The Face of War

Tension, hope, anger, "cheering in the streets"

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

While the world's attention focuses with anger at Iraq's reported treatment of allied prisoners of war, a Floyd County soldier stationed in Saudi Arabia reported Tuesday that Iraqi prisoners are finding a remarkably different approach to captivity on the U.S. side of the battle line.

Times reporter Tess Whitmer, a U.S. Army Lieutenant whose unit is involved in POW processing, reported Tuesday from Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, that at least 50 Iraqi soldiers had either surrendered or been taken captive by allied forces, spurring her unit into action.

Whitmer said televised accounts of Iraqi treatment of seven downed allied airmen had "really pissed everyone here off."

"(Iraqi President) Saddam Hussein has violated every article of Geneva Convention rules concerning the treatment of prisoners," Whitmer said Tuesday, "and we've heard some of our people say if he's going to treat our prisoners like that, maybe we ought to do the same. But the general feeling is that we're not going to be like him, and we're taking every precaution to see that Iraqi prisoners get good treatment."

"We've had Marines give these prisoners the food out of their pockets and the blankets off their backs," Whitmer added.

According to Whitmer, original military projections indicated that as many as 100,000 Iraqi POWs were expected during the initial days of the war, but those projections were based on the effects of a ground war.

That's all changed, she said, because the hostilities, so far, have been confined to the air.

Whitmer said morale in her unit had skyrocketed "now that we have something to do," and she added that hopes remained high that the war with Iraq would not last long and that ground troops would not have to be used.

"Everyone is fired up," she said, "hoping that it will end through the air attacks."

Despite those hopes, Whitmer said the last few days have been filled with tension as Iraqi missile attacks on Dhahran have stepped up.

chemical suits and gas masks.

"It's real scary," she added, "because we don't know if the Iraqi missiles are carrying chemical warheads. We've been real cautious about chemical attacks, but there have been none so far."

Whitmer spoke highly of the U.S. anti-missile defenses which employ Patriot missiles to shoot down incoming Iraqi Scuds.

"Every time a Patriot hits a Scud there is cheering in the streets," she said.

Whitmer said green troops in Saudi Arabia, those with no prior combat experience, were learning to cope with the ways of war with the help of veterans who had seen combat in Vietnam.

"The first few days of the war, we got no sleep at all," she said. "The veterans have taught us how to catch cat naps, and they're really helping the younger troops deal with the war."

Whitmer said her view of the war so far and been much the same as that of the rest of the world.

"We're watching it on CNN (Cable News Network)," she said. "We've got two people in front of the TV at all times. We watched a little on TV, then we looked out the window to get a little better view."

Whitmer said morale among the troops in Saudi Arabia was high.

"Most of us realize, now that war has started, that the sooner it's over, the sooner we get to come home," she said.

A follow-up report could be forthcoming in the next few days, and Whitmer noted she had seen no other Floyd Countians or Kentuckians since her deployment to the Persian Gulf last fall.

Medisin to test constitutionality :

Waste law put on hold

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The constitutionality of an ordinance aimed at regulating hazardous medical waste burned at a local incinerator has been challenged in federal court by Medisin Inc.

A complaint was filed Friday in Ashland federal court by Rick Thomas, attorney for Medisin, and assigned to be heard in Pikeville. Medisin asks that the ordinance be declared unconstitutional and seeks a preliminary injunction against the fiscal court to prohibit enforcement of the ordinance.

A hearing was held Friday in United States District Court in Ashland before federal Judge Joseph Hood to prevent the fiscal court from implementing the ordinance. The restraining order went into effect at 3 p.m. Friday and will remain in effect until a January 28 hearing in Pikeville. The hearing is scheduled for 4 p.m.

The ordinance passed its third reading at the Friday meeting of the Floyd County Fiscal Court and requires operators of waste site or facility, participants in the storage, transportation, treatment and/or disposal of waste in the operation of a waste site or facility, other than a publicly owned facility obtain a valid permit to do so from the fiscal court.

An applicant would be required to pay a $2,500 fee to process the application. A permit will not be issued until the applicant posts at least $1 million and not more than $5 million bond to cover any physical or environmental damages. A $5 million will be required if the waste is hazardous and $1 million if it is solid waste. The person receiving the permit will be required to pay a $1,000 per ounce for hazardous waste and $250 per ton for all solid waste processed, disposed, stored, transported or treated.

Anyone who fails to obtain a permit could face criminal charges.

Medisin cites the ordinance puts impermissible restraints on commerce and an unreasonable exercise

Murder trial gets underway in Johnson County

Testimony is expected to begin today, Wednesday, in Johnson Circuit Court in the trial of a Van Lear man charged with the May, 1990 murder of a Prestonsburg teen-ager.

Jury selection was completed Tuesday in the trial for Jim Jack Penix Jr., 29, of Van Lear, who is charged with murder in the May 13, 1990 slaying of 19-year-old Barrett Heath Endicott, of Prestonsburg. Penix allegedly shot Endicott once in the head with a .30 caliber rifle during a dispute at a trailer court near Combs Airport in Johnson County.

At the time of the incident, Johnson County Sheriff Gene Cyrus reported that at least six persons were suspected to have witnessed the shooting.

The murder trial is expected to continue through the remainder of this week. Johnson Circuit Judge Stephen "Nick" Frazier is presiding.

Times judged state's best :

We're number one!

The Floyd County Times and Bardstown's Kentucky Standard shared top honors as Kentucky's best multi-weekly newspapers for 1990 in judging among members of the Kentucky Press Association.

The two papers tied for their division's General Excellence award, based on the results of competition in the press association's annual Better Newspaper Contest. General Excellence awards are given to papers achieving the most points in judging of numerous categories.

The Times earned a share of first place in the multi-weekly division (papers published between two and four times per week) by winning three first place awards, five seconds and three third place awards.

Former Times editor Pam Shingler was awarded first place in the category of Best Business or Agribusiness Story; sports editor Ed Taylor won first place for Best Sports Story; and late Times reporter/photographer Frank Clark won first place for Best General News Picture. Clark died last fall after a short illness.

Second place awards went to Times contributing writer Kathleen Carroll for Best Spot News Story; staffer Tim Preston for Best Feature Story; former editor Pam Shingler for Best Column (one subject); Ed Taylor for Best Sports Feature and Taylor again for Best Sports Picture.

Third place awards went to staffer Tess Whitmer for Best General News Story and Best Investigative/Analytical Story; and to Pam Shingler for Best Feature Story.

Tanker trouble

Hazardous road conditions Monday morning caused a freezing cold and light snow led to an eight-car pileup on KY 122 near Martin and closed the stretch of highway between Martin and McDowell for hours. This tanker truck couldn't maneuver this sharp curve and ended up on its side. Other vehicles attempting to avoid the tanker wound up in the ditch. No injuries were reported. (Photo by Susan Allen)

Organizational meeting planned for Thursday :

Group to promote new school

A group of Floyd County residents, expressing concern that a new high school will not appear on the horizon of their children and grandchildren, will hold an organization meeting Thursday.

Concerned Citizens for a New Progressive Prestonsburg High School will meet January 24 at 7 p.m. at the Clark Elementary School to voice their say in the school's fate.

"We want to present our side," said Delphia Hicks, who will chair the meeting. "We don't want our children to go to a cobbled-up school in 2011."

Hicks explained that the state has appropriated money for the school and that if the funds are not utilized to build the new high school, they will be sent to another district.

Hicks said she had heard that new education commissioner Boysen was asking what was wrong with Floyd County citizens that they did not want a new school when every other district in the state wanted one.

Lexington's Dunbar school recently received $20 million dollars. "Surely we're worth half that much," she said.

She also explained that if the current Prestonsburg High School is renovated, the funding would come from the county budget.

"We're not saying necessarily that we want the school to be built on this site — we want a new school," Hicks said. "I think it is a good site."

There will be an agenda for the meeting, Hicks said, and each person will have a specified time to speak so that all "will have an equal opportunity" to voice their views.

Floyd County Superintendent of Schools Ron Hager will present an update on the situation and an architect has been invited to speak.

Judge Conley won't seek fifth term :

Three-decade tenure to end next January

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Next January, for the first time in nearly three decades, visitors to the Floyd County Circuit Court will see a new face behind the bench.

Since 1962, that seat has been occupied by Judge Hollie Conley, by the long-time jurist announced Friday he would not seek an unprecedented fifth term.

Conley fondly recalled his years in office and offered words of advice for his predecessor.

"Keep the docket moving. Delayed justice is poor justice," Conley said. "And, even though you may make a wrong decision, make a decision and move on rather than put it on the back burner.

"Treat each case equally," Conley continued. "Treat a $5,000 case the same as a $5 million one. Because, to everybody their case in your court is the most important case in your court."

No particular case in the last 28 years stood out in Conley's mind, he said they all were memorable.

"It's all been good," Conley said referring to his years on the bench. "I've seen the good attorneys and the poor attorneys. It was always a pleasure to try a case with two good attorneys involved. A good attorney is always prepared and well versed in

For coal tax proposal :

Survival chances upgraded

The chances of survival are improving for a bill that would revise the formula for distributing revenues from a state coal severance tax, Representative Greg Stumbo said Tuesday.

Stumbo, floor leader for the state Democratic Party, said a press conference was scheduled for today, Wednesday, in Frankfort to demonstrate widespread support for the coal tax bill. Stumbo said that support would come from groups which had "always been on the opposite sides" of the coal tax issue. The press conference is scheduled for 10 a.m.

At issue is a proposal to increase from 12 percent to 25 percent the return of coal tax revenues to coal producing and coal transportation counties. After six years, the level of return would increase to 50 percent of all coal tax revenues collected by the state.

Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, said Tuesday that the proposal had a 50-50 chance of surviving during the ongoing special session of the General Assembly. He indicated a bill, making the proposal official, would likely be filed in the House Wednesday, and it would then be sent to the Appropriations and Revenue Committee where a vote could be taken later this week or early next week to determine if the proposal should be voted on by the House membership.

Betsy Layne volunteers get top rating

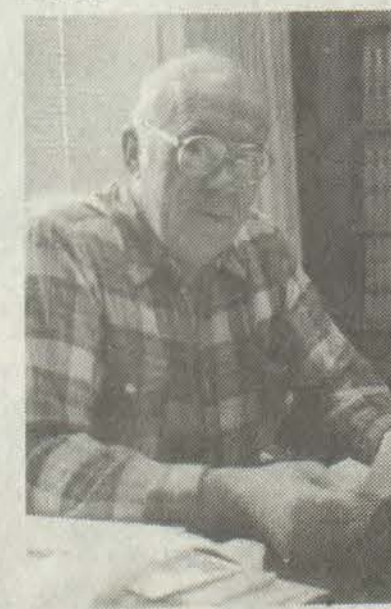

Betsy Layne Volunteer Fire Department has the highest insurance rating for a volunteer department in Kentucky. The fire department recently received a Class 4 rating; most fire departments strive for a Class 6 or 5.

Fire department ratings are based on inspections by the State Insurance Services Office (ISO).

Those ratings are used to determine the costs of fire insurance for a particular fire district. The lower the classification, the better fire protection services are rated.

The fire department attributes its success to state-of-the-art equipment and teamwork. The 20-man team has the slogan, "We make house calls," displayed on all three of their vehicles: two shiny, yellow pumpers and an emergency van.

Rev. Dan Frederick of the Concerned Citizens of the Betsy Layne Volunteer Fire Department said the group recently raised more than $10,000 during a telethon, which was presented to the fire department recently.

Calling it quits

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley announced Friday he will not seek reelection as Floyd County Circuit Judge. Conley has held an elected office in the county for the past 38 years. His term will end in January.

Johnson, Whitaker cleared of shooting at state trooper

by Susan Allen Staff Writer

A malfunctioning power window apparently was key evidence in the accidental Wednesday of a Blue River man accused of trying to murder a Kentucky State Police trooper last September.

Marvin K. Johnson of Blue River was indicted on an attempted murder charge last February, along with Carl Whitaker of Pleasant Lake, Michigan on a conspiracy to commit murder charge, for allegedly firing two shots from a .380 semi-automatic pistol at trooper Terry Thompson near Ivel on September 22, 1989.

The jury deliberated less than an hour Wednesday before delivering the not guilty verdict for Johnson. Charges against Whitaker were dismissed on a directed verdict after the prosecution closed its case.

Circuit Judge Richard Elswick announced the dismissal, saying not enough evidence was presented to try Whitaker on the conspiracy charge.

Johnson was accused of firing at Thompson from the passenger side of his car, a 1980 Buick Regal Coupe, which would have meant the bullet would have had to travel out the driver's side of the car. Donnie Newsome, a passenger in Johnson's vehicle that night, and a mechanic both testified the driver's window would roll down just four or five inches.

Newsome said the window had not worked properly as long as Johnson had owned the car.

Marvin Whitaker, a mechanic, testified Johnson had brought the car to him to repair the window at least two years before the incident but he could not repair it at that time. "He was supposed to have brought it back for me to fix but I never heard from him again," Whitaker said.

Defense attorney Phillip Damron took the vehicle to Whitaker last Tuesday to have him inspect the window to see if any repairs had been made.

Whitaker said it didn't appear anyone had attempted to fix the window.

Damron said in his opening statement Johnson admitted firing the gun, admitted being drunk and "for the lack of a better word, doing something completely stupid."

"But, he is not charged with being drunk or firing a gun," Damron told the jury. "If he had seen the state policeman, he wouldn't have done it. He is guilty of several misdemeanors, but he is not guilty of trying to intentionally murder a police officer."

The incident occurred after Johnson, Newsome and Whitaker left the Desperado, a Prestonsburg nightclub, on their way to Marlow's Country Palace, Whitaker testified. On the trip to Marlows, Whitaker said Johnson reached into the console between the seats, pulled out the pistol and fired two shots out the passenger window.

"I told him (Johnson) he made an ass out of himself and destroyed a good night."

Assistant Commonwealth attorney Jon Johnson called trooper Thompson as the state's first witness.

Thompson, who usually patrols Virgie in Pike County, said he was in Floyd County in an unmarked police vehicle patrolling the area to catch speeders.

