Teen Killed In Accident

An 18-year-old woman died early Tuesday when she was struck by a coal truck on US 23 near the entrance to Plaza Road in Prestonsburg.

Anita C. Frasure, whose address is listed as both Price and McDowell, was reportedly walking with a 13-year-old female companion when a coal truck, driven by Christopher Coleman, 23, of Pikeville, hit her at about 1:20 a.m. She was pronounced dead at the scene by Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson.

According to eyewitnesses, Frasure was walking on the roadway, police said, and fog was moderately heavy. According to Prestonsburg Police officer R.J. Conn, another coal truck directly in front of Coleman had swerved to miss the young woman, but Coleman was unable to maneuver around them in time.

The 13-year-old was taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center where she was treated and released, Conn said.

The truck driver was not injured. The accident is being investigated by Prestonsburg police, coroner's office and sheriff's department.

Shifting Sludge

Treating water and making it available to every Floyd Countian is a task that will cost an estimated $20 million. Local officials are trying to get the okay to use Abandoned Mine Lands funds to improve water conditions in the county. Officials say the Beaver Elkhorn treatment plant, shown here, and Prestonsburg treatment plant both need to be expanded to meet county needs.

A Boon To Cola Makers:

Much Local Water Is Not Fit To Drink, Say Area Officials

by Pam Shingler, Assistant Editor

A couple puts a new bathroom in their house and runs the sewer line to the creek. The water from their neighbor's well becomes contaminated and undrinkable.

A community that relied on mountain water, stored in an old mine, wakes one morning to find their taps empty and the water source mysteriously vanished.

A woman frets over the way her white clothes look after she's washed them. Just a few washings give them a yellowish cast akin to the color of the water from her well. Her kitchen sink, bathroom plumbing, dishes, pots and pans — everything has the greasy feel of the oily, sulfurous water. Local grocery stores enjoy a brisk business in sales of bottled drinking water and chlorine bleach.

Water, according to Seventh District US Congressman Chris Perkins, is one of Eastern Kentucky's major long-term problems. One of the local representative's major projects now is to push a law through Congress that would earmark 50 percent of the Abandoned Mine Lands monies that come into the state for water projects.

Yesterday, AML officials were in Floyd County to visit some areas of the county that are not served by water treatment systems. They were to talk to residents about their water problems and the changes area leaders believe have occurred in some places because of mining.

The visit is a result of testimony by See DRINKING WATER, Page 2

Deja vu

The weather service at Jackson might as well put a recording on the phone. Hot, humid and hazy remain the key words. The forecast for today through Friday is for partly sunny days and muggy nights. Temperature highs are to be in the upper 80s, with nighttime lows in the upper 60s to low 70s.

The extended weekend outlook calls for partly cloudy skies, scattered afternoon thunderstorms and temperature highs in the upper 80s to lower 90s.

Stumbo Honored

Wheelwright educator Carol Stumbo has been honored by the American Association for State and Local History.

Stumbo and the Mantrip and "Writing Across the Curriculum Project" have received a certificate of commendation for helping students in Eastern Kentucky value their own heritage, according to Linda Di-Ciaula, awards liaison for AASLH.

The award will be conferred Friday, Sept. 8, during the organization's annual meeting in Seattle, Wash.

A special luncheon is planned to honor this year's award recipients.

BSASC Gets Car

The Big Sandy Area Service Corp. has received a $13,305 grant from the Area Development Fund to purchase a vehicle.

According to local officials, the vehicle will provide transportation for staff and board members when promoting the area for community and economic growth.

Oh, Deer!

Debra Music of Hager Hill had a less-than-the-best Tuesday.

Traveling south on US 23 near Wicke's Lumber, Music's car was sideswiped by a west-bound deer that crossed the northbound lanes and jumped the guardrail, striking her car on the front quarter panel.

The 2-year-old spike buck was apparently being chased by dogs.

Martin Council

A Martin City Council meeting is tentatively scheduled for 7 p.m. this evening (Wednesday) at Martin City Hall, according to Johnnie Stephens, city clerk. The meeting is open to the public.

Six Months Later: Is Progress Being Made?

by Anne Chaney, Editor

(First of a two-part interview)

Six months into the Kentucky Department of Education's direct intervention into the Floyd County school system, state officials who were touted in January as harbingers of progressive change are now hearing charges that too little has been done, and too slowly.

At the state Board of Education's last meeting, representatives of the Floyd County Education Association told officials that educators had seen little substantial improvement in the district. They also charged that communication among the district's teachers, administrative staff and state officials is almost nil.

On the heels of the FCEA charges, the Floyd County Education Forum asked the state board to place the local district into Phase 4 of the academic bankruptcy law — a move that could result in removal of the district's superintendent and elected board members.

Dr. Betty Steffy, who heads the state's intervention team in Floyd County, agrees that the state's progress was hampered initially because there was no specific plan of action by the state before direct intervention began.

"We didn't have a plan before we did it . . . it was sloppy. It was not planned to provide a smooth transition from Phase 2 to Phase 3."

However, Steffy says in the ensuing six months, progress has been made in the district.

She acknowledges that much of the state's contribution has been on paper, where it is not easily seen — helping formulate curriculum guides, board policy, sound fiscal management and conducting administrative staff training.

All contribute to building a foundation in the district — a necessary step, she maintains, to help assure that the changes will be lasting.

Steffy, the state's deputy superintendent for instruction, notes that members of her staff have spent a total of 176 consulting days in the local district, not including time the staff has spent in Frankfort planning for Floyd County projects.

This fall, she said, teachers will begin to see the summer's planning work implemented. Additionally, a monthly status report will be sent to the staff, updating educators on work being done in the district.

Teachers have the opportunity to become involved in subject advisory committees, as well as school improvement initiatives at the campus level. Steffy says plans are being made to form strategic planning committees at the building level the first of the year.

Monitoring of instruction will be so complete, she says, that it will be a mixed blessing for classroom personnel.

"Not all of them will say this is a wonderful and terrific thing," the deputy superintendent said, "but we're not holding them accountable, so much as we're finding out whether we have designed the right curriculum for students in Floyd County."

Despite the upbeat changes in the district, Steffy says that in terms of trust, little progress has been made.

"That's the area where we have been least effective — there may be less trust today than in January," said Steffy, adding that the state's presence in the district may have exacerbated the mistrust already clearly evident when a curriculum audit was performed two months earlier.

"I'm not sure why — it seems maybe that expectations were very high among the teaching staff. They felt, 'Now things will change,' and community groups were very optimistic."

"There has been change, primarily in planning, but nobody believes See STEFFY, Page 6

Groups Sponsor Floyd County Recycling Day

Floyd Countians will have an opportunity to "stop throwing it all away" on Saturday, Aug. 26, a day which has been declared "recycling day" in Floyd County.

The recycling drive is being organized by Kentuckians For The Commonwealth and co-sponsored by Mountain Christian Academy, where the recyclables will be stored before being transported to a recycling redemption center.

The drive is an effort by KFTC members not only to help Floyd Countians become aware of the need to recycle garbage, but also to illustrate the ease with which it can be done. Members hope it will be a ground-breaking experience that will some day lead to regular recycling programs in Floyd County that allow people to recycle their garbage without having to leave town.

"I urge everyone to participate and become involved in the recycling movement," said Karen Alfano, an attorney with Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky. "Recycling is a solution to our waste problems that can no longer be ignored."

"As landfills continue to become overloaded and unsafe, and as companies continue to try to bring incinerators and out-of-state garbage into Kentucky, people are beginning to realize that garbage is a major environmental, economic and health issue in Kentucky and across the nation," Alfano added.

As a domestic expenditure, solid waste disposal is second in cost only to education in the U.S., according to Earth Care Paper, Inc., a national company which sells recycled paper products. The company also points out that recycling saves natural resources, creates less pollution, and even creates jobs.

The public is invited to drop off any recyclables — glass, plastic, aluminum, paper, or newspaper — at one of four sites: at the intersection of US 23 and South Lake Drive in Prestonsburg, at Mud Creek Clinic, at the David School, and at Mountain Christian Academy, off Route 80 in Martin. The sites will be set up from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. KFTC members will be available to help at each site. Cleaned and sorted recyclables will be greatly appreciated.

"We need to make sure lids are removed from glass and plastic (milk jugs and 2-liter bottles) and they are rinsed," said KFTC member David Schmidt. "Aluminum cans and aluminum foil should be separated, and newspapers should be neatly bundled," he added. Schmidt has been collecting recyclables at Mountain Christian Academy from students and employees, and transporting them to major recycling redemption centers.

"Any profits (from taking the recyclables) could keep the program going," said KFTC Steering Committee Representative Betty May, as KFTC members and others in the community continue to examine the long-term benefits this drive could have.

No Dumping, Puh-leeze!

Most of the items discarded in dozens (maybe hundreds) of garbage dumps throughout Floyd County could be recycled, making for a safer, more attractive countryside. Two local groups are pushing recycling efforts through "Recycling Day," Aug. 26. Four centers will be open that day to receive glass, plastic, aluminum and paper throwaways.

Board Hears School Construction Update

The Floyd County Board of Education, meeting in special session Tuesday night, heard updates on four school construction projects currently underway in the county.

James Ellis of James A. Ellis & Associates, architect for the Left Beaver Consolidated High School, said construction documents were about 75 percent complete, but that the project had been in a "holding pattern" since last spring, when state officials indicated another site might be more suitable.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction John Brock and Ron Hager, local superintendent, flew over the area earlier this year. Brock indicated in a letter to Hager recently that the current site is the least suitable of three possible locations.

However, Hager noted that the district has already spent more than $280,000 on the project.

"That's funds the local board would lose" if the site changed, he said. "Those are textbooks the boys and girls wouldn't have. We could buy 10 buses for that amount."

Board chairman Dr. James D. Adams said the state's concerns include the grade of the entrance to the proposed campus.

Hager said that while other sites may be more desirable, the local district does not have time under School Facility Construction Commission guidelines to purchase another tract and sell bonds.

"I don't recommend changing sites," said the superintendent.

After further discussion, the board voted to continue work on the present site, and attempt to purchase adjacent land to improve access to the campus.

Paul Hoffman, reporting on the Garrett-Wayland Elementary School, came under moderate fire by the board for the project being six to seven months behind schedule.

Hoffman said more than a month delay was encountered in obtaining permits for sewerage treatment plants and water facilities.

"We ran into a tremendous amount of bureaucracy within the See SCHOOL BOARD, Page 6

Summer Music Theatre Celebrates 25 Years With Reunion Performance

Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre, which opened in 1964 as a community theatre, will celebrate its 25th anniversary Monday, Aug. 14, with a special production that reunites performers from the past.

"We've spent the last three or four weeks on the phone," said manager Jim Deaton, "trying to track down performers all the way back to 1964. Mailing lists from even two years ago are no good with theatre people. We're relying on one person knowing where a couple of others are."

The reunion production, a revue of show tunes from the quarter-century of musicals, will feature about 25 former cast members and about 20 performers from this season's shows, Deaton said.

Tommy Kirk, one of Walt Disney's primary actors during the 1950s and '60s, is among former Jenny Wiley actors who plan to return for the reunion. Kirk, who worked with the local theatre in 1969 and 1970, has family roots in Paintsville.

Also planning to return are Bill Hayes, whose acting credits include a role in the television movie Bluegrass and in a recently completed Bruce Willis movie; Mitch Douglas, author of the second version of The Jenny Wiley Story and now a literary agent in New York; Jenny Robertson, last here in 1986, who had a part in the movie Bull Durham, in the CBS movie The Unconquered and in other television and Broadway productions.

Ontap, as well, are Steven Johnson, an actor on the television soap opera The Bold and the Beautiful; Lane Davies of Santa Barbara, also a popular daytime television drama; Kim Sebastian, who has appeared in television's Family Ties series and in the movie Baby Boom, and Brenda Pressley, who performed in the award-winning Broadway production, Dream Girls.

Tiny Water Company Faces Huge Problems

Well Wishers

Buck Rogers, left, and son Dave operate Weeksbury Water Co., serving a handful of customers in the former mining town with a 60-year-old well and water works. The Rogers family, beset by costs and state demands, look for help in improving the system.

About 35-40 households in Weeksbury get their water from a central 300-foot deep well through a system that dates back to the Great Stock Market Crash and is run by a family that claims it's in the "charity" water business.

The well was dug and the water system installed in 1929 by Elkhorn Piney Coal Co. when the now poverty-ridden community was a coal boom town. Today the Bruce (Buck) Rogers family operates the archaic water system, fraught with headache, they contend.

"We've got about the best water in Floyd County, clear as crystal," boasts Rogers, who says that most of the other well water in the area "stinks and is red."

However, state agencies have laid down the law to the Weeksbury Water Co. The Rogers' have been told to purchase an automatic chlorinator, record chlorine residuals daily, submit planning reports and monthly operating reports and have regular bacterial analyses.

They've also been cited for not having a certified operator of the water works.

"We check chlorine regularly," said Ida Rogers. "Why do we have to mark it down and send it to Frankfort where nobody will look at it anyway?"

The Rogers' insist they put chlorine in the water regularly. "An automatic chlorinator takes liquid chlorine, which we can't afford," he said.

The couple, who say they've turned the business over to their son Dave, contend they don't receive enough revenue from the water service to cover major improvements. "We get anywhere from $100 to $135 a month," Mrs. Rogers says.

Some customers refuse to pay the $10 a month fee, they say, and there's nothing the Rogers' can do about it. Because of the way the water pipes were installed by the coal company, no cut-off valves exist to shut down a non-payer's supply.

The Rogers' reel off a list of recent expenses: $2,600 for a new pump, $900 for a tank top, $300 for water sampling, $179 a month for chlorine.

The well is in no danger of going dry, says Rogers. "The pump is only 90 feet down and we've never had to lower the pump. I believe we could pump to Prestonsburg and still have water," he explains. "We have plenty of water. We just need a system."

Rogers adds that, faced with pressure from the state and a lack of income, Weeksbury Water Co. will cease to exist if help isn't forthcoming. "I might just have to pull my equipment and run a line to an old mine for water for personal use. I'd hate to see people out of water, but we can't keep doing it all ourselves."

Drinking Water

Perkins, Floyd Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo and other area officials at a May hearing on mine-related water problems.

The catch, according to Stumbo, is to prove that mining has resulted in contaminated or substandard water conditions. "You'd have to have Superman's vision to prove it," the judge said. "All you can do is ask the old people who remember what the water was like before."

According to Stumbo, about a third of the county cannot get water from the county's three treatment plants. Money is not available to lay lines, and, even if it were, the Prestonsburg, Beaver Elkhorn and Wheelwright systems could not handle the added usage. Most of the smaller water companies in the county get their water from Prestonsburg and Beaver Elkhorn or Pike County.

