In school case:

Venue change possible

by Susan Allen Staff Writer

The trial for a Floyd County principal accused of harassing and threatening at teacher was postponed Thursday after the judge set to hear the case disqualified himself. The defendant's attorneysaid he intends to ask for a change of venue.

Floyd District Judge Harold Stumbo disqualified himself from the case Thursday saying he was related to Gwendolyn Hammonds, the teacher who alleges Adams Middle School principal Thomas Tackett threatened her in May.

"I'm related to Mrs. Hammonds and I don't think I should hear this case," Stumbo said.

Bill McCann, attorney for Tackett, told the judge he intends to file a motion for a change of venue in the case. McCann did not specify why he wants the trial moved.

The issue will go to Chief District Judge Edwin Rice of Boyd County, who will name a judge to replace Stumbo. The judge Rice names to handle the case will rule on any pending motions in case and all procedures including the trial, said Assistant County Attorney Dan Rowland.

Marijuana: Kentucky's number one cash crop. It is a billion dollar forcement to find it and destroy it.

The Governor's Marijuana Strike Force destroyed $7 million worth of the illegal crop Wednesday in Clay County after a morning of eradication operations.

Kentucky National Guardsmen, Kentucky State Police and members of the U.S. Forest Service found approximately 7,000 plants in the Daniel Boone National Forest before noon Wednesday and burned the haul before a group of reporters at a burnsite in Clay County around 1 p.m.

Wednesday's operations in Clay County took on a war-zone atmosphere with National Guard helicopters flying overhead, spotting plots from the sky and eradication teams of hillsides seeking the plots.

Stumbo proposes trust fund:

Judges back coal tax plan

by Mike Rosenberg Editorial Assistant

A group of county judges, including Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, from coal-producing areas of the state descended on Frankfort Tuesday and Wednesday to testify before the legislative Coal Revenue Allocation Task Force.

The task force is considering a redistribution of monies collected from the coal severance tax. The coal severance is mineral tax money returned to counties which are impacted by coal mining.

Stumbo and the other Eastern Kentucky judges testified Wednesday, asking that the allocation of severance tax money be increased to 50 percent. The current allocation stands at 12 percent. Judges from Western Kentucky testified on Tuesday. Democratic gubernatorial nominee Brereton Jones has already endorsed the increase.

Stumbo was joined before the committee by Judges John Callaham of Martin County, Delzinna Belcher of Harlan County, Gail Gillem of Johnson County, Clyde Johns of Lawrence County, Sid Stewart of Morgan County and Homer Sawyer of Knott County.

Stumbo, who chaired the Eastern Kentucky delegation, said the additional money would "improve the quality of life in Floyd County." The money would be used mainly for the county's infrastructure. Priorities for aid would be water and sewer systems and the county's roads.

Stumbo said his delegation did "a splendid job explaining our needs. We need something here when the coal is depleted, like new industry. We're trying to entice industry to the area. When people come to build a business, they look for schools, recreation and a good place to live. The schools will take care of themselves. Recreation we have. We want to have a good place to show them when they come looking."

Floyd County received $1,150,000 in fiscal year 1989-90. If the allocation were raised, Floyd County would have received approximately $4,800,000 in that year.

Stumbo said that an acceptable option would be a gradual increase in the allocation, possibly an initial jump to 25 percent and then stepping up over a period of four or five years to the target of 50 percent.

During the testimony, Representative Greg Stumbo, co-chairman of the task force, proposed a trust fund for the severance tax. Under Stumbo's plan, which he said comes from Montana, the money from the severance tax would be placed in an interest-earning fund. The principal would not be spent, but the interest could be used for state programs.

Representative Stumbo said that he would try to propose a constitutional amendment to establish the trust fund, which he said was the best way to keep future legislators from spending it. The amendment would also include an increase in the severance tax from 4 1/2 percent of the minerals' value to 6 percent. The extra 1 1/2 percent would go into the trust fund.

Kentucky voters would have to approve Stumbo's proposal if it appears on the ballot.

Other area legislators serving on the task force are Senator Charles Berger of Harlan County, co-chair; Senator Benny Ray Bailey of Knott County; Senator Kelsey Friend of Pike County; Representative Russell Bentley of Knott County; Representative Clayton Little of Pike County and Representative Bill Strong of Perry County.

