Woman Injured In Flood Accident Returns Home

Seriously injured in a car accident during flooding Tuesday, Oct. 17, Robin Sparkman, 32, of Wheelwright has returned home after intensive medical treatment.

Sparkman was involved in a car accident on Oct. 17, when a vehicle driven by Ron Gullett, 53, of Bypro, hydroplaned on flooded KY. 122 at Price, and struck Sparkman's Buick Regal head-on. Sparkman was not wearing a seat belt, and received multiple severe injuries. Gullett was also injured in the accident.

According to Sparkman's mother, Robin Sparkman will require months of care and rehabilitation therapy.

Blood Drive

The Central Kentucky Blood Center in Prestonsburg will participate in the second "Big Blue Crush" blood drive challenge between the CKBC and MEDIC Regional Blood Center in Knoxville, Tenn.

The local center will be open Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 14, 16 and 17, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The donor center is located on the second floor of the Municipal Building in Prestonsburg.

The blood center which scores the most donations will claim victory and be presented a traveling trophy at halftime of the UK/UT game on Nov. 25.

UK fans who would like to give "Blue Blood" will receive a free stadium cup and can of Pepsi, and a free cholesterol check.

Recalling Caps

The Daisy Manufacturing Company notified all Wal-Mart stores to immediately remove all Daisy Ring Caps from their shelves Thursday.

The Prestonsburg Wal-Mart notified the Prestonsburg Fire Department and requested them to come and pick up the recalled caps, according to Fire Chief Tom Blackburn. "We've called the state fire marshal's office and they have instructed us to destroy them. Apparently the caps would go off when dropped — that's a little premature," Blackburn commented. The state fire marshal has given the order statewide to burn all of this stock.

Board Hears Allen, McDowell Complaints

by Anne Chaney,
Editor

Parents of Allen and McDowell students attended Wednesday night's school board meeting in droves, voicing concerns about the safety of their children.

For Allen parents, concern hinged upon the safety of Allen Elementary School, the site of a recent furnace blast that injured Principal Daniel Branson and caused structural damage to the building.

Gary Compton, representing McDowell parents, questioned the board and showed a five-minute videotape of Oct. 17 flooding at the school which temporarily stranded more than 700 students.

Both groups asked several questions, but parents said afterwards they felt they received few answers.

Joe Hinchman, president of the Allen Parent-Teacher Organization, told the board he was thankful the school had reopened after local, state and private inspectors deemed the building safe.

He reported that Joseph Poage of Poage Engineers and Associates in Lexington, at the request of Allen parents, had inspected the building and found it safe, reading Poage's closing passage:

"The Allen school is in very poor esthetic condition. Floors are uneven, warping of timber has caused movement of finish material. It goes without saying that a new school is needed and the old one is showing signs of deterioration. However, the blast damage, as far as the structures are concerned, have been returned to their condition prior to the explosion."

On behalf of Allen parents, Hinchman noted bids for the new school might be accepted Tuesday, Nov. 14, and asked when construction would begin. He also asked whether the state Department of Education could provide funds to expedite construction.

"If the squeaky wheel gets the grease, folks, then we're really squeaking," Hinchman added.

Compton, representing McDowell parents, read comments by students who said they were terrified during flooding Oct. 17; many said they wondered if they would see their families again.

A video shown to the board depicted parents and students wading through water to get to and from the school.

Compton asked Superintendent Ron Hager for a public apology for statements he made to the Lexington Herald-Leader saying that the children were not in danger in the school, and alleging that parents panicked when they waded water to reach their children.

"If it happened again, we would do it again," said Compton. "The kids were terrified."

He noted that two silt ponds above the school could have broken, making the campus "a death trap."

He also questioned Hager's decision. See SCHOOL BOARD, Page 10

Swearing-In Plans For Stumbo

by Frank Clark,
Staff Writer

In early December, a young Prestonsburg lawyer will be sworn in on the steps of the Floyd County Courthouse to one of the most powerful judicial positions in the state of Kentucky.

Having successfully run for a seat on the Kentucky Court of Appeals against Barkley Sturgill, Janet Stumbo, 35, will join 13 other elected judges who determine the legal validity of appeals made to the court from federal cases across the state. While Stumbo cannot comment on positions which she will take as an appeals judge, she did indicate the type of position she wishes to maintain in relation to her electorate.

"The results from the election should be certified by Nov. 27," said Stumbo. "We hope to have a public swearing-in a week to 10 days after that, tentatively on Dec. 2. I want to have a public swearing-in, in front of the Courthouse in Prestonsburg, because I think such a swearing-in is appropriate in light of the grassroots nature of our campaign and the support we received."

Commenting on the campaign, Stumbo noted, "The votes this campaign received I think were, in part, due to the fact that much of the public doesn't want a judiciary with strong political ties. There's a conventional wisdom in the area that you need established political support to win an election in Kentucky. I think we've disproved that with this win."

Ned Pillersdorf, Stumbo's campaign manager and husband, said of Tuesday's election win, "It was a bad night for the 'old boy' political network, but a good night for the judicial system."

Pillersdorf also commented on the frequently heated campaign, expressing unhappiness at the personal nature which the campaign often took.

"Both Janet and I have a high regard for Barkley. We were friends before this campaign and it's crazy that this battle developed between us. I don't mean to be corny, but when I first began as a lawyer in the area, even before I met Janet, I remember Barkley being someone who bent over backwards to help me."

Stumbo agreed with Pillersdorf's evaluation of Barkley.

"He campaigned hard and gave it his best. In a strange way I'm saddened that he lost, because he's a friend."

Stumbo should begin her duties as Appeals Judge shortly after her swearing-in in early December.

New Road Agreed Upon For Meadows Branch Access

By Tess A. Whitmer,
Staff Writer

The worries of the residents in Meadows Branch behind the Carl D. Perkins Job Corp Center should be coming to an end as the construction of a new road begins in the near future.

An access problem has existed since the Job Corp received funds to construct a new girl's dormitory — to be located on top of the existing roadway.

"Neither the Job Corp or the Department of Labor would ever, ever contemplate closing the road on those people. We are sane enough to know not to do this. We have been just trying to work out a peaceful solution," said Len Grant, spokesperson for the Job Corp.

That solution came recently when Don Ward of the Technical Advisory Group and Al Stith of the Department of Labor met with County Attorney David Barber to work out a solution on placement of the new road.

Both sides conceded to a deal which required both parties to "give a little," according to Barber. The county has agreed to haul in the fill material for the new road provide other assistance, while the federal government has agreed to let the road go across the edge of its property, between the Job Corp Center and the coal company operation, Barber explained. "It's come a long way from where we began," he noted, "and it has been no easy task."

The new access road is the shortest and most convenient route for the dwellers on Meadows Branch, and a previously proposed route across a private landowner's property would have caused the county a much larger expense.

Grant commented that the center never meant to cause the citizens any worries. "We are here to benefit the people of Floyd County, not to create enemies," he stressed. The Job Corp Center operates on a budget over $2 million dollars, spending $1.1 million on salaries for its 70 plus employees, 56 of whom live in Floyd County. The others residing in the surrounding four counties, according to Grant. Last year the center spent over half a million dollars on supplies purchased locally and will have a 10 percent increase in 1990 budget, Grant noted.

"The addition of the girl's dormitory will add space for about 80 new students, which will cause approximately a 40 percent increase in our budget in the future," Grant concluded.

'Liberty And Learning' Is Education Week Theme

American Education Week begins Sunday, Nov. 12, and the Floyd County Education Association has scheduled activities for each day.

"This year's theme is 'Liberty and Learning,'" said FCEA member Pam Precht. "This week we celebrate students, teachers and all who promote the lifelong goals of education in our county and our world. Through this week's activities we celebrate the liberty of learning in our country and of working for education's continued improvement."

The FCEA has asked the county's radio stations to begin playing a song titled "Teachers Touch Tomorrow" on Sunday, Nov. 12. The stations have also been asked to air information about the week's activities.

Monday, Nov. 13, has been dubbed "Flower Power Day." The FCEA is encouraging people to remember their favorite educators with a flower.

"By educators we mean teachers, administrators, counselors, parents or any other persons whose lessons have touched someone deeply or made a major change in his or her life," explained Precht. "Monday is the day and flowers are the way to say thanks."

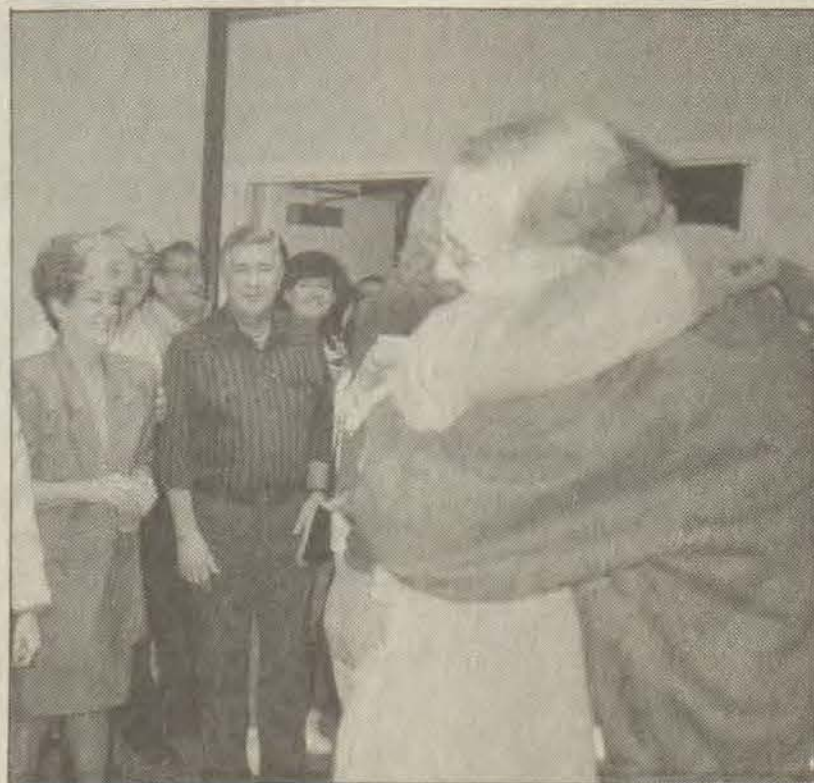

"Because education is a community affair," continued Precht, "a before-school reception is planned at each school for all school personnel on Tuesday morning. We're asking all personnel to come early and teachers to bring their favorite treat."

Wednesday's theme is "Kisses for Education Day." Chocolate Hershey Kisses will be given educators in each teacher lounge and office building.

Thursday, Nov. 16, is "Tip Your Hat for Education Day." Students and school personnel are invited to wear and decorate their hats.

Friday, Nov. 17, is "Student and Teacher Spirit Day." The FCEA is asking teachers not to assign homework if a majority of students wear school colors to class.

The FCEA will also sponsor a daily drawing for a $25 cash prize. All FCEA members are eligible to win. Local radio stations have been asked to announce the winners.

A Hug For A Fighter

Barkley Sturgill receives a consolation hug from a supporter Tuesday night at the Holiday Inn in Prestonsburg after conceding defeat to Janet Stumbo. Said Sturgill of the campaign, "We've fought a good fight and I'm proud of what we've done."

Winning Smile

Janet Stumbo receives confirmation of her victory over Barkley Sturgill Tuesday night at Sam an' Tonio's in Betsy Lane. Stumbo took the seat on the Kentucky Court of Appeals by approximately 5,000 votes.

