Hearing On Homeless Set Monday

Public hearings on homelessness and related issues in Eastern Kentucky will be held Monday, Dec. 5 in Prestonsburg at the senior citizens' center at Archer Park from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The hearings are being conducted by the Kentucky Advisory Council on the Homeless, an advisory body on state policy appointed by the governor.

The number of persons considered homeless in America has steadily increased since the beginning of this decade and current estimates indicate between 2 and 4 million people are homeless in this country. A great number of the homeless are families with children, according to Christian Appalachian Project officials.

"When we think of the homeless, we may only have images of large cities with derelicts lying on sidewalks and in doorways of abandoned buildings. A truer picture of those who have become homeless since 1980 would include young couples with children, as well as single parents and the elderly. Many of these people have lost jobs due to plant closings and layoffs. About one-third of the homeless have jobs, but do not make enough to pay high rents and other expenses; officials said.

Man Found Dead In Fire Debris

A Floyd County man was found dead in the remains of a camper trailer fire early Thanksgiving morning on Stratton Branch, according to Post 9 of the Kentucky State Police.

Teddy Goble Jr., of Stratton Branch, apparently died of smoke inhalation, according to Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson.

The state police responded to the fire at the Goble residence at 6:10 Thursday morning, officials said. Upon investigation, Goble was found and recovered by the Floyd County Emergency Rescue Squad after the Prestonsburg Fire Department sprayed the trailer remains with water to cool it down.

Goble's body was taken to Lexington for an autopsy and identification, officials said.

Preliminary reports indicate that Goble was filling a kerosene heater in the trailer when the fire started, officials said.

The case is under investigation by Troopers James Rederick and Barry McKenzie of the KSP.

Funeral services for Goble were held Saturday, Nov. 26, at 1 p.m., at Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home. Burial followed at the Fraley family cemetery at Stratton Branch.

County, School Taxes Due Soon, Says Sheriff Hale

County and school taxes can now be paid at the Sheriff's Office, according to Floyd County Sheriff Henry Hale.

A 2 percent discount will be in effect until Dec. 31; from that time until Jan. 31, face value must be paid. A 2 percent penalty will be charged from that date until Feb. 1, and a 10 percent penalty added from February to March 1.

Hale asks Floyd residents to bring or mail in tax bills when making payments, because the tax bill number is needed to provide faster service. If paying by mail, residents should enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope if they want a receipted copy of the tax bill.

Hall Pleads Guilty To Robbery Charges

Hassell Hall Jr. of Hi Hat pleaded guilty Monday to first degree robbery, and is awaiting sentencing.

According to court records, Hall was indicted by a grand jury in June for first degree robbery of Mi-Dee Mart at Lackey. He apparently threatened the use of physical force while armed with a pistol.

Hall was also charged with the first degree robbery of Super America by threatening the use of physical force while armed with a pistol, the plea for which he pleaded guilty Monday.

In addition, he faces two counts of wanton endangerment in the first degree in the alleged shooting of Mike Bentley and Richard Maggard in November 1987.

Patton Hearing Continues Tonight

by Anne Chaney
Editor

Although the hour was late, few of the spectators attending a due process hearing for Floyd County School Transportation Supervisor Ed Patton left, although the hearing did not recess until the wee hours of Thanksgiving morning.

Beginning at 7 p.m. and lasting until 1:30 a.m., the hearing recessed with testimony from only two witnesses, and will be continued tonight in the board's offices. The hearing is open to the public.

During last Wednesday's segment, Floyd School Board members and the audience heard lengthy testimony from Superintendent Ronald Hager concerning 17 complaints brought against the transportation supervisor.

More than 25 witnesses are expected to testify tonight in Patton's behalf.

Patton, who has been director of transportation in the 23-school district for nearly five years, is charged with insubordination, breaking state law, violating board policy and neglect of duty.

Patton's attorney, Ned Pillersdorf, has charged that the alleged violations are a pretext for the board's primary agenda—retaliation against Patton for supporting school board candidate Ricky Hamilton, rather than incumbent Dr. Mary Hall.

Pillersdorf asked at the outset of Wednesday's hearing that Hall be disqualified from participating, but his request was denied by hearing officer F.C. Brian of Mt. Sterling.

Among the most serious allegations against Patton are that he closed three schools on Thursday, Oct. 13, due to the teachers' "sickout", but that he has authority to close schools only in cases of inclement weather, and that he violated state law in purchasing items from vendors not on the district's approved bid list.

Pillersdorf said during Wednesday's hearing that Patton is being used as a scapegoat for the board's frustrations at the teachers' sickout.

In his opening statement, the attorney for the board, Paul Gordon of Francis and Kesse in Prestonsburg, recited the charges against Patton, and asked the board to "listen to all evidence for both sides, and make a fair and impartial decision."

Pillersdorf, much more lively in his opening remarks, stated, "This is a black day in the history of the Board of Education. I feel like it is a step back in time to a time when political retaliation was a way of life in this nation."

Pillersdorf added, "We have no illusions of what the decision tonight will be," and said the board was using the charges against Patton "to attempt to intimidate the teachers."

He said that prior evaluations of Patton's work had indicated the transportation director had done an outstanding job, cutting maintenance costs by more than half since he began his tenure as supervisor nearly five years ago.

Following are specific charges against Patton, and Hager's testimony. Patton is expected to testify in his own behalf tonight, and his comments will be published in next week's edition.

— That Patton submitted an out-of-district travel request to Hager to attend the Kentucky Association of Pupil Transportation supervisors meeting in Louisville Sept. 28 and 29. Hager said Patton later sent him a memo indicating he would be out of town Sept. 28-30, noting that his secretary could handle matters in his absence, and would know where to contact him at all times.

Hager testified that Patton did not submit an amended out-of-district travel request, and said that he improperly delegated his authority to his secretary, who was not qualified to serve as transportation director in Patton's absence.

Hager said he felt the secretary "was not qualified to act as superintendent for three days." Hager said while he did not doubt that Patton attended the seminar on the day in question, he should have filed an amended travel request.

— That Patton was asked to contact all bus drivers and contract personnel to complete proper bus and vehicle evacuation of students drills, according to a Sept. 12 memo. Patton was to have complied with the request and obtained the drivers' signatures by Sept. 30.

Hager testified that districts "have a tremendous liability in the

Practicing Extraction

While most of us were eating Thanksgiving leftovers and watching Sunday football, volunteer members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad were practicing auto extraction, a skill they said they would prefer to never use. ## Wayland Underground Blaze Continues To Plague Residents

About five years ago, a brush fire along Route 7 in Wayland triggered another fire that has been burning ever since, underneath the surface of the hill that hugs the curve of the road leading to Wayland Elementary and into the town.

The underground fire causes rocks and debris from the slope of the hill to loosen and fall into the road, and is causing additional problems about every two months, according to Sammy Bentley, Wayland Fire Chief. The smoke coming from cracks in the hill is an everyday reminder of the fire below.

Wayland officials are mainly concerned about the fire because of the school buses that travel the road every day, Bentley said.

If a rock came off and hit the school bus, there is the risk of 50-60 kids getting hurt, and the road is the only way for a school bus from Langley and Garrett to reach Wayland, Bentley said.

The town wants the fire to be put out, and according to Mayor Patricia Murphy, the city has approached Elkhorn Coal Corporation, which owns the mineral and property rights to the land, the state Highway Department, and state Representative Greg

Council Approves ABC Regulations

The Prestonsburg City Council approved an ordinance on regulations for the sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages at the regularly scheduled meeting Monday night.

The ordinance will combine the working of previous related ordinances, and contains stronger language about regulation and enforcement.

"We just wanted to get everything under one ordinance so we know where we stand, and put more teeth in it," said Larry Brown, city attorney and city Alcohol Beverage Commission administrator who drafted the ordinance.

An amendment added to the ordinance says that the licenses can no longer be reimbursed for license costs paid back against the liquor sales tax.

Mayor Latta said that in some cases, licensees were basically getting licenses free of charge. The monthly reimbursement will end Dec. 1. The new ordinance provides that 50 percent of the establishment's sales be food, and that at least lunch and dinner be served; that it have a minimum seating capacity of 100 with tables; and that records be provided showing that the preceding two requirements are met. There is also a basis for license denial by the city for previous violations or drug trafficking, and selling hours exclude Christmas, Election Day until after the polls close, Sundays, and that people must be off the premises at least one hour after closing.

The ordinance was passed by council members present, with councilman Paul Joseph abstaining.

The city council also passed an emergency amendment to a previous ordinance annexing the Holiday Inn into the city. There was previously no mention of ending boundaries in the ordinance. The closing boundary will go across U.S. 23 at the Holiday Inn and follow the right-of-way back to Prestonsburg Village where it begins.

A motion was passed to have the city attorney advise the owner of the Pelphrey Grocery building on South Lake Drive that the city may tear down the building and place a lean on the property because there was no action taken on a building permit.

An order was issued by the state Department of Housing to do something about the building, but was set aside when the permit was issued. Councilman Joseph opened the motion.

City manager Fred James reported that the city purchased three police cars for $6,100. A motion was passed by the council for the city manager to use the oldest of the cars purchased, and that car would also be used as a backup police car.

In other business, Mayor Latta announced that the city received the Appalachian Regional Commission's matching grant for the Main Street program.

Latta also reported that the state

Men, Juvenile Charged With Theft Following Routine Traffic Check

Two men and a juvenile were arrested Monday for theft when Prestonsburg police officers stopped a truck for a routine traffic check at Lancer, according to Officer Roy Roberts of the Prestonsburg Police Department.

Arrested were Roger Reed, 23, of Hueysville, Bobby Slone, 18, of Goble Roberts Addition and a juvenile.

The three were stopped by Officers Roberts and Gerald Clark on a routine traffic check and police officers found rolls of wire, oxygen and acetylene tanks and three switch boxes, he said.

Officers asked the men where they had gotten the equipment and they said they had taken it, without permission, from an abandoned coal tipple in Garrett, said Roberts.

The men were arrested but not held in custody, pending a pre-trial hearing.

Garrett Water Company Files With PSC For Proposed Rate Hike

Francis Water Company in Garrett recently proposed a 60 percent base rate increase for residential customers, and a 107 percent base rate increase for commercial customers.

The proposed increases, sent to the state Public Service Commission, are needed because of water treatment supply cost increases, customer account expense increases due to postal rates, depreciation, increases in labor, insurance and professional costs, and old lines that are in increasing need of repair.

If approved by the PSC, residents will see base rates (0 to 1,000 gallons) increase from $7.25 to $11.60, or 60 percent; additional water rates (1,001 to 22,000 gallons) will increase approximately 25 percent.

Commercial customers, currently charged $7.25 for up to 1,000 gallons of water, will see their base rate rise 107 percent, to $15. Additional water use up to 22,000 gallons will reflect a 25 percent increase over previous rates, if the proposal is approved.

Tipple operators using up to 60,000 gallons of water face a 69 percent rate increase, from $75.25 to $127.50; additional costs, previously $1 per 1,000 gallons, may increase to $1.25 per 1,000 gallons.

The PSC may order rates to be charged different from the company's proposed rates, and a public hearing, if requested by residents, may be held.

Bill Calhoun Dies Of Gunshot Wound

A Floyd County man died from a gunshot wound Tuesday afternoon, according to Sheriff Henry Hale.

Bill Calhoun, 55, of Bull Creek, was found around 2:30 p.m. in a toolshed at his residence, Hale said.

The shooting remains under investigation by the Pikeville Post of the Kentucky State Police. No further information was available as of presstime.

Emma Lou Martin of Prestonsburg was recently elected vice-president of the Kentucky Association of Right of Way Agents.

The election came at the organization's 10th annual general meeting in Lexington recently.

The luncheon speaker was Tom P. Mason, director of the Kentucky Division of Right of Way.

Martin is employed by the Transportation Cabinet, District 12 in Pikeville, as a right of way agent.

Also elected were Clem Russell of Louisville, president; Thurston Freeman of Frankfort, secretary; and Jim Lechleiter of Louisville, treasurer.

Stumbo and Senator Benny Ray Bailey.

"We've gone every avenue we know to go," Murphy said.

The state Department of Transportation examined the site and contacted the U.S. Office of Surface Mining in Pittsburgh because it fell under their jurisdiction, according to Denton Biliter, Chief District Engineer for the Department of Transportation.

