Speaking of and for Floyd County

In 1978 murder :

Judge quits case, suspect is jailed

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County Circuit Judge Hollie Conley has asked that a special judge be appointed to preside over a 12 year old murder case and the suspect in that case surrendered to jail officials Tuesday morning.

Conley

Wendell Ray Newman, 37, of Jack's Creek turned himself in to the Floyd County Jail at 9:45 a.m. Tuesday, jail officials said. Newman returned to jail after a state Court of Appeals panel reinstated a $100,000 cash bond Friday, overruling an earlier decision by Court of Appeals Judge Janet Stumbo that Newman's bond be set at $10,000.

Newman was released from jail on June 18, after filling the $10,000 cash bond. He was accompanied to the jail by his attorney, Daniel Taylor III of Louisville, jail officials said.

Newman

Special prosecutor J.D. Johnson of Paintsville said Tuesday that Chief District Judge Stephen "Nick" Frazier has been asked by Conley to appoint a special judge in the case and that the issue would not be moved out of the Floyd County court system.

Conley asked to be removed from the case after Newman filed a $64,000 wrongful imprisonment suit against Conley on June 18, the same day Newman was released from jail on a $10,000 cash bond after a ruling by Stumbo. Stumbo ruled that Kentucky law does not make provisions for a "peace bond" and that Newman's bond had been "erroneously increased" by Conley.

Conley had imposed a $100,000 cash bond and an additional $75,000 "peace bond" against Newman in April after Newman allegedly threatened witnesses in the case.

The Court of Appeals agreed with Stumbo's ruling on the peace bond, but reinstated the $100,000 cash bond until the transcript of an April 24 hearing could be reviewed.

A Floyd County Grand Jury handed down a murder indictment against Newman on June 10 for the 1978 shooting death of Walter Hall of Letcher County. Hall's death was originally declared accidental but evidence found during an exhumation in 1989 led to a murder charge.

Taylor was reported to have said Friday that Newman would surrender to Floyd County officials only after "he gets some assurances of his personal safety." Taylor reportedly said he wanted Newman to be transferred to the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center in Paintsville because of threats he had received.

Truck driver cited, Dana woman killed :

Murder charged in Tuesday mishap

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Pike County coal truck driver was arrested and charged with murder Tuesday afternoon after a 40-year-old Floyd County woman was killed in an auto accident at Harold.

Michael Johnson, 37, of Virgie was lodged in the Floyd County Jail on a murder charge when Glenda L. Akers of Dana died after her pick-up truck was struck by the coal truck Johnson was driving.

Akers was turning onto U.S. 23 from Rt. 979 at the Harold bridge when Johnson, witnesses at the scene said, ran through the intersection while the traffic signal was red and struck Akers' vehicle and two others, a Kentucky State Police dispatcher said Tuesday.

Akers was making the turn onto U.S. 23 when the traffic light was green, said deputy coroner Glenn Frazier.

Akers was pronounced dead at the scene by Frazier. She suffered multiple fractures of the spine and internal injuries. The accident occurred at 10:15 a.m.

Lemuel Meade, the driver of one of the other vehicles struck by Johnson's truck, was treated and released at Pikeville Methodist Hospital, said KSP officials. Denzil McKinney, the third driver involved, received no injuries. No seat belts were in use.

The accident is under investigation by Kentucky State Police troopers Eddie Crum and Ghomer Prater and detective Donnie Phipps.

Akers was born at Harold May 27, 1951, the daughter of Junior Lawson of Harold and Readie Ward Lawson of Dana. She was a self-employed beautician and a member of the Little Mud Creek Church of Christ.

She is survived by her husband, Chester Lee Akers of Dana; a son, Chester Lee Akers Jr., of Dana; a daughter, Mrs. Angela Akers Sturgil of Dana; a brother, Gary Lee Lawson of Dana; a sister, Mrs. Bonnie Jean Dotson of Prestonsburg; and one grandchild.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete at presstime and are under the direction of the Hall Funeral Home of Martin.

Dr. C. Nelson Grote, president of Morehead State University, took several members of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce and representatives of Prestonsburg Community College on a tour of the new extended campus center, presently under renovation in the old Hecks building. ## Local effort asked to help with costs

by Tess A. Whitmer
Assistant Editor

Dr. Nelson Grote, president of Morehead State University, and several members of his faculty spoke to the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce members during the Chamber board meeting Monday at May Lodge. Dr. Grote challenged the community to match the university dollar for dollar for the funding of the MSU extended campus center to open in Prestonsburg in August.

Grote billed the funding as an investment in the economic development of the area. He asked that the community raise at least $80,000 to help "make it a first class center, that we can be proud of."

Grote said that the center would open in August regardless of whether the community met the challenge, however it would be minimally furnished and equipped.

"With the community's help we can put nice furnishings in it, fully equip a computer lab, purchase audio-visual equipment needed for quality instruction and office equipment needed to communicate better with the main campus in Morehead," Grote explained.

Morehead has experienced unusual growth in the past few years, expanding its enrollment by 8.2 percent this past spring, and 11.1 percent during the first summer session of 1991. Grote noted that even with the expansion, there has been a decline in the number of freshmen enrolling. Most of the increase was coming from transfer students, largely from the community colleges, and more non-traditional students enrolling.

According to Grote, the major growth in enrollment is behind them and this fall the university has budgeted for a five-percent increase. "We have a possibility of exceeding 9,000 students this year," he said. "We have

Rescuers continue search

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Rescue workers continued searching Tuesday in Floyd and Magoffin counties for a Magoffin County woman reported missing since Saturday.

Ruth Irene Baize, approximately 41-years-old, was last seen at 2 p.m. Saturday at a home in Rough and Tough in Floyd County where she stopped for a drink of water, said Prestonsburg fire department officials Tuesday. Baize was reported as being 5'7", weighing 130 pounds and was wearing a flowered pull-over top, gray tinted blue jeans and green shoes.

A report that Baize was found Monday was a miscommunication, said fire department officials.

Rescue teams joining in the weekend search were: the Kentucky Search Dog Association; the West Virginia Search and Rescue Dog Team; David, Prestonsburg and Middle Creek fire departments; Magoffin and Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squads; the Floyd County Sheriff's Department; and the Kentucky State Police.

Magoffin County rescue workers, who are organizing the effort, could not be reached Tuesday for further details about the search.

Pair convicted for '90 assault

A Floyd County Circuit Court jury recommended five-year prison terms Monday for two men found guilty on first degree assault charges in connection with the May 1990 beating of a 54-year-old Pike County man.

Jurors found Larry Joe Hall, 26, and Ricky Wayne Castellanos, 21, both of Ivel, guilty of beating Billy Ray Howell of Meta on May 26 last year.

Police reports said Howell was beaten about the head and body after a fight broke out between the three. Howell was taken to Our Lady of The Way Hospital in Martin and later transferred to U.K. Medical Center in critical condition. He suffered a skull fracture, broken nose and cheek and facial cuts.

The jury deliberated approximately one hour before reaching its verdict. Formal sentencing has been set for July 26.

Roadblocks aid D.A.R.E. effort

If you see sheriff's deputies holding roadblocks this weekend, don't be afraid to stop—it's for a good cause.

The Floyd County Sheriff's Department will be holding roadblocks throughout the county this Fourth of July weekend asking for donations for the D.A.R.E. program and the Kentucky Sheriff's Ranch.

D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) is a course in the schools teaching Floyd County students to resist becoming involved with drugs. The program is sponsored by the sheriff's department.

The Kentucky Sheriff's Ranch is a five-day camp featuring swimming, camping and other outdoor activities for underprivileged children.

Penalties harsher, prosecution easier :

New DUI law takes effect

Prosecutors will likely find their jobs a little bit easier and drunk drivers will find their punishment a bit harsher with Kentucky's newest DUI law, which took effect July 1.

The new law, passed during the General Assembly's special session this year, makes it "illegal per se" to drive a vehicle with a blood alcohol level of 0.10 or higher. Prosecutors no longer are required to prove that a DUI defendant was "impaired" to obtain a conviction.

For convicted first offenders, the law provides for a 90-day suspension of a driver's license but allows for a hardship license during the final 60 days. Green stickers must be posted on vehicle windows of drivers who qualify for hardship licenses. Hardship licenses will not be issued to persons who refuse to take blood alcohol tests.

All persons convicted of DUI will now face mandatory treatment for substance abuse and must complete a 90-day program before licenses can be reinstated.

According to Russell Hall of Mountain Comprehensive Care, persons convicted of DUI, no matter which offense, will take a written assessment ($75), participate in an psychological history interview ($100) and attend at least a nine-hour class ($75), depending on the results of the computer-analyzed written assessment.

Hall said that the costs have increased from a one-time cost of $75 for the assessment and school because all the counselors are now required to be licensed and accredited and they are required to do the psychological history interview. Cost to the patient is determined by a person's ability to pay.

"We have no control over what a person has to do to get his license back," Hall said. "Whatever the test says is what a person has to do."

The test is provided by Behavior Data Systems in Phoenix, Arizona, and their computer determines whether a person needs the nine-hour class (broken down into three three-hour sessions), the 10-week education program, intensive outpatient treatment, or inpatient treatment.

"The new state law is leaning towards treatment, which is what we've been working on for a long time," Hall said. "The prevention stuff just wasn't working. We weren't had a remarkable response from Eastern Kentucky. We understand that our roots are in the mountains and we are terribly proud of that."

MSU has a 21-county area of responsibility with 70 percent of the students coming from the Eastern Kentucky counties.

"Universities typically brought people to them but we cannot serve all the people we need to serve that way," Grote said, explaining why the extension campus was proposed. "We have a philosophical orientation of taking the university to the people. Most of our growth in the next years will occur in the off-campus sites."

Dr. Grote noted that there were certain criteria that needed to be met in order for them to continue to receive funding from the Council on Higher Education, including a minimum enrollment of 300 at the center.

"You need to help us promote it and support it if you want us to remain a funded center and see it prosper," he said.

Dr. Dan Thomas, acting Dean of Graduate Studies and Extended Campus Services, said that MSU would be doing continuous community surveys to assess the needs of the area and determine what programs would "float." Initially, business, education and nursing programs will be offered and a program in university studies is being considered, Thomas said.

Other business conducted by the Chamber during its monthly board meeting included:

— Recognition of Dr. Henry Campbell on his retirement after 27 years as president of Prestonsburg Community College and the welcome of the new president, Dr. Deborah Floyd;

— Announcement of Floyd County Day at the Theatre on July 25, board members are selling tickets;

— Presentation of a letter drafted by Mayor Ann Latta to the two gubernatorial candidates, Brereton Jones and Larry Hopkins, asking them to state their position on several economic development issues affecting Floyd County; and — Reading of a thank-you letter from John Rosenberg for the honors bestowed upon him at the recent Chamber banquet.

Thirty people attended the Chamber luncheon meeting. The next general membership meeting will be on August 12 at the lodge from 5:30 p.m. until 7 p.m. This will serve as a planning session for the yearly activities of the Chamber and all members are encouraged to attend.

The Kentucky State Chamber Executive Board will be meeting in Prestonsburg at the Lodge at noon on Friday, July 12, and the Regional Chamber of Commerce meeting will be held at the Carriage House in Paintsville on Tuesday, July 16 at noon.

seeing that big of a change with the number of arrests."

Other provisions of the new law include:

-automatic six-month suspension of licenses for drivers who refuse to take blood alcohol tests;

-revocation of licenses during arraignments for drivers under the age of 21; those previously convicted of DUI; or those who refused to take blood alcohol tests;

-handling of all suspensions by district courts; and

-mandatory reporting by the courts of the status of all DUI cases.

A fourth offense DUI is a Class D felony under the new law.

With the new law, circuit court clerks will be asked to report statistical information on DUIs daily to the state Administrative Office of the Courts. Quarterly reports are required on cases which have not resulted in a final judgment within 90 days of the date on which a person was charged. The first report on pending DUI cases is due to the Administrative Office of the Courts on July 8.

Responsibilities handled by district judges will also expand under the new DUI law because they will handle license suspensions. Those duties were previously left to the state's Transportation Cabinet.

Perkins introduces bill for rural schools

An ambitious $3 billion plan to improve educational opportunities in rural areas was launched this week by Kentucky Congressman Chris Perkins, his office announced. Perkins' bill, called the Rural Schools of America Act of 1991, is the first federal initiative that specifically addresses the problems of rural schools, teachers and students.

Perkins, current chairman of the Education and Labor's Employment Opportunities subcommittee, said he introduced the bill as a response to falling graduation rates, the decaying state of rural schools, the poverty afflicting rural areas and the shortage of qualified teachers. He termed rural education today as being in a "crisis" stage.

"We are starting to realize how crucial education will be for the continued success and prosperity of our great nation," Perkins said as he introduced the bill into the House. "However, little attention has been focused on the desperate state of America's decaying rural school system. And, unless immediate action is taken, the educational paralysis of our rural children will doom an entire generation, and perhaps a way of life, to extinction."

The bill authorizes $3 billion for fiscal year 1992 and seeks additional funding through the year 2000. These funds will go for a variety of rural scholastic needs.

Here are some highlights:

- 1.) Funding for implementation of programs to achieve the National Education Goals.
- 2.) Money for building new schools, repairing existing ones, and removing asbestos, lead and radon from them. Perkins said the average rural school building is over 45 years old and in "serious disrepair."
- 3.) Funding for daycare and early childhood development programs.

- 4.) Money to recruit and train qualified teachers.

In addition, the bill calls on the president to establish a White House Conference on Rural Education to coordinate a national rural strategy. This would include the appointment of an Assistant Secretary for Rural Education, who would oversee the program's operation and effectiveness.

On a more local level, the bill authorizes the creation of a National Rural Regional Education Center in each region to conduct research, evaluate and monitor information, and disseminate information.

It will now be referred to the Education and Labor committee, which will then direct it to the appropriate subcommittee for consideration.

"This bill, I think, will get the wheels moving on addressing the educational needs of our rural children. For them, education is a way to make something of themselves and make a lasting, positive contribution in their communities," Perkins said.

Johnson woman dies in house fire

A Johnson County woman died from smoke asphyxiation and burns Saturday when she entered her burning house to phone the fire department, according to Johnson County Coroner J.R. Frisby.

According to state police reports, Mary Adams, 40, was cooking in her kitchen and had left her Williamsport home to go outside and talk to a friend of one of her sons. She noticed smoke coming out of the back of her house and ran inside to use the phone and somehow got trapped in a bedroom.

A neighbor, Wallace Williamson, told a Lexington Herald reporter that his wife called the fire department at 9:40 p.m. and the volunteer firefighters attempted to extinguish the fire with water pumped from Adams' pool.

