Legislative Briefs

By a 58-41 vote Wednesday, the state House of Representatives approved a bill which proposes dramatic reform for health care in Kentucky.

The proposed law, which now goes to the Senate, provides for the regulation of insurance premium rates; provides rate-setting for health services, subject to legislative approval; establishes a statewide health purchasing alliance; and begins insurance reforms which will allow any Kentuckian who can afford insurance to get it.

The proposed law also will require Medicaid recipients to make co-payments of $5 to $10 for services from doctors, pharmacies and emergency rooms.

The bill does not mandate universal coverage for all Kentuckians and it does not raise the tax on health care providers.

Casino Gambling

There will be no legislative action this session on a proposal to legalize casino gambling at Kentucky horse race tracks because no bill is likely to be introduced before the deadline for proposing the legislation.

Today, Friday, is the last day to introduce a bill for consideration during the 1994 session of the state's General Assembly.

Tim Mulloy, a lobbyist for racing interests, said Wednesday his group would not have a sponsor for a bill by today.

Year-round School

A joint resolution was filed this week by Rep. Kenny Rapiere, D-Bardonia, that would endorse 12-month calendar for state schools.

The resolution says "a year-round school calendar has the potential of more closely fitting the economic needs, work patterns and family lifestyles of today's society." The resolution proposes shorter vacation periods to replace long summer breaks.

Ungraded Primaries

Senate Bill 294, filed Monday by Sen. Charlie Borders, R-Russell, would allow schools to reinstate traditional grades Kindergarten through third grade to replace ungraded primaries.

The bill would allow local school councils or school boards to decide whether to use the ungraded primary program established by the 1990 Kentucky Education Reform Act.

Crime and Punishment

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved a bill Wednesday that would deny shock probation to most felony sex offenders.

Shock probation is an early release granted by a state judge who believes shorter incarceration is enough to deter further wrongdoing.

The bill now goes to the full Senate for a vote.

Also Wednesday, the House approved a bill that would create the penalty of life in prison without the possibility of parole for the most serious crimes. The bill would give juries considering capital crimes an option to the death penalty.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

County Mergers

The House Counties and Special Districts Committee voted 13-3 Tuesday to send a proposal to cut the number of Kentucky counties from 120 to 70 by the year 2023 to the full House for consideration.

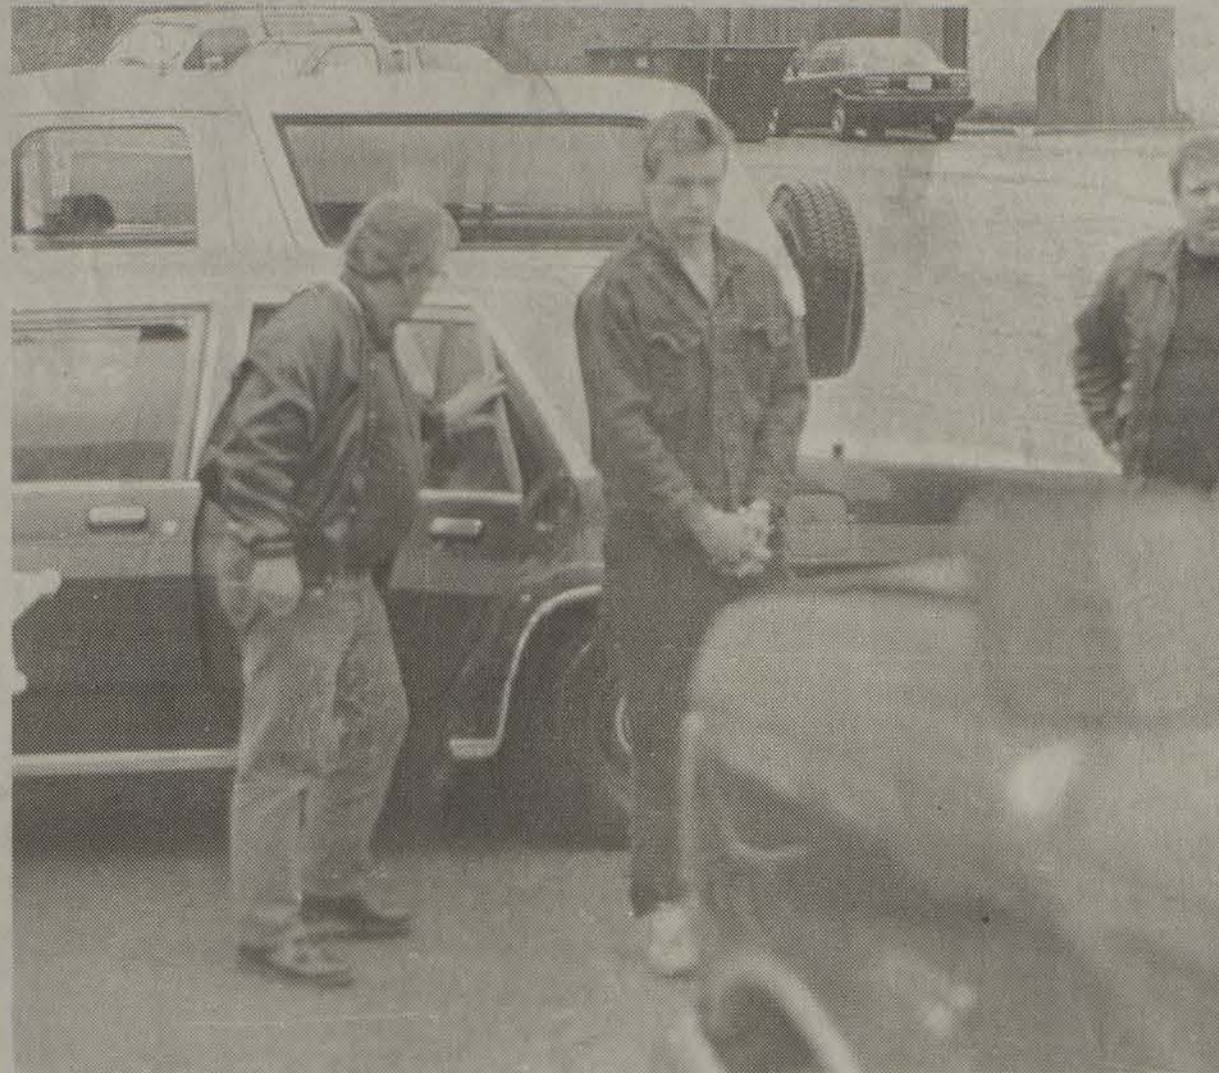

The proposal calls for the creation of a 33-member commission by August 1 which will prepare a proposal to be presented to the General Assembly detailing which counties should be consolidated.

News Council

A bill introduced this week by Sen. David Karem, D-Louisville, would establish a council to hear complaints against the news media.

The General Assembly would fund the council with a one-time, $1 million appropriation.

Decisions of the council would be non-binding on the media.

Court okays bond issues for jail, solid waste :

Meyer, Hammond at odds over disposal of debt, waste

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

In an effort to get Floyd County's solid waste department on secure financial footing, fiscal court members voted Thursday to float a bond issue which will alleviate problems with that department's cash flow.

Court members authorized issuing $8.4 million in bonds which includes $2.5 million for the solid waste department and $5.9 million to build a new county jail.

Bob Meyer, the court-appointed custodian of the solid waste department, told court members that the debt-refinancing bond issue would give the department 18 months to get organized without being worried about quarterly bond payments.

The first payment on the 1994 bond issue would be due in September 1995, Terrell Ross, bonding agent for the court, said Thursday.

Meyer added that the bond issue did not include over $500,000 in other outstanding debts.

After Thursday's special court meeting, Meyer explained that approximately $106,000 is owed for engineering work done for an interim landfill; that Floyd County could owe as much as $214,000 to Pike County for garbage disposal; and that it could cost as much as $540,000 to permanently close Floyd County's old landfill.

Meyer also said that approximately 38 percent of solid waste customers are delinquent on their accounts, which adds up to a "substantial amount" of money.

During Thursday's court meeting, Meyer and Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond had an apparent difference of opinion concerning the amount of money owed to Pike County.

Hammond said that he saw a videotape account of Meyer's meeting Monday with Pike County officials and that he did not agree with the amount of money Floyd County owed for garbage disposal. The county attorney also disagreed with Meyer's suggestion that Floyd County use Pike County's landfill as an immediate solution to some of the department's problems.

Meyer pointed out that the bills are adding up for repairs to the vehicles used to transport the county's garbage to West Virginia and he felt it would be cheaper to use Pike County's facility until a permanent solution to the solid waste crisis can be found.

Hammond disagreed and indicated that Meyer would have to approach the fiscal court before making any agreements with Pike County officials. Hammond also hinted that the fiscal court may pursue constructing another landfill at the Garth site once the court's "house is in order."

"Regardless of what the state says, if we file an application (to operate a landfill) and if we don't get a speedy reply, the (National Resources) secretary will be looking at us across the bench in Franklin County Circuit Court," Hammond said.

In February, Floyd Circuit Judge John David Caudill found that the seats on the Floyd County Solid Waste Commission were vacant because board members were not reappointed in January. Judge Caudill named Meyer as the custodian of the solid waste department.

Court does a double take on track bids

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

It took two tries Thursday for the Floyd County Fiscal Court to approve bid advertisements to construct parts of a harness racing facility.

Magistrates Tommy Neil Adams and Jackie Edford Owens almost stopped the project at Thursday's special fiscal court meeting when they voted against advertising for bids which included paving, fencing and concrete work at the race track site.

With Magistrate Gerald DeRossett absent from Thursday's meeting, the two no votes produced a tie when Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo and Magistrate Eral Tackett voted for the project.

