

Prestonsburg Blackcats Are Headed For State

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

As you travel Arnold Avenue going toward the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse, the street is marked clearly by "cat" tracks to show the way. A sign at the entrance of Arnold Avenue coming off the Mountain Parkway issues this warning, "Blackcat Alley: Enter at your own risk". Along the route to the fieldhouse you have a chance to see the "Blackcat's Family Tree". All of this was to let the traveler know he was in "Blackcat Country".

Was there a "Blackcat" loose? Was that the reason for all the warnings? No, there were 15 "Blackcats" loose. Coach Gordon Parido's Prestonsburg Blackcats were to take on Johnny Ray Turner's McDowell Daredevils in the finals of the 15th Regional tournament at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse Saturday night.

Game time was set for 8 p.m., and at 5 p.m. the fieldhouse was almost full as basketball fans from the 15th region came early to find a parking space and a seat to watch the two 58th District schools decide who was to represent the region in the "Sweet 16" at Rupp Arena in Lexington.

The competition began long before the game did, as it was section against section, band against band, mascot against mascot, and the "bleacher creatures" against everybody else. At 6 p.m. no seat could be found at the fieldhouse as spectators from Ohio, Indiana, and all around Kentucky were present for this gala event.

Senior Todd Justice scored 23 points, 20 in the second half, to lead the Blackcats to a thrilling 81-70 victory over an excellent Daredevil basketball team, and help earn a trip to Rupp Arena.

Scott Hall hit the first basket of the game underneath, but Marc Hall's bucket tied it at 2-2. Another basket by Hall put the Blackcats back up by two, when Keith Shelton scored on a turn around jumper. A basket by Dickie Joe Shannon made it 6-4, McDowell.

Prestonsburg lead 9-8 at the 2:41 mark of the first quarter, then the Daredevils went on a 10-2 run to claim a first quarter lead of 18-11.

Thomas Nairn hit a three-pointer to open the second period to make it 18-14, then McDowell ran off six unanswered points to go up by 10, 24-14. Five points by Chris Slone, on a basket and a three-pointer, cut it to five 24-19, with 4:16 remaining. Another 10-4 spurt by the Daredevils gave them a halftime lead of 11 points, 34-23.

The Blackcats, appropriately named the "cardiac cats" after falling behind and having to come back, went on a 23-2 tear, as they came out smoking behind the shooting of Justice, as he hit four medium range jumpers, and the inside play of Hall, to take a eight point advantage, 42-36.

McDowell, trailing by eight with 1:15 remaining in the third period, scored six straight points on a Stacy Hall basket and two buckets by Dickie Joe Shannon, to trail by four, 50-46, at the third stop.

In the fourth quarter both teams exchanged baskets on each possession, until the 6:40 with Prestonsburg up by two, 54-52, the Blackcats scored six points on two three-point plays by Hall and Nairn to lead by eight, 60-52. Prestonsburg took its biggest lead, 72-57 with 2:32 remaining in the game. Three three-pointers by Henry Webb brought the Daredevils back to within seven, 73-66. The Blackcats outscored the Daredevils, nine to two to win the finals, 81-70.

The third quarter turn around by the "cardiac cats" was the turning point in the game. What did Parido have to say to his squad at half time?

"I told them I thought their attitude was down, and they had to believe in themselves," he said. "The only change we made offensively was we put Todd in the middle."

The Blackcats have been successful this year because of the unselfish play of the players, and Coach Parido gave his assessment of his team.

"We're not a one-man team," Parido says. "Our players are unselfish."

Edith Fitzpatrick James, Curator Of Mountain Culture, Passes Away

The founder of the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival and the annual Old Christmas celebration, Edith Fitzpatrick James, died Sunday, March 12, at the J.J. Jordan Geriatric Center in Louisa. She was 96 years old.

A music teacher, singer and music researcher, Mrs. James was one of the prime proponents in the region of Appalachian folk music. With a WPA grant in the 1930s, the native Floyd County researcher the music of the mountains.

She and her late husband, Tom James, took a local group of Plain Song Chanters to a National Folk Festival during that time. At her own expense, she also took the group to Washington, D.C., for a performance at Constitution Hall. A number of mountain songs which she collected are in the Smithsonian Institution in the nation's capital.

A concert performer herself, she traveled the Redpath Chautauqua concert circuit and sang with the Robert Shaw Choral Ensemble when she was a young woman.

In addition to teaching in Prestonsburg schools and giving private music lessons for many years, she also taught at Peabody Conservatory in Maryland and at Midway College in Midway.

She originated the Old Christmas celebration, commemorating early mountain tradition, during the 1930s at the Garfield Place. Later, the annual festivities took place in her home, and when the number of guests grew too large the celebration was moved to May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

This year will mark the 25th anniversary of the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, said to be the oldest festival of its kind in Kentucky. Under her leadership, the festival has spotlighted mountain culture, its music and literature.

As a student at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, she is said to have begun her discovery of an interest in the relationship between the plain song style of medieval times and the songs and chants in many early mountain churches.

She also attended Averitt College in Danville, VA, from which she received the distinguished alumnus award, the Order of the Daisy, five years ago.

Mrs. James was born in Floyd County on March 17, 1892, the daughter of Jasper and Rosamond Parsons Fitzpatrick. She was preceded in death by her parents; one brother, Bill Fitzpatrick; two sisters Winnie Johns and Maggie Leete, and her husband, who died in 1975.

She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church and Eastern Star and a charter member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary and of the John Graham chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution.

Funeral services were Tuesday, March 14, at 2 p.m. at Floyd Funeral Home, with the Rev. Steve Hopkins and the Rev. Tim Jessen officiating. Burial was in the Weddington Cemetery.

Conservation District Meeting Slated March 21

The Floyd County Conservation District will meet Tuesday, March 21, at 3:15 p.m. in the district office, 37 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg.

The meeting is open to the public.

Floyd Added To Listing Of State Disaster Counties

Floyd County is one of 16 more counties added to the federal listing of flood disaster areas, part of the joint state and federal relief efforts, according to Paul Hall, coordinator of the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

The added counties bring to 16 the number affected by recent flooding — slightly over half of the state's 120 counties. Hall said the widespread flooding constituted the largest disaster, geographically, in the state's history.

The listing enables some victims to be eligible for a number of programs, including temporary housing, Small Business Administration loans and individual grants. Victims who require assistance or more information should call the FEMA hotline, toll-free, 1-800-248-0068.

State and federal officials are operating the joint relief effort, with Kentucky paying 25 percent of the costs, and the federal government the remaining 75 percent.

According to County Judge John M. Stumbo, he met with FEMA official last week, showing them mud and rock slides, water damage that included washed out pipes and bridges and damage to some houses. Officials took a rough estimate of damages, totaling $30,000 to $35,000.

Postal Service Seeks New Site For Auxier Office

The US Postal Service is seeking to lease a building with approximately 600 feet of existing space and with good public access and parking for 10 cars in Auxier.

The preferred area, said postal officials, is within one-half mile of the present post office location.

Forms and additional information can be obtained from James R. Zaruba, Real Estate Office, Suite 145, 150 East Campusview Blvd., Columbus, OH 43235-4648, or by calling (614) 469-4417.

Proposals will be received until March 31, said Zaruba.

If Feasible, MCC Expansion Could Help To Revitalize City's Downtown Business Area

by Anne Chaney

An entire block of the downtown Prestonsburg business district may receive a much-needed facelift, if joint plans by Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, city and Main Street Program officials prove feasible.

Steve Schenck, executive director of MCC, said this week that his agency is studying the feasibility of purchasing and renovating two adjacent buildings which formerly housed the Hobbs Department Store. The project would include interior renovations and exterior improvements, restoring the buildings nearly to their original appearance. Additionally, Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta said the city has secured an option from Dr. H.G. Salisbury III for two adjacent lots next to the old hospital building — an area that may, if funding is approved, be converted to parking area and a mini-park on the riverbank.

"I think it's the most exciting thing to happen to downtown Prestonsburg in several years," said Latta. "It has the potential to revitalize the entire downtown area."

Latta is working with Big Sandy Area Development District officials to apply for a Community Development Block Grant of $200,000 to $250,000. The funds could be loaned to MCC at a low interest rate to provide money for interior renovations; repayment, which normally begins three to five years after a project is initiated, would later provide the city with money for other economic development projects.

"It could be a real bonus to the city to have this grant, because you get the benefit of it twice," said the mayor.

School Board Eliminates Administrative Postions

The Floyd County Board of Education, by a continuous split vote, took action Tuesday night to comply with state officials' recommendations, eliminating three central office positions — the assistant superintendent of finance, the school health coordinator, and one food service director.

Persons in those positions, who were not named in open session, will be reassigned with accompanying reductions in duties, responsibilities and pay.

In a related matter, two administrative personnel, Auxier Elementary School principal Wayne Combs and McDowell High School principal Bobby Hall, will be issued notices. The action apparently refers to tenure in administrative positions; both men were employed as administrators beginning this past school year. Obviously anticipating opposition to the move, the board also voted to employ John C. Prather as a hearing officer.

Addressing the board and audience, Superintendent Ronald Hager said the reductions were part of recommendations made by Robert Gover, a member of the state Department of Education's management assistance team. Hager noted that since the state took over the district in January, his authority and that of the board has been limited.

All of the actions taken by the board were approved by a split vote, with Dr. James Adams, Dr. Mary Hall and James Duff voting in favor, and Ray "Shag" Campbell and Tommy Boyd voting against.

Renovation, Natural Gas Bill, Basketball Top Council Agenda

Discussion about a proposed revitalization project for downtown, the city's gas bill from Kentucky West Virginia Gas Co., and the state tournament-bound Prestonsburg Blackcats dominated the Prestonsburg City Council meeting Monday.

Council members unanimously passed a resolution proclaiming the week of March 13-17 Blackcat Week in the city and today Blackcat Spirit Day, in honor of the team which begins Sweet 16 tournament play today in Lexington.

The council also unanimously authorized Mayor Ann Latta to apply for a community block grant to restore the Combs and Elizabeth Hotel buildings on Front Street, both of which formerly housed the Hobbs Store (see separate story, this issue).

Under a proposal from Mountain Comprehensive Care, the two buildings would be renovated to consolidate the center's administrative offices, a mental health clinic, community information and education center and a retail outlet for products made at the center's sheltered workshops.

Councilman Mike Vance, a member of the MCC staff, said the renovation will maintain the integrity of the history of the buildings. He added that the center's present headquarters in the old Prestonsburg Hospital building will be converted to rented and leased office space for other organizations.

MCC's plans are subject to the city's success in garnering the grant monies, which it can then lend to the center at low interest. The grant will also include a proposal to buy the Salisbury lot for development as a parking lot and a riverfront recreation area.

"This is an exciting project for the city," said Latta, who is writing the grant proposal this week. Latta said that money from the interest on the MCC loan "can be turned back into further renovations."

Latta said the first public hearing on the proposed renovation will be this morning at 9 a.m. at the council chambers, with a second hearing set for next Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Bill Harvey Howard, superintendent of the Prestonsburg Utilities Commission, gave background and an update on the commission's renovation will be this morning at 9 a.m. at the council chambers, with a second hearing set for next Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Clarifying The Issue

Prestonsburg Utilities superintendent Bill Harvey Howard tried to clarify the city's $2.8 million gas bill from Kentucky West Virginia Gas Co. during Monday's city council meeting. Howard said the state Public Service Commission has taken up the cause of the municipalities that recently received staggering bills. He urged council members to write to local Congressmen for help overturning the gas company's billing.

Mayor Proclaims May 1 'Law Day'

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta presented Attorney Larry Brown with a proclamation, at the March 13 city council meeting, designating May 1 as Law Day in the city. The May date annually marks the observance of activities promoting the body of law that governs the United States. Citizens, schools, businesses, clubs and news media are asked to plan special observances on that day.

Ballot For May Primary Ready

Names have been drawn to indicate the order in which candidates' names will appear on the ballot for Floyd County's primary election on May 23.

All of the candidates on the official primary ballot are Democrats. Several Republicans and an Independent are candidates, but without competition in the primary they were not included in the drawing.

The drawing for position on the ballot was held by the county clerk's office. After the filing deadline, candidates had the opportunity to draw a number themselves, to send a representative to the clerk's office or to have the number drawn by a member of the clerk's staff.

Glenn Ray Caudill drew the top slot on the listing for county judge/executive. Second and third positions on the ballot are occupied by incumbent John M. Stumbo and Dickie Hall, respectively.

In the race for county attorney, Jimmy Martin Hammond's name will precede incumbent David Allen Barber's.

In the race for Magistrate, District 1, the list, in order, includes: Robert H. Robinson, Curtis G. Risner, Birdie Hicks, Dennis Lafferty, Johnny (Keith) Endicott, incumbent Gerald DeRossett and Thomas D. Lafferty Sr.

Unopposed in the May primary are Republicans Gorman Collins Jr., candidate for Magistrate, District 1; Curtis Hall, Magistrate, District 3;

Keith Williams, Magistrate, District 4, and Astor Hall, Constable, District 4. James D. Fitzpatrick is running as an Independent candidate for Magistrate, District 2.

Housing Grants Provided By HUD

Floyd County and Martin housing authorities have been approved for fiscal year grants from the US Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The Floyd County agency, which operates units at Ivel and Warco, is to receive an operating subsidy of $170,965, and the Martin authority is designated to receive $76,913.

The subsidies are used to make up the difference between projected income and yearly operating expenses, according to spokespersons for Senators Wendell Ford and Mitch McConnell, whose offices announced the grants Friday.

A Labor of Love

Virginia Robinson and Della Wallen, residents of Riverview Manor Nursing Home in Prestonsburg, pose in front of the super-king-sized quilt they helped to make recently. Robinson, 73, of East Point and Wallen, 76, of Allen chose the nine-patch style, cut the pieces by hand and arranged the colors and blocks, according to activity director Theresia Harris. The actual quilting was done by staff at the Singer Sewing Shop. "They worked on it about two months," Harris said of the two, "and they were real excited about doing it." Robinson and Wallen both say they've quilted most of their lives. The quilt is on display in the lobby of the facility.

Three Minor Accidents Reported

Minor accidents were reported in Prestonsburg this week, according to city officials.

A 1976 Buick driven by Lisa R. Reynolds of Blue River was backed into a parked car owned by Leonard Stephens of Prestonsburg. Damage was minor, no injuries were reported, and no citations were issued. The accident occurred on the parking lot at Jenny Wiley Village.

On Saturday, a vehicle driven by Geiger Carter of Phyllis was struck in the rear by a vehicle driven by Phillip D. Goble of Prestonsburg at the intersection of US 23 and West Prestonsburg. No injuries were sustained, nor citations issued.

Thursday evening, Mecc Webb of Langley was driving south on Arnold Avenue when she apparently pulled out in front of Raymond Schoolcraft of Prestonsburg. Schoolcraft's vehicle was struck in the back right side.

Minor damage was reported.

FLOYD COUNTIANS:

When I ran last election, I made two promises: to enforce the DUI laws and child support. I've kept them both. I care about FLOYD COUNTY.

I won't make promises I can't keep. Grady Stumbo taught me something while I was helping with his campaign for governor; Politicians promise things they can't possibly do to try to get votes. Leaders make few promises, but keep the promises they make.

Floyd County has had enough politicians. We need Leaders. I have proven that I am an HONEST LEADER.

Visitor To P'burg Notes Tourism, Urges Sales Continue

Dear Editor,
I have been visiting Prestonsburg for nearly 14 years; first on business, and later to visit friends and to vacation.

Over the years, I have noticed some changes which represent real progress. When I first started visiting the area, significantly I observed that, while Prestonsburg and Floyd County were "dry", there was little trouble buying alcoholic beverages and, on occasion, I watched various drinks consumed in restaurants with no notice or hesitation.

The notion of Prestonsburg being "dry" was a kind of standing joke except when I mentioned the merits of the area as a vacation spot to my friends elsewhere. Consistently, the reply was something like: "Oh, we once went to the park there and thought it was quite beautiful, but we enjoy a cocktail before dinner and the area is 'dry', or, 'We don't want any hassle.'" The clear message was that their tourist dollar the next time was going to — or had already gone — somewhere else.

Statistically, it has been proven that every tourist dollar that is spent in a community turns over in that community three times before it leaves. It creates new jobs and generally contributes to the improvement of the economic health of an area.

Particularly in recent times, the courts have held that bar keepers that sell alcoholic drinks to patrons have responsibility to that patron and to the community not to allow a patron to become intoxicated. They can be held liable if the patron is permitted to drink too much, and then becomes involved in an auto accident or some other act, and injures themselves and/or someone else. Clearly, legal, controlled drinking is safer and saner than its alternative. It gives the local economy a much-needed boost and creates employment and, most importantly, it takes the whole matter of drinking (something people will do regardless of the law) out of the hands of the lawless and criminal.

I seldom drink myself, but see no moral evil in drinking, particularly given all the positive references in the Bible to wine and alcoholic drink. The story of the marriage feast is the one I think of immediately. The wrong is in excessive drinking, or eating, or pleasure, or anything else done to excess. In recent times, it has been pleasant to sit down to dinner with friends in a nice restaurant and be able to offer them a legal drink.

I am not a resident of your community, although I spend time and have many friends there. I am glad to see the community seek a much-needed chance to improve the local economy by making the area more attractive to visitors and tourists. The employment that tourism creates is vital to the area. Nothing should be done to cause it to decrease.

Respectfully,
William J. Miller Sr.

Reasons For 'Dry' Vote Are Given By Local Pastor

Dear Editor,
In the March 1 front page article "Judge Signs Order; 8 Precincts To Vote In Option Election" (Floyd County Times), it was stated that eight precincts in Prestonsburg were to vote on whether or not they wished to have alcoholic beverages sold in their precincts.

In the same article, one of our City Council representatives, William Callihan, stated that "We've got some people who want to take revenue away by voting the community dry."

Mr. Callihan needs to be reminded that eight precincts out of 48 in Floyd County is hardly "voting the county dry." Our primary aim is to get liquor by the drink out of our city.

Folks, we need to be truthful about this local option election. This opposition is not about firetrucks, or garbage trucks, or the city budget, or taxes. This vote is about a City Council that, by a tie-breaking vote of the mayor, voted to place in the City of Prestonsburg a very damaging ordinance which opens up our fair community to public intoxication through liquor by the drink in a way that was never opened before through package liquor sales.

It seems to me that the real culprit in this matter is simple greed to get an additional $30,000 in tax money through Holiday Inn, while at the same time hurting the whole community of Prestonsburg with liquor by the drink.

While not condoning package liquor sales in any form, legal or bootleg, still most of the folks who support a "dry" community had adopted a "status quo" attitude — recognizing the value of keeping bootlegging at a minimum, which has also had the effect of cleaning up the community. But friends, liquor by the drink is opening up a whole new avenue of problems, which we do not need in a loving, caring community like Prestonsburg. We have a beautiful community. We recognize that we are not perfect, but we are trying hard... and liquor by the drink is a step backwards.

We are attempting — in the only way we know how — to say to the City Council that we want it to represent all of us, not just the interest of "big money."

Friends, Prestonsburg belongs to the voters of this city, and we can let our representatives know that we do not want this liquor by the drink through this local option election by voting "no" in such large numbers that they will have no alternative but to listen. It is up to all of us to speak loudly and clearly to the City Council.

Sincerely,
Ron Masters,
Pastor,
United Methodist Church

Sutton Better Than Reports May Indicate

Dear Editor,
I am a 76-year-old fan of the Kentucky Wildcats. I know they have had some bad luck this season, but I think it is a shame the way some people seem to think all of it is Sean Sutton's fault every time. They lost a game — this morning — instead of saying a word about the way Sean Sutton played during the whole game, by bringing the ball down court, getting it inside, the good passes he made, two three-pointers, he keeps raving about Richie Farmer. We all love him, too, but so far, he has not played as well as Sean Sutton.

I hate to hear the things "oneman" keeps saying so many hurting things when Sean plays his heart out in every game. He cannot help all the rumors that are going on. I guess some "dogooders" have to open their mouth and try to impress everyone around. They seem to know so much about coaching, maybe we should try to get them in to coach the Wildcats.

It was a thrill to see Richie Farmer make the shot that won the game, and I'll look forward to seeing him play.

It seems that some think all there is to being a good player is to shoot the ball. They forget the player that is able to get the ball there, for them to put through the hole. I wonder who they will pick on after the ball season. Maybe back to Reds' baseball.

Thanks,
Myrtle Berry,
Martin

McDowell Fan Upset With Actions

Dear Editor,
I decided to write this letter out of pure disgust. As I attended the 58th district and 15th regional tournaments, I saw the worst case of "sportsmanship" ever. The Prestonsburg supporters are greatly abusing their right to be Floyd County basketball fans.

This loud and rowdy group, mostly the student body, is bringing the respect of Floyd County down to the lowest levels. I was appalled as I watched them throw ice and other objects onto the playing floor, hitting other players, coaches and cheerleaders.

They used banners and gestures that were obscene. Some of their cheers, which contained four-letter words, were heard over the radio and could not be censored. I must say this was greatly uncalled for. Didn't their principal, Robert May, hear or see any of this?

I truly hope this group does not go to the "Sweet 16" and embarrass Eastern Kentucky by acting this way! Lastly, a few words to the Prestonsburg fans: "It takes class to show class," and as of now, you have none!

What Happened To Manners, Respect?

Dear Editor,
What ever happened to manners and respect? As I watched the Prestonsburg-McDowell basketball game, it was obvious to me that the Prestonsburg fans did not use any, or had forgotten any manners they have learned.

