Board Approves Policy To Prevent Future Teacher 'Sick-Outs'

Patton Not Rehired By School Board

by Anne Chaney, Editor

The Floyd County School Board's annual "cleanup" meeting — traditionally late in June just before the new fiscal year begins — may have taken on new meaning for Ed Patton. Patton, transportation director for the district this past year, was not rehired, but was replaced by Earl D. Ousley. The move was recommended by Superintendent Ronald Hager. Patton, who has headed the transportation department for five years, came under fire by the local board late last year. An attempt to terminate his contract resulted in more than 13 hours of testimony during Patton's due process hearing. Afterwards, the local board took no action — keeping Patton as transportation director for the remainder of the year. Patton said he was not notified before Wednesday's board meeting that he would not be employed in the coming year. "All I got was the rumor," he said. "No one has told me anything. I just know what everybody else knows, and I didn't know it until Thursday morning of last week." Patton said district officials sent him to a conference at Western Kentucky University Monday through Wednesday night. He returned late Wednesday night. "I got up Thursday morning and came to the bus garage. The people there said I wasn't hired Wednesday night at the board meeting," he said. "I went to the board... and requested two days vacation, started packing my things and retained a lawyer." Patton has retained Prestonsburg attorney Ned Pillersdorf, who represented him last year during the due process hearing. "I did not receive anything from the board that I would not be rehired as transportation director. I had heard about three weeks earlier, through the grapevine, that I was not on the hiring list, but I didn't take it too seriously. "I'm just shocked. With all we've been through last fall, I didn't think they would do something as stupid as that," Patton said. Hager acknowledged Monday that he did not recommend Patton for reemployment. Although declining to comment specifically because the issue is a personnel matter, Hager did say that

Patton is a classified employee. Classified personnel contracts begin July 1 of each year, and expire the following June 30. Employment is contingent upon the recommendation of the superintendent. Other classified personnel include maintenance, janitorial and custodial personnel. Hager said Patton, as a classified employee without a teaching or other certificate, is considered an "at-will" employee. As such, said Hager, the local board does not have to notify an employee that they will not be rehired. "We will be filing an action in federal court, on the basis that his discharge, or non-hiring, is pure political retaliation," said Pillersdorf. Patton's attorney, Pillersdorf said he felt the board's action was "absolutely" related to last fall's allegations. He said he would seek punitive damages, suing some of the school board members personally. "We'll sue the ones who have evidence directly participated in the political retaliation," said Pillersdorf. He added that the evidence is similar to that brought out last fall during Patton's due process hearing, which

Coal Trucks Overtake On US 23

Two coal trucks were involved in separate accidents on US 23 recently, with one creating traffic snarls due to spilled coal. Above, state Highway Department and Prestonsburg Police Department personnel spent nearly five hours Friday morning removing a spill and directing traffic. The accident occurred about 5:15 Friday morning on US 23 near its intersection with West Prestonsburg. The truck driver, Jeff Stone, 27, of Raccoon Creek in Pike County, told officers he was northbound when his tires dropped off the edge of the road. Unable to get back on the road, the truck turned onto its side in the ditch, spilling about 50 tons of coal. No injuries were reported, nor citations issued. In a separate accident, a coal truck owned by Matthew Vanhoose of Johnson County was involved in an accident Monday, according to Howard Ferguson, Auxier volunteer firefighter. At about 3:30 a.m. the driver, John H. Castle of Johnson County, was heading south on US 23 when he hit the guardrail, jack-knifed and overturned in the northbound lane, Ferguson said. The firefighters helped release the driver, who was sent to Highlands Regional Medical Center. Ferguson said it took about 1 1/2 hours to clear the area. State Highway Department personnel scattered sand to absorb any spilled fuel.

Heavy Truck Traffic On US 23: Reroute It?

Because of the "absolutely dangerous" condition of the Bert T. Combs bridge in Prestonsburg, State Rep. Greg Stumbo has asked the Transportation Cabinet to consider rerouting heavy truck traffic off US 23 in the northern part of Floyd County. Stumbo said he has asked the Cabinet to monitor traffic on the bridge. "The bridge was not designed for the amount of weight that sits on it at peak traffic times," the legislator said. "Engineers have told me it is extremely unsafe. I'm calling on the Cabinet to try to alleviate some of the problem."

Stumbo said he and local government and business leaders have met with Transportation Cabinet Secretary Milo Bryant to discuss the road situation in the area. He said that, besides the rerouting proposal, they discussed an alternative of limiting heavy truck traffic on the bridge during peak hours. The bridge is generally most crowded during the morning and afternoon "rush" hours and over the noon hour. "I've complained and complained and complained," said Stumbo. "But my feeling is that if you keep running into a brick wall long enough, one will have to give out." Stumbo said the installation of a traffic light at the entrance to Archer Park and West Prestonsburg "has helped, but not as much as needed."

Labor, Management Issues To Be Highlighted This Month

The Kentucky Labor-Management Advisory Council will hold a public meeting at Jenny Wiley's May Lodge Wednesday, July 12, at 4 p.m. The meeting and a reception, as well as a breakfast the following morning, are being sponsored by the Big Sandy Area Labor-Management Council. According to Don Combs, co-chair/management of the local council, the state secretaries of labor and economic development are expected to attend Wednesday's meeting. A reception, also at Jenny Wiley, will immediately follow the state council's quarterly meeting. Both events are open to the public. "We want this advisory council to be exposed to our area, and to our leaders," said Combs. "Generally, we need more support and awareness of labor and management relations, problems and solutions." The local council co-chair said Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo plans to declare the week "Labor-Management Week." "This is to recognize that it takes a cooperative type of effort between labor and management to have good labor relations. That, in turn, will hopefully create more economic development opportunities." Combs said there is often a negative perception of labor and management relations in Eastern Kentucky. "A lot of people think that all people in this area are striking. This perception has hurt our ability to attract industry," Combs said. "This is our chance to show that we're serious about developing economically, and we're working on that negative perception to try and turn it around. "If anyone feels that Eastern Kentucky is being left out of the economic development opportunities that are happening across the state — and most of us do — this would be an opportunity to state our case," he said. Serving with Combs as co-chair/ labor on the local council is Mick Crum. Also on the week's agenda will be a breakfast at 9 a.m. Thursday at Jenny Wiley, with Pike County Judge-Executive Paul E. Patton as the featured speaker. Tickets for the breakfast are $10, and will be available at the door.

Jury Recommends Life Sentence In Stabbing Death Of Ricky Hall

After a three-day trial, a Floyd Circuit Court jury last week found Michael Lee Crisp, 25, of Dwayne guilty of murder and recommended a life sentence. Crisp had been accused of the stabbing death of Ricky Hall, a 33-year-old Prestonsburg man who was found dead Nov. 13, beside John's Branch Road near Maytown. A key factor in the conviction was the testimony of Elmer (Butch) Lafferty Jr., also of Dwayne, who came forward as a witness about a week after the crime, said Commonwealth Attorney Jerry Patton. Although Lafferty's passing of a lie detector test was not admissible in court, Patton said the witness' "story was supported by testimony and evidence." In the murder, for which no motive was established, Hall reportedly received 34 stab wounds, including having his "throat cut from one ear to the next and a big hole in the back," Patton said. The Commonwealth Attorney added that the case and trial had two "unusual" aspects. First, he said, the defendant did not take the stand in his own defense. Rather, the prosecutor said defense attorneys tried to convince the jury that Lafferty was the one who committed the crime. Patton also reported that "Crisp allegedly tried to hire someone to kill Lafferty" while Crisp was in jail awaiting trial. Patton said he plans to submit the allegation to the grand jury in September. The prosecutor said the murder occurred while Crisp was on probation in connection with another charge. Formal sentencing is set for July 21.

Elkhorn Nixes Big Sandy ADD's Bid For Vacant Wayland Offices

The proposed Wayland Senior Citizens Center is back on the drawing board following Elkhorn Coal's rejection of an offer to buy the coal company's former office building. Big Sandy Area Development District had offered $40,000 for the building, which has been vacant since Elkhorn moved to Prestonsburg last year. "Elkhorn unceremoniously said it could not accept our offer," said ADD director Roger Recktenwald. Big Sandy ADD has been trying to buy the property for more than a year as a center for senior citizens in the Wayland area, the only area of the county without such a center, Recktenwald said. The ADD director said his office's first correspondence with Elkhorn officials in May of 1988 was "strongly encouraging" on the issue of the purchase of the building. "We've made several offers and have done whatever they (Elkhorn officials) asked, and each time they have reversed themselves. It's been very frustrating." Recktenwald said, however, that his office will continue to pursue the matter. The company, he said, is in the process of being sold. "We hope the new corporate owner will be somewhat more reasonable." He added that no other facilities

Mildew Mania

In case any doubters are left, this year's rainfall is about twice that of last year's at this time, according to the National Weather Service in Jackson. Through June, the weather service recorded 32 inches for 1988, with 6.92 inches for June alone. And July remains consistent.

Today's forecast calls for 40 percent chance of thunder-showers, with mostly cloudy skies, day temperatures in the mid-to-upper 80s and lows in the upper 60s. The Thursday-Saturday extended forecast features the three h's: hazy, hot and humid. Daytime highs will likely range from 88 to 95, with nighttime lows from 68-75, with a possible 30 percent chance of rain.

Wayland Board Changes Time

The Wayland Town Board, which has previously met on the first Saturday of each month, has changed its meeting time to the first Tuesday at 7 p.m. The next meeting is set for Tuesday, July 11, at the town hall, according to board member Hobart Webb.

Up, Up And Away!

It takes two cranes to raise "The Pirate Ship," a new ride at the James H. Drew Exposition. The carnival at Archer Park will run today through Friday, 5-11 p.m., and on Saturday, noon until midnight. Admission is free. Rides require one to three tickets at 80 cents each.

No Sale

The former offices of Elkhorn Coal will not be transformed into the Wayland Senior Citizens Center, at least not in the immediate future. Elkhorn recently rejected a Big Sandy ADD offer of $40,000 to buy the building to turn into a center.

Other Contributions To Campaign Listed

The final election finance report for county attorney candidate David Barber, unavailable as of presstime last week, shows that Barber received $10,716 in contributions between May 9 and June 19, the final reporting period.

Barber received $8,741 in itemized contributions, $1,550 in unitemized contributions, and $425 in in-kind contributions.

All but $500 of Barber's itemized contributions were made by him to his own campaign. Contributing $500 was James F. Blair of Pikeville. Fourteen persons made unitem-ized contributions totaling $1,550.

Two in-kind contributions were made by Rose Collins of Prestonsburg, including $360 of radio advertising, and hauling voters, at an estimated in-kind contribution of $65.

Bid Nixed

exist in the area that are suitable for making into a center. Even the Elkhorn offices would require extensive renovation, he said, because of the building layout and because of a septic system shared by an adjacent building that was sold separately by Elkhorn.

