Surprise! Democrats sweep Floyd

by Scott Perry

With Democrats holding a 13 to 1 edge in voter registration, Tuesday's general election balloting in Floyd County was a predictable one-party runaway, offering no surprises and few friendly fires for state GOP candidates who wandered into the stronghold.

As expected, Floyd County's general election outcome was set with the finalization of the Democratic ticket in last May's primary, with only the final margins to be determined Tuesday. And, from the Governor's race down, Democratic candidates drew lopsided victories.

In the Governor's race Breerton Jones easily handled Republican Larry Hopkins in Floyd County, getting 10,294 votes to Hopkins' 1,442 tally. Jones won all of Floyd County's 43 precincts.

In the all-Eastern Kentucky race for Lt. Governor, Pike County Judge Executive Paul Patton topped Harlan attorney Eugene Goss by a 10,627 to 819 margin.

In the race for Secretary of State, Democrat candidate Bob Babbage shellacked GOP contender Dexter S. Wright by a vote count of 8,459 to 1,013; while Chris Gorman bested GOP opponent Tom Handy by a vote of 8,365 to 1,366 in the race for Attorney General.

For Auditor of Public Accounts, Democrat Ben Chandler breezed by Republican Betty Homes in Floyd

County, winning by a 8,329 to 1,202 vote margin.

In the race for State Treasurer, perennial politician Francis Jones Mills topped GOP opponent Don Bell in Floyd County by a 7,978 to 1,591 vote count.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction, Democrat John Stephenson eased by Republican challenger Donna Shedd by a vote count of 8,043 to 1,206; while Ed Logsdon easily handled Republican opponent Leonard "Buck" Beasley in the race for Commissioner of Agriculture by a margin of 8,136 to 1,180.

Finally, in the race for Railroad Commissioner in Kentucky's 3rd District, incumbent Democrat J.E. Combs thrashed GOP opponent Herman H. McGuire by a 8,194 to 1,123 vote count.

In race for Circuit Judge :

Stumbo is the choice

by Scott Perry
Times Editor and

Staff Writer

Floyd District Court Judge Harold Stumbo will move upstairs to the circuit courtroom in January after beating back a spirited challenge

Tuesday by Prestonsburg attorney Paul Burchett for a six-year term as Floyd Circuit Court Judge.

Stumbo will replace long-time Judge Hollie Conley on the circuit court bench. Conley has held the office for 30 years, but chose not to seek re-election this year. Stumbo's election Tuesday will create a vacancy on the District Court bench which, presumably, will be filled by special election next year.

In Tuesday's balloting, Stumbo won 37 of Floyd County's 43 precincts drawing 6,139 votes to Burchett's 4,139 vote tally.

Floyd County voters could have the opportunity next year to vote in yet another circuit court race if a proposal offered by the state's Administrative Office of the Courts is adopted. That proposal includes a recommendation that a second judicial circuit be created for Floyd County.

Over all Tuesday, voter turnout in Floyd County bordered on dismal with just 42 percent of the county's 27,784 registered voters going to the polls.

The first precinct to report Tuesday was Courthouse at 6:05 p.m. and the last in was Antioch at 7:40 p.m.

Allen man dies in auto mishap

A Floyd County man was killed Saturday night after he was thrown from a vehicle that overturned on the road near Drift.

Donnie Columbus Patton, 43, of Allen was pronounced dead of a fractured neck by Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson. Two other occupants, a 17-year-old male and a 17-year-old female, were taken to McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, Nelson said.

The driver of the Ford Ranger pickup apparently lost control of the vehicle, a Kentucky State Police news release said. It has not been determined who was driving the vehicle and no seat belts were in use.

The accident is still under investigation by KSP trooper Scott Hopkins.

Patton is survived by his wife, Betty Sue Bentley Patton of Allen; three sons and a daughter. Services were conducted Wednesday (today) at 3 p.m. at the Hall Funeral Home Chapel.

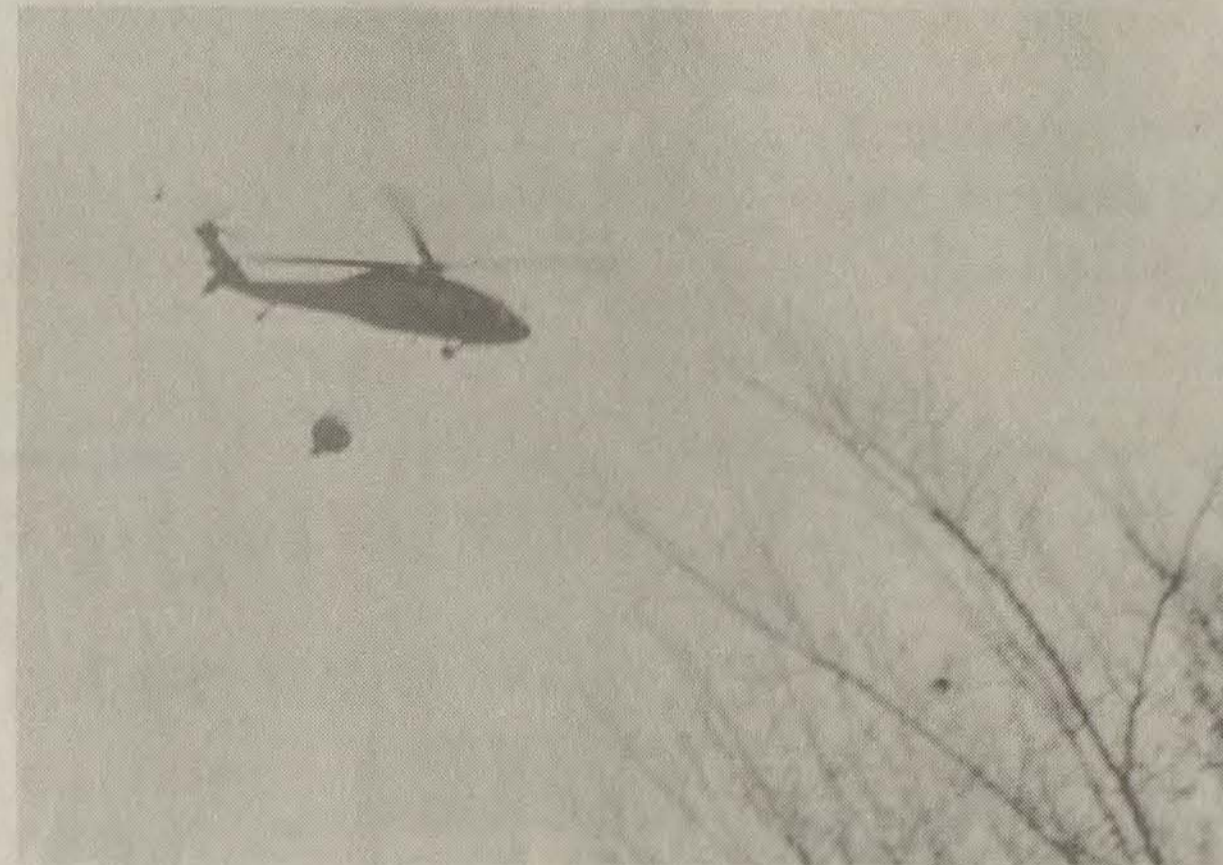

Area ticket sales soar

The jackpot for Wednesday night's Lotto Kentucky drawing has grown to a record high $42 million, and ticket sales in the 17-county region served by the Prestonsburg office of the Kentucky Lottery Corporation are soaring.

Regional lottery manager Jeff Riley said Tuesday that Lotto Kentucky ticket sales in the Prestonsburg region had increased by approximately 33 percent over the past two weeks, jumping from a total of $1 million during the week of October 20-26 to $1.33 million last week.

The Lotto Kentucky jackpot has gone without a winner for nine straight weeks, climbing to $42 million for tonight's drawing. Should a single winner hit the right numbers, the payoff would equal $2.1 million per year for 20 years. After taxes, the take would equal approximately $1.4 million per year for 20 years.

Water from the sky

National Guardsmen flew into Floyd County over the weekend to provide aerial support to help forestry crews bring under control forest fires in the area. Two choppers flew the skies over Prestonsburg Friday dropping 650 gallons of water each time they passed over. (photo by Mike Burke)

Cool weather aids firefighters but conditions still dangerous

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Forest fires in Eastern Kentucky appear to be under control, but extremely dry conditions still pose a threat to the brittle timberlands.

Steve Brackett, spokesman for the state Forestry Department, said Tuesday that a 10-acre fire at Tram in Floyd County and an unconfirmed report of a fire at Frasures Creek were the only fires the department were concerned with at the time.

"We still have several big fires in Floyd County, but those are burning down to control lines," Brackett said. "There's nothing else we can do to them. We have a crew at the Tram fire trying to contain it."

Fires in Pike and Johnson counties continue to burn and Brackett said those situations were also under control.

"Things are pretty well under control, but it's not a good situation," Brackett said. "It's not going to get any better until we get some rain or snow. There's still the potential for some pretty bad fires."

Two National Guard crews flying helicopters were in the area Tuesday afternoon to offer aerial support to ground crews if it was needed. Brackett said the National Guardsmen were in the area on a "one day at a time" basis unless the situation worsened. A 20-man crew from the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center was also on call if the need arose.

No hunting, no hiking

Stay out of the woods or go to jail was the message issued by Governor Wallace Wilkinson's office October 31. The emergency order, issued to avoid outbreaks of forest fires, bans entry or travel in wooded areas in 25 Eastern Kentucky counties, including Floyd.

Violators could face six months in jail and a $100-$500 fine, said Pat Able, legal counsel for the governor's office. Able said he did not know how long the ban will last. "It depends on the circumstances," he said, referring to the numerous forest fires currently blazing in Eastern Kentucky.

Sportsmen are urged to "curtail all activities in these areas due to the extreme risk of creating a fire," said Don R. McCormick, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Chief's home saved

Prestonsburg Policeman Anthony Castle warned police chief Greg Hall that his home was on fire Monday morning. Castle woke up Hall and his family after he spotted smoke coming from the attic. A quick response by the Prestonsburg Fire Department kept the fire from spreading. (photo by Susan Allen)

Principal sues superintendent

An elementary school principal filed a federal lawsuit last Wednesday against Floyd County superintendent Ron Hager and the board of education alleging her first amendment rights of free speech and free association were violated.

Maytown principal Lorena Hall claims in the suit that she was turned down to fill the Clark Elementary principal position because she failed to support Hager's candidate in the 1990 school board election and because she participated in the 1990 teachers' strike. The suit claims Hager told her in two separate "threatening phone calls" that her association with Bud Reynolds and other school teachers could affect her job status.

Hall's suit says that Hager told her, "Remember, as of July 1st (1990) I do the hiring and firing. It's time you and teachers realize I'm the one that does the hiring and firing."

Hager allegedly retaliated against Hall by not placing her at Clark Elementary and that she had more seniority and status than the applicant who received the job, according to the lawsuit. Hall claims she lost the opportunity for a pay raise by not being moved to Clark Elementary.

Hall seeks $1 million in punitive damages, compensatory damages for pain and suffering, an order mandating that she be hired as principal at Clark Elementary with back pay for lost earnings, and a trial by jury.

Passing patrolman spots fire

Prestonsburg Police Chief Greg Hall was undoubtedly surprised Monday morning when one of his policemen kicked in his door. That unannounced visit was to alert the chief that his house was on fire.

Policeman Anthony "Harpo" Castle was on his way to work Monday when he drove past Hall's home at Lancer Addition and noticed smoke coming from the attic at approximately 7 a.m., said Prestonsburg fire chief Tom Blackburn. Castle burst through the door and woke up Hall and his family to warn them of the fire, Blackburn said.

The fire was contained to the attic, and the downstairs area received minimal damage from smoke and water because Hall was in the process of moving and had most of the house's contents in boxes, Blackburn added.

A faulty heater fan in the bathroom caused the fire, the fire chief said.

Low turnout

Voter turnout at Tuesday's election was low with only 42 percent of registered voters going to the polls. Tuesday's election marked the first time in Floyd County that schools remained open election day. (photo by Susan Allen)

Kentucky Power Announces Rate Decrease for Customers

An $11.5 million annual decrease in retail rates for its 155,000 eastern Kentucky customers was placed into effect October 28 by Kentucky Power Company.

For an average residential customer using 1,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity a month, the decrease will amount to $2.12, or 4.1%, monthly. The amount of the decrease will vary according to each customer's use of electricity.

The decrease follows a settlement agreement between the Company and interveners in a case filed earlier this year by Kentucky Power, in which the Company asked that its rates be decreased effective April 1.

The Company's customers will also see a one-time credit on their bills between now and the end of 1991, representing the difference between the amount the Company actually charged its customers between April 1, 1991 and October 31, 1991, and the rates approved by the Commission as the result of the settlement agreement. For the 1,000 kwh monthly residential customer, the credit will be $14.84. The amount of the credit will vary according to the electricity usage.

"In a time when the cost of almost everything else is rising, we feel good about our ability to decrease our rates that we charge for this essential service in our lives," said Coulter R. Boyle, III, president of Kentucky Power.

He went on, "Our rates are 196th lowest among 215 electric utilities in the nation, according to a recent study, and second lowest in Kentucky."

He added that the Company's ability to lower rates was the result of several factors, including the dedication of Company employees, overall efficiencies in operation, the Big Sandy generating plant at Louisa being one of the most efficient producers of electricity in the nation, a change in Federal tax laws, and cost control measures of the Company.

