Just ask Lennie Burchett :

It's never too late to learn

by Tim B. Preston
Staff Writer

Faced with the prospect of raising two daughters and maintaining a family with no job and uncertain income, Lorinza "Lennie" Burchett of Prater Creek felt he had to do something to improve his life.

Lennie, 25, decided to learn to read and write.

"There comes a time that you have to ask yourself 'what will it come to later on?' You have to stand up and face yourself," Lennie said. "I went to two years of high school, but I was just skipping classes, running around and chasing girls. I couldn't read or write. My brothers used to kid me a lot, calling me a dummy and stuff like that. They don't do that any more. Besides, I'm still the only one of my brothers who can fix a car."

Lennie said that his wife has also played a big role in his quest to improve his life.

"She said, 'why don't you go back and get your GED?', and I thought about it but I guess I was a little afraid of the idea. Then one day she said 'If you go, I'll go with you', and here I am today."

Lennie is learning to read, write and solve math problems with the help of Thelma Spencer, a senior volunteer tutor from the Floyd County Literacy Council.

Thelma volunteered for the program two years ago, and says that working with Lennie has been a special experience.

"When you have somebody who wants to learn as much as Lennie wants to learn it is very rewarding. He is just so willing to learn and work toward learning that it would be a shame to not have someone to teach him," said Spencer.

Spencer said that other senior citizens should get involved with teaching. "All the people who have retired and are spending their days watching soap operas on television should try to get involved, she said. "I was retired and my life felt very empty. Now, I have a reason to get up and get dressed. I look forward to coming out and helping Lennie. I've always heard 'if you don't use it, you lose it', and I'm too young to lose it!"

Lennie, giving much credit to his tutor, says that learning to read has brought about surprising changes in his life.

"Me and my wife used to fight like cats and dogs," he said. "Now we get along real good. It's hard to explain, it's just fun to be able to read when you spent your whole life not knowing how. I come from a poor family

Betsy Layne group pleads for assistance

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Parents at Betsy Layne High School are becoming frantic over an increase in the number of in-school fights and the severe beating of one female student while at school.

Parents could ask for a state takeover of the school if the board of education fails to act on a petition to hire an assistant principal at the school, presented by the school's site based management committee at Tuesday's meeting.

Anna Boyd, the mother of the student who was assaulted, made a passionate plea Tuesday to the board to provide assistance at the school in order to prevent other students from being assaulted. Boyd distributed to the board members pictures of the beaten girl and a $900 dental bill.

"Please, help us," Boyd asked the board. "Don't let this happen to anyone else's child who goes to school at Betsy Layne. Teachers and officials have known what's been happening at this school. Something has got to be done to make our schools safe for our students."

Boyd said her daughter had been assaulted by another student in an incident on February 1.

Superintendent Ron Hager would not recommend hiring an assistant principal at Betsy Layne or for Allen Central and Prestonsburg because, he said, funds were not available.

"I can't recommend something to the board which would put us in a deficit," Hager said. "Years ago the principals agreed to give up their assistants to up their salaries. We don't have the funds."

In a response directed to Boyd about the assault on her daughter, Hager said, "It sounds like you need a policeman."

Joe Jacobs, who heads the site based management team, said Thursday, if the school board "chooses to ignore" the problems at Betsy Layne, the school could be declared a school in crisis and be taken over by the state Department of Education.

"The board has an obligation to provide equal educational opportunity students," Jacobs said. "That has not been happening at Betsy Layne under Ron Hager's tenure. We've not had the cooperation (with the administration) like other schools have had. That's why we chose site-based management.

"We have a right to petition this board of education for the safety and improvement in our children's education," Jacobs added. "Something needs to be done at Betsy Layne."

Board member Eddie Billips told Boyd he understood and sympathized with her because his daughter had been assaulted last fall while attending school.

"This is a very grave issue that I personally understand," Billips said. "The answer is not necessarily an

Board amends contract anyway :

Architect vows to sue

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The Floyd County Board of Education could face legal action as a result of action taken Tuesday in an ongoing controversy over school construction projects and a citizens group continued to lobby the board this week for a new Prestonsburg High School.

Reviews and questions relating to two Floyd County high school construction projects were the center of discussion in a three-hour executive session Tuesday night at the board of education meeting.

The meeting was moved into executive session under the Kentucky Open Meetings provision concerning litigation because a contractor at the Left Beaver site has filed a lawsuit seeking payment.

D.F.M. Inc., doing business as B & J Construction, filed suit January 31 seeking payment of $10,700.14 for work done at the Left Beaver site.

Allegations by the architect for Left Beaver High School relating to the construction manager's contract were reported to have been discussed during most of the session.

Attorneys representing Jim Ellis, architect, and Sam Martin Jr., construction manager, faced off in the session to argue their points concerning responsibilities of construction materials received and work performed at the site.

Ellis' attorney, Phil Damron, reportedly argued that the construction manager's contract called for verification of materials and work be made

Out-of court settlement is accepted by county board

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The Floyd County Board of Education agreed at Tuesday's meeting to settle in a federal lawsuit filed in December 1989 by a maintenance worker who alleged he was demoted by the board for his political beliefs.

One-pound limit on Saudi packages

Floyd County Red Cross Director Thomasine Robinson said Thursday that many large packages being sent to American soldiers stationed in the Middle East with Operation Desert Storm are being returned to their senders.

"We can only send one pound packages now," said Robinson. "We haven't been able to send larger packages since January 22. Many of the soldiers on front lines can't get anything big. So, you are really taking a chance by sending a large package."

Jimmy Hall, who worked at McDowell High School, will receive $12,500 and will be employed as a full-time maintenance worker at McDowell Elementary and McDowell High School for the remainder of the school year at $7.29 per hour.

The agreement said the board "without admitting any fault, improper actions or liability on their part" will settle the case and payment to Hall will be made by National Union Fire Insurance Company of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Hall's suit had sought $1 million in punitive damages from superintendent Ron Hager; job reinstatement with back pay and lost benefits.

Hall's suit alleged that on May 17, 1989 assistant superintendent Pete Grigsby solicited his support for a political candidate for county attorney favored by then board chairman James D. Adams and superintendent Hager.

The lawsuit claimed Grigsby sent Hall out in the schools to see who was

The cause of the fire is unknown at this time. (photo by Garrett Volunteer Fire Department)

Martin meeting is set to study certification

The city of Martin and the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce encourage residents of Martin to attend a meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday, February 28 at Martin City Hall to discuss the city's participation in the Kentucky Certified Cities program.

City residents and business leaders are urged to share ideas and opinions with Martin council members at the meeting.

The Certified Cities program is designed to encourage economic and social development, establish long term goals, boost civic pride and allow cities to better serve citizens.

Regional academic meet scheduled for Saturday

Approximately 200 Floyd county elementary school students are expected to participate in a regional academic meet this Saturday at Duff Elementary School.

Students will compete in various academic categories including, writing, language arts, social studies and science.

The competition will begin Saturday morning, with awards ceremonies at 4 p.m.

Afternoon crash

Lois Wallen, 43, of Prestonsburg was injured in a car accident Thursday afternoon on University Drive in Prestonsburg. Wallen was treated at the scene for neck and back injuries by the Prestonsburg Fire Department. She was transported by Respond Ambulance to Highlands Regional Medical Center. Her condition was not available. The accident is under investigation by the Prestonsburg Police Department. (photo by Susan Allen) to the project architect. Bobby Rowe Jr., representing Sam Martin, reportedly insisted verification be made only to the project owner, the board of education. The board voted in regular session Tuesday to change Martin's contract and require him to make verification to the board of education. The vote was unanimous. Damron reportedly vowed legal action if the original contract was altered, but no suit had been filed Thursday afternoon. Ellis has asked the state education department's Office of Accountability to review Martin's contract. Ellis alleges Martin is receiving "excessive" payment under his contract with the board. The board took no action Tuesday to re-bid the site preparation package for the Prestonsburg High School site. Mike Luscher, with the state Department of Education's building and grounds division, wrote a letter January 17 to Superintendent Ron Hager advising the board to re-bid the development package because of non-responsive bidding, a decrease in acreage and "extreme" site development costs. Luscher said it would cost $181,950 an acre to develop the site, including acquisition costs. At the public comment session of the meeting, John Sammons, representing citizens supporting the new Prestonsburg High School, presented the board petitions with an estimated 675 names supporting construction of a new school and asked the board to forward a copy to Kentucky's Education Commissioner Dr. Thomas Boysen. Sammons told the board the group was opposed to remodeling the existing high school. "You have a moral and legal obligation to proceed with construction," Sammons said. "The project has been funded close to $7 million. The Department of Education will allow 10 percent more for site preparation if the local board requests it. That leaves in excess of $6 million for the school. I hope the board shares our concern for a quality education for our students." In other business, Floyd County Judge Executive John M. Stumbo read and signed a proclamation at the meeting designating February 12 as Carol Stumbo Day in Floyd County. Carol Stumbo was one of five teachers in the nation selected as a Christa McAuliffe educator by the National Foundation for Improvement of Education. The board of education gave Stumbo a plaque in recognition of her award. Carol Stumbo also addressed the board about her award, noting she hasn't been able to enjoy the honor. "I've not been able to enjoy this award like I should. I'll be going to San Francisco soon to teach teachers about what I do in my classroom with technology," Stumbo said. "What makes me sad is that I'm not able to work with teachers in this county to see what goes on in my classroom. I'm not saying this out of anger or vindictiveness. "No one has been in my classroom in Floyd County to see what we do," Stumbo continued. "I want to share with other teachers in Floyd County what we can do. My heart is here in Floyd County and my commitment is here in Floyd County. I want you to make a commitment to value teachers in this county for the children's sake." Stumbo asked the board to work together with the teachers to provide a better education for Floyd County students. The board did not respond to Stumbo's statements. In other business the board: approved to keep its tentative order with IBM for the Teacher, Learning and Computers program with the stipulation it can terminate the order without penalty before July 1; agreed to send a letter of approval for the Upward Bound and Talent Search program with Pikeville College; accepted for review a Saturday school schedule; heard report declining student enrollment and attendance; heard a report on the asbestos release at Martin Elementary; approved bids for custodial supplies; and paid bills and claims. Those hired: Billie Jean Osborne, temporary replacement for Sandy Tackett, band director at Betsy Layne; substitute teachers- Patricia Elliott and Greta Thornsberry. Emergency substitute teachers-

