Bonding agent puts in low bid for jail

Floyd County Fiscal Court members voted at special meeting Thursday to accept the low bid on bonds to be sold to build a new jail, but in a 3-2 vote the court rejected a recommendation to review construction bills before paying them. Magistrates Tommy Neil Adams and Jackie Edford Owens asked that construction bills be brought before the court instead of being submitted to a trustee for payment.

They ought to bring the bills through the fiscal court," Owens said. "We're held responsible for them. That way everybody knows what's going on."

Otter Creek warden is the latest to leave

by Susan Allen Staff Writer

There will be a new director at Wheelwright's minimum security prison next month, but not because eight prisoners have walked away since it opened.

"It is too good an offer to refuse," Otter Creek director Tim Maguigan said this week. "It is a good opportunity for me and a good move for my family

Maguigan has been the warden at Otter Creek since it opened last fall, and when asked if his leaving was due to inmates escaping from the center, he firmly denied it.

"No," the warden said. "I tendered my resignation to accept a position with a company I used to work for in Tennessee. I'll work in field operations for community-based programs for youths.

"It's with mixed feelings that I'm leaving," Maguigan continued. "Obviously, I had no intent to move quickly. I've enjoyed working with the people in the community.'

Maguigan announced his resignation at Monday's Wheelwright City Commission meeting. He told commissioners that on May 1, he would no longer be director.

After Monday's meeting, commissioners, cititzens and Mayor David Marlee Sammons thanked Maguigan for his work with the community and Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo commented that bringing the construction bills to the court could hold up payment to contractors and, therefore, delay the project.

Owens countered that contractors know the money is available because of the court's authorization to sell $5.8 million in construction bonds.

Adams agreed that the court should review construction invoices.

"I'd like to see what's going on," Adams said.

Bonding agent Terrell Ross told the court they could do it either way, but he recommended that bills be paid by the trustee to avoid a "timing" problem.

On a legal basis, you bid out the jail and contractors are entitled to be paid," Ross said.

"If they run on a shoe string, they are short-timers anyway," Owens said. "I don't see nothing wrong with

City man is killed when mower flips

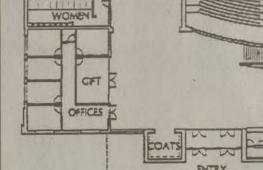

A Floyd County man died Tuesday when he fell off a lawn tractor he was operating at his home in Prestonsburg.

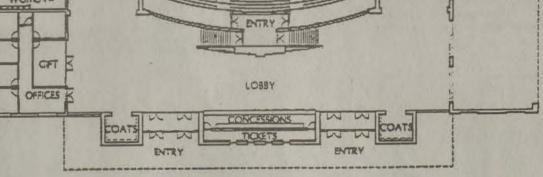

William F. Warrix, 71, of Jane Brown Branch Road, died Tuesday evening at the University of Kentucky Hospital in Lexington.

Warrix was reportedly operating the mower on his property when it went off a 10-foot embankment and rolled over him, according to the Fayette County coroner's office. Warrix was reportedly found by family members.

Warrix was a World War II veteran and is survived by his wife, Maude Baldridge Warrix; and four sons, Larry Francis Warrix and Timothy Warrix, both of Prestonsburg; Carson Warrix of Lexington; and Michael Warrix of Ackworth, Georgia.

Funeral services will be Friday, April 22 at 11 a.m. in the Floyd Funeral Home Chapel. Burial will be in the Warrix Family Cemetery at Auxier road.

Firefighters dodge bullets in battle of Wayland blaze

by Janice Shepherd Managing Editor

Wayland and Garrett firefighters literally dodged bullets Monday evening while they fought a fire on Stamper Branch at Wayland.

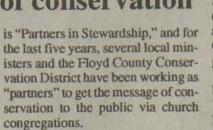

Gun shells in the mobile home of Steve Banks exploded in the fire, said Steve Henegar, a Wayland firefighter, posing a hazard to firefighters and young children standing near the area.

Wayland firefighters, who were assisted by members of the Garrett Fire Department, were delayed in their firefighting efforts because a young man whom the owner had accused of setting the fire, brandished a gun, Henegar said. Wayland's dispatcher radioed the Floyd County Sheriff's Department for help, and the sheriff's department sent the state police to the scene. By the time police arrived, the young man's family had taken the gun away from him,

The purpose of the breakfast was to distribute packets of educational materials about conservation to the clergy, who use the information as inserts in their church bulletins, Carter said.

Earl Compton, former administrator of the Floyd and Martin county health departments died Tuesday at the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

Compton, 66, of Prestonsburg, was administrator of the two health departments from 1977 to 1993, when he retired in October.

Compton has worked in county, state and federal health programs since 1955, including sanitarian and health educator for the Floyd and Martin County health departments; administrative consultant with the Maternal and Child Health Division of the State Department of Health; and administrator of the Floyd County Comprehensive Health, a pilot program in 1965.

He also taught post-secondary business education at Mayo State Vocational-Technical School in Paintsville for several years.

He was a member of the Jaycees, the Lions Club, the I.O.O.F., the Floyd County Foster Care Review Board, the Floyd County DES, the Health Care Board of Big Sandy Head Start, and the Board of Directors for Floyd County Developmental Child Care.

The Floyd County Health Department will close at 11:30 a.m. today, Friday, so the staff can attend Compton's funeral service, which begins at 1 p.m. at Carter Funeral Home

During the breakfast, Ratliff briefly reviewed the history of Stewardship Week, which began in the United States when church congregations began to set aside the fifth Sunday after Easter as Soil and Soul Sunday. The name of the observance was later changed to Soil Stewardship Sunday, he said. The National Association of Conservation Districts took on national sponsorship of the annual week-long observance in 1955.

effort to open a new section of the landfill.

Meyer said the agency must also plan for the replacement of old collection trucks which are rapidly becoming less dependable because of long hauls to West Virginia where they dump in the Pritchard landfill.

Also, current operating revenues make no allowance for repayment of a disputed debt with Pike County, where the county allegedly owes $200,000 for dumping.

A long-term solution to the solid waste program's financial woes will require a variety of elements, Meyer said. He said a revised, updated solid waste ordinance, now under review by the fiscal court, is a necessary part of the puzzle. That ordinance would, among other things, clarify the county's intent to make participation in the collection program mandatory.

