In Floyd motel fire :

Cigarette is blamed for death

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A 24-year-old North Carolina man was reportedly asphyxiated Tuesday in a Floyd County motel in a fire authorities believe may have been ignited by a lit cigarette.

The charred remains of Robert Harold Guffey were found at 5:10 a.m. Tuesday at the Freddy Williams Motel on Lake Road by Anthony Guffey, the victim's brother, when he went to wake his brother to go to work Tuesday morning, Kentucky State Police said. Upon finding his brother on a smoldering mattress, Anthony Guffey reportedly tried to extinguish the fire with a gallon jug of water he had in his truck. Guffey removed his brother from the motel room.

Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson pronounced Robert Guffey dead at the scene at 6:12 a.m. Nelson said the room was filled with smoke when Guffey entered and the rush of oxygen apparently caused the mattress to burst into flames.

Nelson listed the preliminary cause of death as carbon monoxide poisoning, but the exact cause of death will be determined by an autopsy at the state medical examiner's office in Frankfort. The fire was extinguished by investigators using fire extinguishers and water. There is no indication of foul play, Nelson said. The coroner was contacted by P & B Ambulance workers who responded to the scene.

The brothers had been in Floyd County for approximately four weeks, clearing gas line right of way and were employed by Cherokee Construction Company of North Carolina.

The accident is under investigation by KSP Detective Joel Newsome and arson investigator Barry McKenzie. Floyd County Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Powers also assisted at the scene.

Victim may have suffered attack before accident

A heart attack has been cited as the cause for a single vehicle car crash which killed a Minnie woman Sunday morning at Drift. Vivian Allen, 69, was pronounced dead at the scene by Floyd County Deputy Coroner Buford Smith.

According to Coroner Roger Nelson, preliminary autopsy reports indicated Allen suffered a heart attack while driving on KY 122.

"The injuries sustained in the car crash were not so severe as to cause death," Nelson said. "The autopsy shows she definitely suffered a heart attack. However, the autopsy was not conclusive as to the exact cause of death. More tests will have to be performed to make that determination."

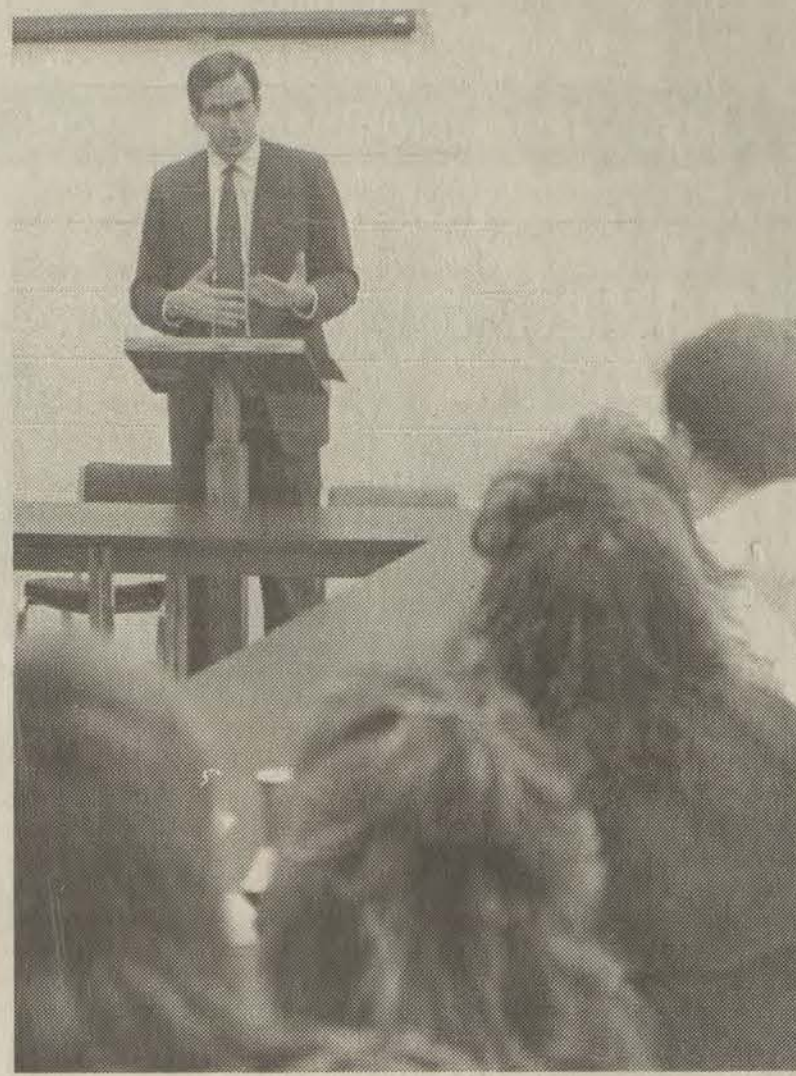

Allen was driving west on KY 122 when her car went off the right side of the road, over an embankment and into a culvert, the Kentucky State Police said. Allen was not wearing a seat belt, the KSP reported.

Job Corps center earns top honors

Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center in Prestonsburg received two major educational first place awards in the recently completed Region IV conference hosted by the U.S. Department of Labor in Atlanta.

Center Director Neil Eskildson accepted the first place award for the best overall math gains of any center in Region IV, and also received a first place award in reading gains by tying with two other centers.

Region IV consists of 23 Job Corps Centers in eight southeastern states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky, which hosts an annual training conference for key staff members.

Third issue to be resolved :

Board gives nod to out-of-court pact

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A federal civil rights lawsuit brought against the Floyd County Board of Education in February by a teacher's aide could be settled if the plaintiff and her attorney agree to an undisclosed settlement approved by the board at last Wednesday's meeting.

Karon Robinson filed a lawsuit in United States District Court in Pikeville alleging the board, Superintendent Ron Hager, Board Chairman James D. Adams and Assistant Pete Grigsby Jr., individually, tried to intimidate her to vote for a particular candidate in the Democrat Primary for county attorney in the May 1989 election.

This could be the third federal lawsuit settled filed against the board of education within the last year, all of which pertain to civil rights violations. The board has reached out-of-court settlements with Ervin Pack and Eddie Patton, which have amounted to over $100,000. In each case, the board has denied any wrongdoing and the cases were dismissed with prejudice.

The board of education still has several federal lawsuits pending.

Robinson's suit sought $500,000 in punitive damages and charged that Grigsby approached her in the spring of 1989, while working on school time, told her Hager and Adams wanted all school employees to vote for a particular candidate in the May Primary. Robinson said she told Grigsby she was already committed (See Settlement, page two)

Annexation issue talked by Prestonsburg council

by Tim Preston
Staff Writer

The Prestonsburg City Council gathered before an audience of Boy Scouts Monday night to discuss annexation of property near the Mountain Parkway and approve a policy for dealing with stray dogs in the city.

The meeting began with the introduction of members of local Boy Scout Troop 877, who attended the meeting as part of a citizenship merit program.

Special session should address issue :

Vote-buying, selling is legal, Cowan says

by Tim Preston
Staff Writer

Kentucky Attorney General Fred Cowan said Tuesday in Prestonsburg that the practice of buying and selling votes is now legal as the result of a decision by the Kentucky Supreme Court.

House majority leader Greg Stumbo, of Prestonsburg, disagreed with Cowan's assessment, but has asked that the issue be placed on the agenda for a special session of Kentucky's General Assembly, expected to be called in January.

Cowan, who was in Prestonsburg Tuesday to speak to a collection of Appalachian Leadership students from Prestonsburg and Hazard, said that the decision came after an investigation of voter fraud activity in a 1989 county judge executive race in Garrard County. Although two persons were indicted in the case, the attorney representing them moved to dismiss the case on the basis of unconstitutionality. The Kentucky Attorney General appealed that decision to the Kentucky Supreme Court, where the decision was upheld last Thursday.

The high court's ruling, handed down last Thursday, voided part of a 1988 election reform law that increased the penalty for buying and selling votes from a misdemeanor to a felony.

The decision also erased a section of an 1852 law which defined bribery and vote-buying. It left intact other election reform provisions, including a ban on campaigning within 500 feet of polls.

The attorney general said that his office would put pressure on Governor Wallace Wilkinson to address the issue during the special session of the Kentucky General Assembly. "I expect the governor will put it on the special session (agenda)," said

Cowan. "If he hesitates I will put pressure on him to do so."

House majority leader Greg Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, said Tuesday that the terminology of the law would be easily corrected if the governor chooses to include the issue in the special session of the General Assembly. "It's easy to deal with from a legislative point of view, to create a new definition for it," said Stumbo. Stumbo added that, although he has not seen the specific ruling by the supreme court, he did not believe the decision would legalize buying and selling of votes. "It would not necessarily be illegal under that section of the statute, but there are other statutes which were not affected which could be applied," Stumbo said.

"You could still get in trouble for buying or selling a vote in the state of Kentucky," said Stumbo. "It would be hard to prosecute, but there are other statutes that deal with voter fraud which are still valid."

When asked if the buying and selling of votes was now a legal activity, Cowan said, "Unless the supreme court reverses its decision, it will be legal to buy and sell votes in Kentucky."

Parade requirements called "unconstitutional" :

Klan vows to march despite city denial

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Members of the Christian Knights of the Ku Klux Klan apparently intend to march through Prestonsburg Sunday, despite the city's denial of a parade permit.

City police declined to speculate on what action the department might take if the Klan attempts the November 18 march without the required permit.

Imperial Wizard Virgil L. Griffin applied for a parade permit on November 6 with the city of Prestonsburg for a "march to be held through the main stream of town" and asked to speak on the courthouse steps, at city hall or any historical monument which may be in Prestonsburg. The request said the purpose of the meeting is membership recruitment and to pass out literature. The march is planned to begin at 1 p.m.

Prestonsburg Police Chief Greg Hall denied the permit on the grounds the Klan did not send in a $100 permit fee with the application and failed to provide all necessary information on the application, such as a parade route.

Chief Hall said the Klan made the same request last year but did not appear on the scheduled date of the march.

"If any group does not comply with the ordinance, a parade permit will be denied," Hall said. "We have to know certain elements, such as which streets to block off and alternate fire and ambulance routes. The request wanted to use the Christmas parade route, but we don't have one. If they comply with ordinance, we can't deny them a permit."

Responding to the permit denial, Griffin said he felt the $100 fee was "unconstitutional" and an attorney for the Klan was looking into the matter. Griffin threatened to file a federal lawsuit against the city if the march could not be held.

"In the event that the Christian Knights are still not allowed to hold their streetwalk, we will have no other choice but to turn this over to our lawyer and go to federal court," the letter said. "If that is the case, then the Christian Knights will ask for and get, lawyer fees, court cost and all other expenses incurred by members of the Christian Knights involved in this request."

The Klan held marches in Pikeville and Paintsville in 1989. Citizens turned out in large crowds to protest the Klan's activities.

Letters From Home

If you have relatives or friends serving with U.S. forces in Saudi Arabia who would like to receive cards or letters from home, send their names and addresses to The Floyd County Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

The Times will publish the names and addresses of servicemen and women, so that readers may write to them.

Disaster averted

The Prestonsburg Fire Department received quite a scare Tuesday afternoon when a fire was reported at Vanhoose Lumber Company in West Prestonsburg. Firemen arrived on the scene and discovered a forklift on fire inside the one of the company's storage buildings. Workers quickly extinguished the fire and averted a potentially disastrous situation. Landfill seeks state okay to expand customer list

by Janice Shepherd
Staff Writer

Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. last week filed a request with the Division of Waste Management to accept solid waste from Martin and Pike counties, and also informed the state it intends to upgrade its landfill before June 1992.

The request comes on the heel of Governor Wallace Wilkinson's moratorium on landfills implemented in October. The freeze will be in effect until January when Gov. Wilkinson intends to call a special legislative session to review Kentucky's waste control system. State officials say the emergency regulations are necessary to keep landfill operators from loading up before the legislature acts or the construction standards take effect.

Current solid waste regulations require that landfills must either upgrade existing operations or close before June 1992. Landfill officials had until November 8 to inform the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet of their intentions to upgrade before 1992.

The moratorium will not affect the Floyd County request to accept the waste from Martin and Pike counties, said George Gilbert, acting manager of the Solid Waste Branch of the Division of Waste Management. Under Kentucky regulation 401 KAR 47: 132, 134, and 136 E, if an emergency situation exists in the county, such as the mandatory closing of the landfill, then that county may divert its solid waste to another site without public notice, Gilbert said.

Emergency situations exist in both Martin and Pike counties, and the state can issue approval for Floyd to receive solid waste from those counties under the emergency regulations, Gilbert explained.

Pike County is currently preparing a new landfill site on John's Creek and its old landfill is two years over capacity, said Gary Anderson, commissioner of Pike County Solid Waste. Anderson said Pike County planned to use the Floyd landfill on an interim basis, estimating that the new landfill's completion would take about six months.

Pike County currently generates about 125 tons of solid waste per day, Anderson said.

Martin county had nowhere to go with its trash since the state had stopped its disposing of trash in mining pits, according to David Cooley, director of the Floyd county landfill. Cooley said Martin County had a "portable landfill," explaining Martin County's sanitation department had been dumping its solid waste in Martiki Coal Company's mining pits. Cooley said Martiki would cover the garbage-filled pit, and the county would move on to a new pit if one existed.

In November 1989, the mining company was cited by the Mine Safety and Health agency for creating a dangerous situation. The agency claimed that trash in the pits could ignite.

Though Floyd County has not received written approval from the state, Martin County has been transporting garbage to the Floyd county landfill since August, Cooley said. Martin County hauls around two truck loads, approximately 20 tons, per day to the Floyd County landfill, according to Larry Preece with the Martin County Sanitation Department.

In a letter written on March 26, 1990, Cooley told Shelby Jett, who was then manager of the Division of Waste Management, that he was submitting an application to add Martin County as a new Floyd county solid waste source. At that time, Cooley said he was not sure when Martin County would be using the Floyd county landfill.

In a letter to Cooley on July 19, Jett stated that the application requested authorization to dispose of waste from sources not listed on the Floyd County permit. Jett told Cooley he must publish a Public Notice in the county newspaper and submit an affidavit.

Jett also informed Cooley, in the letter, that the landfill was not authorized to dispose of waste from the requested sources. "Your permit must be revised for authorization to receive waste from additional sources," Jett said.

A copy of the Floyd County permit, obtained from the Division of Waste Management in Frankfort, shows that the Floyd landfill may dispose of trash originating in Floyd and Knott counties only.

"No deviation from the terms and conditions of this permit is allowed without prior written authorization from the Division," the permit states. "Violation of the terms and conditions specified herein shall render this permit null and void."

A confirmation list on file with the Solid Waste Branch in Frankfort shows the landfill is currently taking garbage from Knott, Martin, Morgan, and Johnson counties, and from the Cities of Prestonsburg and Paintsville, the Jenny Wiley State park, and the Prestonsburg Sewage treatment plant.

Cooley blamed the solid waste snafu on the state's mismanagement of its solid waste department, and admitted he had no written approval notices on file from the state to accept the waste from counties not listed on the face of the permit.

Charlie Pearl, information officer with the Solid Waste Branch, concurred with Cooley's opinion. Pearl said the oversight was the result of a shortage of personnel in the department. "Nobody caught it," Pearl said. Pearl said there are four other Kentucky counties that are taking solid waste and haven't received the proper authorization from the state.

Floyd County will have to get a minor modification approved in order to take garbage from those counties not already authorized, Pearl said. No notice of violations will be issued against Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc., and approval should come within the week, Pearl said.

"In the final analysis, after the state is through playing games," said Bob McAninch, commissioner of Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc., "We're responsible for burying the paperwork the state has generated."

The solid waste company is in the talking stage of an innovative pilot recycling program, according to Cooley. The company will install state-of-the-art recycling bins at Duff Elementary where recyclable trash will be dumped by students on a voluntary basis, Cooley said.

to another candidate. Grigsby allegedly responded "those who supported Dr. Adams and Mr. Hager would continue to be around and that those who did not would no longer be employed."

Robinson was subsequently not re-hired as a full-time teacher's aide the next school year and she claims she has only been allowed to work a few days since the beginning of the year.

Robinson nor her attorney, John David Preston of Paintsville, would disclose the amount of the agreement saying the board of education had not contacted them about a proposed settlement.

The board of education would not disclose the amount of the settlement until receiving Robinson's approval.

County, City Police Report

Education retain the name of Prestonsburg High School. The resolution requests that the board of education retain the name as long as a majority of the schools students are from the city, regardless of location of the facility. Council members approved the resolution by a unanimous vote.

Although no action was taken, the topic of annexation of areas near the Mountain Parkway received much discussion. Detailed technical maps of the areas proposed for annexation were not available for council members, however a general map was passed among the councilmen for consideration. The possible annexation is proposed to include the Clark Elementary School and some properties extending to the Fitzpatrick Farm and Fitzpatrick Church. The proposed site of the new Prestonsburg High School would also be included in the annexation.

Following discussion of problems at the animal shelter building, council members approved a motion to have stray dogs in the city captured after an appropriate warning has been given to owners of the animal. Councilman William O. Goebel questioned the practice of having city employees capture stray animals and cast the only opposition vote to the motion. Mayor Latta explained to Goebel that the Dewey Dam Dog and Cat Protection Society did not have enough manpower or equipment to perform the service, whereas the city has purchased a snare pole and cage for the capture and detainment of the animals.

"It seems like that is something the county could do," said Goebel. "But I guess they don't care much about what goes on in the city."

Council members then approved a measure to enact a junior firefighters' program. The program, which is designed to encourage 16 to 18 year olds to participate in firefighting programs, will not allow the minors to actually participate in actual firefighting or drive city vehicles. The program will go into effect after council approves a policy from the fire department which details what duties the junior firefighters would be allowed to perform.

City Fire Marshall Larry Adams approached the council to ask for funding for a trip to Maryland for an infectious disease workshop, adding that he would be representing the entire state of Kentucky at the seminar. Council approved his request for $175 to cover expenses of the trip.

Before adjourning, the council approved motions by Councilman Danny Hamilton to have street lights installed near the entrance of the Adams Middle School and at the May's Branch home of Doctor Robert Herrick. Councilman Billy Ray Collins also donated two of his checks for city council service to the Prestonsburg Auxiliary Police and Volunteer Firefighter funds. Prestonsburg Traffic Safety Officer Alan Lafferty presented Collins with a certificate of appreciation for the gesture.

