New U.S. 23: Construction Will Start Here

In what will be a major economic development boost for Floyd County and Eastern Kentucky, Gov. Wallace Wilkinson announced Tuesday that $92 million will be spent to build a four-lane US 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. Anticipated construction of the first phase from Prestonsburg to Hager Hill, south of Paintsville, is expected to begin in 1990, Wilkinson said. The governor said $70 million of the cost will come from Resource Recovery funds, with the remainder being federally-funded. The highway project will include a four-lane section from Ky. 114 in Prestonsburg, connecting with the existing four-lane section north of Paintsville. Two new connecting roads will be included on the route — one connecting the new four-lane to the existing US 23 at Highlands Regional Medical Center; the other will run from the new US 23 to the existing US 23 at Hager Hill, south of Paintsville.

Wilkinson said the state is currently obtaining right-of-way for the nine-mile stretch; approximately 120 residents and businesses will have to be relocated. State Secretary of Transportation Milo Bryant said during the press conference that the first phase of the project — from Prestonsburg to Hager Hill — would be complete within four to five years. The second phase will extend the new four-lane from Hager Hill to the existing four-lane section north of Paintsville. Wilkinson said the state has not determined which of three possible routes the latter phase will encompass. Proposals have been made to construct the new US 23 through Paintsville, partially through Paintsville, or around the city. "A lot of people have worked hard to make this project a reality," said Wilkinson, noting that he had committed to building the road during his campaign, and had fulfilled that promise.

"The people of Eastern Kentucky deserve this road, and I'm pleased to tell you that you are going to have it," Wilkinson praised the work of local officials, state legislators and Congressman Chris Perkins. He said that Perkins helped bring House Speaker Jim Wright to Pikeville, and had helped obtain $6 million in federal funding for the project. As more than 250 area officials and dignitaries listened to Wilkinson's announcement, 45 demonstrators stood outside the hotel with signs suggesting that the announcement was politically-motivated. The governor waived off media questions asking whether the conference was a pre-election gambit to generate support for US Rep. Chris Perkins. "I make announcements about building roads at the earliest possible moment," Wilkinson said.

"If I could have made this announcement a month ago, I would have made it a month ago." Wilkinson's announcement came as something of a surprise to some Prestonsburg officials, who had visited Bryant last week to ask that construction begin on the new four-lane in Prestonsburg. Although they had hoped that an announcement would be forthcoming, few expected it to be made in such a short length of time. Among those meeting with Bryant last Wednesday were State Rep. Greg Stumbo; State Sen. Benny Ray Bailey; Prestonsburg Mayor Ann

Floyd School Board Races Lead Local Election Issues

Floyd County voters will join their counterparts across the nation to choose the next president of the United States on Tuesday, Nov. 8; the local electorate will also decide several other state and county issues or races. Area voters will cast ballots to decide the fate of two proposed amendments to the state constitution, will elect a congressman from the 7th District, and elect a state Supreme Court justice. Voters in several precincts will also have an opportunity to cast votes on three school board races, while Wheelwright residents will elect two city council members as well.

Sample ballots are printed in Section 5 of this week's Floyd County Times. Seventh District US Congressional incumbent Chris Perkins, a Democrat, is facing a strong bid by Republican challenger Will T. Scott. For the majority of Floyd Counties, the most hotly-contested races will involve local school district seats. Voters in District 3 will choose one of three men as their new board representative — Ricky Joe Roberts, Tommy Boyd or Dr. Brent Clark. In District 4, incumbent Dr. Mary Hall, who has been on the board for more than 15 years, will attempt to retain her seat despite challenges from Ricky D. Hamilton, Judy Breeding Bartley and Klein D. Stumbo. Hall and Hamilton, in recent weeks, appear to lead the list of candidates, with each garnering strong support from the electorate. In District 5, incumbent James Arville Duff will compete for the board position with three other candidates — Hattie Cooley Owens, Roger Jones and Paul J. Branham. The Wheelwright City Commissioner's race for two unexpired terms that were vacated during the summer has a twist—the two who resigned are campaigning again for their previous seats. Dennis Harris and Dennis Holbrook resigned their city commission seats during the summer, but are running as new candidates for those seats, as are Alfred Rhea and Ruth Daniels. According to Charlotte Mullins of the state Board of Elections, if a candidate resigns and files again to run, "he or she starts as a new candidate." Two proposed amendments to the Kentucky Constitution will be on the Nov. 8 ballot for voters across the state: the first deals with a state lottery; the second, with broad form deeds. To help voters understand the complex questions that appear on the ballot, the Kentucky Literacy Commission has developed simplified versions of both questions. They are:

BROAD FORM DEED

The miners want to strip mine, because strip mines save the mine owners money. The landowners say no, because strip mines tear up the land. They say strip mines are not fair. However, the law says strip mines are all right. Should the law be changed? Vote yes to change the law; vote no to keep it the same.

City Officials Report Safe Halloween Holiday

According to the Prestonsburg Police Department, Halloween night, Oct. 31, was relatively quiet. One person reported a needle in a piece of candy, police authorities said. Further details were unavailable Tuesday night. Capt. Darrell Conley said Prestonsburg, was divided into sectors with auxiliary and police officers patrolling regularly.

1,800 Halloween Ghosts, Goblins Take Part In Trick-Or-Treat Project

Ghosts, goblins, famous personalities and characters in all shapes and sizes visited the Holiday Inn and Prestonsburg Rotary Club's Monster and Goblin Party Sunday, Oct. 30, at the Holiday Inn in Prestonsburg. Ruby Pennington, Holiday Inn coordinator, said that during the first hour 1,800 kids were registered. Pennington said registrations had to stop because "it simply got too big." Greg Crum, president of the Rotary Club, estimated 3,500 to 5,000 people attended the event, between 5-8 p.m. Crum said some parents could not wait through long lines and left. According to Pennington, children attended from the area, including Johnson and Magoffin counties. "Preparations were made for around 1,000; 1,500 at tops," Pennington said. "Everything went so good—other than a bigger crowd than expected. Only one or two rooms ran out of candy," she added. Approximately 28 businesses and organizations participated in the event and, according to Crum, "The people involved had as much fun as the kids." Pennington said "The Rotary Club did a fantastic job helping with the event. We had the facility, they had the know-how. When we started putting this together, we knew it would be good, but in our wildest imaginations, we never thought it would be this good," she added. Crum said the purpose was to provide a safe alternative to trick-or-treating; and to "get kids off the streets and to have a safe halloween." Tom Blackburn, Prestonsburg fire chief, said the event made a big difference in the number of kids trick-or-treating in Prestonsburg Monday night. According to Blackburn, the fire department places trucks at each major intersection to assist children in crossing. Blackburn said Highland and Arnold Avenue Avenues were heavy traffic spots; but this year there were substantially fewer children in Prestonsburg. A costume contest for kids and adults was held at Holiday Inn, and Maranda Combs of Martin won the first prize award, a $50 savings bond and a boom-box donated by Station Alpha in the children's division. Amy Adams won the second prize, a pinata in the children's category. Carol Rudy of Prestonsburg won the weekend getaway to Lexington and an emergency flashlight, first prize, in the adult division. Ron Blackburn won the second prize in the adult division, a pinata, Holiday Inn officials said. Lay people from Baptist, Methodist, Church of God, Assembly of God and Presbyterian congregations have gathered at First United Methodist Church in Prestonsburg to make calls and give information about the lottery issue, according to the Rev. Quentin Scholtz, minister of First United Methodist Church. Over 2,000 calls have been made to county residents by the phone volunteers, and 65 percent of those called are against the lottery, Scholtz said. Of the remaining 35 percent, many are undecided. The phone campaign has run throughout the month of October and will continue until Nov. 7. There has been about one different church each night staffing the phones, Marian Masters, member of the phone committee, said. For Scholtz, the important thing is that the lay people are really involved. "There are very few ministers involved (with the phone project)," he said. "You can about expect a minister to speak, but it is very special when the lay people are involved." The phone bank, which was organized through the Floyd County Ministerial Association, provides those called with information about lotteries in general and about the amendment on the ballot, Masters said. One of the purposes is to raise awareness of the lottery, she said. "Some people don't even know it is on the ballot." "Kentucky is known for horse racing, liquor and tobacco," she said. "If we add one more thing, Kentucky is going to be in bad shape." The response of the phone campaign has been really good, Masters said. There have also been interesting answers—some hang up, but most of the people called are nice. Even if the amendment is passed, the phone bank volunteers say they won't be defeated. "We'll feel like we'll be winners even if we lose," she said. "We will have made an effort in standing up for what we believe."

Area Church Members Staff Anti-Lottery Line

With Election Day just around the corner, a group of Floyd County churches have banded together to fight Constitutional Amendment One: the lottery. Lay people from Baptist, Methodist, Church of God, Assembly of God and Presbyterian congregations have gathered at First United Methodist Church in Prestonsburg to make calls and give information about the lottery issue, according to the Rev. Quentin Scholtz, minister of First United Methodist Church. Goble-Roberts Man Killed; Wife Charged With Murder

A Goble-Roberts man was killed Sunday morning at his home, and his wife has been charged with murder, according to the Kentucky State Police. Nathaniel Buck Layne, 53, of Goble Roberts, was shot three times with a .38 caliber handgun and was pronounced dead at the scene, according to officials. His wife, Betty Layne, 52, of Goble-Roberts, was arrested and charged with murder and is being lodged in the Floyd County Jail. The shooting occurred at the Layne residence shortly before 11 a.m. Sunday, state police said. The Laynes were having an argument when Betty Layne allegedly shot her husband.

Capt. Greg Hall of the Prestonsburg Police Department and Prestonsburg Fire Chief Tom Blackburn were the first to arrive at the scene finding Mr. Layne dead, according to police reports. Mrs. Layne was arrested at the scene. Layne died of three gunshot wounds to the chest and abdomen, according to Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson. The Floyd County Sheriff's Department also assisted. Funeral services for Layne will be Thursday, Nov. 3 at 10 a.m. at the Steeles Creek Old Regular Baptist Church at Wayland.

Three Weeksbury Residents Charged With Drug-Related Crimes Sunday Night

Three Weeksbury residents were arrested during a drug-related search of the Gary Little residence in Weeksbury Sunday night, according to the Kentucky State Police. During the search, state police confiscated 19 and one-half cases of beer, drug paraphernalia and a police scanner, officials said. Arrested were Gary Little, 32, charged with trafficking in LSD and marijuana, illegal possession of alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale and possession of a gambling device; Brenda Little, 28, charged with trafficking in LSD and marijuana; and Tommy Johnson, 18, charged with possession of marijuana. All three are from Weeksbury. Bond was set Monday morning for Gary Little and Brenda Little at $50,000 each.

Martin Gets New Fire Truck

The Martin Volunteer Fire Department recently got a new fire truck to add to their fleet. The diesel engine truck carries 750 gallons of water, pumps 1250 gallons of water, and also hoses and safety equipment. The truck cost about $105,000 and was funded through fire insurance taxes. Pictured with the new truck are Martin Mayor Raymond Griffith, Police and Fire Chief Hershel Lester and Fire Captain Jimmy Rudder.

Group Elects Officers, Will Look At All System Areas School District 'Blue Ribbon' Committee Holds 1st Meeting

The Blue Ribbon panel established by the Floyd County Board of Education to review salary indexing for teachers had its first meeting Monday night, with a "very optimistic" attitude in the air. The first meeting of the panel was to organize, elect officers and define what its tasks would be, according to Delores Smith, chairperson of the panel. Their task, Smith said, will be to "look at the total system in all areas." They will look at the entire system, make long range plans and, in basically all areas, make recommendations to the board about their findings. Fifteen of the 23 panel members attended the meeting, Smith said, and the general feeling was that the "group by and large can work together in a positive step." Smith is also hoping for more involvement from the community. "I would like to involve many, many more people in all segments of the community and bring people in to help us," she said. She also added that there will be full cooperation from the school board in obtaining records. The panel is made of elected county officials, Floyd County Education Association members, Floyd County Education Forum members, members of civic organizations, business people and the clergy.

Members asked to serve on the panel are Ron Hager, Floyd County school superintendent; Dr. James D. Adams, chairman of the school board; Russell Frazier, assistant superintendent; Dr. Mary Hall, school board member; Delores Smith, panel chairperson; Anne Chaney, Freddie Goble, Sam Blankenship, Burl Spurlock, panel vice-chair; Jean Rosenberg, Roberta Luxmore, Betty Rowland, Eugene Blackburn, the Rev. Robert Cox, the Rev. Quentin Scholtz, secretary of the panel; Sheriff Henry Hale, Lovell Hall, Rep. Greg Stumbo, County Judge Executive John M. Stumbo, Ben Spradlin, Judge Hollie Conley, Joyce Everly and Fred Harris.

Ladder Truck Used In Rescue

Utilizing its new ladder truck, the Prestonsburg Fire Department made a daring rescue Saturday, Oct. 29, when firefighters removed an injured teen from atop the Playhouse Restaurant in Prestonsburg.

According to Tom Blackburn, fire chief, Johnnie Craft had fallen or jumped from a third story building, the old Hobbs building, to a second story building, the Playhouse Restaurant, and injured his foot.

Blackburn said Craft's brother and another youth came to the fire department Saturday, around 4:45 p.m. and told officials about the injured boy. Blackburn said the boys apparently had thrown a football on top of the building and were attempting to retrieve it when Craft was injured.

Blackburn said access to the top of the buildings was gained via the fire escape at the C & R Office Supply.

Firefighter Kevin Hedrick, Kenny Crisp, Mike Wells, Don Hall and a volunteer, Tim Conley, traveled the ladder, which was extended about 30-35 feet to the top of the Playhouse poolroom. Rescuers placed Craft's foot in an air splint and placed him in a Stokes basket, an enclosed fiberglass basket.

Blackburn said the basket was secured at the head of the hydraulic ladder. Kenny Crisp and Hall stayed on the ladder with the injured youth, keeping him calm and stable while the ladder was raised straight up, turned around and lowered to the street.

Craft was transported to Highlands Regional Medical Center where he was treated for a broken foot and was released, hospital authorities said.

Rescue operations took only 35 minutes to complete, and without the ladder truck, Blackburn said, Craft would have been lowered to the ground by ropes, which would have taken about an hour. Blackburn, who operated the hydraulic ladder from the rear of the truck, said he was pleased to see how easy the ladder had made the rescue operation. "The ladder has so much potential and it will pay for itself in the future," Blackburn said. The ladder truck was purchased about two years ago for $185,000.

Unemployment Rate In Floyd County Falls; ADD District Records Similar Drop

The unemployment rate in Floyd County fell significantly from July to August, the latest months for which figures are available.

According to Thomas Hereford III, field office manager with the Prestonsburg Employment Services Office, the jobless rate in Floyd County fell from 14.4 percent in July to 11.6 percent in August. For the four counties served by the office (Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin and Martin), the jobless rate fell from 14.5 to 12.6 percent.

In Johnson County, a slight drop was recorded, from July's 11.9 to August's 11.1 percent. In Magoffin County, unemployment fell by slightly more than one percent, from 19.7 to 18.5. Martin County residents saw their jobless rate fall from 14.6 to 13.7 percent.

Statewide, unemployment fell from July's 8.4 percent to 6.9 percent in August. Unemployment rates declined in 114 of Kentucky's 120 counties from July to August, with the number of Kentuckians with jobs jumping by more than 11,000.

In the Big Sandy Area Development District, which serves Floyd, Martin, Magoffin and Johnson counties, as well as Pike County, the jobless rate fell from 15.4 percent in July to 12.9 percent in August. All of the district's counties reported double-digit rates.

The monthly sample of claimants of unemployment insurance benefits showed 56.4 percent had worked in mining, 12.3 percent in construction, 12.1 percent in trade and 9.7 percent in service.

Letters To The Editor

Vote, And Hold Those Elected Accountable

Dear Editor,

Some of you will be voting on Nov. 8 for your local school board representative. I encourage you to vote and, after the election, I encourage you to hold your school board representative accountable.

That person has a big responsibility, just as we all do, and that is to provide our children with a quality education. We cannot allow political patronage to be a priority in our school system. Our school system should have one priority, and that is to educate our children. Our goals and objectives should all be focused toward that one purpose. We are very capable of having an excellent school system. Our children have the potential. We have some good teachers. We have parents and citizens who do care about our children. All we need to do is work together.

I say this because I've seen what happens when we work together. I've worked with a group called the school community partnership for the last several years. I've seen what students can do. I've seen what teachers can do. I've seen what parents can do, and I've seen what the business community can do. I've seen the energy, the creativity, and the enthusiasm that happens when we involve all these people.

We don't all have the same capabilities, nor the same expertise, but we all have something to give. I want to see that involvement all over this county. When we involve ourselves, our school benefits tremendously. I want to see a board of education which will actively involve all the people in Floyd County. In that way we build trust and credibility, and we all assume responsibility.

There's no better feeling than seeing a young person excited about learning, and I want to be a part of that just as I hope all of you do. Let's make a commitment now to involve ourselves and work towards a quality education for every child in Floyd County. We can't change what's happened in the past but we can affect what happens in the future. We can make a difference.

I encourage you to evaluate the candidates and choose the one you think will do the best job for our children and not one who will use the office for political patronage. Please vote.

Pastor's Viewpoint Is Questionable, Says Minister

Dear Editor,

Last week's "Religious Viewpoints" was probably one of the most narrowly written articles I have read in recent years. It referred to those of us who are "united to champion causes they feel are of greatest importance" as "strange bedfellows." I don't consider it strange to be united against "abortion, pornography and a thousand other causes."

In fact, the pastor who wrote the letter has a questionable sense of ministry. He thinks his only purpose is to preach the Gospel and to save souls. Well, that's admirable, but then why is he in a church where many souls have already been saved? "Why is he wasting his time on those already saved?" Shouldn't he be out as an evangelist, instead of as a pastor. You see, a pastor, as he calls himself, not only must deal with preaching the Gospel but also care for those who have been afflicted by sin and corrupted by the world. It's caring for those that are hungry and those who are struggling in marriage and out of marriage.

Part of our responsibilities as pastors are with the power of God, to go to war against the principalities that separate many from God. I suspect that anyone who has a "safe behind four walls" attitude is the one who is corrupted, not the strange bedfellows. Since he picks and chooses scripture to suit his own position, I suggest that he read Matthew 25 because the whole chapter deals with going out into the world, going beyond just preaching to living out in faith what we have proclaimed.

It was Paul who had to deal with Corinth and Ephesus. It was our Lord that had to deal with women who were caught in prostitution, men who abused women, and people who were caught in fraud.

We are fortunate that Jesus not only proclaimed salvation, but went out and faced Satan and his evil forces, face to face. We might lose what the pastor calls "pointless efforts" (though I don't consider dealing with abortion or pornography as a pointless effort), but at least we are not only saving souls, but we are also meeting evil head-on with a power that is not ours, but that of the Holy Spirit.

Former P'burg Resident Opposes State Lottery

Dear Editor,

Having lived in Prestonsburg for eight and a half years, some time ago, I still have many friends there and in Floyd County. Because I am concerned for what is best for all of the citizens in our state, I wish to share my views on the proposed state lottery amendment.

It has been said by some politicians over the state that our schools, the elderly and Vietnam Veterans will benefit if the lottery amendment is passed. The truth is, the amendment does not state how the proceeds of a lottery should be used. The exact wording of the amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"Shall Section 226 of the Constitution be amended to provide that the General Assembly may establish a Kentucky state lottery; may establish a state lottery to be conducted in cooperation with other states; and that any lottery so established shall be operated by or on behalf of the Commonwealth of Kentucky?"

The manner in which the proceeds of such a lottery are to be spent is left up to the wishes of 38 senators and 100 representatives who make up the general assembly in Frankfort. The voters will be voting for only one thing, and that is to establish a state lottery.

Surely there is a better way to raise the necessary revenue to operate state government than to saddle our people with a lottery that drains money from the lower income people of the state in order to benefit a few. Every dollar spent on a lottery ticket is one dollar less to buy needed food and clothing.

When you only have one chance in 5 to 10 million of winning, the lottery is not a very good bet.

Think and vote no on amendment number 1 on Nov. 8.

Four score and seven years ago, roughly, our fathers gave away the mineral rights to the whole of Eastern Kentucky—swapped a future Saudi Arabia for a few cents an acre.

The money went east. The big money people from Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, and Maryland took their millions from our coal and endowed or built dozens of colleges, universities and libraries in their own rich neighborhoods—fine for them, but know what—they didn't leave a single high school in Eastern Kentucky, much less a college. The bottom line—Who needs an educated coal miner!

So we were taken to the cleaners—whipped, beaten, laughed at. We performed as servants before our masters, digging untold millions of tons of coal for the enrichment of the East. All we got was the danger, the dust, a few dollars and disaster.

Where were the bright sons and daughters who might have spoken up and said, "Hey grandpa, hold it, you're going at it all wrong—this is your land, your coal, and you're getting nothing out of it!" But there were no bright sons or daughters; even if there had been they wouldn't have been allowed to speak.

Which brings me to the point I want to make: we are beset with an ancestral mentality that has doomed us to failure or mediocrity. We don't want our children to know more than we know—we never did!

Praise be! Why not? It's an old thing, a really ancient thing; you'd have to go back hundreds of years to the clans and family patriarchs of Ireland, England, Scotland, and Germany to find the answer. Since most of us are descendants of those people, we inherited their easy chair of ignorance.

As a rule of necessity, clans and families needed only one leader—there was too much trouble with too many. It was only practical to limit member intelligence to a selected few—and it always made the old man look good. So our ancestors brought it here, and it has stayed here—up every creek and hollow. In its modern form, you call it "benign neglect." "I've got no book learning," the old man would boast, "and what's good enough for me is good enough for my young'uns." And that was law!

No, we don't want our children to be more educated than we are. Its as simple as that, always was. It was useful in another age, another place, but not now. The diversified world has run off and left us—left us with nothing but hills and an out-dated piteous pride.

If we continue to follow in the footsteps of tradition, all we're going to see is our feet. What's the point in our kids trying to look up?

But what if we preached from the school pulpit, "Kids! Thank God you're here: we're going to teach you, educate you, make you bigger and better than any of us ever were. We've messed up East Kentucky for a hundred years now, and we need you to help straighten it out!"

