Commercial customers, school system could see trash disposal costs triple :

Some rates will skyrocket under proposal

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A proposal under review by the Floyd County Fiscal Court for solid waste disposal will cap residential rates, but it will most likely triple the cost for commercial customers.

And, one of the customers that would be hit the hardest under the proposal—the Floyd County Board of Education—appears to be the least able to afford it.

At a May 10 special court meeting, magistrates were presented with a 10-page proposal by Rumpke of Kentucky Inc., based in Cincinnati, Ohio, for solid waste disposal and collection.

Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond read Rumpke's proposal, which set household garbage collection fees at $10 per month, but it was not explained during that meeting what impact the contract would have on commercial customers.

Hammond said that county officials had been negotiating the agreement with Rumpke for some time.

Rumpke's proposal calls for a six dollar per cubic yard fee per month for non-household garbage collection and disposal. For non-household users that have garbage containers larger than 10-cubic yards, it will cost $150 per load, plus disposal at $40 per ton.

Bob Meyer, court-appointed custodian of the county's solid waste department, confirmed Tuesday that commercial garbage rates would effectively triple under Rumpke's proposal. Meyer added that commercial fees in Floyd County now were abnormally low compared to surrounding counties and that any proposal would most likely include some hike in commercial fees.

Jerry McGarey, coordinator of facility support for the school system, said Tuesday that the district had doubled next year's budget for garbage disposal in anticipation of some type of rate increase.

When presented with the numbers Tuesday for garbage service in Rumpke's proposal, McGarey said the school system "couldn't stand" garbage rates being tripled.

The school system currently pays approximately $35,000 a year for garbage disposal, superintendent Steve Towler said Tuesday, and that figure would jump to over $100,000 if the court accepts Rumpke's proposal.

With only four magistrates present at the May 10 special meeting, the contract did not come to a vote because magistrates Jackie Owens and Tommy Neil Adams wanted more time to review Rumpke's proposal. The two magistrates were also concerned because other waste disposal companies apparently did not have an opportunity to bid on the same services offered by Rumpke.

After the May 10 meeting, Floyd Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said that court members were aware that county officials had been negotiating a contract with Rumpke.

Big wheels rolling!

These youngsters were waiting for the checkered flag as they anxiously awaited the start of their heat in the Big Wheel race at Archer Park last Saturday afternoon. At right, WMDJ radio personality "Ranger" Rick Caudill demonstrated how to do the limbo (or maybe how not to do it). Kids' Day in the Park drew nearly 800 kids and the event will return next year to Archer Park. It was jointly sponsored by WMDJ and Food City. (photos by Ed Taylor)

Facility plan to go under microscope

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County school board members will try to open better lines of communication with the district Local Planning Committee concerning which direction to take on school building projects.

Before Monday's board of education meeting, representatives from the Local Planning Committee (LPC) met with the board to discuss the district's four-year building plan.

Plans are proceeding with the construction of an addition at Adams Middle School and Betsy Layne Elementary; renovation of Prestonsburg High School; construction of a new Martin/Maytown Elementary; and a Betsy Layne Middle School.

LPC co-chairmen Paul Phillip Hughes and Jody Sword expressed concern that the board was deviating from the approved building plan.

Hughes explained that the LPC recommended that additional property be acquired close to Prestonsburg High School to relocate the school's outdoor athletic facilities. He added that under the plan to renovate the high school, no provision had been made to acquire property adjacent to the school.

Hughes added that additional property was also needed to relocate school parking on the riverbank during the renovation process.

Sword agreed with Hughes and added that additional property also needed to be acquired for an athletic field for South Floyd High School.

The LPC's executive summary of the four-plan recommended that expansion of athletic facilities at all high schools be developed as discretion-

Wayland council eyes sewer plant proposal

by Matt McCarty
Staff writer

The Wayland City Council discussed a possible cure for the city's sewage problem Monday night as Anne Chaney, a project developer from the Big Sandy Area Development District, was on hand to explain the possibility of acquiring federal grants and loans to pay for a sewage treatment plant.

The sewage plant, which would cost the city between $1 to $1.2 million, could cost residents a hookup fee and a monthly rate of $22 to $30.

"That's just a ballpark figure," Chaney said. "The thing is, long before the grant is ever written and that information is sent to anybody, we'll know what the rate will be and we'll know what the hookup fee is. If it's not something folks can live with, (then we won't do it). I don't want

Site problems could escalate building costs

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Site-related problems on three Floyd County school building projects could result in additional costs and may cause one of three classroom additions to be deleted at Adams Middle School.

At Monday's school board meeting, Tim Murphy, an architect with the firm of Sherman-Carter-Barnhart, told board members that site preparation costs could escalate for a new Martin/Maytown Elementary to raise the building pad out of the 100-year flood plain.

A subsurface investigation of the Stephens Branch site revealed that it will take approximately 30,000 cubic yards of fill material to raise the building pad. An analysis of soil on the 15-acre tract showed that the material was not suitable for fill material.

In a written report to the board, Murphy said that testing will be done on a hillside near the site to see if that material can be used for fill. If not, it could cost approximately $200,000 for fill material to be brought to the site.

Also, if a four-inch water line cannot provide adequate water pressure for the school, an eight-inch line may have to be installed at a cost estimated at $80,000.

Another $75,000 may have to be spent to install a sewage treatment plant package on the site.

Murphy told board members that he wanted them to be aware of additional costs and the site development plan was subject to approval by the state Department of Education.

Board member Brent Clark asked if the board would be able to obtain mineral rights to the school site.

Board attorney Cliff Latta said that there doesn't appear to be any "mineable" coal under the school site, but that family members are concerned about the value of a seam of coal on a lower tract of the property.

Latta explained that the board could exclude in the deed a portion of the lower tract to alleviate the concerns of the family members.

Site stability problems at Adams Middle School have resulted in a classroom being listed as an alternate on bids to build three additional classrooms and a technology center.

Superintendent Steve Towler said that state officials are concerned about the settlement problems and dictated that the board have a site survey done before the work was done on the addition.

Jim Osborne, chief of operations, said that the data on the site is not complete on one classroom and it

Board backs off proposal to trim vo-ed to half day

Passionate pleas from students and faculty at Floyd County Technical High School prevented school board members from nixing the all-day program at the school, but it also called the board's attention to some apparent problems in the district's classrooms.

Floyd Tech English teacher Tom Hardwick told board members that students who attend the technical school felt that they didn't fit in a traditional school setting.

"They're refugees that came here because they couldn't find anything that really turned them on at their school," Hardwick said. "Here they learn that they have some abilities and their grades go up in other areas. They get confidence and recognition."

Principal Ronald Turner told board members that the students "feel like this is their school; that they fit in here; they feel wanted; they feel important."

Hardwick's and Turner's comments prompted board member Dolores Smith to ask why those students were not getting the same type of attention in their own high schools.

"I feel that we're duplicating ser-

Tourism expenditures are on the rise in area

More tourism dollars were spent in Floyd County in 1993 than 1992 — 13 percent more, according to statistics released this week by the state.

In Floyd County, $24,940,718 tourism dollars were spent in 1993, compared to $22,134,342 in 1992.

Johnson County saw more than a $6,000,000 gain, a 58 percent increase in tourism expenditures for 1993. Johnson County's expenditure's for 1993 were $16,696,369.

Statistics were derived from an economic impact study conducted by the Department of Travel Development in the state Tourism Cabinet. The study estimates statewide total expenditures, gauging not only direct spending, but also a multiplier effect that reflects additional economic activity that tourism spending produces. The report includes regional and county direct spending without the multiplier formula.

ary projects when local district or private funding permits.

Another concern of the LPC is that a cafeteria is included only as an alternate in plans for a 21-classroom addition at Betsy Layne. Hughes said the LPC envisioned that the addition would be a "complete project" and that it was a "done deal" when the committee was developing the four-year plan.

Sword and Hughes said that the construction schedule the board has in place is not in line with the LPC's plan, which was approved last year. The two said that they felt the plan should be amended to reflect the board's plans.

Superintendent Steve Towler disagreed and said that he didn't feel the board would have to amend the building plan, but he added that he had voiced the same concerns about the athletic field at Prestonsburg.

In reference to the Betsy Layne project, Board member Eddie Patton said that the addition of a cafeteria would push the cost of the project beyond the $3.1 million cap approved earlier by the board.

Board member Phyllis Honshell disagreed all the way around and told the LPC that it all boiled down to getting their priorities in order.

"It's a matter of priorities," Honshell said. "We can decide to go with one site and do everything we want done until it's complete. Then, we can look at some of the buildings students are currently housed in and say to them, 'wait another 15 years.'"

"My personal feelings are that there are children that need to be housed in school buildings that are adequate," Honshell continued. "These football fields and parking lots can come when the money is available. If we had a plan (in previous years) and had gone through with a complete facility, we wouldn't be in this shape. It's not the children's fault."

Board member Brent Clark said he felt there is inequity in educational districts and that he favored "piecemealing" building projects.

"Everybody is saying they don't want to piecemeal," Clark said. "But we build Taj Mahals in some places and neglect others. In hindsight, I don't understand the problem with piecemealing. We thought (school construction) money would keep flowing into Floyd County."

Board member Dolores Smith said that the board and the LPC needed to have better communication so that no one would feel that the plan wasn't being followed.

Smith also added that she was not convinced that it was in the best interests of students to close Auxier school, which the LPC recommended.

"I don't disagree with the LPC (proposal) to close three schools," Smith said. "I am concerned about the academic achievement. I feel we can delay a decision on Auxier for a year to see how the academic achievement evolves. That's a real concern to me."

Sword agreed and said that if the board—whose make up has almost completely changed since the plan was approved—disagreed with the plan, it should be changed.

The board and the LPC decided to meet to discuss the construction issues, but set no date for the meeting.

Cancer program at HRMC granted three-year approval

The Committee on Approvals of the American College of Surgeons' Commission on Cancer has granted a three-year approval to Highlands Cancer Program.

The American College of Surgeons' Commission on Cancer is a nationally recognized organization representing 26 cancer related organizations. Standards for approval are set by the commission which also reviews cancer programs for conformity. The commission on cancer is involved with the National Cancer Institute and National Cancer Database in collecting information about cancer treatments and long-term survival. Approval by the commission on cancer demonstrates approval of the organization of the hospital's cancer program.

Clarification

An article in Friday's edition of the Times concerning the delay in the beginning of the murder trial of Larry Robinson should have said that the victim, William "Bucky" Rose, was dragged approximately 64 feet by Robinson's vehicle before it stopped.

was bid as an alternate to the project.

Osborne added that the bid date for the Adams project has been extended by one week because of the site problem. Bids for that project will be opened on June 1.

Also, there is apparently a problem with the site recommended by the Local Planning Committee for a Betsy Layne Middle School.

The board did not publicly discuss the site situation, but Osborne commented to board member Brent Clark that they would discuss the issue with the board in closed session.

Nick Feldman, who did value engineering on the site for the board, addressed the issue in closed session, but the board did not offer details of the situation upon returning to open session.

Clark had asked if funds to acquire the site could be included in a school construction bond sale set for June 15.

Since the re-establishment of the 92nd District, there has never been a Floyd Countian to hold this seat in the State House of Representatives.

I think it is time for a change.

I, Hubert Halbert, have been a life-long resident of Floyd County. However, my three opponents are residents of Knott County.

My wife, Elizabeth, and I have raised our four children on Right Beaver Creek. I am an employee of Kentucky & West Virginia Gas Company, and have been for 30 years. Elizabeth is a Registered Nurse at the Home Health Agency in McDowell. Our oldest son, Stephen ("Bird"), is employed by UPS in Knott County. Elizabeth Anne, our only daughter, teaches Spanish at Pikeville High School. Our second son, Wesley, is an Environmental Science major at Morehead State University. Stuart ("Bear"), our youngest son, is the Warehouse Supervisor at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. My family and I have strong ties to this area and we would like to see better representation of Floyd County in the 92nd District.

As your state representative, I will work to accomplish the following:

- * restore worker's compensation benefits
- * provide good drinking water for families who are doing without
- * improve the road conditions on Middle Creek, including safety measures, such as guardrails.

I will work with the people in the Brush Creek, Bosco, Garrett, and Wayland areas to help keep gas heating prices down. In addition to these things, I will never vote to increase taxes.

On May 24th, vote for and elect me, Hubert Halbert, as your state representative and I will be a strong voice for you in Frankfort.

Chamber, coalition announce new, statewide community development program

The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, in concert with more than 30 economic development groups, is implementing a new program designed to meet the changing needs of Kentucky communities seeking economic growth.

The new program—the Certified Communities Partnership—will help communities go through a process to identify their specific strengths and assets and use them as a basis for overcoming whatever obstacles have prevented them from achieving their goals.

"One of the real advantages of this program is that communities will have access to a coalition of more than 30 agencies and organizations and their collective resources," said Coulter R. Boyle III, president and COO of Kentucky Power and chairman of the Economic and Community Development Committee for the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

When a community enters the program, community leaders will complete a community assessment detailing their strengths, weaknesses, and goals. Resource teams, provided from the 30-agency coalition, will then work hand-in-hand with community members to develop a plan of action for the future. These same resource teams will continue to work with the community members as they meet their goals and objectives, taking as long as necessary to ensure that the community is successful. These groups will help them achieve their own goals and objectives, not goals arbitrarily set by some outside group. The groups will also stress that this is an on-going process that will never end, emphasizing the importance of continuous improvement for communities in the highly competitive environment of economic development.