Fires

Brackett said 150 fires were reported as of October 31 in the five-county district which includes Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin and Lawrence counties. Thirty-two fires were reported from November 1 to November 5, Brackett said.

Burning bans and an emergency order from the governor's office banning activities in state, county, city or private forest lands were still in effect Tuesday afternoon.

Brackett cautioned citizens that the ban was in effect and to be cautious about burning when the bans are lifted. Forest fire season ends December 15.

Former principal dies

Former Betsy Layne Elementary principal Enoch James Mitchell died Monday at his home in Grethel after a long battle against a rare blood disorder.

Mitchell had a blood condition that kept his body from producing sufficient levels of certain antibodies that are necessary to fight infections.

Six years ago Mitchell began receiving a blood transfusion every three weeks to keep his antibody level high enough to help prevent respiratory illness.

Mitchell taught 21 years in the Floyd County School system at Garrett High School, Allen Central High School and Betsy Layne High School. He was principal at Maytown Grade School and principal at Betsy Layne Grade School for eight years. He was also a member of the Floyd County Administrators Association.

Survivors include his wife, Janice Wolford Mitchell, two daughters, Jamie and Jerri Mitchell; and his parents, Earl "Hi" and Imogene Howell Mitchell of Grethel.

Services will be held Wednesday, (today) at 10:30 a.m. at the Hall Funeral Home Chapel. Burial will be in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel.

PSC approves rate adjustment

The Public Service Commission granted Martin Gas, Inc., a purchased gas adjustment to reflect a $3,984 decrease in wholesale costs from its supplier.

The average annual decrease per residential customer is $12.41, affecting September 1.

Advance Registration to Begin

Morehead State University will offer on-site advance registration for the spring semester Monday through Thursday, Nov. 11-14, at the MSU-Big Sandy Extended Campus Center in Highlands Plaza Shopping Center in Prestonsburg.

Advance registration by computers linked to the University's Morehead campus will be conducted from 4 to 6 p.m. each day, with advisers in business and education available to assist students.

On Monday, Nov. 11, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., an MSU admissions officer will be on hand to admit students who have not previously taken an MSU class.

Students who go through the advance registration process will be billed later for tuition and fees.

"We really want to encourage our Big Sandy Extended Campus students to take advantage of this opportunity to schedule next semester's classes in advance," said Dr. Roland Burns, interim director for the Big Sandy ECC.

"This allows them to be assured of getting the classes they want and it also allows the various departments sufficient time to add additional sections if demand warrants them," Dr. Burns said.

Course schedules for the spring semester are available now at the extended campus center. Classes for MSU's spring 1992 semester will start on Monday, Jan. 13.

Additional information on course offerings or advance registration may be obtained by calling the center toll-free at 1-800-648-5372.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

Had the opportunity Friday to serve on a news media panel as part of the Floyd County Schools Writers Workshop where a whole mess of students grilled us on our profession, asking some real pointed questions along the way. It's interesting to note there are so many young people interested in pursuing careers in writing and that many of them are already pretty good at it.

For the most part, the students who participated in the news media workshop seemed well prepared on topics relating to current events, asking how we would have handled the Anita Hill-Clarence Thomas situation or what our policies were on identifying the victims of sexual abuse.

We handled most queries as best we could, but one student left us completely stumped with his back-to-back questions...

"Don't you think that the press sticks its nose too deep into people's personal lives?" the student asked, "and, how much money do you make a year?"
Hmm.

Questions concerning the press and an individual's right to privacy always surface at media workshops and that seems to be among the prevailing issues when the public and the press meet face to face.

Where, most ask, do we draw the line between the right to know and the right to privacy?

We don't draw that line, you do. If you don't believe that, just look at what is one of the (if not the) most widely circulated, most read weekly publications in the good 'ol U.S. of A.

National Enquirer.
So, if the so-called "sleaze factor" in news coverage is so upsetting to so many people, why are sleazy supermarket tabloids so popular?
Inquiring minds want to know.

Now that the election is finally over, we can shift our attention to more pressing concerns like...um...the next election.

Kentucky has an election every six months whether we need one or not and the filing cabinets are now open for the next one...to be held in May.

Tops on that ballot will be a primary race for U.S. Congressman and some races for state legislative offices.

Just when you thought it was safe to go back into the water...

True confessions.

Despite our regular endorsements of his candidacy and our routine encouragement that you vote for the most qualified candidate for a particular office, we did not vote Tuesday for Paul Patton.

Hypocrisy?

To a certain extent, yes. We admit it.

But we were also concerned that Patton took Eastern Kentucky's vote for granted, that he expected us to follow him blindly because he is one of us.

Is he?

He says he is, but you couldn't tell it from this campaign because he obviously spent little time and little effort courting our votes.

Maybe four years from now, when Patton makes the expected jump to the race for governor, we'll be more important to him.

Only time will tell.

Time apparently will also tell who will be the winner of Kentucky's largest Lotto jackpot which, as of this writing, was equal to the general funds of many developing countries.

Maybe it's just a coincidence, but we've noticed a striking parallel between the size of the Lotto Kentucky jackpot and the frequency of TV ads on regional stations touting the services of psychics who claim they can read your future through the telephone lines for the low, low price of six or seven bucks a minute.

Get a jump on the lottery competition, dial 1-900- U-SUCKER today.

Better yet, just flush your wallet down the toilet.

Same difference.

All across America today, a grateful nation will pause to honor the millions of men and women who have so proudly worn the American uniforms of Freedom and Democracy. On Veterans Day we honor the living. Across the land on Memorial Day, thousands of graves will be marked with a small, but proud, American Flag, to honor our dead. These flags-snapping to attention in the wind-embolden the spirit of our fallen comrades, like soldiers in formation, the flags stand tall and proud.

In communities of all sizes, there will be patriotic parades, stirring speeches, and somber remembrances for those who participated in what President Bush has called the "Hard work of Freedom". It is entirely fitting on this day that we salute America's citizen-soldiers who have so bravely answered our nation's call to arms. The veterans of World War I-through the decades to the newest, youngest veterans of the Persian Gulf, Panama, Beirut and Grenada-from the bedrock of my pride. I shall salute them all on Veterans Day. For me, on Veterans Day this election year, the voices of mean-spirited, mudslinging politicians will fade. In their place will be the sound of praise and pride that echoes from the deeds of our Nation's Veterans.

For me, on Veterans Day, pictures of poverty and pollution, drug and crime, will be replaced in my mind's eye with those of the men and women who stood and fought proud for the greatest nation on Earth. The noise of chatter, traffic, and T.V., and radio grows quiet, and in that quiet I shall recall with reverence those who fought beside me and died. I shall recall with respect those who fought with me and were scarred by bullets.

I shall recall with Humanity those who were stronger and braver than me, and I shall recall-with celebration and joy-our nation's heritage of selfless sacrifice and commitment to the common good. On Veterans Day this year, I shall link arms with men and women of honor, who believe as I believe. We will shall in the fruits of our labor-living full lives in a nation bound by freedom and democracy. Yes, much in my life has changed. The lives of those with whom I served in uniform have equally changed, America has changed, grown larger and stronger and more diverse. Change is all around us, but for me, at the core of all this change, lies the unchanging, unyielding soul of American-her veterans. But let us also remember that once the guns of battle fall silent and the sabers no longer rattle, our government has an equally abiding commitment to those same defenders of freedom. A commitment, to all generations, that we must not allow to be forgotten.

It was so gratifying recently to see that someone understands the discrimination some of us on the fringes of Floyd county have suffered for so many years. I refer particularly to the recent reference in Scott Perry's "Coffee Break" concerning people in Floyd County not being able to call their county offices. This has been going on now for the last decade or longer. We not only cannot call our county offices, but we cannot call a doctor in McDowell, Martin, Allen, or Prestonsburg, or a hospital in that area. We are being charged for 911, but we get Knott County when we call it, and I know from firsthand experience their rescue squad will not transport anyone out of Floyd County unless that person was injured or became ill in Knott County. I cannot call my son who lives in Martin or anyone else below Hueysville. We also must purchase our cable TV from Knott County (the same people who have the telephone company). The sessions of the Knott Fiscal Court are taped and shown on the Hindman T.V. station, but the several times when I appeared before the Floyd Fiscal Court concerning problems in our area, it could not be seen on T.V. because it was not Knott County. If you think this is not discrimination enough, we also do not have city water on KY 7, nor a sewerage system, even though we were some of the first ones to sign up for city water. We have fought this discrimination for years, even seventeen of us going to appear before the Public Service Commission in Frankfort. I have correspondence several inches thick with Washington and with Frankfort, as well as with local attorneys. I do not blame the people who operate these businesses in Hindman. They are decent people operating well within the law and even give good service, but what I am angry and frustrated with is the system that would allow this. We were at one time on South Central Bell Telephone Company's service, but we were sold out by South Central. So, what can we do? However, I will say, "Thank God for small favors". We do have garbage pickup and the Floyd County sheriff recently gave us a toll free number to call. If you, Mr. Perry, would like to champion our cause, we welcome you with open arms, for we have just about reached our limit of endurance and run out of ideas on avenues to approach this problem.

Speaking for the Prestonsburg Rotary Club, we want to express our sincerest thanks to all the people who made our Fourth Annual "Safe Trick-or-Treat" event a huge success. Over 2,000 people walked the "Trail of Terror" at the Holiday Inn between 5:00 PM and 7:00 PM last Sunday without incident. Our hopes of a safe and festive Halloween for many children were fulfilled. As those who attended are aware, an event like this cannot be held without the sponsorship and participation of many individuals, businesses, and organizations. Our Club would like to use this forum to publicly thank all of them for their support. Most importantly, we want to thank our major cosponsor, the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn. They donated their public areas, 50 guest rooms, the banquet rooms, and parking. In addition, many of the Holiday Inn's staff volunteered to participate in the event without compensation. Without the support of this corporation and its employees, the "Safe Trick-or-Treat" would not be possible. Our Club is proud to hold our regular meetings in the facilities of an outstanding corporate citizen!

We want to thank the Prestonsburg City Fire Department and Carter Funeral Home for providing the "Haunted House." The firefighters donated their personal time to engineer and staff the scariest part of the "Trail of Terror," and Carter Funeral Home provided many of the props used by the Department. Without the "Haunted House," our event would be missing an important part of any Halloween celebration.

We want to thank the Prestonsburg City Police Department for providing traffic control and parking assistance. This was not a minor task when you consider the number of vehicles that had to be parked, and the already congested traffic on US 23 due to the resurfacing work that is in progress in front of the Holiday Inn. We want to thank the staff of God's Pantry, the teens of Champions Against Drugs and the Prestonsburg Girl Scouts. These people staffed many important positions throughout the "Safe Trick-or-Treat." They controlled the entry doors, they ushered and monitored the flow of the visitors, and they acted as "Haunted House" and "Trail of Terror" guides. The quick and safe traffic flow of the guests can be attributed to the efforts of these individuals. Finally, I would like to thank all the individuals, businesses and organizations who took upon themselves the challenge of dressing in costumes, decorating and staffing rooms, and providing treats for the 2,000 people who walked along the Trail. As we had 50 participants of this type, space will not allow us to list each of them here, but we do greatly appreciate your efforts. For some, this was their first year of sponsorship; we sincerely hope you will be with us again next year. For many others, this year was their second, third, or even fourth year of sponsorship. As always, we appreciate the moral and financial support each of you provides for this project. As a member of Rotary International, one of our Club's goals is to provide services to our community. We are proud to serve the community of Prestonsburg and Floyd County, due in a large part to the broad-based support we receive on this and our many other projects. Again, many thanks to all who participated in our Fourth Annual "Safe Trick-or-Treat!"

Sincerely,
THE PRESTONSBURG

Another call came from home last Monday night. Even though I am 1200 miles away from my little hometown of Melvin, my family keeps me informed of births, deaths, illnesses, and the happenings of the people I grew up with. The pleasant memories of these people often cross the miles and I still feel they are a part of my life. When Louise, my sister, called last Monday night, my first question was, "What's wrong?". I had talked to her for almost an hour just a few days before. She had just found out from my brothers that we had lost a very dear friend, Mary Jane Hall. The pleasant memories of Mary Jane and her little Home Store have been with me all week. She seemed like a part of our family. When I was home visiting my family for the summer I enjoyed going over to the store and chatting with her, maybe, that's why we seemed to always need something in the line of groceries. My dad was always telling me to buy what I could from Mary Jane instead of the bigger stores. Even though my kids only visited Melvin for three or four weeks during the summer, going to Mary Jane's store was definitely a highlight of the trip. Where else could you buy Dinosaur Eggs? Even at 16, that was a good reason to go to Mary Jane's. Everyone at home will miss her kind and caring ways. She always had a pleasing smile as she wrote down your order on a piece of paper and then counted it to be sure she had it all down. Justin and I will miss her when we return next summer. I am so glad she is on my list of unforgettable people. The community has lost a caring, thoughtful neighbor and friend.

Caught in the "eye of the storm" we might ask ourselves why the mayors of Prestonsburg and Paintsville want to cause problems for themselves by advocating closing Combs's Airport located in Johnson County. The less controversial way would be the easier way out, so why bother? Could they, perhaps, along with other concerned counties and groups, have a foresightness for the future of this area?

With a modern regional airport only minutes away from Combs, with two helicopter services available for the area from Lexington hospitals, is Combs the only lifeline for us all?