"It looks like we'll get back in the huddle with the folks at Wayland," Recktenwald said.

Hobart Webb, chairman of the recently appointed center board of directors, said a meeting to discuss the matter is set for Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Wayland clinic. "If we can't get the Elkhorn building, we'll have to go another route," he said. "We have to have a place to meet."

The center would include senior citizens in adjacent Knott County, as well as the upper Right Beaver Creek area, Webb said.

Elkhorn offices were closed on Monday and Tuesday for the July 4 holiday, and no local officials were available to comment.

Woman To Be Tried As Juvenile In Death Of Lick Fork Infant

A Lick Fork woman whose newborn baby was found dead in a shallow grave near her home in April will be tried as a juvenile, even though the woman turned 18 shortly after the death was discovered.

A motion to try Nannie Slone as an adult in the asphyxiation death of the infant girl was apparently withdrawn last week by County Attorney David Allen Barber. The case reportedly did not meet the criteria for Slone's trial as an adult.

The young woman apparently gave birth to the infant in an out-building near the family residence. State medical examiners determined that the baby was alive before being placed in a lard bucket in a position that resulted in her death.

Truck Traffic

Stumbo added that he believes coal haulers also have a stake in the safety of the bridge. "They (coal truck drivers) are as likely as anybody to be caught on the bridge if it fails," he said.

An engineer with the state highway department's Pikeville office said that to reroute the heavy truck traffic off US 23 around Prestonsburg, the road will have to be taken off the state's extended weight system.

The road is rated as a Class AAA trucking route, meaning it is open to vehicles weighing as much as 80,000 pounds, according to district traffic engineer Joe Anderson with the Department of Transportation in Pikeville. Class AAA is the state's highest highway weight rating, he said.

In assessing the safety of bridges, a complex formula, taking into account weight, distance, axles and distribution of load, is used, Anderson said.

Anderson added that in several recent sessions the state legislature has increased road weight limits.

Sunday Fire

Damages Home

A Rock Fork trailer received heavy damage early Sunday morning when a fire broke out in a back bedroom, but was kept from being a total loss after firefighters used water from an adjacent swimming pool to douse the flames.

John Chapman's double-wide trailer home caught fire at 7:23 a.m. Sunday, according to Terry Triplett of the Garrett Fire Department.

Firefighters arrived within minutes, finding the trailer engulfed in flames. Using water from the department's trucks and Chapman's swimming pool, personnel had the fire under control in about six minutes.

"We just about pumped it dry," said Triplett of Chapman's swimming pool.

About 13 firefighters from the Garrett department responded, and members of the Ball Creek Volunteer Fire Department in Knott County were called in for backup.

The cause of the fire is unknown, and remains under investigation.

The geographic center of the North American continent is in Pierce County, North Dakota, six miles west of Balta.

School Board

Pillersdorf charged was politically motivated.

"We are going to sue the school board as an entity, claiming that as a body, they have a despicable tradition of political retaliation. It's not a school board — it's a board of political retaliation."

Saying the suit would seek reparation "probably in the millions" of dollars, Pillersdorf said he will also attempt to have Patton reinstated with back pay.

"Whether Ed's a classified employee or not still does not give them the right to fire someone for exercising their civil rights — in this case, free speech. He was effectively discharged for exercising his Constitutional rights. It is odd that he was given accolades and commendations for improving the transportation department and was not rehired. It's an incredible coincidence," Pillersdorf said.

"I look forward to questioning members of the school board in federal court under oath," he added.

Hager's recommendation, although approved by the local board, remains subject to approval by state Department of Education officials, as the local district is in Phase 3 of the academic bankruptcy law. The state exercises final control over all personnel transactions in the district.

Hager said he was not at liberty to say if the decision was related to allegations made against Patton last year.

'SICK-OUT' POLICY PASSED BY BOARD

At Wednesday's meeting, the Floyd County School Board also approved the draft of a policy that would prevent the district's teachers from disrupting the educational process — in effect, from repeating a "sick-out" similar to that of October 1988.

The policy prohibits employees, employee organizations and their affiliates from being involved in a strike against the district. In addition, according to the policy, they may not take part in, cause or encourage actions, showdowns, sick-ins, picketing, refusal to cross picket lines, boycotts, interruptions of work, other public demonstrations or "any concerted effort which interferes with, impedes, or impairs the normal operation of the district or board."

According to the policy, the local district may take legal action against employee organizations, their affiliates or persons participating in such a strike.

In addition, the policy states that the district will not pay salaries, wages or fringe benefits to employees for days when they fail, as a result of a strike, to report for work.

Employees violating the policy are subject to disciplinary action, including dismissal.

In a separate policy area, the board approved open hiring regulations that will allow the district's employees to apply for positions throughout the system.

According to the policy, a job register will be kept in the superintendent's office or central office, listing all current job openings in the district, the duties and qualifications. The register will be open to the public during regular business hours.

A list of all district vacancies will also be posted in each school building, according to the policy.

Equally important to many district employees, all personnel will receive a copy of their job description and responsibilities.

CENTRAL OFFICE

A number of central office administrators were rehired at Wednesday's meeting.

Employed with 12-month contracts, unless otherwise noted, are:

Gary Frazier, assistant superintendent of instruction; Russell M. Frazier, assistant superintendent of finance and support services; Elhanan Pete Grigsby Jr., administrative assistant to the superintendent, in charge of special programs and student services; James F. Francis, director of buildings and grounds; Wayne Ratliff Jr., co-food service director; Sharon Newsome, co-food service director; David Turner, physical education coordinator; John K. Pitts,

Roberta Davidson, Cosetta Newsome and Ulysus Horne, instructional supervisors;

Maurice Allen and Volney B. Allen, directors of pupil personnel, no contract length specified; Earl D.

Ousley, transportation director; Ned Bush, health coordinator; James F. Francis, county athletic director, secondary in nature to his present position as director of buildings and grounds; Jennifer Martin, school nurse, 10 and one-half month contract; Ogie Slone, director of exceptional children; no one employed as school psychologist; Eloise Hall, youth program director; Dan Collins, youth program training coordinator.

Flood Disaster Centers Open; Variety Of Help Is Available

Floyd County is among six Eastern Kentucky counties that have been declared a federal disaster area following June flooding.

The county is now eligible for special assistance to help businesses, individuals and governments to recover losses created by the flood water.

Floyd Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo estimated damage in the county at about $150,000. He said the federal government will reimburse the county at about 75 percent of cost to repair bridges and roads that were heavily damaged by the flood.

Stumbo said a federal engineer should be in the area this week to assess damages. "They (federal officials) partially reimburse for putting the bridge or road back to the way it was, not for anything extra," he said.

Stumbo said county work crews have already repaired most of the bridges damaged by flood waters.

Federal officials will also look at homes damaged by flood water, and low interest loans will be available to homeowners to restore residences, Stumbo said.

Red Cross workers are also in the area to offer assistance to families who suffered losses from flooding. Bill Learn, Red Cross government liaison officer, said the agency has assisted about 28 families from its temporary office at the Garratt Volunteer Fire Department, which closed last week.

The official said the Red Cross has spent $13,731 locally on assistance to families, primarily for replacing household furnishings and helping families find housing if they are unable to return to their former houses.

Learn said the Red Cross is "winding down our emergency phase" and going into its "additional assistance phase." The latter phase involves assisting individuals with making application for federal assistance programs.

Federal assistance centers are to open today at Bell County High School in Pineville and at the Nixon Center in Hyden. Learn said the centers will receive applications for disaster relief, after which federal officials will schedule home visits where applications meet criteria.

The Pineville center is located on US 25E south, while the Nixon Center is on US 421 south at Hyden. Both centers will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., and will close after Friday.

Guest Column

by Richard L. Muse, Prestonsburg

We have just celebrated our 213th anniversary as Americans. The freedoms publicly declared that July 4th over two centuries ago are endangered... by Americans, over a piece of cloth.

Granted, that piece of cloth is our flag, but I keep remembering 1952.

In that year, not so long ago, a book was published. It wasn't just any book — it was the Bible. But this was not the King James Version with which so many were familiar. It was the Revised Standard Version, and it brought down the wrath of thousands of people who thought it was heresy. There were instances like one in Rocky Mount, N.C., during which people gathered at church to burn copies of those Bibles. Those who did the burning may well have been quite sincere in their belief that they were burning the work of the devil himself.

What those people failed to understand was that they were burning a symbol, not the real thing. Whether the books they burned were inspired by the devil, or by God, was not what was important. What mattered was that God's word would prevail in spite of man's puny efforts to make a statement.

The same thing will be true if we do flag burners the same way the Bible burners were done: ignore them. If I die a Christian's death, I die for God, not the Bible. Just so, all those who have given their lives as Americans have died for their country, not for the flag. The flag, like the Bible, is a symbol of something greater than itself. It is not our freedom, but a symbol of that freedom.

Yes, I'm proud of my flag. No, I do not like it when someone mistreats or desecrates it. I still cringe every time I see an American flag drag the ground, whether done intentionally or not. Yet, I do not try to have the perpetrator arrested for a crime.

I personally prefer "America the Beautiful" for our national anthem, instead of "The Star Spangled Banner," a song written about a single battle in our history, and one which honors war rather than the good things about our country. To this day, no one has tried to have me arrested for saying I don't like the choice made by Congress the same year I was born.

There are some who would say that our fallen soldiers, as well as those who still live, fought for the flag. Oh, I hope not. As Ernie Pyle said during the invasion of Normandy in 1944: "Then darkness enveloped the whole American armada. Not a pinpoint of light showed from those hundreds of ships as they surged on through the night toward their destiny, carrying across the ageless and indifferent sea tens of thousands of young men, fighting for... for... well, at least for each other."

We stand so close to the tyranny of China today. Can we not learn our lesson from their refusal to grant the freedom of speech? We raise our voices strongly when gun control is threatened. If we value our freedom to express ourselves, we should just as vocally protest any effort to crush even someone who disagrees with us. For over two centuries, we have been free to share any ideas we had, be it communism, socialism or anarchy. Only when we try to force others to agree with us do we overstep the freedoms guaranteed to us by the Bill of Rights in our Constitution.

If you choose to burn the flag to show your distaste for something in this great country of ours, I will be hurt by your act and might suggest that you find another country in which to live. But while you are in these United States, you have the right to express yourself, as long as it doesn't infringe on the rights of others.

Perhaps it is time we took our intense feelings down another road. We could take the anger we feel for someone who treats our flag thus — that is, burning it — and channel those energies into helping the homeless, the poverty stricken, the emotionally deprived, or the charity of our choice. Ecologists and animal lovers are concerned over endangered species. Could we not be just as concerned that our freedoms are becoming endangered species, too?

