WAS - IS Sale

Every single car and truck on our used lot is marked down...and every single one is clearly marked with a tag like this...

We're changing our display lots around and we have to make more room on our used lot.

That means GREAT savings for you on every used and factory program vehicle we have, including every one of our used Toyotas - Camrys, Corollas, Tercels, 2-wheel drive and 4x4 trucks, every Chevy, Honda, Buick, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, Nissan, Dodge and Ford.

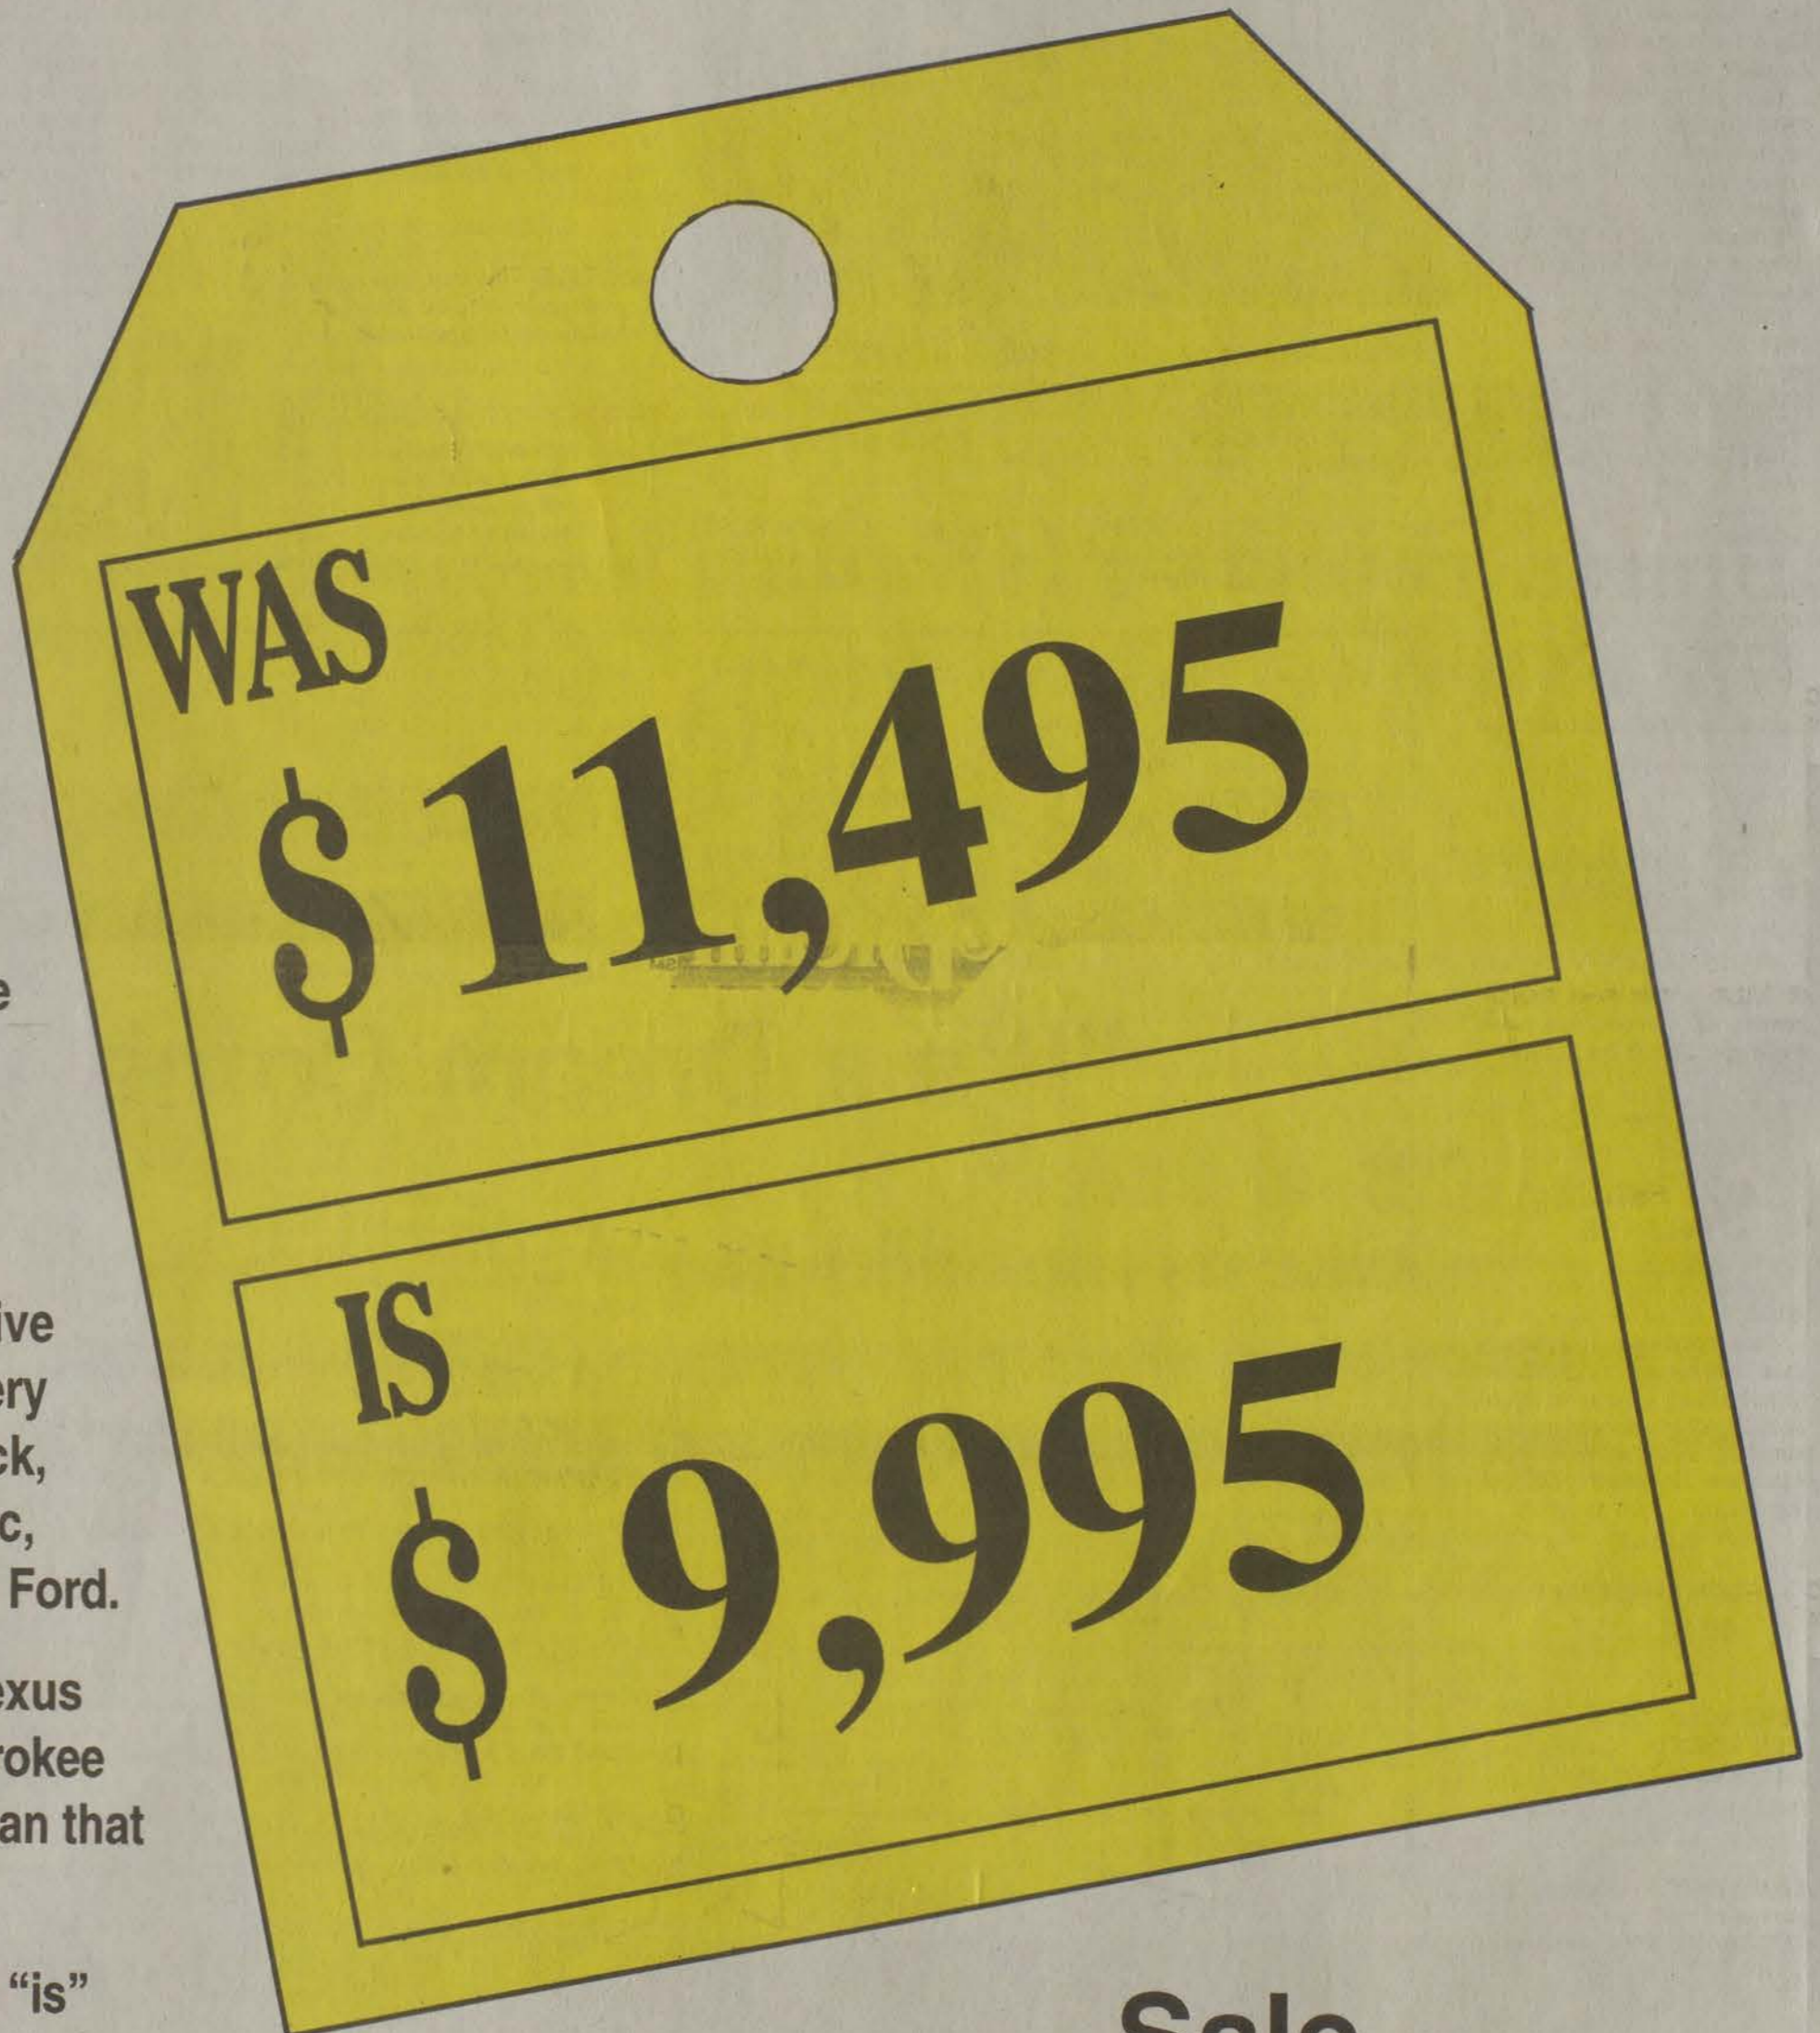

We've also got a Lexus LS400, a Jeep Cherokee and a Dodge Caravan that have to be moved!

But hurry! At these "is" prices, they won't last long!

And remember...

Each one of these vehicles has passed the Carter Hughes tough 10-Point Test...

OLW nurses train at Ashland

Five nurses from Our Lady of the Way Hospital attended an Advanced Cardiac Life Support Instructor's course at the King's Daughters' Medical Center in Ashland, April 15, 16 and 17.

Billie Turner, R.N., Melinda Stumbo, R.N., Brenda Humphrey, R.N., B.S.N., Blanche Pelphey, R.N., and Mary Martin, R.N., received certificates of ACLS instructor status qualifying them to teach an ACLS provider course and certification for OLWH nursing staff, medical staff and other area health care providers.

To qualify for instructor status, participants had to complete national cognitive and skills examinations in accordance with the curriculum of the American Heart Association. Through this new certification, Our Lady of the Way Hospital nurses hope to provide the very best cardiac care for patients and community.

only the to showcase downtown Paintsville but to allow area artists to display and sell their work. This year, twenty-five talented craftspeople from Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky will offer a wide variety of high quality crafts in the old G. C. Murphy Building at the corner of Main and Court Streets in Paintsville.

Once again, the show will be held in 13,000 sq. ft. of open space filled with merchandise produced by multi-talented regional artists. Everything from porcelain dolls, carousel horses, quilt racks, trendy bird houses, fine table covers, collectible custom trunks, antique displays, museum quality wood items, hand crafted rugs, caricatures of famous people, exquisite hand-stitched quilts, art exhibits, and a real live potters wheel demonstration. Included this year from Floyd County will be Jeanne Spurlock, well-known artist and caricaturist. She has caricatured many famous Eastern Kentuckians and exhibited in the Kentucky State Park system. The work of Fayette Meade, Auxier Heights will also be showcased. Meade specializes in hand crafted rabbits, ducks, bears, and the current decorator fad favorite, cows.

Larry Martin, Paintsville Main Street president and publisher of The Paintsville Herald said, "This year the list of vendors is even more impressive than ever with several entries holding the distinction of juried by the Kentucky Craft Guild." "Being juried denotes recognition of excellent workmanship as determined by the Guild," Martin added.

PCC displays student art

"Homage to the Figure" is the title of an exhibition of drawings on display at the Prestonsburg Community College Art Gallery, May 4-16.

The works were created by artist-students from Professor Thomas J. Whitaker's class in figure drawing.

"There seems to be a fear of drawing the human form until students realize they are not putting the person on paper," Whitaker says. "They are expressing their interpretation of the human form."

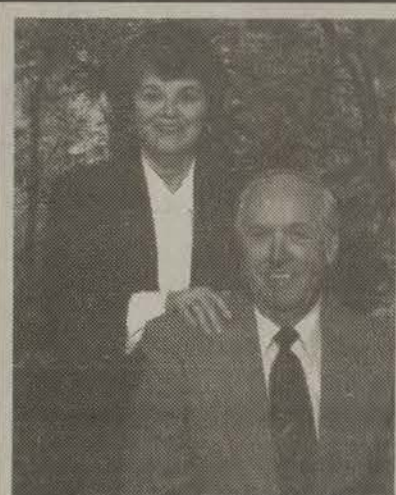

A reception with the artists present is set for Wednesday, May 4, from 6 to 8 p.m. The reception and the exhibit are free and open to the public.

The student artists are Stephanie Montgomery of Inez; Debbie Connelley and Amy Jenkins of Salyersville; Wes Taylor and Jeffrey Prater of Pikeville; Judy Whitaker of Langley; Alisha Nickles of Wayland; Charles Allen of Martin; Heath Wiley of Eastern; Teena Conley of West Prestonsburg; and Joe Sutton, Staci May and Janine Lee of Prestonsburg.

Artwork on display

Driver's license to drop Social Security numbers

If you hold a Kentucky driver license or will ever obtain one, you will be affected by new laws passed in the last session of the General Assembly.

Beginning January 1, 1996 new driver license numbers will be assigned when licenses are renewed but they will no longer be a person's social security number. A person's social security number will be required on the license application form, but will not appear on the actual driver license.

If, after January 1, 1996, a person wishes to change the number on their driver license before the normal time of renewal, they may do so by requesting a duplicate license at their local county circuit court clerk's office.

Laws have also raised fees for driver licenses which will begin July 15 of this year. New fees will be: reinstatement of license, $40; renewals, duplicates and instruction permits, $6.

The new law also requires that a person changing his or her name or residential address must obtain a duplicate driver license containing the new information within 10 days of the change. This may be done at the circuit court clerk's office. To change a mailing address (if it is different than the residential address appearing on the license) you may contact the circuit clerk's office or write the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet's Division of Driver Licensing at 501 High Street, Frankfort, KY, 40622.

Another provision was passed that can result in driver license suspension. Anyone that falls more than a year behind on child support will have his driving privileges suspended. This will begin with arrears that occur after January 1, 1994. The Cabinet for Human Resources will notify the Transportation Cabinet's Division of Driver Licensing to suspend and/or reinstate these privileges in accordance with provisions of the new law.

Any persons returning from military leave with an expired license will be able to renew their license within 90 days without having to retest. Following a federal mandate, driver licensing agencies will offer applicants the opportunity to register to vote.

For additional information or any questions you may have about these new laws, please contact either the Transportation Cabinet's Division of Driver Licensing in Frankfort at (502) 564-6800 or your county's circuit clerk office.

Smith returns to stateside after Gulf deployment

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Robert A. Smith, son of Robert G. and Charlotte Smith of Hippo, recently returned from a four-month Persian Gulf deployment aboard the aircraft carrier USS Independence, forward deployed to Yokosuka, Japan, the lead ship in its battlegroup.

USS Independence, with embarked Carrier Air Wing Five (CVW-5), served in support of the United Nations' sanctioned Operation Southern Watch.

In the Gulf, the battlegroup joined Navy units from both U.S. coasts and ships from France and the United Kingdom. While CVW-5 aircraft monitored Iraqi compliance with the "no fly" zone, many of the surface ships participated in maritime interception operations, with crewmembers boarding foreign cargo ships by small boat to inspect cargo bound for, or departing from, Iraq.

During the deployment, Smith made port visits to Singapore; Abu Dhabi, Dubai and Jebel Ali, United Arab Emirates; Manama, Bahrain; Pattaya, Thailand and Hong Kong.

The carrier's mission follows the Navy's new strategy entitled "...From the Sea," which shifts the sea services' focus from a global threat to regional challenges and concentrates on near-land warfare and maneuver. On short notice, naval forces are poised to respond to crises in distant lands.

Smith joined the Navy in August 1990.

Pain class is free for expectant mothers at Pikeville hospital

Childbirth has been made easier in recent years with the inception of the epidural and Pikeville Methodist Hospital is now offering a class to answer all questions about the pain relieving procedure.

Anesthesiologist Dr. David Brown will teach the class to expectant mothers during the hospital's free Prepared Childbirth and Newborn Care Classes. Interested expectant mothers who are not registered for the prepared childbirth classes are also welcome to attend the special sessions.

The epidural portion of the class will be taught on June 21 and 22, August 9 and 10, September 27 and 28 and November 15 and 16. The special epidural segment will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Brown will give instruction about the human anatomy, what the effects of the epidural are, the side effects of the procedure, the advantages and the disadvantages of having the procedure and how the procedure actually affects the baby.

Anyone who plans to give birth at Pikeville Methodist Hospital is welcome to attend.

Scholarship fund

Pikeville College President William H. Owens accepts a $15,000 check from John Heirs, executive vice president, Bank One of Pikeville and administrator of the estate of Elizabeth Y. Mays. The check establishes the Paul B. and Elizabeth Y. Mays Scholarship Fund, to be used exclusively for Pike County residents attending Pikeville College.

Pikeville Methodist plans National Hospital Week

National Hospital Week is May 8 through 13 and Pikeville Methodist Hospital has a busy schedule of community activities!

On Monday, May 9th, Stress Tabs will be given out in the hospital's lobby from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. By wearing these stress tabs individuals can tell at any given moment in a 24 hour period just what their stress level actually is.

Tuesday, May 10th's community activities begin at noon with a Take It To Heart a la Carte that features Sarah Nicholson. Nicholson is the Kentucky Hospital Association Vice President of Legislative Services. She has been with KHA for 15 years and just finished working with the Kentucky legislature on the health care legislation. She also works with the national legislation through the American Hospital Association. Nicholson will be talking about state and national health care legislation and the effects it will have. The lecture will be in the 8th floor classroom and is free to the public. Also on Tuesday, the Cardiac Catheterization Department will be doing free blood pressure checks in the hospital lobby from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m.

The Wednesday, March 11th, schedule is also exciting. At noon, Jim Harrison from the Miami Valley Serpenterium will be making a presentation in the 8th floor classroom. The topic will be snakes and snake bites. He will also have some snakes with him to view. From 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. on Wednesday Kathy Khoshreza will head a group of nurses who will be doing free blood sugar screenings in the hospital's lobby.