Surely anything is better than looking at your feet?

(For all the parents who have truly tried to educate their children, I apologize for some of these comments. But even among those who have truly tried, how many times has it gone for naught because of one lousy teacher, principal, superintendent, or school board, the whole county educational system? All it takes is one rotten apple. And I see bushels.)

In the early decades of this century, landowners in Floyd County signed documents called broad form deeds, which transferred their mineral rights to coal companies. At that time, coal was recovered by deep mining methods, which caused little surface disturbance.

During the 1950s, coal companies turned more and more to strip mining. Kentucky courts ruled that old broad form deeds entitled companies to strip land without the permission of the landowner. In 1984, the Kentucky General Assembly passed a law protecting landowners and giving them the right to refuse permission to strip miners. The State Supreme Court struck down this law.

As a result, the last four decades have been a nightmare for Eastern Kentucky landowners. Strip miners have come onto their land without permission, shearing off mountaintops and filling in hollows, destroying orchards and cornfields, plowing under topsoil, polluting water supplies, and leaving behind mud slides, rocks and hydroseeded scrub grass. Landowners have even been denied access to their own property.

The abuse of broad form deeds harms more than just landowners. The economy is harmed because businesses will not locate on land which might be affected by strip mining at any time.

One Kentucky landowner injured by broad form deeds is Sidney Cornett of Perry County. Cornett served two tours in Vietnam and returned to the land that had been in his family for generations. He served his country, fighting to protect the rights of others, yet his land was stripped without his permission and he could do nothing to stop it.

Floyd County landowners and homeowners like Betty and Roy May of Maytown also live in fear of what the future holds. Coal companies are waiting for the outcome of the Nov. 8 vote to strip their land. Families like the Mays of Floyd County do not have the rights other Americans have to protect their land and property. Kentucky is the only state which tolerates this situation. A few years ago, Tennessee became the latest state to protect landowners' rights. The laws declared unconstitutional by Kentucky state courts are the same as those upheld by courts in other states, the only way around Kentucky's industry-dominated courts is to put the issue directly to the voters.

Human decency and a commitment to this nation's values of freedom and justice require the passage of this amendment. It is supported by Democrats and Republicans, by liberals and conservatives, by church groups and civic organizations, and by enlightened elements within the coal industry itself.

But others in the coal industry are taking advantage of the general public's lack of knowledge of broad form deeds to spread misconceptions.

They are saying the amendment violates the integrity of contracts. Not true. The amendment will not deny the coal companies access to their coal. It simply requires that the companies have to receive the permission of the landowner to strip mine. If the landowner refuses permission, the companies may still obtain the coal by deep mining, the "mining method common to the day" when the deeds were signed. Rather than violating the contracts, this restores the contracts to their original intent and prohibits the contractual violations of the recent past.

Then there are the usual industry cries for pity. Electric rates will rise, jobs will be lost, the industry will leave Kentucky, go out of business. Fiddlesticks. The coal industry is carrying on as usual all across the country, without broad form deeds.

For 40 years, the Commonwealth of Kentucky has tolerated the seizure and destruction of private property without the property owners' permission. This is an injustice more appropriate to a totalitarian society than a free one. It is time to restore the rights of American citizens to Eastern Kentucky landowners.

Save the homeplace. Vote yes on Constitutional Amendment Number Two.

Vote YES on constitutional amendment #2 to prevent strip mining without the landowner's permission Broad form mineral deeds in Eastern Kentucky were signed around the turn of the century. Since the 1950s, these deeds have been interpreted to allow for strip mining without the permission of the landowner and with no obligation by the coal company to pay for damages to the land.

A YES VOTE ON CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT #2 WILL RETURN CONTROL OF THE LAND TO THE LANDOWNER.

A YES VOTE WILL MEAN NO MORE STRIP MINING WITHOUT THE PERMISSION OF THE LANDOWNER.

Constitutional Amendment #2
Shall Section 19 of the Constitution be amended to provide that in any instrument heretofore or hereafter executed purporting to sever the surface and mineral estates or to grant a mineral estate or a right to extract minerals, which fails to state in specific terms the method of coal extraction to be employed, or where said instrument contains language subordinating the surface estate to the mineral estate, it shall be held, in the absence of clear evidence to the contrary, that the intention of the parties to the instrument was that the coal be extracted only by the methods of commercial coal extraction commonly known to be in use in the area affected at the time the instrument was executed, and that the mineral estate be dominant to the surface estate for the purposes of coal extraction by only the methods of commercial coal extraction commonly known to be in use in the area affected at the time the instrument was executed?

AN EYE TOWARD SIDE EFFECTS

Vision and eye problems are not often thought of as side affects of taking medication. Yet, many prescriptions and over-the-counter drugs may cause a range of problems that can affect eyesight. For instance, some antidepressants and antihistamines can inhibit tear production. The result can be dry, irritated eyes which can pose a special problem for contact lens wearers. As for sulfa drugs, their use may cause blurred vision and nearsightedness. If steroid drugs are taken for more than a year, patients may risk cataract formation. If any of these potential problems appear or pose a concern for patients, they should promptly discuss the matter with their physicians.

COOLEY APOTHECARY carries what you would expect to find in a well inventoried drug store including whatever medications your physician may prescribe. We are very proud to be able to provide families in this area with all their over the counter needs as well. You'll find us located at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-5. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments.

HINT: A patient should not stop taking a prescribed medication of his own accord. Let the doctor arrive at the decision.

Floyd Sheriff's Department, State Police Seize LSD, Cocaine, Marijuana On Wed.

The Floyd County Sheriff's Department and the Kentucky State Police seized large quantities of LSD, cocaine and marijuana during a drug bust Wednesday night which was the result of a three-week undercover investigation by the Sheriff's Department, according to Deputy Anthony Castle.

Ronald Gene George, currently of Lancer, was arrested and charged with separate counts of trafficking LSD, marijuana and cocaine and possession of drug paraphenalia. Ervin Ginther of Rowan County was arrested and charged with possession of codeine. Warrants have been issued for two other suspects still at large, Castle said.

A $50,000 cash bond was set for George, which is the highest bond ever set in the county on a drug related case, according to District Judge Harold Stumbo.

After a three-week undercover investigation by deputies, they obtained a search warrant for the George residence in Lancer, Castle said.

During the search Wednesday night, 1,000 doses of LSD, undetermined amounts of cocaine, marijuana and other drugs, automatic weapons, cash and a new truck were confiscated, he said. The search and arrests were made by Deputies Castle, John Blackburn, George Hale, Ricky Thornsby, and Trooper A.L. Wedding of the Kentucky State Police.

According to Castle, George is apparently "a dealer that comes in and sets up to distribute to smaller dealers." George had a prior criminal record in Michigan and three false identification cards were found during the search, Castle said.

Voters Need Identification This Year

Kentucky voters, for the first time, need to take identification to the polls with them on election day, Nov. 8, according to Secretary of State Bremer Ehrler, chair of the state board of elections.

"According to the provisions of the new election reform legislation, precinct workers are required to confirm the identity of the voters," he explains. Identification can be made by personal acquaintance with the precinct election official, by showing a driver's license, credit card or Social Security card.

"We hope our voters don't get too upset with having to produce this identification, but the members of the Kentucky General Assembly passed this legislation to insure that every voter has one vote and one vote only," Ehrler said.

Precinct election officials will be required to note the means of identification on the precinct roster, then add their initials by the voter's name.

In a separate election matter, Ehrler reminds all voters that vote buying and selling are illegal. Large signs will be displayed in each of the state's 3,234 voting precincts Nov. 8 stating that fact, he said.

"Vote buying and selling have always been illegal, but this time, the offenses will be felonies," Ehrler explains. "We are trying to get the attention of the potential vote buyers and sellers with the new precinct signs."

"Bribery" is the term used for vote buying and selling under the election law. The penalty for bribery is not less than $1,000 nor more than $10,000, or confinement in the penitentiary for not less than one nor more than five years, or both.

Ehrler says he is convinced that the vast majority of Kentucky voters are honest, but stresses that elections must be 100 percent honest. "Honest elections are the very foundation of our democracy, and anything less simply cannot be tolerated," Ehrler contends.

The state Attorney General's Office will be working with the Kentucky State Police to patrol election precincts and investigate violations of election laws.

According to Attorney General

Fred Cowan, the monitoring teams will be active, visiting precincts and courthouses in selected counties on election day.

"We are hoping to have a deterrent effect," he said. "By maintaining a presence at the polls, we should be able to eliminate some of the more blatant election abuses such as the open buying and selling of votes."

Under the new election law, electioneering within 500 feet of a polling place is prohibited, and the monitoring teams will be on the alert for any violations of the new restrictions.

Candidates' Forum To Be Re-Broadcast

WPRG, Television 5, on the Tel-Com Cable, will re-broadcast the Floyd County Education Forum's candidates' forum this Thursday, Nov. 3, at 7 p.m.

The panel question-and-answer session was held recently at Allen Central High School, with three school board candidates participating. They were Ricky Joe Roberts, Ricky D. Hamilton and Roger Jones.

In addition, the station will also be broadcasting Wednesday night's Floyd County Board of Education meeting, which will be held at Wheelwright High School. Broadcast time is 8:30 p.m.

Floyd Fiscal Court Meets, Discusses Bond Refinancing

A special meeting of the Floyd County Fiscal Court was held Friday, Oct. 23, to discuss the proposed refunding of First Commonwealth Bank Bonds.

An ordinance was presented regarding the authorization and sale of the County of Floyd, Kentucky Economic Development Refunding Revenue Bonds (The First Commonwealth Bank of Prestonsburg, Inc. Project) in the principal amount of $5,000,000.

Burl Wells Spurlock, president and chief executive officer of the bank, told the court when the bonds were first issued it was at the higher 9.6-percent rate. Spurlock said he would like to reissue the bonds at 2.5 percent lower interest. The bonds would have the same maturity date, Spurlock said, and could result in "$900,000 to $1 million savings over an eight-year period."

Spurlock explained that bond reissuance is not much different than when a homeowner takes out a mortgage then refinances when the interest rates drop.

Terrell Ross with Merit Financial Corporation in Lexington read a summary of the ordinance to the court. He said there was "no obligation on the part of the county and no obligation to the county." Ross presented the first reading of the ordinance.

In other business, Carla Bolton reported to court members that Arnold Prater, who had low bid for voting machine storage and removal, told her he had no intention of putting electricity in his building and he would use a pickup for hauling the machines. At the last meeting Friday, Oct. 21, court members had agreed to give Prater time to check with the power company, and also to see if he could obtain usage of a lift truck.

Magistrate Jackie Owens said that after inspecting the building, he agreed it should have electricity. The court awarded the voting machine storage and removal to Jeff Shepherd at the rate he had presented to the court earlier.

The next meeting of the Fiscal Court will be held Friday, Nov. 18, at 10 a.m.

Pikeville Commander

Lt. Gary Rose has been promoted to captain and has been assigned post commander of the Pikeville State Police post, State Police Commissioner W. Michael Troop announced recently. Rose is a 1964 graduate of Wheelwright High School and is a three year veteran of the Army, having served one year with the First Infantry Division in Vietnam. He entered the state police April 1968 and has worked as a uniform trooper, trooper detective, sergeant, and lieutenant at the Pikeville post 9. Rose and wife, Yulanda, and children, Brent, Matthew, and Launa, reside at Ligon.

A rainfall of one inch over one acre is about 27,000 gallons of water.

Patton's Termination Hearing Reset Nov. 23

A hearing originally scheduled Wednesday, Oct. 26, by the Floyd County Board of Education to consider the termination of Transportation Supervisor Ed Patton's contract with the district has been postponed until Nov. 23, according to school district officials.

Earlier this month, Ron Hager, district superintendent, recommended that the board fire Patton for alleged insubordination and neglect of duty.

The conflict apparently stems from Patton's conduct Thursday, Oct. 13, when some 350 Floyd County educators instituted a "sick out". Patton reportedly notified local radio stations that school would not be in session.

Patton said earlier this month he believed another contributing factor was his support of Ricky Hamilton, school board candidate in District 4, who is among those challenging incumbent Dr. Mary Hall.

In a letter to Hager last week, Patton's attorney, Ned Pillersdorf of Prestonsburg, claims that the board has legally waived any opportunity to discharge Patton because of its "irresponsible" handling of the issue.

Pillersdorf said that Kentucky law requires that once a superintendent recommends demotion of an administrator, the board must, within five days, give written notice of the recommendation to the administrator.

Martin Police Officer Cleared

Tommy Engle, a Martin police officer who was indicted for first degree assault in a November 1987 incident, was acquitted by a Floyd Circuit Court jury Monday.

Engle was accused of beating Gary Thornsburg in the head with a flashlight when Engle arrested Thornsburg and another man for public intoxication and possession of cocaine, according to Engle's attorney, Phil Damron.

The charge was amended to second or fourth degree assault before the case came to trial, and after an hour of deliberation the jury found Engle not guilty, Damron said.

A federal civil suit contending that Thornsburg's civil rights were violated during the incident is still pending, he said.

Community Leaders Give Views On US 23; All Voice Optimism

Community leaders are very enthusiastic about Gov. Wilkinson's announcement Tuesday about construction of a four-lane US 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

"Anytime you've got good roads, it helps any industry in here - that's something that's needed," said County Judge Executive John M. Stumbo.

Thomas Hereford III, president of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, said that the new road will open up flat land on Little Paint for industrial sites that have always been there, but have been inaccessible.

"Opening industrial sites will help not only Floyd County, but Eastern Kentucky," Hereford added.

Besides industrial development, Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta believes that the new road will increase tourism in the area.

Latta also said that the new road will alleviate traffic problems in the city and help downtown business by making it easier to travel into the city.

There is a critical need to get the traffic out of Prestonsburg, she said. About 21,000 cars a day travel through the city.

Stumbo also believes that it will help the coal industry by making travel cheaper, since the road will bypass Prestonsburg.

Hereford and Stumbo also added that the construction will help the local economy in the immediate future from wages for actual construction of the road.

"The governor kept his campaign promise and we appreciate it," said Latta.

"I'm really excited and I'm not even driving on it yet," Hereford said. "Everybody will benefit," he added. "There are no negatives for anybody - it's a plus all the way."

Latta; Prestonsburg City Council members William R. Callihan, William O. Goebel III, Charles Hale and Michael Vance; Prestonsburg City Administrator Fred James; Prestonsburg Chief of Police Dickie Campbell; and Bill H. Howard and Henry Lewis Mayo of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce.

During the meeting, the Floyd County group told Bryant that more than 21,000 vehicles per day travel through Prestonsburg via US 23, and that a high proportion of the traffic is extended-weight, coal hauling trucks.

In addition to asking that construction on the new US 23 begin in Prestonsburg as soon as possible, the group requested that traffic lights be placed at three locations, and that some speed limits in the area be reduced.

They also requested that the present US 23 be widened near Prestonsburg High School where it narrows to two lanes to eliminate traffic congestion.

Clarification

An article last week about annexing the Holiday Inn into the Prestonsburg city limits and the waiving garbage collection fees indicated that the motel would recoup its costs for installation of water and sewer lines.

According to Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta, the waiver was a separate economic development incentive, unrelated to the facility's utility installation costs.

The Floyd County Times regrets the inadvertent implication and any inconvenience it may have caused.

Scalf Patents Golf Putter

According to the U.S. Patent and Trademark office, John H. Scalf of Allen has developed a unique putter which is now patent pending. The Affiliated Inventors Foundation, which submitted Scalf's invention, said tests of the putter indicate the user can shave three to five strokes off his game. Scalf says the putter's efficiency is achieved, "because it is easier to align this putter on a line to the cup, since the golfer is behind the ball and maintains constant alignment while striking the ball." According to Scalf, the putter virtually eliminates all of the variables in putting except, of course, the break of the green and the distance to the hole.

'Conversation In A Voting Booth'

(Editor's Note: The following, written by Janie Howard of Prestonsburg, was originally written for the Presbyterian Youth Group's monthly newsletter.)

Well, Lord, here I am again, and I don't know what to do! I've been so busy doing church work, family chores and helping care for my friends and neighbors in their illnesses and deaths that I haven't had time to really think about the issues and candidates! However, it's important, too.

But I promise next time... No, just now — I will start asking you to help me decide. Perhaps next time, I'll be prepared.

Lord, I hear a lot of speeches from the major candidates (forgive me for making a judgment), but they all say they're the "best"! But Lord, they talk so bad about each other, using four-letter words (and I don't mean love). I wonder if we've much to choose from? If so, who?

Deliver me, Lord, from voting for tradition's sake; that is prevalent everywhere. You wouldn't want me to do that, would you, Lord?

I know our country, founded on religion, is in an awful mess. I know, Lord, it isn't your fault! I'm aware of so much crime — murder, rape, embezzlement in high places, drugs almost everywhere, abortions and countless other things. Lord, there's all the hunger, arson, floods, earthquakes, hurricanes, tornados, droughts — I feel so helpless! Help! Please don't wait, Lord, for the next time — do it this time, because I do care what happens to our country and your world we have so grossly abused.

Lord, I'd be ever so thankful if you would guide every person that's elected in making every decision that comes before them. We need so much to get back to statesmanship — like Washington and Lincoln. That would take a miracle, but that's your specialty, isn't it, Lord?

Well, Lord, I think I know how to vote! Anyhow, I've got to get out of here and give my neighbors a chance to vote. How, some of them may not know you, but help them anyhow, please.

Thank you, Lord, for taking time to talk to a lowly person like me. I do love you so much.

Amen

Mayo Machine Shop Student

Modern Technological Training Is Available At Mayo School

The machine shop program at Mayo State Vocational Technical School is designed to give students a general knowledge of machines and their functions.

A machinist is a skilled worker who makes machine parts and tools. The machinist sets up, adjusts and operates a variety of machine tools, such as lathes, planers, shapers, milling machines, grinders, power hacksaws and others. These machine tools are used to manufacture parts that may be used to make or repair gauges, dies and machines, and use precision measuring instruments. They work from blueprints and written specifications.

The machine shop at Mayo has an ORAC CNC bench training lathe which is the latest advance in microprocessor technology. A mini-computer is used to control a bench training lathe.

Another of the two latest designed machines is the TRIAC CNC bench training mill which is an extremely versatile continuous path computer based programmable numerical control unit. This unit is designed to control a 3-axis-milling-machine.

Machine operations may be found in any industry from the deep coal fields to the highest technical space age programs. However, most machinists work in the machine industry, transportation equipment, fabricated metal products and primary metals. Other industries employing substantial numbers of machinists are railroads, chemical food processors and textile industries. The federal government also employs machinists in Navy yards and other installations. Many opportunities are available to machinists.

For more information about the machine shop or other programs at Mayo, write Mayo State Vocational Technical School, Third Street, Paintsville, Ky. 41240, or call (606) 789-5321.

Magoffin Men Indicted For Election Fraud

Louis DeFalaise, United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky, announced recently the indictment of four Magoffin County residents on charges of election fraud in connection with two separate elections in Magoffin County, in May 1985 and November 1986.

According to Assistant United States Attorney Thomas L. Self, a federal grand jury sitting in Ashland returned two separate indictments on Oct. 26, charging four individuals with violations of federal criminal laws pertaining to elections.

One indictment charges Larry Hall of Salyersville with five counts of vote buying in connection with the Nov. 4, 1986, general election in Magoffin County. Hall is specifically charged with paying five separate voters for voting in the Nov. 4 election in violation of federal criminal laws. Because the election in question was held in part to elect a senator and congressman, federal law prohibits the buying or selling of votes. Each count of the indictment carries with it a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a fine of up to $250,000.

In a second and separate indictment returned by the same grand jury, Ronald Hensley, Donald Crowover and Henry Clayton Williams are charged with violation of federal criminal laws involving the buying of absentee ballots in the May 28, 1985, primary election in Magoffin County.

The indictment alleges that Ronald Hensley used or caused the use of the United States mail to mail absentee ballots to seven individuals with intent to carry on and facilitate the carrying on of the law.

Donald Crowover of Salyersville is charged in one count with aiding and abetting Hensley, and Henry Clayton Williams is charged in two counts with the same offense in which he is aided and abetted by Ronald Hensley.

All three are charged with a violation of Section 1952 of Title 18 of the United States Code which prohibits interstate travel or the use of the mails to carry on or facilitate the carrying on of certain unlawful activity which includes bribery in violation of state laws. Because Kentucky law classifies vote buying or selling as bribery, the indictment alleges that the use of the mails to mail absentee voter materials for the purpose of bribing a voter violates federal criminal laws. The statutes allegedly violated carry with them a maximum punishment of up to five years in prison and a fine of up to $250,000 for each offense.

Arraignment for all those charged has been set Nov. 9 before United States District Judge Karl S. Forester in Pikeville.

These cases were the result of investigations conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Kentucky State Police's Office of Special Investigations.

TO THE VOTERS OF EDUCATIONAL DIVISION #5:

I sincerely appreciate the opportunity to have served as your School Board member during the past 16 years. I realize the heavy load of responsibility each member of the board must bear. I further realize that making school related decisions will at times be unfavorable. However, a School Board member must be firm, fair, and dedicated to do the best service possible for all the school children. I believe the coming four years under the administration of Superintendent Ron Hager offers much improvement in the field of academics, new facilities, teacher benefits, and non-certified worker benefits. Superintendent Hager should be given a chance to implement his plans in making Floyd County a superior school system. I desire to be a part of this team by seeking another term. I ask that you seriously consider me as your School Board member by VOTING for ME on Tuesday, November 8th. I am #3 on the school ballot.

Thank you kindly for your support.

Very truly yours,

Literacy Programs: Serving Floyd Countians

Martha hated school and skipped as many days as she could before dropping out completely the day after she turned 16. She was lucky enough to get a job, but now her boss says she can't get a raise or promotion unless she finishes high school.

Ralph was a sweet, shy child who never caused any trouble in school, and so he went from grade to grade before leaving school in the ninth. At the age of 34, he has led to face the reality that he cannot read and that he can no longer manage a "get by" existence by adding into the woodwork and keeping his mouth shut.

