Board members must balance public, private lives

by Susan Allen Staff Writer

Two seats on the Floyd County Board of Education are up for election this fall and incumbents in both districts face competition. District one board member James. D. Adams faces competition from Eddie Billips. Distict Two incumbent Ray "Shag" Campbell will square off against Franklin Delano May in the November race.

In an effort to understand the duties and requirements facing a school board candidate, the following information was complied from material provided by the Kentucky School Boards Association.

REQUIREMENTS

In Kentucky, school laws stipulate the following requirements of board members: minimum age of 24;

before election to the board;

- voter registration in the district they

- high school education; and

- must not have a relative employed by district except in certain circumstances.

Other important qualities school board members should have are being a good decision-maker, having the ability to judge people well, public speaking skills, brainstorming and creative thinking skills, organizational and planning abilities and thinking positively. Professional and personal expeare all valuable contributions toward school board service.

Board members should not be overly influenced or obligated to any special inter> est group. They should be committed to work toward improving programs for all children in each school in the district. And, they should seek a balance between competing interests in the total school program.

Serving on school boards represents a real commitment. Board members attend special meetings, executive sessions, orientation sessions, workshops and conventions. School board members must balance the ef-

- state citizenship for at least three years riences, community service and education fects of public service with their private lives board must develop and adopt policy which in order to make board service rewarding and enjoyable.

> ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Local school board members are state officers, deriving their authority and responsibility from the General Assembly. From the moment school board members begin service, they are accountable to the state government, to the courts, and to the public. It is especially important to maintain public support for strong public education in these times of budget cuts and competing demands for limited resources.

Policy Making:

The four primary functions of school boards are policy making, planning, employment and evaluation of the superintendent and interpretation of the school district and the community's needs. The local school governs the operation of the schools. This includes action on the superintendent's recommendations in such areas as administration of pupil services, adoption of educational programs, selection of instructional materials and allocation of funds, the board delegates the implementation of policies to the superintendent of schools and evaluates the execution of effect of those policies.

Planning:

Another important function of school boards is planning. School boards must provide vital leadership in establishing current and long-range educational plans and programs for school districts. In consultation with the superintendent, the school is ultimately responsible for the approval and adoption of the annual budget to provide the buildings, staff, equipment and other resources needed to carry out the educational

The Greenup facility, which is owned by Addington Resources, would be a a modern landfill with automated recycling methods in effect.

Johnson County Judge Executive Gail Gillem, who represented that county along with Paintsville Mayor John Preston and Solid Waste Chairman Mark Trimble, said that he planned to propose universal solid waste collection in Johnson County soon and added, "Under new, current regulations, no one county will be able to stand on its own. It must be a multi-county coalition."

Universal collection is already in place in Floyd and Pike Counties.

Martin County was represented by County Judge Executive John Calliham and representative Larry Preece. Magoffin County was represented by Henry Clay Sizemore, while Pike county was represented by a group of service professionals.

Before adjourning, the group discussed the economics of recycling from landfills and agreed that it was . time for area officials to start working together to solve the problems of the region.

Shirley Lynn Calhoun, 33, of Prestonsburg, was injured in a one vehicle accident Wednesday morning after the car she was driving hydroplaned and plunged 100 feet down an embankment on Rt. 1428 near Allen. Calhoun was transported to Highlands Regional Medical Center where she was in stable condition Thursday with leg and shoulder injuries. Calhoun reportedly was driving too fast and hit a patch of water on the road which caused the car to go over the embankment, KSP trooper Mike Thorpe said. The 1983 Oldsmobile Cutiass landed on its top. No seat belts were in use. The Allen Volunteer Fire Department and the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad responded to the scene. SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER EDUCATIONAL DISTRICT #1

As candidate for school board member in district number 1 I am the lone opponent of the incumbent who is the board chairman and the power behind the present administration. I seek this office because the Floyd county school system has many problems, and my opponent is one of them. This truth was most recently demonstrated by the Floyd county teachers strike. Surely you know the factors that led to the teachers rightful resolve to stop work until some sanity and fairness was restored to the school system. My opponent has historically voted for and fought to maintain a system of political reward for the loyal known as the "central office". The salaries speak for themselves.

These salaries are in the upper 15% of salaries in the entire state of Kentucky. That means 85% of the Kentucky school systems fail to pay the "administrators" as much as we do. Most of the salaries exceed those of our most prominent public servants, including county judge executive, district judge, and commonwealth attorney. The superintendent's salary even rivals that of a newly elected circuit judge.

