Hatchets buried; Towler is welcomed aboard

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County's controversial seven-month search for a new superintendent of schools ended Tuesday night when Steve Towler signed a four-year contract with the Floyd County Board of Education.

Towler, former superintendent in Hardin County, was recommended for the post by state Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen after Boysen vetoed the board's first choice, Nebraska educator William Zitterkopf.

Local opposition mounted against Boysen's decision to submit only one name of a superintendent candidate to the local board.

Boysen's role in the search process drew harsh criticism from state school board member Tom Gish and Education Committee Chairman Roger Noe.

In an apparent attempt to heal some of the wounds resulting from the superintendent search, Floyd County Education Association president Janice Allen told the board at Tuesday's meeting that teachers supported their candidate.

"Dr. Towler, on behalf of the educators of Floyd County we are here to support you," Allen said. "We are looking forward to working with you. FCEA is on your side. FCEA is not your adversary."

Interim superintendent Eldon Smith assured teachers and the public that Towler was willing to include them in the educational system.

"I've talked with Dr. Towler and he has assured me that every attempt will be made to work with teachers, administrators and the community," Smith said.

Pledges of support for Towler also came from education activists Jean Rosenberg and Delores Smith.

"I can't speak for all of Floyd County, only a few people I talk to, and we are not going to work against Dr. Towler, that's not to our advantage," Smith said. "We want an excellent school system and we expect that from Dr. Towler and we are willing to help."

Rosenberg agreed with Smith and urged Towler to meet with the public to keep lines of communication open.

"This is an opportunity for a new chapter in education and we should take advantage of it," Rosenberg said. "This can be a new chapter in community participation."

Towler's contract stipulates that he will be paid $78,000 per year with annual increases equivalent to certified personnel increases; four weeks vacation per year; reasonable moving expenses from Elizabethtown; family medical insurance; and payment of professional organization dues.

In other business Tuesday, assistant superintendent Gary Frazier informed the board that two of the district's instructional programs for next year had been put on hold by the state.

Plans to boost the system's technology program by installing computers in all third grade classrooms next year and to begin all day kindergarten classes have hit a roadblock in the state finance department.

Smith told the board that the state finance department would not approve the ventures because the district would not have the funds available. Smith said, though, they should

Fired principal to appeal dismissal

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen has been asked to recuse himself from appointing a three-member panel to hear the appeal of fired Wheelwright High School principal Lewis "Spike" Berkheimer.

Berkheimer's attorney, John David Caudill, sent a letter to Boysen

Wednesday asking him to disqualify himself from making the appointments because Berkheimer was fired upon Boysen's recommendation.

Department of Education spokesman Jim Parks said Thursday that Boysen has received the letter and the issue is "under review."

Interim Floyd County superintendent Eldon Smith notified Berkheimer in a July 9 letter that he was fired for allegedly submitting "a false employment application" and for allegedly engaging "in inappropriate sexual contact" with a student at the high school on two occasions.

Caudill said Thursday that Berkheimer has asked for a hearing to address those charges.

Under state law, the chief state school officer shall appoint the tribunal which consists of a teacher, an administrator and a lay person, none of whom reside in the district.

Berkheimer was charged in March with two counts of first degree sex abuse for allegedly touching a student in November 1991 and again in January.

Floyd County District Judge Danny Caudill ruled that not enough evidence existed to pursue the case and the charges were dismissed. The Residents ask county to intervene in issue

by Geoff Belcher

Stanville residents met with Ivy Acres, Incorporated Tuesday evening in the Floyd County Fiscal Courtroom, and asked the corporation to give up the lease on the home in their neighborhood they say will be a half-way house for troubled teens.

Ivy Acres, a joint venture between the Pike and Floyd County fiscal courts, is a non-profit corporation that is dedicated to providing a stable environment for teenagers who have been labeled status offenders, which are minors that cannot be controlled by their parents, but have committed no crime with which an adult can be charged.

Diane Akers, project manager for the corporation, recently rented a house in Stanville where she planned to house such status offenders on a temporary basis until a foster home could be found for them.

The Stanville group is concerned that teens who have already been deemed uncontrollable may cause problems in the neighborhood, as well as provide a bad influence for their own children.

Greg Walters, a member of the Stanville group, said that he would volunteer to help Ivy Acres but thought it was inappropriate to place such a facility in a residential neighborhood.

"You don't need to put those kids in a neighborhood that feels like it's under siege," Walters said. "It's not good for them and it's not good for us."

Although Akers said the facility would house no more than four minors at a time with an adult guardian present 24 hours per day, Stanville residents seemed skeptical that such precautions would be adequate.

Lloyd Hamilton, spokesman for the Stanville group, said that instead of removing the teens from their own homes, it might be more effective if their parents were punished instead.

"How about taking the parent out of the home instead," Hamilton said, "and fine his butt and put his butt in jail. Maybe then he'd learn to control his kid."

Akers said that she would have liked to place the home in a commercial district, but zoning codes and time constraints on the grant that would finance the home forced her to

Senator talks health care in roundtable discussion

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

U.S. Senator Mitch McConnell met with a panel of health officials and educators Wednesday afternoon at Highlands Regional Medical Center to discuss health care affordability and accessibility both in Eastern Kentucky and on a national level.

"After years of discussing the healthcare issue, something is going to happen soon," McConnell said. "There's an element of urgency on the state level... and on the federal level, whoever wins (the presidential race), something will be done within the next twelve months."

The panel, which included Dr.

Deborah Floyd, President of Prestonsburg Community College; Sister Mary Fanning, Administrator of Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin; Eula Hall, founder of the Mud Creek Clinic; and Dr. Paul Brizendine, Emergency Department Director at Highlands, advised McConnell on the current health care situation in Eastern Kentucky and offered suggestions on methods to improve it.

Among the most common complaints voiced by those assembled on the panel were: regulations placed on physicians and hospitals by the federal Office of Safety and Health Administration are too stringent; there is a pronounced lack of primary care facilities and practitioners in the region; and there is too little education about health care and disease prevention in the area.

All of these factors, the panel said, contribute to overuse of expensive testing and emergency room facilities which, in turn, drives medical costs and insurance premiums higher, therefore leaving indigent and low income persons with no way to pay for medical treatment.

Floyd said that research has shown that over 70 percent of health care cost is directly related to unhealthy lifestyles, yet the nation spends only one percent of the health care dollar

Jury finds no fault in brutality case

A former Wayland police officer was found blameless by a U.S. District Court Jury in Pikeville Thursday in a case alleging police brutality.

Mack Stewart, now a Prestonsburg city police officer, was accused by Earl Ray Johnson of using excessive force during Johnson's arrest in 1989. Stewart's brother, Jimmy, was also named in the civil suit filed in Pikeville in 1990.

Jimmy Stewart was released from the suit by a directed verdict Wednesday by U.S. District Judge Joseph Hood.

The City of Wayland was also named in the suit, but apparently settled out of court, Stewart's attorney John David Caudill said.

The jury's verdict said they found no evidence that Stewart had deprived Johnson of his constitutional rights at the time of the arrest.

Media unites family

Newspaper ad leads to a family's "reunion"

by Janice Shepherd
Staff Writer

Janet Lee Cromer Hall of Mud Creek always knew she had two older sisters — somewhere — and she always hoped to meet them — someday. Sunday, July 11, became someday for Janet Lee Hall and her sister Beverly, thanks to an ad that appeared in the Floyd County Times in June.

The saga of the Cromer sisters began when George Enoch Cromer Jr. met and married Marie Cromer. George and Marie had two children, Beverly and Fay, but things just didn't work out for the couple and they divorced.

Seeking employment, George

Cromer moved to Michigan. There he met Pearl Hall, who had moved from Mud Creek to Michigan to work in the Chrysler factory. Cromer and Hall married, had a daughter (Janet), and divorced.

Pearl Hall Cromer brought her daughter back to Kentucky to live with her mother, Tanev Hall. Over the years, Pearl made weekend trips to Mud Creek to visit her daughter. During one of those trips, she met and married Crit Mitchell. They had one son, Christopher David.

During that time, Pearl and Marie Cromer occasionally wrote to each other, but eventually lost contact.

As her child grew up, Pearl talked about Cromer's other daughters, Beverly and Fay. When Janet was in high school, she contacted Marie, and letters went back and forth in the mail for a short time. Then, time intervened, addresses changed, and the families lost contact with each other.

The saga began again when Beverly's daughter was helping clean her great-grandmother's house and discovered a letter, written about 40 years ago by Janet's mother.

"I knew then I really wanted to find them (Janet and Pearl)," said Tabitha Grant. She searched for several years but with no success. In April 1992, she traveled to Grethel, the last known address of Janet Cromer, but could not unearth any clues to Janet's whereabouts. "I searched everywhere I knew to look," Grant said, and she found Janet's record of birth listed at the Pike County Health Department. She also searched through the marriage records for Pearl Cromer's address, but without any success.

Grant, 22, called the Floyd County Sheriff's Department and asked for the name of the county newspaper. She called the Times and placed an ad seeking information about Janet Lee Cromer.

Janet's niece, Yulma Newsome, saw the ad in the paper and called Janet, who called her Georgia family.

The phone lines have been hot since that time as the two sisters and Tabitha talked about their lives and their families.

"It was so exciting. I really only half knew what I was saying or what she was saying," said Janet.

"Mom was overjoyed," said Tabitha.

Because their various work schedules have kept them busy during weekends — all three work in the health field — the three had to keep postponing meeting dates. But this past weekend, for a few, brief hours, they finally met face to face at Norris Lake in Tennessee.

In order to attend the reunion, Tabitha went without sleep for 48 hours, going from work to Tennessee and then back to work in Georgia.

Janet, 38, and Beverly, 41, discovered they have a lot in common. "It seems like I've known her all my life," said Janet. "We eat the same type of foods and like the same things," such as rocking chairs. Their careers are also closely related. Janet is a clerk at the Mud Creek Clinic; Beverly works with 911; and Tabitha works with the Glimmer County Emergency Agency. A family resemblance is also strong between Janet and Beverly.

The family plans to meet again soon in the Smokies. Janet hopes that her other sister Fay, who also lives in Georgia, will be able to join them.

"I certainly don't want to lose touch with her (Janet) now that I've found her," said Tabitha. "A part of my life that was missing has been found thanks to the Floyd County Times."

In 1853, Antoinette Brown Blackwell became the first ordained woman minister in the United States.

not rule out the projects.

The proposed $996,000 technology program would have added the TLC computer program for third graders and computerized three high school and one elementary school libraries. The proposal called for a lease agreement to pay for the package over a five-year period with an annual cost of $230,000 to $240,000.

Frazier responded that it was an issue of priorities.

"It's a matter of setting priorities for our children," Frazier said, "and our children's instruction is our first priority."

Frazier also presented to the board a two-part proposal for an alternative school to be located adjacent to the Floyd County Technical High School at Garth.

Under the the proposed agreement, the board of education could either lease the site for the school or the owners of the site would build a facility to the board's specifications and lease the building to the board.

Frazier said property owners, Larry and Terry Thornsberry, would construct the building and lease it to the board for $47,245.58 per year. Frazier added that that site would be more cost effective because the board would save on transportation costs and that students could use the lunchroom facilities at the technical high school.

Board chairman Ray "Shag" Campbell suggested the issue be tabled until superintendent Towler had an opportunity to review the matter.

During public comment at Tuesday's board meeting, Tim Sizemore asked the board to be polled to see if the members would agree to build a new Prestonsburg High School on the Middle Creek site.

Sizemore also told the board that Mike Luscher, director of facilities management for the state, had told him that morning that he was unaware that an alternate site for a new high school was being reviewed. Sizemore added that Luscher had said he had received no information on the proposed old drive-in site and that the preferred site was on Middle Creek.

Smith told the board and Sizemore that he was currently working with state officials on the project and some type of announcement would be made soon.

In other business Tuesday, the board:

- approved a contract with the David School to accept potential dropout students once they have been approved after an administrative review;

- agreed to settle a worker's compensation claim from Allen principal Daniel Branson in connection with a 1989 furnace explosion at the old Allen school;

- presented board member Mary Hall with five proposals to review from architects willing to take over the Left Beaver High School project;

- created the position of guidance counselor in the alcohol and drug program with a salary of $26,000;

- declared an emergency and approved leasing mobile classroom units for the 1992-93 school year;

- approved raising the salary of pre-school teachers to the level of regular classroom teachers;

- approved hiring a structural engineer to inspect Martin Elementary;

- approved a loan to Betsy Layne High School to construct a greenhouse on the school campus; and

- discussed installing two-way radios in school buses and leasing uniforms for bus drivers.

Board member Eddie Billips was absent at Tuesday's meeting. The August 11 school board meeting will be held at Osborne Elementary beginning at 6 p.m. The meetings are open to the public.

case was also presented to a Floyd County Grand Jury which declined to issue an indictment.

In a related matter, Wheelwright teacher Doris Osborne appeared at Tuesday's school board meeting and said Berkheimer "is a scapegoat for testing the power of the commission(er)" and asked that new superintendent Steve Towler reverse Smith's decision.

"Since our current superintendent, in his capacity as decision-maker, has chosen to abide by what we perceive to be only a recommendation, we hereby challenge our new superintendent to deal with this issue immediately and reverse this Dr. Boysen recommendation/mandate," Osborne said. "We support Mr. Berkheimer."

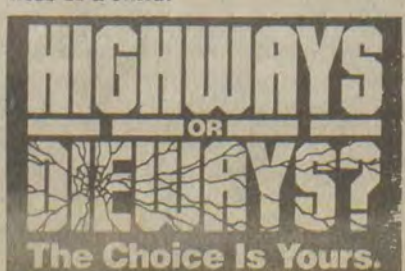

About 25 audience members stood with Osborne to show their support for Berkheimer.

The board did not respond to Osborne's comments, but Smith later issued a press release about Berkheimer's firing.

The release said that after an investigation by the state's Office of Education Accountability Boysen recommended that Berkheimer be fired.

