Group to focus on new jobs

As of Monday night, The Floyd County Economic Development Authority is fully manned and ready to begin work.

At a swearing-in ceremony held at the Holiday Inn, Prestonsburg, the following people took an oath to work towards creating jobs and boosting the economy within the county: Burl Wells Spurlock, Raymond Bradbury, Julius G. Martin, Delores Smith, Paul Gearheart and H.D. "Buddy" Fitzpatrick. All are business people operating in Floyd County and have volunteered to serve.

On hand for the ceremony and reception where Secretary of the Kentucky Economic Development Council Gene Royalty, State Representative Greg Stumbo, President of the Kentucky Job Authority in Hindman Bill Weinburg, Leon Huffman of the Pike County Economic Development Authority, county officials and other industrial business people.

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said he sees formation of the group as a new beginning and he feels confident that the authority can do what it was created for. The three-part goal of the members is: To aid in the acquisition, retention and development of land for industrial and commercial purposes; to aid in the development and promotion of industrial sites, parks and subdivisions for accommodating industrial and commercial needs; and to promote and stimulate the acquisition, retention and development by other local development organizations, both public and private, of land for industrial and commercial purposes in and near Floyd County.

The proposed hiring of an individual with expertise in the field of economic development is still pending the availablity of funds and the ability to find such a person. Funding for the authority is to be shared between both the county and city govemments.

Hager reverses decision to cancel football contests:

On-again, off-again games are on, again

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Floyd County school superintendent Ronald Hager declared Thursday afternoon that tonight's (Friday) high school football games will be played as scheduled.

"With tomorrow (Friday) being an in-service day and schools will be open, we will have the ballgames," Hager told the Times. Hager also said that each school needs to contact the Kentucky High School Athletic Association regarding team practice, to see if they are in compliance with state practice-time requirements.

Now, I'm upset. I don't think our kids should be punished and I think the school board should allow them to play.

Mrs. Justice, who works in the Trojans' Booster Club concession stand every game along with other parents, said that getting a concession together on the spur of the moment isn't easy.

"This isn't something we can do all at once," she said. "It takes a lot of work. I usually go to the store for the team on Thursdays and, you can ask anyone, sometimes I have to make three or four trips.

We totally support our team and that's an incentive to work hard for our kids," she further explained. "The high school pays 25 percent of the cost of jackets for the seniors and we

Mary Wallen, one of the parents who had a chance to meet with Mr. Hager, came away with a positive feeling about the games being resumed.

"I met with Mr. Hager representing all the schools," said Wallen of her meeting with the superintendent. "He was very cooperative and he explained to me why the games were carrceled. He was very giving of his time to the players and parents."

Hager, later announced to the players, after meeting with captains of teams from Wheelwright and Allen Central, that the games would go on. "Mr. Hager did meet with the team captains and assured them that he would let them play if he could," added Wallen. "He did explain to them why he had to

According to Wallen, the players were elated over the announcement by Hager, "They took notice that they were there and was willing to listen to them."

Brett Meadows represented the Allen Central team and James Branham was spokesman for Wheelwright. No one was present to represent Prestonsburg or Betsy Layne.

"We like to feel that our being there somehow persuaded Mr. Hager to find a way to allow the games to go on as scheduled," Mrs. Wallen remarked.

If the games are not played schools must forfeit the contests and pay the forfeit fees called for in contracts volving Paintsville and Wheelwright, a $1,000 forfeit fee is at stake.

"It's all up in the air right now whether we are going to play or not," explained coach Roger Johnson of Wheelwright. "Mr. Hager is calling the shots now. We stand to lose close to $3,000 if the game is canceled. The contract forfeit fee, concession stand and gate receipts. I know the school doesn't have $1,000 to pay."

"Parents have been calling me and I just told them to call Mr. Hager," he explained further. "There is no way we can make the game up unless both teams have the same open date." Wheelwright's open date is October and Paintsville has no open date.

"I'm not all that upset about it," said a calm Mrs. Cruise Caudill, who's son plays for the Trojans. "I don't think the board should put pressure on the kids and interfere in their playing football. The kids are not on strike the teacher are. In the wintertime, if there is not school they play basketball, what's the difference now?"

The Floyd County Board of Education issued the cancellation order Wednesday afternoon.

"I think the decision is outrageous," related Mary Wallen, a longtime supporter of Allen Central football. "I think they are jeopardizing every team in the county from having the possibility of playing in the playoffs this year. Canceled games cannot be rescheduled. I think that politics has interfered with the students in the school system too long. Politics in our school system interferes with everything.'

"Our school cannot afford (a forfeiture fee of) $1,000," she added. "Our boys are really upset. I'm not blaming the teachers, they have to do their thing and our young men need to do what they have to do. It just makes me stop and wonder if everything here is above board."

Wallen's son, Brian, is a senior at Allen Central this year and plays for the Rebels' football team. "Brian is very angry over the action of Mr.

and this season means a lot to him. It will be his last chance to go to a playoff."

bit more vocal in her assessment. "I think it is awful what they are doing to the kids," she remarked. "It's just hatefulness on Mr. Hager's part. He is just trying to get the kids to blame the teachers, it's not the insurance. Their insurance isn't any good any-

Some parents thought the reason for cancellation of the games was due to insurance problems, but Mrs. Meadows said the blame belongs with Hager. "If he wanted to settle this thing he could have. I hope the teachers hold until they get what they want."
"It's a bad thing," echoed Allen

Central coach Dewey Jamerson. "No school, no sport. A lot of teachers don't care if there are sports or not. If we don't play we forfeit and pay the forfeit fee. In football you sure can't play back to back games."