"Do you folks understand what you're voting against?" Stumbo asked the magistrates. "It's just to put it out for contract."

Mountain Racing Incorporated is the private company building the Floyd County track which is located on Route 3 near Prestonsburg. Terrell Ross, who is a stockholder in Mountain Racing, was at Thursday's meeting and appeared to be perplexed with the court's vote.

"There's been a substantial amount of work done on the track based on the commitment of this court," Ross said. "If you don't approve this, the project will stop. It won't go forward. If the court didn't want to do this project, they should've stopped it last fall."

Auxier resident Dallas Sammons asked the court why the company couldn't bid the project.

County attorney Jim Hammond told Sammons that the county had extended $2.7 million in credit to Mountain Racing for the project. If the court didn't approve the project, the county would assume the $2.7 million debt.

It wasn't clear at Thursday's meeting why a second vote was called for or why Adams and Owens changed their votes.

After some discussion about bridge materials, Judge-Executive Stumbo called for the second vote on the bid advertisement.

On the second vote, the court voted unanimously to advertise for bids.

Adams declined to comment after the meeting. Owens left after the fiscal court meeting and did not attend the public properties corporation meeting.

The public properties corporation meeting had an agenda identical to the fiscal court's and was over quickly.

During the discussion on the race track, Forrest Music, a co-owner of the Auxier Water Company, asked the court who would pay to have water lines run to the track site.

Ross told Music that engineer Jim Wade would contact him about the issue.

Music told reporters that Wade had contacted him, but the issue was not resolved. Music said that a three-inch water line was near the track site, but a ten-inch water line needed to be installed. He estimated that it would cost $150,000.

The court did not address the issue.

The next regular meeting of the fiscal court will be Friday, March 18 at 10 a.m. at the courthouse annex which is located behind the Floyd County Courthouse. The meeting is open to the public.

Belcher takes over as school PR assistant

Geoff Belcher joined the administrative staff of the Floyd County Board of Education Tuesday as administrative assistant for personnel and communications.

Belcher, 25, fills the post vacated recently by Terry Spears.

Before accepting the position with the board of education, Belcher was managing editor of the Big Sandy News in Louisa. A former staff writer for the Floyd County Times and the East Kentucky Sun in Martin County, he has won awards through the Kentucky Press Association for his series in the Times on the proposed harness race track.

Belcher was previously employed with the Department of Mines and Minerals' central office in Lexington as an assistant to the press secretary and then as an assistant to the director of personnel.

Belcher, son of Edith and Bruce Belcher of Abbott Creek, received a degree in English from the University of Kentucky.

A member of Congressman Hal Rogers staff will visit the Wheelwright Senior Citizens Center on Thursday, March 17, at noon.

Rogers' representative will be on hand to discuss problems area residents have with the federal government regarding such agencies as Social Security, Black Lung or the Veterans Administration.

Not all's fair in remaking war :

Weather is often the enemy for 'soldiers'

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

"It's either too cotton pickin' hot to breathe or too cotton pickin' cold to stand it," said 5th Kentucky Confederate Quartermaster Don Johnson, about Civil War re-enacting.

Saturday, February 26, when the nighttime thermometer plummeted to ten degrees, it was just too "cotton pickin'" cold for Johnson and several of his fellow re-enactors.

About 15 members of the 5th Kentucky Confederate Re-enactment unit gathered on a hilltop meadow at Flat Gap in Johnson County. The property is owned by the family of John Jayne, a member of the 5th Kentucky. The plan called for the troop to build winter quarters.

Each shelter would be made from logs, stacked about 3 to 4 feet high. A canvas shelter tent would be used for the room. Each log structure would shelter about 3 or 4 "soldiers." A fire pit would be dug in the middle of each shelter to provide a fire for warmth and for cooking. That's how it was done in the 1860's and that's how it was supposed to be done Saturday.

Re-enactors who sheltered in their canvas tents Friday and Saturday night, felt the February wind and snow. But that's the life of a re-enactor who tries to experience the same hardships of their forefathers.

"There's never a happy medium at these things," Johnson said.

In addition to the cold, re-enactors were hampered by the thick brambles that needed to be cleared from the site. They plan to return at a later date to clear out the brush.

During the weekend excursion re-enactors drilled and conducted skirmishes. They also held live firing demonstrations, using actual bullets instead of the black powder blanks they use in re-enactments.

Winners included Harold, third place; Adams, fourth place; Martin, sixth place. Others were Betsy Layne Elementary, Maytown, Melvin, McDowell, Prestonsburg and Stumbo.

Jones' division of road funds leaves road improvements in the ditch

If you think fewer road improvements are being made in Floyd County than should be or those that are being made are going too slowly you are probably right.

"Basically, there just isn't adequate revenue to do what needs to be done," said Jack Fish, president of Kentuckians for Better Transportation, "and the Jones administration's continued diversion of Road Fund revenues to General Fund agencies just makes a bad situation worse."

"For the current biennium," said Fish, "some $63.5 million in road improvements that could have been made have not as a result of the transfer of Road Fund revenues to General Fund agencies. If the General Assembly goes along with the Governor's current proposal it means that $92 million in projects will be stopped in the next biennium. That totals some $156 million for the four years of the Jones administration."

"As an excuse for diverting the funds we've been hearing a great deal about how much better off the Road Fund is than the General Fund, but that just isn't the case," said Fish. In FY 1990, Road Fund receipts were $754.5 million. In FY 1994 they are expected to be $840.5 million—an 11.4 percent increase. General Fund receipts of $3.561 billion in FY 1990 grew to $4.599 billion by FY 1994—a 29.2 percent increase.

"It is incomprehensible to us," said Fish, "considering General Fund growth in comparison to Road Fund growth and the highway needs that are documented, that the Jones administration has recommended the funding of traditional General Fund programs out of the Road Fund."

"The transportation program is a critical factor in anyone's concept of an economic development program. It is a program that makes business and industry more efficient and makes it possible for communities to attract the 15-year period. On the other hand, not building the bridge would cost the region 6,300 jobs with a payroll loss of $93 million annually.

"If studies were done," said Fish, "they would show there are transportation impact situations like this all across Kentucky."

"It is critical that the General Assembly recognizes the economic significance of the road program for Kentucky's future and finds an alternative way of funding the State Police and other agencies rather than using existing Road Fund revenues."

KBT isn't alone in its opinion. In a recent speech, Sen. Kim Nelson, chairman of the Senate Transportation Committee, said, We must "preserve the integrity of the Road Fund. We can't keep designing six-year road plans and then divert the money to business and industry. In short, it is a program that creates taxpayers. Kentucky desperately needs more taxpayers."

The positive economic impact of improved roads and bridges is often taken for granted. There are few actual economic studies that are done to show their effect. A recent one was done in Louisville, however. It shows that a new Ohio River bridge at Louisville to complete the I-265 link between Kentucky and Indiana would generate an additional 17,200 jobs for the Louisville area by 2010, with cumulative wages of $4 billion over

Tonia Hale

Hale is recipient of $1,000 Wal-Mart Foundation community scholarship

Paul Lewellen, store manager of the Prestonsburg Wal-Mart, recently announced the selection of Tonia Hale of Prestonsburg as the recipient of the $1,000 Wal-Mart Foundation community scholarship. The scholarship is awarded each spring by Wal-Mart to an area college of university bound high school seniors and is payable over a one-year period.

Hale, a senior at Prestonsburg High School plans to attend Centre College in Danville this fall.

In making the announcement, Lewellen said, "It was a difficult decision for our team of well-qualified, local judges who had to select from many outstanding students."

Lewellen said that the scholarship criteria is based primarily on academic performance, involvement in the school and community, and financial need.

In addition, scholarship alternates selected are first alternate Brad Moore of McDowell and second alternate Jimmy Ramey of Wheelwright, who will attend Pikeville College.

Recognized for their efforts serving as judges in scholarship selection were David Copley and Gail Curry.

The Prestonsburg Wal-Mart Foundation community scholarship is one of over 2,000 scholarships totaling over $2 million being given by the Bentonville, Arkansas-based retail chain throughout its 48-state trade territory.

Soldiers

Kentucky group, also conducted a strategy meeting with the group, discussing upcoming events, including a winter encampment at Middle Creek in March and a re-enactment there in June.

A winter encampment will be held at Middle Creek around March 19. The 5th Kentucky will be joined by the 36th Virginia to look over the Middle Creek battlefield site and discuss the June re-enactment, Wright said.

A re-enactment of the Battle of Middle Creek was originally planned to coincide with a festival in May, but several units who were interested in attending Middle Creek had a prior commitment at Resaca, Georgia. Resaca will celebrate the 130th anniversary of the Civil War Battle on its field. Most of the Confederate units that fought there were Kentucky units.

Wright said about five units, representing 35-40 re-enactors, have confirmed that they will participate in the Battle of Middle Creek. Confederate infantry, cavalry, and artillery units plan to be part of the event, as well as one Union artillery unit.

One sutler will also set up his display on the battlefield. Suttlers were traveling salesmen who followed the beat of the drum. They displayed their wares under a tent, near the soldiers' campsites. Modern-day suttlers provide the re-enactors with uniforms, black powder, buttons, etc. Some suttlers also sell relics of the Civil War.

Fund-raising activities by the Battlefield Preservation Society will soon get underway, Wright said. "Funds are desperately needed to help us put on this re-enactment," he explained. "Volunteers are also needed to help during strategy sessions and also at the battle."

