in February.

The wedding will take place at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 14, at the Primitive Baptist Church on Rocky Road, Millard. A reception will follow immediately after the ceremony. All family and friends are invited to attend.

Spiggle Accepted By Transylvania

David Lee Spiggle, a graduate of Prestonsburg High School, has been accepted into the 1988-89 freshman class at Transylvania University in Lexington.

Nearly 1,000 applications from across the country were received for the 300 places in the entering class.

Spiggle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Spiggle Sr. of Prestonsburg.

"This incoming freshman class is a remarkable group of highly motivated and very involved students who have an ACT average of 25, a score which is well above the national average," said Transylvania President, Charles L. Shearer.

SOAP OPERAS

Daytime cast members spending time on stage

By Marie Michaels

"One Life to Live" cast members Holly Gagnier (who plays Cassie Callison) and Doug Wert (who plays Wade Coleman) have joined Ruth Warrick of "All My Children" (she plays Phoebe Wallingford) in a production of "Butterflies Are Free" at Montclair State College in Montclair, N.J. And Trisha Cast is taking time out from the role of Nina Webster on "The Young and the Restless" to appear in "The Diary of Anne Frank" at the Gene Dynarski Theatre in Hollywood.

Holly Gagnier

• "As the World Turns" has hired two daytime newcomers. Playing Tuan Ly (pronounced "dune lee") is Russell Wong, and Robert Tyler is creating the role of Spence Davies. Wong had a role in the feature film "China Girl."
• We've been told that there's no chance that Amy Gibson's short-term role as Collette on "General Hospital" will be extended beyond the end of this month.
• NBC's plan to air a daytime comedy created by Arleen Sorkin, who plays Calliope Bradford on "Days of Our Lives," has been put on hold, at least in part because of the long writers' strike. The show was to have been a spinoff from "Days of Our Lives."
• Over on CBS's "As the World Turns," Roy Franklin (played by Count Stovall) now has a complete family. Franklin's on-screen parents, Sarah and Leonard, are now played by Novella Nelson and Mel Winkler, and Roy's little sister Nella is played by Victoria Rowell.
• Kati Powell, who plays Louise on "General Hospital," is a granddaughter of actress Martha Scott, who played the grandmother of Kevin Bernhardt on the soap during 1986. Scott's character was killed off.
• Also on "GH," the role of Chet is being played by 6-foot-4 actor Brett Baxter Clark, who is making his daytime debut. In the story line, Chet is an insurance investigator who arrived on the scene to check out the cause of the fire at Bobbie Meyer's boarding house. Chet almost immediately became more interested in Terry O'Connor (Robyn Bernard) than in the cause of the fire. Incidentally, Bernard recently negotiated a new two-year contract with "GH," ending speculation that she might leave the soap.

'Ollie Hopnoodle' recalls frenzied family vacations

By Denise Gorga

Remember summer vacation? Dad packing up the family sedan, the inevitable flat tire, the plaintive cries of Are we there yet? and the autumnal anticlimax - the What I Did for My Summer Vacation essay?

James B. Sicking

On Friday, Aug. 12, The Disney Channel tries to recapture the sentiments of summer vacation in "Ollie Hopnoodle's Haven of Bliss," a made-for-cable film written by humorist Jean Shepherd. Our hero is Ralph Parker (played by Jerry O'Connell), a 14-year-old who is cursed - and blessed - with a strange family. We meet the Parkers as they plan a vacation at Ollie Hopnoodle's Haven of Bliss, a run-down fivesome of lakeside cabins named for the Dionne quintuplets. Ralph's Old Man (played by former "Hill Street Blues" actor James B. Sicking) is a grumbling prole with an ever-present Lucky

MARQUEE

MIDNIGHT RUN (R - Universal) Starring Charles Grodin and Robert De Niro. ★★

By J.T. YURKO

Robert De Niro is notorious for the intensity he has brought to every role, from the homicidal Travis Bickle in "Taxi Driver" to the troubled boxer Jake LaMotta in "Raging Bull." So it's almost a relief to see him in a comedy. And "Midnight Run," a new film by Martin Brest ("Beverly Hills Cop") that stars De Niro and Charles Grodin, is a good comedy, providing each of them with his best role in years.