Purchase of decorative Christmas banners for city streets was also approved.

All council members were present at Monday's meeting but Dr. Gary Brown. The next regular meeting of the council will be Monday, November 26, at 7 p.m.

Martin council approves county's dispatch request

The Martin City Council approved a request from the Floyd County Sheriff's Department to use the city's volunteer fire dispatch radio tower as a site for a central dispatch tower at last Wednesday's meeting.

Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson submitted the request for the antenna site, saying that the central location of the city would improve communications within the department.

In other business, the council accepted an audit bid from Allen, England and Hensley for the city's 1989-1990 audit.

Council members did not address recent problems which led to the resignation of most of the city's volunteer fire department, opting instead to meet with the group in a special meeting which will be held tonight, (Wednesday, November 14, at 7 p.m.). Council members are expected to negotiate demands submitted by the resigned firemen at last month's regular meeting.

The next regular meeting of the Martin City Council will be Wednesday, December 5, at 7 p.m. at the Martin City Hall. All councilmen were present at Wednesday's meeting, except E.P. Grigsby Sr.

Floyd retired teachers work on annual program book

Members of the Floyd County Retired Teacher's Association executive committee and program committee met at the Floyd County Library on Friday, November 9, to work on the annual program book and other items of business. The meeting was called to order by Ruby Akers, president.

Virginia Goble will assume the office of vice-president as a result of the resignation of Geneva Hamilton.

Membership still remains a prime concern of the organization and Miss Akers has appointed someone in each area of the county to call non members with an invitation to join. Though membership is gaining, it is felt Floyd County could be 100 per cent The executive committee will recommend to the members at the next meeting of FCRTA to make available a lifetime membership fee for $30. The rationale for this is that as members grow older, though they want to remain members, they are unable physically to get to meetings to pay dues.

Current officers are president: Ruby Akers, vice president: Virginia

Goble; second vice president: Alice Martin; secretaries: Emogene Caldwell and Sarah Laven; treasurers: Nadine Hicks and Alma Lowe.

Attending the meeting were Miss Akers, Virginia Goble, Emogene Caldwell, Alice Martin, Alma Lowe and Delphia Hicks.

The next meeting will be Thursday, December 13, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Flu shots are available at health dept.

The Floyd County Health Department is now giving flu shots. There is a $3 charge for the shots, but no one will be denied a shot due to inability to pay, according to health department officials. Please call 886-2788 for an appointment.

There will be no nursing services at the health department on Tuesday, Nov. 20, due to staff attending an inservice training.

The health department will be closed Thursday and Friday, Nov. 22 and 23, in observance of the Thanksgiving Holiday. It will reopen Monday, Nov. 26, at 8 a.m.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

The incineration of solid waste, particularly medical waste, has been a hot topic for some time. The heat has been turned up recently in a fire fight between Auxier area residents and Medisin, Inc., which burns waste created at Highlands Regional and at various other medical facilities in the Big Sandy area.

The issue has emotions running as high as the temperatures in the waste burners themselves. Time for a cooling off period.

Both sides of the incinerator issue have expressed legitimate concerns.

Neighbors of the plant have taken a "not-in-my-backyard" stance against the potential health hazards created by burning "red bag" garbage.

Medisin has argued that the incinerator meets air quality standards and it poses no threat to health.

We don't know who is right and who is wrong.

Perhaps both are a little of each. It is inconceivable to imagine that a facility whose sole purpose is health care would knowingly allow area health standards to be compromised for the sake of operating a waste-burning incinerator.

That makes no sense. But as long as there are so many unknowns in the process of incineration, safety first must be the rule.

We're not qualified to offer expert advice on this issue, but we will propose a reasonable compromise.

Move the incinerator to an unpopulated area, limit its intake and closely monitor its output.

Medical waste, like all other forms of garbage, must be disposed of carefully and responsibly. And we know from the problems we're witnessing in other states that we can't just dump our trash on someone else.

We don't want to import garbage, so we shouldn't expect to export it.

Let's take care of our own, and protect our health and environment, too.

Were we dreaming, or was that series of articles on Appalachian poverty, published in the Sunday Herald-Leader, actually a fair portrayal of the issue?

Well, compared to NBC's 1989 Massacre at Muddy Gut, the Sunday series was a masterpiece of objectivity, despite one complimentary lapse into stereotype.

The articles, written by Doug Struck of the Baltimore Sun, detailed the plights of several Carter County, Kentucky residents whose struggles with poverty might have been just another dose of hillbilly bashing had Struck not taken the time to give his report some balance...

"There is no bucolic charm to this country deprivation," Struck wrote. "Nor is it a circumstance of choice. The old cartoons and bad jokes about lazy hillbillies are cruel slander. Most rural poor work. Their employment often is unsteady and low-paying. They hang by fingertips to a fragile security. With no reserves for setbacks, they easily lose that grip."

Poverty is real, we can't deny it. Neither do we accept exclusive rights to it.

Are you listening Dan Rather?

We can't help but question a decision from organized labor groups which directs their members to stop donating blood as a show of support for striking Red Cross workers.

The issues of the strike aside, it's wrong to use human life as a bargaining chip.

With the crisis in the Persian Gulf escalating, the need for blood grows dearer.

We hope no soldiers' lives are lost for a picket line.

Our apologies to Hubert Halbert, of Langley.

A letter to the editor published in Friday's edition of the Times, which criticized Floyd school board chairman James D. Adams, bore Halbert's signature, but was, in fact, not written by Halbert.

It is our usual policy to verify each letter submitted for our opinion page, but this one slipped through.

It is unfortunate that some people will resort to such underhanded tactics and lack the courage to put their own names on their own views.

Honesty is the best policy, and we're honestly sorry that Mr. Halbert was caught up in our carelessness.

A heart-warming thanks to the folks at Lad 'n Lassie for their warm-hearted gesture toward our Warm A Heart project.

Lad 'n Lassie is offering a 20 percent discount on clothing purchased for the Warm A Heart project, an effort to provide winter clothing to county children in need.

A Thanksgiving Prayer

Thank you for being a God of Compassion, Love, Mercy, Truth and Justice.

Thank you for your promise that you will always love us and will never forsake us.

Thank you for preparing the wonderful and beautiful home for us that we may enjoy through eternity.

Hear our prayers when we pray for the sick, sad, lonely and homeless. We pray for the ones who haven't turned to Jesus as their Lord and Savior. Soften their hearts and keep knocking until they invite you in.

Father we pray for world's peace, our hostages, our military people. Bring them home safely.

We pray for ourselves our loved ones, our Church, our Pastor and our neighbors.

Jehovah's Witnesses have recently held an assembly in Morehead, and no doubt they knocked on the doors of every home. Their purpose in calling on people, is to convert them, for they believe one must come into the Watchtower Society to have a "hope" for salvation. They sincerely believe they can't be saved themselves, if they are not active in this work.

Their literature is attractive, with all appearances of being "Christian." The 12 men who write the publications believe they are God's only channel of communication, and what they say is TRUTH, no matter how often they change it! They insist that all Witnesses follow their biblical interpretations. Jehovah's Witnesses who (formally) disassociate themselves from the group, are to be shunned by all, including family! Just attending another church can bring disfellowshipping! Many families have been torn apart due to their strict governing policies.

The leaders believe that 98% of the Witnesses cannot be born again, and must not partake of communion. This 98% must attach themselves to the 2%, who are born again, and are mediators for them.

I was a third generation JW. I truly believed the organization was my "mother." Now, I know that Jesus is the TRUTH! (Jo 14:6) Now that I know the true gospel, I enjoy helping Jehovah's Witnesses find the REAL truth!

I wish to thank your county for the support and votes I received in my successful re-election bid for a fifth term as your representative in Congress. I thank the good people of the 7th District for allowing me the honor of representing them since 1984.

I congratulate my Republican opponent, Will T. Scott, who has proven to be a formidable and hard working challenger during the past two elections.

This recent election campaign was both disappointing and frustrating. The legislative demands caused by the budget crisis limited my return to the district to meet the residents. I enjoy meeting with my constituents—both listening and talking to them. I vow to make even greater efforts to visit our people. Spending my time in the 7th District is where I plan to be as well as representing your concerns and needs in Washington, D.C. My staff and I are studying ways by which I can continue effective representation of my district in Washington while staying in closer, more personal touch with my constituents.

I invite you to call or write my office whenever you have a concern or question. You may write me at the following address: 1004 Longworth House Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20515, or call (202) 225-4935.

I firmly believe that community newspapers serve a vital function in keeping their readers abreast of my actions in Washington and other events. I thank this newspaper because it has enabled my office to keep you informed on 7th District developments in Washington, D.C.

Again, thank you. I hope that my work over the next two years will encourage continued voter confidence in the future.

Our citizens group, Floyd Countians In Action, has a goal. And that is to prove that Medisin's incinerator is indeed poisoning the air in Eastern Kentucky. We brought in an environmental consultant from Kansas City who informed us that it is even worse than we thought. There are no pollution control devices on it. (A double-hearth burn-chamber does not keep heavy metals and chlorine compounds from becoming airborne.)

Chemists from Michigan to Florida have cautioned us about eating the vegetables grown near the hospital and we are currently testing the soil for various toxics. We are not against the hospital as some people have accused us of being, but we do intend to do everything we can to see that these incinerators are either made completely safe or shut down.

How Many Counties? From The Kentucky Local Governance Project

Kentuckians seem to like their counties. After all Kentucky has more counties for its population than any other state. Among the states, Kentucky ranks 37th in area, but it ranks third in the number of counties. Kentucky's 120 counties range in population from just over 2,200 to nearly 700,000. The "how many counties?" question has been "cussed" and discussed since Kentucky became a state. As recently as the 1988-89 Interim Legislative Session, a Special Commission for the Study of Consolidation of Counties looked at this issue. It recommended that the Legislature consider consolidating counties, making voluntary consolidation easier, consolidating services, and creating a state agency to continue to deal with this question. These recommendations have not yet been implemented.

A 1989 poll by the University of Kentucky indicated that Kentuckians are nearly evenly divided on whether the state has too many counties. One view is that there are too many counties, but that this will never change. Another is that the current county structure is fine, but that consolidation of some services among counties and elimination of some elected officials, like constables, would improve local government. The clear message is that Kentuckians like their counties, they just wish they would work. Kentucky has 20 counties in serious financial difficulty, 45 counties among the most economically distressed in the U.S., and 18 counties where more than half the children live in poverty.

Some people believe that the size of Kentucky's counties has been a direct contributor to the economic stagnation of some of them. Small populations just cannot afford the services and infrastructure development, like water and sewers, that a county needs. Those who oppose consolidation believe that government must stay close to the people, and that the opportunity for face-to-face interaction with government is essential. Still others believe that there is often corruption and patronage in small counties because they are vulnerable to a powerful local family or a single local employer dominating the political scene. So people are torn between the values of community and democracy, and the inherent problems of government on a small scale.

Does Kentucky need to consolidate its counties? Should only services be consolidated? If so, which services? On what criteria should consolidation of counties and/or services be based?

At the Kentucky Local Governance Project, we are examining these and other issues. We want to know what you think about Kentucky's counties. Your ideas will be put into our "idea bank" and referred to in planning for improvements in our system of government. Write: Kentucky Local Governance Project, 433 Chestnut Street, Berea, KY 40403.

Report to Kentucky

By Sen. Wendell Ford

Facing The Dangers Of The New Madrid Fault

A little more than a year ago, I was pleased to work with other senators to provide additional resources for earthquake studies along the New Madrid fault in Kentucky and other states.

Recent events make it clearer than ever that we have to follow up on these efforts as quickly and aggressively as possible—and I want all Kentuckians to know that we are doing exactly that.

Many of you have become aware of the historical background. Some of the largest earthquakes in U.S. history were produced by this fault in 1811 and 1812, followed by major quakes in 1843 and 1895. This continuing threat was largely overlooked for many years, even though it could bring truly disastrous consequences to more heavily populated regions today.

Fortunately, we have had no reports of injuries or major damage from a relatively small earthquake that rumbled across our state just a few weeks ago.

But that disturbance should tell us something. It should drive home the message that we still have a lot of work to do in minimizing the destruction that could come with a much larger New Madrid earthquake at some point in the future.

The U.S. Geological Survey recently announced that it has found absolutely no scientific basis for widely circulated predictions as to when such a disaster might strike. But it went on to issue this very important statement:

"There is a very real, long-term earthquake hazard posed by the New Madrid seismic zone. It is essential that scientists continue to work closely with state and local officials to use scientific information in developing public policy that will reduce the risk to life and property."

That was the goal of our successful move last year to provide $4 million for extensive studies of earthquake hazards and potential countermeasures, primarily in the New Madrid region. The Geological Survey already has used some of those funds for seismic-network improvements and a report on "preparing for the next New Madrid earthquake."

This new report identifies the kinds of research that could be used in strengthening building codes, shoring up existing schools, hospitals and other structures and taking other steps to save lives and property in the event of a major earthquake in the New Madrid zone.

Such research would include the establishment of a modern seismic network. This could also lead to progress in predicting earthquakes along the fault, which runs through parts of Arkansas, Missouri, Tennessee, Illinois and Indiana and underlies Western Kentucky along the Mississippi River.

Federal resources have never been more scarce than they are today. But lives are at stake, and at this writing we are moving new legislation to press ahead with this vital research. I can assure you that I will continue to do everything in my power to see that Kentuckians are protected as fully as possible from the all-too-real threat of the New Madrid fault.

"Remind me to be thankful this Thanksgiving we don't have to sit through any more political TV ads."

Personnel moves okayed:

Board amends school facility plan

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

An amendment to the current Floyd County Board of Education's school facility plan that will allow interim school centers to become eligible for funding was approved at last Wednesday's meeting.

The amendment will allow funding to become available Auxier, Prater and Melvin centers, Superintendent Ron Hager recommended the addition of McDowell Elementary so a new center can be constructed to get that school out of the floodplain. No dates were given by the board as to when these projects will begin. Hager said the construction funding is part of Kentucky's Educational Reform Act.

The board also approved the purchase of 13 new school buses for the system at a cost of approximately $461,000. The purchase will include two 18-passenger buses, one 18-passenger handicapped bus; seven 66-passenger buses and three 70-passenger buses. Transportation Director Earl D. Ousley made the request to the board.

Due to the high cost of gasoline prices, the board limited school field trips to athletic and academic events. Superintendent Hager said high fuel costs will cause the board to exceed its budget for gasoline for the current year. As of December 1 field trips will be curtailed.

Also approved was:
• change orders, BG-4 applications and bids for boiler replacement and fire suppression systems;
• payments to vendors for new school construction projects and other contracts; and
• treasurer's report and bills and claims.

Personnel decisions were:
Employed: Tonya Eads teacher at Clark Elementary; Vivian McGarey early childhood coordinator for Floyd County; Billy Tussey Jr., Tony Keathley, and Rose Patierno, certified substitute teachers; Betsy Kretzer, Julie Newberry, Neva H. Francis, Sandy Gunnell, Tracy L. McCown, Sherrie Bowling, Debra Hayes, Gary Conely and Charolette Keathley, emergency substitute teachers.

Transfers and employment: Sally Justice, substitute teacher aide; Deborah Crisp, library clerk/aide at Allen and Prater schools; Michelle Couch, library clerk/aide at Harold and Wheelwright; Delisa Howard, paraprofessional at Duff Elementary;

Linda Samons, temporary custodian at Martin Elementary; Doug Holbrook, full-time custodian at James D. Adams Middle School; Elmo Hunt, full-time custodian at Betsy Layne Elementary; Mark Tipton and Chris Caldwell, substitute custodians; Pamela Johnson and Rhonda Made, substitute school bus drivers.

Transfers: Glenn Holbrook from custodian to bus driver; Geraldine Osborne from lunchroom manager to regular cook at Osborne Elementary; Denver Ousley from substitute to full-time bus driver; and Richard Ratliff from substitute to full-time bus driver; Joyce Collins, temporary custodian at James D. Adams Middle School.

Resignations: Vernia Newsome as head custodian at Betsy Layne; Lois Hamilton as custodian at Martin Elementary; Mickey Dingus, kindergarten teacher aide at Martin; Larry Tipton as bus driver.

Special meeting planned to review waste law

by Tim Preston
Staff Writer

Members of Floyd Countians in Action, a local group opposed to incineration of medical waste at Highlands Regional Medical Center, got less than they wanted at Friday's meeting of the Floyd County Fiscal Court.

The protest group, which showed up at the meeting to request a second reading of an ordinance dealing with toxic and medical waste, was told that a special meeting of the court would be held for the reading of the ordinance after County Attorney Jim Hammond had properly completed the ordinance. Hammond and Magistrate Jackie Owens confirmed that they were personally in support of the measure as they reassured the group that action would be taken in the near future. County Judge Executive John M. Stumbo said Tuesday that no date has been set for the reading of the ordinance.

In other business, Buddy Fitzpatrick addressed the court, seeking approval of a supplemental loan agreement in relation to industrial revenue bonds sold for the construction of a Sleep Inn near the present location of the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn. Judge Stumbo later explained that the measure was a means of allowing work to begin on the proposed 84 unit motel, which will employ 30 to 35 people.

Also Friday, Floyd County Humane Society representative Ned Pillersdorf approached the court with a request for additional funding for the operation of the Dewey Dam Dog and Cat Protection Society's animal shelter. Pillersdorf explained that the facility was in bad shape physically and financially and requested an additional $15,000 from the court, adding that the funds would be used to hire a full-time employee for the facility, advertising of animals for adoption, and repairs and upgrades to the shelter.

Judge Stumbo avoided the funding request, asking animal shelter representatives to meet with him at a later date. "We'll look at that thing and work together," said Stumbo. "I think we can work it out."

Prior to the meeting, shelter representatives had said that the facility would be forced to close if the funding request was not approved.

Before adjourning, the court approved the hiring of a new deputy jailer and adopted a personnel policy regarding county employees insurance coverage.

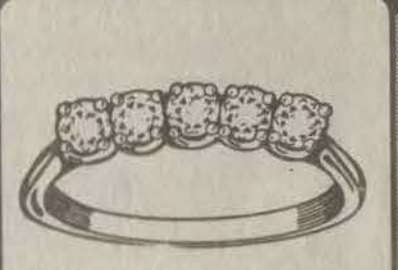

All members of the Fiscal Court were present for the Friday meeting. The next regular meeting of the court will be Friday, December 21, at 10 a.m.