According to Williamson, the firefighters attempted to enter the burning structure twice but were driven back, once due to a malfunctioning breathing apparatus.

Williamson's nephew, Robert Ward of Columbus, Ohio, was circling the burning house and heard Adams. He pulled an air-conditioner unit from the bedroom window and neighbors shot water from the firefighters' hoses through the hole. Ward then entered the house through the opening and got Adams out.

Adams was pronounced dead on arrival at Paul B. Hall Medical Center in Paintsville, according to Frisby. Results of an autopsy showed that Adams died of smoke asphyxiation and burns that covered 85 percent of her body.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

It is customary at this particular time of the year for newspapers to offer a reprint of the Declaration of Independence in their editorial columns. The Declaration is, after all, one of the most precious documents ever written. It is the foundation upon which this country was built, and we've built a pretty decent country.

We'll stray from tradition this year and, rather than reprint the Declaration, take a look at the historic document from a distance...say 215 years away...

Let's suppose, for the sake of supposing, that American leaders were writing the Declaration of Independence today, instead of in 1776. What shape would it take?

When in the course of human events, excepting all Acts of God, it becomes necessary for the parties of the first part to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another and recertification has been properly approved, and to assume among the powers of the earth, heretofore known as the parties of the second part, the separate and equal monthly installments to which the laws of nature do entitle them, a decent respect for the deductibles and the first, second and third opinions of mankind, approved in advance...they should declare, in triplicate, the causes which impel them...

We, the parties of the first part, hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men except those to be named later are created equal; that they are endowed by their creator with certain illegal alien rights; that among those are life, liberty and the pursuit public office.

We mutually pledge to the parties of every part our lives (and usable organs when feasible) our fortunes (see equal monthly payment plan mentioned above) and our sacred trust (when applicable for public relations needs). Degrees of equality may vary, void where prohibited. No purchase necessary unless seeking government contracts.

Aren't we fortunate that freedom was born in a much less complicated time?

Yes, we are.

We often wonder what chance America might have if its life depended on the quality of leadership we have today.

Okay, we do rely on the leadership we have today...not to do something stupid and kill us all.

We certainly have very few statesmen, though.

Can you imagine any member of Congress saying "give me liberty or give me death"?

Maybe "give me liberty or give me a martini. Have to take a raincheck on that death business."

It's interesting, too, to note just how far we've come since our country was founded.

Our forefathers fought and died for the right to vote.

Americans today will brawl over the outcome of a Little League game, but they'd die before they'd vote.

We've come a long way, bay-bee.

Okay, we're being too cynical. This is a great country and we have, in fact, come a long way.

We have survived wars, worry, turmoil and terror always with the ability to pull ourselves together and to light the way of freedom for the rest of the world.

It is important to remember that this has all been accomplished by a country whose first citizenry was composed of castoffs whose singular purpose was to live free.

Freedom.

The most powerful word in any language.

Letters

Editor:

On June 19, the Kentucky Registry of Election Finance (KREF) considered a complaint brought by the Republican Party against Speaker of the House Don Blandford. The KREF fined Blandford $100 for a "technical error" but then decided not to further consider the most important aspects of the complaint.

In essence, the KREF dismissed our charges against Blandford, despite having twice issued formal rulings to the state GOP that it was illegal for one candidate to spend his campaign funds to help another candidate (as the GOP then caught Blandford doing).

A recurrent problem for the registry is whether to enforce the election finance laws of Kentucky, or just to ignore them.

A case in point is the complete wimp-out taken by the KREF in this matter. Instead of ruling consistently and evenhandedly, the registry fell apart when confronting the case of a powerful Democrat boss who clearly had violated what the KREF had already ruled is the law.

Their vote on whether to give further study to our more serious complaints against Blandford was: 2 in favor, 2 opposed, 2 not voting. In other words, only two of the six KREF members who were present voted not to have any further study of Blandford's actions. Incredibly, that was enough for Blandford to win.

(The seventh member, who was appointed by Lt. Gov. Brereton Jones, did not even attend the meeting. Is this a sign of the quality and commitment of the people whom Jones will appoint if he is elected governor?)

Worst of all, the KREF then apparently decided that we Republicans were asking too many questions. Therefore—now get this—hereafter they will not issue advance interpretations of the election laws for the guidance of those, like us, who want to obey the law, even if the statutes are unclear. The KREF is the very agency which was set up by the Legislature to give such interpretations. Now they have chickened-out.

Perhaps, in a fit of partisan deviousness, the Democrat Legislature intended to create a "no-risk to Democrats" KREF when they recently changed the make-up of the KREF board. Out of seven members, it now has only one member nominated by the Republican Party, and even that one member was appointed by Governor Wilkinson.

If this sort of cop-out continues to be the KREF pattern, the Legislature should change the laws to get rid of all penalties for violations, so that Republicans, as well as the ruling Democrats, can violate the laws without fear of punishment.

Two-party government is coming at last to many Eastern European countries which have long suffered under the iron fist of dictatorial, one-party rule. How much longer before it arrives in Kentucky?

Surely hope you have a reunion or a personal column in which you list meetings or homecomings.

The former residents and employees of the Kentucky Children's Home, 8711 LaGrange Road, Lyndon, Jefferson County, Kentucky, are scattered throughout Kentucky.

We are anxious to contact as many as possible about an upcoming reunion on September 28, 1991, at the Signature Inn, Florence, Kentucky, 1-75 and Turfway Road, Exit 182.

At the reunion in October 1990, we found alumni from 11 different Kentucky areas and five from other states.

The Home was organized in 1895 and it would be impossible to estimate the number of dependent children who have been served in that institution.

Since there has been no recent contact with these people, we are taking this means of trying to locate them and advise them about the meeting.

Several months ago Mr. Milo Bryant, secretary of transportation, started a program to get groups to adopt a section of highway for the purpose of keeping it clear of litter.

As we travel the roads in this area we see the signs that have been erected and people out on the roads trying to pick up the litter that is thrown out of cars and trucks.

The following is a list of a few of the groups that are active in this program: Rotary Club, Worldwide Equipment Co., R & S Body Co., May Metal Co., First United Methodist Church, Christ United Methodist Church, Floyd County Fiscal Court and the First Baptist Church, Allen, and many more.

I have heard of other groups that are getting into this program. These brave people should be commended for their effort in keeping our roads clean. I said brave because it is a dangerous job and very discouraging when people will throw litter right where you have cleaned. Sometimes you think it is going to hit you.

Recently, during the repairs on US 23 near Allen and Watergap, the construction crews would eat their lunches and toss the litter over on the side of the road for someone to pick up. What makes this so disgusting is that the highway department has a supervisor or inspector on these jobs and they see the litter being thrown onto the roads by these people.

I believe the people in Frankfort talk one way and do another. Why is the enforcement of the litter law neglected? Is it the fear of losing votes in the next election?

People that litter our highways should be arrested just as any other violator. If a person is caught fishing without a license or hunting without a license he or she is fined and sometimes the equipment is taken. As we travel the highways we see signs saying $500 fine for littering. I have never heard of anyone being fined for this violation, maybe some have been but I would say it has been very few.

As I said before, the people who are trying to keep our roads clean should be commended but I do not think it is right for people to clean up the litter that is thrown from vehicles when we have laws that should be enforced.

If a few people were arrested and fined the news would get around and people would be careful about throwing litter onto the highways. Let us start to keep Floyd County clean by enforcing the law.

PUTTING THE SOCIAL SECURITY EARNINGS TEST TO REST

by Martha A. McSteen
President, National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare

When most folks reach the age of 65, they want to leave their jobs and retire. But many senior Americans — out of either personal preference or financial necessity — want to remain in the work force.

Unfortunately, they are often in for a shock.

Many seniors don't expect to live on Social Security alone. However, they don't expect to be financially penalized for working either. This penalty comes from an antiquated law still on the books which has its roots in the Great Depression. It was designed to get those age 65 and older out of the work force to make room for the younger generation. While times have changed, this law hasn't.

Take, for example, the case of Eloise B., a 66-year-old widow from upstate New York who must work to supplement her modest Social Security benefits to pay her rent, utilities, food and health insurance bills. Yet, because she earned more than $9,360 last year, part of her Social Security benefits were taken away from her.

Is this fair? Hardly.

The earnings limit is indexed automatically to the average wage increase and is sure to go up again next year. This year, seniors between 65 and 69 who continue to work will lose $1 in benefits for every $3 they earn in excess of $9,720. But, unearned income — such as income from stock dividends and other investments — which can be substantial for upper-income individuals, is not affected by the earnings test at all.

Faced with continued double-digit increases in health costs, senior Americans with even moderate incomes are trapped in a Catch 22 situation. If they continue to work they may be penalized through a loss of Social Security benefits. Without the extra income, they often face living near the poverty level.

The truth is the Social Security earnings test hits hardest those least able to afford it.

Fortunately, relief is on the way. On Capitol Hill, Rep. J. Dennis Hastert of Illinois has introduced H.R. 967, the Older Americans' Freedom to Work Act, which would do away with the earnings test. Already, more than 240 of Rep. Hastert's colleagues, Republicans and Democrats alike, have joined him in cosponsoring his bill. In the Senate, similar legislation has been introduced by Sen. John McCain of Arizona with 20 cosponsors.

Opponents of the legislation say repealing the earnings test would cost the Social Security Administration more in added benefits. This is true.

But the Social Security Trust Fund this year will generate a surplus on the order of $70 billion — many, many times more than this bill will cost. In addition, the extra cost would be offset by new revenues from additional income and payroll taxes paid by working seniors. And, this is not to mention the $50 million to $100 million a year that would be saved in administrative costs.

It is pure folly to pursue a policy that shuts out people who want to work and contribute on the economic sidelines. When it was crafted half a century ago, the earnings test was meant to open up scarce jobs for young workers with families to support. Today's business climate is vastly different from the depression.

It's high time we put an end to an outdated policy that creates such economic and social harm. All Americans, regardless of age, should have the freedom to work without fear of being penalized and losing hard-earned benefits.

Please! Phone or write your senators and representative. Urge them to support the repeal of this outdated and unfair policy. Every American deserves a chance to live in economic dignity.

Martha McSteen is former acting commissioner of the Social Security Administration.

Fall from cliff kills Pike man

Rescue workers spent two and a half hours Sunday evening recovering the body of a Pike County man who fell off a 50-foot cliff on Flatwoods Mountain at Dorton.

According to Kelly Handshoe of the Shelby Creek Rescue Squad, a bulldozer was borrowed from a nearby strip mine to make a path down the rocky, heavily-wooded hillside to recover the body of Donald Tackett Jr., 35, of Myra.

Trooper Gomer Prater of the Kentucky State Police said that Tackett had apparently been walking along the edge of the rock cliff when he fell and struck his head on a rock at the base of the incline at about 8:30 p.m. on June 30. Pike County Deputy Corner Ray Jones pronounced Tackett dead at the scene. An autopsy is pending and the incident is still under investigation by trooper John Reynolds.

Blood work

Highlands laboratory personnel draw blood to perform cardiac risk profiles on area senior citizens during the Big Sandy Senior Olympics held recently.

Highlands provides cardiac risk profiles for Senior Olympics

Highlands Regional, for the fifth consecutive year, provided free health screening services at the Big Sandy Senior Olympic Games held May 17 at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. Each year Highlands provides one major diagnostic screening test and several other routine procedures such as blood pressure testing. This year a cardiac risk profile was offered to Seniors. The cardiac risk profile is a computerized analysis of heart disease risk based on an in-depth spectrum of blood tests and personal health history. The results of the cardiac risk profile were mailed to each participant, to be reviewed by their family physician to identify possible areas of concern.

In addition to cardiac risk profiles, Highlands provided a cancer risk profile; mammography and breast cancer information; medical insurance information, including Medicare; and information on sleep disorders.

This year the Jenny Wiley Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) joined Highlands in an effort to recruit more seniors to their organization. Working together, Highlands and members of the Jenny Wiley Chapter AARP have sponsored free health fairs for senior citizens for the past six years in a mutual effort to promote health awareness among area senior citizens.

Highlands personnel volunteering for the event were Don Hicks, director of Clinical Laboratory; Larry Daniels, medical technologist; Den-

Juvenile arthritis grant provides health care

There are about a million children in the United States who have a chronic illness which can require many hospitalizations and care for a long period of time from a variety of health professionals. These children may be threatened with disabilities which prevent them from enjoying and profiting from the normal activities of childhood. Their family members' lives are also seriously effected in that they must give the child extra care, they worry about their child's illness and medical expenses can be very costly. Additionally, family life may be further disturbed by frequent need to travel out of the community to obtain the specialized care the child needs.

The United States Bureau of Maternal and Child Health has funded a grant to the Special Treatment Center for Juvenile Arthritis at the Cincinnati Children's Hospital Medical Center to set up a model for health care for children with chronic illness in Ashland and the surrounding region which provides comprehensive, coordinated family-centered care in the Big Sandy area. The project works closely with the Kentucky Commission for Handicapped Children and is coordinated by Mrs. Jettie Bradley, a Commission nurse at Big Sandy District Health Department.

For further information, please call Mrs. Jettie Bradley at (606) 329-1329.

Gallbladder surgery at HRMC

Eastern Kentucky's first laparoscopic cholecystectomy (gallbladder) procedures were performed at Highlands on May 2 with much anticipation and great success.

The recipient of the operation was Wanda Owens of Mousie. Owens was typical of someone with gallbladder disease. She found herself eating mostly bread and sweets — foods that would not bring on the pain and nausea of a gallbladder attack. She rarely traveled because travel increased stress, and that too would aggravate her gallbladder and bring on an attack at unexpected times.

