Rock Slide Blocks Road

A sizeable rock slide Friday afternoon on KY 1428 (old US 23) temporarily blocked traffic. No one was injured. A Floyd County crew from Pikeville District Headquarters, state Department of Transportation, restored one-lane traffic quickly. The crew worked until early evening to clear the road. The boulders will be removed from the right of way later, and used as fill material.

Hearing On Allowing Strip Mining On Protected Lands Slated In Lexington Feb. 16

The federal proposal to do away with the buffer zone that protects homes, schools, cemeteries and public parks from strip mining will be the subject of a public hearing on Thursday, Feb. 16, in Lexington.

Under the proposal, restrictions which keep strip mine operations at least 300 feet from homes, schools and churches, and at least 100 feet from cemeteries and public roads, would be done away with. President Ronald Reagan proposed doing away with the protective zones shortly before he left office.

In addition, the proposal calls for opening up protected state and federal parks and recreation areas to strip mining. Among those popular areas which would be affected are parts of the Daniel Boone National Forest, Mammoth Cave Park and Cumberland Gap Historical Park.

"This proposal threatens private property and could create havoc with public lands," said Sidney Cornett, a member of Kentuckians For The Commonwealth, a statewide citizens group which opposes the proposal.

An Environmental Impact Statement prepared by the federal Office of Surface Mining (OSM) indicates that almost 3 million acres of land in Kentucky would be affected by the proposal, if it is adopted as a permanent rule. Most of this land is in the buffer zones around homes, cemeteries and public roads.

Specifically, the report says that the following acreage would be vulnerable to strip mining under the proposal:

- 1,358,000 acres of private property in Eastern Kentucky in buffer zones around homes, roads and cemeteries;
- 685,000 acres of private property in western Kentucky in buffer zones;
- 452,000 acres of the Daniel Boone National Forest, which extends from south-central Kentucky through the northeastern part of the state;
- 106,000 acres of the Big South Fork Recreation Area in south-central Kentucky;
- 830 acres of Mammoth Cave National Park in western Kentucky;
- 60 acres of Cumberland Gap National Historic Park in Eastern Kentucky.

Rock Presents Danger, Says Council

Fears about falling rocks and concern over a continuing dog problem in the community occupied much of Saturday's meeting of the Wayland Town Board.

Board members discussed a potential road hazard on KY 7, north-east of the town, where a large slab of rock juts out from its hillside base. Heavy rains this winter have caused other smaller rocks to fall, said Mayor Patricia Murphy, and residents fear the rock in question will soon come down, causing injury to passing motorists, "perhaps even a school bus with our children."

Because it is a state road, board members agreed that the state should be responsible for dislodging and disposing of the hazard. Murphy, who said she has called state officials about the road in the past, said she would "try again."

Several citizens attending the meeting raised the issue of dogs running loose in the town, particularly in "the upper end." Murphy said that enforcing leash and fencing ordinances will not take care of the problem of stray animals.

"The problem presents a dilemma to the town," said Murphy, "because the town has to pay a kennel cost if we round them up and take them away (to the animal shelter)." She asked members to come up with suggestions for dealing with the problem by the next morning.

Also discussed was an addition to town police guidelines to make sure that reports are completed after each police action. On a motion by Hobert Webb, seconded by Gene Mullins, the board agreed to review current guidelines and to add a provision that police file a step-by-step report.

The mayor, with board backing, instructed the city clerk to check into criteria for moving Wayland from a Class 6 City to Class 5. The move, if possible, would be advantageous, especially in making the town eligible for more grant assistance. Murphy said.

The board also passed a resolution authorizing Murphy to apply for state reimbursement in the amount of $6,149 for road work in the town.

Murphy reported that no decision has been made concerning purchase of a police cruiser for the town. She said she had met with County Judge/Executive John M. Stumbo, who suggested some sources for purchase other than what the board had previously explored.

She also announced that the fiscal court had sent gravel to the town for use in repairing roads. She commended new board member Tommy Robinson for his work in hauling gravel and filling in walkways "on his own."

The mayor reported that she has contacted state and federal officials concerning the continuing problem

Falling Rock Zone

Wayland area residents consider the loose rock (upper left in photo) on the hillside on KY 7 to be a hazard to motorists. Unanchored to its ledge perch, the rock, residents say, may soon join a smaller one that recently fell to the side of the road. They fear that if the larger rock falls, it won't stop at the roadside.

Officials Explain School Takeover

State Superintendent of Public Instruction John Brock, addressing the local board and an audience of about 150 last Wednesday, said state assistance team members will work in Floyd County for approximately a year to help resolve many of the system's fundamental problems.

Brock, saying he had "dreaded" Wednesday's meeting, acknowledged the adverse publicity the district has received since a curriculum audit in November and takeover by the state in January.

"There's been, no doubt, a stigma attached to the state's intervention," said Brock. "But that's unfortunate. Floyd County is not significantly different from many, many districts."

He added that while the local district has made significant progress to correct a number of accreditation deficiencies, others remain to be addressed.

"One of your problems is one that you cannot solve — and that's your history," the state superintendent added.

"(The takeover) is not the fault of any single former superintendent, board member or administrator.

It's not the fault of any one person or group, but we all have to shoulder a portion of the responsibility for the situation we have today," said Brock, noting that the state department also shared in that responsibility.

Brock also asked the local board, "as a friend," not to begin a court challenge of the state's takeover.

"There are limited resources that we have in Frankfort. Certainly, you have limited resources here. A court

Despite Wife's Testimony, Man Given Sentence

In what Commonwealth Attorney Jerry Patton terms an "unusual" case, Ervin Drew Adkins, 24, of Virgie, was convicted of second degree assault last week in Floyd Circuit Court.

Adkins was initially charged with attempted murder for allegedly shooting his wife, Greta Adkins, on Dec. 16, 1987, in McDowell where the couple was living.

Gretta Adkins subsequently requested that the charges against her husband be dropped, but Patton said he "thought the charges were too serious" and he decided to prosecute the case. During last week's trial, the wife testified on behalf of her husband.

The jury which heard the case recommended a five-year sentence for Adkins. Sentencing is scheduled for Feb. 17.

'Celebration Of Children' Creates Awareness Of Abuse

Charles Slone says he "was brought up on the miner's belt," and now he's working to see that parents learn less hurtful ways of dealing with their children.

Slone, who is coordinator of the 22-county Eastern region of the Kentucky Council on Child Abuse, tries to make parents, teachers, and social service workers aware of the child abuse problem. In doing so, he hopes the day will come when no more Eastern Kentucky children have to withstand "the miner's belt"—or worse.

One of Slone's primary responsibilities is to try to set up chapters of Parents Anonymous (PA), a self-help organization for parents who are child abusers or who think they are in danger of becoming abusers.

The Kentucky Council on Child Abuse, of which PA is a part, estimates that one out of four Kentucky families has a child abuse problem. The council cites 1986 figures when close to 24,000 incidents of child abuse were reported, involving more than 39,000 Kentucky children.

Slone believes that "in truth, there are three to five times" that number of child abuse incidents, since many are never reported.

The problem may be even more acute in Eastern Kentucky, Slone said. "A lot of people believe 'It's my business if I want to beat the kid.'"

While physical and sexual abuse garner the most press coverage, Slone said the council recognizes other forms of abuse, as well. These include physical neglect, where, for instance, a child is not clean or nutritionally healthy; emotional and verbal abuse, where a child is called names and made to feel incompetent and unworthy; and emotional neglect, where the child lacks any signs of love and affection.

Each type of abuse has long-lasting effects, Slone said.

Sturgill Nominated; Stumbo Will Run

A Floyd County man is one of three regional attorneys whose names have been submitted to Gov. Wallace Wilkinson to replace Dan Jack Combs on the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

Barkley J. Sturgill of Prestonsburg was nominated by the judicial nominating commission to fill the unexpired term of Combs who was elected last fall to the state Supreme Court.

Also nominated by the commission were Pike County District Judge Richard L. Elswick and Sidney B. Douglass of Harlan.

The nominees are among five persons who have filed for the post in the May primary. Another Floyd County resident, attorney Janet L. Stumbo of Prestonsburg, has also filed, along with Max D. Picklesimer of Ashland.

Sturgill, who has practiced law for 30 years, served three terms as Floyd County Attorney from 1960-72 and is former chairman of the Public Service Commission. He has also served on the Kentucky Crime Commission and the Governor's Economic Development Commission. He is a graduate of the University of Kentucky and Washington and Lee Law School.

Sturgill said he has been informed that the governor has 60 days to make a decision on the appointment.

Stumbo, whose name will also appear on the non-partisan ballot in May to pick the two top vote-getters for a November run-off, has been a licensed attorney for eight years. Two of those years she served as law clerk for County Appeals Judge Harris Howard. She also served as assistant county attorney for 2-and-a-half years. She is a graduate of Morehead State University and the UK Law School.

Conservation Officer Suspended

A state conservation officer with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife, stationed in Floyd County, has been given a 30-day suspension, according to Col. Paul Oliver, chief of the department's law enforcement division.

Oliver said that Jimmy E. Goble of Prestonsburg received the disciplinary action over "an internal matter." Oliver stressed that the suspension "does not have anything to do with violating the law."

"If he were being charged with violating any law, he would be dismissed and brought to court, but that's not the case," Oliver said Tuesday.

Oliver indicated that a number of rumors have surfaced lately concerning area conservation officers and violations. "There appears to be a faction of people in Johnson and Floyd counties who are doing one thing and pushing another," the enforcement officer said, adding that a full investigation is under way to establish facts about the local problems.

tucky: 220,300 acres of other parks and recreation areas. The proposal attempts to change a definition of "valid existing rights" stemming from the 1977 Surface Mining Act passed by Congress. That law sets out areas to be protected from strip mining, including the buffer zones around private property, national forest land, recreation areas, wildlife refuges, historical sites and wilderness areas. Congress recognized that placing these areas off-limits to mining would lead to the claim that mineral property had been "taken" without compensation, so it created the valid existing rights clause to allow companies that had made an attempt to mine the affected minerals to do so. To qualify, a company had to prove ownership of the mineral, the right to mine and that it had made a good-faith effort to apply for all necessary mining permits by Aug. 3, 1977 (the day the federal strip mining law took effect).

The new definition would remove the requirement that the mining company have applied for the necessary mining permits by Aug. 3, 1977. All that would be required is for the mining company to show ownership of the mineral underlying the protected lands. "When Congress passed this law, they were exercising valid police powers to protect the public," Cornett said. "Even with the current restraints on surface mining, property owners are already suffering considerable damages from blasting, pollution and slides. If this passes, it's going to make it much worse on the public." Officials with the Department of Interior, of which OSM is a part, downplayed the potential impact of the rule change on public and private lands. Federal and state agencies could purchase the mineral rights from coal companies in order to protect land from mining, they say. Each state would also have the authority to restrict mining on certain lands if state laws prohibit mining, according to reports from Interior officials.

Those claims have been disputed by groups representing landowner and environmental concerns. Given current government budget deficits, any money appropriated for mineral buyouts would be far from sufficient to protect all the lands to be affected by this proposal. In addition, this does not address the concern about the potential mining of 2 million acres in the buffer zones around homes, schools, cemeteries and public roads. It is unlikely that private landowners would be able to afford to buy the mineral rights underneath and surrounding their homes or family cemeteries. The hearing in Lexington will be conducted by OSM for the purpose of soliciting public comment on the proposal. It will be held at the Kentucky Inn, 525 Waller Avenue, beginning at 9 a.m. The public has until March 3 to comment on the proposal. Comments should be sent to the Office of Surface Mining, Administrative Record, Room 5121L, U.S. Department of the Interior, 1951 Constitution Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20240. Copies of the proposal rule change, which was published in the Federal Register on December 27, and the Environment Impact Statement may be requested from the same address.

Utility Rate Hikes Approved

The Public Service Commission recently granted two rate increases to a Floyd County utility supplier, according to PSC spokesperson Mary M. Mulloy. The commission approved a purchased gas adjustment to Mike Little Gas Company to reflect a $7,628 increase in wholesale costs from its supplier, Kentucky West Virginia Gas Co. The average annual increase per residential customer is $16, effective Jan. 30. The PSC, in separate action, also granted Mike Little Gas Co. a purchased gas adjustment to reflect a $9,459 increase in wholesale gas costs from the same supplier. The increase will result in an average annual increase per residential customer of $19.84, effective Feb. 1. Both increases are subject to refunds due to Kentucky West Virginia's rates being subject to refund at the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

Movin' Right Along

Recent news reports indicate that the Pepsi plant in Pikeville may close — despite the city's 5,000 residents being the champion per capita Pepsi consumers for the last 16 years.

The problem isn't the local market, according to Pepsi officials, but rather the packaging of the product. The Pikeville plant produces soft drinks in returnable bottles, while today's consumers appear to prefer bottles and cans.

Charles Boston, the plant manager, told Jim Jordan, Herald-Leader business editor, that the city's Pepsi drinkers wouldn't notice the difference if the plant closed. They may not, but I think the employees might.

Discussion among company officials is continuing, and instead of closing, the plant may only face cutbacks in some departments.

Boston also said he expects

Pikeville residents will keep on drinking Pepsi, whether it comes from the local plant or from across a state line.

"We don't expect that to change, no matter what we do," he said.

Given that statement, if I lived in Pikeville — or even Pike County — I'd switch to Coke.

Better yet, I'd keep the returnables and do away with the plastic and aluminum — the returnables don't seem to appear beside roads or in creeks very often.

On another note, a state education survey shows 2.3 percent of Kentucky school employees are related to the superintendent or board members who hired them.

That's a low number, but it does reflect on the state as a whole. Maybe now, the downstate folks will take a look at themselves instead of crying nepotism every time Eastern Kentucky is mentioned. Let he who is without sin...

Better yet, forget the whole nepotism thing; create mandatory, fair, across-the-board employment guidelines, stressing qualifications and ability. It shouldn't matter who is related to whom; what does matter is that we have the best person for the job, at the best salary we can offer.

Four hundred state, local and national leaders recently attended the Kentuckians for Better Transportation's annual conference in Lexington. They recommend two major challenges for the Wilkinson administration and those that follow: create improved linkage to interstates, and relieve urban congestion.

I guess that boils down to being able to get there from here — especially if you're an Eastern Kentuckian — and being able to get to work from your house if you live in the city.

"Communities not connected to the Interstates by good serviceable highways do not have a chance to compete for new and expanding business and industry, and existing industry is at a competitive disadvantage," said Jack Fish, KBT president.

Hear, hear. We have most of US 23 — now let's get the rest of it.

Last but not least, just a little something to help you sleep better tonight:

This year, the US government will spend $13,000 for each and every household in America. Total taxes will rise nearly $1,000 per household if no changes are made, and another $1,500 will be borrowed in your name to keep the government afloat.

According to News USA, your $13,000 share of this year's $1.2 trillion budget will be debated in Congress, but no major changes are expected.

Letters To The Editor

Goble Thanked, Gate Discussed

Dear Editor,

This article is to thank Conservation Officer Goble (Floyd County game warden) for his efforts to improve hunting and fishing for all sportsmen. Because of his efforts, there is more game to hunt throughout the county.

Goble has also been a part of a program to better educate the children of Floyd County on the proper use of firearms and to conserve our wildlife.

We know some people object to a controlled environment, and don't respect or appreciate authority or any representative of the law.

But we, the sportsmen, their wives and children, feel this authority is important for the future of our wildlife. Without the protection and enforcement of the law, our hunting grounds would be total chaos, there soon would be little or no game to hunt, and men would be shooting other men simply from being uneducated to be law abiding and careful hunters.

The gate that was mentioned in the letter in the last edition of the Floyd County Times was a gate that separates a large area connected to the Wildlife Management of Dewey Lake. Only privileged people who had a key could hunt this area.

There are different private land owners behind this aforementioned gate, and sportsmen of Floyd County and surrounding counties have, for the past several years, had trouble hunting this area. The "privileged" were mostly Johnson Countians. Only one or two were Floyd Countians.

If these individuals had nothing to hide, why did they object to a Floyd County Conservation Officer doing his job?

This letter is from interested sportsmen, their wives and children. Shari Fannin

Area Sportsmen Disagree With Writer

On behalf of the Floyd County Fish and Wildlife Club we, the undersigned, would like to set the record straight.

Fish and wildlife are a great wealth in our state. The reason we have been able to maintain the population of game is through the good sense regulations by the Department of Fish and Wildlife. Without such control, many species would become endangered or extinct. Sportsmen support the department through the purchase of hunting and fishing licenses.

No one, even a land owner, has the right to take deer or any wildlife out of season or illegally.

The Kentucky Revised Statutes (150.090) specifically provide that conservation officers "...shall have the right to go upon the land of any person or persons...". Further, the law states that a conservation officer "...may enter upon, cross over, be upon, and remain upon privately owned lands..."

This law has been upheld in the Kentucky Courts and is also supported by an opinion of the Kentucky Attorney General (OAG 88-26). Anyone who would tell you that a conservation officer is not allowed to enter private property is either not aware of the law or misrepresenting the truth.

Anyone obstructing the peaceful duties of an officer may be arrested and charged with interference.

These laws were passed by the legislature to protect wildlife. As outdoorsmen, we support the people who have the duty to enforce these laws. The conservation officer is the friend of all who appreciate wildlife and is there to protect the private landowner from trespassers and poachers.

Regretfully, there are a few who try to abuse the law. There are some who are trying to illegally take game at night or by other illegal means, and have attempted to evade detection by using various means to keep conservation officers off their property.

For these few, we have no sympathy. The fish and wildlife of this state are a great wealth that should be preserved for future generations. Anyone intentionally violating these laws should be duly prosecuted.

Sincerely,

Paper's Price Up, But Quality Is, Too

Dear Editor,

I am sending a check for $17 to renew my subscription to the paper for this coming year. The price has increased this past year, but the paper is so much better than it used to be, it is surely worth it.

We lived in Floyd County for 30 years and now here in Lexington for 25 years, but I still like to read about what is going on up there. For I have a lot of friends up there.

Your paper has changed a lot and all for the better. Keep up the good news for all of us who still love Floyd County.

Thank you,

Report to Kentucky

SENATOR WENDELL FORD

RESPONSIBLE FUNDING OF PROGRAMS WE LEGISLATE

As a former governor, I am concerned that the federal government sometimes asks state and local governments to assume responsibilities and deliver services without any consideration of how such mandates will affect our citizens as taxpayers.

In these times of federal budgetary restraint, the tendency to shift the costs of providing services from the federal level to state and local governments is creating unfunded mandates—programs we legislate but cannot pay for.

I have reintroduced a bill, S. 31, that would create a point of order against legislation which imposes a net cost of $50 million or more on states and localities.

The bill also would expand existing provisions of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 to provide that the House and Senate Budget Committees conduct an analysis of the impact of budgetary decisions on state and local governments.

Such a safeguard will ensure that Congress is aware of the fiscal impact of its actions on not only the federal deficit but on our constituents as state and local taxpayers.

I continue to be concerned about the abrupt termination of the General Revenue Sharing Program and the impact continuing federal cuts in other programs have had on our state and local governments. Revenue sharing provided one of the most efficient and effective means of financial assistance to those governments in meeting the costs of unfunded federal mandates such as environmental protection.

This bill will not replace those dollars, nor will it guarantee that further cuts in federal programs will not be made. But it will ensure that we in congress do not act to terminate programs or mandate new services without knowing the costs we are imposing on state and local governments.

This legislation is a small gesture on the part of Congress in recognition of the important role our partners at the other levels of government play in providing necessary services to the people. As we continue to reduce federal assistance for responsibilities and services we demand from these partners, the very least we can do is to carefully understand and recognize the burden we place on them.

This identical bill gained much support in the last Congress from groups such as the National Governors Association, The United States Conference of Mayors, the National Conference of State Legislatures and our own Kentucky Municipal League.

I have urged my Senate colleagues to join with me in cosponsoring this bill to send a message to all of our citizens back home that we will carefully weigh our actions before we shift financial burdens on their local and state governments and ultimately on the taxpayers.

Forty Years Ago

(February 17, 1949)

A bright future for the nation's coal industry, but a future not without its trouble spots for the same industry in Eastern Kentucky was the picture presented by David L. Francis, president of the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company, David. Analysts predict that by 1965 the nation's coal industry will be producing a billion tons a year... Despite an average reduction of 10 percent on coal mine assessments from the figure established by the State Department of Revenue, tax figures for 20 mines of the county will be around $1,750,000 higher when the final assessment recapitulation goes to Frankfort, it was said this week. If the figures remain without further change, the county's assessment total will be $18,000,000, a new high... The best and the worst in the matter of school attendance came in for official attention here Saturday. Teachers of the nine Floyd schools with the lowest attendance average were asked to confer with county superintendent Palmer Hall, attendance officers and the director of elementary education. At the same time the 18 teachers whose schools had an average of 95 percent or better came in for recognition. These teachers and their schools follow: Maggie Tackett, Antioch; Frankie S. Best, Cliff; Irene Gibson, Sizemore; Helen Campbell; Maude Foster, Jack's Creek; Mary A. Wright, Lancer; Winifred Grace Moore, Turkey Creek; Edna B. Sanders, Auxier Road; Myrtle M. Hunt, George School; Ruby J. Gibson, Sizemore; Pet Salisbury, Arkansas; Alva J. Hamilton, Dist. 92; Andy Martin, Emma; Dixie Neeley, Neeley school; Johnie Crider, Fraley school; Bernice Hamilton, Beaver; Inez S. Hall, Spears school; Amelene Elliot, Ligon... There died: John Spradlin, 45, Prestonsburg, in Veteran's Hospital, Huntington; Mrs. Nancy Martin, 95, widow of R. C. Martin, at the home of Jobie Spurlock at Hunter; John Jarrell, 81, Dana; Miss Zedie Stevens, 31, of Osborne, at a Lexington hospital; Mrs. Ora Lee Allen Hall, at Banner, daughter of Blucher and Myrtle Dyer Allen, of Hueysville.