Martin Man Found Guilty Of Cocaine Drug Trafficking

Following a two-month State Police undercover operation this summer, Tom Hagan, 28, of Martin, has pleaded guilty to one charge of trafficking in cocaine, and was sentenced in circuit court to five years in prison.

According to Tom Moak, Assistant Commonwealth Attorney in Floyd County and prosecuting attorney in the case, undercover State Police officers arranged two separate meetings with Hagan to purchase cocaine. A recording was made of a telephone call between Hagan and undercover officers setting up one of the purchases, and was used as evidence in the trial. After hearing the recording, Hagan agreed to plead guilty to one count of trafficking, in which approximately one ounce of cocaine was sold to an officer. The second charge was dropped by arresting officers.

"It's surprising how effective these undercover operations are," said Moak. "Informants provide information which undercover officers use to set up drug buys. They have a lot of success prosecuting cases on this type of evidence."

When asked the scale of drug dealings in the county, Moak expressed concern about the problem.

"There is plenty of drug activity in the county. There is a lot of marijuana and cocaine available. LSD and pills can also be found. The work being done by the state undercover operations is really necessary to deal with the problems."

More Power For Floyd County, Region, Proposed By EKP Co-op

The East Kentucky Power Cooperative (EKPC) has announced that work will begin shortly on a $5.5 million project to increase the supply of electrical power to the region.

The primary substation will be located in Johnson County, and the new line will run through Johnson, Floyd and Magoffin counties. A new distribution substation will be located on Route 23 at Watergap.

"Our company supplies power to the Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation, which will be receiving power from this new project," said Bob Miller, spokesman for EKPC. "We also supply power to 17 other cooperatives in the region. We're required to keep in advance of growing needs for power. Right now, we're seeing the potential for increased need in the area for power from both new and old customers. This project will really benefit everyone in the area, because it increases the capacity of the region to grow economically."

When asked if new jobs in the county would be created through the project, Miller stated, "Most of the construction and long term work will be done by our own people, who are primarily residents from the area. There will be some short term work available for work on the substation in Floyd County, but that won't be determined until the work actually begins."

Land Sought By Housing Authority

The Floyd County Housing Authority is looking for a five-acre site to build 50 new housing units, according to Julia May.

May said the authority prefers an area of Left Beaver, since no housing projects exist there as yet. However, May said the authority will consider other areas as well.

According to May, a grant for $2.9 million dollars for the proposed project. The land should be at least five acres, relatively flat, above the flood plain, on a water system and near a creek to accommodate a sewer treatment plant. The site also needs to have good access and a forbearance agreement with the mineral rights owner.

The Floyd County Board, consisting of Burl Shepherd (chairperson), Eddie Patton (vice chairperson), Morris Hilton, Hamlet Lovely and Deborah Stumbo, will take a bus tour of possible sites on Wednesday, Dec. 6.

For more information, contact May at 886-2717.

Lights Out, New Sewage System Proposed By Wayland City Council

City lighting and plans for a new sewage system topped Wayland's City Council meeting Tuesday night.

According to Wayland Mayor Pat Murphy, 17 city lights were selected to be extinguished in the city in order to save money. The lights were selected in areas which received lighting from other sources or were not deemed essential.

Other discussion centered on the need for a sewage treatment facility for the city. Tentative plans were made to bring in a consultant who could assist in writing a grant proposal for such a facility.

Said Murphy, "It seems crazy to begin planning a treatment system when we can't even afford to keep all our lights on, but it's a fact that we need a sewage treatment system."

Council also noted that recent attempts to put out an underground mine fire near Route 7 in Wayland were not completely successful, and smoke is still escaping from the hill-sides.

In Tuesday's general election, Hobert Webb Sr. was elected as the new mayor of Wayland, and will take office in January. Murphy did not run for reelection.

All council members were present at Tuesday night's meeting. The next meeting will be held at 7 p.m. on Dec. 5.

Va., were arrested Tuesday at approximately 3:30 p.m. when the vehicle they were traveling in was stopped and searched by state police. Eight pounds of marijuana were found in the car, a 1986 Camaro Z28. The vehicle was impounded by police and May and Cline were placed

Fires Damage Autos, Homes

This past week in Floyd County the volunteer fire departments were busy with fires in Wayland, Maytown, Printer, Galveston and Tram.

The Mud Creek Firefighters saw the most action this past week as reported by Brian Tackett, firefighter. On Sunday, Nov. 5, Hayes Hall's home in Galveston was completely destroyed after catching fire from an unknown source. The blaze was reported by a neighbor; the house was unoccupied. No injuries were sustained.

Tackett also reported that another fire at Ricky Clark's residence. The mobile home sustained damages in the back bedroom and part of the hallway. Firefighters spent a total of one and a half hours on the scene. No one was injured.

The third fire battled by Mud Creek Fire Department personnel occurred at Herschel Akers' house in Galveston on Wednesday, Nov. 8. The family was at home when the blaze started and tried to battle the flames with a hose themselves until the fire department arrived. No one was hurt. Smoke and water damage was extensive and the home was deemed a total loss, although only half of the house was burned.

Clark said that at all three fires there was quite a bit of help from the local people and he expressed his gratitude for their civic mindedness.

Another fire broke out at the Mouth of Stanford Branch in a home owned by Joseph Hicks of Lackey, Monday, Nov. 6. Mack Stewart, firefighter, said the cause of the fire was of a suspicious nature and that the unoccupied residence was totally destroyed. The trailer was in flames for about half an hour before the fire department was notified by a passerby. Firefighters were only able to make sure the fire was contained until it burned itself out an hour later.

The home of Roger and Linda Sue Blevins was completely destroyed by fire early Monday morning, according to Martin Police Chief Herschel Lester. Lester said that the Martin and McDowell Departments were both called to stop the blaze on Left Beaver near Martin.

According to Blevins, the fire was started by a faulty water heater.

"I had fallen asleep on the coach, and luckily, I woke up and hollered for everyone to get out. We just grabbed what clothes we could and barely made it out. My boy got burned all down his back from shooting flames. We lost everything, and we're lucky to have gotten out with our lives," said Blevins.

Maytown firefighter Keith Hays reports an auto fire on Route 777 about four miles from Maytown Sunday. The car, owned by a Mr. Brown, was totally destroyed. Apparently the car was in operation when it caught fire. Eddie Clark of the Betsy Layne Fire Department reports a similar incident happening to Autry Lawson on Thursday, Nov. 9. Apparently some sort of backfire caused her 1985 S-10 Blazer to catch fire at Tram and the firefighters were not notified until the truck had burned for about half an hour. The vehicle was a total loss.

Home Destroyed By Fire

This is what remains of Roger Blevins Home in Printer after a fire destroyed it early Monday morning. The home was a three story house, valued at over $75,000, which burned down to the cinder blocks after a faulty hot water heater caused the flames.

Chest Pains Put Fire Chief In Hospital

Prestonsburg Fire Chief Tom Blackburn was admitted Saturday and released Wednesday from Highlands Regional Medical Center after experiencing chest pain.

Blackburn was investigating a bomb threat at the county jail Saturday morning when the pain began.

During jail visiting hours, Deputy Jailer Jody Mullin was notified by Jeff Jones, who answered the jail phone, that an unknown male caller claimed a bomb had been placed in the jail and would soon go off. The Prestonsburg fire and police departments and the Sheriff's Department responded, searching the jail and the courthouse. There are currently no leads on who placed the bomb threat.

During the search, Blackburn began feeling ill.

"I started feeling pains in my chest during the search, and I was sweating badly and had a headache come on suddenly. I went right down to the hospital."

Blackburn checked into Highlands Regional and was immediately placed into intensive care. Tests were run Saturday and Sunday, including a stress test to examine the condition of Blackburn's heart. According to Blackburn, it was discovered that his blood sugar levels were out of balance. This problem was aggravated by medication he was required to take for a back problem and by the stress of the situation. Doctors blamed these factors for Blackburn's condition on Saturday. Once this was discovered, Blackburn was transferred to regular care and kept under observation. He was released Wednesday.

Said Blackburn, upon release, "I was real pleased at the results of my stress test. The doctor says my heart is in good shape. But I'll tell you, I was worried there for awhile."

Goble Receives $53,648 For '84 Auto Accident

Paula Goble of Prestonsburg was awarded $53,648 in total damages by a Floyd County jury Tuesday following a civil trial connected with a March 30, 1984 auto accident.

Goble, 32, sustained head and other injuries while a passenger in a vehicle driven by Sandra Collins. The car was struck in the rear by James Runyon of Pikeville. Runyon died of natural causes in 1987.

According to attorney David Barber, Goble, who was 27 at the time of the accident, was not totally disabled, but did sustain permanent injury to her mid- and lower back area.

The accident took place on US 23 just north of Prestonsburg. Both vehicles were traveling north. Collins had stopped and was attempting to make a left hand turn into Jiffy Mart when Runyon's car struck her vehicle. Attorneys for Runyon contested Goble's claim on the grounds that she was not injured and was partially at fault for not wearing a seat belt.

Goble received $25,000 for pain and suffering, $25,000 for impairment of her ability to earn money, $1,200 for lost wages, and $2,458 for medical expenses.

Fault was unanimously placed by the jury, while 10 of the 12 agreed with the damages awarded.

"I felt like the jurors were very intelligent and perceptive," said Barber after the conclusion of the case. "You fare a lot better if you present an honest, straight-forward claim to them. We didn't claim that she was totally disabled; we claimed that there were a lot of things she could do before that she can't do now. The jurors, in my opinion, felt that was true. You just fare a whole lot better if you don't present exaggerated or outrageous claims. Jurors can sense that."

PostScript

By Pam Shingler

Scene at Watson's service desk the other day:

Clerk: "May I help you?"

Customer: "I want to cancel my layaway."

Clerk: "Okay, I'll give you a due bill for what you've paid."

Customer: "I don't want a due bill. I talked to someone who said I could get the cash."

Clerk: "I'll have to talk to the manager. This is kind of unorthodox."

Customer, to me after the clerk leaves: "She likes to use big words, don't she?"

The customer waits for me to respond, while I struggle to think of a response that is not unkind. Finally, she huffs, "Unorthodox."

Giving the woman a silent tongue lashing, I simply mutter a few words in defense of a literate clerk.

What I want to say, but don't, is: what is so unusual about the word "unorthodox"? It's a fine word. In this case, it is an appropriate word. It's specific, strong and not terribly difficult to grasp.

What I want to ask this woman who speaks for thousands is: What's wrong with knowing and occasionally using a word of more than two syllables — especially if its meaning is clear? What does it say about a people who negatively judge someone with a working vocabulary of more than 200 words, plus nods and grunts?

This customer was a nicely turned out woman with stylishly coiffed hair. Her clothes, doubtless, came from Watson's or a similar shop. She probably lives in a spacious house that would bring a handsome price on the market. Her driveway, I suspect, is crowded with expensive cars, and I wouldn't be surprised if she has a child or two at UK or Morehead.

The point is she didn't appear to be an underschooled, underprivileged hausfrau whom we might expect to have limited exposure to dictionaries and other reference books.

(Note I use the word underschooled, not undereducated, because even a college degree does not guarantee an education. But that's another column.)

Of course, we cease to communicate when we speak or write only in multisyllables, when we strive to create a language gap between ourselves and those with whom we try to communicate. That's never acceptable.

But we have a rich, varied and lovely language. So why must we make fun of those who don't wish to limit themselves to a fourth grade vocabulary? To belittle the use of a word as nonthreatening as "unorthodox" is to belittle our own brain which has vast and often unused capacity. To limit ourselves to nods, grunts and two syllable words is to admit to our own laziness.

