"This idea has tremendous potential," said State Rep. Greg Stumbo, who pushed through state funding of the park golf course expansion. "If the plan's feasible, the course could do three things. First, it would bring tourists to the area. Secondly, combined with the new convention center, it would be very attractive to folks holding conventions.

"Thirdly, if the state and city can doit together, it'll show it can be done in other places in Eastern Kentucky and could become a model project."

Health clinic proposed for veterans

Kentucky Outreach Health Clinic in average. Pike or Floyd County, designed to provide improved veteran health care in the surrounding 12-county area, was announced by US Rep. Chris Perkins Saturday

Perkins made the announcement at a rally at the Pike County courthouse, citing a report prepared by the Veterans Health Service and Research Administration, which described the lack of access to health care facilities experienced by 20,525 area veterans.

"Getting treatment right now is a tremendous difficulty for too many An area veteran

The report stated that "...West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky are unique in that the terrain, the broad population disbursement, the lack of viable public transportation, and the poor road conditions do not allow veteransequal access to medical care."

The report further said that, due to the lack of access to care, the severity of illness experienced by area veter-

John A Cook assistant evacutive for training at Mountain Comprehensive Care in Prestonsburg and a Vietnam veteran, agrees that improved health care for area vets is needed.

"The main difficulty for rural and Appalachian vets is the geographic isolation," said Cook. "Four health facilities serve this 23-county area, but the distances that vets have to travel are significant. Many can't afford a vehicle to get them there."

A second veteran, who spent three years in combat in Vietnam and wished to remain anonymous, described the difficulties he's experienced in the past receiving medical treatment from the Veterans Admini-agreement between the state and city must be reached to determine how to fund the project. Control over the construction project and management of the golf course must also be determined.

Selection of a mountain top site on which to place the golf course also presents difficulties. Several sites are under consideration, said Stumbo, but all would require a large financial investment to develop.

We've discussed utilizing the Mayo Hollow property, because it joins both the city and park," said Stumbo. "Getting a road and water up there would be the biggest problems. We're considering proposing that the state and city agree to put a road up there and connect water and sewer lines. Land owners would be asked to donate property for the course. The property they'd retain would increase dramatically in value. This would lower city and state land acquisition cost."

Brandy Keg Hollow and other sites have also been considered for the location of the new golf course, said

Despite the enthusiasm expressed not everyone in the county believes the golf course project is desirable.

"I really question the necessity of a new golf course," said Jim Ham-mond, Floyd County Attorney. "Right now, we have four golf courses in a 20-mile radius, including the one at Jenny Wiley, Stumbo Park in Allen, Green Meadows in Pike County, and the one in Paintsville. by the criticism. "Mountain top development is where the future of Eastern Kentucky lies," said Stumbo. "If we can show that it can be done once, others will try it, including private developers."

No time frame for pursuing the golf project has been set, but planners generally agree such an effort would take a minimum of two years and an investment of about $5 million to complete.

Stumbo noted that a local committee would be established shortly to consider the project.

KET to repeat Big Sandy Show

Amid the breathtaking beauty of the 1,000-foot gorge known as the Breaks of the Sandy, author Gurney Norman begins a journey along the Big Sandy River to explore the history and culture of its people. The resulting one-hour special, From This Valley, encores on KET at 8 p.m. Monday, May 7.

While hiking the woodsy trails and canoeing the quiet creek waters, Norman reflects on the rich heritage of the region, which has produced an abundance of writers, historians, musicians, and artists. Norman introduces viewers to authors Verna Mae Slone of Pippa Passes, Billy C. Clark of Catlettsburg, and Denise Giardina of Bluefield, W. Va., whose writing is deeply rooted in the Big Sandy region.

Pausing at various sites along the tributaries, Norman recounts notable events in Kentucky history that occurred in the Big Sandy region, in-cluding the explorations of frontiersman Daniel Boone, the capture and escape of pioneer woman Jenny Wiley, and the tragic Hatfield-McCoy

Norman also discusses early 20th century events: the formation of coal camps such as Wheelwright in 1916 and the bitter coal mining disputes of the '20s and '30s, when efforts were made to unionize the miners of southern Appalachia. In Wheelwright, Norman introduces us to an oral history project undertaken by students of Carol Stumbo. Teachers like Stumbo are using "local communities as a living tool for education" in an innovative way, Norman says.

Modern-day achievements and traditions of the area also are featured. In Pikeville, Norman points to the rechanneling of the Big Sandy through the mountain at Pikeville as a dramatic turning point in the history of the region.

RE-ELECT Gregory D. Stumbo

State Representative 95th District

Democratic Primary Tuesday May 29, 1990

"ROADS A PRIORITY"

While serving you in Frankfort Representative Stumbo has made the upgrading and maintaining of our road system a priority. In 1985 he became Majority Floor Leader, the highest elected Eastern Kentuckian to serve in Frankfort since Gov. Bert Combs, and immediately began an aggressive campaign to meet our transportation needs. The roads had been neglected during the Brown Administration (1980-1984), Rep. Stumbo complained but the governor and his employees ignored his pleas, choosing to fly around in a helicopter rather than ride over the potholes like you and I. The plan began with the removal of the toll booths from our Mountain Parkway. "We deserve the free use of our roads like other Kentuckians," Rep. Stumbo Said.

From 1985 to present our maintenance money doubled. It's still not enough, but not only did the State System receive this increase, so did our County Roads as a result of Legislation sponsored by Rep. Stumbo in 1986. This summer there will be more money spent on maintaining our roads than ever before in history. Consider this.

