Case involves 1983 murder of school teacher :

Cohort in murder seeks to quash guilty plea

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Knott County Circuit Judge John Morgan will hear arguments next month for a motion filed by a Tennessee man who pleaded guilty to conspiring to murder a Floyd County woman nine years ago.

Bobby McGuffey, who is incarcerated in a Mount Sterling prison, filed a motion in June to set aside his guilty plea in connection with the 1983 murder of Glenda Sharon Marshall. McGuffey pleaded guilty on February 14, 1984 and was sentenced to life in prison on April 12, 1984. The case will be heard August 17 at 1 p.m. in Knott Circuit Court.

The motion asks that McGuffey's plea be set aside because, he alleges, that then Commonwealth Attorney James Allen and Kentucky State Police detective Gary Rose "welshed" on their part of the plea agreement.

Court records indicate that Allen and Rose agreed to appear at McGuffey's first parole board hearing and recommend he be released. McGuffey's hearing was held June 1991 and neither Allen nor Rose attended.

McGuffey was charged, along with Edward Wright, Clyde Douglas Marshall, Carl McFarland and Harlos Ben Marshall, with complicity to commit murder in 1983 after the body of Glenda Marshall was discovered in a burned out vehicle after it plunged over Sizemore Mountain near Wayland. Clyde Marshall was Glenda Marshall's husband.

State medical examiner David Wolfe determined that Glenda Marshall had been killed by a blow to the head and was dead when her vehicle plummeted over the mountain. Officials also determined that the vehicle had been drenched with gasoline.

The effort to have McGuffey's plea overturned began in September 1991 when a motion to vacate the sentence and judgment was filed in Floyd Circuit Court.

Court records show that Allen and Rose sent letters to the Kentucky Parole Board in January that said they were unaware of McGuffey's hearing and requested a new hearing be granted. Both letters said that Allen and Rose "stand ready to fulfill" their part of the plea agreement.

The parole board denied a new hearing, but lowered the amount of time for a new hearing from 120 months to 60 months.

The plea agreement filed in circuit court said that if McGuffey passed a second polygraph test and agreed to testify against Clyde Marshall then Allen and Rose would "recommend to the parole board McGuffey's release at first eligibility (eight years)." John Swain, counsel for the Attorney General's Office, will represent the state at the August 17 hearing in Knott County.

Current Commonwealth Attorney Jerry Patton excused himself from the case in November 1991 because he had represented Harlos Marshall in the case, court records show.

Charges against Harlos Marshall were later dropped.

Floyd Circuit Judge Harold Stumbo also disqualified himself from the case in March because the Commissioners question property purchase :

Municipal building eyed in Wheelwright

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Wheelwright Utility Commissioners voted Tuesday to negotiate an option to purchase property to relocate city offices and to oppose a city ordinance to lower gas rates.

Utilities manager Gary McCoy told the commissioners that an option could be acquired to purchase the old Dollar Store building for $25,000 and it could be renovated to house utility and city offices.

Discussion prior to talks to purchase the building, utility clerk Audrey Yates informed commissioners that a move by the city commission to cut gas rates would virtually eliminate any extra revenue for the utility department.

Yates said that such a reduction in rates would "take a large amount" of the operating funds in the department and would cut subsidies to the police department, fire department and for street lights.

Commissioner Jimmy Little moved to hold a special meeting with the city commission to go over "the facts and figures" to determine how much revenue would be lost if a rate reduction was approved.

"I'm not against giving a (rate) cut to the people," Little said. "But, before they pass it we need to sit down with them and talk it out."

At the July 16 city commission meeting, commissioner Lowell Parker introduced an ordinance that would lower gas rates sixty cents for the first mcf used; and fifty cents lower for each mcf used thereafter.

Yates explained to the commission that such a cut would amount to $1.25 per customer for every five mcf used.

The commission voted to go ahead with securing an option for the property and then to discuss a proposed gas cut with the city commission.

Another property acquisition discussed Thursday was the purchase of a house near the site of a new prison to be located in Wheelwright.

Commissioner Little asked utility chairman Randall Johnson how the house could have been purchased without the consent of a majority of

Woman cited for DUI in W/W wreck

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A 46-year-old Floyd County woman was charged with drunk driving in connection with a car accident involving a pregnant woman Tuesday in Wheelwright.

Lonnie S. Tackett of Wheelwright was charged with DUI, second offense within five years, after the car she was operating struck a vehicle driven by Mallie Haley, 26, of Wheelwright. Haley, who is eight and a-half months pregnant, was admitted to Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin after the accident and she was reported in good condition Thursday.

Tackett was taken to McDowell

Haynes and his wife said they were glad to return to Eastern Kentucky, even if it was only for a brief tour. (Janice Shepherd)

Tourism with a smile :

Tour groups roll into town

Floyd County rolled out the red carpet this week for two bus tours through the area.

Mystery Bus Tour, sponsored by the Miami Valley Automobile Club of Dayton, Ohio, spent Saturday and Sunday, July 18 and 19, touring sites in the county. The tour was a mystery in that the itinerary was not revealed to members of the group prior to the event.

Activities for that tour began Saturday with a reception hosted by the Holiday Inn. The highlight of the evening, though, was when members of the group attended the opening night of The Jenny Wiley Story at the Jenny Wiley Theatre.

Sunday morning, the group was given a tour of the area, arranged and directed by Fred James, executive director of the Prestonsburg Tourism Commission, and Margaret Spano, sales manager at the Holiday Inn. James, who acted as tour director, regaled the group with jokes and stories.

The first stop on the tour was the site of the Civil War Battle of Middle Creek, where Owen Wright, in full Confederate uniform, gave a short presentation on the battle.

After a tour of Prestonsburg Community College, the group went shopping at two downtown Prestonsburg stores, the Mountain Heritage Arts and Crafts Center and The Bookworm, which opened their doors Sunday to the weekend travelers. They were welcomed into Prestonsburg by a personalized greeting on the municipal billboard.

Brenda Crouch, director of the art center, gave a presentation to the group, and area craftpersons demonstrated their work. Susan Sanders, with Blue River Weaving, gave a presentation on weaving. Tom Whitaker, art instructor at Prestonsburg Community College, kept the group entertained with music, stories, and a lecture about art.

AML to do project :

Refuse pile at Manton to be filled

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

The Kentucky Division of Abandoned Lands has applied with the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet to create a fill as part of the reclamation of an abandoned coal refuse pile.

The property targeted for the fill is located approximately 1.3 miles from the intersection of Route 1210 with Route 80 on Stephens Branch near the community of Manton.

Dave Booth, a spokesman for the Division of Abandoned Lands, said Wednesday that the fill was part of a typical reclamation project.

The project entails transporting and leveling a pile of rejected rock, shale and other materials commonly referred to as "gob" that was removed from mined coal, Booth said.

Booth added that the Division of Abandoned Lands did not expect to encounter any opposition from area residents, as the material to be included in the fill existed in its natural state. However, Booth said, state agencies must follow the same per-

Special meeting set for Monday

The Floyd County Housing Authority will conduct a special board meeting Monday, July 27 at 6 p.m.

Topics discussed at the meeting will include: additional low-income housing at Mud Creek; the approval of 25 new units of Section 8 housing; and the housing authority's work in conjunction with the Big Sandy Area Development District on the Viola Bailey Senior Citizens Center.

Hero learned technique on 911 :

Woman pulled from 10-foot of water survives unharmed

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

A Floyd County woman was rescued from what may have been a watery grave Thursday evening by a man who learned his life-saving techniques from the CBS television program Rescue 911.

Tony Meade, of Meade Branch at Abbott Creek, pulled his neighbor Gail Hieronymus out of her own swimming pool and immediately began administering cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, although he had never been formally trained for the procedure.

Hieronymus had been lounging in the pool with a friend, who fell asleep while floating on a raft. When the woman awoke, Hieronymus was at the bottom of the deep end of the pool.

The woman ran to the nearby home of Eva Stacy, searching for someone who knew how to swim. Stacy contacted Meade.

By the time Meade reached Hieronymus, she had been underwater for more than five minutes, had ceased breathing and had no heartbeat.

Although Meade has been called a hero, he remains humble about the experience.

"It's just one of those things," Meade said. "It's just something that's basic instinct.... When I went up there, (Hieronymus) was laying face down in ten feet of water. The only thing I could do was pull my boots off and jump in.... I didn't really know CPR. I just did the things I saw on that show 911."

Meade attributes Hieronymus' rescue to the combination of his actions and those of the two women who brought him to her aid.

"It was a combination of a lot of people that worked together," Meade said. "I just did what I had to do."

Hieronymus was rushed to Highlands Regional Medical Center and from there air-lifted to the University of Kentucky Medical Center. Hieronymus was at first listed in critical condition. However, she regained consciousness and was released from the hospital on Monday.

Voters go to the polls August 8 :

Wet/dry election set for John Ant precinct

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Those wishing to buy alcohol in McDowell's John Ant #22 voting precinct may have to drive a little further for their beverages after a "wet/dry" election which will be held Saturday, August 8.

Nearly 140 of the precinct's registered voters signed a petition which was delivered to Floyd County Clerk Carla "Robinson" Boyd, requesting a special local option election to determine whether or not the sale of alcoholic beverages would continue to be allowed in the precinct.

The precinct has been wet since the June, 1982 election which legalized the sale of beer, wine and liquor in Floyd County.

The petition was filed June 27, and contained 137 signatures although only 58 signatures were required to qualify for the special election. Currently, there are 546 registered voters in the precinct.

Only one business in the precinct currently sells alcoholic beverages, Boyd said. Area residents who signed the petition say they are trying to stop the proposed placement of a nightclub in the precinct, although the application for that establishment has not yet been approved.

Allen-Dwale's #44 voting precinct, which had also been wet since the 1982 election, was voted dry on Saturday, July 11 by a vote of 174-68. Fewer than half of the precincts 579 registered voters cast their ballots. That election was requested following a local businessman's unsuccessful bid to operate a nightclub at New Allen.

If the John Ant precinct is voted dry in next Saturday's election, businesses that currently sell alcoholic beverages will have 90 days following the certification of the election to sell their remaining stock.

For further details, please contact Carla Boyd at 886-3816.

Spinning tourism

Carolyn Traum, owner of The Bookworm, also gave an informative presentation to the group.

Tour directors of the group, Tom and Gayle Lauderback, commented to local organizers that Prestonsburg outdid itself in hospitality and friendliness. Members of the group also said they did not realize that the area had so much to offer to a tourist.

The group plans to return next year and hopes to see the Kentucky Opry perform.

The second group, consisting of 44 residents of Virginia with All American Tours from Roanoke, came into town Wednesday, touring Jenny Wiley State Park and Jenny Wiley Theatre where The Jenny Wiley Story was playing.

Thursday morning, the group came into Prestonsburg, escorted by Margaret Spano, for some downtown shopping and were greeted by tourism director James and Chamber of Commerce director Keith Akers. James and Akers gave a brief summary on the development of Floyd County and Prestonsburg. The group expressed interest in the county, especially because some of them lived near Floyd County, Virginia.

Another part of the discussion centered on current efforts by local businesses and the Main Street Program to revitalize the downtown area of the city.

The group then toured the various shops and businesses in downtown Prestonsburg, including the arts and crafts center. As part of the special hospitality offered by Eastern Kentucky folk, several gentlemen in the group received shoe shines at Wright's Barber Shop. Buffing the shoes in the old-time style of the late Dan Goble, Gary Wright, Jim Sparks (tourism commissioner and businessman) and James performed the shoe shine with gusto.

At one point, Gary Wright, perhaps caught in the wave of enthusiasm from the group, took 20 of the tourists to the Hock Shop where he performed "Sweet Georgia Brown." After the performance, the tourists learned that Sweet Georgia Brown was a former Floyd County resident.

Tourists next made a surprise stop at May Art Gallery where Mrs. Eve May presented each of them with a print by her late husband, Russell May, of the old Prestonsburg train depot.

While en route to their next stop, Jenny Wiley State Park Lodge for a buffet luncheon, the group was entertained with a 20-minute promotional video of the Kentucky Opry. The video, with its entertaining troupe and appearance by Monroe and Elvis, brought laughter along Highway 1428, said James.

The bus tour concluded with a brief sightseeing excursion at Jenny Wiley State Park.

"This bus tour represents tourism in motion," James said. "It is imperative to our businesses, it is gratifying to tourists, and it promotes our city and county as a good place to live."

"It will be our objective to promote more visits such as this and it demonstrates the necessity for our businesses to be prepared to market themselves for the visitors and the tourists," James said.

the board. Little said he became aware of the purchase at the July 16 meeting of the Wheelwright City Commission.

"I can't find three city commissioners or three utility commissioners who agreed to purchase the house," Little told Johnson. "The minutes of the city commission meeting showed they voted to take an option on the property."

Clerk Yates told Little that buying the house was declared an emergency because a previous option on the property expired two days after the city voted to negotiate a new one. She said the city saved $10,000 by acquiring the property before a second option was negotiated.

"If the chairman agreed it was an emergency and had the powers to act, then I can't see serving on this utility commission and not have the respect we deserve," Little said. "There's no use having a utility board sitting here and letting this go on."

Commissioner Duane Oden asked who declared the situation an emergency.

Oden received no response to his question.

In other business Thursday, commissioners:

- agreed to assist Keith Smallwood in operating a Youth Service Center in Wheelwright;
- approved hiring Jones, Madden and Pack, C.P.A.s to do the annual audit;
- approved buying a truck bed for an utility truck;
- discussed that customers who have water leaks should report it to the utility office for an adjustment;
- discussed results of a smoke test performed on the sewer system and heard a recommendation from McCoy that several areas of the city will have to have sewer lines re-

- placed;
- agreed to use the services of Mineral Labs in Salyersville for water and sewer testing; and
- asked McCoy to check out a complaint that water drained from a church baptismal ran into a neighboring basement.

All commissioners were present at Tuesday's meeting and the next scheduled meeting of the commission is Tuesday, August 18 at 7 p.m. at city hall. The meetings are open to the public.