Or perhaps it reflects a regional lack of self-esteem and a fear of unchaining our own abilities to reason, think and communicate. Perhaps, tragically, this damns us to a mediocre orthodoxy that stifles personal and intellectual growth and all the symbols thereof.

Assignment for next week: Use the word "unorthodox" in a conversation with a family member, friend or co-worker. Unfortunately, in doing so, you'll probably be the word.

Letters To The Editor

Class Action Suit Against School Board?

Dear Editor,

My wife and I, along with our two children, were in attendance at the hearing for facilities. I am pleased (the Floyd County Board of Education) saw the wisdom of constructing the Allen Elementary School as originally planned. I hope that all the children in Floyd County will be in clean, well-equipped modern classrooms as soon as possible.

I did not grow up in this area and, in fact, moved here due to a federal job promotion a couple of years ago.

I had the opportunity to go to a good school system and was able to grow and learn enough to go to college, get good grades and find a good job when I got out. That should be available to the children in Floyd County. They need and deserve good schools, good teachers who are paid equitably for the job they do, and concerned board members who truly care about education, not good old boy politics, graft and nepotism. I think and hope that Floyd County is moving forward because I do have a child in school and I want him to have the best. Good education is not for the privileged few, but a right to all children.

I had taken the time to speak with an attorney friend of mine with regard to filing a class action lawsuit on behalf of the students of Floyd County charging the board and also the Kentucky State Education Department with failing to provide our children with safe and adequate learning centers and also with failing to provide our children with an education that would allow them to compete with others for good jobs. It's been done before and can be done here if things don't continue to shape up and move forward. The time for talk and doing things halfway is over. Our children deserve the best and as long as I am in this area and draw breath, I will fight to see that they get it.

Sincerely,
(Name withheld by request; writer's wife has a job application pending with the school board)

Supports Osborne

Dear Editor,

I am writing in regards to Margie Osborne, supervisor of the Big Sandy Juvenile Detention Center. In my opinion, every mother and grandmother that cares for their daughters and granddaughters would praise Margie Osborne for refusing to put the girl inmate in jail with a group of boys. You might as well throw her in to a gang of wolves!

Thank you, Margie Osborne, for having the foresight and good common sense to do what you did. Shame on you, Judge Kent Carter and Judge Charles Lowe. Maybe you know, it might just be your daughter or granddaughter that gets into some kind of trouble. Would you want her put in jail or a detention center with a group of men?

Think about it!
A caring and loving mother and grandmother,
Velma (Mrs. Walter) Arrowood,

Reader Objects To R-Rated Films At Local Theater

Dear Editor,

I was extremely distressed to discover that, for the fourth week in the last five, both movies shown at the Strand Theatre are R-rated. As we parents know, one of the main weekend activities for Prestonsburg children and teenagers is attending that theatre. Perhaps its management has forgotten that an R rating means "restricted; persons under 17 must be accompanied by a parent or guardian."

It is my opinion that the theatre owners act irresponsibly in offering only R-rated entertainment for those young, impressionable minds; their sense of loyalty to this community should guide them in making sure that this situation does not continue to occur!

Very truly yours,
Linda Francis,

CONSERVATION RESERVE PROGRAM BACK ON SOLID FOUNDATION

Each year farmers watch as millions of tons of topsoil from their fields are either blown or washed away by the wind and rain. This constant erosion has farmers in a never-ending battle with the environment to preserve their topsoil. To prevent the occurrence of any modern-day "dustbowl," the federal government instituted the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP).

The CRP is one of the keystones in the government's plan to curb the erosion of our better farm land. It encourages farmers and landholders to set aside a portion of their land which is susceptible to erosion for at least 10 years in return for payments from the government. This gives the land a chance to recover after successive years of planting crops. This technique results in a dramatic decrease in the amount of soil that is lost to erosion and improvements in longer term productivity.

The CRP is an integral part of Kentucky agriculture. Through the spring of this year, over 7,000 contracts were in effect that covered over 400,000 acres. This makes the annual contribution to Kentucky participants at close to $23 million. Earlier this year CRP landowners in Kentucky and throughout the nation faced a situation in which their benefits could have been reduced or delayed if the Gramm-Rudman sequester had taken effect. In a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter, I stressed the dire consequences that would accompany any delay or reduction in federal payments to farmers. I told Secretary Yeutter that CRP contracts are binding and that the government's failure to live up to its end of the bargain would not only be breaching the contract, but also the trust of the people involved. There are farmers in Kentucky who have restructured loan payments around the first of October just because of the payments from the CRP program.

As it stands today, the agriculture secretary has told me that he will make sure that all CRP participants receive their payments on time and in full. This is good news. The CRP has close to 30 million acres enrolled and federal agriculture experts want to boost this total to over 40 million. By making sure that contract payments are on time, farmers and landowners will feel that they can participate in this program without having to worry about their financial security, and we can preserve our topsoil for many, many years to come.

Very truly yours,
Linda Francis,
Prestonsburg

Ten Years Ago

(November 21, 1979)

When the current work for the Floyd County schools is complete the next scheduled job will be the construction of a high school for Betsy Layne and then the construction of a building to house the upper three grades of the Prestonsburg Elementary School. . . . A once-silent constituency appears to be finding its voice as parents of learning-disabled children, backed by a new federal statute, describe the obstacles they say need to be overcome if the law is to be made to work. . . . After eight months of hearings, Highlands Regional Medical Center finally won approval last week for its proposed expansion. . . . Curt Hall was jailed here last Thursday by State Trooper Don Weedman on two arson counts after as many dwellings had burned at Weeksbury. . . . A 15-month effort is under way to identify primary needs in the Big Sandy Area Development District and come up with strategies to deal with those needs. . . . There died: Ollie Jane Sammons, 62, of Martin, Wednesday at Central Baptist Hospital; Dillard Slone, 61, of Ligon, from injuries sustained in a traffic accident; Chesley Gordon Wright, 53, a Paintsville jeweler and twin brother of Clifford Wright of Prestonsburg, last Tuesday at St. Joseph's Hospital in Lexington; Vina Mayo Harris Reese, 60, of Lexington, formerly of this county, last Wednesday at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Jessie Yates, 71, formerly of this county, Tuesday, Nov. 13 at her home in Mt. Twenty Years Ago

(November 20, 1969)

The VISTA program in Floyd County faces a quick death if action taken Monday by the board of directors of the Big Sandy Community Action Program stands unchanged. . . . Presentation of a check for $129,000 from EDA to the Mud Creek Water District was made here Tuesday. . . . James Raymond Crisp, former Prestonsburg radio announcer, a bystander during an altercation at an Allen restaurant, was seriously wounded early Sunday by a .38-calibre revolver bullet which reportedly was accidentally fired. . . . The $150,000 earlier approved by the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors for beginning of construction on the $3.2 million Martin stream improvement project was voted last week by the Senate Appropriations Committee, and because both branches of the Congress have agreed on the appropriation it cannot be changed in later conference between the two houses. . . . There died: Margaret Johnson, 63, at her home at Garrett; Benny F. Collins, 71, of Martin, last Tuesday at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital; Kenner Nelson, 51, formerly of Prestonsburg, last Tuesday at Covington; Lizzie Branham Latham Felts, 73, Saturday at her home at Melvin; Frank (Dugan) Burchett, 74, of Auxier, Sunday in a Paintsville Hospital; Mae Oma Dempsey Williams, 39, of Prestonsburg, Monday at Prestonsburg General Hospital.

A general retail sales tax to support education and provide job opportunities was endorsed Tuesday by the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission at its meeting in Prestonsburg. . . . Ground work for a regional agency to promote tourist travel development was done at a meeting of area leaders held here Monday. . . . Bert T. Combs will be the first World War II veteran to take the oath of office as Kentucky's governor. . . . There died: William Keathley, 71, of Galveston, Saturday at Pikeville; William Ray Campbell, 59, Tuesday at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Martin; Julia Langley Spurlock, 90, Thursday at her home at West Prestonsburg; Ellen Combs, 77, of Handshoe, Friday at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin; Andy Kiser, 62, of Beaver, Sunday at Pikeville; Phyllis Brown Handshoe, 29, of Garrett, last Thursday at McDowell Miners Memorial Hospital.

Forty Years Ago

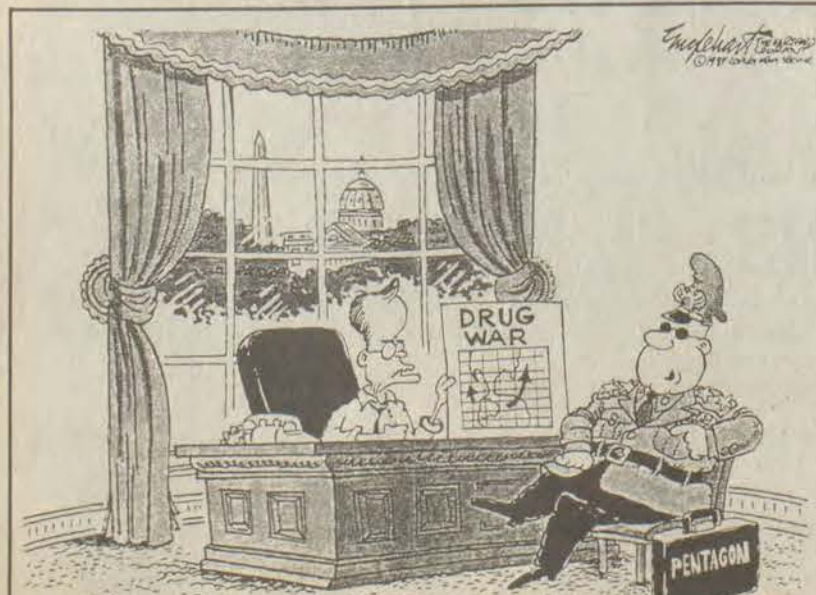

(November 24, 1949)

Two fires within the week brought to six the total of Floyd County residences razed within the last two weeks. . . . Sam Frasure, his wife and three sons survive after a brush with death when their auto was struck early Tuesday evening by a railway engine at the Dinwood crossing. . . . Deputy-Sheriff Harold Conn left Sunday to return from Detroit two Prestonsburg youths who are accused of looting the safe in the office of Chalmers H. Frazier, superintendent of city schools, of $200 in grade school and cafeteria funds on the night of Nov. 4. . . . Out of every dollar spent by Floyd County residents in their retail stores, 34 cents goes to buy food for the family table, according to a recent survey. . . . Orbie Mitchell, of the State Liquor Control Board, started a "spirited" controversy in this section by his statement recently that bootlegging and moonshining have increased sharply in Eastern Kentucky since the coal strike began. . . . There died: John Wesley Music, 67, well-known Abbott Creek farmer and minister, Friday at his home at Bonanza; Lou Webb Hinton, 52, of Dwale, Tuesday at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Martin; Pocahontas Layne Dingus, 89, wife of the Rev. William Dingus, dean of Prestonsburg's attorneys and former State Senator and county official, Friday at Prestonsburg General Hospital; Albert James Green, 69, Friday at his home at Estill; Alta Scott Hancock, 27, of Garrett, Saturday; Jessie Jo Hicks, 23, Tuesday on Stone Coal, Garrett.

