Betsy Layne gym renovations will be completed without construction manager :

Scaled-back project gets Boyd's dander up

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A scaled-down version of a renovation project at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse drew sharp criticism from Floyd County Board of Education member Tommy Boyd at Tuesday's meeting.

The project, originally priced at $1.8 million, has been cut back to $759,213 and includes repairing the gym roof, removing asbestos tiles and installing an elevator.

The original renovation plan included replacing the gym dome, upgrading the heating and air conditioning and electrical system, and making the facility more flood resistant.

"There's not air conditioning in that gym and it can only be used six months out of the year," Boyd told the board. "I strongly disagree that this has been left out of the project. One month ago it was all go. I don't understand it."

Project architect Paul Hoffman explained to the board that the state Department of Facilities Management rejected the initial project because it would have been classified as a major renovation.

Any major school renovation or construction project must be listed on a district's approved school facility survey of building projects in order to receive state funds from the School Facilities Construction Commission.

Also, the revised project apparently will not use the services of a construction manager. The breakdown of a revised BG 1 approved at Tuesday's meeting does not seek funds for a construction manager (CM).

"There is not a CM involved," superintendent Smith said. "This is a project that can be done by an architect."

The board had previously hired Martin Engineering and Construction as the CM for the project, but the BG 1 was rejected by the state.

Funding for the project will come from a local bond issue.

In other business Tuesday, superintendent Smith asked the board's approval to seek proposals from architectural firms to assume responsibility for the Left Beaver High School project. Smith also asked that an architectural firm be employed to give an overview of all the school construction projects in the district.

The contract for the architect of the Left Beaver project, James Ellis of Pikeville, was terminated by the board last month for "failure to comply" with the terms of his contract. Ellis' professional liability insurance had lapsed.

"Many of our projects are complex and are not moving rapidly or appropriately," Smith said.

The board voted 5-0 on the issue. Another school construction project discussed Tuesday was the status of the new Prestonsburg High School. The board is currently investigating the possibility of locating the school on the old Prestonsburg Drive-In site.

John Sammons, representing a citizens group wanting the school built at the Middle Creek site, said he had "every reason to believe" that the state Department of Education would

Bogus bug men rob woman

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The Floyd County Sheriff's Department is warning residents to be on the lookout for three men posing as county workers who stole $194 from a residence in Corn Fork Thursday.

Chief Deputy Linzie Hunt said the men went to the residence of Charlie Harris Thursday and said that the county was offering a pest control spraying program for elderly residents in the county.

The men reportedly inspected the home for termites and told an occupant of the home that they would return to the home on Wednesday to begin spraying.

"They told Mrs. Harris that her cost for the service would be two dollars," Hunt said. "She went inside the house to get the money and they watched her as she got her purse. When she went back outside, one of the men asked to use the bathroom and the other two kept her busy talking about spraying the house."

After the men left, the money was discovered missing.

One man was described as wearing blue shorts, a white tee shirt and a hat; one wore blue jeans and maroon shirt; and the third was described as having a dark complexion and long hair. The three were driving a late model Chevy pickup truck.

Anyone who is approached by these men or has any information about the incident should contact the sheriff's department at 886-6171 or 1-800-834-5430.

Martin DARE graduation

Forty-two Martin Elementary students graduated Thursday from the DARE program. Rep. Greg Stumbo spoke to the students, saying they were "a fine example for all people in Kentucky." The students performed "The Drug Free Rap" and other songs accompanied with skits. The graduates received certificates, trophies, balloons and junior sheriff deputy badges. The program was emceed by Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson and Deputy Ricky Thornberry. The DARE program runs in 10 of the 14 county elementary schools. (photo by Mike Rosenberg)

Board will meet in special session :

Finalist may be picked soon

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

It will be at least another week before the Floyd County Board of Education selects a candidate for superintendent to submit to Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen for approval.

The board met for over an hour in closed session Tuesday and emerged without selecting one candidate for the district's top post.

Kentucky School Boards Association consultant Ken Scott joined the board in closed session to give the board his recommendation for the job. Scott was hired by the board at a special meeting May 26 to assist in the search for a new superintendent.

Board chairman Ray "Shag" Campbell said after the May 26 meeting that the board had instructed Scott to further review the final five applicants for superintendent.

Chairman Campbell agreed last month to let Boysen approve the board's choice and examine the credentials of the candidate.

Floyd County's superintendent search committee informed the board of its five top choices at the May 12 board meeting. The fact that local applicant Gary Frazier, who was one of the eight finalists, didn't make the final cut led to accusations that Frazier was cut from the list only because he was a native Floyd Countian.

Frazier himself asked for an investigation by the state's Office of Education Accountability into the process used by the committee to pare the list to five. Frazier also announced he would not accept the job of superintendent if it was offered to him.

Other problems arose with the committee's choices after news accounts in the Lexington Herald-Leader and Louisville Courier-Journal reported that four of the candidates had been in controversial situations in the past.

The final five candidates are:

- Jerry Austin, a superintendent

First lap over in racing flap

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

It may be another six weeks before Kentucky Attorney General Chris Gorman issues his official opinion on whether or not intertrack wagering can begin at Kentucky Downs.

Assistant Attorney General Ross Carter finished his investigation of the case and submitted the rough draft of the official opinion on Thursday. The results of his investigation, which are confidential, must now undergo a review process, in which they will be studied by director of the Attorney General's Civil Division, Ann Sheadel, who will in turn pass the information to deputy Attorney General Brent Caldwell. Gorman is expected to give the opinion his official stamp of approval.

"The entire review process may take a week or it could take up to six weeks," Carter said. "Generally, a decision like this takes a couple of months, but we've been rushing it up... We would've begun work on it sooner, but (Chet Jennings, attorney for East Kentucky Racing, Inc., which owns Kentucky Downs) asked us to delay our investigation until they could send us more information telling their side of the story. They never sent it, so we went ahead."

Jennings confirmed Thursday that he had promised further information to Carter, but said that he had told Carter that it would not arrive until some time this week.

"Basically, the new racing commission didn't provide the Attorney General's office with any information on the case whatsoever," Jennings said. "Carter asked me to send him a memorandum, itemizing everything that occurred in our meetings with the (racing commission)."

"In effect," Jennings continued, "the commission is taking no action at all until the Attorney General issues his advisory opinion.... Our standpoint is that the East Kentucky Racing's license is valid. The old harness racing commission issued the license knowing that there would be no live racing in 1992. There is nothing in the statutory language of the agreement with the old racing commission that says there must be live racing at Kentucky Downs any time in 1992 and according to the law the new commission must honor all licenses approved by the old commission. Look at it this way: you can have a liquor license but not sell liquor; you can have a real estate license but not sell real estate; you can have a legal license but not sell practice law. There is no reason that Kentucky Downs cannot televise races from other tracks and have inter-track wagering."

Although the racing commission has not prevented Churchill Downs and Keeneland from sending televised signals of races to Kentucky Downs, it is Jennings' contention that no other tracks will send their signals unless the commission formally approves the practice.

"What we're saying is that East Kentucky Racing and Eastern Kentucky are being denied a tremendous opportunity in the racing industry, and it's costing a tremendous amount of revenue every day," Jennings said. "I hadn't understood what they meant by the 'Winchester Wall' before I took this case, but now I understand all too clearly. The 1990's saw the Berlin Wall torn down. Maybe now we can get rid of the Winchester Wall."

Two end of year meetings are set by school board

The Floyd County Board of Education will meet in special session Tuesday, June 16 and Tuesday, June 23 at the administration office in Prestonsburg.

The board called the June 16 meeting to choose a superintendent candidate to submit to Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen for approval. Under state law the board must hire a superintendent by June 30.

The June 23 "clean-up" meeting will deal with all matters necessary to close out the 1991-92 school year.

Both meetings will begin at 6 p.m. and are open to the public.

Feds fund variety of flood projects

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

The United States House of Representative's Appropriations Committee has appropriated $29,995,000 for flood control and related projects in Eastern Kentucky during the 1992-1993 fiscal year.

Foremost among these is an appropriation of $7,890,000 to operate and maintain eight Eastern Kentucky lakes. Dewey Lake alone will receive $1,789,000 this year, and $771,000 has been budgeted for Paintsville Lake.

Congress budgeted $599,000 to develop the Haysi Reservoir on the Russell Fork of the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River. It is hoped that the reservoir will reduce flooding at Prestonsburg, Pikeville and Elkhorn City.

The appropriations committee has also allowed $300,000 to continue planning on the flood control project on the Left and Right Forks of Beaver Creek in Martin.

Among other projects included in the appropriations bill:

- $1,126,000 to operate and maintain Fishtrap Lake; $1,005,000 for Carr Fork; $837,000 for Buckhorn Lake; $660,000 for Cave Run; $837,000 for Grayson Lake; and $865,000 for Yatesville Lake.

• $200,000 for the reconnaissance study authorized by the Public Works and Transportation Committee Resolution to study flood control projects along the East Fork of the Little Sandy River; and

• $100,000 to continue a comprehensive study of Eastern Kentucky needs relating to flood control, water supply and related recreational benefits.

Baccalaureate will be held June 14 at St. Martha Catholic Church.

Board

not approve the drive-in site.

Chairman Campbell told Sammons that core drillings done on the drive-in site had "come back good" and the board is currently awaiting approval from the state.

Campbell added that the board had voted 3-2 not to build on the Middle Creek site.

Board member Mary Hall told Sammons she agreed that the board should build the school at Middle Creek and that "petty politics" had slowed the project down.

The board took no action on the issue.

In other action Tuesday:

- Smith told the board that a new facility survey of school facilities would be done soon in the district;

- the board accepted an offer of assistance from the School Facilities Construction Commission for $52,237, which has a bonding potential of over $500,000, for new school construction for the next two years; and

- the board approved the 1992-93 school calendar which sets August 31 as the first day of classes for students.

PCC speakers bureau is back

It's official. As of Wednesday, May 27, 1992, the newly reorganized Prestonsburg Community College Speakers Bureau is back in operation. A brochure listing the members of the faculty and administration who have volunteered to participate during the coming school year along with topics for presentations which they are already prepared to discuss has been compiled.

Faculty member Eileen Lewandowski, Assistant Professor of Communication, realized the need to reactivate the link between college expertise and groups that would like to line up speakers for their meetings.

After she spoke to the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club in December about her work with the Appalachian Civic Leadership Project, she was asked about other available speakers. Upon her return to campus in January, Lewandowski began working with PCC's Office of Continuing Education and Community Services to organize the Speakers Bureau.

The Speakers Bureau is a link in college-to-community and community-to-college communication which will enhance knowledge and increase the flow of information in both directions.

Members of the community who are knowledgeable regarding other areas who would like to be added to the listing of potential presenters, should contact the college. This assistance to the programs of the community's civic organizations, social groups, churches, schools and other agencies will become a continuing service of the college.

For a copy of the brochure or more information about the Speakers Bureau, contact either Eileen Lewandowski or Bob Campbell through the Continuing Education/Community Services Office at Prestonsburg Community College, (606) 886-3863.

Volunteer fire departments may be eligible for state assistance

Financially strapped volunteer fire departments in Kentucky may be eligible for state assistance under legislation sponsored by state Rep. Russell Bentley, D-Topmost. Under the measure, House Bill 365, each qualifying department would receive $5,000. Eligibility would be determined by the Commission on Fire Protection, Personnel Standards and Education. All organized volunteer fire departments in cities of all classes and other similar operation recognized by the Department of Housing, Buildings and Construction operated on a non-profit basis would be eligible to apply. "Supporters worked hard to get this bill passed," said Bentley, noting that although the legislation was introduced on January 29, final legislative action didn't occur until March 31. Gov. Brereton Jones finally signed the bill on April 10. "This should be of tremendous help to volunteer fire departments, which are very important in the Commonwealth, especially to rural areas like the one in which I live. They perform very hazardous duties and they do them well," Bentley said. To qualify for the assistance, a department must have a minimum of 12 firefighters, a chief and at least one working piece of fire-fighting equipment. Certain minimal training levels must also be attained. Additionally, the legislation calls for $200,000 to be allocated from insurance premium proceeds in the Firefighters Foundation Program to the Firefighters Training Center Fund, to construct new or upgrade existing training facilities. A third element of the bill calls for low-interest loans to volunteer fire departments for major equipment purchases and facility construction. Paybacks from the loans would be returned to the fund for future loans. The bill calls for $1 million to be set aside for the loan program in each of the next 10 years to create the revolving fund. "A large part of our state depends on volunteer fire departments to protect homes and businesses," Bentley said. "I think it is appropriate that state government does its part to provide practical assistance to these dedicated volunteers, particularly in the areas of technical training, better facilities and modern equipment." Also under the new law Hepatitis B inoculations will be provided free of charge to volunteer and professional firefighters, Bentley added.

Survival Skills workshop held at Jenny Wiley

Expressions ranged from anxiety to enthusiasm at the Wilkinson-Stumbo Convention Center on May 26. The date marked the second annual "survival skills" program sponsored by the Single Parent and Homemaker Program at Prestonsburg Community College. The program, entitled "Survival Skills for the Single Parent in 1992," exposed the 50 participants, mostly women, to alternate career choices and gave out practical information for use in day-to-day life. Jean Rosenberg, director of the Single Parent and Homemaker Program, at PCC explained the idea behind the day's activities. "The object of this program is to help people on the road to self-sufficiency. We want to share information, learn from each other, and, above all, have a good time." After a warm-up exercise, the participants went to their choice of five workshops: Auto Mechanics, Plumbing, Electricity, Home Repair, and Self Defense. Hands-on activities ranged from changing a car's oil to rewiring a lamp to breaking a choke hold. Nioka Scott, one of the participants, summed up the feelings of many of those in attendance. "Today really taught me some things that I never thought I could do. I never handled tools before and I ended up covered in drywall," she said.

The participants learned from trained presenters provided by local organizations. Mayo Vocational-Technical Institute, the Big Sandy Area Development District, and the Kentucky State Police provided instructors for the morning workshops. "We want to teach the participants not to be afraid to do the basics," said Bob Meyer, an instructor in the electricity workshop. After lunch, representatives from the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center gave a presentation on "Wellness." According to the presenters, stress management is a key to staying healthy. Different ways of coping with stress were demonstrated. "Everyone needs to lighten up and take care of themselves. Keeping things inside can only hurt," said Rose Adkins of MCCC. The activities produced lots of hugs and laughter. The good feelings created by the activities were reflected in the program evaluations. The participants filled out evaluations after each workshop. As the participants left the Wilkinson-Stumbo Convention Center that afternoon, smiles replaced many of the morning's anxious looks. Many of them said they gained confidence from the workshops and many "couldn't wait to come back next year."

AAA Digest of Motor Laws Donated To Kentucky State Police

The Blue Grass Auto Club Foundation for Safety has given 500 copies of the 1992 edition of the AAA Digest of Motor Laws to the Kentucky State Police. At a cost of $7.95 for each copy, the total value of the donation is $3975. "As we approach the vacationing season, the Digest will serve as a handy guide for Kentucky State Police troopers in answering questions about laws and travel in other states. It is a pleasure to help in providing this educational resource to the Kentucky State Police," said Lilla S. Mason, Executive Secretary for the Blue Grass Auto Club Foundation for Safety. The Digest includes information on traffic rules, motor vehicle registration regulations, liability, state taxes on vehicles, and information on driver's licenses. Entries on laws for all fifty states, plus Canadian provinces and U.S. territories, is also included. "This Digest will indeed be a valuable reference tool for our troopers. It is something that, during these tight economic times, we would have to do without except for the generosity of the Blue Grass Auto Club Foundation for Safety," said Kentucky State Police Commissioner Billy G. Wellman. The 1992 "AAA Digest of Motor Laws is available from the Foundation at a cost of $7.95 per copy.