Murder

victim was a close relative of his wife.

The case took a bizarre twist when Glenda Marshall's husband, Clyde, and his half-brother McGuffey were charged along with McFarland for conspiring to murder Glenda Marshall for insurance money. Police suspected a murder-for-hire scheme to kill Marshall for the money.

Edward Wright, who was also charged, was shot to death in Tennessee on July 7, 1983.

Witnesses told police at the time of the murder that they saw an unidentified man jump from Glenda Marshall's vehicle before it plunged over Sizemore Mountain. The man was then picked up by someone driving a blue car, witnesses said.

The investigation, headed by KSP detective Danny Stumbo, led authorities to Lafayette, Tennessee where McGuffey lived. They recovered the automobile which had been repainted and investigated reports that an informant had seen some of the dead woman's jewelry that was missing.

The case was set for trial in December 1983 in Floyd County but a change of venue was granted and the trial was moved to Fayette County.

Before the case went to trial in February 1984, McFarland was granted immunity for his testimony and McGuffey had pleaded guilty to the charge.

McFarland testified that the men were hired by Clyde Marshall to kill his wife for approximately $133,000 in life insurance money.

McFarland also testified McGuffey and Wright had killed Glenda Newsome. McGuffey testified that McFarland and Wright had killed her.

Clyde Marshall testified that the three men killed his wife because a deal to acquire a bulldozer turned sour.

A Fayette County jury deliberated for about eight hours before finding Clyde Marshall not guilty of hiring the men to murder his wife.

Sheriff's activity report for June

Monthly activity by the Floyd County Sheriff's Department in June topped over 900 duties performed by employees.

A breakdown of activities is as follows:

- 181 complaints;
 - 113 traffic stops;
 - 101 citations issued;
 - 97 arrests made;
 - 10 cases opened;
 - 5 cases closed;
 - 22 criminal investigations;
 - 7 accident investigations;
 - 34 motorist assists;
 - 75 special details;
 - 293 court process papers served; and
 - 31 funeral escorts.
- The sheriff's department offers 24-hour dispatch service and can be reached by calling 886-6711 or 1-800-834-5430.

Town Branch Road repairs are planned

Additional road improvement projects in Floyd County will be underway soon, according to Don C. Kelly, secretary of the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet.

Floyd County will receive a total of $95,990 for repairs to rural secondary roads. Approximately 1.8 miles on Town Branch Road, KY 3384, will receive blacktop patching.

Blacktop resurfacing will be done on approximately 1.7 miles of KY 306, Wheelwright Road.

Projects will be funded through the Rural Secondary Program account, which is comprised of gasoline tax revenues. These funds are allocated to each Kentucky county based on population, land size and rural road mileage. The county is responsible for accomplishing the work on the bridges and approaches. All other projects will be done by an outside contracting firm and will be advertised for bids as soon as possible, Kelly said.

Firefighters save home at Abbott

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Quick action on the part of the Prestonsburg Fire Department saved a Floyd County family's home from being totally consumed by fire Tuesday evening.

Fire Chief Tom Blackburn said Wednesday that only two rooms of a home owned by Cecil Jarrell at Abbott Creek were damaged by fire.

No members of the Jarrell family were home at the time of the blaze and that there were no injuries, said Blackburn.

Authorities have not yet determined the official cause of the fire, Blackburn said.

The incident is currently under investigation by the Pikeville post of the Kentucky State Police and the state arson investigation office.

The accident happened at approximately 9:30 p.m. in the city of Wheelwright and brought traffic to a halt for almost two hours.

Wheelwright volunteer firemen responded to the scene and provided emergency first aid until Lifeline ambulances arrived to transport the injured.

Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson, deputy sergeant Lloyd Powers and deputy Shawn Roop are investigating the accident. Wheelwright city policeman Dennis Buckley also responded to the scene.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

Letters

Editor:

I have read with interest the news articles and editorials in your paper and some of the other papers around the State regarding the hiring and competence of Dr. Stephen Towler and could not help but wonder what the citizens of Floyd County must think about him. I have known Dr. Towler for over 10 years, have seen him conduct himself in matters involving my profession and matters involving his profession, have played golf with him, have gone to sporting events with him and I can tell you from first hand information that you will find him to be a warm, intelligent, competent person who is enthusiastic about educating children. It is unfortunate that Dr. Towler got caught up in the politics of the situation, but I assure you he can stand the heat. He has an imaginative, innovative mind and all who have need of his council will find a receptive and attentive individual.

I do not know what problems the Floyd County School System has had in the past, but I will make one strong prediction. Whenever Dr. Towler leaves the Floyd County System, whether it be one year or thirty years, you will find that the system is in better shape in all respects than it was when he started.

In the ten years that he was in this community he started many new and innovative programs and built over $25 million in school buildings and improvements. Still, the Hardin County System is as sound financially as any in the State.

If you give him half a chance, I predict that the next editorial you write about him will recognize that his talents are going to greatly enhance the educational climate for the children of Floyd County. That is a goal that everyone should share.

Lone voice cries for handgun control

By Leonard Larsen
Scripps Howard News Service

WASHINGTON—One member of the Senate, alone among all the 535 members of the full Congress, is calling for an end to America's cruel and senseless slaughter with passage of a strong federal law outlawing handguns.

In a Washington atmosphere in which amateur and professional gun nuts and their lobbyists routinely kill any proposals for "gun control," Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., has a startling plan.

He would disarm most Americans, buy their handguns or confiscate them from unwilling owners, levying fines and jail terms for violators. He would impose tight restrictions on the manufacture of handguns, their import and export, and he would require federal restraints on all future sales.

Chafee's legislation not only departs from typically weak gun-control bills that languish in a Congress where members pretend surprise or choose to ignore America's gun violence.

It's also a step to catch up with the American public which for years has called for effective congressional action to stop an endless flood of handguns and the tragic cost in human life.

That shameful traffic in deadly weapons kills hundreds of thousands of Americans every decade: men, women and children, regularly sacrificed by an almost unrestricted availability of handguns.

"I hear people say it's a radical proposal," Chafee said of his proposed legislation. "I think to have the current situation is what is radical." The violent American toll—about 23,000 killed annually by handguns and tens of thousands of victims wounded and maimed—is unmatched anywhere in the world. Other statistics, Chafee says, are similarly arresting.

There are an estimated 66 million handguns in the United States, Chafee says, and the overall cost to government in caring for victims of firearm violence is estimated at $4 billion a year.

Prospects are obviously weak for passage of Chafee's bill. Congress—and members are the first to confess it—is historically manipulated by bankrolled gun lobbyists who use campaign cash, threats of campaign retaliation and sometimes both.

More important than any quick chance of enactment might be Chafee's introduction of the "radical" idea—just the idea itself—that handguns can be outlawed and the nation can be at least partially disarmed.

With supervision over manufacture, imports and exports, the Chafee bill would restrict ownership of handguns to law enforcement officers and security personnel. Sales would be licensed by federal authorities and permits would be issued to certified dealers in guns, antique guns and sporting clubs.

The boldness of Chafee's handgun law—the disarming of a nation raised on bogus tales of cowboy shootouts and avenging gunslings—brought reactions that could have been expected.

A lobbyist for the National Rifle Association was disdainful, observing that "we don't consider it to be a serious proposal." And Chafee's prospective allies in the gun-control lobby were cautious, favoring smaller steps toward eventual gun control.

Polls reveal Americans support strong handgun controls, but few Americans seem angry enough to actively protest the steady tide of handgun violence. And most victims remain only statistics.

Statistics in another cause make useful comparison. After years of protest and media-saturated demands on government, AIDS activists have made the nation and Congress acutely aware of the AIDS epidemic, sympathetic to its victims and intent that the dying be stopped.

It's estimated some $2 billion in federal funds are now spent annually on AIDS research and care. It's believed that AIDS prevention and cure are possible, that the epidemic some day will be stopped by continuing public action and concern.

In 1990, as reported by the Department of Health and Human Services, 27,311 Americans died of AIDS in the epidemic whose cause and cure have become top national priorities.

And 23,000 Americans were killed in 1990 by handguns—in homicides, suicides and accidents—while Congress and the White House looked on as if handgun killings were inevitable, a violent harvest that comes year after year.

Mom, Pop don't own rights to success

By Kenneth Eskey
Scripps Howard News Service

One of the enduring myths of American life is that young people won't be able to live as well as their parents. Good jobs are disappearing, we're told. As a result, the middle class is said to be shrinking. Only the rich are having fun.

There is, to be sure, a grain of truth in this scenario. High-paying jobs for unskilled workers are mostly gone. The poorly-educated young man who expects to go to work in a factory—"just like my old man did"—is likely to end up at McDonald's instead.

Many are finding that being middle class isn't so easy anymore.

Surveys by the Census Bureau show that the proportion of Americans with middle-range incomes fell from 71 percent in 1969 to 63 percent in 1989. Of the missing 8 percent, 4 percent had moved up the economic ladder and 4 percent had moved down.

Moving up the ladder were two-income professionals, many of them in executive and managerial jobs. Moving down were one-parent families, many with no wage-earner at all.

It's obvious that family incomes have become more unequal in the past 20 years. But not all young people are wallowing in poverty while their parents cruise the Caribbean. Those with a skill to sell, and a working mate, are doing surprisingly well.

Many already are living better than they did while growing up, despite all the talk about downward mobility.

Nearly 65 percent of Americans say they live better now than they did as a child. Sixty-nine percent of the men and 76 percent of the women say they have greater opportunities. More than half think their children will live better than they do, according to a survey of 5,000 households by the Conference Board in New York.

"Reports about the death of the American dream are misguided," says Fabian Linden, who directed the survey. He points out that:

- The average income of married couples between 25 and 35 is roughly 40 percent higher (after inflation) than their parents' income at the same age.

- At age 35, one woman in four has a college degree. That compares with one in 10 during their mothers' generation.

- Nearly one-third of all men have a college degree at age 35. That compares with one in six during their fathers' generation.

What's happening is that lawyers are marrying lawyers, teachers are marrying teachers, journalists are marrying journalists, engineers are marrying accountants and their combined incomes quite often are in the $50,000-to-$100,000 bracket, sometimes much higher.

The businessman who caught the bus each morning while the little woman stayed home with the children is no longer typical. Blondie has her own catering business. Or she's in public relations. Or she's selling real estate.

This merging of incomes widens the gap between the haves and the have-nots, many of whom are single mothers, displaced factory hands or low-income service workers in dead-end jobs.

Lifting the bottom 20 percent will take more educational ingenuity that we've shown so far.

There are some rough spots in two-career families with high-income parents. Who takes care of the children? Who does the shopping and the cleaning? Who has time for the PTA?

But the notion that couples in their 20s, 30s and 40s never will be as affluent as Mom and Dad is far too simplistic. A lot depends on what skills they have, and how hard they're willing to work.

New laws make it easier to establish paternity for child support collection

Establishing paternity is critical to ensure that children receive the financial help they deserve from their non-custodial fathers. Now, a pair of laws enacted by the 1992 Kentucky General Assembly are expected to make it easier, faster and cheaper to get paternity established in child support cases.

Beginning July 15, Kentucky courts may issue summary judgments in paternity cases in which the statistical probability of fatherhood, based on genetic testing, equals or exceeds 99 percent.

In other words, when genetic tests indicate a 99 percent or greater probability that a man is the father of a certain child, there is a rebuttable presumption of paternity. If the presumption of paternity is not contested, the courts can enter a summary judgment of paternity, allowing for the establishment of a child support order.

Also under the same new law, rebuttable presumption shifts the burden of proof of paternity from the mother to the alleged father. This means that now an alleged dad has to prove he is not the father if genetic tests indicate that he is the father.

"This law is designed to reduce costs in the child support enforcement process by reducing the necessity of many cases going to trial, and the cost involved for expert witnesses and time spent by the parties involved," said Mike Robinson, commissioner of the Department for Social Insurance, the umbrella agency that covers the Division of Child Support Enforcement.

Another new law, House Bill 637, allows hospitals to get affidavits of paternity in out-of-wedlock births.

For every signed affidavit, hospitals will receive $10.

"There is no better time to get paternity established than when the baby is born. There are a lot of 'proud fathers' in hospitals who, at that moment, want to support the child," said Robinson.

"Hospitals must complete birth certificates anyway. And with a little extra effort by the hospital staff, affidavits can be obtained and sent to local county attorneys for child support obligations to be ordered."

Another reason Kentucky is concentrating on determining paternity is that, under the 1988 Family Support Act, Congress set up certain performance criteria regarding paternity in child support cases.

Under the performance criteria, a state's paternity ratio—the total number of paternity cases versus number of paternities established—must equal 50 percent; or paternity establishments must equal the national average; or states must see a yearly three percent gain in paternity establishments over fiscal year 1988's number of establishments.

In Kentucky, between 1988 and 1991, the paternity ratio increased from 30 percent to 42 percent. In federal fiscal year 1991, fatherhood was determined in 6,816 cases.

The division also operates a Paternity Incentive Program in which county attorneys are paid for every paternity determination.

"If we don't know who the father of a child is, we can't collect child support for that child," said Maxine Stricker, director of the child support division. "The incentive program tells our contracting officials that paternity establishment is a priority."

The cast of Flowers for Algernon

PCC actors to present Flowers for Algernon

PCC's Summer Players will present the play Flowers for Algernon by David Rogers in the Pike Auditorium at the college on Friday, July 24 and Saturday, July 25 at 7:30 p.m. Admission will be free.

Featured in the play will be Ryan Briggs of Hager Hill, who plays Charlie Gordon, a retarded man who becomes a genius as a result of a brain operation. Supporting cast members include Helen Schul and Sinae Risner, both of Prestonsburg, who will portray Alice Kinnian, Charlie's teacher, on alternate nights. Also in the cast are Mark Vanderpool, Alice Adams, and Sherry Waddles, all of Prestonsburg.

