A Prestonsburg man shot and killed his estranged wife Wednesday at a business local, then turned the gun on himself, according to the Kentucky State Police.

At approximately 8:45 a.m. Clifford Justice, 39, entered the Ferrell-gas Company located one mile south of Paintsville on U.S. 23. Locking the door behind him, he shot 37-year-old Wanda Justice of Prestonsburg twice in the upper back with a 12-gauge shotgun. After reloading the gun, he mortally wounded himself by placing it against the left side of his face and pulling the trigger, according to police.

Wanda June Justice was a secretary at the propane gas dealer and appeared to have been alone at the time of the shooting, according to Johnson County Sheriff Gene Cyrus. The gas company shares a metal building with the Ashland Oil bulk plant. An Ashland employee witnessed Clifford Justice entering the building and observed to a co-worker that he looked angry, according to the sheriff.

An employee in the Ashland side of the building crossed the hallway adjoining the two businesses to get a cup of coffee. When he opened the door to the gas company lobby he

Principal is named in complaint

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A formal grievance was filed Wednesday by two teachers against Adams Middle School principal Thomas Tackett for alleged threats he made last Tuesday.

The teachers filed the complaint with Floyd County school superintendent Ron Hager Wednesday afternoon. Hager and board member Eddie Billips investigated the allegations Wednesday.

Kentucky Education Association regional director Betty Rowland made a verbal complaint on behalf of the two teachers to Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson Tuesday afternoon.

Rowland said the teachers told her that Tackett had threatened to take a weapon to Tuesday's board meeting and harm Floyd County Education Association members.

Thompson placed deputy Linzie Hunt at the meeting, which was conducted without incident.

Billips said he and Hager talked on separate occasions with the parties involved in the incident Wednesday, but did not know the result of Hager's investigation.

Tackett declined to comment on the allegations Thursday.

Calls to Hager Thursday were not returned.

Billips, teachers meet to communicate concerns

Understanding and appreciation were the outcome of a meeting between teachers and their board representative.

Board member Eddie Billips met with teachers from educational district one Wednesday afternoon to explain his decision about the teachers' strike agreement and to listen to the teachers' concerns.

Billips explained that he would have voted to rescind the two parts of proposal eight of the agreement that deals with the employment and pay of administrators, if he had been present for the special meeting.

Billips, who arrived too late to vote on the issue at the May 10 special meeting, said he had driven for over two hours trying to arrive at the board meeting in time to discuss the matter.

"I would have voted to rescind those two items because I, along with the board, felt that was the best way for teachers to keep the other proposals in the agreement," Billips said.

Billips explained that the board felt the issue would be taken to court by the administrators and that would put the whole agreement into jeopardy. He said a judge could have decided that the whole agreement

School security services are under state review

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Security services provided to Floyd County schools are under review by the new watchdog branch of the state's education department.

Dr. Penny Sanders, director of the Office of Education Accountability, said Thursday that records involving security service companies employed by the board are being examined.

"The matter is under review in this office," Sanders said.

The board of education employs five security companies to provide night watchman services at 10 school facilities. The average cost per month to the board of education for security service is $9,455.60.

Companies receiving payments for security service are: Collins Security Service; State Security; Securities Inc.; B & D Security; and Thunderbolt Protection Service.

Collins Security provides services for Prestonsburg High School; State Security at Melvin Grade School; Securities Inc. at Duff Elementary, Betsy Layne High School and Allen Central High School; B & D Security at Floyd County Technical High School, the Floyd County bus garage and Martin Elementary; and Thunderbolt Protection Service at Betsy Layne Elementary and Clark.

The Times requested Monday to examine time sheets, contracts, bonds and break-in reports relating to those security companies. Only one contract, State Security, was on file in the finance office Monday and there were no security bonds on file for any of the five companies.

The only break-in reports on file for the 10 facilities were two reports for Martin Elementary by B & D Security. One report, undated, related to the theft of hams at the school. The other report, dated May 3, 1991, said hamburger was stolen from the school.

Train mangles bike:

Youths escape injury in motorbike mishap

by Tess A. Whitmer
Assistant Editor

A Prestonsburg youth escaped serious injury Thursday after he tried to beat a train across a railroad crossing. His motorbike didn't fare as well.

Jimmy Branham, 12, and Billy Quinn, 14, were apparently riding beside the train as it traveled along the tracks next to the Job Corps Center in Prestonsburg. The engineer saw the boys coming, but didn't think they would attempt to cross the tracks, Assistant Police Chief Roy Roberts said.

Quinn, who was riding a four-wheeler, said that he made it across the tracks safely and turned around and saw that Branham had "laid his bike down."

Branham hurt his knees in the crash and Quinn ran over to help him get his bike off the tracks before the train came. The bike got hung up and the boys were not able to free it and the jumped out of the way before the train came.

"I don't know what he was doing over the tracks," Branham's father said. "He's not allowed to ride over there and he usually minds pretty well."

Quinn, the son of Helen Adams of Meadows Branch, said he wasn't hurt, he was "just nervous." Branham's parents, Bobby and Sandra Branham, took him to the hospital to have his knee X-rayed after the EMTs from the Prestonsburg Fire Department had immobilized his leg.

Pike schools halt bingo games

To make sure every thing is legal Pike County School superintendent Larry Burke has ceased all Bingo games operated in schools and ordered the board's attorney to make sure the games meet state and federal guidelines.

The cessation was prompted by an investigation in Floyd County into possible illegal bingo games being held at Prestonsburg, Betsy Layne and Allen Central high schools.

Teamsters union asks for recognition from board

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Non-certified personnel of the Floyd County Board of Education are looking for a voice to represent the group's needs and concerns, said a Teamsters Union representative at Tuesday's board meeting.

Ron Abshire asked the board to recognize the Teamsters as a bargaining union for the system's cooks, bus drivers and janitors.

"Everyone has a voice speaking for them: there's KEA, FCEA and the administrators' group," Abshire said. "Everyone but the classified personnel have representatives. We want to provide the classified personnel some peace of mind."

Abshire offered the board a copy of a sample contract the Teamsters use in negotiations with other groups they represent. He said the Pike County and Knott County boards of education accepted the contract to review.

The board did not ask for the sample contract.

Abshire said the union has not turned in the names of members to the finance officer to begin deducting dues because he said the school year is just about over.

"We're going to wait for a while because the year is just about over and we're not in it just for the money," Abshire said. "We're in it for justice and fair treatment."

The board took no action of Abshire's request to recognize the union.

The Teamsters will meet with classified employees Sunday, May 19, at 2 p.m. at the Stumbo Park in Allen.

Up and Over

A coal truck driven by Claude Turner of Mountain Enterprises overturned Thursday at approximately 5:15 p.m. on Rt. 23 north of Prestonsburg across from the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center Greenhouse. According to Turner, he ran his truck off the road to avoid stopped cars. "I came around the turn, and, the way the cars were, there was nowhere for me to go except into the ditch." Jimmy Branham escaped with only minor injuries Thursday after trying to cross a railroad track ahead of a train at Meadows Branch. Branham jumped from his bike, which was struck by the train. Prestonsburg EMTs carried Branham the 150 feet to his home and his parents took him to the hospital for treatment for a leg injury. (photo by Marty Backus)

On school construction review :

State board hears Babbage report

The State Board of Elementary and Secondary Education heard State Auditor Bob Babbage's report Wednesday on improving the way local schools are built.

Babbage presented 16 recommendations as a result of his office's review of school construction projects in Floyd and Pike Counties.

Babbage said the report identified "several weaknesses in current construction practices" in the survey area, and in construction practices throughout the commonwealth.

The recommendations included:
— Hiring of additional staff for the Department of Education's Division of Buildings and Grounds, especially "a licensed architect with engineering expertise."

