Appeal won't dispute judge on vacancies

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond apparently will not challenge a part of a local circuit court ruling that declared seats on the county's solid waste commission vacant.

In documents filed this week with the state Court of Appeals, Hammond said his appeal of a February 8 order issued by Floyd Circuit Judge John David Caudill concerned only Caudill's decision to name Bob Meyer as custodian of the county's solid waste program.

The appeal before the appellate court stems from a lawsuit filed by Hammond in the wake of a rate increase adopted by the county's solid waste commission in December, 1993, which doubled the rates households pay for garbage pickups.

Hammond charged in that suit that commission members John Allen, Ned Bush, Ed Caudill, Otis Collins and Bob McAninch should be removed on grounds of malfeasance, misfeasance and non-feasance.

On February 8, Judge Caudill ruled that solid waste commissioners had effectively vacated their seats at the end of December because their terms had expired and they had not been reappointed. Caudill went on to appoint Meyer as an interim manager of the solid waste program, but the judge set no term on that appointment.

Though state law suggests Judge Caudill's ruling on the commission vacancies may have been incorrect, Hammond has advised the Court of Appeals that he will not dispute that part of the lower court's decision.

Responding to a motion filed by solid waste commission attorney Bill Francis, which asked the appellate court to dismiss the commission members as parties to the appeal, Hammond suggested that Judge Caudill's decision on the commission vacancies must stand because no timely appeal of the ruling had been filed by commissioners. Hammond agreed that commissioners should be removed as parties to his appeal, advising the Court of Appeals that "the only issue to be decided in this appeal is whether the trial court had the authority to appoint a new director of Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc."

A hearing on the appeal will be conducted next month.

New legislation is focus of workshop

One of six workshops sponsored by the Kentucky League of Cities will be held at Jenny Wiley State Park. The day-long seminar will include a review of legislation enacted in the 1994 session of the state's General Assembly that has an impact on cities and city government.

The Kentucky League of Cities will also conduct a Local Government Ethics Symposium, which will feature a comprehensive review of local government ethics code requirements enacted by the legislature this year.

Trial witness testifies gun was pointed at police chief

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Testimony will continue today, Friday, in the trial of Rodney Thornsberry, who is charged with one count of criminal attempt to commit murder and 11 counts of wanton endangerment regarding an altercation prior to a controversial meeting of the Wheelwright City Commission on January 23, 1993.

Thornsberry was charged after he and then acting police chief Bob Moore scuffled over control of Thornsberry's gun, and the weapon was allegedly pointed at Moore's head.

In his opening remarks at the trial Thursday, prosecutor John Mann reminded jurors that "this is a real life case, not L.A. Law."

Mann told jurors that Thornsberry was charged with criminal attempt to commit murder when "he pointed the gun at the head of Bob Moore."

The charges of wanton endangerment stemmed from the gun being waved at occupants in the room during the struggle for the gun between Moore and Thornsberry, Mann said.

"A loaded gun was pointed at them during the scuffle," Mann said. "The gun was swung back and forth. Their lives were put in danger."

A witness at the trial Thursday, Mary Ann Johnson, who has been city clerk at Wheelwright for seven years, testified that she did not see the gun swing back and forth, but that she did see the gun pointed against Mr. Moore's head when the two were wrestling with the weapon.

"It was pointed like this," she said, clasping her hands together and pointing both index fingers toward the center of her forehead.

Another witness, Donnie E. Cavins of Bevsinsville, testified that he saw the gun swing around when Moore grabbed Thornsberry's arm to try to wrench the gun from Thornsberry's hand.

"I literally ducked down and moved to the left," Cavins said. He told jurors that the gun was pointed at him "at least once" during the action.

Thornsberry and Moore scuffled over the gun, and then "they dove into the floor like into a pool," Cavins said. Cavins testified that while the Primary won't be event for everyone

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

What if they had a primary election and nobody came?

For Floyd County Republicans, that's not a question...it's a fact.

There will be no GOP races on the ballot in Floyd County for the May 24 primary, and only one race with county-wide involvement for Democrats. A three-candidate, non-partisan race for a circuit judge vacancy in Floyd County also disappeared from the May ballot line-up when one candidate, Barkley Sturgill, withdrew. That race, which will pit Prestonsburg attorney Paul Burchett against current District Judge Danny Caudill, will be decided in November.

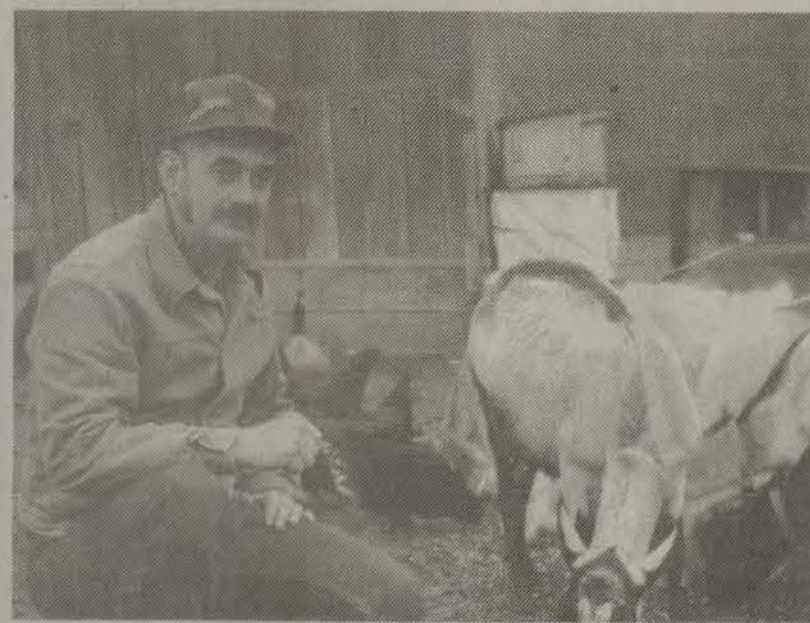

Floyd County Democrats will see limited action in a primary race for state representative. Eight precincts will help decide a four-candidate race for the 92nd state representative district, which encompasses parts of Floyd and Knott counties.

The Democratic primary for the 92nd district seat has three Knott Countians, including incumbent Russell Bentley, of Topmost, and one Floyd Countian facing off. Joining Bentley in the race are Hubert Halbert, of Langley; Donnie Newsome, of Dema; and Alonzo Combs, of Emmalena.

Floyd County voters who reside in Middle Creek/Jack Allen, Rough and Tough, Maytown, Bosco, Garrett/Rock Fork, Lackey/Wayland and Beech Grove precincts will be eligible to vote in the Democratic state representative primary.

The only race that will involve all Democratic Floyd County voters is a

A barnyard menagerie

Johnny Kilgore of Pyramid recently posed among his goats and chickens in his barnyard. The animal lover also has pigeons, ducks, geese, doves, dogs, and rabbits, just to name a few.

An animal lover's paradise :

The unusual is usual for Kilgore

by Patricia Watson
Contributing Writer

Anything you could want—if you are an animal lover! That's what you'll find at Johnny Kilgore's home at Pyramid.

"Every time I see something new, I want to try this to see how it might do," stated Kilgore when questioned about the unusual varieties among his species of animals.

He has several varieties of fowl. He has about thirty pigeons. Some of the unusual breeds are called "saddle backed" pigeons which means that they are white with either a reddishbrown shaped saddle on their backs or a black saddle covering their backs. He has both colors. In the fall, he bought a pair of white Show King pigeons which are three to four times bigger than a regular pigeon. His older son, Chris, has fan-tailed pigeons. These pigeons have tail feathers which spread about their backs to make a fan shape. He has regular pigeons, as well. Colors among the pigeons include white ones, blue (gray) ones; some are blue and white colored pigeons; and some are spotted pigeons. He has white colored, miniature Call ducks and Canadian geese and a variety of small Bantam chickens which are claimed by his two sons, Chris and Jason. One variety is a Silver-Duck Wing Bantam. The rooster is gray with a black chest and the hens are a plainer gray color. He owns the white Cornish banty, the Red-Laced Cornish, the Old English Spangle which is a deep red with little white specks in both the male and the female, the BB Red Banty, and the White Old English Banty. The Bantams are kept just for the enjoyment of having a small, "showy" chicken.

He does own laying chickens, but even their solid black bodies topped with a white crest covering their eyes makes them a distinguished exhibition. Yes, he does own common laying hens, too.

He has several tawny-colored, ring-necked doves and one pair of white doves that offer a quiet "coo." Other wild doves have been welcomed to his home. Johnny recalled an experience when his neighbor brought him two wild young doves to raise. The experience began when a spring windstorm blew so hard that it broke a branch holding a dove's nest, spilling the young offspring onto the ground. The neighbor took them to

Bench trial to determine fate of lawsuit contesting election

A date has been set for a bench trial to settle an election contest suit filed in the Wheelwright mayor's race.

The trial will be held Thursday, May 26, in Floyd Circuit Court.

The suit, filed last year by Lowell Parker, claimed there were election irregularities and election fraud in the November 2 general election.

Parker lost the Wheelwright mayoral election to David Marlee Sammons in November by just six votes.

In the suit, Parker claimed that several abuses had occurred at the Lee Hall precinct.

The alleged abuses included machine vote totals and the number of people who signed the register book did not match; and electioneering was allowed at the polling place.

Parker also claimed in the lawsuit that election officers failed to have voters sign their names on the precinct register; and that an absentee ballot was not counted.

Parker claimed the voting machine used at Precinct 26 contained five more votes than the number of voters

Rogers' staff will field concerns here

A member of Congressman Hal Rogers' staff will be in Prestonsburg next week to meet with constituents who may have problems with the federal government.

The meeting will begin at 11 a.m. on Thursday, May 12, in the city council room at Prestonsburg City Hall.

signing the precinct register.

He also said that the absentee ballot of his sister, Sharon Parker, was not counted in the final tally and that it did not appear in the precinct roster with the other absentee ballots.

Parker also claimed that "a qualified voter of Wheelwright" had been refused the right to vote in the city election.

Parker asked that a new election be held.

Sammons is not accused of any election law violations in the lawsuit.

When the lawsuit was filed, Chuck Hall, a member of the county board of elections said that it would be up to the courts to decide if a new election is held for the Wheelwright's mayor's seat.

A very special guest

The Tooth Fairy (Kathy Sampson) visited Prestonsburg Elementary yesterday where she taught students in kindergarten through third grade the basics of dental care. Her visit was as part of a school health promotion and disease prevention program of Southeast Kentucky Health Education Training Center at Hazard.

Johnny, and he did take care of them until the doves were ready to fly. At full growth, one got away as he was engaged at the cage, so he took the other out to send it off, too. Now, when he sees wild doves about his home, he feels sure that these little friends have returned.

He has peacocks. One pair is a white species and the male has just begun to get his tail feathers. The other pair is the Indian blue-colored peacock with the tints of green and indigo. One can often see a blue-green rainbow display of color as the peacock spreads his feathers.

French Lopped-Ear rabbits have a home at the Kilgore's. They got started with this species of rabbit when his younger son, Jason was given one. Johnny hunted for some time to find the bunny a mate. Now, they have six in colors of solid white, brown, smokey-blue, white with brown spots, and white with black spots. He keeps them separated to avoid their multiplication. Like any rabbit family, "They will multiply quickly!" stated Kilgore.

Barbado sheep are a new addition to the collection of animals. These brown-colored sheep do not have wool like regular sheep; instead, their outer covering is hair-like. A lamb was born in the zero degree temperature weather on the night of January 15th. The other variety of sheep he owns is the Hampshire sheep which is white colored with a black face.

The sheep get along with his Alpine Goats. He has seven full-grown goats and six baby goats which were born through the cold temperatures of January. They come in color combinations of black and white and some have a white body with either a black or grayish color beginning at the shoulders, covering the head. His four-year-old daughter Kimberly, especially, loves the baby goats. When her daddy had some recent gentlemen visitors who had gone to look at the animals, Kimberly led her goat over to them and chatted freely about her favorite animal. As they were ready to leave, she invited them to "come over to talk for awhile" longer.

