Eight job finalists to be quizzed Saturday

The Floyd County Board of Education will meet in special session Saturday at May Lodge to interview the eight finalists seeking the position of superintendent of schools. The following is a brief history of the candidates and their reasons why they want to be superintendent of the Floyd County School System. The summaries originally appeared in a Floyd County Education Association newsletter.

Jerry L. Austin

"I want to become superintendent of Floyd County schools for several reasons. In a general sense, I want to be a superintendent in order to help improve the educational program for all children and adults.

"I want to come to Floyd County in particular because of its location. Having attended Berea College, I have wanted to return to Kentucky to work for several years. Berea College gave me my capability to accomplish the things that I have wanted to in my lifetime, and I now wish to give something back to the people of Kentucky. Although I could practice law, I love education and have chosen it as my entire career."

Dr. Jerry Austin, a native of Virginia, was educated at Berea College and the University of Virginia. He is a lawyer and an educator. He was named as Virginia's top superintendent in 1989.

Dr. Austin serves on the Virginia School Boards Association, the board of Longwood College, and the board of the nationally known Virginia Writing magazine. He is married and has four children.

Frank Cummings

"Floyd County offers the quality of life my wife and I seek, and the structure of a single school board with less than 26 board members is attractive to me. I have capably proven that I can perform all superintendent responsibilities in a district of your size, maintain and increase community participation in the schools, and achieve a mutual trust and respect with the staff so that all will work together toward an effective and affordable educational program."

Frank Cummings is a graduate of the University of Missouri and now

Boysen may have the last word

by Susan Allen

State Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen will apparently have a say in who is hired as Floyd County's superintendent of schools under the terms of an informal agreement reached Tuesday.

The decision also means that interviews with the eight finalists for the position will proceed as planned at Jenny Wiley State Park this weekend.

Floyd board chairman Ray "Shag" Campbell and board members have apparently agreed to let Boysen approve the board's selection of a new superintendent.

"This agreement will ensure the integrity of the selection process without delaying it," Boysen said in a press release issued Tuesday. "The selection of a competent and independent superintendent is crucial to the future of the Floyd County schools and the children who live there. This action will ensure that this opportunity to turn the system around is not lost."

Campbell said he and the board agreed to those terms, but added that the board will have the final say on who is hired to fill that post.

"We will screen the candidates down to five on our own," Campbell said Tuesday. "Then we'll get down to one and, before it's known to the public, we'll present it to Boysen."

When asked what would happen if Boysen did not agree with the board's choice, Campbell said, "I don't know, we didn't get that far along. But, I believe he would have to approve it. I don't believe he's going to be that firm with us."

Boysen announced Thursday that the state Department of Education and the Office of Education Accountability will be expanding a probe into the Floyd County School System focusing on the district's instructional, construction, fiscal and per-

Outbreak is an 'epidemic'

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

The recent outbreak of measles in the region has reached epidemic proportions. Both the Frankfort division of the Cabinet for Human Resources and the Floyd County Health Center have recommended that the parents of 12-month-olds have their infants vaccinated as soon as possible. Chief epidemiologist with Kentucky's Department for Health Services, Reginald Finger, M.D., said that very young children were most susceptible to the disease.

"Ordinarily, the recommendation is that children receive the first dose of measles vaccine at age 15 months," Finger said. "However, due to the current outbreak, we're recommending to health departments, physicians and parents that the age be lowered to 12 months to provide protection to this vulnerable group of children."

This recommendation applies only to counties where confirmed cases of measles have been reported, but will be in effect until the epidemic subsides.

So far this year, there have been 304 confirmed cases of measles in only 29 Kentucky counties, including Floyd County. Throughout 1991, there were only 66 confirmed cases of measles reported in the entire state.

Symptoms of the disease include large red facial blotches, rash, high fever, runny nose, coughing, and runny nose. If left untreated, measles can cause ear infection, pneumonia, and inflammation of the brain.

'We want results'

Floyd County Education Association members called a press conference Monday to welcome an expanded probe into the Floyd County School System if it produced significant results. The group will also oppose cuts in the teaching ranks unless those cuts can be justified. (photo by Susan Allen)

Wayland gets new mayor, will renew police patrols

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

The town of Wayland has a new mayor. Gene Mullins, the former chairman of the Wayland City Council was elected to the position at the city council's regular meeting on Monday, May 4. Wayland has been without a mayor since former mayor Hobart Webb resigned the position last month.

"The only problem," Mullins said on Monday, "is that the job doesn't pay anything."

A new council chairman will be appointed June 1, at the council's next regular meeting.

Wayland also will soon have a routine police patrol again, thanks to the city council's decision to purchase a new patrol car. The council voted unanimously to appropriate $1,500 from the city's budget to purchase a vehicle from Dalton Conn. The city also voted to purchase a new transmission to go in the old patrol car, so that the city will, for the first

Payment of flood debt may put hole in budget

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

One of Ronald Hager's last official acts as superintendent of the Floyd County schools may have been the straw that broke the system's financial back.

On April 8, two days before he was suspended by the state Board of Elementary and Secondary Education, Hager apparently authorized payment of an 8 year old debt to the federal Department of Education.

The debt, amounting to $345,347, stemmed from an overpayment of flood assistance funds for damages caused by flooding in 1984. School personnel are asking federal officials to return that payment to the district. Floyd officials want the government to allow the debt to be erased over a period of time through some type of payment plan.

"We are trying to retrieve that money and set up some type of payment plan," interim superintendent Eldon Smith said Tuesday. "We are asking the U.S. Department of Education if we can do that to take us out of this tight situation."

Smith said it is difficult to determine if the payment, authorized by Hager and made by assistant superintendent of finance Tommy Thompson, will place the district in a deficit because as of Tuesday it could not be found as a line item expenditure in the district's budget.

"It was certainly listed as a payable," Smith said. "It should have been in the budget. It may be listed in a different category (in the budget) we're trying to determine the time."

Meanwhile, Smith's spending freeze is in effect and requires his approval for purchases over $300.

"On May 1, I issued a memo to personnel in charge of school purchases," Smith said Tuesday. "It states that non-essential items over $300 without my approval are prohibited."

"The auditors working from the state department advised me that the potential deficit exists, but it is still unclear," Smith said. "I don't want a deficit until there is one."

A U.S. Department of Education spokesperson said Tuesday that one of the Floyd County school district had requested the money on an installment

Prestonsburg is Big Sandy's best bargain

Prestonsburg was the Big Sandy's bargain city in 1991 according to a comparison of rates charged for water and sewer services.

In a survey of 164 cities conducted last year by the Kentucky-Tennessee Accounting and Finance Association, Prestonsburg ranked as the 15th lowest on water rates and 6th lowest on sewer rates charged local customers.

In a comparison of rates between the Big Sandy region's three "Ps"—Paintsville, Prestonsburg and Pikeville—Prestonsburg was by far the most economical city on the costs of water and sewer services.

While the survey indicated that Paintsville was consistently lower on the rates charged for water, Prestonsburg more than made up those differences with lower charges for sewer services.

For example, on a 2,000 gallon minimum the total cost of water and sewer service to consumers in Paintsville was $12.79 while similar usage in Prestonsburg cost just $7.82. The charge in Pikeville for 2,000 gallons was $12.76.

Pikeville was consistently the highest of the three Big Sandy cities according to the 1991 rate survey.

In a comparison of rates between states, Kentucky cities averaged about 30 percent higher than their Tennessee counterparts. Prestonsburg's rates, however, were very similar to Tennessee averages.

The survey figures were released this week by Prestonsburg Utilities superintendent Bill Harvey Howard.

Experts to discuss reform and corporal punishment

The Floyd County Community Committee for Education will host a meeting on Kentucky's Education Reform Act Tuesday, May 12 at Prestonsburg Community College.

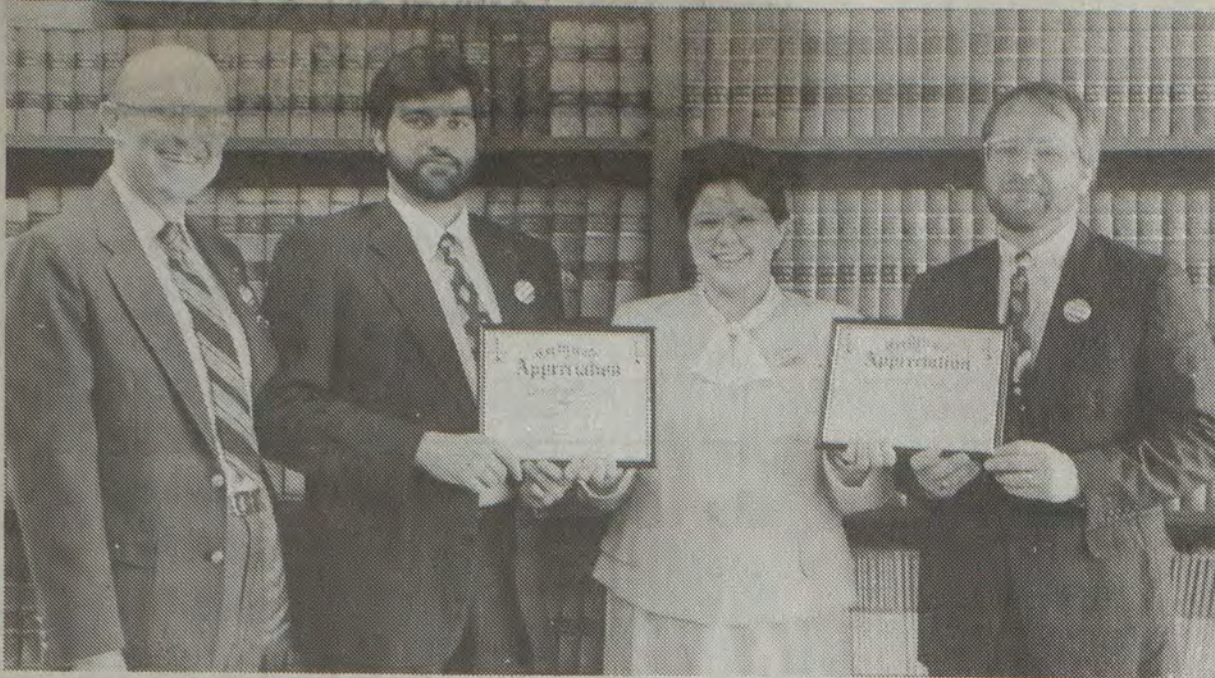

The committee, an affiliate of the Prichard Committee, will conduct the day-long session on the reform act and discuss corporal punishment in the classroom.

Prichard Committee executive director Robert Sexton will be the guest speaker at 10 a.m. to give an overview of KERA. Small group discussions will follow.

After lunch, Cheryl Ferguson, an authority on corporal punishment, will speak to the group. Although corporal punishment is not addressed in KERA, it is an area of concern for teachers and parents.

Dr. Duane Sanders of Prestonsburg Community College is the chairman of the community committee whose purpose is to support education reform. The meeting will adjourn at 3 p.m.

Murder charged in Pike shooting

Nancy Ratliff, 30, of Lookout in Pike County, was arrested Tuesday, May 5, and charged with the murder of her estranged husband, Terry Dean Ratliff, 35, of Ashcamp, Ky. Ratliff was shot three times in the chest and abdomen, allegedly by his wife, at her residence. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Pike County Coroner Charles Morris. The incident was investigated by Detective C.O. Tackett and Trooper Mike Crawford, of the Pikeville post of the Kentucky State Police. Nancy was arrested at Pikeville Methodist Hospital at approximately 9:30 a.m. and lodged in the Pike County Jail pending arraignment.

is a resident of Brewster, Massachusetts. Cummings is superintendent of Nauset Regional Schools. He began his career as a math teacher in a small rural school in Missouri then went on to work in St. Louis as a teacher and later as a coordinator of federal programs in a district of 11,000 students. He has served in the capacity of superintendent for 18 years. He is married and has children.

Michael Eberbaugh

"I am extremely excited about the future of education in Kentucky and Floyd County. This excitement is predicated on the materials I have read relative to KERA.

"The educational process is to provide all students with the maximum educational entities in concert with the strong leadership of a dedicated and progressive superintendent. The experience I have had with educational reform in West Virginia would lend itself well with what is happening in Kentucky and Floyd County."

Michael Eberbaugh, originally from Charleston, West Virginia, was educated at the University of Virginia and West Virginia. He spent 13 years as a classroom teacher, served three years as principal before becoming a superintendent in Tucker County, West Virginia.

He left education for eight years in 1981 to operate a family business when his father died. For three years of that time, he served on the Putnam Board of Education. He is presently the superintendent of Grant County Schools.

Gary K. Frazier

"There are a number of factors which have an influence on my decision to seek the office of superintendent of Floyd County Schools. First, I have spent my lifetime involved in education. My earliest childhood memories are of school functions at Martin High School where my father, Sherill Frazier, taught for most of his 42-year career in the Floyd schools.

"Secondly, in my career as a university professor, teacher and administrator, I have had strong desire 'to make a difference' in the lives of students and educators with whom I have had contact. Finally, the Floyd County schools are at a point in time where strong, decisive leadership is needed. I believe I possess the insight into the problems facing the school district and the eagerness and willingness to make the decisions necessary to move the district forward."

Gary Frazier is a graduate of Morehead State University and has also done doctoral work at the University of Tennessee. He has taught biology at Morehead State and Prestonsburg Community College. He has served as a principal at Mayfield Elementary and McDowell School. For the last five years he has been an assistant superintendent of education. He is married and has two children.

William A. Jutras

Floyd County is in the midst of a change that I heartily endorse. I have a great deal of knowledge of Floyd County. I have heard that the conditions in the schools and education in this county are poor. What I know is that the educators in this county endorse the Kentucky Education Reform Act. As William Jones stated, the education reform act is an epic saga with thousands of heroes. We cannot allow that courage to leave us unattended now as we move ahead with the next stage of educational reform.

"I want to join the effort in Floyd County Schools only if you believe you are or can be those heroes."

Dr. William Jutras was educated in St. Anselm College and the University of New Hampshire. He has done post-graduate work at Dartmouth College and Columbia University and served as a lecturer at St. Anselm.

Beginning as a science teacher, Dr. Jutras has also served as a high school principal for four years, assistant superintendent for three years and as superintendent for seven years.

He is married and has two children. He is also the co-owner of a service in Conway which provides support personnel to educational institutions and other organizations.

James K. Walter

"I want to be superintendent of Floyd County because I have the expertise. I am willing to expend the long hours necessary to run an excellent district. I hold a doctorate in educational administration and curriculum, and I know what is necessary to be on the cutting edge.

"I believe in education for all and I am no stranger to multicultural education. I also want to be part of Kentucky's forward thinking and moving education program. The staff, board and community will soon see that I am a good communicator and that I enjoy meeting and talking with people. I am able to diffuse tense situations in both public and private meetings, but my major strength—my driving force—is doing what is best for students."

Dr. Jerry Walter received his b.s. degree in English and social studies from Indiana University and his m.a. and Ph.D from Ball State University. He has worked 10 years as a teacher, an assistant principal for four years, a professor of educational administration at the University of Akron and for the last two years, he has been the assistant superintendent in the Twinsburg, Ohio school district.

William D. Zitterkopf

"Floyd County appeals to me because of its location (near to Lexington—an educationally intellectual stimulus) and the size of the district (relatively small in comparison to others in the near vicinity). It is also encouraging to move to a progressive that is involved in outcome based education and places students as number one.

"The superintendent must be a decision maker who takes satisfaction in the success of others, builds consensus, delegates appropriately, and develops an attitude of ownership among others in the district. The key is to grow and hire good people.

"A superintendent must have courage and for that personal quality, there is no substitute. I have made some difficult decisions, but I have based those decisions on what is best, educationally, for students and therefore can live with others and myself after the decisions have been made."

William Zitterkopf was educated at the University of Nebraska and Chadron State College. He has done post graduate work at the University of Colorado. He has worked as a teacher and been a superintendent of schools for nine years. He is married and has four children.

Edward M. Caputo

"For nearly 20 years, I have served in administrative capacities in different decentralized structures similar to the pattern that is being developed by the Kentucky Education Reform

Act of 1990. The national attention that KERA has been receiving drew me to Floyd County to begin my search for a superintendent's position in Kentucky.

"I believe that my experiences would serve the district well in implementing the intention of KERA. I am searching for a school district and a school board that desires a reform which provides opportunities for teachers and principals to make decisions for which they were initially trained: helping children learn."

Dr. Edward Caputo received his bachelor's and Ph.D. degrees from Florida State University. He has done post doctoral work at Loyola University. He was a superintendent for four years in Rockford, Illinois and a principal at Key Largo, Florida, for 14 years.

He has also worked as an instructor of educational testing and research at Florida State University. He began his career as a classroom teacher of English and social studies and a television instructor for educational television. He is the author of several articles dealing with site-based decision making.

At the moment, he works as the director of school services in Rockford, a job that entails the supervision of two middle schools, two high schools and 20 elementary schools.

Community colleges announce plans for commencement

More than 3,000 students—the largest group of degree candidates in community college history—are expected to receive diplomas this year.

Budget

"The district was first notified about the overpayment by a letter dated January 26, 1990," the spokesperson said. "We didn't get a response for a couple of years so we sent another letter dated March 23, 1992 that said since we've received no response and if we don't get payment, interest will begin to accrue."

