At Auxier Saturday :

One hurt, one jailed in shooting

A Prestonsburg man was listed in satisfactory condition Tuesday at the University of Kentucky Medical Center after he was shot four times Saturday morning at Auxier.

Jack Litteral, 26, was reportedly shot four times with a .32 caliber handgun at 12:41 a.m. Saturday morning. Litteral's half brother, Daniel Neil Vance, was arrested and charged with first degree assault in connection with the shooting.

The incident took place at a trailer court on U.S. 23 near Auxier, and officers on the scene reported that Litteral walked or ran the length of the trailer court before crossing the highway to Regency Park Apartments, where he collapsed from his injuries.

"He was trying to get to one of the apartments," said Floyd County Chief Deputy Linzie Hunt. "The fellow that shot him came over to the pay phone at the Autobahn store while we were trying to help the one that had been shot."

Litteral reportedly identified Vance as his assailant while officers were detaining Vance on suspicion of alcohol intoxication.

Litteral was shot once in the left arm and three times in the back, according to state police reports. Vance was lodged in the Floyd County Jail and charged with first degree assault. Litteral was initially transported to Highlands Regional Medical Center and later transferred to the UK Medical Center.

The incident is under investigation by Kentucky State Police Detective Jeff Blanton and Trooper Dave Wallen.

Help wanted Volunteers sought for archaeological project downtown

Amateur archaeologists are invited to participate this weekend in an historical dig in downtown Prestonsburg at the site of a proposed new city parking lot.

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta said Tuesday that the dig will begin at 8:30 a.m. Friday and continue through the weekend at the site, known as the Solomon Derossett property.

The archaeological project, to be supervised by University of Kentucky archaeologist Nancy O'Malley, was scheduled following a routine survey of the property in 1989. The survey was set after city officials announced plans to build a parking facility on the site.

The weekend project involves an historical dig on the property which once was the site of a French fur trapper's log cabin. The survey is to be paid for through a state grant.

Airport bid exceeds early cost estimate

Members of the Big Sandy Regional Airport Board are awaiting state approval on a $1.6 million bid submitted last week for paving a new access road to the mountaintop facility.

The paving bid, submitted by Mountain Enterprises on August 24, exceeds by $380,000 the amount accepted two years ago by the state Transportation Cabinet for the 1.5 mile project.

Airport board chairman Raymond Bradbury said Tuesday that state officials had been advised of the bid, adding that board members hoped the Transportation Cabinet would allocate the needed funds.

The new airport access road, which connects the facility to new Route 3, was built under an agreement between Floyd, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties. Those counties will share maintenance costs for the road after it is completed.

Federal Trial Begins

Langley man in critical condition :

Eight are injured in two-car mishap

A Langley man was listed in critical condition Tuesday following a two-vehicle auto accident Monday night on Route 80 near Martin.

Jimmy Doug Harmon, 42, of Langley suffered multiple injuries when the vehicle he was driving collided with a second vehicle near Buck's Branch at Martin.

Kentucky State Police reported that Harmon and passenger, Ricky Smith, 24, were traveling East on Route 80 in a Chevrolet pickup truck when they collided with a vehicle driven by Zane Slone, 25, of Melvin as they attempted to turn left into Martin.

A spokesperson for Cabell Huntington Hospital said Tuesday evening that Harmon was in critical condition in the intensive care unit of the hospital.

Members of the Floyd County Rescue Squad used the "Jaws of Life" device to remove the roof of both vehicles in order to extract injured persons from the vehicles.

"We had to remove the roof of the truck and take out the steering column to get the driver of the pickup out," said Onda Hunt of the Floyd County Rescue Squad. "And there was one person still in the car that had to be taken out through the roof."

A total of six people, including three juveniles, were in the Slone vehicle at the time of the accident, according to state police reports. All passengers of the Slone vehicle were transported to Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin where they were treated and released.

Ricky Smith, the passenger in the Harmon vehicle, was also treated and released at Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

The accident is under investigation by Kentucky State Police Trooper Larry Preston.

The Floyd County Board of Education had a special gathering Tuesday with a quorum present, but it was for anything but routine business.

Proceedings got underway at the federal courthouse in Pikeville in a civil lawsuit filed against the Floyd County Board of Education by a former transportation director who claims he was not re-hired at his job due to political retaliation and because he actively supported a candidate running against incumbent board member Mary Hall in the fall 1988 school board election.

Edward Patton Jr. of McDowell testified for over two hours in the opening day of the trial about the events leading up to the board's failure to re-hire him as transportation director for the 1989-90 school year. Patton filed the federal lawsuit last August charging a civil rights violation and alleging he was punished for exercising his right of free speech.

Patton is represented by Prestonsburg Attorney Ned Pillerdorf, who was assisted by Phillip Shepherd of Frankfort.

C.F. Bryan of Bryan, Fogle and Chenoweth, a Mount Sterling law firm, John Prather Jr. of Somerset, and William Francis of Francis, Kazee and Francis of Prestonsburg represented the board of education, Hager and Hall.

The eight jurors, four men and four women, were picked from 25 possible prospects, many of whom were from Floyd County.

Troubles began for the former transportation director after he actively campaigned against Hall in the November 1988 school board race and when teachers staged an October 13 "sick out" which led Patton to call off school in the county.

During his testimony, Patton described why he supported an opposing candidate and how Hall tried to intimidate him.

"Yes, I supported Ricky Hamilton," Patton testified. "I felt he was the best candidate for the children of Left Beaver. In the middle of August, Larry Foster Stumbo came to me with a message from Dr. Hall. 'Doc said you better get in line. She's hot,'" was the message Patton said he received. "I took it to mean I better get on her side in the board race."

Following the "sick out" staged by the teachers, Patton was informed he would be discharged from his position for insubordination and for not following proper bidding procedure to purchase school bus parts. After 13 hours of meetings covering three days, the board voted 5-0 not to fire Patton, but to reprimand him.

"I was being picked at and used as a scapegoat to scare teachers," Patton testified. "There were more teachers (at the due process hearings) than any other group."

Loaded pistol confiscated:

Suspect in brutal killing is arrested

A 37-year-old Elliott County man arrested in Johnson County by Sheriff Gene Cyrus is suspected of murdering an elderly Elliott County woman, according to law enforcement officials.

Trooper Lon Fields of Morehead State Police Post said Monday that Buddy A. Porter may have been involved in the grisly August slaying of 72-year-old widow Shirley Gilliam of Sandy Hook. Gilliam, who lived alone in a farmhouse after the death of her husband in 1989, was bludgeoned to death with a blunt instrument. According to a report in the Sunday Independent (Ashland), state police have uncovered evidence linking the suspect to the killing.

Porter was arrested last Thursday after Morehead authorities told Cyrus he was reportedly seen at a Van Lear restaurant.

"He was gone by the time I got there," said Cyrus, adding that several officers were notified to be on the lookout for the vehicle in which Porter was a passenger. Cyrus spotted the car near Powell Addition and stopped the occupants at gunpoint.

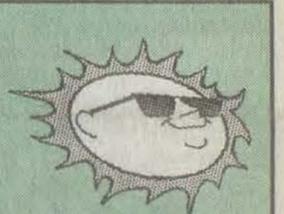

"We knew he was a murder suspect," said the sheriff. Neither Porter nor the driver, 34-year-old Clarsie Doolin of Isonville, offered resistance. Doolin was arrested and charged with theft by deception for allegedly issuing bad checks for more than $100, a Class D felony. She remains lodged in the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center under $5,000 cash bond.

Porter was turned over to the state police and taken to Rowan County, where he is lodged in the Rowan County Jail and charged with being a felon in possession of a firearm. According to Cyrus, a loaded pistol was taken from the vehicle.

Cyrus said the two had reportedly been camping on strip mine jobs in the Van Lear area. Porter, he said, has several relatives in Johnson County. Porter has not been charged in connection to the Gilliam murder, which is still being investigated. Results of his arraignment on the gun possession charge Tuesday were not available as of presstime.

Morehead officials have characterized the Gilliam murder as "puzzling."

Meetings reset

The Allen City Council meeting scheduled for Monday, September 3, has been rescheduled for Monday, September 10, at 7 p.m. The Wayland Town Meeting has also been rescheduled for Monday, September 10, at 7 p.m. The original meetings were rescheduled due to the Labor Day holiday.

Police statistics

Kentucky State Police at Post 9 in Pikeville reported no fatalities over the holiday weekend. Officers issued 38 arrests for DUI charges and 14 child restraint citations in Pike, Floyd, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties. Only two fatal accidents occurred in the state over the three day holiday weekend. In 1989, one person was killed during the holiday period, with 48 DUI arrests recorded and 17 child restraint citations issued.

A show of appreciation

One good turn ...

Maytown gets truck as reward for good deed

One good deed deserves another, and Maytown's Volunteer Fire Department has experienced the rewards of philanthropy from both sides of the ledger.

"The Maytown Volunteer Fire Department saved the life of one of our employees, T.J. Compton, when he entered a valve pit and was overcome by gas," said Thomas Flannery, plant superintendent for Kentucky Hydrocarbon at Langley. "When I became aware of the fact that their equipment truck needed upgrading and I became aware that Kentucky West Virginia Gas had a truck slated to be replaced this year, I wrote a letter to my boss and got the wheels in motion."

Members of the Maytown Volunteer Fire Department were presented with an upgraded equipment vehicle last Friday at the Prestonsburg office of Kentucky West Virginia Gas.

"This was just a way of showing our appreciation," said Flannery.

Maytown volunteer firefighters used air packs and other emergency rescue equipment when Compton was overcome by a combination of natural gases in a valve pit at the Kentucky Hydrocarbon plant in June.

Compton was reportedly clinically dead when he was pulled from the pit, but he was resuscitated through the efforts of the volunteers.

PCC enrollment sets new record

Prestonsburg Community College set a new enrollment record this fall with 2,533 students signing up for classes starting this month.

The fall enrollment represents a 13 percent increase over the previous high of 2,244 registered during the spring 1990 term.

When asked why he felt he was not hired, Patton replied, "Because I wasn't on the right side, I wasn't part of the Hager Connection."

"What is the Hager Connection?" Pillersdorf asked. "That's the people who are behind him (superintendent Ronald Hager) and who's on his and Doc Adams' team."

Patton testified neither Hager or Hall personally made any threats to him.

During the 1989 race for county attorney, Patton said he supported Jim Hammond who opposed incumbent David Barber. Jesse Morgan, who worked under Patton and was responsible for purchasing vehicle parts and the maintenance of school buses, testified a board employee stated in front of him, Patton would be fired after the hearings.

"Bill 'Crush' Dingus called Earl D. Ousley (current transportation director for the board) three times in my presence and told Mr. Ousley to be there (at the hearings) because they were gonna get rid of Mr. Patton," Morgan testified. Morgan testified Dingus said Board Chairman James D. Adams informed him of the action.

Adams, who remained in the courtroom and who is not named in the suit, chuckled and shook his head at the testimony alleging he informed Dingus of the decision. He also smiled at term "Hager Connection."

Morgan was brought from the Clay County Transportation Department to the Floyd County School System after classes could not begin in August 1983 because of the unsafe condition of the buses used to transport students.

The state Department of Education closed the system until the buses were made safe to transport students.

"Sam Jackson (with the state Department of Education) insisted I be brought here," Morgan said. "The transportation department was in a shambles."

Morgan and Patton were questioned by Bryan about purchasing items not on bid lists; working on private vehicles; private individuals using vehicle parts as their own; using bus garage gas for private vehicles; washing personal vehicles and work performed on a privately owned farm tractor.

Both men testified some items on the county's bidding contracts were inferior and they would purchase items of better quality at a higher price.

Bryan showed Patton a memo from Hager which said procedure to acquire bid items was to be strictly followed.

"I don't think any school in Floyd County follows this during an election," Patton replied.

The tractor in question was owned by Phillip Dingus who allowed it to be used to remove snow from the bus garage parking lot. Dingus did not receive any compensation for use of the tractor and workers did repair it when the blade used to scrape the snow was bent, according to the testimony of both men.

Patton admitted putting a set of brake shoes on a vehicle owned by his father-in-law, after the brakes failed as he was making routine road checks during winter.

"I bought the brake shoes and workers at the garage put them on," Patton said. "And I went back out and finished checking the roads." He testified a vehicle owned by the board to be used for road checks was not dependable so he used his own vehicle.

As for using the school system's gas, Morgan testified that one time a custodian was set by Prestonsburg High Principal Robert May to get gas for a private vehicle. Patton did not recall any incident of gas being used for private vehicles.

Private cars were washed at the maintenance department and workers used the car wash system owned by the board, both men agreed. Former Superintendent Pete Grigsby would have his car washed at the garage and so did Patton and Morgan, the two testified.

Repairs performed on private vehicles at the garage site were done by private individuals who use their own tools, Patton and Morgan testified.

Any person who used auto parts owned by the board bought replacement parts, Morgan testified.

However, he conceded labor was not repaid on "snow days" when maintenance workers were idle for long periods of time or for electricity used if work was performed at night and the county was not reimbursed for water used to wash cars.

"We didn't pay any labor because workers were paid to be there on snow days anyway," Morgan said. "They were paid for doing nothing."

Both men testified that Hager never informed them of any problems within the maintenance department and Floyd County's bus garage was used as a model by the state for its efficiency. Morgan also received a commendation from the state for the improvements made in the transportation department.

The lawsuit also seeks punitive damage of $1 million each from Hager and Hall for the role they allegedly played in the decision not to re-hire Patton. Patton was questioned about the pain and suffering caused by the decision.

Patton said finding employment has been difficult and he has suffered pain and humiliation stemming from the board's actions. "It (not being rehired) just casts doubt over your whole future when you try to get a job," Patton testified.

Bryan asked Patton about his recent bid to unseat State Representative Greg Stumbo. "Had the humiliation you felt improved enough that you felt like facing the public again and not be humiliated?" Bryan asked.