On the other hand, under my opponent's preferred budget, our teachers have consistently remained in the lower 15% of the entire state. In other words, under the present leadership the "administrators" are paid the highest and the teachers are paid the lowest. As for the children, spending per child for books, supplies, etc. have historically been at the bottom. Not surprisingly, the test scores of our children have remained at the bottom, below our neighbors of Knott, Martin, Magoffin, and Pike counties.

Apparently my opponent likes this arrangement, because when the teachers challenged it, he fought them. After all he is the chairman of the board of our school system, and its budget and present condition are his handi-work. He voted for it, spoke in favor of it, threatened to fire any who opposed it, and held out to the end of the second longest teachers strike in the history of the state to keep it. THIS STRIKE ONLY ENDED WHEN OTHER BOARD MEMBERS TOOK A STAND. Why would anyone fight so hard to protect such an unfair system? The simple answer is power and influence. Loyalty is bought and maintained monthly by the paychecks. Even if one must step down as county superintendent, you keep this salary the same, for his influence is still useful, and besides, "loose lips sink ships."

It is apparent that our children come last in this system and any benefit received by them is incidental to the disbursements of big salaries, jobs, and contracts to those loyal to my opponent. In fact, this system is so bad that it was one of only two in the entire state to be declared "academically bankrupt" and taken over by the state board of education. This not only happened during my opponent's tenure as chairman of the board, but as a direct result of perverting our school system from one for education to exploitation, greed, favoritism, and abuse. The children have been lost in the shuffle for power and have suffered enough. Help me stop this abuse by your vote and support this November 6th.

MY PLEDGE TO YOU AND OUR CHILDREN

1—To spend every tax dollar for the best education possible of our children. Not for the reward of my

To end the greed and self serving politics that have wasted our tax monies, and hindered our teachers, neglected the best interest of our children.

3-To expose and bring to light all the business of your school board, including salaries, hiring of personnel, and setting of policy, and the budget process.

4-To hold monthly meetings with you, in your community, in addition to the regular school board meeting. With this you will have the opportunity to comment, make suggestions, and ask any questions you desire so you can once again be a part of your school system.

The time has come to free our school system of any purpose other than education. With your help we can complete the opportunity that has been handed to us.

Kentucky takes action on landfill violations

The Kentucky Division of Waste Management has sent to the Cooksey Brothers Landfill in Boyd County a notice of intent to revoke its solid waste disposal permit. The notice is the beginning of an administrative process that could result in the revocation of the company's operating permit.

The notice, delivered recently, identifies three reasons for the action: the acceptance of solid waste from sources not permitted, namely Philadelphia, Pa., Scioto County, Ohio, and Kanawka County, W.Va.; the misrepresentation of information on reports the landfill operators are required to prepare; and, finally, the refusal to disclose information upon request about an apparent change in ownership or management of the

All are violations of Kentucky waste management regulations.

The notice opens a 30-day period during which any parties interested in an adjudicatory hearing to contest this action may make such a request. It is expected that such a hearing will be requested. It would be conducted by an independent contract hearing officer who would issue findings in the form of a report and recommended order. Should a hearing not be requested, revocation will follow.

The hearing officer's report and recommended order would be delivered to Carl H. Bradley, secretary of the Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, who can approve or reject the hearing officer's order.

The Cooksey landfill has operated since the mid-1970s and is currently authorized to accept solid waste from Boyd, Greenup, Lawrence, Carter and Elliott counties in Kentucky, Lawrence County, Ohio, Cabell and Wayne counties in West Virginia, and Allegheny County, Pennsylvania (Pittsburgh and vicin-

Today's action does not trigger an automatic halt of waste disposal at the Cooksey operation. It is anticipated that a hearing would take sev-

In the meantime, the Kentucky Division of Waste Management is working with those counties in Kentucky now legally served by the landfill to identify adequate alternative disposal facilities for their solid wastes in the event of the revocation of the Cooksey permit.

As part of their journal writing assignment, the students of Willie Elliott's junior English class at McDowell High School wrote letters to Saddam Hussein to voice their displeasure with his actions in the Persian Gulf. Below are some of those letters. Next they will take on the persona of Hussein and answer the letters.

Do you really think you are so strong and powerful as to stop the good old USA from taking away your precious oil? I DON'T THINK SO!!!

Dear Editor:

Something puzzles me about this school year in Floyd County. Why did the Floyd County Board of Education add 30 minutes to each school day? Perhaps I have not been hearing, but no reason has been stated for it. Also, the extra time does not add up so as to make up for early dismissals or snow

Speaking as a teacher, the extra time is bad news. Students are discouraged, class interest is lacking (especially in evening classes) and before this year is over attendance will suffer (student's and teacher's).