Thursday's activities will introduce Lifeline to the community. Lifeline is a new personal response service offered by Pikeville Methodist Hospital to enable people to enjoy more active, independent life styles. Family members also benefit from Lifeline because they will have the peace of mind knowing that their loved ones are not alone. Penny Stratton will be giving out information about Lifeline and answering any questions about the service in the hospital's lobby from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m.

Pulmonary function tests will be offered on Friday from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. in the hospital's lobby. Cardiopulmonary Director Sally Stamper, and other department members will be performing the free exams.

All of the activities are free of charge and the public is welcome to attend.

Curt and Ethel Tackett will not be responsible for any accidents that may occur on the property they bought off CSX Railroad. People who were told they could use it can until otherwise notified.

Fees to be collected at Dewey Lake

On May 27, the Corps of Engineers will begin charging a fee for camping at German Bridge Campground. This fee will be $5 a night for camping and $2 per car for visitors wishing to visit a camp site occupant.

Day Use Fees charges for day use recreation areas, such as boat ramps, picnic facilities and game courts, will not be imposed at Dewey Lake this recreation season, but is being considered for next session.

These charges are being initiated in accordance with the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993, Public Law 103-66. The purpose of the legislation is to reduce the federal deficit, while affording the Corps of Engineers a means to provide recreation facilities and maintenance of those facilities, that might otherwise be subject to closure.

First place in Pulaski meet

The Harold Dazzlettes took home two first places and a third place finish in two meets. In the Pulaski County Twirl meet, they won first place. In a Perry County Twirl Meet, the Dazzlettes placed first in the twirl-twirl and third in the dance-twirl. The girls attend Harold and Betsy Layne elementaries. Front row: Krystal Daniels, Krystal Kirk, Trish Robinson. Second row: LaDonna Osborne, Monica Osborne, Jennifer Case. The group is instructed by Carla Harris.

apiece. Pikeville then struck for five runs in the second inning to assume a 6-1 lead. Pikeville collected four hits in the frame and Prestonsburg committed two errors as three of the runs were unearned.

The Lady Blackcats put their first three batters on base to start the bottom of the third inning when they scored seven times. Jennifer Greathouse reached on an error and Clark walked. Carolyn Jones lined a base hit, scoring Greathouse.

After Clay's fly ball was caught, Jamie Ratcliff singled home Clark. Jeanna Fannin scratched out a hit to load the bases for Miller. Miller lined a double to right center field, scoring all three runs to tie the game at 6-6. "That was a key hit for us," said Coach Clay.

The Lady Blackcats scored two more runs on a base hit by Donna Hall to take the lead at 8-6.

"We played them tight the rest of the way," said Clay. "We have come a long way this season."

Coach Clay returned a young ballclub this season, losing several veterans from last season's championship team.

Pikeville would only put two base runners on over the final three innings against Carolyn Jones, who started for Prestonsburg. Jones retired Pikeville in order in the third and fifth innings. Pikeville threatened in the fourth when two runners reached on errors by Clay at short-stop.

In the first game, Pikeville scored a 7-4 win over the Lady Blackcats by plating three runs in the first inning and two in the third. The Lady Panthers collected three hits in the inning with two runs, scoring on Allara's two-run single.

Prestonsburg got one run back in their half of the first when Jamie Ratcliff, who forced Clay at second, scored on an error off the bat of Fannin.

Base hits by Hall and Misty Price in the second gave the Lady Blackcats a scoring opportunity with just one out, but they were unable to capitalize on it.

Pikeville scored two more in the third for a 5-1 ballgame with Combs and John driving in runs. Prestonsburg pushed home three in the bottom of the third for a 5-4 game and left the tying and go-ahead runners stranded.

A single by Clay, a double by Fannin and Miller's single scored two runs. Camillie Robinson picked up an RBI single that made it 5-4. Tara Fitzer and Price were left on base and in scoring position when Hall was forced at second base.

Pikeville added a run in the fourth and a single run in the seventh for the win.

Prestonsburg had other scoring opportunities, but failed to score over the final four innings.

Prestonsburg is 9-7 on the season and will host Johnson Central tomorrow at Archer Park.

SOME COMMON SENSE WAYS TO DETECT A GAS LEAK.

Even with a system as safe and secure as your natural gas service, a leak could occur. That's why you and your family should learn some basic safety rules.

In cities, towns, or suburban areas.

Your gas company adds a special scent to the otherwise odorless natural gas that's delivered to your home. If you detect this odor:

- Don't use matches or operate electrical switches, equipment or appliances.
- Leave your home, business or building and call the gas company from another site.
- Don't return until a gas company representative arrives.

In parks or rural areas.

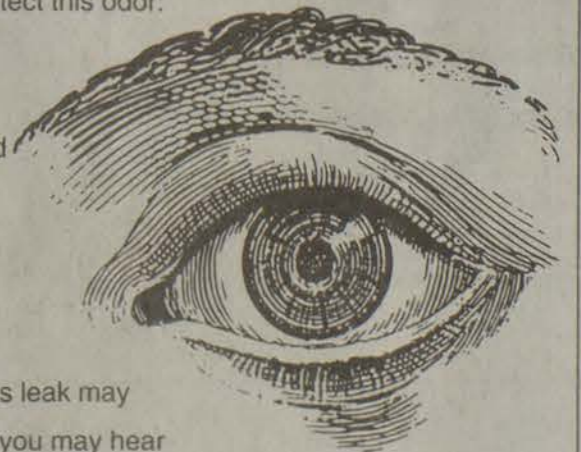

Outside some cities and towns, a natural gas leak may not be detectable by scent. In these areas, you may hear a blowing or hissing sound or see dirt blowing into the air; water bubbling or being blown into the air at a puddle, pond, creek or river; brown patches in vegetation on or near a gas line; or fire coming from the ground or burning above it.

If this happens:

- Leave the area and warn others to stay away.
- Call the gas company and the police and fire departments.
- Don't try to extinguish a gas fire or operate any pipeline valves.

Chances are you'll never experience a natural gas leak.

But, if you do, follow your senses.

make the millions. But you know what? The fans are just as much responsible for the actions of the players. We buy the tickets at their enormous prices and then complain about it.

If the fans would quit going and television would ban the violent sport on the tube, then and only then, will the league start to straighten up.

The 400-meter relay team took home second place despite some shaky handoffs.

"We had four of the worst handoffs I have ever seen," said Smallwood, "and still almost won it."

The Lady Raiders' 400-meter relay team placed second with a time of 56:99. "I believe if we could ever get our handoffs down, we could knock off four more seconds off our time," Smallwood said.

It was a second place finish for the 3200-meter relay team also, with a time of 14:28.00. The four runners included Olivia Stewart, Kelly Miller, Heather Little and Tonda Floyd.

Fields placed second in the women's 100-meter hurdles. Fields had a time of 19:55. Nikki Morgan took fourth place at 20:05.

Fields also placed second in the women's 300-meter hurdles. She had a time of 59:78 and Morgan finished fifth at 1:03.69.

In the field events at Pikeville, Lori Tackett continued to head toward a state berth in the discus. Tackett took first place with a throw of 85 feet 7 inches. Tiffany Compton was second with her toss of 83 feet 1 inch.

Compton placed first in the women's shot put. She had a throw of 30 feet 8 inches. Misty Shepherd placed third at 24 feet 11 inches.

Fields finished a strong second in the women's long jump. Fields was measured at 13 feet. Carrie Miller, who went to the state meet last year, had a jump of 11 feet 8 inches. Miller is just returning to the program after being injured.

"We need to get Carrie in shape," said her coach. "She needs to be in these last meets."

Isaac cleared the bar in the high jump at 4 feet 6 inches for second place. Melissa Tackett took third at 4 feet 2 inches.

South Floyd scored 154 points to winning the meet. Their closest competitor was Fleming-Neon with 102 points.

"Everybody seems to be down this year," said Smallwood.

Maybe it is because the Lady Raiders are much better this year.

South Floyd will compete in the Ashland regional in track and field that begins May 18. Coach Smallwood and his squad will use the next two weeks to fully prepare for the regional meets.

South Floyd track notes:
• South Floyd's track and field team will hold a car wash and bake sale at South Floyd High School and Osborne Grade School this Saturday. The team will be raising funds to offset expenses of the regional and state meet this year.

Coach Smallwood and the girls track and field team urge all South Floyd fans to come out this Saturday and have their car washed at the high school and try some delicious baked goods at Osborne Elementary.

The Atlanta Hawks and Miami Heat brawl was a very poor testimony of what basketball is all about. They have lost sight of the fact that the game is a non-contact sport.

Some of the players who were involved, and I watched it and all the replays on the tube, should be given their walking papers and not be permitted to play in any more of the playoffs.

I think it is time for NBA Commissioner David Stern to send a clear message to the league, that outbursts such as this will no longer be tolerated, and an example should be made of Miami's Grant Long, Keith Askins and Atlanta's Doug Edwards and Danny Manning.

Another case was the confrontation between the New York Knicks Patrick Ewing and Derrick Coleman of the New Jersey Nets. Ewing was ejected from the game, saying that he "didn't deserve it." Poor Patrick!

Dennis Rodman is the one player in the NBA that has either got you hating him or bringing the fans in to see what he does next.

Rodman, who no doubt leads the NBA in such fouls, is not good for basketball and hardly anything else. His altercation with Utah's Tom Chambers Saturday night was much uncalled for. Rodman hooked Chambers with an elbow and then stood over the downed Chambers and taunted him. What did the referees do? They ejected Chambers! Can you believe it?

I sometimes wonder why I watch the league that is NOTED FOR BAD ATTITUDES. I don't enjoy it. I really don't! It's not good clean basketball.

There are just a bunch of hit men out there legally getting by with their profession.

The game stinks. I wonder why in the world a college coach of the stature of Rick Pitino would even entertain a thought of returning to a league that needs no coaches — or officials, as far as that goes.

Let's change the NBA to "No Business Attending." It's not real basketball! It really isn't. It stinks!

Wild turkeys are back to stay

by Lowell Branham
Scripts Howard Wire Service

When I was growing up, I had about as much chance of killing a lion or a tiger as I did of shooting a turkey.

The nearest place I knew of that had a turkey population was more than 200 miles away. There were some adult hunters from our neighborhood who went there each fall to hunt deer, and occasionally one of them would bring a turkey back along with his venison.

But since the only mode of transportation I had access to in those days was humble shanks' mare, those turkeys might as well have been in Africa or India for all the good they were doing me.

The area where I grew up once had plenty of turkeys. My father, who was born in 1896, told me tales about hunting them as a boy and a young man, but by the time I arrived on the scene, the turkeys had been wiped out.

Turkeys are by far the most wary and the most intelligent game species I've ever tried to hunt. If they didn't have two fatal flaws, very few of them would ever be killed except by accident. Their two flaws are weaknesses for handouts and for the opposite sex. Come to think of it, those same defects have also done in plenty of human beings.

Because of their weakness for handouts, turkeys are extremely susceptible to baiting. They're so wary and cautious in every other respect, you'd think they'd be smart enough to realize something is fishy when they come across a pile of grain in the woods just lying there free for the taking.

But, nope, they fall for it every time and allow themselves to be slaughtered like fish in a barrel. On the other hand, maybe it's expecting too much to think turkeys ought to know better. After all, look at the number of humans who fall into the handout trap.

In fact, humans even go the turkeys one better. After they've accepted handouts for a while, they soon expect them as their due. And humans are supposed to be at least somewhat smarter than turkeys, although if you look at the present state of human society, it's enough to make you wonder.

Baiting is what wiped out the turkeys in the area where I grew up. There were some rudimentary game laws on the books in those days, but few people paid them any heed.

Part of the reason was because, for most families, wild game played an important role in keeping the wolf from the door. If it hadn't been for game, the lot of many people would've been even tougher than it already was. Empty bellies have little respect for closed seasons and bag limits.

By the time I was cutting my hunting teeth in the early 1950s, turkeys were totally gone from our area and had been for a couple of decades. Deer were so scarce that the sighting of even a track left by one was a red letter occasion.

I recall once when one of my pals came across several deer beds and piles of droppings in a neighborhood farmer's apple orchard. It was such a rare event we talked about it for months, and it made such an impression that I still remember like yesterday although it happened over 40 years ago.

If someone had told me then that the day would come when deer would again be plentiful and flocks of turkeys would once more roam our hills, I would've thought they were crazier than a fruit bat. And yet that day has arrived. My old stomping grounds are now populated with both deer and turkeys in numbers I couldn't have conceived of in my wildest imaginings.

Thankfully, except for the transgressions of a few roguish throwbacks, the baiting of turkeys is pretty much a thing of the past. Now, most of the fellows who hunt turkeys depend on exploiting that fatal weakness for the opposite sex.

It seems contradictory that a creature normally as sharp and as wild and as wary as a turkey could get worked up enough about hens to let himself be done by some hunter squawking on a cedar box or yelping on a mouth call.

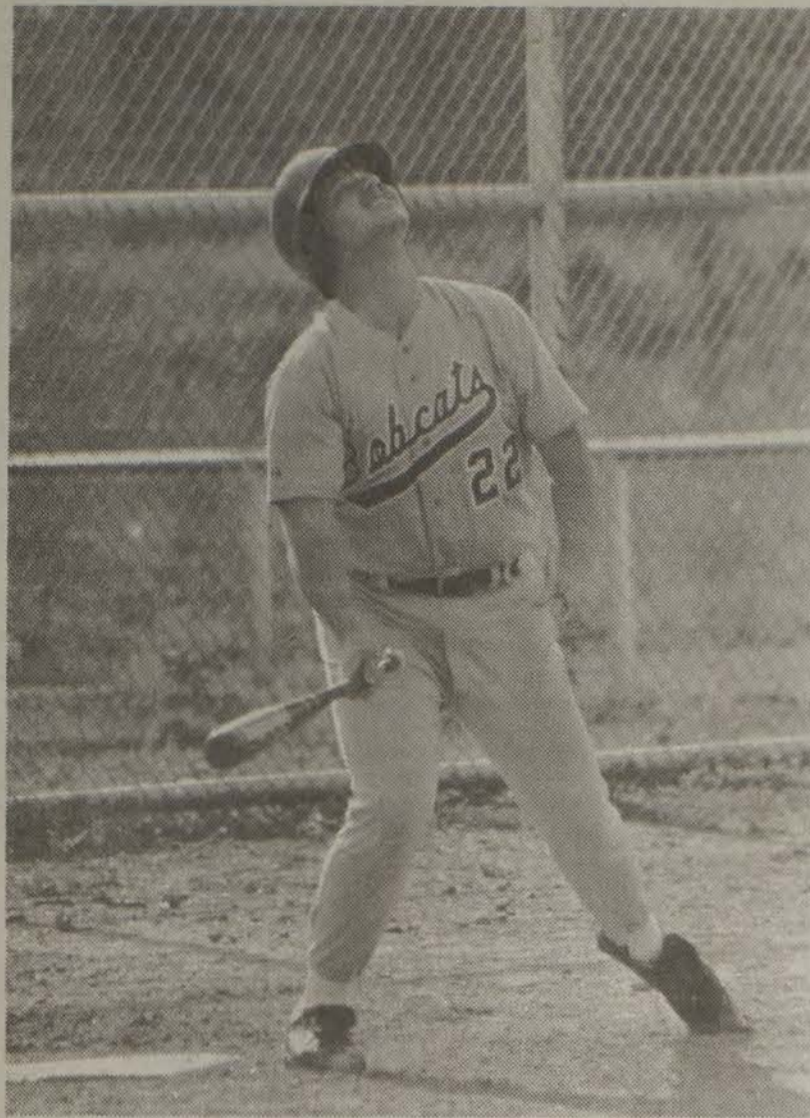

I mean a hen turkey isn't very likely to win any beauty contests. But come to think of it, I've also seen some otherwise intelligent fellows totally lose their heads over females who weren't exactly prizewinners, either.

For sportsmen or for people who just love the woods and the wild things in them, the comeback of deer and wild turkeys is one of the most heartening developments of this century. The populations of both species have rebounded to the point now where it appears the only thing that could really set them back would be the recurrence of a 1930s style depression.

And maybe that wouldn't even do it. A vast number of people in our society have become so shiftless and so sedentary that they'd probably sit on their duffs and starve to death before they'd take up a gun and seek provender in the woods. Heck, the way things are nowadays, turkeys may be here longer than we are.

Q. What is the most important thing I should look for when buying a new heating and air conditioning system?

A. It pays to consider your options when selecting a new comfort system. If you make the right choice, you can save money in energy bills and service for up to 30 years. Even if a lower efficiency system is cheaper to buy, it can cost thousands of dollars more in heating and cooling bills over its lifetime.

Remember that the equipment you buy is only part of your comfort system. The design and condition of your distribution system (ductwork, pipes, etc.), the insulation in your home and the way you use your system can have a great effect on energy use. Also, installation and maintenance are crucial to the performance of your comfort system. The highest quality furnaces, air conditioners and heat pumps can be inefficient — and even dangerous — if not installed correctly.

Because installation and service after the sale are so important to the quality of your system, the contractor you choose to install the equipment is just as important as the equipment you choose. Find a contractor that is highly recommended and committed to providing you with the best system to meet your needs. Chances are, a reputable contractor will recommend quality equipment and follow up with responsive service down the road.

Allen Central continues to roll in 5-1 win over Leslie County

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Glenn Floyd went the distance for the Allen Central Rebels when he scattered five Leslie County hits to come away a 5-1 winner last Thursday evening at the Allen Park.

Floyd also got involved in the offense for the Rebels as he drove in two of the five runs Allen Central scored in the fifth inning.

Floyd worked the full seven innings allowing just one run on five hits. He struck out five and did not issue a walk.

Crisp was the losing pitcher for Leslie County, who also went the distance. Crisp allowed Allen Central five runs on just two hits. He fanned seven and walked five. He also hit one batter.

Allen Central scored all their runs in the fifth inning as Leslie County had problems fielding the ball. Roy John Martin was hit by a pitch to start the fifth. Todd Bingham worked Crisp for a walk and Brandon Hicks followed with a walk to load the bases for the Rebels.

Kevin Allen's bouncer to second was misplayed and all hands were safe as Martin scored to tie the game at 1. Jeremy Hall walked, forcing home Bingham to give the Rebels a 2-1 lead.

Josh Hansford bounded back to the pitcher and Billy Reed, running for Hicks, was forced out at home. Allen scored on an error at first base as Kevin Martin grounded hard to the hot corner. With two out, Floyd drilled a two-run single for the 5-1 game.

Leslie County scored first in the fourth inning for a 1-0 game. A one-out single by Melton and Mullins' two-out base hit sent Leslie out front first.

Leslie County left runners at second and third in the first inning on an error and a single by Melton, who stole second. Floyd worked out of the jam by getting Couch to pop to the mound.

Floyd retired the side in order in the second and third innings and at one stretch had retired eight straight until Melton's fourth inning single. He then retired Leslie County in order in the seventh inning.

Allen Central left two runners on in the first as Crisp struck out the side. Kevin Martin doubled in the fourth inning with two out, but was left stranded.

The win evened the Rebels record to 6 on the season. It was the third straight win for Allen Central and their fourth in the last five games.

Allen Central, competing in the EKMC Tournament at Jenkins, will play Thursday night at Jenkins.

Safe at home!

Allen Central's Jennifer Mullins slid safely into home against Pike Central Monday at Allen Park. The Lady Rebels scored twice in the seventh inning to take a 13-12 win over the Lady Hawks. (photo by Ed Taylor)

We the students of the Garth Area Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (V.I.C.A) would like to take this opportunity to offer our thanks. Due to the assistance of private citizens, local businesses and Pikeville College, we were able to participate in the State VICA competition held on April 20-23 in Owensboro, Kentucky. This competition was a learning experience for all those who participated, and we feel privileged to have been able to attend this event.

Thank you once again,

If a typical delivery room was the first thing you saw, you'd react the same way.

While we have no scientific proof that babies born in our new maternity suites won't scream their heads off, we do believe that when they start looking around for the very first time, they'll think, "Wow, this place is pretty nice. Comfortable. And quite tastefully decorated."

As a matter of fact, that's exactly the kind of responses we've been getting from expectant moms and dads who come to King's Daughters' to deliver.

They're impressed by the level of privacy (our suites are just for you and your family), the comfort, and the personal care you receive from our attentive staff of physicians and nurses. And, most important, the fact that the entire birthing process takes place in one room. You remain in the same room for labor, delivery and recovery.

If this sounds like the way you want to welcome your baby into the world, call us at (606) 327-4546 for more information about the new King's Daughters' Medical Center. The RIGHT CARE. RIGHT HERE.