Communities will receive certification as they start achieving their goals and will be recertified as they show continued progress.

Five communities will enter the program beginning in July. Additional communities will begin in January of 1995.

"This program has the flexibility to meet the needs of cities, counties, and multi-county regions," said Nan Hamice, manager of community development for the Kentucky Chamber. "We will encourage regionalization, consensus leadership development, planning, and attention to life-long learning—all keys to future economic prosperity."

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

by Scott Perry

Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond sarcastically noted last week that it didn't "take an Einstein" to see that a proposal he was pushing for garbage collection in Floyd County was the best bid for those services.

Of course it was.

It was the only bid for those services.

We might add to Hammond's remarks that it doesn't take a Sherlock Holmes to see that some elementary facts were omitted from the discussion of this wonderful deal.

For instance, much emphasis is being placed on the proposal's stipulation setting household collection rates at $10 per month.

That's a two-dollar-a-month hike for most households and a pretty good deal.

No emphasis of any type, however, was directed toward the plan's proposal for commercial rates, which will triple for most commercial customers.

The Floyd County Board of Education, for instance, will likely see their annual costs increase by about $70,000.

Taxpayers will have to cover that added expense.

It doesn't take a Leonardo da Vinci to see what kind of picture is being painted here.

The business community in Floyd County will be required to shoulder most of the financial burden created by inefficient government intrusion into what should have been a private concern all along.

Thank you very much.

If government officials know anything about running a business, they know on which side their bread is buttered.

They know, for example, that there are more votes to be counted among individual households than there are among individual businesses.

It doesn't take a Wizard of Oz to see why and how rate decisions are made and why so much is being made over keeping household rates low while businesses get it stuck to them, again.

There is no doubt that rates for garbage disposal must be increased and there is no argument that commercial rates have been much too low for much too long.

But tripling the cost for businesses while inching household rates up just isn't fair.

And it doesn't take a nose like Jimmy Durante's to catch the real aroma of this secretly negotiated deal.

Smells a lot like politics.

Taxpayer distressed

Editor:
As a taxpayer in Johnson County (especially all those school taxes) on everything I own and on every utility bill that I receive each month, I feel insulted, infuriated and most of all disgusted with its "a sick joke" or its "ridiculous" attitude of individuals concerning the mess that is presently going on in the Johnson County School System.

What is "ridiculous" and a "sick joke" is what is being done to the children of Johnson County.

Webster Dictionary defines tax: raise fund to "support" governmental needs; pay for public works and the like. School: a place where instructional is given.

I may not be the smartest gal on the block, but it seems to me that my tax support dollars for the kids are going for everything but what it is intended for. Reading the papers and watching TV news I find that:

1) A "sealed" $45,000 settlement for "emotional distress damages." How many book, educational materials would this purchase?

2) The children of Johnson County and the poor taxpayers are paying for a "few" teachers college expenses, with no financial gain.

a) I assumed the more education you had the more your salary.

b) How many books, education materials would this purchase?

How can anyone make the statement that "financially" that all of this was a good deal for the school system?

Talk about "sick and ridiculous" is watching what is being done with our tax dollars. I guess this is what Webster Dictionary means by "as the school of hard knocks."

Where's that golden California native who is to be the savior of Kentucky schools?

Spare us

In response to Betty Johnson's May 11 letter, I read her letter and still don't know any points it made. If you don't know what you're talking about, spare us from such pomposity.

Set the name straight

Editor:
Last week Ms. Betty Johnson wrote a letter to you in which she answered a previous writer concerning former President Nixon.

Ms. Johnson referred to the writer that was critical of Mr. Nixon as Mr. James Bond; the correct name of the writer was Mr. Matthew Bond—not James. While I do not know Matthew personally, I do know many in the fine Bond family.

It certainly is not my intent to offend Ms. Betty Johnson, but only to point out the importance of getting names correct as we go through life building relationships.

Sheriff's Association to honor area lawmen injured in line of duty

Editor:
The Kentucky Sheriffs' Association and the Kentucky Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranch will honor their own on Saturday, September 10.

We need your help! Maybe your father, husband, brother, uncle, grandfather, great-grandfather or an acquaintance, who was a Kentucky sheriff or deputy sheriff killed or wounded in the line of duty.

Ask your friends and neighbors if they know of any Kentucky sheriff or deputy sheriff who was killed or wounded in the line of duty, dating back to when Kentucky became a state in 1792.

You may have to do some "digging" geneologically speaking, but it might give us a name we do not already have on our Memorial Wall. If possible, a newspaper clipping or other such documentation detailing the circumstances of the death or injury of a sheriff or deputy sheriff would be most helpful and appreciated by us.

Sheriff Jim Murphy, president of the National Sheriffs' Association, and other distinguished individuals from Kentucky will help us to memorialize these individuals who gave their lives or were wounded in service to others.

The sheriff's office has multiple duties including: law enforcement; collecting taxes; serving the courts; serving process and other type papers; transporting prisoners; and performing election duties. Most of us don't realize what they accomplish and the risks involved in carrying out their duties. The Memorial Ceremony is our way of expressing our appreciation for their service to others.

Our office number is (502) 362-8660 and our mailing address is The KY. Sheriffs' Ranch, P.O. Box 57, Gilbertsville, KY 42044. Our fax number is (502) 362-7524. Please, send us any information you might have on Kentucky sheriffs and deputy sheriffs who have been killed or wounded in the line of duty so that we may give them the recognition they deserve.

Juror says restrooms in courthouse are a disgrace

Editor:
I am writing in regards to the restrooms in the Floyd County Courthouse.

I, as a juror, have to be in the Floyd County Courthouse on a regular basis and need to use the restroom while serving as a juror. I think that if I have to serve, then I at least I should be able to use clean restrooms. They are so very dirty!!!

There are no locks on the doors, there is no tissue paper half the time, and no paper towels to dry your hands, etc. These restrooms are just plain nasty!!!

Is there a janitor for the courthouse? If so, why are these restrooms a pit? If so, what is his/her job? What does he/she do as far as cleaning? What is his/her salary? These restrooms are a disgrace!!!

With the diseases in society today, I think this is a matter that every citizen should be concerned about that comes into the courthouse.

Thank you for publishing this, and I would like some answers to my questions.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

May 14, 1994.

A date that will live in infirmity.

Actually, we spent a good part of the day in the infirmary after assembling a portable basketball goal for our son's seventh birthday and attempting to dispel the myth that white men can't jump.

The problem, it seems, isn't the jumping...it's the landing. We managed to land on a tape measure and in the emergency room where the nursing staff expressed grave concern for our condition by asking..."Are you back, again?"

We have this habit, see, of making at least one unannounced visit to the local hospitals each spring for a stitch here or a splint there, and the medical community has come to rely on us as much as old robin red-breast as a true harbinger of spring.

If we're on crutches, can summer be far behind?

The 1990 census was so screwed up that federal officials are now considering a major overhaul of the system before the head count begins at the turn of the century.

The experts now believe that only 65 percent of the nation's households responded to surveys in the 1990 count, making that census the least accurate in history.

Most folks would probably respond to those findings with a resounding, "Who Cares?"

But we folks in Eastern Kentucky have good reason to howl about the news. We lost a whole congressional district to the 1990 census results.

For this decade, Appalachian Kentucky will have to get by with less than we deserve.

What else is new, right?

Everything old is new again...

According to the Courier-Journal's latest Bluegrass State Poll, Kentucky teen-agers have listed drug and alcohol abuse as their biggest problems.

Not much has changed, it seems, in the 25 years that have passed since we were a teen facing similar pressures from those two evils.

In reality, much has changed.

The drugs which tempt young people today are exceedingly more dangerous than those of the 60s and they have helped breed a subculture of violent people who appear hell-bent toward their own destruction.

In the 60s, much drug use was a form of experimentation.

Today, it is a dangerous means of escape from which, ironically, there is none.

The good news is that teens apparently are beginning to recognize and admit their problems with drugs and alcohol.

As the story goes, that's the first step toward recovery.

Service with a smile...and more.

A Texas auto repair shop has taken customer service the extra mile.

They'll check your points and plugs, change your oil and pronounce you man and wife while you wait.

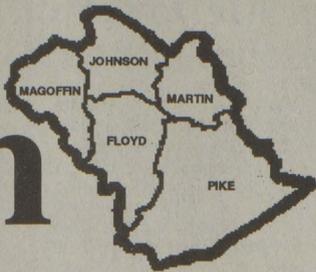

Yep, pay for the standard auto service call and get a free marriage ceremony...a $25 dollar value.

Kick the tires and kiss the bride.

Say, how about a free honeymoon through the automated car wash?

Gotta be cheaper than Niagara Falls.

Companies pay $8,000 to settle miner's complaint over firing last August

Two Eastern Kentucky companies have agreed to pay more than $8,000 to settle a discrimination complaint filed by a coal miner.

Freddie Brummett of Viper claimed he was wrongfully fired August 20 from AP-Coal Engineering Inc. AP-Coal was doing work for Leatherwood Energy Corporation in Perry County, from which Brummett had been recently fired.

Brummett claimed that when he and some other AP-Coal employees reported to a Leatherwood mine to do some work, Leatherwood President Richard Combs refused them entry. Later that day, AP-Coal told Brummett he was fired. Brummett claimed the companies conspired to keep him from working.

Under the settlement, AP-Coal and Leatherwood agreed to pay Brummett $6,000. The firms also will pay a $250 fine and $1,875 in attorney's fees to the Mine Safety Project of Lexington. — Lexington Herald-Leader

Eleven treated after chemical leak near Louisa

A sulfur dioxide leak Sunday at the Big Sandy power plant near Louisa sent 11 construction workers to the hospital.

Connie Sammons, nursing supervisor at Three Rivers Medical Center in Louisa, said the workers from a construction crew at the power plant came in at 10:30 a.m. after a small sulfur dioxide leak. Gary Hartman of Louisa and Michael Powh of Parkersburg, West Virginia, both 39, were admitted and were being monitored for respiratory problems, Sammons said. Ronnie Oniey, 30, was taken to Cabell Huntington Hospital in Huntington, West Virginia, where he was listed in fair condition. Kentucky Power officials said the leak occurred inside the plant and was contained less than a minute after it was discovered. — Lexington Herald-Leader

Potentially dangerous radioactive materials stolen in London

Health Services Commissioner Dr. Rice Leach made an emergency request Tuesday for help in locating a four-wheel drive truck which contained instruments which if opened could result in a very dangerous exposure to iridium 192, a radio-active isotope used in the inspection of pipelines.

The vehicle was reported stolen Monday from the Town Center Motel in London.

"Anyone finding the truck or its contents should notify state or local law enforcement officials and Van McCardle of H & H X-Ray Services of West Monroe, Louisiana, at 1-800-551-5093," said Dr. Leach.

"Under no circumstances should anyone attempt to move or open dangerous containers labeled 'radio-active material.' This material is very dangerous to anyone receiving a direct unprotected exposure."

The three-quarter ton pick-up belonging to H & H X-Ray Services is a black Chevrolet with Texas license plate number 650-7PT. — staff report

Man who helped police is arrested

The man who helped Kentucky State Police convict former Letcher Circuit Judge Larry Collins on bribery charges has been arrested on federal drug trafficking charges.

A hearing for James Braddock is scheduled in U.S. District Court at Pikeville on Thursday. The Letcher County man was arrested last Wednesday on three counts of marijuana distribution involving 10 pounds of pot. He pleaded not guilty. — Lexington Herald-Leader

Disaster drill planned in Pike County

Don't be alarmed if you come upon a major traffic accident on U.S. 23 near Pikeville National Bank on Saturday, May 21. It is only a drill.

The drill is scheduled to begin at 11 a.m., but will involve several hours to set up and take down. Traffic will be re-routed at the drill site on Saturday morning by local law enforcement agencies.

Pikeville Methodist Hospital and local emergency services agencies are planning the disaster drill to meet strict accreditation requirements. The hospital, along with the Kentucky State Police, Pike County Sheriff's Department, Pikeville City Police, Pike County Rescue Squad, Pikeville Fire Department, the University of Kentucky Aero-Med helicopter, and local ambulance services will be involved in the drill.

The disaster drill will involve a collision between two cars with passengers and a bus containing approximately 12 high school students. — Staff report

Rogers supports ARC, EDA

U.S. Representative Harold "Hal" Rogers (KY-5) led efforts in the House of Representatives May 12 to pass the authorization legislation for the Economic Development Administration slash (EDA) and the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC). The authorization passed the House overwhelmingly, 328-89.

Rogers, a strong supporter of both agencies, led the fight on the floor against several attempts to EDA and ARC funding by citing examples of the many successes of ARC and EDA over recent years.

"The Economic Development Administration and Appalachian Regional Commission are vital to the future of Southern and Eastern Kentucky," Rogers said in a speech on the House Floor. "They mean jobs, they mean economic development and prosperity, they mean a better life for the communities of Kentucky's 5th District." — staff report

Forward in the Fifth honors two area principals

On May 12, Forward in the Fifth honored four "Principals with Principles," including two educators from area schools, at its spring meeting at Eastern Kentucky University. Thirteen principals were nominated for this award, which recognizes outstanding school leaders.

Nominations are submitted by a local affiliate or superintendent from the principal's county. Winning principals receive $300, which is to be used in their school.

Names of two area winners follow, along with comments from their nominations.

Kimberly Jane Patrick, principal of Prater Borders Elementary School in Magoffin County is a third-year principal who is involved in the KERA Fellows program and belongs to the Kentucky Association of School Administrators. Josten's Learning honored Patrick and her staff for their use of educational technology to focus on students as individuals, and to give them tools they will use for life. Only six schools in Kentucky received Josten's award.