- * Resurfacing of KY 122, Left Beaver Road.
- * Resurfacing of KY 979, Mud Creek Road and Passing Lanes
- * Rural Secondary funds for Spurlock Creek Road
- * Renovation and maintenance for Prater Creek Road
- * Renovation and maintenance for Toler Creek Road
- * Resurfacing for Branahams Creek Road
- * Resurfacing for McDowell Grethel Road
- * Resurfacing for Little Paint Road
- * Resurfacing for Martin Allen
- ★ Bridge Repair KY 1498 at Salisbury NEW CONSTRUCTION

The upgrading part of Rep. Stumbo's plan for our road system is now in progress. He proposed the completion of US 23, and that construction will begin this year. He supported the building of a road from Garrett to Harold, and the first leg to Minnie is funded in the State Budget Bill, sponsored by Rep. Stumbo.

"A DREAM + A PLAN = A ROAD"

That's what Rep. Stumbo believes. He wants to continue working for you in Frankfort. He believes we can build the McDowell - Harold Road, and four lane the Mt. Parkway in the near future. He believes we can maintain our road system by continuing to dedicate additional money to our rural and secondary roads, and he knows that experience and leadership in Frankfort make a difference in that battle.

On Tuesday, May 29th, 1990 cast your vote for Rep. Stumbo, and let's show our support for his plan.

There's nothing wrong with a brilliant leader being rewarded by a healthy salary. But it appears we've entered the zone of the ridiculous.

What single person is worth $53 million, or $15 million or even $1 million, for that matter. We can't help but think it's time we stopped blaming the Japanese and Germans and Italians for this country's sad economy and started taking a closer look at our own practices.

While we'reatit, we can't help but reflect on junk bond king Michael Milken. The fancy financier faces a long prison term and a fine of more money than most of us can envision - $600 million for a list of stock market misdeeds.

Milken, in tears, expressed regret over the ordeal his family and friends must face. No mention, however, of the thousands of people who were bilked by his financial shenanigans or the thousands more who lost their jobs because of his corporate gamesplaying. If he and his family end up with as much as a shirt on their backs, then there is truly no justice.

It almost slipped by us. A bill in-troduced in the recent General Assembly would have required all candidates for public office to use their "legal" name. Though some absurdities were included, the bill would have most assuredly affected our own Janet Stumbo, Court of Appeals judge.

Married and a mother, the judge, one could reason, is by law Janet Stumbo Pillersdorf. Obviously, her legal name — that of her husband is not your everyday one or two syllable Anglo-Saxon, native East Kentucky name.

For whatever reason, and there's an obvious one, she chose to run under her maiden name. But after all, isn't one's father's name a legal name? It seems to work fine for men. But, God forbid, a woman should choose the maintain the name she was born with, the law drafter would say

Supports Patton

To all my friends and neighbors of McDowell and Frasure's Creek. I believe Ed Patton would be the best thing that ever happened to Eastern Kentucky. Not only does he live here and travel these bad roads day after day, he understands our concerns and needs for our families. And he will represent these views in the state. It's time for a change, someone to support the people's needs, all the people, whether wealthy or poor. He is an honest man from an honest family who will do right by all the people.

Thanks for support

We'd like to express our sincerest appreciation to the people of Left Beaver from Girdle Moore's curve to Glenn Frazier's curve on Highway 122, and to those in Spewing Camp in McCurry Branch and in Stumbo Hollow for your help and encouragement in our recent struggle to vote Gearheart Precinct #23 dry

Together, we won a great victory, which we certainly celebrate, but as we congratulate those who voted "dry," we do not gloat; we do not chastise those who voted "wet" because ours was a complete and convincing victory, one that will stand on its own merit. It was a victory for our elderly, for our retired people and for our children, all of whom would have been greatly inconvenienced had the vote gone the other A possible solution would be to way. Wants cartoon printed

Dear Editor,

I saw Jack Martin's letter in Friday's paper. After reading it, I cannot understand why so much criticism has been heaped upon a cartoon that you have refused to print.

I have seen most of Jack Martin's cartoons over the past 3 or 4 years, and I have yet to see one that was in bad taste or with malice.

I cannot believe that those individuals that called in protesting that this particular cartoon "made fun" of McDowell. Therefore, I believe in the interest of fair play that the Floyd County Times should not cave in to those biased people who (for some reason) don't want this drawing to see the light of day.

I am urgently requesting in fair-ness to Jack Martin and those of us who enjoy his art work, that you print this cartoon so we all may see for ourselves that it represents the recent events at McDowell.

Report to Kentucky

By Sen. Wendell Ford

INFORMED DECISIONS CAN PROTECT A SCHOOL-LUNCH PROGRAM FOR ALL CHILDREN

I am deeply concerned about the future of one of the best services ever offered to the young people of Kentucky and the nation - the national school-lunch program that has been providing nutritious meals to millions of school children since 1946. The President has proposed changes that would cut $181 million from our school-lunch program. We already have heard reports that this proposal could force some schools to drop the program, which last year served 24 million children, including 660,000 in Kentucky

Unfortunately, this is just the latest in a long series of challenges to a program that has led to better schoo' attendance, better students, better educated adults and more productive Americans in all walks of life.

The challenges have been coming so fast, in my opinion, that it is time to slow down and take a hard look at the present condition of this indispensable service.

This is why I have introduced legislation to require the US Secretary of Agriculture to conduct a comprehensive study that could help us to stabilize and improve, rather than continue to weaken, our schoollunch program.

Sir, there's someone here about the nuclear Bomb testing.

The proposed study would assess the long-term impact of sharp cuts made early in the Reagan Administration, when the federal child-nutrition budget was reduced by almost one third and overall reimbursement levels slashed from 18-1/2 to 10-1/2 cents per meal. The immediate result in Kentucky was a 5 percent drop in the number of students benefiting from the program's nutritious meals.

Our assessment also should take account of more recent financial pressures stemming from a decline in the availability of so-called "bonus commodities" from farm surplus programs. The value of such commodities going into the school-lunch program has dropped by more than $300 million, or about 70 percent, since

Last year, we made important legislative changes aimed at streamlining compliance and accountability requirements of the school-lunch

But some in our government would make other changes in the program, shifting more of the burden to the state and local levels. The President would turn the program, designed to offer nutritious meals to all children, into a service limited to those from low-income families

If we cut overall support for the program, as the President proposes, some schools would have to charge more for their highest priced meals, accounting for 54 percent of all school lunches served under the program in Kentucky.