Stone detailing adds a hearty dash of traditional flavor to the Everglade, an otherwise contemporary two story home. This spacious plan offers more than 2,900 square feet of living space plus a garage with room for a shop and storage at the rear.

Entering through a small covered porch, you step into a vaulted entry. A second-floor bridge defines the boundary between entry and family room and overlooks both. Upstairs, it links two well-separated bedrooms. A two-compartment bathroom with twin basins serves the bedrooms.

Vaulted ceilings augment the sense of spaciousness in the living room and family room. The family room ceiling is highest. It soars a lofty two stories. In the dining room, the ceiling is a flat but elegant 10 feet high.

The kitchen is richly endowed with counter and cupboard space. In addition to a long angled eating bar with a vegetable sink, there's a generously-sized pantry and a large work island with built-in cook top. A garden window brightens the kitchen sink. The cheerful nook has sliding glass doors on two sides. One set opens onto a patio, and the other into a screened porch.

A bayed sitting area expands the sumptuous master suite. Luxury amenities here include: a huge walk-in closet, and a bathroom with oversized shower, soaking tub, dual vanity, towel storage and private toilet.

Utilities are adjacent to both the kitchen and the garage, and a centrally located powder room is close to everything.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $10 to Associated Designs, 1260 Charnelton St., Suite 2, Eugene, Ore. 97401. Please specify the Everglade 10-201 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 150 home plans is available for $12. For more information call (800) 634-0123.

Vecsey's Pitino reports put Kentucky media in 'white hot lather'

Sports columnist Peter Vecsey's reports that Rick Pitino was going to the Los Angeles Lakers fueled a shameless frenzy, a low point for Kentucky sports media.

In their rush to catch up with Pitino's future, reporters staked out the coach's house and Wildcat Lodge, then indulged in petty stone throwing when Pitino scolded them for their cynicism.

Jim Miller knows how these things shake out. A Shelby County native and currently executive vice-president of the New Orleans Saints, Miller works in player contract negotiations. Before that the 1970 graduate of the University of Kentucky covered sports for the Louisville Courier-Journal and Baltimore Sun.

"So I have a view from both sides on how these things work," he said last week. "Funny things happen. One story gets written and it can take on a life of its own. A beat writer for one NFL team does a story and suddenly it's gospel in all 28 cities."

"Then some of the guys (columnists?) get in a white hot lather, just to get something in the newspaper so the speculation really gets going. I've been on both sides so I know how these things happen."

The frenzy over Pitino was triggered by Vecsey, a columnist in New York City who doubles at NBC Sports. He has predicted a Pitino return to the NBA more times than Rosanne has mugged for talk shows and tabloid covers.

This time however, Pitino's LA golf date added a twist and a full blown outbreak of white hot lather fever broke out in Kentucky.

Three reasons...

1. It's springtime and Holy Bull and Tabasco Cat don't say much for newspaper reporters. The sports landscape is a black hole, needs some snap. And the competition down I-64 (choose which end) is already chasing Vecsey.

2. NBA coaching jobs open routinely in springtime. But Pitino's whereabouts and Vecsey's 'sources' made fertile ground for columnists looking for attention, and an eyebrow raiser.

3. Metro sports writers in Kentucky are red-faced, and—forgive the analogy—being back-doored and trashtalked(!) by a sports guy in New York City on a story in the Bluegrass.

The cocksure Vecsey, with USA Today's Rudy Martzke as mouthpiece, said UK's coach was in Los Angeles talking contract with the Lakers. A day later came the numbers, $21 million for five years.

By the time the Kentucky media got up and running and Pitino was back in town, some were angry/embarassed by Scoop Vecsey and making snide allegations that Pitino had to be lying.

TV stations filled with man-on-the-street interviews and offered lead stories on UK's coach while the other 49 states were reading and watching the miracle of Yorba Linda, a fascinating character resurrection for archvillain Richard Nixon.

Crazy week.

Then the media herd took absurdity to new lows by staking out the coach's house. Doubt I will ever forget the image of WAVE-TV's Gary Fogle standing outside Wildcat Lodge reporting (live) "Well, Tony Delk just came outside and got something out of his car..."

While the frenzy continued here, Vecsey was in New York hitting everything out of the park on the Pitino story, and smugly tweaking the Bluegrass boys and girls, telling Martzke, "My sources are better than Kentucky's."

At a Lexington press conference last week, Pitino admitted Vecsey "must have been inside the door of my office."

But then, Vecsey got a lesson in fame-is-fleeting too, when Pitino denied ever talking $4.2 million a year with the Lakers, and said he was staying at Kentucky.

Two days later Martzke jettisoned Vecsey, giving Turner Broadcasting executive Don McGuire forum to say, "I feel sorry for Pete. It's a shame when your sources let you down that bad."

IT'S A WONDERFUL LIFE... IN KENTUCKY, RICK

If Rick Pitino goes, he goes. But I would like him to stay in Kentucky, too.

I think His Feisty-ness, at least part of him, wants to stay as well. A decision to leave Providence College in 1987 (he admitted was a mistake) for what he thought were greener pastures (the NY Knicks), taught him something, I believe.

Pitino knows, you know and I know that money, even lots of it, is no bridge to happiness. Nor is fame or fortune a guarantee for security and contentment as Mickey Mantle, Darryl Strawberry have discovered the hard way.

No, this bright-minded man Pitino recognizes, I think, that life-spring ingredients are inner peace, an environment to be creative, feeling needed and a sense of place. These are riches.

Fans scooping dirt from the building site of his house and sports media-types knocking on the front door at night, are aberrations. And so are some calls to Big Blue Line.

Sense of place and the other riches, Mike Krzyzewski seems to have discovered them in Durham, N.C. Is finding happiness in a town on Tobacco Road any less believable than finding it in Lexington?

I suspect Pitino's current demise is like the high school roller coaster love affair most of us had. Bittersweet. There are exasperating times—Rodrick Rhodes, some media, overzealous fans, hoping Antoine Walker and Allen Edwards qualify, to mention a few.

But there are exquisite ones, too. Challenges...
• Watching his children grow up and all the wonders that goes with it.
• Two new coaches in camp to break in, and a crop of rookies to teach the game—Scott Padgett, Cameron Mills, and perhaps another recruit, Samaki Walker.

• Impassioned rivalries to be enjoyed and enjoyed again, Louisville, Indiana, Arkansas, Florida, LSU and Tennessee. All on the national (TV) stage, of course.

• UK's tradition, returning players for next season (including five potential NBA draft picks, he says) and reputation, make another trip to the NCAAs a virtual certainty.

• Charity work. Helping people who need help.

• Role modeling for parents and children who desperately need heroes.

Saying things like he did to parents of athletes in Henderson a few weeks ago—"Don't tell him he's great—just tell him he's working hard. Build young people up. Let them dream. Let them develop their own game plan."

"Don't tell him he's going to play for the University of Kentucky. You'll be surprised what they accomplish because you've not applied pressure."

Yes, I want Rick Pitino to stay in Kentucky, too.

PARTING SHOT

Richard Nixon, during his first year as President in 1968 said, "I like the job I'm doing now, but if I had my life to live over again, I'd like to have ended up as a sportswriter."

And so it goes.

Slone places first in two events at Pikeville

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Donnie Daniels' barriers placed fifth overall in the Pikeville track and field meet at the Bob Amos Park last Thursday, thanks to the effort of Kevin Slone.

Slone placed first in the men's long jump and triple jump in scoring 10 points in each event.

Slone was measured at 36 feet 1 inch in the triple jump. He cleared the bar at 5 feet 8 inches in the high jump.

Bo Rogers placed second in the men's discus with his toss of 103 feet 1 inch. Rogers took third place in the shot put with a throw of 39 feet 8 inches. McGuire did not place in the discus with his throw of 87 feet. Bill Little had a throw of 30 feet 6 inches in the shot put.

Chad Tuttle finished sixth in the long jump with a leap of 12 feet 7 inches. Landon Frazier had a leap of 12 feet 1 inch.

In the men's 100-meter dash, Bear Stephens finished fifth overall with a time of 13:22. Brian Triplett placed sixth at 13:65.

Marty Johnson took sixth place in the men's 1600-meter run with a time of 5:51:19. Brandon Stumbo did not place with his time of 6:40.

Chad Tuttle placed sixth overall in the men's 400-meter run. Tuttle had a time of 1:09:00. Frazier ran the 400 and posted a time of 1:15:79.

Justin Holbrook, Chris Isaac and Clinton Cook ran the men's 800-meter dash. Stephens took fifth place in the 200-meter dash with a time of 26:94. Brian Triplett had a time of 27:67.

South Floyd has two more regular season meets and both will be at Pikeville next week.

Betsy Layne drops doubleheader to Lady Hornets; defeats Lady Cards

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Lady Cats softball team found the Magoffin County Lady Hornets with some sting in them when they dropped a doubleheader to the visitors this past Monday evening.

Betsy Layne, while losing two to the Lady Hornets, managed to win over Sheldon Clark earlier.

In the first game against the Lady Hornets, Betsy Layne fell 8-5 after Magoffin County scored four times in the second inning and then plated two runs in the sixth to take the lead for good. Magoffin added an extra run in the seventh.

All the scoring for Magoffin County in the second game with two out. Bailey collected a two-out single and Helton reached on an error. Howard scored Bailey with a single and after Gibson was safe on an error, Heather Keathley walked the next two batters to force home two runs.

Betsy Layne had taken a 1-0 lead with a run in the first on a walk to Keathley and Shanna Clark's run scoring double. Betsy Layne made it 4-2 with a single run in the second on consecutive hits by Jessica Johnson and Christy Osborne. Johnson scored on Watson's sacrifice fly.

Magoffin County made it 5-2 with a run in the top of the third, but Betsy Layne tied the game with three of their own in the bottom of the inning. Shanna Clark had a two-run single and Ashley Tackett picked up an RBI that tied the game on a sacrifice fly.

Magoffin County then shut out the Lady Cats over the final four innings.

Clark collected two hits and drove in three runs for Betsy Layne. Keathley was the losing pitcher.

In the second game, Betsy Layne scored once in the bottom of the fifth, but left the tying run stranded as they dropped the nightcap 4-3 to the Lady Hornets.

Keathley had tripled leading off the fifth for the Lady Cats. She scored on Shanna Clark's one-out sacrifice fly. Ashley Tackett singled, but was left on base as Jessica Johnson skied out for the final out.

Patrick tripled to start the Magoffin County second and scored on Bailey's base hit for a 1-0 Lady Hornet lead.

Betsy Layne tied the game at 1-1 as Osborne singled and scored on Rachael Thompson's triple.

Each team scored in the second inning for a 2-2 game. Magoffin took a 3-2 lead in the fourth as Patrick doubled and scored on Shepherd's base hit.

With two out in the fifth, Trusty doubled home what proved to be the winning run for the Lady Hornets.

Betsy Layne posted an 11-7 win earlier over Sheldon Clark on the road. Shanna Clark and Misty Clark were perfect at the plate with four hits. Misty Clark drove in four runs. Johnson and Osborne collected two hits each.

Shanna Clark and Misty Clark, along with Hamilton, each had doubles.

Betsy Layne led 5-0 after the first two innings with Sheldon Clark making it a 5-3 game with three in the bottom of the third.

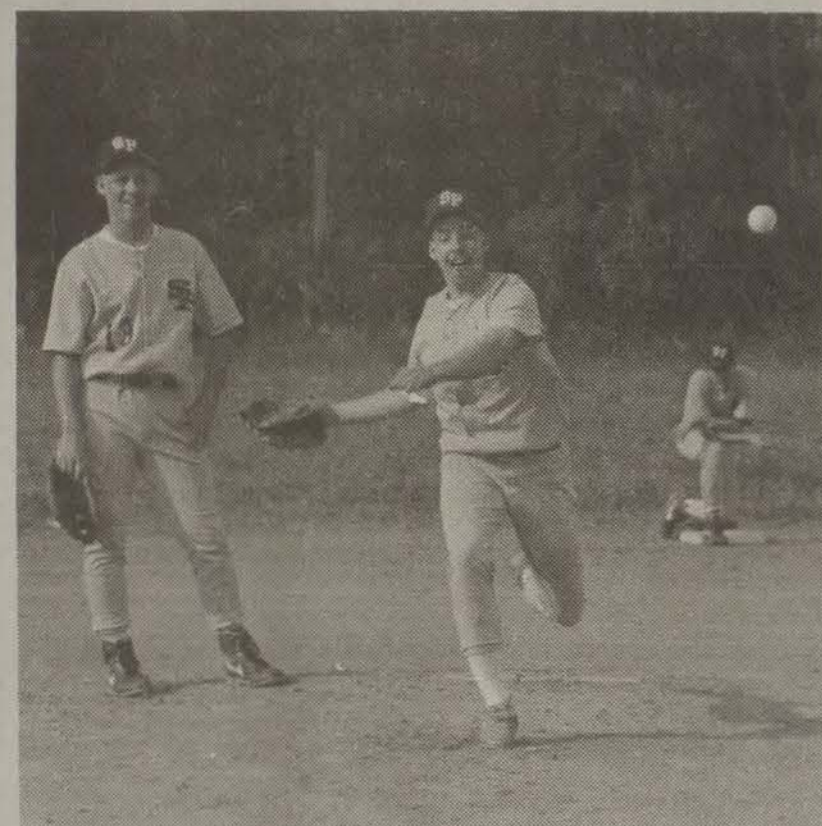

Shanna Clark and Misty Clark had back-to-back doubles in the first inning with two out. Three batters then walked, forcing home two runs. Two runs scored in the second on base hits by both Clarks. Misty Clark had an RBI single and a run scored on an error off the bat of Tackett.

Misty Clark singled home two runs in the fourth inning for the Lady Cats. In the fifth, Lori Boyd had a two-run single for the Lady Cats and Hamilton scored a run with a sacrifice fly.

Sheldon Clark scored four in the sixth on three hits, an error and base on balls.

Betsy Layne will entertain Belfry Thursday night and Shelby Valley Friday night.

Happier times!

thirds innings, giving up seven runs on eight hits. He walked three and struck out three.

Betsy Layne took a 2-0 lead in the first inning against Hall without the benefit of a base hit. Both runs were unearned. Derrick Newsome walked to start the game and Chris Potter was safe on a throwing error by Hall. The error went for two bases, permitting Newsome to score. Potter came home on Clark's sacrifice fly to deep left field.

Betsy Layne got their first of the game on a rope by Derrick Newsome to start the Bobcats' third. Hall walked Shannon Newsome after striking out Potter. He got Clark looking at a curve ball, but proceeded to walk Greg Hunter to load the bases. But Hall came back and fanned Scott Ousley to end the threat.

Clark retired seven straight batters, striking out the side in the Raiders' half of the third inning.

The Bobcats went to work against Hall again in the fourth as Doug Keathley collected a one-out single and Keith Hamilton was safe on an error at third base. Hall walked Derrick Newsome to loaded the sacks again for the Bobcats.

Raiders coach Jim Rose made the pitching change and summoned in Moore from center field. Moore enticed Potter to pop out to second and got Shannon Newsome on strikes to end the inning.

The Bobcats made it a 3-0 game with a single run against Moore in the fifth.

Moore issued a lead-off walk to Clark, and Shawn Rose was inserted to pinch run for the Betsy Layne pitcher. Rose stole second and third and then scored when catcher Eric Cook's throw to third bounced into the outfield. Willie Meade had a two-out single, but was left stranded.

Derrick Newsome roped a one-out double to left center and he scored on Potter's RBI single to make it a 4-0 game.

A one-out walk to Ryan Brown led to the Raiders' first score. He reached second on a wild pitch from Clark and scored on Pack's two-out single.

Betsy Layne sent 10 batters to the plate in the seventh and six crossed home plate giving the Bobcats a 9-1 lead. Shannon Newsome had a two-run single in the inning with Meade driving in a run with his second hit of the game. Potter had a sacrifice bunt (squeeze play) for his second run batted in.

Clark retired the Raiders in order in the seventh for his fourth complete game of the season.

Betsy Layne will face Allen Central in a top conference game tonight at Allen Park. South Floyd will be taking part in the EKMC Tournament at Elkhorn City this week.

Six commonly asked questions about diabetes

Over 14 million Americans are known to have diabetes mellitus. And the American Diabetes Association estimates that another six million have diabetes but don't know it.

1. Why does a person with type II (non-insulin-dependent) diabetes sometimes need insulin to control blood glucose?

Many people with type II diabetes can regulate their blood glucose through diet, exercise, and perhaps an oral antidiabetic agent. That's because people with type II diabetes often secrete insulin, though it may be resisted at the cell receptor site. The likely causes of this insulin resistance are post receptor defects, increased hepatic glucose oral antidiabetic agents, such as glipizide and glyburide, correct the problem by boosting the body's insulin secretion, while improving insulin sensitivity and post receptor activity.

Still, during periods of stress, such as illness, infection, or surgery, the body may require more insulin than the pancreas can produce. There stressors tend to raise blood glucagon and cortisol. Under these conditions it's sometimes necessary to administer insulin to counter-balance the elevated blood glucose.

Weight can also be a factor. Overweight patients with type II diabetes may need insulin until they lose the excess weight. Usually a low-fat, high-carbohydrate diet that limits simple sugars will be prescribed. Weight loss can activate their insulin receptors, giving them better blood glucose control with oral medication.

2. Can patients reuse their insulin syringes without risking infection at the injection site?

Studies have shown that reusing syringes is unlikely to cause infections. And, of course, it cuts down on medical waste, while saving the patient money. But this practice is contraindicated for people with dry, cracked skin because they're prone to skin infections. Consult with your physician or diabetes nurse educator before reusing syringes—and review clean technique.

3. What drugs are most likely to affect blood glucose?

Many over-the-counter and prescription drugs elevate blood glucose. Besides, glucagon, some less obvious examples include thiazide diuretics, phenytoin, corticosteroids, estrogen, and decongestants. Also keep in mind that insulin and oral hypoglycemics aren't the only drugs that lower blood glucose. Others include ethanol (alcohol), anabolic steroids, beta blockers, and salicylates.

4. Why does the lab often report lower blood glucose levels than the patient's home glucose monitor or the hospital's portable meter?

First, a blood glucose value from a finger stick is based on capillary sample, so it may be 20 to 70 mg.dL higher than the same value based on a venous sample. Second, portable meters test whole blood, while most labs test plasma or serum glucose. (You can divide a serum or plasma lab result by 1.12 to convert it to a whole-blood equivalent.)

Of course, a home monitor and portable meter need to be cleaned and calibrated correctly to work properly. Also, test results from a meter may be inaccurate if the patient's hematocrit levels are higher than 60% or lower than 25%.

5. Is it necessary to store insulin in a refrigerator?

The two manufacturers of insulin, Eli Lilly and NovoNordisk, recommend storing all insulin in a refrigerator. Temperatures ranging from 36 degrees to 50 degrees F (2.02 degrees to 10 degrees C) are optimal. Refrigerated insulin is potent through the expiration date. Studies have indicated that insulin has a 1.5% loss of potency when stored at room temperature (65 degrees to 80 degrees F or 18.17 degrees to 26.39 degrees C) for longer than one month. Most hospitals have a formal policy on insulin storage. For travel, cooler packs and pouches may be used.

6. When will there be a way to check blood glucose without using a finger stick?

Researchers are hard at work on this. Dr. Richard Rubin at Johns Hopkins Medical Center has reported on a "dream beam" machine that uses near-infrared light to measure blood glucose. The process was developed in Great Britain to determine whether fruit was ripe (that is, filled with sugar), but now the machine is being used on people.

The National Institutes of Health (NIH) reports that, in its original form, the meter is hard to calibrate. It's also very big and not easily moved. Still, many companies are trying to produce a more accurate, portable, noninvasive blood glucose meter. The meter isn't expected to be available for two to three years, and cost estimates range from $400 to $2,000, plus an additional $300 per year for maintenance.

Tell patients who have trouble getting blood from a finger stick to wash their hands in warm water to increase blood flow to the fingers. Then, as one arm hangs down, they should squeeze the finger at its base to milk blood to the fingertip. It's also a good idea to rotate finger-stick sites to reduce tenderness, risk of infection, and calluses.

Pikeville Lady Bears end season at 18-22

by Dora Williams
Lady Bears Correspondent

After rain outs at home with Union College and Alice Lloyd, the Pikeville Lady Bears won their final game of the season when Campbellsville forfeited to Pikeville.

Pikeville went on the road to Cumberland College where they took part in the KIAC Softball Tournament where they dropped their first two games ending their season at 18-22.

The Lady Bears fell to host Cumberland 14-5 in the first game. Former Prestonsburg standout Amy Reed hit a two-run home run for the Lady Bears. Another Prestonsburg standout, Carolyn Reffitt also had two hits in the game as did Melissa Davis.