In addition to Wright and Johnson, other re-enactors participating in the weekend encampment were Allen Blanton, Steve Whitten, Rick Walz, John Jayne, Tom Burgess, Adam Burgess, Karl Adkins, Dan Foutch, Rick Bartley, Don McReynolds, Willis Thomas, John Thomas and Paul David Conley.

For more information about the 5th Kentucky or the upcoming battle, call the Chamber of Commerce at 886-1341.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

What was he doing there?

by Scott Perry

There is a first time for everything, they say, but when that first time involves the escape of prison inmates, we tend to react with considerably more concern.

And we should.

There is no question that the recent walk-away at the Otter Creek facility at Wheelwright could have been handled better.

Even prison officials won't dispute that.

But, what's done is done. It's important now to learn from the mistakes made following the Otter Creek incident and see that they don't happen again.

Adequate lines of communications need to be established between law enforcement officials and between the prison and the Wheelwright community, which should be on a first-alert basis when a breakout occurs.

While prison officials are considering ways to make the minimum security facility more secure, state officials need to reconsider the ways inmates are assigned to the prison.

One of the escapees from Otter Creek was a violent felon, serving time for manslaughter, who had a history of escape.

What the heck was he doing in a prison with no bars?

Just recently, you may recall, Governor Brereton Jones directed Corrections Cabinet officials to remove certain types of violent criminals from minimum-security prisons and return them to more secure facilities.

Apparently, the Governor's edict didn't cut deep enough into the pack.

We don't know what criteria is used to decide if a convict is eligible for a minimum security prison, but we do know that it needs to be revised.

We were fortunate this time that no innocent bystanders were victimized by this escape.

Next time, and there almost certainly will be a next time, we shouldn't have to rely on luck.

Let's stand together

Editor:

I received a letter from solid waste wanting all I owed. I have got news for them, I don't owe anything because I haven't used their service.

How do they know that I can buy a loaf of bread? These fat cats sit on their butts and demand these poor people to pay their big salaries and their dishonest debts. They ought to do some checking on some of these poor people and see what they can pay.

Who have they got to collect the bill from Pike County from the fat cats in Prestonsburg? What have they done with the money they have received?

I pay my honest debts. If you don't believe it, check with some of the best people in the world, the First Guaranty National Bank and the tax collector.

The fat cats have just about taken all our rights from us. You go buy a car and pay sales tax and every year you pay taxes on the same old car. Then, the fat cats sit back on their butts and tell you how to sit in it. They don't realize that some people can't stand to be buckled down and even if we do that's not a sure cure, that's only a fifty-fifty chance.

Maybe they won't get their way on that thanks to Paul Patton, he saved us the other time.

Another thing the fat cats are doing is trying to run the tobacco farmer out of business and they work hard trying to make a living.

It's their business if they want to chew or smoke. That's not half as bad as stealing from the poor to pay the dishonest debts like 911. Why don't you ever mention the whiskey makers? You say the number one killer is drunk driving. Chewing tobacco never did cause no one to wreck. There is too much money involved in the beer and wine ads. Take care of the sports and many other things. Leave the tobacco farmer alone and take care of the whiskey, beer and wine. Get that off the air like you did the tobacco.

We are supposed to have some leaders to stand for the poor, but I haven't seen anything they have done yet for the poor. Before they are elected, they are so interested in the people. Then we vote for them. Then another job comes open and they want that one. Sounds like to me all they are wanting is more tax money as the old saying goes "every dog has its day." Thank God for that.

You fat cats ought to set a day aside and think about what you could do to help the poor instead of trying to take very dime you can from them. Pay your own dishonest debts and leave the honest people alone.

Thanks again to our Floyd County Times. They are a wonderful bunch of people.

Drilling rights

Editor:

The citizens of Kentucky need legislation passed to keep the oil and gas companies from invading private property. It seems these companies have more rights to their minerals than we do our land and property. The way they look at it, you don't have anything as a landowner.

A gas company, Ashland Exploration, sent people to survey my property for a gas well and I stopped them. Their man told me that their broad form deed gave them the right to survey. I asked to see their deed and he told me that it was "in the making." Then they drilled a well on my land, where I have maps that I own the mineral.

The gas companies have been irritating people all around this state, and people think they just have to take it. I know better. Many of the mineral deeds are frauds, and we have rights as landowners. The gas and oil companies think they are above the law and they can do just about anything they please. If they have those kind of rights, we might as just forget about owning property.

If our government truly knows what is going on, surely they should step in, because we are not getting our share of freedom. I urge our representatives in Frankfort to please support H.B. 591 as a good start towards preventing these injustices. Please call your legislators today at 1 (800) 372-7181 and help protect our people, land and water from abuses by the oil and gas companies.

Info about Hall's descendants sought

I would like to hear from descendants of Samuel Hall Jr., 1826, Pike County, Kentucky. His children—Henry 1854, Emelanda 1856, Francis Marion 1858, Mary or (Annette) 1859, Jane 1861, Alcey or Elcey 1863. All born in Floyd County. Their brother William was my great-grandfather.

Also, I would like to hear from anyone knowing the whereabouts of Laqueti Goodman—she lived in Drift, Kentucky, in 1941. She would be in her 60's now.

Senior citizen says no to Clinton's plan

Editor:

As a member of the Seniors Coalition, I want you to know that most Seniors do not favor the Clinton Health Care plan.

Under the Clinton plan, senior citizens will surely face drastic cuts in Medicare coverage, lose their right to choose their own doctors, face long waiting lines, and possibly be denied life-saving medical treatment.

These matters are documented in a report, available at no charge, from the 2-million member Seniors Coalition. I urge you to contact the Coalition today at (703) 273-5449, get a copy of their report, then do stories that will alert people in our area to the real facts behind the Clinton Health Care Plan. Thank you.

Got Something to Say?

Say it in a Letter to The Editor

What others are saying

The following articles are excerpts of editorials taken from Kentucky newspapers

Let Boysen Bill die

The so-called "Boysen Bill" is expected to die an unceremonious death in the Kentucky Senate. The measure would be a backward step in the effort to remove politics from Kentucky's schools and make it more difficult to attract the best candidates for the job of education commissioner.

The bill, which has been approved by the House, would require Senate approval of any contract for education commissioner longer than two years.

The measure is the brainchild of House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, who insists that it is not aimed at education commissioner Thomas C. Boysen personally. Don't believe it.

This is Stumbo's effort to get back at Boysen for his recommendation that the state take over the school system in Stumbo's native Floyd County. Never mind that the Floyd County school district probably was the most politically controlled, ineptly managed and educationally bankrupt system in Kentucky.

Under Stumbo's bill, a powerful legislator could put pressure on a commissioner not to take action against a local school district by using the non-renewal of the commissioner's contract as a threat. Such political meddling in school decisions is exactly what the 1990 Kentucky Education Reform Act has tried to remove.

Under the reform act, the Senate confirms gubernatorial appointees to the state Board for Elementary and Secondary Education, which in turn, employs the education commissioner. That's all the legislative oversight that's needed in the choice of a commissioner. — The (Ashland) Daily Independent, reprinted in the Lexington Herald-Leader

Merging county governments would not serve rural areas

We disagree with the Lexington Herald-Leader editorial praising the efforts of some state lawmakers to reduce the number of counties through consolidation. We challenge the notion that the "abundance of small local governments breeds waste, corruption and incompetence...the state would be better off with fewer counties."

First of all, there is an tremendous amount of waste and incompetence in state government. Many county and city governments are managed considerably more effectively than state government.

We oppose consolidation of county governments because of the dramatic, negative impact it would have on county seats in rural communities. County seats attract residents of that county to the stores and businesses on the main street that often leads to the courthouse. Consolidation of the county governments would further damage the economic vitality of rural county seats.

County seats are cultural and social centers for rural counties. County seats unite folks and encourage a sense of belonging to their larger community.

We agree that there are governmental services that could be consolidated and that there are some government posts that should be eliminated or altered.

Consolidation of county government would not improve the quality of government services to rural communities. More effective state governments working with local officials is the better solution to eliminating any waste, corruption or incompetence that may exist in county governments. — Troublesome Creek Times

Water loss law should treat all mines same

If coal mining causes contamination of drinking water supplies, the mining company ought to correct the problem. It shouldn't matter whether the company is engaged in deep mining or surface mining.

Now, though, the type of mining does make a difference in Kentucky. If someone's water supply is damaged by surface mining, the mine operator has to replace that supply. Unfortunately, the same rules don't apply to underground mining.

House Bill 338 would correct this disparity. Sponsored by state Rep. Clayton Little, the bill would require operators of underground mines to replace water supplies damaged by their mining. Mine operators would have to test nearby water supplies before obtaining a mining permit. If the mining causes deterioration in those water supplies, the operator would have to pay for digging new wells or for hookup to a municipal water system.

That sounds simple and just. But the coal industry claims the rules would be onerous to mine operators. As a result, HB 338 is stalled for the moment in the House Natural Resources and Environment Committee.

It's hard to understand why. As state officials told the committee the other day, surface mine operators have had to comply with rules similar to HB 338's provisions since 1978. Since both methods of mining can harm nearby water supplies, replacement rules should apply equally in both cases. — Lexington Herald-Leader

Other Voices

by Patricia Murphy

I remember a few years ago standing in the former Little Bear Market every evening talking to teachers who had come together in a common cause. I can remember the pride I felt when teachers realized they were empowered by standing together. They felt good about themselves and I was so proud of them. We learned to stick together to survive. Do you remember the way things were before?

Teachers were afraid to speak out for fear of retaliation. Teachers were being transferred as punishment if they spoke out. Teachers were fired because they had the audacity to speak public about wanting a raise in pay and changes in the system to see that the needs of the children we taught were made a priority by our district leaders. Teachers felt they deserved to be paid for the extra duties they performed. Do you remember when your allotment for classroom materials was somewhere from 0 dollars all the way up to 50 whole dollars? All of these issues have been dealt with by teachers of Floyd County through their professional organization. They were hard fought battles but we won those battles.