Some facts as I see them: Combs's Airport site was bought by taxpayers; our highways are bought by taxpayers. Thousands of us drive vehicles, pay taxes on those vehicles, and drive on those highways. Plane owners buy planes, pay taxes on those planes, and a few pilots use Combs runway paid for by all taxpayers. Fine, when this was our only airport, but why should taxpayers support two?

Suppose Combs control was turned over to the few who use the facilities. Would they, in turn, reimburse the cities or the counties or the state for the current market value of land and facilities, would they pay for houses newly-built that might have to be razed for safety's sake, and would they pay taxes to the cities/counties since the airport might serve primarily for personal or private gain?

Utilizing the field as an industrial park would seem more beneficial to all the counties as a whole. Now that cities and counties are working more closely as a unit, our end of the state has improved during the past few decades.

Wasn't the La Guardia Airport in New York City renamed Kennedy? Historically speaking, the name Combs's Airport could be transferred to the new airport.

Unforgettable Hallowe'en
This evening as our son Dwayne Rodebaugh and his family were taking their little son Joshua Michael "Trick or Treating," they were going through town at the traffic light and looked up this way toward Westminister Street and saw fire coming at the top of the ridge above his parent's house. They came up to tell us it was coming down the hill slowly and would be near our house around 10:30 or 11:00 p.m. tonight. He said, "Mom, I'll take my family home and be back. I want to be here to head the fire off to keep it away your house." So he came back and waited patiently for the fire to burn down to the swing up on the hill that his dad had built for him when he was 8 years old (it's still there, but the board has rotted out.) So Michael took a flashlight and checked out the distance in closeness of the fire to the house and then he went down the street where the fire truck was standing by, keeping watch on the fire situation on our street. He told Mr. Blackburn just how far it was from the house, and then we patiently waited for the fire to get close enough to get a back fire. At this point in my report, I must say we experienced a very unforgettable Hallowe'en her on "Rodebaugh Hill."

Their Lives Touched Mine

Time: 2:00 a.m. Friday morning, November 1. As I look down Westminister Street, I see the fire truck at the home of Mrs. Andrew Stephens and the firemen are up behind her house putting out the forest fire that came down from the top of the hill at 10:30 p.m. last night. As I watched the fire coming down the hill, I thought "What are we going to do?" Mrs. Rose Martin had called at 9:30 p.m. to tell me the fire was coming down the hill behind our house and I said "Thank you; I'll call the fire department." I did call and the man said "We are watching it to see that everything is under control." I told him it was not very far from our house and he said they would take care of it. I came back in the house and waited as the fire got closer. At 12:30 a.m. they came up to the end of Westminister Street and several fire fighters came in our yard while another one went on up the hill to start a back fire. I came in to watch television because I could not stand to see the burning of the hill behind my house. Soon I went out to see how they were coming along and sure enough they had everything under control and were going around the side of the hill to Mrs. Andrew Stephens' house to save it too. Yes, we are very fortunate to have these young men capable and dependable to save our houses during this forest fire season. I cannot praise them enough for such a job well done, and for being here when we needed them most. I really commend them for a job well done. One man, I believe it was Bill Bob Callihan, said he has slept only eight hours in four days of fighting fires to protect our homes here in Prestonsburg's area. We families here on Westminister Street owe a great deal of thanks and gratitude for a job well done, and I really say from the bottom of my heart, "Thanks" to Tombo Blackburn and the gang of firefighters for a job well done. As I look down the street, it is 2:30 a.m. and I see the fire trucks still on Westminister Street protecting the homes from the forest fire. I will be going on to bed now, but these young men will be going on to where there is fear of a home burning down tonight; so their job goes on. I just had to pause to tell our Floyd County Times readers that we really have a fire department here in Prestonsburg going on beyond the call of duty to protect our homes from forest fires. Thanks again fellows, for a job well done. We here on Westminister Street really do appreciate each and every one of you nice young men. Thanks from our hearts for protecting our homes and our lives.

UK science hotline links students with scientists

Thanks to a statewide science hotline for high school students, help with science papers and projects is only a phone call away. The hotline is a project of the University of Kentucky College of Medicine. Students, teachers and parents can dial the toll-free number for assistance on a wide range of science-related topics.

The hotline began operating in January of 1991. Since then, 350 questions have been called in. Most of the calls (84 percent) were from students, while four percent were from parents and 12 percent from teachers.

One third of the calls to the hotline involved high school science projects. Most questions tended to be about the physical sciences. Next in total number of calls received were botany and zoology. Other high demand topics were medicine, psychology, chemistry and earth science. The least number of inquiries was logged for mathematics.

Most of the calls to the hotline were from Fayette County residents.

The next highest number of calls originated in Jessamine County, followed closely by Pike County. Requests for assistance also were made by callers in Harlan, Lewis, Floyd, Jefferson, Bourbon, Mercer, Calloway, Scott, Whitley, Christian, Clark, Kenton, Knox, Madison, Pulaski, and Woodford counties.

Dr. Donald Frazier, professor and chairman of physiology and biophysics at UK's College of Medicine, coordinates the project. He takes most of the initial calls and answers the question himself or routes the request to a faculty resource person in another department. Frazier said that faculty involved with the project hope to encourage interested high school students to pursue careers in science.

"Science as a career has somehow developed a negative image that needs to be dispelled if it is to attract and retain bright young students," he said. "The hotline provides them with a direct link to people in science. This level of personal interaction has never been offered before and it is encouraging to see such an enthusiastic response."

Last year, Kentucky teachers' associations helped to promote the hotline. Now that the world is out, hotline experts anticipate a greater number of calls will be placed during the 1991-92 school year. Frazier couldn't be more delighted.

"Some of the teachers want to make campus visits and many are inviting us into their classrooms to talk with their students," he said. "It's a great way to reach future scientists."

Wayland Area Senior Citizens

The Board of Directors of the Wayland Area Senior Citizens met Monday, October 28, at 4:00 p.m. at the Center with Chairperson Elmer Morrison in charge, and with all but two Board members present; namely Ernestine Hall and Hobert Bates, both of Knott County.

Discussions on a rather lengthy agenda were held on such subjects as: Changing the location of the stove for better efficiency, acquiring a pool table for the Center and a vehicle for home-delivered meals, replacing outside doors, outreach visitation, inter-generational project, attempting to get some financial backing from Knott County since the Center serves both Knott and Floyd county seniors and has half of its board members from Knott County, and finally increasing the number of home-delivered meals.

The longest discussion concerned this last subject and several suggestions were made as to how to raise the necessary funds to increase the number of home-delivered meals. On at least two of the suggestions Big Sandy ADD will get back to the Board to advise the possibility of being able to follow through on these ideas.

The next Board meeting will be held November 19, at 4:00 P.M. at the Center.

Those present at the October 28 meeting were: Morrison, Jerry Fultz, Shirley Martin, Libby Martin, Odis Perry, Lula Ratliff, Dewey Hall, Ena Mills, Mattie Gibson, and James Whited and Bonnie Hale of Big Sandy ADD and the van driver, Linda Webb.

Regional Medical Center spoke on Medicare and Medicaid. There were thirty-four in all present for the dinner.

A Thanksgiving covered dish dinner will be held on Friday, November 22. Flu shots will be given at the Center at a minimal cost on November 6. If anyone desires to be a part of the membership of this Center or needs information, please call 358-4161.

Fourth Annual Big Blue Crush

Central Kentucky Blood Center is seeking revenge in this year's Big Blue Crush. The Fourth Annual Battle For Blood between the Kentucky and Tennessee Blood centers takes place November 18th through 22nd. Tennessee currently leads the series two wins to one; however, the Volunteers must travel to Kentucky to defend their title giving UK the home field advantage.

Central Kentucky Blood Center officials are hoping a record number of Big Blue fans will donate blood during the competition to ensure an adequate blood supply will be available for hospital patients over the Thanksgiving holiday and into December. According to CKBC Chief Executive Officer Jim Spiker, the low number of blood donations collected during last year's event proved to be a contributing factor in the blood shortage which occurred last December. "Big Blue Crush" was created to involve blood donors throughout Kentucky and Tennessee in the spirit of competition. We enjoy this yearly event and relish the thought of sending Tennessee home empty-handed; however, our number one priority is to supply blood to area hospitals and clinics so that appropriate care may be given to those patients requiring blood transfusions. We need the help of volunteer donors to do that."

Blood Center officials in Knoxville, TN have already predicted another win over Kentucky. CKBC officials have set a goal to collect 2,000 pints of blood, tie the series, and send Tennessee home in defeat.

Anyone who would like to help "crush" the Big Orange is asked to donate at The Prestonsburg Donor Center located at The Municipal Building on North Lake Drive on November 19, 20, and 21st. The hours are from 11:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. All donors will receive a stadium cup with Pepsi, and "I Bleed Blue" button. If you would like more information about a CKBC mobile site in your area or about donating blood, call Central Kentucky Blood Center at 1-800-432-9528 or Georgia Sanders at 886-1557.

Phi Kappa Phi Awards Scholarships

Morehead State University's Phi Kappa Phi honor society recently held its scholarship banquet at which $159 scholarships were presented to five MSU sophomores who have demonstrated academic excellence. The recipients, flanked by Dr. Vicente Cano, left, professor of Spanish and PKP president-elect, and Dr. Wade Cain, right, assistant professor of chemistry, PKP president, are Crystal D. Stanley of Sidney, a pre-law major; Michelle I. Depoy of Allen, mathematics major; Tracy A. Melton of Louisville, journalism major; Melanie R. Culbertson of Salyersville, English and journalism major; and Chadwick N. Smith of Milford, Ohio, Spanish major. The five recipients had a 4.0 grade point average during their freshman year.

UK device helps identify stolen tobacco

Tobacco thieves: watch out. University of Kentucky agricultural engineers are encouraging farmers to mark their bales of tobacco with a device they've developed that is positive proof of the bale's ownership.

"After a rash of thefts several years ago, we developed a device that allows farmers to mark their bales, rather inconspicuously. The device embosses tobacco leaves that are then scattered throughout the bale," said George Duncan, Extension agricultural engineer with the University of Kentucky.

By embossing leaf prices and scattering them throughout the bale, valid evidence is put into the tobacco that a thief usually will not take time to search for. Law authorities can find and use the embossed tobacco as valid proof of ownership, Duncan said.

Already this year in Hart County, thieves have stolen 12 bales of tobacco from producers, according to Hart County sheriff Charles Lisenby. A 100-pound bale would be valued at about $180.

"The thieves have started early this year. Last year, we had several thefts, but they occurred closer to market time. We convicted two persons for theft of tobacco, even though in neither instance was the tobacco marked. Proof of ownership is the important part of tracing the tobacco from theft to sale," Lisenby said.

The marker Duncan and his colleagues developed consists of a build-your-own, hand-operated device that holds 1/2 inch engraved aluminum numbers to emboss the tobacco.

Plans for making the marker are available from county Extension agents throughout the state, he said.

Although identifying the tobacco is a first step in recovering stolen bales, Duncan suggested that producers also take measures to keep the tobacco from being stolen.

As soon as tobacco is baled, it is a good idea to take it directly to the warehouse, even if the market is not open. Most warehouses guard tobacco in storage.

"If that's not possible, place those bales in areas where they can be watched closely until they are marketed. A barn on an abandoned farmstead is an invitation for thieves," he said.

In addition, put a strong lock on the barn to help deter thieves. Although most barns are difficult to secure tightly, a lock may help prevent an easy theft, he said.

Morehead enrollment on the rise

Enrollment at Morehead State University's regional locations has grown by 53 percent since 1988, according to figures released by the University.

This fall's off-campus enrollment of 2,110 also reflects a 10.4 percent increase over the 1990 fall figure of 1,911.

The number of class offerings since 1988 have more than tripled, increasing from 80 courses in 1988 to the current 128 offered this fall, according to Dr. Marc Glasser, MSU dean of graduate and extended campus programs.

"With designation of three of our regional sites as extended campus centers by the Council on Higher Education, we are now offering more courses in specific degree programs," Dr. Glasser said.

"The growth in the number of students taking classes at our off-campus locations, I believe, is an indication that we are striving to meet the needs of our service region," he added.

Enrollment at MSU's Big Sandy Extended Campus Center has more than doubled since 1988, growing from 296 then to 644 students this fall. At the Licking Valley Extended Campus Center in West Liberty, the number of students enrolled has more than tripled, increasing from 156 in 1988 to 517 this fall.

Since the mid-1980s, MSU officials have been working closely with community colleges in Ashland, Maysville and Prestonsburg and with Lees College in Jackson to identify student needs.

Currently MSU offers upper division coursework leading to undergraduate degrees in elementary education, accounting and management along with graduate programs in education and business at its Ashland Area Extended Campus Center.

At the Big Sandy Extended Campus Center in Prestonsburg, two plus two programs have been approved by the CHE in elementary education, accounting, management and nursing, as well as six graduate programs in education.

MSU's Licking Valley Extended Campus Center, just designated this fall as an ECC by the CHE, originally opened as a regional site in 1987 to serve residents of the area and both employees and inmates of the Eastern Kentucky Correctional Complex. In addition to its various undergraduate courses, Licking Valley also has been approved to offer the associate degree in university studies.

WHAT HAPPENED
FRIDAY NIGHT?