Chester Bailey, principal of Pikeville Elementary in Pike County, has led this school as principal for 23 years with dedication and deep concern for his students. More than 20 years ago, he encouraged the implementation of team leader participation in school-based decision making, something that KERA now requires. Bailey has involved parents on book and teacher selection committees. — staff report vices because these students are not getting what they need in the first place," Smith said. "The students' letters read the same. If kids feel ostracized in the schools, we have a major problem and bringing them to Floyd Tech doesn't solve the problem. This is not a high school problem; it's a system problem. What a student has or doesn't have shouldn't make any difference."

Board members said that they received many letters for students at the technical high school which basically said that they would drop-out of school if the all-day program was discontinued.

Deputy Superintendent of Instruction Gary Frazier told board members that the Kentucky Workforce Cabinet, which basically runs the technical high school, was not willing to provide updated equipment or the needed funds to adequately operate the school.

The only control the school system has over the program is to decide who is employed there, Frazier said.

Frazier also added that there are some accountability concerns about the program in the areas of writing and math portfolios.

Board member Phyllis Honshell commented that it was the testimonials from students that disturbed her the most.

"They find so much (at Floyd Tech)," Honshell said. "They praise the teachers here and say they give them personal attention. What's happening in the other schools? I want to hear that all teachers give attention to students. We need to reach all students."

Board member Eddie Patton said that the main issue is how the students feel about the program.

Board members voted 4-1 to keep the all-day program. Smith voted to discontinue the program.

Also Monday:

- A motion failed to eliminate the position of director of the Title V program.

- Parents from Allen Elementary asked the board to reconsider a decision to locate a behavior disorder unit at their school. The board took no action on the issue.

- Betsy Layne parent Dan Hall asked the board to consider purchasing property adjacent to Betsy Layne Elementary to expand the campus and also asked that a cafeteria be included in the 21-classroom addition at the school. The board took no action on the request.

- The board approved the 1994-95 school calendar which has students reporting for classes on August 22.

- The board tabled a proposal to contract with Eloise Hall and Dan Collins to administer the district's summer program.

- The board approved the creation of a Junior ROTC program at Allen Central High School. Approval was also given to designate a student smoking area at Allen Central.

- The board voted not to move the Drift Head Start center to McDowell unless funding can be obtained to build a new center at McDowell.

- The board voted to create a math consultant position.

- The board voted to settle a salary dispute with retiring Allen Elementary principal Daniel Branson.

All members were present at Monday's meeting.

How TB attacks the lungs

Drugs can control most cases of tuberculosis, a fatal disease if not treated. How an untreated case develops:

1. Airborne TB bacteria (bacilli) are inhaled into lungs' small tubes

2. Macrophages, a kind of defensive cell, attack the particles, killing or surrounding them

3. Other immune cells surround particles in hard lumps called tubercles, making bacilli harmless

4. If the body's immune system weakens, bacilli can escape from the tubercle

5. Weakened immune system can't neutralize the bacilli. They multiply and penetrate blood vessels, spreading disease throughout the body

Patient safety award winner

McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital received a Quality and Safety Award from the Kentucky Hospital Service Corporation at its annual membership meeting held in Louisville on April 14.

McDowell ARH is a member of the Kentucky Hospital Association Trust (K-HAT), a self-funded liability coverage program.

The Patient Safety Award was presented to the hospital in recognition of their efforts in maintaining a safe patient environment and effective quality improvement program. To be eligible for this award, hospitals are required to have three years continuous membership in K-HAT and maintain a minimum liability claims record.

The achievement is directly linked to the hospital's safety committee, said Doug Rice, chief engineer and safety director. The committee meets every two months, and is comprised of departmental, union, nurses and medical representatives.

The committee meets to discuss patient incidents in the hospital. Most of those incidents involve falls, Rice said. The committee looks at ways to prevent those falls by improving the patient's access to services.

"We try to place them closer to nurses' stations and keep them in beds at the lowest possible positions," Rice said. The hospital also encourages family members to stay with their relatives if they have problems with mobility, Rice explained.

Safety experts

Doug Rice, chief engineer/safety director, and Darrell Trent, director of risk management, accepted the Patient Safety Award on behalf of McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital.

An article regarding the Floyd County Health Department's campaign against childhood hunger omitted several lines from a paragraph. The paragraph should have read: Many families are unaware they are eligible for the WIC Program. The WIC Program is a federally funded supplemental food program for pregnant and breast feeding women, infants and children up to 5 years of age. The goals of the WIC Program are to improve the outcome of high risk pregnancies, to decrease the incidence of anemia and poor growth patterns, and to improve the dietary habits of its recipients.

Proposal

folks to focus on a $350 (hookup fee) and a $30 a month rate."

The monthly rate will depend on how much of the project money comes from loans, while the hookup fee will be determined by the city.

"We'll do everything in our power to keep the rates as low as possible," Chaney said, "but what you don't want to have happen is to institute a $22-$23 rate and in a year have to raise it to $25. It's much better to go in and say, hey, the rate needs to be whatever it is and make sure you get everything taken care of."

One thing that the city needs to take care of, according to the council, is establishing a site for the plant. Right now, the city has three possible sites picked out, but whether or not one of those sites will be used will depend on whether the city can get the land donated or sold to them.

The number one site for the plant is located near the mouth of Martin Branch. That land is owned by Knott/Floyd Land Company.

The city will also look at using land located at Glo Hollow and Mine Hollow.

"The farther down the creek (we can put the plant), the better off we are," Chaney said.

Putting the plant "farther down the creek" would allow Wayland to take on more users in the future.

"Once we can get (the plant) in, it will be a tremendous help to us and a help to our neighbors," Mayor Gene Mullins said.

Wayland, however, will not look to add others onto the system until the plant is completed and that could be sometime around the summer of 1997 and even as early as the summer of 1996.

The first step in the process, according to Chaney, will be for the city to submit an application for the grant next April. Wayland will know by July of the same year if its grant has been approved which means spring of 1996 will be the earliest possible date for work to begin.

Although it would be two to three years before the plant could be ready, just being in the preliminary stages is a good start, according to council member Tommy Robinson.

"At least we're working on something," said Robinson. "(The sewage plant) is what I'm back here for."

Robinson had announced his intention to resign at last month's city council meeting, but decided otherwise when plans for the sewage plant began.

Former council member Curtis Tufts has replaced Bill Henagar, who resigned last month.

Wayland will be applying for part of the money from the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) and, according to Chaney, the amount Wayland applies for will have to include the hookup fee for all of Wayland's low to moderate income families.

"You can't have the money unless you take care of that," Chaney said, "because the whole reason for the money being there is to benefit the low to moderate income homes."

The CDBG will probably have around $12 million in Kentucky available for public facility projects and Wayland could apply for up to $1 million of that, Chaney said.

Wayland will also be able to look to the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) for grant money. A realistic request to ARC would be about $300,000.

The other available route is the Farmer's Home Administration (FmHA) where Wayland could get a combination of grants and loans. The money it receives from FmHA would likely be 50 percent grant money and 50 percent loan money.

"The more grant money we can get, the better off, ultimately, the folks in Wayland will be," Chaney said.

"As I sit here," Chaney added, "I can tell you the city cannot afford to borrow more than $300,000 period."

"(The main thing is to) maximize your grant and minimize your loan," Chaney said.

Toward the latter part of the meeting, State Representative Russell Bentley dropped in and offered his support for the sewage plant.

"I'm certainly willing anyway I can to help get a loan," Bentley said.

The main focus the city of Wayland will take now is to determine a project cost, because that determines the rates so the city can get the support to go through with the project if funding comes through.

"The last thing we want is to get this $1 million in grants and the people to say, we don't want this," Chaney said. "Then the chances of Wayland ever getting another grant would be slim and none."

On Tuesday, Magistrates Owens and Adams disputed that claim and said they were not involved in negotiating the details of the proposal and were unaware of the impact the contract would have on local businesses and the school system.

"I was not aware of (the cost to business owners)," Owens said Tuesday. "I asked that question during the meeting, but we kinda got into it and I forgot it."

In response to the judge-executive's comment that magistrates were in on the contract negotiations, Owens said, "there was no use of bidding it if we were going to do that. I'd had a copy of that contract if I'd been in on it."

Magistrate Adams also said he was not privy to any negotiations on the proposal, but that he had only heard "bits and pieces" about the offer prior to the May 10 meeting. He added that he was not aware of the apparent hike in commercial garbage rates.

Calls to magistrates Ermal Tackett and Gerald DeRossett were not returned.

The day before the May 10 special meeting, representatives with the Big Sandy Area Development District opened proposals from several waste disposal companies who responded to a request for garbage service bids from a nine-county coalition—which included Floyd County.

Magistrate Owens said that he asked Big Sandy ADD director Roger Recktenwald to invite those companies who submitted the proposals to the May 20 fiscal court meeting.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Next Tuesday we will vote on a new State Representative for the 92nd district. This vote will have an impact on our children and grandchildren. Please Go Vote.

There are two more important facts you need to know.

1. Russell Bentley will vote for tax increases. He voted for the ridiculous property taxes we just paid. He has also voted for numerous other taxes, including sales, motor vehicle and many more. If you can't afford to pay more taxes, don't vote for Russell Bentley.

2. In the 1992 State Representative race, Russell Bentley received 97% of his campaign finances through Political Action Committees (PAC). Russell was number 1 in the state in this category. Who is Russell Bentley representing?

Many Media outlets have called this past legislative session the biggest joke in Kentucky. We still don't have a budget. Our Legislature passed a controversial health care bill on the last day of the General Assembly.

One has to ask, what did these people do in Frankfort from January 3 to April 15?

We're not going to take it anymore.

Donnie Newsome will represent our people. Donnie has visited many of you in the past few months. Donnie Newsome will work for:

- Clean drinking water.
- Affordable public housing.
- Health care for ALL.

Donnie Newsome will never vote for any type of tax increase.

Donnie Newsome is the Man on May 24.

'Gee Whiz' airs on KET

"Gee Whiz in Agriculture" will air on KET this summer. The six-part series, geared to fourth- and fifth-grade students, illustrates how science and math are used daily in agriculture, and focuses on career opportunities in this high-tech industry.

"This summer learning project will be an open broadcast on KET, meaning that youngsters across Kentucky can watch it on regular television at home," said Carla Nichols, distance learning coordinator for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Nichols said the series will air on Mondays and Wednesdays from 11:30 a.m. (EDT) until noon. "Why Can a Cow Eat Grass?" will be shown on June 27 and 29; "Wood You Take Care of Me?" on July 4 and 6; "What's Bugging You?" on July 11 and 13; "Why Can Horses Run So Fast?" on July 18 and 20; "How Do You Grow a Fish Sandwich?" on July 25 and 27; and "From Moo to You?" on August 1 and 3.

Students should register for this summer enrichment program by contacting KET, 600 Cooper Drive, Lexington, KY 40502-2296. Registration forms also are available from county Extension offices. June 27 is the deadline.

Registered students will receive a packet of activities to follow up each program at home and a "Gee Whiz" button. For a half hour after programs, except July 4, students can call a toll-free number to ask agriculture staff questions or request help with follow-up activities.

"Gee Whiz in Agriculture" features young people receiving hands-on experience in aquaculture, chemistry, beef, dairy and equine science, ecology, engineering, entomology, hydroponics, microbiology, and forestry," Nichols said.

"Why Can a Cow Eat Grass?" takes an in-depth look at cattle digestive tracts from birth through maturity. It compares cattle and human digestive systems. Students take a video journey into a cow's stomach to microscopically view the contents.

"Wood You Take Care of Me?" explores the forestry industry and its impact on the environment. Through visits to a logging operation and a furniture factory, students learn about growing and harvesting trees, their use in many products, and the ecological impact of lumbering and recycling wood products.

"What's Bugging You?" focuses on insects' speedy and successful adaptation to change and their role in the environment. Youngsters and insects are a natural combination to foster awareness and development of critical thinking skills.

"Why do Horses Run so Fast?" explores the differences and similarities between human and equine athletes, using state-of-the-art equipment to introduce students to anatomy and physiology. Other features are a simulated race between horses and humans, and demonstrations of various equine breeds and their uses.

Nurses to be pinned at PCC

Sixteen student nurses will receive their pins indicating they have successfully completed the Associate Degree in Nursing program at Prestonsburg Community College during a ceremony Thursday, May 19, at 7 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in Prestonsburg.

In observance of the 20th anniversary of the college's first graduating class of nurses, graduates of the nursing class of 1974 have been invited to participate in Thursday night's program.

Also invited to the pinning are seven PCC graduates who earned their Master of Nursing degrees at area universities during the 1993-94 academic year.

Members of the spring 1994 nursing class are Christi L. Begley, Tammie A. Horn, and Donna Ward, all of Inez; Heather M. Benoit and Ruth J. Stepp of Paintsville; Sandra L. Hall of Grethel; Travis J. Lyon Jr. of Staffordsville; Marlene L. Maynard of Pilgrim; Priscilla A. Richmond of Van Lear; Tena F. Spears of Endicott; Angela M. Waddell of Nippa; and Stacey S. Calhoun, Kay T. Campbell, April M. Davis, Heidi L. Hackworth and Tanya Y. Pelphrey, all of Prestonsburg.

The pinning ceremony is open to the public. It precedes PCC's annual spring graduation exercises set for Friday at 7 p.m. at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park amphitheater.