Alcohol Abuse Can Kill Teens

Dear Editor,
Recently, Surgeon General Everett Koop announced some key steps Congress must undertake in the interest of health and safety. He arrived at these initiatives after the full Senate and most of the House asked him, formally, to declare drunk driving a crisis in the US and to do something about it.

Koop convened 120 experts in 11 fields, including the advertising, marketing, taxing and pricing of alcohol, which affects youth, problem drinkers, injuries and other populations. Tougher DWI laws, stricter enforcement and adjudication, epidemiology, de-alcoholizing the environment — all were addressed. Why? Haven't we gotten tough enough on DWI? Haven't we deterred the deterrable?

The facts show that the use of alcohol is responsible for over 100,000 deaths and costs our society over $130 billion each year — far more than all other "illegal" drugs combined. (Remember, alcohol is illegal for all those under 21). Over 24,000 alcohol-related fatal crashes occur each year, while over 500,000 Americans are seriously injured on our highways.

Meanwhile, back at home, our teenagers have absorbed 75,000 TV and radio ads dealing with alcohol by the time they are old enough to reach for the car keys.

A six-pack of beer often costs less than soda at the supermarket, and no counter-ads or pro-health messages telling the truth about the drug alcohol are seen on the national media. Alcohol-related crashes are still the major causes of teenage death. Researchers tell us that simply hiking the user fees on alcoholic beverages could prevent one-half of these fatal crashes, help to curb illegal teenage alcohol use and bring in $15 billion of federal revenue to offset the deficit.

The surgeon general has provided a road map for action and a role model, in the form of the national "Coalition to Prevent Impaired Driving," a new fusion of alcohol policy and highway safety groups which finally agree that drunk driving is a public health problem, as well as a motor vehicle hazard.

It has taken RID (Remove Intoxicated Drivers) a decade of hard work and bitter experience to arrive at these conclusions, now held to be self-evident by researchers and citizen advocates in both fields. We must finally tell the truth about alcohol and recognize the social impact of a completely alcoholized environment for youth and problem drinkers.

We must stop using stars, athletes and sex symbols to sell alcoholic beverages to our youth, put warning labels on all alcohol products and their advertisements as we did with cigarettes and stop glorifying beer with sports as the all-American dream. We must start treating alcohol as the most serious drug that takes more years of life from us than all other diseases, calamities or crimes combined. It's the entry drug for all other drugs. It's the drug that comes home to roost.

Report to Kentucky

By Wendell Ford

CHILD CARE PROGRAM MUST GUARANTEE FREEDOM OF CHOICE TO PARENTS

The shortage of safe and affordable child care is a serious national problem that is no stranger to Kentucky.

Just before taking the July 4 recess, the Senate approved legislation creating a child care assistance program for low-income working families. More than 70 percent of the money going to parents from this bill is in the form of tax credits. The measure now goes to the House of Representatives for its consideration.

The final version of the Senate bill included a major change that Sen. David Durenberger of Minnesota and I sponsored to guarantee parental choice in the selection of child care services. This change was critical, because in its original form, the bill would have deprived parents of the right to use child care provided in a religious setting.

One of the goals of this new program is to increase the availability of child care. In Kentucky, one-fifth of all child care slots are filled by church-sponsored providers. Representatives of the Kentucky Council of Churches and Kentucky Catholic Conference told me that churches in Kentucky could not participate in the program unless the bill was changed. These organizations were extremely helpful to me in resolving this problem and ensuring that church-affiliated day care providers were not excluded.

Local Citizens Group Critical Of State Environmental Officer

A statewide citizens organization is using a "wanted poster" in a campaign to bring attention to what its members feel is a poor performance by the state's top environmental protection official.

The target of the wanted poster is Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet Secretary

Carl Bradley. Bradley "is wanted for the intentional and deliberate destruction of Kentucky's air, land and water," the poster says.

Members of Kentuckians for the Commonwealth, a Prestonsburg-based grassroots organization, are posting the signs throughout the state which combine puns with criticisms and give a description of Bradley that includes:

- Eyes: Blinded to the facts.
- Ears: Deaf to the calls of citizens.
- Height: Shrinking under pressure from polluters and those wishing to turn Kentucky into a dumping ground.

— Last Seen: Backing away from any decisive action on the environmental problems facing Kentucky.

KFTC charges that Bradley's agency has failed to develop comprehensive plans to address the short and long term solutions to land, air, water and waste problems and that he has lacked the political will to prosecute polluters and violators of environmental laws.

According to Jerry Hardt of KFTC, the poster also states that there are problems with inadequate reclamation, water monitoring and lack of cleanup of most of the nearly 400 hazardous waste sites in Kentucky. Bradley is also accused "of permitting unneeded landfills to allow Kentucky to become the dumping ground of the nation."

The final warning at the bottom of the poster, says Hardt, is: "If you see this man, do not try to comprehend alone."

Abuse Can Take Many Forms

By Eileen Recktenwald,
Rape Victims Services
Mountain Comprehensive Care Center

"It is now well documented in professional journals, as well as in the large caseloads of mental health, social services, and criminal justice professionals that violence is embedded in the lives of American families. It seems ironic that the words 'family' and 'violence' are so closely tied.

"Violence implies destruction, hatred and hurting, while the word 'family' implies caring, love and joy. We find, however, that these words are thrust together such that where there was once joy, there is fear; where there was trust, there is jealousy and mistrust; and where there was love, there is hurt. Research shows that this unlikely combination of violence and families occurs at all levels, between spouses, in parent-child relationships, sibling relationships, dating relationships, and in the abuse of the elderly." (MH/MR Mental Health Institute)

Violence can take many forms. It can mean the non-accidental injury of one person by another, as in slapping, hitting or burning a child, a spouse or elderly relation. It can mean violence of a sexual nature, as in making sexual advances or engaging in sexual conduct with a child or elderly relation with the family. This is commonly referred to as incest or sexual abuse. Violence can take the form of emotional or psychological abuse, as in deliberate name-calling or threatening, even with a weapon. This type of abuse can actually be more damaging and its effect more long lasting than physical abuse.

Violence can also take the form of neglect, or not attending to the physical needs of a spouse, child or elderly relation. Physical needs include things such as food, clean/safe shelter, and affection, to name a few.

Studies have shown that violence in families, if allowed to go unchecked, has the tendency to become worse and worse. The effects of violence on families can be very detrimental and cause long-lasting behavioral and emotional problems for all members of the family and can continue even into the next generation. Studies have shown that children who live in a violent family grow up to commit violent crimes. One in four people grow up being abused, neglected or watching their parents hit each other. Of these, one in 10 assault their wives or abuse their children when they grow up.

Experience tells us that summer months are always difficult for families. The heat and the children out of school tend to make tempers flare.

There is help available. There is no need to be afraid of either being hurt, or hurting someone you love. Even if violence has been a way of life in your family, it can stop with you. ### Verdict Upheld; Keith Pennington Still Has 120 Years

The Kentucky Supreme Court has affirmed the decision of Floyd Circuit Court in the case of Wiley Keith Pennington, who was sentenced last year to 120 years in prison as a persistent felony offender on charges ranging from robbery to attempted murder to wanton endangerment.

According to the opinion filed with the Circuit Clerk's office, the Wheelwright-area man, in his appeal, challenged the attempted murder conviction and four other points in the local jury verdict.

Pennington was arrested in September 1987 after a high-speed car chase during which he was accused of shooting at police cars and of causing several other motorists to leave the road.

Education Forum Meeting Set July 10

The Floyd County Education Forum, Inc., will hold its July board of directors meeting on Monday, July 10, at the Presbyterian Church in Prestonsburg (next to Jerry's Restaurant) beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The meeting is open to the public. Items on the agenda include a report by Forum members who attended the Kentucky State Board of Education meeting in Frankfort on June 29. A copy of the report distributed to state board members by Dr. Betty Steffy, who is responsible for overseeing the Kentucky Department of Education's intervention team in Floyd County, will be available at the meeting.

Family Planning Clinic Dates Listed

Family Planning Clinics at the Floyd County Health Department for July will be on Mondays, July 10, 17 and 24 at noon. Call 886-2788 for an appointment.

Floyd County Health Department officials remind all parents that children attending school in Floyd County are required to have immunizations up-to-date. Shots are offered at the health department for kindergarten through 12th graders, according to Jane Bond, health educator.

The health department offers supplemental foods to women who are pregnant, breastfeeding or postpartum, children up to five years old and infants. This is the WIC program, eligibility for this program is determined by nutritional risk, income and family size, Bond said.

Need For Blood Donors Greater During Summer

Summer months can be busy ones, filled with activities such as ball games, picnics, vacations and reunions.

Many people set aside some of their routine affairs but, cautions registered nurse Georgia Sanders, "One such very important activity which cannot afford to be set aside is donating blood."

Sanders, with the Central Kentucky Blood Center in Prestonsburg, notes that the very events most people are busy with are also those that often create a need for blood.

In fact, Sanders said, CKBC needs 200 donations daily, and donations shrink dramatically in the summer.

Several Floyd County donor groups have scheduled drives at the Prestonsburg center this summer.

"Our donor groups are very important to us," said Sanders. "We rely on them heavily to prevent shortages, and urge them to come in and donate."

Groups that have already given blood this summer include the Holiday Inn and R&S Truck Body.

Scheduled for drives in July are the First Commonwealth Bank, Bank Josephine, Music-Carter-Hughes, Mountain Comprehensive Care, Brandeis Machinery and Supply, Mountain Manor Nursing Home, Riverview Manor and Jenny Wiley State Park employees.

In August, employees of Food Lyon and Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Co. are scheduled to donate.

"Most businesses graciously allow their employees to donate on company time," Sanders said. "Donating blood is safe, simple and takes only a few minutes — yet there are benefits which last a lifetime."

Businesses or groups interested in donating may contact Sanders at 886-1557, or call toll-free 1-800-432-9528.

Individuals who wish to donate may do so by visiting the Prestonsburg center on the second floor of the Municipal Building in Prestonsburg. Center hours are Tuesday, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.; and Thursday and Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Anyone donating during July will receive a free t-shirt, while those donating in August will get a free cholesterol check.

What's in a Name?

John Scalf of Betsy Layne provided information on the origins of the place names Bosco and Harold, featured in the last What's In A Name? puzzle.

The area around Harold was once known as Laynesville, after James S. Layne, Scalf said. One post office was established there in 1828 and another sometime later. When the Laynesville post office closed, "people just called the area Harold," he said.

That moniker is apparently traced to Harold Hatcher, a local merchant and a descendant of James Hatcher who settled the Mouth of Mud Creek in the 1830s.

Although Scalf does not know where the name Bosco comes from, he said that the Bosco post office was opened in the 1880s. A railroad at the time passed through what was known as Bosco Station. A few years later, the post office name was changed to Hueysville, after a Robert Huey. Scalf said that Huey was a native of Pennsylvania who apparently settled in the area, but his claim to fame is unknown.