There was some question as whether last week's games were legal. According to Billy Wise, with the ing the death of a loved one will meet Kentucky High School Athletic Association, the games last week are not affected. "Yes, the games were legal and do count," Wise said in a telephone interview Wednesday after-to cancel any game in his district," Wise explained. "The state association has given the schools permission to play (during the strike), but the decision to cancel can come from the superintendent because he has been put there to oversee the school district. Also," Wise added, "we would hope that whoever makes the decision to cancel will weigh all matters before making the decision."

Wise said that if a team is playing an important district game and has to forfeit that game and wins the remaining ones, that one loss could prove fatal to their chances of making the playoffs.

The two schools involved in district games are Wheelwright and "If we have to cancel, we will forfeit," said Bill Letton, head football coach at Prestonsburg. "As far as Evelyn Meadows, mother of Al-rescheduling the game, we can ask, signed the schools. Betsy Layne head coach, Gerald Newsome, said as far he was concerned his game with Magoffin County was still on.

Hager confirmed that position Thursday when he reversed his earlier decision to cancel the games and announced that the contests could be played Friday.

It is football as usual for Wheelwright, Prestonsburg, Allen Central and Betsy Layne.

Operating a boat while intoxicated is just a dangerous and illegal as drunken driving. Alcohol is believed to be a factor in more than 50 percent of boating accidents that result in death. It induces fatigue and affect coordination and balance, and when combined with the motion and engine noise of the boat and the affects of sun, wind and glare, can be a deadly combination for someone on the water. The National Safe Boating Council and the Corps of Engineers recommends that you leave the beer and alcohol at home. An intoxicated individual is a danger on the water. A moment of dizziness in a restaurant might result in an embarrassing stumble, but the same misstep on a small, unstable boat can end in a drowning. More than half the boating fatalities in 1989 involved falls overboard, or capsizing, accidents that often result form impaired coordination and balance. Making History

Dear Editor:

Webster's New American Dictionary defines democracy as "rule by the people; a community so governed." Floyd County teachers are certainly making history and teaching history while on the picket lines. We are teaching history simply by standing up for what we believe is right. As always, with that belief, come those who don't share that belief. We respect that choice.

A Prestonsburg parent told a striking teacher that she was satisfied with her child's education so far. We're sure this is true. Why? Because her child's teachers had purchased puzzles, learning games, records, art supplies and play equipment out of their won pockets. These supplies enhance an education far beyond boardadopted textbooks.

It is time for parents to ask questions that teachers have been asking. Will your child have supplies when we return to the classroom? How can a school board be allocated $5.4 million and not be accountable to the public as to where it goes.? Do your children have art, music and physical education taught to them by teachers certified in those areas in those areas? Questions can sometimes get results, and luckily, some parents have begun to question.

Teachers at Prestonsburg Elementary have no planning period. We're expected to work seven hours a day with a twenty minute lunch period. We take papers home to grade, make materials, and prepare for the next day and the upcoming week all on our own time. yet we are expected to be content while administrators are given a huge increase in salaries (without public notice).

In conclusion, those of us who choose to strike will no longer pay for the enhancement of this school system. Money will not come out of our pockets for math manipulatives, science fairs, Young Author's or any other mandated programs. It's time someone else started standing up for what's right or, better yet, what's not right.

Sincerely, Callie Carroll John Clark Donna Collins Paula Collins Bobby Hale Danette Hazelett Ann Howard Sue Martin Kaye McGuire Connie Parsons Mary Scutchfield Mary Scinta Marcella Slone Deborah Walker

Patronage is the practice of favoring in employment or promotion decisions those who are in the appropriate political party or who are "politically connected."

Many people feel that the public interest is not served by patronage because it allows less qualified applicants to be hired or promoted for political reasons. But others say it is only natural for people to reward their friends with jobs. In Kentucky, many observers say state and local governments, as well as school systems, regularly practice patronage.

Recently, the US Supreme Court addressed the problem of patronage in a case filed against the Republican Party of Illinois. Those who filed the suit said that the Republican Governor of Illinois froze hiring for 60,000 state government jobs, then required that all hiring and promotion requests go through his Office of Personnel for approval.

The plaintiffs alleged that the Governor's Office screened the requests to see whether the person had voted in the last Republican primary, contributed to a candidate, or had the support of the Republican party before taking a personnel action. They argued that this tremendous power over jobs wielded by the Republican Party put undue political pressure on employees and potential employees.

The Supreme Court found that this pressure interferes with the political freedoms guaranteed by the First Amendment, which forbids governments from controlling free

The Supreme Court rejected the argument that patronage is necessary to induce people to participate in the party system, finding that political parties can also be "nurtured by other, less intrusive, and equally effective methods." The Court said that in the context of patronage, the issue is "whether the government, without sufficient justification, is pressuring employees to discontinue the free exercise of their First Amendment rights." The Supreme Court found that such practices as firing, hiring, denying promotions, and denying transfers for political reasons violated that test.

The use of patronage for hiring and other employment decisions is best prevented by a properly functioning merit or civil service system, based on qualifications such as edu-ance. Ideally, decisions are made by professional staff people responsible for insuring the agency's effectiveness, without the input of people such as political party officials.

In Kentucky, statutes require a civil service system for state government and for first class cities. (Louisville is the only one in Kentucky.) Second through fifth class cities may pass an ordinance to create a civil service system for employees. Counties may elect by ordinance to establish a civil service system for employees of the county fire and police departments. Urban county governments may establish a civil service system for employees under their comprehensive plans. (Lexington-Fayette County is the only place in Kentucky which has elected to operate as an urban county government.)

And of course, the recent school reform law attempted to eliminate patronage from the school systems through such measures as forbidding political activities by teachers and transferring most hiring decisions from superintendents to principals, who are accountable for the progress of their schools.