In caring for his goats, he has purchased a "key-hole" feeder which keeps the goats eating without butting or fighting while they eat. It is shaped like a key being rounded at the top and more elongated at the bottom. The goat will put his head into the hole and will remain in this stance until he finishes his meal.

Other, more common, animals have a comfortable home at the Kilgore's, too. One horse has been Johnny's for twenty-five years. Many varieties of dogs bid a welcome as a visitor comes.

How does he manage to take care of all these different animals? "I usually start about 5:30 a.m., and feed the horse, sheep and goats before I go to work. It takes between thirty to forty-five minutes." In the evenings, after finishing his work day as a carpenter, he goes home to fill self-feeders for the many members of the fowl family. His job is completed only after he has emptied and cleaned water dispensers before he refills them. "When there is cold weather with ice, I have a lot more work to do," says Kilgore. In extremely cold temperatures, he has to break the ice and to give the bird families warm water to drink. A typical evening for caring for his animal friends will involve at least an hour of his time. If there are repairs to be made to a cage or it is a time for separating some of the fowl or the other animals, then he has additional time involved. In January, when the baby goats came, he was up during the night at hours of 1 a.m., and 3 a.m., to check on the mothers. "Babies need to get on their feet and have their mother's milk right away," he explained. In the cold temperatures, he was especially attentive because of dangerous threat to their life from exposure to extreme temperatures.

Why would anyone want to spend their time and invest their energy and their money in these animals? "This is just a hobby. I like animals. I've grown up with animals," he says, contentedly.

Among other places, visits to Lucasville, Ohio, are a favorite place for the Kilgore's. Every April, May, and October, a large exhibition of wild animals and domestic species are open to the public. "My kids like to go there better than the zoo," he stated. "At Lucasville, you can see the animals up close." The animals he spoke of were coyote, wolves, mink, foxes, bear cubs, lions, mountain lions, deer, llama, swans, parrots, and many, many more. "It's worth the trip just to see what's there!" He would encourage anyone who likes animals to make the trip to Lucasville.

Johnny, his wife Drema, sons, Chris and Jason, and daughter, Kimberly live at Pyramid with their extended animal family.

two men struggled on the floor, the weapon was "visible" in Thornsberry's back pocket.

Cavins testified that the weapon "looked to be a .25 automatic."

"You could almost put it literally in the palm of your hand," Cavins said.

Testimony at the trial indicated Thornsberry gained control of the gun and put it back in his pocket. He then left the building and drove away in his vehicle. Moore went to his car, but discovered his car wouldn't start.

Cavins, a member of the Southeast Volunteer Fire Department who drives a car equipped with flashing emergency lights and sirens, told Moore to hop into his car. The two then gave chase in the general direction Thornsberry had fled, Cavins said.

"We never got in sight (of Thornsberry)," Cavins testified.

In cross examining Cavins' testimony, Thornsberry's attorney, Ned Pillersdorf, questioned Cavins twice about a possible attack on Moore by Thornsberry aiming his car at Moore and hitting the police chief with his opened car door.

"I didn't see that happen," Cavins said.

Pillersdorf, in his opening statement to the jurors, compared the altercation to two trains on different tracks.

"The first train was a controversial meeting where there were hard feelings. Rodney just happened to be there," Pillersdorf said. The January meeting was planned to set a date to oust then-police chief Charles Harmon.

"The other train — why Rodney was there — didn't have anything to do with this (meeting). The other train doesn't make good news."

The other train, Pillersdorf said, is that Thornsberry was suffering from a "personality disorder with schizophrenia, a major deep depression, and he had mental problems." Thornsberry was under the care of Dr. Sowards, who is now deceased, he said, and the doctor had prescribed Prozac and valium for Thornsberry.

Thornsberry was also having problems at home, Pillersdorf said.

The evening of the meeting, which was also Thornsberry's birthday, his wife told him to leave, Pillersdorf said. "He was trying to get relief from the stress. He was losing control of himself, so he went with his friend Hubert Farmer."

Before going to the meeting, Thornsberry, who had already taken Prozac and other medication, drank alcohol — "not a substantial amount," Pillersdorf said.

During testimony at the trial, Kenneth Johnson, who was mayor of Wheelwright at the time, said Thornsberry didn't "act the way he usually does."

When Thornsberry came into the room before the meeting, he asked Johnson about a stove in the room that wasn't working properly.

"If anything happens to it tonight, I'll kill it," Johnson said Thornsberry told him.

Kenneth Johnson then asked Andy Akers to get the police chief to come to the meeting because he had earlier received a threat.

The stove had been making noises, Cavins said. A short while later, Thornsberry brandished his gun, saying "if it quits tonight, I'll kill it" and put the weapon back in his pocket, Johnson said.

Cavins said he heard the sound of "a weapon wrenched, a semi-automatic," and he left the room. He met acting police chief Moore and told Moore that he thought someone in the room had a weapon. Cavins said he pointed in the general area where he thought the man with the gun was sitting.

Moore then stood behind the man where Cavins had pointed. Thornsberry asked Moore to move to the front, prosecuting attorney Mann remarked in his opening statements. Moore refused, and Thornsberry stood up, Mann said.

When Thornsberry stood up, the gun fell onto the floor, witnesses testified. Moore and Thornsberry struggled, fighting to gain control of the gun, testimonies recorded.

Kenneth Johnson testified that both men had control of the gun all the time.

Mary Johnson said both men "wrestled against the window seal and, the next thing I knew, they were on the floor."

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul.—Voltaire

A merciful end . . .

by Scott Perry

What a week.

Every once in a while we claim the right to feel sorry for ourselves...not for the purpose of seeking sympathy, but as a twisted form of therapy.

This has been such a week.

First we get ripped up the back by a Nixon-hater for using poor grammar and poorer (worse?) deduction by (for?) suggesting it was tacky to beat a dead horse, er, president.

Then we did a number on ourselves by unnecessarily alienating a friend with an editorial comment criticizing extended-day activities at Prestonsburg High School.

It's not that we've changed our opinion about those activities, it's just that there was no pressing need to editorialize on them at all.

The county board of education had already pulled the plug on the program, so it was a moot issue.

We respect the work that PHS principal Karen Trivette has done and hopes to do at the high school, and we sincerely hope that she will forgive us our trespasses.

Beyond that, the week has been filled with an inordinate number of quirks that have the normally unflappable staff here at the Times ready to drive wooden stakes into one another's hearts.

We'll spare you the details.

Meanwhile, we're going to put this week into an early grave. Our office will close at 1 p.m. today, Friday, so that one and all may lick their wounds and kiss their stress goodbye.

See ya on the flipflop.

What others are saying

The following articles are excerpts of editorials taken from Kentucky newspapers

Brereton's little bundle

Now it's official: Brereton Jones the thoroughbred breeder will benefit financially from an awards program that Brereton Jones the governor pushed through the 1992 Kentucky General Assembly.

Mr. Jones will receive more than $16,000 under the program to foster competition among Kentucky breeders. His friend Wayne Lyster will receive nearly $23,000. Mr. Lyster is chairman of the state Racing Commission, which wrote the rules for allocating prize money.

Are we suggesting that the competition was fixed, that Gov. Jones and Mr. Lyster somehow enjoyed an unfair advantage over their fellow breeders? Not a bit. We're sure the whole business was on the up and up.

But it simply doesn't look right for a public official to benefit financially, especially while in office, from legislation he pushed.

This is another example of Gov. Jones' ethical obtuseness. Remember when he insisted, after becoming governor, on accepting contributions to retire an old campaign debt? It wasn't illegal at the time, but it wasn't right, either.

The Governor and Mr. Lyster can resolve this controversy by donating their prize money to charity. That way, they'll be recognized for their achievement as breeders without adding to their personal wealth. —The Courier Journal

Johnson County school settlement should be public

If you're a Johnson County taxpayer, you've probably got as many questions for your local school board as Converse has shoes for athletes. Questions like:

- Is $75,000 in school money really missing?

- If it is, what relationship does that have to last year's suspension of Johnson Central High School Principal Stephen Butcher?

- Why did the board decide to settle the dispute by giving Butcher $45,000 and a neutral job recommendation in exchange for his resignation?

- And why did the board want to keep this settlement secret?

On second thought, cancel that last question. It's pretty obvious why the board would want to keep that a secret. Lots of public agencies want to keep the public in the dark about actions that raise questions.

To the mind unhindered by legal training, it might seem that any settlement made by a public agency and involving public money should be a public record. And in fact, the state attorney general's office has ruled that is the case on several occasions. But public agencies around the state—including some in Lexington—continue to agree to secret settlements.

The Johnson County case knows exactly what's wrong with such secrecy and why the public should have access to the details of all settlements made with public money. At the moment, all anybody knows for sure about the situation in Johnson County is that it raises lots of questions. That's not good enough, but it may be the best that can be hoped for until the law is made more definite or a court rules that the public has a right to know what's being done with its money. —Lexington Herald-Leader

Not in my school you don't by Scripps Howard News Service

Ask any 10 Americans what they think of the public schools, and six or seven will tell you that public schools are in big trouble and need major changes to improve the quality of education.

Most will insist, however, that their own public school—the one across the street or down the block—is doing a good job and needs only a minor tuneup, if it needs anything at all.

A new survey by the American Association of School Administrators found that two-thirds of the 1,000 adults interviewed were ready to reform the nation's public schools, but only one-third were ready to reform the schools in their own neighborhoods.

Americans have a similarly ambivalent attitude toward Congress: Your lawmaker is a thief and a scoundrel. Our lawmaker, no matter how inept he or she may be, is a statesman and a scholar.

But there is something to be learned from the latest survey on public education—and it has nothing to do with money or test scores. It has to do with discipline in the classroom.

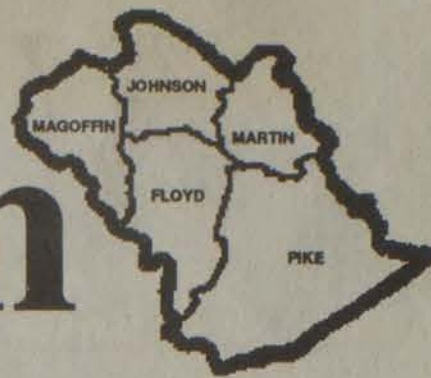

More than one adult in five blamed a lack of discipline, or a lack of values, for making public education worse than it should be. The message to teachers is that troublemakers should not be tolerated. They make life miserable for the other students.

Exactly how discipline can be bolstered in a public school where parents are quick to defend their children against even the slightest reprimand is unclear. Teachers complain about having to deal with emotionally disturbed children, but the tendency is to keep such children in regular classes, regardless of how disruptive they may be.

Admittedly, the teaching of values can be controversial. But if schools fail to promote good citizenship—honesty, hard work, respect for the law—they aren't doing their job.

The survey found that parents in small towns are more satisfied with public education than city dwellers or suburbanites. Maybe that's because small-town people tend to have closer community and family relationships and take personal pride in their public schools.

McNeeley verdict stands

Convicted murdered William "Bo" McNeeley remains in his cell at the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center after the state's highest court upheld his conviction for the January 20, 1990 murder of two-year-old Sherman Jay Newsome.

The conviction was upheld even though the high court said that former prosecutor John R. Triplett made significant errors that might have resulted in a reversal.

McNeeley, convicted and sentenced to life for the stomping death of Sherman Jay Newsome at McNeeley's Martin County residence, has maintained his innocence throughout his trial, conviction and sentence. The high court, while agreeing that Triplett, in "over-trying" the case, made errors, the evidence was overwhelming against McNeeley.

An autopsy of Newsome, who was beaten and stomped for writing in a book, found a large amount of blood in the child's abdominal cavity, the result of a one-inch tear in the liver. The autopsy also revealed separated vertebrae and concluded that Newsome was killed by a blunt force trauma from the back—consistent with Triplett's assessment.—The Mountain Citizen

Federal lawsuit dismissed against detention center

A federal judge has dismissed a lawsuit that claimed the Pike County Detention Center's negligence allowed an inmate to hang himself.