Medical waste incinerator regulations approved

Two medical waste incinerator regulations approved on Jan. 4 by the Administrative Regulation Review Subcommittee would require more stringent air pollution controls and training of incinerator operators. The regulations, written by the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet under a mandate by Gov. Wallace Wilkinson, will be submitted to the Joint Interim Committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources for final approval. Current medical waste incinerator regulations, which apply only to those with more than a 500-pound-per-hour burn load, contain a 20 percent opacity limit and limits on particulate matter. Gov. Wilkinson directed the cabinet to develop new regulations and replace current inadequate regulations. The proposed regulations will help alleviate environmental problems associated with medical waste incinerators due to poor incinerator design and operational practices, said Hisham Saaid, acting director of the Division for Air Quality, the cabinet agency that will enforce the regulations. When adopted, the new regulations will require all medical waste incinerators to obtain a permit from the Division for Air Quality. Some other requirements will include:

- An opacity limit of 10 percent
  - More stringent particulate matter emission limits
  - Carbon monoxide limits
  - Continuous monitoring for carbon monoxide and for opacity
  - An annual stack test for particulate matter
  - Ash testing and proper disposal requirements
  - Hydrogen chloride standards and annual testing requirements for new sources with a burn load of more than 500 pounds per hour
  - Sulfur dioxide limits if other waste material is burned along with medical wastes
  - One-second residence time in the secondary chamber in all units with the secondary chamber operating at 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit, plus or minus 200 degrees and
  - Completion of an approved course by medical waste incinerator operators.
- Existing units will have up to four years to comply with the applicable regulations. New sources will have 180 days from start-up to demonstrate compliance.

Drift Woman's Club is changing Floyd County

By Linda Elliott
Floyd County is going through some very exciting and important changes and the GFWC/KFWC is an active participant in these changes. The club is participating in the We Are Floyd County group held a meeting at the new Jenny Wiley State Park Convention Center Saturday to discuss developing pride and unity in Floyd County through improved education, employment, and environment. The keynote speaker was Dr. Thomas Boysen, Kentucky Commissioner of Education who challenged the county, "to get to the front of the pack in education."

There was also a special performance by the newly-formed Kentucky Opry directed by Ms. Billie Jean Osborne. This young group of performers have exceptional talent and the members of the Drift Woman's Club urge everyone in Floyd county and the state of Kentucky to give them encouragement and support. The Drift Woman's Club is honored to be a participating organization of the We Are Floyd County and asks that everyone in Floyd County help and help make this endeavor more than successful. The Drift Woman's Club members who attended include Ruby Akers, Linda Elliott, Mildred Salisbury, Karen Slone and Anna Sue Stumbo.

supporting their candidate for county attorney and that the board would use that information to re-hire employees for the following school year. Hall alleged that after he told Grigsby he would not support that candidate, he was cut back in his employment. Hall's attorney, Larry Webster of Pikeville, could not be reached Thursday to see if the settlement terms had been accepted by Hall. The board voted 4-0 in favor of the agreement. New board member Eddie Billips was disqualified from the vote because he was not a party to the action.

and I used spend daylight to dark plowing a field behind an old mule. People would go by and say, 'why don't you look at that old idiot out there'. I'm working hard now and nobody can call me an idiot anymore."

When asked what advice he would give to another person who can't read, Lennie plainly says this, "You can't run from anything, my daddy taught me long ago. No matter what it is, you have to stand up and face it. I ran from a dog once and it bit me. I'd tell anybody that can't read or write to go for it. There's nothing to be afraid of or embarrassed about. I am going to get my GED if it takes me forever. I'm 25 now, and if it takes me until when I'm 48 years old I'll still be working hard at it."

Lennie Burchett has plans for his family's future. He wants to give them all he possibly can, including more of himself.

"I want to be a real good mechanic and earn a good wage," he said. "There are a lot of things I can do: carpentry and plumbing and so on. When I get through this program, there won't be anything to hold me back from doing the best I can for my family."

assistant principal but we need a few minutes to get together to discuss how to resolve this situation."

After much discussion at Tuesday's meeting, board chairman Ray "Shag" Campbell directed Superintendent Hager to send an administrator from the central office to the school to assist the principal with discipline problems.

The board also heard Tuesday from various other parent groups, including Martin and Duff P.T.A.s and Floyd County Parents for Better Schools.

Tim Lawson, representing Duff school, asked when work will begin on four classrooms and a gym; when installation of the KET cable would be complete; when problems with the school's heating and cooling system would be corrected; and when the fire suppression system needed to operate the school's sprinkler system will be constructed.

Lawson gave the board a copy of a temporary certificate of occupancy from the state fire marshal's office which gives a March 8 expiration date.

"All items listed... shall have been corrected by the expiration date," the letter said. "Failure to do so shall be reason for the building official or his authorized deputy to issue a notice to vacate the premises."

The items listed by the state office for correction are: to maintain the fire watch during school hours and that the school's sprinkler system "shall" be connected to a reliable water works supply.

The board gave no response to the questions.

Talina Rayburn, from Martin P.T.A., asked the board about several accounts payable that were not included in two audits conducted presently on the school's activity accounts.

Rayburn asked about a debt owed since 1986 to Scott Foreman, book company; $790.90 to Appalachian Snack Company; $2,100 to Lance; and $2,692.33 to Lowe's of London.

"Why were these debts not included in the audits?" Rayburn asked. "How did our school get in this shape?"

Superintendent Hager directed the questions to finance officer Russell Frazier, who said Martin Principal William Hughes had recently sent to the board an updated financial report and a plan to reduce the school's deficit. But Frazier could not answer why the debts were not included and added Hughes did not list those accounts on the annual report.

"The audit did not reflect those amounts owed because we did not have true figures," Frazier said. "That did not give us a true financial picture of the school's account."

Frazier said Hughes would have to answer how the school "got in that shape."

Included in the board's agenda was a letter from Joan Meyers, an attorney in Fort Worth Texas, saying she was intending to file a lawsuit against the board for $4,924.24 owed by Martin Elementary. The debt is for a lease agreement for computer equipment for the Test Mate computer program at the school. The letter requested a response before February 8.

Debra Hayes, from Parents for Better Schools, asked the board to let parent organizations become more active in the school system and offered the group's assistance in any way needed.

She also asked that all schools have band and art classes available for students; basic supplies in each school room; and caution lights near all schools.

The board gave no response to the requests.

Karen Marcum asked permission to begin a P.T.A. program at Prestonsburg High School and asked the board to "look for a new principal" at the high school. Marcum did not explain her request for a new principal.

Civic organization representatives addressed the board and asked it to adopt a proposal presented by the Floyd County Education Association.

Dolores Smith spoke on behalf of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce and Tim Jessen represented the Floyd County Education Forum.

FCEA presented a 10-point proposal aimed at improving the county's school system and asked for greater community and parental involvement, among other things.

The board did not adopt the proposal at Tuesday's meeting. Board member Billips asked that legal clarifications be made in certain areas of the proposal. Billips said Monday he was in favor of FCEA's proposal.

The next regular meeting of the board will be Tuesday, March 12 at Wheelwright High School, beginning at 6 p.m.

Keeping our future drug free

By Tracee Hutton and Christy Lackey

"We didn't think that the kids would open up and relate to us in the way they did. It kind of surprised us that ten and eleven-year-old kids could say that they had an experience or knew someone that had a drug problem," said Thomas Rainey, a senior at Wheelwright High School and one of the students chosen for the D.A.R.E. program.

High School students throughout Floyd County are trying to fight the battle of drugs, to keep our future drug free, so we can live in a better society. Students are helping other students find ways to prevent the drug crisis.

Mr. Lonnie Slone, principal of W.H.S., selected five seniors that he felt were drug free to speak to the fifth graders at Osborne and Melvin, the two elementary schools near Wheelwright, about their experience with friends on drugs. These students were part of a panel that included Floyd County sheriff, Paul Hunt Thompson and a representative from Champions Against Drugs, Lola Brashear. The student representatives were Thomas Rainey, Shane McCoy, Robbie Wright, Lisa Johnson and Trena Harris.

The fifth graders from Osborne and Melvin are the first to graduate from the D.A.R.E. program in Floyd County. Each student had to take part in a play and to hang up posters around the school grounds about drug effects. The ceremony was held at the W.H.S. auditorium. Each student received a trophy, certificate, and a T-shirt for a job well done. Brent Holbrook from Melvin and Claud Hall from Osborne were rewarded with a Teddy Bear for answering the most questions about drugs during the ceremony.

Court agenda short

Floyd County Judge Executive John M. Stumbo said Thursday that the agenda for today's meeting of the Floyd County Fiscal Court had only three items listed for discussion or action.

The court is scheduled to advertise for bids for a new fire truck for the Middle Creek Volunteer Fire Department and a bridge at Clear Creek. Also scheduled is a resolution to approve a county aid contract, which would allow highway maintenance more flexible working schedules and greater financial advantages for late summer and fall road work.

The meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m., today (Friday, February 15), at the Floyd County Courthouse Annex.

Professor is educational ambassador

Etta Cantrell, Associate Professor of Developmental Studies at Prestonsburg Community College, has been invited by the president of a national organization to serve as an educational ambassador to the Soviet Union this summer. An exclusive delegation of the National Association for Developmental Educational leaders has been invited to visit the Soviet Union in June of 1991 under the auspices of People to People International program sponsored by the federal government.

The mission will give participants an opportunity to interact with professional counterparts and discuss the various aspects of developmental education at the post-secondary level in the Soviet Union.

Spring into tree planting

Sitting in front of a roaring fire thinking of Spring is a good way to spend these cold winter days. A little planning for the spring months can also be done now. Spring planting season in Kentucky is March through April. Now is a good time to order your trees to insure getting the tree species you prefer.