"Both Prestonsburg and Beaver Elkhorn utilities are at capacity in producing water," Stumbo said. The source of water for the Wheelwright system, an abandoned mine, proved unreliable last December when the town went for more than a week without water.

"We have two problems," summarized Dave Gardner of the Big Sandy Area Development District. "We have a lot of people who need to be served, and we don't have the capacity to serve them."

Gardner, who has been studying water systems in BSADD's five counties, estimates the bill to furnish water to all of Floyd County and to correct current capacity inadequacies at more than $20 million.

"Funding is the biggest headache, right along with the source of water," said Gardner, adding that it costs an average of $3,500 to provide water to one household.

Gardner said the Wheelwright treatment plant is inadequate for expanded and longterm needs, the Beaver Elkhorn treatment plant in Allen needs to be expanded and the Prestonsburg plant needs to be doubled. He also believes the county needs "to augment its water source. What we're talking about is going to Dewey Lake." He added that the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River is the primary source of water for the entire valley.

Gardner is among those who believe mining has had an impact on the quality of well water in the county. On his desk is a five-page-plus computer printout of mining activity on the Elkhorn seam around Right Beaver Creek.

Another printout of testing done on well water quality on Arkansas Creek reveals pages of notations of "worse" and "poor." The water "typically has iron and manganese in excess of Environmental Protection Agency maximum containment levels," he said.

"Studies are underway now on Arkansas and Sizemore to determine the impact of mining on water quality and if there is an impact," Gardner said. "We also have a study in Wheelwright to determine if the loss of water last winter was mine-related."

"Years ago, all we were analyzing for was bacteria," said Stumbo, "but mining leaves chemicals." He added that the longterm effects of some of the chemicals are not known.

Gardner agrees with Stumbo that AML funds are hard to come by. He points out that since August of last year only one AML water-related study has been approved by the state.

"Most wells in the county are contaminated," said Carl Baldrige of the Floyd County Health Department, which arranges for well water testing. "Some can be treated, but some have been treated three times and are still contaminated."

By contaminated, Baldrige explains that he means the water contains bacteria. "We don't always know if the bacteria is harmful or harmless. But what you want to do is keep the bacteria out."

Baldrige concedes that mining can be a contributor to the poor water quality. Yet, he is quick to point out that raw sewage is a primary contaminant. "It was more sanitary when people had outside toilets," he said. "At least, they were normally away from wells, and the wells were in better condition."

Too many people, Baldrige says, simply hook up their waste removal system from modern bathrooms, sinks and washing machines and run a line into the bottom or into a branch or creek. This results, he said, in contamination of underground streams that feed wells.

State law requires that houses have a sewage system with septic tank if a public sewage system is unavailable.

The department inspects known new construction and instances where a violation is reported. He admits, however, that "we may not know about it. Some we may never see."

For persons whose wells are contaminated, Baldrige advises regular (once a month) treatment with chlorine bleach or the installation of an automatic chlorinator.

The health department, which sends water samples to Frankfort for testing upon request, receives about three or four calls a week from residents worried about their water.

Stumbo said grant money to expand water systems and lay new lines has "dried up." Utility companies, he said, can borrow money from the Farmers Home Administration to build, "but the water bill becomes higher. If you don't get a partial grant with a loan, the bill would be so high a lot of people couldn't pay."

Some areas of the county, Stumbo added, missed the opportunity for water system hookups when the county and companies were able to get federal money. "When grants were available, a lot of places wouldn't sign for it. The hookup cost was only $25 at the time," he said.

Texas Man Nabbed On KSP Drug Charge

A Texas man remained in Floyd County jail Tuesday following his arrest on drug charges last week by Kentucky State Police.

Jack Anthony Hunter, 38, of Houston had reportedly been the subject of a KSP investigation when he was stopped Friday at about 3:15 p.m. on Town Branch Road, near Prestonsburg.

Police found a reported 30 pounds of marijuana in Hunter's car. KSP officers estimated the street value of the substance at about $48,000. Hunter was arrested on charges of trafficking in marijuana, and full cash bond was set at $100,000.

Wayland Board OKs Road Measures

The Wayland Town Board at last night's meeting passed a resolution to ask the state to reinstate the proposed road connecting the Left and Right Beaver Creek areas and to move forward with plans to construct US 23 between Paintsville and Prestonsburg.

The resolution, to be sent to area legislators and Transportation Secretary Milo Bryant, was requested by the newly formed economic development committee of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, of which Mayor Patricia Murphy is a member.

The question of the town's finances recurred during the meeting when local citizens raised concern about a previous meeting's proposal to have some of the town's street lights removed as a money-saving measure. Removal of selected lights will save the town several hundred dollars a year, according to clerk Carol Stapleton.

Expressing the concern that a decision be fair to all, Murphy asked that board members table a vote on the light removal proposal until all board members examine the lights previously marked.

Board members, asking support from citizens at the meeting, agreed to seek county assistance in dredging the local creek to remove accumulated debris and to ask CSX railroad to help clean out a blocked up culvert near the local post office.

The board also listened to citizen complaints about unleashed dogs, speeders on Back Street and children playing unsupervised in streets. Board members promised to explore solutions to the problems.

Present for the meeting, in addition to Murphy, were Gene DeCoursey, Robert Webb and Tommy Robinson. The next scheduled meeting is Sept. 5 at 7 p.m. at the Town Hall.

Causes Of Three Fires Undetermined

Three fires took place this past week in the Southeast, Garrett and Martin areas, but no causes had been established as of presstime.

A house owned and occupied by Hubert and Glenna Frye of Mayo Hollow caught fire while they were away Saturday, July 29 about 10:15 a.m., according to Martin Police Chief Herschel Lester.

Lester said a neighbor phoned in the fire, which damaged a great deal of the house. Lester said if firefighters had not been able to use Frye's swimming pool as a water source, the home would have been a total loss.

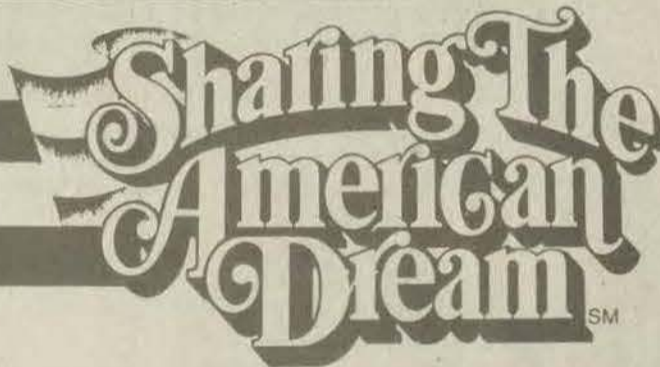

Several firefighters responded, including members of the Maytown and Allen departments, who were on stand by in case they were needed.

Lester said it took personnel about an hour to douse the fire.

In Golf Hollow at Wheelwright Thursday, a vacant house owned by a DeRossett was destroyed by flames by the time the Southeast firefighters arrived on the scene, according to Danny Gullet, firefighter. The cause of the fire is unknown and there were no injuries, Gullet said.

A trailer owned by Susie Conn of Smackey Bottom in Hueysville sustained about $200 in damage after 14 Garrett firefighters responded to the Monday, July 24, call. Terry Triplett, fire chief, said the cause of the fire was still under investigation.

Letters To The Editor

School Board: Unable Or Unwilling To Change System?

Dear Editor, In last week's paper (July 26) someone who had their "name withheld by request" wrote a letter about the school system. That person needs to wake up and smell the coffee. That person has obviously not been to very many board meetings.

Let me tell you how it really is in this county. I went to my first board meeting about 10 years ago. To my dismay, I heard then-Superintendent Grigsby publicly reprimand a teacher for asking about funding for her home economics program. I thought, "This can't be happening in America. Whatever happened to freedom of speech?" Needless to say, we didn't hear from many teachers during Grigsby's reign.

Fear of asbestos got several citizens in this county involved in the school system. The board flat out refused to do anything about removing the asbestos until they were forced to do so. Now, it's something like a $10,000 per day fine for not removing asbestos in the schools. Times sure have changed. Maybe those "crazy ladies" weren't so crazy after all.

For years, the board held its meetings in cramped quarters. They sat with their backs to the audience and mumbled so that we couldn't hear them. They also failed to provide chairs. It just about took an act of Congress to voice an opinion or voice a concern at a board meeting.

You had to write a letter telling Grigsby what you wanted to say and hope that he'd give his approval so that you could speak. The board didn't want it publicly expressed that we had book shortages, overcrowded classrooms, filthy unsafe schools, unsafe buses, discrimination, lack of necessary cleaning and classroom supplies, lack of accountability, and the list goes on.

Our group tried being nice to the school officials. We tried reasoning with them (not at board meetings—since we were rarely allowed to speak from our seats on the floor). So, we got fed up and requested state assistance. Our system was so rotten that, after all these years, the state is still here. The more the state digs, the more incompetence it uncovers. Every time it seems the state is on the verge of helping our children, someone pulls some political strings to prevent it.

This is where the Town Forum group came in. They didn't want to be thought of as "radicals" as we were. They tried the "being nice" routine with the board. This only worked as long as nothing really important was involved. When the Forum started asking for important issues to be resolved, they receive the same "University of Slick" (where they talk to you for an hour without giving an answer) answers that they'd give us. People get fed up with this after a few years.

The Forum seems to be at the point now that Floyd County Citizens Education Council was at in 1984—"Fed Up!" It's mighty easy to get that way when you see the games that are played with the educational future of our children. It can't get better with these same board members.

It's obvious that they don't care enough to change our system, or they don't have the ability to do so. They've stood behind each other for so long that no one's stood in front.

Until the school system becomes a "children system" instead of a "political power system," we'll keep lagging behind.

There's an awful lot of interested, caring citizens, parents, teachers and principals in this county. These people "cared" enough to raise $2 million for a school system in a year's time. In the words of my late friend, Everett Akers, "The people are a stirrin'." We have a duty to see that little Johnny learns how to read. If that means stepping on some toes, that's just too bad. They probably should have been stomped on a long time ago, before we got into such a mess.

So, Mr. or Mrs. "Name Withheld by Request," you couldn't have the courage of your convictions or you would have had the backbone to sign your name. It amazes me that a newspaper would print a letter talking about specific individuals without printing the writer's name. All I can say is "Thank God we have people who care enough to publicly demand accountability from our elected officials."

Sincerely, Karen Marcum Prestonsburg (Editor's Note: It is the editorial policy of this newspaper to treat letters about persons who place themselves in the public eye in the same manner as letters concerning other public and elected officials.)

Too Many Afraid To Speak Publicly, Says BOE Critic

Dear Editor, I am one of the public presence people referred to in last week's letters to the editor. I, too, have lived in Floyd County most of my life, was born here, graduated from high school, went on to college and came back. I, too, am a very concerned citizen and my voice will not be quiet. I hear very clearly what I say. I do not question anyone's right to his or her opinion. I do question the reason for withholding his or her name from a written statement. This, to me, is one of the problems in Floyd County. I talk to a lot of people about our school system, and most of these people wish to remain anonymous. This really bothers me. It bothers me that the majority of people are quiet. I had a reporter ask me recently what it would take for the majority of citizens in Floyd County to speak up for a better school system, and my answer was, "I don't know."

I am very proud to be associated with people like John Rosenberg, Jean Rosenberg, Ned Pillersdorf, Janet Stumbo, Roberta Luxmore, Tim Jessen, Bud Reynolds, Carol Stumbo, Joyce Everly and others who will write or speak publicly for better schools. These same people not only speak out for better schools, but also work very hard in partnership projects such as a high school literary magazine, an elementary young authors program, a teacher mini-grant program to provide teachers with funds to implement special projects in their classrooms, a writing program called "Writing Across the Curriculum," and a parent volunteer program, to name a few. They have also served as PTA, PTO and band booster presidents, and helped with fund raising activities for their schools. They show me through their actions that they care about our children's education.

My hope is that soon we will all realize how important it is to speak out for better schools, because that is what it will take to have an excellent school system. Public involvement is the key. I don't have all the answers, but I know my willingness to participate helps.

I want our school system to be one of the best, where all people understand how important their contribution is, where all people are willing to give their best. I want every child to graduate from high school, and when they do, I want them to feel they got as good an education as any child in this nation, so that they feel they can compete anywhere they go, whether it be on to college, vocational school, or enter the job market. I want our teachers to know that we value what they do and I want them to teach in an atmosphere that allows them to be professional, enthusiastic and creative. They will then pass that enthusiasm and creativity on to our children. I want a system that encourages me as a citizen, parent or business person to get involved and do all I can to help.

I believe we can have an excellent school system and I believe the people in this county can make it happen. All it takes is a willingness to get involved and work for it.

I speak for myself, and if that makes people "sick and tired," then they better be prepared to be "sick and tired" for a long time, because I will continue to speak out publicly for a better school system.

Dolores Smith, Allen

Support Teachers, Improve Education

Dear Editor, I am writing to compliment the teachers on their courageous trip to Frankfort. I feel that they are truly interested in improving the educational system in Floyd County.

Every concerned citizen in Floyd County should support our teachers in their endeavor to improve the educational system for Floyd County children.

Our teachers and children deserve much more than they are now receiving from Ron Hager and his "Board of Political Retaliation." (Thank you, Mr. Pillersdorf.)

In closing, I would like to again encourage all citizens to help our teachers so they can help our children.

Thank you, Dixie Turner, Prestonsburg

Will Continue To Speak Out...

Dear Editor, If the writer has, in fact, been keeping up with the news and, in fact, is knowledgeable about the school system, then he knows that unless people continue to speak up about conditions in our schools, the administration will not be motivated to make needed changes.

Until those needed changes are in fact in place, I, for one, will continue to speak out whenever or wherever I can find people who will listen and want to know.

I find it ironic that near the writer's comments, even the students of Floyd County see the need for changes in our school system. We all must continue to speak out together for these needed changes.

Roberta Luxmore, Past president, Floyd County Education Association

Support People Trying To Make Changes In System

Dear Editor, First, let me make clear that Roberta Luxmore is my mom, and I have never been more proud of her in my life! She has worked in the Floyd County School System 27 and a half years as a teacher. If anyone should know if there is a problem in the school system, it is a teacher.

Also, if there is anyone who thinks that we do not have problems in our school system, evidently he does not have children in school and has never had anything to do with our school or our Floyd County Board.

It is not time that we, as a community, support the people or individuals who are only trying to help our children? After all, our children are our future and without a good education, they have no future.

Margaret Marcum, Price

PostScript by Pam Shingler

Floyd County is littered with remnants of old coal company towns. In some locales, the evidence of imposing company stores and offices exists only in faded, wrinkled photographs. In other places, the shells of the once vibrant town centers loom as reminders of a dying past.

Perhaps impetus and inspiration can be taken from a group of citizens in our neighboring county to the north.

