Murder-for-hire, cocaine conspiracy charges arise from two-month investigation :

Newman denied bond in fed sting

The suspect in a 1978 murder and a convicted rapist are in federal custody this week following their arrests Friday on murder-for-hire and drug trafficking charges. A third man has been arrested on state charges relating to drug trafficking. All three suspects are Floyd Countians.

At a hearing Tuesday in U.S. District Court at Pikeville, Wendell Ray Newman, 37, of Bevinville was ordered held without bond by federal judge Joseph Hood pending action by a federal grand jury next month.

Newman is awaiting trial in Floyd County on a charge of murder stemming from the 1978 shooting of Walter Hall at Jacks Creek.

On Friday, Newman was arrested at his home following a two-month joint investigation by the FBI and Kentucky State Police. Newman is alleged to have been engaged in the distribution of cocaine in Kentucky and other states for the past several years.

The federal complaint against Newman also alleges he agreed to pay an undercover FBI agent to murder David Slone, Newman's former co-defendant in the murder of Hall. Charges against Slone in connection with that case were dismissed earlier this year.

Federal charges were also filed Friday against Slone, 32, of Jacks

Creek. He was arrested on charges relating to conspiracy to distribute cocaine. In a federal hearing Tuesday in Pikeville, Slone's bond was set

If convicted of the federal charges, Newman faces a possible prison term of not more than 10 years, a $10,000 fine, or both, with respect to the murder-for-hire charge. He faces 10 years to life in prison, a $2 million fine, or both, on conviction on the cocaine conspiracy charge.

David Slone could be imprisoned from 10 years to life and could be fined up to $2 million on the narcotics charges.

Clifford Hall faces a prison term of five to ten years if convicted on the state drug charges.

Additional federal and state charges could be pending.

at $250,000, fully secured. He remained in custody Tuesday evening.

Slone is also awaiting final sentencing in Floyd County on a September 3 conviction for third degree rape. He faces one year in prison on that charge.

A third suspect, Clifford Shawn

Classified workers could get their own organization :

Compromise may end school strike

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer and Scott Perry
Times Editor

A compromise ending to a five-day strike by Floyd County school employees could be reached Thursday during a special meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education.

The special meeting was called to consider board recognition of a proposed Floyd County Classified Employee Association (FCCEA) as a collective bargaining agent for the school system's cooks, bus drivers, custodians, clerks and maintenance personnel.

Organization and recognition of the FCCEA appears to be a compromise between striking employees, who have sought union representation, and the school board, which has repeatedly declined to acknowledge employee desires to be represented by the Teamsters.

If approved Thursday, the newly formed FCCEA would represent the concerns of classified employees in a manner similar to the FCEA, which represents the system's teachers, and the FCAA, which represents school administrators.

All but one school bus driver went back to work Tuesday, said transportation director Earl D. Ousley. The lone hold out, Neal Clevenger, said Tuesday he would not return to his job until a hearing is conducted Friday, September 27, on a restraining order issued against the strikers last Friday in Johnson Circuit Court.

About 24 of the 75 striking bus drivers defied the court order to return to work on Monday but school attendance figures increased to 78.3

percent, said assistant superintendent Pete Grigsby on Monday. Attendance rates last week averaged around 50 percent. Attendance Tuesday was about 90 percent.

The district planned to "double up" bus runs Tuesday and have an one-hour delay in picking up high school students. But, with the striking drivers returning to work Tuesday morning, the district opted to have classes on a regular schedule.

Other news from the strike:
A group of striking bus drivers gathered Monday morning at the municipal parking lot in downtown Prestonsburg, reportedly to consider surrendering as a group to the Floyd County jail. The group, which had defied a court order to return to work Monday, went to Jerry's Restaurant instead.

Scattered rumors of violence on the strike picket lines were discredited Monday by police agencies, which indicated they had investigated

Time up soon for county jail plans

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County Fiscal Court members have until the end of the year to submit a plan for the construction of a new jail to the state Corrections Cabinet before any action is taken by the state to close the current facility.

Floyd Jailer Lawrence Hale informed the court at Friday's fiscal court meeting that he had received a report from the Corrections Cabinet about the condition of the jail and that action needed to be taken to the issue before October 10.

"It's (the state report) about the same as it's been in the past," Hale told the court. "But, the things we've had waived in the past, the letter said they won't waive them again," Hale said.

J.T. Fraley, director of local facilities for the Corrections Cabinet, said Tuesday that he had not reviewed the latest inspection report on the jail, but the key issue in the matter is that the county is working toward the construction of a new facility.

"We do know there are plans underway for a new structure," Fraley said. "As far as I know, the plans won't be available until after the first of the year. We won't take any further action until the plan is announced. It's an ongoing problem (the condition of the jail), but it would be more feasible to vacate the present facility rather than try to bring it into compliance."

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said Tuesday that he expects to re-

Flood ordinance amended :

City hires Opry architect

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd Countians could see an arts and learning center and performance theater for the Kentucky Opry built in Prestonsburg in less than three years.

The Prestonsburg City Council voted Monday night to hire the architectural firm of Sherman, Carter and Barnhart to design the arts center and theater that will be located on two sites in the city.

Plans call for the old Abigail Building, States Motel and Cato's Department Store to be turned into an arts and learning center, and a theater complex to be constructed in the city's municipal parking lot.

Mayor Ann Latta and Big Sandy ADD director Roger Recktenwald said the two facilities could be completed in less than three years.

Recktenwald said the arts and learning center could be completed in 12-18 months if the city can successfully negotiate the purchase of the property. The second phase of the plan, the theater, could be constructed in 8-10 months, Recktenwald said.

Mayor Latta said the architectural firm should be able to provide council with a brochure of the project after January 1, 1992. Latta said information gathered from a feasibility study conducted on the project would speed up the project.

The city has applied for a Community Development Block Grant to provide funds for the project.

In other business Monday, council voted to amend the city's flood plain ordinance to remove a restriction requiring that any new buildings be located two feet above the 100-year flood plain.

Latta explained that the amendment would cut costs for any new developments in the city. The amendment would also provide lower flood insurance costs for residents or businesses that constructed new facilities above the flood plain.

Police schedules top talks

by Dena Johnson
Wheelwright Correspondent

Auxiliary police work schedules and Wheelwright night noises topped the agenda at the Wheelwright City Council meeting September 19.

City council members also discussed establishing a feasible work schedule for auxiliary police officers who will protect the city while Wheelwright police personnel undergo training at the police academy. Three auxiliary officers, Rodney Newsome, James Vanhoose and Bill Wagner will patrol the area during the regular officers' absence. Wheelwright Mayor Kenneth Johnson expressed concern about the work schedule, saying that according to the law, one man could only work so many hours.

Hubert Farmer, a resident of the city, said he wished someone had worked Saturday night. Farmer said he parked his car in a city parking lot and that someone had taken a nail and scratched the vehicle. The mayor said he had received complaints of other occurrences in the parking lot. Antennas had been broken, said Johnson, but nothing could be done unless someone witnessed the crimes.

Area residents have also been complaining about noises late at night which have been disturbing their sleep. Residents complained about "people peeling out" with their cars and disturbing the peace late at night, said Johnson.

David Hall asked if someone was disturbing the peace, then why didn't someone get a warrant for them. Another citizen answered, saying that

State investigators here to follow up on school probes

Two investigators with the state's Office of Education Accountability were in Prestonsburg this week, reportedly conducting follow-ups into ongoing probes of the Floyd County school system.

A spokesman for the agency declined Tuesday to offer specifics of the follow-ups and would neither confirm nor deny reports that one area of investigation involved school finances at Prestonsburg High School.

Those finances, particularly funds raised through the operation of an illegal bingo game by a private organization known as the Prestonsburg Academic Athletic Association, are now the subject of a probe by the Kentucky State Police.

Results of the Prestonsburg bingo investigation are expected to be presented in November to the Floyd County Grand Jury.

The Russians are coming!

The Floyd County Times got a bit of an international treat Tuesday when five Russian delegates stopped by the office after viewing underground mining operations in the county. The men are staying in Lexington as part of the International Society of Mine Surveyors Convention where over 400 delegates from all over the world are gathered. Pictured are (not in order) Charlie Sargent of Prestonsburg, local host; Valentin Bichkov, superintendent of the largest coal mine in Russia; Alexey N. Morgunov, head engineer for the Ministry of Coal Industry, USSR; Marat P. Vasilchuk, chairman for government mine safety and health in Russia; N. Surgay, minister of Coal, Ukraine; and B. ceive a cost estimate on a new judicial complex that will combine county and state offices.

"We're looking into the possibility of a courthouse and jail combined," Stumbo said. "We looking at having the AOC (Administrative Office of the Courts) join with the county to build one complex. With all the talk about getting a second circuit judge, we think we could go into this together."

The architectural firm of Chrisman, Miller and Woodford of Lexington is expected to give Stumbo a cost estimate on such a facility by the end of the week, Stumbo said. The firm is putting together the estimate with information obtained from a feasibility study done last year. Stumbo said the fiscal court would review the estimate before making further plans.

In other action at Friday's court meeting, Larry Adams, representing the David Area Volunteer Fire Department, approached the court about reviving efforts to annex an area into David in the fire department's taxing district.

Adams and magistrate Jackie Edford Owens got into a heated argument about the proposed annexation.

Owens said some David residents were opposed to the annexation because the fire department could not provide fire protection to those residents and that a David fireman harassed residents by "playing lawman."

"You've got a member of the David Fire Department running around up there playing lawman like he's a member of the sheriff's department," Owens said. "He's using the department's gas and radio. We don't need somebody running up and down the road raving on people."

Adams disagreed with Owens' remarks saying no one on the fire department pretended to be a law enforcement official or used the department's funds.

"We don't have anyone in the department doing that," Adams said. "You get in front of the cameras and wave and rant to get attention of the voters of Floyd County."

"Well, I'm not like some people who sucked around and got a job," Owens said. "You don't have to worry about being re-elected. I listen to all the people of my district."

Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson informed the court the individual who Owens was referring to was not a deputy sheriff.

County Attorney Jim Hammond interrupted the argument and advised Adams to "start from the beginning" in the annexation proposal.

Magistrate Gerald DeRossett asked Adams if the department could provide fire protection for residents by offering a subscription fee in order to be covered.

Adams explained the department was unable to add on residents by subscription because the department did not have a 24-hour dispatcher.

In other business, the court:

- heard from residents at Sugar Loaf requesting blacktop for their road;

- accepted tax rates from taxing districts;

- hired a deputy jailer;
- adopted Phase 1 of the Floyd County Solid Waste Management Plan;

- rescinded an ordinance relating to hazardous waste disposal;

- refunded $13,000 to the sheriff's department; and

- approved a $620,000 bond sale to consolidate debts of the county's gas systems.

All fiscal court members attended Friday's meeting. The next scheduled meeting of the court will be Friday, October 18 at 10 a.m. at the Floyd County Courthouse Annex. The meetings are open to the public.

she didn't want to take her time to go get a warrant for someone when she shouldn't have to.

Johnson asked the council to consider enacting an ordinance which will require businesses to shut down at a certain hour each night. Council members agreed for the mayor to check into the ordinance.

Also at the meeting, a concerned citizen asked to purchase city property because she was having trouble with her neighbors and that she needed a place to park. The mayor said the city could not sell the land to her but that they could lease it to her. The land was given to Wheelwright by Mountain Housing and cannot be sold, Johnson said.

Police Chief Charles Harmon was unable to attend the meeting. The next meeting of the Wheelwright City Council will be October 17 at 7 p.m.

suggested the amendment might also be an asset in the city's efforts to building a new Prestonsburg High School near the existing high school.

Council also:

- held the second reading for a blasting policy inside the city limits;
- approved a revised policy for businesses to provide wrecker service to the city;

- agreed to construct a speed hump at Trimble Branch;

- introduced Henry Lewis Mayo as the Main Street director;

- raised the electrical contractor permit to $20;

- agreed that Prestonsburg Community College campus would be the best site to re-locate the Daniels Creek one-room school building, the last one-room school in the state;

- approved purchasing dumpsters from Teem Enterprises at a cost of $23,560; and

- approved changing their regular meetings from 7 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Councilman Gary Brown was absent at Monday's meeting. The next council meeting is set for Monday, October 14 at 6 p.m. at the municipal building.

no incidents.

• A hearing scheduled for Friday in Johnson County before special judge James A. Knight to consider a permanent injunction against striking workers could be moot if the drivers and board of education reach a compromise at Thursday evening's special meeting.

• Classified employees other than bus drivers—janitors, cooks, clerks and maintenance personnel—reportedly returned to their jobs Monday on the advice of Teamsters representative Ron Abshire.

• A rally was held Saturday at Stumbo Park at Allen where Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson served a copy of the court-issued restraining order on Neal Clevenger, a leader of the strike movement. Clevenger said he would go to jail before honoring the order. About 30 bus drivers sided with Clevenger.

• Also at the Saturday rally, a petition was circulated among classified employees, parents and members of the United Mine Workers calling for the removal of all five members of the Floyd County Board of Education.

Thursday's special meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the administration building.

I am the son of the late Joe Wheeler Burchett (gas company employee for 37 years) and Pauline Archer Burchett, (retired school teacher, 37 years). I have lived my entire life in Floyd County, with the exception of being at the University of Kentucky and University of Louisville. I graduated from University of Louisville Law School in the top 15% of my class and have practiced law in Floyd County for the past 17 years.

I have handled cases in 11 different counties in Eastern Kentucky. I was City Attorney for 4 years and Assistant Commonwealth Attorney for 1 1/2 years. My experience as a defense attorney and a prosecuting attorney has given me valuable insight into the pros and cons of both sides of criminal trials. This experience, along with my courtroom experience in other types of cases, would help me serve the people of Floyd County as their Circuit Judge for the next 8 years.

I have what it takes to be a good, fair and honest Circuit Judge.

Sweet 16 Academic Showcase

Kentucky high school students interested in competing for college scholarships in the 1992 Sweet 16 Academic Showcase must register by Wednesday, December 4.

More than $75,000 in scholarships will be awarded through the Showcase in 1992. The scholarships may be used at any Kentucky college, university or post-secondary educational institution.

Registration packets have been mailed to all high school principals in the state, according to Mary Wathen, program coordinator. Interested students should contact their principals or academic counselors about registration and rules for various competitions.

Competitions will be held in Art, 2-D and 3-D; Music, vocal and instrumental; Journalism, advertising and feature writing; English, creative writing and essay; Speech, Chess, Computer problem solving and Math. Computer, math and advertising are the only team competitions.

Students entering the English and Journalism categories must also submit their entries with their registrations on December 4.

Regional competitions will be held in January and February of 1992 at Eastern Kentucky University, January 25; Morehead State University, February 1; Murray State University, February 15; and Georgetown College, February 22.

The state finals will be held March 18-20 at Transylvania University in Lexington.

This year about 1,750 students representing 216 high schools in 99 counties participated in the regional competitions with 299 students representing 105 high schools competing in the state finals.

Since the Academic Showcase was started by Lexington Mayor Scotty Baesler in 1985, about 406 scholarships totaling more than $425,000 has been awarded to students from over 200 Kentucky high schools.

A large portion of the funds raised for the scholarships come from an annual televised auction. The program is also underwritten by private sponsors.

Ashland Oil Foundation is a Good Sponsor. Silver sponsors include the Bank of Lexington, Central Bank, Commerce National Bank, General Telephone Company of the South, Greater Lexington Convention and Visitors Bureau, and Kentucky Central Life Insurance.

Other contributors include First Security Bank, Lexington Herald-Leader, IBM, Toyota Manufacturing, USA, Inc., Transylvania University, WKYT-TV Channel 27, WLEX-TV, Channel 18, WYMT-TV Channel 57, WDKY-TV Channel 56 and Telecab of Lexington.