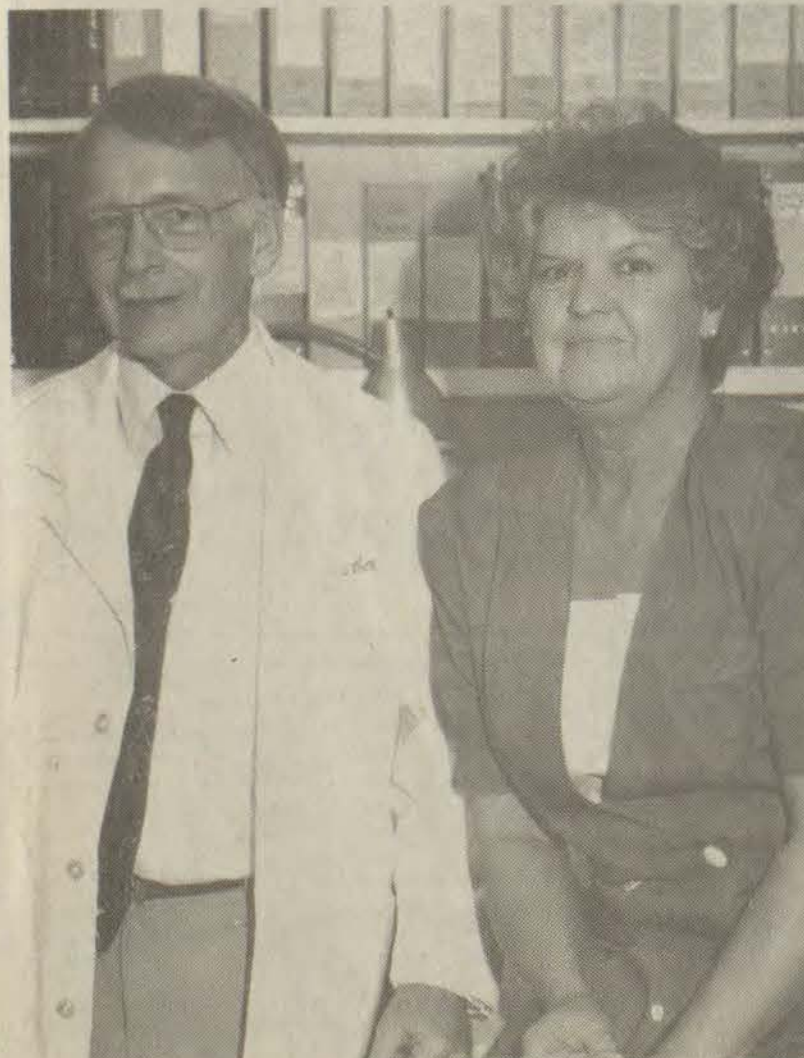

Typically, gallbladder surgery requires a week of hospitalization and six weeks of recovery. Owens checked into Highlands on the morning of Thursday, May 9. Dr. William Cook, assisted by Dr. Nabil Basha, removed Owens' gallbladder using the new laparoscopic cholecystectomy procedure. The entire procedure took just over an hour to perform. Owens slept most of the afternoon, spent the night at Highlands, got up the next morning, had bacon and eggs for breakfast and went home.

The incision in conventional surgery cuts numerous stomach muscles and requires the surgeon to move the liver out of the way in order to reach the gallbladder—all of which results in greater trauma, postoperative pain and a longer recovery period. Laparoscopic surgery requires only four "puncture" incisions involving far less muscle tissue and no need to rearrange the liver.

Hundreds and perhaps thousands of people in Eastern Kentucky have gallbladder disease, but fear and dread of the intensive surgery and lengthy hospital stay usually associated with gallbladder removal cause them to just "put it off a little longer."

With the availability of the new gallbladder removal procedure, laparoscopic cholecystectomy patients can come into the hospital one morning, have their gallbladder removed and go home the next day with practically no pain.

Understanding the struggle, part III:

Putting round pegs into square holes.

by Dr. Tom Matijasic

The Second World War left Europe in shambles. In addition to the tens of millions who were killed in the conflict, some twelve million Europeans were identified as "displaced persons" by 1945. The Soviet army had pushed its way through East-Central Europe meeting the American and British armies on the banks of the Elbe River in Germany on April 27, 1945. The German High Command surrendered to General Eisenhower on May 7, 1945, but the German Army continued to fight in Prague, Czechoslovakia until May 11.

As the war was coming to a close, the leaders of Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States attempted to construct a peace that would endure. Meeting at Yalta in February, 1945, Winston Churchill, Franklin Roosevelt, and Joseph Stalin established the broad outline of the future peace settlement. All three committed their nations to join a United Nations Organization. Stalin pledged that his nation would join the war against Japan. A broad statement was made about holding free elections in liberated nations, but a specific formula was not adopted. All three nations did agree that Germany should be divided into zones of occupation and that France should be given a zone.

The Yalta Accord was vague and subject to interpretation. New borders from German, Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Yugoslavia were left undefined. Several months later the Big Three met again at Cecilienhof Palace in Potsdam, but the cast of characters had changed. Roosevelt was dead and President Harry Truman represented the United States. During the course of the conference, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill learned that his party had lost power during recent elections and he was replaced by Clement Attlee. Only Joseph Stalin remained of the great wartime leaders who had led their nations to victory over fascism.

In a sense, the Allied leaders could only ratify what had already taken place. Poland and the Soviet Union had agreed that the Soviets would annex the Polish Ukraine and compensate the Poles by moving their border westward to the Oder and Western Neisse rivers. The Poles were already establishing settlements in this region when the conference began. In order to make room for the Polish settlers, six million Germans were expelled from Polish territory. Following the Polish example, Czechoslovakia conceded Ruthenia to the Soviet Union and expelled about three million Germans from its border regions. The new governments of East-Central Europe were determined to make populations fit borders rather than attempted to create borders that reflected populations. The Big Three accepted the expulsion of German inhabitants but expressed the hope that it would be done in an orderly and humane fashion.

Allied leaders also established four zones of occupation for Berlin and determined that the city should be ruled by an Interallied Control Council. A Council of Foreign Ministers was established, which continued to meet after Potsdam, in order to draft peace treaties with Germany and her former satellites.

Agreements aside, it was clear by the end of 1945 that the Soviet Union intended to establish pro-Soviet, Communist governments throughout East-Central Europe. This process was not as neat or rapid as most Americans assume. Soviet troops did liberate virtually all of the territory from the Adriatic to the Baltic Sea, but Communism did not have a long tradition in most of the liberated states. King Michael of Rumania was not forced into exile by the Communists until the end of 1947. That same year elections were held in Poland. The Independent Socialist Party won an overwhelming majority of seats in the Polish Parliament chiefly because of repressive measures taken against the National Peasant Party. The Communist sponsored Workers' Party did poorly in the elections, but the Soviets eventually forced a merger of the two groups and members of the Workers' Party soon dominated the Independent Socialist group. Hungary's post-war government had an anti-Communist majority for four years before Soviet influence tightened over Budapest. In Yugoslavia, Communist leader Marshal Tito easily won election in 1945 but he successfully resisted Soviet control over his nation.

The saddest chapter in the history of what came to be known as the Cold War was the suppression of democracy in Czechoslovakia. Following the defeat of the Nazis, Edward Benes returned to his homeland to resume his position as president. Czechoslovakia, unlike most of the nations of East-Central Europe, had a democratic heritage to build upon. In the free elections of 1948, the Communist Party won forty percent of the vote and Benes awarded the party eight out of twenty-five posts in his government. Unfortunately one of those positions was that of Minister of Interior and the Communists quickly purged the police force. In response to this purge, the non-Communist ministers resigned and Benes allowed the Communists to replace them. A month later, popular Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk fell to his death after being thrown from a window.

In 1948, the Soviets attempted to force the Western powers from Berlin by disrupting traffic through the eastern sector of Germany. The United States and Britain responded by organizing a massive airlift to save West Berlin from Soviet domination. In less than a year, 277,264 flights were made in order to feed, clothe and provide fuel to 2,250,000 Berliners. The Soviet blockade of Berlin ended on May 12, 1949, but the incident only illustrated the ruthless nature of Soviet domination in East-Central Europe. Clearly, the European continent was being divided into two hostile camps. A war of nerve would continue for more than two generations with millions of people caught in the middle.

Redesigned highway signs could help older drivers AAA study concludes Redesigned highway signs could help older drivers avoid having accidents, according to a new study released by the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety. Titled "Aging and the Visibility of Highway Signs: A New Look Through Old Eyes", the study shows signs using symbols rather than text are much more effective for all drivers.

As a group, older drivers do not have a higher than average accident rate. However, they are more likely to be involved in accidents because of a failure to heed signs or give right-of-way. Earlier studies show age increases difficulty in reading signs in time to react to them. This study, conducted by researchers at the University of Calgary, addressed the question of improving sign readability for older drivers.

Subjects used included drivers in three age-related categories (young, middle-aged, older). The subjects were tested in simulated driving experiences, and their reactions to various signs were tested in normal day and dusk conditions. The results reflect the average number of meters from which the signs were correctly read by members of each age-group under different conditions. The study shows symbolic signs were actually visible for a longer distance during dusk than text signs during daylight.

Another factor in readability is the design of the symbolic sign. While the first reaction in improving signs for older drivers is to make them bigger, the researchers found it is better to increase the space between parts of the symbols, and change the sizes of some of the components.

Playtime

Mountain Christian Academy Preschool recently received new playground equipment. Jordan Youmans, Daniel Martin and Austin Francis couldn't resist the urge to try out the new equipment.

Social Security possible for those employed

I received a call recently from a Big Sandy area resident who was just turning 65 and had a question about Medicare. After answering his question, I asked him if he was planning to file for Social Security benefits. He told me that he had not planned on filing since he was working full time and did not think he would be entitled to any Social Security.

We did some quick figuring and let him know that, even though he was working full time, he was about to lose a sizable amount of money from Social Security by not filing an application this year. How much? Over $5,000!

How can this be? Well, the main reason is that in 1990 there was a significant change in the way earnings affect Social Security benefits for people 65 and older. Because of this change, a number of people who otherwise would not have been eligible for benefits can now receive some money from Social Security. If you are between the age of 65 and 69, you can earn up to $9,720 in 1991 and get all your Social Security benefits. For ever $3 you earn over the $9,720 limit, $1 is withheld from your benefits. Before the change in the law, the withholding rate was $1 for each $2 of earnings over the limit.

This means there's a good chance you might be due some money from Social Security if you work this year even if your earnings were too high before the change in the law. (For beneficiaries under age 65 the withholding rate is still $1 for each $2 of earnings over the limits. If you're 70 or older, the earnings limits do not apply.) Whether or not you can get benefits depends on your estimated earnings for 1991 and your Social Security benefit amount. But even people who will earn in the neighborhood of $40,000 this year might be eligible to receive some money from Social Security if their monthly benefit is high enough. Of course, we'll be happy to help you figure out if you're due any Social Security. Call our office for an estimate and an appointment. The entire process can be handled over the phone.

The Big Sandy Area Social Security office is located on US 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

If you prefer to handle your Social Security matters by telephone, you can call 886-8525, Monday through Friday.

A Look At Sports

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

VACATION WAS GREAT.....

But it is good to be back behind the desk and covering sports. I enjoyed the rest (and I got plenty of it) and now I am ready for the All-Star tournaments that will get underway Monday at Paintsville. Five Little League All-Star teams from Floyd County will be taking part in the tournament which always one of the best tournaments around. Two teams from the Beaver Creek Little League along with Prestonsburg, Wheelwright, Harold-Allen-Prater will join Paintsville, Magoffin County, Martin County and Morgan County for the tournament.

The tournament will run through July 18.

NEW COACH AT WHEELWRIGHT?

We are all still awaiting the word as to who will be the new coach. Talking to Homer Johnson from Wheelwright, the choice up there by the people is Jim Rose. "Everyone that I have talked to wants Jim Rose," said Johnson. "I believe he will make us a good one. I certainly hope that is who it is."

Rose, as everyone knows, had a battle with the Knott County Central folks and was suspended just before the district tournament last year and the team was handled by David Stamper and the team went to the state tournament this past season. However, Rose was cleared of the charges by a court-appointed panel that ruled Rose was the victim of a vendetta by a few disgruntled parents.

Rose received back pay (which couldn't amount to much because he remained a teacher in the system) for the dismissal and he may be able to reclaim his coaching position. If Rose chooses to do that, then who will be the next choice for the Wheelwright job?

I personally don't know why Rose would choose to return to Knott County Central after all the controversy. A court-appointed panel can get you some back pay and even your old job back, but the same panel cannot force the parents of the players to cooperate with the coach should he choose to return.

I have tried on several occasions to contact coach Rose at his home and haven't been able to converse with him concerning the situation. I did, however, get to talk briefly with his wife and, according to her, Rose is interested in the job. "I really don't know too much about it," she said, "because he is going to school at Morehead this summer and I haven't talked too much with him about it."

Rumor, and that is all that it is, has Rose coming to Wheelwright as the new head coach. Rose seems to be the choice to replace Monroe Jones at the Left Beaver school. Jones has accepted a coaching position at Powell County High School.

Another interested party in the job is Jackie Pack, who coached at St. Catherine's College last season. Pack resigned his position there and wants to return to his native land.

"I have been gone from here a long time," Pack told me at a recent baseball game. "I just want to come home."

Pack says that he has applied for the job at Wheelwright but is like others in a wait and see position.

What do I think? Either Rose or Pack would be a good choice. Rose has proven he can win on the regional and state level. Pack has to be given the chance in the high school ranks.

Rumors or not, I see Rose taking the position at Wheelwright. I also see Wheelwright being a contender with the talent that returns. I know the school board has procedures they must follow in hiring personnel, but I think in a situation like this an exception should be made. The hiring should have been accomplished already so the incoming coach could make preparations to take his team to "team camps" and take care of other details that need his attention.

I believe our school board wants the best coach for the job and I am sure they will weigh all the facts before reaching a decision.

Until Friday, Good Sports everyone and be good sports, it wears well.

Wells, Robinson And Howard State Jr. Olympic Champs

The weather may have been extremely hot at Boyd County High School this past weekend, but the hot temperatures did not affect the likes of Levi Wells, Shawn Robinson and Todd Howard. All three emerged as State Junior Olympic Champions in their age groups.

"It was extremely hot at Boyd County," said coach Forrest Hughes, who is working with the threesome readying them for high school competition next year. "But despite the weather they did very well."

The Gold Medal winners are now eligible to travel to Cleveland, Ohio, for the National Olympics.

Wells established two new state records in the shotput and discus for the 11 to 12 age group. Wells recorded a throw of 41 feet and five and half inches in shotput, a state record. In the discus, Wells landed at 99 feet and one-half inch, also a new state record. Wells will be an eighth grader at Maytown Elementary next year and was a member of the Allen Central track and field team this past year.

Robinson won Gold Medals in the shotput, javelin and discus for the 13 to 14 age group. He also set new state records for that age group in all three divisions. In shot put, Robinson had a throw of 37-feet and one-half inch. He posted a toss of 102 feet and one inch in the discus and in javelin he recorded a throw of 49 feet and 11 inches. Javelin is not a track and field sport in high school because of the danger of it.

Perhaps the biggest accomplishment was by fifth grader Todd Howard, also a member of the Allen Central track and field team. After attending Rick Pitino's basketball camp, where he was voted Most Outstanding Player, Howard motored to Ashland to compete in the grueling 3000 meter, 1500 meter and 880 meter runs. All Howard did was place first in the 3000; first in the 1500 and second in the 880.