Residents of Van Lear in Johnson County sat for years and watched as the once booming town fell down around them. The company/father was no longer around to "fix" everything, and the citizens, full of memories of what used to be, thought they were helpless to stem the decay—much like their Floyd County neighbors.

But something happened. A small group of people decided that they were not helpless. Sure, they realized their limitations. They could not restore the coal to the mountains. They could not activate the silenced train whistles. They could not rejuvenate the boarded-up businesses.

What they believed they could do was use their hands, backs and brains to refurbish the old company office building.

The task was awesome. The building had been chopped up by failed developers, had been neglected for 30 years or so, and was not built in a classic style cherished by historical preservers.

But, by George, they did it. From kitchen tables they organized fundraising drives, getting $5 here, $10 there, from former residents across the country. They stood over hot stoves, cooking soup beans and chicken for money raising projects. They sponsored contests. They cleaned out their closets and basements and sold the contents to raise needed money for materials. They chipped in their own labor and explored every avenue for getting other labor assistance, from training program students to detention center inmates.

This weekend, the Van Lear Historical Museum will be open to the public, sparkling and full of artifacts of the days when the town was alive and vibrant and working. Members of the town's Historical Society will be on hand to crow about what they accomplished with a big dream, a little brain power and a lot of elbow grease.

They are providing a fine example. Any emulators around here?

DiPetro, named by the newspaper-Village Voice as one of five up and coming directors in New York.

Many other actors, actresses and technical personnel who are making names for themselves in professional theatre, as well as local residents who have been a part of theatre productions, are slated to be on hand.

In the "iffy" category — those hoping to participate — are Ron Paolillo, who went on to play Horshack on the TV series Welcome Back, Kotter; Beth McVey, who appears in the Broadway show Phantom of the Opera, and Kathleen Foley, now a theatre critic in Los Angeles.

"Most of the returnees will perform songs from shows they did here," said Deaton, adding that several stages will be in use for speedy transition.

A medley of rain songs is also planned, the manager said, to poke fun at outdoor theatre's primary showstopper — rain. A spoof on the theatre is included in the program, which will culminate with a group rendition of the show business anthem, "There's No Business Like Show Business."

A reception at 7:30 p.m. will precede the performance. Show time is 8:30 p.m. Seating for the show is limited to 500 persons, Deaton said, with about one-third of the seats already reserved.

Cost of the anniversary gala, which is being used as a fundraiser, is $50 per person. For information, call 886-9274.

Police Report Fender Benders

Prestonsburg police filed reports on five minor accidents during the past week.

On Tuesday, July 25, at the intersection of KY 1428 and Friend Street, an accident involving a car driven by Carla Johnson of Virgie and James W. Goble of West Prestonsburg was investigated by Sgt. M. Ormerod. Sgt.

Gerald Clark also investigated an accident that day on KY 1428 in which a parked car operated by Claude H. Conley of Hindman was struck by one driven by Elsie Rahrig of Blue River in the Music, Carter, Hughes parking lot.

A collision Wednesday on US 23 at the entrance to Prestonsburg Village involved automobiles driven by Lisa Meade of Prestonsburg and Priscilla Howard of Topmost. Policeman Roy Roberts was the investigator.

Police were called to two accidents Thursday. One occurred on KY 1428, between Court and Friend streets, when a vehicle driven by Bobby Osborne of Allen struck a car driven by Douglas Lowe of Prestonsburg. Sgt. Clark investigated. Sgt. J. Stumbo responded to a call to Jenny Wiley Village parking lot where a car driven by Kirk Hickie of Fort Wayne, Ind., had backed into one driven by Robert P. Davis of Prestonsburg.

Youth Program Available Through Big Sandy Area CAP

The Big Sandy Area Community Action Program, Inc., will operate a youth program in Floyd County to serve economically disadvantaged high school dropouts who are interested in obtaining a GED and employment.

The program is funded by the Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program (EKCEP) of Hazard and the Department for Human Resources.

The program will begin on Monday, Sept. 4 and run for 13 weeks, and is expected to lead to permanent employment.

For more information, contact the Floyd County CAP office on Route 1428 at Allen or call 874-2965. Applications will be taken Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Try to separate Eastern Kentuckians from their green beans and trouble looms. Georgie and Mary Adams of Lancer are among hundreds — maybe thousands — of Floyd Countians who've been bending over the bean fields lately in creek bank or hillside plots and backyard patches. that, and nobody gives it any weight. Teachers have heard about planning in the past, and planning was done, but the district didn't improve," Steffy said.

"That has been compounded by personnel problems . . . which have made things very divisive."

Steffy said state staff had hoped to bring groups together and build a consensus among them.

"We wanted to foster belief in themselves — teachers particularly. In April, they were so positive, and at the last board meeting, so negative.

"Teaching morale is awful. Every group is now feeling frustration that things are not going to change — that there was hope, but now that hope has been dashed away. I'm as frustrated as they are."

Contributing to that mistrust, Steffy said, were two personnel events in which no action was taken. In one instance, the local board had an opportunity to reduce central office staff by three administrative positions but, after charges of politicking, chose not to do so. The second involved allegations of politicking during school time by another administrator, E.P. "Pete"

Grigsby Jr. In that case, the local board reprimanded Grigsby, but did not take further action, despite intervention by Dr. John Brock, state superintendent of instruction.

Earlier in the year, the local district complied with 16 of 17 recommendations made by state officials, but the only change that required approval of the Floyd board — that of reducing administrative staff — was not approved.

"Lasting change is like a newborn baby; if it doesn't get fed, it will die very quickly. If these changes are embraced by the local system, they will last; if not, they will die," she adds.

Steffy believes that the local board is acting in good faith, and that administrators "want to be good administrators."

"It's in knowing how to put it all together, and I hope the state department's actions are showing them how. I don't know whether that will be successful. If we left tomorrow, it would be business as usual."

Division of Water," he said. "They said, 'We'll get to you when we can.'"

He said the school, estimated to be complete 14 months after it began, should be ready for occupancy by August 1990.

Allen Elementary school's site preparation is 70 percent complete, according to Randy Burchett of Burchett & Associates. Burchett said he hopes to sell bonds on the project next week, and have the school ready for the 1990 fall term if no major problems are encountered.

Burchett, also overseeing Prestonsburg Middle School, said the county's first middle school should be ready for classes this December.

Senate OKs Amendment To Study Clean-Coal Technology Export Programs

The US Senate recently approved an amendment offered by Sen. Mitch McConnell designed to streamline the federal government's efforts to export clean-coal technologies, according to Mary Jane Fingland, press secretary for McConnell.

The amendment has been attached to the State Department Authorization Bill which, if passed, will go to a joint House-Senate conference committee for approval, Fingland explained.

"Kentucky stands to gain big benefits by increasing the export of clean-coal technologies," McConnell said.

Toll Free Number Established For Education Reform Task Force

The Special Task Force on Education Reform has established a toll-free number for citizens to express their views on how the state's public education system should be restructured, according to Glenn Osborne spokesperson for the Legislative Information Service.

The 21-member task force, comprised of 16 legislative leaders and five members of the governor's staff, has held two meetings in Frankfort and is charged with revamping the education system by April 15, 1990, the date of the 1990 General Assembly adjourns, Osborne explained.

The panel was formed in response to a June 8 Kentucky Supreme Court decision that the state's educational system was unconstitutional because it did not afford each Kentucky child an opportunity for an equitable education.

Citizens who wish to send a message to individual legislators or to the task force as a whole may call 1-800-372-7181. Information about the panel's meeting schedule can also be obtained by calling that number.

The task force is now in the process of hiring consultants to assist in drafting an education plan for consideration by the General Assembly, Osborne added.

The panel's committee on governance has scheduled a public hearing on Wednesday, Aug. 16 at 10 a.m. in Frankfort to discuss the issue of an elected school superintendent versus an appointed school head.

Recreating The Past, 'Cause 'It Was Nice Here'

by Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

The story is told many times over throughout the Big Sandy Valley. A mining company builds a town. The town flourishes. The company pulls out. The town all but dies.

Van Lear in Johnson County, constructed in the early 1900s by Consolidated Coal Co., is a prime example. At one time, it was one of the largest towns in the valley, with rows of neat, frame houses for the miners, half a dozen or so company-owned office and commercial buildings, its own school system, several churches and a company-sponsored, semi-pro baseball team.

When Consolidated sold out in the early 1950s, the town began a steady decline. Fires and neglect decimated many of the remnants of glory days.

But a handful of local residents — miners, miners' wives, the children of miners, some relocated to distant places — refused to let go their memories. Forming the Van Lear Historical Society in 1983 and beginning a quarterly newsletter the following year, they determined to make the town live again, if not in reality, at least in spirit.

This weekend, Aug. 4-6, they'll host the fifth annual Town Celebration, an event that attracts several thousand people with Van Lear roots, from as far away as Hawaii and Alaska.

Highlighting the weekend will be the opening of the three-story Consolidated office building, refurbished by the historical society as the Van Lear Historical Museum. Visitors will, in a sense, be able to step back into time.

"We wanted to see history brought back to Van Lear," says society president B.B. Kretzer, "cause it was awful nice here." Retired now, Kretzer has devoted himself to the building's restoration, as have other society members, including Charles Spears, Bill Rucker, Jeanette Knowles and many more.

The society, with an estimated 500 to 600 members nationwide, didn't find a bucket of big bills to fund the project. "We started on the building about three years ago," says Kretzer. "We just took the bull by the horns and starting looking for free labor and money."

The building, one of only two remaining company buildings in the town, was given to the society by Citizens National Bank of Paintsville after the previous owner gave up trying to turn it into an apartment building. "It was a mess," says Kretzer, indicating that ceilings had been improperly lowered, wiring and plumbing were "shoddy" and walls had gaping holes.

Using labor from the Regional Detention Center and Summer Youth

Program, in addition to local volunteers, the building looks as if it entered a time machine.

The company doctor's office appears ready for business. Dr. John Turner, a Paintsville physician who was Consolidated's last company doctor, cleaned out his basement and donated the examining table, medicine cabinet and other equipment he used in Van Lear.

Another room contains a telephone switchboard, also a gift. Kretzer can't confirm that it's the original switchboard, but he believes it could be. "I used to work on the one that was in here, and this one looks just like it," he says, sitting at the console and fiddling with the exchange board.

Folks who remember the post office in the building are being challenged to remember their box numbers and lock combinations when they visit the museum. The original boxes are set up just as they were in the past, some with the renters' names handwritten and taped above the box window.

"My wife came in here, went right to her family's old box and the combination came back to her," Kretzer says.

In two rooms of the building are collections of old mining equipment and memorabilia. Vintage photographs, donated by area residents, are displayed on modular dividers, and large aerial photographs and topographical maps are on view under glass.

The piece de resistance is displayed on the top floor of the building, in what was a lodge hall meeting room and company conference room. Spanning a long wall is a scale model of the town, much as it looked in the 1920s and '30s.

Termed a "labor of love" by its creator, the model was built over almost 20 years by James "Tedo" Vaughn, who grew up in Van Lear and now lives in Arkansas. It is complete with houses, tipples, churches, company buildings and working model train that winds its way along the replica tracks.

In March, Vaughn and his wife sawed the model into eight sections, loaded it into a U-Haul truck and drove it to the museum. With the help of local volunteers, they reassembled it. Viewers love to look at the model and reminisce about the past, Kretzer says.

Besides negotiating for labor help and arranging for donations of materials, society members have also scavenged other necessities. They were able to buy the big, black, institutional kitchen stove when the Johnson County jail was closed, and when the old Paintsville Hospital was demolished, they retrieved the fire escape.

Still in process is the restoration of the building basement which, Kretzer says, at one time or another housed a school, a shoe shop and a jail. The society plans the two rooms to be used as an arts and crafts area and game room.

Money for the restoration has come from a variety of sources, Kretzer explains. The society operated a second-hand store for a while, has sponsored bingo games, and has fed hundreds of people at soup bean suppers and chicken and dumplings suppers, he says.

The society is also fortunate, Kretzer says, in being remembered in the will of the late Vernon P. Horne, a former superintendent of Van Lear, and later Johnson County, schools and a strong supporter of the society's work. Members also pay modest dues, and many have made regular contributions.

Kretzer has spent so much time on the project, he says his wife "threatened to give me a bed here." He adds, "But I believe in it. I believe in what we're doing."

This weekend's Town Celebration starts with a soup bean dinner and bingo, 4-8 p.m. at the museum. Saturday activities include opening ceremonies at 10 a.m. and games, ranging from volleyball to horseshoes to a turkey shoot, throughout the day.

Music by the Lexington group "West Wind" (featuring Kretzer's son David) begins at 9 p.m. Saturday. A gospel sing is set for 1 p.m. Sunday at the town mini-park, which was also developed by the historical society.

A Model Past

Martin Store — And Owner Maintain Character Of The Past

by Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

"Sometimes somebody will come in who's been gone for a long time, and they'll say, 'I thought you were dead. When are you going to retire?'" Clyde Allen laughs and folds his arm around a large, orange water cooler with a sale price tag hanging from the handle.

"I say to them, 'When you come in here and find me dead behind the counter.'"

Allen has owned and operated Jewel Hardware in Martin for 52 of his 83 years, and although he admits to slowing down a bit, he shows no sign of stopping.

His helpmate, Tina, to whom he's been married for almost as long as he's owned the business, has been at his side at the store for much of that time. In fact, the couple reared their daughter in an apartment behind the store before moving into a house 25 years ago.

"We have shorter days now," says Allen of his and his wife's work days. "I don't carry heavy stock that requires lifting, and I don't care much for days that are really busy. I like to trade and talk."

The store, with its original shelves and display counters, links the past and the present. Alongside modern electrical appliances and handy gadgets are remnants of a fast-dying, country mountain history.

Allen says his store is the "only place in the area where you can get" chamber pots, called Combins on the label. Before indoor plumbing became the norm in Eastern Kentucky, or any rural area for that matter, chamber pots were steady sellers for hardware stores. Now Allen says he primarily gets requests for them when a person is bedfast and can't walk to the bathroom.

Equally rare these days is the aluminum dipper, once a common utensil for communal drinking from a bucket of drawn well water, back when the spread of germs was not nearly as frightful as today.

Allen also sells milk pails, lamp oil — and oil lamps — and an assortment of goods necessary to a more primitive lifestyle, disdained by or unnecessary to most moderns.

The small-framed, active senior refers to the store as a "mom and pop job." Although the building was already there when he opened the store, he and Mrs. Allen added a side room for storage and the apartment. "I started with $200 and you could have carried away what I had in a sack," he says.

The entrepreneur remembers when downtown Martin was a "prosperous place, with a theatre, bank, busy drug store, grocery stores that delivered to the house."

"Things changed when the bank moved from up the street to down the street and then out of (downtown)," Allen says, with a hint of nostalgia. "Several stores closed. All the independent dealers are going out of business, unless they have a special service. The big boys are buying up the factories and wholesalers can't get anything. The sources (of goods) are drying up."