Erosion control is a good reason to plant trees. Many areas have been bulldozed exposing mineral soil. This precious soil may wash away soon in heavy rain. Planting grass and the trees can stabilize the ground and save the soil. The trees will also increase in value as they grow.

Beautification is another good reason to plant trees. As a backdrop behind a house or as a screen between properties, roads, or swimming pool, trees can efficiently cut down on unwanted sound and vision while improving the overall appearance of the land. White Pine is especially desired for this purpose due to its fast growth, beautiful blue-green color, delicate symmetry and limb holding ability.

Four other species of pine are also available from the Kentucky Division of Forestry, as well as 10 species of hardwoods, including Black Walnut. Trees can be ordered in bundles of 100, 500, 1000 with prices ranging from $15 to $125.

A special wildlife packet containing a mixture of 100 seedlings is also available for $20.

For more information or to order trees, contact the Kentucky Division of Forestry at 437-9526, 1-800-866-0048, or 1-800-866-0330.

Editor:

The Steering Committee of "We are Floyd County" would like to express our sincere appreciation for all those who helped in making our first meeting a grand and glorious success:

—To the staff and management of Jenny Wiley State Park; to Commissioner Thomas Boysen and our other speakers and resource people; to the Kentucky Opry for their rousing renditions; but most of all, to the 77 organizations and to the scores of Floyd County citizens who came out on a Saturday to discuss and plan for ways to improve our education, our environment, and economic development.

With such enthusiasm, our efforts can not fail. With such dedication and support, we know we will achieve not only our short-term objectives, but our long-term goals of encouraging pride and unity in Floyd County. Citizens, you did it! And we thank you!

As you can imagine, I don't get to read your newspaper every day, so it is a pleasure when a copy makes its way to my office. This was the case with the January 25 edition, which a friend was kind enough to send.

Aileen Hall did a feature on me in her "Small World" column for that date, and I wanted to write you, as I did her, to extend my thanks.

As I told Aileen, the article was sensitively written and faithfully captured a private moment which touched several people's lives, including my own. It also was a pleasant surprise because I never sought—nor would I seek—publicity for a deed intended to help an individual in need.

Still, it is gratifying when someone recognizes that you care.

Editor:

The poem I wrote has been circulated in Cincinnati Ohio and is being sent to the service men in the Gulf.

I get the Floyd County Times and enjoy seeing the pictures of the men and women in service. I probably have a relative there myself, since most of my cousins still live there (Floyd County).

If my poem has any merit it came from the Lord and is written from all of us to all of them.

I want to share it with readers of the Times.

It follows:

Young man of war

Young man of war the time is near
The battle will begin,
Lift your head up high and lift the flag
And say your prayers again

Into battle you will go
To fight on foreign land
Not for us and not for you
But to help our fellow man

We know that you are scared
They will try to shoot you down
But you are men of courage
Not a coward will be found

We at home are with you
Our arms are stretched out wide
To hold you if you're hurt
Or in battle by your side

We may not know your name
Or even where you're from
But when you fight for freedom
You fight for all, my son

I know you may not make it
I know you may have to die
But son, you will not die alone
And as a nation we will cry

But, I hope and pray when it's all done
That people who want to shake your hand
Will have to stand in line

War having impact on local campus

by Dr. Thomas D. Matijasic,
Associate Professor of History,
P.C.C.

Prestonsburg Community College is beginning to feel the impact of the war. Unlike traditional college campuses, a community college has much closer ties to the surrounding community. Many students are members of the Kentucky National Guard or belong to Army Reserve units. As the conflict in the Gulf intensifies, so does discussion about the war.

Professor Robert McAninch, who served in the U.S. Army during the height of the Cold War, talks about the war nearly every day in his class or World Politics. McAninch believes that, "this is the right war in the right place at the right time with the right enemy." He reports that virtually all of his students agree with him. Dr. Donald Barlow also spends a great deal of time discussing the war in his history classes. When asked if he approved of the president's handling of the situation he responded by saying, "Yes, I would stand up to an aggressor." Barlow noted that many students in his World War II class are fascinated by the comparison of Saddam Hussein to Adolf Hitler.

Perhaps the Gulf War has been studied most intensely by the students enrolled in Leo Weddle's Modern Social Problems class. Weddle is a former Marine who saw action during the Korean War. During that conflict, he wrote an inspirational poem that was published in the Marine Corps Magazine. As an instructor, he has encouraged his students to learn as much about this war as possible. The class made a field trip to the National Guard Armory in Prestonsburg where they were escorted around the building by Sergeants John Stevens, Fred Bingham, and Ricky Caldwell. The students also created a film based upon interviews they conducted with local residents. The random interviews conducted by the students indicated that a vast majority of people in our area strongly support the war effort. A panel discussion on the war is also planned in the near future.

To many students and faculty members the war has a much more personal meaning. Dr. Barlow and Dr. Dorothy Carlson both have sons in the military. Professor Ron Carter received a letter from his brother written as he was preparing for a move to the front. Yellow ribbons can be seen throughout the campus and are worn by students and faculty members alike. For Assistant Professor Walter Bevens the horror of war was brought home very early. Bevens is an expert on the Middle East and during his years as a student at the University of Arizona he befriended many young Kuwaitis. He has heard from unofficial sources that several of his friends were killed by Iraqi troops during the invasion. He feels that Saddam Hussein "is a terrorist. That is why the whole thing is so tragic."

While the college does employ several faculty members who were born in Asia, none are natives of Iraq or Kuwait. When the war began, a professor from India was puzzled when he received a threatening phone call. India is not in the Middle East and Hindus have a long history of conflict with their Moslem neighbors. Unfortunately not everyone has a good background in geography.

Inquiring minds want to know

by Scott Perry

What has 540 legs but no spine?

Kentucky's General Assembly if it doesn't reinstate a provision to a solid waste bill that requires counties to enact mandatory participation garbage collection programs.

That provision was deleted this week by the House committee on Natural Resources and Environmental Protection and replaced with a proposal that counties make participation in garbage collection programs voluntary.

What courage, what concern, what leadership our environmental protectors have displayed.

No doubt all the state's illegal dumpers will stand in line to sign up for voluntary participation programs now that Frankfort has mandated that they can if they want to.

Certainly this heroic leadership will guarantee the extinction of roadside dumps and polluted streams.

Hallelujah!

Horse #@$%.

Mandatory garbage collection works. Voluntary garbage collection doesn't.

You don't have to look beyond your nose for proof.

Floyd County requires its residents to have their garbage picked up. That service hasn't ended the county's litter problem, but it has had a positive impact on it.

Johnson County has a voluntary system for garbage collection. About half the county's households pay for collection while the other half, presumably, volunteer to throw their trash elsewhere.

Surveys on the issue of mandatory garbage collection routinely produce overwhelming results favoring such an attack on trash. Yet our legislators continue to ignore this apparent mandate.

Why?

Inquiring minds want to know...

Will the circle go unbroken?

Oh, the sun shines bright on my old Kentucky home.
But not necessarily on our old Floyd County Board of Education meetings.

The board spent more than three hours behind closed doors Tuesday in an executive session called to discuss "pending litigation."

That's an exceptable and legal excuse for excluding the public if, in fact, a specific lawsuit was the one and only topic of discussion.

We're led to believe, however, that other matters were on the closed-door agenda. That comes as no great surprise, unfortunately. Public officials often flaunt the law concerning open meetings when it suits them and the public rarely responds with anything close to concern.

Public scrutiny of touchy issues may make some elected officials uncomfortable, but open-airings almost always lend a fresher scent and a less restricted perspective to public issues.

Public apathy toward enforcement of open meeting laws equates to public approval of illegal activity.

Will the circle go unbroken?

That's up to you.

Daniel named president of Ky.-W. Va. gas company

Paintsville native R.T. Daniel has been elected to the position of President of Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company by the Board of Directors. Frederick H. Abrew, Executive Vice President of Equitable Resources, Inc., Kentucky West's parent company in Pittsburgh, made the announcement and noted that Daniel will maintain the additional title of Vice President and General Manager of the Pipeline Division and will have offices at the Company's Prestonsburg headquarters. He will have managerial responsibility for the Company's Kentucky operations and its Pittsburgh-based accounting and legal departments.

Kentucky West Virginia Gas, an interstate natural gas pipeline company founded in 1926, has multifaceted operations including the sale and transportation of natural gas to various towns, local distribution companies, and residential consumers in Eastern Kentucky in addition to its interstate customers, and provides general contracting services to other companies engaged in the production of natural gas and crude oil. Kentucky West recently completed a comprehensive restructuring program that created separate transmission and production/gathering operating divisions and transferred its headquarters from Ashland to Prestonsburg.

Daniel began working with the company in 1963 and held various management positions within the company before being appointed Vice President-Personnel in 1983. He was named Vice President-Administration in 1988.

Daniel is a member of the American Gas Association, National Management Association, American Association of Personnel Administrators, and the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical, and Petroleum Engineers (AIME). Active in civic affairs and youth organizations, Mr. Daniel currently is a member of the Board of Directors of the Mayo State Vocational-Technical Foundation.

Countywide show of support at Red Cross Meet

The Floyd County Red Cross Chapter is seeing a lot of action in the field of humanity. The meeting room of the chapter was filled to capacity at the regular monthly meeting of the Floyd County Red Cross Tuesday night.

Earl Ward with the Big Sandy Area Support Group and representatives of Allen Central High School were on hand to discuss support they were implementing on behalf of area soldiers stationed in the Middle East.

The Big Chapter Support Group, which meets at 6:30 p.m. every Tuesday at the Veteran's Referral Center in Paintsville, is still in the process of organizing, said Ward. "We've found there's more to it than we thought," he said, explaining that there are many aspects to establishing a non-profit organization.

Ward, whose son David is stationed in Saudi Arabia, also explained that the organization is being established to help families of all military personnel. Ward, a former military man, told of a personal incident which happened recently that would probably affect all parents as it did him.

"I came home from work recently and my wife was hysterical. David's personal effects had been sent home. This was very hard to take. Being in the military, I knew this would happen soon.

When someone is serving on the front line, their effects are sent home. They make the soldiers send all their personal belongings home. I even found David's Bible among his things. What a thing to be sent home! The least little things can be used against them if they're captured."