Martin Reds Beaver Creek LL Champions With 17-8 Win

In a strong finish, the Martin Reds scored nine runs in the fifth inning to come from behind and go on to post a 17-8 win over the Drift Giants and claim the Beaver Creek Little League tournament title. The Reds were the regular season champion of the North Division losing but one time to the Garrett Pirates. The Reds finished the season with a sparkling 16-1 record. The tournament was played at the Martin Park and concluded this past Sunday afternoon.

Jason Shannon was the winning pitcher for Martin in going the distance. Shannon fanned eight batters while walking 10. Shannon also had three runs batted in for the Reds including a big fifth inning two-run single. He held the Giants to only two hits — a first-inning double by Chris Moore and Earl Cooks' third-inning single.

Martin sent 14 batters to the plate in the bottom of the fifth scoring nine times to snap a 8-8 tie. Ethan Martin got the Reds' fifth underway with a lead off walk. Jason Tackett, who had a great tournament, doubled. With one out, Martin and Tackett scored on Sam Howell's double. Shannon Slone reached on an error and Sam Bentley singled behind him to load the bases. Kevin Robinson walked to force home a run and Phillip Robinson was safe on a fielder's choice play. Shannon then singled home a run leaving the bases still loaded. The big blow came when Jeff Sexton cleared the bases with a two-base hit. The Reds missed winning by the mercy rule when they left the bases loaded in the inning.

The Giants put two runners on in the top of the sixth as Shannon experienced some control problems. However, he recovered to fan Hopkins and Jason Woods to end the game.

It was a see-saw affair in the early going with each team going on top by a run until the Giants struck for four in their half of the fourth inning without the benefit of a base hit. Chris Branham reached on an error in centerfield. With one out, Nick Rackey walked and Steve Hamilton reached on a fielder's choice. Hopkins was safe when shortstop Shannon Slone mishandled a grounder allowing Rackey to score. Moore walked to load the bases for the Giants and Woods' fly ball to centerfield was misjudged and three runs crossed the plate for a 8-4 Giants' lead.

Martin tied the game at 8-8 with four runs in the bottom of the fourth with all the scoring coming with two outs. Hopkins got Tackett on strikes and walked B.J. Caudill. Caudill complained of a sore foot and Todd Howard came on to pinch run. Howell bounced a grounder to short to force Howard at second base. Howell scored on an error in centerfield and Slone crossed the plate when Sam Bentley was safe on an error at third base. Kevin Robinson hit a hot shot to third that went off the glove of Jeremy Huff scoring Bentley. Phillip Robinson was issued an intentional pass and Shannon made the strategy back fire when he roped a base hit to centerfield scoring both Robinsons to tie the game.

Martin took a 2-0 lead with two

Burton, Sims Leads Kentucky Junior All-Stars To Win Over 15th

High school basketball returned to the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse during the hot June days so the fans could have a glimpse of the Kentucky Junior All-Stars that will be heading for Los Angeles and Las Vegas for tournament play. Prestonsburg's Chris Burke is a member of the Junior All-Stars.

Much heralded Darnell Burton of Lexington Dunbar tossed in 24 points and Alvin Sims of Paris High School added 23 to lead the Kentucky Junior All-Stars to a 97-73 win over a team made up of 15th Region players.

The 15th Region All-Stars made a show of it in the first half and trailed by only two points at half time, 45-43. Tyler Bailiff of Elkhorn City scored 17 points to lead the 15th Region.

In the third period, trailing by six, 53-47, the 15th Region team scored seven unanswered points to take a 54-53 lead. Rodney Fuller (Feds Creek) hit a three pointer and Mitch Harris (Shelby Valley) connected on a short jumper followed by another basket by Fuller. Chris Burke scored underneath for the Junior All-Stars to reclaim the lead at 55-54. Four consecutive free throws by Keith Blackburn (Eminence) and two by Jerry Fogle (Harrison County) made it a 61-54 game.

Fuller scored on a three-point play to cut the lead back to four, 61-57. However, the Junior All-Stars ran off eight unanswered points to take a 69-57 lead just before Danny Justice hit a jumper before the horn.

The Kentucky Junior All-Stars open the fourth quarter by scoring the first 11 points in extending their lead to 80-59 as the 15th Region squad went cold from the floor. Bailiff broke the drought with two free throws and Chad Bowling hit a three-pointer.

After Sims' basket made it a 82-64 game, the 15th All-Stars scored the next six points on baskets by Bowling, Bailiff and Rod Spradlin to cut the margin to 12.

The Junior All-Stars then took control and the 15th could only score three points the rest of the way on Chris Smith's three-pointer.

The 15th All-Stars stayed close throughout the first half and took a 10-4 lead early on three-point baskets by Bailiff and Harris. After a Sims dunk, Bowling hit two free throws and Bailiff slipped underneath for a basket to give the six point lead.

Kentucky ran off the next six points to tie the game at 10-10. Bailiff put the 15th squad on top 12-10 and a jumper by Burton tied the game at 12-12. Back-to-back baskets by Harris and Fuller gave the 15th a four point lead 16-12. Ryan Strong hit a trey to cut the margin to one, 16-15 before the 15th scored the next six points for a 22-15 margin and lead at the end of the first quarter 24-17.

Burton and Sims got more involved in the offense for Randy McCoy's All-Star team as they went on a 10-1 run opening the second period to take a 27-25 lead. Burton hit a lay up with Sims following with a dunk. Two free throws by Fogle and Burton followed by Matt Simon's basket completed the run. McDowell's Stacy Hall drove the lane for a basket that tied the game at 27-27.

The 15th lead 32-31 late in the quarter on a three-pointer by Fuller and a basket from Bailiff. Blackburn's lay up gave the lead back to Kentucky and two Fogle free throws and a basket from Burton made it a 39-34 game. Kentucky lead by seven 45-38 before a Bailiff trey and Harris short jumper cut it to two, 45-43 at the half.

Jerry Fogle finished with 11 points for the Junior All-Stars. Larry Gritton had nine points.

Rodney Fuller scored 14 points in the game and Chad Bowling added 13. McDowell's Stacy Hall finished with four and Worth McGuire of Prestonsburg failed to score.

Wheelwright Falls To Garrett 18-8 In Babe Ruth Tournament

Garrett scored nine runs in the bottom of the fifth inning and mercied the Wheelwright Babe Ruth team 18-8 in the Floyd County Babe Ruth tournament at the Allen Park last Saturday.

Greg Nelson led off with a base hit to open the fifth inning for Garrett. Neil Hicks followed with a single and Jeremy Hall walked to load the bases against Mike Tackett. Roy John Martin walked to force in Nelson from third base. Nelson and Hicks both singled in their second at bat in the same inning. Hicks' second hit drove in the run that gave Garrett a 10 run lead and the game was called.

Garrett had taken a 4-0 lead with four runs in the bottom of the fourth. Wheelwright came back with three to make it a one run game, 4-3. Garrett scored two in the third and two more in the third for a 8-3 game. Wheelwright tied the game at 8-8 with five runs in the fifth inning that saw Brian Johnson club a three-run home run. Cruise Caudill doubled and Kevin Johnson walked before Johnson's blast.

Garrett made it 9-8 with a single run in the bottom of the fourth when Martin scored on a bases loaded walk. Wheelwright went out quietly in the fifth and Garrett blew the game open with their nine-run fifth.

Jeremy Hall picked up the win in relief of starter Greg Nelson. Hall fanned four batters and walked two. Mike Tackett took the loss for Wheelwright. Tackett came on in relief of Brian Johnson who started for Wheelwright. Kevin Johnson relieved Tackett in the fifth with no one out and the bases loaded.

Caudill drove in two runs for Wheelwright with his fourth inning double. Hicks had three hits for Garrett in three plate appearances. Nelson and Barry Combs each collected two hits for Garrett.

After the game, Floyd County Babe Ruth President Harold Case presented Greg Nelson with a plaque naming him as the winner of the league's "Sportsmanship" award. The award was for the player who displayed the best sportsmanship and for his contributions to the Babe Ruth league.

"Greg is very deserving of the award," said Case in presenting the trophy. "It is a trophy that he can be proud of."

runs in the first inning on Kevin Robinson's two-run double. Drift made it 4-2 with four in their half of the second inning. Again the Giants scored all four runs without the benefit of a base hit. Shannon issued five walks in the inning and the Reds committed a costly error in center-field.

Martin scored once in the second and a single run in the third to tie the game at 4-4. Tackett got one of his three hits in the second and scored on a base hit by Shannon Slone. In the third, Kevin Robinson tripled leading off the inning and stole home.

Hopkins suffered the loss for Drift. Hopkins recorded nine strike outs and walked six. He was relieved by Huff in the fifth who later gave way to Steve Hamilton in the same inning.

Martin stranded 10 base runners while the Giants left five runners on base.

in the 880," said Coach Hughes. "If he had another five or 10 yards to go, he would have won that."

Howard ran the three races in the blazing heat and may have tired in the final race. "He did an exceptional job of running the three races," added Hughes, "considering they were close together."

Howard had a recorded time of 13:53 in the 3000 meters. He was clocked at six minutes and five seconds in the 1500, and he posted a 2:56 in the 880. All total, the running team had seven first place finishes and one second place.

"We have been working out a couple days a week at the Pikeville track," explained Hughes. "Shawn and Levi have been working on their technique in discus. Todd is just trying to work on endurance."

Hughes says that by the time Wells is a senior in high school he could be awesome in the discus and has the potential to be a top discus thrower. Brian Wallen, who excelled at Allen Central this year in discus and finished second in the state, has also been working out with Wells.

Hughes says that, considering the distance to Cleveland and the short time involved, he doubts if the trio will make the trip to the Nationals. However, Hughes said that the three would be taking part in the upcoming Blue Grass State Games in Lexington later this month.

Hughes is still advocating the need for a track and field facility in Floyd County for the younger athletes to work out on.

Roberts Places Sixth In 1st Annual Twi-Lite Classic 5K

Van Lear's Rick Roberts finished sixth overall in the first running of the Twi-Lite Classic 5K run in Ironton, Ohio. Roberts finished with a time of 17:30 and placed first in his age group of 35-39.