Fifty Years Ago

"We will be able to put our finger on the person guilty in the disappearance of the indictments, when the grand jury is ready for us," Circuit Judge John W. Caudill this week quoted John Campbell, of Atty. Gen. Meredith's office after conducting an investigation here Friday and Saturday into the disappearance of 32 grand jury indictments from the office of Circuit Clerk Troy B. Sturgill... Scope of the activities of the Floyd County health department in the work of disease prevention, health education, control of epidemics and other phases of endeavor is graphically told in a 78-page volume containing the department's report for the year ending Dec. 31, 1938... To be featured in the Prestonsburg WPA Sewing Center's "Open House" day here Feb. 24 a loom, a flax wheel and spinning wheel whose ages total more than 250 years, Mrs. Winnie F. Johns, supervisor of the Center announced. The loom, made of yellow poplar by Bill Adams, of Abbott Creek, was made 116 years ago. It remains in excellent condition. The spinning wheel was formerly owned by Mrs. Arzilla Wallen, of Dock, and is at least 50 years old. The flax wheel was at one time the property of Mrs. Susie Hoskins Hale, grandmother of Henry Stephens, Jr., Cashier of The First National Bank here. Its age nears the century mark... Four slot machines confiscated and destroyed Saturday by Deputy Sheriffs Trudy Salisbury and Tom James brought the slot machine "death toll" in Floyd County since Sheriff Dial Salisbury assumed office to 15. There died: A. J. Gunnell, 81, Prater Creek; Willie Crum, 48, formerly of Banner, killed by a slate fall in an Aflex Coal mine; William H. Harris, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hargis Harris, of Lancer; Mrs. Will Gray, Bull Creek, at her home; Mrs. Elizabeth Tackett Reynolds, 23, of tuberculosis at her home at Ligon; George Shepherd, 70, of Prestonsburg, of pneumonia.

School Takeover

test is going to be expensive for both sides," he continued, "but we can take limited resources and use them to educate the children here in Floyd County."

Brock also assured the local board that the state "has no intention" of moving the district from phase three to four. In phase four, local board members and the superintendent may be removed from office.

"You choose your board members," Brock told the audience. "We don't want to do that."

Dr. Betty Steffy, deputy state superintendent, explained the scope and structure of the assistance team following Brock's remarks.

Steffy will be directing the Floyd County assistance from Frankfort, while Bob Gover will lead the local team on a day-to-day basis.

"We view this as a team effort," Steffy said, stressing that educators, administrators and the public must begin to trust one another before real change can take place in the district.

Steffy drew applause from the audience when she stated, "Let's turn the page, let's start toward a new horizon for Floyd County schools, by building trust."

She added, "When the state department moves out, everything will go back to the way it was unless we build that firm foundation of trust in this system."

Steffy said there were no "quick fixes" for the local district.

A core team assistance team will include Steffy, as state department contact; Hager, as local superintendent; Dr. Steve Henderson and assistant Kay Freeland in instruction; and Gover in management assistance.

Additional state officials will be involved, as necessary, in instruction and personnel, finance and administration, student services and special programs, said Steffy.

Following Steffy's presentation, Dr. James Adams, local board chairman, questioned Brock on several aspects of the takeover.

Adams asked Brock how long the district would remain in phase three if the projected deficit was eliminated by the fiscal year's end, and also questioned test scores.

"When we get out of here, we will get out of here with a recommendation that you go back to phase one," Brock responded.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business Wednesday, the board:

— Authorized a $5,000 expenditure to obtain flood plain information for two schools required by state officials for construction purposes, provided the service cannot be obtained from local government sources at a lesser cost.

— Approved a right-of-way request for Kentucky West Virginia Gas Co. on the Prestonsburg Middle School property.

— Approved seeking additional funding for the school facilities construction projects;

— Received a report from Frankie Francis on inspection of school sites and facilities;

— Received the newly-revised district policy manual;

— Approved several personnel matters, including placement and transfer of certified personnel; leaves-of-absence, resignations and retirements; hiring non-certified personnel; hiring certified substitute teachers; hiring emergency substitute teachers; approve contracts for use of school facilities; and approved field trip requests.

The board did not conduct a due process hearing for possible dismissal of a school bus driver, but will instead take up the issue at its next meeting.

Board member Mullins, in his first meeting since being appointed last month, urged fellow members to search for solutions to town problems. "We need solutions. We can't rely on politicians, we have to take some steps to solve our problems ourselves," he said.

Before adjourning the nearly two-and-a-half hour meeting, Murphy asked members to come up with a list of priorities for the town, said she would try to arrange a meeting between board members and Big Sandy Area Development District officials to explore programs to help the town, and urged members to "think in terms of solutions."

JIM HAMMOND

SEN. JIM HAMMOND
Represents Coal Mining District

UPI

Mountain Senator Proud Of Home

By CHARLES PENTECOST

United Press International

Sen. Jim Hammond, D-Prestonsburg, a dark-haired, square-jawed East Kentuckian, represents a coal-mining district that sprawls from the mountains of Perry County to the Big Sandy River in Martin County.

A freshman senator, Hammond has been working a seven-day week, keeping up with both legislative duties and his law practice back home.

He has both a BS in commerce from the University of Kentucky and a juris doctorate of law. While at UK he was a member of the Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity, Sigma Chi social fraternity, and Lances honorary society.

Before leaving the Bluegrass to return to the mountains, he served as assistant to the director of the Lexington-Fayette County Crime Council. He also spent six years in the U.S. Army Reserve.

Now 31, he is one of a dedicated group of young men who feel they owe an obligation to their home areas.

"I made up my mind to run for senator after completing my education and deciding that the Eastern Kentucky district I represent had provided me with my educational opportunity. I feel this should be used not only for financial gain, but to help provide leadership and improve the area I'm from."

In his maiden political race in the May, 1975, Primary, he defeated four other candidates for the Democratic nomination and was unopposed in November.

A native of Martin and son of a school teacher-coal miner, Hammond has an obvious pride of place and family. "My father was from Bull Creek, my mother from Big Mud Creek and I was reared on Beaver Creek," he said.

"My primary legislative interest is in secondary and elementary education and I'm pleased to see the emphasis has shifted from higher education," he said.

"I plan to introduce a bill that would allow teachers to retire at the end of 30 years service, regardless of age." Others he plans to drop into the hopper or co-sponsor, include bills to provide bonuses for veterans of Southeast Asia fighting, and give disabled miners compensation for life rather than the current 425 weeks.

He also hopes to be a co-sponsor of an administration bill to return coal severance tax funds to the coal-producing counties.

"The No. 1 resource of the mountain area is people. I'm pleased to see more and more young people are returning to the area to help develop it," Hammond added.

"Through the partnership we formed when you elected me your State Senator from 1976 to 1980, we kept our promises and built the foundations for an economically strong and prosperous Floyd County and Eastern Kentucky, in which we can have a higher standard of living and can take earned and deserved pride. Let us use our partnership to complete what we have begun and to realize the dreams we share for Floyd County and Eastern Kentucky. For our children's sake, I ask you to continue with and to join in our partnership as we move forward together and finish what we started. Now is the time; elect me your Floyd County Attorney. Thank you!"

Religious Viewpoints

by The Rev. Joseph N. Muench
 Pastor, Saint Martha's
 Catholic Church

I have been Catholic all my life. In this Christian church, I have learned to love Jesus and to follow his word. Later in life, I even took degrees in Catholic doctrine in schools accredited by state governments. But when I moved here, I started to find out some unusual beliefs about the Catholic Church.

I was told we believe Mary is a god, that Catholics don't use the Bible or believe in it, and that we worshipped idols. Believe me, this list is abbreviated, and some of the hotter items charitably deleted. As I listened, I wondered where these ideas originated.

Sadly, I learned that the crazy doctrines and behavior attributed to Catholics were being passed on by folks who never studied what Catholics said they believed, but only what others said they believed. I don't know where some of the information came from or why it was said, but I do know that many things that Catholics are accused of believing or doing are not, in fact, the official position of the church. If they were, I don't believe there would be many Catholics left, but in fact there are almost 800 million in the world.

We know religious prejudice slows down the work of the Lord. Often these attitudes are the product of misinformation and ignorance. It is very important that we let each Christian community speak for itself and that we listen to them in love so that we can recognize the good in their faith and in the doctrines of their Church.

On Feb. 26, our church will be pleased to host the community service for church unity and the World Day of Prayer sponsored by the Floyd County Ministerial Association.

I hope you will join us to ask the Lord to end prejudice and division among all Christians.

In Memory Of Bessie (Marsillett) Hughes Who passed away February 12, 1988 Memories Of Mom

A year has passed since you've gone
 But your memories still linger on Mom, we try to understand
 You were welcome by Heaven's band
 This earth's loss was Heaven's gain
 For the first time you are free from pain
 On this earth you'll live no more So, Mom, we'll meet on Heaven's shore and live with Jesus evermore.

Daddy it's been one year since you were called away, we miss you more and more each day. I've often asked why, Lord, why Daddy instead of me? God had his reasons for taking you. In the cemetery safely sleeping, where the flowers so gently blowing, lies the one we love so dearly. But I could not save, and those who think of him each day are the ones who loved him the most.

IT'S A FACT...

- IT'S A FACT... that you are either saved or lost. Lost or saved, there is no in between. "He that hath the Son hath life, and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life." 1 John 5:12
- IT'S A FACT... that Christ came to this sin cursed world to seek and to save that which was lost. Luke 19:10
- IT'S A FACT... that you CAN be saved. "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shall believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." Romans 10:9
- IT'S A FACT... "Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that heareth my word, and believeth on Him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life." John 5:24
- IT'S A FACT... that tomorrow may be too late. "Boast not thyself of tomorrow, for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth." Prov. 27:1

Third In A Series:

The County Attorney And PVA: Their Qualifications

Only two elective county offices require that the candidates do more than meet age and residency requirements. These are the offices of county attorney and property valuation administrator.

Kentucky law requires that the county attorney be a practicing lawyer for at least two years prior to the election, and it requires that candidates for the PVA pass a state examination before they run.

Perhaps the reason for the additional criteria is that in each case the officeholder is viewed as a state, as well as a county employee.

The county attorney, an office established in 1850, has duties divided into three categories, according to the Legislative Research Commission's book, Duties of Elected County Officials.

The first category of duties of the county attorney are termed "prosecutorial." That is, the county attorney must prosecute all violations of the criminal and penal law in the district court of his county. If the job proves too big, he can employ other attorneys to assist.

As a prosecutor, the county attorney is also responsible to the state attorney general, who has the authority to disqualify the county attorney in some cases, or the attorney general can have him prosecute cases outside his home district. In those instances, the county attorney's job is beyond the venue of his electors.

The second major responsibility of the county attorney involves his job as county legal advisor. The county attorney is, in essence, the legal representative for county boards and commissions, as well as for the fiscal court.

He (or she, in some counties) must conduct civil actions in which the county is a party. He also has legal responsibilities in investigating applicants for permits for places of entertainment, in investigating property titles that involve the county, and in helping the county clerk prepare voter instruction cards.

The third category of duties relates directly to state issues, rather than county. When called upon, the county attorney provides legal services to a variety of state agencies, ranging from the Revenue Cabinet to the State Police.

The county attorney generally also has a private law practice. In Floyd County, his annual salary is $24,000, and he is given an additional monthly allowance by the state of $250.

Although elected by local voters, the PVA is actually a state official, according to a ruling of the 1988 General Assembly. A successor to the tax commissioner and tax assessor, the PVA is considered a divisional officer of the Revenue Cabinet.

State law requires that any candidate for PVA must pass an oral and written examination before qualifying to run. An incumbent who has already passed the exam does not have to retake it before running again, but to keep his job, he must take 30 hours of classroom instruction provided by the Revenue Cabinet each year.

The PVA's title sums up his job. He must evaluate all property in the county and prepare assessments for tax records. This includes all real estate and tangible and intangible personal property, ranging from industrial land to motor vehicles to stocks and bonds.

Each year the PVA must submit an official estimate of real and personal property to the judge/executive. He has to work very closely with the county clerk who records property transactions. He also prepares annual reports for the Revenue Cabinet and submits tax roll reports to school districts and other special districts within the county.

As part of his responsibility to the local electorate, he must also make the tax rolls open for public inspection every May.

The PVA's pay is not based on a straight salary. Rather, the state has an intricate point system which includes credit for the county's area, population and assessed property value.

The total points lead to a grade classification equivalent to that of regular state employees. In Floyd County, the PVA, who is grade 13, makes $22,272, in addition to a $3,600 annual expense allowance from the state.

Floyd NKF Goal Is $2,000

A goal of $2,000 to support programs of the National Kidney Foundation of Kentucky was announced this week by Donna Newsome, Floyd County chairperson of the 1989 campaign.

Newsome is the Floyd County representative on a nationwide team of volunteers who are aiding the Kidney Foundation. The theme for this year's campaign is "A Life Saving Force."

"Victory over kidney disease will take money and volunteers," Newsome said. "Funds are needed for research, public education and patient service care. And right now we need manpower and womanpower—volunteers to help fight this life threatening disease." Newsome added.

"That's what this 1989 Kidney Foundation Campaign is all about—seeking contributions to fight this serious and disabling disease—to relieve human suffering, and to keep important research efforts going," Newsome said.

Newsome asked that all who wish to volunteer to work on the Kidney Foundation Campaign get in touch with her at Highlands Dialysis Facilities, Inc., Auxier, Kentucky 41602.

The telephone number is 1-606-886-3893.

Lake Clean-Up Rewarded

Leon Russell, right, manager of Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, recently presented a check for $490 to the Dewey Lake Fish and Wildlife Club for its work last fall in cleaning up sections of the park. Club president Johnnie Lafferty, center, accepted the check. Also on hand was State Rep. Greg Stumbo, who, Russell said, was instrumental in getting the state legislature to approve $20,000 for the park to reward civic groups which participate in clean up efforts. The club spent about a month last fall clearing garbage and debris from the Stratton Branch area, said Lafferty. Russell said many other area clubs have helped in the past, and "in the spring, we'll welcome help again." The park allocation is "a sort of pilot project," said Stumbo, to get communities involved in keeping public areas, such as parks, clean.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

READER COMPLAINS ABOUT GAME OFFICER

I have been informed by reliable sources that there is an investigation of a Conservation Officer, (Game Warden) in Floyd County, for violation of game laws as well as trying to force his way on private property.

I have read the complaint concerning the private property situation that has been filed with the proper authority in Frankfort. Talking to the witnesses about this situation, the statements made in the complaint can be considered to be true that the game warden was trying to exercise authority which he or no other conservation officer possess;

An understanding of what a conservation officer is, and what authority they possess and do not possess would help everyone involved in this situation.

Conservation officers are peace officers to the extent of the enforcement of the fish and game laws. They have expressed statutory authority to arrest without a warrant any citizen whom they observe in the act of violating such laws. OAG 63-516, OAG 83-287, including entrance upon private property for the purpose of enforcing game laws, provided that the offense is committed in their presence. Commonwealth v. Hoyer's Adm't.

Although, KRS 150.090 states in part that all persons charged with the enforcement of this chapter, may enter upon, cross over, be upon and remain upon private owned lands for such purpose of enforcement of laws or orders of the department relating to game or fish while in the normal, lawful and peaceful pursuit of such investigation or work or enforcement; No liability shall be incurred by any person charged or directed in the enforcement of this chapter.

The Supreme Court of Ky. in Commonwealth v. Carr, stated This section does not clothe conservation officers with blanket authority to enter upon or pass over private property without the consent of the owner.

Any peace officer before entering private property to make a search must have a search warrant unless he is pursuing someone that is known to have committed a crime and has seen the person enter private property.

Section 10, Ky. constitution and 4th amendment of U.S. Constitution. The people shall be secured in their person, houses, papers and possession from unreasonable search and seizure and no warrant shall issue to search any place, or seize any person or thing, without describing them as nearly as may be, nor without probable cause supported by oath or affirmation.

The Ky. supreme Court in Alred v. Commonwealth defined this section of the Ky. Const. to mean, Search was illegal when made by trespassing of defendant's private property; Also in Wells v. Commonwealth the Court stated, Since under this section search warrant could not be issued except upon affidavit of some other person other than issuing officer, justice of the peace had no official duty to prepare such affidavit himself; Also under this section Ky. Const. the Court stated, John Doe warrant without description of premises and name of owner was not valid. Weaver v. Fick.

The reasons for requiring that an affidavit be filed as a prerequisite to the issuance of a search warrant are (1) to enable the officer, whose jurisdiction is invoked, to determine judicially whether probable cause exists for issuing the warrant, and (2) to fix responsibility for civil redress or criminal prosecution in the event of a false accusation. Abner v. Commonwealth

Affidavit for search warrant must contain informant's name Walker v. Commonwealth; The Supreme Courts of this country have always upheld the rights of private property owners given by the United States and the Ky. constitution.

As the Ky. Supreme Court stated in City of Louisville v. Kuhn, To a degree every law enacted by legislative departments in our government emanates from authority conferred by and springing from the exercise of police power. However, that broad scope of power is subject to the Bill of Rights in our federal and state constitutions. Thus a county or city, while enacting ordinances in the interest of the public safety, health, welfare or convenience, may not abridge the individual liberties secured by the Ky. and Federal constitutions.

Powe v. United States, (Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, These described rights are not constitutional grants of power. They are restrictions or limitations on the power of the federal and state governments.

If a city or county cannot pass an ordinance, nor the state or federal government cannot pass a law to intrude upon private property without a search warrant, Where does this game warden think he gets his authority? to demand a key from one person to a gate on another person's property, and have this man summons into court without a warrant or citation to answer to a charge of interfering with a peace officer in doing his duty, because he did not get a key to someone else's property.

No peace officer has any statutory authority to intrude upon private property for the purpose of searching it without a search warrant or the owners permission, regardless whether the peace officer is searching for a tin can or hunters without proper license, as a search warrant must describe the place to be searched, the person or thing to be seized.

It appears that this situation has been swept under the rug, as other situations that I have knowledge of being swept under the rug by people either connected to or involved in politics.

Sincerely,
BILLY ARMS

Surgery with the light touch.

There was a time when surgery was, to say the least, discomfoting. To say the most, traumatic.

Central Baptist Hospital just helped change that. Now, many gynecological, thoracic, vascular, urological, neurological, plastic and other surgical procedures can be performed with the use of a safe, precision surgical laser. Its use means less pain and blood loss. And, in many cases, outpatient surgery. In most, a quicker recovery and a more comfortable one.

If you or a member of your family should need surgery, ask your doctor about laser surgery at Central Baptist Hospital.

Once you see the light, you will never feel the same about surgery again. Call Central Baptist Hospital at 275-6665 for more information.

Unemployment Rate In Area Decreases

Unemployment in Kentucky rose from 6.7 percent in November to 8.3 percent in December, the latest months for which statistics are available, according to state officials.

Eighty-two counties reported lower unemployment rates in December than a year earlier, while 37 counties had higher rates. One county remained the same.

One factor felt in all 120 counties was the counting of the 12,000 precinct workers who were employed one day (Nov. 8), then dropped in December, causing a dramatic month-to-month fluctuation in state and local government employment, according to Ed Blackwell, the cabinet's chief labor market analyst.

In the Big Sandy Area Development District, the jobless rate decreased from 11.2 percent in November to 10.5 percent in December. Rates ranged from 9.7 percent in Floyd County to 16.8 percent in Magoffin County. Three of the district's counties recorded double-digit rates.

The monthly sample of claimants of unemployment insurance benefits showed 49.1 percent had worked in mining, 14.4 percent in trade, 13.7 percent in construction, and 8.7 percent in manufacturing.

In Floyd County, unemployment in December stood at 9.7 percent, the lowest in the area. Johnson County had a 9.8 percent jobless rate, followed by Pike, 10.1; Martin, 11.8; and Magoffin, 16.8. Overall unemployment in the five-county district stood at 10.5 percent.

A Good Sport

Floyd District Judge Harold Stumbo, center, accepted a plaque Monday from the Dewey Lake Fish and Wildlife Club for his work in promoting conservation efforts in the county. Making the presentation were Johnnie Lafferty, left, club president, and Jim Goble, county conservation officer. The plaque reads, in part, "in appreciation for your support of the fish and wildlife of Floyd County." Goble said Stumbo has been cooperative in enforcing fish and game laws.

Applicants Should Apply Promptly For SSI Benefits

Persons 65 or older, blind, or disabled who believe they may be eligible for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments should apply at the Big Sandy Area Social Security office without delay. Jim Kelly, Social Security director for the Big Sandy Area, said recently.