Editor:

I am a Vietnam veteran who grew up in Martin County. I left as a young man to work and serve in the army but frequently returned over the years because I felt Martin County was my home. Because of experiences I had in Vietnam, I suffer from Post Traumatic Stress Disorder. This causes me too have nightmares, flashbacks of wartime experiences, depression and nervousness for which I have been receiving treatment at Mountain Comprehensive Care Center in Inez since 1987. With the help of my doctor and my therapist I was making progress and learning to cope with life again.

However, one day this ended. My therapist resigned and I was left without a therapist for several weeks. When I heard what happened, I was highly distraught that she had been treated unfairly. When she reconsidered and withdrew her resignation, I did what I could to aid in the ensuing investigation. After discovering many violations of policy in the Inez clinic, Mountain Comprehensive Care found itself in an embarrassing position. To make things right, my therapist was reinstated but others were fired or transferred out of the county.

As for myself, I was then told to seek services elsewhere and have been denied any further services from M.C.C.C. My doctor told me that I am still greatly in need of help and he has agreed to see me if the executive director will permit this.

I would like to know if a mental health agency that serves the public can deny services to a client? Is this not the same as discrimination? Are my rights being violated?

It seems that the United State is facing yet another crisis. The recent events in Los Angeles have shown us that our criminal system has failed once again. How was it possible that those four officers could go unpunished?

Anyone that could view the monstrosities inflicted on Rodney King by those officers as acceptable behavior is obviously in dire need of help.

Remember the Gulf War? Remember the cause? It was simply—at least in George Bush's opinion—a case of the bully (Iraq) beating on an innocent party (Kuwait). What action was taken? Iraq was soundly punished for its transgression.

Iraq's behavior was simply unacceptable to the American public. Now, it seems, the four officers have picked up where Iraq left off. Rodney King can be compared to Kuwait. Only this time, our court system seems to have backed the bully.

The United States spent over seven billion dollars disciplining one bully, but how much did it cost by not punishing another? The costs are great indeed. The Government has lost one key factor involved in governing its people—respect.

A great city came very close to total destruction and there was much turmoil in many others. Were the rioters really to blame? True, they seem to have gone a little too far in damaging private property and destroying hundreds of family businesses. However, they did have the right idea. Too many people are willing to sit back and accept the court's decision. Perhaps mass protest is the only alternative; certainly no change can come without effort.

This is an election year. Perhaps the citizens of this great country will finally realize that it's past time for a change and that it's time for some drastic measures in order to put the focus of our system on its people once again.

Other Voices

Good morning, Vietnam
by Kenneth Conboy

Nowhere in Asia is the collapse of communism potentially more devastating than in the Socialist Republic of Vietnam. Gone is the $1.5 billion in annual military aid that Hanoi received from the Soviet Union, which through the 1980s provided Vietnam with more than 90 percent of its defense hardware. Gone are the days of $1 billion annual handouts from Moscow. And, most important, gone is the ideology of Marxism-Leninism, in whose name Hanoi demanded nearly half a century of sacrifice from the Vietnamese people.

Faced with these setbacks, Hanoi has had little alternative but to change, and to do so quickly.

Vietnam, thus, is joining the list of nations trying to convert from socialism to capitalism. Applying a "shock therapy" similar to that used to jumpstart the Polish economy, prices have been freed, subsidies for government employees nearly eliminated, and the number of state industries slashed. The private sector accounted for 40 percent of output in 1991 — comparable to the private sectors of Hungary and Poland — and is expected this year to reach about 60 percent.

Meanwhile, foreign trade and investment have dramatically increased. Foreign banks, too, are looking to take advantage of Vietnam's newfound openness. This January, Hanoi for the first time granted six foreign banks approval to open branches in Vietnam.

Given Vietnam's embrace of free-market reforms and the end of its military occupation of Cambodia in 1990, Washington should reassess its policy toward Hanoi: It's time for Washington to lift trade and investment restrictions toward Vietnam.

True, the Asian nation has been one of the most violently anti-American communist states in the world. Hanoi fought an undeclared war with America from 1965 to 1973; it attacked Saigon, toppling the Republic of Vietnam in April 1975; it amassed the largest army, air force, and navy in Southeast Asia, stationed troops in Laos, and invaded Cambodia; and it has frustrated U.S. efforts to resolve the fate of American MIAs.

But the Cold War is over. Vietnam's threat to its Southeast Asian neighbors is diminishing, as it demobilizes entire divisions of infantrymen and faces the prospects of having to ground its air force due to a shortage of spare parts.

At the same time, Vietnam has cooperated in bringing about a United Nations-sponsored settlement to the Cambodian crisis, and has proven more receptive to resolving the fate of Americans missing during the Vietnam War. Thus, the reasons for America's longstanding opposition to Hanoi have now largely disappeared.

So what are our long-term interests in Vietnam? They include:

* A Vietnam that poses no offensive military threat to Cambodia, Laos, and the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), now comprised of Brunei, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Singapore, and Thailand.

* A government in Hanoi that protects freedom of expression, press, association, and demonstration, and ceases its persecution of former officials from the Republic of Vietnam.

* Ongoing cooperation to resolve the fate of Americans missing during the Vietnam War.

* Further free-market economic reforms that not only will bring stability and prosperity to Vietnam, but also help U.S. China policy by encouraging capitalism in China's neighboring Yunnan Province.

A U.S. policy of economic engagement with Hanoi will spur the growth of a market economy in Vietnam, as it has in China. As government control over economic life eases, Western investment — and ideas — will flow into the country.

If political liberty indeed flows from economic freedom, then morning will break in Hanoi, and the long, dark night of U.S.-Vietnamese relations will come to an end.

Editorial:

Three up, three down?

by Scott Perry

Floyd County appears to be on the brink of becoming the victim of a no-hitter in a game of tourism that concerns three local projects.

First, the development of a local harness racing facility has been reined in by the spectre of a federal investigation into state legislators and legislation. A state go-ahead for intertrack wagering pending development of the track has been shelved while the Attorney General decides if such a procedure may be permitted.

Secondly, the proposed development of a new, championship caliber 18-hole golf course at Jenny Wiley State Park appears to have been knocked out of bounds by the "discovery" of a plan to resume mining on the site. While documents suggest that state officials knew about the mining plan before they announced where the golf course would be built, very little seems to have been accomplished to resolve the matter as the deadline nears for having the project included on a one-time list for funding.

And last, but definitely not least, the Kentucky Opry continues to be a traveling band as proposals for developing a permanent home rise and fall. A proven hit on the road, the Opry has been unable to apply its potential as a major tourism draw for the Floyd County area because it has no home field advantage.

We're not ready to preach the funerals for these three ambitious projects, but the warning signs are painfully obvious that our Field of Dreams is dangerously close to being plowed under.

Three up, three down?
Let's hope not.

HRMC Honors Volunteers

Jean Burke

Highlands Regional held an appreciation reception Friday, April 24, 1992 for their volunteers, commemorating April 25 - May 2, 1992 as National Volunteer Week. The event recognized all Adult and Teen volunteers, Auxiliaries and Ministers-on-Call for their many dedicated hours of hospital service.

Over 85 volunteers, guests and hospital employees attended the celebration. Everyone present expressed their gratitude for all the services volunteers provide Highlands.

Kathy Allen, director of Volunteer Services, honored Prestonsburg resident Jean Burke with a special Auxiliary pin from the American Hospital Association to recognize her 5,000 hours of service. Burke has been a member of the Highlands Auxiliary for 17 years and stated, "If I didn't enjoy it, I wouldn't be here."

Allen presented other volunteers with hourly pins and gift certificates as tokens of appreciation. Allen said, "We are very thankful to have such dedicated volunteers. We hope the rewards they received by being volunteers are as great as the rewards we receive by having them." For more information on Highlands' Volunteer program contact Kathy K. Allen, 886-8511 ext. 105.

SCLEROTHERAPY FOR VARICOSE VEINS

Millions of Americans suffer from varicose veins, which appear on the skin's surface as swollen, bluish-purple veins. For most people they are merely a cosmetic concern, but in advanced cases they can be quite painful and cause an aching and itching of the legs. Fortunately, there are ways for physicians to treat them.

Veins carry blood back to the heart. Normally, veins have special one-way valves which prevent the blood from flowing backwards. However, these valves can break down or become incompetent. Incompetent valves often lead to varicose veins. Varicose veins are dilated veins, usually found in the legs, in which blood has pooled. They are usually related to previous blood clots, pregnancy, heredity, or job situations where you are on your feet for long periods of time. There are three common treatments for this problem:

support hose, vein stripping and ligation - a surgical procedure, and sclerotherapy.

Sclerotherapy is an injection of the veins with medication which causes the veins to scar up and disappear. Sclerotherapy is particularly used when the patient's primary concern is the veins unsightly appearance.

Prior to deciding which type of therapy is appropriate, I often recommend noninvasive venous studies.

These studies allow me to give my patients a more accurate recommendation on how to treat their varicose veins by identifying the problem. As a rule, small varicosities are treated with vein injections of sclerosing material, whereas larger veins are treated with surgery. Both types of venous diseases can be treated with support hose, which of course do not correct the problem but do alleviate some of the symptoms.

It is important to understand that there are advantages and disadvantages to sclerotherapy. Some of the advantages are that there are no scars from surgery, and that it may be done with only one day off from work. Disadvantages to this treatment include a burning discomfort at the time of injection, and secondary soreness over the vein for approximately a week. This is followed by some brown discoloration of the skin which may last anywhere from a month to six to twelve months. Occasionally some of the solution may leak from the needle hole in the veins causing a small nodule, which may take several months to disappear, and on rare occasions a small ulceration may occur.

It is very important after a vein injection that patients keep their leg wrapped for 24 hours with elastic bandages and stay off their feet as much as possible. Therefore, vein injections should be scheduled when patients have a free day.

"Blessed are those whose way is blameless, who walk in the law of the Lord!" — Psalm 119:1

God gave man the freedom of conscience, but few use the gift wisely. We are all subject to temptation of one kind or another. Not everyone has the moral stamina to walk the path of the saintly or lead the righteous life of the truly religious. Yet ours is a forgiving God, one inclined to overlook the indiscretions of His children. That doesn't mean that His tolerance is unlimited. For ours is also a wrathful God when disobedience or heresy try His patience. How much better it is to walk in the law of the Lord than risk His condemnation by our lack of faith or outright rejection of His love and teachings.

ARE PROMS TOO GLITZY

The May 31st edition of the Lexington Herald had an article by Deborah Tracy entitled "Glitzy proms: What do they teach young people?" Tracy has several things to say about proms, but following are the conclusions she reached on the subject:

"There is too much emphasis on the flash and glitter, and too little on the warm and fuzzy. Something about proms today just strike me as far too plastic."

As soon as I read the article, I knew that I had something for my junior class to defend (or rather to refute). I copied the article and we read it in class. I then asked the students to write a reaction to the article. Writing reaction papers is a big thing in the new writing approach that came in with KERA.

I envisioned papers coming back to me that said Tracy should stay out of our business. We can spend as much as we want to on our proms. It didn't happen that way. The students actually agreed with the woman.

Doug Hall summed it up by saying, "Proms are just a bit too flashy. Most people who go to the prom don't really care about the decorations or how their date is dressed. I spent most of my prom night just looking into my date's eyes. I didn't care how she was dressed although I must admit she was stunning." That, folks, is what the prom should be all about.

Steve Hall said, "This is true, but it is not realized until one reads an article such as the Tracy one."

Becky Stevens didn't mince any words as she wrote, "Prom is a time we should all have a good time in whatever we can afford. It's not a time when we sit down and compare price tags."

John Jones said that he went fishing and was glad that he did. Maybe John took that old adage "There are more fish in the sea..." literally.

The members of that English class convinced me that the students who could not afford these expensive things were also welcomed to the dance. I hope they convinced those students as well as they did me.

In discussing the prom situation, the students related how Gary Mullins cooked for about six couples for their prom meal. Earl Cook was impressed by this, and it appears those couples really had a good time. Now there is a prom memory for you.

When I started this little exercise, I simply wanted something for the class to write about.

If KERA wants us to use real life situations for writing, they can rest assured that on this Monday we were on target. Since we are going to have proms, let's have more of what Tracy calls "warm and fuzzy."

Flick Picks

LETHAL WEAPON 3

Once again, our heroes, Riggs and Murtaugh (Mel Gibson and Danny Glover) are back to battle the forces of crime. This time, Glover's character is set to retire in eight days. Of course, you know what that means in movie language. His character is certain to face back-to-back life-threatening situations.

To add a little spice to the rather formulaic flick, we have Rene Russo as a tough female cop. Some of her karate scenes are very reminiscent of the old "Avengers" series in which Diana Rigg regularly kicked butt! Being a woman myself, I love this sort of thing. There's nothing like seeing a mucho macho guy get his physical comeuppance from a "mere" female (the weaker sex, indeed!). Russo starts out suspecting Gibson and Glover of all sorts of things. Yet, she eventually teams up with them to go after the bad guy.

The villain in the piece is Jack Travis (Stuart Wilson), an ex-cop gone bad. He's okay, but he's really not up to the snuff of the other bad guys chased in previous "Weapon" films.

Joe Pesci is also back, but I fail to see why. His scenes in the movie, although hilarious, are totally unnecessary. Oh well, he still is always a delight to watch.

Action and chase scenes abound, which is good because this third offering isn't as fresh as the first two. However, fans really won't be disappointed. The chemistry between Gibson and Glover alone is enough to make this an entertaining movie. Don't miss it.

Science discovery

Special guests

Nicole McGuire, Courtney Ciesiak and Shelby Howell join their guests Libbi Hall, Joan Chaffins and Trish Ciesiak during Appalachian Heritage studies at McDowell High School.

Hey, parents:

Read this and lighten up

By Judith Clabes
Scripps Howard News Service

On the days we want to chew nails—like when the car doesn't start, the boss is impossible, the dog chews the report—we don't.

We yell at the kids instead.

On other days—like when the kids' rooms are a mess, they spill hot chocolate on the carpet or they don't do their homework—we still don't chew nails.

We yell at the kids, because they deserve it.

One of the things we're best at when it comes to our kids is getting angry. And that triggers a predictable reaction, a kind of Parent's Law of Emotional Physics: guilt.

All of which points to our being the kind of parents our own parents were, but which we vowed we'd never be. Some things are just the same—across generations and in every home in the land where parents and children are trying to live together.

If you don't believe that, read Nancy Samalin's new book, "Love and Anger: The Parental Dilemma." You'll see yourself there so clearly you'll swear she's been eavesdropping.

In fact, she has been listening. She gives lectures and Parent Guidance Workshops and conducted a survey of parents on the most treacherous area of parent-child relationships—anger. This, combined with her own experience as the mother of two children, makes for insightful, honest and good-humored advice.

Some of her anecdotes are funny too. Like the story of the mother, driven to the brink, who shut her 4-year-old daughter in the closet. The mother's closet. Of course, she felt awful. But she also expected her daughter to feel awful. Imagine when she went to the door, ready to open it, and asked, "What are you doing?" and the defiant child replied, "Spitting on your shoes and spitting on your clothes."

OK, so this is only funny if it isn't happening to you, but you get the idea. And you'll identify.

The anger triggers are universal: whining, nagging, dawdling, messy rooms, fighting with siblings, refusing to go to bed.... What parent hasn't been there and what child hasn't pulled the trigger?