The Supreme Court's ruling found cation, experience and job perform- long standing practices of patronage hiring to violate individual rights. This ruling will have its greatest effect on local governments that have characteristically relied on the patronage system rather than the merit system for hiring and promotion de-

Any employee of a city, county or local agency who is fired or not hired for political reasons may file a lawsuit in federal court against the agency, to get his or her job back, or to get the job for which he or she would have been hired if political influence had not prevented it. Such cases can be hard to prove, but patronage practices will not cease unless those who are victims of it seek fair treatment through the courts.

How do things work in your city or county? Is patronage often considered in hiring decisions? Have you or has someone you know been the victim of political discrimination? Do you think the patronage system is desirable? Write to the Kentucky Local Governance Project, 433 Chestnut St., Berea 40403. All ideas will be preserved in an "idea bank" that will be used to develop a strategic plan for improving local governance in Kentucky.

As the days of the school strike come to an end it is important for all parties concerned to consider that one of the most important aspects of the educational process is a stable environment.

Stability at home requires unity and agreement between the parents. As the authority figures for the children they must live by the old adage, "United we stand divided we fall." Without this unity parents no longer can effectively rear their children.

In fact, the center of power that determines the operation of the home shifts from parents to children when there is division among those in authority. This spells disaster. Children are not in the position to know how to run their homes so as to establish stable environments that will help them reach their potential and develop their talents.

The children who assume control in their homes because there is no clear source of authority are normally not anarchists. Usually, they are trying to make the best of a bad situation. However, the possibility of children trying to take over decision making to instinctively manipulate their environment should not be disregarded either. When left to fend for themselves children live in chaos.

School boards, school administrators, school staffs, and teachers act as agents for the parents, according to the moral law, in serving the needs of their children. Therefore, there is a direct parallel between the relationship of children to parental authority and to school authority. In fact, one could consider these two as husband and wife. If they fail to agree, fail to work together, and choose to co-exist in disharmony they surrender the leadership of our schools to the chil-

Perhaps the greatest mistake in our school system is yet to be made. If, as a result of this strike, we send a clear signal to our children that there is neither unity between parents and school authorities, nor between teachers and school administration, then division will drive the wedge of chaos into our school system and destroy it's efforts. Should this happen all of us will suffer, especially our chil-

Perhaps, this moment in history affords us the greatest opportunity to make the most of our school system. Now we can create a stable atmosphere which is the seed ground of education. If parents show their children that they are both committed to the value of education and make amends for any way they have not promoted it; if parents, teachers and school authorities apologize for their past mistakes, acknowledge past success and, in fact, work together for the common good then education's future will be bright, especially, in Floyd County.

Help is ready if troops called

Members of the Kentucky Committee for Employers Support of the Guard and Reserve are ready to help with employee relations problems if Kentucky Guardsmen and Reservists are activated during the current Middle East buildup, according to Edward F. Hessel Jr., state chairper-

The Committee, a Department of Defense sponsored organization, is made up of volunteers whose duty is to smooth the differences that may arise between an employer and his citizen soldier employee.

"A Reservist/Guardsman has an obligation to keep his or her employer completely informed of active duty requirements and time tables. By the same token, the employer has a moral and legal obligation to facilitate the employee's compliance with military requirements," Hessel added.

If a problem arises the employer should contact the unit of assignment to which the employee belongs. If that fails to clear the problem, he should contact Hessel at (502) 459-1690 or national headquarters at 1-800-336-4590.

Kentucky wins $2.4 million private grant for Children's Mental Health Care

Kentucky will receive $1.4 million — and possibly up to $2.4 million — in private funds to implement "Bluegrass IMPACT," an intensive treatment program to serve an estimated 1300 children with severe mental disorders, Gov. Wallace G. Wilkinson announced recently.

The competitive grant is from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, the nation's largest health care philanthropic organization. The Cabinet for Human Resources has bee awarded $1.4 million over the next two years and, after a review by the foundation, an additional $1 million may be granted.

"This is a momentous achievement on behalf of Kentucky's emotionally troubled children," Wilkinson said.

With this grant, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation is recognizing the work by this administration and the General Assembly to move Kentucky significantly forward in terms of non-institutional, communitybased treatment options for youth with severe mental health problems."

Human Resources Secretary Harry J. Cowherd, MD, said "Gov. Wilkinson and the 1990 legislature approved $19 million to support the development of community-based treatment and the improvement of hospitalbased services for severely emotionally disturbed (SED) children in the greatest need.

"The Foundation was particularly impressed with state-local cooperation on plans to implement 'Bluegrass IMPACT.

" 'Bluegrass IMPACT' will be a full range of community and familybased resources for SED children in the 17-county Bluegrass region," he said. "We hope it will be a model which can be expanded to other areas of the state.'

Commissioner Dennis Boyd of the Cabinet's Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services said, " 'Bluegrass IMPACT family during the transitional period (Interagency Mobilization for Progress in Adolescent and Children's Treatment), which involves more than 65 agencies, centers around individualized treatment plans tailored to the child and family.

Priority will be given to children, age two through 21, who are hospitalized, at-risk of hospitalization or have had multi-residential placements. Services to be provided include the following:

* Case management or service coordination will be provided for each child, assuring continued cooperation between the various agencies.

*School Support Services of group and individual counseling, teacher training and a liaison between family and school officials.

* Intensive In-Home Case Management by a mental health professional on skill building, behavior management and problem specific counseling.

* Therapeutic Foster Care — A child with special emotional needs will be placed in homes with guardians trained to handle those special

* Residential Support Services—

* Wraparound Services - Respite care and other services to enhance the standard of living for the child and family and may not be readily available.

* Parent Advocacy Groups -Parent support and advocacy groups serving six counties have developed in the past six months and others are

* Summer Programs — Half-day and full-day activity programs during summer vacation for children who still need structured activities.

"There are several levels to 'Bluegrass IMPACT'," Boyd said. "On the administrative front, the State Interagency Council and the Regional Interagency Council function as policy makers and problem solvers.