Meyer also said that strong enforcement of the ordinance would be required and that a rate increase was likely. Any rate hike, though, would probably be less than the 100 percent hike proposed in December by the now-defunct county solid waste commission.

Sinclaire, suggested that the court take a look at refinancing the bond issue in the year 2000.

Magistrate Jackie Owens voted against the bond sale.

Also in a article last week, it was reported that James Burke is the police chief of Martin. Burke said he is the police department supervisor, not the police chief.

Health care bill enacted

by Becky L. Meadows KPA News Bureau

Thunder roared over the stained glass window above the chamber of the state House of Representatives.

"Iknow insurance companies have been telling people their insurance rates are going up because of this health care reform," Rep. Greg Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg and House Majority Floor Leader, said as rain drops pelted the window in the chamber ceiling.

"But if insurance companies think they can rip Kentuckians off and blame it on this bill, they're wrong. They're not going to get away with it. It's a lie, and it's worse than that, it's a damn lie.

"It could have been worse," Stumbo continued. "We could have not had the opportunity to pass this bill."

Even a tornado warning for Franklin County could not stop the House's debate on House Bill 250, a bill designed at reforming health care in the state. The bill passed and was signed into law by Gov. Brereton Jones on the last day of the 1994 General Assembly.

Some people in the state capital building headed quickly for the basement and the underground tunnel that connects the capital to the capital annex building when word of twisters in the area spread.

House members, however, remained undaunted.

"This about winds this session up in good shape," Rep. Marshall Long, to pay will be able to get cheaper rates proposed state budget nobody can through this alliance.

· Kentuckians who have been denied health insurance because of preexisting conditions will no longer have to go without insurance. Instead, there will be a maximum sixmonth limitation because of pre-existing conditions.

A few hours after the House passed effect. the health care legislation, Gov. Brereton Jones held a ceremony in the rotunda of the capital building to sign the bill into law.

"This is a great day in Kentucky," Jones said. "We have had many major accomplishments during our administration, but this is the one I have looked forward to with the greatest anticipation."

D-Shelbyville, said with a laugh as word of the tornado warning spread throughout the chamber.

A few House members stood to protest the health care reform, saying government has enough of its fingers in peoples' lives already. The most heated sentiment, however, came from members in favor of the reforms.

"What this boils down to is m-o-ne-y," said Rep. Bill Donnermeyer, D-Bellevue. "You get a mule's attention by hitting him on the side of the head."

Donnermeyer said the legislature can fix any problems with health care reform during a special session or during the next regular session of the General Assembly in 1996.

As passed, health care reforms call for:

 A health policy board which will oversee health care in the state. The board will collect data about physicians and other medical providers, to give out to any Kentuckian who needs it. The board however, will not review rate increases by insurance companies. Instead, the state Commissioner of Insurance will have that power.

• The provider tax called for in the original draft remains intact. The tax will be used to fund the state Medicaid system.

 A health purchasing alliance will be established to help Kentuckians who do not have insurance. The alliance will be comprised of state employees and eventually government employees at the city and county level. Kentuckians who find health insurance premiums are too high for them

As Americans sit down to do their taxes, many often wonder where the billions of tax dollars actually go. Is the Clinton administration really reviewing government-or is government spending truly out of control? Is there any genuine way to eliminate waste and balance the budget without raising taxes?

If we could turn back the hands of time

by Scott Perry

We don't know all the particulars behind the figures, but an income statement released last week by garbage "czar" Bob Meyer is an eye-opener.

Collections from cutomers during March totalled about $30,000 more than average monthly takes for the preceding eight months.

That's astonishing.

While the increase in collections is certainly good news, it makes you wonder a bit about how things might have been had a concentrated effort to collect garbage bills been in place since day one.

comes to $1.8 million.

That's a lot of money. Money that might have been spent to keep our landfill open and operating.

Money that might have been spent to replace worn out collection equipment.

Money that might have helped stave off a rate increase.

But, we can't dwell on what might have been.

Instead, we must look ahead. The increase in collections for March suggests that Meyer and company are making an all-out effort to get the most out of what they've already got before asking customers to ante up more in the form of a rate increase.

Harold parent-teacher praises coach, others in forensics effort

Editor:

As a parent and teacher at Harold Elementary School, I would like to take this opportunity to give a little praise where it is due.

In a very short time, we have formed a forensics team of which our school and county can be extremely proud. Not only did we have 17 students make it to the state tournament in Bowling Green, we also had a semi-finalist and a top-5 finalist on our team.

This success is the result of commitment on the part of the many dedicated individuals of which I feel deserve recognition.

Finally, I'd like to give our excellent principal, Ronald Salisbury, a big thank-you. He has supported this team in spirit and very generously financially. As a member of the budget committee, I know how hard it is to make ends meet at a small school like Harold, especially when funding is based on enrollment. Due to our limited space we have no room for candy/chip machines which are a source of additional income for most schools. Mr. Salisbury always shares school funds as equally as possible between all extra-curricular teams.

First of all our coach, CaSandra Williamson has worked above and beyond the call of duty. Not only has she spent many hours locating pieces for competition, practicing with kids, and training, she has also opened the team to students as young as seven years old (several of which made it to the state and had to be granted special permission to compete due to their young age).

Secondly, we need to recognize the hard work of the students and their parents. The kids spent many afternoons honing their pieces instead of playing and relaxing. The parents deserve much credit for helping with practice, chaperoning, and several took special training so that they could be judges at competitions.

A special acknowledgment goes

Since we were so lucky to have so many kids make it to the state level in forensics, it made the task of financial backing very difficult, but Mr. Salisbury and Mrs. Williamson saw to it that our kids were well provided for and each one given an equal amount.

Forensics in our schools should be supported wholeheartedly. Unlike sports which diminish in importance to most participants as they grow older, Forensics is about communication and that is something we never outgrow.

What others are saying

The following articles are excerpts of editorials taken from Kentucky newspapers

Consider the voters Special session should come before primary

The most glaring question left unanswered when the legislators left Frankfort was when they would come back to pass a budget.

There are two schools of thought on this. One, favored by many members of the state House, is that Gov. Brereton Jones should wait until after the May 24 primary election to call lawmakers back into session. That would allow more time to evaluate the state's revenue picture, which does make some sense.

But the alternative makes more sense. Call them back soon, as soon as possible in fact.