"I had a vehicle pulled over and was sitting in my car with the blue lights and pulsating headlights on, citing the driver for speeding when I heard a pop. I looked up, heard another pop and saw a round muzzle flash come from inside a vehicle traveling south on U.S. 23 near Ivel."

Thompson explained the muzzle flash was from the "explosion" at the end of a gun barrel when a weapon is fired. He said because the flash was round it signified the weapon was fired in his direction. If the flash had been horizontal it would have meant the weapon was being fired in another direction rather than toward him.

After hearing the gunshot, Thompson said he ordered the driver whom he was giving a citation out of his vehicle and proceeded to chase the car from which the shots were fired. Thompson radioed for help and stopped the vehicle after traveling in excess of 100 m.p.h. to catch up with Johnson's vehicle. Thompson said the driver's window was rolled all the way down when the vehicle was stopped.

Thompson said he did not know the two men and they wouldn't have known he would be at that particular location at that particular time.

Johnson, testifying in his own defense, said he wasn't sure why he fired his gun.

"We were riding along and this song came on the jukebox and I just got the gun and shot two times out the window over the creekbank," Johnson said. "I was just drunk. I did not shoot at any police officer."

Members of the jury went to the municipal parking lot to inspect the car shortly before beginning their deliberations.

the subject matter."

In his statement to those in attendance at motion hour Friday, Conley said rumors about his health and his wife's health were reasons for the announcement.

"We are both in excellent health," Conley said. "The three months leave of absence from the duties of the court were for the sole purpose of determining if I could adjust to retirement."

Conley expressed appreciation to members of the Floyd County Bar Association, the Kentucky Bar and the citizens of Floyd County for "permitting me to serve" as circuit judge for four terms. The crowd responded with a standing ovation for Conley.

Conley served two six-year terms and two eight-year terms. Before being elected judge, Conley served four years as County Attorney and six years as Commonwealth Attorney in Floyd County.

When his current term expires next January, Conley said he plans to spend more time with his six grandchildren and to do a lot of bird hunting.

To sum up his 38 years in public office, Conley said, "I've seen a lot happen that shouldn't have happened and a lot of things happen that should have happened."

Boysen, Billips to meet Friday

A much awaited meeting between Kentucky's new Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen and Floyd County Board Member Eddie Billips is scheduled to take place Friday at 10:30 a.m. in Frankfort.

Billips requested the meeting with Commissioner Boysen to discuss, among other things, the Prestonsburg High School project. A meeting scheduled for last Thursday was cancelled because Billips was not informed.

State Representative Greg Stumbo will sit in on the meeting to discuss the issues. Stumbo said Tuesday he is not opposed to a new high school being built but he felt "a public airing" of proceeding relating to the Prestonsburg project was needed.

Billips raised questions last October about actions taken by the board in order to secure the site for the new high school.

Weather delays candlelight rally

Due to plummeting temperatures and a light snowfall, the candlelight rally scheduled Monday night has been rescheduled for Monday, January 28.

The patriotic ceremony will be held in the Prestonsburg municipal parking lot, located in front of the courthouse.

The county-wide event will recognize each Floyd County soldier who is involved in the Persian Crisis.

All participants are asked to bring two candles.

Named to Who's Who

Two Floyd County students are among the 24 Pikeville College students included in the 1991 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, according to Dean of Students Ron Damron.

Linda Combs of Garrett and Steven Jones of McDowell were chosen for their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success, Damron said.

of the police power granted to the county.

Notice of the hearing was sent to Judge Executive John M. Stumbo by fax Thursday afternoon by Thomas.

At the court meeting Friday, Floyd Countians in Action (FCIA) strongly urged the court to pass the final reading of the ordinance.

County Attorney Jim Hammond advised the court to postpone the passage, saying the current special session of the General Assembly could produce new laws which would make the ordinance a "moot" point.

But, Hammond criticized Medisin's incinerators saying, "The incinerator problem is as murderous as the acts of Hussein. Only with murder you die quickly, with this it's slow."

Scott Walker, speaking for FCIA, said citizens living down-wind from the incinerator are having health problems, citing cases of cancer and other diseases.

"We're under a death sentence on Auxier Road," Walker said. "If it takes 20 years, I'll stop it (the incinerator)."

Hammond suggested the group file a federal tort suit seeking damages and to obtain a permanent injunction against Medisin.

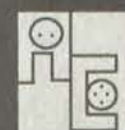

After much debate, the court voted to pass the ordinance.

In other action, an application by the David Fire Department to annex parts of the community into the current fire district was denied. David citizens appeared at the meeting to protest the annexation, with several saying, "We don't need the fire department; we don't want it."

Other community groups addressing the court asking for gravel or reddog were Sugar Loaf, Skull Hollow, Bryant Branch at Price and Tackett Branch. Judge Stumbo said he would see if the court could provide the materials for the road work.

The three-hour meeting was attended by a large crowd of Floyd Countians, of which many lined the hallway outside the meeting room.

A special meeting of the fiscal court will be held Friday, January 25 at 10 a.m. at the courthouse annex to discuss bonds for Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Guidelines recommended for solid waste

The Kentucky County Judge Executive Association and the Kentucky Magistrates and Commissioners Association have been in contact with the legislature and governor's staff in reviewing the proposed solid waste management legislation. At a statewide meeting on January 9, it was the unanimity of the associations—KCJEA and KMCA—that to pass a piece of legislation that will be workable, feasible, and compatible with the local officials of this Commonwealth, the legislation must address the following concerns:

To contain cost and maintain a cost-effective system of pick-up and disposal, local fiscal courts must have the authority and autonomy to set fees, regulate franchises, enter into contracts, and negotiate all other responsibilities in relationship to the planning, development, operation, and implementation of a solid waste management plan;

Implement a viable method of controlling municipal solid waste disposal facility tipping fees to prevent possible consumer gouging;

Without financial or other penalties, allow a county the ability to prepare and implement single-county solid waste management plans; and Develop a reasonable method of collecting solid waste fees through the use of utility billings.

The KCJEA and KMCA feel that locally-elected officials, who are sensitive to their constituents needs, must have the ability and flexibility to provide a service that is environmentally sound, and does not place an undue burden on the taxpayers of the Commonwealth.

The organizations consist of 120 Kentucky County Judge/Executives and the 585 county magistrates and commissioners.

Essay contest

Prestonsburg students take Lexington field trip

Prestonsburg High School's Future Homemakers of America and senior members of the Touchdown Club enjoyed a field trip to Lexington on December 11.

Prior to the trip, students chose a career, investigated the educational requirements, found job placement in our area for their chosen career and determined a starting wardrobe for this career. While in Lexington students had to purchase, with an imaginary budget, their starting wardrobe. On work sheets prices were compared, as well as types of material, and cleaning instructions.

Several of the students were amazed to find the total cost of such a wardrobe was too much for their budget.

Students were also treated to lunch at Chi Chi's to introduce them to cross-cultural foods.

Those students who made the trip were Lora Willis, Mary Marsillett, Stacy Reed, Vada Collins, Terressa Quillen, Dreama Griffith, Christina Spears, April Campbell, Bryan Hall, Lori Baisden, Ronnie Slone, Harvey Posten, Todd Little, Scott Rose, Shannon Blackburn, April Young, Susan Mullins, Lee Ann Hale, and Vicki Robinson.

Ruth Hale and Judy Burchell, sponsors of these two organizations, hope to make this an annual trip.

Thanks for the help

New lottery game changes its name

The Kentucky Lottery Corporation has changed the name of its "Kentucky Cash" on-line game to "Pick 3". According to Kentucky Lottery president James E. Hosker, the change is a response to public suggestion. "Pick 3" is the name the public was calling the game when they asked for it at our retailers," he said. "The name 'Pick 3' is short and sweet and it describes the game to a tee. At the Kentucky Lottery, we like to give our players what they want."

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

We are justifiably proud that our peers in the newspaper business have judged The Floyd County Times to be the best multi-weekly newspaper in Kentucky for 1990.

While it is a matter of policy here at the Times to strive to be the best we can be, it is gratifying to be recognized by our industry for those efforts.

The first priority of this paper, however, is not the pursuit of awards but meeting the obligation of providing our readers with the information they want and need. We think we are accomplishing that objective.

Ultimately, you will be the judges of how well we perform.

Meanwhile, we'd like to recognize the Times' team for their efforts in producing Kentucky's best multi-weekly newspaper.

They're number one.

Snow days.

Winter's first whiting wreaked havoc on Floyd County Monday, cancelling school and creating dangerous driving conditions.

Times reporter Tim Preston, whose routine involves covering auto mishaps, had the misfortune Monday of experiencing his beat from the other end of the camera. Tim was hospitalized Monday after he was injured in one of many mishaps caused by icy roads.

We ask your patience and understanding this week if our product isn't up to par. Our thoughts (and several members of our staff) are elsewhere.

Tim's accident Monday compounded the worries we share with many Floyd County families who are anxiously awaiting news from Operation Desert Storm in Saudi Arabia.

One of our family, staff reporter Tess Whitmer, is stationed in the Middle East and we have had no word from her since the war began last week. (We finally heard from Tess Tuesday.)

We took Tess' deployment to Saudi Arabia somewhat lightly, joking with her about her occasional collect phone calls to the office, but when the bombs began to fall our humor was replaced by concern for her safety and the safety of all our troops in the Middle East.

We bid them all Godspeed.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein has assured himself a seat in Hell if reports of his mistreatment of prisoners of war prove accurate.

Iraq is a signator of Geneva Convention rules concerning the handling of POWs, and any deviation from those humanitarian requirements should be punished.

At last report, Iraq was said to be deploying allied POWs as "human shields" at military installations in an effort to dissuade attacks on those facilities.

That's not only a violation of the Geneva accords, but a crime against humanity.

The news of my death, Mark Twain once wrote in response to an Associated Press dispatch, is greatly exaggerated.

A similar report is coming from Frankfort on the chances of survival for a proposal to send extra coal severance tax revenues to coal counties.

The latest prognosis for a revised coal tax bill is that it has a 50-50 chance of making it through the special session, an upgrade from early indications that the proposal would die a quick and merciless death.

That's good news.

Our economic future has been in the emergency room for too long. Corrective surgery can transfer us to the recovery room.

Good grief.

An advertisement in last Wednesday's Times urging Floyd Countians to support our troops in the Persian Gulf appears to have attracted more attention to who sponsored the ad than to the message the ad attempted to get across.

That's too bad.

When it comes to who is supporting whom for what particular political office, we are reminded of Rhett's classic reply to Scarlett.

Frankly, my dear, we don't give a damn.

We do, however, give a damn about each and every one of our soldiers stationed in the Middle East and elsewhere.

And, we welcome all your messages of support for those troops regardless of your race, religion or creed and, particularly, without concern over your political preferences.

I am an infantry soldier serving in Saudi Arabia. I am truly amazed at the amount of mail and care packages I have received from the people back home due to the Times listing my name in the paper as being deployed to "desert shield."

If I tried to write and thank each person or group that has written me or sent sundry items to me, I would be writing well into 1992! So with that in mind, I wish to thank all of the following groups and individuals:

I sincerely apologize for not having the time to write back.

Thanks to all and keep writing! Love to get news from home. Mom, Dad, send Floyd County Times!

Reflecting on comments concerning the new school at Prestonsburg made by former board member "Doc" Adams in a local paper, I am somewhat confused, or better yet dismayed, by his innuendoes citing "politics" as the reason for opposition to the project. "Talk about the pot calling the kettle black." His attitude is a blatant, classic example of this cliché. There had been little publicity concerning the construction of a new school at Prestonsburg until just before time for his bid for reelection. Now, that's politics.

There seems to be an overt effort by Dr. Adams to muddle the issues concerning opposition to the new school project. I have yet to hear any substantial opposition to Prestonsburg having a new school, and that is well and good. We all should have modern new facilities for our children in Floyd County. I have, on the other hand, heard much dialogue as to the exorbitant expenditures for the site acquisition and preparation for that school.

These rumblings are justifiable when we consider the gross amount spent on initial construction. This inflated cost greatly diminishes the monies that could be used more prudently to directly benefit the students at the new school. Money saved on site acquisition and preparation could be better spent on technological equipment such as computers, science labs, promotion of fine art and literary facilities. The newly-elected board member, Eddie Billips, made it unmistakably evident in the last board meeting that he favored new facilities for all children in Floyd County, but he did, in fact, question priorities as they relate to proper proportional funding for various parts of the project (i.e. site preparation and acquisition as opposed to facility construction). Question he should, when one considers the exorbitant transaction up to this point. Interpolating politics into a based on budgetary reasoning is a covert attempt to muddle the issues. No, that's politics.

To conclude that any decision made by newly-appointed commissioner Boysen on the new school as being made purely relative to political pressure is a shoddy conclusion and reflects a preemptive posture by our former board member. This conclusion is based on assumptions orchestrated solely to initiate premature judgments by the public not to mention exclusive selfishness prompted by prior status. Now, that's politics.

Sometimes defeat leaves a bad taste in one's mouth. We must all strive to come to the realization that we must move ahead together to make Floyd County's school system the best possible for all our children. Doc

Adams, I did like your alluding to yourself as a "private citizen"...just like me. So stop floundering around like a fish out of water and start attending the school board meetings. I am sure the board meetings would be a humbling experience for you. That would especially be true since you would be experiencing it from a private citizen's perspective.

Governor Wilkinson states in his TV ads that he is for local control of education. Why is he against local control of garbage? Would the powerful, "for-profit" waste company's contributions have affected his decision?

The governor knows the only way we can keep out-of-state garbage out of Kentucky is through local control, yet he is leaving local control out of his bill. Do you think he is really serious about the waste problem?

I am pleased to confirm that the Secretary of Agriculture has granted my request to allow 5 percent additional marketings of burley tobacco without penalty for the 1990 crop year.

I sought this action because it will bring more U.S. grown burley to market this year and represents an opportunity to put approximately $10 million more in the pockets of Kentucky growers.

If you or anyone you know can bring additional tobacco to market in the time remaining for this auction season, I urge you to do so immediately while prices are high and demand continues to be very strong.

The Secretary's action marks the second consecutive year we have asked for and received this type of help. With the demand for U.S. grown burley running far ahead of this year's production by more than 100 million pounds, the extension will help Kentucky farmers meet the extraordinary world demand for burley tobacco and capture foreign markets for new sales in the future.