The frustrations parents share are familiar: Sit-down strikes in grocery aisles, public tantrums that make you feel like the worst possible parent in view of the whole free world, an "I hate you" or "You aren't the boss of me," wet towels on the bathroom floor.... And our reactions are recognizable, too: "You're driving me crazy," "You don't have a brain in your head," "Can't you do anything right?" "Were you raised in a barn?" or "Will you ever learn?" Do you hear yourself talking here? Or your mother?

And then there's always the best one: "Act your age!" When, of course, the child is, and you are the one who isn't.

Then there's the story of the mother who went into the ozone when she discovered her son using her brand-new computer, which he knew he was not allowed to do. She shouted at him to stop and made her anger clear. In the process, she also mentioned that he had messed up the living room, forgotten to put the cap on the toothpaste, left the milk out of the refrigerator, not put his clothes in the hamper, failed to feed the dog, hadn't turned off the TV when he left the room, blah, blah, blah.... long after mother-deafness had set in.

Read this and lighten up.

Twenty-one Floyd County students honored by UK

Twenty-one students from Floyd County have been honored by the University of Kentucky for outstanding academic achievement.

The UK students were named to the dean's list of their colleges for the 1992 spring semester and are among the top five percent of all undergraduate students enrolled at UK.

UK had a record enrollment of 70,000 students this past academic year—24,000 students in Lexington, and 46,000 at the community colleges throughout Kentucky.

"The academic quality of our students continues to increase each year," said UK President Charles T. Wethington Jr. "Students whose academic record earns them the honor of being on their college dean's list are among our very best."

Those Floyd County students named to the dean's list and their major are:

Deborah Altman of Harold, Physical therapy; Tonya Marie Burke of Bevensville, Pharmacy; Michael

Thomas Cecil of Harold, Undeclared; Aaron Wade Crum of Betsy Layne, Biology; Connie Leann Diddle of Prestonsburg, Animal Science; Barbara Ann Friend of Stanville, Nursing; Farrukh Aziz Ghani of Lexington, Accounting; Adam B. Hall of Bevensville, Middle School Education; Keith Brian Hall of Honaker, Undeclared; Elizabeth Carol Hamm of David, Biology; Glenn Martin Hammond of Martin, Finance; Pamela Porter Hansford of Allen, Physical therapy; Sandra Denise Hunter of Honaker, Biology; Lowell Duke Martin of Martin, Civil Engineering; Tyra Lynn Newman of Hi Hat, Pre-Electrical Engineering; Stevie Newsome of Teaberry, Undeclared; Kristin Allyn Nunery of Prestonsburg, Physical therapy; Mike Partington of Prestonsburg, Pre-Electrical Engineering; Earl David Thompson of Martin, Biology; Gary Lee Wells of Lexington, Civil Engineering; and Robyn Williams of Martin, Pre-Chemical Engineering.

School winners

Melvin Grade School was represented at the Floyd County Spelling Bee by Brent Tackett. He is in the seventh grade.

Spelling champs

Winners of the spelling bee at Melvin Grade School were Brandi Thornsberry, fourth grade; Lindsey Johnson, fifth grade; Misty Berger, fifth grade; Kurtis Anderson, sixth grade; Heather Music, seventh grade; and Brandi Tackett, eighth grade.

Notebook time

It's notebook time again for the students in Doris Osborne's Biology I class. Every year the students in Biology I have to do a notebook from the beginning of the year to the end. The notebook consists of labs of different animals ranging from the worm to the fetal pig.

CAWOOD'S NEW BOOK

After reading a copy of Cawood Ledford's new book, "Hello Everybody, This is Cawood Ledford" it makes me hate to see the Voice of the Wildcats leave even more. The book is enjoyable and it will keep you interested from the first page until the last.

It was interesting to note how Cawood felt about the probation year for Kentucky. He felt that indeed $1,000 was placed in an Emery envelope, but he goes on to state that he doesn't feel that Dwayne Casey put it there.

Remember when Dick Vitale was hollering that Eddie Sutton should resign after the news broke of the scandal. Cawood was upset, according to the book, at the remarks that the mouth had made that upset a lot of Kentucky fans, and Cawood confronted him with it. While discussing it in front of Cawood's radio booth at Rupp Arena, Cawood told Vitale to "move further down press row Dick because somebody's aim might be bad."

Cawood reveals that he thought of leaving the UK broadcasting job after the scandal but changed his mind. We'll all miss Cawood.

KENTUCKY JUNIOR OLYMPICS

The annual Kentucky Junior Olympics will be held June 27, which falls on a Saturday. Several of the Allen Central track and field team will be competing in the event. Allen Central coach Dewey Jamerson said that anyone needing a sign-up form or more information on the Olympics should call him at Allen Central or at home, 874-9075.

TRACK AND FIELD FACILITY UPDATE

The possibility of Floyd County having their first track and field facility is looking brighter and brighter. Over 2,200 signatures were collected on petitions circulated throughout the county and presented to the board of education.

There is a good possibility that the facility may be located in the football area at Allen Central. If that is the case, then the baseball field would be moved behind the school. The board supports the building of a track and field facility and promises to send someone to look at the site.

"Well, we had Mr. Burchett up here today (Thursday)," said Coach Jamerson. "That shows the board is keeping their word and looking into the site for one."

The original location picked for the site was directly behind the high school, but the football field would be an ideal location because it is already laid out. However, some filling will have to be done back toward the high school. Cost and plans for the facility have already been figured and if things go as all hope, Floyd County could have a track and field site.

"We could have our own Floyd County Conference," stated Jamerson. "We could hold two invitational meets a year. You invite 10 boys teams and 10 girls' teams at $40 per team, that's $800 dollars in your pocket and besides that you save money by not having to go out on the road all the time."

Board member Orville Duff stated that he is for the facility as long as it did not eliminate the baseball field.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

"I wonder if Johnny Bench started this way?"

Braves score 11 times in fifth for 16-6 win over Indians

Lately the Prestonsburg Little League has seen several firsts caused by the rainy weather conditions of late. The rain has forced teams to play three games in one week and has caused pitching problems for each team.

In Little League each pitcher is only allowed to pitch six innings in a week and the results have been unpredictable.

Last Monday, the Yankees won their first game of the year by defeating the Rangers. On Wednesday, the Rangers handed the Cubs their first loss of the season. Pitching, or the lack of it, played an important part in the games.

The Cubs handed the Braves their second loss of the season on Tuesday and the win proved costly for the Cubs as the Braves pushed the game into extra innings before losing 7-4. The front running Cubs were forced to use two regular starters in the extra inning game and were left with only Andy Jarvis to use against the Rangers. Jarvis pitched well but the Rangers prevailed in a good one 4-3.

The Braves stayed one game behind the Cubs by posting a 16-6 mercy game this past Saturday. The Braves took advantage of the Indians' inexperienced pitching, scoring 11 times in the fifth inning to mercy the Indians after trailing 6-5 going into the bottom of the fifth.

J.B. Hall picked up the win in working the fourth and fifth innings in relief of starter Dustin Robinson. Robinson went the first three innings, yielding one run on four walks and no hits. Robinson struck out six. Hall had four strikeouts and six walks, giving up five runs on just one hit. Hall had control difficulty in the fifth inning when the Indians scored five times to take their 6-5 lead. Hall walked six in the two innings he pitched.

The loss was pinned on James Briggs in relief of starter Janson Slone. Slone went the first four with Briggs coming on to pitch the fatal fifth for the Indians. Slone yielded five runs on two hits, striking out seven and walking six. Briggs walked five and fanned one batter.

Gavin Hale had the big bat for the Braves with three hits which included two doubles and a triple. Hale collected two RBIs in the game. Hale tripled in the fifth inning to help drive in his two runs. He also doubled in the first and third innings. Robinson had a fourth-inning double and drove in four runs in the game, collecting two hits. Jeremy Watkins also had a four RBI night with two hits — a double in the fifth and a base hit. Mark Stanley doubled in the 11-run fifth also.

Adam Hall had a fourth-inning double for the Indians.

The Braves collected nine hits while the Indians could only manage two. Braves pitching put the runners on base, issuing 10 walks in the game.

A big game on tap this Friday at Archer Park will pit the A's against the Cubs. The A's are tied with the Braves for second place in the standings, one game behind the Cubs. The expected pitching matchup for the game is a good one. The last time the two teams faced each other resulted in a 1-0 Cubs win.

The First Commonwealth Bank Tennis Tournament will be held June 24 through June 27 and July 1 through July 5 at the Archer Park tennis courts in Prestonsburg. This is the sixth year of the event which supports Archer Park.

Since its inception in 1987, the tournament has grown from a local event lasting four days to a multi-state event drawing entrants from Ohio, West Virginia, Southwestern Virginia and throughout eastern and southeastern Kentucky. The tournament now last seven days.

For more information on the tournament, contact Don or Kaye Willis at 886-2552 for entry information on all skill levels.

Orioles comeback falls short in 10-8 Martin Reds win

The Martin Reds scored five times in the second inning, pushed across three more in the third and then held off the Garrett Orioles to post a 10-8 win in the Beaver Creek Little League Wednesday night.

Brent Slone was the first of three 10 year old's who went to the mound for the Reds. Slone picked up the win getting relief help from Heath Scott and Chris Damron. Slone worked the first three innings and had six strikeouts. He walked four, yielded three hits in giving up three runs. Scott went the next two with three strikeouts, three walks. He allowed three runs on three hits. Damron closed the last inning with two strike outs and two walks. He allowed two runs on two hits.

Ratliff went the distance for the Orioles but suffered the loss. He allowed all 10 runs on 13 hits.

In the Reds' second, B.J. Caudill and Ethan Martin collected consecutive hits and both runners scored on Misty Scott's triple. Scott scored on Matt Hagans' double to make it a 3-0 game. After Damron walked, Nick Little singled home Hagans and a run scored on a bases -oaded walk to Brent Slone.

Three runs crossed home plate in the Reds third for a 10-3 lead. Sam Bentley and Todd Howard got opening base hits. Both runners scored on Martin's one-out base hit. Hagans then doubled home Martin.

The Reds had taken a 2-0 lead in the first inning on Stumbo's lead-off single and a double by Bentley. With runners on second and third, Howard scored both with a triple. Howard tried to stretch the hit but was tagged out at home.

Garrett got on the scoreboard in the second inning with two runs. Murphy opened the inning with a double and Slone walked Ousley and Ratliff to load the bases for the Orioles. Murphy and Ousley scored on a base hit by Salisbury.

Garrett scored their third run in the third inning on a two-out walk to Ousley, a base hit by Henson and Murphy's run producing double.

Trailing 10-3, the Orioles mounted a comeback with three runs in the fourth inning. Ratliff singled for the Orioles and moved to second on a walk to Gunnels. Salisbury then doubled home Ratliff with Gunnels and Salisbury scoring on a two-bagger by Prater.

In the top of the six, Garrett pushed across two runs when they loaded the bases against Damron. Salisbury singled, Scarberry walked and Collette walked to fill the bases. With two out, Henson doubled home two runs. The rally ended with a strike-out.

Martin and Stumbo had two hits each for the Reds. Howard and Scott had triples with Bentley and Hagans collecting doubles. For the Orioles, Murphy, Salisbury, Henson and Prater all had doubles. Salisbury had three hits for the Orioles. Murphy doubled twice in the game.

Winning pitcher!

Cawood's book: You can't put it down

"Hello everybody, this is Cawood Ledford." How many times have Kentuckians from across the commonwealth heard those very words when Cawood Ledford, Voice of the Wildcats, came on the air to report a University of Kentucky football or basketball game. Countless number of times.

It was only fitting then that Cawood's story would be titled the same. The book begins from the time that Cawood took his first broadcasting job at radio station WHLN in Harlan to the present time when he called his last game for the Wildcats.

"It all started with a phone call from Charlie Ward," the book begins. It goes on and relates how Cawood was recommended for the reporting of high school basketball and football games for Harlan for a starting wage of $45 per week.

Cawood traces his first meeting with the Baron, Adolph Rupp, as a green reporter who he says was "last on the totem pole" next to Claude Sullivan and J.B. Faulconer of the old Ashland Oil and Standard Oil radio networks but quickly moved up to number two and doubled his salary to $90 per week.

Cawood reveals the reason for retiring before he really had to, how that he still had not slipped any in his wife Frances's estimate. But Cawood says that choosing his own time to retire set better with him than having to go on until someone else told him it was time to give it up.

In his book, Cawood reveals his top ten UK basketball players and also his top team, underrated team which will surprise many UK fans. Cawood's favorite Kentucky Derbys, as well as the best restaurants in the SEC, are all in the book.

In the legend's biography, he listed the greatest honor afforded him in his 39 years with the Wildcats. It wasn't being named to the Kentucky Athletic Hall of Fame or the Kentucky Journalism Hall of Fame, although they were great honors. Nor was it when the University of Kentucky reired his "jersey" in his honor. It was the thousands of letters he received once he announced his retirement.

"All the mail I received and am still getting topped all of that," said Cawood in his book.

retired as head coach at UK. Cawood thank all the fans that "traveled the glory road" with him over the 39 years as the Voice of the Wildcats.

The book has many photographs of Cawood's earlier years as a broadcaster and photos from this year, his last.

"Hello everybody, this is Cawood Ledford" is one of those books that once you pick it up and start reading, it is hard to put down.

On June 24 at the Readmore Book Store in the Glyn View Plaza, Cawood will be there in person to autograph his book for Kentucky and Cawood fans. The book sells for $21.95 plus tax. Cawood will be at Readmore from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m.

WSAZ announces basketball event July 31, August 1-2

WSAZ television 3 will sponsor a 3 on 3 basketball tournament. The event will take place simultaneously in Huntington and Charleston, WV on Friday, July 31 and August 1 and 2.

The double elimination tournament will feature a four person team (three players and one substitute) playing to a score of 15, winning by two, up to a maximum of 20 points. The top two teams in Huntington and Charleston will meet in a final showdown on Sunday, August 2.

Those interested in entering the tournament should contact the YMCA or WSAZ television in either city. A limited number of team spaces are available. Entry fee is $50 per team. Entry deadline is Friday, July 24.

Proceeds of the event benefit the Charleston and Huntington YMCA's and the WSAZ Children's Charities.

1937 Floyd County Basketball

Are you a nostalgia buff? Do old things and past years fascinate you? Do you enjoy looking at the school annuals of yesteryear? Wednesday, Jimmy "Global" Goble showed off his 1937 school annual to show off to everyone else. The 1937 annual was the first printed in Floyd County and it was rich in late 30's memories.

AUXIER HORNETS

In 1937, the Auxier Hornets fielded a basketball team consisting of seven varsity squad players. The Hornets were coached by Edward B. Leslie. While the 1937 yearbook did not give any details about the team, it did list the names of the players. Names such as Darwin Patton, forward; Abe Robinson, forward; Ouis Webb, forward; Leo Wallen, guard; Alvis Music, guard; John D. Evans, guard; Mack Daniels, forward; Gifford Bickford, forward; Raleigh Witten, guard; Donald Patton, center.

The Hornets played in the gymnasium that exists today.

Of course, Auxier is known for one of the greatest players to come out of Floyd County — Porter Powers, who played back in the 50's.

BETSY LAYNE BOBCATS

"We'll give three cheers for Betsy Layne

The finest school we ever knew;
Our hearts are full of hope and love,

To our school we will be true.
Like a mountain stands our purpose high;

To work, to help, to live.
With might and main,
Cheer for Betsy Layne,
Our school — rah — Betsy Layne"

So went the school song for the Betsy Layne Bobcats in 1937.

