Where the Buffalo Roam

Probably the first buffalo calf to be born in Floyd County in several centuries was born at Taylor Price's farm at Hager Branch two weeks ago. Price has had three females and a bull buffalo for about three years and this is the first calf, he said. The young buffalo, well protected by its mother, shares the 1200 acres peacefully, according to Price, with 80 head of Brahman and Red Angus cattle and 10 goats. Price said he bought the buffalo in Indiana "for a hobby." Now he hopes to interbreed the cattle and buffalo to raise "beefalo." The buffalo are hardy animals that have adapted well to the hillside pastures, he said, but they are not tame as cattle are.

Former Floyd Countian Dr. Donald T. Two Killed In Separate Accidents

Two southern Floyd County teenagers were killed in separate accidents last week.

Anthony Williams, 16, of Stanville, was pronounced dead at the scene by coroner Roger Nelson, after the car in which he was riding ran off the road and over an embankment on KY 2030 at Honaker at about 10:15 a.m. Fri-

According to Nelson, the driver of the car, Julie Hall, 17, of Galveston, was not injured in the accident. She was wearing a seat belt, and Williams was not, Nelson said.

Early Saturday morning, Christine McKinney, 17, of Harold, was killed when she ran into the path of a tractor trailer truck traveling north on US 23 at Betsy Layne.

Late last week, Commonwealth Attorney Jerry Patton and Floyd County Attorney David Barber agreed to seek an order transferring the case to the Circuit Court level, where the decision to indict the young mother would be made.

According to Patton's office, the grand jury faced a heavy docket of cases and was not expected to announce indictment decisions until

The young woman allegedly gave birth to the baby girl and then placed her in a lard bucket, where she died of postural asphyxiation, according to the autopsy. The mother then was treated for hemorrhaging, after which authorities learned of the birth. Her father, Silas Slone Sr., apparently buried the baby and was later charged with a misdemeanor in connection with the improper burial.

Truck Doesn't Arrive For Clean-Up

by Anne Chaney, Editor

For the past six Saturdays, an average of 20 to 25 residents of the Left Beaver area have picked up more than 2,000 bags of trash from the heavily-littered ditches along KY122.

Spearheaded by the Left Beaver Community Service Club, Inc., the clean-up drive is proving to be one of the most extensive in the county.

However, the organization's efforts to have the county to provide a garbage truck to pick up the debris have been fruitless.

According to Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, the group must request a truck from David Cooley, landfill official, or Cleveland Tackett, county enforcement officer.

They don't go through me to get a truck; they go through Solid Waste," said Stumbo.

Bobby Stumbo, president of the service club, said this week refuse is - and has been - hauled to the county landfill in private vehicles. Bobby Stumbo said during a meeting Monday, April 24, attended by the Times and a dozen Floyd residents concerned about the county-wide litter problem, he requested a garbage truck from the county judge. Stumbo said the judge told him the county should be sent, and at what time.

The service club president called and left the information for the judge, who was not in the office at the time. No truck was sent to the Drift area

The county judge said he was ill Friday afternoon and out of the office with a physician's appointment, received the message Friday night, and called Tackett to see if Bobby Stumbo had contacted him about sending a truck; Tackett said he hadn't. Tackett reportedly attempted to call the club president at home Friday night, but was unable to reach him.

"We'll pick up garbage any time," said the county judge Monday. "Of course, we have to pay overtime to do it, but we will." He said he has not scheduled garbage trucks to pick up refuse at any of the clean-up drives this year in the county.

Community groups cleaning their areas, and having county garbage trucks on hand to haul debris, include McCurry Branch, Wheelwright, Cow Creek, Bryant Branch and Price.

"It's a shame we can't get a truck," noted Bobby Stumbo. "We're out there every weekend."

He said the group picked up about 235 bags of litter this past Saturday, and has cleaned almost seven miles would provide a truck, and to call of roadway to date. They have also Friday and tell him where the truck picked up more than 40 barrels of

"We haven't received any garbage bags from the county, or a truck. Local merchants and concerned citizens have donated bags, gloves and money for gas," said Stumbo. "The county landfill is letting us dump free."

Stumbo said the club has received approximately $200 in monetary donations, of which about $30 remains. Funds are spent to buy lunch and soft drinks for volunteers; money was also spent to buy a set of walkietalkies to aid in traffic control.

"We are using other people's trucks to take people to where the

This Saturday, club members and interested citizens will meet at Minnie Park at 10 a.m., then proceed to the area to be cleaned.

Stumbo estimates 40 merchants have made in-kind or monetary donations to the non-profit organization, including businesses in McDowell, Prestonsburg, Martin, Price, Allen, Wheelwright, Minnie, Drift, Frazier's Creek and Hi Hat.

The club's goal is to have KY 122 garbage is being picked up, and to cleaned "to the head of Abner Mountain" by May 29, said Stumbo. "Then, we'll get started on the hollows, creeks and side roads."

For more information, contact place barrels along wide areas beside Stumbo at 377-6114, or club vice presithe road. The barrels will be painted dent Arthur Sexton, 377-6752.

Picking It Up

Several residents of the Left Beaver area have spent their recent Saturdays collecting refuse from the roadside of KY 122. Concerned citizens and members of the Left Beaver Service Club, Inc., have gathered up more than 2,000 bags of garbage, and over 40 barrels of glass, during the past six

Certified To Serve

Chuck Bishop, front left, receives state firefighter certification from Prestonsburg Fire Marshal Larry Adams. Bishop is the newest certified firefighter in the department's volunteer staff. With them are Johnny Shepherd, back left, the senior volunteer who has been certified for 10 years, and volunteer-in-training Allen Lafferty.

Local Volunteer Firefighters Vital To City's Regular Staff

by Pam Shingler, Assistant Editor

Hot Job Tip: Some weekend and holiday work required. Workers must be prepared to report at a moment's notice. Compensation limited to appreciation and personal satisfaction. Applicants must be able to work under pressure and should not be afraid to get their feet wet.

If the help wanted section ran advertisements for volunteer fire-fighters, that's what they might say. Oratleast that's how the Prestonsburg Fire Department might advertise for the volunteers who are relied on to round out the paid staff.

With only 11 staff firefighters to provide 24 hour coverage, 365 days a year, the department depends on its 18 volunteers. Fire Marshal Larry Adams would like to see that number jump to 25.

"If the 11 paid men had to fight all the fires and disasters in the area, we'd be in trouble," said Adams, who started as a volunteer before joining the fire department staff.

The volunteer, Adams said, can have the best of both worlds. "He can have a regular full-time job elsewhere and still be active with the firedepart-

Adams cites a prime example in Johnny Shepherd of Dwale, who has been a volunteer since 1971. The 35-year-old employee of Mayo Resources in Johnson County works third shift as a coal miner and spends many hours throughout the week as a volunteer firefighter.

With more than 2,000 hours of training, Shepherd is the granddaddy of all the volunteers. He became a certified firefighter in 1979. He also received certification as an emergency medical technician (EMT) in 1980 and

Hospitality Training Seminar Announced

The Prestonsburg Recreation, Tourism and Convention Commission will sponsor a hospitality training seminar on Tuesday, May 18, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Holiday Inn.

The seminar is free and open to the public. Anyone who deals with the public on a daily basis is encouraged to attend.

regularly attends in-service training sessions.

"Even if Prestonsburg (fire department) doesn't call, I might hear of an accident nearby and go to it," said Shepherd, who has several monitors and scanners at his house.

materials. The training locally also includes first aid and CPR classes.

On the other end of the spectrum is newcomer Chuck Bishop of Auxier. At 18, Bishop is the latest volunteer to receive his certification. He signed up as a volunteer about a year and a half ago and went through the requisite training for certification at the urging of Shepherd, his brother-in-law.

The relationship of Shepherd and Bishop points up the family orientation of the department, Adams said. "Someone in one family gets interested and then interests another family member in volunteering," the fire marshal said. "That's a good way to get new members and it also makes the whole department feel like a family."

Currently working on his certification is Allen Lafferty, 17, of Prestonsburg, whose cousin got him involved in the department, he said.

Lafferty said he hopes one day to advance to full-time, paid status.

Adams said that Bishop and Lafferty "practically live at the fire house. It's nice to have people that motivated."

Fighting fires is not the only job for volunteers. According to Adams, the department members also assist police in major traffic problems and are prepared to deal with car wrecks and injuries.

Although they are not often called to get cats out of trees, as the stere-otype goes, last week members of the department volunteered to serve as pallbearers at a funeral for a man who had few local relatives.

"We have spells when calls are back to back," said Adams. "Then we cherish the down times." Otherwise, time not required for emergencies is generally spent maintaining the department scomplex and expensive equipment.

Eleven of the department's volunteers are certified firefighters, and five more besides Lafferty are working on becoming certified, Adams said.

For state certification, volunteers must have 150 hours of training. Almost half of those must be in 19 specific categories, such as fire behavior, rescue and disaster training,

Students, Staff, Parents Oppose Johnson Notification

Dear Editor,

We the students, teachers, parents and friends of Wheelwright High School have learned that Mr. Ernest "Ernie" Johnson will not be rehired for the coming school year. We do not understand the reason for this. Mr. Johnson is a very dedicated teacher. He takes great interest in our school's activities and is always willing to give extra attention to anything that needs to be done. He handles homecoming, graduation, proms, fund raising, as well as Beta Club and FHA.

Ernie helps the seniors with their fund raising so the senior trip can be made and acts as a sponsor on the trip. When Ernie was a student at Wheelwright, he showed this same interest. He was available to help in anything that would benefit the school. Whileattending UK, he came on weekends to help in any way possible. He gave freely of his time to coach the academic team, among other things. He's worked as referee for ball games and planned a class tournament for the school. Mr. Johnson serves as the assistant principal when Mr. Slone has to be gone. Besides being a teacher at Wheelwright for the past four years, he is a friend. He encourages the student to think for himself and applauds every effort on the part of such a student.

We see no justifiable reason for removing Ernie from our faculty. Could the Board of Education give us concrete reasons for his dismissal?

We asked Ernie to list his responsibilities for the past four years. Here is the list. You will note by the asterisk the only ones he was paid for during this time.