Angie "fell in love" when she was 14, got pregnant, married and quit school. Divorced at 22 and with two small children, she finds herself unprepared for even minimum wage jobs.

Amos feels he didn't need a high school diploma for the 24 years he worked as a coal miner. But then his last employer went bankrupt, and just about every job he's applied for since, including coal companies, has required a high school education. "We're sorry" is a phrase he's sick of hearing.

What all of these people have in common is that they're among the thousands of Floyd Countians who need the services coordinated by the Floyd County Literacy Council. What sets them apart from most of the other statistics is that they're now trying to remedy the situation.

Throughout the county on any given week day between 8 in the morning and 9 at night, someone in Floyd County is involved in a GED program or in learning to read.

With what amounts to pocket change compared to school system budgets and with a cadre of volunteer or near volunteer workers, the Literacy Council oversees literacy programs offered by Mountain Comprehensive Care, Christian Appalachian Project, Floyd County Library and the David School. Those organizations are joined by Floyd County Board of Education and Prestonsburg Community College in providing preparation classes for taking the GED exam, the passing of which is accepted in lieu of a high school diploma by most employers.

During the 1987-88 fiscal year ending in June, more than 500 persons were served by the various programs.

Of these, the majority, about 340, were in GED classes. More than 90 are known to have passed the GED exam. Marcie Menster, coordinator of the literacy council, is certain that even more have passed, but the state, which evaluates the tests, has no system for informing the program leaders as to who has passed.

The GED classes vary in format. Some follow a traditional mode with 10-15 students in a classroom under the direction of an instructor. In other programs, as with Sister Mary Gervase of Christian Appalachian Project, instructors travel the county, offering classes in churches, schools or wherever need and space exist to as few as one at a time. At PCC two faculty members volunteer their time to conduct classes in laboratory-like settings, where students work on particular parts of the test that are most difficult for them, such as English and math.

Last year, almost 170 Floyd Countians took a giant step and began to learn to read through one of the Literacy Council's reading programs, and more than 50 volunteer tutors went through training on how to teach an adult to read.

After a student's reading level has been diagnosed, a tutor is assigned to work with the student whose skills may vary from fourth grade reading level to barely recognizing the alphabet. For the reading program, tutors will meet with the students for individual instruction wherever the student feels comfortable, in his or her own home or another location.

The numbers enrolled in GED and literacy programs still represent only a drop in the bucket, since between 40 and 49 percent of Floyd County adults have not completed the eighth grade.

According to Menster, there's no way of knowing just how many people in Floyd County are functionally illiterate, that is, they cannot read above a fourth or fifth grade level. State figures indicate that about 400,000 adult Kentuckians are functionally illiterate, and the problem appears to be most acute in Eastern Kentucky.

Short of administering a mandatory test for every adult in the state, no way exists to determine exact literacy figures. Thus, the county program must rely on publicity and on the hope that friends, family members or employers will steer persons to the program.

A billboard blitz was recently begun with sponsorship by Dick's Signs and the David School. Menster also supplies brochures and program information to state agency personnel who may come in contact with persons who need reading assistance or GED preparation. Last year, South Central Bell cooperated by providing an easily remembered telephone number for the Literacy Council: 886-READ.

Last fall the Prestonsburg Rotary Club hosted a luncheon for businesspersons throughout the area to inform them of the programs available in the county and to encourage them to support literacy and GED training for their employees. Part of a statewide awareness effort, the local luncheon had the second largest number of participants of any similar program in the state. Another luncheon is planned for this winter.

Funding for the literacy and GED programs comes from the Kentucky Literacy Council and the State Department of Education. Still the $42,000 for the combined programs barely covers the cost of books and other learning materials and mileage for many of the instructors who must travel to the county's farthest corners. A small part of the money goes for administrative costs resulting from the funding agencies' continuous hunger for reports.

An attempt is made to take GED classes to any place where three or four persons can constitute a class. This fall classes are going on in Prestonsburg, West Prestonsburg, Martin, Betsy Layne, Wheelwright, Weeksbury, Galveston, Allen, McDowell, Garrett, Drift, Harold, Mud Creek, Wayland David. Menster will furnish a listing of times and places for anyone who calls.

In most programs, students can enter at any time.

Since its establishment three years ago, the Literacy Council's Board of Directors has included an array of local educators, businesspersons and professionals. The current board includes attorney Will Kendrick, Floyd County Times editor Anne Chaney, Tom Webb of the Floyd County Library, Darlene Starnes and Mike Vance of Mountain Comprehensive Care.

Also on the council are Dan Greene, Ann Greene, Joan Shalpin and Emma Kriz of the David School. "The needs are great," say Menster, "but we have to believe we're changing lives. Little by little, the impact will be felt."

Pikeville KSP Post Announces Promotions

Kentucky Justice Secretary W. Michael Troop recently announced the promotions of seventeen Kentucky State Police officers.

They include Lt. Robert O. Forsythe, 37, who was promoted to captain and assigned to the Madisonville Post as commander. An Ivel resident, he entered the KSP Academy on Oct. 13, 1972, and upon graduation was assigned to the Pikeville Post. In 1983, he was promoted to sergeant and two years later to lieutenant, at which time he was transferred to the Ashland Post. In 1987, he was reassigned to the Pikeville Post.

Forsythe received the KSP Trooper's Medal in 1986 for saving a man's life. The victim was choking and Forsythe performed the Heimlich maneuver thus saving him.

Forsythe attended Murray State University, the University of Tennessee and Eastern Kentucky University. He also attended an 11-week course at the FBI National Academy in Quantico, Va. in 1987.

Lt. Gary Rose, 42, was promoted to captain and remains assigned to the Pikeville Post. He will now serve as post commander. Rose entered the KSP Academy on April 16, 1968, and upon graduation was assigned to the Pikeville Post. He was promoted to sergeant in 1977 and to lieutenant in 1981 at which time he was transferred to the Dry Ridge Post. In 1982, he was reassigned to the Pikeville Post.

He is a graduate of Wheelwright High School and attended Eastern Kentucky University. He also attended an 11-week course at the FBI National Academy in Quantico, Va. in 1978.

Rose received the KSP Meritorious Service Medal in 1988 for his courage in pursuing an armed assailant in a vehicle pursuit in Floyd County. Rose, while facing gunfire, managed to block the assailant's car and, exiting with his shotgun, ordered the suspect out of his car, which he did.

I dropped out of school a long time ago and had to work in restaurants or wherever I could and was paid minimum wage. So I decided to get my G.E.D. and more education. I got my G.E.D. and enrolled in Excel College. I enjoyed going to Excel College very much but the best part was when I graduated and was looking for a job. Thanks to the excellent training at Excel College and the dedication of the Job Search Officer, I am now employed at Halliburton Services.

TO THE VOTERS OF EDUCATIONAL DIVISION #5:

I sincerely appreciate the opportunity to have served as your School Board member during the past 16 years. I realize the heavy load of responsibility each member of the board must bear. I further realize that making school related decisions will at times be unfavorable. However, a School Board member must be firm, fair, and dedicated to do the best service possible for all the school children. I believe the coming four years under the administration of Superintendent Ron Hager offers much improvement in the field of academics, new facilities, teacher benefits, and non-certified worker benefits. Superintendent Hager should be given a chance to implement his plans in making Floyd County a superior school system. I desire to be a part of this team by seeking another term. I ask that you seriously consider me as your School Board member by VOTING for ME on Tuesday, November 8th. I am #3 on the school ballot.

Thank you kindly for your support.

Very truly yours,

JAMES ARVILLE DUFF
VICE-CHAIRMAN, FLOYD COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

Student Conference Planned At Jenny Wiley

In an effort to help college students understand and appreciate different cultures, the Kentucky Baptist Woman's Missionary Union will sponsor the International Student Conference, Nov. 4-6, at Jenny Wiley State Park, Prestonsburg. The conference begins with registration at 5 p.m. Friday and concludes after lunch Sunday. The Baptist Student Union organization of each Kentucky college and university campus is encouraged to invite international students from various countries and religious backgrounds. BSU campus ministers will select students who are willing to attend sessions and to discuss the Christian faith. Each campus minister may also choose a member of Woman's Missionary Union to attend the conference. Members of WMU often minister to international students as part of mission action projects. Using the theme, "Overcoming Human Differences," the conference will include small group discussions, led by Christian international seminary students. All religions will be respected and students will not be coerced to convert to Christianity. All students are encouraged to bring national dress, musical instruments and any special props needed for the talent hour Saturday night. Donoso Escobar, assistant professor of social work, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, will speak at each joint session. Born in Managua, Nicaragua, Escobar graduated from the Seminario Latinoamericano with a bachelor of theology degree. He also received the bachelor of arts degree in sociology-international studies and the master of social work degree from the University of Arkansas, Little Rock. Escobar served Ebenezer Baptist Church, San Jose, Costa Rica, as youth director and as assistant pastor. He also pastored Mt. Sinai Baptist Church, Managua, Nicaragua and was Spanish pastor of Lakeshore Baptist Church, Little Rock. Prior to joining the Southern Seminary staff in 1983, Escobar worked for the Home Mission Board, Southern Baptist Convention, as manager of the Southern Baptist Refugee Unit, director of the Southern Baptist National Office of Refugee Resettlement and director of Immigration and Refugee Service. He became national consultant on Refugee and Immigration in 1983.

The registration fee for each participant will be $5. All other expenses will be paid by the Kentucky Baptist State Missions Offering.

Traveling Medicine Show Here Nov. 7

If you ever wondered what a traveling medicine show was like, the Prestonsburg Business Association is sponsoring The Medicine Man Show Monday, Nov. 7, at Prestonsburg High School, according to Rosemary McCoy, president of the association.

"This is the only actual medicine show there is," McCoy said. The show has been featured in People magazine, on the "P.M. Magazine" television show and in The National Enquirer.

They are the only makers of snake oil, and they do "healing" and magic tricks, she said.

Tickets can be purchased from downtown merchants.

The Business Association also sponsored the Cole Family Indoor Circus at the P.H.S. gym Oct. 22, and raised about $2,000 for its Christmas light project, McCoy said.

About 3,000 people attended the circus, and about 500 of the tickets sold were donated to needy children so that they could attend, she said.

Paintsville - Prestonsburg

TO THE VOTERS AND CITIZENS OF DISTRICT #5:

High on my priority list is a desire to work for the re-election of James Arville Duff as our Board Member of District #5.

I am Raymond Lawson of Stone Coal Creek near Garrett, and a few weeks ago I invited James Arville Duff to my neighborhood so that I could visit with my neighbors and friends to urge their support to re-elect Mr. Duff to our School Board.

I felt the need to actively support James Arville as a candidate, because I think his experience, knowledge, and concern for our district will continue to be the best direction for us to take. I think he will be the best of all the candidates running to continue the New Direction our school board took a few months ago with the appointment of Ronald Hager as our Superintendent. It took courage to vote to replace one administrator and appoint a new person.

The new superintendent needs a real chance to offer the leadership required to guide our school system toward needed improvements. Such improvements can only come from a united effort by the Board of Education, superintendent and good citizens working together. We can't stand any more divisions among ourselves, or candidate that will fight to oppose constructive improvements. Mr. Hager has demonstrated a willingness to make some changes already that offers hope of bringing more unity to our schools. There are changes coming that will make even more harmony among the administrators, teachers, and non-certified employees. Please, let's support board members that will support progress. Progress demonstrated by the building of new schools in Floyd County, and particularly the Garrett/Wayland school in our own district. At the first request by our Board this was placed ninth on the list of priorities. Through the combined efforts of James Arville Duff and the good citizens of this District; the school moved up to immediate construction. Thanks, James Arville Duff. Oh, some criticize where it's at. Some candidates say it cost too much. Others would still be arguing where to put it. I am glad the children will enjoy the new building while arguments are still trying to be solved. Friends, that's leadership I can support. Our children need better school facilities now. They can't benefit from our bickering with each other.

I support James Arville Duff for re-election for many reasons, but I'd have to say one of the reasons I would vote for him is often overlooked, but so important, I like his character.

Show me one time where he has criticized one of his opponents in the press. You can't find one example. He hasn't made rash promises like many of the other candidates. He hasn't used worn out slogans and substituted those for solutions as some have. NO, just a simple message: Your Vote and SUPPORT WILL BE APPRECIATED.

That's a promise I can believe James Arville Duff will keep. That is a good reason why I was honored to introduce him to my neighbors and friends throughout my neighborhood—I hope you will continue to give him your earnest support and influence toward his re-election.

Your good friend and neighbor,

RAYMOND LAWSON

School, as well as to decry the lack of substantive teaching of the arts throughout the school system. I remarked that to deprive children of the right to develop their potential in music, art, and drama was a sin. Few people asked, but I suppose many wondered on what Biblical principle that statement was based.

The answer is a simple one found in James 4: 17. In the authorized version, it reads "to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin." That is an aspect of "sin" we often forget—the so-called sins of omission. We have for too long focused on the sins of commission and I speak of the clergy and churches here, that people think that if they don't do this or that, somehow they are not sinning—that is, falling short of God's standards for righteous living.

The Episcopal Book of Common Prayer has a wonderful phrase in its General Confession of Sin, "We have left undone those things which we ought to have done, and we have done those things which we ought not to have done." Does that not reflect the human condition so very well?

The sin of omission of "what we ought to have done," is every bit as serious as the sin of commission. In fact, in Jesus' parable of the Last Judgment in Matthew 25, it is the omission of certain acts of kindness that sends the unrighteous into "the eternal fire prepared for the devil and his angels." You did not give Me (Christ) food, drink, shelter, etc.

And how did those acts of omission ("sins") take place? When we failed to act toward the "least of these"—translate that children. So, I contend, we are sinning when we fail to give our children the very best. We are sinning when we know we ought to do good, but instead do something else.

We are sinning as a county if we don't do the best for our children and the teachers who teach them. We are sinning as a Commonwealth when we allow districts to remain "poor" at the expense of others that are "rich" ("I was in need, and you did not look after me"), and we are sinning as a nation when we emphasize armaments at the expense of education, and when we give little or no attention to the cries of children for help and guidance.

"Anyone then, who knows the good he ought to do and doesn't do it, sins." I think that's pretty clear, and so are the penalties. Those who have ears to hear—let them hear.

In Memory of Kathryn Reffett

Passed away Nov. 5, 1987

It has been a year now, mommy, since you went away. It seems only yesterday that I tugged at my mother's hand, looking on her face that smiled. Now, thinking of that distant land, time has paid its toll, my precious mother has gone on to be with Jesus. Now, as I kneel to pray, I don't know what to ask, words I cannot say. Jesus sure was good to her, has answered so many prayers, as our mother called on Him to help her through some lonely hours. I'm sure she worried about us children, and many tears were shed, as I look on her Bible she so often read. I look upon the tear-stained pages and picture Jesus's face, of how he suffered and died for the human race. He's been so good to me as I daily trod alone. He heals my wounded heart and tells me I'm his own. Sometimes I sit and wonder, tears falling from my eyes, when I think about my loved ones living with Jesus on high. Mommy, I have missed you so very much and many tears I've cried. I know time is running out for each and every one, but as we come to chilly Jordan we'll not cross alone, Jesus will be waiting to welcome me home. Then, mommy, I won't have to be alone any more and shed no more tears—no more lonely nights to worry and cry. I will be with Jesus and you and loved ones gone on. I will be happy once more.

Card of Thanks

We, the family of Irene H. Slone, would like to take this time to thank Bro. Ellis Stevens, the pastor of the Goodloe Church of God, for all his time and concern for the Home Coming, that was dedicated in honor of our dear mother, Irene Slone, who passed away Sept. 27, 1988. There aren't very many pastors who would have taken the time to care about his members of the church the way Bro. Ellis does. We want to thank Bro. Ellis and his wife Alice Stevens for caring. We also want to thank all the members who cooked and brought food for the dinner.

Thanks to all of you,

Rebels End Season With Big Road Win Over Millersburg

A week earlier, for the first time this season, they came from behind to win a football game, dumping the Sheldon Clark Cardinals at home.

Again this week, Allen Central found themselves walking on new ground, treading unfamiliar waters in thumping Millersburg Military Institute Saturday on the road.

In their brief football history, Allen Central has seen several one-sided affairs. Rarely, though, have they been given the opportunity to enjoy one.

Saturday, the Rebels avoided complacency, realized the task ahead of them, and took care of business early. Allen Central, ending its season with back-to-back victories, scored on four of its first five possessions, opened up a 27-0 advantage, and rode an explosive running game to an easy victory.

"It was a good win for the kids," Allen Central head coach Donnie Daniels said after the 33-16 victory. "I was really proud of them. After all the hard knocks they've taken all year it was a good game for them."

Allen Central, which rushed for over 300 yards, jumped out to an early lead when tailback Mickey Parsons scored on touchdown runs of five, seven, and two yards to cap off the Rebels' first three possessions.

Parsons, one of the area's leading rushers, finished the game with 128 yards on 17 carries. Bear Halbert, the Rebels' burly senior fullback, led the team on the ground, running 12 times for 148 yards.

"Since about the Raceland game we've had better play on our offensive line and our defensive line," Daniels said. "Our line started playing better against Raceland, and since then we've had better play on both our lines. I guess it was something that just took time."

Daniels was complimentary of his offensive line, which repeatedly opened huge gaps in the M.M.I. defense, enabling Halbert and Parsons to run loose in the Cadet defensive backfield.

The Rebels opened the game with a 56-yard march, aided by two M.M.I. offsides penalties. Parsons ran the football all five of Allen Central's early plays, including sprints of 13 and nine yards.

After Halbert carried the pigskin from the eight to the five, Parsons crossed the goal line, capping the drive off with a score at the 8:51 mark of the first period.

The Rebels, three downs after they had allowed M.M.I. a first down on their first play, forced a punt, setting up offensive shop on their second drive at the 27. From there, Halbert broke loose on a 66-yard romp, running through, over and around the Millersburg defense, all the way to the Cadet seven. Parsons then took the football into the end zone, giving Allen Central a 13-0 advantage with 4:25 left.

Although M.M.I., a small military institute in Millersburg, scored 16 points in the game, the final outcome was never in doubt.

"Everybody got to play. Everybody had fun and that's what it's all about," Daniels said. "There wasn't any pressure on us. After the first half we had taken the pressure off us, and we just went out and had some fun."

It was fun for everyone except maybe the M.M.I. players and coaches. The Cadets, with the loss, saw their current losing streak reach 24—and not many of the final scores have been even close.

Allen Central began substituting on defense and special teams midway through the third period. It was against their second string defensive unit that the Cadets scored all their points.

With 3:33 remaining in the third period, John Carmanian found paydirt from 15 yards away, racing to the end zone on an end-around play. Carmanian, a slender wide receiver, ran the football three times for 32 yards, and caught five passes for a total of 46 yards.

The Cadets scored their final points with 4:28 left as tailback Jerry Willoughby ran six yards for a touchdown.

Willoughby led M.M.I. in rushing with 78 yards on 17 carries. Mike Adkins had 77 yards in the contest.

The Rebels, the winningest team in the county, added another score in the first half on an 18-yard Halbert run.

Allen Central, two possession earlier, had upped its lead to 19-0 as Parsons scored from two yards out, had assumed control of the football on the M.M.I. 41, and turned the drive into a Bear march.

Halbert, who averaged over 100 yards during the Rebels' last three games, ran four consecutive times plowing himself and Allen Central in to the end zone with 7:18 left in the third period.

The two-point try, a pass from junior quarterback B.J. Aldrich to senior end Jamie Hall, gave the Rebels a 27-0 advantage.

That's when Daniels brought on his junior varsity defense, and that's when the Cadets mounted its initial scoring drive.

Hall caught three Aldrich passes for 29 yards, and threw one pass which landed incomplete. Steve Sturgill, a senior offensive lineman, had one carry for 21 yards, and Mike Mullins ran three times, accounting for 20 yards.

Allen Central, which had 358 yards of total offense, scored their final touchdown with 7:58 remaining in the contest as Parsons capped off a 50-yard drive with a scoring run that covered 18 yards.

M.M.I. was held to 224 yards of offense, and hurt themselves in the third period when they were called for an offensive pass interference that nullified a touchdown pass.

Wheelwright Falls To Sheldon Clark

Wheelwright head football coach Roger Johnson said before Friday night's game at Sheldon Clark that his team would be throwing the football frequently.

The coach held true to his word, but Sheldon Clark's defense failed to cooperate, making the Trojans' efforts ineffective.

The Cardinals, which had won only one game prior to Friday's Homecoming affair, intercepted a pass early in the first quarter, returned it for a touchdown, and held on to defeat Wheelwright 24-8 in the season finale for the Trojans.

Wheelwright, 2-8 on the year, took the opening kickoff on its own 38, marched to the Cardinal 26 on eight straight running plays, but got burned as soon as they took to the air.

On a first and 10 from the 26, Handy Jackson, who would later score the Trojans' only touchdown, was thrown for a four-yard loss.

Faced with second and 14 from the 30, Wheelwright tried to pick up some of the yardage through the air, but Sheldon Clark defensive back Leon Hensley picked the pass off and returned it 65 yards for a score, giving the Cardinals an 8-0 lead following a successful two-point try.

"That was a big play," Cardinal coach Jim Matnie said in a radio interview following the game. "They had that screen set up so well. I started screaming screen, screen! I didn't see any of our guys in sight. I thought that one was in the end zone, but ole Leon made a big play on that one."

The Trojans were again burned on an interception, but thanks to a strong defensive show, managed to stay within eight points of the enemy.

Chris Hinkle picked the pass off on the Trojan 45, and on the second play from scrimmage Steve Hinkle broke loose for a 37-yard run, moving the Cardinals all the way to the seven yard line. But that's where the Wheelwright defense, which held Sheldon Clark to only five first downs and 45 yards rushing in the first half, toughened. They stopped the Cardinals, victimized by a delay of the game penalty, after they had a third and goal situation on the three.

The Trojans limited Sheldon Clark to only 186 yards of total offense while holding them to 10 first downs in the game, but Wheelwright, playing without key members of its offense, struggled even more with its offense. Wheelwright, normally a solid running team, gained only 85 yards rushing, 51 of those coming on a second half Handy Jackson touchdown run.