To begin the program the players will present two skits by Harold Pinter and a scene from Tennessee Williams' 'The Glass Menagerie'. The skits include the witty dialogue that Pinter and Williams are noted for. One, entitled 'Applicant,' is about a young man who applies for a job and is put through a series of harrowing tests. According to Alice Adams, faculty sponsor, the program should appeal to all ages, and the play's story may be recalled by those who have read the novel Flowers for Algernon, by Daniel Keyes, or seen the 1968 movie Charly, with Cliff Robertson.

In Memory of Lester Green

(August 1, 1918 - July 23, 1991)

Lester, it's been a year since God called you home and left me all alone. But you'd been sick so long and suffered so much, I knew you wanted to go join Dora, your first wife of many years, your Mom, Louise, and your son, Jim—where you'd have no more pain. We had a wonderful marriage of 18 years, 4 months together but the days and nights are so lonely without you. Little Kathy said it best, that Jesus needed Grandpa Lester to raise a garden and catch fish, so all the angels would have something good to eat.

New law assists Kentuckians with disabilities to live independently

Kentuckians with disabilities can now receive support services which will allow them to live independently or to continue to live with their family and also be assured that those services will be quality ones.

House Bill 447—The Supported Living Bill—allows for flexible services to persons with disabilities and their families to enable the person to live independently and be integrated into the community.

"The glory of this new law is its flexibility; various services that individuals need in order for them to live in the place of their choice can now be available," said Dennis Boyd, commissioner of the Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services.

"For instance, many persons with disabilities can live alone or with their family if they have personal care services or if their home is modified to fit a wheelchair or if transportation is provided," said Boyd. "This legislation will allow money to be spent in areas that enable a disabled person to live alone or with up to two other people."

The General Assembly provided $500,000 during the first year of the biennium and $1 million the second year to implement the new law.

The legislation also establishes a State Supported Living Council which will set up standards to assure quality of services to Kentuckians with disabilities.

"Not only will this population receive medical support but the services rendered will be caliber services that empower the person to exercise choice and improve the quality of life," said Boyd.

"By choice, I mean these individuals, along with their family members and the state council, will play a major role in deciding what support services they receive and where they live and with whom," he said.

Doug Riddell of the Division of Mental Retardation said supported living is a lifesaver.

"Parents of people with disabilities want their offspring to find a safe place to live, especially as the parents get older. They want their children to remain or become a real part of a community, to have a real chance of being like everyone else and supported living is a way to do just that.

"It's important to point out that this financial support cannot assist any housing situation which isolates people with disabilities from the general public or groups more than three people with disabilities in a single residence.

"The goal is to integrate persons with disabilities into the community and enhance the individual's skills in living on his or her own or with their families," said Riddell.

The state already provides residential-related services for Kentuckians with disabilities such as daily and periodic supervision, group homes and in-home support services like personal care and training in social and self-help skills. Supported living services will pick up where these services leave off.

"Money appropriated for supported living will pay for services that cannot be gotten through other programs," said Riddell. "We are excited to be able to offer such assistance.

"Kentuckians with disabilities have the same right to live independently as Kentuckians without disabilities."

Adah Chapter to have initiation

Adah Chapter #24, Order of the Eastern Star, will have an initiation on Monday, July 27, at the lodge hall with dinner at 6:30.

All members are asked to bring a salad or dish of their choice. The worthy matron, Nell Hebner, will furnish the sandwiches.

TALK TO US

GROWLING PARENTS MAKE HOME UNBEARABLE

FROM 15 YEAR OLD MALE: My father and stepmother are about to get divorced. But they take all their anger out on me. They won't go to counseling. I just stay in my room. I can't stand their complaints about my room, my clothes, my hair. I'll just dig a hole in my room and read.

STUDENT PANELISTS FROM RAYTOWN HIGH SCHOOL, RAYTOWN, Mo.: First of all, you need to know it's not your fault and you shouldn't blame yourself.

Communication is the key. Talk to your parents and give them a chance; they're probably willing to listen. If that's not the way you want to go, try writing your thoughts on paper.

Second, you might try going to counseling by yourself and maybe the counselor can encourage your parents to go get counseling, too. If your problem still isn't getting any better, get a hobby and spend more time with your friends and less time in your home yourself. Give it time and your problem may heal itself.

PAT AND DAVID: Hibernating in your bedroom may offer some immediate peace and quiet. But it won't make the problems go away. And while we don't think you have to cave in to your parents' complaints, a cleaner room, different clothes, or a change of hairstyle might just calm some things down. They're all within your control if you want to do them. (That doesn't make you responsible for eliminating their anger or saving their marriage. Those are their problems.)

Even though your father and stepmother won't go for counseling, we recommend that you go and explain what's going on with you as a result of all the anger and tension at home. If you don't know a counselor, call your local community or county mental health center. They'll help you.

*** *** ***

FROM A "WONDERING TEEN": I'm 16 and shy. I just started a new summer job — my first ever. There's this guy there who I really like. He's almost two years older than shy, too. I've never had a boyfriend, but I'd like to. How do I approach him? How do I let him know that I'm interested? This may sound like a dumb question, but it's something I really need help with. I hope you can help me, please!

PAT AND DAVID: You want to meet him? Go up and introduce yourself. (Ask him how long he's been working there and if he likes his job.)

You'll probably be able to tell by what he says if you'd like to talk more with him and if he has any interest in talking to you. Does he ask anything about you? Where you go to school? What your job is? Over the next few days, see how he responds to you. Does he seem willing to talk?

Remember, you've said he's shy, so don't expect volumes of conversation right away.

On the other hand, if he shows no interest in the first conversation and ignores or avoids you in the future, look elsewhere.

(Send comments, questions and requests to be part of a high school panel to PAT AND DAVID, c/o Universal Press Syndicate, 4900 Main St., Kansas City, Mo. 64112.)

International club
Joe Bolton received a flag from a Rotary Club representative during his recent trip to Denmark.

Joe Bolton visits exchange students

by Beth Jones
Contributing Writer

Joe Bolton of Prestonsburg has been involved with the American Intercultural Student Exchange since 1989 when he saw a television advertisement and decided to call the organization.

The state coordinator of AISE, Betsy White, contacted him. Soon after, a student from Sweden, Magnus Edin, came to live with Bolton for the 1989-90 school year.

Also in 1989, Bolton became the area representative for the AISE. His job was to interview prospective families from this area who were interested in becoming host families. After the initial interview, he would send the prospects a choice of applicants from different parts of the world. After a student was selected, it was the representative's job to set up the meeting of the student with their host family.

Bolton also was responsible for area students who wanted to be in an exchange. Only one student, Delbert Goines, from Allen Central High School took part in the program. In 1990, he spent the summer in Sweden.

Bolton develops a close family relationship with these students and this summer, June 4-17, Bolton went to Europe to see two of them: Magnus Edin and a student, Tonya, who had stayed in Pike County.

During his trip, Bolton visited the countries of Sweden, Denmark, Norway, and Germany. "It was a very good trip," said Bolton, "I was able to meet the parents of the children. I got to be a part of a family who had once been a part of my family."

Bolton encourages Floyd County families to participate in the foreign student exchange program, and anyone who is interested in becoming a host family for an exchange student for the the 1993-94 school year is urged to call him at 886-2574.

Bolton is also actively involved with the United Methodist Church. Early this year, he went on a volunteer mission to Belize City, Belize, in Central America. Accompanied by Norcie Jervis, he traveled with a group from Paintsville. The group went to help build a school that can hold 350 children.

"The current school they have is falling down," Bolton said. "It's made of wood and tin. The new one we're building is made of concrete block."

In addition to the school, a library, administration building and new lavatories are also being built. Bolton said he hopes to go back to Belize to help finish the project, the John Wesley Upper School.

The people of that area are appreciative of the help they have been given, said Bolton. In their country, the government pays only to supply teachers. Religious groups and others must furnish facilities for the students to be taught. The volunteer work being done in countries such as Belize helps to increase the church's numbers, as well, Bolton said.

Anyone interested in volunteering to go on a mission should call the United Methodist Church at (704) 452-2881.

In addition to his work with foreign students and his mission in the church, Bolton is involved with various other civic and volunteer organizations, including the Jaycees and the Rotary Club. He also enjoys working in the theatre and this summer, he is in his second season at the Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre in the production Big River.

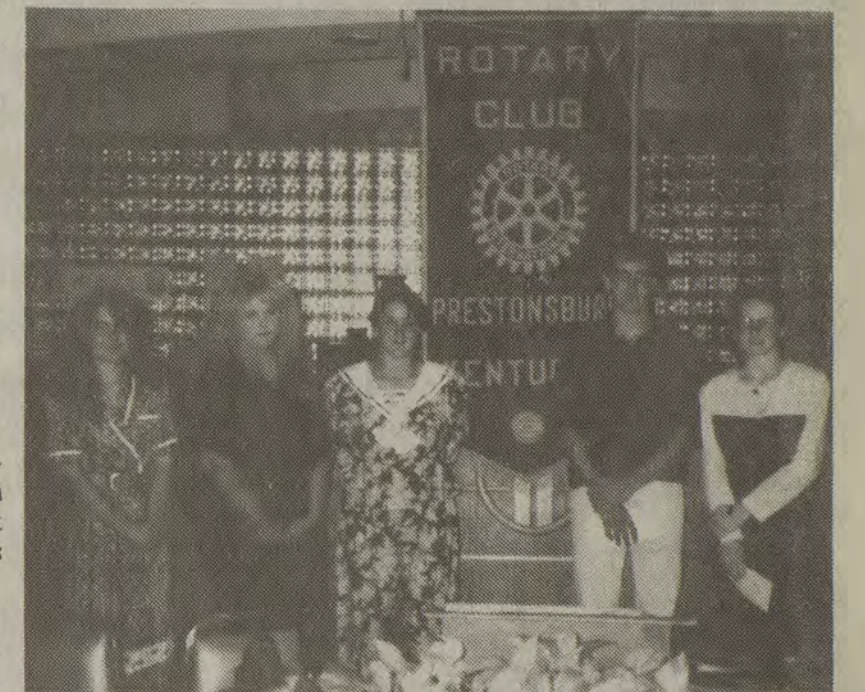

Local Rotary Club holds Scholarship Luncheon

The Prestonsburg Rotary Club recently held their annual Scholarship Luncheon to honor students from all five high schools in the county. For the first time, the Rotary Club also honored a student from the Floyd County Technical School and made a donation to support the students attending the David School. Besides honoring the students, the Rotary also invited and recognized their parents and special teacher who helped their educational process. The Rotary Scholarship Committee was comprised of Veronica Miller, Mike Dale, and Mike Vance.

The Committee required all applicants to have maintained a 3.5 grade average throughout high school, evidence of need, shown community spirit and service and authored an essay on "Service above self" (Rotary slogan) and what it means. A recommendation letter from an educational professional was also required.

Scholarship recipients were Kimberly Akers of Betsy Layne High School, Cathy Allen of Allen Central High School, Rebecca Allen of Wheelwright High School, Tim Frazier of McDowell High School, Belinda Ousley of Floyd County Technical High School and Carter Hamilton Jr. of Prestonsburg High School.

Scholarships
Recently, school representatives at the annual Prestonsburg Rotary Scholarship Luncheon, representing all five county high schools and Floyd County Technical School, were awarded partial scholarships. Pictured from left are Kimberly Akers, Cathy Allen, Rebecca Allen, Tim Frazier and Belinda Ousley.

Rotary scholarship luncheon
The month of June marked the annual Prestonsburg Rotary Scholarship Luncheon. For the first time, the Rotary Club also recognized the work and the needs of the students at the David School. The Prestonsburg Rotary made a special gift, accepted by Marty Green, counselor for the David School. Also on hand was Veronica Miller and Mike Vance of the Scholarship Committee.

Attention college-bound youth

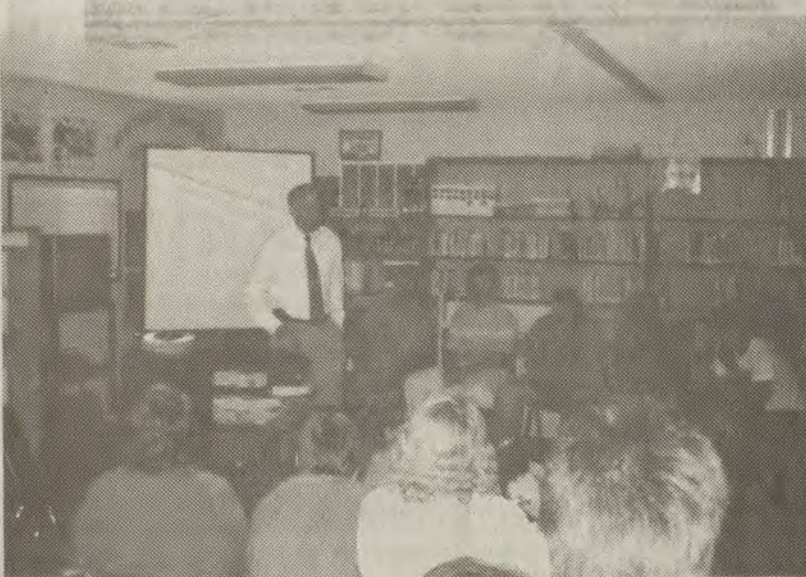

Four years ago the Kentucky Council on Higher Education created the Pre-College Curriculum for high school students in order to better prepare them for college work. Under this plan, eleven courses were selected as a Pre-College curriculum. They included four years of high school English, Algebra I or Algebra II, Geometry, and Math Elective, two science courses (with at least one that included laboratory work), World Civilization, and U.S. History. All degree-seeking students under 25 years of age enrolling in a state-supported college or community college are subject to the Pre-College Curriculum requirements beginning with the fall term 1992. All degree-seeking students will be assessed as to their status upon admission.

New college freshman who have not satisfied the required courses in high school or who have not satisfied the Pre-College Curriculum through required test scores on the ACT, ASSET, CPP, GED, or SAT will be assessed as having difficulties. These deficiencies must be removed prior to earning 24 college degree credit hours. Prestonsburg Community College has developed a comprehensive program designed to aid students who have not met the Pre-College Curriculum requirements. New freshman will be tested in both English and Math so that they will be placed in classes based upon their level of skill. Under this program, students will make-up deficiencies for classes they should have taken in high school. They will be given the best opportunity to succeed in their courses of study.