KHC issues $60 million in mortgage bonds

Kentucky Housing Corporation recently finalized a $60.5 million tax-exempt mortgage revenue bond issue which will afford more lower-to moderate-income Kentuckians the opportunity of homeownership. Proceeds derived from this bond issue are available to KHC-eligible families through participating lenders across the state on a first-come, first-serve basis. All loans will carry a 30-year term at a fixed rate of 8.375 percent with either FHA mortgage insurance or VA guarantee. Down payment is less than 5 percent.

John Martinez, KHC executive director, said this bond issue is crucial to lower-and moderate-income Kentuckians wishing to purchase their first home, as Mortgage Revenue Bonds (MRBs) are due to sunset December 31 of this year.

KHC also offers assistance to prospective homebuyers who need help in obtaining the down payment, with its Equity Partners Investing in the Commonwealth (EPIC) program. EPIC evolved from a study requested in 1989 by Governor Wallace G. Wilkinson that looked at housing needs across the state. The program, announced in June 1990 by Governor Wilkinson, allows homebuyers to borrow up to 60 percent of their total closing costs (up to $3,000) at a 6.5 percent interest rate for seven years.

For more information about homebuyer eligibility and participating lenders, contact KHC's homeownership department at (502) 564-7630, (800) 633-8896 or (800) 247-2510 (for the hearing impaired only).

Pest control expert offers advice on mice

When the weather gets colder, people aren't the only creatures who scurry indoors for warmth, shelter, and food. You may very well find a "mousequest" before the winter ends, according to Les Curry, manager of the Middlesboro Service Center of Terminix International.

"This is the time of year when we start getting a lot of calls about mice," Curry says. "Many people are surprised to have a mouse problem in clean, modern homes, but they shouldn't be. Mice seek warmth by crawling through foundation cracks, attics, around pipes — any nook and cranny they can squeeze through."

Mouseproof Your Home

To close off as many routes as possible, Curry suggests keeping garage doors closed, fixing obvious cracks in walls and floors, storing garbage and pet foods in tightly covered containers, and sealing other possible entry points with steel wool. Mice especially like to hide in kitchen cabinets, where warmth and food are both readily available.

Buildings near open fields and with high grass or other vegetation around the perimeter are especially attractive to mice, notes Curry.

Conventional "snap" traps work well if they are correctly baited and placed, Curry explains. "First, make sure you place the trap where the mouse will likely be," he says. "Look for mouse droppings, holes in insulation, or nibbled food. Since mice move mostly at night, look for these clues left while you were asleep."

Mouse Facts

- Mice are incredibly prolific and athletic, according to Curry. For instance:
  - Two mice can multiply into 100 in as little as four months.
  - Mice can drop as much as 20 to 50 feet without injuring themselves, and can climb, too.
  - Mice can hear twice as well as humans, and can sense motion up to 50 feet away.
  - Mice can swim up to one-half mile, and have been known to tread water for three days. They can even survive being flushed down a toilet!

It keeps more than memories alive.

Travelogue...

Some observations from our four-day visit to America's most populous city.

- Cigarette smoking in Los Angeles is not only frowned upon but illegal in many areas, a circumstance we found understandable given the number of health-conscious folks who live there, but ironic given the average atmospheric conditions, which can best be described as...brown.

- Smog in L.A. is one of the two most talked about topics. The other is traffic, a heavy contributor to the smog problems. Both are probably much more hazardous to one's health than smoking.

- Traveling around Los Angeles is impossible without a car which is probably why there are so many of them. Distances are judged in minutes rather than miles since it could take most of an afternoon to get to the grocery and back, especially if freeway travel is involved.

- The California freeways are all we expected, and more, but Californians appear to take them in stride. In fact, the only traffic jam we encountered during our trip was in Kentucky, on Interstate 75, where motorists were having considerable difficulty negotiating a one-lane section under construction.

- Californians take great delight in the accents of Eastern Kentuckians, particularly in the fact that our vocabulary includes no one-syllable words.

- Eastern Kentuckians (well, at least two of them) take great delight in people-watching or, more specifically, Californian-watching. There are some strange people there, not restricted to the one street performer we watched at Venice Beach who made his living doing the Limbo and jumping barefoot from the back of a chair into a pile of broken glass.

- Los Angeles is a wonderful place to visit, but too many people live there.

We got Bluegrass music, fried catfish and a trip to a local pool-room which was located in an L.A. suburb called Signal Hill where most backyards were decorated with a most familiar sight...oil well pumps.

We also had the opportunity to reunite with a number of old friends gone west and make a lot of new friends from the west who, surprisingly, are just regular folks.

Not that we expected everyone we met to have purple spiked mohawk hair cuts, but we certainly didn't anticipate feeling so much at home so far away.

It's a small world.

Our mother and sister were born on the same day, September 29, but, contrary to popular belief, not the same year.

We'll take the opportunity here to wish them both Happy Birthdays in traditional newspaper fashion...

It's that time of year, oh mother dear to count up all your blessings. Like me, your son, who's so polite he'll keep the counters guessing.

Your age? who cares? You act so young and spry. Your daughter, though, is another case. Her time clock's on the fly.

We'll try to keep it quiet 'cause we know that she'll be down.

We wouldn't want her secret to be known from town to town.

So mum's the word, can't pick the lock.

No one can make us say. She's thirty-three plus seven. Have a happy day?

Back to reality.

After reading Kim Frasure's imaginative (imagined?) spoof of this column (Caffeine Break) in Friday's paper, we're happy to announce that we can make at least two of her dreams come true.

The hoped-for daycare center will be built, but the staff will include just one nanny.

Guess who.

Oh, about those BMWs for the ad staff. Do you want those Big Milky Ways frozen or regular?

Editor:

Because of my truth, freedom and the American way, my daughter did not attend school on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 17 and 18. If you care to check the school record of Monday, September 16, you will see she attended school without the American way of a school bus. My truth on that particular Monday caused me great fear that one of my children was abducted from school grounds. As a result of this truth, I chose for her to remain in the safety of my home until the school "wars" were over. I do not expect those two days to be against her almost perfect attendance records.

I called Prestonsburg High School each day and reported her absence was because of transportation problems.

Since a public education is a freedom I claim, she is attending on Monday, September 23, the stipulation of her attendance for the rest of the week will depend on whether she can attend in safety and peace.

Peacefully,

According to striking bus drivers, while you played golf Saturday, September 14 with old-what's-his-name, they and the UMW stopped Transportation Director Ed Ousley from giving potential substitute drivers a week's worth of training in a single day. The Times didn't cover it. While you and your family flew off to L.A., confusing bits of information about school and bus schedules flew around Floyd County. Compared to the coverage given to the teachers' strike and strike threats, the space given classified personnel was negligible.

Is it because classified personnel don't have the bucks for full-page advertising as FCEA has? Or is it because a teacher strike and threat stories were composed primarily from press releases rather than reporters' coverage?

Last year, through no choice of their own, classified personnel went without work or pay because the teachers chose to strike. This year, these same people have already lost seven days' wages and are risking their very livelihood to stand up for themselves and our children's safety.

While other school systems canceled classes and worked weekends to resolve their issues in a few days, our system has guaranteed continued chaos by refusing to talk with its employees, setting court dates more than a week away and wasting $250,000 of next year's funds.

While school officials wait for the court hearing, our children wait in the dark and rain for buses promised by Earl Ousley on TV and radio that may or may not appear. It is doubtful that any of our children have received the required six hours of instruction since September 12. Parents and children alike worry what will happen instruction and grade-wise to children who aren't in school and whether those who are in school might be the victims of strike-related violence. All of us are glued to the radio and TV in hopes of hearing the latest but mostly we learn nothing.

The Floyd County school system has successfully wasted a quarter of a million dollars in eight days and simultaneously distracted us from other pressing symptoms of its incompetency — the need for '91-92 school budget (a special board meeting will be needed if the October 1 deadline is to be met); the need to replace financial officer Russell Mount Frazier who resigned in June; the fact that most of our schools are not in compliance with 704 KAR 4020 Section 4; and the realities that our children's test scores, attendance and dropout rates have worsened.

If the Times and other media continue to ignore classified workers the same way their bosses, the superintendent and school board have, most of us will remain ignorant and necessary changes will be delayed. All of us will suffer, but our children are suffering and will suffer most!

Editor:

Citizens and taxpayers of Floyd County, it is time to clean Floyd County up by everyone working together. Our tax dollars have been a hand out for years.

For instance, the fiscal court donated $4,000 of our money for fireworks. Don't get me wrong I love to watch our kids watch fireworks at the Fourth of July celebration at Allen park. But $4,000 is too much. I can take $500 and shoot fireworks for two continuous hours which would be enough. My wishes are that they only donate $500 and use the other $3,500 for the disadvantaged people of this county. It would buy a lot of wheelchairs.

Now getting on tax waste is the school board. They have built mansions on the hill at their new school houses. We didn't need the huge monsters to educate our children. The monsters cost thousands to heat and cool. I went to school in a wooden building and everyone drank water out of a two gallon galvanized bucket. We had coal fires and no air conditioning, no fans and outside toilets. We didn't complain. We walked to school.

The board has got way above their raises. They have used the public and their employees for their own gain. There are three classes of people in Floyd County.

#1 class of people is the honest, the kind, the Christian and the most thoughtful of others.

#2 class of people is the bad guys. They will lie and steal, cheat and take advantage of any person that cross their path. That type will threaten your family if you don't vote for them or grant their wishes.

#3 class of people are the ones who fall suckers to #2 category. They grant the wishes of the #2 scums. They will sell their souls for coffee money. They make their children honor the scums.

If Floyd Countians don't wake up and stand up to the scums of Floyd County and show them they can not be bossed, we will wind up losers.

Stand up Floyd Countians, stand up for what's right. Show those scums we mean business.

Thanks,
Jack Conley

Editor:

I am Marcella R. Bailey, founder of Red, White and Blue Day, which is held here in Floyd County.

I came up with the idea in 1969, 22 years ago, and it is still running. I spent many, many long hours sitting at my dining room table writing letters while my family watched TV. We needed to revive patriotism throughout America. It looked like we would not have a country left, they were burning their draft cards, burning flags, buildings and you name it. It really bothered me terribly bad. So, I went to work, and I mean work, I was determined to do a job and I didn't stop until I reached my goal.

Three weeks later, I, Marcella Bailey, with the help of many others, staged one of the largest parades ever held in Floyd County. I couldn't have done it without the help of the Lord. He can do many things. We can't ever forget Him. He has always given Red, White and Blue Day a beautiful sun shiny day, sometimes we've had a little rain but we've never had to cancel.

We started out 22 years ago remembering and honoring our veterans. They deserve all the praise and glory we can give them.

When I talked to all principals, teachers, parents and everybody, I urged them to get all the children they could involve in the parade marching, riding on floats or whatever. After all, they need to be taught the love of flag and country, they are our future leaders.

Today, 22 years later — I feel so proud to know that I've touched the lives of thousands of children over the years. One fellow told me just recently, "Marcella, you've kept patriotism alive here in Floyd County." I really appreciated hearing him say this.

I'm not as active as I have been in Red, White and Blue Day. I needed to take a break and let others take over. The others, or someone, has done me a terrible injustice as founder of Red, White and Blue Day. I have always stressed how I feel about being the founder and I am very proud of it.

There was a sign at the end of the new bridge leading to Martin just upon the hill. It had been there for years — the sign read "Red, White and Blue Day, date, etc. Founder of Red, White and Blue Day, Marcella Bailey." The founder part has been removed.

On down the highway, just back this side of Hayes Barber Shop, there was another beautiful, large sign stating "Red, White and Blue Day — Marcella Bailey, founder." It has also been put up for a long time — now it has been taken down (for a long time) and it was placed with the printing turned toward the barber shop. I stopped one day and checked to see if that wasn't the sign and sure enough it was, right in front of my eyes. I thought to myself, "who could have so much jealousy and hatred in their heart to pull a trick like this?"

The way I feel, my name should be up in big bold letters as founder of one of the greatest things to ever happen in Floyd County. I didn't start it for praise, honor and glory, it comes from my heart. How can anybody, if they are patriotic, do me this way. Red, White and Blue Day is not for self gain, it's open and for all people no matter what your status in life may be. Rich or poor, you're a person.

So several people mentioned the removal of my name as founder and I talked to Sid about it. They didn't approve of it. So a year or two ago, Sid being concerned naturally, called the Mayor of Martin, Raymond Griffith, and asked him why and who was responsible for removal of my name as founder from the sign. Mr. Griffith told him he'd check with the Red, White and Blue Committee and get back with Sid. Sid has never received an explanation and it's been a long, long time.

I'm just going to tell it the way I feel — God knows I don't want any trouble, I want to be treated right. All you good people out there (every word I'm telling is true) how would you feel if you had been treated this way? I, along with my family feel, very highly insulted. It's a disgrace and a shame — whoever is guilty, they don't even deserve to work and use my idea of Red, White and Blue Day.

I had one of the greatest friends I ever had in this world, a good man, one who worked so hard helping in the parade since it first began. He told Sid and me that a city councilman was against Red, White and Blue Day being in Martin and all the members of the city council of Martin had signed the contract except one. The person who told Sid and me this has since passed away, but I have Sid as a witness to this statement. I just thought you ought to know.

You good people who read this letter — I hope you will understand this really has bothered me for a long, long time. I often wonder where my name went. I gave up Red, White and Blue Day — but down in my heart I didn't want to at all. It still hurts, but I have always said I want Red, White and Blue Day to go on and on. Everybody really enjoys it and especially what it stands for — "Our Freedom!"

This year should be a great year for Red, White and Blue Day due to "Operation Desert Storm." I hope America and all the world will join hands together and will find peace, joy and happiness — if they will only open up their hearts.

I hope and pray that God will answer my prayers. My prayer is that a huge billboard, or whatever, with the words on it saying in big, bold letters — Home of Red, White and Blue Day, Marcella Bailey, founder.

Let the sign be placed on the hill just beside my front yard at the home of Sid and Marcella Bailey, Wilson Creek. This could be in honor of Red, White and Blue Day.

I just had to say this. Even Sid said he agreed that it was right off-handed.

I told Sid with tears in my eyes that my dining room was home to where I worked so hard hoping to lay a good foundation and together we did it.

"Eastern Kentucky: A Pictorial History" is back in print

Out of print since 1987, "Eastern Kentucky: A Pictorial History," a visual chronicle of 49 Eastern Kentucky counties from pioneer days to the present, is available again.

The volume is described by its author, Dr. Stuart S. Sprague, as a "visual feast, offering a fresh look at a region that all too often is seen as just a series of stereotypes."

Recognized as an Appalachian scholar, Dr. Sprague is a professor of history at Morehead State University, where he began teaching in 1968.

A map and description of the Civil War Battle of Middle Creek, Floyd County coal camps — including Wheelwright in its time, David and Weeksbury — and an undated coal and oil land map are among the book's highlights.

Now in its second printing, the book was published originally in 1986 by Donning Publishing Co., Norfolk, Virginia. The pictorial history may be purchased from the MSU Bookstore for $29.95, plus tax. Copies will be shipped to purchasers desiring them at a cost of $35 which includes tax as well as shipping and handling charges.

The nearly 500 photographs were taken primarily between 1884 and the 1940s. Many of them are either from the author's own postcard collection or the Clayton Collection of circa 1915 photos. Dr. Sprague also gathered additional photographs from the National Archives and Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., as well as from various Kentucky repositories.

A graduate of Yale and New York universities, Dr. Sprague is the author of eight books, including several designed as genealogical research tools.

Book orders, accompanied with payment, may be sent to the MSU Bookstore, Morehead State University, 100 University Boulevard, Morehead, KY 40351-1689. Telephone orders also will be accepted on approved credit cards. The telephone number is (606) 783-2081.

for Circuit Judge

Honesty, devotion to duty and compassion must be the order of the day.

A public official should not only be honest, but he must be a moral leader, who is devoted to promoting the general welfare of his fellow citizens.