The incident that took place at the start of the second half of the football game between M.C. Napier and Prestonsburg was a very unfortunate thing. Something like that does not belong in any sport. But it seems lately that tempers flare over the least little thing.

I believe that Steve Dixon is a fine running back for the Navajos and perhaps he is a calm young man most of the time. I don't know, because I don't know him except for seeing him on the football field. But he had no reason whatsoever to make the "hit" he did after the ball had been blown dead.

The fighting that took place at the time was uncalled for and I think more restraint should have been shown on both sides of the football field. It was an ugly sight that marred the meaning of the game.

Another incident that took place right in front of me that was very unnecessary was when two Napier players took Dwayne Garza out of bounds, and even though the whistle had been blown they proceeded to take Garza against the concrete wall and he could have been hurt. I certainly believe the incident was intentional as there is quite a bit of room between the out of bounds line and the concrete wall that holds the stands.

It was easy to see that tempers were high and someone wanted to hurt someone else. That's sad in high school athletics.

You had to keep watching every hit from the defensive side of each team and wonder when it was going to break out again. I'm thankful the fans did not get too involved in the incident although some did.

I hope it doesn't happen again. It doesn't belong.

MCDOWELL/MAYTOWN GAME STILL ON

What was thought to have been the cancellation of the basketball games between McDowell and Maytown grade schools was only a change in scheduling. The change came about because of a scheduling conflict with one of the teams. The game between McDowell and Maytown on November 7 has been changed to November 8. The December 16 game remains the same.

ONE YEAR AGO THURSDAY...

Floyd County lost one of the finest coaches to coach girls basketball. It doesn't seem like it has been a year since Judy Eversole passed away. I know that several people that I have talked with haven't forgotten and the popular coach is still missed. Judy had the only 58th District girls basketball team to ever go to the state tournament when she was coaching at Allen Central.

CHRIS ALTMAN'S COLUMN ON DEER SEASON A MUST!

Be sure to read Chris Altman's Wildside in today's sports section. It is very interesting concerning the deer season being put on hold because of the forest fires. It is a must for all you deer hunters.

JUNIOR PRO DIRECTORS

If you have your league schedule ready and are currently playing games in your league, would you please send us a schedule of games. Also each league should appoint a PR person to see that all the games are turned in here at the paper and we will print the results. I will try and get by on game day for pictures to run with the stories. If you want them published please report them.

WE HOPE THE BLACKCATS GO A LONG WAY

It's high school playoff time in football and the Prestonsburg Blackcats will face Mason County this Friday night. The game time is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. instead of 8 p.m. It has been a good last six games for Prestonsburg and I see no reason why they can't make it seven straight. Mason County is a big team that likes to run at you. We will have a preview of the upcoming game in Friday's sports section.

The more I watch this team play the more confidence I see in them. They never quit and want to go on and on and on. The Blackcats are a fine group of young men and we wish them the best in Friday night's encounter with Mason County.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Support the Blackcats!

Benches Empty As Brawl Breaks Out, Napier's Dixon Ejected

And the beat goes on for the Prestonsburg Blackcat football team. It was more like a foot "brawl" game as the Blackcats met on the M.C. Napier end of the field very early in the third quarter for a round of fistcuffs. After the two teams crowded onto the field, fans and parents followed suit as referees, county deputies, city police and coaches tried to restore some kind of order in the melee. Oh, Prestonsburg won the game 44-20.

M.C. Napier's outstanding tailback, Steve Dixon, was ejected from the game for what officials thought was an unnecessary hit of John Thomas Clark. The whistle had sounded, stopping play when Dixon made contact with Clark. Once Dixon hit Clark the benches cleared and fights were going on at different spots on the field. Parents and fans became involved when the incident got out of control.

The unfortunate incident occurred after Jody Cornette had taken the opening kickoff of the second half 62 yards for a touchdown to give Prestonsburg a 21-14 lead. Clark added the extra point for a 22-14 score. On the kickoff to Napier, the ball was blown dead and the ruckus ensued.

The game was delayed for approximately 20 minutes while referees and coaches along with Prestonsburg principal Bob May, conferred on the side lines. The two teams were taken off the field and given instructions from their coaches and then play was resumed with 11:36 remaining in the third period. While tempers were still hot, no other incidents occurred.

The 44-20 victory over the Navajos gave Prestonsburg sole possession of first place in District 2 and home field advantage in the upcoming playoffs next Friday when the Blackcats host Mason County (a 28-14 winner over West Carter). Mason County finished fourth in the District 1 standings with a 6-4 overall record Brought down...

But not before picking up some good yardage. John Goble (44) of Prestonsburg rushed for 92 yards for the Blackcats against M.C. Napier in what turned out to be a title game. The Blackcats stopped the Navajo's (photo by Ed Taylor) and 4-3 in district play. The win also ensured the Blackcats a winning season after struggling in their first four games. It was the sixth consecutive win for coach Bill Letton's ball club.

The 62-yard TD run by Cornette gave Prestonsburg the lead for good. Cornette took the kick off and seemed to be trapped by a pair of Navajo defenders but broke free and went on a sweep to the left side where he found a lot of real estate to run in. A good down field block by Brian Horn opened the hole the fleet-footed Cornette needed and he was off to the end zone.

The night did not start to well for the Blackcats. M.C. Napier scored on their first possession of the evening. Before a play could be run for the Navajos a penalty flag was thrown for an illegal procedure call. On a second-and-fifteen play, Napier's leading rusher, Steve Dixon, jaunted 14 yards bringing up a third-and-one. A second 5-yard penalty set the Navajos back on their 38-yard line. But Mark Dixon hit Scott McAlannis with a 13-yard pass for a first down on the Prestonsburg 49-yard line. Sam Mullins, who had an outstanding game, on a sweep, raced 49 yards for the touchdown and Steve Dixon ran the conversion for a 8-0 Napier lead with 9:34 remaining win the first period.

The Blackcats had their drive interrupted when Steve Stollings intercepted an Aaron Tucker pass on the Blackcats 46-yard line and returned the ball to the 39. However, the Navajo's were unable to move the football and were forced to punt. The ball slipped out of Mullins hands on the punt and he was forced to run. Mullins was brought down by the Blackcat defense on the Napier 40-yard line giving them excellent field position.

The Cats wasted no time to take advantage of their field position as they scored what appeared to be a touchdown when Tucker hit Jason Crisp with a pass. However, the score was called back after offsetting penalties were assessed both clubs. The ball remained on the Napier 4-yard line where Clark, on a reverse, ran the ball into the end zone and, on a keeper, Tucker scored the two-point conversion to tie the game at 8-8.

When Napier was forced to punt with 40 seconds remaining in the first period, the ball took a Prestonsburg bounce and landed on the Napier 28 yard line where Prestonsburg took over. Tucker went back to throw to Clark and the ball was picked off at the Napier 7-yard line by Mullins to stall out the drive.

With 4:19 remaining in the first half, Mullins took the ball on a sweep and ran 64 yards for the touchdown to put the Navajo's in front 14-8. The lead was short lived as Tucker hit split end Jason Crisp with a 48-yard touchdown pass and Clark's point after touchdown (PAT) was good to put the Blackcats up 15-14 at the half.

After all the confusion had settled down in the third period, John Goble scored for Prestonsburg from 1 yard out and Tucker scored the two-point conversion to put Prestonsburg in control 30-14.

Napier put together a nice drive of 50 yards to close the score to 30-20 on Mark Dixon's 3-yard keeper with 54 seconds to go in the third stanza.

On the ensuing kick off, Seth Hyden took the pigskin and, with good blocking, led by Dwayne Garza, he galloped 78 yards for the score and Clark kicked his third PAT as the Blackcats took a commanding 37-20 lead.

The final score came in the fourth quarter on a 3-yard run by Garza with 7:05 remaining. Clark hit his fourth PAT of the game.

Prestonsburg totaled 409 yards offensively. The Blackcats rushed for 169 yards on 29 carries. Tucker was (See Blackcats, B 7)

Bobcats Fall To Cardinals 41-0 In Season Finale

For the Betsy Layne Bobcat football team, it wasn't the type of year they had hoped for at the start. The Bobcats finished the season this past Friday night after dropping a 41-0 shutout to the playoff bound Sheldon Clark Cardinals. The district win, the seventh of the season for the Cardinals, gave them a 9-1 overall mark. Their lone loss was to Prestonsburg. Betsy Layne finished the season with a dismal 1-9 record and a 1-6 district mark.

The game was plagued with turnovers from both teams—more so for the Cardinals. Sheldon Clark fumbled the football five times in the game and lost the ball five times.

Sheldon Clark scored in each of the four quarters with Donnie Slone and Neil Parson leading the scoring parade for the Cardinals. Slone scored on a 67-yard run in the second period, and then again he scored the final TD of the game on a 2-yard run with 1:55 remaining. Parson had scoring runs in the fourth quarter when he ran the ball in from 5 yards out with 11:01 remaining and scored again at the 7:16 mark on a two-yard run.

The Cardinals' first touchdown came in the first quarter when Shawn King intercepted an Adam Roberts pass and returned the football 52 yards for the score. Christian Damron added the extra point for a 7-0 Cardinal lead.

Betsy Layne's defense, the area of improvement for the Bobcats this year, was tough on the Cards as they were guilty of the multitudes of fumbles. Sheldon Clark led at the half 14-0. Betsy Layne squandered a chance of their own to score late in the second quarter. After recovering a Cardinal fumble, the Bobcats drove to the Sheldon Clark 15-yard line where they stalled out. With 3:00 showing on the scoreboard, Greg Hunter missed a 32-yard field goal attempt.

Sheldon Clark led 21-0 after three quarters and scored three times in the final period.

The first quarter, before Sheldon Clark scored, was a series of turnovers. First, Sheldon Clark fumbled the football. On the next possession, they were intercepted by Doug Hammond. Then Betsy Layne fumbled the football back to the Cardinals and finally, the interception by King for the score.

After the game with the Cardinals, several awards were passed out to the Bobcat players. Named winner of the offensive award was Reggie Hamilton. The defensive award went to Chad Wilson.

Jamie Kidd was chosen as recipient of the rushing award. Best Receiver went to Randy Woods and Kidd was named the most valuable player.

Defensively for the Bobcats, Kidd led the defensive side of the line with 12 tackles including seven solo hits. Clyde Bush had a good defensive outing with six solo hits and four assists. Mike Damron had eight tackles with six solos. Wilson and Paul Daniels each had seven hits with four solos.

The Bobcats were forced to use their third quarterback of the season when back up quarterback Adam

Jenkins Scores 23 Points In 57-33 Martin Win Over Duff Bulldogs

Martin, using a pressing 3-2 zone defense in the first half, caused the Duff Bulldogs all sorts of problems en route to a 57-33 win in grade school basketball Monday night at Martin. The win was the eighth for Purple Flash without a loss.

Seventh grader Thomas Jenkins tossed in a game high 23 points to lead Martin in scoring. Jenkins using his quickness inside scored easily against the Bulldogs. Kevin Robinson added 12 points for Martin while C.K. Dingus scored 10 points.

Martin outscored the visiting Duff team 20-1 in the opening minutes of the first quarter as Duff turned the ball over on four consecutive trips up court against the Purple Flash press. Jenkins and Robinson scored six points each in the run. Jenkins got his points in the middle thanks to some good passing from guards Robinson and Beau Tackett. But the big Martin center didn't get all on passes underneath. He controlled the offensive backboards and had several put backs.

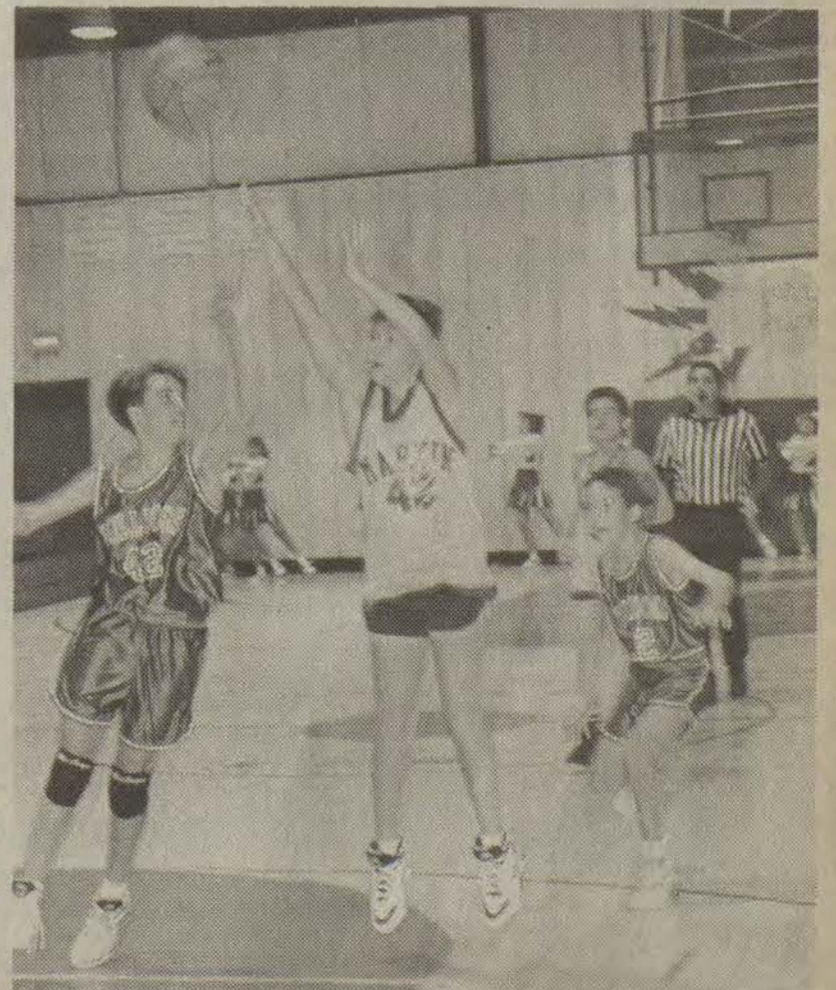

Martin ran the break all night against the Bulldogs moving out to a 22-4 first quarter lead and building a 37-7 half time advantage. The Flashes scored the first eight points of the second period and went on a 15-3 tear in the second stanza.