Telephone correspondence between the government and assistant superintendent Gary Frazier began near the end of April to try to resolve the issue, the spokesperson said.

Frazier also sent a letter to the department which said that the payment was made "with the full knowledge that this action would create a deficit budget in the district," the spokesperson added.

Board chairman Ray "Shag" Campbell said Tuesday that if repayment to the federal government was included in this year's budget "it shouldn't be a problem."

"The board has been told that we would have a balanced budget this year," Campbell said. "If that's in there then it shouldn't affect us. But, we can't find out if it was put in the budget."

Board member Eddie Billips said Tuesday that he was "appalled" over the situation because the flood repayment was never brought to the attention of the board before the check was written.

"It's obvious that the board was unaware what was done," Billips said. "It's appalling that board members were not informed that a check of that magnitude was written and what it could potentially do to this school system."

"This just further indicates that presenting items to the board for review at the time of the board meeting is not a proper and adequate way to conduct a business," Billips added. "It goes along with what I've been saying for a long time, we don't know if we're in a deficit or not. We need a full-time CPA firm to manage the financial affairs of this system or, in my opinion, an adequately trained professional to oversee a $32 million budget."

The flood repayment was one of the bills approved for payment by the board of education at the April 21 meeting.

Jim Parks, spokesman for the Kentucky Department of Education, said Tuesday that "we know the check has been written but whether or not it will put the district in a deficit is still under review."

The school district's request for the payment to be refunded to the district has been forwarded to U.S. Department of Education's budget management division for a decision. It was not known if a request of this type has been made to the department before or whether it will be granted.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

If there's a presidential election near, you can bet somebody somewhere is conducting a poll to see who's where in the public's opinion.

From the looks of things in the latest poll we've seen, this crop of presidential contenders ranks just above road kill in their appeal to the general public.

In a recent New York Times/CBS News poll, four of five candidates—Bill Clinton, George Bush, Pat Buchanan and Edmund G. Brown—had higher percentages of "unfavorable" opinions than "favorable" opinions from those polled.

The fifth candidate, H. Ross Perot, seems to be Mr. None-Of-The-Above for the moment, with just a nine percent "unfavorable" rating to a 21 percent "favorable" mark.

What's likely to happen when all is said and done is American voters will have to choose a president that nobody really wants on a basis of which one is less "unfavorable."

That makes a lot of sense. Only in America.

One of the most horrifying scenes from the Los Angeles riots came via another bit of impromptu videotape.

The camera gave a chilling view of a white truck driver being set upon by rioters who first bashed him over the head with a fire extinguisher and then hurled what appeared to be a softball-sized rock into his temple.

The only crime we suspect the truck driver committed was being in the wrong place at the wrong time.

With scenes like these, we wonder if humankind has any right to separate itself from other forms of animal life.

Mother's Day is Sunday so we'll use this occasion to say Happy Mother's Day to three special mothers:

- Peggy Perry, who says we don't call enough;
- Rudelle Preston, who probably thinks we call too much (to babysit!); and
- Celeste Perry, who calls the shots.

As you may have expected, we composed a short poem to honor these three moms on this special occasion...

Some moms will get flowers, some moms get nice cards.
Some moms cook with Crisco
while others cook with lard.

My moms won't be slaving
over hot stoves come Sundee.
'Cause that's the way for Mother's Day
and the pizza is on me.

You won't have to drive too far in Eastern Kentucky before you run across one of those public buildings constructed more than a half-century ago by the W.P.A.—Works Progress Administration.

Many of those limestone monuments are, in fact, still in use.

For those who aren't familiar, the W.P.A. was a program which provided work for those in need and it once employed 3.3 million people nationwide.

The W.P.A. ran into trouble in the 40s—the costs were high, unions were unhappy about the low-wage competition, and it grew too large to control. The central point of the W.P.A. was to provide a day's work for a day's pay.

That point has been revived in legislation introduced last month in Congress. The proposal calls for creation of a new W.P.A. for people on welfare.

It is unlikely—because of limited funding—that the W.P.A. could ever be much more than a pilot project, but it's worth a try...if for nothing else than to restore some dignity to our current system of welfare.

Editor:

So many times, in the history of this country, we have made what can only be described as great leaps. Despite our diversity, both cultural and racial, we have held a nation together for over two hundred years. We see ourselves as the great democratizers and freedom fighters for human rights. We have glorified and immortalized the high ideals on which this country was founded in our Constitution, our Flag, and the Statue of Liberty. And then made void all these ideals with only two words: "NOT GUILTY". We have made another great leap—backward. We have jumped back to a desperate time in American history when a man was beaten because his skin was dark. We have returned to a time when a "fair trial" was only for the "fair skinned".

The entire nation was watching and waiting while twelve "Americarists" deliberated, not guilt or innocence, but the fate of our Civil Rights. The King trial, and the resulting violence, prove two things: that our laws and courts are hypocrisy, and that we learned nothing from our past mistakes.

It is indeed a sad day in American history. The words "liberty and justice for all" are without meaning unless we set aside our irrational prejudices and embrace each other as Americans: a people united, not divided; a people who believes in the high ideals on which this country was founded; and a society that practices the rhetoric of civil, human, and equal rights.

Editor:

The time for THANKS is long past due for the paving of State Route 2030 on Spurlock Creek of Left Beaver. I have been hesitant because of the overwhelming awe of finally driving on a paved road again.

When we began our quest in 1972, I did not know it would take 18 years to achieve. While the road is great now I can only wish that we might have enjoyed it sooner.

I want to thank everyone who helped us, or at least were concerned and sympathetic. It was a great learning experience. We met those who should have known about the problem, but they didn't even know where Spurlock was. We met public officials (as opposed to public servants) who told us that there were more than 100 miles of unpaved state roads in eastern Kentucky, and that we should not expect to get our road paved. This same public service agency had their own expansive parking lot well paved. It would seem that the taxpayers roads should all be paved before the highway departments parking lot is paved.

We received a warm welcome at Frankfort during our visit there and our host took time to help one of our citizens to exit who has difficulty climbing stairs. What Donnie Kell promised has occurred.

Thanks—to the Floyd County Fiscal Court for their support and patience; to the public officials who answered our letters; to the ones who finally got the job done and to those whose names are unknown to this writer.

Editor:

While ordinarily I applaud your efforts to lead our county into educational reform through good reporting and hard-hitting editorials, last Friday's attack on Interim Superintendent Smith—now republished across the state by the Lexington Herald-Leader—goes too far.

Though he has been here less than a month, he has demonstrated the inestimable value of a leader who models what reform is all about. In other words, he practices what he preaches, unlike those who mouth "support of KERA" but do nothing concrete to make it happen. He is leading, not just talking, and that speaks volumes.

In observing this closely, it seems to me that in Floyd County our perception of things has been so clouded that the abnormal seems normal to us, and conversely, the normal seems abnormal. We have decades of neglect and mismanagement to overcome. (Yes, it is decades; I moved here in the late seventies and the problems were at fever-pitch then, as they are now.) We can't expect miracle solutions overnight.

Let me give an example of the normal seeming abnormal: I have invited superintendent Smith to two functions in this period—one to visit with teachers considering site-based management at the middle school, and another with our Forum citizens group. In both cases, after an arduous day of work, he appeared and was gracious to listen and answer questions. Everyone was shocked—pleasantly, of course, because seeing a Superintendent move among the people and in our schools seemed abnormal—instead of it being expected, ordinary behavior.

Similarly, we have come to think "central office does no good for the system," surely an abnormal way of viewing things (as in "hospitals never help anyone,") rather than perceiving the tremendous value a working support system could have for the entire system—teachers, principals, parents, and most important, the children. Perhaps we do need those positions, as long as they are working positions, filled with persons of vision and perseverance. But, we've once again accepted an abnormal perception as a normal one.

Sadly, your editorial only stokes the fires of our worst enemy right now—indifference. After decades of trouble, you would think everyone in this community would be galvanized into action, especially our elected officials and community leaders. Sadly, there is far too much apathy and the attitude that has caused our cities to erupt in violence: "We can't do anything about conditions here."

Efforts in two Prestonsburg PTAs to empower people to change their schools have met with the same stubborn indifference. It won't do any good, you can't change the system; and even suggestions that I should give up my efforts to promote change and reform, because it won't happen here. We want to appear as progressive Prestonsburg for tourism and economic development, but when it comes to our schools, community leaders have miserably failed us. Thank God, Mr. Smith and Commissioner Boysen are showing us the way; Bert Combs would be pleased.

Contrary to your editorial, fundamental change is happening here, because some people continue to demand it and the state is finally taking notice of our cries. Give Mr. Smith a chance, Mr. Perry. And citizens, get out and get active in the superintendent selection process this Saturday night at Jenny Wiley. You've already let an entire generation of students suffer from your lack of action, and it is your shame—not the state's—that we have let things sink so low.

Editor:

We all are aware of the historical changes that have taken place in Kentucky's educational system the past two years. Now, as the process to select a new superintendent of the Floyd County schools is well underway, it is our responsibility to insure that petty politics does not rule the day.

At this point, as an outsider looking in, it seems that the process to select a new leader has gone rather well. The finalists, on paper, all appear to be capable of providing sound guidance in troubled times. However, one finalist looms much higher and brighter than the rest, Gary Frazier. I will tell you why I think Mr. Frazier is the cream of the crop and why he is the logical person to be the next superintendent.

I first met Mr. Frazier while I was attending seventh grade at McDowell Elementary School. Mr. Frazier quickly developed a reputation for being strict yet very fair with the students. But boy, did they think he was hard. It was unbelievable, but he actually made the students work in their studies so much that they often had to take their books home in order to prepare the next day's assignments. Who ever heard of such regular requests?! Well, don't you know he didn't stay there long because he was given the responsibility of being the principal of McDowell High School.

I remember walking onto campus that fall and for a moment I thought that I was at the wrong school! There was the smell of fresh paint and blooming flowers. But this was not the end, there was landscaping all around the school and everything was so clean!! It was unbelievable, but that fifty-year-old building looked as strong and proud as the day it was built.

The students at McDowell High were full of pride and talked of how the school must be the best in the county. However, it wasn't just the anesthetic qualities that brought that feeling of pride in our hearts, but it was the entire experience of being part of those years when Mr. Frazier was at the helm.

McDowell High School had a leader who would not be intimidated, but would instead stand up for what was right and honest. Mr. Frazier fought to insure that every kid in that school had an equal opportunity to fulfill their dreams. Although not everyone would be able to make their dreams come true, at least they felt like someone really cared about what they wanted out of life.

In the years that I was a student at McDowell, Gary Frazier treated every student fairly and equally. It did not matter if you did not have the correct last name or the largest bank account. If you did something wrong, you were corrected; but, if you did something good, you were applauded and encouraged to do even more.

As principal, Gary Frazier worked to improve the opportunities and abilities that the students at McDowell deserved. Without Gary Frazier, many students like myself may have never had the courage or the financial ability to go on to better things in life. And even though some of us have been more fortunate than others, Mr. Frazier has never stopped trying to help those who need it the most, the children of Floyd County.

If compassion, unblemished character, dignity, respect and honor are still elements of a successful leader, Gary Frazier deservedly should be the next superintendent of the Floyd County Schools.

Thinking of Babies on Mothers' Day

Sunday is Mothers' Day—a day that for many moms means breakfast in bed, cards drawn in crayon, corsages for church and, just maybe, an extra hug or two.

But for mothers who have lost their babies or given birth to an unhealthy child, Mothers' Day can symbolize a personal tragedy.

So, as we honor our mothers on this special day, it is also fitting to consider a terrible affliction confronting our country: infant mortality.

Mothers' Day is also Infant Mortality Awareness Day, a time to remember the tragedy of the thousands of babies who die before they even have a real chance at life.

The infant death rate in the United States is embarrassingly high. In 1989, for example, almost 10 out of every 1,000 American babies died before they reached their first birthdays. Japan's infant death rate, by comparison, is only half as high.

Kentucky was only slightly better than the national average with 9.2 infant deaths for every 1,000 children born. And the South, as a region, has the highest infant mortality rates in the country.

As a member of the Congressional Sunbelt Caucus Task Force on Infant Mortality, I have the opportunity to work with other Members of Congress who share my concern for this terrible problem. We work with other organizations and state lawmakers to find ways to deal with infant mortality at all levels.

We don't know all the reasons why babies die, but we do know that many of the causes can be prevented.

Getting prenatal care is vitally important to healthy births. Good nutrition, abstaining from alcohol, tobacco and drugs during pregnancy is also crucial. And we know teenage mothers have the highest risk of delivering low-birthweight and unhealthy babies.

All across America, communities are working together to address the problem of infant mortality.

The Southern Regional Project on Infant Mortality, for example, has begun a program called Hold Out the Lifeline in several cities. The program gets churches involved in working with pregnant women.

We know we can't prevent every child's death. There will always be some lost to accidents, disease and birth defects.

But we have to help wherever we can, so that fewer mothers will suffer the painful memories of a child's death—and so more mothers can enjoy the cards, hugs and kisses of their children on Mothers' Days yet to come.

Paintsville Lake 6th annual clean-up contest a success

As part of the President's "Take Pride in America" program, this year the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, Paintsville Lake, sponsored the 6th Annual Clean-Up Contest. On Saturday, April 11, 1992, 46 people volunteered their time and services to participate in Paintsville Lake's "Take Pride in America" program.

This year's clean-up contest was as successful as the five preceding it. Volunteers picked up and removed approximately 6.0 tons of trash and debris from the projects lands. In 1987, 7.6 tons of trash and debris were removed; in 1988, 4.2 tons; in 1989, 3 tons, in 1990, 6.1 tons, and in 1991, 6.2 tons, including this year's 6.0 tons, a total of 32.1 tons has been removed from Paintsville Lake Project areas since the program's inception. Through public awareness, and assistance in the continued effort to remove unsightly trash from project lands surrounding Paintsville Lake, the program continues to be a success in the Corps' fight to "Keep America Beautiful".

This year's first place winner was the Paintsville Kiwanis Club whose members picked up approximately 2.8 tons of trash. Their prize was a one day free use of a 50 ft. houseboat donated by Paintsville Lake Marina and also their name will be engraved on a plaque which is displayed in the Visitor's Center at Paintsville Lake.

Second place was won by the Cub Scout Pack #840 of Paintsville, whose members picked up approximately 1.1 tons of trash. Their prize was a one day free use of a pontoon boat donated by Goble Excavation & Reclamation Company of Prestonsburg.

The staff at Paintsville Lake would like to thank everyone who participated in this year's contest. The success of the program is attributed to the volunteers dedication, enthusiasm and hard work.

A special thanks to Paintsville Lake Marina and Goble Excavation and Reclamation Company for providing the contest incentive, to Apple Valley Sanitation for the disposal of the trash collected, to the Kentucky Department of Vehicle Enforcement for the weighing of the trash collected.

time, have two police cars. Several Wayland citizens have complained that speeders and reckless drivers have terrorized the town and made conditions dangerous for pedestrians since the city police car broke down over a month ago.

"I guarantee that these kids will stop once they find out we have (a routine patrol) again," Mullins said. "In the meantime, let's all try to get their license plate numbers so we can find out who they are and swear warrants out on 'em. That'll slow 'em down for sure."

The council also discussed methods of dealing with a local teen who has been causing trouble, chopping down trees and polluting Beaver Creek. Previous efforts to convince the youth to cease his destructive behavior have been met with little success. Mullins asked the police to have a talk with the boy.

Among other things that the council discussed are:

- budget meetings, open to the public, will be held beginning on Thursday, May 21;
- the council voted to place the city's insurance premium tax in an interest-bearing account;
- the council voted to contract with local youths to cut the grass on municipal property, clean out the creeks and pick up trash;
- the city police purchased a spotlight for the new patrol car;
- Mayor Mullins will speak to officials from Kentucky Power about fixing broken and burned-out street lights; and
- the council will hire someone to paint stripes on the city's streets.

The Wayland City Council meets on the first Monday of every month. Citizens are encouraged to attend. For further information, please telephone Wayland Town Hall at 358-9466.

Boysen

sonnel management practices. The state's decision came after the April 28 announcement of certified personnel hirings for the 1992-93 school year. The hirings, made by interim superintendent Eldon Smith, included cutting 21 first-year teachers in the district.

That move raised the ire of the county's teachers group who vowed Monday to fight to ensure that teachers would not bear the brunt of personnel cuts.

The Floyd County Education Association called a press conference Monday and its leaders said they welcomed the state probe, but they were not optimistic about the results of the state's latest investigation.

"We request that the state Department of Education not bog us down in another lengthy investigation that leads nowhere," spokesman Bud Reynolds said in a prepared press release. "State department action under Alice McDonald and John Brock made promises but produced no significant results. If once again the people of Floyd County must go through state involvement, we want results."

Reynolds said the group was also disappointed that no member of the superintendent screening committee was notified that Commissioner Boysen had asked the board to suspend the search for a new superintendent.

The group also asked that the state department fulfill its responsibilities to the district, such as identifying areas of mismanagement, if they exist, and remove those who are responsible for failing in their duties.

Another concern brought out Monday was Smith's decision to eliminate 21 first-year teachers.

"FCEA will support this decision only if we believe that the reduction of teaching staff is in the best interest of the students of Floyd County," Reynolds said. "At this point, we are not convinced of that. We will fight for those positions until we are shown that this school system does not need them."