Men, Women Should Adhere To Bible, Says Pastor

Dear Editor, "The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment: For all that do so are an abomination unto the Lord, thy God." Deut. 22:5. The Lord created man in his own image, in the image of God, created he him, male and female created he them. He made them with certain differences mentally as well as physically and I believe that God intended those differences to be maintained. He meant for a woman to be a woman and a man to be a man. He intended that women should dress like women and act like women. He intended that men should dress like men. Anything less than this God says is an abomination to him.

The Bible says, "Does not nature itself teach a manit is a shame for him to have long hair. But if a woman has long hair it is a glory to her, for her hair is given her for a covering." In relation to the wearing of clothes God gives Christian women his instructions in I Timothy 2:9 in like manner also, that women adorn themselves in modest apparel. To me that would rule out slacks and shorts. If a woman in the church wears slacks why not men wear skirts with a zipper for a belt along with their ponytails. God forbid, Christian girls should be very careful that the way they dress does not call attention to their bodies so as to arouse impure thoughts and desires in men. Their

Young people may argue that slacks are more modest than skirts in the 1988 session for an unmined for some activities, but the truth is that they aren't. Most slacks and stretch pants are far more revealing and form-fitting than any modest skirts. It is here that the church must be particular to set their standards by the Bible instead of by public opinion or current styles. If you are an honest person you will admit that you did not get the ideas that slacks were acceptable attire for a girl from the

But as Christians, act like Christians, smell like Christians and live like Christians. Let the older women take the younger women in hand and teach them how they should dress.

The great falling away of the church is here, preachers afraid to preach the truth for fear of losing members. They boast, we are going to have a great revival this year and win a million souls. But did they actually win that many souls. The Bible says many false prophets shall arise and many will be deceived. Some have ordained homosexuals into their churches with a growing membership made up of adulterers, fornicators, prostitutes, gamblers, drunks, bar owners, bar tenders, liquor store owners, gangsters, murderers of babies, abortionists and just plain church joiners in their churches, never repenting, never quitting their wrongs. And some of these show up on religious talk shows as born again Christians, painted and dressed like Jezebels.

Now there are many honest, true, born again Christians in these organizations, but the Lord'scry is come out of there my people, Amen. Rev. Ray Dempsey clothing should cover them well and those not intending to profit from the should not be so tight as to unduly ownership of unmined coal. In spite of extensive effort, the bills failed.

There was considerable support coal tax bill after the Supreme Court decision was announced. Efforts led by Rep. Clayton Little failed because a substitute bill, which would have given a large tax break to oil companies as well as set another low rate on substitute bill was a bad bill and the Senate did not even consider it.

Kentuckians for the Commonwealth is presently trying to persuade the Revenue Cabinet to provide relief to farmers and owners of small coal deposits who are not profiting from the ownership of this mineral. People who need immediate relief should discuss the problem with their property valuation administrator and/or Revenue Cabinet personnel. It would also be wise to contact your legislator about passing KFTC's bill protecting small landowners and farmers in the 1990 session.

Pastors Respond To Reader's Letter

Dear Editor,

As officers of the Floyd County Ministerial Association, we would like to respond to the letter condemning local ministers for their actions in regard to the "wet-dry" election. We would suggest that it is not the duty of ministers to go along with the status quo in order to keep the peace.

One definition of the job of the ministry is "to comfort the afflicted, and to afflict the comfortable." Sometimes the latter includes "interference" and what others may interpret as "causing trouble." We encourage in the association the right of individual ministers to speak out in accordance with their own faith and tradition and to lead their communities of faith, as well as speak to the community at large.

While ministers should console persons in difficulty and do so as an important part of their work, it is also their job to stir up people in regard to issues and concerns that they would rather not hear about. Jesus said, "Woe unto you, when all men speak well of you." Sometimes the mark of an effective ministry is that it causes opposition and provokes enemies.

In recent months in this country, ministers in our association have (1) attempted to speak a prophetic word about the situation in the Floyd County school system, (2) supported a crisis pregnancy center providing alternatives to abortion, (3) opposed the lottery amendment, though it obviously has great popularity here and elsewhere, and (4) been involved with the "broad-form" deed amendment. These are obviously not "noncontroversial" issues. Few ministers claim that their actions or words are infallible in every situation, but they would be disregarding their responsibility to their community if they did not speak out on issues about which they feel deeply. Their job is to arouse the public conscience just as much as it is the job of the police to ensure our security and safety.

In this country, where free speech is a fundamental right, all persons have the right to speak out as they choose. We cannot expect ministers to "keep their mouths shut" when it comes to issues with profound moral implications for our lives and well being. If we cry "peace, peace, when there is no peace," we will be betraying our fundamental calling as spokespersons for God. Our association recognizes that the denominations we represent differ in interpreting the Bible and theology, but we remain united in our support for each other and feel our community is stronger when religious leaders can speak as their consciences dictate

'Do-It-Yourself' Spirit Still Alive

In a scene akin to the barn raisings of long ago, members of the Southeast Floyd County volunteer fire department are involved in a community-wide effort to build a muchneeded fire hall.

The building, still in the shell stage, is being put together by members of the fire department, with area residents contributing materials and money for the construction.

When the fire hall on KY 122 at Melvin is complete, it will have three bays for the department's equipment and a 24'x28' classroom for training, according to fire chief Bob Johnson.

Since its establishment in 1978, the department has had to farm out its equipment. To get to the fire truck in an emergency, the volunteers have to rush to Wheelwright Junction, where it rests when not in use. The tanker truck has been lodged in a garage to keep it from freezing in the winter.

The department's 18 volunteers can be found assisting with the construction whenever they finish their regular jobs every day. Bricklayer Billy Vicars is laying the concrete block shell at less than market rates, and the interior will be completely done by the volunteers, Johnson said.

Blocks for the construction have been donated by Burman Newman, Gary Johnson, Tike Hall, Adams Stone Co. and several other donors who wish to be anonymous, the fire chief said. Construction started in mid-

"Getting the land was the big problem at first," said the chief. But once the former owner was assured that the 25 acres would be used solely by the fire department, he agreed to the sale for $15,000, about half the original asking price, Johnson said. Volunteer firefighters have raised money through bake sales, fund raisers, and door-to-door and roadblock solicitations. Seasoned fund raisers, the volunteers raised the money to pay for the $65,000 fire truck that got them started more than 10 years ago. Johnson expects the new building to cost between $17,000 and $20,000. Assistant Fire Chief Mike Tackett said the department hopes for a $10,000 grant from Big Sandy Area Development District, via Floyd ounty Fiscal Court, to help with the uilding cost.

Yet he is proud of what the volun-eers have done on their own.

"We're one of the few departments in the county that still operates on donations and hasn't gone to the district (for money)," said Tackett, proudly.

"When the new building is completed by next summer, people can drive by and say that's our new station," Tackett said. "We hope the building will show that people here, in the southeastern part of the county, are interested, that they are spending their time and labor to improve

DECLARATION OF WAR ON DOPE DEALERS

The sale for PROFIT of ILLEGAL DRUGS is destroying our children, our family and our government. As your Floyd County Attorney, I will prosecute illegal dope dealers to the fullest extent of the law. Together, we will have a safe and drug free Floyd County. As your Floyd County Attorney, I will work all the time, not just at election time, with all the people in our partnership to provide the quality leadership to achieve the following objectives in our war on dope dealers:

1. Prosecute illegal dope dealers to the fullest extent of the law.

and dope dealers. 4. Provide, through the Sheriff's Department, 24-hour a day police protection and patrol for every area of Floyd County - we shall have a safe county, neighborhood's and homes. 5. As required by Floyd County Fiscal Court of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, said requirement being duly voted upon and to Floyd County attorneys and their colleagues across the nation, it is also Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta has proclaimed May 1 as Law Day in the city, and is urging citizens, clubs, schools and businesses to commemorate the role of laws in their lives.

The theme for this year's national celebration is "Access to Justice."

"We often hear about the criminal justice system, but we have to realize that as big a part in our society as law enforcement, the criminal courts and the penal system (prisons) play, there is an equally sizable - and costly civil justice system that exists to protect Americans' civil rights," said Julie Paxton, president of the Floyd County Bar Association.

Access to the civil justice system is just as important to citizens as access to the protection of the criminal justice system, Paxton said.

Latta's proclamation notes that America is a "citadel of individual liberty and a beacon of hope and opportunity" to people around the world who do not feel they have individual freedom and liberty.

dation of individual freedom and liberty in America is the Constitution and the body of laws that guarantee and protect citizens, noted Paxton.

"One difficult aspect of providing access to justice is that it is expensive to provide both criminal justice (law enforcement) and civil justice," Paxton explains, "Our city, county, state and federal law enforcement

To most, May 1 is May Day — but officers are paid for by taxes and are sworn to provide equal protection of the law to rich and poor alike. If a poor person is arrested and accused of a crime, it is a public responsibility to provide him or her with a defense attorney and the judge will appoint a public defender, no matter how reprehensible the alleged crime.

"Underourlaws, it is a defendant's right to be represented in court by an attorney in a criminal case, and the taxpayers bear that cost if the accused is not able to afford an attorney."

Paxton said that in civil cases, the right to representation is not as clearcut, explaining that if poor people are to have the access to justice, then a method must be provided for them to get representation.

Prior to 1965 there were Legal Aid Societies funded by donations that provided some legal representation for poor people, she said. In many cases, low income clients persuaded private attorneys to take their case on a pro bono publico basis — without charging a fee for their services.

Appalachian Research and Defense is one of some 280 agencies begun under the 1964 Economic Opportunity Act to provide civil legal services to the nation's poor.

Paxton said during seven of the Reagan Administration's eight years, Reagan's federal budget proposal recommended eliminating approximately $300 million required to fund the Legal Service Corporation. "Each of those years," she noted, "the United States Congress has had to add back the LSC budget in order for the Legal Services program to continue."

One way to try to bridge the gap to rovide equal access for low income residents is to persuade private attorneys to volunteer to take cases for people cannot afford to pay for them. 'Attorneys provide a lot of free legal services to their clients," adds Paxton. "Unfortunately, not all of it is intended for and not all of it is for clients who can't afford to pay. Often it is pro bono work for friends, and many times attorneys, like other professionals, have trouble collecting their bills after the case is closed. It isn't easy to collect money while the case is in progress, since judges schedule matters for court, and it doesn't serve the cause of 'Access to Justice' for an attorney to refuse to appear at a court hearing for a client just because he or she hasn't paid the fee.