Jackson, with 8:45 remaining in the game, broke loose for one of Wheelwright's few big offensive plays of the game. He had previously ran the football five times, gaining only one yard. Jackson, a senior, finished as the Trojans' top ground gainer with 52 yards on six carries.

Newsome Claims Second Football Contest Win

Duran Newsome, best known for his basketball jumpshot and his potent bat in baseball, has gone a long way in establishing a reputation as a successful football prognosticator.

Newsome, a senior at Betsy Layne High School, claimed top honors in this week's Floyd County Times' Football Contest, becoming the first two-time winner this year.

Newsome picked 10 of this week's winners correctly, and edged out Martha Holthouse in the tie-breaker game. Holthouse also correctly picked 10 winners, but lost her bid for the $25 first prize by only four points in the tie-breaker game.

This week's winners included Kentucky, West Virginia, Western, M.C. Napier, Allen Central, Morehead, Auburn, Cleveland, Houston, San Francisco, L.A. Rams, and Phoenix.

Gary Hopkins, of Prestonsburg, also had a 10-2 record, but was edged out in the tie-breaker game.

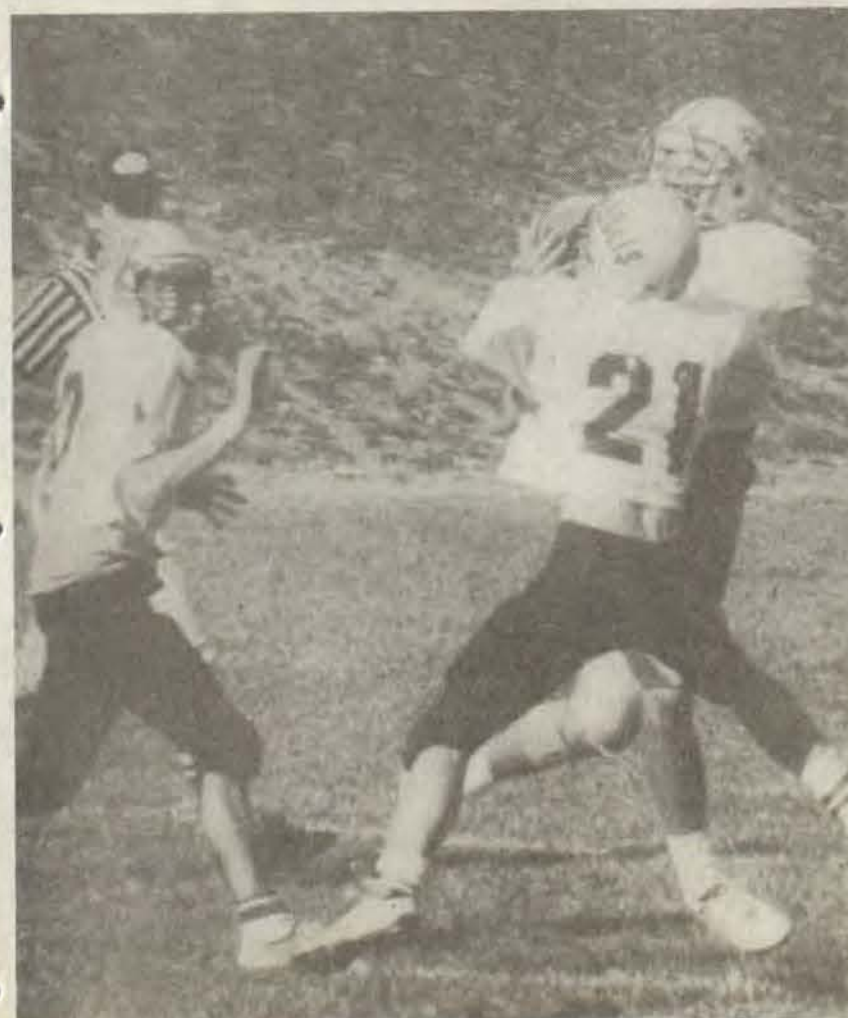

MCA Tournament Tips Off Nov. 9

The second annual Mountain Christian Academy Invitational Tournament will tip off Wednesday, Nov. 9 with two games on the schedule.

The eight-team tournament will feature teams from Floyd, Johnson, Pike, and Knott counties. The tournament begins Wednesday, and will conclude Saturday with the championship game at 8 p.m.

Auxier and Prater will open the event Wednesday when they battle at 6:30 p.m. The night's second game between Maytown and Allen is scheduled to tip off at 8 o'clock.

Thursday night, Mullins will battle Beaver at 6:30 with the Paintsville-Hindman contest following at 8 p.m. The winners from Wednesday's games play Friday at 6:30, followed by Thursday's survivors playing at 8 p.m.

AIR BATTLE: Jamie Hall and Mike Adkins battle for this B.J. Aldrich pass. The football avoided both players, and the pass fell incomplete.

Blackcats Lose In OT To MC Napier

It had not been the type season Prestonsburg Blackcat football supporters hoped for, and the disappointing campaign may have saved its most bitter moment for the year's final play.

The Blackcats, after a poor showing in the first half, had battled back to take M.C. Napier in to overtime, but when it came time to claim the victory, Prestonsburg came up just short of a two-point try that would have sent them home a winner.

M.C. Napier, in overtime, scored on their possession as running back Donnie Hudson ran two yards for a touchdown.

Prestonsburg enjoyed the same result, scoring on a Tim Trusty run, but the Navajos had kicked the extra point. Instead of going for the tie, Blackcat coach Bill Letton elected to try for a win, but the two-point try failed, making the Blackcats a 19-18 loser Friday at M.C. Napier.

"The advantage in the overtime is getting the ball second, and forcing them to make the choice where to kick or go for the two," Letton said. "When they kick for the extra point, then I think you have to go for the win."

The Blackcats, though, failed on their effort, dropping them to a 2-8 final record. In two previous tries Prestonsburg had come away unsuccessful on point-after touchdown kicks.

M.C. Napier, which won its last two games of the season, improved to 3-7. Last week, they defeated Betsy Layne 6-0.

The Navajos, which lost big to Morgan County earlier in the season, claimed two district victories. Prestonsburg, a team that beat Morgan County last week, also won two district games.

Although the game came down to one play in overtime, Letton thought neither the play nor the decision should have been a reality.

"I still feel like we should have won the game without going into the overtime. We just didn't play well in the first half," Letton said.

M.C. Napier took a six-point lead in the opening period when Hudson scored the first of his two touchdowns, running three yards for the score.

The Navajos held that lead until the third period when Prestonsburg hit paydirt for the first time. Senior fullback Kevin Dotson ran 12 yards for the touchdown.

Both teams scored a touchdown in the final frame, Prestonsburg on a 19-yard Ryan Porter run, and M.C. Napier on a 28 yard pass, to force the extra period.

The Blackcats finished with the school's second worst record of this decade, but Prestonsburg played one of the state's toughest schedules, which included highly ranked 3A Bates Creek, number two ranked Cincinnati Academy of Physical Education in Ohio's division three, and highly regarded 3A Belfry.

Prestonsburg's non-district opponents all finished with at least eight victories, and only Paintsville lost as many as three games. (Those three all came in the Tigers' last three games.)

In the district, the Blackcats lost to Leslie County and Whitesburg. Both are playoff-bound, and the Yellow Jackets finished at 10-1. Prestonsburg's only loss to a team that had a losing record came this week. The Blackcats did beat a team possessing a winning record. Morgan County was 5-4 coming into the game at Prestonsburg.

High School Playoffs: The playoffs for Kentucky high school football begin Friday, Nov. 11. Raceland, representing the local district along with Hazard, plays at home against Carroll County, while Hazard travels to Beechwood.

The Rams, 9-2, took top honors in the district, enabling them to play their first post-season game at home. They are apparently in for a tough test against 9-1 Carroll County.

Hazard, 8-3, earned a playoff position Friday by handing visiting Paintsville a 33-16 defeat. They travel to Beechwood, 9-1, and ranked second in single A most of the season.

Representatives of the 2A district will also be in action November 11 as runner-up Leslie County, 5-4, plays at nearby Corbin, and Whitesburg, 10-1, takes on Somerset, 8-2, in Whitesburg.

In other playoff games involving area schools Pikeville, undefeated and ranked number one in the state, hosts Williamsburg. Fleming-Neon, which reached the playoffs in its first year under new head coach Jack Hall, travels to Pineville in Region 4's other contest. The Pirates are 8-2, while Pineville brings in a 7-3 mark.

Belfry, ranked in the top five in 3A, also plays at home, taking on Ashland, 5-5. The Pirates have come in at 10-1.

NFL News & Notes

Jim Everett has developed into a full-grown NFL quarterback. Greg Bell and Charles White continue to prove their sudden effectiveness carries a long term potency.

Their offensive line is made up of five all-pro calibre performers, and their defense is as stingy as ever.

Believe it or not, these Los Angeles Rams are for real. Just ask New Orleans, and some 80,000 Saints fans who were on hand to see their team upset at home Sunday.

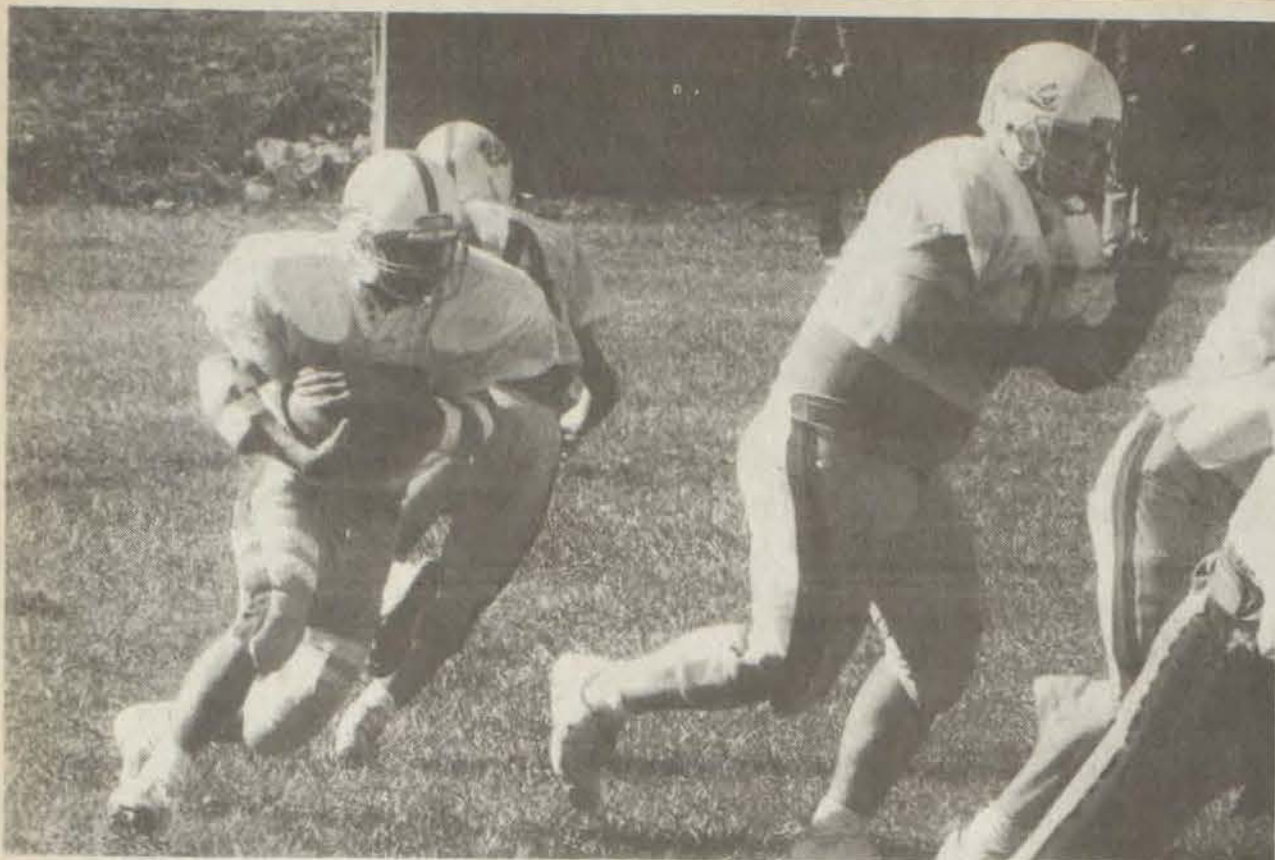

Everett, in his third year with Los Angeles, completed 21 of 34 passing attempts for 243 yards, setting up four Mike Lansford field goals as the Rams defeated the Saints 12-10 in New Orleans.

Lansford kicked one field goal in each of the four quarters, and the LA

Vic Cotton, another senior running back, added 35 yards on 14 carries to Wheelwright's ground attack.

The Trojans, trailing 16-0 at halftime, recovered an on-side kick to start the third period, managed only 33 yards of rushing offense in the second half.

They recovered the kick on the Sheldon Clark 49, but failed to get a first down on a fourth and one try, allowing the Cardinals to claim possession in good field position.

It didn't take them long to capitalize, either. Mike Cain, who scored two of their touchdowns, found the end zone on a 26-yard run off a draw play, putting Sheldon Clark in front 22-0. They added the two-point conversion to give them a 24-point advantage.

The Cardinals, 2-8 also, never scored again, but their stingy defense didn't allow Wheelwright the opportunity to make an issue of it.

The Trojans got their first points of the game early in the fourth quarter when Sheldon Clark, forced to punt from deep in its own territory, snapped the football over the punter's head and through the end zone, giving the Trojans a two-point safety.

After the free kick put Wheelwright in a scoring position, Jackson found himself in open country, and he out-ran the Cardinal defense to the end zone. The two-point try failed, and with 8:45 remaining the Trojans still trailed 24-8.

Another on-side kick went the other way, allowing Sheldon Clark to take control, and they managed to run enough time of the clock to take the Trojans out of the game.

The Cardinals, who wrap up their season Friday with a game at Breathitt County, were led in rushing by Steve Hinkle, who ran for 61 yards. Mike Cain finished with 60 yards and two touchdowns.

Sheldon Clark completed four of six passing attempts for 41 yards, while Wheelwright had only three completions in 12 attempts.

Help Save Our School

Re-elect Dr. Mary A. Hall

1. We need a new McDowell-Wheelwright school, not a "McDowell-Minnie school", as proposed by Ricky Hamilton.
2. Dr. Hall is a candidate who stands for equal opportunity for all. NOT a candidate who speaks for a CHOSEN FEW.
3. Dr. Hall has fought hard and will continue to fight for a school site that is fair to ALL on Left Beaver.
4. We as citizens are concerned about candidates who are being sponsored by ex-superintendents who are attempting to regain power that almost had our school system taken over by the state.
5. We are proud of Dr. Hall's clean, honest and positive campaign. Unlike her opponents who have resorted to mud-slinging with insults on innocent people.

THESE ARE A FEW OF MANY REASONS THAT WE, AS CONCERNED CITIZENS, SUPPORT THE RE-ELECTION OF DR. MARY HALL.

NFL News & Notes

defense held the Saints' offense to 242 total yards. Los Angeles, 7-2, moved into a tie for first place in the NFC West while dropping the Saints to a similar 7-2 mark.

New Orleans lost for the first time since falling victim to San Francisco in week one of the season.

The 49ers, playing without starting quarterback Joe Montana, came from behind to defeat Minnesota Sunday in San Francisco, keeping themselves within one game of the division's top spot.

Steve Young, Montana's replacement, ran 49 yards for a touchdown in the final two minutes of the game to give the 49ers, 6-3, a 24-21 victory over Minnesota.

But the Vikings, in a fight for a division title themselves, didn't lose any ground in the race for an NFC Central title. Minnesota, 5-4, got some help from the New England Patriots, allowing them to stay within two games of Chicago.

New England, armed with 5'10" 175-pound Doug Flutie, handed the Bears their second loss of the year, 30-7 in Foxboro. Flutie, a former Heisman Trophy winner at Boston College, passed for four touchdowns in the Patriots' second upset in three weeks.

Chicago, winners of their five previous games, lost starting quarterback Jim McMahon in the second quarter. He is expected to be out anywhere from five to 10 weeks with a strained right knee.

McMahon, who had started his ninth consecutive game for the first time in his career, gave the Bears a 7-6 lead with his first quarter touchdown run of one yard.

Chicago had given up only 32 points in its last five games, and had never allowed a back to run for more than 100 yards in the past 31 games. John Stephens, the Patriots rookie running back, went for 124 yards on 35 carries.

Mighty Division Battles: It was not only the battle of Ohio, but when the final standings are totaled up, it might prove to have been the battle of the AFC Central.

The Cleveland Browns and Cincinnati Bengals met Sunday in Cleveland, and in a game that produced all the thrills it promised to, the Browns took advantage of a blocked punt to down Cincy 23-16.

Frank Minnefield blocked a third quarter Scott Fulhage punt, and Herman Fontenot recovered it for a touchdown to cap off a 10-point Cleveland spurt to begin the second half. Fontenot also had a long kickoff return in the second period that set up the Browns' first touchdown. Tim Manoa, who ran for 89 yards in the game, scored the touchdown on a two-yard blast.

Cleveland, 6-3, moved to within one game of the division-leading Bengals. Houston and Cleveland are in a deadlock for second place in the Central. They meet Monday night in Cleveland. The Bengals, meanwhile, play at home against Pittsburgh.

Taking It On The Chin ... Late: If the Dallas Cowboys could bypass the fourth quarter, they might be the leader in the NFC East.

Dallas, 2-7, has lost three of its last five games in not only the fourth quarter, but the game's final seconds. They had New Orleans beat until a field goal, with only seconds left, pulled victory from their grasp.

Later, Philadelphia scored a touchdown on the game's final play to earn a 21-20 victory, and this week Phoenix continued the tradition.

Dallas led the entire game, and at one point was up 10-0. But in the final minute, Earl Ferrell plowed into the end zone from one yard out to win the Cardinals a 16-10 win in Irving, Texas.

Upsets And Near Upsets: One week ago the Atlanta Falcons had come so close to upending the Giants, only to see the possible win disappear into the arms of two late game interceptions.

This Sunday, though, they managed to hold on against another power of the East, dumping home-standing Philadelphia 27-24. Chris Miller threw three touchdown passes to allow the Falcons the opportunity to drop the Eagles two games behind New York.

The Giants barely avoided an upset themselves, needing an extra period to turn back Detroit. The Lions, dropping to 2-7, lost a fumble on the first play of overtime, setting up the 33-yard field goal. The Giants also got some help from Houston as the Oilers humiliated defending Super Bowl champion Washington 41-17.

Monday Night Game: Before this season began the Indianapolis Colts were being touted as a playoff possibility. Monday against Denver, they showed why.

The Colts hadn't been as successful in their first eight games as some expected. They come into Monday's game sporting a not-so-impressive 3-5 record. But before the night, the first quarter to be exact, was over Indianapolis made believers of many people.

They scored on their first possession when Eric Dickerson, the NFL's leading rusher, scored on a 13-yard run.

Indianapolis scored two more times in the opening frame, both following Bronco fumbles, to blow out to a 21-0 lead. Dickerson, who had earlier deemed himself the greatest running back of all time and also called Greg Bell a little dwarf while accusing the LA Rams of trying to ruin his career with last year's trade, scored both times.

The Colt runner crossed the goal line on runs of 11 and one yard to hold Indianapolis to the 55-23 victory over Denver. Dickerson scored four touchdowns and went over the 100-yard mark for the season.

The Broncos, 4-5, fell one full game behind Seattle in the West, and Indianapolis kept their hopes alive for a possible playoff position.

This week Monday Night Football features an AFC Central battle that will leave either Cleveland or Houston in third place. Both teams are 6-3, and one game behind Cincinnati. The Bengals play at home against the Steelers. They are a huge favorite.

Games To Watch: The Super Bowl champions have been anything but super this season, and coming off one of their worst defeats in recent memory, the Redskins are embarking on the toughest three-game stretch of this year.

Washington lost 41-17 to Houston Sunday, and this week they play at home against the tough New Orleans Saints. The Redskins, one game back in the NFC East, play Chicago and San Francisco in their next two games.

The Los Angeles Raiders weren't supposed to still be in the AFC West race, but due to the inconsistency of the projected front runners, Seattle and Denver, the Raiders are very much in the chase for a division title.

If LA can handle San Diego Sunday the way they did in their first meeting, the Raiders could find themselves in a comfortable position. LA, behind Tim Brown's 97-yard kickoff return, stopped the Chargers 24-13 in week one.

Seattle, now alone atop the West, plays at home against Buffalo, the league's winningest team at 8-1. Denver, meanwhile, plays at home against Kansas City, and the way the Broncos have been playing the game could be ruled a toss-up.

The Philadelphia Eagles might be eliminated early from playoff contention. They play the LA Rams in Veteran Stadium after losing to lowly Atlanta Sunday.

New England has renewed hopes after its upset of Chicago, and this week plays at home against Miami, a team the Patriots haven't lost to since 1985.

The San Francisco 49ers own a five-game winning streak against the Cardinals, and need a win in Phoenix Sunday to keep pace in the West. The Cards are now a threat to make the playoffs, but likewise need a win. Last year the Dallas Cowboys defeated the Giants both times they met, one of the reasons why New York failed to make the playoffs. The Giants have come close to being upset in both week eight and nine only to pull out a last-minute win. The Cowboys suffer from reversed symptoms of this ailment.

The Sporting Times

After losing in lopsided games to teams such as Hazard, Raceland, and Paintsville, the Allen Central Rebels finally tasted the sweetness of a one-sided victory.

When it was all over, the Rebels had handed Millersburg Military Institute a 33-16 whipping on the Cadets' home field.

"Everyone got to play. Everyone had fun, and that's what it's all about," Donnie Daniels said after the game.

That's a nice statement, coach. It tells everyone that through all the pressures of beginning a program, and keeping it going, you haven't forgotten the true purpose of high school athletics.

Fun! It is such a beautiful word to teenage boys. But all too often, it is abused by that same group.

Saturday, though, both teams enjoyed a beautiful football afternoon, and both were much better for it. Winning wasn't of a major concern. Daniels, although a competitor in the truest form, completely understands the value of becoming a winner.