Hallard Wheeler coached the Betsy Layne Bobcats back in '37. During the year, the Bobcats defeated every team in Floyd County at least once and were awarded the sportsmanship cup in the county tournament. The team played a total of 30 games, winning 25. A note in the '37 yearbook stated, "Betsy Layne High School is proud of its basketball team is looking forward to greater victories in the future. Coach Wheeler is to be congratulated on the fine spirit he has instilled into his team and for interest he has shown in the welfare of the members of his team. He is to be commended."

Junior Newsome carries on the Betsy Layne tradition in the present and the program still carries the winning tradition.

BONANZA HIGH SCHOOL

Can you believe that Bonanza had a high school? They sure did. Ellis Hale was the school's principal. Although the school had only 33 students then, six of those made up the basketball squad. Luther Prater played forward and was captain of the team. Henry Lewis Holbrook played the forward position also. Another forward for Bonanza was Guy Merritt. Center was played by John Lloyd Whitaker with Greeley Dotson and Leonard Harmon at the guard spots.

The school colors were yellow and purple.

FLOYD-KNOTT HIGH SCHOOL LIONS

The '36-'37 season was filled with thrills for the Lion supporters from the time the referee's whistle started the first game until it ended the last one.

The Lions were 15-10 during the 1936-37 basketball season. The season highlight was a win over Jackson High School in Breathitt County. Another high point for the Lions was handing the Garrett Blackdevils a 25-21 loss. The win snapped a Garrett 16-game winning streak.

The season for the Lions began with a defeat by Auxier and closed with the big win over Jackson High School.

Only two teams were successful in defeating Lackey in two consecutive games — Hindman and Prestonsburg.

A postscript of the season says, "The success of which Lackey boasts was made possible by the patience and perseverance of the coach and the hard work on the part of each member of the squad. Both coach and team worked hard to form a clean, hard-fighting team.

"Lackey was honored by playing host to the ten teams of Floyd County who participated in the 58th District Tournament. The students and faculty tried to make this the most successful tournament ever held in Floyd County. If we succeeded, our hopes were fulfilled."

MAYTOWN WILDCATS

In 1937, the Maytown Wildcats won their second consecutive district tournament under the leadership of coach Wiley Jones. The Wildcats also won the title in 1934.

A tribute to the program read like this: "Maytown school is very proud of her basketball team. We have won in the district tournament for the past two consecutive years and were also champions in 1934

Betsy Layne Gym, 1937

Martin Gym, 1937

"Everybody has heard of a 'one horse town' but so far, Maytown seems to be the only one to produce a 'dark' one. Coach Jones and his boys certainly came through the last tournament with flying colors. For those who have forgotten and those who would like to forget, we might mention that Jones has turned out three district championship teams in Maytown.

"Here are a few characteristics of the team:

Ogden has proved our Rock of Gibraltar

He did not fail us and he did not falter.

Fletcher is fast and rough 'n tough
But we've all decided he knows his stuff.

Herman's the shiek who wins the girls' praise

But we're sure he'll be famous some of these days.

Roger or 'Nig' — whichever you prefer

Has played some ball that caused quite a stir.

Glenn is little, quick and fast

As for the rest, they're a link in the chain

Of past successes and future gain."

MARTIN PURPLE FLASH

Martin fielded a team of players that two are still known today. Denzil "Hoss" Halvert, former Purple Flash coach, played forward for coach Garland Lewis' ball club. Said of Halbert in the yearbook, "He is a potential star in the making. A very good dependable player is Denzil."

Martin mayor Raymond Griffith, who also played forward, was nicknamed "Romeo" but was considered "the key man on the Purple offense." He was a hard-fighting scrappy guard but as rough as Mussell shoals. Griffith was named to the All-Tournament team in 1936-37.

Other team members were: Fred Mandt Jr., John W. Adams, David Marris Jr., Douglas Wilson, Clinton Gregory, Harry "Babe" Goodin, Clyman Hunter and Frank Martin.

Mandt was named to the All-Tournament team that year and shot the old fashioned "one hand push shot".

MCDOWELL DAREDEVILS

The McDowell Daredevils were coached by Everett Hall. Members of the team were Rayce Vanderpool, Edward Stumbo, Ted Parsons, Glidden Stumbo, James Vance, Mitchell Ward, Eugene Akers, John Sizemore and Clarence England.

PRESTONSBURG BLACKCATS

Winners of 25 games and losers only eight times, the Blackcats put together a 14 game winning streak after dropping the first game 47-22 to Inez. Cumberland posted a 14-12 win over the Blackcats to snap the streak.

Prestonsburg posted a 83-16 win over Van Lear — an uncommonly high scoring game for 1937. The Blackcats averaged 28.7 ppg and held their opponents to an average of 20.8 ppg.

Starting for the Blackcats were Ray Craft, captain; Joe P. Tackett, co-captain; Chester Patton, guard; Jack Carter, forward; James Prater, forward. Off the bench were: Dick Allen, guard; James Roark, guard; Galloway Lafferty, center; Harold Holcomb, forward; Bernard Tackett, forward.

WAYLAND WASPS

Five players made up the Wayland Wasps back in 1937. The Wasps were coached by Chamer Frazier and Wayland was a school without a gymnasium.

It was said of the Wayland team: "Though handicapped by lack of a gymnasium and having no team for the past several years, the Wayland team yet played a spirited season in which, though few games were won, Coach Frazier was able to bring out among his squad the finest qualities of sportsmanship and interest in basketball. More may be expected of Wayland when the 1937 gymnasium is completed."

Team members on Coach Frazier's squad were: Claude Frady, Edmund Castle, Francis Harmon, Bush Brooke, Jr., Bert Hall.

WHEELWRIGHT TROJANS

The Wheelwright Trojans of 1937 had one of the largest squads in Floyd County in 1937. Ten players made up the team of coach Robert Harlowe. Members of the Trojans in 1937 were: Manis Crawford, Billy Liktor, Beech Oliver, Elmer Ferguson (former mayor of Wheelwright) Gaza Litafik, Arthur Branham, Pate Hall, Robert Reed, Vern Bailey, Oscar Smith. The team manager was G.N. Wilkinson.

PALMER DUNBAR SCHOOL

Palmer Dunbar was a two-year high school with an enrollment of 114 students in 1937. They also had basketball as one of their extra-curricular activities.

From 10 high schools to the present day five and soon to be four. The rivalries of the schools were fierce during the 1937 season according to those who remember the year.

Just a look back at one of the great years in Floyd County basketball.

Good for a double!

It was a good day at the old ball park in Martin Wednesday night at the Garrett Orioles and Martin Reds got together for a game of Little League baseball. This Martin hitter doubles on this pitch as the Reds posted an 10-8 win over the Orioles. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Garrett Cubs stay close to top with win over Drift

The Garrett Cubs Little League team stayed close to the top spot in the Beaver Creek Little League standings with a 17-6 win over the Drift Astros Wednesday night at Drift.

Mike Combs picked up the win for the Cubs in going the distance. Combs had seven strike outs and he walked three. Drift used four pitchers — all with the last name Hall. Clabe Hall started for the Astros and was relieved in the third inning by Josh Hall. Clayton Hall followed him to the mound with Billy Hall finishing up. Clabe Hall got the loss.

Garrett scored six times in the top of the third to take a 9-5 lead after trailing 5-3. Mike Pack and Jackie Owens collected back-to-back base hits to start the inning. John Goble drew a walk that loaded the bases and Matt Moore walked to force in Pack. Nathan Goble was hit by a pitch and back-to-back walks to Matt Howard and Combs forced in three runs. Two more scored on Johnny Case's double.

Garrett led 1-0 after the first inning on a walk to Combs, who stole second and third. Pack lifted a fly ball that scored Combs with the first run of the game. Drift came back with three in their half of the first to take a 3-1 lead. Clayton Hall and John Hall both singled and scored on Clabe Hall's base hit. Clabe Hall scored the third run on an error.

Garrett managed to tie the game with two runs in the second inning. Five consecutive walks from Clabe Hall allowed the Cubs to push across the two runs. Matt Howard, Combs and Case each picked up RBIs with their walks. After Drift went out in order in the third, the Cubs scored six times.

It was 11-6 after the Cubs batted in the fourth inning. Singles by Pack and Owens opened the inning. Jonathan Goble's ground ball scored Pack and Owens scored on a base hit by Barry Conley.

The Astros scored once in the fourth walk to Josh Hall and Byron Hall's RBI single.

Garrett added four runs in the top of the fifth and scored two in the sixth for the 17-6 win. Each team collected five hits in the game. Astro pitching gave up 15 walks and three hit batsmen.

The Cubs improved to 9-2 on the year and will face the Wayland Dodgers at Garrett today at 5 p.m. Monday, Garrett plays the Martin Cardinals in a battle for second place.

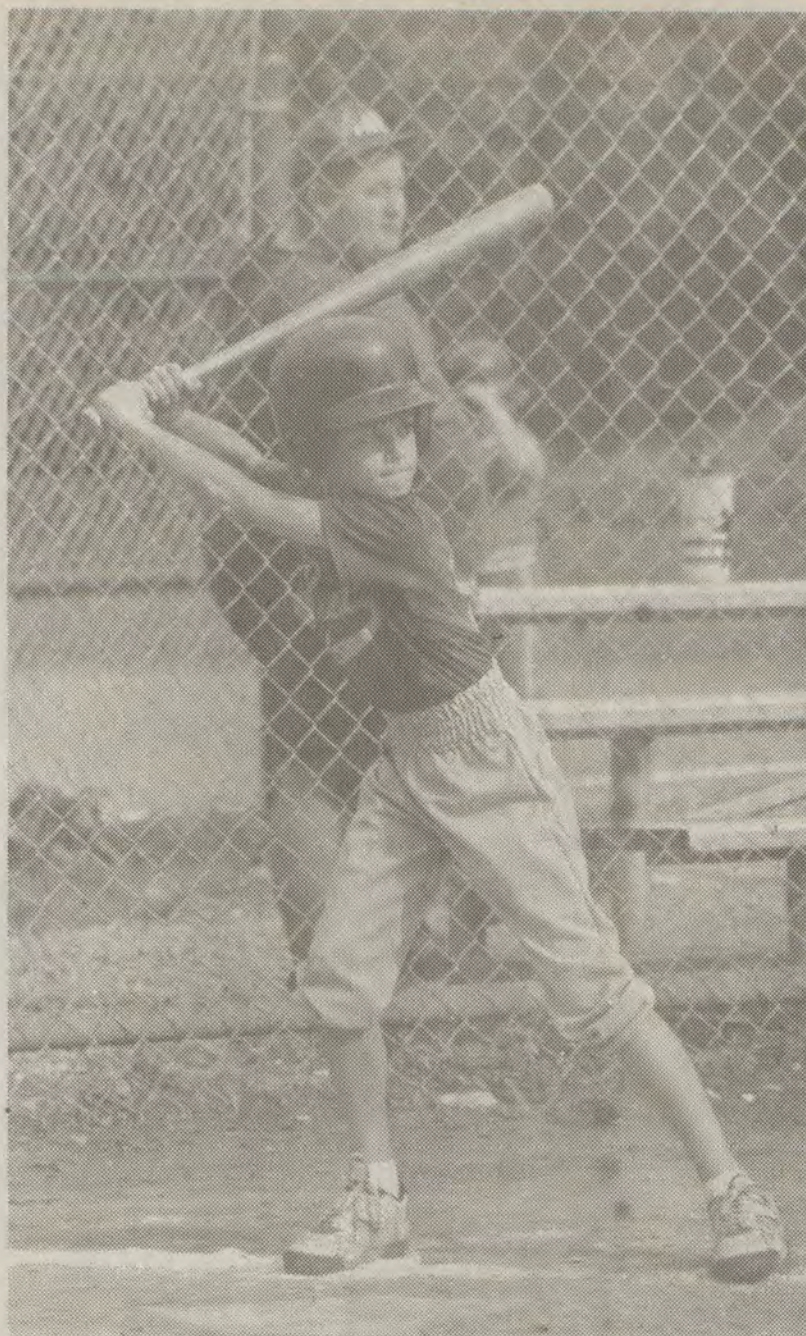

Drift will play the Giants on Monday at 5 p.m.

Homerun rule is biggest change

The big change to look for this year in classes 'C' and 'D' men's softball is the new home run rule.

Teams are allowed one home run per game. A second one hit in the same game is an out according to Gene Mosley, ASA State Umpire-in-Chief for the state of Kentucky. Mosley has 46 years of experience in softball, including the last 22 as an umpire.

For every home run hit after that, it is an out, and the player is ejected from the game.

If teams do not have enough players to finish games because of an ejection for hitting excessive home runs, they must forfeit the game. The rule also applies to Class 'A' Church and Class 'A' Co-Ed play.

In major softball, the limit is 12, in Class 'A' it is six. Home runs hit following the limit are just outs at this level and ejections are not included.

In Class 'B', the limit is three, and home runs over the limit will result in outs without ejections. A year ago, home runs after the limit were considered just foul balls.

Another major change is in the interpretation of the strike zone. Beginning this year the rule on the strike zone has been changed to read "from the front knees to the back shoulders." In the past it read "from the knees to the back shoulders."

This may not sound like a major change but it should certainly change the way some pitches are called.

Veteran official

Officials camp to be held at Belfry June 15-18

The third annual basketball official's camp will be held at Belfry High School on June 15-18 according to camp director Paul Dotson. The camp is open to all who plan to call basketball games this coming season or anyone interested in getting started officiating.

The entry fee per official is $25 and the camp will begin at 5 p.m. Each official will work a minimum of two games per day with individual evaluations and critiques after each contest. Video replays will be used for game assignment, critiques and evaluation.

The camp is designed for experienced as well as inexperienced officials. Referees wishing to work premier high school schedules need to attend this camp.

"We have a good camp," said Ansey Casey, a veteran high school official, "and it is a time for the veteran officials to fine tune their mechanics."

Each official will be required to have black/white officials shirt, black/white or navy shorts, black referee shoes and a whistle. The camp is being held in conjunction with the Belfry High School team camp. All players will be high school age.

In addition to working actual games, special guest lecturers will be on hand to give instructions and lectures. On the list of lecturers are Larry Boucher, assistant commissioner of the KHSAA, Paul Dotson, assigning secretary for the 15th region, Billy Wise, KHSAA commissioner, Yvon Allen, veteran KHSAA official for 26 years and Marvin Moore, official in the Ohio Valley Conference, Southern Conference and Great Lakes Conference. In addition to the above staff others will be working the camp.

For more information contact Paul Dotson at Belfry High School. Applications are available upon request.

Softball, soccer top events in last year's Blue Grass Games

The 1992 Blue Grass Games are scheduled to start July 24 and run through July 26 as a larger than ever group of participants are expected to gather in Lexington for the eighth annual games.

The games have grown in number of participants each year and last year softball and soccer led the way. Softball drew 4,500 participants last year, an increase of 400 over the games in 1990. Soccer had 3,900 take part, an increase of 800 from 1990. Surprisingly, volleyball was the third largest sport with over 1,500 taking part but it suffered the largest drop of 230 participants from 1990.

Over 17,000 (17,538) took part in last year's games, 2,044 more than 1190, with a total of 6,199 medals being awarded, an increase of 895 over the 1990 games.

One hundred and two counties in Kentucky took home medals, an increase of 10 from the 1990 games. Five more counties took part, 107, than in 1990.

The senior citizens were about the same as 1990 in participation with 3,200 taking part.

Floyd County had 116 to take part in last year's game and Floyd Countians brought home a total of 28 medals making them 28th out of the 107 counties. Fayette had the largest number of medals with 647.

Twenty-two sporting events will be offered this year for athletes to participate in. Events include several categories: archery, three-on-three basketball, bowling, canoeing/kayaking, chess, croquet, cycling, diving, equestrian, fencing, golf, gymnastics, horseshoes, shooting, soccer, softball, swimming, table tennis, tennis, track and field, volleyball and wrestling.