I was shocked as I watched these high school and junior high students hold up disgusting and vulgar signs. After a wrong call was made against the Prestonsburg team, the entire gym was forced to listen to cheers containing four-letter words aimed towards the officials. At one point, a "shower" of ice was thrown, trying to hit other players and fans.

I always wondered why a sportsmanship trophy was never given — now I know why!

Visiting School Not Always A Good Idea, Relates Parent

Dear Editor,
I am a teacher in Floyd County and have always been proud to be a member of the educational system in our county, but now, I can take a look at the other side.

Picture the following:
A parent walks into a principal's office and wishes to discuss her child's absenteeism. Instead of being listened to or shown any interest in her child's problem, the parent is belittled, ridiculed, insulted and (nearly) called a liar.

That is exactly what happened to me when I visited my child's school. The principal had no regard at all for my child's health. He was very rude, insulting and very unprofessional.

This display of aloofness and thoughtlessness has made me stop and ask myself, "Is it a good rule to visit my child's school?"

Very disappointed,
Lucille Hall,
Auxier

The Floyd County Times has received numerous phone calls from basketball fans about the poor sportsmanship displayed by students at the 15th Regional basketball tournament.

Prestonsburg is blaming McDowell fans; McDowell is blaming Prestonsburg fans. While obscenities were being shouted, by word and by signs, this sort of action does not have a place in high school basketball.

Fortunately, the attitudes and actions displayed by the players and coaches were outstanding.

High school basketball is a great sport, a fun sport. Fans of Allen Central, McDowell, Wheelwright, Prestonsburg and Betsy Layne should be proud of their respective teams, should support them and cheer for them, but not with name calling and obscene gestures that degrade rather than build.

No matter who is at fault in this particular situation, it does not belong in the sports. Let's all work together to see that it does not happen in the future.

We hope that, in the future, school administrators will take the lead and see that there is not a recurrence of this behavior. Throwing ice and cups on the floor only serves to do harm to the ones fans came to cheer for — the players. We hope that the adults, who are not totally innocent, will also try and restrain themselves in future games.

If we all work together as fans, parents and educators, we can eliminate such displays of poor sportsmanship in the future — no matter who is to blame.

THE EXCELLENCE IN EDUCATION ACT OF 1989

As we look across the nation, it becomes clear that our National education report card is mixed at best. Reports of high educational achievement clash with other stories of frighteningly low educational attainment. Forevery bright star in the education sky, there is at least another dim point where education performance falters. I fear that, unless we take action as a nation to address our educational problems, the educational sky may dim altogether.

As stark as this picture is, I don't mean to suggest that the country is bereft of educational success. The point I am trying to make is that we simply cannot allow this to be a nation of educational haves and have-nots.

I don't profess to have all the answers to our nation's educational needs. What I do know is that no one entity, federal, state, or local, or public or private, has sufficient means by itself to combat our education problems. Only through a renewed partnership of education advocates, and full utilization of available resources will we be able to address our nation's education ills.

I propose that we address ourselves to the front-line of elementary and secondary school education; our teachers and principals. When all is said and done, it is our educators who are charged with the responsibility of putting theory into practice. I think it's long past time that we recognized innovative educators for their success.

On March 2, I introduced S. 500, the Excellence in Education Act of 1989. This measure would identify and reward two schools in each congressional district for their educational excellence. In addition, my bill will include a special award, known as a vital skills incentive award, to stimulate secondary school achievement in math and science.

My proposal to award "vital skills" incentive grants to secondary schools which demonstrate the most improvement in mathematics and science skills will not solve the national decline in math and science skills by itself. But it will provide incentives for educators to find innovative means of training tomorrow's mathematicians and scientists.

Elementary and secondary schools must use 75 percent of an education excellence incentive grant for merit bonuses, up to $2,500 each, for teachers and principals. The remaining 25 percent can be used to upgrade academic facilities, program development or supplies and equipment. Secondary schools receiving a vital skills incentive award for achievement in math and sciences will use 70 percent of the award for merit bonuses and the remaining 30 percent for program development and supplies. The bonuses will be distributed by a three member Educational Excellence Merit Selection Board. Each congressional district will have a selection board with both Senators and the House Representative making one appointment each.

America's educators are the key to turning American education around, both in terms of application as well as the genesis of innovative new education ideas. By introducing the Excellence in Education Act of 1989, I hope to stimulate healthy competition in education techniques and ideas, and thus help unlock American education's inherent potential. I look forward to working to bring this about.

to do about persons who have died or moved away during the time the gas company said the fuel was used and what to do about new customers who, in effect, would be asked to pay for gas they did not use.

"It would be impossible to collect this money," Howard said. "It would be cheaper to convert to electric heat or buy bottled gas. To me, it's idiotic to see a ruling of this nature."

Howard told council that even if Kentucky West Virginia wins its billing quest, "the outcome will probably be a long time figuring out."

"The bottom line," said Latta, "is that as long as the matter is before the Federal Energy Commission, there won't be any increase in rates."

On another subject, Howard reported that water lines are to be replaced in several areas of the city this summer. Among areas included in the line replacement will be North Arnold and Central avenues and Goble, Court, Front and Ford streets. The project will cost between $50,000 and $60,000, Howard said.

In other business, council agreed to declare May 1 as Law Day in the city, in conjunction with national observances. Mayor Latta signed a proclamation to that effect.

Council also discussed the need to clarify a city ordinance dealing with licensing places of entertainment. Council instructed Attorney Larry Brown to draft an amendment to the ordinance and bring it before council.

All council members were present except William O. Goebel III. The next council meeting is set for 7 p.m. March 27 at the Municipal Building.

Posters cheering on the Prestonsburg High School men's basketball team adorned the council chambers as the meeting was videotaped for play on WPRG-TV, a cable station in Harold that covers much of the southern part of Floyd County. The meeting is scheduled to be aired Sunday afternoon, according to Don Bevins, who videotaped the proceedings.

been okayed by the Federal Energy Commission.

Howard said he has asked for assistance in clarifying the issue from State Rep. Greg Stumbo and other lawmakers. He also urged council and citizens to write letters to US Senators Wendell Ford and Mitch McConnell and Congressman Chris Perkins asking them to research and challenge the billing.

"We paid all money invoiced to us by Kentucky West Virginia as approved by the (Federal) Energy Commission," the utilities manager said. "I take the position that we don't owe them anything."

Howard said that the local bill is part of nearly $8 million that the company said it is due from Floyd County utility companies alone and more than $277 million owed altogether from utilities in several states.

He added that the Kentucky Public Service Commission has agreed to have its law firm in Washington, DC, represent Prestonsburg and other utilities in the state in seeking to nullify the billing.

Based on his calculations, Howard said that if the rate increase were to stand, every customer of the local utility "would owe approximately $2,277." He said this would mean "a $30.39 surcharge on the monthly bill for 84 months, plus the cost of regular gas usage."

Howard said many questions surround the billing, including what

UMWA Demands Jobs With Justice

About 120 miners and other interested people gathered at UMWA Local 1827 near Dewey Dam for a "Jobs with Justice" rally Sunday, March 5.

Amid shouts of "John Smith is a convicted felon," they heard several speakers tell of the injustice they feel about so many jobs being lost in the coal industry. (John W. Smith is a former president of Marrowbone Development.)

Eddie Burke, southeastern regional director and administrator for Eastern Kentucky UMWA, called company management of Mappco, Enoxy, Massey and others modern "robberbarons" and "union busters." he said some companies were hiring workers at $6 an hour to replace those who had been making $10 an hour or more.

Douglas W. Blankenship told the group that a new mall in Ashland is being built by non-union workers for $6 an hour with no benefits, whereas union workers normally get $20 an hour with excellent benefits, he, too, indicated the need for union members to stick together to maintain the living standard previously earned. Blankenship is business manager and financial secretary-treasurer for Tri-State Building Trades Council.

Burke pointed out that 100,000 miners have died in the mines since the 1890s and almost a half-million have succumbed to black lung in the same period. He went on to say that if men want to stay and work in the mines, they must fight for that right.

Don Chickering of Branham and Baker Coal and others also came under Burke's fire. Chickering, said Burke, has reportedly purchased both union and non-union operations and attempted to claim union personnel were not producing enough coal. Burke said that Chickering, Pittston, Enoxy, Massey, Whittaker and Cypress coal operations were all represented by the same firm — Smith, Heenan and Altha. He also claimed that the "big oil companies and Wall Street" are behind the total effort to cut jobs and pay in the coal industry.

Throughout the meeting, reference was made to John W. Smith, former president of Marrowbone Development Co., who was convicted along with his wife of felony charges recently. At one point, Smith was compared to Al Capone.

Two representatives of the Kentucky Association of State Employees were present, and they offered their support of the "Jobs with Justice" theme by saying state employees are facing the loss of benefits and jobs.

HAVE YOU EVER FELT SO ALONE YOU COULD JUST DIE?

When things are going badly, loneliness really hurts. Not having someone to turn to, someone to confide in, is the worst kind of heartache. Jesus Christ experienced the ultimate loneliness. With all the world's sin—yours and mine included—bearing down on Him—there was no one to share His sorrow. From the cross He cried out "My God, why have you forsaken me?" That question cries out for an answer. Come this Sunday and find the meaning.

In the event of rain, the hunt will be rescheduled to Saturday, March 25, at 11 a.m.

Allen VAN TURNER Magistrate District No. 3

While campaigning throughout the district this past week, my heart was deeply saddened by the sight of garbage hanging from the trees and clogging up the creeks. The citizens of Floyd County deserve better than this and I would like to see that we get it.

Floyd County has a garbage service and a disposal site, so why should we have to put up with such an unsightly and dangerous environment. I am not content with this situation and I don't think that you are either.

I truly believe that if we all work together, we can make Floyd County a cleaner place to live and raise children.

Your vote and support would be greatly appreciated.

Community Sunrise Service Location Changes This Year

The annual Easter Sunrise Service, sponsored by the Floyd County Ministerial Association, may be held in a new location this year, according to the Rev. Tim Jessen of the First Presbyterian Church in Prestonsburg.

Since 1980, the service has been held at Jenny Wiley State Park at the amphitheater during clear weather, and inside May Lodge in case of inclement weather.

This year, due to both the early date of Easter and repeated flooding of the amphitheater after heavy rains, the service will be held at May Lodge. If the weather is favorable, said Jessen, the service will be held on the patio outside the dining room. If the service is held indoors, it will be held in the large room overlooking the lake and surrounding the hillside.

The service will begin at 7 a.m., also different from last year, said Jessen, since Daylight Savings Time has not begun. The Prestonsburg High School Honor Choir will again sing, and the speaker will be the Rev. Steve Hopkins, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Prestonsburg.

The service will conclude the series of Holy Week services, held each day during holy week at noon at the First Baptist Church, and followed by a luncheon.

The sunrise service at May Lodge in Jenny Wiley State Park is a community tradition; the public is invited to attend.

BIBLE ANSWERS TO YOUR QUESTIONS

A. His Creation

Satan did not always exist. Nehemiah 9:6 tells us God created the angels to worship and praise Him. Lucifer, the son of the morning, the prince of the angels, was placed in charge of the original earth (Ezekiel 28:12-16).

B. His Fall

Satan lost this position when he allowed his "heart to be lifted up because of his beauty" (Ezekiel 28:17). He said, "I will ascend into heaven... and be like the most High." (Isaiah 14:12-14). Pride and covetousness were his downfall.

C. His Punishment

As a result, he and many angels were kicked from Heaven and doomed to an eternity apart from the presence of God. Their punishment will come after The Great White Throne Judgment when Satan, the fallen angels, and all unsaved of all ages will be cast into the Lake of Fire prepared by God. There they will be tormented day and night forever and ever. (Revelation 20:10-15).

D. His Work

Because Satan knows his own destiny, and because he knows God has prepared a plan of redemption for man through Jesus Christ, he is doing all he can to get as many as he can to join him in the Lake of Fire. He is cunning, crafty, subtle, and deceiving. He is a liar, a murderer, a tempter, and an accuser. Peter describes him as "a roaring lion walking about seeking whom he may devour." (1 Peter 5:8). He is the ruler of this world, the god of this age, and the prince of the power of the air.

E. His Defeat

Friend, there is only one way to defeat Satan — that is by accepting Christ as your personal Savior. Only through Christ can we have the strength to resist Satan and his deceiving ways. Won't you put your trust in Christ today before it is too late?

IT'S A FACT...

IT'S A FACT... that you are either saved or lost. Lost or saved, there is no in between. "He that hath the Son hath life, and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life." I John 5:12

IT'S A FACT... that Christ came to this sin cursed world to seek and to save that which was lost. Luke 19:10

IT'S A FACT... that you CAN be saved. "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." Romans 10:9

IT'S A FACT... "Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that heareth my word, and believeth on Him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life." John 5:24

IT'S A FACT... that tomorrow may be too late. "Boast not thyself of tomorrow, for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth." Prov. 27:1

"Behold, now is the accepted time; now is the day of salvation." II Cor. 6:2

THE MOSLEY FAMILY

In Memory of Susie Wills

Known to many as "Mama"

In so many words this is what she said to her loved ones:

I have a savior, He's pleading in glory, a dear loving savior, though earth-friends be few, and now He is watching in tenderness over me. But oh, that my savior were your savior too. For you I am praying I have a father, to me he has given a hope for eternity, blessed and true; and soon he will call me to meet him in heaven, but oh, that He'd let met bring you with me too. For you I am praying. I have a robe; tis resplendent in whiteness, awaiting in glory my wondering view; oh, when I receive it all shining in brightness, dear friend, could I see you receiving one too. For you I am praying. When He has found you, tell others the story, that my loving savior is your savior too. Then pray that your savior may bring them to glory and prayer will be answered; twas answered for you. For you I am praying.

I Love You Mama

Stalcup To Head Cath Lab

In preparation for the opening of its new cardiac catheterization (cath) lab, Highlands Regional Medical Center officials have appointed David Stalcup as technical director of the lab.

Originally from New Orleans, La., he has served as technical director of the cath lab at Memorial Hospital in Gulfport, La., from March 1987 to November 1988. He had previously served as technical director of the cath lab at JoEllen Smith Medical Center in New Orleans from January 1985 to March 1987, and out-patient radiology director of Chalmette General Hospital in Chalmette, La., from 1981 to 1984.

Stalcup received his associate of science in radiological technology in 1977 from George Washington University in Washington, D.C., while serving a 6-year tour in the United States Navy.

"I am looking forward to being a part of the first cardiac catheterization service in southeastern Kentucky," said Stalcup. "This major addition will bring a much-needed service closer to home for many heart patients."

Administrative staff for the lab, in addition to Stalcup, will include Lois Burchett, RN, director of surgical and ambulatory care, and Dr. Rodney Handshoe, medical director.

Chilean Grapes May Be Contaminated, Are Being Removed From Area Stores

The Food and Drug Administration announced Tuesday that it has found and confirmed traces of cyanide in a small sample of seedless red grapes from Chile and, as a result, is detaining all grapes and other fruit from that country and is urging that they be withdrawn from the US market.

According to Earl Compton of the Floyd County Health Department, sanitation inspectors were visiting businesses in Floyd County Tuesday, asking that the fruit be removed from the shelf; otherwise, it will be quarantined by the department, he said.

Consumers are asked to check the source of any fresh, non-citrus fruit and not to eat any Chilean fruit they have on hand. Virtually all fresh grapes currently sold in the US are from Chile, said Compton. Additionally, grapes constitute about two-thirds of the shipments of the Chilean fruit recently imported, US officials estimate.

Other Chilean-originated fruit sold in the US this time of year are peaches, blueberries, blackberries, seedless watermelon, cantaloupes, Juan canary and honeydew melons, raspberries, nectarines, quince, Granny Smith green apples, cactus pears, pears and plums.

While no cyanide has been detected in any of this fruit, as a precaution, consumers are advised to avoid any fruit from Chile at this time.

Hall Completes AAFP Requirements

Dr. Mary A. Hall of McDowell has completed continuing medical education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors.

The requirements call for members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years, according to William R. DeLay, academy spokesman. The organization is the country's largest medical association, with more than 60,000 members. It was the first national medical group to require members to keep up with medical progress through continuing education, said DeLay.

fish; they know who to get the ball to."

On senior Todd Justice: "Todd is one of the top six players in the region, and probably one of the top twenty-five in the state. He has played hard for us all year, he always draws the defensive assignment on the other teams big scorer," Parido said.

This will be the first time a Blackcat team has gone to the state's "Sweet 16". Parido gave his team this to remember: "I told them that from now on you'll be looked back upon as the first Prestonsburg team to go to the state tournament. There may be others, but they will look back on you and remember you were the first," he explained.

"I have the most respect for Johnny Ray (Turner) and the McDowell Daredevils," Parido says. "If Shannon, Webb and Martin wore the red and black for the Blackcats, I would love them just as much as Johnny Ray does, and if Justice and Hall wore the gold and blue for McDowell I'm sure that Johnny Ray would love them as his players."

Parido's mother and sister came down from Winchester to watch his team play in the finals.

"I believe this is the first game my mother saw one of my teams win," he said smiling.

Were there reservations in having her come and see this particular game?

"No, not with my mother and sister," he said laughing.

Tears of joy flowed throughout the fieldhouse from faithful Blackcat fans as their team captured the 15th Regional crown.

Justice led the Blackcats in scoring with 23 points. Slone tossed in 17 points, and Nairn and Hall score 15 and 13 points respectively.

Webb top McDowell in scoring with 21 points. Martin added 13, and Shannon and Hall scored 12 and 11 points respectively.

VOTE FOR ERNEST BURCHETT JAILER

As you know, our Jailer's office is a very important office in our county. It should be run with dependable people, and the Jailer should be present to pay close attention at all times. Employees who look after violators or jailees should have the knowledge of state laws as well as courteous service to our citizens who bail out and seek to gain release for their friends and families. Our Jailer's budget was set at over $200,000 in the last fiscal year. With this budget and closely supervised office, we can maintain a dependable jail to satisfy the public as well as state regulations. If I'm elected Jailer, I will:

1. Maintain present facilities and work for grants for improving our jail.
2. Serve a decent and well-balanced meal to our occupants.
3. Have courteous, honest and well-trained turnkeys.
4. Maintain a clean, well-kept jail for our occupants.
5. Personally supervise and oversee every responsibility of our county jail.
6. I will personally draw up the budget for this office. I will not need someone else to do it.

Seed Vouchers Offered By Big Sandy Area CAP

The Big Sandy Area Community Action Program, Inc., will operate a garden seed program again this year, according to Bill W. May, executive director.

Garden seed vouchers will be used for the program, and eligible households can obtain seeds of their choice through local merchants.

Households in Floyd and other counties served by Big Sandy CAP that meet the 100 percent poverty income guidelines are eligible, said

May. Vouchers will be distributed on a first-come, first-served basis.

Applications will be taken beginning March 20 at the swimming pool building, Stumbo Park Convention Center in Allen.

Merchants interested in accepting the vouchers should contact Big Sandy Area CAP, 874-2965, by March 17, said May.

DUI Task Force To Met In P'burg

The Attorney General's Task Force on Drunken Driving will hold one of five public hearings in Prestonsburg May 26.

The task force will hold a short working session prior to the public hearing, which begins at 1:30 p.m. A location has not yet been determined.

Attorney General Fred Cowan formed the 28-member task force in January to "conduct an all-out assault" on the DUI problem and charged its members to come up with a final report containing solutions by mid-1989. Task force members include judges, prosecutors, defense attorneys and experts from the areas of alcohol prevention and treatment.

PCC Offers Speaking Course

Beginning Monday, March 27, Prestonsburg Community College will offer a five-week course in effective communication.

"Speaking Your Mind: Getting the Point Across" will be taught by Robert Looney, a communications instructor at the college.

The class will meet from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Room 147, Johnson Building, PCC campus.

For more information, please call the Office of Continuing Education and Community Services at the college, 886-3863, extension 215 or 278.

clinic would provide easier access for clients, he said.

Additionally, an information center would be incorporated into the new floor plan, with a reception area, switchboard and personnel to provide directions to agencies located throughout the building.

"The ground floor of the two buildings is connected by a walkway," explained Vance. "The outpatient clinic would take up half or less of the available room, and the other half could be used for an information center and crafts outlet."

Vance said crafts constructed through MCC programs would be available for sale, and that crafts from other exhibitors could be included on a rental or consignment basis.

Schenck and Vance envision leasing space to related social and service agencies as well. "We feel like it would be better for the community to have these related services in a (closer) area," Vance explained.

The second floor of the Combs building may house some regular offices and administrative offices, while the second and third floors of the Elizabeth Hotel building would house business, executive and management operations, Schenck said.

Schenck said the MCC project, if approved, would call for restoring the buildings to nearly their original appearance; the structures were built in the early 1900s.

If the city is successful in obtaining a Community Development Block Grant to loan MCC funds for interior renovations, the agency would obtain additional funds as part of a state-wide revenue bond issuance by Comprehensive Care, Schenck said.

CITY'S PLANS

Latta said the city is considering developing parking on the Salisbury lot, and adding a mini-park on the riverbank.

The entire project, she said, "is going to bring a whole bunch of people downtown."

Latta said Main Street Program officials can provide an architect's drawing of the entire block, and what it could look like. They may also provide design suggestions, including paint themes and window treatments to allow other businesses on the street to have complementing appearances.

The mayor added that the city may ask Kentucky Power Co. to install lampposts that more accurately portray the historical appearance of the street.