"I was persuaded by the evidence provided by OEA to the commissioner that these charges were valid," the release said. "First, he falsified his employment application by denying any previous criminal convictions. . . Second, he allegedly engaged in illegal sexual contact with a minor."

Berkheimer was convicted in 1976 in Ohio of contributing to the unruliness of a child.

Citgo service station robbed

by Geoff Belcher

The city of Prestonsburg may not be in the midst of a crime wave, but it's definitely a ripple. In the wake of two heists at the North Lake Drive branch of the Bank Josephine, another Prestonsburg business has been robbed.

Lake Drive Citgo, owned by Larry Collins and Ronnie Wells, was burglarized in the early morning hours Thursday. The burglar or burglars cut the lock off the cash box and removed an undisclosed amount of money.

KFTC named top in environmental protection action

A citizens group, based in Prestonsburg, has been selected to receive an environmental award for its success in protecting the environment and in inspiring others to take environmental action.

Kentuckians For The Commonwealth (KFTC), in its eleventh year of operation, will receive a "Special Merit" award this month from Renew America, a national environmental organization based in Washington, D.C. KFTC will be listed in Renew America's 1992 Environmental Success Index, a guide to the nation's most effective environmental programs.

Each year Renew America searches for the most successful environmental programs, programs that can be used by communities, businesses and governments as models in protecting, restoring and enhancing the environment.

KFTC will receive a certificate and an invitation to participate in the second Annual Environmental Leadership Conference September 28-29 in Washington, D.C.

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

The Left Beaver Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad announced last week that it now has a new fire truck to bolster its efforts to protect Left Beaver area homes and residents.

Sandra Gates, a spokesperson for the department, said last week that it was necessary for firefighter safety and expediency of rescue to buy the new truck when the old pumps failed.

The new truck, a Ferrara Demio with a 4-door cab, 1,000 gallon tank and 1,250 gallon-per-minute pumping capacity, cost over $112,000.

Gates said the department would be paying for the truck for the next ten years.

OLW childbirth class for teens

Our Lady of the Way Hospital began a new series of classes for pregnant teens or pre-teens and their support persons. The "I Love My Baby" program meets each Thursday from 4:30-6 p.m. at Seton Complex.

Every effort will be made to assist participants with transportation. The classes are free and will include practical experiences which may lead to a more relaxed pregnancy.

Carter inducted to Oxford's Who's Who

Mr. James J. Carter II has been selected for inclusion in the 1992-1993 edition of Oxford's Who's Who, The Elite Registry of Extraordinary Professionals, announced recently by Oxford's Managing Editor, Scott H. Adams.

"The selection of Mr. Carter is based not only on an illustrious career as Manager of Carter Funeral Home, but also on a long record of achievements and awards for community services," said Mr. Adams.

A list of some of the highlights of Mr. Carter's many accomplishments includes: named Rotarian of the Year (1990-91) by the Prestonsburg Rotary Club; president elect of the Rotary Club; vice president, Eastern District Kentucky Funeral Directors Association; chairman, Floyd County Conservation District; ambassador of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce; family firm was recognized by the Funeral Directors Association of Kentucky with a Golden Service Certificate for over 50 years of service.

Also worth mention are some current facts related to Carter Funeral Home: Carter Funeral Home is a family owned and operated funeral home that also offers pre-arranged funeral services. Mr. Carter is the manager and mortician at the home. The company currently employs 4 people. The funeral home was originally started in 1925 and known as Arnold Funeral Home. Mr. Carter's father purchased the business in 1952.

Selection for inclusion in Oxford's Who's Who is an accomplishment in itself. This publication garners prestigious participants such as Chrysler's chairman, Lee Iacocca; the C.E.O. of IBM, John Akers; the C.E.O. of the Walt Disney Company, Michael Eisner; chairman of Xerox, David Kearns; Ford Motor Corporation's chairman, Harold Poling and Microsoft's founder, William Gates.

Inclusion in Oxford's Who's Who is based upon the fundamental principal of reference value. Oxford's also strives to recognize its participants for significant achievements both in the business and private sectors.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

Editorial:

Meat and potatoes

by Scott Perry

The Democratic Party's avowed pledge to return the party's ideology to the political mainstream is an encouraging word for millions of Americans left abandoned by the narrow and often radical lines adhered to in the past.

It is a move that makes the party attractive to the waves of disillusioned voters whose needs seem to have been lost in the shuffle of ultra-liberalism versus ultra-conservatism.

It is a move that gives the Democrats a realistic shot at regaining the White House for the first time in a long time.

The party's platform is, in fact, a mix of Democrat and Republican ideas. It calls for personal responsibility, welfare reform, tax fairness and investing in America to improve the country's chances of competing in the global marketplace.

Most of all, the promise of a new and improved Democratic Party proposes to put America first in a time when we desperately need such attention.

No doubt the party hopes its new menu will attract the politically "homeless" to its table come November for a serving of meat and potatoes.

That's an invitation many who have been starved so long will find hard to refuse.

Education Bill: Help for Our People

I voted this past week to provide $100 billion for higher education over the next five years.

That may seem like a lot of money, and it is. But it reminds me of what is known as Bok's Law: If you think education is expensive, try ignorance.

This legislation will make a tremendous difference in the lives of our people. It may be the difference between looking for work and finding work.

My vote was a vote for grants and loans our people desperately need—not only for young people seeking training for their first jobs but for older workers who need to learn new skills for new careers.

The bill will be a tremendous help, for example, to the rapidly rising number of students attending community colleges in southeastern Kentucky.

Community college enrollment has gone up by 130 percent in the last years, and more than two-thirds of these students are 25 years old or older—adults returning to the classroom.

The higher education bill will make more money available through the Pell grant program, so that even a family of four making $42,000 a year can qualify for student aid.

Now, our families won't have to run up a huge debt just so someone can go back to school and get the skills for a new or better job.

It also provides money for existing and new programs to help our colleges and universities serve low-income students. It funds programs to help educate, recruit and retain quality teachers, provides for library and literacy programs, and includes more money for cooperative education, combining education with real on-the-job experience.

This is the kind of help our people need, so I'm proud of my "yes" vote. The higher education bill will be money well spent.

Letters

Editor:

The following is an open letter to Scott Perry in response to his "Coffee Break" of last week.

It is hard for me to believe that we live in the same world of ethics. Perhaps one of us has been on another planet for a while.

You sat in the meeting Monday, July 6th, of the Paintsville/Prestonsburg Industrial Development Board and heard your colleague, Mr. Dorton, admit that he felt uncomfortable conducting a "study" of options for the Combs Airport, when it was understood back in 1987, when the Board was created, that its purpose was to "close down" the airport.

Mr. Perry, after all the legal issues raised in my lawsuit, don't you think there is just a plain ethical question involved here? The ethics of you and your fellow members is being called into question.

You are going through a charade and you seem to think no one in the community is smart enough to figure out what it is.

Everyone knows that you, Mr. Spurlock, Mr. White and Ted Naim are for closing the airport. Most of you have stated your opinion that you think it should close.

A lot of people question your motives, Mr. Perry. I do too. The word is that there is a "secret plan" for the airport property. I don't know about that, but it sure seems strange that you folks are trying so hard to strip away one of Prestonsburg's assets and spend money to close it.

The simple fact that so many of your members are also connected with the Big Sandy Regional Airport should, ethically and legally, disqualify you.

Mr. Perry, there is a new day dawning in Floyd County and the City of Prestonsburg. Hopefully, the day of the same few individuals attempting to control everything, set on every board and committee and, often, line their pockets in the process, is over.

Allowing you and your friends to set on this board and make this very important decision would be about the same as allowing members of a murder victim's family to set as jurors in the trial of the accused.

As Billy Ray Collins said, "we don't allow the fox to guard the henhouse" and, hopefully, we won't allow Burl Wells Spurlock, Scott Perry, Ted Naim and Dr. White to guard the interests of Prestonsburg in this important issue.

See you in Court!

A victory in the fight against pornography

Recently, the Senate Judiciary Committee voted to report out of committee my Pornography Victims' Compensation Act of 1992. The bill, which passed the committee by a 7-6 margin, will now proceed for full Senate action later this congressional session.

The Pornography Victims' Compensation Act holds producers, distributors, exhibitors, and sellers of obscene material or child pornography liable for damages resulting from sex offenses in which the offender's exposure to such material was a substantial cause of the offense. The bill only covers material which the Supreme Court has held is not constitutionally protected speech. Obscenity and child pornography are already illegal in most jurisdictions.

The recent approval of my bill in the Senate Judiciary Committee is a tremendous victory for the many women and children who are victimized by the scourge of violent, hard-core pornography. With this action, committee members acknowledged my premise that hard-core pornography can cause great harm to women and children. My legislation would empower the victims of sexual crimes, prevent some of these terrible crimes from happening, and hopefully stop the proliferation of violent hard-core pornography.

My premise that hard-core porn sparks criminal actions reflect the increasingly violent and dangerous nature of the pornography industry. A 1991 study found that 93 percent of Americans believe violence in the media impacts violence in society. Even more persuasive is the testimony of victims and law enforcement officials, and the scores of scientific studies which indicate a causal link between hard-core pornography and sex crimes.

The incidence of sex crimes in the United States is increasing at an alarming rate. Over 100,000 rapes were reported in 1990, three times more than occurred the previous year. In Kentucky, reported rapes increased by 43% in 1990. Hard-core, violent pornography is contributing to this wave of violence against women and children, and it is time we hold the multi-million dollar pornography industry accountable for the harm it is causing.

An array of organizations across the country including the Family Research Council, Concerned Women for America and Feminists Fighting Pornography have joined together in calling for action on my anti-porn, pro-victim legislation. The Senate Judiciary Committee's approval of the Pornography Victims' Compensation Act of 1992 is a significant victory in my fight to protect women and children from the proliferation of sexual violence stemming from the distribution of violent hard-core pornography.

New board members introduced during Job Corps Advisory meeting

The Community Advisory Council held its bi-monthly meeting May 19, at 5:45 p.m. at the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center.

After dinner the meeting was called to order by chairperson, Abby Grant. Ms. Grant recognized Carlotta Shannon and the Culinary Arts Class and thanked everyone for attending. Motion made and seconded to accept the minutes of the previous meeting was passed unanimously.

Ms. Grant turned the meeting over to Ms. Higginbotham, center director, who introduced the two new board members, Jim Recktenwald and Blanche Finney.

Ms. Higginbotham talked about the following:

During the center review it was recommended that a new security post be constructed and the parking lot fenced, also a monitoring system be initiated. The security building and the fence will be constructed by the skill classes.

The new gymnasium rubberized floor will be poured soon, and the community can utilize this facility for various activities. She also passed out Job Corps new 50-50 plan which outlines projections for the program.

Other staff members made contributions to the meeting as follows:

• Bob Lamer told the group about our miracle student, Rocky Ward, and his encounter with a CSX freight train.

• The social skills program is being implemented by all staff on center and Lamer introduced Mike Gibson, CSO, who described in depth the social skills program. Gibson stated that it is a nationwide program that is being utilized by all Job Corps Centers. All staff have had this training and they are using it when dealing with the students. He said there are students who are not able to hold jobs because of their lack of social skills training.

• Roy Penix talked about the parenting, inter group relations, and AODA programs. Parenting is a 20-hour program which is required for the students within the first 30 days after entering Job Corps. Inter Group Relations is an 18-hour program and is to be administered within the first

60 days on center. It is an ongoing program with emphasis on different ethnic cultures. The AODA program (Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse) is a 10 hour requirement which students have to have within the first 30 days on center.

Grant summed up the overall value of these programs and said that all students are tested for drugs upon coming to the center. If they test positive they are entered into additional AODA classes.

Ms. Higginbotham stated that she is on the board of directors of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association and the theatre has agreed to allow 15 students to attend free at any daily performance.

She also reported that since the last meeting she has been in Atlanta for the Annual Regional Job Corps Conference, which was also attended by student Wendy Hodge, who told the group that she was ranked from one of the better of the regions 24 centers and that her participation proved to be a wonderful experience.

Ms. Higginbotham said the students put on various skits showing their version of life on center. Ms. Hodge hosted the Job Corps version of Family Feud which was well received.

Ms. Higginbotham stated that tremendous changes are coming to Job Corps which will have the center fully computerized and by November, students will be paid their bi-weekly stipends and readjustment allowance on center instead of through the U.S. Army Finance Center in Indianapolis.

John Rosenberg talked about the Governor's Task Force at Jenny Wiley. He also asked about Mr. Trammel's trial date, and if the students, who were sent home had the right to come back. Ms. Higginbotham replied that the center is in touch with the students who were sent home and placed on administrative leave. After thirty days they were in AWOL status and at the end of 15 days AWOL they were dropped from the program.

Rosenberg asked if the students could get into Job Corps again. He talked about AWOL days and asked if this was fair. Grant replied that their being sent home was not classified as a disciplinary termination and they could get back into Job Corps.

Lamer told the group that Trammel waived his pre-trial hearing. Higginbotham replied that the police made the charge and made the arrest, and at that point it was out of their hands. She also stated that she was under the impression that the city had dropped the charges against the students.

With no further business, the meeting adjourned at 6:50 p.m. with the next meeting scheduled for July 21.

Poems wanted for new contest and anthology

A grand prize of $500 is being offered for the best poem in a new contest sponsored by Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum. Thirty-four other cash prizes will also be awarded. There is no cost to enter.

The rules are simple: each poet may enter one poem only, 20 lines or less, in any style, on any subject. Contest closes Sept. 30, 1992, but poets are encouraged to submit their work as soon as possible. Winners will be notified by November 30.

"The contest is open to everyone. But new poets, especially, are urged to enter, because we are always hoping to encourage and reward new talent," says Jerome P. Welch, Publisher. "The poem you send for the contest also will be considered for publication in Treasured Poems of America, a hardcover anthology."

Poems should be sent to: Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum, Dept. JB, 203 Diamond St., Sistersville, WV 26175.