Both teams played on even terms in the third period and Duff showed some signs of coming back against Martin in the fourth quarter when Martin coach Doug Derosssett ran in his "B" team players. The Bulldogs went on a 12-2 run and cut the lead to 19 points, 47-28. Matt Crawford got the Bulldogs rolling in the fourth quarter with a short base line jumper.

Kyle Turner came back with two free throws and then hit a lay up to make it 47-23. A basket by Duff and Brad Allen's free throw cut the lead down to 21, and the lead went to 19 on a basket by Jason Osborne. Duff had a chance to cut into the lead more, but Jeremy Osborne hit only one of four

Wheelwright Has .500 Season; Falls To Elkhorn City In Season Final, 42-6

The season has ended. The regular high school football season has officially come to an end for the Wheelwright Trojans. It was a successful season for Donnie Daniels' ball club despite not having achieved a playoff spot this coming Friday. The Trojans finished at 5-5 on the year after losing their final home game 42-6 to a good Elkhorn City team. It was a night that the Wheelwright faithful said good bye to the departing seniors.

"I'm happy with the season we had," said coach Daniels of his team's record. "When the season started I thought we had a chance to win four games. I thought that we might be able to play with some of the other teams. We played Johns Creek tough here at home and held them scoreless in the second half."

The Cougars outstanding running back Eddie Morton used the game to get tuned up for his team's upcoming playoff encounter with Hazard this Friday night at Hazard. Morton carried the football 25 times in rushing for 214 yards. That put Morton over the 1,000 mark in rushing for this season. He finished the regular season with 1,039 yards.

"Elkhorn is a big team and we were not able to physically stay with them," explained Daniels. They were so much bigger than we were and we weren't able to tackle their backs."

Wheelwright made some mental mistakes that cost them the opportunity to score twice. The Trojans had a punt return for a touchdown that was called back because they had 12 players on the field. And they also fumbled the football on the 4-yard line with Elkhorn recovering.

"I feel our players were caught up in other things," said Daniels, "and weren't ready to play this game. It was senior and parent night and their minds must have been on that."

Wheelwright's lone score came on a 64-yard touchdown run by Steven Jackson in the fourth quarter. Coach Daniels played his junior varsity squad most of the fourth quarter.

"I had a good JV team this year," stated Daniels. "They were 6-1 and we have some very good players coming back next year."

Elkhorn took a 8-0 lead in the first quarter on a 1-yard run by Kevin Rose. Morton ran the two-point conversion. The Cougars scored three times in the second period to take a 28-0 halftime lead.

"I got onto my players pretty hard at halftime," commented Daniels. "I asked them if they were quitting on me. The second half we came out and played much better."

The Trojan defense held the Cougars scoreless in the third period but gave up two scores in the fourth period. Joe Williams scored on a 4-yard run and William Hodge finished the scoring on a 5-yard jaunt and Fraley ran the two-point conversion.

Elkhorn carried the football 54 times for 391 yards rushing. Rose was three of seven passing for 52 yards. The Cougars collected 19 first downs and had one interception.

"I've enjoyed the year. It has been a fun year," said Daniels. "It was good to see the kids get excited again about football. They gave it all they had and I was real pleased with them. They never did quit."

Daniels is looking to next year with the possibility of the new school being in place and getting more players from McDowell. Daniels said that there is a chance that he could get nine or 10 players out of Osborne grade school and looks forward to a good season next year.

"I'm going to lose a lot off my offensive line," the Trojan mentor explained. "Both of my halfbacks will be gone (Jackson and Chuck Hutton). Eddie Shelton was my messenger and he will be gone next year and that was the core of this ball club. I'll just have to watch my scheduling next year."

Wheelwright finished 2-5 in their district and was fourth the EKMC standings.

Cold Third Quarter Spells 31-27 Defeat For Adams Middle School Girls

The Adams Middle School Lady Blackcats could not find the basket in the third quarter against the Lady Indians of Inez Monday night and fell 31-27 to the visiting school.

Crystal Layne tossed in 18 points for Adams in the losing cause. Adams failed to score a point in the third period as Inez outscored Adams 12-0 to take a 29-11 lead after three quarters.

However, it was the hot shooting of Layne that brought the Lady Black-cats back into the game as she scored nine of her 18 points in the final stanza. Donna Hall, who finished with three points, scored all her points in the fourth period also. Jenna Fannin hit two free throws and Misty Price added two points as Adams went on a 16-2 run.

Rachel Briggs led Inez with 10 points and Denise Preece added seven.

The Lady Blackcats will host

Martin tonight and then travel to Betsy Layne on Thursday night. Adams has a make up game scheduled with Flat Gap this Saturday evening at the Adams gym.

INEZ 98 122 (31): C. Preece, 10-5 2; Briggs, 5 0-3 10; Wellman, 1 2-2 4; D. Preece, 2 3-4 7; Fletcher, 2 0-0 4; Hill, 1 0-0 2

Roberts had to leave the game. Kidd ended up calling the signals for Betsy Layne before the game ended. Starting quarterback Byron Combs has been out the last three games with an injury.

"It was the first time that Jamie ever played at quarterback," said coach Gerald Newsome. "Adam did good for us against Napier last week in replacing Combs. He did a good job at the start against Sheldon Clark pulling some good fakes."

"We just couldn't put together two good halves this year," the Betsy Layne mentor stated. "We had some key injuries on the team (Combs, Ashley Lykins) and we just couldn't play a full consistent game."

Newsome felt that the Cardinals may have been looking past his team. "Sheldon Clark was either looking past us to the playoffs or, if they weren't, they're not as good as their record would indicate."

Newsome said that his team this year did not get the good pass protection that he had wanted.

"We will be hitting the weight rooms heavy in January until spring," Newsome said. "We're going to let them have November and December off and then hit the weights very hard."

"Once the basketball season gets underway Mr. (Alan) Osborne and us will regroup and look at next year."

Newsome said his future in the Bobcat program will be that he is always available to help with the program and believes that he can be a go-between for the high school and their feeder programs.

Betsy Layne had only three first downs in the game compared to Sheldon Clark's 20. The Bobcats carried the football 31 times for only 49 yards rushing. The Cardinals collected 317 yards on 33 carries.

Betsy Layne had 19 yards passing on three completions in 11 attempts. The 19 yards gave the Bobcats 68 yards of total offense. Sheldon Clark was a sharp 11 of 16 passing with one interception for 101 yards. The Cards totaled 418 yards on offense.

Betsy Layne was penalized 25 yards on five calls while the Cardinals piled up 85 yards on eight flags.

Mullins, Stevens, Moore Combine To Lead McDowell Past Betsy Layne

Terrance Mullins, Mike Stevens and Chris Moore totaled 36 points between them and led a McDowell comeback that resulted in a thrilling 53-49 win over the Betsy Layne Elementary Bobcats Monday night at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse. Mullins tossed in 14 points, Stevens added 12 and Moore hit double figures with 10 for McDowell. Game scoring honors went to Betsy Layne's Willie Meade with 18 points. Two other players scored in double figures for the Bobcats as Rodney Hamilton added 13 points and Anthony Kiser finished with 10.

The Daredevils fell behind in the second quarter 29-19 as Meade hit a shot just within the foul line with 52 seconds left in the half. McDowell moved back into the game with eight unanswered points. Moore started the rally with a layup with 44 seconds to go. T.T. Pack ignited a fire with six straight points. Pack hit a short jumper with 18 seconds to go and then came back with a layup with eight seconds showing and again with two seconds to go to bring the Daredevils within two points, 29-27.

Nick Little hit a short jumper with 1:25 left in the third period to finally tie the game at 33-33. The two teams entered the fourth quarter tied at 35-33.

In the fourth quarter, McDowell scored the first six points to break a 41-41 tie. Little's short jumper at the 3:22 mark and Mike Stevens' jumper with 3:05 to go gave McDowell a 45-41 lead. Moore finished off the rally with a layup with 2:09 showing. Betsy Layne closed to within two, 51-49, on Meade's basket with 30 seconds to go but could get no closer. Mullins' basket clinched the victory with five seconds remaining.

Nick Little had seven points for McDowell in the win. Pack finished with eight.

Edmund Yates scored four points, Brad Kimbler and Wesley Frazier added two each.

Lady Daredevils Have Easy Time In 28-12 Win Over Betsy Layne

At the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse Monday night, the McDowell Lady Daredevils led all the way in posting a 28-12 win over defending county champion Betsy Layne.

McDowell scored the game's first 10 points enroute to the win. Rachael Howell got the scoring underway for McDowell on a rebound basket and then hit again underneath for a 4-0 game. Latita Wilhite followed with a short jumper and it was a 6-0 score. Misty Shannon scored the next two baskets for McDowell to send her team out to a 10-0 lead. Rachael Thompson scored two points just before the end of the first quarter and a 10-2 game.

The closest the Lady Bobcats could get was eight points, 12-4 and 18-10, before falling by the final score.

Wilhite led all scorers with eight points for McDowell. Rachael Howell added seven for the winners.

Sabrina Yates and Rachael Thompson each led Betsy Layne with four points.

WPRG-TV TO CARRY PLAYOFF GAMES

Bevins said the game will be carried immediately after the completion of the play off game and again on Saturday afternoon at 4 p.m.

"We will carry all the play-off games that Prestonsburg will play in," stated Bevins. "We will go just as far as Prestonsburg goes."

Bevins said that the station plans to carry the Pikeville Panthers playoff games also.

All Prestonsburg fans are reminded that the playoff game between Prestonsburg and Mason County this Friday night will start a half-hour earlier than usual. Kick off has been moved up to 7:30 p.m. instead of the usual 8 p.m. starting time.

Coach Bill Letton said that ticket prices for the upcoming game will be $3 for adults as well as students.

Roberts Out For Season; Stauffer Wins Greenbo 5K

It has been a rough road for Rick Roberts in racing competition this year. The long-time runner has been lost twice in races and now has been sidelined for the year with a bad knee.

Mark Stauffer of Morehead won the recent Greenbo State Park 5K Challenge Race with a time of 15:13 as runners took off in the 40 degree temperature. Joe Lake came in second with a 15:34 while Martin Bess finished third with a time of 16:46.

The top three female finishers were Elsie Salmons of Oldtown with a time of 19:01; Patty Lane of Ashland, 20:36; Joy Lake, 20:47.

Trudy Tuttle just missed third place in her age group with a 25:52, 45 seconds off for third.

In the Marine Corp Marathon in Washington, D.C., Roberts was one of over 14,000 that entered. Roberts managed to run the first 15 miles of the marathon when his left knee went out on him.

"I pushed on for the next 11 miles but it got worse," said Roberts. Roberts finished the race with a 3:29.46.

Unable to walk and knee swollen and painful, Roberts was carried off the battle field on an army cot where he was taken to the first aid tent. There he spent the next two hours getting fluid replacement. Roberts will not be able to run anymore races this season and is presently on crutches.

Paintsville's Marvin McFaddin, 59, qualified for the Boston Marathon with a time of 3:12.49 in the Marine Corp Marathon.

Ravine Ratliff of Belcher ran his first marathon and posted a 3:52.00. Ratliff is 50 years old.

DEER SEASON: ON OR OFF?

If you are wondering about the status of our firearms season for deer, which opens this Saturday, you have every reason to fret. For nearly two weeks now some 500 fires have been ravaging the forests of our state and, more than 40,000 acres of Kentucky's forests have burned. A combination of fallen leaves, drought, low humidity, and arson sparked what is probably the worst outbreak of forest fires since 1987.

To lessen the chance of any new fires being started, the Governor issued an "official proclamation" that has essentially closed all use of forest lands (excluding national forests) in 24 Eastern Kentucky Counties. And unless that proclamation is lifted before Saturday, you may have trouble finding a place to hunt. Although the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources would, in all likelihood, keep the deer season intact, the governor's edict may restrict your access to your preferred hunting area.

On Tuesday, I spoke with Norm Minch, the Information Supervisor for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, about the possibility of changing, or even canceling the deer season. "Right now, we're in a wait-and-see mode," says Minch. "The Governor's proclamation restricts travel in any state, county, city, or public forest in 24 counties of Eastern Kentucky, including Pike and Floyd Counties. And if you can't travel in the forest, you can't very well hunt. We will just have to wait and see how the situation progresses this week."

Kentucky's deer seasons are basically laws passed by the state legislature. To change or cancel the deer season, then, would require an emergency measure by the legislature so that the laws governing the dates of the firearms season could be changed. Minch says that the likelihood of that happening is slim.