It is a difficult fire because it is located over the road, said Frank Delzer, director of engineering at Elkhorn Coal. Both Elkhorn Coal and the Office of Surface Mining have examined the situation to see how to put it out.

Last Thursday, Elkhorn made its first attempt to extinguish the underground fire. They used high pressure water hoses to wash down the loose material from the slope and then planned to shoot fire fighting foam into the hill to suffocate the fire, Delzer said.

Workers were unable to remove the debris and successfully extinguish the fire, but Tuesday a crane was brought in to pull the debris off the hill.

If Elkhorn Coal's attempts fail, the OSM will try its hand, according to Jim Kennedy of the OSM office in Pittsburgh.

OSM has looked at the situation, considers it an emergency, and can allocate funds to extinguish the fire, Kennedy said.

If Elkhorn Coal is unsuccessful, in putting out the fire, OSM has formulated a plan and will implement it, he said.

Although Elkhorn Coal is working to put out the fire, Mayor Murphy has reservations about their efforts.

"We have worked, struggled, written and when people are willing to do something about it, Elkhorn steps in," Murphy said.

"Everytime we get something started Elkhorn steps in, she said. "But they have never done anything for the community itself."

City Council (Continued From Page 1)

Highway Department is attempting to get funds to fix the sinking section of road between the State Twin Theatre and the Big Sandy Area Development District office and that they will continue to patch the hole in front of city hall until permanent repairs can be made.

In other council business: —The public works superintendent, city manager and the council building and equipment committee will meet to assess needs for the city's public works trucks.

—ABC Administrator Larry Brown announced that he approved the Holiday Inn's retail liquor license application for selling liquor by the drink. The application is now in the process of being approved by the state Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

untold millions of dollars" if personnel are not properly instructed in evacuating students from busses. Hager said that while he has received some drivers' signatures, he has not received all of them.

Pillersdorf contended that Patton had sent a memo to personnel at each school requesting bus drivers be contacted and the drills performed, and that the responsibility was with school administrators to comply with the request.

— That Patton changed two afternoon bus runs on Aug. 23 without prior notice to students and parents, causing confusion and concern among parents.

Hager, under questioning from Pillersdorf, conceded that the changes were made to relieve bus overcrowding, which is against state law.

"At no time do we want a school bus to be overloaded," said Hager, "and traditionally, we have problems at the beginning of school. . . . But we got calls from parents wondering where their children were, and it caused quite a bit of concern from the parents, and quite a bit of concern for the students."

Hager said he "couldn't condone one or the other action — the overcrowding, or changing schedules without proper notification."

Following a short recess, Pillersdorf was allowed to call Judge Harold Stumbo as a witness for Patton. Stumbo testified that he has known Patton for several years, and that he has good integrity, is well-respected in the community, and has a good reputation.

— That Patton caused the district to lose average daily attendance (ADA) funds when students in the Camp Branch area of Tram were not provided with transportation on four occasions.

Pillersdorf contended that the regular bus driver had been ill, and that a substitute driver had forgotten to pick up a copy of the schedule and thus missed the Camp Branch students.

— That Patton, without proper authority, called off school at Wayland Elementary, Osborne Elementary and Martin Elementary on Thursday, Oct. 13, without Hager's consent.

Hager testified that Patton is allowed to call school off only in cases of inclement weather, and said the district had lost a substantial amount of ADA funds due to Patton's actions. Hager said the transportation supervisor's job description does not authorize cancellation of school for any reason other than inclement weather.

Pillersdorf contended that Patton had acted in the interests of the safety and welfare of students. He asked Hager if principals had called him and told him they would not have adequate staff to properly supervise students; Hager said the principals had not. He also testified that the students who attended school did have adequate supervision.

Hager denied that Patton is being used as a scapegoat by the board for the sickout, or that the hearing was meant to send a message, as Pillersdorf contended.

At Wayland, Pillersdorf said, 230 students arrived for school and only two teachers were available to supervise them. Hager said the principal did call and express concern, but that the principal was told to have the students come to school, then be taken home if insufficient staff was available.

— That Patton did not comply with a directive issued by Hager on Friday, Oct. 14 to contact all transportation personnel and have them sign a memo, and return all signatures to Hager's home by 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 16.

Hager testified that at the board meeting the afternoon of Oct. 14 (school was dismissed for an in-service day), he asked Patton to contact all transportation employees to have them sign a memo, but directed Patton not to air the request on local radio stations.

Hager said that while Patton did obtain more than 80 percent of the signatures between Friday and Sunday afternoon — approximately 65 — he did not obtain all of them.

The superintendent conceded that he complimented Patton for the number of signatures he did obtain, but pointed out that he did not tell the transportation supervisor he couldn't have his employees assist him in collecting all signatures.

Pillersdorf asked Hager if he felt it was reasonable to compliment Patton for the signatures he obtained, and use the 20 percent he did not as grounds for dismissal.

"I think that's reasonable," said Hager. "I've seen basketball players play a good game and not win."

— That Patton did not provide proper transportation schedules for regular, substitute and contract drivers, causing students to be late for school and not comply with the six-hour instructional day. Students not being permitted or afforded the normal instructional day are those in the exceptional children's program at Prestonsburg and Clark elementary schools, Camp Branch students, and Dwale students who ride bus No. 40.

— That Patton allowed his personnel to purchase two dozen Dry-Out products for $78 per dozen, when the approved bid price was $56.70 per dozen, resulting in a total overcharge to the district of $43.

Pillersdorf pointed out that Patton oversees a $1.3 million budget annually, including $123,000 for parts and maintenance. Hager responded that there are no exceptions to board policy, unless specifically authorized by the board.

— That Patton violated state law by allowing the purchase of Grease-It from Share Corporation, when the bid for that product had been awarded to Preferred Products.

— That Patton improperly purchased car wash soap from Robin Carlson Co. when the bid had been awarded to Share Corporation, resulting in an expenditure of $2,489 above the Robin Carlson bid.

— That Patton purchased materials and supplies in excess of $7,500 without proper newspaper advertisement for bids.

— That Patton allowed the purchase of batteries from Taylor Battery East, Inc., when bids had been awarded to Morris Supply Company and Tri-State Electrical Company.

— That Patton did not ensure all students in the district have been taught a course in bus safety at their respective schools. Bus safety has not been taught at Betsy Layne High School, Wheelwright High School and Allen Central High School, Hager said.

— That Patton, by attempting to close schools for reasons other than inclement weather, violated state law.

Letters To The Editor

Auditor Commends Floyd Fiscal Court

Dear Editor:
As auditor of public accounts, part of my job is to inform the taxpayers of Kentucky just how their money is being managed.

I recently delivered the audit of the Floyd County Fiscal Court for the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1987. I commended the court for its investment and management programs.

As you know, the Federal Revenue Sharing program has been discontinued and, consequently, many local governments are struggling to maintain essential services for their citizens.

The Floyd County Fiscal Court has wisely invested your money to earn interest to offset this loss. Additionally, the court has been successful in obtaining federal grants for community improvement projects.

Also, the county jail was self-sufficient for the year reflected in the audit, a fact that is unusual in many Kentucky counties.

I want to compliment Judge/Executive John M. Stumbo, Treasurer David Allen, Sheriff Henry C. Hale and Magistrates Gerald DeRossett, Ermal Tackett, Edward Caudell and Jackie Owens for their fine job on your behalf.

I am pleased to report that the officials of Floyd County are doing a fine job for you and the citizens of the county.

Sincerely,
Bob Babbage
State Auditor

U.S. SENATOR FOR KENTUCKY

MONEY LAUNDERING AMENDMENT WILL BECOME MAJOR TOOL FOR DRUG INVESTIGATORS

Drug abuse was one of the biggest issues in this year's election campaign. At all levels of government, candidates for office voiced their concern and outlined plans for battling the problems of the drug crisis. In the closing hours of the last session of Congress, a drug bill was passed, the Omnibus Drug Bill, which contained an amendment I coauthored with Senator John Kerry of Massachusetts that will slam the door on drug dealers seeking to launder their money through foreign banks with branches in the U.S.

Right now, American banks must record cash transactions over $10,000. To avoid any such record, drug dealers smuggle their cash out of the U.S., deposit it in foreign banks that are protected by secrecy laws, then electronically transfer the funds back into American accounts. Our amendment, called the International Money Laundering Control Act, cuts right to the heart of this problem by denying drug lords the chance to exploit foreign bank secrecy laws to cover their narcotic tracks.

The amendment requires all foreign financial institutions with any ties to the U.S. to cooperate with U.S. and international law enforcement agencies seeking records of suspected international drug dealers' cash transactions. The banks would be required to:

—maintain records of all cash transactions in U.S. dollars of $10,000 or more;

and
—obtain from each person making the transaction some form of personal identification and a document stating the source of the funds being deposited or transferred.

This legislation will be especially effective because it plugs a huge loophole that narcotics kingpins use to secretly turn their drug money into legitimate cash. They will no longer be able to deposit their illegally earned drug cash in foreign banks and then electronically transfer the money back into the U.S. system without leaving a "paper trail" that investigators can follow to trace suspected drug money.

Seminar Leads To Dropout Prevention Ideas

Ideas from county leaders, teachers and parents flowed during the three-hour Floyd County Dropout Prevention Conference held Thursday, Nov. 17.

The conference was sponsored jointly by the Floyd County Education Forum and local Board of Education.

"This is a working conference to establish recommendations and ideas for us to decrease the dropout problem in Floyd County," said Dani Smith, STAY coordinator and co-chair of the conference.

STAY (Students, Teachers and You) is a program of the Forum, funded by the Appalachian Regional Commission, to help the school system, Smith said.

"Let's say this is just a beginning," said conference co-chair Pete Grigsby Jr., who is also administrative assistant to the superintendent of schools.

"I feel very positive about the conference," Smith said. "People really want to change things."

The committees generated ideas for public awareness, a homework hotline, career planning, eighth grade orientation and attendance incentives, and presented the results to the conference attendees. The recommendations will also be presented to the school board.

In the area of public awareness, the following recommendations were made:

- Establish a community message about the importance of education: "We Care. Do You?"
- Educate teachers and counselors about services available to solve immediate crisis situations that prevent children from attending school (health or emotional problems, lack of appropriate clothing, materials, etc.).

- Use various media to let students know someone cares, and have appropriate follow-up to see necessary action is taken.
- Utilize parent and community volunteers in schools to provide additional individual attention for students and allow educators more time to teach.
- Have television, radio and print media donate public service announcements to educate the community about the importance of graduating from high school.
- Have the board fund additional home-visit positions, and use increased average daily attendance funds received by the district from increased enrollment to fund the positions.

In establishing a homework hotline, which would be a telephone number students could call to get assistance with doing homework, the following plans were made:

- Establish two locations for the hotline in the Prestonsburg board of education offices and at Wheelwright High School.
- The hotline would be open Monday through Thursday for two and a half hours each evening.
- Volunteers to work the hotline would possibly be students, substitute or retired teachers, and there would be teachers on call as backups for specific subject matter questions.

In the area of career planning, the following recommendations were made:

- Have career counseling and a community group plan a comprehensive career day for each school.
- Review each school's curriculum to incorporate professionals into classes at appropriate times.
- Establish a mentoring program through which students interested in a particular field can learn about that field through a "mentor" in the profession.
- Have the school board designate a supervisor for the county's vocational programs. (There is presently no single supervisor for vocational education.)
- Have every eighth grade student in the county be involved in vocational assessment.
- Develop a media display of careers using recognizable places in the county.
- Change the term "vocational" where it is used in designating a school or course, possibly to "career development."

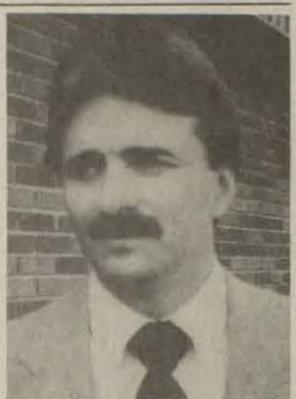

- Promote a general acceptance of having a high school diploma or GED as a requirement for employment in the area.
- Develop industrial arts classes in every county high school.
- For developing orientation programs for eighth grade students, the committee members felt the programs should be ongoing, and the following recommendations were made:
  - Help students develop and improve study skills.
  - Develop a student support organization that helps potential dropouts.
  - Have a better balance and understanding of teaching in the eighth and ninth grades, possibly by exchanging ideas between teachers, and exchanging faculty.