There is a very practical reason for people to apply for SSI promptly. The payments can start only with the date of application or the date of eligibility, whichever is later, Kelly said. Delay in filing can mean a loss in payments. If some of the required information is lacking, the staff in the Social Security office will help the applicant obtain it.

SSI applicants should bring their Social Security card or a record of their Social Security number; their birth certificate; information about their income and assets, such as bank books, insurance policies, and copies of tax returns; information about their mortgage if they own their home or about their lease if they rent their home; and medical records concerning any disability (including blindness) and the names of medical institutions where they have been treated.

A disabled or blind child who applies for SSI payments should have the same information. If the child has no parents, a guardian or other responsible person can apply for payments on the child's behalf.

More information about SSI applications can be obtained at the Big Sandy Area Social Security Office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in the local telephone directory under U.S. Government.

Accidents Result In Minor Injuries

Recently reported accidents resulted in minor injuries, according to officials at the Prestonsburg Police Department.

In an accident Monday involving a coal truck and two cars, one person was injured.

The coal truck driven by Gerald Frasure, 23, of Prestonsburg, hit a vehicle driven by Bonnie Campbell, 50, of East Point, at the junction of 114 and US 23. Campbell was knocked into the vehicle of Tyllina Mullins, 25, of Dwale.

Mullins had passengers Shay Mullins, 1, and Dale Mullins, 7, with her. Both children were wearing restraints.

Officer Roy Roberts reported that Frasure ran a red light after his brakes failed.

The Prestonsburg Fire Department and the Street Department were called to the accident. Upon arrival, they found that Campbell was complaining of a shoulder injury. Capt. Kenny Crisp, E.M.T., assisted Campbell, and she was transported to Highlands Regional Medical Center where she was treated and released.

Street Department personnel drained the fuel from the coal truck after a leak from the tank was noticed. The tank which contained 60 to 70 gallons of diesel fuel, was repaired and replaced.

Campbell's car sustained extensive damage, and both cars had to be towed from the scene.

No citations were issued, said officer Roberts.

Clarification

One indictment was omitted and one was incorrectly stated in last week's article on Floyd Circuit Court grand jury indictments.

The indictment against Eddie Dimtruk of Prestonsburg and Eddie Goble of Cliff was left out of the Times article. The two are charged with third degree burglary by unlawfully entering the Liquor Locker and taking property from within.

On the list of indictments given to the Times, Jerry Elliott of McDowell was charged with first degree wanton endangerment for shooting Carson Akers. The indictment listing should have stated that Elliott shot at Akers.

Also, the Randy Tackett listed among persons indicted by the Floyd Circuit Court grand jury, is not the same Randy Tackett who is the son of Nadine and Lonzie Tackett of Hi Hat.

Dwale Residents Meet Again

The residents of Dwale again met Monday to discuss an odor in the air allegedly coming from the Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Company.

Phyllis Fields, a resident of Dwale, stated that "Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Company is doing a lot of work."

The Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, Division for Air Quality seemed to be in agreement. Lillie Cox, spokesperson for Air Quality, stated that the gas company has no air violations, although the company is in stage three of a five-step process to eliminate the odor, which includes lowering the BTU level. This process will cut down the amount of hydrocarbon emitted into the air, said Cox.

Residents are still concerned about the leakage of materials from the plant. Gene Blair, a representative of the Department of Natural Resources, and Environmental Protection, Soil Management Division, took samples of the material but would not comment until he received the results. David Chaffins, a representative for Disaster Emergency Services, said that he is checking on materials hauled from the plant.

The group plans to meet again on Monday, March 6, at 6 p.m.

A Shot In The Arm For Emergency Services

Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad is the recipient of a $20,000 state grant to purchase a new rescue unit. Lee Troutwine, left, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Local Government, presented a check last month to Roger Recktenwald, executive director of the Big Sandy Area Development District, which allocates grants through the Area Development Fund. The Big Sandy ADD board of directors recommended the project for funding. Local officials said the new rescue unit will improve the rescue squad's ability to respond to life-threatening emergencies. The Area Development Fund is a capital projects program administered by the local government department in the Governor's office.

Get A Boat, Jenny

Friday's mini-floods throughout the area included this one at Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre where the water rose to the fifth row of seats. At least three fast-moving streams flushed water out of the surrounding hills faster than the drains could take it. The stage surface and several pieces of equipment were damaged, including lighting equipment and other electrical paraphernalia, according to theatre business manager Doug Odom. However, most of the theatre costumes were saved, thanks to local resident David Gibson and Job Corps students Eddie Mitchell, James Nickles, Sterling Douglas, Mark DeBose, Deon Byrd and Harrell Harvey. Theatre personnel spent Monday inventorying damaged equipment for the insurance adjuster.

Arts And Crafts Issues To Be Discussed On Feb. 24

To continue to succeed in the arts and craft market, the artist and craftsman must address several issues, including competitiveness of the marketplace, the need for quality, excellent craftsmanship and originality of design. To help achieve these goals, Morehead State University's Office of Regional Development Services and the Kentucky Art and Craft Foundation will sponsor a workshop Friday, Feb. 24 at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Sue Rosen, sales gallery manager, Kentucky Art and Craft Foundation, who has been manager of the gallery since 1985.

Fran Redmon, craft marketing program manager, Kentucky Department of Arts in Frankfort, who has been with the department since 1986 and has successfully initiated many programs which are mainstay of current programs.

Also featured will be several craftsmen and artists who have been active in Kentucky's craft marketing efforts. They will participate in an open-panel discussion session.

The registration deadline is Feb. 16. There will be a $5 fee, which includes lunch. To register for this workshop send name, business name, address, business and home phone along with a check payable to Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40351-1689. Attn: Office of Regional Development Services. Continuing Education Units will be awarded for this workshop.

PHS Overcomes Trojans, 74-60

Coach Gordon Parido's Prestonsburg Blackcats are giving the fans in Prestonsburg something to cheer about this season. Winners of only 10 games last year, the Blackcats are sporting a sparkling 14-6 win-loss record. They are assured of at least second place in the Floyd County conference with their win over Wheelwright Friday night, 74-60, to finish at 6-2 in conference play.

Prestonsburg outscored the Trojans in the first quarter and held an 11 point lead at the end of the first stanza, 18-7.

It was all Blackcats in the second period, as they went on a scoring run and outplayed the Trojans, 22-12, to hold a 21 point lead at the half, 40-19. In the third period, the Blackcats continued to run the basketball and switched defenses.

"We changed our defenses several times," Parido said. "We played a 3-2 zone, then we would go to a man to man—then we pressed a lot."

At the end of the third quarter the Prestonsburg lead was 29 points, 61-32.

In the fourth quarter, with the Blackcats leading by 29 points, Parido gave his bench a chance to get some playing time.

Wheelwright took advantage of the substitution and cut the lead to 15 points.

"We wanted to let our younger players play," Parido said. "They sort of let down and let Wheelwright back to within 15 points with four minutes to go," he added. "We had to put some of our starters back in."

Prestonsburg won the contest, 74-60, to close out its conference schedule, and now must face three 15th Regional powers: Paintsville, Sheldon Clark and a make-up game with Belfry.

"These remaining games will be a gauge on how we can do in the regional tournament," Parido explained. "It will teach the kids how to compete in the upcoming district tournament, also."

"The regional's not the problem," Parido went on to explain. "Getting out of the district is the hard part," he said, referring to the balance of the teams in the 58th District this year.

Thomas Nairn led Prestonsburg with 20 points, Danny Hamilton added 18 points, and Johnny Wright, coming off the bench, tossed in 13.

What about the status on the state's leading field goal percentage shooter, Scott Hall?

"Scott's feeling better," Parido said. "We didn't play him much against Wheelwright."

Prestonsburg will travel to Lawrence County Saturday night.

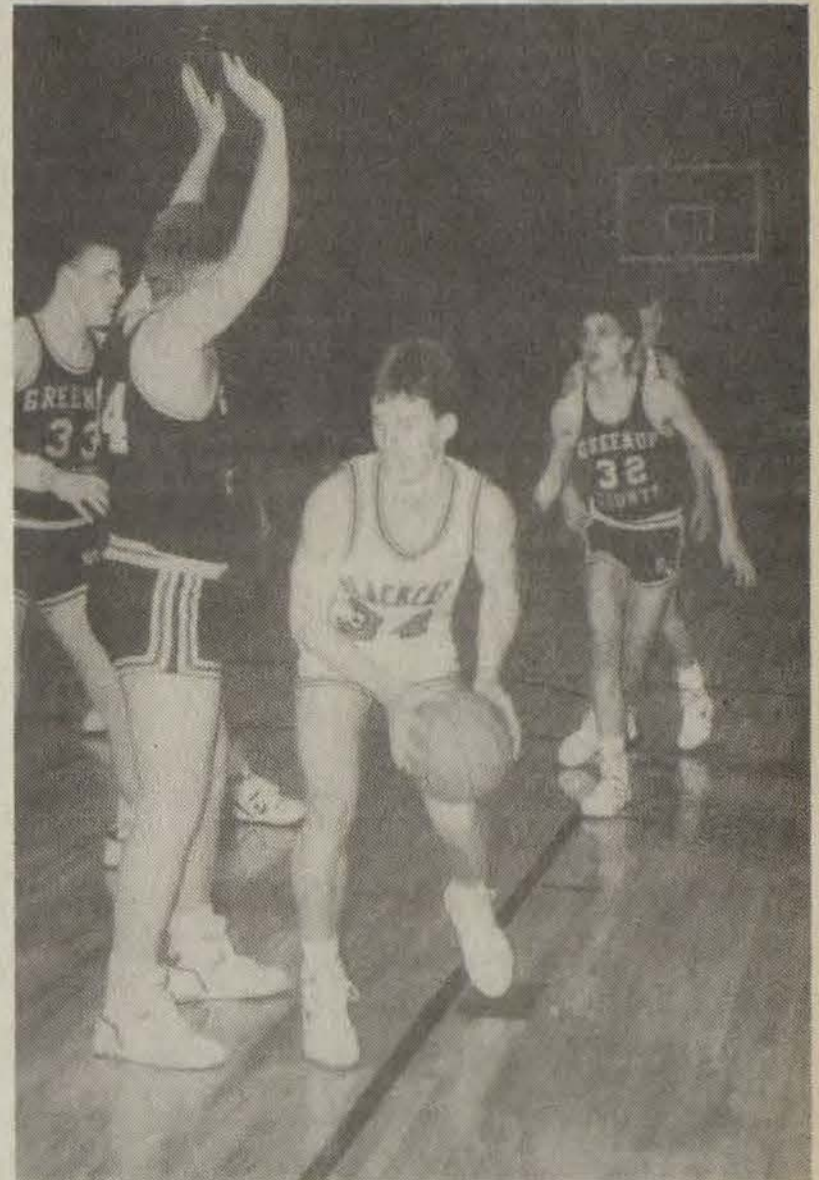

Senior Craig Martin scored 14 points to lead the Trojans, and Bobby Hood added 13 points.

Wheelwright is 7-11 overall, and the Trojans finish 1-7 in the conference standings.

The Trojans will be at Mullins Friday night.

Basket At Buzzer Sinks ACHS Rebels

by Ed Taylor

It resembled a battle ground Friday night at the J.H. Allen Fieldhouse on the campus of Allen Central, as two basketball teams—and parents—battled each other in Floyd County conference basketball.

However, when the smoke cleared, the McDowell Daredevils, on a three-pointer by Stacy Hall at the buzzer, defeated a much-improved Allen Central Rebels basketball team, 65-62.

"Allen Central is a good basketball team," McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner said.

Both teams battled on even terms in the first quarter as the lead changed hands several times. McDowell was on top 16-15 at the end of the first period.

The offense and board work of the Daredevils picked up in the second stanza, and McDowell led by eight at the half, 34-26.

"We went to the boards better in the second quarter," Turner said. "We played good team ball and good defense."

Allen Central kept close to the Daredevils in the third stanza behind the scoring of Todd Duff and the play of Rick Smith, outscoring the Daredevils 16-14, but still trailed by six, 48-42, at the third stop.

With 1:54 remaining in the fourth quarter and McDowell leading by four points, the Daredevils hit two free throws to lead by six, 62-56.

The Rebel's Kevin Spurlock hit a three-pointer to cut McDowell's lead to three, 62-59. McDowell then proceeded to turn the ball over on the next possession, and Duff hit another three-pointer (he had six in the game), to tie the score at 62-62. That set up the heroics for Stacy Hall, as he hit his only field goal in the game, a three-pointer at the buzzer, to sink the Rebels, 65-62.

"It was a team effort all the way for us," Turner said. "We let down in the second half."

Dickie Joe Shannon led the Daredevils in scoring with 17 points. Henry Webb and Rady Martin each added 13 points.

Duff led the Rebels with 24 points and Rick Smith added 18 points.

Sweet 16 Drawings To Be Aired Feb. 10

The wood floors of the arena reverberate with the pounding basketball. Rubber soled sneakers squeal with sharp cuts to the inside and driving lay-ups. The University of Kentucky Wildcats in action? No, it's the best of Kentucky regional basketball teams—both boys' and girls—playing in the 1989 Sweet Sixteen High School Basketball Tournament. Critical pairings for the tournament will be drawn during the 1989 KHSAA Boys' and Girls' State Tournament Drawings, airing live on KET at 2 p.m. Friday, Feb. 10.

Free-lance sports writer Earl Cox will host the annual drawing at the KET Network Center in Lexington, which features coaches from last year's state championship teams drawing for this year's pairings. Scott Davenport, who guided the boys' squad from Ballard High School in Louisville to a state championship last year, will draw for the boys' tournament pairings.

Bill Brown, head coach of the 1988 Louisville Southern High School girls' state basketball tournament team will handle the girls' tournament drawings.

The drawings will determine the pairings in the first round of this year's Sweet Sixteen competition. The boys' tournament will be held at Rupp Arena in Lexington March 15-18. The Farnham-Dudgeon Civic Center in Frankfort will be the site of the girls' tournament March 22-25.

Keepers

Although fishing books are not at all scarce, truly good ones tend to be few and far between. In recent weeks, I obtained two books, each quite different, which rank among the finest on my shelves.

A Guide to Public Fishing Lakes in Kentucky is a veritable buried treasure for Kentucky anglers. Unbeknownst to most Commonwealth fishermen, the Bluegrass state is dotted with small, public impoundments, many of which offer a degree of angling opportunity far greater than that of our larger impoundments. Many of our bigwater reservoirs (like Cave Run, Dale Hollow, Fishtrap and Dewey) are relatively infertile, and thus support a limited population of slow-growing gamefish.

Most of these smaller ponds and lakes, on the other hand, are fed by run-off from farmlands—and because they are often much more fertile than larger impoundments, they support a larger population of gamefish (per square acre), which tend to grow quite rapidly.

Produced by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, A Guide to Public Fishing Lakes in Kentucky details each of the small ponds and impoundments (more than 40 of them!) across the state. Written by Peter W. Pfeiffer, director of the fisheries division of the state DFW, and Bonny Dale Laffin, a district fisheries biologist, this 100-page book not only discusses the lakes, but provides such valuable information as contour maps, how-to-get-there maps, species found, launch ramps and facilities, and complete physical data for each lake. What is more, a graphic chart is provided for most of the lakes, illustrating the thermocline and oxycline location and the time frame in which they are found, plus recommended fishing

Frasure Leads Team In Win Over Dorton

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Karen Frasure, last week's WYMT-TV "Player of the Week," scored 27 points and grabbed nine rebounds and connected on eight of 12 free throws to lead Bridget Clay's Prestonsburg Lady Cats to a 60-54 come-from-behind victory over the Dorton Lady Wildcats Monday night.

Both teams hit some early baskets in the first quarter, and were tied at 14-all at the end of the stanza.

Each team struggled in the second period, as Dorton managed to get the lead at the half by five points, 23-18.

"We had so many turnovers in the second quarter," Clay said. "We just didn't do anything right then."

The Lady Wildcats didn't, either, or it could have been trouble for the Lady Cats.

"Had Dorton played any kind of ball against us, we would have been in trouble," Clay said.

Dorton continued to lead at the end of the third stanza, 37-33.

"We started to play well at the end of the third quarter," Clay explained. "We cut their lead down to four."

The fourth quarter turned into a free throw shooting contest.

"It took what seemed like forever to play the last quarter," Clay explained. "It seemed like they fouled us every two seconds," she added. "Sometimes they fouled before we had the ball."

Prestonsburg went to the line in the fourth quarter 24 times, connecting on 15 of them. Dorton shot 20 free throws in the final stanza and made 13.

Frasure had 14 attempts in the fourth period and made good on nine of them.

Prestonsburg fell behind by nine points, 52-43 in the closing stanza. Frasure hit a trey, to cut the lead to six, 52-46, and after a Dorton turnover, Michelle Clemmons hit another three-pointer to cut the lead to three, 52-49. Dorton missed on its next possession and Frasure scored two underneath and was fouled. She converted the free throw to tie the game at 52-52.

Another basket by Frasure put the Lady Cats ahead to stay 54-52 with 4:00 to go in the game.

The Lady Cats went on to win by six, 60-54.

Frasure led Prestonsburg with 27 points. Clemmons added 12 points.

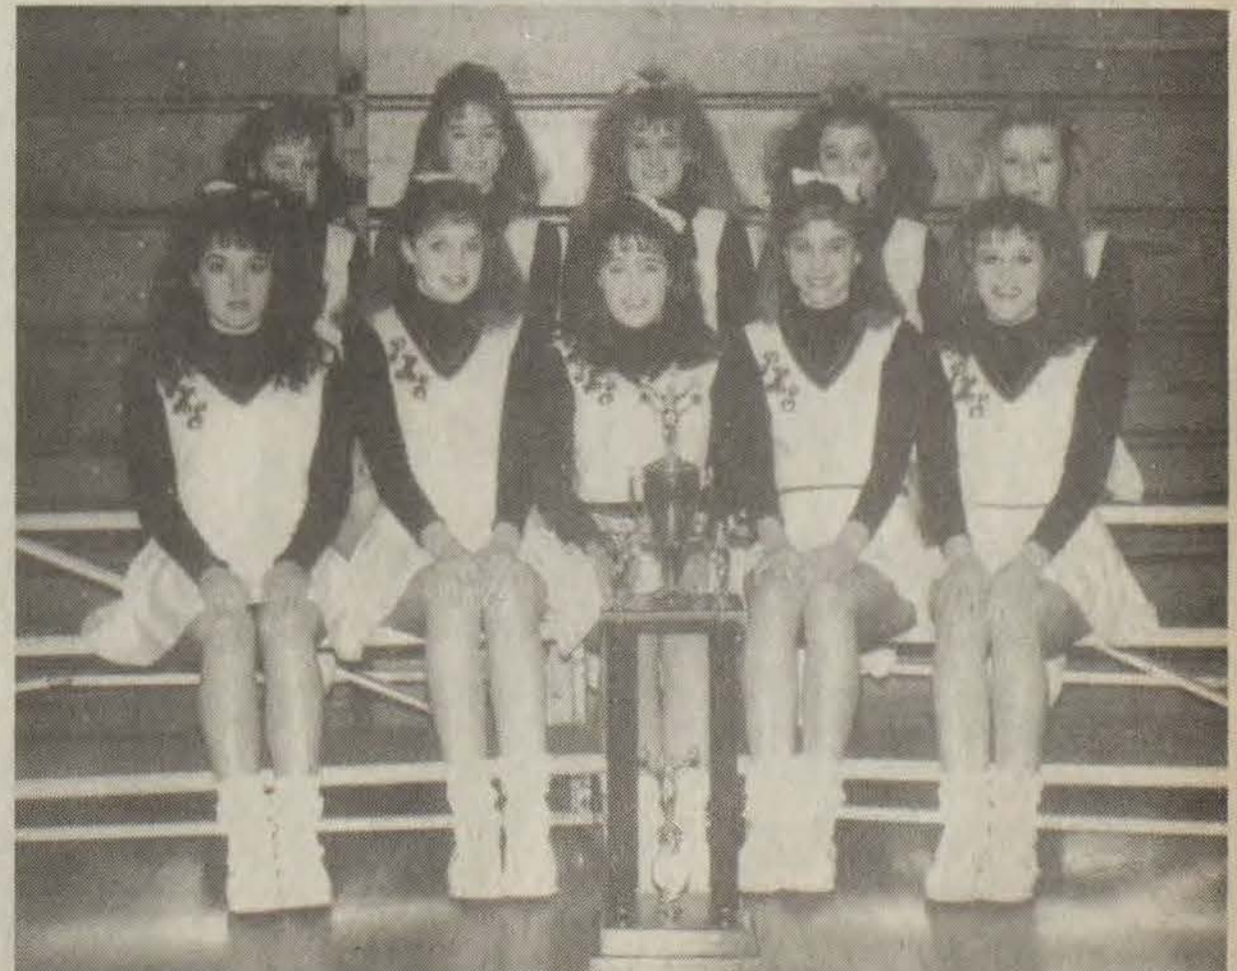

Prestonsburg improved its record to 10-7 overall. Clay's squad will travel to Jessamine County Friday night.

Melissa Anderson and Kathy Tackett led the Lady Wildcats with 12 points each.

Ashland Slips By Betsy Layne In Double Overtime

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

When the Betsy Layne Bobcats played in the Boyd County invitational tournament earlier this season, one of their opponents was the Ashland Tomcats, and the Bobcats tamed the Tomcats rather soundly with a 60-32 rout.