Because of cuts in Legal Services funding, the American Bar Association has passed a resolution encouraging all attorneys to volunteer at least 50 hours per year to pro bono cases for low income individuals.

Recently, ARDF began a probono publico project to assist attorneys who want to volunteer by referring bona project is funded by an $18,500 grant from the Kentucky Bar Association's IOLTA (Interest on Lawyer's Trust Accounts) fund.

The project has been underway since January and has increased the size of the pro bono panel from 35 to 60 attorneys and, as of April 24, had referred 14 cases to private bar attorneys in ARDF's service area.

The Centers at Wheelwright, Martin, Betsy Layne and Prestonsburg provide a wonderful service to the people who have helped build our community. We are also hopeful that in the near future we will be able to establish a center at Wayland.

I promise the County Attorney's Office will continue to offer free advice at the Centers for the next four years. I have found that these senior citizens and civic groups share the same pride I have in Floyd County.

Show your pride in Floyd County and re-elect David Allen Barber, your Floyd County Attorney.

Balance Budget-

tem is top-heavy. It's been said in the management assistance report, the curriculum audit - it's been said time and time again." Nicholls said the state has not approved the Floyd school system's budget; local officials asked the state board Tuesday to place the district on emergency status, meaning that a deficit budget could be submitted.

"The state board would not approve that request," said Nicholls. Robert Ruberg (state board member) said that he had no intention of voting for an emergency until the Floyd board has made the efforts that were recommended by the department. Chairman Henry Pogue said that it would not be proper to let Floyd be in an emergency status until they could cooperate."

Nicholls said state board members also expressed reservations about the intent of local officials. Ruberg, at one point, said he felt that the board "could be playing games again," according to Nicholls

Brock, however, told state board members he felt there were "many positive things going on in the Phase committee; chairman of the UK student financial aid committee; director of the minority high school research apprentice program; a memThree situation" in Floyd County.

According to Bob Gover, state official working in Floyd County, at the end of the current fiscal year, the district will be between $150,000 and $200,000 in debt. That deficit does not include monies borrowed and placed in the general fund to finance school construction. Those funds will be placed back in budget when bonds sold on the projects.

Other discussion related to the Floyd system during Tuesday's state board meeting included:

- An outline of the Blue Ribbon Panel's report by Dr. Steffy, who noted she felt it was well-prepared and "had a lot of substance." Steffy said she expects the Floyd board, at its meeting tonight, to have a favorable outlook on the report.

- In the area of curriculum, a three-person committee from the state department is being assigned to begin staff training this summer and evaluate the administrative people, beginning at the administrative level and continuing to the classroom staff

-A 16-person team from the state department that will be in Floyd County in next two weeks to help begin preparation of curriculum guides for the next year. A four-day workshop will also be held for administrative staff from Floyd and Whitley counties, to help them understand exactly what their jobs re-exists between the superintendent and the administrative staff, in terms of actions that he directs being carried out; sheattributed the division to politicking within the system. Smith also told the board she feels Floyd Countians want the state board to take a hard line" and hold the local both noted the state's representatives are "starting at top, and will get to the teachers." They said staff training will go "from the top down" and, by the end of the year, most employees should be involved in some training.

State board members talked about the Left Beaver school site, expressing concernabout the amount of money that has been spent, and the desirability of the site. Brock explained he, Guess and Hager flew over the site in helicopter looking for something better in area, finding only one other site in vicinity, and that evidently there are some problems

Cabinet Seeks Court Input On Pension Issue

The Kentucky Revenue Cabinet announced recently that it will prospectively apply the March 28, U.S. Supreme Court opinion, in Davis vs. Michigan Department of Treasury, until it receives a ruling from the Franklin Circuit Court. Thus, no refunds will be issued to federal retirees unless, and until, the court so orders. Officials of the Cabinet say the Court will be asked, also, how federal and state retirees should be taxed in 1989 on pension income. The Cabinet advises federal retirees to continue making quarterly estimates for 1989 individual income tax unless the court rules otherwise.

Will Lower Rates

The Public Service Commission has authorized Big Sandy Rural Electric to decrease its base rates by .00086 per KWH sold, due primarily to economical coal purchases by its wholesale power supplier, East Power

In an order by the Public Service Commission, the commission noted "with pleasure," that during a recent six month period, East Kentucky's fuel costs were lowest of all electric utilities in the state, based on heat

According to officials at Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative Corp., this is the third consecutive decrease in base rates that Big Sandy members have experienced since 1985. This 4 percent decrease means over $1,100,000 has been returned to Big

Why are we hiding when there is so much work to do?

About 1040 B.C., Saul hid from God: "Therefore they inquired of the Lord further, if the man should yet come thither. And the Lord answered, Behold, he hath hid himself among the stuff." (1 Samuel 10:22)

Israel had desired a king, and God had chosen Saul. But Saul, being afraid, hid himself. How many who have been chosen by God are doing the same thing today? God has called many to do a special work for Him, and large numbers of these "specially called" people are hiding on church pews, while souls are dying, lost eter-

What was Saul afraid of? May I ask the same question of us today what are we afraid of? Some feel that, if only they had received an appointment from their overseer, they could have worked for God this year. When God called us to preach, He said, "Go ye." There are cities, towns and villages everywhere that need to hear the message.

Who will preach it to them, if not those whom God has called? We need to be preaching if we are preachers, not sitting in a local church, crying because the pastor never asks us to saved" (Jeremiah 8:20). Pastors who mine heart as a burning fire shut up have God-called preachers in their churches should not help them hide on a pew. They should be encouraging them to go into other communities, to reach souls and establish new lesson for every God-called preacher. "Now the word of the Lord came unto Jonah the son of Amittai, saying, Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and cry against it; for their wickedness is come up before me" (Jonah 1:1,2). Jonah could have felt some justification for not wanting to go to Nineveh. Nineveh was a great and strong city, and the people were not believers in Jehovah. Nevertheless, God's instructions to Jonah were to go. What did Jonah do? He went in a different direction.

The story of Jonah provides a great

When a great wind arose and everyone on board the ship became afraid, who was not affected by this fear? Jonah. He had gone down into the side of the ship and was asleep.

When a preacher sits down in the local church he will likely go to sleep. But God had someone call to him "What meanest thou, O sleeper? Arise, call upon thy God."

I pray that God will awaken preachers who are now sleeping in the church. Whatever it takes, we must get this message to the world. May God heal hurt feelings and give messages that will cause preachers to say, as did Jeremiah, "But his word was in never allow any hurt to cause us to lose the vision of this great work. Companions of our ministers, go in my bones" (Jeremiah 20:9). We must with them and work with them. I know it may be hard to leave a church in which you are happy, to go out into a mission field. Jonah didn't want to go, but once God got him to the city, with the message, he won that city.

One preacher tried to run away from God. He got on a bus going west. When he arrived at the town to which he was going, as he stepped off the bus, God spoke to him, and said,"I am here also." Where can we hide from God?

"If I ascend up into heaven, thou art there: if I make my bed in hell, behold, thou art there" (Psalm 139:8). Where can we hide? Saul tried to hide, and God told on him: "Behold, he hath hid himself among the stuff."

Stuff may be defined as, any kind of matter; foolish or worthless ideas; junk; nonsense. Preachers, whatever the stuff is that you may be hiding behind, you need to come out and go to work. "Don't hide, but cry out like Isaiah, "Lord, here am I, send me."

BELOW ARE EXCERPTS FROM A NEWS STORY THAT APPEARED IN THE MAY 7TH, 1986 ISSUE OF THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES.

Howell Advises Probe of Bolton's '85 Expenditures

Floyd Fiscal Court should "take much stronger control" of the county clerk's spending and may do well to have the state auditor or attorney-general investigate the clerk's books, an official with the state Department of Local Government wrote in a letter to the county judge-executive last

Al howell, a supervisor in the department, cited as evidence of "questionable" spending a tripling in the cost of supplies for the clerk's office between 1984 and 1985 and a doubling in the cost of office

Although state law requires that items over $7500 be purchased only after advertising for bids, fiscal court minutes show no evidence of bids being taken last year for new equipment in the clerk's office. Howell noted in the April 28 letter which also bears the signatures of state Local Finance Officer Robert L. Purdom and Local Government field representative Dan Tuttle. As a result of the increase in spending fees to be turned over to the county, which add up to only $13,113 for 1985, have dropped off sharply by comparison with recent years. "Thomas Lafferty, Jr. turned in $70,357 over 10 months in 1983, and Bolton herself had $78,039 left over in 1984-and have embarrassed county officials, who drew up this year's budget expecting that they would receive at least $60,000 from the clerk's office in excess fees for 1985, Howell said. The loss of anticipated revenue affects the county as a whole rather than the clerk's office," he

Howell, who was the state official who first raised the questions that resulted in a lengthy state police probe of the 1982 county administration, also suggested that the clerk may be paying her employees more than she is entitled to and may be improperly listing part-time employees as full-time workers for the sake of receiving county paid fringe benefits.

In a telephone interview later, Howell elaborated on the charges, claiming that the jump in expenditures on office supplies-from $20,070 in 1984 to $59,545 in 1985 suggest that the clerk, "just went wild." The cost of office equipment purchases rose from $16,716 to $31,935 over

The auditor or attorney general should be asked to find out who sold the supplies and equipment to the clerk's office, said Howell, who implied that the vendor in many instances would turn out to be Joe Bolton, the clerk's husband.

Although he conceded it was more a matter of concern for Harp Enterprises than for county or state government. Howell raised again allegations initially made by Harp's attorneys several months ago that Joe Bolton was added to the county clerk's payroll while he was still being paid by Harp, a Lexington firm that supplies clerks' offices with ballots and other printed mate-

The clerk acknowledged earlier that she had overlooked state bidding law in making purchases during the past two years, including the purchase of nearly $50,000 worth of microfilming services from a firm represented by her husband. But she said she misunderstood the law until it was explained to her by state auditors last year. While Joe Bolton, then still a Harp employee, worked earlier this year as a $1300a-month deputy clerk, he insisted he was working two jobs, not being paid two salaries for the same hours. He has since been over the past two years," dropped from the clerk's payroll.