Free garden soil test analysis
Billy Merritt, chairman of the Floyd County extension district board announced this week that soil tests from the first 100 Floyd County gardeners will be analyzed free of charge.

According to Merritt, this is the first attempt by the extension board to furnish such assistance to gardeners. This is an attempt to encourage better use of lime and fertilizer and to increase the production of garden produce.

County Extension Agent Gene Ball emphasizes that soil tests should be taken as soon as possible, air-dried—and taken to the Floyd County extension office (1 print of soil). The samples will be assembled and taken to the University of Kentucky for analysis. The results and recommendations for fertilizer and lime use will be made and mailed to the soil sample owners. Gardeners wishing to be involved and who are not sure about how to take a soil test should call the extension office and ask for leaflet, AGR-16 or talk with office personnel.

Persons wishing to have soil testing for lawns, pastures, hay crops can have such samples run for a fee of $2.50 per sample plus postage.

Gardeners who would like to have a copy of the University of Kentucky Garden Bulletin, HO-63, Home Gardening in Kentucky should contact the extension office at 886-2668.

Church has new area president

The First Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints recently announced the appointment of Larry V. Lunt as president of the Louisville, Kentucky Mission.

Lunt spoke for the first time at the Martin District Conference which was held in November 11 in the Martin district meeting house located off Route 80 in Martin.

President Lunt, who follows Dale L. Gardner who held the president's position for three years, assumed his new responsibilities on July 1.

Lunt, 47, is a native of Salt Lake City, Utah, where he was employed as an attorney and developer. He holds Bs and JD degrees from the University of Utah.

Lunt and his wife, Susan Child, are the parents of six children.

Assembly of God council convenes

The Assemblies of God Sectional Council was recently held at the First Assembly of God at Martin. New officers were elected for the coming year.

Lorie Vannucci, pastor of the Martin Church was re-elected presbyter; Pastor Hommon from the Hazard Victory Assembly of God was elected secretary/treasurer. Pastor Phil Robinson of the Prestonsburg Praise Assembly of God was elected assistant presbyter and youth representative. David York, pastor of the West Prestonsburg Assembly of God was elected Christian education director.

Reports were given on the vision of the Assemblies of God, called the Decade of Harvest for the 1990's. This vision is to win five million souls to Jesus Christ; enlist one million people to pray for revival in America; begin 5,000 new churches; and add 20,000 new ministers.

Ombudsman available to assist needs of elderly

Long term facility residents have the right to expect quality care and to be treated with dignity. The Big Sandy Ombudsman program, a federally mandated program throughout the United States, protects the rights of residents in each long term facility or alternative living situations such as family care homes.

To report unfair practices to residents in the Big Sandy area, contact the local district Ombudsman, Mary Anne Hall at 886-2374, or call the state long term care Ombudsman toll-free at 1-800-372-2991. All calls are kept confidential and are investigated.

Military Memos

Meade Serves With Desert Shield

Pvt. Charles (Chuck) E. Meade is currently serving with the 82nd Airborne Division stationed in Saudi Arabia.

Meade is the son of Eddie D. Meade of East McDowell and Joyce Gesh of Lawrenceburg. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Adkins of McDowell and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Miller of McDowell.

Meade is a 1988 graduate of McDowell High School.

When Meade was 11 years old, he gave a letter to his grandfather, Lawrence Adkins, asked his "Pop-paw" to address it to the president of the United States and put it in the mail.

The letter follows.
Dear Mister President,

I am a little boy, 11 years old. I am anxious to fight in the Army to fight for my country. And I would like a Army suit. Please send me one. Please send me a 5-star general patch and medals.

PS I wear a reglar 18 pants and shirt size 14 and send me a membership card, please. I live in McDowell. Your friend,
Charles E. Meade

Handshoe Awarded Achievement Medal

Sgt. Billy R. Handshoe has been decorated with the Army Achievement Medal. The medal is awarded to soldiers for meritorious service, acts of courage, or other outstanding accomplishments.

Handshoe is a light wheel vehicle mechanic at Fort Campbell.

He is the son of Wilkie S. and Betty L. Handshoe of Hueysville and is a 1985 graduate of Allen Central High School at Eastern.

Air Force "DEP" Volunteer

Richard A. Robinson, of Prestonsburg, recently enlisted into the Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program, according to Sgt. Huff, local Air Force Recruiter.

Richard, a 1988 graduate of Johnson Central High School, is scheduled for enlistment into the regular Air Force in March, 1991. Upon graduation from the Air Force's Six Week Basic Training Course at Lackland Air Force Base, near San Antonio, Texas, he will receive technical training in his designated career area.

Richard will earn credits toward an associate degree in applied sciences through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and technical training school.

Howell Completes Recruit Training

Marine Pfc. Robert D. Howell, son of Robert and Juanita Howell of Harold, has completed recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

During the 13-week training cycle, Howell was taught the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment, and he also studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

He is a 1990 graduate of Betsy Layne High School, Stanville.

Stationed with Navy In Saudi Arabia

Navy Seaman Apprentice April

M. Steffey, daughter of Donna L. Steffey of Tram, is currently deployed to the Middle East in support of Operation Desert Shield while serving aboard the destroyer tender USS Acadia, homeported in San Diego.

Operation Desert Shield is the largest deployment of United States military forces since Vietnam. The operation is in response to Iraq's invasion of Kuwait and threat to Saudi Arabia.

A 1989 graduate of Betsy Layne High School, she joined the Navy in August 1989.

Serves with Desert Shield

Spc Brian T. Ross, with the 101st Airborne Assault division is part of Operation Desert Shield in Saudi Arabia. Formerly of Floyd County, he is the son of Anna Engle Ross of Palatka, Fla. and grandson of Mahalia Engle of Wheelwright and the late Leonard Engle.

The Goodin Brothers of Lebanon Oak Flooring Co. are accustomed to standing on solid ground. That's why they've kept Blue Cross and Blue Shield since 1953.

A lumber company has stood on this site since the 1890s. Lebanon Oak Flooring Co. itself has been in business since 1919. Today, Charles and Robert Goodin still turn Kentucky Oak into nationally renowned hardwood floors. And they still keep the health insurance company they've kept for 37 years—Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky.

"We take a paternalistic outlook toward our people. We want to take care of them. We want the best."

Sure, the Goodins have talked to other insurers in the past. Some companies have offered them lower rates than Blue Cross and Blue Shield. But Lebanon Oak Flooring keeps coming back.

"You can take your Blue Cross card and go to any doctor you want, anywhere you want."

At one time, there were 13 companies producing hardwood floors in Kentucky. Today, there are only two. Lebanon Oak survived by offering the highest quality products at fair prices.

The same is true for Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky. Health companies have come and gone. But year in, year out, none have been able to match the quality, accessibility and service offered by Blue Cross and Blue Shield for over 50 years.

We're honored to have been the Lebanon Oak Flooring Company's health insurance company for 37 years. We'd be honored to work with your company for the next 37. For more information, call us or your local Blue Cross and Blue Shield representative.

We'll put you on the ground floor of Kentucky's most popular health insurance company.

Blue Cross Blue Shield of Kentucky

Good isn't good enough anymore.

MDA offers patients free anti-influenza inoculations

The Central Kentucky Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) is offering free anti-influenza inoculations again this year to people who have any of the 40 neuromuscular diseases covered by the Association's programs, Chapter President June Hess, announced recently. Children and adults with neuromuscular disorders are considered at high risk of serious illness if infected with influenza viruses and should receive flu shots annually as medically prescribed, she added.

The Central Kentucky Chapter of the Association will pay for flu shots for all patients it serves, whether shots are administered by patients' personal physicians or by physicians at MDA Clinics. MDA's Patient and Community Services program provides direct services and quality health care to patients with neuromuscular diseases through some 230 hospital-affiliated clinics and more than 185 MDA field offices throughout the United States and Puerto Rico. Services provided range from diagnostic tests and therapeutic and rehabilitative follow-up care to selected orthopedic aids and social service counseling. In Lexington, the MDA Clinic is located at the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

Contact Jill Rudisill, Patient Service Coordinator, MDA, 1636 Nicholasville Road, Suite 4, Lexington, Ky. 40503, or call (606) 278-2599.

Helicopter to Visit Our Lady of the Way

The HealthNet IV helicopter, based at St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington, will make a site visit to Our Lady of the Way Hospital on Monday, November 29, at approximately 1:30 p.m. The visit will enable local physicians and hospital staff to meet some of the HealthNet IV flight crew and see the helicopter.

The helicopter will be available 24 hours a day to serve central and eastern Kentucky patients in a 150 mile radius of St. Joseph Hospital. During the site visit, physicians, hospital and EMS personnel will become familiarized with the BK-117 helicopter, its capabilities and equipment.

This event may be rescheduled or postponed in case of inclement weather.

Turnovers Plague Blackcats In 47-13 Loss To Corbin

The talk around the state of Kentucky has been the play of Corey Reeves, a 6-2, 217 pound tight end for the Corbin Redhounds. The Corbin standout has been courted by several major colleges such as Notre Dame and Kentucky, etc. However, the fleet-footed Reeves failed to make the impression he was expected to make against the Prestonsburg Blackcats in the District 2 playoffs Friday night at Campbell Field in Corbin. Prestonsburg's concentration on Reeves was so good they forgot about running back Tim Hickman (6-0, 164) who ran through the Blackcats' defense for 125 yards on 11 carries. Hickman scored two touchdowns in the game and halfback Darian Jackson (5-7, 172) rushed for 74 yards on five carries and also scored two touchdowns as the Redhounds posted a 47-13 win over Prestonsburg.

In fact, Corbin scored on their first four possessions of the game. After Prestonsburg was forced to punt on their first possession, Corbin took over on their own 48 yard line as the punt was short. Facing a third and 10 play as a result of an illegal procedure penalty, Corbin quarterback Brent Canady hit Chuck Selvy with a 46-yard touchdown pass with 10:09 remaining in the first quarter. Brad Griffith kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

On Prestonsburg's second possession, Reeves intercepted a John Clark pass on a third and 9 play on the Prestonsburg 37 yard line. Reeves carried the ball for a 5-yard gain and Hickman picked up a first down with a 23-yard run. A clipping call on Corbin set the Redhounds back 15 yards, however, Jackson took a hand-off from Canady and romped 42 yards for a touchdown. Griffith added the extra point to make it 14-0 at the 6:05 mark.

The Blackcats were unable to move the football against the tight defense of Corbin on third possession, and were forced to punt. Corbin called for a fair catch at the Prestonsburg 43. Six plays later, Canady, on a keeper, broke two tackles and raced 41 yards on a sweep around right end for a touchdown. Griffith's extra point attempt was no good as the Redhounds made it 20-0.

After the ensuing kickoff, Prestonsburg fumbled the football on a first down play with Corbin recovering at the Blackcat 21 yard line just before the horn sounded to end the first period. Blackcat's Mike Ramadan caught Canady 10 yards behind the line of scrimmage for a loss on the first down play, bringing up a second and 25 situation. Just as it was all through the game, when the Black-cats had the Redhounds in trouble someone came up with a big run. In this case it was Darian Jackson with a 16 yard romp. Canady got the first down on a run of 18 yards and on first and goal, Jackson crossed into paydirt. Griffith added the extra point for a 27-0 lead.

Prestonsburg put together a good drive with seven minutes remaining in the first half. The Blackcats took the football from their own 47 yard line and moved to the Corbin 25. Clark, faced with a fourth and four play, went for Worthie McGuire with a pass in the endzone only to have

Canady pick off the pass on the Corbin five and return it to the Blackcats 30 yard line. The Redhounds knew of the sure hands of McGuire and they had him well covered during the game. The Corbin drive stalled out on the Prestonsburg 26 yard line when the Blackcats recovered a Canady fumble. The half ended at 27-0.

Prestonsburg got on the scoreboard early in the third period after recovering another Corbin fumble on the Redhounds' 20 yard line. Clark hit McGuire with a 11-yard pass, placing the ball on the Corbin 9 yard line. Clark ran to the Corbin 4. On a third down pass play, Clark spotted McGuire in the endzone and lofted a pass that McGuire caught laying on his back. Jason "Golden Toe" Storey added the extra point for a 27-7 score.

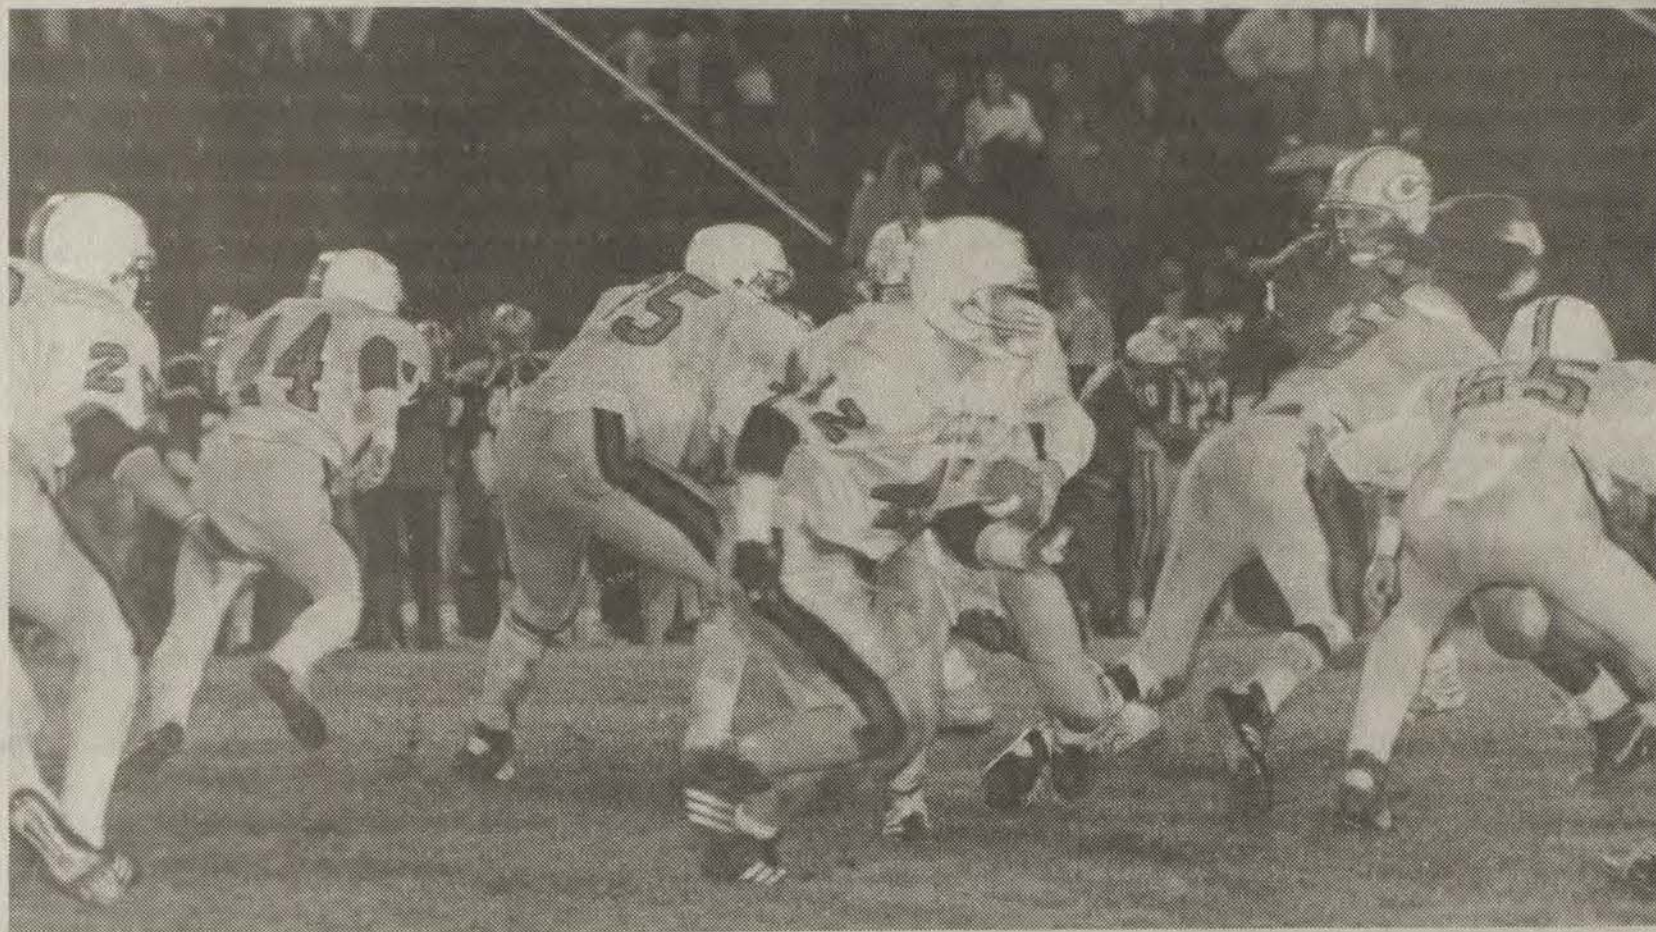

The Redhounds didn't take long to retaliate as they marched 65 yards on a drive that began on their own 35 yard line and took eight plays, as Kenny Davis carried the ball into the endzone for a touchdown. Griffith's extra point made it a 32-7 game.

The Redhounds added another TD with 1:49 remaining in the third period when Hickman ran into the endzone from 2 yards out. The drive began on the Redhounds' 45 yard line and involved eight plays. Griffith added the extra point to make it 40-7.

Prestonsburg got a break in scoring their second touchdown, when a roughing the kicker penalty was assessed against the Redhounds. Facing a fourth and five, the Blackcats elected to punt when McGuire was hit after the punt. The 15-yard penalty gave the Blackcats a first down at the Corbin 47. On a second and four, Clark hit senior Sam Goodman with a 21-yard touchdown pass. Storey's extra point try was short. The touchdown was Goodman's first.

Corbin added the final touchdown on a 20-yard run by Hickman, his second of the game.