— Having architects and engineers, who are not involved in the project's design, review site development costs as required by the state board's new policy.

— Establishing a new policy prohibiting a school project construction manager, or any company in which he has a financial interest, from submitting bids on any project he manages.

Included in Babbage's findings, from examining the Pike and Floyd county building projects, was the fact that, in most instances, only one construction site was ever considered by the local school boards.

"The thing that stands out most is the lack of consideration of options," he said. "Other options may have been considered, but there was no documentation of it."

Babbage's report allowed that schools built in the mountains cannot be identical to those built in the flatlands. State board member Wade Mountz noted that there should be some standardization "particularly in terms of materials."

Board member Thomas Gish of Whitesburg said that "point by point, what you (Babbage) observed is what I've observed for years."

Joseph Kelly, the board's chairman, stressed that projects should be developed and completed under the public eye. "School construction projects should be no different than projects to build a bridge or a rest stop," he said. "It's all the taxpayers money."

Babbage's review was the result of news reports first published in the Floyd County Times concerning school construction question.

was void.

"This way, if the issue goes to court, it will be taken to court by the teachers—it will be your decision to make," Billips said. "It's up to you (teachers) how to proceed. But, I assure you, I will not vote to take anything else out of that agreement."

Teachers asked Billips how a trust could be built between teachers and the board of education.

"I don't have a definite answer to that question," Billips said. "But, I hope this (the meeting) is a start. It's easy to go from here to goat overnight."

The teachers asked Billips if he considered the 13.5 percent pay increase in the agreement for the 1991-92 school year is a top priority.

Billips said the teachers' agreement as a whole is a priority.

Other discussion between Billips and the teachers included: classroom overcrowding; a 15-minute longer school day; student testing; and budget committees.

At the end of the two-hour meeting, teachers thanked Billips for meeting with them and listening to their needs. One teacher remarked that in his 25 years of teaching this is the first time any board member has ever met with teachers to discuss issues.

Billips said he hopes to meet monthly with teachers in his district and urged other board members to do the same. Billips said he also plans similar meetings with parents and students in district one.

Security

Questions about security services at Martin Elementary school were raised at Tuesday's board meeting by Martin resident Tallina Rayburn during the public comment session. She reported she had visited the school 16 times over a three month period and failed to find any security personnel at the school.

Bill "Crush" Dingus, spokesman for B & D Security, said Wednesday in a statement issued to the Times, in response to questions raised Tuesday, Dingus said only two break-ins have been reported at the school.

Dingus' claims were countered in reports to several board members

Tuesday detailing numerous other alleged break-ins at Martin school.

Dingus said Wednesday that he and his son provide security services at the bus garage, Martin and the technical high school. When asked about the claims that no security personnel were found at the school, Dingus said his son was at the school.

A visit by the Times to two of those facilities on two different occasions failed to locate any security personnel.

Superintendent Ron Hager said at Tuesday's meeting that each company had been asked to submit a copy of their security bonds to the board.

Those companies that have contracts with the board are required to post bonds ranging from $10,000 to $1 million.

Finance officer Russell Frazier said Monday he did not know why bids were not taken on the security service contract.

Kentucky state law requires that any purchase over $10,000 by a public agency must be put out for bid.

saw Justice point a shotgun at him.

The Ashland employee then closed and locked the door from his side and went to call for help. He later reported to Cyrus that, as he left, he heard three shots and the screams of Wanda Justice all within four of five seconds. The employee called the Paintsville police and the Johnson County sheriff's office by an outside phone.

Clifford Justice and Wanda June Justice were pronounced dead at the scene around 9 a.m. by Johnson County Coroner J.R. Frisby.

Mrs. Justice was the daughter of Carvel and Elva Campbell Ousley of Prestonsburg.

Mrs. Ousley reported that her daughter's marriage had problems, and their divorce was to be final in a few weeks. She said that her daughter had not sought any court protection from her estranged husband, and she never suspected anything like this would happen.

Retirement for principals approved by board

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Four Floyd County schools will have new principals next year as a result of board of education approval Tuesday of retirement requests of two high school and two grade school principals.

Principals at Betsy Layne and Wheelwright high schools and Melvin and Osborne elementaries will close their teaching careers in the system. Lonnie Stone, Wheelwright principal; Adrian Bentley, Betsy Layne; Bobbie Jones, Osborne; and Gleason Stone, Melvin will retire at the close of this year's session.

In other board action Tuesday, board member Eddie Billips requested that Superintendent Ron Hager ask Left Beaver High School construction manager Sam Martin to hold his fee for the project to five percent.

"In reference to (State Auditor) Bob Babbage's report, I believe this board has paid the construction manager his five percent fee on the project," Billips said. "I understand that Mr. Martin has made concessions in Pike and Martin counties not to go beyond five percent of the project costs. I think we should ask him to do the same."

Hager responded that Martin had indicated that would not be a problem. He said Martin Engineering's attorney and the school board's attorney could meet to work out the details.

Billips asked finance officer Russell Frazier to check the total payments to Martin and if the amount exceeded five percent, not to issue any more payments to Martin.

In the public comment session of Tuesday's meeting, the board heard from citizens and teachers concerning the teacher's agreement, school construction projects and a disagreement over a student's grade.

Those speaking were:

- Bud Reynolds: Reynolds read a letter from the group's attorney Ned Pillersdorf that said the Floyd County Education Association intended to file a federal lawsuit pertaining to two parts of the teachers' agreement rescinded by the board.
- Delphia Hicks: Hicks continued her group's request to build a new Prestonsburg High School at the Middle Creek site.

- Doris Osborne: Osborne, a teacher at Wheelwright High School, explained her decision not to change a student's grade.

- Gilbert and Donna Little: The Littles, parents of a Wheelwright High School student, asked that their son's biology grade be changed because a notebook, that counted toward 60 percent of the total grade, had been stolen. The board directed the superintendent to meet with both sides to try to resolve the issue.

Also discussed and approved Tuesday by the board:

Country Home program expands to Floyd County

Kentucky Housing Corporation's rural homebuilder program, Country Home, has been expanded to include 16 additional counties, which includes Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, and Pike counties.

The program is designed to provide the rural homebuilder with a total financing package to build affordable housing in in counties throughout the state. Below-market rate, permanent financing is then set aside for a KHC-eligible homebuyer.

Expansion of the program will help provide more new housing opportunities for low-to-moderate income families in rural areas, said John Martinez, KHC's executive director.

"Country Home is a two-fold program that aids the rural builder by providing a below-market construction loan and the rural homebuyer by offering an affordable fixed-rate loan with a down payment of 5 percent or less."

Construction loans for rural homebuilders participating in the Country Home Program are being offered at a rate of 6 percent for-profit builders and 3 percent to non-profit companies. The total cost of the land and construction cannot exceed $63,000. The home will then be sold to a KHC-eligible homebuyer with a fixed-rate loan of 7.25 percent (7.498 percent APR) for 25 years.

Builders wishing to participate must be certified by the Federal Housing Administration. KHC and an approved financial institution can assist the builder in achieving FHA certification.

"It's a great opportunity for small-time builders," said Karen Jones with KHC. "They can get a lower rate; plus there is a comfort zone. They know that the house will sell due to the lower rates."

Builders or prospective homebuyers who are interested in obtaining more information about the Country Home Program can call Kentucky Housing Corporation's Field Services Department at (502) 564-7630 or (800) 633-8896 (Kentucky only), or (800) 247-2510 for the hearing impaired only.

Editorial :

The cold-shoulder

by Scott Perry

We think we can speak for most Kentucky newspapers, particularly community newspapers like ours, when we object to the method state candidates are employing to advertise their respective campaigns.

Major candidates, like those for Governor and Lt. Governor, are spending millions of dollars to bring their campaigns to the voters and they're falling all over themselves in the race to buy television time.