Union College overcame the Lady Bears in the second game and posted a 10-5 extra inning win to eliminate Pikeville and end their season.

Pikeville held a 3-0 lead going into the top of the seventh only to see Union score three times in the frame to tie the game at 3-3 sending it into extra innings.

Union then exploded for seven runs in the top of the eighth to take a 10-3 lead. Pikeville got a two-run home run from Heather Bartley but the late inning rally fell short in the 10-5 loss.

Elizabeth Baird and Stephanie DeLong collected two hits each for the Lady Bears. Davis had a triple for Pikeville.

It was a very young Pikeville team that finished with an 18-22 record against some tough competition across the state. Pikeville dressed 10 first year players with only four veteran players returning.

It should be a good season for the Lady Bears next year as most of the team will return intact.

The Lady Bears, although their regular season has ended, will play one more for the fun of it when they battle the faculty and staff of Pikeville College at the Bob Amos Park on Friday, May 6 with the first pitch scheduled for 4 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

The Lady Bears will be conducting try-outs for next year's team on Saturday, June 11 from 9 a.m. until noon. The try-outs will be conducted at the softball field next to Pikeville High School. High school seniors applying to Pikeville College, who have an interest in attending those try-outs, should contact Bill Baird, III at 437-6276.

The annual Pikeville College Athletic Awards Banquet is scheduled for Sunday, May 8 at 1:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend but reservations need to be made by calling Dean Damron's office at 432-9319.

Transy to add men's baseball to athletic program

America's favorite sport will return to Kentucky's first college next spring when Transylvania fields its first men's baseball team in 24 years.

Transylvania Athletics Director Don Lane announced last week that the University will add men's baseball to the school's athletic program.

"We will start baseball as a club sport this fall," said Lane. "Our intent is to move baseball to the varsity level as soon as possible."

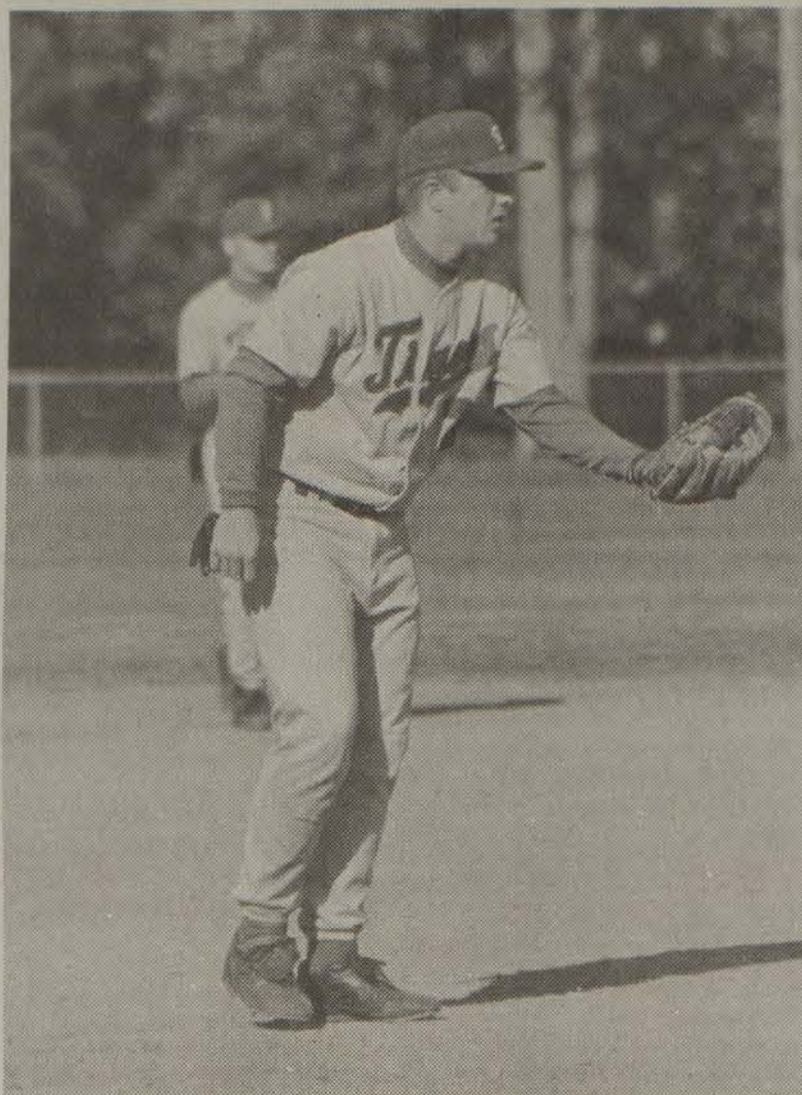

Baseball has a rich tradition at Transylvania. The University's first team opened its season in 1892. The new team launched a winning season, handily defeating its opponents.

"It is only natural that Transylvania reinstate baseball," said Lane. "Lexington and Central Kentucky have some of the finest high school players in the country. This will give numerous student-athletes the opportunity to play baseball while attending an outstanding liberal arts school."

The search for a coach will begin immediately.

"I look forward to seeing baseball, along with our other new club sports -- women's soccer and men and women cross country -- develop into nationally recognized teams as are the other 10 sports Transylvania offers," said Lane.

"Here, hit it to me!"

Paintsville third baseman P.D. Kincheloe was poised for anything hit his way when the Paintsville Tigers faced arch rival Betsy Layne at the Stumbo Park Monday evening. The Tigers posted a 5-2 win over the Bobcats to improve to 18-4 on the season. It was the third time this season the Tigers have clawed the Bobcats. (photo by Ed Taylor)

the lead to Betsy Layne.

Newsome did some pretty impressive pitching in the Tigers half of the fourth. After a lead-off single by Brent Hamilton and a double off the bat of Montgomery to put runners at second and third with no outs, Newsome got clean-up batter Byron Dixon to pop to Clark at first. He then enticed Ward to pop out to Hunter at the plate. Next, he got Tackett to roll out to shortstop to end the threat.

The Tigers did get one run back in the top of the fifth on a one-out double by Kincheloe who scored on Ratliff's RBI single. Betsy Layne played errorless baseball with the Tigers committing two errors. Betsy Layne stranded four base runners while Paintsville left six runners on base.

Newsome went the distance for the Bobcats in suffering the loss. He allowed five runs on 11 hits. He struck out four and walked two.

Paintsville improved to 17-4 on the season and the Bobcats dropped to 13-10. It was the third consecutive loss for Betsy Layne.

Betsy Layne will be on the road this weekend when they travel to Lexington for two games Friday evening and a doubleheader against Tates Creek Saturday afternoon.

Notice to Delinquent Floyd County Taxpayers

Kentucky Law requires the County Attorney to notify taxpayers that delinquent taxes have not been paid so that they may have an opportunity to pay the taxes before a lawsuit is filed against them. In that event, delinquent taxpayers could also be assessed additional costs, including court costs resulting from the lawsuit required to collect the taxes owed.

The Tax Collection Division of the Office of the Floyd County Attorney has been advised by the Floyd County Sheriff and Floyd County Clerk that certain taxpayers have failed to pay their property taxes and are now delinquent.

A letter of notification of delinquent taxes has been sent to the taxpayers who have failed to pay their taxes, giving them notice of this delinquency.

If the taxpayer thinks that he or she does not owe the bill, or if the property has been sold prior to the year(s) of tax liability, or if he or she feels that the property bill is incorrect, he or she should immediately contact the Property Valuation Administrator (Tax Commissioner) and get the bill(s) corrected.

The delinquent taxpayers are urged to immediately take the notice letter to the Floyd County Clerks Office and make arrangements to pay the delinquent taxes, if owed.

Please take notice that the amount stated in the notice letter does not include interest and/or penalties owed by reason of the nonpayment of the taxes. However, the delinquent taxpayer may call the Floyd County Clerks Office, (606-886-3816), and get the exact amount that is due upon receipt of payment. Payment can then be made to the County Clerk either in person or by mailing the payment in check or money order form.

The longer the property tax bill remains unpaid, the more interest and/or penalties will be added, so it is important that the delinquent tax bill is settled immediately.

Robert S. Harmon

Robert S. Harmon, 72, of Sycamore Drive, Circleville, New York, founding publisher of the Harmon Football Forecast, a football forecasting service that has appeared in more than 300 newspapers nationwide, died Wednesday, April 13, at Redwood Tennis Court, Town of Walkkill, following an apparent heart attack.

Born June 17, 1921 in Marshall, Minnesota, he was the son of the late Howard and Sidonia Matthews Harmon. Harmon was a retired sales manager for Krogslund Motors for 20 years and an admissions counselor for Orange County Community College.

His forecasts were published in The Times Herald-Record, The Chicago Tribune, The Detroit Free Press, The Boston Globe, The Neward Star Ledger, The Buffalo News and the Philadelphia Daily News, among others. His son, James, now writes the Harmon Football Forecast.

He served in the Army during World War II where he was first lieutenant in the Philippines; he was a member of the Harmony Baptist Church; a longtime member of the Middletown Rotary Club; he received his degree in music from the University of Minnesota; he was a very active volunteer at Horton Memorial Hospital; and he was also director of the Rotary Singers.

Survivors include his wife, Joan Rowley Harmon; two daughters, Roberta Garman of New Canaan, Connecticut, and Marjorie Jacobs of Rhineback, New York; two sons, John Harmon of Riverside, Connecticut, and James Harmon of Circleville, New York; two stepdaughters, Kathleen Rowley Webber of Circleville, New York, and Robin Bowman of Latham, New York; one stepson, Richard Rowley of Middletown, New York; six grandchildren and eight step-grandchildren.

His body was donated to the New York Medical College, Valhalla, New York.

Memorial services were Saturday, April 16, at 1 p.m., at the First Presbyterian Church, Middletown, New York, with the Rev. William Hawley officiating.

Funeral arrangements were made by Applebee-McPhillips Funeral Home, Middletown, New York.

Editor's Note: The Harmon Football Forecast is used regularly in the Floyd County Times during football season.

In Loving Memory

MOTHER— JANICE DINGUS

You touched our lives with so much love, Your memory is strong. Your laughter and your happiness, Filled our hearts with song.

Some time has passed since you've been gone, We miss you everyday, Our earthly loss is heaven's gain, We knew you couldn't stay.

Look down upon our daily lives, As we must journey on, Someday we pray to see you When our time on earth is done.

Love, Jami, Carla, & Billy

GRANDMOTHER— IDA HIGGINS

Through the "Gates of Heaven on the Wings of a Dove", Great was her faith, And deep was her love.

She passed through the earth, On her way to glory. With hope in her heart, From her lips came a story.

The story of her life, Filled with much pain. But one of a brighter Future to gain.

Hear her life's story, All those who will, She touched each of our hearts, Don't you know she can still?

If we live our lives, With the Lord in our heart. We'll join her someday, When this place, we depart.

Love, Jami, Carla, & Billy

Recent letter states errors

Sara Hamilton, daughter-in-law of the late Willie H. Hamilton, wrote the Floyd County Times recently that the obituary listing of Willie H. Hamilton had some errors. According to Mrs. Hamilton, the following corrections should be noted:

Willie H. Hamilton was born September 19, 1915, not September 15 as listed. His daughter, Janet Sue Fuller, is from Burr Oak, Michigan, and his daughter, Janet Joyce Hall, is from Bellevue, Ohio.

In Memory Of Dean Conn

Son, you have been gone four years today, when Jesus came and took you to that beautiful home to stay. It is so hard for me to stay. You are in my heart and on my mind 24 hours a day. There is a pain that never goes away. But it will all be over, someday, when Jesus comes and takes me to that beautiful home where you are to stay. I love you, son. Love, Mom.

We love you and miss you.

It's good to know it's all taken care of...

When a death occurs, many decisions have to be made for a funeral and burial. And they're all part of a seemingly endless number of things that need attention. Rather than leaving these decisions to your family, you can take care of them ahead of time with Forethought funeral planning.

Then, when the time comes, a single call to the funeral home should be all that's needed to put the process in motion.

Seventh-day Adventists Believe...

There is one God: Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, a unity of three co-eternal Persons. God is immortal, all-powerful, all-knowing, above all, and ever present. He is infinite and beyond human comprehension, yet known through His self-revelation. He is forever worthy of worship, adoration, and service by the whole creation.—Fundamental Beliefs, 2.

THE FIRST CHURCH OF GOD, PRESTONSBURG, KY. will hold a reception after church Sunday, May 8th at 6:00 p.m. to honor THE SAMMONS FAMILY on receiving the Goodwill Ambassadors of Gospel Music for the state of Kentucky. EVERYONE WELCOME.

An Eastern Kentucky gospel music group has been proclaimed as Goodwill Ambassadors of Gospel Music for the state of Kentucky. The honor was presented to The Sammons Family of Prestonsburg in late March by Governor Brereton Jones, and was proclaimed by the House of Representatives with 95th district representative Greg Stumbo spearheading the appointment. This is the most prestigious title for a gospel music artist to be awarded by the state.

The Sammons Family—Arliss and Priscilla Sammons, sons Dewey and Tim, and Dewey's wife Pam—have been singing for more than 22 years. The sons now carry a third generation of gospel music in the family. This family offers a variety of musical styles. Vocal and instrument changes are quite common throughout their concerts. They record on the Dawn label of the Horizon Music Group based in Asheville, North Carolina. Some of their recent national radio releases are: "He Can Do It All", "Have We Really Crowned Him King", and "I Know On Whom I Can Call."

Persons interested in contacting the Sammons Family—Kentucky's first Goodwill Ambassadors of Gospel Music—can write them at 3445 Rt. 321, Prestonsburg, KY. 41653 or call 606-886-3352 or 606-886-0051.

FROM THE MOUNTAINS

THE RED FOX OF THE MOUNTAINS
PART 9

The Red Fox of the Mountains, Doc M. B. Taylor, announced that he would preach his own funeral after he was sentenced to be hanged.

The days that followed were uneventful as the Fox was a model prisoner doing little more than sleeping and reading the Bible. He filed for a stay of execution but it was denied.

He was asked about the white suit made for him by his wife.

"White is a symbol of purity of course and in my case it is a symbol of my innocence," he said. "It is also emblematic of the fine linen that I will wear in heaven."

It was customary for a black hood to be placed over the head of doomed prisoners prior to their hanging. Instead the Fox requested a white hood and instructed his wife to make it. She honored each of his requests even though the Fox's activities had left her deserted in their later years.

On October 27, 1893, a large crowd of onlookers arrived early to see the hanging and to hear the Fox preach his funeral. People were everywhere and they still came, climbing atop houses and trees. The Wise County gallows were in an enclosed structure but they wanted to hear Doc and get a glimpse of him.

When 10 a.m. arrived the sheriff escorted the prisoner from the jail and onto the porch of the jailer's house. He seemed old and beaten, blinking, as his eyes adjusted to the mid-morning sun.

The Fox was dressed totally in white except for his brown derby hat as he stood behind a small table. His Bible lay on the table alongside several pieces of bread on a porcelain plate. His wife sat at the table, dressed in black, with her black sunbonnet drawn close to her face. She appeared small and pale.

The Fox lifted the plate and asked if anyone would care to come forward and join him in his last communion. No one moved for several seconds but finally his wife, after hesitating, turned toward him and reached for a piece of bread.

For two hours the Fox preached a rambling sermon and read passages from the Bible. He again ridiculed his enemies and denounced everyone connected with his apprehension and trial.

The Fox asked that his body not be buried for three days following the hanging. He believed, on the third day, he would rise from his coffin to walk and preach again. He was then returned to his cell.

At 2 o'clock the Fox was brought out into the courtyard. The sunshine had been replaced by a cool drizzling rain. As he walked toward the scaffold he noticed Cat Hall, the wife of Big Ed Hall, and their six-year-old son, Milburn Ed, who had pulled Doc from the fruit tree box in Bluefield, W. Va., was seriously ill and told Cat to take young Milburn to the hanging.

"You've come here to see the result of Ed's doings," Doc muttered. "You and the boy 'ed been a lot better off staying home out of the rain."

He looked toward the trees and then toward the sky in meditation before singing two verses of a hymn. Then Doc climbed the steps and entered the enclosed gallows.

Once inside the twenty foot square structure he knelt and prayed. When the Fox stood and started toward the gallows he was accidentally jostled by a guard causing him to fall. The guard and jailer, Charles Hughes, politely assisted him to his feet. The noose was then placed around his neck and adjusted.

Hughes placed the white hood over the Fox's head and tied his hands behind him with a white handkerchief.

Deputy Sheriff Jeff Hunsucker hatched the trapdoor rope and the Fox fell several feet before being stopped abruptly as the rope snapped with a whomp.

Soon the Fox was dead. His body was placed in a coffin and kept for three days at his home as he requested. After his burial in the Wise Cemetery a lantern lit his grave for another week. Should Doc arise he would need to find his way.

Doc's remains rest in an unmarked grave in the Wise Cemetery to this day but he left a monument. Atop Pine Mountain, at Pound Gap, lies Killing Rock, the site of the long remembered massacre.

He didn't rise to walk on the third day but for a hundred years, mountaineers say, the ghost of the Red Fox has walked the lonely trails of the Cumberland Mountains.

Richard D. Justice

Baker joins Justice Funeral services

Richard D. Justice, owner of Justice Funeral Services in Pikeville, announced the appointment of Mr. Frederick W. "Freddy" Baker as the newest staff member.

Baker, a lifelong Pike County resident, is a Kentucky licensed funeral director/embalmer and former owner of Baker Funeral Home of Pikeville. He is a graduate of the University of Louisville and Kentucky School of Mortuary Science. He is active in the Pikeville Kiwanis Club, Pikeville United Methodist Church, Pikeville Concert Association and a former Pikeville City Commissioner and Director, Pike County Chamber of Commerce and Pikeville-Pike County Airport Board. In addition, he also does community volunteer work.

According to Richard Justice, "We are extremely proud to have Freddy join our staff. He brings with him a successful, caring, professional funeral service background spanning over 36 years; his experience will be an invaluable resource and asset to the many families we serve."

Freddy joins the Justice Funeral Services staff after having served the community the past several years as a patient representative at the Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

Bakers responsibilities will include, but not be limited too, assisting families in making appropriate funeral services for a loved one at the time of death, community public relations and involvement, family grief support and future company expansion and building projects.

Freddy and his wife of 12 years, Carol "Hogsed" Baker, reside in Pikeville.

Sunshine Lines

Senior citizens, the statewide training for the Big Sandy Area Development District was held last week in Prestonsburg. This is important for you to know because this is where interested, dedicated people come for intense training to become state certified Volunteer Benefits Counselors. Those who serve in this capacity are unpaid volunteers who willingly give a part of their lives to assist senior citizens in obtaining benefits that are legally and rightfully theirs.

The state trainer, Sherry Cooper, an attorney in Kentucky, is the statewide instructor for these two-day seminars.

The newly-trained Volunteer Benefits Counselors who are now state certified to assist senior citizens are Golda Mae DeRossett, Lynda Spurlock, and Nancy Tackett. Mary Crum, Frank Carlton and I, though previously certified, attended in an effort to keep abreast of the changes that occur in the numerous benefit programs. Others, already certified, were not able to attend. With these newly-trained counselors, our program now has nine volunteers actively involved, in a cohesive effort to reach our senior citizens in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties.

The Benefits Counseling Program for senior citizens has grown immensely since it was started in the state of Kentucky only 14 months ago. This program is funded by federal and state monies and is sponsored by the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky Inc., also known as Legal Services.

If you are a senior citizen 60 years of age or older who has a need, we want to try to help you meet that need. We are here to help you free of charge.

If you or someone you know is in need of our services, or if you would like to know more about the Benefits Counseling Program, call toll-free 1-800-556-3876. Ask to talk with the Benefits Counselor Coordinator or request the receptionist to send you brochure that will give you more information about this, your program.

Remember to watch WPRG-TV5 the first Thursday evening of each month for your show—Senior Citizens Spotlight. This telecast will highlight a different aspect of the Benefits Counseling Program each month. But what is super exciting is that it will spotlight one of our senior citizens on each program.

My name is Darlene Tackett. I live on Toler Creek. The main reason I'm going to school now is because of my kids. I have two daughters, Kim and Artie. Kim is in fifth grade, and Artie is in first grade. When Kim asks me to help her with her homework, I just don't know some of it. That makes me feel bad that I can't help her.

Kim and Artie both think it is a great idea that I am going to school. They always ask me what I did in school today. I want my kids to finish high school. Kim talks about going to college. I hope she makes it.

It was hard for me when I went to school. When I was in the seventh grade the teacher had no time to help me when I couldn't read something. I fell behind and never could catch up. In seventh grade I quit school. I know now I shouldn't have quit. My mom tried to make me stay in school, but I had my own mind! So, I've had a hard time reading. I worked three years at BURGER KING, but when the boss wanted me to be a manager, I knew I couldn't do the paperwork.