Although the Governor's proclamation restricts your access to most forests in Eastern Kentucky, it carries no authority on federal lands. Therefore, hunting in the National Forests will be an option should the state forests remain closed — and if the National Forests are not closed themselves. The Daniel Boone National Forests, which encompasses the land around Cave Run Lake and remains one of the most popular hunting areas for sportsmen in Eastern Kentucky, is now open to hunters and will, more than likely, remain open. Dick Wengert, the U.S. Forest Service's Supervisor for the Daniel Boone National Forest, is a friend of mine, and I can tell you that he is opposed to closing the forest to hunters. If you are planning a hunt to Cave Run, chances are good that you will be able to hunt there come Saturday.

Fortunately, it appears as if the situation is improving. Hopefully, by the end of the week, conditions will have improved to the point where the Governor will be inclined to lift his proclamation. The only advice I can offer at this point is to keep abreast of the situation by reading the newspapers, listening to local radio stations or watching WYMT-TV.

If all goes well and you find yourself in the woods this Saturday, I encourage you to remain a safe and responsible hunter. Do not, under any circumstances, build a fire. And if you see someone doing so, encourage them to douse it thoroughly. If at all possible, do not smoke while in the woods. If you must smoke carry a pop bottle partially filled with water and dump your ashes in it — and carry it out of the woods with you when you go. Be forewarned: if deer hunters contribute to the problem of forest fires, we may very well find our season closed to us in future years when the risk of fire is at its peak.

In addition to preventing forest fires, we should all work diligently to avoid any type of hunting accident. Wear your blaze orange vest and hat, and encourage you buddies to do the same. Scan the woods with your binoculars, not through your rifle's scope. Unload your rifle before climbing into or out of a treestand, and always wear a safety belt when hunting from a treestand. And never, under any circumstances, should you point your gun at a sound in the woods. Instead, identify your deer with a pair of binoculars before shouldering your gun.

As a final recommendation, I would encourage you to be selective in your harvest. You will help the deer herd — and improve future deer hunting in the state of Kentucky — by letting those little bucks walk on by. Take a doe (if it is legal in the zone in which you are hunting) or a big buck and let those year old bucks — primarily the spikes, fork-horns, and little basket-packed bucks — grow up. Any hunter can kill a deer, but it takes a true sportsman to watch a little buck walk safely by his stand.

Good luck next week. And hey, let's be careful out there!

Bryant Cracks Lady Eagles Starting Lineup

It promises to be an exciting year for Lady Eagle basketball at Alice Lloyd College this season as the 1991-92 basketball season gets underway against rival Pikeville November 12 at Pikeville College. The Lady Eagles will be returning some veteran players as well as fielding some very promising young players. The recruiting this past year has Lady Eagles head coach John Mills, in his second year, singing the praises of this year's team.

"I have one of the best freshman recruiting classes in the state," the Lady Eagle mentor stated. Part of that class includes the 6'0" standout at Sheldon Clark, Katina Preece. Linda Sloane and Lori Bryant are also two outstanding newcomers."

Preece and Bryant have been so impressive that both freshmen have cracked the starting lineup for the Lady Eagles this year. Along with Preece and Bryant will be returning veterans Katrina Short, last year's leading scorer. Short will be at one forward position. Terri Harmon, another ex-Lady Cardinal player will play at the other forward spot. Betty Noble will run the ball club at point guard to round out the line up for coach Mills.

Another former Floyd County player, Brenda Hamilton (Betsy Layne), has started for the Lady Eagles, but is currently on the injured list.

"We are hampered by the recent injuries of two key players in Denise Stacy and Brenda Hamilton," said Mills. "I still think we will have a good team, but those two injuries will hurt us early on."

How much respect does this team get from their coach? Mills predicts that his team will win from 18 to 20 ball games.

"They are a very dedicated team, and we are all anxious for the season to start," explained Mills.

Shifting membership to District 24 from 32 will take the Lady Eagles south for most of their games this year. The opening game against arch rival Pikeville, at home, on November 12, promises to be an exciting season opener.

Kyle Fitzpatrick had four solos and two assists while John Clark had four first hits and one assist. Larry Morris and Josh Hyden had three tackles.

Coach Letton told his ball club that it was time for his team to "enter the next phase of the season."

"I have not had enough," he said. "We will continue to do the things that got us here in the first place. We are on to bigger and better things."

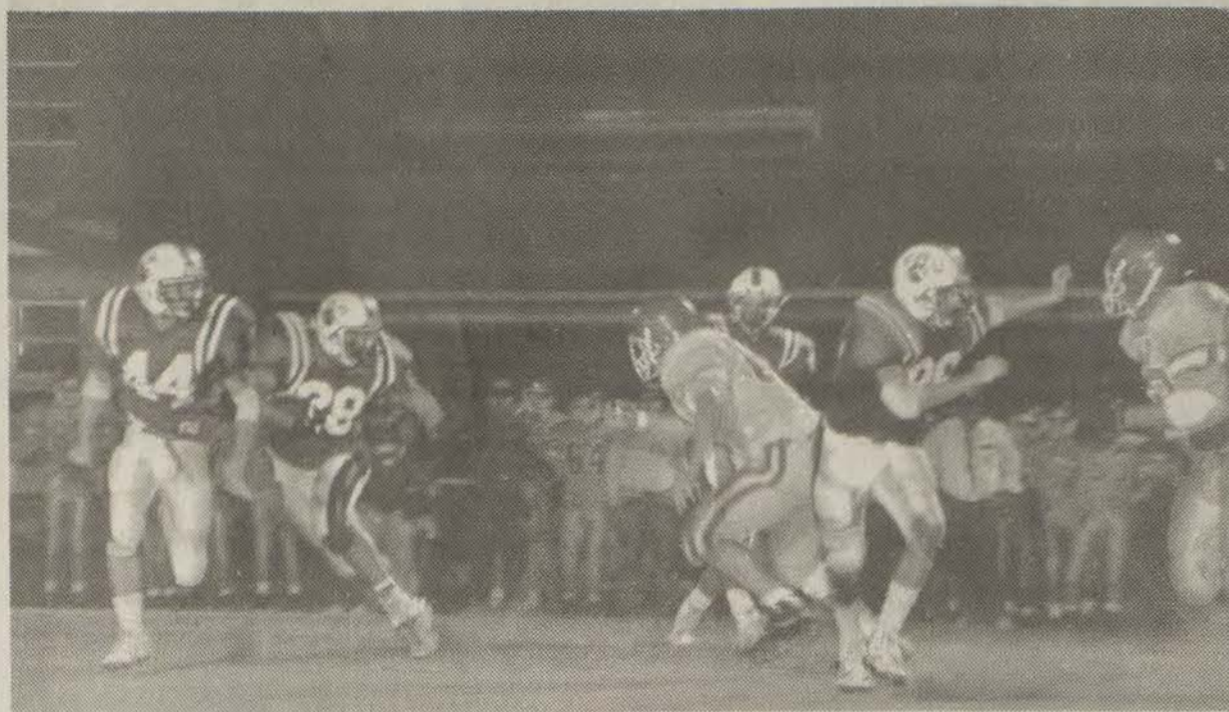

Letton congratulated his team on being district champions and told them they "had worked hard."

"Now we need to work harder than we ever have," he stated. "We need to come into this week's practice and get better each day. We should be better Monday and when we come here Tuesday we should be better yet and all through the week we should be a better ball club."

Letton reminded his team that they "still haven't played their best football yet." Prestonsburg (6-4) will enter the upcoming playoffs while a good Napier team finishes their season with a 5-5 mark. Coach Letton said that the playoff game with Mason County is scheduled for a 7:30 p.m. start and the ticket prices will be $3 for adult and students.

Goble leads blocking!

Prestonsburg's John Goble (44) leads the blocking on this sweep by Dwayne Garza (28) as the halfback picks up some good yardage against the M. C. Napier Navajo's. Prestonsburg defeated Napier 44-20.

Center of attention!

Prestonsburg quarterback Aaron Tucker (center of crowd, with ball) drew a lot of attention on this keeper against M.C. Napier Friday night. Tucker was stopped at the line of scrimmage but the Blackcats were not stopped as they rolled to a 44-20 win over the Navajo's to capture the District 2 title.

Webb Scores 40 Points, Bryant 18 As Eagles, Lady Eagles Win Over Alumni

The Alice Lloyd Eagles men's basketball team got 40 points from Henry "The Spud" Webb (McDowell) enroute to a 138-105 win over the Alice Lloyd Alumni last Friday evening.

The game was like a walk down "memory lane" as stars from the Eagles past were present to provide the opposition for this year's edition of Eagle basketball. Players like Daryl Slone, Nehi West, Mike Smith and David Martin of Prestonsburg.

The game was closely contested in the early going with the consistent scoring of both teams. The Eagles had picked up some momentum just before halftime and held a 78-56 lead. In the second half it was all Eagles behind the scoring of Webb. Smith led the losers in scoring with 27 points.

In a women's game, the Lady Eagles were equally successful as last year's leading scorer Katrina Short and freshman Lori Bryant combined for 40 points to lead the Lady Eagles to a 103-50 win over the Lady Alumni. Short finished with 26 points while Betty Noble added 22. Lori Bryant (McDowell) tossed in 18. Short and former Sheldon Clark standout, Katrina Preece, pulled down 15 rebounds each.

When asked how he felt about his team's play, Lady Eagle coach John Mills said, "In a game like this it's hard to tell but, regardless of the score, I did notice that we didn't play very aggressively."

PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS

MY "CULTURAL" HOBBY

I think it's high time I share my favorite form of entertainment with you: professional wrestling. I know you're all saying to yourselves, "Why, she doesn't sound like a person with such refined tastes." Sorry to burst your bubbles, folks, but it is true, much to the dismay of my mother. She says, "I hope you'll grow out of watching that sickening wrestling." She's been saying that for ten or twelve years.

First of all, the World Wrestling Federation is not what I watch. The WWF is an over-exaggerated, circus-style, dime store show. The wrestlers lack charisma and style. They are lost in the world of fairy tales. I truly detest Vince McMahon, the "brains" of it all.

Much to my dismay, one of my heroes, "Nature Boy" Ric Flair, has gone to the WWF. I am very disappointed in him, to say the least. I imagine he was offered a huge amount of money to go there. Anyway, Ric is one of the greatest wrestlers that ever lived. Most people think Hulk Hogan is the reason wrestling has become so popular. They are wrong. Ric Flair was "styling-and-profiling" before Hulk ever even thought of putting on a pair of tights. The only other wrestlers in the WWF I like are Sid Justice (formerly Sid Vicious in the NWA) and Jake "The Snake" Roberts. They have style and bad attitudes. They are awesome.

The only true wrestling, in my opinion, is the National Wrestling Alliance. Since Ted Turner took over the operation, it is better known as WCW (World Championship Wrestling). I must admit the NWA was better when Jim Crockett was in control of it. However, it is still my favorite organization. Michael "P.S." Hayes of the Fabulous Freebirds is my favorite wrestler. He has a very unique style. He has also been a mainstay in wrestling ever since I started watching it (when I was 4 or 5).

As I have been to various matches in Huntington, Charleston, and Pikeville, I have learned many things. The most important item is that the fan-favorites are usually not what they appear to be. More times than not, the "good" wrestlers are rude and often ignore their fans out of the ring. The so-called "rulebreakers" are the nicest people in the world, most of the time. They really appreciate their fans and make time to talk and sign autographs. I have met Ric Flair, Samu and Fatu (The Samoan Swat Team), Paul E. Dangerously, Sid Vicious (Justice), Tracy Smothers and Steve Armstrong (The Young Pistols), Michael Hayes, and Tim Homer. Of those, only three were "fan favorites". They all went out of the way to be friendly to me. I was really impressed by them.

Another thing I learned at the matches is that some people take the wrestling much TOO seriously. I once sat by a lady who was about seventy years old. She cursed constantly for about two hours. She was fighting mad the entire time. I was glad to get away from her. Another time, an elderly man had to be restrained by security guards on several occasions. He tried to climb over the security railing and storm the ring. Finally, the guards threw him out. It was another amusing experience.

I hope now you all see what amazing things happen in the world of professional wrestling. I also hope I've enlightened you to the "cultural" aspects of it. See you at the matches.

THE HELPING HAND

Retirement brings about a few changes in lifestyle for most of us as we have a little more free time. I still give housekeeping the minimum daily requirements, though, that consist of making the bed, putting empty coffee cups in the dishwasher and cereal boxes back in the cabinet. After that, the day sort of falls where it may.

But a few weeks ago an opportunity popped up that deserved an early start—a half-price sale at a local department store.

"How about a favor?" I asked my husband.

"Sure," he answered, "anything." He's usually willing for anything that's put in that context. For instance, he never just takes out the garbage. He takes it out "for you" or he puts the milk in the refrigerator "for you."

Sometimes I feel like saying, "I don't want you to do it for me—I just want you to do it." But then we gradually make little concessions in order to keep the peace.

"How about making the bed?" I remembered that during our honeymoon days he had sometimes helped with such little chores and, as we worked on our separate corners with the sheets, he would tell me about his training with the U. S. Marines.

"I could make my bed," he told me, "so neat and smooth you could toss a half-dollar on it and see it bounce."

I'd never forgotten that story and, on this morning, my good fortune seemed almost too much—to have such cooperation at home and sales yet to be explored.

I was bending over trying on shoes when I almost bumped heads with my friend, Thelma, who also got an early start. We sought out bargains together for a while before I suggested, "Let's go to my house and I'll make us some lunch."