State newspapers, once again, have gotten the cold-shoulder in the advertising campaigns despite the fact that survey after survey after survey has proven that Kentuckians prefer overwhelmingly to satisfy their advertising diets by digesting the printed word.

Even Paul Patton, whose candidacy we have strongly endorsed, has ignored his home region's newspapers in favor of television. Patton was beaming like a kid with a new toy last week as a telethon raised money for, as the Pike County Judge Executive noted, "increasing our buys" for TV advertising.

Thanks Paul.

We don't expect to be paid for our endorsements or our news coverage. Those are services our readers deserve and we feel obligated to provide.

We run news releases, take advantage of "photo opportunities," and report on interviews and campaign issues...all free of charge.

Television gets the gold mine.

Newspapers get the shaft.

In protest, we've got our remote control channel changer greased up and ready for each and every campaign ad that comes across our TV screen.

Big money may go to pay for slick commercials, but every nickel is wasted on us.

Other Voices

Facett Botts...

by Terry W. Stewart

Several years ago, there was a farmer in Bath County named Facett Botts. Facett owned a large farm, and raised huge crops each year. Each summer, he would always hire some local boys to help with planting, tending, and harvesting these crops.

One summer, Botts asked me to help him pull tobacco plants, and promised to pay me, and all the others, $3 per hour for helping him. This was a lot of money for me at that time. I worked my hardest, all day long. I was inspired to do my best for this man that chose me to help him with his farm work that day.

At the end of the day, we returned to town, and Botts began to pay each of us for the day's work. As he went to each one, he counted the hours worked and figured that figure by $3 to determine how much to pay. Then he came to me. He said, "Stewart, you looked up into the sky at an airplane once today. So, I'm not going to pay you as much as the others. I'm only going to give you $2 per hour."

Needless to say, my heart was broken. All the positive thoughts I had felt during my hard work for the day were destroyed. At that age, I didn't think anyone would be unfair to me and especially not keep their word.

I survived that day, and the sun did come up the next morning, just like my dad said it would.

I never worked for Botts again, although he asked me several times and was desperate for help on at least one occasion, because he had hay bailed in the field and it was about to rain.

Word spread about his unfairness, partly because I wasn't the only person with whom he didn't honor his agreements. In a few years, it became difficult for him to get anyone to help him on his farm.

In his own way of thinking, Botts probably never really knew what he did to me, or what an impact he had made on my life. However, I remember him well.

He quietly passed away several years ago—an old man, a retired farmer. I was very sad that day because in spite of everything, I still loved everyone from that small community. The truth is, I will never forget Facett Botts—not because of what he did, but because of what he didn't do. You see, he did not stand up to his word.

Editor:

As a consumer advocate, who has helped save the taxpayers of Kentucky over $200 million dollars in the last eleven years as president of Concerned Citizens and Businessmen of Central Ky., and as a registered independent voter, I wish to announce my support for one Republican candidate and one Democrat candidate for Governor.

The Republican is Larry Forgy. He is clearly the more experienced and qualified man to solve Kentucky's fiscal, financial and mismanagement of government problems. We now have a cesspool of corruption from most local governments all the way to Frankfort, the state level. Forgy is the one to help solve this enormous problem.

Forgy's opponent, Congressman Larry Hopkins has been in Washington for about 13 years and he hasn't helped solve the tremendous waste, corruption and mismanagement of federal government. Remember the $50 pliers, the $100 hammers and the $300 toilet seats. How can we expect him to solve Kentucky's waste and corruption in state and local government?

The Democrat I support for governor is Dr. Floyd Poore. He is the only candidate for his party that understands the burden piled on the backs of Kentucky's taxpayers by the 1990 Kentucky Legislature passing higher tax increases than ever before in history thru HB 940, to help pay for the many unnecessary and wasteful pork barrel projects it contained, which had nothing to do with education reform, also contained in the bill. Dr. Poore said he was going to cut unnecessary taxes in Kentucky, if elected governor. I think the man is sincere and will do everything in his power to reduce our taxes and help eliminate waste in government.

I hope those of you who are concerned and informed will join me in helping to elect as governor, in the Primary, these two good men.

Back in 1921, Matthew O. Foley, editor of Hospital Management, had what he was convinced was a terrific idea — to dispel the "mystery" of hospitals.

After winning the support of the influential officials in the hospital community, May 12, 1921, was dubbed the first National Hospital Day.

This date was chosen to honor the deeds of Florence Nightingale, pioneering hospital nurse, whose birthday was May 12. This is why National Hospital Week is always held during this week.

During this National Hospital Week, Our Lady of the Way Hospital graciously thanks its physicians, medical staff and employees for the hard work and dedication that is contributed to OLW and its patients throughout the year.

Also, Our Lady of the Way graciously thanks its patients and friends for their loyal support of our healing mission. It is with great pleasure that we extend our services to the communities of Eastern Kentucky.

We are Katy Robinson and Sarah Horton. Our class is doing a project on a B-24 bomber crash in a nearby lake. The crash occurred on December 6, 1943. We are seeking information on Richard E. Mayo, who was in a crash which occurred in Huntington Lake, near Fresno, California.

We have written to the postmaster and local high school for information but did not get a response. If you have any information about him or his family we would appreciate it very much.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the many people who stopped to assist me when my red Ford caught fire the morning of May 14 on US 23:

The man who expended his fire extinguisher; those who assisted and were genuinely concerned about my welfare; the Prestonsburg Police Department; the fire chief and his department which performed in a manner in which the people of Prestonsburg could be proud. I will never have any qualms in the future when they ask for support for their functions.

I would also like to apologize to the many motorists that were inconvenienced by the fire. I know many were late for work and other appointments. Although I did not have insurance on my car the loss was secondary to the kindness, consideration and genuine thoughtfulness shown to me by all parties.

Many thanks,
Thomas N. Kuss

At a young age, I was adopted out to the late Rev. Hershel Baldrige and his wife, Corean. My original mother was Minnie Boyd, daughter of Jeff Boyd, previously of Weebury.

I would like information, if anyone has it, about my mother, and also a picture of her. I have never seen my mother because she died right after I was born. This is my Mother's Day wish!

Blood donations are needed during Memorial holiday

Historically, Memorial Day is a time when we have a national blood shortage. Central Kentucky Blood Center needs 200 donors every day to maintain an adequate blood supply. Even more donors are needed on holidays because the number of automobile accidents increase, but fewer people donate.

Statistics show that the majority of Americans will need blood sometime during their lives. It could be someone close to you who will need blood Memorial Day weekend. Make sure it is available before the need arises because it takes 12 to 24 hours to prepare a pint of blood for transfusion.

Before Memorial Day and Labor Day, the last two years, two of Prestonsburg's civic clubs, the Rotary Club and the Jaycees, have made a commitment to help prevent blood shortages during these difficult holiday weekends. This Memorial Day marks the Fourth Annual Floyd County Battle for Blood. The Rotary Club and Jaycees compete against each other, but, more importantly, work together, to encourage their own members, as well as the community, to come to Prestonsburg's Donor Center and give a pint of blood. This year's blood drive begins Tuesday, May 21 and runs through Thursday, May 23, with hours from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day.

The Prestonsburg Donor Center is located on the second floor of the Municipal Building and has been providing blood and blood components for the people of Eastern Kentucky for over 10 years. As a compliment, each donor will receive a free cholesterol test.

The competition between the civic clubs is always fun and exciting as people of the community are made aware of the importance of meeting the blood needs of patients in area hospitals. The civic clubs hope that you will take the time between May 21-23 and donate a pint of blood for someone who desperately needs it. For more information, call the Prestonsburg Donor Center at 886-1557.