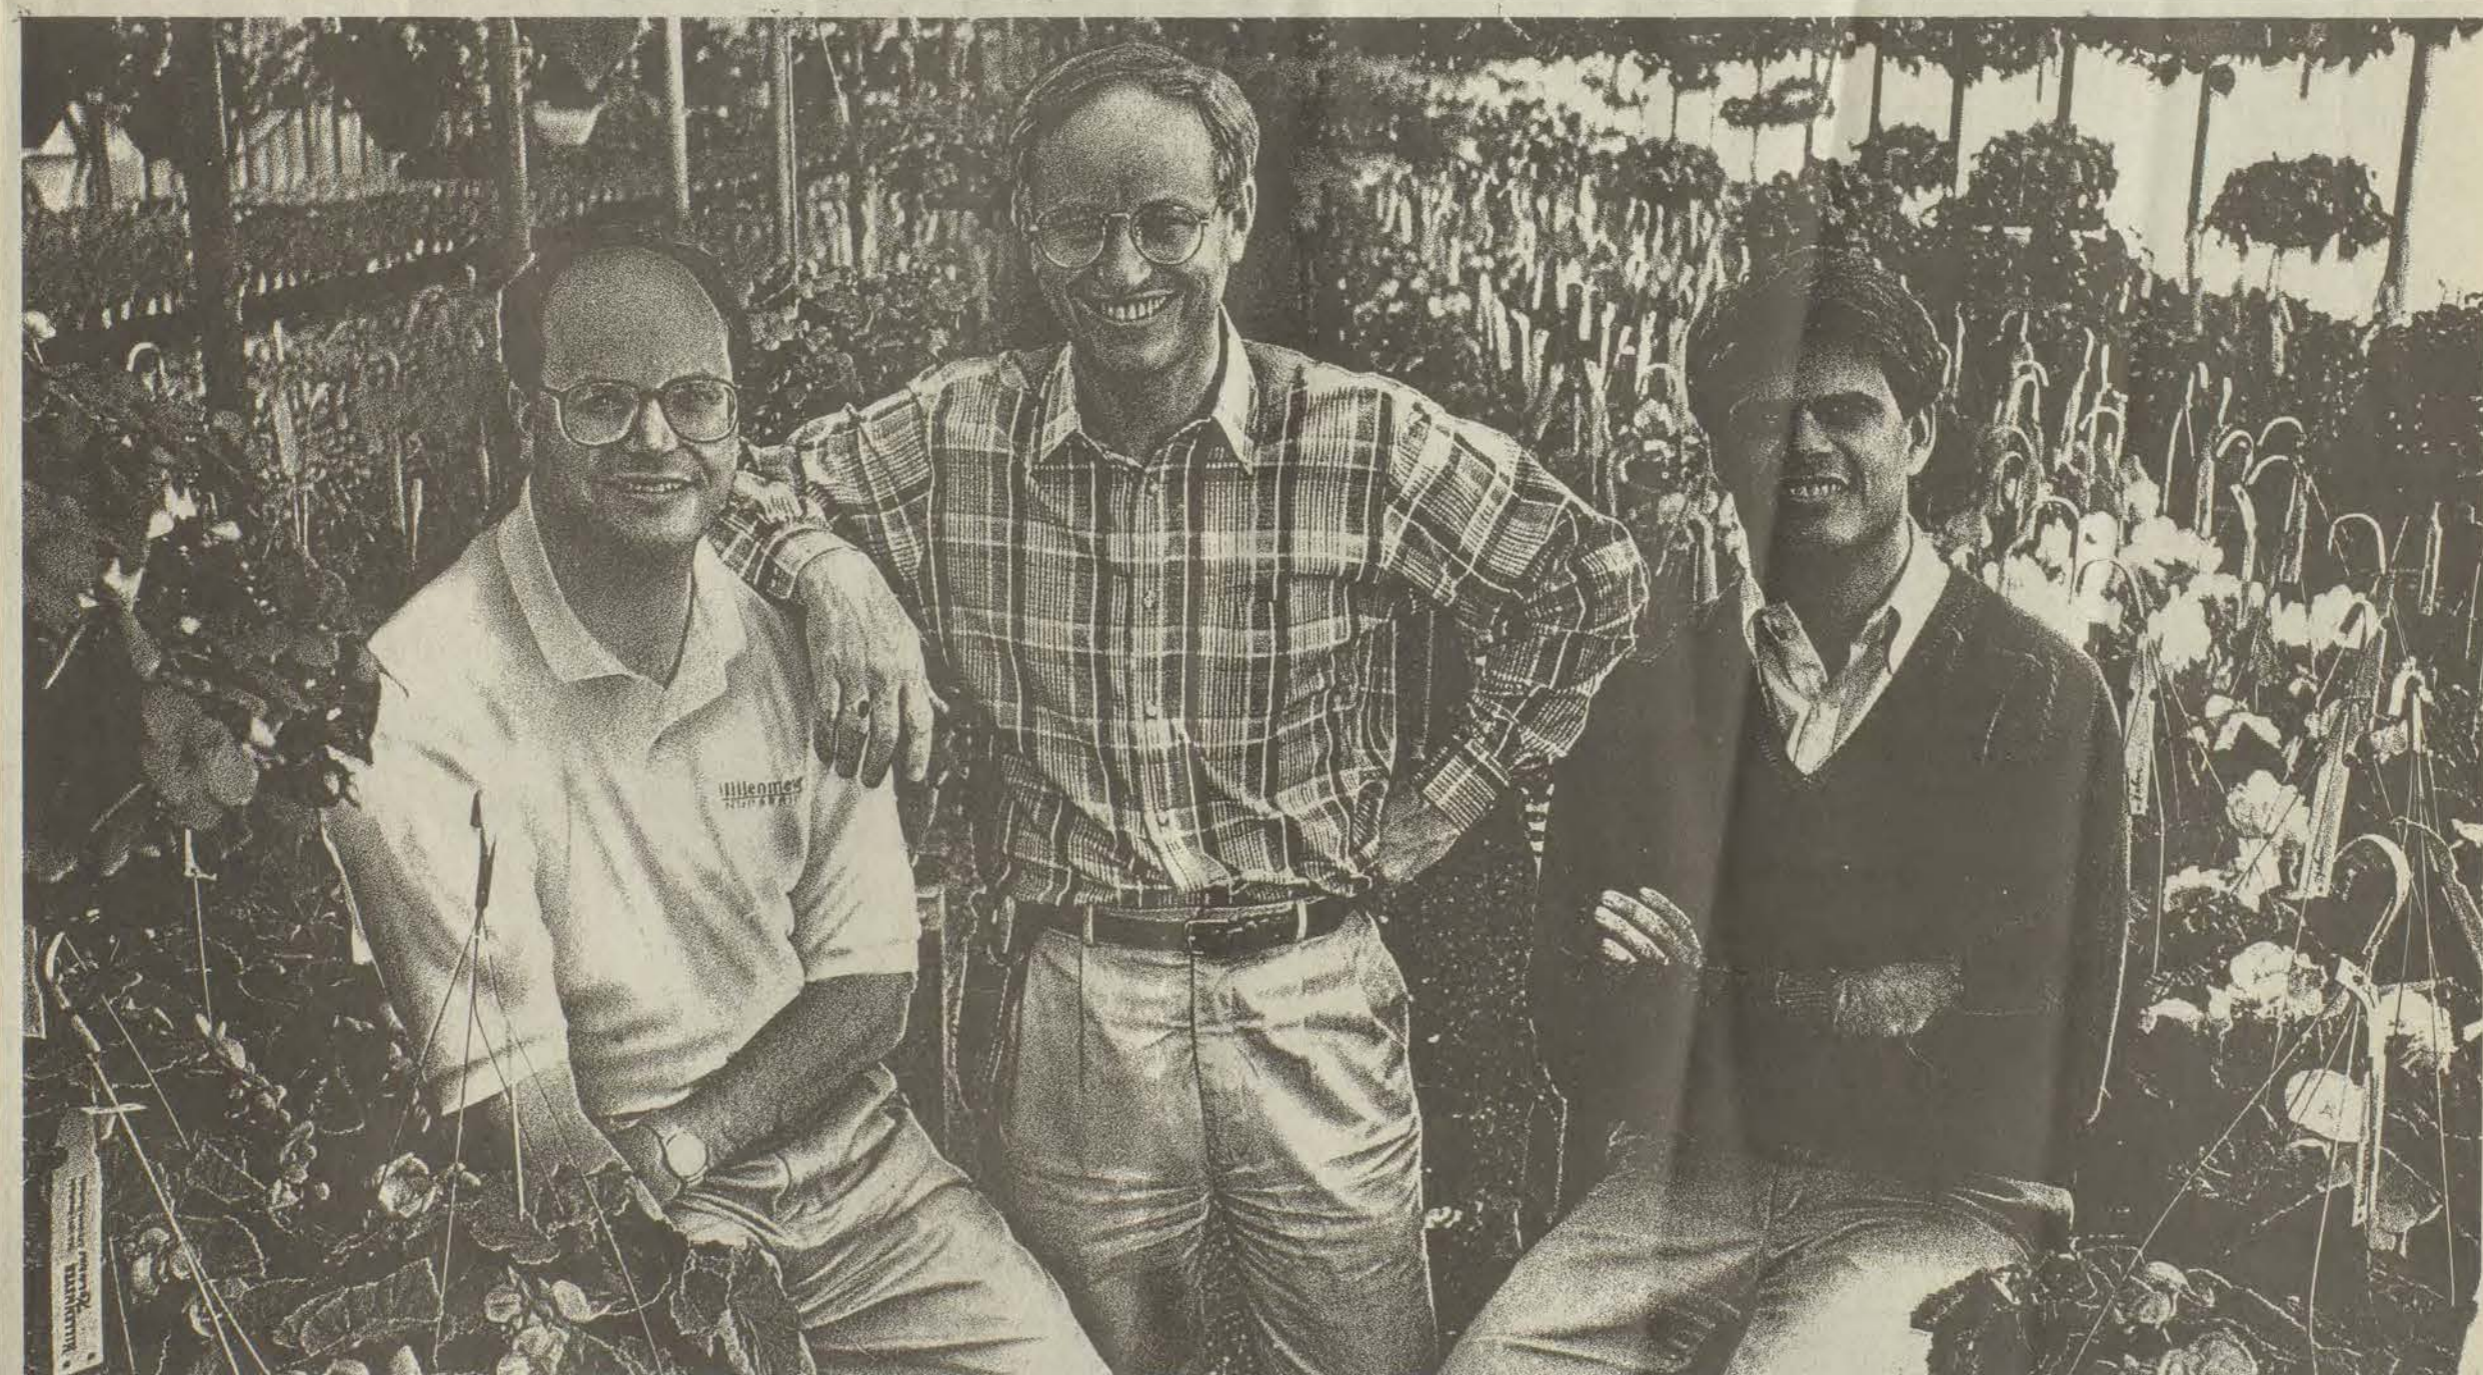

"It was my fourth race in seven days," said Roberts. Roberts will be taking part in the Regatta 10K Run in Ashland and on the same day, will move on to Paintsville for the running of the Midnight Mile Race. Forty-eight hours later Roberts plans to be in Jackson for the Riverside Salute The Flag 5K run, a race that he won two years ago and placed second in last year.

Chris Parsons of Barboursville, West Virginia, pulled out a close one against Cattlettsburg's Joe Barker to win the First Annual Twi-Lite Classic. Parsons recorded a time of 16:30 to edge out Barker who posted a time of 16:35. Temperature at the 6 p.m. start was 92 degrees with the humidity in the 90's. The heat coupled with the hills made the course a challenge.

Drift Giants Drop Game To Martin

The Martin Reds continued to be impressive in the Beaver Creek Little League tournament at Martin last week as they faced a very good Drift Giants team and went on to post a 10-7 win and stay alive in the winners bracket of the double elimination tournament.

With the score knotted at 4-4, the Reds scored five runs in the bottom of the fourth inning to build a 9-4 lead and held off a late Drift charge.

After B.J. Caudill lead off with a walk off of Giants' starter Justin Hopkins, Ethan Martin singled and Jason Tackett followed with a run-producing double. Tackett, who struggled all season at the plate, has made a lot of noise in the tournament for the Reds with his bat. Tackett later scored on a ground out by Matt Hughes. Jason Shannon had an RBI single in the inning.

Drift scored two runs in their half of the fifth inning to make it a 9-6 game. With one out, Brandon Howell lined a single to left and Jeremy Huff followed with a solid hit. Chris Branham grounded to second forcing Huff out at second, but Howell scored from third on the out with Branham picking up the RBI. Branham later scored on Nick Rackey's base hit.

Drift scored their final run in the sixth inning on Chris Moore's one-out homerun over the right center-field fence. Moore had just missed a first-inning homerun as the ball was a foot shy of going over the fence. Moore ended up with a double, his first of two in the game.

Drift jumped out in front 2-0 with a two run first. Steve Hamilton walked and scored on Moore's one-out double. Moore later scored on Eric Cooks fielder's choice play.

The Reds tied the game with two runs in their half of the inning. Base hits by Shannon Slone and Sam Bentley started the rally for the Reds. Slone was ruled when he was struck by a ground ball off of the bat of Bentley. Kevin Robinson collected the third hit of the inning off of Hopkins and Phillip Robinson was plunked with the ball to load the bases with Reds.

Hopkins lost Jason Shannon on a 3-2 pitch and forced Bentley home with their first run. Robinson scored on Jeff Sexton's ground ball to second base.

Martin took a 3-2 lead with a run in the bottom of the second inning. Again a ground ball took a player off the base paths. Ethan Martin singled and the base umpire ruled that Jason Tackett's ground ball struck Martin on the foot and Martin was called out with a vocal protest by Reds' manager Lonnie Robinson. Shannon Slone singled and Sam Bentley followed with an RBI single.

Drift went on top 4-3 with a pair of runs in the third. Chris Moore collected his second double of the game in the inning and scored on Jason Woods' single. Woods came around to score and give the Giants the lead on a single by Brandon Howell.

Martin tied the game at 4-4 on Kevin Robinson's second hit of the game and an RBI single by Phillip Robinson.

The Reds scored their final run in the fifth on Jason Tackett's second double and third hit of the game. Tackett was a perfect three-for-three at the plate with two runs batted in. Shannon Slone had three hits in four plate appearances.

Moore collected three hits in the game scoring three times. Howell had two base hits for Drift.

Jason Shannon picked up the win for Martin going the distance. He allowed seven runs on eight hits and walked nine while striking out six.

Hopkins was the loser with two strike outs. Hopkins walked six batters. He allowed 10 runs on 13 hits.

Martin stranded eight runners on base and Drift left 10 runners on base.

Drift Wins Slugfest Over Martin Braves 14-13

The Drift Giants Little League team advanced to the finals of the Beaver Creek Little League tournament with a 14-13 win over South Division champion Martin Braves. The victory earned the Giants the right to face North champion Martin

Reds in Sunday's title game of the double elimination tournament. The Giants scored six times in the bottom of the fifth inning to take the 14-13 lead and then held the Braves scoreless in the top of the sixth. Chris Branham reached on an error to open the inning. Nick Rackey and Chad Tuttle drew back to back walks to load the bases. Steve Hamilton got an RBI when he walked, forcing in Branham with a run. Brandon Howell grounded hard to shortstop Thomas Jenkins who threw home to force Rackey. Chris Moore then did the damage with a double that scored three runs. Jason Woods was hit by a pitch to put runners on first and second base. The tying and eventual winning run came home on Eric Cook's base hit.

Drift went on top 3-0 with a three run first and pushed across four more in the bottom of the third for a 7-0 lead.

The Braves came back and tied the game at 7-7 with seven runs in the top of the fourth frame. Gordon Maynard's bases loaded single scored two runs and Moore then walked five straight batters and hit one to force in the tying run.

Drift regained the lead at 8-7 with a single run in their half of the fourth. Moore singled to lead off the inning and scored on a wild pitch.

Martin took their first lead at 13-8 with six runs in the top of the fifth inning only to see Martin come back. In the Braves fifth, Gordon Maynard doubled. Jacob Skeens followed with a base on balls. Moore then fanned David Twiss and Jesse Hall before a walk to Desmond Spencer loaded the bases. Two runs scored on back to back walks to Phillip Holbrook and Travis Johnson. Tackett then stepped to the plate and hammered his grand slam home run to give the Braves a 13-8 lead.

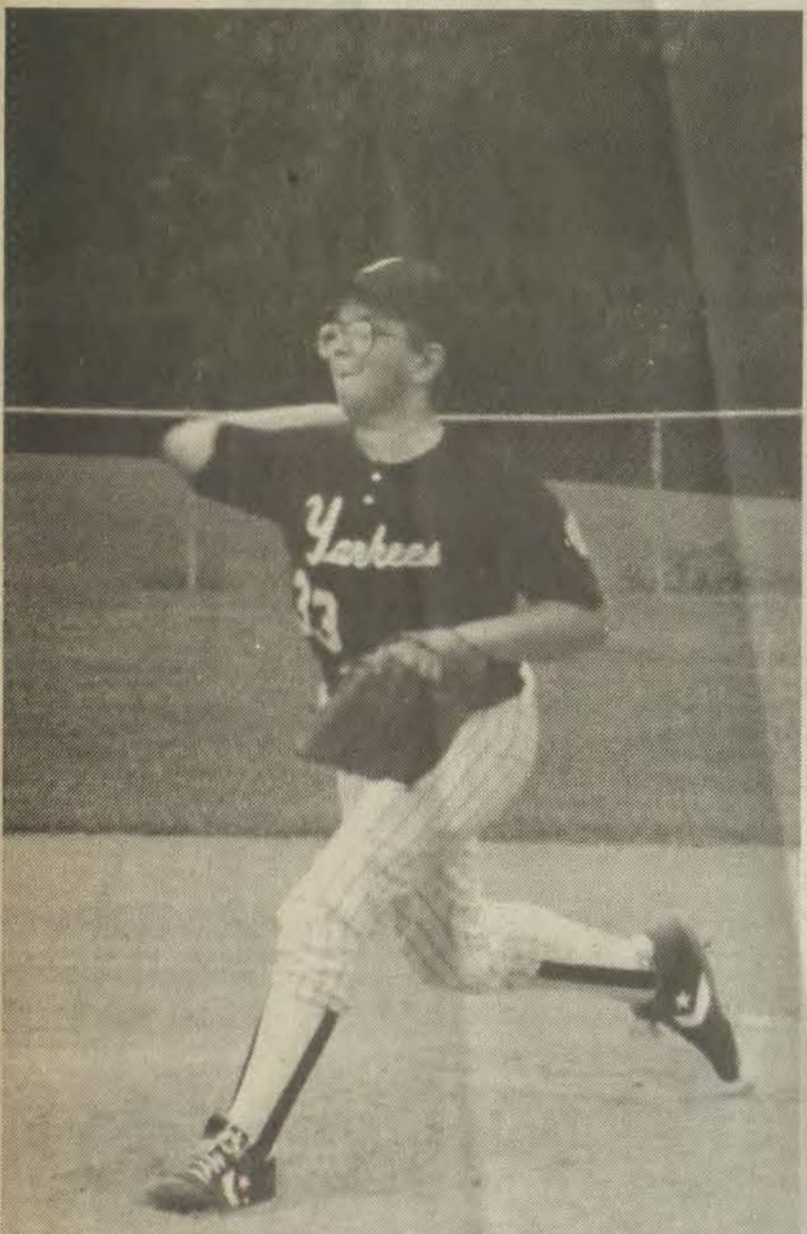

Chris Moore picked up the win in the wild slugfest. Moore had eight strike outs. Travis Johnson suffered the loss in relief of Braves starter Beau Tackett. Tackett worked three innings, striking out four and walking four.