Jobless rate dropped

In the Big Sandy region, the jobless rate dropped from an annual rate of 10.3 percent in 1992 to 9.7 percent in 1993. Local rates ranged from 7 percent in Johnson County to 13.7 percent in Magoffin County. In Floyd County, the rate was 8.9 percent.

"How Do You Grow a Fish Sandwich?" demonstrates fish and lettuce production in an ecologically closed system. Concepts introduced include symbiotic life cycles, chemical and nutrient cycling, and integrated food production.

"From Moo to You?" explains what calves eat, since humans drink the cow's milk. This program also gives a comparison of milk and soft drink nutritive values and other nutritional considerations. Students see cheese, butter and ice cream manufactured in a dairy processing plant.

"This series is an entertaining and practical way to reinforce science and math principles learned in school this year and present concepts that might be introduced in the coming school year," Nichols said. "It also acquaints students with career opportunities in the high-tech industry of agriculture."

"Gee Whiz in Agriculture" teleconferences were seen by students in 40 states, two territories and Canada the past two years. The series was produced by the UK College of Agriculture and KET.

RE-ELECT RUSSELL BENTLEY

State Representative 92nd District

For the past six years I have been honored to be your State Representative. I have worked with the Governor, the legislative and state and local officials to create jobs encourage economic development and improve the quality of life. I have been fortunate to become the chairman of the budget committee on economic development, natural resources and tourism, a position that is helping me to accomplish the goals I have listed above.

I believe the experience I have in the legislature and the contacts I have made in state government can help me help you.

As a result of legislation passed in 1992 the amount of coal severance tax returned for economic development and job creation has doubled.

As a result of 1990 legislation, the Floyd County School District funding has increased over $10 million annually. Floyd County children are now given the same amount of financial resources to be educated with as are students from large cities in Kentucky.

As a result of Representative Bentley's HB 365 in the 1992 session, every volunteer fire department here will receive $5,000 annually. Representative Bentley has served as a fire department and rescue squad member volunteer for years. Through his legislation fire departments are given a helping hand which can help lower your fire insurance premiums.

Floyd Countians deserve these improvements. Russell Bentley deserves re-election.

Leadership you can be proud of.

April 20, 1994

The Honorable Russell Bentley
State Representative
HC 80, Box 3020
Topmost, Kentucky 41862

Dear Representative Bentley:

As I prepare my legislative wrap-up report to the membership of the Kentucky State AFL-CIO, it becomes more and more apparent that labor's success in the 1994 regular session of the General Assembly was a true group effort.

While the Labor Lobbyists Coalition did an exceptional job getting our message to legislators and the public, I cannot discount or fail to recognize the tremendous help of our friends in the House of Representatives. I am pleased to take this opportunity to personally convey my thanks to you for all you contributed to labor's overall success rate during this session.

In particular, I am especially grateful for your support of our efforts in regard to Workers Compensation reform legislation. While we fell short of our ultimate goal, I am still well satisfied with the benefits and assistance to injured workers we were able to retain. Despite unusually fierce opposition, HB 928 enacts reforms and changes in the workers' comp system which will not burden injured workers or create undue hardships as it might have without your help.

Again, I appreciate the support for labor you were able to drum up from sources our lobbyists could not persuade. Your help was invaluable to us and played a significant role in stemming the tide of harmful provisions and preserving positive components of the bill.

I realize this was a most complex and inordinately difficult measure to support under pressure from other interests who sought to reduce benefits to injured workers and exempt a great many compensable injuries from coverage. It is because you resisted that pressure and stood up for what was right that we were able to avoid disaster. On behalf of the members and officers of the Kentucky State AFL-CIO, you deserve our heartfelt thanks, respect and continued support.

Sincerely,

Morgan Bayless
COPE Director

Documentary recalls historical steamboat race

It was the year 1811, a year when bad earthquakes and terrible floods swept the South, that Robert Fulton launched the New Orleans—the first true Mississippi steamboat. For the rest of the 19th century, steamboats conquered the mighty river, culminating in the great race of 1870.

Join screen legend Loretta Young in a look back at The Great Steamboat Race, airing on KET at 10 p.m. Thursday, May 26. The big race of 1870, during the turbulent period of Reconstruction, pitted the Southern boat, the Natchez, against the Robert E. Lee (ironically considered a Northern boat). Filled with anecdotal side trips and historical stills from the period, this documentary is a colorful journey through the Mississippi's past and present.

Tips on using car seats

Never use rear-facing car safety seats in vehicles equipped with front-seat airbags, says the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA).

Appalachian Regional Healthcare wants you to know that securing small children in car safety seats remains the safest option for them while traveling in an automobile. It's also the law. But rear-facing infant restraints extend farther forward in vehicles than front-facing safety seats, creating the potential for serious injuries caused by the force of an opening airbag. The NHTSA now requires rear-facing child safety seats to carry a warning label about the risks involved if they are used in the front seats of cars with passenger-side air bags.

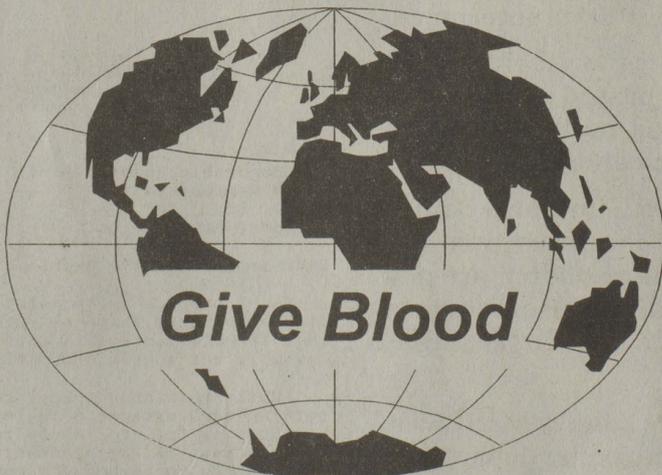

The American Coalition for Traffic Safety, Inc., (ACTS) says that front-facing child safety seats are safe to use in the front seat of airbag-equipped vehicles. The safety seat, however, should be adjusted as far back as possible.

ACTS adds that it is critical for adults and older children who do not require safety seats to use their safety belts in vehicles. Safety belts should be worn with the lap belt low and snug across the hips and the shoulder belt across the chest. Drivers of vehicles equipped with airbags should position themselves away from the airbag module, and never rest against the steering wheel. ACTS says that resting against an airbag module when it deploys can cause serious or even fatal injury.

If you have questions regarding the use of child safety seats, seatbelts, or airbags, call the American Coalition for Traffic Safety at (703) 243-7501 or write 1110 N. Glebe Road, Suite 1020, Arlington, VA 22201.

Seventh-day Adventists Believe...

God the Eternal Son became incarnate in Jesus Christ. Through Him all things were created, the character of God is revealed, the salvation of humanity is accomplished, and the world is judged. Forever truly God, He became also truly man, Jesus the Christ. He was conceived of the Holy Spirit and born of the virgin Mary. He lived and experienced temptation as a human being, but perfectly exemplified the righteousness and love of God. By His miracles He manifested God's power and was attested as God's promised Messiah. He suffered and died voluntarily on the cross for our sins and in our place, was raised from the dead, and ascended to minister in the heavenly sanctuary in our behalf. He will come again in glory for the final deliverance of His people and the restoration of all things.—Fundamental Beliefs, 4.

New chapter recognized

Pikeville College recently organized a new National Education Association/Kentucky Education Association—Student Projects Chapter.

Pikeville College establishes new NEA/KEA-SP chapter

Pikeville College's new chapter of the National Education Association/Kentucky Education Association—Student Projects (NEA/KEA-SP) recently received special recognition at a procedural convention in Louisville.

The chapter, as well as advisors Jane Carpenter and Tom Diamantes, were recognized as new members in the organization. Student representatives Janice Church and Angela Mazzuchi, and instructor Carpenter, attended seminars covering violence, teaching styles and valued outcomes designed to enhance teacher's performance in the classroom. The representatives also had an opportunity to meet with other NEA/KEA-SP representatives from across the state.

The purpose of NEA/KEA-SP is to promote professionalism and quality in college educational training programs. According to Carpenter, the organization helps students with insurance for student-teaching assignments, job placement and keeps them up to date with new laws affecting education. Says Carpenter, "they are like the wings to support the new teacher."

Officers of the Pikeville College organizations are Janice Church, president; Angela Mazzuchi, president elect; Pam Taylor, secretary/historian; and Rick Branham, treasurer. Faculty advisors are Jane Carpenter and Tom Diamantes.

PCC graduation scheduled Friday

Close to 200 students will receive degrees during Prestonsburg Community College's 29th commencement ceremony at 7 p.m. on Friday, May 20, at the Jenny Wiley State Resort Park amphitheater.

Laura Weddle, who is retiring this spring after 28 years as professor of communication, will deliver the commencement address.

Two prominent area civic leaders will receive Service Awards from the PCC Faculty Assembly. They are Burl Wells Spurlock, president of First Commonwealth Bank in Prestonsburg, and Raymond Bradbury, retired president of Martin County Coal Company. Both will be recognized for their leadership roles in the community.

Also recognized will be Dr. Dorothy Carlson, associate professor of education, winner of the Student Congress' Great Teacher Award for 1993-94.

Music for the ceremony will be provided by the PCC Community Chorus and Concert Band, directed by M. Michael Conley.

PCC President Dr. Deborah L. Floyd will formally confer the degrees on the graduates and will recognize student award winners.

The graduation ceremony is open to the public.

From one day to two weeks, girls can enjoy horseback riding, canoeing, sailing, rappelling, rock climbing and more. You do not have to be an active Girl Scout to participate.

All events are low cost for the program experience. Activities are planned all over central and eastern Kentucky at five camps owned by the Girl Scouts as well as state parks, universities and community centers.

For more information on the Summer Spectacular program, call the Girl Scout office at 293-2621 or (800)-475-2621.

Fact sheet available for answers to wetlands questions

Ever get confused about all the wetland protection laws? Wonder which agencies have regulatory authority over wetlands? Want to know how wetland protection strategies evolved, when "no-net-loss" became a national goal, what influenced the "environmental decade?"

The answers to these and many other questions can be found in a new fact sheet developed by the Kentucky Division of Water. The fact sheet displays an annotated, chronological view of the history of wetland-related legislation and activities in the federal government and in the Commonwealth of Kentucky. The purpose of the fact sheet is to (1) provide a summary of federal wetland protection strategies, (2) highlight Kentucky's involvement in wetland protection, (3) illustrate as clearly and concisely as possible the evolution of wetland protection, and (4) place wetland protection events into historical perspective. The fact sheet is in an easy-to-read format and includes information beginning in 1849 and continuing to the present.

To receive a copy of the fact sheet, contact Jeff Grubbs at the Kentucky Division of Water, 14 Reilly Road, Frankfort, KY 40601, or call (502) 564-3410.

Area groups are out for blood

Three of Floyd County's civic organizations are out for blood! The Kiwanis, Optimist and Rotary Clubs of Prestonsburg are engaging in the sixth annual Civic Club Challenge for the most blood donors from May 24 through May 26 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily at the Prestonsburg Donor Center.

Last year, the Kiwanis Club was victorious, but the Rotary was close behind. The new Optimist Club will certainly give them a run for their money. These clubs compete against each other for the most donors, but more importantly, are joining together to assure there will be enough blood available for the people of Eastern Kentucky over the holiday weekend.

Lend support to help meet the potential Memorial Day shortage by donating blood on May 24, 25 or 26, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day. Donors will receive a free CKBC T-shirt and will be eligible for door prizes. For more information, call 886-1557.

Chris Halbert placed first in the men's long jump with his leap of 19 feet 11 inches. Kevin Stumbo was a close second at 18 feet 11 inches. Todd Samons placed fifth overall at 16 feet.

His brother, Marty Hall, had the largest total of species and received a trophy for his efforts.

Little eyes tell the story at Kids' Day in the Park

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Saturday morning brought overcast skies, after a beautiful week of sunshine, and some light rain fell on Archer Park as the early part of the afternoon arrived. But all the overcast skies and rain failed to dampen the spirits of nearly 800 kids that took part in the WMDJ/Food City Kids' Day at the park this past weekend.

It was the first annual event for Prestonsburg and it will not be the last as plans are for the event to return next year at the same locations.

The day's events brought many kids, parents and grandparents out to watch as kids from under three up to nine years old took part in the festivities.

The large turnout no doubt was good for the city's economy.

Harvey breaks Wade's record in 800-meters

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Allen Central freshman Annie Harvey is on course to become a solid distance runner for the Ridge Runners. Harvey broke Jessica Wade's record in the women's 800-meter run at Johnson Central last Friday with a time of 2:38.28 to take first place. Wade's old record was 2:42.48.

"Annie was sick when she ran the race," said Coach Dewey Jamerson. "She didn't run the mile race and didn't run in the two-mile. She just came flying down the straight away."

Summer Bailey finished sixth in the 800-meter run.

The Allen Central 3200-meter relay team took first place with a time of 11:33.7. The foursome included Kristel Floyd, Harvey, Dreama Isaac and Crystal Martin.

The 1600-meter relay team had to forfeit its first place finish when it was disqualified when Crystal Martin ran out of her lane following a hand off.

With the disqualification, the Allen Central second team, consisting of Summer Bailey, Heather Conley, Greta Halbert and Jennifer Patton moved up to second place after it had finished third.