In the face of Harp's insistence that he work exclusively for them, Bolton split with his old firm, setting up a rival firm of his own, Kentuckiana Election Service Company. The two firms are apparently competing keenly for business in eastern Kentucky counties, including Floyd.

In March, Harp Enterprises submitted an unprecedented $2077 bid to print ballots and set up election machines for the primary election here this May-elections have traditionally cost three or four times that amount, but Harp claims a newly automated printing plant has cut their costs dramatically-but the county clerk said she had already awarded the election contract to her husband's firm. While no contract price had been agreed on, it would not be cheaper than the price offered by Harp, the clerk acknowledged. "I tried to give an objective report, to tell the county what we recommend," Howell said, adding, "I think the court is probably Of the clerk's claim that the probe was motivated by personal animosity, Howell said,"I think she's grasping at straws. I don't know what they're trying to hide." The state official was especially critical of the clerk's claim that she was ignorant of state bidding laws. I think that's a pretty lame excuse," he said.

"She's been taking the minutes at fiscal court meetings for 4 1/2 years. They do bidding all the time. She's got to have known you have to bid. In any event, ignorance is no excuse for violating state law, Howell said. "It's her responsbility as an elected official to know what the law is. In urging the judge-executive to exercise greater control over the clerk's spending. Howell said, 'It's all county money. I want the fiscal court to say how much she can spend. She can't spend it anyway she wants to. The court should put a lid and cap on it."

BELOW IS A STATEMENT MADE BY JOE BOLTON IN MARCH 29, 1989 ISSUE OF THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES (* 1985 FLOYD COUNTY—Microfilming total cost $9,223.52—Did Not Have To Be Bid Upon.)

In fact, County Clerk, Carla Bolton, gave a company represented by her husband, Joe Bolton, the microfilming Contract which cost the taxpayers nearly $40,000.00. And no bids were sought, which was not in accordance with state law.

Carla claims to have years of experience, but when it comes to purchasing thousands of dollars in supplies and services from her husband, she claims to be ignorant of state bidding laws.

Carla and Joe Bolton, owners of the Kentuckiana Election Service, charged the taxpayers of Floyd County $8,520.00 to service the 1988 General Election, and according to a news article in last week's Floyd County Times, they charged over $5,000.00 to service only 8 precincts in the special wet and dry election held on April 22nd.

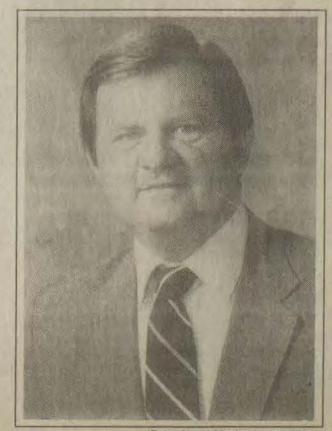

Harp Enterprises, of Lexington, said they could service the whole county for only $2,077.00!

Carla, why does your company charge such high fees for election services? Do you really have the interest of Floyd County at heart?

As your next county clerk, I will see that your tax dollars are managed properly.

Spurlock's Six RBIs Lift Rebs Over Jenkins

by Ed Taylor, Sports Editor

Junior Kevin Spurlock put on a one-man offensive show against Jenkins last week in high school baseball

Spurlock went five for five and knocked in six runs to help the Allen Central Rebels defeat Jenkins, 9-5. Mickey Parsons picked up the win for the Rebels in going all the way and striking out five batters. Parsons also had three hits in the contest. Iim Puckett suffered the loss in spite of having 11 strike outs.

The Rebels scored a first inning run on a base hit by Parsons. Spurlock singled behind him, and Parsons came home to score on a base hit by Kevin Webb.

Jenkins came back with a flurry of runs in their half of the inning, scoring five times to claim a 5-1 lead. Gray led off the home half by being hit by a pitch. After Johnson flew to right, Williams stroked a single to right to score Gray, who had stolen second base. Puckett singled to advance Williams to third. Cassell fanned and Fulton, the designated hitter, singled to left scoring Williams. Dixon reached on a error by Chris Kidd to load the bases. Helton then doubled, clearing the bases for Jenkins. Figger singled to center but Helton was thrown out at the plate by center fielder Pete Castle.

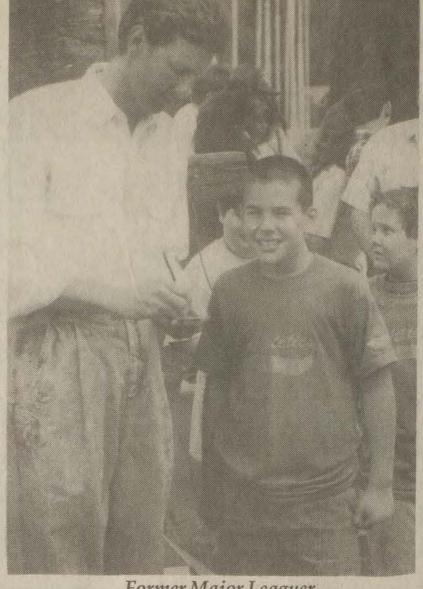

The Rebels got three runs in the second on four hits to cut the lead to 5-4. Kidd lined a single to left. Todd duff followed with a single, and Parsons single loaded the base for the Rebels. Spurlock cleared the bases with a double picking up three RBIs. Parsons held Jenkins scoreless through the second, third, fourth and fifth innings, when the Rebs scored two runs to take a 6-5 lead. Parsons singled and stole second. Spurlock immediately followed with his third hit of the evening and picked up his fourth RBI. Spurlock was caught stealing, and Kevin Webb singled to right and scored on a sacrifice fly to center

In the seventh, Kidd doubled and Duff singled with Kidd stopping at third. Duff stole second and Spurlocks fifth hit brought both runners home for his fifth and sixth RBIs.

Parsons retired the last six batters he faced and the Rebels won, 9-5.

Area Tailwaters To Be Stocked With Trout May 4

As part of the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife annual stocking period, Dewey Lake will be receiving 1,000 trout this Thursday at the spillway, according to Ed Carroll of the Fish and Wildlife Department.

"It's all part of our annual stocking period that runs from April to October," Carroll says. "This is our second stock this year. We (Dewey Lake) will be getting the most of the trout in our area waters because of the water temperature." The waters for stocking cannot exceed 72 degrees, according to Carroll.

The stocking of Dewey Lake is scheduled for Thursday, May 4 at noon. Paintsville Lake will receive 1500 trout at 1:15 p.m., and Fishtrap and Carr Fork also will receive 1500 on Thursday.

The stocking of the trout is made possible by the sale of trout stamps throughout the state.

Extra Innings

It seems like the high school baseball season has just begun. Now, we find ourselves about to be entertained with the 58th District baseball tournament to be held next week at the

Those who have been to the high school games have seen some exciting baseball. This has also been a season of firsts - the first time we have had two lady managers. They have risen to the challenge and have done excellent jobs.

With the district tournament less than a week away, let's look at the teams that will take part.

Allen Central, coached by Donnie Daniels, has had an up-and-down year. They have good hitting, but have been a weak at some of the fielding positions, and errors have helped their opponents score runs. Pitching is good with two strong starters in Mickey Parsons and Kevin Webb. If the Rebels can get their game together, they could play with anyone.

The Rebels will play Wheelwright in the second round of the tournament on Tuesday evening.

"We're pleased with our draw," Daniels said. "You can't take anyone for granted, and we are certainly not taking the Trojans for granted. We would like to go to the regional at Pikeville again. The players are also pleased with the draw."

If Wheelwright or Allen Central wins their first game they will be in the finals of the district, and assured of a trip to Pikeville to play in the 15th Region Tournament.

Coach Junior Newsome's Betsy Layne Bobcats, sporting the district's best record at 16-3, have to be a clear favorite in the tournament. The Bobcats are strong at every position. They have an excellent hitting team, and can hit with power, having already blasted 19 home runs this season. Pitching is strong for the Bobcats. Duran Newsome (3-0) heads a solid oitching staff. Adam Gearheart, Keith Hall, and the relief work of Todd Akers makes them strong. The Bobcats make few mistakes on the field. Betsy Layne will take on the McDowell Daredevils in the first game Monday evening. McDowell, under first-year coach Cassandra Keathley, has the talent to play with any team in the district.

"Our pitching has been the question mark for us," Keathley reports. "If we were more consistent in the pitching department, we would be

McDowell can boast of one of the district's bright prospects in senior MikeMcQuate. McQuate is steady in the outfield and knows how to play the position. He is a solid bona fide hitter. With the addition of Rady Martin and Keith Shelton, perhaps the Daredevils have found some of the much-needed pitching help they require. Russell Shepherd's Prestonsburg Blackcats will be waiting in the wings to play the winner of the McDowell-Betsy Layne contest, If the Bobcats are victorious over the Daredevils, a Betsy Layne-Prestonsburg matchup on Wednesday evening could be a good one. Prestonsburg is also a team loaded with talent. Strong pitching is one of the Blackcats' strengths, Thomas Nairn, Todd Justice, Tim Trusty, and Jason Storey form a solid staff. Consistent hitting has been a prob-lem for the Blackcats this season, but they've shown signs of coming around to expectations. The Black-cats, like the Bobcats, are a power hitting team. Justice, Nairn, Trusty and Stuart Robinson can hit the long Sorry we couldn't show you the more than 40,000 patients treated at Highlands last year.

So, what would you say to some photos of the nurses who treated them?

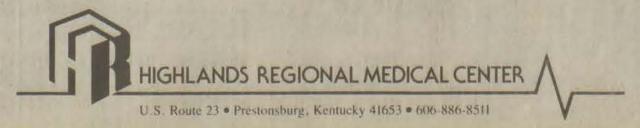

Thanks, Nurses

40,000 patients. Figure it out, That's more people than the combined populations of Prestonsburg, Paintsville, Pikeville, Salversville, Hazard, Inez, Louisa and Williamson.

Without our nurses, there would be no Highlands Regional Medical Center. Without Highlands, where would 40,000 sick and injured people go? And at what cost in terms of dollars and lives?

We owe our nurses a big debt of gratitude, and National Nurses' Day seems like a good time to say it. Nursing is a huge job that takes a special kind of person. Tough, intelligent, alert, well trained and hard working. It's a great career that keeps on getting better.

