SCB Telephone Service Modernizes In Several Floyd County Locations

Telephone customers in Allen, Martin and McDowell will join the modern world this weekend.

Accustomed to dialing just four numbers to get in touch with their neighbors, callers within the area will now have to dial the standard seven digits that other Floyd Countians have been using for years.

South Central Bell is completing a $5.1 million modernization project in the area which will bring customers in line with other SCB users in the county, according to Art Willett, manager of the company's Pikeville regional office.

The new equipment will make new services and choices available in the area, said Willett, adding that the improved system will "help pave the way for economic development."

Among services available under the modernization are touch-tone dialing and custom calling services, such as call waiting, call forwarding, three-way calling, and speed calling. The custom calling services will be optional, Willett said.

Changes are also on tap for coin telephones in the area. Willett said the pay phones are being converted to a "dial tone first" system, in which customers can call the operator, SCB business offices or repair service, or make long distance credit card calls without depositing a coin. Willett said customers should read the instructions on the telephone carefully until they get used to the new system.

The new switching equipment is completely digital, whereas the former system was mechanical, Willett said. With the change to digital equipment, the system can handle such futuristic services as shopping and banking by phone and information retrieval from electronic libraries and data banks, he said.

Only one person will be needed to oversee the new system, Willett said, but the retirement of long-time employee Carl Ratliff means that no one will lose a job as a result of the conversion of equipment. Willett said that electronic technician Anita Williams will remain with the company. He said one person can maintain the three offices under the new system.

Reach Out and Touch Dial

Electronic technician Anita Williams puts finishing touches on new telephone system for South Central Bell customers in Allen, Martin and McDowell. Touch-tone dialing and optional calling services will be available to customers with the changeover, but callers will now have to use the full seven digits when calling locally.

P'burg Lottery Office Site Decision Is Expected Today

Prestonsburg will be recommended as the site of the southeast regional lottery office at the Kentucky Lottery Corp. board of directors today, according to State Rep. Greg Stumbo.

Stumbo said he was told Monday by lottery president Frank Keener that the recommendation will be made. "The board will, hopefully, make it (the site decision) official Wednesday," Stumbo said.

Rumors that the city was under consideration have been bandied about for several weeks. Today's board meeting should clarify the situation, according to Stumbo.

Reportedly, the lottery corporation has settled on a location for the office, but the owner of the property refused to make a statement until the announcement is official.

Stumbo said earlier that the regional office would employ about five persons initially. Applications for retail outlets for lottery sales are now available at the Floyd County sheriff's office. About 30 Floyd Countians have picked up applications since they became available about a week ago, according to the sheriff's office.

Petitions Approved

Judge Signs Order; 8 Precincts To Vote In Option Election

Floyd County Judge/Executive John M. Stumbo certified the order Friday for a special election on ending the legal sale of alcoholic beverages in eight Prestonsburg area precincts on April 22.

The state attorney general's office ruled last week that the county clerk could accept signatures without addresses on petitions calling for a referendum, leading the way for Stumbo's approval of the election. According to mandated procedure, the sheriff has been given the order to post advertising for the election in five places in each precinct, County Clerk Carla Bolton said.

Bolton was waiting Tuesday for another ruling from the attorney general on the last day for residents to register to vote in the special election.

"I think the date will be April 11," Bolton said, adding that she needs state confirmation.

Although opposition to abolishing alcohol sales in the precincts has been quiet, it does exist.

During Monday's Prestonsburg City Council meeting, council member William Callihan addressed at length the city's need for equipment repair and purchase, and spoke against banning sales, saying the revenue is badly needed.

"Last year, the City Council voted to buy a new fire truck, which we did ... and we still owe $60,000 to $65,000," said Callihan. "We have another truck that the tank leaks on, and that will be $35,000 to $40,000 to repair. One garbage truck is working; on the other the tailgate that compresses garbage is broken — it's been welded twice.

"If we're going to keep giving citizens the garbage pickup they are used to, and the businesses, too, and fire protection ... we've got to keep so many pieces of equipment.

"Now," continued Callihan, "we've got some people who want to take revenue away by voting the community dry. Every year, the mayor makes up a budget, submits it to the council, and we approve it. ... We anticipated revenue last year from taxes, licensing and sales (of alcoholic beverages), and expected to receive $60,000 to $75,000.

"If they take that away from us, I don't see but one thing to do — raise the business or property taxes in this town to make up for it."

Callihan said he did not favor higher taxes.

"I think that the people of Prestonsburg ought to realize that they are taking revenue away from this town — revenue that we expected," said Callihan.

VOTER REGISTRATION DIFFERENT FOR SOME

The closing date for voter registrations in the eight precincts involved in the referendum will be earlier than for persons in the rest of the county who wish to vote in the May primary, Bolton said, because of the waiting period required for polls to be closed after the special election. Residents outside the precincts in question will have until April 24 to register, Bolton said.

The special election also impacts young voters who want to register to vote. Bolton said that under regular election conditions, 17-year-olds who will be 18 by the November election may register and vote in the primary. This does not apply, however, to special elections. Thus, 17-year-olds eligible to vote in the primary will not be eligible to vote in the special election, if they are not 18 by the time of the election.

Bolton added that each side in the referendum has the right to submit names of four persons per precinct to serve as election officers. The county election board then selects two from each side of the issue to comprise the four-member election team for each precinct. Bolton said that names should be submitted to Wilma Haley in the clerk's office.

Three Charged With Burglary

Three men accused of burglarizing a Harold business had hardly left the scene of the alleged crime Monday night when state police arrived to arrest them.

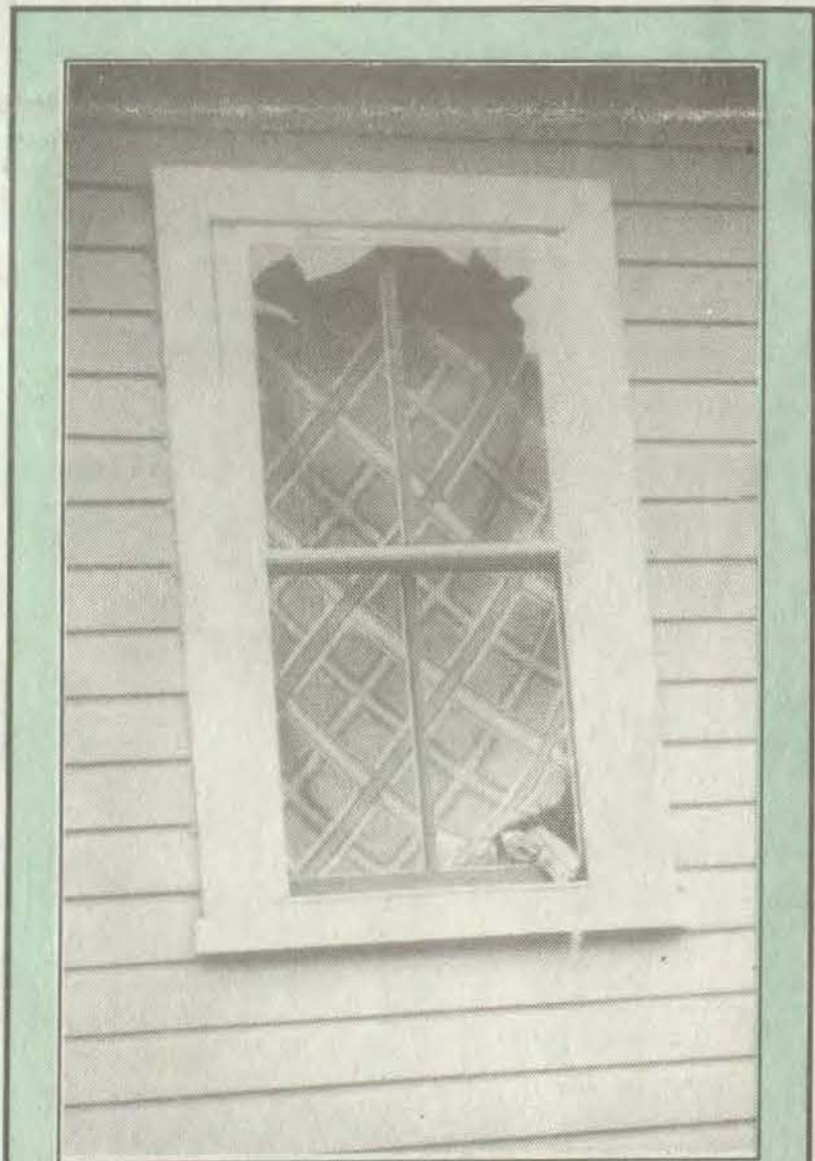

Booked on charges of burglary in the third degree of Hale's Hardware in Harold were Charles Hamilton, 21, Shane Yates, 31, and a 17-year-old youth, all of Galveston.

State police reportedly received a call of a burglary in progress at the hardware store at about 9:30 p.m. Troopers Eddie Crum and Steve Auvenshine arrested the Galveston men near the scene at 9:45 p.m.

According to police reports, all three of the accused had property in their possession that allegedly belonged to Hale's Hardware.

Hamilton and Yates were lodged in Floyd County Jail and the minor was taken to the Juvenile Detention Center. During arraignment in Floyd District Court yesterday, Yates posted bond and was free pending trial. Hamilton who did not post bond remained jailed.

Blast Rocks Riverfront Community

Betty Patton's rear window was one of the casualties when a state road crew blasted a rock on US 23 last week. Many residents of Dickeytown experienced damages to their homes across the river from the explosion site. The boulder had to be dynamited to allow clean up on the roadway, state officials said.

Rock Rocks Homes 'Blasted Rock' Is Just That To Dickeytown Residents

by Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

Trying to rectify a dangerous rock situation on US 23 North, state highway workers made several residents across the river from the site unhappy last Friday.

Woodworker Mary Cawood said she was using her sander outside her home in the quiet neighborhood of Dickeytown, which sits on the west side of the river — visible from US 23 but accessible only from KY 1428. "When the blast went off, I thought I'd electrocuted myself," she said.

The blast she referred to resulted from a dynamite charge the state crew had applied to a large overhanging rock — one that had prompted several calls from motorists who travel the controversial stretch of road.

According to residents, the workers dislodged the boulder, which landed in the roadway and had to be blasted before it could be cleared away.

The explosion apparently startled everyone in the neighborhood. Green Cawood Sr. likened the sound to a bomb. Betty Patton said the noise was "so loud, it's a wonder it didn't burst people's ear drums."

But the sound was not the main source of concern. Two windows in Patton's riverfront house were broken out, and she said the impact of the explosion moved her fireplace several inches from the wall, rendering it useless.

The ceiling in the addition Bobby Lewis built to his house last summer is now cracked in several places. He also said structural damage was done to the house, evidenced by new hairline cracks in the cement block foundation and a rift between the wall and bathtub in the bathroom of his ranch style home.

Tom Wells said the dry wall in his house cracked in several places and a wooden wall hanging fell, breaking "smack in two." He also reported that an overhead light in his garage burst when the explosion occurred.

A kitchen window and bedroom window in Mary Cawood's house were cracked, as were some of her woodcrafts. Her father-in-law, Green Cawood Sr., added that his house received structural damage, cracked dry wall and damage to decorative pieces on the wall.

Most people agreed that the greatest damage was sustained by the mobile home of Karen and Robert Kestner, where, neighbors said, ceilings dropped, windows cracked and the foundation was damaged.

Denton Billiter, chief engineer with the state Department of Transportation district office in Pikeville, said an investigation into the damages is being made. "The department will compensate if (residents) have proven damages," Billiter said Monday.

Billiter said residents must fill out a board of claims form and submit it to the department for reimbursement of damages. He expressed regret that the residents sustained damages from the blast, but he said the department was concerned about the status of the rock. "It was a very critical rock," he said. "We were afraid it would drop on the road."

Wheelwright Earns HUD Certificate Of Merit Award

The city of Wheelwright's Revitalization Project was recognized Friday with a Certificate of Merit from the US Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The award spotlights the partnership concept the city has used in trying to revitalize itself after a downslide in the 1960s and '70s, when Inland Steel pulled out of the area.

Part of HUD's National Recognition Program for Community Development Excellence, the award was presented to Ella Jane Hall, who was mayor when HUD and other state and federal agencies put together a grant package of more than $6.8 million. Also recognized were Floyd County Judge/Executive John M.

Stumbo, Wheelwright resident Dickie Allen and representatives of several agencies that helped with the continuing project.

Funds from the project have helped with renovation of housing, streets and parks, as well as construction of a housing complex. A new water system is being installed with some of the grant monies.

Among agencies that participated in the public/private "partnership", according to Joe Schiff of HUD, were Kentucky Housing Corp., Floyd County Urban Renewal Agency, Mountain Housing and Community Action Corp., Kentucky Department of Local Government, Will Linder and Associates, Bank Josephine and First Commonwealth Bank.

"Since 1982, the revitalization has continued steadily and continues to be a testimony to the success of public/private ventures in the redevelopment of small cities such as Wheelwright," said Schiff.

The revitalization effort began in the late 1970s when the town was purchased from Mountain Investment Corp. by Kentucky Housing, a state agency which renovated and sold the original coal camp houses.

The organization turned the local utilities over to the city which formed a utilities commission to manage and operate the system. The city then came up with a development plan to guide property acquisition and improvements to houses and public facilities.

A Pat on the Back for Wheelwright

Ella Jane Hall, former mayor of Wheelwright, accepted a Certificate of Merit on behalf of the city during ceremonies last Friday from regional HUD manager Joe Schiff. The city's use of public/private cooperation in its revitalization efforts were lauded by the US Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Floyd Youth Shot Saturday After Argument

A Floyd County youth is in serious condition at the University of Kentucky Medical Center as a result of an early morning shooting Saturday at Wayland.

Charles Ray Collins, 31, of Wayland was arrested on charges of assault first degree and wanton endangerment for allegedly shooting a 17-year-old Wayland youth. Collins is accused of shooting the victim in the leg with a shotgun loaded with a slug, which creates a more serious wound than buckshot, according to Kentucky State Police Detective James Stephens.

The victim was taken to Our Lady of the Way Hospital following the 2 a.m. incident and then was transported to Lexington. Stephens said Tuesday that the youth has undergone surgery on the leg and remains in serious condition.

The victim, who had apparently been drinking, reportedly went to the Collins home early Saturday to see Mrs. Collins' son-in-law. When told to leave, the victim went to his car, left and then returned, calling out curses and reportedly making threats to Mrs. Collins, according to police reports.

The accused then brought out a shotgun and reportedly shot into the car, which was also occupied by Angela Moore, 19, of Wayland, who was not injured.

Collins was arrested and taken to Floyd County Jail. He was arraigned in Floyd District Court Tuesday morning and released on bond, according to the clerk's office.

Board To Address Policies Affecting Teachers, Students

Proposed Revisions To Floyd School Policies

- ☑ More employee sick leave options
- ☑ One personal leave day for teachers
- ☑ Higher athletic participation standards
- ☑ Eliminating senior trips after this year

by Anne Chaney
Editor

Among the many items on the Floyd County School Board's agenda tonight will be adoption of a new policy manual — a manual that may include a smattering of fundamental changes for students and teachers alike.

The 7 p.m. meeting, normally held at the Prestonsburg High School cafeteria, has been moved to the board office due to the district tournament at PHS.

Board members studied the policy manual and proposed revisions earlier this month during a four-hour joint meeting with representatives of the Kentucky School Boards Association, which was employed to update and revise the manual. The last revisions were made in 1974.

Primary changes the board may make tonight affect leave for teachers and classified personnel, athletic participation standards, student suspensions and senior trips.

Changes affecting educators include allowing teachers 10 sick days, two emergency leave days and one personal leave day; previously, educators were allowed 10 sick days and three emergency leave days.

The Floyd County Education Association had earlier proposed that teachers be given one personal leave day, which could be accumulated from year to year. The board will also decide tonight whether sick leave, emergency and personal days may be accrued.

In a related issue, the board may create a "sick leave bank" for its certified employees. The bank would allow participating employees to contribute one day annually to provide additional leave for employees who have catastrophic illness and have used all sick leave days earned.

According to the KSBA representatives, Dr. Ken Scott and Lawrence Stamper, 15 districts in the state currently utilize a sick leave bank.

The board may also add to its employment policy, inserting language that would require publicizing all vacancies to allow certified qualified staff to apply for administrative or other positions within the school district.