As Senate President John "Eck" Rose points out, waiting will only aggravate the problem of agreeing on a budget. That's true, but it's not the most compelling argument for calling a special session quickly.

The best argument is this: Voters have a right to a full report card on their lawmakers on Election Day. And until the budget is passed, every legislator will have a large "Incomplete" for this term in office.

Jones seems to be forging some sort of alliance with House leaders such as Majority Leader Greg Stumbo and Speaker Pro Tem Larry Clark. So he may find it politically difficult to call a session immediately. But if one thing should be clear to everyone, it is that voters have had enough of such political considerations from Frankfort this year.

Call 'em back into session, Governor, and let's get this over with in time to give voters the information they deserve on May 24 .- Lexington Herald-Leader

Social insecurity

Eleven years ago, Congress and the Reagan administration were patting each other on the back for having "fixed" the Social Security system.

The celebrations were premature.

Federal officials say that, without changes in the law, the main Social Security program, which pays benefits to retirees, will go broke by the year 2029. The smaller but still huge Medicare and Social Security disability trust funds are in more immediate danger. Without action by Congress, the disability fund will run out of money next year; the Medicare trust fund will be depleted by 2001.

House Ways and Means Chairman Dan Rostenkowski is pushing a rescue plan for the retirement fund. Its main points would involve: (1) reducing. next year's cost-of-living increase in benefits, (2) pushing up the normal retirement age to 67 for persons born in 1949 or later (current law would raise the retirement age for those born after 1960), (3) boosting taxes on Social Security benefits paid to retirees with incomes over certain levels, and (4) raising the payroll tax starting in 2020-long after most current members of Congress are gone.

The Rostenkowski plan doesn't address Medicare and the disability program. We're not sure it even does an adequate job of tackling the long-term problems of the retirement fund.

The key problem, of course, is that the ratio of workers to retirees is shrinking. This means that workers, especially younger workers, are shouldering a bigger and bigger tax burden to support benefits for retirees-with less and less assurance that the same benefits will be available when they retire.

This is hard to justify when so many young workers, especially those with children, are having such a hard time making ends meet. Increases in Social Security benefits over the last two decades haven't ended poverty among the elderly, but they've helped reduce it.

The big poverty problem in America today isn't among the elderly; it's among children. -Louisville Courier-Journal

Rogers should resign

Two state Senate Republicans will take over the duties of indicted Minority Leader John Rogers while he fights his indictment on federal corruption charges.

Rogers, of Somerset, will keep his post but relinquish his duties to Sens. Tom Buford of Nicholasville and Charlie Borders of Russell.

True, Rogers hasn't been convicted of a crime, but this strange arrangement involving his leadership duties could cause more embarrassment to Republicans than his indictment has.

Until his dilemma is resolved, Rogers should resign his leadership position. If he's acquitted, he can then go back to the Senate during its organizational session next year and try to get his post back.

That would be the honorable thing to do.-Paintsville Herald

SOCIAL SECURITY IS A RED-TAPE MESS

By Leonard Larsen Scripps Howard News Service

Slick as a whistle, as no bureaucrat would ever say, a two-year dispute my wife and I had with Social Security has been settled and now everything's all right between us and the agency.

But something's still wrong, awfully wrong. A huge federal agency wouldn't budge until—surprise—a citizen with a complaint wrote a newspaper column about his personal hangup with Social Security.

The solution, when it arrived soon after the column was published in newspapers around the country, was quick, even courteous.

But there are tens of millions of other Americans who might get crosswise with Social Security, and it's not so simple for them. Few can complain in a newspaper column. But all of them, except for those with access to help from Congress, face what I found: an unresponsive bureaucratic wilderness.

It's a wilderness populated with clerks and agreeable paper shufflers who'll cluck with sympathy but confess they are powerless to do anything but send the problem to the next bureaucrat.

In my own tour of Social Security— up until I wrote that column of complaint — I dealt with dozens of bureaucrats by telephone, by letter and in person until the reality dawned on me.

There wasn't one of them I encountered who would—or apparently could—understand or acknowledge a mistake had been made by the monstrous agency. Of course, there was no one to fix it.

The core of the problem that engulfed my wife and me was simple and bizarre: In early 1992, after only a few months of Social Security benefits, we were informed we'd been "overpaid" and we owed the agency money.

It was said I owed $666 in 1991 "overpayments" and my wife owed $280. A bureaucracy obviously gone berserk told us we owed a total of $946 to Social Security because I had underestimated my earned income for 1991 by $300.

In the months that followed I asked the bureaucracy time after time: How could a $300 underestimate in annual earned income result in Social Security "overpayments" of $946?

I collected a thickening file of Lawyer wants trooper reinstated in suit

The lawyer for a man who claims law enforcement officers beat him will ask a federal judge to reinstate a Kentucky State Police trooper as a defendant in a $100 million lawsuit over the incident.

Trooper Larry Preston of the Pikeville post was dropped from the suit in September after making statements against Johnson County Sheriff's Deputy James Paul Primm, one of the other three officers accused by Doug Collins.

Judge Joseph Hood ruled April 7 that Collins' attorney Terry Keesee had nothing to back up his allegations against Preston. But Keesee said Tuesday that Primm claimed in a deposition last week that Preston admitted "smacking" Collins, and Keesee said he would ask Hood to reconsider, in view of "gross misrepresentations" by Preston. level of asbestos was in the building.

"We were given a good report on the asbestos level," said County Treasurer Craig Justice. "They determined that asbestos was in the chalkboards. But when the inspectors saw the paint peeling off the walls, they said we had a much greater hazard on our hands. We have not received the final test results, but I talked to them on the phone and they said that the lead levels were way off the scale and said that it (lead) could cause brain damage if it were ingested."

The center has been used to hold several instructional classes and has been used by the Head Start program for children's recreational periods. The Head Start program had been notified last week about the possible dangers of lead paint and had advised the program not to allow children to enter the building.—Mountain Citizen (Inez)

Felon freed in error faces rape charges

If not for a paperwork error, Buck Edward Miller would have been in prison at the time police say he raped a 12-year-old girl, Lawrence county girl.

Miller, a Breathitt County native with a history of assaults and rapes, was mistakenly released from the Eastern Kentucky Correctional Facility last year, records show. His sentence wasn't up until March 2003, and he wasn't eligible for parole until May 1995.