"That was therapy. That was tonic for me and my way of saying I'm gonna overcome this," Patton said.

Federal Judge Joseph Hood asked both attorneys to "speed up" the proceedings. The trial will resume at 9 a.m. today.

Thanks!

The teachers of Floyd County appreciate parents and the community for their support during our recent walkout. The unity of teachers and the community has made it possible for us to change the way Floyd County schools operate forever.

We have accomplished many things that will benefit our children, our schools, and our community.

—For the FIRST TIME EVER, the board, superintendent and teachers have a written, signed agreement voted on by teachers.

—The decision-making process at the district and school level will be opened up through:

- mandated participation of teachers and parents in budget decisions
- mandated participation of teachers in determining what supplies are needed at each school
- mandated participation of teachers and parents in the implementation of the education reform act
- mandated participation of teachers in determining use of school time
- mandated participation of teachers in developing programs for at-risk students

—Students' learning conditions and teachers' working conditions and will improve because of:

- equitable distribution of money for instructional supplies
- creation of a student/teacher resource center
- elimination of student fees
- better professional development for teachers
- additional life insurance for teachers
- closing the gap between teacher and administrator salaries
- first ever two-year salary agreement

As we work to insure that these changes happen, we hope that the people in the county will continue to walk with us. We need to continue the fight for the children of Floyd County. To do that:

- A. We have to know about budgets and how money is being spent.
- B. We have to expect that our children will have the same education that every other child in this county has.
- C. We have to be willing to form PTO's and PTA's and spend part of our time attending those meetings.
- D. We have to exercise our vote at the polls more carefully. Your child is worth more than the promise of a job or a misplaced loyalty.
- E. We have to be willing to attend board meetings and call board members.

The children of Floyd Co. will still receive 175 days of instruction. We believe that those days are going to be better ones because of what parents and teachers have done together in this county.

Thank You!

The Teachers of Floyd County

This is a great week to find outside activities to relieve stress. Yield to the wishes of a loved one as much as possible. They need your undivided attention.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

A loved one will insist on having the last word and it's probably best if you let them. Don't harbour resentment, just let the unwarranted comments slide off your back.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

You will have the opportunity to gain control of a situation that has been driving you crazy. Stick with your plan and things should be better for all involved.

Pretrial conference held :

Age-discrimination suit next for board

A federal lawsuit alleging age discrimination filed against the Floyd County Board of Education by a former lunchroom manager will be heard later this year after a pretrial conference held in United States District Court in Pikeville Tuesday.

Federal Judge Joseph Hood directed attorneys to agree on a date when the trial could be conducted since both sides agreed it could be tried in one day.

Prestonsburg Attorney Ned Pillersdorf is representing Clara Pack, F.C. Bryan of Bryan, Fogle and Chenoweth of Mount Sterling, John Prather Jr. of Somerset and William Francis of Francis, Kazee and Francis of Prestonsburg are representing the board of education.

The suit filed by Clara Pack, 75, a former lunchroom manager, accused the board and then Garrett Elementary Principal Ralph O'Quinn of age discrimination after she was demoted to cook and not re-hired as a lunchroom manager.

Judge Hood released O'Quinn from the suit Tuesday after he determined he was not Pack's employer.

Attorneys for the board argued Pack was not re-hired as lunchroom manager because the job description had changed and Pack would supervise the collection of money.

The debate centered on Pack's ability to operate a computerized cash register and her refusal to accept the position of cook.

Pillersdorf countered Pack asked to be trained to operate the machine but the board refused to give her the training.

"Our position is that it was viewed as 'You can't teach an old dog new tricks' type of discrimination," Pillersdorf said. "She asked for the training but did not receive it."

Bryan said Pack was hired as a cook but refused to accept the position, which would cut her salary by approximately 20 percent.

Frankfort Attorney Phillip Shepherd argued on behalf of Pack, that she was under no obligation to accept the position as it was a demotion from her previous managerial position.

Shepherd claimed Pack had applied for the position but was not given any consideration by the board. O'Quinn had "went out" and found a 47 year-old replacement for Pack, Shepherd said. The woman hired to replace Pack did not have an application on file at the time but did at a later date which has caused an area of dispute in the case, Shepherd said.

Turkey Creek home razed in Monday fire

Members of the Maytown Volunteer Fire department responded to a structure fire at Turkey Creek early Monday morning.

A fire at the home of Marvin Martin of Turkey Creek was reported at approximately 5 a.m. Monday. Maytown firefighters found the structure to be almost completely destroyed upon arrival.

"We would have had a better response time but the fire burned through the roof of the house and burned out all the telephone lines in that area. It was completely destroyed when we got there," said Maytown Chief Darrell Bradley.

Firefighters remained on the scene for almost two hours to insure that the fire was completely out.

Members of the Southeast Volunteer Fire Department reportedly responded to a fire at a junkyard belonging to Paul Little on Monday night.

The fire was kept under control and doused according to a resident of the area. Further details were not available at press time.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

Jack Gargan is appalled, bitter, outraged, angry, incensed, livid, enraged, disgusted, fed up, shocked, hacked-off, tired, insulted and sad.

Jack Gargan is mad as Hell, and he's not going to take it anymore.

So who in the heck is Jack Gargan, and what possesses him to use these pointed adjectives?

In a series of advertisements floating around the county, Jack Gargan identifies himself as a "recently retired working stiff" who is "fed up with members of Congress who care more about getting re-elected than they do about what's happening to our country."

His disdain centers on government waste, congressional salaries (those two are synonymous aren't they?), PAC contributions, the deficit, the S&L scandal, franking privileges, etc.

And to prove that he's serious about not taking it anymore, Gargan has founded THRO, Inc., an acronym for "Throw the Hypocritical Rascals Out."

Job One, for THRO, Inc., says Gargan is to vote every incumbent senator and congressman out of office, the good and the bad, as a means of serving notice that enough is enough.

Ol' Jack doesn't beat around the bush.

While his proposal may be a pipe dream, his gripes certainly are legitimate.

Who knows, a little revolution here and there has been known to produce great things.

The battle is over, but the war rages on.

Now that the Floyd County teachers' strike has ended, it's time to focus on other pressing educational needs.

Floyd County is not alone in either the fight or the need for educational reform, though much of the state's attention lately seems to have been directed this way.

For educational reform to work here, or anywhere, school parents must take an active role. School PTAs are the best way for parents to stay in touch and to participate in school issues and activities.

Too much needs to be done for parents, teachers and administrators to remain adversaries.

Patching up differences may be difficult, but not impossible.

United we stand, divided we fall.

Together we win, apart we fail. Educational excellence is within our reach.
Let's go for it.

Surprise, surprise!
It seems that the largest group of contributors to the campaigns of Gov. Wallace Wilkinson and spouse are businesses who are interested in doing business with the state.

Is that a startling revelation, or what?
And all this time we thought people contributed to politicians because they believed in their political agendas.

Gosh, were we naive.
We shouldn't fault the candidates, though.

As long as it costs a zillion dollars to win to $60,000-a-year job, the campaign funds will have to come from somewhere.

Invest in the candidate of your choice today. You could already be a winner.

Grab a shovel, roll up your sleeves and join the hunt this weekend for buried treasure.

Okay, maybe it's not the kind of treasure you'd associate with, say, Long John Silver, but it's valuable just the same.

Archeologists will be in Prestonsburg this weekend to begin their dig on what is known as the Solomon Derosssett property (on First Avenue by the First Baptist Church) and volunteers are needed.

The pay ain't great (nothing) and the hours might be long, but you could unearth some important artifacts.

The dirt flies at 8:30 Friday morning. Be there or be square.

Speaking of artifacts, that pothole in the northbound lane of Rt. 23 near the Kentucky Power office probably qualifies as something of an historical site.

It's been there since Boone kilt the bar.

Maybe we can get the UK archeology team to direct their shovels and grant money to that site.

Must be something important in that hole.

Why else would the highway department not fix it?

Wonderful changes to come

Dear Editor,
On Tuesday evening (Aug. 25) at 7 p.m. at the Allen Convention Center, Roberta Luxmore and I met with the parents to discuss matters of interest concerning the job action. We asked them to join with us in a 24-hour moratorium in order to demonstrate to the school board and the public that FCEA is negotiating in good faith. The parents agreed with this.

Also, we informed the parents of the "Truth Line," 886-1688, which will give parents and teachers information, instead of listening to rumors.

This was followed by a question and answer session. The meeting proved to be beneficial to all concerned.

I felt, personally, that the welfare of the children were the utmost thoughts in both parents and us (the teachers). The children in this county at last will be able to get the help and equipment they need for a better education — regardless of the location of their respective school.

For the first time all children are "created equal" in Floyd County.

This is going to be a wonderful time to teach in Floyd County schools and see all the new and wonderful things take place in our schools, because for the first time, parents and teachers will have a voice in what is being taught and how it is to be taught.

We thanked the parents for their unflinching support and faith in us, their teachers.

How about the others

Dear Editor,

(This letter was addressed to the Political Board of Education)

I am a concerned parent of children in the Floyd County School System. After reading the salaries of the personnel at the Board of Education I feel even more disgusted now than I did before. Instead of you all getting a big raise why didn't you give it to the teachers and the non-certified employees of the Board of Education?

It is my understanding that they were supposed to have gotten a raise, but, Mr. Earl D. Ousley, where did it go? From my point of view the bus drivers didn't get anything. I hear a lot of nasty complaints about some of the bus drivers, but on the salary they make they do good to buy a bar of soap, to buy deodorant they would have to take out a bank loan. Why don't you, Mr. Ousley, take your big raise and give it to the drivers, since they do all the work for you.

A lot has been said about the nutritional value of the lunches our children received at school. I know the cooks do the best they can with what they have and for what they get paid. I'm sure, Mr. Wayne Ratliff, you wouldn't eat half of the garbage you try to force on our children. And for the rest of the non-certified employees I think you do a great job. Consider this though, while you all are with our children all day long the SECRETARIES to the SECRETARIES at the POLITICAL BOARD OF EDUCATION make a lot more money than you do.

I'm for you teachers and non-certified employees 100 percent.

Warns against steroids

Dear Editor,

At the last meeting of the Floyd County Medical Society several members felt that some of the high school football players in Floyd County were taking anabolic steroids in hopes of enhancing their performances. These physicians said that often they felt the athletes and their parents knew the young men were taking anabolic steroids, but sometimes the athletes were told they were taking amino acids.

I would like to warn both the athletes and their parents that the use of anabolic steroids is associated with very severe short term and long term complications. These are illegal drugs which are thought to be addictive. I would like to warn whoever is supplying these drugs that what they are doing is illegal and unconscionable. I would imagine that any person caught selling or giving anabolic steroids to a minor would face criminal prosecution and extensive civil liability. I cannot imagine a coach or a parent approving of a young man risking his health for a slight increase in football playing ability.

In conclusion, The Floyd County Medical Society calls on the Board of Education to implement a random drug testing program among the high school football players.

Sincerely yours,
— John G. Boswell, MD

Strange Enough

By Tim Preston

Can't You See I'm In A Hurry?

The time has come.
I've put it off for long enough. Those who are guilty shall now be held accountable.

It is time for me to mouth off and write a blistering, smearing and slamming editorial regarding an issue which can be ignored no more.

The issue at hand is, drumroll please, why do you idiots see me coming down the road at incredibly ridiculous rates of speed and pull out in front of me only to travel at five miles per hour?

This may not seem as important a question as the relevant issues at hand such as striking teachers and truckers, but believe me I want to know.

Are those of you who are guilty of this horrible act simply looking out for my safety by attempting to slow me down, or are you an organized group of sadists who enjoy taking your lives, and mine, into the jaws of death?

A hot news item breaks and I jump into the company car to chase it down.

I plot my shortest and fastest course and strap in for the break into light speed. Just as I get the old company Honda up to a respectable warp factor, someone in a 1912 model Ford truck pokes their nose onto MY HIGHWAY and pulls in front of me, allowing said truck to idle down the road at whatever speed the vehicle is comfortable with.

I scream and make obscene gestures. Those who have committed the act of highway hindrance simply look at me in a funny way as if to say, "What's your problem?"

What's my problem? There are at least 80 to 100 face prints left on the windshield of the company car from the incredible deceleration stunts I have had to enact just to save me and the foul aggressor from permanent physical damage. That's my problem.

In the meantime I have to keep a plastic surgeon on retainer to constantly reapply my facial skin and realign my nose from this constant windshield bashing.

It isn't that I don't try to keep potential road crawlers from seeing me. Quite often I can be seen flying with the emergency blinkers on, and I almost always beep the horn while driving. Of course at the speeds I tend to drive it is quite possible that the horn may not be heard until after I've passed.

It just doesn't work though, and I think I am doomed to this fate.

There have been many nights when I dreamed of being called to an important happening somewhere up Left Beaver Creek, (not that anything like that has ever happened in Left Beaver), and I take off in the Honda to track it down. Just as I launch my assault of speed upon Route 122 however, three church groups and a guy with a bush hog on a tractor pull onto the road. In my dream there is nowhere to go and I am heroically forced to drive off the road and over the edge of a one thousand foot cliff in order to preserve the lives of a Buick full of blue haired ladies discussing today's sermon.

The dream ends as I am ordered into my own personal hell where I am forever imprisoned in a Ferrari Berlinetta Boxer on a dirt road full of horse carts on their way to a meeting of "Slow Driver's Anonymous."

There is of course, the obvious alternative.
I could slow down and drive at reasonable speeds. I could act responsibly and pull out in front of people who are driving too fast for their own good and force them to travel at speeds which make them slam their faces into their windshields. I could stop making blatant attempts to run down pedestrians.

Then again, I would miss all the fun associated with high speed driving and all it's illegal connotations.

Give me the Ferrari on the dirt road.
Anytime.

Other Voices

by Judy Petersen

(a member of Kentuckians for the Commonwealth delegation that met with the governor on Aug. 27)

Governor Refuses Steps to Stop Out-of-State Garbage

Out-of-state garbage will continue to flow into Kentucky.