Summer heats up electricity usage: new record set

The recent hot and humid weather resulted in Kentucky Power's 156,000 customers — residential, commercial and industrial—setting a new summer peak demand for electricity.

According to Tom Owen, public affairs information manager, "At 3:00 p.m. yesterday (July 14, 1992) we supplied 1,058 megawatts of electricity to our customers, which broke the previous record of 1,053 megawatts set on July 23, 1991 at 3:00 p.m. According to National Weather Service records at the Tri-State Airport in Huntington, this July, through the 15th of the month, was slightly cooler than July last year. But when the mercury rises above 90, everyone's main concern is keeping cool and having enough electricity to keep everything running."

Owen indicated that his company is not having any problem meeting its customers' demand for electricity and that even in the "heat of summer" the company's electric rates remain the same year-round.

"Even with our rates among the lowest in the nation, customers are reminded that keeping air conditioner filters clean, draperies and blinds closed on the sunny side of the house, and turning air conditioners to the highest setting while away from home will all help to conserve energy and help keep one's summer electric bill low," concluded Owen.

Customers are encouraged to call their nearest Kentucky Power Company office or 1-800-777-6937 for additional energy saving SMART tips or information on high-efficiency air conditioning equipment.

What's Up Doc

by R. Bhatnaji, MD, FACS
General Vascular & Thoracic Surgery • 1-606-432-0168

Your arteries are responsible for the transportation of food and oxygen to the body cells through the blood. As your heart pumps the blood, the arteries serve as the channels (or pipes) for transportation of blood away from the heart. Your arteries must remain open to keep the body cells healthy and alive.

Normally, the inner wall of an artery is smooth and firm allowing the blood to flow freely. However, the inner lining can become thickened and rough by a build up of cholesterol, fat, calcium, platelets and damaged cells. This build up acts much like rust in a pipe, causing the artery to narrow or even close off completely. Arteries carrying blood to the legs may become affected by this "hardening of the arteries" or atherosclerosis.

Atherosclerosis is the most common arterial disease of the legs. The principal symptom of arterial disease is leg pain or weakness brought on by walking, called "intermittent claudication". The pain typically occurs in the muscles used for walking, specifically the calf and/or thigh and buttocks. The claudication occurs consistently and more quickly when walking up hills, upstairs, or when walking at a rapid pace. In addition, carrying a load or walking in cold weather may also decrease the distance traveled prior to claudication.

Claudication may also be mimicked by a number of neurological conditions and musculoskeletal disorders. The most common problems mistaken for arterial disease are arthritic problems or disc disorders in the lower back. These problems are sometimes called "pseudo claudication". The patient with pseudo-claudication develops symptoms standing still as well as when walking.

True arterial claudication is relieved by standing still, but pseudo-claudication is not.

Next, advanced arterial disease symptoms may develop as "rest pain". Rest pain is a severe and steady aching or burning sensation in the foot. If the atherosclerotic buildup is allowed to continue, blood flow may be entirely restricted resulting in gangrene (death of tissue) of the foot or toes.

Although we do not understand why atherosclerosis develops in the arteries, individuals with artery disease share many of the same characteristics. Risk factors contributing to atherosclerotic buildup are heart disease, elevated blood pressure, smoking, diabetes, family history of vascular disease, lack of exercise, and stress. Many of these factors can be controlled by changes in the patient's lifestyle.

Your physician may wish to order a diagnostic examination in order to confirm and document the existence of arterial disease. Two of the more accurate ways to diagnose arterial disease in the legs are non-invasive testing and arteriogram. Non-invasive testing means that no needles, catheters, or dyes are used. The tests are painless and completely without side effects.

An arteriogram is an X-ray picture of the artery. It is obtained by putting a dye into the artery via a small tube (catheter) inserted into one of the blood vessels. An arteriogram usually requires hospitalization.

With the recent advances in vascular surgery, it is now possible to surgically correct some of the advance cases of arterial disease in the legs. Milder cases can usually be controlled medically by reducing the risk factors.

Hospice moves to new home: Open House celebration slated

It has been a busy several months for Hospice of Big Sandy. From national recognition of the importance of the program being offered to terminally ill residents of Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin and Martin counties to a new location for the office, Hospice of Big Sandy has been very active.

In March, Chris Conley, executive director, was asked to participate in a conference in Wichita, Kansas for rural programs. Conley was asked to speak on the challenges of bringing hospice to a rural area. She presented a 2 1/2 hour workshop on how to take a program from a volunteer base toward Medicare certification and expansion, while maintaining the integrity and flavor of a local, community hospice.

In May, Conley was a presenter at the National Hospice Organization's Management Meeting in Washington, D.C. Once again, Conley spoke about the challenges of rural hospices surviving and thriving in today's world.

In June, the board of directors of Hospice was selected to be one of eight non-profit boards in the country to participate in a project of Board Development being offered by the National Center of Non-Profit Boards from Washington, D.C. The board will be part of a year-long study project, the goal of which is to strengthen the operation of the Board of Directors and ultimately, Hospice of Big Sandy.

Also in June, Hospice moved its office from the Johnson County Courthouse to a suite of offices in the Family Federal Building. The move followed years of using the space donated by the Johnson County Fiscal Court. However, as Hospice grew and the staff expanded, the space in the courthouse was not able to expand as well. On June 1, the move was completed.

Hospice would like to share its new location with all those who helped make the move possible through their support and help over years. There will be an Open House on Thursday, July 23 from 6-8:00 p.m. in Suite 204, Family Federal Building, Main St., Paintsville.

The following students enrolled in KET Star Channels courses were chosen to be 1992 Governor's Scholars. The scholars will spend five weeks during the summer on a college campus studying one of 15 major study areas, including foreign languages, biology, math, or philosophy.

Lisa Hobson, McDowell High School, is a KET State Channels German I student; and Heather C. Watson, Allen Central High School, is a Probability & Statistics student.

Hassie Evelyn Titchenell

Hassie Evelyn Titchenell, 86, of Morgantown, West Virginia, died Tuesday, July 7, at Monongalia General Hospital, Morgantown, West Virginia.

Born April 13, 1906 in Davis, West Virginia, she was the daughter of the late James and Virginia Plougher.

Survivors include one son, James Titchenell of Ashland, Ohio; three daughters, Lolly McCleod, Rebecca Phillips, and Virginia Friend, all of Morgantown; two brothers, Leslie Plougher of California and Earnest Plougher of Florida; two sisters, Leatha Joy and Gladys Clifton, both of Kentucky; ten grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were Thursday, July 9, at Fred L. Jenkins Funeral Home chapel.

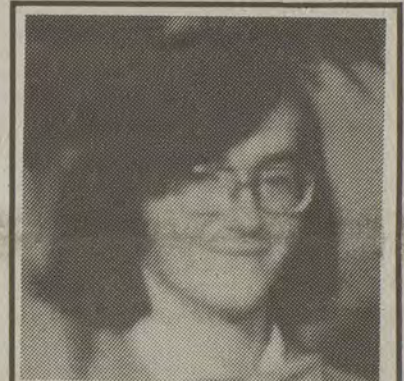

Steffey deployed to Western Pacific

Navy Fireman April M. Steffey, daughter of Donna L. Steffey of Tram, recently deployed aboard the destroyer tender USS Acadia, homeported in San Diego for six months to the Western Pacific.

Steffey will participate in various operations and training exercises designed to challenge the mission readiness of the ship and crew.

She will visit several foreign countries throughout the Western Pacific over the next six months.

The 1989 graduate of Betsy Layne High School, Stanville, joined the Navy in August 1989.

In Memory of Ben Music

Who passed away July 20, 1991

Dad, it's been a year since we've seen your smiling face. There's such an emptiness in our hearts, no one could ever take your place.

Your smile was so reassuring, the love in your eyes did show, When God called you to heaven, He didn't want you to suffer, I know.

Mom is so lost without you, but she knows you've gone to a better land. And we plan to meet you there, on that golden strand.

Our family gatherings aren't the same, your presence seems ever near, Our memories are so vivid as we talk, laugh, cry and wipe a tear.

So much has happened since you left, I'd love to sit and talk about. Some of the news would make you smile, of that I have no doubt.

You worked hard all of your life, and are now resting from your labors, We'll all be together in heaven someday and Jesus will be our neighbor.

We miss you so very much, and they say time is healing, But our hearts are very sad, and there is such an empty feeling.

Ruth Ann Scott (Daughter)

Sadly missed by your wife, Inez Music and Children, Grandchildren and Great-grandchildren.

Card Of Thanks

The family of Alvana Case Castle, would like to take this time to thank everyone in their time of sorrow.

Perhaps you sent a lovely card, Or sat quietly in a chair Perhaps you sent a floral piece, If so we saw it there.

Perhaps you spoke the kindest words, As any friend could say, Perhaps you were not there at all, Just thought of us that day.

Whatever you did to console our hearts, We thank you so much whatever the part.

A special thank-you to the Allen Fire Department, and the Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home.

Card Of Thanks

The family of Sgt. Larry Prater wishes to acknowledge the thoughtfulness of all our friends, relatives and neighbors during the loss of our beloved son, husband, father and brother. Thanks to all of you who sent flowers, food and those who kept us in their prayers and thoughts. We are especially grateful to Derek Hicks, Vernon Slone and the Carter Funeral Home for their assistance. A special thanks goes out to the Kentucky State Police, especially the Ashland and Pikeville posts. Another link is broken...

THE FAMILY OF
LARRY PRATER

IN LOVING MEMORY Of Tammy Lynn Hall

This is in memory of our daughter, and loving sister. She was taken from us by an automobile accident on April 27, 1986.

These past few years without her have been so lonesome, we miss her very much. Tammy was a very loving and caring person, and even if we know that she's in a happy home with God, we wish she could still be with us. Tammy was the daughter of Clifford and Dorothy Hall, she left one brother, and five sisters who have felt a great sadness, she was taken so very young and we didn't get a chance to say to her how much we loved her and cared for her. So many of us go out on the road and we never know if we will make it back home, we should make sure to tell our family and the people we love how much they mean to us every day. We go on with our lives, but the hurt never goes away.

Written by her family.

Bowlin hits grand slam in win over BC North

If you want to get Mike Bowlin out, you have to keep the ball up and in close. He loves to chase the high ones, but he enjoys hitting the ones down the middle and he proved it against Beaver Creek North Tuesday night at Archer Park in the loser's bracket of the District 7, Area 2 Little League All-Star tournament.

All Bowlin did was double in the first inning, hit a grand slam home run in the second, single in the fourth, walk in the fifth and single home a run in the sixth. He drove in seven runs as Paintsville blasted North 21-0.

It was the third shutout in the tournament for the Paintsville team as they climbed back into the title chase against the Harold-Allen-Prater (HAP) All-Stars (Wednesday night). HAP has been the only team to score against them and that was in a 11-2 loss.

Steve Conley was sharp on the hill for Paintsville in going the distance. Conley recorded 14 strike outs while walking but three. He allowed no runs while surrendering only four hits. He fanned five of the first nine faced and struck out four in row in the first and second innings.

Lefthander Caleb Yates led a trio of pitchers to the mound for North. Yates started for the Beaver Creek team working the first 1 1/3 inning. Yates gave up eight runs on eight hits and struck out three. He issued two walks. B.J. Caudill was the next to make an appearance for North. Caudill fared somewhat better than Yates in going four innings. But he gave up 10 runs on six hits while striking out one and walking four. Mike Combs closed out the stint for North going the final two-thirds of an inning. He allowed two runs on two hits, walking two and striking out two.

The big blast for Paintsville came against Yates in the second inning when Bowlin drilled his bases loaded home run over the left field fence.

Paintsville, who batted around in the first, duplicated the feat again in the second. Eric Vulmanic got a one-out double that started the long list of hitters. Todd Tackett singled and Vulmanic came home to score on a base hit by Danny Scott.

When Craig Lyons hit a grounder to second, confusion reign and Lyons was safe on a fielder's choice play, loading the bases. It didn't take Bowlin long to do what he wanted and he drilled a 2-1 pitcher over the fence for four runs batted in and a 9-0 game.

Paintsville scored four in the first with two runs coming in on Bowlin's two-run double.

Josh Greiner had a good day at the plate collecting three hits and driving in three. He scored two runs in the game. A bright looking young player is Todd Tackett who managed four hits on the evening. Tackett had two runs batted in and he scored three times. Tackett doubled in the third and fifth innings. Paintsville scored their 21 runs on 16 hits.

Yates had two of the North's four hits. Mike Pack and Gary Hunter had the other two. Beaver Creek left eight runners on base while Paintsville stranded five.

The loss eliminated the North team from further competition but Coach Joe Owens saw it as an enjoyable

HAROLD-ALLEN-PRATER ALL-STARS
1992 AREA 2, DISTRICT 7 CHAMPIONS

HAP All-Stars repeat as champions

Good pitching, good defense and timely hitting usually spells a good baseball game. Such was the case when the Paintsville and Harold-Allen-Prater (HAP) All-Stars met in the championship game of the District 7, Area 2 Little League tournament at Archer Park Wednesday night.

The game was a repeat of last year that saw the HAP All-Stars of coach Junior Reynolds post a 4-2 win over a very good Paintsville team. It was a classic matchup of rivalry between the two teams. Both are solid clubs that swing lively bats.

Paintsville outit HAP 8-7, but it was the final score that counted with the local all-star team moving into the championship round against the winner of the Pikeville/Belfry game (played Wednesday night, also). The game(s) will be played at Archer Park this Monday beginning at 6:30 p.m. The second game of the two-of-three playoffs will be played Tuesday evening. The winner of the playoffs will advance to state play in Catlettsburg.

HAP scored three times in the third inning to erase a 2-1 Paintsville lead. John Ortega continued to sting the baseball with a lead-off single and Wesley Samons followed with a solid hit to right center. Shortstop Craig Johnson roped a double to right center scoring Ortega and Samons to give HAP a 3-2 lead. Johnson scored an insurance run on Derek Stanley's two-base hit. Stanley was moved to the clean up spot in the HAP batting order where he had been hitting sixth.

