Trash program woes serious, report says

Meyer's first report could be his last; Hammond to appeal appointment of custodian

by Scott Perry
Times Editor and Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Court-appointed solid waste custodian Bob Meyer has submitted his first comprehensive report on the condition of the county's solid waste system, and it could be his last.

Meyer's appointment last month by Circuit Judge John David Caudill has been challenged by Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond.

Hammond filed a notice of appeal

March 10, the day after Meyer's report was submitted to Judge Caudill, which apparently will ask the state Court of Appeals to void Meyer's appointment as custodian of the embattled solid waste program. Hammond's notice of appeal did not specify the county attorney's grounds for the request, but Hammond has been openly critical of Meyer's investigation of the program, particularly his efforts to discuss an alleged debt owed to Pike County for waste disposal.

Meyer detailed many of his findings in a March 9 report to Judge Caudill which concluded, among other things, that the "complexity of the problems surrounding Floyd County Solid Waste do not permit quick and facile solutions."

One "fundamental issue" raised in Meyer's report goes to the core of the county's solid waste program, which was initiated by the fiscal court in 1980. An ordinance adopted by the court that year created a system of mandatory participation in the garbage pick-up program, but Meyer suggests in his report that mandatory provisions have not been implemented or enforced.

"Public perception that the system is not mandatory is supported by the large volume of customers who claim that they have never received garbage services and consequently refuse to pay their bill, as well as an undetermined number of residents who are not included in the system at all," Meyer wrote.

The report also concludes that "office personnel are laboring with billing and accounting systems which do not allow for the proper recording, analysis, and reporting of customer accounts and other financial information necessary for management of the system. Additionally, there has been no consistent policy and consequent procedures related to the collection of customer accounts receivable."

While Meyer contends that the solid waste program has "serious financial problems," he suggests that the agency can achieve financial solvency through "a major restructuring of debt coupled with an increase in customer revenues."

Higher revenues, he added, can be achieved by "implementation of a mandatory system wherein every residence and business in the county is billed for service, routine enforcement of account collections policies, and an increase in solid waste rates."

The report includes a draft of an ordinance which upgrades the county's original law establishing the solid waste program.

Meyer's recommendations for improving the solid waste program are summarized on page 5, section A of this edition of the Times.

Youths killed in house fire at Ivel

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Two young brothers died Friday morning after fire destroyed their home at Ivel.

Travis Eugene Caudill, 3, and Cody Nathaniel Jarrell, 2, were pronounced dead at the scene Friday by Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson. Nelson said Monday that preliminary autopsy reports show the children died of smoke inhalation.

The children's stepfather, Zendel Sherman, of Banner, and the two children were apparently asleep in the home when the fire broke out. The children's mother, Gustava Lynn Carr Sherman, had reportedly gone to her sister's house, which was about 300-feet from their home. Gustava Sherman had been at her sister's home for approximately 10 minutes when her sister looked out the window and noticed smoke coming from the home, Nelson said.

The cause of the fire is believed to have been a faulty pipe connected to a wood burning heater.

Zendel Sherman was apparently awakened by some type of explosion, Nelson said. Sherman got out of the home through a bedroom window. Sherman attempted to gain access to the children's bedroom but was unsuccessful, Nelson said.

Sturgill will withdraw from race

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

One of the three candidates for Floyd County's vacant circuit judge's seat has withdrawn from the race, which eliminates a vote for that post in the May primary election.

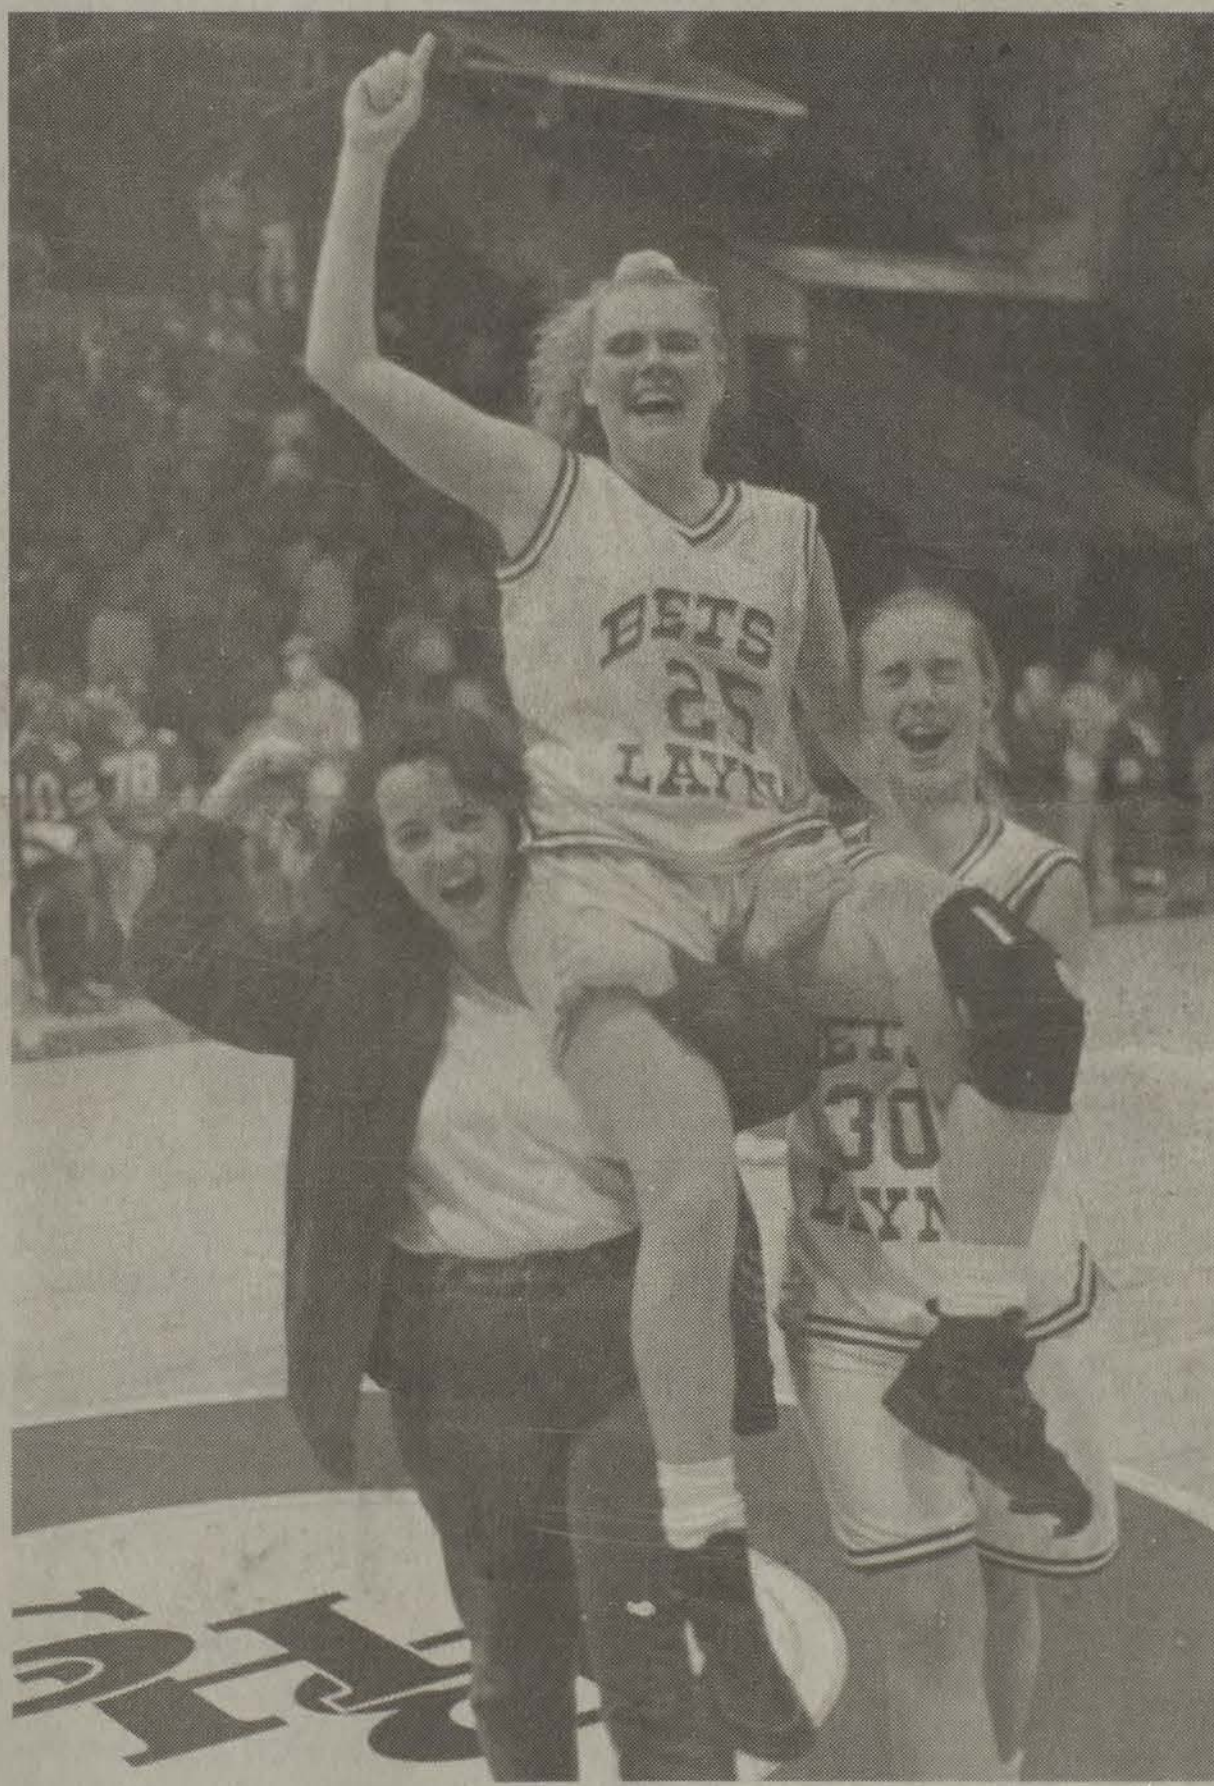

Barkley J. Sturgill announced Monday that he will not seek the circuit judge's seat so that he can retain his law practice and spend more time with his family.

"In fairness to my family, my clients and my law practice, I find it necessary to continue to practice law and spend time with my family," Sturgill said in a prepared statement. "I have spent most of my adult life serving Floyd County, trying to improve our county in every way possible and will continue to do so."

Sturgill was facing District Judge Danny Caudill and Prestonsburg attorney Paul Burchett in the May primary. The top vote getters in the primary election would have faced off in the November general election.

Monday's withdrawal from the race makes the second time Sturgill has opted out as a candidate for circuit judge. In 1991, Sturgill was a candidate for circuit judge along with Harold Stumbo and Paul Burchett. Sturgill dropped out of that race before the May primary.

A circuit judge vacancy was created with the death of Judge Harold Stumbo in January.

Closed-door personnel talks becoming a habit for council

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Prestonsburg's new city administration, apparently intent on creating its own identity, went behind closed doors Monday evening for the fifth time in as many meetings to "discuss personnel," but council returned to open session with no formal recommendations for changes.

Only once in five closed sessions since January has council announced any moves in personnel, and that action may not stick.

Last month council voted to end the city's contribution toward the salary of Main Street program director Henry Mayo, leaving that position funded solely by a state grant. Mayo has indicated since, that the salary cut may be inappropriate and contrary to the grant program's guidelines.

On Monday, city attorney Larry Brown was the focus of council's closed-session attention, but the panel made no recommendations or comments on the job after a 30-minute executive session. Brown, a law partner with Cliff Latta, the husband of past Mayor Ann Latta, said he expected some members of the new council to push for his resignation. No such request was made public Monday evening and Brown did not say how he might respond if asked to quit.

While council's personnel deliberations have been conducted in secret, the subjects of the talks must be identified, according to state Open Meetings laws. Council has generally complied with those requirements in the past, announcing closed sessions for talks on the positions of city administrator and city tourism director as well as the more recent discussions on the Main Street manager and city attorney.

Few of the personnel proposals have been debated in public meetings.

One more change was announced Monday evening, though.

Mayor Jerry Fannin said the city would cut in half the number of hours worked by three employees at the city's municipal parking lot, a move that coincides with a decision to allow free and permit-only parking on the lot. Users of the lot can now get two hours of free parking while regular patrons may apply for long-term parking permits. Fannin said 50 spaces had been allocated for permit parking.

The mayor did not say what services lot attendants would provide

Methods for informing residents of walk aways and how to better define the role a prison plays in a community were the top issues at the first citizens' advisory committee meeting at Otter Creek Correctional Facility Thursday night.

Warden Tim Maguigan and deputy director Mark Stanley met with three members of the citizens' committee at the prison Thursday to discuss the recent walk aways from the prison and other issues that will affect the

Drug trail leads police to Jefferson, Pike counties

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A multi-county, multi-agency investigation resulted in the arrests of a Pike County man and a Shepherdsville couple being arrested Thursday on federal drug charges.

William "Happy" Coleman, 58, of Pikeville and William and Diann Smothers were arrested Thursday by agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Louisville and charged with conspiracy to distribute cocaine.

A joint investigation between the FBI and the newly-formed Mountain Area Drug Task Force led to the arrests.

A federal search warrant was executed at Coleman's residence in Pike County Thursday and officers seized a quantity of cash and four vehicles.

Another warrant was executed at the Smothers residence in Louisville and officers seized a quantity of cocaine.

Coleman and his wife, June, also face state drug charges, a spokesman for the drug task force said Tuesday.

Coleman will appear before U.S. Magistrate Judge James F. Cook Thursday in federal court in Lexington.

William Smothers will appear before Judge Cook Wednesday, today. His wife, Diann Smothers was released on bond pending a hearing in Lexington.

In an independent investigation by the Mountain Area Drug Task Force, two Pike County men were arrested on drug charges in simultaneous but unrelated drug raids Friday.

facility and the community.

A consensus of the members present showed that they preferred to have some type of siren system to alert citizens when a prisoner has left the grounds.

Last month three inmates from the minimum security prison walked away from the facility. Inmates Michael Aekerson and James Cox have been apprehended. Inmate Larry Michael Higdon remains at large.

Committee members Keith Smallwood, Alfred Rhea and Cindy Stewart suggested that prison officials use some type of siren system to let the community know that there was some type of problem at the prison.

The committee members said that Wheelwright residents are used to a siren system because years ago the city fire department used the same system to let them know there was a fire in the area.

Maguigan and Stanley expressed some concern that such a system, which would not offer details of the situation, could cause panic in the community.

Warden Maguigan told the committee (See Prison, page two)

"Fowl" play charged on Turkey Creek

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Four men and one juvenile were arrested Friday night after they allegedly tried to steal chickens from a residence at Turkey Creek.

Floyd County Sheriff's deputies Johnny Layne and Daniel Hutchinson arrested the five after property owner Bill Hagans allegedly caught them trying to steal fighting roosters from his home.

Joseph Lewis, 22, of Banner; Scott Williams, 18, of Allen; Charles Lewis, 28, of Banner and Clyde R. Endicott, 22, of Banner were charged with third degree criminal trespassing and theft by unlawful taking.

The sheriff's office received a complaint at approximately 7 p.m. Friday that Hagans had caught someone stealing chickens at his home. The sheriff's log said that Hagans had the subjects detained at his residence.

Arrest citations for the four adults say that they were caught on Hagans' property which was posted with no trespassing signs.

Deputy Aaron Kidd later charged the four with theft by unlawful taking.

Test Scores Friday

An apparent error in the scoring for one Floyd County school has delayed the official release of performance test results. Complete details will be published in the Friday edition of the Times.

Governor gives a deed

Jones endorses projects

by Scott Perry
Times Editor and Polly Ward
Staff Writer

Governor Brereton Jones came bearing gifts, and Floyd County accepted.

Now, if the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) cooperates, funding for two ambitious projects with far-reaching effects could soon be in the bank.

In a visit Friday to Prestonsburg Community College, Governor Jones announced his plans to recommend ARC grants for a health and wellness program under development at PCC and for a Mountain Arts Center to be built in Prestonsburg.

Jones' endorsement is required before the ARC can consider funding the local projects.

At PCC, the Governor will propose ARC funding amounting to $355,420 to underwrite part of the costs of implementing a national model for a rural health and wellness program that will promote awareness of disease prevention in Eastern Kentucky.

The state legislature has proposed additional funding for the project which could lead to the construction of a $9 million facility on the PCC campus which will serve as a regional center for health education and wellness.

The emphasis of the program, PCC president Dr. Deborah Floyd said, "is on educating residents in this high-risk, low-service region to change their lifestyles, to focus on wellness, and to avoid the necessity for costly, hard-to-get medical attention."

Jones also pushed development here of a Mountain Arts Center a giant step closer to reality, announcing Friday his plan to recommend a $500,000 ARC grant for the project.

The $6 million arts center, which will serve as a home for the renowned Kentucky Opry and as a center for music education programs for students throughout Eastern Kentucky, could be under construction this spring.

Kentucky Opry president Paul Phillip Hughes called Jones' grant announcement "the linchpin" in the organization's fund-raising efforts and said the grant funds were "critical to match other revenues."

The Mountain Arts Center fund-raising effort includes a $1 million appropriation secured by Congressman Hal Rogers; a $1.5 million pledge from the city of Prestonsburg; and $2 million from private pledges.

Hughes said private donations have raised $800,000 toward the $2 million goal in the past seven months, adding that the grant announcement Friday would allow arts center promoters to "undertake an all-out drive" to complete private fund-raising efforts.

Jones credited much of the reason for his attention to Floyd County on Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson, a friend and long-time political ally of the governor.

Jones said Friday that Thompson vowed to work for Jones' gubernatorial effort if the governor would "remember" Floyd County when he was elected.

"I made a commitment," Jones said. The governor reinforced that commitment in a third way Friday, handing the deed to the former Floyd County Tourist Information Center in Prestonsburg over to Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo.

The facility, located at the intersection of Lake Drive and old Route 23, currently houses the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce and offices for the Floyd County Development Authority and Prestonsburg Tourism Commission.

"I got the state to declare the building surplus property," Jones said Friday, "and I'm bringing the deed to you. The state had a building it did not need, and Floyd County needed a building it did not have," the Governor said. "It was a perfect match."