Saturday night coach Junior Newsome's squad made a visit back into the 16th region for another encounter with the Tomcats.

Behind the 42-point performance of Tim Foley, in double overtime, the Tomcats got revenge and handed the Bobcats their seventh defeat against 16 victories, 96-96, in a high scoring thriller.

In looking at the stats for the game, fans could not have seen a more evenly played game by two teams.

Ashland outscored the Bobcats 20-14 in the first stanza, and the Bobcats outscored the Tomcats 20-14 in the second period of play, with the score tied at the half, 34-34.

Each team tossed in 20 points in the third period, and was tied 54-54 at the third stop.

The fourth quarter was the same as the previous quarters as each team totalled 23 points each, and again they were tied 77-77.

"We had a chance to win," Newsome said. "Our baskets wouldn't fall for us."

In the first overtime, each team scored nine points, and the first three minutes overtime ended in a tie, 86-86.

Ashland outscored the Bobcats 10-9 in the second three minute period, to take the game by one, 96-95.

"We played well," Newsome said. "We missed some free throws down the stretch."

Newsome took notice of Larry Hall's play lately as he came off the Bobcat bench and scored 13 points. "Larry is playing real good basketball for us right now," Newsome said. "Doug (Willett) is going to be a big help to us as he gets more playing time."

Willett scored eight points off the bench, including two three-pointers. Foley had 42 points on 17 field goals and eight free throws to lead the Tomcats.

Keith Hall led the Bobcats with 21 points, Sam Stewart tossed in 19 points and Duran Newsome added 16, followed by Hall's 13.

Betsy Layne falls to 16-7 overall. The Bobcats top the conference race with a 5-1 record.

Coach Newsome's squad will host Allen Central Friday night at Betsy Layne.

In an earlier game, Betsy Layne defeated the Paintsville Tigers 73-71 at Paintsville.

Sam Stewart scored 20 points to top Betsy Layne, and Keith Hall and Duran Newsome each added 11 points.

Pelphrey netted 31 points for the Tigers in the losing cause.

Allen Central Sinks Elkhorn

The Allen Central Rebels, coming off a big non-conference victory over the Pikeville Panthers, traveled to Elkhorn City for another non-conference contest Saturday night.

Rick Smith scored 18 points to lead the Rebels to a 52-42 victory over the Cougars.

The Rebels struck early in the first quarter and built a 12 point lead at the end of the first period of play, 20-8.

Neither team could take advantage of each other's mistakes in the second stanza, as both scored only eight points, and the Rebels still led by 12 points at half time, 28-16.

Allen Central, a team that is showing signs of getting things together, continued to hold its lead in the third quarter with a 36-26 advantage.

The Rebels played the Cougars evenly in the fourth period and won the game 52-42, to balance their overall record to 10-10; they are 1-6 in the conference.

Smith led the Rebels with 18 points and Todd Duff added 10 points.

In an earlier game, the Rebels surprised the Pikeville Panthers with a 27-point rout, 93-66.

Senior Todd Duff put on his own offensive show by hitting six three-pointers, and scored 31 points for the Rebels. Senior center Joey Conn, 6'1", added 19 points, and Kevin Webb and Stewart Halbert tossed in 14 points and 10 points respectively.

Johnny Hale led the Panthers with 13 points. Chris Slater netted 12 points.

Pee Wee Basketball Comes To Prestonsburg

Prestonsburg Elementary School has started an intramural basketball league, according to Thomas Tackett, principal.

The Pee Wee League is for grades kindergarten through third. There are presently four Pee Wee teams with 47 participants, and they play on Saturdays.

Scotty Howell, seeing a need for the lower grades to have a basketball program of their own, approached Tackett about the idea, and the league was formed.

"The purpose for this league, at this level, is to teach the kids the fundamentals of basketball," spokeswoman Sandy Howell said.

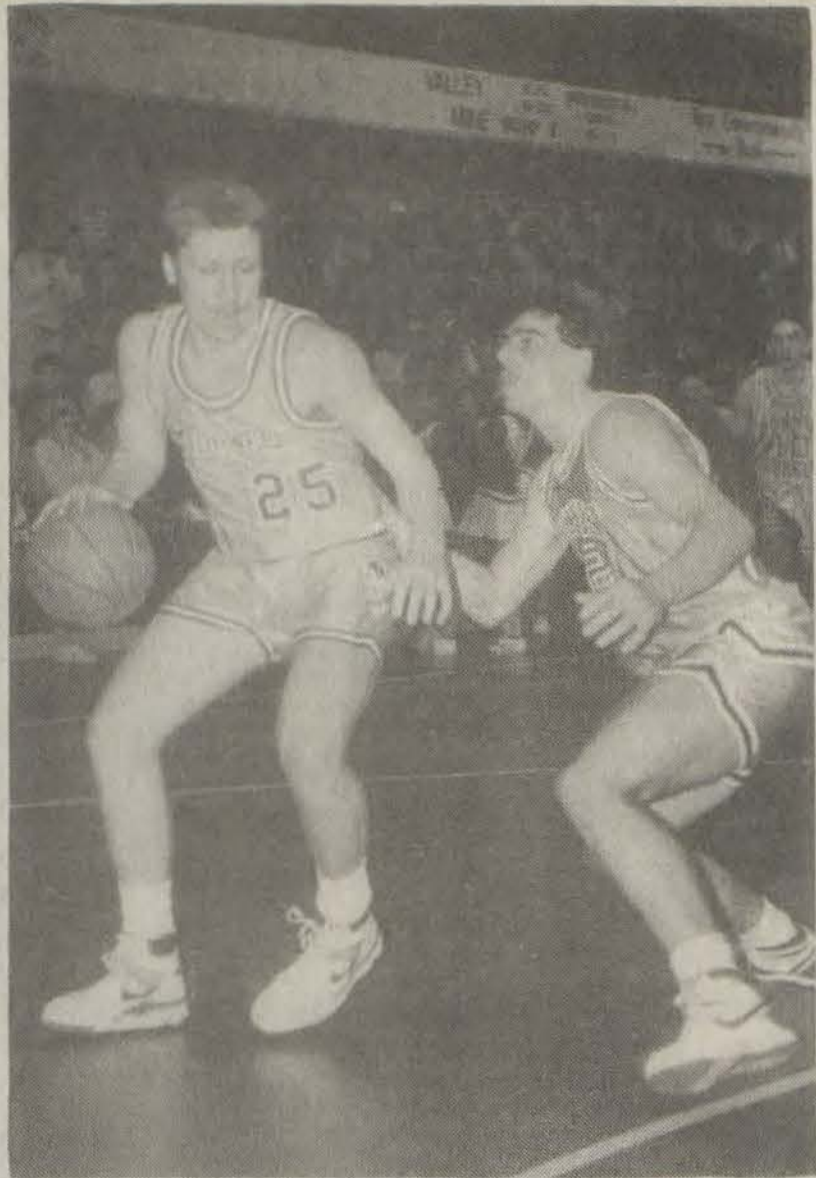

Another level of competition is varsity, for grades four through eight. This includes leagues for both boys and girls. The varsity league plays its games on Mondays and Fridays, and will run four games a night.

Gaye Hatfield, director for the girls' league said there are 72 participants in the varsity league. She added that they play under regular basketball rules. There are nine teams. Jack Goodman is the director of the boys' varsity league. Coaches for the teams are usually parents of the children taking part

Rabbit, Quail Numbers Down

Hunters are reporting finding fewer rabbits and quail than usual in Kentucky this season. It seems last summer's drought affected these species more than had been anticipated, according to Jeff Sole, upland game program coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Even though rabbits reproduced at a normal rate last year, their numbers declined due to poor food production and reduced cover. Both were caused by extremely hot, dry weather experienced statewide last year.

Quail were even more affected because severe drought conditions hit during their first nesting period; eggs spoiled in the nest. The second hatch fared a little better, but traditionally, it's never big enough to make up for the numbers lost on the first go 'round.

WHS Lady Trojans Win Second Straight

The Wheelwright Lady Trojans, still on a roll after their first conference win, traveled to June Buchanan and won their second straight game, 47-26.

"We really look good against June Buchanan," Coach Judy Eversole said. "We have some momentum going for us right now."

Wheelwright outscored June Buchanan to take a 8-0 first quarter lead and extended it out to 9 points at the first stop, 14-5.

Jedon Hood hit four baskets in the second quarter, and the Lady Trojans lead went to 19 points, 31-12 at halftime.

"Jedon always has a good game for us," Eversole said. "She's just a good ball player."

"We feel we can play with anybody in our conference," the Lady Trojan mentor said. "We're not down because of our record," she added. "We need to get a little more consistency out of some of our players."

Playing their subs, the Trojans scored only five points in the third stanza, but still maintained an 18-point advantage, 36-18.

The Lady Trojans won the non-conference game by 21 points, 47-26.

"We were in the same position last year," Eversole said. "We finished last in our conference and had to play Allen Central." The Lady Trojans defeated the Lady Rebels and advanced to the district finals, and then on to the regional tournament.

Can the Lady Trojans do it again? "I've asked myself that question before," Eversole explained. "I believe we can do it again, and the team believes we can do it again."

With the win, Wheelwright improves to 3-11 overall.

Hood topped the Lady Trojans in scoring with 23 points, and Becky Allen added 12 points.

Wheelwright will visit M.C. Napier next Thursday night, February 16th.

Glenna Hall led the June Buchanan in scoring with 17 points.

Betsy Layne Lady Cats Fall To Lady Cardinals

The Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats, playing without leading scorer Brenda Hamilton, traveled to Sheldon Clark for top regional action with the Lady Cardinals.

The Lady Cardinals held a one-point lead in the first period, 9-8, as neither team displayed any offensive power.

Sheldon Clark outscored the Lady Bobcats by three, 8-5, and led at the half by four, 17-13, as both teams continued to struggle.

It was all Sheldon Clark in the third period, as the Lady Cardinals, showing some offensive intensity, scored 23 points while holding Betsy Layne to six. Sheldon Clark led by 21 points, 40-19, at the end of the third period of play.

Sheldon Clark was never threatened again, going on to pick up a win over Betsy Layne, 62-36.

Marcum led the Lady Cardinals in scoring with 21 points. Bowen tossed in 12, and Bailey scored 10.

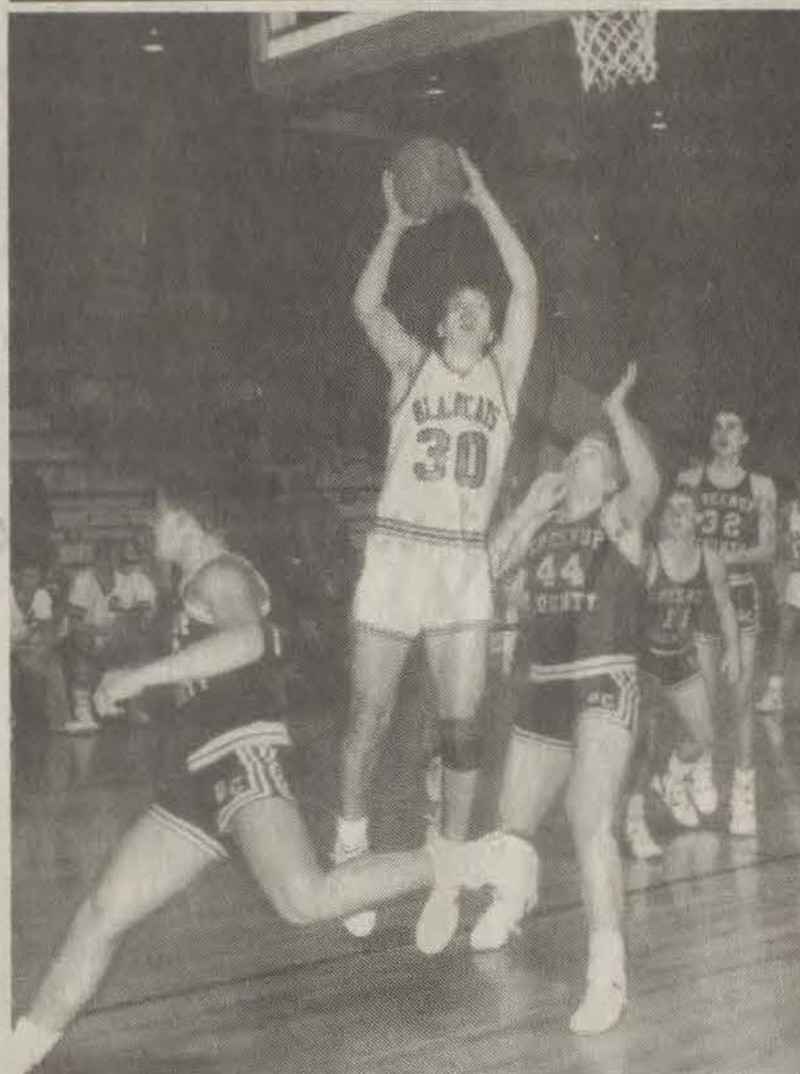

Betsy Layne was led by 6'1" freshman Melissa Bailey, who scored 10 points. Nancy Shepherd had eight, and Danita Johnson netted six.

Betsy Layne still leads the Floyd County conference with a 5-1 record, with games against McDowell and Allen Central this week.

The Lady Bobcats will host Allen Central this Friday night at the D.W. Fieldhouse at Betsy Layne.

A Policy Statement From Music-Carter-Hughes

LET'S TALK ABOUT SOME INTERESTING AND IRON-CLAD FACTS.

No dealer has any way he can buy a new car or truck from the manufacturer for less than another dealer! If they are equipped the same, they cost the same...That's a fact, and it's the law, because the government will not allow discrimination between the manufacturer and it's dealers, no matter what size or where the dealer is located. So when a dealer Seems to be offering more for less, Beware, and look for the fine print, fictitious consumer fees, and payments that increase during the contract.

Here is one fact that will never change...If you compare model for model, option for option, no one will sell you outright a new Chevrolet, Buick, Chrysler, Plymouth or Dodge for less! NO ONE! If you bring us your best deal from any dealer, be they metro or mountain, we will not only meet it, We Will Beat It!!

Remember, when all is said and done, it's not what some dealer tells you he is saving you that matters, it's the bottom line that tells how much you spend. COME to Music-Carter-Hughes in Prestonsburg.

WHERE THE BOTTOM LINE IS LESS!!

Lady Blackcats Slip Past Trojans

The "flu bug" has been hurting the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats lately, and now Kathy Slone has been bitten by it and can't perform at her best.

"Kathy has only been able to participate in our shooting practices only," coach Bridget Clay says.

Flu or no flu, the 5'7" sophomore Slone turned in a sparkling defensive performance Friday night against Wheelwright, as the Lady Blackcats, led by Karen Frasure's 30 points and 10 rebounds, defeated the Lady Trojans, 51-45, in their final conference game.

"Slone's defense plays a big part in our winning this year," Clay says. "She does a tremendous job on defense for us."

Wheelwright, coming off their first conference win against

McDowell the previous Tuesday night, started fast in the first quarter and led by four, 12-8, at the end of the first stanza.

"Wheelwright is playing better basketball," Clay said. "Coach Eversole always has her teams ready by tournament time."

Frasure connected on two of her five three-pointers in the second stanza as the Lady Blackcats went out in front, outscoring the Lady Trojans 13-7, to lead at the half by two, 21-19.

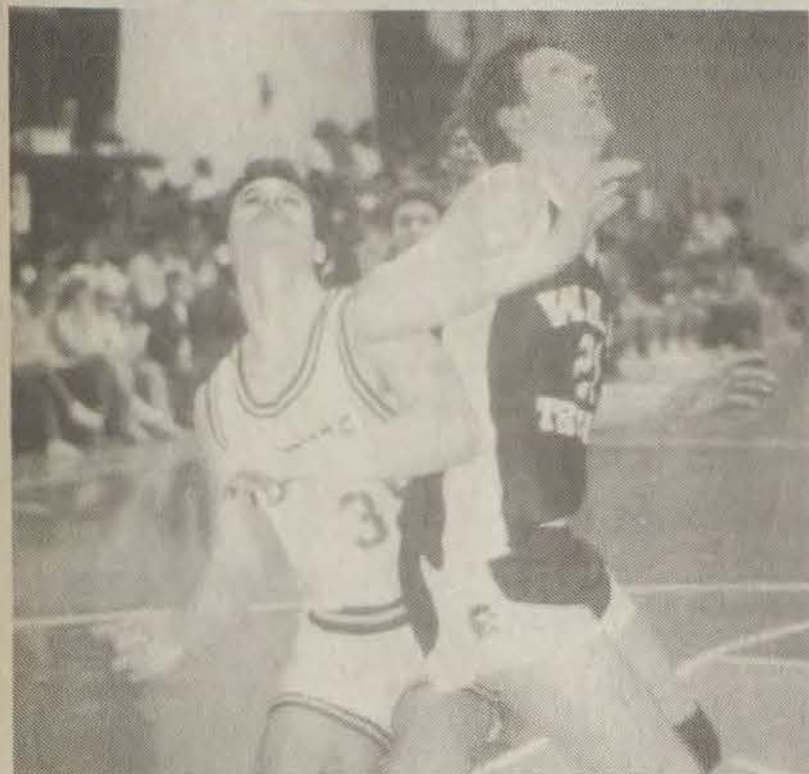

come of the Allen Central at Betsy Layne game Friday night Prestonsburg is 9-7 overall.

Jedon Hood tossed in 18 points to lead Wheelwright. April Bradford added 10 points.

Wheelwright falls to 2-10 overall and goes 1-7 in the conference.

Prestonsburg will travel to Jessamine County Friday night, and will play at Lexington Catholic Saturday night.

Wheelwright travels to Virgie Wednesday night (tonight), to play the Lady Eagles.

Positioning

Marc Hall (35) of McDowell and Brad Compton (20) of Wheelwright position themselves for a rebound in conference play at McDowell last Tuesday night. McDowell defeated the Trojans 95-81.

The Lady Blackcats continued to get the ball to Frasure in the third period, as the senior forward took control on offense and on the boards. PHS extended its lead to 37-33 at the end of third quarter play.

Wheelwright managed to tie the Lady Blackcats at 45-all with a minute to go in the fourth quarter. Prestonsburg, with possession and holding the ball for a last-second shot, was fouled, and Michelle Clemmons went to the charity line and converted a one and one to give the Lady Blackcats a 47-45 lead. After a Wheelwright miss, Karen Frasure was fouled, and she also converted a one and one to push the Lady Blackcats up by four, 49-45.

Wheelwright turned the ball over and Prestonsburg scored and won the contest, 51-45.

"We missed shots underneath," Clay said. "We shot 35 percent for the game from the field but credit Wheelwright's defense for that."

Prestonsburg hit 13 out of 20 free throws for 66 percent, and converted six of seven in the final stanza.

Frasure led Prestonsburg with 30 points. Kathy Slone tossed in 10 points in limited play.

Prestonsburg is 6-2 in the conference and is assured of at least second place, depending on the out-depths.

Although I try not to make such generalizations, I feel that I can safely say that Kentucky's finest bass and bluegill fishing is not found in our large impoundments, but in our smaller lakes and ponds. That, at least, has been my experience. I personally know of two small lakes which support large populations of 4- to 7-pound largemouths, and biologists have told me that they've shocked several 9-pounders in each of them. Another one is home to the largest bluegill that I have ever seen (I saw an angler take a 13-inch bluegill there on a fly rod!).

If you are looking for a new place to float your boat or fish from the bank, you owe it to yourself to read this book. And best of all, you can obtain a free copy by simply writing: Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Arnold L. Mitchell Building, No. 1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601. Be sure to specify the title of the book with your request.

Novice anglers will be especially interested in a recently-published book from the "In-Fisherman" library. Titled Fishing Fundamentals, the book was written by one of America's greatest outdoor writers, Wade Bourne.

Using the proven "In-Fisherman" formula for success, F+L+P= success (or Fish + Location + Presentation = Success), the author guides you step by gentle step into the sometimes confusing world of modern angling. Every conceivable aspect of fishing, from bass to bluegill and everything in between, from tackle selection to boats and electronics, is detailed in an easy to understand format.

If you would like to learn how to fish, or want to improve your angling skills, I heartily recommend Fishing Fundamentals. It would be a great gift for a young angler. Copies can be ordered by sending a check or money order in the amount of $13.50 (shipping charges included) to: Fishing Fundamentals, Wade Bourne, 450 Old Trenton Road, Clarksville, TN 37040.

Prestonsburg Strikes Early, Defeats Visiting Greenup Team

The Prestonsburg Blackcats played host to Greenup County from the 16th region Saturday night, placing four players in double figures, shooting 58 percent from the field, hitting 75 percent from the charity line and playing their best third quarter this year to defeat Greenup County, 74-61. The Blackcats led by 12 points at the end of the first quarter of play. At half time, Prestonsburg was in control by seven points, 37-30.