Students will also be guided into appropriate sciences and social courses. However, students remediating deficiencies in these two areas will receive college credit for their work.

The Pre-College Curriculum is an essential part of educational reform in Kentucky. If students are to succeed in college, they must first have a strong grasp of the fundamentals. Kentucky's youth will not only be more successful in institutions of higher learning, they will also be more successful in the world of business and industry.

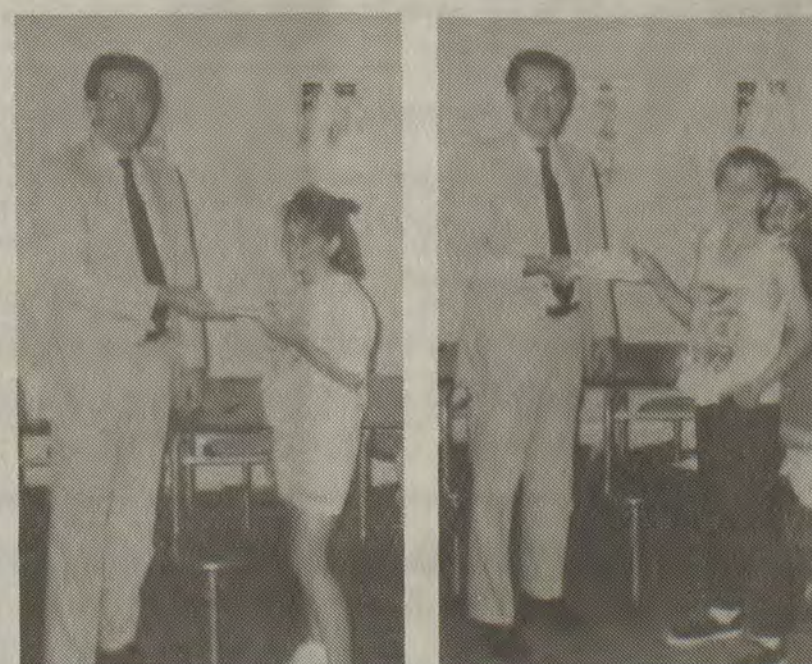

"Hug-A-Tree"

David Chaffins, director of Area 9 Disaster Emergency Service, is shown talking to students at Prater Elementary and telling them what to do if they became lost in the woods while conducting his program entitled, "Hug-A-Tree."

Best foot forward

Putting not only their best foot forward but also their physical abilities, were three students at Auxler Elementary. Two eighth grade students, B.J. Ousley and Shayne Hall, and one primary student, Arlinda Craft, recently demonstrated to their peers that they were not to be outdone in some tough physical competition. All three won National Champions Physical Fitness Awards at Auxler.

Knott family accused of theft on Sally Jessy Raphael Show

A Knott County wedding party, three of whom were arrested in Prestonsburg on March 14 for shoplifting the wedding apparel, barely escaped facing additional charges of theft during a telecast of the Sally Jessy Raphael Show, after a hairdresser was reported missing and a bar tab was unpaid at a New York Hotel.

Four members of the wedding entourage — bride Jeannie Jacobs Fouts, her husband Danny, her sister Betty Jo Thomas, and cousin Bobby Roberts — appeared on the nationally televised talk show July 16 to air grievances about the Prestonsburg arrest, but most of what they said was bleeped out by the censors.

Fouts and Thomas proclaimed their innocence in the shoplifting wedding spree and, with Danny Fouts, accused Roberts of the theft. Roberts told the show's studio audience that he did not steal the clothes, but that Jeannie stole the wedding dress and Bobby "took the top" (the jacket to the dress.)

Verbal warfare ensued between the families and most of the exchange was bleeped out by censors. Accusations were hurled across the stage, including charges against Bobby Roberts in Knott County for engaging in a paperwad fight that allegedly led to a school bus accident.

Apparently Raphael added fuel to the fire, asking: "Paper wadding, going to jail ... Do you think he (Bobby) wanted to take you all to jail with him?"

Near the end of the show, Raphael received the fax reporting a missing hairdresser and an unpaid bar tab from the Ramada Renaissance Hotel where the Fouts and Jacobs stayed. Raphael asked the Fouts family if the missing hairdresser was in their suitcase. They denied taking the dryer, but during a commercial break, the hairdresser was found in the Fouts's luggage.

Danny Fouts said he had packed the suitcase, and he thought the hair dryer was Betty's. "They already had Betty's in there. I put it in there. That was my fault."

"Well, I don't know what they do in Kentucky, but in New York, this is trouble," Raphael said.

The hairdresser was returned to the hotel, and no charges were pressed, said a spokesperson for the Sally Jessy Raphael Show. Guests are not paid for their appearance on the show, but the show picks up travel expenses for their guests and will see that the hotel is paid for the bar tab, she said.

When asked if the group had been set up, the spokesperson said: "We don't do that. We've been on the air for 10 years and we wouldn't be if we did that."

Owsley family reunion, 1992

by Laura Gayheart

The 29th annual Isaac N. and Millie J. Owsley family reunion was held Saturday, June 22, at Miamisburg Mound Park, in Miamisburg, Ohio. There were eighty family members and sixteen guests present. The Owsleys formerly resided in Estill, and their gravesites are in the DeRossett cemetery near Estill.

The reunion was opened with prayer and blessing by Dencil Owsley. After the buffet style meal was enjoyed, (perhaps a second or third time by some!) a business meeting was called to order by the president, David Pennington of Columbus, Ohio. The minutes from 1991 were read by the secretary, who shared a poster of Dietzenbach, West Germany, and correspondence from honorary family member, Oliver Shein, who lives in Dietzenbach, and was a 1989 foreign exchange student who stayed with Owsley family members in Ohio.

The 1992 reunion was announced in "The Owsley Outreach", the family newsletter that was first published in 1991. The April 1992 issue highlighted the eldest son of Isaac and Millie Jane; James Lee Owsley. The editor traced Jim Owsley's homesites, from the first in Spradlin Branch upon his marriage to Susan Music, to the last homesite in Garrett at the time of his death in 1965. The newsletter also included other family tidbits, along with a family t-shirt order form and family information form.

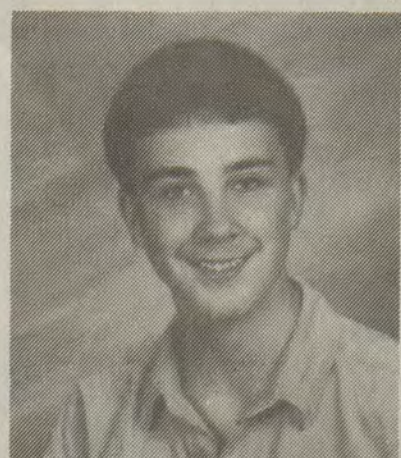

During the business meeting, the editor, Margaret Edwards, explained that, to continue the newsletter, family info needs to be sent to her. This info can include; family history, fun or interesting facts of family, accomplishments, etc. Margaret also noted, family members who wish to have a 1993 Owsley reunion t-shirt must be aware that the printing company requires a minimum order of three dozen shirts, one dozen of any given size, so be sure to fill out order forms on back of each newsletter and send them in early. Family info or t-shirt orders can be sent to: Margaret Edwards, 7548 Hinkle Rd., Middletown, Ohio, 45042.

A date for the 1993 reunion was set for Saturday, June 19. A suggestion was made to hold this 30th annual reunion at Jennv Wiley State Park in Prestonsburg. The first reunion was held there in 1964, along with six others, and there are many fond memories of those times. However, the majority of attending members voted to hold the 1993 reunion at Deer Creek State Park, which is approximately 25 miles south of Columbus, near Mount Sterling, Ohio. Directions for Deer Creek will be included in next spring's newsletter. For camping info, lodge or cabin reservations and prices, call 1-800-AT-A-PARK (1-800-282-7275).

The president for 1992-93 is Gary VanHoose of Lexington. The vice-president is David Pennington of Columbus, Ohio, and the secretary remains Laurie Gayheart of Washington Courthouse, Ohio. Silver dollars for this year's reunion were donated by Tim and Terri Brubaker, of Wellington, Ohio. Receiving the silver dollars this year were: Martha Owsley, of Marion, Indiana for the eldest member present, at 89 years young; Matthew Edwards, son of Jim and Debbie Edwards, of Middletown, Ohio, youngest member present, at six months old; Kevin and Myong Sun Jones, Holliman AFB, New Mexico, for traveling the farthest; and Martha Owsley, of Indiana, for having the most family members present.

Those in attendance this year were, from Kentucky: Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Owsley, of Ashland; Jeff and Brenda Cole and Jaime, of Pikeville; Gary VanHoose and Lara, of Lexington. OHIO: David and Karen Sikora, Jeff and Greg; Jerry and Lois Sikora and Stephen; Tim and Terri Brubaker; Paul and Wonda Sheffield; Marsa Skinner, Samantha and Adam; all of Wellington; Tim and Laurie Gayheart, Wendell, Travis and Jessie, of Washington Court House; David Pennington and Christopher, of Columbus; Ella Rose Lafferty; Richard and Barb Owsley, Julie and Danny; Wendell and Rhonda Beculheimer, Andy, Katrina and Laurie; Kenny and Pam Lafferty, John and Jennifer; Mr. and Mrs. Dencil Owsley; all of Franklin; Rodney and Sandy Lafferty, and Zachary; Jim and Debbie Edwards, Michael and Matthew; Cecil and Margaret Edwards; all of Middletown; Bruce and Ruth Edwards, and Jessica, of Sullivan; Ron and Pam Temple, Tonya, Shane and Megan, of Carlisle. INDIANA: Lloyd and Micki Bradshaw, and Briana, of Matthews; Donald and Debbie Owsley, of Hartford; Harold and Ruby Jones; Martha Owsley; Carolyn Graves; Earl Owsley; and Billy James Owsley, all of Marion; Susan Owsley, of Gas City; Mark Owsley, of Sweetser. MICHIGAN: Jerry Owsley Jr.; Donna Alanez, both of Oscoda. COLORADO: Bill and Dottie VanHoose, of Thorton. NEW MEXICO: Kevin and Myong Sun Jones, Holliman AFB. Guests from OHIO: Raymond and Rebecca Lester; Lucille Barker; all of Middletown; Linda Hoerner; Cindy Willis; Donna Riggsby; Virginia Sizemore, all of Franklin; Lushelle Smith, of Carlisle. INDIANA: Valena Oliver, of Marion; Beverly Young, of Gas City; Tracy Biggs, of Sweetser. KENTUCKY: Mary Young, of Lexington; Jim and Lori VanHoose, of Mt. Vernon. MICHIGAN: Vern and Mary Smith.

ALL MY CHILDREN: Charlie Brent returned to Pine Valley. Helga pondered about when she could tell Dimitri and Edmund they're brothers. Angelique told Brooke about Edmund's tragic childhood. Edmund got Brooke to admit she feared making commitments. She agreed, and then accepted his marriage proposal. A mysterious man placed a call to Galen, who later panicked when Trevor told her he'd seen her photo in the paper. Galen confided to Stephen about her violent former husband, Carter Jones, who had been sent to prison. Meanwhile, Jones appeared in Pine Valley and got a job at Tempo. Wait To See: Brooke begins having doubts about committing to Edmund.

ANOTHER WORLD: Vicky was shocked when a bitter and confused Ryan refused to renew their relationship. Iris got Spencer to say something about Justine, but he refused to discuss her death. Sally showed something to Lucas that could incriminate Rick, and then she burned it. During a meeting with the interns, Jamie denied that his special relationship with Kelsey influenced his professional judgment. Carl vowed he'll use Vicky's son, if need be, to get his son (Ryan) back. During an argument with Lorna at dockside, Felicia, who can't swim, fell into the water. Wait To See: Jamie is drawn into a new and dangerous situation.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Holden was stunned when he overheard Lucinda refer to him as Aaron's father. Tess called the National Runaway Switchboard and gave them a description of Rosanna. While Darryl agonized over whether to tell Frannie that he's Jennifer's father, Frannie confided her anxieties about Darryl to Dr. Michaels. Lily told a meddling Lucinda to butt out of her life. Meanwhile, Holden wondered if he could ever pick up the pieces with Lily again. Wait To See: Frannie's doubts about Darryl grow stronger.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: A jealous Macy confronted Karen and Thorne. Felicia was touched by Zach's gift of his mother's earring. Jack visited Taylor (his daughter) who was pleased to see him. Returning home, Jack encountered Zach (his son), who accused him of messing up their lives. Later, Taylor saw Felicia's earring (her mother's) and was told Zach had given it to her. Sheila arranged for Judy to be injured so she (Sheila) can take over caring for little Eric. When Judy refused hospitalization, Sheila left, vowing she's not through with her yet. Kristen couldn't make Clarke accept the fact that he's out of Sally's company. Wait To See: Brooke unknowingly faces danger.

ONE BAD APPLE DON'T SPOIL THE WHOLE DANG
BUNCH

Here we go again.

A couple of months ago, an Eastern Kentucky family appeared on Geraldo's show. Their claim to fame? Products of incest. This past week, four more Eastern Kentuckians were catapulted into national prominence when they appeared on Sally Jesse Raphael's program for shoplifting items for a wedding.

Okay. As far as I know, shoplifting is a crime even in New York so why didn't they use local shoplifters instead of recruiting outsiders? Eastern Kentucky doesn't have a monopoly on shoplifting. I've watched television programs featuring shoplifters from as far away as California; and from that highly literate state of New York where a walk in Central Park can rob you of your right to live.

Like the majority of Eastern Kentuckians who witnessed the events that occurred on Sally's program, I was appalled at the language that was used though I wasn't surprised...that language has been spoken in the movies for years. And I wasn't surprised by the audience's and Sally's condescending reaction either.