The opening ceremonies of the games will once again be conducted at Commonwealth Stadium on the campus of the University of Kentucky. The opening ceremonies will take place on Friday evening, July 24, with all athletes encouraged to be part of the colorful event.

Just before the opening ceremonies, athletes gather outside Commonwealth Stadium for live entertainment, T-shirts and a picnic. It is also time to register for those who did not preregister.

From a fan standpoint, the games are excellent entertainment and fun to watch. Participation here in Floyd County is expected to be higher than last year with several taking part in the track and field events at Shively

Field. Local area softball teams have already registered, both men and women. Allen Central's track and field team plans to enter the events. Steve Cummings, founder of the summer swim teams, will be competing in swimming, as well as others from the area. Three-on-three basketball has always been a favorite around here and athletes are planning to enter the games. Archery draws a good turnout from Floyd County as does tennis.

Gold, silver and bronze medals are awarded to the top three finishers in each event. The games have some early entry deadlines as well as regular deadlines. Soccer, and softball deadlines are June 15. Diving, equestrian, shooting (sporting and regional highpower matches only), soccer, tennis and volleyball deadlines are July 3. Deadlines for all the other events will be July 10.

The Governor's Pacesetters actually get the ceremonies underway at 11:30 a.m. at the old capital in Frankfort for the lighting of the torch. The torch run begins from Frankfort and is carried by runners in time for the lighting of the Olympic torch in Commonwealth Stadium.

Participant's check time is from 2 to 7 p.m. The picnic supper for athletes and their families is scheduled from 4 p.m. until 7 p.m. From 4 p.m. until 8 p.m. entertainment will be provided. Participants line for the parade at 7:30 p.m. and the opening ceremonies begin at 8 p.m.

"Your Time To Shine" is the theme for this year's games.

Owens hurls, bats Garrett Cubs past McDowell, 15-11

Jackie was impressive on the mound and at the plate for the Garrett Cubs as he pitched and batted his team to a 15-11 win over the McDowell Sox in Beaver Creek Little League action this week.

Owens was the winning pitcher for the Cubs, going the distance. Owens had six strike outs and he walked eight. However, the right hander had three hits and two RBIs in the game for the winners.

Darren Newsome suffered the setback for the Sox, but he also had a big day at the plate when he drilled a grand slam home run in the bottom of the fourth inning. Newsome recorded seven strike outs and he walked eight. Newsome gave way to Landon Elswick in the fourth inning. Elswick had two strike outs and he walked three.

In the Cubs' fourth, Leslie Slone had a two-run triple as the Cubs scored four times to take a 12-2 lead. Owens drove in a run for the Cubs with a RBI single.

The Cubs pushed across three more runs in the top of the fifth for a 15-5 game. However, the Sox rallied for five runs in the bottom of the sixth to close the margin to 15-11. But the rally fell short.

Mike Combs walked four times in the game and scored four runs for the Cubs. Johnny Case had two hits.

HOT DIGGITY DOG

If it weren't for hot dogs, nachos, and pizza, my family would have died of starvation a month and a half ago. It isn't that I haven't wanted to prepare something more palatable and nutritious, but that requires time—a precious commodity that we find is virtually non-existent.

Since our son is our first priority, and our son's first priority is himself, we spend the vast majority of our time at sporting events. And after attending hundreds of these athletic contests, we've found that most of them take place around suppertime.

The first couple of days aren't so bad. After a winter of hot chocolate and popcorn, a hot dog with sauce and a soft drink hit the spot. It's only after the hot dogs start barking back that you think you'll turn green if you eat another one.

For the more daring, the nachos provide a spicy alternative. But you can only eat so many jalapeno peppers before your la stomacha wants to la upchucka. And if you think cheese is binding, keep up a steady diet of this stuff and you almost have to put a grate across your backside to keep the rats out.

To be honest, I can't complain about the pizza. It does contain vegetables and provides a certain amount of roughage to an otherwise soft sports diet. And aside from these things, my son thinks that pizza is the four major food groups. The only problem is my son will eat it, but my husband won't. So typical of our family.

From all accounts, our family is in the majority. By the amount of money taken in at concession stands, the only people who now eat at home are either child or suffer from an eating disorder.

It's true. No one with children who play sports eats at home anymore. It's gotten so bad that men have been known to covet wives who somehow manage to prepare hot meals before arriving at the games.

"I've got green beans and creamed new potatoes on the stove. I left him a pone of cornbread in the oven." I heard a woman say to another woman before one of last week's games. After hearing the comment, 14 irate wives converged upon her. The next time she came to a game, her entree was nachos with Jolly Ranchers for dessert.

You're probably asking why I don't prepare my meals ahead of time, but I'm too busy for that. For example, if we don't have a game during the week, I use that time to sleep or wash clothes. Since most of our games aren't completed until at least 11 p.m., food preparation is last on my list. Of course, it would be last on my list anyway.

"Mom. Do we have any milk?" my son asked me one night last week.

"We've got milk. I saw some in the fridge," I said, defensively.

"That milk's old," he cried.

"It shouldn't be. I got some the last time I went to the store. What does the date on the carton say?"

by Seli Groves

ALL MY CHILDREN: Adam told Erica he'll give her a divorce if she spends a night with him at their cabin. Mona, however, was afraid that Adam might harm Erica and asked Dimitri to save her. Erica, meanwhile, was enjoying her stay with Adam and was upset with Dimitri for treating her like a damsel in distress. Craig left a note telling Dixie he was leaving Pine Valley. Opal, believing she was starting menopause, was startled when Hamill told her she's pregnant. An even more startled Palmer insisted it was impossible since he's sterile. Wait To See: Edmund's presence at Tempo creates an unexpected problem for Brooke.

ANOTHER WORLD: At the Tuxedo Club, Rick tried to romance a terrified Jenna. At the sky diving hangar, Marley admitted to Dennis that Iris sent her to stop him from taking off. After she left with Byron, Dennis collapsed in pain. In Venice, Frankie told Cass she had a strange feeling about the plaza they were visiting. After learning the tale of La Fidela, they agreed they should marry and carry out the rest of the story. Felicia urged Loma to tell the police what she knew about Rick's connection to Carl. Wait To See: Lorna has another idea that could prove dangerous.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Dr. Samuels prescribed bed rest for Lily, who prayed she wouldn't lose her baby. After learning Frannie had given books from the attic to the Earl Mitchell Center, Darryl went through them and found a note and notebook, which he kept secret from her. Caleb told Holden that although he never got over Julie, he'll marry Angel and vowed never to hurt her. Margo reassured Frannie about Darryl. Later, Frannie overheard him telling someone on the phone to put through a large transfer of funds. Tom overheard Lisa telling Scott she didn't want him (Tom) to know about Thomas Eldridge. Wait To See: Tom's curiosity plays into Scott's plans.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: Jane, the new nurse at Forrester's, agreed to babysit for little Eric after Brooke, complaining of nausea, left to see the doctor. At the reception, Stephanie tried to keep Brooke away from the family group, claiming she no longer had any ties to the Forresters. Brooke told her, not so: She's pregnant with Ridge's baby, and that's a very strong tie. Macy showed up at Thorne's place, much to his delight. Sally turned up with a platterful of oysters for Clarke, and reminded him that he either make good on his marital duties, or move out. Clarke imagined Kristen's face over Sally's and did the right thing, nuptially speaking. Wait To See: Zach has ideas of his own about his sister's new family.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Unaware he was being set up, John Gosden and representatives of every major label (Carter's record label is SUS Americana Records). The show is taped for television broadcast.

Carter nominated for country music award

Kimberly Carter

American Country Radio has nominated a Floyd County woman for the Most Promising Female of the Year award for her record "Rockin' At The Dance Hall."

Kimberly Carter of Harold was nominated for the award by country radio stations across the nation. Her name was included on a ballot mailed on June 1st to reporting country radio stations for the final voting procedure. Only country radio stations nominate and only country radio stations vote.

Results of the voting will be announced at the fifth annual MiRL (Major Independent Record Label Awards) Awards show Sunday, June 14, at 7 p.m. at the Opryland Hotel. Carter will receive a Certificate of Nomination at the reception prior to the awards show.

Last year's show was attended by Garth Brooks, Alan Jackson, Vern Gosden and representatives of every major label (Carter's record label is SUS Americana Records). The show is taped for television broadcast.

Truth, Justice and the American Way

by Geoff Belcher, staff writer

What's in a name? That which we call a rose

By any other name would smell as sweet;

-Shakespeare,

Romeo and Juliet, II, 2

He left a name, at which the world grew pale,

To point a moral or adorn a tale.

-Johnson, The Vanity of Human Wishes

Name's Belcher. Geoff Belcher. Now rollllll that over in your mouth for a minute, and know in your heart of hearts that I have suffered that same terrible fate that plagued that boy named Sue.

Obviously, the name "Belcher" conjures images of bad manners and rude noises, although the French derivation means "noble or beautiful." Honest. I looked it up.

Now consider that the name "Geoffrey," although it has a g and an o, is pronounced "Jeffery." Not "Gregory." Not "Godfrey." Jeffery. (Actually, I prefer just being called Geoff because anytime I hear the name Geoffrey I see a little boy running wild through the local Piggly Wiggly being chased by an out-of-breath matron in fuzzy slippers and hair curlers.)

These days, I like to think that it's distinctive, which is what my parents tell me is the reason they stuck me with it in the first place. I used to think they were just sadistic, because as a child, I was tormented daily by my peers and teachers who habitually, almost ritually, mangled, abused and virtually destroyed my name, thus, in my own mind making me the sole target of ridicule in the entire western hemisphere.

Gregory and Godfrey are just the tip of the iceberg.

Every single day of my life, from first grade through my senior year of high school, one of my more clever classmates, a different one every day, would invariably greet me in front of a large crowd with "Hey, thar, Ge-off," and then break into an uncontrollable fit of giggling, as if he were the first grade-A genius ever to think to call me that.

To make matters worse, the entire eight years I spent in grammar school, the school librarian called me "Goff," even though I continually reminded her of the correct pronunciation. She pretended to be senile, but I'm sure she was just mean.

I experimented, of course, trying over and over without success to come upon some creative solution to lessen the overwhelming agony. First, I started signing my name with only one f, "Geof," thinking that at least then, people couldn't make it sound like "off," until one enterprising educator called out in class, "All right, who's this 'Goof' person?"

Then I thought that maybe I'd just drop the "Geof" completely and have everybody call me "Free," until my uncle told me that then everybody would think my parents were hippies and we'd have nightly cross burnings in our front yard.

My personal favorite came just the other day when I was opening a new bank account, and the teller read my name as "Gopher Butcher," and I thought briefly about having that printed on all my business cards until I figured that most people would think that was my profession rather than my name and I'd eventually run into trouble with the ASPCA.

The name game doesn't give me fits anymore, partially because I finally decided to chalk it up as one of those little crosses that everyone has to bear, but mainly because the names people are giving their children these days makes me feel as average as an old widow with a roomful of cats.

Gone now are the Adams and the Alans, the Bretts and the Bills, the Debbies and the Donnas, the Jennifers and the Jaimies.

Just the other day I met a lady who had named her newborn son Aristotle Cornelius Wolfgang Jones, "but we just call him 'Bubbie,'" she said.

I have a friend who works at the University of Kentucky Medical Center who told me recently that a woman at the maternity ward named her new daughter "Placenta," because she saw it on the birth chart and thought it was just soooooo pretty.

Then of course there's the ever-popular "Bambi." I met a Bambi once. She was around sixty, and brother let me tell you, she looked more like a "Buzzard" or a "Froggie" to me.

Then there's celebrity names. The next generation is almost certain to produce a bumper crop of Chers, Madonnas, Barts, Meryls, Princes, Whoopis and maybe even a Pee Wee or two.

Personally, I intend to name my firstborn Elvis, whether it's a boy or a girl. I've already got the miniature white, satin, sequined jumpsuit and fake lambchop sideburns all picked out... but that won't be until I'm a year away from a nursing home and I won't have to deal with the kid saying "Ahh, Dad, all the other kids make fun of me because you gave me this stupid name."

Prospective parents: it's spring. Mating season is upon us. Think before you name your children. There's a reason why people don't name their children after seasons and months anymore. And just because names like "Gilligan" or "Thumper" or "Pebbles" may seem cute on your baby now, remember, when they're eighty, they may actually have to go out in public. The life you save may be your own.

If you want to give your child a distinctive name, just pick a regular one and spell it funny. They'll probably get over that eventually rather than ending up naked in a belltower with a high-powered rifle playing "pick off the pedestrian."

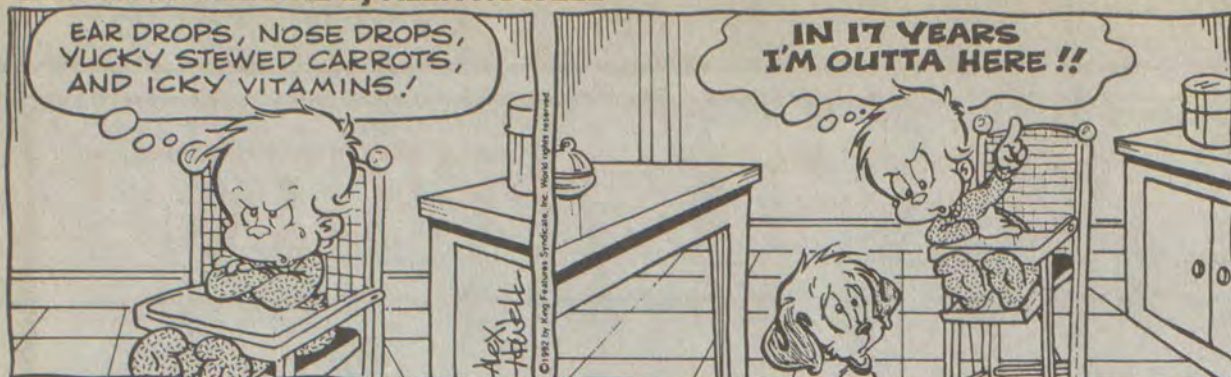

At the worst, they may someday write an article in the paper embarrassing you in front of everybody in the county.

"Oops! Wrong cake!"

GRANDPARENTING

SUMMER MEANS BASEBALL

The Grand Remark of the Week: "The mother of our 3-year-old grandson Mark recently took him along when she went to the automatic teller machine at her bank and allowed him to watch her transaction. He uses her computer at home and watched intently while she punched in her code number and her request for withdrawal.

"When she opened the drawer and removed her money, he shouted for all around to hear, 'Mommy, we won, we won!'" — Barbara K. Graham, Stuart, Fla.

Win or lose, one of the sweetest of summer tonics is that baseball is back in town! You can watch it at your local diamond, a stadium, or right on your front lawn. That's where Albert, our 10-year-old grandson, tosses a ball with his grandfather, Tom. He's not old enough to be on a team, since we don't have a Little League nearby, but he absolutely loves the sport.

Maybe it's inherited. Dee started going to Red Sox games at Fenway Park in Boston with her grandfather when she was only 9. (Later, at 14, she was desperately in love with Ted Williams, the year he hit .406.)

In fact, Frank Robinson, the Hall of Famer who is now assistant general manager of the Baltimore Orioles, told us recently in all seriousness that the time to start teaching grandchildren how to play baseball is "just as soon as they are born!"

Albert's home plate is right here at Thornhill Farm, but we plan to take him to a game soon at our new ballpark: Oriole Park at Camden Yards. This is truly a field of dreams, a baseball natural, a brand-new ballpark that is also old-fashioned. Yes, there is a special connection between old parks and childhood.