Several of the structures on the block have been nominated for inclusion in the National Register of Historic Places, she added.

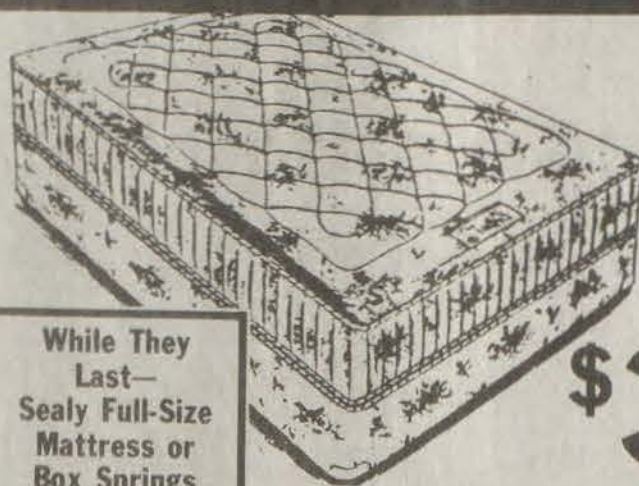

"We want to beautify the whole area — that whole side of the block downtown will be very attractive, and we can make a really pretty waterfront area on the riverbank."

Latta, who is writing the CDBG application, said the fund request must be submitted by April 4.

Overview: Playing Madisonville

Coach Gordon Parido's Prestonsburg Blackcats will be at Rupp Arena today at 1 p.m. to face the Madisonville Maroons in the first round of the Kentucky Boys State Tournament in Lexington.

Madisonville is from the 12th region and has a record of 29-4. Madisonville is coached by Don Parsons, who has spent 29 years coaching basketball, the last 22 years at Madisonville. Parsons won his 600th game this year against Hopkinsville.

As a team, the Maroons are shooting 52 percent from the field, and from the charity line, 78 percent. They have lost to only one Kentucky team this year, and that was against Louisville Male in Louisville, 86-78. They are winners of 19 straight games this year—a school record. Madisonville has had two big wins over Marshall County and Louisville Ballard. In their victory over Hopkinsville in the regional tournament, the Maroons had recorded their 51st straight home victory.

Madisonville is lead by all-state candidate 5'11" senior Travis Ford, who is averaging 31.5 points per game, and eight assists. Ford has already signed to play basketball with Missouri next season. Herb Arnason, a 6'4" senior, is averaging 19.0 per game, five assists, and seven rebounds. Randy Green, a 6'3" senior, is averaging 8.0 points per game, and seven rebounds.

Theron Pearson, a 6'4" senior, is averaging 12 points per game, and seven rebounds. Jeremy White, a 6'2" senior, is averaging 6.0 points per game, and 3.0 rebounds. Jeff Duvall, a 5'7" senior, is averaging 4.0 points per game, and three rebounds. Jim Doddes, a 6'2" junior, is averaging 6.0 per game and 4.0 rebounds.

This will mark Prestonsburg's first trip to the "Sweet 16n".

In 1941, Prestonsburg made it to the semi-finals of the 15th Regional against the Inez Indians, playing in Prestonsburg. The Indians defeated the Blackcats 60-30 and went on to defeat Garrett in the finals of the regional.

Prestonsburg defeated Belfry in the consolation game, 35-30.

15th Regional Champions

The Prestonsburg Blackcats was crowned the champions of the 15th Regional boys' basketball tournament last week at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse with a 81-70 victory over the McDowell Daredevils. The Blackcats will advance to the state tournament in Rupp Arena, today at 1 p.m.

Daredevils Defeat Belfry

It was the Belfry Pirates and the McDowell Daredevils in the second game of the semi-finals of the 15th Regional boys basketball tournament last Friday night at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse.

Belfry upset Paintsville in the first round Thursday night and McDowell won over the Virgie Eagles.

Henry Webb's 19 points led the Daredevils to a 74-56 victory over the Pirates.

It was even basketball in the first period up to the 4:24 mark with the score tied at 11 each. The Daredevils went on a 14-3 spurt on three baskets by Dickie Joe Shannon, two being three-pointers, and baskets by Keith Shelton and Henry Webb. McDowell led at the end of the first period, 25-12.

Jesse Osborne and Webb's baskets early in the second stanza extended the Daredevils' lead to 17 points, 29-12. Paul Stafford's bucket made it 29-14 and buckets by Mike Scott and Chris Ratliff cut it to 12 points, 31-19. Seven points by Ratliff and a basket

Despite Support By Fans, Feds Creek Defeated, 74-66

They were labeled the "noise makers" because of their enthusiastic support for their basketball team—the fans of the Feds Creek Vikings, who came to town to play the Blackcats of Prestonsburg at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse Friday night in semi-final action of the boys 15th Regional basketball tournament.

The fieldhouse was jammed with basketball fans from all over, especially Feds Creek. The Vikings seemed to have a huge following each night, and they always came early.

However, this was not to be their night victory-wise, as senior Scott Hall tossed in 22 points to lead a balanced Blackcat attack. PHS placed four players in double figures, taking a 74-66 win over the Vikings.

Hall scored four of the Blackcats' first six points to put Prestonsburg out in front early, 6-0, in the first period. Baskets by Todd Justice and Chris Slone made it 10-2. The Blackcats went up 14-5 with 2:36 to go in the first stanza, then five unanswered points by Feds Creek cut the lead to four, 14-10. Prestonsburg lead at the first stop, 20-16.

Two baskets by Prestonsburg at the beginning of the second period gave the Blackcats a 24-16 lead.

With Prestonsburg up 28-20, a basket by Rodney Fuller, a three-pointer by Shannon Keene, and four free throws by Keene cut Prestonsburg lead to three, 32-29 with 2:47 remaining. A basket by Danny Hamilton, and two Justice free throws made it 36-29, Blackcats, but a 10-2 Viking run gave them a 39-38 half time lead over PHS.

Both teams traded baskets until the 5:52 mark of the third period, with Feds Creek up by one, 45-44. Prestonsburg went on a 10-2 run to take a seven point lead at 54-47. Feds Creek made a run at the Blackcats in the last two minutes of the third quarter, 7-2, and trailed at the end of the third period, 56-54.

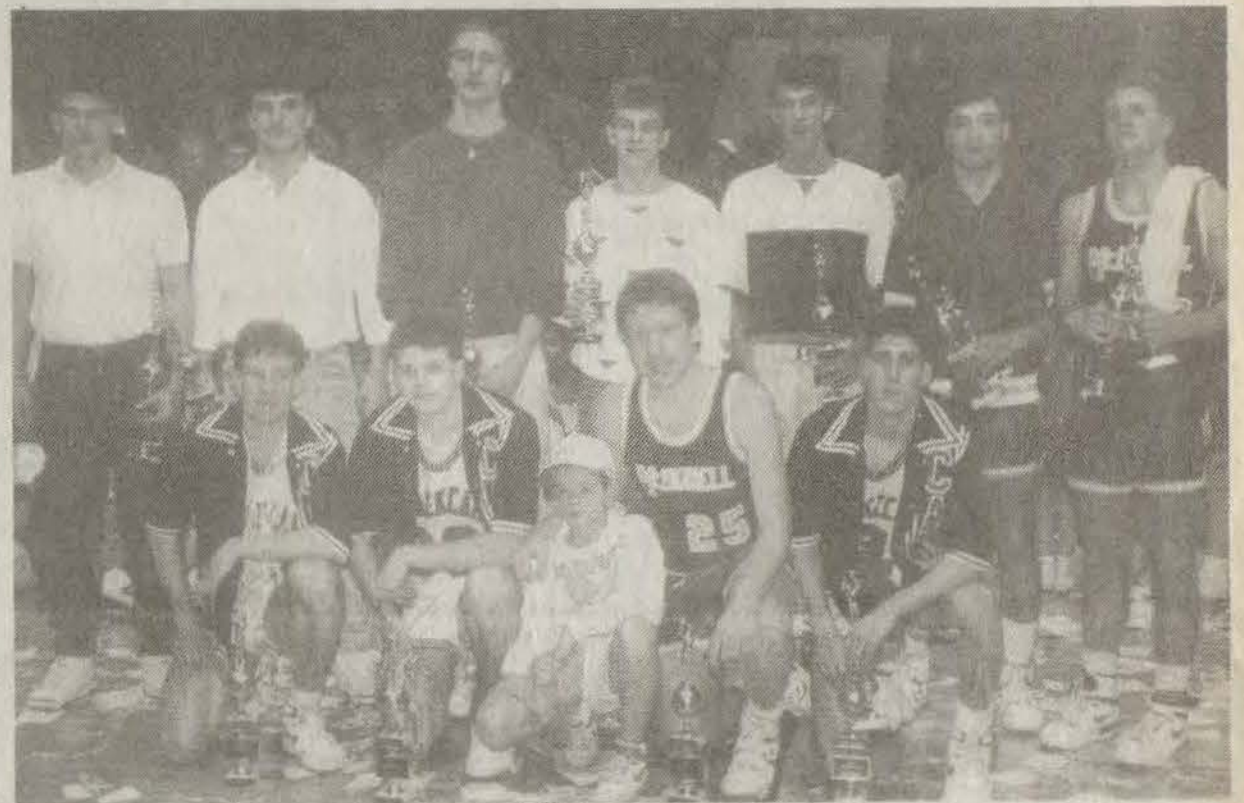

Fuller's basket at the start of the fourth stanza tied the game at 56-56, but two baskets by Hall and two free throws by Slone made it 62-56. At the 1:19 mark Prestonsburg went out in front by nine, 70-61, and went on to win by eight, 74-66.

Hall scored 22 points to lead Prestonsburg in scoring. Justice added 18 points, Nairn and Slone each scored 10 points.

Jody Thompson led Feds Creek with 22 points. Rodney Fuller added 21 points and Shannon Keene tossed in 17.

FEDS CREEK 16 23 15 12 (66): Jody Thompson, 8-20 22; Matt Good, 0-11 4; Rodney Fuller, 8-3 22; Shannon Keene, 4-2 5 17; Heath Phillips, 0-0 2 2.

Vs. PRESTONSBURG 20 18 18 18 (74): Scott Hall, 11-0 0 22; Thomas Nairn, 2-0 6 10; Todd Justice, 8-0 2 18; Danny Hamilton, 4-0 0 8; Chris Slone, 3-0 4 10; David Layne, 2-0 0 4; John Wright, 1-0 0 2.

All Tournament

Parade time

Osborne Comes Off Bench To Lift McDowell Past Virgie

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Lisa Collins' rendition of the National Anthem brought thunderous applause from basketball fans, and even inspired the "bleacher creatures" to join in singing the "Star Spangled Banner".

The crowd was huge and the atmosphere electrifying as two of the 15th Regional best hooked up to do battle on the basketball court: the Virgie Eagles and McDowell Daredevils in second round action Thursday night at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse.

Jesse Osborne came off the bench to score 11 points, pull down some key rebounds and help draw early fouls on Virgie's 6'5" center, Ray Hall, who was held to just two free throws in the game, as the McDowell Daredevils turned back the Eagles, 61-58, to advance to semi-final action.

Two extremes were evident in the first quarter as Virgie opened extremely hot and the Daredevils were extremely cold. The Eagles scored the first seven points as Freddie Bowling hit a three-pointer, sandwiched between two Mike Rowe baskets to lead 7-0, while the Daredevils were having trouble hitting lay ups.

"Credit Virgie's defense as the reason we missed some early shots," Coach Johnny Ray Turner said. "They played us tough and took us out of our game." Keith Shelton's turn around and a three-point play by Rady Martin, coupled with another Martin free throw, brought McDowell back to one, 7-6.

With Virgie leading 13-8, Marc Hall scored four on a basket and two free throws, but Virgie held a 13-12 first quarter lead.

McDowell tied the game on another free throw by Hall in the opening seconds of the second quarter, 13-13, and the Daredevils took their first lead at 15-13 on a baseline jumper by Martin. Bryan Johnson sank a 12-footer, Bowling hit another three-pointer and it was 18-15 Virgie.

PHS Overcomes Pikeville In Double Overtime, 85-81

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

They say it was the largest crowd for the first round of the 15th regional tournament, as basketball fans from Feds Creek, Magoffin County, Pikeville, Prestonsburg, and just basketball fanatics packed the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse for first round action.

No one left disappointed, as the Prestonsburg Blackcats and the Pikeville Panthers met in the second game last Wednesday night.

The Blackcats placed four players in double figures, led by senior Scott Hall's 20 points, as Prestonsburg overcame a four-point deficit late in the fourth quarter and went on to defeat the Panthers, 86-81, in double overtime.

The Blackcats drew first blood in the first stanza on a basket by Todd Justice. Chris Slater tied the game with a 12-footer, two free throws by Slater and one by Brian Wilson, to put the Panthers up by three, 5-2.

Hall, working underneath, maneuvered for two buckets, as Prestonsburg grabbed the lead at 6-5. Slater and Chris Slone traded baskets to keep the Blackcats up by one 8-7. Wilson and Jon Blackburn put the Panthers out by three, 11-8, on a basket and two free throws at the 3:52 mark.

Slone's 10-footer and a Danny Hamilton turn around plus four free throws—two each by Hamilton and Thomas Nairn—gave Prestonsburg an 8-0 run and a 16-11 lead, with 2:12 to go.

Two more charity tosses by Hamilton, and John Wright's basket, followed a Slater basket and gave the Blackcats a seven point advantage, 20-13. Wilson's three-point play made it 20-16, and Slone hit a bucket just before the horn to give the Blackcats a first quarter lead of 22-16. In the first quarter the Panther's leading scorer, Slater, picked up three crucial fouls.

In the second stanza Prestonsburg had to go to its bench as the Blackcat starters picked up two early fouls each. Keith Adams came in off the bench and responded with 11 points, playing a strong game underneath. "Keith played a super game for us," coach Gordon Parido said. "He played a super game because Keith did what he was supposed to do. We were a little stronger inside than Pikeville, and that allowed us to score inside."

Lee Jones hit an uncontested lay up and Blackburn tossed in two free throws to bring the Panthers back to within two, 22-20. Adams went into action, scoring Prestonsburg next nine points to help Prestonsburg lead by seven, 30-23, with 2:50 remaining.

The Blackcats could only manage three other second quarter points on

Tournament Tidbits

The 15th Regional tournament is over, the winner has been declared and the memories will remain, as the Prestonsburg Blackcats captured their first regional crown this past weekend.

Once again the host school, Prestonsburg, did an outstanding job of hosting the 15th Regional tournament. The crowds were huge every night as basketball fans jammed the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse to support their favorite team. We are proud of the 58th District representatives in the regional tournament, McDowell and Prestonsburg. Both teams met in the finals of the district tournament, and as many predicted the two meet again in the finals of the 15th regional, this time with a different result. Both represented us well; while both cannot win, both are winners in the hearts of all their fans. Both teams can hold their heads up high, because they did their best. All Floyd County fans wish the Blackcats the best in the "Sweet 16".

The All-Regional Tournament team was announced last Saturday night. It includes Jody Thompson of Feds Creek; Jerry Pelphey, of Paintsville; Chris Slater of Pikeville; Mike Rowe, Virgie; Chris Ratliff and Mike Scott, Belfry; Rady Martin, Henry Webb, and Dickie Joe Shannon, McDowell; Scott Hall, Todd Justice, and Chris Slone, Prestonsburg.

The first place cheerleading trophy went to the Pikeville cheerleaders; the second place trophy went to Belfry. Team free throw trophy was won by Prestonsburg, and four players tied for the individual free throw trophy — Jerry Pelphey, Jody Thompson, Thomas Nairn and Danny Hamilton.

The coach's plaque went to Gordon Parido of Prestonsburg.

Danny Hamilton's statement "overtime is our time" in their recent game with Pikeville has really caught on, as fans are wearing the saying on t-shirts.

Reports are that Donald "Duck" Shannon consumed 20 pounds of shelled peanuts during the tournament. Shannon blames Jackie Osborne for the disappearance of four pounds of them.

Pepsi-Cola sponsored the "Pepsi-Cola Shoot-out" during the regional tournament. Buddy Slone of Blue River was the winner of a year's supply of Pepsi.

The Prestonsburg cheerleaders filled 350 balloons with air to hang streamers from the ceiling of the fieldhouse Friday night.

Darren Conn, former basketball player at Allen Central, was at the tournament. Conn is a freshman at Morehead.

Congratulations to Keith Corele, for a job well done in keeping the floor swept at the tournament. I asked Keith how many times he swept the floor, and he said, "I don't know — many, many times". He did a super job.

Tournament oddity: Jerry Pelphey's shot from the center line in the closing minute of the game between Paintsville and Belfry hit one of the lights and the bulb fell out.

Philip Haywood, former football coach at Prestonsburg was present for the tournament finals.

We asked the McDowell major-ettes who, because of the large crowd McDowell had at the tournament, was left to watch the town. They said they thought that Foster Stumbo was watching it.

Johnny Adkins was in from Reynoldsburg, Ohio for the tournament, and was telling of the "Floyd County Reunion" they have each year in Reynoldsburg. Everyone from Floyd County gets together for a cook out.

The Prestonsburg Blackcat mascot was 0 for 50 from the three-point line during half time of the tournament games.

Danny Johnson, former basketball coach at Wheelwright, was present. Danny is now teaching at Paintsville, and has built a new home and is enjoying his 5-year-old son. Will he be getting back into coaching? "I may after my son is grown, but only as a assistant."

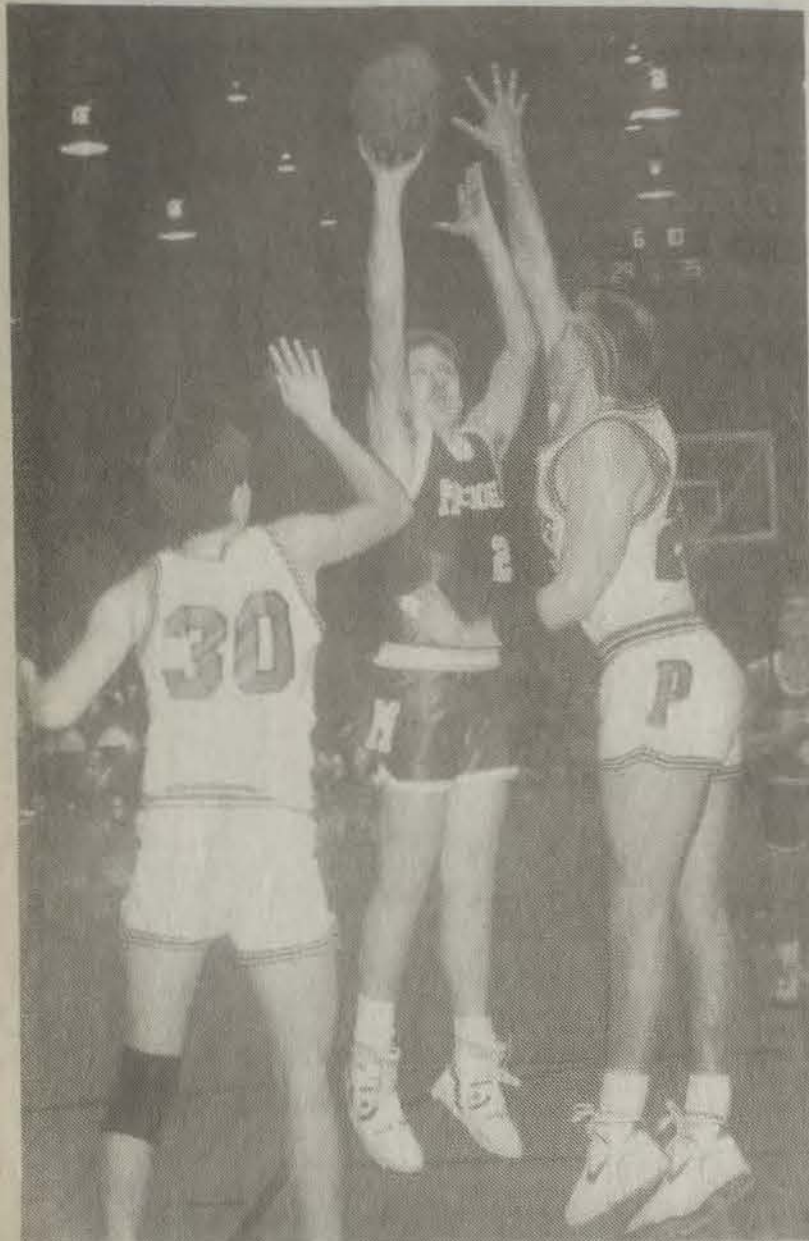

Former Blackcat basketball coach Jeff Riley was present at the 15th regional. Jeff is now coaching at Elliott County. He has been there now for two years.

Saturday was McDowell guard Dickie Joe Shannon's birthday. It was a tough way to celebrate a birthday, in losing to the Blackcats, but happy birthday anyway, Dickie Joe.

Thanks to all the Prestonsburg police officers and firefighters, the sheriff's office and the state police for all their help during the tournament. You did a super job.

A sign was hung at the mouth of Buck's Branch proclaiming John Wright, member of the champion Blackcats basketball team, as Mayor of Bucks Branch for a week.

Blackcat Defense

Rady Martin of McDowell, shoots over the defense of Danny Hamilton, and Scott Hall (30) in the 15th region boys' basketball tournament. Prestonsburg came from behind in the third quarter with a 23-2 run, and went on to defeat the Daredevils, 81-70

Baseball Clinic Slated April 1-2 In Pikeville

A baseball clinic for players ages of 6 to 21 will be held April 1-2 at the Hambley Athletic Complex from 9 a.m. till 3 p.m. in Pikeville.