Alcohol effects most severe for women

Women who abuse alcohol are at a far greater risk of severe health problems and death than their male counterparts, recent research indicates.

According to the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, the death rate among women who drink heavily is 50 to 100 percent higher compared to male alcoholics.

Female alcoholics are more likely than male alcohol abusers to kill themselves or die of circulatory disorders, cirrhosis of the liver or alcohol-related accidents, the NIAA reports.

Heavy drinking among women also has been associated with menstrual disorders, infertility and early menopause. Other research indicates that women who drink daily may increase their risk of breast cancer.

In addition, the NIAA reveals that the course of alcoholism is greatly accelerated among women. They develop the disease sooner even after abusing less alcohol than men.

While women alcoholics traditionally hide a drinking problem, they are now seeking treatment in record numbers, the NIAA reveals.

The percentage of female to male patients in treatment (25 percent women, 75 percent men) is roughly equal to the proportion of female alcoholics to male alcoholics within the general population (30 percent women, 70 percent men).

The NIAA adds that when it comes to drinking, the differences between men and women aren't confined only to the alcohol abuse.

Even women who drink moderately are more susceptible than men to alcohol's effects since it generally takes less alcohol to make them intoxicated. The NIAA cites three main reasons for the disparity between the sexes when it comes to drinking.

First, men have more total body water into which alcohol is diffused more evenly. Women, on the other hand, generally have more body fat which retains alcohol leading to a higher concentration of alcohol in their bloodstream.

Second, the intestinal enzyme responsible for metabolizing alcohol is less active in women.

Finally, hormonal fluctuations during menstruation may lead to higher blood alcohol levels during different points in the woman's cycle.

The NIAA also reveals the following additional facts about women and drinking:

—While alcohol abuse is increasingly common among women between the ages of 18 and 34, studies still indicate that fewer women than men drink.

—Compared to the general population, children of alcohol abusers are at increased risk of developing the disease. However, research indicates that marriage or a long-term relationship may lessen the chances that the daughter of an alcoholic will inherit the illness.

—Women juggling multiple roles of wife, mother and professional person once were considered at highest greater risk for alcoholism. But recent findings show that women who are single, widowed or unemployed are more likely to abuse alcohol.

For more information regarding substance abuse call the CAREUNIT at Our Lady of Bellefonte Hospital (606) 836-3148.

Tribute to Howard

Plan to provide rapid response to victims of tragedy complete

Kentucky's Post Trauma Response Team has completed months of planning and organizing to do a task which, while prepared for, each member hopes he or she will never be asked to perform.

Created in the wake of tragedies including the Carrollton bus crash and the shootings at Louisville's Standard Gravure plant, procedures, policies and plans of action are now in place to specify what type of community-scale man-made disaster or natural catastrophe the team will respond to.

"Area crisis teams have handled a few community tragedies already," said Commissioner Dennis Boyd of the Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services.

"Thankfully," he said, "there hasn't been a need for a response from the team as a whole; but, the team is ready to respond to any emergency."

The reasons for development of the large-scale trauma team are many.

"One job for the team is to ease the impact of disaster on its victims by making counseling services immediately accessible," Boyd said.

"Another role is to assist in insulating emergency and rescue personnel from the short- and long-term effects of trauma by educating them on normal reactions and by making available debriefings following emergency responses."

These debriefings pair counselors with group peers, such as firefighters or police officers who did not work the scene, to talk with those who did.

"It's been estimated that 10 percent of disaster victims will suffer adverse psychological effects and five percent will suffer significant psychiatric problems," said Carol Jordan, coordinator of the response team.

"The team works to counteract these possible effects with immediate help for both victims and emergency personnel involved in the disaster."

The following circumstances outline conditions under which the team will respond to a community crisis:

- * Events which impact communities of closely affiliated people, such as neighborhoods, a school community, or passengers on a derailed train;

- * Events in which there are multiple victims of emotional or physical trauma, multiple eyewitnesses or multiple loss of life;

- * Events in which the primary victims have a special significance to the community; for example, the assassination of a public figure;

- * Events which involve the serious injury or line of duty death of an emergency or rescue worker;

- * Events which, because of their human tragedy, attract significant news media attention.

The response team is made up of mental health and disaster and emergency services professionals, law enforcement officials, firefighters, emergency medical service personnel, educators, social workers, victim service counselors, the clergy and media relations consultants.

"We're asking for more professionals in these areas to apply to join the team," said Jordan. "So far recruitment has not been a problem, because they all understand the importance of maintaining the response team."

The response team may be activated by calling the 24-hour Bluegrass Mental Health/Mental Retardation Board crisis line at 1-800-432-0555.

A community leader closely related to the disaster may call the crisis line and request the team's assistance. The team coordinator will then contact the individual requesting the team and, based on the nature of the crisis and on the team protocol, decide if the team will be dispatched.

Jordan said the team will respond only upon request by the leadership of the affected community. "For example, a response to a school-based disaster would require a request from the school superintendent," she said.

"A response to a crime scene would require the consent of the controlling law enforcement agency."

New cooperative program focuses on improving healthcare for children with special needs

The Kentucky Commission for Handicapped Children announces the formal implementation of a model demonstration program with Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children which will explore methods of establishing collaborative services to improve the quality and accessibility of healthcare for children with special needs.

The program, which is being called CHOICES (Children's Healthcare Options Improved through Collaborative Efforts and Services), is partially funded by the Federal Bureau for Maternal and Child Health. Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children is financing its own participation since it neither seeks nor accepts public funds from any government source.

Mix is quick to emphasize that from the child and parents' perspective, there are many potential benefits, such as: obtaining services for previously unmet needs, receiving medical care closer to home and having better care coordination between the various physicians and therapists providing services.

According to administrative officials from both healthcare providers, the goal of CHOICES is to improve the care of children being served by both the Commission and Shriners Hospitals. They admit that some patients currently being served by one may in fact be eligible for services from both. They say CHOICES' screening, referral and care coordination procedures have been specifically designed to identify such children, and then develop joint services, make appropriate referrals and share information in order to meet any previously unmet need of the child.

While they recognize that both Shriners Hospitals and the Commission have unique strengths, they say CHOICES' goal is to bring them together and make all their services more easily accessible to the child and his/her family.

A secondary benefit cited is better use of resources which both agencies say have become all too limited. By reducing duplication of services, and through more efficient utilization of Shriners Hospitals which provides all care at their facilities free of charge for a child accepted into their program, the hope is that public dollars will be available to serve greater numbers of patients.

During the next three years, four states (Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and South Carolina) will be involved with the Kentucky Commission acting as lead agent on the public side. Shriners Hospitals in Lexington, Greenville, South Carolina and the Burns Institute in Cincinnati, Ohio will participate directly.

STATE ELECTRIC SUPPLY

Mountain Voices — by Willie Elliott

But they weren't my proms

I went to the prom this past week. I was thinking how ironic it was that thirty years ago during this very week I didn't go to "my" prom. Oh, I have done several proms since I have been teaching, but doing a prom as a faculty member is not the same as going as a student. I want my junior prom back. Who do I see? If any of my classmates have two junior proms, give mine back. You are allowed only one per student.

If you are around a school or if you are the parents of high school seniors of juniors, you know the kind of week they have. They act like teenagers all week long and get by with it. Some people say the students are bonding. Well, I'm in favor of bonding, but I can't remember one thing about prom week. What did I do that week? Memorize the periodic chart or learn the square roots of all numbers from one to one hundred? Now, that I think about it, I want the whole week back—not just prom night, the whole week. I know things are basically the same now as they were back then. Well, we didn't mortgage the house to get all the things that are now deemed necessities (maybe it was because we didn't have a house to mortgage) and we didn't build the event up to such high expectations that it could never deliver. After all, when all is said and done, it is just a dance. But it is a special dance—one that has to last for a lifetime. I didn't get mine. I want it back. Someone has my junior prom and I want it back.