Do you remember when teachers were at the whim of local and state politicians? When your classes were interrupted so you could be told if you did not vote the "right" way your position at that school or even your job could be in jeopardy the next year.

How many state interventions, state assistance's, and finally a takeover of our school system do you remember? Where were our political leaders when we were going through all these tribulations? Did any one of them step in on behalf of teachers? I don't remember if they did. Has any politician taken Floyd County teachers under their wing and championed their cause? No they have not.

The progress that teachers have made in Floyd County has happened because teachers, through their association, have spoken out without fear about things we feel are not right, with the knowledge that our strength comes from our having come together, worked together, and learned to trust each other. All these changes have come about because of us, not the politicians. I can cite no example where they have supported us but I can cite many where they have harmed us individually or collectively.

Do we want to return to those days teachers?

This is a personal statement reflecting only my views.

Kentucky Opry

by Billie Jean Osborne

Last October, I was invited to speak at the Rotary Club in Pikeville. What would they want to hear about, I wondered?

Of course, it was about the Kentucky Opry. They especially wanted me to enlighten them as to how we find this talent and how we put together the performing groups. I passed a schedule to them as to how I travel to all the schools in Floyd County and work with music teachers and some classroom teachers.

It is quite easy to find a child who sings well and it's also easy to immediately detect students who excel in drama. Finding young folk who play string instruments had to be found in a different way.

We attended a talent show at Betsy Layne High School and discovered three boys who had all the talents needed to start a Jr. Pro group. We took these students, started working with them, and soon others came forth wanting to know how they could be part of this program.

And, now you know the rest of the story.

When I speak of we, David Morris is the person to whom I'm referring. David helps me with the Jr. Pro groups. He plays violin and fiddle in the Kentucky Opry. He gives lessons on five of the string instruments: violin, guitar, banjo, steel guitar and hammer dulcimer.

Since this day in October with the Rotary Club, blessings are overflowing for a family who attended that meeting. A mother and her four daughters now practice and perform string instruments. The children are in first, third, fourth and sixth grades.

The youngest is playing violin. Two of the children play guitars and one plays the piano. The mother plays the banjo.

This week I was invited back to a rotary meeting in Pikeville. I was there this time to listen.

David Morris and this musical family were in charge of the program. There certainly was a lot of pickin' and grinnin'! The little gal on the violin had lost four front teeth and she just smiles when she plays the violin. Her smiles were returned by all in the room, especially her father, who was so proud.

David and the musical mom and four daughters performed for 30 minutes. They even brought their straw hats along to do the Beverly Hillbillies tune. You should hear David and the little one performing a violin duet, "Tennessee Waltz," with mom accompanying them at the piano. I'm sure the dad came close to having a heart attack when he spent all that money for those instruments, but his heart is aching for a different reason. Now, it's nearly bursting with pride. I was asked to come forth after this performance and express to them my feelings about this program. I had one remark to make: I thank God there is a family who is turning off the tube at home and giving the kids an opportunity to make entertainment for themselves with mom and dad lending an ear.

Why should we build a Mountain Arts Center? So we can begin training these children at an early age, get them on stage and who knows, tourists just might come from near and far to be entertained by our talented young people.

Perkins Rehabilitation Center; Kelly Adam, director of PCC's Wellness Center; Lynn Weddle, associate professor of nursing at PCC; and Dr. Deborah L. Floyd, college president.

Also scheduled in the series was a presentation on February 28 by Susan Hunter, representative of Weight Watchers International, and a tour on March 5 of PCC's Wellness Center.

Grand Slam on "the hill"

The Grand Slam reception held recently for Chapter I students and their parents at Betsy Layne High School had a great turn-out.

Parents were shown their children's class work and given progress reports. Parents who couldn't attend were given progress reports over the phone and were invited to come by and discuss their child's class work with either Mrs. Myra Barnett or Mrs. Reba Sue Hammond-Hamilton, Chapter I teachers.

Barnett and Hammond-Hamilton also updated parents on their plans to produce the best Chapter I program in the state.

"We have computers and new programs that we are working on at present," Hammond-Hamilton said. "Mrs. Susan Compton, Chapter I director, has assured us that we will have additional tables, on-line computer programs and other computers repaired or replaced that need it."

"The goal of Mrs. Barnett and myself is to have the best high school Chapter I program in the state," Hammond-Hamilton continued. "We think that with the help of Dr. Towler, the Floyd County Board, and Mrs. Compton, we will have a top program in the near future.

"Mrs. Barnett and I are also planning an end-of-school reception for the parents and Chapter I students. We are sure there will be an even greater improvement in the students' reading abilities and our equipment to help the students 'be all they can be.' Myra and I both think that reading is the basic ingredient for learning."

At the reception, soft drinks, chips and dip, cake and cookies were served to parents by Chapter I students.

Appreciation

AND BE COUNTED

There aren't too many things that happen during the month of March.

However, it is American Red Cross, Frozen Food, Mental Retardation, National Peanut, National Women's History, Youth Art, and National Nutrition Month. And this year only, if you live in Johnson, Lawrence, Boyd, and certain parts of Elliott and Magoffin counties, you can add one more important date to your calendar - an election. (If you live in any other county, you'll have to wait until May).

That's right, folks!

During that unpredictable month when on any given day, the snow might be blowing, the rain might be pouring down, or the sun might be shining (all on the same day no less), a special election is being held to elect someone to complete the unexpired term for the office of State Senate.

Just four months following the November general election folks are going to have to remember to go to the polls and cast their ballot for a person to represent them in Frankfort even if it isn't the first Tuesday after the first Monday, or the last Tuesday after the last Monday in the month. This election is being held the first Tuesday after the first Monday during the third month of the year.

Supposedly, special elections aren't uppermost in people's minds. Prior special election results indicate that fewer than nine percent of registered voters will venture to the polls to cast their vote for someone who will be determining issues that directly affect their lives.

As the daughter of a politician, I never could understand why people didn't vote. And this wasn't just because of my personal involvement either. My father always reminded his family that by failing to vote we were forfeiting an important patriotic duty; forfeiting a right that came at the cost of many lives of those who believed in democracy. And though that statement might sound corny to some people, it's the truth. When we ignore politicians because we don't trust them, when we belittle our government because it isn't working, we are the ones who fail the system, not the other way around. (Personally, voting makes me feel significant. If not that then at least equal for the length of time it takes to push the button).

The first election my father won was by a margin of two. A recount resulted in three. So if anybody thinks their vote doesn't count, think again. And in special elections, the final results are often that close. So the next time you hear the expression "too close to count," you'll know what it means.

Hopefully, the weather will cooperate and concerned citizens will have a warm, sun drenched day in which to enter the voting booth and pull the lever for the person they think will represent them with "honesty and integrity." Try to be one of those people. If you want to be somebody, stand up, cast your vote, and be counted.

March 8th! Don't forget! Be there!

Chicago artist exhibits in Pikeville

In search of more culture in your life or a more creative way to spend your lunch hour?

Try viewing an art exhibit. Each month, the Weber Gallery at Pikeville College exhibits the work of a different artist. During the month of March the art of R.C. Nichols is on display.

Nichols, a Chicago native, says that he has made a life-long pursuit of using both traditional and non-traditional materials and methods including paint, printmaking, cameras, and computers.

Nichols, an adjunct professor at the College of DuPage in Illinois, attended his first art classes at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago (SAIC) when he was eleven years of age. He has returned to the SAIC from time to time over the years and has now earned his BFA degree.

He traveled frequently as a young man and spent four years in active duty with the U.S. Air Force. He has lived in Denver, Tucson, RAF Henswell in England, Seattle, San Francisco, San Jose, Camden, and Indianapolis. In recent years his work has appeared in group and solo shows in the Chicago area as well as many shows in the midwest, south, and in New York City.

About his art, Nichols says, "It is a pursuit of exploration. It is the life-long pursuit of the undiscovered and perhaps never totally discoverable boundaries which encompass the experiences of being human.

Undiscovered things

The art of R.C. Nichols is now on display in Pikeville College's Marguerite Weber Gallery. The exhibit will run through the month of March. Pat Kowalok, gallery direction, arranges the paintings to enhance their impact for visitors.

It is a way of pushing limits. Making art is an experience in timelessness."

The show is free of charge and may be viewed Mondays, 8 a.m.-noon and 1 p.m.-3 p.m.; Tuesdays and Thursdays, 8-9:30 a.m. and 12:30-1:30 p.m.; Wednesdays, 8 a.m.-3 p.m.; and Fridays, 8-10 a.m.

A reception with the artist will be held in the Weber Gallery on Wednesday, March 9, from 4-6 p.m. For more information, contact gallery director Pat Kowalok at 437-3444.

The epicenter of the January California earthquake is five miles from the United States' largest egg farm, where hens had produced their usual 1 million eggs in the hours before the quake hit. The damage to the farm was a snapped water line, toppled empty egg pallets, and a total of one broken egg. Said manager Robert Wagner to his employees, "We had a 6.6 earthquake that broke less eggs than you guys do when we're working."

LAST DAYS OF THE PLANET

In a report in a recent issue of Audubon magazine, Ursula Garza de Garza of the border town of Matamoros, Mexico, mentioned that her dogs no longer have a flea problem. "We grab the dogs and stick them in the canal (that connects several Matamoros chemical companies), and the fleas are gone. All the hair falls off, too, but gradually it comes back."