Bug bomb sparks scare at Martin

by Janice Shepherd Staff Writer and Mike Rosenberg Editorial Assistant

Smoke escaping from the open windows of a building adjacent to Martin Elementary School Tuesday caused Martin firefighters to prepare for the possibility of a school fire.

Around 1 p.m., school workers heard the fire alarm sound at the school and investigated the adjoining building, which school board members voted to tear down earlier this year. The building's fire alarm system is networked with the school's, and workers had previously discovered the alarm sounded if the building's occupant, Charles Salyers, created a lot of smoke during his

As soon as the workers saw the smoke coming from the open windows, they reported the incident to the fire department. Firefighters donned airpacks, concerned about the threat to the school, said William Petry, Martin firefighter.

"Smoke pouring from the windows looked like the building was on fire," Petry said. When firefighters entered the smoking building, however, they discovered a large, canister-style, commercial pest control device had created large masses of

The House's powerful appropriations committee approved Perkins' funding request at its markup meeting of programs for the Transportation Department. The measure passed the subcommittee last week and now goes to the House floor for consideration and a vote.

"We have more people hurt by falling down (steep hillsides) than we have injured by booby-traps," said Harper Corder, special agent for the U.S. Forest Service. "It's a tough and demanding job that the teams go through every day. This year the heat has been a factor in the operations. Several men and women have suffered from heat exhaustion."

Corder displayed a collection of booby-traps the teams have found since last year which included large metal fish hooks placed at knee-level in fields; high voltage batteries with wires attached that appeared to have been attached to an explosive device; pieces of wood with large nails driven into them; and a large blow-up snake.

"I don't know if the snake was put in there to scare people or predators," Corder said. "But, I know it sure scared me when I saw it. We've not had anyone injured this year from booby-traps."

On Friday night, two area volunteer fire departments responded to an incident in the Jack's Creek area, averting a fire hazard. Wheelwright and Southeast fire departments responded to a call that a fire might be brewing at the mobile home of Clark Meade.

The owner began preparing supper when her stove started "messing up," said Southeast's Assistant Fire Chief Gary Tackett. Firefighters traced the trouble to a faulty electrical wire, from which the insulated covering had worn. The wire ran across a beam and had short-circuited, Tackett said.

Also responding to the incident was Jeff Boyd with the Wheelwright Fire Department.

Kentucky youth artists to show their stuff this weekend

The program is administered by the Office of the Governor and the Kentucky Center for the Arts. The Kentucky Governor's School for the Arts (GSA) was founded in 1986 and is jointly sponsored by the Governor's office and the Kentucky Center for the Arts. dents from across the Commonwealth. These students, who have completed their sophomore or junior year in high school, are selected through an audition and admission process conducted in seven geographical regions of the state. The residential host for the program is Spalding University, a private, liberal arts college in Louisville. Classes, performances and activities take place at Spalding and the Kentucky Center for the Arts.

Instruction is provided in creative writing, dance, drama, instrumental music, visual arts and vocal music. In addition to receiving intensive technical training in their specific artistic disciplines, students participate in interdisciplinary workshops, attend performances and cultural events, and receive career and college counseling. The group of 119 high school juniors and seniors will meet again in November, when they return to Louisville for a College/Career Day. At that time, representatives from universities with strong arts programs will meet with the students and advise them on college scholarship opportunities. In past years, a very high percentage of Kentucky Governor's School for the Arts graduates have won college scholarships.

Methodist now smoke-free

In accordance with the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations regulations and in an effort to ensure the good health of patients, visitors, and employees, the Methodist Hospital of Kentucky in Pikeville will adopt a smokefree policy. Effective August 1, 1991, smoking will be prohibited throughout the hospital building including all hospital occupied areas of the Riverside Office Building, Collins & Love, and Flat Iron buildings with the exception of designated employee lounges. The smokefree policy applies to everyone at the hospital: employees, physicians, patients, volunteers and visitors. Employees are not required to quit smoking and may smoke in designated employee lounges until November 30, 1991. After that time, smoking will be prohibited throughout the hospital buildings. Patients will be reminded before admission that smoking is prohibited and will be asked to inform friends and relatives who may visit them during their stay of this policy. A patient may smoke in his/ her hospital room with a doctor's permission based on medical criteria. Smoking cessation classes will be offered at Methodist Hospital to assist employees and their families who wish to stop smoking. The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations requires that all accredited hospitals be smokefree by January 1, 1992. Methodist joins hundreds of other hospitals across the nation in adopting this policy. The smokefree policy at Methodist was developed by an employee committee from the hospital representing smokers and non-