Board members also discussed requiring criminal records checks for all employees who supervise students — including bus drivers, aides, etc. Another option the board discussed would require the checks — at the potential employees' expense ($4) — for all new employees; current employees would be grandfathered in.

The board also asked Bill Gordon Francis, legal counsel for the district, to determine whether employees on disability could accrue sick leave or vacation while receiving Worker's Compensation.

Separately, the board discussed revisions in vacation policy, agreeing that employees of one to three years should receive one week paid vacation; four to nine years, two weeks; 10 to 15 years, three weeks; and more than 16 years, four weeks. The policy, if approved, would not allow accumulation of vacation time; the new policy would become effective July 1, 1990.

At the recommendation of Superintendent Ron Hager, the board unofficially agreed to expand the district's classified employee sick leave policy. Currently, classified employees working for 12 months receive sick leave; those who work less than 12 months do not.

"They'd be tickled to death with three to five days, and I think it would help," said Hager. The board agreed to provide employees with two to five days of paid sick leave, based upon the number of months employees work each year.

Board members also discussed senior trips, insurance and limits of liability. Noting that field trips are often taken during spring break, Dr. James Adams, board chairman, expressed concern that insufficient insurance policies were purchased by groups to cover a possible catastrophe.

After extensive discussion, the board agreed to require that all senior trips be taken after school ends each year, effective July 1.

"All other trips will stand on their own merit, and the board can review them to see if there is sufficient liability insurance," said Adams.

In a separate matter, the board discussed upgrading standards for athletic participation from a "D" average in a minimum of three classes to a "C" average. The policy, if approved, would become effective next school year.

In a related issue, the board discussed paying expenses for coaches to attend state tournaments, even if their team does not advance to the state level.

"For coaches, it's the equivalent of a convention," said Frankie Francis, district athletic director.

Currently, schools pay up to $75 towards expenses. The board agreed that effective July 1, no local funds would be provided.

Board members also discussed holding athletic events on days when school is dismissed due to inclement weather. Francis said no games are held on the elementary level if school is out, but added, "at the high school level, games are more difficult to schedule."

The board apparently will not change the current practice, which allows principals to determine if a scheduled game will take place if school is not in session.

In a separate matter, the board discussed the district's student suspension policy, and agreed to reduce the maximum suspension from 20 days to 10. Exceptions to the policy will have to be approved by the board.

Bids Are High For Auctioneering Without A License

Three area men have found out that the Kentucky Board of Auctioneers is getting serious about auctioneering without a license.

The men, who were accused of the offense earlier in the year, had charges dismissed in district court last month, on the condition that they get their auctioneers' licenses within 30 days, according to County Attorney David Allen Barber.

KBA compliance officer Clarence Napier said that the board has begun to enforce the state's licensing law by prosecuting violators, including bringing the charges against Frankie Snipes of Prestonsburg, Earl Mahan of Betsy Layne and Paul Miller of Salyersville. Snipes has since gotten his license, according to the Floyd District Court Clerk's office.

"Licensing has been in effect since 1962, but in the past we were lax with prosecution," said Napier, a Garrett native. "We want people to know that the state is enforcing the license law."

Napier said that licensing auctioneers is for the public's protection. "In case an auctioneer misrepresents a sale, the public has recourse to the Board of Auctioneers and state funds can be used to reimburse victims of dishonest auctioneers," he said.

In the case of the local men, Napier said that KBA members have witnessed violations and brought complaints. He said that investigations are underway in neighboring counties, as well.

Licensing is important, Napier said, so that the state can regulate the activity of auctioneers and protect the public. He said persons interested in receiving auctioneering licenses must be 18 years old, "be of good repute," and pass a test which is given by KBA four times a year. Licensees serve an apprenticeship before becoming principal auctioneers, he said.

According to Barbara Schoen, KBA executive secretary, Kentucky has more than 2,200 licensed auctioneers. Persons interested in the licensing requirements may contact Schoen at 400 Sherburn Lane, Suite 343, Louisville, KY 40207.

How to win a case in court: If the law is on your side, pound on the law; if the facts are on your side, pound on the facts; if neither is on your side, pound on the table. —Unknown

In the latest media expose, a stinging lawsuit has been filed by a Pike County woman against USAir, Inc.

Margaret Farmer and her husband, Clifford Farmer, of Ransom in Pike County, allege that an insect bit or stung Mrs. Farmer while she was on a flight July 7.

According to the Associated Press story, Farmer required hospitalization three different times. She contends that USAir negligently and carelessly maintained the airplane.

Understanding that for some folks, stings — or bites, if you prefer — can be very serious, this particular litigation sounds, on the face, somewhat questionable.

It's a good thing she wasn't bitten while on a picnic — I'm not sure Mother Nature has liability insurance. (Maybe the food-chain defense would work.)

To add insult to injury, her husband is co-plaintiff, contending that he suffered an individual wrong because he was forced to spend time providing minor nursing services and had been deprived of a healthy wife. (I always thought you did those things for people you care about. How naive.)

If successful, the suit could have ramifications beyond the couple's wildest dreams. Husbands and wives wouldn't have to take care of each other when one had the flu; next time you need that cold medicine, you'll have to fetch it yourself or face possible litigation to recover costs for time and travel. And don't worry — that qualifies as mental anguish. Don't empathize — that's unnecessary mental pain.

Deprived of a healthy wife? To me, that's a rather poor-sounding phrase; she isn't livestock.

Perhaps the airline industry can address the insect issue by adding mosquito netting to its oxygen mask safety feature. At the merest hint of a bug alert, the netting could automatically drop and drape the passengers to keep the creepy-crawlies at bay.

A good way to handle it: Former Pikeville City Manager Frank Carlton is trying to organize a protest demonstration against the Klu Klux Klan if it marches in Pikeville on Sunday, March 19.

The KKK has applied for, and received, a permit. Constitutionally, they do indeed have a right to march — as offensive as that may be.

The protest Carlton is organizing will consist of people lining the streets with their backs facing the march — what he calls one Christian viewpoint demonstrating against the Klan's bally-hoo.

Letters to the Editor

Road Not Designed For Extended Weight

Dear Editor,
The City of Prestonsburg is a strong supporter of the coal industry and the drivers who keep the coal moving. Don Riley, who wrote you last week about a proposed city ordinance, perhaps misunderstood our position.

The state Highway Department has already prohibited extended weight coal-haul trucks from using KY 1428, from KY 3 (Water Gap Road) to its junction with US 23 in the center of town. However, it will not post signs stating this until the City Council passes an ordinance adopting the state's position.

KY 1428 was not designed for extended-weight vehicles, and their use of it is damaging the road, adjoining sidewalks, underlying sewage and storm sewers, and even causing cracks in nearby buildings. US 23 was designed for these vehicles. We are just asking that they use it instead of KY 1428.

The coal industry and the City of Prestonsburg are both suffering from the doldrums of the national economy, and we should try to help each other as much as possible. I think we can do so if we respect one another's problems and pull together in a cooperative effort.

Sincerely,
Ann R. Latta,
Mayor,
City of Prestonsburg

Keep Liquor Sales Legal, Keep Benefits

Dear Editor,
It seems that a few of our good, moral citizens are trying to get legalized sales of liquor and wine removed from our fine city. I can understand their feelings, but not their reasoning. Do they think this is going to stop alcohol consumption in Prestonsburg? Well, it won't. People were drinking in this town before the sale of alcohol was legal and they (myself included) will continue to do so.

If Prestonsburg goes dry again, all that will come of it will be:

— The city will lose revenue, which is used to protect these same people who are trying to abolish it.

— People will be taking their money to another community or county.

— There will be many more miles driven under the influence, increasing the risk of accidents. Now, I'm against anyone driving under the influence, but let's face it, folks, it is going to happen, and I would rather see someone drive a few blocks than several miles.

— The way it is now, the law has some control over who buys alcohol. Before, anyone, regardless of age, could buy as much as they wanted. The bootleggers don't care who they sell to, and they will get the same punishment, if any, if they sell to a 15-year-old or a 25-year-old.

It is a fact. Alcohol is here. It has always been here, and it will always be here, legal or not. People, by keeping Prestonsburg wet, we have some control over who buys and sells alcohol, and it seems to me that having a little control is far better than having no control at all.

I grew up in West Prestonsburg and was around several bootleggers. I have helped them sell pints, because the law wouldn't pay too much attention to a young boy, 10 to 12 years old, carrying a pint or two across the West Prestonsburg bridge. The bootlegger didn't care how or who he sold it to, just as long as he got his money.

Alcohol is part of today's society. We have to accept it. It is here, it has always been here, and it will always be here. Prohibition couldn't stop it. This won't, either. We might as well reap some benefits from it and at least try to control it by keeping sales legal.

Reader Wants Break From Political Ads Providing Little Info

Dear Editor,
I have been reading the many political ads in your paper and listening to them on the radio. I don't like what I hear! Why can't the new candidates tell us what they can do better than the incumbent candidates? I already know what the candidates in office can do. Most want to keep pounding away at my mentality with such things as, "My opponent can't get you the gravel you need, or get your road fixed. Do you want more years of this?" or, "My opponent isn't sensitive enough to the public's needs."

Please, give me a break! If I have any interest whatsoever in my county and its politics, I know what those in office can or can't do. If you can do it better, tell me so. If you can only promise to do the best you can, tell me so. But please, don't keep telling me what the incumbents can't do.

For all my years of living, learning and educating myself about politics, I deserve some credit. I know I speak for many people that are not able to voice their opinions when I say, "Down with mudslinging, down with political hypocrisy and to h— with candidates condoning the same!"

Please treat me as if I had some intelligence. This is a new age of politics. The voter is not interested in dirty underhanded verbal abuse. What we are interested in is what each candidate can do to improve our county and our way of life.

Why do you treat us like morons? Spoon feeding us with a bunch of crock that even our children laugh at!

In closing, I would like to ask that each candidate be as open and honest as possible with the voters. In saying this, I know that there are certain aspects of each candidate's private life that have no bearing on their tenure in office, and do not affect their ability to serve the people.

So please, spare me the details of it.

Air Bags On Autos Should Be Standard

Dear Editor,
I would like to make my view known on the issue of safety in cars and light duty trucks (air bags over seat belts).

In the effort over the past 14 years, as a salesman and dealer seeking to be informed and professional, and also doing other research, it is my opinion that air bags on all new cars and trucks could have been standard equipment.

I feel the manufacturers have overestimated the cost and deceived the consumer. It is my opinion that many consumers would be alive and doing well today.

In recent months, I have lost a relative in a car wreck. I feel air bags would have saved his life. You see, I think of this neighbor and loved one almost every day.

Sincerely,
Eddie D. Meade

Nursery Production Course Offered

The University of Kentucky's Pike County Extension Service will offer a short course in nursery stock production, according to Gene Ball, area agriculture agent.

The course will be taught by Marvin Hensley, Pike County agricultural agent, assisted by UK Extension specialists and horticulturists Mary Witt and Robert McNeil.

"At the present time, there are no container nursery stock producers in Pike or Floyd counties," said Ball. "The purpose of this course will be to teach interested persons to produce nursery stock for sale to nursery and landscape companies."

Ball said the limited land in Eastern Kentucky makes the area "a natural" for nursery stock production industry.

The course will include classroom and actual production demonstrations growing about 30 varieties of nursery stock.

Sessions begin Thursday, March 2, and continue each Thursday from 6 to 8:30 p.m. until April 30.

The actual growing demonstration nursery will begin on April 1, and end when stock is sold about April 1, 1990.

The course is free, although there is a $30 charge for instructional text. To register, contact the Pike County Extension Service, 432-2534.

SEN. JIM HAMMOND
Represents Coal Mining District

Mountain Senator Proud Of Home

By CHARLES PENTECOST
United Press International

Sen. Jim Hammond, D-Prestonsburg, a dark-haired, square-jawed East Kentuckian, represents a coal-mining district that sprawls from the mountains of Perry County to the Big Sandy River in Martin County.

A freshman senator, Hammond has been working a seven-day week, keeping up with both his legislative duties and his law practice back home.

He has both a BS in commerce from the University of Kentucky and a juris doctorate of law. While at UK he was a member of the Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity, Sigma Chi social fraternity, and Lances honorary society.

Before leaving the Bluegrass to return to the mountains, he served as assistant to the director of the Lexington-Fayette County Crime Council. He also spent six years in the U.S. Army Reserve. Now 31, he is one of a dedicated group of young men who feel they owe an obligation to their home areas.

"I made up my mind to run for senator after completing my education and deciding that the Eastern Kentucky district I represent had provided me with my educational opportunity. I feel this should be used not only for financial gain, but to help provide leadership and improve the area I'm from."

In his maiden political race in the May, 1975, Primary, he defeated four other candidates for the Democratic nomination and was unopposed in November.

A native of Martin and son of a school teacher-coal miner, Hammond has an obvious pride of place and family. "My father was from Bull Creek, my mother from Big Mud Creek and I was reared on Beaver Creek," he said.

"My primary legislative interest is in secondary and elementary education and I'm pleased to see the emphasis has shifted from higher education," he said.

"I plan to introduce a bill that would allow teachers to retire at the end of 30 years service, regardless of age." Others he plans to drop into the hopper or co-sponsor, include bills to provide bonuses for veterans of Southeast Asia fighting, and give disabled miners compensation for life rather than the current 425 weeks.

He also hopes to be a co-sponsor of an administration bill to return coal severance tax funds to the coal-producing counties.

"The No. 1 resource of the mountain area is people. I'm pleased to see more and more young people are returning to the area to help develop it," Hammond added.

Article which appeared in The State Journal, Frankfort, Ky., February 9, 1976 and The Lexington Leader, Lexington, Ky., Monday, February 9, 1976.

"Through the partnership we formed when you elected me your State Senator from 1976 to 1980, we kept our promises and built the foundations for an economically strong and prosperous Floyd County and Eastern Kentucky, in which we can have a higher standard of living and can take earned and deserved pride. Let us use our partnership to complete what we have begun and to realize the dreams we share for Floyd County and Eastern Kentucky. For our children's sake, I ask you to continue with and to join in our partnership as we move forward together and finish what we started. Now is the time; elect me your Floyd County Attorney.

Thank you!"

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Violet Tuttle Stumbo wishes to thank all those friends, neighbors, and family who helped them in any way upon the passing of our loved one. Thanks to all those who stopped by and called, sent food, flowers, cards, and expressed words of comfort. Also, to the ones who helped prepare the grave. A special thanks to the old Regular Baptist ministers. We would also like to thank Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home and staff for not only their efficient services, but the kindness and friendship they showed us during the funeral.

THE JUDAS GOAT
 He is called "the Judas Goat" because he leads lambs and sheep from the outside storage pens to the killing floor in the packing house. The sheep, tightly packed together, follow him blindly, stupidly, trustingly — even though they become panicky from the smell of blood as they near the fatal room. But then it is too late, arriving there with his charges, "the Judas Goat" backs away, his head averted. He nonchalantly heads back to the pens for another batch, and in this fashion he may lead as many as 1,000 sheep a day to slaughter.

The sheep trust him by instinct as one of their kind, so they follow him. He is aware of no moral code, either by training or otherwise. We fear that we have vastly too many two-legged "Judas Goats", wittingly or unwittingly, leading the nation away from decency, moral righteousness and economic moral and international stability. What "Judas Goat" is responsible for is trashy magazines on our news stands, with pictures that inflame youth to criminality, resulting in teenage murderers, rapists, youthful vandals, thieves, dope addicts and sex addicts and all the rest. There's a terrible sickness in society. Who or what is responsible for it?

Why do not the American people wake up and stop following "the Judas Goat"?

The old goat of alcohol breaks up the home and is responsible for 45% of the divorces in our nation and 50% of accidents resulting from drunken driving.

A mad dog in a community can terrorize the people, but statistics show that 10,000 people are killed by intoxicating liquor, where only one is killed by a mad dog. Yet, we shoot the dog and glorify the liquor.

"Righteousness exalted a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." Who is "the Judas Goat" that is leading us down the pathway to Religious Apostasy?

But, you say we have a religious revival today! True, we mouth our pious platitudes and speak patronizingly of deity, we try to put out pious platitudes and speak patronizingly of deity. We try to put our arms around God with rotarian friendliness, and deceive ourselves into thinking this is a substitute for genuine repentance!