'The 17 county area is divided up into three sections with Local Admissions and Review Committees deciding which children to serve, reviewing available and proposed services and facilitating local coopera-

New drug helps infants breath

The Food and Drug Administration has approved the use of a drug that is life saving for premature infants who have Respiratory Distress

This drug has been available to infants in the neonatal intensive care unit at the Methodist Hospital since January and is also utilized in the neonatal units at the University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center and Cabell Huntington Hospital.

The newly approved drug, Exosurf Neonatal, was made available to the infants at Methodist through an expanded treatment program. The program was administered by the Burroughs Wellcome Company and was approved by the US Food and Drug Administration.

Exosurf is the most thoroughly studied surfactant in history. In addi-

10,000 infants received Exosurf Neonatal through the expanded access program which involved more than 400 hospitals in the United States including Methodist.

Respiratory Distress Syndrome is a disease that many premature babies develop and it is caused by a lack of surfactant in immature lungs. Scientists discovered that physicians can replace the missing surfactant with an artificial one which would reduce the surface tension and allow the infant to breath. Exosurf is a synthetic surfactant that helps maintain lung inflation and prevents lungs from collapsing.

Studies show that Exosurf Neonatal reduces death and complications that are associated with Respiratory Distress Syndrome. If given within 24 hours of birth, the surfactant has reduced death from respirator distress by 66 percent and death at one

Smart Shopper's Club fraudulent

A default judgment has been obtained against the operators of the socalled Smart Shopper's Club, according to Attorney General Fred Cowan. The Court action obtained by Cowan's Consumer Protection Office prohibits the Club from continuing its illegal activities and awards the Attorney General a judgment for civil penalties and restitution to consumers. The dollar amount of the penalties and restitution are not specified in the judgment and will be determined at a later date.

On June 21, the Attorney General's office filed suit in Jefferson Circuit Court and obtained a restraining order against Unimax, Inc., a Utah corporation; More Financial Services of California; and two individuals, also from out of state, who operated the Smart Shopper's Club. Prior to the Attorney General's suit, Smart Shopper's marketed to consumers in the Louisville, Lexington and Bowling Green areas.

"The Smart Shopper's Club had experience in other states and moved into Kentucky with a sophisticated operation. They made a lot of promises to a lot of Kentucky consumers who have received nothing in return," Cowan says.

According to affidavits filed with the lawsuit, members of the Club were asked to pay $60 per month for coupons allegedly worth $70 that could be used at any grocery store of

The ten trees are the Sugar Maple, White Flowering Dogwood, Pin Oak, White Pine, Red Maple, Birch, American Redbud, Silver Maple, Red Oak and Colorado Blue Spruce.

"These trees were selected to provide benefits every season of the year: lovely spring flowers, cool summer shade, spectacular autumn colors, and winter berries and nesting sites for songbirds," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director,

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between October 15 and December 10 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to 12 inch trees are guarantted to grow or they will be replaced free of

Members were also offered the opportunity to make money by soliciting new members into the Club as part of an illegal pyramid scheme, according to the suit.

20. "It appears that the operators of the Smart Shopper's Club knew that their scheme was fraudulent and decided not to defend against our Consumer Protection suit," Attorney General Cowan says.

The next task for the Attorney General's Office is to locate all of the Club's members in Kentucky so that an exact figure for restitution and period and a default judgment was civil penalties can be computed.

The facility will be the first major recycling operation in Kentucky, Addington said. The state currently generates about 4.6 million tons of solid waste annually.

The recycling facility, which is initially designed to handle 400 tons of solid waste per day but can be expanded to handle up to 1000 tons per day, is located in Boyd County, about three miles from the Green Valley Landfill.

Warning against energy-related scams

Cowan and the Federal Trade Commission are warning consumers to be on the lookout for scams and rip-offs that take advantage of consumers' concerns about supplies or petroleum following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait. These fraudulent schemes may range from phony gas-saving devices or other energy-saving devices that don't work as advertised, to oil and gas investment frauds.

"Consumers should be especially cautious at this time about products sold as energy-savers or good investment opportunities," says Janet D. Steiger, Chairperson of the FTC.

Cowan, who served this past year as chairperson of the Attorneys General/FTC Work Group, says "past experience has taught us that con artists will exploit situations like the present one to take advantage of consumers." He says consumers should be particularly on-guard against telemarketers offering energyrelated products such as "gasoline savings" devices over the phone. "With gas prices as high as they are, motorists are understandably looking for ways to cut costs," Cowan says. "However, consumers should steer clear of devices claiming to significantly increase fuel mileage. They clearly have not been found to be effective."

The FTC and the Attorney General are reactivating the Energy Fraud Clearinghouse that was created in 1983, which is a way of sharing information on possible fraudulent energy-related products and advertising. It helps state, local and federal law enforcement officials stay on top of emerging problems involving energy-related products and services flooding the market. Cowan says anyone who has been the victim of an energy-related scam should call his a sever hardship, particularly since they hit all consumers regardless of their income level or ability to pay."

Cowan says the complicated interstate nature of the oil market limits the ability of individual state Attorneys General to effectively investigate gasoline pricing. "However, we will certainly investigate any consumer complaints that come into my office." Cowan advises consumers to price-compare and shop around for the lowest gasoline prices in their

Blackcats face early hurdle in defending district title

With the season just three weeks old and the Prestonsburg Blackcats playing only their second game of the year, Coach Bill Letton's chargers are going to be put to an early challenge as the Yellowjackets of Whitesburg come calling at the Prestonsburg Field.

Whitesburg, 2-0, will be coming into Blackcat territory with last year's 7-6 loss on their minds.