In a separate announcement Friday at PCC, Jones said he would recommend an ARC grant to establish a medical center for low income families in the rural Long Fork section of Pike County. The clinic will operate under the auspices of Big Sandy Health Care, which also manages the Mud Creek Clinic in Floyd County.

mittee that prison officials had been working to install a network of radios throughout the community to notify residents in the event of an escape. He explained that one household within a certain area would receive a radio and the members of the household would be responsible for contacting other city residents.

Stanley added that that type of system worked well in Lee County when he was employed at Lee Adjustment Center. Stanley said he was concerned that if a siren system was used, it could be dangerous for citizens in the community. He said that if residents armed themselves once the signal was given, innocent people or the inmates could be hurt if citizens were too quick to react to strangers.

One of the easiest ways to prevent walk aways from getting out of town is for citizens to remove the keys from their vehicles.

"When inmates are on foot when they walk away, they are caught quickly," Stanley said. "Keeping the keys out of cars makes a big difference."

Smallwood asked why prisoners were not required to wear some type of clothing which identifies them as inmates when they are at the prison.

Stanley explained that one of the philosophies at a minimum security prison is for the inmates to be able to blend with a crowd. He added that someone wanting to escape from the prison would immediately shed any type of clothing that would identify them as a prisoner.

Maguigan and Stanley stressed the need to educate the Wheelwright community about what happens during a walk away situation.

Stanley said that, when confronted, most walk aways are encountered in non-violent situations.

The prison officials were concerned that an inmate's charge may sound more serious than the event associated with the crime, which would lead citizens to react in a violent manner.

Maguigan and Stanley said that only the charge against the inmate could be made public, not the details of the crime. Both agreed that petty offenders most often presented the greatest problems in prison, not the more serious offenders.

The issue of what type of community alarm system will be used will be studied by prison officials.

Also Thursday, Stanley told the committee that several more educational and vocational classes will be added to the prison's inmate curriculum in the near future. Classes in building and trades and basic automotive technology will be available soon for the inmates.

Also, prison officials are working with an institution from Florida through Kentucky Tech to begin a public works academy at the prison, the first in Kentucky, Stanley said.

The course would offer classes in commercial water/sewer plant construction; bridge construction; and electrical wiring.

Six of the nine committee members—Hazel Armor, Donnie Daniels, Fred Salisbury, David Marlee Sammons and Delores Woody—were absent from Thursday's meeting. The committee will meet quarterly.

during their reduced work schedule, noting that oversight of two-hour parking limits would be handled by the city police department.

In other business Monday, council:

- announced plans to create a position for a director of economic development;

- agreed to pursue a proposal from the Prestonsburg Woman's Club to develop a litter clean-up program in the city;

- tabled a review of an audit of the city's 1992-93 fiscal year to a later meeting;

- agreed to renew a monthly stipend for the Prestonsburg Senior Citizen's program of $833.34; and
- adopted a resolution authorizing Mayor Fannin to pursue a state grant for the construction of storm drains and sidewalks at Goble Roberts and West Prestonsburg.

All members but Estill Carter were present for Monday's meeting.

Sherman received minor burns and injuries in the fire.

Nelson said the two children apparently were awakened during the fire because the three-year-old's body was found under their bed and the younger child's body was found at the foot of the bed.

Three other children who lived in the home were at school at the time of the blaze, the coroner said.

Members of the Betsy Layne and Allen fire departments and the Floyd County Sheriff's Department responded to the blaze.

The fire is under investigation by Kentucky State Police detectives Joel Newsome and Barry McKenzie and the Floyd County Coroner.

Besides their mother and stepfather, the boys are survived by their father, Eugene Caudill of Melvin; a brother, Ricky Ray Jarrell of Banner; and two sisters, Rachel Lynn Jarrell and Marie Annalee Jarrell both of Banner.

Funeral services for the brothers were Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the Nelson Frazier Funeral Home Chapel with Raymond Wright officiating. Burial was made in the Jarrell Cemetery at Cow Creek.

Also, the Christian Appalachian Project and local churches are accepting donations of clothes and household items for the family, Nelson said. The family lost all their belongings in the fire.

A friend, indeed

by Scott Perry

All things considered, we must admit that Governor Brereton Jones has been a good friend to Floyd County.

We have a prison and prison jobs in an economically devastated area of our county to show for it.

We have the promise of ARC funding for a Mountain Arts Center pending.

We have another ARC grant in the works for an ambitious health and wellness program to be located at Prestonsburg Community College.

These aren't your typical "party" favors, either.

These are projects that address specific needs which will also enhance our quality of life.

You may be hard-pressed to describe how a prison is any kind of an improvement, but you won't be if you look at the impact it will have over the long haul on the economy of Wheelwright, a coal company town long suffering the anguish of lost hope.

The Mountain Arts Center is an altogether different story.

It promises to capture and capitalize on the abundance of talent these hills hide and to showcase those abilities before the world.

The PCC project is a project of hope itself.

It will supply us the means for reversing a frightening trend in health care that makes our region medically malevolent.

If it accomplishes nothing else, the health and wellness project will help us learn to help ourselves.

Helping ourselves should be our ultimate goal and all of these projects should contribute in one way or another toward that end.

Too often we judge a politician by the blacktop he spreads or gravel he shovels.

Both are, at best, temporary conveniences.

The offer of hope, though, is a lasting pleasure.

Freedoms vanishing?

Editor:
I was thinking about the seatbelt law, another freedom taken away from us, and now they are telling us when to turn our headlights on.

I wonder what will come next. You fat cats sit and think about it so you can raise your salary. I would love to see you do something worthwhile. Why don't you take about fifty dollars a month off your salary and give to some of these poor people that get only three or four hundred dollars a month or even set up a fund to pay their medical bills? Wouldn't that be great? Some are on the state welfare as you know.

On the other hand, did you ever think, you fats cats, how long you have been on the county welfare? Some of you have been in office ever since I can remember. What have you done?

I know we pay more taxes and their salary gets bigger and every time you mention getting something done, the truck's broke down or they don't have any gravel or the judge won't let me have anymore this month. Sounds to me like we are under a dictator more than we ever were.

We are supposed to have a representative. I wonder what he does to represent us? I would like to know.

If us poor people would all stick together and find out from these people where our tax money goes and where their garbage money went, maybe our county welfare people, fat cats, would tell us. If they would ever realize how long the county has paid them and how little they have given in return, they may have more feeling for the poor.

Our poor, poor people are the most honest people we have. Thank God for them.

You fat cats sit and tell us what to do and try to make these poor people give you more money on the garbage bill and 911.

I quit paying 911 and would like to have my money back that I paid and I don't owe any garbage bill and I am sick of being harassed. I don't want to see any bill collectors on my property.

I may not live in the land of the free anymore, but I'm in the home of the brave.

Thanks again to the Floyd County Times. They ought to be in the hall of fame.

How 'bout them Lady Cats

Editor:
Hey, Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats! Dreams do come true. The fight that is held within the human heart cannot be measured. With sheer determination, the will to win, the "never say never" attitude, the Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats are to be congratulated for their achievement.

Forget the loss to Belfry a few weeks ago. Forget being a 14-point underdog going into the championship game. Forget that not one Floyd County radio station was there to support you in the title game. I thought maybe, just once that a station would show up and say, "Hey, we're here to show our support for you Floyd County girls" without being paid to say so. I guess I don't understand the financial side of radio. We did however find the game being covered by WSIP from Johnson County and WPRG TV-5 of Harold. Thanks for all your support.

This group of girls from Betsy Layne taught each of us a couple of lessons in believing. Never say never and don't ever give up without a fight. Who knows, when the fight is over you may be the only one left standing. Betsy Layne Lady Cats, you're the only team still standing in the 15th Region.

Against all odds, you Lady Cats have proven that with hard work, unity, and the desire to be your best that anything is possible.

Thanks for the ride and have fun in the "Big Dance" and, who knows, it just may happen.

Thank you to the board of education

Editor:
I would like to take this time to say thank you to Phyllis Honshell, Doloris Smith, Ray Brackett, Eddie Patton and Stephen Towler; the Floyd County Board of Education for their unanimous vote to continue the construction of the Allen Central track project.

A very special thank you to Gary Frazier for the donation of his land at Cracker Bottom for the baseball field. I had Mr. Frazier's father as a teacher and the one thing that I will always remember about him is that he loved his students and the sports. Thank you again, Gary!

I would also like to say thank you to the following speakers at Monday's board meeting: Bobbie Baldrige, a concerned track member's parent and also a concerned Eastern citizen; Mary Jo Wallen, a concerned parent and citizen and track supporter; district two magistrate Jackie Edford Owens, a concerned track member, parent and citizen; Coal-Mac Inc. for all of their support and help to make our track dreams come true; Eddie Taylor for his coverage of our track meets; and Priscilla "Pat" Martin for all of her hard work and support over the past years in this project.

A special thank you to the group of concerned parents, track members, citizens and track followers for their attendance at the board meeting.

The concerned group of track followers were very pleased to have the unanimous vote of the board concerning the track project. With this commitment, our track athletes will be in a safe environment and off the 4-lanes and strip jobs and other unsafe environments. This vote gives our children a safe place to practice and compete and gives the parents of these children peace of mind. And it will allow coaches Dewey Jamerson and Forrest Hughes to build our track team up even bigger than the 80-some members we have now and will make their jobs a little easier. It will allow the community to have a safe environment to walk and exercise.

Once again, thank you to each of the Floyd County Board of Education members for their vote for the safety of our children in mind and to all of the track supporters and parents for this long awaited project.

At this time, I would like to invite each of the board members out to see our track team do its stuff. We will be at the Pikeville field till ours is completed. Please come out and see our team do what they do best.

Stumbo articulate defender of education form

Editor:
Recent stories have appeared in the Floyd County Times about a letter from the president of the Floyd County Education Association opposing HB 97, sponsored by House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

The results are in from 1993 performance tests and the good news is most Kentucky schools are progressing nicely toward their improvement goals.

The bad news is that some aren't and it took them nearly a year to find out.

The test results released this week are from tests taken last spring.

Any chance to improve on the weaknesses the results might detail has been lost on this year's class, which is now preparing for 1994 exams.

Waiting a whole year for word on how well or how poorly a particular school has performed certainly seems like an awful waste.

Schools ought to have results before the next school year begins, not as it ends, so they may take appropriate steps to cure weaknesses.

If it ain't broke, don't fix it, they say.

What if it's broken and you don't know it...for nearly a year?

If it ain't broke, don't fix it: Part Two.

Governor Brereton Jones has reappointed five of seven members of the State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education, signalling general approval for the work the state board has done.

That, no doubt, is a bit contrary to the desires of many former school officials in Kentucky who have found themselves pushed "out of the loop" by a state board intent on reducing the influence of politics on education.

Keep up the good work.

If it ain't broke, kill it...

We've never disguised our belief that small schools set the model for educational excellence in Kentucky, and we're not about to switch horses now.

Test results from 1993 performance evaluations will bear us out.

In Floyd County, for example, smaller schools at Auxier, Harold, Prater and Maytown did quite well on 1993 tests.

But they share something more than success.

They're all facing extinction.

What a shame.

If it is broke, privatize it...

The U.S. Postal Service lost $1.7 billion last year and expects to lose $1.3 billion this year.

Guess what that means.

Yep, a hike in the price of stamps.

The postal service is seeking a 10.8 percent increase which, if approved, will raise the price of a first-class stamp from 29¢ to 32¢ in 1995.

The postal service no longer gets tax subsidies to offset costs, but it is strictly regulated and pricing structures are as difficult to understand as a Chinese dictionary.

Efforts to privatize part of the work the postal service does...which would lower some costs and create new jobs... have been blocked by the postal workers' union.

And they want us to ante up more in the bargain.

About time we put our foot down, isn't it?

Solid Waste Proposals

The following recommendations were presented to Circuit Judge John David Caudill by Bob Meyer, the court-appointed custodian of the Floyd County Solid Waste program. The proposals have also been given to the Floyd County Fiscal Court and County Attorney Jim Hammond.

- Floyd County Fiscal Court consider the adoption of a clarification ordinance which clearly states that participation in the county's solid waste program is mandatory and clarifies the roles of all parties involved with the solid waste program. A draft copy of this ordinance which has been reviewed informally by operations staff of both the Cabinet for Natural Resources and the Department of Local Government is being forwarded to Judge Executive John M. Stumbo and Mr. Jim Hammond, County Attorney.
- Develop personnel policies specifically for FCSW. (Presently being drafted)
- Determine the cost of providing basic health insurance as well as some form of retirement program for employees; factor these costs into the overall costs of operations (and ultimately rates).
- Develop employee evaluation procedures to be conducted on at least an annual basis.
- Install a new billing system which provides sufficient customer, account transaction, routing, and related information and reports to properly manage the system. (In Process)
- Update the customer data base, utilizing the most accurate information available which identifies the name and location of individuals and businesses throughout the county. (In Process)
- Coordinate, to the extent possible, with the county and utility companies the process of tracking new customers as well as customer movements. (In Process)
- Resolve all current outstanding account balances: Eliminate all duplicate accounts and accounts of customers who are deceased, moved out of the county, defunct businesses; For those customers whom FCSW determines have not received collections service, adjust their account and enforce current account payments; For those customers who have received services, negotiate payment of the past due balance. (In Process)
- Upon public notification that the FCSW system is in fact mandatory, initiate billings to all residents and businesses in the county.
- Implement and routinely enforce collections procedures to ensure that all accounts are kept current. Charge a designated employee with the responsibility of managing accounts collections.
- Install a computerized accounting system which integrates all financial transactions of FCSW. Generate monthly financial reports (Income Statement, Balance Sheet, and others, as appropriate) for the FCSW board of direction and the Floyd County Fiscal Court. (In Process)
- Because of the extreme cash flow problems which FCSW is presently facing, consolidation and refinancing of most of the long term debt should be pursued, with payments deferred for at least one year in order to allow the corporation to get its financial affairs under control. (In Process)
- A resolution of the outstanding debt to Pike County must be reached per agreement of the Floyd County and Pike County fiscal courts.
- Since there was no signed agreement with Kenvirons Engineers, appropriate documentation needs to be secured in order to substantiate the services provided and total amount of debt. (In Process)
- An allowance or reserve must be factored into the costs of operations in order to liquidate verified debts owed to Pike county, Kenvirons, and costs associated with the closure of the original landfill and removal of stored garbage.
- New rates will be recommended to the Floyd County Fiscal Court which reflect:
  - The actual cost of operations, appropriately adjusted to reflect sufficient staffing, equipment, and other costs necessary to implement universal collection, as well as basic benefits for employees.
  - The costs of debt service on the refinancing bonds.
  - Realistic costs for disposing of solid waste, (which are expected to increase significantly in July, 1995) including any capital costs associated with the construction and equipping of a transfer station, if Floyd County, either on its own, or in conjunction with other counties, develops and finances such a facility.
  - An allowance for non-recurring costs (ie: closure of Phase I of the landfill, Pike County, and Kenvirons).
  - Allowance for depreciation on existing equipment.
  - Consistently applied fees and charges for commercial customers which reflect actual costs associated with commercial collections.
  - The actual number of individual residences in the county.
  - A reasonable allowance for uncollectible accounts.
- Obtain an evaluation from a qualified engineering firm as to the technical feasibility and financial practicality of use of Phase II or any other portion of the Garth site as a contained landfill. Both the Natural Resources Cabinet and Kenvirons Engineers have indicated verbally that physical constraints at the site appear to prohibit its use as a contained landfill.
- Determine the most appropriate location for a permanent transfer station and the cost benefits of coordinating with adjoining counties or cities in constructing and operating this facility. Negotiate a long term contract with a landfill which will be permitted and operational under the contained landfill regulations.
- Evaluate the scope of responsibilities for all positions, taking into consideration the current operation of FCSW, and evaluate all current employees with respect to their capacity to hold those positions. Develop new job descriptions, clearly delineating specific areas of responsibility. (In Process)
- A thorough, professional assessment of the collection fleet and the collection route structure to determine the most cost effective process for collecting waste and the extent to which additional vehicles are needed to accommodate universal collection.
- The acquisition and placement of waste collection containers or boxes at locations throughout the county which are inaccessible to collection vehicles or where it is more cost effective to utilize such containers.
- Negotiate an arrangement with Pike County wherein FCSW utilizes Pike County's landfill which is much closer than Prichard. This does not appear to be a realistic alternative, given the apparent impasse posed by the Pike County Fiscal Court's determination that resolution of the outstanding debt must occur prior to their acceptance of Floyd County solid waste in the future.
- Attempt to locate an existing facility which could be used on a temporary basis as a transfer station. This would necessitate a "permit by rule" from the Natural Resources Cabinet and securing (either by lease or contract) a loader and trailer(s) in which to transport the garbage. It would allow FCSW to negotiate a short term contract with another landfill at a cheaper rate, resulting in cost savings on disposal costs as well as reduced maintenance costs and overtime charges for drivers. Just as importantly, it will provide FCSW sufficient time to develop a longer term approach/solution. (Contract has been made with Koch Victory Coal Company who has a suitable facility located near Garth landfill site and has indicated an interest in working with the FCSW program.)
- A permanent solution to the waste disposal issue is significantly more complicated. There are no clear answers with respect to which landfills will be permitted after June 1995 or how much tipping fees will be increased at that time. Constructing and operating a permanent transfer station would be more cost effective for Floyd County if it were accomplished in coordination with one or more adjoining counties or cities. At this point in time, most of our neighboring counties appear to be undecided as to how they plan to dispose of waste over the long haul (in part because potential alternatives are not clearly evident). Finally, over $600,000 has already been expended on the development of a new landfill cell (Phase II) at the Garth site (permitted based on interim regulations). There is still some question as to whether it is physically and financially possible to utilize the Garth site as a contained landfill.

To the shoppers of Eastern Kentucky

We, the employees of the Prestonsburg Sundry Store, would like to take this opportunity to thank each and everyone of you for your support over the past 20 years.

It has been a pleasure to serve you. The friendships built over the years will last forever.

Thank you.

People may disagree about this issue, but we should all remember that since 1990, Representative Stumbo has been one of the most articulate defenders of Kentucky's great step forward in education reform. He spoke passionately and emotionally on the House floor in 1990 when the education reform act was being debated, telling of his dream that the children of Eastern Kentucky should have the same educational opportunities as the children in the Bluegrass or in Louisville. He has worked since 1990 to continue the implementation of education reform, while insisting that the state education department spend taxpayer dollars wisely, and that all school districts be treated equally and fairly.

We may disagree about specific legislative issues, but we believe that Representative Stumbo has the best interests of the children, taxpayers

Allen commission to study annexation

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Two main issues facing Allen City Commissioners were put on the back burner Monday night until further study and action can be taken.

A major decision for commissioners was whether to proceed with plans to incorporate areas of New Allen.