If this school year ends with extended school days, students could be in class until 4 p.m. Considering that some students catch a bus at 6:40 in the morning, that makes for a long school day.

Is there any reason for the extra 30 minutes per school day?

A matter of life and death

This year, an estimated 90 million, one out of three, Americans will experience a medical emergency serious enough to need a visit to an emergency department. Those emergencies will come in all forms from heart attacks to auto accidents, bee stings to broken bones. They will effect people of all ages, all races, rich or poor from cities, suburbs and rural areas.

For most, the emergency experience will have a happy ending. For others, a tragic one. And the difference between the outcome is measured in the actions and precious moments people take in responding to the first signs of an emergency.

Emergencies doesn't give warnings. They happen suddenly when least expected, and often in circumstances that make an effective response difficult. They happen in homes, on highways, in work places and during recreational activities. They happen to loved ones and complete strangers. You could find yourself in either role. You could be the victim, or the person on the spot, having to respond.

Even though emergencies come unexpectedly, you can be prepared. Take the case of the preparations made for injuries at sporting events. People and systems are in place, trained and equipped to expect the worst.

To an extent, the average family, work group or amateur sports organization can adopt the same thinking: Be prepared for the worst. Learn how to respond and keep important aids where you can get at them quickly when you need them.

Nowadays, families and work groups often plan and rehearse for emergencies. They make sure everyone in the group knows what steps to take and in the right order, namely 1) keep calm, 2) assess the emergency and its seriousness, 3) apply first aid with the use of correct procedures and supplies, 4) make the patient comfortable, and 5) call for help.

Rudimentary training in first aid is valuable. After all, if one out of three people will experience an emergency in one year, chances are everyone will sooner or later be in a position to apply first aid. And, training programs are available through fire departments, emergency rescue units and various community organizations, not the least of which are the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

Keep a first aid guidebook or other reference material handy in a location known to everyone in the household or work group. Pamphlets and posters are available free of charge from hospitals, physicians and drug stores. Keep copies in your glove compartment and with your athletic gear, as well as at home and work.

Take a few moments with family members, people at work and recreation friends — especially those with whom you hunt, hike, go boating or ride motorcycles. Discuss how you will react to an emergency. Agree upon worst-case situations and how you will respond individually and as

Time is always critical and moments become precious in life-threatening situations. A quick, positive response includes measures to get professional help as soon as possible. Keep emergency phone numbers handy and jot them on first aid materials and the covers of your phone book. Ambulance services are the most appropriate for medical emergencies. They are manned by trained paramedics who can apply "second aid" while transporting the patient to the nearest hospital emergency room.

It's helpful to understand emergency room procedures. Whether you are the victim or accompanying someone you may need to provide information for emergency admissions:

 Name, address and phone number of victim and nearest relatives.

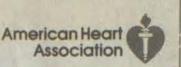

Name of family physician.
 Insurance information or IT.

Insurance information or ID cards for Medicare or Medicaid.

 Be prepared to sign a consent release permitting physicians to perform emergency procedures such as surgery.

To help people become better acquainted with emergency procedures, Highlands Regional Medical Center is sponsoring various activities in support of Emergency Medical Week, September 16-20, including an Open House on Sunday, Sept. 23 between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m. Visitors will receive free first aid information materials, familiarization with procedures, meet emergency room staff and tour the facilities.

Foster Grandparent Program fosters love

by Carrie Shepherd PM Editorial Services

Remember how your grandmother was the only one who could truly appreciate the bug collection you brought home during the summer? Or how your grandfather bragged to everyone about how smart you were, even if you did something foolish?

Well, for 25 years a group of senior citizens with big hearts and some spare time have been providing the special warmth and love of grandparents to children who otherwise would go without. They are foster grandparents — participants in the Foster Grandparent Program.

Bringing the love and understanding of a grandparent to children with special needs is the goal of the Foster Grandparent Program. It builds bridges between old and young and fills a void for both. "Children are just as good for me as I am for them," notes foster grandmother Hannah Reiman, who teaches reading to elementary-school children in Montana. And Janet, a 15-year-old in a state hospital, writes of her foster grandmother, "She is one of very few adults who really try to understand younger people."

Today, 27,000 senior citizens are involved in this program nationwide. Participants say the program allows them to stay active, to maintain contact with children and to make a contribution to a good cause. Joan Riley, a foster grandmother at a day-care center in Drexel Hill, Pa., retired three years ago and says, "It didn't take me long to realize that I needed something constructive to do...I just love my foster grandchildren to death, and I really think they love me."