This week's featured place names are Boldman in the eastern part of the county and Blue River on Middle Creek in the western section. Persons who know the origin of either of these names may call The Times at 886-8506 or send the answer to Box 391, Prestonsburg 41653.

Hager Hill Firm Receives License

Dave's Concrete Products, located in Hager Hill, has been licensed by Jet, Inc., of Cleveland, Ohio, as an area Jet distributor for its individual home wastewater treatment plants.

David Bowling, president of Dave's Concrete Products, said the Hager Hill firm will sell, install and service Jet wastewater treatment plants, which are designed to service single homes not connected to city sewer systems.

The plant uses the same process used by municipal plants, said Bowling. He added that the plants are designed to meet or exceed health department requirements.

Stumbo Withdraws Legislation Concerning State Employee Benefits

State Rep. Gregory D. Stumbo, majority floor leader, has withdrawn a controversial bill pertaining to state employee health care benefits.

Stumbo said teachers across the state were "quite vocal" in their opposition to the concept he had suggested for funding the state health insurance program to the level it had been before the Commonwealth self-insured. Because teachers opposed the proposal, Stumbo said he would not sponsor the measure.

The bill, as drafted, would have used funds from the teachers retirement fund to increase the appropriation level of the health insurance budget to allow the state to offer a better policy to state employees and teachers.

The Prestonsburg Democrat said he hopes the funding level can be improved during the 1990 General Assembly, which will convene in January.

In Loving Memory of Willie Hale Who Passed away July 7, 1982

It's been seven seven years since you were called away. Our minds wonder back to that July day, which seems so long ago but to us dad it was only yesterday, when God called you home to his mansion so fair, we know you're at rest with the angels up there.

For as long as we can remember dad you were always there. Your family looked up to you, your love for us was clear, you taught us to respect ourselves. Your eyes were filled with pride even when our choice was wrong you stood right by our side.

Your wife and children loved you so, it broke our hearts to let you go, but we still have memories as time goes by of your smiling face and tears fill our eyes. We miss you dad and wish you were here, but we know that cannot be, but one of these days when its our time to go your smiling face once again we will see.

Umpires: The Rodney Dangerfields Of Baseball

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Umpires are the Rodney Dangerfields of baseball — they get no respect.

An umpire, according to Webster's, is "an official who administers the rules in team sports."

A baseball umpire, in this case, sees that the rules and guidelines are correctly enforced.

Regardless of temperature, umpires must maintain their professional image and not wipe the sweat. When an ump calls little Joe out on strikes and all little Joe's parents disagree, he is to maintain his professional image and smile. Nothing is to shake this force behind the catcher. He should be immune to foul tips off his shins, arms, or head. Don't rub; remember that professional image!

An umpire has to make split-second calls. No time to ponder what to call, or consider the wishes of the fans. He must "administer the rules of team sports." To administer these rules, he must know them. Rule books are given to umpires, along with any rule changes that may occur from year to year. Leagues that are serious about having a top-notch program for their umpires to attend a umpire's clinic. Certification instances is also a requirement for high school leagues.

Leagues must use umpires to call the game, and a registered ump is always one of the umpires. Much fan hostility is seen in Little League. There is the fans' lack of respect for the rules. Most parents will yell "Joe was safe!" at a baseball game. A common complaint is that umpires are not fair and are biased. This comes from an umpire who is a player's brother, or a coach's brother, or a parent who goes frog gigging with the team to get the home team

After covering many, many games throughout Floyd County, I feel we have some quality umpires. Of course, the level of competition usually dictates the better quality of umpiring. I really think that those who are handed the responsibility of "administering the rules" are honest and responsible officials.

We had a chance to talk to some people who have given their time to umpire baseball games. Some are experienced in high school play, others in Babe Ruth and still others in Little League. Some are experienced at all levels.

Following are excerpts from those interviews:

Todd Duff, Hueysville, has been umpiring for two seasons.

"I haven't done any games but Little League," Duff stated, "so those are the league rules that I have to be aware of." Although Duff was a stand-out baseball player at Allen Central this past season, he finds that there is a great difference between high school and Little League.

"I believe the hardest call in Little League baseball to call is the slide rule or runner's interference. You get a lot of arguments over it."

Unlike major league and college

'Little League baseball is the toughest to call,' Thacker says. 'High school players can take care of themselves, but there is no respect in Little League toward the umpire. The fans go wild sometimes. I feel the parents are the biggest problem in Little League.'

baseball, where there is a lot of room between the fans and the playing field, the fans in other leagues are often close to the playing field. Every abusive word can be heard, and sometimes thrown objects hit their mark.

"We called a game off because of darkness in the Beaver Creek Little League playoffs," Duff explained. "The teams were told to come back the next day at 4:30 p.m. to finish the game. The team behind said they would not return. That was the most unusual thing that has happened to me since I have been umpiring."

Duff feels there is not enough respect for umpires in Little League baseball, not only from fans, but coaches as well.

Jerome Greathouse, a veteran of six years, considers himself a straight up, impartial umpire.

"In 1984 I had a boy playing Little League baseball and the umpiring was very partial. I decided to get into it so there would be some honesty in the game. Since I have been into umpiring, I have called high school, college, and American Legion games.

"I've had parents call me at home and ask me if I was going to call the game that afternoon. I feel that the fans respect me as an umpire, however, I don't believe they do overall," Greathouse said.

Greathouse recalls an unusual game he called last year: "It was the second game in the Babe Ruth tournament between Paintsville and Hazard. We were in the fourth inning with the score 30-2, but the unusual thing was that it was 2:30 a.m. in the morning. Hazard puts a pitcher on the mound that had been into the game already as a sub, and Paintsville protested the move.

"Well, when we got around to get play started again, we found out that one of the parents on Hazard's team had taken their son home and Hazard had only eight players and could not field a team. It was called no game and had to be replayed.

"There is too much name-calling in baseball games," he said. "I threw a fan out of the park once for name-calling."

Tom Thacker has been calling games for five years. His biggest game was when he called the finals of the 15th Region tournament at Pikeville this past season.

"Little League baseball is the toughest to call," Thacker says. "High school players can take care of themselves, but there is no respect in Little League toward the umpire. The fans go wild sometimes. I feel the parents are the biggest problem in Little League.

"A couple years ago we threw a coach out of the game. He left and then came back and onto the field, so we forfeited the game. That was the most unusual situation I found myself in."

Harold Case of Martin has been calling games, although he is not certified, for the past seven years. He primarily calls Little League games in Floyd County.

"One of the problems we have in umpiring, I feel, is a lack of respect from the coaches. They really don't know the rules that we are called on to uphold," he says.

"The balk rule is the hardest call in baseball," Case said. "That, along with base interference."

Darren Conn is relatively new to umpiring, this being his third year. Yet Conn finds his services much needed because of the shortage of good umpires in the county.

"I feel that we get respect to a certain extent," Conn said. "The fans really have no knowledge of the rules and they just don't understand. They don't understand the infield fly rule, fair or foul rule."

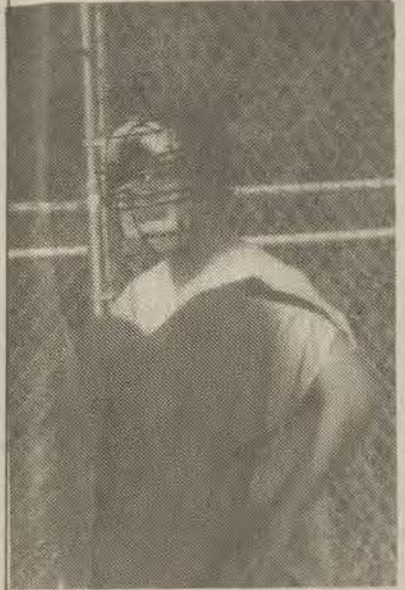

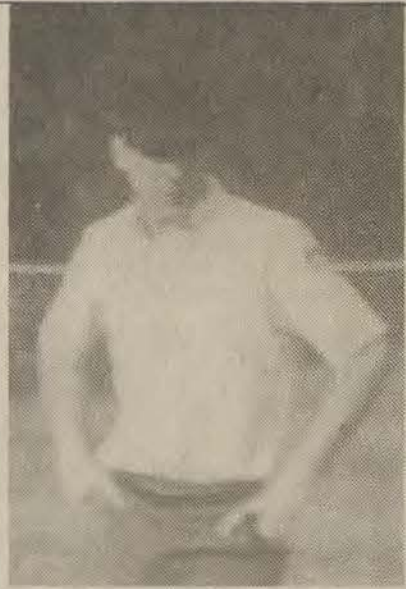

"I think the hardest call is the balk call," he said. "I called a game once where a lady thought her kid was safe and she came half way out on the field. I had to set her back in the stands, but she kept hollering at me. You can't have rabbit ears when you're umpiring."

John Wohlford, who umpires mostly in the Pee Wee leagues, finds that fans, especially parents, are the worst.

"I think that they (fans) take advantage of a new umpire. There is no respect for umpires. They will question your judgment and it goes back to the problem we always have: the fans don't understand the rules. The coaches are also weak on the rules of the game. Each league should hold clinics at the start of the season for the coaches. Go over the ground rules. It only hurts the kids."

For those umpires who get behind the plate for the meager amount they receive for their services, hats off to them for their courage.

Maybe one item should be added to those already on sale at ball park concession stands — a rule book.

Umpires: They Get No Respect

Wayland Dodgers Win Tournament

Wayland Dodgers were crowned champions of the Beaver Creek Little League playoffs at Marquette Park with an 11-7 victory over the Garrett Cubs. It was the first title for the Wayland team.

"I'm nervous about this game," Wayland mentor David Combs said prior to the contest, "but the kids are not a bit nervous. If we can play the way we did against the Cubs in the first game, we'll be all right."

"I just want our kids to play a good game win or lose," he said. "Jy Shepherd's pocket on his uniform is torn half off and I wanted to cut it off, but he said it was his lucky pocket. He is pitching today, so I left it alone."

Wayland scored four times in the first inning to jump out to a quick 4-0 lead and tallied three more in the second to lead 7-1. The Cubs picked up three runs in the top of the fourth to close to within three 7-4.

Wayland scored four times in the bottom of the fourth. Three were unearned as errors cost the Cubs, and Wayland won the game 11-7.

"We accomplished what we set out to do as a team," Garrett coach Jad Deaton explained. "Last year these boys were cellar dwellers, but they came back this year to win the division title (Beaver Creek North Division). We have accomplished that goal. I am very proud of all of them."

Wayland was the South Division Champion.

Brian Slone had a tremendous home run in the first inning for the Dodgers with two men on base. Jy Shepherd, lucky pocket and all, was the winning pitcher. Shepherd recorded only three strike outs in giving up 10 hits and walking four. Donnie Combs was perfect at the plate with three hits and two RBIs.