The hardware merchant has taken business setbacks in stride. He laughs at some near tragedies that might have run out less sturdy stock. "We've had so many floods — that's why we look so warped," he says with a gutsy chuckle.

"We've had so many robberies we've lost track of them," he adds, relating a time when thieves broke in and stole $4,000 worth of knives. "One day I took my wife to Pikeville and we were only gone two hours. Nobody saw who took them (the knives) because the thief broke in the back through the apartment."

During the last burglary attempt, the potential robber came through the ceiling of the store and tripped the burglar alarm. "He broke the door glass trying to get out and cut his back on the glass. He had to go to the hospital and get 17 stitches, but they never caught him. It cost $250 to replace the glass in the door."

Allen says he and his wife have always tried to be of service. "Sometimes a person will buy an article somewhere else and then can't figure out how to use it," he says. "They'll come in and ask me to help."

Born near Langley, Allen earned a degree in history and political science from Berea College. "I don't reckon a degree in political science ever did anybody any good," he opines.

He says he tried teaching for a while. "At Berea, they told me if I got my master's degree, they would give me a job. But I didn't like it."

Back in Martin where his family had moved when he was a boy, Allen ran the "machines in the picture show" and served as superintendent of the city's water works for eight years. "I got the water works up to where it was paying, but I found out I didn't like to work for anyone else."

He married his wife the same year he opened the store. "I had to get her, so she could keep me in the store business," he says, dropping his head and laughing.

Getting serious, he adds, "You know, she's the best human being that was ever put on this earth."

Assessing the many years of business, Allen says, "The store has been good to us and it's been bad, but on the whole, we've had good times." The store, he says, made it possible for the Allens to send their daughter to college. Pictures of her and the couple's three granddaughters are prominently displayed on a store shelf. The daughter, Rosemary Ewing, is on the faculty of Hazard Community College.

"I just wish we'd kept records of all the things we've heard and seen in here," he says, a nostalgic look to his face. "We just try to be of service."

Preece Named President Of Eastern Ky. United Way

J. MACK PREECE

J. Mack Preece of Inez was recently elected to serve as president for the 1989-90 campaign year of the United Way of Eastern Kentucky, according to the organization's board of directors.

Gibson Attends Auctioneer Convention

Bill Gibson of Action Auction & Realty in Pikeville attended the 1989 convention of the National Auctioneers Association.

The theme of this year's convention was "Create a Positive Image," and was held July 24-29 in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Workshop subjects included bidding techniques, as well as the various aspects of conducting real estate, personal property, commercial and heavy equipment and agribusiness auctions.

Gibson specializes in real estate, heavy equipment and personal property in the big Sandy area. Norman Jones, who is affiliated with Action Auction & Realty, also attended the convention.

Preece has served on the United Way board for the past three years, serving as first vice-president last year.

He is an active volunteer in the community, being a member of the Martin County Kiwanis Club since 1982, and serving as president of that organization in 1988. He is also an active member of the Community Education Council, Emergency Food and Shelter Committee, Martin County Literacy Council and the Martin County Emergency Planning Committee.

A life-long resident of Martin County, Preece resides on Coldwater Road in Inez with his wife, Debbie, daughter Tiffany, and son Derek. He is employed as personnel manager at Martin County Coal Corp. in Inez.

In addition to Preece, the board of directors elected the following officers for the 1989-90 campaign:

James O. VanHoose, first vice president; Jonathan Heirs, second vice president; Butch Bradley, treasurer; and Greg Hamlin, secretary.

Preece said the county campaign chairpersons for the five counties served by United Way of Eastern Kentucky will be named in the next few days. Counties served are Floyd, Martin, Magoffin, Johnson and Pike. The campaign will begin in early September, and local United Way board members hope to raise over $100,000 in the five-county area.

Salyers Returns To Pikeville Firm

JACK SALYERS

Jack L. Salyers has rejoined the staff of the Justice Funeral Home in Pikeville.

He is a licensed embalmer and funeral director.

Salyers is a native of the Saltlick Creek area near Hueysville and a 1972 graduate of Garrett High School. He graduated from the Kentucky College of Embalming of Louisville.

He is a member of the Baptist church, the Masonic Lodge and was selected for Outstanding Young Men of America in 1984 in Pike County and again in 1988 in Laurel County.

He, his wife Mildred Sue Combs, and their two children Amanda Brooke, 11, and Joshua Morgan, 7, have returned to Pikeville after living for one year in London, Ky. He is the son of Bessie Salyers of Stanton and the late Albert Salyers.

Hospital Administrator Advances In Status In Professional Society

SISTER MARY FANNING

Sister Mary M. Fanning, administrator of Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin since 1987, was advanced to membership status in the American College of Health Care Executives at its 55th Convocation Ceremony held on Sunday afternoon, July 30, at the Fairmont Hotel, Chicago, Ill.

Membership is the second level of professional achievement in the college. Members must demonstrate their commitment to continuing education, progression in professional experience, and participation in voluntary health care and community affairs. They must also successfully complete comprehensive oral and written examinations covering subjects related to health services management.

VFW Officers To Be In P'burg

Ray Hensley and Phil Marcum, department service officers for Kentucky's Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be in Prestonsburg on Saturday, Aug. 5.

They will be at the VFW Post 5839 Home located at 1330 South Lake Drive from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., or as long as there are veterans or dependents who need assistance in filing a claim.

THE CRISIS IN RURAL HEALTH CARE

We have all seen the headlines: "East Kentucky Has Highest Death Rate From Cervical Cancer," "Rural Areas Find Babies Hard to Deliver," "Two-thirds of All Rural Hospitals are Losing Money."

It is clear that the health care system in Eastern Kentucky is facing a crisis situation. There are serious problems with the current quality of rural health care. In fact, access to basic health services in many areas is more difficult today than a decade ago. We must stop this downward trend from continuing any further.

Many factors contribute to the difficulty in providing adequate health care to Eastern Kentuckians: longer travel distances, insufficient numbers of quality health care providers, lower incomes in general, higher rates of being uninsured and higher proportions of elderly and poor. These problems are both substantial and growing. For this reason, I am an original cosponsor of the National Rural Health Care Act. The bill seeks to attract and retain more health care providers for rural America as well as providing more accessible, affordable, and higher quality health care. Many of the provisions called for in the bill will directly benefit Eastern Kentucky.

First, the National Rural Health Care Act adjusts the provider payment rates for Medicare and Medicaid in order to reflect the cost of doing business in rural areas. The cost of doing business takes into account such things as travel, equipment cost, telephone consultations and other costs that are necessary to rural health care centers. At present, the system of payment to rural health facilities is far lower than that to urban hospitals. Because of this, many rural health care facilities are struggling to provide quality care without adequate reimbursement from the government. Many hospitals have already closed. This bill would establish new training programs for rural health care workers and start a grant program to help start up more rural health clinics and private practices. In the area of emergency care, the bill provides funds for more rural emergency medical services.

Nurse practitioners, clinical nurse specialists, certified nurse midwives and nurse anesthetists are very important to the health care network in Eastern Kentucky. The National Rural Health Care Act provides direct Medicare and Medicaid reimbursement for these needed professionals. In addition, I have cosponsored a bill which extends the reimbursement status of rural referral centers. Referral centers, such as the Highlands Regional Medical Center in Prestonsburg, are crucial to the rural health care system.

The change in Medicare and Medicaid reimbursement called for in these bills are complicated, and many of you may be wondering if you will actually benefit from such changes in law. I believe that these bills, and in particular, the National Rural Health Care Act, do a good job of addressing the problems and offering workable solutions, and I will work hard to ensure that these bills become laws.

Women should not die of cervical cancer. It is a treatable disease easily detected by a Pap test. Labor rooms should not be empty because obstetricians are not willing to practice in a rural area. But this is the current situation in many areas of Eastern Kentucky. In the 101st Congress, health care has been one of my central concerns. We cannot wait any longer. It really is a matter of life and death.

IT'S A FACT...
that you are either saved or lost. Lost or saved, there is no in between. "He that hath the Son hath life, and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life."
1 John 5:12
IT'S A FACT...
that Christ came to this sin cursed world to seek and to save that which was lost.
Luke 19:10
IT'S A FACT... that you CAN be saved. "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved."
Romans 10:9
IT'S A FACT...
"Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that heareth my word, and believeth on Him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life."

THE CHURCH AT WORK.
Sunday morning, Aug. 13—Layman's breakfast at 7:30 a.m.

Little Paint First Church of God and Pastor Wayne Burch are announcing new, full-time additions to the church staff.
Keith and Elizabeth Hall, graduates of Mid-America Bible College, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, joined the staff at Little Paint in June.
Rev. and Mrs. Hall are directing our YOUTH and CHILDREN'S ministry. Elizabeth is also a qualified piano teacher and soloist.
Ministry among the YOUTH (ages 12 yr.-Sr. High) has already taken on a new dimension of excitement and learning. Beginning September 6, 1989 a full-scale Wednesday night "Children's Ministry" will be launched. This will include children ages 3 yrs.-Kindergarten, 1st grade-3rd grade and 4th-8th grades. This will be a quality program with caring and capable leadership.
In our day of spiritual passivity and domestic unrest we are eager, at Little Paint, to offer a quality church for every member of the family. We are moving with confidence and faith toward creating an exciting atmosphere for JESUS CHRIST in the homes of our community.
If YOU are looking for a quality, full-family, oriented church program, you can contact our church office, 886-3699 and someone will talk with you about your concerns. Keith & Elizabeth Hall are here as part of our community to minister to those who need to allow CHRIST to become the vital link in their life.

THE VANCE FAMILY

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Ross Hale wish to express our profound and heartfelt gratitude to the hundreds of friends who were so gracious and kind during our most trying times. To the many churches, for their prayers and lovely flowers, our sincere thanks. Our special thanks to the ministers, Bill LaFever, Bobby Joe Spencer and Robert Owens; and the singers, Jenny and Doug Hall, Ward Hale and the Sammy Clark Branch Church Choir. Thanks, also, to the Hospice, especially to Sister Margaret, for her ministry and devotion. Thanks to the 4th Floor nurses at the Highlands Regional Medical Center for their care and kindness beyond the call of duty. To the many friends who sent flowers, food and cards of compassion, and to our family, without exception, who gave so much of themselves, our most sincere thanks. We thank Dr. Blake Burchett, not only for his professional help, but for his friendship and counsel which were solely needed. We extend our appreciation to Larry Burke and the staff of the Floyd Funeral Home for their assistance in our time of need. Our prayers and meditations will be with all of you always.

Age Hasn't Slowed Local Bowlers Down

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

We've heard of the "Apple Dumping Gang" and the "Over The Hill Gang," and now we have the "69 Plus Gang."

It isn't a new movie or a new singing group. The "69 Plus Gang" is a group of local bowlers who meet each Monday and Thursday night at the Rebel Lanes in Prestonsburg to bowl in the women's league for Lad 'N' Lassie. They also find time to get together for a night or two of non-competition bowling.

Sally B. Goble, Dot Marshall, Eleanor Horn and Gladys Cooley, who range in age from 69 to 75, have been bowling together for the Lad 'N' Lassie shop for the last 25 years.

"We began bowling as a team in the old Crown Lanes where Maloney's was located about 25 years ago," said Marshall, who ran the local store in Prestonsburg and has since turned it over to her daughter. "We've all been bowling longer than that, but we have bowled that long as a team."

This year another "69 Plus" member has been added to the gang: Minerva Cooley, who likes to try and guide the ball down the alley. Another team member is Meg Kendrick, the youngest at age 37, who is Marshall's daughter. Kendrick has been bowling with the Lad 'N' Lassie team for the last 17 years off and on.

"I just love it," Kendrick says. "I wouldn't have it any other way. They all are a lot of fun, and fun to be with."

"Meg is our 'pin lady' when we need to pick up some pins," Marshall adds.

"These ladies are just great ladies, and we all laugh together, and I have been through some good times with them," Kendrick stated.

Kendrick said her highest game was 241, bowled in league play in Paintsville.

Sally Goble began bowling "around 1960," she says. "I won my fist trophy in 1966 when I bowled a 223 at the old Lake Lanes in Prestonsburg. That has also been my high game."

"I got into bowling just for the sport of it," she says. "Last year I was voted the 'Most Dependable' in our league. I was always here when we played. If I couldn't make it, I would always call someone."

"We've bowled all the lanes around. We used to bowl in a league at the Pikeville lanes (old lanes), but we didn't like them. I haven't been able to bowl at the new lanes they have now."

There have been many humorous things that have happened to the "69 Plus Gang" in their 25 years of bowling together. "Sometimes I will go up to bowl and have to come back because I forget what I was suppose to do," Goble says.

Marshall began bowling 35 years ago in Los Angeles. She has had a high game of 242, which she bowled at the Paintsville Lanes in league play. "One year we won the Big Sandy League in seasonal and tournament play." The "69 Plus Gang" is currently in first place in the Thursday night women's league.

Other bowlers speak of the competitiveness of the Lad 'N' Lassie team. "We bowl them tonight and they are better than us," one unidentified bowler stated. "Don't let their age fool you," says another.

Gladys Cooley has had a high game of 233, which was also bowled at the Paintsville lanes. "I got started in bowling for the same reasons that everyone else did — just for the sport of it. I love to bowl. It's fun," she remarked.

Eleanor Horn, who couldn't remember her high game, says she has bowled over 200 on several occasions. "I started bowling for the Methodist Church at the old Crown Lanes in Prestonsburg," Horn says. "I like it and it was just for fun."

After all these years of bowling, has the thrill of bowling lost its luster? "Oh, no," they all said in chorus. "We enjoy bowling more now than when we first started," Marshall said.

"Every year on New Year's Eve I have all of them to come over to my house for a party. We play cards and have a lot of fun."

What! No bowling? "Once we celebrated the New Year by going bowling, but not anymore. They just come to my house and we have a lot of fun."

"She feeds good too," Cooley said. "We used to have a rule that if we didn't pick up our spares we had to pay a nickel. We had a lot of money after the season was over," she said laughing.

"We all have been friends for a long time," Marshall said. "We went to school together and grew up here in the Prestonsburg area. We exchange gifts at Christmas time, it makes it a little more personal."

"One night we were bowling in Paintsville, and we got snowbound. Gladys' son came to pick us up, and Gladys wouldn't go with him, so she and I stayed in a motel that night, with no toothbrush, nothing."

What about the future for the "69 Plus Gang?"

"We plan to keep on bowling as long as we can get here," Marshall said, with the others nodding their heads in the affirmative.

"We enjoy ourselves and we enjoy each other. We are good sports, no gets mad, we just have a good time together," Cooley said.

"One year we won the sportsmanship trophy," Marshall said.