Abraham Lincoln, a different kind of man, emerged on the national scene at a time when the American government was torn by internal strife, economic problems and a complete lack of unity. He gave us back our country, strong and united.

Larry Forgy and Gene Goss are now on the Kentucky scene—also different kind of men with the great desires and strong abilities to save our state from the corruption and greed that are overwhelming us.

Their time for greatness is now—and so is ours.

As an 8th generation born and bred Eastern Kentuckian, I want my state back—for those who have gone before us and those who will come later. I want Kentucky to be Kentucky again—not Wilkinson, Inc. or a Hopkinson copy of the same—but

Ky. in all her honesty and individualism.

Only Larry Forgy and Gene Goss can deliver Kentucky to the Kentuckians, out of the hands of the politicians, into the state we remember, deserve and love.

Kentucky belongs to the people and the people must now speak out and demand her return by overwhelmingly electing Larry Forgy and Gene Goss.

As I come to work each morning I meet several coal trucks. Now that isn't unusual in my end of the county, but there is one truck in particular that makes my day.

The driver has lights along his front bumper and they are arranged in such a way that they curve upward on each end. As you meet the truck, you see two eyes (the bumper headlights). The effect before daylight is wonderful.

I don't know who you are, Mr. Driver, but you give my day a pleasant start! Thank you."

Senator Wendell Ford

Supporting troops in the Persian Gulf

As we begin the opening weeks of the 102nd Congress, we will face no issue of greater importance than our increased military commitment in the Middle East and the continuing threat of war that goes along with that commitment.

Throughout the crisis, many have disagreed over the Bush administration's policy in the region. I have been vocal in expressing my concerns and disagreements with the president.

But I firmly believe there is one thing all Kentuckians and citizens across this country can agree on—that our service men and women in Saudi Arabia need and deserve our full support.

In an effort to demonstrate my support, I recently wrote to the Internal Revenue Service commissioner encouraging his approval of a Department of Defense plan underway to extend the Federal income tax filing deadline for military personnel in the Persian Gulf region.

Within the next month, the United States will have deployed over 430,000 service men and women in Saudi Arabia. For almost every person involved, this unexpected and potentially extended overseas assignment will create a disruption in their personal and financial lives.

By extending their tax filing deadline until the end of deployment, the trauma of organizing and filing a tax form from the deck of a ship or middle of the desert thousands of miles away could be alleviated.

In addition to supporting an extension of the filing deadline, I will also be cosponsoring legislation to be introduced in the Senate waiving any interest and penalties that would otherwise accrue.

Under current law, an executive order issued by the president would serve to waive these interest and penalties. Since it is unclear whether such an action could be taken by the president in time to be of benefit to our military personnel and their families, Congress will need to act before this year's filing deadline.

Recently, I wrote a letter to every Kentucky mayor requesting support in enlisting their community to join a nationwide effort to "adopt" military units in the Persian Gulf.

This "adoption" program was conceived by Ms. Linda Patterson of San Mateo, California, who persuaded the city council to "adopt" the U.S. infantry company with which her brother served in Vietnam. In his five years of service, the citizens of San Mateo sent thousands of individualized letters, homebaked cookies and packages to the company members.

Ms. Patterson is now volunteering to provide the same service, known as "America Supporting Americans," to help communities across the nation coordinate this effort. The organization can be contacted at 1-800-800-UNIT.

These efforts can never repay the debt all of us owe to our courageous troops in the Gulf. But I do believe these and similar efforts can send the message that our thoughts and prayers are with them for a safe return home. I urge all Kentuckians to do their part in conveying this all important message.

Foundation supports Prichard committee reform campaign

The Carnegie Corporation of New York has awarded a grant to the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence to support its six year campaign to help implement the Kentucky Education Reform Act. Lois Weinberg of Hindman, committee chair, announced recently. "This funding from a national foundation," said Weinberg, "is a landmark for our volunteer committee and for Kentucky. It shows how important Kentucky's education reform is to the nation. Kentucky has become a national reform laboratory—all eyes will be on us and we absolutely have to succeed."

"We're gratified by this vote of confidence from one of the country's leading foundations. We know this reform law won't reach the classrooms without a lot of very hard work, and it won't happen overnight. Community, parent and business support is just essential, and we're determined to help mobilize that support."

The grant, according to Robert F. Sexton, committee executive director, is for about $250,000 over two years, with renewal for several more years possible. "We'll use the support to organize local volunteers across Kentucky, inform the public about the law, monitor progress, evaluate results, and report to the taxpayers and voters," said Sexton. "This is part of a major effort by our volunteers."

Sexton said that several "lead donors" in Kentucky are also being approached for major gifts. Toyota Motor Manufacturing, Ashland Oil and First Kentucky National Bank were the first to make three year commitments to the project. "The Kentucky business community helped cause the nation's most comprehensive reform program," said Sexton, "and it's encouraging that they intend to stick with the job until it is finished."

Planning for the Committee's campaign to implement House Bill 940 began in the summer of 1990. The program will begin this spring. "These reforms can be revolutionary," Sexton concluded, "but they won't be unless Kentuckians commit themselves to sticking with them and making them reach the classrooms. We intend to be positive and supportive of all those who are trying to make Kentucky education the very best it can be, something in which we can take great pride."

Coal company helps community relations

by Rosalind Stanley
Pikeville Bureau Chief
Williamson Daily News

The Sidney Coal Company is going out of its way to be a good corporate citizen in this small community and is putting its money where its intentions are.

The company is the business partner of the schools in the Belfrey area and has spent about $105,000 placing Writing-to-Read labs in elementary "feeder" schools to Belfry High. The company has also purchased a second computer lab for the high school.

Sidney coal president Charles Snavely said all the A.T. Massey subsidiaries are "taking a proactive approach to our relationship to the community." He said, "We are part of the community."

Snavely said if improvements are to come in any community, the businesses of that community must participate. "Sidney is a rural community" with not many large businesses able to support community needs. "We're just about the only one," Snavely said. The company began a program, in cooperation with Pike County schools to place the Writing-to-read program in Runyon, Blackberry, Varney, Bevins, Turkey Creek and South Williamson schools.

Belfry High School had already purchased one computer lab, but with so many students, the school needed another. Sidney Coal provided the money to purchase that second lab. Now the school, "really has a nice system," Snavely said.

Soon, Sidney Coal plans to initiate a program challenging other companies in the area to help the schools. The program, Snavely said, would allow Sidney coal to match funds donated by other companies.

"We, in effect, consider ourselves to be business partners with Bevins Elementary and Belfry High," Snavely said.

Snavely said the partnership is one of mutual benefit. For example, if the company wanted to initiate a GED program, the schools would be there to help. "The focus of the school/business partnership is not really financial," Snavely said. "The focus is accomplishments...meeting goals." It just so happened that the program the company has undertaken for the schools "takes quite a lot of money."

Officials with the schools were full of praise for Snavely and Sidney Coal. According to Belfry principal Frank Welch, Snavely "has been real active. He's very interested in his company and beginning a part of the community."

Snavely is "not only talking, but is putting his money where his talk is," Welch said. And, the company president is "always willing to listen and tell us how much he can help. I think he wants to do all he can."

Welch said of Snavely, "His getting involved could serve as a catalyst to get a few others involved."

The Belfry principal said, "Pike County has been a pace setter. Charles Snavely and Sidney Coal serve as a model for any company." Welch said Snavely was the recipient of the school's first "Excellence in Education" award, an award that school officials hope to make an annual one.

superintendent of Pike County Schools, Larry Burke, praised Sidney Coal and others involved in partnerships with the schools. "The beautiful part is they are investing in the future of our county," Burke said. The companies became involved in helping the schools, Burke said, even before the Education Reform Act went into effect, Burke said. "We've got people out there who are a part of the community," he said.

Snavely is originally from Prestonsburg and lived in Martin County for eight years before moving to Forest Hills. He has been president of Sidney Coal for two and a half years. He and his wife, Shari Thacker Snavely, have a son, Christopher, 7, a student at Varney Elementary, and a daughter, Katie, 2.

Sidney Coal has 60 "company employees" and its contractors employ about 250 people, Snavely said. The company has two operations on Big Creek and operations on Turkey creek and Pond Creek.

As an A.T. Massey owned company, Sidney Coal has formally been the scene of a violent labor dispute between Massey and the United Mine Workers of America.

But, Snavely said, Sidney Coal, has not undertaken community projects to improve the image of the company in the area. "I wouldn't do a project like this just to improve our image," the company president said. "I am not sure that it makes a lot of difference," he added, "I like to think people appreciate our concern; it is a sincere concern."

Snavely said, "The people in this community have done a lot for us, we're just returning the favor. We're here to stay and as long as we stay in business, we're going to be a part of the community and a supporter of the community."

Highlands opens healthcare video library

Highlands Regional Medical Center has initiated a new community service project—a healthcare video library.

The video library is located in the Floyd County Public Library. The project originated when HRMC family practitioner Alan J. Hyden, M.D., expressed his desire to see diabetes education material made available to patients and the general public outside a hospital setting.

Dr. Hyden explained, "Patient education is the cornerstone for treatment. As doctors, we can monitor a patient's blood sugar and overall condition in our offices but the main course of treatment is basically provided by the patient in the form of proper diet, weight control, and administration of medication either in the form of a tablet or insulin. We have found at Highlands that when we have a patient in the hospital this is an ideal time to start diabetic education. With the incidence of diabetes in Eastern Kentucky surpassing the national averages, we recognize the need to extend diabetic education on an outpatient basis with access to video material covering all aspects of diabetes."

Project coordinator, Dena Patton RN Nurse Case Manager in the medical offices at Highlands, explained that pharmaceutical companies such as Eli Lilly and Upjohn have donated videos for this purpose and other companies have expressed similar interest in the project. To date 11 videos have been placed in the "health care video library" at the Floyd County Public Library. Their number will be added monthly. Some of the video topics include: Diabetes, Cardiac Catheterization, Heart Disease, Parkinsons Disease, and Arthritis.

Homer Hall, Director of the Floyd County Public Library stated, "We are more than glad to work with the hospital in providing information of this sort to the public. The library could not afford to purchase videos on special needs in healthcare, and our aim is to provide as much information as possible. This healthcare library complements our other library services, and we feel it will be most useful to the public."

Healthcare library

Homer Hall, director of the Floyd County Public Library accepts the first videos for Highlands' new healthcare video library from HRMC's Dena Patton, R.N., project coordinator.

Don't be blind to the facts Glaucoma discriminates

Glaucoma does discriminate: persons over 60 years old are 3 to 4 times more likely to develop glaucoma; African-Americans are 4 to 5 times more likely to develop glaucoma and six times more likely to go blind from it.

Glaucoma is a progressive eye disease which can cause irreversible blindness. If diagnosed early it can be treated and controlled. Regular eye examinations are vital to avoid permanent vision loss from glaucoma. Glaucoma High Risk Alert is a three-year program priority of KSPB—with the primary goal of encouraging persons at high risk to get periodic eye exams. This is a cooperative effort of KSPB and Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky.

Those most at risk, besides blacks and the elderly, include diabetics and those with a family history of glaucoma. The Society urges people over 35 to have a glaucoma test every two years, especially if they fit into more than one risk category.

As part of National Glaucoma Awareness Week, screening and education programs will be held January 27 in Pikeville at the Methodist Hospital at 12:00 noon through 2:30 p.m.

A Look At Sports
by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

PEOPLE LOVE TO SEE WEST COAST TEAMS LOSE

"Who do you want to see win the World Series?"
"Anyone but the Oakland A's."
"What about the Super Bowl?"
"Anyone but the 49ers."
So goes the dislike for West Coast teams in any championship battle. It just seems that sports fans love to hate teams on the coast, especially if they are located in or near San Francisco. The arrogance of the players that play for the West Coast teams in and around the Frisco area does not set too well with East Coast fans.

So, this year the fans get the edge because the 49ers are not going to the Super Bowl. The 49ers will not have a chance to win their third straight Super Bowl. The Giants felled the mighty 49ers 15-13 on a last second field goal by Matt Bahr, a Cleveland Brown cast off.

GIRLS CLASS A REGIONAL UNDERWAY

The Kentucky Class A Girls Regional got underway last evening with Wheelwright facing Johns Creek in the second game. The tournament is a first this year as the women's program joins in the Kentucky Class A Classic that will conclude at Memorial Coliseum in early February.

The men's teams will get started at Pikeville Monday night. McDowell and Wheelwright will be involved from our county.

We wish each team the best as they take the court on their respective nights.

COLLEGE ATHLETES ARE SETTING WRONG EXAMPLES

Reported Monday. Southern Cal's Todd Marinovich, one of the nation's top quarterbacks, is arrested for possession of cocaine.

Reported Tuesday. Former Louisville basketball standout Tony Kimbro is arrested and charged with first degree assault in the shooting of a former girlfriend.

On and on it goes in the world of sports. Not just on the college level but also on the professional level. Drug possession, shootings, stealing and rape charges. That has been the way it has stacked up lately against sports personalities in the news.

What kind of an example do these people think they are setting for our youth today. I guess the question should be—do they really care what kind of example they set?

The Marinovich's, Kimbro's and Johnson's have had the opportunity to be an example for the young people who look up to them. An example of honesty and dignity. It is no wonder the youth of America are failing. The college and pro stars have failed to set the proper example.

BASEBALL TO OPEN APRIL 8 AT RIVERFRONT

The Cincinnati Reds will get the 1991 baseball season off with an opening game against the Houston Astros on April 8. It will be interesting to see how the big time success will affect some of the Reds players. The star status and large amounts of money. Will they be the players of last season that saw a new manager come in and change some things to make them champions? Or will they want to "do it their way, now?"

Jose Rijo has already taken his Most Valuable Status and demanded a longer and larger contract. Will it affect the other players as well? Randy Myers has agreed to terms with the Reds. I would like to see Cincinnati sign Ron Oester to a contract.

I look for the Reds to finish fourth in the National League West race with the Dodgers, Braves and Padres finishing ahead of them. If the Giants are better than last season, then it could be the basement for the Reds. It will be hard to get off to an 9-0 start this season and play like gangbusters the first two months of the season. How well the new World Champions will perform is unknown. We'll just have to wait and see.