Let the word go forth throughout this judicial district that the above should be the goal of any public official.

Justice and compassion for all will be my code of ethics. A public official must have the desire to do what is right and reject wrong every day. A public official must or should be a person with love and devotion to the public. My opponent once stated that I was the most dedicated official in the Courthouse, however, he must have forgotten that statement.

Your vote will be appreciated.

*Its very sad this time of year,
Our hearts are still filled with sadness and tears,
We miss you so much, it's so hard to bare,
We can't tell you we love you and how much we still care,
Although you are gone to a place beyond this world,
You're still missed and loved by wife, grandkids and girls,
One day soon, we all will be together again,
then we can say "Hi" with a great big old grin.*

One More Day
by Crystal (Armes) Gibb

*If I were granted one more day to spend alone with you,
I'd say the things I should have said and do all I wanted to do.
I'd tell you that I love you. Did I tell you that before?
Or did I just take it for granted, that you'd always walk through the door?
I'd play all the games you asked me to play, but I was too busy,
you see.
I'm sorry for the times I wasn't there, now, I wish you were here for me.
I'd tell you I miss you so very much, you've been gone forever, it seems,
And I still hope that one of those days, I'll wake from this terrible dream.
If one more day were given to me to tell you the things I'd say,
The only thing I'd want after that, would be just one more day.*

Loafer's Glory:

People in Eastern remember Uncle Ferd

by Barbara P. Martin

Every once-in-a-while a man will emerge, who has such esteemed ways and high qualities of life, that he is remembered long after he has expired. This is the case of Uncle Ferd. To many of our Eastern residents, he was really uncle, but to most of us he was our good friend. Both friends and relatives have requested that we exhume his memory and tell others about him. May we present to you our beloved Uncle Ferd Stephens.

Those who were the closest to him, and loved him the most, might be surprised to hear his complete name. He was always represented by the name Ferd Stephens. His name appears under witness to the deed of S.P. Ratliff's farm on Wilson's Creek, upon which stood the log cabin commemorated earlier by this author, in this paper. You might have thought that his name had been misspelled, but, no, he was F-e-r-d.

Dear readers, may I present to you Ferdinand Columbus Stephens (the real name of Uncle Ferd). Surprised? So was I! Having learned his real name, I can better understand the man. Ferd was considered to be huge, medium height, weighing well over 200 pounds, in my estimation. Their agricultural efforts paid off in good living.

Everyone like Uncle Ferd. He had a deep voice. When he spoke, he added humor to the conversation. All the kids in Eastern loved him. He joked with us. Whenever we saw him we were ready for fun.

Uncle Ferd was a farmer. He resided with a sister, Aunt Susan Allen, at the mouth of Goslin's Creek. A small house a short distance from Aunt Susan's was the residence of our Uncle Ferd. The farm enclosed huge bottomlands, forests, fruit orchards, barns and many farm animals. Ferd helped in all these areas. He was very strong, yet he was a very kind person.

Charles E. Martin, Sr. of Checotah, OK recalls how Uncle Ferd use to pack two bushel baskets with fresh vegetables, which he carried over the hill to Garrett to sell to the housewives there. Garrett was a mining town, and farm products were in great demand.

Uncle Kendal Moore was running for re-election for Sheriff of Floyd County and Charles' mother had allowed him and his younger sister, Jewell, to go with their father, Dial Martin, to Garrett to work in the election. They took the short cut to Garrett as Uncle Ferd did. With his loaded baskets, one on each arm, he soon overtook and then left them behind. They had walked up main Goose Creek to the mouth of Goslin's Fork, to Blue Grass Hollow. By following Uncle Ferd's trail across the hill into the head of Garrett Hollow, which was filled with coal miner's homes, they could begin immediately to transact their business. New highway 80 follows this mountain path as it is still the shortest way to get where you are going in that direction.

On warm evenings Uncle Ferd could be seen sitting on the shady side of his little house resting. Besides his vegetable sales, he also grew fruit to be marketed in the same manner. Boys coming from school made raids on his orchards beside the road. Sometimes he hid in the tall grass nearby. When they got into his apple trees he would raise up and say, "Get out of my apples, boys!" in his deepest, gruffest voice. The boys were so frightened, they ran as fast as they could down the road which led to their homes. Ferd threatened to cut off their ears if they did not stop stealing apples, in an attempt to protect his source of income.

At times when work was light at Aunt Susan's, Ferd went on his rounds visiting relatives. The common way to get around was to walk on your own two feet. A nephew told how Ferd would stop with his sister, Rhoda, for lunch, go on to his brother, Bascom's for supper, and then continue his trip farther the next day or return home that evening. Usually by the time he returned home, he had visited his sister, Bernie Gayheart, and many relatives in Maytown.

As was the way in those days, he spent some time loafing on the store porches in Eastern and Maytown. Ferd was known to be able to fall asleep at the drop of a hat. Upon such occasions they tell us that he, for instance, could rattle the windows in the lower end of Maytown while napping on the Langley Supply Store front. With no air conditioners, the warm, humid weather caused many to nod and doze.

Some of us recall the time when we gave him a terrible fright. The Maytown School was being rebuilt; The workmen, putting tar on the roof of the new building had lost small bits over the edge, which was quite pliable and jet black in color. At evening recess we gathered enough to mold what looked exactly like a shiny black snake.

Upon arriving at Eastern, we saw Uncle Ferd sitting on the front porch of Bailey's Store, so we went for a fun session. When he was looking in another direction, we eased the black tar snake around his shirt collar. When it slid around his right shoulder he saw it! Immediately he jumped up in fright. When we saw how scared he was, we were very sorry. We had expected only a laughing session, but our detailed workmanship had caused him to believe it to be real!

Recently I learned that Uncle Ferd had a twin brother, Monroe. Research revealed that he had taken a trip to Olive Hill for a visit with him. Upon arriving there, he began to inquire around as to where Monroe lived. They must have been identical because the person whom he asked stared at him a long time with some disgust and then said, "aw, Monroe, quit trying to make people think that they don't know who you are because you shaved off your beard!"

The picture on this page probably documents his trip to visit Monroe. Uncle Ferd holds his suitcase, Rhoda her hat, and her son Baisden Osborne smiles about the prospects of visiting a relative. Families were close and kept in touch in those days. Behind them is a Studebaker car which he will drive to take them there.

When two Appalachian writers get together, the conversation promises to be interesting. Swapping stories here with Dr. Stuart S. Sprague (right) Morehead State University professor of history and author, is James Still, who recently visited MSU's campus as guest of honor at a reception and book signing session for his latest work, "The Wolfpen Articles: A Record of Appalachian Life." Still's writings have earned him acclaim as a major American literary figure. (MSU photo by Eric Shindelbower)

Pikeville Methodist Hospital opens Breast Care Center

Methodist Hospital, Pikeville, announces the opening of its new Breast Care Center. Located in the Riverside Office Building at 804 Cline Street, the new facility offers state of the art mammography equipment and consulting services. Major emphasis will be on helping women detect small, early breast cancers while they can still be successfully treated.

The facility is completely staffed by women and can examine up to 14 clients per day, scheduling appointments from 8 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. Clients may schedule their own appointment at the facility by calling 432-6058 or be referred by a doctor.

Mammography is the best way to detect breast cancer in its early stages.

With early detection and treatment, the likelihood of survival from breast cancer can be improved. The American Cancer Society currently recommends that women should receive their first mammography at the age of 35, then have a mammogram every two years until age 50, and then yearly thereafter. In addition to mammography, women should also perform monthly self breast exams and have a regular exam by their physician.

A mammogram is a special X-ray image of breast tissue, that is performed by qualified personnel on X-ray equipment designed only for this purpose. This equipment uses low radiation-dosage film that is specially processed for best diagnostic imaging.

Winn-Dixie launches annual campaign for cystic fibrosis

This year's Cystic Fibrosis Bowl for Breath, sponsored annually by Winn-Dixie will include bowling events, as well as raffles, car washes, bake sales and other activities at each Winn-Dixie store during the next six weeks. The goal of this comprehensive effort will be to raise $100,000 for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. The announcement was made jointly by Winn-Dixie advertising manager, Vickie Thornbury and Cystic Fibrosis Foundation director of special events, Pamela Hands.

According to Thornbury, Winn-Dixie associates are doing everything they can at every store to reach this year's goal: "Each store is creating their own fundraising events. Additionally, we expect excellent participation in the Bowl for Breath in all our stores, and we invite our customers to support their favorite Winn-Dixie associate in this year's Bowl."

The Bowl events will take place throughout October at selected bowling centers in Louisville, Lexington, Bowling Green, Hopkinsville, Southern Indiana, Hazard and London. Winn-Dixie associates from all surrounding stores and local celebrities will knock down as many pins as possible to raise money for Cystic Fibrosis. Pledges may be made to a bowler for each pin he or she knocks down during the event. To sponsor a bowler, you may ask the location manager at any Winn-Dixie store or call the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation in Louisville at (502) 452-6353 or 1 (800) 456-2936.

In addition, each store will hold a raffle for $100 Winn-Dixie shopping spree. Chances are sold at all Winn-Dixies for $1 and the drawings will be held Saturday, October 26 at 7:00 p.m.

"Winn-Dixie has taken part in Bowl for Breath each year since 1984, and since that time has raised more than $300,000 for Cystic Fibrosis," said Pamela Hands. "Winn-Dixie's support plays an important role in our on-going efforts to pursue the causes of cystic fibrosis and provide a cure for our children. With hope, a cure or control for CF will soon be located."

An estimated 2 million people, one out of every 20 Americans, carry the gene that causes cystic fibrosis, a disease which affects approximately 30,000 people in the United States. It is the most common fatal genetic disease in this country. The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation was established in 1955 to fund research and to find a cure and control for CF, and to improve the quality of life for the thousands of children and young adults with the disease.

Transylvania selected among U.S. "101 best college values"

Transylvania University in Lexington, Kentucky, is among 101 colleges and universities chosen to be included in a new book, "The 1992 Guide to 101 of the Best Values in America's Colleges and Universities."

The book is being published by the Center for Studies in College Enrollment and Tuition Issues, located in Bridgewater, Massachusetts, just outside of Boston. The Center collects data on several thousand colleges and universities and publishes a newsletter on trends in college admissions and college costs.

According to David Wilson, editor of the book, three major criteria were used to select the schools. "First, we looked at the national rankings published each year by magazines such as U.S. News," said Wilson. "Next, we examined the results of a poll of high school guidance counselors we conducted last year. Finally, and most importantly, we compared data on costs vs. quality of academic programs, accessibility of faculty, and strength of learning resources and student services."

Transylvania was "outstanding in every respect," said Wilson, and the book cites the university's "pride in its past and its thoroughly modern focus." The book also applauds "Transylvania's close-knit and friendly atmosphere," and describes the university as a "fine small liberal arts college in one of the South's most attractive cities."

MSU Homecoming looking to be bigger than past years

If advance reservations are any indication, Morehead State University's 1991 Homecoming Weekend may be one of the biggest in recent years, according to Bill Redwine, director of Alumni Relations.

Scheduled Friday through Sunday, October 4-6, the weekend brings crowds that roar and fun galore as MSU celebrates Homecoming with all the traditional events, from the Welcome Back Alumni Reception and the Athletic Hall of Fame Banquet to the football game and crowning of the Homecoming Queen.

"With reservations for the Hall of Fame dinner already exceeding last year's, we are expecting the biggest turnout for Homecoming in recent years," Redwine said.

Activities will begin with a Faculty/Staff Coffee in the Alumni Center Friday, October 4, from 8:30 to 11 a.m. There will be a Welcome Reception for alumni and friends of the University Friday evening from 5 to 6:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn.

Five individuals will be inducted into the MSU Athletic Hall of Fame at a dinner to be held in the Crager Room of the Adron Doran University Center (ADUC) at 7 p.m. Tickets are $10 per person and must be purchased in advance through the Office of Alumni Relations.

The inductees will include football greats Larry Workman and E. TeBay Rose, basketball stars Donna Stephens and the late Henderson Thompson and baseball's Jody Hamilton.

Homecoming registration will be held on Saturday, October 5, at 9 a.m. in the main lobby of ADUC. Complimentary coffee and juices will be served.

Many mid-morning activities are scheduled. At 10 a.m. alumni board members will register and rehearse in Baird Music Hall for their appearance at the football game. At the same time, the alumni soccer game will be held in Jayne Stadium.

A gathering of past SGA presidents will take place at 10:30 a.m. in the Eagle Dining Room, ADUC. The alumni baseball game, to be played on Allen Field, will begin at 11 a.m.

A Homecoming brunch will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Crager Room, ADUC. Tickets are $7 for adults and $3 for children under 12 and must be ordered in advance. Activities scheduled at 11:30 a.m. include a cheerleader reunion in the Eagle Meeting Room and a Greek alumni reception in the Red Room, both in ADUC.

This year's Homecoming football game pits the MSU Eagles against the Liberty University Flames. The kick-off is 1:30 p.m. in Jayne Stadium with the Homecoming Queen coronation at halftime. A special ticket price of $5 for reserved seats and $3 for general admission is available if purchased in advance through the Office of Alumni Relations.

The annual post-game fish fry, which is free and open to the public, will be held behind the Alumni Center in the parking lot.

As part of the Homecoming activities the Student Government Association will sponsor "An Evening With Sinbad" on Friday, Oct. 4, at 9:30 p.m. in the Academic-Athletic Center. Ticket cost is $5 for MSU full-time students with a valid I.D. and $10 for the general public. A limited number of reserved seats will be available on a first come, first serve basis for the comedian's performance.

Additional information about Homecoming Weekend activities may be obtained from the Office of Alumni Relations (606) 783-2080.

Veterans News

Editor's Note: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA counselors. Full information is available at any VA office.

Q—I am a divorced veteran. Can my ex-wife force me to maintain her as my beneficiary on my Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) life insurance policy?

A—Under your Government Life Insurance contract, you have the right to designate or change a beneficiary at any time. You can do this without the knowledge or consent of your designated beneficiary or beneficiaries. The United States Supreme Court has ruled that state courts cannot restrict your right to make changes to your beneficiary designation. Any changes must be made by submitting your written designation to the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Q—I retired from the Army in March 1988 after 20 years of service. I was told that I am not eligible for GI Bill education benefits because I retired before July 1, 1988. Is this true?

A—A recent decision by the Department of Defense allows those who were involuntarily retired between January 1, 1988, and June 30, 1988, to qualify for GI Bill education benefits assuming they meet all other eligibility requirements. For more information, call the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) Regional Office in your state. The toll-free number is listed in your telephone directory under U.S. Government.

Q—Is there a time limit for applying for service-connected disability compensation from the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA)?

A—There is no time limit; however, the date of application is a factor in establishing the effective date of payment. Claims approved within one year of separation are retroactive to the date of separation. Thereafter, the effective date is the date the claim is filed.

Q—What happens if I fail to make the payments on my home loan guaranteed by the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA)?

A—Failure to make payments on the loan may lead to foreclosure and the loss of your home. If the government is required to pay a claim as the result of failure to repay the loan, you may become indebted to the government for the amount of any such claim. If you find yourself in financial difficulty, please contact your loan holder to discuss the problem and make arrangements to bring your loan current. If additional assistance or advice is required, you should contact the VA.

Q—Prescriptions from the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) pharmacy have always been free. Why am I now being charged for mine?

A—The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990 provides that veterans receiving medicine on an outpatient basis for the treatment of nonservice-connected ailments are now required to pay $2 for each 30-day (or less) supply. Veterans under treatment for service-connected conditions and veterans rated 50 percent or more service-connected are exempt from the co-payment requirement.

Woman's meeting

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints at Martin will sponsor a general woman's meeting with a worldwide satellite broadcast on Saturday, September 28 at 8 p.m. For more information contact Deone Pace at 368-2301.

1 in 10 men get Prostate Cancer

A PSA Test can save them.