"We don't take it too seriously," Horn said. "It's just for fun."

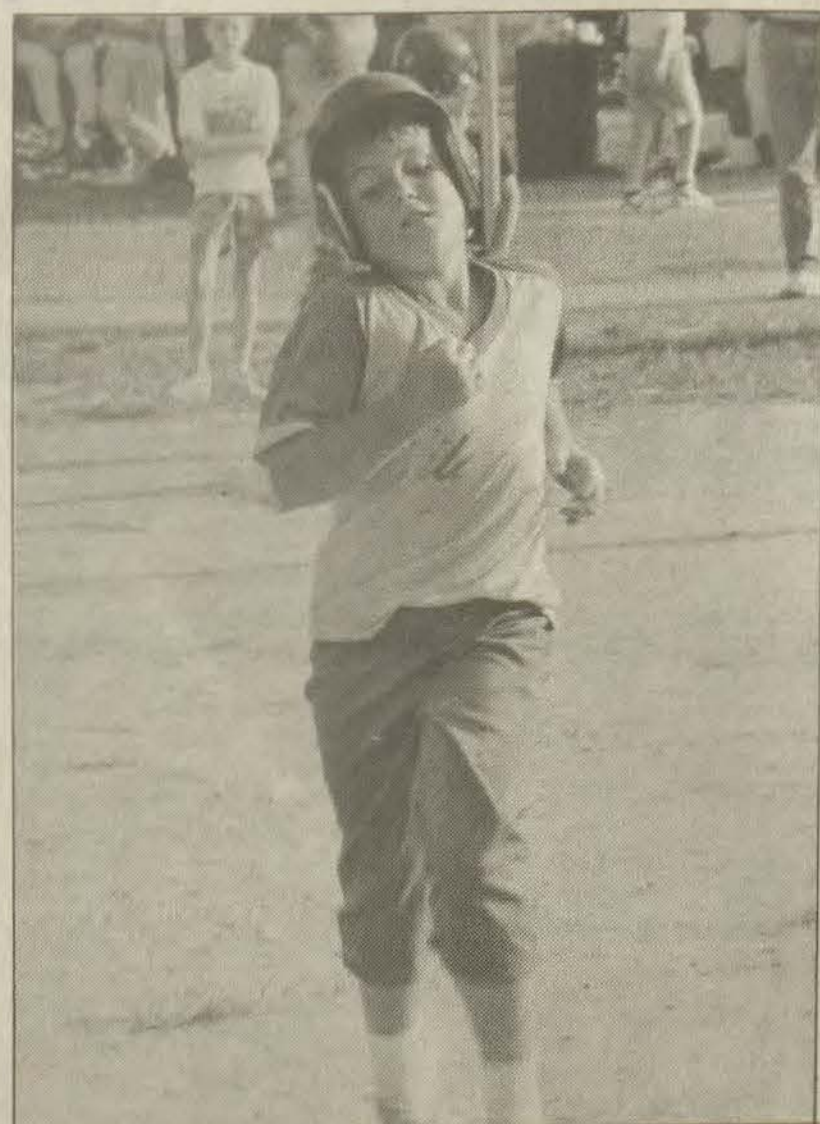

69-Plus Gang

Wayland Wildcats Pee Wee Champions

Team members are Learodis Casebolt, Nikki Patton, Brian Crawford, Byron Patton, Eric Casebolt, Corbett Howell, Charles Bentley, Leslie Slone, Todd Howard, Ethan Martin, Michael Combs, Nicholas Rackey, Darrin Newsome, Jon Hall, Aaron Thorpe, Chris Fultz and Daniel Risner. Struttin' To First

A Wayland Wildcat runner makes his way to first following a walk against the Minnie Reds. The Wildcats kept their undefeated season intact with a 16-0 victory over the Reds.

Wildcats Finish Season With Win, Stay Undefeated

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Wayland Wildcats Pee Wee team topped off a successful season in the Minnie Pee Wee League by capturing the league's tournament championship with a 15-2 win over Garrett at the Minnie Park Saturday.

The Wildcats finished the season with an unblemished 18-0 record. Garrett, finishing second in the regular season standings, was the runner-up.

The victory over Garrett was the Wildcats' second in the double elimination tournament. In an earlier meeting between the two teams in tourney play, Wayland bested Garrett, 6-1.

In the championship game, Wayland scored six third inning runs and scored four in the second. The Wildcats tallied five in the fourth. Garrett managed just two first inning runs.

Eric Casebolt was the winning pitcher for the Wayland team. Casebolt had three strike outs and walked one batter. Casebolt also had two hits in the game, including a double to help his own cause.

Todd Howard had a triple for the winning team. Byron Patton, Darren Newsome and Ethan Martin all had doubles.

Brian Crawford, Patton and Newsome were perfect at the plate in going three for three. Howard and Martin were two for two in the contest. Howard and Patton each had three RBIs in the winning effort. Aaron Thorpe, Newsome, Martin, and Daniel Risner each had two RBIs.

Ryan Owens was the losing pitcher for the Garrett team. Owens had four strike outs and issued three walks.

Wayland never allowed a team to score more than three runs against them throughout the season. They also played nine "mercy rule" games.

Trophies were presented after the finals.

UK Fans Call For Boycott

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Up in the air by what they see as negative reporting on the part of the Lexington Herald-Leader, two local residents have posted a sign on US 23 stating their frustration with the Lexington paper.

"I just wanted to make a statement," Ronnie Wallen, who, with Jerry Flannery, had the sign put up. "The Lexington Herald made a statement, so I just wanted to make one."

The sign calls for all UK fans to boycott the Herald-Leader and sports columnist Billy Reed. Reed's "negative" reporting has upset a lot of UK fans, the two charge.

"I really have nothing against the paper," Wallen stated. "I just feel they could go about reporting in a different manner. I heard the paper was owned by someone in Florida, but they could have gone about this differently."

Wallen and Flannery have heard a lot of feedback on the sign. "People call and want to know if we want to put up more signs," he said.

"I donated the sign," Flannery, owner of Jerry's Signs said, "and Ronnie paid for the printing. I was tired of all the negative reporting of the paper concerning Kentucky. The sign has been up for a month now and we may have to take it down, because it is beginning to look bad."

The Lexington Herald-Leader included a story about the sign in a recent edition. "Yeah, they made fun of us because we misspelled 'Patino' (Pitino is the correct spelling)," Flannery said.

"I hated it we misspelled Pitino's name," Wallen remarked. "It kind of makes us in this part of the country look bad."

A local radio station has done a report on the sign that has drawn a lot of attention.

"I have heard from a lot of people and none of their remarks have been negative," Flannery says. "There wouldn't be any here in this part of the country."

O.K., so I'm a carp tickler. I know I shouldn't reveal this, and if the editors who occasionally find it in their hearts to buy some of my ramblings ever discover the fact, I'll be shunned from the outdoor community and find myself able to write for nothing but the Carp Tickler's Digest.

It's an ancient sport, one taught to me by an English immigrant who wore half of his eyeglasses on a string around his neck. (I don't know what he did with the other half.) His name was Albert, and he came from a long line of executioners employed by the Queen. The Englishman, a fine chap with pure white hair and skin like the leather on Dan Boone's possible bag, had just one arm, and I'm told it takes a mighty two handed swing to behead someone in anything approaching a humane manner. His right arm, the one no longer attached to his right elbow, was lost when his carriage shed a spoke and went careening into (and then over) the London Bridge. Even though that bridge is now in some podunk hamlet in a desert out west, the Englishman says you can still find a chip out of the railing where his horse last touched solid ground.

Once deprived of his living ("just two or three beheadings a month, a flat in the Tower, one bloody sharp axe, decent pay, and lots of free time to tickle carp"), he moved to the states and settled in Missouri where "the

The North Floyd County 15-year-old All-Stars placed fifth in the Babe Ruth State Tournament. The local All-Star team lost to Davis County 7-5.

In an earlier game, North Floyd's Bud Newsome of Betsy Layne held powerful Lexington Southeastern to five scratch singles in one of North Floyd's victories.

Karen Kirk of Honaker caught a 27" blue catfish at the German Bridge, Dewey Lake. Kirk landed the catfish using chicken liver as bait.

The Floyd County 13-year-old All-Stars made a trip to the Babe Ruth State Tournament. The Floyd County squad advanced in the playoffs with a doubleheader sweep of Elkhorn City. Duran Newsome of Grethel was the winning pitcher in the first game, a 19-3 win. Tim Trusty of Prestonsburg won the second game, 13-3.

Mighty Casey at the Bat...

The Pee Wee leagues offer even the not-so-big a chance to learn and play baseball. This "Mighty Casey" gets his cuts at the ball in the playoffs of the Minnie Pee Wee league last week at Minnie.

Rangers Out-Slug The Sluggers, 28-22

In what seems to be a tournament bent on nothing but upsets, the Minnie Pee Wee League has had two so far. The Minnie Reds won their first game of the season over the Drift Astros earlier in the playoffs. The WOW Rangers, winners of only one regular season game, defeated The Sluggers 28-22 for the second upset.

The Sluggers held a 17-15 lead going into the top of the fourth inning. The Rangers then pushed across 10 runs to go up 25-17. They also tallied three in the fifth inning. The Sluggers could only manage three in the bottom of the fourth and a single run in the home half of the fifth.

Joey Tackett had a double for the Sluggers. Tackett had two hits in the game. Brian Bowling had two hits in the contest, as did Mark Bowling.

Chris Noble led the hit parade for the winners with four hits. Noble also had five RBIs in the game. Nick Stumbo had three hits. Brent Stone and Steven Turner each had two hits.

Ken's Sports Shop Places First In Bluegrass Games

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Talk about successful men's softball teams, and invariably, Ken's Sports Shop comes up.

Currently holders of a 64-10 overall record, the local team has had its share of success thus far this softball season.

The success followed them all the way to the Bluegrass Games in Lexington last week, as the local team took a 16-9 victory over The Waterdogs of Rockcastle County to capture the coveted title.

Mike Howard led the hit parade for Ken's Sports Shop with a four-for-four night at the plate, including a home run and three RBIs. Howard also had a triple in the game and scored two runs.

The Prestonsburg-based team scored a single run in their half of both the first and second innings to lead 2-0. The Waterdogs pushed across three in the bottom half of the second to lead 3-2.

In the top of the third, Ken's Sports sent 11 batters to the plate in scoring six runs. The big blow was a home run by Howard after Mike Belcher led off with a single. With two outs, Freddy Terrell reached on an first baseman's error. Base hits by Bobby King, Shane Nickell and Dave Conley brought in the other runs for Ken's Sport Shop to claim an 8-3 lead they never relinquished.

Others beside Howard also had a big day at the plate. Hale, King, Dave Conley and Bruce Shelton had three hits for the winning team. Nickell picked up two hits in the winning effort. Dave Conley had two triples in the contest in picking up four RBIs. Howard, Hale and Shelton had two RBIs each.

Tim Rice was the winning pitcher. Ken's Sports Shop collected 21 hits in the game. They were guilty of committing three errors. The Waterdogs managed 15 hits in the game and committed three miscues.

Kenny Conley's squad went undefeated in the double elimination tournament, winning all four of their games. They won over Fraley's Wildcats of Lexington in the opening game, 5-4. They played the Waterdogs in their second game, 17-14. The Thunderdome were the next to fall to the local team, 8-3, setting up the championship game against The Waterdogs.

Each player on the winning team received a gold medal with the red, white and blue ribbon. Each also received a Bluegrass Games t-shirt.

Ken's Sport Shop was crowned league champions of the Floyd County Softball League played at Archer Park. The local team has won six tournaments already this year, including the Paddock Invitational, held in Huntington; the Pikeville Tip Off Tournament, played in Pikeville; the WYMT-TV Regional and WYMT-TV final held at Hazard; the 19th Annual Fourth Of July Floyd County Tournament at Archer Park and the Bluegrass Games in Lexington.

"As many years that I have played softball, we've never done this good," Conley said. "We will be playing in an invitational down in Tennessee in a couple of weeks. Then we will play in the state tournament later on this month."

carp grow big and fat." I met him there while fishing with Jimmy Houston and Hank Parker. We had just finished shooting a few grip-and-grin photos (leaf through a fishing magazine for a graphic description) when Jimmy said, "Man, look at the fish that feller caught" and pointed at a one armed man wading about belly button deep and holding up a bugle-mouth that was 40 pounds if it was an ounce.

Always interested in a big fish, even a carp, we motored over to him. Now Jimmy Houston is one fellow who is never short of words, and even though the Englishman doesn't readily take to Yanks, he and Jimmy hit it off right from the start. The Englishman picked up that giant Mississippi mud marlin like it was baby, kissed it gently on the head and let it swim away before he told us how he caught it.

"I just tickled it," he said. At our urging, he related the technique.

"You just look for the scavengers scarfing scum off the surface, then get in the water to your waist and wade within whistle width without wading the water. Stir the surface slightly and the silt suckers scatter swiftly. Then the tactic is to tickle the tasty tarm tenants teasingly on the tummy thus transpiring a temporary trance. Feeling faint, the fish finally float flaccidly. Next, nimbly nab the numb nit wit in the niche near the neck. Got that, mates?"

Slack jawed and wide eyed, I suppose we stared at the Englishman for a good five minutes before we were able to speak. Five minutes later, we were all in the water tickling some of the biggest carp in Missouri. I'd show you pictures, but Hank and Jimmy wrestled my camera away and tossed my film in the lake. What is more, they threatened me with bodily harm should I ever tell the world that they, two of this country's greatest bass fishermen, were tickling carp. But when I last called their offices, their secretaries informed me that they were out shooting footage for their television shows. The topic? "Some great new carp fishing technique," the voices over the phone told me.

So, don't be surprised if, some Sunday afternoon, you see Hank Parker and Jimmy Houston on television holding some big, but smiling, carp. And if you need me, I'll be down in the Big Sandy, wading about waist deep without wading the water and tickling tarm tenants on the tummy.

Martin Team Goes 10 Innings To Sweep Tri-County 9-7, 9-8

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Walk Tackett's Martin Liquor softball team ran its record to 23-1 with a doubleheader sweep, 9-7 and 9-8, of the tough Tri-County team in the Minnie Softball League last Sunday afternoon.

It took the Martin team 10 innings to subdue Tri-County in the second contest.

In the first game, Tri-County held a 7-4 lead after four innings. Martin tallied four runs in the top of the fifth and pushed across a single run in the top of the sixth to win the first contest, 9-7.

Rick Caudill was the winning pitcher. Lester Johnston took the loss for Tri-County. Martin had 20 hits in the game, while Tri-County collected 23. Steve Ward had two triples in the game for the winning team. Brian Turner, Julian Slone and Terry Boyd were three for four at the plate. Slone and Boyd along with Robbie Fraley and Rick Caudill each had doubles in the game.