COACH MARTIN TO BOTTLE FORMULA IF HE COULD FIND OUT WHAT IT WAS

Allen Central coach Johnny Martin would bottle whatever it was that made the difference in the way the Rebels performed over the past weekend.

KY Class A Boys Regional Gets Underway At Pikeville, Jan 28-Feb 2

Two Floyd County High School basketball teams will be among 10 teams that will play in the Second Annual 15th Regional Class A tournament to be held at Pikeville January 28 through February 2.

In the opening session of the tournament, Mullins will face always tough Paintsville of coach Bill Mike Runyon. The game will start at 7 p.m. Monday. Paintsville has been a surprise in the 15th Region this year, led by Todd Porter and Chris Lyons. Mullins has been in a rebuilding year and Coy Scarlet has been the big gun for the Tigers.

In the second game Monday evening, Millard will face the Feds Creek Vikings. Game time is approximately 8:45 p.m. Millard, 12-5 on the season, is a veteran team intermingled with some pretty talented youth. One of those young players is James Damron, a 5-11 sophomore. Feds Creek, Thompson-less, is supported by Shannon Keene and Rodney Fuller. The Vikings are a quick team and a high scoring squad.

Tournament action will continue on Tuesday night, January 29. In the opening session Phelps will face coach Randy McCoy's Elkhorn City Cougars. Game time for this one is 7 p.m. Elkhorn City is led by a number of players, but looks to the experience of Tyler Bailiff, a 6-5 senior. Freshman sensation Todd Conley will be in the shadows to lend some very needed support. Phelps, although a young team, will return starters Danny Francis and Mike Wallace from last year's squad. Lack of size could be a problem against the taller Cougars.

The evening's second contest will pit the Wheelwright Trojans against tournament favorite Pikeville. This one will get underway around 8:45 p.m. Wheelwright is stilling looking to right itself and trying and measure up to preseason expectations. While the Trojans have looked better of late

(a one point loss to Elkhorn City in overtime) question marks still remain concerning their consistency. Harold Johnson has been the big point producer for Coach Monroe Jones' team. Paul Hall and Layne Bailey have the ability but have been lost in the ranks lately. Pikeville has a very deep squad. Lee Jones, Chris Smith, Murray Garvin, Ben Powell and Todd Smith help make up a very talented basketball team that likes to run the court. Jess Baird is the "bombadier" from outside with Jones also able to score from the three-point line.

The tournament resumes on Wednesday with McDowell facing the winner of the Millard/Paintsville game. McDowell (8-8) has been one of those teams that plays hard but just can't come up with the big play at the end. The Daredevils had Shelby Valley and Sheldon Clark on the ropes in back to back games only to let them wriggle off. The inability to hold a big lead has been a problem for the Daredevils. However, Coach Johnny Ray Turner's team has shown they also have to be considered a darkhorse in the classic. Stacy Hall and Doug Hopkins will be the main players in this "show" for McDowell although the Daredevils have a good

Clark's 20 Points Lead Blackcats Past Allen Central In Conference Win, 58-51

The Prestonsburg Blackcats "rained" treys down on the Allen Central Rebels and posted a 58-51 win over the Rebels. The win was the second of the season for Prestonsburg over Allen Central. Both were conference wins, the only two for Prestonsburg.

Out of the 20 field goals the Blackcats registered, eight were from three-point range. In fact, the first three field goals for the Blackcats were treys.

However, Prestonsburg had to shore up its defense and hold off a charging Rebel team in the fourth quarter. Trailing 46-36 in the fourth period, the Rebels outscored Prestonsburg 12-5 to close to within three points, 51-48. Prestonsburg took a 10 point advantage on a three pointer by Jason Crisp, his second of the game.

Mike Allen, who has really improved for Allen Central, tipped in a missed shot and was fouled on the play. Allen missed the free throw, Stewart Hall grabbed the rebound and was fouled on the shot. Hall connected on both charity tosses to cut the lead to 46-40. Aaron Tucker hit a basket for the Blackcats. Hall hit two more free throws for a 48-42 game. Crisp hit from three-point range and sent Prestonsburg back out front by nine points.

Allen Central ran off six unanswered points to close the lead to 51-48 as Prestonsburg experienced some trouble handling the basketball. The Blackcats called time out and, when play resumed, Joe Whitt was called for carrying the basketball. Allen Central took possession and, on the ensuing play, Rebel center Mike Allen was injured and had to leave the game.

Chris Burke scored for Prestonsburg following a Rebel turnover that put the Blackcats on top by five points. Ronnie Sammons, who seemed to have disappeared in the first half, connected on a jumper to make it 53-50. Stewart Hall picked up his fifth personal foul and retired to the pines with 32 seconds to go. John Clark connected on the front end of the two shot foul. Chuck Laferty scored his only point, the back end of a two shot foul to pull the Rebels back to within three, 54-51.

Clark put the game away for the Blackcats with two charity tosses and a break away layup.

In the first quarter, Allen Central coach Johnny Martin became so disenchanted with his starters that he made a wholesale substitution, sending in a whole new five with less than a minute to go. The Rebels had only scored four points up to that point. A basket by Stewart Hall and a basket by Allen. The Rebels began forcing their shots as they showed some impatience in their shot selection.

Prestonsburg jumped out front early on a three-pointer by Clark. Stewart Hall made it 3-2 before freshman Cory Reitz connected from 19' 9" out. After a basket by Allen, the Blackcats ran off seven straight points. Aaron Tucker hit a trey, the third in a row for Prestonsburg, Burke had two back to back field goals as Prestonsburg rolled out to a 16-6 first quarter lead on a three-pointer by Clark.

Prestonsburg took a double digit lead, 25-13, late in the second period and they went to the lockerroom with a 31-19 lead. In the quarter the Blackcats hit seven of eight free throws. Allen Central got a three point play

Moore, Gibson Lead Lady Rebels Past Prestonsburg, 60-53

It was Floyd County girls basketball at its best Friday night at Allen Central High School as the county's two top teams met for the first time in conference battle. The game, billed as a top game, was just that. Allen Central scored a hard fought come-from-behind 60-53 victory over the Lady Blackcats behind the scoring of Stacy "Mini" Moore and Teresa Gibson, to go 3-0 in the conference and tighten their hold on the top spot. Moore led the Lady Rebels in scoring with 14 points and Gibson added 13. Gibson had three three-pointers in the contest.

Coach Bonita Compton's Lady Rebs scored the first six points of the fourth quarter to erase a 42-39 Prestonsburg lead and assumed the lead at 45-42. Stacy Moore gave Allen Central a one point lead when she completed a three point play. Darnella Bradley stole an inbounds pass and laid it in for a 45-42 advantage.

Prestonsburg came right back, behind the scoring of Kathy Slone, to take a 46-45 lead with six minutes remaining. Slone scored two baskets, one on an offensive rebound.

Allen Central went back on top 49-46 on baskets by "Mini" Moore and Gibson. With 4:15 to go, the Lady Blackcats tied the score at 49-49 on a free throw by Slone and a basket by Stephanie Music. Melissa Bailey blocked two Allen Central shots as they drove the lanes on the 6' 2" center. The Lady Rebels took a four point lead with less than three minutes remaining. Stacy Moore hit a basket and Jenny Wiley grabbed a rebound and stuck it back in for a 53-49 game.

Prestonsburg missed a chance to tie the game when Bailey missed four straight free throws. Two free throws by Slone cut the lead to 53-51 before Pam Webb hit a jumper off the left base line to send Allen Central back out by four, 55-51. Three free throws — one by "Mini" Moore and two by Webb gave the Lady Rebs their biggest lead, 58-51. Edwina Hale hit a bucket for Prestonsburg and Gibson's two free throws closed out the scoring in the game.

Ironically, both teams being good three-point shooters, neither could not hit the trey until the second half. With the score tied 23-23 at the half, Prestonsburg hit two three-pointers in the opening minute of the third quarter to take a 30-27 lead. Slone's free throw gave the Lady Cats a 24-23 lead and, after "Mini" Moore's bucket, Amy Reed hit a trey to give Prestonsburg a 27-25 lead. After Webb tied the game, Carolyn Reffitt connected from 20 feet out for three points. Reed's free throw made it 31-27 Prestonsburg.

Gibson hit her first three pointer to bring Allen Central back to within one point, 31-30. After two Lady Reb turnovers, Slone hit a layup to give Prestonsburg a 33-30 lead. Three free throws tied the game for Allen Central.

Down by four, 37-33, Gibson hit a trey for Allen Central. Bailey and Slone scored back-to-back baskets to give Prestonsburg a five point lead, 41-36. Gibson then connected on her third three-pointer of the quarter for a two point game, 41-39. Slone converted a free throw before the horn sounded and Prestonsburg went into the fourth quarter on top 42-39.

Prestonsburg led at the end of the first quarter 13-12. The Lady Black-

Knott County Central Edges Betsy Layne Frosh, 45-42

The Knott County Central freshman basketball team handed the Betsy Layne freshman team a 45-42 loss at Betsy Layne. The loss was only the second of the season for the talented Betsy Layne squad. Both losses have come at home. The younger Bobcats are undefeated on the road.

Knott County trailed 42-41 as Keith Hamilton connected on a short jumper with 1:41 to give Betsy Layne the lead. Brian Sumner's free throw tied the game 42-42 with 1:02 remaining.

Freddy Williams hit a layup with 43 seconds remaining to give Knott County the lead for good at 44-42. Betsy Layne had a chance to tie the game with two free throws with eight seconds to go in the contest. Both charity tosses were missed. Aaron Watts added the final point for Knott County with a free throw. Betsy Layne's desperation shot missed at the buzzer.

The score was tied six times in the game and the lead exchanged hands 10 times.

Betsy Layne's biggest lead was at 20-9 which came in the second quarter after running off 14 consecutive points. Jason Newsome had a pair of layups and Hamilton had a rebound basket. Chris Potter hit a layup as did Newsome. Brian Hunter and Mike Newman each hit jumpers to give the Bobcats the lead.

Knott County Central caught up at 24-all, outscoring the Bobcats 15-4 with 3:28 to go in the third quarter. Michael Thornsberry's layup tied the game at 24-24. The game remained close, no more than four points, before the Patriots' game winning rally.

Knott County hit nine of 13 from the free throw line while Betsy Layne shot six of 15. The difference came at the free throw line. Central had 12 field goals with four three-pointers. Betsy Layne finished with 18 field goals.

Watts led Knott County with 18 points. Sumner finished with 11 and Williams had eight. Williams had two three-pointers in the game while Sumner hit one.

Newsome led Betsy Layne with 14 points. Brian Hunter added eight points and Barry Clark tossed in six. Damian Stepp also totaled six points. Betsy Layne will host Pikeville tomorrow night (Thursday).

McDowell Scores 77-71 Triumph Over Millard

McDowell's Daredevils hosted the Millard Mustangs in high school basketball play Friday night and went home with a 77-71 victory over the Mustangs.

This is the first meeting of the year for the two teams. Millard is a highly regarded power in the 15th Region.

The two teams played to a 34-34 halftime tie after Millard held a 18-16 first quarter lead. McDowell outscored Millard 18-16 in the second quarter to tie the game.

Barry Hall of McDowell had perhaps his career's best game to help the Daredevils stay close to the Mustangs. Hall, a junior, seems to be improving with each game for the Daredevils.

McDowell got some balanced scoring from their starters plus a good outing from junior Dale Hinkle off the bench. Earl Cook also came off the pines to supply the Daredevils with some quality minutes.

The win was the second consecutive for the Daredevils (8-8). They had previously lost three straight.

Stacy Hall led the winners with 21 points followed by Barry Hall's 20 points. Junior point guard Doug Hopkins kept up his point production with 14 points. Center Matt Johnson tossed in nine points and Hinkle scored eight.

For the Mustangs (12-5) James Damron, just a sophomore, scored 22 points to lead Millard. Senior Kenny Williams had 15 points and Mike Robinson added 12.

McDowell, 4-0 in the Floyd County Conference, will host Allen

Central Friday night as they go for their fifth victory in the race.

Locker-Room Interviews?

New Jersey state Sen. John F. Russo has proposed legislation to require a 30-minute grace period before post-game locker-room interviews.

YES

Should post-game interviews with athletes be held in the locker rooms?

Yes. My legislation in New Jersey provides that post-game interviews may be held in locker rooms after 30 minutes elapse from the conclusion of the athletic contest. It is in no way intended to impede access to athletes by the media. There is nothing sacrosanct in my mind about 30 minutes. It could be whatever is deemed a reasonable amount of time for members of a team to change, shower and get dressed.

What has been the impact of recent locker-room incidents?

The impact has been a heightened awareness and sensitivity to the responsibilities of athletes and members of the media to each other. The public interest in following sports and the reactions of athletes to winning and losing is an integral part of the American scene. I believe both the media and a majority of athletes have learned a lot about their relationships with each other. The issue is more one of taking steps to provide an atmosphere of decorum, while maintaining the needed access to players by the media.

What are alternatives to locker-room interviews?

The most talked-about alternative has been the so-called "interview" room. I personally oppose that idea because it creates an atmosphere where it would be all too easy for players to avoid the media. I also do not believe it would be practical for members of the media who are faced with deadlines. My legislation is, in itself, an alternative to the current practice of immediate post-game interviews. My intent was to generate a public discussion of the issue resulting in an improved atmosphere for communicating between members of the media and athletes. lj

NO

Should post-game interviews with athletes be held in the locker rooms?

No. The locker room should be as sacred to the athlete as the pressroom is to the reporter.

Perhaps the most significant question involving college athletes and interviews is whether male reporters should be allowed in the locker rooms of female athletes.

I suggest that such a situation is as inappropriate as female reporters in men's locker rooms. Sound moral judgment should take precedence over deadlines.

What has been the impact of recent locker-room incidents?

The impact of recent incidents involving female reporters is justification for a system which prohibits reporters, male or female, from conducting interviews in locker rooms.

Times have changed, as has the role of women reporters. We should be praising women reporters for their accomplishments, not admonishing them for their gender.

What are alternatives to locker-room interviews?

We are a prudent society. A situation such as finding alternatives to locker-room interviews should be an easy task.