Moore hammered a first inning home run with two runners on base to account for the Giants three runs in the first which gave Drift a 3-0 lead. Moore had three hits in three plate appearances and collected four runs batted in. Tackett drilled a home run for the Braves in their six-run fifth.

Tackett collected half of the Braves hits with his home run and single. Tackett had five RBIs in the game.

Chris Branham had a fifth inning triple for Drift. Brandon Howell doubled in the third and Justin Hopkins had a first inning double. Gordon Maynard had one of the Braves four hits — a fifth inning double.

Martin Reds Hold Off Braves 7-4

It was a dream game. Set to be a good one between the two divisional champions of the Beaver Creek Little League. The Martin Braves, South champs versus the Martin Reds, North champions. Results: Reds 7, Braves 4.

The Reds scored three runs in the first inning and three in the fourth and then had to hold off a late fifth inning challenge from the Braves to advance into the championship game.

The Reds held a 4-1 lead going into the bottom of the fourth inning. When the dust had all settled the lead was extended to 7-4. Jason Tackett led off the Reds frame with a double and Misty Scott was hit by a pitch. Shannon Slone worked Braves starter Thomas Jenkins for a walk to load the bases. Jenkins got Sam Bentley on strikes and Kevin Robinson lifted a sacrifice fly to second. That's right-to-second! Some daring base running on the part of Tackett help him to score on the pop out at second base. Phillip Robinson then scored two more runs with a base hit.

The Braves came back in the fifth with three runs. Back-to-back walks to Phillip Holbrook and Travis Johnson put runners on first and second. Beau Tackett hit a bouncer to third and on the throw by Jason Shannon to second, the ball was past the second baseman as Holbrook and Johnson rounded the bases. Tackett scored on a wild pitch.

David Twiss led off the Braves' sixth with a double but was left stranded as Kevin Robinson retired the next three batters to end the game.

In the Reds' first, a lead off walk to Shannon Slone, an infield base hit by Sam Bentley and Robinson's walk load the bases for the Reds. Phillip Robinson hit a hard shot to short that got a throw for an error and both Slone and Bentley scored. Robinson scored on a wild pitch by Jenkins.

Jenkins fanned the last two batters in the first inning and the first two leading off the second.

The Reds scored a single run in the third on a walk to Kevin Robinson and Phillip Robinson's base hit. Jeff Sexton also had a hit in the inning.

Jenkins drove in a run for the Braves in the third when he singled with two outs scoring Tackett.

Robinson picked up the win for the Reds going the distance. Robinson, who did not seem to be as sharp as usual, fanned 13 batters and walked an uncharacteristic nine batters. He allowed only four hits to the Braves.

Jenkins suffered his first loss of the season for the Martin Braves. Jenkins had six strike outs and hit one batter. He allowed six hits in going the distance also.

The Braves left eight runners stranded on base. The Reds stranded seven. The Braves played errorless baseball and the Reds committed one error.

Phillip Robinson was the only player with two hits.

Martin Braves Walk Past Blue Jays 22-7 In Beaver Creek Tournament

The Martin Braves scored 13 times in the first inning and never looked back as they went on to post an easy 22-7 win over the Martin Blue Jays in the Beaver Creek Little League Tournament at Martin. The loss eliminated the Blue Jays from further competition, ending their season.

The 13 run first for the Braves erased a 6-0 lead that the Blue Jays had built in the first inning. Melissa Mullins was on the mound for the Blue Jays and retired only one batter before being lifted for P.J. Holbrook.

Mullins allowed 12 of the 13 runs. Phillip Holbrook walked, Travis Johnson singled and Beau Tackett singled to load the bases. Thomas Jenkins drew a bases loaded walk to force home Holbrook. Chris Cornette singled home Johnson and Tackett. Gordon Maynard and Brian Akers walked to reload the bases for Jacob Skeens who blasted a bases clearing double. David Twiss and Brian Jones kept the Braves rally alive with back to back singles. A walk to Holbrook forced home Skeens. Travis Johnson was safe on a fielder's choice, scoring Twiss. Base hits by Tackett and Cornette set up Gordon Maynard's three-run double. Maynard had three doubles in the game.

In taking a 6-0 lead in the first, the Blue Jays did not have a hit in the inning as Braves starter Cornette walked nine batters. Although Cornette experienced some wildness, he did not allow a base hit in the game and went the distance for the Braves. He picked up six strike outs and walked only three batters after the first. He had a total of 12 walks in the game.

Mullins was the losing pitcher for the Blue Jays. Holbrook was on in relief in the first, fanning only one batter. Holbrook walked seven batters in his two and two-thirds of work.

Maynard was three-for-three in the game with all three hits being doubles. Cornette was a perfect four-for-four with four RBIs. Tackett collected five runs batted in with three hits in three attempts at the plate. Jenkins had a double for the winning Braves in the third inning.

For Cornette in pitching the no-hitter, it was his first win of the season. Desmond Spencer had a base hit in the bottom of the third inning.

Woods Powers Giants Past Garrett 12-2

Jason Woods tripled, doubled and drove in four runs to help lead the Drift Giants to a 12-2 win over the Garrett Cubs in the quarterfinals of the Beaver Creek Little League tournament at Martin.

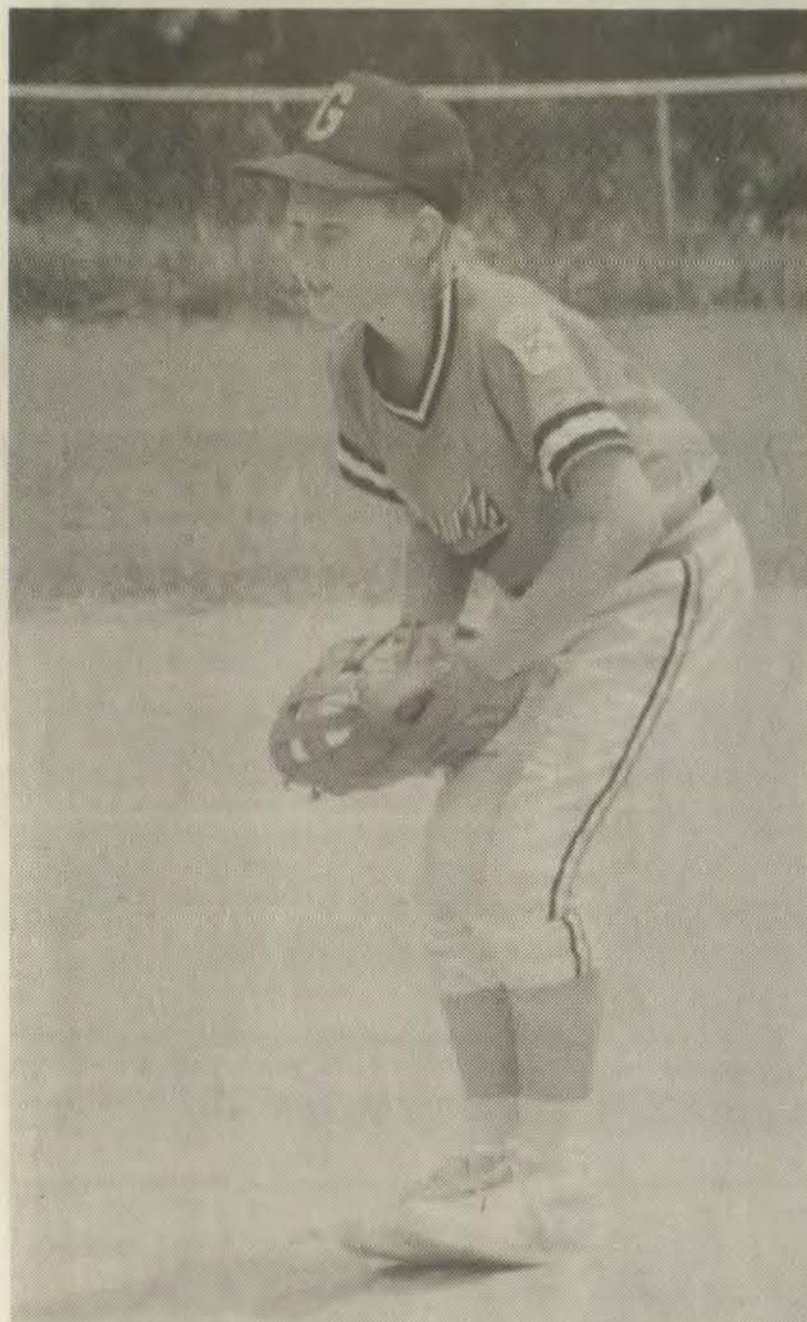

Woods doubled in the third inning, driving in two runs, and picked up two more RBIs with a fourth inning triple.

The Giants put the game in the win column by scoring four times in the third and fourth innings. They had taken a 2-0 lead in the first and made it 4-0 in the second before the Cubs pushed across a single run in the bottom of the second. The Cubs scored their final run in the bottom of the third.

Chris Moore received credit for the win, going all the way for the Giants. Moore yielded but two hits and struck out 10 while walking nine. Moore had a first inning triple and he doubled in the third.

Jeremy Huff had three hits for the Giants that included a second inning triple and a fourth inning double. Justin Hopkins had a two-for-two outing with one RBI. He doubled in the fourth inning.

Brandon Hicks was the losing pitcher with seven strike outs and four walks.

Garrett Pirates Mercy Martin Cards 12-2

Gary Hunter was not only outstanding at the plate but on the mound as well as he hurled and batted the Garrett Pirates to a 12-2 "mercy rule" win over the Martin Cardinals in the semifinals of the Beaver Creek Little League at Martin Friday.

Hunter went the distance for the Pirates allowing just three Cardinal hits. Hunter collected two hits and drove in two runs in the Pirate win. He fanned six batters in the game and walked but three.

Kaleb Yates had two of the three hits off of Hunter with a second inning single and a double in the fourth.

Martin scored their lone two runs in the fourth inning when Yates doubled and scored on Timmy "Toady" Yates' base hit. Yates also scored on Gary Scarberry's base hit. Garrett batted around in the first inning as six runners dented home plate to give the Pirates a 6-0 lead. Walks to Mike Pack and a one-out walk to Kyle Turner set up two runs as Tim Bellamy laced a double to left center scoring Pack. Hunter walked to load the bases and Brady Scott was hit by a pitch forcing home Turner. Alan Hicks doubled home two runs as Hunter and Scott scored. Hicks eventually scored on a pass ball.

The Pirates pushed across two more runs in the third inning on five consecutive hits. Hunter singled and advanced to second on an error on the pitcher. Scott singled home Hunter and later scored on Hicks' second double of the game. Donnie Owens and Ryan Owens followed with base hits. Ryan Owens had a double in the inning as six runners dented home plate to give the Pirates a 6-0 lead. Walks to Mike Pack and a one-out walk to Kyle Turner set up two runs as Tim Bellamy laced a double to left center scoring Pack. Hunter walked to load the bases and Brady Scott was hit by a pitch forcing home Turner. Alan Hicks doubled home two runs as Hunter and Scott scored. Hicks eventually scored on a pass ball.

Four runs came home in the Pirates' fourth on a two run triple by Hunter and Hicks' third hit of the game — a single.

Martin left five runners stranded as did Garrett. Garrett committed one error and Martin had two.

Gary Scarberry took the loss for Martin. Scarberry was late arriving for the game and did not have time to properly warm up. Nick Samons, who was warming up on the mound when Scarberry arrived, came on in the top of the first inning and in relief of Scarberry. Samons allowed six runs on seven hits. He fanned but one and walked two. Scarberry failed to strike anyone out but issued five walks and he hit one batter.

Tackett Two-Hits Pirates In 4-0 Martin Braves Win

The Martin Braves and Garrett Pirates met in the semifinals of the Beaver Creek Little League tournament at Martin this weekend and it was the game it was billed to be. The Braves and Pirates battled all season long for the top spot in the Beaver Creek South standings with the Braves finally pulling it out in the final week. This time it was not any different, as Martin got a strong pitching performance from Beau Tackett in recording a 4-0 shut out of the Pirates. Tackett allowed the Pirates but two hits and shut the door on several scoring threats. Tackett fanned nine batters while issuing six walks and hitting one batter.

Pirate ace Tim Bellemey suffered the loss. Bellemey struck out 11 batters and walked six.

Tackett had to pitch out of trouble in the second and fifth innings. The Pirates had runners at second and third in the second and Tackett struck out the side. In the fifth, Garrett left two runners stranded.

Martin took a 1-0 lead in the first on a two out triple by Tackett and Thomas Jenkins RBI double.

Bellemey struck out the side in the Braves second and got the side in order in the third despite giving up a two out single to Tackett.

Martin struck for two more runs in the fourth to take a 3-0 lead. Chris Cornette got a one-out double and Gordon Maynard walked. Cornette scored on Jesse Hall's base hit. Maynard scored when the ball was overthrown at third base by the Pirates.

The Braves pushed across their final run in the fifth inning when Phillip Holbrook led off with a base hit and scored on Jenkins one-out base hit.

Tackett and Jenkins both had two hits for the Braves. Jenkins picked up two runs batted in.

Tony Owens and Bellemey had the only two hits for Garrett.

Woods hammered two home runs for Drift. The big catcher homered in the first and again in the sixth. Woods had three hits in the game.

George P. Archer Appreciation Day To Be Fun And Games

Archer Park director Ralph Little has announced that July 20 has been set aside as a day to honor the late George P. Archer in the George P. Archer Appreciation Day at Archer Park.

"If it hadn't been for Dr. Archer, we would not have had a park here," said Little. "So, we want to honor him on this special day. I talked to his daughter about it and she is tickled to see it come about."

Little said there would be no ceremonies involved in the celebration, just opening the park up for the public to enjoy on this day.

"We will open the pool and skating rink up on this day for free swimming and skating from noon to 6 p.m.," said Little. "That means the public can swim free and skate free."

Little also announced there will be other activities in the park on this special date. The park board will be holding an archery tournament, three-on-three basketball tournament, junior tennis tournament (18 and under), horseshoe pitching tournament and a softball home run hitting contest.

"The scheduled activities will be on a limited basis," said Little, "because we just don't have the staff to have everyone enter."

Registration will be to those who sign up early. The deadline for registration for any of the tournaments will be July 10 at the office at Archer Park. Remember, a limited number of participants will be accepted so you must sign up early.