A hardnosed man-to-man defense and execution of play patterns was cause for Coach Gordon Parido's elation over his team's performance in the third quarter. "We played the best third quarter we've played all year," Parido said. The Blackcats outscored Greenup County 23-12 to take an 18 point advantage, 60-42. Scott Hall, who has been seeing limited playing time because of the flu, added to the Blackcat attack against Greenup County, hitting five for five field goal attempts. The Blackcats defeated Greenup County 74-61 for their 14th victory against only six setbacks. Senior Danny Hamilton scored 17 points for Prestonsburg. Todd Justice added 16 points, and Chris Slone and Hall netted 13 and 11 points respectively. Greenup County was led by Kelly Ward with 14 points. Bryan Hatfield had 12 points and Ron Harries added 10. GREENUP COUNTY 11 19 12 19 (61); Ed Adkins, 3-0 0 6; Ron Harries, 3-0 4 10; Scott Hall, 2-0 1 5;

Junior Pro Basketball: Growing Stronger

It is refreshing in this day and time to come across a level of competition where there are no lingering investigations, and no problems with drug abuse.

The National Junior Pro program is such a level of competition, and is active in Floyd County for boys and girls who otherwise would not have the chance to participate in organized sports.

Competition in Junior Pro basketball is divided into three divisions: varsity, junior varsity, and the training league level.

Rules for Junior Pro basketball are much the same as high school. In Junior Pro there is no back court defense, except for the last quarter. There are no three-point baskets, and every player must play at least one quarter.

Once a league is formed, it applies for membership in the National Junior Pro program to be sanctioned.

For a team to be sanctioned, each league must have four teams in each division, and each division must have the minimum of 32 participants.

Each program must pay an entry fee of $8.50 per player to cover the cost of insurance, obtained through the National Junior Pro program.

This fee is generally paid by the participant's parents. Local programs will generally charge a slightly higher cost to generate funds to cover the cost of starting up a new program.

Concession stands are operated by each league to raise money for expenses that usually occur during the season.

Uniforms, trophies, and basketballs are purchased with the money that the concession stands bring in. Other financial help comes from donations of the parents.

In Floyd County, there are five locations where Junior Pro basketball is played—Allen, Martin, Maytown, McDowell and Prestonsburg.

Three of the five teams are registered with the National Junior Pro program (Martin, Maytown and McDowell), and they participate in the state's tournament for Junior Pro's held in March.

Martin was the first Junior Pro program to be formed in Floyd County. Raymond "Muggsy" Griffith Jr., former boy's basketball coach at Martin Elementary, organized the Junior Pro program in 1974. It has just completed its 15th year of operation.

"The consensus of most people was that grade school basketball only served the kids down to the sixth grade," former school superintendent Pete Grigsby Jr., said. "The schools didn't have the staff to handle the type of program that would be required to handle all the kids."

Johnny Mayo, the director of the Martin program, speaks of the Martin Junior Pro's with excitement.

"We have 160 kids playing basketball in our program," he said. "We even have 57 cheerleaders taking part."

The Martin franchise has been very successful since it's inauguration in 1974. Edgel "Bide" Click, who was a coach in the first year of the league, has memories of their trip to the National Junior Pro Tournament held in Knoxville, Tenn.

"In 1984, we went to Lexington to play in the state tournament for the Junior Varsity girls," Click said. "We won our first state tournament and we advanced to the National finals in Knoxville."

"We made it to the finals of the National tourney and we beat Powell, Tenn. for the championship, 32-26," Click said.

"In 1985, we won the state title again at Hopkinsville," Click said. "We went to the nationals again at Knoxville, and lost in the finals to Clarksville, Tenn.," Click said. "We were leading by 16 points at the half," Click explained, "but one of their players hit 21 free throws against us."

The Martin program currently has 160 kids taking part. They have four junior varsity girl's teams, and six boy's junior varsity teams, and four training league teams.

The Martin league plays its games on Saturdays, and will run eight games a day beginning at 9 a.m. until all games are completed.

"We are here to help these kids in learning the fundamentals of basketball," Mayo said. "We stress individual behavior, and just having fun. This is a family outing for most families."

Mayo speaks openly of the support the Martin Grade School has provided.

Mr. (William) Hughes, (principal at Martin), and Mr. (Jimmy) Hopkins, (boy's basketball coach), have really supported us," Mayo said. "Whatever they could do, they would."

TO ALL VOTERS OF DISTRICT #3:

I, Robert "Bobby" Stumbo of Minnie, Ky. am very proud to announce my candidacy for your magistrate.

It would be a pleasure to meet with each and every good citizen of District #3 to talk with you and express my ideas on what I would attempt to do to help all of you. However, this is impossible before the May Primary.

So I am asking all voters of District #3 to give me the opportunity to serve as your magistrate and I promise that I will do my best to carry out the following:

1. I will be a full time magistrate six days a week, twenty-four hours a day or whatever it takes to serve the people and make our district a better place to live.
2. To take care of our roads, grading, gravel, red dog and asphalt where needed.
3. I would be willing to donate a part of my own salary for asphalt, gravel, etc., or for what we need for our district.
4. I will see that drains, etc. are provided where needed to keep school children from wading creeks.
5. To provide an access to all cemeteries and assist in the upkeep of them.
6. To keep drains, ditch lines and creeks free of trash.
7. I would do everything I could to bring more employment to our district.
8. I would work to upkeep our parks and other public play areas which are badly needed for our young people.
9. I would like to try to see that a swimming pool is put at Minnie Park.
10. To see that people driving in hollows would have clearer vision of the road by cutting bushes and low-hanging tree branches.
11. The road equipment will be available to serve all people from one end to the other of our district.
12. I would like to meet every candidate and would gladly share my ideas with their ideas.
13. If I can assist you in any way, please contact me, day or night, 377-6114.

Your Vote and Support will be Deeply Appreciated.

MHS Lady Daredevils Pull 60-45 Upset Friday

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

With the district tournament only weeks away, Floyd County teams are continuing to jockey for positions in the conference standing.

Coach Cassandra Keathley and her McDowell Lady Daredevils are no exception. Keathley's squad, in trying to elude the basement of the conference standings, played at Allen Central Friday night against the Lady Rebels, who are playing without leading scorer Jo Ann Conn, who is out with a sprained knee.

Gloria Mullins tossed in 23 points to lead the Lady Daredevils, now 2-5 in conference play and 10-10 overall, to a 60-45 upset victory over the Lady Rebels.

Allen Central scored first in the first quarter and held their only lead, 2-0. McDowell scored the next eight points to lead 8-2. The Lady Daredevils, playing good defense, held a nine-point advantage, 15-6, at the end of first quarter play.

"Our defense was excellent," Keathley said. "We shut down their offense."

Early baskets by Mullins and Tish Slone, and some good rebounding in the second quarter, helped the McDowell team to extend its lead to 12 points, 28-16, at half time.

"Our team blocked out on the boards real well," Keathley said. "We were just letting Allen Central get one shot at the basket."

Good free throw shooting in the third quarter allowed McDowell to mount a 17-point lead at the end of the third stanza, 45-28.

"We hit our free throws with some consistency against Allen Central," Keathley said. McDowell hit 60 percent for the game. "That's real good for us," Keathley added.

McDowell held its biggest lead of the game, 47-28, early in the final period. The Lady Rebs fought back and cut McDowell's lead of 19 points down to six.

"That's typical of our team this year," Keathley explained. "We build a big lead and let down in the fourth quarter."

The Lady Daredevils hit some free throws down the stretch, as well as two key baskets, and held on to upset

Allen Central 60-45.

"Everything came together for us in this game," Keathley said. "Our offense and defense was there for us."

Mullins led McDowell with 23 points. Pricilla Crawford added 12 points, and Slone tossed in 10 points.

McDowell will entertain Letcher County on Monday night, Feb. 13 at the Grigsby Fieldhouse.

Teresa Gibson tossed in 14 points to lead the Lady Rebels. Stacey Moore added 13 points. Allen Central falls to 4-3 in conference play and is 8-6 overall.

Allen Central will visit Betsy Layne Friday night for a battle with the first place Lady Bobcats.

Daredevils Win, 95-81

The McDowell Daredevils placed four players in double figures, led by Rady Martin's 25 points, as they defeated coach Monroe Jones' Wheelwright Trojans last Tuesday night in a high-scoring affair.

McDowell jumped in front of the Trojans, 8-0, with the first 1-15 of the first stanza with their quick offense and pressure defense, as both teams combined for 52 first period points. McDowell led 29-23 at the first stop.

Three-point baskets by Rady Martin and Henry Webb, and two-pointers by Martin and Webb, propelled the Daredevils out in front with 3:04 remaining in the second quarter by 10, 39-29. Turnovers and missed free throws plagued the Trojans, and McDowell led by 14 points, 43-29 at the half.

In the third period, turnovers continued to hurt Wheelwright, as McDowell built its lead to 18, 52-34. McDowell held a 15-point third quarter advantage, 69-54.

Dickie Joe Shannon, who had no points in the first half, made his presence felt in the fourth quarter, scoring 16 of his 24 points in the final stanza, and McDowell was out in front by 21 points, 77-65 with 6:23 remaining.

Wheelwright could come no closer than the final margin of 14 points as McDowell went on to post an impressive 95-81 victory.

Martin scored 25 points to lead McDowell. Shannon finished with 24 points, all in the second half, and Henry Webb added 19 points, including three-three-pointers. Marc Hall netted 18 points.

Martin scored 33 points to lead the Trojans. Chad Hall netted 11 points, and Brad Compton added 10 points.

WHS Lady Trojans Get 1st Conference Win

For Coach Judy Eversole and her Lady Trojans of Wheelwright, waiting for their first conference win was like waiting for Ed McMahon to award a "sweepstakes" check.

"You think it's never going to come," said Eversole.

The "sweepstakes" check never came last Tuesday night, but the Lady Trojans first conference victory did, as they handed the Lady Daredevils of McDowell a 54-49 conference setback.

"It's good to get our first conference win," Eversole said. "We have been playing better our last few games."

Wheelwright's rolled out in front 7-1 in the first quarter, as the Lady Trojans defense caused McDowell some trouble and caused them to turn the ball over. Wheelwright led at the end of the first stanza, 15-11.

Pricilla Crawford's basket at 4:02 in the second period brought the Lady Daredevils to within one, 21-20. But baskets by Becky Allen and Jedon Hood gave the Lady Trojans a five-point half time lead, 27-22.

Six quick points by Lori Bryant, and four by Crawford, helped the Lady Daredevils to make a 10-4 run at Wheelwright, and tie the score at 31-31, with 4:10 to go in the third stanza. After a basket by April Bradford, McDowell went on another 10-4 run to lead at the end of the third period, 41-37.

An 8-2 run by Wheelwright reclaimed the lead at 45-43 with 5:32 to go in the fourth quarter. Gloria Mullins hit a three-pointer for a 46-45 McDowell lead. A basket by Bradford with 40 seconds remaining put the Lady Trojans up by three points, 51-48 and they held on to win the contest, 54-49.

Talitha Hutton led all scorers with 20 points for Wheelwright. Bradford had 13 points, and Allen scored 10.

"Hutton, our point guard, played her best game of the season," Eversole said. "We were patient on offense and took some good shots. We didn't hit the boards well, and our turnovers hurt us."

"We wanted to slow the game down and prevent making so many turnovers," Eversole explained.

Wheelwright picked up its first conference win and is now 1-6 in the standings. McDowell falls to 1-5.

McDowell was led by Mullins' 17 points and Bryant's 11 points.

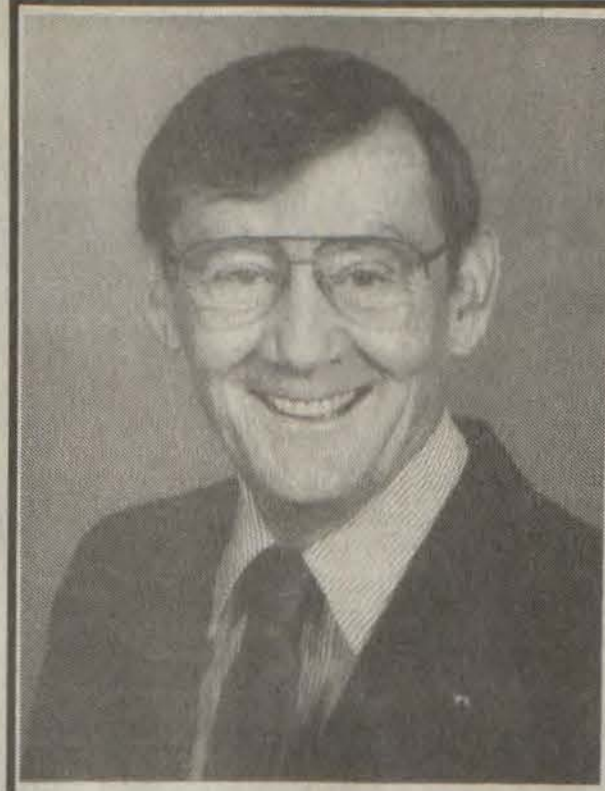

WHEELWRIGHT 15 12 10 17 (54); Jedon Hood, 4-0 0 8; April Bradford, 6-0 1 13; Talitha Hutton, 6-0 8 20; Becky Allen, 5-0 0 10; Gina Johnson, 1-0 0 2.

Power Of Positive Students Program Begins At Prater

The class at right and those below are participating in a new program at Prater Elementary School, known as POPS (Power of Positive Students), according to Gene Davis, principal.

"This program will be very beneficial to our students, teachers and parents. The video tapes show real life stories that will help children solve their own problems in a positive manner," said Davis. He added POPS is one of the best programs offered to students he has seen.

"I want the parents to know that we believe in your child as you do, and we want to help build a positive self-image that will help carry him/her successfully through life," Davis explained.

Classes pictured are Katrina Davis' kindergarten, Billie Hall's third and fourth grade, Rebecca Watts' second grade, Sherry Tackett's first grade, and Jim Frasure's fourth and fifth grade.

Radiologist Issues Warnings To Anatomy Class

by Penny Triplett and Gina Johnson

Barbara Barker, the clinical coordinator of radiological technology at Morehead State University, issued a grim warning to approximately 30 members of Wheelwright High School's anatomy and physiology class on Jan. 19 at the high school.

"If you think that you're pregnant, and you're getting ready to have an x-ray, tell the technician about your possible pregnancy," Barker told the female students in Doris Osborne's class. "The first three months of a baby's development are the most crucial, and exposure to radiation during this time could cause birth defects, retardation, or death."

In a time when more and more teenage pregnancies are occurring, the issue is an important one. Barker made her remarks as part of a presentation sponsored by the Speakers Bureau at Morehead State University. She visits six to eight schools each year to talk to students about the field of radiology and to reinforce what they have been learning in the classroom.

"So few people know what we actually do. Everyone is familiar with the nursing profession because they have seen it glamorized on television. Hopefully, this program will open up the radiology field to more people," Barker said.

Barker brought actual x-rays showing different medical conditions that students in the class had been studying. Students saw x-rays of such health disorders as emphysema, kidney stones, tumors and bone fractures.

"Ms. Barker not only showed the x-rays, she also asked questions about the medical problems and up to a point, my students could answer all her questions. By the end of her talk, she was beginning to cover some areas that we haven't reached in our text yet, but I think she was surprised that the students knew as much as they did. At least one student has expressed an interest in going into the field of radiology and Ms. Barker's visit provided her with some good information about it," Doris Osborne, the teacher of the class, explained.

One of the most unusual x-rays Barker brought with her was a pair of Siamese twins, something that the average high school student would not have the opportunity to see.

"She gave a very interesting and informative talk," said Trina Johnson, one of the seniors who sat in on the lecture.

"Too many times, students don't have the opportunity to experience directly or observe what they have studied in their textbooks. Any time I can have an expert in my classroom to talk to them, I try to do that. Morehead makes these speakers available to the schools at no cost. It would be a shame not to make use of that resource," Osborne said.

Poor Schools Say Kentucky Finance System Unfair

by Tom Parrish
(Second in a series)

The 66 poor school districts who filed suit two years ago against the State of Kentucky argued that the Commonwealth's system of financing public schools is unconstitutional.

Their attorney, former Gov. Bert T. Combs, focused on two issues:

What are the educational requirements of the Kentucky Constitution? and

Is the state's educational system meeting these requirements?

During recent years a number of such court battles have been waged in states across the country (the total of such suits amounted by late 1988 to about 30). In California, where the first suit was brought in 1968, a third suit is now awaiting judgment, but the poor districts were winners the first two times. In 1977 a group of Arkansas school superintendents sued their state government for more money and in 1983 the state supreme court ruled in their favor.

New Jersey has fought such a battle since 1970. Although the poor districts won in the supreme court in 1973, the (New Jersey) state Legislature did not follow up with an improvement program, and in 1976 the struggle took a dramatic turn when the court closed the schools.

They would not reopen, said the judges, until the Legislature dealt with the problem. The legislators immediately passed an income tax, but in 1981 a new case was brought;

although that was seven years ago, a final judgment has not been rendered. In West Virginia, poor school districts won a legal victory in 1982.

Thus, in bringing their action against the state, the Kentucky school districts were moving with the flow of the times. Spending by Kentucky's richest district is $3,840 per pupil—about twice the level of the poorest ($1,819). But the problem in Kentucky presented itself as more acute than in many states because of the low overall level of the state's funding (Virginia's minimum, for instance, is $2,747—almost $1,000 more than the Kentucky low).

Throughout most of the early years the state government looked on funding as largely the responsibility of the local districts. Under the 1890 Constitution, which called for Frankfort to take a more active part, the state simply distributed the dollars on the basis of the number of school-age children in a district, whether or not all the children were enrolled in public schools. Hence districts in which many children were enrolled in private schools—or to no schools at all—had more money to educate the youngsters who did show up in the classrooms.

After 40 years of experience with this inherently illogical method of funding the schools, the Legislature in 1930 moved to improve matters by setting aside part of the state school fund to help equalize the financing of the poor districts. But in 1932 the courts found this move unconstitutional. Nine years later voters approved a constitutional amendment allowing equalization, with 10 percent of the state school fund going for that purpose; in 1949 the amount was raised to 25 percent.

In 1952, in a major development, another constitutional amendment completely removed the old per capita requirement and vested the General Assembly with complete responsibility for school financing.

The result, in 1954, was creation of the Minimum Foundation Program, which bases funding on the number of students in school.

To take part in this program (which was, of course, a must for any school district), a district had to make an effort of its own by levying a minimum property tax of $1.10 per $100 of valuation. The purpose of the new law, said the Legislature, was "to assure substantially equal public school educational opportunities."

The new tax effort seemed to cause no problem, because assessments were extremely low, sometimes as little as 12 1/2 percent of actual market value. Accordingly, most districts proceeded to levy the maximum $1.50 rate allowed by the Legislature. Even so, the low level of the assessments meant that several districts could produce the required local effort only through such fund-raisers as bake sales and car washes.

But in 1965 came a judicial revolution. A Court of Appeals ruling required that property be assessed at

David Seniors Raise Funds; Tee-Shirt Sale Underway

Three David School seniors raised more than $500 last week for the Parent/Professional Center for handicapped children.

Harmalina Leedy, Tina Miller and Jenny Carpenter conducted a roadblock at the intersection of US 23 and KY 1428 Wednesday and Thursday to solicit donations from motorists.

The three are students in the school's community service class, which encourages students to participate in service activities.

The class is also selling tee-shirts with personalized Valentine's Day messages. Only white shirts are available, but teacher Marty Green said that persons with colored tee-shirts may bring them to the school to have messages printed on them.

Money from the tee-shirt sale will also go to the Parent/Professional Center, Green said. Orders can be made by calling the school at 886-8374 or the center at 886-8572.

The contributions will be used to purchase literature and materials for the center, which assists parents of handicapped children and professionals who work with the children, according to director Harmon Leedy. The center is located on the third floor of Mountain Comprehensive Care in Prestonsburg.

The two eighth grade students were John Collins and Sheila Newsome. Two of the 12 students made a 4.0—Jimmi Rainey and Alena Meade.

Dingus treated the students to a pizza party at Jan and Ben's Restaurant in Bevinsville.

Qualified Faculty

The faculty at Mountain Christian Academy are all certified teachers, one has a Masters degree, one is working toward a Masters, and others have work above the first degree. The Administrator has a Doctor's degree. There is a qualified Guidance Counselor. In the area of service and experience there is a good mix. The range is from three to thirty six years. The academic training plus the educational experience places the faculty in a position of knowledgeable capability of handling the assignment within the classroom.

There is a high moral standard upheld by all the faculty. Yet, they are of diverse religious backgrounds. The faculty is a variety of religious denominations; Baptist, Catholic, First Assembly of God, Pentecostal, Protestant, and United Methodist. The literature for Christian education was the selection of twenty denominations. The school is non-denominational in the teaching of Christian education and the moral principles and standards that are adhered to.

The faculty possesses a degree of dedication that is seldom found. The faculty salary is low in comparison to other comparable institutions. The motivation for service comes from the goals of each individual. Expectations are a vital part of the emotional setting of the classroom. The faculty demands a lot of themselves and pass this on as an expectation to the students.

Behavioral guidance, is part of the faculty's program. Due to the above factors behavior is stressed as a matter of course. Acceptable action is taken for granted and becomes an important part of the foundation for the rest of the program.

Open communication is practiced so that an issue may be discussed at all levels.

To sum the faculty's qualifications, they are: certified, experienced, morally religious, dedicated, motivated, open to communication, and caring individuals. This faculty extends to you an invitation to visit with them and make a personal observation.