Mayor Chris Waugh suggested that any plan to incorporate sections of new Allen be postponed for the time being.

"I don't feel now is the time," Waugh told commissioners. "We need to get better prepared and sell it (the issue of incorporation). We still have plenty of time and we can keep working toward doing other things while we try to sell it."

In order to incorporate new areas into the town, commissioners must pass an ordinance stating the boundaries to be taken into the city limits, Waugh explained. If no one opposes the plan, the ordinance would become effective after its passage.

If there are any objections to the issue, fifty percent of the residents of the area to be incorporated can sign a petition to have the decision put on the ballot in a general election, Waugh explained.

If less than fifty-five percent of the residents vote against annexation, the proposed area will become part of the city of Allen, the mayor said.

The other issue facing commissioners is an effort to get a landowner to remove debris from property adjacent to city hall.

Commissioners have been trying to get Jerome Kinzer to remove older model trucks and rubble from his property near city hall.

Waugh told commissioners that if Kinzer fails to do so, then a nuisance lawsuit can be filed in an attempt to get the junk removed.

But first, Waugh recommended, commissioners should declare a city-wide clean up week or month and give Kinzer a chance to comply with the city's request.

"I'll check with Bob Meyer with the solid waste department about having them come and pick up (the larger items)," Waugh said. "If someone refuses to participate, that will give us time to make our move. We have the interests of the town at heart and we want it to be the best we can."

It was suggested by city clerk Bill Parsons that the clean up be held in conjunction with the county government's clean up week, usually held in May.

Commissioner Ann Bentley recommended that city-wide clean ups be held more often to keep trouble spots in city free of garbage.

The city clerk agreed and suggested that clean ups be held quarterly.

Waugh said he would have to find out first if the solid waste department can help them with trash removal.

Also Monday:

- Commissioners approved payment for brake repairs on a police cruiser;

search warrant at Mullins' grocery store and home. Officers seized a quantity of pills, marijuana and jewelry.

Mullins was lodged in the Pike County Jail.

In the second raid, officers arrested Roy Hamilton, 25, and his wife, Treva, 23, of Phelps Friday and charged them with three counts of trafficking in a controlled substance, cocaine.

Members of the drug task force and the Pike County Sheriff's department executed a search warrant at Hamilton's home and seized two vehicles and a substance suspected to be cocaine.

The Hamilton's were lodged in the Pike County Jail.

Pikeville graduate hired by "Big Six" accounting firm

by J.B. Heflin journalism student

Antwon Jackson, a 1993 Pikeville College graduate, was recently hired by a "Big Six" accounting firm, becoming one of a very few from the College to gain employment with such a prestigious firm.

Jackson received a Bachelor of Business Administration degree in May and began working in the payroll department for KPMG, Peat, Marwick, a "Big Six" accounting firm, located in Washington, D.C., on February 14.

The largest accounting firms in the United States are collectively known as "The Big Six." They are immense organizations with offices throughout the world and have the nation's largest companies as their clients.

Jackson graduated from Fishburne Military Academy in 1987 and received a scholarship to play basketball at Pikeville College.

After graduating from Pikeville, Jackson returned to his hometown of Temple Hills, Maryland, which is in the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, where he landed the job.

According to the newly hired accountant, "I was nervous when I began working for such a large firm because it seemed like all eyes were on me. You have to stay on your toes, but I really like working with this company."

When asked if his education at Pikeville College prepared him well for his chosen career, Jackson stated, "The faculty at Pikeville College really did a good job in preparing me for this type of work."

Jackson hopes to take the CPA exam and continue his education in the future.

College looking for honor students

Academically-superior students from Johnson, Floyd, Pike and other Kentucky counties attending Campbellsville College may now participate in one of the region's most challenging honors programs, announced Dr. James W. Moore, director of the new Campbellsville College Honors Program.

"The Honors Program is intended to offer special curricular and extra-curricular opportunities to challenge academically-superior students and to meet their special needs," said Moore. "Campbellsville College's Honors Program will support a strong liberal arts program through its emphasis on interdisciplinary learning."

Moore said that the Honors Program will provide students with a broad spectrum of information and skills which will enhance continuing personal education as well as add flexibility to "respond to a rapidly changing society."

"This program will stress a values-based approach to learning, founded upon Christian principles," Moore said. Honors students will be encouraged to consider these principles of morality, integrity and responsibility in their thought and behavior.

"Campbellsville College's Honors Program will expect its students to share their abilities with others by accepting leadership and service roles on and off campus. The Honors Program will further enhance the College and the community environment by regularly bringing guest speakers to the campus for presentations which the general public may also attend."

Membership in the College's Honors Program will be open to all incoming freshmen with an ACT composite score of 26 or higher, or 1050 on the SAT. In addition, incoming freshmen seeking membership either must have a high school grade point average of 3.5 or higher based on a 4.0 scale, or must have graduated in the top 10 percent of their class.

Transfer and currently-enrolled Campbellsville College students who have GPAs of 3.0 or higher may also participate in the Honors Program, said Moore. To do so, they must apply to the Honors Council.

Another positive aspect to the program is the formation of a student organization, the Honors Student Association, according to Moore. The association will be comprised of all students who are Honors Program members.

The Honors Student Association will provide a variety of extra-curricular activities designed to confirm and enhance the classroom experience, said Moore. These activities will include trips to plays, museums, lectures, political debates and concerts; regular campus meetings; sponsorship of programs on the Campbellsville campus which will feature poets, musical composers, politicians and scientists; social events; viewing important films; and intercollegiate academic competition.

Students or parents seeking more information about the Campbellsville College Honors Program may contact Moore at (502) 789-5341, or by writing: Dr. James W. Moore, Honors Program, Campbellsville College, 200 West College Street, Campbellsville, KY 42718-2799.

In his office Tuesday, Floyd County Judge-Executive John Stumbo signed and handed Glenda Hall of the Employment Services office in Prestonsburg a proclamation naming March 13 - 19 National Employ the Older Worker Week. "The older workers are a great untapped resource," Hall said.

International issues are focus of PCC-Pike programs

A series of presentations on international social, political and economic issues will begin next week at the Pike County Campus of Prestonsburg Community College.

The first presentation in the series will be on Wednesday, March 23, and will focus on recent problems in Russia since the breakup of the Soviet Union. The speaker will be Dr. Thomas Matijasic, professor of history and chairman of PCC's Social Sciences Division.

Matijasic toured Russia in 1992 and teaches courses on Russian history. He will discuss Boris Yeltsin's dilemma in Russia and the instability of the political system.

The second presentation will be on Thursday, March 31 at 2:30 p.m. and will focus on Brazil. Thomas Orf, assistant professor of geography at PCC, will be the speaker.

Orf visited Brazil on a Fulbright Grant in 1993 and will discuss the geography and changing social and economic conditions in this rapidly developing Latin American nation.

A talk by Dr. George Torok, who teaches American and Latin American history at PCC's Pike County Campus, will conclude the series on Wednesday, April 20 at 1:45 p.m. He will discuss the recent North American Free Trade Agreement, the background on Mexican political development, and the recent rebellion in Mexico's southern provinces.

All presentations are free and open to the public and will take place in Room 209 of the satellite campus at 408 Main St. in Pikeville. For more information, contact Torok, the series coordinator, at 432-4800.

Frampton Trio to appear in concert at PCC

Eastern Kentucky Community Concerts will present the Mac Frampton Trio on Thursday, March 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Prestonsburg Community College. The Trio includes Mac Frampton, Piano; Clark Sullivan, Bass; and Todd Woodson, Percussion. For those who are not members of the concert series, season tickets will be made available at the door.

Mac Frampton is a classically-trained pianist who has drawn from jazz and rock to create a sound that audiences love to hear. The Atlanta Constitution exclaimed: "How one man can bring the rafters down...as if a full orchestra were playing is...consummate musicianship." If you missed his performance last time, you will surely want to see this one.

He's been guest soloist with such orchestras as the Boston Pops, Mantovani, St. Louis, Milwaukee, New Orleans, Cincinnati, Jacksonville and Atlanta. Merv Griffin called him "Dynamite!" He's shared the stage with the likes of Bill Cosby, Glen Campbell, Roberta Flack, Victor Borge and Metropolitan Opera star Roberta Peters. Yet, in twenty years as an entertainer, performing nearly 2000 concerts, Mac Frampton has remained committed to a fundamental belief: music is a powerful form of communication, often able to reach a listener on a deeper level than verbal expression.

"I can't recall a time in my life when I didn't know exactly what I wanted to do," says Mr. Frampton. A look at his early years confirms that fact. Born the son of a Presbyterian minister, he had lots of chances to test the piano playing waters: entertaining for church suppers, subbing for Sunday services, improvising Here Comes The Bride for a home wedding, playing the Sunday School hymns on creaky old uprights. Quite an exciting lifestyle for a boy of eight!

Today Mac Frampton carries his musical electricity to audiences around the world. But through it all the memories of childhood linger as some of the sweetest.

"I remember my first combo. Two clarinets, trombone, and piano! I wrote the arrangements and we played at a church men's supper. My little sister came on stage to sing the finale, and when we finished the audience started throwing things at us. It made us nervous until we realized they were throwing money!"

The piano lessons he had been taking since the age of five were invested with a renewed dedication.

It was at the Cliburn Competition that Mr. Frampton began to seriously consider an alternative to a classical career. "I was at a farewell reception and some of the contestants who knew I improvised pop and jazz asked me to play a few times. I had just started when Van Cliburn himself walked in. He told me he was impressed with my arrangements and that I should consider doing them professionally. With that kind of endorsement, I had to think seriously about going into the pop arena. I went home and started booking myself with a backup group and found I really loved it."

The style Mac Frampton developed during the early years of pop concerts has proved durable. Based on classical technique but drawing liberally from jazz and rock idioms, the Mac Frampton sound continues to build a wider audience with each of the concerts he and his group have performed for community, college and convention audiences. His success has spawned sixteen record albums, a motion picture soundtrack and unprecedented numbers of return engagements. When he is not performing, he spends much of his time recording, arranging and composing. Mr. Frampton and his wife Nancy live in Atlanta and have two sons, Eric and Will.

MARCH MADNESS...

Wow!
What a way to get March off to a hot start. Basketball madness all around us. Regional tournament play. The Kentucky Wildcats winning the SEC tournament for a third straight time. The state tournaments coming up the next two weeks.

Congratulations to Coach Bill Newsome and the Betsy Layne Lady Cats upon winning the Girls' 15th Regional Tournament at Belfry.

They defeated a solid ballclub in the Lady Pirates of Belfry. Cindy Stuart is a fine basketball coach and will return a strong Lady Pirate team next year.

Coach Newsome's Lady Cats are only the second team from Floyd County to make it to the Girls' Sweet Sixteen.

Betsy Layne is a senior-laden team with six seniors. But Bill will return a strong ballclub next year as well.

Remember these two names -- Jessica Johnson and Penny Tackett. They are both freshmen who have caught the eye of several around the region.

Ashley Tackett, who played for Shelby Valley, will fit in perfectly with next year's team. Ashley is a very good basketball player and by the time she leaves the high school scene, she will be one of the best to come out of the 15th Region.

We wish Coach Newsome and the Lady Cats the best as they travel to Bowling Green Thursday for the Sweet Sixteen. What a way for the seniors to finish their careers.

I have a note here that says that Monday, March 14, was the birthday of Corbie Honshell. We want to wish Corbie a very Happy Birthday.

Names are pouring in response to the item we had in last Friday's paper concerning getting Hoss Halbert voted into the Kentucky Hall of Fame. I have even gotten names from people who never went to Martin High School. Isn't that great!

The coupon to send in is in today's sports section. So, if you haven't sent yours in yet, do so. For those of you who live out of state, we'll be looking for your name as well. I have talked to some of you about the matter many times. So, let's get things going and get Hoss in the Class of '95.

I wrote a note in my scorebook to make sure to mention that Hoss attended the first two nights of the regional tournament at Allen Central. Jody Sword and staff provided "The Legend" with a good comfortable chair in a good location.

The former Martin coach received many well-wishes, I'm sure. We appreciate him and all that he has done for Floyd County athletics. Send in your name!

Tournament note: The crowds have been large and excited at Allen Central during the tournament. Allen Central has done another super job of hosting the classic event and I'm sure that this will not be the last time they do.

Page two of my notebook reminds me that the tissue paper throwing was uncalled for and delayed the tournament game. Pikeville High School thought it was part of the game and showered the floor with rolls of tissue when the first points were scored by J.J. Joplin against Pikeville.

I wrote this in a hurry and had a hard time in making out what I wrote, but I did figure it out. Dale McKinney of WMDJ said it all when he vocalized that Allen Central needed to win a blow-out to get ready for the rest of the tournament. Allen Central posted a 89-59 win over Belfry.

It was good to have my brother Bob Taylor down for the regional tournament. He likes to track his way here when March Madness blows in. He's a former Martin Purple Flash now enjoying retirement.

All-tournament team announced; Clark wins free throw trophy

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

After the championship game of the girls' 15th Regional basketball Tournament, the All-Tournament team was announced.

Betsy Layne, champions of the tournament, placed three players on the elite squad and Allen Central placed one.

Named to the squad from Betsy Layne were Dee Dee Martin, Misty Clark and Rhonda Conn. Marsha Brown represented Allen Central on the team.

Others named were Jamie Heflin, Jamie Runyon and Heather Hinkle of Belfry; Daniella

Campenella of Phelps; Amanda Pinson of Paintsville; Bernita Wells and Melissa Blair of Johnson Central; Claudette Gillespie of Pike Central.

Clark of Betsy Layne won the individual free throw trophy hitting 75 percent of her charity tosses. The team free throw award went to Johnson Central.

The Allen Central cheerleaders received the second place trophy while Belfry was named the number one squad.

Betsy Layne coach Bill Newsome and Belfry's Cindy Stuart were also presented plaques for their outstanding job of coaching.

Not since 1984 has a girls high school basketball team from Floyd County made the "Big Show," advancing to the Sweet Sixteen and the state tournament.

Allen Central was the first and only girls' team to make the trip to the tournament. That was until last Thursday night when the Betsy Layne Lady Cats played a smart basketball game and posted a 50-36 win over favored Belfry in the championship game of the Girls' 15th Regional Tournament at Belfry.

Ten days earlier, coach Bill Newsome's quintet had taken a beating at the hands of the Lady Pirates and they were embarrassed by the 88-44 score. The finals would call for a different tactic. The Lady Cats employed a different tactic by slowing the ball down and taking the air out.

Betsy Layne's strategy wasn't known by the players until they boarded the bus and began the trip to Belfry.

Coach Newsome asked his began to think and plan our game for when we would meet them again," he said.

"We wanted to control the tempo of the game. We wanted the basketball in our hands 65 percent of the time."

Betsy Layne Lady Cats travel to Sweet Sixteen; face Ohio County

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Lady Cats' basketball team will be making their first appearance ever in a Sweet 16 State Tournament when they travel to Bowling Green this Thursday night to face Region 3 champion Ohio County.

Betsy Layne will play Thursday in a 1 p.m. tip-off time.

Ohio County comes into the Sweet 16 with an upset win over Apollo. The Lady Eagles posted a 67-50 win Sunday afternoon at McLean County, the site of the regional.

Betsy Layne (21-6) and Ohio County (24-6) haven't faced any common opponents this season.

The Lady Cats will have to figure a way to contain the big three for Ohio County in Kailoni Mellott, Misty Geary and Sarah Snodgrass.

Coach Bill Newsome had a chance to travel to McLean County and scout Ohio County. He came home very much impressed.

"They looked good in the semifinals of their tournament," said the Betsy Layne coach. "They have two guards that have already signed with colleges.

"They like to play a full court man-to-man press and sometimes drop back into a half court trap."

While Ohio County likes to press, Newsome feels that if his team can handle the pressure that the Lady Cats could come away a winner.

"We're going to work on that in our practices," he said. "We really don't like being pressed but we'll work on it in practice."

Geary is the Lady Eagles team leader and point guard. "She is a great ball handler," said Newsome. "She can shoot the ball and penetrate toward the basket. A good free throw shooter."

Mellott (5' 7") had 21 points in the championship game against Apollo. Mellott (5' 9") plays one forward position and, according to Newsome, can fill the basket.

"She is a very good player," he stated. "She can score also.

"Snodgrass is another one that can play basketball. A real good player," he said.

Newsome said that Ohio County played eight players and there were no differences in the players.

"It didn't make any difference which was playing," he said. "One was as good as the other.

"I think we can get back down to earth and get focused again; we'll be all right."

Newsome said that the McLean

County gym was packed for the girls tournament.

Betsy Layne principal Alan Osborne said they were having problems finding a motel for the team.

"We'll need around 40 rooms and we just can't find them in Bowling Green. We may have to go about 20 miles out to find one."

The Betsy Layne principal said that current plans call for the team to pull out at the high school around 9 a.m. Wednesday morning heading for Bowling Green. The team is scheduled to practice at Bowling Green High School around 5 p.m. Wednesday afternoon.

Betsy Layne have begun to take reservations for fan buses that will run to Bowling Green. Ticket sales have been good with 300 tickets sold before the announcement was made that the tickets were on sale.

"We expect that we will have around 500 fans go down," said Osborne. "We want to take a band bus and two fan buses."

Tickets for the Thursday afternoon game are on sale at the high school.

No local radio station will broadcast the games back to Floyd County.

15th Region semifinals...

Hall, Martin combine to lead Allen Central past Paintsville, 85-76

Early foul trouble plague Paintsville Tigers in loss to Allen Central Rebels

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The J.E. Campbell Arena on the campus of Allen Central High School was no place for the faint-hearted in the first semifinal game between the Rebels of Allen Central and Paintsville Tigers.

It was youth versus experience with Paintsville giving coach Johnny Martin's Rebels all they wanted and more before falling 85-76.

The win vaulted the Rebels into the championship game of the Boys' 15th Regional Tournament where they faced Pike County Central.

The first half of the game had every thing any fan would want in a game. Scoring (96 at the half), great passing and some very strong inside moves.

The Tigers' threesome Craig Ratliff, Brian Lyons and J.R. Vanhooze left a big impression on tournament fans.

But Jeremy Hall and Jason Martin also were very impressive. They led the Allen Central attack by combining for 49 points. Hall, who just took control of the game in the fourth quarter, finished with a team-high 27 points. Martin tossed in 22 and Phillip Patton added 14.

Game-scoring honors went to Paintsville's Ratliff who finished with 34 points on 10 field goals, three treys and five of six from the free throw line.

Hall had six three-point baskets for Allen Central and hit five of six free throws.