Little said that trophies will be presented to each winning individual as well as runners-up in each of the sporting events. The good news is that there will be no entry fees.

"We're hoping we can see this grow and we are wanting to make it an annual thing," stated Little.

Kentucky's number one Senior Citizen Center - Prestonsburg — will not be without their part as they will host other Senior Citizen Centers in and around Floyd County in an "Open House". Free refreshments will be served by the Prestonsburg Senior Citizen to other centers and anyone wishing to visit the center and look around may do so.

Little is excited about the upcoming day at Archer Park and a big turnout is expected. The younger kids may enjoy the playground area and other activities.

Plans for later celebrations could include some musical shows.

If you can shoot a straight arrow, hit a softball a long way, shoot some hoops, throw ringers or have a good back hand in tennis, then Archer Park is for you.

For more information contact the Archer Park office at 886-6390.

THIS SPRING, TRY RIPRAP FOR BASS

The rocky riprap that supports bridges roadways and shorelines to prevent erosion might seem like the last place to look for spring largemouths, but its one of the first places bass pro Steve Daniel looks.

"Riprap is especially good when the water is muddy," says the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff angler. "Bass move right up on the rocks into really shallow water where they're usually pretty easy to catch."

Daniel prefers to start fishing at the shallow end of a wall of riprap and gradually work his way along. His primary fishing technique is pitching jigs right ahead of the boat.

"You can work the riprap at different depths," Daniel explains, "but one of the most productive depths is often right at the base of the rocks. This is where fish spawn, but changing water conditions may move the bass further up the riprap."

Daniel believes riprap attracts bass for several reasons. First, the rocks usually hold a variety of foods bass eat, such as crayfish, salamanders and insects. Secondly, the rocks may retain heat, which makes them especially attractive if a spring cold front hits. Also, riprap is usually located near deep water the bass can use for sanctuary, if necessary.

"Riprap is actually good anytime of year, day or night," the Johnson pro notes, "but few people fish it during the spring because they're usually working brushy shorelines or wide flats."

"I always start at one corner in the most shallow water I can find, and then fish right along the rocks. Bass can be anywhere on the riprap in the spring."

In addition to a jig, Daniel may also try spinnerbaits and crankbaits. With these, he usually casts shallow and works the lures down the rocks into deeper water. If he can establish a particular depth the bass are using, he will then switch to parallel casting.

"You can catch some really big bass around riprap," he adds. "This is a prime place to hook a six or seven-pounder."

Daniel feels riprap is especially good in muddy water because the rocks help filter some of the silt and debris that gets washed in from the shoreline. At the same time, small creatures that live in the riprap above the waterline get washed out to become bass food.

"Muddy water is common in the spring," says Daniel, "and it normally slows fishing everywhere on the lake. The one place you can usually find bass ready to bite, however, is in the riprap."

THE PHONE CALL

Many people have had their moments when the mind went blank and they couldn't answer the most simple question. Such times almost always catch you off guard and leave you a bit frustrated.

George Hall of Betsy Layne had such an experience some months ago when his wife Janice was a patient at Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

Between visits to see her, he would call and talk to her just to see if she were feeling better.

He dialed the number one morning and heard the operator reply, "Methodist Hospital. May I help you?"

"Yes," he answered, "I'd like you to ring my wife's room."

"What's her room number?" she asked.

The number completely evaded him and he had to admit, "I can't remember."

"Then what's your wife's name?" she inquired again.

George hesitated for a minute, then just hung up the phone. He couldn't remember that either.

NO CHANGE

I don't get a lot of comment about this column, but most of those I hear from say they enjoy the stories about children. Since I like them too, it's easy to pass them on.

Chip Gooslin is a young man from Phelps who will be graduating from Morehead State University next spring.

His mother, Kay Gooslin, takes great pride in his achievements but she also remembers a few years back when he first enrolled in kindergarten.

Chip's teacher was having a get-acquainted session with her students where she talked with each one individually. After asking Chip's name, she inquired about his interests. "Do you have any pets?"

"Yes."

"What are they?"

"A dog and a cat."

"What's your dog's name?"

"Lassie."

"What color is your dog?"

But Chip was just starting to school and hadn't learned all his colors yet, so he said, "She's the same color she's always been."

DON'T BOTHER

Did you hear about the lady who went to a pet shop to buy her dog a dish for drinking water?

The shop clerk wasn't too busy and wanted very much to please her. "If you don't mind waiting a bit," he said, "I'll stamp your dog's name on the dish."

"Oh, no," she told him, "you don't need to bother. My husband doesn't drink water—and the dog can't read."

Kim's Korner

This is a true story about a loved family member whose name I will not mention. Hint: He's married to my mother-in-law.

by Kim Frasure

This is a man who can keep up with most 20-year-olds and relishes in doing so. But, not so long ago, this very same man didn't see things as everyone else does; And I don't mean his point of view was different, I mean he literally couldn't see.

Being a stubborn man (boy, at times can he be), he put off a much needed optometrist visit. It wasn't until the incident I'm about to tell you, that he decided an appointment to the eye doctor was a good idea.

One bright, sunny day this man decided he'd make out about a dozen checks and take care of those dreaded monthly bills. He accomplished filling in the tiny, fine lines on his checks and addressing the envelopes appropriately for each one.

All that was left was to place the stamps and take the bills to the post office. He pulled open the desk drawer and tore the 12 stamps one by one, neatly placing them in their proper place on the envelopes. Off across the street to the post office he went, sorting the bills for in-town and out-of-town, and dropping them all in the boxes accordingly.

The next day, when he returned to the post office to collect his mail, he noticed the dozen bills he'd sent the day before were in his mailbox. He took the bills up to the window and asked the postmaster why he'd placed his bills back in his box.

"Look at them," the postmaster said. The man did, but could see no problem anywhere.

"I am," said the man, "what's the problem?"

"Well," said the postmaster, "I'm sure those Quality Stamps are worth a whole lot but they sure won't send your bills very far."

Red faced, the man laughed hysterically along with the postmaster and went straight back to work and made himself the appointment with his optometrist.

Now he sees things quite differently. He says he always knew trees were green, but now he knows they also have leaves.

Till next week...Wear your glasses and look on the bright side.

As I sat at home last Friday evening anxiously awaiting 8 p.m. I was a nervous wreck. When the hour finally arrived I turned on KET and caught sight of our own Susan Allen on the TV screen.

As I watched, my eyes filled with tears of pride and my skin was full of goose bumps. I knew Susan had to be nervous, but she looked fantastic and I was so proud of her.

There's not many people in this world of ours who believe in something so strongly that they will voice their opinions on that belief and deal with the criticism of others for doing so.

Susan's job here at the Times requires her to write articles about some very sticky situations. She never hesitates to tackle an assignment and she never backs down.

I admire her so for that. I can't think of anyone better to sit on the KET panel and represent The Floyd County Times.

Susan, I'm proud of you. Till next week...I AM NOT SUSAN ALLEN.

Grandpa's history still living

by Bobby King
Sports editor of the Kernel

A couple of weeks ago, my grandpa and I were able to do something we've never done before. We had a long talk.

That may not seem like such a big deal to a lot of people. But it did to me. You see, my grandpa will be 98 years old next month.

Even at that age, this man who has seen a new president inaugurated 18 times, the 17-year locusts appear five times, and Halley's comet twice can still think and speak clearly — a rarity for people of any age but a small miracle in his case.

When Johnny King was born July 8, 1893, America was still reeling from the bitterness of a brutal Civil War; Grover Cleveland was serving his second term as president; a notable Russian composer, Peter I. Tchaikovsky, was still alive; and a man named W.L. Judson had just made life a little easier when he invented the zip fastener.

Even though Grandpa has spent most of his days tucked away in the mountains of Floyd County, he has always kept up with the world around him. On this particular day in 1991 I had a chance to spend some time alone with Grandpa. And, though I didn't know it at the time, I was about to receive a history lesson unlike any I'd ever had before.

In the next two hours he opened pages of history that my fingers had never touched. He gave me first-hand accounts of what it was like to be alive as history was happening.

Since his sight is all but gone and his voice quieter than it once was, we sat very close to each other. It was a looking glass of sorts. I must be — in appearance anyway — somewhat like he once was; and he, what I someday may become. A lifetime was all that stood between us.

He told me the stories that his grandfather, Sam King had told him about the Civil War. He told of how Sherman swept through the South in his "March to the Sea." And, he told me of how, after the war, they loved Grant enough to make him president.

He also told me about more recent American presidents and the fateful decisions they made. He talked about the moral debate that ensued following the bombing of Hiroshima. It wasn't as neat and tidy as the history books have made it out to be, which leads to something we should stop and consider for a moment.

Unless we pass along the oral history of those who came before us, we have no way of knowing whether what we read in the textbooks is the truth or just a slanted version of it.

As a young man, Grandpa was a coal miner when coal was really king in these mountains. He, along with most of his friends and neighbors, dug the stuff out of the ground for a living. At one mining job he made $2 a day, which, he said, was pretty good money back then.

He did that until his lungs, soiled from years of breathing the heavy black dust, were so bad he couldn't get his miner's license renewed. In those days, there was no such thing as a dust mask. It was not until many years later he finally received his long overdue Black Lung benefits. But even with the dust and the danger of roof cave-ins, Grandpa said he still missed the work.

The most important thing to Grandpa throughout his life has been his faith, and for good reason. He has more of it than anyone I've ever known. He was a preacher in the United Baptist Church for nearly 70 years (his most recent sermon was delivered within the last five years).

When my grandpa dies, he won't hold any special place in history. He will be remembered by those who knew him as a kind, caring man who lived a long life and loved his family.

I will remember all of those things about him, too. But someday — perhaps a lifetime from now — when my grandson comes to talk with me, I can share just a little bit of what my grandpa shared with me.

History, it has been said, has a way of repeating itself.

Letter writing: a lost art?

by Docia Woods

With so much emphasis being placed on communication these days, it's difficult for me to understand why the writing of letters among families and friends seems to have become almost a lost art.

It shouldn't be that way. In my honest opinion, thoughtful, sincere correspondence can be a delight to receive, and can furnish the source for pleasant memories throughout the years.

And, although there are, of course, about as many different kinds of letters as there are people who write them—(except in one instance which you'll understand later)—I believe you all will agree that most well intentioned letters contain some good:

Like the ones we used to get from my two oldest brothers, who had "left the nest" for the first time, and were "trying their wings" in far off places—one to work in a logging job in Old Virginia, and the other one to be a brakeman on a train in Pennsylvania.

"Dear All," (the oldest one would write), "Thought I would drop you a few lines to let you hear from me. These few lines leave me well at present. Hope they find you all the same. Guess I'd better close for this time. Hoping to hear from you soon."

Around about the same time, we'd hear from my younger brother:

"Dear All," (he'd write), "Thought I would drop you a few lines to let you hear from me. These few lines leave me well at present. Hope they find you all the same. Guess I'd better close for this time. Hoping to hear from you soon."

"P.S. Am sending $5."

Granted, neither of them told us very many other things we wanted to know—like: What kind of people lived "out there;" and whether they were getting plenty to eat at their boarding houses; and if they'd found them any girl friends; and how soon they'd be coming home for a visit.

Still, we knew they were "well at present," and there was some satisfaction in knowing they "hoped we were all the same."

And, besides, there was that little postscript at the end of one of the letters, to be grateful for, since even with a family as large as ours, five dollars went a long way back in the "good old days."

Then, there was the letter one of my sisters "took pen in hand" and composed for those two same boys:

"Dear Brothers," (she wrote), "All of us went to town to the Fourth of July. A balloon went up, and one of 'us girls' fainted."

Although our "fainting sister" vows to this very day that there was no connection between these latter two events, it's good to remember that our "family scribe" was willing to forego the sharing of news about such things as sack races, and greasy pig races, and greasy pole climbing, and eating foods like hamburgers and ice cream cones, and drinking "pop" and ice cold lemonade, to report on the condition of our sister's health.

And people who have little or no education don't have to "give up" when it comes to letter writing.

I remember once in our community when a man "got struck on" a spinster of our acquaintance. Too shy to talk with her, and not capable of writing her a letter, he asked me, one of his friends, to help him out.

"Twas said the two men's conversation "ran" like this:

What do you want me to say to her?"

"Just say, 'I love you.'"

"Now, what do you want me to say?"

"Tell 'er the same thing agin—and then fotch hit to a close."

Quite an unusual letter, to be sure, but I doubt that many (if any) of us could get across such an important message with more skill at brevity.

That brings us to the little story of the scribe (?) who was reported to have written one of his friends this-away:

"As I have nothing else to do, I will write you a few lines. As I have nothing to say, I will close."

In case any of us may feel there's no good in a letter such as this one, let's please just remember that there's a lot to be said for honesty.

Poison Oak

by Clyde Pack

Well, it's official! After having removed him from his family plot, and after poking around through his remains for a couple of days, we now know two things about Zachary Taylor: he's really dead and he was not murdered.

Now, I don't know about you, but I sure feel better. I mean, really, I can sleep better nights knowing that our 12th president died over 140 years ago of natural causes.

I'm sure, too, that fans of Henry Clay gave a sigh of relief at the good news. Clay, who didn't exactly see eye to eye with ole Rough and Ready, was apparently suspected of slipping Taylor a good dose of arsenic. Now, though, according to an announcement made in Louisville last week by Kentucky's chief medical examiner, Dr. George Nichols, we know that Clay didn't do it.

Wonder what would have happened, though, if Dr. Nichols had concluded that President Taylor had, sure enough, been poisoned? What would have happened if they'd been able to dig up an eye witness or two that could have proven Clay's guilt? Would officials then have exhumed Clay's body and put it on trial? After finding him guilty, and to ensure that no crime—regardless of how old—would go unpunished, would they have treated Clay as any other rotten politician? Would that have placed his body in the lobby of some minimum security prison for six months or so?

Mercy! I may not understand all I know about all this, but it seems to me that a lot of time and a lot of taxpayer's money have been wasted.

On the other hand, the whole episode may have had at least one positive result: it made me more than a little curious about Zachary Taylor.

Admittedly, ole Zach doesn't rank as high on the presidential ladder as, say, Abe or George or JFK, but all this recent exposure has prompted an interrogative thought or two. For example, why was Taylor buried in Louisville in the first place?

Well, a little digging on my part revealed that Taylor was actually born in Virginia. But, when he was about a year old, his family moved to Kentucky because his father (an officer in the Revolutionary War) received a war bonus of 6,000 acres of land near Louisville. Hence, Zach was raised a Kentucky boy.

A few more items that I uncovered include the fact that he was a Whig; he only served as president for 16 months; he was never considered a military genius, but he never lost a battle; he was Confederate President Jefferson Davis' father-in-law. In addition, in 1847, his army defeated the forces of Mexico's General Santa Anna. (Even John Wayne and Davy Crockett couldn't do that.)