The success of the art show caused it to be held over for the opening of the Jenny Wiley Theatre. Members of the group were encouraged about the future of an arts and crafts community in Floyd County and discussed short term and long term promotions of the group.

One example of short term promotion discussed was to provide a listing of members of the group to the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce which will mail out the compilation with other tourist information to residents of other states. The Chamber will also provide the listing to any businesses that are interested in purchasing the work of local artists and craftspeople.

A long term promotion involves the printing of a catalog featuring examples of the group's work, individuals names, addresses and phone numbers. Future workshops and exhibits are also long range goals of the group. Recently, two members exhibited at the Berea Craft Festival. Susan Sanders, Blue River Handweaving, and David Crafts exhibited their work during the festival.

The art group is also looking for a facility where arts and crafts may be displayed and sold. The facility must include an area for a working studio.

In order to achieve these goals, the art group is in the process of selecting a board of directors and area business men are encouraged to participate. Any members of the business community who are interested in helping this group to launch a better art industry in the county are encouraged to attend the board of directors meeting on July 25 at 6 p.m. at the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce/

Greg Stumbo's plan for restruc- unnecessary to pitch the trash turing Kentucky's congressional districts is drawing moans and groans from Central Kentucky.

Stumbo has suggested that Fayette County be divided by two districts or, in the alternative, be located as a fringe county for one of the state's new districts.

So far, Stumbo's idea has been called

The most logical approach, countered a Central Kentucky newspaper, would be to divide the eastern half of the state into three districts—one which includes Ohio River counties east of Louisville, July 19, 1975. one which takes in mountain counties from the current 5th and 7th districts and one which en- ties are meaningless and the vows compasses the Bluegrass region did not become "official" until five of the state.

Freedom of expression is essential to our political well being. The right of physicians to give complete and unfettered medical advice is essential to our medical well being. Last month, the Supreme Court dealt a stunning blow to both rights in Rust v. Sullivan.

The news media's focus on Rust v. Sullivan was the future of abortion rights. However, the enduring legacy of that case is more likely to be its impact upon freedom of speech. The Supreme Court held that government can infringe upon the free speech rights of physicians in family planning clinics funded by the federal government. The implications of that decision for arts programs and colleges, for example, are of real con-

In 1988, the Reagan administration promulgated new regulations for family planning clinics funded through Title X of the Public Health Service Act. Title X never funded abortion services. But, for eighteen years, physicians could discuss with their patients all medical alternatives and refer patients to clinics that did provide abortions.

Under the new regulations, clinic staff are forbidden to tell a pregnant woman that abortion is one of her options -- even if she asks, and even if she has a condition (such as AIDS, heart disease or diabetes) that makes it dangerous for her to continue the pregnancy. Under the ruling, clinicians may not even refer a woman elsewhere for abortion information or services. On the contrary, clinics are required to make referrals to prenatal care services -- even if continuing the pregnancy is against the woman's wishes or health interest.

The regulations never went into effect because the federal courts enjoined them. Of three federal Courts of Appeals to consider the regulations, two courts struck them down and one court upheld them by di-

Now, by a 5-4 vote, the Supreme Court has allowed the Reagan Administration regulations to go into effect, affecting 4,000 clinics nationwide and 143 clinics in Kentucky. For many of the 4 million women who have received treatment at these clinics, the federal funded clinics are their only source of health care. These women will no longer receive complete and accurate advice concerning their medical condition and appropriate treatment. Their attending physicians will be required by the federal government to give them politically correct medical advice.

should be a sacrosanct relationship between doctors and patients. Imagine the government dictating that cancer patients be told only about clinics should not affect the physi-tion.)

cian's ability to dispense complete medical advice.