The Instructional Program by Levels

Pre-Kindergarten/Day Care 7:00-5:30
Curriculum: Christian Education (David Cook Company). Pre-reading, pre-math skills, language arts, science, art, music, physical education, self help and supervised free play. (The Bridge to Reading Program).

All staff members are experienced early childhood educators. Mountain Christian Academy Preschool family provides care and love to your child while he/she is away from you.

Kindergarten begins with language arts using the Open Court Program and is an effective program that teaches the children basic reading and language skills needed for successful school learning. The children learn to recognize, name and print all the capital letters of the alphabet.

Math helps or challenges students to master the following: Classification, shape, size, position, counting, number recognition, time, money; writing numerals 1-100, addition and subtraction.

Science is used to teach the children awareness of our environment, plants, and animals. Experiments are conducted. The children are encouraged to come up with their own theories and methods of testing their theories.

Social Studies is used to develop self-awareness and awareness of others, how families live together, and how we get our food and clothing.

Health & Safety is used to ensure that our school is a safe place for us and to heighten children's awareness regarding the importance of safety in their everyday lives.

FIRST

The Open Court Reading and Language Skills Program helps students to read, write and communicate independently. The program develops independent readers and learners. Open Court develops creative writing and thinking skills. It is for all students, providing excellence without leaving anyone behind.

Reading skills are continuously reinforced. Students are taught all the main sounds of the English language and their associated spellings in the first grade, which is reinforced in the second and third grades. Open Court uses intensive phonics techniques including systematic blending activities with multisensory methods to teach reading and writing. Fluency in decoding helps build both reading and comprehension skills. The readers are anthologies of the highest quality presenting good models of good literature and writing.

The Open Court Reading and Language Program essentially develops the children's speaking abilities as it develops their reading and writing abilities.

SECOND

The students at this level have a hard-cover reader, a comprehension workbook and a language workbook. These are designed to give students a useful set of skills in reading and comprehension, written and oral communication, grammar, usage, and spelling. The aim is to have children read, write and communicate fluently, clearly, and with understanding.

Each week the students write a story of their own. The rest of the week is spent looking at sentences from these stories and talking about correct use of language skills and incorrect usage. Workshop is a time when half the students are with the teacher getting extra practice in areas of need and the other half of the students are quietly playing specific learning games or working independently on specific assigned work. The students then rotate.

THIRD & FOURTH

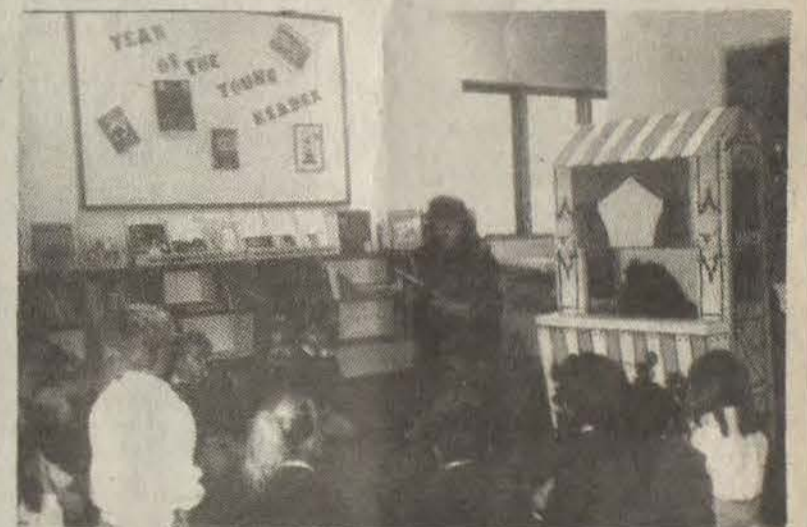

Special emphasis is placed on reading in all classes. Open Court Reading skills are taught on a continuing basis and are used with many new words in any subject matter. Students are given one hour weekly, for free-reading time.

English and Spelling are stressed in all classroom situations. Being able to express one's feelings or ideas, either, in writing or speaking, helps students feel more secure in upper grades.

Students strive for accuracy in learning basic facts not covered in previous years. Math is made more realistic by giving problems concerning students in the class. Students can work as a group or individually, according to his or her abilities.

Open House and Pre-Registration

Soon to be announced are times for Open House and Pre-Registration. Our Open House will allow you to visit the classroom to observe the activities and atmosphere. Meet your teacher and your child's classmates. Pre-Registration will allow you to reserve a position for the 1989-90 academic year. An Entrance Examination is required for all new students. Financial aid is available for qualified families. Call 285-5141 or write P.O. Box 1120, Martin, Ky. 41649.

Academic Curriculum

Academics at Mountain Christian Academy have always been centered on the child as a whole person. We are interested in shaping the child spiritually, intellectually, physically, and socially. Society today is deficient in so many of these traits.

Our Open Court Reading Program is a widely acclaimed phonics based program. The Science Program is supported with a well-equipped laboratory. The gymnasium, often referred to as the best in Floyd County, is available for Physical Education and other functions. Private Art, Vocal and Instrumental Music lessons are also available.

The Academy's curriculum satisfies all requirements of the Kentucky Department of Education. The curriculum is intense. We are selective in our admission policy and therefore have higher expectations for our students.

Scores from the spring 1988 testing for the school averaged 2.27 grades above level in Language Arts, 1.9 grades above level in Math and 2.6 grades above level in Science.

The Christian Education program is implemented in preschool through 8th grade. Christianity is the primary purpose for the Academy and is the principle reason for the schools nurturing environment.

General academics for the upper elementary grades are reading with a continued emphasis on the Open Court Program. The Scholastic News and novels are a part of the reading program.

Along with Spelling and English, Science is a favorite for this age group because of experiments.

Health is important for intermediates and junior high because this is the age of "growing-up" and awareness of looks, eating, cleanliness or grooming. There are health activities which are carried over into the Physical Education program.

Social Studies, for the upper elementary grades consists of the study of the United States and the world, Civics and Geography.

Math is very extensive and each grade builds upon the previous year. After reviewing, new concepts are added so that each child adds to the number understanding for the next year. Algebra is available.

A computer is in the classroom to enhance all the subjects taught. Each classroom has Christian Education which is an integral part of each day. Other parts of the curriculum are: Library, Art, Music and Gym.

Extra Curricular Activities are growing. The Academic Team is in full operation, with the 6th, 7th and 8th graders taking part. Art is being offered to many as an "after school art club" and is being offered during the day while the child is in school.

Hoe Down!

Students in Danny Dawson's physical education class at Melvin Elementary are learning to square dance—an activity that provides plenty of strenuous exercise.

Garth AVEC Marks Vocational Education Week

Garth Area Vocational Education Center staff and students will observe National Vocational Education Week Feb. 12-18, with the theme, "Building Tomorrow's Leaders."

Courses offered at the center are automotive technology, business and office, carpentry, electronics, machine shop, mine maintenance and welding.

The public is invited to visit the school during this week, according to Ron Turner, director.

A proclamation issued by Governor Wallace Wilkinson declares "Vocational Education serves individual citizens by enabling them to find satisfying careers that suit their own skills and interests, by providing technical skills that let them excel in their chosen careers, and by teaching leadership skills that serve them on the job, at home and in the community."

Wilkinson pointed out that nearly 300,000 Kentuckians are involved annually with vocational education.

"A strong vocational education program planned and carried out by trained vocational educators is vital to the future economic development of our Commonwealth and the well-being of its citizens," Wilkinson said.

More than 174,000 secondary (high school) students were enrolled in

1,918 programs in 242 comprehensive high schools and area vocational education centers within 173 local districts last year. The programs focus on the development of leadership skills, job-readiness skills, work attitudes and some specific occupational skills. While some students chose to enroll in only one vocational course offering, others enrolled in a cluster of courses.

Almost 80,000 full and part-time adults and part-time secondary students were enrolled last fall in the 17 state vocational technical schools, five health occupations schools and six correctional facilities.

Ten From PHS In 'Who's Who'

The 1988-89 edition of Who's Who In Music will carry the names of 10 students from Prestonsburg High School who have been selected as being among the country's most outstanding high school musicians.

Students are Jayne Elizabeth Hall, Suzanne Lyon Frazier, Christina Allen, Kathy Hale, Ginger Howard, Stacy Webb, Byron Crider, Walter

Owens, Ernie Croot and Clarissa Short.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

They join an elite group of students selected from more than 1,300 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

Outstanding students have been honored in the Who's Who annual directories since the first publication in 1934.

Safety Week

First grade students in Goldie Hamilton's class at Betsy Layne Elementary had an opportunity to look over a fire truck during "Safety Week" recently.

Blackburn, Stumbo Directing Regional Writing Workshop

Two Floyd County teachers have been selected to serve as directors of one of the nine regional writing workshops being sponsored by the Pilot Writing Project and the Kentucky Department of Education.

Glenda Blackburn of Allen Elementary and Carol Stumbo of Wheelwright High School will direct a writing workshop at Cumberland Falls State Park March 27-29, along with two teachers from the Jefferson County school system.

The regional writing workshops are part of an effort to introduce the writing process into classrooms across the state. The legislature has provided the Pilot Writing Projects with a budget of $40 million which has been given to local school districts in the form of grants. Floyd County received news in November that it had received a $35,000 continuation grant for the writing program which was begun in 1986.

Eight other regional writing workshops will take place in March of this year at Pine Mountain, Greenbo, Barren River, General Butler, Kentucky Dam Village, Rough River, Carter Caves and Natural Bridge. These workshops are designed to introduce teachers to the writing process. Each district is being asked to send three teachers to the workshops. Expenses for these will be paid by the regional writing workshops.

Blackburn and Stumbo attended a training session in Frankfort on Jan. 23-24 for the regional workshops.

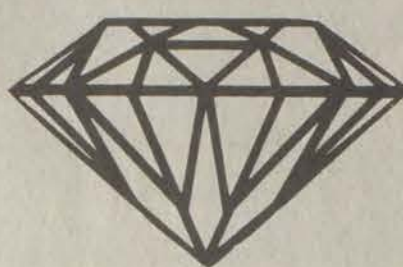

Along with 24 other secondary and middle school teachers from across the state, they made plans for the upcoming sessions.

HELP FOR DEPRESSION

Antidepressants are a class of drugs used to treat patients who have the disorder called depression. Symptoms of depression may include insomnia, listlessness, loss of appetite, and a despondent emotional state. Some evidence indicates that chronic depressive states are caused by a deficiency in the neurotransmitter called norepinephrine, a natural stimulant of the central nervous system that is secreted at nerve endings and diffused to target organs, thus transmitting impulses. One group of antidepressant drugs, the monoamine oxidase (MAO) inhibitors, lessen the effect of an enzyme responsible for breaking down norepinephrine. The other group is called tricyclics, named for 3 rings in their chemical formula. These drugs act by lessening the absorption of norepinephrine at nerve endings, thus maintaining proper blood levels of this stimulant.

COOLEY APOTHECARY wants you to know that we carry a full line of prescriptions as well as over-the-counter remedies. If you or someone in your family suffers from depression and your physician prescribes medication, keep in mind that we maintain the highest standards of the pharmaceutical profession. many activities, including a presentation to the entire student body. During the presentation, members had two guest speakers from Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, Russell Hall and Lola Brashear, both of whom are working with substance abuse control.

Students also held a bake sale, with proceeds going to two of the students, Ronald and Danny Adams, who were involved in an accident in which they were hit by a drunk driver.

The group is planning a presentation on the dangers of alcohol and drug abuse for the student body as well as students in the community.

Mayo Program Prepares LPNs For Careers

Program Participant

Pam Davis, a practical nursing student at Mayo State Vocational Technical School, is shown leaving a patient's room at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

The practical nursing program at Mayo State Vocational Technical School provides educational opportunities to prepare students to enter the work world as a beginning practitioner, and to perform the duties of a practical nurse.

Classroom instruction is closely correlated with guided clinical practice in affiliating health care agencies, according to school officials. The program's focus is on the scientific and social foundations basic to practical nursing and care of individuals of all age groups with commonly occurring health problems. Curriculum includes subject matter from the biological and social sciences: human body structure and function, growth and development, and normal nutrition; area of personal and vocational relationships; area of nursing content.

Under the direction of a qualified health professional, the licensed practical nurse is a recognized member of the health care team, and performs nursing functions commensurate with education and competencies.

Practical nurses provide nursing care which requires much technical knowledge. Concerned primarily with direct patient care, the licensed practical nurse participates in the planning, implementation and evaluation of nursing care.

The practical nurse observes and cares for the ill, injured or infirm under the direction of a registered nurse, a licensed physician or dentist.

The course of study is a full-time, four quarter, 48 week preparatory program based upon a 35 hour week. Holidays and other special activity days are observed as designated by the school calendar. School is not in session in July.

All new students in a class begin in August and graduate in June. The graduate becomes licensed after passing the state board licensing examination, given in October, officials said.

Mayo State Vocational Technical

School was established in 1938 and holds the distinction of being one of the two oldest state vocational technical schools in Kentucky.

Mayo's practical nursing program, established in 1950, was the first such program to be initiated in a vocational technical school in Kentucky.

The practical nursing program at Mayo offers an extension class in Pikeville. This program provides the same curriculum, adheres to the same standards, and follows the same academic calendar as the class on the Mayo campus.

For more information about the practical nursing or other programs, write Mayo State Vocational Technical School, 513 Third Street, Paintsville, KY 41240 or call (606) 789-5321 from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.

The second round ended with Sheldon Clark winning over Prestonsburg, and June Buchanan over Allen Central High School. The final round found Sheldon Clark winning over June Buchanan.

The rankings for the junior varsity are, first through third, Sheldon Clark, June Buchanan, and Prestonsburg.

ond round, Sheldon Clark won over Prestonsburg and Allen Central beat June Buchanan. The finals saw Sheldon Clark winning over Allen Central in what was a close competition between two teams. WHS Students Continue Project Involving Aquarium

Students in Doris Osborne's biology class at Wheelwright High School recently stocked their aquarium with fish, after having created a stable environment for them to live in.

Funds for the aquarium came from the grant that the county has received to improve the teaching of science.

The month of July is named for Julius Caesar, who was born then.

100 percent of its fair market value. Immediately a special session of the legislature adopted House Bill No. 1, known as the "rollback law" which reduced local tax rates to make up for the higher assessments and thus legally froze the inequities among the districts.

It was the Legislature's aim, in other words, to see to it that no more money for education was yielded by the new assessments than had been produced by the old ones.

In so acting, the 66 aggrieved school districts later said, "the Legislature for the first time acted affirmatively rather than merely passively, to not only condone but create inequities among the school districts." The curious result was to create some 180 different permissible maximum tax rates across Kentucky's school landscape. (Today, 23 years later, local rates remain far below those existing prior to the rollback; some districts levy the minimum 25 cents, and the highest figure is only 67.9 cents.)

Angie, 38. Found houseware parties the ideal excuse to mix a blender of margaritas. But in a few years, it went from women friends to lowlifes and losers hanging around her home late into the night. Sometimes, her husband had to load up the kids and go midnight bar-hopping to find her. Finally, he nailed up doors and windows to keep her out. In desperation, convinced she'd be dead within a year, Angie came to CareUnit.

"I learned more about myself than I'd learned in a lifetime. I left with an inner confidence I'd never had before."

Angie is now sober, and is rebuilding her relationship with her husband and two daughters.

Scouting: It's History, Tradition And Celebration

by Johnnie Ross
Scoutmaster, #877

It was a young British boy, emerging from the thick London fog, who first introduced scouting to America.

William D. Boyce, a newspaper publisher, was lost in the dense "pea soup" fog when he heard a voice saying, "Can I help you sir?" Moments later, the boy became visible. Dressed in short pants, knee socks, a neckerchief and campaign hat, the boy directed the lost American to his destination. But it was what happened next that touched Boyce's heart. Reaching into his pocket, he offered the boy a shilling as a tip.

"No thank you sir," the boy said, "not for doing a good turn. You see, I'm a scout." Looking somewhat puzzled, Boyce replied, "A scout? What's that?"

"Haven't you heard of Baden-Powell's Scouts?" exclaimed the boy. The American had not, but he took the time to hear the lad's story, and he wanted to know more.

"Our headquarters is close by on Victoria Street and the General just might be there," said the youth.

"You mean Baden-Powell?" asked Boyce. "I'll finish my errand and go by your headquarters."

Needless to say, the 51-year-old Boyce met the British war hero, Lt. General Robert Stephenson Smyth Baden-Powell, the founder of scouting. Boyce was very impressed and on Feb. 8, 1910 established a new corporation, the Boy Scouts of America.

It was in this way, a good turn done for an American stranger by an unknown scout, that Scouting was brought to the United States. Now, 79 years later, it remains the number one youth organization in America.

The BSA grants charters to local churches, civic organizations and professional groups, authorizing them to "carry on the Scouting program for character development, citizenship training and mental and physical fitness."

The Boy Scout Handbook promises that scouting will be fun and exciting. In the Lonesome Pine District of the Bluegrass Council, we live up to that promise offering to each scout swimming, camping, hiking, canoeing, rafting, rappelling and advancement. Three communities offer this program through four troops: 27, Prestonsburg; 870, McDowell; 877, Prestonsburg; and 880, Wheelwright. Boy Scouting is for older boys, ages 11-18, and Cub Scouting is offered to younger scouts, 7-10.

Packs are located throughout the county at Allen, Clark Elementary School, McDowell, Stumbo Elementary School and Wheelwright.

A number of years ago, the founder of scouting, Robert Baden-Powell, drew a sketch showing how the "acorn" of the scout idea grew into the mighty "oak tree" of Scouting—spreading its branches around the world. The mightiest of those branches is said to be Boy Scouts of America, with membership in the millions—a program designed for boys to be run by boys, according to Baden-Powell.

This program, through what is called the patrol method (a group of five to eight boys), offers leadership development through hands-on experience.

For more information, contact Prestonsburg Troop 27, James Goble, 886-6255; Prestonsburg Troop 877, Johnnie Ross, 886-9644; McDowell Troop 870, Andy Elliott, 285-9317; or Wheelwright Troop 880, Steve Berger, 452-2871.

A Moment With A Scoutmaster

by Johnnie Ross
Scoutmaster, #877

Normally, this annual address would be "all prepared" for inter-troop distribution, but this year I've decided to share my thoughts with a much larger group.

In retrospect, 1988 was a very good year for scouting in Prestonsburg and in the Lonesome Pine District of the Bluegrass Council. Our troop remains strong, with 48 registered members, but more importantly, we remain active.

Thirty-two of our scouts attended summer camp, and we also made an excellent showing at the spring camporee, the Klondike Derby, Polar Bear Swim, the fall camporee, and we were active in the BSA's National Good Turn-Scouting for Food.

We collected 2,051 cans of food from Prestonsburg alone, and I think it can be said that it was the scouts who made the difference in hunger in 1988. The hungry of Floyd County were fed at a time to be thankful—Thanksgiving.

Our efforts have been more than successful, and for that we can thank our leadership, parents, community, businesses, scouts and God. The year has come and gone, but the memories will live in our hearts forever.

Perhaps one of my fondest memories was the Court of Honor at Archer Park. There, we presented awards to our own, and honored those who died in defense of a single principle—that freedom is not only worth fighting for, it is worth dying for. With assistance from Mayor Ann Latta and Dewey Conn, World War II P.O.W., our senior patrol leader closed our ceremony by placing a wreath at the war memorial. It was the most emotional gesture our troop has ever participated in. Today's youth will be the leaders of tomorrow, and from my vantage point, America is in good hands!

During the 79th anniversary of scouting, allow me to close with the words of our founder, Robert Baden-Powell. In his final message to scouts, he wrote:

"I have had a most happy life and I want each of you to have as happy a life too."

Gradually add the confectioners' sugar and beat, scraping bowl as necessary, until smooth and creamy.

EASY FRUIT COBBLER
(Provided by Martha White Kitchen)

1 can (21 ounces) fruit pie filling
1/4 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup Martha White BixMIXTM
2 tbsp. brown sugar
2 tbsp. milk
2 tbsp. cold butter or margarine, chopped
1/2 tsp. vanilla

Combine BixMix, brown sugar, milk, butter and vanilla; blend well. Drop dough onto pie filling to form 6 dumplings.
Stir together sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle over dumplings.
Microwave at HIGH 3 to 5 minutes or until dumplings are almost dry, rotating dish 1/4 turn every 2 minutes. Let dish stand directly on countertop 5 minutes to complete cooking.
Makes 4 to 6 servings.

For Conventional Oven: Spread pie filling in baking dish; sprinkle with pecans. Top with dough; sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon mixture. Bake uncovered at 400 degrees 18 to 20 minutes.

QUICK DOUGHNUTS
(Provided by Martha White Kitchen)

2 cups sifted Martha White Self-Rising FlourTM
3 tbsp. sugar
1/3 cup (5 1/3 tsp.) butter or margarine, softened
1 egg
About 1/2 cup milk
Oil for deep frying
Confectioners' Glaze, below

Stir together flour and sugar. Cut in butter until particles are like fine crumbs. Beat egg in measuring cup; add enough milk to make 2/3 cup. Add to flour mixture and stir with a fork only until dough leaves sides of bowl.
Turn out onto lightly floured board or pastry cloth; knead just until smooth. Roll out dough to about 1/4-inch thickness and cut with floured doughnut cutter.
Fry 3 or 4 at a time in hot oil (375 degrees) 2 minutes, or until golden brown. Drain on paper towels.
Dip doughnuts in Confectioners' Glaze. Best served warm.
Makes about 15 doughnuts.