We must pray down a Heaven-sent revival that will shake up the churches and make it impossible for men who deny the saving power of Jesus Christ to occupy pulpits and wear soft traiment and talk on Sundays about social reform. Revival must hit the churches before the Judgment of God hits this sinful nation!

The religious world is perhaps more guilty of "the Judas Goat" procedure than anywhere else in the world social scheme — and largely because we are dealing with life's fundamentals for time and eternity.

Falseness in politics and education is wrong enough, but when we are dealing with the human soul, it is not a temporal crime — but an eternal one — to lead people down the wrong path.

Dinguses Move From Flood Threat, Find New Home Beseiged By Mudslide

When flood water got into C.K. "Kokie" Dingus' yard in Martina a few years ago, he and his wife Belinda decided to get out of the floodplain. They built a modern house on a hill overlooking KY 80, high above the lowlands regularly deluged by backwater from the Big Sandy River and the Beaver Creeks.

But last week, they learned that there may be no refuge in Eastern Kentucky from the danger of heavy rains. This time, in the wake of near-record rainfall, the Dinguses watched not rising water, but rather the mud coming down.

The source, said Dingus, is an abandoned deep coal mine that runs the ridge behind his home. The mine opening, he said, is on the other side of the hill on Buck's Branch, but the mine was built with air shaft openings and the critical one is poised at the head of a gully that runs into the Dingus backyard.

"I believe the water just built up in the mine until it came out," said Dingus Monday as he surveyed the new layer of topsoil that covers his yard. "It didn't blow out, it just came out where the seam was."

The condition was worsened, he said, by the construction a few years ago of a strip mine access that "created a kind of dam." The pressure of the continuous rain apparently started moving dirt and mud from the site, and water from the mine came too, Dingus said.

The slide brought with it all the rocks and rotten logs that lay in its path, most of which now decorate Dingus' yard. Some of the mud and debris also washed into the parking lot of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, next door to the house.

Dingus said the mud is "an average of 2 to 3 feet deep in the yard, and 5 or 6 feet in some areas." Only the top of a barbecue pit that Dingus said is about 5 feet tall is visible in the lower end of the yard.

Dingus credits a ditch and fence at the base of the hill in his backyard with keeping the damage from being even greater.

Dingus said that last week inspectors from the state Division of Abandoned Lands were hesitant to declare the slide as mine related. "My question," he said, "if they hadn't mined and left a void, would this have happened?"

Dingus said the state has to affirm that the damage is mine-related before the case can be turned over to the federal Office of Surface Mining, which has the authority to rectify the situation. According to a spokesperson in the DAL office, the case was turned over to OSM on Monday and is to be investigated by federal inspectors.

Dingus said he now must wait until the mud dries before he can begin to clear it away.

The mine in question, said Dingus, has been mined three different times since the 1950s by a local contractor for Turner Elkhorn Coal Co.

Council OKs Road Weight Limit; Discusses Location For Fire Tower

The Prestonsburg City Council approved weight limits on KY 1428 at its Monday night meeting, and also voted to find a new site for its fire tower project.

In the absence of Mayor Ann Latta, council member William O. Goebel III chaired the meeting. Also absent were councilmen Mike Vance and Jim Yates.

Regarding the fire tower, a joint venture between the city and the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center, the council voted to abandon the site on Job Corps land and find a new location.

Planned construction of a gym and dormitory at the Job Corps necessitated moving the tower, according to Fred James, city manager.

"At this point, we're kind of back to square one," he said. "It's just unfortunate, because this was going to be a model program in the entire nation — it would be the first time anyone trained Job Corps students to send them back to their communities as trained firefighters."

Council members discussed several other possible sites, and decided to continue looking for another location.

In other business, Goebel named three persons to the Recreation, Tourism and Convention Commission. Reappointed were Boyd Thompson of Jerry's, representing the restaurant industry, and Martha Ann Damron, mayoral appointee. Named to her first three-year term on the board was Lou McCray, general manager of the Holiday Inn of Prestonsburg, representing the accommodations industry.

Council members heard an update on proposed revisions to the city's occupational tax ordinance. The council's finance committee will meet with Sam Campbell of Big Sandy Area Development District to discuss changes; the ordinance was originally adopted in 1969.

Sixth In A Series

The County Clerk: Floyd County's Chief Recordkeeper

by Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

The county clerk is, in a sense, the county's chief recordkeeper and the one elected official whom citizens generally have the most contact with.

If anyone gets married in the county, buys or sells a piece of property, registers to vote, licenses a car, wants copies of genealogical records or does any number of other activities, that person connects with the county clerk's office.

Years ago, before the state revamped the court system, the office was referred to as county court clerk, and many people still use that title.

Today the clerk's only responsibility in that area is to the non-judicial fiscal court, and that role is optional.

The office covers such a variety of responsibility that the Legislative Research Commission's Duties of Elected County Officials devotes almost twice as many pages to the county clerk as to the other offices.

The LRC book divides the clerk's duties into six categories: issuing and registering, recording and keeping records of various legal instruments, voter registration and purgation, election duties, and tax duties, as well as clerical duties for fiscal court.

Among licenses either issued or filed by the clerk's office are those for motor vehicles, boats, alcoholic beverage sales, grain warehousing, marriages, certain types of retail and entertainment businesses, and many different professional certificates, ranging from chiropractors to dental hygienists and from funeral directors to veterinarians.

The clerk's office also houses such records as mortgages, mineral leases, wills, surveys and maps, liens against property, corporate documents and many other official papers. In many cases, the clerk is also required to furnish copies of records to citizens upon request.

As chairman of the county board of elections, the clerk is the chief election official in the county. She (in the case of Floyd County) must, according to the LRC, maintain all voter registration records, from initial registration to changes in party affiliation or precinct.

Candidates for county office file their candidacy papers with the clerk's office, and the clerk is in charge of setting up the election, following strict state guidelines regarding voting machines and paper ballots, absentee voting and the maintenance of voter records.

The clerk's responsibilities with tax collection are varied. Based on information given her by the property valuation administration, the clerk makes out a tax bill for each taxpayer for the sheriff to use for collection. The clerk also collects taxes on motor vehicles, based on set fees, as well as various small taxes on certain legal processes.

Another primary duty of the clerk is to make all kinds of reports on regular schedules to a variety of state and county offices, which reinforces the concept of the clerk as the county's recordkeeper.

The clerk, like the sheriff, is a fee officer, meaning that her office must take in enough money to pay salaries and run the office. The Floyd County clerk generally is able to do this and makes the maximum state allowed salary of around $35,000 (including a recent increase), plus a monthly expense allowance of $300 paid by the state.

Again, the majority of the citizens of Floyd County qualify to be county clerk, according to state law. The only requirements to run are that the candidate be 21 years old and have resided in Kentucky for two years and in the county for one year.

Chlorine Incident Workshop March 4

Kentucky Disaster Emergency Services will sponsor a workshop on Emergency Response to Chlorine Incidents, Saturday, March 4, at Prestonsburg Community College.

The workshop, which begins at 10 a.m. in PCC's Pike auditorium, is for firefighters, police officers, rescue workers and water plant personnel, according to Bill Callihan, local DES director.

Among topics to be covered are how to handle a chlorine leak, whom to contact in an emergency, and how to take care of the accident scene until professional clean-up is done. The workshop will be taught by personnel from PB&S Chemical Co. in St. Albans, W.Va., which Callihan said is the closest chlorine manufacturing plant in the area.

The workshop is free.

Blackcats Best Cards By 10

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Gordon Parido's Prestonsburg Blackcats, coming off a big emotional 67-66 victory over the Paintsville Tigers, traveled to Sheldon Clark to take on the Cardinals in their final tuneup before the district tourney tonight.

Senior Todd Justice scored 25 points and hit 13 consecutive free throws to lead the Blackcats to a big 81-71 victory over the Cardinals on their home court.

Scott Hall started the scoring for Prestonsburg with two short jumpers, as Prestonsburg jumped out in front 4-0. Two baskets by all-stater Keith Hale tied the score at four all. Baskets by Justice, a three-point play by Danny Hamilton and two baskets by Thomas Nairn propelled the Blackcats out in front by seven, 13-6. A 12-2 run by Sheldon Clark gave the Cardinals an 18-15 first quarter lead.

With 3:30 to go in the second quarter, the Cardinals led by six, 31-25. Nine straight free throws by Justice, two free throws by Stuart Robinson, Free throws by Keith Adams and John Wright coupled with a basket by Justice tied the game at 38-38 with six seconds remaining. Steve Gauze hit a free throw to give the Cardinals a 39-38, half time lead.

Both teams exchanged baskets early in the third period, at the 6:00 mark the Blackcats held a one point advantage, 44-43. A basket by Hale put the Cardinals up by one 45-44. Prestonsburg then scored seven unanswered points to claim a 51-44 lead with 3:40 remaining. A basket by Greg Pinson made it 51-46; Thomas Nairn then hit a three-pointer, and two baskets by Justice put Prestonsburg out in front, 58-45. Pinson's three-pointer made it 58-48, and Justice's basket at the buzzer put the Blackcats out in front by 12, 60-48, at the end of the third quarter.

With 4:59 remaining in the game, and Prestonsburg leading 67-55, baskets by Pinson, Jesse Maynard, and a three-point play by Hale cut the Blackcat lead to five, 67-62. Two freethrows by John Wright and one by Justice gave the Blackcats a 70-62 lead. Hale's basket and one each by Maynard and Craig Grayson brought Sheldon Clark back to two, 70-68, with 2:12 to go. Justice's basket and free throw made it 73-68, but Pinson hit another three-pointer for a 73-71 ball game with :53 remaining. Nairn then hit eight straight free throws in the final seconds to preserve the 81-71 Blackcat win.

"This was a physical game," Parido said. "We had established an early lead in the first quarter, then we started to play sloppy basketball and let them back into the game. We played our younger kids and they kept us close as we gave some of our starters a rest."

"The road game at Lawrence County and the way we won over Paintsville, and coming to Sheldon Clark and winning is a real confidence booster for us," Parido said.

Justice led Prestonsburg with 25 points. Nairn added 20 and Danny Hamilton tossed in fourteen.

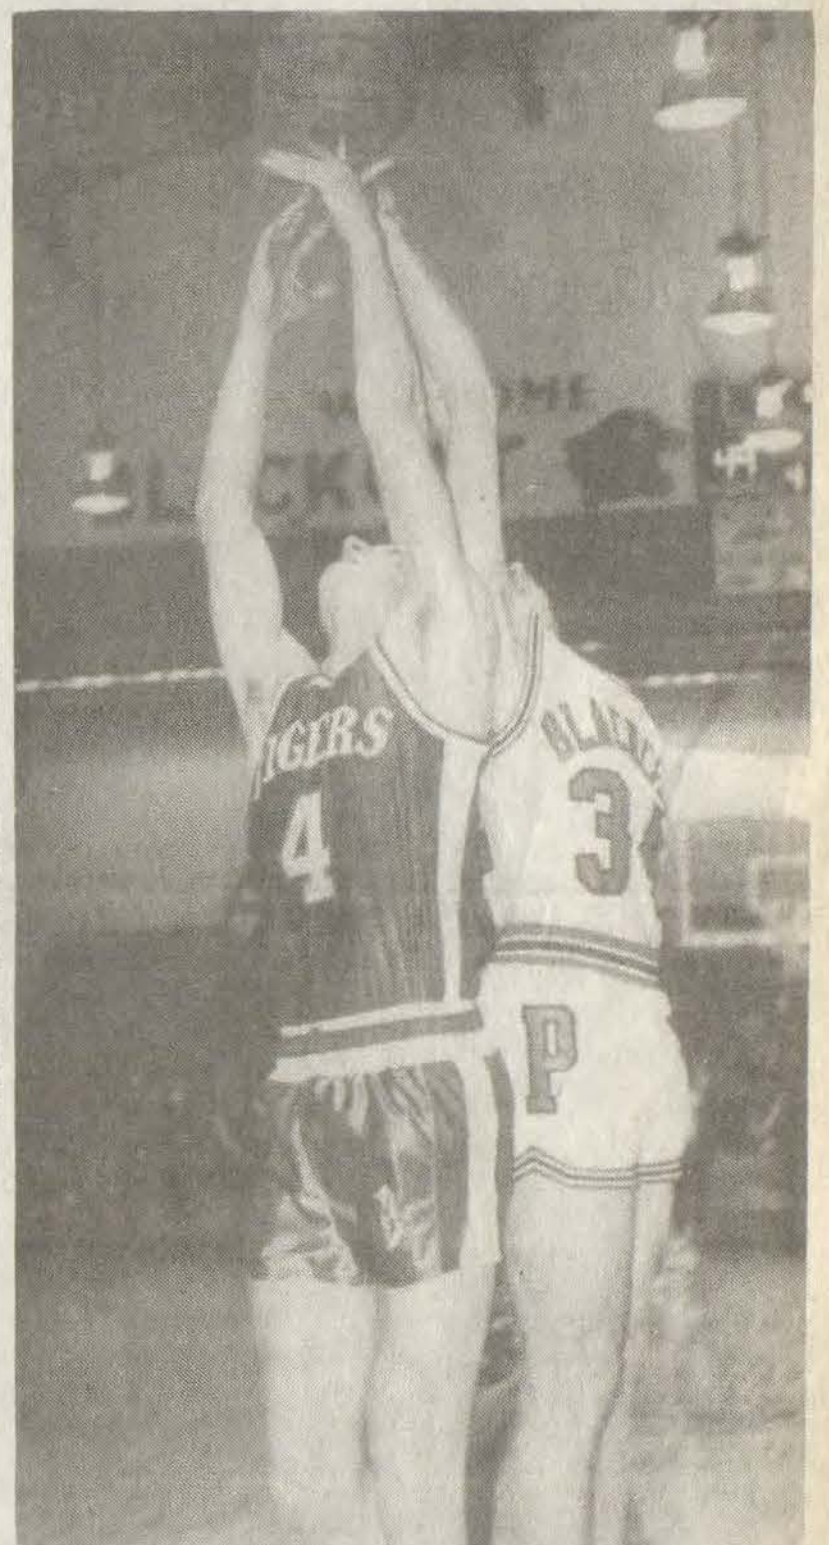

All-stater Keith Hale hit for 26 points and Bryan Pinson scored 16 for the Cardinals.

Prestonsburg goes to 17-7 overall. The Blackcats will play Allen Central Thursday night in the district tournament.

Allen Central Rebs Defeat Bulldogs, 68-67

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

According to Allen Central Rebels Coach Johnny Martin, the Rebels are playing the best basketball they've played all year. This was evident as the Rebels traveled to play the 14th Region powerhouse, the Hazard Bulldogs.

Senior Todd Duff scored 31 points, hitting eight three-pointers to lead the Rebels to a 68-67 victory over a highly-regarded Bulldog squad.

The Rebels fell behind by 12 points as Hazard went out to a 24-12 first quarter lead.

Allen Central, seeking some offense, looked to their senior guard, Duff, as the Rebels outscored the Bulldogs 20-16 to trail by eight at the half, 40-32.

Allen Central kept chipping away at the Bulldogs' lead, and their defense picked up in the third period as they held Hazard to eight third period points, and pulled to within three, 48-45, at the end of the third stanza.

In the fourth stanza as both teams traded baskets, the Rebels pulled to within one point, 67-66, and had possession at the :15 mark. Allen Central missed its field goal attempt, but 6'2" forward Rick Smith tipped the ball in to give the Rebels a 68-67 come-from-behind victory over Hazard. In an earlier game, Whitesburg visited the J.H. Allen Fieldhouse to play a rescheduled game last Wednesday night.

Senior Todd Duff tossed in 18 points, including four three-pointers, to lead the Rebels to a 71-57 win over Whitesburg. Rebel center Joey Conn added 16 points, Kevin Webb had 12 and Kevin Spurlock tossed in 10.

The two victories last week put the Rebels two games over the .500 mark at 14-12.

Duff is shooting 40 percent in three-point scoring, Martin reports. The Rebels, who seem to be on a roll, will play the Prestonsburg Blackcats this week in the 58th District Tournament.

"We're playing our best basketball of the season," Martin says. "I just hope we continue to play the way we are. We're as ready to play as we will ever be."

Bobcats Say 'Thanks, Sports Fans,' With 82-67 Win Over Virgie Eagles

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Bobcats took time out to express their appreciation to those who have contributed to the basketball program this year during their final game of the regular season.