"Yeah, we haven't forgotten last year's game at home against Prestonsburg," said the Yellowjackets head coach, Tom Searcy. "If you remember, we had a touchdown called back on us after the fifth play."

Whitesburg Yellowjackets Record: 2-0 Last Week: Defeated Elkhorn City 14-0 Next Week: Jenkins, away

Coach Searcy said that the Yellowjackets are having to rebuild their offensive line this year but they return a strong defensive line.

Lenny Bates, who came on in the fifth game last year for the Yellowjackets, will be at the quarterback position for Coach Searcy's team. Also in the backfield will be Owen Gibson, 5-10, 185, at fullback. The slot back will be John Combs.

"Craig Abernathy, who came out late last season and didn't play until the Jenkins game, will play the split end spot," said Searcy. Abernathy had 101-yards in receptions against Cawood, the Yellowjackets' first

Chris Hall will be at the tight end position. The offensive line will be led by Danny Brown and the Yellowjackets' messenger at right guard will be either Shawn Brown or Freddy Thomas. Right tackle will be Shawn

The Yellowjackets will stick with their "five" defense.

Whitesburg owns an opening win over always tough Cawood, 21-19. "It was an up and down battle," Searcy stated. "We'd take the lead, then they would. We finally scored two touchdowns and went up 21-13. Then they took a punt return for a long TD run to make it 21-19. They missed on the two point conversion."

Whitesburg defeated Elkhorn City last Friday night, 14-0, in a game that coach Searcy said was rough on the

'The game was scoreless until the final quarter," he said. "We scored two touchdowns in the fourth quarter. We got inside their 20-yard line eight times and only converted twice. We just didn't play good against Elkhorn City. It was the type of game that made you pull your hair out and what you didn't pull out turned gray."

Prestonsburg will be looking to get off to a good start in their second game of the season and also the team's second district game. Mike Hobson (5-11, 205) will be one running back for the Blackcats. John Goble (5-9, 155), halfback, who scored a TD last week against Betsy Layne will provide the speed the Cats will need.

Aaron Tucker (6-1, 163) will call the signals for Prestonsburg and will have Worthie McGuire (6-3, 150) at the split end spot. John Clark (5-11, 144), who seemed to do it all against Betsy Layne, will run at halfback for the Cats. Clark scored two TDs and tossed for a third against Betsy Layne.

Prestonsburg Blackcats Record: 1-0 Last Week: Defeated Betsy Layne 30-0 Next Week: Johnson Central at home

Prestonsburg, 1-0, will need a good defensive effort from its defensive line. The Blackcats demonstrated their defensive ability in their 30-0 win over Betsy Layne last Friday

Game time is 8 p.m. at the Prestonsburg Field and it should be a good one!

This Prestonsburg JV ball carrier was brought down by the Belfry Pirates' JV defense in junior varsity football play at Belfry. Prestonsburg defeated the younger Pirates 8-0 for their first win ever at Belfry.

WW Hopes To Take "Put A Tiger In Their Tank" In District Game

The Wheelwright Trojans will have their work cut out for them in tonight's first district game as the Paintsville Tigers of Coach Walter Brugh, who is 20 wins away from becoming Kentucky's winningest high school coach, rolls into Brackett Field. The Tigers, 2-0, will be coming off a big win over Allen Central, 41-0, last Friday night in a big defensive showing.

Paintsville Tigers Record: 2-0 Last Week: Defeated Allen Central 41-0 Next Week: Open

The Tigers, who pack a potent backfield, will be led by last year's tight end turned quarterback, Billy Phelps (6-3, 215). Phelps tossed for 146-yards against Allen Central last Friday night, hitting Matt Williams (5-7, 165) for three touchdowns.

The Tigers not only have an air game, but they know how to grind it out on the ground and have the talent to accomplish both, even though they graduated three out of their backfield last season — Jeremy Holbrook, Greg Slone and Tucker Howard. First man out of the Tiger slot back spot will be Brad Tiller (5-9, 175) who rushed for 60-yards against the Rebels on eight carries. Also in the Tigers' scheme of things is Eddie Young (5-8, 175), 40yards on seven carries versus Allen Central. Throw in Matt Kazee (5-11, 185) and the Tigers are loaded. Mike Eldridge will lead the Tigers' de-

Wheelwright, who lost to Fairview on a bucketload of mistakes, will look to regroup and look to Freshman Arnold Adams (6-1, 193) to lead the way. Adams has been a bright spot for Coach Roger Johnson's Trojans this year. The first-year carrier totaled 54-yards on 11 carries.

The Trojans' air attack against Fairview, a 18-8 loss, last Friday was ineffective except for a touchdown toss from Steven Johnson (6-0, 165) to split end Bryan Rhea (6-0, 190).

The Trojans suffered a big loss to the team when Ryan Johnson (5-7, 153) came up lame with a bruised foot. According to Coach Johnson, his halfback will be out for awhile. "It when he will return," he said. Also others on defense. Chris Hamby and out for the Trojans is Alan Newman Clayton Hamilton, five tackles vertwo games. Newman should be back for the Evarts game, said Johnson. Greg Burke (6-1, 150) has returned to with just the ground game of the the team and has been practicing.

Wheelwright Trojans

Johnson, the team has had some good practices during the week, especially the speciality teams.

The Trojans will be led on defense by senior James Branham (6-0, 190), who had 11 tackles against Fairview last Friday night. Rhea will also be on the defensive line for Wheelwright. The senior has had 18 tackles in the first two games for the Trojans. Mike Justice (5-7, 205), who also had seven will depend on the doctors okay as to tackles against Fairview, will join the (6-0, 185) who has missed the first sus Fairview, will give the Trojans a loaded line.

The Trojans can not be concerned Tigers, but the throwing arm of Wheelwright must cut down on Phelps, too. Game time is 8 p.m. at their mental mistakes. According to Brackett Field.