It was a second place finish for the half-mile relay team (800-meters). Nicole Clark, Floyd, Isaac and Elisha Ousley posted a time of 2:08.8 for a second place finish.

The second Allen Central team took third place in the 800-meter run.

To understand what the days' activities meant to the participants, you only had to look into their eyes and watch the expressions on their faces.

If they didn't win, they didn't pout or throw things, they were just glad to be competing. The very young at heart were not the only ones enjoying the day. Those who just refuse to grow old, had a good time also as they rooted, hollered, cheered and coached their favorite kid.

"Just the expression on their faces told the story," said WMDJ station owner Dale McKinney, who along with Food City sponsored the event. "You could see the enjoyment they were having."

The idea for the event came about when McKinney said that he remembered the good times that he experienced when he was in school and the "Field Day" events that were held where everyone competed against one another.

"I took part in all of it," he said. "I never won, but I certainly had a good time. I enjoyed it and it has always stuck with me through the years."

"We wanted to do something for the kids," he said. "Just to see the look on their faces was reward enough. We all had fun and it was good for the kids."

McKinney said that the best thing about it was that everybody won something.

"There were no losers. Everyone won something."

A competitive sport!

These participants were all smiles as they took part in the sack races during Kids' Day in the Park this past Saturday at Archer Park. The smiles on the faces tells the story of how they enjoyed the day's events even when they were falling down. Kids' Day was a huge success and will return next year. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Clay, Fannin lead Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats past Paintsville

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The girls' softball district tournament got underway this past Monday evening with the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats taking on the Lady Tigers of Paintsville in the opening game.

Under some clear skies and very pleasant conditions, the Lady Blackcats advanced on to semifinal action by posting a 13-2 win over Paintsville.

The bats of Jamie Clay and Jeanna Fannin led the hit parade for Prestonsburg as it collected 15 hits in the game. Clay had four including a double and a triple. Fannin banged out three hits with a second inning double.

Deanna Laferty had only one hit, but it was a big one as she belted a two-run home run in the fourth inning. Jamie Ratcliff and Camille Robinson had two hits each.

Paintsville collected only five hits off of starter Carolyn Jones. The Lady Tigers didn't help their cause any by committing seven errors.

The two teams played to a scoreless tie through the first two innings when Prestonsburg exploded for six runs in the bottom of the third to take a 6-0 lead. Clay's one out double started the rally as 11 batters paraded to the plate.

Ratcliff doubled behind Clay and two errors by Paintsville allowed three unearned runs to score. Robinson and Fannin had RBI singles in the inning.

The Lady Blackcats pushed home three more runs in their half of the fourth to go on top 9-0. A one out triple by Clay and Ratcliff's RBI single made it 7-0. Laferty then belted her two-run home run for the 9-0 count.

Paintsville avoided the shutout by scoring a single run in the top of the fifth inning. An error and a base hit by Martha Kelly made it 9-1.

Prestonsburg scored a run in the bottom of the inning for a 10-1 score. Clay had a RBI hit to score Michelle Clark.

Paintsville got their final run in the top of the sixth when Estep doubled home Hall. The Lady Blackcats added three in the bottom of the inning, all unearned, to complete the 13-2 scoring.

Tackett leads Betsy Layne offense in 24-3 district win over Sheldon Clark

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Sheldon Clark coaching staff thought it was going to have to call the local fire department to put the Betsy Layne Lady Cats out in the first inning of their district tournament game at the Allen Park Monday evening.

Betsy Layne sent 19 batters to the plate in the initial inning and scored 15 times en route to a 24-3 bashing of the Lady Cardinals.

Freshman Ashley Tackett collected three hits, scored three times and drove in three runs while hitting two doubles, to lead the Lady Cats at the plate.

But Tackett had help offensively as well as Heather Keathley and Dawn Watson chipped in with three hits. Keathley just missed hitting for the cycle as she tripled, doubled and singled in four at bats. Watson had a double and two singles.

The Lady Cats were playing without their regular shortstop, Misty Clark, but Ashley Bartley filled the bill at shortstop with some excellent fielding plays. She also had two hits in the game.

Shanna Clark, despite only collecting one hit, picked up four RBIs in the contest. She had a fourth inning double to drive in a run. She scored a run on a fielder's choice play and picked up an RBI with a sacrifice fly.

Jessica Johnson drove in three runs and just missed clearing the fence in center field when she doubled home

Castle perfect, Hunter homers as Betsy Layne drubs South Floyd

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was youth versus tons of experience and it showed as South Floyd (0-16) faced the 58th District's top team in the first round of the district baseball tournament at the Stumbo Park in Allen Monday night.

South Floyd, in its first season, fielded only two seniors and the rest were freshmen and sophomores for Coach Jim Rose's ballclub.

"We're a young team," he said before his team took the field against Junior Newsome's Bobcats. "We're going to be good in time."

Betsy Layne sent 18 batters to the plate in the first inning alone as it batted around twice while scoring 14 runs.

South Floyd starter T.T. Pack struck out the first batter for Betsy Layne, Derrick Newsome, and that would be the last out that he would get as the Bobcats got the bats out of the rack and collected nine hits in the inning. Greg "Mitch" Hunter drilled a long two-run home run, his sixth of the season, over the left center field fence in the initial inning.

Pack was relieved by left-hander Scott Hall as he faced Willie Meade. Meade gave Hall a rather rude greeting by lining a two-run single to center field. Keith Hamilton roped a base hit and, after Newsome reached on an error, Chris Potter doubled in a run.

That was it for Hall as Chris Moore came on to take the ball in hand on the mound.

Scott Ousley appeared at the plate with the bags loaded to face Moore. He doubled off Moore's first pitch and sent two runners home. Moore gave up a two-run single to Meade before getting Hamilton to bounce back to the mound for the final out.

Fourteen runs didn't appear enough for the Bobcats as they plated five more in the bottom of the second to take a 19-0 lead. Potter, Castle and Shannon Newsome had consecutive base hits and Hunter picked up two more RBIs with a base hit.

Betsy Layne added two runs in each of the third and fourth innings. Castle drove in two runs in the fourth

Betsy Layne's Reed continues to dominate track meets

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It has been a good track season for Betsy Layne's Nikki Reed as she continues to dominate all the meets that she takes part in.

The only time she failed to capture a first place finish was at the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) meet in Shelby County two weeks ago. There she took home two second place finishes in the 200- and 400-meter runs.

Since the FCA meet, Reed has been dominating the circuit as she sets to defend her regional title this weekend at Breathitt County.

Last Tuesday at Pikeville, Reed won the women's 400-meter dash with a time of 1:07. Returning to Pikeville this past Thursday, she finished first in the 100-, 200- and 400-meter runs.

Reed posted her best time ever in the women's 100 meters with a finish of 13.3. She ran a 27.8 in the 200 and finished at 1:05.9 in the 400 meters.

It was another personal best for the Betsy Layne runner as she ran a 1:04.5 to win the 400 meters during the Johnson Central Invitational this past Friday. She posted a first place finish in each of the 100- and 200-meter runs. She had a time of 13.3 in the 100 and ran a 27.6 in the 200.

Reed is the reigning 400 meter regional champion from last year when she made a trip to the state meet in Lexington.

High five time!

Betsy Layne's Greg Hunter was greeted at home plate by teammates after he hit a two-run home run in the first inning when Betsy Layne batted around twice in the first inning. Betsy Layne posted a 23-2 win over South Floyd in the first game of the district tournament. (photo by Ed Taylor)

A big hit!

The Prestonsburg Little League girls' softball team is a big hit in its first season. Players like this are enjoying the game and will one day be a star in high school. League director Bridget Clay said the league got off to a tremendous start.

The foursome included Conley, Halbert, Amy Howard and Keisha Spencer.

Clark, Pam Goble, Isaac and Jessica Slone ran a 1:00.6 for first place in the 400-meter relays. Conley, Halbert, Howard and Spencer finished third in the event.

In the 100 hurdles, Pam Goble placed first while teammate Lisa Stumbo had a costly spill for a third place finish. Goble recorded a time of 20.22 for first place and Stumbo's time of 22.00 was good enough for third. Stumbo tripped over one hurdle and fell, costing her seconds.

Stumbo did finish strong in the women's 300-meter hurdles with a second place finish. She was timed at 58.75.

Jessica Slone placed fifth overall in the women's 100-meter dash. Crystal Martin ran a 6:35.11 for second place in the women's 1600-meter run. Mary Baldrige finished fourth at 6:53.90.

"I am expecting big things from Crystal this week," said Coach Jamerson in reference to this week's regional meet at Breathitt County.

Floyd and Ousley finished four and five in the women's 400-meter dash. Floyd came in at 1:08.16 for fourth place and Ousley ran a 1:17.41 for fifth.

Nicole Clark finished third overall in the women's 200-meter dash at 31.64. Mary Baldrige took second place in the 3200-meter run at 15:51.28.

In the field events, Clark placed first in the women's long jump with a leap of 13 feet 2 inches. An ailing arm kept Allen Central's top discus thrower from competing as Melissa Mullins sat out the Johnson Central meet.

However, Jennifer Patton placed second and Jenny Wells finished third in the event. Patton had a toss of 59 feet 10 inches for second place and Wells was an inch shy at 59 feet 9 inches.

Wells took second place in the women's shot put with a throw of 28 feet 3 inches. Patton had her personal best for third place at 20 feet.

"We ran well," said Coach Jamerson. "I was surprised with Annie's time. It was a good meet for us with a week before the regionals. The kids were up for it and I think it is because of the medals they gave out for the meet. That always gets the kids interested."

Kids' Day

chett looked like teenagers again just having a good time. The two were involved in the events while Edwards could be seen with the black and white checkered flag at the Big Wheel races.

Burchett was enjoying her role in the sack races for the four different age groups.

WMDJ radio personality "Ranger" Rick Caudill was encouraging the kids that took part in the Limbo event. "Ranger" Rick even took time to show how it was done.

The first event was the Big Wheel Race that saw four winners in the age groups. Matthew Sword won the three-and-under age group with Justin Collins placing first for the four- and five-year-olds.

Kaylan Tussey took first place for the six and seven while Stacy Clark won in the eight and nine age group.

All kids (and some adults) like to see how big of a bubble they can blow. Well, the Biggest Bubble contest was won by Cody Porter for the three-and-under age group. Kelly Jarrell took the top spot in the four- and five-year-olds age group. Kelly Clark placed first for the six and seven while Paul Francis won the eight and nine.

"How low can you go?" Well contestants got a chance to see when they tried their hand at the Limbo event. It was a fun time when each one had to pass under the pole without knocking it down or touching the ground.

Christian Francis proved that he was the best of the three-and-under group. Kimberly Collins took first for the four and five with Ricky Castellonis winning in the six and seven group. Crystal Craft took first in the eight and nine age group.

Everyone remembers the old-time sack races. The falls, the bruises, and the fun in trying to be the first that could reach the finish line hopping all the way in a sack.

Francis was out to prove that winning the Limbo event was no fluke as he hopped his way to the finish line to win first place for the three-and-under group. Sarah Hall won the four to five age group. Nichole Harmon took first in the six and seven age group with Tristan Keathley placing first in the eight and nine.

Probably the funniest race to watch was the grueling 50-yard dash for the three-and-under age group where mom and dad were the fun ones to keep your eyes on.

The little ones, who some had just learned to walk, was now asked and encouraged by their parents to run in a race. Once mom or dad placed the youngin at the starting line, they had to move swiftly to the finish line hollering "come to mommy" or "come to daddy." Many of the young participants were hesitant in all the hollering, but Kayla Slone found her way to the finish line for first place.

Justin Crum placed first for the four and five group. Mason Tackett took first in the six and seven age group with Austin Francis finishing first for the eight- and nine-year-olds.

Ever play kick ball? Who could kick it the farthest. That was the matter to be decided in the sixth event of the day. It was Sword of Big Wheel fame, taking first place for the three-and-under group. Seth Moore won in the four and five age group. Kelly Clark and Amanda Tackett placed first in the six and seven and the eight and nine groups, respectively.

Francis met his equal in the three legged race. He and Kayla Slone teamed together and took first place for the three-and-under. Jerrod Ratliff and Jordan Hale were first place finishers for the four and five group. Teela Gayheart and Nichole Harmon won in the six and seven age group with Austin and Paul Francis capturing the eight and nine group.

Event number eight was a test of skill as each contestant was asked to toss bean bags into buckets spaced at different distances. It was Sword winning his third event of the day in the three-and-under age group. Amanda Mills took home first place for the four and five group. Derek Meade finished first in the six and seven age group with Patty Thacker winning first place for the eight and nine.

"We got great help from Archer Park Director Ralph Little," said McKinney. "The Prestonsburg Auxiliary Police were very helpful in directing traffic. Representatives of Food City came all the way from Tennessee to help out. They have already committed themselves for next year.

"We think that next year we will double the size that we had this year," he said.

Slone fans 16 while tossing no-hit game

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Brent Slone was almost perfect against the Martin Braves last week in the Beaver Creek Little League at Drift.

Slone was just three batters shy of a perfect game, but he did toss a no-hitter in his team's 8-0 victory over Martin.

Slone struck out 16 batters and issued three walks in the game. Drift is 3-0 on the young season.

Drift scored five times in the third inning and added three more in the bottom of the fifth.

Joe Skeens started the Astros' third with a base hit. Adam Ward walked and both runners scored on Slone's two-run single. Byron Hall then doubled home Slone and he scored on Jimmy Lee Stumbo's triple.

Jerry Bailey walked to start the Drift fifth adn scored on Skeens' triple. Slone then drilled a two-run home run, scoring Skeens.