Jeremy Hall was the losing pitcher for the Cubs. Hall had a long three run homer in the Cubs fourth. Hall also went two for three at the plate. Roy John Martin came on to relieve Hall in the second.

"Jeremy's arm was hurting him because of lifting weights," Deaton says. "He needs to rest it and take care of it for the all-star games."

"We have done what we have done by the grace of God and, of course, on the efforts of the kids. They've allowed me to be able to coach the all-star team."

League President Eddie Patton had high praise for the way the tour-namment went this year. "I thought last year's tournament was the best, but this year the games were tighter, and there was more excitement. The sportsmanship has been excellent and the fans were certainly excited about every game," the league president stated.

"The coaches have all done a super job, and there was no derogatory remarks made. They have done a great job in teaching the kids the game, values and sportsmanship."

"All the kids played hard, and you couldn't task for a better tournament," Patton said.

Many people contributed to the success of the tournament, but Patton singled out two special people.

"If had not been for Steve and Mary Jenkins, we would not have had the tournament we had. They made the tournament go. I just can't say enough about the job they did," he said. "Mary was our concessions stand coordinator and Steve was here lining the field, cleaning up and just overseeing things."

"Lonnie Robinson kept the field drug for us and that really helped us out," he said.

According to Jenkins, Mayor

Raymond Griffith and police chief Herschel Lester made a tremendous contribution to the tournament.

"Herschel had his men to come down and patrol the park and the mayor just went out of his way to help us out," Jenkins said. "Burchell Duff, who is on the board of directors of the Beaver Creek Little League, and Eddie Caudill deserve our special thanks."

McDowell Captures Prep Title With Wins

First-year coach Jimmy Goins of the McDowell Crazy A's took his squad to the championship of the Floyd County Prep League with a double header win over the Betsy Layne Tigers and Maytown.

McDowell scored four times in the second inning of the first game to erase a 5-1 Betsy Layne Tiger lead, and tie the game at 5-5. The Crazy A's tallied three runs in both the third and fourth innings to claim an 11-6 lead. McDowell added a run in the bottom of the fifth and won the game 12-8.

Shannon Newsome had a home run for the winning A's in going three-for-four at the plate. Newsome also had a triple and a double in the winning effort. Ryan Brown, Chad Frazier and Byron Gearheart doubled for the McDowell squad. Jason Newsome picked up the win and contributed a double to the offense of McDowell.

Barry Clark was the losing pitcher. Clark had nine strike outs while issuing 13 walks. Clark doubled for the Tigers, as did Hamilton.

In the second game of the double header, McDowell defeated Maytown 17-2 behind the one-hit pitching of Matt Rose. Rose had five strikeouts and handed out five walks.

Chad Frazier led the hit parade for the winning team with two long home runs. Ryan Brown also homered for the A's.

Ronnie Howard suffered the setback. Howard fanned four and issued 13 walks.

Girls Basketball Clinic Set At BLHS July 10-21

by Ed Taylor, Sports Editor

Expressing a desire to see girls' basketball programs in Eastern Kentucky improve and rise along with boys' program, Diana Queen is bringing her "Nothing But The Net" girls basketball clinic to Betsy Layne High School Gym this month.

The clinic is scheduled for July 10-14 for girls in grades five through eight. A clinic for girls in grades 8-12 will be conducted July 17-21. The fee for the clinic is $65 a week or $110 for both weeks for eighth graders. A $45 deposit is required for placement.

"We want to develop a good working network with high school and college coaches in this area," Coach Queen stated. "We're hoping we can get some of the college coaches to come here and see the talent in Eastern Kentucky."

Although there have been other camps, Coach Queen believes that her camp will provide extra things that others have not.

"We will be having an all-star game on Wednesday night of each week, and we have contacted all the college coaches in the state of Kentucky to attend at least one of the all-star games," she said. "As far as we know they will be at one of the two." Queen thinks this will give all the college coaches the opportunity to look at some of the players in the area.

Coach Queen, a Kentucky State Police officer stationed in Pikeville, has gone all out to get quality instructors for the clinic. Queen, who played high school basketball at Boyd County High School, will be one of the instructors. She received numerous honors including All-District, All-Regional, Ashland Daily Independent All-Tournament. She was also named the Most Outstanding Female Athlete at Boyd County.

Nancy Winstel, head women's coach at Northern Kentucky University, where she has compiled a remarkable 108-33 won-loss mark, is also on the "Nothing But The Net" staff. Winstel's five teams at NKU have ranked in the nation's Division

II top 20.

Local instructors include Bridget

Clay, head basketball coach at Prestonsburg High School; Judy Eversole, who guided her Wheelwright Lady Trojans to the 58th District Tournament title this past season; Karen Henry, women's coach at Betsy Layne High School, whose Lady Bobcats finished second this summer at Morehead State University basketball camp; Cassandra Keathley, whose McDowell Lady Daredevils was runner-up in the 58th District, and Robin Harmon, assistant coach of the Kentucky All-Star team.

Former member of the Kentucky All-Star team, Kim Shepherd, will also work in the clinic. Shepherd was an outstanding player with the Allen Central Lady Rebels.

Nothing But The Net clinic has plans to hold a women's tournament in January with such teams as Lexington's Bates Creek, Clay County and Sheldon Clark high schools taking part with local teams.

Last year's camp drew 83 participants, and 150 are expected this year. For more information, call Queen at (606) 297-1400 in the mornings.

Harold-Allen-Prater All-Stars Announced

After the finals of their tournament, the Harold-Allen-Prater Little League released the names of the 14 players named to the league's all-star team.

The squad will be managed by Wilburn Sammons of the Allen Astros; Mike Potter of the Dodgers was named the team's coach.

All-stars are:
Richard Boyd of the Indians, who had a batting average of .484 during the regular season with one home run. As a pitcher, he was 3-3. According to his coach, Boyd is a great pitcher, has good speed and is a good all-around player.
Greg Akers of the Indians maintained a .431 batting average with three home runs. "Greg is a great third baseman," the Indians coach says. "He is a tremendous hitter."

Adam Hill of the Ivel Reds hit a .540 clip during the regular season. According to his coach Allen Hill, Hill possesses a strong throwing arm while playing third base.

"His hitting has always been consistent all through the season," Reds coach Hill says. "He only had two games where he went without a hit." Hill had four home runs this season for the Reds.
Ryan Ortega batted .534 during the past campaign. He homered three times. "His hitting is consistent, and Ryan had many extra base hits due to his speed in running the bases," coach Hill says.

Ortega was outstanding in his ability to pitch finishing with a 7-3 record including a no hit shutout earlier in the year. "Ryan has a 'no quit' attitude and is a coach's dream to coach."

Michael Roberts has the reputation of being a great lead off batter. Roberts finished the season with a .600 batting average. He is consistent at stealing bases having 29 during the season. Roberts played center field for the Allen Astros.

Rocky Newsome batted at a .412 clip for the Astros. He is an excellent pitcher and had 17 stolen bases this season.
Tim Lewis played right field for the Allen Astros. He was rated as a top power hitter for the Astros this past season hitting four home runs. He had a batting average of .500 for the season.

Brandon Barnette batted .545. He is an excellent first baseman and a good contact hitter. Barnette had 12 steals this season.
Jason Spurlock had three home runs and stole 19 bases while batting .536 for the Astros this year. He has good power and is a consistent contact hitter. Spurlock plays second base.

Hamilton struck out only four times during the season.
The Harold-Allen-Prater All-Stars will play the Paintsville All-Stars on Monday at 7 p.m. at the Paintsville Little League field off of U.S. 40.

League President Robert Damron believes that this team has an excellent chance to win. The Harold-Allen-Prater All-Stars are the defending champions from last year.
"We've had a good year," Damron says. "We have had no real problems. Good coaches have certainly made our league that way. We had three new coaches this year, one being a woman. Karen Collins started coaching this year and has done an excellent job. She placed two players on the All-Star team and finished third in the league.

"There is a possibility of adding two teams next year," the league president said. "We're not sure just yet. We will be using only two fields next year, the one at Harold and here at Allen. I think it will make our league better. The team concept is the best. We've been too spread out this year, playing at so many different sites."

Harold-Allen-Prater All-Stars

Fourteen players were recently named to the Harold-Allen-Prater All-Star team (see story). They will be playing in the All-Star tournament at Paintsville on Monday night, July 10, at the Paintsville Little League field. The All-Star team will play host Paintsville.

Making Memories: Traveling With Kids Can Be Enjoyable

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Remember those vacations in the family station wagon? The excitement of planning, preparing, and packing for the big trip?

Wondering if dad will let Spot or Rover come along?

"Good ol' dad, sure he will," you reason.

The night before the big day, you can't sleep. You're anxious to get started. Time seems to pass by so slowly.

Ahh, daylight, time to wake everyone up and get the trip underway.

On the way at last, heading out of town — without Spot or Rover. Dad just didn't understand.

How long before we get there?

"Dad, are we almost there?" you ask after 20 minutes on the road. "How much farther is it to Disney World?" you inquire after two hours traveling. "How many more toll booths are there, dad?" you ask with a wondering mind.

Four hours on the road (not six days), no Spot or Rover to share the trip with. You become fidgety, then you become just plain bored. You begin to ask mom and dad what seems like a million questions, and all the answers are the same: "Be still."

What to do? How about playing games that require observation and memory?

We asked some of the members of the adult world to share games they played on vacations or trips with their parents — don't laugh, they're really serious about this.

Here are a few examples:

"I Spy": Pick out an object in the car. Then say, "I spy with my little eye something that begins with the letter A." The object is for the others to try and guess the object you have seen.

"Slug Bug": Upon sighting a Volkswagen Beetle, you shout "slug bug!" and are entitled to "slug" the person next to you. But be nice, and don't slug too hard, or you'll have no one to play the game with. If you holler "slug bug!" and are mistaken — if it isn't a Volkswagen Beetle, you get slugged. Twice.

"Scavenger Hunt": Make a list of eight items each player must spot during the trip, such as a bus, dog, man walking, pigs, church, Volkswagen, train, or horses. Make some items easy, and others more difficult, to take up time during the trip.

A good memory game is for someone to spot an object during the trip and name it. Such as "I saw a bus on my way to Cincinnati." The next one will repeat what the first person saw and add what he or she has seen. Example: "I spotted a bus, and a cow on my way to Cincinnati." The object is to try and remember everything spotted by each person on the way to Cincinnati or wherever.

"Menu Dinner": Write down all the foods you see advertised on billboards and then make a "menu" for dinner.

Play your own version of the television show "Password".

Look for ways to entertain kids, or ways they can entertain themselves. Make all games challenges to the youngsters and others. Above all, have a good trip — even if dad wouldn't let Spot or Rover come along.

Keepers!