P'burg JV defeat Belfry JV 8-0 for first over jr. Pirates

Prestonsburg Junior Varsity football squad on Monday finally defeated the Junior Varsity at Belfry. The schools have been playing each other for several seasons and the junior Blackcats were never able to win at Belfry. This time the Blackcats defense brought the game home.

said JV coach Jack Goodman. "Bel- it was. fry got inside our 10-yard line twice and the defense held them."

The lone score for Prestonsburg

The streak has been stopped. The came in the second quarter after Jason Crisp intercepted a Belfry pass and ran the ball 92-yards for a touchdown. Halfback Dwayne Garza ran the conversion for a 8-0 lead.

"Jason and Dwayne had a real good game for us," said the junior varsity mentor. "We only had four or five first downs in the game. That "Our defense kept us in the game," tells you what kind of defensive game

Each team turned the ball over one time. Prestonsburg's turnover was a fumble that Belfry recovered.

Allen Central travels to Phelps for non-district game

Dewey Jamerson will take his Rebel Smith will move from center to the football team into Pike County to other tackle. The guard slots will be face a struggling Phelps Hornet team tonight in a 8 p.m. start.

The Rebels will be coming off of a disappointing 41-0 loss to the Paintsville Tigers. However, the Rebels were forced to play the game with starting quarterback B.J. Aldrich out with an injury.

Phelps, 0-1, opened their season last week with a road game at Matewan, W. Va., where they suffered a 28-12 setback. Phelps coach Kerry Fannin is very optimistic about his young Hornets team. Phelps returns seven starters from last year's 5-5 team lead by quarterback Jukey Dotson. Danny Kidd will be at wide receiver for the Hornets. Rated as perhaps the best running back in Pike County this year, Danny Estep will have opponents keeping their eye on the fleet-footed back. Estep will also handle the kicking chores for the

The Hornets like to run the 4-3 defense with Mike Gibson, a senior,

Allen Central football coach at one tackle and sophomore Billy ability to come out of the backfield filled by senior Roy Griffin and junior Edgar Mueller.

> Allen Central Record: 1-1 Last Game: Lost to Paintsville 41-0 Next Game: Magoffin County at home

Allen Central, 1-1, opened their season on a winning note with a double overtime 20-14 victory at home against Jenkins. The Rebels will have the biggest set of linemen in Brian Wallen, 6-3, 295, Kevin Clatworthy, 6-2, 300 and Brett Meadows 6-4, 220. On offense the Rebels will take a look at Meadows in the quarterback spot filling in for the injured Aldrich. In the backfield is strong runner Tommy Gibson, 6-0, 210. Gibson will carry the ball for the Rebels the biggest percentage of the end who has caught a TD pass this time. Todd Lucas has shown some for some yardage.

"We have a good opportunity to pick up a win against Phelps tonight," Jamerson stated. There was some question about Wallen being able to play against the Hornets as he also suffered an injury in the Paintsville

Phelps, with Dotson at the quarterback spot, will throw the ball often tonight against the Rebel defense. The Rebels will be depending on the running game of Tommy Gibson and they must get some help from the backfield. With Meadows at quarterback, Allen Central loses the only season for the Rebels.

Out 4 weeks Aldrich out with shoulder injury

The Allen Central Rebels received some bad news concerning their quarterback B.J. Aldrich Aldrich will be lost to the Rebels' football team for at least four weeks because of a shoulder separation, placing his projected return around the October 2 game with Kentucky School for the Aldrich suffered the injury on the fifth play of the game against Paintsville Friday night at Allen Central. Aldrich went down and the game was held up for several minutes while he was being attended to.

According to Rebel coach Dewey Jamerson, tight end Brett Meadows will fill in for the injured Aldrich at the quarterback position. Jamie Slone came on at the signal-calling spot after Aldrich's injury. Meadows also saw action there. Aldrich threw the football twice with one completion. Both Slone and Meadows each attempted one throw without success.

One of America's most popular game fish is the smallmouth bass. Thanks to good conservation and successful stocking, the "bronze back" can

Next, Missouri's Ozarks offer fantastic smallmouth action on both streams and reservoirs. Stockton Lake, and its feeder streams are tops. The bonus here is the beauty of the area.

Finally, perhaps the least publicized smallmouth fishing is found below several dams on the Tennesee River. Wheeler and Wilson in North Alabama, and Pickwick Dam in Tennesee, offer trophy-class smallmouth fishing. Five to seven pounders are

Hornets offense key

Bobcats defense versus Magoffin County's offense

The Magoffin County Hornets will be looking to repeat last year's successful 8-2 season as they host the Betsy Layne Bobcats this weekend in high school football. The Hornets of Chuke Williams will be looking to get back on the winning trail after suffering a heartbreaking 7-0 loss to new school Shelby Valley last Friday night.

One of the reasons for the success of the Hornets last season was the way they protected the football. The Hornets have very few turnovers during game time.

"We didn't turn the ball over much at all last season," Williams stated. "I about 3-to-1. We have a short-pass, ball-control type offense."

Magoffin County Hornets Record: 1-1 Last Week: Lost to Shelby Valley 7-0 Next Week: Allen Central, away

Confusing the opponent's offense will be the key for the Hornets' defense this year. Magoffin County will play different 50 and 60 defenses.

"We'll change our defense a lot through the course of a game," the Hornets' mentor stated. "We'll sometimes even change our defense several times in a series.'

If there is a weakness it will be inexperience in the backfield for Coach Williams' squad although the Hornets return Brian Osborne (former Betsy Layne student). Osborne will be the only upperclassman returning in the backfield. Brandon Holbrook, a freshman, will be in the Hornets' backfield. Joining Osborne and Holbrook is Greg Dyer. The Hornets' defense will be led by outside linebackers Dyer and Eddie Sparks. Eric Rogers and Holbrook will be the strong safeties.