I can remember some special times when Glenda Morgan and I did the junior prom. One time we had the prom at Jenny Wiley Lodge, and we took a group of kids to decorate. We went to Druthers for lunch and the kids goofed around and called us "mommy" and "daddy" and we all signed the napkins, and generally thought we were having a good time. I have prom photographs from the 70's, 80's, and now the 90's, but the one I want is the one from the 60's. I bet the Fonze went to his prom.

For all these years this issue has been "no big deal." Now it is a big deal. Is there such a thing as a statue of limitation on getting your junior prom back? How do you tell your kids that you didn't go to the prom? That would be like telling them you didn't fight in the war.

That brings up a point: why didn't I go to my prom? Didn't have anything to wear? Couldn't have been that because I didn't have anything to wear last week and I went. Oh, I had something to wear. It wasn't anything spectacular. It doesn't need to be.

I know this is a little late to bring this up, but I really do want my junior prom back. I thought being faculty sponsor for the prom every four years or so would make up for it—it didn't. And now I'm down to the point where I probably won't even be doing that chore anymore. I remember honor banquets, senior trip, and graduation. There is a big vacuum in my whole package of rite to passage to adulthood.

Students, as you go through school, do the whole nine yards or as many of them as you possibly can. They won't all be earth shattering, but you will have them. I am reminded of what Miss Billie Jean Osborne was (and is) always telling her students: "Go for it." Go for it and years later you won't be wondering what it would have been like. In the meantime, if you find my junior prom, send it to me.

I was reading Gorman

Collins' letter to the editor in the May 10 issue of this paper and I can't believe this man's reasoning. Do all men think like this?

by Tess Whitmer

Obviously, Mr. Collins has never been to a garage sale or he would know that the items sold there are well used. The condition of most items found at garage sales leads me to believe that the person who bought the items had a use for them and they were not sitting in a closet just waiting to be sold.

If you use an item, it is not an impulse buy. I would like to meet the person who goes to the store and, every time, only buys the items they went in there for. Men may do it, but that's only because most men have an innate hatred for shopping in the first place.

Now, I bet if you look in Mr. Collins' garage or basement you will find all sorts of useful items. Things such as discarded pieces of pipe, old rusty nails, odd sized pieces of boards, used car parts, broken fishing rods and other assorted, unidentifiable junk. All things which might come in handy some day so we better hang on to them.

Admittedly there are differences between men and women, that's what makes living exciting. But, there are some similarities as well. For example, we both have stuff we just can't bear to part with for one reason or another, but pretty soon it's either get rid of it or move to a bigger place. So, you either sell it, throw it away or give it away. If I can make money on a venture, that's the option I'll choose.

Besides, you may be trying to dispose of just the item that somebody else needs. And that somebody has now bought a bargain.

True, if you don't watch yourself, impulse buying can get you in a real bind, especially if you are living on a budget. But, I personally have been shopping for some years and have learned what I will eventually have a use for and what I won't. And, everyone knows that it is better to buy something on sale then to pay full price for it.

I'm not a real garage sale buff or anything, but I resent Mr. Collins' attitude toward women and his stereotyping of the infamous "housewife."

Heck, does the true housewife even exist anymore? It is just about impossible to make it in today's world without two incomes. Being able to stay home and take care of the kids is a luxury women cannot afford these days.

Mr. Collins needs to open his eyes and look around and he'll see that the stereotypical woman of his generation do not exist in the younger generation.

Let me give you a new stereotype, sir, she has a full or partial college degree. She is working to get her boss's job. She lives on a budget and hates it. She's thinking about someday having kids or where she is going to find a babysitter so she can go out Friday night. She's lucky if she gets out shopping once a month and then comes home empty handed because she just can't bear to part with the money. And, she's going through her closet to sort out the clothes that don't fit and the items she doesn't need anymore so she can have a yard sale (she doesn't have a garage or, if she does, it is too full of her husband's junk to be useful for a sale. As a matter of fact, she's probably bugging him to clean up his stuff and contribute to the sale).

A helpful car dealer answered my question from last week. Mike Brown of Brown's Ford in Paintsville informed me that the automatic shoulder belts lock upon impact and you have to pull a special lever to get it off.

Thanks Mike, and thanks for reading. Now tell me, do you have any impulse bought stuff you'd like to donate to our employee yard sale we're having at the paper Saturday?

Smile Awhile — by Sarah Hopson

Rain, rain go away

Butch, our car-chasing, car-catching, telepathic wonder dog has outdone himself again by amazing us with his uncanny ability of predicting the weather.

Scott if you must, but it's true. Without the aid of a barometer, Butch can accurately predict rain up to 24 hours before the first cloud darkens the horizon.

Needless to say, this phenomenon has caused my husband to truly believe I am in great need of professional help.

"It's going to rain tomorrow," I casually mentioned to my husband one night last week. "Take an umbrella."

"Sara, I just listened to the weather forecast. Rain isn't expected until Friday."

"I don't care if Jule Huffman called you himself," I ranted, "it's going to rain before morning."

"Okay, I give," he replied. "Does your elbow ache?"

"No, Butch is in the bathtub."

"Thank the Lord! He stinks so bad he's even aware of it."

"That's not it. For the past few months, I've noticed that before it rains, Butch heads for the bathtub."

Jimmie shook his head and gave me that "You need help immediately" look, before he turned down the covers and hopped into bed.

"Don't believe me, but I have faith in Butch. He's better than a barometer when it comes to predicting rain..."

My words were cut short by Jimmie's soft snoring. If he could fall sound asleep with the knowledge that our dog had the meteorologist capabilities within his paws, he was the one in need of help.

Slightly agitated, I walked down the hallway and peeked in on Butch as he lay on his side in the tub. Looking up at me, he transmitted his thought, "The storm's coming from the North. The electricity will go off sometime during the night. Don't oversleep."

"Good dog," I said, patting Butch on his smart little head. "See you in the morning."

At precisely 2:10 a.m., I awakened to claps of thunder and streaks of lightning that flashed from behind the draperies. We were in the midst of a thunderstorm.

"Wait up, Jimmie!" I exclaimed. "It's raining."

HOW RIDICULOUS TO CONDONE THROWING BASEBALLS

A recent article in the Lexington Herald-Leader told of how several of the Cincinnati Reds players supported the Cleveland Indians' Albert Bell for throwing a baseball at a fan because the "fan" was taunting him about his problems with alcohol.

I do not approve of the action of the fan. He had no right to holler taunts at Bell during the game. Fans can be tormentors if they want to. He probably was drunk himself. However, that fact gave Bell no right to retaliate with a thrown baseball that could have hit an innocent person.

So, Eric "Earring" Davis said that "he should have struck him in the head." Professional athletes condoning such a thing as striking a person in the head with a baseball — what are the major leagues coming to? Of course, you would expect such approval from this bunch who has one in their midst that has acted the same way. In his bit of childish behavior, Rob Dibble nailed a school teacher with a baseball because he gave up three hits in one inning.

I personally see nothing professional about any of that. Yet, the major leagues refuse to deal with it. There should be no right to appeal a decision handed down on an incident such as throwing a baseball out of anger at a fan or just into the stands.

This is the "new look" Reds. If you can't nail them at the plate, nail them in the stands where they can't retaliate. I become more disgusted with them each day. They are a poor excuse for examples to youngsters. It won't be long until the Little Leaguers copy their actions and throw the ball into the seats.

THE TARK IS PASSING THE BUCK

The best thing that could happen to the UNLV basketball program is for the school to finally tell Jerry Tarkanian they have seen and heard enough. Now the Tark is blaming the NCAA (which is really a joke) for the decision of Anderson Hunt to forego his senior year and join the NBA. The "Shark" said the decision not to let UNLV participate in next year's NCAA tournament helped Hunt decide to go hardship.