He said his team had fun, and that that was what was important, but the game held a much deeper meaning of importance. Not just in football, but in the game of life.

The Rebels, a young team, has seen opponents run up the score on them all season. Saturday against M.M.I. they had their opportunity to return the favor.

But early in the third quarter, Daniels sent his second string defense on the field, giving the younger players an opportunity to experience play on the varsity level.

There were freshmen in the group, even seventh and eighth graders. It was probably their biggest single thrill in their young sports lives. But the move also enabled the Cadets, a group of young men who most assuredly understand that there are more important things in this world than winning a football game, a chance to show off some of their abilities to the home folks.

M.M.I., currently marred in one of the state's longest losing streaks, salvaged something from their final game. They pulled off several big plays, thrilled what few fans came out, and saved themselves further embarrassment.

Allen Central is a struggling football program themselves. The school is in only its third year of football existence, and it would have been easy for them to blow M.M.I. away, beat them by 50 or so. It could have been acceptable in looking at the Rebels' situation, and it would have been impressive to some. But what's more impressive is that Daniels refused to do that. He apparently had had enough of the Virgie effect.

"That is one of the few coaches this year that's shown us any respect. Other teams have seen how badly they could beat these kids, and there's no use in that," a member of the chain gang said.

The man, an M.M.I. follower, mentioned schools such as Kentucky School for the Deaf, and related accounts of how those teams reverted to dirty football, punching and the likes, against the Cadets, a team that dresses 18 players.

"This has been one of the hardest-hitting teams we've played all year, but it has been the cleanest team we've played all year," he added.

M.M.I. lost its 24th consecutive football game Saturday. But at halftime, the school's rifle drill team put on a show that has surpassed many other high school halftime productions. It brought high praise from the Allen Central faithful on hand, and put in perspective the M.M.I. philosophy.

Before the game, the Cadet coaching staff didn't yell and scream about winning a football game. They demanded an intense effort filled with nothing but everything they had.

Millersburg Military Institute isn't about winning football games, and Donnie Daniels isn't about beating up on people without a cause.

The Rebels lose five seniors from this year's team, five key players. They return all but one position from both lines, and maybe somewhere along the line Daniels might just return the "nose in the dirt" favor to a couple teams.

But for now, he has taught his players a lesson about kicking people when they're down. A lesson that will go much farther than knowing how to throw a block, or how to lose respect in the eyes of the opponent.

The Rebels, which led the game 27-0 in the third quarter, improved to 4-7 on the season. Maybe that doesn't impress everyone, especially considering the degree of difficulty of their schedule. But they did finish as Floyd County's winningest team, and in the words of their coach, it all came from a team "that wasn't supposed to win a game."

This past weekend concluded the local regular season, and county teams compiled a combined 11-31 record.

Elsewhere in the area, Paintsville lost big at Hazard, falling 33-14, and Johnson Central, needing a win to reach the playoffs, failed to hold on to its lead against Clay County Friday, and eventually lost to the Tigers at home.

Pikeville, Friday night, opened up the floodgates, and a total of 79 points rolled out. Greg Hackney and Bobby Deramus ran for over 390 yards combined in leading the Panthers to a merciless drubbing of Johnson Creek, 79-3.

I have tried to get around to visit as many as possible during my campaign. It is nearly impossible to cover this size district in only 8 weeks, but we will be working it up to the very last day. In case I don't get the chance to speak with you in person, I want to take this time to ask you for your VOTE and SUPPORT. People, it takes a whole lot to beat the "political machines" in Floyd County because of the arm-twisting, job threatening politics that has run this county for years. With your help we've beat them before and we can do it again. I understand that everybody lives from day to day, but when it comes down to voting for the future of our kids—It's time to stand up and VOTE for what is RIGHT. The school site that has been chosen at EASTERN for the Garrett-Wayland School is pitiful. I drove out on it. It's not big enough to whip a cat on, let alone combine two large grade schools like Wayland and Garrett. There is no room for sports facilities. Even if there were room, where are they going to park? (Out beside the 4-lane maybe). I want to ask everyone that gets a chance to drive out over this lot and then try to get back on the 4-lane—but be extremely careful—because the cars and coal trucks that pop up over the bridge next to the entrance are on U.S. 80 traveling an average of 65 M.P.H. They only have a short distance from the time they see you before they come upon the entrance to the school site. If you think it's hard to get on the 4-lane in a car (after having to give it the gas to cross lanes in a hurry to avoid getting hit)—CAN YOU IMAGINE A 61-PASSENGER SCHOOL BUS LOADED WITH KIDS trying to cross this stretch of new 80. Look at how many bad wrecks have happened at the Allen Central entrance and that's in the middle of a straight stretch. ANYONE WITH KIDS INVOLVED or ANYONE who takes the time to drive over this lot and back off will probably VOTE FOR ME. You can clearly see that our KIDS SAFETY wasn't considered when this site was purchased from T&K Coal Company.

Below is a SAMPLE BALLOT showing what will be on the voting machine November 8th—If you vote straight Democratic or straight Republican, or even a split ticket—you won't be voting in the SCHOOL BOARD RACE. The school board race, like the judges race, is a NON-PARTISAN race. You must go over to the FAR RIGHT-HAND SIDE where it says SCHOOL CANDIDATES and pull the lever to the right of the name in order to vote in the school board race. The SCHOOL BOARD CANDIDATE'S COLUMN is next to the LOTTERY and BROAD FORM DEED Questions at the right of the ballot.

The Betsy Layne Bobcats ended their season Friday night on a disappointing note, losing 34-0 to tough Lawrence County.

The Bobcats, with the loss, had their season record end at 3-8. They defeated Magoffin County, Sheldon Clark, and Elkhorn City.

Only three weeks ago, Betsy Layne had the opportunity to finish with a winning record. They had a 3-5 mark, and victories in their final three games would have given the school its second-ever winning season.

But the Bobcats went in the opposite direction, losing all three games to Morgan County, M.C. Napier, and Lawrence County. The Bulldogs ended their season at 9-1.

Betsy Layne, in their final three games, scored a total of 12 points while being shutout in the last two. In the last two seasons, Betsy Layne has compiled a 5-17 record.

Morehead State University evidently saw something impressive in Chris Swartz when they made him a team captain before the season kicked off.

The sophomore quarterback apparently showed that same stuff to the Austin Peay defense Saturday in leading the Eagles to their second victory of the year, thumping the Governors 43-6 in Morehead.

Swartz, benched one game earlier, came on Saturday to throw for 459 yards while completing 30 of 43 passes. He set new school records for the most yardage passing in a game, and the most total yardage in a single game.

The Eagles, now 2-7 and 1-3 in the OVC, travel to Tennessee Tech Saturday. The Austin Peay game was their final home contest of the season.

The OVC will go a long way in crowning its king this weekend when Middle Tennessee travels to Richmond for a battle with the ECU Colonels.

Eastern remained undefeated in the conference Saturday by defeating Murray 34-27 in overtime. It was the Colonels' second win in their last nine games at Murray.

Tim Lester ran 23 yards for a touchdown in the overtime period to give Eastern the win. The freshman fullback finished the game with 90 yards. Elroy Harris, one of the best running-backs in Division IAA, went over the 200-yard mark rushing the football. Harris ran for 244 yards and three touchdowns.

Middle Tennessee is undefeated in the conference and has been ranked in the top five of Division IAA for most of the season. Eastern has won its last five games since dropping back-to-back games at Marshall and Western.

The University of Kentucky continued its winning ways Saturday, knocking off Southern Illinois 24-10 at Commonwealth Stadium.

The Wildcats, 4-4, got two touchdowns runs from junior tailback Alfred Rawls to aid in the victory, their 11th in the past 13 at home.

Kentucky, now hearing whispers of a possible bowl invitation, remains at home this week to take on Vanderbilt. The Wildcats, in order to get a bowl bid, would need to win their final three games.

The University of Louisville, which plays at home against V.P.I., assured itself of a winning season Saturday by beating the Bearcats in Cincinnati 21-6.

Jay Gruden, the Cardinals' talented senior quarterback, threw for 266 yards and one touchdown to lead Louisville. The Cards have not had a winning season since 1978.

Former Morehead State pitcher Walt Terrell was traded Friday to the San Diego Padres for third baseman Chris Brown and infielder/outfielder Keith Moreland.

The Padres, which finished fifth in the National League West have struggled since their division championship in 1984.

Detroit had a surplus of pitching talent, but need to bolster its offense, especially after fading late in the season.

Brown, who has been slowed by injuries, is a lifetime .272 hitter, but managed only two homeruns and 19 RBIs in 80 games this past year.

Moreland, a guy who can play several positions, hit .256 with 64 RBIs during the recent season.

Terrell, a righthander, posted a 7-16 mark for Detroit, but during his four years with the Tigers he compiled an overall 54-48 record. Terrell came to Detroit in 1984 in a deal that sent Howard Johnson to the New York Mets.

Notre Dame is the second different number one ranked college football team in as many weeks as the Fighting Irish take over the top slot formerly belonging to U.C.L.A.

The Bruins, which became number one after Notre Dame defeated Miami last week, lost Saturday to Washington State, a 19-point underdog in the game, 34-30.

Washington State outscored U.C.L.A. 28-3 in the second half to overcome a huge deficit and knock off the top-ranked Bruins.

Notre Dame, which has had several impressive efforts this year, defeated Navy 22-7 to remain undefeated. West Virginia, 51-30 winner over Penn State, USC, now the top dog in the Pac 10, Wyoming, and Arkansas all remained undefeated as well.

The richest event in horse racing, the Breeders' Cup, will be held Saturday beginning at 2 p.m. at Louisville's Churchill Downs, the site of an already popular event in the sport, the Kentucky Derby.

The Breeders' Cup, being held outside California for only the second time in its five-year history, features $10 million purses and seven separate races.

The event, which will include horses such as Alysheba and Winning Colors, will be televised by NBC. It will begin at 2 p.m. and run through 6 p.m. The day's final race will be worth $3 million.

FRED NEWSOME: To The Voters of Dist. #3.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to my friends, relatives, and supporters for their kindness and support during my tenure as board member of Dist. #3. My decision not to run for re-election was an extremely difficult one to make and came only after repeated warnings from my physician. My greatest desire was to serve my constituents but my health made it impossible to continue doing so.

Currently, there are several candidates asking for your support to fill my position. I feel that I would be doing my supporters an injustice if I did not make an effort to recommend to you the most qualified candidate for the position.

I considered the candidates carefully and I have determined that Dr. Brent Clark is the most qualified and capable to fill the position. Therefore,

I am urging all my friends and supporters to support and vote for

DR. BRENT CLARK
on Nov. 8.

Sincerely yours,
FRED NEWSOME

How To Bluff A Bass

Of all types of structure in a lake, few are more obvious than the steep, imposing bluff banks that cradle some waters. Few are more lightly fished, either.

"Actually," says top lady bass pro Fredda Lee, a member of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff, "bluffs can offer surprisingly good fishing, especially in the middle of the day when other structure doesn't produce."

The key to look for when fishing a bluff says the former model-turned bass pro is a gradual stair-stepping bottom below the water. Bass often hold on these steps and willingly hit jigs, worms and crankbaits.

When the bluff continues straight down, explains Lee, the places to fish are at either end of the bluff where the bottom is more likely to be a gentle slope of gravel and smaller rocks.

"Normally, I like to study a bluff with a depthfinder or chart recorder before I start fishing," says Lee. "Often, you can guess at what's below by studying how it looks above water, but a run along the edge with a depthfinder will tell you for certain."

"Another thing I look for are possible points or pockets within the bluff itself, which bass always seem to use. I also look for rock slides, timber that has washed in and anchored, or anything else that breaks up the sheer face of the bluff because that's what bass will be attracted to."

Lee fishes stair-step bluffs several ways. One technique is positioning her boat in 15 to 17-foot of water and casting a jig directly in toward the rocks. She plays out line and gradually hops the jig down the steps.

Another technique she recommends anglers try is parallel casting along the rock face with a deep diving crankbait. When she feels the lure bounce into the rocks, she hesitates the retrieve momentarily, then starts reeling again. The lure acts like a crayfish skittering along the bottom.

"When you cast parallel like this," says Lee, "you can easily work several depths, depending on where you position your boat. Sometimes I have my boat 10 or 12 feet out from the bluff, and other times I'll be right in the tight against the rocks."

Where bluffs are standing by themselves in the water seemingly out in the middle of nowhere, the Johnson Outboards pro often concentrates on the upstream side of the bluff where there is likely to be some debris washed in or possibly an eddy where the water breaks around the rocks. In either instance, bass are often present.

"Surprisingly," says Lee, "these isolated bluffs are often better than the regular shoreline bluffs, simply because they offer the only shallow structure around. When I see them in a lake I always check them with a depthfinder."

On some lakes with steep bluffs, bass will also hit a fast-moving spinnerbait, says Lee. The trick is to bring the lure back as close to the rock wall as possible and as fast as possible without breaking the surface.

"I've also noticed bluffs that have darker shades of rock hold bass better than light shades of rock," says Lee. "It's simply a matter of light reflection. The fish feel more comfortable where the rock doesn't reflect as much light."

Gasoline may go stale if it's not stored correctly. To prevent the formation of gum and varnish deposits in outboard fuel systems, treat your gasoline supply with OMC 2 + 4[®] Fuel Conditioner. This stabilizer also absorbs moisture in the fuel system created by condensation during storage. One ounce of OMC 2 + 4 Fuel Conditioner treats a gallon of gas for 12 months and is available from most Johnson and Evinrude outboard dealers.

Cartridge Company Offers Tips For Safe Recreational Shooting

Studies have shown that recreational shooting is safer than such sports as football, swimming and skiing, but firearms safety is still a major concern, according to the Federal Cartridge Company. National statistics show a decline in firearms accidents as the result of increased education, training and promotion—but emphasis on safety is critical if improvements are to continue.

As a leading manufacturer of sporting ammunition, Federal Cartridge Co. offers these 10 tips to help promote safe handling of firearms.

1. Treat every firearm as if it were loaded and ready to fire. Do not rely on the safety—it cannot and should not serve as a substitute for safe handling.
2. Know your firearm. Read your instructional manual. Carry only ammunition of the proper gauge or caliber for the firearm you are using. Federal Cartridge Co. introduced color-coded shotgun shells many years ago to help identify the different sizes.

3. Never load a firearm unless you are ready to use it. By the same token, never carry a loaded firearm unless you are ready to use it immediately for hunting or target shooting. Keep your finger off the trigger until you are ready to fire.

4. Watch the direction of your muzzle. Never point it at anything you don't intend to shoot.

5. Never cross a fence with a loaded firearm. Unload before crossing a fence, jumping a ditch, climbing a tree or doing anything that might cause you to lose your balance or drop your firearm.

6. Don't pull the trigger unless you are sure of your target and what's beyond it. Make particularly certain there are no hunters, livestock, buildings or other objects behind or near your target.

7. Know the range of your firearm. A .22 Short can travel 1-3/4 miles and a high-velocity cartridge such as a .30-06 can travel more than three miles. Shotgun pellets can travel 500 yards, and shotgun slugs have a range of one-half mile.

8. Be sure the barrel is clear of obstructions. Obstructions such as mud, snow, a shotshell wad, cleaning patch, or even the wrong size ammunition can cause serious injury to the shooter.

9. Federal Cartridge Co. recommends that you wear both eye and ear protection when shooting. Eye glasses protect against field hazards, falling shot, or possible effects of a malfunction. Repeated exposure to shooting noise can cause permanent hearing loss, which can be prevented with proper hearing protection.

10. Store firearms and ammunition properly. Keep firearms and ammunition separate, and in locked storage facilities. Keep them out of reach of children at all times.

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER

District #3

Karen and I have a reason—Kelly and Austin.

I entered this school board race to help my children get a better school and a better education. Never did I dream of what a lesson in life I was about to receive. I went to school for 20 years, but I must say I've learned more in the last two months than any other time in my life. Still, there are unanswered questions about our schools' futures that bother me.

1. The New Allen Elementary School is being constructed to house 650 students and presently the enrollment of Allen Elementary is only 350. Where will the additional 300 students come from to fill up the school? Will the students living at Ivel, Mare Creek & Stanville have to attend the New Allen Elementary School?
2. Last year the State Department of Education recommended the closing of Spruce Pine Elementary with the students transferred to other centers. Does this mean the students presently attending Spruce Pine Elementary will be transferred to another Board Member's District?
3. Last year the State Department of Education classified Harold Elementary as an interim school center with a limited enrollment of 207 students. All students above the enrollment of 207 are to be transferred to Betsy Layne Elementary. Does this mean the eventual closing of Harold Elementary?
4. Does Betsy Layne need a new elementary school or a middle school? If a new elementary school is constructed, what will happen to Harold Elementary?
5. Does John M. Stumbo Elementary need additional permanent classrooms with a new physical education facility, or do they only need additional mobile units?
6. Certified and non-certified school personnel are demanding an increase in salaries and wages immediately. How will this issue be addressed without additional sources of revenue—taxation?

People! Let's get the state off our back and save our local schools.

Very Concerned,
DR. BRENT CLARK

Cards On A Roll; Looking For Fifth In A Row

Game 10—Louisville (6-3) won its fourth straight game when it beat Cincinnati 21-6 last week. The Cards winning streak is the longest since 1978. If the Cards beat Va. Tech it will give them the longest winning streak since 1972. The game marks one of the two remaining games on U of L's schedule. Virginia Tech (2-6) lost to Virginia 16-10 in front of a sellout crowd of 50,329 last week.

U of L is off to one of the best starts in history, and the win in Cincinnati guaranteed the Cards their first winning season since 1978, 10 years ago... The win over Cincy marks the first time the Cards have won four straight since 1978... It also marks the first time the Cards have won two straight road games since 1979... U of L's 6-3 record is the best start since 1978 when the Cards were 7-2 after nine games... U of L's 3-2 road record is the best since 1972 when the Cards were 9-1... An 8-3 (.727) record would also rank the Cards in a tie for 11th place among all-time U of L teams. The 1949 team also had an 8-1 record.

Records fall for Jay Gruden—Jay Gruden became the all-time passing leader at U of L when he threw for 234 yards vs. So. Miss., surpassing the mark held by Ed Rubbert (5,496/1983-86). Gruden now has 6,713 passing yards. He holds 10 school records, including the all-time touchdown record at U of L with 42 career touchdowns (formerly held by John Madeya), the all-time offensive attempts record with 1,167 attempts (formerly held by Ed Rubbert), the all-time total yards record with 6,316 total yards (formerly held by Ed Rubbert), the all-time passing attempts record with 993 passing attempts (formerly held by Ed Rubbert 873) and the all-time pass completions record with 545 pass completions... Going into the season he also held the record for most pass attempts in a season (397, '87), the most pass completions in a season (209, '87), the best completion percentage in a season (.569, '85) and the most passing yards in a season (2,481, '87)... In his four years at U of L he has completed 54.8 percent of his passes. The career mark at U of L is 50.6 set by Tom LaFramboise (1962-64).

Gruden ranks 17th nationally in total offense with 241.7 yards per game. When he threw for 320 passing yards vs. Tulane, Gruden became the only quarterback in U of L history to have back-to-back, 2,000-yard passing seasons. Last season after nine games he passed for 2,141 yards (Tulane 296, Cincinnati 119, Purdue 266, Murray State 219, So. Miss. 71, Marshall 192, Florida State 339, Akron 357, Tulsa 282). This season he has thrown for 2,294 yards (Maryland 319, Wyoming 207, Memphis State 171, North Carolina 203, So. Miss. 234, Tulsa 186, Virginia 268, Tulane 320, Cincinnati 266, 153 yards more... Gruden's 320-passing yards vs. Tulane marked the fifth time in his career he's had over 300 yards passing in a single game. U of L is 3-2 when Gruden throws for over 300 yards.

Deon Booker—Booker needs 176 yards for a 1,000-yard rushing season. He's averaging 91.5 a game. The last U of L back to gain over 1,000 yards in a season was Nathan Poole in 1978 (1,394)... Booker moved into fifth place on the all-time rushing list, moving past Calvin Prince (2,108/1976-77), when he rushed for 89 yards vs. Tulane. Booker now has 2,188 career rushing yards... Booker (120 points) needs 21 points to move past Calvin Prince (140/1976-77)... In U of L's first nine games last season, Booker rushed for 511 yards (100 vs. Tulane, 3 vs. Cincinnati, 0 vs. Purdue, dnp vs. Murray State and 94 vs. So. Miss., 196 vs. Marshall, 20 vs. FSU, 92 vs. Akron, 6 vs. Tulsa). This year he has gained 824 yards (49 vs. Maryland, 42 vs. Wyoming, 154 vs. Memphis State, 125 vs. N. Carolina, 106 vs. So. Miss. and 110 vs. Virginia, 89 vs. Tulane, 41 vs. Cincinnati)... Booker's also been potent this season as a receiver catching 38 passes for 322 yards and two TDs. Last year he caught 16 passes for 153 yards.

Stephens can do it all—Keith Stephens ranks 12th nationally in all-purpose running with 14 punt returns for 122 yards, 30 kickoff returns for 683 yards, 69 rushes for 304 yards and 18 receptions for 279 yards, on average of 154.2 yards a game. Everytime he touches the ball he carries it for 10.5 yards. Stephens' five receptions for 115 yards vs. Tulane were career highs for him... He had his longest kickoff return (43) of the season vs. Virginia. Former U of L great Howard Stevens (1971-72) still holds the NCAA Div. 1A record for all-purpose running with 193.7 yards a game in his two-year career at Louisville.

Last Week—Louisville (6-3) clinched its first winning season since 1978 when it beat Cincinnati 2-6 at Nippert Stadium. The Cardinals scored a touchdown in each of the first three quarters and held the Cincinnati offense to just one score in the third quarter. Quarterback Jay Gruden threw 10 different receivers as he completed 28 of 47 passes for 266 yards and one 14-yard TD pass to Anthony Cummings. Halfback Deon Booker caught a game-high seven passes for 53 yards and also scored on a one-yard run. U of L's other score came when Latrell Ware went in from two yards. The Cards' defense shut down Cincinnati and forced three turnovers. The Bearcats also were their own worst enemy when they committed 13 penalties for 87 yards.