In the second game, Brian Turner went five for five, making him eight for nine in the doubleheader, including a triple to lead the Martin team to a 9-8, 10 inning victory. Turner also had a double in the victory.

Rick Caudill won the game while Lester Johnston suffered the setback. Tri-County had 33 hits in the game and Martin Liqors managed 22 in the winning effort.

The Martin team led 2-1 after the first two innings. Tri-County plated four runs in the top of the third to take a 4-2 lead. Martin came back with a single run in their half of the third and Tri-County added another to lead 5-3 after four innings. Both teams scored twice in their half of the fifth inning and Tri-County leading 8-5.

Martin Liqors came to bat in the bottom of the seventh trailing 8-5 and tied the game at 8-8 on a sacrifice fly by Steve Ward that scored Thomas Meade. Neither team could score in the eighth and ninth innings. With Meade on base, Terry Boyd lined a single to center field to score Meade with the winning run in the bottom of the tenth.

Julian Slone had a double in the second game for Martin Liqors. Robbie Fraley had three hits in the game as did Meade and Boyd.

"The defensive play of Darren Conn in right field saved us from defeat," Tackett said.

The doubleheader was the final regular season game for the Martin team. The Minnie Softball League will begin their tournament next Saturday and Sunday at the Minnie Park.

County Sportsman's Club To Host Hunter Ed Course

A free hunter education course will be held Aug. 10-12 at the Floyd County Sportsman's Club in Maytown (Johns Branch).

The program will last from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Aug. 10-11 and from 9:30 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. on Aug. 12.

The course, sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and The Floyd County Sportsman's Club, will include classroom instruction in firearm safety, sportsmanship, hunter ethics, first aid and outdoor survival.

The last session will feature actual range firing and practice with both firearms and archery equipment.

Those successfully completing the course will receive safe hunter Certificates valid in any of the 39 states where such certification is required.

Completion of this or a similar hunter education course is also a requirement for those youngsters under 16 participating in a youth deer hunt at West Kentucky Management Area; all hunters between ages of 12-18 hunting at Fort Campbell; all deer hunters under age 35 who hunt at Fort Knox; deer hunters born after Jan. 1, 1970 who hunt at Bluegrass Army Ordnance; all hunters born after Jan. 1, 1969 who hunt at Land-Between-The-Lakes; all Kentucky hunters born after Jan. 1, 1975 starting with the 1991 hunting season.

Attendance at all three sessions is required for certification. Any person ten years of age or older who is interested in the shooting sports or wants to become a safe hunter is welcome to attend.

Cancer Society Golf Tournament Draws 16 Teams; Results Posted

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The American Cancer Society held its annual Cancer Society Golf Tournament at the Jenny Wiley golf course Saturday, drawing 16 teams for competition, according to Bill Neff of the American Cancer Society in Pikeville.

The tournament was divided into two categories, Division One and Division Two. The four-man team of Luther Conley, Charlie Atkins, Mike Trimble and Mike Conley won Division One with a score of 52.

Two teams tied for first place in Division Two with scores of 56. A sudden death playoff saw Robbie Tackett, Jeff Wells, Eddie Clark and Diner McKenzie win over the team of Larry Knot, Dan Slone, Van Slone and Larry Castle. The latter team was dropped into second place.

A gold-plated golf glove was presented to Dean Scalf for coming the closest to the pin on Hole 2. Stephen Halbert won a Russell May print for hitting the ball closest to the pin on Hole 4. There was also a $10,000 dollar prize for the first to make a hole-in-one on green number eight. No one made it.

The was coordinated by Doug Turner. The American Cancer Society has plans to hold four such tournaments next year.

Angie, 38. Found houseware parties the ideal excuse to mix a blender of margaritas. But in a few years, it went from women friends to lowlifes and losers hanging around her home late into the night. Sometimes, her husband had to load up the kids and go midnight bar-hopping to find her. Finally, he nailed up doors and windows to keep her out. In desperation, feeling she'd be dead within a year unless she got control of herself, Angie turned to CareUnit.

"I learned more about myself than I'd learned in a lifetime. For the first time, I feel good about myself." Angie is now sober, and is rebuilding her relationship with her husband and two daughters.

Huffman Tennis Tournament Slated Aug. 15-20 In Pikeville

Area tennis players can test their skills and help Pikeville College during the Kenneth Huffman Memorial Scholarship Tennis Tournament next month, sponsored by the Pikeville College Alumni Association.

The tournament, named for former Pikeville College student Kenneth Huffman, an avid tennis player who died in 1973, is held each year to raise money to provide a Pikeville College Scholarship to a student who might otherwise not be able to attend the college, said tournament co-director Lee Smith.

Smith, as a Pikeville College student, was the recipient of the first Huffman Memorial Scholarship in 1975. After graduating in 1980, he earned his law degree from Chase Law School and now practices in Pikeville.

Individual tennis players and doubles partners are invited to register for this year's tournament, which will be held Aug. 15-20 on courts at Pikeville College, Bob Amos Park and the Hambley Athletic Field near Pikeville High School. Categories will include women's singles, A and B level men's singles, men's A and B doubles, women's doubles and mixed doubles.

A donation of $10 per player per event is requested, and each participant is asked to bring an unopened can of Championship Penn or Wilson tennis balls to the tournament, Smith said. All contributions are tax deductible. (Checks should be made payable to Pikeville College/Tennis '89.) No phone entries will be accepted.

Prizes include trophies donated by First National Bank of Pikeville, as well as $50 gift certificates for the winner of each event and $15 certi-ificates for the runners up, courtesy of WYMT-TV. Participants will also be eligible for other gifts, such as tickets to the Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre, prizes donated by the East Kentucky Beverage Company and gift certificates from local merchants.

The deadline for registration is 4 p.m. Aug. 11. For registration information, call Smith at 432-8805, or co-director Jim Vanover at 437-4001. Information is also available from the Pikeville College Alumni Office at 432-9326.

Safe Summer Bicycling Tips

Cycling is one of the fastest growing leisure activities, often replacing running and tennis because it means less pounding on the body, according to Bicycling Magazine.

Rising Safety Standards
This surge in interest has spawned new devices to meet rising safety standards for all cyclists—even "fair weather" bikers. According to Performance Bicycle Shop, the nation's largest mail order/retail company specializing in cycling products at a discount, demand is skyrocketing—not only for helmets but for scores of other new devices as well.

The day of cyclists just jumping on their standard-issue bikes is over. Options are the name of the game, to promote safety as much as pleasure.

For safer, more enjoyable bicycling this season, consider these suggestions:

By far the most important safety device is a sturdy helmet. Choose one that offers maximum protection, is lightweight (as few as 7.5 ounces), adjusts easily, and has good ventilation.

For racing, choose a shape that minimizes wind drag.

Don't rely on the reflectors—standard equipment on bicycles—since they won't ensure your visibility. Clip on lights run by a battery or generator help make sure you're seen.

Rear view mirrors are not standard equipment on bikes, but are favored for safety.

Check your tires for cuts in the casing or protruding glass or nails before each ride. Using a pump with a built-in tire gauge, and be sure your tire is adequately inflated.

Good sunglasses not only block the sun, they provide protection from airborne objects.

Cycling eyewear offers many options, such as glare resistant and shatterproof lenses, lightweight frames, elastic bands and foam covered brow pads that keep sweat off the lenses.

Use extremely lightweight accessories styled to keep out of your way when riding, such as pumps, cycling bags, water bottle cages and even cyclocomputers that read your speed.

Fun Night Five Mile Midnight Run Attracts 400 Runners

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Runners from all over came to Kingsport, Tenn., for the running of the Fun Night Five Mile Midnight Run, as 400 runners took part in the race.

Thomas O'Gara, former All-American from East Tennessee State, and a native of Ireland, finished first overall in the race with a time of 24:53. This was the second year in a row that O'Gara has won the race. He finished one minute slower than last year's winning time of 23:53.

Local runner Rick Roberts placed 11th overall with a time of 28:43. He finished 3:50 from O'Gara, and three seconds from 10th place. "I wanted to make the top 10," Roberts said. "At the two-mile mark I was in 24th place and I sort of kicked it in and finished 11th."

In the women's division, Whitney Ball of Appalachian State took the top position with a time of 30:51. Laura McSpadin, a student at UK, finished third with a time of 32:33.

"I will be running in the Twilight Two Mile Run at Corbin on Aug. 11," Roberts said. "They have a lot of talented kids in this one, and it could be rough. Then, on Aug. 12 in Matewan, W.Va., I may run in the Magnolia Festival's 5K run. This will be the first time for me in either race."

'Locals' Fit In With Summer Theatre Cast, Crew

by Pam Shingler
Assistant Editor

They hate the term "locals." But, for want of a better word, that's what they are.

They are young people from the local area who work at Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre among a repertory company that includes actors and crew members from several states and all around Kentucky.

"It hasn't been hard to fit in," says Jonathan Goble, 18, referring to the traditional misconception that summer stock troupes disdain the local populace, the premise of dozens of books and movies.

"The cast makes it a lot easier. They're very accepting," says Goble, the son of Betty and Freddie Goble of Auxier.

The recent Prestonsburg High School graduate won a part in the musical Camelot during area theatre auditions in April. "I said 'Since I'm here, use me wherever you can,'" he says. Subsequently, he was assigned parts in the other three plays, as well.

Also in each play is Eric Ratcliff, 17, the son of Libby and James Ratcliff of Prestonsburg. "The experience has turned out to be more and better than what I was expecting," says Ratcliff. "It's a real learning experience. You pick up all kinds of things about the theatre besides acting. You learn about lights and sound. You have to do set changeovers and scene changes."

Both young men have lines in a couple of the productions and sing and dance in all of the musical plays. They credit their previous training in music and dance with aiding in their performance.

Both played in the PHS band, Goble on percussion and Ratcliff on trumpet. Both were also members of the school's Honor Choir, which placed in national competition in New York City in May. Says Goble, "We can't say enough good things about

'It's a real learning experience. You pick up all kinds of things about the theatre besides acting. You learn about lights and sound. You have to do set changeovers and scene changes.'

— Eric Ratcliff

Elizabeth Frazier (Honor Choir director). I owe my vocal credits to her." Dancing lessons have also helped as the two local actors have had to fit in with the carefully choreographed steps required in each production. Goble has taken ballet and jazz dance from Jan Hurst at Prestonsburg Community College. Ratcliff has had jazz and tap lessons from Dorothy Howard, also at the college.

Seeing the technical end of theatre up close is Jessica Summers, also a "local." The daughter of Betty and Perry Summers of Prestonsburg, the Paintsville High School senior is props manager for the theatre this summer. Her job entails securing all of the furniture and items that make the sets appear credible and making sure that everything is in place for each production.

She has worked around the theatre for six years, since she was a pre-teen. Until this year, she was a volunteer, working with ushers, props and costumes. "This is the first year I get paid," Summers says. (Goble and Ratcliff were both volunteer ushers last season.)

Summers has had only one on-stage role, that of an extra who helped move sets in the production of Hello Dolly! last year. "I didn't like it. I'd much rather be in the technical end," she emphasizes.

All three young people have settled into their respective roles and appear to be old-timers. However, they admit that their schedules were hectic when pre-season preparation and rehearsals were going on. Each had to squeeze theatre time in around school classes.

"Rehearsals and school at the same time were very difficult," Ratcliff confides. Until school was out, they left school each day for rehearsals which lasted late into the evenings. In fact, the two men went to rehearsal directly after their high school graduation.

Settled into a less grueling schedule now, all three profess to love what they're doing. "You feel like you've accomplished something when you get done with each show," says Goble, adding that the dancing has helped him lose weight. "I feel better about myself."

The threesome, who've been friends since grade school, want to continue involvement in the theatre. Goble is the most decisive about his future. "I want to be an actor, to be in movies and on Broadway," he says. He plans to attend PCC this fall and later transfer to a university with a strong theatre curriculum.

Ratcliff is "not really sure" about the future, but he says he has a definite interest in the theatre and in music. Also a piano player, he will attend PCC in the fall.

With still a year of high school to complete, Summers says she hopes to major in psychology with a minor in theatre when she goes to college. Her ambition is to be a clinical psychologist, but she wants to maintain at least a sideline in theatre.

Goble, Ratcliff and Summers have high praise for the board members of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association. "The board members make it especially great," says Goble. "If you have any problem, you can go to them."

Summers says she has relied on board members to supply her with many of the props used in the season's productions. "I have a list of props I need, and I can just call one of them and they'll bring it that day," she says.

The three and other locals in the cast and crew have also helped the visiting actors and technical staff feel more at home in the area. They often have crew members in their homes and participate in all of the social activities. They've all pitched in to make a theatre softball team, have bowled together, traveled to Kings Island amusement park and gone to movies together.

About 12 other members of the summer theatre staff are "locals," coming from Johnson, Magoffin and Pike counties.

Let's Put On A Show!

Three Floyd County teens, Jon Goble, Jessica Summers and Eric Ratcliff, are among the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre staff who are accepted, even though they are 'local.' Goble and Ratcliff have parts in each of the productions, and Summers is props manager.

Rook Tourney Held; Rister, Davis Take First

The Floyd County Rook Tournament was held Saturday, July 8.

Winners of the first place trophy were Ed Rister of Garrett and Rady Davis of David. Taking second place were Curt Blackburn of Langley and Mike Jarrell of Prestonsburg.

Commemorating Jenny Wiley

The Prestonsburg Rotary Club is selling prints of a depiction of the Jenny Wiley Story at Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre. The original oil painting was commissioned by the club, painted by local artist Russell May and paid for by Bill Doug and Hattie Branham, who gave rights to the prints back to the club. Proceeds from the sales will go to the club's numerous community service projects, including scholarships, children playing signs, Safe Trick or Treat Night, and donations to local charitable organizations. Copies of the limited edition prints are available from Rotary Club members, Lloyd's Hardware, Sears and The Floyd County Times. The Branhams have lent the original painting for display at May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

Cashew-Parmesan Fish Fillets
Asparagus With Quick Hollandaise
Broiled Tomato Wedges
Strawberries With Zabaglione
Make zabaglione; refrigerate. Prepare hollandaise; keep warm. Coat fish; while fish bakes, prepare tomatoes. Keep fish warm while tomatoes broil; cook asparagus.

CASHEW-PARMESAN FISH FILLETS

3 Tbsp. butter or margarine
1 large egg
3/4 cup grated Roman cheese
2 Tbsp. all-purpose flour
6 fillets (4 oz. each) sole or turbot
1/2 cup chopped cashews
Preheat oven to 425 degrees. In jelly-roll pan or large, shallow-rimmed baking pan, melt butter in oven. Meanwhile, in pie plate, beat egg slightly. On waxed paper, combine cheese and flour. Dip each fillet in egg; coat both sides with cheese mixture.
Remove pan from oven; add 3 Tbsp. salad oil to butter; swirl to blend. Arrange fillets in pan, turning to coat with butter mixture. Sprinkle fillets with chopped cashews. Bake on top rack 10 minutes. Garnish fillets with lemon wedges.
Makes six servings.