You Can Help.

For men, the prostate gland is a problem. Located at the base of the spine, it's small, about the size of your little finger, and produces fluids for the male reproductive system. Its location makes it impossible to see and difficult, and uncomfortable, to examine by a physician.

When cancer strikes, the disease is usually not discovered until it has spread to other parts of the body. This makes it difficult and often impossible to treat. Yet, like other cancers, if discovered early, treatment has a better chance of being successful.

A simple new blood test is now available to make routine checking for prostate cancer easier and more accessible than ever before. It's called the PSA or Prostate-Specific Antigen test. Like many other diagnostic tests, it isn't 100% perfect, but it is more effective than conventional tests.

US 23 North, Prestonsburg, KY

When used alone it increases detection chances by approximately 20%; in combination with a rectal exam, it increases chances by 35%.

Right now, about 100,000 cases of prostate cancer are diagnosed each year in the U.S., and 32,000 men will die of the disease. 1 in 10 men will develop prostate cancer during their lifetime and the risks increase with age. You can help. If you're a man, ask your doctor for a PSA test. If you're a woman, talk to the men in your life and urge them to get a PSA test. Simply call your family physician.

Because what you know can save your life.

The PSA test is one in a series of new diagnostic tests available through the clinical laboratory at Highlands Regional Medical Center, serving your physician with newer and better testing procedures.

For a free brochure describing the PSA test, phone Ann Martin 1-800-533-HRMC.

So you want to start your own business... Here are some tips from the CPAs

If you have ever thought about opening a small business of your own, you should know that there is nothing small about the amount of skill, hard work, perseverance, and time needed to start a small business. Even a small business can call for a big investment in time, money and energy, advises the Kentucky Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Operating your own business involves risks as well as opportunities. You must realize that as your own boss, there's no such thing as quitting time — and a regular paycheck, fringe benefits and vacation time may quickly become luxuries you need to sacrifice.

Owning a business is a major commitment, one that should never be taken lightly. To be successful, you will need a well-conceived idea, sound planning, management experience, and ample capital. CPAs offer the following start-up advice.

THE FIRST STEPS

For many prospective business owners, the hardest part is determining a feasible business concept. If you are searching for an idea, begin by reflecting on your own experiences and interests. Then try brainstorming with family and friends. Stay alert to new lifestyle and population trends that may suggest new business opportunities. For example, some experts characterize the nineties as the decade of elder care. This type of information can help you develop a business idea that will fill an anticipated need.

Once you have an idea, it is important to research it and test the waters. Some people are so convinced about the soundness of their ideas that they bypass research altogether. Few mistakes can be as devastating. Bounce your business ideas off others whose judgment you trust. Other entrepreneurs are often an excellent source for feedback on your ideas. You may be surprised at how willing owners of non-competing businesses are to share their knowledge and experience with someone who is just starting. Read trade publications and talk to others in the business. Throughout the process, keep in mind that the key to succeeding is to offer what people want to buy and not what you want to sell.

You will need to define the market for your product or service. You should know exactly who and where your potential customers are. Learn everything you can about the values, tastes, and buying habits of your market before you proceed.

ON YOUR OWN OR PART OF A TEAM?

One of the early decisions you will face is deciding on the appropriate structure of business ownership. This important decision has far-reaching tax, financial, and legal implications. You may operate your business as a sole proprietor, partnership, or corporation. There's no right answer — the best structure for your business must be based on your individual circumstances.

A sole proprietorship is an unincorporated business owned by one individual who gets to make all the decisions, run the business, and keep the profits. But with sole control comes sole responsibility. A sole proprietor is personally liable for the obligations of the business.

A partnership is like a sole proprietorship except that it is owned by more than one person. Like a sole proprietorship, partners are inseparable from their business. The advantage of a partnership is that it often opens the door to increased capital, a greater diversity of skills, and even a heightened business energy.

A corporation is a legal entity distinct from those parties or individuals that own it. As such, corporations offer limited liability. The owners of a corporation are its stockholders, who collect part of the business' profits. You will want to consult with an attorney or a CPA who can advise you on the best structure for your business.

THE BUSINESS PLAN

Experts often compare a business plan to a road map: it identifies the who, what, where, when, why and how of a business. A business plan can help you organize your thoughts and observations, point out potential problems that require more thought and analysis, and guide you through a maze of business decisions. Your plan should include a detailed description of the business, an inventory of your skills and those of other key members, an explanation of your market, information about your competition, management policies, marketing and distribution strategies, and a financial plan.

WHERE DO YOU GO FOR HELP?

You will probably need the services of an attorney and a CPA to help you get your business up and running. Don't try to cut corners here. Hiring a professional is a sensible investment. An attorney should play an integral role in any decision with legal implications — such as contracts, leases, notes, and partnership agreements. A CPA can offer indispensable advice on a wide range of business matters including determining start-up costs establishing an accounting system to track expenses, inventory costs, accounts receivable, debt obligations and income; as well as guiding your business through the complexities of taxes.

HOW DO YOU GET FINANCING?

Adequate capital can be a critical factor in determining whether a business will survive. Unfortunately, banks may be reluctant to lend to first-time business owners, regardless of how brilliant the business idea. For the most part, you will have to depend on your own savings and such resources as loans on your insurance policies or on the equity in your home. Many new entrepreneurs also turn to relatives and friends for financing. You may find additional assistance from the Small Business Administration and venture capital firms. In addition, your CPA may be able to show you how to use potential customers and suppliers as sources of financing.

There are no shortcuts when it comes to starting a business. It's a tedious process requiring dedication and perseverance, but the rewards can be significant.

Prestonsburg Community College News

PCC recognized nationally for colloquium program

Prestonsburg Community College has been notified that the college has been selected to receive national recognition for their colloquium program. The PCC College Colloquium has been recognized as an exemplary model by the Program Committee of the national conference of NCSPD (National Council of Staff, Program and Organizational Development). The council has indicated that conference participants may wish to incorporate this model into programs of their own institutions. The committee has invited Professor Laura T. Weddle, Coordinator of Faculty/Staff Development at PCC to present a workshop/discussion session at the national conference to be held in Houston, Texas, November 2-5. The title of her presentation will be "The College Colloquium: A Meeting of Minds and Interests Among Diverse Faculty and Staff."

The college colloquium, a component of faculty/staff development, was instituted by Prestonsburg Community College to counter the effects of rapid student, faculty and staff growth, which can result in decreased cohesiveness and communication across divisions and departments.

The College Colloquium provides a one-hour forum for faculty and staff to present programs related to their areas of expertise or interest. These programs serve the dual purpose of informing, entertaining or provoking thought, while at the same time providing a meeting ground of social and intellectual interaction among participants from the various components of the college.

PCC presents staff awards

Prestonsburg Community College recently presented awards to staff members in recognition of their contributions to the college and their support of the academic program. Framed certificates of appreciation signed by Chancellor Ben Carr and President Deborah L. Floyd were presented to William E. Bays, of Prestonsburg, building engineer, who has been with the college for over 25 years; Emma J. (Jeannie) Howard, of Hippo, utility worker, 10 years of service; Toni J. Arms, of Hager Hill, Academic Affairs office assistant, over 10 years of service; and Peggy L. Prater, of Prestonsburg, Physical Sciences office assistant, 5 years.

Professor presents paper on Africa

Dr. Nnamdi Anosike, professor of sociology at Prestonsburg Community College, recently presented a paper at the Annual Symposium of the Center for African Studies at Ohio State University.

The paper was entitled "Agricultural Development Theories and Their Relevance to Sub-Saharan Africa." It critically evaluated the comparative usefulness of theories of agricultural development emphasizing their relative abilities to predict technical change in agriculture in Sub-Saharan Africa. In other words, Dr. Anosike is trying to discover what system would bring help to the areas of Africa suffering starvation and drought.

Dr. Anosike proposed that all prescriptions for development that neglect the institutional, cultural, and environmental variations and the historical experiences of African countries shall continue to meet with obstacles and therefore fail. Thus, the answer to the problem must come from the area.

PCC faculty member honored

Dr. Peffer

Dr. G. Anthony Peffer, professor of history at Prestonsburg Community College, was recently honored by having an article published in American Immigration and Ethnicity: A 20-volume Series of Distinguished Essays.

His article was entitled "Forbidden Families: Emigration Experiences of Chinese Women Under the Page Law, 1875-1882." It detailed the way the Page Law of 1875, which was designed to prevent Chinese prostitutes from entering the United States, was misapplied by American consular officials in Hong Kong to prevent the wives of Chinese laborers from entering the country. In so doing, the U.S. government played a major role in the extremely slow migration of Chinese families to America during the 19th century.

Dr. Peffer's article appears in the recently released volume 12 of this series, entitled Ethnicity and Gender: the Immigrant Woman.

PCC scholarship established

Prestonsburg Community College recently received a check from Consolidation Coal in the amount of $1000 to provide scholarship assistance for deserving pre-engineering students. Making the presentation were Jonathan C. Hale, preparation plant engineer and graduate of Prestonsburg Community College's pre-engineering program, and Daniel E. French, supervisor of Human Resources.

The student recipient of this scholarship for the 1991 Fall term was John Christopher Robinson from Prestonsburg.

UK offers mining engineering scholarships for area students

Layoffs in the coal fields make headlines, but the image of a depressed job market in the coal industry is not necessarily accurate. Jobs are available for those trained and prepared to do them, says a University of Kentucky mining engineering professor.

"A need exists for technically trained and efficiency-minded individuals," said G.T. Lineberry, director of the Kentucky Mining Engineering Scholarship program at UK.

"The mining industry continues to seek technically trained engineers to look for innovative ways to increase production, safety and efficiency of existing mines and preparation plants," Lineberry said.

Also, there will be a need within a few years to bring new mines on line to maintain production to offset the lost output from the "working out" of existing mines, Lineberry said.

UK offers 25 scholarship opportunities for mining engineering students from throughout Kentucky that range from $1,000-2,000 per semester at the Lexington Campus, and $500-600 at community colleges.

Last year, UK mining engineering students received more than $100,000 in financial aid.

Funding for scholarships and grants-in-aid comes from the UK Center for Applied Energy Research, and is supplemented by corporate scholarships, private endowments and professional society scholarships.

Admission to UK and declaration of a mining engineering major are requirements for financial aid. Other requirements vary according to the scholarship.

Lineberry said the best evidence of job opportunities for UK mining engineering students is that 26 companies contacted the department during the last academic year, inquiring about the availability of candidates for employment.

Starting salaries for UK mining engineering graduates are averaging well over $30,000 per year.

Those interested in scholarship opportunities for eastern Kentucky students may contact Danny Belcher, a counselor at Virgie High School in Pike County, at (606) 639-0033, or at home at 639-6275.

For more information or a tour of the Lexington Campus, contact the UK mining engineering department at (606) 257-8026.

Nursing Incentive Scholarships being accepted

The Kentucky Board of Nursing announces that, beginning January 1, 1992, the Nursing Incentive Scholarship Fund (NISF) will be accepting applications for the 1992-1993 school year. The NISF was created by the 1990 Kentucky General Assembly to provide scholarships to Kentucky residents who will be attending approved prelicensure registered nurse and licensed practical nurse education programs in the state. Preference will be given to low-income, unemployed Kentucky residents, and to licensed practical nurses who wish to become registered nurses.

Scholarship applicants will be required to obtain sponsorship from a health care facility (i.e., hospital, nursing home, primary care center). This sponsor will match the amount of the scholarship fund award. In return, the applicant must agree to work at the sponsoring facility one year for each academic year scholarship funding is received. Preference will be given to applicants who agree to work in rural area hospitals, skilled nursing facilities, intermediate care facilities or primary care centers.

Scholarship applications for the 1992-93 school year must be completed and returned to the Kentucky Board of Nursing by June 1, 1992. For applications or additional information, write to the Nursing Incentive Scholarship Fund Committee, Kentucky Board of Nursing, 4010 Dupont Circle, Suite 430, Louisville, KY 40207-4875. Applications will be mailed in November.

Small loans are important at First Guaranty National Bank

Most big banks can't be bothered with small loans. But at First Guaranty National Bank, even the smallest loans are important. We know small loans can meet big needs.

Through the years our customers have learned they can count on us, whatever the need. Big or small. And they know they'll get the same friendly, efficient service when their requests are small as they do for a major purchase like a home or car.

Often it's the little loans that give us the opportunity to establish lasting relationships with our customers. Relationships that bring people back to us again and again as their needs change.

A small loan can keep a son or daughter in college during a tough time. Unexpected repair bills don't have to cause a financial strain. Emergency circumstances can be easier to manage when money worries don't add to the crisis.

With a small loan from First Guaranty National Bank, you can meet needs as they come rather than wait for more budget-convenient timing.

The quality of service at First Guaranty National Bank is not measured by the number of zeros attached to the requests. It is measured by our commitment to establish a lasting relationship with each customer.

This philosophy has served us well because our customers keep coming back and they recommend us to their families and friends. Steady and constant growth, one customer at a time, has made First Guaranty National Bank a strong and sound financial institution. So sound, in fact, that we've been recognized as one of the Top 100 Best Midsized Banks in America.*

If you need a loan, from $50 to $1 million, we welcome your business at First Guaranty National Bank.

Mayo receives grant

Bronelle Skaggs (second from left), regional executive director of Mayo State Vocational Technical School, accepted a check from Geroge Hoerr, service representative with Caterpillar, Inc., Brentwood, Tennessee. Also pictured are Joseph Owens, service manager for Whayne Supply Company, Pikeville, Gary Coleman, director of Mayo, and Walton Hitch, manager of Employee Development, Whayne Supply, Louisville.

Mayo receives $25,000 grant

The Caterpillar Foundation has made a $25,000 grant for the 1991-92 school year to Mayo State Vocational Technical School to be used for the benefit of student and curriculum development in the Construction Equipment Mechanics (Diesel) program.

The Caterpillar Foundation's gift is an expendable, supplementary fund to be used to strengthen the school in fulfilling its educational mission. The intention of the Foundation and the school is that normally all funds will be expended during the fiscal year.

The Caterpillar Foundation supports the school's plans to strengthen its curriculum in the heavy equipment and diesel engine training programs. The funds will be used to acquire equipment and state-of-the-art diagnostic tooling for instructional purposes and to upgrade present curriculum materials to support the training areas.

In addition Whayne Supply Company (Caterpillar dealer) is participating in supporting the objectives of the Caterpillar Excellence Fund by making a cash grant or in kind contribution to the school during the 1991-92 academic year. It is the intention to expend these funds or make equivalent equipment or services donations throughout the academic year.

This is the third consecutive year that Caterpillar and Whayne Supply have participated with Mayo State Vocational Technical School in a project of this kind. At the end of each school year, the program has been evaluated in order to determine further grants for the next academic year. The school is most fortunate to have this kind of support from the business and industrial community.

We Know Our History— But What of the Future?

Who was Jenny Wiley?

Almost any resident of Eastern Kentucky can tell you of the pioneer woman who was an Indian captive and, after months of harrowing experiences, made her escape to a white settlement.

And most of us of the region also can tell you that Blockhouse Bottom, in the southern edge of Johnson County, only a few hundred yards from the Floyd-Johnson line, was the refuge that Jenny Wiley almost miraculously found.

Fewer of us know that the site of the old blockhouse, the first white settlement in the Big Sandy region, is today a part of the runway of Combs Airport, its artifacts, even its spirit, buried beneath concrete.

This spot was the first toehold the white man held in all the eastern region of Kentucky. Known as Harman's Station, it antedated Boonesborough. Daniel Boone visited Harman's Station before he ever saw the rolling Great Meadow that was the Bluegrass.

The spot is recognized downstate and in official circles for its importance in the history of the state. But we to whom its name and story have become commonplace, do little or nothing to leave any evidence for future generations of what took place there.