Sue Johnson was presented a vase of roses for her contribution as scorer for the Lady Cats, as was band director Sandy Cole Tackett for the support of her band at home games during the season, and plaques were presented to coach Junior Newsome and assistant coach Keith Henry for their leadership and encouragement to the four seniors, Keith Hall, Duran Newsome, Earl Lawson and Barry Hamilton.

The Bobcats expressed their appreciation to their fans with a 82-67 victory over regional power Virgie Friday night.

Virgie jumped on top 8-4 on two quick baskets by Freddie Bowling, a three-pointer by Gary Roberts and a free throw by Greg Newsome. Sam Stewart, the Bobcats' 6'5" center, scored two baskets underneath to tie the score 8-8. Baskets by Earl Lawson and Duran Newsome allowed Betsy Layne to go up by two, 12-10, and after a basket by Eagle's guard, a three-pointer by Keith Hall, two free throws by Newsome and a lay in by Stewart, Betsy Layne led by seven, 19-12. A three-pointer by Roberts for Virgie made it 19-17 at the end of the first quarter.

Four points by Stewart and a basket by Newsome put the Bobcats ahead by eight 25-17 early in the second period. Three-pointers by Bowling and Roberts cut the lead to two, 25-23. Hamilton's basket and another three-pointer by Hall put Betsy Layne back on top, 30-25. Virgie scored six straight points to claim a 31-30 lead with 4:17 to go in the second stanza. Larry Hall's two free throws and baskets by Doug Willett, Steven Parsons and Keith Hall gave Betsy Layne an 8-0 run and a 38-33 lead; the Bobcats led at the half, 40-33.

Hall scored the first five points in the opening minutes of the second half, on three-pointer and a lay up, to give Betsy Layne a 12-point lead, 45-33. After a three-pointer by Bryan Johnson, two baskets by Newsome and a basket by Stewart, Betsy Layne led 51-38 with 2:55 to go in the third stanza.

Three-pointers by Roberts,

Johnson and another basket by Roberts cut the Bobcat lead to five, 51-46. Betsy Layne scored the last six points of the period and led at the third stop, 57-46.

Betsy Layne built a 15-point lead with 3:50 to go in the game, as Virgie could never get any closer, and the Bobcats won the regional contest, 82-67.

Betsy Layne improves to 19-9 to end its regular season, and Virgie falls to 17-7.

Hall led Betsy Layne in scoring with 22 points. Stewart tossed in 21 and Newsome added 16.

Gary Roberts led Virgie with 22 points. Freddie Bowling netted 16 points for the Eagles.

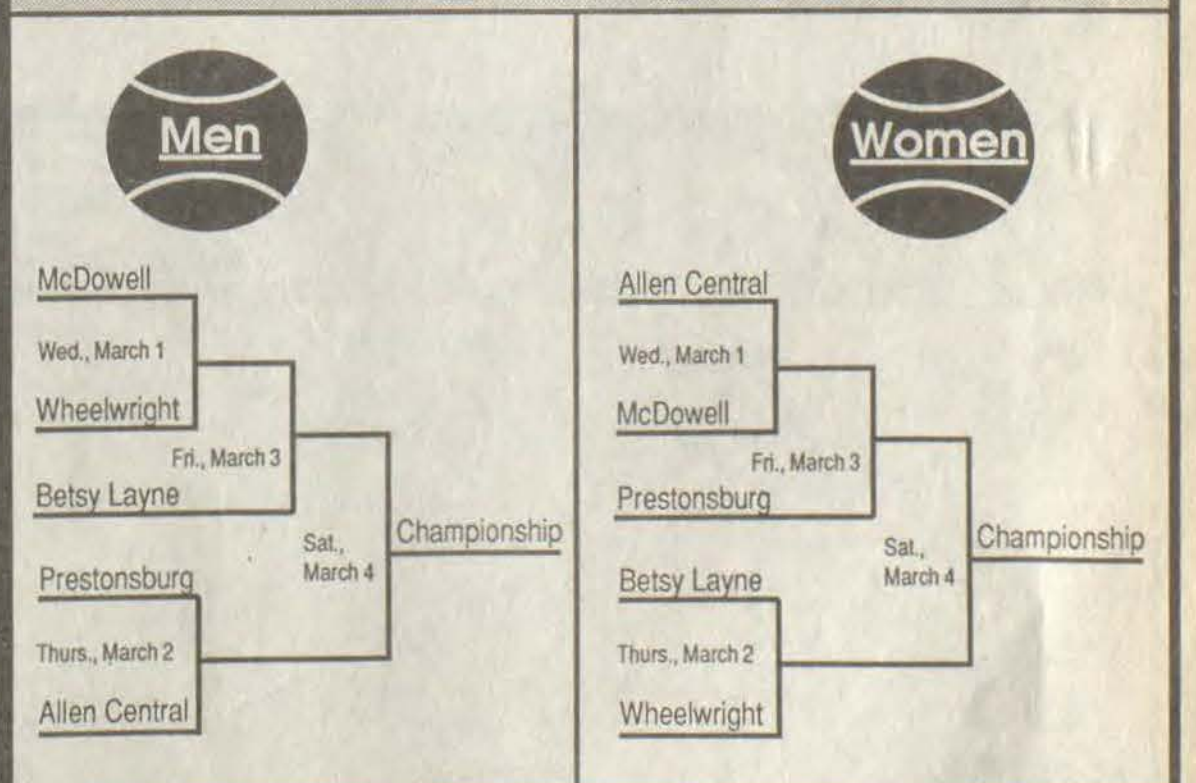

In an earlier game at Knott County last Tuesday night, the Bobcats were upset, 78-74. Keith Hall led Betsy Layne with 21 points in the losing cause. Sam Stewart added 16, and Duran Newsome netted 17 points.

Betsy Layne will play Friday night in district tournament action against the winner of the McDowell-Wheelwright game.

Slone's At-The-Buzzer From Halfcourt Sinks Near-Win By Paintsville Tigers

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was senior night last Tuesday (Feb. 21) at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse, as the senior basketball players and cheerleaders and Blackcat fans said goodbye. Flowers were presented to the mothers of the seniors, and the basketball players' fathers received white "PHS" hats. The PHS Honor Choir did an excellent rendition of the National Anthem.

But it was the Paintsville Tigers, led by all-stater Terry Pelphrey, against the Prestonsburg Blackcats that was the feature attraction.

However, Chris Slone's centerline three-pointer at the buzzer gave the Blackcats a 67-66 victory over rival Paintsville.

It was all Prestonsburg early in the first quarter as the Blackcats made a quick 11-2 run at the Tigers. Paintsville scored the next 11 points to lead by two, 13-11, before David Layne's basket tied it at 13-all, at the end of the first period.

Baskets by Slone, Todd Justice and John Wright put the Blackcats up by four, 19-15. Eight unanswered points by the Tigers gave them a 23-19 lead with 4:46 to go. Prestonsburg missed five free throws and could only manage two field goals in the last 4:46 of the second stanza and trailed at half time, 29-27.

Scott Hall's basket at the start of the third period tied the game at 29-all. With 2:51 to go in the third quarter, Prestonsburg built a five point lead, 41-36. Pelphrey's basket made it 41-38. Justice hit a baseline shot for a 43-38 Prestonsburg lead, and two baskets by Pelphrey made it 43-42, Prestonsburg. Two baskets by David Layne and one by Stuart Robinson, help Prestonsburg to a 49-47 third period lead.

Pelphrey's eight points early in fourth quarter play gave Paintsville a 55-51 lead. Four Blackcat free throws tied it at 55-55 with 5:47 to go.

Prestonsburg went up by three, 62-59 with 1:50 to go. A three-pointer by Paintsville and it was tied 62-62. Justice's field goal gave Prestonsburg a 64-62 advantage. Pelphrey's jumper tied it at 64-64, and Prestonsburg missed on their next possession and Paintsville called time out with 46 seconds to go and with the ball.

They held the ball until 10 seconds remained and took another time out. With four seconds on the clock, Pelphrey hit a foul line jumper for a 66-64 Tiger lead. Prestonsburg immediately called time out with three ticks of the clock remaining.

The ball came into Slone who took two dribbles and launched his game-winning shot from center court for a 67-66 Blackcat victory.

"I thought the ball was off to the right," Pelphrey said. "I had my arms up in a victory wave — I thought he missed."

"We run in practice a special play for this particular situation. It may not work for again," Parido said.

"I was surprised they allowed us to in-bound the ball so easy," Parido said. "They were thinking, as probably I would have, that it will take a tremendous play for us to win the game. Paintsville is a great team. Pelphrey just took over for them in the second half. He is a tremendous player."

On the Floyd County teams ratings in the 15th Region, Parido gave this assessment.

"Four of the top six teams are from the 58th district. Either one of the four teams has a legitimate chance of going to the Sweet 16," he said. Todd Justice scored 20 points to lead the Blackcats. Thomas Nairn added 15 points.

Pelphrey tossed in 26 points for the Tigers.

Virgie Rolls Over McDowell Behind All-Stater's 38 Points

All-stater Autumn Damron scored 38 points, including four three-pointers and 10 free throws to lead the Virgie Lady Eagles to a 62-40 regional victory over host McDowell.

The Lady Eagles outscored McDowell 20-9 in the first period as Damron seemed to score at will. McDowell's defense look as if it was non-existing in the first period.

The Lady Daredevils picked up the intensity in the second stanza as their defense turned things around, holding Virgie to just six second quarter points. McDowell outscored Virgie 15-6 to pull within two, 26-24, at the half.

In the second quarter McDowell's leading scorer and floor leader, Gloria Mullins, was ejected from the game, as was a Virgie player, for rough play.

"When we lost Gloria by ejection, that really hurt us," Coach Cassandra Keathley said. "We have no one else to handle the ball the way she does."

"We were down by just two at the half," Keathley said. "Their 'B' team player just jumped on Gloria at mid-court; it looked as if it was intentional to me."

Without Mullins' ball handling and scoring in the third period, McDowell fell behind by seven at the end of the third quarter, 39-32.

"I thought we played a good first half," Keathley stated. "We just didn't have it in the second half."

Virgie outscored the Lady Daredevils by 15 points in the fourth stanza, 23-8, to win by 22 points, 62-40.

McDowell evens its record at 12-12 for the season, and will play Bonita Compton's Allen Central Rebels tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the 58th District Tournament.

Keathley has pronounced her team physically sound.

"I believe we can win this game," Keathley said. "If we can just get the girls to believe they can. We'll know after today's (Monday) practice."

Damron led Virgie with 38 points, and Jody Baker added 14 points.

Lori Bryant scored 14 points to lead the Lady Daredevils. Tish Slone tossed in 10 points.

Foot Notes

by Timothy A. Webb, D.P.M.
 I recently received a number of inquiries from readers regarding the qualifications of a podiatrist and what DPM stands for.

First of all, DPM stands for doctor of podiatric medicine. This degree is awarded after four years of podiatric medical school. There are only seven such schools in the US. The person receiving this degree is then a podiatric physician, better known as a podiatrist.

Before entering podiatry school, the student has usually completed four years of pre-medicine studies in college, and normally receives a bachelor's degree. Although some qualify to enter podiatry school after only three years of college work, such is the exception.

Class work in the first two years of podiatry school is similar to that taken by medical doctors, doctors of osteopathy and dentists. However, in the last two years of clinical studies, emphasis is directed towards the diagnosis, prevention and treatment of ailments of the foot, ankle, and its associated structures. These include developmental and functional abnormalities, as well as problems associated with trauma.

To suggest other column topics, write Webb at the Paintsville Medical Center Building, US 23 South, Paintsville, KY 41240.

Next week, we'll discuss heel spurs.

CITIZENS:

It is critical that we have a new administration to care for our Floyd County Jail.

My plans as jailer will be to revive our jail, so we may have a better Floyd County Jailing System.

- 1) BRUTALITY-The Floyd County Jail can do without this & will if I am elected.
- 2) MAKE JAIL HUMANE-By holding staff as well as residents legally responsible for their actions.
- 3) MAKE THE JAIL SAFE-By cracking down on interpersonal violence such as inmates hurting one another or themselves.
- 4) MAKE JAIL SENTENCE TOUGH YET FAIR-BY SEGREGATING ALL VIOLENT AND DANGEROUS inmates from non-violent inmates while providing all inmates the opportunity to earn "GOOD TIME" and work their way into less restrictive environments.
- 5) TREAT INMATES AS INDIVIDUALS WITH INDIVIDUAL PROBLEMS-By offering therapeutic programs & choice of religious confrontation.
- 6) PROVIDE ALL MEDICAL ATTENTION NEEDED-We must consider inmates as human individuals as we are by giving any & all medical attention that is needed among them.
- 7) PROVIDE TROUBLED INMATES WITH PROFESSIONAL & CONFIDENTIAL COUNSELING-By counselors employed by agencies outside the jailing administration.
- 8) ENCOURAGE FAMILIES TO STAY TOGETHER-By facilitating private inmates and personal contact visits.
- 9) STOP USING THE JAIL AS A DUMPING GROUNDS FOR VICTIMLESS CRIMES- Such as gambling or probable drug use by inmates that may be brought to them by relatives or neighboring friends.
- 10) PLACE A RENEWED EMPHASIS ON REFORMING THE FLOYD COUNTY JAIL- By providing the resources necessary to have a truly effective rehabilitative institution for inmates to pay their debts to society.

If elected by the citizens support, I will apply, through the state government as well as the Floyd County Fiscal Court, to establish a security camera system throughout the jail and jailhouse surroundings, to help prevent any further jail escapes and to monitor any & all crimes that may be committed.

FOR THE RECORD MR. JIM HAMMOND

I was at a meeting last Saturday of my UMWA Local in Wheelwright, Ky.; you tried to tell people that you had to "set out for a while". I found out that you had been disbarred from the practice of law. You forged the name of a doctor and altered a medical report; not once, but twice. This doesn't help the working man. People who really deserve their Workers' Compensation pay the price for your dishonesty. Working men and women with honest claims may not have as good a case as dishonest claims. With limited funds to go around, you tried to make a claim where there may not have been one, hurting another person's claim; a person who was really injured.

Don't think working people can be so easily fooled by your words! We don't want cheating, we want someone we can TRUST.

HOW COULD YOU BE COUNTY ATTORNEY?

You may not have remembered me last Saturday, but I remember you. I was the second person to arrive at the automobile accident your were involved in that killed William Derossett and critically injured Ruby Derossett on September 13, 1977. I will never forget that day. As County Attorney, how will you handle cases where drivers injure or kill others?

Is this what we want in the Court House?

By Chris Altman

Last week, I had the pleasure of fishing with Basil Bacon, a well known B.A.S.S. tournament pro from Springfield, Mo.

This 51-year-old is an 18-year veteran tournament angler with over 100 B.A.S.S. tournaments under his belt, and nearly a $100,000 in B.A.S.S. winnings. He has qualified for eight B.A.S.S. Masters Classics.

In an effort to obtain photos for a few upcoming magazine articles that I'm working on with Basil, we decided to meet in Knoxville and spend a few days chasing bigmouths. Bacon is a big fan of the jig-n-pig, so I naturally thought we'd start fishing jigs in deep water, a classic winter tactic.

However, he is also an expert with a pH meter, and after evaluating the water with his Lake Systems Multi-C-Lector, he said we should fish shallow water. So on that first day while fishing at Melton Hill near Oak Ridge, Tenn., Bacon showed me a great technique for working shallow water.

"Long, minnow-type baits are usually thought to be topwater baits," says Bacon, often referred to as "Mr. Ranger" by people in the boating industry. "Most anglers fish them as topwater twitch baits, or as shallow-running crankbaits. But I use them as jerk baits, and I honestly believe that that technique is one of the best pre-spawn tactics that I've ever seen."

The early pre-spawn period usually begins with the first strong warming trend in late February (in this part of the country). Bacon believes that bass move from their deep winter holding areas to the shallows much more rapidly than most anglers realize.

"People tend to fish below the fish at this time of year," he says. "The fish will move shallow, orienting to a available cover (brush, weeds, or rock) to prepare for the spawn. This tactic is really deadly over a submergent weed-bed (the weeds don't quite reach the surface). The bass will hide down in the weeds and dart out to grab a baitfish—or your lure."

Bacon goes on to say that this jerk-bait technique will work on fish holding in or around any shallow water structure. Even though it tends to be most productive in the spring, it will work whenever the fish are shallow.