Fifty Years Ago

(November 16, 1939)

Litigation in the suit to determine who holds the rights of property to the Church of Christ building at Martin was halted temporarily Friday afternoon, as Circuit Judge John W. Caudill ordered that the building be opened for services by one faction Friday night and by the other Sunday and then pad-locked indefinitely. . . . As the result of injuries sustained when his pick-up was struck by a Left Beaver passenger train on a crossing at Clear Creek Tuesday afternoon, Cuddie Holbrook, 21, of Bevinsville was killed almost instantly and his wife, Cora, is in the Martin General Hospital. . . . After inspecting the new Maytown consolidated school building, which replaces the one destroyed by fire last March, the Floyd County Board of Education at its last meeting accepted the structure, and classes are now being held in it. . . . "Rio," with Victor McLaglen, Basil Rothbone and Leo Carillo is playing at the Abigail Theatre this week. Another flick that may have escaped the memories of some, set for Thursday night, is "Lives of a Bengal Lancer."

People, Public Opinion & Prestonsburg

What Issues Floyd Countians Feel Are Important . . .

By T. Mark Miller,
PCC Sociologist

This week is the last article in this series about local public opinion and perceptions. So far, we have covered a wide variety of subjects — church attendance, the state takeover of the public schools, attitudes about local law officials, and opinions about medicine. Today, we conclude by looking at a number of issues that Floyd Countians consider important. When we conducted the survey, we included a list of public issues that seem to face all communities in America at one time or another. We asked the respondents to tell us how important each of these issues were to them personally (very important, important, somewhat important, or not important). This should tell us what issues are on the minds of Floyd Countians and which issues are not perceived as a local problem. Without a doubt, the issue that most people in Floyd County are concerned with is education. Ninety percent said that educational issues were very important to them. This response is understandable in light of the state takeover and the increasing need for a quality education in obtaining a good job. A close second to educational issues was the issue of dealing with alcohol and drug problems. Drunk driving, alcohol and drug use are very important to Floyd Countians — 84 percent rank it very important. The third issue that Floyd Countians felt was most important was having a quality water supply. Seventy-two percent of those surveyed ranked clean and healthy water as very important to them and their families. Seventy-two percent believed this was a very important issue. This issue is especially important considering the water problems that have occurred in the Wheelwright area. The community issue of bringing new business into this area ranks fourth among concerns. A little over 70 percent feel that it is very important to bring in new businesses. With unemployment above 10 percent for the county, there is little doubt as to why people want new businesses and new jobs. The fifth-ranked concern of Floyd Countians is serving the needs of the poor. The sixth-ranked issue is crime. After crime, Floyd Countians rank having quality and safe streets and highways as their seventh most important issue. About 60 percent felt that this issue was very important. Ranked eighth and ninth are having quality parks and libraries. For both of these, only 44 percent rank them as being very important. The issues that Floyd Countians seem least concerned with are cost of utilities, cost and collection of local taxes, and zoning and planning of community land use. These issues ranked 10th, 11th and 12th respectively. When people ranked issues in this survey, they did not suggest that the issues near the bottom were totally unimportant. In fact, all issues were considered at least important by a majority of the respondents, but clearly some issues are more on the minds of Floyd Countians than others. This being the very last issue of "People, Public Opinion, and Prestonsburg," I would like to thank the Floyd County Times for publishing these articles and helping to educate Floyd Countians about themselves. I would also like to thank those anonymous members of our community who participated in the survey and allowed us to report their opinions. Last, I must thank the PCC students who helped research this project. They were: Richie Adkins, Norma Butler, Martha Dotson, Karen Endicott, Karen Goble, Sherry Howard, Kelly Martin, Monica Meadows, Myron Moore, Michelle Park, Melanie Patrick, Betty Reed, Darren Rice, Chris Welch, Jimmy Wheeler, and Rosemary Williams.

Accidents Reported; None Involved Injured

Six different auto accidents took place in Prestonsburg this week, according to police reports. Only one vehicle involved in any accident was taken out of service. No injuries reported. On Wednesday, Nov. 1 Eula Hall, 29, of Prestonsburg, was backing her vehicle out of a parking spot at the Department of Employment Services when she struck a vehicle driven by Forrest Bentley, 22, of Prestonsburg, which was coming down Music Street, according to Officer R. Frasure. On Friday, Nov. 3, Lorie Crider, 20, and Sandra Carr, 23, both of Prestonsburg, were north bound on Route 1428 in Lancer. Carr stopped her vehicle for a truck in the roadway and Crider was unable to stop in time and struck Carr in the rear, according to Sgt. Gerald Clark. Clark also was the investigating officer in two other accidents. On Tuesday, Nov. 7, at 12:40 p.m., Annie Manns, 28, of Bland, Va., was apparently entering Route 1428 from Porter Lane when struck by Bobby Akers, 20, of Dana. The two said Manns pulled into Akers' path, and that Akers' car slid into Manns'. The second accident occurred the next day. James Anderson, 53, of Prestonsburg, was traveling north on North Lake Drive. He was attempting to make a left turn onto Patton Street after a driver sitting in the center southbound lane, who was stopped, flagged him through. He proceeded and was struck by Donald Skeens, 20, of Emma, who was traveling southbound in the outside lane. Skeens' car was towed away. Sgt. Tim Mullins reports an accident involving Ethel Hurd, 31, of Prestonsburg and a juvenile from Garrett. The Garrett male was attempting to make a left hand turn into the Rebel Lanes when he was struck in the rear by Hurd's vehicle. This accident occurred at 1:30 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 5. The final accident was reported by Officer Mike Conn and took place at 1 p.m. on Monday. Reportedly Calvin Clay, 57, of Prestonsburg was backing from a parked position and backed into a vehicle owned Delcie Gayheart of Eastern which was parked on the other side of the lot at the Riverview Manor Nursing Home.

The Prestonsburg Blackcats: The 1989 Season In Review

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It has been a somewhat disappointing season as far as wins versus losses go for this year's edition of Prestonsburg Blackcat football.

The coaching staff and players were optimistic about having a winning season. Even though they finished 5-6, one has to look at the competition they were up against.

The season started all right with an opening game victory, 31-6, over county rival Betsy Layne. Prestonsburg had some new faces that needed testing in the leadership positions. A freshmen, Aaron Tucker, would do the signal calling in the absence of injured Allen James, the expected quarterback for Coach Bill Letton's squad. Tucker established quickly that he could throw the football, tossing two TD passes against the Bobcats.

One doesn't just go and schedule a team like Bates Creek in only the second game of the season for a young team — but the Blackcats did. Prestonsburg almost pulled off the upset as they fell to the state power team, 34-27, in an offensive show-down. A couple of breaks and the outcome could have been different.

Defending AA District 2 champion Whitesburg, because of unavoidable circumstances, was forced to open its season at home against the Blackcats. Whitesburg, another powerhouse (season record of 6-4 and rightfully it was 7-4, as the forfeit with Elkhorn City was voided) awaited the Blackcats in game three. Result: Prestonsburg 7, Whitesburg 6, in a game that probably went a long way toward Prestonsburg capturing the District 2 title. The loss prompted Yellowjacket coach Tom Searcy to make a change in offense and it proved to be a good move as his team later won big.

The Prestonsburg offense seemed to get bogged down — although the defense remained tough — in game four against Johnson Central. Letton's chargers came away with a 7-0 victory over the Golden Eagles and, with it, a shining 3-1 record.

The Blackcats became bogged down in the mud, literally speaking, as the Paintsville Tigers, champions of Class A, District 2, provided the opposition. The rain fell all through the game and the field was slippery and muddy. The 'Cats took a 6-0 lead into the locker room against coach Walter Brugh's squad only to come back out in the second half and lose to the playoff-bound Tigers, 13-6.

Game five saw the Blackcats take to the road to Letton's old alma mater, Danville. Danville, a perennial state power and champion of Region 3, District 1 with a 5-0 conference record and 9-1 overall and also ranked for most of the season, third in the state, ran past the Blackcats, 67-13. No doubt the Blackcats felt embarrassed over the defeat and somewhat humiliated. Coach Letton was quick to put the game in the right perspective, a quality often a rarity today. "You have to consider who we played against," he stated.

Having completed half of the season, long time rival Belfry and former Blackcat coach of the Blackcats Phillip Haywood came to Prestonsburg, having knocked off state champion and previously undefeated Pikeville. The Blackcats fell below the .500 mark for the first time at 3-4 after the 34-15 loss to the Pirates, giving Prestonsburg its third consecutive defeat.

On Sept. 29, Betsy Layne defeated district foe Leslie County, 24-14, the next opponent for Prestonsburg in game eight. Even though Prestonsburg had dropped its last three games they were still on top in the district standings with a 2-0 record. The 'Cats once again held a good lead of 21-13 at the half against Leslie County. The defense and offense were missing in the second half as the Blackcats fell to Leslie, 28-21, and lost what seemed like all hope for a district championship game.

The Blackcats had an open date on Oct. 13 to regroup and plot the remainder of the season. But in game nine, it was on to Pikeville for a match against the mighty Panthers. The result was a 55-12 setback at the hands of the Panthers for consecutive loss number five.

In spite of all the setbacks Prestonsburg was surprisingly still in the district title picture. M.C. Napier made a trip to the Blackcat lair for a must-win contest in game 10. Morgan County, tied with the Blackcats, had the week off. The Blackcats looked bewildered against the Navahos in the first half, clinging to a 7-6 halftime lead. Penalties of 50 yards in the second half hampered the Prestonsburg drives. A key interception deep in Blackcat territory and a recovered fumble, both resulting in Blackcat touchdowns, keyed the Blackcats 21-6 victory in the "must win" game.

It had come down to the final regular season game as both Morgan County and Prestonsburg had clawed and fought through 10 previous games. The setting was at Morgan County. Both teams were 3-1 in district play. Both teams were 4-6 overall. Both teams fell to Leslie County for as only district loss. Both teams were evenly matched.

This was the championship game — the one to decide who went on and who stayed home. The Blackcats won in outstanding fashion, 21-7, as they put together a complete game offensively and defensively and displayed some "killer" instinct that was missing in other games.

The Blackcats have definitely shown a lot of character this season, as their coach stated in a previous interview. They could have quit, but didn't. Injuries to running back Ryan Porter and others caused a change in the backfield. A freshman, John Goble, and sophomore halfback Mike Hopson have filled the void nicely.

It doesn't matter how you start, but how you finish up. Letton's Blackcats are playoff-bound against a good Somerset team tonight at the Prestonsburg field in an 8 p.m. start.

Somerset Invades P'burg As Football Playoffs Begin

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

The season continues for the Prestonsburg Blackcats as the Briar Jumpers of Somerset invade Prestonsburg tonight for the first game of the state playoffs to crown a state football champion in Class 2A play.

Coach Johnny Kane's Somerset team comes into town with a 7-3 record and is 3-1 in Region 4, District 1 play. Somerset was runner-up to Corbin during the regular season.

Unlike Prestonsburg, the only team that Somerset played on its schedule that is playoff bound is Corbin. The Blackcats have five of their regular season opponents going to the playoffs.

In order to make it to post-season play, Somerset had to defeat Wayne County 37-13 to capture the runner-up position. The Briar Jumpers suffered an opening game loss to Laurel County, 12-7, in August. Somerset also lost a heartbreaker to eventual champion Corbin, 26-24, who will be going against Whitesburg, runner-up to the Blackcats, tonight as well.

Somerset has an accomplished veteran at the quarterback spot in Johnny Kane (6', 180), son of the coach, who has been calling the signals for the Briar Jumpers for the past three seasons. According to John Nelson, publisher of Pulaski Week in Somerset, the Briar Jumpers like to mix it up on offense and "they are a flexible team, doing what they need to do to win."

In the backfield besides Kane will be senior halfback Eric Jones (5' 8", 185). Jones was instrumental in the Briar Jumpers' victory over Wayne County. Jones scored three touchdowns and rushed for 160 yards. At the fullback spot is sophomore Joe Perkins (5' 11", 165), who rushed for 104 yards in scoring two TDs.