Brandon Sizemore pitched well enough to win, but came away with the loss instead. He struck out 13 batters. His effort brought the praise from Astro coach Clinis Hall.

"He's the best that we will face this year," said Hall. "He can really throw the ball."

Curt and Ethel Tackett will not be responsible for any accidents that may occur on the property they bought off CSX Railroad. People who were told they could use it can until otherwise notified.

Howard Rice...perfect twice

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Bowling! What a great game! Just as golfers dream of that elusive hole-in-one, the bowler dreams of that time in his bowling career when he will bowl a perfect 300 game.

For many bowlers, like golfers, that goal is never achieved no matter how many trips to the alley or golf course they make.

But for Howard "Mr. Perfect" Rice, the dream of bowling a 300 game came true not just once but twice (old stuff to him now).

Rice, a native of Floyd County, who resides at Bradley in Magoffin County, experienced the thrill of a lifetime at Pikeville's Classic Lanes back on February 3.

Bowling in the men's Wednesday night league as a member of the Floyd Funeral Home team, Rice bowled his first-ever perfect game after 37 years of bowling that began in Detroit, Michigan. Less than three-months later on April 28, Rice bowled his second perfect score in the same league.

While the first game was quite a thrill, the second game was even sweeter. His brother, Oscar "Big O" Rice, was a substitute bowler this particular night and got to see his brother's second 300 game. The Big "O," as we know him here in Floyd County, said it was "AWESOME BAAABEEEE!" (That's a different story that dates back to the football championships).

"Everyone in the house knew that he had a perfect game going," said Oscar Rice of his brother's effort. "They knew that history was being made and they just went about their business until the 10th frame.

"In the 10th frame everyone got quiet and stood in the back of the lanes. (On the 11th ball), it got real quiet. When he threw the last ball everyone, including myself, rushed up to the lane to watch the last ball. It was a strike."

Rice said that his brother didn't appear nervous, although, "He said, he was."

"They told me that after he bowled his first 300 game he couldn't hold his coffee cup," explained Rice. "He may give it up after this year."

According to Til Ellis, recording secretary at Classic Lanes in Pikeville, Howard Rice joined Edgar Hughes, Trilvie Johnson, Michael Ratliff, Art Avetisen, John Justice and Carlos Spurlock on the Honor Board at Classic Lanes as the only bowlers to bowl 300 games — not once, but twice.

Reed, Bartley Best Newcomers for Pikeville College Lady Bears

Pikeville College held their All-Sports Banquet Sunday, May 8 at the school's gymnasium and Prestonsburg's Amy Reed along with Heather Bartley received the Best Newcomer's Award from the softball team.

Reed, former Prestonsburg standout, was second on the team in batting, hitting .425 for the just completed season. She had 37 hits and collected 23 RBIs while hitting three home runs.

Elizabeth Baird led the Lady Bears from the plate with a .460 batting average. She collected 53 hits and drove in 38 runs. Bartley hit for an average of .412 with 40 hits and 19 RBIs and led the team with four home runs.

Baird and Bartley shared the Most Valuable Player award as a result of a tie in the voting of their teammates. Both players were named to the All-KIAC tournament team by opposing coaches.

The Most Improved Player was second baseman Susan Rowe, a second year player who was playing second base for the first time. Rowe batted .393 with 36 hits and 12 RBIs.

Jennifer Carroll received the Best Defensive Player award after having a season of several outstanding defensive plays. Baird won the Best Offensive Award.

Pitcher Stephanie DeLong, Rowe and Claire Fuller received special KWIC All-American awards, recognizing their outstanding academic achievements. DeLong will attend UK medical school next year.

While the players were receiving recognition, the coaching staff was not left out as head coach Paul Butcher, assistant coaches Bill Baird, II and John Reed received a special presentation from the players.

The coaches and the team also recognized their team physicians, Dr. Steven Shockey and Dr. Steven Harrison.

The Lady Bears will return 12 players to next year's squad with the expectation of adding nine additional players to fill out the squad.

Softball scholarship tryouts will be held at Pikeville High School on Saturday, June 11 from 9 a.m. until noon. All interested individuals should contact Zelena Harmon at the Admissions Office at (606) 432-9200.

likes the way her team is playing.

"We have come a long way," she said. "This is a very young team and a team that has no seniors on it. I'm very proud of the way we have played since the start of the season. But the name of the game is hitting the ball. If we play like we have been we can compete with anyone."

The win improved the Lady Blackcats to 14-7 on the season.

Prestonsburg will face the winner of the Allen Central/Magoffin County game and will take the diamond tonight at 5 p.m.

Gross breaks state three-point record in AAU state tournament

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

They say that records are made to be broken. Michael Gross did just that as the South Floyd 13-year-old AAU basketball team won two games in the state tournament before losing to Kenton County 44-38.

Gross demonstrated his three-point shooting by hitting seven three-point baskets out of seven attempts to lead his team to a 64-55 stunning win over Harlan County in the first round of the state meet.

Gross' effort was good enough to claim a new state individual three-point record for a tournament game. Gross ended the tournament with 11 treys.

South Floyd coach Paul David Tackett sent his team into a full court pressure defense and it caused Harlan County all sorts of problems as it fell to the Floyd County team.

South Floyd scored six quick baskets in a matter of minutes as it grabbed the tip-off and Justin Paige scored. South Floyd never trailed. Paige finished with 14 points in the first quarter.

It was an even more exciting win for South Floyd in the second game when it handed Clinton County a loss. South Floyd employed the full court pressure defense and it dismantled Clinton County. It was the inside and outside play of Anthony Tackett and Darrin Newsome that propelled South Floyd over Clinton County.

Tackett had several key assists and Newsome broke open for a layup that secured the win. But the highlight of the game surrounded Gross again as he drilled a three-point basket that broke still another state tournament record. His final three-pointer set a new record team-wise, for the most three-pointers made in the tournament, 11.

South Floyd's only loss came at the hands of Kenton County which hit three treys to run out to a 15-3 lead. Adam Tackett scored 14 points to lead South Floyd. He also led his team in rebounding.

Coach Tackett's ballclub pulled to within four points of Kenton County behind Gross and Tackett with time running out. Gross hit three three-pointers in the game, but it wasn't good enough to avoid the 44-38 setback.

"This team played two almost flawless games," said Coach Tackett. "Even the fans from other teams were cheering our guys on. One hundred percent hustle is appreciated where ever you go to play, and that's what this team did and gave."

Gross scored 38 points in the three games he played. Adam Tackett tossed in 29 for three games and Darrin Newsome scored 27. Justin Paige finished with 26 points and Jarrod Johnson scored 11. Anthony Tackett had nine, Ryan Hall four. Justin Hall and Jonathan Tackett did not score, but contributed with their spirited play.

At The Cardiopulmonary Institute, Arteries Aren't All We've Been Opening

It's been a successful operation, to say the least.

In just a little more than two years, the Cardiopulmonary Institute at King's Daughters' Medical Center has emerged as a major regional cardiology center. And as our reputation has grown, so has the demand for our services. So we've expanded our staff and facilities to bring high quality cardiopulmonary care to even more people who need it.

We've added a second cardiac catheterization lab, along with its own team of highly trained specialists, to meet the increased demand for diagnostic and interventional procedures.

We've also recruited a second open-heart surgery team, led by a surgeon from the prestigious Deborah Heart and Lung Center in New Jersey.

Finally, we've opened an angioplasty observation area, to provide highly specialized nursing care and continuous monitoring of patients recovering from angioplasty.

To find out more about our services, just call (606) 327-4652. You'll find the expansion of the Cardiopulmonary Institute at King's Daughters' opens up even more opportunities to get the care you need, close to home.

with a double, his fourth hit of the game.

Chris Potter was a perfect four-for-four with two doubles. He was on base five times, once by a walk, and he scored all five times. He doubled twice.

Barry Clark swung a hot bat with two hits in two plate appearances and he drove in three runs. Both hits were doubles. Hunter finished with four runs batted in and two hits.

Meade, who has been swinging a strong bat of late, picked up three hits in four appearances at the plate. He finished with four RBIs.

Keith Hamilton had two singles and Ousley collected two runs batted in on his lone hit, a double.

South Floyd collected only two hits in the game with Terrance Mullins leading off the third with a base hit. Steve Hamilton got the second hit and only RBI for the Raiders in the fifth inning when they scored two unearned runs.

Scott Hall led off the fifth reaching on an error by Castle at second. After Pete Dawson fanned, Shannon Slone's fly ball to left was misplayed and Mullins reached on an error by Clark at first base. Hall scored on Hamilton's base hit.

Derrick Newsome picked up the win while starter Pack suffered the loss for the Raiders. Newsome worked the five innings allowing just the two runs on two hits. He struck out nine and walked one batter.

Pack went one-third of an inning before being relieved by Hall. He allowed six runs on four hits, walked one and struck out one. Hall went one full inning, before being relieved by Moore in the second inning. Hall allowed 12 runs on nine hits. He walked three and did not fan a batter. Moore worked the final two and two-thirds, giving up four runs on six hits. He struck out one and walked one.

Betsy Layne collected 20 hits in the game and committed an uncharacteristic five errors. South Floyd had three errors.

Betsy Layne (21-11) will face the winner of the Allen Central/Prestonsburg game tonight at 5:30 p.m. at Stumbo Park.

Listening to instructions!

Tabitha Caudill listened very closely as instructions were given just before the sack race at Archer Park Saturday morning. The event was part of Kids' Day in the Park. Nearly 800 kids gathered at the event and all enjoyed the afternoon. (photo by Ed Taylor)

'IRRELEVANT' MARTY MOORE LOOKS FORWARD TO DISNEY WORLD, NFL PATS

Perfect. 197th, 213th would have been no good. Marty Moore was picked 222nd, dead last in the '94 NFL Draft. Perfect for an overachieving student-athlete accustomed to motivating himself again and again, to prove something, earn respect.

And Moore gets an incredible bonus. When he was chosen last by the New England Patriots, the former UK linebacker became an instant celebrity, named Mr. Irrelevant XIX by a Newport Beach, California company (where else?) called Irrelevant Week.

Founded by entrepreneur Paul Salata, (last pick by the 49ers 19 years ago), Irrelevant Week will fly Moore to the Left Coast for a June 26-July 1 "week of sun, sand and screwdrivers."

Moore will visit Disney World, participate in the Beer Can Regatta yacht race, and be guest of honor at a celebrity roast dinner.

"(Patriots) Coach (Bill) Parcells told me, 'you can make some extra money off this,'" Moore said. "But he was joking. I just said that I was happy to be drafted at all."

In fact, if Moore had not been drafted he had a safety net.

"His was the top name on our list of candidates for a free agent contract," Jim Miller of the New Orleans Saints told Sports In Ky. "We really liked Moore. I thought we had him too, but then the Patriots came along."

Footnote: Moore's selection by the Pats has another twist. Before the draft New England acquired the 222nd pick in exchange for quarterback Hugh Millen. Acquired from whom? The Dallas Cowboys.

KY. PREP COACHES 'PASSING SHOW'

Springtime in Kentucky, when the grass grows greener ... someplace else. College coaches are noted for being rolling stones, but high school ones are changing jobs more frequently too.

Most intriguing moves in the Bluegrass this spring? Could be...

Basketball: High School Coach of the Year Bill Hicks left an ultra successful program at Corbin (eight consecutive 25-wins seasons and six straight 50th District titles) for Scott County in Georgetown.

Having spent his entire head coaching experience in the 13th Region, the 41-year-old Hicks needed a new landscape and he will get it, 'trading off' Clay County for Scott County.

"The kids at Scott County better be ready to work, and hard," Corbin native Bill Crook warned. "Hicks is the best coach in Kentucky."

Football: Tom Duffy jumped ship at Ft. Thomas Highlands (two 3-A state titles) for Henderson County.

Duffy is so intense (and, at times abrasive) he alienates supporters. "Some of the parents just got fed up with him," one observer said last week.

WHITE, PEHLKE, FARMER HONORED

Kudos to the Ky. Lions Eye Foundation's Hall of Fame committee for its picks for induction this year.

Bob White of the Louisville Courier-Journal; Kim Pehlke, Miss Basketball '88 and a star at Doss and Western Ky.; and Richie Farmer, Mr. Basketball '88 and a starter on UK's 29-7 team that lost to Duke in arguably the best college game ever played in 1992.

Particularly gratifying to This Space is White's inclusion. In part because he is a reluctant inductee.

"It shocked me," White said last week. "I really feel honored, but quite honestly I think the hall of fame things ought to be for players and coaches and not media people. We're doing a job we get paid to do. I've just been doing it a long time, that's all."

White has been a sports reporter for 35 years, the last 32 writing about high school athletics.

White, Pehlke and Farmer will be recognized at halftime of the Kentucky-Indiana boys all-star game June 18 in Freedom Hall.

PITINO NEEDS A HISTORY LESSON

University of Kentucky basketball coach Rick Pitino said recently that 'recruiting the Louisville area' more effectively had nothing to do with hiring Winston Bennett. High school players don't remember who Bennett is, Da Coach said.

Right. That's why Bennett is signing autographs six years after leaving UK. Besides, it isn't as important that a youngster remembers Bennett as much as the former UK star knows his way around his home town, is acquainted with the high school coaches, and players' parents.

Pitino also suggested Louisville does not produce 'that many' Div. I prospects anyway.

Da Coach was either speaking tongue-in-cheek, or his golf hat was on too tight.