De Niro plays Jack Walsh, a Los Angeles-based bounty hunter sent to bring back accountant Jonathan Mardukas (Grodin) from New York. Mardukas is no ordinary criminal. When he discovered that his firm was a front for the mob, he decided to embezzle $15 million and give the money to charities. The Feds want him for questioning, and when he jumps bail Walsh hops on his tail. There begins a cross-country free-for-all with Walsh and Mardukas trying to elude the local police, the FBI, mob hit men and a bounty hunter eager to beat Walsh to the $100,000 reward.

Grodin's laid-back manner is perfect for the easygoing accountant, who is more concerned that Walsh is a heavy smoker than that he's the target of every mob assassin from New York to Las Vegas. This is a situation-oriented comedy - there aren't that many funny lines - so Grodin makes the most of face and body expressions, even though he spends most of the film in handcuffs.

De Niro is wise enough to know that comedy should look easy no matter how much work goes into it. He never breaks character, and he makes the role seem effortless. His exchanges with the beleaguered special agent Alonzo Mosely (Yaphet Kotto) are among the film's best scenes.

George Gallo's script does a nice job of mixing character with places and chases; even so, the film loses steam towards the end. But the pairing of De Niro and Grodin pays off in two superb performances and one enjoyable film.

WISEGUY

After an outraged Sonny Steelgrave (Ray Sharkey, I.) accuses Vinnie of betraying him to his archrival, he learns the devastating truth, in the conclusion of a two-part "Wise-guy," airing WEDNESDAY, AUG. 10 on CBS. (Rebroadcast)

ASK TONI

Audra was Linda Evans' first regular series role

By Toni Reinhold

I have a bet riding on this question. Did Linda Evans play John Forsythe's niece on "Bachelor Father" years ago on TV, or was Audra Barkley on "Big Valley" her first role? — G.P., Irwin, Pa.

Linda Evans

Evans started working in TV in 1960, while still a student at Hollywood High School. She appeared in an episode of "Bachelor Father" called "A Crush on Bentley." Bentley Gregg was played by John Forsythe, her present "Dynasty" co-star. The role of Audra on "Big Valley," though, was Evans' big break and her first regular series role. Kelly Gregg, Bentley's niece on "Bachelor Father," was played by Noreen Corcoran.

I really enjoyed seeing Joanna Cassidy in "Who Framed Roger Rabbit" and I remember her from "Codename: Foxfire." Has she starred in any other series? — L.O., Jacksonville, Fla.

Cassidy was a regular on the "Shields and Yarnell" variety show in 1977. She appeared on the series "The Roller Girls" (1978), "240-Robert" (1979-80), "The Family Tree" (1983) and "Buffalo Bill" (1983-84). "Codename: Foxfire" aired in 1985.

When did Fred Dryer of "Hunter" retire from professional football? How old is he? — P.T., Midland, Texas Dryer, who plays Det. Sgt. Rich Hunter on NBC's "Hunter," began his pro football career with the New York Giants in 1969. He was traded to the Los Angeles Rams in 1971, and remained with them until his retirement in 1981. He turned 42 on July 6.

Was the late Bob Crane on the old Donna Reed show? This has been a matter of some contention in our family. Can you tell us — was he or wasn't he? — R.M., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Crane, who played the clever Col. Hogan on "Hogan's Heroes," played Dr. Dave Kelsey on "The Donna Reed Show" from 1963 to 1965 (the series aired from 1958 to 1966). Crane left to star in "Hogan's Heroes," which aired from 1965 to 1971. Before his success as an actor, Crane worked as a drummer, a disc jockey and a talk-show host. He was murdered in 1978, and his death is still a mystery.

Books And Things:

Kentucky Is A 'State' Of Mind

By Trisha Morris,
Librarian, Prestonsburg
Community College

Kentucky lies within the confines of a state, but expands easily and often into a state of mind. The following books from the PCC library talk about Kentucky as a state and as an attitude.