I figured the house looked well enough to invite her in, but as we passed a door on our way to the kitchen the bedroom almost jumped out at us. It wouldn't have been more surprising had the triple dresser been lying on its back.

The guy had made the king-sized bed all right, but if he'd been standing on the back steps and seen a dog walking across the lawn, he could have tossed the bedspread across the moving animal and it would have looked as well.

The spread hung over the end of the bed like a bridal train. Being so long on one end made it too short on the other, so the pillows were only partially covered. There was a knot in the middle as if maybe he'd left his pajamas in a wad, but that turned out to be the top sheet.

He had pulled the cover so far to the right that it rested in a fold, and the left side was hiked up high enough to expose the exercise gadget I had shoved under the bed.

Thelma and I had soup and a sandwich. We also chewed a bit on the way a big, tough ex-Marine, former athlete and walking bureau of information could be so inept as such a menial chore.

It was probably part of his own design that keeps him from having to do things "for you"—and another little concession on my part, to keep the peace, that I didn't say more. But when nighttime came again, I approached the bed in much the same way you'd mount a horse that you half expected to run.

I had an early morning errand again a few days ago, and again I had a request.

"Sure thing," he answered. "Whatever you wish."

"Do me a favor," I asked. "Just don't bother the bed."

PCC theatrical experience prepares play

Several local students are involved in the Prestonsburg Community College production of the comedy Screwtape. The Theatrical Experience, the college drama club, is preparing a version of the play, based on C.S. Lewis's book The Screwtape Letters. Preliminary performance dates are Dec. 13 and 14.

Local students who appear in the play include Jonathan Goble of Auxier, as the devil Screwtape; Barbette McCarty of Auxier Heights, as Judy, a young girl; Sharon McGuire of Prestonsburg as Millie, a secretary; Susan Johnson of Garrett as Joan Mortar, an architect; and Kevin Benson of Prestonsburg as Judy's father. Alice Adams, Prestonsburg, and Phyllis Honshell, Wayland, are co-directors. Chris Griffith and Johnny Hunt, both of Prestonsburg, are the technical crew.

Other students appearing in the play include John Triplett of Warfield, as Wormwood, a junior devil; David Matthew Meek of Whitehouse, as Mike Green, the hero; Jennifer Herald of Hager Hill, as Slumtrimpet, a female friend; Ryan Briggs of Hager Hill, as the Rev. Spike; and Janie Short of Paintsville, as Queenie, the landlady.

The play, according to Alice Adams, is a comedy about the efforts of Screwtape, a senior devil, to train Wormwood, a junior devil, in the ways of temptation. Their target, Mike Green, is a young man in love with his boss's daughter. Wormwood tries all sorts of hilarious ways to get Mike in trouble, both at work and in his love life. The young devil even summons up a "sexpert," a female friend, to work on Mike's girl, Judy. However, the play has a happy ending, the devils fail, and the good are rewarded. "Parents need not fear to bring their children to this play," Dr.

Adams says, "as it contains a definite religious message. This work may have devils in it, but the message is that faith in God and the courage to persevere in one's duty will always defeat evil in the end."

The Dec. 13 and 14th productions, which are open to the public, will be in the Pike Auditorium at PCC.

H. R. M. C. adds Picker CT scanner

Highlands Regional Medical Center has added a computed tomography (CT) system known as the Picker PQ-2000 to its Radiology Department. The Picker PQ-2000 is the most advanced diagnostic CAT scanning equipment available. Physicians and patients alike will benefit from this state-of-the-art diagnostic equipment now available for the first time in Kentucky.

The PQ-2000 combines the most advanced technology in electronics and computer science to produce an X-ray image of a thin cross-sectional slice of the body. These images identify the precise location of organs and their internal structure including normal and abnormal fluid compartments and any change in tissue that may reflect disease.

CT scanning allows radiologists and physicians to see inside the human body to more accurately diagnose a patient's condition. The CT scan provides a safe, fast and painless procedure which eliminates the need for some exploratory surgery. CT is recognized as one of the most important contributions to medicine in this century due to its diagnostic precision and accuracy.

Rather than forming images directly from an X-ray beam as in conventional X-ray procedures, computed tomography is a multistep process where X-ray beams pass only through the section of the body being imaged. The radiation passes through the body's internal structures and is intercepted by a solid-state detector. The information gathered by the detector is reconstructed in a digital

THERE ARE TWO WORLDS

A while back, I made a special trip to my old stomping grounds in the head of Silk Stocking Row in Muddy Branch.

I'm glad I did.

The primary purpose for my visit revolved around the fact that I had to know if our big sycamore tree was still there after nearly fifty years. It was.

It's funny though, how many times has a way of making things shrink. Not only have the houses gotten smaller and closer together, but everything else seems to have diminished, too. When I was five or six years old, three of us could hide behind this old tree and never be seen as we played hide-and-go-seek or kick-the-can. Now, I doubt that I alone could conceal myself behind it. The girl of one of us must have changed.

The tree is at least a hundred years old, and it looks it. It appears almost battle-scarred with its bark all dark and scaly. In addition, its branches don't seem to be as strong and healthy looking nor its leaves as plentiful as I remembered. This old tree was a giant umbrella and many's the time we've continued playing under it during a summer rain with hardly a drop reaching us.

Of course, if it thundered we'd either head for home or take cover in the old dairy barn a few yards away. The barn's not there now.

Everybody always referred to it as "our tree" because it was beneath its branches we gathered on those long, hot summer afternoons. The girls had lots of flat, grassless spots on which to draw their hop scotch lines. They'd hunt a flat rock or the perfectly round, milky-white piece of glass taken from those old Mason jar lids, to toss. (According to the encyclopedia those were called "pucks." We called them little rocks and pieces of glass.)

There was also room in the cool shade for the boys to have a dandy diamond on which to play "burn out." Sometimes the two games got in the way of each other, but if one of the girls got hit with a line drive it wouldn't be serious because we only played with old tennis balls and used an old mop handle for a bat.

One of our dads had tied a thick rope to an overhanging branch and made us a swing. It was a good one, too, and we enjoyed seeing how high we could make it go. Swinging on it was really quite a thrill, especially the backward decent, because if we really tried, we could make someone go ten to twelve feet high.

One day we did. It was a girl, and although I can't absolutely be sure, I want to think it was Libby Ann Green. Anyway, just as we shoved her, one of the biggest black snakes I had ever seen fell from the high branches above the swing and landed slap in her lap. As the swing reached its highest point, she bailed out. There was plenty of room for her to land too, because those of us close enough to have seen what happened, took off like a scalded cat.

Anyway, she hit the ground running and screaming like a Comanche. I don't know where she went, but the snake headed for the culvert at the edge of the play area. It got away, despite the manly efforts of us brave boys, who chased it and threw gravels at it—from a safe distance, of course. Had my older brother Ernest been there, though, he'd have had it in his hip pocket in nothing flat. He was a real good snake catcher.

However, that was a long time ago. Things look different now, and it was really strange as I stood and looked high into the aged branches of this old tree. My head began to fill with forty-year-old memories. Memories of young, happy faces, lazy laughter-filled afternoons and children's games of long, long ago.

I guess writer Leigh Hunt put it best: "There are two worlds: the world that we can measure with line and rule, and the world that we feel with our hearts and imaginations."

Standing next to our old sycamore once again was like visiting an old, old friend.

Kim's Korner

Jack Martin

First I'd like to say we will greatly miss the fine drawings of the Times cartoonist Jack Martin. Jack worked with my father for years, and was well known for the cartoons he drew with such talent. To his family, our sympathy and prayers are with you.

by Kim Frasure

Several times I run into readers either in the grocery, at a restaurant, getting gasoline, just about everywhere. I have to tell you it makes my heart swell when I get comments on this column. Some wish I'd take to writing about more serious topics, such as politics, our school system, etc.

One lady made a remark to Neeley last week "We know more about Kim Frasure than the I.R.S." Neeley said she hesitated repeating that comment for fear I might be insulted.

Not at all. This column is intended to be one of enjoyment. So I can only write about things I know best, and those things are everyday life situations my family and I encounter.

There are times when I've written my opinions on politics, Anita Hill and City Council, and I've received calls and comments from some who disagreed with my thoughts. Thank the good Lord we all see things differently, huh!

Criticism, when used constructively can be an excellent tool from which to learn.

Criticism when used in malice or out of just plain old "put down" can only hurt.

I think Benita Riley (besides Scott Perry) is the one person I know I can count on for constructive criticism. No matter whether Benita agrees with me or not I always learn from our conversation.

She can make me see both sides of a situation easier than anyone I know. (Must be the attorney in her I suppose.)

I have to tell you I seem to handle criticism much much better when it's me being criticized than my co-workers or my boss.

I can't describe it any other way but, it's like if you have children or brothers and sisters you'll know what I mean.

I can say Scott Perry is a big grouchy bear and takes his dander of red ink pen to this column and makes my dander rise but, watch out if anybody else should criticize him. Now Scott knows what's said behind his back. Great Kim, good one! Real smart. Anyway, you understand what I mean. What I'm trying to get across is I have the same loyalty to my boss and co-workers as I have for my family.

As I'm sure everyone else does too. So if the next time you see me out and Kim's Korner has you really griped don't hesitate in letting me know. But if it's my co-workers or Scott you have a problem with, I'd rather you take it straight to them.

I apologize if that sounds harsh, but this way I won't have to worry about snapping someone's head off, taking a bite, then spitting it out.

This was written from a recent incident. Apology excepted, and here's mine.

I am sorry if I jumped atop my soapbox and went off like a stick of dynamite, I just wanted all readers to understand.

Till Next Week. It takes a "Big Man" to know how to say "I'm sorry".

Thank you.

District's Woman's Club

Last week the Seventh District Woman's Club met and Wayland's pictures were omitted. The GFWC/KFWCLackey-Garrett-Wayland and Drift Woman's Clubs were the host clubs for the Seventh District Woman's Club meeting at May Lodge on Saturday, October 26.

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club

Members of the various clubs making up the Seventh District Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs gathered at 9:00 A.M., Saturday, October 26, at Jenny Wiley State Park, May Lodge, for registration and the hospitality hour for the Seventh District Fall Meeting.

The meeting was called to order at 10:00 A.M. by the Seventh District Governor, Alice Kendrick, of the Pikeville Woman's Club. Libby Martin, of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's club, gave the invocation. The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Mildred Salisbury of the Drift Woman's Club, which co-hosted the meeting with the Wayland club. The Welcome was given by Marsella Bradley, Vice President of the Wayland club, and the Response was given by Vicki Pinson, President of the Pikeville Woman's Club.

Mrs. Kendrick introduced the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs' President, Mrs. Ralph Johnson of Bowling Green, Kentucky, who advised her listeners that they are members of the largest and oldest volunteer organization in the United States. She urged her hearers to have at least one new project each year. She listed the various things that she would like to see accomplished, such as: A hospice in every county, each club taking part in the "Adopt a Highway" project for cleaning up our roadways, planting trees, joining the "Dollars for Scholars" program, CIP (Community Improvement Project), to name just a few.

Following the Governor's Report, the group recessed for lunch, immediately after which the club women were entertained by two members of the Kentucky Opry, Rae Anna Dameron and Shawn Caudill, along with its leader Billie Jean Osborne. Ms. Osborne sang, "I'll Talk to My Father", followed by two songs by Rae Anna, one of which was "You Are the Wind Beneath My Wings". Shawn sang a contemporary gospel and another.

A number of door prizes were distributed by Marsella Bradley, assisted by Loretta Martin, also of the Wayland club. Each club president gave a report on her club's accomplishments, and Ruby Akers of the Drift Club and a Seventh District past governor, gave—the nominations report. Awards for both the club members' contest entries and the high school student entries were announced by Connie Gilpin of the Elkhorn City Woman's Club, who is Vice Governor.

Louise West of the Wayland club gave the registration report, after which Mrs. Johnson, KFWC President, installed Connie Gilpin as the new Seventh District Governor. Then Mrs. Kendrick announced that the Elkhorn City club had issued an invitation for the 1992 Fall District Meeting to be held in Elkhorn City. The Seventh District represents 12 clubs, two Junior clubs, with 397 members. The Wayland club had over half its membership present, which was the most from any one club. KFWC Third Vice President from Barbourville and KFWC Treasurer from Louisville were also present and each spoke briefly.

County Kettle

By M. L. Harmon

I expected to have a picnic with last week's County Kettle. It was anything but. It is harder to mess up a good recipe on paper than I thought. I could win some blue ribbons on messing them up in the kitchen.

The first recipe this week is a meal-in-itself, if you serve cornbread instead of crackers, with it.

Food prices to be lower this fall

Consumers can expect to find some real bargains in meat and other selected food items this fall, according to a University of Kentucky agricultural economist.

"With abundant supplies of beef, pork and poultry enroute to the processors and retail markets, consumers can expect a ratcheting down of prices this fall," said Forest Stegelin, agricultural economist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

The biggest reduction in prices will be for items in seasonal demand, such as ground beef, chuck roasts, arm roasts, round steak and meat used for stews, soups and special meats for cool weather. The price of specials will be most noticeable for multi-pound packs of ground beef and whole beef sirloins and pork loins, he said.

Other seasonal foods may be priced as specials or features. Expect to see sweet potatoes, white potatoes, green cole crops, cranberries and fall squash as featured specials in groceries soon.