Despite what she might say to the contrary, it appeared that Sally did everything in her power to make the group look as backward and ignorant as possible; she succeeded. Now I ask you: if these people were going on national television wouldn't they have wanted to look their best? Of course they would. And if they had been proficient shoplifters, they could have rounded up a better wardrobe.

Instead of bringing on professional shoplifters who lift dentures from closed mouths, Sally brings in a bunch of kids who bungled their first attempt at crime. Whoever's in charge of scheduling people for Sally's program was hard up for entertainment the day they called these people to fill the slot.

What upsets me most about the program is that while Sally pretends to hate racism and bigotry, she reinforced the perceptions of Eastern Kentuckians as bare-footed, pregnant, ignorant hillbillies. What she allowed to happen on her show was every inch as ethnic and racist as an Amos and Andy Show. For all America to see, Sally had four Eastern Kentuckians on her show who went at one another full force with no interference from the staff. Instead they let the group "have at it" so to speak. If chairs had flown and guns been pulled, Sally would have looked at it as a chance to enhance her ratings.

I wish I didn't believe that, but I do. I also believe that if I asked the group they would tell me that they were advised to wear T-shirts and

by Beth Jones
Contributing writer

For the past three years, the Betsy Layne Senior Citizens have been working on a fundraising project. The objective is to build a low-rent housing project for senior citizens and disabled people on the lot adjoining the center. Their goal is to raise $30,000.

On Tuesday, July 21, the senior citizens sponsored a spaghetti dinner and concert. The entertainment was provided by the Kentucky Opry Junior Pros, the Bottom of the Barrel Band and Marlow Tackett and Music Company. All three acts provided their services free of charge and the Betsy Layne Senior Citizens were very thankful. A member of the fundraising committee, Lea Bell Rice, said, "We're just so happy with the crowd that came out tonight. This is the biggest crowd we've had so far."

"We can always count on Dr. Holbrook, Billie Jean and Marlow to help us out. They're just good people."

Truth, Justice and the American Way

by Geoff Belcher, staff writer

There ain't no cure for the summertime blues.

-Eddie Cochran, Summertime Blues

Sam Cooke, Eddie Cochran and even the Fresh Prince of Bel Air have sung about it.

Summertime. That time when a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of bikinis.

Everybody and his brother's sister's cousin's former college roommate are heading to the beach right now as I stand with my nose pressed to the window like the family dog, wishing I could go too.

But nooooooo. I had to get a job.

If I'd stayed unemployed just a couple more months, I could've gone to Myrtle Beach. To finance the trip, I'd just take pen and paper, walk into the bank and watch people dive to the floor, screaming, "Look out! He's got a note."

Okay, I did go on a honeymoon just a couple of months ago, to the quaint little hamlet of Tourist Trapp, also known as Gatlinburg, Tennessee, but we only got to stay two days and ended up spending enough money to feed and clothe every one of those third-world Sally Struthers children for the next ten years.

I don't feel too bad about it, though.

We had a great time, I got to see the Batmobile and Sally looks like she could stand to take a porkchop out of her mouth every once in a while and give one to little Hadji instead of just standing there doing her Tammy Faye Baker imitation (I think the mascara flooding down her face may just be what's polluting the water down there).

Still, two days is just a tease. By the time you've recovered from the drive down, it's time to turn around and come back to reality.

To make it a real vacation, you have to go far, far away from home (so you don't have to listen to all your friends laugh about all the fool things you did), stay for at least a week, and get a really bad sunburn while you're wearing sunglasses so that when you take them off you look like a red raccoon.

I haven't been on a real vacation since my high school senior trip to Florida, when I had more hair on my head than on my back.

Of course, the last time I went was fun but it had its drawbacks.

First of all, it was the middle of March, so the bikinis were covered up and my brief half-second sprint into the ocean left me feeling somewhat like an eskimo pie and my teeth chattered until all my fillings fell out.

Add to that the fact that, the day before we made it to the beach, we stopped off at Disney World and I, being the intelligent being that I am, decided to play tag in Injun Joe's Cave with some of my friends and inadvertently dived head first into what I thought was a tunnel but was really a very dark, very hard, concrete wall. My head swelled up like a rat on D-Con and within minutes I bore a striking resemblance to the elephant man.

Then I got lost and spent the rest of the day wandering around Disney World trying to find the rest of my group, telling people no, I was not wearing a Dumbo mask, I had merely been in a horribly disfiguring accident, and wishing they'd turn that stupid song off. To this day, when I hear "It's a Small World After All," I immediately go into spasms.

Before that week of fun-filled frolic, my last trip had been the week I turned 13 years old, at the peak of hormonal imbalance, whining to my parents the whole time that: no, I did not want to go walk on the stupid beach at 7 a.m.; I was a teenager and should be allowed to go off by myself in a strange city where every freak in the industrialized world had congregated to offer little kids rides in their big shiny cars; and that my life was a gaping black pit of misery and despair and nobody understood me.

For some odd reason, my parents didn't go on another vacation until I was gone to college.

These days, of course, even if I went to the beach, I wouldn't stay there long. I seem to have developed this protective coating of arctic blubber that makes me less than eager to display my body.

It's been so long since my body's seen the light of day that the last time I took my shirt off in public, some people loosely call friends took turns jeering at me and alternately calling me "Casper" and "Moby."

Once, to solve my Pillsbury Doughboy-look-alike problem, I bought a bottle of that "tan without the sun" stuff.

To my horror, I discovered that it's virtually impossible to put that stuff on evenly, so I ended up with huge brown blotches all over my body, making me look very much like I had contracted some exotic, ultimately fatal disease.

Despite the fact that I can't go on vacation right now, I've discovered that I can enjoy many of the same experiences right here at home.

For instance, the highway department has graciously simulated Myrtle Beach's roadways by blocking traffic for hours at a time.

Nothing compares to the joys of traveling bumper-to-bumper on the open road at the exhilarating speed of three inches per hour, with the intoxicating perfume of fresh tar and black-top wafting gently on the refreshing 100 degree breeze.

And to capture that feeling of holiday comradery with fellow vacationers, you can head down to Wal-Mart and run into an old friend you haven't seen for years even though you just live down the street from each other.

Or you can just walk down the aisles, playing "dodge the shopping cart," the exciting game where a person with no manners whatsoever wants to be standing in the exact place you are and tries to rack up points by knocking you out of the way.

It's more fun than the time you switched Grampa's nitroglycerin tablets with New Folger's Crystals.

And to get that real feel of travel, just go to the toy aisle.

Okay, so the cheerful refrain of "Are we there yet? I have to go to the bathroom!" is replaced with "I want a Ninja Turtle! You never buy me anything!" but you get the same general pleasant feeling of fingernails being raked down a chalkboard.

And of course you can always go swimming at the lake. Instead of worrying about sharks, all you have to worry about is water moccasins or stepping on broken glass.

And you won't find any of that dangerous medical waste all the environmentalists are screaming about washing up on our shores. Just old beer cans and baby diapers.

For the sea shell collector, there are plenty of bottle caps, which most people feel are just as good.

Or if you'd rather simply relax by the pool, we have quite a few. Just try to get there before that really big guy does the cannonball off the high dive and splashes all of the water out onto the sunbathers.

Besides all that, I've also discovered that I have the uncanny ability to spend much more money than I actually earn no matter where I am, so I don't really need to go anywhere.

I don't really feel too bad that I don't get to go on vacation. I can have almost as much fun here.

So go ahead. Go to the beach. Don't worry about me, I'll be fine.

At least I won't have a sunburn. Just bring me a T-shirt.

Hoping to win the reward money for catching the fake policemen, Jack and his cameraman proved that Matthew Rhodes, supposedly one of Salem's finest, was the inside man in cahoots with the fake cop ring. Molly bailed Tanner out of jail. Tanner, Molly, and Ginger kidnapped Gavin to try to force him to admit he's guilty. Shaken, Gavin tried to leave town, but was arrested at the airport. Wait To See: Stella decides to move against Marlena.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: As Felicia and Mac boarded up the Outback, the storm triggered her memory of a past trauma. Jenny and Paul took refuge in a bed and bath shop, giving Jenny an excuse to indulge her fantasies. Jessica and Scotty made the most of their night together in candlelight. Alan, Monica, and Rhonda were upset to learn that Jason and Karen had taken the boat out and had not returned. Aboard Kris' storm-tossed freighter, Holly and Bill revealed their secret intentions. Wait To See: Bill drops a bombshell, but Holly has another one of her own in reserve.

GUIDING LIGHT: A shocked Alan-Michael confronted Nick after learning he's Alexandra's son, and a rival as the Spaulding heir. Billy, unaware that Little Billy had seen Vanessa kissing Fletcher, became concerned about his son's behavior. Blake learned from Holly that Ross wanted Blake removed from his campaign team. She left a note for Holly telling her to meet her at the beach, then kidnapped Ross in a limo and took him to the beach where she seduced him while waiting for Holly to turn up. Fletcher suspected Little Billy knew he'd been lied to when L.B. erased an article on Fletcher's computer. Wait To See: A curious clue is found about Mindy's whereabouts.

LOVING: Clay and Dinah Lee found a way to be together despite Gwyn's objections. Trucker and Trisha argued over ultimate custody of their son, while Stacey refused to take sides. Basil's drug ring was broken up by Ava and Casey, leading Casey to develop a strong crush on her. Ava, meanwhile, became more determined than ever to meet her mysterious boss, Burnell. Giff couldn't get Trisha out of his mind. Tim saw that Clay really loved Dinah Lee. Wait To See: Cooper and Hannah's search for Selena takes them into a potentially dangerous area.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: As her baby's father, Max felt he should propose to Lee Ann, but she turned him down, saying she had Jason's love and support. Luna wondered how Swade found her at Wanda's. Andrew was devastated when the Bishop accused him of being homosexual and seducing Billy. Andrew refused to answer, believing that regardless of sexual preference, everyone has a right to privacy, and no one has a right to ask. Jon planned Lee Ann's strategy in her divorce from Kevin. Tina had a "Midsummer Night's Dream" in which Megan returned as a spirit trying to make things right for Jake, and everyone else. Wait To See: Asa is in for a shock.

SANTA BARBARA: Abigail was about to kill Aurora with an axe, until she saw Mariah. She then confessed to tampering with the car to kill Micah, not her. As Abigail tried to flee, she fell over a cliff and died. Frank advanced on B.J. who stabbed him with a pair of scissors, saying he'd robbed her of her innocence, making it improbable that she could ever love a man. The General warned Lisa he'll cut her out of the family if she marries Rafe, but Lisa stood fast. As her roommate, Ken objected to C.C.'s attempts to win back Sophia. The Taksans planned to poison Gina. Wait To See: Frank creates trouble for Warren.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: After learning that Ryan had a date with Nina for seven that night, Victoria said she'd love to see him, but could only make it at seven. Ryan assured Victor he planned to marry. Victor congratulated Nina. Later, Ryan reassured Victoria she was the only woman for him. Cricket realized Michael was starting a new campaign to lure her back. Victor told Jack despite his hatred for him, he'll allow him to stay on at Jabot. Nikki asked a skeptical Ashley to help her save her marriage to Jack. Jack told Nikki that regardless of what happened, he could never hate her. Wait To See: Dru realizes she may have made a terrible mistake.

Princeton University finally granted Milton Babbitt's doctoral degree in mathematics in January — 46 years after it rejected his dissertation (on the mathematics of the 12-tone musical system of modern composers). The university recently concluded that, at the time, Babbitt's work was so advanced that no one at Princeton understood it. In the ensuing 46 years, Babbitt won a Pulitzer Prize and developed the first electronic synthesizer.

MEDICAL SCIENCE FROM HELL

—Researchers in Connecticut, writing in the February Hospital and Community Psychiatry, reported that patients in psychiatric wards who constantly watched MTV suffered psychological deterioration. Signs of deterioration were increased hallucinations, belligerence and hostility toward staff (especially female staff). When MTV was banned, patients' frequency of aggressiveness was reduced.

—A physician at Johns Hopkins medical school reported in April that a 21-year-old college student suffers from a condition ("phantosmia") that causes her to emit a foul odor so overpowering that she cannot eat or engage in ordinary school activities because she cannot concentrate.

—According to a panel of physicians at a medical convention in Chicago in February, human error by hospital doctors and staff accounts for 200,000 deaths a year in the United States (though half of those would die anyway of the ailments that sent them to the hospital). One doctor estimated that 3.7 percent of patients suffer a disabling injury, or worse, during a hospital stay, and more than 1 million suffer some kind of accidental injury. Errors in prescription medicines lead the list.

—Researchers at Merck, Sharp & Dohme pharmaceutical house, seeking a powerful blood coagulant, are studying a "provocative and interesting" new substance: vampire-bat saliva. Preliminary research on rabbits showed the saliva to be several times more effective than the next best substance.

CHUTZPAH

—Last year, after Galaxy Cheese Co.'s factory in New Castle, Pa., burned to the ground, the owner relocated to Orlando, Fla., taking along 23 employees but leaving dozens of others behind. Recently, Northwood, another cheese company, moved to New Castle and hired many of the laid-off Galaxy workers. Galaxy then notified those left behind that it would take legal action against them because the former workers were still covered by their promise to Galaxy not to work for any other cheese company in New Castle for two years after "leaving" Galaxy.

—Joe Chagra filed in April for readmission to the Texas State Bar. He faces long odds. Chagra resigned from the bar in 1983, just in time to avoid being disciplined, after he had been found guilty of conspiracy in the death of the federal judge who was scheduled to hear a drug charge against Chagra's brother.

—A keynote speaker at a November international lung cancer conference in Melbourne, Australia, reported that as many as a quarter of the 1,200 delegates were smoking during breaks in the program.

—In April, the daily Nashville Tennessean newspaper disclosed that Domino's pizza dealers in the area had a policy of refusing to deliver pizzas to certain predominantly black neighborhoods. As the weekly Nashville Scene newspaper reported two weeks later, the Tennessean itself has a policy of discouraging home delivery subscriptions of the paper to the very same areas.