The Mountain People of Kentucky, by William Harvey. With a copyright date of 1906, this is a book to read to find out how it was "back when." It is full of wonderful black and white photographs—one entitled "Mountain Boys" shows five freshly scrubbed young men in suits, ties and high starch collars. The population of the mountains in 1900 was 476,000; that of the whole state, 2,147,000. At the turn of the century things were different, but still the same—there was concern for religion, politics and education. Berea College is 50 years old and Morehead is a normal school. The people are discontented with their politicians and have just voted in a new batch. The last chapter predicting the future sees big cities, good roads, honest politicians and a good education system. A hope for themselves and for their children—things change and yet stay the same as history can be written with the same hand three quarters of a century later.

Kentucky, Yesterday and Today, by Ruby Baugher. Like any history book, it is filled with a myriad of information about the state. If a book can be judged by what can be learned from it, this one stands out for the trivia award. The Bluegrass State was also known as the Corn-cracker State, and the cardinal was picked as the state bird because "he does not run away from the cold" as "...the Kentuckian who does not run away when the going is hard." The state flower is the goldenrod (1962) because "it grew like a weed in some neglected spot and its watering came as rain." A compact book that is enhanced with pictures, maps and political cartoons.

Kentucky, a Guide to the Bluegrass State. Compiled and written by the Federal Writers Project for the Work Projects Administration for the State of Kentucky, this monumental book of the American Guide series is a legacy of the Depression. Written to enhance the individual stated, the series put authors and photographers to work compiling history that showed, state by state, the wonders of our United States at a time when the population needed a kick of patriotism. Many, many photos, lots of parks and chapters of tours to individual locals—Prestonsburg is on tour 1 "down U.S. 23, the Mayo trail." A well-written and researched book, it includes a chronology of historic events and a selected bibliography.

Old Kentucky Country, by Clark McMeekin. Opening with an unique description of the state's position in the Union, "...a whole hickory smoked ham laid down crosswise, broadside to Virginia Kentucky's narrow hock-bone end touching the mighty Mississippi far to the West," this is a book that talks about the state with the flavor of a of Kentucky's past with an attempt to identify some of the historical forces which have made the State a distinct entity in the Union." A transplanted Mississippian, Dr. Clark spent most of his life in the Commonwealth. In his years as the chairman of history at the University of Kentucky he affected many lives. This is one of the 18 books he has authored about the state, and his bibliography lists many articles and numerous books he has edited. In this book, Dr. Clark presents a Kentucky (1968) that "stands befuddled in its present suspension between the past and the future."

A Kentucky Sampler, edited by Lowell Harrison. A collection of essays from the Filson Club History Quarterly from 1926-1976. The Filson Club is the historical society of the state. It is named in honor of John Filson who wrote the first history of Kentucky in 1784. These articles commemorate the first half century of its publication. Notable in range of subject matter, the collection includes articles from milksickness to night riders. There's something here for every interest, including a concise history of the Filson Club. A book to dip into where and when the interest strikes.

DAVID B. ALLEN FLOYD COUNTY TREASURER

Financing Your Child's Future

As Junior lies napping in his crib, it's easy to forget that your bundle of joy will likely cost you a bundle of money—a very large bundle. According to moderate estimates of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the basic cost of raising a child up to age 18 have skyrocketed nearly 73 percent in the past nine years, from $55,685 in 1978 to $95,933 in 1987. Those figures represent the cost of food, shelter, and clothing only. Add on medical bills, vacations, day-care, summer camp, a college education, and perhaps a wedding, and you are easily talking a quarter of a million dollars.

How can you raise the funds to finance your child's future? According to the Kentucky State Society of CPAs, the answer is relatively simple: plan wisely, start saving as early as possible, and invest carefully.

In order to accommodate the new addition to your family, you will probably need to adjust your monthly budget—cutting back on such expenses as travel and entertainment. But as most new parents soon find out, those expenses have a mysterious way of diminishing all by themselves as soon as an infant is in the house. More importantly, if your budget has not included a savings factor up till now, it's time to make a change.