- Develop a nurturing attitude of the faculty towards students, especially in the high schools.
- In the area of attendance incentives, the committee said that about $1 million is lost each year by the local district because of student absenteeism. Recommendations made were:
  - Determine if there is a correlation between student and teacher absenteeism.
  - Put informational brochures in mailings so that parents will be informed about the importance of school attendance.
  - Develop a community television program about the importance of school attendance.
  - Make known the concern for fining and punishing truant students.

Prevention Meeting

Roger Recktenwald, chairperson of the Career Planning committee, presented the committee's recommendations to the group at the Floyd County Dropout Prevention Conference Thursday night.

Dr. Denver (Dicky) Tackett of McDowell recently completed a 2-year continuing education program in orthodontics. The course was offered under the auspices of the United States Dental Institute. Dr. Tackett is a family dentist located in the Bestway Shopping Center in McDowell. Members of his staff are Nedra Slone, Sandra Holt, and Cathi Tackett.

Religious Viewpoints

By Gary Shepherd
Zebulon Baptist Church

When the weight and burden of sin began to rest upon the Lord Jesus Christ, His soul was "exceeding sorrowful unto death." In His agony, He sweat "as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground." He did so because the iniquity of those whom He represented was being laid upon His perfection. "He who knew no sin" was being "made sin for us that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him." As He bore the sins of His people in His own body on the tree, He did so as their Substitute taking their place before the justice of God. The death that sin brings and the separation from God it produces brought forth the cry, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" Sin was foreign to Him, foul to Him and filthy to Him!

But our sin is not such to us. We have never known anything but sin!

We were born in sin and shapen in iniquity so the scripture says. Sin is our nature. A child does not have to be taught to do wrong, he does so by nature. We choose sin, practice sin and excuse sin. We can laugh, work, play and even pretend to worship God in our sin. How shall we be delivered from this deadly immunity to any real sense of the sinfulness of sin? How shall we know it for what it is that we might seek a remedy?

First of all, the word of God teaches us about sin. You do not find out the condition of the sinner by what God commands him to do but by what God says that he is. The "wages of sin is death and all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." All die therefore all are sinners! The instruction of scripture is that sin is the transgression of the law of God. It is against God Himself! There is no little sin because there is no little God to sin against. He cannot look upon sin, excuse it and must surely punish it. He is both Holy and Just. Hear the word of God and believe what it says about sin.

Secondly, we know sin for what it is when the Spirit of God quickens and gives us spiritual life. The eye of the newly begotten life and nature beholds sin and shrieks with horror at the sight of it. Like the victim of an auto crash awaking out of a coma and seeing his crushed and disfigured body as it is, the sinner only now sees what he has been for a long time. The spiritual ear hears it as a curse toward God. Our heart is broken at the thought of it. The life of God within us makes us to view sin for what it is—an attempt to defile and dethrone the Holy God!

Then, most vividly and completely, we see sin as God sees it when we behold the cross of Christ. Why does the perfect Son of God suffer there? Sin! Why does God turn His back on Him? Sin! Why does He die there? Sin! Oh my soul, it is MY SIN that requires the Just God to unleash the wrath of divine justice upon Him. He stands in my place and that is my just due. My sin, oh it is exceedingly sinful!

Dear friend, though we may not have known it or realized it or wanted to admit it before—this is what we are—SIN! This is what sin merits, death, eternal death! May we, who are such sinners as this, run to Him who is the Friend and Saviour of sinners. Let us fall at His feet and plead as beggars for mercy and grace. Let us confess our sin and cast ourselves beneath the "fountain filled with blood drawn from Emmanuel's veins." For the most wretched sinner who does this shall "lose all his guilty stains." Such great sinners as we are must have such a Great Saviour as He is! The Lord Jesus Christ hat "appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself."

Music Wins 'Cold Turkey' Contest

Our Lady of the Way Hospital's social worker, Toby Music, won a frozen turkey in the hospital's "cold turkey" contest held as part of the facility's Great American Smokeout observance. Ninety employees participated. Nine employees who smoke quit smoking for the day. Twelve employees gave up something "in sympathy" for the "quitters." Nine employees "adopted" a smoker who quit for the day. Music is shown receiving a turkey from employee health nurse Judy Hamm.

Floyd Doctor's Negligence Suit Resolved

A Pike Circuit Court jury awarded the estate of a Johnson County man over $990,000 in damages on Friday, Nov. 18.

The decedent, Robert Conn, died

June 11, 1986, following a tonsillectomy on June 5. The suit alleged negligence on the part of Dr. Syed Ikramuddin of Prestonsburg in performing the operation and in his postoperative care of Conn.

Gary C. Johnson, of the Pikeville firm of Johnson, Vanover and Hall, was lead counsel on behalf of Conn's estate in the week-long trial. Johnson stated, "The trust Robert Conn placed in his doctor was breached. As a result, he died. The jury's verdict in this case serves notice that such conduct is not acceptable in our community. I believe this verdict will save many lives in the future."

Conn, a native of Freeburn in Pike

County, was survived by his wife, Janet, and three children, David, Robin, and Stacy. The unanimous jury verdict awarded Conn's estate $792,650 for medical and funeral expenses, pain and suffering, and the destruction of Conn's ability to earn money. In addition, Janet Conn was awarded $200,000 for her loss of the comfort and companionship of her husband.

Dr. Ikramuddin was represented by J. K. Wells of Paintsville.

Couple Indicted For 2nd Degree Forgery

Floyd County Grand Jury indictments recently included 14 counts against Stanley and Serena Kidd. Seven counts for second degree forgery and seven for theft by deception.

Grand jury indictments indicate only that sufficient evidence exists to proceed with trial; they do not indicate innocence or guilt.

According to the indictments, the couple allegedly forged the name of Priscilla Mullins on a check for $120.36 at Wal-Mart in Prestonsburg on Dec. 17, 1987. They reportedly used the name of Diana L. Alley on checks presented at Wal-Mart, Jan. 29, for $100, $217.85, and $260.80.

A forged check with Diana Alley's name was also presented to Winn-Dixie store in Prestonsburg Village, for $124.63 on Jan. 29.

National Sales Director

Joe Allen of Coon Creek in Pike County is now national sales director for A.L. Williams. Allen began with only his GED but is now high up in the insurance company. A.L. Williams, a marketing company, held a mini-convention at Jenny Wiley State Park last weekend. Over 250 people from the Tri-State area attended the training session.

Local ARDF Receives $18,500 Grant

The Appalachian Research and Defense Fund in Prestonsburg recently received a grant for $18,500 from Interest on Lawyer's Trust Accounts (IOLTA), according to John Rosenberg, director.

The first round of IOLTA grants in the Seventh Judicial District of Kentucky were disbursed recently at the grant award press conference held in Ashland.

The grant will be used to coordinate pro bono (for the public good) programs, in which private attorneys donate services to the poor who need legal aid.

IOLTA was created in 1986 to raise funds by having attorneys' escrow or trust accounts draw interest payable into the Central Fund administered by the IOLTA Board, and to then disburse the funds upon application, recommendation by the board and approval by the Supreme Court. The escrow or trust accounts maintained by attorneys are to segregate and safe-keep funds of clients held either in small amounts or held for short periods of time, such as in real estate closings, or advance payment of court costs or in case settlements. Before IOLTA, such accounts were almost always checking accounts with no ability to draw interest.

Grants are available for the purposes of legal aid to the poor, student loans and to improve the justice system.

ARDF will use its grant of $18,500 from the Kentucky Bar Association IOLTA Fund to employ a full-time coordinator for the pro bono attorney program, he said. The coordinator will be responsible for working with local bar associations in the ARDF's 37-county service area to recruit private attorneys and promote the development of the pro bono attorney program, he said.

Participating attorneys in a pro bono program agree to provide free services to low-income clients in three to four civil cases a year, and to give approximately 30 hours of their time without charge in that representation. Pro bono programs already exist in Louisville, Lexington, and Covington, and in other locations throughout the country.

Typically, said Rosenberg, these programs are joint efforts between local bar associations and federally funded legal services organizations. Due to funding reductions and staff losses, the legal services organizations, such as ARDF, are not able to meet the demand for their services.

Prestonsburg Native Cited By Berea College

Carl G. Ford, retired associate professor of education at Berea College, has received the Award of Special Merit from the Berea College Alumni Association.

The Prestonsburg native, who was cited for faithful service and devotion to the college, was presented the award Nov. 19 at the Alumni Association's 1988 Homecoming activities. The award is given to outstanding Berea alumni who have been employed by the college.

Ford, a 1934 Berea alumnus, retired from the college in 1978 after 23 years of teaching. He became director of elementary education in 1962 and was named an associate professor of education in 1968.

Since 1945, when Kentucky required all elementary teachers to have a bachelor's degree, Berea has graduated 676 elementary education majors. More than half of those majors—356—were supervised by Ford.

In addition to his Berea service, Ford was a visiting professor for seven summers at Eastern Kentucky University, taught one summer at the University of Kentucky and served four summers with the Kentucky River Foothills Development Council—three of which he was director of the Headstart Program. He also served another summer as a teacher and assistant director of the National Teacher Corps at Berea.

He is a former Prestonsburg High School teacher and served as principal of Prestonsburg Elementary and Junior High School and Weeks-bury Consolidated School.

Ford has a master's degree from the University of Kentucky in educational administration, and has 28 additional graduate hours beyond the masters on child growth and development from UK and the University of Maryland. He is a member of the Lion's Club, the National and Kentucky Education Associations and has been listed in Who's Who in American Education, Who's Who in the South and Southwest and Men of Achievement.

He is also chairman of the Disaster Committee of the Berea Chapter of the American Red Cross and an elder of Berea's First Christian Church.

A past president of the Big Sandy Berea Alumni Chapter, he has been an Alumni Association class (fund-raising) agent for more than 30 years, a class reunion chairman and is a member and committee member of the Second Century Club—a leading fund-raising organization of the association.

Ford is married to the former Ruby Robinson of Berea, has a son and two grandchildren. He is the son of the late Carl Ford and Grace Dingus Ford, also of Prestonsburg.

Lady 'Cats Record 79-39 Win On Road

Senior Karen Frasure and sophomore teammate Kathy Slone led the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats to a 79-39 stampede over the Millard Mustangs in an away game Monday night.

"Karen was an outstanding leader," said Coach Bridgett Clay of Frasure's performance. The 5'9" guard and forward hit nine from the floor and six of eight at the line to lead all scorers with 24 points. Slone, a 5'7" guard and forward, followed with 11 from the field for 22 points.

Prestonsburg jumped out to a 14-4 lead over the Lady Mustangs, and scoring did not let up the rest of the game, despite Clay's playing all members of the squad.

"It was our first game, and we started out a little shaky," noted the Prestonsburg alumnus. "Overall, they looked like they are starting to put things together. Karen lead really well, and made some outstanding passes."

Clay added that the squad played "team ball," noting, "if they do that all year, we'll be in good shape."