That became apparent on Aug. 27 when Governor Wallace Wilkinson refused to sign an executive order that would have placed restrictions on out-of-state waste being dumped in Kentucky.

We told Governor Wilkinson we hoped he would take a strong leadership initiative and sign an executive order. But he said that an executive order is out of the question.

The KFTC delegation presented Wilkinson with a proposed executive order as a way to immediately address the growing out-of-state garbage crisis. Two thousand tons of imported waste are dumped in Kentucky each day, with the figure increasing.

Wilkinson told the delegation that he would not sign an executive order until other means to address the issue were explored, specifically a special legislative session to address environmental matters. The governor said he may call such a session in October, although legislative leaders opposed the idea.

KFTC also opposes a special legislative session to deal with the out-of-state waste crisis as being too costly and unnecessary. A special session would cost Kentucky taxpayers an estimated $32,000 a day, according to the Legislative Research Commission, and would not be needed if Wilkinson would sign an executive order.

The governor also said he is waiting for recommendations from a panel of University of Kentucky experts on legislative options to address the waste problem.

KFTC's proposed executive order addresses the fact that the state currently does not have an effective system in place for ensuring that infectious medical waste or hazardous waste is not mixed with imported household garbage. Some of this waste is going into landfills with no liners and no leachate collection system.

Kentucky also does not have a sound system for checking into the background and past performance of those who wish to operate landfills or haul waste in the state. A number of waste haulers and landfill operators in northeastern states; where much of Kentucky's imported waste is coming from, have documented ties with organized crime.

Also insufficient are local or state waste management plans that give priority to adequate and affordable disposal capacity for locally generated wastes before imported waste.

In the 1990 General Assembly, KFTC pushed legislation that would have given local solid waste management boards control of the dumping of waste in their districts as a means to restrict the importation of waste and to promote waste reduction and recycling. Through the bill passed the Kentucky Senate 36 to 1, it was killed in the House by Speaker Don Blandford.

Wilkinson told the KFTC delegation that he opposes giving local governments control of solid waste disposal.

The governor has political ties to the waste industry. The owners and associates of Addington Resources have given more than $220,000 to various Wilkinson campaigns. An Addington subsidiary wants to build a 937-acre landfill in Greenup County.

Another Wilkinson ally and fundraiser, Tom Smith, wants to build a landfill on a 450-acre site in Ohio County.

Eight Kentucky landfills are already accepting out-of-waste, according to the records of the Division of Waste Management. At least a dozen other new or expanded landfills also propose to accept imported waste.

KFTC is asking citizens concerned about the growing out-of-state waste problem to join its "green ribbon campaign." People are encouraged to wear or display green ribbons in conjunction with public statements or activities opposing the use of Kentucky as a dumping ground for out-of-state waste.

People also should consider writing the governor and asking that he deal with this issue, and write letters to the editor expressing their concerns.

Happy 36th Birthday "Bubby"
 You'll always hold a Special Place in my Heart.

Note of Thanks

We, Bertha Frazier's Family, use this means and opportunity to thank each and all for your kindness, love and support during the initial period of mourning the loss of our Precious Mother. Thank you... You who gave of yourselves and your time, you who shared and cared and lent a shoulder for each mourning child, you who walked and talked with us until we had gone the last step with her, you who could not be with us but kept us in your thoughts and prayers, and you who even now call and come to share our many memories. By nature, we are all subject to human error. Please accept this as a special note of thanks and appreciation if you were not thanked personally by some family member or did not receive a card of gratitude.

We send a special note of thanks to:

- The Left Beaver Rescue Squad
- The Staff of The McDowell Hospital
- Nelson Frazier Funeral Home Staff
- Members of the Little Nancy Church
- The Hi Hat Community Club
- The Old Regular Baptist Ministers
- Aunt Rhoda Compton's Family

IF DAD WERE HERE

If Dad were here Wouldn't he say he's sorry, That he never meant to leave us When he did!

Can't you just see the concern That would shadow his face When he'd see the void He's left behind, When he'd speak of whether We could still go on Without him.

If Dad were here Wouldn't we all want to reassure him And hold him close Wouldn't we all want to ease his mind And let him know He needn't worry That safe within our hearts, He, lives on.

The DAYS HAVE GONE TO WEEKS TO MONTHS TO A YEAR. WE MISS YOU SO BAD AND STRIVE FOR A BETTER HOME SO WE CAN ALL BE TOGETHER AGAIN.

SADLY MISSED BY HIS WIFE, VONDA, HIS CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

Champions Corner

WHO ARE THE CHAMPIONS AGAINST DRUGS?

ons Against Drugs program, the correct answer is (d), all of the above. Answer (a) refers to the Champions Regional Action Group that sponsors this newspaper column as well as a number of other drug awareness and prevention activities in the local area. The group consists of educators, parents, business people and other community leaders who identify community needs that are related to drug abuse problems and work cooperatively together to provide programs and to solve problems. Membership in the group is open to any concerned citizens who are willing to give time and energy to these efforts.

Can you select the correct answer to the following questions? Who are the real Champions Against Drugs?

(a) a group of concerned citizens who are coordinating drug abuse prevention activities for their communities;

(b) athletes and other well-known Kentuckians who serve as role models and speak to young people about choosing drug-free lifestyles;

(c) Kentuckians of any age who do their part to fight drug abuse; or

(d) all of the above.

According to the Mountain Regional Action Group for the Champi-

Athletes and other well-known Kentuckians who serve as role models and appear at schools and community rallies to speak to young people are known as the "Council of Champions." The most active of these Champions is Doug Flynn, a former Mets and Cincinnati Reds baseball player, who now serves as the Executive Director for the Champions program in Kentucky.

The Regional Action Group and the Council of Champions make significant contributions to drug abuse prevention efforts, but any Kentuckian can truly be a Champion Against Drugs.

On a personal level, being a Champion, first of all, means obeying the laws regarding alcohol and other drug use. For adults who choose to drink, it means setting a good example in the use of alcohol. Champions are concerned about their own mental and physical health and for the health of their loved ones. They take advantage of educational programs and ask for help with personal problems when it is needed.

Champions Against Drugs encourage those around them to make healthy lifestyle choices. Children and teens are Champions when they work hard at school, choose to be involved in positive social and recreational activities and encourage their friends to do the same. Young Champions realize that their choices are important and they care about making a contribution to the betterment of society.

As parents, Champions help to educate their children about the risks of alcohol and drug use, and provide appropriate supervision and limits. They are warm and loving with their children, while demanding mature and responsible behavior. Because of their impact on young people's self-esteem, parents, teachers and others who care for children are among the most influential Champions Against Drugs.

These are just a few of the many ways citizens in the Mountain Regional area can become Champions Against Drugs. If you would like to talk to someone about how you can become a Champion, call the Regional Champions office at 886-8572.

Geological Survey releases booklet on earthquakes

People traveling on the Ohio River early on the morning of Feb. 7, 1812, told of being awakened by "violent agitations of the boat," of hearing sounds like "the discharge of a heavy cannon," of seeing the river's tree-lined banks collapsing into frothy water.

They were witnessing what has been called the most violent series of earthquakes ever to occur in eastern North America — in 1811 and 1812 along the New Madrid Fault, which parallels the Mississippi River into the far western reaches of Kentucky. Traveler observations are documented in a new publication of the Kentucky Geological Survey, based at the University of Kentucky in Lexington.

"The Great Central Mississippi Valley Earthquakes of 1811-12: is one of three recent publications by the KGS. The other two are "Kentucky Coal Production, 1790-1988," and "Use of Limestone, Lime and Dolomite for SO₂ Emission Control in Kentucky."

All three are important publications for Kentuckians, KGS Geologic Editor Margaret Luther Smath says. But the earthquake booklet is particularly relevant, she points out, because scientists have predicted that a major quake will occur along the New Madrid Fault within 20 years.

Newman elected

LARRY NEWMAN

At the recent Annual Convention of the Kentucky State Association of Life Underwriters, held at the Executive West in Louisville, Larry D. Newman, CLU, ChFC, of Lexington was elected President-Elect of the 2500 member organization for the 1990-91 year.

Newman is a graduate of Betsy Layne High School and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Newman of Grethel.

The Kentucky Association of Life Underwriters is affiliated with the National Association of Life Underwriters, Washington D.C., and is a professional organization dedicated to the welfare of the insuring public, the institution of life insurance and the career Life Underwriter.

Authors Ronald L. Street of UK's Department of Geological Sciences and the late Otto W. Nuttli of St. Louis University's Department of Earth and Atmospheric Sciences write that the 1811-1812 earthquakes were so powerful that they:

— Reduced several towns in southeastern Missouri and southern Illinois to rubble, and dropped the elevation of New Madrid, Mo., by 13 feet.

— Caused structural damage to buildings as far away as Cincinnati and St. Louis.

— Sent shockwaves to such distant states as Connecticut and South Carolina.

The region, however, was sparsely populated and log cabin structures were resilient to ground motions, "so loss of life was small," Smath says. "Unfortunately, such would not be the case today."

The limestone publication, authored by Garland Dever Jr. of the KGS staff, deals with the use of the rock to help control sulfur emissions at 13 coal and gas fired plants in Kentucky.

The booklet on coal production, by Oscar Barton Davidson, also of the KGS staff, presents almost 200 years of coal production data for Kentucky by coal field, county and type of mining.

All three can be ordered from Publication Sales, Kentucky Geological Survey, 228 Mining and Minerals Resources Building, University of Kentucky, Lexington, KY 40506-0107. Earthquakes sells for $3 and limestone for $1, both with shipping charges of $1.75; and coal production costs $15, with shipping charges of $2.25.

Declining mortgage rates in July boost existing-home sales rates

Steady declines in mortgage rates in July boosted sales of existing single-family homes for the second consecutive month, reflecting a rise in activity not yet affected by the financial market disruption of August, according to the National Association of Realtors.

The association recorded a seasonally adjusted annual sales rate* of 3.44 million existing single-family homes last month, which was 3.3 percent higher than June's rate of 3.33 million units. The July resale rate was 1.8 percent above the July 1989 pace.

According to NAR President Norman D. Flynn, last month's activity showed strong buyer response to continuous mortgage rate declines earlier this summer. "Home buyers watched rates keep drifting down and started making their move," he said. "The rate drops brought in some borderline buyers who were priced out of the market earlier this year, as well as buyers who could have bought sooner, but chose to wait out the rate increases."

The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. reported that the national average commitment rate for 30-year, conventional, fixed-rate mortgages fell from 10.06 percent to 9.98 percent during July.

The June-to-July increase in the national median home price was indicative of the increased demand, Flynn noted. The national median existing home-price was $98,000 in July, up 0.9 percent from June, and up 3.4 percent from one year earlier. The median is a midpoint; half the homes sell for more and half sell for less.

With sales gaining momentum in June and July, existing-home activity appeared poised to rise further in August. However, recent mortgage rate increases, resulting from oil price hikes due to the crisis in the Middle East, likely will push down resales overall this month, Flynn noted. "Iraq's craziness will be felt in U.S. housing markets," he said.

NAR is not forecasting long-term surges for mortgage rates. A downward trend currently is predicted for the final quarter of 1990, which should spur home sales once again, Flynn said. NAR expects existing single-family home sales to total about 3.33 million units for 1990, dropping 4.0 percent from last year.

Regionally, sales pace increases were posted in the Northeast and South in July, while the West and Midwest reported declines.

A surge of activity in the Northeast suggests that consumers were starting to take advantage of buyer's market conditions that existed for months in the region's high-cost areas, said NAR Chief Economist John A. Tuccillo. In the Northeast, the resale pace jumped 14.3 percent, from 490,000 units in June to 560,000 units in July. The pace was 7.7 percent higher than that of one year earlier.

"July's build-up in resales was the result of greater activity in the lower price ranges," Tuccillo said. "Sellers have adjusted their prices to fit a buyer's market, and buyers have responded." The median price in the Northeast was $143,300 in July, 3.4 percent below the June price and 2.2 percent below the price for July 1989.

*The South posted a notable increase in resales in July. There, the pace of existing-home sales was 1.40 million units last month up 6.9 percent from June, as well as from July 1989. To some extent, the resale pace increase in the South reflects rising activity in the Southeast, where several formerly depressed oil-dominated markets are springing back.

According to Tuccillo, "one positive impact" of the Persian Gulf situation is the boost higher oil prices will give to housing markets in oil producing areas in the Southwest. "Rising oil prices will push up real estate values in those areas," he said. The median home price in the South, $88,900, rose 1.6 percent from June and 3.6 percent from one year earlier.

In the West, the July resale rate was 520,000 units, down 10.3 percent from June's rate of 580,000 units. The July rate was 8.8 percent below that of one year ago. The July median price for the West, $141,500, was 2.9 percent below the median price for one year ago, but rose 2.5 percent above the price for the previous month.

According to Tuccillo, the falloff in sales in the West primarily was due to slower activity in the coastal markets of California. "When California cools down, the whole region feels it," he said. A slowdown in the West Coast's high-cost areas was inevitable, considering the extremely heavy sales and price spikes that occurred in those markets last year, he noted.

The Midwest posted a resale rate of 930,000 units in July, falling 3.1 percent below June's pace of 960,000 units, which was the highest rate recorded there so far this year. The July rate was 1.1 percent below the pace for July 1989. The median existing-home price there was $76,300, up 4.0 percent from July 1989 and up 0.5

percent from June. Despite the moderate resale decline last month, Midwest markets are holding strong, buoyed by a large volume of relatively lower-priced homes and economic strength, Tuccillo noted.

There were 2.63 million existing single-family homes available for sale nationally at the end of July, representing a 9.2-month supply at the July resale rate.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, is the voice for real estate, representing nearly 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

* The annual rate for a particular month represents what the total number of actual sales for a year would be if the relative resale pace for that month were maintained for 12 consecutive months.