By Chris Altman

With the concurrent rise in popularity of both bass fishing and home video, it was inevitable that the two would eventually come together. Now that nearly half of all homes in America have VCR's, the outdoor video marketplace is a booming business. In fact, outdoor video is the hottest trend to hit the outdoor market in many, many years, and it is growing by leaps and bounds with each passing day.

Outdoor videos are fun, entertaining, and a great way to spend an otherwise boring rainy afternoon. But outdoor videos are also a great way to learn about the outdoors. Through home videos, Kentucky outdoorsmen can experience the breath-taking scenery and the thrill of a Colorado elk hunt, a brown trout excursion to New Zealand, and Alaskan brown bear trip, or a Steelhead fishing trip to British Columbia. But more importantly, outdoorsmen can learn new techniques, tips, and tricks to better their skills at their favorite outdoor pastime.

For example, it might take me a thousand words and a dozen photos to explain the bass fishing technique called "flipping". But you can learn the technique in about 15 seconds by watching an angler perform the technique on a bass fishing video. Too, my article has the potential for misinterpretation, so if you read it wrong or if I do not write clearly, you might learn the technique incorrectly...if you learn it at all. But that margin for error is eliminated by actually watching a man perform the technique while he explains the proper procedure to you. You can also learn how to call all sorts of game animals when hunting (deer, ducks, turkey, predators, geese, etc.), tie flies, craft fishing rods, all by watching a video.

At this time, there are literally thousands of outdoor videos on the market. Some are exceptional, some are mediocre, and others are not worth watching. How do you know which videos to purchase or rent? That's a tough question, but I can offer a few suggestions.

NAME RECOGNITION: Look for names well known for producing quality video productions. Glen Lau, a Florida underwater video specialist, produces bass fishing videos of exceptional quality.

3M LEISURE TIME PRODUCTS: This company produces a line of top notch outdoor videos; if it has this name on it, chances are it is a great film.

IN-FISHERMAN VIDEOS: If you don't mind listening to Yankees, these fishing videos are some of the best educational films on the market. You can also look for names of people who are well known in the outdoor arena. Hank Parker, Doug Hannon, Jerry McKinnis, and Al Lindner (just to name a few) tend to produce better than average videos.

FISHING SHOW PERSONALITIES: Because these fellows produce quality television shows, their videos are usually of high quality. However, some will often simply sell taped versions of their television programs, and it's no fun paying $30 for a couple of television programs that you have already seen.

A local company recently entered the outdoor video marketplace. UPLAND VIDEO PRODUCTIONS, a small company led by Pike County native Alfred Fields, recently produced their first video. Titled "Appalachian Grouse Hunting: Volume One", this is the only grouse hunting video that I have ever seen on the market, and it is a good one. As any grouse hunter can tell you, the ruffed grouse is one of the most elusive birds in the country. Not only is it tough to hit with a shotgun, but it is certainly a difficult bird to catch with a video camera. But Alfred Fields was able to do so.

The film details a two day hunt in the Phyllis area with Lloyd Fields, Teddy Anderson, and two great bird dogs, an English Setter and a Brittany Spaniel. One of the most enjoyable aspects of this film is watching the bird dogs in action. If you enjoy grouse hunting, I recommend this video highly.

Alfred Fields says, "We sell the video with a 100 percent guarantee. If you don't like it, or if the tape is bad, I will replace it or refund your money." Appalachian Grouse Hunting sells for $29.95 plus $3 shipping and handling. For more information, contact Alfred Fields at Upland Video Productions, PO Box 32, Phyllis, Ky. 41554, Phone (606) 835-2925 or 835-4766.

Alfred goes on to say that he is constantly improving the quality of his equipment, and thus his video productions, and that he will be working on several more videos (including some fishing videos!) in upcoming months.

One of the classic fishing videos of all time is Glen Lau's Bigmouth, an in depth look at the life cycle of the largemouth bass. I recommend this film, which is available from 3M, highly.

Another video which I recommend for anglers in this area is 3M's Muskie Fishing Magic, a 55 minute look at the often crazy world of muskie fishing. If you have ever wanted to pursue these water wolves, and nearby Cave Run Lake is a great place to do so, I recommend this video.

For more information on the full line of videos available from 3M Leisure Time Products, write them at Building 224-25-27, 3M Center, St. Paul, Minn. 55144-1000.

Tips On Bass Boat Care Given

Bass boats are a little like gardens. They require care and attention in order to produce the best results.

Unfortunately, says Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff angler and boat dealer Bo Dowden, many fishermen don't feel that way, and as a result, they often have to pay heavy maintenance and repair bills.

"The biggest mistake I see," says Dowden, "is that people don't prepare the boat properly for storage. You can't simply park your boat in your driveway, or even in your garage, and walk away."

"If you do, you're asking for trouble, and it can be expensive."

Boats left in this manner may still have water remaining in their lower units. If this water freezes, it can crack the lower unit and necessitate a major repair.

Anglers planning to put a boat into storage anytime in the future, says the Evinrude pro, should follow these tips:

"Change the oil in the lower unit before storage. This will remove any water and prevent freezing. Even in hot weather, it's a good idea to get the water out."

"Fill the gas tanks to capacity. This will keep water from condensing, because there isn't any air in the tanks. If you don't do this, the water formed by condensation will contaminate your gasoline and you'll have to drain the tanks."

"It will also help to add some fuel conditioner to the gasoline," says Dowden. "This is available from most boat and outboard dealers, and also helps keep the fuel from going bad. Once you do this, crank the engine and let it run for about five minutes to circulate the fuel conditioner. This will keep gummy deposits from building up in the engine during storage." Before shutting off the motor, inject a rust preventative fogging oil in the engine. Fogging oils are available at from dealers, and have instructions for proper use.

The batteries don't have to be removed, says Dowden, but should be disconnected. They should be charged about once a month to keep them from deteriorating.

Dowden also suggests fishermen put a fresh coat of wax on the boat, then store it in shady place. The wheel bearings should be greased, and the boat covered, if possible.

"After that," says Dowden, "the boat should be ready to go the next time you're ready to go."

Fencing Around Pools Can Prevent Drownings

Many of the 330 children under five years of age who drown each year in backyard pools could be saved if homeowners completely fenced in the pool and installed self-closing and self-latching devices on gates.

Officials with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) said child drownings are the second leading cause of accidental death around the home to children under five years of age.

A CPSC survey of home pool drownings and near-drownings in parts of three states revealed that most of these drownings occurred in a pool owned by the child's family. Almost half the children involved in the accidents were last seen in the house, presumably safe from harm, prior to being found in the pool. In three of every four of these accidents, the children were seen five minutes or less before being "missed" and subsequently discovered in the pool. While there is no substitute for supervision of children, a barrier designed to prevent them from reaching the pool, even from the house, could have prevented many of these accidents.

CPSC said that many communities do have codes or regulations that require fences around residential pools, but they may allow the house to serve as one side of the barrier. However, a fence completely surrounding the pool is better. Fences should be a minimum of four feet high, although fences five feet or higher are preferable.

Homeowners who wish to upgrade the safety of their backyard pool may obtain a free 11-page pool safety checklist from CPSC by sending a postcard to Pool Safety, Washington, D.C. 20207.

Assistance Available For Restoring State Wetlands

Kentucky landowners have an opportunity to get assistance in restoring former wetland areas on their property, under recently adopted rules of the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP).

The next sign-up period for the program is July 14 through August 4 at the nearest office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Wetlands are crucial to waterfowl whose numbers have rapidly declined nationwide in the last 10 years. The decline is directly attributed to the loss of natural breeding and wintering grounds which have been drained and converted for agricultural purposes.

Although most waterfowl habitat destruction has occurred in Canada, any lost wetland, even in Kentucky, can affect waterfowl populations. (Remember that wood ducks nest in Kentucky.)

There's an urgent need to not only preserve existing waterfowl habitat but also to restore former wetlands to their original character and purpose, according to the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife.

Kentucky landowners who know (or suspect) a part of their land was once a wetland and are willing to see it restored can play a part in preserving this important part of the state's natural heritage. Earlier this year Kentucky farmers signed up a total of 185 acres for wetlands restoration, according to the department.

The expansion of CRP rules will allow landowners, whose land meets eligibility requirements, to voluntarily participate in wetland restoration.

Persons who have owned land for at least three years with a former wetland area on their property, which has been in crop rotation for a minimum of two years during the period 1981-1985, may be eligible to participate in this portion of the Conservation Reserve Program. Once the landowner signs up, the ASCS determines whether the property is eligible for CRP wetlands restoration. If eligible, the Soil Conservation Service will conduct soil tests to determine whether the land qualifies as a true wetland. If the soil qualifies as "wet," the landowner submits a bid to the ASCS office and plans get underway to restore the former wetland area.

Interested farmers should register for wetlands restoration at the nearest ASCS office between July 17 and August 4.

Batman Flies, But Lone Ranger Rides Tall

By Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

With 'Bat-mania' running rampant across the country, Richard Muse is in his element. The collector of 'Superhero' memorabilia can converse with just about anyone on the history of Batman and other comic book heroes.

The Prestonsburg man can point out discrepancies between the modern version and the origin of Batman, the superhero whose movie depiction is setting box office records this summer.

Pulling out illustrated books on the superheroes, Muse shows that the early Batman, referred to originally as the "Dark Knight," had much bigger ears on his 1939 bat costume and large spikes on his gauntlets.

The crusader's utility belt, now primarily for decoration, once carried necessities in his fight against evil: cylinders of nitroglycerine and "just about anything he wanted," says Muse.

Another discrepancy Muse has found involves the way Batman's parents died, an event that spurred the Caped Crusader's assault on crime. "Later versions have Joe Chill shooting both of Bruce Wayne's parents," the collector says, "but in the original story, he shot the father, and the mother subsequently died of a heart attack."

Muse says the location of the 'bat cave' has also changed over the years. "The early bat cave was out in the country, under an old barn. Now it's under Bruce Wayne's home in Gotham City."

Muse has followed the comic book heroes since he was growing up in the 1930s in Raleigh, N.C. Not only did he buy the books, but he also was glued to the radio when many of the now-classic serials featuring the Depression-era "good guys" were first broadcast.

The hero, however, who made the biggest impact and who remains Muse's passion is the most famous masked man in the world—the Lone Ranger. Since he was a child, Muse has collected books, toys, audio and video tapes and other memorabilia on the Old West's number one crime fighter. Muse can recite the chronology of the Lone Ranger almost as if the fictional character, created on radio in 1933, were a historical person.

Muse has the lowdown on all the actors who've played the Lone Ranger from the first one on radio, Jack Deeds, to Clinton Spilbury who starred in a 1981 movie that Muse considers a "farce."

Earl Graser, who played The Lone Ranger on radio from 1933 to 1941, for instance, was a "little wimpy-looking fellow," according to Muse. To keep the public image intact, the show's narrator Bruce Beemer, who was more than six feet tall, appeared in public as the western hero, Muse says.