Putting aside Dwayne Morton, Jason Osborne, DeJuan Wheat, if Pitino checked a little history he might recognize the names Felton Spencer, Darrell Griffith, Wes Unseld, Mike Silliman, Jeff Lamp, Allan Houston, Derek Anderson and Jermaine Brown, and Mr. Basketball 1983, Winston Bennett.

The list goes on. Maybe this helps explain why Pitino's recruiting record is, uh, spotty.

BITS 'N PEOPLE

Say, is that former Shelby Co. Rocket Lee Tinsley, patrolling the outfield at Fenway Park these days? ... Kentucky's Gimel Martinez has signed a 5-year contract with Panasonic in Japan, $100,000 per.... Bill Curry's '94 Wildcats are picked to finish eighth in the SEC this autumn, next to last in the Eastern Div. By whom? SEC sports information directors (who picked UK last in '93).... Let's see, Jamal Mashburn at small forward, Glenn Robinson at power, Jimmy Jackson at 2-guard, Dallas Mavs a contender!?

HOOPS RULES: GOOD NEWS

Good news. The men's college basketball rules committee voted to leave the game alone for 1994-95. No changes. The 3-point line distance stays at 19-9 feet. The no-5-second call stays.

Only change I hoped would happen was voted down—reset the shot clock from 35 seconds back to 45.

In another move that could shift college hoops closer to NBA, the rules committee voted to let conferences experiment with a 20-second timeout per half.

RALPH WILLARD'S WKU DEPARTURE

In columns past (and on a couple of radio shows last month), I criticized Ralph Willard for 'abandoning' Western Kentucky U.'s basketball program.

In fact, a major reason—also expressed in this space six weeks ago—for Willard's departure to Pittsburgh, was because Hilltopper basketball does not get equal respect and considerations from other Div. I programs.

Understandable, Willard's frustration and disgust with schools refusing to play the Toppers in Bowling Green.

Example: Louisville dictated terms on when and where the Cards and Hilltoppers play. Now, Matt Kilcullen and director of athletics Jim Richards will go to Denny Crum and Bill Olsen with hat in hand since Western's new coach says he wants to renew a series with UofL.

Respect more than money drove Willard to Pitt.

JUST WONDERING DEPT.

At week's end 13 college underclassmen had declared for the NBA Draft.

Glenn Robinson, Purdue; Veshon Lenard, Minnesota; Jason Kidd and Lamond Murray, Cal; Juwan Howard and Jalen Rose, Michigan; Yinka Dare, G. Washington; Donyell Marshall, UConn; Sharone Wright, Clemson; Cliff Rozier, UofL; Charles Claxton, Georgia; Jamie Brandon, LSU; and Dontonio Wingfield, Cincinnati.

Question: Anybody want to take a guess on how many and who will return to school ... and still be eligible to play?

And so it goes. Have a point of view you want to share? Write to Bob Watkins, Sports In Ky., P.O. Box 124, Glendale, Ky. 42740.

Rifles ink first two rookies; housing needed

The Kentucky Rifles professional baseball team inked their first two rookies for the upcoming 1994 baseball season.

The Rifles signed first baseman Andre Tucker and outfielder Henry Infante. Tucker is considered a power-hitting first baseman while Infante will be used as a utility infielder.

Neither has played professional baseball before this year. The two join Jimmy Ryan, Rob Taylor, Jamie Stash, Billy Brice and Mitch Deskins on the roster of the Rifles.

Tucker, a Little Rock native, is a powerful hitter that was recommended by the Florida Marlins. The Marlins intend to keep track of Tucker's success this season.

"Andre's power will help the Big BlueMachine score runs," said Rifles General Manager Whitebeard, "and his relationship with the Marlins will help his teammates, too. It's nice to know that a major league team is watching."

Whitebeard added that scouts from the Baltimore Orioles and Boston Red Sox have also verbally committed to scout the team.

Infante is a prototypical utility infielder, playing every infield position, including catcher and pitcher. He hails from baseball rich Miami and works part-time as a stand-up comedian. Infante has excellent speed, and has said he will play anywhere the manager prefers.

"Players like Henry are exceedingly valuable in a league like ours," said Whitebeard. "Because of limited roster sizes, it's great to have a guy with his flexibility who can step in to any of those six positions in case of injuries. He also gives us a lot of freedom in putting together the rest of our team. If we want to designate him as a catcher, middle infielder, or corner man, we can do that without fear of playing him out of position."

The Rifles are scheduled to start their season June 17 in Portsmouth and are looking for volunteers to house players during the '94 season.

"Our players need a place to stay during the pre-season and season," said Whitebeard. "We will offer four free season tickets to anyone who houses a player during the season."

Whitebeard said that the players would arrive on or around June 4 and would stay no later than September 5.

Anyone interested should call the Rifles' office at (606) 432-HITS.

Paintsville Big League readies for fifth season

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

June is just around the corner and that signals the start of another Paintsville Big League baseball season.

The area team will be starting its fifth season. The past four seasons have been a big success story for Kentucky's number one Big League team, having won two state championships.

Paintsville is the state's defending champion and returns most of last year's squad. The league is for players age 16 to 18.

Coaches Paul David Brown and Johnnie LeMaster plan to meet with all interested, eligible players on Monday, May 30 at the Paintsville Park and Play Ground. All interested players are invited to attend the meeting.

Paintsville will begin practice on May 30 and the team will hold its annual cookout/car wash on Saturday, June 4 at Wal-Mart in Paintsville as a fund raiser.

Paintsville will host its own invitational tournament June 17 and 18, which will include Lexington, Huntington, Laurel County and Madison County.

The team will board a bus for its scheduled trip to Florida on June 27 when it takes part in the Panama City Tournament. Paintsville will play in the south division. The winners out of the four divisions will square off in a four team tournament Sunday, July 3.

On the trip down, Paintsville will make a stop in New Albany, Georgia for a game before continuing on to Panama City. If the Paintsville team fails to make the four-team tournament, it will make a second stop in Georgia, on the return trip, to face Decatur.

This year, Paintsville will host the state Big League tournament at the Paintsville Park.

The regular season starts on June 10 when Paintsville travels to Haz-

Cubs edge Rangers 14-13

The Prestonsburg Cubs opened their Little League season with a slugfest against the Prestonsburg Rangers.

The Cubs edged the Rangers 14-13 despite some heavy hitting by Robert Spradlin. Spradlin was perfect at the plate with a single, triple and home run. He collected five RBIs in the game and scored three times.

Neil Fannin led the Cubs at the plate with two hits and two runs batted in. He scored four times.

Chris Prater picked up the win for the Cubs in relief of Fannin, who started the game. Fannin worked three innings, allowed four runs on three hits and he fanned six while giving up five walks.

Prater allowed nine runs on seven hits and he walked three while fanning four.

Spradlin was the losing pitcher, going an inning and a third. He allowed two runs on two hits with three strike outs and three walks.

The Rangers scored three times in the top of the first inning on a single by Josh Slone, who had three hits in the game, and a triple by Spradlin.

The Cubs came back with nine runs in their half of the first with some help from the Rangers' defense. They committed four errors and starter Ricky Powers gave up five walks in the inning.

Powers worked the first three innings for the Rangers allowing 12 runs on four hits. He struck out three and walked 11.

Both teams scored in the second, but the Cubs took a 12-4 lead in the third on a wild pitch and a sacrifice by J. Sosebee.

The Rangers came roaring back with a six run fourth. Josh Shepherd walked, stole second and scored on a Clifton Jordan single. Both Jordan and Slone scored when Aaron Bingham tripled to right center. Spradlin singled home Bingham and he scored on a wild pitch. Zack Slone scored the Rangers' 10th run on a wild pitch.

Burchett singled in Fannin in the Cubs fourth for a 13-10 game. But the Rangers caught the Cubs in the fifth when Bingham doubled home Jordan and Spradlin got all of a Chris Prater pitch and sent the ball sailing out of the park for a two-run home run to knot the game at 13-13.

The Cubs scored the final run in the bottom of the fifth when the Rangers third baseman made an errant throw to first allowing Hunt to score the winning run. The game was shortened due to the 7:30 time limit.

Floyd collects four hits as AC defeats South Floyd

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Right fielder Glenn Floyd collected four hits as the Allen Central Rebels defeated the South Floyd Raiders 10-4 in high school baseball action last week.

Floyd had a first inning double and collected three singles to lead the Rebels from the plate.

Kevin Martin picked up the win in relief of Brandon Hicks. Hicks ran into some trouble in the Raiders' third when they pushed home four runs to take a 4-0 lead.

Allen Central scored a single run in the bottom of the third to make it a 4-1 game. Allen Central scored five times in its half of the fourth to go up 6-4.

Consecutive singles by Floyd and Jason Martin to begin the Rebel fourth set the stage for RBI hits by Josh Hansford and Brian Reed. One run scored on an error in right field. Roy John Martin picked up a RBI with a sacrifice.

South Floyd took a 4-0 lead with four runs in its half of the fourth inning. All the scoring came with two-out against starter Hicks. Eric Cook singled and Ryan Brown followed with a walk. Adams then lined a double to right center field for two runs. Howell was hit-by-pitch and Hicks walked Scotty Hall. Pete Dawson grounded to second forcing Hall, but a run scored on the play. Hamilton singled home the final run in the inning.

Kevin Martin worked four and a third innings. He struck out eight batters and walked three. He fanned the side in the sixth and seventh innings. Martin got Adams and Howell in the sixth inning with the bases loaded.

Hall, Jason Martin and Brian Reed had two hits each for Allen Central. Brown had two hits for South Floyd and Adams picked up two runs batted in.

"Who is that behind the Foster Grants?"

That's Carolyn Jones, pitcher for the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats. Jones hurled in the opening game of the girls' district softball tournament. Prestonsburg defeated Paintsville 13-2 to advance to the second round. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Wild West rodeo is coming to Pikeville

Looking for something different this Memorial Day weekend?

Something exciting you can bring your whole family to?

Would you like a unique sporting event with a truly American feel?

Then pull on your best cowboy boots and hat, load up those little cowpokes and move on up to Pikeville's Bob Amos Park for the Pikeville College Championship Rodeo, May 27-28 at 8 p.m.

Top national and local rodeo cowboys will vie for large prize purses in this two day competition featuring bareback bronc riding, calf roping, steer wrestling, saddle bronc riding, team roping, bull riding, and cowgirl barrel racing.

Advance tickets are available at all Happy Mart locations and are $8 for adults and $3 for children. Prices are $10 and $5 at the gate. The event is sponsored by Commonwealth Equipment and Pepsi-All Sport.

Rodeo is the only major sport with completely American roots. It dates back to the mid-1800s as a contest of skills between top hands and top stock from rival cattle ranches. Locations were usually open pasture, but soon enterprising merchants realized they could make a buck on the competitions. They convinced the cowboys to hold their contests in town on a specific date by offering prize money. Then they advertised the dates, drawing people from miles around.

The first such organized competitions were in Cheyenne, Pecos and Prescott in the old West. Today, rodeos are held from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and in Mexico, Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Australia. The largest rodeo in the world is the annual Calgary Stampede in Canada.

Steer wrestling, probably the most exciting event, requires the cowboys to jump from a galloping horse onto a fleeing steer, throw it to the ground and hold it down. The fastest competitor wins.

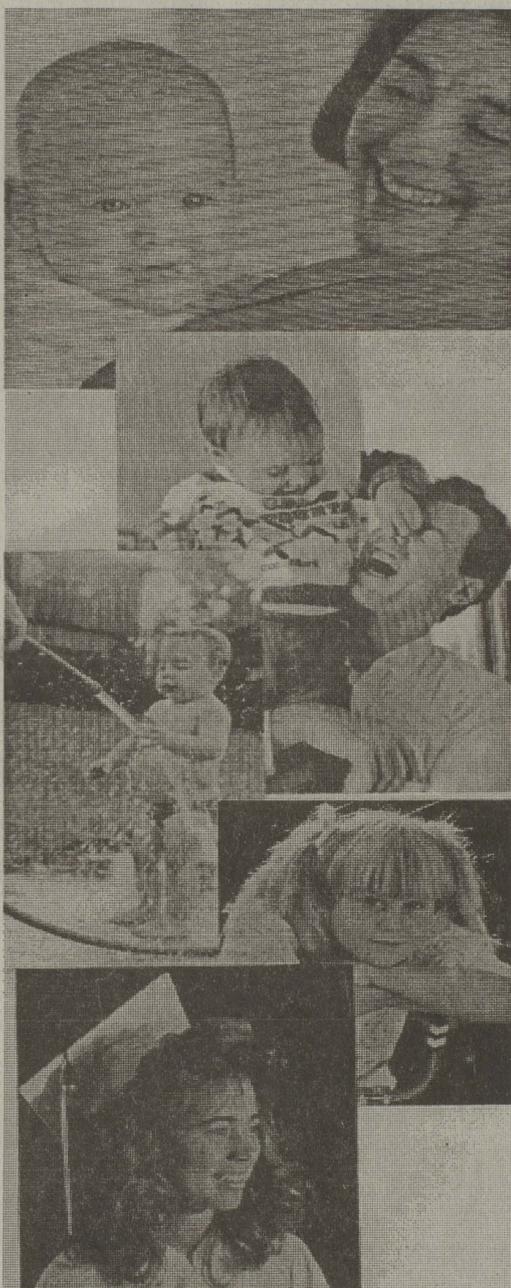

The other featured events have been added over time. Bull riding is the most popular, and most dangerous, of all rodeo events. The requirements are simple: Holding on with only one hand, the cowboy must stay on the bull for eight seconds. Those who succeed are then awarded points for style and how hard the bull bucked.