Higher prices could force some schools out of the nutrition program, and this would be intolerable when national figures show that 23 percent of all children under the age of six now live in poverty.

It is clear that we are going to have to make some informed decisions on our school-lunch program. Otherwise, we could find ourselves cutting too many corners at the expense of our children's future. I hope that the legislation I have introduced will help us to avoid such a shortsighted approach to one of our very best proHuman Resources):

McConnell's Comments

By Sen, Mitch McConnell

FIGHTINGHUNGER IN THE LAND OF PLENTY

When we think of hunger, it is easy to conjure up images of refugees in faraway countries trying to scratch out a meager living from a barren earth. When we go to the store, it is hard to believe that right here in the United States hunger is a very big problem. In fact, it is a terrible tragedy that each morning thousands of children are sent to school hungry because their parents cannot afford to buy food for breakfast.

Since coming to the Senate, I have worked for the expansion of federal nutrition programs to serve more lowincome families and children. To help these people receive the assistance they deserve, I have cosponsored legislation to strengthen the Temporary Emergency Food Assistance Program better known as TEFAP.

Administered through the US Department of Agriculture, this program distributes commodities and canned food to an estimated 12 to 15 million persons each month, many living in Kentucky, who are in desperate need of assistance.

This year the USDA will purchase and distribute 72 million pounds of peanut butter, 30 million pounds of beans, 144 million pounds of flour, and 48 million pounds of cornmeal. This does not include other commodities that will boost the total amount of foodstuffs given to those most in need to over 450 million pounds.

Since its inception, TEFAP has served as a safety net families could count on because it can take a month to qualify for federal food stamps. During this time, TEFAP-supplied food might constitute the only meals children of these families are served as they wait for their federal assistance. This is also true of the elderly. Over the past several years many of our senior citizens, sometimes because of medical costs, have fallen below the poverty line. They also rely on TEFAP for basic staples they would otherwise be unable to afford.

No part of our country is immune from the terrible reach of hunger. I believe that the federal government must take an active role in making sure that our elderly poor and lowincome families receive assistance that will provide them with the ingredients for nutritious meals. TEFAP is a critical component of that goal and I am proud to be a sponsor of its expan-

Appreciates cartoons

Dear Editor,

I have enjoyed Jack Martin's cartoons in the Troublesome Creek Times since he first began drawing them. Seeing his cartoons in your paper was an added attraction for me.

After reading his letter in your paper on Friday, I would like to ask that you print his cartoon regarding the McDowell rash situation. If he says his work was unbiased then I believe him. Seeing local cartoons in print gives us as readers an opportunity to look at problems or issues on a lighter side. I appreciate cartoons by local artists!

'Just wanted to say thanks'

I would like to thank Hall Funeral Home in Martin for the many times they have helped us here at the Wheelwright Church of God of Prophecy. We are small in numbers and many times we haven't had money to pay the bills. Halls has always helped us any time we ever asked them to. They are the kind of people it is good to know in this life, and also the kind of people to take care of you once life is over. Some people when they help a church want everyone to know they gave an offering, but not Johnnie and his people; they give and never say anything about it. I just wanted to say thanks for helping us. I might also add they were so nice to me and my family 20 years ago when my (family member) got hit by a car and was killed. It is good to have people like you in our community.

Meeting examines issues, honors Floyd resident

Problems faced by Eastern Kentucky leaders were discussed and a Floyd County health care hero was honored at the third annual Eastern Kentucky Leadership Conference, last weekend at Hazard Community College

About 140 local and state leaders and citizens met on Friday and Saturday to examine regional issues and trade ideas on a broad range of topics, including economic development, health care, education, and solid waste disposal.

On Saturday, participants broke down into groups to discuss their particular areas of interest, and then gathered in the afternoon to hear a summarization of the various groups'

The conference, chaired by attorney Bill Weinberg and organized by economic development organizations and Hazard Community College, was designed to bring area leaders into a non-confrontational, open forum. It also allowed participants to trade ideas among various organiza-tions and political offices.

Following the conference, a ban-quet honored individuals and organizations who have provided special services to the region. Eula Hall, founder of the Mud Creek Health Clinic, was one of the awardees. Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta, in announcing the award, cited Hall's long term commitment to health care in Floyd County.

Wayland man is stabbed

A Wayland man was seriously injured Friday night when he was stabbed with a hunting knife during a fight with his brother-in-law on Sizemore Mountain.

According to Floyd County Sheriff's Deputy Rick Thornsberry, Otis Lee Collins, 32, was stabbed in the upper back at about 9 p.m. Friday by Charles Ray Collins, 33, also of Wayland, during a domestic dispute at the house of Otis Collins' mother on Sizemore Mountain.

The Left Beaver Rescue Squad and the Sheriff's Department responded to the incident. Otis Collins was transported to McDowell Regional Hospital and was later taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Lexington.

Charles Collins was arrested later that night at a nearby resident's house and was charged with first degree assault. He was lodged in the Floyd County Jail under a $25,000 bond.

The case is under investigation by the Sheriff's Department.

A new beginning

The corner stone for the new addition at the First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg was unveiled on Sunday, April 15, after Easter services. Members of the building committee, choir members and other in the congregation were present along with the Rev. Timothy Jessen, pastor. Use of the building is anticipated by the church's annual homecoming on Sunday, June 10. It will include a large fellowship hall with a kitchen and the second floor will contain space for use by the music program, youth and community groups.

The building, under construction since Oct. 8, 1989, when official groundbreaking ceremonies took place, had been in the planning stages throughout last year.

"We really needed the extra space it has provided," said the church's pastor the Rev. Timothy Jessen. "With a membership of 175 we have been growing steadily over the last few years and are very active in community services.