Maytown Survives Allen Scare In 40-37 Victory

A cold freethrow-shooting Maytown Wildcat junior varsity team overcame a determined Allen junior varsity team to post a 40-37 win and capture the championship game of the Mountain Christian Academy Junior Varsity tournament held over the weekend at the MCA gym.

Estill Stumbo scored a layup with 30 seconds remaining in the game to break a 36-36 tie and give the junior Wildcats the victory. Stumbo had 12 points in the game to lead in scoring.

With a 1:11 showing on the clock Maytown took a 36-35 lead on a freethrow by Todd Howard. Allen went down the floor and turned the ball over. Stumbo missed a layup and Levi Wells fouled Keith Marsillette in picking up his fifth personal foul. Marsillette hit the first of two, tying the game at 36. On the second shot, Marsillette missed but grabbed the offensive rebound and Allen called time out with 35 seconds to go. Allen turned the ball over after play was resumed and Stumbo hit his game winning shot. Allen had another attempt to tie the game but turned the ball over when Stumbo intercepted a pass. He was fouled on the play and hit two big free throws to give Maytown a 40-36 lead. Allen hit a freethrow just before time expired.

Allen built an early lead in the game as they had a good second quarter. With the score tied at 7-7 early in the second period, the junior Eagles scored 14 unanswered points to take a huge 21-7 lead. Baskets by Todd Howard and Charles Twiss cut it to 23-11 at the half.

Maytown looked like a different team when they started third quarter of play. Allen went cold in the period as they allowed the Wildcats to climb back into it. Howard hit a basket to start the third quarter and Twiss followed with a basket to make it 23-15. After Brandon Kinzer hit a base line jumper to make it 25-15, the Wildcats hit four free throws to cut it to six, 25-19. Stumbo had three of the four charity tosses. Kinzer hit again but Maytown scored the last four points of the quarter on baskets by Halbert to cut the lead to four, 27-23. Maytown pumped in six unanswered points at the start of the fourth period to take a 29-27 lead as the Maytown faithful went wild. Stumbo hit two freethrows to make it 27-25 Allen.

Howard's 15 footer tied the game at 27-27 and a fast break basket by Chris Bailey gave Maytown their first lead, 29-27. A freethrow and a basket by Bailey put the Wildcats up 32-30 with 3:53 to play. Marsillette's 10 footer tied it at 32-32. After an offensive foul was called on Stumbo, the Eagles had four shots at the basket before Brandon Castle was fouled. Castle connected on one of two charity tosses to give Allen a 33-32 lead. Stumbo hit one of two to tie it at 33-33. Each team turned the ball over on their next two possessions before Howard's freethrow gave Maytown a 34-33 lead with 2:37 remaining. With 1:47 remaining, Castle tied the game at 34-34 with a freethrow. Bailey hit a foul shot with 1:25 to go to make it 35-34.

Stumbo's 12 points led the Wildcats in scoring and Chris Bailey ended up with 10 points. Bailey had 10 rebounds, including three important offensive rebounds, in the contest. Nick Halbert finished with eight points and also hauled down 10 boards. Howard added seven points and Twiss had four. Tommy Brown scored one point.

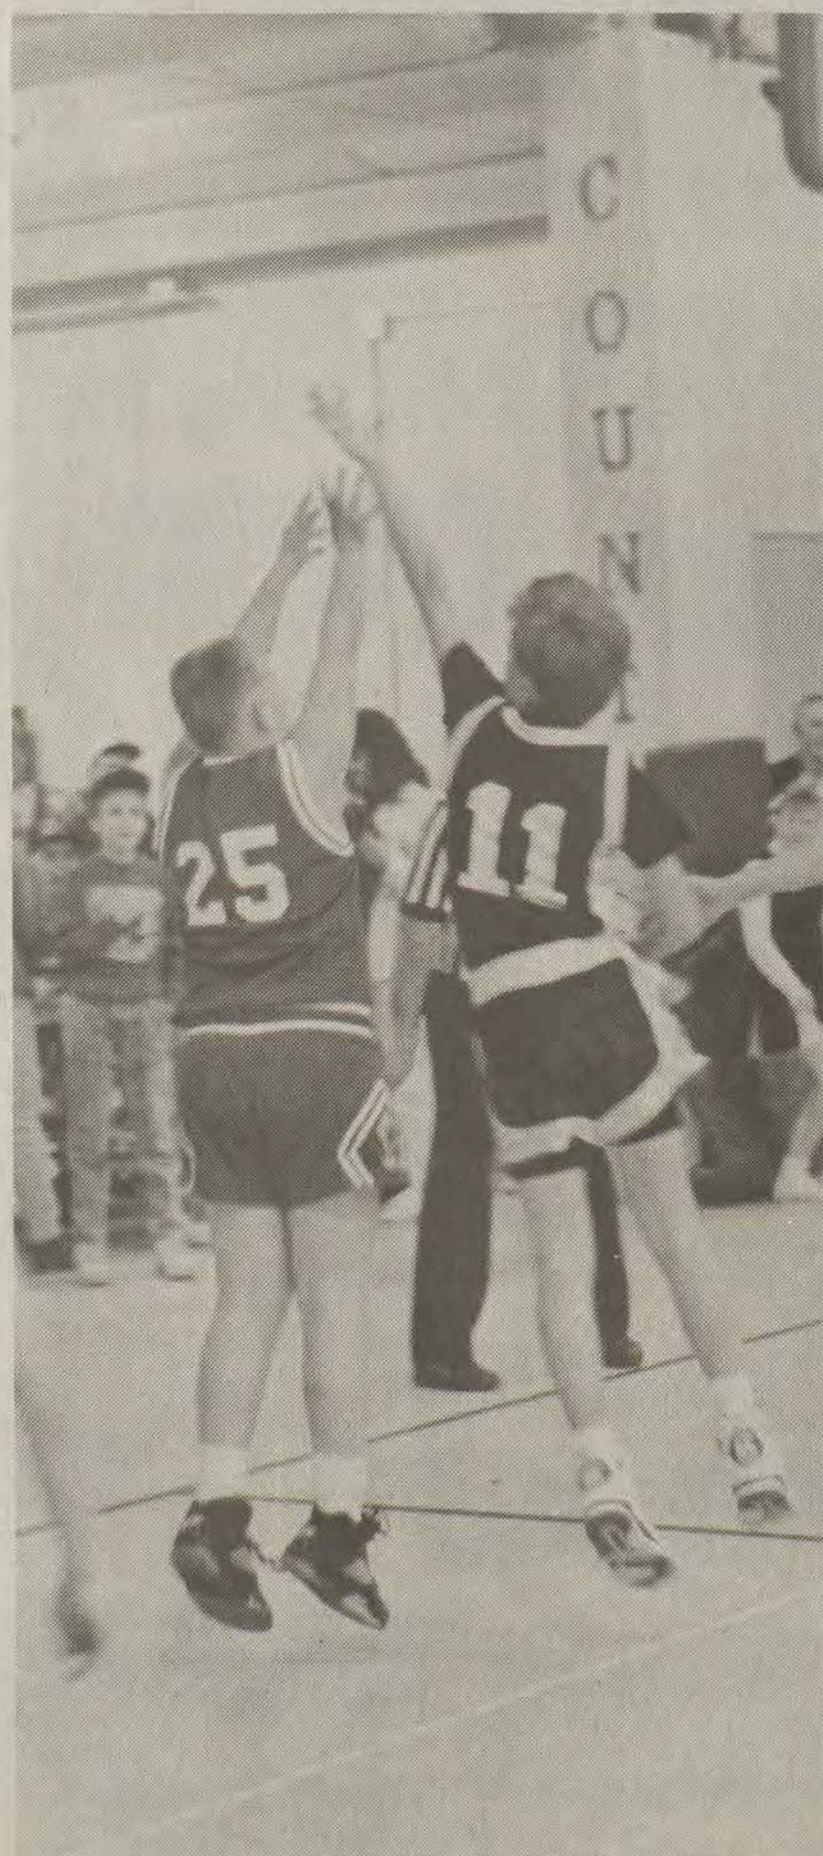

Maytown hit 16 of 39 freethrows, missing nine straight in the first quarter.

Brandon Kinzer and Keith Marsillette each scored 10 points to lead the Eagles. Castle finished with nine points and William Conn netted three. Spurlock and Wesley Samons, who scored 16 points against MCA, had only two points, both coming on freethrows. William Lester added one point.

Howard and Stumbo were named to the All-Tournament team from Maytown. Marsillette, Samons and William Conn were named to the list for Allen.

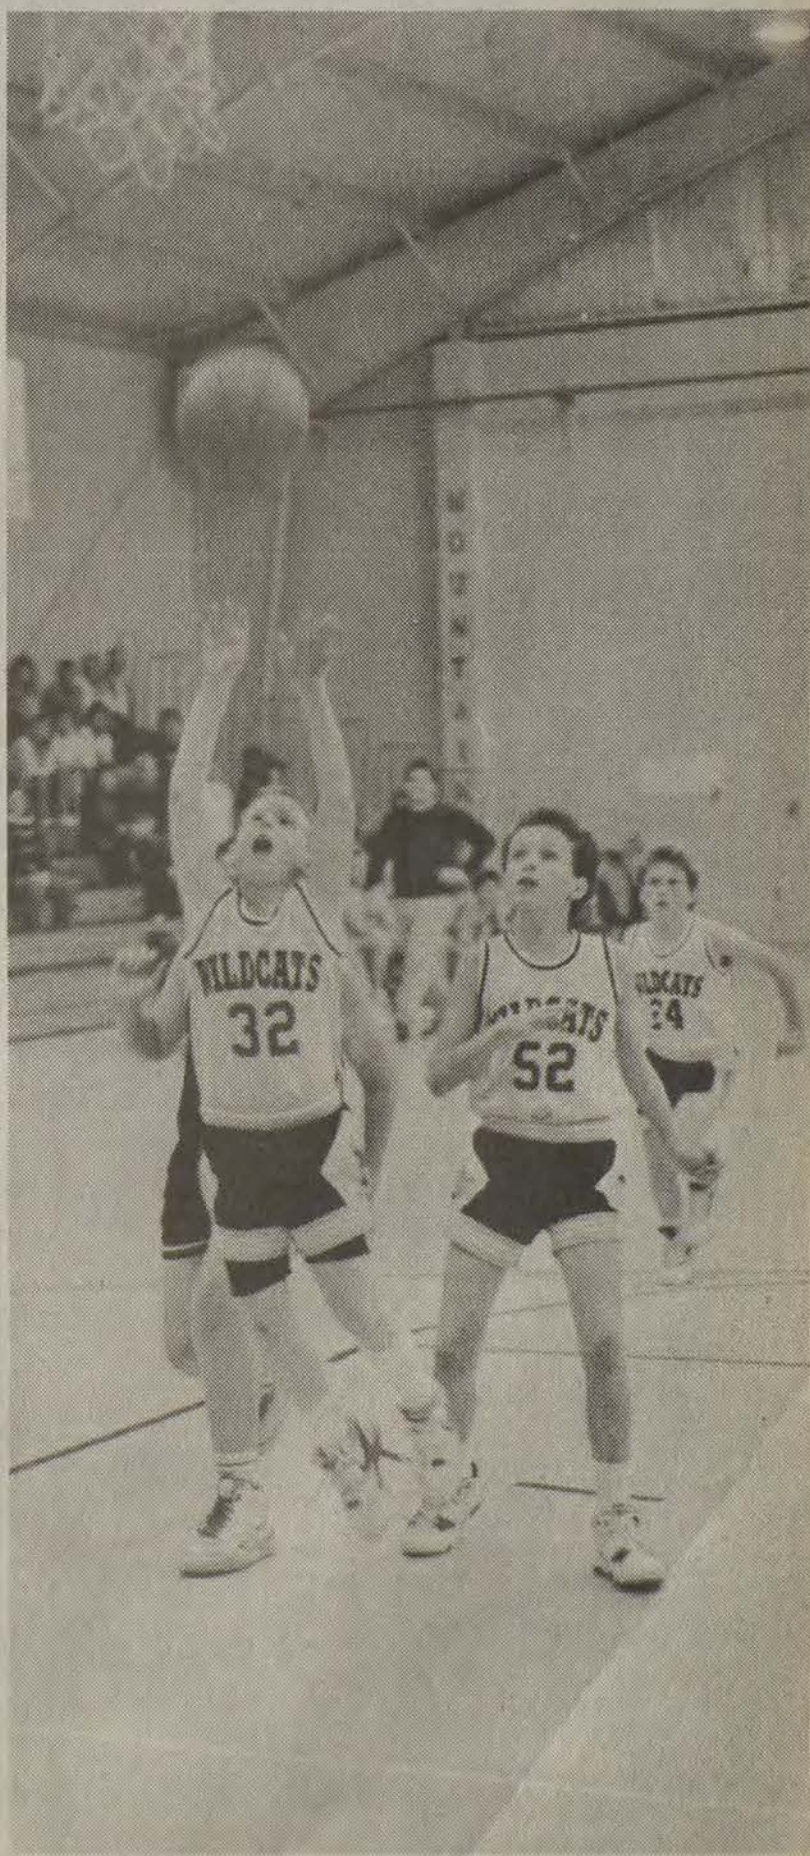

ALLEN 7 16 4 10 (37): Keith Marsillette, 45-210; Brandon Kinzer, 52-010; C. Spurlock, 04-22; Wesley Samons, 02-22; William Lester, 02-11; Brandon Castle, 014-99; William Conn, 12-13

MAYTOWN 65 12 17 (40): Todd Howard, 26-37; Nick Halbert, 42-08; Chris Bailey, 312-410; Charles Twiss, 20-04; Tommy Brown, 04-11; Estill Stumbo, 214-812.

Maytown Escapes Auxier With 62-55 Win

Coach Rick Hancock's Maytown Wildcats found the Auxier Hornets a little more than he really wanted to tangle with Monday night in grade school basketball. The Hornets, no longer the shoo-in win of the past, came to play at the Maytown gym, but a cold third quarter was the downfall of coach Jerome Greathouse's team. The Hornets lost 62-55 in a come-from-behind win for the Wildcats.

"It was a tough game to lose," said Greathouse. "The kids just got down in the third quarter and couldn't score. This team played excellent basketball even though we did lose."

Greathouse had two technical fouls called on him and readily admits that cost the Hornets five points.

"One of my players was hurt on the floor and the ball was dead, so I went out to check on him and was called for a technical," explained

Greathouse. "I know that we are trying to play as close to high school rules as we can, but here in grade school basketball these kids are important and need to be looked after. I don't think I deserved the technical."

Both teams came out smoking at the start of the game as they exchanged baskets with neither team getting more than a three-point lead in the period. At the end of the first quarter, Auxier held a 15-14 lead. In the second period, the Hornets pulled out to a 11-point lead only to see it disappear because of cold shooting.

"We just went cold after building the lead," said Greathouse. "Our kids just got out of the game plan and it carried over into the third quarter."

In the third period, Maytown, trailing by three at the half, 29-26, outscored the visitors 20-7 to take a 10-point lead at 46-36.

"We put a press on them in the third period they could not handle," Hancock explained. "They came out cold and started forcing some shots, something they were not doing in the first half. And we started playing some defense in the third period."

Auxier came back in the fourth quarter and tied the game at 52-52. A 10-3 run by Maytown sealed the victory.

"Our team played a great game, and I'm not taking anything away from Maytown, they have a good ball club," said Greathouse. "Rick Hancock is the best thing that has happened to Maytown. (Nick) Hagans and (Chris) Martin are excellent players.

"We have lost some close ones this year," the Hornet mentor explained, "but we are finally getting some recognition as a ball club. We are playing good aggressive basketball."

Besides Hagan's 29 points, Chris Martin tossed in 25 and hauled down nine rebounds in shooting 11 of 22 from the field. Hagans had 12 of 17 from the field and pulled down 13 caroms. Gary Webb had a good outing with six points and six rebounds.

For Auxier, the Hornets were led in scoring by Ervin Osborne and Jason Burke with 20 points each. Greg Richmond added seven points and Tyron Wright had four.

AUXIER 15 14 7 19 (55): Ervin Osborne, 8 13-4 20; Jason Burke, 8 6-4 20; Tyron Wright, 2 2-0 4; Catrell Farler, 1 0-0 2; Greg Richmond, 3 2-1 7; Tony Honeycutt, 1 0-0 2.

at MAYTOWN 14 12 20 19 (62): Nick Hagans, 11 10-5 29; Gary Webb, 3 1-0 6; Chris Martin, 11 5-3 25; Shawn Robinson, 1 0-0 2; John Moore, 1 2-0 2.

Betsy Layne's Last Quarter Rally Falls Short In 50-46 Loss At Mullins

The Betsy Layne Elementary Bobcats rally in the fourth quarter fell short as they fell to the Mullins Elementary Tigers, 50-46 in basketball action last Friday night.

The Bobcats outscored Mullins 13-4 in the final period but the horn sounded before they could tie the game. The host Tigers jumped out to a 17-7 first quarter lead and held a 12 point advantage at the half, 27-15.

The Bobcats were trailing by 13 points 46-33 going into the final quarter.

The win avenged an earlier loss to the Bobcats at Betsy Layne. Justin Harris led the winners with 18 points. Harris also pulled down 16 rebounds.

Chad Coleman finished with 16 points and 20 rebounds. Jamie Hamilton had 10 points in the win.

Jeremy Rogers led the Bobcats in scoring with 13 points and Randy Wallen added 11. Ryan Newsome finished with 10 points.

BETSY LAYNE 7 8 18 13 (46) Jeremy Rogers, 13; Randy Wallen, 11; Wesley Frazier, 2; J. Hall, 4; Ryan Newsome, 10; Anthony Kiser, 2; Tim Parks, 2; Mike Hunt, 2 at MULLINS 17 10 19 4 (50): Justin Harris, 18; Chad Coleman, 16; Jamie Hamilton, 10; N. Hinkle, 6.

EVERSOLE WAS WELL RESPECTED

Since the Times did the story of the passing of former Floyd County basketball coach Judy Eversole, we have heard from many fans of hers about the article and how much they appreciated it. We appreciate the comments. Judy was a well respected coach in Floyd County.

SPEAKS AT CLARK

Thursday morning I had the opportunity to speak to a group of fifth graders at the Clark Grade School and I really appreciated the opportunity afforded me. The students had many questions to ask and seemed very interested in the position of a sports editor. Several expressed interest in joining one of the swim teams in the county.