He adds that the basic technique is to jerk the bait down to about 3 or 4 feet with a hard yank of the rod. Then you simply work it with jerks, kind of like working a topwater Zara Spook, while keeping the lure a few feet under the surface at all times.

The variables that you have to contend with are the speed of the bait, how deep you work it, and the different types of baits, all of which are determined by trial and error," he says. "It doesn't take long to figure out what the fish want. Really, it's a simple technique, but one which every bass angler should learn to utilize."

The baits used are the long, minnow type baits like Storm's Thunderstick, Bomber's Long-A, original Rapala's, etc. "There's a big difference between a plastic bait (like the Thunderstick) and wooden ones (like Rapala's). Wooden ones tend to be more buoyant, so they tend to rise more rapidly than plastic baits," says Bacon.

Most often, he opts for a short-lipped, shallow-running bait, but if the fish are holding deep he'll switch to a big-lipped deep diver. When worked in this "jerk-style," the deep-diver won't get much deeper than 6 feet or so.

He also adds lead weight to some of his baits to change the action. "I'll flatten a big split shot and attach it with a wood screw to the underside of the bait just behind the lip. Then I take the baits out to a lake and trim the lead until the bait works like I want it to. I've got baits that have a neutral buoyancy, and they'll just suspend in the water without rising or sinking. I rig them so that some will rise very slowly when I pause on the retrieve, and some that sink slowly when I pause."

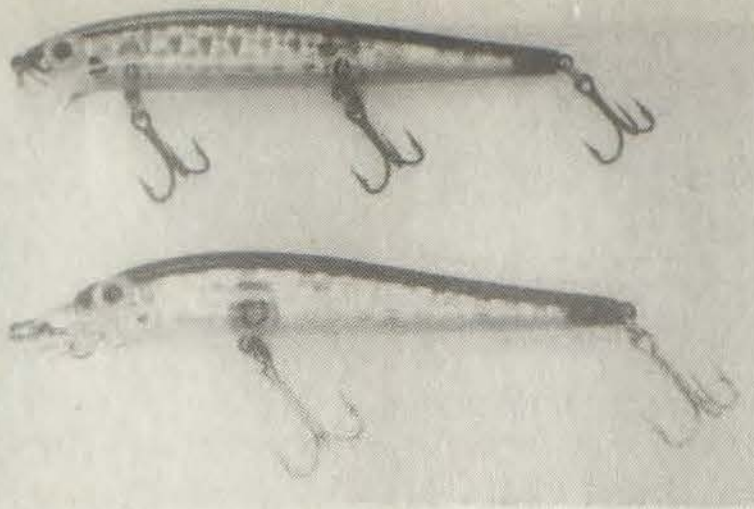

Bacon's jerk bait technique works like a charm. Although we didn't luck into a big fish, we spent the day catching not only large-mouths, but some of the largest white bass that I've ever taken. Also, a few hefty hybrids hit our jerk-baits over top of a submergent milfoil bed.

It's interesting to note that Bacon is not only a successful tournament angler, but a creative inventor as well. He invented the flipping switch which is now standard equipment on most bait casting reels.

Alron's Basil Bacon Super jig, probably the best flipping jig that I've ever used, was designed by him. He also built the first raised flipping deck in a Ranger Boat.

However, he is most well known for his contributions to the boat propeller industry. Bacon, who is president of Hi-Performance Industries, revolutionized the prop market with his development of the first successful four-bladed outboard prop, now marketed under the name of Hi-Tech 4. His ProTestor three-bladed prop is one of the industry's fastest. (For more information: Hi-Performance Industries, Rt. 6, Box 225, Ozark, MO 65721, or call (417) 485-3717.

Give Basil's jerk-bait tactics a whirl! I believe you'll find that it is one of the deadliest shallow water Tournament angler Basil Bacon says that long minnow lures, like Storm's Thunderstick, are productive spring-time bass baits when "jerked" around shallow structures. See Keepers! for details.

WHS Lady Trojans Defeat June Buchanan

The Wheelwright Lady Trojans played host to June Buchanan last Wednesday night and behind the 19 points of Talitha Hutton, won their second straight contest, 53-36 over Buchanan to close out their regular season schedule.

Wheelwright opened early on some quick fast break baskets, and went in front of Buchanan to lead at the first stop by nine points, 15-6.

"I thought we played a good game. Overall, we've been playing better basketball," Coach Judy Eversole said.

Buchanan made a mild comeback behind the scoring of all-state candidate Gina Hall. Wheelwright was able to hold off Buchanan and went out to a 32-16 half time lead.

Eversole played her bench in the third period, but their lead was never threatened as they led by 15 at the end of the third quarter.

The Lady Trojans outscored Buchanan 11-9 in the final stanza and went on to record their second consecutive victory, 53-36.

Hutton's 19 points led Wheelwright in scoring. April Bradford added 14 points and Jedon Hood netted 13.

Wheelwright improves to 5-15 overall and will play the number one seed, Betsy Layne, in the district tournament Thursday night.

Wheelwright's game against Mullins was canceled because of snow and will not be rescheduled.

"We need to play another game," Eversole says. "But there's no place to schedule one. We're just as ready for the tournament as we'll ever be."

your TELEPHONE CONNECTION

by Art Willett, Manager, South Central Bell

Everyone is concerned about rising costs. But Floyd Countians might be surprised to find out what a good bargain telephone service is compared to the increased cost over the past five years of just about everything else in the family budget.

Since February 1984 the overall cost of living has increased by about 17.1 percent. But consider these facts:

- A little less of the average Kentucky family's income (0.56 percent) goes to pay for local telephone service today than it did in 1984 (0.61 percent).
- For Social Security recipients, local phone service takes about the same percentage (3.2 percent) of average monthly benefits now as it did in 1984.
- Local phone service takes about the same hours of work (1.6 hours) for the average Kentucky manufacturing worker to pay for today as it did in 1984.
- The monthly rate for basic local residence service in Floyd County has actually decreased 8 percent since February 1984.

South Central Bell has worked hard to keep down the price of local telephone service. We've streamlined our operations and taken advantage of the latest technology whenever possible. We've made it easier to afford service by reducing service connection charges and security deposits for new service.

Today, more people in Floyd County than ever before have telephone service, and South Central Bell remains committed to its objective of providing Kentuckians basic telephone service at the most affordable price.

Are you planning to do any work in Floyd County that involves digging, boring or grading? If so, you may want to take a minute to call the Kentucky Underground Utilities Protection Center at 1-800-752-6007. There is no charge for the call and it could save you a lot of headaches.

South Central Bell and other Kentucky utilities install their lines, cables and pipes underground these days. These facilities can be damaged by digging and damaged facilities mean disrupted utility service, and the necessary repairs can be costly to whoever caused the damage.

When warm weather comes, everyone seems to start digging—from backyard hobbyists to professional contractors—but please call before you start—remember there is no charge to call 1-800-752-6007.

McDowell Falls To Belfry In Double Overtime, 82-80

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor
Coach Johnny Ray Turner's McDowell Daredevils went on the road to close out their regular season against the Belfry Pirates at Belfry Friday night.

Mike Scott poured in 35 points in leading the Pirates to a 82-80 double overtime upset of McDowell.

McDowell was slow starting in the first quarter, and Belfry took advantage of it, holding a nine-point advantage, 22-13, at the end of the period.

"Belfry couldn't miss in the first quarter, and we couldn't hit anything," Turner explained. "We had no blocking out on the boards, and were giving Belfry second and third shots at the basket." McDowell's Dickie Joe Shannon was playing on a sprained ankle that forced him to miss an earlier game against Cawood.

"We just hope Shannon is a 100 percent by tournament time," Turner said. "We'll just have to wait and see."

The Daredevils seemed to get it together in the second stanza, out scoring Belfry 24-17 to trail by only two, 39-37 at the half, as Henry Webb found the three-point range to help bring the Daredevils back.

Belfry's Scott continued his torrid shooting in the third quarter to carry the Pirates to a 55-51 lead at the end of the period.

The Daredevils stayed close in the fourth stanza behind the scoring of Shannon and Webb. McDowell outscored Belfry, 17-13, to tie the game at the end of regulation play, 68-68.

Both teams played evenly in the first overtime, scoring seven points each, with McDowell missing a chance to win the game.

"We had the ball and a chance to win, but we were called for a walking violation," Turner said.

In the second overtime the Pirates outscored the Daredevils, 7-5, to win the regional contest, 82-80.

"We had another chance to win the game when we had the ball and a one point lead, then we threw the ball in the face of a Belfry player," Turner said.

McDowell now stands 14-9 overall. The Daredevils were led in scoring by Webb with 24 points, Shannon added 20 points, and Rady Martin and Marc Hall netted 16 each.

McDowell will play Wheelwright in tonight's second game of the tournament.

In a game this past week, McDowell defeated Cawood, 76-65 behind a balanced Daredevil attack. Rady Martin scored 21 points to lead the Daredevils, and Henry Webb and Marc Hall scored 17 and 16 points respectively.

Conn Needs Surgery, Won't Play In District

The Allen Central Lady Rebels received some bad news concerning their leading scorer, Jo Ann Conn.

According to Allen Central Lady Rebs mentor, Bonita Compton, Conn's knee will require surgery a week after the district tournament is over, causing her to miss the district tournament.

"The doctors say that she will not be able to play in the tournament," Compton said. "We've all cried about it. It has affected the whole team."

Compton said that her team is pulling together, and has been having good practices.

The Lady Rebels' tournament hopes were riding on the possibility of Conn being able to play. Conn was averaging 22 points and 14 rebounds a game.

MARTIN CAPTURES DISTRICT TITLE, 44-35, OVER BETSY LAYNE
 March 13, 1949. Denzil "Hoss" Halbert's Martin Purple Flash, coming off a 32-28 win over McDowell in the semi-finals of the 58th District Tournament, came to Betsy Layne for the championship game against the Bobcats of Betsy Layne.

Elmer Lafferty scored 14 points to lead the Purple Flash to their first district title ever, by a score of 44-35, over the Bobcats.

Halbert, in his second year of coaching at Martin, guided the Purple Flashes to a 30-7 record.

Both teams split their regular season games, winning on their home courts.

Betsy Layne led at the end of the first quarter, 12-10. Martin outscored the Bobcats in the second stanza, 12-10, and the score was tied at 22-22 at half time.

 The Bobcats held a one point advantage, 29-28, at the end of the third period.

Martin, behind the scoring of Lafferty, Bob Taylor, and Doug Lafferty, pulled out in the fourth quarter to win by nine, 44-35.

The Purple Flashes were led in scoring by Elmer Lafferty with 14 points. Doug Lafferty added nine points and Taylor, tossed in eight points.

Junior Newsome Allowed To Coach At District Tournament

Betsy Layne men's basketball coach Junior Newsome apparently will be allowed to coach his team throughout the district tournament, despite a one-game suspension.

Newsome was ejected from his team's game against Knott County Central Feb. 21. According to Frankie Francis, Floyd County athletic director, the Kentucky High School Athletic Association mandates that coaches who are ejected sit out the next game.

According to sources who asked not to be named, Newsome received a letter from KHSAA concerning the suspension this week. However, before receiving the letter, Newsome sat out this past weekend's game against Virgie, apparently fulfilling the one-game suspension.

"It's an automatic suspension," Francis said. "He protested a call over an intentional foul on one of his players, and sources said it was not intentional. Coaches must learn to live with the rules. The KHSAA could suspend a coach more days, depending on the reason for the ejection."

Francis said that Newsome will be able to guide his team during the upcoming tourney.

Officials are required to write a coach informing him or her of the

Bowen Leads Lady Cards To Win Over Betsy Layne

Each young woman walked to the scorer's table and received a single rose for winning the conference championship as the Betsy Layne Lady Cats prepared to play the Sheldon Clark Lady Cards at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse in Betsy Layne.

Lady Cardinal Ida Bowen, 6'1", scored 21 points and blocked five shots to lead Sheldon Clark to a 64-49 victory over the Lady Cats in the final regular season game.

Betsy Layne turned the ball over three times in the initial minute of the first quarter and fell behind 3-0. A three-point play by Jamie Smith tied the score; two baskets and twin free throws by Brenda Hamilton helped Betsy Layne tie the score again at 10-10. Nikki Webb, Shelia Hall and Danita Johnson hit free throws, but Betsy Layne allowed the Lady Cards second and third chances at the basket as Sheldon Clark controlled the offensive boards. Two free throws by Smith put Betsy Layne up by one, 17-16. Hamilton's basket made it 19-16. Four free throws by Bowen, and a basket by Lisa Harmon, put the Lady Cards up by four at the half, 28-24.

With 4:27 remaining in the third stanza the Lady Cards opened up an 11-point lead, 36-25, as Betsy Layne could only manage to score four free throws in the third period. Sheldon Clark outscored the Lady Cats 16-4 to lead at the end of the third quarter, 44-28.

Sheldon Clark pulled out by 20 points, 48-28 with 7:38 remaining in the game. Betsy Layne had three starters to foul out in the fourth quarter, and Sheldon Clark went on to win by 13 points 62-49.

Bowen led the Lady Cards with 21 points, and Lisa Marcum tossed in 10.

By Ed Taylor

When you talk about "dream games," you've only to look at how the 58th

District Tournament stacks up this week at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse.

The women's bracket opens the tourney tonight with a 6:30 p.m. encounter between Allen Central and McDowell. The Lady Rebels, a pre-season conference favorite, finished third in the conference race with a 4-4 win-loss record. McDowell struggles this year, and managed a 2-5 record.

Looking at both teams on paper, one has to concede that Allen Central looks to be the favorite in this game — but the Lady Daredevils pulled an upset on the Lady Rebels' home floor on Feb. 3. Allen Central had to play without its leading scorer, Jo Ann Conn, who has been out with a sprained knee. Just how much Conn is able to play and at what intensity she plays could determine the game's outcome.

"We blocked out well on the boards," Keathley said. "Blocking Wallen and Bradley off the boards will be a big key to winning this game. It will be hard to beat Allen Central twice."

The two teams split their two games during the regular season, winning on each others home court.

Tonight's second game between the McDowell and Wheelwright men is scheduled to start 25 minutes after the completion of the women's game.

Wheelwright won its first conference game with a victory over Allen Central back on Jan. 3 at Wheelwright. The Trojans, since then, have dropped seven conference games and finished 1-7 in the standings.

The Trojans know their backs are against the wall in tonight's game with McDowell. Look for Wheelwright to give all they've got in this one. The Trojans can start a very competitive starting five, but seems to lack in bench depth, although Tony Isaac and Vic Cotton contribute well.

McDowell seem to be on a roll, having won its last four conference games after a slow 2-2 start. They are an explosive ball club, with speed, three-point shooters, and they hit well from the charity stripe. Because they are a running team, they are prone to turn the ball over, and must take better care of the basketball against Wheelwright.

McDowell has battled some of the state's best, in Pulaski County (twice), Central City, and Clay County. This will enhance the Daredevils' chances in tournament play.

In Thursday night's encounters, Karen Henry's Betsy Layne Lady Cats, conference champions, will take on last place Wheelwright in a 6:30 game.

Wheelwright, which managed only one conference victory this year (a win over McDowell) finds itself in familiar circumstances, having to play the number one seed in the tournament. Betsy Layne won both of the regular season games over the Lady Trojans.

Wheelwright is looking to pull the tournament upset, also a repeat of last year, and advance to the regional finals next week.

The consensus is that it is hard to beat a team three times in a season, especially at tournament time, the same holds true in this game. Coach Judy Eversole has the reputation of being a tournament coach, and having her teams ready for tournament games.

Betsy Layne, winners of their last six conference games, seems to be able to win even when they have a bad night. The Lady Cats are slow starters — but seem to get into the game in the second quarter. Betsy Layne depends on speed, and will employ a three-quarter-court zone pressure defense that causes their opponents problems.

In Thursday night's second game, which has the earmarks of being a real battle, Allen Central, playing with a lot of confidence, takes on the Prestonsburg Blackcats.

Coach Gordon Parido on Allen Central: "Allen Central is playing perhaps the best basketball of their season. This is a typical Johnny Martin team; they are always getting it together when it counts at tournament time."

Although the Rebels finished with a disappointing 1-7 conference record, they were four baskets away from a possible 6-2 record, but the ball didn't take a Rebel bounce.

Kevin Spurlock, a newcomer to Rebel basketball, explains the Rebels' turn-around.