A year ago, I tried to go back to school, but all the teacher did was have me write my A-B-Cs. I knew that was no way to learn. I know I'm not dumb, I just have to learn how to read.

Now I'm in the Mud Creek Adult Learning Center. I really feel like I'm learning how to read. I hate getting out of bed early, but I know I have to do it...because of my kids!

Editor's Note: Darlene is enrolled in the David School Adult Education Program through the JOBS program. She attends the reading program at the Mud Creek Learning Center. If you have any questions, please call 886-7323. You are needed!

If you buy and live in a home for at least five years, you live free—your monthly payments, closing costs, insurance, and property taxes are returned to you through tax savings and your profit when you sell. For example, let's say you buy a $100,000 home.

Price of House	$100,000
Down Payment	-10,000
Mortgage Amount	$ 90,000
Mortgage Interest Rate	x 10%
One Year Interest Expense	$ 9,000
One Year property Tax	+1,000
One Year Total Expenses	$ 10,000
Income Tax Bracket (state & federal)	x 35%
One Year Tax Savings	$ 3,500
Yearly Appreciation (6%)	+6,000
Total Tax Savings and Appreciation	$ 9,500

WE HAVE LEARNED THAT: THE ONLY DIFFERENCE BETWEEN DEATH AND TAXES IS THAT DEATH DOESN'T GET WORSE EVERY TIME CONGRESS MEETS!

Learning circle

Maytown Elementary's fifth and sixth grades received presentations on the heart and circulatory system. Shay Jacqua from the Christian Appalachian Project presented a lot of interesting and educational information. The program was sponsored by the Maytown Family Resource Center.

Young Authors

Marcus Crandal Allen

The Floyd County Times and the Department of Instruction of Floyd County Schools jointly feature the student work of Marcus Crandal

Allen, a primary Young Authors' winner from Glenna Allen's class at Stumbo Elementary. Marcus is the son of Ronald Douglas and Glenna Jean Allen. His book, The Ozone Layer, printed with permission, was the winner in the "skills and content" book competition.

The Discovery Channel has been an inspiration to Marcus. He watched a program which showed the dangers of dumping toxins into a lake and burning them. He hopes his book will influence people to take care of the environment and to change to solar energy.

Marcus was a room winner, a school winner, and a county-wide winner for the 1992-93 school year for his book. He received a $50 U.S. Savings Bond at a spring awards ceremony. Approximately 5,000 elementary and middle school students participated in competition throughout the county.

Earth Day students

At Prestonsburg Elementary, Mrs. Diane Turner's and Mrs. Terri Hall's classroom have completed a unit on Earth Day. Their students learned about the ways to clean up the earth and recycle garbage. As a take-home project the students constructed a bird-feeder strictly from recycled items. The students used things such as paper plates, soft drink bottles, milk jugs, ice cream containers, juice cartons, cereal boxes, shoe strings, egg cartons, and pencils to construct their bird feeders.

The ozone layer

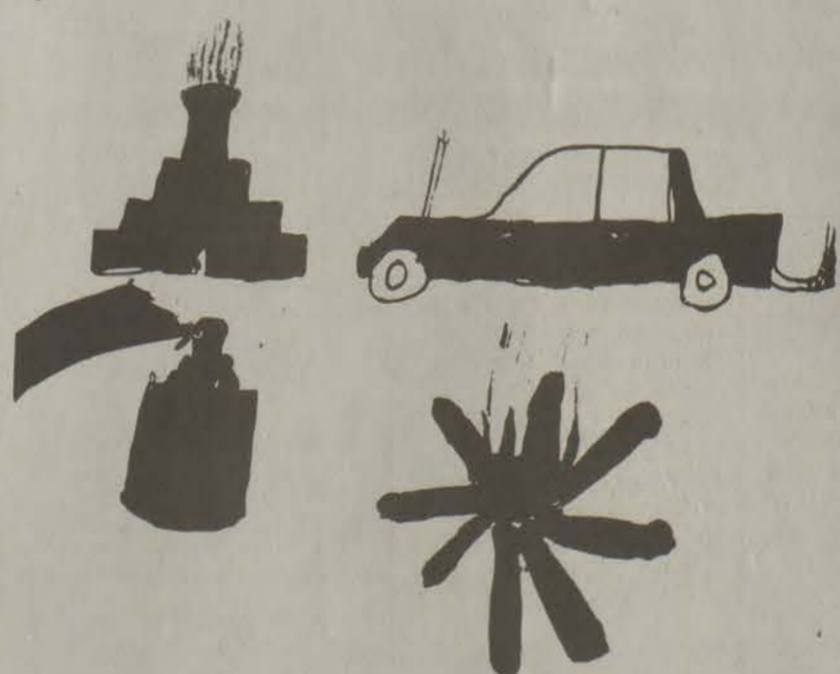

by Marcus Allen

The ozone layer is slowly fading away. It's about 15 miles above earth and contains 6 times more ozone than at ground level.

All the smokes, gases, and sprays we use can cause holes in this protective layer.

Scientists say that there is a hole over Anatica that may cause cancer. Also, they think one is starting over the United States. So, just by walking through radiation you may catch it.

The more people pollute the more we have to worry. Some day if we don't stop we might have to wear radiation suits and they're heavy!

All of these facts I've told you proves the ozone layer is fading away. But they've invented solar cars that run on the sun's power to keep it a little longer.

Job fair planned at PCC

Employers from throughout the Big Sandy Valley are scheduled to participate in a Job Fair for Prestonsburg Community College students on Thursday, May 5.

The event begins at 1 p.m. in room 102 of the Pike Technology building on the Prestonsburg campus.

Each employer is slated to make a five-minute presentation on job opportunities and skills needed in his or her organization. At a reception following the presentations, students can mingle with employers and share their resumes.

Among organizations sending representatives are Kentucky Power, Summit Engineering, Highlands Regional Medical Center, Appalachian Regional Health Care's Division of Home Services, Johnson County Health Department, Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, Francis/Kazee/Francis law firm, First Commonwealth Bank, Bank Josephine, Inacomp Computer, and Floyd County Times.

Also scheduled are recruiters from the U.S. Air Force and U.S. Navy, representatives of the boards of education in the area, Kentucky Department of Employment Services, and other potential employers.

For more information, contact Mazola Salmons or Kathy Smallwood, members of the PCC business faculty, at 886-3863.

Physical fitness program

A physical fitness class was given to McDowell Elementary sixth grade class Wednesday, March 9, at the school. The program was given by McDowell ARH Hospital in conjunction with the McDowell Family Resource Center. Eden Caballero, director of physical therapy, Donald Lyons, director of respiratory services, and Glenda Lawson, education coordinator, discussed the proper mechanics of good exercise, the role the lungs play during exercise, physical therapy as related to sports injuries, and the effect cigarette smoking has on the lungs as well as physical fitness.

Mini-health fair

The Prestonsburg Elementary Family Resource Center sponsored a Mini-Health Fair for the upper primary students on March 4, in coordination with Sherrie Slone, school guidance counselor, the Floyd County Health Department; Jennifer Martin, school nurse; Highlands Regional Medical Center; Dr. Duane Sanders; and Prestonsburg Community College. Each student received a height, weight, and blood pressure exam, a demonstration of the Heimlich maneuver, a nutrition program, toothbrushes, and a hands-on activity with a model of the human body.

State speech tournament

Several students from Floyd County recently participated at the Kentucky High School Speech League state tournament, junior division. The tournament was held March 25-26 at Western Kentucky University.

From Harold Elementary, Brandis Bradley finished fourth in storytelling and Sarah Click received a certificate in solo acting.

From J.D. Adams Middle School, Leslie Fugate and Wesley Fugate each received certificates in broadcasting and the team of Fugate and Fugate received a certificate in improvisational duo.

For Martin Elementary, Carlie

Ratliff received a certificate in storytelling and the team of Robinson and Sammons received a certificate in duo acting.

From Betsy Layne Elementary, the team of Blankenship and Williams received a certificate in improvisational duo and the team of Stumbo and Swiger received a certificate in duo acting.

There were 64 schools represented from across the state. The Kentucky High School Speech League is housed at Western under the direction of Judy Woodring.

For more information, contact Judy Woodring, (502) 745-6340.

Egg-citement

Mrs. Skeans fifth grade class at Prestonsburg Elementary practiced public speaking while decorating a class Easter tree. Each student was given an egg along with two minutes to tell the class why Easter is important to him/her. This activity meets KERA's learner outcome 1.12 by providing students the opportunity to communicate ideas and information to a variety of audiences.

Gardening News & Notes

Test Your Knowledge (NAPS)—Here are some gardening questions you may want to dig into: 1. What is the name of the small tree or shrub found on riverbanks that bears loose drooping clusters of white flowers? 2. What is the loose ring around the stem of a plant used for? 3. What's a fruit dot? According to The National Gardening Association Dictionary of Horticulture (Viking, $29.95) the answers are: 1. Fringe tree and it's found on riverbanks from Pennsylvania to Texas. 2. It's used to prevent cutworm damage and you'll see them a lot on tomato plants. 3. In botany they are the reproductive clusters of ferns. Those who have looked through the dictionary say it is the first to explain every gardening term in language that even the layperson can easily digest and put to use. Compiled by a distinguished panel of garden writers, entomologists, garden historians and dirt gardeners, this user-friendly sourcebook of horticulture includes over 15,000 entries and 5,000 cross references which are arranged alphabetically. Printed in a muted green text and enhanced by over 1,500 line drawings of plants, implementations and techniques, this beautifully bound dictionary is perhaps the most accessible, accurate, reliable and practical guide to gardeners available, according to critics. It can now be found in bookstores nationwide.

County Kettle

VEGETABLES WITH LEMON SAUCE

- 1 pound broccoli
- 1 small head cauliflower
- 1 9-ounce package frozen artichoke hearts
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion

2 tablespoons margarine
1/4 teaspoon paprika
3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 pimiento, diced
Cut florets from broccoli and cauliflower and set aside. Cut stems into 1 1/2-inch pieces. Steam florets, stems and artichoke hearts in a vegetable steamer until tender-crisp. Set aside.

In a skillet or saucepan over medium-high heat, saute onion in margarine for 2 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in paprika and lemon juice. Set aside.

Arrange vegetables in groups on a hot serving platter. Drizzle lemon sauce over all. Sprinkle pimiento over artichoke hearts.

Serves 8.

LEMON PINEAPPLE CHICKEN

- 1 large Dole Fresh Pineapple
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 2 boneless, skinless chicken breast halves
- Pepper to taste
- 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon thyme, crumbled
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 cup water or pineapple juice
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 3/4 teaspoon chicken bouillon crystals

Twist crown from pineapple. Cut pineapple lengthwise in half. Cut fruit from shells with a knife. Refrigerate half for later use. Cut pineapple crosswise into 6 slices.

Lightly saute sliced pineapple in oil. Remove from skillet.

Pound chicken to 1/2 inch thickness. Cut each breast in half. Sprinkle with pepper and thyme. Coat with flour. Brown in pan juices. Cover, simmer 1 to 2 minutes until done.

Arrange chicken on serving plate with pineapple.

Add remaining ingredients to skillet. Boil until reduced by half. Spoon sauce over chicken and pineapple.

Serves 2.

CREAMY PASTA PRIMAVERA

(Makes 6 servings)

- 3/4 pound (about 4) boneless, skinless chicken breast halves, cut into 1/2-inch strips
- 1/2 cup sliced green onions
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 to 3 tablespoons olive oil, divided
- 1/2 cup each sliced green and yellow bell peppers
- 1/2 cup sliced zucchini
- 4 ounces fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 1 1/2 cups (14.5-ounce can) Contadina Recipe Ready Diced Tomatoes, drained
- 1 1/4 teaspoons Italian herb seasoning
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon dried red pepper flakes
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper

1 1/2 cups (12-ounce can) undiluted Carnation Evaporated Skimmed Milk or Low-fat Evaporated Milk
2 tablespoons cornstarch
3/4 pound dry spiral pasta, cooked
Parmesan cheese (optional)

Saute chicken, onion and garlic in one tablespoon oil in large skillet over medium-high heat until chicken is no longer pink. Remove chicken mixture from pan; keep warm. Add remaining oil, bell peppers and zucchini; cook for 2 to 4 minutes. Add mushrooms; cook for an additional 3 minutes.

Add diced tomatoes, Italian herb seasoning, salt, red pepper flakes and black pepper; mix well. Mix a small amount of evaporated skimmed milk with cornstarch until smooth; pour into pan. Stir in remaining evaporated skimmed milk and cook over medium heat until mixture just comes to a boil and thickens. Return chicken mixture to pan. Serve over pasta; garnish with Parmesan cheese.

Combine bread cubes and pecans in large bowl; add evaporated skimmed milk. Stir until most of liquid is absorbed.

Combine eggs, sugar, vanilla, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt in medium bowl; stir into bread mixture.

PECAN BREAD PUDDING

(Makes 6 servings)

- 1/3 to 1/2 loaf French bread cubes
- 1/4 cup chopped pecans
- 1 1/2 cups (12-ounce can) undiluted Carnation Evaporated Skimmed Milk or Low-fat Evaporated Milk
- 2 eggs
- 1/3 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Combine bread cubes and pecans in large bowl; add evaporated skimmed milk. Stir until most of liquid is absorbed.

Combine eggs, sugar, vanilla, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt in medium bowl; stir into bread mixture.

POUR into well-greased 1-quart baking dish. Place dish in larger baking dish; fill outer dish with water to 1 inch depth.

Bake in preheated 350°F. oven for 45 to 50 minutes or until golden brown and set.

POTATO CHOWDER

makes 2 quarts

- 1/4 cup (1/2) stick butter
- 1/2 cup each: chopped onion, chopped celery, shredded carrot
- 3 cups peeled, cubed red potatoes

- (3 large)
- 2 cups water
- 2 teaspoons instant chicken bouillon granules
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 3 cups light cream or half-and-half
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 1/2 cups (6 ounces) shredded Colby cheese

Melt butter in 4-quart Dutch oven. Saute onion, celery and carrot until tender, about 8 minutes. Add potatoes, water and bouillon granules. Simmer, covered, until potatoes are tender, about 15 minutes. Combine flour with 1/2 cup cream to form a smooth paste. Stir into vegetable mixture. Add remaining cream and seasonings. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 1 minute. Reduce heat to low. Stir in cheese until melted. Do not boil.

Serving size: 1 cup

FRANKFURTER ENCHILADAS

- 5 servings
- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 3 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce
- 1 tablespoon chili powder
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
- 5 flour tortillas, cut in half
- 10 frankfurters (1 pound)
- 1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese

Preheat oven to 350°F. Saute onion, celery and green pepper in butter until tender, about 5 minutes. Stir in tomato sauce, chili and garlic powders. Simmer, uncovered, 10 minutes. Pour a small amount of sauce into bottom of a 2-quart rectangular baking dish. Dip each piece of tortilla in sauce. Wrap each frankfurter in a half of a tortilla. Place in baking dish. Pour remaining sauce over all. Bake, uncovered, 25 minutes. Remove from oven; sprinkle with cheese. Let stand a few minutes to allow cheese to melt. Serve immediately.

Hey, Socks: What are you hiding?

by Mike Capuzzo

For pet lovers who think CBS should rightly be designated the Cat Broadcasting System and CNN the Canine Network News, it's time again for... PET HEADLINE NEWS.

In today's headlines: On the first anniversary of the suicide attempt of Socks, the First Cat, there's a virtual news blackout on the troubled White House pet... Humane disaster teams are already in St. Louis, where the rivers are cresting again this spring, to help with pet disaster relief and ask for donations... Dogs and cats join the antioxidant craze... Balding men and shedding pets are now taking the same medicine... Pet-sitting and "pet hotels" are a booming new business, as a chain of "Ritz Hotels" for pets opens...

And now, the stories behind the headlines:

WHITHER SOCKS? Last spring, you'll recall, right around BE KIND TO ANIMALS WEEK, Socks was found hanging from a tree on the White House lawn, nearly strangled by his leash. Some Secret Service-type ended up in the doghouse for falling asleep on the Socks watch. Then came the damaging rumors that Socks was locked in Ollie North's former office (those proved false), and, lately, that a stray tried to seduce the First Cat (bad choice!—the only White House resident who has been fixed). "I think he's doing OK," said the nation's No. 1 Socks watcher, Rachel Lamb of the Humane Society in Washington, D.C., "but with all the Socks rumors and Whitewater rumors, Clinton has had a bad year, and we're not getting any information. Clinton needs to get Socks out into public. It would help his image with this Whitewater mess."

"...And Snuffles curled up and thought about his busy day, just before he fell sound asleep. The End."

MIDWEST FLOODS. The American Humane Association, designated by the American Red Cross to provide emergency animal relief, sent workers to Franklin County, Mo., this month as the rivers began to crest. The AHA, which helped pets in Hurricane Andrew and the California earthquake, says pets and shelter offices already need to be relocated. To help, make a check out to the AHA/disaster relief, 63 Inverness Drive East, Englewood, CO 80112.

PET CANCER PREVENTION? The leading cause of cat and dog death is cancer, "by far," says a California pet-insurance company. But recently, at the Western Veterinary Conference, researchers described how antioxidant vitamins—whose usefulness in preventing human disease is unproven—may someday be a pet-food supplement. "Today's pet foods are better than ever, and they're one reason pets are living so much longer," says pet nutritionist Larry Machlin. "But with this longer life span, dogs and cats are getting the same diseases associated with aging in humans. Antioxidants (vitamins C and E, and beta-carotene) may help prevent this."

BALDING DOGS? LoShed, a spray-on, non-toxic solution developed to aid balding men, is widely used by veterinarians to reduce shedding in dogs and cats. The formula reduces the number of follicles that fall out, without altering the seasonal shedding cycle, says LoShed spokesperson Erol Arbel. "So you can't grow hair any more," he says, "but at least you know neither will your furniture."

PET, SIT! Finally, Maria B. Borja of Granbury, Texas, asks: "How can I set up a pet-sitting business? I love animals, and I would go to the pets' homes, visit, sit and talk to them, walk them and give the pets lots of love and attention."

Well, Maria, you can just write to Pet Sitters International, 418 East King St., King, N.C. 27021, or to the National Association of Pet

Sitters, 1200 G St. NW, Suite 760, Washington, DC 20005. If you're looking to HIRE a pet sitter, consider the new Minneapolis-based "Pets Are Inn," a national chain with 20 franchise "Ritz Hotels for Pets." It's a service that places pets in carefully screened private homes, where they are "treated as one of the family," the company says. Pets can bring their favorite toys and blankets, so it feels like home.

Tail End

Do you wish to teach your 6-to-13-year-old child to love animals? Now's the perfect time for them (or you) to volunteer at a shelter. May 1-7 is "Be Kind to Animals Week," sponsored by the American Humane Association, and shelters nationwide are seeking volunteers for programs. What can a child do? In California, a 7-year-old boy saved 53 pounds of pennies (about $100) for his local shelter.

MAYAPPLE

Podophyllum peltatum

The small round fruit of the Mayapple may look tempting to eat, but it's best to avoid it when its green. This small fruit, about the size of a golf ball, can cause severe stomach pain when its green. When it ripens to a rich yellow color, it can be eaten without producing stomach cramps.

A resin from the rhizomes (underground stems) of the Mayapple is utilized to make a drug that is used to remove warts.

Mayapple is not a tree; it is a plant. It also is called mandrake, wild lemon and wild jalap. It grows wild in wooded areas of the eastern portions of the United States.

Mayapples have white flowers that grow on short stalks located in the fork of the stem. The flowers get to be about two inches wide. The stems can be about a foot long.

Leaves on a Mayapple resemble an umbrella. The leaves have about 5 to 7 lobes (curved divisions). The leaves usually grow in pairs.

GRAY SQUIRREL

Sciurus carolinensis

The gray squirrel was named the state wild animal for Kentucky in 1968 by the General Assembly.

Gray squirrels were the most abundant game in Kentucky's early years. In fact, squirrels were so plentiful in Kentucky in 1795, that a law was passed that stipulated all white males over the age of 16 must kill a certain number of squirrels (and crows) each year. The squirrels destroyed many crops, even entire fields of corn.

Squirrels prefer living in deep woods, especially near nut-producing trees. Nuts are their main diet, but they also eat seeds, grain, bugs, and beetles. Squirrels spend most their days foraging for nuts and storing food on the ground. They don't remember where they buried their food because their memory only lasts about 20 minutes, but they have a well-developed sense of smell which aids them in locating the food.

Squirrels build nests on forked branches high in trees. Nests have a spherical shape with a side entrance. The outer shell is made with twigs and leaves. Squirrels don't hibernate, but several families may spend the winter together in a common tree den. Hollow trees also provide dwelling places.