Hall looked to be a scapegoat in the game but turned out to be the go-to guy down the stretch. Hall scored 13 of his 27 points in the fourth quarter and drilled two three-pointers.

Early foul trouble for Paintsville's big men put them out of the action as they were relegated to the bench. Ratliff picked up his second foul midway in the first quarter and then got number three early in the second when he was whistled for a charging foul.

Vanhooze was hindered with his third foul in the early in the third and then with a fourth personal early in the fourth.

The Paintsville full-court pressure caused Allen Central problems in the early going as Paintsville took a 5-0 lead on a three-point play by Lyons and a layup by Lyons.

"They mixed their press up a little (See Allen Central, B 2) ballclub to arrive early for the trip. He then went to the gym and walked the team through the game plan.

"I thought he was crazy," said senior center Dee Dee Martin.

Fifteen seconds into the game, Belfry had taken a 3-0 lead on a three-point basket by Heather Hinkle. That would be the extent of the scoring in the first quarter for Belfry as Betsy Layne held the ball and was very, very patient on offense.

The move by the Lady Cats wasn't unexpected by Belfry's outstanding coach Cindy Stuart.

"I expected them to do something like that," she said later. "I tried to tell my team, but they didn't listen."

Coach Newsome was lost for words after his team's thrilling victory. But he did put the game in perspective when he lauded his team for their disciplined play.

"This was a great game for us," he said. "The girls just went out and did what we asked them to do.

"I knew that holding the ball was our only chance against Belfry. After we had come over and ended our season (88-44) on a bad note, we bit," said Allen Central coach Johnny Martin. "They started out in a 1-3-1 and then, when the big boys went out, they put Lyons at the point of the press."

Martin confessed that he really hadn't seen that much of Paintsville and that the press bothered his team early.

"We were hyper. Paintsville jumped out and, when you're used to blowing teams away like we did in the last four games, it stunned us a little bit."

Allen Central held a 60-59 lead after three quarters, but Hall started the fourth with a three-point basket to make it a 63-59 game. A rebound basket by Lyons made it a two-point 71-69 game with less than five minutes to play.

Jon Holbrook hit a three-pointer for Paintsville that made it a one-point affair, 73-72, with under four minutes to play. But Allen Central went on a 6-0 run that netted them a 79-72 lead with 1:34 on the clock.

Four points, 80-76, were as close as Paintsville would come to the Rebels the rest of the way in their nine-point loss.

The first half was a fan's delight as both teams were up and down the court in a gym that was very warm from such a large crowd.

The game was tied five times in the first half and the lead exchanged hands six times. Allen Central took their first lead at 26-25 on a three-point basket by Steve Turner with 6:16 left in the half. The Rebels pushed the lead to six, 31-25, on a trey by Hall.

A three-point play by Lyons tied the game at 31 with 4:49 showing on the clock. The two teams traded three-points and a field goal to remain locked at 36-36 and Paintsville took a 43-40 lead on a trey by Matt Radliff and a layup by Lyons.

Hall drilled a three-pointer with 44 seconds left to send the Rebels back in front 45-44. A three-point play by Scott Holbrook and Lyons layup gave Paintsville a 49-47 lead at the half.

"I don't think we thought or believed we could win the game until the fourth quarter," said Coach Martin. "We had a huge crowd and this is a great Paintsville basketball team. They're a young ballclub and to play the way they played is something. They are just fundamentally sound and they're a great team."

Martin said that the only weakness he saw out of Paintsville was blocking out.

"But that will come. They have been taught to block out but it will come. I know that because they have been taught other skills of the game," he said.

The Allen Central coach thought his team got focused again in the fourth period.

"We got the lead and played our game," he said. "Our defense got much better, much better. We did a better job of protecting the inside. We gave help where it was needed. We cut off the drive which we didn't do at first."

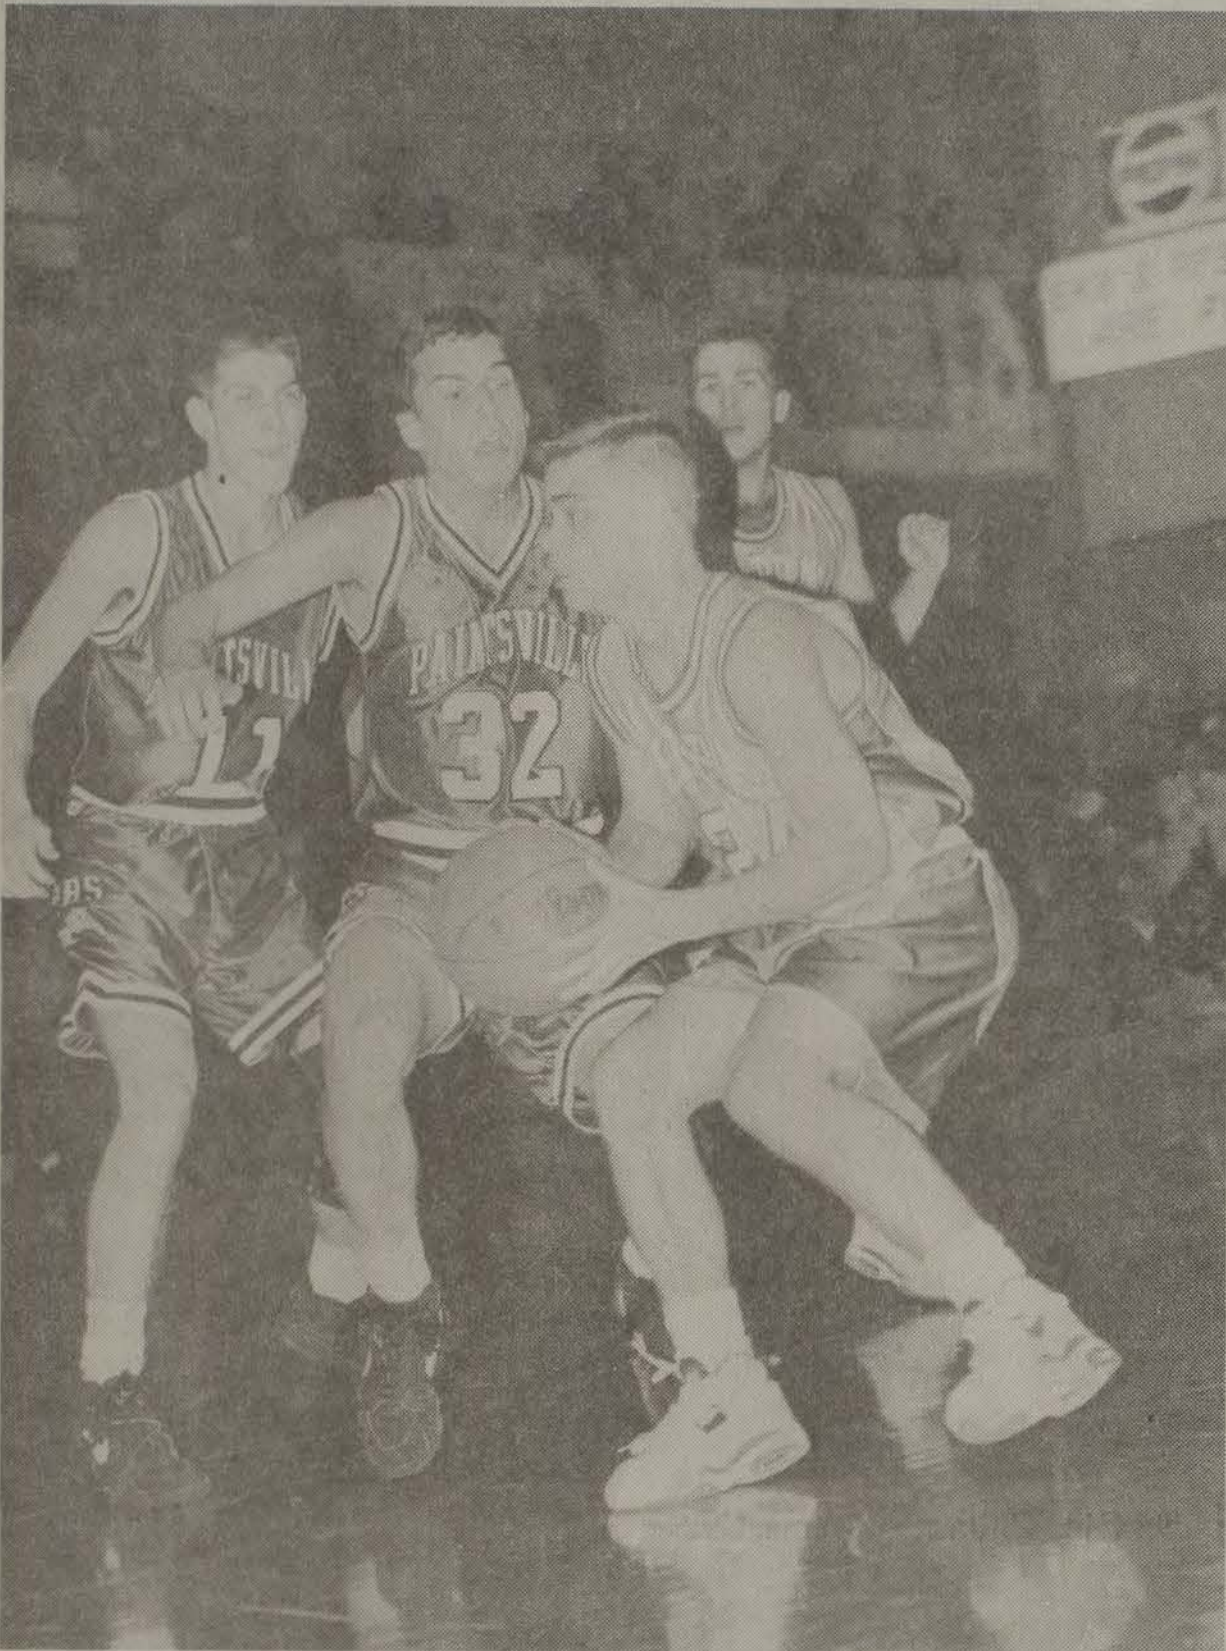

"But the biggest thing was when Thomas (Jenkins) got back down the floor and quit worrying about offense. He started taking off and getting back down the floor."

"By doing that he helped stop their transition game. He stopped Lyons who's a great player and runs the floor as well as any 6'6" player."

"When Thomas did that, it slowed their offense and they had to run their half court offense and we were waiting and ready for that."

Martin said that Hall just took over in the fourth quarter and made up for some early mistakes.

"One minute you think that he is killing us and the next minute he's playing super," said the Allen Central mentor. "He started making shots and passes that were unbelievable. He took over the game in the fourth quarter. He said, 'I'm going to do it' and he did."

Cuts off baseline!

Paintsville's Brad Sergent (32) and Todd Ward (11) cut off the baseline as Allen Central's Jeremy Hall (24) looked to penetrate to the basket. Hall scored 27 points as the Rebels defeated the Tigers in a semifinal game of the Boys' 15th Region Basketball Tournament at Allen Central Monday night. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Q. I've been hearing a lot about the Clean Air Act and CFCs. Please explain these terms and how they will affect me.

A. The Clean Air Act was created to help reduce the possibility of the depletion of the ozone. All residential air conditioners and heat pumps contain a refrigerant which, if allowed to escape into the environment, could possibly deplete the ozone. The Clean Air Act set strict guidelines about the handling of any CFC (chlorofluorocarbons) or HCFC (hydrochlorofluorocarbons) refrigerants.

While this recent legislation may have a positive impact on the environment, it will also impact the cost of servicing heating and cooling equipment. Service technicians will be required to take extra precautions to assure the containment of your system's refrigerant. This means an average service call, which in the past could be completed in one hour, will now take up to two hours and will require additional training. Also, expensive refrigerant recovery equipment must be purchased by anyone who services air conditioners or heat pumps. As a result, the cost of an average service call will increase slightly.

attempts in the final 1:54 to put the game away.

Betsy Layne trailed only once in the game and that was at 3-0. Misty Clark, who scored 12 points, said the game was her personal best.

"I played the best game of my life tonight," she said. "Even if I didn't score very many points, still it was the best game of my life."

Clark played the point guard for Betsy Layne and controlled the basketball out front in the stall.

"Before we came over here (Belfry.) Coach Newsome said, 'Misty, we've got to stall in this game and play our ball game if we're going to win.'"

Betsy Layne took a 7-3 first quarter lead on a three-point basket by Christy "Zone Buster" Johnson with just four seconds left. The slowed down game took Belfry completely out of their offense and the Lady Pirates struggled offensively.

Belfry was not able to score again until the 3:57 mark of the second quarter when Hinkle hit a baseline jumper to make it a 12-5 game. The basket ended a drought for Belfry that went 11:43 without scoring.

A layup by Dee Dee Martin gave Betsy Layne a nine-point, 14-5, lead, but a field goal and free throw by Jamie Runyon with 2:51 remaining, narrowing the margin to six, 14-8. Betsy Layne went to the locker room with a 20-12 advantage at the half.

Beverly Mutter hit a shot for Belfry to start the second half and freshman Jamie Heflin drilled a three-point basket to make it a three-point game, 20-17. The Lady Cats turned the ball over on their first three possessions of the third quarter.

The Lady Cats went on a 9-0 run that extended their lead to 12, 29-17. Rhonda Conn started the spurt with a 10-foot jumper and it concluded with two free throws and a layup by Christy Johnson.

Belfry cut the lead to six, 29-26, on a jumper by Heflin and consecutive layups by Mutter and Runyon. Christy Johnson's hit a three-pointer that gave Betsy Layne a 32-23 third quarter lead.

Betsy Layne took their biggest lead of the game as Dee Dee Martin scored the first six points in the fourth period to send the Lady Cats out to a 38-23 lead.

Belfry was able to cut into the margin and narrow the lead to nine points, 43-34, on a trey by Hinkle and a jumper by Heflin. Barbara Lewis' layup made it an eight-point game, 44-36, but that would be the closest the Lady Pirates would come to Betsy Layne.

Betsy Layne principal Alan Osborne was afraid to move during the game.

"I stood the whole game and I was afraid to go and get something to drink," he said. "We're all numb right now."

"They're outstanding young ladies and they came out to totally shock Belfry with their game plan. We're just going to enjoy this one. The girls played hard."

The 44-point loss to Belfry in the Lady Cats final regular season game was incentive for Martin.

"It made me want to play harder," she said. "We knew we had to do something different if we wanted to go to the state. We listened to the coach and now we're going to the state tournament."

"It feels good to win a regional tournament," said Conn. "When we built the 15-point lead, I knew that we were going to the state."

Martin led the Lady Cats in scoring with 14 points as four players scored in double figures. Martin also pulled down nine rebounds. Clark tossed in 12 and dished off nine assists in the contest.

Misty Johnson only scored four points, but was a big factor on the boards as she equaled Martin's total of nine. Christy Johnson had seven boards to go with her 10 points. She buried two three-pointers for the Lady Cats.

Conn, who got off to a slow start, finished with 10 points and six rebounds.

Hinkle topped the Lady Pirates scoring with 11 points. Heflin and Runyon netted nine each with Mutter scoring four and Lewis finishing with three.

Betsy Layne (21-6) will face Ohio County (24-6) a 67-50 winner over Apollo in the third region. The two teams will square off on Thursday, March 17 at 1 p.m. in the E.A. Diddle Arena in Bowling Green.

Happy camper!

Misty Clark has been a consistent player all season for the Betsy Layne Lady Cats and all the hard work has paid off. Clark won the individual free throw trophy in the Girls' 15th Region Basketball Tournament at Belfry last Thursday. Clark helped lead the Lady Cats to a 50-36 win over Belfry for the tournament title. (photo by Ed Taylor)

PITINO (PROBABLY) DID BEST COACHING JOB WITH NO CHEMISTRY 'CATS

Rick Pitino was in an 'accentuate the positive' spin last week, chiding fans and media for not appreciating his Wildcats' 23-6 regular season.

Win-wise Pitino probably did one of his best coaching jobs. Despite injuries, inconsistent play (to a man), a solid schedule, and absence of team chemistry.

Stellar (and consistent) defense made the difference.

But scolding Big Blue fans? Yo, coach, America's second winningest basketball program (1,583 going into the SEC tourney) has won 22 or more games a season 14 times in the last 20 years. (I stopped counting at 1974). The price of long term success is long term, high expectation.

'OTHER' CAROLINA

Anybody notice the state of South Carolina 'scorched' University of Kentucky fans twice this (academic) year?

Dec. 31: Clemson used its last possession to hand UK a heartbreak in the 26th Peach Bowl.

Mar. 5: South Carolina's basketball team did likewise on last possession in last game to cost Wildcats SEC East top seed.

UK's next significant hoedown with 'the other' Carolina?

Sept. 24—Bill Curry's Wildcats host Gamecocks for a 'must win.'

Nov. 9—(start of early signing period) Rick Pitino may be in Mauldin, S.C. trying to persuade 6-10 Kevin Garnett to become a Wildcat.

Footnote: Garnett is leaning, surprise, to North Carolina.

RHODES 'MYSTERY'

Why does Rodrick Rhodes play as if he is in a twilight zone? Because the UK sophomore was hypnotized by the kind of player evaluation talent scout Clark Francis laid on Chicago prep star Antoine Walker recently.

"...picking the right coach at the collegiate level is essential," Francis said. "The wrong decision could cost him as much as nine digits in potential income someday in the NBA."

How would you like coaching an 18-year-old after he (and parents) read those two sentences?

READERS (RIGHT) WRITE

Barclay Bannister of Jackson, Miss. (formerly of Princeton): "Please get off Rodrick Rhodes back! The young man is 20 (will be 21 Sept. 24) years old. I will admit that Rhodes (play) is sometimes frustrating because he is such a great talent, but seems to disappear for minutes at a time and doesn't always make the wisest decisions."

COMMENT: Gee, that kind of says everything. Except for this glance at items in Rhodes' UK profile—My Goal In Life ... is to be an NBA star; The Best Thing About being an Athlete Is: Money that is at the end of the road if you work hard.

TOP SCORERS

FEATURE A HIT WITH FANS

"Thank you for your interest in and acknowledgement of some of those who contributed so much to Kentucky's high school basketball traditions," the telephone message said. "So many great ones have been mostly forgotten."

"Your all-time list not only stirs some wonderful memories, but gives us an idea how some of our state's great point makers stack up over the years. Thank you."

Click.
From Covington to Princeton, Pikeville to Louisville, Williams-town, Munfordville, Central City and points between, I have received a flurry of telephone calls with "Do you remember so-and-so the last two weeks? He belongs on the (All-Time Scorers) list."