Designated times and locations for interviews seem like amicable solutions to the problem. Again, we should be cheering the progress women have made and not debating limiting that progress.

NEW BOOK IS A "MUST HAVE" FOR BASS ANGLERS

If you are like me, January is a month of preparation for the rapidly approaching fishing season. Tackle boxes are organized, hooks are honed, lures are sorted, new line is spooled and the boat is given a thorough cleaning. This annual event not only assures me that my tackle is ready to go, but also serves to motivate me to become a better angler. Then, when all is ready for the water, I begin pouring through old copies of BASSMASTER magazine and the many angling books that line my shelves in an effort to learn new techniques and improve upon those that I already use extensively.

Recently, I discovered a new book that will undoubtedly improve my bass fishing by leaps and bounds. Entitled "Secrets of America's Best Bass Pros", the book is written by Tim Tucker, a Senior Writer for BASSMASTER magazine and one of the most knowledgeable bass fishing writers on the continent. Through 41 chapters and 255 pages, Tucker details the tactics and techniques utilized by the most successful bass anglers in America. Too, many of the pros' true secrets are revealed here for the first time.

"Secrets of America's Best Bass Pros" is divided into three sections. The first, titled "Tools of the Trade", devotes 21 chapters to specific lures. From plastic worms to jigs, spinnerbaits to spoons, Tucker tells how the pros use these tools on a daily basis and also provides little known tricks often incorporated by America's finest bass anglers.

Section two deals with specific techniques and general tips. From modifying lures to stalking visible bass, light line techniques to desperation tactics, every bass fisherman will appreciate the information Tim Tucker has gleaned from anglers such as Roland Martin, Rick Clunn, Bill Dance, Guido Hibdon, Jimmy Houston, Hank Parker and Larry Nixon (just to name a few!).

The book's third section discusses patterns and conditions. Having trouble fishing muddy water? Do suspended bass make you want to take up golf? You will find the solutions to these problems, plus many more, in Tucker's book.

Today's tournament professionals have taken bass fishing to an art form, the result of confronting every fishing situation imaginable on lakes, reservoirs and rivers throughout the country. "The tournament pros are a wealth of information and, unlike the biggest names in other sports, they are more than willing to share their secrets and productive techniques," says Tim Tucker, "so that you and I can catch more bass and better enjoy the sport of bass fishing. That's what this book is all about."

If you are at all interested in becoming a better bass angler, I highly recommend Tim Tucker's "Secrets of America's Best Bass Pros". At $10.95, the book will make a valuable addition to any angler's library. To order your copy, send check or money in the amount of $12.95 ($10.95 plus $2 postage and handling) to Time Tucker Outdoor Productions Corp, Rt. 2, Box 177, Miccanopy, Florida 32667. You can also order the book with your Visa or MasterCard by calling (904) 466-0808.

Betsy Layne Eases Past Mullins As King Tosses In 25 Points

The Betsy Layne Bobcats scored 30 points in the first quarter enroute to a 82-53 win over host Mullins High School Friday night in high school basketball action. Phillip King tossed in 25 points for the winners. However, game scoring honors went to Mullins Coy Scarlet who scorched the nets for 32 of his team's 53 points. Scarlet had 13 field goals and was five of seven from the free throw line.

Betsy Layne improved to 11-6 overall on the season while Mullins fell to 2-13. Mullins is a young team and in a rebuilding year.

Betsy Layne scored the first six points of the game. King got the Bobcats started with one of his patented layups. Adam Gearheart followed with a layup of his own. Chris Newsome capped the run with a short jumper and a 6-0 lead.

Mullins got to within four points, 16-12, on two free throws by Scarlet. Betsy Layne then ran off five unanswered points for a 21-12 game. King scored on a three point play off of a layup with 3:10 and Newsome's layup with 2:32 to go gave the Bobcats an insurmountable lead. Mullins could get no closer than seven points the rest of the way. Betsy Layne led at the half, 50-29.

Betsy Layne's quickness and outside shooting proved too much for the young Tiger team. Scarlet is some player to watch and, with some added depth, the Tigers could be a surprise.

Betsy Layne hit 10 of 13 free throws while Mullins was six of nine.

Newsome finished with 21 points for Betsy Layne in a good outing. Gearheart added 12 points. Jody Coleman had a good game coming off the bench scoring 10 points for Junior Newsome's team. Point guard Keith Hall netted eight points. King pulled down 16 rebounds for the Bobcats. Newsome had six assists in the game to go with his 21 points. Hall had five steals and an equal amount of assists. Bradley Akers played an excellent defensive game for Betsy Layne and had two blocked shots. Coleman came up with three thefts and one blocked shot.

For Mullins, besides Scarlet's 32,

Chuck Lowe added eight points.

In junior varsity action, Betsy Layne (4-3) defeated the junior Tigers (4-4) 52-20. Jason Newsome scored 14 points to lead the Betsy Layne team. Jonathan Tackett added 12 points. Sonny Jackson netted eight and Jason Akers chipped in with seven. Chad White led Mullins with 11 points.

NFL GOES OUT OF BOUNDS

National Football League Commissioner Paul Tagliabue showed unbelievably poor judgment recently when he involved the NFL in Arizona state politics. In trying to score some points for the NFL Tagliabue went out of bounds.

Days before Arizonans were to vote on creating a state holiday honoring Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Tagliabue announced he would recommend the 1993 Super Bowl not be played in Phoenix unless the holiday was approved. Hosting a Super Bowl is a big honor and a big money maker. Suddenly, it looked as though the NFL was trying to force the hand of the state's voters. It seemed the league was challenging Arizonans not to vote for the holiday.

It was the wrong call. Arizonans responded by showing that they would not be pushed into a vote and defeated the holiday proposal. I truly believe that in making the announcement just prior to the election, the NFL caused a backlash that hurt the chances of passing the King holiday.

Threatening Arizona's voters was one of the very few things Tagliabue hasn't done right since replacing Pete Rozelle as commissioner. I think he's doing a great job, especially in trying to get more minority involvement in management. But the NFL should have waited until after the election to make any such announcement. After all, the league was not setting a bold precedent. That was done last year when the National Basketball Association pulled its All-Star game out of Phoenix because of the lack of a King holiday. In the present situation, both the NFL and Arizona ended up looking bad.

There were other repercussions. Several colleges under consideration for spots in the Fiesta Bowl, held in Tempe, Ariz., announced that they would not come if invited. I understand their decisions. But I also understand the decision of the University of Louisville. It has decided to play in the Fiesta — its first bowl game in years — with team members wearing patches on their jerseys commemorating Dr. King. The bowl appearance will really help improve Louisville's program in the years to come.

The whole thing is such a shame because Arizona is getting a reputation as a "racist" state, which it is not. I know — I personally own a successful business in Phoenix. It would not be a success if the cards were stacked against minorities.

Arizona will look bad, I think, until it gets in step with the 47 other states that already honor Dr. King with a holiday. I hope it happens soon. That issue, however, remains up to Arizonans and not the NFL.

"We needed some points from someone and Moore (Mini) came through," said Coach Compton. "Teresa (Gibson) was playing hurt and shouldn't have been out there."

For Allen Central, Webb finished with 11 points and Stacy Moore added nine.

Prestonsburg was led by Slone's 16 points. Amy Reed and Missy Bailey tossed in eight each. Refitt finished with six points. Prestonsburg hit only 17 of 38 free throw attempts. Allen Central connected on 15 of 22.

FOLLOW THESE SIMPLE RULES WHEN FISHING POINTS

Bass—and bass fishermen—are attracted to lake and river points like bees to honey.

The only problem for bass fishermen is catching those bass, even though points appear to quite easy structure to fish.

"I think there are two secrets to fishing points," says popular Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff member Guy Eaker of Cherryville, NC. "The first is covering the point thoroughly with proper casting, and the second is making sure those casts are moving the same direction as the current."

Eaker prefers a technique known as fan-casting, in which he sends each cast out at a slightly different angle so he systematically covers a fan-shaped section of water in front of him.

"I always get on the side of the of the point, not on top of it," he emphasizes. "I begin fishing the shallow end of the point nearest the shore first, covering water from five to about eight feet. Then I move down the side of the point into slightly deeper water and fan-cast the 10 to 15 foot depth range."

"You never get on the point itself for fear of spooking any bass that might be there on top."

The second important part of the Evinrude pro's technique involves the direction of his casts. He always fishes so his retrieves bring the lure back in the same direction water is moving.

"Always get on the downstream side," Eaker emphasizes, "because bass will be facing into the current to watch for baitfish or other food being washed toward them."

"Even the wind can cause current," he adds, "and position fish differently than you might otherwise expect."

The currents created by water drawn through power dams will have a definite positioning effect on bass, says the well-known pro, and can cause fish to move within minutes after the current begins. On his depth-finder, Eaker has watched bass relocate from deep channels to the sides of points in mid-afternoon when water started being pulled through a dam.

"I once fished a brushy, stumpy shoreline with a spinnerbait and never had a strike," Eaker remembers. "Then on one cast, I noticed the lure was being washed to one side by current from a dam. I turned around and fished that same bank the opposite direction and caught 18 pounds of bass."

"On my first pass down the bank, I had been fishing behind the bass and they never turned around to get the lure."

When he's fishing points Eaker often chooses a crankbait, and changes models as he works from shallow water into deeper. Once he locates bass, he may switch to a jig or plastic worm if he thinks it will be more productive.

Crankbaits are among the best fishing lures you can use," he says, "because you can cover a lot of water very quickly with them. Bass like them, too, and if there are fish around, you can usually tempt at least one with a crankbait."

BASS MOVEMENTS CAN STRAND ANGLERS

Sometimes bass anglers can get stranded, even though they still have plenty of water under the boat. It happens when the school of bass they've been fishing moves.

Changing weather conditions appear to be the most common cause for making bass change addresses, but rising or falling water levels will also move fish.

"I have seen bass move between 200 and 300 yards overnight," explains Eaker. "It's hard to imagine a school of fish moving that far that quickly, but I've seen it happen several times."

One of the most dramatic movements Eaker remembers occurred during a national bass tournament on Georgia's Lake Lanier several years ago. During practice he'd been fishing the upper Chattahoochee River, catching a lot of bass in shallow pockets along the river.

Then the weather changed abruptly from clear, balmy skies to rain and plunging temperatures. When Eaker went back to the river pockets he never caught another fish.

"Remember fishing for about two hours without a strike," the Evinrude pro explains, "and that told me the bass were gone."

"I turned the boat around and gradually worked my way out to deeper river channel points, and I finally found the bass again. They were more than 200 yards from those pockets."

Sudden cold fronts tend to move shallow bass deeper, says Eaker. Generally that movement will take the fish to the first breakline or heavy cover in deeper water.

"If you've been catching bass in a shallow to deeper ditch, river channel, hump, or deep point, because that's usually where the bass will be."

When bass change locations into deeper water, it generally means anglers must also change fishing techniques. Eaker recommends switching to a heavier 5/8 or 3/4 ounce spinnerbait and slow-rolling it near the bottom and over any channel drops or ditches.

"You may have to fish 15 or 18 feet deep" he says, "but you can still catch those bass. The two main things to remember are that they will be deeper and they will want a lure moving more slowly."

While sudden cold often moves bass deep, several days of warm, spring-like weather during the winter may move bass shallow.

"The key is finding baitfish," explains Eaker. "They'll move shallow first when the water begins warming, and the bass will follow them.

"I look for them in the creeks where the water usually warms faster than in the open lake. Watch your temperature gauge, because some creeks may be three or four degrees warmer than others, and this is where the fish will be most active."

Pikeville Nips Rebels In Overtime, 73-72, But Not Without A Battle

Shades of Sheldon Clark! That seems to be the tale of the game the Allen Central Rebels had with powerful Pikeville Saturday night at Allen Central.

The Rebels fell to the highly regarded Panther team 73-72. But it took an overtime before the Rebels fell. Things looked a lot worse long before Allen Central rallied to tie the game on a bank shot by Chuck Laferty, who found himself on the bench at the start of the contest. However, it was Laferty, along with Ronnie Sammons, who led the Rebel charge late in the fourth quarter. It was Laferty who hit a jumper to give the Rebels a short lived 72-71 lead in OT, Allen Central made what many considered an amazing comeback in the last 27 seconds of regulation play.

The Rebels, trailing 67-60 with only 27 seconds showing on the clock, outscored the visiting Panthers 8-1 to tie the game at 68-68.

Laferty's basket with 58 seconds to go made it 65-60. Ben Powell followed with a base line jumper for the 67-60 score. Sammons connected on two free throws at the 27 second mark to make it 67-62. On the inbounds pass by Pikeville, Todd Lucas stole the ball and passed to Sammons who laid it in and it was 67-64. Sammons was fouled on the shot. He missed the free throw, but Tony Soler grabbed the rebound and hit Sammons with a pass underneath for a basket. Pikeville held a one point lead 67-66. The scoring took only four seconds off the clock.

Pikeville called time out with 23 ticks remaining. With 10 seconds to go, Pikeville's Chris Smith was fouled. Smith connected on the front of the two shot foul but misfired on the second with Soler grabbing the rebound. Soler fired the ball to Laferty who kicked a shot off the glass with two seconds to go to tie the game at 68-68.

Pikeville grabbed the tip to start the overtime and immediately Todd Smith was fouled. Smith missed both ends of the charity tosses. Allen Central turned the ball over and Jess Baird hit a three-pointer to give the Panthers a 71-68 lead. Laferty hit a jumper and, after Lucas stole the ball and hit Laferty with a pass, the big junior hit again to give Allen Central their first lead since early in the first quarter at 72-71. Todd Smith broke free on the baseline and hit a jumper to give the Panthers the lead for good at 73-72.

Allen Central had several chances to win the game in overtime as they paraded the Panthers to the charity stripe in the final 38 seconds. Baird went to the line and missed two free throws, but the Rebels could not capitalize. On the miss by Baird, Sammons grabbed the rebound and brought the ball up court and passed into Laferty, who had the hot hand. Laferty missed underneath, grabbed his own rebound and looked as if he was fouled on the play but no whistle was sounded.

Lee Jones pulled down the rebound and was fouled by Soler with two seconds remaining. Jones missed both tosses and Allen Central called time out with no time going off the clock. The Rebels had to take the ball the length of the court and Lucas's mid court shot was short as the horn sounded.