Squirrels are considered members of the rodent family because they gnaw. Squirrels have chisel-like front teeth, and they can cause a serious wound when they bite.

Legends and folklore color the hills of the Breaks Interstate Park. There are stories of a vast silver fortune said to have been hidden in the Towers, a three-sided pyramid-shaped mountain, and tales of the famous Hatfield-McCoy feud, which has its roots in the nearby area.

For the history buff, there is the Pow Wow Cave near the Stateline Overlook that was used by the Shawnee Indians and later utilized by a more advanced civilization for the manufacturing of a very potent product, "fire water."

There are also tales of Daniel Boone's travels through these rugged mountains. Boone is credited with discovering the Breaks Gorge. He and two companions set out in 1767 from their homes on North Carolina's Yadkin River to explore the land beyond the frontier known as Kaintuck.

Boone and his companions finally made it to the Russell Fork, which they followed downstream. The rugged travelers came to a spectacular river gorge as rugged as themselves. The river by now had become a churning, grinding force of nature, and this force had carved itself a thousand-foot-deep path through the northerly end of Pine Mountain.

Rocks as big as cabins, copperheads and rattlesnakes, tangles of undergrowth and towering trees joined forces with the wild mountain river to create a seemingly impassable barrier. Inside the gorge itself, the river crashed up against the rock walls of the gorge, or rushed headlong down rapids, riffles and over low falls. Travel through the gorge on foot was all but impossible.

The uncrossable mountainous terrain and the presence of marauding bands of Shawnee Indians kept the Breaks area uninhabited until well after Kentucky became a state in 1791.

The last fight in the immediate area between whites and Shawnee Indians occurred in 1792. And this final incident was typical of the frontier violence that raged across Gorge, where Pound River joins the Russell Fork.

A pioneer rescue party from Clinch River followed the Shawnee to their campsite and attacked at daybreak. One Shawnee was killed, one was wounded, and the others fled, leaving the captives behind.

The first known settler to the acquired several thousand acres, including the entire 4,600 acres now making up the park grounds. He planted orchards and fields of corn. He obtained a government license to distill whiskey and gained fame for his apple jack.

The Breaks gained attention for its beauty in 1900 when John Fox

Dickenson County, Virginia, attempted to have the area preserved as a national park by the National Park Service. In 1934, the General Assembly of Virginia recognized the value of the Breaks Gorge as a scenic attraction by moving to accept grants of land to establish a state park. No land was donated at this time, however, and the state did not appropriate any funds for land acquisition. Breaks Interstate Park was created in 1954 by joint action of the Kentucky and Virginia legislatures.

The Breaks Gorge is generally considered the most scenic attraction in either of the two-state park systems — systems stretching more than a thousand miles from the Atlantic Ocean to the Mississippi River.

The park grounds now include acreage in three counties — Pike County on the Kentucky side and Dickenson and Buchanan counties on the Virginia side.

In ancient times, the Breaks area was covered by a vast sea which caused layers of sediment — mud and sand — to be formed and hardened. Later, forces under the earth's surface pushed these layers of sediment upward in a mountain building action.

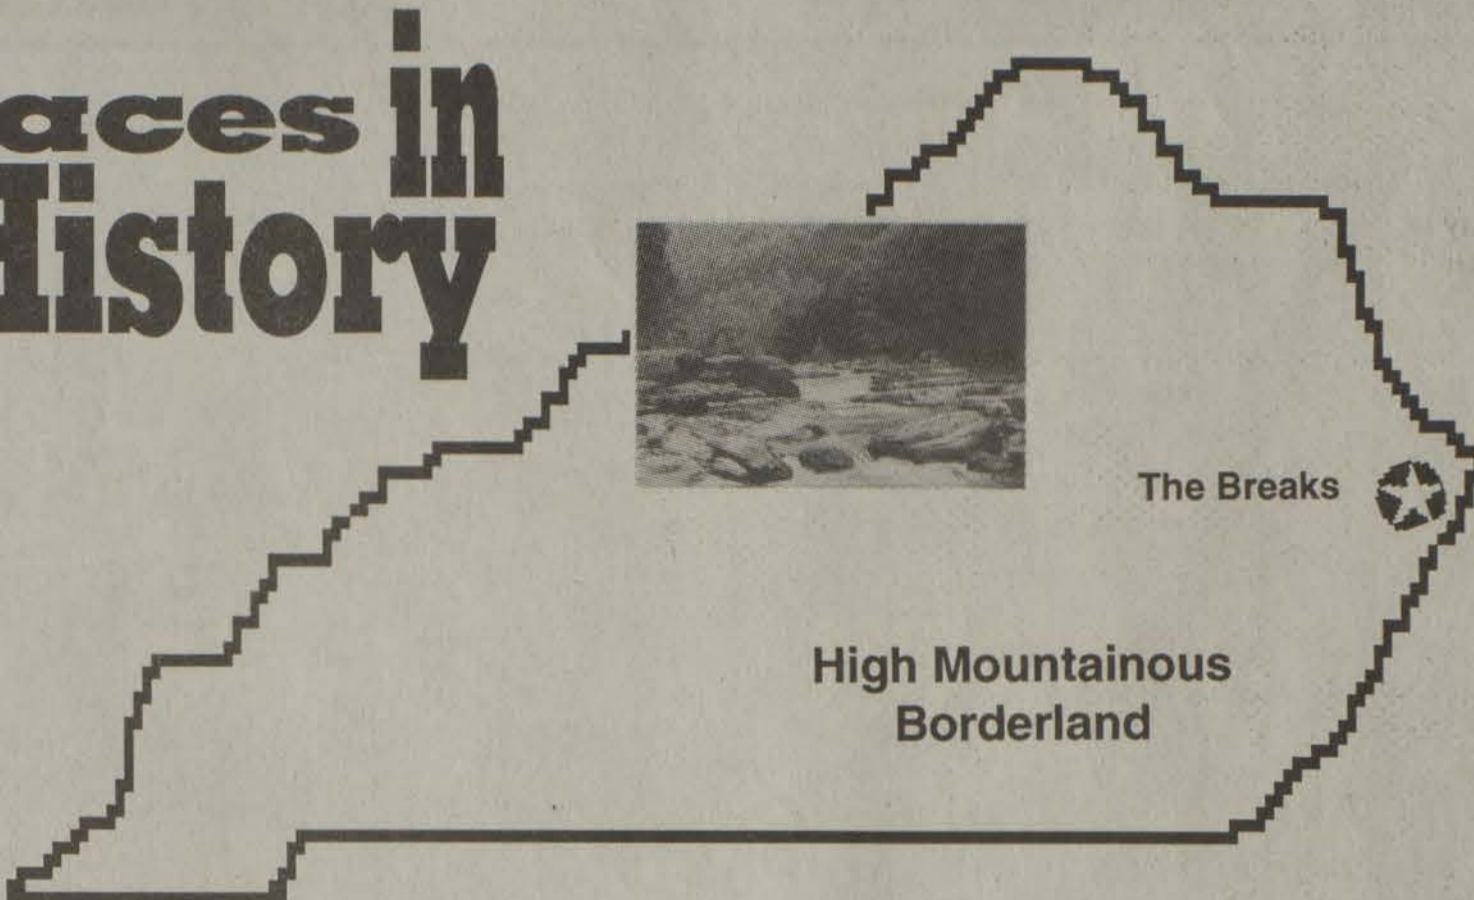

When this large block of the earth's surface was thrust upward it created two long mountain ridges with fractures or faults on all four sides of the two new mountains.

As time passed, the erosive forces of nature wore down the new ridges and created river channels which wore ever deeper hollows and valleys. In such a manner, the grinding, cutting action of Russell Fork of Big Sandy River slowly cut a five-mile-long, thousand-foot-deep, pass, or gorge, through the northerly end of Pine Mountain.

Thus Breaks Gorge was formed by the patient but powerful hand of Mother Nature.

Through the 1930s, this community on the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy, just above the mouth of Mud Creek, was originally known as Laynesville, named for pioneer settlers James Shannon and Katherine "Caty" Hager Layne.

THE LAYNE FAMILY ESTABLISHES SETTLEMENT

James, who fought as a soldier during the Revolutionary War, and his wife Caty came from Virginia and settled the area in 1796. The couple obtained vast acreage extending from the Pike County line to level in Floyd County. At what later became known as Laynesville, on the east section of the river, the Laynes established a plantation and a general store.

In the 1800s, Laynesville, because of its location next to the Big Sandy River, was a landing point for steamboats and other craft which transported goods to the area. Storekeepers and settlers came to Laynesville to get their goods, such as sugar and flour, whenever the boats docked.

During the Civil War era, this section of the county was pro-south. In the 1860 presidential election, threats were made against voters if they dare cast their votes for Republican candidate Abraham Lincoln. However, Laynesville precinct had two votes for Lincoln cast by Lindsey Layne and his son Moses Layne, son and grandson of James and Caty. Lindsey served the Union as a lieutenant in the 39th Kentucky infantry. His son Tandy served in the Union's 39th Kentucky Artillery. The Laynes' courageous stand for the Union is unusual, considering that James imported slaves from the south to work his land.

FIRST POST OFFICE ESTABLISHED

The Laynesville post office was established on January 23, 1828 with James L. Layne, the son of James and Caty, as postmaster. Forty years later, in 1878, the spelling of the office was corrected to Laynesville. However, due to a decline in population, the Laynesville post office closed in 1917.

The area on the west side of the river grew in population, creating the need for a post office. On September 11, 1905, the Harold post office was established with Joseph D. Morrell as postmaster. The office was named for Harold Hatcher, a local merchant and descendant of James H. Hatcher who settled at the mouth of Mud Creek in 1830.

The present Harold Post Office, built in 1984, is now located on the east side of the river. The office serves 2,000 customers, and includes residents in part of Mud Creek, and the areas of Craynor and Galveston.

BASEBALL AND THE HAROLD CLUB

Baseball was a popular pastime in Floyd County in the 1930s, 1940s and early 1950s. Harold fielded its own team. The Harold Club was one of eight teams in the Big Sandy League, according to information submitted by Joe and Mary Hinchman in The History of Floyd County. The club was the Big Sandy League champion in 1949.

Players included Don

Hewlett and Lou Burcham, pitchers; Frankie Crum, first base; Palmer Crum, second base; Charles "Chuck"

Johnson, short stop; Albert King, third

Zane Martin and Delmer Williams, out field; Prod Clifton, catcher; Dan Kanauz, manager and catcher.

BUSINESSES

Today Harold has several major businesses, including the Harold Telephone Company, Inc., Tel-Com, Inc., Appalachian Cellular, Inc., Big Sandy Wholesale Company, Happy Mart, Clayton's Mobile Homes, and coal companies.

The community also has Harold Elementary, located on U.S. 23. — Main source: History of Floyd County

HI HAT

This coal town with a post office lies at the junction of KY 122 and 979 and the confluence of Clear Creek and the Left Fork of Beaver Creek, 19 miles south of Prestonsburg. The local post office was established as Fed on August 17, 1881, with Jerry Caudill as postmaster, and may have been named for Fed Akers, a resident.

Later the station located where the C&O railroad's Clear Creek Spur leaves the main Left Beaver Branch line was called Clear Creek Junction. In 1943, both names were changed to Hi Hat for the Hi Hat Elkhorn Mining Company, which opened its local mine in 1936. The company, whose trade mark was a big top hat, claimed it produced a high or top grade of coal. The company requested the name changes in part to avoid confusion with the Pike County post office of Feds Creek and to insure uniformity in the names of post office, station, and community. — Kentucky Place Names by Robert M. Involvement of parents is a key element to the success of Family Resource and Youth Service Centers.

That's the conclusion of a Morehead State University professor of education who has been looking at these centers in Eastern Kentucky to see how they have been successful in increasing parental involvement.

Under a grant from the Kentucky Cabinet of Human Resources, Dr. Harold Rose and his colleagues plan to use the strategies they have found to develop a training program to help others increase the involvement of parents.

MSU's work with the Family Resource and Youth Service Centers is important to maintaining a high quality Teacher Education Program, according to Dr. Rose.

"These centers are the most important and successful components of KERA," he said. "Students in our Teacher Education Program need to be familiar with these aspects of education reform and to develop an understanding of their underlying philosophy."

The Family Resource and Youth Service Centers are mandated under Section 18 of House Bill 840 which requires centers for public schools that have 20 percent of their student body eligible for free school meals.

The rationale behind that mandate, according to Dr. Rose, is concerned with improving the physical, social and academic well-being of disadvantaged children.

"The mission of the centers is to reduce barriers which prevent children from learning," he explained.

In an attempt to lessen those barriers, the Family Resource Centers provide support or coordinate a number of services such as full-time preschool child care, support and training for child care providers, health services or referral to health agencies and parent and child education (PACE) programs.

In their efforts to do the same, the Youth Service Centers are involved with referrals for students to health and social service agencies, employment counseling, training and placement, summer and part-time job development, drug and substance abuse counseling, and family crisis and mental health counseling.

Responding to the question of whether or not Kentucky's educational system should be more consumer-oriented and what more can be done to effect this, Dr. Rose said:

"The school system does not have the resources to solve all of society's problems. The basic obligation of the family is to provide the schools a child who is ready to learn.

"Unfortunately this is not always possible for many parents in today's society; however, the Family Resource and Youth Service Centers can coordinate with social service agencies, the health department and the court system to eliminate those barriers to learning encountered by our children."

The professor also believes that the involvement of parents and the community as a whole a certain level of parental involvement in return for services provided. For example, enrichment programs such as field trips may require a parent chaperon. Requesting parent assistance will stimulate parents' interest and involvement in their children's education.

"The parent, not the school, is the key to early development of the child," Dr. Rose noted. He defined an effective parent as one who recognizes developmental problems early, makes sure the child has frequent medical check-ups, understands the importance of behavior modification and offers an environment conducive to learning.

"We need to make people aware that the school alone cannot be expected to be responsible for these tasks," he said. "The increasing blame being placed on the schools makes it harder for any improvement to take place in the child's physical, social and academic well-being," Dr. Rose continued.

The centers truly have a pivotal part in making parents aware of the importance of all the variables that play a role in a child's development, he said.

After his survey of the 60 center coordinators in MSU's 22-county service area to determine what practices have been successful, Dr. Rose believes that strong center coordinators will encourage parental and community participation and take the leading role in determining whether or not the center will serve the needs of the region's students as well as the community-at-large.

"Essentially, it is the determination of the coordinator that will make or break the usefulness of the center," he said. "The coordinator must know how to make the center marketable to parents unwilling to participate."

Parents who are already involved are the best recruiters for other parents, according to Dr. Rose. "Having parents work with other parents reduces the concerns about the centers felt by those who haven't been interested," he said.

ABCs Of Education

is vital in reducing those barriers to learning and that is why it is so important to increase parental involvement.

Getting parents not only interested, but also involved, is crucial to the centers' success, he maintains. Most educators agree that the centers need to be consumer-oriented if they are to draw in parents.

Offering special classes such as aerobics or line dancing can bring parents into the center and, once that interest has been stimulated, other more substantive programs on such topics as effective parenting or behavior modification can be implemented.

Dr. Rose also suggested that centers require

SCHOOL-BASED DECISION MAKING A NEW WAY OF RUNNING THE SCHOOLS

by Layne Tackett
SBDM consultant
Region 8 Service Center

Approximately 75% of the schools in the Region 8 Service Center Area of Eastern Kentucky are now involved at some level of school-based decision making. All schools in the state must begin operating under the procedures of school-based decision making by July 1, 1996.

School-based decision making is a decentralized, shared decision making process in which the local school becomes the place where most of the decisions about schooling take place.

Some of the most often asked questions are answered below.

Q. Who may serve on a school council?

A. Three (3) teachers elected by the teachers; two (2) parents elected by the parent members of the school's parent-teacher organization; and, the building principal.

Q. How is school-based decision making, different from the way schools are traditionally governed?

A. School districts used to set all policy that all schools had to follow. School-based decision making removes many of those decisions from the district and places them in the hands of school councils. The theory suggests that local school people can best describe how to educate their children.

Q. Does that mean every school is on its own?

A. Not quite. Some guidelines must exist to make sure all children in Kentucky have equal opportunities to a good education. The state will set general goals and measure how well each school, in its own way, meets these goals. The state school board will reward schools that succeed, and help those schools that do not. Local boards play a vital role in developing district goals, budgets, improvement plans, and more.

Q. When will school-based decision making begin in my child's school?

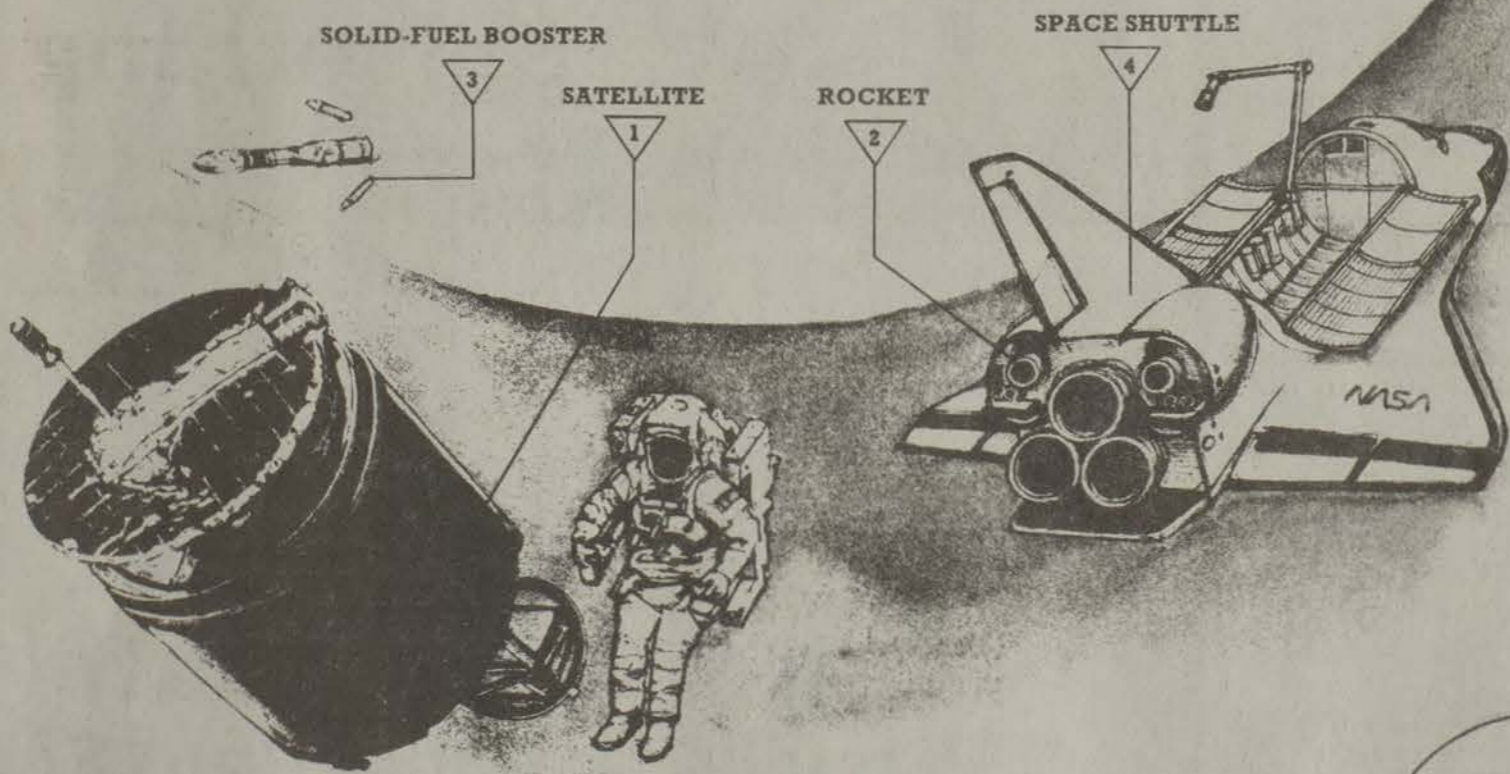

A. It can begin as soon as two-thirds of the teachers at the school vote to adopt school-based decision making. By July 1, 1996, virtually all schools must have school councils in place.

Q. How will school-based decision making improve my child's education?

A. That's the most important question of all. The whole purpose of school-based decision making is to improve education for all Kentucky's children. With a common goal of more and better learning for all children, parents, teachers, principals and community members can work together cooperatively to attain our Commonwealth's mission: an "internationally superior education and a love of learning" for each.

School-based decision making can be the vehicle to bring about improved student achievement at your child's school. For more information about school-based decision making contact Layne Tackett at the Region 8 Service Center in Prestonsburg by calling 606-886-0205.