Nevertheless, Kentucky prison officials discharged Miller in August based on a judge's order tossing out an earlier conviction. The judge later reversed that order, but the state Department of Corrections was never told.

While free, police say, Miller raped a Lawrence County girl three times this winter. He was arrested this month and appeared in court, Wednesday.

Miller has been in and out of prison since July 1979, when he first started serving a 10-year sentence on assault and rape charges out of Powell County.

While on parole in 1990, he was charged with kidnapping and raping two girls in Letcher County. He pleaded guilty to two counts of unlawful transaction with a minor.

I filed appeals, as I was instructed, and I got replies. I never got an answer to the question or any explanation that made sense.

A letter in late 1993 from a chief regional Social Security bureaucrat in California—we live in Virginia served notice that the appeals had been rejected and we still owed for "overpayments."

By this time, the letter said, I owed $660. My wife who had been paid a total of $1,236 in benefits during 1991, now owed $1,555 in "overpayments" for 1991.

So last January I wrote a column about the craziness. Very soon a polite fellow who said he was speaking on behalf of the chief bureaucrat in the California office called. He said the column had landed at the Social Security headquarters. He said my file had become "sensitive."

He said the chief bureaucrat in the California office had been told to review the "problem." The polite fellow said he personally had looked in the file and had seen there'd been a mistake. It would be fixed, he said.

And it was fixed. Or it appears to have been fixed. A three-page letter with a two-page "worksheet" recently informed us that Social Security had in fact, made a mistake—"a computer or human error," was the way it was put.

Social Security even said the bureaucrats were "sorry that your requests for an explanation of this situation did not produce a satisfactory response." The letter said my wife and I didn't owe any money. As a matter of fact, the letter said, Social Security owed us $56.80 and a check had been sent.

I wasted far too much time trying to clear up a simple bureaucratic mistake that ought to have taken a few minutes. The bureaucracy wasted vastly more time and effort doing nothing in all the months before the mistake was seen and corrected.

Our problem with Social Security finally got some attention and got fixed. But millions of Americans can't effectively voice their complaints at wasteful, unresponsive, infuriating bureaucratic foolishness. That's what's wrong. The suit stems from an August incident in which Collins was stopped for allegedly driving drunk.— Louisville Courier-Journal

Nova explores the future of supersonic flight

Our short history with airplanes has been driven by the intoxicating lure of faster and faster flight. The world's fastest flying machines of 80 years ago reached speeds of only 47 mph; with the breaking of the 760 mph sound barrier more advanced planes like the proposed X-30 have reinterpreted our conception of powered flight.

Nova takes a look at the past, present, and future of flight technology in "Fastest Planes in the Sky," airing on KET at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday, April 26. Discover the challenge scientists had in breaking the sound barrier, from its discovery in 1740 to Chuck Yaeger's historical supersonic flight in 1947. Nova also looks at the expensive Concorde airliner, the first supersonic passenger-plane, and the experimental X-30, a reusable space plane that would take off from an airport, briefly leave the Earth's atmosphere, and then land on a runway. "Fastest Planes in the Sky" was produced by John Alexanders. Nova is produced by the WGBH Science Unit and is closed-captioned for hearing-impaired viewers.

Old Cars and Country Roads Now that I have a classic car, I have an entire, new outlook on driving. I think that I may have prematurely begun hating driving. Most parents, I realize, despise driving and most teens would rather drive than eat, but, for a long time I was caught in the middle of all of this stereotyping, if you will. I hated driving worse than I hated mornings and that's saying a lot. My hatred for driving could have been because I drove a tater wagon on wheels and had to back off Abner Mountain without much help from my fellow drivers. Now things have changed. I like to drive, but only under the following conditions:

* It has to be a sunny day when the nothing more than having to warm a car up for half an hour and then freeze my hands into brittle chunks of ice because I didn't give my steering wheel a day to thaw out.

* I have to have a full tank of gas. There's no real reason for this. I would just like to have a full tank of gas for a change.

*Idon't want to be going to school or shopping or to relative's house. I want to be hunting for a nice country store with flowers on the porch and candy in jars on the counters so that I could buy a peach Nehi and sit on the hood of my classic and drink the nectar of the springtime Gods.

I don't think that those conditions stomach blows up. are too harsh. Sure, some people would tell me that I should be like all the other kids and listen to some music on MTV that closely resembles the sound of a cat being thrown on a hot tin roof, but I'm not much for that. I guess I should have been born sometime between the 40's and the 60's, but God decided that he would curse me by sticking me in the 90's. At least I was born in the 70's when Elvis was still alive and being president still meant getting respect (respect for presidents ended when the press found out that Jimmy Carter had hemorrhoids and put it on every radio station and every six o'clock news in the nation). If I sound old, it's because I wish that I was, in a way. Being a teenager is a great ride.

Everybody tells you to enjoy it because it will be the best years of your life, but, from time to time, I wish I was just an old man sitting on his porch and listening to the train whistle blow and drinking a lemonade. Go ahead and call me crazy. I know you want to.

But, back to the subject. I have decided to go on a hunt and I might start this weekend. What I want to do is find the next pretty day when I don't have to warm my car up and get a pocket full of change so I can travel throughout the counties and hit every country store coming and going. I'll buy a peach Nehi and a Hershey bar at every one and I'll do this until my

"t is a good thing that my childhood friend, Kathy Barker Branson, lives in Ohio where no-fault insurance does not exist. Otherwise, she and her family would be walking.

During this past Thanksgiving holidays, Kathy's daughter, Renee, and some of Renee's friends were driving through downtown Dayton. At one point, they stopped at a redlight, and as they waited, Renee's car was hit by a passing vehicle. Fortunately, no one was hurt. But unfortunately, in their excitement, no one bothered to get the license plate of the other vehicle.

Although the damages to the car were quite extensive, Kathy and her husband, John, had the car repaired in time for Renee to return to college.

In less than a month, Renee returned home for Christmas break. By this time, Renee's brother, Billy, had gotten his driver's license and since he was the remaining child at home, he parked his car in the driveway while Renee was forced to park hers on the street.

On the third morning after her arrival, Renee and the Branson family awoke to snow on the ground, and the discovery that the passenger side of Renee's car had been ripped away by what everyone assumed was another vehicle.

The Branson's were in shock. In less than a month, Renee's car had been involved in an accident through no fault of hers except that she was there.