HEADED FOR MEDIA APPRECIATION LUNCHEON

Friday, November 16 I will be heading to Lexington for the Bluegrass States Games Media Appreciation and Awards Luncheon. The luncheon is for the committee of the Bluegrass States Games to show their appreciation for the coverage the media gave during the games. I would hope that next year that Floyd County will be represented with many more participants than last year, although we had a good number there. However, there are many events in which folks from this area could compete. Three-on-three basketball. We have a lot of good players — young and well, you know — that can take part. Archery, softball, tennis, etc. Think about it.

CATS HAD GOOD SEASON

Even though the Prestonsburg Blackcats lost to Corbin last Friday night, I have learned to really appreciate the effort these young men put forth in the game. They wanted to win and go on being a good representative for Floyd County in the high school playoffs. These are quality young men and their parents and families should be very proud of them.

TAKE IN THE PANORAMA'S

Several good basketball panorama's will be taking place this weekend as high school teams gear up for the start of the season which is just two weeks away. Wheelwright and Allen Central will be playing in the EKMC Panorama at Wheelwright Friday night. Prestonsburg, McDowell and Betsy Layne will take part in the one at Johnson Central Saturday evening. Twelve girls teams will invade the McDowell gym at 12:30 p.m. for a big, big get together in an all day affair. Go out and have a good time, eat some popcorn and hot dogs. You'll enjoy it.

Also, the Prestonsburg Blackcats will hold their second annual "Blackcat Madness" on November 21 which will feature an Alumni Game as well as a Red and White scrimmage. It should be fun!

ON THE NATIONAL SCENE

UK lost out on some pretty big basketball recruits over the past week as the "big ones" verbally committed to other schools. However, Coach Rick Pitino has had a good recruiting year and, with a good season, will no doubt corner some of the upcoming big men of next season.....Louisville looks like they will be going to the Fiesta Bowl out in Arizona. The Cards (9-1-1) had a great season and are very deserving of a bowl bid....Why should the UNLV get any special treatment from the NCAA in defending their national title? What makes them think they are so special? The NCAA has banned them from defending their title and should not even entertain any ideas of overturning their decision. But, the NCAA will allow the Running Rebels back into the tournament — wait and see.....With the departure of Pat Riley (turned broadcaster) from coaching the Los Angeles Lakers, the California team has run upon some hard times. The Lakers are only 1-3 on the season having defeated Sacramento. New coach Mike Dunleavy says that the Lakers "need to get tougher down low.".....The Louisville Cardinals basketball team has been ranked 23 in the preseason basketball poll. That is being kind.

Until Friday, good sports and always, always be good sports! You'll be a winner if you do.

TALKIN' TURKEY

Thanksgiving Day is here once again. The traditional celebration affords us the opportunity to reflect upon our own good fortunes and unofficially marks the arrival of the festive holiday season. At this time each year, lots of folks are talking turkey.

George Wright talks turkey every day. He's the turkey program coordinator of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

"Most of Kentucky, with the exception of the "inner bluegrass" is good turkey habitat," according to Wright.

The wild turkey has made a dramatic comeback in Kentucky over the past decade and can now be found in 118 counties where suitable habitat is abundant. Fayette and Bourbon are the only counties where (due to lack of suitable habitat) turkeys have not been reintroduced.

Although wild turkeys were once plentiful in Kentucky, by the mid-1940's only a small population remained, concentrated in the Kentucky Woodlands area which is now part of Land Between the Lakes (LBL).

Early restoration efforts using (Kentucky Woodlands) birds live trapped at LBL were largely unsuccessful. The Kentucky Woodlands birds may also have had some pen raised ancestry adversely affecting their "gene pool." And pen raised turkeys don't possess the survival instincts necessary to live in the wild.

The modern turkey restoration program began in 1978 using truly "wild" birds obtained (mainly in trades for whitetail deer and otters) from neighboring states. To date, more than 3,600 of these "genetically superior" turkeys have been released on 224 sites across the commonwealth.

Kentucky's current wild turkey population numbers more than 25,000 and that figure is expected to climb steadily over the next 20 years.

As populations have taken hold, regulations have been developed to allow the controlled harvest of wild turkeys during legal taking seasons.

The 1991 spring harvest opens April 17 in selected areas.

"Right now, our success rate is about 20 percent. This means that for every 100 turkey hunters in the field, 20 will get a quality bird," says Wright. "Eventually, we'd like to generate a 30-33 percent success rate."

Last year more than 1,300 wild turkeys were legally harvested in Kentucky. In 1976, the statewide harvest was 24.

"Our most dangerous adversary is the illegal hunter," says Wright. "If folks will just abide by our harvest regulations, and leave these birds alone until the new populations take hold, there'll be wild turkeys all across the state for everyone to see and enjoy."

A county where wild turkeys have been released is usually closed to turkey hunting for a minimum of five years to allow the new birds time to become established.

Kentuckians are urged to report illegal turkey hunters by calling 1-800-25ALERT.

OH, YOU GOTTA HAVE A LICENSE?

Hunting and fishing license requirements seem to be constant sources of questions from the sporting public. The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' Division of Licensing receives dozens of phone calls each day from people needing license information.

"What do I do if I misplace my hunting and fishing license?"

A lost (or laundered) hunting or fishing license cannot be replaced, however, a copy of the original can be obtained from the issuing agent. Sometimes a fee is charged for locating and duplicating the original.

"What happens if I lose my deer tags?"

Unlike hunting and fishing licenses, copies of lost deer tags are not available. Lost (or laundered) deer tags are just that — gone. Hunters who file an affidavit with their county clerk detailing what happened to the original can purchase another set.

"I used one of my deer tags and lost the other one. Can I get another tag?"

Yes. Again, it is necessary to file an affidavit with the county clerk explaining that the first tag was used and what happened to the other one. The clerk can then replace the unused tag, but you'll have to pay the cost of the full set.

"Although I live in another state, does owning land in Kentucky make me eligible for a 'resident' license?"

No. A person's permanent address decides whether or not they are a Kentucky resident. The simple fact that a person owns land in Kentucky does not necessarily make him or her a resident. Read on.

"I own two homes — one in Kentucky and one in another state. I live at each address for six months each year. I pay property taxes in my home Kentucky county. Can I purchase a resident license?"

It depends — on which is your permanent legal address. A reliable guideline for determining permanent address is where one receives his or her annual "greetings" from the IRS. If Uncle Sam says you live in Kentucky, then for all practical purposes you are a bona fide Kentuckian and may purchase a resident license. However, if Uncle Sam sends your mail to Indiana, you're a Hoosier and you'd better buy a nonresidential license before hunting in Kentucky.

"I purchased a "junior" hunting license and have since turned 16. Is my license still good?"

Yes. Unless legally revoked, a hunting or fishing license is valid until it expires.

Hunting and fishing licenses for the 1991-92 license year will be

MCA Varsity Invitational Begins Tonight

The Fourth Annual Mountain Christian Academy Invitational Varsity Basketball tournament gets underway tonight at MCA with two games on tap in the opening round. Jones Fork will take on host school MCA in the opening game scheduled to start at 6 p.m. In the 7:15 game Auxier will face Harold. MCA is a young team coached by Harold Tackett, who is in his second year at the local school. David Turner leads a team that has vastly improved since the season began. Chris Cornette and Phillip Burke also will help lead the Falcon team. Auxier can boast of one of the premier players in the county in Jason Burke who poured in 41 points against Harold in a regular season game last Wednesday night at Auxier. The Hornets defeated the Red Devils 87-45 in that game. Besides Burke, the Hornets have a talented cast that can play defense and score. Ervin Osborne, Catrell Farler and Ty Wright will make their presence felt. Coach Jerome Greathouse tries to utilize all of his players and emphasizes "team basketball." Harold has Willie Meade, a very talented grade school player. Joseph Stephens and Jackie Bush will lead the Red Devils. Second round action continues Thursday night as the Duff Bulldogs of Ronnie Patton will take on Ernie Tackett's Betsy Layne Bobcats in a 6 p.m. start. When you speak of premier players in the county, many fans around Floyd County will tell you that Jeremy Hall definitely is one of them. The sharp shooting forward is averaging 27 points per game for Duff this season and knows how to work under the boards for the rebounds. One thing that is overlooked about Hall is the assists he gets each game. There is a very good supporting cast on this Bulldog team that includes Donnie Combs. Combs is a streak shooter and, if he is on, can be deadly from outside. Throw in two twins — Jeremy and Jason Osborne — sixth graders at Duff, and you have two of the brightest upcoming players who will have high school coaches taking notice. Matt Crawford cannot be overlooked in the midst of all this talent at Duff. Betsy Layne has the talented Jer-

Lady Bobcats Roll Past Duff Behind Ratcliff's 14 Points

Jamie Ratcliff scored 14 points to lead the Betsy Layne Elementary Lady Bobcats to a 41-13 victory over the Lady Bulldogs of Duff Monday night at Betsy Layne. The Lady Bobcats scored 14 points in the first quarter and never looked back in recording the win. Jessica Hamilton tossed in 12 points for the Lady Cats. Duff trailed 14-3 after the first stop and 22-7 at the half. Jamie Webb had four points in the game to lead Duff in scoring. BUCKS, BULLETS AND POINT BLANK RANGE

As long as there have been guns, hunters have agonized over sighting them properly. If you sight your gun in at 50 yards, which would suffice for most shots here in Eastern Kentucky, what happens when that trophy buck appears at the edge of a clear cut 300 yards away? Unless you are one of the world's best shots, have practiced long and hard with your rifle and have earned the favor of Lady Luck, you will probably miss that deer.

Fortunately, there is a solution that will turn the odds in your favor and, if you are reasonably skilled with your firearm, a 300 yard shot will be nothing to sweat about. The concept is called the POINT BLANK RANGE, and it is one of the most important aspects of rifle hunting that a hunter can learn. Once you understand it and have used the concept to sight your scoped rifle, you will become a much better hunter (in regard to scoring on a high yardage shot).

Unfortunately, very few people understand the point blank range concept, and you can blame that on the misinformed television and movie writers in Hollywood, L.A., and New York. How many times have you heard Hunter, or Quincy, or Columbo, or any of those other TV dicks say that the unfortunate dead guy was shot at point blank range, meaning "very close"? It's a nightly occurrence, and it's also a nightly mistake.

Point blank range does not refer to something being shot at a very close distance, but instead refers to a sighting and ballistic concept used primarily when sighting centerfire rifles for long range shots. Point blank range should be defined as "the distance at which a target may be hit by firing at the exact center of the target." In other words, for every bullet/cartridge combination, there is a distance range at which you can aim at the center of your target and your bullet will neither rise above nor fall below a target of set dimensions. A hunter might define it as the distance at which he can aim at the center of a deer's chest and make a clean shot into the vitals. Would it surprise you to learn that by sighting in your .30-06 correctly with a 165 grain bullet, you could aim at the center of a deer's chest and hit his vitals from a distance of one yard all the way out to 304 yards? You can, and it is easily accomplished.

Most experts say that our whitetailed deer have a vital target area of 10-12 inches. To give ourselves a little margin for error, let's decrease that to eight inches. With this eight inch target area in mind, our point blank range will be that distance at which the bullet will neither rise four inches above nor drop four inches below the center of the deer's chest. In this case, it might help to think of point blank range this way: take an infinite length of pipe with an eight inch diameter. The point blank range for your gun will be that distance at which you can shoot where your bullet will remain in the pipe without striking its top or bottom.

To help you correlate point blank range with your gun, I've listed below a few popular cartridges and the PBR ballistic and trajectory information for each. (Each is based on an eight inch vital target area.)

*.270 WCF with a 130 grain bullet: sight your gun so that it shoots 3.1 inches high at 100 yards. It should then have a point blank range of 326 yards.

*.280 Remington (7mm Remington Express) with a 140 grain bullet: sight your gun so that it shoots 3.2 inches high at 100 yards. It should then have a point blank range of 322 yards.

*7mm Remington Magnum with a 150 grain bullet: sight your gun so that it shoots 3.1 inches high at 100 yards. It should then have a point blank range of 328 yards.

*.30-30 WCF with a 150 grain bullet: sight your gun so that it shoots 3.8 inches high at 100 yards. It should then have a point blank range of 240 yards.

*.308 WCF with a 150 grain bullet: sight your gun so that it shoots 3.4 inches high at 100 yards. It should then have a point blank range of 290 yards.

*.30-06 Springfield with a 150 grain bullet: sight your gun so that it shoots 3.3 inches high at 100 yards. Point blank range should then be 298 yards.

*.300 Winchester Magnum with a 150 grain bullet: sight your gun so that it shoots 2.9 inches high at 100 yards. It should then have a point blank range of 356 yards.

This data, of course, is an average of factory loaded shells, and you should expect some difference when using your selected shell. For best results, choose a cartridge which you know shoots well in your gun. Sight the gun using this cartridge only, and then hunt with this cartridge only.

When all is said and done, finding the point blank range of your hunting rifle will allow you to aim at the center of a deer's chest and make a clean kill without worrying about bullet drop (out to the point blank range.)

A scope is mandatory for making accurate, long range shots, so be sure to use the very best scope that you can reasonably afford. After all, your optical sighting system is the key to successful long range hunting, and it is also the most vulnerable piece of equipment that you own. But the best! Point blank range is a wonderful concept for the hunter, and something each of should strive to learn, understand and adapt to our own hunting rifle. Whether you hunt whitetails in our eastern thicket, mule deer in the western valleys, or elk in "Big Sky" country, PBR will help you make the long shot. So before hunting season opens, try to sight your rifle using the point blank range concept (if you haven't done so already).

Until next week, Good Hunting and Fishing!

Whitt and Watkins To Lead East Kentuckians In Red Man Regional

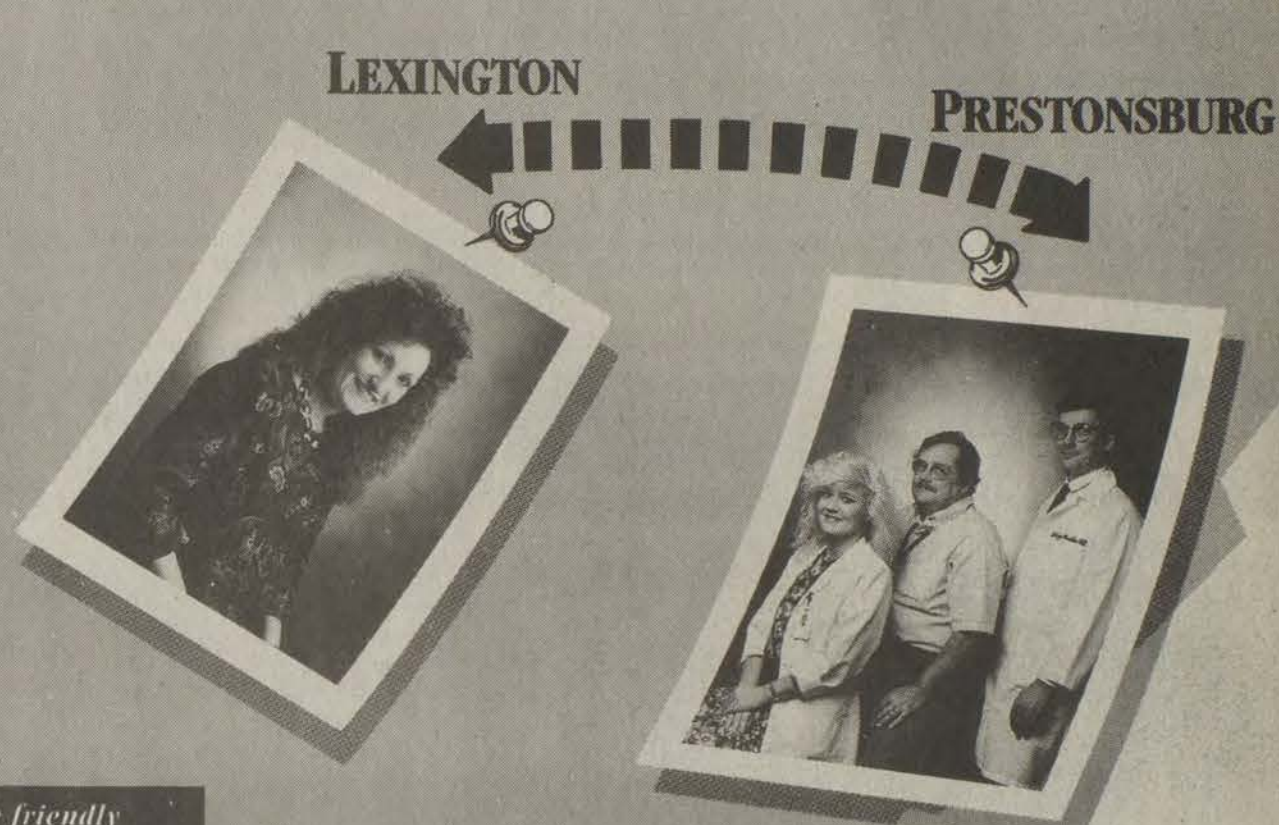

Paul Whitt of Salyersville and Tee Watkins of East Point will lead 30 Kentucky anglers who have qualified for the $50,000 Red Man Regional Classic, which began Wednesday and runs through Saturday on Lake Demopolis, Alabama.

The anglers from the Mountain Division of the Red Man Tournament Trail will face the top anglers from four other divisions in a battle for 10 spots in the Red Man All-American in June, 1991.

Divisional ranking is based on a system of points.

Each Red Man participant is required to have an observer for the two days of the tournament. The observers will fish with two different anglers during the tourney. Jeff Richardson of Prestonsburg will team with Watkins. Whitt's partner is from Lexington.

A Friendly Face Where You Need It Most.

U.K. MEDICAL CENTER. The doctor says you have no choice. Suddenly you're on your way. You don't doubt the medical treatment. But the trip is all so bewildering. There's a serious health problem or the fear of one. Maybe an emergency. The 128-odd miles of Mountain Parkway stretches to eternity. The City, The maze of streets. The sprawling medical complex. Finding the right building. Parking. Corridors. Elevators. Strange faces. Paperwork. The waiting. Seems like the whole family came along. But now it only adds to the confusion. How long will it be? What if we have to stay overnight?