Specials on frozen and canned vegetables will also return since shortages that caused previously higher prices have eased.

"All sorts of baking mixes will be marked down in price, just in time for fall baking, too. Fresh dough products, such as biscuits, ready-made pie crusts and cut-and-bake cookie dough, will be discounted," Stegelin said.

Hot and cold cereal prices will be cut through coupons, rather than directly on the items. Similarly, frozen pancakes, waffles and sweet rolls will show lower prices. Bacon and sausage also will be bargain priced this fall.

"And as Thanksgiving approaches be ready to buy a turkey at a reduced price as grocers discount the big birds to entice you into their stores. Some may even provide give away turkeys with a set minimum purchase," Stegelin said.

Cabbage Patch

By Nell Harmon

November can be a time saving month for late gardening jobs. I hope you noticed I did not say or indicate it was, or will be, a work-free, or restful month as far as gardening is concerned. Get your soil tested now, before the rush in late winter or early spring. You can use your own soil testing kit or the service through the county agent. Spread lime as needed — it is always needed this month so it can work its magic through the winter.

Be sure to organize next year's garden plan now. If you are one of the lucky ones, you can cover your garden with a 6 to 8-inch layer of compost, leaf mold, etc. Till this into the ground and cover with a deep mulch of leaves, straw, or hay to provide enough antifreeze for earthworms to work all winter.

If you go the route of green manure crops to turn under, come early spring, rye can be sown as late as Thanksgiving. If birds or chickens swoop on your rye seeds, lightly flavor the seed with a swish of kerosene just before sowing.

To control bug problems, mulch lightly or rough dig to make your garden a winter resort with feeders and water reservoirs for bird residents. If you have, or can borrow, some chickens to turn loose in your garden over the winter months, you will reap triple benefits. Pest control, scratch-harrowing and fertilize — all for the water and grain handout you should have given to the birds anyway.

If you are not like me, now is the time to clean up flowering borders and fork in bone meal, around your roses, delphiniums and peonies. As I get older and older, I find I have to omit more and more activities each year. My peonies are pretty well gone now as I have not done anything for them for several years and they did not have a single bloom this year. In fact, they were so spindly and stunted, I could not find them — almost. Plant tulips and lilies on sand above good topsoil, mixed with a handful of bone meal. As cold increases, move your favorite mum clumps to cold frames for spring divisions and cuttings. If the weather holds out as it has been, now is the time to sow perennials.

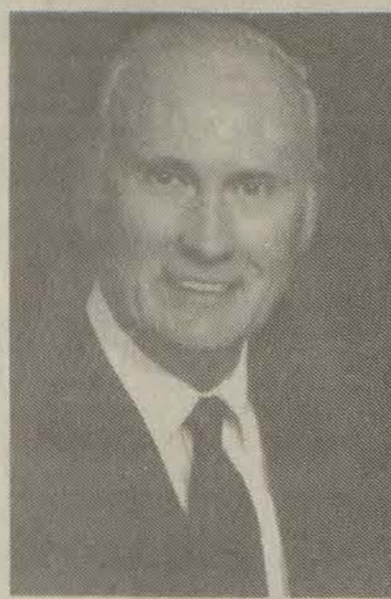

Take up any tender bulbs that may still be in the ground, such as tuberous-rooted begonias, dahlias and glads. Dahlias and gladioli may survive outdoors if the winter stays mild or if they are deeply mulched.

Clean up all fruit drops and leaves around your fruit trees. Use productive measures like wire collars around the young tree trunks. Firmly tie grapevines and roses to prevent wind-whipping. Thin out overgrown clumps of all berry vines, and try to keep raspberries from tip rooting. Plant any new trees and shrubs and vines now as soon as possible in pre-dug holes, generously large and enriched with compost and minerals. After the first hard frost, pick your first persimmons of the year. I know some parts of our county have had a hard frost, but to date we have had only a few light, scattered ones.

Now is a good time to gather some extra mustard and turnip greens to freeze for the up-coming winter months. Kale is fine left in the garden as it improves after cold weather sets in. In fact, it does not lose its bitterness until after some hard freezes and a few snows.

Executive is bullish on defense business

Julian Campbell

A smaller, leaner U.S. military needs smarter weapons, a trend that spells business opportunity for Huntsville, the director of local operations for Aerojet Corp. said Wednesday.

Speaking at a Rotary Club luncheon, Julian Campbell, a native of Prestonsburg, outlined his company's assessment of declining defense budgets and a new world order.

A number of new trends in defense spending should position Huntsville well, he said.

Among them:
•The strengths exhibited by the U.S. tactical missile defense during the Gulf War.

•Reduction in forces, which will require a better equipped military.

•Evolution of the Strategic Defense Initiative. "The scope and size of SDI will be altered dramatically," Campbell said.

"A desire by military leaders for more accurate weapons that can be used at greater distances from the battlefield and enemy.

"We'll see new configured systems. Smart munitions will provide new electronic markets," Campbell said.

"The Gulf War has not changed the fundamental outlook for defense spending... The questions continue to be raised—do we need new systems?"

To keep the modernization going, Huntsville needs to keep selling the idea, Campbell said.

"Congress and the American people have become comfortable with declining budgets. I find that a little astounding," he said.

Even with dramatic changes in Soviet politics, Campbell said, the weapons remain there. "I've got to believe that's still a serious threat."

Aerojet, with 8,000 workers and $1.7 billion in sales, has a small presence in Huntsville but a lot of interest here. The company is a major subcontractor to Lockheed on the Advance Solid Rocket Motor project being developed in Iuka, Miss.

The mid-sized defense and space firm has focused on electronics, military ordinance and propulsion.

Aerojet also has interest in the proposed National Launch System, a series of new heavy launch vehicle for the military and NASA. That work will be centered in Huntsville.

Campbell's bottom line predictions expect a real decline in defense spending through fiscal year 1994. But spending cuts in research and development may not amount to much and procurement of systems which Huntsville specializes in may actually increase some.

After 1995, Campbell predicts real growth in defense spending. It won't be until then that the military initiates any major new weapon program starts, he said.

Campbell is the son of Hazel Campbell of Prestonsburg.

The Global Warming Cha-Cha

(Recorded by John Sununu and the Fat Cats for Titanic Lab, Inc. Flipside: the Ballad of Technological Fix. Copyright 1991.)

If Noah survived the Flood, We can survive the Fire. We'll build ourselves a Bubble And recycle Nature inside it, cha-cha, Recycle Nature inside.

Forget the endangered species! Our Bubble will solve everything. We'll stock it with breeding pairs Of the prettiest pets in the zoo, cha-cha, The prettiest pets in the zoo.

Forget the starving masses! Of Darwin, our prophet, has shown, Life is a struggle for power And only the fittest survive, cha-cha, Only the fittest survive.

Forget the ecosystem! We'll fabricate one of our own. Besides, as McKibben shows, Nature herself is passe, cha-cha, Nature herself is passe.

If Noah survived the Flood, We can survive the Fire. We'll build ourself a Bubble And recycle Nature inside it, cha-cha, Recycle Nature inside.

And this time We've leaving the Democrats Out in the heat!

Older Americans and the "other" Drug problem: Medication misuse

The same medicines older Americans use to live longer and healthier lives can cause serious medical problems when not taken properly. Many older people misuse prescription drugs—by not taking drugs on schedule, by taking the wrong dosage, by taking a combination of drugs that cause new problems, or by skipping a dose or stopping altogether without a doctor's advice. The problem is so rampant that some health experts have called it America's "other" drug problem.

Overview of the problem
While older Americans represent only 12 percent of the U.S. population, they consume 32 percent of all prescription drugs. That's more than 400 million prescriptions at a cost of more than $9 billion per year. By the year 2000, when there will be 35 million older adults, older people are expected to account for more than half of all prescription drugs dispensed.

Older people are also more likely to be taking a number of drugs at the same time, have complicated medication schedules and be heavy users of over-the-counter (OTC) medicines. All of these factors—plus the fact that older people's metabolism can often increase or decrease a drug's effect—place older Americans at special risk of problems from medication.

Drugs that are taken improperly often have serious results. Consider these figures:

- One-sixth of all hospital admissions of people over 70 result from bad drug interactions.

- About 25 percent of the hospital admissions of older Americans result from taking prescriptions incorrectly

- Nearly one-fourth of all nursing-home admissions result from older adults being unable to take their medications properly.

Improper medication can also cause older people to be disoriented, suffer memory loss or appear to be suffering from Alzheimer's disease.

Knowledge, attitudes and beliefs
A number of studies have revealed interesting insights into older people's compliance with prescription schedules:

- The longer people take a prescription, the greater the chance they will not take it as prescribed.
- The more medicines people take, the less likely they are to take them as prescribed.

- People are more likely to follow instructions and schedules for prescriptions they consider important, such as antibiotics, than for medications that treat chronic conditions, such as high blood pressure, where symptoms are minimal.

- Older people often put their drugs in containers other than the original ones and later can't recognize the drugs or remember instructions.

Advice for professionals
Many studies have documented that older patients lack basic information about the drugs they take—for both prescriptions and OTCs. Compliance improves when older people receive individual, specific, detailed instructions about their drug regimen.

Here's what you can do to help:

- Encourage older people to talk with their doctors and pharmacists about the drugs they take (including over-the-counter medicines). Also, encourage health professionals to consider older patient's entire medication regimen before making new prescriptions.

- Teach older adults about the types of serious side effects that drug misuse can cause, including memory loss, falls and other health problems.

- Educate them on the skills they need to manage their medicine regimen properly, including examples of management aids that can help.

Tax credit for RTC properties counterproductive

Applying a tax credit to purchases of properties sold by the Resolution Trust Corp. (RTC) would give the properties an unfair marketing advantage, and ultimately would cause far more disposition problems than would be solved, according to the National Association of Realtors.

Norman D. Flynn, vice chair of the association's RTC Task Force and the 1990 NAR president, discussed legislation (S. 1787) to create an RTC tax credit during testimony today before the Taxation Subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee. A Realtor from Madison, Wis., Flynn testified on behalf of a coalition of national real estate trade associations, including NAR.

The RTC, created by the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act (FIRREA), is charged with the merger, sale or liquidation of insolvent thrifts closed by the federal government. The assets of failed thrifts now held by the RTC total $160 billion. The Tax credit bill, introduced by Sen. John Breaux, D-La., would allow a credit equal to 80 percent of the purchase price of a designated RTC property, which could be claimed over a five-year period. A total of $1 billion would be allotted for the tax credit program.

"An RTC credit is an inappropriate solution to an extraordinary difficult problem," Flynn said.

An RTC tax credit would disrupt property values by creating an imbalance between RTC properties and privately owned properties, Flynn pointed out. "If there were a special tax incentive...a prospective purchaser would be drawn to the RTC property. This would artificially depress the price for the non-RTC property that has remained in private hands. We believe a credit would merely create more misallocation of resources and price distortions in markets, and penalize those who have struggled to maintain their properties outside the RTC," Flynn said.

Similarly, NAR is concerned that an RTC tax credit would present a significant disadvantage to properties acquired from insolvent banks by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC). "An RTC credit would create a very peculiar kind of competition between the two government agencies, both facing the extraordinarily difficult task of liquidating real estate inventories," Flynn said.

Rather than expecting RTC property disposition, NAR believes that an RTC tax credit would actually expedite growth of the agency's portfolio. Flynn explained that a credit applied only to RTC properties could encourage individuals to permit properties to go into foreclosure and into the RTC, and discourage them from trying to sell the properties. "The RTC would then become, in effect, a conduit for properties from private hands, into the RTC, and back to private hands with tax advantage attached," he said.

Congress could best help to solve the RTC's overall property disposition problems by repealing provisions in the Tax Reform Act of 1986 that proved extremely detrimental to the real estate industry, Flynn said. Specifically, NAR is advocating enactment of legislation to lift the current passive loss rule limiting the deductibility of rental losses against income. Under current tax law, rental real estate activities are segregated from all other business activities, and losses from rental properties may not offset any income other than rental income. "It will be impossible to have a sound real estate market until real estate practitioners can deduct their losses from their business activities," Flynn said. He noted that the passive loss rule has created a marketing obstacle for RTC properties, in that buyers who spend large sums of cash to rehabilitate RTC properties face substantial limitations on the deductibility of their rehabilitation expenditures.

Flynn encouraged enactment of S. 1257, passive loss relief legislation introduced by Sens. David L. Boren, D-Okla.; Steve Symms, R-Idaho; and Breaux. "Enactment of the passive loss relief legislation would free up cash flow for rental property owners who are in the real estate business. And, cash flow is essential in today's market if a property is to stay in private hands and out of foreclosure," Flynn said.

NAR also is advocating the enactment of legislation to reduce the tax charged on capital gains. According to anecdotal evidence from across the nation, many property owners who would like to sell are holding on to properties, rather than sell them and pay the taxes they would owe under the current law, Flynn said.

According to NAR research, enactment of the passive loss and capital gains provisions in the 1986 tax law have contributed to property declines ranging between 2 percent and 18 percent. "Providing passive loss relief and restoring capital gains would be the most effective way to make markets for RTC properties, and to provide relief for individuals who have been able to maintain their properties and keep them out of foreclosure and out of the RTC. The RTC will operate most efficiently with sound tax policy, not with special tax policy," Flynn said.

The National Association of Realtors, "The Voice for Real Estate," is the nation's largest trade association, representing nearly 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.