Take your grandchildren to a ballgame. There is a marvelous intimacy and excitement that no other game can give. Everyone is the same age at a ballgame. Your grandchildren may not remember the score, but they'll never forget who took them. (Tom had a childhood friend who could quote World Series scores back to the turn of the century.)

Certain ballplayers will become heroes, and grandparents can help make memories. Just the other day when Dee asked Albert to sign his name to a birthday card, she realized she had been caught "off base," but was amused to see he had signed the card, "Cal Ripken," the name of the Orioles' outstanding shortstop. Albert isn't really in the big leagues yet, but in his dreams he is already there. That's the magic of baseball.

that John was becoming obsessed with his new found legacy and position. Kiriakis obtained Leopold's will and learned Vivian had been enjoying John's half of the Alamain empire. Bo and Carly met with Shane's I.S.A. contact who said her baby had been adopted by a family in Tulsa. Roman worried about Marlena's safety with the Lombards. John talked Julie into buying the paper so he could keep Lawrence from getting it. Wait To See: Julie is shocked at learning some facts about Gavin's role in Molly's life.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Monica's defense against the malpractice suit was devastated when it was revealed that David Langton was Dawn's father. Holly gave a rousing appearance as her freedom-fighter half-sister, Paloma, in New Orleans. Ric, however, was attacked by a San Sebastian assassin. Tracy and Paul were anguished over their premature baby's condition. Bill's seafaring buddy, Kris, brought him a money-making deal that could take him out of town. Wait To See: Scotty makes an important discovery in his position.

GUIDING LIGHT: Nick, stunned to learn Eve's the political prisoner he's supposed to interview, neglected to tell her he's engaged to Mindy. Billy was hurt in a car crash. Eleni was surprised to learn it was Frank, not Alan-Michael, who paid for the immigration lawyer. Roger told Alexandra their plan to break up Nick and Mindy was on target after Eve admitted hers was a marriage of convenience. Billy was shocked when he arrived to tell Vanessa he loved her, and saw Fletcher standing behind her wearing a bathrobe. Wait To See: Mindy unwittingly aids Roger in creating a gulf between her and Nick.

LOVING: Trisha continued to turn to Giff for comfort, and rather than live with Trucker, she moved into Corinth Towers. Hanna tried to help Cooper work through his childhood problems. As she did so, he had a momentary flashback of his governorship getting into bed with him. Isabelle turned to Tim for understanding, but the meeting proved painful. Dinah Lee felt she lost Clay to his family. Trucker saw Clay and Dinah Lee embrace. Wait To See: Isabelle faces another crisis from the past.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Max proposed to Blair. Sarah escaped from Conrad just as Maggie arrived. Tina noticed that Cain was upset by Asa's rejection of him. Herb, realizing that Alex wanted to marry him, angrily stalked off. Bo and Sarah realized that Julia knew about Scarecrow. Cassie turned in her resignation after telling Hank she gave files to Bo. Alex drugged Herb and set him up for blackmail by photographing him with two prostitutes. Dorian saw the emotional ties between Jason and Lee Ann. Wait To See: Asa reacts to news of Max's proposal.

SANTA BARBARA: Sawyer went down on a seven count. After seeing Aurora's face as he regained consciousness, he went back into the fight determined to win, and did. A black robed figure forced a screaming Suzanne over a cliff. Mason and Julia found her on the beach, bloodied and unable to move. Unable to speak or move, Suzanne knew Micah was Marcus. Lionel told Gina that if she took the Taksan seat on the board, she'd give the police a motive for Taksan's murder. Lionel proposed again, and this time Gina, furious with C.C., agreed to marry him. Wait To See: Warren's relationship with B.J. develops complications.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Victor overheard Brad and Jack (in Jack's bugged office) discuss plans for Jabot once Victor leaves. Later, Victor played back the recording for Jack. As Victor's anger rose, he suddenly collapsed. For a moment, Jack was stunned and stared at him, then left him writhing and pleading for help. John Silva accompanied Cricket to her meeting with Welsey. Later, Calvin and Randall talked to Michael, who insisted he'd done nothing wrong. Silva warned Cricket it could be difficult for her and Danny if they pushed the harassment suit. Wait To See: Michael has a surprise witness in his behalf.

TELL ME WHY

Why is the sun so hot?

The temperature on the surface of the sun is about 11,000 degrees Fahrenheit. This is hot enough to change any metal or rock into a gas, so the sun must be a globe of gas.

Years ago, scientists believed that the reason the sun shone, or gave off light and heat, was that it was burning. But the sun has been hot for hundreds of millions of years, and nothing could remain burning for that long.

Today's scientists believe that the heat of the sun is the result of a process similar to what takes place in an atom bomb. The sun changes matter into energy.

This is different from burning. Burning changes matter from one form to another. But when matter is changed into energy, very little matter is needed to produce a tremendous amount of energy. One ounce of matter could produce enough energy to melt more than a million tons of rock!

So if science is right, the sun keeps shining because it is constantly changing matter into energy. And just 1 percent of the sun's mass would provide enough energy to keep it hot for 150 billion years.

Life as we know it depends on the sun. Without the sun's heat, life could not have started on Earth. Without sunlight, there would be no green plants, no animals, no human beings.

All we can hope for is that our son finishes playing sports before we contract rickets, scurvy or an ulcer. If not, we can at least be thankful no one has come up with the idea of a sushi bar. I think that would be a raw idea.

THE FAR SIDE

By GARY LARSON

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're in a slowly building phase right now. Your ruler flips signs this weekend, and suddenly, the old crusader is a little self-indulgent, a little more laid back. Others do DOMINATE right now and it's wise to remember this. Of course being passive for a change could be fun.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may be running on a short fuse this week and actually believe you can go on overload any second. Surprises lie ahead when, after all is said and done, you get a second wind, with Mars (energy and sex) popping into your sign. Yes, the good times are starting to roll.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You manifest your more devilish side this week with, perhaps, a midweek interlude from work. Play, if you must. Over the weekend, a lunar eclipse in your opposite sign has an impact on your ties with the opposite sex. Some really wild things could pop. Be careful of that temper, though.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Of all the signs in the zodiac, you may be one of the clearest this week, because you have been forced to do a lot of soulsearching. Use your endless well of creativity not only for problem solving, but also for enjoyment. Your naturally nurturing ways come out this weekend.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Run around this week all you want, though you do need to STOP and decide if it's all worth it. Recharge those batteries and get going again. The weekend should be devoted to Leo pursuits love, romance, sensuality. When someone criticizes you, don't yell.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Be careful what you promise, because you may have to deliver. Worry less as to the outcome of a family situation— it's out of your hands. You will find out the whole scoop, if not by the weekend then within a month. Meanwhile, kick back, relax and resist a desire to run away.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) You're in a great frame of mind, but expect some jolts on your cruise to Nirvana. You find out by the weekend that another may not be there for you. You've pushed your luck one too many times, Libra. Communications are exciting this weekend, though potentially volatile.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) You are back to your old self by the weekend. Be careful, because times aren't the same. A lunar eclipse could affect your checkbook, not only this weekend, but also for the next month. Don't try to appease a warring partner, rather get into the fireworks and applaud.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) You're up, down, and then back up again. Notice, please, all the applause. Partners and friends are there rooting for you. Be more aware of your energy levels and rest when you can. You are aglow this weekend, radiant, because you've won the battle—for now.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) You're on the scene this week, ready to take over and handle all the other signs' messes. Instead, take off for an early weekend, where friendship dominates and you get what you want. Be mysterious and vanish with a loved one this weekend, maybe to return by the work week!

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Yes, manifest that dream this week, and you'll feel great. You know absolutely know, you're going to get what you want. What hits, however, pokes holes in your thinking. Sorry, Aquarius, to insult that well known Aquarian brightness. Oddly enough, you really love what happens.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) You negotiate a truce with a partner (business or personal) this week. Before you skyrocket into dreamland, however, check that all the bases have been covered. Be more aware of the demands you are making. Expect to be on the scene, and on duty, this weekend. Responsibility calls.

CHUCK SHEPHERD

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

At the 80th birthday celebration for Kim Il-sung, the North Korean dictator received as gifts a container of blood from 800 snapping turtles (considered an aphrodisiac) from his son, and a quilt and sleeping mat made of down from the necks of 700,000 sparrows. A 100-room museum houses more than 87,000 presents given him during his 44-year reign. (A gift from a correspondent from the British Broadcasting Corp. was politely refused by North Korean officials because, first, it was merely a BBC sweatshirt, and second, it was not gift-wrapped.)

POLICE BLOTTER

—From the "Police" column of the Brooklyn Park (Minn.) Sun-Post, Feb. 19, 1992: "Police department, 5400 85th Ave. N., Feb. 11: An officer found a quarter in the seat of a squad car. The coin was inventoried and tagged, as required."

—Kevin E. Tibbs, 21, was arrested in Brunswick, Md., in February. According to Officer Robin Purdum, Tibbs had attempted to steal a parking meter and was trying to conceal it in his trousers when stopped.

—Randall Eugene Davis, who has only one leg, was arrested in Clarinda, Iowa, in March, suspected of stealing a truck. The truck contained animals, among which was a Labrador retriever with only three legs.

—From the "Police Report" column of the Kerrville, Texas, Daily Times, Feb. 23, 1992: A 23-year-old Kerrville man was arrested for assault on a police officer when he allegedly tried to gore an off-duty officer with deer antlers strapped to his bicycle handlebars. The man had become angry after the officer had tried to stop him from running into the street.

—Police in West Plains, Mo., arrested Sallie Jo Walker, 34, for beating up her husband, Dennis, in the foyer of the West Plains police station in November. Sallie had just posted the $200 bond to free Dennis after his arrest for peeping into the windows of the girls' locker room at West Plains High School.

—In September, Michigan state trooper Fred Sweeney pursued a speeder doing 101 mph on a state road. Although the speeder had a head start, Sweeney came upon his abandoned car in a private driveway. Looking around, he noticed that in a nearby field all the cows were clustered together and seemed to be staring at one particular spot on the ground. When Sweeney approached the cows, he found the driver of the car attempting to hide in the tall grass and arrested him.

—Mary Ann Linder of Nashville was arrested for shoplifting at a Victoria's Secret store in October. When asked by clerks in a dressing room to hand over stolen items, Linder stripped off $1,400 worth of lingerie and was released to police. In the backseat of the squad car, she left two more pairs of underpants and several hangers that had not been recovered by employees. At the jail, guards found $300 more in stolen clothing. Final tally: 30 panties, 20 bras, 4 robes, one pair of men's silk pajamas.

—From the "Police Beat" column of the Upper Arlington (Ohio) News, Dec. 4, 1991: "A woman who lives in the 1900 block of Tremont Road reported to police that while she was watching cable television at 11:15 p.m., Saturday, the channel changed to a pay-per-view adult movie. (After it happened again, she) told police she ... spotted two teenage boys outside her living room window holding a remote control. She said the boys fled on foot."

—Anthony Harrison, 25, was released from Folsom Prison on the morning of Dec. 5, but was back behind bars in Sacramento before midnight after being chased down by police on stolen-car charges.

CREME DE LA WEIRD

In December, a 51-year-old man with no criminal record was referred to psychiatrists after being picked up by police in Parma, Ohio. He had just purchased 19 guns from a K-mart, told the clerk "not to come out tonight," and paid $7,000 for fabric at another store after telling the clerk that it was for "covering up the bodies." Parma police recognized the man as the one picked up the week before:

Spotted placing doughnuts on headstones at a local cemetery, the man explained, "People get hungry." Said a police officer, "We could have had a disaster."

We would like to take this time to thank two important people: Dave Conley and Clara's Flower Shop, who have come out and helped support the Duff Orioles and other Little League teams; for taking a special interest in the children. If there were more people like them concerned about the children, it would be a great county.

LEAST COMPETENT PERSON

Peter Robert Arnoldi was apprehended shortly after burglarizing the Co-op Oil Association office in Nicolet, Minn., in March. His arrest was facilitated by the fact that his checkbook (with driver's license inside) had slipped out of his pocket during his hasty getaway. Arresting officer

Don Wersal, who found Arnoldi hiding in a truck near his home, said he told Arnoldi, "I've got your checkbook," to which Arnoldi replied, "Yeah, I know. I'm — ed."

THE DIMINISHING VALUE OF LIFE

One man was shot in the head and another was critically injured in March in a subway car in Queens, N.Y., after a gunfight. According to witnesses, the melee was precipitated when one of the men accidentally stepped on the other's foot.

We have a real opportunity to change the course of history for the future of Eastern Kentucky!

My nomination as the Democrat Party candidate for 5th District U.S. Congressman is that opportunity! I am humbled by the support, hard work, and confidence of those of you who voted for me and I intend to prove my deep gratitude by leading us to victory in November!

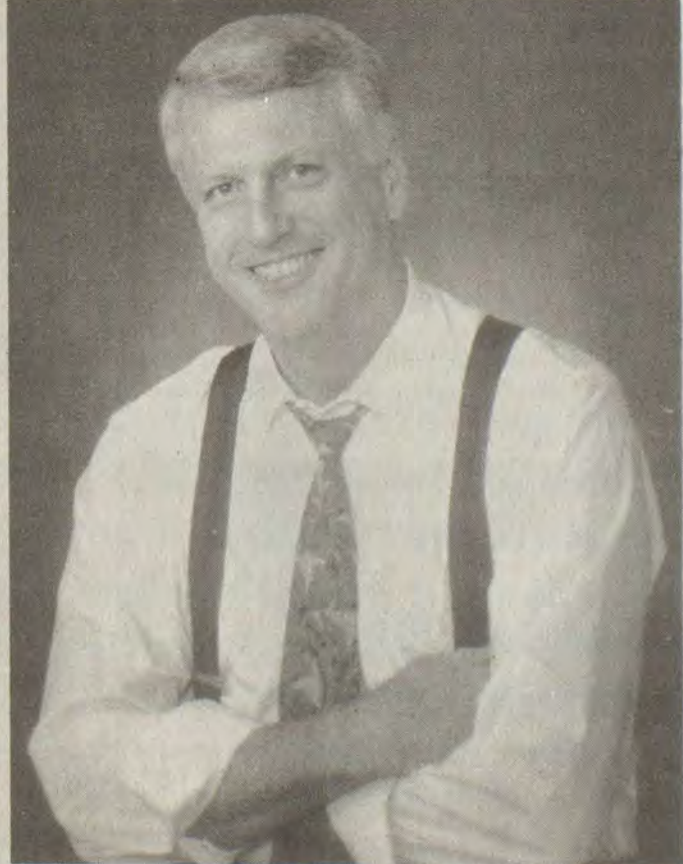

My opponents in the Primary each have assured me they will help guarantee this victory by joining in the hard work that lies ahead. Ned Pillersdorf, Bobby Rowe, Carol Brown Hubbard, Jerry Cecil, N.P. Bingham, Logan Turner, and Steve Maynard will each be a vital part of our team.

Whether you supported me or one of my opponents in the Primary, I ask you to make a most important commitment now. Make up your mind — with that stubborn determination unique to Eastern Kentuckians — that you will start today asking people to vote for me in November.

We have an exciting opportunity to change the course of history for the future of Eastern Kentucky. I cannot do it without you. As you know, my opponent in November already has nearly half a million dollars to spend. We are still paying our Primary Election bills.

If you can make a contribution — of any amount — please send it to Hays for Congress, 232 Second Street, Pikeville, Kentucky 41501. Call our headquarters at 606-432-6511 if you can volunteer some time between now and November.

But most of all, please commit now to vote for me in November. Our future is at stake!