The Hornets defeated Fairview in their regular season opener, 20-6 at Fairview. And, while not playing for a district title, the Hornets want to prove that last season was no fluke. Converted split end Terry Traylor will hold down the quarterback spot for Coach Williams.

Coming out of the backfield will be everyone's favorite, Bobby Wise (5-7, 150). Blaine Depoy (6-1, 185) adds power to the Bobcats' ground attack but he hasn't put up the yardage expected in preseason drills.

The Bobcats seem keyed for this one. Not only will the Bobcats be looking for their first win, but also their first score, losing 22-0 to Wheelwright and 30-0 to Prestonsburg.

Minor injuries have also slowed down the Colonels, especially the offensive line which includes four starters - tackle Al Jacevicius, guards John Holmes and Mike Roth and center Jim VonHandorf.

On the flip side of the problems EKU has had of getting the regulars back on the line, the Colonels' defensive front line and linebackers are enjoying excellent fall practices.

Cats To Growl In '90

With the 1990 college football season around the corner, Floyd County Times football expert Larry Atha takes a game-by-game look at the University of Kentucky Wildcats. Atha ranks UK 29th in the preseason, predicting a 9-2-0 finish.....

Kentucky favored in nine of eleven games for 1990 by Larry Atha Special for Floyd County Times

As Kentucky enters the 1990 football season, the preseason football publications have completely ignored the Wildcats to date. However, the POWER RATING believes the potential is there this year for a highly successful season. There are several reasons for this conclusion. First, new coach Bill Curry has a proven record of turning programs around. Curry favors a passing attack and Kentucky has returning QB Freddie Maggard back. Maggard passed for only 1515yards in 1989, but completed 56.3 percent of his passes. Look for Maggard to double that yardage under the Curry system.

The schedule is very favorable this year since Kentucky does not play either Alabama or Auburn. Kentucky plays a six-game home schedule. Playing Mississippi State and Florida at home swings the advantage to Kentucky in both of these games. Note that Kentucky is only a one-point underdog to Georgia. No, the POWER RATING is not predicting a conference championship or even a "Top 25" finish. Consider also the weak non-conference schedule of Central Michigan, Rutgers, Indiana and North Carolina. Kentucky is a solid favorite over all of these teams. In fact, Kentucky could be 7-0-0 going into the October 27 game with Georgia and with more luck, 10-0-0 going into the Tennessee game. Realistically, with the number of close games predicted for Kentucky, a 8-3-0 record is more likely. However, any of these marks should result in Curry getting "Coach of the Year" in the Central Michigan is picked by many to win the Mid-American Conference. They have 15 of their starters returning this year, but the MAC is the nation's weakest conference. The return of nine on defense should hold the score down, but Kentucky will win handily in Curry's debut as coach of the Wildcats.

Fraley takes first place in Blackburn Memorial

Carl Ray Fraley, of Prestonsburg, won the Blackburn Memorial Golf tournament this past weekend at Green Meadows Golf Course in Pikeville. Fraley had a low gross score of 71 to place first and he received a new Slazenger golf bag and a Founder driver for his efforts.

Barbara Gibson, of Pikeville, with an 82, was the top gross finisher in the ladies' division of the tournament. Karen Smith, also from Pikeville, was the top net finisher with a 72. Both women received new golf bags as prizes.

Also in the men's division, Ron McCoy, of Pikeville, finished first in the low net score category with a 69. McCoy walked away with a new set of Ultra irons.

Tournament sponsors Mike and Woody Blackburn were extremely pleased with the number of entries for the tournament. "With 92 golfers at $100 each, we are assured of raising $9,200 for the scholarship program at Pikeville College," said Woody Blackburn.

"When you consider that some of the companies these golfers work for have matching gift programs, we wouldn't be surprised to see the final total approach $10,000," added Mike Blackburn.

Expenses incurred in promoting and operating the Blackburn Memorial Golf Tournament are kept at a minimum through the generosity of several individuals and corporations. A complete buffet lunch was provided to all the tournament participants, compliments of Martin County Coal Company.

"Each year we have more and more entries in the tournament. Next year I expect that we will have more that 100 golfers,' said Luther Minor, Green Meadows golf pro.

"The Blackburn Memorial Tournament is one of the best tournaments in this region," said Marley Newsome, one of the participants. "The Blackburn's are exceptional individuals and provide some really great prizes."

Grand Finale at Wayland

With the building of the new Wayland/Garrett consolidated elementary school there will be no more graduates from a strictly Wayland school. With this in mind the Wayland Homecoming Committee plans to throw a heck of a party as their grand finale, so to speak.

Bonnie Clark, committee coordinator, said she is all the time asked why she works so hard on the homecomings when she doesn't get anything out of it, she says she gets plenty out of it when people come into town who haven't seen each other for years and hug and talk and relive the old times together. "Just being part of that is enough reward for me," she added.

Other committee members who have been working more than a year in the planning of this last reunion are Patty Murphy, Jerry Fultz, Betty Lee, Peggy Coleman, Sandy Branham and Carolyn Puckett.

According to Clark over 3000 invitations have been sent out and the response has been "excellent."

Here is the schedule of events for the activities beginning tonight:

Friday, Aug. 31
5-7 p.m. Reception in the gym with free refreshments.

7-8 p.m. Cloggers from Lexington performing in Wayland Clinic

8-12 p.m. Street Dance with a D.J. spinning tunes from the 40s, 50s and 60s.

Lawrence Price, the oldest living former principal in Floyd County, will be the honorary guest for the day.

Saturday, Sept. 1

1 a.m. Breakfast at the Wayland Methodist Church for $4

10:30 a.m. Senior Citizens will prepare a lunch of soupbeans, combread and chicken and dumplings at their center. (an unknown charge will be asked for this meal)

1 p.m. Parade down Front Street and through town. Tommy Boyd will be the Grand Marshall and former band members will be playing the school song.