"It's like everyone says, 'There's Renee Branson's car.

The Arabs may have all the money, all the oil, and all the sand in the world, but we've got something they don't have.

A six-year-old son who could find a mud hole on the Moon.

You've probably seen those stories where the sheiks are shucking out big bucks to bring water to their parched parts of the planet.

They've even been known to hook up giant icebergs and tow them by boat halfway 'round the world to get a supply of fresh drinking water.

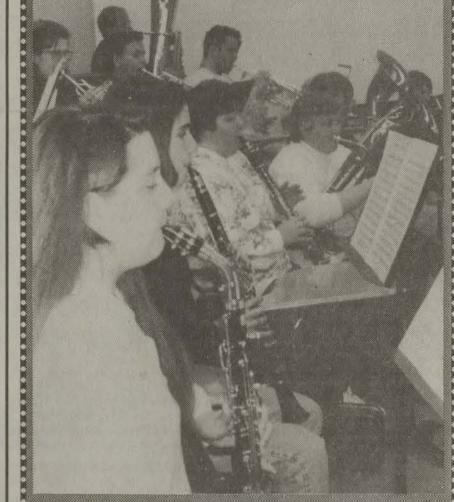

Well, we've got an idea for turning their sand dunes into oases that will cost them only a fraction of what they're shelling out now for H_o.

For a small fee, we'll rent them our son.

Stick him in the middle of the desert, and we'll promise a money-backguarantee that within 15 seconds he'll be covered head-to-toe with mud.

And, as we all know, where there's mud, there's water.

If 15 seconds is too long to wait for a cool drink of fresh water, dress him up in new clothes and the mud will be flying before you can say, "Don't get dir ... "

Let's hit it!" Kathy said to me over the phone.

"Didn't you hear anything?" I asked.

"What good would it have done if we had," Kathy replied numbly. "At that time of night, I wouldn't have had my glasses on anyway. At least no one was hurt unless it was the person in the other car. And they're certainly not going to come back and tell us now."

Kathy was right, but I wasn't so sure the insurance company was going to keep believing their stories. I love her, and I was beginning to doubt her.

About a month ago, on one of her trips back to Kentucky, Kathy came by the house to visit. When she opened the door, she had that "I've been to the Prudential office" look in her eye. She had barely seated herself before saying that Billy's car had been parked on the street over Easter and

"It got sideswiped by another car," I said quickly.

"Well, yes ... "You've got to be kidding," I laughed.

'No. It totaled it, and it " "Oh, Kathy. I'm so sorry," I interrupted again. "But at least it wasn't Renee's."

"It hit the car so hard, it knocked it over the curb, through the yard, and into Renee's car which was parked in the driveway.

I was stunned. If the Branson's had had no-fault insurance their premiums would have looked like the national debt

"You're joking, aren't you?" I asked.

"Nope, but this time we caught the driver. She didn't know she'd hit anything because she kept saying, "'What'd I hit?'" Kathy said in an aggravated tone. "I told her she hit my son's car AND my daughter's car, too." Kathy hasn't decided whether or not to spend the money to build a larger driveway, or make money by selling maps showing the exact location of her home to would-be hit and runners.

News of the Weird

In November, radio evangelist Rev. Joseph R. Chambers of Charlotte, N.C., issued a four-state warning that Barney, the TV dinosaur, is a tool of satan because he teaches kids to love others in spite of their differences. In September, Baptist Rev. Charles Mainous, Pastor Tom Coffman and other Columbus, Ohio, area ministers issued a similar warning about Rev. Billy Graham, who Coffman said is "helping the anti-Christ" by bringing various religions together.

QUESTIONABLE JUDGMENTS

- Milwaukee (Wis.) County House of Corrections inmate David Schlemm, in jail for battering Renae Hertlein, applied for a Thanksgiving Day pass under the jail's liberal holiday policy. Employees granted his request despite his having written as his destination Hertlein's name and address. Fifteen minutes after Schlemm left the jail, a hysterical Hertlein called the police because Schlemm was trying to break in.

- Blaise Pugh was arrested in Washington, D.C., in September after he made several boasts on a taped episode of the "Sally Jessy Raphael" TV show about having violated parole. Pugh told a surprised Raphael that he had no fear of being exposed on television. Federal marshals raided his home while the show was being aired in Washington and found Pugh watching himself on TV.

- In April, a French physician, addressing the American Burn Association annual meeting in Cincinnati, said that a prescription psoriasis drug is being misused in his country to accelerate suntanning. He reported on 12 recent cases, all female, in which an average of 85 percent of the body's surface had been burned. The exposure also radically increased the risk of skin cancer.

- In November, Brazilian farm laborer Francisco Asis dos Santos was hospitalized near Sao Paulo after he shot himself in the eye. He told doctors that he had had a bad toothache and tried to shoot the tooth out, but missed.

-In August, the Maine Supreme Court finally rejected the appeal of Douglas Merrill, who had sought damages from the Central Maine Power Co. after he was badly burned in a 1976 incident. He was trying to cook an eel using a live electrical Texas, in a pond just off the 17th hole of the Lancaster municipal golf course, while diving to salvage golf balls. And three days later in West Haven, Conn., a 42-year-old man who had just dashed across six lanes of I-95 was killed by a car when he went back onto the highway to retrieve his hat.

- In November, a jury in Columbia, Mo., convicted Elmer Tatum, 35, of robbery, based in part on the disguise he used. A witness said the robber wore a large black garbage bag over his body with only one hole cut out for his right arm. Elmer Tatum's left arm had long ago been amputated.

According to police in Chelmsford, Mass., Michael Wright and Steven Bean, both age 18, confessed in November to robbing a gas station. The men were hospitalized at the time of their confession because they had shot each other in the shoulder. They had claimed another man had committed the robbery and shot them during his getaway.

No kiddin'.

This kid is a mud magnet.

Last week we were scheduled for T-ball team pictures, so the boy got dressed in his clean, new uniform, which, naturally, has white pants.

There ought to be a law against manufacturing white clothing for any child under the age of sixteen.

Anyway, knowing our son's reputation for attracting dirt, we hired a security guard and a Brink's truck to deliver the lad to the field, which is about three blocks from the house.

Even took the extra precaution of wrapping the kid up in Saran Wrap, a rain suit and one of those outfits space shuttle crew members wear...just to be on the safe side.