Tarkanian is working the NCAA. Don't be surprised if the Runnin' Rebels run themselves right back into the tournament next year. I don't know though, they may not be good enough to make it.

THE-PICTURE-THAT-SHOULD-HAVE-BEEN-TAKEN DEPARTMENT

Allen Central Athletic Director Bert Layne stuck in the mud while chasing foul balls at the Allen Park. Says Layne, "I jumped into the ditch to get the two baseballs and went up to my ankle in mud." Bert eventually retrieved the baseballs.

CROWDS, DISTRICT BEST IN AWHILE

I believe the reason we are having one of the best district baseball tournaments is because of the crowds that have been coming out to view the games. Except for the 13-3 win by Betsy Layne over Wheelwright, the other games have been close. It makes for good entertainment and lots of fun. The full stands make the players play harder. It has been a great tournament. No baseballs thrown in the stands so far!

Well, it is time to go and cover the finals — Prestonsburg and Allen Central. Until Wednesday, have a great sports day and be good sports!

Determination Makes Wallen A Winner

This is the final year for Allen Central's Brian Wallen to capture the state's single A championship in discus throwing. Wallen is a senior at Allen Central High School and has been throwing the discus since he was in the seventh grade. Wallen began throwing the discus when Coach Forrest Hughes saw his size. Hughes took a discus, put it in his hand and said, "Start throwing and see how you like it." Wallen has been throwing the discus ever since.

"He never competed when he was in the seventh grade," said Wallen's mother Mary. "He did start competing when he was an eighth grader at Maytown. In his first meet as an eighth grader, Brian came in fifth. That tickled him to death."

Wallen has been successful at the sport for one reason — determination. He has an excellent chance of advancing to state competition for the third straight year. Last year he finished fourth in the state at the meet in Lexington.

At the regional meets, the opposition stands in awe at the warm up throws of Wallen's. Some competitors just shake their heads and murmur, "We all might as well try for second place."

Wallen had his longest throw in competition of 147 feet last year in the regional meet at Pikeville. However, on warm up throws, he has exceeded that mark.

Wallen is a very positive thinker who believes in himself and his ability to accomplish a feat. This is the last go around for this young man that I have known and respected for these past three years.

Wallen will be attending Cumberland College next year where he will play football. Wallen shunned the larger schools because of Cumberland's atmosphere as well as for academic reasons.

"I really liked it there when I went for a visit," he said. "They have a proven program at Cumberland and everyone seems interested in you."

Cumberland is so glad to have Wallen that they check in with him each week, according to Wallen's mother.

"They call two times a week just to check with Brian and see how he is doing," she explained. "They really are glad that he is coming to Cumberland."

Wallen also hopes to take part in the school's track and field events, especially discus. "I can throw a college discus better than the one for high school," said Wallen at the recent track and field meet at Boyd County High School. "I believe they are lighter than what we throw."

Wallen has shed some pounds during the past summer and this has made him faster coming off the pad. He is determined to do all that he can possibly do to bring a state championship back to Allen Central. His mother says that, win or lose, it has been an honor for Brian to compete at the state level three years in a row.

Wallen has had a very good year, placing first nine times in ten meets. His one finish was for second place. He won the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference the past four years and qualified out of the regionals the past four years. His longest throw this season has been 139 feet.

This Saturday (tomorrow), Wallen will once again take that step toward the coveted state title when he travels to Clay County High School for the single A Sectional Meet.

Another standout quality in this young man's life is his unselfish attitude of helping others learn how to be successful at throwing the discus. He has teamed with Tim Slone at Allen

Damron Drives In 3 As Blackcats Nip McDowell, 5-4

Stirring up dust!

John Clark (14) slides safely into home as McDowell catcher Earl Cook looks on. The Prestonsburg Blackcats advanced to the finals of the 58th District tournament with a 5-4 win over the Daredevils. (Photo by Ed Taylor)

Good defense. Good pitching. Good crowd. All three made for a great high school baseball game as the Prestonsburg Blackcats won for the first time this year over Greg Johnson's McDowell Daredevils 5-4 in the first round of the 58th District High School Baseball Tournament. McDowell previously won three games against Russell Shepherd's Blackcats.

It was a game that saw runners cut down at third base, home plate and a great catch in right field. Pitching also highlighted the evening of baseball in some great relief work by John Clark.

McDowell put the first two runners on in the bottom of the fourth inning when Shawn Newsome and Earl Cook collected back-to-back base hits. The two hits came off Prestonsburg starter Aaron Tucker. Coach Shepherd then went to the mound and brought in the hard throwing Clark. Clark then struck out Britt Stumbo, Shannon Price and Matt Rose to end the threat.

In the bottom of the sixth, Bud Kidd worked Clark for a lead-off walk and promptly stole second base, putting the tying run in scoring position. With Newsome at the plate, Clark struck out Newsome and Kidd headed for third base where he was gunned down by Blackcat catcher Kevin Hall. The put out was even bigger as the game progressed because Earl Cook singled to centerfield after Kidd was tagged out.

In the McDowell third, Kidd hit a long drive straight away to rightfield, only to have Worthie McGuire go to the fence and make an over-the-head catch of the drive.

McDowell came up with their own defensive gem in the top of the fourth inning when Jason Crisp tripled to right center leading off the inning.

McDowell starter Toby Vance, got John Clark to bounce out to short with Crisp holding. Anthony Howell lofted a high, deep drive to centerfield which was caught by Shawn Ousley. Ousley fired a one bounce strike to home plate that nailed Crisp trying to score. It took a perfect throw to get Crisp, and that is the kind that Ousley fired in — a perfect throw.

Prestonsburg jumped on Vance early in the first inning as the first two pitches went for base hits. Clark lined a screamer back up the middle, and Anthony Howell laid down a bunt that went for a base hit while Clark, catching the McDowell defense napping, went to third base. Sean Damron's ground out to second scored Clark from third. Designated hitter Chris Cavins was safe at first on a wild throw from short by Kidd scoring Howell.

It was 4-0 after the Blackcats batted in the second inning. With one out, Crisp reached on Kidd's second error of the game, and Clark walked. Both runners moved up on a passed ball by Cook. Howell hit a grounder to third, forcing Crisp. Damron picked up his second and third RBIs with a line drive base hit, scoring Clark and Howell.

McDowell made it a 4-1 game in the bottom of the second on a lead off walk by Kidd. Kidd moved to second on a ground out to short by Newsome and advanced to third on Cook's bouncer to the mound. Tucker then threw a wild pitch, allowing Kidd to score.

In the Daredevils' third, Barry Hall lead off with a long triple and scored on Ousley's base hit. Ousley came in to score on a wild pitch by Tucker. Vance walked and, on the oldest play of the game, was picked off first when Tucker faked a throw to third and fired to first instead.

Vance seemed to get stronger as the game went on, giving Prestonsburg nothing but "goose eggs" in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth inning. In the Blackcats' seventh, Crisp opened with a sharp single and Clark laid down a bunt that went for a single. Howell struck out, and Crisp was picked off third. Cavins then drilled a rope to centerfield, driving in Clark.

McDowell came to the plate for the last time this season in the bottom

Girl's Regional Softball...

Russell Scores In Ninth To Hand McDowell 14-9 Loss

The McDowell Lady Daredevils had control of their own destiny in the Girl's Regional Softball tournament at Greenup County Wednesday night as they blew a chance to defeat a good Russell team in the semifinals.