HAP took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on a lead-off double by Ortega, who ripped a Lucas Meek fastball down the leftfield line. Samons grounded to second moving Ortega to third and some alert base running by Ortega plated a run as he scored on a wild pitch.

Paintsville claimed their first and only lead with a two-run third. B.J. Daniel singled off Samons to begin the Paintsville third. He moved to third on two consecutive wild pitches. Todd Tackett walked and on his way to first he never hesitated and moved on to second in hopes of drawing a throw.

Danny Scott bounced a one hopper to third baseman Chad Case, who looked Daniel back to third and got Scott at first. Mike Bowlin, who had the tournaments only grand slam home run the previous night, walked on a 3-2 pitch from Samons to load the bases. Craig Lyons, a good hitting third baseman, lined a double to right center scoring Daniel and Tackett to give Paintsville the lead at 2-1.

Paintsville threatened in the third on a one out base hit by Daniel and a two-out error off the bat of Scott. Scott bounced back to Samons, who couldn't find the handle. But Bowlin ended the inning by bouncing to Samons. Paintsville put two runners on base in the second but was unable to move them around.

HAP had a rally going early in the second but it failed to produce any runs. Brad Reynolds led off with a fly ball to right field that was dropped by Scott for an error. Tom Taulbee singled with no one out.

Both runners moved up on a wild pitch as HAP was knocking on the door. However, Matt Kidd fanned before Meek walked Shannon Potter to load the bases. Chad Case hit a hard grounder that shortstop Todd Tackett made a great play on, tagged Taulbee going from second to third and a good throw to the plate got Reynolds for the third out and a Paintsville double play.

HAP put runners at second and third in the fourth inning was unable to score against Meek. Some poor base running in the fifth cost HAP one run. Derek Stanley led off with a base hit and Ronnie Kidd grounded hard to the right of first base that Josh Greiner made a great play on to get Kidd. Stanley headed for third and was cut down on the throw. Taulbee then grounded to second base off the pitcher's glove who threw him out to end the inning.

Paintsville made some noise in the sixth inning as they tried desperately to get back into the game. Greiner got a lead-off single up the middle but was forced at second on Tim Baldwin's ground ball to second baseman Ortega. Seth Lauffer grounded a base hit between first and second putting runners on the corners. Samons got Daniel on strikes for the second out and the coaching staff elected to intentionally walk Todd Tackett to load the bases. Samons then fanned Scott to end the game.

Samons worked the full six innings in picking up the win. He walked three and struck out seven. He allowed two runs on eight hits.

Meek suffered the setback. He worked five innings with seven strike outs and he issued three base on balls. Meek yielded four runs on seven hits.

Clark inks contract with Jacksonville

Following the recommendation of head Cincinnati Reds scout Gene Bennett, Coach Rudy Abbot of Jacksonville State University in Jacksonville, Alabama signed Prestonsburg standout John Thomas Clark to a baseball scholarship on July 10.

Clark will be playing shortstop on a team that has won back-to-back national championships and has sent several former players into the major leagues. Abbot was named National Coach of the Year in 1991 after his team won their second title.

"I really like Coach Abbot," said Clark upon signing the letter-of-intent. "He's nice and straight forward. He knows the game of baseball after coaching for 22 years."

Clark has been a big part of the success of the Prestonsburg baseball program under head coach Russell Shepherd. He has been to several Reds tryout camps and was almost drafted by the Reds in this year's draft.

"They told me that I needed to work on by foot speed," said Clark. "While I'm there, I will be working out on weights and trying to improve my bat speed also."

"Coach Abbott, who is good friends with Mr. Bennett, told me that the Reds almost drafted me. I was impressed with the school when I went down. It's a school of about 9,000 and it reminded me of Eastern Kentucky University."

Although Jacksonville State is a four year school, the letter-of-intent is for one year at a time. "They don't sign anyone for four year scholarships," said Clark. "They sign you one year at a time."

Clark batted .520 during his four years at Prestonsburg and lost only four games in pitching for the Blackcats. He still has the ambition to one day play major league baseball.

"Oh, yeah I haven't given up that dream," he said. "The Reds told me that they would be watching me and I feel that Jacksonville State is a good place for me to go to."

A good place is right when you consider the talent that the school has sent to the major leagues. Since 1975, 48 players have signed professional contracts with different major league clubs.

The Gamecocks were 41-12 last season and finished a strong 43-9 in 1990. The Gamecocks are 700-269 under Coach Abbott which makes him the winningest coach in Alabama collegiate history.

"He doesn't sign just anybody," said Clark. "Bennett brought another player down, an outfielder, and Coach Abbott did want him because he felt he couldn't make the team."

Some major college teams appear on the Gamecocks schedule each year including such powerhouses as Alabama and Auburn. Jacksonville State is 1-0 against Kentucky. The Gamecocks play in the tough Gulf South Conference which is one of the premier Division II conferences in the nation.

Clark is excited about going to the Alabama school and hopes to use it as a stepping stone to the big leagues.

Unsel, guest celebrity at Bluegrass Games

Wes Unsel, Basketball Hall of Famer and Head Coach and Vice President of the Washington Bullets, will be the celebrity athlete at the opening ceremonies of the 1992 Bluegrass State Games.

Unsel will be the guest speaker at the ceremonies which will be held at the University of Kentucky's Commonwealth Stadium at 8 p.m. Friday, July 24.

Unsel's visit is sponsored by Coca Cola Company, which sponsors the Games along with Valvoline Inc.

"We are very happy about being able to bring in someone of the caliber of Wes Unsel to help promote the Games and speak to the participants," said Ken Sumner, Vice President and General Manager, Bluegrass Coca Cola Bottling Co. and Bluegrass State Games Board member.

"One of our goals this year was to feature a well-known and successful athlete from Kentucky. I don't think we could have made a better choice than Wes Unsel. He has had an outstanding athletic career and is a good role model, especially for the thousands of young people who will be participate in the 1992 Games."

Twice named All American while playing at the University of Louisville, Unsel joined the Washington Bullets in 1968. He was chosen on the first round of the 1968 draft. He was the second player selected behind another Bullets great, Elvin Hayes.

In his first season the 6'7" center was chosen both Rookie Of The Year and the league's Most Valuable Player. Unsel and Wilt Chamberlain are the only men to have received both honors in the same season. Unsel was also selected to play in the NBA All-Star Game that season, his first of five All-Star appearances.

The Bullets—who had never had a winning season before Unsel arrived—recorded .500 plus seasons while he was a member of the team. Unsel was a major force in sending the Bullets to 12 consecutive playoff appearances. He was voted MVP of the 1978 NBA championship series that brought Washington its first sports title in 36 years.

In his 13 years as an NBA player, Unsel received many honors. He was inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in 1988, his first year of eligibility. He ranks 7th all-time in rebounding; is one of a handful of players who have scored 10,000 points and pulled down 10,000 rebounds; ranks third all-time among playoff leaders in rebounds; and is the Bullets all-time leader in games played, rebounds, minutes played and assists.

After retiring from his playing career in 1981, Unsel was asked to serve as Vice President of the Bullets. During the 1987-88 season Unsel took over as Head Coach.

Known over the years as "The Gentle Giant," "The Friendly Giant" and "Chairman of the Boards," Unsel was also known as a player and coach who loves winning.

"The man is a god in Louisville," said Pervis Ellison, also a former Louisville player. "When you come into the Capital Centre and see that Jersey hanging in the rafters, you respect that. This team plays to win. We want to play like Wes did."

Over the years Unsel has also been involved in several community

Sweep Neon in two...

Prestonsburg 13-year old All-Stars head to Louisville

Watch out, Louisville, here comes the Prestonsburg 13-year old All-Stars! The local All-Star team captured the District 7 championship in a come-back effort as they posted a 12-5 win over Fleming-Neon Wednesday night to win the event and earn a trip to Louisville for the state tournament.

"This is a good group of kids," said Prestonsburg coach Rodney Osborne. "They played some good baseball and I'm proud of them." The team is managed by Bobby Joe Spencer.

Prestonsburg fell in the first round of the tournament by the score of 10-8 and had to battle their way out of the loser's bracket in the double elimination tournament.

Tuesday night Prestonsburg scored a lopsided 19-3 win over Fleming-Neon and came back the next night to hand the same team a 12-5 setback.

In the 12-5 championship win, Jake Poston handled business on the mound in going the distance for the All-Stars. Poston picked up the win allowing five runs while scattering four hits. He struck out nine while walking but two.

Travis Mullins suffered the loss for Fleming-Neon. Mullins gave all 12 runs on 10 hits. Mullins only had one strike out and he walked three batters while hitting one. His team committed six errors behind him in the field.

Jason Osborne had three hits in the game to lead the Prestonsburg hit parade. Jason Hackworth, John Morris and Poston each had two hits.

Prestonsburg scored five times in the seventh inning to break the game open after leading 7-5. Hackworth collected a two-out single and Morris singled behind him. Chris Cornette was safe on an error at second base with Hackworth scoring. Morris scored when Rusty Young was safe on a first baseman's error. Osborne and Young came home to score on Mike Castle's triple and he scored when Poston lined a three-bagger to left field.

Fleming-Neon led 1-0 after the first inning but the lead lasted only until Prestonsburg batted in the second when they scored three times to take a 3-1 lead. Morris doubled with one out and Jason Osborne singled behind him with Morris stopping at third base. Osborne stole second and both runners scored on Sammy Nelson's base hit. Nelson later scored the third run of the inning.

Prestonsburg made it a 5-2 game with two runs in the third inning. Hackworth singled and Morris walked. Both runners scored on Jason Osborne's two-run double.

Neon scored two runs in the fourth and pushed across single runs in the bottom of the fifth and sixth inning to pull to within two runs of Prestonsburg, 7-5. But the local All-Star team put away Neon with five in the seventh.

In the first game of the playoffs Tuesday night, Prestonsburg blasted Neon 19-3 behind the two-hit pitching of Hackworth. Hackworth struck out seven batters and walked three. He allowed three runs on just two hits.

Prestonsburg was held scoreless over the first three innings but exploded for 15 runs in the fourth inning to overcome a 1-0 deficit. Dennis Napier started on the mound for Neon and suffered some big time control problems in the inning. He walked the first three batters he faced and Hackworth cleared the bases with a triple. Hackworth scored on a passed ball as the rout was on. Mike Castle had an RBI single in the inning and he singled home another run when he batted the second time in the frame.

Jake Poston batted twice in the fourth inning and he was hit by a pitch both times to the plate. John Morris had a run scoring base hit and Jason Osborne drove in two runs with a single. There were eight walks and three hit batsmen in the inning.

Prestonsburg scored four more runs in the sixth inning. Jason Osborne led off with a double and scored on Sammy Nelson's RBI single. Jeremy Shepherd singled home a run and he also collected two hits.

Prestonsburg won four while losing just one in the tournament.

POLISHING THE JEWEL

Thanks to the diligence and far-sightedness of Kentucky sportsmen and wildlife conservationists in the '30s and '40s, a parcel of Franklin County farmland was purchased by the infant fish and wildlife department. This jewel-in-the-rough became the Game Farm in 1945, and it increasingly proves a valuable asset beneficial to all Kentuckians. If it's been a while since your last visit, you're sure to find several positive changes.

Long operated for the purpose of raising and stocking game species, the Game Farm no longer fulfills what its name implies. With sportsmen's dollars, we're polishing this Kentucky jewel and gearing it toward providing wildlife-related enjoyment and learning experiences for its many visitors, especially Kentucky school children who arrive by bus loads in spring and fall.

Beautifully landscaped with various trees, shrubs and flowers, this home base of the fish and wildlife department's central offices offers outdoor opportunities ranging from hiking and fishing to bird watching, wildlife watching and picnicking.

A miniature version of a wildlife management area with native plantings is nestled in a low-lying wet area near the entrance gate. From a duck blind, visitors can take photos or watch various birds and other wildlife that frequent this example of interconnected wildlife habitats. Wetland-produced seeds, plants and native grasses, along with insects in and around the moist soil, attract and provide food for birds. Species as common as Eastern and greater-crested king birds, mourning doves and bluejays often visit the area, as well as uncommon birds such as little green herons, orchard orioles and hooded warblers.

The Exhibition Area, accessible by curb cuts and concrete walkways, is one of the farm's most popular attractions. Visitors come year-round to see live native wildlife displays which include doves, quail, eagles, hawks, pheasants, peafowl, wild turkeys, vultures, black bears, cougars, coyotes, wolves, foxes, groundhogs, otters, squirrels and raccoons. In adjacent fields are bison (American buffalo), fallow deer and whitetails. In addition, resident flocks of Canada geese and mallards freely roam the grounds. Other waterfowl species visit during late fall and early spring migrations.

Two fishing lakes, open year-round for bank angling (under statewide license regulations) are regularly stocked with crappie, bluegill, black bass, catfish and trout. Special size and creel limits are posted on signs at the lakes. The upper lake sports a T-shaped fishing pier which is totally accessible. Several sections of low railing not only make fishing from a wheelchair easier but more comfortable and enjoyable.

A shaded park-like area, sprinkled with a dozen picnic tables and grills in landscaped settings of pebbles and wood, lies above the upper lake. Also resting in this portion are two adjoining shelter houses with picnic tables.

Large groups may reserve the shelters by calling (502) 564-5448 weekdays 8:00 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Rest room facilities, designed and equipped for persons with physical limitations and completely accessible to wheelchair users, are located near the shelters. Concrete walks connect this portion of the Game Farm with the wildlife displays.

Why not plan a family outing on the Game Farm, located three miles west of Frankfort on US 60? It's open daily 8 a.m. to sunset, but anglers may begin fishing at sunrise.

Entrance to the Game Farm is by the east gate only, with one-way traffic bearing left and flowing around both fishing lakes and the picnic area to the west exit gate. Game Farm Road is open to two-way traffic between the east entrance and Arnold L. Mitchell Building. The posted speed limit is 15 mph.