Somerset's defense will be led by sophomore Jody Meece (5' 8", 145). Meece had 13 tackles and one interception against Wayne County.

The playoffs will not be something new for the Briar Jumpers as they have consistently been in the playoff picture and been active in post season play. Somerset returned 11 starters from last year's squad and is a senior-laden team. The Briar Jumpers, whose mascot is a rabbit, field around 40 players from an independent school of 450 students.

Kick off time will be 8 p.m. at the Prestonsburg field. The weather forecast from Jackson is for a nice evening with temperatures around game time of 55 degrees, falling into the mid-40's by midnight. Sounds better than last Friday's 26 degree temperature. Parking spots may be hard to find, so come early and enjoy all the fun and excitement of high school football.

Entangled

Keith Hamilton (34) of Betsy Layne tangles with Marty Johnson (25) of Melvin at Betsy Layne Monday evening. Hamilton led the Bobcats to a 59-43 victory over the Cougars.

Daniels To Coach WHS Women's Basketball Team

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

Allen Central football coach Donnie Daniels was hired as interim girls' basketball coach for Wheelwright High School by the Floyd County Board of Education in Wednesday evening's board meeting.

Daniels will replace Judy Eversole, who has taken a leave of absence for health reasons.

Daniels, who played basketball at Wheelwright, will inherit last season's 58th District champions. The Lady Trojans will have three starters from last year's team, including outstanding center Jedon Hood. Also returning will be April Bradford, who plays the forward spot but can hit from 10-12 feet. Sophomore Becky Allen will also be back — and she also is a scoring threat from the outside.

Eversole will take a teaching position at Allen Central and Daniels will come to Wheelwright as physical education and health teacher besides coaching basketball. The move will be effective Monday, Nov. 13.

"It was a mutual agreement between Coach Eversole and Coach Daniels," the Wheelwright principal Lonnie Slone stated. "Judy did not have to go, but both parties agreed to the move."

"Although we hate to see Coach Eversole leave, we welcome Coach Daniels to our school and he will be a very welcome addition to our staff. He is a credit to any educational system and we are glad to have him. We have some good players coming back from last year's squad and he should have a good team."

Daniels will be filling in for the basketball team at Wheelwright this season and will return to coach the Rebel football team next season.

Hancock, Floyd Lead Martin Over Wayland

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

Chrystal Floyd and Maggie Hancock each scored 14 points as the Martin Lady Purple Flash rolled past the Lady Wasps of Wayland, 70-18.

The victory enabled Martin to go 10-5 on the season, as the defending county champions played the entire bench. Everyone who played for the Purple Flash scored.

Martin held a 37-16 lead at the half. Martin's defense held the Lady Wasps scoreless in the third period, and except for a basket with eight seconds to go, the Lady Wasps would have been shutout in the second half. Slone led the Lady Wasps with six points. A Sparkman and Amy Crisp added four points. Kathy Conn had seven for Martin, as did Roni McKinney.

Wayland 11 502 (18): Jamie Webb, 0; A. Sparkman, 4; Jamie Fultz, 2; Amy Crisp, 4; Slone, 6.

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

Coach Doug Derossett's Martin Lady Purple Flash used a 24-2 spurt in the third quarter to overcome the Maytown Lady Wildcats, 56-32, at the Martin gym Monday evening.

Martin trailed at the half, 23-19, and came out in the second half to blitz the Lady Wildcats.

Crystal Floyd led the Martin attack with 15 points. Traci Dingus added eight points. Marsha Brown was the game's top scorer with 23 points.

The score was 8-7 Martin at the end of the first period. Then Maytown outscored the Lady Flash, 16-11, in the second stanza. Maytown managed only nine points in the second half.

Maytown 7 16 27 (32): Lisa Stumbo, 5; Marsha Brown, 23; Michelle Castle, 2; Cita Miller, 1; Shella Brown, 1.

at Martin 8 11 24 13 (56): Traci Dingus, 8; Maggie Hancock, 1; Roni McKinney, 8; Jenny Robinson, 4; Crystal Floyd, 15; Angel Hancock, 4; Kathy Conn, 4; Eula Robinson, 4; Jenny Mullins, 2; Rhonda Prater, 2; Amanda Waddles, 1; Kathy Hall, 1.

New Dance

Becky Kidd (20) of the Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats seems to be demonstrating a new dance as she grabs a rebound in front of Amy Cox (30) of Melvin. The Lady 'Cats won over the visiting Lady Cougars, 40-11.

Osborne Gives Blackcats First Loss Of Year, 55-35

by Ed Taylor,
Sports Editor

The only two undefeated grade school basketball teams met on the floor of Osborne Grade School to settle the question, "Who's number one?"

When the dust had cleared, the Osborne Eagles had defeated Prestonsburg 55-35 to go 5-0 on the season. The loss dropped the Blackcats to 8-1.

Chad Johnson led the Eagles in scoring with 23 points while teammate John Hall added 17.

Osborne jumped out in front by the end of the first quarter, 13-6. Both teams played even basketball in the second period as Osborne held an eight point advantage at the half, 22-14.

"We played against a team a little bigger than we were used to playing," Eagle mentor Meredith Slone stated. "We played some good basketball against a good basketball team. We let people know tonight that we are for real."

A 23-13 run in the fourth period gave the Eagle's their 20 point margin. Dammon Stepp led the Prestonsburg scorers with 12 points as the only Blackcat player in double figure. Prestonsburg's outstanding center, Chad Caldwell, was limited to only nine points.

Prestonsburg 6 8 13 (35): Chad Caldwell, 9; Charlie Shell, 2; Mike Goble, 6; David Gearheart, 3; Dammon Stepp, 12; Martin Newberry, 2; Greg Jones, at Osborne 13 9 10 23 (55): John Hall, 17; Chad Johnson, 23; Charles Slone, 7; John Preston, 4; Mike Crager, 2; Ruben Hall, 2.

Leslie's Charity Toss Sinks Lady Eagles, 20-19

by Ed Taylor, Sports Editor
 Rebecca Leslie scored only one point in the game between the Osborne Lady Eagles and the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats, but it was big one that gave the visiting Lady Blackcats a 20-19 victory.

Jenny Morrison led Prestonsburg in scoring with 14 points as Gay Hatfield's squad recorded its sixth win of the season against only three setbacks.

After trailing 4-2 at the end of the first period, Prestonsburg out scored the Lady Eagles 10-2 in the second period to take a 12-6 half time lead. Prestonsburg built a seven point advantage, 19-12, at the third stop. However, Osborne came back in the fourth stanza to tie the game at 19-19 when Leslie was fouled with 36 seconds to go in the game. Leslie connected on her first try and missed the second one to give Prestonsburg a 20-19 lead. Turnovers plagued both teams in the final seconds.

"We had a chance to win," Osborne coach Meredith Slone said. "We had the last shot of the game, but it wouldn't go for us."

Candace Holbrook and Crystal Isaac each scored six points in leading the Lady Eagles. Tina Hall added five.

 Prestonsburg 21071 (20): Kenri Bradford, 5; Rebecca Leslie, 1; Jenny Morrison, 14. at Osborne 4 2 6 7 (19): Candace Holbrook, 6; Tina Hall, 5; Crystal Isaac, 6; Rena Hall, 2.

Wayland Slips Past Garrett

by Ed Taylor, Sports Editor

It took overtime for the Wayland Wasps of coach Ronnie Patton to subdue the determined Garrett Black Devils, 66-65.

Wayland's Jason Martin scored 28 points for the winning team, but game high honors went to Garrett's Jeremy Hall, who tossed in 36 points for his team. Hall had been out for several games after he broke his arm. Todd Hansford added 20 points for the Wasps in their win.

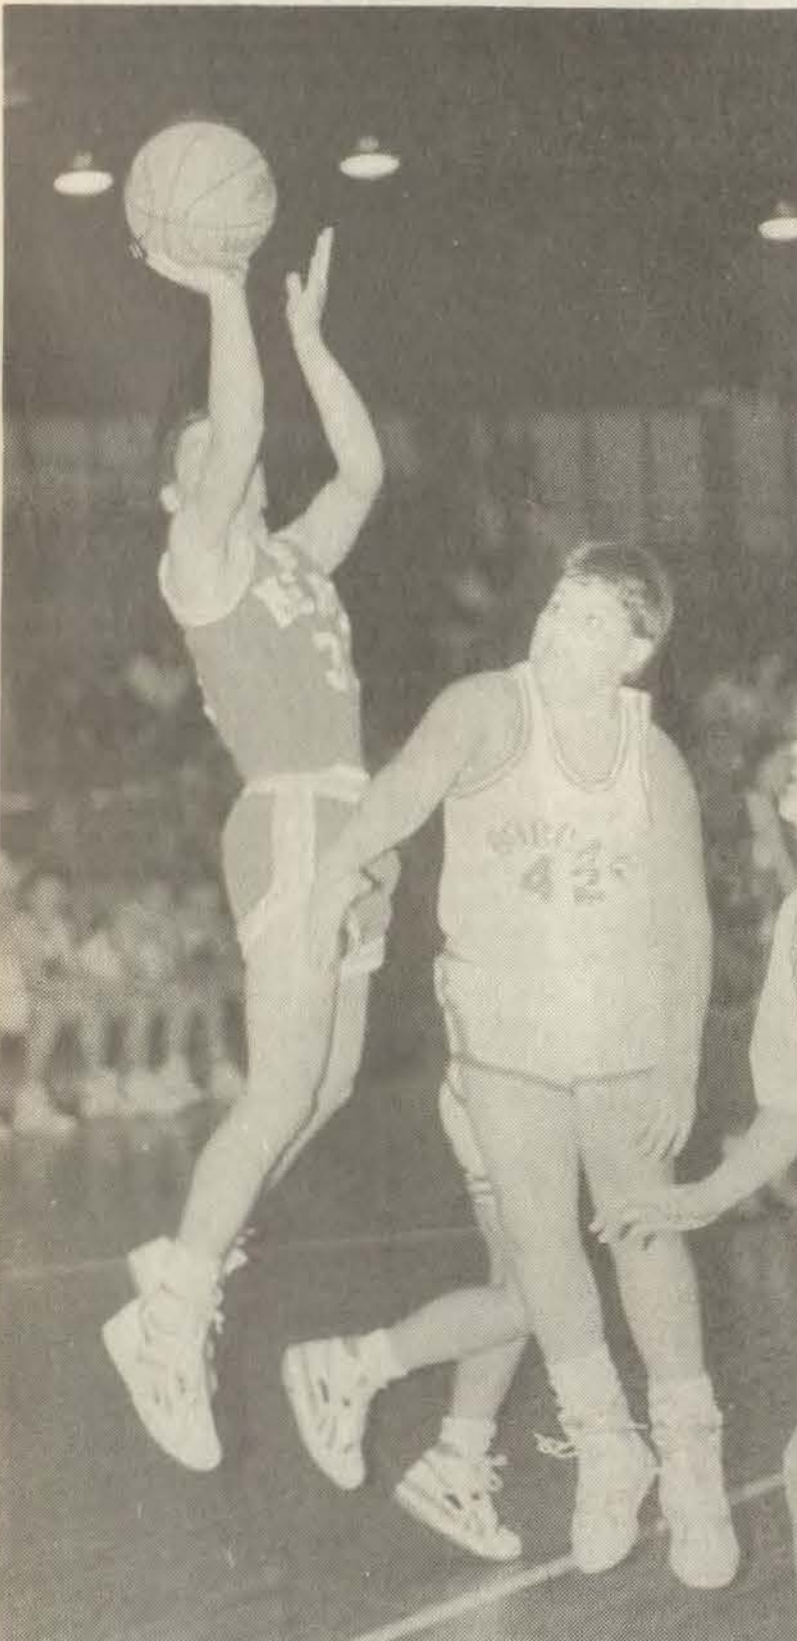

Wayland held a four-point advantage at the end of the first period of play, 13-9. Garrett came back in the second period to outscore the Wasps 17-12 and take a one point lead, 26-25.