Presently the church is used for GED training through The David School, Alcoholics Anonymous and Alanon meetings, Girl Scouts, Hospice of Big Sandy and Floyd County Education Forum meetings and the Good Day Food Cooperative.

fellowship hall and kitchen to be used for receptions, congregational functions and community gatherings. The second floor consists of classrooms for the youth program and a practice area for the choir.

With the addition of the new wing, designed to blend with the rest of the building, the former fellowship area will be renovated to afford more Sunday School classrooms, and the old kitchen will be redesigned for office space.

The project has cost $290,000, most of which has come from individual congregation members. A small grant was secured from the Presbyter of Transylvania, the church's governing body, and former members and friends of the church. Last summer, members held a fundraiser depicting a historical drama of the church which was well received by many, according to Jessen.

In Loving Memory of Richard M. & Fanny Wells Richard M. Wells passed away May 7, 1967. Fanny Wells passed away April 27, 1970.

Two hearts of gold stopped beating, Their shining eyes at rest. God broke our hearts to prove to us, That He only takes the best. God knows they had to leave us, But they didn't go alone. For a part of us went with them, The day He took them home. To some they are forgotten, To others they are part of the past. But to us who loved and lost them, Their memory will always last. It's a lonesome home without them, And sad has been the way. For life and home are not the same, Since they both were called away. So if you have a mom and dad, Cherish them in a loving way. You'll never know real heartache, Until God has called them away. Sadly missed by daughters, Mildred Sturgill, Lucille Patton, and Beatrice Childers of Auxier, Ky., Unoka Frisby, Louisville, Ky. and Delight Hall, Shepherdsville, Ky.

There will be a gospel singing at the Town Branch Church Saturday May 5th at 6:30 p.m. featuring the Waymakers, Harvesters and Powers Family.

Everyone is invited to attend.

Recycling: A solution to pollution

By Tess Whitmer Assistant Editor and Charlotte McFall Contributing Writer

If Eastern Kentucky makes a farreaching commitment to recycling, it could do more than just keep local landfills from piling higher than the mountains. It could provide a very real, very needed economic development boost.

That is the message that Dr. Neil Seldman of the Institute for Local Self-Reliance professed during a work-shop Monday at the Holiday Inn.

"Right now, most companies still get materials out of the ground first. We see a point coming where that process may bereversed, a point where companies will use recycled materials first." Dr. Neil Seldman

Seldman said that the environmentalists are the biggest enemy in the recycling business, because they are always approaching businesses with spending money to modify plants to stop pollution when they should show them how to save money by recycling, reusing materials and re-

"Drop the environmental issues and look at the bottom line (when dealing with businesses). Bankers and industries should be involved with promoting good economical decisions," Seldman said.

The ideal situation, which has worked in other parts of the country, would be to have a recycling plant built near a manufacturing plant that uses that material and is located in a community that would purchase the end product in quantity.

Seldman told of such a project located in Iowa where the leading recyclable is plastic. The plastic is then turned into imitation wood products by a local manufacturer, from whom the state has agreed to purchase said product for such things as playground equipment and recreational area needs

Most Americans know that it is possible to recycle glass and newspa-per for reuse. What they may not know is that researchers have figured out how to turn a vastarray of throwaways into consumer goods. One company has even figured out how to turn the plastic from disposable baby diapers into park benches,

Suddenly what used to be garbage is a raw material.

"Right now, most companies still get materials out of the ground first," explains Seldman, a former college professor and manufacturing executive. "We see a point coming where that process may be reversed, a point where companies will use recycled materials first."

According to Seldman, if the recyclables are removed from the garbage, about 10-15 percent would be left to go to the landfills. Many feel that incineration is the answer, but Seldman noted that 40-50 percent of the trash burned goes back to the landfills as ash, which he said was synonymous with "toxic waste."

"Civic groups and organizations should work together with local governments to force politicians to work for using tax dollars for recy-cling," Seldman said. He suggested that municipalities would be better served if they used a variable can rate in trash collection. Reasoning if people

Break-ins occur at local schools

Two Floyd County schools were the targets of would-be robbers over the weekend, according to Kentucky State Police reports.

A resident living near the Prater Grade School reportedly saw two suspects carrying a band instrument leaving the school. The resident shouted at the two, causing them to drop the instrument and run away.

The lunchroom of the Betsy Layne Grade School was also broken into. Nothing was reported stolen in the incident.

The two cases and a separate break in at Mullins High School in Pike County are being investigated by state beless thrown out and more recycled. Everything improves with recy-cling the environment and the economy. It's happening already in some parts of the United States.

Steinbeiss, the giant German paper company, is considering locating in Chicago, where it can take advan-tage of materials gathered from existing paper recycling programs. A large Korean firm recently decided to build its first American facility in Missouri, a state with successful and aggressive recycling programs.

Other communities have developed novel programs that aid existing businesses. A city in California, for example, is composting leaves and yard debris and selling it at reduced rates to area nurseries. Yard waste often accounts for more that 15 percent of a community's solid waste.

As recycling gets more and more popular, communities with large programs will be the ones that manufacturers will look toward when they turn to recycled materials.

"The companies are moving where there's going to be raw materials" said Seldman, "and those places are going to be the communities with strong recycling programs."

Seldman also said that big companies are not supporting the recycling efforts because they are preparing to create a monopoly in the recycling market. He noted that the way to make money is to cut out the middle man, and if a number of counties work together for a central recycling center, it would be very feasible to break even or make a profit depending on the market value of recycled

Explaining that 90 percent of re-cycled material comes from the private sector, he said he felt strongly that people would support the effort with proper incentive programs.

Materials made from recycled products are worth more if used locally. So if an area can promise to purchase 30 percent of the end product from a manufacturer, it would more likely locate in that area,

Beyond recycling, reusing materials is another way to reduce waste. Seldman noted a few examples such as using rechargeable batteries, instead of disposable. Batteries contain nickel and cadium which can harm ground water when released from a

He also urged the more than 40 people in attendance to spread the word not to use "degradable" gar-bage bags. He said that when the cornstarch is added to the product it weakens the plastic, and more plastic is needed to restrengthen the bags. The bags only degrade when exposed to sunlight for an extended period of time, and if they go into landfills they are buried almost immediately.