The actor who read the radio part of Tonto from the onset until the radio series ceased in the 1950s was John Todd, described by Muse as a "60-year-old, bald-headed Irishman."

In Lone Ranger movie serials in the 1940s, Tonto was portrayed by Chief Thundercloud, and for the later television series, starring Clayton Moore, Jay Silverheels was the Indian. Both Thundercloud and Silverheels were apparently authentic native Americans.

As with Batman, the look of the Lone Ranger has evolved over the years, Muse says. Pictures in the early books of the character show him dressed in a checked shirt, chaps, cowhide vest and 10-gallon hat. Muse says an artist named Henry Valleley created the familiar tight-fitting, light blue costume.

Tonto, the Lone Ranger's "faithful Indian companion," was originally depicted in Apache tribal garb, but Muse says that the early books explain that the sidekick was a member of a Potawatomi tribe that settled in Kansas.

Muse's sources include just about every piece of printed material ever published on the adventures of the Lone Ranger. "One feature book and five comic books are all I don't have out of over 200 books on the subject," Muse says.

The collection covers 14 Big Little Books, 19 hard back books, a coloring book and numerous copies of Golden Books and pulp magazines, all on the famous masked cowboy. Included is a copy of the first edition of the first Lone Ranger comic book, published in the 1930s.

In addition, Muse owns 33 books about Tonto's adventures and 36 books featuring the Lone Ranger's horse Silver. He also has posters from Lone Ranger movies, along with bubble gum cards on the hero and a metal sign with the hero hawking Merita bread.

From his childhood days, Muse has several items he sent away for and has kept through the years, including a copy of the Lone Ranger pledge, two toy six-guns and holsters, and membership cards in the Lone Ranger Safety Club and Victory Rangers.

For storage purposes, the collection translates into seven boxes of comic books, two large boxes of Big Little Books and pulp books, and assorted containers for the other items.

He also has pictures of himself with Clayton Moore, the actor most identified with The Lone Ranger. Muse says he met Moore several years ago and has kept in touch with the 74-year-old actor ever since.

Muse traces his fascination—near adoration—with the Lone Ranger back to his childhood. "I started listening to the Lone Ranger on radio about 1935," he explains. "I was very idealistic, very patriotic. The Lone Ranger stood for high ideals, encouraging you to be safe, obey your mom and dad, and so forth."

Muse's collection also includes books and memorabilia about Captain Marvel ("I was a big fan."), Green Lantern and Spider Woman. In fact, he has all the comic books on the arachnid heroine, 50 in all, ranging "from her birth to her death."

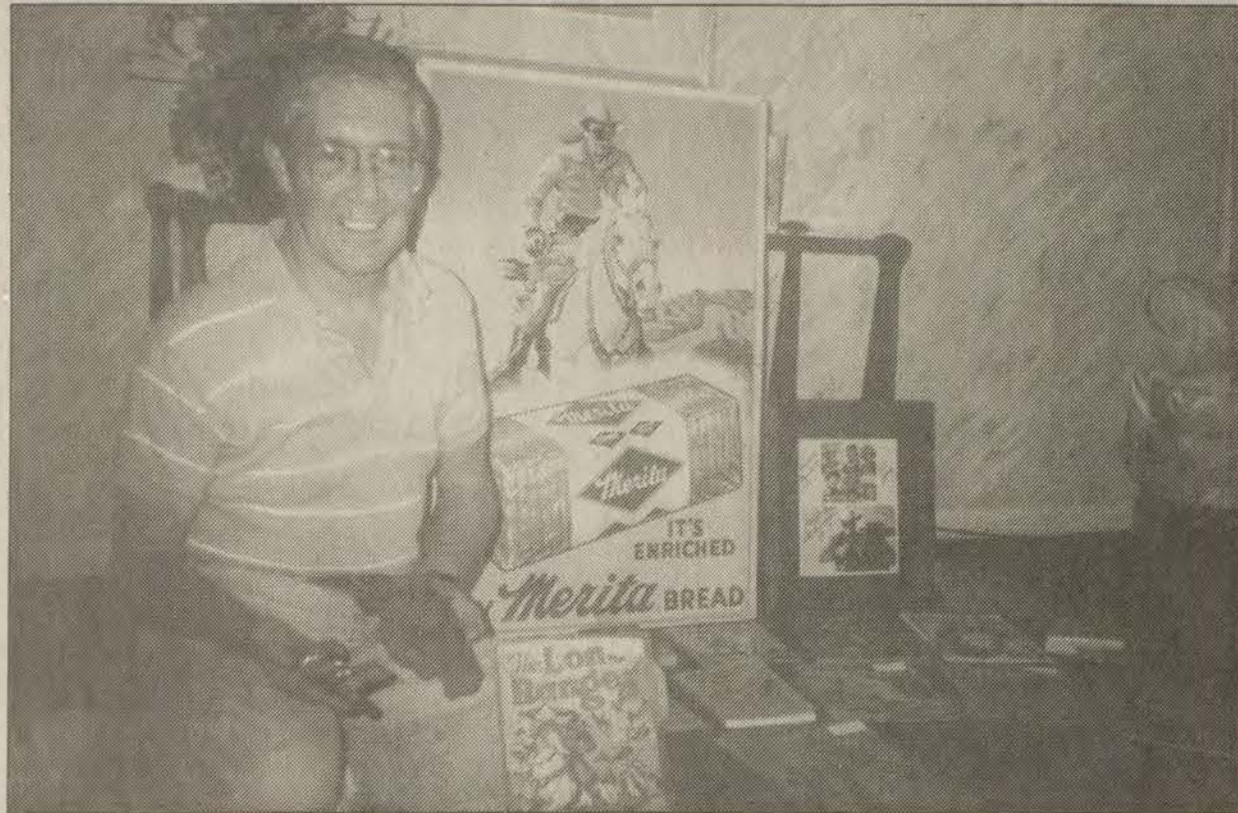

Although he had hung onto items from his youth, Muse says his collecting did not begin in earnest until the late 1960s. "It was a spur of the moment thing. I suddenly decided to collect Lone Ranger stuff," he says.

At times the habit has been an expensive one. He paid $60, for instance, for a 1939 Lone Ranger comic book that originally cost 10 cents. The Merita bread sign cost $250 when he bought it 10 years ago.

On the other hand, the items have a good resale value, and in an occasional "financial pinch," Muse has sold some.

Muse often travels to festivals and shows where memorabilia are traded and sold. A few weeks ago, he attended the Roy Rogers Festival in Portsmouth, Ohio. "It's a big thrill to meet someone else who's interested," he says.

Among the collector's dreams is to open a museum, he says, so he can bring the superheroes' materials out of storage and put them on public display.

Hi-Yo, Kemo Sabe

Richard Muse is at home surrounded by a few pieces from his collection of memorabilia on the Lone Ranger. He owns boxes of books chronicling the masked man's adventures, posters and signs, and even a toy holster and gun set from his own youth. The valuable collection is in storage most of the time.

County Kettle

County Kettle

Is a feature offered by the Floyd County Times. Send all recipes, kitchen tips and suggestions to "County Kettle," The Floyd County Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg, KY 41653

With the heat the way it has been, cooking is not a pleasant experience. No one wants to stay in a hot kitchen for any length of time. This week's County Kettle features recipes, taken from a variety of sources, that require little or no cooking and are cool entrees and snacks to please everyone.

STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB SHERBET

1 lb fresh rhubarb, cooked and cooled
1 lb fresh strawberries (2 pints)
2 egg whites
1 cup sugar
2 Tbsp fresh lemon juice

Rinse rhubarb and cut into 1-inch pieces. Place in a microwave-safe bowl. Add 1/4 cup water. Cover and cook on High power 4 to 6 minutes or until tender. Drain and set aside to cool slightly. Rinse and hull strawberries. Place all ingredients in a food processor; puree until smooth. Pour mixture into a 9" x 13" pan, and then place in freezer until mixture is partially frozen, about 1 to 1 1/2 hours. Spoon mixture into food processor. Process until thick and light. Return mixture to pan and freeze.

Makes about 8 servings; 130 calories per serving.

Note: Remove sherbet from freezer about 15 minutes before serving to soften slightly, or if desired, puree again in the food processor.

HONEY VANILLA ICE CREAM 2 eggs

3/4 cup honey
1-1/2 cups milk
1 Tbsp vanilla extract
1-1/2 cups whipping cream
Beat eggs until foamy in a large mixing bowl. Gradually add honey; beat at low speed until well blended. Gradually blend in milk and vanilla. Chill at least 30 minutes. Whip cream until it forms soft peaks; fold into chilled mixture. Churn-freeze, using slightly greater portion of salt to ice than for other ice creams. After freezing, transfer ice cream to a plastic freezer container. Ripen in freezer at least 3 hours before serving.
Yields 2 quarts.

WARM SHRIMP AND PASTA

1 lb jumbo shrimp, shelled, deveined and cut in half lengthwise countries in early July 1990. All students are fluent in English, have been screened by representatives in their home countries, and have spending money and medical insurance.
1 cup chopped tomatoes

Potpourri Of New Books Available At PCC Library

by Trisha Morris
PCC Librarian

The Library at Prestonsburg Community College is constantly adding new titles to its shelves. The following are just a sample of the varied subjects which are represented.

The Wild Flavor, by Marilyn Kluger. The author tells where to find, how to identify and how to prepare the natural bounty of field and forest. She writes about the joys of discovering morels under old elms, of searching spring fields for greens, of picking berries under summer skies and of beating squirrels to the harvest of nuts in the fall.

Her wild dishes are the thrifty meals prepared by housekeepers of pioneer days: sassafras tea, maple glazed squash, wilted dandelion greens, stuffed morels, mulberry pie, blackberry buckle, hazel nut soufflé and spiced wild crab-apple jelly.

A celebration of nature, this book reveals the joys of preparing the bountiful feast nature offers free for the picking.

Stroke In The Elderly, by Ruth Dunkle.

This multidisciplinary volume provides information on the most recent scientific approaches to the care of the older stroke victim. A survey of the contents page shows such issues covered as: symptoms, treatment controversies, new techniques for detection, nursing care of the stroke victim, principles of rehabilitation and economic and political issues.

This book could be of interest to anyone involved with the health care of the aged.

Leaders in Education: Their Views on Control Issues, edited by Glenda Roberson.

An anthology which offers the reflections of leading educators on topics such as significant trends in education, influence of technology on education, current problems in education and the future direction of education.

A well-rounded source of information in the education field, this book could be a catalyst for heated discussions.

Drugged Athletes: The Crisis in American Sports, by Jonathan Harris.

This is an easy-to-read journalistic account of alcohol and drug abuse among professional athletes. Harris names possible causes as "racism, social and cultural pressure to win, treatment of athletes as cultural heroes and as commodities that are bought and sold at will." He suggests solutions such as "greater media attention to the problem, health education programs, more treatment facilities and the reduction of the pressure to 'win at any cost.'"