Wanda Jean Mullins sued jail officials in December 1992 over the death of her 19-year-old son, Charles Ray Baker, who hanged himself with a rope from a ceiling vent in his cell on November 25, 1991.

Mullins claimed jail employees were indifferent to her son's psychological condition and his history of suicide attempts. She was seeking $1.25 million in damages.

In a ruling filed Friday, U.S. District Judge Joseph Hood said there was no evidence that the jail's policies contributed to Baker's death. He noted that Jailer Morris "Coon" Stratton said Baker had not exhibited suicidal tendencies at the jail.

Hood pointed out that Mullins had also failed twice to file responses in the case.—Appalachian News-Express

Upcoming Mother's and Father's Days bring sad reminders for some families

Most parents look eagerly toward the upcoming holidays that honor mothers and fathers.

But for those families who have recently lost a child, Mother's Day and Father's Day are particularly difficult to handle.

In Kentucky about 400 babies die every year, including about 100 to Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, sometimes called crib death. (SIDS is the sudden and unexpected death of a seemingly healthy infant whose death remains unexplained even after an autopsy.)

Ida Lyons, R.N., coordinator of the Kentucky Department for Health Services infant grief counseling program, says holidays that emphasize families and children are especially difficult when families are grieving.

"Mother's Day and Father's Day involve warm, happy feelings about parents and their children," she said. "When a family has a child who is missing the warm feelings might get displaced by feelings of sorrow and helplessness."

"It goes without saying that families who have lost a child grieve every day—the thoughts about that loss never go away completely," she said. "But family holidays seem to intensify the hurt in a way that's hard to understand by people who have not gone through a tragedy such as these families have."

Lyons says that families can do things to help them cope with the holidays.

"Nothing will take away the hurt," she said. "But facing the issue head-on sometimes can help ease the pain."

The most important advice she gives families is very simple—do what feels right for you.

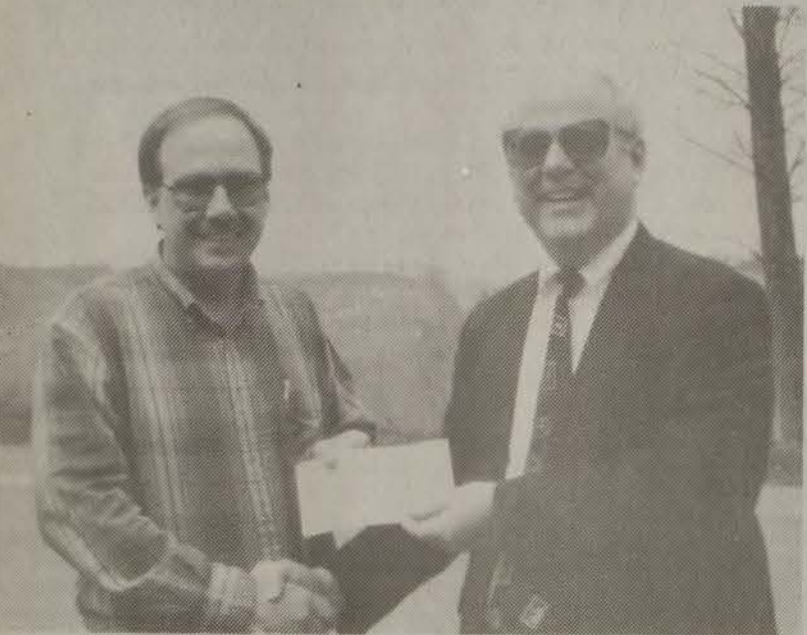

"There is no 'proper' way to celebrate Mother's Day and Father's Day—families must decide for themselves what they'll do," she said.

Lyons says some families prefer to privately remember their child. Others want to talk with friends and family members about special memories.

Family and friends can provide tremendous help to grieving parents by simply listening to what they need to say—if they choose to talk.

"Family members and friends should be especially sensitive to the fact that the father is hurting as much as the mother is," she said. "Society tends to deny fathers the same grieving process as mothers, but inside they're just as torn up and need the same type of support that mothers need."

Some families find comfort in visiting their child's grave site on special days. Others may wish to make a contribution of money, items or time to a children's organization.

Big Sandy area celebration coming up May 14

A crowd of more than 400 is expected Saturday, May 14, at Kentucky Baptist Homes for Children's 125th birthday festival to be held for the Big Sandy area on the grounds of the First Baptist Church of Pikeville.

The Big Sandy event will be the second of nine birthday festivals scheduled around the state to say "thank you" to individuals and communities for their support of Kentucky Baptist Homes for Children which was founded in 1869. The first celebration was held in Elizabethtown on April 16.

The May 14 event will be from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. at the church at Fourth Street and Scott Avenue. The public is invited.

"We're excited about the response to the event so far," said Rev. Bob Norman Sr., pastor of Grace Church of Pikeville and co-chairman of the celebration committee. "Based on the response from church groups and other friends in the community, we're anticipating a really good crowd."

The event, which has been planned by a volunteer committee with members from throughout the Big Sandy area, is designed to be a fun-filled day of food, family entertainment and children's activities.

"We'll have a big tent set up, plenty of food, and entertainment throughout the day," Norman said. "Kentucky Baptist Homes for Children is all about families and children so we wanted this event to be very much child- and family-oriented."

Norman said the formal commemoration of the 125th anniversary will be in a special program at 1:30 p.m.

Co-chairman Rev. Drew Martin, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Paintsville, said he's looking forward to the event.

"We're truly excited about this opportunity to help Kentucky Baptist Homes for Children say 'thank you' to the people of the Big Sandy area for their support of this vital ministry," Martin said. "This will be a fun day that I think people will really enjoy."

In addition to Norman and Martin, planning committee members also include Tom Westfall Sr. of Ivel; Rev. Arnold Turner of Prestonsburg; Rev. Rick Shannon of Pikeville; Rev. Carl Boyd of Pikeville; Rev. French Harmon of Allen; Rev. James Smith of Banner; Lynn Parrish of Pikeville; Glema Thompson of Pikeville; Bonnie Tackett of Lowmansville; Rev. Steve Rice of Belfry; Joan Chaffins of McDowell; Cara Hall of Prestonsburg; Judy Bishop of Pikeville; Madeline Keathley of Pikeville; Glenda Blackburn of Allen; and Tina McFarland of Prestonsburg.

Other upcoming birthday festivals for Kentucky Baptist Homes for Children include London, June 4; Middletown, June 25; Dixon, July 16; Morehead, August 6; Erlanger, September 4; Glendale, September 17; and Mayfield, October 8.

The children's ministry is affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention and annually ministers to the more than 700 children and adults statewide. It is the largest private residential child care agency in Kentucky.

Residential programs include Spring Meadows Children's Home in Middletown, Glen Dale Children's Home in Glendale, the Baptist Youth Ranch in Elizabethtown, the Dixon Temporary Shelter in Dixon, the Baptist Youth Shelter in Morehead, Genesis Home in Mayfield, and Operation Hope in Somerset.

Kentucky Baptist Homes for Children also operates the First Step Pregnancy Counseling and Adoption service, manages private foster homes, and provides independent living, college, and career services to help older youth get established in life. KBHC's Cornerstone Counseling ministry provides professional Christian counseling to individuals and families through offices in Bowling Green, Erlanger, Hopkinsville, Madisonville, Frankfort and Ashland.

Stumbo named chairman of HRMC's diabetes advisory committee

Anthony Stumbo, M.D., internal medicine specialist has been named Chairman of the Diabetes Education Advisory Committee at Highlands Regional Medical Center. The purpose of the Diabetes Advisory Committee is to provide planned, systematic and ongoing processes for monitoring, evaluating, and improving the quality of care outpatient and inpatient diabetics receive as part of an overall Diabetes Program.

As Chairman of the Committee, Dr. Stumbo will be involved in developing, recommending, reviewing, and revising policies directly related to diabetic patient care relative to the program.

The incidence of diabetes in eastern Kentucky is significantly higher than the national average, making diabetes awareness and education of major importance. Untreated diabetes can result in a number of severe disabilities and death. It is the leading cause of blindness in adults; it doubles the chance of heart disease; and it increases the chance of kidney disease in young adults. And, diabetes is one of the leading causes of hospitalization and healthcare expenses in general.

The goal of Highlands Diabetes Care Program is to offer the diabetic patient the knowledge and skills necessary to maintain optimal health, and to help reduce the costs associated with the disease.

We're So Proud of You, Docia Baldrige Woods!

Youngest child of nine in a Bonanza family,
Little Docia Baldrige knew just what she wanted to be.
So as she grew, she worked so hard to earn an education,
To realize her dream of teaching the youth of this great nation.
From award-winning rural teacher to English instructor in college,
She shared with hundreds of students her talents and great knowledge.
Then it happened that this "Caney girl" loved Carl Woods, a "Caney boy."
And later, to their well-matched union, came two pink "bundles of joy."
We, her girls, remember ballads she sang us in our youth,
And wise advise, to be true to yourself, to be loyal, and tell the truth.
Then as three precious grandbabies joined our family tree,
She loved each new addition equally and tenderly.
Helping us to be happy and useful were two of her special goals,
But, most importantly, she took us all to church, thus saving our immortal souls.
When Carl's ambition to teach in universities made it necessary to move far away,
His proud wife supported his decision, though her beloved mountains whispered "Stay!"
Through the years, folks back home could learn what the Woods' had done or seen,
By reading Docia's contributions to newspaper, book, and magazine.
Then came the day she was ready to retire from a long productive teaching career,
So, of course, she moved back to Prestonsburg, and was happy to be here.
Then leisure time was put on hold when came the opportunity,
To write for the Floyd County Times, the social news of this community.
Now recently she's decided to take that well-earned rest,
Being assured, we hope, that in each thing she's tried, she's always done her very best.
As we think of her very caring unselfish life, devoted first to God, then to family and others,
We are truly proud that we have been blessed with this queen among all mothers!

Lovingly submitted this May, 1994
by her children and grandchildren,
Judy, Susie, Jessica, Reuben, and Angel.

To the most wonderful mom in the world:
Thanks for everything you do.
You're the greatest!
Love,
Madonna Kisor

Mom, thanks for all the help and support.
Happy
Mother's Day
Love you, Nikki

Groundbreaking education bills passed into law by General Assembly

The 1994 regular session of the Kentucky General Assembly passed 55 education-related bills into law. Some of the most groundbreaking bills include:

SB 50 Prohibits a superintendent from appointing himself/herself to another position in the district at the end of his or her term; SB 133 Allows teachers to receive one year's credit for experience (not tenure or retirement) if they teach on at least 140 school days in a one-year or two-year period and teach the equivalent of 70 full days during that time; SB 206 Requires all committees established by a school council to allow participation by classified employees and parents; SB 242 Allows school districts which missed at least 10 days due to weather to extend the school day to make up five days; allows districts to decide whether or not to make up January 18-21; allows districts to request that their five worst days of attendance be deducted from their ADA calculations if they can document weather-related causes for low attendance; SB HB 50 Requires local districts to have written contracts with all classified employees and to have policies relating to terms and conditions of employment, fringe benefits, employee rights, discipline and layoff procedures; HB 68 Allows local school districts to vary the length of the school day without State Board approval provided that students receive the equivalent of six hours of daily instruction for the entire year; HB 91 Allows school council members to be removed from office by the local board in the same manner and for the same reasons as a local board member, superintendent, administrator or teacher may be removed; HB 256 Creates the Kentucky Institute for Education Research, for the purpose of conducting research on KERA, including KIRIS validity—also makes "mid-course corrections" in KERA, including non-measurement of Goals 3 and 4 and postponement of sanctions; HB 327 Allows councils to set two-year terms for members.

Become the parent you always wanted to be

Are you constantly yelling at your kids? Do your kids ignore you when you speak to them? If so, Our Lady of the Way Hospital has a parenting program for you and your children.