2-4 p.m. Gospel and Bluegrass music will be performed at Wayland Clinic parking lot.

8-12 p.m. Dance at Wayland Gym, $5 per person (sponsored by the homecoming committee). The band Southbound out of Ashland will be playing old songs and country music.

Also, all day Saturday, arts and crafts booth will be set up in town.

Sunday, Sept. 2

Sunday, Sept. 2 2 p.m. Alumni Basketball Game. All old coaches, former cheerleaders, band members, majorettes and ballplayers are invited and encouraged to participate.

LAWRENCE B. PRICE

Former high school teacher, coach, principal and instructional supervisor for Floyd County who spent more than 30 years as a part of the Wayland Community, acknowledges with deep gratitude the lasting contributions from associations with teachers, students, graduates and general citizenry (1937-67).

Price was a graduate of Transylvania University earning an AB in social studies and Christian ministry, and of Miami University in Ohio getting his MA in high school administration. Heterminated employment in the Floyd County School System in 1968 and accepted a position in school work in Pike County, Ohio. He has resided in Waverly, Ohio, over the past years but has been retired from active school work for more than 10 years.

Lithuanian educator finds freedom at MSU

As a young girl, Dr. Loretta Vishomirskite dreamed of being free and walking down the streets of another country.

For this Lithuanian educator, 1990 was the year her "very secret dream" cam true as her homeland declared its independence from the Soviet Union and she became Morehead State University's visiting international scholar.

There were only a few anxious moments over whether she would be allowed to leave for the United States as her requests to leave came at the time Russia and Lithuania were at odds trying to determine their relationship.

"It all happened so rapidly," Dr. Vishomirskite said of her country's declaration of independence. "Two or three years ago, we wouldn't have. dreamed that this could occur. After 50 years of suppression, the change seemed to destroy all barriers and people just became swept up in it," she said.

"The Sajudis (leaders of the patriotic movement) put their lives and career at stake and no one really knew how long the spell of freedom would last," she added. Dr. Vishomirskite herself even took an active role in the struggle by participating in the picketing of the Russian military units which had been deployed to her country.

"There are still changes ahead," she predicted, adding that the immediate years may bring hardships to her country. "The stand is not over yet, but with all the other countries, including Russia, rethinking their politcal ideologies it will continue."

$5 million granted for Alzheimer's Research

The National Institute of Aging, a division of the National Institutes of Health, has renewed the Alzheimer's Disease Research Center program at the University of Kentucky Sanders-Brown Center on Aging.

Affective Aug. 1 the new fiveyear award of more than $5 million will support research, teaching and service activities related to Alzheimer's Disease. it will support the work of 16 faculty members located in nine different departments and three colleges of the University.

Under the direction of William R. Markesbery, MD, director of the Center on Aging, this grant will fund four new major research projects each designed to provide fundamental information about some of the bio-search Center also provides a com-

Issues to be addressed include possible links between Alzheimer's Disease and heart disease, the basis for the neuron death found in Alzheimer's Disease, mechanisms by which the brain compensates for loss of neurons, the relationship between the amount of calcium found in cells, and the genetics of Alzheimer's Disease.

Funds also are provided for two pilot research studies; one to examine the biochemistry of the Alzheimer's brain; and a second that will examine the possibility of a transmissible viral infection in Alzheimer's Disease.

The Alzheimer's Disease Re-

prehensive core of services. In conjunction with the UK department of neurology, the Center operates a Memory Disorders Clinic designed to diagnose and follow older persons with memory problems. The clinic is staffed by physicians, family counselors and other professional personnel. The second core receives autopsy material from Alzheimer's Disease patients and provides both a definitive diagnosis to the family and material to the research projects. The information core serves as a resource to students, Alzheimer's Disease family members, the general public and the health professional community. In addition, funds are available to study the ethical and legal issues associated with research into Alzheimer's Disease.

The research center grant will allow the University of Kentucky to remain among the leaders in Alzheimer's Disease research and associated problems. The UK Alzheimer's Disease Research Center grant renewal signifies a continued commitment to this degenerative disease. Latest studies indicate that Alzheimer's Disease is twice as prevalent as was recently thought: An estimated 4 million people are affected including 47 percent of the population over the age of 85. Cutting the College Costs Pie:

Few students pay the full cost of attending college

Most people are aware that the cost of attending college increased rapidly over the past decade. But what many people don't realize is that tuition and fees cover just a fraction of what it costs to educate students at colleges and universities across the country, says the Student Loan Marketing Association (Sallie Mae).

Tuition and fees at all public and private colleges and universities represent about 23 percent of total revenues. Moreover, nearly half of all students receive some sort of financial assistance to finance their education, further reducing the costs borne by students and their families.

The proportion of revenue that comes from tuition and fees differs significantly between public and private institutions—14 percent of total revenue at public schools comes from tuition and fees, versus 39 percent at private schools — because of the variation in their reliance on different sources of funding. Public institutions receive almost half of their revenue from state appropriations, while private institutions rely more on endowment income, private gifts and tuition and fees to cover the cost of educating their students.

Here is a look at the most recent figures representing tuition and fees as a percentage of total revenue at all public and private, two- and fouryear colleges and universities. (see pie chart)

* Total revenues at public and private colleges and universities were recently approximately $124 billion ($80 billion, public; $44 billion, private).

* Tuition and fees represented 23 percent of revenues (14 percent, public; 39 percent, private).

* State and federal appropriations represented about 40 percent of total revenues (55 percent, public; 13 percent, private).

* Funding from private gifts, endowment income, local governments, independent operations, educational activities and other sources represented 37 percent of total revenues (30 percent, public; 49 percent,