At the end of the third period, Wayland had regained the lead at 47-43. In the fourth quarter, it was close all the way. With the score tied 57-57, Hall hit the front of a one and one to put the Black Devils up by one, 58-57. Martin was fouled on Wayland's next possession. He made his first shot to tie the game and missed the second one that could have won it in regulation play.

In overtime, Wayland outscored the Black Devils, 8-7 to win 66-65. Todd Hansford added 20 points for Wayland. Steve Turner scored 13 for Garrett.

 Garrett 9 17 17 15 7 (65): Jeremy Hall, 36; Darren Shepherd, 6; Burt Stephens, 4; Eric Cathers, 2; Josh Hansford, 0; Steve Turner, 13; Byron King, 2.

at Wayland 13 12 22 11 8 (66): Jason Martin, 28; Todd Hansford, 20; Patrick Craft, 5; Donnie Combs, 3; E. Hall, 2.

Ultrasound Imaging System Helps Expedite Exams, Diagnosis

Acuson, a new ultrasound imaging technology which provides a high quality image, or "window into the body," is now part of the diagnostic capability at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Ultrasound uses high frequency sound waves to produce images of the body's soft tissues and organs. The system enables doctors to more easily view and recognize different types of tissues and blood flow characteristics.

"The dramatic improvement in image quality, combined with blood flow information from our new ultrasound system, permits faster examinations and more accurate diagnosis," said Dr. David White, chief of radiology and diagnostic ultrasound. "(It) will enhance our diagnostic capabilities and provide area physicians, and their patients, with a greater amount of information than was previously possible."

Highlands' Acuson system also helps physicians locate obstructions or abnormalities in blood vessels. It also provides information and the direction of blood flow and red blood cells.

"Using this information, we can help physicians evaluate vascular disorders that can lead to strokes and diseases like phlebitis," said White.

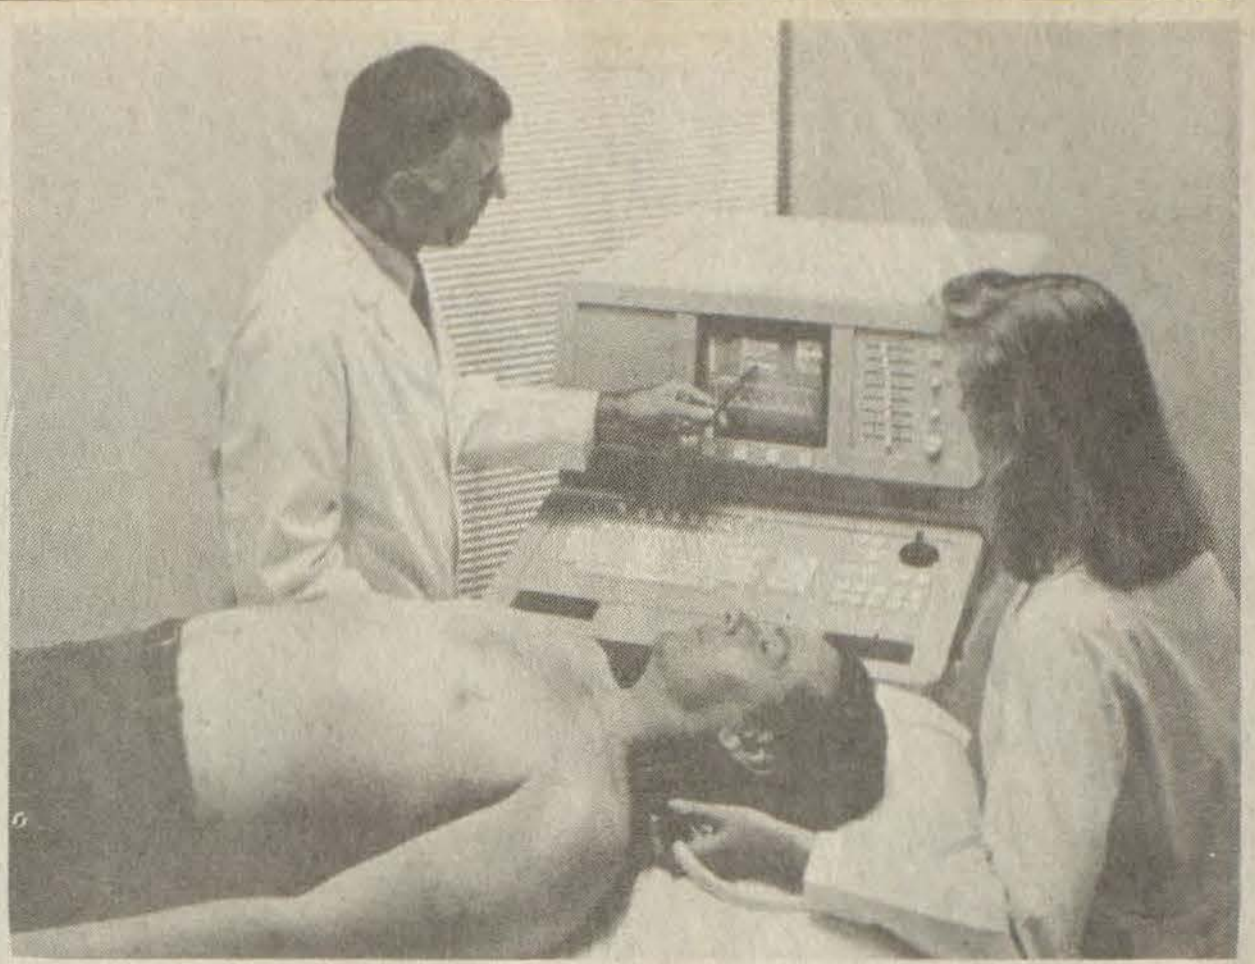

The system is actually an ultrasound computer that uses electronics and software to form images on a television screen. The clarity and detail of these images is between two and four times greater than conventional ultrasound systems.

Ultrasound was originally developed in the early 1970s to produce images of soft tissues and internal body organs, similar to the way sonar is used to map the sea bottom, according to Kathy Rubado, hospital spokeswoman.

"It is especially useful in obstetrics to image fetuses and fetal abnormalities, for diagnosis of heart disease and evaluation of abdominal lesions. This is an important medical advantage, especially for pregnant women whose developing fetus can be monitored in greater risk. Unlike X-rays, ultrasound does not use ionizing radiation and can actually image internal organs in motion," Rubado said.

The system was installed at Highlands this past August, at which time a program of training began. With training scheduled for completion this month, the full range of Acuson services will be available to area physicians.

Diagnostic Tool

Highlands Regional Medical Center's Acuson system provides an image of a patient's carotid artery on the screen while simultaneously obtaining vital blood flow information to help the physician diagnose and locate potential vascular obstruction and abnormalities.

School Board

sion not to cancel school or put the district on a two-hour delay. Compton said McDowell parents wanted the local board to adopt a policy to allow a delay or cancellation, put the policy in writing, and give principals authority to call off school in cases of imminent danger to children.

He likewise asked the board to place two-way radios in buses so that drivers and school principals could be in direct contact.

Hager, who did not apologize for his decision, said that in retrospect, "it was a serious mistake for the school district to have school, Hindsight is 20/20. The report in the morning gave no significant information on possible flooding."

Hager said the only way school can be canceled is through the state department of education, which has placed the local district under state intervention through Phase 3 of the academic bankruptcy law.

Hager added that the state's representative in the district, Bob Gover, had given him authority to call off school, but Hager balked at giving principals specific authority to dismiss classes.

"I'll back them totally," he said, noting that the district would not put it into formal policy because it could place principals at risk of lawsuit if children were hurt, and that principals did not have insurance coverage in such events.

Hager also acknowledged that the district's transportation director did not personally inspect Left Beaver roads prior to reporting to him on Oct. 17.

"We assure you we will have personnel in these areas," Hager told Compton and the audience. The superintendent said he "saw no reason" why the district could not purchase citizen's band radios for buses, but Compton asked that two-way radios be used instead, despite cost.

"I know it's an expensive thing," said Compton, "but I don't think we could ever put a price on our kids." He added that parents had agreed to help with the cost, if necessary.

Hager said the local board would answer questions asked by Compton for McDowell parents at the Dec. 13 school board meeting.

Compton and others met in the hallway at Allen Central High School, where Wednesday's board meeting was held, to discuss the board's response.

There, Compton told parents he had "hoped for a better response," and said the group may have to go to Frankfort to talk to state officials if the local board does not take action.

"My advice would be to be back here the second Wednesday in December," Compton said. "We've had plenty of promises — and that's all we got. But maybe something will happen by the next board meeting. We'll try to let them work it out.

"I was told we would have more answers than we did tonight," he added.

At least one parent expressed anger that Hager refused to apologize.

"It's a simple thing to say, 'I'm sorry,'" the parent noted.

"I hope you see what they're trying to do — aggravate us enough so that we throw our hands up and say, 'That's it,'" said another.

Compton suggested that the group allow its committee to meet next week, and perhaps schedule another community meeting.

In other business, the board approved a modified attendance policy formulated by a committee established at the last board meeting. At that meeting, attorney Steve Sanders of Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, Inc., addressed the board on behalf of a client who had been placed in study hall with no allowance for making up class work after the student had missed nine days of school because of illness.

He said the student had presented a doctor's excuse and papers signifying admittance to a hospital emergency room, but had still been denied the right to make up the missed school work.

The modified policy approved by the board Wednesday allows students who have missed nine days to appeal dismissal to a school-based committee composed of the principal or assistant principal, homeroom teacher and guidance counselor. The committee can grant an additional two days and, in extreme cases, may extend absences beyond 11 days.

If the committee does not grant additional days, the student can appeal to a central office committee which can, in turn, grant additional days. A final appeal can be made to the district's school board.

The new policy allows students to remain in class during the appeals process. After exhaustion of all appeals, the student can be removed from a maximum of two classes at any one time.

"We don't want any students removed from classes until they have had the opportunity to proceed through the full due process procedures," Hager said of the policy in an earlier interview.

John Rosenberg, director of Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, said the new policy is "far superior" than the previous one, adding, "hopefully it will resolve most of the problems."

However, he questioned why attorneys had to threaten to sue the local district and state Department of Education before the policy was changed.

He also questioned a portion of the new policy that carries penalties from one semester to the next if the appeals process under way.

"I would have hoped they would let the student start the semester with a clean slate. If they finish the semester successfully, why not let them go forward?"

He also said the policy should exempt children with excused absences, rather than covering both excused and unexcused absences.

"I would hope they would be looking to help the child, not get the child out," Rosenberg added.

Young Family Reunion Held At Abbott Mountain Recently

By Rita Conley,
Fourth Generation

On an August afternoon in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, Fannie Bowers, 22, married William Lyons, 21.

This came a few years after Harrison Young and Mary Burton had said their simple lifelong vows. Fannie and William were married 124 years ago this past summer, and they gave birth to Mary Frances, who grew up and married the son of Harrison and Mary, Joseph Young.

What this has to do with today is that 74 descendants of Mary Francis and Joseph H. Young gathered on Labor Day weekend at the Abbott Mountain home of Dewey and Lillian Griffith Conley for a full day of reuniting, a spread of food that covered more than 50 square feet, special singing of "They Moved Our Reunion to Heaven" and "Ship of Zion," a family meeting, horseshoes, swimming, volleyball and videotaping.