ASPARAGUS WITH QUICK HOLLANDAISE

1 1/2 lb. fresh asparagus
1 cup mayonnaise
2 large egg yolks
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
In large skillet, bring one inch salted water to boiling. Add asparagus; reduce heat; simmer, covered, five minutes, or until just tender; drain.
In small, heavy saucepan, combine mayonnaise, egg yolks and lemon juice; mix well. Over medium-low heat, cook, stirring, two minutes or until warm. Slowly stir in one to two tbsps. hot water until desired consistency. Pour over asparagus.
Makes six servings.

BROILED TOMATO WEDGES

1/4 cup butter or margarine
4 medium tomatoes, cut in six wedges
Melt butter in shallow baking pan. Add tomatoes; turn to coat on all sides. Broil, four inches from heat, five minutes, or until hot. Sprinkle with 1/2 tsp salt and 1/4 tsp freshly ground pepper.
Makes six servings.

STRAWBERRIES WITH ZABAGLIONE

1 box (2.8 oz.) whipped topping mix (2 env.)
1/2 cup cold milk
1/3 cup sherry
1 large egg yolk
1 quart strawberries, hulled

In small bowl, with electric mixer, at medium speed, beat topping mix and milk until thick and fluffy. At low speed, gradually beat in sherry and egg yolk. Serve over berries.
Makes six servings.

ZUPPA DE PESCE

ZUPPA DE PESCE

1/2 lb. chorizo sausage, cut in 1/2-inch diagonal slices
1 medium onion, chopped
1 large red pepper, chopped
2 cans (14 oz. each) chicken broth
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 pkg. (8 oz.) linguini
1 lb. little-neck clams, well scrubbed
1/4 cup chopped parsley
In five-quart saucepan, heat two tbsps. salad oil; cook sausage three minutes, or until browned. Add onion and pepper; sauté three minutes longer. Stir in chicken broth, 1 1/2 cups water and the lemon juice; bring to boiling. Add the linguini; cook, partially covered, five minutes. Add the clams. Reduce heat; simmer, covered, five minutes, or until clams are opened and linguini is tender. Sprinkle with parsley.
Makes eight servings.

"QUILTED" CHEESY CORNBREAD

1 pkg. (8 1/2 oz) corn-muffin mix
1 large egg
1/3 cup sour cream
1/4 cup chopped pimento
1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper
1/2 tsp. garlic powder
1/4 lb. fontina cheese, cut into 10 1/4-inch-thick strips
Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Line eight-inch square pan with foil; grease foil. In medium bowl, combine muffin mix, egg, sour cream, pimento, pepper and garlic powder, mix well.
Spread evenly in prepared pan. Arrange cheese strips in crosswise rows, one-inch apart, in "quilt" pattern on top of batter. Bake 20 minutes, or until lightly browned.
Makes eight servings.

ASSORTED FRUITS, CHEESES

Four Local Students Attend GSP At Centre

Four Floyd County students participated this summer in the Governor's Scholars Program at Centre College. They are Stephen Damron of Wheelwright High School and Byron Crider, Dustin Haley and Michelle Mullins, all of Prestonsburg High School.

At GSP, Damron, son of Atha and Billie Damron of Weeksbury, majored in biology and minored in "Technology as Jeckle and Hyde," a course that compared positive and negative effects of increasing technology, according to the Centre news services office.

Of the class, Damron says, "Activities like the protest against the Chinese government are different from anything I have done before." At WHS, he is a member of Students Against Drunk Driving and the academic team.

The son of Jack and Barbara Crider of East Point, Crider also majored in biology at GSP and minored in "Predators and Pothunters: 21st Century Archaeology." He refers to the program as "the most significant learning experience of my high school career." At PHS, he is in Beta Club, National Honor Society, choir and academic team.

Haley, son of Wilma Haley of Prestonsburg and a biology major, took a minor in the program "Methuselah in a Spaceship: Einstein's Universe." He calls the program "a creative learning experience." He is in the National Honor Society, Beta Club and academic team at PHS.

Daughter of Freddie and Della Rose Mullins of Prestonsburg, Mullins is in band, Beta Club and National Honor Society at PHS. At GSP, she was also a biology major with a minor in the archaeology program. The program is "one of the most wonderful experiences of my life," she says.

The GSP, in its sixth year at Centre, ran from June 25 to July 29. In addition to classes, the program included visits by noted authors, scientists, musicians, athletes and businesspersons, celebration of Bastille Day; a march protesting recent actions by the Chinese government, and other events.

To Exchange Vows

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel P. Curry and Mr. and Mrs. Dixon Nunnery announce the forthcoming wedding of their children, Danyel Curry and B.D. Nunnery. The wedding will be Sunday, Aug. 13, at 3 p.m. at First United Methodist Church in Prestonsburg. Open church will be observed. A reception will immediately follow at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

Birth Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sanders of South Portsmouth announce the birth of their first child, a son, Thomas Clifton, born July 18 at Scioto Memorial Hospital in Portsmouth, Ohio.

The baby weighed eight pounds, 11 ounces and measured 22 inches long.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stewart of Lehigh Acres, Fla., formerly of Langley. Paternal grandmother is Elsie M. Earlywine of South Portsmouth. The new mother is the former Judy Stewart.

Revival In Progress

The Free Pentecostal Church at East Point is having a Holy Ghost Miracle Revival through Friday, Aug. 4. Brother Charles Stoker is officiating at the 6:30 p.m. services. For information, contact Pastor Buster Hayton, 886-9553.

Miss Stegall Is One

Ashley Renee Stegall celebrated her first birthday July 30 at her home at Hi Hat. She had a Big Bird cake and a visit from Sophie The Clown and received gifts from her parents, grandparents and other relatives and friends. She is the daughter of Rick and Renee Stegall and the granddaughter of Roger and Lovetta Tackett of Beaver and Estil and Sharon Stegall of Hi Hat.

Lucas, Pitts Exchange Vows In Lexington

Elizabeth Lucas Pitts

Elizabeth Clara Lucas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack G. Lucas of Lexington, and John David Pitts, son of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Pitts of Prestonsburg, were united in marriage recently at St. Luke's Church in Lexington.

The Rev. Walter Bado and Dr. Quentin Scholtz officiated at the ceremony. Patrick Lucas, brother of the bride, sang the responsorial Psalms and State Sen. Michael Maloney, uncle of the bride, read the scripture passages. Traditional organ wedding music was provided by Dr. Gary Anderson, with vocal arrangements sung by Mrs. Anderson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Victorian wedding dress of ivory satin. The heart-shaped, off-the-shoulder neckline featured hand cut lace and pearl beading. The straight skirt and A-line train had lace insets and was edged in lace and hand-beaded to match the bodice. A fingertip veil attached to a brimmed hat with ribbon and beading and elbow length gloves completed the bride's attire. The bridal bouquet was of pastel summer flowers with matching ribbon.

The maid of honor was Rose Ann Lucas, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Jennifer Caudill, Jayne Pitts, Jennifer Southard and Sheila Huff. The bridal attendants wore matching ivory gowns and carried summer flower bouquet similar to the bride's.

The best man was Cohen Swiney. Ushers were David Allen, Jack G. Lucas Jr., Johnny Gabhart, Kirk Tolle, Patrick Lucas and Michael Lucas.

A reception followed immediately after the ceremony at the home of the bride. Garden flowers decorated the bridal table and throughout the house. Linens and serving pieces, belonging to the bride's grandmother, were used during the buffet reception. A four-tier wedding cake, surrounded with summer flowers, was served to departing guests by Megan Maloney, cousin of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Tala-wanda High School and Transylvania University and is doing graduate work at the University of Kentucky. A member of Phi Mu, she is employed by the Kentucky Labor Cabinet and College Planning Service.

The groom is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School, Transylvania University and the University of Kentucky. He is a member of Delta Sigma Phi and is employed by the State Auditor's office in Frankfort.

After a wedding trip to Charleston, S.C., the couple will live in Lexington.

Other activities honoring the bride and groom included the rehearsal dinner, given by Mr. and Mrs. John K. Pitts at the Lexitalia Restaurant. A bridal luncheon took place at Woodlands Restaurant with the bride, the mothers and bridal attendants attending. A bridal bachelorette party and shower was given by the bride's attendants, and a bar and grill shower was given by friends of the Lucas family. A backyard picnic was also hosted by the Lucas family for members of the wedding party, family and friends.

PREVENTING A REACTION

Those with seasonal allergies will be very interested to know that there is a prescription drug that prevents sniffing, sneezing, and wheezing. First developed as an anti-asthma drug 16 years ago, cromolyn sodium is considered to be the safest of all allergy drugs. It is available in a nasal spray for hay fever sufferers, as an aerosol inhalant for allergic asthma patients, and in eye-drop form for those who suffer from allergic conjunctivitis. In each form, the cromolyn sodium must be used before allergic symptoms appear. It works by inhibiting mast cells in the respiratory tract from releasing histamines. In the case of those with allergic bronchial asthma, cromolyn sodium stems the release of leukotrienes that trigger attacks. However, once an asthma attack or allergy symptoms are underway, cromolyn sodium has little effect on stopping them.

COOLEY APOTHECARY can provide you and your family with your total prescription needs, as well as over-the-counter remedies you require. Our entire staff at COOLEY APOTHECARY keeps up to date on the latest developments in our industry. Complete patient profiles are maintained here at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. MasterCard and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

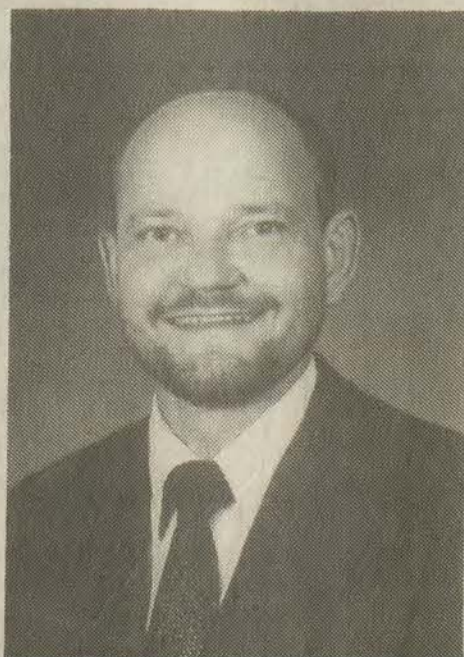

HINT: Cromolyn sodium is not an antihistamine.

HOROSCOPE

August 6 through August 12

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
Routine tasks will help you settle your life a little better. You will gain great insight from someone at the top of the ladder who relates a success story.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Your intuition is right on target! Don't doubt yourself. Associates will look to you for much needed advice. You will be part of an upcoming celebration.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Creativity and romance are highlighted this week. Your mind will be a virtual whirlwind of ideas. Take time to write things down, as they will be easily forgotten.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Don't take anything for granted. Members of the opposite sex will drive you crazy with demands on your time. Make time to relax, or your health could be in danger.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Complete minor tasks and clear the decks for tackling that big project that has been driving you crazy. Your lucky number is 6 this week.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
Don't take your responsibilities lightly this week. Someone very important in your life is depending on you. Hold off on making major purchases.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
The accent is on domestic affairs this week. Family members need your advice and understanding. Quit procrastinating about fixing up your home.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
Don't take the comments of others too seriously. Family members will be more lenient with you about recent difficulties. You will have luck with the number 8.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
A short vacation should be in your plans for the next couple of weeks. It is time for you to begin thinking about adding to your wardrobe with some new fall pieces.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
A problem, or an argument will be solved easily this week. A new associate at work will need your advice. Take time out to show your loved ones that you care.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Travel and money will occupy your mind this week. A short jaunt to the country, or boating on the lake will ease your mind from business worries.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
You are fed up with the restrictions placed on you at home and work. Don't let others dictate your life. You are the one who can make positive changes.

8:30 Different World
25 Degrassi Junior High

9:00 Cheers Frasier and his wife Lilith reject civilization and move to the wilds for a more natural lifestyle. (R) □

Maria Shriver examines various types of addictions

News special not just 'trash TV'

By Shelia Odak
 Maria Shriver, co-anchor of NBC News' Sunday Today, will examine addictions during a special program on Wednesday, Aug. 9. Fatal Addictions looks at obsessions with everything from cocaine to food to sex.

Maria Shriver delves into all types of habits on Fatal Addictions, Wednesday on NBC.

Included in the special will be interviews with former First Lady Betty Ford, whose own struggle with alcohol addiction led her to form The Betty Ford Clinic, and former Major League Baseball player Steve Howe, who fought an addiction to cocaine.

Shriver began her broadcast career in 1977 as a news writer/producer for KYW-TV Philadelphia. In 1978 she moved to WJZ-TV Baltimore as a writer/producer on the station's Evening Magazine.

She worked as a reporter for PM Magazine for two years, and then joined the CBS News staff. In 1986 she made the move to NBC, where she became a correspondent for the prime-time news hour, 1986. She has also served as the anchor for Main Street.

She compares some of her early days in broadcasting to an especially humorous scene in the movie Broadcast News. "I got a kick out of, mainly the Albert Brooks scene, when he was trying to anchor, because I remember the first time I did the CBS Morning News," Shriver said. "It was somewhat similar to that. I was throwing up, sweating, everything."

Shriver has long passed those nerve-racking first days and is now a polished professional. She is also no stranger to news specials such as Fatal Addictions. Her career has included several of them, some of which are The Baby Business, Men, Women, Sex and

AIDS, God Is Not Elected and Women Behind Bars.

This type of informational, reality-based television has become especially popular in the last few years, but Shriver does not wish to be lumped with the so-called "trash television" or "tabloid television" journalists. That is a trend she is not fond of, and hopes will not continue.

"...I think there will always be some people who will watch that kind of television. I think some of the novelty of it will wear off. But as far as how long it will be here or how much more of it we'll see, I hope not much more," she said.

Shriver herself has been a target of tabloid reporting, because of her own fame as a newswoman, the fact that she is related to the Kennedys and her marriage to Arnold Schwarzenegger. "I learn things about myself when I walk by the airport counters and I see, you know, some sort of whacked headline. But, you know, sometimes it makes me mad. It makes me angry. Sometimes I find it embarrassing. I try to pay no attention."

TV Q&A

'Predator' actor could be described as 'gentle giant'

By Polly Vonetes

Q: My husband and I have been wondering about Kevin Peter Hall, who starred in Predator. We would love to see what he really looks like. Could you run a photo of him? What else has he been in?

—Gary and Becky Lawson, Hillsville, Va.