Sports In Ky. All-Time Scoring feature at tournament time was a natural. It began when KHSAA's Brooks Downing offered a list of 3,000 points or more scorers.

Where does Richie Farmer figure in? I asked.

"2,947," he reported.

At the time (Feb. 25) it put the former Clay Co. star 12th.

Because my telephone kept ringing (and I'm a sap for history things), Sports In Ky.'s limit was set at 2,000.

This week the All-Time Scoring List reached 43 boys, ten girls.

How rich is Kentucky lore? UK signee Allan Edwards was recognized two weeks ago as Florida high schools' all-time leading point maker with 2,100-plus. That would place Edwards 41st in Kentucky.

READERS (RIGHT) WRITE II

Casey Jones, Florence, Ky. writes about UK's free throw switcheroo at Vanderbilt: "You can't convince me that I can sit by the TV in my home 400 miles away and catch both of these discrepancies while not one of the four coaches (miss it). Come on!

"Is it possible that our squeaky clean coach knew about it all the time, but was going to let it slide, until the media broke it?"

Terry A. Conrad, Dry Ridge 'stayed up' and got a thrill of a lifetime, seeing UK's 31-point comeback at LSU. He was so excited he couldn't get to sleep until 2 a.m. "...I called my father-in-law in Corbin. Got him out of bed. He thought I was telling him a big one when I said UK won. All I can say is, 'I believe, and Go Wildcats!'"

Carl Bible, Milford, Oh.: "Antoine Walker reminds me of a satanic version of Jalen Rose.... I take back what I said about Wade Houston being the worst coach in college basketball. That honor goes to Larry Finch (Memphis St.)."

COMMENT: Thank you for writing.

Riverview 51-003

Associated Designs-Eugene, Oregon

Cozy and charming, the Riverview is a small home with a country Craftsman feel. This plan can be built as a vacation get-away, but it's equally well-suited for use as a year-round home for a single person, a couple or a small family.

The railed front porch gives the home a welcoming look. Sliding French doors on the far end offer direct access to a room that could serve as a study, a bedroom or a home office.

If you don't count the bathrooms, there are essentially only two more rooms in the house — a great room downstairs and a master suite upstairs. Both are large and have vaulted ceilings that amplify the sense of spaciousness.

You enter the bright great room through a door flanked by sidelights. To the right, a narrow stretch of wall creates a hallway next to the open staircase, while providing visual separation between the entrance and the kitchen. This is an efficiency kitchen, with stove, sink and refrigerator located close together to save steps. The eating bar adds counter space.

A coat and storage closet is tucked beneath the stairs and utilities are mere steps away, hidden behind folding doors just outside the bathroom.

The master suite has a secluded deck, recessed into the porch roof. A person reclining on a lounge chair there is invisible from the street. Other features in the Riverview's master bathroom include: a dual vanity, private water closet and an oversized shower illuminated by glass blocks. The walk-through closet is surprisingly large for a home this size.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $10 to Associated Designs, 1260 Charnelton St., Suite 2, Eugene, Ore. 97401. Please specify the Riverview 51-003 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 150 home plans is available for $12. For more information call (800) 634-0123.

Big lead gets away from Bobcats in 69-63 loss to Pike Central

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Keith Henry and the Betsy Layne Bobcats were looking to making their basketball season even sweeter by going further into the boys' 15th Regional basketball tournament at Allen Central Saturday night.

The Bobcats had just completed a .500 season, were runners-up to Allen Central in the 58th District and, by all means, were playing very good basketball.

Coach Henry liked the draw his team had gotten in the tournament and Pike County Central, a team they beat by 15 points earlier, was to be their first round opponents.

Betsy Layne played an awesome second period and built a 43-26 lead at the half. The Bobcats appeared to be in charge for the final two quarters.

However, the prosperity they enjoyed in the second period must have stayed in the locker room in the second half as they saw their 15-point lead disappear in a heartbreaking 69-63 setback at the hands of the Hawks.

The loss ended the Bobcats season at 14-16.

Hitting the open man and good shot selection highlighted the first half for Betsy Layne, but all that was missing in the second half.

Pike Central played the Bobcats close in the first quarter, trailing by only one point, 17-16 at the first stop. But the Bobcats started finding the open man and a 37-26 lead on a three-point basket by Keith Hamilton with 1:33 left in the first half.

Pike Central had their problems handling the basketball and finding the hoop as Betsy Layne ran off six unanswered points to lead by 15 at the half.

In the third period, Pike Central began to chip away at the lead and trailed by only seven after three quarters, 53-46.

Gary Fields started the final quarter with a three-point basket for a 53-49 score. With 7:16 left, David Edmonds scored on a layup for a two-point game.

Brian Hunter gave Betsy Layne a six point lead with back-to-back layups with 6:13 left to play.

After two free throws by Hamilton, Fields drilled his third try of the game for a three-point Betsy Layne lead. The Bobcats turned the ball over and Rodney King scampered to the other end for a layup. With 3:14 left in the game, Lance Bowman put the Hawks on top for the first time since the first quarter. Bowman hit a 10-foot jumper for a 60-59 Pike Central lead.

A rebound basket by Derrick Newsome reclaimed the lead for Betsy Layne and a 10-foot jumper by Hamilton gave the Bobcats a 63-60 lead. Bowman connected on two free throws to cut the lead to one, 63-62, and then hit two more to put the Hawks in front for good, 64-63, with 1:44 left.

Pike Central hit five of six free throws over the next 1:05 to go on top 69-63. Betsy Layne's shot selection was bad down the stretch, and they forced several shots in trying to catch up in a hurry.

Hamilton led all scorers with his 20 points. Newsome tossed in 19 and Hunter scored 16. Chris Potter finished with six points and Barry Clark scored two.

Bowman topped Pike Central with 18 points. Fields finished with 16 and Edmonds added 14. Barnette netted nine points with Carter finishing with eight. King scored four.

Pike Central advanced to the semifinals to face Elkhorn City. Betsy Layne closed out their season.

by many who can't wait to get home and watch them on the tube. Dr. Don, just keep fanning the crowd. They are hams for being on the television screen.

We want to express our sympathy to Coach Bill Letton over the loss of his father Bob Letton, who passed away recently.

It was a shocker when Pike County Central knocked off Elkhorn City Monday night. A little note that I made (and it had a little Pepsi stain on it) was that it is "Proof Positive" that records are of no use when it comes tournament time. Elkhorn had beaten the Hawks by 30 the last time they met.

What about those crowds that Pike County Central has been gathering for the tournament? That is one school that has come together and the fans are turning out in droves to show their support. This is a first-year school.

Jody told me, and I penned it down, that Allen Central had the largest tournament crowd, with Pike Central second. Both make for a very noise gym.

Speaking of noise, the jungle music played over the speakers before the game doesn't sit too well with some of the folks there. It makes it difficult to converse.

Tissue Paper Part II: The Paintsville Tigers followed the act of Pikeville and threw tissue paper onto the floor when they scored the first points of the game against Allen Central.

On page four we have this. Confetti thrown by Allen Central students found its way onto the Allen Central gym floor. The floor was cluttered with it. Perhaps some don't realize that it could cause a serious injury to a player or some fan. I thought they ruled confetti out as well as loud horns. I guess not!

Well, it's off to Bowling Green for the Girls' State Tournament. The tournament gets underway Wednesday and there will be some very strong teams in the classic. I look forward to it, as well as to the Boys' State Tournament.

Kentucky gets an oral commitment from Antoine Walker out of Chicago. They say he is spoiled and selfish. Pitino may have a problem child next year.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports.

Pike County Central shocks Elkhorn City, 64-52, in regional

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Elkhorn City Cougars took a five-point, 52-47, lead with just over two minutes remaining in their game against Pike County Central in semi-final action of the Boys' 15th Regional Tournament at Allen Central Monday night. Josh Crum had just scored on a rebound basket for the Cougars and time was their ally.

However, Pike Central scored the last seven points of the game and posted a 54-52 shocker over the Cougars, who had looked to defend their regional title.

Matt Carter hit a four-foot jumper with 15 seconds left in the game to put his team up by two, 54-52.

The winning basket came after Todd Conley, a candidate for Mr.

Basketball in Kentucky, was called for a charging foul with 24 seconds left.

Conley, who suffered through a dismal first quarter, woke up in the second and he was the one that Coach Randy McCoy wanted to handle the basketball. Conley drove up the middle of the lane and leaned forward on his shot at the basket. The shot fell short but the call was charging against the high-scoring Cougar.

Elkhorn still had a chance to either tie or go for the win with 12 seconds left after Carter scored the go-ahead two. Once again the ball came into Conley who sprinted up the court. Once across the mid court stripe, Conley bounced the ball off his foot and the ball squirted back up court into Pike Central's end.

A battle for the basketball ensued with two Hawks and Marin Mondoljevic vying for the basketball. Mondoljevic came away with the ball, but the horn sounded as time expired on the Cougars.

Conley led all scorers with 35 points in a dazzling display of offense. He buried eight three-point baskets and was three of three from the charity stripe. Crum finished with nine points and Nathan Ratliff added six. Mondoljevic was held to just two points after spending most of the game on the bench in foul trouble.

The two teams played to a 10-10 tie after one quarter in a sloppily played period. Conley hit three three-pointers as he scored all 11 of his team's second quarter points to give Elkhorn a 21-19 halftime lead.

Pike Central led 33-32 with 1:50 left in the third period but saw Conley bury two treys and Crum score on a short jumper to give the Cougars a 40-36 lead after three quarters. Conley had four three-point baskets in the third quarter.

Lance Bowman, who was impressive in his own way, topped Pike Central in scoring with 21 points. Gary Fields added 15 and David Edmonds scored 14.

Locals claim championship in karate meet

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Three local karate students recently captured first place in the Professional Karate Commission (PKC) Karate Kickboxing championships held in Pike County last month.

Amber Arnett, Jennifer Lackey and Jake Jarvis won first place in their respective weight divisions and with that won the right to compete in the Kentucky State Kickboxing Championships to be held in Louisville on June 18.

All three are students of the Porter Chinese Martial Arts School under the instruction of Sifu Jim Porter, who holds classes at the old Dwale school in Dwale. Porter said that his students have accomplished a lot this season.

"I am very proud of the accomplishments of all my students," he said. "From August of last year until now, we have entered several martial arts tournaments and came away with numerous trophies and medals, many of which were first places."

Porter also conducts a school in Paintsville at the Thelma Community Center. He just recently opened a third location in Morehead where Chris Hall (2nd Degree), Tim Goodwill (1st Degree) and John McGinn (1st Degree) are instructors.

"By the end of this year, I plan to have instructors opening at least three more schools around the area," said Porter. "I teach the Ching Loong Wu, which means Golden Dragon Martial Arts."

Porter is currently planning a major tournament in this area and hopes to make it "the largest martial arts event in Eastern Kentucky."

"It will be an open tournament that will not only include fighting, but forms of weapons competition as well," said Porter.

Four score in double figures as Allen Central rolls, 89-59

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Memories of the 1991 battle between the Allen Central Rebels and Belfry Pirates must have been lingering in the mind of coach Johnny Martin of Allen Central when his team took to the floor to face the Pirates in the opening game of the Boys' 15th Regional Tournament at Allen Central Friday night.

The Rebels placed four players in double figures while posting a 89-59 win over the Pirates and advancing to the semifinals.

Belfry and Allen Central met on the hardwood in the 1991 regional held at Johnson Central. J.J. Hylton went to the free throw line and sank two free throws to give the Pirates the win over Allen Central and an eventual regional championship.

Senior Jason Martin and freshman Thomas Jenkins scored 23 points each to lead the scoring parade for the Rebels. Junior point guard Jeremy Hall added 20 points with Steve Turner tossing in 10. Turner hit two three-pointers in the contest as did Hall.

It was the pinpoint passing of Hall that set up the big men down low. Jenkins used his speed and jumping ability to split the Belfry defense for some easy layups. Martin was all over the court, hitting from the paint area.

It was the match up zone that the Rebels employed that spelled defeat for Belfry. The Pirates had to work for their shots, with many coming up short.

Turner hit a three-pointer with 1:32 left in the third quarter to give Allen Central a 43-21 lead as the Rebels led 47-26 at the half.

Belfry had cut the first quarter lead to six, 21-15, after the Pirates trailed 13-4 early in the game. Martin scored five of the Rebels' first seven points for a 7-0 lead and Jenkins layup made it 13-4.

Barry Crum hit two three-point baskets for Belfry and Jared Hager connected on one to pull the Pirates to within one point, 16-15, with 2:05 left in the initial quarter. A rebound basket by Jenkins, a Phillip Patton free throw and two tosses by Hall gave the Rebels the six-point lead.

The ball handling of Allen Central and passing set up the Pirates for a blow out in the third period. Martin and Hall dished off the ball as Jenkins and Ronnie Samons benefitted from them. Martin hit Jenkins and Samons with consecutive passes for easy shots and Hall found Samons open for a layup. Hall zipped the Pirates' defense with a pinpoint pass to Martin for an easy score and the Rebels were in front by 28 points.

Belfry scored the final six points of the third period to trail 64-42.

Allen Central's biggest lead came in the fourth quarter when Martin took a pass from Hall and scored to give Allen Central a 31-point, 89-58, lead.

Hall had 19 assists in the game for Allen Central. He had 21 assists in the championship game of the district tournament. Hall was a perfect eight of eight from the free throw line. Martin finished with five assists for the Rebels.

Turner led Allen Central in rebounding, pulling down 13 boards.

Samons scored seven points in the Rebel win. Patton had three points before fouling out. Kevin Stumbo netted two points.

Belfry placed four players in double figures with sophomore Les Todd leading the way with 13 points. Hager, Crum and Jamie Baldwin each scored 11 points. Josh Stacy added eight points.

Allen Central improved to 23-7 on the season.

Moves in for the score!

Allen Central's Thomas Jenkins (21) broke away from Belfry's Jared Hager (10) and scored two of his game-high 23 points. Allen Central posted a 89-59 win over the Pirates. (photo by Ed Taylor)

A LITTLE HELP FROM MY FRIENDS

Every once in a while, I'll refer in one of my columns to a particular incident that I experienced when I was a kid, and someone will come up to me and say that, now that I've mentioned it, they too remember doing the same thing when they were a youngster.

"You've got a better memory than I have," they'll say. "Why, I'd forgotten all about that."

"I get a lot of help remembering," I'll tell them back.

It seems that people, especially those who grew up at about the same time—and in the same manner—as I did, are constantly telling me things they remember from those long-gone-but-never-forgotten days of their youth. A lot of times, they'll pry loose something from the far corners of my own memory, and the next thing I know, I'm writing about it.

Such was the case a month or so ago when I got a letter from Gail Castle. (You may remember him from a column I wrote a while back about his poetry).

Gail was reminiscing about a few of the home-made forms of entertainment in which he'd participated. Sure enough, I'd done some of the same things, but had forgotten all about them.

Poison Oak

Clyde Pack

He reminded me how we used to smash tin cans and wear them on our shoes. What we'd do was find Carnation cream cans (aluminum beer and pop cans hadn't been invented yet). Cream cans were still closed on both ends, except for a couple of tiny holes, and when we'd stomp down in the middle of the can, the ends would sort of curl up and grab the sides of our shoes. With luck they'd stick and we'd see who could wear them the longest before they'd come loose.

Sounds like great fun, huh? You'd be surprised how much more enjoyable those morning walks to school were with those Carnation cream cans as a diversion.

Another thing he mentioned that I remember doing was taking a piece of soft wire—I can't even begin to imagine where we'd get it—shaping it into our name (or the person's name we were currently claiming as our sweetheart) and placing it squarely on a T-rail so the train could flatten it out.

Of course, we'd never put it on the main tracks where the manifest ran. We'd just put it where they'd be dropping gons down to the tippie. I have no idea what we'd do with it after it was flattened. Maybe somebody can tell me.

Something I'd never done, though, that Gail mentioned was making a kind of floating cherry bomb. What they'd do here was seal a little carbide and water into a Mason jar and let it float down the creek until it exploded. No doubt, that's something they had to sneak and do without mom and dad

SECOND FIDDLE DOESN'T PLAY WELL FOR DAD

Our 1-year-old daughter's so enthralled with the sound that she repeats the phrase over and over.

And as her father, I want her to develop her vocabulary to the fullest. I'm reading to her, identifying animals and objects for her and helping the tyke learn important phrases to get her through life.

"OK young lady, let's go over it again," I'll say to her. "Say 'I'm daddy's girl.'"

And she does it again: "Daddy's girl, daddy's girl."

I love the sound of "Daddy's girl."

OK, I'll admit my motives aren't purely along educational lines.

I'm really not a jealous kind of guy. Honest. But when she falls or wants to be rocked, mommy's lap is first choice.

Her 4-year-old brother, Joshua, isn't much different.

He won't even let me make his oatmeal sometimes because "you don't fix it like mommy does."

Maybe being second choice isn't that big a deal. I know mommies are special, and their mommy spends more time with them than I do.

But that doesn't mean I wouldn't like to be first sometimes.

And in the interests of moving to the head of the line, I'm not above trying to tip the scales occasionally through, let's say, creative influence.

"WHO LOVES YOU?"

My strategy with my daughter originated from the success I had with my son when he was her age.

"Who's your best pal in the whole world?" I would ask.

"Daddy is!" he would say.

What a beautiful, thoughtful response.

He said it with such feeling and enthusiasm that I wished I had taped it.

"Who loves you, big guy?" I would ask every now and then.

"Daddy does!" he would respond.

What a bright boy!

But now I'm thinking I messed up somehow. The early programming—I mean encouragement—is wearing off.

One recent day before work, my son walked in while I was getting dressed and shared some devastating news:

"I love mommy the best," he said.

I didn't believe it at first. Maybe I had misheard him. Maybe I just wasn't fully awake yet. Then he said it again.

"Wait just one minute!" I said. "Who plays Ninja Turtles with you and builds forts for you?"

"You do," he said, "but I still love mommy the best."

"Who wrestles with you and puts the cover on you when you're cold at night?"

"You do," he said. "But I love mommy the best."

"How can this be?" I thought out loud.

"She takes me to the grocery, takes me to the toy store, takes me to the park. She's good at scratching my back and my belly after I wake up."

So what if I don't have fingernails? Should that qualify me for this kind of abuse?

But he saved the real bombshell for last. "I want to marry her."

The kid's got some kind of nerve.

ONE LAST HOPE

My son's loyalties are decided, and I'm going to have to live with it.

But I've still got one more chance with my daughter. Maybe it's not too late to turn her around. Maybe the coaching will stick with her.

It's been going well so far. She says "Daddy's girl, daddy's girl" without me asking her to repeat it.