The support group also finds counseling for those families who are having difficulty coping.

Patricia Watson, a teacher at Allen Central, and students Beth Horn and Robin Williams, told the gathering about the recent projects at Allen Central, including a Red, White and Blue Day fundraising event at the school. Students exceeded their original goal of $100, raising $351 in one day. The winning homeroom was Mrs. Judy Slone's whose class won by a mere .10 cents. The money will be used for the troops, the students said.

Mrs. Watson encouraged all Floyd County citizens to also bolster the morale of all soldiers stationed overseas by sending them letters and packages.

Diabetes education series at Our Lady of the Way Hospital

Over 50 people took part in the Diabetes Education Series offered by Our Lady of the Way's Community Health Education Department on February 11, 18 and 25. This program was part of the Action For Health Series offered by the hospital.

The first session offered insights on acute complications, staying in control of the illness and appropriate skin, foot and mouth care.

The second session provided information on oral agents associated with diabetes, insulin sick days, meal and exercise planning.

The final session gave participants a chance to better understand urine testing, home blood glucose monitoring and other chronic complications that occur with diabetics.

The sessions were free to the public and the majority of those attending were referred to the program by their physicians. Others were referred by local healthcare facilities.

Those who attended all three of the sessions received a Home Diabetic Kit from Boehringer Mannheim Pharmaceutical Company, Martin Prescription, Martin Rexall Drug, and Our Lady of the Way donated diabetic supplies that were given to participants through the random drawing.

FLORENCE WOODS BUSSEY

On January 17, 1991 at 6:18 a.m. our family lost the most important person in our lives, our Mother. She was a special and beautiful individual. Everyone who knew her came to love her. She was not only Mother to her own nine children, but Mother, Granny or Maw to countless others. She gave so willingly of herself to so many who needed her help and asked for nothing in return. She will sorely be missed by all who knew her.

We would like to take this time to thank the people who stood by us during the hardest time we have ever had to face.

To Dr. Lowell Martin for his caring and understanding and all the medical help he gave Mother during her illness; to all of the nurses at Our Lady of the Way Hospital for doing everything they possibly could to care for Mother over the last years of her life. You truly are special people. May God bless you all; to Sister Charlene Young for her strength and loving understanding, you may never know how much you being there for all of us meant. There is a special place in our hearts just for you; to John, John Jr., Tommy, Kathryn, Joe and all of the staff at Hall Funeral Home. Words cannot express how much we appreciate everything you have done. Thank you for everything.

To Pug Relfett, a very SPECIAL friend. You know how we feel about you. You are truly one of a kind.

To Johnny Wright, Greg Hall, Billy Woods, James Lacy Porter, Virgil Conn and Doug Stratton our heartfelt thanks for being pallbearers and carrying our most precious Mother to her place of final rest.

To Ernest Sword for your words of kindness and love. It meant a lot to us to have someone who was a close friend of Mother's to help lay her to rest.

To everyone who sent flowers and food our most heartfelt gratitude. May God richly bless each and everyone of you.

To the Kentucky State Police, Prestonsburg City Police, Floyd County Sheriff's Department and the Knott County Sheriff's Department—thank you does not seem sufficient enough. God watch over each and everyone of you. You are all very special people and the people of Floyd County and the state of Kentucky are very fortunate to have such caring people.

Our beautiful Mother is gone but will never be forgotten, God has only borrowed her for a while and someday we will all be together again as a family just the way she wanted. We love you.

Thanks you one and all.

In Memory of Our Mother

Mom it's been one year today
Since Jesus called you home to stay

We all miss you because we loved you so
But we know in our hearts that you had to go

You're in a place now where there's no pain
And we know that our loss is heavens gain

Jesus knows best so we don't question why
Sooner or later we all have to die

We miss your sweet and smiling face
And all these memories time can't erase

Sleep on sweet mom because it's not the end
Because some sweet day we'll all meet again

In Loving Memory of our Dear Mother and wife Dorsa Shelton whom passed away February 16, 1990.

Kentucky radon program boosted by federal grant

A $286,000 federal grant will allow Kentucky to expand its radon program activities while emphasizing special assistance for school officials interested in the potentially hazardous gas.

Jeana Phelps, radon control program coordinator in the state Department of Health Services, says that funds from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) will help to further the program's primary goal.

"The ultimate goal of this effort is to reduce radon levels in homes and other buildings across Kentucky so that the air inside homes and buildings is as free of radon as outdoor air," she said.

"To reach this goal, all homes, schools and workplaces need to be tested for radon and action taken if elevated levels are discovered."

Phelps said that Kentucky is one of only 13 states nationwide to receive EPA funding for an "innovative" proposal.

"Of the total grant, $73,000 is set aside to allow us to directly reach school officials with information about radon testing and removal," she said. "This will be accomplished with two live question-and-answer broadcasts through Kentucky Educational Television."

The KET programs, scheduled for fall of 1991 and spring of 1992, will include a panel discussion of radon in schools followed by a toll-free number to allow school officials to call in with questions to be answered on the air.

Kentucky public school and university officials and day care center and nursing home administrators will receive information through the mail about the shows prior to the broadcasts.

"The first show will involve testing and the second will focus on mitigation measures used to reduce radon levels," said Phelps. "Both will be taped and available through libraries for people who miss the live broadcasts."

In other areas, the grant will fund the following activities:

**A review of the state's technical support needs and the development of a long-range plan to provide the support.

Telephone tips for tots
Does your child know how to make an emergency call? The National Safety Council suggests that parents take time to teach youngsters how to contact rescue personnel when an emergency situation arises.

A child should know how to dial "911," if it is available, or "0" for the operator.

Having contacted help, the youngster should give their name, address and telephone number. They should never hang up until the emergency operator tells them to do so.

**Development of a statewide community outreach program that would involve civic, education and health organizations to keep radon issues in the public eye.

**Staff consultation with Kentuckians about radon testing and mitigating and the health effects of the gas.

Radon is a radioactive gas occurring naturally from the breakdown of underground uranium. In outdoor air, it is diluted and usually harmless. However, when the colorless, odorless gas is trapped inside a building, it becomes hazardous.

Scientists estimate that between 5,000 and 20,000 long cancer deaths a year in the United States may be attributed to radon exposure.

A revolution in Floyd County education

Changes are in the wind in many aspects of Floyd County living, but none are as pronounced and exciting as those that are happening in education. This past week has been a pivotal week for me personally. I hope can look back at this week and say this was the time that I dared to go one level higher.

About five or six years ago I was well on my way to burnout. I had come to the conclusion that the only way out was to "beat" in the time. Then Carol Stumbo introduced me to some exciting developments: Foxfire, writing across the curriculum, computers and telecommunications, doing a literary magazine, and, above all, an excitement and appreciation of teaching. I appreciate all the help and encouragement that Carol provided, but we all must move ahead with exciting things. We proved we could produce quality writing in Floyd County, do exciting Foxfire projects, and produce a fine county literary magazine. Now is the time to rise to that next level. I think we are on the way.

One of the most promising things to come along in a long time is Site Based Decision Making (SBM). We elected a council at McDowell, but it was inactive because we had no training in the concept. This past week the councils from Allen, Betsy Layne, Harold, and McDowell received training in this concept. For four hours after school on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday this group attended a workshop provided by Morehead State University. Dr. Wells and Dr. Duncan, I must tell you that I was ever skeptical when I learned that Morehead was going to do the training. The skepticism was all gone half way through the Tuesday session. I am usually hard to fool on commitment and sincerity. If my perceptions are on target, these gentlemen are truly dedicated to the success of this educational management system. They are especially eager for it to work in eastern Kentucky. The groups that had prior training in this process commented on the effectiveness of Dr. Duncan's and Dr. Wells' presentations.

These gentlemen discussed many issues, concepts and plans, but the discussion always came back to students and achievements (in and out of the classroom). Remember when we made almost all our decisions based on what the state department of education wanted. We still have to answer to these people, but we now have a say in how we educate our children. We should learn to ask for help from these people, and they won't have time for any criticism.

SBDM won't work without the parents. If the various communities have the same type of parents that attended the workshop, we will succeed. In fact, the parents have a broader vision that the teachers and administrators.

They are not encumbered by twenty years of red tape, and the rest of us are in the process of shedding much of that bureaucracy.

Exciting things other than site based decision making are going on in our system. On Saturday, Thelma Spears, Patricia Watson, and I were not at Jenny Wiley to hear the new education commissioner even though we really wanted to. We were at Osborne Elementary doing a workshop on the writing process. An excellent presentation by Patricia Watson and enthusiastic participation by the group of teachers from Melvin and Osborne made for a terrific session. This is a fairly new idea to our system: using our own people to have workshops and seminars.

I don't want to leave the impression that I am some kind of martyr—I am not. I attended these nineteen hours of training because I wanted to, and I got paid for them. That is as it should be. People in other professions get compensated for extra work. We do too, now.

Students, parents, teachers and administrators—I ask you all to join in this leap to the next level. It promises to be the most exciting things to happen in our lifetime. We owe it to our children to make it work.

Elk Horn Coal's engineering legend George Pow is remembered

George Pow Chief Engineer 1918-1946

by Jeanette Knowles

His name is enough to make you sit up and take notice, but his profession was different. I always imagined him to be a big man — the type of man you picture whose name is George POW! He was, however, not very large in size; his picture presents a quiet, neat individual, reticent looking, but determined in all he did. The set of his Scottish mouth told you he would do whatever it takes to have a satisfying "pass through" on this earth.

Pow died 44 years ago, but evidence of his work with Elk Horn Coal may still be found in many records and files. In all his years with Elk Horn, he was a vital part of the life, success, and future of the company.

He died just before Elk Horn Coal formally shut down company mining work to pay expenses at the same time. That he did, traveling to Kentucky and entering Berea College where he took seven years to complete his high school work and two years of college. (Berea was only a two year institution at the turn of the century.)

After graduation in 1905, George Pow entered West Virginia University. Here he studied civil engineering and was introduced to the world of coal mining. Living in the mountains in a state dominated by coal and studying at a university that had an interest in the coal industry, new possibilities appeared for George.