How Things Work

1 SATELLITE

A satellite does not need to be streamlined in order to fly through space, since there is no air in space to slow it down. But it does need a source of energy for its electronic circuitry. Sunlight is very strong in space, so the satellite has large solar panels that turn sunlight into electricity. A satellite must stay in exactly the right position, with its dish antennae facing the radio stations on the ground. For this reason, it is equipped with small gas thrusters which tilt and twist the satellite in the correct orbit high above Earth.

ISSUES

Editor's note: The following letters were written by students in Debra Hollands' fifth grade class at Prestonsburg Elementary.

Dear Editor:

Here are some letters my students wrote about pollution. Granted, some of them have mistakes, but their thoughts are in the right place. You may use all, a few or none of these for the paper. I would, however, ask you to edit them so as not to cause the children to be criticized when it's the ideas they are trying to promote. They've been doing some serious thinking about this.

Thank you,
Mrs. Debra Holland
Prestonsburg Elem.
Grade 5

*Also, they designed and constructed Earth Day buttons.

Dear Editor:

About a week ago I went to Pikeville and beside me was the Big Sandy River. After the flood, there was garbage hanging from the trees because when the water came up so did the pollution that was in the water. Most of it got caught in trees and is still there. To prevent this from happening again, I think we should pick up around and on riverbanks. I also think we should stop people from pouring their waste into rivers, creeks, lakes, and other places in Kentucky by passing some kind of law or something like that. If you ask me, we need to work fast before our earth is one big garbage dump!!!

Sincerely,
Preston Combs
Prestonsburg

Dear Editor:

I'm sick of all the pollution. I have seen it in the river behind my house. There are pop cans on the sides of the roads, in the creeks at my aunts house. I think we should have a trash foundation.

Sincerely yours,
Brandi Johnson
Prestonsburg

Dear Editor:

I am concerned about the pollution in our environment. So I saw pollution on the beach. It's a real mess. It is not healthy for animals and most people. Paper cups, candy wrappers, and garbage. I think we should help clean up our environment. They are many different things we could do, like don't litter, or pick up trash and put it in the garbage can, and start a clean-up center and have people to sign and help the environment. I hope I have convinced you to not litter and harm our environment. I want to clean our world up and not pollute. Help save the world.

Yours truly,
Casey Horton
Prestonsburg

Dear Editor:

I am concerned about pollution and what it is doing to our environment. It is making our town look ugly. It's killing our animals and the air pollution is causing us to breathe polluted air.

The pollution is killing our animals by all the trash getting into the lakes. It is making our town look ugly because trash is all over the place. It is causing us to breathe polluted air because of exhaust pipes and other things like that.

We could try to stop pollution by raising fines, and if we see any trash to pick it up.

Sincerely,
Brittany Hites
Prestonsburg

Dear Editor:

I am really concerned about pollution. I think that if people throw stuff down that they should pick it up.

For example, over at Dewey Lake the garbage is bad as ever, people pollute everything from bank, to hills, this must stop.

Your pal,
Hope E. Hammonds
Cliff

Dear Editor:

I am a student at Prestonsburg Elementary and it is my duty to keep Prestonsburg clean just like everybody else. I am concerned about Dewey Lake. Everybody keeps polluting it like its a big garbage can. It looks brown to me. Everybody keeps putting trash in it! I want to be able to be proud of our lake when people come to Jenny Wiley State Park. I suggest we make a law or something because its not only the lakes but air and land pollution also. Someone needs to do something fast. Please help!

Sincerely yours,
Courtney
Prestonsburg

Dear Editor:

I think there should be an end to pollution. It is killing our environment because people are polluting and no one will do nothing about it. That is stupid. When I was fishing at the river and got a fish with a piece of plastic on it. I heard there was some oil on the lake and it was hurting the ducks. Think about it. The world would be one big garbage can. That is really stupid.

Sincerely
Donnie S.
Prestonsburg

Dear Editor:

I have seen the pollution of wildlife in rivers and oceans. Aren't the 100 million sharks killed each year enough. It looks like fish might be the first to die. Some fish could already be dead from pollution. Fishing helps kill enough fish.

Yours truly,
Matthew Short
Prestonsburg

Dear Editor:

I am writing to you about pollution. I really hate it. Especially the pollution that is in my creek behind my house. I try to do everything I can to make it clean. In the summer my neighbor, Tyler Burke and I try to clean it up. We find all kinds of glass, paper and stuff that cut you. Oh well I think everyone should help out around their neighborhood.

Sincerely,
Tara Ortega
Prestonsburg

Dear Editor:

This is about pollution. Pollution is awful. It makes our town look bad. It is harmful to the earth, plants, animals, air, and us. The other day I saw a bunch of garbage floating down the river. I think if people would stop throwing their trash down, our town would be much cleaner. I also wish people would recycle their trash so there would be less.

Sincerely,
Amanda Whitt
Auxier

Dear Editor:

I think that pollution is destroying our environment. I was fishing in the Big Sandy River and saw some trash floating down. I think people that do that are hurting not only themselves but other people in their environment. If pollution gets worse in the years to come than what it is now we will have to wear masks. I think you should set up some teams to see which team gets the trash will win a prize. I wish you good luck.

Sincerely,
Brandon
Prestonsburg

Dear Editor:

I have been studying about pollution and I don't like it one bit. There are people who go and just throw stuff in places they are not suppose to. It isn't right. They don't know what their doing. It hurts the Earth. I'm glad someone helps and cares for the Earth.

Sincerely,
Brian Collins
Auxier

Dear Editor:

How are you? I am doing okay. I would be doing better but there's so much pollution. I think one of our biggest problems is smoke. People that smoke must not think before they smoke, because it not only hurts them but it hurts the people around them too. Plus it pollutes the air. Can you tell me what we can do to save our world from smoke.

Sincerely,
Stephanie Marshall

Dear Editor:

I need help to clean my hollow. It is real dirty with garbage. Many people die from dirt in the air. So help clean up the earth, and make it better.

Your friend,
Jason Johnson
Prestonsburg

Dear Editor:

I think the rivers are ugly. They have trash and pop cans in them. Pollution is not good. I just wanted to write this letter because it looks awful.

Sincerely,
Becky Justice
Prestonsburg

Dear Editor:

Our world is getting polluted with pollution. We need to throw away and pick up trash laying down and put it in the trash can. There's been bottles, pop cans, and glass from bottles busted in the road. If we don't pick it up the ones in the creek can flood and get into the road and a car could get a flat tire. I wish everybody would get off their tail and save our world.

Sincerely,
Jennifer Marsillett
Prestonsburg

Dear Editor:

How are you doing? I think the biggest problem we have in this town is pollution. I know the government has spent a lot of money for garbage cans to put in town. They're there but they are empty and all the trash is everywhere else. So I think we can change this problem. By putting trash in the trash cans were they belong.

Your reader,
Tia Dobson
Prestonsburg

Dear Editor:

I really don't like people throwing garbage into rivers and on the ground. But, that is not why I am writing to you. It's about smoke coming out of factories. The smoke comes out of factories and into the blue sky and air. So we breath that in and the sky turns black, like night. Now that is bad! Can't you see that the world will be black or full of it. Now I figured if everyone said something to them, they would make factories without smoke. So that would be better.

Your friend,
Charity Whitaker
Prestonsburg

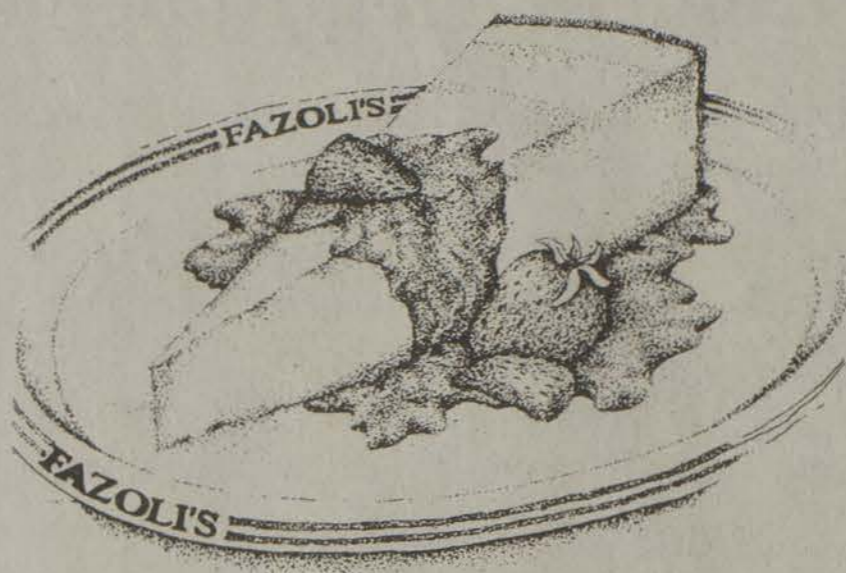

Dear Editor:

We the students of Mrs. Holland's 5th grade at Prestonsburg Elementary, have been studying about pollution, pesticides, and other poisonous chemicals that effect our environment. We enjoy studying about our environment, but do not like what we've been doing to it. It really bugs me that people throw trash down on the ground not really caring about who sees them or anything.

I've seen people do that on other people's property. I hope that maybe someday everybody would finally understand about what their doing to our Earth and O-zone layer. But I am glad that some people do know and care.

Sincerely,
Alexis Bohr

Rosemond discusses rearing children in this day of "hands-on" parenting

"Hands-off" approach author and child expert

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

John K. Rosemond, nationally known psychologist, author and child authority, says some surprising things about rearing children in this day of "hands-on" parenting.

During an interview at Mountain Christian Academy last month, one of his stops on a recent lecture tour, Rosemond pulled no punches as he spoke forthrightly about his views on parenting.

Today's parents, he says, are overly involved in nearly everything their children do. "Parents should not be busy in their children's lives at all," he declares.

Parents don't discipline their children for fear of upsetting them and damaging their self-esteem. "Parents aren't doing anything anymore to upset their children. If a parent makes a good decision, the child will be upset on a regular basis."

Television is a disruptive guest that should be "gotten rid of," he adds. Rosemond advocates a laid-back,

Points to Ponder

Below are Rosemond's views on other parenting concerns:

What makes a good parent? "A parent who dominates, who supervises his own children well, who expects them to rise to his high standards, who balances discipline and love and who has a good sense of humor. There are going to be frustrations as a parent if you take parenting too seriously. You must be able to laugh."

Family values: "We began losing family values when we started to tell parents to pay attention to their children's self-esteem. Well, children have to pay more attention to parents than parents to children."

Children have got to be contributors to a family... Children today are consumers of service and attention. They have no daily chores. Every child above three should have a job around the house and not get paid for it."

Discipline: "Children don't like to be disciplined. On an outward level they don't like it. But they very definitely feel more secure when they know exactly where their parents stand and when they expect their parents to take a stand."

A father's role: "To be a good husband."

A mother's role: "To be a good wife. We've gotten away from that. We have reversed the role (and put the children first). That puts the marriage at risk."

Good parenting: "is matter of what you don't do and what you do. Don't let children watch a lot of TV, or give them a lot of toys and drive them to a lot of after-school activities. Don't do their homework and don't worry about their reaction to a decision you make...The best parents are laid-back parents. Don't put in your child's mind that adults exist to do things for him. Help children resist peer pressure by letting them know that it is all right to be different."

The difficult child: "There is no such thing as a child you can't do anything with. When people say that, they have let the child intimidate them."

Mothers who work outside the home: "Society says the primary role of a woman is that of taking care of children. It's not. A mother's role is to create a good family. Mothers have always had to work and work very hard. This is the first generation of washing machines and dishwashers."

Mothers who stay at home: "If a woman stays home, the children ought to leave her alone, do their homework, and be responsible. If a male stays home, the same thing. We're giving this generation the impression women have to be taking care of the child. A parent's role is to provide supervision."

"The life of a family is smoother if there is one adult home during the day taking care of domestic business, supervising the children and doing chores, keeping the check book balanced, the house clean."

Home life: "I don't believe that families should be busy in the evening. Five or six evenings a week should be spent at home, reading, talking to one another, and the children playing..."

Television: "If I invited someone in my home who disrupted the life of my family, I would ask him to leave. TV disrupts the life of a family. It is an unwanted guest in a home. Get rid of it and get a life."

...ch to parenting is ...pert's prescription

hands-off, approach to parenting, a practical, common-sense approach that harkens back to grandmother's day before parenting experts arrived on the scene.

Rosemond maintains that his philosophy concerning child-rearing is "very traditional, old-fashioned, very conservative. I'm not saying anything new. I'm saying the same sort of things our grandmothers were saying, only in a slightly more sophisticated way."

That way is through workshops, educational material, columns and three books about parenting that he has authored.

The family psychologist is the director of the Center of Affirmative Parenting in Gastonia, North Carolina. The center is a national parenting resource center which provides workshops and educational material for parents and professionals who work with children and families. In addition, he writes a parenting column that appears in 125 newspapers nationally.

He is the regularly featured columnist for both Better Homes and Gardens and Health First magazines. His three books are Parent Power! A Common-Sense Approach to Raising Your Children in the Eighties; John Rosemond's Six-Point Plan for Raising Happy Healthy Children; and Ending the Homework Hassle. Rosemond no longer maintains a private practice as a family psychologist. His fame as a child expert has made him much in demand as a public speaker.

In fact, his engagement at the academy was one stop in the middle of a whirlwind speaking tour that crisscrossed the country.

"I'm always on a speaking tour," he said, looking tired, but relaxed, having just arrived from a speaking engagement in Charleston, West Virginia. "I'm in two or three cities a week. I make five to seven presentations a week. I'm making seven presentations the next six days in three cities." He added, "I love it."

"I'm in a very enviable situation. I'm doing something that is not only stimulating and rewarding emotionally, but I have a lot of fun," he said, his smile melting his tired expression.

As a parenting expert, he said that he gets questions about parenting that "run the gamut. Parents are concerned about how to properly discipline children, school issues, peer group issues. There is not any one concern that is dominant."

But there is one theme that has dominated the modern approach to child rearing and that is the concept of self-esteem.

"Major mistakes (since the 1950s) revolved around the ideas of self-esteem," he declared. "Self-esteem is a fairly bogus concept, especially the way it is defined and marketed to American parents and public school educators."

"I think we need to re-embrace with the idea that children, first and foremost, need to be taught the basic principles of good citizenship. For 50 years we've been putting the cart in front of the horse."

"Until the 1950s, children were taught the three R's — Respect, Responsibility and to be Resourceful when it came to problems and challenges," he said.

"We try to infuse children with self-esteem. Teaching a child the basics of citizenship will make a child a success."

Rosemond thinks that the tide in parenting began to turn 30 years ago when society began to focus on psychology instead of instinct and common sense.

"What changed 30 years ago is that we stopped listening to grandma and listened to psychologists. Grandma had her feet on the ground. Most psychologists don't," he said pointedly. "We're trained in theory. We are trained to think too much. We are trained to not trust common sense and instinct."

He admitted that he was one of those child experts who thought he knew the answers until he ran into perplexing roadblocks raising his own children.

"I turned around as a result of my experience with my two children. The things psychologists told parents to do were not working within my family. I began talking to other parents and learned it was not working in anyone's family in America. It is weakening the American family and our culture."

To get his own family back on track, he said he and his wife began to focus on their relationship as husband and wife instead of father and mother; they taught their children the three R's; and, not surprisingly, they banned their television. "We didn't have television for four years..." he said. "We valued our time together."

The Bill of Rights contained in the 1891 Constitution is as follows:

That the great and essential principles of liberty and free government may be recognized and established, we declare that:

Section 1. All men are, by nature, free and equal, and have certain inherent and inalienable rights, among which may be reckoned:

First: The right of enjoying and defending their lives and liberties.

Second: The right of worshipping Almighty God according to the dictates of their consciences.

Third: The right of seeking and pursuing their safety and happiness.

Fourth: The right of freely communicating their thoughts and opinions.

Fifth: The right of acquiring and protecting property.

Sixth: The right of assembling together in a peaceable manner for their common good, and of applying to those invested with the power of government for redress of grievances or other proper purposes, by petition, address or remonstrance.

Seventh: The right to bear arms in defense of themselves and of the State, subject to the power of the General Assembly to enact laws to prevent persons from carrying concealed weapons.

Section 2. Absolute and arbitrary power over the lives, liberty and property of freemen exists nowhere in a republic, not even in the largest majority.

Section 3. All men, when they form a social compact, are equal; and no grant of exclusive, separate public emoluments or privileges shall be made to any man or set of men, except in consideration of public services; but no property shall be exempt from taxation except as provided in this Constitution, and every grant of a franchise, privilege or exemption, shall remain subject to revocation, alteration or amendment.

Section 4. All power is inherent in the people, and all free governments are founded on their authority and instituted for their peace, safety, happiness and the protection of property. For the advancement of these ends, they have at all times an inalienable and indefeasible right to alter, reform or abolish their government in such manner as they may deem proper.

Section 5. No preference shall ever be given by law to any religious sect, society or denomination; nor to any particular creed, mode of worship or system of ecclesiastical polity; nor shall any person be compelled to attend any place of worship, to contribute to the erection or maintenance of any such place, or to the salary or support of any minister of religion; nor shall any man be compelled to send his child to any school to which he may be conscientiously opposed; and the civil rights, privileges or capacities of no person shall be taken away, or in anywise diminished or enlarged, on account of his belief or disbelief of any religious tenet, dogma or teaching. No human authority shall, in any case whatever, control or interfere with the rights of conscience.

Section 6. All elections shall be free and equal.

Section 7. The ancient mode of supported by oath or affirmation.

Section 11. In all criminal prosecutions the accused has the right to be heard by himself and counsel; to demand the nature and cause of the accusation against him; to meet the witnesses face to face, and to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor. He cannot be compelled to give evidence against himself, nor can he be deprived of his life, liberty or property, unless by the judgment of his peers or the law of the land; and in prosecutions by indictment or information, he shall have a speedy public trial by an impartial jury of the vicinage; but the General Assembly may provide by a general law for a change of venue in such prosecutions for both the defendant and the Commonwealth, the change to be made to the most convenient county in which a fair trial can be obtained.

Section 12. No person, for an indictable offense, shall be proceeded against criminally by information, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service, in time of war or public danger, or by leave of court for oppression or misdemeanor in office.

Section 13. No person shall, for the same offense, be twice put in jeopardy of his life or limb, nor shall any man's property be taken or applied to public use without the consent of his representatives, and without just compensation being previously made to him.

(To be continued in the June 'Etc.' Section)

trial by jury shall be held sacred, and the right thereof remain inviolate, subject to such modifications as may be authorized by this Constitution.

Section 8. Printing presses shall be free to every person who undertakes to examine the proceedings of the General Assembly or any branch of government, and no law shall ever be made to restrain the right thereof. Every person may freely and fully speak, write and print on any subject, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty.

Section 9. In prosecutions for the publication of papers investigating the official conduct of officers or men in a public capacity, or where the matter published is proper for public information, the truth thereof may be given in evidence; and in all indictments for libel, the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the facts, under the direction of the court, as in other cases.

Section 10. The people shall be secure in their persons, houses, papers and possessions, from unreasonable search and seizure; and no warrant shall issue to search any place, or seize any person or thing, without describing them as nearly as may be, nor without probable cause

To the End of the Book

by Ashley Lynn DeRossett

This is an extraordinary story about an ordinary little girl who lived in an ordinary small town where nothing out of the ordinary ever happened.

Sarah Stein lived in the little town of Marathon. Every day after school, on her way home, Sarah stopped by Mr. Herb's bookstore to say, "Hello" and to look at books. One sunny afternoon as she was walking to Mr. Herb's shop, she noticed that he was putting some old books on the curb for the trash collectors to pick up. One book in particular caught her eye. It was a dusty pink with silvery swirls. But what was unique about this book was an ancient looking lock that held it shut like a diary.

She asked Mr. Herb why he was throwing away such a beautiful book. He told her that a friend had given it to him years ago, but he had lost the key. Sarah smiled as she asked him for the book. Mr. Herb smiled back and said "yes."

Sarah thanked Mr. Herb with a hug and then rushed to her house. After supper, she went to her room to finish her homework. She remembered the book that Mr. Herb had given her. How could she open it?

Sarah put her books down and went down the stairs to get some cookies and milk. She returned to her room and reached for the old book. Sarah noticed a key that was laying beside it. The key hadn't been there before. She felt compelled to pick up the key and place it in the lock on the book. Her hand was almost uncontrollable as she inserted the key into the lock. Suddenly the book sprang open to the title page. The book was entitled, The Kingdom of Misty Mauve Mountain.

Sarah read for about an hour. It was only 7:30 p.m., but she was very sleepy. She began drifting off. Soon, Sarah couldn't keep her eyes open. Now, she was asleep.