"Nurturing" is a parenting program that addresses the challenges many parents experience and gives suggestions on how to face those daily challenges. Held on Tuesdays, from 4:00-6:30 p.m. in the Seton Complex building in Martin, the classes are free to all interested and offers parents an opportunity to meet and discuss new parenting skills with others who are experiencing the same obstacles.

Your children will benefit from the program as well, as they are an important part of the weekly sessions with their parent/parents. Our trained childcare staff provides supervision of the children during the period when their parents share and learn new behavior methods. Children also learn new ways of sharing, communicating, and interacting with their parents and with children their own age, as well as different age groups. Through the use of videos, games, arts & crafts, and other activities, your children will learn to channel their energy and curiosity in ways that will encourage good behavior and healthy learning. The ultimate goal is teaching children how to improve their self-esteem, interact with other appropriately, and be the best person they can be.

Remember, the series is free to all expectant parents, or parents who have children between the ages of newborn to twelve years. Transportation assistance may be available upon request. Free incentive gifts may be earned thru our incentive bonus program. Refreshments will be served at each session.

The Nurturing Program began a new series in mid-April and registrations are still being accepted. Those interested should contact the Community Health Education Department at 606-285-5181, Ext. 388.

Anyone interested in becoming a childcare volunteer or parent group leader may obtain further information by calling the above number Monday thru Friday. All volunteer assistance will be greatly appreciated.

Notice to expectant parents

Are you expecting your first, second, third, etc., baby? Are you nervous about what to expect and seeking the answers and preparation you need to get you through one of the most exciting times in your life? If so, Our Lady of the Way Hospital would like to invite you to participate in one of our prepared childbirth classes. "Prepared Childbirth" means simply that you are prepared for the changes about to take place within your body, and the labor and birth of your new baby. Information that is shared in the classes include prenatal care of the mother, nutrition, changes that will occur during your pregnancy, labor and delivery, breathing and relaxation exercises, bottle/breast feeding, etc. By using prenatal text books, videos, charts, handouts, exercises and group interaction, expectant parents can feel confident and prepared for their new arrival.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital has two types of classes available to expectant women and couples—adult and teen. Our adult classes are six weeks long and meet Monday evenings from 6:30-8:30 p.m. The teen class meets every Thursday from 4:00-5:30 p.m. and are 16 weeks long. The teen class includes the same information as the adult, with additional classes covering newborn care, infant safety, baby massage, continuing education, etc.

Expectant parents may take their prepared childbirth classes at OLWH even though they may be delivering at another hospital. Women/teens participating in the prenatal program at the Floyd or Knott county health departments, may attend the classes free.

New series take place several times throughout the year and early registration is encouraged. For further information or registration contact the Community Health Education Department at 606-285-5181, Ext. 388.

Matthew Barrett honored with award

The Harrodsburg unit of the Kentucky Army National Guard has selected Specialist Matthew Barrett as its "Soldier of the Month" for April 1994.

Specialist Barrett has come through in big ways in recent months for Company B. In January, he was activated for duty as a result of the huge snow and ice storm that hit Central Kentucky and performed various duties which included transporting emergency personnel to and from work, delivering fuel and water to people with no means to acquire these themselves, and support functions at the Armory which required 20-hour shifts. As well, Specialist Barrett went to Germany along with other members of Company B and assisted permanently stationed full-time Army components with maintenance of track vehicles. As a track vehicle repairer, he repairs turbine engines and gun turrets on M1A1 tanks. In the civilian world, Specialist Barrett is employed as a mechanic by The Engine Room in Nicholasville.

A 1985 graduate of Burgin High School, Specialist Barrett lives in Burgin and is the husband of Denise Barrett as well as the son of Geoffry and Sheila Barrett of Martin. He has two daughters: Kristin, age 7 and Kayla, age 4.

Anyone interested in learning more about the opportunities offered by the Kentucky Army National Guard may call Staff Sergeant Chris Coffman at the Harrodsburg Armory at (606) 734-5364.

LET'S DANCE

Everything has changed in the past 20 years, but nothing has changed as dramatically as high school proms. My high school prom was held in the gymnasium. In a matter of hours, with the help of Kleenex and chicken wire, the basketball court would be transformed into an elegantly appointed dance emporium with a nightclub atmosphere.

The evening gown I wore was handmade, and my date wore his best Sunday suit which was the only one he owned. We didn't eat out before the prom, and we went driving around afterwards before returning home.

Thinking back, it seems innocent and boring; however, it was an exciting time for high school students. One night to dress up and dance for four hours straight accompanied by live band music. You always loosened up after the first couple of dances. That's when the girls shed their high heels as the boys ripped the ties from around their necks. By the end of the second hour the beehive hairdos were beginning to fizzle, and deodorants were failing.

My son's prom will be held at the country club. It will be decorated much like we once decorated except that the decorations can be purchased from a book, and there are no basketball goals. The dance music will be played by a disc jockey and some of the kids will dance while others will attempt to try and act as if dancing is for nerds. The only thing homemade about the evening gowns the girls wear today are the handsewn sequins.

My son has already gone to the expense of ordering a tux, flowers, and made an appointment to have pictures made. At this point, the federal deficit looks smaller. The only snag to this idyllic plan is where the couple will eat before the prom.

"I'll fix you something to eat," I offered politely. "I'll probably be fixing supper that night anyway."

"Are you kidding?" J. R. asked.

"No. What would you like?"

"We're going out to eat. We might go to Huntington."

"Fine," I said sarcastically.

"But you'll miss the prom."

"I didn't say we WERE going. It was just a thought."

"Why don't you let me fix something here for you and some friends?" Before I got the question out, I knew it was stupid by the look of disbelief on his face. "Okay. Forget it."

"How much money are you going to give me?"

"How much are you going to need?" I asked painfully.

"It all depends on where we go to eat."

Somehow we always come back to the beginning of our discussions, and we end up handing money over to him as if we were slot machines.

Although proms have changed, one thing that has changed for the better are Project Proms.

Project Prom is what happens after the prom. If you're worried about your kids and want them to have a good, fun, safe evening, Project Prom is the answer. Parent volunteers and teachers spend many hours planning, soliciting, and preparing for the after-prom party that brings in scholarship money and allows kids to vie for prizes with play money they've earned from different games. In an ironic twist, most Project Proms are held in gymnasiums. What goes around comes around—albeit just a shade different.

THE TIMES' WEEKEND

Very special folk

The handiwork of two area crafts persons will be on display at a Washington, D.C. gallery.

Hugo Sperger of Salyersville and Barbara Keeton of Paintsville will display their folk art at the Very Special Arts Gallery, an educational affiliate of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The exhibition, entitled "American Folk Art: Focus on Kentucky," will be on display until May 27.

This is the gallery's fourth annual American Folk Art show and the first to feature a particular state. The decision to honor the Bluegrass State was based on the Very Special Arts Gallery's partnership with Kentucky's Morehead State University, which features one of the country's leading American folk art collections.

"Kentucky has a rich and varied folk art tradition, and Kentucky folk artists seem to have a finger on the pulse of American folk art," said Very Special Arts Gallery Director Denise Warner. "Their creations have a broad appeal because they combine creativity, craftsmanship and homespun charm in an uniquely American way."

American Folk Art: Focus on Kentucky consists of works by nearly 40 folk artists with and without disabilities, approximately half of whom hail from Kentucky. The works include paintings, wood carvings, walking sticks, hinterglass and ceramic tiles, among other items, with special selections from the Morehead State University Folk Art Collection.

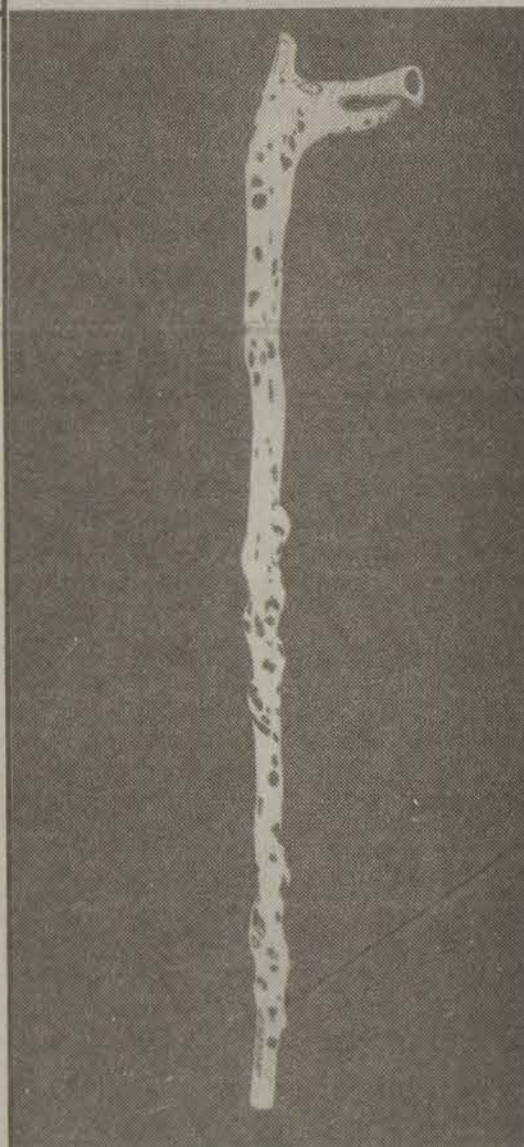

Several nationally renowned folk artists are featured in American Folk Art: Focus on Kentucky. These include Sperger, Minnie and Garland Atkins, Denzil Goodpaster and Tim Ratliff, plus Robyn Beverland of Florida, Reverend Howard Finser of Georgia, Rev. Herman Hayes of West Virginia, Woodie Long and Mose Tolliver of Alabama, Miguel Rodriguez of New Mexico and Lanell Taylor of Illinois, among others.

The Very Special Arts Gallery is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The gallery is nonprofit and primarily represents artists with disabilities. Proceeds from art sales benefit Very Special Arts' national and international programs.

Very Special Arts was founded in 1974 by Jean Kennedy Smith. The center provides opportunities in creative writing, dance, drama, literature and the visual arts for individuals with disabilities across the United States and in more than 55 countries worldwide.

News of the Weird

The New York Daily News reported in April on a cellblock fight between suspected murderers Colin Ferguson and Joel Rifkin at the Nassau County jail. Reportedly, Ferguson was using a telephone and told Rifkin to be quiet. According to the Daily News source, Ferguson told Rifkin, "I wiped out six devils [white people], and you only killed women." Rifkin allegedly responded, "Yeah, but I had more victims." Ferguson then allegedly punched Rifkin in the mouth.

— In West Palm Beach, Fla., in April, nurses rushed Marion Bernhardt, 77, out of her intensive care room at the Wellington Regional Hospital after she screamed "Good God!" because of burning sensations from her legs and abdomen. The nurses had at first assured Bernhardt that the burning was due to her recent surgery, but then they discovered that dozens of fire ants were crawling over the woman, her post-op catheter, her mattress and her sheets.

— In March, the Medical Board of California charged orthopedic surgeon Fereydoone Shirazi with improper behavior during a 1990 operation. Allegedly, when Shirazi took an 11-minute restroom break while an operation was in progress, he forgot to turn off a machine called the nucleotome, which has tiny blades to cut the insides of the patient's spinal column.

— In March a newspaper in the western Netherlands city of Alphen Aan de Rijn reported that 10 people had recently fallen victim to a denture thief. A telephone caller would persuade a denture user to leave his dentures in a bag outside his door at night to be picked up, adjusted for comfort, and returned to him the next morning. None has been returned so far.

— Hong Kong's leading newspaper reported in February that a Chinese TV crew, which had just completed shooting a documentary on the first open-heart surgery ever performed at the Weifang Medical Institute in Shangdong, would have to reshoot. Officials had belatedly realized that the open-heart patient was actually a boy who had been admitted for a tonsillectomy.

— Authorities in Hauppauge, N.Y., said in March that Scott McCraw, 37, probably committed suicide after an argument with his ex-girlfriend. McCraw's body was found, showing snake bites, alongside the frozen remains of his pet rattlesnake, and officials believe McCraw took his life by letting the snake bite him.