Additionally, the nation's worst coal mine disaster occurred not more than 30 miles away in Fairmont, West Virginia in 1907. Being so close, George went to see and learn why 361 men died in a coal mine.

Completing his work at the University, George Pow received his B.S. Degree in civil engineering in 1908. By the summer of 1909 he was in Van Lear working for Consolidation Coal Company. (It isn't known exactly what he did between graduation and the summer of 1909). This coal company was in the early stages of mine development and construction of a complete town; although mining was already underway, the railroad wasn't complete and coal was stockpiled outside mines 151 and 152 until March, 1910 when the first trainload of coal went out of Van Lear.

In Van Lear, George Pow worked as a mining engineer for Consol. He wasn't the first engineer there, and he wasn't the only one. Mine development had been underway for close to two years and much of the town was already constructed. However, his employment with Consol in Van Lear was his first recorded job as an engineer in the field of coal mining.

In the winter of 1909, Pow went back to Berea to marry Grace Lester, also a graduate of Berea and a native Berean. They returned to Van Lear where their first child, Jean, was born a year later. Anna Belle, the second child, was born two years after that. During these three years, the Pows lived in two different houses—once in a house on a hillside, and once in a row of houses built along the Big Sandy River. Like everybody else, Grace Pow called upon the company doctor to deliver her babies at home.

With a month-old baby and a two-year-old toddler, George and Grace moved to Right Beaver Creek in Floyd County where George was transferred by Consolidation Coal in December, 1912. Here he worked for Elk Horn Fuel and Elk Horn Mining in their development of mines at Garrett and Wayland. In 1915 these Floyd County works would be united in Elk Horn Coal Corporation, a company directed by the same individuals directing Consolidation Coal Company.

In 1914 he went to work for United Thacker Coal Company in Mingo County, W. Va., where he was soon joined by Harry Zimmerman, another young man from Adams, Mass. Although there was an age difference between George and Harry, their families were acquainted in Massachusetts.

After four years with United Thacker, Pow returned to Kentucky to be chief engineer for Elk Horn Coal Corporation, with his home and office in Wheelwright. Here, the Pows had two more children: George, Jr. born in 1921 and Katherine born in 1924.

During the nine years he spent growing up in Wheelwright, George Pow, Jr. remembers attending the frame grade school with two or three grades in each room (no high school at the time), sled riding down the street, and visiting his father in his office. He remembers the small livery stable for saddle horses for company officials who could not yet get around by car. He remembers visiting Charles Hanger and the photo lab which developed negatives of mine works, and which visits sparked in him a life-time interest in photography. The town carpenter, Mr. Stewart, was also an intriguing person for a young boy to follow around.

In 1930 Elk Horn Coal sold all of its property at Wheelwright. A few employees were kept by the company, however, and transferred to Wayland. George Pow's son remembers riding the train down left Beaver Creek to Martin, then taking another one up Right Beaver to Wayland. Ezra Turner helped the family pack up and move, sending their household goods to the depot where they were loaded in a railroad freight car for shipment to the new town.

Among those going to Wayland were John Haymond, an engineer and son of Tom Haymond, Charles Hanger, manager Bush Brooke, chemist Wallace Shopshire, preacher Dan Harmon Sr. and Dan Harmon Jr., store manager G.S. Kinzer, purchasing agent S.C. Berkeley, and the Pow family. Charles Hanger had married Katherine (Rene) Pow, George's niece, the only relative from the Pow family to locate in eastern Kentucky. Katherine was a registered nurse and worked with doctors in Wheelwright and Wayland.

Once in Wayland, George resumed his duties as chief engineer for Elk Horn Coal. These included monitoring the progress of the company's eight mines at Garrett and Wayland and those in Letcher County, and overseeing the company's acquisition, sale, lease, or exchange of mineral and surface property. His work was as diverse as the times, influenced by developments in the labor movement, the national economy, Elk Horn's financial fortunes and misfortunes, and even the local weather! (Floods of 1927 and other years destroyed company property and brought a halt to mining for several days.)

The engineering office was located behind the theater, in a room on the second floor, while purchasing was on the first floor. Engineering remained in this building until the late 1950's when it was moved into the company office building nearby (now the Masonic Lodge Hall). When the theater burned and was subsequently torn down around 1960, a new engineering office was constructed where the theater had stood for so many years, and engineering services returned to its original location.

During the late 1930's when Elk Horn filed for bankruptcy and was put in the hands of receivers, Mr. Pow's office was moved into the Wayland Bank, which was closed, where he overlooked property not under lease. The receivers, of course, were responsible for any mining and royalties received.

When they first moved to Wayland, the Pow family lived in a two-story house in the bottom behind the hotel, next to the ballfield. Near this house was the medical office of Dr. Wicker and Dr. Donahoe (the hospital had not yet been built) and the Soda Fountain. Elk Horn was building a new house for its chief engineer between the school and the Methodist Church. In a few months the family moved into this new dwelling, their home for 16 years until Mr. Pow died in 1946.

George's favorite recreation was golf, played mainly at the Beaver Valley County Club at Allen (now Stumbo Park), where the greens were sand and the Club House was a large, log building. Golf matches were also played at the Pikeville and Paintsville Country Clubs and the old golf course just outside Prestonsburg, on the Abbott Creek Road. Additionally, George loved to play bridge and chess.

Some time before 1946 George Pow began to experience attacks of angina. Those attacks worsened until he was confined to his bed in the summer of 1946. John Haymond stepped in at this time to assume most of the engineering responsibilities.

On August 28, 1946, at age 69, George Pow had a fatal heart attack at his home in Wayland. He had never retired from his job as chief engineer of Elk Horn Coal Corporation, but worked right up to the last few months before his death.

He was at the close of an era, however, for Elk Horn, Consolidation Coal, and others, were already in the process of selling off company houses to people living in them. Soon, they would be selling mine equipment little by little, until nothing was left but the mines themselves.

There were others like George Pow, devoting the best part of their adult lives to the company, probably with little regret. People like Noah Howard, J.T. Spillman, Jack Lyon, Frank Harmon, George Fuller, Syl Carver, Tom Kane, J.E. Miller, A.E. Quinlan, Joe Sheeter, and Malcolm Dearing spent many years, if not all their working lives in the employ of Elk Horn Coal Corporation in the Wayland and Fleming Divisions. They, along with thousands of coal miners and their families, made the coal industry thrive, and gave it respect.

As the Elk Horn Coal Corporation completes its first 75 years of mining, leasing, and selling coal, we remember George Pow is remembered as an early engineer in eastern Kentucky, who was knowledgeable in his field, reliable, well-liked, and lived his life among the people of Eastern Kentucky.

Note: Most information for this article was obtained from an interview with George Pow, Jr., October, 1990.

Smile Awhile — by Sarah Hopson

Out to lunch

"Mom, can you take us to lunch today?" J.R. asked one morning as he was leaving for school.

Being the accommodating mother I am, I agreed. I didn't realize my error until approximately 12:10 p.m. when my 5-passenger vehicle took on the appearance of a chartered bus.

"Who's going to be my lap buddy?" a voice asked.

"I want by the window!" Veronica shouted.

"Somebody turn on the radio!"

"Whoa! Someone cut the cheese!"

"J.R.," I shrieked. "don't you dare eat in this car!"

"Get your foot out of my ear," Jimmy Wayne groaned.

"I can't find my arm! Does Don have it?"

"Don's not in here!"

"Then whose arm is this!" Kerri exclaimed.

"I think it's mine," Jennifer said.

"Oh, no. Mine's over here. Phew! That's a relief. Mom would be furious if I came home without it."

"Don't pull out yet; my shoes are gone!" Kellie hollered.

"Open the door! My leg's caught!"

"Mom, can Jeremy ride in your lap?"

"Run me by the house. I need to get some money."

"Where do you live?" I asked as I moved the seat back so Jeremy could squeeze in.

"Not far. Do you know where Inez is?"

Seconds later, Robert hit the gas pedal, and we accelerated into traffic.

"Who opened it?" I asked as a gust of wind almost sucked me through the sun roof.

"I had to," Matt whined. "I couldn't get my head in..."

The rest of the sentence was drowned out by the blaring of the radio, and the excruciating pain that was running down my right leg. When I reached down to feel the cause of my discomfort, my hand rubbed against a set of braces.

"They're sharp, aren't they?" Scott panted.

"Are you all right?" I asked.

"Just having trouble breathing," he gasped. "I'll be fine when Guppy takes his foot out of my lungs."

By the time we arrived at the restaurant I was deaf and had lost the mobility of my lower extremities.

"J.R.!" I screamed. "Do these kids have money?"

"You worry too much, Mom," he said.

As usual, he missed the point I was trying to make. I wasn't worried about them having money, I was more concerned that they wouldn't. With that chilling thought in mind, I limped into the restaurant just in time for the waitress to present me with the check.

"Pay up!" I demanded. Dollar bills started flying in all directions as the kids slung their money towards me and headed for the car.

"That'll be $38.06," the cashier said. "Was it all right?"

"Did you say $38.06?" I gulped.

"Yes. Is there a problem?"

"There certainly is. I only have $17.00."

"Maybe you dropped some of it."

"Sure," I sighed as I wrote out a check.

I got to the car in time to witness Brian jump onto the trunk and catapult himself into the car via the sun roof.

"Why don't you do that when you're going for a rebound?"

"Sara, you're so funny," he laughed.

"Do any of you owe me anything?" I asked.

"Thank you!" they all screamed.

That wasn't what I hoped to hear, but coming from a bunch of teenagers, it was the closest thing to a payment I was ever going to receive.

"Drive down Main Street," Jeff said, as he pulled my wig from the back window. He then poked his head through the sun roof and started waving like a beauty queen.

"Get back in!" I yelled. "People will think I'm nuts, providing they don't already suspect it."

When I finally got them back to school, I decided to have a discussion with J.R. as soon as possible. That night at supper I asked him what made him do such a foolish thing.

"I knew you'd be upset, but I won't forget Hunt again."

"Are you saying you invited all those kids?"