In Boysen's announcement of the extended probe into the system, he said that Smith had terminated the 21 teachers due to decreasing enrollment and that Smith had also eliminated extended employment for district employees.

Boysen also said that non-performing employees could be fired and school officials could be ousted. It is not known what date an investigative team from the state department will begin their work in the district.

Measles

Approximately 470 Allen Central High School students were inoculated against the disease last Wednesday and Friday when officials from the Floyd County Health Center visited the school. Students, their parents and faculty were immunized against measles at Duff Elementary School on Wednesday, April 8.

According to health officials, the outbreak may have been caused by failure of the primary Measles, Mumps and Rubella vaccine that has been administered since 1957. Those officials now recommend that the vaccine be given on a two-dose schedule. Normally, the first vaccine would be administered when the child is 15 months old, the second after the child reaches school age. Parents of those children afflicted with the disease may wish to consider being vaccinated themselves.

As of April 29, cases of measles had been confirmed in Adair, Boone, Breckinridge, Bullitt, Casey, Daviess, Fayette, Floyd, Franklin, Graves, Green, Hancock, Hardin, Hopkins, Jefferson, Knott, Laurel, Madison, Marion, Meade, Nelson, Oldham, Pulaski, Rockcastle, Scott, Shelby, Simpson, Taylor and Woodford counties.

Parents are urged to call either their personal physician or the Floyd County Health Department at 886-2788 for more information.

Watson honored at mathematics conference

Joyce Watson, mathematics teacher at Allen Central High School was honored along with Dr. Ben Flora of Morehead State University for "Outstanding Service and Dedication to the Education Profession" at the recent Fourth Annual Spring Conference of the Eastern Kentucky

Joyce Watson

Council of Teachers of Mathematics held at the Wilkinson-Stumbo Conference Center.

The Eastern Kentucky Council of Teachers of Mathematics, an affiliate of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, held its fourth annual spring conference on Thursday, April 16, 1992 at the Wilkinson-Stumbo Conference Center at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. The conference attracted a record crowd for the region for a professional organization of its type with approximately 350 mathematics educators from all grade levels throughout eastern Kentucky in attendance. The high turnout was a reflection of the professional attitudes and commitment to quality education of the eastern Kentucky teachers. In addition, the conference had a host of session speakers considered by many to be among the best in Kentucky and surrounding states. Linda Mahanna of the Ashland Independent System and Connie Tackett of Floyd County served as speakers for the non-graded primary sessions, Dr. Alan Zollman from the Lexington Campus of the University of Kentucky served as speaker for the 4-8 grade level sessions, Jo Ann Mosier from the Kentucky Department of Education served as speaker for the secondary sessions, and Dr. Don Ryoti and Ann Booth from Lincoln County High School served as speakers for the college sessions.

Jo Ann Mosier, mathematics consultant in the Office of Assessment and Accountability for the Kentucky Department of Education delivered the after dinner address. Her talk "Making the Curriculum to Instruction to Assessment to KERA Connection" was an excellent illustration in simple terms of how the NCTM standards with their performance based objective go hand-in-hand with school reform and the new performance based assessment mandated by the reform act.

In addition, Dr. Mike Freeman, developer of the Math Excel Program for teaching calculus at the University of Kentucky spoke briefly to the group and praised the math teachers of the region for a job well done. Also, the winner and runner-up of the EKCTM organization emblem award were announced. The winner, Jennifer Goble from Allen Central High School will receive a $50 savings bond. The runner-up, Marty McKinney was also from Allen Central High School.

Two teachers from the region were recognized and presented with plaques by Professor John D. Sammons, EKCTM President for their outstanding contributions to education. The honorees were Joyce Watson, mathematics teacher at Allen Central High School, and Dr. Ben Flora, mathematics teacher at Morehead State University. Both educators are well known and highly respected across the state for their efforts above and beyond what is normally expected of classroom teachers.

For Your Eyes Only

INVISIBLE BIFOCALS

by Marcus Minix, FNAO

Although invisible bifocals have been widely accepted because of their cosmetic appearance, there exists some confusion about them—and rightly so.

It is the line around the bifocal magnification area which appears invisible because the line is blended into the lens. The bifocal magnification itself is not invisible. All so-called invisible bifocals are rightly called 'no line' bifocals.

However, there are basically two types of 'no line' bifocals: the blended bifocal and the progressive. Both are quite different in magnification and allow focus at different working distances from the face.

The advantage of the blended bifocal is cosmetic due to the 'invisible' blended line. Its round magnification area serves the same usefulness as the traditional bifocal where print is focused at a working distance of generally sixteen inches.

The progressive lens also has a blended 'no line' around an entirely different magnification area. Technically it is not a 'bifocal' but a multifocal because this lens has more than the two traditional focal ranges for distance and near vision. Progressive lenses magnify by progressive increase in magnification from the top of the reading area (just under the pupil) to just above the bottom of the frame where magnification is usually focused at sixteen inches away from the face.

This progressive magnification area is useful for those requiring focus of areas of intermediate vision (greater working distance away from the face than the usual sixteen inches) such as viewing computer screens, sheet music, or labels on cans on the top shelves at the grocery store.

Thus, the progressive lens has become an alternative to the traditional use of the trifocal to focus intermediate areas. However, success of wearing this lens depends upon the adaptation by proper head positioning and viewing through the appropriate portion of the progressive magnification area for the distance of the object to be focused.

Remember to consider these relatively new alternatives to traditional bifocals and trifocals. Discuss the cosmetic advantages of the blended bifocal and the optical advantages as well as the adaptation required of progressive multifocal with your professional.

"NO FISH IS WORTH THAT"

On April 2, Corps of Engineers personnel at Dewey Lake were notified by concerned citizens that 35 trees had been cut and fell into Dewey Lake at Dicks Creek and McGuire Branch. It appears the motive of this destruction was an attempt to establish fish attractors.

The outcome of this action was the willful destruction of public lands and resources. By performing this illegal act, healthy trees were destroyed, shoreline erosion accelerated and boating safety was jeopardized. The Kentucky Division of Fish and Wildlife are the only persons and/or agency authorized by the Corps of Engineers to perform fish and wildlife habitat enhancement on public lands at Dewey Lake.

Providing adequate fish habitat takes more than an energetic short-sighted fisherman with a bow-saw. Comprehensive management plans take into account all natural resource assets and how one affects and/or relates to the other. Trees utilized by the Kentucky Division of Fisheries for aquatic habitat are carefully selected, so as not to adversely affect other resources and safety concerns.

Timber cutting on Dewey Lake public lands, without written permission, is a violation of the Code of Federal Regulation (CFR), Title 36 Chapter III, Section 327.14b. Anyone involved in such activity will be cited for the offense and will appear before the U.S. Federal Magistrate in Ashland. The offender will be required to pay maximum restitution for each tree destroyed in addition to punitive action taken by the court.

If sportsmen in our community wish to assist with fish and wildlife enhancement, they should contact the Kentucky Division of Fish and Wildlife by calling 606-886-9575 or 606-886-9608.

Prestonsburg Community College gives 100 percent to UK library campaign

Prestonsburg Community College has reported 100 percent participation in the fund-raising campaign for the University of Kentucky's new library.

Prestonsburg faculty and staff have pledged $3,486. Ten community colleges reported 100 percent participation and two are above the 90-percent participation level.

The 14 community colleges have pledged a total of $116,603 with 87 percent participation.

More than $14 million has been raised in the statewide campaign which will continue even though the faculty-staff campaigns are about completed.

Plans call for the $58 million Commonwealth Library to be built on the campus in Lexington. In April, six architectural teams were named to compete for the rights to design the building.

Selection of a design team will be completed this summer and construction will begin in 1994.

The new library, a modern, state-of-the-art facility, will contain a new central and life science library totaling some 387,000 square feet—freeing the present library for other uses.

HAPPY BIRTHDAYS.....

Go to Wheelwright's Jimmy Helton, who will turn 18 this coming Tuesday; and to former Allen Central Rebel manager Sam Baca, who will no longer be a teenager as he turns 20 on Monday, May 11. So a big happy birthday to Jimmy and Sammy. Two fine individuals.

RECOVERY WISHES TO...

Jerry Helton of Wheelwright. Jerry is nursing a bad back and we wish him a quick recovery. Helton has been very helpful in calling in the Trojan baseball games to me. Get well Jerry!

PRESEASON SOFTBALL TOURNAMENT...

Got underway last night at Archer Park. The tournament kicked off the official softball season and 10 teams took part. Last night, the Sox's faced Winn Dixie in the first game and WMDJ played against Chandler Construction in game two. Game three pitted Giovanni's against Mountain Pipeline and Ken's Sport Shop faced Regina Mine Supply in the final game.

The tournament continues tonight with Heinisch Pharmacy going against the winner of the Sox/Winn Dixie game. Goble Signs will play the winner of the WMDJ/Chandler Construction game.

The tournament concludes on Saturday.

GOINS UPSET.....

Beaver Creek Little League President Jimmy Goins is upset about the recent picture in the Times "What is Wrong with these children?" Goins feels that both sides need to be heard. But the picture was an ad that was taken out by the team in question.

Seems that a team from Wayland has organized and wanted to join the Beaver Creek LL but it was voted by the league coaches and officials not to allow the team to enter because the Wayland team also played in the American Amateur League. A team cannot play in both leagues. So, therefore, according to Goins, the team was not allowed to join.

"We don't know where all the players come from," said Goins. Players in Little League baseball must be from the district they play in.

I don't know all the details of the problem but Goins said that rumors that a law suit had been filed against the league were false. It is a sad day when we have to start filing law suits to have a Little League team.

It seems that the biggest problem with our youth leagues are the parents and coaches who have ego problems. I don't know who is involved in this racket but I sure hope they, as well as the league officials, can act in a mature and responsible manner.

If the rules are against the team entering, then that team should abide by those rules. However, if room can be made for an extra team and that team is eligible under Little League rules, by all means, they should be allowed to participate if the rules allow for it.

GOINS SAID THAT ALL-STAR TOURNAMENT COULD COME TO FLOYD COUNTY

Goins also stated that there is a possibility of the district All-Star Little League tournament coming to Floyd County if the facilities can be secured. There are certain requirements in hosting such a tournament.

I have been fortunate to cover the last four years of the All-Star tournament at Paintsville and the folks there do a great job and have excellent facilities.

I really don't know any facility here in our county that can really match it for a place to play. District director Nick Frazier is the kind of commissioner who wants to share the classic event with other areas and he is to be commended for that. However, an equal facility will be hard to find

Invitational: Wade first in two-mile

Allen Central places fourth in Danville

The Allen Central men and women's track and field teams were very impressive at Somerset in the Danville track and field invitational this past Saturday.

However, circumstances beyond anyone's control prevented the women's team from finishing first. Allen Central's women's squad placed fourth out of 12 teams but, had some athletes not been hindered, the team would definitely have taken first place.

Coach Dewey Jamerson's team placed fourth behind Harrodsburg, Frankfort and Oneida Baptist. Harrodsburg totaled 88 points for first place with Allen Central totaling 75. But, according to Jamerson, his team lost 17 points at least because several of his runners had to be scratched in events they normally would have competed in.

"Lisa (Stumbo) sits on her knee and it swells; she's not able to walk and she doesn't run in the 100 and 300 hurdles. She would have finished at least fourth and that's eight points (four points for each event) we missed.

"Rachel Hunter had a bad ankle and didn't run in the 100 meters. There's at least a fifth place finish, and two points. Also, she can't run the 200 meter, a fourth place finish and four points. Krystal Floyd was out because of a death in the family and she can't run the 800 meters and we lose a point. In the shot put and discus for the women, Vanessa Collins is absent and we lost two points.

"That's a total of 17 points minimum we could have scored. Add that to the 75 we did score and we have a total of 92 points and we win it all," said the Allen Central coach.

Jessica Wade took first place in the women's two-mile run with a time of 13:00. Wade lost her first individual meet when she failed to place in the women's 1600 meters run. Wade ran a 6:20.69 in the mile race but had leg cramps while taking part in the event. Wade had ran the two-mile first.

"Jessica was only 30 seconds off her best time," said her coach. "She ran against 1A, 2A and 3A schools."

Wade usually runs in the half-mile (800 meters) but was pulled from the event after running the women's 1600 relays team placed second with a 5:04.09. The team consisted of Wade, Jenny Wiley, Lisa Albaugh and Dreama Isaac.

Allen Central had three second place finishes in the women's 400, 800 and 1600 relays. Missy Goble, Wiley, Isaac and Nikki Queen placed second in 400 meters relays and then in the 800 relays Albaugh replaced Goble to run with Wiley, Isaac and Queen. The squads ran a 59:02 in the 400 and posted a 2:09.03 in the 800 relays. Goble, Albaugh, Isaac and Charla Hall had a recorded time of 12:39.00 in the 3200 relays.

"It was the first time a women's relay team ran it in less than a minute in the 400 relays," said Jamerson.

Pam Goble had two third place finishes. Goble placed third in the women's 100 hurdles with a 23:19 and again in the women's 300 hurdles with a 1:10.52.

Missy Goble posted a 15:96 in the women's 100 meter run good for a fourth place finish. Queen placed third in the women's 200 meter run at 31:86 and Goble came in fifth at 33:61. In the women's 400 meter, Wiley had a 1:12.49 for third place and Isaac was fifth at 1:18.73.

"Boy, I would love to have won the meet," said Jamerson. "Just think of what it would have done for our women's program here at school."

In the men's competition, Allen Central placed fourth out of 13 teams from around the state which was won by Harrodsburg with 115 points.

Allen Central almost lets one get away against Magoffin County

It looked like it was going to be a laugher for the Allen Central Rebels baseball team. The Rebels rolled to a strong 15-3 lead after three innings of play. So, Allen Central coach Anthony Moore decided to let his junior varsity team get some playing time in and, in the fourth inning, Moore made some wholesale substitutions.

A whole new lineup entered the game except at shortstop where senior Stewart Hall stayed. The result was drastic as the Hornets put the sting in their bats and gave the Rebels a scare before they finally held on to win 17-16 and, who knows, only darkness should get credit for the save. The game was called after the six inning because of no lights.

Magoffin County scored three times in their half of the fourth inning against starter Jason Martin, who was breezing along. Martin hit lead off batter Robert Conley with a pitch and issued a one-out walk to Jason Litteral. Don Gillian came on to pinch hit for right fielder Robbie Perrine and caught a Martin fastball and it went sailing over the left centerfield fence for a three-run home run.

In the bottom of the fifth, Kevin Martin, who started the top of the inning, got Darren Gulliett to ground out to open the inning for Magoffin County but for the second consecutive time Conley was hit with a pitch. Martin walked Combs and Litteral singled to load the bases. Martin issued back-to-back walks to Gillian and J.J. Hackworth, forcing two runs home.

Moore had seen enough and in came Brad Scott with one out to face lead-off batter David Gibson. Scott got Gibson to ground to second where Roy John Martin made a great play, forcing Hackworth at second base. Scott walked Jamie Hoskins forcing yet another run. Brandon Holbrook's ground ball error hit to third base scored another run to make it a 15-12 game. Holbrook was caught in a run down and Gulliett grounded out to end the inning.

Allen Central scored two insurance runs in the sixth inning and they certainly came in handy. Moore reinserted his starting lineup in the fifth inning where they failed to score. But Frank Martin led off the Rebel's sixth with a base hit. Martin was running toward second base when Kevin Allen popped up to second baseman Brandon Holbrook. Martin could not get back to the back in time and was doubled off first. Stewart Hall walked with Brian Reed entering the game as a courtesy runner. Reed advanced to second on a wild pitch and stole third. He came in to score when Phillip Ritchie beat a slow roller to short for an infield base hit.

A comedy of errors pursued the infield hit and Ritchie just rounded the bases to score. Allen Central led 17-12.

In the bottom of the sixth, things got a little scary for the Rebels. Magoffin County scored four times as Scott opened the inning on the mound. However, Jason Martin had to be called in from first base to put out the fire as the Hornets were about to put a big "stng" on the Rebels with the bases loaded and no one out. Martin got Hoskins on strikes and prompted Brandon Holbrook to pop to short. Martin ended the threat with a strike out of Conley.