The Washington Times, citing a Federal Protective Service report, revealed in May that staff and volunteers of the 1993 Clinton inaugural stole $154,000 worth of electronic equipment used for the festivities.

In January, an investigation by a British network TV news program revealed that the late Ferdinand Marcos' stashed-away gold fortune totals 1,200 tons — the equivalent of 15 percent of the contents of Fort Knox and about 1 percent of all the gold ever mined in the world.

A London veterinarian said in January that Eileen Wilson's pet bird Peter died of lung cancer from Wilson's smoking. Wilson disputed the diagnosis, claiming that her previous bird had lasted 12 years despite her smoking and that Peter had only begun to cough during his last days.

To protect its town Christmas tree from thieves and vandals this season, the city of Moncton, New Brunswick, enclosed its 20-foot-high tree inside a 10-foot-high chainlink circulation to suit bats.

FETISHES ON PARADE

In November, Sharon Ryan, a former patient and employee of renowned diet doctor Walter Kempner, filed a lawsuit against him in Durham, N.C., alleging that they had a long-term affair during which he physically and emotionally abused her.

pen for the duration of the holidays.

According to the newspaper feature "Earth Week," Australia has recently employed 80 hens as sentinels so authorities will know when an expected invasion of mosquitos on the central Queensland coast has started, and Russia has recently employed rats at the border to munch on samples of Chinese potatoes to check their edibility.

In January, five prison guards at the Boise, Idaho, Maximum Security Institution were accused of taunting death row inmates by playing a 1971 Neil Young song "The Needle and the Damage Done" during a scheduled execution-by-injection.

The organization Bat Conservation International proposed recently that the former Pease Air Force Base in New Hampshire convert 15 vacant nuclear missile bunkers into bat caves. The bunkers apparently have just the proper temperature, humidity and air because he caught Samuel having sex with one of the two pit bulls belonging to the owner of the trailer in which they had been partying. In fact, Jimmy had called 911 twice that evening to report the molesting. A deputy shot and killed the dog later that evening because it was foaming at the mouth and had attacked him. An autopsy on Samuel turned up no dog hairs or other evidence of molestation.

In August, the Economic Evening News of Taiyuan, China, reported that a woman in her 30s, unidentified in the story, had eaten more than 800 rubber nipples from baby bottles in the last three years. A province health official said all family members apparently like the smell of rubber.

LEAST COMPETENT CUSTOMERS

In January and February, Oklahoma City police turned up several motorists who had purchased automobile liability insurance coverage under "God's Insurance Policy." The salesmen had convinced the customers that such coverage would comply with Oklahoma's mandatory-insurance law, even though the $285 policy contained mostly text from the Bible, stated that it was "issued by the Father, Son and the Holy Ghost," and reasoned that since it was "fear" that caused accidents, the policy would protect its purchasers even better than commercial insurance would.

You may not know it, but there is a real crisis going on now, as we speak, in the lawyer business.

Every week a new face pops up on the television screen urging you to sue the socks off somebody and get what's rightfully yours without working for it.

Did you know that this very minute somebody out there is trying to cheat you out of a disability check?

And you didn't even know you were disabled.

Well, you're not a lawyer now are you?

Do you have black lung? A black eye? A black cat? Are you the black sheep in your family?

Have you been injured in an accident that was your own clumsy fault but you can pretend that it happened at work?

Have you racked up credit card bills higher than the national debt and are the people you owe impolite when they ask you to pay up?

YOU DON'T HAVE TO TAKE THAT HARASSMENT!!!!

That's what lawyers are for.

You only have to pay their fees if you win and you're sure to win because insurance companies are LOADED with dough because all us poor slobs have to pay insurance premiums because the lawyers have written the laws that say so.

And, if you don't win your case, heck, you can get another lawyer and sue the one who lost.

What are you waiting for?

GET OFF YOUR BUTT AND GET IN THERE

AND SUE SOMEBODY BEFORE ALL THE MONEY IS GONE!!!

You wanna get your share, don't you?

You don't want to put all the lawyers out of work, do you?

Those books they pose in front of during their television commercials cost money, big money.

And do you think those bookshelves are cheap?!

And that desk. That desk cost more than your car.

Somebody's got to pay for all that stuff, so quit stallin'.

Call a lawyer right now, this very minute and find out who owes you a living.

They've got lists and can custom tailor a lawsuit to meet your financial needs.

Don't delay, file suit today.

Before somebody sues you first.

A seething Gloria humiliated Adam in front of the Enchantment stockholders. After coming out of surgery, a bandage-wrapped Janet called out for Trevor. Back in court, Erica exploded in front of the jury after learning Fields had been alone with Bianca. When Livia stunned the courtroom with new information about Fields, he collapsed on the stand. Wait To See: John makes two disturbing discoveries.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Caleb gave Holden the tape from Hans. Samantha and John comforted Lucinda who was distraught about Lily. Hans taunted Lily about Holden and threatened her with a time bomb. Holden realized where Lily was, and rushed to free her. As Hans tormented them, Lily accidentally tripped the bomb's timer. Damian worried Holden's interference may have endangered Lily, while Eduardo said Hans may have eliminated a problem in Damian's marriage, namely, Holden. Shannon acted strangely when Courtney mentioned feeling claustrophobic while she was trapped in the rubble. Wait To See: Damian gets upsetting news.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: Brooke came on to James but he got her to admit she still loved Ridge. Later, James told Taylor he had met an interesting woman and hoped for a more intimate relationship. He then admitted he was still a virgin and had always dreamed his first experience would be with Taylor. When Macy didn't respond to Thorne's plea that he still loved her, he walked out again. Sally was sure she and Anthony would become lovers. Karen told Connor she was pregnant. Wait To See: Anthony makes a surprising decision.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: In the courtroom, Laura contradicted Kate's assertion that she never knew Curtis, revealing that Kate and Curtis were once married. Austin seemed drawn to the idea that Kate might be his mother but Billie was put off by the idea when Kate accused her of sleeping with Curtis. As evidence seemed to point to Kate as the killer, Lucas confessed he murdered Curtis. Tony realized he had to keep Kristen from learning Stefano was still alive, and urged his father to leave town. Before sailing off, Stefano called John and played the tormenting Wagner music. Carrie was upset about Sami going on a date with Alan. Wait To See: John has another disturbing brush with his past.

Steve asked Mac to consider giving Miguel a job at the Outback. Sonny hoped for a better chance with Brenda. Wait To See: Ned has a new problem to deal with.

GUIDING LIGHT: Vanessa refused to tell Roger where Hart was. Eleni reluctantly apologized to Julie and asked her to come back. Pauly told Buzz what he's really after. Roger told Tangie he knew where her mother was, and then asked if she got Josh to tell her where Hart was. Bridget and David tried to get legal information to persuade a lawyer to help her regain custody of Peter. Increasingly obsessed with Frank, Julie arranged for him to see her coming out the shower. Alexandra was upset when Alan-Michael gave Jenna money to market her lotion. Wait To See: Buzz confronts Jenna about her feelings for him.

LOVING: Curtis and Dinah Lee came to the hospital and found Dante's bed empty. Meanwhile, Dante had slipped into another patient's room and much to his dismay, mistakenly underwent a tonsillectomy. Dante hired a guard to plant seeds of doubt in Curtis' mind about Dinah Lee and Trucker's relationship. Buck and Trucker found a towel with Egypt's blood type in Ava's car trunk. When Buck threatened to expose Egypt, she reminded him of his secret. Leonard got a job as a repairman in Stacey's house. Wait To See: Ava feels hopelessly trapped.

ONELIFETOLIVE: Jealous of Powell's interest in Rebecca, Emily conned him into taking her to the school dance. Max lied to Luna about his whereabouts, and then headed off to the casino. To Alex's chagrin, Asa didn't propose, which led to her losing their bet and her half of Olanov's. To spare herself further emotional pain, Cassie said goodbye to Dorian. Blair stopped Dorian from skipping bail and leaving the country. Angela's letter to Cord arrived, but fell behind a desk where little Sarah found it. Wait To See: Dorian is confronted with a new problem.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Victor learned the paternity tests on him and Oakley were inconclusive and would require cells from Eve's body. With Douglas' help, Victor managed to get the petition for exhumation into court without Cole's knowledge. Nikki told Cole he helped her conquer her fear of horseback riding. Victoria cancelled plans to go away with Ryan. Without telling Paul,

April met with Robert who promised he would not be abusive again if she returned home with him. Cole told Nikki he would visit his mother's grave the next day. Hoping to improve his chances for a better visitation schedule with Colleen, Brad decided to end his bachelor status by proposing to Lauren. Wait To See: Chris begins her new life without Danny.

TUNING IN

THE POWER OF WORDS: Now that ABC's "NYPD Blue" has become a solid hit, and actors such as Dennis Franz, Sherry Stringfellow, David Caruso, et al, are among the country's more recognized television stars courtesy of the series, it hardly seems possible that the show could have been canceled before it debuted when it was attacked by groups complaining about its frank language and rather explicit sexual situations.

David Milch, who, along with Steven Bochco co-created and co-executive produces the series said, "And the strange thing is the show was condemned by those who never even saw it. It's frightening enough to have pressure groups try to censor what they've seen and consider not coming up to their moral standards; it's more frightening to have them try to control something they can only assume may be offensive."

The series challenged a lot of taboos of American television. Words we used to think were confined to men's locker rooms or, indeed, police squad rooms, are now heard on the show, and yet, our lives go on as if these expressions and/or euphemisms for body parts and functions were always part of our common speech.

"Words," Milch says, "have a great deal of power. They are the most important part of how we communicate with each other as a species. However, sometimes we give them too much power and we make them taboo. Yet, whenever we break that taboo, we find they're just words, nothing more."