"You wouldn't want me to hurt anybody's feelings. You always told me you hated a selfish kid."

"I must have left out the part about detesting a stupid one even more."

"Can you take us tomorrow?"

"Who's us? The entire eighth grade?"

"Don't be silly, Mom. Some of them go home for lunch."

I put in a bid for a used Greyhound the very next day.

Passenger restraints

Approximately 15,000 lives could be saved each year if all motorists would wear safety belts. Even for short trips around town, the National Safety Council suggests using a three-pronged approach to safety on the road—wear your lap belt, shoulder harness and drive a car equipped with an air bag.

Betsy Layne Bobcats Conference Champs

It has been a rough year for the McDowell Daredevils and coach Johnny Ray Turner. Adversity has followed this team all season. The Daredevils had three players leave the team and then, as the Betsy Layne Bobcats rolled into McDowell, the news was that Matt Johnson will not be available for the important conference game. Johnson was out because of an illness. Matters got worse. Barry Hall turned an ankle in the game and could be scratched for the district tournament despite vowing that he would play. So a dark cloud does indeed hang over the Daredevil camp as district tournament time approaches.

Coach Turner had to go to his youthful bench early in this game but that wasn't enough as the Betsy Layne Bobcats defeated the Daredevils 72-59 to claim the 1990-91 Floyd County Conference title. It was the 17th straight year the Bobcats have been either co-holder of the title or won it. The game was McDowell's only hope of tying the Bobcats after leading the conference most of the year. The loss drops McDowell into a second place tie with Prestonsburg and each team has one conference game remaining — each with Wheelwright. Betsy Layne looked awesome as they came out in the first quarter doing no wrong. Controlling the boards was a big factor for the Bobcats as center Berne Eplin was busy on both ends pulling down the rebounds. Eplin had 10 rebounds in the game to go with his eight points. The hot shooting of Adam Gearheart, 29 points, one three-pointer, six of eight from the charity line, led the determined Bobcats.

"It's good to be back on top," said Bobcat mentor Junior Newsome. Newsome's teams have finished with McDowell and Prestonsburg the last two seasons in a tie for the top spot. This was the year of the Cat for Betsy Layne.

"Our kids played real hard and hustled a lot to win this one," Newsome explained. "We haven't won here in three years and that was on the minds of the players coming here. We are playing where we want to be. We're playing good at the right time." Newsome said this is the hardest playing team he has had at Betsy Layne. "They won't quit."

The Bobcats came out smoking. Phillip King got the scoring under-

A Look At Sports

A VISIT WITH EAGLES COACH JOHN MILLS

John Mills, head girls basketball coach at Alice Lloyd College and also Eagles baseball coach, was in McDowell to take a look at one of his hopeful recruits — Lori Bryant. Mills is very high on the talented Lady Daredevil and hopes to be able to sign her to a letter-of-intent this spring.

Says Mills, "Lori is a very talented basketball player. She can play defense and score. She rebounds very well and we would love to have her as part of our program at Alice Lloyd."

Mills said that Sheldon Clark's Katrina Preece and Linda Slone will be joining the Lady Eagles next season and getting Bryant would be the topping.

"I feel if I can get these three girls it would be a good start for our program."

Mills, who is in his first year as head girls basketball coach at ALC, says that he will also be looking at Kathy Slone of Prestonsburg. The Lady Eagles coach has praise for the way former Betsy Layne Lady Bobcat Brenda Hamilton has performed this year, too.

"She did a great job for us," Mills said. "In fact she worked her way into the starting lineup."

Former Alice Lloyd Eagle and Lees College player, Jo Ann Conn (Allen Central Lady Rebel) may be returning to the Alice Lloyd campus to continue her basketball career.

"I talked to Jo Ann today (Tuesday)," said Mills, "and I would give her a scholarship if she comes back. She could really help us. I think she realizes that she made a mistake leaving."

Coach Mills

talked of the upcoming college baseball season and his eyes lit as he spoke of the Eagles new baseball facilities. The Alice Lloyd coach is looking forward to the season, which starts March 2 when the Eagles face the Pikeville Panthers.

Mills has high expectations of former Allen Central catcher Kevin Spurlock. "Kevin will do a good job for us," Mills said. "He will be our catcher and that allows us to move Tim Trusty (former Blackcat) back to third base. Tim had to do the catching for us last year because we didn't have anyone else."

Magoffin County's Jeff Lovely is the district's best first baseman says Mills.

"Jeff has been very consistent for us at first base," explained the Eagle coach. "He definitely is the best first baseman in our district."

The Eagle baseball team would normally play their home games at the Stumbo Park in Allen, but the Eagles' mentor says that will not be necessary this season with their new field being ready.

BOY, HAVE THE DEVILS FALLEN ON HARD TIMES

What else can happen to the McDowell Daredevils basketball team? A team that many felt had a real good shot at another conference title this season has been really hit by the loss of players. Early in the season, Mike Duddleson left the team along with Brent Morgan. Lately, Britt Stumbo says that he doesn't want to play anymore. Now the news is that Barry Hall may not be able to play in the upcoming tournament. I must say that coach Johnny Ray Turner has had his share of adversity this season.

Here is a school, a team, that needs the support of the missing players. I personally don't know if coach Turner or the McDowell players would want them to come back. But I would like to see Duddleson, Morgan and Stumbo say "I'll do it for my school's team." The Daredevils remain a good ball club with capable players, but the team needs to be stronger for tournament play.

Again, they may not be welcomed back, but they should offer their services at least.

WE SALUTE THE ALLEN CENTRAL AND BETSY LAYNE FRESHMEN

Hats off to the Allen Central Rebels and Betsy Layne Bobcats freshmen basketball teams for their successful finish. Allen Central finished 9-1 on the year while Betsy Layne went 15-2. The future of Rebel and Bobcat basketball looks bright in the years to come.

A Large Crowd On Hand For Bobcats, Daredevils

A large crowd filed into the E.P Grigsby Fieldhouse at McDowell Tuesday night to watch the Betsy Layne Bobcats and Daredevils square off in conference play. The Daredevils had a chance to tie the Bobcats for the conference top spot, but fell to the Cats 72-59. Here Dale Hinkle (45) and Phillip King (32) go for the opening tip. (Photo by Ed Taylor)

Bryant's 19 Points Lead McDowell Past Betsy Layne As Mills Looks On

Would the real Betsy Layne Lady Bobcat team please stand up?

Second place in the girls' Floyd County basketball conference was at stake Tuesday night at McDowell as the Lady Bobcats of Betsy Layne (4-4) rode into McDowell and the Devil's Den to face a challenging McDowell (4-3) Lady Daredevil team. Betsy Layne came into the game at 4-3 and second in the conference by a half of a game. When the smoke had cleared out of the Den the scoreboard read McDowell 63, Betsy Layne 30.

In the stands was Alice Lloyd Lady Eagle coach John Mills, who was looking at McDowell's Lori Bryant. Mills is hoping to sign the hot shooting forward to a letter-of-intent this spring.

This is the same Lady Cat team that knocked off front running Allen Central on Friday night. The same team that could do no wrong against the Lady Rebels. But Tuesday night they could nothing right.

"I don't know what Betsy Layne team is going to show up from one game to another," said Lady Bobcat coach Bill Newsome. "We had a lot of good shots but they just weren't falling for us. I think the players got frustrated over it. I think McDowell just wanted it worst than us."

The loss dropped the Lady Bobcats out of second place and a chance for the first round bye in the upcoming district tournament in two weeks. However, not only was Newsome thinking he was coaching a different team, but Lady Daredevil coach, Cassandra Keathley couldn't believe what she saw from her team.

"This is not my team," said Keathley, whose Lady Daredevils opened fast and played the whole game consistently. "I don't know what has happened to them. We played great basketball tonight."

Betsy Layne was never in the game after the first quarter. McDowell, behind the hot shooting of Carrie Newsome, rolled out to a 13-4 first quarter lead, as Betsy Layne just couldn't get their shots to go in. Newsome hit all four of her shots in the first quarter in scoring eight points. Kristi Pack, working the boards hard, pulled off an offensive rebound for two points and Christy Mullins scored the game's first two points on a layup.

Betsy Layne managed to pull back to within three points, 13-10, by scoring the first six points of the second quarter, then Bryant did her thing, taking control and running the floor. Jenny Slone hit a nice 10 foot jumper and Bryant scored on the baseline. Mullins, leading the McDowell fast break, scored two straight layups and, after Nancy Shepherd hit a jumper to make it 21-12, Bryant ran off 10 unanswered points. Pack closed out the scoring in the first half with a basket underneath.

"They killed us on the boards," said Newsome of his team's lack of rebounding. "We had just eight defensive rebounds and 18 offensive. That should be the other way around. Our kids played hard and tried hard but we just didn't do anything in the

Floyd County basketball: Final 13 days, part two

Last Wednesday we tried to unravel the possibilities of how the conference could end up. Today there is a little clearer picture of how the conference race will finalize. Today we want to look at some of the players to watch, areas of improvement needed to win the tournament and the home court advantage.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Perhaps the most underrated player in the 15th Region is Harold Johnson of Wheelwright. Johnson has been, in the last month, a human scoring machine. The 6' 5" junior forward has canned 37, 27, 24, 35 points in his last four games averaging close to 30 points per game in the span. Johnson is scoring 23 ppg for the season.

Allen Central doesn't have that one player you can look to to score points in bunches. But what the Rebels do have is a group of players, anyone of which could come out on a given night and hit for 25 points. Lately, it has been the hot shooting of Stewart Hall (18 ppg) and the clutch play of Chuck Lafferty that has propelled the Rebels. The guard play of Ronnie Sammons makes the Rebels a strong outside threat.

Betsy Layne, perhaps more than the other county school, can boast of three "look to players." Those who bear watching are Phillip King, Adam Gearheart and Chris Newsome. King is the team leading scorer, averaging around 21 ppg. Gearheart and Newsome are the outside threats for the Bobcat team.