A replica of the old blockhouse could be built—the exact site and dimensions of the little log fort are known—and Blockhouse Bottom, or Harman's Station, could become, as it deserves to be, another Kentucky shrine. Jenny Wiley Festival Board has appointed Frances Brackett as Chairman to head the proposed project to rebuild Harmon Station as close to its original site as possible.

Coal mine deaths drop in first half of 1991

The number of coal mining deaths in the United States decreased while the rate of fatalities per total hours worked during the first half of 1991 remained unchanged compared to the same period of 1990, the Labor Department's Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) has announced.

In metal and nonmetal (non-coal) mining, both the number of deaths and the rate of fatalities decreased for the first half of 1991 compared to the same period last year.

"It's gratifying to see that coal and non-coal fatalities are down the first half of 1991 compared to last year at this time," said Bill Tattersall, assistant secretary of labor for mine safety and health. "But the industry still must make a significant improvement in its safety record if we are to meet our goal of zero fatalities by the year 2000."

Following are some other safety statistics and comparisons for the coal mining business:

- The rate of fatal injuries in coal mining was .04 per 200,000 employee work-hours during the first half of 1991. This compares with .04 for the first half of 1990, .04 for all of last year and .03 for the first half of 1989.

- Thirty-one miners were killed on the job through June of this year compared to 33 during the same period of 1990, 66 for all of last year and 25 for the first half of 1989.

- The rate for non-fatal coal mining injuries involving lost worktime during the first half of 1991 was 7.49 injuries per 200,000 employee-hours, down from 7.61 in the same period of 1990, 7.69 for all of 1990 and 7.57 in the first half of 1989.

- The rate for all types of injuries in coal mining was 9.65 per 200,000 work-hours. This compares with 9.78 for the same period of 1990, 9.90 for all of 1990 and 10.09 for the first half of 1989.

- Coal miners worked a total of 145.4 million hours during the first half of 1991 compared to 155.1 million hours for the same period of 1990 and 146.1 million in the first half of 1989.

- The average employment during the first half of 1991 was 150,590 compared to 157,410 for the first half of 1990 and 153,803 for the first half of 1989.

- Coal mines produced 487.8 million tons of coal through June of this year, a decrease from the 510.1 million tons produced during the same period of 1990 but up from the 465.9 million tons in the first half of 1989.

- The rate of fatal injuries in metal and nonmetal (non-coal) mining in the first half of 1991 was .02 per 200,000 employee-hours worked, compared to .03 for the same period of 1990, .03 for all of 1990 and .02 for the first half of 1989.

- Twenty-two metal and nonmetal miners died in accidents through June of this year compared to 28 for the same period of 1990, 56 for all of last year and 25 for the first half of 1989.

- The rate of nonfatal lost-time injuries at metal and nonmetal mines was 3.98 for the first half of 1991, compared to 4.18 for the same period of 1990, 4.10 for all of last year and 4.40 for the first half of 1989.

- The rate for all types of metal and nonmetal mining injuries for the first half of this year was 6.60 compared to 6.93 for the same period of 1990, 6.83 for all of last year and 7.76 for the first half of 1989.

- Metal and nonmetal miners worked a total of 203.5 million hours through June of this year compared to 207.8 million for the same period of 1990 and 204.6 million for the first half of 1989.

- Average employment for the period was 221,354 compared to 223,310 for the first half of 1990 and 222,451 for the first half of 1989.

The data for 1990 and 1991 are preliminary and subject to change. Additional information on mining injuries will be published in Mine Injuries and Worktime, Quarterly, January-June 1991, available in coming months from the Office of Information and Public Affairs, MSHA, 4015 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Virginia 22203-1984. ## June Buchanan School begins new year

Michael Spinney

Martha Risner

The June Buchanan School opened its doors to a record enrollment of 188 students, August 14. JBS, now in its eighth year, is a private school located on the campus of Alice Lloyd College. Students have the advantage of small classes and individual instruction.

Otis Balkcom, director of JBS, is optimistic about the school's purpose and philosophy. "We are limited only by our physical plant," he said. "Parents who are interested in JBS tell me they want their sons and daughters in a creative environment for learning where classes are small, academic expectations are high, and discipline is practiced."

This year the school has enrolled 24 boarding students from Perry, Floyd, Leslie, Pike and Boyd counties in Kentucky and Williamson, West Virginia. "We get calls from a number of communities in Kentucky and other states requesting full-time boarding (seven days a week)," said Balkcom. "We offer only the five-day boarding plan which requires parents to pick up their children on Friday and return them on Sunday night."

Since JBS is on a college campus, students have the advantage of enrolling in college classes beginning their junior year with a 3.0 grade point average. The college library is another plus for the students.

New courses added to the curriculum this year include Latin, advanced government, advanced economics and sociology for juniors.

Seventeen full-time staff members live and work on the campus. Coy and Ann Samons are among the hard-working faculty at the school. Coy, who is athletic director, coach and teacher, is enthusiastic about his work. "It's been a very positive situation. Students come to learn. You can teach without interruptions, and there are virtually no discipline problems," he said.

Ann is guidance counselor, cheerleader and mock trial coach, and teaches chemistry and advanced biology. "We have kids whose parents support us 100 percent and take a positive, active role in the life of the school. The students want to be here and it shows by their attitude," she surmised.

Balkcom is delighted with the new staff members this year. Michael Spinney is a graduate of West Point, with a masters degree in English from the University of North Carolina. He will teach government and English. His wife, Kelly, is a teacher's aid in the elementary school. The third new teacher is Cornelius Kelly, a native of Wyoming, who will teach Spanish. Mr. Kelly has a Masters degree in Spanish from the University of Wyoming.

"The athletic program continues to grow," noted Balkcom. "Besides basketball, tennis, cross country, we are adding golf and already have 12 players."

Last year's senior class scored an average 24 on the ACT. "That's five points higher than the national average," he said. "Since the school's beginning, all but one student has attended college."

"It looks like another good year," reported Balkcom. "We look forward to even greater things this year."

The program provides participants with strategies for conquering smoking addiction. Tony Sholar, vice president of government affairs for the Kentucky Chamber, is organizing the monthly forums.

Pikeville College's enrollment increases

The number of students enrolled at Pikeville College this fall is up significantly from last year, according to President William H. Owens. Even more significant, Owens said, is the increase in full-time students — 8.5 percent more than in the fall of 1990.

Enrollment at the college has been increasing steadily for the past seven years, Owens said. "This steady growth is good for the college," Owens said. "At a time when the college itself is growing, with the addition of the new library and other projects on campus, we are pleased to welcome these new students."

The headcount — the number of students who had registered at the close of registration September 4 — is 1,001 this semester, compared with 972 last year. After early withdrawals, 959 students started the fall semester at the college, Owens said. There may still be some late additions and withdrawals.

Of the 1,001 registering, 109 were part-time students, down from last year's 150 part-time students, and 892 planned to attend full-time, up from 822 last year. The full-time equivalent — the number of full-time students plus the number of full-time credit loads carried by part-time students — totals 902 after withdrawals, up a significant 5.6 percent from last year.

"There are more residential students this year as well," said Wayne C. Finkel, director of planning evaluation and institutional research for the college. "Last year, 238 students lived in the dorms; this year we have 265."

GOLF NOW A FALL SPORT

High school golf teams are getting geared up for the golf season as the sport was moved from a spring sport to a fall event. Four of our county high schools have golf teams — McDowell, Betsy Layne, Allen Central and Prestonsburg. Johnny Ray Turner heads up the McDowell program while Keith Henry takes his usual place in the Betsy Layne squad. Basketball coach Gordon Parido coaches the Blackcats and principal Jody Sword leads the Rebel charge.

WHEN IN THE DARK, ASK HOSS!

Well, wondering who used to play third base for the Cincinnati Reds back in the '50's has brought some new names. Roy Ratliff, feeling challenged by the earlier articles we had on the question, went to the source who knows — Martin's own Mr. Purple Flash — Hoss Halbert. Hoss revealed that Ray Jablonsky and Don Hoak played the "hot corner" for the Reds back then. I certainly remember both players well now that my memory has been shaken. Hoak came to the Reds from the Pittsburgh Pirates and was a steady performer for Cincinnati. Another name mentioned by Halbert to Ratliff was Billy Webber. I must confess I never heard of him but that probably was before I started paying any attention to them anyway.

ALLEN CENTRAL FCA SELLING "POWER BANDS"

What are "Power Bands"? Ask Dewey Jamerson or any member of his FCA Club at Allen Central. FCA stands for Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the group usually meets on Thursdays at the Right Beaver School.

FCA has grown into a national organization and they hold regional conventions around the country.

"People ask me what it is that I have on my arm," said Jamerson, "and I have a chance to explain it to them." Power Bands are not ordered but are actually made by the club members, and they are sold for $1.

"We have sold a lot of them and the kids around here come up and ask for them," said Jamerson.

Want to know what the Power Band is? Ask Coach Jamerson or one of the members.

I believe that Betsy Layne has a FCA Club also.

I DON'T UNDERSTAND DEPARTMENT...

Why do high school football games have to wait until 8 p.m. to get underway? Why not start the games at 7:30 p.m.? Everyone is there anyway. Betsy Layne High School starts their home games at 7:30 p.m. and it seems to work out very well for the Bobcats.

HIGH SCHOOL SWIM TEAMS.....

Back in the summer we had here in Floyd County the Jenny Wiley Waves swim team. In watching the swimmers in the meets that I was able to attend, I saw a lot of talent in this sport. Now, we have at Allen Central a nice indoor pool that would be perfect for a high school swim team to use. Why can't we have a swim team at our high schools and compete against some of our other county rivals such as Johnson, Pike, Morgan and Martin counties? If the facility is there, let's use it.

Steve Cummings, along with all his helpers, has developed a great summer swim program in the area and with a high school swim team, it would be a way for the kids to continue their swimming abilities that could earn them a scholarship somewhere.

THINGS MAY RETURN TO NORMAL...

The good news this morning (Tuesday) is that the bus drivers have returned to work and with the bus drivers all returning to work this week, hopefully, things will return to normal. We're glad they have decided to return and that school can get underway.

PRESTONSBURG JUNIOR PRO SIGN UP'S....

The Prestonsburg Junior Pro Basketball league will hold their annual sign up days on Sunday, September 29, and again on Sunday, October 6, at the Prestonsburg High School gym. Sign up times are from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. each day.

The sign up dates and times are for those who will be playing in the training, junior varsity or varsity league as well as all cheerleaders. The league age will be the age your child will be September 1, 1991. All participants must sign up on one of these dates. There will be a $25 entry fee that will cover the cost of insurance, uniforms and other equipment.

Junior Pro basketball, it's a great program. Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports.

Betsy Layne Forfeits; Grade School Basketball Put On Hold

It has been a very busy week in Floyd County sports with some very negative happenings and some good news.

The school bus drivers' strike continued to plague the county football teams as they were finding it hard to find transportation. But for the Betsy Layne Bobcats it was a decision whether to put a group of inexperienced players on the field against Shelby Valley this past Friday night at Betsy Layne.

It all started when school was in session and the buses did not run.

Several players were absent from school and not allowed to practice with the team and no practice, no game. That created a shortage of players for the Bobcats team and Coach Gerald Newsome wasn't wanting to field a team that was short on personnel. It was a good decision by coach Newsome in the light of someone getting seriously hurt in the game. The forfeit score was 1-0 and it dropped the Bobcats to 1-1 in district play and 1-3 overall.

A decision like this is a hard one for a coach to make. Any coach would rather win or lose the game on the field. However, the safety of the kids had to be considered first, and Coach Newsome did that.

At Allen Central a forfeit was avoided when both teams (Johns Creek) elected to reschedule the game for September 30 (Monday night). It was Johns Creek that wanted and needed to reschedule the contest. The Bearcats had already received a forfeit from Magoffin County and wanted to avoid another with Allen Central. The second forfeit would have only given Johns Creek an actual seven game schedule and they wanted to play more games.

Wheelwright missed having to forfeit or reschedule their football game with Pikeville when Pikeville agreed to move the game to Wheelwright's Brackett Field. Wheelwright lost the game, but getting to play it was a moral victory in some sense. The good folks at Pikeville proved that a good game was not the most important thing. The entire Pikeville coaching staff is to be applauded for the move.

Prestonsburg's game with Belfry went off without a hitch as it was a home game for the Blackcats.

With the school bus drivers back on the job this weekend, hopefully, will go as planned.

GRADE SCHOOL FOOTBALL TO GET THE CHANCE TO MAKE THE GRADE

Prestonsburg Drops Fourth Straight 48-20

Victory number one continues to elude the Prestonsburg Blackcats football team as they fell 48-20 to second ranked (3A) Belfry and fense seems to be getting stronger. The Cats played the highly talented Pirates close in the first half trailing 14-6. On another side, Prestonsburg ready to drive home six points, only to have a penalty push them back five yards. But that has been the story of the Cats season so far. On a fourthney gave Belfry a early 7-0 lead.

Prestonsburg was forced to punt on their second possession of the first quarter but got a break when Robby dropped in the end zone. Tucker was sacked back on the 22-yard line for a long loss. On fourth down, Tucker spotted Jason Crisp in the end zone and tossed a nice spiral into the waiting end's arms only to see it dropped and the Pirates take over.

With 11:54 remaining in the second quarter, Belfry picked up a quick first down on a 12-yard carry by Chris Phillips. Pirate quarterback Shawn Hager completed an 18-yard pass for another first down. However, the Blackcats had the Pirates in trouble facing a fourth-and-four play. On a pass play, Hager scampered six yards for the first down placing the ball on the Prestonsburg 25-yard line. On second and ten, Hager handed off to Carroll on a sweep play and Carroll trotted in from 25 yards out for the touchdown. Vargo's extra point made it a 14-0 game with 8:50 remaining in the first half.

Again, opportunity presented itself for the Blackcats and this time the Cats made the best of it. Prestonsburg moved the football to the 50-yard line where they had to punt the ball back over to Belfry. On first down play, Hager was sacked hard by Derosssett for a loss of six yards. On a second and 16, Carroll on the carry fumbled the football and Prestonsburg recovered with very good field position. Dwayne Garza carried the football into the end zone from three yards out. The extra point attempt failed and the half ended 14-6 with the Cats feeling good about their first half effort.

It was a different story in the third period for the Blackcats as Belfry showed why they are the second ranked triple-A school. The Pirates (See Prestonsburg, B 4)

Fitzpatrick in pursuit!

Kyle Fitzpatrick (79) of Prestonsburg is shown bearing down on Belfry quarterback Shawn Hager (10) during high school action at the Prestonsburg Field. Fitzpatrick has been one of the top defensive players for the Blackcats this season. The Pirates defeated Prestonsburg 48-20.

dropped their fourth consecutive game. The Blackcats schedule has been anything but easy pickings. Estill County, Middlesboro and district rival Whitesburg had posted early season wins over the young Blackcats.

However, the Cats are playing much better on offense and the de-could very well have been ahead at the half if not for some mental mistakes early. The Blackcats took the football on the opening kick off and looked good in moving the ball to the Pirates six-yard line only to see their drive stall out. In fact, Prestonsburg had the ball on the one-yard line and and-six situation quarterback Aaron Tucker tried to hit John Thomas Clark with a pass but the pass failed.

Belfry then took over the football on their own six-yard line and marched the length of the football field where Mark Carroll's three-yard run and an extra point by Jason Var-

Watson's punt was coughed up by the Pirates and the Blackcats recovered the football on the Belfry 11-yard line giving Prestonsburg excellent field position.

On second-and-ten from the 11, Tucker put the ball in end James Derosssett's hands but the ball was

Wheelwright Falls To Top-Ranked Pikeville 47-6 In Changed Game

The game was supposed to have been played at Pikeville. But with all the problems in Floyd County over the school bus drivers' strike, the game was switched from Pikeville to Brackett Field.

"It was nice of the Pikeville coach to switch the game over here," remarked one Wheelwright fan. The outcome could have been different if Coach Bill Allara had chosen so. The game could have been a forfeit because the Trojans were unable to get transportation to the game. Instead, the game was changed.