— In January, government investigators in Vancouver, Wash., demanded that Daryl Hahn, 37, pay back the welfare benefits given so far to a 14-year-old girl they say he fathered, but Daryl named his twin brother David as the real father. David said he had sex one time with the mother but that Daryl then developed a relationship with her by posing as David, something he said Daryl did frequently with other people. (Genetic testing would not help to determine which is the father.)

— In February, minutes before a jury would have ruled against her claim, Joyce Caudle reached a settlement of a lawsuit with the company that sold the stationary exercise bicycle on which she suffered a $200,000 injury in 1991. According to Caudle, who weighed 264 pounds at the time, the post on which the seat was mounted burst through the seat and ruptured her rectum and intestines.

CRIES FOR HELP

— Joseph Randall Davis, 33, was committed for mental treatment in August by a judge in Knoxville, Tenn., after he was charged with burglary and DUI. While in custody, Davis had insisted that he is a cat, that he be allowed to live in the woods, and that he wear gloves at all times because of his dangerous claws and also because he believes his hands will fall off unless they are protected.

— In Warren, Ohio, in January, Trumbull County Jail inmate Lisa Layne, 33, serving time for destruction of property, was separated from other inmates because of her penchant, for what she said were religious reasons, for removing her clothes and spreading feces over her body.

— Michael L. Kagan, 47, was convicted in San Francisco in February of manslaughter in the 1992 shooting death of local rock musician Philip Bury, who was the leader of Buck Naked and the Bare Bottom Boys. According to testimony, Kagan killed Bury for abusing pigeons in Golden Gate Park early one morning. Kagan had been spending over $1,000 a Mother's Day is Sunday and that means most area fire departments will have extra personnel on duty to handle the extra calls from dad's and children who feel compelled to set their kitchens on fire to celebrate the holiday.

Poperri

Mother is a word derived from the Latin word mater which, as we all know, is a red fruit we slice up to put on hamburgers and smash up to make ketchup.

In America, we call our mothers "mom" which, when viewed upside down, spells "wow."

That's a pretty good word to use to describe most moms.

After all they go through to become moms, they deserve a good "wow" every now and again.

Most would just as soon get flowers, though, or, better yet, a day off.

Moms are the most underrated, underpaid people we know.

They do things nobody but a mom would do and most of them do it for nothing.

They are, for example, the sworn enemies of dirt and unfinished homework, both of which could cause their children irreparable harm.

Of course, where homework is left undone, the irreparable harm is usually inflicted by the mom herself.

Mothers almost always know best when it comes to deciding what's best for their children.

They know, for example, that talking on the telephone too long can leave a teen-ager at risk of strangulation (particularly, as noted before, if there's schoolwork to do).

The most amazing thing about moms, though, is they all have psychic powers...especially when one of their children have done something they ought not to have done.

They have this built-in guilt-radar, which sounds an alarm anytime a child goes wrong.

We could jaywalk in Australia and our mom would know about it before we got all the way across the street.

Guess that's why moms are special and why we set a special day aside every year to honor them.

Happy Mother's Day to ours and all.

We shape our dwellings, and afterwards our dwellings shape us.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You will be excited about this week's business ideas and developments. However, you may not be on the right track regarding a certain business decision. Social life is problematic this weekend, so it's best to stick close to home.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It's not a great week for career interests but you will be pleased about this week's relationship developments. Advice you receive about a financial matter may be faulty. Consult an expert instead.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) It's an excellent period for business talks and beginning new job endeavors. You are right on track now and are both wise in your thinking and charming in expression. Some will be mixing business and pleasure to great advantage.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You seem to work better on your own than in partnership this week. If you want things done, it's best not to rely on the cooperation of others. It's a fun-filled weekend for you.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You feel better now concerning a matter from the past. Job developments are also positive this week. Though sports and exercise will bring you joy now, you must be careful not to overdo. A decorating idea you have this weekend is great.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Try not to dwell on a problem at work. This matter will soon take care of itself and you'll wonder why you were so concerned. Getting things in order around the house will be a priority this weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Though some unexpected expenses may arise, new financial opportunities will open up for you this week. A relative may not understand your point of view at this time, so don't push it. Exercise the patience you're noted for.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A family matter may have you concerned, but overall, this is a wonderful week for promoting yourself and your ideas. You will feel that you are in charge of your life. You will need to exercise good judgment if shopping this weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You may receive a beneficial financial tip this week. Be cautious, though, if something sounds too good to be true. Tying up loose ends will be a main priority now. To that end, privacy helps you accomplish your tasks.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A financial concern needn't keep you from having a productive week. Brooding won't accomplish anything but positive action will. A do-it-yourself project may be more difficult than you had anticipated. Hire a professional.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You are ready now to put new career plans into motion. To that end, don't sell yourself short because you are definitely on the right track. Avoid the temptation to drop everything for a pleasure trip. You need to concentrate on serious matters.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Crossed signals are likely where business is concerned but your artistic sensibility is at a high now. Take advantage of this and indulge in a creative project you're been wanting to tackle for some time.

month feeding pigeons and had threatened several times to shoot people and dogs who bother the pigeons. — Oklahoma District Judge Melinda Monnet, 33, was accused recently by the state's supreme court chief justice of mental incompetence based on a series of incidents and faces a trial in June to oust her from her job. Among the charges: After divorcing her first husband, she allowed him to adopt her two months later. A classmate from law school said Monnet was "weird even back then."

THE WEIRDO-AMERICAN COMMUNITY

In St. Paul, Minn., in October, a search of Max Weisberg's home turned up much evidence that police characterized as bookmaking-related, but authorities did not file charges because of the possibility that Weisberg is mentally incompetent. According to court records from his previous bookmaking arrests, Weisberg has an IQ of 80 but is a savant with numbers. A local pool hall owner testified that Weisberg is "probably the greatest gambling mind in the world." Weisberg's attorney Ron Meshbesher said that one "can't get it through [Weisberg's] head that [bookmaking] is wrong."

Betsy Layne, Allen Central in FCA track and field meet

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Three schools will be represented in this year's Fellowship of Christian Athletes Track and Field Meet at Shelby County High School tomorrow (Saturday).

Allen Central will be making their fourth trip to the event and coach Dewey Jamerson prefers the invitational and the advantages it offers his kids.

"I think the main thing about this meet, as every year, is the good quality meet that it is," he said. "It provides good competition for your team. We compete against other schools in our class. Class 2A will compete against 2A.

"The top six finishers each receive a FCA New Testament. That's why we try each year to get down there. We want to get the New Testament in the hands of the kids."

Jamerson said that the meet has provided "tons of New Testaments" for his kids who share them with those who do not win one.

"Someone from the past three years will have several," he said. "If someone doesn't win one, somebody may walk up and give them theirs, saying, 'I have one from last year.'"

Jamerson said that he enjoys the meet which is held in Shelby County, but being a little closer to home would be nice.

"Naturally, we would like for it to be closer to home," he said, "but when a school like Providence has to come from Western Kentucky, we don't really have that far to go."

Allen Central dominates EKMC meet at Jenkins

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The rains fell all day Tuesday and as the evening wore on, the temperature began to fall, creating anything but ideal conditions for the EKMC track and field meet at Jenkins.

The problem of getting buses in Floyd County for transporting athletes put the Allen Central squad a little late in arriving for the event they have won the past two years.

Allen Central made it three straight as they amassed 169 points to take first place and the winner's trophy.

It was Kevin Stumbo who was the show for the Rebels. He won three events individually and ran as a member of the winning relay team to be named the EKMC's Most Valuable Player.

Stumbo, who got a late start in the track and field program at Allen Central, has been a very strong contender since working his way back into shape.

"If I can every get back in shape," he said early in the season, "I feel that I can have a good year."

It has been an outstanding season for the junior "everything." Stumbo won the men's long jump over teammate Chris Halbert when he was measured one inch farther, 18 feet 7 inches, to Halbert's 18 feet 6 inches. Kenneth Bradley placed fourth in the event.

Stumbo went from the long jump to the triple jump and posted a first place finish for Allen Central. Despite the weather, Stumbo had a leap of 35 feet 5 inches for first place.

"He has done better," said his coach Dewey Jamerson. "But it was just that type of day. It was wet and cold."

Bradley took third place and Gary Webb finished fourth in the triple jump.

Stumbo went from the field events to the track and took first place over another teammate, Josh Patton. Stumbo had a time of 2:25.54 in winning the men's 800-meter run. Patton finished second at 2:33.67.

The event decided who was to be the conference's MVP. Patton and Stumbo were running neck and neck for the honor and the 800-meters was the deciding event.

"Kevin pushed toward the end," said Coach Jamerson. "Josh sort of pulled back some after he saw that he couldn't catch him. He wanted to save himself for the 1600 meters."

John Goble had a time of 3:45.19 to finish third in the men's 800-meters.

Patton was the top runner in the mile run with a time of 5:46.00 for first place. Shawn Amburgey took second at 5:55.00 and Todd Howard was fourth with a time of 5:59.00.

In the discus, Allen Central placed one, two, three with Shawn Robinson finishing first with his throw of 128 feet 11 inches. Levi Wells, whom Coach Jamerson says much depends on in the regional, placed second with a throw of 110 feet. Chris Bailey was third at 107 feet 2 inches.

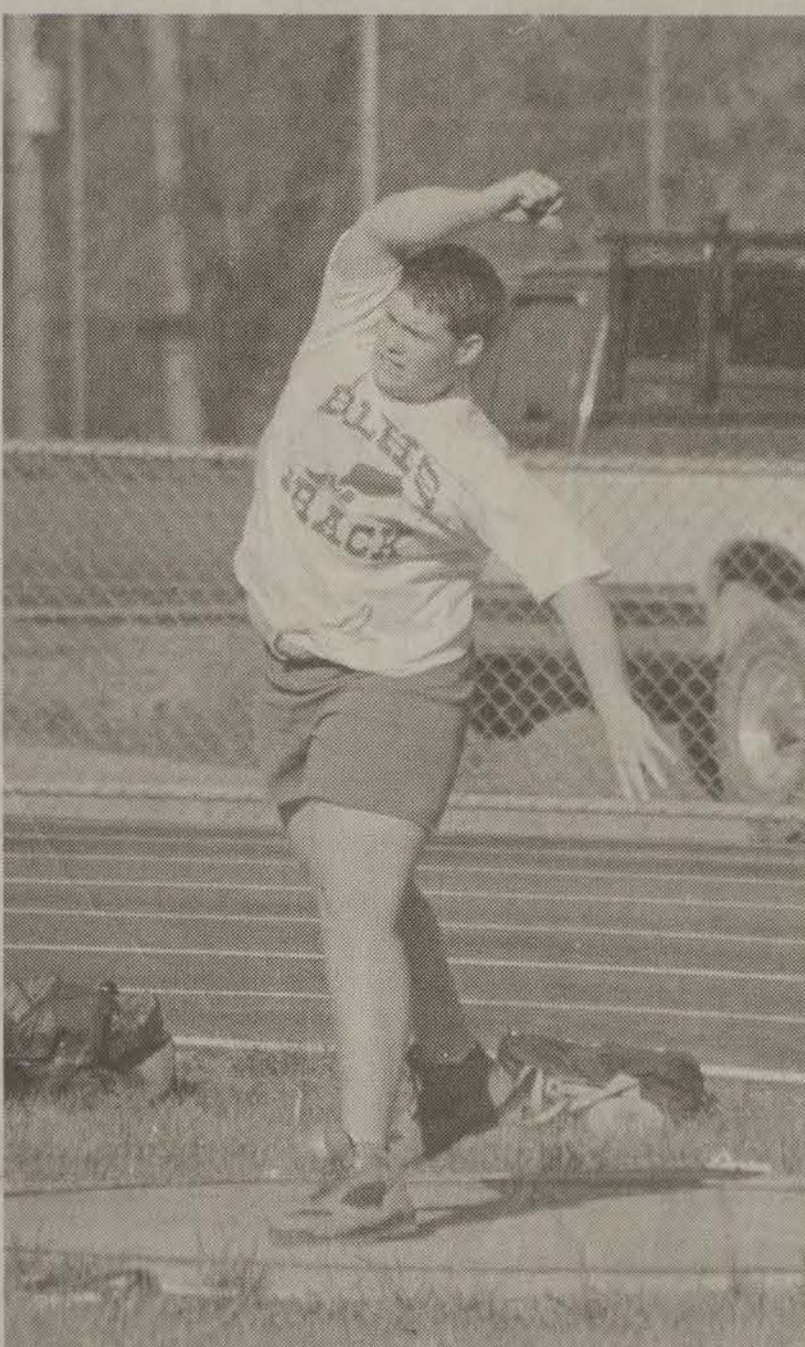

"It just wasn't a good day to throw," said Jamerson. "Shawn had done better. Levi has come along in this event. He needs to stay there (distance-wise) to help us in the regionals."