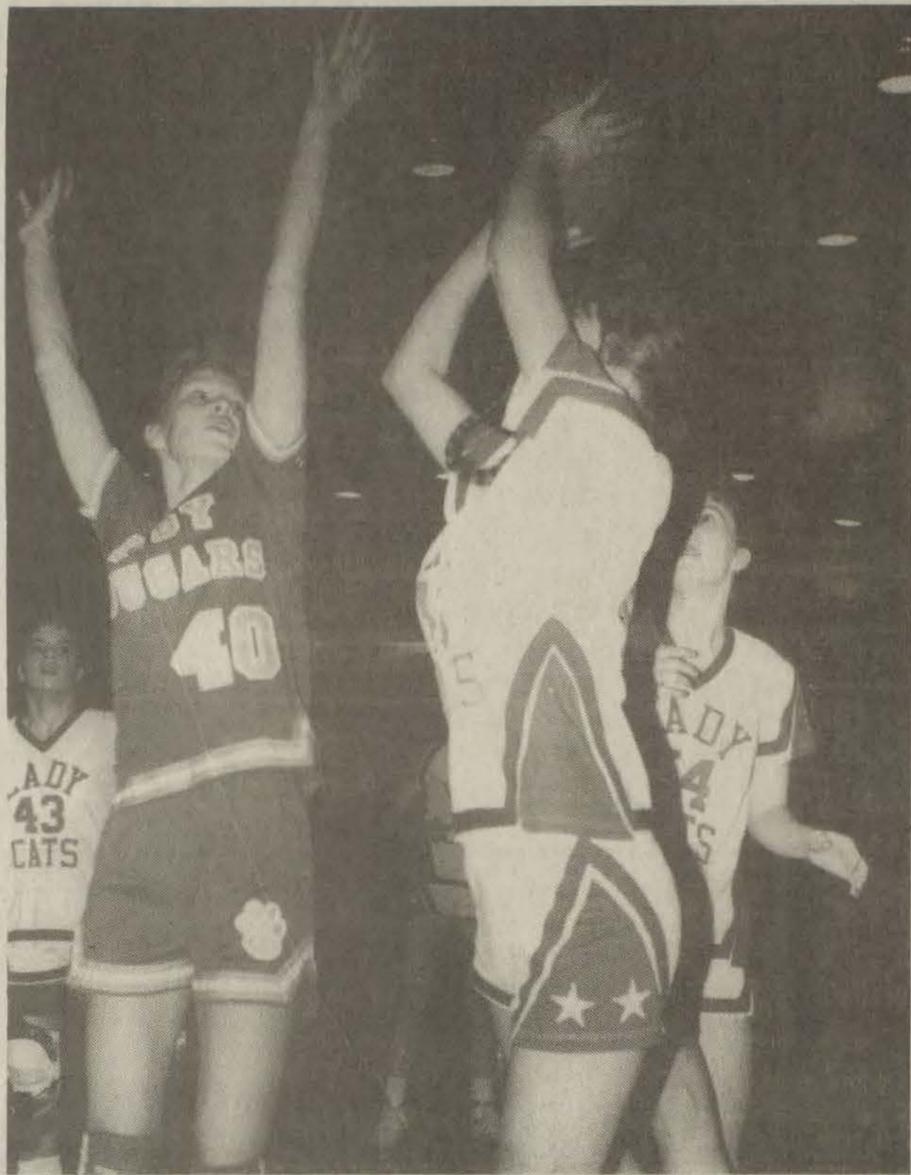

The Lady Blackcats outscored Millard 19-11 in the second frame to take a 33-15 lead, and blasted the home team 26-8 in the third to put the game out of reach. Their 59-22 lead going into the final frame prompted Clay to continue playing the bench, which earned 20 points and held Millard to 16 for the final 79-39 win.

"We got out of the break real well," said Clay. "Unselfish play would be the characteristic of this team right now."

The non-conference win begins the Lady Blackcats' season at the 1-0 mark, and the squad will travel to Lawrence County Thursday for a 7:30 p.m. varsity game.

Clay noted after the Monday win that free throw shooting may be one of the squad's greatest bonuses: 76

County Teams Win In Panorama

Both Floyd County men's teams emerged victorious from the Betsy Layne Panorama Wednesday, as the host Bobcats picked up a 62-42 win over Phelps, and Prestonsburg slipped past Virgie, 63-56.

Nearly all Bobcats seeing game time Wednesday also saw their names on the scoreboard, with 12 players earning points for their team; Keith Hall led as the only player in double figures, with 15 points.

For Phelps, two players — Ronnie Blankenship, with 10, and Robbie Baker, with 11 — broke the two-digit mark.

Coach William Newsome's Bobcats jumped out to an early lead, prompted by two 3-pointers from Hall and even scoring from four of the five starters. Leading 18-9 heading into the second frame, Phelps recovered somewhat, but still fell short 32-20 at the half.

Betsy Layne again blasted the Hornets in the third of four seven-minute periods, scoring 16 points and holding Phelps to only six. Hall and teammate Steve Parsons contributed six apiece to account for 12 of the team's 16 points in the frame.

In the final period, Phelps continued to play its starters, and outscored Betsy Layne by two, but the effort was not enough to erase the earlier deficit, and the Hornets were sent home with a 62-42 loss.

Both teams hit 60 percent from the line, with both squads converting six of 10 attempts.

Mullins Helps McDowell Earn Two-Point Victory

McDowell senior Gloria Mullins hit eight of 14 attempts from the line Monday night, and while that 57 percent effort wasn't spectacular in itself, the timing of the last six couldn't have been better.

With a minute and a half remaining in McDowell's see-saw contest against Paintsville on the road, Mullins hit four consecutive free throws to pull her team ahead by a pair of points: two shots for a foul, and two brought on by a Paintsville technical.

Trading baskets until only nine seconds remained, McDowell controlled the ball and had brought it the length of the court when Mullins was fouled once again; once again, she hit both ends with :03 remaining in the contest to upstage the host team, 48-46.

"Gloria did a great job," complimented first-year coach Cassandra Keathley; the 5'4" guard also led her team in scoring, hitting four from the floor and eight from the line for 16 points. Teammates Lori Bryant and Tish Slone also broke into double figures, with 15 and 11 points respectively; Priscilla Crawford added four.

For Paintsville, the big news was percent from the line against Belfry in a panorama contest, and 11 of 17 for 65 percent against Millard Monday.

"We do need to be more patient on the offensive end; if we can get out of the transition and play good defense, I think we'll stay with most of the teams we play. Our defense looked good," she added.

Although rebounding appeared to be a question mark for the Lady Blackcats when the season began, the squad hauled down several balls from the board against Millard Monday, providing themselves with second shot opportunities.

"Karen and Michelle (Clemmons) did a great job," Clay said of the rebounding effort. "In the second half, the kids really kept Millard off the boards and didn't give them any second shots. The bench played well, too, and did a really good job."

Clay also complimented eighth-grade guard Carolyn Reffitt, who sent five field goals through the net for 10 points, and Stephanie Allen, a 5'10" sophomore center, saying Allen "did a good job in the middle."

"TAXPAYERS COURT"

I apologize to Mr. Eddie Patton (Director of Transportation for the Floyd County School System) for the trouble my campaign for school board member has caused him. I want to thank Mr. Patton for the concern he showed for our children when he chose to support me. We didn't realize that by trying to help the children in the Floyd County School System we would be stepping on toes of the School Board and present administration.

I regret the fact that Superintendent Hager is trying to fire Mr. Patton for having what the state refers to as a model transportation department. Mr. Patton supported me to the end and I intend to do the same for him.

I ask my friends and supporters to join me at the "public" hearing on Wed. Nov. 30th at 6:00 p.m. in the Floyd County Board of Education Building to watch this terrible injustice in the making. Don't feel threatened! Let's show the Board that Mr. Patton has our support.

Prestonsburg's Thomas Nairn takes the ball in the paint against Virgie Wednesday. The Eagles fell to the Blackcats, 63-56, in the BLHS Panorama contest.

Glenna VanHoose: "She was unstoppable," said Keathley. VanHoose hit 15 from the floor and one of two at the line to lead all scorers on the night with 31 points.

In Monday night's game, Paintsville managed to squeeze out an 8-7 lead by the close of the first period, but the Lady Daredevils fought back and returned the favor, leading 21-20 at the half.

"After the half, they got out to an early six-point lead," Keathley said of Paintsville. "We cut it back down, then they went back up, and we cut it back down again."

At the third quarter buzzer, Paintsville had managed to squeeze out a four-point lead, 35-31, and the two teams continued to trade baskets throughout the fourth until Mullins' free throws broke the momentum in McDowell's favor.

The win marked the Lady Daredevils' fourth game of the season, bringing their overall record to an even 2-2.

"Offensively, we haven't been shooting well from the field," said Keathley. "We had been shooting about 20 percent, and this is the first time we've been able to get it up to 35 percent."

Keathley said the squad's free throw percentages are continuing to improve, while turnovers are on the decrease.

"Our defense is improving, too. We've been holding most teams to under 50 points per game; the most anyone has scored against us has been 53. We're doing well with our free throws, rebounding, and we're playing good defense.

"Our field goal percentage is what has killed us," she continued. "Hopefully, that will fall in place in time, when they get a few more games under their belts."

The Lady Daredevils will next see action when the junior varsity and varsity teams host Johns Creek Monday, with action beginning at 6:30 and 8 p.m. respectively. McDowell will again be the host team Tuesday, when they open their conference season with a 6:30 p.m. game against Prestonsburg.

McDOWELL 7-14-10-17 (48): Gloria Mullins, 4-0 8 16; Tish Stone, 5-0 1 11; Lori Bryant, 6-0 3 15; Priscilla Crawford 1-0 2 4.

The Blackcats garnered an early lead over the Virgie five, scoring 15 points and holding the opponent to eight. In the second period, Virgie initiated a rally that would last into the fourth period. Eagle Freddie Bowling sent six points through the net in the period, helped by four each from teammates Bryan Johnson and Ray Hall, and Virgie eventually tallied 18 points in the seven-minute period. Prestonsburg earned 13 points, but was able to hang on to a slim 28-26 lead at intermission.

Virgie continued to score in the third period, with Bowling hitting four of six attempts at the line and Hall contributing five points to knot the score at 41 apiece heading into the final frame. Prestonsburg, playing its bench, managed to stay with the Eagles in the third, helped by four points each from Kevin Adams and Joe Burchett.

The Blackcats sent their starting lineup back into the game in the final frame, steadily rebuilding their lead and outscoring Virgie by seven to take the 63-56 win.

JOHNS CREEK 49.

MORGAN COUNTY 47

In a contest featuring two out-of-county teams, the Johns Creek Bearcats clawed their way to a two-point win over Morgan County, primarily by a 23-point effort from Bearcat Sam Hamilton.

Hamilton, who accounted for nearly half of his team's total on the night, hit from nearly everywhere on the floor: four field goals, four 3-pointers from the 19'9" mark, and three of three at the line. Teammate Todd Maynard assisted with four from the floor and two from the line for 10 points.

Despite the big scoring efforts from Hamilton and Maynard, Morgan County answered with two high pointers of their own: Jeff Ison, with 17, and Matthew Perry, with 13. Ison canned six from the floor and five of 10 attempts from the line for his 17, while Perry sent three from the floor, two from 3-point range and one of two at the line to gain 13 for himself.

In the first period, the Bearcats worked their way to a one-point lead, but saw the tables reversed in the second frame and trailed, 20-17, at the half. The two squads traded baskets in the third frame, with 10 apiece, to allow Morgan County to retain its three-point lead, 30-27.

Fourth period action saw Johns Creek explode for 22 points and hold Morgan County to 17 to pull out the one-basket win, 49-47.

Easy Layup

Lady Blackcat Carolyn Reffitt (12), an eighth-grader, scored two of her 10 points Monday night with this layup. Reffitt hit five from the floor to contribute 10 to Prestonsburg's 79-39 win over the Millard Lady Mustangs.

Lady Bobcats Fall To Elkhorn, 51-37

The Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats fell 51 to 37 to the Elkhorn City Cougars Wednesday during the Bobcats' panorama contest.

"Elkhorn City is one of the top three teams in the region," said Coach Karen Henry after the game. "They got out to an early lead, and we never came back."

Henry said her squad stayed 10 to 12 points behind the Lady Cougars throughout the game, but more than 22 turnovers by the Lady Bobcats during the contest cost the squad the win.

"I had to start three sophomores, and the other two do not have much experience," said Henry.

Another vulnerability for the Lady Bobcats turned out to be outside shooting, as the team made only 14 of 46 attempts.

"We had rebounds galore, and steals, but our big weakness was our field goal percentage," said Henry, who attributed the lackadaisical play to first-game jitters.

The high scorer for Betsy Layne was Brenda Hamilton, who hit five from the floor and three from the line for 13 points. Danita Johnson chipped in nine, followed by Jaimie Smith with seven. Nancy Shepherd scored four, while Sheila Hall (who had 10 rebounds), Nicki Webb and Rhonda Leedy scored two each.

Betsy Layne played in another panorama contest Saturday, losing to Paintsville by 12 points. Regular starter Brenda Hamilton was out of town, said Henry.

The Lady Bobcats will travel to Mullins tonight (Wednesday) to take on the Lady Tigers in a 7 p.m. game; they will host the Belfry Lady Pirates Thursday, junior varsity action beginning at 6:30, followed by varsity play.

Kentuckians Less Healthy?

Kentuckians are less likely than other Americans to consider their health excellent, according to the Kentucky Health Survey released recently by the University of Kentucky Survey Research Center.

While 39.4 percent of Americans surveyed in 1984 rated their health excellent, only 31.2 percent of Kentuckians surveyed in 1988 responded that way. In Kentucky, 14.8 percent of the respondents rated their health as fair or poor, compared with 11 percent nationwide.

According to UK Survey Research Center coordinator Timothy Johnson, the survey indicates that health problems in Kentucky require careful examination.