We're working on new exercises now.

"OK, Jordan, say 'I love daddy,'" I told my daughter.

"I love Joshua," she says.

"I know, but you want to say 'I love daddy,'" I said.

"I love Joshua," she says.

This is going to be tougher than I thought.

At least I'm still their favorite daddy.

But I've got a feeling that's about as far as I'm going to get.

Working with children's books

Patricia Keathley (left), instructor Judy Lucas, Michelle Evans, Evelyn Adkins and Ruth Hall held up children's books they have been using in the Reading With Children program.

Parents read with children

On March 7, four G.E.D. students and their instructor received certificates for completing all the requirements for the National LVA Reading With Children (RWC) Program.

These adults are now trained as RWC program tutors and will be able to help other parents learn the importance and the methods of the program. During the past year, 25 adults in Floyd County have received certificates for completing the reading program.

G.E.D. students Evelyn Adkins of Honaker, Ruth Hall of Craynor, Michelle Evans of Beaver, Patricia Keathley of Grethel, and G.E.D. instructor Judy Lucas of Beaver received certificates. These certificates were awarded through the Floyd County Adult Literacy Council by Vivian Whitehead, Vista worker and coordinator of Family Literacy Programs for Floyd County.

According to Whitehead, the reading program is

Local student wins $41,000 scholarship to UNC-CH

Leslie Carolyn Kendrick, a senior at Salem Academy, has won a 1994 Morehead Award to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Kendrick is the daughter of William and Leatha Kendrick of East Point. Kendrick is president of the honor cabinet, a member of the swim team and a recipient of the NCTE Achievement Award in Writing.

The $41,000 scholarship pays all expenses for four years of undergraduate study at UNC-CH plus a summer enrichment program. Out-of-state scholars receive an additional out-of-state tuition stipend.

Award recipients are determined by merit and achievement, not financial need. Criteria include academic achievement, leadership, moral force of character and physical vigor.

The summer program complements each scholar's classwork with opportunities for hands-on leadership and problem-solving experiences. Internships focus on our areas: outdoor leadership, public service, private enterprise, and travel and study abroad.

Trustees of the John Motley Morehead Foundation have awarded scholarships to 26 high school seniors in North Carolina, 24 from 17 other states and two from Great Britain for study beginning next fall.

Selections followed a screening process that began in September 1993 and concluded in Chapel Hill February 26 through March 1.

"Leslie exemplifies the qualities we seek in a Morehead Scholar," said Charles E. Lovelace, Jr., executive director of the Morehead Foundation. "Leslie's outstanding scholastic record and involvement in extracurricular activities make her the kind of well-rounded student who will enhance the academic community of the university during her years here."

More than 2,000 Morehead Scholars have attended UNC-CH. Currently, 201 are studying on campus.

Among the largest and most competitive scholarships for undergraduates in American colleges and universities, the Morehead is patterned after the Rhodes Scholarship awarded for graduate work at England's Oxford University.

The Morehead program was begun in 1951 by the late John Motley Morehead, an 1891 UNC-CH graduate and native of Spray, now Eden.

JBS students celebrate famous artist's birthday

Mrs. Risner's fifth and sixth grade students at the June Buchanan School in Hindman prepared diligently to participate in a party honoring Grant Wood recently. Mr. Wood is not a student, but the artist who painted the famous work "American Gothic."

Risner's students chose Wood as the artist to celebrate, drew pictures of his work, wrote poems related to his most famous painting and finally dressed up like the man and woman in American Gothic. This was not just a party, but education at work. Part of KERA suggests that students learn more by doing and participating than they do by sitting and listening.

Students learned art principles such as, "The strength of verticals, repetition, color, and symmetry in painting," explained Mrs. Risner. "Boys and girls didn't squirm and fuss, avoiding the subject while looking out the window, instead they actively observed the painting while trying to copy it," she continued. "In doing so they learned detailed lessons about what goes into the making of a great work of art." Some boys and girls wrote poems about Mr. Wood's life, while others created a model Gothic house from a paper bag imitating the Gothic house in the painting. One poem read like this:

"His name is Grant Wood.

He paints people in history, who seem to be a mystery.

We can hear him in our hearts, thanking us for our many parts, we took in celebrating his arts.

by Katie Kibler

The big day finally arrived, parents came, and children presented their works of art. Each student read his poem, presented her picture, or dressed like the characters before enjoying a cake decorated like the painting itself.

Through these creative means, Mrs. Risner indelibly etched the lessons of art and Gothic architecture in the minds of these youngsters. None of them is ever likely to forget the artist Grant Wood or his work.

Students involved in Mrs. Risner's class were Sheena Reynolds, Shenea Johnson, Ronnie Slone, Matthew Ware, Katie Kibler, Megan Smith, Adam Jones, Carrie Melton, Steven Bailey, Levi Pace, Brett Hall, Zachary Bentley, Swati Yalamanchi, Haylee Combs, and Rachel Pace. Each student contributed earlier in the year to a bake sale which paid for the party.

Kim's Korner

First let me apologize for a couple of mistakes in the past two columns.

A couple weeks ago, if you read about the grading system at Adams in this Korner, then you may remember a statement that read "Now every school in the county is using this system." Well, it seems the older I get, my penmanship is getting somewhat hard to read, and the "W" was confused with a "T." You see not every school in the county is using this system of grading. My apologies extended.

The column following, which was last Wednesday's, was an even bigger mistake—as far as I'm concerned anyway. You see again my penmanship was mistaken. Instead of "losing my grandmother,"—losing my Grandfather came out in print.

I phoned my Grandfather to prepare him for what he may read in the column, for I could only imagine how shocking it would be to pick up a copy of this paper—only to read you had passed away. He took it pretty good—better than I anyway—and so, I've decided until my rich uncle gets out of the poor house, and I can afford one of those fine Laser printers, I'll print my column rather than cursive writing from now on. Maybe this will make it a little easier on everyone for awhile.

Again, my apologies for the mistakes, now let's move on to another subject.

Part II
Over the weekend, some friends and I made our ritual trip to Wally World and made a purchase of a different kind.

I have to tell you, they dared me to write about this—Oh, well!

It seems with age, two of my friends have begun to grow facial hair, (which I must admit I could barely see) anyway it bothered them. They found a product called Facial Hair Remover, and decided they'd give it a try. We left the store and went to my house where the experiment took place. That stuff worked like a charm. Forget the fact it smelled like a really bad perm, it worked. Yes their upper lips were as smooth as a baby's behind.

Well, about an hour of idle gossip passed when we all decided we were hungry. Heading into town to go through a drive-thru, the two friends in the back kept saying something smelled really weird. The two of us in the front, knew what it was. As I looked in the rearview mirror as they proceeded to try and get their upper lips to reach their noses to see if the odor was in fact them, one friend says to the other "Smell my lip and see if it stinks." Just as one of them leaned over to take a "whiff," this big huge red truck comes up as close as he could get to my bumper, as we stopped at the red light.

Boy, did he get an eyeful. Frankly his eyes were so big from what he saw, I could count his eyelashes from the rear view mirror. It was definitely a hoot I'll tell ya! Sometimes we just never get too old to have fun....

Till next week. See, I can write about you without telling who you are! Ha! Ha! Ha!

Children

"an intergenerational approach to education. You will not truly teach a child unless the parent is involved in the process. Reading With Children is an important factor in motivating a child to want to read and to succeed in school."

Instructor Judy Lucas thinks the program has helped her students look at reading with children in a more creative way. She said, "I'm really excited about my students learning how to think more creatively about reading to children. They are very excited about doing more with what they have learned. We are working on a plan to read to Head Start children."

Participant Ruth Hall has discovered that children's books can be fun reading for adults, too. "I don't think you are ever too old for kids' stories. Even my husband Randy enjoyed the books. I surprised myself when I did my original project on the book Caps for Sale. I created an activity kids could do after reading the book."

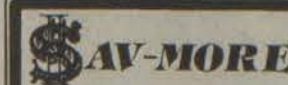

Another participant Patricia Keathley has learned the importance of parents reading to their children. "I am convinced that it is important to learn to read to your children. I want to talk to other parents about how reading to children can help keep their children interested in school."

Michelle Evans and Evelyn Adkins are using what they have learned with their own children. Evans said, "Kenesha, my daughter, who is only two and a half years old, loves to have me read to her. I can't believe how quietly she will sit while I read a whole book to her. I will always read to her."

Adkins said, "My little boy, Nickie, loved Brown Bear, Brown Bear. The book has stimulated his curiosity."

Sammons to celebrate 94th birthday

Brown Sammons, formerly of Weeksbury, will celebrate his 94th birthday with family and friends gathering at his home on April 8.

Sammons is in fairly good health, being able to walk up to 5 miles a day in good weather, and is faithful to his treadmill he calls his "old mule."

Sammons doesn't fox hunt anymore. He had to give it up, along with his dogs he loved so much because it was too much for him to care for. But he adopted two cats, which take their daily walk along beside him.

He is the oldest member of the Wabash Freewill Baptist Church, and is a retired coal miner, after mining for 47 years in Kentucky. Sammons hasn't been back to the hills of Kentucky for 5 or 6 years and would love to hear from his many friends in Floyd County.

He sits and watches for the mailman. It tickles him to death to get mail and his Floyd County Times. It keeps him updated on his family and friends.

His address is: Brown Sammons, 402 E. 500 South, Wabash, Indiana 46992 or his friends wishing to call him by do so at 219-563-4003.

He is the father of 9 living children: Opal Mollet and Pauline Fraley both of Tomahawk; Mary Ann Adkins, Savannah Tennessee; Douglas Sammons, Woodbridge, Virginia; Carolyn Sue Sanders, Gas City, Indiana; Ruby Bayliss, Leona Campbell, George Sammons, Johnny Sammons all of Wabash Indiana; one son, David is deceased. He has 34 grandchildren, 33 great-grandchildren and several step-grandchildren and step-great-grandchildren.

Sammons misses the hills of Kentucky. He often sits and talks about the good times from back home.

Porter celebrates 89th birthday

HERMAN PORTER

A surprise 89th birthday party was given for Herman Porter of Allen-Ft. Pierce, Florida at his home in Ft. Pierce on February 15th by family and friends.

Twenty-four neighbors and six family members attended and enjoyed buffet-style snacks and birthday cake. One of the biggest topic of discussion was the news of cold weather up north and Herman telling how happy and thankful he was to have both enjoyed his first snow during Christmas at Allen in over twelve years and was able to make it back to Florida by January 1st—missing the cold weather, snow, and ice. Friends just smiled and shook their head amazed on hearing how Herman insisting on driving while traveling the roads that had a few icy spots as he began his trip south on New Year's Eve. Only after getting farther south did he turn the driving over to another family member.

January and February found him busy, caring for and cleaning underneath sixty fruit trees. Herman said, "It sure would have been rough trying to keep warm up there. I'd much rather be here, working the soreness out of this knee"—making reference to the knee where arthritis pain occurs frequently.

Friends and family members attending were:

Shirley MacIntyre, Nell Clements, Connie Keller, Mimi and Dick Pawius, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vesoloski, Helen Moisa, Sonia and Bob Martin, Frances Hogan, Ginny, Robert, Marshall, and Billy Rosbury, Kathy and Tim Rosendahl, Cathy, Chris, and Carolyn English, Mabel and Andy Bolen, Dwayne and Cathy, Berniece Porter, Goldia Williams, Bonita and Tom Porter, Lee and Paul Porter.

Home-based business? How about fruitcakes?

Joy Gilman of Shelbyville already had the most important ingredient when she decided to become an entrepreneur and open a new business for her home.

She had the recipe. The fruitcake recipe she had perfected over several years drew raves from a small community in Missouri when she sent a cake to a friend in appreciation for special hospitality. Even the mayor raved about the tasty cake. An idea for a home-based business was born.

"I started Joy's Kitchen very small about 10 years ago," said Mrs. Gilman. "We didn't even have water in the basement where I baked. I had to learn a lot about running a business."

Now she has an elaborate operation in that basement that makes up the headquarters and workplace of "Joy's Kitchen," a company that sold roughly 2,300 pounds of fruitcake during the last year. Her oven handles six trays of four two-pound cakes or seven trays of six one-pound cakes. The equipment and the operation comply with all regulations regarding food preparation in the home.

She and her husband Bruce manage what now has become a mail order business selling all over the country and such far away places as Germany, England and Alaska. Bruce laughingly defers to his wife as the brains behind the business. "I'm just the dish washer," he laughs. Mrs. Gilman also sells a lot at arts and crafts festivals and special Christmas events and shows at places like Heritage Hall in Lexington and the Fairgrounds and Exposition Center in Louisville.

The Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture has been a resource for the Gilmans as they have been growing their business. In the early stages they attended an extension-sponsored seminar on starting and operating home-based businesses. Patti Rae Smith and Sue Burrier, extension home economics specialists in home-based business and foods and nutrition, were teaching and Joy Gilman served as a panelist on the program.

Smith said this is one example of a growing number of home-based businesses opening in Kentucky. Cooperative Extension Service offers seminars on starting and operating different types of home-based businesses such as bed and breakfast operations and marketing crafts.

Mrs. Gilman and her husband have both been involved with UK's Cooperative Extension Service for many years. He was very active with 4-H and she still is a member of the Kentucky Extension Homemakers Association.

Through the years, they have sought extension's assistance through Jane Bailey, extension agent for Shelby County. "She called me once to see what preservatives she might use to help her fruitcakes stay fresh longer," Bailey said. "I put her in touch with a food scientist at UK."

Mrs. Gilman added, "He told me it would be better not to use preservatives. Instead, I should concentrate on packaging. So my fruitcakes have no preservatives. They are 100 percent natural ingredients."

Bailey added, "We have been a resource for her, but she has been a big resource for us. She can tell people interested in starting a home-based business what to look for, what to avoid, how to go about getting started."

And she has. "When I get a call from others interested in starting up their own business, I take them to her," Bailey said. "She can, in effect, give them a whole seminar except it's on a one-on-one basis."

Learning is what it's all about, Mrs. Gilman said. Prospective home businesses should learn their local zoning restrictions before anything else. For example, in her case, while she bakes her cakes and operates her business from her home, she cannot sell from her home.

"Zoning laws restrict that," she said. "I cannot even put a sign in my front yard to advertise the business."

"I used to fix a plate of samples at every show or festival I went to," she said. "If people would taste it, they would buy it. We haven't had time to advertise. We sell all we have time to handle."

Even so, she now has three employees and as the business continues to expand and the mail-order business continues to grow, she plans to test the waters for advertising.

She doesn't want to grow too big though. "I strive for quality, not quantity," she said simply. "I had two people call to complain about getting a hard cake. I thought that was terrible. Bruce said two complaints out of all those cakes sold was pretty good. But I don't want any."

She takes steps to avoid complaints too. Like the information she received about packaging to improve shelf life.

"I found out there is a big difference in packaging materials," she said. "All cellophane type plastic wrap is not the same. I talked with different companies and found one 'pure' product that the company would guarantee freshness for three or four months. I found it would last even longer."

Her cakes don't last that long, normally. She found out that the packaging she now uses lasts longer because she set aside one fruitcake in her kitchen and today almost two years later it is still firm with fair color. That experimental cake won't ever be sold through. Mrs. Gilman is much too concerned about quality.

"I strive for quality, not quantity."

Crop producers looking at waste products as crop nutrients

With the approach of the growing season, Kentucky crop producers are looking for new sources of nutrients for their soil.

"One nutrient source that is becoming increasingly available for land application in Kentucky is waste products that contain useable nutrients for growing crops," said Bill Thom, extension soils specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

The use of waste products as crop nutrients helps reduce the volume thrown into landfills as well as lower the cost of nutrients to farmers, he said.

Several waste sources in Kentucky include cities, industries, power generators and food processors, Thom said. They may have waste products such as several types of compost, biomass, various types of coal ash, scrubber materials from smoke stacks and residues from food processing.

There are several things Kentucky

Enrich your health with fruits and vegetables

Did you know that a cup of strawberries has more vitamin C than an orange? Are you aware that broccoli has at least four cancer-fighting nutrients? Do you get enough of the kind of fiber that only comes from fruits and vegetables—that you can't get from grains?

There's a wealth of health benefits we can get from eating a diet rich in fruits and vegetables. Unfortunately, most Americans eat only half the amount of fruits and vegetables they need each day, missing out on many vitamins, minerals and fiber that are essential to good health. With all the news about rising health-care costs, it's important to know that a primary source for guarding your health is in the fresh producer section at the grocery store.

Health authorities like the National Cancer Institute and the American Institute for Cancer Research advise us to eat five servings of fruits and vegetables each day. That may sound like a lot, but one serving equals just one whole piece of fruit or a half-cup of chopped or small-sized vegetables (like corn or peas). So fruit on your breakfast cereal, a piece of fruit for a snack, salad-bar veggies for lunch and a cup of vegetables with dinner all stack the odds in your favor for good health.

There are lots of ways to add fruits and vegetables to your daily diet: add them grated, chopped, or pureed to soups, casseroles, and stews; add them as garnish to your entrees; keep a bowl of fresh fruit nearby for snacking; buy bags of frozen chopped vegetables to use in small portions and to save preparation time.

For a free booklet of delicious fruit and vegetable recipes, send a stamped (52 cents postage), self-addressed envelope to AICR, Dept. AP, Washington, D.C. 20069.

Senior citizens, I want to thank you for using the free services available to you through the Benefits Counseling Program. Week after week our work load increases because more and more senior citizens are learning of our program and what it can do for you.

This program is sponsored by the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky, Inc. at Prestonsburg. It is the responsibility of this office to inform and assist senior citizens in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties of benefits that are legally and rightfully yours. We instruct, advise, and refer you to government offices and private organizations that can help meet your individual needs.

The Benefits Counseling Program does things from helping senior citizens complete necessary paperwork, to acting as your personal advocate in a cohesive effort to resolve problems. It is our job to work on behalf of senior citizens to help you get the assistance you are entitled to from the resources available. Unfortunately, we are not always able to provide a resource for every need. Yet your need is very real. You deserve all the personal attention we can give to you, in an attempt to meet that need. We do many things for many people, but, unfortunately, we cannot meet all the needs of all our senior citizens.

Right now, on my desk, are individual files of people who need eye exams and glasses. To find a source of help for people with eye problems has been discouraging. There are more requests than there are resources available to help these people. Just today I received another call. This man was an older senior citizen who told me how badly he needs new glasses. He stated that it has been seven years since his last eye examine. "I can't see with these things," he said. I am of the opinion, from having talked with him, that he is the kind of person who would gladly pay for his own exam and buy his own glasses if it were not for his limited income and a lot of medical expenses. His need for a long overdue eye exam and new glasses is legitimate. My heart went out to this man, but my empathy doesn't solve his sight problem.