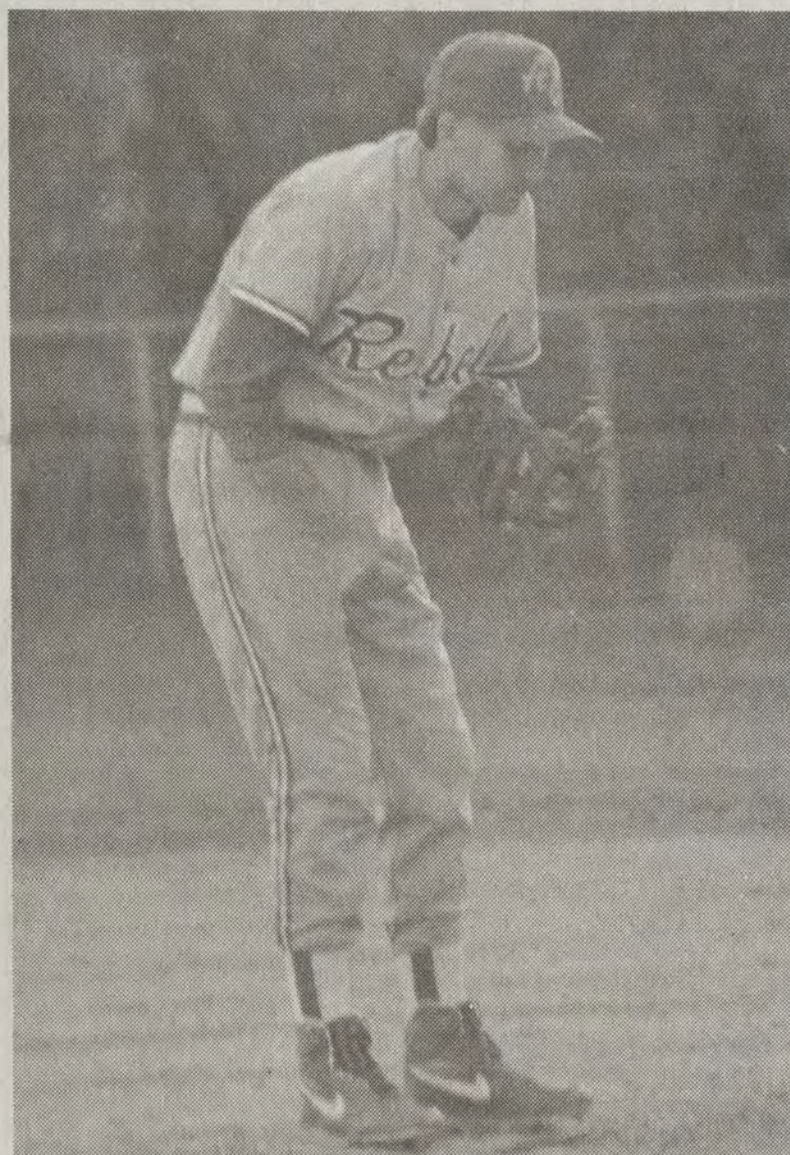

After the sixth inning, the game was called because of darkness, giving Allen Central a 17-16 win.

The Rebels scored six times in the first inning for a 6-0 lead as Jeff Hicks was making his first start on the mound. Hicks helped his own cause with a 325-foot homerun over the right centerfield fence. Jason Martin had a run-scoring double in the inning. All the scoring took place after two were out.

Magoffin scored three times against Hicks in the first inning for a 6-3 game as Allen Central committed three errors in the inning. The Rebels pushed across two runs in the second and third innings before five runs scored in the top of the fourth for a 15-3 game. Frank Martin had a three-run triple in the fourth for Allen Central. It was after the fourth that Moore decided to play his JV's.

Hicks was the winning pitcher working the first four innings for Allen Central. Hicks struck out four batters while walking two and hitting one batter. Hicks allowed six runs on five hits.

Tough outing!

Three Blackcat pitchers combine for 10-0 shutout of Wheelwright

Ronnie Goodman started, Thomas Ratliff followed him to the mound and Corey Reitz finished up the game to lead the Prestonsburg Blackcats to a 10-0 win over the Wheelwright Trojans last week in high school baseball in limiting the Trojans to just one hit in the game.

Goodman worked the first two innings in picking up the win. He struck out four batters and walked but one. Goodman did not allow a run or a hit in his two inning stint. Ratliff worked two frames and gave up one hit, five walks and struck out three. Reitz pitched the last inning of the mercy rule game and struck out all three batters he faced.

The win ran Prestonsburg's record to 19-4 on the season while Wheelwright fell to 3-6.

Chad Allen went the distance for Wheelwright in absorbing the loss. Allen worked five innings, gave up all 10 runs on eight hits and two walks. Allen struck out five batters.

Only three of the 10 runs scored against Allen were earned runs as the Trojans just could not field the ball in committing 10 errors. Wheelwright now has committed 33 errors in their last three games.

Charles Johnson collected the only Wheelwright hit in the fourth inning.

Prestonsburg scored five times in the fifth inning without the benefit of a base hit. Wheelwright had five errors in the inning as the Blackcats circled the bases.

The Blackcat pushed across four in the first inning in taking a 4-0 lead. Brandon Lowe reached on a throwing error at second base and moved to third on two wild pitches. Lowe scored on John Thomas Clark's base hit. Clark's hit was bobbled in centerfield for an error and Clark advanced to second base where he scored on Sean Damron's base hit.

Aaron Tucker's ground ball to second forced Damron at second, but Tucker immediately stole second base and came home on James Derossett's base hit. Derossett scored on Jason Crisp's single.

Lowe led off the Blackcats' fourth inning and advanced to second on a bobbled fielding error. Lowe scored on Tucker's two-out single.

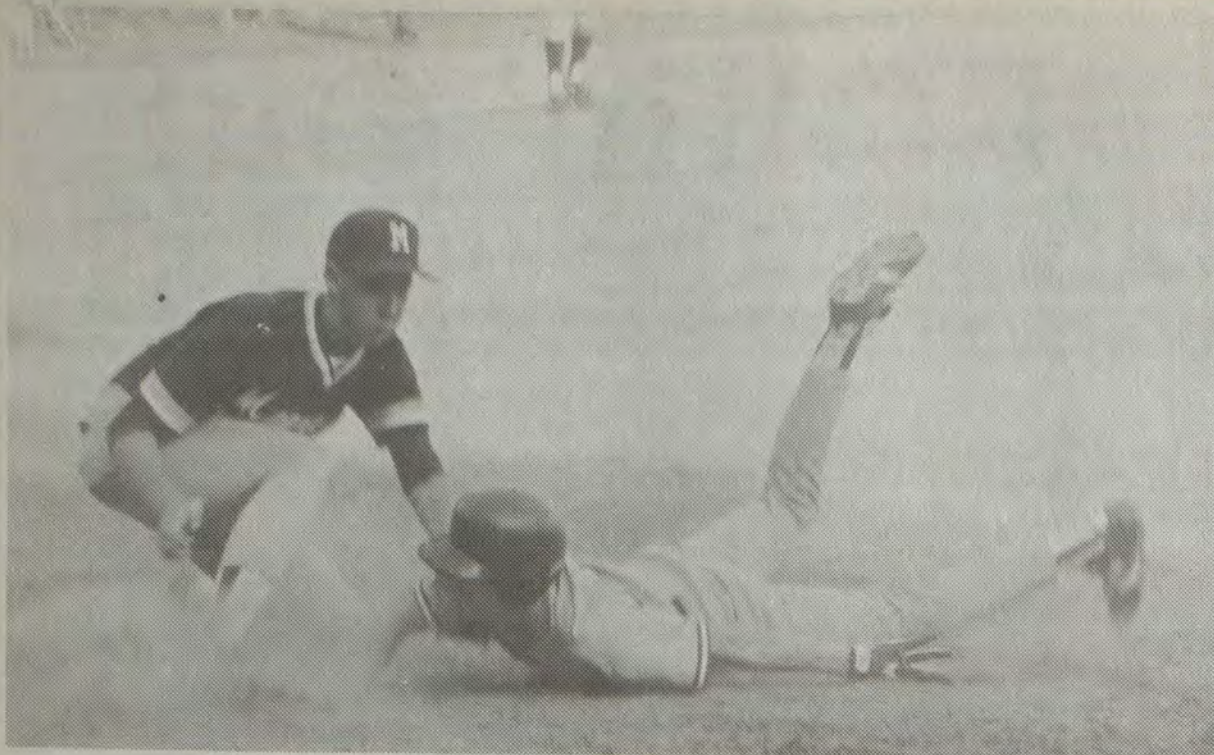

Prestonsburg had already plated two runs in the bottom of the fifth inning and leading 7-0 when Allen loaded the bases on a walk and two errors on the infield. Ratliff then hit a fly ball that was misplayed and all three runners scored on the error giving Prestonsburg a 10-0 lead and the game ended there because of the 10-run mercy rule after five innings.

Clark had two hits for Prestonsburg — both singles.

Prestonsburg will be at Johnson Central today at 4:30 p.m. for a regional game against the Golden Eagles. Wheelwright will play the winner of the Allen Central/Fleming-Neon game in the EKMC Conference tournament at Elkhorn City. The championship game will take place tomorrow (Thursday) at Elkhorn City.

Fourth

Danville placed second with 99 points and Oneida Baptist was third with 66 points.

"We did extremely well at Somerset," explained Jamerson. "There were a lot more schools this year. We beat some teams we had beaten last year and we beat some new teams this year. Our boys were tied for second after 11 events and I about fell off the stands when they announced we were tied for second."

Shawn Robinson placed second in the discus throw with a toss of 110-feet, despite being nervous.

"Shawn was very nervous in the meet," said Jamerson. "The winning throw was only 117-feet and Shawn has thrown that before."

Another Shawn — Bailey — placed third in the meet with a 102-foot toss. Bailey just keeps improving with each event, according to Jamerson.

"In the last three meets, Shawn had tossed in 100's," said the Allen Central mentor. "He is certainly coming along and when we need him to."

Kenny Crum was second in the men's shot put. Crum had a throw of 39-feet and seven-inches. Ronnie Samons, a newcomer to the shot put, placed fifth with a throw of 32-feet, 3 1/4-inches.

Kevin Patton, jumping for the first time in the long jump, placed fifth at 17-feet and 4-inches. Gary Webb did not place at 15-feet, 8 1/2-inches.

In the triple jump, Webb placed sixth at 34-feet, 6-inches. Jamerson said that Webb was only a half-inch short of the school record.

fifth inning. Reffitt and Melissa Bailey collected one out singles. Music then doubled home both runners and Music scored on Merion's base hit tying the game at 7-all.

Pikeville could get nothing going offensively in their half of the sixth inning. The first two Prestonsburg batters went out and Jamie Clay's two-out single got the winning rally underway. Amy Reed walked behind Clay's base hit putting runners on first and second. Reffitt's slow roller to third put both runners moving and Clay, on some daring base running, scored all the way from second on the throw to first base giving Prestonsburg the 8-7 win.

Reffitt had three hits, while Hale and Bailey each collected two. Music had the only extra base hit, a double. She collected two hits.

Clay bats Lady Blackcats to 76- win over tough McDowell

The McDowell Lady Daredevils tried to spoil the evening for the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats Monday evening at the Minnie Park. But the Lady Devils came up a run short as they dropped a 7-6 loss to Bridget Clay's ballclub.

The Lady Blackcats jumped out to a 3-0 lead after a half-inning of play. Jamie Clay and Amy Reed collected back-to-back triples for one run. Reed then scored on Carolyn Reffitt's ground ball for a 2-0 game. Stephanie Music then scored and advanced to second on a throwing error. Music scored the third run of the inning on a base hit by Sloane Onkst.

McDowell got on the scoreboard in the bottom of the first inning when Kristi Mullins blasted a solo home run.

With two out in the top of the second inning, Clay gave Prestonsburg a 4-1 lead with her solo home run. McDowell failed to generate any offense in the bottom of the inning.

The lead went to 5-1 when Prestonsburg tacked on another run in the top of the third. Reffitt opened the frame with a walk and moved to second on a fielder's choice. Reffitt advanced to third on a throwing error and scored on Onkst's second hit of the game.

McDowell plated three runs in the bottom of the third inning to make it a 5-4 game. Mullins, Debbie Fannin and Tackett had back-to-back base hits, scoring three times.

Good defense for both ballclubs highlighted the fourth and fifth innings as neither team was able to dent the plate. Prestonsburg went up 6-4 with a run in the top of the sixth inning. Pinch hitter Tara Fitzer singled to left center, Merion singled with Fitzer scoring on a single by Stacy Powers.

After McDowell failed to score in the bottom of the sixth, Prestonsburg added what proved to be the winning run in the top of the seventh. Reffitt singled to lead off the inning. Music's ground ball was thrown away, putting runners on second and third. Melissa Bailey was intentionally passed, loading the bases with Lady Blackcats. Jamie Ratcliff caused the move to backfire as she got her second hit of the game to drive in the later winning run.

McDowell staged a rally in the bottom of the seventh only to see it come up a run short. Susan Stephens had a one out single and Nikki Mullins then walked. Stephens scored on Michelle Hall's RBI single. An infield hit by Shannon loaded the base for McDowell and Kristi Mullins' ground ball scored Nikki Mullins for a 7-6 count. Fannin then ended the inning with a fly ball to centerfield.

Onkst had two hits in the game for Prestonsburg and collected two RBIs. Clay tripled and hit her homerun with Amy Reed getting one hit — a triple. Reffitt, Music and Ratcliff had two hits each.

The win improved Prestonsburg's record to 8-2.

A Look At Sports

in Floyd County. But it would be nice if the crowd-drawing event could come to our turf.

HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL IS WINDING DOWN

And tournament time is around the corner. It should be a very good regional tournament. Some very strong teams in the region and three of them come from Floyd County.

Johns Creek, Millard and Pikeville will vie for the crown as well as Betsy Layne, Allen Central and Prestonsburg. Of course, only two from the county will make it.

We certainly need to seed our teams as in basketball so that the two top teams are in different brackets from each other.

District tournament time starts in just over a week. Regional play follows the week after and then sectional play.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

Home run cut!

Barry Clark of Betsy Layne sent this pitch high over the fence in left field for his eighth home run of the season. The Bobcats defeated the Hornets 10-0 on a bases-clearing bunt in the fifth inning. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Collins' bunt clears bases in 10-0 Betsy Layne win over Phelps

The Betsy Layne Bobcats scored three runs in an unexpected way Monday as they posted a 10-0 mercy win over the Phelps Hornets at Stumbo Park.

Betsy Layne entered the top of the fifth inning with a 5-0 lead and looking to make it 10 runs and a shortened five inning mercy win over the Hornets. All they needed was five runs and the JVs could play.

Barry Hall, who seems to be coming out of a bothersome slump, line hard to shortstop for the first out of the inning but Barry Clark, who has been on a tear of late, drilled his eighth home run of the season over the left centerfield fence to make it a 6-0 game.

Chuck Laferty singled for the Bobcats to keep the inning going but he was caught off base in a run down. Phelps did not handle the situation well and Laferty was able to scamper back to first base safely.

Shawn Newsome walked and designated hitter Todd Akers got an infield hit to load the bases. Centerfielder Barry Collins got the sign from third base coach Junior Newsome. It was squeeze time. The suicide squeeze play was on. Collins bunted the ball down the third base line and from the time it left the third baseman's hand it was an adventure to watch as all three runners circled the bases as the ball was being kicked and throw around by Phelps. The tenth run scored when Collins trotted all the way round on the bunt. Collins' run ended the game as the mercy rule took effect.

Freshman Derrick Newsome showed why every coach in the region is high on his talents. The frosh scattered six Phelps hits in shutting out the Hornets.

After walking the lead-off batter, Danny Kidd, Newsome struck out the next three batters. He set the Hornets down in order in the second and, with some good fielding behind him, held the Hornets at bay despite two hits in the third inning.

Phelps collected three hits in the fourth inning but Newsome arose to the challenge and staved off the Phelps threat. Newsome retired the Hornets in order in the top of the fifth inning.

Betsy Layne scored a single run against Phelps' starter Chris Compton in the second inning. Back-to-back walks to Barry Hall and Clark put two runners on with no outs. Both runners moved up on a wild pitch and Hall scored on Shawn Newsome's long drive to centerfield.

Three runs scored in the Betsy Layne third inning. Hall collected two runs batted in with a base hit that scored Collins and Chris Potter. Hall scored on Clark's base hit.

Betsy Layne got a two-out walk to Derrick Newsome, who stole second, and a RBI single from Potter for a 5-0 game.

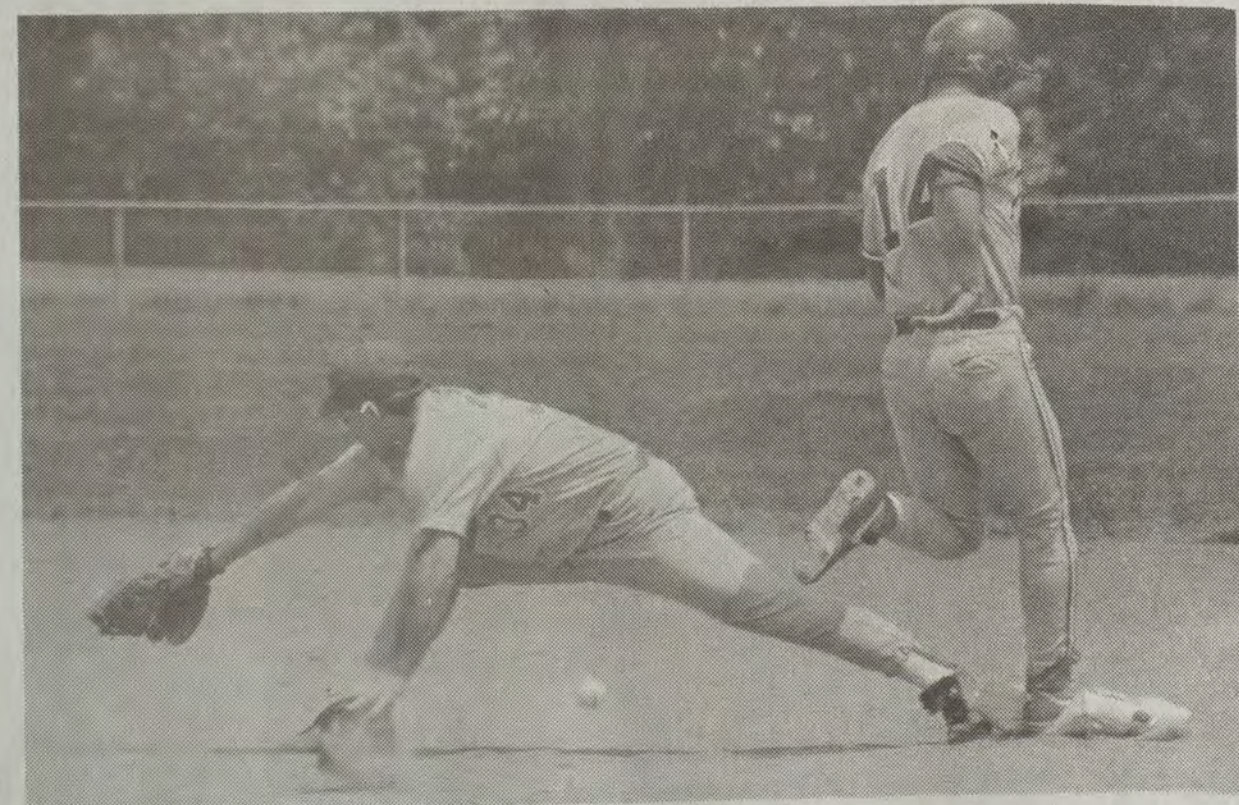

Newsome had six strike outs in the game and issued a game-opening walk to Kidd. Phelps stranded five runners against Newsome and left the bases loaded in the fourth.