"We've learned to play together as a team. Our attitudes are different, and we've learned each other's style of play," Spurlock explained.

Prestonsburg has what a coach desires in a team — speed, scoring and defense. The key to the Blackcats' success has been the unselfish play of all the players.

If either team has any advantage, the Blackcats may have it in the home court. Keep your eye on this one — it promises to be good. Prestonsburg and Allen Central split their two regular season games.

In Friday's semi-final games, Bridget Clay's Prestonsburg Lady Cats will play the winner of the Allen Central-McDowell match up at 6:30 p.m. Prestonsburg split with Allen Central during the regular season and won both contests over McDowell.

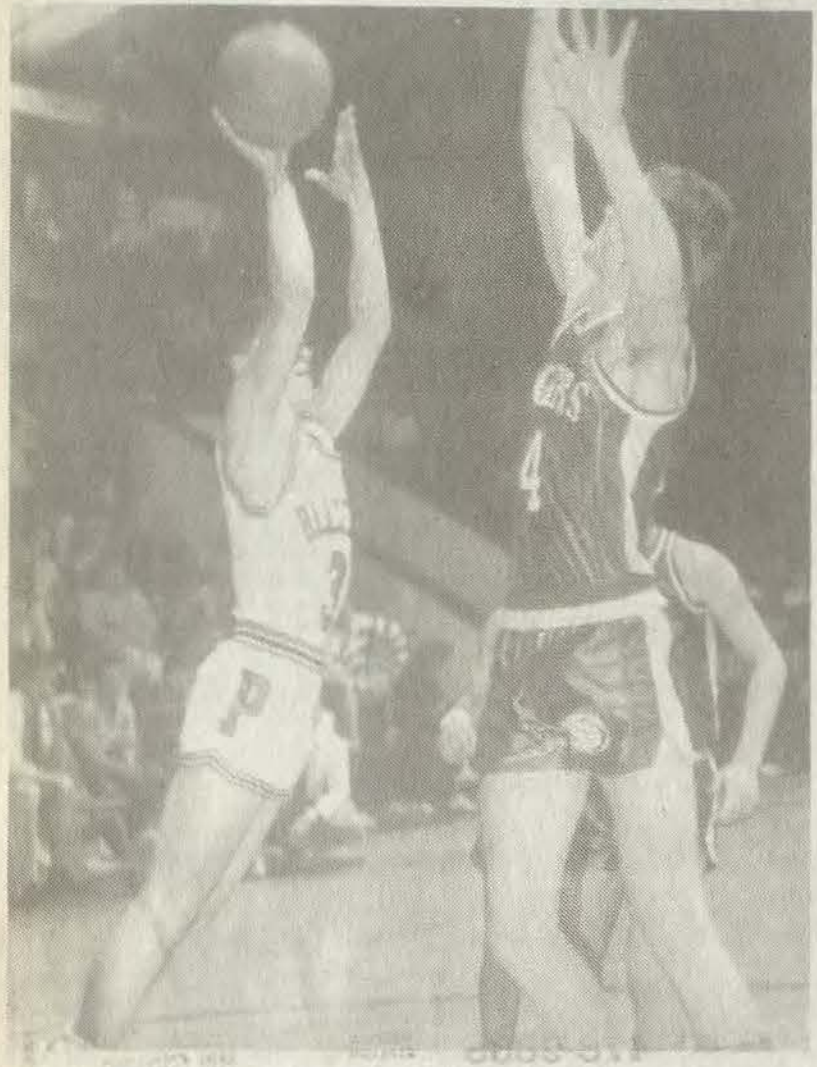

The Lady Cats' tournament hopes are carried on the shoulders of their leading scorer and multi-talented forward, Karen Frasure. Kathy Stone will also provide some offensive scoring. Coach Junior Newsome's Betsy Layne Bobcats will be waiting in the wings to take on the winner of the McDowell-Wheelwright encounter in Friday night's second game.

The Bobcats are a balanced team with strong inside play, outside scoring and are a solid defensive team.

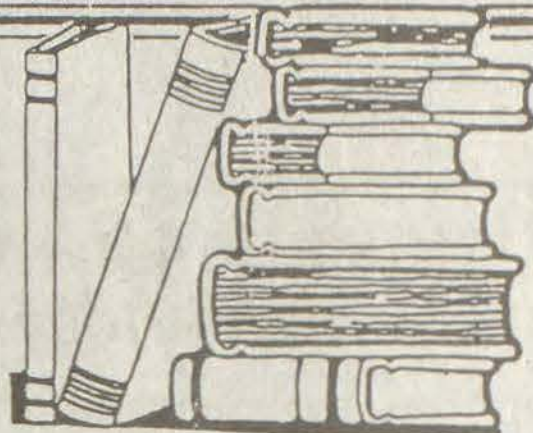

They also have a coach that has been through it all before in district, regional, and state competition. Betsy Layne split its two games with McDowell during the regular season and beat Wheelwright twice.

However it all develops, each game promises to bring excitement to Floyd County basketball fans.

A Leaner

A Prestonsburg Blackcat leans toward the basket for two points in last week's basketball action, as the Blackcats got past Paintsville, 67-66.

Clay's 'Cats Say Goodbye To Seniors, Post 63-28 Win Over Mullins Women

Coach Bridget Clay's Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats said goodbye to their seniors in an emotional setting at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse Saturday night.

"There were a lot of tears, as there always are at these special games," Clay said. Flowers and plaques were presented as part of the ceremonies to the seniors parents.

On this special night it is only fitting that a senior would lead them to victory, as the state's 11th-ranked scorer, Karen Frasure, tossed in 27 points to lead the Lady Blackcats to a 60-28 victory over the Mullins Lady Tigers.

Prestonsburg, struggling early, led at the end of the first quarter, 11-5.

In the second stanza, Prestonsburg began to heat up and get things going. Mullins' Kelly, who scored 20 of her team's 28 points, kept the Lady Tigers from being blown out early, as Prestonsburg built a 13 point lead, 29-16 at half time.

"Kelly's a smooth player. She's a tremendous player," Clay said. "She kept Mullins in the game the first half."

Prestonsburg pulled out to a 22 point lead, 42-20, at the end of the third period.

"We ran our offense like we were suppose to," she said. "The special defense we run helped us to establish a big lead. We got to play our eighth grade players a lot in this game. They have been coming to practice all year and has really help this year in helping us to be successful."

Prestonsburg out pointed Mullins in the fourth stanza, 18-8 to take the contest, 60-28.

"Stephanie Music, Carrie Merion, Raquel Cain and Carolyn Reffitt are our eighth graders that has really contributed to our program this year," Clay said. "Angela Senters is back with the team now and Amy Hick's leadership and just her presence on the floor makes us a better team. She's solid, dependable, she's just a great ball player.

"No one expected us to win 14 games this year. But we have overcome some adversity and pulled together this season," Clay said.

Prestonsburg goes to 14-11 overall and will play Allen Central tonight at 6:30 in the 58th District Tournament.

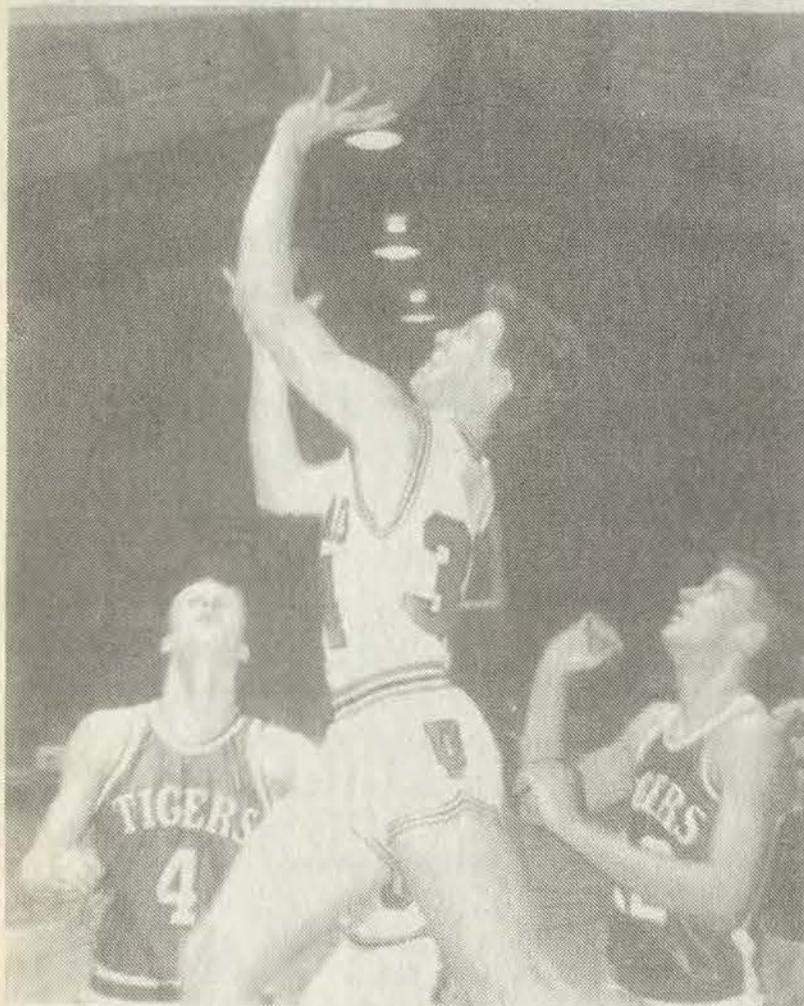

Frasure led the Lady Blackcats with 27 points. Michelle Clemmons added 15 and Kathy Slone netted 14.

In an earlier game this past week, the Lady Blackcats defeated Lawrence County, 63-36 behind the 32 points of Karen Frasure. Frasure also had 17 rebounds, and hit 10 of 14 free throws. Michelle Clemmons had 12 points and Kathy Slone added 10.

LAWRENCE COUNTY 97 6 14 (36): Borders, 4-0 2 10; Adams, 4-0 1 9; Turner, 1-10 5; Marcum, 2-0 1 5; Jobe, 1-0 0 2; Daniel, 1-0 0 2; Vincent, 0-0 1 1.

At PRESTONSBURG 15 16 17 15 (63): Karen Frasure, 8-2 10 32; Kathy Slone, 3-0 4 10; Michelle Clemmons, 5-0 2 12; Flo Jervis, 0-0 3 3; Amy Hicks, 1-0 0 2; Stephanie Allen, 0-0 1 1; Stephanie Music, 0-0 1 1.

MULLINS 5 11 4 8 (28): Kelly, 6-1

Lefty

Todd Justice (34) moves toward the basket for two of his game-high 25 points against the Tigers of Paintsville. The Blackcats escaped with a win, 67-66.

Respect for the law comes, in part, through respect for law enforcement officers. A Trained Deputy, sensitive to his community and it's people, (especially it's young people), can do more to generate respect for the law and prevent crime than all the judges and prisons in the world.

My pledge to you, as your Sheriff, is to provide professional and available law enforcement by trained Deputies that law abiding citizens have no need to fear, and that criminals have little hope of outwitting.

 CORONER'S OFFICE.

QUALIFIED, HONEST, PROVEN
 Certified by the Justice Cabinet Bureau of Training.

Why We Should Re-Elect
Roger Nelson

TO THE FLOYD COUNTY CORONER'S OFFICE.

Roger was born at Dwale, a son of a pick and shovel coal miner and the son of a Bull Creek dirt farmer's daughter. All the money spent to educate Roger was dug from the coal seams (U.M.W.A.) of Eastern, Kentucky.

Roger did not have any of the benefits of the proverbial silver spoon, yet he acquired his education and has brought a tremendous improvement to the coroner's office which is respected by state and federal officials.

When Roger took the oath of office 7 years, 2 months ago, there were state senators and representatives wanting to abolish the office of coroner. Since then, law and regulations were fought for by the legislation committee (of which Roger was a member) and was instrumental in getting the necessary changes for the benefit of all the people and to much better serve the justice system.

In 1985 Roger was recognized for his hard work in improving the coroner's and medical examiner's system. He was appointed to a 5 year member advisory commission to further advance the Kentucky Coroner's System.

In 1986 the F.B.I. appointed a Task Force to inspect all coroner's systems in the nation. The Kentucky Coroner's System was recognized as one of the best in the nation.

In 1988 the Kentucky Coroner's and Medical Examiner's System was ranked by the F.B.I. as the number 1 coroner's system in the nation, and today is used as a model for other states to adopt.

As of January 1989, approximately 20 states are planning to and some have already begun to adopt the system Kentucky has organized.

Roger Nelson has served his office well, and made a coroner's office that all the people of Floyd County can be proud of.

Price Tag On Ruling Means Schools Will Get More

By Tom Parrish
Beyond question, any positive action the Legislature undertakes in response to Judge Ray Corns' decision in the public schools finance case will call for fresh funding — and a great deal of it.

In late November, Governor Wallace Wilkinson himself acknowledged this fact.

"I realize Corns' ruling will cost additional money," he said, although he had not yet "addressed where the money will come from." However, he expressed his clear agreement that "Kentucky schools must be adequately funded."

The basic funding principle had been enunciated in September by Judge Corns' select committee: when taxpayers put forth the same effort, enough state money should be provided to ensure that they receive sufficient funds for an adequate school system.

James Melton, former deputy superintendent of public instruction of Kentucky, recently drew up a plan showing how this principle might be applied in practice.

Although granting that "there are a number of methods of equalization that could conceivably be used should the Legislature desire," Melton based his approach on the power-equalization formula — the method adopted in 1976 to enable the state to provide supplementary funds to poor school districts.

For the current fiscal year, the PEF should supply the schools with an extra $111 million. How much more would be required to bring them up to the level called for in the Corns decision — a level achieving what Melton calls "financial equity"?

The basic figure comes from Fayette County, the richest county school district in Kentucky, with an assessed property value of $279,390 per pupil. (The comparable figure for McCreary County in southeastern Kentucky is $36,191; thus, in school terms, the metropolitan Bluegrass district is almost eight times as rich as its mountain cousin.) With a tax rate of 66 cents per $100 of assessed value, Fayette produces $1,844 per pupil — a figure that Melton terms the target level for all the other school districts.

No matter how stringently McCreary and the other poor counties taxed themselves, of course, they could never equal Fayette's revenue per pupil because they simply do not have the wealth.

If they did tighten their belts and tax themselves at Fayette's 66-cent rate, they would produce substantially more income than they now receive, but this money would actually amount to little more than a drop in the bucket.

McCreary County, for instance, could raise about $820,000, but to equal Fayette's $1,844 per pupil it would have to do the impossible — that is, to collect more than $6 million in school taxes. The difference between the $820,000 and $6 million-plus would amount to $5,525,000, the sum that would have to come from state government if McCreary were to achieve full financial equity with Fayette.

For Kentucky as a whole, the cost of bringing every district up to the level of Fayette County would be $579.2 million. Since the current power-equalization appropriation is scheduled to be $111.2 million, the state would have to provide $467 million in new money.

(It is worth mentioning here that the emphasis is and must be put on new money because no one has any thought of merely redividing the existing pie, taking money from richer counties and giving it to the poorer counties. Such a move clearly would violate the principles laid down by Corns and would certainly fail to produce the all-important efficient school system. Fayette and the other well-off districts must be free not only to keep their present funding, but even, if they choose, to improve it through their own efforts.)

Using the same method of calculation, Melton presented a second funding possibility, based not on Fayette County but on the average assessment and tax rate of the top 5 percent of counties. Fayette stands so high even in comparison with this 5 percent that Method No. 2 bears a much smaller price tag than No. 1 — about $250 million, as compared with $579 million; after allowance is made for the power-equalization contribution, that would mean about $139 million in fresh funds.

But the problem here is that this method, by definition, would fail to achieve the goal of complete fiscal equity. Some districts, as the saying goes, would be more equal than others. Whether the courts would accept this method, only the courts could tell.

Melton also presented a third method, which yielded figures falling between those of Method No. 1 and Method No. 2. But only No. 1 seems clearly and completely in accordance with the letter and spirit of Corns' decision.

Calhoun Wins Sidney, Ohio Spelling Contest

John Calhoun, eighth grade student at Bridgeview Middle School in Sidney, Ohio, emerged as the spelling champion after battling it out for 25 rounds in a recent annual city-wide spelling bee.

Calhoun is the 14-year-old son of Clarence and Delois DeRossett Calhoun of Sidney, Ohio, formerly of Prestonsburg.