Second, the regulations create separate and unequal healthcare in America: complete information for women who can afford private doctors, but mandatory parenthood for those who must rely upon federal funded clinics. As Justice Blackmun wrote in his dissent, the Court and the Administration have abolished a poor woman's freedom to choose the medical treatment most appropriate to her individual situation.

Finally, the ruling raises serious questions about future governmental intrusions. The government should not be able to infringe on freedom of speech merely because the speaker receives government funds. Such censorship could as easily be applied to arts organizations which receive government grants from humanities councils. Indeed, our schools and colleges are funded with tax moneys. Can teachers be compelled to teach only politically correct thoughts?

The Court tried to assure us that its decision does not reach this far. Chief Justice Rhenquist wrote that "the University is a traditional sphere of free expression so fundamental to the functioning of our society that the government's ability to control speech" by attaching conditions to its funds would violate the First Amendment. But, before Rust v. Sullivan, most of us would have assumed that clinics were such traditional spheres of free and complete medical advice so fundamental to the functioning of our society that the government's ability to control medical advice rendered by physicians would violate the First Amendment.

If ours is a country guided by neutral principles of law, it is difficult to believe the Court's line drawing can be so precise in the future. The only way an informed citizenry can preserve its rights is to jealously guard against every governmental intrusion upon them.

Apparently the public understands the implications of Rust v. Sullivan. Both the Harris Poll and the Washington Post/ABC Poll indicate that approximately 65% of all Americans oppose the Supreme Court decision. That message needs to brought home to the Congress by each of us contacting our Senators and Representatives.

Fortunately, Congress did not imposed these limitations upon federal funded clinics. The limitations were imposed by administrative fiat by the Reagan Administration. The Congress is now considering legislation to overturn those regulations. For Americans to continue receiving complete, unfettered medical advice, The issue here is not abortion. The and to protect ourselves against furreal issues here are discrimination ther government intrusion upon our freedom of expression, we should all First, the regulations invade what hope that Congress repeals the regulations and thereby undercuts the precedential value of the Court's erosion of the First Amendment.

The theory was that a large number of citizens could pool their resources to help the candidates they liked get elected to Congress. Now Congress wants to tax the PACs to pay for its elections. Taxing political participation would force PACs to pay for congressional elections twice - once from the voluntary contributions PACs may offer candidates and again when the PAC tax dollars are put into a fund from which candidates may receive "public" or taxpayer funding regardless of their position on the issue.

Congress should continue to work on reforming the way campaigns are funded. It should use the disclosure requirements for PACs as a model by requiring full disclosure of the source and amount of all funds spent on elections. What Congress should not do is tax political participation. Congress should work to encourage po-

Ministry to be expanded for deaf individuals

by Tina McFarland

Together with a staff of 10 from Deaf Opportunity Out Reach (DOOR) in March of this year, Enterprise Baptist Association conducted a feasibility study of the deaf population in Floyd and Johnson Counties and the Virgie area of Pike County. That study estimated a deaf populalack of participation. We apologize tion of 1,200 in Floyd, Johnson, and would like to encourage you to Magoffin, Martin, and Pike counties. Added to visits which have been made since July of 1990, some 40 visits were made during the March study. One of the many concerns being expressed is for area deaf children and their development.

With monies from the Eliza Broadus State Missions Offering, the Woman's Missionary Union of Kentucky provided partial funding to Enterprise Baptist Association for the conducting of two mini deaf day camps. The purpose of these was to provide a summer activity for those deaf children home for the summer from Kentucky School for the Deaf (a residential school for grades 1-12 located in Danville) as well as to address the cultural needs of hearing children with deaf parents.

The first camp was held at Wheelwright Baptist Center on June 20-22. A total of nine children participated and three mothers shared their concerns for the education and future of their children. The word spread quickly and the second day camp at the First Baptist Church of Allen on July 1-3 recorded 23 participants. Rev. Glenn Mollette, with Helpers in Ministries, provided new shoes to children present on July 3 -- this correlated with the lesson of the day, Putting on the Shoes of the Good

Each day had scheduled five hours of activity, which included Bible stories, games, crafts, and recreation. Local volunteers provided lunch each

The camps were coordinated through the work of James F. Smith, Enterprise Association's director of missions, and this writer. They were staffed by four volunteer student summer missionaries: Jana Duffey has recently graduated from Gallaudet University (the world's only liberal arts university for the deaf located in Washington, D.C.). She taught the deaf class in sign language using a variety of visual aids.