Every year, thousands of Eastern Kentuckians are referred to Lexington through Highlands and our family physicians. We're concerned about your healthcare and we're concerned about the stress and the outright hardship of the trip. We're concerned, too, about your return home for critical follow-up care. The transfer of records and reports. The loss of valuable time.

That's why we created Care Connection, a patient representative — a friendly face — from Highlands at UK Medical Center. There to help you find your way. To help speed up the paperwork. To help ease the waiting and the worrying for patients and their families. To help physicians prepare for their patient's return.

Care Connection is a community service at no charge. It's part of a growing healthcare network for the greater convenience, comfort and continuity of care of our patients and our physicians.

Your doctor will give you a Care Connection handbook with maps and other vital information about Lexington. Once you're there, Care Connection takes care of you.

Bassin' with the Pros

UNPREDICTABLE BASS MAKE FISHING MORE FUN

Professional angler Tom Mann Jr. once had four different bass hit a plug on a single cast, but missed them all.

Fellow tournament pro Larry Nixon, on the other hand, once landed a two pound largemouth without ever casting to it.

Zany experiences like these, say the two highly respected pros, are what keep them from ever taking anything for granted in fishing.

"Just when you think you have everything figured out, a bass will act totally different," laughs Mann, a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff and a former guide. "That's why every fishing trip I make is a learning experience."

Nixon, also a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff and the winner of nearly one million in tournament prize money, agrees, saying,

"Fortunately, bass continually keep us off balance with their actions. That's what makes this sport so much fun."

Mann certainly wasn't thinking about fun after he missed four fish on one cast. It happened, he remembers, on Lake Lanier north of Atlanta, an impoundment famous for its temperamental bass.

"I cast a big topwater plug over one of the long, rocky bars," he laughs, "and I hadn't moved the lure a foot when a bass or about four pounds jumped on it and pulled it down. I played the fish about 15 feet, and then just lost it.

"The lure floated back to the surface as I just stood there upset and frustrated," continues the Evinrude Pro, "and another bass almost as large as the first one hit it.

"I lost it, too, and yes, a fourth bass, as well. I think the bass were just playing with me, realizing they were in no danger of ever being boated."

Larry Nixon's experiences were a little different, for during a day on Toledo Bend Reservoir in Texas where he spent many years as a guide, he once landed a bass he never cast to.

"During the summer when bass would gather in large schools and feed on the surface periodically during the day, we'd always keep a second rod rigged with a topwater lure," says Nixon.

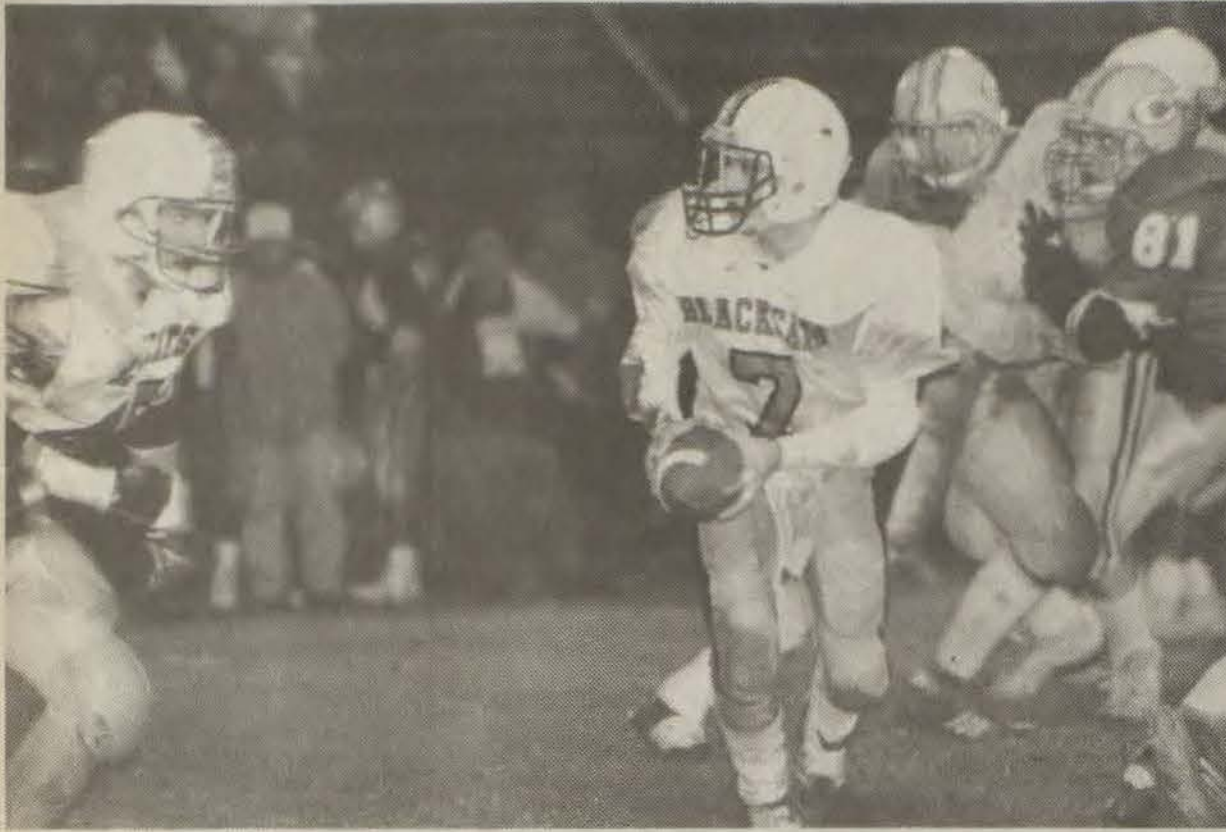

"We'd fish for bass along the bottom with a plastic worm, but when the fish started breaking the surface, we'd switch to the topwater lure.

"Because these plugs had two sets of treble hooks, we'd keep them dangling over the side of the boat so they wouldn't tangle in our other rods. The lures weren't in the water, but six or eight inches above it.

"On one cast," says the Evinrude pro, "I hooked a bass with the plastic worm, and as I played it and swung it over the gunwale, a following fish jumped out of the water, hit my dangling topwater plug, and started back for the bottom.

"I grabbed that rod with my left hand and managed to land the fish as I dropped the first one into the boat."

FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE TRACKER PROS

Rhonda Wilson

Soft plastic imitations such as worms, lizards and crawfish have become top bass producers from coast to coast.

There are a multitude of methods and techniques for fishing the soft plastics. A weedless worm hook and slip sinker still heads the list of favorite techniques.

When a bass bites a plastic lure, he usually inhales it in one motion. A bass can create quite a suction when engulfing a plastic bait. It's almost like a vacuum cleaner.

A person fishing a plastic worm should be ready to set the hook immediately upon feeling the strike. Lower the rod tip, take up the slack line and set the hook with a quick, firm upward motion of the rod. The longer you let a fish run with the lure, the less chance of a good, clean hook set.

Fishin' Tips are presented by America's #1 Fishing Boat

Hall Leads Duff Over Betsy Layne, 50-44

Outside of the first and fourth quarters, the Betsy Layne Bobcats played good basketball, but not good enough as the Bobcats suffered a 50-44 loss to the charged up Duff Bulldogs.

Jeremy Hall tossed in 34 points to lead the 11-1 Bulldogs to victory. Duff rolled out to a 13-6 first quarter lead only to see the Bobcats come out smoking in the second period and take a 24-23 halftime lead. Betsy Layne extended the lead to three, 38-35 going into the fourth period. It was at that point that Hall, along with Donnie Combs, led a Bulldog charge that claimed the 50-44 victory.

Combs finished with six points in the game and Jeremy Osborne had six points.

Randy Wallen and Ryan Newsome led the Bobcats in scoring with 10 points each. Jeremy Rogers added eight and Tim Parks tossed in six.

PRO OUTLOOK

ATLANTA 26 VS PHILADELPHIA 24

Falcons upset the Eagles in last meeting in 1988, breaking a five game Atlanta losing streak. Falcon's quarterback Chris Miller threw three TD passes rallying Atlanta to a 27-24 win. Falcons.

BUFFALO 30 VS NEW ENGLAND 10

In match up three weeks ago, Bills dominated Pats 27-10, scoring on five of first seven possessions. New England off to worst start since 1970. No improvement in sight for Buffalo.

CHICAGO 23 VS DENVER 13

Rubber game of series, each winning four. Bears making shambles of NFC Central, allowing opponents just 14 per game. Broncos' inconsistency hurting any repeat in AFC West.

GREEN BAY 28 VS PHOENIX 23

In final game of 1988 season, Packers, led by quarterback Don Majkowski, handed Cards fifth straight loss 26-17. Green Bay holds huge 38-21 series lead over Cards. This contest a real toss up.

HOUSTON 27 VS CLEVELAND 17

Brown quarterback Bernie Kosar, Webster Slaughter teamed up on 80 yard TD bomb, then 77 yard pass, Cleveland winning 28-17 over Oilers in first meeting 1989. Browns won second 24-20.

KANSAS CITY 20 VS SAN DIEGO 6

Chiefs unable to stop Chargers last season, San Diego winning its fourth and fifth in a row over Kansas City. Chargers won at home 21-6, then 20-13 in Chief country. Chiefs break string.

L.A. RAMS 23 VS DALLAS 20

Rams, Cowboys staged thriller last year in Dallas, L.A. leading 14-10 at halftime, falling behind 31-21 in fourth, rallying to win 35-31. Quarterback Jim Everett threw four TD passes.

NEW YORK GIANTS 24 VS DETROIT 13

Last season, Lions weren't intimidated by Giants or their stadium, taking 14-3 lead in third quarter before New York, led by Phil Simms, rallied for three touchdowns to win 24-14.

NEW YORK JETS 26 VS INDIANAPOLIS 21

Last year, Colts trailed Jets at halftime 10-0 in first meeting, then rallied with 17 points in second half to win 17-10. Second meeting was all Colts, Jets losing big 27-10.

PITTSBURGH 31 VS CINCINNATI 20

Bengal's on four game winning roll versus Steeler's including past two seasons. Cincy bombed Pitt in first meeting 41-10, QB Boomer Esiason completing 18 of 25 passes. Pitt lost second, 26-16.

SAN FRANCISCO 27 VS TAMPA BAY 13

49ers have won eight of nine in series with Bucs. Tampa Bay came within 40 seconds of springing upset last year, leading 16-13, before San Francisco quarterback Joe Montana scored for 20-16 victory.

SEATTLE 20 VS MINNESOTA 13

Vikings won first game of brief series in 1976, Seahawks winning last three in a row. With season over half over, Seattle, after 0-3 start, in thick of AFC West race.

WASHINGTON 30 VS NEW ORLEANS 23

Since 1980, Redskins have beaten Saints five straight. Washington escaped in New Orleans last year after trailing 14-3 in third quarter. Skins rallied for 13 points to win 16-14.

Monday night MIAMI 24 VS L.A. RAIDERS 23

After losing six straight to Raiders, Dolphins finally beat them two years ago in L.A., 24-14. Miami scored 24 points in second quarter, holding on to break long losing streak.

COLLEGE OUTLOOK

One of the biggest rivalries in the Pac-10, in addition to Southern Cal-UCLA, is the annual season ending shoot out between Washington State and Washington. The Huskies are on a roll. With their huge win over Arizona a couple of weeks ago, they're now a shoo-in for the league title and for hosting the Rose bowl. However, to continue their quest for a possible national championship, a victory over the Cougars is a must. And this win has to come on the road. Washington State is at home. Just two years ago, State upset the Huskies 32-31. This year's winner, Washington.

Tennessee and Mississippi meet in Memphis Saturday in an elimination contest in the Southeast Conference. The Rebels have had a delightfully surprising season, winning eight while losing only one -- to Auburn, and are in position to possibly share the conference crown. Tennessee's tie with Auburn could put the Vols just beyond title contention. Incidentally, each team prepared quite differently for Saturday's meeting. Mississippi took the day off last week while Tennessee "warmed up" by playing Notre Dame. We're picking Tennessee.

Watkins Qualifies For Red Man Regional Classic In Alabama

Local fishing expert, Tee Watkins of East Point was one of 30 of America's top weekend "working man" bass fishermen who have qualified to compete in Operation Bass' $50,000 Red Man Regional Classic, November 7-10, on Lake Demopolis at Demopolis, Alabama. The anglers qualified in the Mountain Division of the Red Man Tournament Trail.

The 30 fishermen represent the top finishers in the Mountain Division after six qualifying tournaments held during 1990. The top 30 were determined by a system of accumulated pounds and points for the six regular season fishing events.

In the Regional Classic, which is one of four to be held, the 30 Mountain

Anglers will compete against the top 30 anglers representing four other Red Man divisions including: Piedmont (Virginia, North Carolina), Gator (Florida), Bulldog (Georgia) and Mississippi (Mississippi).

The 150 fishermen will compete for a first place prize consisting of a Chevy full size pick up truck and a fully rigged Ranger bass boat powered by an Evinrude/Johnson outboard valued at $35,000, and one of 10 spots in the prestigious Red Man All-American.

The 10 anglers who advanced to the Red Man All-American will have successfully fished their way through close to 25,000 other anglers enroute.

FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE TRACKER PROS

Lindell Martin Jr.

Bait casting reels have been improved over the years. Proper adjustment will prevent more backlashes than with earlier models. Most quality reels have magnetic adjustments which help control the length of the cast and the amount of overline.

First, set the tension of the spool. This is done with the round knob located on the same side of the reel as the handle. Hold the rod out in front of you and release the spool. Allow the lure to free-fall to the floor or water. When it can freely fall with no overline, the tension is set properly.

Now make a cast. If it didn't seem to go to the proper distance, adjust the magnetic control toward the minimum setting. Once you are achieving a good casting distance, without any backlash, you have set the magnetic control properly. Different lures require different settings.

Fishin' Tips are presented by America's #1 Fishing Boat

Safari Club Asks Hunters To Donate Venison To Feed Hungry

Big game hunting seasons are just around the corner and, if you are like most hunters, you probably still could find a couple packages of deer venison from last year's hunt that was shuffled to the bottom of the freezer.

Wild game meat is not exactly an acquired taste, but it is different, and those banquets that start with such enthusiasm soon may turn to groans by the family at the mere mention of another wild game meal. So you space it out over the year and, just before the next season, find a couple of packages with freezer burns still left. What should you do?

Safari Club International has a possible solution — donate a portion of your kill to feed the hungry! Not only will it make you feel better, it will help insure against waste.

Despite its name, Safari Club International isn't a big game service working out of the African plains. It was founded eighteen years ago by C. J. Mackleroy of Tucson, Arizona, as a way to conserve wildlife, educate people about the role of hunting place and proper wildlife management and to protect hunters rights. The club now has ninety affiliated chapters worldwide, including the Kentucky chapter, and boasts 900,000 actual affiliated members.

We know a lot of wild meat has to be thrown out every year because it gets freezer burns and that is a lot of protein wasted. The program hopes to come up with four tons of big game meat every year which will be donated to charities that feed the poor and homeless. If Kentucky deer hunters alone donated just two pounds from each of the deer killed annually it would amount to more than fifty tons.

The good thing about wild game meat is that it can be up to seven to eight times leaner than beef. Studies indicate a three and a half ounce portion of deer for example has 2.6 grams of fat compared with more than fourteen grams in lean roast beef. Venison averages four and a half times less fat than lean beef, good news indeed for people with cholesterol problems.

The Kentucky Chapter of Safari

Club International is cooperating with Salvation Army outlets around the state of Kentucky to be receiving stations for the donated venison. It is asked that the meat be ground commercially and packaged in two pound packages to be paid for by the hunter. The Salvation Army will distribute the meat to needy and hungry people throughout the state of Kentucky.

If you are interested in taking part, contact your local Salvation Army headquarters. For more information about the Kentucky Chapter of Safari Club International please contact Dr. Don Bryson at 789-3797 or 886-1562.

Catch your calls wherever you are.

Even when you're out catching a little relaxation.

Call Forwarding lets you transfer your calls to any other number you choose. So you don't have to stay by the phone waiting for important calls. And when you're not at home, you don't have to worry about an unanswered phone telling strangers you're away.

There are other services that make your life easier, too.

Call Waiting lets you call home, even when your talkative teenager is on the telephone. Because Call Waiting will sound a tone to let your teenager know there's another call. And if you're using your phone, you won't have to worry about missing emergency or important calls.

Speed Calling 8 lets you reach any of eight selected numbers by dialing only one digit. It's great for children and helpful in an emergency.

Three-way Calling is great for telephone reunions and for planning meetings. It lets you talk to two different people in two different locations—at the same time—even if the calls are long distance. (Long distance rates may apply.)

Plus these services are affordable. Just $2.75 a month for any one service. Additional services are $1.75. Or, order all four for just $8 a month. And if you order before November 30, you can save the $15.50 connection charge. To order, just call 1557-6400, toll-free. Or to order any time, day or night, from a Touch-Tone phone, use convenient RightTouch® service. See your latest phone bill for information on how to use it.

Save the $15.50 connection charge if you order before November 30.

Small World

By Aileen Hall

Arnold Turner, Sr. One of Floyd County's most solid citizens was laid to rest last week. Arnold Turner, Sr., of McDowell was a businessman who shared his living—and his life—with family, friends and neighbors. He had touched many lives through his sixty nine years, and a number of people came to tell his children and his mother of the kindnesses he had extended to them. His influence had been felt far beyond Floyd County and Kentucky, and some of his final tributes came from across the nation.

Mr. Turner was remembered as a man who loved to talk. If he knew you, there was much to talk about; and if he didn't know you, there was much to find out—and so he pursued his contacts, sharing and caring about people.

He had enjoyed success in his business and could have lived wherever he pleased for the past many years. Floyd County was his choice. He loved his land and his neighbors and found great pleasure in such simple things as going to the post office and to service stations where there was always someone to talk to.

His son, Arnold Turner, Jr., has told about the time when he was running for County Attorney and took his father with him to campaign. After fourteen hours they had seen four families. The father enjoyed visiting in depth and so it was decided he would canvas Mud Creek while Arnold, Jr., took the rest of Floyd County.

Arnold Turner, Sr., had given much—to people he loved and to people in need. But his greatest gift that continues to be shared by all who know them is the Turner family. They are a combination of gifts and talents, and for all the ways they continue to enrich our lives, we will remember this man with gratitude.