Seasonally adjusted annual rates are used in reporting monthly data to factor out seasonal variations in resale activity. For example, home sales volume normally is higher in the summer and relatively light in the winter months, primarily because of differences in the weather.

ATTENTION APPALACHIAN LADIES: Ages 29-48

I'm a divorced christian male, 46 yrs. old, 5 ft., 10 1/2 in. tall and 196 lbs. Financially secure and an antique dealer from Western Kentucky. I was very moved by the 48 hrs. documentary on poverty in Floyd County. I would very much like to meet an unspoiled Appalachian lady for marriage and a better life. Young Bankers have PEP

If you thought you had to go to a bank to see a banker, you haven't heard about PEP. PEP, the Personal Economics Program, is a program of the American Bankers Association which is implemented in Kentucky through the Kentucky Bankers Association Young Bankers Division.

Local bankers, in their fourth year of this program, volunteer their time visiting local school, civic and social groups to explain banking services, careers in banking and other economic issues of interest. Their goal is to work with educators to develop a more educated consumer in the 1990's.

This past school year, Kentucky PEP Bankers made over 2200 presentations and reached approximately 55,000 students across the state. Last year, nationwide, the 26 states involved in the program reached over 700,000 students. Kentucky also held its first statewide essay contest for sixth graders on "How Banking Benefits My Community."

The Kentucky Bankers Association won the American Bankers Association's Personal Economics Program's 1990 PEP State Award of Excellence, the second year in a row, for outstanding programs educating the public in personal finance, economics and banking.

For additional information on this free public service, or to schedule a PEP presentation, contact the Kentucky Bankers Association, Suite 500, One Riverfront Plaza, Louisville, KY, 40202, (502) 582-2453.

IRS concerned about misclassification of employees

Because a number of business employers seek to avoid having to pay employment taxes by misclassifying their workers, the IRS has been making compliance contacts with businesses employing "independent contractors."

In Kentucky, IRS revenue officers, who are employment tax specialists, have made numerous contacts in the last year with employers in the coal industry, construction, trucking, auto body shops, cable TV and a variety of other types of business. During the last year over $1 million in additional taxes have been proposed as a result of their findings.

The General Accounting Office (GAO) estimated in a September 1989 report that at least $1.6 billion dollars in tax revenues nationwide are being lost each year as a result of misclassified workers. If the IRS finds that a worker has been misclassified as an independent contractor, it can assess back social security taxes. If the business is unable to pay the taxes, the IRS can hold the responsible officers of the company liable for these taxes plus penalties and interest.

The misclassification of employees as independent contractors is a critically important compliance issue affecting businesses of many kinds, especially small businesses. Not only is compliance with tax laws poor among those who count themselves as "self-employed" or independent contractors, but in many instances these workers should really be treated as employees and given the benefits that go along with employee status. Employees who are misclassified as independent contractors are denied the benefits of social security, earned income and child care credits, and unemployment insurance.

Whether an employee/employer relationship exists will depend on the circumstances. Generally speaking, if the employer has control over what will be done, gives a worker the tools and a place to work, and has the right to fire the worker, then the worker should be treated as an employee for tax purposes. It must be pointed out that neither the employee nor the employer can optionally choose the "independent contractor" arrangement if the above requirements for employee/employer relationship exists.

The IRS nationwide and in Kentucky will continue their compliance contracts with businesses who employ independent contractors. The investigation of businesses concerning possible misclassification of workers is an ongoing IRS compliance project.

Additionally, the IRS is trying to inform employers about establishing the correct employment relationship with their workers. At different locations around the state IRS offers Small Business Tax Workshops where there is discussion about the correct interpretation for tax purposes of the employer/employee relationship. Business persons can register for one of these workshops by calling the IRS toll free number listed in the telephone directory and asking for the taxpayer education coordinator.

If an individual worker has a doubt about whether he or she is being afforded the correct employment status by an employer, he/she should send a completed copy of Form SS-8, "Information for Use in Determining Whether a Worker is an Employee for Federal Employment Taxes and Income Tax Withholding," to the IRS for a determination of employment status.

It is the IRS's hope to inform and educate the public about the legal differences between independent contractors and employees so that no misclassification of workers will occur.

Tractors kill most during farm accidents

Nineteen Kentuckians died in farm-related accidents during the first six months of 1990, according to a mid-year summary report of Kentucky Farm Bureau's farm fatality survey.

The January to June total was three less than the 22 victims reported the first half of 1989, and tied with the 1987 and 1988 reports for the lowest number of deaths recorded for those months in the eight-year history of the survey.

A surprising 17 of 19 victims succumbed to tractor accidents, a ratio of nearly 90 percent. In last year's six-month report, 11 of 22 deaths, or half, were tractor-related.

Victims ranged in age from 5 to 84, reflecting the proximity of farm homes and children to farm workplaces, as well as the tendency of elderly farm family members to continue working on a farmstead well past normal retirement age.

Nine of the nineteen victims were over 65 years of age.

Taylor County recorded two fatalities during the six-month period. Counties reporting one farm death were Ballard, Meade, Hardin, Barren, Simpson, Cumberland, Wayne, Lincoln, Boyle, Mercer, Fayette, Spencer, Oldham, Trimble, Boone, Grant and Carter.

Ten deaths occurred because of tractor overturns. Those accidents involved common farm activities such as mowing, pulling logs and plowing. Many occurred on steep terrain, a feature prevalent on many Kentucky farms.

The youngest victim, a 5-year-old, fell from a tractor on which he was a passenger. Safety specialists frequently warn of the hazards of facing those who hitch a ride on a tractor drawbar or rear fender. The peril is even more evident when a youthful rider is involved.

The coordinator of the survey blames many of the fatal tractor accidents in Kentucky on operator's willingness to place the machines in situations and on terrain unsuited for their use.

"There's always a tendency to want to mow a little higher on a hill, or get just a little closer to the stream bank for a better appearance for the property," says David Finney, safety director for Kentucky Farm Bureau Insurance.

"If anything happens while the tractor is on that steep spot, like hanging on a stump or having a wheel drop into an animal den, that may be all it takes to throw it over," Finney said.

Sex abuse seminar scheduled

Prosecutors, investigators, hospital emergency room personnel and other professionals from Eastern Kentucky will be attending special training sessions on child and adult sexual assault in Prestonsburg on Sept. 12 and in London on Sept. 13.

The training sessions will focus on procedures and standards recommended in the Sexual Assault Medical Protocol developed last year by Attorney General Fred Cowan's Victims' Advocacy Division. "Kentucky needs a system that not only produces solid physical evidence for strong court cases on sexual assault but also a system that recognizes the rights and special needs of the victims," Cowan says. "The Protocol guide and these training sessions help us achieve that goal."

The guide provides uniform legal and medical procedures for preserving important physical evidence such as blood, hair and clothing fibers. It also provides guidelines for interviewing children who have been victims of sexual assault. Kentucky is the second state to develop this kind of comprehensive guide for professionals who deal with sexual assault at all levels.

Experts from the Attorney General's Office, Kentucky State Police, Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources, various Kentucky hospitals and others will make presentations at each of the day-long training sessions. Attorney General Cowan will deliver the keynote address on sexual assault following a noon luncheon.

The training sessions will be held in Prestonsburg at the Community College and in London at the Ramada Inn. Attorney General Cowan says professionals interested in attending who have not registered should contact his Victims' Advocacy Division at (502) 564-5900.

Pot plants destroyed by thousands in Kentucky

The sound of hatchets cutting down marijuana plants is echoing across Kentucky as the Governor's Marijuana Strike Force continues its search for the illegal weed.

As of Wednesday, Aug. 29, 302,229 marijuana plants found growing in 1898 plots have been destroyed in Kentucky this year; 109 people have been arrested. Including 772 plants and four people in Floyd County, bringing the total in the Big Sandy district to 853 plants and 10 arrests. (Johnson County had 104 plants and one arrest and Pike County had 27 plants and five arrests).

"Those numbers represent thousands of hours of hard work from hundreds of Strike Force members," said Gary Faulkner, Strike Force director. "They show our cooperative approach is making a critical difference in reaching secluded areas where growers thought their plants were safe."

Governor Wallace Wilkinson created the Strike Force by executive order earlier this year. Thirteen federal and state agencies combine manpower and resources to maximize eradication efforts. Members include: the Kentucky Attorney General's Office; US Attorney's Office, Eastern and Western Districts; the Kentucky National Guard; Kentucky Water Patrol; the Kentucky State Police; Kentucky Fish and Wildlife; Civil Air Patrol; Federal Bureau of Investigation; Drug Enforcement Administration; US Forest Service; Kentucky Sheriff's Association; and the Governor's Office for a Drug-Free Kentucky.

"We're especially pleased with the compliments we received from Governor Wilkinson and national drug czar William Bennett," Faulkner added. Governor Wilkinson and Bennett inspected eradication efforts at several southeast Kentucky sites on Aug. 28, 1990.

"This is the way it's supposed to work," Bennett said of the Strike Force and its eradication efforts.

A Look At Sports

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

NOT A GOOD WEEK FOR LOCAL TEAMS

It can be said without a doubt, last Friday night was not a good night for local high school football teams. Not only did none of the teams win, but if it had not been for a last quarter touchdown by Bobby Wise for Betsy Layne against Magoffin County Saturday afternoon, none would have scored. Wheelwright, Allen Central and Prestonsburg were shut out.

COUCH SEC PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Former Paintsville standout, Joey Couch was named Player of the Week in the Southeastern Conference. Couch had 10 tackles and two quarterback sacks in the University of Kentucky's 20-17 win over Central Michigan. Couch, a nose guard, shared the Pride Award with defensive end Jerry Bell for defensive play Saturday.

WATCHING THE REDS

The Cincinnati Reds are off to a good start on their current road trip that will end with three games at Los Angeles Sunday afternoon. The Reds were 3-1 at Chicago and lost to last place Atlanta after blowing a 5-1 lead. I believe that Tom Browning is coming back too soon on the injured foot he suffered. Browning, who wasn't pitching that well anyway for the Reds before he injured the foot, has been ineffective in his two last starts.

Cincinnati will have to play their best baseball if they are to come home with any kind of lead. The Reds have a chance to pick up some ground on the Dodgers and Giants, who are not out of the picture yet. After the Atlanta series, the Reds will take to the airways for two at San Francisco and three at Dodger Stadium. Then it is back home for three with Houston (seems like the two teams haven't met all year), three with the Dodgers and two with the Giants.

Six games remain with the second place Dodgers. The Reds need to finish the series with the Dodgers without losing any ground and, better yet, extending the lead. Even though the Reds have the schedule on their side, playing 15 of their final 19 games at home and against the fifth, sixth and seventh place teams, one has to remember that the Reds have not fared too well against the lower clubs.

Why the Reds traded for Bill Doran from the Houston Astros, has many wondering if the Reds are serious about winning the division title. What they needed was a veteran pitcher to shore up an otherwise weak pitching staff. Doran will not be able to help the Reds. Also, does the arrival of Doran signal the moving on of one Ron Oester? But the Reds need another good, solid pitcher who can add to a staff that seems to be sinking.

Remember, you can hear all the Reds games on radio station WMDJ-FM out of Martin, 100.1 on your dial.

MANUAL SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO PLAY—SOMEWHERE

The on-going saga of Eric Manuel (you remember, the one who has suffered for the Kentucky probation) took an unusual twist last week when Manual won a temporary restraining order, barring the NAIA from enforcing a ruling that Manuel is ineligible to play at Oklahoma City University or any other NAIA school.

Manual should be permitted to play basketball at some college. He is the victim of the whole mess at UK and what he has been accused of doing is not worse than Eddie Sutton's part in the drama. Yet, Sutton is permitted to go on an coach at Oklahoma State without any problems. The NCAA has made a bad judgment call on this one and so has the NAIA.

Until next week, good sports. And remember, be good sports!

Founders Day Bowl

Osborne's TD Sends Hornets Past Betsy Layne, 12-6

It was Founders Day in Magoffin County Saturday and the Betsy Layne Bobcats traveled to the Salyersville to take on the Hornets in the Founders Day Bowl.

Once again the Bobcats defense shined. However, it once again was the offense that could not get things going, even though the Bobcats did show some good ball movement in the fourth period when they scored their first touchdown of the football season.

Brian Osborne, a former Betsy Layne student, scored both Hornet touchdowns in rushing for 147-yards on 23 carries to lead Magoffin County to a 12-6 win over Gerald Newsome's Bobcats.

It was the same thing for the Bobcats as it was in games one and two — good defense, no offense. Betsy Layne could only manage 154 total yards in the game. 142-yards were on the ground while 12-yards came on a pass reception by Chad Mitchell from Brian Combs. Bobby Wise led the ground attack for Betsy Layne with 68-yards on eight carries. The Bobcats' defense spent more time on the field than did the offense.

With the Hornets leading 6-0, Osborne scored his second touchdown for Magoffin County with 7:15 to go in the game to give Magoffin County a 12-0 lead. Osborne carried the ball from eight yards out for the score. The scored came at the end of a 82-yard drive by the Hornets that began on the Bobcats' 32-yard line.

Betsy Layne came back quickly on a good drive by the Bobcats. From Magoffin County's 42, the Bobcats marched 59-yards for their first touchdown this season. Bobby Wise carried the ball across the goal line from 8-yards out to make the score 12-6 with 4:36 to go.

Magoffin County scored their first touchdown in the second quarter on a 8-yard run by Osborne. The Hornets score was set on a fumble by Brian Combs that Magoffin County recovered.

In the final 4:36 of the game, the Hornets were content to try and run out the clock. Magoffin was faced with a third and nine when Osborne broke lose for a 9-yard pick up. Quarterback Terry Traylor picked up the first down on a quarterback sneak. However, the Bobcats did get the football back on a fumble by Osborne with :58 showing. Bobcat quarterback, Chad Mitchell, was unable to move the ball with time running out.

"Chad (Hunter) did a great job of running the team," said Bobcat mentor Gerald Newsome. "Our offensive line really hurt us today. They had been looking good in practice but today they hurt us."