Prestonsburg loves to shoot the treys. There is probably not a better three point shooting team in the 58th District than the Blackcats. John Clark is capable of hitting five to eight three-pointers on a given night. Clark is not the only one who can fill it up from three-point land. Try Jason Crisp, Aaron Tucker and Worthie McGuire. In back to back games for the Blackcats — Johns Creek and Whitesburg — the Blackcats hit 20 treys in the two games.

McDowell has what many feel is the best guard in the 15th Region in Stacy Hall. Hall is averaging around 23 ppg and has been the Daredevils leader this season. However, Doug Hopkins has shown his scoring ability this year and another underrated player in the 58th District is Dale Hinkle. The play of Barry Hall has been a help to Coach Johnny Ray Turner's team.

Girl players to keep your eye on include Allen Central's Teresa Gibson. Gibson has been hampered with an injury of late but, at full form, she is the most consistent three-point shooter in the 58th District. The second best may be Stacy "Mini" Moore. Both are very accurate from the 19'9" line. These two could bear watching.

Betsy Layne is not without their three-point threat in Briana Boyd. Boyd has been reluctant to shoot the basketball as much as her coach Bill Newsome would like. Boyd has a way with one of his patented moves underneath. Keith Hall connected on a free throw and Eplin, on a good move underneath, tipped in a missed shot. King finished the 7-0 run with an offensive put back.

Dale Hinkle broke the coldness for McDowell, who turned the ball over on their first three possessions, with a strong move inside with 5:25 remaining. Betsy Layne ran off the next eight points and went up 15-2.

After Hinkle scored again for McDowell, Gearheart and Eplin scored baskets to make it 19-4 and the Bobcats led at the first stop, 25-11.

Gearheart tossed in seven points in the second quarter to give Betsy Layne a 37-21 lead at the half. Stacy Hall, who only had two points in the first quarter, scored the Daredevils' first seven points in the second period.

McDowell opened hot in the third quarter as they scored the first 11 points to cut the Bobcat lead to 37-32. Doug Hopkins' three-pointer capped off the rally.

Betsy Layne turned up the heat on defense and outscored McDowell 10-2 for a 47-34 lead. McDowell cut the lead to eight, 50-42, before the end of the third quarter.

"The first three or four minutes of the third and fourth quarters are very important," said Newsome in relation to how his team played opening the third period.

The closest McDowell could get to Betsy Layne in the final stanza was nine points, 63-54.

"Our players played hard," said McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner. "We missed some easy layups early. In a game like this you have to make those shots." McDowell missed six uncontested layups in the first quarter.

"We didn't take care of the ball in the first half," the McDowell coach went on to explain. "We got into a running game with them and lacked intensity. The second half we played better defense and our intensity level was higher."

Phillip King added 15 points for the Bobcats and Keith Hall tossed in 12. Eplin finished with eight points and Newsome six.

Stacy Hall led the Daredevils with 25 points. Doug Hopkins tossed in 14. Hinkle, in another good outing, had 14. Barry Hall scored eight before hurting his ankle.

Betsy Layne now stands at 17-7 on the year and finished the conference with a 7-1 record — good numbers for the Bobcats. Betsy Layne will host the always tough Pikeville Panthers Friday night and will entertain Phelps Tuesday night.

McDowell will host Wheelwright Friday night in their final conference game. The game will have a big bearing on the finish for the number two spot.

McDowell drops full game back after loss to P-burg

Coach Johnny Ray Turner's McDowell Daredevils dropped a full game back of the front running Betsy Layne Bobcats in the Floyd County Conference race after falling 66-63 to the Prestonsburg Blackcats Friday night at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse. McDowell fell to 4-2 in the conference after losing a game they seemingly had in control. John Clark scored 21 points and Worthie McGuire 15 to lead the Blackcats in scoring.

Doug Hopkins led the Daredevils with 15 points. Dale Hinkle tossed in 14 and Stacy Hall added 13. Hall fouled out of the game in the fourth quarter with 55 seconds remaining and the score tied at 59-59. McDowell was playing without the services of Britt Stumbo, who reportedly left the McDowell team for personal reasons.

McDowell looked as if they were going to keep pace with Betsy Layne as they rolled out to a 35-27 halftime lead over Gordon Parido's Blackcats. Hinkle's basket at the start of the second half put the Daredevils up by 10 points, 37-27. The lead stayed at 10 points, 41-31, with 6:04 remaining in the third period. Hall then was called for a charging foul in picking up his fourth personal. Hall was retired to the pines. Prestonsburg, who was having a horrendous time hitting their shots, began to chip away and take advantage of some turnovers by McDowell.

Chris Burke hit two free throws after drawing a foul from Hinkle, his fourth. Hinkle had to join Hall on the bench. Earl Cook, who came in for Hall, hit a jumper to keep the lead at 10, 43-33. Then McDowell began to turn the ball over. Clark hit a layup, James Derossett followed with a basket, Whitt hit a jumper and Clark hit a 10 footer to make it 43-41 at the third stop.

Clark hit a 12 footer to tie the game at 43-all at the start of the fourth period. Matt Johnson, on a good move inside, scored underneath to keep McDowell in front 45-43. However, a free throw by Whitt and a three-pointer by Clark made the lead 47-45 as the Cats fought back.

Doug Hopkins tied the game and a basket by Johnson put the Daredevils back up 49-47. A 10 footer by McGuire knotted the score at 49-49.

Neither team could get much of an advantage over the other as the lead exchanged hands 14 times in the last quarter. The biggest lead for either club was one point until, with 34 seconds to go, Jason Crisp hit a trey to put the Blackcats up 63-60. McGuire then connected on two free throws for a five point lead for the Blackcats. Hinkle slipped underneath for a layup with 11 seconds remaining and the score was 65-63, Prestonsburg.

With eight seconds on the clock, McDowell's Earl Cook fouled Joe Whitt in an effort to get the ball back. Whitt lifted the first shot toward the basket that drew iron and bounced off. Whitt, unshaken, connected on the back end and gave Prestonsburg a three point cushion, 66-63. McDowell still had time to tie the game with a three-pointer. However, Hopkins three-point attempt missed the mark as the horn sounded.

McDowell led by eight points at the end of the first quarter, 17-9, as the Blackcats struggled to find the basket. Both teams played on even terms in the second period.

The win avenges an earlier loss to McDowell at McDowell. In that game Prestonsburg held a 14 point lead only to see it vanish.

The win improved the charging Blackcats to a 3-3 conference record and a possibility of tying for second place. The Blackcats are 5-13 overall.

McDowell falls to 4-2 in the conference and are 8-14 overall. Prestonsburg has two remaining conference games — both with Wheelwright — and McDowell faced Betsy Layne last night and will take on Wheelwright Friday night at home. Jason Crisp finished with nine points for Prestonsburg as did James Derossett, who gave Prestonsburg a lift. Derossett had a good game on the boards also.

Matt Johnson added 12 points for McDowell. Barry Hall finished with five and Earl Cook netted four.

Room For Shepherd!

Nancy Shepherd (10) went in for two points as Jenny Slone looked on. Teammate Dee Dee Martin lent support. Shepherd had 10 points to lead the Lady Bobcats but her team fell hard to the Lady Devils, 63-30. (Photo by Ed Taylor) smooth shot and good range from outside. You have to like the hustle of Shelia Hall of the Lady Bobcats. Hall is a workhorse on the boards as well as on defense.

A quicker team in the 58th District cannot be found outside of the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats, a very talented ball club led by senior Kathy Slone. Slone is a 20 plus point scorer. Quick and rebounds with the best. Missy Bailey, junior center, has really helped this Lady Blackcats ball club since coming over from Betsy Layne. Bailey has added board strength and gets about three blocked shots a game.

Wheelwright has struggled all year looking for that someone to step out and be a team leader. That person has not shown up, but the future for Lady Trojan basketball looks good as this year's team is loaded with youth. Nine freshmen make up a large part of the Wheelwright roster which lists no seniors. Becky Allen is the team's leading scorer. However, Allen has failed to see how good she could really be with an extra effort. You have to like the hard play of Shena Collins, Vicky Johnson and Stephanie Little.

McDowell has perhaps the leading candidate for Player of the Year in the 58th District in Lori Bryant. Bryant is currently fourth in the state in scoring with a 23.7 ppg average. However, outside of Bryant, the Lady Daredevils have not seen a lot of consistency from the other players although they are capable. Jenny Slone and Kristi Pack have shown much improvement over the past month.

P-burg slips past Wheelwright in battle for 2nd place

"I got it, no I got it"

Second place in the Floyd County basketball conference has yet to be settled. If the Prestonsburg Blackcats have anything to say about it — and they do — they will not give up without a battle. And a battle is what it was as the Blackcats traveled to Wheelwright Tuesday night to face Monroe Jones' "hot" Trojans. The battle raged as the two teams went after each other knowing the value of the game. When the smoke cleared, Prestonsburg came away with a 57-50 win over the host Trojans.

Wheelwright needed a victory to ensure getting out of the basement of the conference standings. A Trojan victory would have guaranteed Wheelwright a share of fourth place with Allen Central who has completed their conference schedule at 2-6. The loss dropped Wheelwright to 1-5, but the Trojans still have McDowell to play and a rematch with Prestonsburg Saturday night at Prestonsburg.

That means the Trojans must win at least one of the two remaining games to tie Allen Central for fourth place. Victories in both games would assure them of fourth place alone.

Prestonsburg cooled down the hot scoring Harold Johnson with 23 points. That is low production for a player who has been scoring in the high 30's and low 40's of late. Johnson had 16 points at halftime but could only manage seven points in the second half.

The Trojans pulled to within one point, 42-41, after three quarters after trailing at halftime by six, 32-26. It was Shane McCoy who carried the load for Wheelwright in the third quarter, tossing in six points as the Trojans outscored Prestonsburg 15-10 in the period.

Worthie McGuire and John Clark kept the Blackcats out in front in the first half, but it was the inside play of Chris Burke that won the game for the Blackcats. Clark only had three points - a trey - in the second half and McGuire tossed in just four. Burke was spectacular in the second half in finishing with 16 points. McGuire had 15 points and Clark added 16.