Career comparison of five professions

If you're looking for a new career, take some time to compare these five different professions. The eight different areas discussed for each summarize the type of information you need to know before pursuing any occupation. Think about how you would describe each area for your ideal profession and then match up your responses with a career that meets those specifications.

1992 class history of Betsy Layne High School

by Tina Hall and Jamey Kidd

On August 15, 1988, we entered Betsy Layne High School as freshmen. Eager to tackle all new goals, both academically and athletically, we were determined to accomplish as much as we could.

We had many students who energetically got involved in many extra-curricular activities.

There were two students of the freshman class on the academic team, nine in FHA, three students in FBLA, two flag girls, four majorettes, eleven on the football team, eleven on the Boy's Basketball Team, four on the girl's basketball team, one Boy's Varsity Cheerleader, and four Girl's Varsity Cheerleaders. Lorie Cordial was elected Freshman Attendant on the Football Homecoming Court.

As our sophomore year arrived, we eagerly became more involved. There were six students on the academic team, four in the German Club, three in FBLA, five in FHA, six in FCA, three in Mountain Magic, three in the Literary Club, and four in Fine Arts.

Athletically we had two on the Girl's Basketball Team, seven on the Boy's Basketball Team, eleven on the football team, two Girl's Varsity Cheerleaders, four Boy's Varsity Cheerleaders, three on the baseball team, eleven on the Boy's Track Team, five on the Girl's Track Team, six members of the band and five majorettes.

On August 15, 1990 we became the Junior Class of Betsy Layne High School. To help with selected activities, we elected the following class officers: president, Tonya Newsome; vice president, Lisa Parks; secretary, Tina Hall; and treasurer, Ossie Yelder.

Athletically there were six football players, four Boy's Basketball players, one Girl's Basketball player, two baseball players, three Boy's Varsity Cheerleaders, two majorettes, one Flag Squad member, and seven band members.

Many of us became more involved in clubs and extracurricular activities. There were 18 in the Beta Club, 19 in the FCA, four in Sportsman, nine in the Literary Club, five in KTSA, ten in the German Club, three in FFA, six in FHA, 16 in SADD and four on the academic team. Michelle Blackburn was selected Field Commander and Tanya Harris was elected Junior Attendant on the Football Homecoming Court. By the Spring of 1991 we were prepared academically, mentally and physically to become a senior class.

We entered Betsy Layne High School on September 5, 1991 as the Senior Class of 1992. We were very determined to make out last year on "The Hill" our most memorable year of all. Class officers were elected as the following: president, Jamey Kidd; vice president, Reggie Hamilton; secretary, Tina Hall; and treasurer, Tracy Kidd. With our new principal, we also had new goals as we became more involved as the leaders of Betsy Layne High School.

Society, 34 in FBLA, 26 in The Beta Club, 15 in the German Club, ten in FCA, four in FHA, one in FFA, six in KTSA, 15 in Student Council, five on the academic team and on the Quill and Scroll.

Amy Adkins was crowned Foot Homecoming Queen. The court included five representatives, Amy Adkins, Tonya Newsome, Tina Hall, Tanya Harris and Kim Carter.

Stephenie Bilitier and John Kidd were selected as Mr. and Ms. Senior. Michelle Blackburn was selected as Field Commander for her second year.

Tanya Harris was crowned Basketball Homecoming Queen. The court included eight representatives, Amy Adkins, Kim Carter, Lorie Cordial, Kristi Goble, Tina Hall, Tanya Harris, Heather Newsome and Tonya Newsome. Jody Coleman and Amy Adkins were crowned Prom King and Queen.

At the close of our senior year, we are preparing to say goodbye and go our separate ways. The moments and the memories that we have shared will remain in our hearts forever. The activities and goals we have shared and accomplished will never be forgotten. The 1992 Senior Class of Betsy Layne High School will live forever.

Academic scholarship

Jody M. Wallen, a senior at Prestonsburg High School, has been awarded an academic achievement scholarship to attend the University of Kentucky. Wallen was awarded an Academic Excellence scholarship valued at $1,000 for the freshman year. He is the son of Elizabeth S. Miller of Prestonsburg.

Careers

depositions, briefs, etc. Responsible for filing, typing and dictation; answers phones and screens calls. Keeps dates on court calendar. Opens mail and documents and passes them on to attorney.

WORKING CONDITIONS

Comfortable, clean and well-lighted office. Sits for long periods. Some noise from telephones and typewriters.

PLACES OF EMPLOYMENT

Law firms.

PERSONAL CHARACTERISTICS

Good attention to detail and accuracy; proficiency in typing, spelling, grammar, punctuation; good oral and written communication skills; ability to work with a variety of people; dependability; confidentiality; good organizational skills; discretion and tact.

EDUCATION AND TRAINING

Minimum high school diploma with office skills training. One- or two-year secretarial training program through community college, vocational-technical institute or business school is highly recommended and may be mandatory at some firms. Computer skills helpful and may be required in some firms.

JOB OUTLOOK

Average to good outlook.

SALARY RANGE

$9,000 to $18,000 or more per year depending on education, experience, size of law firm and location.

LIFESTYLE

Work schedule is very regular. This is just an example of the many careers and professions available to you.

Athletically the senior class had 14 football players, three Boy's Basketball players, four Baseball players, one Girl's Varsity Cheerleader, and two Boy's Varsity Cheerleaders.

Academically, there were 24 Outstanding Seniors, 20 on the Annual Staff, nine in the National Honor

Reflections of a year gone by

by Melissa Corbett
Valedictorian
Allen Central High School

As the time of graduation is upon us, I look back at all of the memories I have collected throughout this past year.

This year started out a little later than usual. During the summer, this sounded like a good idea, but as the year waged on, I questioned if we should have begun sooner.

The Lady Rebels heated the year up with their victory in the 58th district tournament. They became the champs for the third year in a row. Also, our girl's track team ran their hearts out to capture the conference title.

I think that the day this year that was dreaded the most was the day we all lined up for THE SHOT. Every student filtered into the library to receive their Measles, Mumps and Rubella vaccination. These brought out the terrified child in all of us. But, it seemed that after it was all over with, everyone decided that "It wasn't so bad after all."

The event that topped off the year was our first annual Project Prom. None of us ever imagined that we would be playing volleyball, and bobbing for apples at three o'clock in the morning.

Unfortunately, on prom weekend, a sadness fell upon us when we lost an old friend that we knew and loved dearly. Now, we realize that the only thing we can do now is to move on with our lives, while keeping his memory close to our hearts.

Finally, our countdown of the days has meandered into the single digits, and it is time for us to walk down that aisle, proud of what we have accomplished, but missing what we are leaving behind.

Test Line :

Educator offers telephone prep seminar for students

Long-term preparation is the key to success on the SAT and the newly-enhanced ACT college entrance exams, according to a new telephone mini-seminar created to help parents and students get ready for these highly competitive admissions tests. The Scholastic Aptitude Tests (SAT) and ACT exams are three-hour multiple choice tests designed to help predict a student's success in the first year of college.

"The best preparation for college entrance tests is a broad range of high quality academic experiences well in advance of the test," says Dr. James Sullivan, associate dean of the School of Education at Mississippi College, who developed the eight minute "Test Line" program.

"It is also important for students to learn specific test-taking skills and strategies," Dr. Sullivan says. This is where "Test Line" can be an invaluable resource for busy parents who want to help their children succeed on the SAT or ACT.

Step by Step Countdown

"Test Line" prescribes a step-by-step preparation "countdown," starting one year before the test. At that point, the student should obtain basic information on the SAT or ACT from his or her high school guidance counselor. Counselors can provide registration materials and a free preparation booklet published by the testing company.

The one-year point is also when a student should take the practice tests in the test preparation books to identify strengths and weaknesses. That leaves time to enroll in courses in any content areas where he or she is deficient.

If test anxiety is a problem, the student should begin practicing deep breathing and muscle relaxation techniques three months before the test. The night before the test, the cardinal rule is: Get a good night's sleep.

Staying up late cramming won't help at this point. The countdown concludes with "testwise" success tips for the big day itself. One thing "Test Line" does not do is push a particular short-term preparation program.

"Dramatic claims have been made for some formal coaching programs and computer-based test preparation programs, but controlled studies show that these programs help some students great deal and some very little," Dr Sullivan points out. On the average, students who take a short-term preparation course gain eight to 45 points on the SAT.

Inexpensive Resource Guide

There is a bewildering assortment of test preparation products now on the market, Dr. Sullivan warns. "Test Line" concludes by offering an inexpensive guide written by Dr. Sullivan that will help parents and students determine which books, software or videotapes may be best for them.

"Test Line" can be reached by calling 1-900-990-3636, extension 6. Total charge for the eight minute recorded mini-seminar is $10. Students should get parental permission to call.

Allen wins essay award

Natasha Allen, a senior at McDowell High School, received a $500 scholarship award from the Pikeville National Bank and Trust Company. Her award-winning essay, "My American Dream Is," was chosen by a panel of judges to be the best of the entries from McDowell High.

Allen is the daughter of Bobby and Wilma Allen of Minnie. She has been an honor student all four years of high school. Allen has been involved in such extra-curricular activities as the Academic Challenge Team, Beta Club and the Speech and Drama Club. She plans to attend Alice Lloyd College in the fall.

Allen was among the 16 winners honored at an awards dinner at the Landmark Motel on May 28, sponsored by the Pikeville National Bank.

Jobs for a prosperous future

We all want a job that will be secure with a prosperous future, but how can we be sure? There are no guarantees in life, but we can make predictions. The jobs with the most hopeful futures seem to follow the big issues of the times: environmental protection, health and medicine, international trade, computers and information. Here's a preview of the top fields based on salary, growth potential and working conditions:

- Accountants and actuaries. Corporations run their businesses based on numbers, and they need accountants to interpret those numbers. Accountants who pass the CPA exam and have foreign language skills or training in international management have an extra advantage.

- Engineers, Electronics and electrical engineers in particular are needed most, although the entire engineering field is expected to grow. Engineers cross-trained in environmental sciences will be in high demand.

- Computer systems analysts. Personal computer makers will experience a slowdown, but the people who design and install large systems can look forward to a bright future. Analysts with technical skills, the personality to make a good consultant and the ability to work with a group to solve problems are needed most.

- Travel agents. Nowadays people are traveling more often with shorter, more frequent trips. This change creates a strong demand for travel agents to arrange air flights, tours and hotel reservations. The best assets an agent can have are experience and foreign language skills.

- Financial-service sales reps. The market is skyrocketing for reps working the phones and financial markets to find good buys in bonds, stocks and mutual funds and finding the clients to trade them. Broad background and sales experience are what employers are looking for.

- Health service administrators. Opportunities for managing hospitals, clinics, HMOs, nursing homes and medical offices are growing. Employers want administrators with backgrounds in management and marketing with finance skills and knowledge of health care.

- Podiatrists. As people age and jogging becomes more popular, the need for podiatrists increases. The many benefits for this field include working solo, a comfortable salary and a very regular schedule.

- Environmental and international lawyers. We're living in a time of much concern for waste cleanup and global trade, and this concern increases the demand for environmental and international lawyers. These two types will be in demand most, but there will always be a need for tax and admiralty lawyers.

- Paralegals. This is the career that is expected to grow the most in the years to come. Opportunities will be available in private law firms, government offices, insurance firms and real estate companies.

Tammy Elaine Huff

Huff receives CAP scholarship

Tammy Elaine Huff, a senior at McDowell High School, has been awarded a $1,500 scholarship by the Christian Appalachian Project of Martin. The scholarship is based on community service and is given to seniors who best exemplify this ideal.

This scholarship was started to reward seniors who had donated their time and talents to activities that would improve the quality of life in their schools and their communities.

Huff has been active in the following school or community-related organizations: SADD, Beta Club, Yearbook Staff, School Newspaper Staff, Speech and Drama Club, Blood Drives, Toy Drives, Food Drives, Fruit Baskets for the ELderly, Church School and Youth Group.

Huff is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Huff of Drift. She plans to attend Lexington Community College and major in Allied Health.

Friends forever

Time passed us by like a breeze in the wind

It caught up with us all at once and made us realize the true meaning of a friend.

The times will be gone but never forgotten in our hearts because we will always remain friends and the love will never let us part

We made it through all the bad times, and also the good

We always hung in there and worked things out the best we could

You all mean so much and have made me happy for so many years and just thinking about it ending turns my smile into tears thinking of all the times we spent together, the good and the bad, it makes me realize that there couldn't be better friends than the ones I've had

When I really needed you, you were there by my side

Making me laugh all the times I cried

You gave me hope when I thought there was none and regardless of the way I acted, you were my friends no matter what I done

the best times of my life have been spent here with you and now that we're all leaving, I don't know what I'll do we may never be together as a group like we were before but the memories of our friendship will live on forever more

I hope you all know just what a big part of my life you have been and even if we are separated in my heart you will always be my friends.

Dedicated to the 1992 graduating class of Wheelwright High
Tina Renee Johnson, senior 1992

1992 Presidential Scholarships

Beginning with the 1992-93 academic year, Northern Kentucky University will offer a Presidential Scholarship to one graduate from each community college in the University of Kentucky Community College system. This scholarship will cover the cost of full in-state tuition.

The recipient must be a graduate of a UK community college, possess a cumulative GPA of 3.25 or higher, carry 12 or more credit hours each semester, and agree to live in the residence halls, at the student's expense, while benefiting from the scholarship. The award is renewable for a second academic year with the maintenance of a 3.25 cumulative GPA and agreement to remain in the residence halls.

For information, contact: Office of Admissions, Northern Kentucky University, Nunn Drive, Highland Heights, KY 41099-7010; or phone 1-800-637-9948 (toll free).

Residential Village Opens in August

NKU will open its new Residential Village on the Highland Heights campus in August. The new development will house an additional 600 students, bringing the total number of students residing on campus to 995. Offering both suite and apartment housing, the new Residential Village is designed to meet the needs of today's students and to provide maximum privacy for each student.

For more information, phone the Office of Admissions at 1-800-637-9948.

22,000 Kentucky students receive CAP scholarships

Over 22,000 Kentucky students enrolling in college for the 1992-93 academic year have been offered College Access Program (CAP) Grants totaling $12,326,300, according to Paul B. Borden, executive director of the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority.

Grant funds are now depleted, and new applicants will not be sent individual notification letters.

Although CAP grant funds were exhausted before the needs of all eligible applicants were met, Borden said that many sources of financial aid are still available.

Applications for Stafford Loans, Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students (PLUS) and Supplemental Loans for Students (SLS) are being accepted and processed. In addition, students may establish eligibility for the Federal Government Pell Grant Program or for financial aid through some Kentucky colleges.

CAP funds are limited and those who apply early — by April 1 for the 1993-94 academic year — will have the best chance of receiving funds.

This year's CAP Grant award amount for a full-time student is $700 per academic year, which will pay full tuition at a community college, and $30 per semester hour for a student enrolled at least half-time.

Kentucky Student Financial Aid

If you need financial aid to meet the cost of attending school, after graduating from high school, the following checklist may be helpful:

- Get a Kentucky Financial Aid Form (KFAF) from your school counselor, if college attendance is your choice. If you desire to attend a school in the Kentucky Tech System (vocational/technical), secure the application for Federal Student Aid (AFSA). In completing either application, read and follow the instructions very carefully.

- The priority filing dates are January 1 through April 1. Filing after April 1 may decrease your chances for certain financial aid programs.

- Do NOT complete more than one Kentucky Financial Aid Form (KFAF) per academic year. If you need to make corrections, follow the instructions on the KFAF Corrections Form you receive from the College Scholarship Service and return the form to them for processing.

- Talk to your counselor about scholarships available in your community. If you feel you may be eligible, obtain and complete the appropriate application forms.