The Foster Grandparent Program, which is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year, was signed into law by President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1965. Currently, 71,000 special needs children are given love and attention by elderly volunteers. The program enlists the help of low-income senior citizens age 60 or older. These active seniors work 20 hours each week,

Dinner Theatre revived by hotel

"Since Saturday, September I and continuing every Saturday night in September, October and November, the Radisson Hotel of Huntington, in association with River City Productions, will bring dinner theater back to the area," said Norma Ciccarello, director of sales and marketing.

The season's first bit will be "Greater Tuna" a light-hearted look at the folks of Tuna, Texas. Written by Jason Williams, Joe Spears and Ed Howard, the show will be great fun. The citizens of Tuna will be represented by John Pritchard, who has appeared with such personalities as Imogene Coca, Phyllis Diller and Tab Hunter in dinner theaters across the United States, and David Cook, who is well-known to area audiences for his work with the West Virginia Arts and Humanities Council, Marshall University Theatre and the Musical Arts Guild of Huntington.

The cost will be $15 for adults and $9.95 for children under the age of 12. This price includes a buffet dinner, beginning at 6 p.m., with your choice of three entrees, fresh salads, vegetables and desserts, and the show which begins at 8 p.m.

To make arrangements to visit the folks of Tuna, Texas, call (304) 525-according to ACTION, the foster agency that oversees the program.

At the 280 Foster Grandparent projects throughout the country and in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the District of Columbia, one-on-one care is provided to the children who need it most — special- or exceptional-needs children such as the mentally retarded or physically handicapped or abused. Day-care centers, public schools and hospitals are just a few of the facilities benefiting from the program.

Not only does the program fill an important need in this country, it also is rewarding for those who participate. The best expression of the rewards come from foster grandparents themselves.

Gladys Davis of Chicago, a foster grandmother for more than 17 years, works with newborn infants, many who are premature and in intensive care. "This program has taught me a lot about people and about TLC— Tender Loving Care. I go into the job with every bit of love I can, so that the children can get out of the hospital," says Davis.

The experience of Nelson Williams, a 90-year-old from Birmingham, Ala., perhaps best exemplifies the dedication of foster grandparents and the joy that dedication can bring. He has been active in this program for 18 years and currently works at the Alabama Department of Youth Services Vacca Campus providing attention and counseling to troubled 12-17 year old boys. Says Williams "The boys say 'yes sir.' I day 'I love you.' and they say 'We love you too, Mr. Williams. You're our grandfather'."

Old Jack Frost any night now. I believe this time of the year a gardener is busier than the spring planting season.

Most of our garden products for this season should be harvested and

Most of our garden products for this season should be harvested and stored by now. Mine aren't! Covered crops should have been sowed, all weeds and morning glories tilled in. Mine aren't! As soon as the ground dries the cover crop will be finished.

If at all possible, late apples and pears should be picked in dry weather. If picked during wet weather they must be spread out to dry before boxing up to store. Moisture encourages rot. Store all dry fruits in a well ventilated area to prevent build up of the gases that speed up ripening. Check each container of fruit weekly for signs of moisture and rot.

If you are planning to set out shrubs and fruit trees this fall, they should be ordered now — if you haven't yet. Dig large holes, water and mulch to encourage new roots before the ground freezes.

Spring bulbs can be planted now. To extend their blooms in the spring try planting them at deeper levels. Your bulb beds should be fertilized with bone meal and phosphate after the bulbs are planted. Tulip and hyacinth bulbs should be kept in the refrigerator until cold weather has settled in.

There is still time, I hope, to divide the center of the clusters as they generally have become woody and produced few, if any, flowers.

Dig gladiolus now—dry and store the large corns in a dry, frost-free cellar or shed. Dahlias need slightly damp peat moss or ant-free saw dust, in a container lined with black plastic for storage.

I leave my cannas, gladiolus and dahlias in the ground under a heavy mulch over the cold winter months. I dig them about every three years to thin out and to discard old rotted bulbs. It saves me, a lazy gardener, a lot of work, yet I still have the flowers to enjoy.

The one job I can no longer put off, is the potting, fertilizing and moving my house plants back inside. I always place them outside in a partly shaded area each spring or early summer. They seem to benefit from the fresh air, sunshine and rains. I benefit too! I seldom have to water them and never need to cleanse the foliage. All dead leaves and blooms fall on the ground, not on the tables, stands or the floor.

All excess and too large plants are given away so others will either bless or curse me for my generous gift. Want one?