Robinson took second place in the shot put to South Floyd's Bo Rogers when his throw was measured at 38 feet. Wells was third at 37 feet 5 inches and Ronnie Samons placed fourth with a throw of 35 feet 8 inches.

South Floyd's Kevin Stone took first place in the men's high jump, edging out Allen Central's Chris Halbert. Jeff Potter of Allen Central placed fourth. Gary Webb cleared the bar at 4 feet 10 inches, but did not place.

In the men's 110 hurdles, Estill Stumbo placed first and Nick Halbert came in second for the Rebels.

Combs places first in discus; Hamilton wins long jump

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Betsy Layne track and field coach John Derosssett is looking to get his star sprinter, Nikki Reed, some exposure state wide this track and field season and will journey to Shelby County this weekend to do it.

But last Thursday at Pikeville, the Betsy Layne squad was impressive. The team took home several first-place finishes.

Brandon "Bubba" Combs placed first in the discus, while Rocky Hamilton won the long jump event.

Combs was first in the discus with his throw of 104 feet 2 inches. Combs is much improved from the start of the season.

In the long jump, Hamilton (no distance available) took first place to help the Bobcats by scoring 10 points. Another Hamilton, Craig, took first place in the men's difficult triple jump.

Reid has been outstanding all season for Betsy Layne and is considered the region's top female sprinter.

Reid won the women's 100, 200 and 400-meter dash. Reid posted a time of 13:54 in the 100 and ran a 27:06 in the 200 meters. She took first place in the 400 with a time of 1:07.05.

"We're going to travel to Shelby County this weekend," said Derosssett, "for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) Meet. We want to expose Nikki to some better competition."

Girls LL softball comes to area

A Little League softball league has been a long-time dream of Prestonsburg head softball coach Bridget Clay and now, this season, it will become a reality.

The new Little League Softball League (ages 9-12) will get its first season underway next week. Four teams will comprise the first-ever league.

"I'm real excited about it," said Clay. "It has been a dream of mine for a long time to get a league like this started."

Clay said the idea for such a league in Floyd County came after talking with Bill Baird from Pikeville.

"They had started such a league and I ask him how would I go about getting one started," explained Clay. "He told me to contact the Little League Association in (Williamsport) Pennsylvania."

A charter was secured for the area and Clay went to work in organizing the league, handpicking the coaches and registering players.

"We will have four teams. We had 49 to register and I picked those that I wanted to see coach," she said. "This is going to be a good opportunity for the younger girls. It will give them an opportunity to continue to play when they get in high school. And today, they can get scholarships in college."

Clay knows two former players from last season's championship team playing on scholarship for Pikeville College and being very successful.

Clay said that four teams are not going to be the limit and she has plans to expand the league.

"We hope to expand it next season. We want to include the younger girls (minor league, 6-8) and even include the 13, 14 and 15-year-olds with their league."

All games will be played at Archer Park on Wednesdays and Fridays. The league will have an All-Star team after the regular season that will run for six weeks. The All-Stars will compete against teams from Pikeville, as well as from Paintsville. No state tournament appearance is in this year's plans for the new league.

"I talked to Ralph Little (Archer Park Director) and he mentioned being sanctioned by the state," said Clay. "But I don't think we want to the first year. Ralph has been a big help in helping with all this."

Clay will run the league as its director, although the league will fall under the Prestonsburg Little League charter of which Steve Stephens is president.

A Look At Sports

by Ed Taylor, Sports Editor

WHAT FUTURE IS THERE FOR THE RIFLES?

In 1993, a joint effort was put forth by the cities of Paintsville and Pikeville to bring a professional (?) baseball team back to the mountains of Eastern Kentucky.

The Kentucky Rifles became the third such ballclub to try to make it in this area. They will be starting their second season after a rather stormy start last year.

It was stormy because of problems that arose in the front office. Things deteriorated so badly that manager Roy Cutwright and his staff resigned before the season ended. Former major leaguer Johnnie Lemaster took over the helm the rest of the way.

Last year is history. This is a new beginning for the Rifles and they will kickoff the season with their first three games on the road at Portsmouth, Ohio.

Unlike last year, the Rifles will concentrate on playing their games at one location rather than split the home games between two cities.

Pikeville's W.C. Hambley Athletic Complex will be the home of the Rifles this season since Paintsville was dropped after poor attendance last season.

Another change is that the Rifles have a new General Manager in a person referred to only as Whitebeard.

The Rifles have already re-signed five players from last year's team that won the first half of the season and it promises to be another good year for the local club.

The Rifles will play in the South Division with Portsmouth, Chillicothe and Lancaster. The season will once again be split into two halves and an All-Star game played at Newark, Ohio, on July 25.

I attended two Rifles games last year at Pikeville (and I wish I could have attended more) and found the games entertaining and very competitive. I hope to cover more this season and I, for one, hope the franchise makes it big because it does give exposure to players who one day may make it to the pros.

Jamie Stash, one of the five who have resigned with the Rifles, is a solid ball player and has an excellent shot at the majors.

Promotion is going to be the biggest task of Whitebeard and his staff. Selling the Rifles to the surrounding communities. Making fans think of the Rifles as their team. Getting fans to get behind the program and make it go.

Already, I have received more faxes from the front office than I did all last season. I think the new regime will do their best to make it a successful season. I'm looking forward to it.

As of yet, a Rifles manager hasn't been named. No names have been released as candidates. But, according to Whitebeard, the announcement will be shortly coming.

This will be a big test for the Rifles as to their existence in the future. I think they will be good for the area and fans from the region should get behind the team and support them.

I would like to see the league allow more local players to play. Fans would be more inclined to get behind the teams.

Season tickets are on sale now at the team's office. For information on tickets and other information, call 1-606-432-HITS.

WHILE ON THE SUBJECT...

The Paintsville Big League will open their seventh season in June (10th) and it looks to be another banner season for Paul David Brown and Johnnie Lemaster.

I have tried to trek with this team as much as possible during the regular season, and especially in the state tournament. I have gotten to know the players and both coaches.

These two individuals know what it takes to run a quality program and there is no foolishness with them. You can tell that the players know that they are there to play baseball and win state championships.

Coaches Brown and Lemaster are quality individuals in their own right. They genuinely care for their players and the feeling is mutual. The players have the highest respect for the two and they know that whatever decision each coach makes, it's for their own good.

Big League baseball is quality baseball. It affords high school players from our region a chance to be showcased before numerous college coaches during the course of the regular season and at tournament time. Often scholarship offers are pursued. Even some pro scouts take a look-see.

NEW GIRLS SOFTBALL LEAGUE...

Prestonsburg High School girls' softball coach Bridget Clay has excited parents of young girls about the new softball league (Little League age) that will start this season.

It is a program that is long over due in our county. Girls high school softball is becoming more popular each year and what better time to start playing than at an early age.

I enjoy attending the games when I can. They are exciting to watch. The girls seem to play so hard and want to win, more so than in baseball.

Bridget is wanting to improve the quality of play and the new league will certainly be a big plus on that side.

SCHEDULES NEEDED...

All league directors, don't forget to send us a copy of your games this season. If at all possible, include a roster of each team in your league. We appreciate it!

All Pee Wee Leagues, be sure to send us your schedule, also.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Take your youngsters to church this Sunday.

Pelphrey basketball camp June 13-17

"Just play hard."
Those are words that best describes the attitude of former University of Kentucky standout John Pelphrey. The three words are also the theme for his basketball camp this summer that gets underway June 13 and runs through June 17.

The camp will be divided between Paintsville High School and Paintsville Elementary.

Pelphrey will join Marshall University first-year coach Billy Donovan as an assistant this coming fall. Pelphrey was an assistant under coach Eddie Sutton at Oklahoma State this past season. Pelphrey played professionally in Spain and France during the 1992-93 season before becoming as Sutton's assistant. Joining Pelphrey at the camp will be three other former UK players from the "Unforgettables." Richie Farmer (career 83 percent free throw shooter), Sean Woods (third all-time assist leader at UK) and Deron Feldhaus (UK's 26th all-time leading scorer) will be part of the coaching staff.

Keith Adkins (second in nation in free throw percentage, 91.8), who starred at Paintsville High School, will also be on hand. Pelphrey's brother, Jerry (three time Southern Conference champion), a standout with East Tennessee State University, will be part of the camp staff. Locally, Paintsville High School coach Bill Mike Runyon, along with former Tiger Chris Lyon, will be part of Pelphrey's staff.

Youngsters from the ages of seven to 18 years old are eligible to participate in the camp. All campers will be treated equally.

Campers should arrive no later than 8 a.m. and can be picked up at noon. Each camper should be dressed in shorts, t-shirts, socks and basketball shoes. All campers are fully insured. However, each camper must have a physical by a family physician. Certification of this check-up must be provided prior to the start of camp.

"The one thing you must always do when you are competing in athletics or anything else, is to believe that you are just as good as the next guy," said Pelphrey. "Just play hard." Cost for the camp is $75 per camper. For two children from the same family, the cost is $130.

Stumbo ran the hurdles in 18:18 and Halbert was close 18:53.

Stumbo captured the 300 hurdles with a time of 46:86 and Halbert took second at 49:11.

Jason Samons and Trevor Fitch placed one and two in the men's 100-meter dash. Sammons had a winning time of 12:48 and Fitch finished at 13:10.

The two runners finished in a dead tie for first place in the 200-meter dash with a time of 34:88.

Mike Elzokari was the top runner in the men's 400-meter dash. Elzokari took first place with a time of 1:02.79. Chris Halbert placed second at 1:14.69.

In the relays, the foursome of Elzokari, Todd Howard, Josh Patton and Kevin Stumbo took first place in the men's 3200-meter relays. The team posted a time of 10:02 in winning the event.

Trevor Fitch, Nick Halbert, Jason Sammons and Estill Stumbo won the men's 400-meter relays with their time of 51:30.

It was grade school night for the Allen Central 1600-meter relay team. John Goble, Chris Halbert, Jackie Owens and Curtis Webb ran the mile relays and placed first with a time of 5:05.

"I felt that we would win it," said Jamerson. "I wanted to let them run so they could win a trophy at the banquet."

The Allen Central girls got to compete in the field events only as the expected confrontation between them and South Floyd was rained out.

Nikki Queen won the women's long jump and Nicole Clark placed third. Yates took fourth place.

Melissa Mullins finished second behind South Floyd's Tiffany Compton in the women's shot put. Jenny Wells took third place and Jennifer Patton was fourth.