Nine students competed for the trophy in the spelling bee. Calhoun is a repeat winner of the city-wide spelling competition. He won the bee in 1987, and was runner-up in 1988. He was also runner-up in 1985.

Calhoun correctly spelled "mozzarella," and then correctly spelled "blondism" to win the trophy.

He the City of Sidney in the regional spelling bee to be held in Dayton, Ohio, in April. The winner of the regional event goes to Washington, D.C., for national competition.

He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. T.J. DeRossett of Prestonsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Dode Calhoun of Water Gap.

Johnson Serves On Task Force About Teaching Voting Process

By Don Burke and Jeff Mullins
"It was an honor and a privilege to serve the Voter Education and State Government Task Force," said Ernie Johnson, a social studies teacher at Wheelwright High School.

Johnson was asked to serve on the task force by Nijel Clayton, a social studies consultant for the Kentucky Department of Education, when she visited last year with the state accreditation team. Johnson was one of only two teachers on the task force; the other was Carol Parks from Logan County High School in western Kentucky. The task force met at Rough River State Park, located 30 miles outside of Bowling Green, from Feb. 6-8. The purpose of the meeting was to write a handbook for Kentucky teachers to use next year in teaching a unit about the electoral college, voting, and the voting process.

The Kentucky Legislature recently passed House Bill 348, which states that Kentucky teachers have to instruct their students about the electoral college, voting and the voting process. The handbook may be out at the beginning of the coming school year. "Most students don't know enough about how officials are elected to public office. This new requirement should make them more informed about how that happens," Johnson added.

Johnson has already started teaching students at Wheelwright about the voting process. In the fall of last year, his students cast their votes in the national presidential election on voting machines provided by Carla Robinson Bolton, Floyd County clerk.

McDowell Students Begin FBLA Chapter

by Angie Little
Recently, McDowell High School students formed a chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA), open to students in the business, typing, accounting and introduction to business classes.

This school year, students earning credit in those classes may join. FBLA is a national organization for all high school students participating in business and office programs. The club provides opportunities for further development of business and career skills.

An election will be held in the near future to fill officers' positions. Applications for candidacy will be distributed to members, and each member must determine and state his or her qualifications for the various offices. The elections will be followed by initiation.

Club members will work on projects to improve the school and community, as well as help individuals develop self-confidence and leadership skills. County competitions are part of future plans.

The McDowell FBLA chapter, traveling with the Garth Area Vocational Education Center's FBLA chapter, will attend the FBLA regional conference March 29. Students will observe competition among schools in the region in typing, accounting, business English and other areas.

McDowell Literary Magazine Earns 'Above Average' Rating

For the second consecutive year, "Freedom," the literary magazine published with writing and art from Allen Central High School students, has received an "above average" ranking by the National Council of Teachers of English.

To receive an above average ranking, a publication must fulfill the following criteria: sound writing; genres other than poems and short stories included; good editing; evidence of effort to embrace other subject areas; design and layout adequate; students participate in editorial, production and business aspects.

"Freedom" was one of 17 Kentucky high school literary magazines to be recognized out of 1,1451 magazines entered in the competition. It is one of two magazines east of Lexington to be recognized; other winners were from Louisville, Lexington, northern and western Kentucky. While not all entries were ranked, those which were received either "superior," "excellent" or "above average."

"I'm proud of the students and the teachers for their award," said Don Daniels, ACHS principal. "Our goal is to continue to improve the quality of the magazine more this year."

"Freedom" contains original short stories, poems, essays, character sketches and artwork. The writings in the award-winning issue were selected by the ACHS Writers' Club. The student editor for the club was Kim Cline.

Members of the club who were actively involved were Jeana Scott, Thelma Frasure, Linda Oliver, Kathi Keen, Tommy Craft, Tracy Jacobs, Carla Coburn, Ann Castle, Mischa Endicott, Greta Sexton and Lisa Jane Hicks.

Assisting with layout were Charlotte Ferrell, Davinia Chaffins, Anthony Stokely, Eric Kilgore, Kathi Keen, Linda Oliver and Rick Smith.

Typing and technical assistance were provided by Rita Osborne, Tim Stephens, Lynn Meade, Tammy Smith, Gary Samons and John Wohlford.

Magazine sponsors include Patricia Watson, for writing, and Caralita O'Quinn, for art.

A third issue of "Freedom" will be available in May, prior to the end of the school year.

WHS Club Urges Students, Residents To Donate Blood

by Gina Johnson
 "Four out of five people are expected to be injured in a car accident and require blood transfusions during their lifetime. You might never be, but what about your family and friends? Donate blood — you could save a life," a representative from the Central Kentucky Blood Center said recently.

For the past three years, the Wheelwright High School Beta Club has worked with the Central Kentucky Blood Center (CKBC) to help the students and citizens of Wheelwright donate blood and do their part to preserve life. This spring, WHS will again be a part of the Floyd County Blood Donation Challenge. The five county high schools each hold a donation day for their students and community residents. The school having the most pints of blood donated is the winner.

At WHS, the Beta Club is urging everyone to come out and donate. The technicians from CKBC are trained professionals and the blood donation process is sanitary and safe. To be eligible, donors must be 18 years old. Students who are 17 years old can donate if they bring a parental consent slip. All donors will receive a t-shirt.

Ray Jones, head of the Beta Club at WHS, recently drew names from a hat to decide who would serve as Beta officers and help supervise the blood drive. Only seniors who have been in the Beta Club for two years are eligible. The officers are Tammy Burke, president; Karen Bates, vice president; Tonja Johnson, treasurer; and Tyra Newman, secretary.

McDowell Forms Business Alumni Association For Sports

by Darren Sparkman

To date, the club has 18 members, who pay $50 each to join. The organization includes youngsters and adult members of the community, including Harold Stumbo, Harry and Reba Martin and Johnny Hall.

The organization has purchased hats, food at Lexington after the game with Lafayette High School, and food at Kelsey's to give the players recognition for being conference co-champs.

The First Guaranty Bank of Martin has made a commitment of $1,000 for expenses at the state tournament if the team can win regional competition.

The unit of study will last about two weeks.

The staff of the Mud Creek Respiratory Clinic would like to express their thanks to Michael Brooks of Brook's Pharmacy in Betsy Layne. Mr. Brooks was kind enough to donate a glucometer for use in their clinic. A glucometer is used in checking blood sugar levels.

Mr. Brooks has shown great generosity and support toward the community in his actions. Thank you sincerely, Michael.

The respiratory clinic is a division of Big Sandy Health Care organized to better the lives of people with respiratory problems. Better breathing and smoking cessation classes are presently being organized. Direct any inquiries to Gina Mitchell, program coordinator, or Tina Hall, LPN outreach at 587-1300, 587-2200, 886-1242. Classes will be held in local communities.

TV Q&A

Petersens related but not acting much anymore

By Polly Vonetes

Q: My question is about Paul Petersen and Patty Petersen, who played the son and daughter in The Donna Reed Show. Are they brother and sister in real life? Are they still in show business? Please tell me where they are and what they are doing today. —Geraldine Roberts, Lake Crystal, Minn.

A: Yes, Paul and Patty Petersen are brother and sister in real life. Paul has been acting only marginally. Writing has been much of his life, having had 14 books published. Included are a series of books called The Smugglers; Walt, Mickey and Me (Paul was an original Disney Mouseketeer) and High Performance Driving (He raced cars for a time). Since 1978, he has been involved in operating a limousine service in Los Angeles. In October '87 he was featured, for several weeks, in the role of Caruthers on General Hospital. Little is known of Patty, who starred as the adopted sister, Trisha, on The Donna Reed Show. She didn't really have any ambition to be an actress. She wanted to be on the show because her big brother was.

Q: I was wondering where Peter Barton went to Jr. High School. In 1978 I went to school with a guy named Peter Barton in Claremont, N.H. Could it be the same? They look alike. —Donna Foster, Whitehall, N.Y.

A: Sorry Donna, Peter grew up in Valley Stream, Long Island, N.Y., where he attended elementary and high school. He was in his third year of pharmacy school when he made a last-moment decision to try for a modeling career instead. In 1979 he moved to Hollywood and began acting.

Q: I watch The Lost Epi- sodes of Bonanza on the Discovery Channel. Are these episodes that were never played when Bonanza was being aired? We can't recall seeing these programs when they were originally broadcast. —Helen Bentdahl, Mankato, Minn.

A: These episodes are being re-aired for the first time since 1973-74. They have not been previously aired in syndication, but aired as part of the original Bonanza series on NBC.

Q: I recently saw the movies Young Guns and Unconquered and would like to know more about Dermot Mulroney. How old is he and where does he live? —Aimie, Denison, Texas.

A: Twenty-five-year old Dermot Mulroney is a native of Alexandria, Va. He made his professional acting debut on CBS in Sin of Innocence. Since then, he has appeared in the CBS Schoolbreak Specials "Toma—The Drug Knot" and "Daddy." His feature films include Survival Quest, Sunset and Boys. He is a graduate of Northwestern University and is also a cellist.

TIME OUT

College basketball champions crowned this week

By Jerry Jorgensen

There will be plenty of college basketball on display this week as ESPN covers the proceedings of Championship Week.

College basketball conferences from coast to coast will crown their champions before the week is over. From the Atlantic Coast Conference to the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, you won't miss any tournament action if you watch ESPN.

Viewers who just can't get enough can also watch several games on CBS and ABC during the week. The coverage won't be as good, but not everybody can have Bob Ley and Dick Vitale...

ABC Sports and the United States Figure Skating Association have announced a multi-year extension of their agreement which will allow ABC Sports to televise the U.S. Figure Skating Championships well into the next decade. ABC has televised the championships every year since 1964.

"Year in and year out, figure skating has proven to be one of the most popular shows on Wide World," said ABC Programming executive David Downs. "We are pleased to be able to continue our excellent relationship with the U.S. Figure Skating Association."

Magistrate District #2

As I have traveled through Magisterial Dist. #2, I have found that many of you worry about how each candidate, if successful, will treat you and your home community once elected. It is sad that for so long our elected magistrates have showed favoritism to selected roads, communities, and areas. They have taken care of their own family, friends and supporters, and often denied fair treatment to the rest. Even worse, they seek to divide up, pitting one community against another, somehow implying honest and fair treatment TO ALL cannot be done.

As a candidate for magistrate, I seek the vote of EVERY CITIZEN of Dist. #2, regardless of where you live. The right to fair and effective treatment by your magistrate is one each of you should have. I promise to respect that truth, and render to every community their fair share of the services and resources that an honest magistrate can deliver.

All of Magisterial Dist. #2 deserves such a magistrate. I am that man.

Billie Little:

Earning Her GED To Further Self, Career

By Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

Billie Little's experience in tending to ill and injured patients ranges from young, battle-scarred soldiers in Korea to elderly invalids in Florida and Eastern Kentucky.

However, the Auxier woman's lack of paper credentials hinders her from advancing in her career and from earning the pay that her experience and knowledge merit. Little, like many of her contemporaries, has to watch as younger people with less confidence and fewer skills pass her by professionally. Their edge, she believes, is the possession of diplomas and degrees that tell modern employers they are qualified.

The Army veteran is not allowing her dilemma to get her down. Today, she's back in the classroom with the goal of earning her GED and then going to college.

"I would love to get my GED and then my RN (registered nurse) and go back to working with old people," said Little, a skilled care nurse's aide at Riverview Manor Nursing Home in Prestonsburg.

Little has nurtured and "taken care" of people for most of her adult life. A native of Pike County, she joined the US Army, along with her sister, in 1950s. Today, she calls her decision to leave the service "the regret of my life."

"The proudest moment of my life, outside of having my children," said the mother of four, "was when I put my uniform on. I loved the Army."

Little's mother was against her daughters joining the military. "She didn't want us to go because she

Little, like many of her contemporaries, has to watch as younger people with less confidence and fewer skills pass her by professionally. Their edge, she believes, is the possession of diplomas and degrees that tell modern employers they are qualified.

thought women in the Army had a bad reputation," said Little. "Everyone thought a woman then went in just to be with the servicemen."

Although the young-looking blonde admits that men may have been an added incentive, the Women's Army Corps in the 1950s, she said, was strict in keeping the sexes separate. The real reason Little enlisted, she said, was for the promise of adventure and excitement, and she was not disappointed.

Trained as a medic, Little worked at several military hospitals during her term in the Army, in departments as far ranging as psychiatric wards and nurseries.

She was sent to Korea as the conflict there was winding down. She worked with an ambulance crew in a "sort of M.A.S.H.," she said, referring to the popular former television show. "I was so scared the whole time I was over there, I can't even remember most of what happened."

In addition to her work assignments, Little fondly remembers the USO shows she had the opportunity to see, particularly the one at which she was pulled out of the audience to dance with entertainer Bob Hope. "I was young and pretty enough to get their attention," she laughed.

The owner of several "good conduct" citations, Little still remembers at least one time that she broke the Army's strict rules and received its demeaning punishment. "I had to scrub the stairway with a toothbrush," she said with a grimace.

When Little and her sister, who now lives in Michigan, left home to join the Army, they had been no farther from home than Floyd County. Nor had they ever ridden in a train compartment. "When we found the compartment, we wondered where we would sleep, so we called the porter. We really felt foolish when he just pushed a button and the bed came out," she recalled.

The GED student laughs when she remembers her naivete. "Our parents gave us some money to spend on the trip to basic training in Virginia, and we tipped everybody," she said. "We didn't even have money for a Coke when we got there."

An injury sustained while on duty left her classified as 30 percent disabled, according to the Army. While stationed in Maryland, Little was riding in an ambulance, en route to pick up a soldier being flown in from Korea, when the ambulance wrecked. The WAC was thrown forward and her knee was injured, although she contends it hasn't really slowed her down.

Little left the service, a move she still regrets, for marriage. Now divorced, she had four grown children.

While her children were still at home, she worked for a nursing home in Pikeville for seven years before moving to Florida where she worked for a similar facility for about eight years. "I love to work with old people," she said. "It's very hard work, but they get to my heart."

Her work at Riverview Manor, which she declares is "one of the nicest nursing homes I've even seen," is primarily with patients who can do very little for themselves. Her duties range from feeding and bathing the residents to turning them in the beds and simply administering "tender loving care."

Presently, she and co-workers are taking classes twice weekly to be certified to work with patients who require skilled care. Soon, she said, certification will be required to do the type of work she has spent 15 years doing.

Also twice weekly, Little attends GED classes offered at the local National Guard Armory through the Department of Employment Service's veterans program. She hopes to pass the GED exam, giving her the equivalent of a high school diploma, and then to enroll in college classes. "It's something I've always wanted to do, and finally it looks like I might do it," she said. "I just like to better myself."

Trading Uniforms

Billie Little of Auxier traded her Army uniform for that of a nurse's aide several years ago. Now the veteran is trying to further her education to one day be a nurse. She works at Riverview Manor Nursing Home in the evenings and studies for the GED exam during the day.

New Magazine Offers Info For Arthritis Patients

A magazine for people with arthritis is now available to people in Kentucky.

The magazine, "Arthritis Today," is published six times a year by the Arthritis Foundation.

"There are almost 40 million Americans who have a form of arthritis, and 7,300 in Floyd county alone," said Carol AbuZant, regional director of the Kentucky Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

"One in every seven people has arthritis; one in every three families is touched by it. These people want to know the latest about arthritis research and treatment, and they want to know how to best overcome their disease in everyday living. The Arthritis Foundation's official new membership magazine gives that and much more," AbuZant said.

"Arthritis Today" covers such issues as new research, products, medications, treatments, communication with family members, coping with chronic pain, getting financial help for medical bills, self-help tips on exercise and daily living.

For more information about "Arthritis Today," write to the Arthritis Foundation's Kentucky Chapter at 366 Waller Avenue, Suite 102, Lexington, KY 40504, or call 276-1496.

Floyd Women May Compete In Pageant

The second Miss Heart of the Highlands Scholarship Pageant will be held April 8 at the Paintsville High School Fieldhouse, and this year, the pageant will be open to young women from Floyd County.

According to Betty Hamilton, executive director of the Miss Kentucky Scholarship Pageant, the Floyd County pageant directors requested, and received, permission to hold the local pageant on May 13 in conjunction with the Festival of FACES.

"That is after deadline for the state pageants," said Hamilton. "It is perfectly permissible for (young women from Floyd County) to enter the pageant nearest to them which has no objection to taking someone from out of their area."