According to Jim Zerilla, scouting director for Doyle's Baseball School in Winter Haven, Fla., who will be conducting the school, the clinic is open to all players.

"It's mostly for youth players, those who are about to get ready for the upcoming season. We don't know yet who will be handling the clinic, weather it will be Denny, Brian, or Blake Doyle," Zerilla says.

The fee is $60 per player for the two days of instruction. Each registered player will also receive a year's subscription to the "Doyle Baseball Review."

Last year's clinic attracted 120 players and there is no limit on the number of participants. This will be the second year for the clinic at Pikeville.

"It's a two-day program, and we can't do all we do here in Florida at our school, but we will cover the key things of baseball, such as hitting, fielding, throwing, and pitching," Zerilla explained.

All players desiring information or an application for the clinic may contact Fred Lawson at Box 2292, Pikeville, KY 41501 or may call 432-0177 or 432-3856. Local players may contact Albert Lawson at 377-2454 for more information.

A coach's clinic will also be held March 31 at the complex from the 7 to 10 p.m. The fee is $30 per coach or any interested parent.

Area Baseball Schedules Needed

The Floyd County Times needs the baseball schedules of all high schools for the coming season.

We also need information on all Little League teams, Babe Ruth teams, softball leagues schedules, men's and women's play.

ATTENTION UMWA FUND BENEFICIARIES

We want to inform you about the new UMWA Cooperating Pharmacy Program.

This new program has been described to you as a pioneering effort aimed at curbing prescription costs, improving your prescription coverage, and providing you with a broad choice of participating pharmacies.

THIS CAN'T BE FURTHER FROM THE TRUTH.

In fact it is possible that you will lose the convenience of filling prescriptions at your local pharmacy under the new UMWA Plan, as it may sever your relationship with the Pharmacist in your community that you have gotten to know and trust. This action by the UMWA Funds clearly jeopardizes quality pharmacy service, whether you live in a large city or small town.

There is an even greater threat to you and your family than the almost certain disruption of your prescription plan services. In addition to reducing the rates pharmacies will be reimbursed the UMWA Program would force pharmacy providers to purchase medicine from an out-of-state wholesaler therefore jeopardizing the quality of the drugs we have come to expect from our current reliable suppliers.

In addition it would eliminate UNION JOBS AT MCDOWELL ARH, further depressing the area's local economy.

It is for these compelling reasons that the proposed changes in the UMWA Pharmacy Program should be of concern to miners throughout the state, and THE REASON WE HAVE STAYED WITH THE CURRENT UMWA COOPERATING PHARMACY PROGRAM instead of going to the new.

Under the current UMWA Cooperating agreement (WHICH STILL GIVES UMWA A SUBSTANTIAL DISCOUNT OFF RETAIL PRICE) A.R. H. pharmacies will continue to fill your prescriptions with QUALITY GENERIC MEDICATION WHEN WE AND YOUR PHYSICIAN FIND IT IN YOUR BEST INTEREST TO DO SO.

I know that we have got a lot of bad road problems. A lot of culverts have been washed out or stopped up. We have approaches to bridges that have been washed out. A lot of damage has been done to some bridges and roads. I know that there have been a lot of people stranded—either blocked in or blocked out—from their homes due to the recent flooding. I believe that Right Beaver got the worst part of the flooding since our main stream starts out at Deane Mountain in Letcher County, picking up all kinds of water through Knott County, and then entering Floyd County. WE ARE LUCKY to get by as light as we did. We have had around 18 mud and rock slides in Dist. 2—either blocking people in or out. We have got most of these places cleared. We're doing all we can with what we've got to do with. The weather is not helping us none—it's staying too wet. You can't hardly do anything with MUD. As soon as the weather breaks and it gets a little drier, WE WILL BE ABLE TO DO MUCH MORE.

Maytown Junior Pro Highlighted

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

In 1984, Billy Joe Caudill and Jimbo Bailey decided it was time that Maytown had its own Junior Pro program. Both had been watching the Martin program and its success.

"We had been looking at Martin, and noticed the difference in their grade school program and other schools, and saw that it was a Junior Pro program that was the difference," Caudill explained.

Maytown's program consists of six training league teams and four junior varsity teams. The girls and boys play on the same teams. The Maytown Junior Pro plays its games on Friday evenings and will run around five games a night.

"We have about 80 kids involved in our program," Caudill said. "We have kids from Garrett and Wayland that take part."

Caudill is quick to praise the grade school and its principal for all the support they give.

"It's just super what Mrs. Hall does for us," he says. "She will do anything she can to help out. She's terrific."

Fan support has been no problem for the Maytown program.

"We'll have about 200 people come out and watch these kids play basketball. The parents will bring their kids and bring something to sell at the concession stand," Caudill went on to explain.

The program is supported financially by donations at the door, and the concession stand. The money is used to purchase uniforms, trophies and basketballs. The league has regular officials to referee their games.

"We pay our officials, even though they don't ask for it, but it's only fair that they give their time up to help us, that we pay them," Caudill stated.

Maytown's Junior Pro has people involved in its program and people interested in the school's programs, according to Caudill.

"We stress the fundamentals of basketball. We also put a tremendous amount of emphasis on sportsmanship," Caudill said.

The Maytown league holds its own inter-league tournament each year. They also play in the state tournament each year. They will have an invitational tournament with other teams taking part, such as Martin, Prestonsburg and McDowell, as well as out-of-county teams.

"We have people who don't have kids playing come to our games. I can't praise the people enough for how they have stood with us and supported our program here at Maytown," Caudill said. "This is a terrific program, there's nothing better."

Besides Caudill and Bailey, Jerry and Julie Howard along with Jim Moore help in the running of the program.

Cougar Basket

Samantha Cook (3) goes up for a basket over McDowell's Jenny Slone (33) in the women's 15th region basketball tournament last week. McDowell lost to the Lady Cougars, 81-48.

Betsy Layne Training League Helps Kids Learn Basketball Fundamentals

The Betsy Layne training league got its start in 1984 by Maggie and Allen Hill. The program originally began with 60 kids who the league's six teams.

The Betsy Layne program is not sanctioned with the National Junior Program, and is independent of the school system.

"Maggie and I moved here four years ago, and we didn't have a place for our kids to play basketball at an early age. So, with the help of some of our good friends, we started a training program. Mike Potter and Johnny Osborne have helped since we started four years ago," Hill says.

The Betsy Layne program has grown from 60 kids to over 100, including cheerleaders. The players come from nine schools and two counties.

"We will take several all stars and travel throughout Pike and Floyd counties. Our teams have won several tournaments since the league began," Hill said.

The Betsy Layne league is self-supporting due to the parents of the kids that play in the program. The program has been invited to play at half-time of the high school games.

The Betsy Layne league stresses sportsmanship, and fundamentals of the game.

"Our main goal is to let every child that cares to register play basketball," Hill says. "There is no way we could have this program if it was not for the support of the parents."

The league includes grades kindergarten through five. There are currently 10 teams in the Betsy Layne program.

Bump

Rady Martin, of McDowell bumps into John Wright of Prestonsburg as he goes to score a basket in the regional tournament at Prestonsburg last week. It was Prestonsburg 81 and McDowell 70 in the finals of the tournament.

a basket by Adams and a charity toss by Slone, as Pikeville outscored the Blackcats, 10-3, to tie the score at 33-33 at the half.

Slater got his fourth foul at the 5:49 mark of the third period and Prestonsburg leading by five, 42-37. Lee Jones, replacing Slater, scored six quick points, and a Johnny Hale basket tied the game at 45-45. Slone hit a bucket and a free throw to put the Blackcats up by three, 48-45. Pikeville scored the last eight points to lead 53-48 at the end of the third period.

With 6:09 left in the fourth quarter, two baskets by Hall and one by Hamilton, helped Prestonsburg reclaim the lead by one, 54-53. At the 4:22 mark of the final period, three buckets by Slater, who returned to the line up, and a Hale three-pointer, put the Panthers up, 62-58. Prestonsburg took the lead, 63-62, on a three point play by Justice and two Hamilton charity tosses.

Pikeville, determined to get the ball into the hands of Slater, went to its all-state candidate and Slater responded, scoring five points to give the Panthers an advantage, 69-67, with two minutes to go. Justice scored at the :58 mark, and after Slater missed a shot, Prestonsburg had the ball and called time out with :35 showing on the clock. Another time out was called at :15 mark by Prestonsburg. Slone took a 10-footer, but the shot missed the mark and the game went into the first overtime tied 69-69.

In the first three minute overtime, Tim McNamee scored off the center court toss to give the Panthers a 71-69 lead. With 2:41 remaining in overtime, Slater fouled out for Pikeville on a charging call against Nairn. Nairn sank the two charity tosses and tied the game at 71-71. Hale's jumper made it 73-71 Panthers, with 1:23 to go. Hamilton's basket on an offensive rebound tied the game again, 73-73. After a Pikeville turnover, Prestonsburg once again had a chance to win it with 40 seconds to go. Prestonsburg called time out with :15 showing on the clock. Justice tried a 12-footer that missed and the game went to the second three minutes with the score 73-73.

Hall's basket opened the second overtime to give the Blackcats the advantage, 75-73, and McNamee tied with a basket. Justice hit two free throws to lead 77-75, Prestonsburg, Hale's bucket tied it at 77-77. Justice put Prestonsburg out by two, 79-77, and Pikeville turned the ball over with 51 seconds to go. Slone was fouled and sank two free throws to put his team up by four, 81-77. Wilson went under for an uncontested lay up for Pikeville to make it 81-79 with :19 seconds to go. Slone again was fouled with :13 showing on the game clock, and sank both tosses for a 83-79 Prestonsburg lead. After a basket by Wilson, Pikeville called time out, which they did not have coming to them, and was whistled for a technical foul, giving the Blackcats two free throws, which Nairn made, and the ball with :03 showing on the clock and time ran out on the Panthers as Prestonsburg went on to win the contest, 85-81.

"Hamilton came into the huddle at the end of regulation play and said 'overtime is our time'. When a player has that much confidence it sure helps the coach to see it," Parido said.

The Blackcats hit 24 free throws out of 29 for the game, eight straight in the second overtime.

"I tell you free throws win big games," Parido said. In the fourth quarter Slater hit for 13 points. "Chris was on Slater the whole game and he was tired in the final quarter. Everybody got to rest but Slone," Parido explained. "When there is a big game, big players come to play, and Chris came to play."

Prestonsburg was lead in scoring by Hall with 20 points. Slone tossed in 19 points, and Justice and Hamilton added 16 and 12 respectively. Hamilton hit for 11 points Slater led the Panthers with 23. Wilson had 16 points and Lee Jones netted 10 for Pikeville.

Osborne Sparks MHS

Osborne pulled down an offensive rebound and went to the basket and was fouled by Hall, his third personal, and hit two from the charity line, and after a Virgie free throw miss, Osborne hit again underneath to put McDowell back on top, 19-18. Two buckets by Johnny Wright and a basket by Rowe gave Virgie a five point advantage. Webb hit a short jumper and a basket underneath by Martin close the gap to one, 24-23, and Osborne on an offensive rebound put the Daredevils ahead as he scored underneath, 25-24 at the half.

Osborne opened the scoring in the third period with a basket, and after two Virgie free throws, Osborne was fouled by Hall, his fourth, and he converted the free throw to give the lead back to McDowell 28-26. Virgie scored seven straight points to take a 33-28 lead. McDowell then went on a 8-1 run to lead by two, 36-34. Baskets by Greg Newsome and Bowling gave Virgie a 38-37 third period lead.

McDowell went back out in front 41-38 on a basket and two charity tosses by Martin. Bowling's two free throws made it 41-40. At the 5:45 mark of the final stanza, Osborne was at the charity stripe and missed. He rebounded his missed shot and went hard for the basket and was fouled by Hall, his fifth, and converted the free throws, to put McDowell ahead by three, 43-40.

A 6-2 spurt by the Eagles put Virgie up by one, 46-45, with 4:31 to go. At the 3:52 mark and Virgie ahead by one 48-47, McDowell scored six unanswered points to lead by five, 53-48. Johnson's basket closed it to three, 53-50. With 1:17 on the clock and McDowell up 55-52, the Daredevils ran off six straight points to take their biggest lead by nine points, 61-52, with 53 seconds remaining in the game. Two three-pointers by Bowling gave the final margin of 61-58.

Coach Turner credits his team's success to having played top-10 teams this season. "That's why we were struggling earlier in the year. We scheduled the top schools early in the season. We never lost a game to a bad team. We are now reaping from having played those teams earlier. It has help us as a team," he said.

Martin's 20 points led the Dare-devils. Webb netted 14 and Osborne scored 11 in a reserve role.

Bowling led the Virgie Eagles with 20 points and Rowe added 14.

WE ARE NOT FOOLS

Mr. Hammond, please don't treat us like fools. In your two full page ad last week, you promised to build an airport that already exists, build highways already funded by Congress, and legislate new laws. Greg Stumbo, Russell Bentley, Benny Ray Bailey, and David LeMaster represent us in the legislature. Chris Perkins represents us in Congress. It would take the budget for the whole state of Kentucky to do all the things you promised. Tell me how much everything you promised would cost? And tell everyone where the taxes would come from.

If you intended to do all this, why didn't you run for re-election as state senator in 1980? Where have you been for 9 years?

Come on Hammond, when you promise all these things and tell all those wild tales, you prove you are foolish, but don't think we are foolish enough to believe them.

HOROSCOPE

March 19 through March 25

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Use preventive health measures to avoid untimely illnesses. Your body needs a rest, so take care of it now or face the consequences later. Charity work is in the near future.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

You are on an intellectual high this week. Take advantage of this situation and get going at work. This is a good time to take up a new hobby or class.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Your hard work will be noticed and appreciated by a superior. Those closest to you at home will give you undying support in new ventures.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

You may move this month or simply decide to redecorate your home or office. A child or an elderly person needs your immediate attention this week.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

This is a week for making new friends at work and in your social life. Stay a step ahead of the crowd at work by anticipating your boss' reaction to a delicate situation.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

Don't be so critical of others. They need loving support, not lectures. Lending money to a person, though risky, could prove favorable in the end.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

Try to delegate responsibilities in a fair way. Co-workers may be jealous of your recent promotion or raise. Don't walk on egg shells, but do take things stride.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

Children or a mate need your immediate attention. Take some time out for fun with those you love. Work problems will soon ease.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

A creative surge could prove profitable for you this week. A short bout with illness will tire you, but it is important for you to keep going.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

Whether for health or weight reasons, stick to your diet. Making a commitment this week is not a good idea. Think before you speak.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

Work is a priority for you this week. Do whatever your boss tells you to without question. Follow other's lead and be careful of everything you say.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

Don't take others' comments too seriously. You need to be a bit selfish with love interests. You've given enough; now it's your turn.

TV Q&A

Morgan mix-up diffused for confused viewer

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I note in your column that you welcome corrections. I wonder if you could correct a mixup in TV Q&A that was made before you took the column over? Someone scrambled up Frank, Ralph, Harry and Henry Morgan. Could you give us a paragraph on each of them?
—Cecil Clayton, Slaughters, Ky.

A: Ralph Morgan was born Raphael Kuhner Wupperman, July 6, 1882, in New York City. He was a veteran character actor of the American stage and screen, brother of Frank Morgan and father of actress Claudia Morgan. He abandoned a law career for show business, appearing often as a villain. Brother Frank Morgan was born Francis Phillip Wupperman, June 1, 1890. He made his Broadway debut in 1914. In the early '30s he went to Hollywood where he became a fixture in MGM films, specializing in amiable, befuddled, roguish middle-aged types. He is best remembered for the title role in The Wizard of Oz. Harry Morgan was born Harry Bratsburg, on April 10, 1915, in Detroit. A character actor of stage, films and TV, he is best remembered for the TV series Dragnet and *M*A*S*H*. At one time he was also known as Henry Morgan, but not to be confused with the cynical TV and occasional film comedian by that name. Henry Morgan was born March 31, 1915, in New York City. Known as the "bad boy of radio," he earned his nickname in the '40s by hurling sarcastic barbs at practically every hallowed institution of broadcasting. He is best remembered as a panelist on I've Got a Secret.

Q: Please tell me if the

actress who played little Jane Banks on Mary Poppins is the same girl that plays Lily, the maid, on Upstairs, Downstairs. —S.L., Eagle River, Alaska.

A: How very observant you are. Both roles were played by Karen Dotrice.

Q: Could you please tell me if Kirk Cameron of Growing Pains is related to Candace Cameron of Full House?
—Doug Van Drese, Cornell, Mich.

A: Yes, they are related. She is his younger sister and will be celebrating her 13th birthday on April 6.

Q: Can you please tell me what ever happened to Ann B. Davis who played Alice on The Brady Bunch? I had heard she passed away.
—Eric Gibson, Hollywood, Ala.

A: Ann is very much alive. After the series ended she moved to Denver, Colorado where she devotes much of her time to gardening and religious endeavors, when not touring to dinner theatres. She recently appeared, as Alice, in the CBS-TV film, A Very Brady Christmas.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Q&A, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748.

Gregory Peck awarded Life Achievement Award

Tribute honors 50-year career

By Linda Sparkman

"I saw this as an award for older people," said Gregory Peck. Still handsome and active at 72 years of age, the actor seemed surprised that some people might classify him that way. Nevertheless, he was pleased to be named the 1989 recipient of The AFI Life Achievement Award, which will air Tuesday, March 21, on NBC.

"Of course I'm thrilled, especially to know that my name will be listed alongside the other recipients of the AFI Life Achievement Award... I suppose, with the gray hair and the decades, the honors begin to sort of float your way. And this, I think, is perhaps the most desirable one that one can possibly have. And I welcome it. But ... I don't see it as a period or finale to the whole show."

Far from it, Peck has a new film coming out later this year called Old Gringo, with Jane Fonda and Jimmy Smits. "I'm at that stage in life," he said, "where I'm enjoying my life and my family and my hobbies and travel. And if I do a picture, every now and then, that has a chance to be something of quality, then so much the better."

Many of Peck's films, such as Duel in the Sun, Roman Holiday, To Kill a Mockingbird and Moby Dick, exemplify that quality. Unlike many film stars, Peck doesn't mind viewing the films he made in his earlier days. "A strange thing happens," he said. "Stored somewhere in the brain cells are recollections that come out as you look at the film. You remember the circumstances. You remember the people."

"Sometimes the twists and turns of the plot come as a surprise... I don't know what's coming next. But then when it does come, I remember it. And I may remember something the director said to me, or remember something about a co-star, or something about a location, though I haven't thought of it for years."

One never-forgotten memory happened during the filming of Moby Dick. "(Director) John Huston was a rascal," he said. "He had me in the middle of the Irish Sea, lashed to a rubber whale, and being towed along behind a motor launch. And this rubber whale was fixed so it would rotate. When I felt the whale beginning to rotate, I'd take a gulp of air and hope for the best."

One time Peck was on the whale when a fog bank rolled in. "The tow-line broke," he said. "I found myself alone in rough water, in the fog, in the middle of the Irish Sea."

"I was slipping and sliding on this creature, and it did occur to me that I might die right then and there. I even imagined the BBC announcing, 'film actor lost on rubber whale in Irish Sea.'"

Fortunately, Peck was not lost, and the highlights of his 50-year career can be seen Tuesday, March 21, on NBC.

Local Special Olympics Seeks Volunteer Assistance

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

When you talk with Harmon Leedy, you can see him start to get excited about something he loves very much. It's not high school basketball, nor is it the Wildcats of Kentucky.

It's not pizza, or mom's apple pie. It's talking about the handicapped children in Floyd County. Leedy not only likes to talk about them, he has a genuine love for the those who are not as fortunate as others.

Three years ago, Leedy was declared legally blind. Ten years ago Leedy and his wife started searching for benefits and resources such as doctors when their daughter, Jackie Michelle, was born with cerebral palsy.

Leedy founded the Parents Resource Center in Prestonsburg. He counsels alcoholics, drug abusers, etc. He is currently trying to get parents interested in the Special Olympics to be held in Pikeville, April 22.

"If parents ever got involved and would see the faces of the children at the finish line and watch handicapped children as they win a race, throw a ball, scooter race, or body bowling, that would be an event they would never forget," Leedy says. "You look at them and say 'this is their day' and you just want to do all you can for them."

The Parents Resource Center is in need of coaches and huggers, or just some parents to become involved and excited about the Special Olympics.

"We need one person who is highly experienced in Special Olympics, someone who can really lead us," Leedy said. "We really need our parents behind us."

Leedy would like to encourage all parents to come out and take part and get involved, as well as all teachers, groups, churches or organizations.

"The handicapped kids seem to get more love from the younger people than adults," Leedy stated. "Adults seem to be afraid—scared."

Besides Leedy, Pam Pratt, Ossie Slone and Debbie Meeks have helped with the handicap children.

Expenses for the Special Olympics are funded from donations by individuals, corporations, and business places. Anyone wishing to make a donation to the Special Olympic fund may make it directly to an account set up at the First Commonwealth Bank in Prestonsburg. Donations may be mailed to the Parents Resource Center, MCC Building, 18 Front Street, Prestonsburg, Ky., marked "Special Olympics". The Special Olympics will be held one day, from 9 a.m. till 10 p.m.. Approximately six counties will be participating.

What advice would Leedy give people today?

"Accept the fact that handicap children are here. They need help, we need help in making things available for them here in Floyd County, not in Lexington or Louisville," he said.