The outcome was 47-6 in favor of the state's top ranked Class A school. The forfeit would have just read 1-0. But the Trojans said that if they lose the game they wanted to lose it on the field.

It was a hard hitting game that left several of the Pikeville faithful impressed with the play of the Wheelwright team.

However, it was a top notch program with a lot of depth against a program that has known success but has fallen in recent years. Pikeville, three time state champions, scored on every possession but one. J.J. Bailey got the Panthers on the scoreboard in the first period when, on the fifth play from scrimmage, he plunged in from one yard out and a pass from Danny Estep to Jason McCoy for the conversion gave Pikeville a 8-0 lead.

The Trojans looked good on offense on their first possession but, two penalties set the Trojans back in stalling out the drive. The drive began on the Trojans 20-yard line. Arnold Adams took a hand off in the back field and ran the ball to the Pikeville 30 yard line where he just seemed to stop to change directions and then was tackled. The run was good for 50 yards. Then came the infractions. A 15-yard penalty for a clipping call and an illegal procedure call for five more yards.

Pikeville wasted no time on their second possession as Bailey again struck pay dirt from one yard out and Estep kicked his first of three extra points to give the Panthers a 15-0 lead.

After Wheelwright was forced to punt the ball back over to the Panthers, it took just five plays for Pikeville to score again. This time Panther quarterback J.P. Blair hit wide receiver Murray Garvin with a four-yard pass and Estep added the extra point.

Wheelwright got their only touchdown in the third quarter when Steven "The Roadrunner" Jackson gathered in a Panther kickoff and raced 87 yards untouched for a touchdown. Jackson had a 83-yard touchdown run nullified earlier when the Trojans was called for a clipping penalty earlier in the first quarter. The play came on a second and four from Wheelwright's own 17-yard line. The call brought the displeasure of Wheelwright coach Donnie Daniels and his team was assessed another 15-yard penalty.

A bright spot for the Trojans was the continued excellent punting of sophomore Arnold Adams. Adams punted five times for a total of 155 yards an average of 31 yards per punt. "I think that Arnold could punt for a college team," said Daniels of his sophomore punter. "He just needs to get in there and apply himself.

"I think our team was a little intimidated by Pikeville," Daniels continued to explain. "But after they went out there and got hit a couple of times they realized Pikeville was just another team. We played a good game against them. Pikeville is an outstanding ball club. It is hard to stop their rushing game even with nine men on the line."

Daniels said that his club played a good defensive game despite giving up 47 points. "I know it sounds crazy but we did play a good defensive ball game. I was a little disappointed on our punt coverage. It wasn't all that good."

Daniels said that his ball club got some good licks in and did a good job of containing Pikeville's outstanding runner, J.J. Bailey. Bailey carried the football 13 times for 74 yards "probably the lowest he has had this year."

Pikeville had 250 yards in total offense with 224 coming on the ground. Blair had five completions in 12 attempts for 26 yards.

The Panthers were penalized 40 yards on three flags. Wheelwright received 70 yards on six calls.

"That wasn't too bad for us on penalties," explained Daniels. "We

ONE BUCK LIMIT

Kentucky deer hunters may take one buck this season. Although a hunter may take two deer per season, the one buck limit applies to all deer hunters whether using archery or firearms equipment.

This season, hunters should note that the yellow tag portion of deer hunting permits may be used only on antlerless deer.

The only way a hunter may legally take more than one buck this season is if he or she is drawn for a quota hunt. Deer taken on quota hunts are considered bonus deer and do not count against the one buck per hunter limit or the season limit of two deer per hunter.

Limiting all hunters to one buck per season will help the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) maintain its management goal of providing an appropriate deer supply, and a healthy, high quality herd. More bucks will attain a larger size and more antlerless deer will be taken to control herd growth where needed.

Traditionally, hunters have been reluctant to take does. However, too many antlerless deer in the herd can cause several problems including lowering the quality of bucks and jeopardizing the overall health of the herd.

The one buck limit also allows all deer hunters to share more equally in developing quality opportunities in Kentucky.

Bow and muzzleloader hunters took 20 percent of all deer harvested last season, and the percentage is expected to increase because both shooting methods are growing more popular. Last year's muzzleloader hunters netted 1,048 does and 3,201 bucks. Many of the bucks taken during the two day segment in October were older deer. Limiting modern firearms users to one buck and reducing the hunting pressure on antlered deer for the past two years is the main reason these older bucks were present.

CLARIFICATION IN 1991-92 DEER HUNTING GUIDE

This year, the General (gun) season for deer is November 9-18 throughout most of the state. Some counties in Eastern Kentucky have a shorter general (gun) season, due to lower deer populations.

During the General season, any equipment, archery or firearm, that is legal for deer hunting may be used. However, regardless of whether a bow, modern gun, handgun or muzzle-loader is used, all hunters who hunt deer the November 9-18 General season must follow the same zone and tag restrictions. This requirement has been in effect for several years.

The 1991-92 Kentucky Deer Hunting Guide, which provides information about the deer seasons, lists the zone and tag restrictions for the November 9-18 segment of the deer season under the General season section of the guide. However, some muzzleloader deer hunters may notice that this requirement is not completely clear in the information provided in the portion of the guide regarding muzzle-loading hunting. Hunters who may have questions about the deer season should contact the KDFWR at (502) 564-4336 Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

DEADLINE APPROACHING

Are you one of the many who plan to apply to waterfowl hunt on the Ballard or Sloughs wildlife management areas this season? If so, don't delay. You have until September 30 to obtain and return your completed application.

Applications for both areas are available by contacting the KDFWR, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601 or calling (502) 564-4406 or 564-4336.

STEEL OR LEAD SHOT?

As most hunters are aware, steel shot is now required statewide for all waterfowl hunting. Waterfowl hunters must not use, or have in their possession, lead shotshells which are toxic to waterfowl.

While lead shot is legal for small game hunting, those who hunt squirrels, rabbits, quail and other small game species with lead shot must remember not to shoot at waterfowl even though the season may be open. If you're hunting with lead shot, and happen to test your shooting skill at a passing wood duck, you are now waterfowl hunting and in violation of the steel shot requirement.

Be safe and legal, if you think you might 'come' across a duck or two while hunting small game, make sure you carry and use only steel shot.

got some good licks in on defense." Jackson was the leading rusher for Wheelwright with 146 yards on 13 carries. Adams finished with 51 yards on five attempts. Trojan quarterback Steven Shelton had a rough night in passing the ball. Shelton had one completion to Jackson and that went for a five-yard loss. Shelton was intercepted once in the game and the Trojans had no fumbles. Pikeville fumbled the football once.

Wheelwright's record levels at 2-2 and 1-2 in district play. Pikeville stays perfect at 4-0 and will face the Belfry Panthers Friday night at home.

Wheelwright returns to action this Friday night at home but, this time, the opposition will come from Jack Hall's Fleming-Neon Pirates — the state's 10th ranked team.

Bassin With The Pros

TRY CREEKS AND RIVER FOR SUMMER BASS

If you're looking for a pleasant alternative to big-lake bass fishing this month, consider fishing a creek or river.

With current present, the water will be well-oxygenated so the fish will be more active; the current will be washing down a steady supply of food so the bass will likely be in a feeding mood; and best of all, the fishing will be easy.

"Rivers and creeks do offer an excellent choice for bass fishing in the hot weather," notes Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff member Guy Eaker, "but lure presentation can be critical.

"Because of the current, bass position themselves in very specific places, and if you don't get a lure into those places, you won't catch many fish," he continued.

"The key," explains Eaker, "is making certain your lure always comes downstream with the current. Don't try to cast and retrieve upstream or against the flow of the water.

"The way I like to fish current is to float backwards downstream," says the Evinrude pro. "By this, I mean I have the bow of my boat facing upstream, but I let the current take me downstream. I use the trolling motor only to keep the boat in the proper casting position."

Eaker's casts are upstream parallel to the shoreline. Each retrieve then brings his lure downstream naturally with the current. This tactic allows him not only to cover a lot of productive water, but also to put his lures in the proper spots.

"Bass in current often position themselves behind obstacles like rocks and logs so they don't have to fight the force of the water constantly," says Eaker. "They're facing upstream so they see food come past, and other food gets washed into the quiet eddy areas where they're staying.

"By casting upstream, my lure follows the same path of the natural food, and I can also guide it into the protected areas where the bass may be holding."

Eaker's favorite stream and river current lures include small spinnerbaits, crankbaits, and plastic worms. He particularly likes the soft plastic lures because he can hop them up and down along the bottom, or, by raising his rod tip, simply let the current wash them downstream at mid-range depths.

The outboard service experts at OMC recommend all boaters carefully check their propellers for bent blades and "dings." Even minor damage to a propeller can result in damage to gearcase bearings. Use a file to remove small burrs and nicks from aluminum or stainless steel props, but if a blade is bent, take it to a marine dealer for repairs. You may consider changing to a stronger stainless steel propeller if you regularly run your boat in areas with stumps, logs or shallow water.

State-Wide Organization Wins Award

On Saturday, September 7 during the "Spirit of Special Olympics" Awards Banquet, the Kentucky Department of the American Legion and the Kentucky Department of the American Legion Auxiliary received the Outstanding Organization-State Award. This award is given to the civic group or club whose efforts have significantly improved the Special Olympics experiences state-wide.

The American Legion and Auxiliary have for several years made a significant commitment to Special Olympics state-wide. Individual Posts annually support thousands of athletes through fundraising activities and provide volunteers for local and Area Games. The departments also coordinate efforts to support four Chapter events (Summer Games, Softball and Basketball Tournaments and Winter Games) by raising an average of $25,000 to lower fees for the athletes.

While the departments make a large contribution to Chapter Events, the real strength of their commitment is based on their ability to do so much locally. The American Legion and Auxiliary represents true state-wide commitment and impact on the Special Olympics program.

Blackcats converge!

The Prestonsburg Blackcats played the Belfry Pirates close in the first half behind some good defensive play such as this. However, it was a high scoring affair for the Pirates in the second half in their 48-20 win over the Blackcats.

Prestonsburg

scored three times in the period to open up a 34-6 lead after three periods. Chris Phillips jaunted 37 yards for a touchdown and Vargo added the extra point. Hager connected up with Keith Thomas with a 22-yard touchdown pass and then Phillips broke tackle and waltzed in from 42 yards for a 34-6 lead after Vargo added the extra point.

Belfry continued to score easily in the final period when Hager's toss to Thomas made it a 41-6 on Vargo's extra point. The Pirates scored their final touchdown and extra point for a 48-6 contest.

Prestonsburg made it somewhat closer in the final minutes of the game. On a short run by Garza, and the back's two point conversion, the score stood at 48-14. Then late in the period, Tucker hit Clark with a beautiful 63-yard touchdown pass for a final count of 48-20.

The Blackcat attack has been revived somewhat with the passing of Tucker. Tucker passed for 103 yards with Derosssett on the receiving end of three completions. Derosssett had receptions of 12, 12 and 16 yards for 40 yards receiving. Clark had the long 63-yard reception.

Hager had five completions for 123 yards passing. Like Derosssett, Thomas had three receptions for 79 yards receiving. Varney had one catch for 28 yards and Benji Burgett had one completion for 16 yards.

Prestonsburg picked up 17 first downs to Belfry's 13. Prestonsburg had no fumbles but Tucker was intercepted once in the game. Belfry fumbled the football twice and lost the ball on both turnovers.

Belfry was flagged 15 times for 160 yards in penalties while Prestonsburg was penalized 105 yards on 12 calls.

Prestonsburg had a good game on the ground rushing for 263 yards. Sophomore Seth Hyden led the ground attack for the Blackcats with 99 yards on seven carries. Hyden had 73 yards in the second half alone. Garza finished with 62 yards on nine carries. Garza had 66 yards in the first half but carried the football only once in the second half and was thrown for a four-yard loss.

Senior running back John Goble carried the football 15 times for 51 yards. Tucker showed that he could run with the ball also with 45 yards on eight carries.

Phillips was the leading gainer for the Pirates with 159 yards on nine carries. Phillips scored two touchdowns in the game as did Mark Carroll. Carroll managed 49 yards on eight attempts. Kevin Varney carried nine times for 86 yards and Tim Lucas had 43 yards on three attempts.

Prestonsburg falls to 0-4 on the season and will be looking for win number one against the Betsy Layne Bobcats this Friday night at Prestonsburg in a district match up. Belfry continues to stay unblemished with a perfect 4-0 mark. The Pirates will have a big one coming up this Friday night when they face the top ranked Class A school — Pikeville at Pikeville.

"IF THE MOUNTAIN WON'T COME TO YOU"

A contract dispute between the Floyd County Board of Education and its bus drivers threatened to cancel Friday night's football game between Wheelwright and Pikeville in Pikeville. With bus drivers out on the picket line, the Trojans had no way to get to the game. Pikeville officials weren't concerned about the revenue a home game would generate, they just wanted to play. So it was Pikeville going to Wheelwright and it was the Panthers coming away with a 47-6 win.

in putting on the pounds). But the biggest difference is the way Darrin feels about himself. "This time, I'm not so caught up in being 'the champ', Van Horn said. "It's nice when people call you champ, but I know what it feels like to lose the belt, and now I know what it takes to keep it." You can also start calling Van Horn "School Boy" once again. He's enrolled at UK where he's taking 12 hours this semester. Just what he needs to finish up his degree. Van Horn could make some big money by fighting in France sometime in November but right now it looks like he'll pass. Preparation and travel would cause him to miss too much school.

in Lexington last week. Pitino, who's never shunned the spotlight, wasn't doing this for the publicity. He tried to keep the team's involvement low-key, but all the coaches and athletes in the UK program are involved in a host of activities like this. It's stories like these that people need to hear more about.

"TRY, TRY AGAIN"

And finally, last week we talked about the parachutist who missed Commonwealth Stadium. Well, here's more of the same. Lexington Catholic played its first ever home football game Friday night, out back on the school's soccer field. Athletic Director Danny Haney decided to have the ball delivered via an "Ultra-lite" (it looks like a kite with a washing machine motor tied on the back). The fella who was supposed be piloting the craft and landing at 45 miles an hour picked up the ball, circled the field a couple of times and disappeared. So much for the best laid plans.

Keep smiling!

SECOND TIME'S THE CHARM

The other night I happened to run into Darrin Van Horn for the first time since he had captured another international boxing federation title. The first thing I noticed was Darrin's much bigger (eating smothered chicken, new potatoes and french fries at 11:30 at night will definitely help

Commentary

from our county principals whether to allow grade school basketball to start this week (Monday) or to push it back until October 15 and give grade school football teams a chance to get in some games.

The decision was to put the opening of the grade school basketball season on hold until the 15th. Our grade school kids now can concentrate on playing football because grade schools cannot start basketball practice until October 1. This gives football schools three weeks to get in as many games as possible.

Our high school football programs have begun to suffer and felt the affects of not having a consistent feeder system. Now, if they just get in five or six games that will be something.

Next year, the starting date will be known sooner and more games played. This is good. We need this. Our grade school football coaches and players need this. But more importantly it eliminates the kids having to make a choice between the two sports — something the parents in the county opposed.

With the later start of the opening of grade school basketball, the season will be extended into January. The Right Beaver Classic, that opens the grade school season, and was scheduled for this past Monday night, will probably get underway around October 15.

Basketball fans are disappointed over the decision but the high school football coaches are elated. There will be plenty of time for grade school basketball so let's allow our football teams a chance to play.

JARVIS RECALLS....

Dickie Jarvis was telling of the days when he was in the sixth grade (he cared not to remember how long that has been) and the "sort of Little League football" program that they had back then. Jarvis thinks that a revival of the Little League football program would certainly help our feeder system now.