- Contact the Financial Aid Officer of the school(s) you are interested in attending and ask about institutional scholarships (academic, athletic, dorm, etc.). Request that applications be sent to you, as soon as possible, along with any required school financial aid forms.

- Check the school catalog(s) for descriptions of any possible additional scholarships for which you may be eligible. Obtain and complete these application forms, also.

- Refer to the publication "GETTING IN" and the Kentucky Career Information System (KCIS) for financial aid programs that are not covered in the Kentucky Financial Aid Form (KFAF) program. Your counselor should have these in her/his office. Obtain and complete the required forms for any financial aid program(s) you and/or your counselor feel you may be eligible.

- Pay close attention to mailing addresses and filing deadlines.

- Keep copies of everything you mail and keep a record of the dates you actually mail the materials.

- The financial aid information you and your family provide on the KFAF will be sent to the school(s) you list on the application.

- The Financial Aid Office will use the above information to determine what type(s) of aid and how much financial aid you may receive.

- To the extent you are eligible and funds are available, the Financial Aid Office will establish a financial aid "package" for you. This "package" which a school can offer you may have a major impact on which school you choose to attend.

NOTE: You may apply and be evaluated for financial aid at more than one institution. The school(s) you list on the Kentucky Financial Aid Form (KFAF) will automatically be sent information on your family income.

MAJOR TYPES OF STUDENT FINANCIAL AID GRANTS

Grants are funds that do NOT have to be repaid. They are often referred to as "Gift Aid," based upon need.

PELL GRANT — any undergraduate student who is a U.S. citizen or an eligible non-citizen enrolled in an eligible school. Awards range from $200 to $2,400 per school year, dependent upon need. Complete Kentucky Financial Aid Form (KFAF). Contact the Financial Aid Office at the school you plan to attend for institutional forms.

SUPPLEMENTAL EDUCATION OPPORTUNITY GRANT — undergraduate student who is a U.S. citizen or eligible non-citizen enrolled in an eligible institution. Can be awarded to $4,000 per school year, dependent upon program funding and exceptional need. Complete a Kentucky Financial Aid Form (KFAF). Contact the Financial Aid Office of the school you plan to attend for institutional forms.

STATE STUDENT INCENTIVE GRANT — any Kentucky undergraduate resident classified as college junior or senior, enrolled at an eligible institution as a full-time student, who is not in a program leading to a degree in divinity, theology, or religious education. Complete the Kentucky Financial Aid Form (KFAF) and check the appropriate box to have the information sent to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority for State Grant consideration. I add an additional $2.50 to the fee amount. To qualify, a student's total family contribution toward his/her educational expenses cannot exceed $3,000. The award size is based on community college tuition rates.

KENTUCKY TUITION GRANT — any Kentucky undergraduate resident must be enrolled at eligible Kentucky private nonprofit institution as a full-time student who has financial need. $1,200 maximum per school year. Complete the Kentucky Financial Aid (KFAF) and check the appropriate box to have the information sent to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority State Grant consideration and add additional $2.50 to the fee amount.

HEALTH CAREERS GRANT — any Kentucky resident who is a high school graduate or senior and who plans to attend an accredited Kentucky school of nursing or a school in an allied health field. Covers tuition only. Contact the Auxiliary to the Kentucky Medical Association, 3532 Ephraim McDowell Drive, Louisville, KY 40205, (502) 459-9790 (application deadline prior to April 15).

VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION ASSISTANCE — for students who are disabled or have an employment handicap (some services are based upon financial need). Varies from partial to full payment of tuition, books, and other fees. Contact the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 (502) 564-4566 for specifics.

CAP GRANTS — provides grants to the Commonwealth's freshmen and sophomores (13th and 14th grade students) to attend in-state public and private colleges and universities. The total expected contribution toward the student's expenses cannot exceed $3,000. Award amounts are based on community college tuition rates. Students attending less than half-time may be eligible for funds under the CAP program.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Scholarships are funds that do NOT have to be repaid. May be awarded on basis of need and/or other criteria, such as academic achievement.

ARMY ROTC SCHOLARSHIP — all high school graduates are eligible. Awards range from four-year scholarship to annual subsistence allowance for advanced course students. Contact Military Science Department of the school you plan to attend.

KENTUCKY ARMY NATIONAL GUARD EDUCATION and FINANCIAL AID — for high school graduates, Guard members and active duty personnel. Award may cover tuition assistance, monthly stipends or loan repayment. Contact the Civilian Education Program Manager, Kentucky National Guard, Boone National Guard Center, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 (502) 564-8850 or Toll Free 1-800-372-7601.

PAUL DOUGLAS TEACHER SCHOLARSHIP — for Kentucky residents who graduate in the top ten (10) percent of their high school class (or score in the top ten percent on their GED test and who intend to become certified teachers. $5,000 per academic year award, with aggregate maximum not to exceed $20,000. Recipient must teach or repay funds with interest. Contact your school guidance counselor or the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority, 1050 U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, KY 40601 (502) 564-7990.

BYRD HONORS SCHOLARSHIP — current graduate of a Kentucky public/non-public school or holder of an equivalent certificate of graduation recognized by the state, evidence of past academic achievement and the potential for continued academic success and full-time enrollment in a postsecondary educational institution for the following academic year. Awards $1,500 (non-renewable) scholarship. Contact your school guidance office.

RURAL KENTUCKY MEDICAL SCHOLARSHIP — for Kentucky residents who have been accepted for enrollment at one of the state's medical schools and agree to practice in an approved rural Kentucky county. Award is up to $7,500 per year. Contact the Rural Kentucky Medical Scholarship Fund, Kentucky Medical Association, 3532 Ephraim ate study — up to $9,000 for four (4) years of undergraduate study. Complete a Kentucky Financial Aid Form (KFAF).

SUPPLEMENTAL LOANS FOR STUDENTS - for independent undergraduate, graduate, professional, or special dependent undergraduate students enrolled at least half-time in an eligible program at an eligible school. Awards up to $4,000 for school year with an aggregate maximum of $20,000. Complete application available from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority, participating lender, or any Kentucky college or university. Not need based.

PLUS LOAN - any parent of a dependent undergraduate or graduate student enrolled at least half-time in an eligible program at an eligible school. Up to $4,000 for school year per student, with an aggregate maximum of $20,000. Complete application available from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority, participating lender, or any Kentucky college or university. Not need based.

CONSOLIDATION LOAN PROGRAM - enables eligible borrowers to consolidate Stafford Loans, Federal Insured Student Loans, Supplemental Loans for Students, Perkins Loans, and Health Professions Student Loans into one loan. This generally reduces the borrower's financial burden. A borrower must have a minimum debt of $5,000 of eligible student loans to apply for a Consolidation Loan. Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority insures Consolidation Loans against a borrower's default, death, permanent and total disability, and bankruptcy. The interest rate is nine percent or the weighted average of the loans consolidated, whichever is higher. It is a fixed rate, and the borrower is always responsible for paying the interest. Loans may be consolidated only once - subsequent loans may be consolidated separately.

Information compiled by the Kentucky Occupational Information Coordinating Committee (KOICC) Workforce Development Cabinet, 275 East Main Street - 1 East, Frankfort KY 40621-0001 (502) 564-4258.

The Appalachian Student Fund has selected Martin T. Hall as a recipient of a scholarship loan of $2,000 for the academic year 1992-93. Recipients may attend the college or university of their choice, but must repay the loan with interest if they do not return to one of the 40 counties of Appalachian Kentucky. If they do return to one of the 40 counties to live and work, one year of the loan is forgiven for each year they work in eastern Kentucky.

Martin is the son of Tommy and Libbi Hall of McDowell. He will graduate from McDowell High School this spring. Martin was a leader in many extracurricular activities, had a very high grade point average, and had high evaluations from references.

Applicants were chosen based on their leadership qualities, anticipated major, character, grade point average, ACT score, references, income, and a personal account of reasons why they deserve the loan. The objective of Appalachian Student Fund is to retain tomorrow's leaders in eastern Kentucky through loans designed to fund a portion of their education.

ASF, a non-profit group, was organized in 1990. Most of the funds have been solicited from individuals and companies in eastern Kentucky. This first year, ASF was able to award $40,000 to 21 high school graduates in the region.

ASF, with offices at 635 Whitaker Street, Morehead, Kentucky 40351, accepts tax-deductible donations from businesses and individuals. Its Board of Directors is filled with prominent eastern Kentuckians who believe that education and leadership are the keys to our region's progress.

Biliter named Singletary Scholar

Stephenie Biliter

Stephenie Biliter, a senior at Betsy Layne High School, has been awarded an Otis A. Singletary Scholarship at the University of Kentucky.

The Singletary Scholarship is the most prestigious four-year scholarship offered at the University of Kentucky. It is valued at approximately $25,000.

"Each year the competition for Singletary Scholarships grows in intensity," said UK President Charles T. Wethington Jr. "This year's winners were selected from more than 750 eligible candidates."

The 1992 freshmen Singletary Scholars includes 13 National Merit finalists, 13 high school valedictorians, 13 Governor's Scholars, two Governor's Scholars in the Arts, and three students who were selected as exchange students to Mexico and Japan.

To be eligible for the scholarships, students must score a 32 or better on the American College Test (ACT) and have a 3.5 high school grade point average. In addition, the selection committee also considers extracurricular activities, work and volunteer responsibilities, a written essay and a personal interview.

Biliter is the daughter of Morris S. and Brenda G. Biliter, Grethel, and plans to major in chemical engineering at UK.

Among her many accomplishments in high school, Biliter is a 1991 Governor's Scholar, co-captain of the Academic Team and editor-in-chief of the Literary Society.

Last summer, she participated in the UK College of Engineering/Engineering Ahead program.

Can you afford your child's college costs?

Inflation now averages 4 percent each year, but the average increase in college costs is twice that. According to the College Board, the average cost of four years of college—including tuition, fees, room and board—is almost $50,000. Many private and Ivy League schools cost far more.

Moreover, by the year 2000, four years of college may average more than $100,000 at 8 percent inflation. Can you afford these average costs for your child or children?

Financing a college education seems to get more difficult each year as funding sources dry up. This is particularly true for middle income families, who are finding fewer loans and grants available than in the past.

As a result, these families are being asked by financial aid officers to contribute a greater share of college costs from family resources. And few families can afford to support their children's educations from current income, especially when they may be squeezed to assist elderly parents or fund their own retirements.

But there's plenty of good news. By planning and saving now, today's families can ensure that their children can work toward the undergraduate and advanced degrees so necessary to their future social and career success.

Mutual funds are one effective savings route to help you meet college costs when the time comes. The funds saved can also allow the college applicant the freedom to choose among schools for reasons other than cost.

How do mutual funds work? According to the experts at Transamerica Financial Resources, Inc., a NASD registered broker/dealer, mutual funds pool the money of many investors to buy a variety of stocks, bonds or other securities. Each investor then owns a proportionate share of the fund's assets.

Investors receive the benefit of professional money managers who follow the stock market closely and offer sophisticated investment expertise usually available only to the most wealthy investors.

They also have the chance to experience the power of compounding. For example, a monthly investment of $208 at an annual interest rate of eight percent would total $50,000 in 12 years, significantly higher than the actual lump sum investment of $19,206.

Are mutual funds for you? If you consider time an ally and enjoy watching your money grow, mutual funds can help you give your child the gift of a college education and the promise of a bright future. For a free brochure about using mutual funds to plan for college costs, call Transamerica Financial Resources, Inc. at (800) 245-8250.

Have stethoscope will travel.

For years the nursing profession has meant hard work, long, late hours, poor pay and not much respect. While hard work and long hours may never change, other aspects of this diverse field are definitely changing. Influenced by new technology and an aging population, the demand for quality nursing has made this profession a desirable seller's market.

As a result of this demand and other factors, the relatively new position of "traveling nurse" has emerged. More than forty companies now broker traveling nurses for various periods of time to hospitals, nursing homes and other health care facilities.

This niche in the health care market features many advantages to the right candidate. If you're a nurse who likes the adventure of moving around, doesn't want to commit to a permanent position and enjoys challenge, this position may be for you.

Traveling nurses are usually compensated through their firms. Pay ranges from $15 to $30 an hour, and some hospitals tack incentive bonuses on to that. Insurance benefits, Social Security and travel expenses are also taken care of by the firm. Travel assignments might range from a few weeks to several months.

One nurse who traded in the responsibilities of being a nursing supervisor for life as a traveling nurse feels her new position is the best thing she ever did for herself. She welcomes it as a change from the daily stress she dealt with as a staff nurse. She also loves the travel and challenge.

The graying of the teaching profession

Back in the "old days," when women didn't have as many career opportunities as today, becoming a teacher was a logical choice for many young women. Typically, these women stayed in the teaching profession until reaching retirement age.

Hence, the stereotypical old maid school marm.

The aging of teachers has actually become a current trend to contend with. More than one administration is worried about replacing large numbers of retiring teachers. Especially in areas of high demand such as science, math and special education, finding replacements presents a number of problems.

An estimated 1.5 million new teachers will be needed in the next decade. However, according to Gary Griffin, dean of education at the University of Illinois in Chicago, teaching as a profession is less than enticing to college students.

A typical teacher's workday includes several hours in the same room, less than an hour for lunch, a ten-minute break in the morning and afternoon and little or no access to a telephone. And for what? Inferior pay, and little respect from the public and students.

Statistics intimate that education majors are academically inferior to their peers. Education majors came out on the short end of achievement tests. Many believe this is because education offers so little incentive to success-minded students.

According to Griffin, school districts need to invest more seriously in the continuing education of teachers and place greater attention on who becomes a teacher in the first place.

My Senior Friends

The time has come our parting is here But never forgotten those four long years

We've waited so long and conquered so much dreams came alive our goals within touch

What used to be us can no longer be Our dreams now become "What's best for me"

It's time to face this world alone Everything so exciting and new Just like us on our first day as Freshman The class that would become The class of '92

by Tina Hall

Tips for funding college education

A student entering a private college this year will invest nearly $50,000 in tuition, room and board for that four-year education. That cost is expected to grow to nearly $100,000 in ten years and reach about $150,000 when a newborn is college-bound.

Fortunately, there are many ways to meet that cost. The way you pay for college will vary, depending on your financial need and when your child enters college. A longer time period lets you accumulate a larger amount with a smaller monthly contribution, according to T. Rowe Price Investment management firm of Baltimore, MD.

Initially, consider how much money you will need to pay for college. If your child is close to college age, determine whether you may receive financial aid. The net difference between the tuition cost and the student's financial aid is the amount of money you will need. If your child is too young to consider financial aid now, calculate the projected full tuition price.

Once you estimate your cost, a professional financial advisor can help you evaluate your funding options.

Consider using whole life insurance, which lets you build up college education funds while deferring income taxes. Many policies are available, depending on how much investment risk you can assume.

Series EE government savings bonds are another option, and they are exempt from state and local taxes.

Quitters Never Win

There's never been a quitter who's been a winner, especially when it comes to the game of life.

All around us, the world is changing, growing more complex. The time is long past when just anybody can get a job, can do a job. More and more those companies that are a part of the future need employees at all phases of their operations who can read, who can write and who can work with and understand numbers.

That's why Music-Carter-Hughes and Carter-Hughes Toyota believe strongly in young people staying in school and completing their education.

Music-Carter-Hughes and Carter-Hughes Toyota are committed to the future, and part of that commitment is the belief in our young people getting an education, getting a diploma that says you're a high school graduate.

If you're in school . . . Stay in school.

If you're thinking about quitting, think again. You have the choice. You can be a quitter, or you can be a winner.

We believe in winners. We believe in you.