"Global health ratings have been shown to be good predictors of clinical findings," Johnson said. "The fact that residents of Kentucky perceive their health to be less satisfactory than do Americans in general may mean that important health problems exist in Kentucky."

The survey, conducted by telephone with 2,023 individuals in May, found that several problems are likely to affect Kentuckians.

Junior Pro Season To Begin

The official basketball season for the Prestonsburg Junior Pro league will begin the week of Dec. 26.

Team designations will be determined Saturday, Dec. 3, at Auxier Elementary gym. All players, coaches and interested parents should be at the gym at 10 a.m., said league officials.

This year, the Junior Pro is adding cheerleaders. Girls between the ages of 6 and 14 are eligible; there will be no try-outs. Cheerleading squads will be designated for all 14

Junior Pro teams, according to age. Girls interested in cheerleading and their parents should be at the Auxier gym Saturday, Dec. 3 at 1 p.m.

Louise Church: Never Too Old To Get GED

At age 66, Louise has gone back to school.

Louise Church (better known as Louise Lewis by most Floyd Countians, before her recent marriage) knows what it is like to grow up without a high school education.

An estimated 12,000 Floyd Countians have not completed the eighth grade. What makes Louise different is that she has gone back to school, received her eighth grade diploma, and is now on her way to passing the GED test.

She remembers the days when she could get a job as a waitress in Martin without a GED or high school diploma. "Now you can't get a job without a GED or high school diploma."

Growing Up In Floyd County

Church didn't get her high school education because her father moved every year, and she had to work to help support her family.

"I lived at home with Mom and Dad and worked for people. I did house work and took care of babies," she explains.

She looks back on her days of education with fond memories. She went to Ball Grade School near Soft Shell and graduated from the sixth grade. She remembers the long walk to school every morning.

"I remember it was about a three-mile walk to school. I would meet my friends out there where the road forked—it was a dirt road back then—and we would walk to school together." The school was a two-room building where all the grades were mixed together. Ball Grade School was also the place where she first met the man that she recently married, Richard Church.

A Wife and Mother

Church married Ronald Webb in 1945, and they had their first child, Rhonda, in 1946. Ronald was killed in an accident eight years later, and Church was left to support herself and two children. (Linda, her second child, was adopted in 1950)

"We had some rough times back then. I survived by doing housework for people, washing and ironing clothes, and received some veterans pension, which wasn't a lot," she explains. She also kept a garden to feed herself and two children. "Oh, I farmed, too. I had corn and everything. I did a lot of canning, too, to feed my children and friends who came to visit," Church adds.

Going Back to School

Church talks about three events in her life that brought her to happiness she has today. In 1969, she became a Christian. In 1986, she went back to school, and in 1988, she married Richard Church. She recalls the day she decided to come back to school. "I remember what made me decide to go back for my education. I saw a 74-year-old man at a graduation ceremony at Mayo receive his diploma. I thought to myself, if he can do it, so can I!" She continues, "I always wanted an education, but never got it in my younger days. I never gave it a thought for myself. Then I said to myself, 'Why not?'"

Three generations in her family have gone back to school through an adult education program. She heard about the GED program at the David School and sent her daughter, Rhonda, to get her GED. After Rhonda passed the test, Church started back to school. Having dropped out of the public school system, Rick, Rhonda's son, decided to return to school also. Church says in her educational experience so far, "The teachers are great and have patience with me. It is a place that you can feel at home, feel at ease."

A Different Life

"My life is totally different now," Church explains. "I am more outspoken and sociable. It has helped my self-esteem. I used to be so shy and embarrassed; now, I feel like I am doing something for myself. It feels good." She graduated from the eighth grade in May 1987, and expects to get her GED by next May. "I haven't done too bad for myself," she says. "I don't mean to brag."

Her Message

To Others

Church realized that if she wanted a job for herself, she had to have an education. She sees so many young people dropping out, and wonders why there are so many dropping out of school now that she is going back. She encourages younger students who enter the program to work hard and meet success. "Don't worry," she says, "look at me; I am old, and I made it through the eighth grade. You can make it through high school if I can!"

Testimonial

Louise Church is featured on a billboard which is shown in Floyd County in two locations. The message below her picture reads, "Education isn't just for kids."

Coordinator

Shelia Mayo, a sixth grade teacher at Martin Elementary, has been selected to be the school's coordinator for the Young Author's Program. Mayo also coordinated the school's program last year; two students placed first in Floyd County Young Author's contest.

Region 11 VICA Chapter Members Attend Meeting

Different chapters of the VICA Club in Region 11 attended an officers' training conference Saturday, Nov. 12, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. at Mayo State Vocational Technical School in Paintsville.

The purpose of the conference was to bring various officers from area vocational schools (secondary and post-secondary) together, according to Jeff Rains, VICA reporter.

Officers include president, parliamentarian, reporter, treasurer, secretary, vice-president and club advisor.

Rains expressed thanks to Linda Lyon, Jim Conley, Gary Coleman and the other advisors who made this conference possible.

Oxendine Discusses Youth Authors Program With Participating Teachers

Linda Oxendine, a second grade teacher from Knox County, spoke to teachers involved in the Young Authors Program on Nov. 22 in Prestonsburg.

Oxendine, who teaches a course in Appalachian studies, at Union College, told the teachers about the language experience approach that she uses in teaching her students to read. The method has been used successfully since the early 1970s with students across the country.

Oxendine has her students tell stories from their own experiences, and she writes down and then uses them in place of the basal reader to teach students to read. Oxendine believes that many students have trouble associating with most material that is contained in the readers.

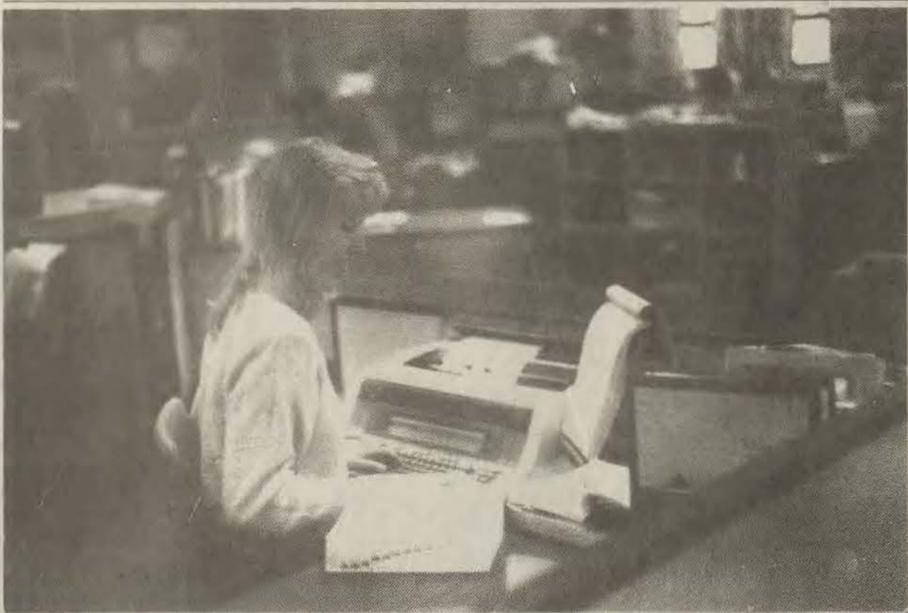

"Our children here in the hills of Kentucky must stop failing. They need successes, and plenty of them, so they will stay in school. When our children fail to learn reading skills in the early primary grades, they begin to gradually slip through the cracks and are gone by the age of 16," Oxendine has said.

Articles about Oxendine's success using this method have appeared in The Christian Science Monitor and Writing Teacher.

"The children take turns telling me an experience, and as each child talks, I write down exactly what is said on index cards. They watch me form, make each word. Then I reread the story to the child while he watches, and it becomes his story written down," Oxendine told the group.

Oxendine's students published their stories last year in a magazine called Terrific Mountain Tales.

The Young Author representatives attending the meeting were Janice Allen, Charlene Nunn, Ruby Miller, Peggy Bradford, Jerri Turner, Shelia Mayo, Kathy Dingus, Emily Allen, Janice Mitchell and Emma Gaye Barker.

Office Business

Loretta Shelton, a Prestonsburg High School student at Garth, works at her desk at Pic-Apex, the model office program there.

Students Create Company

Break time was about to end, and the now-quiet office would again be filled by the sound of typewriters humming, adding machines clicking and computers beeping.

The office workers returned to the office, quietly talking and laughing, and started their work once again.

But the company they work for, Pic-Apex, does not exist—well, not in the business world. It exists in the business and office program at Garth Area Vocational Educational Center.

And the work the student/employees do is real.

The students polish their working skills and are required to apply for a job in the business, according to Linda Wilson, the office manager/teacher of the model office program.

Each student has actual work to do, from filing to preparing statistical reports, Wilson said.

"Students understand more what the real world is like," she said.

"When Pic-Apex is in operation, I'm an office manager, not their teacher," Wilson said, "and when it is not in operation, I'm their teacher."

The student-employees are learning to think for themselves.

They have to take past experiences and apply them to situations, Wilson said. It is easier to give them something, but the real world is not like that.

The students also feel like they are part of the real world.

"At high school, it's like a prison, but here they treat you like an adult," said Loretta Shelton, a Prestonsburg High School student.

"We go by one rule," Wilson said. "Treat each other the way you want to be treated. So far, that works."

Besides doing office work in the school-year program, students also have to take accounting and shorthand, Wilson said. The first-year students take three classes. All the classes are self-paced.

"So many students aren't taught to think," said Doris Lawson, the business and office teacher in the first year program. "We try to teach independence and teach them to be self-disciplined."

The students like the program because it is not like being in a class learning from the chalkboard, and everyone there is accepted for what they are.

"At high school, you're rated by who you are, but here it is by what you do," said Prestonsburg student Polly Mullins.

"All the work will help later on," said Michelle Samons, a Betsy Layne High School student. "They really have a good program here."

Adding It Up

Judy Bays works with an adding machine in the first year business and office program at Garth.

Jones Attends Library Seminars; Hamilton Hired As Library Aide

Rick Jones, librarian at Betsy Layne Elementary and Allen Elementary, recently attended two conferences concerning school librarianship.

Jones attended the Kentucky School Media Association conference in Lexington on Aug. 26-27 and the Kentucky Library Association conference in Owensboro on Oct. 12-14. Both conferences offered book and audio visual exhibits, workshop sessions, and opportunities to meet several authors. Among the authors Jones met were Walter Dean Myers and Robert Newton Peck. Both were guest speakers at banquets during the conferences.

In a related matter, Debbie Hamilton was hired as an aide to the librarian at both Betsy Layne Elementary and Allen Elementary. She will be at these schools on the days the librarian is not there so that the library can be open each day.

Computers Added To Program

Students are finding exciting changes in the Chapter I reading classes at Martin Elementary School this year, according to school principal William Hughes.

The addition of new instructional technology has altered the format of classes, according to the school's three reading teachers.

The main reason for students' enthusiasm is the addition of two Apple computers, which were issued to each remedial reading unit from the Chapter I office. Since the majority of the students have never been exposed to computers, they are eager to experience this new method of learning.

Using computers enables students to receive extra individualized instruction needed to improve specific reading skills, said Hughes. The school's Chapter I teachers say that some of the advantages of using computers in the reading program are: Computers provide an immediate feedback to the student; they serve as a strong motivational device; they offer a new way of learning and practicing skills; and computers provide a different means of much needed repetition.

Computer usage is a challenge for teachers also, according to Chapter I teachers Bonita Compton, Virginia Martin, and Pam Wohlford.

"We are finding that computers provide a new and efficient means of preparation. However, it does require more planning and effort to coordinate computer lessons with other instruction," said one.

New technology in use in the Martin school remedial reading classes also include opaque projectors, audiocard systems, VCR, and television.

The Chapter I classes are part of a federally-funded program that provides supplemental reading instruction to students who are deficient in reading skills.

ACHS Academic Team Receives Recognition

by Robyn Williams

Physical sports are no longer dominant at Allen Central High School; mental games have broken into the limelight.

Due to the academic team's record (10 wins and 3 losses) and its recent win over top-rated Prestonsburg, the academic team is receiving wide recognition at ACHS.

Teachers and students alike are supporting the team's endeavors by offering praise and compliments for jobs well done. Like any other team, the academic team will do a better job knowing that its school is behind it. Not having much of a tradition to follow, Allen Central students are now building their own, adding a new and better piece each day, according to Joyce Watson, team coach.