Lisa Branam is an interpreting major at Maryville College and is a native of Danville, Kentucky. She prepared and taught the hearing children who have deaf parents.

Duffey and Branam were assisted by Barry Bryant and Gene Bracken, two summer missionaries working through the Enterprise Association.

With the positive response this sampling yielded, Enterprise Association hopes to provide an expanded program of opportunities to its deaf population next summer.

In the meantime, a bi-weekly Bible study is slated to begin in September of this year. Two deaf men, Byron Thackery and Mike Sauder, will travel to the Prestonsburg/Allen area with the goal of reaching the deaf within their own culture and language environment. Sponsored by the Enterprise Association, these Bible studies will be held at the First Baptist Church of Allen. Pastor French B. Harmon reports that he and the church members are thrilled at the prospect of assisting in this endeavor by providing a place where deaf persons can come together and experience worship and fellowship in their own culture.

For more information regarding this work, write or call James F. Smith, Director of Missions, Enterprise Baptist Association, H.C. 74, Box 270, Banner, Kentucky 41603. The phone number is 874-0260 and they do have a telecommunication device for the deaf (TDD).

TV PIPELINE

Lee Horsley's roots are on the range

By Taylor Michaels

Q: I would like to know about Lee Horsley. Where is he from, is he married and what other acting has he done besides Guns and Matt Houston? -R.Q., Atascadero, Calif.

A: Horsley was born on May 15, 1955, in Muleshoe, Texas, and grew up in Colorado. After graduating college, he headed for New York to get a start in the theater. He struggled there for a while and then was asked to test for The Gangster Chronicles series, lost out and ended up in the series Nero Wolfe. In 1982 he landed the starring role in the fantasy film The Sword and the Sorcerer before starring in his own series, Matt Houston, for three seasons. He then went on to star in miniseries, telefilms and then Guns of Paradise (which was originally called Paradise). That show has been canceled. Horsley is married to Stephanie, they have two children and live in Los Angeles. You can write him c/o Harris and Goldberg, 1999 Avenue of the Stars, Suite 2850, Los Angeles, Calif., 90067

Q: My friends and I have often wondered why there are no reruns of a very humorous (but never slapstick) television show that ran in the mid '50s called Ethel and Albert Considering that some notso-good shows are shown again and again, it seems strange one of the best is never shown, -Virginia Baden, Sun City, Ariz.

A: Ethel and Albert was one of many of the popular radio shows that had a second life on television. It appeared on NBC, CBS and ABC. Its last broadcast was in July, 1956. At this time, it's not available for broadcast.

O: I would like to know where to write to get a letter to a talk show like Oprah, Geraldo or Sally Jessy Raphael. -Joan Walljasper, West Point, Iowa.

Lee Horsley in Guns of Paradise

A: Those addresses are: Oprah Winfrey c/o Harpo, N. Carpenter St., Chicago, Ill., 60607; Geraldo Rivera, 555 West 57th Street, 11th Floor, New York, N.Y., 10019; Sally Jessy Raphael, 510 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y., 10019.

Q: Whatever happened to Lizabeth Scott, a beautiful, talented actress during the '40s and '50s? -Sue Marchessault, Prescott, Ariz.

A: In 1955 Scott sued Confidential magazine over allegations concerning her sexual preferences, and then in 1957 she made her last screen appearance in Loving You. She made a sort of comeback in the 1972 British film Pulp but, except for her off-screen narration of television cat food commercials, has been seldom heard from since.

VIDEO BIJOU

Panic in the video store? Try these

By Steven Alan McGaw

The video store can be a dazzling place and a numbing one, too; you can only look around so long before all the titles start to run together. That's usually when you make a quick decision, and a safe one, grabbing whatever recent mainstream Hollywood offering is left on the shelf. But here are two off-the-beatentrack suggestions.