—In May, Peru billed the United States for $20,000, which it says were the costs it incurred in cleaning up the remains of a U.S. Air Force plane that crashed in the country and for medical bills for the injured crew. The plane, an unarmed U.S. drug surveillance plane, was shot down by Peruvian air force fighter jets. One crewman was killed, and four were wounded.

blue jeans and to say exactly what they *&#$@ well wanted. In fact, I think they were encouraged to do so.

My favorite part of the show (if there was a favorite part) was when Sally brought out a therapist to explain why the items had been stolen. Folks, that took the wedding cake. If I had heard someone had stolen something, I would assume it was because they wanted it, or that they were a kleptomaniac. In which case, professional help would be advised, but not for these people. They knew what they wanted, they just didn't want to pay for it. If Sally had greatly wanted to help the youngsters, she should have brought in a wedding consultant because those affairs can be costly.

What I'd like Sally Jesse Raphael to know is that she aided and abetted those who continue to malign the characters of many honest, hard-working Eastern Kentuckians who don't shoplift and scream and curse their neighbors. We live in Kentucky, Sally, not Siberia. We have doctors, lawyers, teachers, bankers, insurance agents, car salesman writers, poets, musicians and artists. We also pay taxes, and believe it or not, we are able to participate in elections because we have been given the right to vote by the constitution of the United States of America.

Though I don't condone the actions nor the antics of the Eastern Kentuckians who appeared on the program, Sally certainly wasn't my idea of a hostess. She invited people on her show, belittled them in front of millions of Americans, and then accused them of stealing a hotel hair dryer. As ashamed as I am of the participants, I'm ashamed of Sally, too. Somebody ought to teach that woman some manners.

BUTCH AND DOUGIE by ALEX HOWELL

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You peak early on in the week—not exactly a problem, but you may be taking a lot for granted. Great things are afoot this weekend. Just be THERE.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) As of midweek, you are into your first of three testings this year. If the next few weeks are easy, you'll be okay. If there are some hassles, then make those needed adjustments.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're so good at those crazy moments, you get to prove it again. The highs and lows that you explore in the next few days are enough to drive anyone else nutty. You peak just in time for the weekend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) One thing you can count on is being noticed this week. You reap your karmic dues at work. You hit the bull's-eye socially, and need to vanish (desperately!) for the weekend. You need the R & R.

LEO (July 23-August 22) You pull out of the doldrums this week and feel much better than you have in a long, long time. An important call or piece of news comes your way, and makes a very big difference. Count on celebrations all weekend long. You deserve this one—go for it!!

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) You are unusually intense and mysterious this week, as you register what it is you have created. One-to-one relating marks the week, as you look for that elusive answer. You are a force to be dealt with this weekend, as you wow your immediate world.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Count on one thing: you're not in the driver's seat. Open up to changes and do a better job listening to a friend's advice. You'll open up to more opportunities, if you let go and move on. Follow a dream this weekend, and you may walk on clouds for quite a while.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Once more, the planets decide to test and challenge. What's being said is obvious: stop forcing issues and let go of what isn't working for you. This weekend, do some soul-searching.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) You are a high roller in life this week, though do make sure to complete those details, if you really want this to work. Summer celebrations and heated romance could make this a sizzling next few weeks. Work on when to take off and when to hang in.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Important decisions need to be made. Talks with a loved one bring interesting news to the forefront. Some of you will simply give in to the heated winds of summer and let everything else take care of itself.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You may need to make the first move, if you really care. Initiate change and make it happen your way. The real question is, do you really want this? Allow yourself to open up to the lighter side of life as the week progresses.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Get past a money matter. Call a halt to spending, and find other ways of really enjoying yourself. The drums beat all week with news, gossip and information. Spend a quiet weekend at home, with only the friends you choose to be with. You need some down time.

NEEDS CORRECTING...

Ever leave a word or two out and say something that shouldn't have been said? In the recent article I did on the proposals presented to the Board of Education on elementary athletics, I stated: "That means that the sectional or even the county tournaments have to be played in a high school gym." Omitted were the words "do not." Under the new proposals the sectional or the county tournaments do not have to be played in a high school gym. Again in the same paragraph: "They may not be held at any elementary site" should read "They may be held at any elementary site."

LIKE THREE-POINT BASKET...

I like the proposal to allow the three-point basket in grade school basketball this year. Of course, all of that is contingent on the proposals being accepted by the board.

The three-point basket will add excitement to the game as it has done to high school and college. LIKE THE SEASON...

A season has been established for grade school football. I personally like the fact that the proposals will establish a grade school football conference. There are a lot of positive items in the new proposals and the hope is that the board will approve them.

OFFICIALS?.....

There is only one way to handle the officiating problem that faces grade school basketball — establish a local official's association that will assign referees to grade school games.

The problem in the past has been that the grade school season began in September. Officials recruited by grade schools were those who called high school games. However, as soon as high school started their season the good officials were gone and the grade schools were left to get whomever they could to call their games. Now, there are not that many good "whomever's" out there and so the trouble begins.

I would suggest to Mr. Frankie Francis and Assistant Superintendent Pete Grigsby Jr. that they establish a Floyd County Official's Association that those who are interested in calling only grade school games could become a member of and from there have an assigning secretary to assign the officials to.

Now, an official cannot belong to the 15th Region (or any other region) association and the local one also. They must make a choice to belong one to the other.

The officials who are going to call high school games will, and understandably so, stick with the 15th Region or whatever, and those who are interested in calling only grade school games will have to join the local association.

Once an official becomes a member of the local association, he or she will be required to be approved by the KHSAA and know the rules of the game. Each member will be required to attend high school rules clinics and also the referee's camp in the summer.

This would eliminate just getting anybody to call grade school basketball games. At the grade school age, kids are more impressionable and need to be around good officiating.

Some of the games I witnessed last year in grade school basketball was a disgrace. Those on the floor in striped shirts certainly had no business there. The problems that I witnessed were brought on because no one knew the rules like they should have and that included some of the coaches.

Had a competent official been used, there would not have been the confusion that reigned. We talk about educating our fans; we need to educate some of the officials as well as coaches.

Mr. Francis and Mr. Grigsby are two who could pull this off and establish such an association where a local official would take Commentary....

Prestonsburg Little League does banner job

It has been several years since the Area 2, District 7 Little League All-Star tournament has been held in Floyd County but that all changed this season.

The Prestonsburg Little League was the host league for this year's classic event and they all did a great job of putting on a good show for all the area fans.

"It has been eight or nine years since we have had the tournament," said tournament director Dickie Jarvis. "We feel the tournament went really well. Financially, we didn't lose any money but we didn't make any either."

Many positive comments were heard of the way the tournament was conducted and the behavior of the players, coaches and fans. It was a great tournament and the weather cooperated throughout except for a couple of light downfalls.

I have to say that the umpiring of this tournament was extraordinary. Now, I know that umpires are human beings (although there may be some discussion on that subject) and that they also are subject to make mistakes. But the three who handled the District 7, Area 2 tournament did an outstanding job.

Jerome Greathouse, Kevin Webb, Eric Wolford are to be commended for their calling of balls and strikes as well as the base paths. They had complete control of the games and handled themselves in a very professional way. There was no favoritism shown one way or the other and very little was heard from the coaches.

"We had no complaints on the umpires," related Jarvis of the job this crew did. "The teams were well behaved and everybody left with a good feeling."

District 7 Representative Wilburn Samons saw the games started on time and that everything was in order for the entire tournament. Kenny Conley was the official scorer along with Samons.

"It was lot of hard work," explained Jarvis. "But it was good exposure for our league and the city of Prestonsburg. We had a lot of help in running the tournament. All the concession workers and we had a good time doing it."

The main stars of this show were the players themselves. I certainly enjoyed watching them play and was thinking of what talented players that one day will grace our high school teams. Little League baseball is a tremendous show and it is to be enjoyed by everyone. These young players love to compete and they love to win. That's what this type of tournament is all about.

Harold-Allen-Prater won the area championship for the second year in a row and defeated Belfry for the overall championship. These young men displayed a lot of aggressiveness although they were by far not the largest team.

Paintsville had a very strong team again this year and did a great job. They won three games and all three were shutouts. Paintsville has a lot of tradition in baseball over in Johnson County and look for some of these young men to become great high school players.

Beaver Creek North surprised a lot of people in the tournament. Joe Owens' team represented their league very well in placing third overall. Pitching may have the short coming of this team. But they all had fun. Prestonsburg was a solid ball club and if they had that one solid pitcher it could have been a different story.

Magoffin County and Martin County played some good baseball and also have some good young talent. Both clubs are to be congratulated for the fine job they did in representing their counties.

Beaver Creek South, a couple of pitchers short of being a very strong contender. A good ball club that makes good contact. Wheelwright was a surprised team in the way they could hit the ball. Sandy Akers and Linda Holbrook are to be admired for the role they played in taking on managing this all-star team.

Overall, the grade on this tournament was an A+. I don't believe that this will be the last time the tournament will be held in Prestonsburg. Archer Park Director Ralph Little and his staff did an excellent job in keeping the field in excellent playing condition. I heard some of the Paintsville people commenting on how well kept the whole park was.

"Ralph Little and the folks at Archer Park are to be commended for the terrific work they did in keeping the fields in shape," stated Jarvis. "If Ralph Little was not a friend of Little League, I don't know what we would do. I heard a lot of good things about the way the park looked. He does so much for our league. All we have to do is show up and play ball."

"Steve (Stephens) and I, since July 4 until it was over, had spent six hours each day at the park getting things ready for the tournament," said (See Prestonsburg, B 8)

Music captures men's Class A, Billiter Class B in Paintsville Tennis Tournament

Prestonsburg's Russell Music Jr. continued to dominate the Paintsville City Tennis tournament's Men's A Singles Division with a 6-2, 6-4 set win over Alex Jaramillo of Lovely. It was the fifth championship for Music in the Paintsville event.

Another Prestonsburg resident, John P. Biliter won the Men's B Singles with a 7-5, 6-3 win over Prestonsburg's Kimbler McGuire. In women's singles play, Carolyn Short of Allen defeated Kerri Klaus of Pikeville in a comeback after dropping the first set 2-6. Short won the next two 6-4, 6-2.

Floyd County players continued to dominate the tournament when Lois and Tim Howard of Prestonsburg won the mixed doubles in three sets over the team of Kerri Klaus and John Pelphrey. The Howard's took the first set 6-4 and lost in the second to Klaus and Pelphrey 2-6 before coming back with a 6-1 win in set three.

In the Men's B Doubles, Greg Ratliff and Chris Waugh, Prestonsburg, defeated John P. Biliter and Kimbler McGuire in two sets, 6-4 and 6-3 to capture the event. In the Men's A Doubles, Music teamed with Mike Adkins of Prestonsburg to bring home the title with a 6-3, 5-7, 6-4 win over the twosome of Ken Fuller of Pikeville and Tim Howard of Prestonsburg.

Music, in winning his fifth championship, won in three sets over Pikeville's Chad Sellers who defeated Shane Castle also of Pikeville in first round play. Music faced Russell Boyd of Pikeville in the semifinals and won 6-2, 6-4. Music then defeated Jaramillo for the championship.

Johnny Webb of Prestonsburg lost to Pikeville's John Robinson in two sets, 7-5 and 6-3.

Adkins faced Jaramillo in the first round on Monday and lost in three sets, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2.

Biliter drew a first round bye and faced Pierre Coolen of Hager Hill, a winner over Van Lear's Jason Collins, in the quarterfinals and won in two sets by identical scores of 6-2, 6-2. Biliter defeated Noel Crum (Paintsville Herald Sports Editor) six-love and 6-1 to advance to the finals against McGuire on Saturday. Crum defeated Glover in three sets 6-4, 6-4.

Short breezed through her first two opponents before winning over Klaus in three sets. After defeating Vonda Conn of Salyersville in two sets, 6-3 and 6-2, Short won by default over Pikeville's Lesley Gray to move into the championship round against Klaus.

Short's sister, Clarissa, defeated Mary Minix of Pikeville in her first round match but was upended by Klaus to offset a possible sister finals.

Ratliff and Walsh seemed to have little trouble in their quest for the championship in the Men's B Doubles. After receiving a first round bye, the two Floyd County tennis players won in two sets over Jesse Kelly and Chad Sellers to earn the right to face Biliter and McGuire in the championship round.

A first round bye by Adkins and Music automatically put them into the semifinals of the Men's A Doubles and the duo posted a 6-2, 6-3 win over the team of Greg Fannin and Craig Smith before advancing Monday.

In the Mixed Doubles, the Howard's won over Sue Howard and John Robinson after the latter won by default in the first round. The Howard's won in three sets over Howard and Robinson.

This was the seventh annual Paintsville City tournament (since 1985) that is open only to players who reside in Johnson, Floyd, Martin, Magoffin, Pike or Lawrence counties.