"It is such an easy business for-mula to work out," Seldman said. The Institute for Self-Reliance continues to spearhead cooperation among grassroots and national onvironmental groups to shift federal policies from pollution control to pollution prevention. This new approach designates source reduction, recycling and composting as the most effective components of a solid waste management plan.

In the fourthinning, Tim Watkins' double brought in Stratton and Brandon Lowe with two runs as the Blackcats scored three times in the inning. Robinson's base hit brought in the third run.

Cavins got the win in relief, and Slone suffered the setback. Coach Shepherd stated that it looks like he has found another pitcher.

"Chris (Cavins) has pitched well in his last two outings," he said. "He will be a big help to us."

Cavins had two strikeouts, but more importantly he had the Trojan batters hitting the ball on the ground as Wheelwright had nine outs via the ground ball route.

In the second game, Wheelwright jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning and held the lead until the bottom of the third inning when the Blackcats erupted for four runs to take a 6-3 lead.

The big blows were a run-producing triple by Ray Collins and a run-scoring double by Robinson. Watkins also had an RBI in the inning on a ground out to shortstop. Chris Slone also had a run batted in in the frame.

Wheelwright picked up three first inning runs off starting pitcher Anthony Howell, on a lead off hit by Chad Allen, who stole second, and while stealing third, he scored on an overthrow at third base. Kenny Isaac, who made some good plays in the outfield for Wheelwright, walked,

Big 5th inning helps Bobcats defeat Prestonsburg, 13-7

The Betsy Layne Bobcats, with the help of two home runs, scored 10 runs in the fifth inning to break open an otherwise close game and go on to defeat the Prestonsburg Blackcats, 13-7, to break a five-game losing streak that has plagued the Betsy Layne

The Bobcats' last win was an 11-10 victory over the same Blackcats in the semifinals of the Pikeville Invitational inning, singled up the middle to score last week at Pikeville. Coach Junior two more runs. Newsome's team won on a wild pitch in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Both Darren Gearheart and Keith Hall each had three-run home runs in the fifth inning as the Bobcats sent 13 batters to the plate. Adam Gearheart picked up the win, and Aaron Tucker suffered the loss.

Prestonsburg had taken a 1-0 lead in the third inning when, with one out, John Clark lined a single to left field and then stole second and third. Clark came in to score on a sacrifice fly by Jason Storey. Tim Watkins also had a single in the inning.

The Bobcats then exploded in the bottom of the inning, scoring 10 times to take a 10-1 lead. The inning started innocently enough as Chris Newsome led the inning off with a walk. Craig Hunter then hit a long drive to left field that was hauled down.

Keith Hall's bouncer to second near the first base bag, went for a fielders' choice as the play on Newsome at second was late. Newsome moved to third and Hall to second on a passed ball.

Newsome. Chad Hamilton's base hit scored Hall; then Darren Gearheart hit a long drive over the 350' mark for a three-run shot to make it 5-0.

However, the Bobcats were not through yet as base hits by Todd Akers and Chris Bias and a walk to Danny Page loaded the bases. Newsome, batting for the second time in the

Prestonsburg scored a single run in the top of the fifth on a base hit by Collins, a stolen base and a single off the bat of Chris Slone

The Bobcats completed the scoring with three runs in the sixth inning on a single by Page to score Hamilton, who had struck out and reached when the catcher dropped the ball. Newsome hit a double to right center

Wins haven't been easy for the Wheelwright Trojans and first year coach Meredith Slone. Neither have they been frequent.

However, the Trojans got some solid pitching from senior Brad Compton, and it was backed up with some solid offense as the Trojans handled Whitesburg to the tune of 8-1 in posting just their second victory of the season. The Trojans played errorless baseball in a good defensive outing also.

Free tickets for Reds fans

Be watching for Friday's edition of The Floyd County Times sports section for a special and exciting contest announcement concerning how you, the Redsfans, can win four free tickets to see the "red hot" Cincinnati Reds in action against the San Francisco Giants on Saturday, Aug. 11. Good tickets are hard to get for Reds games this year, so Friday's sports enter the contest and, who knows, you may be the lucky winner. The Reds, as everyone knows, are playing the best baseball of the young baseball season. Barry Larkin and former Dodger cast off Mariano Duncan are currently one and two in the batting race. Chris Sabo is determined to show the baseball critics that his freshman year was no luke and that he is capable of playing major league baseball. Sabo has nammered five home runs already this season. The "Nasty Boys", Randy Myers, Norm Charlton and Rob Dibble, form a dreaded threesome out of the Reds bullpen. The all-American boy, lack Armstrong, is off to a 4-0 start for the front running Reds.

New manager Lou Pinellia has the Reds running the bases and leads the National League in steals. Newcomer Billy Hatcher has added the needed ingredient to make the Reds a divisional winner this year. All these players and more await you at Riverfront Stadium. So if you don't enter, you can't win. Rules and details of the contest will appear in the sports section of Friday's Floyd County Times. Don't miss it!

David Forgan said this about golf: "It is a test of temper, a trial of honor, a revealer of character. It affords the chance to play the man and act the

Indeed, of all the games people play, golf, more than any other, is a sport of rules and respect.

Expectations govern golf. Not so much as to the final score but the way thescore was compiled. We've heard the axiom, "It isn't how, but how many." Oh, but it is how! Standards must be met. The issue is not of competency, but morality.

Dave Hill, now on the senior tour, 18 a pro of impertinence but not improbity. Dave gained reputation for "Golf is the easiest sport to cheat at," Hill has said. And yet most golf-ers don't cheat. They suffer. They grow angry. But they don't cheat.