PCC Instructors share teaching ideas

by Kathleen Carroll Contributing Writer

Two instructors represented Prestonsburg Community College at the Social Science Conference held in Lexington Sept. 13 and 14. The conference, coordinated by the University of Kentucky Community College System, was designed to allow teachers throughout the system to exchange teaching techniques and their fields of study.

Dr. Thomas D. Matijasic, chair of the Division of Social Sciences and Related Technologies at PCC, moderated a panel on "Innovative Strategies in the Teaching of History."

Thomas P. Carroll, who teaches history at PCC, discussed his teaching strategies, "I strive to help my students picture the past as something real and lively — to make the faded rich again." Carroll accomplishes this by incorporating readings from various outside texts including some novels with a theme of time travel - and by guiding the students into an understanding of historical issues through class dis-

William T. Turner, a veteran history teacher at Hopkinsville Community College, discussed several methods which helped students experience history. "My students go to grave yards, then to court records to piece together a person's history," explained Turner. "Before you know it, a name from an old gravestone becomes a real person with family and property. Then newspaper research comes in, students can find out what was important to that person everything from styles of dress to how much they paid for bread."

Both Carroll and Turner agreed that a student's enthusiasm for his-the panel concentrated on the develtory can be influenced by the opment of new classes in the commuinstructor's zeal. Contributing to panel discussion was Daniel Mahan, an instructor who creates costumed characters in his classroom to illustrate issues in history. All three panelists insisted that the use of media - such as videotapes, filmstrips and movies - to discuss issues and concerns facing replace lecture and discussion diminished the integrity of the instructor in the eyes of the students. "Never assume your students are foolish," said Turner. "They are very intelligent, each gifted in their own way, and they deserve your very best effort."

> Following remarks by the panelists, the session was opened to the audience for comment. Most of the comments echoed the views of the panelists, with the strong consensus that teachers must take the responsibility to provide lecture material that enhance the text. "The students can read the book, so it doesn't make any sense for a teacher to read the book to them. You have to reach beyond the facts in the text and focus the students on the issues at hand," said one participant. Other comments encouraged an emphasis on class discussion, "validate that student's presence in your classroom. Let them know that their opinion is important to you." Added one participant, "above all, students must not be allowed to soak up the material like a sponge - they must be encouraged to analyze the subject matter by studying and testing its arguments."

Teresa Milon, a psychology teacher at PCC, also participated in a panel on "Innovative Practices in the Teaching of Psychology." In addition to discussion new teaching tools, said Carroll. Or, as Turner said, "you on techniques they may not have tried Milon related her development of Teaching Exceptional Learners, an educational psychology requirement, a class that is currently taught at only two other community colleges. "The emphasis has shifted to student field experiences," said Milon outlining the intentions of the class.

According to Milon, students are expected to gain field experience by observing a special education program. Students are expected to work with both the special education teacher and the special education child. Through this contact, students are more likely to gain experience in working with different types of special education students.

Other developments the panel discussed included the introduction of computers into the psychology classroom. The panel explored the advantages of a computer program that might be able to simulate rat conditioning - effectively giving students laboratory experience in the absence of laboratories.

Utilizing the computer as a tutor with interactive programs that test the students knowledge and understanding of the subject matter. In addition to laboratory simulation, computers can also provide students with experience in areas such as personality testing and dream interpretation. The panel concluded that computers meet the needs of their curriculum while saving space and

"Throughout the presentations and discussion," said Milon, "it is apparent that psychology, like everyone, is using computers more." Milon continued, "the real innovation seemed to be the use of field experiences in the classroom. As teachers, we all feel the need to get students actively involved in what psychology really

Charles E. Collins, general manager of R&S Boyd Company, Inc., presented a program about business to Conley's class on Tuesday, Sept.

The students were pleasantly surprised to find that Collins was a 1969 graduate of McDowell High School.

The program consisted of a video film featuring R&S Body Company's facilities at Allen and Richmond, and Mulberry, Fla. 'Woman: A different voice' conference

Four years ago, through a $2,700 grant from the Kentucky Foundation effort to focus upon women's role in at WKU's Kentucky Building and for Women Inc., a group of women faculty at Western Kentucky University organized the first Women's to do that," Crowe-Carraco said. Studies Conference.

There were very few such conferences in the country. There are still only a very few. At places such as Radcliff, Converse, Chapel Hill, the last two serving as sites for the Southern Association of Women Historians.

WKU's first conference featured about 200 participants. Maybe two dozen papers were presented.

This year's study conference expects about 700 participants, will feature 45 sessions, and offers 140 presentations in the three-day program Wednesday, Sept. 26 through Friday, Sept. 28.