Qualifications for the Special Olympics are the participants must be seven years old, and have some type of mental handicap or physical handicap - minor to major.

Meeks, who helps with the office work at the Center, has an 8-year-old boy, Brad, who was in last year's Olympics.

"It was a great help to my son. Last year was his first year and he loved it," Meeks stated.

Leedy's daughter, Jackie Michelle, won two gold medals at the state level in the scooter race, and body bowling.

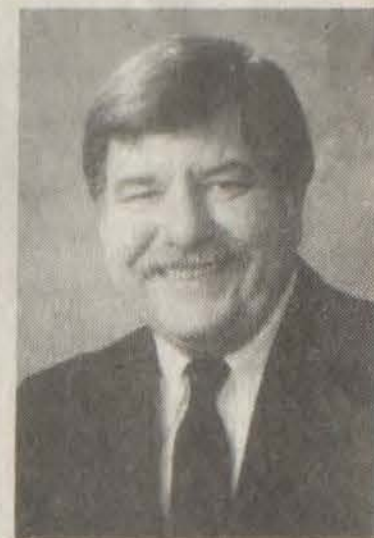

"If you want to do something spectacular, let your kid get in and take part in the Special Olympics," Leedy says.

I CARE ABOUT OUR FUTURE

I intend to raise and educate my children in Floyd County, and I hope my children and your children will choose to stay and live in Floyd County. To make this happen, I do know that we will have to do everything we can to make Floyd County a good place to live and raise our children. Some of the things that must be done will be part of my responsibility as your sheriff.

I intend to have our children educated to say no to drugs and alcohol.

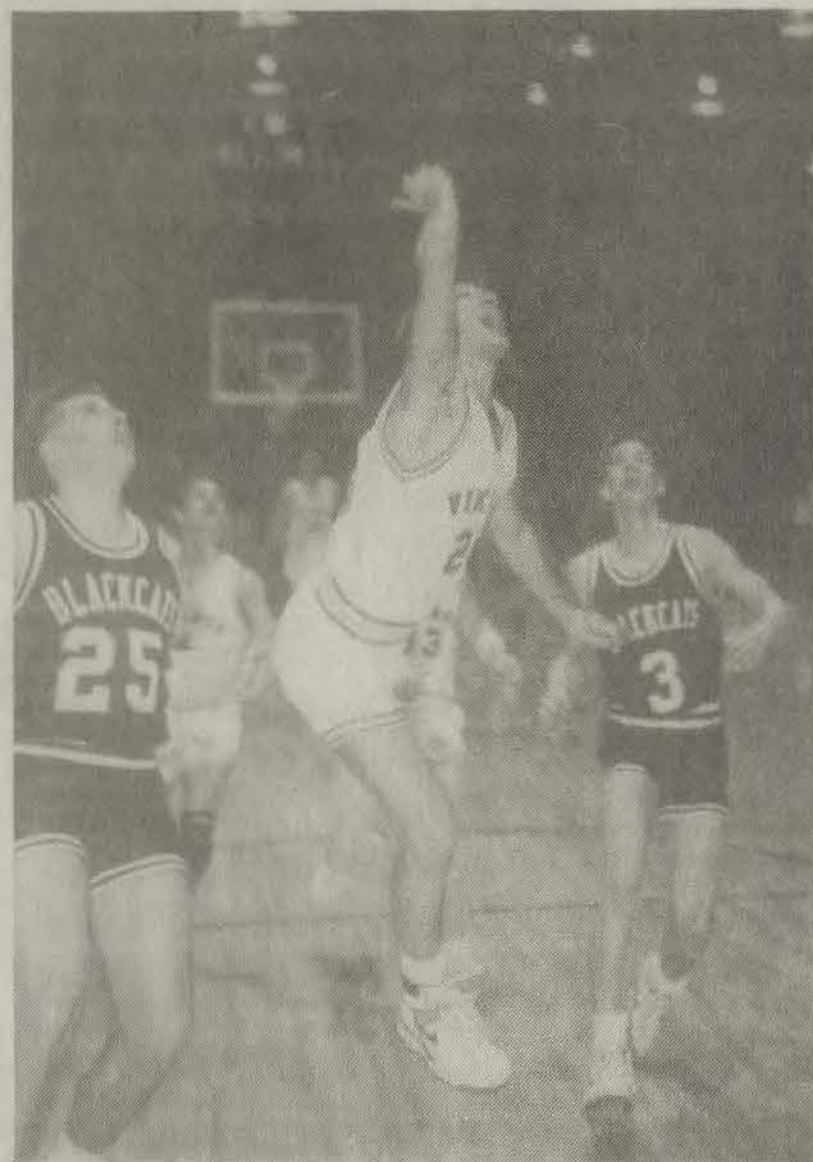

I intend for our children to live in a community where crime is low, and where crime is prevented through an earned respect for the law and law officers. Law enforcement that no one needs be afraid of except the criminals.

I CARE!

Denzil Halbert:

Coach, Family Man & 'Mr. Purple Flash'

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

(Second of a Two-Part Series)
Even though he had to spend a lot of time on the basketball court and baseball field, Denzil "Hoss" Halbert's family was very supportive of his profession.

Halbert, who spent his entire coaching career — spanning a quarter-century — at Martin, is known as "Mr. Purple Flash."

"Both of my boys, Stevie and Alan, played basketball for me. My two daughters, Susan and Jayne, were cheerleaders. My wife Sis was a cheerleader," he said.

On February 11, 1977, in showing their appreciation for a man who gave so much to the game of basketball, the new Martin gym was dedicated the "Hoss" Halbert Fieldhouse.

"That was a great day. They drew circles around the court, representing different years that I coached, and had anybody from those years to come and to stand in their appropriate circle. There was someone in every circle. That was a great evening," he recalls.

Every coach has his favorite gym on the road to play in. The old Prestonsburg gym was his least favorite, but he likes today's Prestonsburg gym.

"It's the best gym around here. There's not a bad seat in it. They should have the regional tournament there every year," he says.

Halbert sees a different trend in basketball today.

"The trend today is, if you don't run the patterns right it doesn't count. I always thought that getting the ball in the goal is what counted," he said. "I liked Rupp's way, run and shoot."

After the consolidation of the four high schools at Allen Central, Halbert feels that a big blow was struck against athletics in the county. "I was against consolidation, it hurt athletics here," he says.

After the Martin High School was closed in 1972, Halbert taught at Allen Central, and was also the school's athletic director. He later moved to the administrative building where he became the Floyd County athletic director for 10 years. While serving as AD of Floyd County, he was instrumental in setting up the sectional grade school basketball tournament.

"The grade school program was being run in a haphazard way. We divided the county into sections, and established some rules to run the program by," he said.

The four sectional tournaments and the county championship round are the highlights of the grade school basketball season. Attendance at these tournament games sometimes exceeds what a high school team would draw.

Halbert spoke easily about related subjects as well, including the Class A invitational tournament next year for smaller schools.

"I think it's great. It is the greatest thing for the smaller schools such as Wheelwright and McDowell. I wish they had it 25 years ago," he says.

Turning to illegal recruiting in high school basketball, such as the Belfry case, Halbert says "it's being going for years, the exchanging of players."

Jimmy Hopkins as a high school coach:

"Hopkins is a motivator. He is always having a successful year. He deserves a chance at a high school coaching position; so does Hayes Hamilton," he said.

Junior Pro Basketball:

"I love it, it's great. The results can be seen in the Martin Grade School program. Muggsy Griffith started it when he was the coach at Martin. Since then other schools have started it. One thing I don't like about it is too much emphasis is placed on winning and losing," he says.

What are some of his tournament titles?

"Martin holds the state record for winning the most tournaments in one year," Halbert said. "We won six tournaments in 1965. The annual tournament, the Jenny Wiley, Paintsville Invitational, Wheelwright Invitational, district tournament, and the regional tournament.

"The reason we had great players at Martin was that we would put up basketball goals in different parts of Martin, and give them basketballs so the kids could play during the summer," he said. "We were the first ones to start having summer practices."

Des a man who spent 38 years in education — 25 of them coaching basketball — miss it?

"Oh, yeah. I miss the kids, the games," he said. Practices? "I'd rather play than practice."

Susan Stewart, Halbert's daughter, remembers her father as a disciplinarian, even at home.

"He was a loving father, soft-hearted, and he liked to joke with us, but he was also strict with us," she relates. "One time he took us to Florida and drove the car on the beach and the water started to coming into the car."

Susan recalls that her father was not a carpenter. "He would cut a board, and never measure it or mark it. He would cut it to suit him. He drove his old truck and it looks like it's eaten up with cancer — he would get a can of Bondo and fill in the holes and never smooth it out or sand it."

"He always knew how to have fun. He would take us camping and fishing," she said.

Halbert's other daughter, Jayne Howard, tells of Halbert's strictness, but also his understanding.

"He would always say, when you made a 'B', 'If you can make an 'A', why don't you make an 'A'?" she says. "Dad was a fun person. He would take us to Louisville every year to the state tournament. He always got a cooler of Dean's milk and headed out to the tournament. He would get out and shoot firecrackers with the boys."

Steve Halbert remembers his father in a different way.

"He wasn't as strict with me. He was a friend. We enjoy sports together. When we go camping we would pass baseball together. He expected a lot out of people. I put a lot of pressure on myself because I didn't want to let him down," Halbert said.

Hoss Halbert has touched and encouraged many lives.

"If it hadn't been for Hoss, I would have never finished school," says Bide Click, a member of the Purple Flash basketball teams from 1956-59.

"If I had a kid coming up today to play basketball, Hoss is the one I would want to coach him," Charles Lafferty said. Lafferty was a member of the Purple Flash in 1948-49.

"Hoss was a great motivator. He had a desire to win, to accomplish his goals, and that was instilled into his players. In my coaching years at McDowell I carried quite a bit of his philosophy with me," Grigsby said.

"Mr. Halbert will always be 'Mr. Purple Flash' to all of us from Martin," says Delores Dingus, former Purple Flash cheerleader who, even today, always wears something purple each day.

"Mr. Purple Flash" still touching and encouraging lives today. Loved by thousands of students who passed through his doors by the way of education or basketball, Halbert will always have a warm spot in the hearts of loyal Purple Flash fans.

Move over

Danny Hamilton is trying to get Jody Thompson of Feds Creek to move over as he goes for the basket in tournament action last week at Prestonsburg. The Blackcats defeated the Vikings 74-66 in the semi-finals of the tournament.

Waiting

Henry Webb (12), Mike Hatfield, of Belfry and Keith Shelton (44) waits for the ball to come down in the semi-finals of the 15th region boys' basketball tournament at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse last week. McDowell won the contest 74-56.

Altogether

Rady Martin (25) and Henry Webb (12) seems to be getting together for this rebound as Virgie Eagle Freddie Bowling (22) looks on. McDowell defeated Virgie last week at Prestonsburg in the first round of the 15th Regional tournament.

How To Fish In A Crowd

If you're a bass fisherman, chances are you've traveled across the lake to your favorite fishing spot only to find it already being worked over by two or three other boats.

Do you fall in line and try to catch bass behind those anglers, or do you look for a new spot?

"Either way, you're probably in for some tough fishing," says Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member Charlie

Reed, "but if you're positive there are bass in your first spot, I would advise staying there, even though others have already been casting to it."

What will be required, explains Reed — who encounters this situation frequently in national tournament competition — is a slightly different approach, because the bass become more and more wary as each boat passes by them.

"The first option I consider," says Reed, "is trying to finesse the bass into hitting. I switch to a smaller lure and slow down my retrieve. In many instances, I will switch lures entirely, such as changing from a spinnerbait to a small plastic worm."

"Another key to remember about fishing in crowded water," emphasizes the Johnson pro, "is to fish closer to the available cover. As the bass become more wary, they move tighter and tighter into that cover. They don't chase lures as actively, so you have to put your lure right in front of them."

"Still another tactic I try is to change lures completely. If I know all the anglers ahead of me fished spinnerbaits, I may try a slow topwater lure, a worm or a jig. Conversely, if I know they used worms, I may try a fast-retrieve lure, just to show the bass something else. If I can't finesse the bass, I may try to excite them."

Moving to slightly deeper water is also worth considering, especially if cover is available.

"Simply turn your boat around and ease out a short distance until you find a drop into deeper water, or locate additional cover. Very often, bass will move away from the shallow water to the first available cover in deeper water if they're receiving hard fishing pressure."

Elkhorn City Rolls Past McDowell In Regionals

Coach Cassandra Keathley and the McDowell Lady Daredevils, runners-up in the 58th District tournament, did not get the luck of the draw in the 15th Regional tournament, as they were matched against regional power Elkhorn City.

The Lady Cougars sport the best win-loss record in the 15th Regional this year at 24-3.

The Lady Cougars held a lead of 13-9 as Keathley's squad played Elkhorn City close in the first period. The Lady Cougars scored eight quick points in the first stanza on three baskets by Julie Belcher, and a bucket by Stacy Spake. A free throw by Lori Bryant, and baskets by Gloria Mullins and Tish Slone cut it to three, 8-5.

Kari Butcher's three point play and a basket by Donna Deel put the Lady Cougars up by six, 11-5. Bryant and Priscilla Crawford hit baskets to make it 13-9 at the end of the first quarter.

Elkhorn City outscored McDowell 18-3 in the first five minutes of the second quarter to build a 19-point lead, 31-12. Elkhorn City led at the half by 15, 35-20.

McDowell could only manage six points in the third period, while the Lady Cougars hit the nets for 20 and went on top 55-26 at the end of the third quarter. Stacy Spake scored eight points in the third period to lead the Lady Cougars.

Elkhorn City's defense was too much for the Lady Daredevils as it caused McDowell to turn the ball over and take poor shot selection. The Lady Cougars went on to post a 71-38 victory in tournament action.

Belcher led Elkhorn City with 19 points. Spake netted 16 points while Barbara Mullins and Samantha Cook each scored 10 points.

Mullins tossed in 11 points to lead McDowell, and Tish Slone added 9 points. McDowell close their season with a 14-15 record.

McDOWELL 9 11 16 12 (38): Gloria Mullins, 4-10 11; Lori Bryant, 2-0 2 6; Priscilla Crawford, 1-0 0 2; Kristi Pack, 0-0 2 2; Tish Slone, 1-0 7 9; Kristina Bevins, 1-0 2 4; Debbie Fannin, 0-0 2 2.

Burchett Helps MSU Squad To 'Shick Super Hoop' Victory

A Morehead State University women's intramural basketball team won the Schick Super Hoop competition regional championship recently, defeating Eastern Kentucky University's team.

The win qualifies the team for national competition in Indianapolis, Ind., on March 22, at the halftime of the NBA game between the Washington Bullets and the Indiana Pacers.

Among the team members is Shon Burchett, a sophomore from Prestonsburg. Team members received sweat shirts, shorts, t-shirts, trophies and a plaque for the university to display for the regional champions.

Walleye, Sauger Runs Begin Soon; Crappie Daily Catch Limits Listed

The official first day of spring is just around the corner, and that means it's time to think about fishing. Walleye and sauger begin spawning runs in several of the state's waters this month. Watch for walleye at Cumberland and Nolin lakes and sauger in the tailwaters of the Ohio and Kentucky rivers.

move to riffles and shoals to feed, and when the water temperature reaches 46-55 degrees, eggs are dropped.

Later in the spring, walleye return to Cumberland and Nolin lakes. In these waters anglers should try live bait and spinner rigs around rocky points.

Early in the month walleye anglers should try the tailwaters of Cumberland, Laurel and Kentucky lakes, all good locations for toothy lunkers. And don't forget the spots where creeks empty into lakes, especially if they contain warm-water areas produced by discharge from power plants. Warmer waters attract shad, a dietary delicacy for predator fish species, which means you could find not only walleye, but white bass, black bass and striped bass as well.

Sauger begin moving upstream this month, but because man-made obstacles slow their progress, these fish tend to congregate near locks and dams. Anglers will find the best sauger fishing below locks and dams on the Ohio and Kentucky rivers and below the dam at Kentucky Lake.

Brightly colored jigs with twister tails, minnows and crankbaits are the most effective lures for this cousin of walleye.

Good number of walleye can also be found in the North, Middle and Big South forks of Cumberland river during March. Live minnows and minnow-imitating lures are effective for catching walleye in river pools and below riffles. At night walleye

Sometimes fishermen have trouble telling the difference between walleye and sauger. The glassy-eyed walleye has a long, slender body and a mouth filled with canine teeth. Coloring is light with indistinct markings except for a dark blotch near the bottom rear portion of the dorsal fin and a white tip on the lower tail fin.

Sauger has a long, slender body and canine teeth, but this silver and black fish is distinguished by a dark saddle of vertical blotches across the back and a series of dark spots arranged in irregular diagonal rows on the sides and dorsal fin.

Both species provide an excellent meal, but sauger will be even tastier if you remember to remove all red-colored flesh when filleting.

The limit on walleye or sauger is 10 fish per day; the possession limit is 20. The size limit on walleye is 15 inches. Sauger has no size limit.

Special Limits On Crappie

Special limits on crappie are in effect for Kentucky, Barkley and Barren River lakes. In these waters anglers may creel 30 crappie per day; the possession limit is 60. In addition, there is a 10 inch minimum size limit on crappie taken from Barren. (There is no size limit on crappie taken from other waters in Kentucky. Statewide regulations allow 60 crappie to be taken daily with 60 in possession.)

Moon Rocks

Joan Elliott, the Great Lakes Regional liaison for the Aerospace Education for Civil Air Patrol, gave a presentation on the space program to Glenda Blackburn's eighth grade class in Prestonsburg. Joining Elliott in the presentation was LTC Denzil Allen, vice-commander for Kentucky Wing. Above, Elliott and class members look at the rocks from the moon. The students also participated in a resource day. Ann DeRossett, a student from Prestonsburg Community College, attended to observe and work with the class. Dani Smith, STAY coordinator for the Floyd County Education Forum, spoke to the class about the importance of education, and also demonstrated how some photography equipment works.

Floyd Parent-Teacher Conferences March 20

Twice annually, Floyd County teachers and principals are in school from 5 to 8 p.m. — not to teach, but to talk with parents about students' needs, accomplishments, progress and, sometimes, failure. Parent-teacher conferences are used by school staff to meet with parents, get their help and request input. The conferences provide parents an opportunity to tell teachers how they feel about their children's education, as the teachers have an opportunity to likewise talk with parents. Floyd County has over 9,000 students. In October, when the last parent-teacher conference was held, just over 200 parents (county-wide) met with school staff. Local school officials say they hope that number increases at the next conference, which will be held county-wide on Monday, March 20. Schools will be open from 5 to 8 p.m., and parents are encouraged to attend.

Wallen Is Recipient Wal-Mart Scholarship

Stephanie Lynn Wallen, Floyd County senior, is the recipient of a $1,000 scholarship from the Prestonsburg Wal-Mart, according to Jim Thayer, store manager. The community scholarship is payable over a one-year period, and is awarded to a college or university-bound student. The award is based on students' scholastic and academic achievements, extracurricular and work activities, and financial need. "We are very pleased to offer this annual scholarship to a deserving area student on behalf of our store and the company," Thayer said. "Through Wal-Mart's Scholarship Program, we can contribute to the quality of life in the Prestonsburg community and to the opportunities of our area youth." Scott Sandlin, assistant store manager, explained that a team of judges, consisting of area business and community leaders, was formed to evaluate the applications, and made a final selection during student interviews. The $1,000 scholarship is one of over 1,200 scholarships totaling over $1.2 million being given by the Bentonville, Ark.-based retail chain throughout its 26-state, 1,237 store trade territory.

Students Receive Letter From President

During February, fourth grade students at McDowell Elementary School learned to write letters. Students in Kitty Frazier's wrote President George Bush, and within two weeks, received a letter and a picture of the White House. The fourth graders have also been studying various presidents during February.

Park Earns NATS Award

Johnson Central High School senior Melanie Park was among Kentucky students competing recently at the National Association of Teachers of Singers' competition held at Eastern Kentucky University.

NATS is a national association that brings together teachers of classically-trained singing. Each spring, states hold student auditions; students represent their teacher, who must be a NATS member. Professor of Music Joan Bowie of Eastern Kentucky University entered Park.

Park competed in three preliminary rounds, semi-finals and the finals, by performing three classical songs. She sang her way to victory by singing "Lungi dal Caro Bena," an Italian aria. Park will advance to national regional competition in April in Louisville.

She was also a "Sweet 16" third-time regional winner, and will advance to the state "Sweet 16" competition. She was also a third-time All-State Vocal winner recently at the Kentucky Center of the Arts in Louisville.

She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Don Park of Hager Hill.

Two Floyd County Students Named USAA Award Winners

Parthena R. Gayheart, a student at McDowell Elementary School, and Jason Todd Vanderpool, a student at Prestonsburg High School, were recently named United States Achievement Academy award winners.

Gayheart was honored in science; Vanderpool was honored in mathematics and history and government.

Gayheart was nominated for the award by Joan Caldwell, a biology teacher at McDowell High School. Vanderpool was nominated by Harold Burchell and Aileen Brown, math and history teachers, respectively.

Pictures and biographies of Gayheart and Vanderpool will appear in the USAA official yearbook, published nationally.

Gayheart is the daughter of Rex and Ada Gayheart. Her grandparents are Ed and Alice Wright of Drift and Lem and Parthena Gayheart of McDowell.

Vanderpool is the son of Abe and Brenda Vanderpool. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Hughes of Prestonsburg and the Rev. and Mrs. Abe Vanderpool Sr. of Emma.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly USAA award winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, USAA executive director.