If you visit on a weekday, please remember that parking areas near office buildings are used by department employees 8:00 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

More educational opportunities are in the works for Game Farm visitors, but don't wait. Come see what this Kentucky jewel offers.

Courage is a special kind of knowledge; the knowledge of how to fear what is to be feared and how not to fear what is not to be feared.

Prestonsburg places third in Paintsville Invitational

For many of the players that made up the Prestonsburg 9-10 year old all-star team, it was the first time for many of them in journey from the confines of friendly Archer Park.

But the young Prestonsburg all-star team made the trip to Paintsville to play in the Paintsville 9-10 year old All-Star series and was impressive in finishing third overall.

Prestonsburg lost to the Paintsville Red team in the loser's bracket of the double elimination tournament.

PRESTONSBURG VS HAP RED

In the first game of the tournament, Prestonsburg dropped a hard 14-10 loss to the Harold-Allen-Prater Red team. Prestonsburg held a 7-6 lead going into the fifth inning after coming from a 6-0 deficit. HAP scored three times in the top of the fifth for a 9-7 game.

Prestonsburg tied the game at 9-9 with two runs in the bottom of the fifth. Kyle Shepherd walked to start the inning and Kimi Nunnery drew a two-out walk. George Hall delivered a two-run single that scored Shepherd and Nunnery.

HAP came back in the top of the fifth and plated three more runs for a 12-9 game and pushed across two more in the sixth. Prestonsburg scored their final run in the bottom of the sixth on a walk to John Dixon, a base hit by Holbrook and Stephens RBI single.

Josh Turner was two for three in the game. Neil Fannin had a single as did Kimi Nunnery. George Hall, Jarrod Hall, John Dixon, Kyle Shepherd, Holbrook, Stephens each had base hits.

Prestonsburg collected 10 runs on 10 hits.

PRESTONSBURG VS MAGOFFIN CO

Prestonsburg scored six runs in the second inning to jump in front of Magoffin County and held on for a 15-10 win in the tournament. Magoffin County had taken a 2-0 lead with single runs in the first and second inning until the big six run second for Prestonsburg.

Gabriel Shepherd was the winning pitcher for Prestonsburg. Neil Fannin had two hits in the game as did Kyle Shepherd.

HAP RED VS PRESTONSBURG

In a rematch, Prestonsburg got revenge on HAP Red and big time. Prestonsburg scored 15 runs in the first inning en route to a 26-7 victory.

Will Holbrook hit a fourth inning two-run home run for the winning team. John Dixon had doubled and scored ahead of Holbrook round tripper. Dixon had two hits in the game. Holbrook collected three hits.

George Hall had two doubles and a single in the contest and Kim Nunnery tripled in the second.

MORGAN COUNTY VS PRESTONSBURG

In a close one, Prestonsburg scored a single run in the bottom of the fourth inning to snap a 5-5 tie and held on to defeat Morgan County 6-5. Prestonsburg held a 5-2 lead until Morgan County scored three runs in the fourth to tie the game at 5-5.

Four runs crossed the plate for Prestonsburg in the third inning without the benefit of a base hit. Morgan County committed two errors in the frame and there were four walks.

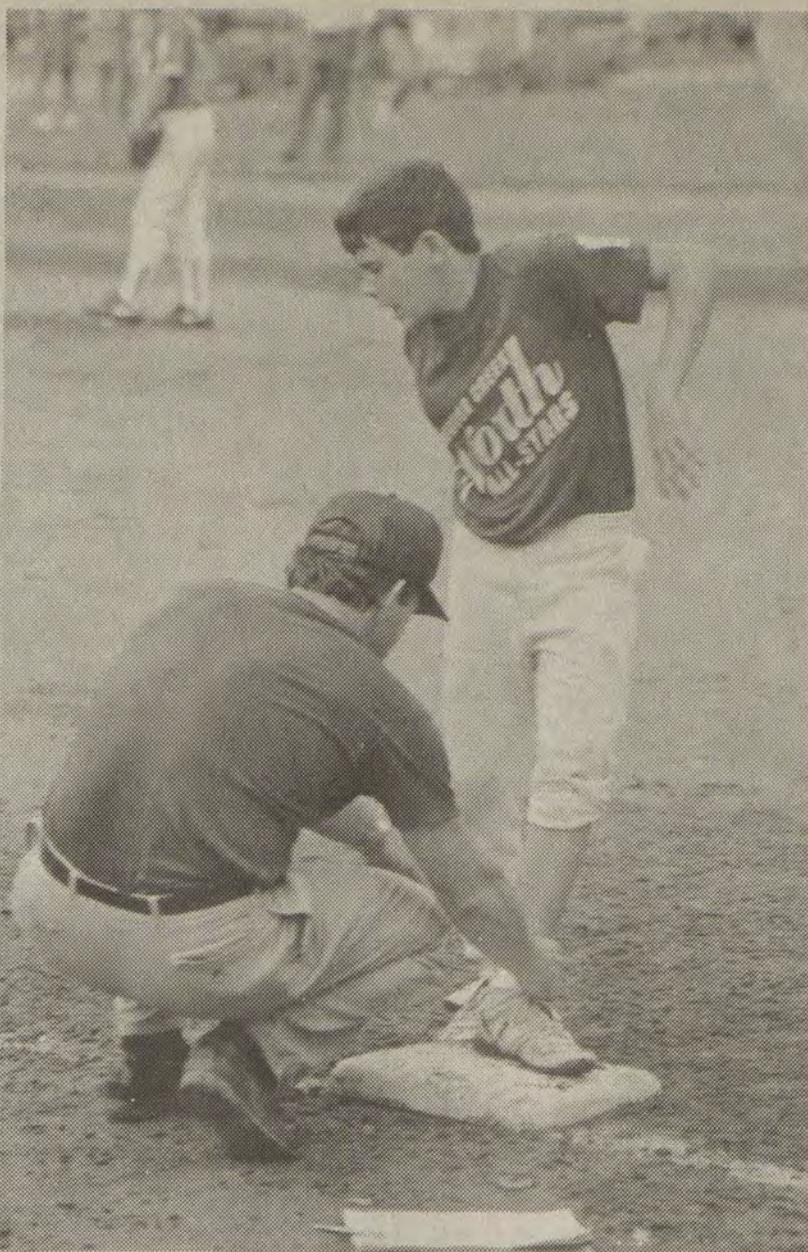

John Dixon had a base hit for Prestonsburg as did Gabriel Shepherd for the only two hits for Prestonsburg.

Byrce Holbrook had a double for Morgan County in the first inning when they took a 1-0 lead. Holbrook singled and scored in the third.

PRESTONSBURG VS HAP BLUE

Prestonsburg reached the semifinals of the tournament with a 6-4 win over the Harold-Allen-Prater Blue team. Four runs in the third gave the Prestonsburg All-Stars a 6-1 lead but they had to hold off a determined HAP team to win.

Neil Fannin, Josh Turner, Gabriel Shepherd and Kyle Shepherd each had base hits. Fannin had four stolen bases and Kyle Shepherd had two.

The Floyd County Times

Beaver Creek LL to hold tryouts Aug. 1

Departing from the tradition of long ago, the Beaver Creek Little League will try to take a step towards strengthening some of their weaker teams in the double league.

The league is divided into a North and South division which then picks two all-star teams after the league holds its season closing tournament. In the past a coach could pretty well go out and hunt some players and place them on his roster which caused an unbalance of talent to be distributed around. Now, however, the league officials have decided to do something about making the league more balanced by holding a league draft on August 1.

Three different sites will be used to determine what team will get whom. In the Left Beaver section (McDowell and Drift), the draft will be held on August 1 beginning at 10 a.m. at the Minnie Park. The teams — McDowell Sox, Drift Yankees and Drift Astros — will draft in accordance with the way they finished. The Sox will draft first, the Yankees second and the first place Astros last. Up in the Right Beaver section (Wayland and Garrett), the draft will be held August 1 beginning at noon. The draft will be conducted at the Garrett Little League field behind the old school gym. The Duff Orioles, a new team this year, will draft first followed by the Wayland Dodgers, Garrett Cubs and Garrett Pirates.

Martin, which places four teams in the league, will hold the final draft at 2 p.m. at the Martin Park. The last place Blue Jays will draft first followed by the Martin Braves, Martin Reds and division champions Martin Cardinals.

The draft is open to all 9, 10, 11 and 12 year old players who have not played in the league previously. All returning players will remain with their present club next season.

The league also plans to shorten their regular season from the 20 scheduled games played this year. The all-star tournament caught them unaware in finishing their league tournament. The league will resume the tournament on Tuesday, July 21.

For more information on the upcoming draft, contact league president Jimmy Goins at 285-3495 or Frank Goins at 377-2986.

201 Speedway site of Fourth Spectacular

The rains came on 201 Speedway but it did not dampen the spirits of racing fans as they enjoyed a night of exciting racing that saw Martin's Bat Bartrum lap the field in winning the Super Streets division on the Fourth and David Blevins crossed the line for the victory in the Claim Bombers division.

In the Claim feature, Blevins edged out Calvin Pack for first place with Pack finishing second. Eddie Blair and Gary Combs tangled in the third turn and Mike Jenkins passed both drivers to finish third. Combs crossed the line for fourth and Blair came in fifth. Garland Mills rounded out the field with a sixth place finish.

In the Super Streets run, Bartrum's Double XX car caught and passed the rest of the field to claim the Fourth of July victory. Mike Osborne placed second while Cornealus Hall finished third. Fourth place went to Jackie Everage and Lenzie Butcher went home with fifth while Scott McCloud, after blowing an engine, placed sixth.

In the first of two consolations, Ottis Keaton crossed the line for first followed by Frank Blackburn in second. Truman Napier came in third while Mike Dawson finished fourth. Charles Burke crossed the finish line for fifth place and Gary Fyffe placed sixth.

In the second consolation, Mark Trimble of Paintsville claimed first place. Jason Music was on Trimble's bumper to place second. Phillip King claimed third place with Phillip Butcher coming fourth. Fifth and sixth place went to Rodrick Mollett and Mark Dutton.

In the Super Bomber feature on Saturday night, George Meade hung on to take the Fourth of July Spectacular. Ted Blevins was a close second with Terry Muncy crossing for third place. John Trimble held on for fourth and fifth place was won by Doug Saylor. Doug Willis placed sixth.

Ronnie Cole raced ahead of Buck Lemaster for first place in the Street

Division. Lemaster came in second ahead of Jodie Adkins who placed third. Anthony Radliff was a fourth place finisher with Clyde Fitch and Leslie Combs finishing fifth and sixth.

WILLIAMS CLAIMS FEATURE PAST WEEKEND

This past Friday night at 201 was a time of excitement as the races and fans alike heated up for racing thrills after a successful Fourth of July weekend.

In the first of two consolation races, Rodney Webb came from behind to claim the victory while Chris Giliam finished second. Third place was captured by Dale Treen with Mark Dutton running fourth. Jerry Ramey and Frank Blackburn finished fifth and sixth respectively.

In the second consolation race, David Johnson held on for the victory crossing the finish line just ahead of second place finisher Mark Trimble. Homer Mills Jr. ran a consistent third while Danny Powers took fourth. Jason Music crossed the line for fifth and Todd Jarrell came in sixth.

The ever popular Bartrum won over Scott McCloud to win the Super Streets. McCloud blew his engine but did manage to hold on to second place. Mike Osborne of Paintsville took third place while Mike Steele placed fourth. Fifth went to Terry Joe Mills with Cornealus Hall rounding out the night in sixth place.

Charlie Williams captured the Claim Feature with Charles Burke coming in at second. Eddie Blair was third while Joe Ramey claimed fourth place. Bobby Hammond went home with a fifth place finish and Danny Keaton was sixth.

John Trimble fought a hard battle but managed to hold off the pack to take the checkered in the Super Bomber feature. Gary Cunagin crossed the line behind Trimble to take second while Ted Blevins held on for third. Doug Willis took home the fourth place position with fifth and sixth going to Robbie Burchett and G.T. Norman.

Ronnie Cole continues his reign as top feature winner in the Street Division by crossing the line for first place. Leslie Combs came in second with third place going to Danny Patrick. Glen Patton, who experienced some car trouble, placed fourth. Fifth went to Clyde Fitch and Greg Lucas of Whitesburg was sixth.

The point standings are as follows: Super Bomber, Ted Blevins; Street Division, Ronnie Cole; Super Street, Bat Bartrum.

For one day only...

Old time baseball excursion

For 1992 the Collis P. Huntington Railroad Historical Society is again offering a one day only Cincinnati train excursion on Sunday, September 6. They are bringing back the "good ole days" of a baseball special to Cincinnati, Ohio to see the Reds take on another National League power — the New York Mets.

The trip will have first class and coach seating, and originate in St. Albans, West Virginia, with stops in Huntington, Ashland and South Shore.

Upon arrival in Cincinnati at Union Station, Reds fans will be taken by bus to the stadium for the afternoon game. After the game, busses will return passengers to the train with a scheduled departure one hour after the game.

Only once since the sixties has there been an opportunity like this.

Your train will travel along the Ohio River most of the way through many of Kentucky's oldest river towns before crossing the river at Covington.

Ticket prices include train and game tickets which are green box seats left of third base, plus bus fare to and from the game, when riding in Coach or First Class. First class tickets also include seating in a special lounge, dome or other special cars and include continental breakfast and dinner in the diner on the return trip. Non-alcoholic beverages will be served plus other amenities.

For more information or to order tickets by phone, call (304) 453-1641, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m., or write PO Box 1252, Ashland, KY 41105-1252.

Diesel power engines will be used which will speed up the trip. All aboardddddddd!

YOU PEOPLE

This week the people of America will know who will be representing them on the Democratic ticket in the November election when the Democratic convention meets in New York.