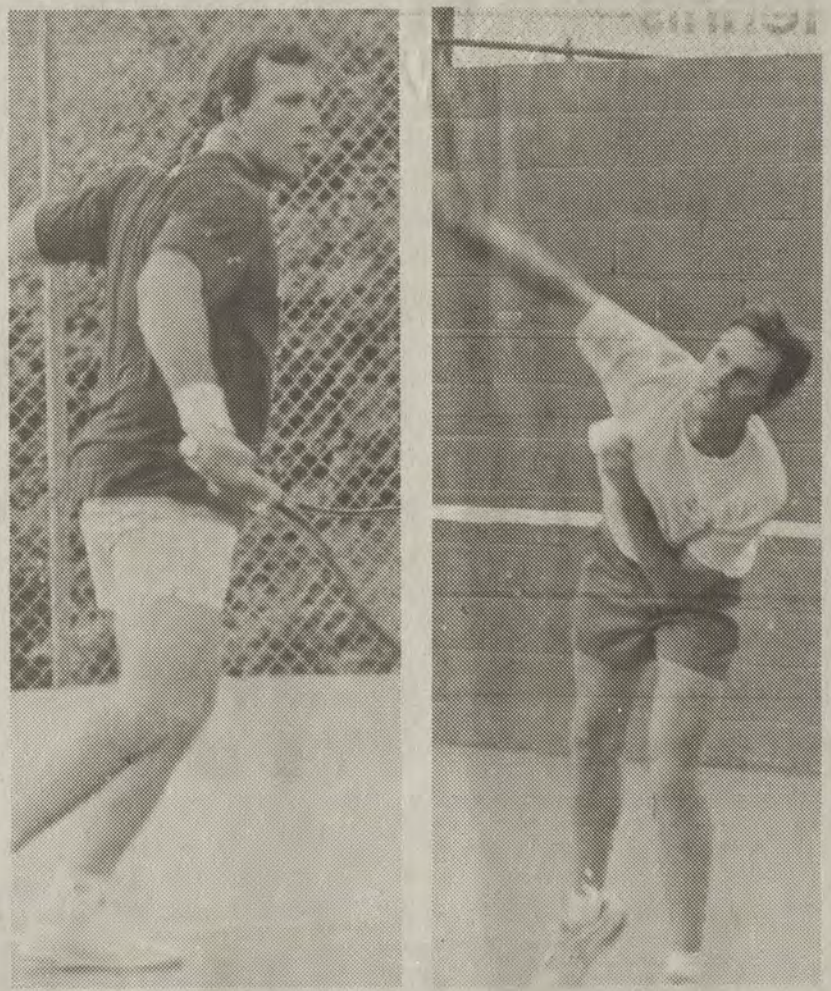

Music won rather easily over Boyd with his powerful serve and volley game. Tournament fans were treated to some fast action and heavy hitting in his semifinal victory over current MSU player Boyd. Russell maintained the pace of action against former Sheldon Clark star Alex Jaramillo. Jaramillo earned the finals berth with his own powerful serve and strong groundstroke game as he displayed both versatility and consistency in his three prior matches.

The tournament's best match was in the Women's Singles finals between former EKV player Carolyn Short and future MSU player Kerri Klaus, a 1992 Paintsville High School graduate. The tournament's longest match was punctuated with excellent shot-making from both players and many extended rallies that left both players and fans breathless.

The most even competition of the tournament occurred in the mixed doubles event as every match but one took three sets. The Howards won their second mixed doubles title in the last four years after being extended to three sets by newly formed teams of Sue Howard and John Robinson in the semifinals and Kerri Klaus and John Pelphrey in the finals.

There will be a Junior Singles tournament on August 4-8 at the city (See Tennis, B 5)

Bevinsville Parents to sponsor softball tourney August 7-8

A men's softball tournament will be held on August 7-8 at Brackett Field in Wheelwright sponsored by the parents of the Bevinsville cheerleaders.

The tournament is open to all men's teams and there will be a $75 entry fee per team. Trophies will be awarded to the first and second place teams. A concession stand will be provided at each game. Times of the tournament will be determined later.

For more information on the tournament, contact Hope at 452-9143 or Shirley at 452-9316.

HAP All-Stars trek to Catlettsburg for State Tournament

After breezing through the District 7 Little League Tournament at Archer Park this past week, coach Junior Reynolds will be taking his Harold-Allen-Prater (HAP) Little League All-Star squad to Catlettsburg this weekend for the first round of the state classic.

HAP will open the series against Deer Creek, winner of District 1 (Western part of the state) in a 2 p.m. scheduled start. A victory for HAP would pit them against Corbin, winners of District 4, in a 1 p.m. game Sunday, July 26. If the local all-stars should falter, they would play Monday evening at 6:30.

HAP is a quick team that lacks size. They are not a power-hitting team, although they did connect for two round-trippers in the recent tournament.

Pitching, quickness, speed on the bases and good defense gives this team balance. Since Coach Reynolds used only two pitchers in the tournament, who would he bring in should one of his starters — Wesley Samons and Craig Johnson — get into trouble. Chad Case is capable of going a strong four innings. He could relieve if necessary.

Johnson was brilliant in his play-off outings. A hard-throwing right hander, Johnson uses his off-speed stuff to set up his fastball.

After the righthander comes a lefthander in Samons who is as smart on the mound as any Little League pitcher. Samons always challenges hitters and rarely walks anyone.

When you talk about defensive second basemen in Little League, you talk about John Ortega. He also swings a consistent bat — homering in one game of the local tournament. He has excellent bat control.

Derek Stanley is one of the best contact hitters on this ball club. He will deceive you with his stance at the plate but hits with confidence. You have to like his hustle and determination.

Russell Hall and Tommy Taulbee usually platoon but each can give you a good game no matter where they play. Taulbee usually fills in at first base when Samons is on the mound. Hall plays the outfield and does a great job.

The Kidd boys — Matt and Ronnie — do not hurt the HAP lineup when they play. Both are good defensive players and Matt swings a good bat.

Every team needs a consistent force behind the plate and they have that in Brad Reynolds. Reynolds gives HAP a solid catcher that contributes timely RBIs.

Shannon Potter is a versatile player that can play about anywhere. He's a good player to have on the team since he does so many things well. Billy Mitchell, a favorite of many, gives depth in the infield and usually plays second when Ortega moves to shortstop. Mitchell is a heads-up player.

Determination. That describes the

Martin Reds post 5-3 win over Drift behind relief work of Caudill

The Beaver Creek Little League baseball tournament resumed this week after an interruption by the just completed All-Star tournament. The Martin Reds had to bring on the ace of their staff, B.J. Caudill, to squelch a rally by the Drift Yankees Wednesday evening at Martin.

The game was played in a light rain and the two teams were brought off the field at one point. After a 15 minute delay, play was resumed.

The Yankees took a 2-1 lead with two runs in the second inning when Reds starter Ethan Martin experienced control problems. Martin walked the first four batters he faced in the second with Brandon Stumbo getting an RBI on a bases-loaded walk.

After Martin walked Melissa Thacker, Reds coach Ralph Slone brought on Caudill to put out the fire. Caudill fanned Brandon Stumbo and Ryan Shannon consecutively. He walked Daniel Lafferty to force home Jamie Mullins with the second run. Caudill then struck out Chad Tuttle to end the rally.

Martin led 1-0 after Chris Damron reached on a two-base error on Martin's throw to first. Heath Scott lined a double to right center scoring Damron. Ryan Shannon, who started for Drift, got Brent Slone on strikes, Misty Scott on a bouncer to the mound and fanned Martin to end the inning.

The Reds pushed four runs across in the top of the third to go on top 5-2. Walks, errors and doubles by Martin and Caudill accounted for the four runs. Jesse Hall led off the third with a walk and scored on a two-base error at first base off of the bat of Damron. After Heath Scott was safe on a fielder's choice, Shannon got Slone on strikes for the second time and then fanned Misty Scott. But Martin ripped a double that scored Damron, and Scott. Martin came around to score on Caudill's double. Matt Hagans singled but Caudill was unable to score on the hit. Kevin Goodman struck out to end the inning.

Drift loaded the bases in the bottom of the third on a base hit by Kyle Tackett and walks to Patrick Martin and Jamie Mullins. However, the Yankees could not produce the key hit as Caudill struck out Mike Colley and Thacker to end the threat.

Drift scored their final run in the bottom of the fourth after Shannon retired the Reds in order. Robbie Stumbo walked and Shannon singled him to third. He scored when Lafferty grounded to second.

The Yankees put the tying runs on base in the bottom of the sixth inning with two out. Caudill got Thacker and Robbie Stumbo on strikes before issuing walks to Shannon and Lafferty. Shannon stole second and third with Lafferty stealing second. But Tuttle popped out to second base to end the game and the season for the Yankees.

Caudill picked up the win in relief, working five innings. He allowed three runs while surrendering two hits. Caudill had 10 strikeouts and seven walks.

Martin worked the first inning and went into the second without retiring a batter. Martin had two strikeouts and walked five before departing. Martin did not allow a hit but two runs scored against him.

Shannon was impressive despite losing the game. He went the distance for Drift and struck out nine. He allowed all five runs while scattering five Reds' hits. Shannon issued three bases on balls.

Drift left six runners on base while the Reds stranded five. The Reds committed one error and the Yankees made three.

The Reds go on to face the Garrett Pirates in the semifinals of the tournament. The game was scheduled as a second game Wednesday but was called off because of rain.

Win season's first half... Defeats Sox in doubleheader sweep to remain undefeated

The Central Finance men's softball team won the first half of the Minnie Softball League by going undefeated. The Minnie Softball League started the second half of their season this past Sunday at the Minnie Park.

Central Finance got the second half off to a good start by sweeping the Sox in two games this past Sunday. Central won the first game 13-1 and then posted a 10-6 win in game two.

Central scored five times in the first inning after the Sox had taken a 1-0 lead. Four runs crossed the plate in the fourth to make it a 9-1 game. Central scored a single run in the third and pushed across three in the fourth for the mercy win as the game was called after five innings.

Bear Johnson had a first inning double with Bill Hammond and Larry Johnson getting two-base hits in the second. Larry Johnson then doubled again in the fourth. Gene Tackett picked up the win.

In the second game, Central scored five times in the second inning to overcome a 3-0 deficit en route to a 10-6 win. A single run in the third for the Sox made it a 5-4 game and the Sox took the lead at 6-5 with two in the fourth. But Central scored three times in the fifth and added two more in the sixth.

Arthur Fannin and Bear Johnson doubled in the second inning to help Central to score five times.

Two weeks ago Central Finance swept a doubleheader from Kinzer Drilling winning the first game 17-4 with Bill Hammonds drilling two home runs. Central took charge in the second game and held on for a 15-10 victory.

Player, ump's walk out as Floyd County 15-year olds fall to Carr Fork

The Babe Ruth District baseball tournament for 15-year olds was held on the new Knott County Central High School baseball diamond. Reports are that the facility is first class.

"That is one fine facility," stated Floyd County coach Jad Deaton. "I can only dream of such a facility being constructed in Floyd County. There is need for improvement in spectator, concession and broadcasting facilities but the actual playing field is a players delight."

The Floyd County All-Stars journeyed to Knott County to take on Carr Fork in a best of three series to see who would represent this region in the state tournament in Louisville this weekend. Floyd County fell hard in the first game 9-1 to Carr Fork as their left-hander stifled the Floyd County team on just five hits.

"I believe he was the difference in the game," explained Deaton of his team's inability to hit the ball. "He is an adequate thrower with a decent fastball but the difference was that he was a southpaw. The different side angle, I am sure, kept even our most adept hitters off stride the entire game." Carr Fork took a 2-0 lead with a two-run first. Floyd County came back with a single run in the bottom of the inning to narrow the margin to one run, 2-1. Kevin Allen doubled to lead off the inning for Floyd and moved to third on a stolen base. He attempted to score on a wild pitch but was tagged out at the plate by pitcher Jarvis Williams.

Williams then walked Toby Robinson who stole second and went to third on a passed ball and scored on Derrick Newsome's sacrifice fly.

The one run was all that the Floyd County team could manage as Williams dominated them from the mound.

"We played somewhat tentative, both offensively and defensively," said Deaton. "Our base hits did not have a lot of zip coming off the bats and theirs seem to jump off of their bats. They charged the ground balls on defense and we waited for them to come to us. We, for whatever reason, were not aggressive enough to win this one."

Donnie Combs started for the Floyd All-Stars and suffered the loss.

Combs had six strike-outs and he walked five hitters. Williams went the distance for Carr Fork and picked up the win.

The game was delayed for approximately 45 minutes when the umpires laid down their equipment and walked off the field. Carr Fork coach Gary Hammonds then sought two more officials for the game.

The umpires were furnished by the 14th Region Umpires Association and according to Deaton, they had a lot to learn about the game.

"They were two of the most ineffective, uninformed, inept, pitiful excuses for umpires that I have ever witnessed," said Deaton of the situation. "The two replacement umpires were a refreshing improvement and stayed throughout the remainder of the tournament."

In the second game of the series, Floyd County a dramatic game in extra innings. They scored three runs in the bottom of the ninth inning to tie the game at 8-8 and pushed across a run in the bottom of the tenth to win 9-8.

Trailing 8-6 entering the ninth, Josh Hansford, who batted over .400 in the tournament, singled and John Moore got a base hit moving Hansford to third. Moore stole second and both runners scored on Todd Bingham's two-base hit. Bingham was tagged trying to go to third base. Todd Barker, who started for Carr Fork, walked Roy John Martin who hit for Mike Baldrige. Martin moved to third on two passed balls and scored when Donovan Hall was safe on a fielders choice. Hall tried to score on an error at short but was nailed at the plate. Robinson flew out to left for the final out.

Robinson pitched the top of the tenth for Floyd County and retired the side in order. In the bottom of the inning, Derrick Newsome led off with a base hit and stole second. Greg Hunter walked but was forced out at second. Hansford was called on a third basemen's error that moved Newsome to third base and with John Moore at the plate, a balk was called on Barker and the winning run — Newsome — trotted home to give the 9-8 win.

"The difference in this game was our teams tenacity. We just would not quit even though we put ourselves in several precarious and unnecessary positions defensively," stated Deaton. "Derrick pitched seven fine innings for us."

Newsome, who pitched well enough to win, was removed from the game in favor of Mike Baldrige because Newsome had pitched his limit.

"Mike did a good job for us," continued Deaton, "but he aggravated a hamstring muscle and I had to replace him with Toby after two innings. Our big bat for this game was Toby Newsome who had three hits in four times at the plate." Newsome had two doubles and a single. As a team, Floyd connected for 13 hits with four for extra bases.

Robinson got the win in relief working the final inning.

Floyd County had hopes of carrying some momentum in to the final game after the thrilling extra inning win the night before. But Coach Deaton knew the Carr Fork team.

"I knew they would never lay down and give up until it was over," he said. Pitching became a problem for Floyd in the championship game as Floyd County fell 7-3 and took a trip back home.

"Our pitching gave up 10 free passes and struggled the entire game," said Deaton.

Floyd County took a 2-0 lead in the top of the second inning on an error and a two-base hit by Robinson. Donovan Hall drove in the second run with a sacrifice. Carr Fork came back with a run in the bottom of the inning off of Donnie Combs who started his second game and Carr Fork scored four times in the third inning to take a lead they never relinquished.