The academy selects winners upon the recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors, and on standards of selection determined by the academy. The criteria for selection include a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and the recommendation from a teacher or director.

Howard Doing Student Teaching

Michelle Howard of Dwaile, a student at Eastern Kentucky University, is among more than 481 teacher education students gaining practical classroom experience during the 1989 spring semester.

Howard is student teaching at Kirksville Elementary in Madison County.

EKU's College of Education places its student teachers in classrooms from the last 12 to 13 weeks of the semester, according to Dr. David Rush, director of EKU's professional laboratory experiences offices.

Perfect Attendance

The Touchdown Club recently noted perfect attendance, with some students winning cash prizes on March 1. The $25 award went to Tressie Morrison. Robby Cordle, Christina Spears and Robert Sluss each won $5. Others eligible were John Stricklen, David Burchett, Teresa Music, Dreama Griffith, Christine Stacy, Connie Hurd, Shawn Cordle, Bryan Hall, Shawn Ellis, Stacey Goble, Debbie Garrett and Tara Berger.

Johnson To Represent WHS At Festival Planned This May

Gina Johnson, 17-year-old daughter of Jimmie Lou and Bill Johnson of Bevinsville, was elected the 1988-89 Music Festival representative for Wheelwright High School.

The Music Festival Pageant for the county will be held at Prestonsburg High School the week of May 8-14, in conjunction with the Floyd County Festival of FACES.

Johnson has participated in the All-County Band for seven years, and the All-District Band for one year. She also attended the Governor's Scholar Program this past summer.

Other honors include being a 4.0 student for four years, and winning the Governor's Youth Merit Award. She also has been a majorette and a varsity basketball player for the Lady Trojans for four years. Other activities include being elected to the 1987-88 basketball homecoming court, and being voted most popular of her senior class.

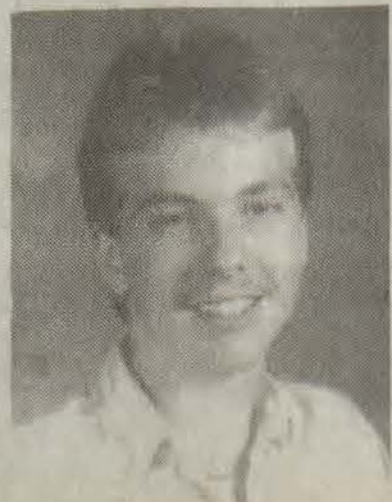

Her plans are to attend Morehead State University, majoring in biology.

McKinney: Helping WHS Students Choose Careers

by Tammy Hall and Pam Harris

"I took vocations classes because I thought I could learn how to do a job with a lot of people surrounding me. I learned that, and I also learned how to get along with people on the job and around the work area," said Tammy Hall, a senior at Wheelwright High School.

Hall, who has taken two classes in vocational education at WHS, plans to attend Cumberland College next year, majoring in computers.

Approximately 45 students are enrolled in vocational education classes at Wheelwright High School this semester.

Rodney McKinney has been teaching for 12 years — nine in vocational education. He also taught health for one year, and American history for two years. He has been teaching vocational education for the past nine years.

The Wheelwright High School

Developmental Occupational Program is set up for potential dropouts. Disadvantaged and handicapped students are given top priority. Although some college-bound students are enrolled, DOP is a federally-funded program that is primarily set up to help teach students who do not plan to attend college. The program tries to meet the needs of both, said McKinney.

"For the college prep students who are in the room, we teach proper college selection and enrollment procedures," he explains. "For all students, we teach basic survival needs. With more emphasis on job applications, resumes and letter writing, we further assist students in proper job selection."

Along with classroom instruction, vocational education teachers also assist students on a more personal level. McKinney makes home visitations and counsels students during the last hour of the school day.

"Home visitations are pre-scheduled, and all students' homes should be visited," said McKinney. He also takes an active roll in developing individual education plans (IEPs) for students.

To develop the plan, McKinney considers the student's academic scores, as well as his or her economic situation. He also evaluates students' strengths and weaknesses before he plans his teaching techniques. A four-year program is developed for students around the IEP. The program also purchases special equipment for students.

In addition to individualized attention, the student in vocational classes also benefits from other special services provided by the vocations program, adds McKinney.

"In teaching DOP, we do take field trips and we have guest speakers. Computers are made available to DOP students, and most of the field trips that are taken are to places we can walk to," McKinney explains.

WHS Vocational Ed Classes

'Band'-ing Together

Runner-Up

Derrick J. Newsome, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Newsome of Beaver, was runner-up in the Stumbo Elementary School spelling bee. He is a sixth grade student and was runner-up to Mark Parsons, the county winner. He is the grandson of Paul and Cathern Tackett of Beaver and Tivis and Martha Newsome of Teaberry.

Institutes of learning were first called "universities" in the twelfth century.

Citizens of Floyd County

As I've traveled throughout the county and talked with many of you, I've found that some of your concerns about the Clerk's Office are:

- #1. Having the office open on Saturday.
- #2. Having someone to assist you with your deeds.
- #3. Having a toll free number for the citizens of district 4.
- #4. And above all your major concern was to have an honest and courteous clerk.

As your next Floyd County Clerk I promise to do everything in my power to carry out your wishes, and to be available whenever needed.

ROGER WEBB
Your Floyd County Clerk

(Political adv. paid for by the candidate, 3-8-2pd.)

State Bound

After placing in regional Governor's Cup competition, Michael Maynard and Casey Michael Jones, above, will travel to Louisville to compete at the state level. BLHS Students Form First Student Council; Elect Officers Betsy Layne High School students recently elected 13 classmates to represent them as a Student Council, according to school officials.

To be considered for election, students were required to submit a two-page essay, have at least a 3.0 grade point average, and recommendations from three faculty members.

Following the preliminary selec-

Council members are seniors Brad Barker and Roy Kidd Jr.; juniors Larry Hall, Kim Hamilton, Candy Newsome and Teresa Spears; sophomores Nikki Webb, Iris Conn, Darren Gearheart and Dale Hamilton; and freshmen Kristi Goble, Monica Akers and Kenneth Boyd.

On March 9, the council members elected officers from the sophomore and junior representatives. Elected were Larry Hall, president; Kim Hamilton, vice president; and Teresa Spears, secretary/treasurer.

This is the first time BLHS has had a student council, said school officials.

Pat Newsome Earns Credential

Pat Newsome, teacher at the Prestonsburg Head Start Center, has been awarded a child development associate credential by the Council for Early Childhood Professional Recognition in Washington, D.C.

The organization represents the early childhood profession through its affiliation with the National Association for the Education of Young Children.

Newsome is the seventh Head Start teacher within the Floyd County Head Start program to acquire CDA certification, according to Janie Smith, Head Start director.

Each candidate who wishes to acquire a CDA must complete a portfolio defining 13 competency areas. The candidate is observed working with young children, and is evaluated by a team which includes early childhood experts and a parent, said Smith.

Newsome is married to John L. Newsome of Auxier; they have one child, Johnny Ray.

Surgery with the light touch.

There was a time when surgery was, to say the least, discomforting. To say the most, traumatic. Central Baptist Hospital just helped change that. Now, many gynecological, thoracic, vascular, urological, neurological, plastic and other surgical procedures can be performed with the use of a safe, precision surgical laser. Its use means less pain and blood loss. And, in many cases, outpatient surgery. In most, a quicker recovery and a more comfortable one. If you or a member of your family should need surgery, ask your doctor about laser surgery at Central Baptist Hospital. Once you see the light, you will never feel the same about surgery again. The Wash Machine Box

On a Saturday, everything came to life
 Papaw bought a new washer for his wife
 The ringer kind, if you'll remember, the dasher, the rings, to mash a careless finger.
 But the box is what we went after,
 Pulling it up the hill amidst the laughter,
 Tearing it open to make it bigger,
 the more on it the merrier is what we figured,
 Now down the green slope we'd slide,
 Some falling off, some scraping hide.
 Mamaw would holler "You'll make that hill bare!"
 Papaw would laugh and we'd go on without a care.
 All day we'd play on that wash machine box,
 Fast as a rabbit, quick as a fox.
 The box became smaller, pieces started to fall,
 the day became longer, our fun started to pall.
 And as evening fell and supertime neared,
 We'd pick up our pieces and the hillside we cleared.
 As we looked at the hillside, the slide we helped make,
 We wished that new washer would hurry and break.

The Walnut Tree

As I look out my bedroom window
 I see her standing high,
 Branches laden with snow
 A hawk glides easily,
 In a circle high in the sky.
 Looking for prey on the ground below.
 Many birds have stopped,
 For a short visit in her branches,
 She has stood many years in her solitary place,
 Bearing her fruit once a year.
 She is so lovely, branches covered with snow,
 Right down to those limbs,
 That look like little fingers,
 Extending out into the world
 In all directions.
 She is truly a sight to behold,
 A wonder to man.
 She is not lonely, for she knows
 Soon leaves will come alive,
 On her small limbs,
 Buds will spring up, making the seeds,
 That ripen in the warm summer sun.
 And that once again in the fall,
 she will cover the ground beneath
 With her precious fruit, the walnut.

Out There

Out there beyond the ebb of life.
 To the source from which I came.
 Out there where the oceans end,
 And the wind ceases to blow.
 Out there far, far beyond the dark,
 Is the brightest dawn.
 Out there in the sea of life,
 Drifting with the tide,
 When I look at the mountains
 And see the tallest tree
 I understand only God
 Could have made a creature like me,
 I must be ready for out there.

McDowell High Students Tour Highlands Regional

by Debbie Page

Recently, Janet Bowling and students in McDowell High School's Parenthood Education course went on a field trip to Highlands Regional Medical Center in Prestonsburg. Students learned more about the care of the mother and child during labor and delivery. The students were allowed to view equipment used during delivery, as well as the nursery, labor and delivery rooms. The tour also included a question-and-answer session between the obstetrical nurse and the students. Questions discussed included what could be done for a mother or child if complications occur, the cost of prenatal care, delivery and hospital stays, care of a child after birth, and the procedure upon admittance to the hospital.

Filing Federal Return Not Always Required For Elderly Taxpayers

Because of special tax laws, some elderly taxpayers may find that they are not required to file federal income tax returns this year, Internal Revenue Service noted recently.

For 1988, a single taxpayer who is 65 years of age or older generally must file a return only if his or her total gross income exceed $5,700. A taxpayer who is 65 years of age or older and files as head of household must file only if his or her gross income exceeds $7,100. For a qualifying widow(er) who is 65 years of age or older, the amount is $7,550.

For married couples filing jointly with one spouse 65 years of age or older, the filing requirement is $9,500. If both spouses are 65 or older, the amount is $10,100. For married individuals who file separately or did not share the same household with their spouse at the end of the tax year (or on the date the spouse died), a return generally must be filed if gross income exceeds $1,950. Elderly taxpayers who can be claimed as dependents, however, may have to file even if their incomes are below these levels.

A separate rule applies to taxpayers who have net income from self-employment. Those taxpayers must file returns if their self-employment income is $400 or more.

Elderly taxpayers should check the tax instructions carefully to determine if they must file a return this year, since not everyone who receives a federal income tax package in the mail is required to file.

Some elderly taxpayers may find that they should file returns even though their salaries should file a return to get a refund of those taxes. Also, taxpayers with earnings of less than $18,576, who had a dependent child living with during 1988, may qualify for the earned income credit. This credit can be claimed only by filing a federal tax return.

For more information, order the free IRS Publication 554, "Tax Information for Older Americans," by calling toll free 1-800-424-3676.

Census Bureau To Collect Data

The Census Bureau will collect data on employment, income and migration from Floyd County residents and others in surrounding counties the week of March 19-25, according to William F. Hill, director of the bureau's Charlotte, N.C., regional office.

The local labor force data will contribute to the national employment and unemployment picture to be released April 7 by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

In addition, said Hill, data on income, work experience and migration will be used to provide a comprehensive study of median family income, poverty and year-to-year mobility of the nation's population.

Information supplied by individuals to the Census Bureau is kept confidential by law. Only statistical totals are published.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Question: What is the penalty for failing to pay my federal taxes?

Answer: The failure-to-pay penalty is half of one percent of the amount of unpaid taxes for each month, or part of a month, after the due date that the tax is not paid. It is increased to 1 percent after the first month beginning after the 10-day period allowed from the issuance of "final notice and demand" or for the first month beginning immediately following the issuance of a jeopardy assessment. The penalty cannot be more than 25 percent of your unpaid tax.

Question: What about negligence penalties?

Answer: The negligence section of the law has been expanded to include all taxes imposed by the IRS Code instead of only income, windfall profits and gift taxes. A negligence penalty of 5 percent is imposed upon the entire amount of tax owed if any portion of an underpayment is deemed due to negligence.

Question: What is the penalty for fraud?

Answer: Any portion of an underpayment attributed to fraud will be subject to a 75 percent penalty, which is an increase of 25 percent over the old rate. The balance of any underpayment will be regarded as fraud and subject to the same penalty unless the taxpayer can prove otherwise.

Cancer Hopeline

Question: I am 37 years old. Three years ago, I was diagnosed with breast cancer, and was treated with a lumpectomy and radiation therapy. I just found out that I am pregnant, and I am wondering if I will be able to breast feed the baby on that breast.

Answer: Information on this subject is limited. We can provide you with the response from our consultants, but we suggest that you follow up with the doctor who treated you. He or she will be able to tell you the experience of their other patients who received the same treatment.

One factor to consider is where the breast cancer was located. If the tumor was in the middle of the breast, the milk duct there may have been damaged to such a degree that breast feeding is no longer possible. If the lump was removed elsewhere in the breast, milk may still be produced. Then, the concern is the effects of radiation therapy on the treated breast.

Some women treated with radiation for breast cancer produce breast milk, while others do not. A clear pattern of which patients do and which do not has not been established. There is no concern that the milk produced by that breast would be harmful to the baby. However, doctors remain concerned that breast feeding may cause trauma to the breast which may be difficult to treat. For example, an infection in the radiated breast may heal more slowly. For this reason, your doctor may recommend not using that breast for feeding, even if breast milk is produced.

Unfortunately, a more definitive answer to this question will not be known until more patients are followed. For now, this is a question that needs to be answered on a case-by-case basis by the patient and her doctor.

For more information on breast cancer, call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER.

MAGISTRATE DIST. #3

I'm asking for your help in giving us a change in Dist. 3. It seems we are so far behind and are always last in getting something done. Nothing has changed. It's a shame that the people only get things done for them the last 5 months of a 4 year term. We need a magistrate that will put in long hours to rebuild our roads and maintain them for 4 years, not only 5 months. We need someone that will get out and drive through Dist. 3 to talk to the people to see what needs to be done, and do it. Promises won't get the job done—backhoes, graders, drain pipes and gravel will. If elected, I'll have an office and telephone number to take any complaints or problems you may have. We need a magistrate that has experienced the life of living in a hollow on a rough road where you can't keep your car in good condition. I've been there. We need someone that will fight for the betterment of Dist. 3.

James (Bimbo) Akers and I worked for the garbage route before it was taken over by the county. It was not the best job, but I was glad to have one. I enjoyed working with Bimbo and talking with and meeting the people of Dist. 3.

I think it's time for a change.
 P.S. They say it's going to be a close race. If you have any cats or dogs, get them registered—I'll take their vote too!

(Pol. adv. paid for by the candidate, 1pp.)

Tennessee Burke Platkus writes to say thank you this week for the applesauce stack cake recipe, and adds, "I can't wait to get the paper each week just to see what good recipes are in it."

Platkus also sends a request: She would like a recipe for Old Kentucky Cream Candy.

"I bought some about 20 years ago at a store in Russell," she writes. "It was vanilla cream candy, and it was made by a senior citizen there. It was really delicious."

PUMPKIN BARS

1/2 cup melted butter
4 eggs
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup karo syrup
1 Can Eagle Brand sweetened condensed milk

1 can (16 oz.) plain pumpkin
1/2 tsp. maple flavoring
1 tsp. flour
1 cup pecans, chopped

To make the crust, take out 3/4 cup of the cake mix and set aside. Put the remaining box of cake mix in a large bowl. Mix in the melted butter and one egg. Mix well with a fork. Press by hand into a 13x9x2 pan and bake at 325 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes, or until lightly brown.

To make the filling, beat three eggs, brown sugar and syrup in a large bowl for two minutes. Add to this mix the condensed milk, pumpkin, and 3/4 cup cake mix, as well as the maple flavoring and flour.

Beat until well-mixed. Pour mixture over the crust and sprinkle with pecans. Bake 30 to 35 minutes longer, or until set. When cool, cut into bars.

The most recent issue concerns Easter breads.

As sure as turkey and dressing are present at any celebration of Thanksgiving in America, "Babka" will be present in Polish or Czechoslovakian homes during the Easter celebration.

Babka is a traditional Polish Easter bread which gets its name from the Polish word meaning "old woman." The bread is usually baked in a Turk's Head pan (or substitute a 2-quart tube pan). Let rise uncovered in a warm, draft-free place for 30 minutes.

Bake at 350 degrees for approximately 40 minutes. Before removing from pan, prick the bottom of the bread in several places with a fork and pour rum syrup (instructions below) over it. After the syrup is absorbed into the bread, remove from pan and cool on a wire rack. It may be frosted with confectioner's sugar or left as is.

To make the rum syrup, stir together 1/2 cup of sugar, 1/3 cup of water and 2 tps. rum extract (artificial rum extract is fine) in a saucepan. Boil, stirring constantly, until mixture just begins to thicken.

Total time to prepare: two hours.

1/4 cups sugar
1 pkg. active dry yeast
1/2 cup milk
1/4 cup butter or margarine
3 eggs (room temp.)
1/4 cup mixed candied fruits
1/4 cup seedless raisins

Mix 3/4 cup of the flour, sugar and the yeast in a large mixing bowl. Heat the milk and butter in a saucepan just until liquid is uncomfortable to touch—approximately 120 degrees. The butter does not need to melt. Slowly add liquid to dry mixture while beating with electric mixer at medium speed for two minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. With a wooden spoon, vigorously stir in eggs and enough of the flour (approximately one to 1 and 1/4 cup) to make a very thick batter. Beat with electric mixer at high speed for two minutes. Cover loosely with lid or plastic wrap and let rise until bubbly (about an hour).

Stir in candied fruits and raisins. Pour into greased and floured Turk's Head pan (or substitute a 2-quart tube pan). Let rise uncovered in a warm, draft-free place for 30 minutes.

Bake at 350 degrees for approximately 40 minutes. Before removing from pan, prick the bottom of the bread in several places with a fork and pour rum syrup (instructions below) over it. After the syrup is absorbed into the bread, remove from pan and cool on a wire rack. It may be frosted with confectioner's sugar or left as is.

The worldwide observance of the Easter holiday provides an opportunity to explore the customs of many countries — following is an Easter bread from Portugal. It offers a delicious bread and a picture of the Easter story in "dough art."

The Portuguese tradition that accompanies this bread compares the crossed dough on top of the loaves to the cross on which Jesus died. The egg in the center is symbolic of the new life that was offered man. The round loaves with no beginning and no end are an image of God's never-ending love.

This bread is slightly sweet and its symbolism makes for a very interesting conversation.

PORTUGUESE EASTER BREAD

6-8 cups bread flour
1 cup honey
1 tsp. salt
2 pkg. active dry yeast
1 cup milk
1/4 cup water
4 tbsp. butter or margarine
3 eggs
4-8 hard-boiled eggs.

Stir together two cups of the flour, salt and yeast in a large bowl. Heat the milk, water, butter and honey in a saucepan, stirring constantly, until very warm (approximately 120 to 130 degrees, or when uncomfortable to touch). Butter does not need to melt. Slowly stir liquids into flour mixture with a wooden spoon, and then beat with electric mixer at medium speed for two minutes. Add three eggs (room temperature) and 3/4 cup of flour. Beat at high speed two minutes.

Stir in enough of the remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn onto a lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and elastic (approximately 10 minutes). Place dough in a greased bowl, turning to grease all sides. Cover loosely with lid or plastic wrap and let rise in a warm place until doubled (approximately one hour).

Punch down dough and divide into four or eight pieces. Set aside 1/4 of each piece. Form each large piece into a round ball and flatten onto a greased baking sheet to form a circle approximately one inch thick. Press a hard-boiled egg into the center of each circle.

Roll each small piece of dough into two ropes six to eight inches long, depending on whether you are making loaves or buns, and place over the top of the eggs in an "X" shape, tucking any excess dough under the bun or loaf. Cover loosely with plastic wrap and let rise in a warm place until doubled (approximately one hour). Bake in preheated oven at 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes until done (25 to 35 minutes if making larger loaves). Cool on a wire rack.

The following recipe lets children and grandchildren create one of the first signs of Spring — different kinds of flowers.

FLOWER BISCUITS

2 cups flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
4 tsp. softened butter
3 oz. cream cheese
3/4 cup milk
Favorite jam or jelly
Mix 2 cups of flour, baking powder and salt in a large bowl. Mix the softened butter and cream cheese into the flour mixture with a fork until pieces of butter and cream cheese are the size of small peas. Add the milk to the flour mixture and stir until the dry ingredients are just wet. Over-stirring will make the cooked dough tough. Take the dough out of the mixing bowl and roll into a ball on a floured surface. Use a rolling pin to roll the ball into a half-inch thick sheet of dough.