Newsome took notice of the fact that his defensive team was on the field too long.

"I wish I had more positive things to say about the game," he added.

Magoffin County was playing with a lot of people out, according to coach Chul Williams.

"We had four starters out today," he remarked. "One because of a car wreck and another with a pinched nerve. We had to fill those spots with two sophomores, Earl Marshall and Matt Reed. David Gibson, a freshman, really came in and helped us."

Magoffin County had a total yardage of 255-yards, with 237-yards coming on rushing and just 18 passing. Magoffin fumbled the ball four times, recovering two. The Hornets were penalized six times for 40-yards. Magoffin County's quarterback was sacked once for a 2-yard loss.

Betsy Layne fumbled three times, recovering two of those. The Bobcats were penalized five times for 50-yards. The Bobcats' quarterback was sacked three times for a loss of 13-yards.

In the bowl game, each team picked an offensive and defensive player. For Magoffin County, Osborne received the offensive player's trophy and Terry Traylor was the defensive player. Chad Mitchell received the offensive award for Betsy Layne while Jamie Kidd was the defensive player for the Bobcats.

Betsy Layne will still be looking for their initial win as they host Johns Creek on homecoming night at Betsy Layne. Game time is 8 p.m. with the festivities scheduled to start around 7 p.m.

The Bobcats are 0-3 while Magoffin County goes to 2-1.

Mitchell On Hand Off

Big District Game

Prestonsburg Falls To Whitesburg 30-0 In Important District Game

Prestonsburg coach Bill Letton had said earlier that the game with Whitesburg was a big one for his Blackcats in the second game of the young season. The Blackcats looked good in the first half of the game, as both defenses got after each other. The game was a fast paced one that moved quickly. However, the second half proved to be the downfall of the Blackcats as they dropped a 30-0 district contest to the Yellowjackets.

Whitesburg's big fullback, Junior Holland, was a one-man show for the Yellowjackets as he rushed for 272-yards on 28 carries. No one else came close to the junior fullback. Owen Gibson managed 40-yards on 10 carries.

The first half was a well-played game on both sides as the teams played to a 0-0 standoff. Prestonsburg took the ball inside the Whitesburg 20-yard line with 1:19 remaining in the second quarter, however, the drive stalled when on a fourth and three,

John Clark was stopped short of a first down and Whitesburg took over the ball on downs.

On the Blackcats' next possession, and with the ball on their own 36 with 17 seconds remaining in the half, Tucker threw for Clark when pass interference was called on Whitesburg and the Yellowjackets were assessed 15-yards, giving the Blackcats a first down on the Yellowjackets' 49-yard line. On a first and 10 play, Clark hit McGuire with a pass for what appeared to be a touchdown. However, one official said that McGuire went out of bounds with the catch while another called the catch good. After a discussion followed, the TD was nullified and the half ended.

Prestonsburg received the ball on the kickoff at the start of the second half and was unable to move the ball. On Whitesburg's first possession of the half, Yellowjacket quarterback Lenny Bates found Craig Abbanti in the end zone from 34-yards out for a touchdown. Bates ran the conversion to give Whitesburg a 8-0 lead.

After Prestonsburg gave the football up on an interception, Whitesburg marched 59-yards for another touchdown on a pass from Bates to Abbanti from 4-yards out to give the Yellowjackets a 15-0 lead. Whitesburg picked up three first downs on the drive with Holland picking up 16-yards on a third and long situation.

Whitesburg made it 22-0 in the third quarter on a 1-yard run by Owen Gibson. Thomas kicked the extra point for the Yellowjackets as coach Tom Searcy began to run in new players.

In the opening seconds of the fourth quarter, the Blackcats found themselves facing a fourth and 13. McGuire was in punt formation when he received a bad snap from center. McGuire, unable to get his punt off, See P'BURG, B 2

Rebels Shut Out 2nd Game Straight: Lose At Phelps, 25-0

The Allen Central Rebels have fallen on tough times of late in high school football as they suffered their second consecutive shutout, a 25-0 loss to the Phelps Hornets, at Phelps Friday night. The Rebels' defense could not contain the Hornets' outstanding running back, Danny Estep, a 6-1, 211-pound junior. Estep ripped the Rebel defense for 168-yards on 26 carries in scoring three touchdowns.

Phelps amassed a total of 506 offensive yards, with 436-yards coming on the ground. The Hornets passed for a total of 70-yards.

The Rebels won the toss and elected to receive the ball and put together a good drive on their first possession, marching 67-yards before having to give the football up on downs. The Rebels were knocking on the door inside the Hornets 20-yard line when Todd Lucas failed to pick up a first down on a fourth and two situation. The chains were brought to measure and Lucas missed the down by a foot.

The game saw a series of hard hits from both defensive teams. With 5:27 showing on the clock in the first quarter, Phelps got good field position from the Allen Central 38-yard line. The Rebels again turned the ball over on downs when Jamie Stone, on a fourth and one gamble, was stopped at the line of scrimmage. Phelps moved the ball to the Rebels 10-yard line where they fumbled but recovered their own miscue. Estep took the football, on a third and three, across the goal line for a touchdown. Estep also added the extra point for a 7-0 score.

Allen Central, in the second quarter, moved the football from their own 23-yard line to the Hornets' 31 as Tommy Gibson and Todd Lucas began to find some holes in the Hornets' defense. The Rebels were hit with a 5-yard penalty and, on first and 15, Brett Meadows had a pass picked off by Jukey Dotson on the 31 of Phelps.

The Hornets found themselves facing a third and 7, when Allen Central was called for a personal foul and a 15-yard penalty and a first down for Phelps. Estep took the handoff from Hornets' quarterback Jukey Dotson and fumbled the ball on the Allen Central 43 and Travis Martin recovered for Allen Central.

Again Allen Central had good field position but was unable to move against the Hornets' defense. With possession going to Phelps, the Hornets moved the ball 60-yards to the Rebels 16 where Kevin Hurley crossed the goal line for what should have been a touchdown. However, the TD was called back because of a clipping call against Phelps. On third and nine, Brett Meadows intercepted Dotson's pass and the Rebels took over.

The Rebels made things miserable for Dotson as the quarterback was sacked twice on Phelps next possession, Brian Wallen, 6-3, 295, caught the signal-caller for a loss of 8-yards. One play later, Robert Jervis, 6-0, 155, sacked Dotson for a 10-yard loss. On the play Dotson had to be carried to an awaiting ambulance because of a possible shoulder separation.

Allen Central's defense began to tire in the second half as the Hornets struck again, for a 13-0 lead. The Hornets moved the ball 84-yards for a touchdown on a 5-yard run by Hurley. The drive was helped by a 15-yard personal foul penalty on the Rebels. Danny Kidd, who took over at quarterback for Dotson, hit Hurley with a 30-yard pass in the series. On the extra point attempt, the Rebels were whistled for their second personal foul and another 15-yards.

In the opening seconds of the fourth quarter, Estep carried the ball 20-yards for the Hornets' third touchdown and a 19-0 lead.

Late in the second quarter, Phelps faced a third and 11 situation when Allen Central was called for unsportsmanlike conduct, giving the Hornets an automatic first down. Two plays later Estep scored from 3-yards out for a TD, his third of the game.

The Hornets had 436-yards on the ground and 70-yards passing for their 536-yard offense. Besides Estep's 168-yards, sophomore Danny Kidd piled up 142-yards on eight carries. Allen Central could only manage 152-yards offense, all coming on the ground. Meadows threw seven times without a completion. The Rebels were playing without their starting quarterback, B. J. Aldrich, who was injured in the Paintsville game.

Tommy Gibson rushed for 80-yards for Allen Central on 17 carries. Sixty-three of those yards came in the first half. Lucas carried 10 times for 52-yards. Allen Central did not have control of the football much in the second half, particularly in the third period. The Rebels were on offense for just two minutes and 12 seconds in the third quarter as the defense had to stay on the field the biggest part of the time. Overall, Allen Central was on offense for a total of 17:37 compared to Phelps 30:00.

Phelps fumbled the football five times but recovered three of their own fumbles. The Hornets were intercepted twice. Allen Central had only one turnover, an interception in the third period.

The Rebels were penalized three times for a total of 35-yards while Phelps received 65-yards on seven calls.

Dotson was sacked four times for a loss of 29-yards. Meadows was caught twice for 17-yards.

The Rebels fell to 1-2 while the Hornets go 2-1. Allen Central will entertain Magoffin County Friday night at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex in an 8 p.m. start.

Paintsville "pitches" second shut-out in as many weeks; defeats Trojans 43-0

Since the Paintsville Tigers played Sheldon Clark in the Big Sandy Bowl to open their 1990 football season, the Tigers have motored into Floyd County the past two Friday nights and have been stingy with their defense. The Tigers, in the second week of the schedule, whitewashed the Allen Central Rebels 42-0. This past Friday night Paintsville, 3-0, handed the Wheelwright Trojans a convincing 43-0 setback. Convincing in that the Tigers are for real, despite losing a host of talent from last year's team.

Coach Walter Brugh set out after game one with the Cardinals, to shore up his defensive unit. The boys on the other side have responded to Coach Brugh's pleas.

"We never did anything different these last two games than we did in the Sheldon Clark game," the Tigers' mentor stated. "We just moved some experienced players on the defensive line. We felt we had some green players playing there."

Coach Brugh adds that he sees a big improvement in his squad since the Sheldon Clark game.

"It's just a matter of getting some games under their belts," he added. "We're a young team and we lost a lot from last year."

The Tigers struck quickly in the first quarter on a 1-yard run by Ray Collins. The touchdown came off of a fumble by the Trojans. Wheelwright fumbled the football on the second play of the game. The touchdown drive consumed one minute and ten seconds in going 28-yards on three plays. Bryan Benson added the extra point for a 7-0 Paintsville lead. Mistakes led to the downfall of the Trojans just as they did against Fairview, Trojans and took over on the Trojan 35.

The Trojans moved the ball well in the first half against the Tigers picking up seven first downs to Paintsville's four. It was the problem of not taking care of the football that hurt the Trojans.

Paintsville scored a TD in the third when Morgan Cyrus, another one of those in the Tiger backfield, carried the ball 18-yards for a touchdown to make it 33-0. The Tigers added three more in the fourth quarter when Benson nailed a 30-yard field goal. The final scoring for Paintsville came on a 20-yard break away by Jeff Brayson, the result of an interception by the Tigers. Drew Dorton had a chance to add the extra point to give the Tigers a 43-0 shutout of Wheelwright.

The win also gave the Tigers a 18-0 record against Wheelwright since the two schools started playing each other in 1941. It was Coach Brugh's 15th win over Wheelwright and his 253rd career win.

Brad Tiller rushed for 78-yards on six carries and Matt Cyrus ran for 55-yards also on six carries. Phelps was only one for four in the passing department for 50-yards. The Tigers had a total offense of 297-yards.

Wheelwright's leading rusher was Arnold Adams with 67-yards on seven carries. Wheelwright was one for eight passing.

Wheelwright, 1-3 overall and 0-1 in district play, will take to the road for the first time this season as they will travel to Hazard for a Friday night game with the Bulldogs at 8 p.m.

when they fumbled the football five times. The Trojans coughed up the ball three times in the first quarter against Paintsville.

One of the strong points of the Tigers' squad this year is the depth they have in the backfield.

"We can go nine or ten deep back there," said the veteran coach, who is 17 wins away from becoming the winningest coach in Kentucky. "They are doing a great job back there."

The Tigers made it 14-0 when the Trojans, with their backs to the goal post, fumbled in the end zone. Defensive lineman, Sean Williams, fell on the ball as the ball was mishandled on the exchange. Benson then added the extra point.

Billy Phelps, one of the region's top quarterbacks, got things going for the Tigers in the second period when he cut around right end on a sweep and went 31-yards for a TD. Benson added his third point on the extra point for a 21-0 lead. Again the score was the result of a turnover by Wheelwright. Steven Johnson hit Mike Justice with a pass for 30-yards that carried Justice inside the 5-yard line to the two when he was hit. The ball was jarred loose and Paintsville recovered. The Tigers then marched 80-yards on 10 plays that concluded with Phelps' 31-yard run.

Collins scored his second touchdown in the second period when he took a handoff from Phelps 3-yards out and ran the ball in. Wheelwright was facing a fourth and eight from their own 35-yard line. The Trojans lined up in punt formation only to fake the punt and try to run the ball. However, the Tigers stopped the ran the ball and galloped 41-yards before being hauled down on the Whitesburg 25-yard line, giving the Blackcats a ray of hope. Runs by Clark, James Derosssett and Allen James moved the ball to the Yellowjackets' 11-yard line where Tucker, on fourth and seven, had his pass intercepted by John Combs for a touchdown.

With the ball spotted on the Whitesburg 20-yard line, Holland became unstoppable as the fullback carried for 62-yards on the Yellowjackets' next series of plays and Hale carried the ball across the goal line from 7-yards out for a touchdown. The conversion was good and it was 30-0 Whitesburg.

Whitesburg piled up 349-yards on the ground. Bates had three completions for 32-yards for a total offense of 381-yards. Whitesburg fumbled the football once and the Yellowjackets had 15 first downs. Whitesburg collected 40-yards in penalties.

Prestonsburg managed just 134-yards on the ground. McGuire had 47 on two carries. John Goble rushed for 29-yards on 12 carries. Tucker had seven completions for 48-yards for a total offense of 182-yards. The Blackcats picked up seven first downs and were penalized just 5-yards. Prestonsburg turned the ball over twice — both interceptions.

Whitesburg goes to 3-0 overall and 1-0 in district play. Prestonsburg evens their record at 1-1 and the Blackcats have the same record in district play.

Prestonsburg will entertain the Golden Eagles of Johnson Central Friday night at the Prestonsburg Athletic Field in an 8 p.m. start.