Confectioners' Glaze: Combine 2 cups confectioners' sugar, 6 tablespoons milk and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla; stir until smooth.
Here are a few helpful hints to make the preparation of Quick Doughnuts easier:
Be sure the surface on which you roll out the dough is floured well.
Fry doughnuts only for time recommended. Frying longer will cause the doughnuts to absorb excess oil.

Fry only 3 or 4 doughnuts at a time to keep the oil temperature from dropping. A temperature of 375 degrees insures a light doughnut in 2 minutes.

BEEF WITH MUSTARD SAUCE
(Cosmic Cuisine)

1 1/2 pound sirloin or fillet of beef in one piece
Salt and black pepper
Oil

For the sauce
1 tbsp. brandy
1/2 cup white wine
1/2 cup water
2 tsp. Dijon mustard
2/3 cup heavy cream
Salt and pepper
4 tbsp. butter, cut in small pieces

Trim the sirloin of sinew, excess fat or skin. Season and rub with oil. Heat a heavy ovenproof pan to smoking and sear the beef over high heat. Put the uncovered pan in a preheated oven at 450 degrees for 20 minutes for rare. Remove the beef and leave it to rest on a covered dish in a warm place.
Pour off any surplus fat from the pan. Put the pan over medium heat. Warm the brandy, set it alight and pour it into the pan. When the flame subsides add the wine and water.
Boil to reduce by two-thirds over high heat. Stir in the mustard and cream.
Boil further, until the sauce is thick and smooth. Taste for seasoning.
Then over a low heat, whisk in the butter piece by piece. Carve the beef and serve with the sauce.
Serves four.

WOMEN'S CLUB MEETS

The executive board of the K.F.W.C./G.F.W.C. Prestonsburg Woman's Club met Thursday, Feb. 2, at 7 p.m. at the Floyd County Library to discuss matters to be brought before the club at the regular meeting, which followed at 7:30 p.m.

Present were Phyllis Herrick, Judy Kittle, Joyce Allen and Elizabeth Ramey.

In the absence of Boots Adams, president, Phyllis Herrick, first vice president, presided at both meetings.

During the general meeting, Herrick welcomed members and guests, after which she led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance.

The devotions were given by Judy Kittle, who also led those in attendance in the Lord's Prayer.

The minutes were read by Joyce Allen, recording secretary, and the treasurer's report was given by Elizabeth Ramey.

In the absence of Maxine Bierman, corresponding secretary, Joyce Allen read a note from Clara Day, thanking the members for their thoughtfulness following the loss of her father-in-law; from the Indian Summer Camp, in appreciation of the monetary gift to send a child to the camp which is for leukemia patients. She also read a note from the Rev. Quentin Scholtz, who served as auctioneer during the successful "White Elephant" sale in January, thanking the group for the book presented to him at that time, and volunteering to serve as auctioneer again next year, if needed.

Carolyn Traum, of the membership committee, distributed ballots to solicit new members, Linda Howell, Sue Goble Martin and Pauline Crisp were unanimously elected.

Sandy Burchett announced that these names had been submitted for the new committee, of which she is chairperson: T.L.C., Sunshine Corner, Issigma, Serendipity and Loving Care. Votes were taken, and the winning title was Sunshine Corner, submitted by Joyce Allen Short. Burchett presented Allen with a prize.

Barbara Dawson, chairperson of the International Affairs Committee, suggested that the club donate $25 to pay postage to send books overseas. The suggestion was approved.

Phyllis Herrick, acting president, reported that Adams, president, had submitted all necessary reports to the K.F.W.C. headquarters. She also reported that Docia Woods, Phyllis Herrick, Jane Wallace and Mabel Donahoe had completed and submitted the club's pressbook to the K.F.W.C. Press Book Committee chairman.

Mable Brown said that material for the couches had been selected and that paint had been purchased for the club's Arts and Crafts Home at Archer Park. She assured the group that "a new look would greet the members" in May, when the installation dinner will be held.

Garnett Fairchild reminded members that Regina Mayo Roberts, who passed away recently, was a life-time member of this club. Members agreed to make a donation in her memory to the building of the First United Methodist Church, of which she was long a member.

Dorothy Stover suggested, and the group agreed to participate in "Kentucky Volunteer Awareness Month" in April.

James Vanhouse, president of the Festival of FACES, gave a report on the forthcoming festival, to be held Mother's Day weekend throughout the county.

Pauline Sparks, program leader, presented Dr. Mary Pauline Fox of the Pike County Health Department, who gave an informative talk on "The International AIDS Epidemic," on behalf of the club. Dr. Fox was presented a book.

Appalachian Art Exhibition Opens Feb. 12 In Pikeville

"Images from the Mountains," a traveling exhibition of the works of Appalachian artists, opens Sunday, Feb. 12, at Pikeville College.

The exhibition, sponsored by the University of Kentucky Appalachian Center, features 20 Appalachian artists from 14 Kentucky counties. All of the artists in the exhibit have lived in Eastern Kentucky for at least three years.

Artists in the exhibit from the Pikeville area are Pamela Brown and Jeff Chapman-Crane, both from Eolia in Letcher County, and Tom J. Whitaker of Salyersville.

The exhibition will remain in Pikeville through Feb. 25 and then travel throughout the year to five additional sites in East Kentucky.

The paintings, drawings, prints and/or collages were chosen by Harriet Fowler-Mobley, curator of the UK Art Museum. Support for the exhibit is from the Kentucky Arts Council, the National Endowment for the Arts and Central Bank and Trust Co. of Lexington.

Baker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Swann of Coeburn, Va., and the bridegroom is the son of Christopher Baker of Cleveland, Ohio and the late Willie Bell Baker. Christopher Baker of Cleveland, Ohio, was escorted by Elizabeth Harris.

The ceremony took place at 2 p.m. with Rick Mann officiating the double-ring ceremony. Wedding music was provided by Beverly Edmonds, organist; soloist was Bob

Ford. Selections included "The Lord's Prayer." The bride wore a floor-length Venice lace-trimmed satin and lace gown with simulated pearls. Her bridal hat with satin trim topped off her ensemble. Teresa A. Hale, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, and Wanda Merchant of Cleveland and Barbara Merchant of Pikeville served as bridesmaids. Lillian Merchant was junior bridesmaid and Natasha Baker was flower girl. David Merchant served as best man and groomsmen were David Baker, Junior Baker and Curtis Baker, all of Cleveland; Alonzo McGill served as ring bearer. George

Archery Skills

I believe God put us in this jolly world to be happy and enjoy life. Happiness doesn't come from being rich, nor successfully in your career, nor by self-indulgence. One step toward happiness is to make yourself healthy and strong as a boy, so you can be useful and enjoy life when you are a man. God has made the world for you to enjoy. Be content with what you have. Look on the bright side of things. But the real way to get happiness is by giving out happiness. Try and leave this world a little better than you found it and when your turn comes to die, you can die happy. 'Be prepared' in this way, to live happy and die happy—stick to your Scout promise always—even after you have ceased to be boy—and God help you to do it." My apologies for such a lengthy annual message, but few scouts or scouters have read the final words of B-P and I felt them to be important enough to share. Scouters, you have the responsibility of caring for our youth, and scouts, you are our children and our future. Good luck in 1989 and all your life... and may the Great Scoutmaster of all Scouts grant you peace, happiness and good health.

Pikeville's Lost In The Shuffle Bridge Club met and had an interesting game at the Pinson Coffee Shop Tuesday night.

Although Jerry Barnard ran away with first place, holding 3,310 points, Vicki Pinson was close on her heels with 3,220, securing second position, followed by Evelyn Waggoner, who scored 3,140, locking in the third place! Competition at these games is keener than one might think, unless one notices the 90 point difference in first and second place, with only 80 points separating second and third.

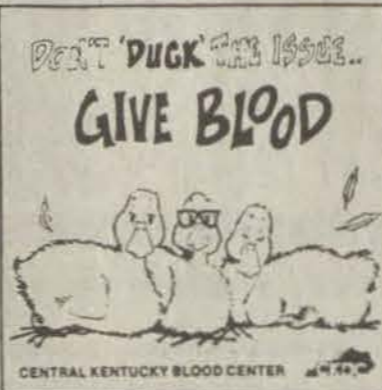

Senior Citizens: If you would like a "free" introduction to bridge, come on down to the bridge club! The club is dedicated to the promotion of bridge and holds a basic theory that one is never too old to learn the beginners' bridge course as set forth by the Point Count System.

Highlights: Robert Pinson bid and made the slam of the evening! Another member trumped a diamond taking the trick and led back a diamond... just goes to show what a pre-occupied mind can get one into.

Two of the Lost In The Shuffle Bridge Club members are teaching adults to read... an exhilarating and "sunshine of the mind" experience.

Attentive Consideration: "If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable." 1 Cor. 15:19

HOROSCOPE

February 12 through February 18

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

Keeping order is difficult, and requires impartiality. Refute claims that seem improbable. Stiffness puts others on the defensive.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

An important decision is made hands down. Ignore minor annoyances. Standard of living needs re-evaluating. Sample new entertainment.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

An uncanny resemblance to another is noted. Medical attention is likely. Open-minded discussions increase communication, understanding.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Unabashed attempts at furthering your career are recognized. Pride centers on accomplishments of a loved one. Forego on luxuries.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Hospitality is essential for impressing a potential partner. Merriment comes naturally. Romantic chemistry with a friend is uncovered.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Joint efforts prove more fulfilling than tackling tasks alone. Nurture a valuable friendship. Spill your heart out to a trusted friend.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

Mind-boggling circumstances leave you speechless. Rally around those who appear to be going places. A relative's setback is discouraging.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

Carefully gauge your energies. Extra demands are likely to cause fatigue. Knuckle under to indications that signal rest is needed.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

Demonstrating sincere gratitude shows another facet of your character. Offer assistance rather than ridiculing another's way of doing things.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

Simplify methods for accomplishing routine chores like cleaning house or doing yard work. Put more time in reserve for rest and relaxation.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

Utilize facts and figures to manipulate superiors into seeing things from your perspective. Charity or civic duties instill self-respect.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

Focus on sharpening your sense of humor. An all work and no play attitude has deprived you of much-needed relaxation and pleasure.

TV Q&A

Whitney Blake of 'Hazel' mother of 'Family Ties' star

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Can you please tell me if Whitney Blake of the old series Hazel is the mother of Meredith Baxter Birney, who stars on Family Ties? —L.M.D., Kansas City

A: Yes, Meredith Baxter Birney, who plays Elyse Keaton, is the daughter of Whitney Blake and radio announcer Tom Baxter.

Q: Could you please give me some information about actor Michael Woods, who played Warren in War and Remembrance? I would like to know if he was in a TV series, etc. Is he married and his age? —Windy Jeffreys, Oracle, Ariz.

A: Michael Woods was born on July 10, 1950, in Detroit, Mich. The son of a doctor, he studied pre-med for two years at Xavier University before deciding on an acting career. He appeared in many theater productions, including Macbeth, The Boys in the Band, The Inquest and The Brig. He first became known to TV audiences as a regular in the daytime drama The Guiding Light. His prime-time series include starring roles in Our Family Honor, Bare Essence, Private Eye and the miniseries Rage of Angels: The Story Continues. A sports enthusiast, he enjoys both snow and water skiing, scuba diving and golf. He is single and lives in Los Angeles.

Q: My favorite country singer is Rex Allen Jr. I have four of his records, all that I can find. Can you direct me to where I might get information where his records might be purchased? —Kenneth Neth, Kansas City, Mo.

A: I suggest you write to Goldmine, 700 E. State St., Lola, Wis. 54990, requesting the information you seek about Rex Allen Jr.

Whitney Blake.

Q: I thought I read some time ago that Don Knotts had died of some strange disease—was I mistaken? How did Mae West, Gloria Swanson, Barbara Stanwyck and Mildred Natwick die? Who played The Girl From U.N.C.L.E.? Are the actors who play Barney Collier and his son on Mission Impossible really related? A number of bets are riding on these answers. —Pat Keenan, Olathe, Colo.

A: Don Knotts is very much alive and is appearing on NBC's Matlock series as Ben Matlock's (Andy Griffith) next-door neighbor. Mae West suffered a heart attack in 1980. Gloria Swanson died of a heart ailment in 1984. Barbara Stanwyck and Mildred Natwick, as of this writing are still living. The Girl From U.N.C.L.E. was played by Stefanie Powers, and yes Barney and Grant Collier are really related. They are father and son. Gregory and Phil Morris in real life.

TIME OUT

Skiing, fishing mark diversity in this week's sports shows

By Jerry Jorgensen
Ski freaks can look forward to some programming of a downhill nature this week as ESPN presents coverage of the Subaru Aspen Winter International from Aspen, Colo. Friday, Feb. 17, through Sunday, Feb. 19.
Highlighting the telecasts will be same-day coverage of the America's Downhill on Friday, and the Giant Slalom on Sunday. Snow devotees can also catch ESPN's Subaru Ski World, hosted by former Olympic Ski Team coach Bob Beattie, every Sunday.
OK, so it's not the same two teams that met for the NCAA championship in 1988, but Oklahoma and Kansas will hook up in what should still be a very entertaining game this week. ESPN will televise the game Wednesday, Feb. 15.

Maybe it sounds funny to be talking fishing shows in early February, but ESPN will debut new episodes of The Outdoor Sportsman, Crooked Creek Sportsman's Challenge, Jimmy Houston Outdoors and The Fishin' Hole this month. The shows air as a block every Saturday morning.

Fishing show fans can also find old favorite Bill Dance, along with the BassMasters. Sunday evenings on The Nashville Network.

Buyer Demands Of Existing Homes

Sales of existing single-family homes, boosted by a relentless demand for homeownership, totaled 3.63 million units in 1988, the highest annual resale volume recorded since 1979, according to the National Association of Realtors.

Last year's total, which was 2.9 percent above that for 1987, ranks 1988 as one of the top four sales years on record. The top year was 1978, when 3.99 million existing single-family homes were sold.

The yearly figure was released with the NAR's monthly resale report for December, which showed the highest monthly sales pace for 1988. The seasonally adjusted annual sales rate* for previously-owned single family homes was 4.09 million units for December, rising 11.4 percent from 3.67 million units in November, according to the association's monthly resale report.

The December pace, which surpassed earlier predictions by NAR analysts, was the highest month-to-month sales pace increase since April 1986, when the single-family resale pace rose 11.6 percent from March of that year.

Ira Gribin, 1989 NAR president, said last year's market was one in which buyer persistence withstood increases in mortgage interest rates and prices. Rather than leaving the market, many appear to be shopping in the lower price ranges, Gribin said.

"For the most part, people seem to be buying less expensive homes. The demand is there. People still appear to be going for the most they can afford. They just can't afford as much," Gribin said.

Love & Marriage . . .

*Hattie and Henry Fain
. . . Married 66 years*

. . . In Floyd County

Hattie And Henry Fain

Sixty-Six Years Of Sharing, Caring

Hattie and Harry Fain love to share snippets of their lives. For a visitor, Harry, who'll soon be 87 years old, makes half a dozen trips through their Wheelwright home to bring out photographs and newspaper clippings.

Mrs. Fain, 84, relates tales of hard times and good times, each punctuated with a warm gesture, a smile, and often "foolishness," as she calls her sense of humor.

The Fains celebrated their 66th wedding anniversary in December. Watching and listening to them for only a short time provide clues to the deep love that forms the base of their long and successful marriage.

The couple, whose lives are almost welded together, have known each other most of their lives, Mrs. Fain said. Although he grew up in Carter County and she in Boyd County, their families' homes were separated only by a small stream.

"I just got ahold of him and wouldn't let loose," Mrs. Fain is quoted as saying in an oral history interview for the fall 1986 issue of Mantrip, a publication of Wheelwright High School students.

"Let me tell you, when you got a feller there, buddy, you got you a feller. You didn't let loose and let somebody else get him," the published interview continues.

Today Mrs. Fain laughs at the "foolishness" that's attributed to her in the article, but she repeats the story with obvious relish.

"There weren't many men for girls. I just had to take what I could get," she said. She laughs and sneaks a look at her husband. "If I couldn't act a fool, I don't know what I'd do."

The couple remembers riding a ferry boat across the Ohio River to Ironton in their courting days. "Honey, I had to be in love. That's the only reason I'd have gone on that ferry," Mrs. Fain said, again with a laugh.

The couple saw some very hard times in the early days of their marriage. Shortly after they wed, Fain worked in the coal mines in West Virginia and then in Garrett before they settled in Wheelwright, where they've lived for nearly 60 years.

They both talk in unison when they tell of the rats that practically owned the town when they moved there before Inland Steel rebuilt the houses. They giggle when they relate how the coal company paid residents for turning in dead rats.

The Fains bought the former company house they raised their family in, and after more than 50 years of their residency, it is enlarged, comfortable for two and reflective of the near-affluence they've achieved in their senior years.

Fain was a miner for 47 years before retiring. Then, he and his wife took over the operation of the company golf course, where they worked for several more years.

In the late 1940s the Fain family was chosen by Inland Steel to represent a model family in a modern, well-kept coal camp. They still have a tattered, much-looked-at copy of the publication by the US Department of the Interior which contrasted conditions in safe, healthful coal company towns with those owned by less responsible companies.

While the photographs for the book were being taken, a photographer literally followed the family everywhere, they said. The book has pictures of the Fain family at breakfast and at Sunday dinner, of Mrs. Fain at work at home, of the teenaged children at the local soda shop, and of Fain at work in the mine and even as he showered in the company wash house.

Ella Jane Hall of Prestonsburg, one of the Fains' five children, speaks lovingly of her parents and the example they set. "We always knew there was a lot of love there," Hall said. "They've always been a loving couple, closer still as they've gotten older. They've always been true to each other."

"We were a happy family," the daughter said.

Everlasting Love

A sense of humor and deep and obvious love form the base of the long, happy marriage of Hattie and Harry Fain. The Wheelwright couple celebrated 66 years of marriage in December.

Anniversary Symbols: A Relatively New Idea

Couples who celebrate their wedding anniversaries each year owe a toast to record keeping, education and jewelers.

The anniversary celebration is a relatively new custom in western culture. The earliest references to such events are in 17th century England, according to the Encyclopedia Americana.

Prior to modern times, most people were illiterate and did not know their wedding date. Records, such as marriage licenses, were generally sketchy for common folk, if they were kept at all.

When the United States was being settled, many pioneers were not near a place where they could officially record their marriages.

In isolated sections, such as Appalachia, this was particularly true. Legality was not always worth the long trip to the county seat or the wait for the circuit-riding preacher. Couples often simply "took up housekeeping."

References to a "silver feast," commemorating a 25th wedding anniversary, are attributed to the Germans in the early part of the 19th century, according to the encyclopedia.

The first recorded mention of a "golden" wedding, for 50 years together, appeared in 1860. Public reference to a "diamond" anniversary was made about 12 years later.

Originally commemorating the 60th anniversary, the diamond today more commonly symbolizes 75 years of marriage. But, according to a local jeweler, it is also becoming associated with the 25th anniversary.

Modern couples generally plan special celebrations for the 25th and 50th anniversaries. But in a ploy to sell products, jewelers and other merchandisers are thought to have originated the naming of other anniversaries. Gift-giving couples and their friends can keep the yearly symbols in mind when selecting gifts. But the lists vary according to the retailer.

For instance, the encyclopedia indicates that the first anniversary calls for gifts of paper. The Jewelers of America Inc. say it is the time for giving gold jewelry. Still another jewelers association list suggests gifts of clocks.

Love At First Sight

In May 1945 I left Prestonsburg for Cincinnati to work with my dad, who was newsstand manager for US News in the train terminal.

On Aug. 19, I met John Rodebaugh about 7:30 Sunday morning. He was on his way to West Virginia on a two-week furlough (which he never took).

On our first date, we went to Coney Island on the Island Queen. The next day, we went swimming at Rosedale swimming pool and discussed marriage. We got the rings on the way to my apartment, and then went to my apartment, and then went to the train terminal to talk to my dad, Rollen Allen, about getting married. He went with us to sign the paper so I could get married.

We were married by Paul Enginger, justice of the peace, in Covington, on Aug. 21, 1945.

I met John on Sunday morning and married him on Tuesday about 1:30. Now that was love at first sight!

This year will be 44 years—six children and nine grandchildren.

Yes, we both say we would gladly do it all over again.

Communication A Key To A Lasting Marriage

by Vickie Gibson
Staff Reporter

Good communication is one of the most important factors in a happy marriage, according to some local counselors and ministers.

Most people have no formal training in communicating with other people, said Leo Weddle, professor of psychology and sociology at Prestonsburg Community College.

People are taught to speak cognitively with their minds, not with their emotions, said Weddle. To successfully communicate, he explained, couples must discuss their feelings with each other. Help in learning to communicate better is available at schools and churches, in case it is not taught in a family atmosphere.

Bill Hughes, counselor with the Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints Church, also notes that marriage within that church is taught from birth. Children of members are taught to communicate through evenings at home with the family during which they are expected to periodically lead discussion, said Hughes.