Preheat the oven to 450 degrees. Cut round shapes from the dough sheet with a biscuit cutter. To make a daisy design, use a knife to make five small cuts around the edge of the biscuit. Do not cut all the way to the center of each biscuit. Let the children use their imagination to shape dough into their favorite flower shapes.

Place flower shapes on a cookie sheet. Press a dip into the center of each blossom and spoon 1/2 tsp. jam or jelly into each dip. Bake biscuits for 10 to 12 minutes, or until slightly brown.

Makes 12 to 14 biscuits; total time to prepare — 45 minutes.

UTENSIL TIPS

When mixing bread dough, never use metal utensils, including bowls and spoons. A cold bowl can shock the yeast. To maintain the right temperature for rising dough, use a thick plastic or wooden bowl.

— Becky Sowell, Paducah

When measuring honey for recipes, coat the measuring spoons or cups with oil, and the honey will slide right out.

CITIZENS:

It is critical that we have a new administration to care for our Floyd County Jail. My plans as jailer will be to revive our jail, so we may have a better Floyd County Jailing System.

- 1) BRUTALITY-The Floyd County Jail can do without this & will if I am elected.
- 2) MAKE JAIL HUMANE-By holding staff as well as residents legally responsible for their actions.
- 3) MAKE THE JAIL SAFE-By cracking down on interpersonal violence such as inmates hurting one another or themselves.
- 4) MAKE JAIL SENTENCE TOUGH YET FAIR-BY SEGREGATING ALL VIOLENT AND DANGEROUS inmates from non-violent inmates while providing all inmates the opportunity to earn "GOOD TIME" and work their way into less restrictive environments.
- 5) TREAT INMATES AS INDIVIDUALS WITH INDIVIDUAL PROBLEMS-By offering therapeutic programs & choice of religious confrontation.
- 6) PROVIDE ALL MEDICAL ATTENTION NEEDED-We must consider inmates as human individuals as we are by giving any & all medical attention that is needed among them.
- 7) PROVIDE TROUBLED INMATES WITH PROFESSIONAL & CONFIDENTIAL COUNSELING-By counselors employed by agencies outside the jailing administration.
- 8) ENCOURAGE FAMILIES TO STAY TOGETHER-By facilitating private inmates and personal contact visits.
- 9) STOP USING THE JAIL AS A DUMPING GROUNDS FOR VICTIMLESS CRIMES- Such as gambling or probable drug use by inmates that may be brought to them by relatives or neighboring friends.
- 10) PLACE A RENEWED EMPHASIS ON REFORMING THE FLOYD COUNTY JAIL- By providing the resources necessary to have a truly effective rehabilitative institution for inmates to pay their debts to society.

If elected by the citizens support, I will apply, through the state government as well as the Floyd County Fiscal Court, to establish a security camera system throughout the jail and jailhouse surroundings, to help prevent any further jail escapes and to monitor any & all crimes that may be committed.

One moment of clarity changed his life. Tom, 31, started in junior high, mixing vodka with his fruit punch. But as an adult, mainly drank beer. A case a day. Watched his dad die from cirrhosis. Frightened, switched to cocaine. After a $3,000 "White Christmas", returned to alcohol. Immediately went out of control. Soon needed a pint of bourbon to stop the morning shakes. Finally, on a binge, raised his fist to hit his wife. Suddenly flashed back to his childhood. Realized like father, like son. Broke down, asked for help.

"I went into the CareUnit dead inside, beaten. They gave me unconditional love. They gave me my life."

Tom's been sober 2 years, has kept his family together, and says his life has completely turned around.

Pharmacy Footnotes
By HAROLD COOLEY
LOUSY LUCK
In recent years, a tremendous increase has been reported in the number of school children afflicted with head lice. The lice themselves are rarely seen but diagnosis is confirmed by the presence of nits, the small whitish or silvery egg cases that are deposited on hair shafts. Lice are often transmitted by scarves, hats or other clothing hung together in school cloakrooms, or by sharing a comb, brush, or towel with someone afflicted. The Food and Drug Administration's advisory panel has approved a combination of two ingredients, pyrethrin and piperonyl butoxide, as the safest way to treat lice. Two applications are needed, a week apart, as the mixture does not affect the nits. Nits may also be removed with a fine-toothed metal comb.
COOLEY APOTHECARY carries what you would expect to find in a well inventoried drug store including a full line of prescription drugs as well as over the counter remedies. We are very proud to be able to provide families in this area with all their pharmaceutical needs. Our records are fully computerized so that they can be readily available to both you and your physician. You'll find us located at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments.
HINT: Lice are as common in short hair as in long, so giving children short haircuts will not prevent head lice infestation.

Century-Old Prestonsburg House Still Undergoing Slow Restoration

by Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

For eight years, the Holland family of the Little Paint area has been trying to restore one of Prestonsburg's oldest homes.

As frustrating as the process has been at times, Carol Holland does not despair. "I've had many offers on the house, but I just tell them they'll have to wait until I die," she said of the house on the corner of Front and Graham streets.

The two-story frame house, known to many as the Curtis May house, is more than 100 years old. It is believed to have been built in the mid-1880s and to be one of the oldest remaining structures on the city's riverfront.

Holland bought the house from Paul Neal Allen, who reportedly gave up on a restoration effort after he purchased it from the May family.

Resembling a Hollywood-image stagecoach stop, the house is full of interesting features, many of which have been added at various times in its history.

It has two full porches, with a stairway leading from the downstairs porch to the one on the second floor, both facing Graham Street.

Holland said one of the first renovations she and son Glen did was to tear down another porch on the Front Street side of the house. That particular porch, Holland said, was obviously an afterthought — or at least a poor addition — to the original structure. "You looked out the upstairs window onto the porch rafters," she said.

The house, Holland believes, was built in sections, perhaps as the early owners became more affluent. The original structure consisted of two rooms, one downstairs and one up, facing the river.

At some point, two more rooms were added. The addition also had one upstairs and one downstairs room, attached to the original in an L-shape with a foyer in between. Still later, two more rooms were built on the long side of the "L," with another large foyer.

To date, the Hollands have renovated three upstairs rooms. Two accommodate the offices of Holland Enterprises, the family contracting firm, and one is a bedroom, used by family members too tired for the drive home after business or renovation work.

A major change the Hollands have made is to move the bathroom inside. Not that it was an outdoor toilet — but the only entrance was from the upstairs porch.

Holland likes to speculate what it must have been like to get up in the middle of the night, go across the porch and into a fully equipped bathroom.

She and her son put a new bathroom in the expansive, upstairs foyer and made an inside entrance to the old bathroom, which they've turned into a large closet and storage room.

Among other changes they've made are redirecting the inside stairwell from the front of the house to the middle, replacing windows and putting an addition on the house for a future kitchen.

They also took the wainscoting off the room at the main entrance, removed layers of paint and put it in a Front Street room that will one day be the dining room.

Among their first restoration attempts was putting on a new roof, which they tried to make as close to the original as possible. That was their first indication that renovations are not simple.

"We found the built-in guttering doesn't work," said Holland. "Now we have to take the roof off and fix it differently."

The work to be done is mind-boggling. Four more rooms remain to be redone. Repairs must be made to the porches and roof structure. The lawn, graced by pecan trees, will also have to be landscaped. But Holland is undaunted.

"I would love to live here," she said. With surveyors for new US 23 surrounding the family's home on Little Paint, Holland hopes the day will come soon when the move to town will happen and a Prestonsburg showplace will be restored.

It Can Be Slow Going . . .

Carol Holland and her family have been working to restore one of Prestonsburg's oldest homes for eight years. The two-story frame house, known to many as the Curtis May house, is more than 100 years old. It is believed to have been built in the mid-1880s and to be one of the oldest remaining structures on the city's riverfront.

Try Various Painting Tricks To Create Unusual Wall Effects

To give a new look to a room, paint the walls — perhaps incorporating some of the following tips.

— For a coordinated look, try using different shades of the same color in different rooms, or have a color "theme" that is picked up somewhere in each room.

— For a fun, outdoorsy look, paint the ceiling blue and apply clouds with sponges dipped in white paint. Walls can be the same blue or any other color.

— Try spatter painting. Start with white or any other color as a background, then pick one or two contrasting colors to spatter. Dip your brush into the paint, then shake the paint at the walls.

Home Sweet Mobile Home:

Maintenance Just as Important As With Regular, Frame Home

Mobile homes — even though most are not actually mobile — are the housing of choice for an increasing number of Floyd Countians. Some estimates indicate that as much as 30 percent of Eastern Kentuckians live in some form of preconstructed home, either single or double-wide.

Undoubtedly, cost is the primary factor in choosing a mobile home as a residence. Prospective homeowners can buy a new mobile home for under $11,000 — less than the cost of an average automobile and a fraction of what it costs to build or buy a regular house.

In fact, the advent of the mobile home made it possible for many Eastern Kentuckians to own their own home for the first time in their lives. A mobile home is particularly attractive and practical for young married couples who are "just starting out," according to Ralph Taylor of Hylton Mobile Home Sales in Ivel.

"A mobile home is just like a regular house," said Taylor. "Basically you can do anything you'd do with a regular home."

Although Taylor contends there's "little room for improvement" in a mobile home, he acknowledges that there are ways to increase the attractiveness and livability of a mobile home.

Landscaping and the addition of porches, for instance, can add to the beauty of the home site.

Jim Burton of Rainbow Mobile Homes in Harold agrees, but he advises against attaching porches to the mobile home. "The worst thing you can do is drive nails into a mobile home," Burton said. "If you're adding a porch, it should be the free-standing kind."

Both mobile home salesmen advise putting "skirting" around the home. The vinyl finishing around the base of the mobile home can reduce the heating bill dramatically, Taylor said. Skirting, which can be done for as little as $400 in materials, keeps the wind from circulating under a home, he said.

Burton also advises mobile home owners to lay plastic on the ground underneath the home. "Just plain black plastic puts a barrier between the home and ground, especially if you have a wet spot under the home, and keeps the home from drawing moisture up through the floor," he said.

Keeping the home anchored and level is also important, especially in this area where runoff of mud and water from hillsides is common. Taylor recommends pouring concrete pads before positioning the home and then using "tie downs", aluminum straps that are driven three feet into the ground to anchor the structure.

Regular checks for levelness are high on Burton's list of recommendations for mobile home dwellers. "You need to check for evenness every six months," he said. "If the home is unlevel, over time it will warp."

Because modern mobile homes are built to be extremely air tight, Taylor also advises against using any kind of heater in the home other than the one that came with it. Other sources of heat, such as kerosene heaters, he said, will cause condensation, which makes the wood rot and eventually damages the home.

Using the exhaust fan in bathrooms and kitchens is also important, Burton said, to get moisture out of the home.

For mobile homes that were built before 1976 when federal regulations on the structures were tightened, Taylor recommends complete rewiring. "Most mobile homes before then had aluminum wiring. Now the Department of Housing and Urban Development requires copper wiring," he said.

Nor was the insulation as good in pre-1976 homes, Taylor said. To check on or install more insulation, he said owners can simply pull the paneling. It is easy, he said, to add 3-1/2 inch fiberglass insulation to the walls and blow rock wool insulation into the ceiling.

Insulation and wiring should not be of concern to owners of mobile homes manufactured after 1976.

To make the mobile home look better longer, Burton said owners should keep wax on the exterior, especially where water runs down and streaks the finish. A special wax, similar to the type used by commercial car washes, is available from mobile home dealers and many hardware stores.

If a homeowner gets a hankering to have a home of a different color, he can paint it with aluminum paint, also available at hardware and paint stores.

Occasionally, owners of mobile homes will want to add a room. Taylor said additions can be made in much the same way as with a frame home. Cost of the addition depends on how large the room is to be and how much the homeowner can do on his own.

Taylor said he recently added a large family room, bedroom and bath to his own mobile home for about $6,000 by doing most of the work himself.

He added that some mobile home owners have put fireplaces in their homes. Fireplaces can be ordered from Sears, he said, but he pointed out that only wood, and not coal, should be burned in them.

Persons who want to completely redo a kitchen or a bathroom in a mobile home can buy a regular outfit from a lumber or decorating company, Taylor said.

"However, if you're just replacing one thing, such as a bathtub, it's best to buy from a mobile home supplies dealer because dimensions vary," he explains.

Both men agree that, for the most part, mobile homeowners should treat their homes just as they would a regular house. Keeping the mobile home clean, attractive, landscaped and safe will help it retain its value and add to its livability.

Skirted and Decked

Mobile homes can be as permanent as regular frame houses with a little work. Closing in the bottom of the structure, known as skirting, can help cut heating bills, and the addition of a porch and a landscaped yard can improve the looks of the mobile home, as with this attractive dwelling in Allen.

Project Style With Tile

Why tile?

The growing desire for more lavish kitchens and bathrooms, coupled with Americans' explosive interest in home design, has spurred the popularity of ceramic tile and, as a result, a proliferation of new shapes, styles, colors and sizes from American manufacturers.

"Because of its design flexibility, ceramic tile has made a remarkable comeback in the last few years," said Libba Meyers, advertising and promotions coordinator at Mid-State Tile.

Reynolds:

Know What You Don't Know; Start Learning, Then Begin Work

by Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

When Debbie Reynolds decided to redo the bathroom in her grandfather's house in Garrett, she started with the realization that she knew practically nothing about decorating.

"I had never papered or patched a wall in my life," she said, "and I didn't have any real sense of interior decorating. I knew I'd be doing a lot of experimenting."

Since she works in the library at Prestonsburg Community College, the Garrett native took the advice she often gives to students: "Look it up." She armed herself with books on decorating and home improvement. "I wouldn't have started without some kind of knowledge about what I needed to do," she said.

Reynolds, however, admits that "nothing really prepares you" for launching a home fix-up project. Expecting that she would have the job wrapped up in a couple of days, she found it took nearly all of her week-long vacation last summer.

Water-resistant wallboard, which Reynolds refers to as "that slick stuff," went halfway up the wall in the bathroom of her grandfather's 40- or 50-year-old home. The upper half of the wall was covered with "cheap" paneling.

Using her "book learning,"

Reynolds caulked the seams of the paneling and covered it with wallpaper. She then painted the wallboard and the woodwork to match the wallpaper.

The old, footed bathtub definitely had to stay, Reynolds decided, but to give it a new look, she used enamel paint on the outside. She chose a light blue color, again to draw out a color in the wallpaper. "I wasn't sure about what kind of paint to use on the tub," she said, "but I must have done all right. After almost a year, it's holding up well — no cracks or bubbles."

She also replaced the cabinet around the lavatory, and for a finishing touch she hung some plants and pictures. "The look," she said, "is country, and that's what I like."

Wisely, Reynolds thinks, she hired someone to do some basic plumbing work and to put in a new light fixture before her part of the project began.

For other neophytes in the home improvement craze, Reynolds warns that the worse part is at the beginning. "You keep standing around and looking at it and the job gets bigger and bigger.

"Then, when you get into it, you get discouraged with each obstacle or mistake," she said. "You think 'I'll never get this right. I can't do anything.'"

When the task is over, the pride kicks in, Reynolds said. "It's a lot more pleasing to do it yourself than to hire it done. You can stand back and say to yourself 'I did that. I'm proud of that.'"

The small project gave Reynolds the redecorating bug. "It makes you want to do more," she said. "Especially with an old house, you want to bring it back to life."

She said she hasn't yet decided what she'll tackle this summer, but she is determined to continue. "I keep looking at every room and trying to decide. I want to do it all, but financially I know I can only do a piece at a time."

Charlie Goodman, Reynolds' grandfather, has lived in the house on Stone Coal Road for about 12 years, long enough to get used to things the way they are. One of the granddaughter's major tasks with the bathroom project, she said, was to convince him to let her do it. "He thought everything was just fine the way it was, but he liked the finished product real well."

Reynolds is looking forward to her next vacation to continue to develop her home improvement skills. She offers the following pieces of advice for the novice:

— "You don't have to go with the most expensive materials, but it's best to avoid the cheapest."

— "Plan ahead and have everything you need before you start, so you're not running out for something else every few minutes."

— "Don't get discouraged."

Just Do It!

It's that time of year. Time to think about home improvement projects. Merle Horn of Lloyd's Hardware is ready to tackle most any project head on. But he urges home improvers to organize their projects a little better before starting out.

Some Digging Mechanics For The Do-It-Yourselfers

A shovel's handle length and blade lift — the distance between the ground and the blade tip when the tool is lying flat — are important to balance and effort as the homeowners moves through shoveling motions.

A tool's neck and blade are designed to work in conjunction to create the lift. Shovels and scoops have higher lifts for greater ease of moving materials, whereas spades and irrigating shovels have lower lifts for easier digging.

Tips For Keeping Heat And Costs At A Minimum

With spring just around the corner, and summer officially beginning June 20, there are several things homeowners can do to keep the heat — and costs — down.

— Set the thermostat control at the highest comfortable level — each degree raised reduces energy consumption by 3 to 4 percent.

insulate to close air gaps.

— Plan hot work for cooler morning and evening hours.

Retailers Offer Practical Advice For the Do-It-Yourself Decorator

Painting and wallpapering are probably the quickest, most satisfying improvements homeowners can make to either the exterior or interior of their houses.

A coat of paint or a layer of wallpaper can add to the physical attractiveness of the house, cover some of its minor defects, and give the owner the impression of new surroundings.

But too many do-it-yourselfers, according to local retailers, create more work for themselves by looking for the easiest, quickest way to get the job done.

"So many people don't adequately prepare before actually painting, then they wonder what's wrong with the paint," said Judy Short of Sandy Valley Hardware in Allen. "That just causes them more work in the long run."

Preparation, said Short, includes making sure that the surface to be painted is clean, particularly in the kitchen where grease builds up, and in the bathroom, where soap scum adheres to walls.

Homeowners, unless they're cleaning fanatics, can do little to stop the build up of grease and other grime on walls, but many products are available, Short said, to clean problem areas before painting.

Short suggests the "white rag test" before painting. "Simply take a white rag and wipe it across the wall surface, and if you get a greasy residue, you'd better clean the wall."

The same is true for wallpapering, said Richard Hamilton of Meade Custom Paint and Decorating Center at Stanville. "Preparation is the biggest thing. People get in a hurry and want to slap it up right then," he said. "Then they get into trouble."

On new walls, Hamilton recommends applying a primer before putting up the wallpaper. Otherwise, the sheet rock paper will tear under the weight of the new wallpaper and the whole surface will fall off.

Persons wanting to wallpaper over paneling should put wall sizing, similar to caulking, on the paneling before papering to increase adherence.

Preparation is also important in exterior painting, particularly if the house is near the source of abundant dust, such as on a coal hauling route. Hosing down the house, perhaps with a soap sprayer attachment, should be adequate.

For older houses with an oil base paint already on them, more preparation is required, especially if the new coat of paint is water-based, according to William O. Goebel III of Pat's Paints in Prestonsburg.

Goebel recommends application of a primer coat to an oil base surface before it's repainted. To tell what type of base coat is already on the house, Goebel advises rubbing a solution of denatured alcohol on a section of the surface. "If this becomes tacky, it's water-based," he said. "If not, it's oil."

Most painters prefer water-based latex paint for exterior surfaces, said Bob Branham of Arrowood's Hardware. "It's easier to clean up, easier to apply and just as good as oil-based," he said.

Goebel believes water-based paint is far superior to oil based. "Water-based lets the skin of the house breathe," Goebel said. "If it can't breathe, moisture builds up, which can damage the house." Water-based paint also does not become chalky and scaly, as oil paint often does, and it has the lowest maintenance, lasting up to 18 years or more, he said.

The increasing popularity of water-based paints is evidenced in sales figures. Goebel said that 90 percent of the store's customers today choose water-based paints, as opposed to only about 25 percent less than 10 years ago.

Kim Hall of P.J.'s Hardware at Bypro adds a final word of advice. "Don't be afraid to ask a salesperson for help in choosing the best materials," she said. "We'll ask questions about what you want to do and try to help you make the best decisions."

What Color Can Do For A Home

Two identical houses, side by side, can look very different depending on the color of the siding.

White houses seem larger, while a house sided in barn red coloring will appear smaller. Color can also affect depth perception. A house with a pale blue siding will appear to be set back farther from the street than a house with warm yellow siding.

Light colors enlarge the appearance of a house, while dark colors reduce a house's size visually.

Porches, er . . . Decks Making Comeback

After 20 years or so of hibernating inside with air conditioners humming during the hot summer months, many Floyd Countians are coming back outside.

Decks, close relatives of old-time porches, are about the hottest items going for do-it-yourself home improvers these days, according to area lumber retailers.

In fact, Don Hackworth at F.S. VanHoose Lumber said his company probably gets more requests for deck building materials than any other type of lumber materials this time of year.

"Most people do it themselves," said Hackworth. "They draw out their plans and bring them in and we help them decide what materials they'll need."

Requests at the Prestonsburg store have ranged from a four-foot square structure to as large as 16 feet by 50 feet.

Merlon DeRossett of Wickes Lumber at Dwale has seen the demand grow dramatically just in the last three years. "People started calling them decks (rather than porches) about four or five years ago," he said. "Sometimes, that's about all you sell, seems like."

DeRossett remembers selling materials to one person who wanted decking completely around his home—130 feet. Most, however, plan on more standardized structures that fill one side or less of the house.

Indicative of the increasing interest in porches and decks is the fact that Lowe's in Paintsville, which once sold treated plywood only by special order, now carries the deck and porch roofing material in stock.

Gary Dillaha of Lowe's also notes that people seem to be getting away from packaged decks and building their own from scratch. "The pre-cut packages come in standard sizes," said Dillaha, "but more and more people want different sizes."