Bassin' with the pros

EVEN BASS PROS HAVE FAVORITE FISHING SPOTS

Not long ago David Wharton, a fulltime professional bass angler, stopped at a particular spot on Sam Rayburn Reservoir during a tournament and started casting. On his third or fourth cast he connected with a 12-pound, 10-ounce largemouth, the biggest bass he's ever caught and only two ounces below the lake record.

While Wharton was putting that fish in his boat's livewell, his partner caught a 10-pound, 8-ounce bass from the same spot.

As that fish was being put into the livewell, Wharton cast again and caught a seven-pound, nine-ounce bass — from the very same place.

Catching 30-pounds of bass from one spot in less than three minutes should make that one of Wharton's favorite places on the huge East Texas reservoir, right?

Wrong!
Wharton, a member of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff and a former fulltime guide on Rayburn, returned to the spot a few weeks later during another tournament and never had a strike.

He even released the 12-pounder later, in hopes he could possibly catch it again. The bass has probably gained enough weight by now to be a new lake record.

"Bass are like that," laughs Wharton. "I can only guess I found those fish moving through the area at that particular time. I will say it was quite a thrill to catch a big bass so early in a tournament day. That doesn't happen very often."

Wharton, who has fished Rayburn since its impoundment more than two decades ago, does admit to having a favorite fishing spot on the lake.

"It's a place I found by accident not long after I began guiding," he remembers. "It's a long point or ridge out in open water. A creek channel comes right in on one side, swings away from the point, then turns and horseshoes right back beside it on the other side."

"On top of the ridge the water is about 10-feet deep, but on either side the depth drops to about 42 feet in the creek, and on the very end of the point it's 27 feet deep."

Basically, it's an ideal piece of structure," Wharton continues. "The fish have everything there they want, such as shallow water near deep water, cover, current and food."

For several years early in his guiding career, Wharton kept a notebook record of his guide trips, noting everything he could about the number of fish caught and under what conditions. In one year, he and his clients caught over 5,000 bass, and more than 1,000 of them came from this particular ridge.

"Bass are still on it," says the Johnson pro. "They've probably been on it since the day it was first covered with water."

In the early days of his guiding, Wharton often explored new areas with his clients, although they never knew it.

"The fishing was so good on the new lake that we could usually catch all the bass we wanted within a couple of hours," he says. "After that, I'd just suggest we try another place I knew about. I never told them it was a place I'd never fished before."

"Sometimes we wouldn't catch a fish from the place and I'd mark it off my list. Other times, we'd find schools of bass so large three of us would be catching fish on every cast."

NIGHT FISHING OPPORTUNITIES

During the hot weeks of summer and early fall, many bass fishing guides take their clients out at night to escape the heat. Frequently, they can catch bass as the fish move into the shallows to feed.

One of the best shallow water areas to consider, says popular guide and bass tournament pro Randy Fite, is around the rock riprap of dams and bridges.

"The rocks offer natural habitat and hiding places for all types of small creatures," explains the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff angler, "including crayfish, lizards and small minnows. Under the cover of darkness, they frequently become more active, and their activity brings in larger fish, including bass."

"You can work a crankbait down the riprap, bouncing it off the rocks to imitate a crayfish, and often catch outstanding stringers of bass."

Jigs, buzz baits, and spinnerbaits will also produce well, especially when retrieved slowly. Plastic worms are more difficult because the sliding sinker frequently snags in the rocks.

"You can begin by working your way down a riprap bank," explains the Johnson pro, "but pay particular attention to corners or angles where the riprap changes direction. Work corners from several directions and with different lures."

Fite says he is continually surprised at how shallow bass will move in the rocks when they're feeding at night. Sometimes, it seems as if there isn't enough water to cover their dorsal fins.

"Make your casts right to the waterline," he advises, "and be ready for a strike anytime. Even the big bass will move into really thin water."

Anglers aren't always the only ones out at night, however, and going fishing doesn't automatically guarantee catching bass, no matter how shallow they may be.

"A client had agreed to a night fishing trip on Lake Conroe, north of Houston," recalls Fite, "and we began by casting crankbaits along the rock riprap near the dam."

"The fish were quite shallow that night so we really had to cast close to the shoreline to catch them. Sometimes, our lures would actually land on the bank and we'd just pull them down into the water and start cranking them in."

This technique worked fine, says Fite, until his lure snagged on the bank. At least he thought it had snagged.

"It was really dark so I couldn't see anything," says the Johnson pro, "so we started to troll over to free it. At the same time, I jerked the rod to try to get the plug loose. Suddenly, my rod heeled over like I had a big bass on, but the lure started heading away from me up the rocks instead of across the water."

"I kept tight pressure on the line, and when I reached the bank I discovered I'd hooked a raccoon."

Fite's cast had evidently landed right in front of the animal as it patrolled the rocks looking for crayfish, and thinking it might be edible, had picked it up. Fite felt the resistance and set the hook.

"It took a little careful maneuvering, but we finally worked the lure free and the raccoon left to do his fishing somewhere else," says the guide. "My client and I continued working our way down the riprap, but I was a lot more careful about my casting the rest of the night."

"Where did everyone go"

SEASON DATES FOR FALL BIRDS

DOVE: September 1-30 and October 6-29, 11 a.m. to sunset; December 1-6, sunrise to sunset. The daily limit is 15; possession limit, 30. One steel shot may be used to hunt doves on the Ballard, Swan Lake, Peal, Sloughs, Kaler Bottoms, Duck Island and Ohio River Islands Wildlife Management Areas. Persons may not have lead shot in their possession while dove hunting on these WMAs.

WOODCOCK AND SNIPE:

October 1 through December 4, one half hour before sunrise to sunset. The daily limit for woodcock is 5; possession limit, 10. The daily limit for snipe is 8; possession limit, 16.

SEPTEMBER WOOD DUCKS:

September 12-16, one half hour before sunrise to sunset. The daily limit is 2; possession limit, 4. NO OTHER DUCK SPECIES MAY BE TAKEN DURING THE SEPTEMBER SEASON. Hunters may not use or possess lead shot while hunting in that portion of Western Kentucky designated as the Steel Shot Zone, or in Bracken or Oldham Counties. State and Federal waterfowl stamps required.

Some wildlife management areas (and public lands) have seasons and regulations which differ from the standard statewide guidelines, while others are closed to all migratory bird hunting.

For complete information on any Kentucky hunting season, contact the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relations, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601; phone 502-564-4336.

BE ON THE LOOKOUT!

It's illegal to hunt doves (or any other migratory game birds) over baited areas. Before hunting an area, sportsmen should check carefully for any possibility of illegal baiting. Remember, a person can be cited for hunting a baited area — regardless of who actually did the baiting!

Hunters who discover a baited field should contact a state conservation officer or call 1-800-25ALERT.

Illegal baiting occurs when grains, salt or other attractants are placed on an area (aside from normal agricultural practices) to lure birds into shooting range. An area remains baited for 10 days after all attracting substances have been removed.

Food plots grown to attract doves may be hunted as long as no other attractants have been added.

As a further reminder, make sure shotguns are plugged before going afield. Shotguns used to hunt all game (except deer) must be plugged to hold no more than three shells — two in the magazine and one in the chamber.

NATIONAL HUNTING AND FISHING DAY

Saturday, September 22, is National Hunting and Fishing Day, an observance established by Congress to recognize the vital role sportsmen play in wildlife conservation.

For all your hunting supplies, come to DANIELS GUN & AMMO SHOP on Cliff Road, Prestonsburg. Plenty of new and used guns and wide selection of ammunition at low prices.

Jones Improving after injury

Long time Wheelwright Trojan fan Perry Jones is recuperating from a foot injury he suffered at work. Jones has been off of work for several weeks now and says that he hopes to be back on his feet again real soon.

"I just want to thank the community of Wheelwright for all they have done for me since my accident," says the likable and popular Jones. "The people in Wheelwright have been real good to me. They have help me get back and forth to the hospital and they have done other things for me."

Perry, who was hurt at work, is now sporting a cast on his foot. It is not the cast that is bothering Jones, it is missing the Trojans' football games of which he has been around for the past 32 years.

"I really miss it," he said, "and I don't know when I will be able to get back to work, but I am hoping it won't be much longer." Jones works for the state highway department.

"I appreciate all the fans in Floyd County for helping me also," he added. "Sports is my life and when I am not around it I miss it."

Jones can be seen at all the Trojan football games and has been associated with Trojan basketball for the past 30 years. All the sports fans in Floyd County wish Jones the best.

GILLIAM TRANSFERS FROM LAWRENCE COUNTY

The Allen Central Rebels got a new football player when David Gilliam, 6-0, 230 sophomore, transferred from Lawrence County to the Right Beaver school. Gilliam plays center for Allen Central.

The unique thing about Gilliam is the way he excels in the classrooms. Gilliam had a 3.3 GPA while a freshman at Lawrence County High School last year. He transferred to Allen Central when his father, Curt was transferred by Ashland Oil.

"I was afraid that David would have trouble coming to a new school and having to make an adjustment," said the elder Gilliam. "He is making those adjustments and he really likes the school. When he first went on the field he felt right at home."

Gilliam will be entering his sixth year in football, playing since the fifth grade. His hobbies includes weight lifting, hunting, fishing and baseball. His mother is Shari Gilliam. Welcome aboard, David!

Free food and fun for the family:

11th annual Slone Mountain Squirrel Festival, September 9

by Norma Neeley

As one enters the gates and drives along the winding, tree-lined road that leads to the top of Slone Mountain, he or she can be assured that time for the Squirrel Festival has arrived once again. The delicious aroma of roast pig, beef and venison sizzling over a hickory wood fire is a warm greeting to all who choose to spend a day of old-fashioned family fun among friends and neighbors.

The Squirrel Festival, now in its 11th year, will be held Sunday, Sept. 9. The location, as usual, will be on Slone Mountain near McDowell on the Wayland-Minnie Road. The festivities will begin at 9 a.m. Admission, food and all activities are free.

The festival began approximately 30 years ago when Virginia Slone and her husband the late Helton Slone, together with family and friends, met atop a mountain on their farm to enjoy a day of food and fellowship. As more people became interested in the yearly event, the couple decided to include the public in the celebration. Today, the old-fashioned family atmosphere remains, and the original small group has increased to thousands of folks from throughout Kentucky and bordering states.

When it comes to entertainment, fun and enjoyment are the order of the day. There are games such as horseshoe pitching, the greasy pole climb, the greasy pig chase, the caver's crawl, and many other events. For those who like a more relaxed type of entertainment, there is a variety of music provided by members of several Bluegrass, gospel and country bands who very willingly donate their time each year.

Lunchtime is probably the highlight of the day, but the arduous task of food preparation begins on Saturday afternoon. Many dedicated cooks who volunteer their time work throughout the night, and when it is time to eat on Sunday at noon, there is plenty of home-cooked food for everyone. The menu consists of a variety of wild game (including squirrel and squirrel gravy) and other mountain delicacies such as roast pig, roast beef, venison, ribs, soup beans, sauerkraut, potatoes, cornbread and drinks.

Some people may choose to bring a picnic lunch to enjoy while lounging underneath one of the many tall poplar trees.

During the day, local craftsmen demonstrate their abilities in painting, making dolls, quilts, dulcimers, soap, ceramics and other mountain crafts.

Ray and Kelly Slone, festival hosts, have made several improvements to accommodate the growing festival crowd. Last year, they added a huge parking lot, and this year a two-lane road from Highway 1086 to the festival site.

The Slone brothers have decided that the festival is to be a tribute to their parents and the Eastern Kentucky area.

New addition

In order to provide safer travel to and from the Slone Mountain Squirrel Festival, Kelly Slone has widened the roadway to two-lanes this year. Last year the major improvement was the addition of a large parking lot.

Broccoli may not be the President's favorite food, but some people hold broccoli near and dear to their heart. Here are a few tips and recipes pertaining to this tree-looking vegetable submitted by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture Cooperative Extension Service.

Broccoli is a member of the cabbage family and a close relative of cauliflower. The word "broccoli" is derived from the Italian word "brocco" meaning arm branch. Broccoli, one of the most popular of America's fresh vegetables, is available throughout the year. An excellent cool weather crop, Kentucky-grown broccoli is most abundant in the cooler summer months and early fall. It is least abundant in July and August.

FRESH IS BEST

Fresh broccoli, along with other leafy vegetables, is rich in nutrition. Its an excellent source of vitamins A and C. It also contains ample amounts of calcium iron and some B vitamins as well. In addition to its nutritional value, broccoli is low in calories. One stalk of broccoli contains 45 calories. One cup of stalks cut into 1/2 inch pieces has 40 calories.

SELECTING AND STORING

When you shop for broccoli, look for a firm, compact head with compact cluster of small flower buds. Broccoli heads should be dark green or sage green or even purplish green in color. Avoid over-mature broccoli that has open buds, a yellowish green color, or looks wilted. Also avoid broccoli with soft, slippery water-soaked spots, a sign of decay.

Broccoli should be refrigerated immediately after purchasing or picking to prevent loss of crispness. Broccoli can be stored in a plastic bag in the refrigerator vegetable drawer up to a week without too much loss of quality, but it is better to use it within two days. One pound of broccoli will provide four servings of two medium spears.

TIPS ON HANDLING

To prepare broccoli for cooking, trim off the leaves, trim the main stem slightly, and wash. If the stems are more than 1/2 inch in diameter, slit them up the middle almost to the flowerets to reduce cooking time. The leaves and discarded stalk can be used in making soup.

UPRIGHT METHOD OF COOKING: Tie in a bunch, stand stalk-down in the bottom part of a double boiler containing about one inch of boiling water. Bring to boil and cook five minutes. Cover with the inverted top of the double boiler and cook until crisp-tender, about 10 to 15 minutes.

THE SAUCEPAN METHOD: Place broccoli in a saucepan with one inch of boiling water. Cook with cover off for first five minutes, and then cook covered 10-15 minutes or until crisp-tender. The cover may be left off the entire cooking period to protect the green color of the vegetables. Cook as briefly as possible in a small amount of water to preserve crispness and nutrients.