Virginia Tech (2-6) lost to Virginia 16-10 despite playing in front of a sellout home crowd of 50,329. The Cavaliers won despite being outgained 424-351 in total yardage. The Hokies squandered several opportunities, with Will Furrer throwing interceptions from the Virginia 20-yard line and the Virginia nine in the second period. Furrer completed 17 of 40 passes and one TD.

Notes—U of L's win over Cincinnati marks their sixth win in seven games... The last time the Cards won six games was in 1978... The last time the Cards won four straight games was in 1978 (NW-La., Boston U., William & Mary, Wichita St.)... U of L's win over Cincinnati marks the first time the Cards have had three road wins since 1972 (Whichita St., Cincinnati, So. Ill.) when the Cards were 5-0 on the road... A win vs. Va. Tech would give U of L a 7-3 record, its best start since 1978 (7-3)... U of L's six victories marks the most wins by Schnellberger in one season since he came to Louisville in 1985... Cincinnati's six points are the fewest allowed by a Cardinal team since beating Western Kentucky 45-6 in 1986... Linebacker Mark Sander leads U of L's defense with 134 tackles. Last season he registered just 71 total. Chris Sellars led the team last year with 134 total tackles. Sander scored the first TD of his career vs. Tulane... Tackle Ted Washington leads U of L in sacks with six... Last season the Cards registered just 10 interceptions all year. After nine games the Cards already have 13 interceptions, with John Gainey leading the way with four. Last season Gainey had none. His two interceptions vs. Virginia are the most by a player in one game since Terry Lantz had two vs. Marshall last season... Punter Klaus Wilmsmeyer had his longest punt of the year when he hit a 56 yarder vs. Cincinnati... Jay Gruden threw to 10 different receivers vs. Cincinnati, the third time this season he's hit 10 different receivers (North Carolina and Maryland)... Wide receiver Anthony Cummings has 29 receptions for 398 yards (team high) and five TDs. Last season he had 24 receptions for 359 yards... Deon Booker has caught a pass in every game this year, he leads the team with 38 receptions. When Booker has rushed over 100 yards this season the Cards have a 4-1 record... Craig Swabek had his best receiving game of the year vs. Cincinnati when he caught six passes for 44 yards... U of L's passing offense ranks 14th nationally with 260.7 yards a game... U of L has only three seniors in its starting lineup (Gruden, Booker, Jeff Smith)... U of L is 3-2 when Gruden throws for over 300 yards... U of L is 6-2 when it wins the opening toss... Schnellberger has a 3-1 record vs. Virginia Tech. He beat them three times at Miami and lost to the Hokies in 1985 in his first year at Louisville... In five games this year (Maryland, Memphis St., North Carolina, So. Miss., Virginia) the Cards have scored points in the first 10 minutes of the game. Their record is 3-2 when they score in the first 10 minutes... After nine games last year the Cards had gained 340.2 total yards. This season the Cards are averaging 408.3 a game and 64 percent of it comes from the passing game... Game sponsor Convient will give away free travel mugs to the first 5,000 fans at the Virginia Tech game.

Series History—Louisville and Virginia Tech haven't met on the gridiron since 1985, and have only played each other a total of three times.

U of L has never beaten the Hokies, although it looked as though they might in their first meeting in 1979. Louisville was coming off a 7-4-1 record in 1978 when they kicked off their '79 season at home against Tech. Virginia Tech was entering the '79 season after a disappointing 4-7 year in 1978, the Cardinals led as much as 14-3 in the fourth quarter when Tech mounted a comeback. The Hokies scored 12 points in the final period to down Vince Gibson's Cardinals, 15-14.

The Cards scored first with a 40-yard run by Donald Craft and it stayed 7-0 until Louisville scored again in the third quarter on a one-yard plunge by Mike Sims, giving U of L 14-0 lead. Virginia Tech got on the scoreboard with a field goal in the third quarter. In the fourth quarter Tech blocked a Cardinal punt out of the end zone for a safety, and then added a touchdown and another field goal to pull out the 15-14 win.

WHAT GAMBLING WILL DO

There appeared an article, some time ago, in "Our Sunday Visitor", a religious publication, which was especially interesting, and addressed the problem of gambling. The article described compulsive gambling as a "universal illness that ruins thousands!"

The author Louis Pumphrey, quotes Monsignor Joseph Dunne extensively. Monsignor Dunne is a priest of the Archdiocese of New York. He founded the National Council on Compulsive Gambling in 1972 and is the organization's president. President Dunne expressed the opinion that State Governments, Churches or Businesses that operate lotteries or other gambling games have a MORAL OBLIGATION to help compulsive gamblers rather than ignore or exploit them.

Monsignor Dunne says, "Women are being sent to prison today because of gambling! A study showed that 13 per cent of the women in a particular New Jersey prison were there because of gambling. They were stealing money from their employers; from everyone they knew. In our treatment program on Staten Island, the average housewife owes $45,000! Now that's just the mean; a woman was jailed recently who owed $240,000!"

THERE ARE REAL PROBLEMS ASSOCIATED WITH GAMBLING. It seems apparent that anything or anyone who exploits another's weakness is wrong! Gambling in any form should not be initiated without GREAT SOUL SEARCHING!

If our great Commonwealth of Kentucky (which already has race-track gambling) adds a State Lottery, odds are that soon Casino gambling will be on the drawing boards of those illustrious politicians who seem to know better what the citizens of Kentucky need than the citizens know themselves. Many of those "easy dollars" envisioned will have to be spent for treatment programs, more law enforcement officers, more money for handling an increased jail and prison population, with possibly some type of welfare subsidy to aid families and individuals victimized by the addiction of GAMBLING!

Let me show you what GAMBLING WILL DO.

1. GAMBLING WILL TAKE YOU FARTHER THAN YOU WANTED TO GO!
2. GAMBLING WILL KEEP YOU LONGER THAN YOU PLANNED TO STAY!
3. GAMBLING WILL COST YOU MORE THAN YOU ARE PREPARED TO PAY!
4. GAMBLING WILL TAKE YOU FASTER THAN YOU WANTED TO TRAVEL!

The gambling approach is a poor system on which to prop up our state's economic problems. It will invariably funnel more dollars from those persons and families who can least afford it! Food pantries, clothing banks, helping-hand organizations had better beef-up their supplies if this "utopian" proposal passes on November 8. These lines and needs are great presently and are certain to increase!

I am speaking as a Husband, Father, Christian, and Pastor. God always advocated the work ethic. Earn what you receive by giving a fair segment of time and energy in return. Be honest and industrious. God has always been eager to bless such!

In preparing your mind and soul to approach the voting booth on November 8, please take another look as just...WHAT GAMBLING WILL DO!

DON'T LET YOUR CHILD DOWN!!!

The quality of a good school that leaves the deepest impression on the student is its spirit, its ethos, its character. A school's spirit reflects the staff, students, parents, community and nation.

The time has never been more ripe for parents and the public to reassert control over their schools. Surveys show that the public overwhelmingly wants parents to regain and have the right to send their children to the school where they can get the best education. Surveys also show they back merit pay and greater accountability.

There are principals waiting to lead, qualified teachers eager to teach and students hungry to learn. We cannot, we must not, let them down.

Church, Destroyed By Fire, Is Rebuilt

Parkway Independent Church officially reopened its doors Sunday, Oct. 30. The church, which had been destroyed by fire, has been completely rebuilt.

The Parkway Independent Church officially opened its doors Sunday, Oct. 30 at 11 a.m. for Sunday Worship services, church officials said.

The church was totally destroyed by fire May 6, and parishioners have been working all summer to rebuild the church, Cassie Justice, church treasurer said. Pastor Ed Taylor and trustees, Arnold Griffith and Lawrence Flannery have been the church's carpenters, she added.

Though the church is located in Magoffin County, near the railroad trestle at Ivyton, members of the present congregation are from Floyd County. Justice hopes this will change with an increased membership. "We're hoping the Lord will use this church and its members to bring in people from the surrounding area to our church," she added.

Other officers in the church are Charles Hager and Charles Justice, deacons; Rue Hager, clerk; and Cora Tussey and Glenda Thompson, social committee.

Several Floyd Artists' Works Exhibited

"Images from the Mountains: A Traveling Exhibit of Appalachian Artists," sponsored by the University of Kentucky Appalachian Center, opens Sunday, Nov. 13, at Prestonsburg Community College.

The exhibit features 20 Appalachian artists, both established and emerging from 14 Kentucky counties.

All of the artists in the exhibit have lived in Eastern Kentucky for at least three years.

Works include a watercolor entitled, "Mossy Bottom," by Iris Caudill of Martin. Other artists in the exhibit from the Prestonsburg area include Ken and Russell Weedman of Whitley County, Sandra Humfleet and W. R.

Mays of Laurel County, Sandy Speagle of Rockcastle County, Francis Stidham of Casey County and Charlette Strunk of McCreary County.

The exhibit will remain in Prestonsburg through Nov. 26 and then will travel to eight additional sites in Eastern Kentucky.

Author Researches Stumbo Family

According to Pikeville author, Marie R. Justice, one chapter of her revised edition of One Mullins Family is devoted to the Stumbo family. Justice said the Stumbos are ancestors of Margaret (Peggy) Mullins, who was the daughter of Robert and Elizabeth Stumbo Fleming, and wife of Alexander Mullins.

Justice said the Stumbos first settled in the Pennsylvania counties of York, Lancaster, and Franklin. The name was spelled as Stambaugh or Stambach. According to Justice, a Stumbo descendant, George Venters of Dickinson County, Va., said his grandmother, who was a Stambaugh, could only speak a broken English when she came to this section from Pennsylvania.

Phillip and Elizabeth Stambaugh came from Pennsylvania down into the northern part of Virginia and were found in Hampshire County, near the Pennsylvania-Virginia line in 1790, Justice said. Four of their five sons were born in Pennsylvania.

In 1809 their daughter, Elizabeth (Betty) married an Irish immigrant, Robert Fleming. According to Justice, records indicate Bob and Betty married in Washington County, Md., which is just across the Pennsylvania line.

Justice said Robert Fleming is shown in the 1790 census of Franklin County, Pa., and she imagines he may have come to the Stambaugh farm to work shortly after coming to America from Ireland.

Robert and Betty Fleming moved to Lee County, Va. in 1810, along with Betty's parents and four brothers. The Stambaughs had a fifth son, Frederick, born in Virginia. Justice said the family moved to Floyd County after that, according to an 1810 census report. The Stambaugh family consisted of Phillip and Elizabeth and sons, John, Samuel, Phillip, Lawrence and Frederick. The Flemings lived next door to them in 1820, according to Floyd County census.

Justice said according to the Annals of Floyd County by Wells, Phillip Sr. bought 100 acres of land in 1818 on the left fork of Beaver from Alexander Lackey. His son, John, two years before, had bought seven acres on Caney Fork from James Pratt. John, born in 1787, would have been 29 that year, Justice said.

According to Justice, the last recorded transfer of property in the name of Phillip Sr. was in 1822, when Phillip deeded his young son, Frederick, then only 12 years old, a 100 acre tract on Left Beaver. Justice said around that time, the name Stambaugh became Stumbo.

Kiwaniannes Meet, Plan Several Activities

The Prestonsburg Kiwaniannes held their monthly luncheon-meeting, at May Lodge, Thursday, Oct. 27, at 12:30, with Barbara Dawson, president, in charge, and leading the group in the Kiwanianne Grace.

Mabel Jean LeMaster presented the devotions, basing her discussion on the "Upper Room," and using as her theme, "I will sing to the Lord; as long as I live, I will sing praises." She ended her discussion with prayer. Hope Whitten read a poem entitled, "Faith, Hope, and Love."

The luncheon-meetings of this group will be announced on the Birthday Calendar of the K.F.W.C./G.F.W.C. Prestonsburg Woman's Club.

The group decided to send a get well card to Lucy Regan who was recently injured in a fall, and a sympathy card to Barbara Dawson, due to the recent death of her mother-in-law, a resident of England, who, while visiting here a few years ago, was the guest of the Kiwaniannes at a Christmas luncheon.

Mrs. Jane Bond announced the annual heart clinic, which the club is responsible for furnishing and serving snacks, will be held at the Floyd County Health Department, Nov. 1-2, with the Highland Avenue Freewill Baptist Church furnishing the food Tuesday, Nov. 1, and the First United Methodist Church, Wednesday, Nov. 2. Myrtle Allen was asked to be in charge of the serving.

Dorothy Osborne reminded the group to vote Tuesday, Nov. 8.

Jane Bond announced the Prestonsburg High School's Honor Choir will be selling Christmas poinsettias.

Hope Whitten asked members to attend the Christmas bazaar, given by the Sewing Circle of the First United Methodist Church, Friday, Nov. 4, and the luncheon given there by the Friendship Circle that day.

A monetary contribution was sent to the First Baptist Church of Somerset, in memory of formere member, Zella Archer.

Due to the fact the next regular luncheon meeting date would coincide with Thanksgiving Day, the meeting date, was changed to Thursday, Nov. 17, at 12:30 at May Lodge. The Christmas party and luncheon will again be held at the home of the club's president, Barbara Dawson, on December Attending Thursday's event were: Barbara Dawson, Hope Whitten, Garnett Fairchild, Jane Bond, Rebecca Rasnick, Jane Wallace, Myrtle Allen, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Dorothy Osborne, Mildred Salisbury, Ada Meade, Margaret Collins, Maman Leslie, and Docia Woods.

Participates In Red Ribbon Week

The Wheelwright High School chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving participated in National Red Ribbon Week Oct. 23-30. On Wednesday afternoon, members of the SADD organization sponsored school-wide balloon lift. Other activities of the week included wearing red ribbons, inviting a guest speaker in from Alice Lloyd College, and distributing posters throughout the school.

McDowell Junior High Joins 'Wear Red Day'

Red Ribbon Week was celebrated Oct. 23-30 at McDowell Junior High School.

On Wednesday, Oct. 26, McDowell Junior High held a contest for the most decorated (in red) room, focusing on influencing students to protest driving drunk and taking drugs.

Rick Hall's eighth grade homeroom class won the contest. Hall said "It was a really great idea, because everyone learned to work together and that is important."

The room was a symbolic tunnel, which represented a road where people must overcome obstacles. Students, according to Hall, should expect obstacles in life, but these who can get back on course can expect to live a happy, drug-free life.

The homeroom members include Angela Adams, Lisa Brown, Courtney Cieslah, Bryan Conn, Jeffery Dye, Keith Gayheart, Curtis Hall, Lonnie Hall.

WKU, Bowling Green Plan Band Competition

Western Kentucky University and the City of Bowling Green will be hosts Saturday, Nov. 5, for the 1988 State High School Marching Band Championships.

The event, sponsored by the Kentucky Music Educators Association, will draw more than 70 high school bands in four classes and will culminate with the naming of the Governor's Cup winner in each class.

The Betsy Layne Bobcat Marching Band will participate in Class A competition.

More than 5,000 participants are expected to perform in preliminary competition at Bowling Green High School's Donaldson Stadium and at WKU's L.T. Smith Stadium.

Activities begin at 8:30 a.m. when Class A and AA bands hold preliminary competition at BGHS. Class AAA and AAAA bands will compete at the same hour at WKU. The top four bands in each class will advance to the finals competition at 6 p.m. in Western's 19,250-seat Smith Stadium.

"We are pleased to host this exciting event in Bowling Green," said Horace Shrader, executive director of the Bowling Green-Warren County Tourist-Convention Commission. "This event will attract many thousands of visitors from all parts of Kentucky to Bowling Green and to Western Kentucky University."

More than two dozen nationally prominent judges will evaluate the bands and will award the Governor's Cup to the state's best high school marching bands in each class. Last year's winners were Campbellsville in Class A, Adair County in Class AA, Meade County in Class AAA and North Hardin in Class AAAA.

First Baptist Plans Special Services

"A church is the heart of Prestonsburg with Prestonsburg on it's heart" is the slogan used at the First Baptist Church, Irene Cole Memorial, and the folks there are practicing what they preach. According to the pastor, the Rev. Steve Hopkins, special events began Sunday, Oct. 30, with Miracle Day.

On Miracle Day, the church stressed attendance, set a goal of $10,000 in offerings, and also set a goal of 10 additions to the church. Revival services also began that night with Dr. Tom Kinman as guest pastor and Thomas Foy as music director. After services that night, which was also youth night, pizza was served to the youth.

A fall festival was held Halloween night, Oct. 31, with prizes awarded to the best costume. No goblins, witches or ghosts were allowed. A bag of trick or treat candy was given to every child after the revival service Monday night, children's night. Singing was provided by the children's choir.

All churches of the Enterprize Association were invited to Tuesday's Associational night service. Tonight, Wednesday, will be family night at the church, and the family with the most present will be recognized. Tomorrow, Thursday, Sunday School night will be observed and each Sunday School class will be recognized.

The revival will conclude Friday with the "World's Greatest Lover" night. The greatest act of love is to bring someone to meet Jesus, so the person who brings the most will be recognized as the "World's Greatest Lover", Rev. Hopkins said.

A nursery is provided for each service and plenty of parking is available, Hopkins said. For transportation or for more information, call 886-8681.

Books And Things:

Books Address Healthy Eating Habits

By Trisha Morris,
PCC Librarian

It is common advice that good health means eating healthy. The problem is that the advice is not always followed by an explanation of how to eat healthy. The library at PCC has books that give advice about what to eat, how to prepare it and how to recognize its hidden ingredients on the label.

Moosewood Cookbook, by Mollie Katzen. A splendid vegetarian cookbook. It offers 198 recipes that are as appealing as they are healthful. Relying on such high-protein ingredients as cheese, eggs, nuts, grains and legumes, plus fresh produce, the dishes here will put meat out of one's mind with no feeling of deprivation or craving.

This cookbook is the spinoff of The Moosewood restaurant in Ithaca, N.Y., collectively run by 20 members who rotate the duties of chef. Their only dogma is wholesomeness, simplicity, and appealing aesthetics. A walk through its pages will find recipes for pepper and onion shortcake, mushroom strudel, sweet potato pancakes, gypsy soup, and the famous Moosewood fudge brownies.

Mushrooms of the World, by Lucius Frieden. It is extremely important for good health to include a little fungi in the diet. One of the most pleasant ways to meet this strange-sounding requirement is with the mushroom.

Every year, in American gourmet restaurants and humble home kitchens, more than 165 million pounds of mushrooms are sautéed, broiled, stuffed, put in sauces or sliced raw into salads. The added allure of mushrooms is that they can be purchased, washed and packaged from markets, or can be found in forest and field.

The amateur mushroom hunter or mycologist has one problem — to pick the mushroom that is edible. Mushrooms of the World is an excellent guide book. With full color pictures of each variety shown at different stages and from different angles, it lables each one as edible, edible with caution, good, excellent, suspect, or poisonous. Complete with recipes, it adds caution by including instructions for cleaning and warnings about look-alike poisonous relatives.

A beautifully-illustrated guide, it does credit to the author, who has spent 30 years studying the strange and tasteful fungi.

A Chemical Feast, by Harding Riche. Riche tells that, "The key to the survival of the human race is that human beings will eat almost anything," and then proceed to tell us what we have been eating and, chemically, what it has been doing to us.

By linking his advise not to worry overly about food additives to the knowledge that a nutritious food like shrimp naturally contains arsenic, iodine, and copper, he shows the absurdity of obsessively worrying about a usual diet. The key, he advises, is dosage and balance.

It is the purpose of A Chemical Feast to dispel worry about the food we consume. Many of its chapters explain phenomena that have been the lead in contrasting news stories: whether foods cause cancer, food poisoning and parasites, hypoglycemia, hyperactivity and food allergy. One doesn't have to be a chemist to understand this book, and after reading it we can all go back to enjoying our daily meals as long as we "exercise common sense and maintain a sense of proportion."

Cooking What Comes Naturally, by Nikki Goldbeck. This is a book for people who want to eat better, and a manual for those who recognize that many of the products on the market today, developed in the interest of convenience, have been over-processed, over-seasoned and so well preserved that this very convenience has replaced the nutritional purpose food is meant to serve.

- Earth, Water, Fire and Air*
- The Potato Book*

The 30 meatless menus featured here provide a month of nutritionally-sound meals based on fresh fruits and vegetables, whole grains, nuts, dried beans, cheese and eggs. All are enhanced with natural seasonings and unrefined sweeteners. Along with the recipes and cooking tips, there is advice on shopping and creating menus. Cooking What Comes Naturally can get us off of the merry-go-round of following hamburger and fries with a diet cola.

Low-Fat Cookery, by Evelyn Stead. An ounce of fat contains more than twice the calories present in an ounce of carbohydrate or protein. It often isn't what one eats that puts the bulge around the middle or hardens arteries, but how one cooks what one eats. Low-Fat Cookery was written to help the average person reduce caloric intake by changing cooking habits. Food is one of the paramount interests of humans. We spend many hours either producing it or earning the money to buy it, preparing it, and a large part of our culture, is centered around eating it.

The author promises that "When you mastered the essentials of low-fat cookery, you can forget the word 'diet' and enjoy eating again." Complete with recipes for soups, sauces, desserts, and salad dressings, this book has found the secret of eating without guilt.

Dictionary of Food Ingredients, by Robert Igoe. We want to be healthy — we should know what we are eating — so we follow advice and read the labels. Now what? Some of those words must be in a different language. Help is here. Just as there is a dictionary for legal terms, biological terms and literary terms, there is a dictionary for food ingredient terms. It gives, in simple words, definitions for terms like Chloropentalfluoroethane, Undecalactone and Trihydronybrlyrophenone. It also includes information about terms we can pronounce like ginger, cornstarch and butter. Interesting reading for people are concerned about what they eat.

How to Dry Fruits and Vegetables at Home. Of all the ways there are to preserve food, drying is the most natural. It is nature's way — just think of nuts and seeds. Prepared by the food editors of The Farm Journal, this book gives directions for oven drying, sun drying, and building a dehydrator.

It provides a chart of which foods dry best, how to prepare them, the drying time, and how to test for doneness. The result of their own research, it also contains advice on storage, rehydrating, and cooking with the dried food. Fifty mouth-watering recipes tell how to use the food in soups, casseroles, main dishes, snacks, and desserts.