Again it was Williams on the mound for Carr Fork and again Floyd County had their problems with the left-hander.

"He doesn't throw a lot of off-speed stuff," commented Deaton. "It's just more a straight fast ball."

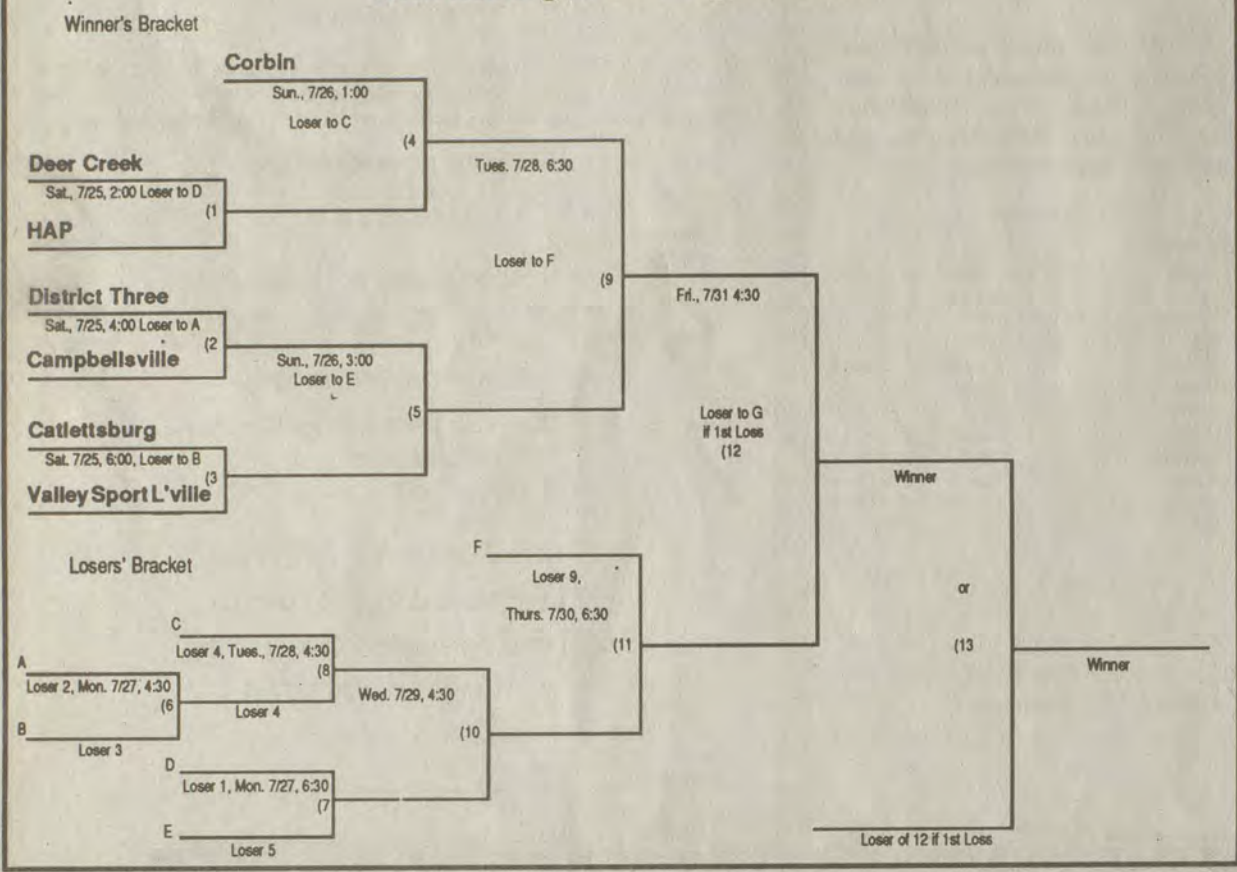

Deaton said that Carr Fork played with more heart than his ball club did and "heart will win many a ball game over sheer talent."

Greg Hunter, the starting catcher for the Floyd County team in the first two games, peeled his uniform off and left the team because of not playing.

"I started Greg the first two games," explained Deaton, "and he caught seven innings of the first game and then caught the 10th inning game we won. I wanted to get Todd Bingham in the game because Greg was not hitting the ball. And I had hoped that Todd could get a couple of those dying singles that we needed. I looked over in the dugout about the fifth inning and Greg was taking off his uniform and leaving the team."

Deaton had praise for his ball club for their devotion this summer to playing baseball. "I only hope they have gained character and heart because of their participation. My thanks go out to Don Hansford and Dave Conley for their assistance but far and least I must compliment my wife, Alberta; my children, Krystal, Heather and Jarrod for putting up with late suppers, irritable nerves and lack of quality attention for the past few weeks."

Kentucky State Little League Baseball Catlettsburg Little League - Host

BETSY LAYNE'S CHUCK LAFERTY, second from left (back row), was a member of the 1992 East Senior High School All-Stars that played a two game series at Northern Kentucky University this summer. Laferty collected two hits in the two games. The East All-Stars won both games.

A Look At Sports

charge and see that grade school games are assigned by good, knowledgeable and competent officials.

I will repeat myself here as I have said many times, I feel that the best officials in the 15th Region association are from Floyd County. I know that they are there to call high school games. They have worked hard to get where they are and no one can blame them for getting all the high school games they can. But, they should say no to calling grade school games and allow the young upcoming officials the opportunity to blow the whistle and the opportunity to learn.

If an experienced high school official does not desire to call a high school schedule anymore, then he would be a welcomed individual to the local association. But let's not just put anyone on the floor just because they have a striped shirt and the owner of a shiny whistle. Make sure he knows the rules of the game.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY WISHES....

Time out everyone long enough to wish Happy Birthdays to Terrance Mullins of McDowell as he will celebrate his 14th birthday this Saturday. Mullins is one of the up and coming basketball/baseball players in the county. Happy Birthday Terrance from all of us at the Times and all sports fans.

WEEKEND LOOKS LONG...

But we will try and enjoy ourselves as we track down all the Bluegrass State Games participants in Lexington this weekend. If they would only hold the games at the same softball fields each year. Now, they have changed again with some of our teams playing out of the city.

Saturday, after covering much of the games, I hope to travel to Louisville for the Big League state tournament at 5:30 p.m. and if things go well, make the 13-year old Babe Ruth tournament at 8 p.m. at Middletown (just outside of Louisville). I hate it that I will miss the Little League State Tournament this Saturday in Catlettsburg, but I will be able to make the second round.

Vacation time is coming in August and then it will be time to prepare for the upcoming football season. It never ends. But it's great!

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports.

play of Dewayne Hughes. A 100 percent plus player. You can tell he loves to play the game and he plays it well.

Collectively, this is a hustling ball club. They play hard, but they have fun. Someone always seems to provide a spark when they most need it. HAP is a very disciplined ball club and, win or lose, they won the admiration of many fans in Floyd County with their style of play.

Prestonsburg

Jarvis.

Jarvis told me that Prestonsburg has already been offered the 13-year-old Senior League tournament next season and he and his staff would like to host it.

"The district commissioner was well pleased with the way we handled the Little League tournament," said Jarvis. "But before we could host the 13-year old tournament we would need lights on the senior field."

Jarvis said the park board would like to install lights on the diamond but right now it is in a wait and see situation.

The Prestonsburg Little League Organization plans to work on the two fields this fall with some projects in the planning stages. Jarvis said it takes about $10,000 a year to run the Little League program at Archer Park which comes through community involvement, businesses and sign up fee for each player.

For Dickie Jarvis, while passing out praise for all those that help in making the tournament a success, he deserves every bit that and much more in overseeing the mechanics of the tournament. Dickie Jarvis, along with Steve Stephens, did an outstanding job and deserves our applause.

Harold-Allen-Prater will be representing District 7 in the upcoming Little League State All-Star tournament that gets underway this weekend in Catlettsburg. Let's all turn out and support this team and cheer them on to yet another title.

In controversial year, Goins will stay on

It has been one of those years when the Beaver Creek Little League has gone through the administration of a new league president. It has been a year of transition from rules of the past to some new ones this year.

Recently, the Beaver Creek Little League had to put the completion of their tournament off until after the All-Star tournament at Archer Park. The league resumed the tournament this week and already controversy over pitching has surfaced.

League President Jimmy Goins ruled that since all teams had a two week layoff that each team left in the tournament could pitch any pitcher they desired in the remaining games of the tournament.

The Martin Reds hurled B.J. Caudill in the final tournament game they played against the league-leading Martin Cardinals. Caudill entered the game in the second inning against the Drift Yankees Wednesday at Martin as the Reds and Yankees met. The Drift coaching staff hollered foul after Caudill was permitted to enter the game ruling the use of an illegal pitcher.

According to Goins, the Reds did not use an illegal pitcher. "The rule was that any team could use any pitcher they had regardless the last time when they pitched," he said. "We had the two week layoff and I figured that was enough time for the kids to have to wait. Martin did not use an illegal pitcher in beating the Yankees."

Goins, being under a lot of pressure this year, says that he will be coming back as league president next year unless the others did not want him to return.

League will undergo realignment next season, so will the two divisions of the Beaver Creek Little League. The Wayland Dodgers will be moved to play in the North Division and the Martin Blue Jays will move to the South Division. The league will conduct tryouts on three different dates and already disputes have popped up over boundaries for the draft.

While the Beaver Creek Little League is one of the largest leagues in the area, one can expect problems with so many players involved.

Daniels issues call to Trojans as practice sessions near Wheelwright High School head football coach Donnie Daniels has called for a gathering of his team and all others interested in playing football at Wheelwright this coming season.

All players are to report to the Wheelwright football field on Monday, July 27, at 5:30 p.m. and all players are to come prepared for a work out.

The Trojans will be holding their annual grid-o-rama on August 15.

ORDINANCE

#7-1992

SUMMARY OF PROPOSED WHEELWRIGHT USER CHARGE SYSTEM ORDINANCE

The following is a summary of a proposed sewer user charge system ordinance for the City of Wheelwright, Kentucky, prepared in accordance with KRS 83 A.010:

The proposed ordinance establishes the method of calculation to determine the rates to be charged for sewer service in the City of Wheelwright; the rates to be charged and the manner in which the revenues generated by the sewer service fees shall be utilized.

Section I of the proposed ordinance establishes the definition of certain terms utilized in the ordinance.

Section II of the proposed ordinance establishes the following four (4) types of fees which shall be charged to the customers of the Wheelwright sewer system:

An administrative charge to pay for the administrative cost of the city; an operations, maintenance and replacement charge to provide the funds to operate, maintain and replace the sewer system; a debt service charge to pay for the indebtedness owed for the construction of the sewer system; and a surcharge rate to be charged to those customers who release waste into the system which requires more than ordinary treatment. The charges are to be based upon a per thousand gallons of water used. The City shall review the amount of the charge annually to insure that sufficient revenue is being generated to pay the cost of administration, operations, maintenance, replacement and debt service required by the sewer system; to maintain a proportionate distribution of said cost among the customers of the sewer system; and to apply excessive revenues collected to adjust rates in the future.

Section III of the proposed ordinance provides that the revenues generated by the charge for the operation, maintenance and replacement shall be placed in a separate, non-lapsing fund and shall only be utilized for the maintenance, operation and replacement of the sewer system. In the event of a temporary short fall in this account, then the operation, maintenance and replacement charge on the sewer system shall be adjusted to eliminate the short fall and to pay back any funds borrowed from another account within six (6) months after the end of the fiscal year in which the funds were borrowed. All customers of the Wheelwright Sewer System shall be billed monthly and the bill will be due and payable on the 1st day of the month and any bill not paid by the 10th day of the month shall be considered delinquent and subject to a five percent (5%) penalty. The city shall, in conjunction with a regular bill or other mailing, annually notify each customer of the rate being charged for sewer service.

Section IV of the proposed ordinance establishes the rate to be charged for sewer service with a minimum bill of seven dollars and forty cents ($7.40) per month which is based upon a rate of three dollars and seventy cents ($3.70) per one thousand (1000) gallons of water used with a minimum usage of two thousand (2000) gallons. This section also establishes the amounts to be charged to unmetered customers for sewer service.

Section V of the proposed ordinance provides for when the ordinance will become effective if passed by the city commission.

I hereby certify that this summary was prepared in accordance with the provisions of KRS 83A.010.

ORDINANCE #6-1992

AN ORDINANCE RELATING TO THE CLOSING OF AN ALLEY LOCATED IN THE DOWNTOWN SECTION OF THE CITY OF WHEELWRIGHT

An Ordinance of the City Commission of the City of Wheelwright, closing an alley way located in the Industrial Zone in the Downtown area of the City.

WHEREAS, the City Commission of the City of Wheelwright finds it in the best interest to close one alley in the downtown area; and,

WHEREAS, an expressed easement for an alley as shown by maps #348 of the Mountain Investment Corporation in the Floyd County Clerk's Office; and,

WHEREAS, the Mountain Investment Corporation maps mentioned above established a 16.58' alley to run between lots LB 1-B and B-3; and,

WHEREAS, this alley was provided for by the maps of the Mountain Investment Corporation maps #348, however, the alley is not now beneficial to the traveling public; and,

WHEREAS, the City Commission of the City of Wheelwright has made a motion to close said alley way;

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT ORDAINED by the City Commission of the City of Wheelwright, as follows: SECTION 1: That the 16.58 foot alley established by the Mountain Investment Corporation map #348, Floyd County Clerk's Office, which runs between lot LB 1-B and B-3 is hereby closed to the traveling public.

SECTION 2: That the said alley which is to be closed shall be made available for acquisition if not previously owned, and adjoining property owners of lot B-3 and LB 1-B either/or may acquire or use with expressed permission of the City Commission.

SECTION 3: That the City Commission hereby appoints the law firm of Combs and Stevens as special counsel to perform the necessary legal steps to close said alley.

SECTION 4: That all costs and expenses incurred in the closing of the alley shall be paid by the adjoining property owners of said alley.

SECTION 5: All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herein are hereby expressly repealed to the extent of such conflict.