Nor do they taunt opponents. Or argue with arbiters. Or embarrass their sport. Or themselves.

They may curse fate, but they put down the six or seven on the scorecard, and then go on to the next hole and the next challenge

And a challenge it is. If you stood around the practice green listening and watching, while Jerry Pate, a US Open winner, and Sandy Lyle, a Master's and British Open winner, grope for a stroke, you'd wonder why anyone plays. But play they do. With

Some tell the problems with mankind go back to the Garden of Eden, a little nine hole course created without the use of bulldozers. Original sin, and all that. That's the reason pitchers scuff baseballs or offensive linemen grab linebackers jerseys. You get away with what you can.

Not in golf, you don't!

"There's only one way to play the game," reminded Bobby Jones, when he called a penalty shot on himself in the 1925 U.S. Open. "You might as well praise a man for not robbing a Consider tennis, which is not the sporting equivalent of burglary but condones some questionable practices. Our role models are variations on a theme of the Katzenjammer Kids. They can handle a backhand, but not themselves.

Every tournament seems to include a major argument. Skill is overwhelmed by noise.

"McEnroe Outburst" is a headline as familiar as "Budget Deficit."

Controversies in golf have little to threw clubs as junior players. Each do with conduct. They develop because of adherence to the rules. If the book says a golfer may not build an artificial stance, then Craig Stadler, alas, may not kneel on a towel under a tree. Stadler's subsequent disqualification on the 1987 San Diego Open was unfortunate. But he accepted his fate without screaming or badgering the man who announced the ruling. You play by the rules.

The essence of golf is this: Each time you swing the club you are charged with a stroke. No official need be present. You don't need a coach or a teammate. You don't even need a playing partner. A whiff is a whiff, even if your only witness was your conscience. Golf still is one of the few games where sportsmanship exists.

College basketball has evolved into a mosaic of fans bellowing obscenities and athletes eschewing etiquette. The objective apparently is as much to embarrass an opponent as glorify

The cheap shot is well documented in football, a game of intimidation as well as coordination.

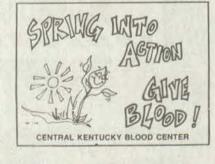

Baseball? When's the last time you heard a first baseman tell an umpire, "Sir, I believe you missed the call. The runner was safe, not out.'

The fairness doctrine persists in golf. Ball marks are repaired on greens. Traps are raked. The person following should have the same opportunity to display his talents. Or his lack of talents.

Other sports are scarred by human frailty. Golf endures because of its solitary nature, which is enforced by nature itself. The rub of the green - as we've been told when a ball lands in a divot in the middle of the

You'd love to blame the umpire or the linesmen when your tee shot drops into a pond, but there's only one person to blame. The lesson is learned

Mistakes, long ball haunt Trojans in twin bill loss

Allen Park on Friday evening was the scene of some good high school hardball as the Wheelwright Trojans and McDowell Daredevils met for a doubleheader under very warm temperatures

Mental mistakes and the long ball were not friends of the Trojans, as the Left Beaver school dropped a doubleheader to the Daredevils, 6-5, and in extra innings, 14-12.

The Trojans held the lead going into the home half of both games. Wheelwright had chances of putting the Daredevils away in both games and taking a doubleheader instead of losing two.

Case in point: two outs in the bottom of the fifth - fly ball dropped, winning run scores. Second game, fifth inning, leading 11-8, two outs, Daredevils score three runs to tie. Same game, bottom of sixth inning, two home runs, lose 14-12.

In the first game, Wheel wright was leading, 5-4, gong into the bottom of the fifth inning. Bud Kidd opened with a single to centerfield and stole second base, putting the tying run in scoring position. Jamie Martin hit a fly ball to left for the first out and Barry Hall bounced to short for out

Derrick Akers then hit, in what looked like the third out and a victory for the Trojans, a routine fly ball to centerfielder Layne Bailey. Bailey onehanded the ball and the ball squirted out of his glove for an error, allowing the tying run to cross home plate.

Akers stole second and Toby Vancelined a base hit to left center for the game-winning RBI to give the Daredevils a 6-5 come-from-behind

It was a well played ball game for both sides with each team displaying good solid baseball McDowell scored first in the second inning, taking a 2-0 lead on three base hits. Shawn Newsome singled, leading off and stole second.

Newsome came to third on a wild pitch by Trojan starter Jimmy Helton After Vance flied to left, Akers laid down a bunt for a base hit, scoring Newsome. Akers stole second and third and scored on a wild pitch by

The Trojans came back in their half of the third with four runs, to take a 4-2 lead on only one base hit. McDowell starting pitcher Bud Kidd issued three walks in the frame, and the Daredevil defense committed two Helton struck out the side in the first

Helton and Brad Compton drew back to back walks leading off the Hood struck out and Hall's grounder to short was mishandled and the bases were loaded. Bailey's base hit scored Helton and Compton. Loran Slone walked to load the bases again. Chad Allen's ground ball to second got through the legs of Vance for an error scoring both Hall and Bailey. McDowell tied the game at 4-4 on lead off triple to deep right center field off the bat of Jamie Martin. Martin was cut down at the plate when he attempted to score on a ground ball by Hall to Hood at third. Hood's throw got Martin at the plate. Shawn Newsome then roped a triple to right center, scoring Hall, and he scored on an overthrow from the outfield to third base. Vance and Akers struck out to end the inning.

Wheelwright took a 5-4 lead with one out. Compton singled and stole second and third and scored on Hall's triple to right field.

Helton suffered the loss and Kidd got the win. Helton had seven strike outs while walking only two batters.

inning. Kidd fanned seven and issued eight walks in the game. Kidd struck out the side in the fifth.

GAMETWO

In the second contest, Jamie Lawson hit a two-run home run to give McDowell a 14-12 extra inning win over the Trojans, just after Derrick Akers' solo shot tied the game.