DIAL TONES: On March 9, Lifetime airs "And Then There Was One," a true story about comedy writers, Roxy and Vinnie Ventola who, after years of fertility treatments, became parents only to learn four months later their daughter, and they, were HIV-positive. Amy Madigan, who plays Roxy, said, "It was a difficult role for me. I had had my own baby three months before starting the film and now I was playing someone who lost her baby and husband within six days of each other..."

Roxy has refused to simply wait out her time. Instead, she's become a deeply involved AIDS activist.

Siegfried and Roy, the illusionists (and probably the most humane animal trainers in the world), have signed to do a special for ABC which begins production this spring. It will feature spectacular effects and "...look more like a movie than a variety TV show," says producer and manager, Bernie Yuman.

SCHINDLER'S LIST

This film will most certainly go down in history as a cinematic masterpiece. Years from now, when we are all mere memories in a distant relative's mind, this movie will be shown over and over again to generation after generation, reminding them of the horror that was Nazi Germany.

Liam Neeson portrays Oskar Schindler, a German-Catholic industrialist who joins the Nazi Party in order to preserve his business. He doesn't really believe in what they preach but he is the ultimate pragmatist. When we first see him, he has been transferred to Poland to run an enamelware factory. Once there, he employs only Jewish labor since it's cheaper than hiring non-Jewish workers.

In the beginning, Schindler is no hero. While hiring Jews keeps them from the death camps, it takes him a while to ultimately realize that, and to become aware of the heinous cruelty of the camps.

Schindler's plant manager, Itzak

Stern (Ben Kingsley), aids him in choosing the employees. As he gets to know Schindler, Stern realizes that there is a potential in the man to become a rescuer for the Jews.

Amon Goeth (Ralph Fiennes) is the commandant of a nearby concentration camp. He rails at Schindler at every turn. It seems he can't wait to exterminate more Jews and he wants those under Schindler's protection. All the while, though, Schindler remains ostensibly friendly with the monster in order to throw him off the track of what's really going on.

Those who see this film will finally realize the value of black and white cinema. The stark contrast drives home the brutal reality of what's being portrayed on the screen.

The script itself is masterful and the actors do it great credit. Steven Spielberg, always recognized as a genius, has finally "grown up," so to speak. I can only hope that with this four-star, surefire Oscar winner, it is the beginning of more of such fare from Mr. Spielberg.

HOME TIPS

LONG HAIR—My 8-year-old daughter has very long hair. As a result, every morning it was a battle to brush the knots out of her hair. I have found a great solution for this. Every night after her shower, we comb out her hair and braid it. There are no knots to comb out in the morning.

Because her hair is straight, one large braid will give her hair a lot of body when it dries. If she wants a kinky look, I will put it up in several braids. This has saved both of us a lot of headaches! Maria Y., Sandwich, Mass.

CREATE YOUR OWN SCENES—For those people who collect those lighted Christmas villages, here are some ideas to help complete a town scene.

Batting makes a nice base of "snow." A book or box can be used under it to make a hill, and you can sprinkle glitter over the batting so it will sparkle.

A mirror can be a frozen pond. Place a few stones at the edges to complete the look. Also, pebbles can make walkways.

Small sticks can be glued together with white household glue (it dries clear) to make a stack of firewood for the outside one of the houses. Vicky T., Cairo, Ill.

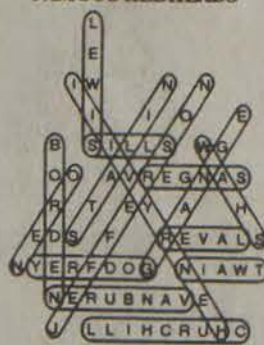

RECYCLING TIP—I recycle my recloseable plastic food-storage bags. After I use them, I wash and dry them. They are then ready to use over and over again. Gina H., Racine, Wis.

FIREPLACE ODOR—We have a fireplace and in the winter, I take a tin can and fill it half-full of water, put a few drops of potpourri oil in it and sit it toward the front. The heat brings out the smell of the oil all through the house.

You can also use vanilla flavor and other flavoring and get the same results. It smells nice and there's no stale fireplace odor. Hilda B., Sunnyside, N.Y.

WICKER CARE—Wicker furniture and baskets don't wear out as fast as they dry out. Give them a good wetting with the garden hose every year or so and they will last longer. Kelliann M., Ft. Myers, Fla.

Young Authors

Amanda Nicole Osborne

The Floyd County Times and the Department of Instruction of Floyd County Schools jointly feature the student work of Amanda Nicole Osborne a primary Young Authors' winner from Mrs. Deborah Reynolds' class at Stumbo Elementary. Amanda is the daughter of Glen Dale and Angie Osborne of Beaver. Her book, "How the Bunnies Got Their Tails!" which is printed with permission, was the winner in the primary "Nonillustrated" book competition. Amanda was a room winner, a school winner, and a county-wide winner for the 1992-93 school year for her book. She received a $50 U.S. Savings Bond at a spring awards ceremony. Approximately, 5,000 elementary and middle school students participated in competition throughout the county.

How the Bunnies got their tails!

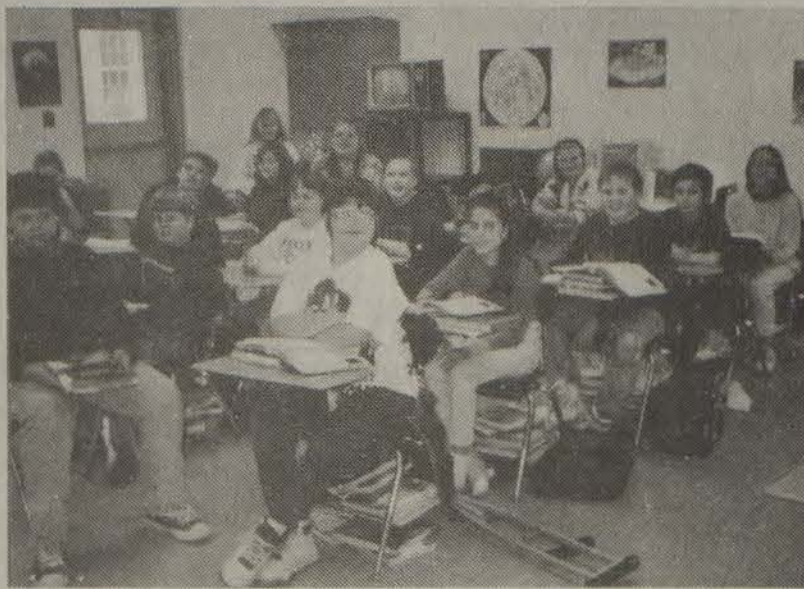

by Amanda Osborne
Mrs. Reynolds
Primary School
Stumbo Elem.

Long, long ago there were some cute little bunnies. They were white and gray. They had long ears, big feet, but no tail.

One day the little bunnies were playing with some other animals and noticed that the other animals had tails and they didn't. So one little bunny asked his friend the squirrel, "Where did you get your long furry tail? His friend said, "My mom gave it to me."

So the little bunny decided he was going to go home and ask his mom where his furry tail was. On his way he met a wolf. He asked the wolf, "Why are you looking at me that way?"

The wolf said, "I'm hungry and you look delicious." The bunny said, "but I don't have a pretty tail like everyone else." Wolf kept going toward the little rabbit and so he started running across a big field of cotton. When the little rabbit stopped running across a big field of cotton he noticed something different about him. He turned around, and he saw a little furry tail. He was so happy. He wanted to go back and show all of his friends his new tail. That's how the little bunny got his cotton tail.

Rebels' volleys prove too hot for South Floyd Raiders to handle

by Jason Blanton
Contributing Writer

The old saying in basketball is, "It's hard to beat a team three times in one season."

Well, Allen Central put that old adage to rest Wednesday night in the opening round of the 58th District at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse.

The Runnin' Rebels jumped out early on South Floyd and coasted to an 88-48 win. The win was the fifth over the Raiders this season for Allen Central.

South Floyd (5-18) got an inside bucket by Alan Joe Moore to give the Raiders an early 4-2 advantage. It would mark the last time that the North Beaver team would lead.

Allen Central ran off the next 22 points. Jeremy Hall scored seven points in the run while Steve Turner added two three-pointers.

Freshman Thomas Jenkins' old-fashioned three-point play pushed the Runnin' Rebel lead to 26-4. Phillip Patton's put-back basket upped the advantage 26-4.

Frasure, Wiley compete in national meet

Three local graduates, Karen Frasure, a 1989 graduate of Prestonsburg High School, Tonya Lewis, a 1993 graduate of Johnson Central High School and Jenny Wiley a 1993 graduate of Allen Central high school are competing in the NSCAA District Tournament.

The tournament began March 3 at Blackburn College in Carlinville, Illinois, and will conclude March 5.

The tournament includes teams from Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Arkansas, Illinois, Texas, California and Kentucky. Midway College is ranked fifth heading into the tournament and will meet Arkansas Baptist College in first round action.

All three players have been an instrumental part of the Eagle's most successful season in recent history (22-11). Tonya, a center, is among the leaders on the team in field goal percentage (48.5 percent), rebounding (4.1 per game) and scoring (7.1 pts. per game). Jenny is among the leaders on the team in free throw percentage (76.8 percent) and scoring (7.3 pts. per game), and averages just under 2 steals per game.

Karen Frasure, a senior, has had a remarkable career at Midway College being named to the NSCAA All-American Team. She currently leads the team in field goal percentage (53.8 percent) and scoring (13.1 pts. per game) and is among the leaders in rebounding (4.5 per game). In addition to her outstanding play on the court, Karen was named to the Dean's List for the 1993 Fall Semester.