David and Beth Schmidt, a newly-married couple, agrees that communication is the basis of a good relationship. A commitment to working through problems by communicating will lead to a healthy marriage, said the Schmidts.

The Schmidts, who are Catholic, recently participated in a one-day program offered through their church. They and five other couples went on a weekend retreat, during which a couple who had been married 13 years gave them a list of questions to answer.

They left the room, completed the questionnaire, returned and revealed their answers to each other — often surprising their spouse-to-be. In addition to learning more about each other, the Schmidts and other couples discussed communication, finances and sexual relationships.

The program is required by the church, said the Schmidts, who had known each other for five years before they married.

The Rev. Ron Masters, pastor of the Community United Methodist Church in Prestonsburg, agrees that couples need to communicate. If a couple can't talk together, soon they will grow apart, or they feel neither understands the other, he said.

"The couple will begin to associate with members of the same sex who do understand, or with members of the opposite sex who will give them attention they may be lacking at home," Masters said.

In closing, Weddle offers this bit of advice: "We must teach our children to communicate effectively, teach them to be married and have good relationships.

"People marry an illusion, and divorce a reality," said Weddle.

Love And Marriage: A Catholic Perspective

by the Rev. Joseph N. Muench, pastor of Saint Martha Catholic Church
in Floyd County

The teaching of the Catholic Church on marriage is somewhat different than that of many people. The difference starts in the very concept of marriage as a gift of God's grace planned by God from all eternity for some, but not all, human beings. This conviction colors every aspect of the Catholic perspective on marriage.

First, the time a person spends dating and in engagement is the time to ask, "Am I supposed to be married?" and "Is this the person God wants me to marry?" While these ideas do not ring in the ear of every Catholic Christian on every date, they should be the overriding questions for every Christian seeking marriage. To help prospective couples prepare, the Catholic Church requires time for counseling, instruction and planning for about five to six months prior to a wedding. No snap-decision weddings are permitted under the current teachings.

The wedding itself also shows the Catholic view of the God-given calling to marriage. A wedding always takes place under the authority of the church, for it to be recognized as a valid wedding involving at least one Catholic. Almost always this requires the lordship of Jesus Christ. Since, in marriage, spouses are to help each other grow spiritually, it becomes even more clear why it is encouraged that both be Christians. If a person doesn't have the Christian faith, they cannot fully help someone else grow in it.

In this brief presentation it is not possible to give all of the Catholic teaching on marriage as a permanent community of love between married persons who have the obligation to assist each other on the road to heaven and the responsibility toward the bearing and rearing of children in a holy manner. This is just the tip of the iceberg.

Anyone with questions may inquire by calling Father Joseph Muench at 874-9526.

presence of an official witness to the exchange of vows (most often this is a priest, but not always). Such a ceremony is considered an official "Sacrament," which we believe is an action of work of God. Ultimately, therefore, in accord with the Bible, God is the one who joins the couple in matrimony.

Since married life is a gift from God, Catholics are urged to marry Christians, but this is not a requirement. This position is rooted in the teaching that our first duty is to be obedient to God under the

The Romance Of Ransom And Christine Meade

When I was about 9, our mom took us to Honaker Church of Christ, and Ransom says he can remember this black-headed, very tall girl looking so serious. I did not meet Ransom until 1949, even though we both grew up on Little Mud Creek.

My mom had a brother in New London, Ohio, who came home for Memorial Day, and I begged to go home with them—which was my first time any farther from home than Pikeville and Prestonsburg.

My uncle's mother-in-law lived on Beaver Creek, and we went there for a night before going to Ohio. Well, some time late that evening we heard someone coming to the house singing and yelling. Well, being an old friend of the family, my (future) loved one was coming to visit and was feeling no pain.

To make it short, that was it for us—when we were introduced, I was just 17; Ransom was 26.

I went on to Ohio. Not long after, Ransom visited his sisters (in Ohio) and we had three weeks of on and off seeing each other. I was allowed to go out with two Spencer sisters (Norma and Dora). We went to the park to swing like children; some way or other Ransom and I were able to see each other some.

Well, before long it was back to Floyd County for me and a job at Hobbs in Pikeville. Ransom stayed to work in Ohio. There were lots of letters, and I still have some of them. I lived for those letters (which I had to walk to the Harold post office for).

On one of Ransom's trips to Kentucky, we got engaged. I got a $36 ring that we thought was the Hope diamond. Then he and brother Woodie came home for Christmas and we got married Dec. 24, 1949 at the Pikeville Courthouse by Preacher Thomas Meade, Ransom's grandfather. We went home for a small party (14 others) and then on to Ransom's parents' where we spent the night in a room with Ransom's brother and brother-in-law. We went back to Ohio on Dec. 26 where we lived for some time.

We have three boys, two girls and 11 grandchildren. We have lived in Betsy Layne for 27 years in June, attend senior citizens meetings and hold on to each other. Ransom says I stole his heart with a wild strawberry shortcake. They grew wild along the railroad track and still do.

Almost Three Centuries Of Marriage

These five couples, all regulars at the Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Center, represent more than 280 years of marriage. They are: seated, Dottie and Bill Pettrey, Prestonsburg, 65 years; standing left-right, Herbert and Elva Spradlin, Little Paint, 52 years; Effie and Elmer Watkins, Little Paint, 54 years; Lura and Jonah Hall, Cliff, 54 years, and Carrie and Ross Evans, Prestonsburg, 59 years. A sense of humor seems to be an important tie in each relationship. Hard times have been common to all the couples, but most agree with Spradlin, who said, "We've had a pretty good life."

Cupid's Careful Counsel

Gifts that go beyond mere presents to become cherished keepsakes are invariably those that engage the emotions and trigger a pleasant memory.

For centuries, giving a floral bouquet on Valentine's Day signified that the recipient possessed many of the beautiful qualities exuded by the fragrant aroma and captured in the flourishing colors.

No other Valentine floral gift is more highly treasured than that of a rose. The essence produced by a rose creates an unmistakably powerful presence of romantic charm.

Over 40 million roses, America's official floral emblem, will be purchased for this Valentine's Day, according to The Floral Index, a Chicago-based floral marketing firm.

If your roses are delivered in a box, open it immediately and give the roses some attention. If you don't have time (if you are on the go or at work), put them in a cool, dark place such as a hall closet or a refrigerator, until you can properly care for them.

When you are ready to arrange the roses, remove any leaves that might be under the water line when placed in a container. Be careful not to scrape or cut the bark.

A powdery preservative should be included with the roses. Mix it with warm water and put it in the vase. Your florist will provide rose preservative for you.

Using a sharp knife or shears, cut an inch off the stem while holding it under water. It is important to keep air from blocking the flow of water to the head of the bud.

Finally, place your roses in a deep vase with the preservative water, and make sure you place your arrangement away from direct sunlight, heat or drafts.

If your roses come arranged, you can follow the same procedures. Make sure the roses have plenty of water and preservative each day. By following these few basic rules, you can keep your roses beautiful for prolonged enjoyment.

My friends and I had gone to a movie. My friend was with her boyfriend. He didn't want me along, so there was a boy in front of us. My friend's boyfriend whistled at him to walk with us. That was our first date. Everyone said that I whistled at my husband to get him.

Ruth Hager

We had four dates and married on the fourth one. (We've been) Married 35 years.

George and Wanda Elste

We dated six months every day. Then we were married. We had been married 60½ years, three children.

Thelma Miller

We dated two months, then we were married. I use to fix real thick milkshakes for him at the drugstore. We've been married 39 years Feb. 3.

John and Patsy Evans

I met my husband when I was 12 years old. We married when I was 17. My grandfather offered me a trip around the world if I wouldn't marry and would go on to school. We had 17 children.

Otela Smiley

I met my wife when we were 8 years old. We went to school together, and I was after her. She had a little curl in the back of her hair.

We married when we were 18, and were married for 48 years. There are eight children from that marriage, 80 descendants and more coming on.

William Wilson

I met her on Bull Creek. It was love at first sight. We dated six months and got married. I kissed her on my first date. I was pretty bad.

Getting Into The Season

Sweethearts Carl Adkins, 81, and Wilma Ross, 68, don't mind who catches them kissing this time of year. The Valentine couple, both widowed, have been "going together for four or five months and are thinking about getting married," Ross said, proving that love has no age limit. "The first time I laid eyes on him in the parking lot (at Highland Terrace), I just knew there was something between us," she said. Adkins adds, "That goes for both of us." The two spend a lot of time at the Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Center, go to church and to dances, "wherever we want to go," Ross said. Geraldine Hager, 63, who along with Irvin Harris, 68, forms another PSCC couple, confirmed that dating in the senior years is "a completely different thing" compared to teen dating. "You're a little more relaxed, and you find you have more in common," Hager said.

A Crunchin' Ruckus At The Club Rustique

(Editor's note: The following courtship story was mysteriously left on the receptionist's desk at the Floyd County Times. Though it was not mailed, the writer listed a Bristol, TN, address. Since we cannot reach the listed author to authenticate the story, we chose not to print the name, but we thought the story worth sharing.)

Stars may have fallen on Alabama, but it was rainin' cats and dogs in Prestonsburg that night I met Fred.

I was doin' the Big Apple at the Club Rustique when I heard a crunchin' ruckus outside. Well, some fool had turned the juke box off and there was nothin' to do but go see what in tarnation was going on.

Well, sir, there was Fred, a dark-haired handsome man, in his '34 Dodge, hemmed in, but determined to find a way out of that parkin' lot. It was like them knights of old 'cept his only armour was an old gray Dodge.

First thing we saw was the Olds in front had been rammed a good six feet forward; the Caddy in the rear was no better for being bumped some distance back. Still, he had no way out. Fred was a-yellin' and a-cussing, his black eyes was a-flashin', and you could almost see the sparks flyin' from his black hair.

Then, with great cunning and determination, he gently nudged the white Rolls on his left, giving him egress. Fred says that means a way out. Ain't he smart?

Anyway, I jumped in his old Dodge and said, "I got to see that look on a child of my own."

'Course I already knew I would — no question. We'd met before, and Clintwood was our destination.

Well, sir, six months later, Fred and me was happily married, and two-month-old Fred Jr. sure was the spit and image of his daddy.

Now we have been married almost 50 years. 'Course, I ain't seen Fred since he took off in '41, but wherever he is, I know he's crunchin' and rammin', nudgin' and bumpin' his way out of anything hemmin' him in.

Lord, Lord, I do love a dark-eyed handsome man.

February 14 will be our anniversary.

Keeping Busy Is A Key To Long Marriage

What is the secret of your long marriage?

The question is hardly asked before Dollie Pettrey answers.

"We love each other," she responds in a tone that says the answer is obvious.

She and Bill Pettrey have been married for more than 65 years. Businesses come and go, houses fall down, creeks etch out new paths in that number of years.

When Mrs. Pettrey, 85, talks of their wedding day, her memory is clear. "We were married on Dec. 13, 1923, at the Masonic Lodge in Prestonsburg by the Rev. Harlow. His wife played the wedding march," she recalls.

The couple met three years before their marriage. "I believed I would marry her when I met her," says Pettrey, who is 86.

The Prestonsburg pair credit some of their marital longevity with "keeping busy." He is a high degree Mason and she has been active in Eastern Star. He is also a former Sunday School teacher.

The Pettreys have worked hard all their lives. He was a member of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and worked in many different locations before retiring.

His proudest project with the IBEW was the construction of Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland. He is also proud of his earlier work, when he was a coal miner, in helping to organize the United Mine Workers in this area.

Mrs. Pettrey also maintained a career. For many years she worked for Elkhorn Coal Co. in its Garrett store, then at the Garrett Post Office, and later as a grocery store clerk.

Looking 15 to 20 years younger than they are, the Pettreys now participate in activities at the Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Center and "try to stay as active as possible."

A Love That Lasts

Married 65 years, Dottie and Bill Pettrey contend love is the reason for a successful marriage, along with keeping active.

Pin A Precious Heart On Your Favorite Valentine

The heart is in the universal symbol of Valentine's Day love and lovers. The ideal way to express your feelings on this occasion is with a gift whose beauty lasts.

It stands to reason, therefore, that a perfect Valentine's Day gift is one of the many heart-shaped precious pins which are today's "hot" jewelry fashion and which are available in every price range, according to Jewelers of America (JA), the national organization devoted to consumer information about jewelry.

Once thought to be strictly lapel ornaments, pins are now seen on shoulders, belts, scarves, coats and even on hats. A pin has become a heart-warming accessory that brings a lilt to the most staid or tailored clothing fashion.

Heart-shaped pins come in all sizes, and are designed in gold, silver, cultured pearls and, according to your budget, you can find them fashioned with diamonds and/or colored gemstones.

Since there are so many styles from which to choose, Jewelers of America suggests that consumers look for a jeweler in the community who will offer a wide selection as well as information and service. Many jewelers offer a series of free brochures offering tips and guidelines for buying fine jewelry.

Consumers may also write to Jewelers of America, Consumer Information Department MVS, 1271 Sixth Avenue, New York, NY 10020. These brochures will be sent free of charge to anyone who writes to JA.

Little Gestures Can Express Emotions For Valentine's

On Valentine's Day, romantics all over the world are at attention. This holiday has a romantic, yet tragic, origin.

Tradition tells of a Christian martyr in the third century who, while in prison, fell in love with his jailer's daughter. Valentine supposedly was beheaded for his religious beliefs, but his affections toward his captor's daughter certainly did not help his cause.

The morning of Valentine's execution, Feb. 14, 270 A.D., he left behind a farewell note for his lover signed, "From your Valentine." It was not until the seventh century, however, that his death was linked to the custom of celebrating love.

Message that you care

Valentine's Day continues to celebrate the tradition of love. You can say it and show it in many ways but, most importantly, each expression sends out the message that you care.

Mushy as the sentiment is, most people would not reject a Valentine gesture.

There are many ways to express your affections, in addition to the traditional ones. This is a perfect time to create your own traditions.

Key to success

Creativity is the key here. You don't have to be particularly artistic or versed to invent some Valentine tradition. By simply hiding love notes to be found, cooking a favorite meal, or sticking hearts on objects around the house, you can begin to celebrate this day of love in your own way.

Make heart-shaped toast or sandwiches. Embroider or paint "I love you" on a pillow case or t-shirt. Learn how to say "I love you" in a different language. Give out chocolate kisses.

If you are presently "unattached," it doesn't mean you don't have a reason to celebrate Valentine's Day. What about the other people in your life when you care about, such as your parents, siblings, your roommate, or a pet?

This is the perfect day to show that the world can be a better place. Wear red on your body and a smile on your face. Tie a red ribbon around your pet's neck.

Give blood to the American Red Cross or help the homeless. There are many ways to spread love and care around on this special day and you can continue to do so for the rest of the year!

Small things mean a lot. Valentine's Day is a day to express grand emotions with little gestures. The communication of love, hope and caring can go a long way toward putting a smile on the faces of those around you.

Love-ly Literature Available From Library

by Trisha Morris
PCC librarian

The preoccupation with love is as timeless as it is universal—so it is natural that in this month of valentines and bow-carrying cherubs, the mind turns to the heart.

The following books from the PCC library are about love—love in literature, in song, in different countries, and from different theories.

Norman Rockwell's Love and Remembrance, by George Mandoza. Mandoza has matched the best of Norman Rockwell with the best of American literature to create this oversized book of love and things remembered. The artist, whose drawings showed America to itself, touched lives and hearts with young love, mature love, family love and wishful love. Monthly gracing the covers of The Saturday Evening Post, Norman Rockwell's pictures captured moments that sometimes happened only in the heart.

Here, those special pictures are matched with equally moving poetry or literary selections: Francis Church's editorial from the 1897 NY Sun, Yes Virginia, There is a Santa Clause, accompanies Rockwell's print of the overworked bearded gentleman surrounded by mail and scratching his head with a feather quill, and William Butler Yeats' When You Are Old serves as a literary subheading for Rockwell's comfortable senior couple enjoying a cup of tea and each other's company before a glowing fire.

More than just a collection of nostalgic Rockwell prints, this book is a literary treat for those who will stop to read between the pictures.

The Ability to Love, by Allan Frome. Love has inspired poetry, music, novels, plays and mini series, but it hasn't inspired its own scientific questioning. What is love? Why do people fall in love? Why is love so often associated with anguish, disappointment and disillusionment? What is the power called love?

From Elizabeth Barrett's How Do I Love Thee to the chapter on No Bed of Roses, this book attempts to answer all the questions of love. Frome examines Freud's theories, D.H. Lawrence's novels and Margaret Mead's anthropological studies for his answers, as well as his questions.

An all-encompassing book, it covers love of the opposite sex, love of a friend, love of self, and love of things. It is pre-Dr. Ruth, but it is an authority that has been quoted in many later studies. At the end it answers its own questions—"The ability to love is not some special talent, but the largest part of our ability to live."

Men and Women, by Louis Untermeyer. Here is a most charming collection of love poetry. This book is for all those who have fallen in love or out of it, for lovers past, present, or future, for everyone who has cried or sighed over Browning, Joyce or Blake.

The poets reflect love's unpredictable and often contrary moods, it's eager anticipation and rapt consummation, as well as its unrequited ardor. The emotions expressed range from fear to fulfillment, from the delight of complete possession to the anguish of loss. They span from the ancient to the modern and from the familiar to the not-so-famous. Their moods are multiple, their emotions unpredictable, but they all speak the many-voiced language of love.

It is a book to savor in small snacks of emotion.

"...leave a kiss but in the cup and I'll not look for wine."

What the World Needs Now, by Hal David. Poems are written to be read, but lyrics are written to be sung. Without the music—or if your memory doesn't stretch back to the '60s—some of the lyrics will sound silly. This is a collection of love songs from the "era that moved the world."

There were other songs about other things, but these were the good songs—the ones about love.

"What the world needs now is love, sweet love."

Here are the songs of lyric writer Hal David—"Alfie," "Raindrops Keep Fallin' On My Head," "Walk On By" and many many more along with the author's commentary of his years working with the composer Burt Bacharach and the performer Dionne Warwick.

A book of memories—a book of love.

Books And Things

nated by our cousins across the sea—now an author has emerged who lets us in on their love lives and marital customs. She takes us from the vapor-ridden warriors of archaic tales who were eager to draw their daggers and drag their wives around by the hair, to the more complex, though hardly less interesting morality of the Middle Ages, and the un-English bombast of the Elizabethans.

Love customs even among the English have gone from one extreme to the other, from the Puritan repression of sex to the bawdy revelry of the Restoration and from the forbidding Victorians to the prophets of love—Havelock Ellis, Bertrand Russell and Sigmund Freud.

Love and the Spanish, by Nina Epton. Epton tells us that "Romantic Spain" is a myth promoted by the stories of Don Juan, all that guitar playing and frantic flamenco dancing. Her conclusion is that "the Average Spaniard is too proud, too self centered, and too intolerant to be able to fuse his personality with that of another human being...he is an individualist and a lover of monologue...a characteristic which does not make living with him or her easy."

Epton's fascinating study reveals the country of contrasts as that of "Magdalenes and repentant Don Juans as well as of gay sinners."

Teach Only Love, by Gerald

Jampolsky. Subtitled "the Seven Principles of Attitudinal Healing." Teach Only Love is Dr. Jampolsky's sequel to Love is Letting Go of Fear. Here he explores even more deeply the unique and transforming power of love. He draws upon The Seven Principles to show that the mind can be retrained. This book is about love—total acceptance and total giving with no boundaries and exceptions.

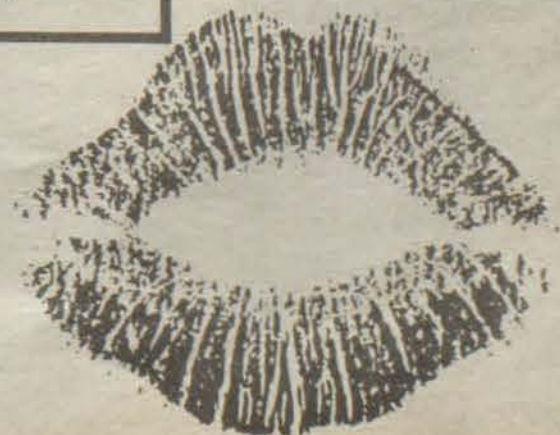

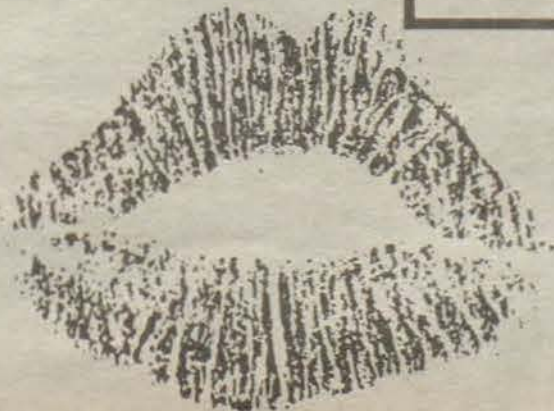

The Art of Loving, by Erich Fromm. In this startling book, Dr.

Fromm discusses love in all its aspects, not only romantic love, so surrounded by false conceptions, but also love of parents for children, brotherly love, erotic love, self love, and love of God.

Romeo and Juliet, by William Shakespeare. The most famous love story of all time. The prototype of tragic young love. Romeo and Juliet is the story of two lovers, separated by feuding parents, who preferred death at their own hands to life without each other.