WHS Students Work With Hamsters In Class

by Connie Henderson and Marsha Wilson

Two Wheelwright High School college prep students, Connie Henderson and Marsha Wilson, have begun working with two hamsters as part of their classwork.

The hamsters were purchased in early April when the biology class, taught by Doris Osborne, visited a pet store in Prestonsburg. Money for this and other projects being created by students was provided as part of the Floyd County Writing Across the Curriculum program. Students are keeping learning logs about the work they do on each project.

The students have named the two male hamsters Archimedes and Algernon, and said they enjoy taking care of the hamsters and watching them play.

As part of the project, one of the two had to agree to care for the hamsters during summer vacation, which Henderson has agreed to do.

The students said they hope the school offers a Biology II class next year so they can continue the project.

TO THE VOTERS OF DIST. 2 FLOYD CO:

My name is Kenneth Roberts, I am running for Magistrate of Dist. 2, Floyd Co. I served you 12 years as constable and 12 years as magistrate. I did everything I could do for you in both offices. I have read in the paper "keep up progress." You people that live in Sage Allen branch used to travel the creek bed for a road. I built you a road around the face of a mountain and a rock cliff. Now you have a road you can travel out of the creek and even take house trailers up the hollow. In Howard branch, you people also traveled the creek for a road. I built you all a road around the face of a mountain and got you up out of the water on a dry road.

In Oklahoma hollow, part of your road was also in the creek. You had to bust ice before you could get out. I also built that road out of the creek.

People in Salvers branch remember how the road was on the curve where the school bus hauled your children. One outside wheel of the bus hanging over as it traveled the road having your children in danger. I built a long concrete wall and filled in the road, making it wider for vehicles to travel on even house trailers.

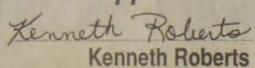

At the Allen park, the pool had never been open, I built a road away from the steps of the building down beside of the railroad so the children wouldn't be in danger. I worked about 2 months, seven days a week, landscaping so the pool could be opened up.

People in Dwale, I worked down there doing what I could, putting in culverts trying to drain water off your road. The gas company furnished the pipe that I laid from the road to the river for drain lines.

I had roads graded, graveled and put red dog on. Some of the streets and roads had not been black topped since John May was magistrate, this is a matter of record.

In Maytown and Wayland, I black topped some of the streets. In Henry's branch people couldn't get all the way home if not for grading and graveling the roads. When I was elected magistrate, I did these things. I don't know of any road being built since then. If I am elected back as your magistrate, I will do all I can for the people of Dist. 2 as I did in the past. I will be a full time magistrate. I won't have 2 jobs. Do you people think a dentist is going to give up what he makes for a magistrate's job? There is a lot of difference in pulling teeth or filling one than building a road around the face of a mountain. Do you think he could give you people justice?

Your support and influence will be appreciated.

Biology Students At WHS Set Up Salt Water Aquarium

by Stephen Branham and Angie Branham In the first semester of this school year, the Wheelwright college prep bology class received items to set up a salt water aquarium, donated by the Kentucky Department of Education.

After Thanksgiving, students began to prepare the aquarium, and in January, the class purchased fish, coral, a thermometer and a mural. Since then, the students have bought a heater from lab fees, and students have donated other items.

Recently, the class went on a field trip to Prestonsburg, purchasing three fish ranging from $3 to $15, as well as other supplies

The biology students said they hope a Biology II class will be added to the schedule next year, and hope they can continue to work with the aquarium project to learn more about marine biology

While on my way back to France, I casually strolled through a few different cultures. When I arrived in Paris, there was a lovely little gazebo

When I went into the shop, I discovered it adjoined a small French beauty salon. I worked my way into the streets of France, and noticed a cafe, complete with the smell of freshbaked bread, sweets and ground coffee. Everything was so romantic, I kept thinking to myself, "I wonder what it would be like to live like this

YOU'RE WELL EQUIPPED TO DETECT A GAS LEAK.

Fortunately, natural gas leaks are rare. But if one should occur, you have everything it where a gas line is located, a leak may cause: takes to spot the telltale signs...the ability to see, hear and smell.

INSIDE

The most obvious sign is the smell. Natural gas by itself usually is odorless, so gas companies add a distinctive odor to gas.

If you smell this telltale odor in your home, don't use matches, electrical switches or appliances. Leave the house immediately, then call the gas company from a neighbor's home or pay telephone. Remain near your home until a gas company representative arrives and checks the cause of the odor.

OUTSIDE

You may detect a natural gas leak anywhere gas lines or facilities are located. Sometimes, the sign may be the odor. But in rural areas, natural gas pipelines may contain non-odorized gas. A leak of non-scented gas means little or no odor will be present. So count on your other senses as well.

Look or listen for these signs. Any-

- · a blowing or hissing sound
- dirt being blown into the air · water bubbling or being blown into the air at a pond, creek or river

- · brown patches in vegetation on or near a gas line right-of-way
- · fire coming from the ground or burning

If you detect any sign of a leak, follow these steps quickly: 1) shut down any motorized equipment or other sources of ignition in use; 2) leave the area at once, and warn others to stay away; and 3) find a telephone away from the area to call the gas company, and the fire and police departments. DO NOT try to extinguish a gas fire or operate any pipeline valves.

Chances are you'll never need to recognize a natural gas leak. But just in case, we think it's important for you to be able to detect signs of trouble. Together, we'll keep natural gas service safe and efficient.

Credit For KET Classes Given By Ashland College

Registration is underway at Ashland Community College for summer semester telecourses broadcast

Since 1978, Kentucky colleges and universities have totaled nearly 30,000 enrollments for KET telecourses, according to Mary Olson, KET spokeswoman.

The courses are fully accredited college-level courses. Just as with oncampus classes, students have text-books, professors, assignments, tests and tuition. The primary difference—and what makes the telecourses so convenient—is that the majority of classes are broadcast on KET, said Olson.

The summer telecourse broadcast season begins June 5. The curriculum, which may differ by college and university, include American Government Survey, which studies theories and principles of the governmental system; Computer Works, which is a computer studies survey; Faces of Culture, an introduction to cultural anthropology; and The Write Course, freshman English composition.

KET will also offer "The Middle

R.D. "DOC" MARSHALL MAGISTRATE DISTRICT 2

"WAKE UP"-"STAND UP" FOR FLOYD COUNTY

I address this article to all of my supporters, new acquaintances, and to those of you who desperately want a change, but have voiced your committment to another candidate. This campaign has been one that continues to inspire within me a desire to search unending for answers to your questions. Improvements are being done as usual to areas that should have been improved 3 1/2 years ago. I hope and pray that this political means of securing your vote will only give you more SOLID PROOF that it is PAST TIME to make a change.

I have never felt so strong about committing myself to you (people of Dist. 2) and desiring to cast my vote toward that, which will better not only Dist. 2, but all of Floyd Co. I am a Floyd Countian, just like you, and to tell you the truth, I am sick and tired of my county being put down and counted out. There is an old saying, "Kick a dog long enough, and he will bite back." Friends, that time is at hand and with your support we can bite back.

I am not running against anyone as such; I am running for an elective office that represents the people. I have no personal vindictiveness against any candidate. My zeal for this office is to demonstrate to the people what can be done as to what hasn't been done.

We are only three weeks away from deciding who will be your candidate to support in this Democratic Primary election. This has been a long race, but I feel like I have just gotten my "Second Wind" and with your vote and support, we will cross the finish line first; however, the true winner will be yourself.

FIRST AID

First aid is the immediate, temporary care given to a sick or injured person before medical help is obtained. In cases such as heart attack, poisoning, or severe bleeding, immediate assistance may be lifesaving. Persons trained in first aid techniques are able to assess the nature and extent of an emergency and know what needs to be done. At least one member of each family should attend a course in first aid or CPR, and ever household should have a first aid kit and manual. The first aid kit should contain various types of bandaging materials including gauze pads and tape as well as adhesive bandages. Hydrogen peroxide and an antibiotic ointment are used to clean and treat minor scrapes, cuts and burns. Sterile cotton and cotton swabs are needed for cleaning wounds and applying antiseptics.

"A MAGISTRATE FOR THE PEOPLE"

James "Bub" Reynolds is a lifelong resident of Left Beaver Creek. He grew up here; he went to school here; he has chosen to live his life here. Bub meets with the people every day; he knows their concerns and he knows that the Floyd County Fiscal Court can address the concerns of the people. The magistrate is a member of the Floyd County Fiscal Court. The Fiscal Court makes all policy decisions for Floyd Co. What roads get fixed; what communities get recreational parks; how the garbage trucks run and where; and other major items that contribute to your quality of life are decided on by the Fiscal Court and voted on by your Representative on the court, your Magistrate.

HOUSING-----A MAJOR NEED THAT WE MUST MEET IN FLOYD COUNTY!! One of the foremost desires of all our people is available, affordable housing. Sadly, in most of our areas, the depressed coal economy has put this dream beyond the reach of most of our people. This doesn't have to be.

Bub Reynolds is a candidate for magistrate in District 3 with a plan to assist our people to obtain home ownership. "We must stop thinking in traditional ways about housing. Our people need a place to call their own and one that they can "own". County Government has a role to play here. We can sell low interest bonds with long term payments, it's been done before, we need to do it again. We need to turn our attention to creating "model" mobile and modular home parks, complete with roadways, water and sewer services, where our people can purchase home/garden lots through low interest county bond money. We need to look at low cost "starter" homes for our young people and multi-family units for our elderly. We must not allow the "dream" of home ownership to die.

Bub Reynolds—An appreciation of our past and a plan for our future through creative partnerships with the people. That's a solid plan and that's what we need to represent District 3 on the Floyd County Fiscal Court. With your help, District 3 in Floyd County can begin to make aggressive progress. Vote for Bub Reynolds and let's get moving...

RE-ELECT

NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT-NO. 1 FOR THE PEOPLE TO ANSWER MR. JEFF SCOTT'S AD FROM LAST WEEK'S PAPER:

Mr. Jeff Scott, in last week's paper you said that "at no time has the name of Mr. Owens been mentioned either in our letters or in the petition". You just flat lied Mr. Jeff Scott because I can tell you the date you did mention my name not counting the times that your letters or petitions talked about the CURRENT Magistrate which is me.