Earth, Water, Fire and Air, by Barbara Friedlande. This strange book was written to encompass a way of life. Along with 122 wonderful, original recipes, there are 40 black and white photos unlike those found in other cookbooks, and suggestions for reading and listening. The book is offered "To all your five senses... and hoped that the sixth sense, the sense of awareness, may be tapped."

A vegetarian cook book, it includes descriptions of some important ingredients, a glossary of vegetables and herbs, advice on basic cooking methods and lots and lots of good, nutritious recipes. You'll get points from Jane Fonda and Richard Simmons for just reading this wholesome offering.

The Potato Book, by Myma Davis. Here is everything we really need to know about potatoes — plus a number of things we didn't know but would like to ask. And, no, The Potato Book is not just a cookbook, though it does have recipes that range from spicy hors d'oeuvre called "Potato Mysteries" to an interesting after-dinner sweet, "Potato Marzipan."

The important point is, The Potato Book is fun — with assorted portraits of potatoes by 23 witty and talented ar-

Judge Dan Jack Combs is a Kentuckian by birth and by choice.

He was taught as a child that each of us should do the best we can to help each other seek better lives and make our state a better place to live, work, and raise our children.

The best way that Judge Combs can help us is as justice of our Supreme Court. His life is devoted to protecting the rights our Constitution guarantees us. That is what keeps us free to pursue life, liberty, and happiness.

We can protect that freedom on November 8 when we pull the lever next to the name of Dan Jack Combs.

Re-Elect Chris Perkins To Congress

Vote Democratic

Congressman Carl Chris Perkins has made his mark as an able and effective legislator in the U.S. House of Representatives. Since his election to Congress in 1984, following his father's death, Congressman Perkins has continued the strong tradition of leadership representing the 7th District.

Congressman Perkins quickly fulfilled the predictions of the U.S. News and World Report declaring Chris Perkins as one of the five fresh and bright stars in the 99th Congress to watch.

OUTSTANDING JUNIOR MEMBER

Demonstrating his knowledge of the legislative process Congressman Chris Perkins was the only freshman to have two bills passed. One of those bills was an amendment to the Carl D. Perkins Vocational Education Act regarding the allocation of funds for state basic grants and for consumer and homemaking education grants.

Utilizing his contacts in Congress and with its leadership, Perkins was able to land a seat on the Public Works Committee, an unheard of accomplishment for a freshman. That committee assignment has made it possible for Congressman Perkins to obtain funding for his district. Congressman Perkins also obtained prized seats on the Education and Labor Committee and the Science, Space and Technology Committee.

EDUCATION LEADER

In the last two years, during the 100th Congress, Perkins' accomplishments have been just as significant and noteworthy. Chris Perkins was a major player in the reauthorization of the School Improvement Act of 1987. At a time when there was a unified outcry for increased funding for education, Perkins was instrumental in getting an increase of $335 million for the Chapter 1 program, up to a total of $4.6 billion. This increase in funding is especially important to efforts to improve the educational accomplishments of Eastern Kentucky. This program will funnel extra money into schools like those in the 7th District, based on the number of educationally and financially disadvantaged students in the school.

FUNDING FOR DRUG PROBLEMS

Also in the School Improvement Act is the Drug Free Schools and Communities Program.

Again, Perkins was there to help ensure that funding would be provided for local initiatives to reduce the presence of drugs in our schools.

DROPOUT PREVENTION

Congressman Perkins helped to lead the effort to amend the formula which provides for the distribution of funds for the $21 million Dropout Prevention Program. Rather than allow the program to be passed into law with a formula that would send the money to the inner cities only, the Congressman worked with Congressman Hayes and worked out an agreement which would distribute the funds more evenly to smaller school districts as well.

Congressman Chris Perkins is a respected member of Congress. His hard work, dedication and knowledge of the legislative process has impressed his colleagues and made him successful in obtaining legislation beneficial to the 7th District.

With each term he gains more seniority and experience, therefore, he gains more influence to help his district.

OBTAINED HIGHWAY FUNDING

Acquiring federal funding for highway and flood control projects is a high priority for Congressman Perkins. He realizes that if Eastern Kentucky is going to be able to compete with the rest of the nation, and is going to be able to lure new businesses to the mountains, that there needs to be an adequate system of roads and easy access for transportation of products.

Since coming to office, through his work on the Committee on Public Works and Transportation, Congressman Perkins has brought nearly $100 million into Eastern Kentucky for federal highway construction projects. This money does not include federal aid projects such as the four-laning of US 23 between Paintsville and Prestonsburg, work on the Bent Mountain Road, and the new bridge across the Ohio River at Maysville.

OBTAINED FLOOD CONTROL FUNDING

In addition to roads and bridges, Perkins has been extremely concerned over the flooding problems in the District. During 1987 and 1988, Perkins has been able to acquire $19.1 million for several major flood protection projects in Eastern Kentucky.

Continue the tradition of congressional leadership for the 7th District

Re-elect Chris Perkins, a Democrat
U.S. House of Representatives

(Paid for by the Perkins for Congress Committee, Randy Campbell, Treasurer.)

Applications Being Accepted For 1989 Governor's School For The Arts

The Kentucky Governor's School for the Arts is presently accepting applications from prospective students and faculty for the 1989 summer program. The school, which will be held at Bellarmine College in Louisville, from July 2-22, 1989, is a joint program of the Kentucky Center for the Arts and the Kentucky Department for the Arts (KDA). It seeks to develop the artistic skills and creativity of Kentucky's most talented youth by providing them with the opportunity to study with outstanding artist-teachers, according to Elma Freudenthal, KDA spokesperson.

student applicants for the Governor's School must be current sophomores or juniors in high school and legal residents of Kentucky. They should possess high degrees of talent in specific artistic disciplines. Instruction in the school is offered in creative writing, dance, drama, instrumental and vocal music and visual art, said Freudenthal. In addition to receiving intensive technical training, students also explore the arts from an interdisciplinary and multicultural perspective. The final event at the school is a student showcase performance and festival at the Kentucky Center for the Arts.

Auditions, portfolio reviews, and manuscript reviews are held at seven regional sites throughout Kentucky in January and February. There is no charge to students who are selected to attend the school. The deadline for student applications is Dec. 2. Students wishing to apply for the Governor's School for the Arts should ask their guidance counselor or teacher for an application or write for forms to: Governor's School for the Arts, c/o the Kentucky Center for the Arts, 5 Riverfront Plaza, Louisville, Ky. 40202. Prospective faculty should apply to the same address.

Places Sixth

Hello, my name is Molly Owens. I live at Langley, Ky. I own and operate Molly's Beauty Shop and Molly's Florist at Langley. I am the widow of the late Ralph Owens. I have been a member of the Free Will Baptist Church at Estill for over 30 years. I am the mother of 5 kids—Lema Bradley who is married to Bob Bradley; Priscilla Martin who is married to Dennis Martin; JACKIE EDFORD OWENS, MAGISTRATE, DIST. 2 who is married to HATTIE "COOLEY" OWENS; Joe Owens who is married to Teresa Conley Owens; Ina Robinson who is married to Tim Robinson.

My daughter-in-law, HATTIE "COOLEY" OWENS is running for SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER AGAINST James Arville Duff.

A VOTE FOR HATTIE "COOLEY" OWENS

- ★ IS A VOTE for BETTER EDUCATION for our KIDS.
 - ★ IS A VOTE for BETTER MANAGEMENT of our school system which handles 24 million dollars a year.
 - IS A VOTE to put RESPECT back in the Floyd County School system.
 - ★ IS A VOTE to treat ALL PEOPLE EQUAL.
- Your Vote and Support will be Appreciated.

TO THE PEOPLE OF DIST. 5:

Our names are Gorman and Edna Cooley. We live at Prater Fork on Brush Creek. Our parents are the late Oak and Rose (Osborne) Cooley of Hippo and the late John Wess and Hattie (Allen) Prater of Prater Fork. We are the parents of 9 children

- Clettis Howard who is married to Eugene Howard;
- Donald Cooley who is married to Laura (Bitner) Cooley;
- Mary Agnes Woods who is married to Clarence "Buddy" Woods, Jr.
- Harold Cooley;
- Lou Campbell who is married to Art Campbell;
- Janet Webb who is married to Claudie Webb;
- Glema Hicks who is married to Keith Hicks;
- HATTIE "COOLEY" OWENS who is married to JACKIE EDFORD OWENS, MAGISTRATE, DIST. 2.
- Carl Cooley who is married to Ginger (Martin) Cooley.

Being a mother of 9 kids and a member of the Regular Baptist Church for over 40 years, I can see it is time that Floyd County went FORWARD in EDUCATION—NOT BACKWARDS. We urge our family and friends to vote for our daughter—

HATTIE "COOLEY" OWENS SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER—DIST. 5

(Pol. adv. paid for by the candidate. 11-2-1tpd.)

VOTE DEMOCRATIC

These are reasons why every voter in Eastern Kentucky should vote the STRAIGHT DEMOCRATIC TICKET!!

The Republicans say we are better off now than we were 8 years ago—Consider This:

1. Unemployment—there are more coal miners unemployed now than any time in the history of America, except during the Hoover administration.
2. Federal Black Lung Benefits—non-existent in the Reagan administration.
3. Funding for Highways—drastic cuts have been seen in highway funds.
4. Revenue Sharing Funds—Floyd County, ALONE, lost over $400,000.00 in Revenue Sharing monies. However, our Federal taxes have not been reduced one penny.
5. Social Security Benefits—President Reagan in his first term tried to cut Social Security benefits. Will the Republicans try the same thing if elected this time?

(Pol. adv. paid for by the Floyd County Democrat Executive Committee, John M. Stumbo, Chairman, 11-2-1tpd.)

VOTE TOMMY BOYD

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER, DIST. 3

- Through my campaign efforts in Educational Dist. #3, I have found the people receptive and very concerned in the quality of their children's education.
- A quality education begins in our Head Start Programs and continues until their high school graduation.
- As a part of the school board system in Floyd County, I feel that every student should have the same educational opportunity as those throughout our state & nation, to enable them to enter into a complex and competitive society.
- Who better understands the problems of our teachers, parents & students than a man who has been: a miner, WWII veteran, bus driver, coach, maintenance man, and a teacher.
- As a retired teacher, and after 30 years of teaching in the Floyd County School System, I am able to devote my time and efforts to the needs of the teachers, children, and other employees of the Floyd County School System.
- As you cast your vote on Tuesday, Nov. 8th, please remember—"Let's render to our children a quality education, through leadership, that puts our children and their interest first."

WHS Receives New Computers

The Wheelwright High School computer department recently received four new computers and one printer. The computers were the new Apple IIc's, which were bought with federal and school funds. These, in addition to the six they already have are very needed. The students in the computer classes are thrilled to have these new additions to allow them to have more working space. Sue Jones teaches three computer classes within a three-hour period, teaching 44 students.

Wheelwright Academic Boosters Club Seeking Increased Local Participation

By Robin Moore and Tammy Johnson

Members of the Academic Boosters Club at Wheelwright High School made a decision Oct. 10 not to disband the club, according to Doris Osborne, a teacher at WHS.

The reason considered for disbanding ABC was that people seemed to be losing interest in it. When ABC started in the fall of 1984, the club had 118 members and as of Oct. 10, had only 25.

"We had gone two months without having a meeting," said Osborne, secretary of ABC. Letters were sent out to the parents of WHS students, containing information and asking parents for support. The Academic Boosters Club was established to help buy materials needed in order to give students a better education. At one time, the club raised over $15,000 and the money was spent on the school's needs.

"The school still needs so many things," said Osborne. There are usually four officers, but, at the moment, there are only two: Glenda Hall, president, and Doris Osborne, secretary. The rest of the positions will be filled at the next meeting.

The ABC has bought new air-conditioners and some more microscopes for the biology lab. One of the first people to give the ABC a donation was Dr. Mary Alice Hall.

Anyone interested in bettering the school is asked to attend one of the ABC's meetings.

Vote For and Elect RICKY D. HAMILTON School Board Member (Dist. #4)

Mary has refused to show concern to the people of Left Beaver Creek by answering the following questions. I will answer them for her to the best of my knowledge.

1. As a board member for 16 years, what new facilities have been constructed in Dist. #4 besides the Pete Grigsby Fieldhouse?
 1. NONE. Overcrowded buildings have resulted in trailers for classrooms.
 2. What have you done in your capacity as board member to improve the test scores of the students in this district?
 2. Nothing other than voting the man in charge of this program in as superintendent.
 3. What have you done to increase teachers salaries from the bottom 15% in the state?
 3. Nothing. She hasn't insisted on any pay raises for teachers with local funds.
 4. What actions have you taken to increase the salaries and benefits for secretaries, bus drivers, cooks, janitors, etc.?
 4. Voted to decrease work day last year by 1 1/4 hours. This resulted in a decrease in pay.
 5. Did you vote along with the superintendent and board chairman from Prestonsburg to build a new high school for Prestonsburg over the needs of a new grade school for Melvin?
 5. Yes.
 6. Have you or your superintendent received a letter from Michael Luscher, State Director, Division of Buildings and Grounds, regarding the status of the new Left Beaver School? What is that status?
 6. Yes, the FCBE with Mary as a voting member, voted to accept a bid of $808,019.00 for site excavation knowing that the state would not approve a bid over $400,000.00.
 7. Since you have voted to put a superintendent and board chairman from Prestonsburg into the Floyd County School System, do you think Left Beaver will get its fair share of money from the board?
 7. We haven't in the past and unless we make a change we can't expect to in the future.
 8. Why was the Mitchell Hill site chosen for the new high school? Is there enough room for the high school, gymnasium, football & baseball field, track and parking to accomodate fans and visitors? Isn't there a track of bottomland within 1/2 mile of this site that could accomodate all these facilities with room for expanding in the future? Did Paul Bailey have anything to do with selecting this site?
 8. You've heard the comments about Paul Bailey and the coal seams. The architect in charge of the project says not. The engineering work was done under the direction and guidance of Paul Bailey.
- (In a previous paper Mary Hall stated that she was "not present" at the April 2, 1986 Board meeting when Board Order No. 5556 was discussed.)
9. Do we need a Board Member that is not concerned enough about the needs of our children to be present at a Board Meeting when an important issue such as the new Left Beaver High School is being discussed? Mary, were you at the next meeting when the minutes of the April meeting were read and approved?
 9. NO. It's time we elected someone concerned enough about our children to attend the meetings.
 10. Mary, did you agree with Superintendent Ronald Hager's actions on Oct. 13, 1988, when he insisted on having school when he should have known that our children would not have adequate supervision? Do you feel that trying to "bully" the Floyd County school teachers around is more important than the health and safety of our children?
 10. Yes, she did agree. Our teachers were taken away from their classroom duties on Monday, Oct. 17 in order to sign threatening forms from the superintendent.

The Kentucky Federation of Woman's Clubs recently held its annual KFWC Regional Art Show in Salyersville.

The region includes Floyd and seven surrounding counties. Two of Allen Central's art students won first place in their respective categories; only three ribbons were given in each media.

UNBELIEVABLE???

YES, BECAUSE IT IS NOT TRUE!!!

The official minutes of the Floyd County Board of Education meeting held on April 2, 1986 will show that I was not present when former Superintendent Ray Brackett recommended, in Board Order No. 5556, a request for a hearing to amend the board adopted cooperative facility survey plan for the Floyd County School District, and to move the new school for McDowell and Wheelwright High Schools from the No. 3 position to No. 5 position on the priority list. In addition, he recommended to rescind Board Order No. 5488 of the February 5, 1986 board meeting concerning the original facility survey plan. The hearing officer, Dr. Dan Branham, Deputy State Superintendent agreed to keep our new school among the top four priorities.

Site selection for the new high school was not easy because of the flood zones. The Hi Hat area was chosen by the board and agreed upon by the Kentucky Department of Education, Division of Buildings and Grounds because the location was most centrally located between the two existing high schools, communities, and the center of the student population.

Now, my opponents have openly criticized that school site selection in favor of the Minnie site!!! When asked about the children who live in the head of Left Beaver (Melvin, Weeksbury, & Wheelwright), I was told, "That's their problem!"

I am concerned about the welfare of ALL OUR CHILDREN!!!

Junior Miss Representative

Gina Johnson, 13-year-old daughter of Russell and Alpha Johnson of Wheelwright, was named Junior Miss Red, White, and Blue Representative for Osborne Elementary. She is a member of Thomas Gibson's eighth grade class at Osborne Elementary. After winning from her school, she competed in the Floyd County Junior Miss Red, White, and Blue pageant at McDowell Grade School Oct. 7. Johnson was escorted by Millis Hall, son of David and Sue Hall of Wheelwright. Hall is in the eleventh grade at Wheelwright High School.

Bartley Is Named Outstanding Student

Elizabeth M. Bartley has been selected as a member of the Outstanding High School Students of America, according to the Outstanding High School Association. OHSA officials said Bartley was named because of her outstanding merit and accomplishment. She is the granddaughter of Marie Click of Emma.

Exchange Student Enrolled At Wheelwright High School

By Crissy Mosley
Rafael Ramas, an exchange student from Spain, has come to WHS to attend during the 1988-89 school year.

Ramas said he came to America to learn more about Americans and their way of life. He believes being an exchange student will help his career in economics and business law.

He is from a small town south of Spain called Cadis. His parents' names are Rafael and Pilar Ramas. His father is a military judge, and his mother is a nurse in a public hospital at Cadis. Ramas has two sisters and a brother; Irene, 13; Ellena, 10; and Fernando, 15.

Before coming to the US, Rafael attended Cortadura High School, which is stricter, according to Rafael, and allows less freedom than Wheelwright. He said the teachers in his high school are very strict, not allowing anything except hard work in their classes. He said he prefers the atmosphere at Wheelwright. He said the classes he is taking here as a senior, he already had as a sophomore in Spain.

One of the differences Ramas has noticed between life in Spain and America is the government. Spain's king is John Charles I, but the President Felipe Gontalet has the real power. He also says that jobs are difficult to find in Spain.

Other differences exist: food is cooked in olive oil, and meat and fish are the main foods in Spain. Soccer is the favorite sport. Spanish people dress much neater in public, according to Ramas.

He is taking five classes at Wheelwright. They are chemistry, English 4, advanced math, philosophy, and history. His hobbies are sports and computers. He is currently staying with Tommy and Barbara Roop of Weeksbury.

Annual Student Writers' Workshop Is Held

About 150 Floyd County high school students got a taste of their heritage, the arts and the world around them through a Student Writer's Workshop sponsored recently by the Floyd County Schools and Floyd County Education Forum's School-Community Partnership Committee.

As different as each person attending was, the impressions the students left with were also individualized.

The third annual workshop featured seminars and discussions about writing novels and short stories, discussing regional issues with media people, learning how to interview using a video camera, writing poetry, learning about Appalachian history and storytelling.

The students also did their own presentations — telling stories, discussing magazine layout, presenting oral history projects and other things.

"I think the students did a superb job with their presentations," Delores Smith, co-chair of the workshop said. "They participated, they listened, they learned."

"I learned that writing is more important than I thought, and no matter how old you are, it is important," said

Mathew Goodwill, a Prestonsburg High School freshman.

Prestonsburg Senior Billy Grimm agreed. "You're never too smart to learn something when it comes to writing."

For PHS senior Beth Hamm, a sense of her heritage was what she gained.

"You can enjoy the culture you live in," Hamm said. "You can be proud of where you are from."

The discussion of regional issues with the media panel gave the students a chance to see things from a different perspective regarding the teachers' concerns and the broad form deed amendment, said PHS Seniors Connie Spencer and Angie Bradford.

Workshops like this are not done enough, Smith said. Students need to be exposed to more than six hours of school a day.

Stephanie Henson of McDowell High School narrated a parody of high school life accompanied by slides; Sherry Crum of Allen Central High School read a personal narrative called "Friday Night"; Angie Cavins and Missie Hall of Wheelwright High School read their writing; and Prestonsburg High School students Beth Hall, Robin Burchett, Angie Bradford, and Connie Spenser demonstrated how to do a magazine layout. In the final session of the afternoon, Billie Jean Osborne's choral music and music appreciation class presented a selection from a musical drama called The Fabric of Freedom. Osborne, who has returned from retirement to direct the Betsy Layne band, created the production to compliment the efforts of the oral history project at the school being done by Thelma Spears.

Last year, the senior English class of Thelma Spears produced a magazine called Along the Big Sandy as part of the Writing Across the Curriculum Project. Mrs. Spears and her class displayed that work along with quilts and artifacts loaned by Mary Wagner, Lurline Roberts, Jim Wagner, Madie Osborne, and Wendell Stratton at the workshop on Monday.

Monday's workshop was planned by Delores Smith, co-chair of the School-Community Partnership Committee and teachers from the county literary magazine committee: Willie Elliot of McDowell High School; Shirlene Hamilton of Wheelwright High; John Patton of Prestonsburg; Thelma Spears of Betsy Layne; and Patricia Watson, coordinator of Mountain Magic from Allen Central High School.

"The workshop is important," said Jean Rosenberg, the president of the Floyd County Education Forum, "because it not only teaches students about writing, but it also gives students a chance to come together and share their own work." The School-Community Partnership Committee, which sponsors the workshop is a sub-committee of the Forum.

There were 12 guest writers and panelists who participated in the workshop. These guests were as follows:

News Panel Members, Moderator: Jo Anne Ball, WYMT; Ann Chaney, Floyd County Times; David Holwerk, Lexington Herald; Barbara Justice, Appalachian News-Express and Homer Marcum, The Martin Countian.

Michelle Boisseau, Associate Professor of English at Morehead State University, is originally from Cincinnati, Ohio. She was educated at Ohio University and the University of Houston where she received a PhD from the creative writing program in 1985. She has had poetry and fiction published in Poetry, The Georgia Review, The New England Review, The Missouri Review, The Ohio Review, and elsewhere. Her poems have received prizes from the National Poetry Competition (first prize, 1985); the Poetry Society of America and the Narrative Poetry Competition of The New England Review.