Wheelwright Students Take Part In KET Series On Area Literature

By Vic Cotton and Marsha Johnson

On Nov. 15, Appalachian author Denise Giardina was interviewed at Wheelwright High School by the journalism and oral history classes as part of an eight-part series being filmed for KET.

The interview was taped by John Morgan, an independent film maker, and will air sometime in March on KET. It is one of a series of videos that Morgan is planning on Appalachian literature in the Big Sandy region.

The narrator will be Gurney Norman, author of Kinfolks and Divine Right's Trip. Norman is currently the writer-in-residence at the University of Kentucky. The program will also feature an interview with another Kentucky writer—Billy C. Clark, the author of Goodbye Kate and The Champion of Sourwood Mountain. Clark, who teaches at Longwood College in Va. where he edits Virginia Writing, returned to Ky. for a two-day visit in order to take part in the program.

Morgan included Wheelwright in the program because it is a former coal camp, and because the students are studying the history and literature of the region. Members of the oral history class had interviewed Giardina last year for their magazine, Mantrip.

Giardina is the author of Good King Harry, a book that deals with the Middle Ages, and Storming Heaven, a novel dealing with the formation of the union in the West Virginia coal fields. Giardina grew up in a former coal camp in West Virginia known as Black Wolf. Currently, she lives in Prestonsburg, but plans to move to North Carolina next year to research her next book. Giardina read a selection to students from that work, and answered questions about writing.

"You don't realize how widely known Mantrip is," she told the students at Wheelwright. "You should be proud of it."

Giardina told the students that Storming Heaven was the book that she had wanted to write as her first novel, but hesitated because she was uncertain of how publishers might respond to it. She also emphasized that writing about one's own region is important.

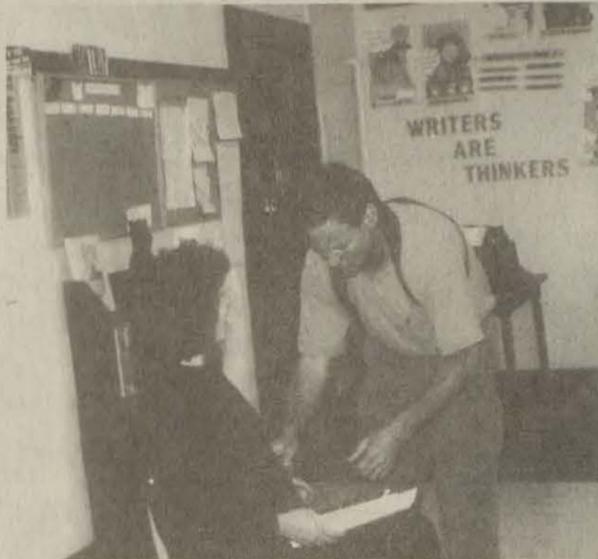

"When other people write our stories, they might not present the truth. Young people will find things worth writing about if they look deep into their own background."

After the interview, a reception was held in the library, and then the film crew travelled to Hall Hollow, where it filmed Wheelwright students interviewing Everett Hall. Students Kelly McKay, Tona Rhea, Samantha Osborne and Pam Harris conducted the interview with Hall, and then were interviewed themselves by the crew from KET.

Contest Winners

Melanie Newman, right, a fourth grade student at John M. Stumbo Elementary School, was the county winner in her age division during the Jenny Wiley Poster Contest. She received a trophy and a $50 savings bond. She is the daughter of Gary and Betty Newman of Grethel. Also pictured is Crystal Brown, left, who was the school winner for her age division.

Wired For Sound

Prestonsburg author Denise Giardina is shown being wired for sound by a member of a KET film crew. Giardina and Wheelwright students participated in the taped program, which will air in March.

Birthday

Tiffany LeAnn Conn celebrated her eighth birthday party with a Cinderella cake. Her birthday was Nov. 22. Many of her relatives and friends attended her party. ## Suspension Suspended At McDowell

by Marqueta Martin, Rady Martin and Jena Stumbo

A new method of discipline has been initiated at McDowell High School.

Bob Hall, the new principal, has stated that instead of being suspended for some first-time offenses, the offender will be given detention time in the principal's office after school.

In order for this plan to be successful, Hall said, he will first call parents to ask for their cooperation. This period of detention can be used by the student to study and to do homework.

Hall wants all students to be aware of this type of discipline will be used only for first time offenders and for minor offenses. He also stated that this will be a "lets see" type of program. If students abuse this, he will return to the old method of suspending students.

Salyer Is Guest Speaker For Club

"The formula for long-lasting health is volunteer service," according to Lorene Salyer, seventh district governor, GFWC/KFWC Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, speaking at an inter-club breakfast hosted by the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club Nov. 19, at the Holiday Inn, Prestonsburg.

Salyer's subject was membership, and she urged each member to try to bring in at least one new member by 1890 in honor of the Federation's centennial celebration in 1991.

Some of the ideas Salyer encouraged her listeners to adopt were: Do what makes them happy; laugh often and loud; avoid overwork and overload, which causes stress; deal with responsibilities; accentuate the positive and enjoy the excitement of achievement, keep up enthusiasm; cultivate a sense of inquiry; and let your feelings be heard.

At the opening of the meeting, following the pledge to the flag, Marsella Bradley gave the devotional, stressing the need for us to count our blessings. She especially called attention to the blessing just enjoyed, that of voting in a free election, which is one of the greatest blessings we as Americans are permitted to enjoy.

Ruby Akers, a former 7th district governor and a member of the Drift Woman's Club gave greetings. The meeting was conducted by Louise West, club president of the host club.

Those attending were Celia Ward Little, Linda J. Elliott, Anna Sue Stumbo, Mildred Salisbury, and Ruby Akers from Drift, Betty Mullins, Alma Souleyrette, Maxine Martin, La Faye Hughes, Blanche Bamer, Marsella Coburn Bradley, Lula Coburn, Elizabeth Duff and granddaughter, Nikole Hall, Jo Ann Hall and granddaughter, Kanessa Elaine Hall, Marie Mullins, Louise West, and Libby Martin from the host club. Other guests, were Ina Cooley, of Allen, and Florene Fields and the speaker, Lorene Salyer, of Elkhorn City.

The next meeting will be the Christmas party Friday, Dec. 16, at 6 p.m. in the home of Paul and Jo Ann Hall at Mousie, with husbands of club members included in the invitation. Each member is requested to bring an exchange gift.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

BABY STEPS

When an infant under the age of five months needs to be administered medication, it is best to take advantage of the innate sucking action. Babies of this age have a tongue action that is geared toward receiving nourishment from a nipple. To attempt to feed the medication with a spoon is sure to be met with rejection. Thus, the best route to follow is administration with a dropper or syringe. Simply placing the end of the dropper in the middle portion of the tongue with the baby's head elevated 45 degrees is almost sure to elicit the sucking response. As for taste, the infant's ability to discern taste is not as highly developed as it will be later on. The most highly developed region of the tongue is the tip. Avoid it if the taste of the medication is objectionable.

COOLEY APOTHECARY meets the highest level of professionalism in our business and would be honored to become your family pharmacy. Our records are fully maintained for all drug warnings, drug interactions and personal drug allergies here at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-5.

HINT: The best time to administer oral medication to an infant is just prior to feeding time.

Staggs: Allen Central's New Student Teacher

By Valerie Mosley
James Staggs, Allen Central's student teacher, seems to be very happy in the role of educator. He is originally from Wayland, married to Katrina Staggs, and has two children, Natalie, 6, and Jess, 1. Earlier in his life, he worked for an engineering firm, but had a car wreck and could no longer do his job, bringing about a career change. The more he was exposed to the educational process, he said, the more he wanted to go into teaching. Staggs teaches algebra and chemistry at Allen Central. He is very thorough in his explanation of the subjects. After giving basic rules and definitions, he does many examples to be sure his students understand. He also performs experiments to demonstrate the "why" behind many of the formulas in chemistry. One of the most interesting of his experiments was the laser. He showed students a laser beam reflecting in the mirror. When asked what he thought about Allen Central students, he replied, "Do you want me to be honest? I really like you guys." He also said he would like to teach at Allen Central when he completes his education. Staggs considers lack of respect to be a problem in the teaching profession. "Teachers invest a lot into teaching, and lots of times they get no credit for it, he said. However, Staggs adds that there is much satisfaction in the profession. For students who plan to become educators, he offers this advice: "Be as good as you can, because kids today are bright; they'll catch you up."

Scholtz: A Pastor Active In His Community

By Pam Shingler

Quentin Scholtz is not one to sit quietly in his study and write soothing sermons.

While he does spend time in prayer, Bible study, counseling and preaching, he's just as apt to be found organizing a telephone campaign about a local ordinance or helping build a church in Costa Rica.

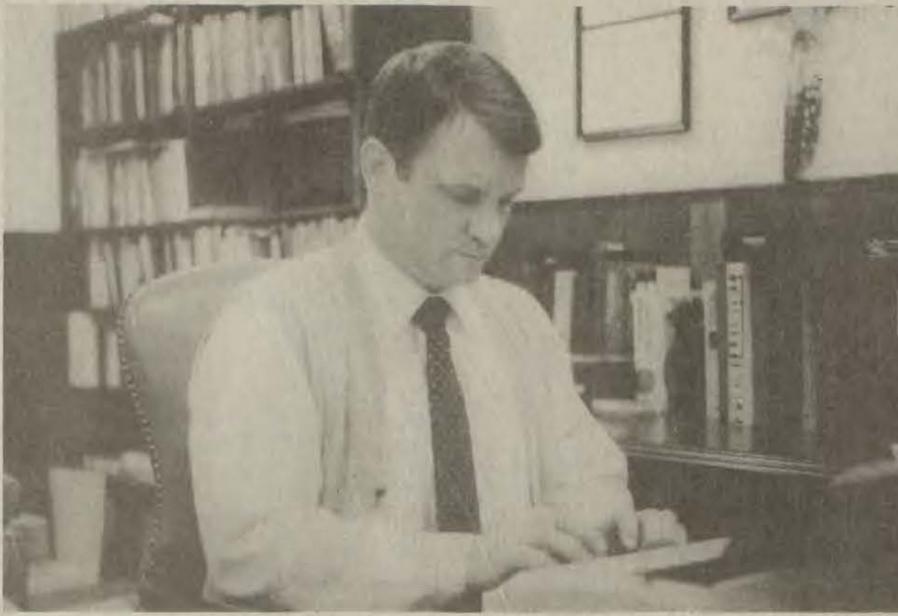

The pastor of the First Methodist Church doesn't believe in hiding the light under the bushel. Rather, he is public, outspoken, alert and involved.

Scholtz' activism is not always popular. After his questions on a political candidate's moral and ethical values were overheard by a reporter and quoted in one of the state's largest Sunday newspapers, he received not only good-natured kidding, but also some highly negative responses.

"One church member said, only in half-jest, that I need to keep out of Floyd County politics," says Scholtz. A woman in another town wrote him a scathing letter, to which he wrote a response for his own sake, but did not mail.

"The quotes in the paper indicated what my thinking was, but unfortunately, some information was added that I didn't know, let alone say, and they didn't cover the base that I asked moral and ethical questions of all candidates," says the 40-year-old pastor.

Since coming to Prestonsburg almost three years ago, Scholtz has found himself in controversial situations. "I have to ask myself 'If I have private thoughts on an issue, do I have the guts to speak them publicly?'"

Generally, the answer is yes. He and his wife, Becky, were heavily involved in a local campaign against the Kentucky lottery.

Before that, he spoke against a city ordinance that allows the sale of liquor by the drink.

"We were defeated soundly on both counts, but my conscience is clear," Scholtz says. "I can rest comfortably because I did speak out."

People sometimes come to hear him preach just "to hear the next big open-mouthed statement I'll make," Scholtz contends. But he credits the church for being tolerant of his candor.

The church has also been supportive of some of his innovative ideas. For instance, members have accompanied him on church-building juncts to Central America through the Methodist Church's Volunteers in Missions program.

Last summer, local Methodists accepted an exchange minister from England while their pastor filled the pulpit overseas. And Scholtz' dream of a Family Life Center through which the church would serve the community is close to being a reality because of the congregation's generosity and support.

Scholtz' activism goes back to his childhood. An early bout with polio, poverty, and some tragic family experiences left him with a will to do as much as he can for others and with an understanding of the gamut of human problems.