The comeback for the Rebels, even though they lost, was somewhat of a moral victory in that they trailed by 14 points midway through the third period, 46-32. A late spurt by the Rebels cut the lead to 53-45 at the end of the frame.

A three-pointer by freshman Jeremy Clark cut it to five and Lucas hit a trey to make it a two point game, 53-51. Pikeville moved back out by five, 56-51, on a three-point play the old fashioned way by Chris Smith. Laferty's free throw and jumper made it 56-54. Pikeville extended the lead to 65-58 with less than a minute to go when the Rebels started their comeback.

The score was tied 18-18 at the end of the first quarter and Allen Central trailed Pikeville 36-28 at the half.

Lucas, who had five treys in the game, hit three in the first period in scoring 17 points to lead the Rebels. Laferty added 14 points while Sammons and Soler tossed in 10 each. Stewart Hall netted nine points.

Ben Powell had 19 points to lead Pikeville in scoring. Powell had several offensive rebounds. Baird finished with 17 points which included five three-pointers. Lee Jones scored 12 points.

The Rebels were playing without center Mike Allen who suffered an injury in the Prestonsburg game.

Allen Central falls to 10-9 on the season and Pikeville goes to 13-4. After a token effort against Prestonsburg, the Rebels displayed their ability to play with anyone in the region. Soler had an excellent outing on the boards — both offensive and defensive. The Rebel defense was very good against the strong Panthers.

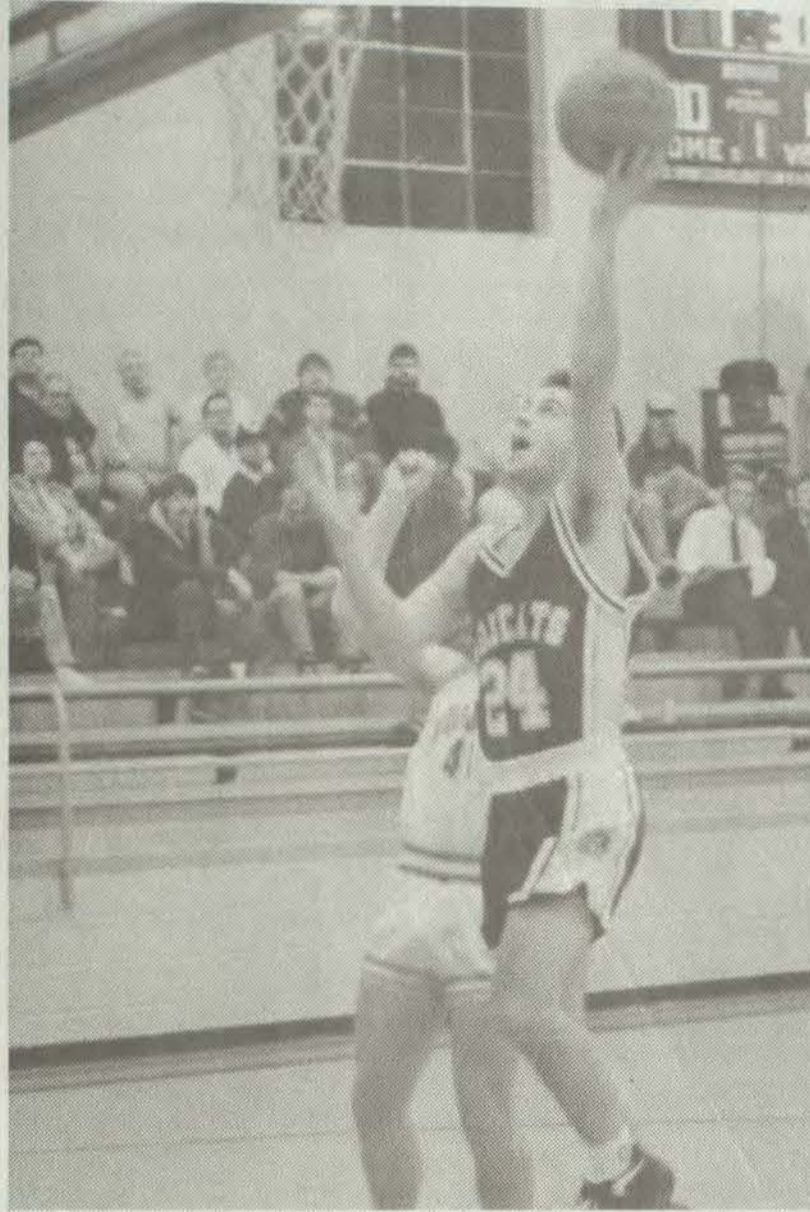

Allen Central will travel to conference leading McDowell Friday night looking for their first conference victory.

Kentucky All "A" Classic Kicks Off Feb. 6-9

Good Board Work!

Kentucky All A Classic Basketball tournament officials and Lexington Mayor Scotty Baesler recently announced the commitment of Ashland Oil Inc. as the major sponsor of the tournament and a new academic grants program for the 1991 tournament.

The announcements were made at a news conference and tournament draw held at the Government Center downtown.

Draws were held to determine the playing berths of the 16 high school boys teams who will play in the tournament finals February 6-9 at the University of Kentucky Memorial Coliseum here. Draws also were held for the girls' tournament to determine the regional team berths in the sectional playoffs and the playing brackets for the four girls' teams who will compete for the championship in the finals.

At the news conference, Tournament Director Stan Steidel announced that Ashland Oil Inc. will help underwrite the 1991 tournament. "Ashland Oil is proud to be a sponsor of the all 'A' Classic. The Classic continues a tradition of combining scholastic and athletic competition into an event with high standards and an honorable purpose," said Mac Zachem, Ashland Oil senior vice president-external affairs.

"The Classic is a family oriented, community minded event that has fans from throughout the state looking forward to it again in 1991. Ashland Oil congratulates the organizers and participants and looks forward to this year's tournament."

Baesler also announced a new academic grants and recognition program that will be part of the second annual tournament.

Baesler, Chairman of the Sweet 16 Academic Showcase, said that the Showcase will provide $11,000 for grants to the Class A schools for their academic programs. Twenty $500 grants and one $1,000 grant will be awarded.

Schools have already been sent information on how to apply for the grants. The funds will go to schools that propose innovative ideas for improving their academic programs, Baesler said.

"We hope that this incentive will stimulate these and other schools in the state to strive for academic excellence and advancement in many areas," Baesler said. "All Class A schools in the state are eligible for the grants whether they participate in the basketball tournament or not."

Steidel said that he hoped and anticipated, that in the future, tournament proceeds would be able to fund these grants.

The grants will be presented at a special luncheon to be held in Lexington the day of the tournament finals. A top female and male student athlete and senior with the best academic records from each Class A school will be invited to the luncheon.

The students will also select a teacher from their school who has made a positive impact on their lives. This teacher and a school administrator also will be invited to the luncheon to be honored with the students.

A total of 232 boys and girls teams will participate in the 1991 tournament. Class A schools eligible for the tournament are those with enrollments of 424 students or less in grades 10-12.

After regional playoffs the top 16 boys' teams will come to Memorial Coliseum for the finals. The girls tournament will be played on a regional and sectional basis with the top four girls' teams coming to Memorial Coliseum for the finals.

The girls regional's will start on January 22.

As last year, All Academic Teams (made up of a student athlete from each of the 16 regions) and All Tournament teams will be named along with MVPs. These academic students will receive special recognition during the awards luncheon on Saturday afternoon. The All Tournament Teams and MVPs will be recognized at the conclusion of the tournament. Cheerleading competitions will also be held during the tournament finals.

The idea for the statewide tournament grew out of an All "A" tournament held in Northern Kentucky for the past 10 years. A group of coaches and school officials had been organizing a tournament for small schools. The concept was so successful the group decided that a statewide Class A tournament was needed.

More than 33,000 fans turned out for the first statewide tournament won by University Heights Academy of Hopkinsville. The team beat Owsley County, 75-59.

Tickets for the 1991 Kentucky All "A" Classic Tournament in Lexington are now available. All advance tickets prior to February 3, 1991 will be by nine session set of tickets is $45. Tickets may be purchased by mail or at 200 East Main St., Room 135, in Lexington. For ticket information, call (606) 258-3026.

After February 3, individual session tickets may be purchased at a cost of $6 and a nine session sets at $54.

Lady Bobcats Roll Past Mullins, 55-21, Behind Boyd's 19 Points

For the second time in the same week, the Betsy Layne Lady Cats posted a win over the Mullins Lady Tigers. Briana Boyd tossed in 19 points to lead Betsy Layne to a 55-21 win over the host team.

Earlier in the week, the Lady Bobcats defeated Mullins in a home game. The second game was played at Mullins.

The win enabled the Lady Cats to go over the .500 mark to 7-6 on the season. Betsy Layne has won five of their last six games.

Coach Bill Newsome's team scored the first 10 points of the game in taking a commanding 10-0 lead. Susan Conn got Betsy Layne on the scoreboard with a layup. Ashley Stanley put in a rebound basket and Nancy Shepherd followed with a short jumper. Stanley added two free throws. Shelia Hall, who had 15 points in the game, capped off the Betsy Layne rally with a put back basket at the 4:27 mark. Mullins finally scored on Misty Haynes free throw with 4:17 remaining.

Betsy Layne stretched their lead to 17-5 after one quarter and led at the half 39-12.

The game was never in doubt as the Lady Cats continued to score at will. Shelia Hall had eight rebounds to go with her 15 points. Boyd had three steals in the game. Nancy Shepherd had a career high 16 rebounds for Betsy Layne as she controlled both boards. Susan Conn, who finished with four points, chipped in with nine boards. Stanley contributed five rebounds.

Misty Haynes led the Lady Tigers in scoring with eight points. Sabrina Justice added four and Tonya White tossed in seven. Haynes and Justice hit three-pointers for Mullins while Boyd had a trey for the Lady Bobcats.

Betsy Layne will travel to Wheelwright Saturday night for a conference match up.

In the junior varsity game, Betsy Layne defeated Mullins 42-16 behind Melissa McKinney's nine points. Dee Dee Martin added seven points as did Ashley Stanley. Misty Clark, an eighth grader, had five. Tonya White had seven to lead Mullins.

Small World

by Aileen Hall

The recent Congressional debates about the crisis in the Persian Gulf reveal to us that we have many national leaders who are aware of their great responsibilities. They are faced with almost overwhelming decisions and an awareness that even their best efforts might not be enough to avert tragedy.

We have been able to observe, by way of the media, soul searching deliberations and we are heartened by the care that has gone into much of the reasoning. We have heard speeches that tell us many states and districts have made some wise choices, and now these leaders must collectively search for answers that affect us all—answers that, but for the grace of God, will elude us all.

One of these chosen officials is Representative Harold "Hal" Rogers of the Fifth Congressional District in Kentucky. He hails from Somerset and is serving his sixth elected term in Congress.

His first priority, of course, is to serve the people he was chosen to represent in his home district, but his scope of concern extends across the nation and the world for now his constituents are scattered to the far corners.

Congressman Rogers has always been receptive to the people who visit his office from across the state and nation, and he has worked for many causes in a way that only a statesman can do. Some were group efforts and others on an individual basis. Some months ago a delegation from his district had made an appointment to visit his office to ask his support in an important cause. They were extended the usual hospitality and he listened to their requests by way of determining how he could help them.

As they prepared to leave, one of the group—Ben Edmonds of Russell County—asked if he could talk to Mr. Rogers privately for just a minute.

Once alone, he said, "My only son was killed in the service in Vietnam and is buried in Arlington Cemetery. This is my first visit to Washington and I know the cemetery is vast. Is there some way you could help me find the spot so I can visit his grave?"

Mr. Rogers asked the man where he was staying in the city and made a note of the soldier's name, rank and serial number. Then he said, "I'll call you in a little while."

When he called he said, "I'll pick you up in front of your hotel at 10 in the morning and from there we'll go to Arlington."

It was a beautiful day and they drove past some impressive monuments. Then driving into Arlington they found a military honor guard who led the way to a spot where a white marker bore the son's name.

Once there, the escort—the servicemen and the Congressman—fell back and left the father alone with this hallowed spot.

They could see him take a small American flag from his coat pocket and plant it in front of the marker. Then he bowed his head and placed his hand on the ground where his son—and his heart—lay buried.

When finally he arose to leave, they joined him again for the walk back to the waiting car. They walked in silence for no words could add to the meaning of this moment.

No doubt some other appointments had to be postponed that day, but this was a priority Hal Rogers would honor—even if all Washington stood still.

Isn't this, after all, what statesmanship is all about?

Kim's Korner

I suppose if I've said it once, I've said it a hundred times — I'd like to use this column in the hope of bringing a smile and laughter to someone's day.

by Kim Frasure

But, now that so many of our friends and loved ones are serving in Saudi Arabia, laughter just doesn't seem right.

Sunday evening, I learned of another friend who has been in Saudi since August.

There are now three people serving our country in this war that I personally know and care deeply about.

Tess Whitmer, John Holland and Sam Wade Wells.

As my family and I sit listening to reporters from CNN as they inform us of the events taking place, I try and picture Tess, John and Sam Wade and pray that they're safe.

For years, I've listened to my grandfather tell about his experiences in World War II, often with knots in my stomach and tears in my eyes. As he told of the days he spent during the war, I felt sick, but he spoke with pride and until this very day, he remembers it as if it were yesterday.

I never dreamed I'd ever be this close to war during my lifetime.

And, yet, it seems that as each day passes and the war continues, I learn of yet another Floyd County friend serving in the Middle East.

The emotions I feel are unreal — Proud to know and have friends so brave, so strong.

— Sad for their parents and loved ones left behind.

— Worried for their safety and return.

— Eager for the war to end. So many feelings, sleepless nights and cold dinners.

Not much when you think what they (our friends) must be going through.

As I lay on my couch watching and waiting for news, I lay under a blanket gazing into the fire in our fireplace.

"I wonder where Tess is right now? Is she warm? Does she have a soft place to lay her head? Is she hungry? Is she safe?"

My thoughts made me ill. My eyes wide open. The daylight eventually shone through the livingroom window.

Thank God we heard from Aaron, Tess' brother, four days ago. I feel better now knowing she's okay.