Clark was perfect two-for-two in the game in picking up two RBI's. Hall drove in two runs with his base hit in the third. Betsy Layne left four runners stranded.

Compton was the loser in going the distance for Phelps. The hard throwing lefthander fanned three batters and walked six. He gave up 10 runs on six hits. Phelps committed one five errors. Four came in the fifth on the bunt.

Long stretch!

Shawn Newsome's two-run homer powers Bobcats past Rebels, 4-0

Shawn Newsome clubbed a two-run home run in the second inning off Toby Vance to lead the Betsy Layne Bobcats to a 4-0 shutout of Allen Central at Stumbo Park.

"I made one mistake in the game and that was hanging an inside fast-ball to Newsome," said the Allen Central starter, who pitched fine baseball the rest of the way. Vance allowed only one run over the last four innings on three hits.

Barry Clark was the winning pitcher for Betsy Layne as he tossed the three-hitter. Clark was getting his breaking pitches over that made his fast ball more effective. He breezed through the game with only one runner reaching as far as second base. Clark had three strike outs in the contest which is a low for him. He walked only one batter and his teammates committed one error behind him as only five base runners reached base on him.

Jason Martin was the only Rebel to reach second with a lead-off double in the second inning. Phillip Ritchie had a first inning single and Stewart Hall singled in the sixth. Ritchie also walked in the fourth and Vance was safe on an error at third base.

Betsy Layne took a 1-0 lead with a run in the first inning. Derrick Newsome led off with a double to right field and scored on a sacrifice fly by Bud Kidd. Barry Hall also had a hit in the inning.

It was 3-0 after two when Newsome clouted his sixth home run of the year — a two run shot with Laferty on base.

Vance kept the Bobcats at bay until the fifth inning when Kidd scored on a bases-loaded walk to Laferty. Kidd had singled in the inning with two out.

Vance worked the full six innings and walked five batters. He struck out three Bobcats.

Betsy Layne improves to 12-5 on the season and Allen Central dropped to 9-5 on the year.

Prater Indians scalp Allen Astros 20-6

Aaron Akers collected a double and a triple and drove in five runs to help the Prater Creek Indians' minor league team to a 20-6 win over the Allen Astros farm team Friday evening at the Stumbo Park as the Floyd County Little League season officially got underway.

Akers did all his damage in the top of the third inning when he batted twice. Akers doubled in his first at bat in the third while driving in two runs with his two-bagger. Akers batted the second time as his team batted around. He tripled in three runs in his second plate appearance. Astro pitching walked nine batters in the inning.

Prater Creek took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning when Wesley Senters singled and then he stole second, third and surprised everyone by stealing home.

Five walks and three errors led to an eight-run second for the Prater Creek team. Josh Kidd and Collins had a base hit in the inning as Prater Creek took a 9-0 lead.

The Astros scored twice in the bottom of the second inning on back-to-back base hits by Matt Zemo and Chris Hall. Both runners scored on a base hit by Neil Rice.

In the bottom of Allen's third inning, the Astros tried to avoid a mercy game but failed as they only scored four times. Dusty Stevens walked to lead off the inning and came around to score on a double by Brandon Jarrell. Jarrell stole third with Chris Hall drawing a walk. Hall stole second and scored along with Jarrell, on a base hit by Austin Shepherd.

Brandon Jarrell had a double in the game driving in one run for the Astros. Rice had two hits, a single and a double, and collected two RBIs.

Collins was the winning pitcher in going the three innings for Prater Creek. Collins walked three batters and struck out one. Rice was the losing pitcher in fanning one batter but walking eight.

Prater Creek (1-0) will face the Ivel Reds Thursday at Stumbo Park at 5 p.m. Allen (0-2) will still be looking for their first win when they play the Mud Creek Cubs tonight at Stumbo Park.

Drift Mercies Martin 25-10 in game at "old" Drift Park

The field is all new now but the site is the same place the old Drift ballpark used to stand. While the dugouts and backstop are all new, the memories of the games played at the location will always be just that — memories.

At the old site for the new field, the Drift Astros defeated a good Martin Blue Jay team 25-10 in a five inning game. The two teams are part of the Beaver Creek Little League organization.

Josh Hall picked the win for coach Clinis Hall's Astro team. Hall kept the Blue Jays off stride fanning 12 batters while walking eight. Jimmy Branham suffered the setback for coach Ricky Thornsby's Martin team. Pitching seems to be the early problem for the Blue Jays, according to their coach.

"We have a good hitting team," said Thornsby. "We can hit with the best of them in the league. But we just don't have the pitching to go with it. In both games we have played this year we have out hit the opposition. And, as we go along, we are starting to find other problems. But once we get it all worked out we will be able to play with anyone."

The big inning for the Astros came in the second when they batted around twice in scoring 19 runs.

"We got a lot of walks in the second inning," explained Coach Hall of his team's big second. "Todd had a big hit for in the inning."

Todd Walters drilled a three-run home run in the Astros second. Clabe Hall had a two-run triple also.

Drift scored three times in the top of the first with two runs scoring on Clayton William's two-run home run. Walters scored when he stole second, stole third and then stole home.

A pair of triples in the fourth helped the Astros to score four times. Josh Hall tripled to score Walters who had walked. Clabe Hall brought in Josh Hall with a three-bagger.

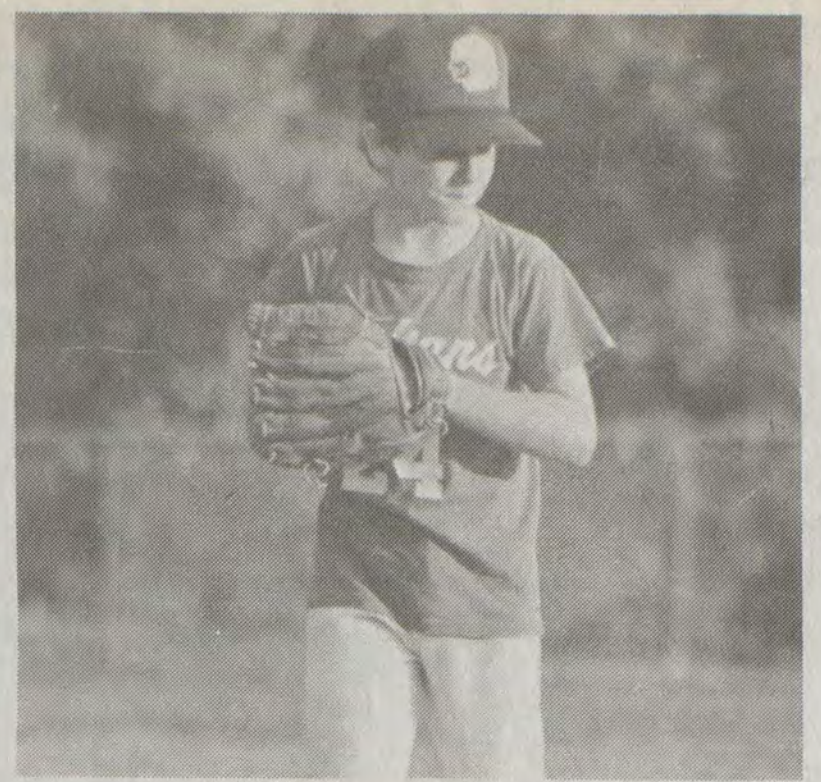

The Blue Jays were not without their big hitters as Shannon Myneir had a solo home run in the Blue Jays' fourth inning. Richard Jervis cleared the bases with a grand slam home run in the fourth inning for Martin.

"We've got good size on our team," said Thornsby of his young team. "We just need to work with them, and I believe we will be a better team later. We're a young team but we have some 10 year olds who can make contact."

While Branham took the loss, he had three stolen bases in the game along with a base hit.

Drift will play against the Martin Reds at the new Drift Park tomorrow at 5:30 p.m. The Blue Jays will play at Martin tomorrow at 5:30 p.m.

SuperAmerica joins KHSAA in serving Kentucky's youth

SuperAmerica Joins KHSAA in Serving Kentucky's Youth

Kentucky High School Athletic Association Commissioner Billy Wise and Dick Scofield, the Western Region Zone Manager for the SuperAmerica Group, Inc. have announced what both believe to be a beneficial partnership between academic and athletics.

Beginning in 1992, through the 1992-94 academic year, SuperAmerica will underwrite and administer the K.H.S.A.A.'s Academic All State program, which has recognized more than 5,000 Kentucky high school students each year since its inception. The program honors those students who maintain a cumulative 3.25 grade point average, while also participating in varsity athletics.

Scofield noted, "SuperAmerica has always been a big supporter of academic projects, and the coupling of academics and athletics should mean a tremendous partnership." Bob Jones, the special projects manager for the Southern Division of SuperAmerica, also noted "We are proud to be a part of this program that highlights students who excel both in the classroom and on the playing field, these types are certainly tomorrow's leaders."

As an extension of the academic involvement, SuperAmerica will also sponsor one of the K.H.S.A.A.'s Sweet Sixteen Academic Scholarships, one time grants to a participant in the Boys' and Girls' State Basketball Tournaments.

Wise comments, "the K.H.S.A.A.

is proud to have SuperAmerica as a corporate partner. They are outstanding citizens in the Commonwealth and have a large history of activity benefiting Kentucky's young people."

SuperAmerica will also become a corporate sponsor for the Boys' and Girls' Basketball Tournaments they will underwrite the Associations' trophy expense for both tournaments.

Settled down after the third but...

It was too late for starting pitcher Jimmy Helton as the Prestonsburg Blackcats posted a 10-1 win over the Trojans. Helton worked the full six innings and looked impressive after the third inning.

Prestonsburg 11-hit attack downs Wheelwright 10-1

The Prestonsburg Blackcats improved to 21-4 on the season with a 10-1 win over the Wheelwright Trojans Monday evening at Archer Park. Prestonsburg pounded out 11 hits as they reached Trojan starter Jimmy Helton early in the game.

Prestonsburg scored all the runs they needed in the first inning when two runners crossed home plate. John Thomas Clark drilled an opposite field double to left field and scored on Sean Damron's triple. Damron scored on Aaron Tucker's RBI double. Tucker scored on a passed ball.

Wheelwright went down in order in the first and second inning as Prestonsburg scored four times in the inning. A base hit by designated hitter Ronnie Goodman opened the inning. Goodman stole second and moved to third base on a sacrifice fly by Jason Crisp. Goodman scored on Scott Stephens single.

Brandon Lowe kept the inning going with a base hit and stolen base. Damron singled in two runs scoring Stephens and Lowe. Damron came around on Tucker's base hit.

The Blackcats scored their final run in the third inning when James Derossett reached on an error at first base as Chad Allen failed to handle a throw from third. Goodman drilled a deep fly ball toward the fence in right center that Layne Bailey made a super, super catch of. Derossett did score on a base hit by Crisp. First base coach Craig Tucker sent Crisp to second base on the throw to home plate, but pitcher Jimmy Helton cut the ball off and Tucker hollered "Oh, Lord" as Crisp was nailed going to second.

Wheelwright missed the shutout by scoring in the top of the sixth inning against reliever Goodman who came to the mound with one out and faced Mickey Johnson. Reitz had issued a lead-off walk to Bailey and then Johnson greeted Goodman with a long double that went to the fence. Jody Johnson blooped a base hit to right field that scored Bailey with the only run for Wheelwright.

Corey Reitz got the win for Prestonsburg. Reitz faced the minimum of batters in the first three innings even though Wheelwright did put a runner on base in the third inning. Reitz retired the first six he faced until Matt Johnson missed a home run by a foot as the ball hit high off the fence in centerfield for a double. Steven Shelton hit a one hopper back to the mound and Reitz threw to third to get Johnson in a run down. Johnson was tagged out and Kevin Johnson ended the inning with a ground ball to short.

Wheelwright left the bases loaded in the fourth inning as they missed yet another chance to score. With two out, Mickey Johnson walked and Jody Johnson was safe at first on an error. Charles Johnson singled to load the bases but Reitz got Chad Allen to end the inning by flying out to Lowe in left field.

The Trojans missed a chance for a big inning when the bases were left filled in the sixth with only one out. But Wheelwright missed the scoring opportunity when Matt Johnson grounded to second.

Helton was the losing pitcher going all the way for Wheelwright. Helton struck out two batters and he walked only one batter. He allowed 10 runs on 11 hits. Helton gave up all 10 runs in the first three innings.

Reitz picked up the win going six and a third innings. He walked three batters and struck out three. Reitz gave Wheelwright three hits in allowing but the one run.

Goodman worked the final 1 2/3 innings walking two and fanning three. He pitched shut out ball.

"Way to go Barry!"

Betsy Layne coach Junior Newsome congratulates Barry Clark after Clark hit his eighth home run of the season against Phelps Friday evening. Clark has been on a roll lately. The Bobcats won 10-0.

Mustangs score four in third for 7-3 win over Betsy Layne

The Millard Mustangs improved their season record to 8-4 with a 7-3 win over the Betsy Layne Bobcats in high school baseball action last weekend.

Millard pushed across four runs in the third inning en route to the regional win. Jason Smith picked up the victory for the Mustangs in a route-going performance. Smith struck out 10 Bobcat batters in scattering five Betsy Layne hits.

Smith retired the first eight batters he faced until he yielded a double to his counterpart Todd Akers in the third inning. Smith got Derrick Newsome on strikes to end the inning.

Akers suffered the setback but locked up with Smith in a pitcher's duel through the first two innings when he retired the first six he had faced. Millard reached Akers in the bottom of the third for four runs as they collected five hits. Gary Adkins was retired on a fielders' choice at second after opening the inning with a base hit. Matt Damron then skied out to right field for the second out, but the next four batters collected hits off Akers as four runs crossed the plate. Steve Coleman had a run-producing double in the inning.

Betsy Layne made it a 4-2 ball game with two runs in their half of the fourth inning. After Chris Potter fanned to lead off the inning, Bud Kidd reached first on an error on third baseman Matt Damron. Barry Hall then hit his sixth home run of the season scoring Kidd. Chuck Laferty had a two out single in the inning but could not score.

The lead was extended to 6-2 when Millard scored twice in the fifth. Akers retired the first two batters before Ron Adkins singled off the Bobcats' lefthander. Kevin Justice was safe on an error at third base and both runners scored on Reed Adkins' base hit.

Betsy Layne got their final run in the top of the fifth inning when sophomore Barry Clark blasted a solo home run. Millard completed the final 7-3 count with an unearned run in the bottom of the sixth.

Akers gave all seven runs on eight hits. Akers struck out six batters and walked one.

Martin swings big bat...

Sexton hurls, bats Allen Central past Neon in EKMC 9-1 win

Allen Central ace pitcher Robbie Sexton had things going pretty much his way as he led the Allen Central Rebels to a 9-1 win over Fleming-Neon in the opening game of the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference baseball tournament at Elkhorn City Monday evening.

Sexton went the distance for the Rebels as they improved to 10-5 on the season. The win snapped a two-game losing streak for coach Anthony Moore's ballclub.

Sexton struck out six batters while walking four batters. He pitched out two bases loaded jams in each of the second and sixth inning.

But Sexton also starred with the bat. The big righthander had two hits, a double, and he scored a run to help his team offensively.

Another highlight of the game came in the fourth inning for Allen Central when lead off batter Stewart Hall stole home.

The Rebels scored first in the first inning for a 1-0 lead. Phillip Ritchie collected a one-out single and scored on an error at shortstop off the bat of Jason Martin.

In the second, Allen Central pushed across two runs for a 3-0 margin. Sexton doubled to lead off the inning and scored on Kevin Allen's base hit. Allen later scored on a base hit from Hall.

Two runs in the fourth gave Allen Central a 5-0 lead as Allen walked to lead off the inning and went to third on an error from the catcher on an overthrow at third base. Allen then scored on Ritchie's sacrifice fly to center field. Hall then walked and stole all the way around scoring the second run.

It was an 8-0 ball game after the Rebels batted in the top of the fifth as eight men went to the plate. A one-out base hit by Sexton got the three run fifth underway. Sexton stole second and moved to third on a wild pitch. After Jeff Hicks walked and stole second, both runners scored on Frank Martin's two run single. Martin later scored the third run of the frame.