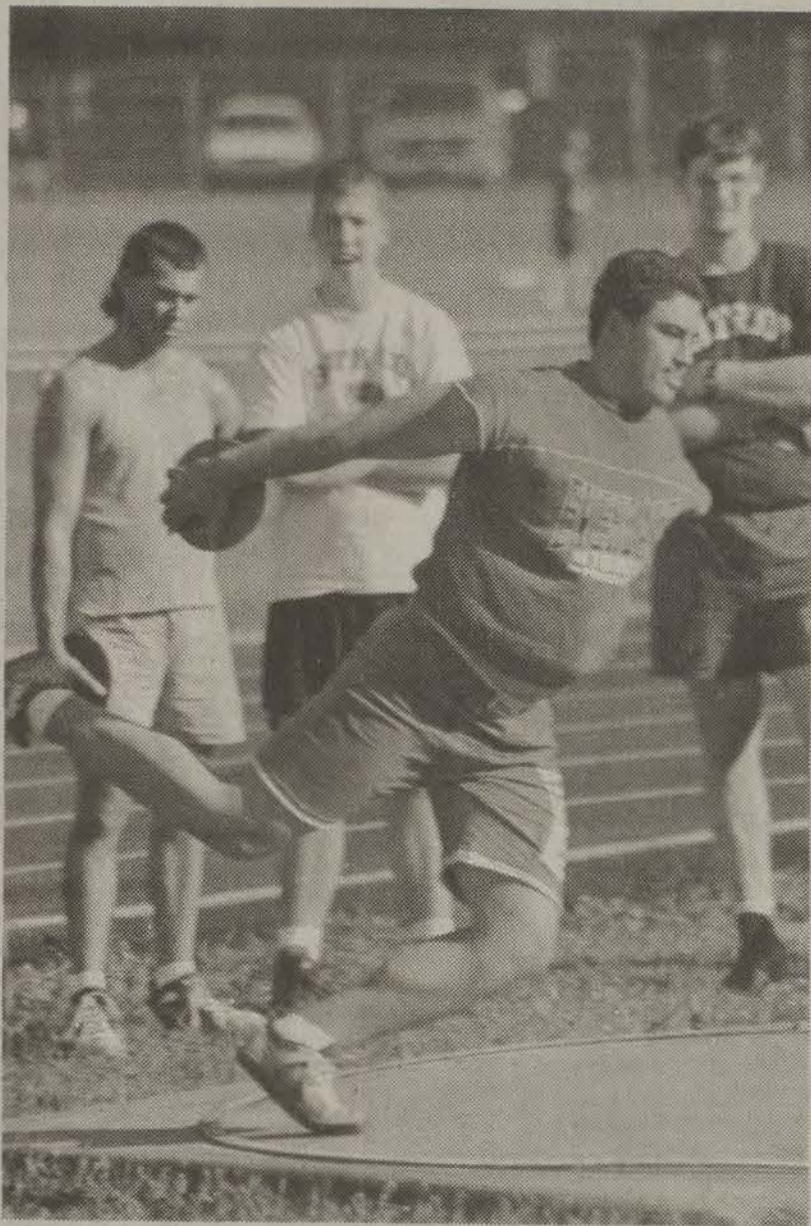

Mullins also had to take second place to another South Floyd participant when Lori Tackett won the women's discus. But Mullins was impressive in her second place finish. She had three tosses over 80 feet, which is a school record. Patton finished fourth and Wells fifth in the discus.

Queen also brought home a first place finish in the women's 100-meter dash. Yates took third place.

Annie Harvey finished second and Crystal Martin third in the 1600-meter run. Mary Baldrige came in fourth. "Our times were terrible for the meet," said Jamerson, "but it was just cold and wet. Late in the evening you could see your breath in front of you."

"But the kids were there and we went at it anyway. They were ready," he said.

Allen Central will head up I-64 to Shelby County High School for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes Meet this Saturday.

Despite the rains, South Floyd captures three first places

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

South Floyd girls track and field coach Keith Smallwood felt the rain drops on his head and knew that it wasn't a good time for the EKMC meet to be held.

However, the field events went on and the Lady Raiders came away with three of the four events.

"It just wasn't a good day for this," said Smallwood. "It was miserable. Nothing good could come out of a meet like that."

Lori Tackett continued her dominance of the women's discus with a first place finish. Tackett had a throw of 89 feet 10 inches, but that was off her normal effort.

"Lori was about seven feet short of what she usually throws," said Coach Smallwood. "That's how the weather affected her toss."

Why, then, compete in the rainy weather!

"We don't have anywhere to practice our field events," said Smallwood.

"So, we were there and the events were held first. We thought we would let them compete while they were there."

Tiffany Compton won first place in the women's shot put with her toss of 26 feet 11 inches. She, too, was five feet short of her norm.

"Tiffany has thrown over 30 feet before," said Smallwood, "and again it was because of the weather."

The third first place finish for South Floyd was in the women's high jump where Krystal Isaac cleared the bar at 4 feet 2 inches, well below what she has done in the past. Second place went to South Floyd's Melissa Tackett at 4 feet.

Carrie Miller placed fourth in the women's long jump.

Smallwood refused to allow his track runners to compete, figuring safety comes first.

"The safety of the kids was more important," he said. "I just told my kids to load back on the bus. We were looking forward to competing in the EKMC meet, but when puddles of water are around your ankles, you just don't do it."

Kevin Stone took first place for the South Floyd men in the high jump. Stone cleared the bar at 5 feet 6 inches. Stone finished third in the men's triple jump with a jump of 34 feet 6 inches.

Bo Rogers was the top thrower in the men's shot put with a toss of 39 feet 8 inches for first place.

Brian Triplett placed third in the men's long jump.

Raider note:

The girls track and field team will hold a car wash and bake sale this Saturday at Osborne Elementary.

The meet begins at 9 a.m. and it will be an early rise for all the athletes.

"We expect to leave around 4:30 a.m.," said Jamerson. "We'll get there around 8:30 a.m."

"The FCA meet will always be one of the invitational meets that I will always go to," said Jamerson. "It's in the best location state wide."

Betsy Layne coach John Derossett is looking for something a little different. He hopes to use the meet, which includes teams from all over Kentucky, as a chance to showcase the talent of Nikki Reid, his outstanding sprinter.

Coach Derossett is looking for better competition for Reid, who has dominated local meets.

Prestonsburg, although not taking their full team, will be represented by Stewart Robertson in the FCA meet.

Robertson is a strong competitor and a strong distance runner.

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

One of Kentucky's most popular summer basketball camps will be held at Alice Lloyd College this summer when Jim Stepp and Joe Stepp hold their 1994 Stepp Brothers Basketball Camp beginning Monday, June 20.

Word around is that the camp is expected to fill fast and those interested should be quick to register.

"We will be hosting two weeks of boys' and one week of girls' camp this summer," said Coach Jim Stepp of the Eagles. "We expect the camps to reach capacity, so it will be wise for anyone interested to sign up soon."

The Stepp Brothers Camp is designed to teach the fundamentals of the game while allowing campers to play in a full schedule of league competition.

Swimming, films, individual instruction and a variety of skills competitions highlight the camp.

All instructors have college basketball experience.

Cost for the camp is $90 for the week and includes daily hot lunches, juice breaks, trophies and camp T-shirts.

Camp for girls in grades 4 through 12 is scheduled for June 20-24; for boys in grades 2 through 9, June 27 through July 1; for boys in grades 4 through 12, July 4 through July 8.

For more information, contact Joe Stepp at 368-2101 or 368-2152 or Jim Stepp at 368-2392.

Allen Central falls despite 31 points by Mayo

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Swishing through double and, at times, triple teaming, Matthew Mayo did some swishing of his own as he buried six three-point baskets and scored a game-high 31 points in the State AAU Tournament in Frankfort this past weekend.

Despite the 31-point effort by Mayo, the Allen Central AAU team fell to Franklin County, 74-48.

Brian Jones and Larry Mullins had nine points each for the local team. Jesse Hall added four and Josh Hall scored two.

"They just beat us to death on the boards," said AAU coach Johnny Mayo. "We did have our big man and we couldn't rebound with them."

Franklin County led 21-16 after the first quarter and held a 45-29 lead going to the locker room at the half. It was in third period that Allen Central was blitzed as Franklin County outscored them 25-13.

A. Moore led Franklin with 29 points. B. Adams tossed in 17.

Jones hit one three-point basket for Allen Central while Mullins connected on two treys.

Laferty collects four hits in 14-5 win over South Floyd

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats (10-7) collected 14 hits en route to a 14-5 win over the South Floyd Lady Raiders Monday at the Minnie Park. Deanna Laferty had four of the 14 hits for the Lady Blackcats and she scored two runs.

Prestonsburg held the Lady Raiders scoreless over the final three innings after South Floyd had made it a one-run game, 5-4, with four in the fourth inning.

Jennifer Miller had three hits for Prestonsburg with Jamie Clay, Jamie Ratcliff and Clark collecting three hits apiece.

Carolyn Jones picked up the win for the Lady Blackcats as she allowed South Floyd only three hits in the game.

Prestonsburg scored twice in the first inning for a 2-0 lead. Clay and Ratcliff had back-to-back singles to begin the game. Miller was safe on a one-out error with Clay scoring. Ratcliff came to score when Jennifer Greathouse's ground ball to short was misplayed.

The Lady Blackcats plated a single run in the second for a 3-0 game. Clark scored, after leading the inning off with a base hit.

South Floyd put a runner on base in the second, but could not score. Prestonsburg made it a 5-0 game with two in the third on an error off the bat of Ratcliff, and Laferty's base hit, which scored Ratcliff. Laferty scored on a Greathouse RBI single.

South Floyd closed to within one, 5-4, with four in the bottom of the fourth. Christy Tackett collected a one-out single and, with two out, Reynolds singled, scoring Tackett. Then Candia Tackett walked. Pajel hit a ground ball to short that eluded the shortstop and two runs scored on the miscue. Pajel later scored the fourth run.

"Steve and Ralph, along with Don and Kay Willis, have been a big help to me in getting it started," Clay said.

The bases will be 60 feet in distance with the pitchers mound 40 feet.

Mike Howard will coach the Pirates while Virginia Blevins will take the helm of the Reds. The Tigers will be coached by Harry Conn, and Tony Conn will lead the Yankees.

"It is something that I have been wanting to do for the past two years, and now we're going to do it," said Clay.

But that would be all the Lady Raiders could put on the scoreboard as they stranded two runners in the fifth and two in the sixth.

Prestonsburg added three runs in the fifth inning for a 8-4 game on three hits and an error. Laferty had her second hit while Clark and Miller singled.

Two runs crossed home plate in the sixth for the Lady Blackcats as Hyden walked and Ratcliff walked with one out. Laferty and Miller collected consecutive singles to score Hyden and Ratcliff.

The Lady Blackcats scored their final four runs in the top of the seventh when they sent 10 batters to the plate. Clark and Hyden drew walks and Clay tripled both runners home. Clay scored when Ratcliff lined a double to left center. Laferty scored Ratcliff with her fourth hit of the game.

Prestonsburg will play Allen Central Monday in a conference match up. No schedule has been received of South Floyd games.

"Does your beard itch?"

Jerome Greathouse (left) and Dale Conn conversed between innings of a recent game they called at Pikeville. The two Floyd Countians are two of the top umpires who have been calling high school baseball this season. Greathouse will probably work the Prestonsburg/Sheldon Clark game this evening at Archer Park. Conn also officiates basketball and football. (photo by Ed Taylor)

SETH HYDEN will bat leadoff for the Prestonsburg Blackcats when they host the Sheldon Clark Cardinals tonight in high school baseball at Archer Park.

Shepherd fields youngest team ever at PHS

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Prestonsburg head baseball coach Russell Shepherd is still scratching his head in wonderment over the way his 1994 baseball team has performed.

There are several reasons for the slow start of the Blackcats this season. One was no field to practice or to play on early in the season.

The Blackcats play their home games at Archer Park, which could have been more appropriately named Flood Stadium this spring. The park has been flooded several times this season and the Blackcats had no other field to practice on.

Prestonsburg had to start the season on the road against South Floyd and used this experience as a time of learning.

That's one reason for the slow start.

The other is the youth that make up this year's team.

"This is the youngest team that I have ever started a season with," said Shepherd, before the season unfolded. Freshmen dot the Prestonsburg roster and there is not a mixture of veteran players to carry the team.

The ace of the pitching staff will be junior right-hander Thomas Ratliff. Ratliff is a hard thrower who rarely throws too much off speed stuff.