This is so nerve-wracking — the mixed emotions, believing we should be there in the Middle East, and wanting those we love to come HOME.

To the parents of these brave men and women, thank you. My prayers and best wishes are with you.

To the husbands and wives, brothers and sisters, relatives and friends, pray for peace. May God bless and return our soldiers home soon.

'Till next week.

Sage of Cow Creek's 1991 Predictions

by Woodrow Burchett

Harold Dorsey and Dick Burdette have dubbed me as the "sage of Cow Creek". At home I have been called lots of names — some complimentary and some not. I have been a farmer all my life — a lawyer 57 years — and this fearless forecasting is an occupation that supports the farm and the law practice.

Farming is the only occupation for a gentleman. The tenants raise the crops and the sheriff sells them.

I practice law in Prestonsburg. We have two general classifications of lawyers: the ones that were born there and circumstances were such that they had to stay, and the ones that came there because circumstances required them to leave from somewhere else.

When our Savior walked on this earth he was tempted three times: twice by lawyers and once by the devil.

Making these predictions is like the man that bought a suit with two pair of pants and burned a hole in the coat.

Let's take a look at some of the predictions I made for 1990. I said,

The U.S. Senate race will be a slow burner. Harvey Sloane has never won a state-wide race. Brock needs money. Wally can get it for him, but will Wally only help Wally. This is a claiming race and combined they have about as much charisma as a speed bump. If Harvey ran unopposed, he would lose. As Caywood says, The Old Crystal Ball goes with the one with the mostest.

The '91 gubernatorial candidates will be in the paddock — Jones, Baeslar, Poore, and Martha and her army. I don't see any candidates from far eastern or far western Kentucky.

Wall Street will be uneventful; Dow may reach its highest point ever but won't go above 3000 or below 2200.

Interest rates will be lower and economy will slow down.

Dark clouds hang over the heads of coal and tobacco. The economy is faced with the alternative "diversify or die".

Nobody, not even an Arab will pay 10 million dollars for a horse that won't run and can't breed.

Joe Montana will win the super bowl.

On December 7, 1990, the Japanese will buy Pearl Harbor.

Noreiga will be kept under wraps and surveillance and we will be wondering what to do with him.

NOW FOR 1991

This program is designed to be somewhat humorous, entertaining, opinionated, filled with satire and reasonably factual. Will Rogers said he got all his jokes from reading the newspapers. How do you find anything funny about what is going on at home and abroad?

The Reagan years remind me of the story of Casey Stengel who came as a rookie to play third base in the major leagues. The game was on. The regular third baseman made three errors. The second string was called up and he did worse. The coach said, Stengel, can you play third? He went in. It was an easy out but he dropped the ball. Stengel told the coach, these fellows have got third base so mixed up it will take 10 years to straighten it out.

POLITICS

The presidential election will not be until 1992 but, through a crack in the door, political maneuvers are clearly obvious and visible. George Bush is at the half way mark of his term — or his tenure depending upon the turn of events.

When President Reagan left the White House he wrote and left three letters of rules to his successor, George Bush, with instructions to open them when the going got rough.

1. In the first letter he advised to be tough on communism, give Gorbachev a hard time, be dead set against abortion, don't raise taxes, stick it to the poor and ethnic groups, go easy on the rich. If this doesn't work, open the second envelope. But times have changed.

Communism is no longer a threat; Gorbachev is our ally. Taxes have been increased. They had to be. "Read my lips is a joke." Women have decided they want the right to an abortion. We are still sticking it to the poor and ethnics — a decade of social neglect has had a horrendous effect. Here we were hanging between hard times at home and war in Middle East.

2. He opened the second letter. It said if the first one does not work and times are bad, jump on Congress. In a recession — the poorest Christmas sales in years, drop in factory production, lengthening lines at unemployment windows, banks and Savings and Loans in a heap of trouble, budget deficit hitting new highs. Airline industry faces chaos. Hundreds of thousands of homeless roam the streets. Facing a war that may cost a billion dollars a day.

Open the third envelope.

3. He opened the third envelope. It said, write three more letters.

The Persian Gulf is the top of the news. Kuwait is a country 90 miles wide and 95 miles long if you include the off shore islands. On the other side of the world and a mere pocket handkerchief compared to the other countries, but it does have oil, which the U.S. does not need and presently uses very little of.

The U.S. has deployed a fully equipped army equal to 1/2 the population of Kuwait to protect it from Saddam Hussein. Other countries that need the oil are willing to support us so long as it is our boys doing the dying and our taxpayers paying the bill. Presently, it is costing $20 billion dollars a year. A hot war would cost $20 billion a day. And do you know where Hussein got his weapons? Made in the U.S.A. when he was at war with Iran.

The Saudis are willing to let us defend them so long as we don't wear the American flag on our uniforms, drink a beer, sing a Christmas carol or let Bob Hope stage a show. They won't let us use their sand for sand bag barriers. We must ship it in. If President Bush is looking for a Democracy to save, he might look closer to home. What about El Salvador and Cambodia, both of which we support. And there is Cuba — a few hundred miles away. Of course, we support Chinese leaders that rolled tanks over students seeking freedom. What about Panama and Manuel Noreiga? Where is he and what did we accomplish there? What if we do put the emir of Kuwait back? Then what?

The military build up in Saudi Arabia was never designed to protect the freedom of Kuwait. First it was for oil. But politics has raised its ugly head and now our leaders are waffling for political position while a half-million American soldiers are prepared to die in a desert sand storm on the other side of the world.

President Bush is faced with a multitude of incongruities.

Congress says under the Constitution only it can give an order of attack.

President says ready to attack now.

Deputy Commander says not ready 'til February.

Bush says weather not a factor. Troops disagreed.

The Assistant Secretary for Civil Rights said could not use money from Fiesta Bowl for Scholarships for "blacks only". He had to eat crow.

President will have more trouble with S and L.

The president is facing opposition in his own party. The Democrats have a golden opportunity, but who will drive the 92 Presidential Special? George Mitchell is too busy as majority leader of the Senate. Ted can't drive. Sam Nunn is from the South. Mario wants to be pit crew chief again. Bradley is too tall and Gore is too small. The Democrats need a man.

KENTUCKY POLITICS

The big politics in Kentucky will be the gubernatorial. The winter books on the May Primary will look somewhat like this:

The entries all are in and the field is settled in the Democratic Primary. Larry Hopkins will be the Republican nominee by default—not unanimous consent.

The No. 1 post position clearly goes to Brereton Jones, but as the front runner he is the target of the sticks and stones. He should take a lesson from Steve Breshear who occupied this same position four years ago and frittered it away by criticizing Brown. The fall from the White House is always harder. You can't win when you run on your opponent's record. Jones has slipped a little in this regard, but seems to have quickly recovered. He is running as a reformer, with a strict ethics code and limits on campaign contributions—but he accepts the $4,000.00 and explains it well.

The No. 2 position is presently occupied by Martha Wilkinson despite her poor showing in the polls. She has good news to tell on the campaign trail regardless of the underlying reasons.

Unemployment is at an 11 year low.

Personal per capita income is increasing faster than the national level.

The number of people on food stamps is down.

Kentucky is gaining in manufacturing jobs while the rest of the country is losing.

Then there is Martha's humor and her charisma. Don't sell her short.

The names the same

While my wife Wilma and I were eating at a local fast-food restaurant the other day, I picked up one of those little cards that asks customers to rate the service and food, and noticed from the address that the company's corporate office is located in Williamsport, Maryland.

I hadn't known until then that there was a Williamsport in Maryland. I'd been aware of Williamsport, Pennsylvania because that's where the Grit (what I believed to be the only newspaper in the world — until I was about ten years old) is published and the Little League World Series is played. I certainly knew of Williamsport, Kentucky because that's where I got Wilma.

I couldn't keep from wondering, though, just how many more Williamsports there were. I did a little research and discovered that there are actually six, the other three being in Ohio, Indiana and Tennessee.

Naturally, this led me to wonder about some of the other familiar place names and just how familiar they might be to folks in other places.

I nosed a bit further and uncovered some fascinating facts. First, though I satisfied my ego a tad. For instance, since I'm Clyde, I've always known (or at least I can't remember when I didn't know) that there is a Clyde, Texas. I think I learned that from an old John Wayne movie.

But did you know there is also a Clyde, Kansas? A Clyde, Michigan? A Clyde, Missouri? A Clyde, New York? A Clyde, North Carolina? And, a Clyde, Ohio? And just for kickers, there's also a Clyde Park, Montana. If I lived there my address would be Clyde Pack; Clyde Park, Montana.

My appetite was really whetted by now. So, I did a little more digging and found that, sure enough, many places across the country have copied their names from eastern Kentucky communities.

Forexample, Adams, in Lawrence County. There is also an Adams in Indiana, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Nebraska, New York, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Tennessee and Wisconsin.

Furthermore, not only is there an Allen in Floyd County, but there's also one in Alabama, Iowa, Maryland, Michigan, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas and Washington.

Another Floyd community, Banner, shares its name with towns in Arkansas, Virginia and Wisconsin. The community of Beaver has namesakes in Alaska, Arkansas, Iowa, Kansas, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

There is also a Belcher, Louisiana and a Belfry, Montana.

Country singer Ricky Skaggs has put Blaine, Kentucky on the map, but who do you know from Blaine,

Kansas? Or Blaine, Maine? There are also Blaines in Missouri, Ohio, Tennessee and Washington. There's one in Pennsylvania, too, but I guess its "e" fell off. It's spelled Blain.

Besides the ones in Johnson County and Colorado, there are also Denvers in Indiana, Iowa, Louisiana, Missouri, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

Gorbachev, the man who changed the world, could not go to Finland to receive the Nobel Peace Prize because of turmoil in his own country.

Combs Bridge will shake, rattle and roll.

There will be space for rent in downtown Prestonsburg.

There will be a big decline in the housing and motor industries. This will have a big adverse impact on the economy.

The big politics in Floyd County — Circuit Judge — may have several contenders. Floyd County has long been recognized as having the best Circuit Judge and fair court in eastern Kentucky. After the election is over, it may still have that reputation. Be no new face in courthouse.

As we approach the last decade of the 20th Century we are becoming concerned about saving the earth: to preserve the endangered animals and plants; to clean up the air, land and water; to protect the ozone layer and to properly use our natural resources.

We worry about the Persian Gulf and what it does to our oil supply and the price of gasoline. In 1843 sperm oil was used to fuel the lamps. The price rose from 43 cents a gallon to $2.35. But gas, distilled from coal became an economically feasible substitute. The price fell sharply.

We may need to substitute another fuel. We have ready for development a hundred years supply of coal and natural gas. Motor vehicles can be run on natural gas without significantly polluting the air. The There's also an East Point, Oregon.

It would appear, then, that the names of some of our local communities aren't nearly as unique as we first thought them to be. Search as I might, however, I could not come up with another Thealka. Of course, that really comes as no surprise to those of us who've lived there. We've been saying all along that there's no place else on earth like it.

carbon monoxide will be reduced 80 percent and the cost of operation will equal 60 cents per gallon of gas. In fact, nearly 30,000 natural gas vehicles are now in use and thousands more will be soon.

In some western states, facilities are now in place to produce oil from coal. It can be made feasible.

We worry about hazardous waste. Everything that is, is composed of a combination of a 100 or so chemical elements, put together by chemists. If they can put them together, why can't they take them apart and convert them to something useful?

CONCLUSION

It was Churchill that said, "A Democracy is the worst form of government there is except all the others."

It was Roosevelt that said, "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself." Now we fear each other.

We spend $20 billion a year to protect the liberty and safety of people in Kuwait and can't walk the streets in our own cities at night.

And it was John Kennedy that said, "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country."

And it was Yogi Berra that said, "The future is just like the past, only longer."

Science has taught us to swim the seas like fish; to fly through the air like birds; to penetrate space like demons and to walk on the moon. It may, finally, help us to walk the earth like men.

The color scheme of blue, yellow and silver was carried out in the decorations. The serving table was covered with a blue cloth and had an overlay of antique lace. A bouquet of mixed flowers, with yellow and blue color predominating, intertwined with baby's breath and greenery.

The bouquet was flanked on either side by silver candelabra holding tall, blue candles. Matching decorations were used throughout the room.

Drift Woman's club poster winners

By Linda Elliott
The KFWC/GFWC Drift Woman's Club held its Christmas party at the home of Jerri Turner. Mrs. Turner decorated her home for the Christmas season.

The excitement of exchanging gifts grew as members came with their wrapped presents, but the gifts had to wait until the ladies had sung some of the traditional Christmas carols. The club is thankful to Debbie Birchfield for making this year's Christmas song books. Shauna McFarland sang a special song, "The Lord's Prayer," for the group.

To prepare for the meal at December's meeting, each member prepared a dish. Then the group judged the poster for the Christmas Poster Contest. The Drift Woman's Club congratulates the winners: Brittany Patton of Mrs. Linda Elliott's first grade, Rebecca Wright of Mrs. Karen Pack's third grade, and Jason Harrington of Kenneth Akers junior high class. Ashley Tackett from Linda Elliott's room won second place, and Rachael Newsome from Mrs. Tammy Noble's third grade room won third place.

Leftover antibiotics may not cure Strep virus

We all, at one time or another, have experienced a sore throat. At times, we may have worried that our sore throat might be what is called strep throat. Even though strep throat is a cause of concern for many people, few really understand what it is or why they should be concerned.

What is a strep throat? Strep throat is a throat infection caused by the streptococcus germ. There are many different germs that can cause sore throats. No sore throat can be called a "strep throat", however, unless this particular germ can be shown to be present. The streptococcus germ is responsible for infections in many parts of the body. However, the most common area infected is the mouth or throat.

The symptoms of strep throat generally begin three to five days after catching the germ. The first symptoms to appear are generally fever, headache and a sore throat. This fever may range up to 103 to 104 degrees. Nausea and vomiting may also occur, especially in children. Diarrhea and abdominal pain may also accompany these other symptoms. Swelling of the lymph nodes or "glands" under the jaw and in the neck may be present. A person with strep throat may also have a cough.