Forget it.

In the time it took to blink an eye, the seat of the kid's white uniform pants was speckled with mud.

Nobody saw it happen. Nobody knows how it happened.

We do know, though, that there's money to be made on this phenomenon. If you need water, we can find it fast.

Place your order today and beat the rush.

- In Kennett, Mo., in August, Larry White pleaded guilty to burglary just before trial and was sentenced to six years in prison. He was caught because, in trying to eliminate the possibility of a shoe print when he kicked open a door, he removed his shoe. However, he left a clear, identifiable footprint, which is more useful to detectives anyway.

In November, four girls representing the four classes at Silverton (Ore.) Union High School, as part of a pep rally contest, vied to see which one could sit on blocks of dry ice the longest. Although the stunt lasted only 15 minutes, the four were rushed to the hospital with second-and thirddegree burns. Dry ice is much colder than ordinary ice.

- An unidentified man wound up in a Phoenix hospital in critical condition in December after allegedly robbing a Whataburger restaurant and fleeing. The man's car crashed into a bridge railing during the police chase, and he decided his chances were better in the river so he dove in head first. The river was dry, and the man landed on his head.

Later, Mac and Felicia got distressing news about Maxie. Katherine made her feelings for Ned obvious. An angry Bobbie told Monica how she really felt about Damian. Lila was surprised by Edward's early birthday gift. Wait To See: Luke faces a difficult decision GUIDING LIGHT: The hearing to overturn Peter's adoption began. The Lewis clan was upset when Tangie refused to testify against Roger. Dylan turned up to take Bridget's side. The Lewises were again upset when the court ruled that, for now, Peter could stay with Vanessa and Billy, but Roger was to have supervised visits. Later, Ross announced Bridget would file for custody of her son. Michelle was concerned that a biological mother could get her child back after signing it away. Pauly came up with an idea after hearing Ross and Cutter on the phone discussing his stolen money. Wait To See: Jenna makes a fateful decision.

Steffi and Cooper tiffed over her living at the mansion. Angle made love to Charles despite her fear of having been infected with HIV. Wait To See: Curtis continues to get mixed signals from Dinah Lee.

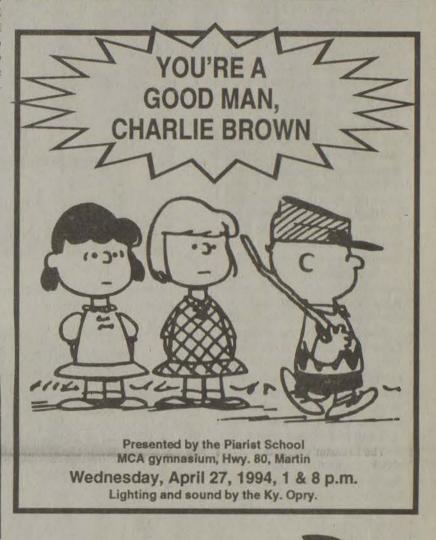

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Sarah, the elderly blind lady, encouraged Todd to return to Llanview for Rebecca. Max rejected Luna's bid to come home when she admitted she felt he still had a gambling problem. Hoping to make Asa jealous, Alex struck a deal with Asa's rival, Buck Miller. At the trial, Ethel gave damaging testimony about Dorian, but on cross examination, Nora managed to destroy her credibility. Later, Nora shocked Bo when she attacked him on the witness stand. Wait To See: Joey's return creates a problem for Powell and Rebecca. YOUNG AND THE REST-

LESS: Blade was surprised when Marilyn turned out to be Jack's date for dinner with him and Ashley. Gloria wondered if April killed Robert because she was having an affair with Paul. Paul, meanwhile, wanted to tell April she had the wrong idea about his feelings for her. Hope apologized for saying she was upset that everyone expected Victor to be there for Nikki. But Victor said he agreed with Hope, and, what's more, he loved her. Later, Victor hired Jed to do some work at the ranch and also keep an eye on Nikki. Wait To See: The case against April begins to look hope-

SAFE KIDS week May 8-14; tips for children and parents on life-saving of death combined. The latest fullyear figures show that in 1992 injuries took the lives of 341 children-59 percent of all childhood deaths ery and blind cords that hang down that year.

In conjunction with National SAFE KIDS Week, May 8-14, the Kentucky SAFE KIDS coalition is pointing out some of the ways parbeing hurt.

Darlene Goodrich of the Kentucky Department for Health Services, the coalition's lead agency, says that various factors combine to make the upcoming summer vacation for kids potentially dangerous.

"Summer vacation means that children usually have a lot of spare time on their hands and are often unsupervised, especially older children," she said.

"We generally don't think of 'child's play' as dangerous, but it can be if children don't use the right kind of safety equipment or haven't been taught about precautions."

For example, nearly all kids enjoy bike-riding in the summer and some never get more than bruises and scrapes from bicycle mishaps.

"However, more than 300 children nationwide are killed each year in bike-related incidents, and 400,000 more need emergency treatment," she said.

Parents should insist that their children wear helmets every time they ride a bike. Helmets should meet ANSI, Snell or ASTM standards and should be marked as such.

"Helmets reduce the risk of head injury by 85 percent," Goodrich said.

Other precautions include making sure children learn about safe bicycling and making sure that the bike works properly.

"Parents can check with bike shops and clubs, local police and other safety organizations about information on bike safety," she said.

Another popular-and potentially dangerous-activity is swimming.

"Every year in Kentucky nearly 25 children drown," said Goodrich. "Children should be taught how to swim, but never assume that even a child who can swim is 'drown-proof.'

"Children still need adult supervision when they're playing around water-even in a shallow wading pool. Children can drown in less than one inch of water and in less time than it takes to answer the telephone." Another summer danger for children is windows. "It's probably surprising, but na-

The plane that flies the president

For more than 40 years, Air Force One has been a mobile symbol of the power and prestige of the American presidency. Each president has brought his own personality to this plane-from Truman's on-board birthday parties to Nixon's in-flight resignation above Missouri.

Hosted by Charlton Heston, Air Force One: The Planes and the Presidents Flight II airs on KET at 9:00 p.m. Tuesday, April 26. Director Elliott Sluhan spent months digging in National Archives and presidential libraries, unearthing rare photographs and historical footage.