The way it looks, Arkansas's Bill Clinton and his newly selected running mate, Al Gore, are leading the ballot for their party's nomination. Of course, others might be nominated for the top positions, but it's a sure bet Independent Texas billionaire Ross Perot won't be one of them.

This past weekend, Perot addressed the NAACP and after a brief introduction that went without incident, Perot began referring to the assemblage as "You People".

"Forgive me if I sound as if I'm judging Perot, but you'd think somebody who has billions of dollars would be more culturally literate. Bush certainly would have known better, but that's because he knows Jesse Jackson personally.

My husband says that I need to realize that Perot's from Texas, and Texans think bigger than we do.

"What has that got to do with anything?" I asked my husband as we pulled on our boxing gloves and started to have our first political disagreement discussion of the year.

"It has everything to do with it," he said calmly, as the veins began to pop out in the upper part of his neck. "Giving the devil his due, Perot would call any group 'You People' because if you aren't from Texas, you're from someplace else so you're 'You People'."

"No," I interjected. "He meant it in a condescending way."

"You're crazy! He wanted to impress them."

"Well he failed if that was his intention."

"Sara, I'm not saying Perot was right. I just think he didn't mean to slur an entire race of people. Particularly not in public."

"At least not to their faces. Isn't that what you mean?"

"No, elephant breath. That's not what I mean," my husband yelled. "I think the man would have called us 'You People' if he had been speaking here in Eastern Kentucky."

"I think he would, too. As hillbillies we've always been known as 'You People'. All snobby rich people use that phrase. They always have questions like 'Do you people wear shoes in the winter?' You know I'm right."

"Of course you're right. You're always right. Always have been. I can't imagine why I continue arguing with someone who is never wrong."

Acquiescing to me has always been my husband's ploy to throw me off guard, but I wasn't biting. When you're trying to talk about a person who might be sitting in the Oval Office near the red button, you can't be too serious.

"Jimmie," I said emotionally. "I don't think Ross Perot knows what the little person needs."

"You're wrong. He's little himself."

THE TIMES' WEEKEND Extra

The Jenny Wiley Story :

A stunning new musical debuts

by Kathleen Carroll
Contributing writer

This summer the Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre is not only staging five wonderful productions, they are also making history. With the Saturday, July 18, opening of the Jenny Wiley Story, based on the legend of Jenny Wiley, JWST brings to the stage the nation's first all-musical outdoor drama, an event special enough to warrant an original cast recording that will be available for sale at the theater. As in the hugely popular nationwide hit, "Les Misérables," all the play's dialogue will be sung. "We checked around the country," said the show's composer Richard Oberacker, "and no one has ever produced something like this."

"But it's more than that," Oberacker continued, "somehow making the show completely musical had restored dignity to the legend itself. The emotional level of the performance is heightened by the music and enhances the lessons that this wonderful legend has to teach us."

"Beyond that," said Oberacker, "I wanted the story to spread and be told again all around the region, I wanted the people from the Big Sandy Valley to have this story given back to them. I wrote the show for this theatre and for this area because they have given so much to me. They have given me the chance to work with and produce my own music as well as the chance to work with and produce my own music as well as the chance to work with a tremendously talented cast—literally the chance of a lifetime."

Oberacker explained that he began rewriting the play's music in 1990 after some alterations had given the show it's most successful summer in several years. "The story has epic proportions," he said. "It is so emotionally charged and powerful. What I originally set out to do was just compose a few songs; but the songs took on the emotions of the epic and there was no smooth transition to return to the spoken word.

From that point the score developed itself. I just kept thinking of different portions of the story that I wanted to set to music and before I knew it, the whole play had to be music."

"Director Jim Ligon pointed out that this legend has been around for two hundred years and our hope is the epic proportions of the legend coupled with this overwhelming style of theatre will give the people of this area something very special. That's why I am so excited about people from this area coming back to see this play, because the legend had been so trivialized in earlier productions. This is so different. If you're expecting to just sit back and say 'oh that's nice, that's our history'—you're in for a big surprise. This play will grab you and hold you. You will absolutely be changed by it because it is so powerful."

ALL MY CHILDREN: The trucker Dixie brought back to Will's apartment tried to force her to sleep with him. Brian, who had seen Dixie's strange behavior in the country/western bar, followed her and threw the drunken man out. Gloria admitted to Stuart she really was a gold digger, and was prepared to leave both him and Pine Valley. After Angelique intervened, Stuart raced after Gloria and persuaded her to stay. Erica volunteered to help out at Angelique's benefit for the homeless shelter. Adam devised a plan to get Gloria out of Pine Valley Hospital. Wait To See: Edmund's past begins to unfold.

ANOTHER WORLD: A shocked Ryan told Carl he'll never accept that he (Carl) is his father. Frankie tried to persuade Ryan that learning about his true paternity won't change him. Jake obtained a new set of photos showing Jamie and Kelsey kissing. Grant reacted warily when Amanda said she wanted to do a book on the Harrison family. Vicky was stunned when Donna said she (Vicky) should consider splitting with Ryan because he may have a dark side, like Carl's. Dean and Jenna were upset with Ace's decision to use Sam instead of Dean. Wait To See: The "fan" becomes more involved in Jenna's life, much to her chagrin.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Frannie was puzzled by a letter from Gavin. Lisa told Barbara she's sure Darryl hadn't yet told Frannie about Jenner's paternity, and implored her to tell Frannie before anyone else does. The bank told a startled Frannie that the mortgage was in arrears. Lily collapsed when Iva told her she (Iva) is pregnant. Lucinda wasn't happy about Scott taking a raincheck on their midnight swim. Tom made a small attempt to get to know his half brother (Scott). Wait To See: Duncan and Jessica reevaluate their future.

BOLD & THE BEAUTIFUL: Ridge insisted to a stunned Brooke that he wouldn't leave Taylor unless a paternity test proved he was the father of her (Brooke's) baby. Stephanie reminded Brooke that the one night she slept with Eric could have resulted in her becoming pregnant. Sheila, who assumed Eric invited her over for an evening tete a tete, was shocked when she realized she'd been asked to babysit. Sally was determined to sever all ties with Clarke. Zach told Felicia he'll never forgive his father for the death of his mother. Zach, surprised to hear (from Felicia) that Jack was still in town, decided to confront him. Wait To See: Taylor is faced with a shocking situation.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: John won a narrow victory over Lawrence at the Alamain board meeting. Tanner and Julie persuaded Molly to press sexual assault charges against Gavin. Carrie and Jesse began their jobs at the clothing store, Ballistix, in the new Salem Place Mall. Carrie was treated like an outsider until the other girls saw her with Tanner. Later, Carrie became an instant jazz lover when

Truth, Justice and the American Way

Not only our future economic soundness but the very soundness of our democratic institutions depends on the determination of our Government to give employment to idle men.

-Franklin D.

Roosevelt, Radio address, April, 1938

All political parties die at last of swallowing their own lies.

-Dr. Arbuthnot (quoted in Garnett, Life of Emerson)

Since approximately two weeks before the Democratic National Convention began, that's about all our distinguished broadcast journalists have been able to talk about. Which politician spoke to which special interest group and which politician said or did the dumbest thing during his speech. But Jennings, Brokaw, Donaldson, Koppel, Rather and Oprah have yet to get to the true heart of the proceedings and answer that burning question on the minds of all us good Americans:

Just what are all those guys in the cheap suits with the slicked back hair doing when they're not either making or attending speeches and slurping down all that free food and liquor?

Unfortunately, our editor for some reason or another refused to pay our way to New York so we could give you, our readers, a behind-the-scenes look at the movings and the shakings of the movers and the shakers.

So, in the interest of the public's prurient curiosity, we have consulted our resident psychic Jeane Dixon, on loan from the National Enquirer and the Carol and Carroll Hubbard campaign (seeing as how nobody can help the Hubbard twins now anyway).

The following are excerpts from Ms. Dixon's reports. They are not necessarily accurate, but you have to understand that Ms. Dixon is the one who said that Elvis would return to Earth in 1991, fresh from his visit with the two-headed, fifty feet tall go-go girls on the Planet of Double Cheeseburgers.

Democratic National Convention: Day 1

8:34 p.m.: Ted Kennedy, still on his honeymoon, gets back to his hotel room after an exhausting day at the convention. He crawls into bed beside the beautiful, apple-checked girl that he has pledged his everlasting love to.

8:38 p.m.: Kennedy lights up a cigarette and calls his wife.

9:45 p.m.: Al and Tipper Gore return to their room following a brief dinner with Bill and Hillary Clinton. They decide to relax, so they play some heavy metal records backwards.

9:48 p.m.: Bill and Hillary get to their rooms. Hillary bakes cookies. Bill says he's going out for some Flowers.

2:33 a.m.: Bill and Ted return from an excellent adventure in the wilds of New York. For some reason, Ted can't find his pants.

Day 2

7:30 p.m.: Bill gets an obscene phone call. He's certain it's from Dan Quayle, because the caller accuses him of being "a big doody head."

7:33 p.m.: Ted, alone in his hotel room, flips the channels on the television, searching for the Playboy channel. Instead, he sees an old Memorex commercial featuring the late Sammy Davis, in which Sammy hits a high note and his eye shatters.

7:34 p.m.: Ted calls one of those 976 numbers looking for someone to be his friend on the other end.

12:15 a.m.: Ted's still on the phone. What the heck, he thinks, he's on an expense account.

12:30 a.m.: Bill, Hillary, Al and Tipper attend an after-hours party in Jerry Brown's room. Bill inhales, but says he didn't like it.

1:45 a.m.: Ted runs into Jerry's room in the middle of the party, screaming that he's gone blind.

2:57 a.m.: Jesse Jackson enters and pouts because no one let him plan the party.

Day 3

6:30 p.m.: Sister Souljah stands outside the convention room door as the delegates file out at the end of the day. She tries to get people to buy her records for a quarter. Tipper finally buys one for 15 cents.

6:45 p.m.: Tipper gets back to the hotel room and plays Sister Souljah's record backwards. She swears she hears the words "White people are our friends. Love Whitey," over and over.

8:36 p.m.: Ted has recovered his sight, so he heads to a strip club. However, he pretends he's still blind so he can look at the girls in braille.

9:53 p.m.: Bill and Al huddle together to plan their speech for the next day. Al wants to compare war stories. Bill says he's against war stories and calls his father and asks him to make Al leave him alone.

10:30 p.m.: Bill gets another phone call. This time the caller is strangely silent for a moment, then says "Uhhh, that heavy breathing thing. Bad. Bad."

1:15 a.m.: Ted drives his car off of a bridge, but emerges relatively unscathed except for a slight lapse in memory.

2:30 a.m.: Another party, this time with Anita Hill as the special guest. Unfortunately, someone forgot and invited Clarence Thomas. Anita looks at her Coke and runs screaming from the room.

Day 4

7:30 p.m.: The delegates emerge from the convention, fresh from hearing that Ross Perot has dropped from the race.

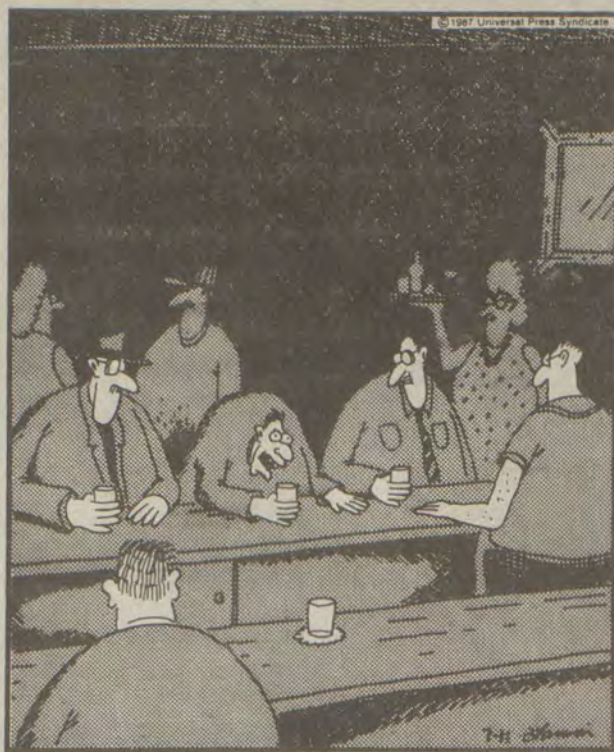

7:45 p.m.: George Bush and Dan Quayle drop by Bill's motel. George has a smug look on his face. Dan says "Nyah nah nah nah nyah nah."

8:23 p.m.: Ross Perot calls Bill and tells him not to worry, he'll still

GRANDPARENTING

BRIGHT LIGHTS OF THE STAGE BECKON TO GRANDDAUGHTER

Q: Our 15-year-old granddaughter, Lizzie, desperately wants to go on the stage. At her high school there is a strong drama club and she gets the chance to act in various productions. The problem is that she simply can't act. She doesn't have the natural talent, and it is embarrassing to watch her struggle.

On the side, the drama teacher told me she doesn't think Lizzie is in the right field, but she doesn't want to hurt her feelings. Don't you think someone should let Lizzie know the truth? — L.J., Provo, Utah

A: If Lizzie has the guts to try to perform, you should support her at this age. She's only 15, and although practice doesn't always bring perfection, she may improve. Give her a chance.

Since she loves the theater so much, why not take her to a nearby dinner theater, or a professional theater, as a treat on her birthday or for a special occasion? Maybe she'll learn by these performances. There is a saying in the theater that good actors borrow ideas, and great actors steal them.

If she does discover that acting really isn't her scene, there are so many other opportunities in the theater. Backstage can be almost as exciting. Perhaps she could become involved with scenery, lighting or direction. She may discover her way as she gets older, but right now we think she deserves a lot of applause.

Q: Our son and daughter-in-law are both lawyers and make good salaries, good enough to give each of their sons, 11 and 13, a weekly allowance of $15. But the boys don't do much in return. They forget to feed the dog, and we think they are old enough to cut the lawn, etc. All they think about is buying designer jeans and other expensive clothing.