The infection will usually run its course in five to seven days, even without treatment. Treatment, however, will often hasten recovery. The importance of treating strep throat is not merely to relieve the problems of fever or sore throat. Treatment is intended to prevent damage to the heart and kidneys. This can occur if the body reacts to the strep infection. Treating the infection early seems to prevent this reaction by the body which may result in serious problems with the heart and kidneys later.

Heart disease that can result from improperly treated strep throat is generally noticeable two to three weeks following the infection. This is called rheumatic fever. The damage to the heart is often irreversible. The kidney damage that can occur as a consequence of improperly treated strep throat is called acute glomerulonephritis. Signs include dark or bloody urine, edema or swelling of the eyes or legs and high blood pressure. It is important to stress that both of these complications, that is, damage to the heart or kidneys, are entirely preventable if the strep throat is properly treated.

The treatment of strep throat consists mainly of administering antibiotics, usually penicillin. Treatment often consists of a shot, pills or a combination of both. The symptoms of sore throat with fever usually require medical attention. It is not possible to diagnose this illness by yourself. Even your doctor may take a throat culture before he or she can be sure whether or not you have strep throat. Do not try to treat yourself! Eighty percent or more of all sore throats are caused by viruses. Viruses do not respond to antibiotics. Persistent sore throats and fatigue in young adults may be secondary to vital mononucleosis that require an examination by your doctor and a blood test. There is no specific treatment for mononucleosis but, making the correct diagnosis is important. So, if you take leftover antibiotics that you find around the house, you may be treating the wrong illness.

Remember, the proper treatment of strep throat can prevent the serious side effects of heart and kidney damage. All patients with sore throats should contact their doctor.

After the wedding, the couple left on a honeymoon that was to take them to Europe and Africa, but because of weather and lost baggage, they were "stranded" in New York City. Mr. Harrelson, a son of Lowell Harrelson of Baymonett, Ala., is employed with Atlantic Pipeline as an engineer. Mrs. Harrelson was formerly employed with the Floyd County Board of Education before moving to London, Ky., where the couple now reside.

County Kettle

By Marie Harmon

This is my second week at this column, and I am beginning to (I hope) get the hang of it. The recipes are beginning to trickle in.

At this time, I plan to run a special issue of recipes from the employees at the Juvenile Detention Center. The men who work there are also planning to donate their favorites also. I would suck my foot in my mouth, so to speak, if I were to make the statement that men are the best cooks. Ask any man. So, I think that at this time I will not make any such statements.

TIPS FROM MARIE

For a delicious low calorie whipped topping substitute beat a fully ripe banana and an egg white for 4 minutes until stiff.

Keep powdered sugar icing moist by adding a pinch of baking powder.

To make instant candle holders for birthday cakes use miniature marshmallows, maraschino cherries or gumdrops.

For a flakier pie crust use lemon juice for 1/2 the water the recipe lists.

SPAGHETTI WITH CHILI

2 (15 1/2 ounce) cans of chili with beans

1 (10 1/2 oz.) can tomato soup
1/4 to 1/2 cups catsup
1/4 cup cheddar cheese

Add chili, soup and catsup to saucepan and simmer 10 minutes. Pour over 1/2 lb. cooked spaghetti. Top with grated cheese.

BUTTERSCOTCH PIE

1 1/2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
4 tbsp. flour
1/2 tsp. salt
3 egg yolks, beaten
3 cups milk
3 tbsp. butter
1 tsp. vanilla

Combine sugar, flour, salt and mix well. Add beaten egg yolks together with enough milk to make a smooth paste. Add remaining ingredients slowly until well blended. Cook over medium heat stirring constantly until thickened. Remove from heat; add butter and vanilla. Mix until butter has melted and mixture has cooled slightly. Pour into 9 inch pie crust (baked). Top with meringue and bake in 325° oven for 8 minutes.

CHOCOLATE PIE

1/2 cup margarine
3/4 cup sugar
1 sq. unsweetened chocolate melted and cooled
1 tsp. vanilla
2 eggs

1 baked and cooled pie crust
Cream margarine and sugar 5 minutes. Add 1 egg and beat 5 minutes. Add the other egg and beat 5 minutes. Add vanilla and blend. Add chocolate and blend well. Pour into pie shell and chill in refrigerator. Garnish with whipped cream (optional).

Meringue

3 egg whites
1/2 tsp. cornstarch
1/2 tsp. cream of tartar
1/8 tsp. salt
3 tbsp. white sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
Beat egg whites with cornstarch, cream of tartar and salt until fluffy. Gradually add sugar and vanilla. Continue beating until smooth and sugar is thoroughly dissolved. Spread on pie and bake.

CAJUN POTATO SALAD

1 egg
1 egg yolk
1/2 cup chopped green onions
1 tbsp. brown mustard
1 tbsp. Cajun seasoning
1 tbsp. freshly squeezed lemon juice

1 tbsp. vegetable oil
4 medium potatoes, peeled, cooked and diced
3 hard boiled eggs, peeled and diced
1 small red onion, chopped
1 medium red (RED) pepper, chopped

1 small red onion, chopped
1/2 cup chopped celery
1 tbsp. cajun seasoning
In a food processor or blender, with steel blades blend egg and egg yolk. Add green onions, mustard, Cajun seasoning, and lemon juice. Pour oil slowly into mixture in a small stream. When all oil is used, blend for 10 seconds. Set aside. In a mixing bowl, combine potatoes, boiled eggs, onions, celery, red peppers, and Cajun seasoning. Toss lightly. Pour salad dressing over all and blend lightly. Refrigerate for 3 hours to blend flavors before serving. Serves 6.

PEANUT BUTTER CANDY

2 sticks margarine
1 1/2 cups peanut butter
1 tsp. vanilla
1 lb. confectioner's sugar

1 large bar Hershey chocolate
Melt margarine in heavy pan. Remove from heat. Add peanut butter and vanilla. Mix well. Add sugar. Stir well. Pat out in buttered pan. Refrigerate until chilled. Melt large Hershey chocolate and pour over top. Chill and cut into squares.

CARAMEL CORN

1/2 cup popcorn, popped
1 cup light brown sugar
1 stick butter 1/4 cup dark corn syrup
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. soda

Heat brown sugar, butter, syrup and salt to bubbly around the edges. Then boil 5 minutes on medium heat. Remove from heat, stir in soda until foamy. Pour over popped corn, stir until coated. Pour in pan. Bake in 200° oven for 1 hour -stir every 15 minutes.

BROCCOLI CASSEROLE

1 onion chopped
1/2 stick margarine
2 boxes frozen broccoli
2 cans cream mushroom soup-undiluted
1 roll garlic cheese
3 oz. can sliced mushrooms
1 cup bread crumbs

Saute chopped onions in butter until tender. Cook broccoli according to package. Add canned soup to onions and butter. Cut up cheese into soup mixture, stir until cheese is melted and smooth. Add mushrooms. Add broccoli to mixture and stir until well blended. Add bread crumbs. Place in a well-greased casserole and bake 40 minutes at 350° F.

NUTS AND BOLTS

1 stick butter
1 tsp. seasoned salt
1 tsp. garlic salt
5 tsp. worcestershire sauce
2 cups corn Chex
2 cups rice Chex
2 cups wheat Chex
1 cup mixed salted nuts

Melt butter in large pan over low heat. Stir in seasoned salt, garlic salt and Worcestershire sauce until well blended. Add Chex cereals and mixed nuts. Mix until all pieces are coated. Pour into a large pan and heat in 250° F oven for 45 minutes, stir every 15 minutes. Spread out on absorbent paper to cool.

ZESTY BARBECUED RIBS

6 lb. spareribs water
2 cups catsup
1/2 cup Realemon lemon juice
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 tsp. prepared mustard
1/2 cup finely chopped onions
1/4 cup margarine
1/4 cup worcestershire sauce
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1/4 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. hot pepper sauce

In a large kettle cook ribs in boiling water for one hour, or until tender. Meanwhile, in a medium saucepan, combine all remaining ingredients; simmer uncovered for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Grill or broil ribs as desired, turning and basting frequently with sauce. Refrigerate left-overs if any.

MICROWAVE

To precook ribs place 1 1/2 lb. ribs in shallow glass baking dish. Add 3/4 cup water, cover with vented plastic wrap. Microwave on full power (high) for 5 minutes. Reduce to 1/2 power (med.); continue cooking 7 minutes. Turn ribs over and cook 7 minutes more. Repeat with remaining ribs. Proceed as above. Serves 8.

SQUAW CORN

5 ears sweet corn
1 small green pepper diced
1 small onion, diced
3 tbsp. margarine
1 tsp. salt
dash of pepper

Cut corn from cob. In a frying pan over medium heat saute green peppers, onion in margarine until wilted. Add corn and seasonings. Stir and cover. Cook slowly. Stirring occasionally for about 10 minutes, or until corn is tender. Serve in a warm bowl. Serves 6.

Perhaps there has never been a time when we needed our gardens as we do today. We are living in a spiritless time of confusion; there is very little security in our lives. We seem to have lost our visions and are filled with anxieties. We feel that there is no long distance view of life, negativity, a chaos of the mind. Maybe the best way for us to get back to basic spiritual security is to work more and more outside in the good old dirty earth.

It isn't what we do to our gardens, but what our gardens do to or for us. It is what our earth and gardens teach us that really matters. Anyone who has ever planted a garden cannot help but realize that we are its servant and not its master, and that, I think, is an extremely good feeling. When we become too arrogant, it helps us to realize that the tiniest of seeds are far more stronger than we are.

When we think of our gardens in this way, we realize that the thing that matters is that we can help their growth along with our own. We may feel battered down, tense, or even restless. I know that something happens to me when I can get out in the good old dirt. I find I am no longer unhappy, irritable, and I lose all cabin fever symptoms.

I must confess that this wet ground is keeping me out of my garden and I find that at times I become quite upset. That is another thing that people who plant a garden or flowers become aware of, the weather. The minute we start to plant something we are hostage to the skies. Suddenly, it matters to us whether it rains or freezes, or whether there is sun or heat.

If we are growing flowers or vegetables, we aren't like the city dweller who hardly knows when there is a cloud in the sky until it starts to rain on them. We get that keenness, that awareness, that enriching consciousness of what is happening, from the elements around us. We become keenly sensitized to the weather — one of the most enriching things that can happen to us.

I want to dig, hoe and rake with Paul, water with Apollus, sow and scrape, weed and lay out, set out and thin out, weed out and bed out, blossom out and STAY OUT.

I want to vegetate and germinate and radiate and foliate and bifoliate. I want to be strong and healthy and last well into frost. I want to be out in my garden and getting my hands dirty now!!!!

Too much care harmful to houseplants

Too much of a good thing is a leading cause of houseplant problems during the winter, according to a research specialist at the University of Kentucky.

Water is the most harmful "good thing," said Brian Eshenaur, a plant disease diagnostician with the UK College of Agriculture.

"The question I'm most frequently asked is 'How often should I water?'," he said. "There's no set answer. It depends on the type plant, time of year, humidity in the house and amount of light the plant receives."

"To determine when a houseplant needs water, probe the soil with your finger to a depth of one to one and a half inches. If the soil feels dry, water until it comes out of the drainage holes. One thorough watering is better than a partial watering every day."

Poor drainage can contribute to the overwatering problem, Eshenaur added. To improve drainage, use containers with drainage holes and saucers to hold excess water. When a houseplant has a problem, appearances can be deceiving, according to Eshenaur. "We typically think wilting means a plant needs more water, but that's not always the case; sometimes wilting is a symptom of overwatering," he explained. "If a plant is getting too much water, the roots can drown from lack of oxygen. The plant may then wilt because it cannot take up water through the roots."

"If you must err, do so on the side of underwatering. More houseplants die from too much water than not enough." Over-fertilization is another example of too much of a good thing, according to Eshenaur. "Do not force a houseplant with too much fertilizer because it will put on growth," he explained. "Light in a house usually is inadequate to support extensive growth so the plant becomes leggy." "Fertilize only enough to maintain the plant. Use a water soluble fertilizer at the recommended strength about once every three months."

While it is easy to give houseplants too much water or fertilizer during the winter, it is hard to give them too much light, Eshenaur said.

"Houseplants need light to manufacture food," he said. "Most plants require two to four hours of full sunlight daily, or eight to 10 hours of filtered or reflected light, or 12 to 16 hours of artificial light. Cool white fluorescent lights are the best all purpose and most economical artificial light source."

"While providing adequate light, avoid putting the plant in an area that gets too hot, such as windows near a heat vent, fireplace or woodburning stove. Also do not remove a plant to a spot for appearance sake for an extended period of time if that location isn't suited to the plant."

Insects and diseases generally are not a problem during the winter, unless insects were brought indoors when the plants were moved inside. Sometimes "pillbugs," which like damp areas, are transported inside with the houseplant. However, "pillbugs" stay in the soil, are not harmful and don't hurt the plant.

"Houseplants can provide a lot of pleasure and make an attractive addition to your home during the dreary winter months," Eshenaur said. "But don't love your houseplants to death by giving them too much water or fertilizer. Concentrate instead on providing enough light."

Additional information is available by contacting the county extension office.

Real Estate

Real estate roundtable

Q. Can you tell me the difference between points and discount points?

A. "Points" is a generic term for a service charge made by a lender for making the loan. Normally a point is equal to 1% of the loan amount. In conventional financing, the points can be paid by the seller on the buyer. The sales contract should specify which party will be paying the points and also provide a maximum percentage the party is willing to pay.

For example, you are buying an $85,000 home. With the sale of another property, you have $20,000 to use as a down payment. The mortgage will be $65,000. This means $650 would be due at the closing.

"Discount points" is the money paid to a lender for a mortgage that has a lower interest rate than the "going rate". Each point is 1% of the mortgage loan amount. Discount points are more often found in VA and FHA situations to make those loans more competitive with the higher interest rates obtained in a conventional loan.

In VA loans, the seller must pay all of the discount points. The buyer, by law, may only pay the loan origination fee.

Here's how the discount points might work. The market rate, for example, is 13%. If the lender is willing to give you a rate of 12% with a charge of 4 points (4% of the loan amount). On a $72,000 mortgage, the monthly principal and interest would be $794.04 for 30 years. At 12%, it would be $740.88. This is a difference of $56.16 per month. The $2880 (72,000 X 4%) paid to get the lower rate would pay for itself in about 51 months.