I certainly don't have 20/20 vision. Like most of you, at one time I did. But I'm older now, and like many of you my sight has not improved with age. In my particular case I can't read with glasses on. I can't watch TV with them off, and, according to the state eye examiner, I need them to drive. I too, not unlike the gentleman who called in, need an eye exam and new glasses. So far, I have chosen not to see an eye doctor. This man has no choice. He can't afford to see one.

Routine eye exams are important for anyone with a sight problem. As we advance chronologically, it is important to our health that we have these routine exams more frequently. With early detection and proper treatment, blindness that so many of our senior citizens experience, could be avoided. Yet, there are not enough resources available to even begin to meet the vision needs of our senior citizens who honestly cannot afford to have their eyes cared for.

On behalf of our truly deserving senior citizens, I want to encourage every eye specialist in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, and Pike counties to consider accepting just one referral a month from the Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens. Please contact me at the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky, Inc. (Appalred) in Prestonsburg, 1-800-556-3876 to offer your expertise and your heart to help just one deserving senior citizen a month to see for life.

Senior citizens, hang in there with me. We are doing everything we can to meet your eye care needs. Without the support of this paper we could not communicate with you on a weekly basis. They know you have needs and they want to help us help you.

Don't forget we are here to help you free of charge. Our toll-free number is 1-800-556-3876.

Something New.

1 (606) 624-3979

There's something new to remember. From now on, when you make long distance calls to telephone numbers within Kentucky's 606 area code, dial 0 or 1 + 606 and then the number you're calling.*

The nation's continued telecommunications growth has created a shortage of telephone numbers. By dialing the appropriate area code on all long distance calls, numbers are freed up for new business and residential customers.

If you have long distance numbers within the 606 area code on any programmed services or equipment like Speed Calling, Call Forwarding, modems, or even a FAX machine, now's the time to reprogram them. Effective April 2, 1994, dialing the area code will be necessary to complete long distance calls to telephone numbers within the 606 area.

Joe Curry

Curry elected president of Kentucky Petroleum Marketers Association

Joe Curry, President of Curry Oil Company at London, was elected President of the Kentucky Petroleum Marketers Association (KPMA) during the 68th Annual KPMA Convention held on March 8-9, in Louisville. Joe succeeds Jim Hill of Perry Oil Company.

Founded in 1926, the Kentucky Petroleum Marketers Association has been serving the petroleum industry for over 68 years. It is made up of representatives of all segments of the petroleum industry...to promote the interest and goodwill of everyone engaged in the marketing and distribution of petroleum products in the State of Kentucky.

A native of Laurel County, Joe attended Laurel County High School where he graduated in 1973. He then attended Sue Bennett College in London. He is married to the former Linda Harber. They have three sons, Blake 9, Brent 7 and Scott 6.

In 1975 Joe Curry joined his father, Eddie Curry, in the oil business. Curry Oil was founded in 1932 by Eddie Curry and Joe's grandfather, William Curry.

Curry Oil Company became a Shell Jobber in 1949. Many of Curry Oil's early locations, which were built by Eddie Curry after he returned from WWII, have since been replaced by modern Curry Express Marts with car washes, food marts and Burger King outlets.

Joe is a member of St. William/Sylvester Catholic church where he serves as a member of the Parish council. He serves on the board of the Come-Unity Cooperative Care of London and is Shell Oil Company State Brand Chairperson.

Over the most recent years, Curry Oil Company has achieved many honors with Shell Oil Company. These honors include: six-time million per month club, two-time winner of the Silverado of the Year, Kentucky State Image Award, and two-time National Customer Care Winner.

Curry Oil, along with two other sponsors, gives away an automobile each year to a student in Laurel County to encourage kids to receive a good education by staying in school.

Using local materials, local people and minimal shop equipment, a Perry County man has found the way to put his products onto the shelves of every Sears hardware store in the United States and Canada. Operating out of a former vocational training wood shop at Home Place Clinic and using some of the tools installed in the shop in 1939, Curt Hoskins, the Perry County entrepreneur, has turned a desire to create a few jobs using local resources into a successful business. He calls his company The Box Works because that's what it produces, boxes. These are, however, very special boxes. They are used to display, ship and store expensive cutter bits and blades for wood working tools.

While designed to contain tool bits and blades, the boxes are fine enough to sit on a desktop, coffee table or vanity. Hoskins says that he and the seven people he trained produce about 1,000 boxes every week. At present, all the boxes are shipped to Vermont America, a nationally known tool company based in Louisville. V-A then packages them with cutter bits and blades and sends them either to Sears for sale in Sears' retail stores and catalogs or to one of Vermont America's own subsidiaries for direct sale.

The company is now making five different boxes, ranging from one about the size of a cigar box to one about double the size of a Sears catalog. Hoskins emphasizes that box quality in this market is of paramount importance. Tool manufacturers and vendors, he points out, are selling expensive tools to be used to create fine wood work and it is important that the box the tools come in demonstrate almost the same quality of work. The boxes produced at The Box Works all have distinctive finger joints at the corners, perfectly fitted lids and either the Sears logo or one of Vermont America's logos on the top.

"I would like to see hundreds of businesses in the mountains doing the kind of thing I've done with The Box Works," Hoskins said. "I'm certainly not getting rich, but I have created a job for myself and seven other people." Like many people in Appalachia, Hoskins has done a lot of different things. He says he has been a salesman, electrician, plumber, contractor and coal operator. When asked if he had been a skilled wood worker, he said, "No, not really. I used my dad's wood working shop as a kid, but, as you can see from the gray hair, that was some time ago." You do have to be clever, he points out, but then quickly adds that there are a lot of people in the mountains more clever than he.

So, what do you need to imitate him? Hoskins says when he decided he wanted to start what ended up being The Box Works he laid out several criteria. First, the product had to be one that had a continuous, month-in, month-out market. Second, it had to take a minimum amount of equipment—the university folk would refer to that as a minimum capital investment. Third, the product had to be one that could clearly compete in a national or regional market. Fourth, the business had to be one that could effectively use local labor. Finally, a facility must be available to house the business.

On this latter point, the E.O. Robinson Mountain Fund is providing the building at Home Place Clinic used by The Box Works. The building is a structure built in 1939 for a Vo-Tech Wood Shop. The minimal equipment, in the case of Hoskins' venture, consists of three table saws, three drill presses, one horizontal and one vertical edge sander, an air compressor and some hand tools. One of the table saws and one of the drill presses were originally purchased by the vo-tech school in 1939. There are also a variety of jigs, all made by Hoskins, to speed the production. He devised a hydraulic press to press the finger joints in place; a pneumatic press to seat the tops and bottom on the boxes; jigs to produce the exact cuts needed for the finger joints; and, when he could not find a vendor that met his quality demands for silk screening his customer's logos, he designed and built his own silk screening press. "Nothing I have done is beyond the ability of hundreds of people in the mountains," he claims. "In fact," he says, "Boxes every bit as good as ours could be produced with one table saw and a few hand tools...not at a rate of 1,000 a week, but possibly at a rate sufficient to support one or two people."

He claims that being small is a competitive advantage. A small firm can go from concept to finished product while the large firm is trying to figure out where a potential new product fits within its bureaucracy. Hoskins says The Box Works can go from idea to finished box in two weeks.

Hoskins says he wants to see others in the mountains start and succeed at new business. He says, "I believe in it enough that I'll even show others how to build boxes. I'll tell them everything but my costs and selling prices." You can't ask for much more than that.

MANAGEMENT CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

McFact vs. McFiction.

McFiction: McDonald's Managers are burger flippers.

McFact: As a Restaurant Manager at McDonald's you'll manage a million dollar business and a staff of 60, of your own, involved in a challenging variety of day-to-day operations.

McFiction: McDonald's is a "dead end" job.
McFact: McDonald's is a career with opportunities beyond Restaurant Manager. You're part of a billion dollar corporation with 10,000 restaurants worldwide. So there's no limit to the variety of challenging and exciting areas to go into.

McFiction: There's no real training at McDonald's.

McFact: As a Restaurant Management Trainee you'll receive the very best training in the industry from McDonald's. One of the 10 Best Managed Companies in America!

McFiction: You'll make minimum wage.

McFact: You'll earn higher salaries and better company benefits than your peers.

McFiction: McDonald's accepts anyone.

McFact: We don't! It takes a winning attitude and desire to be a part of the world's best team, plus some college and/or supervisory experience. If you've got it, call or send your resume to:

Memories in the Making

Prom night: A night to remember

by Sheldon Lee Compton

It's time to get out the cash for the monkey suits again. I never really cared much for the look of a tux and last year when I attended my first prom I found out that the looks were not deceiving, I'd rather wear a straight jacket.

This is just one of the many aspects of the prom that a boy can frown on; there are plenty of others. But before I begin my attack on proms just let me say that I was wrong when I thought last year that prom night was going to be the worst thing that ever happened to me. I actually had a good time thanks to my girlfriend Carrie who talked me out of faking a heart attack to stay home.

I got up that morning expecting the worst already; thinking about having to take the pictures, which was the biggest problem for me because I hate taking pictures. When I thought it useless to worry any further about pictures, I found something else smiling at each picture and I guess she could do this easier than me because her dress was about knee length and looked heavenly cool. This was her third prom and she was used to the whole routine so she kept reminding me that I would like it when I got there. I didn't believe her, but I should have, she had never been more right.

After stopping at the high school to take even more pictures we then left for the restaurant. Finally a part of the pre-prom schedule that I could deal with. We arrived at Sam 'N Tonio's just as every other student from our school did, which I thought was a little strange but didn't say anything. We went to the wonderful world of steak and baked potatoes, a mortal man's heaven. Once the waitress had found our congregation a table big enough to seat us all, we ordered. Carrie and I ordered New York Strip steaks and baked potatoes and ate like royalty.

long; I wouldn't complain.

So, now I'm a changed man. I have seen the light and I'm ready for Sam 'N Tonio's. And I've even made a big decision for this year's prom. Actually I've made two decisions. (1) I'm going to overcome my fast dance jitters and (2) I'm going to go easy on the punch this time so that I get to see something besides the bathrooms.

See you at the prom.

All dressed up to keep me busy. Dancing. I wasn't looking forward to taking pictures but at least then all I would have to do is stand there and smile but with dancing that was a whole other story.

I had never danced in my entire life and there I was preparing to go to a large occasion and show off my two left feet. Now, in most of the movies the guy goes and tries to learn how to dance at the last moment, but not me. I spent the day relaxing as best as I could. I wasn't even nervous until I had to put on my tux; then I was nervous and aggravated.

I tried to stay calm about going around to my relative's houses but then they started snapping pictures. This wonderful bit of information I had not been aware of. And on top of all of this the day was scorching hot and I honestly believe that each beam of heat was directed right on the back of my jacket.

Beside me Carrie stood

From there, it was prom time and my stomach had begun to get active again. It fluttered rapidly until the moment we stepped through the doors at the Holiday Inn. We entered a foyer where a few classmates were seated in couches and chairs. Most of them didn't look happy. On down a hallway we found the room where the prom was already in progress, but before we went in we had to take more pictures, of course. I was beginning to get used to it though and besides, I was full of steak and baked potatoes. How could I be mad?

During the night I danced for the first time and became instantly hooked. I was pulling Carrie up at every slow song (I never got the guts up to fast dance). I also drank two bowls of punch. Hey, the cups were small!

Once we got home I thanked Carrie for such a great time and apologized for being so hard on the prom. I told her that next time I wouldn't care to take pictures all day

PROM FUNDAMENTALS

- Safety pin. Slip a safety pin in your evening bag. If you don't need it, one of your friends might to salvage a dress strap disaster or to pin on a corsage.
- Breath mints or breath spray. Pop a mint into your mouth for a cooling refresher.
- Lipstick. Add a touch of color to your kisser. Make your smile brighter by freshening up your lipstick. Apply it again before you pose for your prom picture.
- Comb. Wow! Prom dances really move your body. Keep a comb handy to put things back in place. Streamline those strands.
- Quarter. A quarter could save your life. Don't be afraid to phone home or a good friend for a safe ride home. Your parents will love you for it for the rest of your life.
- Will power. Don't be swayed to do drugs or gulp down the alcohol on prom night. Stick firm to your beliefs and on the day after you'll remember the fun you had prom night.
- Sense of humor. Hang onto your sense of humor. You'll need it if someone spills a drink on your $1,500 prom dress.
- Friends. For a good time, don't ignore your friends.
- Confidence. You look your best. Know it and believe your family when they tell you so.
- Manners. Don't leave your manners at home. Mind your p's and q's. Be polite on the dance floor, in the restaurant, or at home.
- Plans for tomorrow. The day after the prom can be a let down. Plan activities, such as a movie with a friend or a get-together at a pizza parlor with your friends to talk over the prom.
- Have fun.

Party all night long at safe prom night

Students, parents, community leaders and teachers are gathering together to plan a safe, fun way to celebrate prom night in 1994. They're planning an after-prom party that includes casino games, dancing, music, food and prizes, but strictly prohibits the use of alcohol or drugs.

The party organizers will be trying to cut down on the dangers of drinking-and-driving accidents. Party-goers will check in their car keys at the door and can pick them up when they leave.

The parties are filled with exciting events. The fast-paced action at Betsy Layne High School's Project Prom last year kept students, teachers and parents chuckling throughout the night.

"Everyone had a ball," said Diane Harmon, a Betsy Layne parent who helped at the school's last Project Prom.

One of the surprise events of the evening was a lip-sync competition, Harmon said. School principal, Allan Osborne was Romeo to Teresa Cooley. The two lip-synced Dolly Parton and Billy Ray Cyrus' hit, each dressing the part of the duo, and the audience went wild.

"It was the big hit of the evening," Harmon said.

Another favorite with the crowd was a role reversal. Some of the high school boys dressed up like girls. They wore prom dresses and wigs and were a riot, Harmon said.

Students were also surprised to find their parents enjoying the evening. Parents showed the youngsters how their generation dances in an exhibition of line dancing.

A tricycle race also kept the group chuckling. Boys hopped aboard the tricycle while their girlfriends hitched a ride on the back. The boys pedaled their way to the finish line and bonus bucks.

Games such as Twister, bingo, and tugs of war went on in various rooms at the school. Harmon said organizers hoped to have Jello tugs of war and Jello mud fights, but were unable to come up with enough yellow Jello. Other colors of Jello would stain, Harmon said.

Some of the games included cash prizes that could be as much as $100 or even a TV. Students earned bonus bucks throughout the night which were used during a raffle later in the night. Students also registered at the door when they were admitted to Project Prom. Drawings were held throughout the night, and the winners name was announced over the intercom. Students had a time limit to rush to the office and select their prizes.

Movies are also shown in various rooms during the night.

To keep prom night safe, fathers patrolled the parking lot and maintained a post by the front door. Entry to Safe Prom Night was by invitation only.

There's plenty of activities going on during Project Prom to keep prom night a night to remember.

P.M. dressing for 5' 4" and under

You should outshine your clothes; they shouldn't outshine you, say fashion experts Allison Kyle Leopold and Anne Marie Cloutier in their book Short Chic. That advice especially goes for shorter women who are 5'4" or under, who are easily overpowered by overdone clothes.

The most common mistake shorter woman make when it comes to a formal affair, such as the high school prom, is overdressing. A sequined dress is dazzling, say Leopold and Cloutier. But when you add glittered shoes and stockings, and maybe an extra bracelet or two, the result is overpowering — and a disaster.

The following tips are for P.M. dressing for women 5'4" and under.

- Avoid:
- Large, stiff, face-framing ruffles in fabrics like organza, which can overpower.
  - Ditto for flouncy, peasanty, petticoated looks.
  - Puffed sleeves that puff out, not up.
  - Tiered skirts that billow. Instead, look for:
  - Strapless evening gowns.
  - One-shouldered evening gowns, which draw the eye upward and give the impression of height.
  - Bias-cut gowns, which can take ten pounds off your appearance.

- Caftans, which give a wonderful, elongating flow.
- Ankle-length gowns, which are especially feminine-looking on petite women.

The key to a great dress-up, the authors add, is planning. Plan your prom look in detail ahead of time and give yourself plenty of time to dress. Then, once you're there, forget about your clothes entirely...that's how great evenings are made.

Dress shopping tips

- Set realistic goals. Set your price range and look at dresses in that price range. It will save you time and money.
- Take along a friend or relative, someone you trust, to help you make your decisions.
- If you can't buy something that fits, buy something bigger and have it altered. Allow ample time to have the dress altered. Remember, it's prom time and other shoppers may be having their dresses altered too. Don't buy something that requires you to lose weight.
- If the dress makes you feel good about yourself, it probably looks good on you. Ask your friend.

Easy steps for men to get prom prepped

It's not unusual for women to spend days preparing for the prom, but men usually prepare for the prom at the last minute. Men, it's time to take time to pamper yourselves.

Facials

Facials aren't only for women. Apply a masque to your face; relax a few minutes and remove. Masques tone up the skin and remove dead cells. A good scrubbing with a rough sponge will have the same effect.

Do-it-yourself masques can be purchased at discount stores. A professional facial can be done at any salon.

Manicures

Ragged, dirty fingernails suggest uncleanness. YUK!

Take time out for a manicure and pedicure. Here's how to do it right, according to Charles Hix's "Looking Good: A Guide for Men."

- Wash and dry the hands. If the nails are long, trim them with nail scissors and shape. Sides of the nail should be curved. Squared or sharp edges near the tender fingertips invite hangnails.

- Use an emery board after trimming to smooth the nails. File from the sides to the center at about a 45-degree angle on the underside of the nail.

- Soak fingertips in lukewarm, sudsy water. Mild dishwashing liquid can be used to create the suds. Soak for two minutes. This will clean the nails and soften the cuticles, strips of hardened skin at the base of the fingernails (and toenails).

- Scrub surface with a nail brush. (This step is optional. If nails are weak, skip the brushing.)

- Rub a small amount of cuticle cream or petroleum jelly on cuticles if they haven't softened by the soaking. Gently push back the cuticles with an orange stick tipped with sterile cotton. A cotton swab will work also. Because fingernail growth is controlled by the half moon area of the nail, a growing nail will emerge spotty if the cuticle is injured or is treated roughly.

- Use a pumice stone to lightly whisk away any dead skin around the nail. Lightly rub away any stains on the fingers, such as nicotine.

- It's time to soak the fingers again. Soak in the sudsy solution for about 30 seconds.