Tributes:

The final service for Arnold Turner, Sr., could well be called a triumph of faith for the family, and no person was ever given a more loving farewell.

Last words are usually spoken on behalf of a family by someone less personally affected, but so gifted is this remarkable tribe that they gave their own tribute. Words, both spoken and in song, were delivered by a brother, a nephew, son-in-law and sister-in-law.

But the crowning touch for a funeral service was given in two beautiful solos by daughter Joan Turner Chaffins, and the message by minister Arnold Turner, Jr. It was a testimony of faith that required a special grace of God, but which they also possess.

In observing this service I remembered a passage in Psalms 137 of a time when God's children were held captive in Babylon and the words, "How shall we sing the Lord's song in a strange land?" But a faith is real is also a faith that sustains and compels.

Grief is not an unknown land to the Turner family. They have been through it many times, in many ways. But it will ever be a "strange" land to all who love much and who suffer great loss.

Even so, a faith that is real is a faith that can sing—even in a strange land.

Variety is the spice of life

Take a Snake Break!

By Sanoma Goodwill, English Instructor PCC

Being married to a biologist has definite advantages. I recommend it for anyone who is allergic to cats and dogs or who, as a child, was not allowed to keep pets. Because my mother disliked animals, I never knew the joy of having a pet until after I was married. Roger, my husband, being a kind and loving man and wanting to make up for my deprived childhood, bought me a pet soon after we were married. I housed the small red-eared turtle in a glass aquarium which sat on the corner of our desk near the front door. I haven't the faintest idea what I named this turtle, what I fed him, or even what happened to him. I do, however, remember clearly what replaced him. Walking into the house one evening after work, I looked at my turtle only to run screaming from the room. Instead of my little red-ear, a living Medusa head twisted and writhed in my turtle's home. Upon a closer and calmer examination, the Medusa head proved to be six garter snakes all tangled up with one another.

Over the years, the pet population has grown in number and kind, but never has it included the more usual sorts of pets. Instead, our pets are usually turtles, frogs, lizards, and snakes—sea, garter, bull, rat, and rattle.

In all honesty, I must admit that I am allergic to cats and that dogs just don't interest me that much. I must also admit that when pets are confined to aquariums, they are much easier to take care of. Generally, they do not have to be housebroken, walked, taken to the vet, or fed expensive dog food.

On the other hand, pets of this sort do present their own problems. Landlords do not like the idea of snakes inhabiting their premises, so every time we move, finding a place to live is a bit of a problem. In addition, large areas of the living room, dining room, and bedrooms must be set aside for the aquariums. Consequently, there is not a lot of space left over for regular furniture.

Food can sometimes prove troublesome. Some snakes eat live mice or rats, others eat crickets or cockroaches, and still others must have live fish. This can get to be expensive and frustrating if the food escapes before it is eaten. In addition, because some snakes will eat dead mice or rats, our freezer generally has a package or two of "snake food."

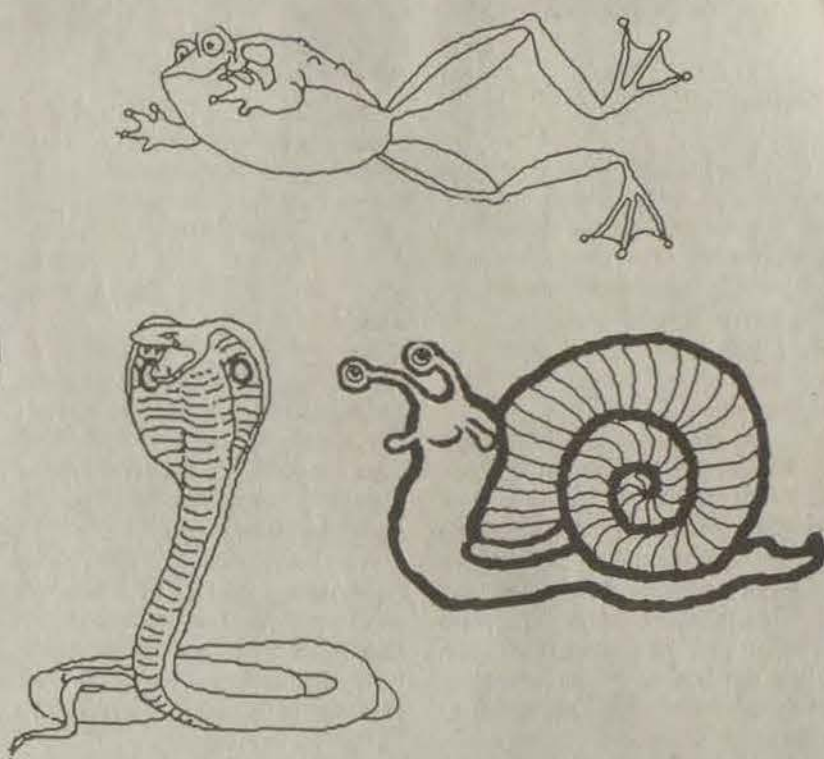

And when the cages need cleaning, the bathtub and kitchen sink double as the "pet care center." This is generally done after, not before, dinner dishes.

The six original garter snakes in the small aquarium on my desk were soon joined by several larger snakes, including a large bull snake, housed in large glass-fronted plywood boxes built by my husband and one of his friends. These large snake cages were a prominent part of the living room decor and occasionally functioned as entertainment for guests. I remember one afternoon when my husband and my brothers sat in front of the bull snake's cage, eating hamburgers and French fries, while watching the snake capture and swallow a small hamster bought for his special enjoyment. We women of the family were not amused.

Those snakes in the living room also caused problems when the mothers came to visit. We would have to turn the cages to the wall and cover them with sheets so both our mothers could pretend we didn't have snakes in the house.

Occasionally a snake would slither his way out of his "escape-proof" box and have to be put back in. This was no problem when Roger was home. However, the snakes would often execute their getaways when Roger was at work. Then I would have to capture them and return them to their "homes." The first time it happened, I called Roger at work and made him stay on the line while I went down in the basement and, with much screaming and yelling, caught an enormous bull snake (five or six feet long), wrestled him into the box, and secured the lid.

The most famous escape occurred early one spring morning in 1967. Roger was in the Air Force at the time and worked a twenty-four-hour-on, forty-eight-hour-off shift. About three o'clock in the morning on one of his "on" days, I woke up because I could feel an arm on my shoulder. Knowing Roger was at work, this caused me some anxiety. To make sure I wasn't imagining things, I very cautiously moved my leg over to his side of the bed only to find it empty. The "arm" was still on my shoulder, however. Stifling a desire to run screaming from the house, I turned on the bedside lamp and immediately began screaming. A snake was crawling through my hair, down my neck, across my shoulder, under the sleeve of my nightgown, out from under the sleeve, and onto my arm. Still shrieking, I grabbed the molester, raced to the front door, unbolted and unlocked the three locks, opened the door and flung the snake out into the darkness. I very quickly slammed the door shut and locked all the locks again so the sneaky snake-in-the-hair could not get back in. At 3 a.m. that snake was at least ten feet long and six inches around. In the sunlight of the next morning, it was, in reality, a 10 or 12-inch-long, one-inch-in-diameter, red-bellied garter snake; totally harmless unless you happened to be a small cricket. Roger has still not forgiven me for throwing his snake away.

For years I argued and pleaded for truly escape-proof homes. Now, the snakes live in lovely glass aquariums with wire lids which are weighted down with the largest, heaviest books we can find. There has not been an escape in at least two years—an excellent record in view of the willingness of our pets.

We did have one pet I could not tolerate no matter how hard I tried. And I did try, truly I did. Roger and I took the children hiking in the hills near Pocatello, Idaho, in the early summer of 1982. The children climbed rocks and trees. I collected wildflower specimens and took pictures. Meanwhile, Roger found another pet. Using an empty pillowcase (doesn't everyone carry one of those in their trunk for emergencies?) and a special forked stick, Roger collected a lovely 6 foot long diamondback rattlesnake. I was not delighted nor even mildly pleased, although the children thought having our own pet rattlesnake was really rather nifty. Despite my misgivings, the snake came home with us and was introduced to its new home: a glass aquarium with wire lid weighted down with five or six very large, very heavy anatomy and chemistry texts. Because this reptile was dangerous, his cage was put on my writing table in the master bedroom—away from the children and the occasional guest. That snake had no manners. Whenever I walked into the room, it would shake its rattles and weave its head back and forth, all the time fixing its beady eyes on me. Its actions were especially disconcerting when I changed clothes. Finally, I put a recent issue of Ranger Rick over one glass side so the snake could look at the orangutan on the front instead of at me. The snake still insisted on rattling its rattles and hissing at me. One day, in an attack of foolhardiness, I carried the cage, snake and all, out to the shed, shut the door and told the children to stay out of the shed. A further unfair edict, I now admit, since their bikes were kept in the shed. I wish I could say that I was the reason Roger got rid of that snake, but I can't. He did finally take the snake back to where he found it and let it go, not because I couldn't get along with it, but because it wouldn't eat. Being a kind-hearted and gentle man, he didn't want the snake to starve.

Since that summer, the pet population has grown to include five snapping turtles, seven tortoises, one frog, one toad, one skink, and 12 snakes—none of them venomous. I never know what our next pet will be, but one thing is certain; none of our children can complain about not having animals around when they were young.

Thank You!

Seems as though the last few times I have sat down with pen in hand, the first two words that have popped into my mind have been, "Thank you"—fitting words for this time of year.

by Kim Frasure

In reality, there is a lot to be thankful for in Floyd County.

The Jaycees are collecting books, food, games, etc., to send to our soldiers in Saudi Arabia. Look for the Jaycees ad in the Times for details on this thoughtful project.

Last week, I received a call from my aunt, Mildred Mullins of Hi Hat. My aunt belongs to a community ladies' group which decided they would like to make a contribution to help send care packages overseas.

I was tickled pink to learn that my aunt's group was going to help the soldiers so far away from home. I'd just spoken with Tess a few evenings before Aunt Mildred called. All I could think of was how thrilled Tess and other in her unit would be to know folks at home are thinking about them and helping to make their life a little bit easier.

My aunt also told me she would be by the Times office later in the week to drop off a check for $100 on behalf of the Hi Hat Community Club members for us to purchase care package items.

What a group of ladies! "Thank you" just doesn't seem enough to say, but we really do appreciate your thoughtfulness and generosity. What a great way to start the week.

After last Wednesday's column, another reader opened her heart and brought in a beautiful coat, boots, and two adorable sweatshirts to go in our Warm a Heart box.

I'm telling you, it has been an exceptional week. As Scott stated in his Coffee Break column last week, "sappiness" must be catching and, boy, am I glad it is.

Until next week, keep those Warm a Heart donations in mind, and remember, it's a child's heart you'll be warming.

Radio Memories

When I was about five years old, the rest of the world was brought into Muddy Branch and other remote hollows of Eastern Kentucky through the magic of radio.

Although we take it for granted now and can listen to the radio 24 hours a day if we want to, there was a time when radio was relatively new. My earliest memories of those long-ago days tend to make me think that radio listening then was primarily a nocturnal activity, because moms and dads spent their daytime hours working, and the kids were always—except in the dead of winter—playing outdoors.

My imagination painted bright pictures of those faraway places with strange sounding names as I spent night after night with folks like Edgar Bergen, Charley McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd, who had become very good friends of mine.

It was through radio, too, that I learned to love a mystery and tagged along behind Jack, Do and Reggie as they solved crime after crime. I also shared many adventures with Jack Armstrong, all-American boy.

I was a regular listener of "Bulah" and waited in anticipation as her boyfriend would come to call and tap out "shave and a haircut, two bits" on her door followed by a deep voice saying, "It's Bill, Baby, your great, big bundle of love." As the live radio audience broke into uncontrolled laughter, so would I.

I can remember listening as boxing champion Joe Louis fought and defeated challenger Jersey Joe Walcott in a far off place called Madison Square Garden, and I sat right there in the White House with President Roosevelt as he chatted before his fire and told me I had nothing to fear but fear itself. I didn't really know what that meant, but I do remember wondering who'd chopped his wood, toted in his coal and built his fire.

I still remember the voice of Randy

Blake at WJJD in Chicago as he played records like Tex Ritter's "Jack-O-Diamonds" on the Supper-time Frolic, and little jingles like "Halo, everybody, Halo" still pop into my head from time to time whenever I wash my hair.

When TV came along, as marvelous as it was, it kind of spoiled some of these images that were slowly burned into my mind as I sat staring at the soft yellow light behind the dial and listened to "Amos and Andy" and "Our Miss Brooks" TV's Eve Arden, for example, didn't look much like the Miss Brooks in my mind, nor did Amos and the Kingfish look like my Amos and my Kingfish. I liked mine better in all three cases.

Some of my early radio memories take on a somber tone, too, because during World War II, the late-afternoon editions of Gabriel Heatter and the news always brought a hush around the house. This was important stuff because I had two older brothers in the war.

Mom and Dad knew the names of the ships they were on and I can remember Dad, still wearing his dirty bank clothes, sitting motionless with his head in his hands for the full 15 minute broadcast as the names of American ships sunk by the Japanese were listed.

Fortunately, they never heard the names for which they listened, because both my brothers got home OK.

It seems, though, the older I get, the more faded those old radio signals become. But, even though we were suffering through a depression and times were hard for everybody, my memories as the five-year-old son of a coal miner are happy ones, as the sounds of radio, fueled by an over-active imagination—at least for an hour or two each evening—carried me beyond the world of reality to a far away magical land filled with music, laughter and adventure.

Sometimes I miss those days.

Couple united in holy matrimony

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Slone Jr.

The wedding photographer was Willie Elliott.

After a honeymoon trip to Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, the couple will reside in Prestonsburg.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late Tolva Leedy of Stanville and of Nancy Leedy of Prestonsburg; and the late Glenn and Pauline Robinette of Banner. The groom is the grandson of the late William and Sadie Stone and the late William and Liza Ray. Out of Town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. George L. Scureb of Ypsilanti, Mich., and Adrian and Jean Stone of Rhombuls, Mich.

Bentley-MacElhose to wed Nov. 24

Mrs. Stella L. Castle and Mr. Charles R. (Butch) Bentley of Wayland announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Angela Michelle, to Michael Sean MacElhose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel R. MacElhose of Lake Hauser City, Arizona.

The bride is a 1985 graduate of Allen Central High School and a 1988 graduate of Morehead State University, where she obtained an AAS degree in fashion merchandising. She is presently employed by The Limited of Lexington.

The groom is a 1985 graduate of Riverdale High School in Murfreesboro, Tennessee and will receive his BBA degree from Morehead State University in May 1991. He is currently employed by Walker Construction Company of Mt. Sterling.

The gracious custom of an open ceremony will be observed at the wedding which will be held Saturday, Nov. 24, at 6:30 p.m. at the Wayland United Methodist Church.

and carried a long stem rose with greenery and a peach satin ribbon.

The Groom wore a white, full dress tuxedo. The Best Man was Vernon Slone, brother of the groom. The Groomsmen were Steve Jones and David Bentley, both friends of the groom, and Johnny W. Ray, brother-in-law of the bride.

Logan Johnson and Lauren Mays were Flowergirls. They wore white satin dresses with peach colored roses and each carried a white wicker basket filled with carnation petals. Brian Salisbury, nephew of the groom, and Erik Slone, brother of the bride, were Ring Bearers. They wore black tuxedos with peach colored cummerbunds and carried white satin heart-shaped pillows.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Collins wore a teal green, tea-length dress. Mrs. Slone, mother of the groom, wore an aqua satin, tea-length dress.

Serving at the guest register were Henrietta Gibson, sister of the groom, and Chrissy Slone, cousin of the groom.

The wedding director was Linda Bartrum, a friend of the bride.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Pilgrim Rest Old Regular Baptist Church at Price, Ky. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Carlos Dean Akers, a cousin of the bride, and served by the bride and groom.

Robin Lynn and Virgil Slone Jr. were united in holy matrimony on Saturday, Aug. 4, 1990, at 5 p.m., at the Church of Christ at Harold, Ky., with James Hubert Harmon officiating.

The bride was escorted by her stepfather and given in marriage by her mother and stepfather. Special musical selections included "The Rose," "Wind Beneath My Wings," and "Here and Now." Selections were sung by soloist Tim Lawson.

The bride's gown had a Queen Anne neckline. The back was formed by cutaway frames, cascades of simulated pearls and a chapel length train. The bodice and sleeves were trimmed luxuriously in Venice Lace, Opalescent sequins and simulated pearls. The headpiece was lavished with dainty flowers and a simulated pearl spray with pouf, blusher and fingertip length veil.

The bride carried a bouquet of white lilies and baby's breath, decorated with greenery and long white satin streamers. Grace Hall was the bride's hairstylist.

Shawntel Leigh Ray, sister of the bride, was the Matron of Honor. She carried a bouquet of two roses decorated with greenery and a peach colored ribbon. The bridesmaids were Margaret Gibson and Margie Gibson, both nieces of the groom, and Loretta Newsome, a friend of the bride. They wore peach satin tea-length dresses

Cabbage Patch

by Marie Harmon

Cabbage of any kind will form several small two to three inch heads if the first is cut up high and the plant left in the ground. Generally these small leafy buds can be seen around the edge of the stalk when the head is cut off.

A helping of two of manure tea will encourage the little secondary buds to form a solid head; which are perfect for cole slaw. The loose and leafy leaves are great to wrap a mixture of chopped meat, onions and rice. Bake them for one hour and serve with tomato sauce.

Cabbage needs, must have, and demands Nitrogen. The more nitrogen the bigger and better tasting the cabbage.

Lettuce, be it leaf or head, is the first thing every gardener tries to get out early. Seldom do we say "gonna set out our onions." We always set out lettuce and onions.

The more often you cut off the outer lettuce leaves, the longer it will take for the lettuce to get better and bolt.

Just lately I was reading one man's opinion that 18 lettuce plants were more than enough for any family. Well—he never "killed" lettuce and onions for this family!

Onions raised from seeds or sets generally provide six to eight weeks of fresh green onions. Some people never pull the onions, but cut a few green blades from each plant. I would leave the bulbs for winter use, but I like the whole onion. Therefore, we buy more onion sets. I have tried the onion seeds several times, only once with good results. The last two years were a complete failure. Onions from seed have to be babied too much at a time when you are the busiest in your gardening.