RECIPES

SWEET AND SOUR MARINATED BROCCOLI AND CAULIFLOWER

1 (1lb) bunch fresh broccoli
2 cups fresh cauliflower flowerets
1/2 lb fresh mushrooms, cut in half
1 bunch green onions, chopped
1/2 cup sugar (or less)
1/2 cup vegetable oil
2 Tbsps wine vinegar
1 tsp celery seeds
3/4 tsp salt
1 tsp paprika
2 Tbsps minced green onion
Dash garlic powder

Trim off large leaves of broccoli. Remove tough ends of lower stalks, and wash broccoli thoroughly. Cut flowerets and stems into bite-sized pieces. Combine broccoli and next three ingredients in a jar. Cover tightly and shake vigorously; pour marinade over vegetables. Cover vegetables and chill at least three hours. Serves six. (If you're short on time use a commercial salad dressing in place of this marinade.)

EASY BROCCOLISOUP

1/4 cup chopped onion
2 Tbsps butter or margarine, melted
3 Tbsps all-purpose flour
2 cups chicken broth
1 small bay leaf
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup cheese, grated
1/2 tsp pepper
1 cup finely chopped fresh broccoli
Saute onion in butter until tender. Add flour, stirring well. Gradually stir in broth, broccoli, and bay leaf. Cook over medium heat until broccoli is tender, stirring frequently. Reduce heat and remove bay leaf; stir in milk, cheese and pepper. Heat until cheese is melted. Serve immediately. Yield: 4 cups.

STIR-FRY CHICKEN

2 cups uncooked chicken cut into 1/2" cubes
4 Tbsps soy sauce
4 tps cornstarch
1/2 tsp ground ginger
2/3 cup water
3 Tbsps vegetable oil
1-1/2 cups carrots, thinly sliced on diagonal
1 medium onion, thinly sliced on diagonal
2 cups broccoli flowerets (peel stems and slice)

In medium bowl, combine chicken, 2 Tbsps soy sauce, 2 tps cornstarch and ginger; toss until well mixed. In small bowl, mix remaining soy sauce, water and remaining cornstarch; set aside. Heat 2 Tbsps vegetable oil in wok. Add chicken and stir over high heat three minutes. Remove with slotted spoon. Add remaining vegetable oil to pan and heat. Add carrots and onion; stir-fry three minutes. Add broccoli and stir-fry two minutes more. Return chicken and add soy mixture; cook until mixture thickens. Serve immediately. Serves four to six.

BROCCOLISOUFLE

3 Tbsp butter or margarine
3 Tbsps flour

1 cup milk
1/4 tsp salt
1/8 tsp pepper
1/2 lb (about 2-1/2 cups) grated process cheese
3/4-1 lb fresh broccoli or 1 10 oz package frozen broccoli
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
3 eggs, separated

Melt butter in saucepan, stir in flour to make a smooth paste; add milk, salt and pepper; cook five minutes. All cheese; stir until melted. Fold in broccoli and onion. Fold in well beaten egg yolks. Lightly fold in egg whites, beaten until stiff but not dry (you'll still see some white pieces). Pour into foil-lined two-quart baking dish with straight sides. Cover and freeze quickly. When frozen, remove from dish, store in plastic freezer bag; return to freezer. Recommended storage time; six to eight weeks. Serves six to eight.

To serve: Remove foil, and place in shallow pan containing 1/2-inch hot water. Cover with foil. Bake in 350 degree oven about 45 minutes. Uncover. Bake one hour longer or until puffy and brown. To bake without freezing; Bake at 350 degrees in unlined, ungreased dish. Place in pan of hot water (1/2 inch) for one hour.

DONATIONS NEED FOR BAPTIST HOME FOR CHILDREN

The Kentucky Baptist Home for Children women's advisory board will sponsor the annual September food round-up. This project helps to provide food throughout the year for youth at the Spring Meadows and Glen Dale Children's Homes, the Baptist youth Ranch and the KBCH temporary shelters in Morehead and Dixon. Each September, KBCH invites churches, individuals and organizations to contribute money, food and other items to help support these homes.

Suggested foods include: Potatoes, sugar, juices, canned foods, dried beans, cereals, flour, mixes and other items that will not spoil (the agency cannot accept homemade or home canned foods.)

Youth at these homes also need personal items such as soap, shampoo, toothpaste, toothbrushes and lotions (most of the youth are from 14-16 years of age.)

The WMU members will be collecting items at the First Baptist Church of Prestonsburg during the month of September and they ask that the public give generously.

BRACKETT MEETS IN ASHLAND

Mrs. Ray Brackett recently attended the National Society Colonial Dams XVII Century meeting, held at the Ashland Plaza Hotel. Following a brunch-business meeting, she visited with Anna Mayo Grossl in Ashland and Mrs. Howard H. Moore of Louisville.

KANSAS VISITORS

Mrs. Woodrow Allen had with her at her home on May's branch for a few days this past week her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow W. Allen and their children, Daniel and Charles, of Overland Park, Kansas.

While here, all of them spent the day with another of Mrs. Allen's sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Allen in Lexington. The Woodrow Allen family remained there a few days for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brody, before completing their visit here.

FCRTA MEETING

Members of the executive board of the Floyd County Retired Teacher's

AARP Health Fair

The Floyd County AARP in conjunction with Highlands Regional Medical Center, will sponsor their 5th Annual Health Fair on Saturday, Sept. 22. The Health Fair will take place in the classrooms of the Learning Center at Highlands Regional from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Highlands will provide a wide range of health screening and testing. Physicians, dentists, optometrists, podiatrists and hearing specialists will donate their time and services.

The AARP Health Fair is free and available to all adults age 55 or older. It's primary objective is to encourage better health care, and perhaps enable early detection of problems which have been previously undetected.

Association held a meeting at the Floyd County Library on Wednesday, Aug. 29 at 10 a.m. Ruby Akers, president of the FCRT, presided.

She gave a reading entitled "I Know Something Good About You," and presented each person in attendance with an ink pen.

Discussion concerning membership, KRTA, BSRT and FCRT dues, AETNA Insurance, the selection of committee and the publication of the FCRT Directory were discussed.

Virginia S. Goble, first vice president, who had attended the KRTA Executive Council meeting in Louisville on Aug. 27, gave a report on transactions during that meeting.

The president was assisted by the second vice president, Alice Martin, in serving refreshments to: Alma Lowe, Imogene Caldwell, Nadine Hicks and Docia Woods.

Floyd County Retired Teachers are remained by the president of the regular luncheon-meeting to be held Thursday, Sept. 6 at 10 a.m. at the May Lodge, and are asked to be neither absent or tardy for this important event.

JOINT SERVICES

Fifth Sunday joint services will be held at the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial) on Sunday, Sept. 30 at 7 p.m. The Rev. Jennings West, pastor of the Lancer Baptist Church, will bring the message. The Rev. Steve Hopkins, pastor of the local church, would like for the public to make plans to attend these services.

WOMAN'S CLUB REMINDER

Linda McGuire, president of the

GFWC/KFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club, reminds members of the first regular meeting of the year to be held Thursday, Sept. 6 at 7 p.m. at the club's Arts and Crafts House at Archer Park and she asks that members of the executive board meet there at 7 p.m. on that same date.

BSRT MEMBER REMINDER

Norma S. Stepp, liaison person for the BSRT reminds retired teachers of Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin, Magoffin and Lawrence Counties of the annual KRTA Fall Workshop scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 13 at 8:30 a.m. at May Lodge. A special invitation is extended to recent retirees to joint with present members in becoming a part of this worthwhile group.

REBEKAH LODGE MEETS

Members of the Miriam Rebekah Lodge #31 held their bi-monthly meeting on Aug. 21, with the noble grand, Beverly Hackworth, presiding.

Prior to the meeting, a dinner of soup beans and cornbread was served. Members who continue to be ill were recorded.

An "ad" for the Grand Lodge and Rebekah Assembly was decided upon.

The noble grand suggested that table cloths be ordered for the dining room and it was agreed these be purchased. She further stated that Sept. 22 is the date for the fish fry and that Sept. 15 is the district meeting here.

The following officers have been nominated: Jean Hickman, noble grand; Donna Thomas, vice grand; Mable Jean LeMaster, secretary, and Maman Leslie, treasurer.

Delegates for the assembly were named as follows: Lorena Wallen, Maman Leslie, Paulena Owens, Hope Whitten and Virginia Goble. Alternates named were: Violetta Wright, Mary Zemo, Otela Smiley, Rebecca Bingham and Jean Hickman.

Pins, which had been sent by the International Association of Rebekah Assemblies, were presented by the noble grand to members who had been taken in this year and their sponsors. Receiving pins were: Ruby Lamping, Roberta Sloan, Lorena Wallen, Maxine Bierman and Beverly Hackworth.

Attending this meeting were Hackworth, Whitten, Leslie, Owens, Cindy Hackworth, LeMaster, Wallen, Lamping, Sloan, Bierman, Claudine Johns, Hyden and Wallace.

AMBURGY RECOVERING

The many friends and relatives of Danese Amburgy will be glad to know that she is improving nicely at her home, following recent heart surgery. Amburgy is a former president of the Floyd County Retired Teachers' Association.

Kim's Korner

By Kim Frasure

This past year we were entertained by movies like, "Look Who's Talking" and "Baby Boom", which made us even more conscious of what these little tykes must be thinking.

A couple of weekends ago, I couldn't help but wonder what was going through my little niece Rachel's mind.

As Rachael, and mom and dad, pulled into the driveway, my girls, my mother-in-law and I rushed to see her like babbling fools.

As all of us, speaking in our best baby talk and arms outstretched, tried to get her to reach for us, she looked at us with big, beautiful, brown eyes as though we were really strange.

I could just imagine her saying, "What's the deal with you nuts? Let me at least get out of this car for crying out loud."

With this thought, I backed off and decided I'd make less of a fool of myself if I let her come around to me.

Once we got inside the house, my sister-in-law sat Rachael down on the floor. She took off walking and my heart was broke. "She's only 10 months old, she's too young to be doing this," I whined.

Rachael proceeded to look at me, as though to say, "Aunt Kim has really lost it."

As we began to play hide and seek, I found myself on all fours crawling behind Rachael from room to room. She was having a ball. I'd rather hear her giggle as eat, it's so sweet.

But then it dawned on me, as my knees began to burn from the carpet, my back feeling as though I was carrying a ton of cinder blocks, Rachael's not laughing because this is fun. She's looking over her shoulder and cracking up over this 30 year old woman on her hands and knees chasing her around and around.

I can imagine her thought by this time, "Aunt Kim will do anything. She's a real nut. Look at this fish face she keeps making at me. Wow!"

I've often wondered when I walk into a room, why this beautiful little baby would grin from ear to ear. Now, I know. She probably thinks I'm the craziest, most ridiculous acting big person she's ever saw.

But that's okay. It's absolutely wonderful having my very first, most beautiful little niece in the world.

I love you Rachael!

Childbirth Prep Classes for Teens

Our Lady of the Way Hospital is offering childbirth preparation classes for pregnant teens and pre-teens through the "I Love My Baby" program, a branch of WOMANCARE. The classes are held on Thursdays from 4:30-6 p.m. at Seton Complex.

Teen and pre-teens are recommended to enter the program soon after pregnancy is determined and are encouraged to bring with them as many support persons as they wish. The program is designed to provide pregnant teens and pre-teens the opportunity to meet with other young women and men who are faced with similar experiences, decisions and fears as they face being parents at a young age. Included in the classes will be various practical experiences which may lead to more relaxed pregnancy, labor, birth and transition into parenthood.

For more information or a reservation in the class contact the Community Health Education Office at 285-5181, ext. 358.

Mitchell named CARE employee

Operating room technician Carol Mitchell has been honored by her peers for her hard work and dedication by being named the July CARE employee at the Methodist Hospital in Pikeville.

Mitchell began at Methodist as a nurse's aide in July of 1979, and continued in that position for nine years. During that time period, Mitchell moved from floor to floor in her assistance to patients. Two years ago, she became an operating room technician.

A native of Mink Branch of Craynor in Floyd County, Mitchell moved to South Carolina and graduated from Greenwood High School in 1977. After graduation, she received an associate degree in business administration with a major in accounting from Piedmont Technical College in Greenwood, South Carolina.

She now resides at Allen. CARE stands for courtesy and respect for everyone. The CARE award is a way to honor hospital employees who show exemplary caring in the way they deal with patients or other employees while at work.

Hospital Administrator Dr. John Tummons said, "To receive recognition when working in the operating room is an exceptional honor. Our operating room personnel are very professional and work hard. But most patients don't remember anything about the actual care they received during surgery. To be honored for care given in a surgery environment is a high statement of Carol's performance."

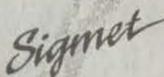

Mitchell won a weekend trip for two to Lexington and will be a finalist for the yearly award.

In parts of Europe it was once believed putting cumin seeds in bread would keep the wood spirits from stealing it. Probably always worked, too.

Birthday Girl

Ryann Lynn Thornsberry, daughter of Gary and Lisa Thornsberry, celebrated her second birthday with a big bird party at the home of her grandparents, Marvin and Lois Collins of Wayland, on Saturday, July 28. She is also the granddaughter of Normes and Delores Thornsberry of Hollybush and the great-granddaughter of Charles Murphy of Wayland and Bertha Triplett, also of Wayland. She had several local friend and family members attend to help her celebrate. Aunts and Uncles from out-of-town were Don and Lynn Caudill of Lexington, Jim Collins of Louisville, Don and Peg Murphy of Hazard and their granddaughter Margo of Connecticut, Donna and Charles Collins of Prestonsburg and their daughter Courtney.

Completes Basic

Marine Private Christopher D. Rollins, son of Larry D. Rollins and Ann McGuire, both of Prestonsburg, has completed recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

During the 13-week training cycle, Rollins was taught the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

He is a 1988 graduate of Prestonsburg High School.

Homer Wells Needed An Accident Like A Hole In The Head.