My New Partner (1984) Some might find this French comedy predictable; some might not wish to view another buddy/cop movie, but this film is hilarious. Sure, the story mines no new ground, but the acting, writing and direction are first rate. Phillippe Noiret is Rene, a veteran cop whose primary income is from the many bribes he accepts. Thierry Lhermitte is his newly assigned partner, Francoise, a rule-bound rookie. The hilarity comes from Rene's ingenious method of bringing Francoise around to his way of thinking, and the movie's warmth arises in the surprising friendship between these two very different police officers. Knife in the Water (1962)

This was Roman Polanski's first feature, and it sent the word that he was a filmmaker to be reckoned with. This compelling story of the tensions, sexual and otherwise, between a married couple and the handsome young hitchhiker they befriend has been much imitated, but never equalled.

FIVE REASONS WHY THE REDS SHOULD TRADE ERIC DAVIS

Well, the streak is at nine games as of Thursday, and the Cincinnati Reds are headed for Pittsburgh. The Reds, who have yet to win a game the second half of the season, will face a team that is on tear of late and has won seven in a row including four straight over the Reds the past weekend at the friendly (?) confines of Riverfront Stadium. The Reds looked to snapped the streak as the weak hitting St. Louis Cardinals came to town. The only thing is that the Cardinals weren't such a weak hitting ball club against the Reds as they swept the Reds three straight to run the total of consecutive losses to nine.

Blame goes to: 1) Injuries to a questionable pitching staff. 2) Anemic bats of "million dollar" players. 3) A coaching staff that belongs in the minor leagues.

The cry of late has been "trade Eric Davis for some pitching.' The $3 million plus player has been a total disappointment this season after vowing that things would be different this year. His credentials, thus far, includes a meager nine home runs, an embarrassing 22 runs batted in and a very anemic .225 batting average. This from a player that Pete Rose said could name his price as far as Eric has had some good sea-sons, but that was before he made the millions. Now he is constantly on the disabled list refusing to play hurt — another thing that Rose said that he must learn to do play hurt.

Here are five reasons why the Reds should trade the centerfielder. 1) His production at the plate last year and this season. 2) He refuses to take the field when he is slightly hurt - looking for an excuse for his performances. 3) He is definitely not the team leader the Reds so desperately need. 4). The ball club is a better team ithout him in the line up. 5). The Reds need to make room for Chris

Jones somewhere in the outfield. If you care for a sixth reason, Davis, along with a promising prospect (or Schottzie), could make excellent trade bait for a consistent starting pitcher. Reason seven could be that Davis will play out his final year next season and go somewhere else without the Reds receiving any compensation for him. So, why not trade him to a ball club that is willing to take a chance on Davis.

I personally feel that it is a personal thing with him. He just doesn't like playing for the Reds and the matter of having to pay his way home after a stay in a Oakland hospital last season after being injured in the final game of the World Series still lingers on his mind. He is not ready to forgive the Reds' brass, even though they refunded his $15,000.

If the Reds are serious about winning their division again this year, they had better be looking for a starting pitcher who can give them a solid outing consistently. They have enough four inning 'wonders" who cannot hold a lead. CONGRATULATIONS TO ...

Jimmy Goble and the Atlanta Braves for being in second place!

APPRECIATION GOES TO Lynn Hall who kept me informed of all the Mud Creek Pee Wee games. Lynn thanks a lot for doing an outstanding job, and I really appreciated it.

BLUEGRASS GAMES TO DRAW OVER 17,000 ENTRANTS

I was on the phone to the Bluegrass States Games media crew, and they reported that they have received over 17,000 entries for this year's Bluegrass Games. That's almost 2,000 more than last year's total. Seems the games just keep getting bigger.

The Bluegrass Games are always a lot of fun. I enjoy covering them and just watching as a fan. There are so many to take in. One of my favorites is the wheel chair basketball. How they maneuver those chairs is something to behold.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

year and perhaps in a long time, the Harold-Allen-Prater All-Stars needed only 57 minutes to eliminate the Prestonsburg All-Stars 5-3 in the 2 Little League tournament at Paintsville Wednesday night.