Interviews with Air Force One pilots and crews, as well as exclusive talks with Presidents Reagan, Carter, Ford, and Bush provide a personal look at this important plane and how it has reflected each president's personality.

Air Force One: The Planes and the Presidents Flight II was produced by Elliott Sluhan.

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The 1993-94 boys and girls All-Conference Banquet was held this past Monday night on "the hill" at Betsy Layne High School as the two All-Conference teams were announced.

The All-Conference Team has, for the past 31 years, been selected and recognized at the finals of the 58th District Tournament. But this year, the tradition was broken when schools Jenkins, freshman; Jason Martin, sevoted to change the format. A sparse nior; Phillip Patton, senior; and crowd showed up for the presentation and only the Betsy Layne coach,

Hard work pays off for Betsy Layne's Reed

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

If you want to succeed, then hard work is required. That has been a proven fact in all phases of life. For Betsy Layne star sprint runner Nikki Reed, hard work has been the order of the day.

Hard off-season work habits have vaulted the standout track runner into the limelight in events such as the 100, 200, and 400-meter race.

The sprint runner has been tearing up the track in the three events the hard work she put in during the off-season.

Reed, according to her coach John Derossett, has put in a strenuous off-season program in the weight room developing her overall strength. But the star runner is in the classroom as well.

'Nikki is an honor student and a member of the academic team," said be the best that she can be." In her first two meets of the season, Reed has taken five first place finishes. Her best time in the 100meters has been 13:52. In the 200meters, 28.5 and the 400-meters, 1:07. All the times are better than last year's. According to Coach Derossett, Reed has other expectations. 'Nikki has many goals," he said, "and expectations for this track season. One of those goals is to give the 800-meter run a try and see how well she stands."

Reed has been a dominant runner this season and it is all because of in her track career and just seems to get better with each season. But Reed is a special athlete. She hasn't lost sight of other things that are important in the life of a student, and one is her academic standing.

Two seasons ago, when the Betsy Layne track program was in doubt, not only excelling on the track but Reed was one of three who took it upon herself to work out and compete as often as she could. Since Coach Derossett has arrived at Betsy Derossett. "She works very hard to Layne the program has expanded and several others are competing at Pikeville and at other meets.

If you attend the state meet later this spring, there is an excellent chance that you will see a Betsy Layne sprinter -- Nikki Reed.

with a 19-15 win over the previously undefeated Lady Cats at Stumbo Park. The Allen Central program, which was idle last season, has been rejuvenated by Anthony Moore this season and with some very young players.

Veronica McKinney was just one of the gems in the win for Allen Central. The junior first baseman pounded out five hits, scored two runs, doubled twice and drove in five runs.

Kathy Conn collected three doubles for a perfect five-for-five at the plate and picked up two runs batted in. Lead-off hitter Melissa Mullins was a thorn in the Lady Cats' side as she just missed a perfect day

Magoffin posts 16-9 win over Allen Central

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The Allen Central Rebels baseball team is loaded with talent, but they went down in their fifth defeat of the season at the hands of the Magoffin County Hornets Tuesday night at the Stumbo Park.

Magoffin County posted a 16-9 win over the Rebels, who fell to 0-5 on the season.

Jeremy Hall blasted a lead-off home run in the first inning for Allen Central and then just missed a second one as he doubled to the deepest part of the ballpark, center field.

Magoffin County scored two runs in the top of the first to take a 2-0 lead that lasted as long as it took Allen Central to send the first four batters to the plate in the bottom of the inning.

After Hall homered to start the first, Magoffin County starter Mike Caba walked Kevin Allen, Glenn Floyd, and Josh Hansford to load the bases. He issued his fourth consecutive walk to Todd Bingham to force in the tying run. Kevin Martin singled home a run and Jason Martin then delivered a run-scoring single to give the Rebels a 5-2 lead.

After Magoffin County went out in the second against Hall, who started for Allen Central, the Rebs added a sixth run in their half of the second on a two-out single by Hansford and Bingham's RBI triple.

Hall then ran into all sorts of problems in the third as Magoffin County scored five times to take a 7-6 lead. An error, a hit batsman and a balk call did not help Hall any. Steve Combs doubled home one run in the second, and John Mills had a two run single. Risner then delivered a base hit that scored two runs as 10 batters batted in the third,

Jason Martin came on to relieve Hall and retired Robinette on strikes to end the inning.

Allen Central tied the game at 7 in the bottom of the third when they scored an unearned run. Martin, who reached on an error at third, scored on Hall's long double to straight away center field.

Magoffin County exploded for four runs without any hits in the fourth inning to take an 11-7 lead as Allen Central made four errors and the ball never did get out of the infield. All four runs were unearned.

The Rebels picked up single runs in the fifth and sixth. Roy John Martin doubled in the gap in left center to lead off the fifth and score on Kevin Allen's RBI single.

Watch the ball!

Betsy Layne's Shanna Clark was set to make contact as the Lady Cats entertained the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats at Betsy Layne Tuesday evening. Clark had six runs batted in as the Lady Cats ran their record to 11-0 on the season with a 21-3 victory. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Rogers captures first in discus, shot put at Jenkins, Pikeville meets

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The South Floyd track and field team made their way to Jenkins last week, and they journeyed to Pikeville earlier this week to take part in their first two meets of the season.

South Floyd placed third overall in both meets as coach Donnie Daniels returned only four veteran runners from last season.

We're young - very young," Daniels said. "We're hoping to get more kids out. We'd like to get up to 25 or 30 yet this season. Numbers are important in track and field."

Bo Rogers, one of the returning competitors from last season, has gotten the season off to an exciting start. Rogers placed first in shot put and discus at the Jenkins meet.

His throw of 96 feet 8 inches was good enough for first place in the discus. His throw of 39 feet 9 inches took the top spot in the shot put.

John Lee Hall placed second in Bartley, Tackett the Jenkins meet in the discus. Hall had a toss of 83 feet 6 inches. Bill Little, competing for the first time, had a throw of 28 feet, 1/2 inch in the shot put.

ran the men's 100-meter dash and finished with a time of 12:58.

Johnson placed third overall in the men's 1600-meter run. He posted a time of 5:38.33. He ran in second in the grueling 3200-meter run and finished with a time of 13:02.91. Russo ran the men's 400-meter race and came in third at 1:02.93.