Escarole, with their lobed, ruffle edged leaves produce plenty of extra foliage to use and still have plenty left to pull up and blanch the head. Sometimes a second head or two will form within a month. The outer leaves of escarole, or better known as Endive, have more vitamins. These plant grow like a weed with no insect infestation. They are not particular about the soil and they love cool weather so they can withstand a few light frosts.

Swiss Chard is the only goof-proof vegetable known. It will grow anywhere and has no insect or disease problems. The leaves and stems are used fresh in salads or cooked separately or with other greens. Their root system is something else. Plant it on rock and I honestly believe the roots will grow through and brake up the rock. The roots grow deep and range wide. If the tops are not eaten, they make good mulch and compost as the roots are braking up hard packed ground.

How Can I Help My Child Pass Tests At School?

by Eta Cantrell, Associate Professor of Developmental Reading and Writing at Prestonsburg Community College

Recently, someone grabbed my shirtsleeves as I rushed into the Reading Lab in the Magoffin Building at Prestonsburg Community College. At the tug of my sleeve, my body turned slightly and I looked into the eyes of a disheartened woman. She pleaded to come into my office and talk to me about her child. We walked through the laboratory, past the computers, and back to the partitioned, U-shaped cubbyhole that serves as my office. Once seated, the woman began to express her concerns for her sixth grade daughter.

Compared to other children in Kentucky, her child scored above average on state, local, and I.Q. tests at a Floyd County school. Until this school year, the child had made above average grades. When the girl came home with three F's on her report card, her mother was traumatized to find that her otherwise above average child had made some failing grades. The parent was upset that the teachers had not notified her in advance of the upcoming failures because she had no idea that her child was not passing three courses. She immediately made arrangements to visit the teachers involved, to seek reasons for them failing her child.

All of the teachers indicated that the student consistently failed to turn in homework and failed tests over course material. The child's mother asked me for some quick and easy test-taking techniques that she could use to help her child become successful again. A PCC student had told her that I had discussed some test-taking techniques in my DRE 010 Reading Laboratory class that had made her one of a handful of students to pass a certain PCC professor's first anatomy and physiology test of the semester. The woman looked at me confidently, as though I could work another miracle by sharing a few parables of my test-taking wisdom with her.

I asked the parent a few questions: Does your child study every night, or only when she has homework?

Where does she study? When does she study—immediately after school or dinner, before bedtime or after two or three hours of watching television and playing Nintendo?

How does study a text chapter? How often do you ask your child if she has homework to do that evening?

The parent's answer to the first question was that her daughter studies only when she has homework. Usually, kids do not have homework every night. Because of this, they study sporadically. To learn material for a test, whether you are a child or an adult, you must review the material frequently. This means that one should study every night. Studying every night at a particular place and time is very important in developing a habit.

Where does she study? The parent said that her child studied at the kitchen table, stopping to help prepare dinner. Every student must have a quiet place to study, away from distractions. When people go to the kitchen, they think of eating, not studying. Students should have a study room, separate from their sleeping room. This room should be only for studying, not for playing, eating or sleeping. All of the materials for study should be in this room or study nook. A specific study area and a regular time to study will help the young student get into the habit of studying in the same place at the same time every night.

When does she study? It doesn't matter when she studies, as long as she schedules a regular place and time every night. However, some studies indicate that more effective study often occurs just before bedtime, if the student isn't too tired or sleepy. If your young student asks what to study when there is no homework, tell her to review what was studied previously or ask the teacher what she can study to prepare for the next assignment. Review and review again. This helps to get information into long-term memory and to pull it out again when the student needs it for a test.

How does she study a text chapter? Does your child just sit and reread her eyes over the words in a chapter and call that studying? Tell her about the SQ3R study technique. This method, or variations of it are mentioned in many study skills for elementary, high school, and college students.

SQ3R stands for "Survey," "Question," "Read," "Recite," and "Review." To "Survey" a text, look at the headings and subheadings of every section of the chapter. These section titles are usually in boldface print or italics. Look at pictures, graphs, or any other type of illustration. Surveying gives you an idea of what material in the chapter is new to you.

Next, "Question" yourself about the material as you read. Look at questions at the beginning or end of sections or chapters, or make up your own questions. Sometimes students make up questions that are similar to questions on the actual test that the teacher gives in class. It is like reading the mind of the teacher. Then, "Read" the chapter carefully, answering questions as you read.

After reading the chapter, "Recite" the information to yourself, recalling the main ideas and major details of each section. Recite out loud or on paper to help get it into your memory cells. Finally, frequent "Review" of the information by glancing at notes or questions made from reading the chapter assists the student in making sure that the information can be recalled easily for a test. Make up new questions or trade questions with someone from your class. Creative methods for reviewing a chapter can help the student learn material quickly.

If your child has a specific study place and time every night, she will automatically do her homework. Otherwise, each parent must check with the child every evening and contact each teacher occasionally to make sure that homework is complete every day. Don't blame teachers or schools because you don't know if your child is failing. Take an active role in helping her learn.

A special "College Guide" was published in the Sunday, October 28, 1990, edition of the Lexington Herald-Leader last week. On page 14 is a section titled "Calling All Eighth-Graders." It says, "Although many students don't begin to think seriously about college until their junior or senior year of high school, that may be too late..." The writer of the article indicates that one should start preparing for college in eighth grade. Parents can start first graders on good study techniques.

After our discussion of study skills, the parent picked up a piece of paper on which I had written some notes and she thanked me for helping her. She seemed very grateful for the advice. I assume that she will try some of these suggestions. I know these methods work because I use them, too.

50th anniversary celebrants

Abel and Olive Johnson of Halo celebrated their 50th anniversary on October 20. A surprise dinner celebration was held by their children and Dr. Ira B. Potter.

They received flowers, gifts, cards, and lots of attention. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson expressed their thanks to their many friends and relatives who made their anniversary surprise, "the best in our fifty years of marriage."

First Birthday

Amanda Katherine Frasure celebrated her first birthday at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dingus Bradley of Wayland. Her mom video taped the event to send to her dad who is in Saudi Arabia.

She received many gifts. A clown cake was served to her guests.

Also attending were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Frasure of McDowell.

Daughters Of America Revolution Meet

Members of John Graham Chapter of the DAR met at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, October 9, 1990 with Virginia S. Goble Past Regent presiding. Margaret Collins served as chaplain. Opal S. May led the Flag Salute. Dorothy Osborne gave the national defense program, "Salute to DAR for its Centennial and Protect Our Constitution."

The treasurer's report was given by Olga A. Preston who reminded members that dues should be sent to her before November 1.

Changes in meeting dates were discussed because of conflict with other activities.

Homecoming for DAR will be October 25 and 26 at Duncan Tavern in Paris, Kentucky. All daughters are encouraged to attend and bring goodies for sale.

Mrs. Goble gave a historical program, "Biltmore Estates in Asheville, N.C."

Attending the meeting were Dorothy Osborne, Olga A. Preston, Margaret Collins, Opal May, Norma Stepp, Mae Kendrick and Virginia Goble.

Former Resident Publishes Poetry

Mary Frances (Hall) Davis, daughter of Tony and Ada Lou Hall of Emma, recently had her poetry published in a book called Down Peaceful Paths, which will be available in bookstores this December.

Davis resides in Clearwater, Florida, with her husband and three children. She recently received her high school diploma and is office manager in a chiropractic office in Clearwater.

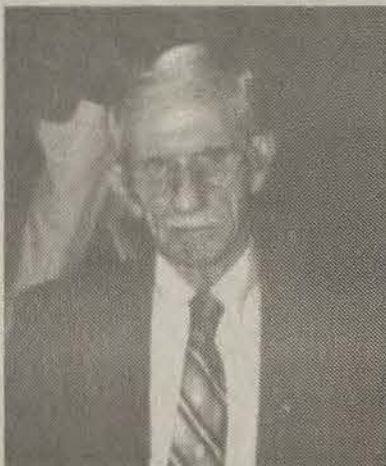

Davis, Hackworth announce wedding

Kathy W. Davis and Dewey S. Hackworth announce their engagement and forthcoming wedding Friday, Nov. 16, at 7 p.m. the Bonanza Free Will Baptist Church.

Ms. Davis is the daughter of the late Virgie G. Short of Abbott Road. Mr. Hackworth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hackworth of Bonanza.

The gracious custom of an open ceremony will be observed.

Floyd Cox

A birthday party was given in honor of Floyd Cox of Bucks Branch at Martin on his 85th birthday. The event was held at the Civic Center in Appalachia, Virginia on August 19.

Present at the celebration were his wife, Dollie B. Cox, and his children: Alma and Charles (Smokey) Neal of Rutledge, Tenn., Lenora and Curtis Miller of Wayland, Floyd M. and Lois Cox of Appalachia, Virginia;

His grandchildren: Edith and Bruce Belcher, Sharron and John Justice, of Prestonsburg, Rosie and Martin Kennedy of Wise, Va, Christopher Miller of Van Lear;

His great-grandchildren: Christopher Miller of Paintsville, Sonny, Dallas, and John Kennedy, all of Wise, Virginia;

Guests: Chester L. Campbell of Johnson City, Tenn., Robert Wells of Big Stone Gap, Va., Dwayne and Bonnie Blair of Sacramento, Calif., Karl Manning also of Big Stone Gap, Va., Cathy and Lori Kemp of Dorrouzett, Tex., Estelle Cox of Wise, Va., and Alma Falin of Big Stone Gap, Virginia.

Senior romp

A Halloween dress-up party was held at the Betsy Layne Senior Citizens Center October 26. Local restaurants donated meals which were presented to the participants. Freeman Branham won the Best Costume contest, and other winners were Allie McKinney, Irene Beck, Milford Bryant, and Millard Gibson.

OUR LADY OF THE WAY HOSPITAL

"Great American Smokeout"

On Thursday, November 15, 1990. Our Lady of the Way will be participating in this year's "Great American Smokeout". The smokeout is hosted each year by the American Cancer Society as an attempt to get individuals to stop smoking. The event encourages people to go "cold turkey" for one day as a step toward completely stopping.

This year. OLWH will be participating with the following events:

-  "Cold Turkey" drawing for employee smokers and ex-smokers. The winner will receive a turkey, compliments of OLWH.
-  "Adopt-A-Smoker" employee support program. A Non-smoker pledges to be a support person for a smoker that is trying to quit.
-  FREE 30 minute "How to Quit Smoking" classes for employees and the public. The classes will be offered in the Education Building at 10:00 a.m., 1:00 p.m., and 4:00 p.m. Those interested may attend either class.

NOTICE OF SALE
By virtue of a Judgment and Order of Sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the April 27, 1987, and September 24 term, 1990, by F. Byrd Hogg, Special Judge herein, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction on the 16 day of November, 1990, at ten o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of three (3) months, the following described property, to-wit:

The remaining portion of the surface of a certain tract of land, lying and being on the waters of the Open Fork of Middle Creek in Floyd County, Kentucky, the property of Bryson Shepherd, Sr., deceased intestate, as conveyed him by deed for 1000 acres of January 18, 1892 from Martin Shepherd, as recorded in Deed Book Q, page 304, on March 8, 1892, in the records of the Floyd County Clerk's Office, which is more particularly described as follows:

Tract on the Allen Fork of Middle Creek, now known as the Open Fork of Middle Creek.

Beginning at white oak on the righthand side of the Branch to a buckeye on left hand side of the Branch; thence up the mountain to the top of the mountain, thence with the top of the head of the Allen Fork, thence down the ridge between Middle Creek and the Licking River, thence down Fork Ridge between the Allen Fork and the Lick Fork to opposite the beginning corner, the White oak, containing 1000 acres.

Reference is here made for a more particular description to a Commissioner's Deed of September 21, 1920, recorded October 4, 1920 in Deed Book 96, page 25 in the records of the Office of the Floyd County Clerk, conveying a mineral tract of ca 813.07 acres, as described by metes and bounds, from the widow and heirs of Bryson Shepherd, Sr. to D.V. Lowther.

There is excluded from this sale parts of this tract that were conveyed by Bryson Shepherd, Sr. to Frank Shepherd on September 2, 1914, as recorded in Deed Book 42, page 202 in the Floyd County Clerk's Office, and to Mollie Shepherd on October 19, 1912, as recorded in Deed Book 33, page 369 on October 29, 1912, in the said office, to which reference is here made for a greater particularity of description. There is also excluded from this tract three tracts previously conveyed by Commissioners Deeds of April 22, 1987 and June 20, 1990 to Dewey Shepherd, Bryson Shepherd, Jr. and Aaron and Berta Shepherd, as recorded in the records of the Floyd County Clerk's Office in Deed Book 309, page 480 and Deed Book 336, page 656 and 661, to which reference is here made for a greater particularity of description.

This remaining property has descended to the parties to this action by Laws of Descent and Distribution of the State of Kentucky by mesne conveyances and as devised by Will.

The net proceeds of sale of this property have been ordered to be distributed in conformity with a judgment entered in the Floyd Circuit Court on May 8, 1953 in Suit 13,017 as to the heirs at Law not specifically heretofore deeded tracts in this parcel of land.

This property is being sold to settle the estate of the late Bryson Shepherd, Sr.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall include the costs of this action, including Attorney fees, costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 26 day of October, 1990.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the April 19 term, 1990, in the above-styled cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 16 day of November, 1990, at 10:30 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of three (3) months, the following described property, to-wit:

A certain tract or parcel of land, lying and being on the waters of Caney Creek in Floyd County, Kentucky, and being the same property conveyed to Tilden Allen, by deed from Taylor Risner and Gracie Risner dated March 14, 1971, recorded in Deed Book 204, page 516, Floyd County Clerk's Office, and being more particularly described as follows:

TRACTNO. 1: Lying and being on the Alum Lick Fork of Caney Fork of Middle Creek, beginning at a thorn bush at the lower end of Bill Bradley's garden on the left hand side of said creek; thence up the hill running with the point to the top of the hill to a marked black oak; thence down the ridge with the lands of W.J. Ousley, and with his line to a big oak stump; thence a straight line to the creek to a walnut stump; thence straight back up the creek to a rock on the upper side of the house; thence running with the paling fence to the creek; thence up said creek to the beginning.

There is excluded from the above boundary of land a tract of land conveyed Taylor Ousley and Renis Ousley by John Ousley and Ella Ousley, by deed dated April 8, 1957, recorded in Deed Book 166, page 391, Floyd County Clerk's Office, containing 100 acres, more or less, and being more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at a thorn beech at the corner of the Bill Bradley garden on the left hand side of the creek; thence running up the point with W.M. Prater line to a black oak on the top of the hill to Mont Ousley line; thence down ridge with his line to a yellow oak marked with "X"; thence running down the point to a mulberry tree; thence across the point to a hackberry tree; thence a straight line to an iron stake at the mouth of the branch at the creek; thence up Alum Creek to the beginning.

It is understood by and between the parties hereto that the mineral, coal, oil and gas has been heretofore reserved and is not conveyed.

There is also being sold:
TRACTNO. 2: Beginning at Alum Lick Branch and running with the line of John Ousley for a distance of 150 feet in an easterly direction; thence North 150 feet to a marked stone; thence 150 feet west to Alum Lick Branch; thence South 150 feet running up Alum Lick Branch to the beginning.

A certain tract or parcel of land, lying and being on the waters of Alum Lick Fork of Caney Creek in Floyd County, Kentucky, and being the same property conveyed Tilden Allen, by deed from Taylor Ousley and Renis Ousley dated April 4, 1964, recorded in Deed Book 184, page 533, Floyd County Clerk's Office, and being more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at a thorn beech at the corner of the Bill Bradley garden on the left hand side of the creek; thence running up the point with W.M. Prater line to a black oak on the top of the hill to Mont Ousley line; thence down ridge with his line to a yellow oak marked with "X"; thence down the hill to a black oak marked with "X"; thence running down the point to a mulberry tree; thence across the point to a hackberry tree; thence a straight line to an iron stake at the mouth of the branch at the creek; thence up Alum Creek to the beginning, containing 100 acres, more or less.

It is understood by and between the parties hereto that the mineral, coal, oil and gas has been heretofore reserved and is not conveyed.

These tracts will be sold together as a whole.

That certain tract or parcel of land, lying and being on the waters of Caney Fork of Middle Creek in Floyd County, Ky., and being the same property conveyed Gary Dale Ousley and Karen Ousley, by deed from Greeley Darrell Ousley and Beulah Ousley, his wife, dated April 24, 1982, recorded in Deed Book 265, page 496, Floyd County Clerk's Office, and being more particularly described as follows:

Beginning in the center of an existing bridge located across Caney Fork of Middle Creek and going downstream to an orange stake in a drain; thence following said drain going uphill to a marked rock; thence following a wire fence and going down Caney Fork of Middle Creek to a walnut tree; thence following the line of Jim Johnson to the top of the ridge; thence following the top of the ridge to a stake located on said ridge; thence in a straight line to the point of beginning.

This tract will be sold separately.

All tracts are being sold, subject to property taxes due Floyd County, Kentucky.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the following principal sums: $4,747.95, accrued interest of $769.82, and interest thereon at 12% annually from April 19, 1990 until satisfied; $5,000.00, accrued interest of $928.22 and interest thereon at 12% annually from April 19, 1990 until satisfied; $12,755.02, accrued interest of $2,674.88 and interest thereon at 12% annually from April 19, 1990 until satisfied; $52,307.01, with interest thereon at 15% annually from October 27, 1986 until satisfied; $158,408.87, with interest thereon at 15% annually from November 30, 1986 until satisfied; $20,293.94, with interest thereon at 18% annually from August 20, 1986 until satisfied; $222,773.64, with interest thereon at 18% annually from October 5, 1986 until satisfied; $34,999.00, with interest thereon at 15% annually from May 10, 1987 until satisfied; $50,000.00, with interest thereon at 15% annually from January 7, 1987 until satisfied; $175,000.00, accrued interest of $66,102.05, and interest thereon at 12% annually from April 19, 1990 until satisfied; $15,975.00, with interest thereon at 15% annually from July 17, 1986 until satisfied; $16,115.79, with interest thereon at 15% annually from October 16, 1987 until satisfied; $204,906.27, with interest thereon at 18% annually from June 26, 1987 until satisfied; $100,000.00, with interest thereon at 12.5% annually from June 18, 1986 until satisfied and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security.