The inclusion of vivid personal experiences of known athletes adds interest to the author's theories.

Disappearing Rain Forests, by Robert Prosser.

Most readers have been exposed to some disturbing information on the plight of the rain forests worldwide. Here Prosser gives a concise clear account of this global problem. He points out, "Approximately 100 acres of tropical rain forests are being destroyed each minute of every day."

The author does an outstanding job of describing the structure of rain forests and points out that possibly half of all species in the world are found there.

Prosser tells his story by focusing on the Nuaulu people of Indonesia who obtain raw material for their building, clothing, food and medicine from this disappearing environment.

Josh and Reva finally find marital bliss

Actress hoping for happiness

By Mary Ann Townsend She's been married to every man in the Lewis family, except her one true love—but that's about to change as Reva Shayne marries Josh Lewis in what is undoubtedly daytime's wedding of the year this week on Guiding Light.

Reva, played by energetic actress Kim Zimmer, has been through the ringer with two, nearly three unsuccessful marriages and a life filled with longing for Josh (Robert Newman), whom she has known since they were 9 years old.

But producers plan to pay off the loyal audience by letting Reva and Josh marry in peace during festivities to last throughout the week on the hour-long show July 14 through 17.

"It's going to be a terrific wedding, and very, very emotional and reminiscent," actress Zimmer said shortly after receiving the wedding script in mid-June. "It's going to go off without a hitch too, which will be nice to know, the fans will like to know that."

"They've had to wait, you know, six years to have this wedding and I think it's only fair that it happens without incident—I have a lot to say in that, too," she added.

The wedding will take place at Cross Creek, the couple's favorite romantic, rustic spot in the country near Tulsa, the town where they grew up. Only close family and friends from long ago will be there so that no chaos ensues.

Their lives have already been chaotic enough for the past six years. Zimmer joined the Guiding Light cast in 1983. Already her character had run off and married Josh's brother, Billy, despite her strong feelings for Josh. Then, after Zimmer arrived to play Reva, Josh's father, H.B. blackmailed the character to stay away from Josh. But, while H.B. thought Reva was too wild for Josh, she wasn't too wild for old H.B., so after a fight with Josh, H.B. took Reva to Hawaii for a quickie wedding.

Kim Zimmer had a lot of say in her Guiding Light character's wedding, which begins Friday on CBS.

To say the least, many more complications have kept the star-crossed lovers from marital bliss together, but finally their day is coming.

Zimmer has some definite ideas about where Reva should go from here.

"I don't want to see her sitting up in her beautiful mansion on the hill being Josh's wife. I hope that now that they've married us off we can get back to some serious business of partying. I don't want to cry for a while. I'm cried out. I'd like to have some fun—have a good solid month go by without any tragedies," she said.

And look for Reva to take up singing. Zimmer, who has her own Manhattan night club act in addition to her work on Guiding Light, is hoping to be doing some singing on the show, as well.

TV Q&A

Joe Penny became an actor at a friend's suggestion

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I've become a real fan of Joe Penny since watching re-runs of his earlier series Rip Tide. What information can you share about the real Joe, such as age, place of birth, residence, marital status, etc. —D. Hunt, Montrose, Colo.

A: Penny was born on May 29, 1956, in England. His father was in the service and the family moved constantly during Joe's early years, finally settling in Los Angeles. When he was 18, at the suggestion of a friend, he began studying acting. His first real break came in 1977 when he made his TV debut in the premiere episode of The Nancy Drew Mysteries. He is 6 feet tall and weighs 180 pounds. He has blue eyes and dark brown hair. He is single and makes his home in Toluca Lake, Calif., when not on location filming his current series, Jake and the Fatman, in Hawaii.

Q: Would you please share some information regarding the actor who plays Bubba Skinner on In the Heat of the Night? I can't remember his off-stage name. —Elaina Samuels, Palmer, Alaska

A: Bubba Skinner is played by Alan Autry. He was born in Shreveport, La., on July 31. His family later moved to California where he attended Riverdale High School. After graduating from the University of Pacific, he was drafted by the Green Bay Packers and played professional football for three seasons. Director Robert Altman, a football fan, met Autry and encouraged him to try acting when his playing days ended. His first film was Remember My Name with Alfre Woodard. Other films include Amazing Grace and Chuck, O.C. & Stiggs, At Close Range, North Dallas Forty and Popeye. Divorced, he is the father of a daughter,

Joe Penny

Lauren Brown. Autry lives in Van Nuys, Calif. Write him c/o NBC Audience Services, 3000 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, Calif. 91523.

Q: In the old Lone Ranger series everyone knows Clayton Moore played the Lone Ranger. For a time though he was replaced by two other Lone Rangers. One was John Hart. Is this the same John Hart who is now the newscaster? Also who was the other replacement and why was Moore ever replaced by these two anyway? —Ron Shuck, Zillah, Wash.

A: Moore portrayed the Lone Ranger from 1949-52. He then went on to appear in movie serials including Son of Geronimo, and a number of low-budget action films, including Jungle Drums of Africa (1953) and The Black Dakotas (1954). John Hart appeared in the series during Moore's absence. Moore resumed his role in 1954 and kept his mask in place until the series was canceled in 1957. John Hart, the newscaster, was never the Lone Ranger.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

ONE TEASPOON

When a prescription calls for one teaspoon of medication to be administered to a child, a parent should not go to the set of kitchen stainless ware. The average teaspoon found in the household contains anywhere from 2.5 cc. to 7.8 cc. of liquid volume. In the middle of this range is the 5 cc. amount that the American Medical Association established in 1903 to be the standard measure of a teaspoon. Thus, it is obvious that a more reliable measure of 5 cc. can be had with the measuring cup that accompanies most children's medication. If one is not available, or it is lost, ask the pharmacist for a calibrated dropper, medication cup, oral syringe, or spoonlike device. The smaller a child is, the less room there is for error. A parent should never guess at a child's medication amount.

Pharmacists at COOLEY APOTHECARY look forward to meeting the complete pharmaceutical needs of every member of your family so if you need an over-the-counter cough remedy or a prescription medication for you or your child, see us first. Everyday low prices are available on prescriptions plus we offer complete patient profiles. For accurate, sound and safe advice you will find us located at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

HINT: Never presume that a pill can be crushed in order to make it more palatable for a child.

Angie, 38. Found houseware parties the ideal excuse to mix a blender of margaritas. But in a few years, it went from women friends to lowlifes and losers hanging around her home late into the night. Sometimes, her husband had to load up the kids and go midnight bar-hopping to find her. Finally, he nailed up doors and windows to keep her out. In desperation, feeling she'd be dead within a year unless she got control of herself, Angie turned to CareUnit.

"I learned more about myself than I'd learned in a lifetime. For the first time, I feel good about myself."

Angie is now sober, and is rebuilding her relationship with her husband and two daughters.

Proposed Flood Elevation Determinations AGENCY: Federal Emergency Management Agency.
ACTION: Proposed rule.
SUMMARY:

Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed modified base (100-year) flood elevations shown on your community's preliminary Revised Flood Insurance Rate Map (FIRM). These base (100-year) flood elevations are the basis for the floodplain management measures that the community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program.

DATES:
The period for comment will be ninety (90) days following the second publication of this proposed rule in a newspaper of local circulation in the community.

ADDRESSES:
Preliminary Revised FIRMs showing the proposed modified base flood elevations and their delineation are available for review at the Courthouse Annex Building, West Minister Street, Suite 109, Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:
Mr. John L. Matticks
Chief, Risk Studies Division
Federal Insurance Administration
Federal Emergency Management Agency
Washington, D.C. 20472
(202) 646-2767

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:
The Federal Emergency Management Agency gives notice of the proposed determinations of modified base (100-year) flood elevations, in accordance with Section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (Pub. L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which added Section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 (Pub. L. 90-448), 42 U.S.C. 4001-4128, and 44 CFR 65.4(a).

These elevations, together with the floodplain management measures required by Section 60.3 of the program regulations, are the minimum that are required. They should not be construed to mean the community must change any existing ordinances that are more stringent in their floodplain management requirements. The community may at any time enact stricter requirements on its own, or pursuant to policies established by other Federal, State, or regional entities. These proposed elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for new buildings and their contents and for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and their contents.

Pursuant to the provisions of 5 USC 605(b), the Administrator, to whom authority has been delegated by the Director, Federal Emergency Management Agency, hereby certifies that the proposed flood elevation determinations, if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. A flood elevation determination under section 1363 forms the basis for new local ordinances, which, if adopted by a local community, will govern future construction within the floodplain area. The elevation determinations, however, impose no restriction unless and until the local community voluntarily adopts floodplain ordinances in accord with these elevations. Even if ordinances are adopted in compliance with Federal standards, the elevations prescribe how high to build in the floodplain and do not prohibit development. Thus, this action only forms the basis for future local actions. It imposes no new requirement; of itself it has no economic impact. Proposed base flood elevations along flood sources studied in detail are shown on the Preliminary Revised FIRM. Lessees and owners of real property in the Unincorporated Areas of Floyd County, Kentucky are encouraged to review these maps and related materials at the address cited above. The flood sources studied in detail are:

Table with 4 columns: Source of Flooding, Location, Existing, Modified. Rows include Levisa Fork, Middle Creek, Abbott Creek, Beaver Creek, and Mud Creek.

Real Estate

Affordability Is Problem, Says Real Estate Executive

The major problem to be faced by the real estate industry in the 1990s is housing affordability, Norman D. Flynn, president-elect of the National Association of Realtors, told a conference of real estate reporters in California recently. "America is at a crossroads," Flynn said. "On one side is the American Dream, which nine of 10 Americans say constitutes home ownership. On the other side is the European/Japanese nightmare...where (on average) 50 percent of family income goes to pay for housing."

Flynn made his remarks on May 19 during a luncheon speech before more than 100 reporters and public relations practitioners attending the National Association of Real Estate Editors annual spring seminar, according to Jeff Lubar, association representative.

"If we don't do something about housing affordability, if we don't change the attitudes in the political environment in which we live, our children and their children will not have the (home ownership) opportunity that you and I had," Flynn told reporters.

He said the solution to the housing affordability problem can be found at three levels: national, state and local. He stressed the need for the federal government to adopt a national housing policy. Among other things, that policy should raise the ceiling on loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration for home buyers in high cost areas and provide tax incentives to help families save for the down payment on a home.

Flynn, a realtor from Madison, Wisc., stressed that the mortgage interest deduction should not be further reduced, because "to make a change would send a terrible signal at a time when home ownership is declining...it would send a signal that the federal government does not support home ownership."

The mortgage interest deduction helps home buyers at all levels of the housing market, from first-time buyers to repeat buyers, he said. Further reducing the deduction, or eliminating it, would tighten the market, increase the cost of housing and hurt first-time buyers most of all, he said.