- After soaking, rinse and dry the fingers. Use a small amount of hand lotion or cream to soothe the skin and gently smooth it over the skin. Don't forget the cuticles. Rub a dollop of hand cream into the cuticle, gently pushing it back, each time hand lotion is applied.

- Buff the nails with a chamois buffer for a healthy shine.

- Repeat the above steps about once a week, but a few nightly brushes with an emery can't hurt.

Pedicures

Feet won't fit in a small bowl of water, but the steps for a pedicure are similar to those for a manicure. Toenails grow more slowly than fingernails, though, so pedicures don't need to be done as often.

- Nail clipping for the toes should not end with curves. Instead toenails should be clipped squarely, straight across. Don't cut too short or the square edges may pierce the skin and cause ingrown nails. Use toenail clippers, not the curved scissors used on fingernails.

- Soak the feet for at least 10 to 15 minutes. Foot salts can be used instead of soap to combat foot odor. Relax. Soaking also helps increase circulation.

- After soaking, work on the cuticles. They rarely need trimming, but they do need to be softly pushed back.

- Use a pumice stone to remove the dead skin.

- If you have corns or calluses, remove the cause before removing the effect. Corns or calluses are usually caused by ill-fitting shoes. Both corns and calluses are skin thickenings on the feet, usually the result of constant rubbing over bony areas, Hix explains in his guide to men.

Hix advises that removal of the corn should be done by a physician. "For heaven's sake, don't use a razor blade to cut them away," Hix writes. Corns are cone-shaped and may extend far beneath the surface, possibly to the joint of the toe.

Soft corns between the toes can be self-treated by drying with rubbing alcohol and putting some lamb's wool between the adjoining toes, Hix writes. If they do not go away, see a doctor because infections sometimes accompanies soft corns, Hix advises.

Calluses can be self-removed, but Hix recommends using extreme care. Calluses can be pumiced away after soaking. If they're deep and thick, removal should be done only by a physician, Hix cautions.

- After using the pumice stone, massage the feet using a small amount of lotion. Feet should not be too moist, though, because the foot will become a breeding ground for bacteria.

- After applying the lotion, use foot powder or talc, then rub it between the toes.

- Buff the toenails to a polished shine.

To keep your feet in shape and to keep odor away, wash them twice daily.

Use warm water and soap to wash. Rinse with cold water and then dry. Sprinkle the feet with alcohol, and make sure the skin between the toes is well doused with alcohol. Wait a few seconds and towel away moisture that hasn't evaporated. Douse with foot powder.

At least once a week — or nightly — soak your feet in bath salts dissolved in hot water. Dry them carefully. Massage your feet.

Begin the foot massage by kneading the sole with your fist. Hold your foot between hands. First give a circular thumb massage to the top, and then the bottom. Give a fingertip rub to the ankle, and then apply pressure to the heel, still using your fingertips.

"Run your thumb along each tendon in the top of the foot while squeezing the foot with hard pumping actions three times between your hands. A twisting massage of each toe is the final step," Hix writes in his guide to men.

After the massage, apply a light moisturizer to your feet. Blot away excess between the toes with a tissue. Use foot powder.

Hair care

Hair care does not start with a shampoo. It begins with a quick but complete brushing before stepping into the shower. Brushing will activate the oil glands and loosen dead scales. Don't overbrush.

After brushing, massage the scalp using the fingertips. Work from the nape of the neck forward.

In the shower, wet the hair thoroughly in warmer tepid water. Use about one tablespoon of shampoo. Lather gently but firmly through the hair. Massage your scalp using your fingertips.

Rinse thoroughly. You don't have to shampoo again, but you do need to rinse again because shampoo builds up on the scalp.

BRIDAL SHOWER IDEAS

Are you stumped for an idea for a really nice shower for a friend or relative? There are many possibilities. Themed showers are practical and very popular today. A theme is especially nice when there is to be more than one shower. It can prevent duplicates.

Here are some ideas for themed showers, which are featured in Beverly Clark's Planning A Wedding To Remember:

LINGERIE OR

PERSONAL SHOWERS

These showers are fun. Gifts can include all the beautiful things most people don't buy for themselves. They help prepare the trousseau for the honeymoon. Gifts may include lacy nightgowns, camisoles, sexy underwear, bras or a nice robe. Other items may be perfume, bath accessories or earrings. Or buy a pretty frame and get a baby picture of the bride's fiancé from his mother. It will not only surprise the bride, but will be something to cherish for years.

LINEN SHOWERS

These showers are always useful. You may want to let everyone know the color scheme. It can be helpful for the couple to register in a department store for items such as monogrammed towels, a scale, bathroom sets, sheets, pillows and blankets.

KITCHEN SHOWERS

This is a great shower, especially if it's co-ed. Gift ideas are endless and range from small and inexpensive to larger, fancy appliances.

Browse through any kitchen store or department store again; it would be helpful for the couple to register for needed items. One fun idea is to have each guest bring a favorite recipe along with one item needed for its preparation. Some examples: chocolate chip cookies with the cookie sheets, Quiche Lorraine with a quiche dish. The hostess may provide a recipe box to put the recipes in, or write them in a book designed for this, entitled The Private Cookbook.

Name change items

If you are planning on changing your name, you may want to take care of some changes before the wedding. Some may require a copy of your marriage license with notification, so check ahead of time.

• Social Security card—local office of the Federal Social Security Administration

• Driver's license

Preserving moments with portraiture

by Steven and Angela Porter
Porter Studio

There is a place where time stops and rainbows never fade. Where flowers are pressed in perfect color and sunsets are held in everlasting brilliance. Where children and grandparents remain suspended in golden moments and families live forever. Portrait photographers spend every day of their lives making those places real for people.

Creating portraiture is not unlike motion picture-taking. The results should evoke a feeling of success by the image-maker. The bottom line must be a pleasurable experience by the viewer, producing a strong identification with the medium, and compassion or understanding of the subject.

Fine portraiture is produced by the heart and directed by the brain. An artistic "master" pours out the emotions of his heart and soul into a medium employing an individual style tempered with his technical excellence.

If a portrait photographer is ever to amount to anything in photography, he has to be himself. And much more than that, he must be willing to strive for further excellence by education in the technical aspect. He must be able to share the bliss of the wedding couple, to know the serenity of a mother and her newborn baby, to let his heart be full of glee when a child is busy discovering the world, to be sensitive to young adults striving to become adults, to finally, and foremost, have respect and compassion for the elderly. Bearing all this in mind, a photographer must carefully listen to the stories of all the ages, and as the people have so entrusted him, he creates for them pictures that portray their lives that so that one moment of time will be preserved...forever.

Choosing the best style for you

Once you have determined the price and formality of the gown, you will want to find one to flatter your figure. Don't worry! There will be a perfect dress for you no matter what your size and shape.

Beverly Clark, author of Planning A Wedding To Remember, provides some suggestions to help you find the perfect dress for your figure:

• If You're Short (under five feet four inches). A high neckline with an empire waist or a short-sleeved or sleeveless dress with long gloves will make you look taller. The veil should not be longer than floor or chapel length.

• If You're Tall (over five feet nine inches). A drop waist with a wide belt and trim or ruffles that wrap around the dress will take away the all-legs look. Off-the-shoulder, low necklines with billowy sleeves are also good. Hats or dramatic veiling are striking and will not overpower you.

• If You're Average Height and Weight (five five to five eight). You're lucky and can get away with almost anything you'd like. You may want to select something which makes you look either shorter or taller, depending as velvet, satin or moiré. Choose a blousier bodice with a gathered waist and narrow sleeves.

• If You're Heavy. You will want to aim for a slimmer effect with a high waistline or an A-line dress with vertical lines. Stay away from lacy ruffles, clingy fabrics and puffed sleeves.

• If You're Large Busted. A V-shaped or high neckline with a keyhole yoke is usually most flattering. Avoid empire or cinched waists, as they accentuate larger breasts.

• If You Have Wide Hips. This common problem can be disguised with a flared skirt or A-line dress. The wide bottom may be balanced by a broad collar, puffed sleeves or a hat.

THE WEDDING PARTY

Wondering how to determine the number of attendants and who they will be? Before asking everyone you know, consider the size of the overall wedding, its location and your budget. Remember, the more attendants, the more bouquets, boutonnieres and gifts to buy.

Beverly Clark, author of Planning A Wedding To Remember, gives us a detailed list of the wedding party members and defines their duties:

Maid Or Matron Of Honor

Brides usually choose a maid or matron of honor they feel close to: a sister or best friend. If you're having a large wedding you may want both—a married sister for the matron, and an unmarried sister or friend for the maid of honor.

Your maid or matron of honor is indispensable and a big help throughout your planning and ceremony. Her customary duties include the following:

- Helps the bride with lots of details such as addressing envelopes, making favors and helping with the shopping.
- Pays for her own wedding attire.
- Alone, or with bridesmaids, has a shower for the bride (optional).
- Helps organize the bridesmaids with their fittings and on the wedding day.
- Keeps the groom's ring until the appropriate time in the ceremony, when she exchanges it for the bride's bouquet.
- Assists the bride in dressing before the ceremony and at the reception before the bride leaves.
- Signs the wedding certificate as a legal witness.
- Assists the bride with the train and veil at the altar.
- Is a member of the receiving line and is seated in a place of honor at the reception.

Bridesmaids

There are no definite rules on the number of bridesmaids you should have. However, twelve is customarily the limit and most do not have more than eight. For a simple wedding you should have fewer.

You may have an even or uneven number. With three or less, the bridesmaids walk single file down the aisle and precede the maid of honor. With an even number of four or more, you may want them to walk in pairs. If the bridesmaids outnumber the ushers in the recessional, the extras can pair up or walk alone. Most brides try to keep the same number of bridesmaids and ushers because it makes for symmetry at the altar and in the pictures. They are usually close friends or sisters of the bride or groom, and have few traditional duties, but add a colorful touch to the wedding.

- May be helpful with the pre-wedding errands and tasks.

- Purchase their own wedding attire.

- May, alone or together, have a shower for the bride and attend all pre-wedding parties.

- Attend the rehearsal and rehearsal dinner party.

- Sometimes participate in the receiving line.

The Best Man

The groom usually chooses his brother, a close relative or best friend; however, it can be the groom's father or son in the case of a second marriage. The best man not only offers moral support but is the groom's right-hand man in organizing activities and handling important duties.

- Pays for his own wedding attire.

- Transports the groom to the church and helps him dress.

- Supervises the ushers' fitting and organizes them on the wedding day.

- Keeps the bride's wedding ring until the appropriate time during the ceremony.

- Delivers the officiant's fee before or after the ceremony.

- Signs the wedding certificate as a witness.

- Makes the first toast to the bride and groom at the reception and reads any telegrams.

- Dances with the bride.

- Sees that the suitcases are loaded into the honeymoon car, and that the groom has his plane ticket, itinerary and traveler's checks.

- Takes the groom's wedding attire to the cleaners or rental shop.

The Ushers Or Groomsmen

Like the bridesmaids, there is no definite number of ushers. A guide to follow is one usher for every 50 guests. Generally the size of the wedding determines the number. For example, you wouldn't want ten ushers with only fifty guests.

It is not necessary to have the same number of ushers as bridesmaids; however, it is better balanced if they are close in number. The ushers walk down the aisle in the processional singly, if less than four, and may be paired with four or more if you like.

The ushers or groomsmen are usually brothers, relatives or close friends of the bride or groom. Their duties include the following:

- Pay for their wedding attire.

- Arrive at the church one hour before the ceremony to seat the early guests.

- Seat people with pew cards in the reserved or special section.

- Distribute wedding service programs, if any.

- Seat the bride's guests, usually on the left, and the groom's on the right. (In the Orthodox Jewish wedding the sides are reversed.)

- Direct the placement of wedding gifts.

- Seat the groom's parents in the right front pew and then the bride's mother in the left front row. She is the last person seated before the processional begins.

- Unroll the aisle runner, then take their places.

- Escort the bridesmaids out of the church after the recessional.

The Flower Girl

You may have one or two little flower girls. They should be about the same size. Usually the range in age is from four to eight. Tiny tots, although very cute, are too young to understand what's going on and may be distracting.

She may carry a basket of rose petals that she scatters down the aisle, or a small bouquet. If rose petals are prohibited in your church, she may carry baby roses to pass out as she walks down the aisle.

Ringbearer Or Trainbearer

It is not necessary to have either a ringbearer or trainbearer. However, if you do know one or two cute little boys about four or five, you may want to let them take part. The ringbearer or trainbearer may also be a little girl. If so, she should be dressed the same as the flower girl. The duties are minimal, but the children look adorable and add a special touch.

- The ringbearer carries the ring or rings tied by a ribbon on a satin or lacy pillow.

- The ringbearer may walk alone or with the flower girl, but precedes the bride.

- The trainbearer carries the bridal gown train, following the bride down the aisle.

THE DIAMOND DILEMMA

Choosing the perfect engagement ring is not an easy task. With so many sizes and styles to choose from, it is hard to pick the one you'd like to wear for the rest of your life. Beverly Clark, author of Planning A Wedding To Remember, explains the criteria to consider when selecting a diamond:

Color—The clearer the diamond, the greater its value. Diamonds are graded on a scale: The greater the degree of color in the stone, the lower the stone's value, with the exception of very rare colored diamonds which are extremely valuable. Clear or colorless stones are referred to as perfect.

Cut—Accuracy in cutting is essential to the beauty and sparkle of the diamond. The stones are proportioned and faceted to maximize the brilliance through their crowns. The brilliant or round cut is the most common. Other shapes include oval, pear, marquise, emerald cut and heart-shaped.

Clarity—This is the term used to describe the degree of inclusions when the stone is magnified ten times. Inclusions are interior or exterior flaws. If they are large and noticeable without a magnifying glass, they will affect the beauty of the stone; otherwise, they will only affect the value. Flawless or perfect stones with no imperfections are obviously the most valuable and expensive.

Carats—This is the size of the diamond. Color, cut and clarity determine the per-carat value. A higher-quality, smaller diamond may be worth more than a lower-quality, larger stone. As the size increases from one carat to over two or three, the price per carat increases tremendously when the stone is of equal quality.

Social dance: Ever-changing, ever popular

The high school prom is a highlight of the school year, especially for juniors and seniors. It is an evening where memories are made.

A social dance such as the prom is important because it provides a way for young people to have fun, socialize, and to make new friends. In the United States, dancing as recreation has long provided fun and a chance for socialization. On the American frontier, square dances provided pioneer families a chance to socialize.

Dances also serve as a way for men and women to become acquainted before they marry.

Social dance fads

Most social dance fads became popular during a particular period. The most fashionable dances of one period are generally out of date the next. An example is the Twist, which was popular in the early 1960s.

The tango, twist, waltz, minuet, and the big apple are dances became the latest dance craze when they first appeared on the social scene.

Some popular dances were considered shocking when they first appeared. In the 1800s, the close contact between partners who were dancing the waltz was considered disgraceful by many. The suggestive movements of some rock dances of the 1950s and 1960s were criticized as vulgar.

Dance in Puritan Days

Dance in the days of the Puritans in New England was considered okay as long as it was used as the Bible said it should be used: As a way of religious and civil celebration that praised God. Dancing took on the curse of paganism when associated with feasts or public demonstrations. One particular practice that was distasteful to the Puritans was dancing around the Maypole. "To the Puritan, the Maypole was 'a stynching idol' around which heathens worshiped," wrote

Joseph E. Marks III in his book America Learns to Dance.

By 1700, circle or round dances had become acceptable to the Puritans because it taught manners and manners were considered a part of morals. Mixed dancing, however, was considered sinful. Despite its condemnation by ministers, mixed dancing became popular and by 1700, people began to give balls.

In the southern colonies, the wealthy took an opposite view of dance. They thought that dance was a necessary part of an education and an accomplishment proper for a gentleman. Slave and servants saw dance as a form of recreation. But like New England, Virginia law forbid dancing on the Sabbath.

The 1880s

In the 1800s, southern colonies supported musical societies and clubs. But throughout the century dancing was still denounced from some pulpits. However, one religious sect, the Shakers, had definite dance patterns as a part of their worship. The pattern was further defined in 1788, when "the square-order shuffle" was introduced into Shaker worship.

Despite its censure, social dancing was becoming increasingly popular in the eighteenth century. As the demand for dancing instruction grew, dancing schools were set up and private schools included dancing in their programs. Dancing masters, or instructors, taught dancing. Kentucky had its share of dancing masters.

"In Kentucky," wrote Marks, "Jeremiah Moriarty advertised that he would teach dancing, geography and use of the globes in both Lexington and Danville and that 'his character and method are well supported.'"

He added, "In 1793 Harry Toulmin, in his report on Kentucky and Virginia, stated that in regard to teaching in the counties of Mason and Washington, Kentucky, a dancing master would do well."

As people learned dances, the number of balls and assemblies increased. The romantic waltz was the most fashionable social dance of the 1800s. Plainer folk, who were not considered a part of high society, were not invited to balls and assemblies. Instead, they danced at bees or frolics which combined work with pleasure. Several farmers and their families would help a family with their work then have a meal and dance. They danced for fun and learned dances from older people in their group.

Also in the 1800s, the cakewalk was started among American slaves as a high-stepping promenade that poked fun at the haughty ways of plantation masters. Whites began to dance the cakewalk about 1890.

The 1900s

During the 1900s, people danced the Tango, the Charleston and the black bottom. In the 1930s and 1940s they did the jitterbug to the Swing music of big dance bands.

Social dance styles became freer in the early 1950s with the advent of rock 'n' roll. Partners made up their own dance movements on the spot. During the 1960s and 1970s, African-Americans created many dances that became popular.

In the 1970s, "disco" dancing also reigned supreme. Dancing partners held each other and followed a pattern of steps to a disco beat.

During the 1980s, young black males created a new craze called break dancing, which consisted of acrobatic movements performed to rock music.

Today in popular dance, it seems that anything goes. Country line-dancing has its fans, and in certain circles disco dancing is being revived from the 1970s.

Color-coordinated legs

Whew! It's almost prom night. You've chosen your dress and selected your shoes. Your jewelry is wrapped in cotton waiting for the night it will glitter. You know what hair style you'll wear. Everything is ready, right?

Not quite. You forgot to choose hosiery to complement your ensemble.

If your dress is all black, and you've selected black shoes to wear with it, then wear sheer or shimmery black hosiery.

Wearing a black and white dress and black shoes, select sheer or shimmery black hose. A very sheer shade of white will also create a coordinated look.

Are you wearing white, white, white? Try wearing sheer white or nude hose.

If black and white doesn't capture your personality and you wear bright colors, nude hosiery works well. Shades of white or ivory will also work with bright colors, but don't forget to dye your shoes to match your dress.