"Back then they didn't play grade school football," Jarvis explained. "We had about four teams that were made up of fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grade classes. I was playing football when I was in the sixth grade and when we got to be freshmen, we knew how to play football."

Jarvis sees the current grade school programs coinciding together. "You could play a Little League football schedule in August and then in September the grade schools could play. We have Pop Warner football for the kindergarten through fourth grades — and we need Pop Warner football. Then they could go into the Little League football program and on through to high school."

Jarvis has an excellent idea. He is just one of many who is concerned about our feeder systems dying in Floyd County.

Eight NCAA Participants On Cards '91-92 Hoops Schedule

Eleven teams that competed in post-season tournament action last season and 16 home games in Freedom Hall highlight the 1991-1992 University of Louisville men's basketball schedule as released by U of L Director of Athletics Bill Olsen.

U of L's opponents won nearly 60 percent of their games a year ago, posting a collective 371-257 record last season (.591 winning percentage).

Eleven opponents on the Cardinals schedule participated in post season tournament play last season, including eight in the NCAA tournament. The list includes 11 teams that won at least 18 games and only five teams that recorded losing marks last season. Final Four participant Kansas is among the list of foes.

"Once again, I'm very pleased with the blend of quality regional and national opponents we have maintained on our schedule," said Olsen. "The quality of our non conference schedule is among the finest in the country."

"It's another typical Louisville schedule," said U of L head coach Denny Crum. "It's filled from top to bottom with tough teams, both home and on the road. We look forward to the challenge."

With all but one player returning from last year's atypical 14-16 unit and an influx of impressive newcomers, the Cardinals will open the 1991-92 slate with an exhibition game against the Cuban National Team on November 4, the first of 16 home games in Freedom Hall. U of L will also play a second exhibition contest against Athletes in Action on December 7.

The Cards will open the regular season at home for only the third time in head coach Denny Crum's 20 seasons, facing Howard University, a team guided by first year coach and former U of L great Butch Beard.

Following a December 5 visit to Notre Dame, the Cardinals will play six of their next eight games in Freedom Hall. Tulane opens the Metro Conference portion of U of L's schedule on January 4 in Freedom Hall. U of L will host the post season Metro Conference Tournament in Freedom Hall on March 13-15.

Complete television appearances and game times have not been finalized.

WDRB-TV (Channel 4), a FOX affiliate in Louisville, will televise over 20 U of L games through local origination and network participation. All U of L games will be broadcast on 50,000 watt clear-channel WHAS Radio (840 AM) in Louisville and other affiliates throughout the region.

Small World

by Aileen Hall

IN THE MALL — REALLY
Last week I wrote about a topic titled "In The Mall," an account of a letter from a faithful reader, Art Jones, who now lives in Lakeland, Florida. But and "I" got changed to an "I", and it came out as "In the Mall." So, this week I thought I'd tell about really being at the mall.

Jewel Conn and I were visiting with Helen Burke in Lexington a few days ago, and any three women can have more quality time together if they can also view the various displays of merchandise to be found in a mall.

Such visits include seeing other people — always many strangers, sometimes a celebrity and occasionally an old friend. The latter can really make your day, just as it did for me on Wednesday when I ran into Alta Leslie and her friend Ruth Dotson.

Alta, who was married to the late Dr. Edward Leslie, has lived in Lexington for several years, but many of her interests still lie in Floyd County where so much of her life was spent. She says she looks forward to reading The Times and the Small World I write about. So, in a sense, I get to write her a letter each week.

We hugged and inquired about each other's family before we progressed to sharing pictures of our grandchildren. Her three sons, Doctors Rondall, Larry and Keith, live in Prestonsburg with their families, as do many of her long time friends.

Alta is still recuperating from having open heart surgery, but she looks great and we wish for her — one of the most attractive and gracious persons I know — a complete and speedy recovery.

BACK SEAT DRIVER

Woody Conn of Betsy Layne is also recuperating from recent surgery. He's been slowed down a bit but, when he's feeling well, he and his wife, Ruby, enjoy being out and about. Woody usually does the driving, but Ruby helps him.

They were on their way to Prestonsburg a few days ago when Ruby noticed the outside mirror on the passenger side was at a wrong angle for her to see.

She looked around the dash for the control to adjust it. When Woody finally told her it was on his side she said, "Wouldn't you think they'd put it over here?"

"You'd think so," he agreed. "And wouldn't you think they'd put the steering wheel over there too?"

BYE AND BYE

Kenneth Hall tells about a young man who was arrested for a crime and hauled into court. He soon found himself standing before a stern looking judge.

"Young man," the judge stated, "this document says you've been caught stealing."

"Yes, sir."
"What did you steal?"
"Just this and that," he answered.
"What kind of answer is that?" the jurist demanded, "and where did you steal?"

"Oh, here and there," was his reply. "You are treating this court with contempt," his questioner declared, "and I hereby sentence you to a period in jail."

"Jail!" the prisoners exclaimed. "How long will I be kept in jail?"

With a look of satisfaction, the judge told him, "Let's say you'll get out sooner or later."

Kim's Korner

Pop Warner Football, as Ed predicted, is definitely "Hot."

My co-workers and family members look at me really weird when I say "Gotta go, got to get Tiff to football practice."

"Football practice?" they always ask.

Yeah, football. My youngest daughter is playing football. She loves it too! She's one of two girls on the team. Meagan Barber is the other girl and you should watch these girls run, block, pass...Hey, it's the 90s.

No wimpy girls anymore. The boys on this team are exceptional. They don't seem to have the least bit of problem with Tiff and Meagan being on the team. They are teammates. There is no, "you're a girl, that was a sissy pass," from these guys.

Can you imagine if Pop Warner would've been around in the 70s? I sure wish it would have been.

Although watching these kids practice is so much fun, I'm really anxious for the first game. Tiff's called her grandparents (all four sets of them) and notified them they have to come watch her game. Of course she has some aunts and uncles who can't believe their niece is actually playing football.

"She'll get hurt," one said. "No she won't, it's flag football," I consoled them. "It's safer for her to play football than ride her scooter here at home, you know."

"Oh well, I guess she's your child," I hear.

Hey, we've got the best of both worlds here. Ash is into cheerleading, dolls, you know, all the things little girls do. She's our sugar and spice and everything nice child. And then there's Tiff, our snakes and snails and puppy dog tails football player.

Who could ask for more? Hats off to all the coaches and everyone involved with the Pop Warner Football League! An experience our children will never forget.

Till next week...As Kasey Kasum would say, "keep your feet on the ground and keep reaching for the stars."

A tribute to "Ma" England

Ma is 96

Anne England Tackett ("Ma England") on her 96th birthday when she held an open-house at her home at McDowell recently. (photo by Ruby Akers)

by Docia Woods
Society Editor

When I first went to Caney Creek Community Center (now Alice Lloyd College), I hadn't known that it was possible to experience the homesickness that I felt.

Coming from Bonanza, on Abbott Creek, where we'd all known one another during our entire lives, and an atmosphere of humility and friendliness prevailed, I was completely unprepared for the different world I found at the end of that long, cold, rainy, journey of eight hours, in a covered mail wagon.

There, I met Alice Lloyd, from Boston, one of the most (if not the most) brilliant persons I had ever known, who, although she wore skirts and middie like the school girls, and twisted her hair on the top of her head, and showed no signs whatsoever of having "a proud bone in her body," was placed by students on a pedestal far higher than the tallest mountain in our beloved Eastern Kentucky.

Then, there was "June," from New York State — "a born leader, if there ever was one," who wore silk and satin dresses, adorned with heavy jewels, and, as the "Voice of Authority" for the school was so respected for her leadership ability that she was placed on a (unique) pedestal — not quite, but almost as high as that of Mrs. Lloyd's. And there was "Ma" England, who, after being widowed early in life, with a daughter and three sons to raise, had taken them to "Caney," where all of them had enrolled in school...she in high school, and the children in the grades. It was evident that "Ma" was a favorite of Mrs. Lloyd's and June's, both of whom she worked with closely, and, human nature being as it is, it would have seemed natural that she would appear a little superior to the rest of the students — a little "stuck up."

But not her. Wearing student uniforms, she could be seen everywhere — working in the campus laundry; checking students' rooms for neatness; going in and out of administrative offices; breaking up fights between some of the grade school boys; sitting in classrooms.

She was our link with the school administration, and I feel it was Mrs. Lloyd's and June's treatment of Ma and her children that caused me to begin to realize that those two women, who were trying to do so much for all of us, didn't want to be placed on pedestals, then C.C.C.C. started feeling pretty much like home.

And this feeling was nurtured throughout the years, as Alice Lloyd and June Buchanan sent clothes to my family and me, when Carl and I were students elsewhere, and Christmas "pretties" to our school children, and our Judy and our Susie were referred to by Mrs. Lloyd as "Caney's Grandchildren."

So...to the one, who as the photograph shows, recently turned 96 years young, I would like to give thanks for helping me to understand these two great ladies, who have meant so much to so many of us.

(After completing high school and two years' college at Caney, Ma earned a teaching certificate, and returned to her native McDowell, where she taught for a number of years — and got married again). Although her name is now Mrs. Anne England Tackett, she'll always be "Ma" England to me, and countless other Caney Girls and Boys.

Teens travel to Frankfort

Nineteen teenagers from the Floyd County Teen Center recently enjoyed a trip to the Kentucky State Fair, and the State Capitol in Frankfort. The teens earned the trip by putting in 10 hours or more of community service work. The center offers many other opportunities to all interested teens ages 13-19. September 27 from 4-6 p.m. the center will host an open house and a barbecue from 6-8 p.m. for teens and parents. A dance from 8-10 p.m. will follow for teens only. Teens everywhere are welcome. ### HORSE PLAY

While spending week after week enjoying these 1940s Saturday double-features, it looked so easy when Gene Autry did it. But, when I was 10 years old, my attempt to mount a running horse was nothing less than disastrous.

Maybe the fact that I was unfamiliar with (and even sometimes afraid of) horses added to my failure, but for whatever reason, I have scars (that I'll never show) to prove that a genuine cowboy, I'm not.

Back then, the roads in Thealka were dirt, and the one up Society Row that passed my house ended abruptly with draw-bars that bisected a fence that ran from the road to the top of the hill on both sides.

The acres and acres of this fenced-in property — sometimes called the Slaughter Pen hollow because the Northeast Coal Company at one time, probably in the 1920s, butchered beef there — now was used for, among other things, a place where folks desiring to do so could keep their livestock. As a matter of fact, we kept our cow there.

Also, every once in a while some men would come and clear from the black lane all the cans and bottles and trash that wouldn't burn and pile it in various places in the head of the Slaughter Pen.

Anyway, on the particular summer day I attempted my equestrian acrobatics, a couple of other adventure seekers my age and I discovered that someone had pastured a little brown pony in there.

I don't know if the pony was old or just a special breed, but he moved awfully slow and was so sway-backed that I actually thought his belly was going to touch the ground. We all knew that a real cowboy would never try to ride such a diminutive creature, but the three of us thought we'd try — if we could catch him.

We borrowed a short rope that someone had left hanging in the old dairy barn and set out on our round-up.

Now the trouble was that Sonny Stafford, an old gentleman who lived in town and always dressed in a suit and tie when he checked on his livestock, had recently unloaded about half a dozen high-spirited, full-grown, regular-sized and mean-looking horses in there, too. They were easily spooked and it was very difficult to get close to them. As our luck would have it, the little brown pony stuck with them like glue.

Our strategy became to separate — or as Roy Rogers would say, "cut out" — the pony from the rest of the herd. It took the better part of the morning, but we finally caught him sleepily grazing on the rich clover on the side of the hill and got between him and his protectors. We chased the other horses on up the hollow out of the way and finally got our rope on him.

Since we couldn't decide who would ride him first, we decided we'd all three ride at the same time.

I was to be the third to mount. Having a flare for excitement and the burning memory of how Rocky Lane had done it last Saturday morning, I decided that I'd stand on the bank above the path and as they walked him by, I'd simply jump on behind him.

Bad idea.

As I stood positioned, ready to leap, I imagined myself in black and white and wearing a ten-gallon hat. The smell of hot-buttered popcorn was in the air as Butch and Sundance approached.

Everything went well until they were about 10 feet away. Suddenly, the pony started to run, I guess I panicked, because as it passed me, I jumped — much too hard and much too high.

I sailed, slick as a whistle, over its back and landed bottom first on a pile of rusty tin cans and broken Clorox bottles.

In the process of looking back and laughing uncontrollably, both riders fell off. My memory of them rolling in the grass and laughing so hard you could have heard them all the way to town, still raises my ire. Didn't they know I could have been killed?

By the time we'd caught him again — not to ride him, but to get the rope off so no one would know what we'd done — most of my bleeding had stopped.

I decided right then, though, that I'd been better off had I not tried to imitate Rex Allen and Bob Steele and instead been one of the Dead End Kids.

Suffice it say that this brief youthful encounter had scared me for life.

Happy Birthday

Joint luncheon meeting held by DAR, SAR

John Graham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and Ashland Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution met Saturday, September 7, for a joint luncheon-business meeting, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, with the SAR acting as hosts. This luncheon is held annually during the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival to honor the late Edith F. James, founder of the festival which originated in 1941, under the auspices of the John Graham Chapter, but was dropped during World War II.

James B. Goble, SAR Chaplain, opened the meeting with a welcome, which was followed by the group pledging Allegiance to the Flag of the USA, with Virginia S. Goble, Chapter Registrar, reading several poems and a prayer before the luncheon.

Following the luncheon and introduction of members present,

Goble introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Thomas Matijasic, history professor at Prestonsburg Community College, whose address centered on the Constitution of the United States, emphasizing the Preamble "We the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union...do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America." (DAR chapters celebrate Constitution Week September 17-23 each year). Due to mailing difficulties, Dr. Matijasic will be presented with the SAR prestigious Good Citizen medal the latter part of September by SAR President, Ray Brackett.

Goble announced that the current Ashland President, Ray Brackett, had been elected to Kentucky State vice-president, that Stephen R. Brackett, Ashland Chapter secretary-treasurer had been elected Kentucky State SAR vice-president of Region 3, and that the next meeting of the SAR will be held in Paintsville in February with a Washington's birthday luncheon.

The John Graham Chapter will meet the second week in October with Maxine Bierman, founder and director of the Jenny Wiley Festival, as guest speaker.

Lamplighters meet

The semi-monthly meeting of the Lamplighters, Senior Adults of the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial), met in fellowship hall there, September 17, with the church's pastor, the Rev. Michael Taylor, in charge.

"S-M-I-L-E," "Praise Him," and "Jesus in the Morning" were led by Thomas Foy, Minister of Youth and Music, accompanied by Lisa Carter at the piano, and sung by the group.

The Bible study lesson, from Corinthians and Hebrews, was led by the pastor with the topic being, "Why do Christians Suffer?". It was decided that those who suffer can be of comfort to others who suffer, and that sometimes God lets Christians suffer to draw them closer to Him.

Present for this meeting were: The Rev. Michael Taylor, Thomas Foy, Lisa Carter, Lucy Regan, Ada Meade, Annabell Maggard, Vivian Fraley, Roberta Sloan and Maman Leslie.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, October 1, at 4 p.m., and a cordial welcome is extended to all to attend.

Jenny Wiley Festival Committee to meet

Maxine Bierman, director, and Imogene Caldwell, secretary, of the Jenny Wiley Festival Committee remind committee members and all interested in the Festival of the meetings held each Thursday evening, 6:55 p.m., at the Prestonsburg Municipal secretary, Mabel Donahoe; and treasurer, Dot Marshall. Other members of this committee were: Mabel Donahoe, Jane Wallace, and Lucy Regan.

Prior to the meeting, members of the host church, including Eileen Birchett, Mabel Donahoe, and Sandy Burchett served refreshments to Father Muench, pastor of St. Martha's Church, Lana Wicker, a guest, and these members from the First Presbyterian, and First Baptist (Irene Cole Memorial) Churches here: Sue Martin, Jane Wallace, Dot Marshall, Lucy Regan, Kay Hale, and Sarah Goble.