South Floyd broke its scoring drought with a basket by Ryan Hamilton towards the end of the first quarter to place the score at 26-6.

"In a game like that there is a lot of pressure. When we got up 10 points in the first quarter it made it a lot easier," said Allen Central coach John Martin.

"I believe it's the first time since I've been coaching that a team of mine has beaten someone five times in a year."

The Rebels continued their outstanding play in the second period.

Allen Central's lead never dipped below 17 in the quarter. The biggest advantage for Allen Central was with 2:39 remaining in the half on a jumper by Hall. Hall's basket gave his club a 41-17 lead.

South Floyd scored the final four in the first half with buckets by John Lee Hall and Michael Stephens to place the score at 41-21 at the break.

"We really thought that South Floyd would try to slow down the game. But when we started like we did and they got down by that many they had to try to get back into the game," said Martin.

"We came out and played with a lot of confidence, which is always good in post season play."

South Floyd had more trouble to begin the second half. The Raiders turned the ball over the first four times that they had it in the half.

Allen Central used that and, with two free throws by Turner, led 50-21 with 6:25 left in the third period.

Jenkins' three-point play with 3:29 left pushed the advantage to 55-25.

South Floyd scored five straight, all coming from the free-throw line.

Hall and Hamilton canned a pair of free tosses and Moore added one of two to cut the lead to 55-30 with 1:40 left.

But Jenkins' jumper with 33 seconds left in the period pushed the lead to 17 (57-30) at the end of the quarter.

The closest the Raiders would get in the fourth quarter was 27 while the Rebels at least one game on their home floor during next week's regional tournament.

Back in 1991, Allen Central did not make it to the tournament when the regional was held on its home floor.

"You have to get that first one to make it to the regional. We are happy with the win and happy to be able to play on our home floor next week."

"After you get there (regional tournament), you have to take them one at a time."

Jenkins led Allen Central, which improved to 22-6, with 23. Martin added 18 while Hall finished with 10.

For South Floyd, no one was in double figures. Moore led the Raiders with nine while Hamilton added eight.

Prestonsburg played Betsy Layne last night in the other first-round game. Details were not available at press time Thursday night.

Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats pounce Raiders to win, 75-39

by Rick Bentley
Appalachian News-Express

Betsy Layne's Lady Bobcats ensured themselves of a berth in next week's 15th Region tournament with a 75-39 win over South Floyd Wednesday night.

The win came in the opener of the 58th District Tournament, and went just as was expected. The Lady Cats came in as the top seed in the tournament after winning the South Floyd Conference.

South Floyd, on the other hand, was the fourth seed in the tournament in the first year of Lady Raider basketball.

On this night, the difference was post play. Dee Dee Martin, Jessica Hamilton and Heather Gearhart scored 14 of Betsy Layne's first 23 points.

Coach Bill Newsome talked of the inside play. "They started hitting underneath," he said, "and it opened things up outside for us. They were sagging on us and it opened us for the treys."

In the latter stages of the first half, the Lady Cats sank three three-point baskets.

Martin finished the game with 15 points, 10 rebounds and three steals; Hamilton scored eight points and had four rebounds in five minutes of playing time; and Gearhart added five points and six rebounds.

Betsy Layne wasted no time in jumping on the Lady Raiders. The teams traded a hoop apiece early before the Lady Cats went on a 13-3 run.

Rhonda Conn opened the charge with a 14-foot jumper.

Martin and Misty Clark followed with lay-ins before Misty Johnson hit from on top of the three-point line.

The lead was 10-2.

Krystal Isaac hit a three to cut the deficit in half before a 5-0 sequence moved the lead to double figures.

Martin had a lay-in before made a free throw.

Jessica Hamilton, coming back from a knee injury, scored on a lay-in.

The lead was 15-5 before Stacy Shepherd made a free throw for South Floyd to end the period.

The second frame was more of the same for Betsy Layne, as the Lady Cats scored the first eight points of the period.

Hamilton had two baskets inside, and Gearhart scored four points under the basket as well — two on a short jumper, the others on a rebound. Betsy Layne led 23-7.

The lead was 27-10 before South Floyd scored five unanswered points. They came on a three-point bomb by Susan Stevens and two free tosses by Kathy Jo Stumbo.

South Floyd had cut the lead to 27-15.

But after the teams traded baskets again, Betsy Layne again was off on a run.

Christy Johnson sank three-pointers on consecutive trips before Rhonda Conn got free on the break for a lay-in.

That 8-0 run pushed the Lady Cats on to 37-17 late in the half.

At intermission, Betsy Layne led 40-21.

The Lady Cats were led in scoring by Martin and Christy Johnson, who scored 15 points apiece. Johnson also added five rebounds and five steals.

Rhonda Conn was also in double figures with 10 points, while adding six assists and five rebounds.

Misty Johnson scored seven, while having six assists, five rebounds and three steals.

Guard Misty Clark scored eight points, had five rebounds, four steals and three blocked shots.

South Floyd was paced by Susan Stephens, who scored 10. Stacy Shepherd and Kathy Jo Stumbo tossed in eight apiece.

Betsy Layne will enter tonight's championship game with a record of 19-6.

South Floyd's first season ended with a mark of 3-17.

Pitino draws (what else?) an inside straight; 'King' is king of scoring list

Rick Pitino is a gambler. A risk taker. A poker player with a Hawkeye Pierce touch.

Check his, uh, track record. A job jumper at the college level, NBA coach who takes on a college team on probation. Pitino even persuaded his wife to try 'one more time' to add a daughter to their four-boy brood.

Things just ... work out. Last week Pitino was presented another 'hand' to gauge how his Midas touch is holding up. Came at the perfect time of year too.

UK's coach had the luxury of weighing the plus and minuses of high roading, statement making, send-a-message versus PR point loss an L in Knoxville might bring.

Wildcat fans were stung and stunned when Da Coach suspended three darlins' for diddling Don Rutledge (he ain't gonna forget, folks).

Even though UK fans define cheating differently than, say, Pope John Paul, Pitino chose the high ground. Integrity, principle, role modeling, over winking into a TV camera, ala Travis Ford.

Da Coach took his team off to Knoxville and guess what?

"How many cards, Rick?"

Three, please.

What'cha got, coach? (pause) A what?

"Inside straight."

Bingo. Pitino got a victory in Knoxville and more.

1. Hey, Trav, Jared and Gimel, and rest of you cool dudes, has Da Coach got your attention for the stretch drive?

2. Anthony Epps to himself on the ride home: "Hey, man, I can play here."

3. Andre Riddick—18 points, eight rebounds, four steals, two blocks, sold seven boxes of popcorn. "Hey, I can be an offensive force."

4. This week UK fans stare with renewed awe and mutter quietly "Maybe if I could just touch this guy's robe ... maybe my lottery ticket..."

R-i-i-i-c-k Pitino.

KY. ALL-TIME SCORERS

Kentucky's all-time leading point-maker with 4,337 points? Easy, right? 'King' Kelly Coleman of Wayland.

But how many fans know who No. 2 is?

Harry Todd, Earlington. Todd went on to stardom in the OVC for the Western Hilltoppers in the 1950s.

What's peculiar here? Coleman is in the Kentucky High School Hall of Fame and Todd is not. Even as the KHSAA prepares to induct another group this spring, (including a member of its selection committee, Earl Cox), there are too many who have contributed mightily to the state's basketball tradition who have been passed over for years, and in some cases, forgotten.

"The Board is open to making some changes that will correct some of those," a KHSAA spokesperson told Sports In Ky. (again) last week, adding that Todd's case is a perfect example.

Says here, KHSAA Hall of Fame officials are letting opportunity pass by—special recognition for:

1. Central City High School. One of America's most successful high school basketball programs.

2. Contributions made by black high school basketball programs across the state before integration.

READERS (RIGHT) WRITE

DEMETRIUS KINNIS, Marion, Ky. (UK fan): Wants Rick Pitino to recruit fewer 'bony' players and sign more physical types, like Antoine Walker of Chicago instead of Jerod Ward of Clinton, Miss.

"For three years Pitino has recruited bony players and now (with Mashburn gone and Dent injured) it's a serious problem.

"I've seen Walker play. He's a well-built 230 pounds; can shoot to 3-point range, brings the ball up court and, like Mash, goes very strong inside.

"Walker in my eyes, and those of other fans, is the main guy we need to bring Kentucky back a championship."

COMMENT: I. Bony recruits. Coaches' preferences have changed since Al McGuire's 'aircraft carrier.' Transition game and offensive emphasis to perimeter from inside power is tailored for quick and bonies.

Pitino has tried, but been unable to recruit a physical kid like Eric Montross, Jerry Stackhouse or Charles O'Bannon.

However, UK fans are going to like Mark Pope. He and Jared Prickett may transform UK from a so-so rebounding team to one of the NCAA's best next season.

Jerod Ward and Antoine Walker? Ward has qualified academically, Walker has not, and SEC no longer allows Prop 48ers.

Ward's reputation is Kenny Walker-like—play all day, hard. Walker's is play hard sometimes (and NBA on my mind).

ERIC DAVISSON, Owensboro (UK fan): "I've seen Rex Chapman, Sam Bowie, Kenny Walker and Jamal Mashburn experience the rigors of NBA life.

"Melvin Turpin, Kyle Macy, Dirk Minniefield and Winston Bennett also played in the NBA, but had weak productions. My question is do you foresee more or less UK players making it to the NBA?"

COMMENT: Ex-Wildcats Chris Mills (Cavs) and LeRon Ellis (Nuggets) are in the NBA and Dale Brown was until he was injured.