Paper presenters will come from all across the country, from Berkeley to Maryland, for two reasons: because WKU's conference has attained a reputation already as avante garde, and because they have a chance to speak to women's issues at a forum where a rare chance for commonality of discussion exists, can be shared, even celebrated.

Dr. Carol Crowe-Carraco, a founder of WKU's Women's Study Conference, believes "Women are beginning to be accepted in their own right," and the growing annual conferences are indicative of the scholarship that encompasses a wide range of women's subjects and issues.

"I think movement is going away from tokenism, in appointments in general treatment," said Dr. Crowe-Carraco, a professor of history at

GRADE SCHOOL BASKETBALL...

Grade school basketball teams are fast approaching the start of their season. The problem with the grade school basketball games starting so early is that it takes players, that play football, out of their games to practice basketball. If given a choice of practicing basketball or playing football, a player is naturally going to practice basketball. This is not fair to the coaches who are trying to keep the football programs alive in the grade school system. If we are not careful we will not have feeder systems for some of our high school teams. Osborne, once a strong football school, has dropped its program for lack of players. All that is left in the county is Stumbo, Betsy Layne, Allen, Prestonsburg and the three Right Beaver schools that have combined to form one team.

There was a time when Martin, Maytown and Wayland had separate teams. Less and less grade school players have any interest in football anymore. With the exception of Prestonsburg, which always has a strong grade school program, some of our schools barely have enough to field a team. Coach David Mosley of Allenputs together a consistently strong football team. These players along with those at Prestonsburg head for the high school at Prestonsburg. Allen Central, Wheelwright and Betsy Layne depend on what they can get from their feeder schools.

A strong feeder system is vitally important for a high school program. Ask any coach.

CINCINNATI KEEPS STRUGGLING...METS, PIRATES (?)

Will the Cincinnati Reds be able to keep their meager fourme lead over the on charging Los Angeles Dodgers? With two weeks of the season remaining the Reds are ever having to look over their shoulders to watch the Dodgers. There is a lot of scoreboard watching going on lately. With both teams.

The Reds pitching staff (starters and relievers) is in shambles. Only Jose Rijo is pitching strong baseball lately, having gone 4-1 in his last six starts. The Reds missed the boat when they failed to trade for a steady pitcher for the stretch run. A four-game lead is not that much when you consider the teams the Reds must face the remainder of the season.

I know they are the fourth, fifth and sixth place teams in the division. But have you noticed how they have fared against the Reds of late? The Braves have dominated the Big Red Machine since the All-Star break. Houston has played them tough all season long and the Reds finish the season with them (the Reds lost Wednesday night to the Astros). A fourgame series with the Padres, a double-header Saturday, at San Diego will be hard on a struggling pitching staff.

One thing that might be going for the Reds as they are down to the magic number of 10 as of today (Thursday), is the fact that the Dodgers and Giants have to play each other six times out of the final 13 games of the regular season. However, the Reds cannot set back and expect the Dodgers and Giants to win it for them. They need to put together a winning streak of some sort.

Poorly timed hitting by the Reds has hurt as well as poor pitching. Danny Jackson and Tom Browning are finished. Rick Mahler has pitched his two good games for this season. Lou Piniella has panicked and gone to the minor leagues for pitchers to get them out of the rut. But the opposite has happened. They have helped put them more and more in the rut.

The Pirates and Mets don't even know who wants to win over in the Eastern Division. That will come down to the final three games of the season when they face each other at Pittsburgh.

Undefeated Greenup County Visits Blackcats Lair Tonight

A new coach with a new attitude and a new offensive strategy will make the hub of things for the undefeated Greenup County Musketeers (4-0) as they invade the "Cats Lair" of Prestonsburg. Greenup County Boyd County school also owns a 18-15 squeaker over Ashland Paul Blazer in the team's second game of the season. They defeated a good Russell team 14-10 in the season opener. Portsmouth was the third victim of the Musketeers at 21-19.

The Musketeers have not had a from a 3-8 team. At quarterback will winning football season since 1978, but the long drought could end this year. Greenup County coach Jim Dunaway, says that a 6-5 record would be acceptable for his ball club. (Class4A), comes into tonight's game "Our top goal is to have a winning with some impressive wins under their season," he said. "If you have winbelts. The Musketeers defeated East ning seasons good things happen to Carter last Friday evening 41-7. The you. You build on a winning season and go for three, then the playoffs and eventually a state title."

Rebels Head For Bulldog Country Tonight For District Match Up

Coach Dewey Jamerson and the Allen Central Rebels would just as soon forget about last Friday night's 65-8 loss to the Raceland Rams. The Rebel coach contended that it was hard for "pack mules" to chase "thoroughbreds."