A: Kevin could be called the "gentle giant." He is 7'2" tall and has had to prove since his high school days that "big guys can do more than play basketball." He has always wanted to be an actor, though he spent a year playing professional basketball in Venezuela after graduating from George Washington University in 1977. His film credits include Harry and the Hendersons, Prophecy, One Dark Night and Monster in the Closet. He has appeared on such television series as ER and Night Court, and starred in Misfits of Science.

Q: Could you give me any information on the actor who starred in the movie Willow, Val Kilmer? I would appreciate it. —A.S., Albany, Ky.

A: Twenty-nine-year-old Val Kilmer has paid his dues. Born in Los Angeles, he came to New York, at the age of 17, to study at the Juilliard Academy. He was the youngest student ever accepted at the prestigious acting school. He wound up co-authoring and appearing in the play How It All Began, which Joseph Papp presented at the Public Theatre. On stage, Kilmer has starred in the off-Broadway production of Slab Boys, with Sean Penn, and as Orlando in As You Like It at the Guthrie Theatre in Minneapolis. He made his screen debut in Top Secret, following it with Real Genius and Top Gun. He is single and hopes to further his career in producing and directing.

Q: In the series Spenser:

Kevin Peter Hall

For Hire he has a girlfriend named Susan Silverman. Now I never saw the original broadcast of the show but pick it up in re-runs. All of a sudden with no explanation Susan is gone. There are vague references from Hawk, but no reason and now another woman, an assistant D.A., shows up. Can you please tell me what happened to Susan's part. Did she die or move away? What happened?

—Phyllis Hoppmeyer, Brooksville, Fla.

A: In an effort to boost ratings with a new look, for their second season, the producers of Spenser decided to cast a new love interest. Carolyn McCormick was selected to join the regular cast with an explanation that Susan (Barbara Stock) had accepted a position as a school guidance counselor in San Francisco, while still in love with him (Spenser). Well, the new look didn't turn out too well and viewers were outraged. The next season (1987), Spenser welcomed Susan back with open arms. Keep watching—you'll see.

I'm covered with 3/4 inch natural wood vertical siding. I'm very nice, if I do say so myself. All I need is a new owner. Won't you buy me today Call Han or Fran to have a look at me. 886-2048

WLAND HILLS OFF MT. PARKWAY-8 year old, 2,100 sq. ft. ranch style home with energy package insulation and maintenance free vinyl siding. The home has 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, built-in kitchen living, dining, family and laundry rooms. Call now for app't to see. 886-2048 Frances or Hansel.

A MOVE IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION! Step up to becoming an owner with this 3 br, 2 bath home. Extras include stone fireplace in family room, above ground pool, carport and flat 100x100 (to the river) lot, all priced to sell quickly at $77,500.00. Compared to renting or living in a small cramped home, this is a wise choice.

DAVID-A FRIENDLY LIFESTYLE-is yours in this 3 bedroom, 1 bath ranch located in an established neighborhood of charming homes. It features built-in kitchen, fruit & pine trees, 8x10 wood storage building and much much more. Call today. 886-2048. Priced to sell at $42,000.00

WHAT MORE COULD YOU ASK FOR?-This home has it ALL! It is conveniently located on Bingham Street in Lancer. The home has 4 bedroom, 2 baths, and central air & heat. Plus a whole lot more! Call Hansel or Frances for more details.

McGUIRE CAMP AREA, MARTIN-Small, neat home, located about 3/4 mile off Rt. 80 at Martin. It has 2 bedrooms, living room, eat-in kitchen and bath. Also 12x15 storage bldg. Ask for Hansel or Frances for app't to view. 886-2048

UNHAPPY WITH RENTING?-Then make the smart move into a home of your own. Like this 2 bedroom, 1 bath home, which is located in the BEST POSSIBLE LOCATION! It is within walking distance of downtown Prestonsburg. Call today, don't delay!

ATTENTION INVESTORS-Mt. Parkway, 3-plex. Each unit has it's own private entrance and lots of parking. Generates $1,050.00 per mo. Owner is ready to deal. Call now for details and appointment to see. 886-2048 Hansel or Frances.

NEW ALLEN-Rarely do homes come on the market in this area. Take advantage of this opportunity to locate in a nice neighborhood in a nice home. House has 3 bedrooms, family room, living and dining combo, bath, kitchen and screened porch to enjoy this summer. Exterior is brick and stone. There is also room for a garden on the river bank. Call today! Frances or Hansel 886-2948.

40 ACRES PLUS-50% of 40 more for a total of 80 acres. Priced to sell for only $35,000.00 Call for more details. Hansel.

FARMERS HOME-1,008 sq. ft., 3 bedrooms, living room, eat-in-kitchen and 1 bath. Has city water and private septic. Priced to sell for $32,000.00. For details or/and app't. Call 886-2048 and ask for Hansel.

ONE OF THE NEATEST HOMES YOU'LL SEE!-Approximately 1,272 sq. ft. consisting of 3 bedrooms, family room, 1 bath, kitchen & utility room. Completely remodeled with a new addition. All this with a great low price of only $47,900.00. Call Hansel today.

PRICED FOR QUICK SALE-Older, remodeled house in David. 2 bedrooms, bath, kitchen, utility and living rooms. $25,900.00. Good starter home.

Bible Clubs At Eastern Note 28th Anniversary Celebration

The Joy Bible Clubs of Eastern recently celebrated their 28th anniversary with a special program involving children from Eastern, Maytown, Martin and surrounding communities.

The program included children's choirs, visualized songs, memorization and drills. Trophies and other awards were presented.

Highlighting the activities was the presenting of a gift of $300 to Shelly Green of Columbia, South America. Bible Clubber Marie Leonard made the presentation on behalf of the club members. Green, who is preparing to return to South America for missionary work, is a student at New Tribes Missionary School at Cornettsville.

Eighth grader Patricia Baldrige gave a brief speech on what Bible Club has meant to her. She has attended since she was a small child.

Trophy cups were given to Bible drilling achievers: Marie Leonard, gold cup; Vanessa Conley, runner-up silver cup and Thursday cup; Heather Conley, silver cup, and Heather Patton, silver cup. Robert Castle won the blue ribbon for best art work, and Stephen Waddles was awarded a gift for his work in memorization. Patty Baldrige won top honors, with Melissa Hicks as runner-up. Six Bible Clubbers were given a week at Camp Nathaneal for completing the Bible course and memorization work: Patty Baldrige, Vanessa Conley, Jason Patton, MaryBeth Baldrige, Heather Conley and Marie Griffith.

A red rose and fern were given to Sarah Helmentoler and Sherry Waddles for their help during the teaching year. Linda Hicks presided at the punch bowl and the older girls served the decorated cakes.

The clubs will convene again in September at the home of Barbara Wynsma and Lois Holmquist, across from Allen Central High School. The group is one of the sponsors of Phone-A-Story, 358-9500.

Home Canning:

USDA Has New Guidelines

The US Department of Agriculture has recommended several changes in the way canned foods should be canned, primarily tomatoes, tomato juice and low acid vegetables.

Improper processing may lead to botulism, a form of food poisoning, warns Frances Pitts of the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service's Floyd County office.

Although tomatoes are generally considered an acid food, some of the new varieties do not have enough acid for safe canning, the extension agent said.

"Therefore, it is recommended that bottled lemon juice or citric acid be added to the jars of tomatoes and juice before canning," Pitts said. "Use one tablespoon of bottled lemon juice per pint and two tablespoons per quart. If using citric acid, use one-fourth teaspoon per pint or one-half teaspoon per quart."

Pitts added that salt does not affect the keeping quality of tomatoes. "If using salt for flavor," she said, "use one-half teaspoon per pint and one teaspoon per quart."

Pitts also recommends processing tomatoes in a canner for 15 minutes at 12 pounds pressure.

Open kettle canning and the processing of freshly filled jars in conventional or microwave ovens are not recommended, Pitts emphasized. Also not recommended, she said, is canning in pressure sauce canners.

Low acid food, including many vegetables, some tomatoes and meat, should be processed in a pressure canner, she said.

Pitts also advises that home canners use commercial canning jars and lids and that they sterilize empty jars and lids.

The local extension office, located in the Courthouse Annex, is awaiting new canning bulletins which will include the revised USDA guidelines. The office has in stock bulletins on freezing, pickle making and jam and jelly making, along with gardening leaflets and spray schedules, she said.

For information on canning procedures, contact the extension office at 886-2668.

Our Family...

Cares For Your Family.

For a child, a hospital can be a strange and frightening place.

But when your child is ill you want him to have the best medical care available — the best and most modern facilities, the latest medical technology, and an experienced, caring staff of physicians and nurses.

And because your child is an important member of the family — yours and ours — we believe he deserves something extra.

At Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center of Paintsville, that something extra includes visits from volunteers of the Patsy Knight Teddy Bear fund and local church organizations.

In our modern facility, your child will receive the care, affection and attention he has a right to expect from family — your family, and our family.

Rotarian Of Year

Sue Charles was named Rotarian of the Year at the recent annual banquet of the Prestonsburg Rotary Club. The award is given by the service club to the member who is deemed by the club president to have been most invaluable during the past year. Charles, manager of Prestonsburg Food Lyon, was one of the first women members of the local Rotary Club.

Bradbury Tapped For Finance Post

US Sen. Mitch McConnell has named Raymond Bradbury of Prestonsburg as finance chairman for Floyd County during McConnell's 1990 re-election bid.

Bradbury is president of Martin County Coal and involved with a number of local organizations.

"The position of finance chairman is one of the most important in any political campaign, and I am honored that Raymond volunteered to chair my finance committee in Floyd County," McConnell said in a prepared statement.

According to the Senator's office, McConnell's last Federal Election Commission report, filed at the end of 1988, showed that he had raised more than $1.4 million for his re-election campaign.

INSPECTION PERIOD

FOR THE PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENT ROLL

The Floyd County property tax roll will be opened for inspection from August 7 through August 21, 1989. Under the supervision of the property valuation administrator or one of the deputies, any person may inspect the tax roll.

This is the January 1, 1989, assessment on which state, county and school taxes for 1989 will be due about September 15, 1989.

The tax roll is in the office of the property valuation administrator in the county courthouse and may be inspected between the hours 8 a.m. through 4 p.m.

Any person who wishes to appeal a real property assessment must file a written letter or petition with the county clerk within the above period of time. This letter or petition must state the reasons for appeal, identify the property in question and state the taxpayer's estimate of actual fair cash value (KRS 133.120).

Appeals of personal property assessments shall not be made to the county board of assessment appeals. Personal property taxpayers shall be served notice under the provisions of KRS 132.450(4) and shall have the protest and appeal rights granted under the provisions of KRS 131.110.

The following steps should be taken when a taxpayer does not agree with the assessed value of personal property as determined by the office of property valuation administrator.

- (1) He must list under protest (for certification) what he believes to be the fair cash value of his property.
(2) He must file a written protest directly with the Department of Property Taxation within 30 days from the date of the notice of assessment.
(3) This protest must be in accordance with KRS 131.110.
(4) The final decision of the Revenue Cabinet may be appealed to the Kentucky Board of Tax Appeals.

situated in Garfield Addition to the Town of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, as shown on Map of the Garfield Addition traced from map of the Prestonsburg Engineering Company, dated June 14, 1929, by W.C. Rimmer, Engineer, filed in the Floyd County Clerk's Office as Map #91.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $48,081.67 with interest thereon at 14% annually from the 29 day of February, 1987 until satisfied and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 31 day of July, 1989,
MARSHALL DAVIDSON,
Master Commissioner 8-2-3t.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the July 10 term, 1989, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 18 day of August, 1989, at 12:00 o'clock p.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of three (3) months, the following described property, to-wit:

Those certain tracts or parcels of land, lying and being on the Waters of Lick Fork of the Left Fork of Middle Creek in Floyd County, Kentucky, being the same property conveyed Rufus Shepherd by unrecorded Special Commissioner's Deed of September 6, 1966 in Civil Action CR 2131 in the Floyd Circuit Court, and being more particularly described as follows:

TRACT NO. ONE: (LOT #6)
Beginning on top of the ridge a corner between Jack Shepherd and Poppy Conley; thence a southerly course down the ridge with Princess Elkhorn's line to the top of the knob to a hickory tree, a corner to Ellis Hale's land; thence a westerly course down the point with Princess Elkhorn's line to the creek to a walnut tree; thence up the hill with Princess Elkhorn's line to the top of the hill to a black oak tree; thence up the ridge with Princess Elkhorn's line to a marked oak tree; corner to Lot No. 7; thence down the point to the butt of the point to a marked rock; thence down the point a southerly course to a marked pine tree; thence down the hill an Easternly course and across the bottom to a poplar tree near the creek at the lower side of the bottom; thence down the creek a straight line to a locust tree marked above the road; thence a northerly course up the point to the butt of the point to a pine tree marked, thence an easterly course with Poppy Conley and Jack Shepherd lines to the beginning corner.

TRACT NO. TWO: (LOT #7)
Beginning on a pine tree marked on the butt of the point on top of the point a corner to Lots Nos. 5 and 6; thence a southerly course down the point to a locust tree above the county road; thence a northerly course a straight line up the creek to a poplar tree at the edge of the creek and bottom; thence a westerly course across the bottom and up the hill to a marked pine tree on the point; thence up the point to a marked rock; thence on up the point to a marked tree at Princess Elkhorn's line on the ridge; thence up the ridge to a marked cliff of rocks a corner to Lot No. 4; thence down the hill with Lot No. 4 to a marked rock near the mouth of a drain; thence a straight line up the creek to a walnut tree on the right side of the creek; thence East course across bottom to an iron stake and small pine tree above the road; thence up the point to the center of the point to the top of the point to the pine tree, the beginning corner.

TRACT NO. THREE
(1/4th of Lot No. 5)

All the legal right, title and interest, in and to the undivided one-fourth (1/4) interest of Leon Shepherd and Rachel Shepherd, his wife, in and to the following described tract of land, bounded and described as follows:

That certain tract or parcel of land, lying and being on the waters of Lick Fork of the Left Fork of Middle Creek in Floyd County, Kentucky, and being the entire interest inherited by Leon Shepherd as an heir-at-law of Frank Shepherd, deceased, and by him conveyed by general warranty deed to Rufus Shepherd, deceased, dated May 9, 1966, recorded in Deed Book 190, page 399, Floyd County Clerk's Office, and being more particularly described as follows:

Beginning on a chestnut oak tree on top of the ridge a southerly course down the ridge to Poppy Conley's line; thence with her line a westerly course down the point to an oak tree; thence down the point a northwesterly course to an iron stake and small pine tree above the county road; thence to the county road and up the county road to the upper end of the culvert; thence up the point to a black oak tree on the butt of the point; thence a west course to the center of the point to the chestnut oak tree, the beginning.

This property is being sold to settle the estate of Rufus Shepherd.

These three tracts will be sold separately and then together as a whole.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall include the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this July 31, 1989,