My wife and I think this generous allowance comes from the parents' guilt because they are away so much. They are simply paying their children to entertain themselves. I'm worried that luxuries come too easily. What do you think? — Santa Ana, Calif.

A: We think the boys should earn their allowances. The parents should give them a list of daily chores. Yes, they are old enough to cut the lawn, they should keep their bedrooms tidy, the dog should be fed, and how about getting them to recycle every week? One bag for plastics, another container for bottles, a place for old newspapers.

The parents should direct this, not you. But you can make the suggestions. As for those expensive "designer jeans," the parents could buy one or two for them, but the difference in price between designer jeans and good old American Levis should be reimbursed by the boys.

Maybe then they'll realize that jeans may have different names, but once worn they wear very much the same. It sounds like peer pressure in dressing. It's time the boys learn that keeping up with the Joneses is old hat.

The Grand Remark of the Week:

"Our granddaughter Jessica, 21, was a baby sitter a few years ago at

13. One of the families she sat for had three very active little boys.

"One Saturday evening when Jessica returned home after a very hectic day her mother asked her how things had gone. Jessica answered, 'When I get married I'm going to take birth control pills till I'm 80 years old!'" — B.W., Springfield, Vt.

We welcome all your Grand Remarks of the Week.

EDELL HEALTH NOTES

THUMB SUCKERS TAKE THE BIT ... Here's a solution to thumb sucking that comes direct from the horse's mouth. Two Kentucky dentists have fashioned what they call the Bluegrass Appliance, patterned after a steel bit used to calm irritable horses.

Bruce Haskell and John R. Mink, of the University of Louisville and the University of Kentucky, fitted 24 little thumb suckers ages 7 to 13 with this small, movable roller, which rests in the top of the mouth near the front teeth and is attached to braces by orthodontic wire. The children learned to calm their thumb sucking urges by spinning the rollers with their tongues. When the dentists removed the rollers after about six months, all 24 children had been weaned of the habit.

The dentists don't say whether the appliance interfered with the children's speech. But it may be worth the hassle if it cures an annoying habit or even helps parents avoid bigger orthodontist bills later on.

MORE BAD NEWS FOR SMOKERS ... The risk of cancer and heart disease may not deter smokers, but maybe this news will: Smoking cigarettes can contribute to male impotence.

A recent Boston University study of young impotent men shows that men who smoke a pack a day for five years are 15 percent more likely than non-smokers to develop clogged arteries in the penis, which can in turn cause impotence. In other words, where there's smoke there may be no fire.

ALOE VERIFICATION FAILS TO CHECK OUT ... The spiny, succulent leaves of the aloe vera plant are filled with a clear gel that has been used for millennia to relieve the pain of wounds and burns. Over the past couple of decades, potted aloe plants have multiplied on the windowsills of natural-healing enthusiasts, and bottles of aloe vera moisturizer have crowded the supermarket shelves. Health claims for this African plant are legion, but not always well-tested.

Researchers at Women's Hospital in Los Angeles County were interested in whether aloe vera gel would help speed surgical healing. They worked with 21 women who had just had either caesarean sections or gynecological surgery. Dividing the women into two groups, they gave standard medical wound treatment to all 21 and added aloe vera gel for one of the groups.

Aloe vera causes no negative reactions or complications, but that's about the best that can be said about it. The women who received no aloe vera took an average of 53 days to heal, while those treated with the gel took a whopping 83 days.

In other words, aloe vera's only significant effect was to prolong the healing process. The only other explanation may have been that the aloe canceled the effects of the standard ointments, but the researchers didn't speculate on this.

This result contradicts those of other studies that have shown a healing effect for aloe vera gel. Although its results are interesting, this small study isn't grounds for taking the aloe vera plant off your windowsill.

Jenny Wiley

According to Oberacker, nothing has been fundamentally changed about the story or the characters. Rewriting the music will focus the audience's attention on the emotional reality of what happened during Jenny Wiley's capture and escape. "Because music can draw out more emotion," said Oberacker, "these people are very real and so much more alive than people in this area have ever before seen. The characters are funnier, more passionate, and although the story focuses on Jenny Wiley, many more of the supporting characters have emerged to give the story depth and diversity. The audience will be faced with the true drama of the conflicts in this situation."

Jennifer Lambert, who portrays Jenny Wiley, agrees. "When you sing Richard's music you can't help but pour forth your emotions. There's no holding back and the audience benefits from your involvement with the music. The story itself is such a tragedy and performing the play is physically, mentally and emotionally draining—but it's a tremendous experience."

Concerning the original cast album, Oberacker explained, "the reason we wanted to do an album was to preserve both the original cast performances and the premiere of the nation's first all-musical outdoor drama. I worked very hard to pay attention to every aspect of the production, I carefully picked the cast and I wanted all that preserved." The cast travelled by bus to a Bristol, Virginia, studio for a one-day, marathon twelve-hour recording session.

Lambert is enthusiastic about portraying Jenny Wiley, "the minute

I heard her soliloquy, just before Tommy is killed, I was completely attracted by the character and fascinated by the woman. I think I am amazed by a woman whose strength sustained her through two hundred miles of torture, and at the end of it all she still wanted racial unity and peace. After they killed her children and destroyed her home she did not seek revenge, she wanted peace. There's a spirituality there that is simply remarkable and fascinating."

Oberacker said, "I wanted to highlight the questions of religious and racial tolerance that are inherent in this story. I worked on the lyrics to enable the characters to discuss these issues—issues that still confront us in the world today."

Lambert adds, "through the whole play, Jenny tries to understand what has happened, why the Indians and settlers cannot make a peaceful co-existence—as if she keeps asking 'Tell me why.'"

"In fact there is one song dedicated to that question," said Oberacker, "the song 'Tell Me Now' is a prayer for understanding—both understanding of why these events are happening and why these people cannot settle their differences."

Oberacker continued, "the word we want to get out is that the play is so new—even if you've seen it, you haven't seen it. Also, we hope the album will become a new way of keeping the show and the story alive because it is so vibrant."

About 83 million Americans now living will eventually have cancer; about one in three, according to present rates.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

THE ENTREPRENEURIAL SPIRIT

—The Minneapolis Star-Tribune reported in May that the major ingredient in Maxwell House Cappuccino is the artificial flavor of "instant coffee." A General Foods Corp. spokesperson said taste tests revealed that consumers prefer the taste of instant coffee.

—Japan Efficiency Headquarters, an "entertainment business company" in Chiba, Japan, rents "family members" out to senior citizens who would like to enjoy the benefits of a close-knit family from time to time. Typically, a husband, wife and child are requested, and have been trained by the company to engage in family-type activities as if everyone in the room were related. The typical cost for the three family members for three hours is $1,100.

—The Institute of the German Economy reported in May that McDonald's Big Mac sandwich is increasingly being used by economists as a measure of comparative purchasing power in various countries. Five Big Macs in the United States can be bought for the same money as four in Germany or 18 in Russia.

—At the recently opened Talamore golf course in Southern Pines, N.C., golfers have the choice of renting a golf cart to transport their clubs—or a llama. A spokesperson said the club gets about two requests a month for llama service—at $400 per foursome.

—Ms. Nui Onoue, 61, pleaded guilty in Osaka, Japan, in January to defrauding several banks out of $1.45 billion for stock market speculation. Prosecutors said she somehow managed to convince banks, over five years, to lend her about $26 billion.

COMPELLING EXPLANATIONS

—In May, the Missouri Court of Appeals turned down David Turner's appeal of the automatic suspension of his driver's license for refusing to take a blood alcohol test. His argument to the court was that, when arrested, he was too drunk to realize that he should have submitted to the test.

—Jackie McDonald, candidate for sheriff in Faulkner County, Ark., was prohibited in May from running by the county election commission because of questions of mental competence. Responded McDonald, "I have been examined and released by the State Hospital. This certifies that I have been found by experts to be fit to live and function in a free society. Can the election (commissioners) say the same (about themselves)?"

—In a confession to police admitting that he started a February fire at Loyola College Prep school in Shreveport, La., Joseph Tuminello, 24, said he committed the arson because the school had gone coed. "I was devastated," he said.

CREME DE LA WEIRD

The Economist reported in April that researchers at the University of Newcastle in Australia believe that Indian yogis drink their early-morning urine because it is rich in the sleep-produced hormone melatonin. They believe that drinking it convinces their bodies that they have slept longer than they actually have.

LEAST COMPETENT PERSON

Burlingame, Calif., police reported in April that the Towles Coffee Shop was burglarized, but that nothing valuable had been left accessible on the premises, except for approximately 30 cents in a "penny cup" (beside the cash register). After trying unsuccessfully to pry open a locked metal cabinet (which in any event contained only toilet paper), the burglar cleaned out the penny cup and fled.

THE DIMINISHING VALUE OF LIFE

As a result of a year-long dispute among taxi companies trying to increase their market shares, more than 300 people have been killed in Lebowa, a group of rural areas in north-east South Africa.

Dear Abby

Tale of a dog named Sex will set tongues wagging

DEAR ABBY: I have enjoyed your column for many years, so I'm sending you something your readers might enjoy. It is a birthday card I just received. I hope you like it.

A.D. BRADLEY, STATEN ISLAND, N.Y.

DEAR A.D. BRADLEY: Like it? I loved it. Thanks for a dandy day-brightener. Readers, this is it:

When I went to the City Hall to renew my dog's license, I told the clerk I wanted a license for Sex. He said, "I'd like one, too!"

Then I said, "But this is a dog."

He said he didn't care what she looked like. Then I said, "You don't understand. I've had Sex since I was 9 years old." He winked at me and said, "You must have been quite a kid."

When I got married and went on my honeymoon, I took my dog with me. I told the hotel clerk I wanted a room for my wife and me, and a special room for Sex. He said, "You don't need a special room for Sex. As long as you pay your bill, we don't care what you do."

I said, "Look, you don't seem to understand. Sex keeps me awake at night."

The clerk said, "Funny, I have the same problem."

Well, one day, I entered Sex in a contest, but before the competition began, the dog got loose and ran away. Another contestant asked me why I was just standing there, looking disappointed. I told him I had planned to have Sex in the contest. He said, "Wonderful! If you sell tickets, you'll clean up!"

"But you don't understand," I said. "I want to have Sex on TV." He said, "They already have that on cable. It's no big deal anymore."

Well, my wife and I decided to separate, so we went to court to fight for custody of the dog.

I said to the judge, "Your honor, I had Sex before I was married." The judge said, "The court is not a confessional. Please stick to the facts." Then I told him that after I was married Sex left me. He said, "Me, too."

Well, last night Sex ran away again, and I spent hours looking all over town for him. A cop came over to me and asked, "What are you doing in this alley at 4 o'clock in the morning?" I said, "I'm looking for Sex."

My case comes up on Friday.

DEAR ABBY: It was remarkable to learn that a physician thinks veterinarians earn more than he does!

An ovariohysterectomy on a 100-pound dog is about $100 here in Springfield, Mo. Our local Blue Cross/Blue Shield office reports that the customary physician's fee for the same operation on a woman is $2,000. The veterinarian's fee includes hospitalization, anesthesia, surgery supplies, etc. The physician's fee does not.

Who is fooling whom? The veterinarian who retired at age 43 must have been selling Amway on the side!

DOUG BRYAN, D.V.M.,
PRESIDENT, SPRINGFIELD,
MO.,
VETERINARY ASSOCIATION

DEAR DR. BRYAN: Most veterinarians choose veterinary medicine because they love animals although their incomes will be about half what physicians who care for people earn. And the work is harder because their patients can't tell them where it hurts.

she learned her noisy musician neighbor was the very handsome Austin Reed. Wait To See: Victor has a surprise for Vivian.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Holly found herself confronted by Sean and Mac who wanted to know why she lied to cover up her activities. To the dismay of the Quartermaines, A.J. spent the night at Nikki's. Scotty and Dominique's arrest in Texas turned out to be a publicity boon for "Deception." Bill's plans to leave for San Sebastian could invite danger. Meanwhile, Romero and Father Martin had their own plans for a similar voyage. Port Charles' residents were under siege as a violent summer storm threatened the city. Wait To See: Holly comes up with an unbelievable explanation for her actions.

GUIDING LIGHT: Alexandra lambasted Eric for trusting Mindy with the DNA sample, and he agreed to stay in Springfield until Nick learns he really is Alexandra's son. After learning of Nick's true paternity, Vanessa, Fletcher, and Maureen realized Alan-Michael will now have a competitor as the Spaulding heir. Eve, who realized Alan-Michael didn't know of Nick's parentage, accepted his and Eleni's bid to live at the Spaulding mansion. Jenna wondered who (it wasn't Grady) paid her bail.

Billy warned Roger he'd better watch out if he had something to do with Mindy's disappearance. Wait To See: Eve decides it's time to act.

LOVING: Clay fought to get Dinah Lee to come back to him. Ally became fearful of her blackout episodes. While Trucker was telling Shana he planned to get custody of his child, Trisha was telling Giff she wasn't ready for a serious relationship with him. Cooper told Hannah he wanted to be with her, but first he had to find Selena, and she agreed to help him. Ava found cocaine on the mannequins Basil ordered at Burnells, and she and Casey set up a stakeout to nail him as he sold the stuff. Wait To See: Ava is in for a shock!

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Carlo Hesser's murderer was revealed. Blair realized Asa was desperate that she bear him a child. Max was furious that Lee Ann hadn't told him until now that he was the father of her child. Max then took his anger out on Jason who feared that he might lose Lee Ann now that Max knew everything. Alex made up her mind to steal the Cleopatra jewels when they came to Llanview. Sloan encouraged Cassie and Andrew to be together. Wait To See: Asa faces an unpleasant revelation.