The next meeting will be at 10:30 a.m., the third Friday in November, at the First Baptist Church, here, and women from all the churches of this area are cordially invited to attend.

Jenny Wiley A.A.R.P. holds dinner meeting
The regular dinner meeting of the Jenny Wiley Chapter A.A.R.P. was held Friday evening, September 20 at the Highlands Regional Medical Center. Following the dinner in the cafeteria there, the group went to the Floyd Room, where, in the absence of Sina Blanton, president, Gladys Allen, vice president, presided. Orville Cooley led the group in prayer, and in the Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag.

The minutes were read by Shirley Callihan, secretary. Due to the absence of the treasurer, James Goble, the financial report was omitted. Orville Cooley gave a report on the "55 Alive" Driving Course, taught by Mr. and Mrs. David Campbell, of Lexington. He said that the course which was offered locally, was a very successful one.

Allen appointed the following nominating committee to select officers for the year 1991-92: Goldia Williams, Sarah Laven and Gladys Cooley. She read a letter from the Fitzpatrick Baptist Church concerning God's Food Pantry, which is located there, and its need for funds. The group voted to give $100.00 toward this cause.

Orville Cooley introduced John Jacobson, chairperson of the committee on Sales Tax for Medical Equipment. She stated that a recent sales tax law which was passed was very vague in its interpretation. She encouraged members to write letters to their legislators asking them to

Cabbage Patch

By Nell Harmon

It is about time to haul out the wheelbarrow, leaf rake and plastic bags for the fall crop of leaves. Try to think of stocking up rather than cleaning up this time around and see if the job isn't less bothersome. By using this years leaves wisely you will be rewarded with rich soil for spring planting.

Leaves' humus-building qualities mean improvement for any soil type. They aerate heavy clay and retain moisture in sandy soils to name a couple and pound for pound leaves of the yard type trees, maple, oaks, elms and etc. contain twice as much calcium, phosphorus and magnesium as manure. Who wants or needs manure on their gardens. A point to keep in mind, you can not get enough leaves!! Several truck loads will only produce a few wheelbarrow loads of compost. I find it is really much better to cover your garden plot with all the leaves you can get and plow or better yet till them into the soil where they can compost naturally over the winter months. This way all the soil will get some of them where you can not hope to have enough compost to cover the garden come spring. Each of us do have our own way of doing things, and of course we think we are right.

Leaves can be used in several ways; mulch, compost or leaf mold. They can be sheet composted, as I do, or they can be mixed with soil and used as potting medium.

To use leaves as mulch they can be used as you rake them up or they can be shredded first. Shredded leaves will not mat down when wet and they decompose faster than whole leaves. If left unshredded always place grass or sawdust on top to keep them in place so they will not blow away. Leaf mulch is especially good around berries, azaleas, rhododendrons and hollies, all acid-loving plants. These plants also need the protection given by mulch to live through a hard, cold winter. I expect to have one this year.

To produce a richer, more humus and fertile compost pile you need leaves more than any other item. They must be shredded to assure they will rot and become compost the first year. Sometimes if conditions are not perfect leaves will take up to 7 years to compost.

Leaf mold is an ideal summer mulch and less work than a compost pile. Shredded leaves need only to be dampened and packed into a wire, wood, or stone bin. As leaves are acid some ground limestone should be sprinkled on the layers as they are added to the bins. In three to six months you will have rich, crumbly humus mulch. If you do not shred your leaves you may have to wait up to three years for them to fully decompose. If you do not wish to use your leaves as mentioned above, you can run your lawn mower over them on the ground where they fall and bingo—you will not need to fertilize your lawn.

With so many ways to utilize your leaves, you can never have too many on hand. So stock up this year on leaves and insure a hearty return next spring. Also save work for the trash pick-up crew and money for trash or leaf bags for yourself. You can always find some one who will be glad to take them.

HOW WE'RE MAKING SURE KENTUCKY'S KIDS NO LONGER HAVE TO TAKE A BACK SEAT.

Currently, Kentucky's kids rank well below the national average in math. Our nation's average 13-year-old fares even worse - being surpassed by those in Ireland, the UK, Spain, Canada, Korea and Japan.

Fortunately, the wheels of reform are beginning to turn. Thanks to the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA), money has been allocated, programs put in place. Schools all across the state are gearing up to meet this enormous challenge. There's even a school bus that will travel the state as a mobile exhibit.

But to make any real headway, we need you to get on board. Because this is a bus that needs more than one driver.

To bring the mobile exhibit to your area, or to find out how you can get involved in supporting education reforms, please call: 1-800-928-2111.

Jumbo loans: One way to purchase expensive homes

Jumbo loans are the key to purchasing expensive homes for people who are either unwilling or unable to pay cash, or who cannot obtain alternate sources of financing, according to an article in the October issue of Real Estate Today, published by the National Association of Realtors. "Help the Well-heeled Borrower Get a Loan" explains that a jumbo is any home mortgage exceeding the maximum individual loan amount for mortgages sold in the secondary market to the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae) or the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. (Freddie Mac). Currently, the maximum for loans conforming to Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac standards is $191,250. Jumbos have been in existence since the late 1970s. Super-jumbos, created in 1988 in response to rapidly rising home prices, are loans for more than $600,000.

"Jumbos weren't designed exclusively for kings and magnates. Every day, 'average Americans' apply for such loans...in fact, in most major metropolitan areas where there are pockets of elite lifestyle, high-balance jumbo loan financing is active," says the article, written by Jim Gilcrest, executive vice president of American Residential Mortgage Corp. in La Jolla, Calif.

According to the article, the collapse of the savings and loan industry, along with the volatility of the banking system, have cut the number of lenders offering jumbos and made those who still provide the financing far more cautious. "In-depth verification of asset information and more documentation on creditworthiness are today's norm," Gilcrest says.

Wide fluctuations in property value over the past couple of years, including notable price declines in some high-end markets, are contributing to lender skittishness about jumbos, the article notes. For instance, most lenders will require two appraisals for loans in excess of $500,000, as well as interior photos of the home. Lenders generally offer jumbo loans with interest rates that are between 0.375 percent and 0.5 percent higher than those for conforming loans, and most require a down payment of 20 percent or more. The cash equity requirement usually increases with the size of the loan amount. For loans up to $500,000, a minimum down payment of 20 percent is required. For loans between $500,000 and $750,000, 25 percent down is required; between $750,000 and $1 million, 30 percent down is required; and, for loans exceeding $1 million, the down payment must be at least 35 percent.

Another factor that distinguishes a jumbo loan from a conforming loan is that the land value may exceed 50 percent of the total value of the property to be purchased. Requirements for loans sold to Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac generally limit the land value to 30 percent of the total value.

According to the article, lenders that keep loans in their portfolio generally have more leeway to make larger loans with greater risk. Jumbos and superjumbos can be approved with 30-45 days.

There is no set ceiling for jumbo loans; the limit is determined by the borrower's qualifications, the article notes. The larger incomes of jumbo borrowers can help them qualify for loans under standards that would disqualify lesser-income borrowers applying for smaller loans. As an example, the article compares one borrower applying for a $150,000 loan to purchase a $200,000 home with another borrower applying for a $750,000 loan to purchase a $1 million home. The first borrower has a gross monthly income of $4,800 and is applying for a 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage with a 10 percent interest rate. The second has a gross monthly income of $20,570 and is applying for a one-year, adjustable-rate loan with an initial rate of 8 percent.

The first borrower would have a monthly housing payment of $1,542.36, including principal, interest, taxes and insurance. Additionally, the borrower owes $500 per month in non-housing debt, raising his total monthly expenses to $2,042.36. The second borrower would have a monthly housing payment of $6,603.28 including principal, interest, taxes and insurance. His other monthly obligations total $2,140.00, raising his total monthly expenses to $8,743.28. In each case, the housing payment would take 32.1 percent of the borrower's gross monthly income, and the total monthly debt would take 42.5 percent.

Following spurt, home sales resumed sustainable pace during July

Following two months of extraordinary growth, sales of previously owned homes slowed in July, according to the National Association of Realtors. However, despite the monthly decline in activity, sales remained above the level posted one year earlier.

The association recorded a seasonally adjusted annual sales rate* of 3.35 million existing single-family homes nationwide last month, 6.7 percent below the June rate of 3.59 million units, which was the highest in two-and-one-half years. The July resale rate was 0.9 percent above the July 1990 rate of 3.32 million units.

NAR President Harley E. Rouda said the fact that home resales nationally remained above those of one year ago—before the recession took hold—is a strong indicator that the housing industry has firmed up in many areas. "The market is holding strong," he said.

July's sales drop from June must be "viewed from the proper perspective," Rouda noted, pointing out that July's resale rate was higher than that for each of the first four months of 1991. The flurry of activity occurred in May and June reflected strong consumer optimism about the economy and a push by buyers to take advantage of low mortgage rates and favorable prices, he said. "Buyers flocked to the market, causing sales to jump. However, sales spurts cannot last indefinitely. Now that some pent-up demand has been filled, the market is easing back into a more stable course of growth," Rouda said.

He noted that mortgage rates edged downward in July, following a slight uptick in June. The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. reported that the national average commitment rate for 30-year, conventional, fixed-rate mortgages was 9.58 percent for July, compared to 9.61 percent for the previous month. The July average mortgage rate was down by about one-half percentage point from one year earlier. NAR expect rates to continue declining in the months ahead. "We aren't looking for more sales surges. But, there are still plenty of people out there looking, and we do not expect sales to be steady," Rouda said.

The national median existing-home price was $103,000 in July, up 5.0 percent from the July 1990 price of $98,100, and up 1.0 percent from the June price of $102,000. The median is the midpoint—half the homes sell for more, half for less. The yearly increase in the national price suggests there is less pressure on sellers to lower their prices, Rouda noted.

"Given the increase in buyer demand last spring, home prices have started firming up," Rouda said. Generally, the highest-cost markets are the ones still experiencing soft prices, due to weak demand, Rouda noted. In July, the single largest percentage of existing-home sales, 9.6 percent, fell in the $100,000-$119,999 range.

On a regional basis, the Northeast posted the sole resale pace increase from June to July. The Northeast recorded a rate of 580,000 units, up 1.8 percent from June, and up 5.5 percent from one year earlier. The Northeast has experienced increases in resales each month since March. The median price there was $143,500 in July, up 1.4 percent from July 1990 and up 1.2 percent from June.

The July resale rate for the Northeast was the highest rate since December 1989, when the rate also was 580,000 units. Although some pockets of stagnation still exist, the region as a whole appears to have bottomed out, noted NAR Chief Economist John A. Tuccillo. "The Northeast is showing signs of life," Tuccillo said. "Buyers are coming back." Much of the activity is concentrated in the lower price ranges, he noted.

In the West, the July resale rate of 610,000 units slipped 1.6 percent from June, but jumped 10.9 percent from July 1990. The median price, $144,600, was 3.5 percent higher than one year earlier, but dropped 2.7 percent from June. According to Tuccillo, the high-cost markets on the California coast remain in a slow-down that began in 1990. However, rather than staying sluggish, those areas have the economic strength to start recovering by the end of the year, he predicted.

The South posted a resale rate of 1.27 million units for July, down 14.8 percent from June and down 3.1 percent from a year ago. The South's median price was $92,900 in July, up 4.6 percent from July 1990, and up 2.4 percent from June.

In the Midwest, the rate of existing-home sales dropped 3.3 percent from June to 890,000 units in July. The rate was 2.2 percent below that of one year ago. The median price in the Midwest was $79,700 in July, up 4.7 percent from July 1990 and up 1.8 percent from June.

Currently, NAR is predicting sales of existing single-family homes to total 3.40 million units for 1991, 3.1 percent above the 1990 total.

There were 2.44 million existing homes available for sale nationwide in July, representing an 8.7-month supply at last month's resale rate. The monthly supply number, down from a total of 2.53 million homes in June, is the lowest since January. The decline in the inventory of homes indicates that demand is beginning to catch up with supply in many areas, Tuccillo noted. "There aren't as many buyer's markets now as there are a few months ago," he said.

The National Association of Realtors, "The Voice for Real Estate," is the nation's largest trade association, representing nearly 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

* The annual rate for a particular month represents what the total number of actual sales for a year would be if the relative resale pace for that month were maintained for 12 consecutive months.

Seasonally adjusted annual rates are used in reporting monthly data to factor out seasonal variations in resale activity. For example, home sales volume normally is higher in the summer and relatively light in the winter months, primarily because of differences in the weather.

Property disclosure by seller helps everyone

The National Association of Realtors is launching a nationwide campaign to encourage states to establish mandatory seller disclosure laws.

In announcing the effort, NAR President Harley E. Rouda said mandatory property condition disclosure by the home seller, through the use of a standardized form, helps to ensure that everyone ends up satisfied after the closing of a home sale.

"Seller disclosure is in everyone's best interest. Sellers benefit because by focusing on the condition of their property, they are less likely to overlook a defect or material fact, for which they could later be held liable. Also, this procedure serves as a checklist for buyers, so their concerns about the property's condition are addressed on the spot. And, that may even help speed up the sale," he said.

Rouda said property condition disclosure forms also help real estate brokers and agents because they reduce the possibility of lawsuits against them if an item covered on the form was not correctly represented by the sellers. "Even if buyers do pursue litigation, an agent will spend less time, money and energy defending himself," he said.

At its recent Washington Mid-Year Conference, NAR adopted a policy to encourage state associations to develop and support legislation or regulation mandating property condition disclosure by the seller. NAR's State and Municipal Legislation Division and Office of the General Counsel have prepared kits to send out to state associations this month that include sample disclosure forms, general background information on the issue, copies of all existing disclosure legislation and suggested components of mandatory property condition disclosure legislation.

In the past few decades, consumers have become more sophisticated, and, more inclined to demand high quality products and services. With growing frequency, and with severe penalties resulting in some cases, disgruntled home purchasers are asserting claims against sellers and brokers involving allegations of misrepresentation, negligence or fraud. Today, brokers and sellers must be aware of such areas of liability, NAR contends.

The agent's duty includes the obligation to advise buyers of known material defects in a property. In some cases an agent may even be held liable when a property is discovered to have defects that the broker had failed to describe correctly, even though the agent's misrepresentation was unintentional.

Two-thirds of all lawsuits against real estate agents or brokers in the United States allege misrepresentation or failure to disclose defects. Standardized disclosures place legal liability for alleged misrepresentations about the condition of the property more squarely on the seller's shoulders. "It is right to assume that, as owner, the seller has the most intimate knowledge of his home. Therefore, seller disclosure elicits information from the party most able to provide it," Rouda said.

Rouda explained that while some sellers who are worried about complying with the law may end up disclosing problems even professional inspectors would fail to detect, most agree that over-disclosure never hurts. "In some instances such mandatory disclosures may kill a deal or two, but it's in the best interest of the consumer, as well as the real estate agent," he said. Mandatory disclosure may even be viewed as a sales tool because it gives the seller a market advantage over the competition. "Buyers know you've had to make fairly detailed disclosures about the house and have pledged that you're telling everything," Rouda noted.

According to Rouda, when it comes to purchasing a home, "let the buyer beware" no longer suffices. Rouda's firm, HER Realty, Inc., in Columbus, Ohio, requires all sellers listing with their company to fill out a property disclosure form.

Mandatory property condition disclosure forms currently are used in only two states—California and Maine. However, there are 10 states considering legislation/regulation that would mandate written property condition disclosure. They are Delaware, Maryland, Missouri, Nevada, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Wisconsin.

Some state associations, such as the Minnesota Association of Realtors, have written their own property condition disclosure forms for members to use on a voluntary basis. Ninety-six percent of Minnesota's members use its form.

The National Association of Realtors, "The Voice for Real Estate," is the nation's largest trade association, representing nearly 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.