Justin Holbrook placed third in the 800-meter run with a time of 2:32.93. Isaac ran in the fifth slot with his time of 2:40.47 and Cook finished seventh at 3:13.16.

The South Floyd 400-meter relay team finished third with a time of 50:57. The foursome included Hall, McCray, Moore, and Triplett.

"Russo is doing a good job for us," said Coach Daniels. "The events are new to a lot of the kids. McCray and Holbrook are eighth graders. We just need to get some meets in.'

Hunter hits three-run shot against Belfry, solo against Johnson Central

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Bobcats dropped two one-run games this week. The losses dropped their overall record to 10-6 on the season as they fell at Belfry 11-10 and dropped a 3-2 game to Johnson Central.

Senior Greg Hunter continues to power the baseball. He homered in each of the two games and hit a threerun shot against Belfry. He had a solo home run against Johnson Central Wednesday night for the third straight game he has homered in. He has four for the year.

Barry Clark drilled a grand slam home run against Belfry in the first inning

But it was the long ball that did in Betsy Layne against Belfry. Russ Smith hit a two out homerun in the bottom of the seventh inning with the score tied at 10. The round tripper gave the Pirates the 11-10 win.

Betsy Layne had taken a 4-0 first inning lead on Clark four RBI hit. Belfry got a solo home run from Copley in the bottom of the second to make it a 4-1 game.

Willie Meade led off with a single and Scott Ousley doubled with one out. But Copley got Chris Potter on a grounder to third and, after walking Derrick Newsome to load the bases, got Shannon Newsome to fly to left to end the inning.

Betsy Layne loaded the bases again in the third inning with two out, but Ousley ended the third inning thread by flying out to left field.

Belfry narrowed the margin to one run with two runs in the bottom of the third on a double by Carroll and a ground out by Rollins.

Three consecutive hits by Betsy Layne led to a two-run fourth for the Bobcats. Porter singled and Derrick Newsome doubled him home after Potter stole second. Newsome scored on Shannon Newome's RBI single.

Belfry tied the game at 6 with three in their half of the fourth. Hager doubled home a run after a single, and two walks loaded the bases. Carroll singled home Bostic on the tying run.

Betsy Layne reclaimed the lead with four in the top of the sixth only to see Belfry score four times in the bottom of the inning to tie it at 10-10.

Brandon Castle, who relieved Derrick Newsome in the fourth inning, suffered the setback. Smith was credited with the win after coming in the second inning in relief of Copley. Johnson Central scored a run in the bottom of the fifth inning to snap a 2-2 tie and posted a 3-2 win over the Bobcats. Allison, who led off the inning with a base hit, scored on a sacrifice fly to center field. Chad Bowlin sacrificed Allison to second base. He stole third and scored on the fly ball to center.

Betsy Layne took a 1-0 lead in the third inning on a base hit by Castle, who stole second and came around to score on Derrick Newsome's RBI single.

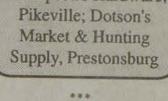

The Eagles plated two runs in the bottom of the inning to take a 2-1 lead. After walking Bowlin with two outs, Adams reached on an error at shortstop. Both runners moved up a base when Shannon Newsome was called for a balk. Price then doubled to score both runners.

Greg Hunter hit an inside-the-park home run in the fourth to tie the game at 4-4.

Betsy Layne left runners in scoring position in the final three innings and could not score.

Shannon Newsome took the loss while Ward picked up the win for The Bobcats squandered a chance Johnson Central. Newsome allowed to score in the top of the second when the Eagles only three hits in the game. He had three hits for the Bobcats.

Betsy Layne will face Paintsville in the City Between the Lakes Tournament in Paintsville tonight at 5 p.m. The Bobcats will play again at 10 a.m. Saturday and at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon.

Bobcats need strong mound game, Rebels need win

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The competiton will be tough as the 3rd Annual City Between the Lakes Baseball Tournament gets underway in Paintsville tonight.

Coach Junior Newsome's Betsy Layne Bobcats have been one of the most consistent winning teams in the 15th Region in the past four years, but the Bobcats will find the going difficult as they get set to play three games.

Coach Newsome's Bobcats finished 2-1 in last weekend's Hillbilly Days Classic, but the pitching hasn't been what was expected at the start of the season.

Shannon Newsome has been inconsistent on the mound, but he has been swinging a potent bat. However, proven when the Bobcats face Charlie Adkins and the Paintsville Tigers in game one.

Another pitcher who has struggled in his last two outings has been Barry Clark. Clark has had problems finding the strike zone, and is consistently high with his pitches. But the big right hander is still a force to contend with when he is in a groove.

Betsy Layne has been hitting the ball well all season and the hot bat of Newsome, as well as shortstop Chris Potter and second baseman Brandon Castle, has helped offset some of the inconsistency on the mound.

Potter and Castle have really been stinging the baseball. Derrick Newsome has added some punch to the lineup with a strong bat of late.

Betsy Layne went seven games withthe old adage that good pitching will out an error when they were winning stop good hitting may have to be seven consecutive games. But some faulty fielding has hurt the Bobcats defense lately. If everything jells for Betsy Layne, it could be a good one.

Allen Central needs big win...

Coach Jackie Pack's Allen Central Rebels needs a big win tonight when they face Montgomery County at 7 p.m. The Rebels are still looking for their first win of the season, having dropped their first six.

Pitching has been the question mark for the Rebels. Coach Pack returns a veteran pitcher in Jason Martin, who was one of the top hurlers in the region last season.

Martin didn't make the trip to Florida with the team and is still working to get in shape.

Kevin Martin has been hit hard this season in his first outings. A hard thrower, Martin just hasn't been able to locate the strike zone.

When this team gets their baseball legs they will be a strong contender, but as of now, they are looking for ways to win. Errors have plaqued the Allen Central infield in their first six games.

But there's a bright spot to this team and one of them is their coach who demands hustle.

Roy John Martin, second base, has been consistent with the bat. Martin is a good contact hitter who can hit to all fields.

Jeremy Hall, Glenn Floyd, Kevin Martin give the Rebels some power hitters while Kevin Allen and Todd Bingham are slap hitters.

Josh Hansford, when he gets his timing down, could be the key to the Rebels season. Hitting in the clean-up spot, Hansford's bat is needed to drive in the runs.

This is going to be a good team and the Paintsville tournament is good place