The Rebels will try to make the game just a memory by taking on the Hazard Bulldogs tonight. The Bulldogs, a 28-0, winner over M.C. Napier last Friday night, are 3-2 on the year. Rebel quarterback, B.J. Aldrich, may be at the signal calling position if he can get clearance from the doctors. Aldrich contends that he is ready to step back in "because he is tired of seeing his team lose."

"I want to come back," he said Tuesday after working out with the team in practice. "My shoulder feels good and there is no pain."

Whether the senior quarterback will be in action tonight remains to be seen. However, other Rebels are under the weather with the flu and other

One person the Rebels defense will have to try and contain will be running back George Fitz, who scored three touchdowns against Wheelwright two weeks ago in leading the Bulldogs over the Trojans. Pete Combs is another one to watch for the Bulldogs.

The Rebels definitely need a win. Playing the Bulldogs will not be like playing Raceland, but the idea of playing Hazard on their field won't make it any easier for Allen Central. With a good team effort - defensively and offensively - the Rebels could pull this one out. The big question mark on this game, if Aldrich returns will it help boost a 1-4 team? Also the Rebels will need a healthy club, and power runner Tommy Gibson will be out for the next four weeks with an injured shoulder. Todd Lucas will have to take up the slack for the injured Gibson along with John Martin, who got in some playing time against Raceland. Jason Clark, who scored the Rebels' only touchdown against Raceland, also had a good game against the Rams.

Brian Wallen, had to sit out the second half of the Raceland game and is yet not at full strength. Brett Meadows, who was filling in at the quarterback spot for Aldrich, may be able to return to the end position.

Will he return?

Martin Panorama Gets Underway Saturday

It is that time of year again. With school back in full swing it is time to get the old roundball out and shoot some hoops. The sound of the bouncing ball can be heard this Saturday at the Martin Gym with the beginning of the Martin Grade School Panorama. Nine elementary basketball teams will converge on the Martin gym for nine abbreviated games.

In the first game at 10:30 a.m. host school Martin will go up against Ernie Tackett's Betsy Layne Bobcats. Martin, runners-up last year to Allen in the finals of the Floyd County Grade School tournament, will field a strong team again this year. Betsy Layne, who got off to a good start last season, will be in a rebuilding year.

In the second game of the morning at 11:15 a.m., Maytown will go up against an improved Mountain Christian Academy team of coach Harold Tackett. New school Duff Elementary will face always tough Prater Creek in the noon game.

McDowell will get its first test against Betsy Layne in a 12:45 p.m. schedule start. Then Melvin will battle Mountain Christian Academy at 1:30

John M. Stumbo will take on the Cougars of Prater Creek at 2:15 p.m. while Maytown will be waiting to go up against Melvin at 3 p.m. Martin will play their second game against McDowell at 3:45 p.m. and the final

Samons 2 TDs Leads Little Rebs "B" Squad Past Magoffin County

Grade school football got underway in Floyd County Tuesday night as the Little Rebels of Allen Central (a combination of players from Duff, Maytown and Martin elementary) hosted Magoffin County at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex.

In the "B" team game, it was all Jason Samons as the speedster scored two touchdowns to lead the ACRebs to a 12-0 victory over the Hornets of Magoffin County.

TO THE VOTERS OF EDUCATIONAL DISTRICT #1

You should be aware that eight million dollars has been made available for construction or improvements of school facilities in our district. This has come about through the efforts of state and local officials and from your tax dollars. My opponent and I are totally opposed to one another as to how this money should be spent. James D. Adams desires to use what would represent almost the entire amount on one project. A new high school, outside of Prestonsburg several miles. He desires to spend nearly 500,000 just for the site alone. The development cost and the cost for the water and sewage facilities would most likely run this total site development to nearly $2,000,000. NEARLY ONE FOURTH THE TOTAL MONEY ALLOTED! Past experience has shown that much more money will be spent for additional contracts and unforeseen costs before the project begins or before the first block has been laid. This would then mean that the total allotted money would be spent on one project.

This money, if spent this way, would preclude any significant opportunity to improve the remaining schools in our district for many years.

THERE IS A BETTER WAY!

I propose that this money be spent in the following manner. 1-To renovate and expand the existing high school so that our children have one on par with any school in this area. Build additional classrooms and renovate what is now the biggest gymnasium in this region. This would provide the classroom facilities so needed to offer a curriculum second to none!

2—To renovate and expand the facilities of the sixty-three year old building at Auxier. This structure seems to have been forgotten by the board! Before this even begins, the children of this community would be provided transportation and allowed to attend the new middle school.