In a dramatic comeback to tie the contest, the game went into extra innings with McDowell having a chance to take the victory. In the bottom of the eighth inning and the score knotted at 9-9, the winning run was in scoring position 60 feet away with one out. Lisa Hobson lead off the McDowell half when she reached on a two-base error on Heather McKenzie in left field. Heather Keathley walked on four pitches, and both runners moved up on Beth Jones ground out to second base. McDowell had the top of their batting order coming up as Kristy Mullins flied out to leftfield. Hobson made no attempt to score on the out. Debbie Fannin drilled a pitch that looked as if it was a clean base hit, but third baseman Angela Stevenson made a great backhand stab of the ball to end the threat.

Russell took advantage of the dejected feeling the Lady Daredevils experienced and pushed across five runs in the top of the ninth inning to take a 14-9 lead. McDowell retired the first batter up, Paula Reeves, on a pop to Lori Bryant at shortstop. Then the roof caved in on the Lady Devils' defense. Osborne walked, Stephanie Shafer singled, and both runners came home on a double by Kendra Fannin, with Fannin going to third on an error. Fannin scored when Tiffany Gullett bounced back to the pitcher. No one checked the runner as she crossed home plate. Nikki Reynolds, who had four hits in the game, singled and scored on a triple by Stevenson. Stevenson scored on an overthrow at third base.

McDowell went out in order in the bottom of the ninth.

The Lady Daredevils made a dramatic comeback in the bottom of the seventh inning, trailing 9-4. Hobson singled to start the five-run seventh, and Keathley popped to second. Beth Jones singled, and Kristy Mullins' base hit scored Hobson. Fannin's grounder to short was misplayed by Osborne, who had been sharp all game long, and Jones scored on the error. Bryant cleaned the bases with a long drive that went to the fence for a double and over the head of the right fielder. Bryant scored the tying run on a sacrifice fly to centerfield by Lisa Henry. Newsome advanced to third on the fly ball and represented the winning run. Jenny Slone strolled to the plate only to be intentionally passed for a chance at Lisa Brown. Brown popped out to first base to end the inning.

Russell took a 1-0 lead in the second on a one-out error at second base. Stevenson reached on Fannin's error at second. McKenzie bounced to short but the throw to second was too late to force Stevenson. After Elisha Brown went to short field, Mandy that Mullins was out brought about a vocal protest from the McDowell supporters. The runner was clearly down the right field line by four steps before the ball arrived at first base. However, Mullins was called out, and this proved to be an important call because it could have been the winning run. Bryant followed the controversy with a long triple, scoring Jones (and Mullins had she been not called out). No protest was filed by McDowell Coach Cassandra Myers bounced to second. The play was too late to get Myers and Stevenson in to score.

Russell made it 2-0 in the top of the fourth on a lead-off double by Reynolds and McKenzie's base hit. McDowell plated three runs in the bottom of the fourth. With one out, Bryant reached on a two-base error in right field and went to third on a base hit by Newsome. Bryant scored on Lisa Henry's fly ball to short field, and Jenny Slone walked. Lisa Brown singled home Newsome, and Slone came on to score on a base hit by Lisa Hobson.

Russell took a 4-3 lead with two runs in the top of the fifth. Stacy Rice reached on an error with one out by Mullins in centerfield. Reeves singled and went to second as the ball was mishandled in the outfield. Rice came on to score as Osborne bounced back to the pitcher. Shafer's base hit scored Reeves to give Russell the lead.

In the controversial fifth for the Lady Daredevils, Beth Jones collected her second hit of the game with a base hit to right center. Kristy Mullins then grounded to second where the throw went to the shortstop covering the bag. However, the base umpire ruled that the shortstop had bobbed the ball and called Jones safe at second. The relay throw to first by Russell's shortstop, Osborne, was too late to get Mullins. But the base umpire appealed to the home plate umpire for help on the call at first base. The home plate umpire's ruling

Akers.

The winning pitcher was Shafer in relief of starter Brown. Shafer came on in the seventh inning and pitched the final two. Shafer issued five bases on balls—one intentional. She struck out one batter.

Keathley was the losing pitcher, as the freshman pitched her first tournament game. Keathley was brought in to pitch because Akers was forced to put her regular pitcher, Lisa Hopson, on third base to replace Nikki Mullins, who did not play due to an illness. Keathley fanned one batter and walked three.

McDowell reached the semifinals by beating Elkhorn City 15-3 in the first round.

Central and has been an influence in Slone's ability to compete. Slone finished second at the recent regional meets — behind his teacher. When Brian struggled in his first two throws at Boyd County, Slone took the lead in the event and no one pulled harder for Slone than Brian.

Will this be Wallen's year? Will he finally accomplish all that he has work so hard to do the past four years? Will the vision that Coach Hughes had when handed a young Brian Wallen a discus become a reality? Let's hope so!

TV PIPELINE

Alyssa Milano into music as well as acting career

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I would like to know more about Alyssa Milano. How old is she? Is she married? —J.E.M., Miles City, Mont.

A: Alyssa Milano was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., on Dec. 19, 1973. She began her career by winning a role in the Broadway production of Annie. Since coming to Hollywood, she has appeared in the movies Old Enough, Commando and The Canterville Ghost and starred in the NBC movie Dance 'Til Dawn. She has completed work on Teen Steam, her own popular teen talk and exercise video, and has recorded her first album of rock'n'roll songs for the Japanese market. The first album went platinum, and Alyssa has since completed two more albums for the Japanese market. Alyssa lives in Studio City, Calif., with her father, Tom, a music coordinator; her mother, Lin, a fashion designer; and her younger brother, Cory.

Q: I would like to know what happened to the cast that played on Little House on the Prairie, especially Mr. French. I am 85 and never miss a show. —Sophie Benedict, Friendsville, Md.

A: There were almost 40 regular characters during the nine years Little House was produced. Here is the scoop on a few of them: Melissa Gilbert (Laura Ingalls Wilder) married actor/writer Bo Brinkman and is now a mother. She continues to act in television. Melissa Sue Anderson (Mary Ingalls Kendall) has changed her name to Melissa Anderson, lives in Los Angeles and continues working in theater and television. Michael Landon (Charles Ingalls) now wears many hats: He is a producer, director, writer and actor. He will have a new series premiering this fall.

Alyssa Milano

Victor French (Isaiah Edwards) died of cancer on June 15, 1989.

Q: I enjoy watching In the Heat of the Night each week. I would like some information on Alan Autry, who plays "Bubba" on the show. Also how can one write to him? —Diane Fiteizy, Morehead City, N.C.

A: Of all the questions I receive, this one is the most frequently asked. Alan Autry was born in Shreveport, La., on July 31. His family later moved to California, where he attended Riverdale High School. After graduating from the University of Pacific, he was drafted by the Green Bay Packers and played professional football for three seasons. Director Robert Altman, a football fan, met Autry and encouraged him to try acting when his playing days ended. His first film was Remember My Name, with Alfre Woodard. Divorced, he is not related to Gene Autry, and yes, it is his real name.

VIDEO BIJOU

Elizabeth Taylor high-strung as she keeps a 'Night Watch'

By Steven Alan McGaw
 Let's see the mail start rolling in (trickling in, maybe?) with your list of "guilty pleasures" videos. Send those in to Steven Alan McGaw, Video Bijou, P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, Texas, 76161-1009. Thanks!

Night Watch (1973)
 This movie's really not very well thought of and is genuinely pretty corny, but I still love it.

Elizabeth Taylor stars as the nervous, fearful wife of British businessman Laurence Harvey. One rainy night, Taylor looks out her window to the house next door and sees (or thinks she does) a horrific sight: a woman's beaten, bloodied body propped up in a wingback chair! At first Harvey seems loving and protective of his high-strung wife, but we soon learn of his ongoing romance with housekeeper Billie Whitelaw.

Was there a body, or wasn't there? Suspicions arise when Taylor keeps having the same vision, but there's never anything to be found. Obviously, the script offers nothing new, but I find it invigorating, nonetheless, and the performances are fine.