You also said you have only seen the bushhog one time during my term and if it ran any other time it must have been at night because no one has seen it but one time. Mr. Jeff Scott, I'm glad to hear you admit that you didn't get slighted with the bushhog, because everybody in my district has only seen this machine one time. This special bushhog was bought in September 1988 (approx. 8 months ago) to be used from district to district COUNTY WIDE and it went to Dist. 1 first then to Dist. 3 and then I received it in Dist. 2. We cut EVERY ROAD in my district from Allen to Wayland that we could get the machine (due to it's width) we kept the bushhog until we had covered ALL my Districts from Allen to Wayland. This machine is now in Dist. 4 so there's no use in sitting up at night looking for it. If you want to see it, I'd suggest you go over to Dist. 4. Mr. Scott, you said that Dist. 2 ought to have a "Yes man" for Magistrate sometimes. I don't think that Dist. 2 ought to have a "Yes Man" in the courthouse at all. I saw your article that you put in the paper last week that was taken from a "paid advertisement" printed in the Floyd County Times A YEAR AND A HALF ago signed by Magistrate's Gerald DeRossett, Edward Caudill, and Ermal Tackett. So I will just answer it with the SAME ad that I answered it with A YEAR AN HALF AGO.

REPLY FROM OWENS-TAKEN FROM FLOYD COUNTY TIMES NOV. 11, 1987 This was my reply THEN to the article and this is my reply to you Mr. Jeff Scott.

They made it sound like I've never helped the fire departments any. These three magistrates try to take credit for everything. When it comes to the fire departments, they act like they have done so much. When the Firefighters Association had their meeting at Garth and they advertised for all county officials to please attend—at the first meeting I attended. I was the only county official there to listen to their problems. During all meetings, thereafter, I have never seen DeRossett, Caudill, or Tackett's face at these meetings to hear their needs. When the Allen Fire Dept. had problems with their fire tax and fleet insurance—I was there and the other three were not. When Terry Triplett form the Garrett Fire Dept. came to the Fiscal Court and asked for the fire trucks to be put on the county fleet insurance—I asked the Fiscal court to give them $30,000 out of the million dollars that we had in the bank so they could buy their own insurance. This motion died for a lack of a second. When the Middle Creek Fire Dept. had their problems recently, with no money to operate on, they attended the Fiscal Court meeting and asked the members to attend their first meeting to hear their problems—I was the only magistrate to attend this meeting. People, everybody would love to take credit for the hard work I've done in District 2. Yes, I have voted NO on a lot of monthly bills to be paid, but if you see one item on the monthly bills that you feel is not right or that you think is outrageously high, you cannot single it out. You have to vote YES or NO to pay ALL the monthly bills. For instance, our tast month's bill totaled over $450,000. This is only one month's bills. People I'm not voting to pay bills when I'm not sure were they went. As we all know three out of four magistrates got into trouble last term due to bill paying procedures. This is also the monthly bills along with Tackett voted to let surrounding counties bring their garbage into Floyd County.

People, this is how it is. Don't believe this garbage about me being is wrong or if I don't know where the money is going-I'm voting NO. Some counties get their agenda and their bills out to the magistrates 15 days before the meeting so they can check on what's being spent and where it went. It only takes three votes to pay the monthly bills. I don't mind letting these other three magistrates stick their necks out and pay the bills because if something is wrong-It will be their hide-Not mine.

P.S.-As you probably have noticed my election is 1 1/2 years off. My opponents have already started to campaign against me and spread rumors. There are so many people taking credit for the work we're getting done in Dist. 2. The only thing I can tell you is pat them on the back, tell them you sure appreciate what they are doing for you and just remember how much has changed in the two years since I have been your magistrate. If it's wrong-I'm voting no. If it's right-I'm voting yes. I'll stand up for you 100%. Come to the Fiscal Court meetings and see for yourself. Every time I vote against paying the bills, I am voting against paying myself.

P.S. Jeff, from what I've heard, I don't feel like YOU actually footed the bill of around $160.00 for the ad last week against me-Although you may have gone in and paid for it at the Floyd County Times. I feel like this is just another "Political Trick" to try to cut votes off be. I invite anyone to drive over Mr. Scott's road in No. 6 camp. (You don't have to take a 4 wheel drive-take a cadillac-it won't drag.)

Realtors Advised On Range Of Disclosure, Liability Issues

A "Town Hall Forum" during the National Association of Realtors' Midyear Conference and Trade Exhibition in Washington recently looked closely at real estate disclosure strategies, on matters ranging from agency

The forum, titled "Positive Strategies for Real Estate Disclosure Issues," provided discussion of various disclosure issues of concern to brokers

A panel of experts representing a broad range of perspectives, including Los Tyrrell, a member of the Nebraska Real Estate Commission and president of the National Association of Real Estate License Law Officials; California Commissioner Jim Edmunds, president-elect of NARELLO; NAR Senior Counsel Ralph Holmen and the government affairs directors form two state associations, Robert Nash of Massachusetts and Alex Creel of California, were speakers at the session.

"Agents and sellers have a responsibility to disclose what they know about a property," Holmen said.

Though disclosing what one ownsabout a property may seem on Students Digest knows about a property may seem on the surface like a relatively simple responsibility, in actuality, it is significantly more complex, he said.

For example, while disclosure of material facts is uniformly required, the manner in which that disclosure must occur varies from state to state. Some states, such as California, have established a structured disclosure approach, whereas others like Massachusetts use a flexible approach to the disclosure process.

Creel explained that the California Association of Realtors initially followed a voluntary approach like that of Massachusetts. However, later, CAR devised a disclosure form for brokers to use, believing its members would be better off with a more structured approach.

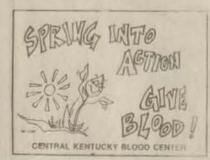

CAR then pushed to have use or the disclosure form required by law The form is completed by the seller and delivered to the buyer by the broker. Disclosure laws in California also require that a broker conduct a reasonably competent and diligent visual inspection. That requirement has been statutorily clarified to spell outexactly whata broker is required.

Nash, who is with the Massachusetts Association of Realtors, advocates a voluntary and more liberal approach to disclosure, stating, "We are very hesitant to mandate a specific disclosure form requirement that could untainly burden some of our members. In Massachusetts, we have a history of not liking to be told what to do - realtors are no different in "The requirement of disclosing all known defects, which prevails and tionwide, is sufficient. Any more specific disclosure requirement should be done on a state-by-state or local basis," he added.

"The vast majority of problems originate in the listing of the property. In many instances, sellers an failing to give brokers important in formation about property," Nest

"A voluntary approach in some ways may be more workable," Holmen said. The use of a form is effective so long as the broker does not limit his focus to items that are listed on the form. The potential weakness of using a form is that a broker might neglect to give attention to important factors relating to problems that may not be listed on the form," he said.

Also, because of changing technology, aspects of the property that are important to the buyer may not be included on the form, and thus possibly overlooked. Holmen said, "For example, while radon is now recognized as a potential hazard, years ago it was virtually unknown. Tyrrell stated that most NARELLO members consider disclosure "just another part of the game." But, agency disclosure, in particular, is an issue that is best dealt with from a structured, rather than voluntary, ap-position regarding disclosure.

Tyrrell warned Realtors regarding disclosure of information on which they have little or no knowledge, "you could get your self into big tory," he added.

Another topic, discussed during the forum, was the issue of disclosure of stigmatized, or psychologically impacted, property. "It's a problem that is growing and there are no clear statutes or guidelines in this area," Holmen said

In essentially the only decided case to date, the court suggested that a "psychological factor," the fact that a murder had occurred on the propcrty, had to be discussed if it could be shown to have an impact on the value of the property.

The question was raised as to whether there should be a different disclosure approach with physical > Thus, more caution is necessary, since other considerations affect the difficult question as to whether a broker should be required to disclose psychological factors," he said .

"In fact," Holmen continued, under the new amendments to the Fair Housing Law, individuals with AIDS are defined as handicapped, and thus within that newly protected class. A broker could be accused of discrimination if he discloses information regarding a previous occu-pant with AIDS." On the other hand, Holmen explained, some might take the view that a broker has an obligation to disclose this sort of information to a buyer.

Other issues, such as disclosure of previous activity in a home, were debated. "Drug activity is another source of difficult questions to wrestle with. The broker should focus on disclosure of those facts that the buyer is likely to judge important to his decision to buy the property, or the price he is willing to pay," Holmen

In a case where there is prior drug activity in a home, although it would depend on the specific circumstances, Holmen said, he did not believe it was absolutely necessary to disclose that information to the buyer. Once the drug activity was eliminated, the desirability of the property, probably, would not be adversely affected. Creel disagreed, noting that prior drug activity might be indicative of continuing problems in the neigh-borhood. Put yourself in the shoes of the home buyer," he said. "If you were the home buyer, wouldn't you want to know about prior drugactivity that took place?'

Nash indicated that it is important to listen to the specific concerns of home buyers, "We need to be very careful about making mandatory requirements too hastily. Often times what the media and law makers deem to be critical issues, are of no, or little, concern to the home buyer," he said.

"Let's not burden brokers with unnecessary mandatory disclosure requirements," he added.

How Does Your Garden Grow?

How a garden grows is among the bits of knowledge a group of youngsters at Wheelwright Youth Center are picking up this spring. Director Katie Newsome is helping the young people to raise onions, lettuce and other vegetables on the small plot at the center. Newsome said many of the children have never helped with a garden before and are excited over this opportunity. The youngsters, she said, cleared rocks from the piece of ground before it was plowed and then they planted the seeds. They will tend the garden until the vegetables are ready to be included in the center's dinner menu.

Mowing Season Can Be Safe With Some Safety Precautions

With an estimated 1,600 mowerrelated injuries occurring in Kentucky last year, state safety officials remind Kentuckians that more care needs to be taken during the annual mowing

Since 1981, an estimated-average of 1,400 mower-related injuries occur every year in the state. People ages 25-64 account for the majority of these injuries, with an estimated average of 700 annually. The figures are based on emergency room data from a random sampling of several Kentucky hospitals. The numbers do not include injuries treated by private physicians or clinics.

E.P. Conyers, consumer product safety branch manager in the Department for Health Services, says that complacency can bring about acci-

"A lot of people look at lawn mowing as something that they dread and just want to hurry up and finish," he said, "so they might be apt to take some short cuts and wind up with an injury. Or, they might just not have their mind on what they're doing at that particular moment.