Fleming-Neon avoided the shut-out with a run in the bottom of the fifth inning. Josh Fleming collected a one-out single and scored on Scotty Brown's run-producing double.

Frank Martin doubled to lead off the second for Allen Central. Allen was hit by a pitch but Martin, in trying to steal third, was cut down by catcher Kevin Fleming. Allen scored on an error to make the run unearned.

Johns Richardson was the losing pitcher for Fleming-Neon. Richardson struck out four batters and issued six bases on balls. He yielded all nine runs on seven hits. Fleming-Neon committed four errors in the contest.

In the second inning, the Pirates loaded the bases against Sexton on a base hit, an error and walk. But Sexton bowed his neck and struck out Sheldon White and Fleming to end the inning. In the sixth Fleming-Neon got a lead-off double from David Shepherd only to see it nailed at third base on a throw from leftfielder Jeff Hicks. The Pirates continued to load the bases once again against Sexton, but the righthander got Josh Fleming to pop to third to end the inning. Neon left 11 men stranded in the game.

The win ran Sexton's personal record to 5-0 on the season as he continues to be tough to get to.

Allen Central (10-5) will face Wheelwright (3-7) tonight at 5:30 p.m. in the semifinals of the EKMC tournament. The winner will advance to the championship game Thursday evening.

MacMar Reds edge Garrett Braves in 13-year-old league

The Floyd County Babe Ruth 13-year-old league got their season underway this past Sunday at Stumbo Park as the MacMartin (a combination of McDowell and Martin players) Reds edged a good Garrett Braves team 14-13.

Kevin Robinson picked up the win in relief of starter Chris Moore. Robinson came on in the seventh inning to hold off a Garrett rally.

The Reds scored five times in the bottom of the sixth to snap a 9-9 tie and assume a 14-9 lead. Wade Damon reached on an error in left field and scored on Robinson's run producing triple. Robinson score when Thomas Jenkins' ground ball was misplayed at second base to make it an 11-9 game. After the Reds loaded the bases with two out, Beau Tackett cleared them with a three-run triple to give the Reds a 14-9 lead.

Garrett rallied in the seventh but the rally fell short. Brady Scott walked, leading off the inning and Jason Hicks was hit by a pitch, putting two runners on with no one out. Justin Hicks walked to load the bases for Garrett. After Nathan Sexton struck out, Donnie Owens drilled a two-run single scoring Scott and Hicks. Tim Bellemly walked to load the bases and a base on balls pass to Brandon Hicks forced home Justin Hicks. Tony Owens kept the inning alive by walking to load the bases for the third time in the inning. But Robinson got Scott on strikes to end the game.

Garrett scored five times in the first inning for a 5-0 lead at the expense of some wildness by Moore. Moore walked Bellemly after striking out Derek Conley and Owens to end the inning. The Braves sent 11 batters to the plate in the first inning. The Reds batted around in the first inning also as six runners crossed home plate for a 6-5 game. Slone walked and Robinson reached Hicks for a base hit setting up Thomas Jenkins' two-run triple. Moore scored Jenkins with a base hit and he came around to score on a double by Jason Woods. Justin Hopkins singled home two runs with a two out single.

Garrett went out in order in the second and failed to score in the third inning also after putting the lead off man on base. The Reds went on top 7-5 with a run in the bottom of the third inning. Tackett scored for MacMartin with two out.

The Reds pushed across two more runs in the bottom of the fourth after Garrett went down 1-2-3. Both runs scored after two were out. Both runs were unearned as they scored on an error at third base.

Two runs in the fifth and two in the sixth for Garrett tied the game at 9-9. In the fifth, Brandon Hicks singled to lead off the inning and Owens was safe on a pitcher's error but Hicks scored on the miscue. Owens later scored on a wild pitch.

Garrett only had four hits in the game while MacMartin collected nine safeties. Robinson and Jenkins each had triples for the Reds and each player scored three times. Woods had a double in the first inning.

The Reds are 1-0 at the start of the season and the Braves fall to 0-1.

Almost out of the park!

Jimmy Helton of Wheelwright got hold of a fastball and nearly parked it out of the ball park. The ball just missed going out to centerfield. Helton pitched for the Trojans against Prestonsburg. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Helton, Johnson homer in Trojan's loss to Shelby Valley

While the Wheelwright Trojans cut down on the number of errors they have been committing, scoring runs still is a problem for the Trojans. Wheelwright dropped a 7-4 decision to the Shelby Valley Wildcats last week at Dorton to fall to 3-7 on the year.

Jimmy Helton and Jody Johnson each connected for home runs in the Trojan loss. Helton was the losing pitcher working the first five innings. He entered the sixth inning but Blaine Tackett's lead-off home run chased the righthander in favor of lefthander Chad Allen. Allen retired the first two batters he faced but gave up an unearned run when Wheelwright committed two errors.

Wheelwright took a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Helton led off the game with a home run with Mickey Johnson and Layne Bailey following with base hits. After Charles Johnson struck out, Allen bounced to the pitcher moving both runners up. Jody Johnson ripped a base hit that scored Mickey Johnson and Bailey.

The lead did not hold up long as Shelby Valley reached Helton for four runs in the bottom of the first to take a 4-3 advantage. Jeremy Johnson reached on an error and stole second. Tony Newsome walked and Glenn Slayers followed with a base on balls also. After Matt Baker fanned, Shannon Wright drilled a grand slam home run off Helton to account for all four first inning runs. Shelby Valley reloaded the bases in the inning before Helton forced Nathan Burger to bounce back to the mound for an inning ending out.

Helton settled down and retired the next eight batters he faced until Mike Tackett reached on an error from the pitcher. Helton got the next two batters without any damage being done.

The Wildcats took a 5-3 lead with a single run in their half of the fifth. Newsome walked and moved on second on a ground ball back to the pitcher. Matt Baker struck out and Wright picked up his fifth RBI with a base hit scoring Newsome.

The Trojans scored their fourth run in the sixth inning to close to within one, 5-4. The run came when Jody Johnson led off the inning with a home run — his third hit of the game.

Helton took the loss for Wheelwright working his five innings. He walked five batters while striking out six. He allowed six runs on seven hits.

Jeremy Johnson was the winning hurler going all the way for Shelby Valley. Johnson walked four batters but struck out 11. Wheelwright had nine hits in the game. Helton and Mickey Johnson collected two hits each.

Wheelwright (3-7) plays the winner of the Fleming-Neon/Allen Central game in the EKMC tournament tonight at Jenkins.

Central Finance wins preseason tournament; more teams needed

Central Finance captured the Minnie Softball League's preseason tournament at the Minnie Park last weekend by defeating Hall's Auto 16-8 in the championship game. The league plays their games on Sunday afternoons and are in need of three more teams to round a 10-team league.

Any area teams that are interested in joining the league that plays two games each Sunday may call 452-9240 or 452-2227 for more information. There is a $100 registration fee per team.

In the 16-8 win over Hall's Auto, Bill Hammond hit a home run for Central Finance. Hall's Auto had taken a 5-0 lead in the first inning of the third game between the two teams. The tournament was of the double elimination format which requires a team to lose twice.

Central came back with four runs in their half of the first inning and they pushed across four in each of the third and fourth innings to take a 12-5 lead. Hall scored three runs in the bottom of the seventh but the rally fell short.

B. Johnson and Ricky Wallace homered for Hall's Auto.

Hall's Auto had defeated Central Finance when the two teams met in the winner's bracket. Hall's posted a 21-9 mercy win dropping Central to the losers bracket. Tony Hall, Gerald Osborne and Ricky Wallace had home runs for Hall's Auto. Wallace's blast proved to be the game winner.

David Cordial and Bill Hammonds hammered round trippers for Central Finance. Hammonds came in the fifth inning with the bases loaded.

Dropping to the loser's bracket, Central posted a 16-6 mercy rule win over Martin Services behind three home runs. Mark Helton, Wayne Allen and Cordial blasted four-baggers for Central that sent them into the championship series against Hall's Auto.

Central had little trouble with Hall's posting a 15-3 mercy win over the team that had earlier beaten them. Hammonds had a home run for Central and Wallace again blasted a round tripper for Hall's Auto.

The 15-3 win required Central to play Hall's again and Central won the tournament with the 16-8 score.

In their first game of the tournament, Central recorded a 16-0 win over Hall's (not auto). D.C. Carr hammered two home runs in picking up six RBIs. Kinzer Drilling fell victim to Central after a 14-4 mercy rule game. Again it was Carr with the long ball in the victory.

FACTS & FIGURES

Instant cameras are definitely in the business world these days. Seems that a growing number of organizations, from small companies to Fortune 500 firms, are using instant cameras to increase productivity and effectiveness of daily business communications, from adding visual interest to written reports, memos, brochures and newsletters to providing important documentation for insurance claims and legal situations.

Instant photos are also great for documenting projects-in-progress, for publicizing workers' achievements on the company bulletin board, for documenting office activities such as important meetings and much more.

For more than 40 years, hand-held cameras and instant films from Polaroid have been used for documentation and communication in industries such as insurance, real estate and shipping. Especially popular is the new, fully automatic Business Edition Camera, which uses Polaroid color integral instant print film—Professional Grade Type 779 or 600 Plus.

Featuring a built-in flash and close-up lens, it works with point-and-shoot ease.

National High School Chess Championship will be held in Lexington, Ky. May 8-10

The prestigious 1992 National High School Chess Championship will be held in Lexington May 8-10 and with a very special guest—World Chess Champion Garry Kasparov.

About 1,000 of the best high school chess players throughout the United States will participate in the tournament at Lexington Center's Heritage Hall downtown.

Joshua Waitzkin, who as an eighth-grader won the national championship last year, will be back to defend his title. Waitzkin, who also plays basketball for the Dalton School in New York, N. Y., has been winning major tournaments since he was in the third grade.

"Having the national championship in Lexington is a first for Kentucky and it's also the first time Kasparov has been a part of the national tournament," said Lexington Mayor Scotty Baesler, who announced plans for the tournament at a news conference here this morning.

Kasparov is being brought to the tournament through the financial support of the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government and the Sweet 16 Academic Showcase.

"We are thrilled that Lexington will host the National High School Chess Championship bringing in students, their families and their coaches from all over the United States," Baesler said.

"We are very pleased that the local government and the Sweet 16 Academic Showcase can make this event more special by bringing the World Chess Champion to the tournament," said John Cook, president of the Garden Springs Scholastic Chess Association Inc., which is sponsoring the tournament. "I'm sure these young people will never forget meeting grandmaster Kasparov, who is recognized as a chess genius and a fascinating person."

The grandmaster for the event will be Lexington's own Gregory Kaidanov. Kaidanov is one of the top 10 players in the United States and a world renowned chess coach. He is one of only two international grandmasters between New York and Los Angeles.

In 1985 at age 22 Kasparov became the world's youngest chess champion since the championship began in 1886. He also has a chess rating of 2800—the highest ever recorded. (A chess rating is an estimation of the player's strength based on game results.) A native of Azerbaijan, Kasparov is a colorful figure who was an early supporter of a more democratic government for his country.

If Kasparov's schedule permits, tournament officials hope that he can play a few games with the student participants.

Registration for the tournament will begin at noon on Thursday, May 7 with the first round of the tournament beginning at 1 p.m. Friday, May 8. The tournament will include a grandmaster lecture and a coaches' breakfast/workshop at 9 a.m., Saturday, May 9. Running concurrently with the tournament will be The National Blitz Team and Individual Championship. This competition, in which each player is given only five minutes for play, will be going on between the regular rounds of the main tournament. The championship will conclude with awards ceremonies beginning at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, May 10.

The tournament will involve three sections: (1) an open competition (2) a section for those rated under 1600 (3) a section for players rated under 1300. Some 350 to 400 trophies will be given to individuals and teams. Players must be high school age or younger. Some elementary and junior high students will participate.

The National Scholar-Chessplayer Award given annually by the U.S. Chess Trust and the U.S. Chess Federation will also be presented at the championship. The award is to recognize high school juniors and seniors who excel in academics, chess and sportsmanship. The three most qualified recipients also receive cash scholarships.

The tournament has received additional financial support from the following businesses: Central Bank; Custom Tool & Manufacturing; Curtis-Mathes; Sylvester Kiger; Liberty National Bank; and Magna Graphic Inc.

PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS

by Beth Jones

"FINALLY?"

Well, it is finals week. I'm not altogether sure this is a good thing, but nevertheless, it is here. I mean, I'm glad that this awful semester is almost over. However, finals week is very, very stressful.

"Final" is just a terrible word to begin with. It's so, well, final. Knowing that one exam can make or break you is a pretty scary thought. After one has studied all semester (and managed quite nicely), then he or she is expected to remember everything he or she has learned. I don't think so. I think the concept is a bit far-fetched.

On the other hand, finals week means all the misery and heartache (or should it be headache) is almost over. A little relaxation is ahead (not really, but it is nice to think it).

You know, it would be really nice to take a vacation next week. Yes, that is really what I need. I'd like to go, oh, Florida would be nice. Or maybe even Myrtle Beach. Shoot, I'd be thrilled to go to Lexington. Anyway, it would be grand to go somewhere and lounge beside the ocean or perhaps even a swimming pool.

I'd also like to have a little money to spend at some of those trashy little tourist attractions like "World of Reptiles" or "Used Cars of the Stars."

Seriously, though, I'd just like to get a little rest and not worry about anything. Of course, that's really not possible, but getting out of school will relieve a lot of pressure.

If I could win the lottery, I'd probably feel somewhat better. I could take my vacation then, couldn't I? I guess I could stand to win that measly $100,000, but I'd like to win 10 or 12 million (just so I'd be comfortable). Wishful thinking, huh?

Congratulations to all of you graduates. I'm sure your good times are only beginning. Good luck!

SPRING PLANTING
We have a little dog named Zip Code—a miniature long-haired dachshund. He has a long body and a long nose, and little short legs that have a long reach when it comes to digging.

No one know of any earthly benefit this dog is except that he fills some of the void left in a home after the children are grown and gone.

Whatever bother he has been or whatever expense his care has incurred matters not the least to him. So far as he is concerned, the world turns for him and anything at his disposal was placed there for his single enjoyment.

It's not always easy to recognize his concept, and sometimes I go about doing things that might also give me some measure of satisfaction.

I had decided last Spring to plant some new shrubbery. It was a kind that would grow and bloom outside my kitchen window. I went to great care to dig the ground deep enough and to water it sufficiently.

Even got carried away and transplanted two small trees, one a red maple and the other a flowering crabapple. Even after the initial work, I knew I would need to water them regularly for a while.

On the third evening, I was again making the appointed rounds with a water bucket. I shouldn't have been surprised to find that Zip had taken his digging exercise and uprooted every shrub I had planted.

But he hadn't bothered the two little trees I had planted with such great care—the trees I had pampered and watered.

He didn't have an opportunity for that. My husband had already cut them down with the riding lawn mower.

TOO DIFFICULT

Donna and Keith Williams live at Dana with their three children—Alan, Rachel and Matthew.

Matt is seven now and a second grader at Prater Elementary School. But before he was old enough for classes, he would stay home with his mother and play with books and toys while the others were away at school. Sometimes she would play games with him and look for little learning experiences.

One day he came across a church bulletin that had a child's picture on the front. "Who is this?" he asked.

"It's a girl from Bolivia," Donna told him. "Can you say Bolivia?"

"Bu, bu, bu," he tried. "I can't say it."

"Yes, you can," she urged. "Try again."

"Bu, bu, bu," he gave up. "I just can't do it, Mommy. I can't say Bolivia."

OPPORTUNITY

"They do me wrong who say I come no more."

When once I knock and fail to find you in:

For every day I stand outside your door

And bid you wake, and rise to fight and win.—Walter Malone

Call-A-Nurse goes on-line in Floyd County

Call-A-Nurse

The friendly voice of Karen Herald, R.N., will greet the caller to the Call-A-Nurse program. Herald is one of two registered nurses who will man the HRMC sponsored program. (photo by Janice Shepherd)

Medical assistance

R.N. Melissa Shave will answer questions regarding health care through the assistance of Micromedix information files. The Call-A-Nurse program is sponsored by Highlands Regional Medical Center. (photo by Janice Shepherd)

A new, toll-free health information and emergency phone line has been introduced in Floyd County by Highlands Regional Medical Center. Call-A-Nurse is designed to help people obtain answers and appropriate assistance in a wide variety of health related situations.

By calling the toll-free number, 1-800-884-Nurse, callers will speak with a registered nurse who will personally answer questions and help identify the nature and severity of health problems.

Manning the helpline will be Melissa Shave of Hager Hill and Karen Herald of Paintsville. Both are registered nurses and have been trained for the program.

Both also have medical backgrounds that should prove invaluable to the program. Herald has had training in the specialty of coronary care and Shave has undergone medical oncology (cancer) training.

The nurses are also eager to lend a helping hand. "This is an opportunity to serve the public in a way we've never been able to do before," said Herald.

"We can reach them before their illness worsens," said Shave. "In the hospital, they're sick and their illness is treated. This is health promotion."

When the nurse goes on line with the caller, she will ask a series of questions prompted by a specially designed computer program by Micromedix accesses information files and hundreds of different protocols or groupings of symptoms which point to a health problem. The computer program is one of a series being installed by Highlands Regional Medical Center to make health care services and information available to more people when and where they need it most outside of a hospital setting.