The Miss Heart of the Highlands Pageant is open to competitors from Johnson, Martin, Magoffin, Boyd, Lawrence, Morgan and Wolfe counties, as well as Floyd. The winner will go on to participate in the Miss Kentucky Pageant, held in Louisville.

Young women ages 17 to 26 before the Labor Day holiday may enter, and they must be high school graduates by Labor Day, and never have been married.

Participants will be judged in private interview, evening gown, talent and swimsuit.

To enter, contact Kyle Williams, 297-3547 before 5 p.m., or 789-5953 after 5 p.m., as soon as possible.

In addition to the Miss Heart of the Highlands competition, a pageant will be held for young women ages 3 to 16. The divisions include Little Miss Heart of the Highlands, ages 3 to 7, with the winner advancing to the Little Miss Kentucky Pageant in Louisville in July; the Junior Miss Heart of the Highlands, ages 8 to 12; and Teen Miss Heart of the Highlands, ages 13 to 16.

Last year's Little Miss Heart of the Highlands, Elizabeth Denise Walker, went on to win Little Miss Kentucky 1988, and presented the crown to Miss Kentucky 1988, Mikka Darby.

Little Miss and Junior Miss participants will be judged in sportswear and party dress; Teen Miss competitors will be judged on private interview, evening gown and swimsuit.

To enter, contact Judy Walker, 297-4437 after 5 p.m., or Lisa Williams, 297-3626, as soon as possible.

County Kettle

County Kettle

Is a new feature offered by the Floyd County Times. Send all recipes, kitchen tips and suggestions to "County Kettle," The Floyd County Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg, KY 41653.

March is National Nutrition Month, and in this week's column are recipes for good nutrition and good health.

Fish and chicken are healthy alternatives to red meats, and plenty of vegetables and grain products will decrease fat consumption.

BRAN-NEW OVEN-FRIED CHICKEN (The Grains Cookbook)

1 large chicken (about 4 pounds), cut into serving pieces
2 cups buttermilk
1/8 tsp. crushed whole allspice
2 tsp. hot pepper sauce
1 tsp. soy sauce
1 tsp. salt
4 tbsp. (1/2 stick) unsalted butter
1/2 cup plus 2 tbsp. homemade chicken stock or canned broth
6 tbsp. unprocessed wheat bran
1/4 tsp. freshly ground black pepper
1 tsp. all-purpose flour

Place the chicken pieces in a large bowl. Combine the buttermilk, allspice, hot pepper sauce, soy sauce and salt in another bowl; pour the mixture over the chicken. Cover and refrigerate overnight.

About two hours before serving, place the chicken in a colander and let stand until well drained. Reserve the buttermilk mixture.

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. Heat the butter with 1/2 cup chicken stock in a small saucepan. Keep warm.

Place the bran in the container of a food processor and process until fairly smooth. Transfer to a paper bag and add the pepper and nutmeg. Shake to mix well.

Pat the chicken pieces dry with paper towels, and add them to the bag with the bran mixture. Shake the bag well to coat the pieces evenly.

Place the chicken pieces, skin side down, on a rack covering a roasting pan.

Bake, basting every five minutes with the pan juices, until the coating is crisp and the juices run yellow when the meat is pricked with a fork (about 30 minutes).

Transfer the chicken pieces to an ovenproof platter and keep warm in a 225 degree oven.

Place the roasting pan over medium-low heat. Add the flour. Cook, stirring constantly, about two minutes. Whisk in the reserved buttermilk in three additions, scraping the sides and bottom of the pan. Stir in the 2 tsp. chicken stock and cook until slightly thickened, about four minutes.

Serve the gravy with the chicken. Serves four.

PASTA WITH TUNA SAUCE (American Institute for Cancer Research)

1 tsp. olive oil
2 garlic cloves, minced
2 6 1/2-ounce cans water packed tuna, drained
1 32 ounce can tomato puree
2 tsp. fresh parsley, minced (or 3 tsp. dried)
1 to 2 tsp. oregano
1/8 to 1/4 tsp. cayenne pepper
3/4 pound pasta, preferably whole wheat
3 tbsp. Parmesan cheese, grated

Heat the oil in a large skillet over medium heat. Add the garlic and saute, stirring constantly, until it is just golden. Add the remaining ingredients except the pasta and cheese. Simmer, uncovered, over low heat for about 15 minutes. Add water if sauce gets too thick.

Meanwhile, cook the pasta in boiling water until it is tender but still firm. Drain.

Top with the sauce and serve immediately.

Serves four, with a fat content of 7 grams and 615 calories per serving.

COD FILLETS WITH MUSTARD SAUCE (American Institute for Cancer Research)

1 pound cod fillets
Small amount of lemon juice
Mustard Sauce:
1 tsp. margarine or butter
1 tsp. flour
1/8 to 1/4 tsp. pepper
1 cup skim milk
1/2 tsp. dried parsley
1/2 tsp. dried basil leaves
1 tsp. vinegar
1 tsp. mustard (yellow or Dijon)
1/2 tsp. dried oregano

Place the fillets in a lightly buttered baking dish, and squeeze lemon juice lightly over the top. Cover the fish, and bake at 450 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes, or until the fillet flakes easily with a fork.

Prepare the sauce while the fish bakes. Melt the margarine in a saucepan over low heat and blend in the flour and pepper. Cook the mixture until it is smooth and bubbly, then remove from the heat and stir in the milk. Return to the heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Simmer one minute, remove from heat, add the remaining ingredients and heat through.

Place the cooked cod fillets on a warm platter and top with the sauce.

Serves four, with a fat content of 3 grams and 145 calories per serving.

MINISTRONE WITH PESTO (American Institute for Cancer Research)

1 cup (1/2 pound) dry small red beans
1 quart water
1 14 ounce can whole tomatoes and juice
1 cup (1 medium to large) onion, chopped
3/4 cup (2 medium) carrots, shredded
1/2 cup celery, finely chopped
1 garlic clove, crushed
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 cup cabbage, shredded
3/4 cup water
1/3 cup (3 ounces) tomato paste
1/4 cup salad macaroni
Pesto, if desired

Combine the beans and one quart of water in a large pan or Dutch oven. Heat to a boil, and boil for two minutes. Remove from the heat, cover, and let stand 1 hour.

Stir in the onion, carrots, celery, garlic and pepper. Stir the mixture and heat until boiling. Reduce the heat and simmer gently, covered, until the beans are tender, about two hours. Add the tomatoes with their juice. Stir to break up the tomatoes. Next add the cabbage, the remaining 3/4 cup of water, tomato paste and macaroni. Simmer the ingredients gently, covered, for 20 minutes or until the macaroni is al dente. Spoon the mixture into bowls, and top each with a spoonful of Pesto.

Pesto:

1/2 cup fresh basil leaves
1/2 cup fresh or frozen (thawed) spinach leaves
2 tbsp. Romano cheese, grated
2 tsp. olive oil
1 tsp. fresh parsley, chopped
Place ingredients in a blender jar. Blend until mixture forms a smooth past.

Yields six bowls, 1 1/4 cups each, with a fat content of 6 grams and 235 calories per serving.

FRENCH-STYLE WHITE BEANS (American Institute for Cancer Research)

1 cup green or snap beans, fresh or frozen, partially thawed
1 tsp. olive oil
1 to 2 garlic cloves, sliced lengthwise and squeezed
1/4 tsp. thyme
1 15 ounce can white kidney or Great Northern beans, rinsed and drained
Pepper to taste
Steam the green or snap beans in a medium saucepan until they are crisp-tender (about 2 to 3 minutes). Drain the beans and set them aside.

In the same pan, heat the oil and the garlic over low heat for about 10 minutes; do not brown the garlic. Discard the garlic after heating.

Add the thyme and the white beans to the oil in the saucepan, and cook over low heat for 5 minutes. Add the green beans, tossing gently, and season with pepper to taste, heating through.

This dish also works well as a salad, when served at room temperature. Yields four servings of 1/2 cup each, with a fat content of 5 grams and 164 calories per serving.

MUSTARD GREEN BEANS (Bon Appetit)

1 pound green beans, trimmed
4 tsp. butter
4 tsp. coarse-grained mustard
Salt and freshly ground pepper
Steam beans until crisp-tender, about five minutes. Drain thoroughly. Melt butter in heavy medium skillet over medium heat. Stir in mustard. Toss beans in mixture to coat. Season with salt and pepper. Serve immediately.

BLUEBERRY OAT MUFFINS (Martha White Kitchen)

1 1/3 cups sifted Martha White All-Purpose Flour
1 cup rolled oats, regular or quick cooking
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1 egg, beaten (or 1/4 cup liquid egg substitute)
1 cup milk (or 1 cup skim milk)
3 tbsp. vegetable oil
1 cup fresh or frozen blueberries
Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Grease muffin pans.

Combine flour, oats, sugar, baking powder, salt and cinnamon in medium bowl.

In another bowl, combine egg, milk and oil.

Add liquid ingredients to dry ingredients, stirring only until flour is moistened. Batter should be lumpy. Fold in blueberries. Fill muffin cups 2/3 full. Bake 25 to 30 minutes or until golden brown. Makes about 12 medium muffins.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

OF AGE AND COLOR

As a person gets older, the lens of the eye tends to yellow. This makes vision less clear. Glare becomes more of a problem. It is also more difficult to distinguish between blue and green, and yellow and white. If a person has difficulty distinguishing between these colors and if he is taking medicines that are white and yellow (or blue and green), there is a chance that he will get the medicines mixed up and not take them correctly. It is important to distinguish in some way the white from the yellow tablets as well as the blue from the green. Possible solutions would be to put the drugs in different size containers, or to identify the drugs by their shapes instead of color.

COOLEY APOTHECARY is your local pharmacy where a registered pharmacist is always on duty to fill your prescription requirements quickly and accurately. Our pharmacy is well known throughout this area as truly the "Drug Store with a Difference". Take advantage of our everyday low prices at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

HINT: Many drugs, even aspirin and vitamin C, can interfere with laboratory test results.

SAMONS FOR MAGISTRATE

DIST. #3

Time For A CHANGE!

I want to take this opportunity to again ask for your support with my candidacy for Magistrate in District Three. I am pleased with the favorable response you have given me as this campaign begins. I agree with so many of your assessments that this race is between one other candidate and myself.

I am running against some good candidates and friends of mine. However, the big issue is which candidate is strong enough to bring about a change which we so badly need in our district. If you will give me your honest vote I promise you four years of honest, courteous and accommodating service.

I know you agree with me that we must demand honesty and integrity in our elected officials if we are to instill these qualities in our children.

When I am elected your magistrate, all sections of our district will be treated fairly; my telephone number will always be published to receive your suggestions.

Your vote and influence will be appreciated.

Books And Things

Take A Winter Vacation Without Leaving Home

by Trisha Morrison
PCC Librarian

Is there a better way to spend a cold, damp month than in planning this summer's vacation? The following books from the Prestonsburg Community College Library will take you away to exotic lands, or show you how to enjoy your own state.

The Walker's Guide to Nature, by Connie and Arnold Krochmal. For those whose vacation plans are built on a slim budget, the authors suggest they invest in a good pair of walking shoes, this book, and take off. The Walker's Guide describes walks in towns, in parks, along beaches, and in one's own backyard. Nature is everywhere, though most of the year people are too busy to notice, so the authors suggest that readers take a special time to observe the teeming community of living things which share this universe. The books spend its energies instructing readers how to observe nature — it is not a guide for where to do that observing.

Guide to the New Mexico Mountains, by Herbert Ungnade. One cannot drive any great distance in New Mexico without driving over mountains or along mountain ranges. The author has written this little book as a guide to trail and road information into the best-known mountain ranges of the state. Complete with maps that show streams and creeks as well as main roads and trails, it is a good guide for real adventurers or a good picture book for armchair voyagers. From the Socorro mountains bordering the Rio Grande to the Sangre de Cristo mountains forming the western boundary of the Great Plains, the book is a geography lesson to the enchanting state. With appendixes on mountain climbing tips, summits and their altitudes, and skiing information, it's an invaluable reference for the western traveler.

The Swamp, by Bill Thomas. Thomas' photographs reveal the beauty, the mood and the diversity of this world that few have ever seen. He introduces readers to the classic swamps of the southeast, such as the Okefenokee, the remote Alskai in Hawaii, the tiny mountain swamps of New England, and the Great Swamp of New Jersey, which lies practically unnoticed on the doorstep of a great metropolitan city.

A strange place to visit — maybe — but the outstanding photographs of unfolding nature and the accompanying text of the swamp's natural history, along with its fascinating legends, makes it seem like the last frontier of wild America.

The Scottish Highlands, by John Lister. Scotland conjures images of rugged mountains, deep glens, long lochs and kilted bagpipers. These trappings of the tartan image and more are depicted in scenic pictures and descriptive text. The many facets of the landscape, from Brodick Castle to Loch Ness, are explored and lavishly described.

Written by a 30-year resident, this is a very personal tour of a country which is often seen as only good for grouse hunting or salmon fishing. Along with the tourist stops, it includes a history of the land and many detailed maps that bring the narrative to life.

Guide to Public Gardens. A guide for every knowledgeable gardener or amateur plant lover. It lists alphabetically, by state, outstanding arboreta, botanic gardens, and many parks and gardens of historic houses. It provides a brief description of the gardens, their locations, hours, and if there is an admission fee.

The authors have searched out the interesting and unusual, along with the historic and the legendary. Many have classical collections indigenous to their locales, and others are of value to the historian and botanist.

An invaluable book to add an extra sight to vacation plans anywhere in the United States.

Hiking the Appalachian Trail, edited by James Hare. These are the absorbing stories of the 46 men and women who have hiked the entire 2,023 miles of the Appalachian Trail from Maine to Georgia. It tells the day-to-day adventures, dangers, hardships and satisfactions of the long trail, and includes hundreds of practical suggestions on equipment and clothing.

It is a practical guide for those planning to try the rugged trail, or some good adventure stories for the homebound. It includes 131 full color photographs.

Guide to the National Wildlife Refuges, by Laura Riley. It's not necessary to travel to Africa to see wild animals. The natural wildlife refuges of the United States are unmatched by those of any other country in the geographic span they cover, the diversity of habitat they provide, and the variety and number of wild creatures they harbor.

Most of these 380-plus remarkable places are open to the public for wildlife-oriented adventure from nature photography to backpacking and camping.

This book tells where these refuges are, how to get there, what there is to see and do, where a visitor can stay or camp nearby, and the best times to visit the areas.

Castles of Britain, by Christina Gascoigne. Can anyone travel to Great Britain without wanting to see a castle? Castles — those romantic, looming structures that form youngster's dreams and give definition to a landscape. This book contains the author's personal 87 favorites. They dot the island from England to Scotland and Wales, but all are open for public tour and many are marked for a particular interest to the specialist.

Filled with pictures, the book will serve as a guide for the tourist or a picture book for the wisher.

Great Historic Places, edited by Beverly Da Costa. Many marks have been made on this country as its people have moved westward across its face. This guide presents a state-by-state summary of more than 1,000 of these marks — 44 national history sites, 47 national monuments, 11 national military parks, 10 national cemeteries, six national battlefields, and many landmarks and memorials.

This abundantly-illustrated volume presents the great historic sites against a background of their role in the growth of America from its colonial beginnings to the present.

Traveling Weatherwise in the USA, by Edward Powers. The best-laid plans of any trip can be upset by the weather. The author has tried to fill the gap that most guide books overlook. This book is neither a travel guide nor a meteorological study — it is intended to provide a layman's view of the seasonal variations within the 12 national weather areas of the United States, and specifically within over 100 American cities, on a month-to-month basis.

This book, used in conjunction with a good travel guide, may take the weather gamble out of vacation plans.

Seeks Adoptive Family

Chris, 12, appears to be younger than his actual age. He is somewhat hyperactive, so it is difficult for him to relax for any length of time. He tends to play with younger children he can dominate. His peer group sees him as immature because he does not like competitive games or group rules, and will disrupt the game in order to have his way. Chris is a lovable child who basically wants to please and be accepted. He has had a very problematic life and needs a consistent and stable home with long-term counseling if he is to overcome his past traumas and become part of a family. To adopt Chris, or for more information, contact the Special Needs Adoption Program toll-free, 1-800-432-9346, or Kathy Bohr with the Prestonsburg Department for Social Services, 886-8192.