Incidentally, the screenplay was by Lucille Fletcher, who wrote Dial M for Murder. (And my thinking on this film is absolutely not colored by the fact I was in the play in high school.)

58th District Semifinals...

Scott Clears Bases As Allen Central Stuns Betsy Layne In District

As someone had said earlier, don't count Allen Central out of the district tournament. The Rebels proved that theory correct as they stunned the Betsy Layne Bobcats, tournament favorite, 4-3 to end the Bobcats' season and to earn a trip to the regional tournament at Pikeville next week.

Allen Central, which got off to a rather slow start with a young Rebel team, began picking up some big wins over top teams (Knott County Central for one) and steadily improved as the season went on. Coach Anthony Moore's squad has not been the defensive team they were expected to be as errors clouded their defensive efforts earlier. But once the Rebels got that settled they became a much stronger team.

Brad Scott's bases clearing double sent three runners home in the top of the sixth inning and erased a 2-1 Betsy Layne lead. Chuck Laferty, returning to the line up for Allen Central after being out with an injury, drew a one out walk from Betsy Layne ace Keith Hall. John Martin singled behind Laferty. After Frank Martin popped out to shortstop, Stewart Hall walked to load the bases for the Rebels against Hall. It was the fourth walk of the game for Stewart Hall. Scott then drilled a double that sent all three runners home with the tying and go-ahead runs. Allen Central led 4-2.

The Bobcats went out in order against Robbie Sexton in the bottom of the sixth and ditto for the Rebels in their half of the seventh. In the bottom of the inning, Betsy Layne plated a run, but the rally fell short. Chris Newsome, who has had a very good tournament after suffering a brief regular season slump, singled to lead off the Bobcat seventh. Derrick Newsome struck out and Shannon Newsome, batting for Todd Akers, bounced back to the pitcher where Chris Newsome was forced at second. Shannon Newsome scored the third run for Betsy Layne on a three-base error at third base off of the bat of Keith Hall. Sexton got Chris Potter to fly to center to end the game.

Betsy Layne scored first in the bottom of the first inning to take a 1-0 lead. With one out, Potter reached on an error in centerfield and scored on Darren Gearheart's two out single.

Allen Central tied the game in the top of the third on a lead off walk to Stewart Hall and Stevie Robinson's RBI double with one out.

In the bottom of the Bobcats' third, Danny Page reached on an error at short for Allen Central. With two out, Derrick Newsome doubled scoring Page to make it a 2-1 ballgame.

Sexton picked up the win for the Rebels in going the route, Sexton, who has pitched well all season, struck out four batters while walking but one. He yielded all three runs, which were all unearned, while scattering five Bobcat hits. At one point he retired seven batters in a row before yielding a base hit to Chris Newsome in the seventh.

Betsy Layne put their leadoff batter on in the second inning when Barry Clark singled to open the inning. Sexton then retired the next three without any damage. Adam Gearheart got a two base hit in the third.

Allen Central squandered a chance to score in the first when two batters reach via the base on balls route. Hall fanned Phillip Ritchie to end the threat. The Rebels put their first two runners on in the second when Sexton walked and Laferty singled. Hall got John Martin to ground into a 6-4-3 double play and struck out Frank Martin to end the inning. In the Allen Central fifth, Stewart Hall drew his third consecutive walk and Brad Scott walked to put two runners on with no one out. Hall got a force at second, fanned Jason Martin and Ritchie grounded out to short.

Scarberry Fans Nine In 2-0 Cards Win

The Martin Braves stranded 11 base runners as they fell 2-0 to the Martin Cardinals in a very good Beaver Creek Little League game at Martin Wednesday evening.

Gary Scarberry hurled the two-hit shutout, striking out nine batters in the route-going performance. Scarberry did experience some control problems as he issued nine walks in the game.

Beau Tackett (1-1) suffered the loss for the Braves. Tackett struck out six batters and walked three in the complete game. Tackett only allowed four hits in the game.

The Cardinals scored singled runs in the first and fourth innings. Brad Dashner had an RBI single in the fourth for the Cards. The only two hits the Braves had were by Gordon Maynard in the fourth and Chris Comette's base hit in the sixth.

Marty Hall and Tim Yates had the game's only extra base hits with each getting first inning doubles. Yates picked up the first run with his two-base hit.

The Braves left the bases loaded against Scarberry three times — in the second, fifth and sixth inning. Two men were left stranded in the fourth.

The Braves fall to 4-2 in league play, and the Cards improved to 2-3.

The Cardinals will face Wayland on the road Monday and the Braves will be at Minnie against the McDowell Stars.

The McDowell Stars doubled the score, 18-9, on the Martin Cardinals in Beaver Creek Little League play Tuesday evening at Minnie. The win was the first of the year for the McDowell team to go with five defeats.

Rusty Hall and Darren Newsome provided the long ball for the Stars as they both clubbed home runs. Hall hit a solo shot in the fourth inning, and in the fifth Newsome blasted a three-run shot.

Scott Johnson was the winning pitcher for the Stars going all the way for his first victory in his first start.

Johnson fanned nine batters and walked six.

Brent Ousley enjoyed a good night at the plate going two-for-three at the plate. Ousley drove in three runs with a fifth inning triple when his team scored eight times. Ousley had a double in the fourth inning.

Western Ky Inks West Hopkins Standout Stephanie Minor

Stephanie Minor, a 5-11 All-State forward from West Hopkins High School in Nebo, Ky., has signed to play her college basketball at Western Kentucky University.

"We feel like Stephanie will help us tremendously," commented veteran Lady Topper coach Paul Sanderford. "She's probably the best high school rebounder in the state of Kentucky. She's big, strong and she plays a very physical game. And, Stephanie is an outstanding young lady who should be a real asset to our program."

The all-time leading scorer (girls and boys) at West Hopkins, Minor led her Rebelettes to 100 victories against only 16 defeats in her four years as a starter, totaling 2,218 points (474 more than the previous school record) and averaging 19.1 points a game for her career.

As a senior, she led Coach Nancy Oldham's WHHS squad to a sparkling 30-4 record, the district and regional championships and a berth in the state tournament, the Rebelettes' third straight trip to the Sweet Sixteen. That team was also the state runner-up in the All A Classic after winning regional and sectional titles in that Kentucky event for smaller schools.

In her final prep campaign, Minor averaged 16.8 points (hitting a very impressive 63 percent from the floor) and 9.4 rebounds an outing while coming up with 42 blocked shots and 81 steals—all in less than 23 minutes of play a game.

Her junior year, the Rebelettes reached the quarter-finals of the state tournament before bowing out to finish 28-3. Minor contributed to that teams successes at the rate of 21.2 points and 10.4 rebounds a contest. She also came up with 56 blocks and 92 steals. An outstanding shooter, she made good on 55.4 percent of her field goal attempts.

"Stephanie's best years of basketball are yet to come," said West Hopkins Coach Nancy Oldham. "She will work hard and earn her playing time at Western."

Minor was a second-team All-State selection as a senior. And, she earned All-Region honors three times and All-District laurels four straight years. She earned berths on the Sweet Sixteen All-Tournament team her junior year and on the All A Classic

All-Tournament team as a senior.

She was a member of the undefeated 1990 Kentucky Junior All-Star team that toured Europe last summer.

A solid student who is interested in a course of study in early childhood education at Western, Minor is the daughter of James and Tracy Civils of Earlington.

She is the fourth outstanding prospect to sign with Western, Kentucky's Miss Basketball, Ida Bowen, a 6-2 guard/forward from Sheldon Clark High School in Inez and Veronica Cook, a 6-0 guard/forward from Franklin-Simpson High School in Franklin, took advantage of the November signing period to ink with the Lady Toppers.