Call-A-Nurse assists people with routine questions such as, "At what age should a youngster be given immunization shots?" Or, "What are the signs and symptoms of Alzheimer's Disease?" Or, "Is there a weight loss program available in Floyd County?" Drug related questions can also be answered by Call-A-Nurse, such as,

"Is it a problem that my father has forgotten to take his Inderol for two days?" Or, "Can I give my baby Tylenol because she has a fever?" Questions about all drugs — prescription, over-the-counter or street drugs — can be directed to Call-A-Nurse.

And the program helps callers in serious or emergency situations needing to determine the seriousness of a problem and what to do: injury, upset stomach, vomiting, severe stomach pain, cramps, chest pain, fever, dizziness, bleeding from rectum, severe skin rash, itching, sore that doesn't heal and any health problem that causes worry.

The service supports area physicians and hospitals by giving patients answers and can, if warranted, more exact instructions for obtaining treatment. The nurse will notify physicians and emergency rooms when patients are coming in for emergency or urgent treatment, saving time for patients and doctors alike.

Currently, nurses will be on duty at the Call-A-Nurse number Monday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Off-hours, phone messages will be taken by an operator and directed, according to urgency, to hospital emergency room personnel.

The hospital's goal is to have a 24-hour, 7-day service available, but that's about three or four years away, said Kathy Rubado, director of Marketing and Public Relations at Highlands Regional. Or, it could be sooner, according to public demand. The hospital will also expand the service to neighboring counties by the end of this year.

The program is also designed to assist area law enforcement, emergency medical services, park rangers, school officials and airport personnel in dealing with health questions and emergencies.

Public officials will be given supplies of free Call-A-Nurse stickers to provide to the public upon request. For the general public, Call-A-Nurse stickers and magnets will be mailed to every household in Floyd County as well as being distributed through doctors offices and at the Medical Center. Additional stickers and magnets are available free by calling Ann Martin, 1-800-533-HRMC.

Poison Oak

SOME MEMORIES ARE EMBARRASSING

For the most part, those things about which I write as having occurred during my growing-up-days in Muddy Branch are true. At least they're true as I remember them.

However, even though all of those little day-to-day incidents combined to help form my character—to make me what I am today, such as it is—I'm not always particularly proud of some of the things we did as youngsters. As a matter of fact, as I look back on those days, some of the memories that return are actually kind of embarrassing. Nearly 50 years later, as an adult, I don't even want to try to imagine why we did some of the things we did, even though at the time we did them, it seemed perfectly natural.

For example, I'm ashamed of the way we tormented one old fellow who, although he didn't live in our neighborhood, would often walk through it. We all knew him by sight and we'd wait until he walked by, then we'd try to sound like a rooster. That's right, we'd just rare back and crow to the top of our lungs.

This would make him so angry that he'd grab up a chunk of coal or a rock the size of your fist and try to decapitate one of us with it. He'd cuss and throw and call us "little idiots" until we'd take shelter behind a coal gon or put enough distance between us to be out of range.

I can't remember any of his rocks ever hitting anybody, but as I look back now, I think it might have taught us a good lesson if one of them had taken one of us slap between the eyes. Of course, if one of our parents had caught us harassing this old fellow, we'd have ended up in more trouble. I guess it was just a risk we were willing to take ... for the sake of fun.

This is a true story. We did indeed act like the "little idiots" he accused us of being. But what may or may not be true is the reason behind why we did what we did. I'll just pass along the story and you can decide for yourself whether you choose to believe it or not. Regardless, though, of whether it be fact, fiction, just a plain lie, or even a legend, we apparently believed it then.

Anyway, in a 1940's Eastern Kentucky coal camp, it wasn't at all unusual for folks in the neighborhood to keep livestock. Hogs, milk cows, a horse or two, and especially chickens were rather commonplace.

Well, the story went that real late one night, one of the neighbors heard this loud racket coming from his hen house. He got his shotgun (everybody had one) and went out to investigate, no doubt thinking the din was the result of some four-legged varmint—a fox or a weasel or maybe a polecat.

As he crept up on the chicken house, out of instinct I suppose, he asked, "Who's there?"

To his surprise came the familiar voice of the fellow at which we crowded and who threw rocks at us, saying, "Just us chickens."

I realize that whether the story was true or not shouldn't have excused our ignorance. But, memories do have a tendency to often include those things of which we're not very proud. This is an example.

I don't know what ever became of this old fellow. As we grew older and became interested in other things, his visits to the neighborhood became less and less frequent. I guess we sort of forgot about him.

Hopefully, he forgot about us, too.

Visit your vet

Well, last week was our first visit to Dr. Ousley. Oscar, our (must be kept inside) dog, was scheduled for surgery last Tuesday.

by Kim Frasure

Worried, as all pet owners are, I phoned a few hours after I'd dropped him off to check and make sure everything was okay. Everything was fine, so I figured I would take the opportunity to ask about Percy, our cat.

"How long should we wait after a cat has kittens, before we schedule her to be spayed?" I asked.

"After the kittens are weaned," the lady replied.

Well, she just had them last Saturday and they are beautiful—three black fuzzy, tiny kittens—I went on like the proud grandmother I am.

Then, the lady went on to tell me I needed to get Percy on the pill in the mean time. Wow! Cats on birth control pills, this is wild.

But I sure don't need another litter around in a few months, so I told her to add Percy's birth control pills to Oscar's neutering bill and I'd pick them both up later.

When Tiff and I arrived to pick-up Oscar, I went to the office window to pay.

"I'm here to pickup Oscar," I told the lady, "and some pills for Percy."

"Here you go," she said. "Your total will be $39."

FANTASTIC, I thought.

This is great.

I've wanted a tubal since 1984, but the spouse and I don't have 5,000 bucks laying around anywhere.

My demented mind began to wonder. "Umm, I wonder if I offered Rudy $75, if I could get a tubal."

Hey, it's a thought, okay?

Norma, a friend of ours, has had both of her dogs spayed and says she's never seen a better stitching job in her life. She also says if she ever has to have surgery, she wants Rudy to do the stitches.

Maybe Doc Ousley ought to consider humans too.

Anyway, ol' Oscar's doing just fine now. Tuesday evening I was worried, I patted him on the top of his head and "THUD" he fell over like a ton of bricks.

SPOUSE, I screamed, come here, something's wrong with Oscar.

"Kim, he's just groggy from his shot," he said, "he'll be fine."

Thursday came and Oscar was back to his playful self. Except he kept growling and barking a real mean bark at me.

"What's wrong Oscar?" I asked. "Why are you barking at me?"

Ronnie smugly looked at me and replied, "Huh, I'd be mad at you too, if you'd taken me to Rudy to be neutered."

Hey—now that's a thought.

Till next week, spay and neuter you pets, not your spouse.

It is estimated that one in four adult Americans have high cholesterol levels — that is, cholesterol levels above 240 mg/dl, as established by the National Cholesterol Education Program.

The time has finally come to take the mystery out of the soufflé. That's right, we're going to de-mystify those culinary delights which, when merely mentioned, can strike terror in the hearts of novice cooks and, when appearing on the dinner table, can give guests the impression that you've spent many years (and dollars) training in French cooking schools.

Thanks to some new methods and helpful hints, anyone with a smidgen of patience can create these delectably light concoctions.

The term soufflé, past participle of the French verb meaning "to breathe, to whisper," refers to the delicacy of these air-filled delights. Depending upon the flavors selected, soufflés can be served as a delicious and majestic dessert, appetizer, side dish or even a "light" lunch.

In British culinary expert Prue Leith's indispensable volume, The Cook's Handbook (A and W Publishers, Inc.), Leith offers some sage advice to ensure that the classic soufflé will arrive on the table high, light, fluffy and delicious.

Since soufflés rise because hot air becomes trapped in the beaten egg whites, proper beating of the egg whites is of paramount importance.

Using a large balloon whisk and copper bowl, which has been rubbed with a lemon half and a little coarse salt, will produce the greatest volume of air. This requires the most time and patience and is likely to produce the most spectacular results. Hand mixers and rotary beaters with any type of bowl are also satisfactory.

Once beaten to medium peak, egg whites should be used as soon as possible or else they will lose air and become liquid.

The base for the classic soufflé should remain the consistency of gently whipped cream even after the addition of whichever flavoring or ingredients your recipe calls for. Leith also cautions that, as there is no distinct flavor to egg whites, the base you use must be well seasoned.

When folding the base into the beaten whites, be sure to use a gentle lifting and turning motion so as not to lose air in the egg whites, but still leave visible traces of egg white in the finished mixture.

Before putting a soufflé into the preheated oven, give the dish a sharp rap on the counter. This will displace any overly large air pockets in the mixture.

Be sure to coat the inside of the soufflé dish with butter to help the soufflé rise up the sides while baking. Also, making sure that the oven is hot and the soufflé dish is placed on top of a preheated cookie sheet will help the soufflé to heat quickly and rise evenly. Never open the oven for at least the first three-quarters of the recommended cooking time.

Lastly, to test for doneness, the soufflé should only tremble slightly when given a sharp shove.

In a medium bowl, beat the egg yolks until very thick and light in color. Beat in the cream cheese, sour cream, mustard, and smoked salmon.

In another medium bowl, beat the egg whites with the lemon juice until firm but still glossy. Fold into the yolk mixture.

Spoon into prepared soufflé molds and bake for 8 to 10 minutes, or until puffy and browned on top.

CHOCOLATE SOUFFLE

Serves six
1 1/2 ounces unsweetened chocolate
5 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1/8 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup milk
3 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla

Preheat the oven to 325°F.
Butter a 1 1/2-quart soufflé dish and sprinkle it with sugar. Put the chocolate, 2 tablespoons of the sugar, and 2 tablespoons hot water in a small pan and heat slowly, stirring occasionally, until the chocolate is melted and smooth; remove from the heat and set aside. Melt the butter in a skillet, then add the flour and salt.

Cook over low heat, stirring, for several minutes, then gradually stir in the milk. Cook to the boiling point, stirring; the sauce will become smooth and thick. Blend in the chocolate mixture. Beat the egg yolks well. Stir a little of the hot sauce into the yolks, then add the yolks to the remaining sauce. Stir well, then set aside to cool. Beat the egg whites until foamy, slowly add the remaining 3 tablespoons of sugar, and continue beating until stiff but not dry. Stir a fourth of the whites into the chocolate mixture, then fold in the remaining whites. Stir in the vanilla. Spoon into the soufflé dish and bake for 35-40 minutes. Serve with whipped cream.

Hard Facts About Fat

In today's kitchen, vegetable shortenings have replaced lard. Foods are pan-fried in vegetable oil versus butter. And margarine is the everyday spread of choice.

Many of us have made changes like these in an effort to reduce animal fats, which are primarily saturated and, thus, have the potential to raise blood cholesterol. However, when vegetable fats are hydrogenated, they also become saturated and, thus, have cholesterol-raising potential, says Mary Helen Gunkler, registered dietitian and staff nutritionist for Total cereal.

Hydrogenation is a process of solidifying vegetable oils to form fats that are harder at room temperature, such as stick margarines and shortenings. Hardness of fat is important in preparing many food items, such as baked goods, sauces and desserts, because it provides a pleasing taste and texture. And a fat, such as margarine, is far more appealing than oil as a spread for toast. At the same time, however, fats that are hydrogenated, or made more solid, become more saturated and act similarly to other saturated fats in the body.

Hydrogenated vegetable fats vary in their degree of saturation. The softer the margarine or shortening, the less hydrogenated it is. For example, tub margarines are less hydrogenated than stick margarines. Squeeze margarines are even less hydrogenated.

Highly hydrogenated vegetable fat needs to be accounted for in the diet as saturated fat, concludes Gunkler, and no more than ten percent of total calories should come from this type of fat.

Proper diet and exercise for healthy bones now and for the future

As Americans grow older, the incidence of osteoporosis also increases. Osteoporosis is a slow-developing bone disease. The bones can become brittle, weak and more susceptible to fracture.

Osteoporosis is reaching epidemic proportions. About 1 in 4 women break at least one bone by the age of 65. Often these fractures are hip bones or vertebrae.

Researchers have found that the best treatment for osteoporosis is prevention. With proper diet and exercise, you can reduce your risk for developing osteoporosis later in life.

"To prevent osteoporosis it is necessary to eat a balanced diet including foods rich in calcium and vitamin D," offers Ann Marie Stazenski, nutrition education consultant, Dairy & Nutrition Council Mid East. Good sources of these nutrients are found in milk, cheese, yogurt, salmon with bones, kale and broccoli. The milk group is a major source of calcium, supplying 77 percent of the calcium in the U.S. Food Supply. Children need three servings a day from the milk group. Teenagers and young adults (ages 11-24) need four servings and adults need two servings from the milk group each day.

Exercise can help to prevent osteoporosis. Weight-bearing exercises, such as walking, jogging or tennis, help to promote stronger bones.

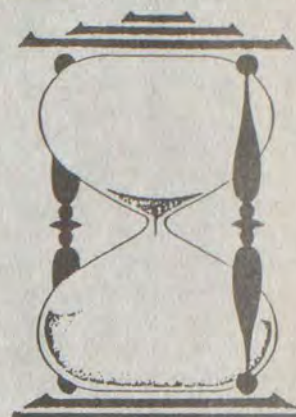

Alcohol, caffeine and fiber, when consumed in excess, may contribute to bone loss. Smoking may also contribute to bone loss.

To reduce your risk of developing osteoporosis, eat a variety of foods rich in nutrients, especially calcium, and get plenty of exercise.

ALZHEIMER'S UPDATE: I received an interesting release from the Alzheimer's Association and Related Disorders Association regarding their recent activities.

They are supporting the following proposed legislation:

1. Family Caregiver Support Act (S.972/H.R.2106) to provide flexible respite care benefits for primary caregivers of those with Alzheimer's disease and other chronic illnesses who require constant care and/or supervision.

2. Family and Medical Leave (H.R.2/SS) to provide job guaranteed unpaid leave for workers who need time off to care for a parent, spouse, or child who has a chronic illness such as Alzheimer's disease.

Another priority is securing a $1 million funding for a nationwide system to locate missing persons with Alzheimer's disease and return them to their families. The system would also train police and other emergency personnel.

FROM THE HERE WE GO AGAIN DEPARTMENT: A few weeks ago, Senator Warren Rudman, who is retiring from the Senate this year, and Senator John Danforth, spoke about the problems the country is facing with its enormous deficit. And, you guessed it, they suggested that more members of Congress show "courage" (their word, not mine) in tackling the costs of the entitlement programs, even if they risk losing their Congressional seats.

If you feel you're experiencing another attack of deja vu, you are. We've come down this road many times over the past few years.

But the fact is that Social Security is not a boondoggle that can be held hostage to a budget. It is an insurance program for which the insured pay for the benefits. As New York's Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan has reminded us many times, Social Security is not a drain on the nation's wealth.

As a matter of fact, Social Security benefits help keep the country going. Can you imagine the sudden impact on the economy if so many people could no longer pay their rent or afford even the basics? And, can you imagine the strain on local agencies which would have to come in to pick up the slack?

Sadly, many states, including New York, have had to cut back on Medicaid funding. But the states are mandated to have balanced budgets. Without Washington's help, they are squeezed for money to pay for programs which they are also mandated to maintain.

Eastern Kentucky in the Civil War Part II: The Battle of Ivy Mountain

by Jimmie Epling

The fall of 1861 was the decisive turning point for Kentucky in the Civil War. Neutrality for the border state was an unrealistic dream as Union and Confederate forces exerted their influence. The Union began actively recruiting in Central Kentucky in late August at Camp Dick Robinson under Gen. William O. "Bull" Nelson. Confederate forces occupied strategically important Columbus on the Mississippi River on September 3rd and established a pro-Southern state government on the 18th at Bowling Green. The Union seized Paducah and established its headquarters at Louisville. From these centers, the armies set about securing control of the Commonwealth. Eastern Kentucky would not be ignored.

After the failure of neutrality, the community of Prestonsburg, in Floyd County, became the rallying point for East Kentucky Confederates. The road to Virginia from the Bluegrass passed from Mt. Sterling through Salyersville, on to Prestonsburg, and out through Pound Gap. Kentuckians, like former vice-president and 1860 presidential candidate John C. Breckinridge, rode through Prestonsburg on the way to Virginia to join the Confederacy. A recruiting camp, known as Camp Smith or Camp Dixie, was founded by John Fickland, Hiram Hawkins and John S. Williams in October. Volunteers flocked to the camp by the hundreds. Soon, there were nearly a thousand men. Rumor quickly spread in Kentucky that there were thousands of men preparing to march on the Bluegrass, Catlettsburg on the Ohio River, or both.

Gen. William T. Sherman, who commanded the area including Eastern Kentucky, grew nervous about the rumors of attack. There was no Union force in the area able to meet the threat. The 14th and 22nd Kentucky Infantry were not completely organized and would pose little problem for the Confederates forces. Gen. Sherman strongly suggested to "Bull" Nelson on October 8th that he drive the Confederates from the state at the first opportunity. Nelson wasted no time.