Prestonsburg outscored Wheelwright 17-7 in the final period to pull the game out. Johnson had a three-pointer and a field goal in the final period and McCoy scored the other basket. Wheelwright got no help from Layne Bailey who had 26 points the game before against Sheldon Clark. Bailey had only two points in the game. McCoy finished with 12 points but Paul Hall's six points were the next highest as the Trojans just couldn't get any scoring out of their bench.

Prestonsburg, on the other hand got seven points from Jason Crisp. Clark hit four three-pointers in the game. The play making guard hit for 10 points in the second period and McGuire had six in taking the six point halftime lead.

Prestonsburg once again played without the services of Aaron Tucker who has been on suspension. Tucker hasn't played the last two games for Prestonsburg.

The surprising thing about the Prestonsburg/Wheelwright game, which was played at Wheelwright, was the lack of fouls. Prestonsburg committed only 10 for the entire game and Wheelwright was whistled for only 13. Prestonsburg hit seven of 11 attempts and Wheelwright was seven of 10 from the charity stripe.

Prestonsburg improves to 6-13 on the year and 4-3 in the conference. Wheelwright falls to 8-14 and 1-5.

Prestonsburg will host Nicholas County tonight and entertain Wheelwright tomorrow night (Saturday). The game can be heard on WKKZ-FM, 105.5.

Wheelwright plays at McDowell tonight before going to Prestonsburg.

game." Newsome said he wished he knew which team he was taking into the tournament.

McDowell led 33-12 at the half and went on top by 30 points, 46-16 at the end of the third period. Betsy Layne could only score four points in the third period — two each by Susan Conn and Shelia Hall. Bryant had five in the third quarter, including a three-pointer. Pack also tossed in four.

Nine players made the scoring column for the Lady Daredevils led by Bryant's 19 points. Pack finished with 10 and Newsome added eight. Christy Mullins netted six points for the Lady Devils. Freshman Heather Keathley (the coach's sister) came off the bench and scored five points. Shelby Howell also scored five.

Shepherd led the Lady Cats with 10 points. Shelia Hall and Susan Conn each tossed in six points. Briana Boyd, the team's leading scorer was one for 13 from the field for just three points, something that is uncharacteristic of her. Betsy Layne did not get much offense out of their center Nikki Webb. Webb scored two points.

Keathley said that her team did not work on anything different than what they had been doing all season. "We just did what we have been doing," explained Keathley. "Betsy Layne wasn't hitting their shots and that helped.

"They did a few things that hurt us," the McDowell coach went on to explain. "We made some corrections at halftime to keep them off the boards. I felt that we got down the floor well and ran our break real good."

Keathley was so surprised of her team's play that she said she was afraid to substitute for fear of breaking the momentum.

"Carrie and Christy played a good game for us," said Keathley. "Betsy Layne opened in a zone and put a chaser on Lori. That opened things up for Carrie who hit her first four shots in the first quarter."

Keathley stated that she was really concerned about the game with Betsy Layne because of the loss her team had suffered to Prestonsburg last week. "I thought there would be a big letdown," she said.

McDowell improves to 8-11 on the season. The Lady Daredevils will host Wheelwright Friday night to complete their conference schedule. McDowell will host Fleming-Neon Saturday night. Monday the Lady Daredevils will travel to Ashland/Paul Blazer to complete their season.

Betsy Layne goes to 9-12 and the Lady Cats will play at Johnson Central on Monday and will close out their regular season on Thursday with a home game against Sheldon Clark.

The Blackcats experienced a successful meet as they placed in several categories. Prestonsburg head football coach Bill Letton and assistants John Derossiet and Randall Hager accompanied the team and even assisted in judging several of the events. The Blackcat coaching staff was pleased with the effort the Blackcat players put forth.

Salisbury scores 22 as Eagles post win over Rebels

Jody Salisbury, 6' 10" center for the Johnson Central Golden Eagles, tossed in 22 points and played an intimidating game underneath the basket to lead the Golden Eagles to a 58-40 win over host Allen Central Tuesday night.

Salisbury scored 13 of his 22 points in the second half, sparking a Johnson Central spurt that saw the Eagles break open a close game. With the score tied at 28-28 after several lead changes, Johnson Central scored the last nine points in the third quarter and the first five in the fourth to take a 42-28 lead. The spurt was a result of a revived Eagle defense.

Allen Central showed they came to play and weren't about to lay down because of the bigger Eagle team. The Rebels led the first half and went to the lockerroom with a one point halftime lead of 22-21. The Rebels led at the first stop 10-6. Johnson Central found hitting the basket a chore as they experienced a cold first half, hitting only seven of 27 shots.

Things changed drastically for the Golden Eagles as they connected on seven of nine attempts in the third quarter alone. Salisbury had nine of the Eagles 21 first half points and the big center added seven points in the third period. Salisbury, one of the dominating players in the 15th Region, controlled the boards in the second half.

Shane Moore got the Eagles back out in front at the start of the third period with a jumper to make it 23-22. Stewart Hall came back with a 12 footer of his own and the Rebels were back up 24-23. Salisbury looked and found the ball laying at his feet after a loose ball. The giant picked up the ball and scored for a 25-24 game. Ronnie Sammons gave Allen Central their last lead at 26-25 with a jumper.

After the teams exchanged turnovers, Salisbury took a pass and stuck it in and was fouled. He connected on the charity toss to put the Eagles on top 28-26. Chuck Laferty immediately tied the game with a good move in the paint.

It was then that Alvin Ratliff's team turned up the defense and caused the Rebels problems. Mike Allen fouled Avery Fairchild who hit the front end of a one and one to make it 29-28. Mitchell Johnson then made his presence known by grabbing a rebound and scoring. Johnson intercepted a Rebel inbound pass and scored again to give the Eagles a 33-28 lead. With 1:02 to go in the third, Salisbury made it look easy with a basket underneath. Robbie O'Brien hit a jumper to close out the scoring in the third and Johnson Central led 37-28 at the end of the third.

Johnson Central picked up where they left all in the final period. Fairchild, who had been quiet, hit a three-pointer and Johnson struck again to give the Eagles a 14 point cushion, 42-28, as Allen Central continued to struggle.

Hall broke the Rebel drought with a three-pointer and, after Salisbury scored his 18th point, Laferty grabbed an offensive rebound and was fouled. The junior forward hit the first and it was 44-32.

Johnson Central turned the ball over on their next two possessions but the Rebels could not capitalize on the miscues. John Ratliff hit back to back baskets and Jason Hurt scored two as the lead went to 18 points, 50-32. Allen Central could not get back into the game as time expired.

Laferty led the Rebels in scoring with 13 points. Todd Lucas added eight with two three-pointers. Larry Patton tossed in five.

Beside's Salisbury's 22 points, Hurt finished with 10 and Ratliff added eight.

Finish season 15-2

Betsy Layne Freshmen Close Season With 58-49 Win Over Shelby Valley

It has been a good basketball season for the Betsy Layne Bobcats freshmen team and coach Keith Henry. The Bobcats handed Shelby Valley a 58-49 defeat Wednesday night to close out their season with a sparkling 15-2 record. The only two losses came at home.

At the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse, the Bobcats used a 12-3 third period spurt to snap a 34-34 tie en route to the win.

Mark Damron tied the score at 34-all with two free throws with 2:38 left in the third period. Keith Hamilton hit a layup and Damian Stepp followed with a jumper at the 1:09 mark to put the Bobcats out in front 38-34. Brian Hunter hit a bucket underneath with just 50 seconds remaining and Mark Ousley followed that with a basket to give the Bobcats a 42-34 lead.

Shelby Valley scored the next three to make it 42-37 on William Stewart's rebound basket. Williams was fouled and sank the free throw with just 11 seconds to go. Hunter scored a field goal and Chris Potter hit two technical foul free throws to go out by nine points, 46-37.

In the fourth quarter, Betsy Layne went out in front by 15 points, 56-41, before winning by the final margin.

Shelby Valley led twice in the game, 3-0 and 5-3. Betsy Layne then scored the final six points to take a 9-5 first quarter lead. Barry Clark hit a layup and then connected on a short jumper. Hunter had a layup in the spurt.

Betsy Layne was led in scoring by Barry Clark and Brian Hunter, each with 15 points. Stewart had 19 points to lead Shelby Valley.

You're probably wondering why your car was stolen.

You forgot to lock it.

Funny thing about your car. You left it just for a minute, to run in for some dog biscuits. Next thing you know, you and the dog biscuits are standing on the corner, waiting for a bus. Maybe this hasn't happened yet. But if you keep leaving your car unlocked it probably will. So lock your car, and take your keys, every time you leave it. And don't leave tempting packages on the seats. Find out more about preventing crime. Write to: McGruff, P.O. Box 362, Washington, D.C. 20044. That's one way to help me....

HOROSCOPE

February 17 through February 23

By C.C. Clark

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Although it may seem impossible, it is important for you to have faith in your authority figures. It won't seem they have your best interest at heart, but they do.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Trouble may head your way for the next few days, but you are prepared for just about anything. Those close to you may envy your achievements and act differently toward you.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Even though things seem to have come full circle on the domestic front, there have been some definite changes for the better. Loved ones may seek your counsel.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

You will need to keep your sense of humor about you this week, especially when dealing with authority figures. Their ideas may not be as crazy as they seem.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Problems at work or home can be dealt with easily this week, as long as you remember to keep your temper. There is clear sailing ahead in your love sector.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

Making decisions in your work environment may be difficult due to circumstances beyond your control. Take heart and know these tough times will soon pass.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

If you have been feeling down in the dumps, it may be time to try a new look. Don't get too wild, but a new haircut or jacket could do wonders for your disposition.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

Major tasks can be completed easily by taking them one step at a time. Try to realize things aren't always what they appear to be, especially in work or school situations.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

You shouldn't let an argument with a loved one get out of control this week. Sometimes you just have to agree to disagree and get on with more important issues.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

If things aren't going quite the way you expected, it may be time to map out a plan of action. The plan doesn't have to be set in stone, but it should give you some direction.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

Finances need to be looked at closely. You may find a windfall in your own checkbook. A friend needs to know you care; send a special card to show your appreciation.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

Don't let others belittle your talents; you know you are special and that is all that matters. These people will soon be envious of your accomplishments.