Dillaha also said that customer demand has resulted in more types of decking lumber. One of the latest items is called "bull-nosed" decking, which is rounded, rather than square, on the smaller edge of the wood. "There's less chance of stubbing your toe or catching a heel" with the new type of wood, he said.

All the lumber merchants recommend using nothing but treated wood for decks and porches that are constantly exposed to the weather. "It's there for the rest of your life," said Hackworth in reference to the treated lumber.

Dillaha also recommends gluing down the lumber for floor joists before nailing. Using construction adhesive leaves "less chance of nails and boards working up on you," he said.

With people coming outside more, the sale of porch swings is also on the "upswing," according to Bob Branham of Arrowood Hardware in Prestonsburg.

"We're selling more swings," Branham said. "I really don't know the reason, but I think the song that was out a few years ago (Just A Swingin') helped the porch swing business."

Swings made of solid oak are the best sellers, Branham said. Prices for the standard porch swing range from around $20 to $50.

Several other hardware stores carry a variety of porch and deck furnishings, although swings are not as readily available as other items. Despite the increase in sales in recent years, Branham admits that swings "are not the greatest selling item on earth."

Persons who want the personal touch in their swing may opt for one that's custom-made. Robert Robinson of Spurlock Creek makes swings to order. Robinson's swings are reportedly a little more expensive than those bought in stores, but owners generally consider them better built.

For those who like a touch of the outdoors without going out there, a skylight might do the job. Wickes carries a variety of shapes and sizes of skylights that can be put into house roofs.

Like windows, some skylights are designed to be opened and are referred to as vented skylights, as opposed to non-vented ones which are sealed shut. They also come tinted or plain. Prices range from about $60 to several hundred dollars.

In Praise Of Porches . . .

by Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

Before television there were front porches.

Most Eastern Kentuckians over 35 remember the entertainment, cultural and educational value of porches.

From the front porch you could watch the passing show of courting couples, of neighbor children showing off fancy bike tricks, of packs of friendly pets stirring dust and exploring ditches.

On the porch, you could curl up in the swing and read or imagine far-off places of adventure and romance, or just doze off in the midday shade of a big maple or oak that cast its shadow over you.

In the evenings when the summer heat cooled a bit, neighbors walked along the road, not for the exercise, but for the social contact. Often, they'd stop and "set a spell," swapping legends, myths and wisdom.

Children, if they kept relatively quiet, received history lessons, the history of family and friends and times. Why Aunt Melissa acts "quiere." What ole' man Bose does when he gets drunk. What it was like when the miners went on strike. How papaw saw the angel right before he died. Who's kin to whom. The best time of year to plant taters. The best cure for hives. Who's a saint and who's a sinner.

Even when, against their will, children had to go to bed, they could be lulled to sleep by the muffled voices that remained on the porch and by the comforting creak of the swing chain that seemed to be chanting, "You're safe . . . you're safe."

Television and air conditioners took people indoors. With 70-degree temperatures on 95-degree nights, families merely had to flip a switch or turn a dial for instant entertainment—no pesky flies, no funeral home fans, no imagination, no family lore, no neighborhood gossip—just Hollywood versions of living.

Porches fell into disuse. Some folks in a remodeling frenzy took off their porches altogether to give their homes, they thought, a sleeker, more modern look. As some built new, ranch-style houses in the '60s and '70s, they included only token porches, more aptly described as slab entranceways to front doors that were never to be used, except by unfamiliar salespeople.

Occasionally, nowadays, on a summer evening, you'll catch a glimpse of some folks, generally older, just "a-settin'" on the front porch, enjoying the wind-down of a wound-up day. But not too often.

What with MTV and work demands and programmed social events, not too many people take the time that enjoying a good porch requires.

From PCC's Library, A Variety Of How-To's

By Trisha Morris,
PCC Librarian

The urge seems universal — when spring arrives we want to crawl out of our winter doldrums and fix up our living area. The following books from the PCC library can show you how to fix a leaky faucet, build a patio, plant a tree, make an attic into usable living space, or give your rooms a complete facelift with new paneling or window valances.

Patios, Terraces, Decks and Roof Gardens, by Alice Smith. With the majestic mountains and wandering creeks, life in Eastern Kentucky almost dictates that you spend a great majority of "good weather" days out of doors. This book shows prize-winning designs to make comfortable, extended living space outside. With full directions for brick patios, redwood decks or flagstone paths, the author has provided a way for the do-it-yourselfer to add distinction to any home. Complete with suggestions for planting, lighting and coverings, the book is a picture parade of possible uses for the outside space.

How To Install Paneling, Valances, Cornices, by Donald Brann. Unlike some idea books filled with pictures of paneled walls installed by experts, this book explains how the average person can apply paneling around arches, over broken plaster, against concrete block walls or in new construction. It illustrates how to shape paneling around columns, over pipes and around "tricky" corners. Besides walls, the author demonstrates how to highlight your home by using paneling to build a fireplace mantel, make decorative window treatments or fancy cabinet doors. Filled with ideas and practical hints, the suggestions here could add interest to every room in a home.

Landscape Gardening, by James Crockett. The basic idea of this book, written by the former host of "Crockett's Victory Garden", is that no matter if your goal in landscaping is privacy, comfort or beauty, the most essential ingredient before buying a single shrub is a good working plan. He suggests you look at your area, discuss what each family member would like, organize your space and get expert advice on which plants and trees are best suited for your site. With wonderful color photographs of mature gardens, a little history of Europe's gardens, and advice on constructing gardens on problem sites, this book has suggestions for enhancing your outdoor space no matter what your budget.

With thousands of species of plants available for landscaping, many plans go astray because of homeowners' frustrations on which ones to choose and where and how to use them. The second part of this book is an encyclopedia of selected plants for landscaping. Dividing the United States into 10 areas on the basis of temperature, rainfall, altitude and types of soil, Crockett has devised a system so that plants can be chosen that will survive in your area.

Furniture Care and Refinishing. Written for the do-it-yourselfer, this book's basic premise is to help the average homeowner save hundreds of dollars by avoiding the high cost of professional labor. This "show-how" manual was made especially for people who have very little or no experience in fixing things around the house. In over 400 action photos, color diagrams and charts, it demonstrates how to replace a drawer, patch a damaged area on wood furniture, repair a cane bottom chair, strip and refinish furniture, and, among other things, give the daily care to furniture that will help it retain its natural beauty for many years.

A general repair book you'll refer to often, it even includes hints for using a chisel, choosing the correct tool and the proper use of sandpaper.

How To Fix Almost Everything, by Stanley Schuler. A few minutes of time, a few cents worth of material and this book are all that are needed for hundreds of home repairs. From unjamming a zipper to mending a blacktop driveway, outdoor birdbath or fiberglass boat, this invaluable handbook tells how to mend, repair, refurbish and put in running order nearly everything in or around the house. Projects are alphabetically arranged and followed by a section on mending methods, including fastening, soldering, gluing, bolting, and nailing. Here, too, are tips on corrosion and condensation prevention, insect pest control, concrete mixing, glass cutting and much more.

Next to a dictionary and basic cookbook, How to Fix Almost Everything can rightfully take its place as an indispensable home reference guide.

Building Stone Walls, by John Vivian. A beautiful stone wall can be yours with just a pile of rocks, a few tools and this book. Carefully detailed, clear drawings show the proper techniques to follow and the wrong ones to avoid. With suggestions on the type of rocks to use, lifting methods to keep you out of the hospital and designs for everything from a formal mortared wall to an irregular unmortared one, this book is a complete guide to using stone walls for landscaping beauty, drainage problems or retaining walls. The author's final advice is to take your time, use ramps and levers, but always plan to keep going because "there's no such thing as a half-built stone wall. It's either a wall or a stone pile."

How To Modernize an Attic. With the author's explicit directions, the average homeowner can transform an attic into prime living space. This book explains installation, louvers, subflooring, stairways and skylights. It includes many building hints, such as hanging doors, laying flooring and building partitions that can be used in any building venture. But its real use is those special hints that can turn an unused part of a home into another bedroom, study, play room or an income-generating apartment space.

Plumbing, Heating and Air Conditioning, by George Daniels. This book provides valuable information on the principles, tools and techniques for handling problems of plumbing, heating and air conditioning in the modern home. In clear, easy to understand language, it explains how each system works, how each part should function for best results, how to make repairs in the most efficient, least costly way and how to choose and use all the materials, fittings and tools needed for the job. In easy steps it shows how to do everything from fixing a leaky faucet to installing complete central heating or air conditioning. With many photos and diagrams to assist the reader, this is a book that can make anyone an expert.

Built-ins, by James Waters. More and more we are seeking to do what we formerly hired others for. The results are money savings, attractive and individualized designs and the self-satisfaction of being able to say, "I made that myself." The projects in this book include medicine cabinets, kitchen cabinets, bedroom wardrobes, entertainment centers, bookcases and furniture. The text and clearly drawn illustrations explain and show all necessary steps. Built-ins can utilize wasted space, organize numerous items and add charm and utility to any home. The book covers everything from the selection of materials to the completion of the project.

Carpet & Vinyl . . .

For do-it-yourselfers considering working on carpet or linoleum projects, some of the best advice going is: "Don't."

Unless homeowners are familiar with the work, and have the tools to properly do the job, some area installers suggest leaving this portion of home improvement to the professionals.

Carpeting comes in 12-foot widths, often requiring seams—a tricky maneuver at best. And if carpet is not stretched properly, it can wrinkle with traffic.

In either event, calling a professional becomes inevitable.

Laying sheet linoleum also requires specialized tools to prevent bubbling, pulling up at the edges and unevenness. Peel-and-stick linoleum tiles may be handier — and easier — for do-it-yourselfers. A quick tip: always begin at the center of the room and work toward the edges, and try to cut tiles the same width for outer fit — 6" or more, if possible.

On the brighter side, sales of commercial and residential carpeting, as well as vinyl flooring, are brisk. The primary reason, according to Baril and American Carpets manager Vicki McGuire, is the introduction of decorator colors to a once-muted market.

Homeowners can choose between plush, sculpted and commercial carpets in a variety of colors, and today's carpets are made to last 10 to 15 years with proper care.

That care includes regular cleaning — but caution is necessary here, too, says Baril.

"A lot of times carpets don't have locked-in stain resistance. When you clean them, you remove the stain resistance. People should buy a cleaner that puts it back in, or get a spray-on type to put it back on the carpet," he explains.

Among the most popular colors this year are a blackish-gray, mauve, teal green, neutral gray and off-white.

How To Improve Home Value? Realtors Offer Some Pointers

During the spring many homeowners start showing the symptoms of a peculiarly American malady — new home fever.

Some want a bigger house, others a smaller one. Some want more yard space, others less. Some, remembering winter's troubles, want to get off the hill; others dream of the view from a hillside spot. Some want to move into town, while others long for the country.

But for nearly all, increasing the resale value of their present home is a practical matter they must deal with before looking for a new one.

According to Wilma Wallen of American Way Realty, if your house is already in decent shape, "the number one" improvement that can be made is to the lawn. "Landscaping will increase the value of a home quite a bit," she said, pointing out that the lawn gives the first impression of the house and its owners.

At Ratliff-Lenox Realty, the response is similar. "Especially in the spring, yards are very important," said a spokesperson for the broker. "Blooming flowers — daffodils, for instance — and a tidy yard create a pleasing appearance."

A good-looking lawn can attract potential buyers, said Jo Bentley of Benchmark Realty. "People figure that if you keep the outside neat and clean, the inside will be that way," Bentley said. "Some buyers," she added, "don't have the imagination to envision the house cleaned up if it already isn't."

The realtors also agree that a clean, neat interior is also important. They cite clean windows, closets, walls, floors, furnishings — all should be polished and "sparkling," a word one realtor

Wallen warns homeowners not to make too many additions to houses in an attempt to increase resale value. "You can do too much," she said, especially at a time when families tend to be smaller. "Many people today have no need for five bedrooms, for instance," she said. Also, many families are so busy, they don't have time for the maintenance required for a large house.

The University of Kentucky, with the Kentucky Real Estate Commission, has published a pamphlet, called "Cost and Value," which estimates the percentage of cost homeowners can expect to reclaim for home improvements when they sell their house.

For instance, when a homeowner puts new siding on his house, he can probably recover about 70 percent of the cost of the siding when he sells the house, the pamphlet states. From 75 to 100 percent of the cost of installing central air conditioning can be recovered. A new heating system, on the other hand, adds little or no value, since "buyers expect adequate heat."

Homeowners can expect to recover from 80 to 100 percent of their costs when they remodel the kitchen, but for other interior re-decorating, they will recoup very little.

Among other improvements that add value, according to the publication, are storm windows and doors, a garage addition, exterior painting, patio, swimming pool, new roof and gutters, and landscaping.

For a copy of the publication, write to Kentucky Real Estate Center, College of Business and Economics, 303 Mathews Bldg., UK, Lexington, KY 40506-0047.

Salvage Old Cabinets, Brighten Kitchens

Simply remodeling wood cabinets can give the whole room a facelift.

First, strip off old cracked paint and fill any nicks and rough spots on cabinets with a wood filler. Sand and wipe clear.

Panel cabinets to give them a new look. Glue on half moldings and finish with a clear spray paint to protect.

Don't Touch That Dial!

After finding a comfortable temperature, don't keep turning the thermostat up and down. That's the advice of Gary Bevins, owner of L.G.'s Heating, Cooling, Refrigeration and Electrical at Harold.

"It doesn't save energy to turn the thermostat down when you're away," said Bevins, "and it can destroy your equipment over a few years."

An advocate of preventive maintenance, Bevins also advises homeowners to check the motor oil in their heating and cooling equipment every two or three years. He also recommends cleaning the heater exchanger every four or five years to save on costly repairs or replacement in the future.

"Most manufacturers figure homeowners are not going to maintain their equipment, so they know they'll make money from new purchases," he said. "But like your car, if you keep heating and cooling equipment serviced, it will last longer."

Baking Soda . . . A Natural Cleaner Throughout A Home

It will clean, for less than a dollar, your house from ceiling to silverware.

Some hints:

— Wash down the refrigerator walls, wipe out the drawers and rise shelves with a baking soda solution. Then place an open box on a back shelf to neutralize odors and prevent taste-transfers.

— To remove black heel marks from floors or linoleum, sprinkle baking soda onto a damp sponge and rub the marks. Rinse and buff dry. The baking soda crystals remove the marks without scratching floors.

— Clean the outdoor grill with a solution of four tablespoons of baking soda per quart of water.

WaterFurnace is a complete home heating system. In the summer, select the cooling mode on the thermostat and the WaterFurnace System is your complete home cooling center. WaterFurnace can also supply most of your domestic hot water requirements. Customers report savings up to 60% heating their homes. Cooling cost reductions of 50% are not uncommon.

Contractors' Lingo: How To Understand It

Trying to communicate with repairpersons and contractors can sometimes make you feel like you're talking to someone who's speaking a foreign tongue.

And most times when you need to speak with them, you're caught up in an emergency, such as a backed up toilet or a broken furnace, in which case you're in a panic anyway.

The National Association of Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors offers a basic language lesson to help you understand what your serviceperson is saying.

Trap: a U-shaped fitting constructed to prevent the passage of air or gas through a pipe without materially affecting the flow of sewage or liquid waste. It's right under your sink.

Nipple: (nah, this one wasn't thrown in for kicks) In contractors parlance, it's a short piece of pipe.

Dummy: (wrong, again) a lead working tool, used in bending lead waste pipe three inches in diameter or larger.

Plumber's Friend: a plunger.

Spaghetti: a slang expression for small diameter, soft-annealed metal tubing, usually copper, that can be bent by hand. (Please don't attempt to eat it.)

Tailpiece: a short length of pipe extended from a sink, lavatory, vessel or tank.

Water main: a principal water supply pipe to one or more buildings or premises including water for fire protection.

Yoke: a pipe with two branches uniting them to form on stem.

Cross connection: a physical connection or arrangement between two otherwise separate pipe systems, one of which contains drinking water and the other water of questionable safety.

Sill cock: a faucet used on the outside of a building to which garden hose can be attached.

Bleeding: slowly reducing the pressure of liquid or gas from a system or cylinder by slightly opening a valve.

Brazing: method of joining metals that have no iron by using high heat.

BTU: the abbreviation for British Thermal Unit, the quantity of heat required to raise temperature of one pound of water one degree Fahrenheit.

Refrigerant: substance used in refrigerators to absorb heat.

Unitary system: a heating/cooling system that is factory-assembled in one package and usually designed for conditioning one space or room.

In The Spring, Homeowners' Thoughts Turn To Refurbishing

As the spring season approaches, school children and adults alike tend to get spring fever.

The spring cleaning bug may soon follow. After taking a good look around your home, you may decide this spring is the perfect time for some home improvements — ranging from simple repairs to major remodeling.

Before deciding to make major remodeling changes, inspect and evaluate your home. This also can help you catch small problems before they develop into irreparable damage. However, after adequately checking the old design of a room, you may decide only minor adjustments are necessary to create the look you desire.

Certain changes in your household or lifestyle may warrant changes in your home. For example, departures or additions to a family may make reorganization essential. You may want to convert a bedroom into a den, a basement into an apartment, or add more bathrooms.

If there has been a change in a family's lifestyle, such as an alteration in work habits, the house will have to fit the changes in living patterns.

Perhaps you are working at home, and need an office in the house — or maybe you have stopped working altogether to raise a family member or take care of an elderly family member. In either case, the living area in your home will have to be enlarged or altered to accommodate more frequent use.

A change in affluence such as a larger income usually means more entertaining, an the desire and ability to expand or add on to rooms meant to entertain guests.

A family may have acquired new interests, such as gourmet cooking or health and fitness activities. This may call for kitchen expansion or conversion of a room into a spa.

However, major remodeling is not the answer to every dissatisfaction you may have with your home.

It may be time for a fresh coat of paint, or new wallpaper, fixtures or carpeting.

You should not neglect the outside of your home. It may need a fresh coat of paint, a patio, new windows or new gutters. You may even consider installing a pool, hot tub or barbecue pit as the summer approaches.

Now is the ideal time to restructure the landscape in order to make it more pleasing to the eye and functional for outdoor fun and sports. Adding plants and flowers to a yard or garden is sure to add color and beauty to any home.

You may also want to start a vegetable garden at this time. If you live in an apartment, flower boxes or rooftop gardens are great for those green thumbs that don't have access to traditional gardens.

If you do live in an apartment, you probably don't have the same responsibilities for the outside of your dwelling. However, you may want to collaborate with your landlord and to make any changes that you feel would improve the building.

If you are planning on making the improvement yourself, make a list of the supplies and tools you will need to complete the job. A single trip to the lumberyard, hardware store or interior design store will be beneficial and time-saving. Make sure you buy enough of what you need to avoid multiple trips, frustration and exhaustion.

What's your home IQ?

Test yourself on the following true/false questions, put together with the help of the Good Housekeeping Institute. The answers are at the end.

1. You use more water washing your dishes by hand than by running your dishwasher daily.
2. Frequent vacuuming will eventually wear out the fibers in your carpet.
3. When remodeling your home, improvements shouldn't exceed 30 percent of the home's current cost.
4. It takes more energy to operate a refrigerator filled with food than one that's partially filled.
5. The best place to store medicines is in the bathroom.

ANSWERS

1. True. 2. False. Embedded dirt will wear away at carpet fibers, so frequent vacuuming is essential. 3. True. 4. False. A large amount of food absorbs temperature changes and keeps the thermostat regulated. 5. False. Warmth and humidity in the bathroom can cause chemical breakdowns of medicine. A cool, dry place is better.

Improvements: Getting The Most Under Tax Laws

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 has closed many tax loopholes and contains numerous changes in what is and what is not deductible.

Naturally, many taxpayers are wondering how the rules affect them in areas such as tax shelters and itemized deductions, particularly interest expense and exemptions.

One feature of our tax code that continues to benefit taxpayers is home ownership. It is, after all, the single largest investment that most of us will make in our lifetime. Therefore, it is important to understand the effects of the new tax laws in the area of home ownership and home improvements.

The American dream of home ownership is still a sound investment in a number of ways. For instance, tax laws benefit homeowners who make improvements to their home. In fact, home improvements can be one of the most rewarding investments, not only in terms of adding comfort and space, but from a fiscal point of view as well.

Although the cost of improvements to your primary residence is not deductible, but serves only to increase your cost basis in the residence, there are other financial benefits to making home improvements.

With the new tax laws, you will need to know the difference between an improvement and a repair, and distinguishing between the two is not always easy.

An improvement is considered to be anything that adds to the value of your home or appreciably prolongs its life, such as improving the home's energy efficiency.

Specific projects that count as home improvements include energy upgrades (adding insulation in the attic, walls and crawl spaces; caulking and weatherstripping), room additions, re-roofing, new siding and additions.

Repairs, on the other hand, are designed to maintain the house and grounds "in good working order" and are not deductible, since they do not extend the useful life of the home or add to its value. Typical repairs include patching plaster, replacing windowpanes and fixing anything that's broken.

When repairs are done as part of an extensive remodeling and restoration project, the entire job is considered an improvement.

Home improvements are especially important to taxability when you sell your house. Though home improvement expenses can't be deducted, they can be used to help reduce the amount of capital gains you realize on the sale of your home.

Taxability is also important when you pay for home improvements. Before the new tax laws went into effect, you may have considered using a credit card or a personal bank loan to hire a contractor or to purchase materials for a do-it-yourself project.

However, interest paid on these loans is no longer fully deductible and, after 1990, will not be deductible at all.