The big blow for HAP was Craig Johnson's fourth inning three-run home run that gave HAP a 5-2 lead. Wesley Collins, who has had an excellent tournament with 10 hits in in the fifth inning when Baldridge 13 turns at bat, drilled a major league double to left field in leading off the inning. Brent Tackett grounded a base hit between the second baseman and the bag. Collins unsure of the hit held second even with the ball going through. Johnson then carried his bat to the plate and hit a shot out of the park that hit the Kentucky Fried Chicken sign in left center. The threerun home run snapped a 2-2 tie.

Prestonsburg took a 2-0 lead off Lance Jones in the third inning. Adam Baldridge, who also had a good tourton, showing a bunt on the first pitch, then laid down a bunt on the second toss and was safe at first base as Jones, who fielded the ball, was uncredited with a base hit, and Baldridge moved to third.

League team and has experienced some success with it despite having a losing season. To establish such a program district-wide is the hope of Frazier.

"When a child becomes a member of the Little League, he remains a member by right. Therefore, he has the right to play Senior and Big League baseball.

Next year, a large Big League tournament has already been planned for the District 7 area with teams from Syracuse, New York, Panama City, Florida and other parts of the country coming in to take part

"Then, we want to develop all of our playing facilities in the district (which includes Floyd County) and we have talked with the Commonwealth Attorney about this already. After the season is over, we will have a fall meeting to discuss this."

Frazier's fourth item on his wish list is to one day develop a program for the handicapped. "I want to do this as I can," he said, "and it will be the hardest to do, but not impossible." Frazier said that the district will hold a fall meeting around the first of September and then hold meetings quarterly.

Frazier sees Prestonsburg as the centrally located area to host the Little League All-Star tournament that is played each year. While Paintsville has the ideal setup for such a tournament, Frazier believes the tournament should be centrally located.

The new District 7 Commissioner says that, in the upcoming year, the district will be holding classes to train league presidents on how to organize their leagues as well as getting umpires. On the subject of umpires, Frazier indicated there will no more umpires taken from the stands to call ball games but the umpires should be those that attend education session in Little League baseball.

"Umpiring Little League baseball is different from any other baseball league," said the new commissioner. There are rules that deal with safety of the players that each umpire should be aware of.

"Umpires in Little League are of the volunteer nature and we hope to have umpires spread around the district where there will not be a lot of traveling. We hope to start next year."

Frazier also hopes to get a cross

Paintsville currently fields a Big section of the district interested in the baseball programs offered.

Frazier says that he wants each tournament in the district to be fairly conducted. "We don't want home grown umpires," he said, "and if we have such umpires and it is evident that they are favoring one team we will ask them to leave. This will be one of the things that we will stress at our meeting.

The new District 7 commissioner says there are requirements to be met if an area wishes to host an All-Star tournament. The dimensions of the field must be legal and rest room facilities available. The officials of the tournament must be listed and submitted to the district office for approval.

'We ask organizations if they want to host the tournament and they say 'not now, we're not ready' and that's good. We wouldn't want anyone to try and host one that wasn't ready."

To talk to the new District 7 Commissioner is to see the excitement in his eyes when he thinks of the possibilities that exists.

run home run in the third inning and runners on base. Jake Poston reached Jason Osborne struck out 11 batters as the Prestonsburg All-Stars handed Beaver North a 5-2 setback and eliminated the North team from the District 7, Area 2 Little League All-Star tournament being played at the Paul B. Hall Little League Complex in Osborne was stingy from the mound, allowing Beaver North only one hit - Chris Moore's fifth inning single. Osborne walked eight batters in the game.

In the Prestonsburg third, Jason Blackburn and Jeremy Osborne drew back-to-back walks before Jason Hackworth lofted a fly ball to right field. Morris then came to the plate and hit a fast ball from starter Thomas Jenkins over the left field fence to give Prestonsburg a 3-0 lead.

Beaver North spoiled Osborne's no-hitter and shut out bid with two runs in the bottom of the fifth inning. Osborne, who struck out Jason Shannon as the North fifth unfolded, then hit a streak of wildness and walked Justin Hopkins and Tim Bellamy back to back. Lead-off batter Beau Tackett fanned for the second in the fifth, but Osborne walked Shannon Slone to load the bases. Kevin Robinson didn't get anything to hit and walked to force in Hopkins from third base to make it a 3-1 game. Moore then roped a base hit to centerfield, scoring Bellamy with the second run, Osborne then fanned Jenkins to end the threat.