"Many types of injuries can happen while mowing," he said, "The most obvious, of course, are cuts to the hands and feet. But other sinclude burns from touching hot machine parts, and wounds from items thrown from the machine."

Three major safety features, required on walking mowers since 1982, should be left intact and not modified, according to Conyers. New machines have safety shields on the back of the mower so that feet won't go under the mower while pushing. Discharge chutes have been designed so that rocks sticks and are thrown down toward the ground rather than up and out. A most important feature is the blade kill, or "dead-man," switch on newer mod-

"This switch stops the blade within three seconds of the operator letting go of the handle," said Conyers. "So if you stop to clear the discharge chute, the blade stops automatically, thereby saving your hands and fingers from possibleamputation."

Most riding mowers also have blade kill switches, but they are not required for riding models. Convers advises anyone with an older machine without a blade kill switch to be extremely careful when cleaning the discharge chute.

"Never, never clean out the discharge chute with the blade revolving," he said. "Wait until it stops completely, or you could end up with a severed hand or fingers."

Many general precautions apply to both walking and riding mower safety, but Conyers offers tips especially important for owners of riding

"Do not let children operate them - they are not fun vehicles; they are serious machines and children have no business using them," he said. "Kidsalso should not ride with adults on the mowers - they're balanced for one person, and even a small child can disrupt that balance."

Operators of riding mowers should always check behind them before backing up, to make sure there are no children or pets in the way, Convers says. And riding mowers other items picked up by the blades should go up and down slopes, rather close-fitting clothes while mowing. than across, to prevent tipping over.

Cancer Hopeline

Question: My husband is having a problem with his bowels, but refuses to see a doctor. He's afraid he has cancer and says if he does, he won't have one of those colostomies anyway, so what's the point of going through all those tests. What can I say to convince him to take care of him-

Answer: First, it is important to recognize that the warning signs of bowel cancer mean only that cancer could be present. A change in bowel habits, or blood in the stool, can be symptoms of problems other than cancer, such as colitis, irritable bowel or hemorrhoids. Since these conditions are treatable, and not treating them can make a person quite uncomfortable, it is wise to have them checked out.

The tests your husband is reluctant to undergo, while they can be unpleasant, are not painful and usually don't require a lot of time. Most can be performed in a doctor's office, or at your local clinic. Generally, the first step is a digital exam in which the doctor inserts a gloved, lubricated finger into the rectum to feel for any lumps and check for the presence of blood. This exam is recommended on a yearly basis for people over the age of 40, even if they are not having any symptoms. Next may be a proctoscopic exam, in which a hollow, lighted tube, called a sigmoidoscope, is used to examine the rectum and part of the colon. If nothing is found on these exams, the doctor may decide to look further with a lower GI (gastrointestinal) x-ray. For this test, a thick solution of barium, that flows into the bowel through an enema tube, will highlight any abnormal areas. If there is a need to look still further, the doctor may do a colonoscopy, in which the entire length of the colon can be examined through a thin flexible, lighted tube called a colonscope.

If a tumor is discovered, surgery is generally the first line of treatment. Often the tumor can be removed and the ends of the intestine rejoined so that the bowel, although somewhat shorter, will function normally. Sometimes a temporary colostomy may be created to allow the bowel to heal thoroughly before rejoining the ends. About 85 percent of patients with colon or rectal cancers never need to have a permanent colostomy. It is important to note that early detection is one factor that can reduce the chances of needing a colostomy.

A colostomy is a surgically created opening in the abdomen, through which a small portion of the bowel extends. This opening, called a stoma, is the new route by which waste material leaves the body. Many people with a colostomy wear a reusable bag over the stoma to collect the waste. These bags are not noticeable under clothing, and they have special seals so there is no odor. Other colostomates prefer to irrigate their bowels every day. This is a procedure much like an enema, in which all the waste products are flushed out with warm water. Then a small pad is placed over the stoma to protect and absorb any leaks.

Many people have learned to manage their colostomies with very little disruption in their lives. Nurses with special training in ostomies, called enterostomal therapists, can teach patients how to take care of themselves. There are also groups of people with ostomies, such as the United Ostomy Association, who meet to talk and exchange tips on caring for their ostomies. Most ostomies are able to continue doing all the things they enjoyed before their surgeries, including sports, social and sexual activities. While having an ostomy does change someone's life in some ways, it can be a small price to pay for being healthy and cancer-

MAGISTRATE DIST 3

#12 on the Ballot

TO THE PEOPLE OF DISTRICT THREE:

Election time is drawing near and it is a time we should be thankful, because we, as citizens, have the right to vote.

I am proud to be an American. I care deeply about my country and especially about our section of eastern Kentucky. I am a veteran of World War II. I served in the army for seven years and fought on foreign soil in France and Germany. After battle in France, I was awarded the Bronze Star. I did not dodge my duty then and I will not dodge my duty now if elected as your magistrate.

I am interested in many issues that concern our district. The garbage clean up effort we've seen is great but we must now be ready to enforce our litter laws and stop the problem at its source. Left Beaver needs passing lanes on the road from Wheelwright to Martin. The people in Ligon and Drift Hollow need good clean tap water and the people of Frasure Creek and Neds Fork also deserve the same consideration.

If I am elected magistrate, I will do everything in my power to help this come about. We need roads and bridges that are safe for our children.

nent or it may not be."

Assistant Editor

Like stepping back in time, one crosses the railroad tracks and a dirt parking lot, go up the wooden steps to the long porch with square pillars. A rusting thermometer advertising L&M cigarettes is on the wall next to the big display window full of green

Through the black screen door, visitors enter the first floor of the twostory building, topped with a long 7-Up sign that says "The Home Store." The oak floor is dulled with applications of oil. A box of sturdy-looking brooms, the kind used by serious sweepers, is near the entrance.

To the right is a rack of clothes, most of them for practical folks. On a shelf above the clothes are yellowed boxes of shoes.

The bright walls are decorated with calendars and a clock from suppliers and distributors. On the ceiling is the outline of a round patch indicating where the vent for the potbellied coal stove once went.

To complete the picture, behind the cash register on the glass-topped counter, is a white-haired lady with smooth skin and laugh lines aplenty.

Mary Jane Hall, who proudly admits to being "76 and a half," has for 30 years. She and her late husband, Lawrence, bought the store dropped except for her "old custom-close when school is out this spring.

Then she hesitates. "It may be permaband, Lawrence, bought the store from his sister, who built it in 1941.

A few things have changed since that time, but not too many to destroy the ambiance of the old-time general store. More modern freezers have been put to use, but the old slide-top pop cooler remains. The space for dry goods and hardware has gotten smaller in favor of expanded racks for chips and snack foods.

Business is not as brisk as it was before cars and supermarkets claimed the trade and before children w picked up at their door by

Hall fondly remembers when youngsters from surrounding hollows gathered at the store to wait for the bus. "Those are my best memories, when all the kids would come in," she says. "They had to walk here to catch the bus and I always let them in early to get warm."

Today, Melvin Elementary School is next to the store, and the children walk straight to it or are bused to the door. The children can get the chips, candy and pop, which have become the staple for many, in vending machines inside the school.

During the early years, most of Hall's customers charged their puroperated The Home Store in Melvin chases, a practice she has all but help after his workday as a mine electrician was over, Hall provided delivery service to the customers' doors. She's had to give up that luxury, as Hall remains the neighborhood plant doctor and information center.

"When neighbors have a plant they can't do anything with, they bring it and put it in the window," she says, pointing to the assorted greenery in the picture windows.

"They say plants'll do well if you talk to them," she continues, her hand raking back a swatch of loose hair. " Well, I don't have to talk to them. They get to hear a lot of talk in here

The phone rings. A neighbor calls to ask a question. Hanging up the phone, which is also connected to her upstairs apartment, she laughs. "I'm the information center. I get so tickled. If the power goes off, they call from the head of the hollow to see if I've called the power company.'

Her two daughters, both of whom live in other states, have encouraged Hall to close the store. And for the past several years, the 10-time greatgrandmother has threatened to do

At first, she proclaims that she will cheery, an obvious labor of love.

"I guessit's just something to keep Despite the old look of the store, me busy," she smiles. "It keeps me from getting old and stiff."

If Hall does finally decide to close, another memory of youth and vibrancy will fade for people who remember The Home Store and thousands of bygone home stores.

Ringing It Up

The owner of The Home Store in Melvin, Mary Jane Hall, rings up a sale on old cash register that came with the store when she bought it three decades ago. The popularity of the one-stop, small community store has faded with the advent of giant supermarkets, discount stores and hurry-up lives.

Mother's Day often makes us nostalgic for those great home-cooking meals we may have grown up with. But today's health conscious cooking, cutting back on fat, cholesterol and calories, doesn't mean forgoing those familiar tastes. Many can be easily modified to make them lower in fat or higher in fiber. Some suggestions from the American Institute for Cancer Research include:

- In meat dishes, try replacing some, or all, the meat with vegetables and/or legumes. - Substitute lowfat dairy products for higher fat varieties; skim for whole milk; plain, lowfat yogurt for sour cream; evaporated skim milk for

- Replace some of all enriched flour in recipes with whole wheat

Use about one-half to threefourths the amount of fat called for in baked goods recipes.

 Use fruit toppings on desserts instead of whipped cream or frost-

-Substitute brown rice for white Here's a delicious high fiber, low fat bread that may remind readers of

Mom's kitchen. ZUCCHINI BREAD

3 eggs 1 cup sugar

1 Tbsp vanilla

1/4 cup oil 1 tsp. cinnamon

2 cups raw zucchini (about 2 large zucchini), grated 1 tsp. baking soda

1 Tosp baking powder

2 cups whole wheat flour I cup old-fashioned oatmeal

Beat the eggs until foamy in a mixing bowl, then add the sugar, vanilla, oil and cinnamon. Sift together the baking powder, soda and Fold the flour mixture, oatmeal and grated zucchini into the egg mixture. Mix well.

Turn into lightly greased loaf pans (about 5x9 inch pans) and bake at 350 degrees for one to one and a half hours, or until done. Remove from the pan and cool on a rack before Yields two loaves, slice into twelves, each slice contains 3 grams of fat and about 112 calories.