Your primary concern should be building a nest egg to support your child's later expenses, such as a college education. And for good reason. Some financial soothsayers predict that in 18 years, four years at a reputable college could cost close to $100,000.

If you are struggling to move your savings account out of the three-digit range, building an account of $100,000 may seem an impossible dream. But if you start saving now, when your child is young, the dream is obtainable. Invest $2,470 a year at an interest rate of eight percent and in 18 years, you'll have $100,000. If you can't afford to save a little over $200 a month, invest whatever amount is reasonable—just make sure that as your annual income increases, so do the deposits to your child's savings account.

How you invest your savings is one of the most critical decisions you can make. Don't let time pressures lure you into following an investment strategy that a neighbor or favorite uncle suggests. Get expert advice and research all options.

Let's look at the most common financial advice that young parents receive: Build funds and shift tax liability to your child by moving income and assets into a Custodial Account for Minors, or by having each parent donate a tax-free gift of up to $10,000 to the child. For the average family, there are several reasons why this advice should be viewed with caution.

First of all, tax reform has greatly reduced the benefits of income shifting. As of January 1, 1987, any investment income over $1,000 that belongs to a child under 14 is taxed at the parents' top marginal rate. For children 14 or older, however, earned income is taxed at their own rate.

Secondly, shifting income into a custodial account means relinquishing control of the assets to your child. You cannot use the funds for your own purposes, even in emergencies, nor can you use the funds to pay for ordinary expenses for your child. Moreover, in most states your child will gain full access to the money at age 18, and may very well opt for a trip to Tahiti rather than four years at Harvard.

Finally, by shifting income to your child, you may adversely affect the amount of federal financial aid he or she may one day receive. Under the Congressional Method of determining the amount of money that a family can contribute to the cost of a college education, parent's assets are calculated at 5 percent of their value as opposed to 35 percent for the student's assets. Thus, a savings account of $10,000 held in your name would add only $500 to the family contribution, while the same account in your child's name would increase the family contribution by $3,500.

You can avoid some of the drawbacks of shifting income to a child by placing the funds in a trust for minors. In many states, the trust will not release assets to the child until he or she is 21, and you can impose conditions as to how the money is distributed and for what purposes. For these benefits, you will generally have to pay a lawyer to set up the trust as well as an annual fee for the bank or trust company acting as trustee. The trust also has to pay any taxes due on the accumulated interest.

Generally, saving for your child's future should be no different than saving for your own. Choose investments that have a risk factor and yield compatible with your goals. If tax deferral is of great concern to you, consider options that defer taxes without requiring you to shift substantial amounts of income to your child. For example, you can buy U.S. Treasury EE series bonds in your own name and defer taxes on the interest earned for up to 12 years, or buy them in your child's name with a maturity date that defers taxes until after your child reaches age 14. In either case, you receive decent interest and a guaranteed minimum return.

Another type of bond to consider is the "zero coupon" bond, which is offered at a price substantially lower than its face value. What makes these bonds a good investment is their high rate of return when they mature. Note that while these bonds pay no interest to the holder, the investor is nevertheless taxed as if interest were paid out annually. For this reason, you may prefer zero-coupon municipal bonds. The interest is exempt from federal taxes, and also from state and local taxes if you buy bonds issued by the state in which you live. Certain municipal bond funds can also offer triple tax-free returns.

Single-premium annuities have become an increasingly popular way to accumulate tax-deferred savings. But be warned—in many cases, you may be subject to surrender charges if you decide to withdraw a portion of your investment before a specified amount of time has elapsed. Equally important, Congress is considering provisions that would reduce or eliminate the tax benefits of using insurance policies as savings plans.

When saving for your child's future, consider the potential risks and returns of an investment first, and tax implications second. Follow sound financial strategies and make sure your portfolio is diversified. If you are overwhelmed by all of the options, CPAs advise you to consult a financial expert.