Sarah started to dream about the wonderful place she had just read about. She slowly began to wake up as something wet dripped on her head. Her eyes fluttered open. The foggy shape of a beautiful, mauve-colored rose came into focus. The cool dew skated down the glossy, green foliage. One silver drop of dew dropped squarely between Sarah's eyes. She sat up with a start and looked about. She heard something and wondered what it could be. Sarah sprang to her feet and parted the green, velvety leaves. She saw a knight in shining armor, as bright as the sun, fighting a scaly green creature that could be a dragon.

Sarah held her breath in horror as the dragon let forth a great blaze of fire toward the knight. He threw up his arm to shield himself from the scorching flame. As quick as lightning, he thrust forth his powerful sword, piercing the heart of the monster. A great torrent of blood burst forth from the wound and the monster fell dead.

Sarah drew in her breath with a harsh gasp. The knight turned quickly toward the sound. Sarah looked into the deep, black eyes of the knight. At first, she was scared, but as she looked in the shining eyes as black as coal, she sensed he was kind and gentle.

Without fear, Sarah stepped into the clearing of the forest and walked confidently toward the knight. She began to introduce herself, but the knight interrupted been a hundred or more men chanting. As Sarah and Faust neared the sound, they realized they weren't men at all.

"Faust," Sarah began, "What are those frightening creatures?"

"They are the guardians of the forest," Faust said. "But they mustn't see us. Hurry, get down behind this tree."

Faust leaped down from his horse and extended his which frightened Sarah. The creatures locked them both in a deep, dark, and dingy dungeon. Sarah was very much afraid. Faust told her not to be afraid. If she were to wish hard enough, they could be out of the dungeon. Sarah wished with all her might. She closed her eyes and wished with all her might. With her eyes still closed, she wished that she and Faust were at the foot of Misty Mauve Mountain. When she opened her eyes again, they were standing in the shadow of the mountain.

"Sarah," Faust said, "from here you are on your own. I cannot enter the mountain. You must find the crystal in the caverns and then take it to the top of the mountain. Place it on the pedestal where the sun will renew its power."

Faust reached beneath the breast plate of his armor. He pulled a chain over his head and then placed it around Sarah's neck. At the end of the chain was a delicate porcelain rose of mauve. Faust told Sarah not to believe anything she saw in the mountain because the monsters were only shadows meant to scare her away. Faust placed a gentle kiss on Sarah's hand.

"Good-bye Sarah," he said. "Please don't forget me."

Sarah entered the mountain through a tiny cave that was overgrown with mauve-colored roses. She looked back. Sarah saw Faust waving good-bye. He began to fade and then he disappeared. With tears in her eyes, Sarah walked down further and further, deeper into the mountain. As she walked through the cave, she began to hear cries. Then, suddenly, Sarah saw a hideous creature step into view. The creature had long sharp teeth, sharp as a sword and about as long. She closed her eyes and clutched her mauve necklace and thought of how she had to go on in order to get home. When she opened her eyes, the creature that was standing there before her was now gone. She walked on.

At last, she saw a pale glow. She realized it was the crystal that she was seeking. Sarah rushed forward and grasped the crystal; she was instantly transported to the top of the mountain. Sarah looked around and then saw the pedestal a few feet away. She slowly walked toward it.

When Sarah reached the pedestal, she looked down into the beautiful valley where her quest began. Sarah was filled with a mixture of sadness and joy. She was happy that she would soon be home again. But she was sad because she knew that she would never see the Misty Mauve Valley again.

Sarah placed the crystal onto the pedestal. A ray of sunlight struck the crystal and there was a great gleam of light.

Sarah woke in her own bed. Startled, she jumped up and ran over to the book. It was locked and the key was gone. Sarah reached up to her neck, and there was the necklace with the porcelain rose of mauve.

About the author

When Ashley DeRossett wrote her book "To the End of the Book," she was 12 years old and a sixth grade student at Adams Middle School. Her book won the sixth grade illustrated book category of the Young Authors' competition in Alberta Slone and Paula Collins' rooms at Adams. She won the school competition and the county competition in the same category.

She received a $50 U.S. Savings Bond at a spring awards ceremony sponsored by the Floyd County Board of Education. Over 5,000 elementary and middle school students participated in competition throughout the county.

Ashley said she enjoys "fantasy-type" stories. "That's why I decided to write this book," Ashley said. "I hope that my readers will also enjoy this thrilling tale of a young girl and the adventure she has."

Ashley is the daughter of Helen DeRossett-McAninch.

her. "You opened the book didn't you, Sarah Stein?" said the knight.

"Yes," Sarah answered timidly. "Then, there is no going back. You must finish the story," explained the knight. "Follow me."

Sarah felt she could trust this knight and followed him to the edge of the clearing. A horse, strong and sleek, waited at the edge of the forest. The knight mounted the steed with ease and extended his hand to Sarah.

"My name is Faust. I have been sent to protect you on your quest," Faust said as he pulled Sarah on the horse behind him.

As they traveled through the misty forest, Faust showed her the wonders of her land.

"How did he know my name and what is this all about?" Sarah thought curiously.

She was about to ask these questions when she was interrupted by the sound of a chant. There must have arm to help Sarah down. Then, the horse ran off, galloping through the forest.

Hiding behind the tree, Faust and Sarah waited for the creatures to pass. Faust recognized Sir Gorgon. See, Sir Gorgon had fought Faust many years back. Faust placed a scar upon Gorgon's right eye. Now, Gorgon must wear a gold patch over his eye. Gorgon was an evil man. His fierce warriors were just as evil and mean as he was. Suddenly to Sarah's surprise, Faust whispered, "Sarah, you must make it to the crystal of mist deep inside Misty Mauve Mountain to get to the end of the book."

Just as Faust finished speaking, Sir Gorgon turned to see the frightened face of Sarah peeking around the tree. And then he saw Faust. Sir Gorgon ordered his troop to arrest them both.

The creatures dragged Sarah and Faust to a gnarled, old tree with a secret door which opened with a creak. Sarah and Faust heard whispers and scurrying sounds

Students perform

Four students from the Big Sandy area performed at a national conference of music educators in April. The four—Scott Bradley, Amy Shaw, Michael Nunemaker, and Chad Austin—are members of Morehead State University's Symphony Band which performed at the 54th National Biennial In-Service Conference of the Music Educators National Conference in Cincinnati on April 7.

The ensemble was one of six university concert bands nationwide selected to perform at the conference. The 52-members of the Symphony Band was selected by audition.

The MSU band also gave a special performance for the public on Wednesday, April 6, in Greaves Concert Hall on the Northern Kentucky University campus.

Scott Bradley, of Paintsville, is the son of Butch Bradley and Lana Hensley. He is a sophomore at MSU. Amy Shaw, freshman, is the daughter of John C. Shaw and Linda Shaw of Paintsville. Michael Nunemaker, a sophomore, is the son of Connie Nunemaker and Vernon Nunemaker of Prestonsburg. Chad Austin, a freshman, is the son of Ralph and Theresa Hall of Virgie.

Local student receives scholarship

Georgetown College has awarded Tonia Hale a Trustee's Scholarship for the 1994-95 academic year. Hale, a senior at Prestonsburg High School, will be an incoming freshman at Georgetown. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Durward Hale of Prestonsburg.

The Trustee's Scholarship is given to recognize those students who have excelled academically while in high school. According to Georgetown College President Dr. William H. Crouch Jr., "Students receiving the Trustee's Scholarship have traditionally been strong campus leaders and academicians."

Georgetown College, located 12 miles from Lexington in the heart of the Bluegrass, is a four-year private liberal arts institution affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

Graduates

Air Force Airman Robert W. Bowling has graduated from Air Force basic training at Texas.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Bowling is the son of Benjamin H. and Billie G. Bowling of Melvin.

Bowling is a 1993 graduate of Wheelwright High School.

Completes learning

Marine Pvt. Ronald J. Whitt, son of Eddie and Regina Whitt of Prestonsburg, recently completed basic learning at Parris Island, South Carolina. During the training cycle, recruits were taught the basics of battlefield survival, introduced to military skills, first aid, rifle marksmanship, close-order drill, and team work. Whitt is in California in Communication School. He is a 1993 graduate of Prestonsburg High School.

Awarded by Tandy Technology

Betsy Layne High School student Mark Estill Reed was nominated as an Outstanding Math/Science/Computer Science student and was awarded a certificate by Tandy Technology scholars.

Reed joins approximately 24,360 meritorious seniors honored this year by the Tandy Technology Scholars program.

The academic top two percent of graduating seniors are eligible to receive certificates recognizing their academic achievement. Each school may nominate a senior who is outstanding in mathematics, science or computer science. These students receive a certificate recognizing them as a Tandy Technology Scholar. In addition they are eligible to compete for one of the one hundred $1,000 scholarships awarded annually.

Receives recognition

Darlene Goble Endicott of Endicott, daughter of William Estill and Annie Goble of Cow Creek, recently received recognition by Who's Who Among Students in American Junior colleges.

This recognition is based primarily on her receiving a high grade-point average and her potential for continued success.

Endicott will graduate from Prestonsburg Community College on May 19 with an Associate in Arts degree. She will continue her education at Morehead State University where she will complete her bachelor of arts in Psychology and Sociology.

Accepts scholarship

Ryan Paul Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hopkins of Hi Hat, has accepted the Memorial Scholarship for the 1994-95 school year as an incoming freshman.

The Memorial Scholarship guarantees the student room, board and tuition expenses at Alice Lloyd College for the academic year. The scholarship is the equivalent of an annual grant of $8,840. The Scholarship will remain in effect each succeeding year for four years so long as the student pursues 15 credit hours each semester at Alice Lloyd College and maintains at least a 3.0 grade point average (on a 4.0 scale), "B" average.

Others honored for academic excellence include Kathy Christian of Banner; Vincent Hamilton of Betsy Layne; and Kevin D. Johnson of Bypro.

McDOWELL ARH Kids Need to Exercise

NU—It's Saturday afternoon. Do you know where your children are? If they're lounging in the family room watching television, the American Council on Exercise would like you to take a look at these statistics: Each day, kids spend an average of three hours in front of the TV. Most can't do two pushups. Many are obese. Nearly half show risk factors of heart disease.

For the Health of It

To lure your children away from the TV and show them that exercise is not only healthy but fun, ACE has these suggestions:

- Set an example for your kids by inviting them to join you in an activity you'll all enjoy. Go for a bike ride, for instance, or a hike or nature walk.
 - Other good forms of exercise for kids include swimming, jumping rope, skating, dancing and organized sports.
 - Whatever activities they choose, praise your children for trying to become physically fit.
 - Plan family outings that involve walking, hiking and trips to the park for playground activities.
 - Use commercial time on television to do stretches or calisthenics.
 - Get an exercise video for kids and invite the whole family to join in. But make sure the instructor in the video is certified by an internationally recognized, not-for-profit, fitness certifying organization, such as ACE.
- Choose physical activities that are fun and will make everyone feel successful. Nothing sends kids back to the TV faster than discomfort, boredom or failure.
- For information on Fun2BFit and other fitness activities for kids, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to ACE, Dept. NU, Box 910449, San Diego, CA 92191-0449.

UNDERSTANDING THE MOST IMPORTANT GRADE

Tips at Report Card Time

- SIT DOWN with your child and look over the report card.
- PRAISE YOUR CHILD. Find at least one good thing: attendance, no tardies.
- BE CALM! Let your child tell you about the grades.
- ASK how you can help your child do better.
- MAKE A PLAN with your child's teacher and your child to do better.

Origins

There is no greater place of ministry, position or power than that of a mother.—Phil Whisenhunt

A Kentucky schoolteacher was the first person to conduct Mother's Day celebrations. Her effort, along with that of others in the 1880s and early 1990s, brought about a special day set apart to honor motherhood.

MOTHER'S DAY CUSTOMS

A day called Mothering Sunday was observed years ago in England. People in other countries have observed similar days.

In the United States, Mother's Day is observed on the second Sunday in May. On this day many families and churches make a special point of honoring mothers. Children give their mothers presents and Mother's Day cards. Churches recognize mothers in their congregations by giving them corsages or a potted flower.

Many people follow the custom of wearing a carnation on Mother's Day. A

In 1912, at the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Minneapolis, Minnesota, the conference recognized Mother's Day and Anna Jarvis as the founder. It was suggested that the second Sunday in May be observed as Mother's Day.

A NATIONAL OBSERVANCE

Mother's Day received national recognition on May 9, 1914. On that day, President Woodrow Wilson signed a joint resolution of Congress recommending that Congress and the executive departments of the federal government observe Mother's Day. The next year, President Wilson was authorized to proclaim Mother's Day an annual national observance.

MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial Day, also called Decoration Day, is a legal holiday set aside to honor Americans who gave their lives for their country. Most families also decorate the graves of loved ones on this day.

MOTHER'S DAY AND MEMORIAL DAY

colored carnation means that a person's mother is living. A white carnation indicates that a person's mother is dead.

THE MOVEMENT FOR A NATIONAL OBSERVANCE

A famous writer, and a Kentucky schoolteacher launched separate campaigns for a national Mother's Day in the 1880s.

Julia Ward Howe, a writer, lecturer, and reformer who wrote the words of "Battle Hymn of the Republic," made the first known suggestion for a Mother's Day to be observed on June 2. The day was to be dedicated to peace. For several years, she held an annual Mother's Day meeting in Boston. Mary Towles Sasseen, a Kentucky schoolteacher, started conducting Mother's Day celebrations in 1887.

In the early 1900s, the movement for a national holiday became more widespread as churches became involved.

In 1904, Frank E. Hering of South Bend, Indiana, began a campaign for the observance of Mother's Day. Then in 1907, Anna Jarvis of Grafton, West Virginia and Philadelphia, chose the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day, and began the custom of wearing a carnation. On May 10, 1908, the churches in Grafton and Philadelphia held Mother's Day celebrations. The service at Andrews Methodist Episcopal Church in Grafton honored the memory of Anna Jarvis' own mother, Mrs. Anna Reeves Jarvis.

THE FIRST MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVANCE

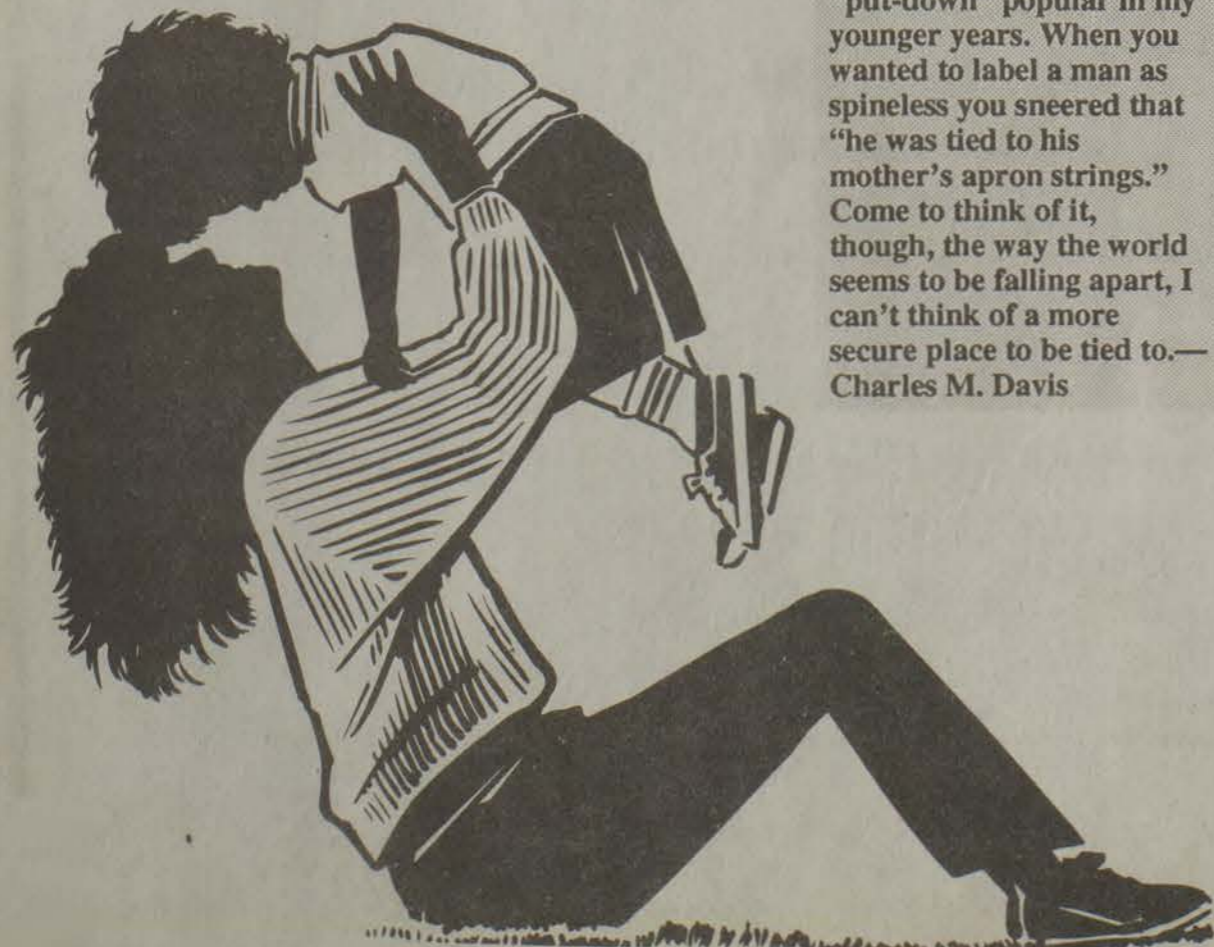

Originally, Memorial Day honored military personnel who died in the Civil War (1861-1865). The first Memorial Day was observed at Waterloo, New York, on May 5, 1866 to honor soldiers killed in the Civil War. Stores were closed and people decorated the graves of soldiers.

In 1869, May 30 was named as a special day for honoring Union soldiers killed in the war. The Grand Army of the Republic, an organization of Union veterans of the Civil War, had charge of Memorial Day celebrations in the Northern States. The American Legion took over the celebrations after World War I. Also, since the end of World War I, Memorial Day has also been Poppy Day. Volunteers sell small, artificial poppies to help disabled veterans.

Memorial Day became a legal holiday in 1971. Most Northern States and some Southern States observe Memorial Day the last Monday in May. Alabama celebrates the fourth Monday in April, and Georgia on April 26. The last Monday in April, Mississippi celebrates Confederate Memorial Day. North Carolina and South Carolina celebrate it on May 10 and Louisiana on June 3.

Tennessee observes Confederate Decoration Day on June 3, and Texas celebrates Confederate Heroes Day on January 19. In Kentucky, Memorial Day is observed the fourth Monday in May.

I remember a scathing "put-down" popular in my younger years. When you wanted to label a man as spineless you sneered that "he was tied to his mother's apron strings." Come to think of it, though, the way the world seems to be falling apart, I can't think of a more secure place to be tied to.—Charles M. Davis

You Can...with Beakman & Jax

Dear Leo,
 How are babies made?
 Leo Randolph
 Tacoma, Washington

Every one of us here on Earth started out as 1 tiny, single cell. That 1 cell was made half from your father and half from your mother. The cell grew and became lots and lots of cells. They grew inside your mother and in about 9 months they became you.

Next Sunday is Mother's Day. Today's You Can is going to help you do something nice for Mom. You might ask her the question you asked me.

Dear Julia,
 Does the spin of the Earth change the seasons?
 Julia Burnett
 Olathe, Kansas

Earth spins a lot like a top while it travels in a big circle around the sun. This huge top - Earth - tilts over in its spin, and this tilt of the spin is what changes our seasons.

Most college graduates taking a general knowledge test think that the seasons change because of the Earth's distance from the sun. That's wrong.

Find yourself a college graduate. Explain the whole thing - the Earth's tilt is why we have seasons.

WHAT YOU NEED: Flashlight - darkness
WHAT TO DO: Turn off the lights. Hold the flashlight about 2 feet from a wall and turn it on. Now raise your arm until you're shining the light on the wall up near the ceiling. Look for differences in the way the light shines with your arm lowered and raised.

Winter Sunlight
 Summer Sunlight

SO WHAT:
 When the light was shining directly at the wall, it was strong with lots of energy. When you raised your arm, the light spread out and so did the energy. Summer is when the solar energy is direct and strong. Winter is when the solar energy is spread out. Spring and fall are in-between times. Unlike your flashlight, the sun does not change its angle.

What season is it?
 Look at the orbit of the Earth and notice which hemisphere is pointing toward the sun. Hold the newspaper up to a mirror to read the answers.

1 - North: Spring \ South: Fall
 2 - North: Summer \ South: Winter
 3 - North: Fall \ South: Spring
 4 - North: Winter \ South: Summer

The hemisphere pointing toward the sun is having summer. The other hemisphere is having winter. Springtime happens when the axis starts pointing back toward the sun. Fall happens when it starts pointing away.