Wheelwright held a 12-11 lead going into the bottom of the frame, and Akers led off the inning by hit-ting the ball over the left field fence. Mike Brown, who was batting for Bryant, drew a walk and immediately stole second. Lawson then parked the ball over the left field fence.

The Trojans had an 11-8 lead, on the strength of Brad Compton's fifth inning home run, going into the bot-tom of the fifth. With two out, Newsome's base hit scored Martin and Hall with the tying runs to send the game into extra innings

Wheelwright took a 4-0 lead in the second inning, sending eight batters to the plate. Robbie Wright singled. Dawson and Johnson walked to load the bases. Holbrook struck out and Helton's base hit scored both Wright and Dawson, Johnson scored on an error at short on a grounder hit by Compton. Hood picked up an RBI on a grounder to short

It was not a good day for the Trojans, who are still trying to get ready for the district in two weeks. Both ball clubs displayed some good offense and defense in the game.

Kevin Johnson was the losing pitcher for Wheelwright, and Shan-non Price was the winner in relief. Vance started for McDowell and was relieved by Lawson in the top of the Price came on to pitch when Lawson ran into trouble in the fourth when the Trojans scored six runs without the benefit of a hit.

Vance had two strikeouts, and Lawson recorded three when he struck out the side in the third inning. Price fanned four. Johnson, who went the distance for the Trojans, struck

Wheelwright left 10 runners stranded in the game, including the bases loaded in the fourth. McDowell stranded seven. McDowell had three errors and Wheelwright committed

You'll gain an appreciation for what all wildlife need most—a place to live. And perhaps the best part is, the same practices implemented in this small area will work right in your own backyard.

No longer fulfilling what its name implies, the Game Farm is shifting toward providing wildlife-related enjoyment and learning experiences for its many visitors. A look back helps explain the need to change direction. When the Game Farm was established in 1945, wildlife agencies placed their emphasis on propagating and stocking game species, and the facility was conceived and operated as a farm where game was raised literally, a "game farm."

But years of experience, both in Kentucky and across the nation, have proven that such artificial stocking is costly, inefficient and impractical. Wildlife managers now know that proper habitat is the key to healthy and varied wildlife populations.

With this change in wildlife management philosophy came the push both to improve and create wildlife habitat and to preserve existing natural areas.

The Game Farm reflects this philosophical shift by providing visitors with an excellent example of what actually benefits wildlife the most suitable habitat.

The small wildlife management area's two main features, songbird area and wetlands, are not only interconnected but almost interdepend-

For example, wetland-produced seeds, plants and native grasses, along with insects in and around the moist soil, attractand provide food for birds. Species as common as Eastern and greater-crested king birds, mourning doves and blue jays often visit the area, as well as uncommon birds such as little green herons, orchard orioles and hooded warblers.

BREASTFEEDING AND MEDICATION

A woman's concern for her overall health should not end with the delivery of her child. The mother who breast-feeds must be careful about any medication that she takes because the infant is exposed to the medicines that a nursing mother ingests. The amount of this exposure is dependent upon several factors. These include the dosage taken by the mother, when it was taken, the properties of the medicine, its degree of solubility, its pH, and the degrees to which the medicine is able to attach itself to body proteins. In some cases, certain of these factors may contribute to a higher concentration of the medication in the mother's milk than in her own blood. Therefore, a mother should never assume that a medication is safe for her nursing infant simply because it is safe for her.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY we're here to answer your questions where your medications or over the counter remedies are concerned. Our patient profile system allows us to check for drug interactions and allergic reactions. You'll find us located at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3. Everyone in the '30s were nicknamed. Windy Britches, for instance, cursed a lot and was the brunt of pranks to keep him thus engaged. One Halloween night, young pranksters pushed over his newly constructed outhouse. Being a rainy time, he found tracks in the mud around it, measured them with a stick, and carried the stick around to measure the feet of probable culprits. He correctly guessed the ones who did the deed, but they, of course, never admitted it.

He was my favorite because he we could buy candy at the store.

'Sawmill," named because a sawmill blew up and injured him, awoke on Nov. 31, about 1932, to find a sawmill painted on the side of his cow. White rings encircled her eyes and her tail had been shaved. One boy who was accused directly gave him a plug of tobacco and a watch chain and was immediately forgiven.

"Ketch" was not the only one who did the art work. "Pig" helped him, but "Ketch" did not implicate "Pig." It was not that they were mean; it was because they were full of fun, and the cow looked so funny

I hope nobody gets angry if they recognize these names. I tell this because I think they were so cute, and paid us children for our junk iron so all was done in fun, without wanting to hurt anyone.

> When I was young, I lived in dread fear of a comet coming over and wrecking our house with its long tail. Any noise heard might be a warning of impending doom or of a death in the family. Dreams were interpreted by standards handed down through the years. Dream of a death is a sign of a wedding. Dream of a wedding is a sign of death. Most people believed in ghosts and had either seen one or knew someone who had. No one had gotten hurt by one, though.

There are some in this community who do not believe that the astronauts have been to the moon. They believe the scenes were simulated here on earth. Like everyone else, they believe pretty much what they want to believe.

Most believe in God and are basi-cally good. The sinful become forgiven and can be highly religious. There are those who live out their lives afraid to do the normal things in life for fear of criticism, ridicule or that someone in their family will be displeased. In compensating, family members are very loyal to each other.

The sneaky ones do as they please, keep it hushed up and enjoy the same regard as the innocent. If the innocent knew of this double role, their lives would be much more rewarding.

To warrant status and prestige, you have had to be clever in keeping your house and sharing your goodly store of wealth some way with everyone. Not too much to share, but just enough to let it be known that you had it. A moral reputation is kept along with double standards. Some keep their name clear, even if they have to do it by force or threat of violence, in secret.

Whee! If we haven't covered some territory. We have gone from 1606 to 1990, almost 400 years. Was it really worth Ratcliffe and Martin's effort to leave England to come to America? I would say that it certainly was.