At newly integrated Danville High School in the late 1960s, Scholtz was elected student body president, forging a coalition of blacks and whites.

While at Duke University Divinity School, he shocked his small North Carolina congregation by preaching at a black church, and then prepared his own church to accept its first woman minister.

He serves as a role model in parenting for many in his Prestonsburg congregation. With shades of "Mr. Mom," he steps into the care-giving role for children, Ginny, 13, and Adam, 12, while his wife is in Huntington part of the week in her job as clinical nutritionist for the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Scholtz' latest community effort is as an appointed leader on the Blue Ribbon Committee, commissioned by the Floyd County Board of Education to study the school system.

"Many people have told me they would never serve on the committee, but they're thankful I am," says the minister who jogs several miles a day. "Many of them are not in a position to speak out, but I can and they know I will."

Scholtz characterizes the committee, which is charged with examining the school system and recommending changes, as a "thankless job except for the future of our children."

In the meantime, Scholtz is also writing a book, which will be a collection of his private writings over the years of his ministry, here and at other churches. The writing started, he says, as a sort of vent for his own emotions and as part of his legacy to his children, "to let them know what their father stands for and how much God and my relation to him mean to me."

Scholtz doesn't mind being criticized for his activism. "We are not to get caught up in the world to the point where we lose focus on God," he says, "but we live here and must be concerned with the concerns of the world, the homeless, the hungry, the condition of the environment and other moral and ethical issues."

The pastor downplays his own role. "God is God and he will be victorious, whether I'm here or not."

Pikeville's Lost In The Shuffle Bridge Club found its way to the Pinson Hotel Coffee Shop Tuesday night.

Robert Pinson's acquisition of first place was secured with a whopping 4,020 points! Earl Bellamy was not far behind in second place. Placing third was Mrs. Jerry Barnard, who also tied for third with Vicki Pinson in the Moonlighters' Club where John Ruple was first and Ruth Friend was second!

Correction! Last week Vicki Pinson was in second place instead of third as was erroneously reported by this writer. Sorry!

The Pinsons served an elaborate array of food.

The Christmas dinner is scheduled for 6 p.m. on Dec. 6. The club voted to serve roast beef, which Robert Pinson promised to oxidize for the pot-luck dinner. Vicki Pinson is in charge of the food planning program, so give her a call if you do not hear from her first.

Newcomers: The club extended a warm welcome to Margaret, Earl, Thomas, and Pamela Bellamy.

Happily, the club announces its membership at nearly 40 members! Therefore, it has become necessary—for the good of all—to ask members who want to play bridge to sign the roster or call 437-5014, 437-4430 to secure a seat at the bridge table, or to cancel if they can not play. (Sit-outs were voted out by an overwhelming majority!) Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated. Thank you.

Attentive consideration: "All that is necessary for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing."—Edmond Burke

FIVCO Holds Hearing On Kentucky's Homeless

A trio of organizations seeking public input on how Kentucky should be addressing the needs of the state's homeless population will host a public hearing on the issue next month in Prestonsburg.

The open hearing is scheduled for 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Monday, Dec. 5 at the Archer Park Senior Citizens Center on Highway 460 in Prestonsburg.

The hearing is being co-sponsored by the Kentucky Advisory Council on the Homeless, the Kentucky Coalition for the Homeless and the state Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services.

Invitations to attend have been sent to city, county and state officials in the Big Sandy, FIVCO, Gateway and Kentucky River area development districts. Representatives have also been requested of homeless service providers such as community kitchens and shelters, and any clients being served by those agencies.

The hearing is open to anyone concerned with the problems of an estimated 38,000 Kentuckians who have no fixed, regular or adequate place to sleep.

Input from those attending the hearing will be used to determine what legislation might be prepared for presentation to the 1990 Kentucky General Assembly.

For more information concerning the hearing, contact George Nichols, Kentucky Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services, at (502) 564-4527; Ronnie Dunn, Kentucky Advisory Council on the Homeless, at (502) 564-7130; or Anne Joseph, Kentucky Task Force on Hunger, at (606) 253-3027.

County Kettle

County Kettle

Is a new feature offered by the Floyd County Times. Send all recipes, kitchen tips and suggestions to "County Kettle," The Floyd County Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg, KY 41653.

The following helpful household hints were submitted by Norma Mullins of the Betsy Layne Senior Citizens Center.

When hands are badly stained from gardening, mix a teaspoon of sugar with warm, soapy water to clean them.

Three teaspoons equal one tablespoon.

Buttermilk will remove oil from clothes. Soak and rinse well.

Soak a new straw broom in hot water before using; soaking will make the bristles tougher and last longer.

Always stand the broom upside down to prevent warping the bristles.

Wax ashtrays. Ashes won't cling, odors won't linger and they can be wiped clean with tissues or paper towels.

Plant a few sprigs of dill or marigold near tomato plants to prevent tomato worms.

Spray garbage bags with ammonia to keep dogs away until garbage is picked up.

Shine darkened aluminum pans by boiling in a quart of water mixed with two teaspoons of cream of tartar for 10 minutes.

Fresh lemon juice will remove onion scent from hands.

To prevent fading, soak colored cottons in strong salt water overnight. This will set the color.

Substitute crushed cornflakes for pecans in pies. They will rise to the top the same as nuts.

NEW POTATO SALAD

10 small new potatoes (about 2 pounds)
Salt to taste
4 eggs
1 tsp. vinegar (optional)
1 celery rib, finely diced (2 tbsp.)
shallots

1/4 cup, loosely packed, finely chopped fresh parsley
1/2 cup good-quality mayonnaise
1/4 cup sour cream
1 tsp. sweet mustard
Freshly ground black pepper
Place the unpeeled potatoes in a large saucepan and cover by 1 inch with cold water. Add 1/2-tsp. salt and bring to a boil. Lower the heat and cook at a gentle boil 15 to 20 minutes, or until the tip of a knife slips easily into a potato. Drain and cool before cutting into quarters or eighths.

Place the eggs in a saucepan and cover by 1/2-inch with cold water. (Add 1 tsp. of vinegar if cooking in an untreated aluminum pot to prevent discoloration of the pan). Bring to a boil and then immediately reduce the heat so the water barely bubbles. Continue to cook, uncovered, for 10 minutes. Remove from heat, drain, and place the eggs under cold, running water to stop the cooking. When cool enough to handle, gently tap the egg all over to crack the shell before peeling it off. Cut the eggs into small chunks.

Place the potatoes, eggs, celery, shallots, and parsley in a mixing bowl and toss gently to mix everything together.

In a separate mixing bowl, blend together the mayonnaise, sour cream and sweet mustard. Pour this mixture over the potatoes and toss again to blend the flavors and coat the vegetables. Taste and season with salt and pepper.

CALIFORNIA SUNSHINE STUFFING

(Makes enough to stuff a 20 pound turkey, or 15 to 18 servings)
1/2 cup margarine or butter
1-1/4 cup celery, chopped
1-1/4 cup onion, chopped
1/4 cup parsley, chopped
8 cups brown rice, cooked
12 ounces mixed dried fruit, diced
1 cup slivered toasted almonds
2/3 cup hot water
2 eggs, beaten
1 tsp. chicken bouillon
1-1/2 tsp. poultry seasoning
1/2 tsp. pepper

In large skillet, melt margarine. Add celery, onion and parsley; cook until tender. In large bowl, combine vegetable mixture with remaining ingredients; mix well. Stuff turkey loosely with stuffing immediately before roasting. Roast turkey as directed on wrapper. Spoon remaining stuffing into greased baking dish. Bake at 325 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes or until hot. Refrigerate leftovers.

FESTIVE TURKEY PASTA SALAD

(Serves 4)
2 1/2 cups tri-colored rotini, cooked
2 cups turkey, cooked and cubed
1/2-2/3 cup onions, thinly sliced
1/4 cup celery, thinly sliced
1/4 cup parsley, chopped
1 1/2 tsp. fresh tarragon, chopped (or 1/2 tsp. dried)
1 tsp. oil
2 tsp. tarragon vinegar
1 tsp. lemon juice
2 tsp. reduced calorie mayonnaise
In a large bowl, combine all ingredients. Cover and refrigerate at least one to two hours, or overnight.
Serve on lettuce leaf and garnish with black olive slices, if desired.

CHOCOLATE CHEESECAKE CHUNKS

1/2 cup butter
1 1/4 cups chocolate wafer crumbs (about 30 wafers)
1 cup chopped nuts
2 packages (3 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
1/3 cup sugar
1/3 cup unsweetened cocoa powder
1 egg
1 tsp. vanilla
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Melt butter in 9 inch square baking pan. Stir in crumbs and 1/2 cup nuts. Press to cover bottom of pan. In small bowl, beat cream cheese, sugar, cocoa, egg, and vanilla at medium speed until smooth. Pour over crust and sprinkle with remaining 1/2 cup nuts. Bake 20 minutes. Let stand at room temperature two hours. Cut into 1 inch squares with a sharp knife. Store covered, in refrigerator.

These cookies are best presented in a single layer on a large, round, flat tray or basket lined with colored cellophane or a doily. Cover with plastic wrap to keep cookies in place until served.

Yield: 81 chunks

PECAN AND SWEET POTATO PIE

Dough:
3 1/8 cups flour
1 cup lard or shortening
1 tsp. salt
1/2 cup very cold water
Sweet Potato Filling:
1 cup cooked sweet potato pulp (2 or 3 medium yams)
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup heavy cream
1 tsp. bourbon
1 tsp. softened butter
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. freshly grated nutmeg
1/2 tsp. salt
Pecan Filling:
3/4 cup brown sugar
3/4 cup dark corn syrup
1 1/2 tsp. butter, melted
2 eggs, beaten
1/2 tsp. salt
2 tsp. vanilla
1 cup pecan halves
Crust: Blend flour, lard, and salt well; then add cold water. Blend with fingers—handling the dough as little as possible—until it is crumbly, and just holds in shape. A few more drops of water may be necessary.

Refrigerate for 15 minutes.

Divide dough into two pieces and roll out 1/8 inch thin onto a generously floured surface. Fit into a pie plate, allowing some overlap on the edges for baking shrinkage, and chill in the refrigerator.

Filling: Bake sweet potatoes in a 350 degree oven for 30 to 45 minutes or until tender. Let cool slightly, then combine sieved pulp and other sweet potato filling ingredients, beating well until smooth. Set aside. Combine the pecan filling ingredients—except the nuts—beating until the syrup is smooth and glossy.

Spoon and smooth the sweet potato filling over the bottom of the crust. Arrange pecan halves on top and pour pecan syrup carefully up to the rim of the crust. Bake at 325 degrees for 1 1/2 hours or until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean.

Books And Things:

Books Highlighting Holiday Food Available

By Trisha Morris
PCC Librarian

Holidays are synonymous with good food. The following books from the PCC library will help you prepare the feast, graciously serve it, or choose a restaurant which will do both of those things without your effort.

What's Cooking in Kentucky, by Irene Hayes. Kentucky is famous for its horses and Derby day, but the state is also well known for its good cooking and hospitality. Hayes has gathered the recipes which make up this book from all over the state.

Tabbed for easy using, it gives recipes for an entire gastronomic delight from the opening beverage and appetizer to the always anxiously awaited desserts and pastries. With such regional favorites as Aunt Minnie's Old-Fashioned Cornbread, Kentucky Burgoo, Kentucky Chill, Kentucky Style Baked Beans, Fried Apples, Old-Fashioned Kentucky Pie, Kentucky Stack Cake and Kentucky Cream Candy, this is truly a Kentucky flavored cookbook.

Many personal names precede the recipes, Minta Conly's Avocado Dip, Aunt Faye's Chicken Royale, and Maude Hall's Sweet Potatoes, reminding us that many of these recipes came from treasured memories which have been handed down through the generations. With a wish by the author that, "the hours you spend in the kitchen be happy," the book is sure to be a welcome purchase or a favorite gift.

What's Cooking for the Holidays, by Irene Hayes. With over 900 recipes to grace all types of family gatherings from picnics to Christmas, this will be the only cookbook you need to help you through those festive times. Intended to help both the beginning and the experienced cook, it has recipes crafted for both their abilities.

A companion to her What's Cooking in Kentucky, Hayes has arranged her book with the same easy finding tabbed index and filled it with all the regional holiday favorites as well as recipes which might add a new touch to those old traditions.