SANTA BARBARA: Kelly and Jodie disagreed over how to treat Chip. Frank read B.J.'s article in the computer. When B.J. returned to work on it, she found it erased from the computer's memory. Lisa told Rich she wasn't pregnant; she just wanted to hurt Lilly. Abigail followed Aurora, Sawyer, and Micah as they visited the gravesite. As Aurora talked with her dead mother, Sawyer was felled by a blow from behind. Mason and Julia arrived and, with Micah, rushed to the site in time to see a hooded figure raise an ax above Aurora. A flash of lighting revealed Abigail's face beneath the hood. Wait To See: Cruz suspects B.J. has a secret about Frank.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Make the most out of an opportunity that knocks on your door. There could be an unexpected kink in this story, but you work it out. You may need some down time this weekend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Explore options and read all the fine print this week. Be a pioneer in your field. Accept responsibility and you have reason for celebration as the weekend comes in.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Evaluate what is going on in a special relationship. You spend a good part of this week renegotiating your position with a boss, partner or loved one. You hear good news as the week comes to a close, though you may have to be responsible and on the scene all weekend long.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Get ready to launch into action this week, even if you planned to keep it low keyed. Listen to your instincts regarding a business or money matter. By the way, you are really loved. Split for the weekend.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Work continues to be the focus this week. Nerves may be frayed, but remember, there are alternatives. You lighten up toward the end of the week, because the social beast in you comes out.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) The kaleidoscope of love preoccupies you much of this week, though you do take a break from this activity to get a little work done. Don't let a partner's "flakiness" get to you. Remember right now, this year, the world is your oyster.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) You need and must change your base of operations. Trust your instincts, because they are on target. You land well, if you risk and support yourself in change. Allow more positive vibrations into your life, and you see the benefits by the end of the weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Make that phone call and handle what you've been postponing. What occurs tells you that you need to be a lot "more sure" of yourself. Come from a centered spot dealing with a loved one this weekend. You get better results and are much happier.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Once more, the drama centers around money and who you are. You have choices to make, and you must honor your own integrity. Count on this being an unusually busy week. Be careful with messages, answering machines, etc.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Get used to being more expressive, because that's where the planets are taking you. Your business sense saves the day, later in the week. Relish a weekend where the action comes to you.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You may be shaking your head this week, because of what you hear and what goes on. The moon premieres in your sign toward the weekend, adding to your luster and allure. Celebration and overindulgence walk hand-in-hand this weekend.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Events have you shaking your head and wondering what's next. Resist impulsiveness; go the tried and true path of logic. The moon beams a path to heaven this weekend, exclusively for you and those lucky enough to be around you.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Ryan realized he could be heading for trouble now that Nina and Victoria were exchanging "notes" about him. Scott prepared a romantic dinner for Lauren, only to find she brought Paul home with her. Victoria told Ashley, Victor and Nikki were seeing a lot of each other. Later, Victor admitted to Ashley he still had feelings for his former wife. Ashley packed her bags, and left. Cricket decided to return to her job and find a way to nail Michael Baldwin. Mamie suggested it, and John agreed to throw an impromptu July 4 party and invite all his family and friends. Wait To See: Victor's plans run into a snag as Nikki ponders her real feelings for Jack.

say mean things about Bush on the Larry King show.

9:30 p.m.: Bill goes out for some more Flowers and passes Ted in the hallway of the hotel. Ted is wearing dark glasses and is carrying a white cane. He is accompanied by two shapely women in short nurse's uniforms.

9:45 p.m.: George and Dan go to a Japanese restaurant. George throws up on the head waiter.

1:35 a.m.: Bill staggers back, drunk as a Kennedy, into his hotel room. He's very depressed because he has just realized that his running mate was a good choice, and historically the candidate with the dumbest running mate has won the race.

3:15 a.m.: Bill, Al, George and Dan meet with each other and agree that they're all tired of the race, so they decide to have a big scrabble match to pick the winner. Bill and Al are pretty sure they have this one all wrapped up.

5:27 a.m.: In a surprise move, Dan wins the scrabble match because he somehow figured out how to use all of his letters in one word using seven E's.

5:43 a.m.: George stops laughing when Dan pulls a gun.

5:44 a.m.: Everybody laughs because Dan pulls the trigger and it squirts.

We'd like to continue, but our intrepid psychic, Ms. Dixon just received an urgent thought message from the Planet of Double Cheeseburgers saying that the King was really on his way this time and he had decided that he will run the country from now on.

Now all the American people have to vote on is whether they want the skinny one or the fat one.

We will return next week, featuring Elvis' debate with himself. Pee Wee Herman will be the moderator.

Renfro Valley holds its 50th annual all-night gospel sing

Once a year for the past 50 years the sounds of pure gospel jubilation have filled the tiny mountain community of Renfro Valley from midnight till daybreak. The tradition began in 1942 when founder John Lair was looking for a meaningful way to showcase gospel music in Renfro Valley. And the tradition has continued without interruption ever since.

This year's celebration, scheduled for Saturday, August 1 from midnight until somewhere near daybreak, draws upon the talents of some of the most respected names in gospel music today to keep hands clapping and toes tapping. The all-star line-up includes: The Isaacs; The Perrys; Perfect Heart; Jubilee Echoes; The Councelors; and Charles Johnson and the Revivers.

"Gospel music plays an important role in our heritage at Renfro Valley, says Entertainment Director Pete Stamper, "and the All-Night Gospel Sing is one of our most popular gospel events. It is really exciting to see folks who come to the concert year after year, faithfully."

If this year's All-Night Gospel Sing follows patterns of previous years, expect tickets to sell out early. Guests are invited to call Renfro Valley for reservations, toll-free, at 1-800-765-7464 or 606-256-2638. Tickets to the all-night event are $9 for adults, $4.50 for children 12 and under. Special prices are available to tours or groups of ten or more. Group reservations may be made by calling Renfro Valley's group desk at either of the numbers listed above.

Renfro Valley is located on Highway 25 near Mt. Vernon, Kentucky. The popular entertainment complex, which includes restaurants, lodging, a quaint shopping village, country music museum and four totally different live country shows, is just off I-75 at exit 62, 45 minutes south of Lexington, Kentucky.

Fiesta Day

Students at Prater Elementary School enjoyed eating Mexican food during their Fiesta Day.

PAT SCHUDY AND DAVID WOLFF

TALK TO US

ARE TOO-STRICT PARENTS ABUSIVE?

Q: FROM SOPHOMORE IN CHICAGO: I am 15 years old. My parents are so strict. They will not let me participate in any school activity of any kind, which means not going to games.

They will not let me go outside for nothing at all. I can't even go to the store. The only time I go outside is when I'm getting in the car for one of them to take me to school because they won't let me ride the bus, and they get mad if I ask them if I can.

They will not let me have company, much less a boyfriend. I can't have a lot of boys calling here because if I do, my father says I'm prostituting. And if I have a lot of girls calling here, my mother says I'm a dyke.

I hate this house I'm in and have no freedom WHATSOEVER and can't do nothing. I'm in the need of advice badly. What can I do?

PAT AND DAVID: What you're describing sounds like a serious and, possibly, emotionally abusive situation.

What you didn't tell us, however, is how long this situation has been going on and what brought it on.

Is this a form of grounding? Did your parents say, "Because of what you've done, for the next three months, you're not going to be allowed to..." etc.?

Have your telephone conversations given your parents reason to be concerned? Have you lied about where you were going or who you were going with? Have you been sneaking out or given your parents reason to question your sexual behavior? In other words, have you done ANYTHING that would cause your parents to impose such extreme measures on you?

If you haven't given your parents good reasons to be so strict and you are forced to live this way all the time—and IF what you're saying is rock-bottom truth, with no exaggeration, then we're going to recommend steps that are not to be taken lightly.

What you describe is certainly not a normal or recommended way for a teen-ager and her family to live. And you may have to seek outside, adult help to deal with the situation.

Start by finding an adult you trust from your family, school or church who can come over to your house, discuss what's going on, and help explain to your parents that they are being unreasonably strict.

If that doesn't work and the severe restrictions continue for no reason, then contact your local Child and Family Services Agency (in Chicago, call 793-2100) or call the Child Abuse Hotline in your area (in Chicago, it is 1-800-252-2873).

If you're unable to call because your parents won't let you make calls or you're afraid they'll listen in on your conversation, write the Regional Office for Child & Family Services, Attn: Affirmative Action Div. (In Chicago, it's 100 W. Randolph, Chicago, Ill. 60601.)

To ALL OUR READERS: We believe in the importance of the family and of the need for parents to be responsible for their children. However, in the event that parents misuse their authority and abuse their sons or daughters, then we recommend intervention.

TALKBACK TO NO LETUP ON DADS:

I am a divorced father. ... Being a divorced father at a birthday or Christmas is not a happy thought. Unless you want a fight with someone you couldn't get along with in the first place, you don't go near, and to be stupid enough to send a gift beforehand is beyond belief; those gifts end up coming from mother or go in the trash. A father is not going to win either way. Child support, yes; father should pay, but he should have rights also.

HIGH-FIVE: To Travelers Aid International and AT&T, who want to help runaways or "throwaways" (kids asked by their parents to leave home)—up to 23 years old—make a free long-distance call home or to their home community.

Here's how it works: If you've left home and want to let your mom, dad, friend, etc., know you're OK or that you need help, you can do so from any participating Travelers Aid Agency. To find the one closest to you, call 1-800-TOBESAFE (1-800-862-3723) and ask for "KidsCall." They'll give you a counselor who'll help you make the phone call or will put you in contact with people who can help you. There are currently 45 TAI offices in 26 states participating in the program.

June Buchanan school valedictorian accepted to US Naval Academy

Nikki Lynn DeFarah Ratliff has accepted an appointment to the United States Naval Academy located in Annapolis Maryland. The Naval Academy is a prestigious college which trains students in their perspective fields, in addition to preparing them for a career as a Navy officer. Each graduate of the academy is commissioned as an Ensign in the Navy or 2nd Lieutenant in the Marine Corps and is obligated to six years of service.

Nikki Lynn Ratliff

Ratliff, a co-valedictorian of the June Buchanan School, began the application process as 12,000 others did by seeking a congressional, senatorial, or vice-presidential nomination. She received a principal nomination from Congressman Chris Perkins in addition to a competitive nomination from Senator Mitch McConnell which then made her eligible to compete for one of the 1,200 appointments. Only 100 admitted are females. Once judged to be academically qualified, Ratliff then underwent a series of medical examinations and physical aptitude tests which measure strength and endurance.

Ratliff reported to the U.S. Naval Academy on July 2 Induction Day where she took the Oath of Office and began Plebe Summer, a rigorous six-weeks' basic training program before classes begin mid-August. Ratliff plans to pursue a double major in political science and English. She is the daughter of Kenneth and Sheila Ratliff of Estill, Kentucky.

Transforming teachers

The Kentucky Science and Technology Council, Inc. and the Kentucky Department of Education are conducting two institutes for teachers and administrators from Kentucky schools July 14-16, and July 27-29, 1992.

These "Transforming Teaching Through Technology" institutes will assist educators in making effective use of the $400 million in state and local funding which has been made available for educational technology through KERA.

The institutes will be held at the Telecommunications Research Center (TRC) on the University of Louisville Shelby Campus. The TRC is a joint initiative of the University of Louisville, South Central Bell, and the Kentucky Cabinet for Economic Development. The facility and resources of the TRC will provide institute participants with opportunities for hands-on experiences with the state-of-the-art technologies.

Thirteen teams representing schools across the state will attend each institute. Teachers, principals, and librarians will participate on the teams. In addition, 12 of the teams include a parent or member of a school-based council. The Floyd County team consists of Harold Burchell, technology coordinator, Floyd County Schools; Stanton Watson, teacher, Duff Elementary; Jim Staggs, teacher, Floyd County Tech. High School; Kim Reynolds, media specialist, Adams Middle School and Kenny Caldwell, teacher/parent, Allen Elementary School.

Wilson named to honors list

Marcha LeVerne Wilson of Wheelwright, is among the 189 students named to the spring 1992 semester academic honors' list at Campbellsville College, according to Dr. Robert S. Clark, vice president for academic affairs and dean of the College.

Wilson is the daughter of Charles and Marjorie Wilson of Wheelwright. To qualify for the academic honors' list, a student must receive a quality-point-grade point average of at least 3.50 out of a possible 4.0 on a course load of at least 12 hours. Fifty-seven students made perfect 4.0 grade point averages.

Campbellsville College, a comprehensive institution, emphasizes liberal arts and sciences, business, teacher education and professional studies. Affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention, the College provides a quality education along with Christian values.

Ice Cream Quotes

"What a pity this isn't a sin"
Stendhal on first tasting ice cream

"Oh, sure, she's the lady holding up the ice cream cone"
An 8-year old boy's response to the question, "Can you describe the Statue of Liberty?"

"We dare not trust our wit for making our house pleasant to our friend, so we buy ice cream."
Ralph Waldo Emerson

"My advice to you is not to enquire why or whether, but just to enjoy your ice cream while it is on your plate, that's my philosophy."
Thornton Wilder, "The Skin of Our Teeth"

More Americans 'Screaming for Ice Cream'

Consumer tastes may change through the years and demand may grow for certain newer categories, but many old favorites are still shopping list staples. Ice cream, for example, is consumed "several times a week" year-round by 22 percent of the nearly 3,500 adults who responded to a United Dairy Industry Association survey.

Quitters Never Win

There's never been a quitter who's been a winner, especially when it comes to the game of life.

All around us, the world is changing, growing more complex. The time is long past when just anybody can get a job, can do a job. More and more those companies that are a part of the future need employees at all phases of their operations who can read, who can write and who can work with and understand numbers.

That's why Music-Carter-Hughes and Carter-Hughes Toyota believe strongly in young people staying in school and completing their education.

Music-Carter-Hughes and Carter-Hughes Toyota are committed to the future, and part of that commitment is the belief in our young people getting an education, getting a diploma that says you're a high school graduate.

If you're in school . . . Stay in school.

If you're thinking about quitting, think again. You have the choice. You can be a quitter, or you can be a winner.

We believe in winners. We believe in you.