Ratliff, if he is getting the ball over, is tough to beat. His tailing fastball makes the hitters think twice about digging in too much at the plate.

Sophomore Jason Hackworth is a hard thrower and is the opposite of Ratliff in that eight of ten of his pitches will be off speed stuff. Known as a "junk pitcher," Hackworth seems to be strong in the first four innings and then seems to tire easily.

Pitching has always been one of the strong suits of the Blackcats, but this year it is not. Bennett Allen gives Coach Shepherd a third starter, but one who has little experience.

From the power side of the plate, Seth Hyden, along with Ratliff, can reach the fences. Ratliff just seems to rip the baseball and can hit with power to each side of the field.

Hyden at third base is nothing but a body of speed. He leads for the Blackcats and handles the bat very well.

Ratliff, at first base when not pitching, is an excellent defensive player. Second base is handled by either Robbie Risner or Jason Spencer. Both are very capable glove men and Risner makes excellent contact. He will also be used as the designated hitter.

Risner will split his time between short and second base, depending on who is on the mound.

Ricky Lemaster handles the catching duties for Prestonsburg and he has as strong an arm that you will find in the region. Lemaster can power the ball and is a spray type hitter.

Senior Cory Reitz leads the outfield and he will play the middle of the outfield in center.

Jason Burke holds the right field spot and does it with the best. An excellent fielder, Burke is one that the opposition wants to keep off the base paths. Gets a good jump on the opposing pitcher.

Game time for Sheldon Clark and Prestonsburg is scheduled for 5 p.m. at Archer Park. This will be the second meeting between the two teams. The two teams will play only a single

Betsy Layne off to 15-4 start as Shelby Valley calls

by Ed Taylor
 Sports Editor

Coach Cassandra Akers' Betsy Layne Lady Cats softball squad are off to their best start ever since the program was started three years ago by now-Prestonsburg principal, Karen Trivette.

This is not a veteran team since there are only three seniors who grace the Lady Cats' roster. Youth and a bright future makes up this year's squad and Coach Akers likes the chemistry of this team.

"They play hard and we can hit the ball," she said earlier in the season. "We have a good outfield that can catch the ball."

Tonight, the Betsy Layne Lady Cats will put their 15-4 record on the line when the Shelby Valley Wildcats come calling tonight on "the hill."

Betsy Layne won their first 11 games of the season with some timely hitting. As of late, the Lady Cats have dropped three of their last four games, losing a doubleheader to Magoffin County.

Shanna Clark has played hardball on a boys Babe Ruth team the last two seasons and is one of the leading hitters for Betsy Layne.

A power hitter, Clark has four round trippers and is devastating at the plate. Misty Clark gives the Lady Cats a strong one-two punch. Misty is an excellent contact hitter. She can play long ball or drive the ball to different parts of the outfield.

Ashley Bartley adds fuel to the Lady Cats' offense by swinging a strong bat. A good defensive player.

Two freshmen, Jessica Johnson and Ashley Tackett, make this lineup more explosive. Tackett is a strong fifth place hitter who forces the opposition to pitch to Clark.

A high on base percentage, Tackett will hit the long ball or will be a line drive hitter.

Johnson does everything well. Fields the ball like a veteran or hits to all parts of the field. A good defensive player, as well.

You have to like the hard play of Christy Osborne. Moved from behind the plate to third base, Osborne swings a solid bat for the Lady Cats.

Heather Keathley handles the pitching duties for Coach Akers. Johnson will also hurl the second game of a doubleheader.

Keathley gives Akers another strong middle-of-the-order bat. She will sometimes hit in the lead off slot.

Dawn Watson is a good RBI hitter. Seems to come through when runners are in scoring position.

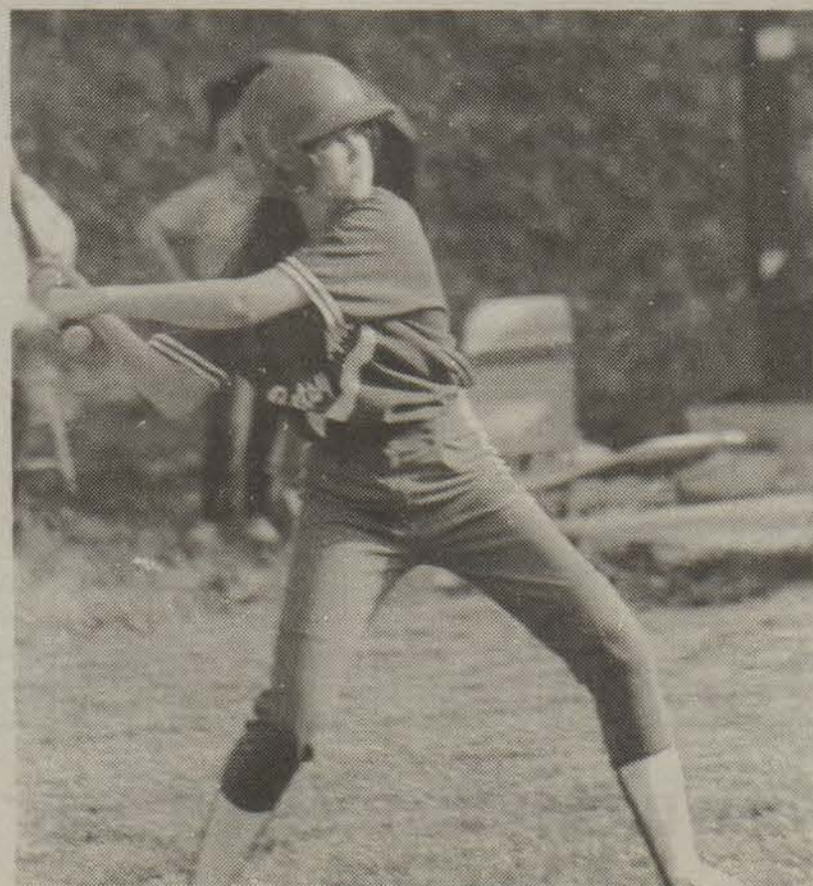

Others for the Lady Cats include Lori Boyd and Melenda Hamilton.

Betsy Layne is a strong contender for a regional title. The team has everything to be a contender with pitching, fielding, as well as swinging strong bats.

Staying focused in the final two weeks and trying to improve in handling the softball are very important for Betsy Layne.

Shelby Valley, winners of the Pikeville Hillbilly Days Classic, lost to Betsy Layne earlier in the season. The only conference loss for the Lady Cats came at the hands of the Allen Central Lady Rebels.

Others for the Lady Cats include Amanda Justice, Tish Kidd, Scarlett Hamilton, Goldie Hamilton, Bridget Brooks, Marsha Howell and Kelly Stanley.

BETSY LAYNE'S LADY CATS SOFTBALL team will host Shelby Valley tonight at the high school football field. Shanna Clark is the leading hitter for the Lady Cats.

What Every Woman Should Know About Menopause and Osteoporosis

by Lila A. Nachtigall, M.D.

Menopause, A Risk Factor

(NAPS)—Nearly one-third of the United States female population—36 million women—has experienced menopause. As the 21st century approaches, another 21 million women of the baby boom generation will join them. With the advent of this population's maturity, women's issues such as estrogen replacement therapy and osteoporosis will command greater attention.

That's because at menopause, the ovaries reduce and eventually cease their production of estrogen and progesterone, the female sex hormones that regulate monthly periods. Estrogen, in particular, plays an important role in several bodily functions including the maintenance and conservation of bone tissue. Without estradiol (a very potent estrogen produced by the ovaries), women experience loss of bone mass which can lead to osteoporosis.

Osteoporosis, meaning porous bone, is a disease characterized by the loss of bone mass which leads to decreased bone strength and poor bone quality, which results in increased risk of fractures.

Today 25 million Americans have osteoporosis, which causes an estimated 1.5 million fractures annually. Of those 25 million, 80 percent are women. Women who are likely to develop osteoporosis often have the following characteristics: white or Asian race; slim build; cigarette smokers; a family history of osteoporosis in a mother, sister or aunt; and early menopause (change of life). In addition, the National Institute for Aging reports that osteoporosis is more closely related to menopause than to a woman's chronological age.

Loss of bone mass is an inevitable part of aging, but it is especially pronounced in postmenopausal women. The National Institute on Aging defines menopause as a risk factor for osteoporosis because estrogen diminishes at an accelerated rate at the onset of menopause.

Osteoporosis is a silent disease. Most women don't even know that they have it until they experience a sudden fracture of the wrist or hip or a stooped posture caused by a deteriorating backbone.

Estrogen Replacement Therapy

Bone loss is most accelerated in the first five years after menopause. But estrogen replacement therapy (ERT) can protect women against bone loss and osteoporosis for as long as 10 years. In fact, ERT is documented to reduce the rate of vertebral fractures even when started as late as six years after menopause and to reduce the risk of hip and wrist fractures by approximately 60 percent.

Bone loss resumes once therapy ends. As a result, physicians advocate the use of low-dose estrogen replacement therapy for at least 10 to 15 years, and some doctors even recommend life-long use. Women should discuss the benefits and risks of long-term ERT with their doctor.

A New Therapy

In the interest of women's health, medical professionals raise concerns about noncompliance. Although ERT helps prevent osteoporosis, many women discontinue therapy when vasomotor symptoms, such as hot flashes and night sweats, cease. In fact, 85 percent of women eligible for ERT are not undergoing therapy, placing them at risk to the effects of bone loss. Of greater concern among those who suffer hip fracture (a common consequence of osteoporosis in very elderly women), between 12 and 20 percent will die within three months from complications. The incidence of hip fractures is greatest with advanced age.

To address this issue, Bristol-Myers Squibb Company recently introduced its low-dose estrogen replacement therapy, Estrace® (estradiol tablets, USP) 0.5 mg, which is effective in preventing further loss of bone density in postmenopausal women when used as directed and in conjunction with regular check-ups by a health care provider. While Estrace 1.0 mg and 2.0 mg have been available through physicians for the relief of vasomotor symptoms, such as hot flashes and night sweats, the new low-dose tablet is now available by prescription for osteoporosis prevention. In a clinical trial, low-dose Estrace 0.5 mg helped prevent osteoporosis in postmenopausal women. Those in a placebo group lost bone mass.

Osteoporosis, known as the silent disease, poses a real threat to postmenopausal women. Only 15 percent of women eligible for ERT undergo therapy. Postmenopausal women not undergoing therapy should start or re-initiate discussions with their doctors about the importance of osteoporosis prevention. Even women who have been postmenopausal for several years and have never received ERT can still benefit from the bone-preserving effects once they begin taking it.

ERT class labeling recommends that women take the lowest dose of estrogen that provides the protective effect, because there are risks as well as benefits associated with ERT. Estrogens should not be used in individuals with any of the following conditions: known or suspected pregnancy since estrogens may cause fetal harm; unusual vaginal bleeding; known or suspected cancer of the breast or uterus; and circulation problems or abnormal blood clotting disorders. Estrogens have been reported to increase the risk of cancer of the uterus in women who have had their menopause. Women should advise their doctor if they have heart disease before beginning ERT. Common side effects of low-dose Estrace 0.5 mg include nausea and vomiting, breast tenderness or enlargement, and retention of excess fluid.

Low-dose Estrace 0.5 mg contains only 17B estradiol which is derived from naturally occurring compounds from plant sources. It is the same as the female hormone, estradiol, that is naturally produced by the ovaries before menopause.

Sensible Healthcare

Osteoporosis is a debilitating disease that stifles mobility, but it may be prevented by adhering to a consistent regimen. Doctors recommend that women who are approaching menopause should get plenty of weight-bearing exercise to strengthen their bones. Women should also eat foods high in calcium and vitamin D and avoid smoking and excessive amounts of alcohol. Finally, women may want to discuss low-dose estrogen replacement therapy with their doctors—to prevent osteoporosis and to begin their golden years on strong footing.

Dr. Nachtigall is an obstetrician/gynecologist and author of several books on the subject of menopause and hormone replacement therapy. Also, she is associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the New York University Medical Center.