3-While the Clark school is the newest of the three grade schools, it is by no means without needs. Update and improve facilities to prepare these students for their

4-We will be able to renovate the Prestonsburg facility and finally close the "dungeon" in the basement that fills with water when it rains.

I am proposing that we meet as a community with the teachers, parents and citizens, and students to study what the needs are for these schools. Hear the input from each of these groups and once again make these schools your schools. Through this type of action we can once again achieve pride in our schools. We can become a part of the education process of our children along with their teachers.

However, none of this can happen without your help on November 6th. It's YOUR TAX MONEY, it's YOUR CHIL-DREN, it's YOUR RIGHT TO BE INVOLVED in what is happening in YOUR SCHOOL. Let's restore sound wisdom to the use of our tax money while having better schools for all our

HOROSCOPE

September 23 through September 29

By C.C. Clark

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

New plans will thrive this week and you will feel very lucky. Remember that plans only work when there is action behind them and you have what it takes to make it happen.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

Trust and act on your instincts concerning personal matters this week. Add the final touches to travel plans to ensure a safe and comfortable trip.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

You should be careful not to act too drastically in the presence of children or the elderly. You will frighten and worry them. It is time to experience new environments.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

Quick decisions are likely to get you into trouble this week. Think things through carefully and know that the answer is right there in your head.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

Don't let your domestic environment get you down. Ask for help, even demand it if you must. Family members don't realize how much pressure you are under. Tell them!

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Don't cater to worries this week, they just cause negative energy. Agreements or proposals at work will get the green light and you will be successful in your endeavors.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Communication takes the spotlight this week. Verbal and written words can have a serious impact on your future, and it is important that you check all facts and figures twice.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Time spent alone will allow you to think more freely and clearly about problems that have been nagging you lately. You need to establish order in your work environment.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Financial undertakings should be well thought out. Get an expert's opinion if you are unsure about anything. It is important for you to feel a part of a team this week.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Determination and persistence will pay off in big ways this week. Though it is sometimes difficult for you to understand a loved one's denial, it is important to try.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

Head for the straight and narrow this week and don't deviate from the plan. There are certain things that must be accomplished, and you will do it in record time.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

A letter will give you valuable information to be used at a later date. Don't fool yourself into thinking that everything you hear is true. Someone may be playing a joke.

TV PIPELINE

Michael Nesmith declined reuniting with The Monkees

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Are all the Monkees still alive? What are they doing now? Also what is the name of an old movie starring John Barrymore as Gramps and Beulah Bondi as Grandma, who are raising their grandson Pug, and Gramps accidentally traps "Death" in an apple tree? - Linda Mitchell, Griffith, Ind.

A: As of this writing the Monkees are all alive. Mickey Dolenz, David Jones and Peter Thorkelson came out of retirement about four years ago and resumed their careers together. They are on tour, traveling in separate buses with their own families. Mike Nesmith, now a producer of videos and films, chose not to join the tour. Incidentally he inherited at least $25 million from his mother, who invented liquid paper. The film you requested is called On Borrowed Time. It was released in 1939 by MGM, and also starred Cedric Hardwicke, Una Merkel and Bobs Watson.

Q: I just had to write this letter to you and wanted to know if by chance I could get the address of Arnold Schwarzenegger. He was born in Austria in a small town not very far from Graz, Austria. That is where I was born 83 years ago. I heard him on Entertainment Tonight and he told the people about himself. I sure would be grateful for this. -Mrs. Hilda Bolin, Aztec, N.M.

A: The address I have for Arnold Schwarzenegger is: P.O. Box 1234, Santa Monica, CA 90406. I hope this works for you.

Q: I watch Blair Brown in Days And Nights Of Molly Dodd on Lifetime. On the show, she used to work in a bookstore for a man named Moss (played by David Strathairn). What is Moss' last name? I can't remember it and it is driving me crazy! -Maura Farrow, Plano, Texas

Michael Nesmith

A: Well now, we can't have you going crazy over such a simple matter. Moss' last name is Goodman. If you have any other problems just give us a "holler."

Q: I recently read an article about Joe Penny and William Conrad having health problems. Joe had a mystery illness that made him lose weight dramatically and William had to have prostate surgery. Because of their health problems the show, Jake And The Fatman might be finished. I need to know how both of them are doing now and are they returning to the show? - Veronica Velasco, Anchorage, Alaska

A: I haven't any official word on the health problems the stars of Jake and the Fatman may have had. The series is returning in the fall with all new episodes. A major change will involve their return to the mainland. They will no longer film in

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest will be answered. o TV Listing Inc.