This family, with strong roots deep in Lawrence and Floyd Counties, has documented 61 family groups to be included in a book being prepared on the family.

The folks who gathered for the sixth annual reunion come from families that average about three children each. That is one of many big differences between the present and the past experiences of the family. Joseph and Mary Young had 15 children. She was a midwife during her entire adult life. She had her first child, Willie, in July 1890. He died either at birth or just after. Mary Frances' seventh and eighth children, born in 1900 and 1903 did not live to their first birthdays.

Joseph Young had 18 brothers and sisters. All but one grew up to marry. Records do not tell us whether he died before becoming an adult or if he wasn't the marrying kind. Back then it was nearly unheard of that someone didn't marry. What was even rarer was divorce. Mary Frances Young had 11 brothers and sisters. So, between their families they produced enough children to supply offspring for about 15 average families of today with each family getting two children each.

From looking at where the 74 reunion attendees came from another big difference is obvious: our grandparents and great-grandparents stayed close by one another. This family, for example, filled up Young Branch near Lowmansville in Lawrence County. They visited, went to church together, knew when someone was in need, of a husband, a wife, a barn, etc. This recent reunion drew family members from 23 different cities and towns in eight states more than a thousand miles apart. The ancestors would not be able to understand why if we didn't have to (say, for the civil war of something like that) we would go so far away from home, and, if we did, why we would stay.

A family business meeting was held with the following decided: next year's reunion will be at the Edgel Skaggs home on George's Creek near Lowmansville; family president will be Phillip Burton; secretary, Nell Seal; treasurer, Pauline Lemaster. This year's president, Denial Young of El Paso, Texas, chaired the meeting with assistance from sisters (and main cooks) Lillian Conley and Mary Opal Dooley, Springfield, Ohio.

Short pieces of prose were read aloud. These honored Ollie Young Griffith Nichols, 83, who left Estill in 1951, after the death of her husband, Frank, and subsequent marriage to Stanley Nichols. This reminiscence was written by her grandson, Jim Conley, and read by her daughter, Lillian Conley; Arthur Young, a Floyd County coal miner who died in 1962, by his daughter, Nell Seal, Lakeland, Fla.; and one by Janet Tucker commemorating her father, Elbert Young who died in 1961, at the age of 45. This was read by her brother, Lester, of Laurel, Md.

In addition to those mentioned above, also attending were Chris and Stephen Conley, Faye, Steve, Emily and Ryan Ruffing and Rita Conley, all of Abbott Mountain; Al Dooley of Springfield, Ohio; Brenda, Lloyd, Angela, Matthew and Lloyd Lemaster, and Buell Skaggs of Ulysses; Cecil and Ruth Martin of Barboursville, W. Va.; Susalina Skaggs and Mary and

Jamie Adams of Lowmansville; Dennis and Linda Deilkes of Cambridge City, Ind.; L. and Janelle Steele of New Paris, Ohio; Nichole and Jim Conley II and their children, Kimber and Nathaniel of Prestonsburg; Julia Duchemin, Lynn and Amy

Abrams and infant daughter of Franklin, Ohio; Jess and Violet Conley of New Parris, Ohio; Julia Holbrook, Savannah Holbrook, Oretta and Chester Hodge, all of Garrett; Eleanor Osborne of El Paso, Texas; Beatrice Osborne Kitchen of Ironton, Ohio;

Larry Skaggs of Winterville; Mary, David and David Jr. Adkins of Richmond; Pete and Johnene Holbrook of Martin; Greg, Kathy, Heather and Hope DeCoursey of Lima, Ohio; and Joyce Young of Laurel, Md.

The Young Family in 1936

National Register of Historic Places

Six Downtown Buildings Retain Original Character

(Last in a Series)

By Pam Shingler

Six buildings, lumped together as the Front Street Historic District, comprise the 12th site added to the National Register of Historic Places during 1989 in Prestonsburg.

Though some other commercial buildings in the city might be older than the ones on Front Street, they have been more altered over the years, according to the Kentucky Heritage Council which assesses the historical and architectural significance of sites for the US Department of the Interior.

The six chosen have experienced fewer changes to their original design.

Five of the buildings are located on the riverfront and one is on the east side of Front Street. The district, the council reports, "readily conveys the impression of an early 20th century business district in a mountain community. It is compact and cohesive and exhibits a great deal of architectural integrity."

"Its six buildings, built over the course of three decades, are unified by their massing, scale, setbacks, materials and ornamentation," the report continues. "The district's streetscape is uninterrupted by modern intrusions or vacant lots and possesses a sense of the past absent in other parts of downtown Prestonsburg."

Starting on the north end of the designated district is the Hughes Building, the smallest of the six. Built in 1927, with the name and date on an inscribed tablet, the two-story building was constructed by druggist Henry Hughes and now houses the Playhouse Restaurant.

Next is the Combs Building, also built in the 1920s. It housed the law firm of B.F. Combs, a prominent attorney and political figure during that time. In the 1960s, the building was purchased by the Hobbs family for part of their department store which closed in 1987. It is now vacant.

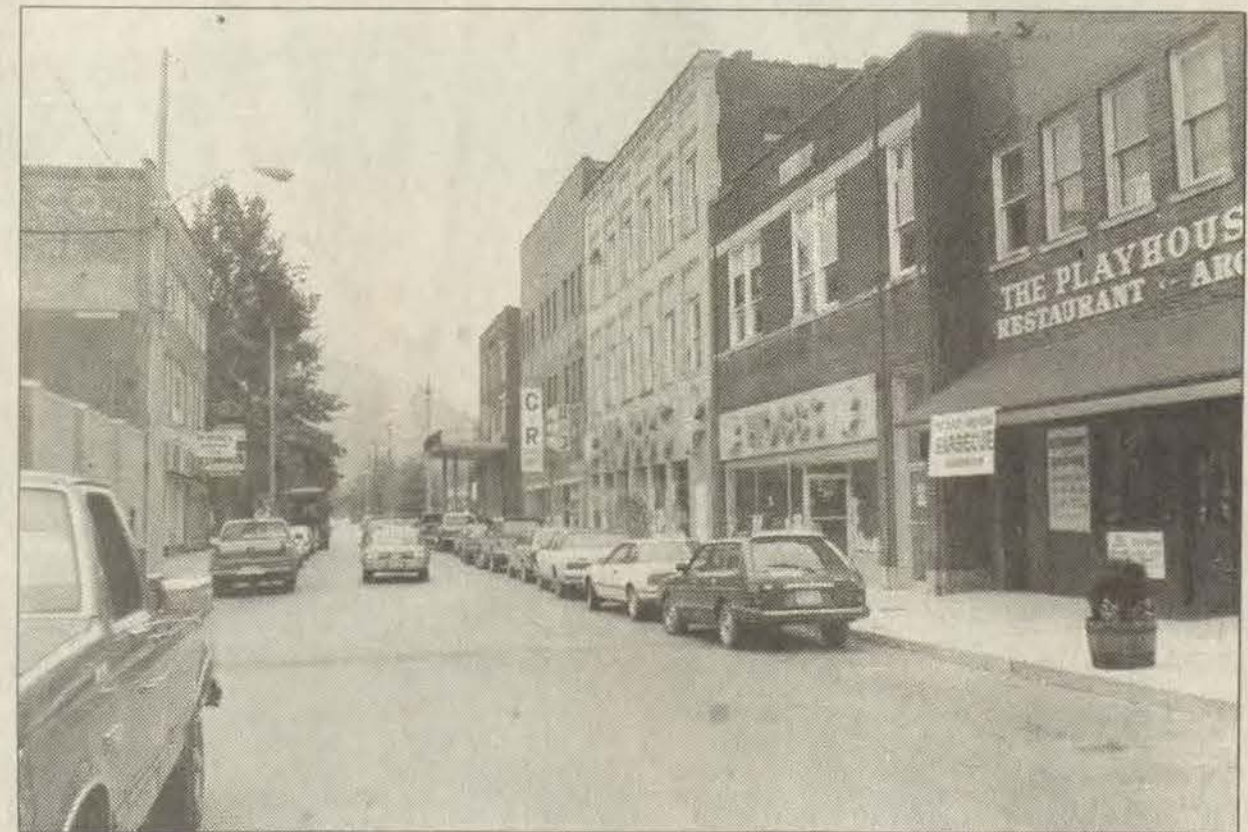

The former Elizabeth Hotel, one of the largest buildings in downtown Prestonsburg, was built around 1915 by the Stephens family. At that time it was one of four hotels in the city. Three stories tall, it housed the first bus depot in the city for a time. It was also sold to the Hobbses for the department store and has been vacant since the store's closing.

The largest building, next door to the old hotel, is the Odd Fellows Lodge. Also three stories, the structure boasts plaques, tablets, and symbols of the fraternal organization on its facade. It was built in 1938 for the order and is still owned and used by the brotherhood. The first floor is occupied by C & R Office Supply.

In 1930, the three-story Auxier Hotel was constructed on what is now the south end of the historic district. It also sports a stone tablet denoting the Auxier family name and the date. Later, the building was sold to Dr. George Archer and used as a hospital. It now is occupied by the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center.

Across the street is the oldest of the six structures, the Richmond Building, which, according to the council, "has survived virtually unaltered since its construction." It, too, has an identifying plaque, and above the transom level painted on the brick are the words "Richmond" and "Hereford". The facility still has pressed-tin ceilings, wood and glass counters, violet prism glass transoms and large plate glass windows.

From its construction until the 1970s, the building served as the Richmond Department Store. In the '40s, part of the building was taken over for an electronics and sporting goods store operated by Thomas Hereford. The building is vacant.

have and to hold the above named land and I the said Solomon Acres do warrant and defend to the said Hiran Owens his heirs and assigns forever the above bargained land together with all the appurtenances therein to belonging against the claim of him the said Solomon Acres and all and every other person or persons whatsoever.

State of Missouri
County Of Van Buren

Be it remembered that on this the seventh day of October in the year of our Lord Eighteen Hundred and Forty Four before me a justice of the peace within and for the county and state aforesaid personally came Solomon Acres and Matilda (Mead) Acres his wife all proven by them to be the persons whose names are subscribed to the foregoing instrument of writing so parties thereto and severally acknowledged the same to be their act and deed for the purposes therein mentioned. She the said Matilda Acres being by me first married acquainted with the contents thereof and examined separate and apart from her husband whether she executed the said deed and relinquishes her dower to the said land and tenement therein mentioned voluntarily freely and without compulsion or undue influence of her said husband.

Given under my hand this 7th day of October Eighteen Hundred and Forty Four.

Hiram Stephens J.P.
Witness: Elias X (His Mark) Owens
John W. Pulliam
(The words North 9th line from the bottom of Page 131 erased.)

NOTE: The foregoing instrument of writing was delivered to me for record this 15th day of November A.D. 1844 and by me duly recorded this 16th day of December A.D. 1844.

NOTE: The following correction to the above deed has just been received by me. It was copied by Gary Akers, of Prairie Village, Kansas, Nov. 29, 1974, and made available to me by Wm. "Bill" Akers, Lex., Ky. both are descendants of Solomon and Matilda.

Deed Book-K./

"Whereas heretofore towit on the seventh day of November A.D. Eighteen Hundred and Forty Four, Solomon Acres and Matilda (Mead) Acres his wife made executed acknowledged and delivered their written deed of conveyance unto Hiram Owens (since deceased) purporting and intending to convey lands therein to be described unto the said Hiram Owens (since deceased) which said deed was defective both in form and substance and in the words and figures following, to wit:—It proceeds to describe the mistake (innocently done).