Nelson deployed the 2nd Ohio Infantry at Olympia Springs, 20 miles east of Mt. Sterling, to intercept Confederate sympathizers on their way to Prestonsburg. Word came of an impending advance into the Bluegrass by the Confederates on October 12th. Reinforcements, the 21st and 33rd Ohio Infantry, were sent and plans made to counter the move. On the 22nd, Nelson's forces marched on Hazel Green and West Liberty to attack a rumored 2,000 Confederates in the area. Only at West Liberty did he meet a few hundred poorly trained and supplied men under Captain Andrew Jackson May. May hoped to turn back any attempt to attack Prestonsburg, but failed. That evening, part of the 33rd Ohio captured some Confederates at Hazel Green. The following day, Nelson united his forces.

May returned to Camp Smith to report Nelson's advance. A council of war led Col. John S. Williams, a Mexican War veteran, to order Prestonsburg abandoned and establish a camp at Pikeville to await reinforcements. Rumors about the Confederates forces at Prestonsburg were wildly exaggerated. The over 1,000 men, who would become the 5th Kentucky Infantry, were poorly trained and equipped. Uniforms and shoes in short supply, weapons brought from home or obsolete flintlocks to use, and "not two rounds of ammunition" for each man made them, in reality, little threat to Union designs. Williams believed Nelson would not pursue his tiny force to Pikeville. Nelson entered Prestonsburg unopposed on November 5th.

Nelson rapidly established Union civil authority in Floyd County. He felt he could drive his enemy from the state. His plan was to split his command into two columns for a two pronged pincer attack on Pikeville. The first column was ordered on November 7th to march by way of John's Creek to the left of Pikeville, 40 miles, turn and attack. Under the command of Col. Joshua Sill, the column consisted of the 33rd Ohio Infantry, with part of the 2nd and 59th Ohio Infantry, a small cavalry detachment, and a section of artillery. The second column, under Nelson himself, left the next day on the direct route to Pikeville, 28 miles. Nelson's column consisted of the 2nd, 21st and 59th Ohio Infantry, some Kentucky volunteers, and two sections of artillery.

Williams' estimate of Nelson's force was about 5,000 men. If the semioorganized and poorly equipped Confederates under his command were to escape entrapment, they would have to withdraw quickly. The road to safety passed through Pound Gap into Southwest Virginia. The withdrawal would take time. Williams detailed two cavalry detachments on the 8th, one on the John's Creek road and the other down the Levisa Fork road toward Prestonsburg, to observe the movements of each column. After a brief engagement with Nelson's column on the Levisa Fork, 15 miles below Pikeville, the Confederate cavalry detachment crossed Ivy Creek. They partially destroyed the bridge and reported the Unionist's position. Nelson could only watch, as he had no cavalry to pursue.

The news that Nelson's column was the smaller of the two presented Williams an excellent opportunity to delay the Federals. He sent May and Captain Hiram Hawkins with two companies of infantry and twenty cavalry, about 250 men, to attack. May and Hawkins selected a site one half mile below Ivy Creek at Ivy Narrows. Here, he deployed in a naturally strong defensive position. Ivy Mountain rose on one side of the road, steep and thickly covered with timber and undergrowth, while on the other side of the road, the river bank dropped sharply 25 feet into the river. The road at this point was only seven feet wide and formed a complete elbow about the side of the mountain. A small detail of men was sent across the river, while May concentrated another small detail near the road, and the rest were spread in a thin line along the mountain side to give the illusion of strength to slow any flanking movement. The deployment complete, May ordered all to wait quietly concealed "until you hear my pistol crack." The ambush was ready, only the unsuspecting Unionists were needed.

At about 1:30 in the afternoon, Mrs. Susannah Sellards, who lived at the south end of Ivy Bottom, heard the pistol crack and the answering volley of musket fire. The sheet of fire cut into the head of the Union column, killing four and wounding 13. The head of the column reeled back in surprise. Mrs. Sellards gathered her family and hid behind their stone chimney, listening to the bullets hit the side of the house as the Unionists reformed and returned fire.

Seeing he would not be able to carry the pass by a direct assault, against a force he believed to number 700 men, Nelson ordered a flanking movement up the mountain, out of range of the poorly armed Confederates. The artillery was brought forward, but it was so badly handled that it had no effect. Fearing his position would be turned, May withdrew his men. The fight was over one hour and twenty minutes after it began.

The Confederates fell back in good order. The only problem came while crossing the makeshift bridge; it became so crowded that some were forced off into the creek. A line of defense was established on the opposite side of the creek, to contest Nelson's crossing. At midnight on the 9th, Williams received word of Sill's column and called in all his forces. May and Hawkins' men fell trees and burned bridges along the path of their retreat. The night at Pikeville was used to prepare for the trip across Pound Gap to safety in Virginia. Unfortunately, he had to abandon badly needed supplies.

Sill approached Pikeville cautiously. A company of sharpshooters was left as a rearguard by Williams, delaying Sill for an hour. Sill's column entered Pikeville at 4 p.m. on the 9th to wait for Nelson, who arrived the following day. Pikeville secured, Nelson felt he had completed his task of driving the Confederates from the state. Believing a Confederate winter campaign in the rough country unlikely, his forces withdrew to Prestonsburg, and ultimately out of the area. Only the newly organized 14th Kentucky Infantry remained in Louisa. Eastern Kentucky was left largely unoccupied by both armies.

The campaign for Pikeville cost Nelson 6 men killed and 24 wounded. Sill lost one man killed. May lost 10 men killed, 15 wounded, and a surprising 40 captured or missing. Among the Confederate dead was H.M. Rust, late state senator from Greenup County.

The Confederates were not pursued as they crossed into Virginia. Safely camped in Virginia, Williams continued to organize, drill, and discipline his raw troops. They were still in need of most everything, "except a willingness to fight." He felt if his command was reinforced, fully supplied, and given a battery of six cannons, he could reenter Eastern Kentucky for the Confederacy and produce results which "would be good upon the country." At that moment, Brigadier General Humphrey Marshall, a prominent Kentuckian, was making his way to Southwest Virginia with reinforcements and a plan to secure the state for the Confederacy. The campaign for Eastern Kentucky will take him to Jenny's Creek and the largest battle in the region, Middle Creek.

Peggy Daniels named employee of the quarter

A Floyd County woman has been named the Christian Appalachian Project's (CAP) second Employee of the Quarter.

Peggy Daniels, of Garrett, was given this special recognition for her dedication to the people she serves in her program.

Peggy Daniels

Her fellow employees recognized her dedication with a certificate of appreciation, and a CAP volunteer presented her with a rose.

Daniels has been the store manager of the Garrett Attic since she began working for CAP in October 1985.

The Garrett Attic is a focal point in the community for low-income people to buy clothes, sign up for GED study programs, and apply for Outreach Services. It serves people in Floyd and parts of Knott and Magoffin counties.

Daniels has a special relationship with the people who come into the store. The community depends on her. She is their friend, according to Donna Turner, her supervisor. She listens to problems, and delivers merchandise to people unable to come.

"For many it is the only source for clothing," Daniels says. "They can't afford new clothing."

She is married to Floyd Daniels and has one child and one grandchild.

Employment will increase by 24 million from 1990 to 2005, much less than the 35 million increase from 1975 to 1990, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

DEADLINES:

Items for publication in the Wednesday Edition of Lifestyles (Business, Farm and Family, etc.) should be received by the Floyd County Times no later than 5 p.m., Friday.

Workforce training and re-training is essential to future economic competitiveness

With 90 percent of Kentucky's workforce in the year 2000 already on the job today, training and re-training will determine whether Kentucky can compete with other states and nations for jobs and economic prosperity.

That is the overall message of the fourth white paper for the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce's Project 21. The white paper discusses the urgent need for more workforce training and retraining. It also offers recommendations aimed at current and future workers as well as those not now in the workforce.

Governor Brereton C. Jones identified workforce training and retraining as a vital link in Kentucky's industrial revolution chain. Referring to two bills he has presented to the legislature, he noted that one bill provides incentives to help revitalize manufacturing and another provides tax credits to service sector companies wishing to locate or expand in Kentucky. But he stated, "without a skilled workforce, now and in the future, the other incentives simply will not matter."

Workforce Development Cabinet Secretary William D. Huston, noting that the Cabinet was created in July 1990 in response to the state's training needs, stated, "The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce white paper on workforce training and retraining solidifies the partnership between government and the private sector that is so crucial to ensuring Kentucky's competitive edge in workforce readiness. This report should be required reading by all those who care about Kentucky's future economic and employment security."

Referring to the report's recommendations, Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Chairman Wm. T. Robinson III said, "Unless we take immediate action, we will not have the workforce necessary to compete. With this report, we hope to increase awareness of the issue. We also recommend specific actions that state government, employers, and individuals must take now."

Robinson, a managing partner of Greenebaum Doll & McDonald in Covington, emphasized that the chamber is already putting the report's recommendations to work by offering six, $1,000 scholarships for persons wanting to go through a training program. For more information, contact Bob Elliston or Debbie Gibson at 502/695-4700.

Overnight excursion

Wilderness Road Girl Scouts relax after a Moonlight Jobs event. During the excursion, they learned about job opportunities at various businesses.

Girl Scouts see late-nite jobs

Girl Scouts from Floyd and Pike counties recently explored careers during a Moonlight Jobs event. The girls met at the First Christian Church in Pikeville where they discussed factors influencing career choices and questions that one could use when interviewing people about their jobs.

The first business visited by the 32 girls and their leaders was the Methodist Hospital of Kentucky. Kathy Adkins showed slides and gave an overview of the hospital and services they perform. Fred Baker divided the girls into two groups where they then toured the Pharmacy, X-Ray and Laboratory Departments of the hospital.

The Kentucky State Police Post was next on the agenda with Trooper Gomer Prater showing the girl scouts the communications room, fingerprinting and the lie detector room. From there they went to WPKE Radio Station and to Pizza Hut. Pizza Hut gave the girls a special treat by letting them make their own pizzas. Needless to say they were very good!

Then they went back to the church for talent sharing and reports on the businesses they visited. The report includes important duties of their jobs, special training, education requirements and special equipment used.

At 4:00 a.m. the girl scouts made their last visit—to the post office where Cliff Coleman showed them all the activity there at that early hour of the day.

After a night full of activity and little sleep, the girls and their leaders ate breakfast at the church and were on their way home by 8:00 a.m.

Everyone said they enjoyed the event and would love to do it again. The citizens of Pike County, who volunteered as hosts, gave the Girl Scouts an enjoyable and educational experience.

This, and other types of career events, are part of the program the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council offers to encourage girls to become better prepared for the future.

Timber production means a lot for state's economy

Growing trees in Kentucky is as important to the timber industry as growing tobacco is for that industry. "Most people, when they think of Kentucky agriculture, may think of tobacco as the major cash crop, and there is no doubt it is important," said Doug McLaren, extension forestry specialist for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "But timber also is a major cash crop for some 400,000 owners of forest-covered land in this state," he added. "Kentucky each year stays somewhere in the top five raw timber producing states."

The timber industry employs some 24,000 people, he said. McLaren said forests cover half of the state's 25 million acres. About 90 percent of that timberland rests in private hands. Owners receive about $160 million annually, according to latest figures, McLaren said. "Although a thousand small scale wood industry manufacturers operate in the state, that still represents just a small amount of timber use," he said. "A far greater amount of timber is shipped out of state and internationally to be made into furniture and for other uses."

McLaren added, "Trees generate around a billion dollars annually for the Kentucky timber industry from sales to states like North Carolina and countries in Europe and Asia."

Forests also generate revenue for the state in ways other than through timber sales, he said. For example, recreation use of timberland is worth $2 million, hunting brings in another $63 million, and tourists spend additional money when they visit the state to enjoy spring flowers, summer water activities and fall foliage.

Check your home

by Ray F. Cawood

Kentucky's governor, on April 13, signed into law a bill that requires homeowners who sell their homes through an agent to give potential buyers a written statement about the condition of the property. The four columns this month offer tips on what to look for in answering some questions on the disclosure form.

One of the questions: "Are you aware of any defects or problems relating to the foundation?"

First check for cracks, especially around doors and windows. If I were buying the home, I would look in the crawl space. That can be my most unpleasant task in inspecting a home if the crawl space is cramped, dirty or has poor access. Thus I can understand why homeowners or homebuyers don't care to crawl beneath a house. Nevertheless, important evidence could be there.

If a floor sags, that is a sign the floor doesn't have sufficient support.

If you are thinking of buying a home with a basement wall that is freshly painted or newly finished, be alert. Paint and drywall can be used to hide cracks. If you have just bought a house with drywall on the basement wall, check it every few months to make sure it isn't bulging or showing other signs of moisture.

Tobacco provisions are changed: crop marketing quota affected Area tobacco growers should take note of recent changes in the 1992 burley tobacco program. The changes in the program's provisions were announced earlier this month by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

One major change is in quota allowances. The crop marketing quota is now at 670 million pounds, down from the 1991 quota of 726 million pounds. Determination of the quota is based on purchase intentions by domestic manufacturers of 445.5 million pounds; unmanufactured exports (3-year average) of 187.6 million pounds; a reserve stock adjustment of 36.9 million pounds; and a discretionary adjustment of zero pounds.

Other changes included a support level of $1.649 per pound, up 6.5 cents from 1991; a basic quota decrease for each farm of about 7.5 percent from 1991; an effective quota of about 830 million pounds, 16 million pounds below 1991; a marketing assessment of 0.8245 cents per pound on both growers and buyers, for a total of 1.649 cents per pound, under requirements of amendments contained in the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990.

The no-net-cost program assessment will be announced later.

Burley tobacco growers cast their ballots February 24-27 in a mail referendum on whether marketing quotas on a poundage basis will continue for burley tobacco for the next three years. Quotas will remain in effect if less than one-third of the voting producers vote no. Burley tobacco is grown in Kentucky, Tennessee and surrounding states.

County Harvest

Kentucky's beautiful flowering dogwoods, like their counterparts in the eastern and southeastern United States, are under attack by a devastating fungus.

Signs of the fungus, discula destructiva, have already shown up in Kentucky, according to Dr. David M. Brumagen, professor of biological and environmental sciences at Morehead State University.

The disease has done extensive damage in many southeastern states and is expected to rise dramatically in Kentucky in the near future, said Dr. Brumagen, who just returned from a workshop on the fungus which is wiping out flowering dogwoods across more than a dozen states.

Dr. Brumagen is studying the prevalence of the disease in Eastern Kentucky and is looking for sightings of diseased plants.

Symptoms include:
*Lower limb die-back where upper limbs are leafing and blooming, but bottom limbs are without foliage or blossom.

*Leaves will have tan spots ringed in purple. The flowers also will show brown spots, especially during excessively wet periods.

*Larger, well-established trees with the disease will begin to have dense new branches at the base.

"These branchings would resemble the basal sucker growth of wind damaged tobacco plants," Dr. Brumagen explained.

Anyone noticing any of these symptoms on the dogwoods should contact Dr. Brumagen at (606) 783-2959.

"I am particularly interested in hearing from individuals in Eastern Kentucky counties who suspect there might be something wrong with their dogwoods, whether in a residential or forest setting," the scientist said.

Business

The Tax Adviser: It pays to keep your cool with the IRS

Q: I told the IRS to go shove it when they asked me about my deductions. I've been filing tax returns for over 25 years, and the questions they asked were ludicrous. Now what?—M.R., Billings, Mont.

A: It's short and sweet—you're going to have a problem. If you do not provide the IRS with the information requested or you provide fraudulent information, the law says that you may be charged penalties and, in certain cases, you may even be subject to criminal prosecution. It's not good.

The IRS may also disallow your exemptions, exclusions, credits, deductions or other adjustments shown on the tax return. And they'll probably charge you interest on any balance owed. Simmer down, hire a tax consultant and try it once more.

Q: What is the personal exemption for this year? How about last year?—J.R., Albany, N.Y.

A: The amount you may deduct as an exemption has increased from $2,150 for 1991 to $2,300 for this year. The amount of the exemption is adjusted annually for inflation.

Q: I have been laid off from my job in advertising for the past three months. Over that time I drove to Chicago twice and once to Toronto for interviews. I stayed overnight in both cities. I didn't get hired at any of the companies I visited in those cities. Are my travel expenses deductible? —F.E., Dearborn Heights, Mich.

THE TAX ADVISER

GEORGE SMITH

A: It depends. You can deduct most employment expenses spent in looking for a new job in your present occupation, even if you do not get a new job. However, you cannot deduct these expenses if you are looking for a job in a new occupation, even if you get the job.

Travel and transportation expenses to these cities are deductible providing you can itemize on Schedule A. They are also subject to a 2 percent floor limitation. Be sure to save your documentation showing that you were looking for a job and not on a vacation.

Q: My father, who was blind, died recently. Can I take an additional exemption for blindness on his final tax return? I would like to file his final tax return shortly and be done with it. —C.W., St. Thomas, Virgin Islands

A: The extra exemptions for age 65 or over and blindness were repealed several years ago, however, if your father qualifies as blind, and does not itemize his deductions on Schedule A, you will be able to deduct an additional higher standard of deduction.

Remember, though, you can't file his 1992 tax return until this year is over.

Q: Can I give my children some property or money now so I won't pay estate tax on it?—H.V., Philadelphia

A: Yes, but there is a three-year waiting rule about certain gifts. If gifts are made within three years of death, the amount of the gift could be brought back and included in your estate.

However, making lifetime gifts is often a sure-fire method of cutting down on your gross estate and the estate taxes that will have to be eventually paid. Maybe now's the time to visit an estate attorney and do some financial planning.