Here's a microwave version of a simple stir-fry recipe that's quick and easy, but very nutritious. ORIENTAL

1/4 tsp. ground ginger In a two-quart, microwave-safe casserole dish, combine the green onions, celery, bell pepper, carrots and margarine. Cover and microwave on full power for three minutes: drain. Stir in the snow peas, bean sprouts and mushrooms. Cover again and microwave on full power for two

Stir, cover and microwave two or three more minutes until vegetables are tender-crisp; drain. Mix soy sauce and ginger and pour over the vegetables. Microwave at full power for one minute.

Yields four servings, I gram fat and 150 calories each. If readers have recently found they've joined a growing number of consumers who have found that this versatile meat is not just for Thanksgiving. The availability of turkey in a variety of cuts has made it easier to include in daily menu planning.

Ground turkey usually contains about 7 to 15 percent fat, fresh contains less than frozen, and white meat less than dark. Substituting ground turkey for regular ground beef, which is 25 to 30 percent fat, will help reduce dietary fat.

Ground turkey also adds an interesting new flavor to simple favorites, like burgers, meatloaf, chili and tacos, your family is unlikely to even notice the difference. And, since good health starts with children, here's one the kids are sure to love.

TIDYTOMS 2 lbs. ground turkey

I large onion, diced 1 10 1/2 oz. can tomato soup 1 10 1/2 oz. can chicken gumbo

1 to 2 tsp. chili powder 1/4 tsp. pepper 12 whole wheat buns

In a frying pan brown the ground turkey and onion. Drain off any fat in the pan. Add the undiluted soups and spices to the meat mixture and simmer over a low heat for 45 to 60 minutes to allow flavors to blend. Spoon over the buns and serve.

Yields 12 sandwiches, each with no more than 10 grams of fat and about 264 calories.

To learn more about how to reduce dietary fat while still enjoying good food, send for a free copy of "All About Fat and Cancer Risk." To receive your copy, send a stamped, selfaddressed, business size envelope to American Institute for Cancer Research, Dept. FC, Washington, D.C. 20069.

HOROSCOPE

May 7 through May 13

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

This is your week to shine. Let go of the negative and let the good times flow. You may even rediscover and old love. Things will work out fine, don't worry about money.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

You are continuing to grow stronger each day. Gemini's split personality will become quite useful this week when entertaining.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Legal problems will work in your favor. If you are offended by actions taken by others, let them know. Do something fun with friends from work. A job opportunity may arise.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

Steer clear of Tauruses this month. This sign will only cause trouble for the stubborn Leo. A trip with friends, or family is just around the corner.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

You have worked hard for what you've got and you deserve it. You have been given a chance to start over, take advantage of that fact and live life to its fullest.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

Someone close to you is driving you crazy about money. Tell them everything is OK, and it will be. Take great strides to improve your appearance this week.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

Follow an authority figure's advice and take care of financial matters promptly. Others will notice your improvement in the work environment.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21) Choose your friends and enemies wisely. This is a week of walking on eggshells. Have patience; these hard times will CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19) They say people can't change, but they're wrong. You've got the stuff to change your entire life. Take one step at a time. This is a powerful week for you.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

A sibling may be jealous of your wonderful possessions. Don't let them get you down. Your instinctual nature of knowing what makes people tick will come into play.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Responsibilities seem overwhelming, but you've got what it takes to see things through. A relative that is trying to convince you of something is misinformed.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

A complicated family matter will be resolved in the next few weeks. Keep your sense of humor in all matters. Take a short trip with someone you love.

Holocaust draws near in 'War and Remembrance'

Role is special to Jane Seymour

By Mary Ann Townsend

The final chapters of War and Remembrance, Herman Wouk's World War II epic, begin Sunday, May 7, with the last episode airing Sunday, May 14.

War and Remembrance is the continuation of The Winds of War, which aired on ABC in Feburary of 1983. Both miniseries personalize the events surrounding World War II by dramatizing the effect of those incidents on one American family.

The family was that of Victor "Pug" Henry, a career Navy officer whose personal integrity made him an unofficial envoy for President Franklin D. Roosevelt in Europe during the darkening days of the 1930s.

War and Remembrance which aired in November of last year, took up where Winds left off, with Pug (Robert Mitchum) at the helm of a Navy cruiser during Pearl Harbor. When the second miniseries ended last fall, Pug was juggling his career with his crumbling marriage to Rhoda (Polly Bergen) and his estrangement from his son, Byron (Hart Bochner).

Byron's wife, Natalic (Jane Seymour), has just realized the horror that is about to befall her. Having joined her uncle Aaron (John Gielgud) in Italy to help him in his scholarly research, she soon learned that American citizenship was no protection for her, her infant son and her uncle when they attempt to escape the Holocaust.

The role of Jewish-born Natalie held a special significance for the British

Although her father is Jewish, Seymour said she never really had any religious base, so she identified with her character who, throughout the miniseries, discovers her Jewish heritage.

"For the first time, I felt Jewish," Seymour said as she recalled singing her father a song she learned for the part which he hadn't heard since he was a child. "I felt enormous pride for being in this," she said. "It was a story that should be told."

The role also meant more to her since her own mother was in a Japanese concentration camp in Indonesia during the war.

"Although she never talked to me very much about it, when I started researching the role, she really opened up and told me a great deal about what that experience was like for her," Seymour said. "I felt that I had gotten as close to knowing something about what her life was like for those few years as I ever could, by re-enacting

On the advice of her "thenagent," as she puts it, Seymour nearly turned down the part of Natalie Henry, until she took the time to read the script herself.

"I was so moved by it-in fact, actually sort of totally destroyed by it emotionally," the actress said.

TV Q&A

Spy spoof helped advance Jacqueline Bisset's career

By Polly Vonetes

Q: My husband is a real fan of Jacqueline Bisset. I'd like some information about her and an address, please. -Terri Green, Walton,

A: Ms. Bisset was born on Sept. 13, 1946, in Weybridge, Surrey, England. Her father was a Scottish doctor and her mother was a lawyer of French and English descent. After graduating from a French Lycee in London, she became a model for several high-fashion magazines. Commercials led to small roles in feature films until her memorable performance in Casino Royale, a James Bond spoof. A long-term contract with 20th Century Fox soon followed. For relaxation, she reads Shakespeare and Dickens, travels and attends theater, ballet and art galleries, and shops for antiques. She is single and lives primarily in Los Angeles. Write to her c/o International Creative Management, 8899 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90048.

Q: Would you please let me know what has happened to the character who said, "My name is Jose Jimenez" back in the '60s? Was he on the Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour recently, or did I make a bad bet? - Jack Young, Montrose, Colo.

A: Well Jack, it all depends on what you call recent. Bill Dana, also known as Jose Jimenez, appeared on the Smothers Thanksgiving Brothers special in November. He makes his home in Hawaii, but spends much of his time writing, producing or acting somewhere on the main-

Q: Would you please tell ne what happened to Mr. O'Harra? Is he in some other program? What about Gomer -G.W. Greenville, Ky.

A: I assume you are asking about Pat Morita who portrayed Lt. Ohara in the series Ohara. Currently he is appearing during commercial breaks in an advertisement for Colgate. There is also talk of a third Karate Kid movie in his future. Jim Nabors, better known as Gomer Pyle, spends most of his time successfully touring with his nightclub act and running his macadamia ranch on the Hawaiian island of Maui.

Q: Could you please give some information on Jason Connery-what movies he has starred in and his age? -S. Lynn, Arkadelphia, Ark.

A: Jason Connery was born Jan. 11, 1963, in London, the son of actor Sean and actress Diane Cilento, who were divorced in 1973. Besides Robin Hood he appeared in The Lords of Discipline. He lives in London. Not married as of this writing, he claims he doesn't have girlfriends but lots of friends who are girls.

Battle Of Bulge Both hers Most Americans

PCCLibrarian

The battle of the bulge is a perpetual fight for most Americans. The following books from the Prestonsburg Community College Library will allow readers to eat their way thin, think their way thin, take advice from a squirrel, or a fat psychiatrist, and get lean while loving it.

Living Lean and Loving It, by Eve Lowry. Most people have feelings, memories and even traditions tied up with the kinds of food they eat, but most diet books dictate giving up the different: instead of requiring yogurt as a potato substitute, it has recipes that show the frantic dieter how to cook potatoes without the extra calories. It is filled with recipes that will keep even the kids happy, such as spaghetti, pizza, tacosand cookieswith half the calories.

This is a low fat, high fiber cookbook that can make a difference.

Did You Ever See A Fat Squirrel?, by Ruth Adams. After observing squirrels and birds ather feeder, cating the most highly concentrated foods in ing weight, Adams concluded that it was because they ate what was natural for them, and that they stopped eating when they had enough - not when it was all gone. This book is about addiction. The drug is processed and refined foods, with the food industry being the pusher and the American people the user. The message is - if we take a lesson from the animals and eat only what is natural for our physical body, what our ancestors ate, we will have no desire to overeat, and therefore not gain unnecessary weight.

The Thin Book by a Formerly Fat Psychiatrist, by Theodore Rubin. The diet doesn't matter, Dr. Rubin says, but the attitude does. Rubin borrows a page from the books of Dale Carnegie and Norman Vincent Peale and claims that with no drugs, no magic and no exercise, readers can think themselves thin.

Eat Yourself Slim, by Shirley Bright Boody. "Nobody wants to be fat, and yet there are over 50 million fat Americans." Boody gives this statistic, asks why, and proceeds to answer her own question with her self-pro-claimed, "sensible and logical" weight desire to over-eat. Combining sound reduction program. Her plan allows the dicter to eat six times a day, consequently eating him or herself slim.

The Only Diet That Works, by Herbert Brean. Besides having an eyecatching title, this book has a novel approach to the problem of weight control. It explains how to restrain add additional ingredients, fattening psychological advice with some interesting thoughts on food in our society, this book, very practically, rec-ommends some menus for the strongwilled to follow.

Never-Say-Diet Cookbook, by Richard Simmons. With a warning not to or foreign to his recipes, "Or the Never-Say-Diet inspectors will renounce you to your neighbors and take away your book," Simmons, in his witty fashion, mixes his recipes with a cup full of laughter. Being an advocate of "you can't take it off if you don't move it around," the author has included an illustrated chapter on exercise.