Hayes is a native Kentuckian who dedicates her cookbooks to busy mothers with the hope that "they will find easy recipes that will make cooking for their families a pleasure."

Eating, Drinking and Visiting in the South, by Joe Taylor. While we roast our turkeys and glaze our hams, a nostalgic look to the past can be gleamed from this little book of how our ancestors set their table. From frontier days when wild game was plentiful and made up a large part of their diet, to the present, where fast food establishments tempt the regional appetite with biscuits and gravy but serve it in plastic, the book is a chronology of the South's specialized eating habits.

With the addition of drinking and visiting to the book's considerations, it is a social history of southern customs, pleasures, and old-fashioned "making-do."

Kentucky Hospitality. For over 200 years, Kentuckians have been justly proud of the food they have served their families and the warmth of the welcome they have accorded their guests. Now, the rich heritage of Kentucky hospitality and good food has been drawn together into this outstanding and unusual book.

Collected by the state's Federation of Women's Clubs to celebrate Kentucky's bicentennial, these 500 plus recipes represent its resident's varied tastes. Such time honored dishes as Country Ham, Burgoo, Hoe Cakes, Shucky Beans, Sassafras Tea, Apple Stack Cake and Sorghum Pie provide a panoramic view of what Kentuckians have eaten and how they entertained during the Commonwealth's first two hundred years.

In addition, noted historians and folklorists relate the folklore and superstitions associated with cooking and eating, stories of events celebrated by lavish meals from the pioneer's first Christmas feast to the banquets of great public figures, the story of festivals centering on particular foods, and the history of some of Kentucky's old inns and spas.

Kentucky Hospitality is a reminder of our gastronomic heritage, a temptation to waist lines, and a good book to read.

Julia Child and Company. Holidays mean we are not just cooking for ourselves. This book is a collection of all the glorious dishes Julia Child demonstrated during her long running television series especially for entertaining. Relieved of the task of trying to remember what that galloping gourmet was slipping into all those wonderful dishes, we can leisurely savor her book. Laid out in orderly fashion with all ingredients clearly spelled out and accompanied by pictures, the task of assembling these dishes seems surprisingly simple.

For every occasion from birthday dinners to VIP lunches or buffets for 19, this book will help you cope. Child's answers to every kind of challenge are imaginative, varied, and as much fun to make as they are to eat.

With this book in hand, no matter what the occasion, you'll be ready for company.

James Beard's Theory and Practice of Good Cooking. This most famous of American cooks not only provides recipes in his cookbook, but also a lot of text. From the first time you sit down to browse through this book—even before you try any of the more than 300 delicious recipes—you will feel that you are a more knowing and sensitive cook.

Beard has put into this book all his ideas about cooking and with his incomparable flair, he tells us how to boil an egg, poach a chicken, simmer a stew, skin a stock, clarify soup, blanch beans, and all the other things lesser cookbooks assume you know.

He also includes the importance of good buying. With a concordance at the back of the book that lists and annotates everything from apples to zucchini, takes the mystery out of herbs and spices, and gives lessons on menu building, this book is a complete cooking course.

This is the book the beginner and the expert will turn to again and again for hints on carving the Sunday roast, a great trick with chicken, or Beard's own secret for a "light hand" with a cake. A great gift for every new bride on your list.

Dining in Historic Kentucky. You don't want to cook for the holidays? Have I got a book for you. Kentucky is a paradise of scenic and memorial restaurants that cater to history buffs as well as lovers of good food. Eighteenth century taverns, ante-bellum mansions, blacksmith shops, schools, and Victorian houses have been turned into restaurants that serve regional dishes while providing the flavor of the historic setting. This book is a guide to such famous restaurants as Boone's Tavern in Berea, Shaker Village in Harrodsburg, The High Court in Winchester, The Iron Kettle in Grand River, and many, many more places across the state as well as a collection of the favorite recipes of these four star establishments. There is Boone Tavern's Jefferson Davis Pie, the Mike Fink Sandwich, and the Iron Kettle Hot Pepper Corn Bread to name but a few. Take your company with you and let the chef do your cooking.

Food in History, by Reay Tannahill. If all this discussion of food has set you to wondering about why we eat what we do and what it has done for us, read this book.

Food in History draws from the findings of archaeology, anthropology, biology, economics and many other disciplines to examine not only the influences that have shaped man's diet, but how the pursuit of more and better food directs, of ten decisively, the course of history. From the earliest cultivation of plants and domestication of animals in prehistory to the beginnings of mass production and the twentieth century's Green Revolution, this book tells the extraordinary tale of how man's eating habits have influenced mankind's development. It discusses the role of pepper in the fall of the Roman Empire, how a new type of plow, developed in the Dark Ages, helped stimulate the First Crusade, why the cow became sacred in India, who invented spaghetti, and how the turkey got his name.

George and Carolyn Butler of Drift announce the engagement of their daughter, Melinda Kaye, to Jeffrey Alan Semon of Columbus, Ohio. He is the son of Robert and Susan Semon of Columbus, Ohio. The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Robert and Jesse Butler of Printer. A July wedding is planned.

Richard Kiley reunites with longtime friend

Bea Arthur tries to rekindle flame

By Anne Wheeler

Emmy* winners and long-time real-life friends Bea Arthur and Richard Kiley play one-time high school sweethearts who rekindle the flame in their golden years in My First Love, airing Sunday, Dec. 4, on ABC.

Arthur stars as a widow who wants another chance at love. She finally stops grieving for her late husband and starts looking to the future by looking at her past. She carefully re-reads the yellowing letters from her high school sweetheart (Kiley) and works up the courage to strike up communication with him once more.

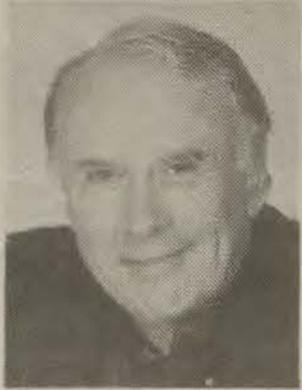

Much to her surprise, he responds, with an airline ticket and an invitation to come visit him for the weekend. It soon becomes clear that the special spark between them has never dimmed.

"There was something that blended with them, that rhymed with them," Kiley said of the characters. "And occasionally you come across people like that, as we all know, and you occasionally lose them and you're never—they're never quite out of your mind."

Ironically Kate Charleson, who plays Bea Arthur's daughter in My First Love is the real-life daughter of a girlfriend of Kiley's from Chicago when he was 19 years old.

Known for being particular about the roles he takes, Kiley said he was attracted to My First Love because it wasn't violent like many of the scripts he had been offered, and he wanted to work with Arthur, with whom he had been good friends for many years.

"I thought, gee, it'd be fun to work with Bea," he said. "It's light entertainment—it's kind of a geriatric comedy-romance. Nobody's kidding anybody—it's not

Richard Kiley likes the soft romance of My First Love in which he stars Sunday, Dec. 4, on ABC.

Oedipus Rex, it's a piece of froth."

"I think Bea was kind of worried about it in the beginning. I don't think she's done anything quite like this, which is a real romantic thing," he said. "I think the fact that I did it with her and we've known each other for years made it a little easier for her."

Kiley, who starred for one season in the critically acclaimed A Year in the Life on NBC, has not lived down his comments at the Emmy Award ceremonies about the short-sightedness of not testing the show for a second season.

But the premature cancellation of A Year in the Life has not left the actor bitter on television overall, although he is concerned that writers will often stick to a formula rather than exercise creativity.

He said that he and Barbara Stanwyck once discussed the shows they considered good while they were on the set of The Thorn Birds.

"We suddenly started talking about this crazy Christopher Lloyd character on Taxi and recalling our favorite segments and things," he said. "And we were just screaming with laughter about a television show. So it can happen—the good writing, the good people, the good casts."

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE Pursuant to Application Number 836-0200

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350, notice is hereby given that Laurel Creek Coal Company, Inc., P.O. Box 940, Paintsville, Kentucky 41240 has filed an application for renewal of a permit for a surface coal mining and reclamation operation of approximately 226.41 acres located 0.5 mile north of Ivel in Floyd County, Kentucky.

The Longitude is 82°-40'-10". The surface area is owned by S.P. Davidson Heirs, Marshall Davidson, Harkins Heirs, Roger Reynolds, Don Trimble and James E. Dillion.

The proposed operation is located on the Harold U.S.G.S. 7.5' quadrangle map. The operation will use the auger and area methods of mining.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Toy Safety Tips Listed

A toy race car with a driver's helmet so small it poses a choking hazard. A bamboo snake whose paint has a dangerous lead content. Lawn darts that have killed and injured children. A stuffed animal mobile with a cord long enough to strangle a baby.

These are just some of the unsafe toys and children's products that the Department for Health Services inspectors are looking for in their annual pre-holiday inspections in about 200 retail stores across the state.

E.P. Conyers, manager of the department's consumer product safety branch, says that inspectors look for toys and other children's products such as rattles and pacifiers that do not meet federal and state safety standards.

"We look for items with sharp points and edges, small parts and painted toys with high lead levels," Conyers said. "Some toys have to be sent to Frankfort for testing—for example, our lab tests for lead content in paint."

"Other toys can easily be tested right at the store with equipment carried by the inspectors."

To determine whether a toy or part of a toy passes the "small parts" test, for example, an inspector places the piece in question in a cylinder with a 1.25 inch diameter. If the part fits inside the cylinder, it is too small and fails the test.

This year, inspectors will be on the lookout for lawn darts, an outdoors game banned by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) effective in mid-December. While the state does not have the authority to enforce removal of the lawn darts until the ban goes into effect, inspectors will watch for them.

"The state inspectors will look for lawn darts and inform retailers that they will be banned as of mid-December," Conyers said. "They'll keep a list of outlets where lawn darts were found to facilitate follow-up after the ban, but some stores will remove the lawn darts voluntarily before the ban starts."

According to the CPSC, three deaths have been associated with lawn darts since 1970, and an estimated 700 lawn-dart injuries are treated in emergency rooms every year across the country.

Inspectors give special attention to imported toys, which account for the majority of banned playthings. In addition to looking for imported toys on the shelf, state inspectors have worked with U.S. Customs Service officials in Louisville to check imported toys before distribution.

Inspectors have also checked Kentucky toy manufacturers, distributors and importers to help prevent unsafe toys from reaching stores.

Conyers offers the following suggestions for people buying toys:

—Become an inspector—look for sharp edges, loose parts and small parts. Make sure that toys are firmly constructed and that buttons, eyes and buckles on soft toys are firmly attached.

—Watch age guidelines listed on toys, but also consider the child's ability to use a particular toy. Just because a toy is labeled for a 5-year-old does not mean that every 5-year-old can handle it.

—Don't let the price tag and appearance be the only guiding factors. Look for toys that will be durable.

—Don't let inspections stop in the store. Make sure that toys operate properly as children play with them.

Periodically check all toys and repair or discard broken ones. "Many injuries occur when a perfectly safe toy is broken and becomes dangerous," Conyers said.

For more information about toy safety or to report a dangerous plaything, contact Conyers at the Department for Health Services, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort. The telephone number is (502) 564-4537.

Keeping The Holidays Safe...

The holiday season is a joyous time of year, but it can also be dangerous if you don't take precautions to protect your home and family. Careless use of holiday decorations causes many fires each year. You can assure your holidays will be safe as well as merry by following these tips.

When selecting a Christmas tree, make sure it's fresh by shaking it lightly. If more than a few needles fall off, choose another tree. Ask the seller where his or her trees were grown. Trees trucked over long distances are probably not as fresh as those cut nearby.

Store your tree outside until you are ready to use it. Keep the cut end in water and shelter the tree from wind so it won't dry out too quickly.

When you're ready to put the tree in a stand, cut about an inch off the trunk. This fresh cut will help the tree absorb water and stay fresher longer.

Place your tree away from the fireplace, radiators and other heat sources and water it daily.

Use only tree lighting sets which have a testing laboratory label. Replace any set that's worn. Bare wires or a bad connection can easily start a fire. Don't overload extension cords or run them under rugs.

Check tree lights each day. If lights have caused needles to turn brown, shift position of the lights and keep them on only for half-hour periods.

Never use indoor lights outside or vice versa. Unplug all lights before going to bed or leaving the house.

If you use candles to decorate your home, keep them well away from flammable decorations, drapes and doorways. Never use real candles in windows or trees. Make sure all candles are extinguished before leaving the house or going to bed.