While I'll admit it's great that science has progressed to such a degree that folks now can decide what actually killed folks then, I'm still of the opinion that everything I've learned about Zachary Taylor is pretty much useless—unless, that is, you're playing Trivial Pursuit.

Come to think of it, since Mr. Webster defines trivial as "something of little worth or importance" and pursuit as "to chase," I guess the only thing that I'm 100 per cent sure of about this whole deal, is that "Trivial Pursuit" is exactly what those folks in Louisville were playing last week.

Legal fireworks, July 4 safety tips

The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms considers all products containing explosive material to be hazardous. This includes fireworks. Each year, thousands of injuries are attributed to fireworks. The Bureau offers a few suggestions for persons who celebrate the Fourth of July with fireworks.

- Check with the fire department, police or sheriff to make sure fireworks are legal where you live.

- Fireworks vendors should operate from site open to inspection by local/state/federal agencies. Items should be clearly marked "Class-C Common Fireworks" and identify the manufacturer. Instructions should be provided.

- Store fireworks in a cool, dry place not accessible to curious youngsters. Avoid rough handling.

- Kids and fireworks can be a volatile mix. Adults should supervise.

- Light fireworks only outdoors in a clear area away from anything that might catch fire. Keep water available.

- Light one firework at a time, then move away to a safe distance.

- Use water to douse fireworks that fizzle. Don't relight. Soak leftover items and discard wet.

- Illegal devices include M80, ashcan, cherry bomb, silver salute, quarter stick, M100, M1000. These devices are unstable and can explode accidentally due to heat, friction or pressure.

- Prescription for trouble — lighting fireworks in bottles and cans, cutting up or taking apart fireworks, adding ingredients to fireworks, making pipebombs.

Neighborhood day care centers help ease parent's anxiety

Family day care is ideal for infants and toddlers. Some new mothers must return to work as soon as possible, perhaps before the baby is six-weeks old. Many day care centers will not take babies under six months of age. Babies in family day care have only one caregiver with whom to adjust.

With the same caregiver each day the baby is more likely to form an attachment which gives needed sense of security.

The family day care setting can continue to be utilized as the child advances from infancy through school age. If the family day care home is on the bus route the child is able to get there alone. This continuation of care can give stability to the child care environment.

Families with children of varying ages may find that family day care also meets their needs in that younger and older sibling may be cared for by the same caregiver.

The more flexible hours of care make the family day care homes a good choice for parents with non-traditional working hours. The in-home setting enables a provider to open earlier and close later than out-of-home centers.

As family day care is in residential neighborhoods, child care may be found close to the child's home. A caregiver in the same community reduces the length of time the child is being transported which decreases the anxiety of the parents as to the safety of the child if parents are involved in rush hour or hazardous traffic conditions.

If parents have only one caregiver with whom to communicate they may stay more informed as to their child's developmental needs and progress.

When a state certified small family day care home is selected for the child, the parent knows that the caregiver has met the standards established by the Department of Social Services intended to protect the health, safety and welfare of the children. It also means the provider has made a commitment to continue to develop and improve her skills in child care.

In order to meet certification standards the provider has cooperated with state agencies, opened her home for inspection and obtained training to improve child care skills. By complying with these requirements the provider has shown a sense of responsibility and caring that parents should expect in a child care provider.

For more information on becoming a certified Small Family Day Care provider, please call Marjorie Sheets at 1-800-421-1903.

Cabbage Patch

By Nell Harmon

Today I got into a job that I hate worse than any I have ever done in my life. I had to, of all things, go out and pull green peaches off my trees. It was a case of pulling them off or having the limbs break off and the peaches small at ripening time. I pulled bushels of gold, ball-size peaches off the tree, and I have several more trees to go. The ones that were not overloaded have larger and prettier peaches on them already. The thing I fret about is I know I have not thinned them enough and will have to do this again.

As it was raining, that was about the only job I could find to do outside. The limbs needed to be propped up, but because I am still unable to do any hard work or lifting, I have to settle with just thinning them out. My husband thinks I have thinned them too much but give them a couple weeks and we'll see.

Last week, we did another new thing, for us, in the garden. I chanced to find some vegetable plants at a sell-out price, and I loaded up on them. We set out blooming hot and sweet peppers (the hot peppers had several finger-long peppers on the plants), Zucchini squash and muskmelons. We had never bought this type of plant before, much less set out plants that were in bloom. They have changed colors now (from a sickly yellow to green) so maybe—Time will tell.

Friends and neighbors have been offering us fresh garden produce but, as to date, we haven't taken any. I know they want us to have it or they would not have offered. I hate to accept it because I know it is the first pickings for most and might be needed. I will take 'em up on it later for sure.

I was out on my hands and knees weeding the onions beds this week for the last time because the onions are getting quite large and the stems are getting weak. That means harvest time is just around the corner. I have already planted or set out the above mentioned plants in this space so it will not have to be worked up and planted again. Seems like I am still getting ahead of myself in the garden.

For someone who thought they would not be having a garden this year, we are doing pretty good, even if it is only a "postage stamp". Along with the above mentioned, we have sweet potatoes, white potatoes, corn, tomatoes, carrots and beans. All of these are late except the white potatoes, onions and tomatoes; but our growing season will last for many a hot day yet.

July is still early enough to plant carrots and beets along with corn (sweet) late beans and even lettuce if you have an area that has sheltered sun throughout the day — otherwise, it will bolt and go to seed. Sometimes it will be bitter in taste, but if it is placed in the refrigerator in water for an hour after you wash it, the bitterness will disappear.

Some people say July is the month to sow turnips, and other greens. I find it is too early as the insect have a field day with greens now. Its better to wait until the first of August but not later than the middle. That way your greens will be as near bug-free as possible.

If you have the time, now is a good time to divide and transplant your Iris. Give your mums a side-dressing of dried manure, tankage or cottonseed meal and let them develop fully with no further pinching back. If you want a second blooming of your phlox, cut back and fertilize with liquid manure.

Maybe I should have called this column (this week) the HODGE-PODGE patch as I seem to have covered everything from soup to nuts. I've had fun anyway, and that's what it's all about.

Peggy Lynn Leedy
Robert Stephen Preston

Mr. and Mrs. Larry I. Leedy of Louisa announce the engagement of their daughter Peggy Lynn to Robert Stephen Preston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby J. Preston of Louisa.

Miss Leedy's maternal grandparents are Osie Holbrook of Prestonsburg, and the late Willie Holbrook and paternal grandparents are William Henry Leedy of Louisa and the late Cloeva Leedy, formerly of Prestonsburg.

Mr. Preston's maternal grandparents are Elsie Senters of Louisa and the late Proctor Stephen Senters of Louisa and paternal grandparents are Gussie Preston of Louisa and the late Curtis Arthur Preston.

Miss Leedy is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and attends Ashland Community College. She is employed by Life Star Ambulance Services Inc. in Louisa.

Mr. Preston is a graduate of Lawrence County High School and attends Ashland Community College. He is also employed by Life Star Ambulance Services, Inc. of Louisa.

Also Miss Leedy is a firefighter and Mr. Preston is a captain in the Louisa Fire Department.

One of several things always happens when I start to write this column. No. 1 is I, always end up eating every thing I can find loose, and sometimes things that are nailed down. I even, quite often lose or misplace the recipes I had planned to use, as I have this time. The only time I can finish it without the phone ringing is to wait until very late at night and/or unplug the phone. As all have happened tonight I will get into the recipes, now that the phone is out, on this end anyway.

Children suffer from many types of abuse

Every day in this country there are children being physically abused, seriously neglected and sexually exploited. Although it is impossible to determine the exact number, it is estimated that several thousand children will die or be permanently injured as a result of being physically abused by a parent or guardian.

Child abuse is usually divided into several areas. Physical Abuse occurs when a child is disciplined or punished so severely that marks are left on the body. These may be bruises, welts, burns, broken bones, or other marks. Neglect occurs when a child is denied proper food, clothing, shelter, medical or other care that is necessary for normal growth and development. Sexual Abuse occurs when a parent or guardian takes advantage of a child and uses the child for sexual pleasure. Emotional Abuse and Neglect occur when a child is not given enough warmth and emotional caring by parents or guardians to insure that the child will have a normal emotional development.

Both neglect and abuse are damaging to the child and frequently occur together. Psychological or mental abuse may be even more devastating to a child than physical injury. Imagine how harmful it would be if constantly told of shortcomings, unacceptable physical appearance, or failure to live up to family standards.

Children are most often abused in their own homes, by their parents, although sometimes abuse occurs in schools, group homes, foster homes or other places.

Most people who abuse children do so because they cannot handle the stress in their lives, and because they have poor child management skills. Frequently a parent sets out to discipline a child and when the situation gets out of hand, he or she becomes abusive. Generally people who abuse children have a difficult time handling the angry feelings that they have for their children and others. Often parents simply do not realize how hard they are hitting a child, or that there are other ways to get children to behave properly. Although people used to believe that parents who abuse their children were drug addicts, alcoholics, or poor single mothers, that is not always the case. People who abuse children come from all cultural groups and levels of education or income. Very often an abusive parent was himself or herself an abused child. Generally, parents who abuse their children do not feel good about themselves and often feel very guilty about what they do.

How do you identify an abused child? You should observe the child's appearance and behavior, as well as parental behavior. Does the child complain of constant beatings or harassment? Is the child unclean and inadequately dressed? Is the child constantly crying, extremely fearful, absent from school or seemingly always tired? Do the parents seem disinterested in their children, administer unusual punishment, use drugs or alcohol excessively? These are only a few of the warning signs. However, the presence of any combination of these indicators should alert you to the possibility of an abusive situation.

Child abuse is against the law. Every state has some type of law relating to child abuse. Many states require professionals such as doctors, psychologists, and social workers, among others, to report cases of suspected child abuse to local law enforcement agencies, the health department, or child protective service agencies. Social workers in any welfare department or hospital should be able to tell you where and how to file a report. The purpose of reporting suspected cases is to protect the child by preventing future injury and to get help for the parents.

There are many ways that families with an abuse problem can be helped. In addition to counseling with a psychiatrist, clinical social worker, clinical psychologist or other counselor, parents can join a group where they learn that they are not alone. They will be able to talk with other parents who have had an abuse problem and dealt with it successfully.

One way of preventing child abuse before it starts is to encourage parents to get counseling and attend parenting classes when they are just beginning to feel like they might lose control with their children. Often, if parents can get emotional help for themselves and learn new ways of dealing with children, child abuse can be prevented.

If you need to report a case of suspected child abuse or would like information on obtaining advice and help, contact your doctor or local health department.

End of slump/resale market upturn sighted for first quarter

State-by-state resales were a "mixed bag" during 1991's first quarter, with existing-home sales increasing in some areas of country and declining in others. However, an overall increase in sales indicates the housing market has already started to improve and should pick up by the third quarter of 1991, the National Association of Realtors reported today.

Sixteen states posted resale increases from the fourth quarter of 1990 to the first quarter of 1991, ranging from 1.0 percent in Alabama to 31.6 percent in Delaware. Thirty-two states and the District of Columbia posted declines and South Dakota remained unchanged.*

Nationwide, the association's latest quarterly survey of sales of previously owned homes showed an increase of 1.8 percent from a year ago to a seasonally adjusted annual resale rate** of 3.46 million units for the period covering January, February and March. The survey covered sales of existing single-family detached homes, town houses, apartment condominiums and co-operatives.

NAR President Harley E. Rouda said first-quarter statistics represent a "bottoming-out" of the housing market. "It's important to look at each part of the quarter to get an accurate picture, though. The month of January clearly was a slow period for the housing. However, the burst in home sales in February following the war was just what the housing market needed," he said.

"Now, the Federal Reserve Board's recent interest rate cut should provide the economy and housing market with a potent shot in the arm to get things going again," Rouda predicted.

NAR Chief Economist John A. Tuccillo said housing has just passed through a "subcycle," where the market most likely reached its low point during the first quarter. "Despite the housing market's burst of energy in February, the quarter as a whole reflected the general malaise of the economy," he said.

"Some analysts predict that the housing sector will lead the economy out of the recession, and, if this is true, then February's impressive activity in the housing market is a good sign," Tuccillo noted. "In any case, favorable financing conditions are expected to continue through 1991, and prospective homebuyers appear ready to take advantage of low mortgage rates," he added.

All regions except the South posted overall sales increases from fourth quarter to first quarter. However, despite a 3.7 percent drop for the region, the South had the largest number of individual state increases. In Delaware, existing-home sales jumped 31.6 percent from the fourth quarter. Maryland saw an increase of 8.2 percent, Kentucky rose 6.2 percent and Tennessee, 5.0 percent. Louisiana also posted a healthy gain in its resale pace in the first quarter of 1991, increasing 4.8 percent from the previous quarter. West Virginia and Alabama recorded sales pace increases of 1.1 percent and 1.0 percent, respectively.

Tuccillo said the southern states, which have a major military presence, were hurt significantly with the deployment of troops this year. "Even so, the South did not fare badly during the first quarter," he said.

The Midwest posted a 7.7 percent sales increase during the first quarter of 1991. Minnesota, the midwestern state with the largest increase in resales from the fourth quarter of last year to this year's first quarter, saw a 20.2 percent increase. Missouri posted an increase of 15.1 percent and Michigan had an increase of 2.5 percent.

In the West, states posting fourth-quarter-to-first-quarter resale pace increases included Colorado, California and New Mexico. Colorado's pace was up 6.8 percent, California's was up 3.7 percent and New Mexico's rose 3.3 percent. Tuccillo noted that the stabilization of the California market during the first quarter is a positive sign. The West saw an overall sales pace increase of 7.5 percent from last year's fourth quarter.

In the Northeast, the overall sales rate increased 1.6 percent during the first quarter of this year. Vermont's annual resale pace increased 17.3 percent from the fourth quarter of 1990 to the first quarter of 1991. New Jersey's pace was up 14.9 percent and New Hampshire posted an increase of 14.0 percent. Tuccillo said the Northeast is slowly starting to show signs of improvement, evidenced by the sales hikes in New Jersey, New Hampshire and Vermont and the smaller declines in the states of New York and Massachusetts.

Rouda said that while relatively low interest rates and home prices have started to rejuvenate many lagging residential markets, the federal government now must take steps to ensure that the housing industry's rebound continues.

"Because first-time homebuyers continue to face affordability problems, Congress should pass a proposal this year allowing individuals to make penalty-free withdrawals from Individual Retirement Accounts and 401 (K) plans toward the purchase of a first home," he said.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, is the voice for real estate, representing nearly 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.