Angie DeBord is an actress and writer who has worked with many schools in the Appalachian area. Born in North Carolina, Angie lives in Virginia with her husband, Tony Slone, who also works with Appalshop. She has performed with Roadside players, a traveling storytelling component of Appalshop in Whitesburg, organized in 1974 to establish a theater that would make use of the Appalachian heritage. Roadside has performed nationally across the United States and abroad. Roadside has been praised by National Public Radio as a "theater of conscience" and Theater Times has said of Roadside's production Red Fox: has more to say about the history of rural America than any five history books." Angie DeBord has written her own play about the role of women in the area. Denise Giardina, author of Storming Heaven, is a native of Bluefield, W. Va. Her novel, which was published by W.W. Norton and was an Alternate Book-of-the-Month Club Selection, has been optioned by Columbia Pictures. It deals with the conflict between the coal companies and the miners in Kentucky and West Virginia during the early part of this century. Giardina, whose grandfather came from Sicily, spent most of her childhood in a coal camp in McDowell County, W. Va., where her father worked as a bookkeeper for a coal company. She attended West Virginia Wesleyan College and the Virginia Theological Center in Alexandria. She is also the author of an historical novel, Good King Harry, and is currently at work on a novel about growing up in the Sixties in a coal camp.

Anne Johnson is director of Headwaters, Appalshop's award-winning public television series about mountain issues and culture. Headwaters 1988 season on KET starts October 24 at 7:30 p.m. with a program about Lily May Ledford, the original "banjo pickin' girl" who led the first all-woman string

McDowell Students Discuss Program

Recently, a McDowell English class attended the Writer's Workshop sponsored by the Floyd County Board of Education and the Floyd County Education Forum's School-Community Partnership Committee.

The students were impressed and pleased with the workshop. Traci Martin said, "This is the kind of experience that every student should have at least once in his or her high school career."

Clinton Springer replied, "I really enjoyed the trip. I especially liked the story that we students help perform in Angie DeBord's session. She is a very good story teller. She really brought the story out."

Robbie Little was impressed with the news panel. Robbie told us, "The news panel was very interesting. It really made me think about the situation here in Eastern Kentucky."

Many of the students, including Stefanie Henson, said they enjoyed the trip so much that they hope to attend the workshop again next year.

Shaun Little liked the fact that the writers wrote about the things that have something to do with his life. He said, "I liked having writers from around this area. Hearing them tell stories about this area was a fun experience."

Pam Spears was thankful for the opportunity to meet and see other people in a learning experience. She said that she enjoyed watching the performances from the other schools and meeting new people.

Keith Shelton summed up the feelings of most students when he said, "The students enjoyed the day very much. One could see by the look in their eyes that the day was a success."

Betsy Layne Students Mark Hunt, Terry Wallace, Marty Harris, Robert Hammond, Raetta Damron, Adam Gearheart, Tommy Mays, Jack Jarrell, Kim Carter, Bernie Epin, Geneva Boyd, Jimmy Ousley, Jamessa Howell, Bobby Wise, Sabrina West, and Keniv Stewart were among the featured performers in The Fabric of Freedom, a musical drama directed by Billie Jean Osborne. The drama has been performed several times at Betsy Layne for the high school students; elementary students that have been bused in to watch the play.

Missy Hall, a senior at Wheelwright High School, reads her poem called "Leaves".

Sherry Crum of Allen Central High School readers her personal narrative, "Friday Night."

McDowell 'Wear Red' Day

Red Ribbon Week was celebrated October 23-30 at McDowell Junior High School. McDowell Junior High held a contest for the most decorated (in red) room. Rick Hall's eighth grade homeroom class won the contest.

Floyd County Schools Are Chosen For Pilot Program, Says Frazier

Gary K. Frazier, assistant superintendent for instruction for the Floyd County School System, announce that Floyd County had been one of 10 school districts in Kentucky selected to participate in a pilot test scoring and report generation project.

The purpose of this pilot project is to assess the usefulness of the application of objective mastery testing for managing instruction in local school districts. Through the use of specially-designed software, Floyd County will be able to score the Kentucky Essential Skills Test (KEST), several commercially available skills tests, and teacher-made tests for the purpose of better instructional management.

The necessary equipment will include a micro-computer, a printer, and a table top scanner. The Tandy Corporation has agreed to supply a micro-computer for this project for one year. Scantron Corporation has agreed to provide a table-top scanner for one year. The Tandy Corporation has also agreed to provide a printer for the same period of time. All equipment will be provided to Floyd County at no cost.

The software has been purchased from CTB/McGraw-Hill by the Kentucky Department of Education. This software, Test Mate, has the capability to scan the above mentioned tests on the proper forms, score the tests and generate the necessary reports. The Test Mate software has the additional advantage of being able to reorganize the normative data which is currently being returned to Floyd County and that which will result from the CTBS/4, the newly-adopted state testing program. This should increase the usability of the data to the classroom teacher obtained from the state testing program, said Frazier.

The pilot project will be used on the fifth grade level at three elementary schools and at the 10th grade level at one high school. If the program proves successful, Frazier stated that he hopes to expand to all Floyd County schools in the near future.

Local Academic Conference Meet Held

The Jenny Wiley Academic Conference High School competition started Saturday, Oct. 29, with six schools competing.

The morning competition consisted of written assessment in mathematics, social studies, science and humanities. This week's humanities written competition was deleted after a Prestonsburg High School academic member came forward, stating he had taken the test in a previous competition. To make up this competition, two humanities tests will be given in the next competition.

At the end of the day, the results of the competition showed that Prestonsburg High School won with 22 points; Sheldon Clark High School was second with 19 points, and Allen Central High School was third, with 18 points.

McDowell High School and June Buchanan High School tied for fourth with 12 and 1/2 points, and Betsy Layne High School was last with 9 points.

band on radio. Other programs also air Monday evenings through December 5, and include two documentaries about education. Anne's production credits include Associate Director, "Harlan County, U.S.A." and editor, "Red Fox, Second Hanging" recently broadcast on KET.

Buck Maggard works with Headwaters and with WMMT, Appalshop's non-commercial, community radio station. He is on the air (88.7 FM) Mondays from 10:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. with early mountain music, and on Tuesdays from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. with a variety of country and traditional music. He has a large audience in both Kentucky and Virginia.

Alice J. Kinder, author of seven books, is a native of Pike County. Her "Mama" and "Papa" book series deals with the life of a family in Eastern Kentucky during the Great Depression. She will have two more biographical books, William C. Hambley: The Mayor Who Moved a Mountain, and Willie Boy, published later this year. Kinder's weekly column, "Mountain Roots", has been running in the Appalachian News-Express in Pikeville for over 11 years, and she has edited the "Mountain Scribbles" poetry column in the same newspaper for seven years. She has had over 200 stories, articles and poems published in religious, educational and agricultural periodicals.

Albert Stewart is considered by many critics to be the voice of Appalachian Poets. Having served as editor of Dark Unsleeping Land, a collection of writings by Kentuckians, and Deep Summer, stories and poems by Kentuckians, he became the founder of Appalachian Heritage. Stewart, who taught creative writing for over 20 years at the college level, has conducted 14 writers workshops at Morehead State University, Alice Lloyd College, and others. His book of poetry, The Untoward Hills, is considered a classic work on Appalachia, and he has published in magazines throughout America. Today he resides in a split-log house in his native

Kentucky.

Dr. Carolyn Clay Turner, professor of humanities at Prestonsburg Community College, and a descendant of "Devil" John Wright, was born in Coeburn, Virginia. She graduated from Clintwood High School, attended Western Kentucky University where she received a B.A. degree in English and History and the University of Kentucky where she received a Master of Arts degree in English. For her doctoral, which she received in 1987, she wrote a dissertation which investigated missionary efforts in the Big Sandy from 1889-1942.

McDowell Elementary 'Drowns' In Sea Of Red

In conjunction with beginning a "Champion Against Drugs" chapter, McDowell Elementary students participated in a state wide Red Ribbon Week campaign Oct. 23-27 in the fight for an anti-drug society.

Sunday afternoon, parent and teacher volunteers gathered in Kitty Frazier's room to make hundreds of ribbons.

Monday, a "red cap" day was held. Faculty, staff and students wore red caps to show support for a drug free society.

Tuesday, a "red apple" day was held. Students were given a red apple, also showing support for a drug-free society.

Wednesday was "red ribbon day."

Students placed ribbons on everything in McDowell.

Thursday, helium balloons were launched by the student body.

Friday, "red cake" day was held. Parents sent red cakes, cupcakes, and kool-aid.

In addition to special days, two speakers came. Karen Petry, a Pikeville Comprehensive Care Center representative gave anti-drug material to students participating in a Junior S.A.D.D. program. Trooper Ken Frost of the Pikeville Post showed a film and answered many questions on drugs.

McDowell considers its anti-drug campaign a huge success and urges all Floyd Countians to participate in anti-drug campaigns.

Students Create Volcanoes

Kathy Dings' seventh and eighth grade social studies class recently participated in a class project at Osborne Elementary. The students were put in groups of four and had to make home-made volcanoes that erupted. The students came up with several different ideas to make them. Some use clay, others used plaster of paris and there were many that were made from odds and ends. The volcanoes were displayed for a week to let other students and teachers see them. The final day was an explosive one, as each volcano had a chance to erupt.

Shelton, Hall Exchange Vows

Anita Sue Shelton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Shelton of Drift, and Anthony Wayne Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Hall of Hi Hat were united in marriage Saturday, Sept. 3, at the Drift Pentecostal Church.

The Rev. Ted Shannon performed the double-ring open church wedding. The ceremony was held under a bridal arch covered with white and royal blue carnations. The candelabra held six tapered white candles. Wedding music was provided by Erickson Vicher and Peggy Pack.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white satin. The sheer neckline was covered with pearls and sequins. The chapel length train was layered with lace and silk bows. The chapel length veil was trimmed in pearls and sequins. The bridal bouquet consisted of white carnations with royal blue streamers.

Debbie Shelton, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a tea length balloon-style dress of royal blue. She carried a long-stem white carnation with royal blue streamers.

Serving as bridesmaids were Stephanie Reid, niece of the bride, Tracey Marson, sister of the groom, and Sandra Ousley. Bridesmaids' dresses and bouquets matched that of the matron of honor's. Flower girls were Monica Reid and Alicia Shelton, nieces of the bride. They wore royal blue lace dresses.

of the bride, Joe Marson, brother-in-law of the groom, and Jeff Stumbo. The lighting of the candelabra was performed by Joe Marson and Jeff Stumbo. The ringbearer was Zachary Paul Kidd, nephew of the bride.

The bride's sister, Ramona Shelton assisted at the guest register. A reception followed at the Drift luncheon room. The four tiered staircase cake, with fountain, was decorated in royal blue and white.

Conley Retires

Floyd County native, Dalton Conley, after more than 21 years of service with the Department of Fish & Wildlife, is retiring Tuesday, Nov. 1. Conley has worked as a conservation officer in Floyd and surrounding counties since August 1967. Conley said he has enjoyed working with, and for the people of Floyd County and Eastern Kentucky, enforcing the fish and game laws of the Commonwealth. Conley said, "It is now time for me to move on to other endeavors and allow another Floyd countian to fill my position." For more information about the Department of Fish & Wildlife, contact the Frankfort office.

Mental Illness Group Formed

There are many myths about long-term mental illness, according to Barry Hamilton, program director of community rehabilitation and support centers.

There are many misconceptions, Hamilton said. Most of them come from television programs that don't deal with the realities of mental illness and notions are held over from the past, when people thought mentally ill people were possessed by demons.

However, according to the latest research, long-term mental illness can be linked to genetic and biochemical processes, he said.

These misconceptions can be dispelled by people working with a support group which centers around the New Hope Clubhouse in Dana.

Early this year, they formed the Mountain Consumers' Alliance Group, a group of long-term mentally ill people (consumers) who want to educate the public to dispell the myths and provide advocacy for their rights, according to Hamilton.

The clubhouse is a service of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center that provides a social support and educational setting for the people it serves, according to Don Trimble, club house supervisor.

The clubhouse is run by the clients who use it, Trimble said.

"We let them make decisions and we provide support when they make those decisions," he said.

The need is great for services like these.

Kentucky ranks 47 out of 50 in money spent per client with mental illnesses, Hamilton said. Kentucky spends $18.40 per capita, compared with the national average of $38.40 per capita.

The Consumers' Alliance has set about nine goals for the year, including to provide support for each other socially, to educate the public about the issues of the mentally ill and to advocate for changes in government policy, Hamilton said.

"They want to break down the barriers of stigma," he said.

The consumers are also wanting to expand their membership throughout Southeastern Kentucky and to publish a quarterly newsletter, he said. The group has applied for a grant to help fund these objectives.

The Mountain Consumers' Alliance Group is currently one of four of these type groups in the state, and the groups are planning to have their first state constitutional convention to develop bylaws and corporate standards for the state, Hamilton said.

They are having their next meeting Wednesday, Nov. 2, at 4:30 p.m., with guest speakers Bill Stewart, director for Protection and Advocacy for the Mentally Ill, and Glenda Castle, vice-president of the Kentucky Consumer Association. For more information, about the meeting call the New Hope Clubhouse at 478-2225.

Librarian Attends KLA Conference

Janie Jones, librarian at Wheelwright High School, attended the Kentucky Library Association Conference at Owensboro, Kentucky on Oct. 12-14.

The conference offered many exhibits and workshop sessions, plus the opportunity to hear guest speakers. One of this year's speakers was Robert Newlow Peck, a famous author.

Escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore an ivory silk tea-length gown with wedding-band neckline and illusion net yoke. The fitted bodice of satin was overlaid with handbeaded and sequined alecon lace, accented with seed pearls. The long-fitted sleeves were also adorned with handbeaded and sequined alecon lace. The bodice was a blouson-dropped torso of metallic rose lace, accented with rhinestone cluster. The mother of the groom chose a tea length gown of pale peach chiffon with satin detailing and cracked ice accents.

Shelly Kegley Caudill of Tacoma, Wash., was the mother of honor. The bridesmaids were Kim Krudler of Cincinnati, Ohio, Linda Greer of Pikeville; Tammie Ellis, sister of the groom, of Huntington, W. Va.; Tammy DeRossett of Prestonsburg; and Kathy Ellis, sister of the groom, of Proctorville, Ohio. They each carried armsprays of peach roses and carnations with satin ribbons. Their peach satin tea-length gowns were overlaid with peach lace, trimmed with pearls at the neck and the cuffs of the sleeves.

Beverly Coleman of the Unique Boutique served as wedding director.

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church fellowship hall. The hall was decorated with peach and ivory flowers by Judy Dye and Debbie Martin of Dye's Florist. The cake was a traditional ivory three-tiered wedding cake, separated by cherub posts and decorated with fresh peach roses. It was prepared by Marie Stevens of Langley.

Sherry Wagner, Shari Nelson and Nancy May, all of Pikeville served as reception hostesses.

Larry Craig Tackett Celebrates 9th Birthday With Recording Star

Larry Craig Tackett celebrated his ninth birthday Sept. 25 with a birthday party given in his honor at his home at Grethel.

He is the son of Larry and Flora (Thacker) Tackett of Grethel.

Larry was born with multiple handicaps, cerebral palsy, blindness, and other birth defects. As a result, he is confined to his bed and wheelchair at all times. To pass the time, he listens to country music and loves to hear Gary Stewart and Ricky Skaggs sing.

His one dream is to visit Nashville sometime and hear the singers in person. For this reason, a special birthday party was planned for Larry.

As a special surprise for his birthday, Larry's in-home trainer, Sandy Clemons of Mountain Comprehensive Care, Prestonsburg, arranged for Nashville songwriter and recording artist Gary Stewart to visit Larry on his birthday.

It was a birthday Larry will never forget. Stewart spent approximately two hours with him and sang "Happy Birthday" and other Stewart hits. Larry responded by trying to sing and smiling.

Stewart presented Larry with an autographed copy of his latest album, "Brand New." He also pulled off his "Nashville Network" tee-shirt and presented it to Larry as well. Sonny Tackett accompanied Stewart at the party and also gave Larry an autograph. Sonny has an original composition on Stewart's newest album.

Larry Craig is the grandson of Curt and Marie Tackett of Grethel. His maternal grandmother is Fayida Ray of Speight (Pike County).

Larry Craig and his parents would like to thank Sandy Clemons and Sonny Tackett for their efforts in making this birthday one they will never forget. Also, special thanks to Gary Stewart for going out of his way to make a very special little boy's dream come true.

Coffee Enhances Many Recipes

What better way to warm both body and soul during the brisk days of autumn than with a cup of fresh brewed coffee? However, there are other ways to enjoy coffee than in a mug.

Coffee, as a flavoring, can be incorporated into cakes, pies, sauces, mousses, ice creams, and even pastries. The delicious aroma of coffee make the desserts smell as good as they taste.

When cooking with coffee, instant—not freeze-dried—works best and, if brewed coffee is used, it is most effective when strong and concentrated.

Coffee was discovered around 1,300 years ago in Ethiopia. It was popularized in America after the Boston Tea Party and today, Americans consume approximately 450 million cups a day.

Two of the following recipes use coffee as an ingredient; the other recipes are a pleasant addition to a steaming cup of coffee.

COFFEE CHOUX PUFFS

Makes 10-12

- 1/4 cup butter
- 3/4 cup water
- 1/2 cup, plus 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 2 eggs, beaten

Filling

- 1 1/4 cups heavy cream
- Few drops vanilla extract
- 2 tablespoons superfine sugar

Frosting

- 1 cup confectioners' sugar
 - 1 teaspoon coffee extract
 - 2 tablespoons crushed almonds
- Place the butter and water in a small pan. Heat gently until the butter melts and bring to the boil. Add the flour all at once and beat, over the heat, for 2 minutes until the mixture comes away from the sides of the pan. Allow to cool slightly. Gradually beat in the eggs, adding just enough to give a fairly stiff, smooth glossy paste. Place in a large pastry bag fitted with a plain nozzle and pipe rounds the size of ping-pong balls onto greased baking sheets. Bake at 425°F for 20 to 25 minutes until very crisp and light. Cool on a wire rack.

To make the filling, whip the cream, vanilla and sugar until it stands in peaks. Split the puffs and fill them with the cream.

To make the frosting, blend the confectioners' sugar with the coffee extract and just enough water to make a thick glaze. Spread a little frosting over each puff. Allow to dry before packing in a rigid container. Chill before transporting.

Combine flour, baking powder, soda, salt, allspice, cinnamon and cloves. Add to creamed mixture alternately with sour cream. Mix just until blended. Combine lemon juice with prunes; add to batter. Turn into one buttered 9 x 5-inch or two 8 1/2 x 4 1/2-inch loaf pans. Bake 50 to 55 minutes or until a wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Remove from pan and cool completely on wire rack.

COTTAGE CHEESE FRUIT BREAD

- Yield: 1 large or 2 small loaves

Combine flour, baking powder, soda, salt, allspice, cinnamon and cloves. Add to creamed mixture alternately with sour cream. Mix just until blended. Combine lemon juice with prunes; add to batter. Turn into one buttered 9 x 5-inch or two 8 1/2 x 4 1/2-inch loaf pans. Bake 50 to 55 minutes or until a wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. - 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 3/4 teaspoon baking soda

- 3/4 cup graham-cracker crumbs
- 1 cup plus 1 1/2 tablespoons sugar
- 4 tablespoons unsalted butter, slightly softened
- 6 ounces semisweet chocolate chips
- 2 tablespoons heavy cream
- 1/2 pounds cream cheese
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1/2 cup prepared strong espresso coffee
- 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract

2. Melt the chocolate chips with the heavy cream over low heat; cool slightly.

3. Place the cream cheese in the bowl of an electric mixer; add 1 cup sugar and eggs and beat until smooth, creamy, and well blended.

Richard Crenna reprises New York detective role

'Internal Affairs' follows 'Doubletake'

By Mary Ann Townsend
Richard Crenna, just off the set from filming Rambo III, made a return to television for the filming of another role he thoroughly enjoys—that of New York City police detective Frank Janek.

Richard Crenna reprises his role as Det. Frank Janek in Internal Affairs, Sunday and Monday on CBS.

Like the Col. Trautman role he has played in all three Rambo films, the character of Janek is a reprisal as well, and will be seen in Internal Affairs, Sunday and Monday, Nov. 6 and 7, on CBS. Crenna played Janek in the 1985 miniseries Doubletake, about a bizarre murder in which the decapitated heads of two female victims were switched.

In Internal Affairs, Crenna's character is trying to uncover corruption in the police ranks that may be linked to the bizarre murder of a prostitute that is identical to the murder years before of a dancer in Vietnam.

"I love playing Janek again," Crenna said. "He's a very dedicated, professional cop—a wonderful mixture of idealism and realism—who understands the foibles of human nature and, at the same time, has great antipathy to people who don't give their 'all' to the force."

"I like him because there are a lot of levels to his personality," the actor continued. "He's vulnerable, tough, has humor and a wry way of looking at life and people, and can show a lot of authority."

Variety in a character is as important to the audience as variety in the actor, he said. On that score he believes he has found his niche.

"When you see my name in the cast, you don't know if I'm the heavy, the good guy, the father, the psychotic," he said. "If I were a producer, I would feel it a great advantage to put an actor into a role where the audience is not exactly assured of what they're going to see on screen.

"That's the joy of acting for me, I can do The Flamingo Kid and then turn around and play Col. Trautman. I don't know too many people who do that with a degree of believability. If I can play Plaza Suite with Carol Burnett and the next week play Ross Perot in On Wings of Eagles, I consider myself to be a very fortunate actor. My versatility is what has kept me alive."

Kate Capshaw stars in Internal Affairs as Janek's love interest, Joanna Gates, who becomes involved in the case when Janek is led to her Soho art gallery on a tip.

Also reprising roles from Doubletake are Cliff Gorman, as Janek's laid-back but dependable right-hand man Aaron Greenberg, and Lee Richardson, as Janek's former boss who was incarcerated after Janek's investigation in Doubletake. Gorman said he feels comfortable with the role and was able to add his own flair to the Greenberg character.

"Originally," he confides, "they wanted me in a three-piece suit. I said I wanted to be in the Hawaiians—they're distinctive. So in the second scripts, the directions said 'Aaron wearing Hawaiian shirts—as always.'"