They relieved the overcrowding of the old world by opening up a new territory, gained their political free-dom, no longer had to be ruled by a king whose wishes had to be attended to, and gave to us the new way of life just as they had planned to do.

Poor people can live independ-ently rich here in our setting as long as we can pay our gas and electric bills. We can add to our homes as we get more prosperous and include more modern conveniences. Most of us have inside bathrooms, telephones, cable TV and can live without farming or digging coal. Every time I stand over my forced air furnace register to thaw out, I thank those who have made it possible.

Now I have begun to thank Ratcliffe and Martin for getting the show on the road.

Onions, onion, onions, they are a stable of the mountain diet. Many people like their onions raw; just sprinkle some salt on 'em and chop em down. Others prefer to use them in every day cooking.

It would be difficult to imagine any vegetable that would be missed more than the onion and its family if suddenly they were withdrawn from our markets. As a flavoring agent in stews, soups, salads, meat and fish dishes, as an accompaniment to meats, even as a main dish in some cases, the onion has no peer.

Onions supply generous amounts of vitamin C and B, important minerals and an abundance of chemical compounds that are potent disease fighters. Recent research shows that onions have properties that help prevent cancer, lower blood cholesterol levels and inhibit blood clotting.

So try some of these delicious onion recipes; they're good for you.

WAYLAND AREA SENIOR CITIZENS

Mildred Halbert, center director

The Board of Directors of the Wayland Area Senior Citizens met Monday, April 23, with all but two of the directors present. The meeting was conducted by Elmer Morrison, chairperson.

Libby Martin was elected secretary following the resignation of Velma Bentley from that office. Bonnie Hale, Director for Aging with Big Sandy Area Development District, reported that a homemaker is in the Wayland area for home care for any senior who qualifies for it. She also passed out several copies of the 1991 Fiscal Year Budget.

Director Halbert advised that she will be setting a date to be at Bentley's market at Topmost in Knott County from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. to register prospective members. She also advised that the center is delivering 10 meals three days a week to homebound seniors. When asked what the criteria was for such delivery, Hale advised that each request is considered as to need, such as the person being unable to cook for herself or himself, has no one living in the house that could do the cooking, or has no neighbor or relative who is coming in with food. Telephone requests may be made to Halbert at 358-4161, and she will mark each case as to priority. As of July 1, the number of home delivered meals may increase to 15, five days a week.

Hale also advised that the home care program will be doubled next year with possibly some additional services in the area, such as day care for seniors whose primary care persons have to be at work or have to go somewhere during the day.

Halbert reported that picnic tables are being made for the Wayland Center by Christian Appalachian Project. She also reported that 15 have signed up to compete in the Senior Olympics at Jenny Wiley State Park, May 18, and also advised that the Wayland Center now has the game of horseshoes available. She reported the number for lunch at the center had increased to 52 as of April 18.

Hale reported that Highlands Regional Medical Center will have medical personnel taking blood pressures at the Senior Olympics on May 18, also that Cooley Medical Equipment will be furnishing apples and bananas, McDonalds will have orange drink and cookies, Pepsi-Cola will be furnishing soft drinks, the Rescue Squad will be there and an ambulance in case of emergency. She also reported that there has not been such an emergency in the four prior years. She reiterated that T-shirts and medals would be furnished for the participants and that anyone is welcome to come and observe if he or she does not wish to participate in the contests.

The next meeting of the Board was set for Tuesday, May 22 at 7 p.m. ast year, over 45,000 people sought treatment at Highlands, more than double the number of 10 years ago.

Many received the more sophisticated kinds of care that simply weren't offered here in 1979, for heart disease, cancer, lung disease and sleep disorders, to name just a few.

We keep getting better at diagnosing-finding out what's wrong-with advanced technologies like mammography, ultrasound, computerized pulmonary diagnostics, C.A.T. Scan, echocardiography, special chemistry diagnostics and pathology services. There's also cardiac catheterization and phacoemulsification (a new procedure for cataracts). Because we can now detect and identify your problems sooner, we have a better chance of solving them sooner. But that's only one of the reasons we're getting better at treatment, too.

It's the world-class professionals at Highlands, the employees and physicians who make the difference. It's our skills that make the technology work. It's our dedication that serves you 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. It's our commitment to growth that makes us keep getting better at everything we do.

Early detection combined with more advanced treatment programs all add up to saving more lives and saving more Eastern Kentuckians the expense and the stress of long trips to distant cities for the care they need.

Highlands is community owned and serves just one single purpose: To provide more and better care to our own...

Fortunately, natural gas leaks are rare. But if one should occur, you have everything it takes to spot the telltale signs...the ability to see, hear and smell.

INSIDE

The most obvious sign is the smell. Natural gas by itself usually is odorless, so gas companies add a distinctive odor to gas.

If you smell this telltale odor in your home, don't use matches, electrical switches or appliances. Leave the house immediately, then call the gas company from a neighbor's home or pay telephone. Remain near your home until a gas company representative arrives and checks the cause of the odor.

OUTSIDE

You may detect a natural gas leak anywhere gas lines or facilities are located. Sometimes, the sign may be the odor. But in rural areas, natural gas pipelines may contain non-odorized gas. A leak of non-scented gas means little or no odor will be present. So count on your other senses as well.

Look or listen for these signs. Anywhere a gas line is located, a leak may cause:

- · a blowing or hissing sound
- · dirt being blown into the air
- · water bubbling or being blown into the air at a pond, creek or river
- · brown patches in vegetation on or near a gas line right-of-way
- · fire coming from the ground or burning

If you detect any sign of a leak, follow these steps quickly: 1) leave the area at once, and warn others to stay away; and 2) find a telephone away from the area to call the gas company, and the fire and police departments. DO NOT try to extinguish a gas fire or operate any pipeline valves.

Chances are you'll never need to recognize a natural gas leak. But just in case, we think it's important for you to be able to detect signs of trouble. Together, we'll keep natural gas service safe and efficient.