The score remained 3-2 until Prestonsburg picked up two insurance runs in the top of the sixth inning. James Taylor and Adam LP-Jenkins

John Morris hammered a three- Baldridge singled to put the first two on a fielder's choice to load the bases as North failed to get anyone out. Blackburn bounced a grounder to first where Phillip Robinson threw to the plate to force out Matt Lafferty, who was running for Taylor. Jeremy Osborne lifted a sacrifice fly ball to right field, scoring Baldridge. Poston scored the final run on a wild pitch. North went out in the bottom of the sixth without any noise.

North threatened in the bottom of the first inning when Osborne walked the first two batters. He then fanned Kevin Robinson and walked Moore to load the bases. Jenkins hit a bouncer back to Osborne, who threw to home plate, to force Tackett for out number two. Cornette, who walked, was gunned down at third base by catcher Mike Castle as he tried to steal third.

Osborne retired nine straight batters until he walked Hopkins in the

Thomas Jenkins suffered the loss for the North team despite pitching a fine ball game. The mistake to Morris in the third and the lack of hitting on the part of his teammates led to the loss. Jenkins struck out eight batters and walked four. He allowed five runs on six hits and Prestonsburg stranded six base runners. Beaver North also left six runners on base. Both teams played errorless base-

Sports Commentary:

Paintsville Does Class Act In Hosting All-Star Classic

With facilities such as the ones at the Paul B. Hall Little League Complex in Paintsville, why would anyone want to host the District 7, Area 2 Little League All-Star tournament anywhere else?

The officials at the Paintsville park did an excellent job of hosting and overseeing the tournament. Once again, as in 1989, they did an outstanding job of getting it all together.

Those in charge worked hard during the first few days of the tournament as each day brought a new threat of rain. The tournament officials knew their responsibility to get the tournament completed in the given time and work on the field, and its upkeep was excellent.

A big thank you needs to go to several people who were directly involved each night of this great tournament. Mitch Kinner was the tournament manager, and he deserves a loud round of "applause" for his efforts in overseeing the playoffs. Ron Pack was the tournament's assistant manager. Pack is also the District 7 assistant manager next to District 7 manager Nick Frazier. Pack was there each night and was cooperating with all who were involved in the tournament.

I spent quite a bit of time looking over the shoulder of Vern Peters, official scorer for the tournament, coping down the starting lineups for each team. He was very helpful and made sure the media had all the information passed on to him. Gary McKenzie, who is the player-agent for the players in the Paintsville Little League, did an outstanding job on the P.A. Many of the P.A. announcers cannot be understood, but there was no mistaking anything that Gary said over the park's P.A. system - ask the kids who wanted to continually sit on the golf carts parked in left

One of the finest Little League umpire crews to call a Little League tournament of this magnitude was used during the two week double elimination tournament. J.D. Hughes, Billy Blair (sounds like a country singer), Eric Gray and Mark Cantrell did an excellent job. Enough cannot be said of the way these men handled the tournament. The games did not get out of hand, and the only time a protest over a call was vocalized was from Paintsville's coach Bob Lyons. A tournament such as this must have good officials who know the rules and this crew did.

Nine teams started out in the tournament, and each team consisted of 14 players each, which means a total of 126 boys took part in the classic. This year, there were no girls on any of the All-Star teams, unlike the past

Radio was on hand for all 18 ball games as Jason Blanton, and the crew from WSIP put the games over the air waves for the fans who could not be present. There was a lot of comment from individuals about listening to a particular game as they were on their way to the games. Statements like: "Dad is listening to the game on the radio where he works," or "No, I wasn't at the game but I listened to it on the radio," were heard. Blanton and his crew did a great job of calling

For all the teams that took part not everyone could be a winner on the diamond but the kids were all winners in the way they conducted themselves. They provided some wonderful entertainment for all those in attendance - and the crowds were large. For the managers that took time from their busy schedule just to see that their team was at their best, we can't thank you enough. To all that was involved, concession workers and all, you did a great job, and it was a great tournament.