COMMENT II: From UK's current roster: Andre Riddick might have the best chance, but probably isn't tough enough; Rodrick Rhodes has a chance, but won't be leaving early unless he improves his (whole) game, oh, 85%; Travis Ford is a nice little player, but no Muggsy Bogues.

EDWARD THOMASON, Dawson Springs: "You continually nit-pick Rick Pitino. Have you any coaching experience that qualifies you for the barbs you throw out? If not why not shut up!

"As for Denny Crum being a Kentuckian, get lost! (And) All Wildcats know we have not replaced Mashburn, but with fan support and some from you we will survive. Get your nose away from Crum and the Louisville Cardinals and you might find something positive."

COMMENT: Thank you for writing.

(Telephone) B. C. of Corbin, and

R. B. of Pikeville had the same question: "If Rick Pitino had suspended the three black players instead of the three white ones, how long do you think it would have been before Jessie Jackson showed up in Lexington?"

Hmmm. TOM SINGLETON, Campbellsburg, Ky.: "Concerning UK games not being televised on network TV or TV delayed, I contacted C.M. Newton and he said UK does not control which games are televised after Jan. 1. UK does control telecasts in December."

Newton suggested fan concerns be expressed to the SEC Offices, 2201 Civic Center Blvd, Birmingham, Ala. 35203.

The fun of fishing By Scott Patton and made possible by these sponsors:

Scott Patton fishes the BASS-MASTERS Tournament Trail. He won the 1989 B.A.S.S. Federation State Championship. He was named 1987 Hydra Sports Points Champion.

Scott is sponsored by TRACKER Marine, Burnett Brothers Boat Mart, Mercury Outboards, Nichols Lures, St. Croix, Triple Fish Line, VMC Hooks, and Hummingbird Electronics.

Catch and release is something I hope all anglers practice. Whenever I'm fishing, whether it be for pleasure or in a tournament situation, I release all my bass.

During a BassMasters tournament, a great concern of ours is to keep those fish alive so they can be released back into their habitat. There are several large water tanks that are full of oxygen-rich water mixed with catch and release formula. This formula is a chemical put into the tanks. This is the same catch and release chemical that we use in our own livewells during the tournament. What this chemical does is coats the fish to enhance the healing of any slime removal or wounds the fish may have already had or was caused during the day. It also slows the heart rate of the fish. It's a fact that this procedure increases the percentage of survival when a fish is released back into its environment. B.A.S.S. has perfected the system to almost a 100 percent release alive rate. We lose very few fish in our tournaments, even in the most extreme circumstances.

All of the local tournaments can do the same without hardly any cost. Catch and release can be purchased by anyone and if you can't find it at your local tackle store, you can order it from Bass Pro Shop's catalogue.

One thing Shimano has come up with to help a lot of the larger tournament circuits with is Shimano's Release boat.

This boat is a specially made one that the fish are put into and then taken to a healthy part of the lake and released.

One thing that I have found to help me keep my fish in the livewell and put back into the livewell as quickly as possible (in tournament situations) is Equalizers Clor Rings. These rings fit into the fish's lip and are light weight so it doesn't weigh the fish down, making it unable to maneuver in the livewell. These rings are color coated and you can spot which fish is to be the next one to be culled. Say, if red was the smallest fish in your livewell, you could easily spot it, grab ahold of the ring and weigh that fish you just caught. Mark it's weight on the weight card and you'll be ready for the next bass to be culled. For about $20 you can get the whole system; the scales, the color coated rings, and the weight card and pencil. This is the best system I've seen. If you need more info on the Equalizer system contact Scott King at (502)633-3276. Dealer enquiries welcome.

Pointers For Parents
Tips On Preventing Child Abuse

(NAPS)—If today is like most, three American children will die because of abuse. Often, abuse is part of a cycle of domestic violence over generations. Many parents and others know there are four steps to take to help put an end to the national shame of child abuse. Now is the time to take them.

1. Stop. Take the time to learn the facts. Almost three million cases of child abuse are reported each year. Three times that many go unreported, according to the experts at Childhelp USA, a non-profit organization combating child abuse across America. Children who survive abuse can remain so scarred, they abuse their own children or commit other violent crimes.

2. Look. Notice the signs of abuse. An emotionally abused child may demonstrate: apathy; depression; hostility or stress; loss of appetite or overeating. A child who is neglected may also be unsuitably dressed for the weather, continually dirty, hungry most of the time or wandering unsupervised outdoors. Signs of physical abuse can include burns, bruises or welts shaped like an object; bruises in unusual places; rope burns on ankles, wrists or torso; adult-size bite marks and suspicious fractures.

4. Give. You can be a part of the effort to stop child abuse by sending a contribution to: Childhelp USA, 6463 Independence Avenue, Woodland Hills, California 91367 or call 1-800-4-A-CHILD.

ORDINANCE NO. 2-94

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY AMENDING ORDINANCE NO. 5-89 A/K/A THE CITY PERSONNEL POLICIES AND PROCEDURES ORDINANCES PERTAINING TO CITY OVERTIME POLICY. WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of

Prestonsburg, Kentucky, and adopted Ordinance No. 5-89 establishing personnel policies and procedures concerning employees of the City; and

WHEREAS, the City now desires to amend a portion of the foregoing Ordinance to reflect additions that are to be made to the overtime policy set out in Part 5, paragraph C of said Ordinance as hereinafter set out;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT HEREBY ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY AS FOLLOWS: Section 1: Ordinance 5-89, Part 5, paragraph C, is hereby amended to read as follows:

C. Overtime: 1. In order to determine whether an employee will receive overtime pay for hours worked in excess of forty (40) hours per week, each class shall be declared "exempt" or "non-exempt" in accordance to provisions of existing labor laws. Employees occupying exempt classifications shall not receive overtime pay; employees occupying non-exempt classifications shall receive overtime pay at the rate of 1 1/2 times the hourly wages for actual hours worked in excess of forty (40) hours in any work week. However, non-exempt employees may be required to take time off during the same week to avoid overtime hours.

2. Time off with pay (such as vacation or sick leave) may not be considered as hours worked for overtime pay purposes. 3. Overtime work shall be approved in advance by the employees' immediate supervisor whenever possible, and shall be kept at the minimum consistent with maintenance essential of city services and its financial resources. 4. Employees who work rotational shifts are fire, police and dispatch. These require additional hours each week: Eight hours for Fire Department, two hours for the Police Department, two hours for Dispatch. Employees must be able to work these extra hours, for which they are compensated at time and one half.

5. From time to time, employees may be asked to work extra hours, due to the absence or unavailability of another employee, for court appearances, or for special events. These are non-emergency hours, and employees should be given as much advance notice as possible when asked to work them.

6. All employees, whether shift or 40-hour, will be compensated for routine and non-emergency overtime at the regular time and a half pay, for all hours worked over 40 per week. 7. Employees who have been sick or taken paid vacation leave during their normal work week are considered for overtime purposes, to have been working during that period. (For example: An employee has worked three 8-hour days; taken two 8-hour sick days, and worked 5 hours overtime. That employee is compensated for 40 regular hours + 5 overtime hours. An employee who has taken unpaid leave, however, whether voluntary or involuntary, shall not be compensated for overtime until the actual 40 hours of work have been performed.)

8. Shift workers not on duty are divided into two categories for emergency recall: First and Second Alert. Employees are on First Alert for the first 24 hours before their on-duty time (fire department's 24 hour on-duty shift; police and dispatch shift-week) and are on second alert thereafter.

9. Departmental on-duty personnel are at all times first responders for emergency services. The highest-ranking officer on scene will determine if an emergency call-out is necessary and will notify the dispatchers whether it is a First or Second Alert. 10. FIRST ALERT: The first call-out, this is for an emergency that needs more personnel than the on-duty staff alone can provide, but doesn't require all available personnel. Only employees on First Alert status need to respond, and they should make every effort to do so.

11. SECOND ALERT: This call will be sounded only for a major emergency that needs all available personnel to respond.

12. All employees who are called out for emergency purposes shall receive a minimum of one-hour of overtime, whether a full one hour is worked or not, and time thereafter shall be calculated in increments of one-half hour for any portion exceeding one hour by fifteen minutes. (i.e.: An employee working one hour, fifteen minutes will be compensated at one and one-half hours; for one hour, forty-five minutes, the employee will be compensated for two hours.)

13. An emergency call-out pay policy is hereby established as follows: Any employee called out for First or Second Alert Emergencies shall be compensated at a special overtime rate of one and three-quarters times up to a maximum of four hours. Extended emergencies, such as forest fires or floods, which may exist over several days are deemed to be one call-out.

If an employee is on-duty when an emergency occurs, and remains on scene, he is entitled to the emergency rate for the first four hours he remains on duty, and the regular overtime rate thereafter.

Only employees who are actually called out are entitled to the emergency rate pay. Other employees who may show up, even if they work the same, are not entitled to the emergency rate.

14. The captain works five days per week, and will be on Second Alert on weekends. All other times he will be on First Alert.

Section 2: All of the rest, residue and remainder of Ordinance 5-89 and amendments thereto shall remain in force and effect and are not otherwise amended. Section 3: Action by a court of competent jurisdiction, declaring any Section, Sub-section, phrase or word of this Ordinance to be invalid, unconstitutional and/or void shall not affect the remainder of this Ordinance which shall remain in full force and effect.

Section 4: All Ordinances or any parts in conflict with the provisions herein are expressly repealed to the extent of such conflict. Section 5: This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its adoption and publication, as required by law.

SO ADOPTED, this the 28th day of February, 1994. Jerry S. Fannin, Mayor