In the correction of the above deed, it is "transferred to Rueben Mead, as administrator of the estate Hiram Owens for the use and benefit of the estate of Hiram Owens, deceased, and for the use and benefit of and for the heirs of the said Hiram Owens."

In the above deed it refers to Matilda as his former wife, not his late wife. Was Matilda deceased or were they divorced at the time of the corrected deed?

NOTE: This is quite a discovery in many ways for this writer. It now reveals the area of emigration of Rueben Mead-e, (#73-A- this writing) as he disappears from all records available to me after the 1850 Pike County, Ky., census.

I am presently awaiting for additional information pertaining to Rueben Mead and his family after their move to Missouri.

A Tale From The One-Room School

And Then There Were Ten . . .

By Docia (Baldrige) Woods
The summer that I turned five years old, sister Eliza had married off and moved out to West Virginia; brothers Will and Pat and Charlie were spending most of their time back on the point behind the house skidding logs while they waited for an Old Uncle of ours to send them word to go and fight in one of the big wars, and the rest of the children in our family were hunting up all the little scraps of paper and stubby pencils they could find, to take to the opening of our little one-room school.

After Julia'd found a big old safety pin, and "pinned 'em up," I felt like I could endure anything that could've possibly been offered in that school.

But my happiness was short-lived: When we got back inside that schoolhouse, Teacher said the quicker I got myself up front with the rest of that Primer Class, the safer it would be for me.

I e-a-s-e-d up there and sat down next to one of our cousins that we'd always called "Little Mollie" — although she was at least a head taller than Teacher, and would've outweighed any two of the rest of us in that class.

Teacher had the blackboard filled plum' full of big words. He'd knock at the words with his stick, and Little Mollie'd twist her mouth a WAY around to the side of her face, and holler out just about everyone of them.

And the rest of us would twist our mouths around to the sides of our faces as much like Little M. as we could, and try to holler them out just like her.

F-i-n-a-l-l-y, Teacher "caught on." Then, he marched my smart relative back to her seat, and started over. After we'd stumbled through a few words, then started making all kinds of mistakes, Teacher sent us back to our seats.

Next morning T. braced himself in the front of the room, and made the sad announcement that he'd decided "beyond the 'shadder' of a doubt," that the Primer Class — outside of Little Mollie — would "never learn to read."

Then, he said, "I've decided that I'll learn 'ever' youngin' in under the sound of my voice a liddle 'pome' t' day!"

Receives Awards

Airman Stephen G. Johnson was awarded "Tracker of the Month" for June and also was awarded "Top Wheels" for August. He is now stationed at Hallonman Air Force Base. He is the son of Wanda and Daryl Sexton and the grandson of Lee and Noralene Hamilton all of Prestonsburg.

I told Mommie I believed if she'd fix me up a little stuff to eat, and put it in a lard bucket, and fill me up a bottlefull of sweet milk, and put a good stopper in it, I'd try to go to school with the other children.

She did.
And I went.
If these people who keep trying to make big discoveries in science should ever be lucky enough to come up with something that would make us all live to be a trillion years old, I'll still "go" with the memory of that first — and second, and third, days of school stamped firmly on what mind I may be fortunate enough to have left.

"Teacher" was a little young "strip of a boy," somewhere in the neighborhood of 16-18 years old, and, like myself, I'm afraid he wasn't quite prepared for the tasks that stretched out before him.

After some of the children had sung all the ballads, and told all the folk stories, and recited all the poems they could "think up," and Teacher had read a big long list of "Rules and Regulations," and some of the parents and the sub-district trustee had made their little talks and gone home, Teacher said, "Primer class! Git yore-sefs to the front of this here room!"

I was sitting in a big old seat, between sister Julia and one of her classmates. Julia gouged me in the ribs with one of her elbows, pointed toward some recitation benches in the front of the room, then nodded toward a big stick Teacher was pulling out of his hip pocket.

I s-q-u-e-e-z-e-d out of that seat, got about half-way to the front of the room, then ran back and sat down and started crying.

Teacher looked back there and said, "What's that thare youngin' a-bawlin' about?"

Julia raised to her feet, and said, "Some or our widdle sister's kwos have d'wopped down a wnon her feet IF YOU HAVE T' KNOW!" then sat back down.

Teacher said, "WELL WHAT AIR YOU 'UNS A-SETTIN' THERE LIKE DUM'BELLS FUR? TAKE HER OVER YANDER 'ACROST TH' BRANCH — AN' PIN 'EM UP!"

We went.

That sounded pretty good.
The poem he picked was the one about the twelve months. By the time most of the big children had tried to say it, and it had gotten down to what had once been referred to as the Primer Class, I could bounce right out on the floor and say:

"Jannuarry bwains th' sthnow
"Makes th' feet an' faners gwo."
And, since I'd been born in February, I had enough curiosity about that month so that I could go ahead with:

"Fevwurry bwains th' wain
"Thaws th' fwozen pond agin."
But when it came to that next month, and that whole row-team of months that came after it — why, if Teacher had told me he was going to beat me to death right there before that whole roomful of children — I couldn't have even named those months, much less have said a lot of verses about them.

Teacher gave me at least a dozen chances. . . But f-i-n-a-l-l-y, he made a groaning noise, began jerking at little pieces of his hair, and hollered out: "EVER LASTIN' ONE OF YOU YOUNGIN'S GIT OUT OF HERE, AN' HITTER FUR HOME!"

We went.
That night, T.'s father came by our house, and said he'd talked his boy into going back to school, and was taking it upon himself to go around and invite the parents to come in and "kinely encourage th' boy."

Pa started next morning as soon as he'd swallowed his last bite of breakfast. Mommie wouldn't go. (Pa preached over on the other side of the hill, and Mommie and "us children" always went to church "with our hearts in our mouths," because we were afraid he'd talk too long, or too loud, or — as Mommie put it, "Too fur!")

We could tell that pa was going to "give a talk" that morning, so we picked flowers, caught butterflies, and waded through the sand until we felt like he'd be through and gone.

But we timed him wrong.
When we got in hearing distance, we could hear Pa. We threw our lunch buckets and milk bottles in a weed-patch, and stuck our fingers as far back in our heads as they'd go — but we could still hear Pa.

We couldn't understand much that he was saying, but every time he'd make a remark he'd end it up with: "AND IF AT FIRST YOU DON'T SUCCEED TRY, TRY AGAIN!" (I've realized since, that regardless of any encouragement Pa may have been passing along to Teacher, he was using this little quotation to place the blame squarely where he felt it belonged.)

Directly, the crowd started breaking off; Pa's voice starting trailing off, and we saw him leave.

Then, we went down to that schoolhouse door, and tiptoed inside. Teacher looked, and acted, like a new boy: He started patting us on our heads, and (laughing and talking at the same time), muttering something about "A-learnin' Liddle Docia th' rest of that thare 'pome'."

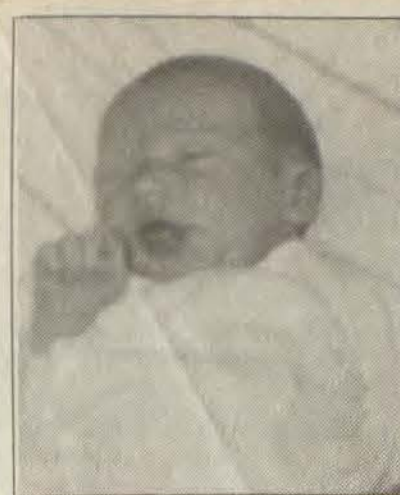

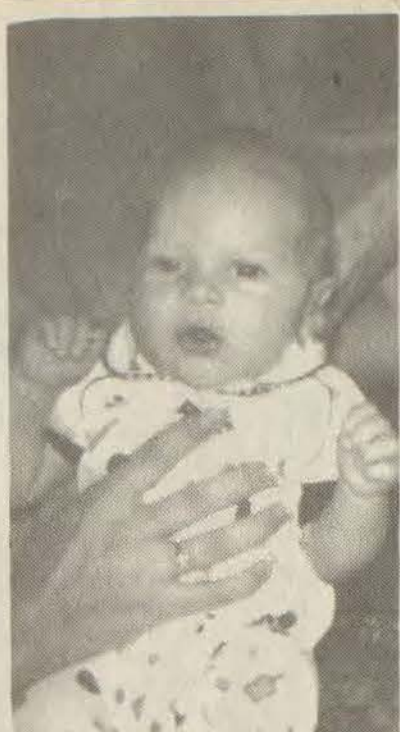

Mercifully, I was spared.
A big, over-grown boy, in the backend of the room jumped to his feet, and bellered out:

"YOU DON'T KNOW HOW T' TEACH SCHOOL!"

Teacher came back with: "WHO SAID I DIDN'?"
The boy said:

"MOMMIE AN' POPPIE said you didn't! THAT'S WHO said you didn't!"
It was all over for Teacher.

And, church and state, or no church and state, what education I received the remainder of that year came from the pulpit of a certain little church house, over on the other side of the hill.

Children will cause problems for you this week. Take time to listen to them before taking action. You formulate wise rules. Financial decisions should wait a few weeks.

A better plan will emerge from mature thinking. You find harmonious ways to maintain routines and agendas, overcoming obstacles that prohibit your success.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

TV PIPELINE

Will Hutchins stepped right up to fulfill childhood dream

By Polly Vonetes
 Q: What happened to Will Hutchins? I just loved him when he was the star of Sugarfoot. —Jeanette Skagg, Lewiston, Calif.

Will Hutchins

A: After the series ended in 1961, Will guested a few times in various television series and starred in two situation comedies, Hey Landlord and Blondie. Neither was successful. Then he decided to fulfill a childhood dream. He joined a circus as ringmaster and a clown. He has traveled far and wide with circuses and has developed a clown character called "Patches." He is enjoying himself immensely, and says, "I hope I can be 'Patches' forever." He was married in 1964 to Carol Burnett's sister, Chris. They had a daughter.

Q: Could you please give me some information on Richard Tyson of Two Moon Junction? —Windy Jeffreys, Oracle, Ariz.

A: Richard Tyson was born Feb. 11, 1962, in Mobile, Ala., one of eight children of an ex-state senator. Tyson was following in the footsteps of his father when he enrolled in the Naval Academy as a midshipman. A football injury, followed by a long convalescence, caused him to reconstruct his priorities. He left the academy and returned to attend college in Alabama, but opted for acting after watching a friend audition for a play. With $100, he took a bus to Hollywood "to be in the movies." After several auditions he decided to return to school, received his MFA from Cornell and appeared in various theater productions before starring in Two Moon Junction. Currently he is starring in the new NBC series, Hardball as Joe "Kaz" Kaczierowski.

Q: Can you tell me if Gene Autry's Melody Ranch and Roy Rogers' Happy Trails are still being aired? I've lost them on TNN the last two weeks. —Myrl Long, Sweet Home, Ore.

A: I have checked the TNN listings for the months of November and December and find that your two favorite programs are still on TNN. They air weekdays (Monday through Friday) from noon until 1:30 p.m. Eastern time.

Q: On Miami Vice was Crockett ever married to his fellow officer Gina Calabrese or had they just been involved in the past? I say they were dating at one time, a friend says that they were divorced. —M.L. Gamblin, Mortons Gap, Ky.

A: Smile sweetly when you tell your friend, "I told you so." Gina and Sonny were lovers in the first season of Miami Vice. Crockett's ex-wife, Caroline, was played by Belinda Montgomery.