"The doctors, the nurses... the rescue squad, all of them... we do appreciate them!"

He Got Both.

ONE ALMOST KILLED HIM, THE OTHER SAVED HIS LIFE.

The blizzard struck early on December 15. High winds, drifting snow. Cablevision manager Homer Wells had the day off, but came in to help his repair crews. On remote Sugar Loaf mountain it happened.

While cutting away a tree from a downed cable, the heavy trunk suddenly broke loose. Its full force slammed the side of Homer's head and bludgeoned him to the ground.

Co-worker, Nathan Frisby, radioed for help. Ambulance team Sam Stephens and Johnny Spencer, struggled over slick roads, then on foot, up Sugar Loaf. They delivered Homer unconscious to the Emergency Room, the ER, at Highlands.

ER physicians didn't like what they saw. A severely fractured skull and worse, a subdural hematoma — a huge blood blister swelling against Homer's brain — a killer without immediate neurosurgery. The closest neurosurgeon was at Cabell Huntington Hospital. Roads were impassable. Copters grounded. Time running out.

Holes had to be drilled in Homer's skull to relieve the pressure. Risky, but no choice. On the phone with UK Medical Center, ER physicians opened two holes successfully. But special follow-up care was urgently needed, so a treacherous trip began. Accompanied by a Highlands physician, Homer was moved by ambulance to Huntington. There, neurosurgeons credited Highlands' quick and bold response with saving Homer's life.

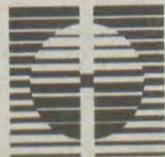

The injury has left Homer temporarily impaired with a condition that can be treated with physical therapy. Meanwhile, his wife, Christine, speaks for him: "He's doing great. The doctors at Highlands did save his life. You couldn't ask to be treated any better."

Big emergencies. Little emergencies. They're all important to us because they're important to you.

ADD districts has over a hundred day care centers

In less than a year, Kentucky's effort to increase the availability of child day care had resulted in the opening of 108 new homes in 10 of the state's 15 area development districts (ADDs).

The Small Family Day Care Home Certification Program is the first time in Kentucky that day care providers to three or fewer unrelated children have been able to gain state certification — an act necessary for those centers to receive government food payments and child care reimbursement.

The program, operated by the state Department for Social Services, also gives some assurance to parents that these child care homes meet at least a minimum set of child health and safety standards.

Social Services Commissioner Larry Michalczyk said, "Since the program began last fall, our Child Care Services branch has authorized 108 of the homes to operate across the state.

"To date the most activity has been in the urban areas of northern Kentucky (47 homes), Louisville (22) and Lexington (14).

"But finding adequate day care isn't a problem limited to larger communities," said Michalczyk. "To date, there are no homes up and running in the Barren River, Big Sandy, Buffalo Trace, Kentucky River and Pennyrite areas.

"With the opening of Kentucky's welfare reform program in October, we'll be concentrating our recruitment efforts in the 18 counties covered by the initial phase of that program."

The department has four full-time family day care specialists recruiting through telephone calls to persons advertising child care services, meeting community leaders, distributing informational flyers and advertising.

Kentucky law requires a licensee to operate a day care center for four or more children, and those programs are inspected annually for compliance with rules on staffing, training, dietary services, records and safety.

To be certified as a small family day care home, standards of care which apply include:

- * at least six hours of training in first aid, nutrition and child development;
- * medical proof of being free of tuberculosis and physically able to care for small children;
- * demonstration of sanitary food preparation and safe storage of cleaning supplies;
- * having a working telephone and parental authorization to seek medical aid in an emergency;
- * agree to follow state inspection to investigate complaints.

"While these are minimum standards, they still provide parents with the ability to expect that their children will be cared for in a safe environment," Michalczyk said.

Small family day care homes which achieve full state certification are eligible to participate in the federal Child Care Food Program, which reimburses the provider for the cost of up to two nutritious meals and a snack per child per day for children under 12 years of age.

At the same time, certified homes become eligible for subsidized child care involving children in abuse or neglect situations or, depending on available funding, children of low-income, working parents.

More information on application for certification as a small family day care home may be obtained by writing to: Child Care Services Branch, Department for Social Services, 5W, 275 East Main, Frankfort, KY 40621 or call (502) 564-2136 and ask to speak to a family day care specialist.

POETRY CORNER

The Travel to God's Door

I started on a travel,
Not knowing which way to go.
Seeking the one that could,
Save my soul.

I looked to the North and the South,
I looked to the East and the west,
But the path to the East
Looked the best.

At the end of the roads
That led North, South, East and West
There was a place for
Weary travelers to rest.

Between me and the place
I was trying to ascend,
Was a rough steep mountain
Blotted with sin.

This travel wasn't made in one day,
I would have to stop and pray on the way.
But I had a mind to conquer that mountain of sin
And go in the door, where weary travelers went in.

This travel wasn't made in a week and day,
I had to keep traveling and praying along the way.
I traveled and prayed till the journey did end,
And I heard a voice welcome me in.

At the end of this travel
Was a sight to behold.
I had met the one I was seeking,
That saved my soul.

By my strength and faith,
My travel has come to an end.
I have conquered that mountain of sin,
And have a ticket that welcomes a weary traveler in.

We had a son
That we dearly loved.
He took sick and nothing we could do,
But let God's will be done.

It was God's will to call him away, before he passed on,
He told me he had been praying along the way.
And he believed God had heard him pray,
But, we thank you God for the 39 years he stayed.

Untitled

There are two roads in life,
One is wrong, the other is right.

Now I sit in a cell,
Because I took the wrong road,
The one that leads straight to hell.

The road is rough,
Seems like it never ends,
Soon it will,
and I can start all over again.

When that day comes,
For me to be free,
I will thank God and you all,
for helping me.

all the grandeur of creation
The Creator felt the world still as empty

as the void

So, the ineffable created love
(from the deepest core)

And gave it to the world
...And then it was good.

Beautiful Sunshine

The golden sun is shining, glistening through the tears.,
It's never been so beautiful,
in all the bygone years.

And I'm getting old and feeble, time is gliding swiftly by,
and I am very happy,
so happy I could cry.

The days of my youth
have passed and gone,
and here I sit,
and sit and moan.

Just thinking of the days that's past,
and I am grey and old at last,
as I look back on times that's gone,
a tear drop falls, I'm all alone.

But as I sit, and drop a tear,
I'm not alone for God is here.
He is ever by my side,
and there he ever will abide.

Two Kentuckys

There's two Kentuckys
In this land of the free.
The beautiful hills home to me,
The other one is flat and square.

And so are the people who live out there.

God looked down from his home on high,
And made this land in the twinkle of an eye.
But he didn't like what he had seen,
So he made the hills beautiful and green.

I think we'll buy the Berlin wall, and put it between the great and small.
and keep our beauty away up here,
and let them big shots stay down there.

Some one said the world was flat, and them ding bats still believe that.
But take us dummies in the hills,
We don't believe that and never will.

When you climb a mountain and face the sun,
Your in the presence of God and Son.
You feel the thrill of an old forgotten joy,
and feel like a barefoot boy.

A' dodging potholes and heading home,
From these green mountains I'll never roam.
I'll roam these hills until the end of time,
and feel like a king in these hills of mine.

So Lonely

This morning I am so lonely.
So alone and sad .
I guess I am thinking,
Of all the things I once had.

My family here beside me,
To love and share.
To know when I needed them,
They were always there.

When I can think back of happy times,
And put the sad memories away,
But even then I know I'll have to face them,
Another day.

When I remember the time,
My loved ones were taken away,
Sometimes I wish I could have gone too,
And not been allowed to stay.

There must be a reason for all the pain and heartache
I have had to endure.
Only God knows the reason for all things,
Of that I am sure.

So, although here all alone,
And it is sometimes hard to bear,
I know if I prepare myself with the time here on eart,
Someday I can meet them there.

For God has prepared,
A special place.
And if we live according to God's plan,
We will again behold his face.

If Love

If love shall be the ruler of all,
Then one shall know when true love calls.
If love is a drug then let it be ceased,
and held on tightly so it can please.
If love is a criminal then let it be convicted on all charges, because love is addictive.
If love should be the law of the land,
True lovers, fear not, because at the top you shall stand.
If love does make any man satisfied,
in his heart it shall enter, and not be denied.
And if love be the stranger at your door,
then let it in and fear no more.

— Steve Hall
Hi Hat,

The Secret

I met God in the morning when my day was at it's best
And his presence came like sunrise,
Like a glory in my breast.

All day long the presence lingered,
all day long he stayed with me.
And we sailed in perfect calmness,
O'er a very troubled sea.

Other ships were blown and battered.
Other ships were sore distressed.
But the winds that seemed to drive them
Brought us to peace and rest.

Then I thought of other mornings,
With a keen remorse of mind,
When I too had loosed the moorings,
With the presence left behind.

So I think now of the secret,
Learned from many a troubled way.
You must seek him in the morning,
If you want him through the day.

Untitled

Through reading books,
and sights I've seen,
On Earth it's never found,
the peace and joy that no one could find,
only on Heaven's Holy ground.

For with joy we still have sorrow,
and with peace there's still a sound,
that interrupts our way of life,
our earth keeps falling down.

An oil spill in our ocean,
and wars that are so corrupt,
pollution from the plaque we've made,
now look what's coming up.

A deadly bomb that we should curse,
no hope in future plans,
what we've made for our protection,
has fit the devil's plans.

And given up we turn to drugs,
to hide our worldly shame,
the rich, the poor and politic,
but who's the one to gain.

And how they make decisions,
on who's to live and die,
abortion is legal killing,
and it won't just pass us by.

Child abuse and sex assault,
is another on the list,
suicide with young and old,
and shopping now a risk.

It faces us all daily,
what will tomorrow bring,
the suffering that we've waited for,
I'm afraid to say it came.

The door to hell is open,
Be aware and don't be blind,
and hold on to your faith in God,
You'll need him in these times.

Save Kroger register receipts for free IBM computers in schools.

The Kroger Co. is proud to introduce the Earning For Learning program to your area. Last year we tested this program in selected areas and it was so well received, we decided to expand it to include your school district. During the 1989-1990 school year we gave away 63 computers with printers, 6 computers without printers, 297 software programs and 25 printers to the 156 schools participating in the program. It's simple!...just save $225,000 in register receipts from a participating Kroger store and we will give your school a Free IBM Personal System/2™ computer with printer and DOS program. We'll even start you off with a $25,000 bonus just for enrolling in the program. There is no limit to the number of free computers with printers your school can earn. The Earning For Learning program officially begins on Sunday, Sept. 9, 1990 and ends on Sat., May 4, 1991. The deadline for enrollment in the program is Sat., Oct. 6, 1990. Contact you local Kroger Store Manager today for details and an enrollment form and get your entire school and community working together on this worthwhile project. Being the same property conveyed to Kenneth Blevins and Nancy Lois Blevins, his wife, from David Reed and Wanda Reed, his wife, by deed dated November 12, 1968, of record in Deed Book 198, page 612, in the office of the Floyd County Clerk, and being a certain tract or parcel of land lying in Floyd County, Kentucky, which is more particularly described as follows:

BEING Lots Nos. 42, 43, and 44 in the H.F. May Addition to Langley, Kentucky, and described as follows, to-wit:

BEGINNING on a stake on the southeast corner of May and Main Streets; thence with Main Street N 67 30' E 100 feet to stake; thence leaving Main Street S 19 40' E 75 feet to a stake; thence S 67 30' W 100 feet to a stake on Main Street; thence with May Street N 19 40' W 75 feet to the beginning.

This property is sold, subject to taxes due Floyd County, Ky.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $173,277.91 with interest thereon at 9.7% annually from the 11 day of October, 1989 until satisfied and the additional sum of $25,487.62 with interest thereon at 9% annually from March 23, 1990 until satisfied, the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 27 day of August, 1990,
MARSHALL DAVIDSON,
Master Commissioner
8-29-31W.

Many owners have mid-range income

Many of the nation's recreational property owners tend to be middle-aged and generally have middle-range incomes, according to a vacation and second home survey sponsored in part by the National Association of Realtors.

"The American Recreational Property Survey: 1990" found that more than half the owners surveyed had annual household incomes ranging between $20,000 and $59,999. In comparison, only 13.3 percent had incomes exceeding $100,000. The median income of the participants was $46,500.

The survey estimates there are 7.2 million owners of about 6.3 million recreational properties in the United States, with an aggregate value of about $892 billion. Although the majority of the owners do not split ownership, some own interests in the same property. NAR, the American Resort and Residential Development Association (ARRDA) and the International Foundation for Timesharing jointly sponsored the study.

"Wealth is not a requisite to own a vacation home," said NAR President Norman D. Flynn. "It is a purchase that can be as accessible as it is desirable for people below the upper-income brackets."

The survey, involving more than 5,600 recreational owners and prospective owners nationwide, was taken during March. The single largest percentage, 17.6 percent, had incomes from $40,000 to $49,000, while the next largest percentage, 16.8 percent, had incomes from $30,000 to $39,999.

According to Flynn, the survey results suggest many recreational properties are being purchased by people during the peak income-earning point of their careers, still several years away from retirement. The median age of owners was 48. Nearly half—49.9 percent—of the survey participants were aged between 35 and 54.

"A second home offers a mix of business and pleasure. It is a prudent investment as well as a place to relax," Flynn said. Nearly two-thirds of the respondents said vacation use was the reason behind their purchase, but 37.5 percent of those surveyed said they bought the property for investment or income reasons.

The report attributes growth in recreational property ownership primarily to the increasing number of households in the nation.

The number of households owning recreational property has increased by about 50 percent, or 2.4 million households, since 1973. At that time, a separate, privately sponsored study found that about 4.8 million households owned recreational property. However, the percentage of owners relative to the U.S. population has remained constant.

Nine out of 10 vacation property owners are homeowners. Single-family homes or cabins are the most widely held recreation property; 42 percent of the survey participants own detached houses or cabins as vacation property.