Calf roping is another race against time. The cowboy must rope the fleeing calf from his horse, dismount running, throw the calf, and then tie the three legs together with a light rope called a "pigging string." The cowboy signals completion by raising both hands.

Team roping brings together two cowboys with highly trained horses to rope and down a steer, without leaving their horses.

Finally, cowgirl barrel racing has quickly become a crowd favorite. The cowgirl races her horse in a pattern around three barrels, the fastest time winning. These races are often decided by a mere thousandth of a second and require exceptionally skilled riders and horses.

A full house is expected each night, so get your tickets early and come on out for action packed family entertainment at its finest.

Build Your Dream House

Nueces 10-155

Associated Designs-Eugene, Oregon

Gently curved arches span substantial columns, creating a sense of grace and permanence in the Nueces. This single-level ranch-style home could be easily adapted for wheelchair accessibility. And its size — slightly less than 2,100 square feet — makes for ease of maintenance.

It doesn't have a formal living room, but it does have a large great room, completely open to the kitchen. The long, three-angled counter that defines the boundaries of kitchen and great room can serve as an eating bar. From the cook top, you can serve food directly to people perched on stools in the great room.

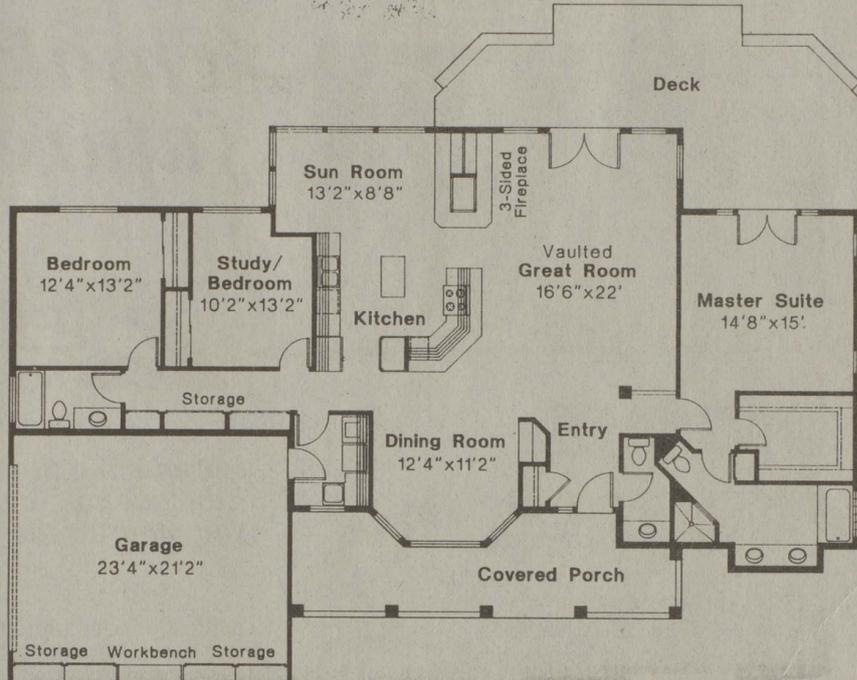

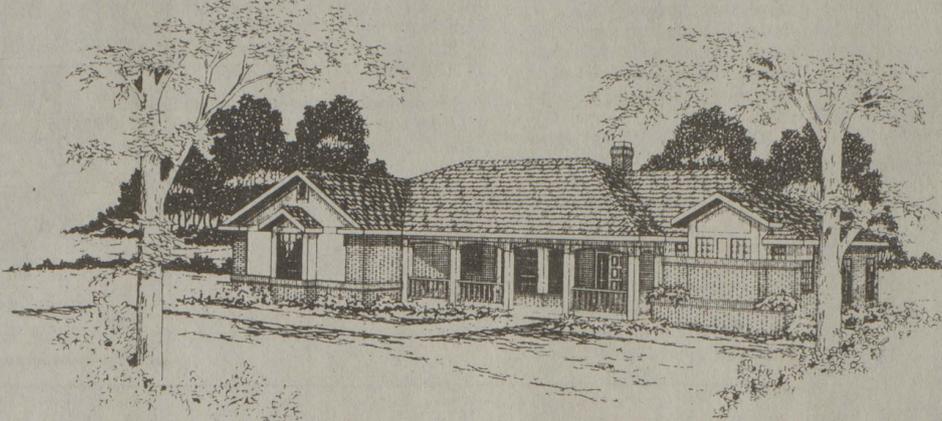

And that's just one of three locations for eating. There's a skylit sun-room along the rear wall, and an informal dining room that faces the street. This space, too, is bright. It's expanded by bay windows and has a built-in hutch.

Other kitchen features include a work island and a pantry a three-sided fireplace is situated so that people can enjoy the warmth and color of the flames from both kitchen and great room.

The master suite has a walk-in closet and a downright luxurious bathroom suffused with soft, natural light that washes in through glass blocks over the tub, shower and the twin basins. The high-ceilinged room has a corner shower, linen storage and soaking tub.

Utilities are easy to get to from the kitchen, garage and secondary bedrooms. Storage closets line the hallway to these bedrooms, one of which could be used as a home office. And there's a powder room just inside the Nueces front door.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $10 to Associated Designs, 1260 Charnelton St., Suite 2, Eugene, Ore. 97401. Please specify the Nueces 10-209 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 150 home plans is available for $12. For more information call (800) 634-0123.

1 Tbsp. minced onion
Combine all ingredients. Spoon onto 6 hamburger buns. Brush top of buns with butter. Bake on cookie sheet in 400 degree oven for 10 minutes. Serve hot.

OVEN FRIED CHICKEN

3/4 c. milk
2 c. flour
1 egg
salt and pepper to taste
2 Tbsp. oil
Beat egg and milk together. Dip chicken in egg mixture and roll in flour. Place chicken in pan with oil. Bake at 400 degrees for 1/2 hour; turn and bake another 1/2 hour.

BARBEQUE BAKED BEANS

1 lb. ground beef
1 large onion
1/2 c. barbeque sauce
4 Tbsp. mustard
1/4 c. brown sugar
3/4 tsp. black pepper
1/2 lb. bacon (chopped)
1/2 c. catsup
1 tsp. salt
4 Tbsp. molasses
1 tsp. chili powder
2 (16 oz.) cans pork and beans
2 (16 oz.) cans kidney beans
2 (16 oz.) cans butter beans
Brown ground beef and onions. Drain excess fat and combine other ingredients. Add to ground beef. Stir well. Add beans and mix well. Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees. Makes 20 to 24 servings.

COLUMBIA APPLE PIE

2 c. chopped apples (yellow Delicious)
1 c. sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 egg, beaten
Mix all of the above ingredients together and pour into an unbaked pie shell and bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes, then lower heat to 350 degrees and finish baking until firm and crust is brown.

CORNBREAD

1 c. self-rising cornmeal
2-3 Tbsp. pre-mixed Mexican cornmeal enough milk and water to mix
1/2 c. self-rising flour
1-2 Tbsp. bacon grease
Mix thoroughly. Bake in hot oven in cast iron skillet until done and golden brown.

ASPARAGUS WITH MUSHROOM SAUCE

1/8 tsp. paprika
Butter or margarine
1/3 cup fresh bread crumbs (about 1 slice)
1/2 cup sliced small mushrooms
1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 cup milk
2 ounces Swiss cheese, shredded (1/2 cup)
1 1/2 pounds asparagus
1/2 cup water

In small bowl, place paprika and 1 tsp. butter or margarine; cover with large plate. Cook at high 30 second or until butter melts. Stir in bread crumbs.

Prepare sauce: In another small bowl, place mushrooms, salt and 2 tsp. butter or margarine (1/4 stick); cover with large plate. Cook at high 4 minutes or until mushrooms are tender, stirring after 2 minutes. Gradually stir in milk. Cover and cook at high 3 minutes or until sauce is very hot, stirring after 2 minutes. Stir in cheese until melted. Cover and keep warm.

In 13" by 9" baking dish, arrange asparagus, placing tips of asparagus in center of dish and large ends of stalks at each end of dish. Add water; cover tightly with vented plastic wrap. Cook at high 10 to 12 minutes, until asparagus is tender-crisp; drain.

To serve, arrange asparagus on large plate; pour mushroom sauce over asparagus; top with buttered bread crumbs.

WHAT'S IN A NAME, ANYWAY?

Confession time. For all these years I've been living, I'm not who you think I am. I recently filed for teacher's retirement only to discover that an applicant must present his birth certificate. I could not find mine anywhere. Somehow, I've gotten by all these years without ever needing it. Until now, I've never been asked to prove who I am. My identity, heretofore, has never been questioned. I guess people would just look at me and say, "Yeah, that's him all right."

Anyway, the retirement application called for one. So, I filled out a form I got at the health department, sent seven dollars to the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Frankfort and in a couple of weeks had, after all these years, a copy of my genuine, original birth certificate.

For some reason, out of curiosity, I suppose, I read it. My parent's names were correct. My date of birth was correct. I even learned that a Dr. William Castle had delivered me. The only thing wrong was my name.

For all these years, I thought I had a middle name. I don't. I thought my name was Clyde Roy. So did everybody else. As a matter of fact, when I was a kid, people often meshed the two names together...like Elroy or Leroy. Of course, Dad and mom always just called me plain Clyde, unless they were upset. I'd even resort to using what they called me to sort of gauge how serious they were. If they'd yell, "Clyde, come on to the house," I knew I had plenty of time. However, when they'd yell, "Clyde Roy, I said come to the house!" I knew I'd better scat. If they ever used all three names, I'd just as well have gone on ahead and cut me a switch. (Those were the days before child abuse became popular; back when parents loved their children enough to discipline them.)

Now, however, through official government documentation and some strange quirk of fate, I discover that they weren't even yelling for me in the first place, not officially, anyway. I would never have had to go home if I hadn't wanted to.

The only thing I can figure is that since, according to the date on the certificate, my birth wasn't officially recorded until some 20 days after I was born, I must have lost my middle name due to a clerical error, or something. I mean, can't you just see some tired clerk in some crowded, dusty corner of the Johnson County courthouse, near the end of a long dreary day, sticking his feather into the ink well and asking a co-worker, "What was it they named that ugly little Pack baby that was born a couple of weeks ago? You know, the one Doc Castle was laughing about looking so funny?"

"I...I'm not sure," the co-worker probably said.

FAMILY QUIRKS MAKE HOLIDAYS AND BIRTHDAYS RISKY

I was in deep trouble and didn't even realize it. The card I sent my mother for Mother's Day arrived late, even though I had mailed it early. And guess who noticed.

"Just when I think you've forgot about me, you show me you haven't," my mother called to tell me after the card arrived.

"Oh, mother," I said. "You should know that I think of you every day."

But thinking doesn't always cut it in my family unless there's a call or a card to back it up. We're sensitive sorts, you see.

I bet your family has its quirks, too.

You know—those unspoken rules on what you should do and what you can't do. Yours may be different than mine. But odds are they carry penalties when you break them.

Treading softly on feelings is a good rule to follow on my mother's side of the family.

And that means you had better watch your step when birthdays and holidays come around.

It can be like walking through a minefield. Forget to send a birthday card and an aunt or uncle may blow.

And come Christmas time, you had better make like Santa and count that Christmas card list twice.

A cousin once fell through the cracks somehow during our last-minute Christmas card mailing blitz. A few days later my telephone rang.

It was my mother. Guess what was on her mind.

"Your cousin was wondering why you didn't send her a card this year," she told me.

"She was?" I said, more than a little surprised.

"Yes. She said, 'Joe always sends us a Christmas card,'" mother said.

"I really didn't mean to leave her out," I said in my defense.

I vowed to never let this deadly mistake happen again. But I probably should have mentioned that stepping on sensitivities goes with the turf when you're in a family of sensitive sorts.

Don't get me wrong. These folks are people I love. And they deserve to be thought of on birthdays, Mother's Days, Father's Days and any other days that are special to them. It's nice when they think about me, too.

But it would be great not to worry about starting another Cuban Missile Crisis during those rare times when somebody gets left out for some reason or the mail runs late.

Maybe we could learn a thing or two from some of my wife's family.

Lines busy and you couldn't get through?
 It's no sweat with them.
 Tied up and you didn't get that card out on time?
 Don't fret over it.
 It's fascinating how different family cultures can be.

On the spur of the moment, her folks might decide to engage in an impromptu baseball game or go for a drive. Snowfall in July is more likely than for those things to happen in my family.

But being laid back can take some adjusting to as well.

During our dating days, my wife-to-be and I engaged in a Monopoly game along with her sister and mother. I landed on someone's property with hotels. I was nearly wiped out and my griping could probably be heard throughout her house.

Then something amazing happened.

"Why don't you take that turn over?" my wife-to-be said.

Her offer stunned me.

I grew up in a family where nobody gave an inch when it came to games. We played to win; we played without mercy. The most demeaning thing that could happen was for someone to let you win a game.

Not even my grandmother cut me slack.

"You had better play hard, grandson," she used to tell me when we were playing checkers or some other board game. "I'm coming after you."

She'd wipe me out and laugh at me every move of the way. Or course, I wiped her out occasionally and laughed at her, too.

There's nothing like a friendly game with your granny.

I think about those times every now and then as we rear two children of our own.

My wife and I would like to instill a few of our families' ways into our own children. We want our kids to be considerate. We want them to be daring enough to do fun things at the spur of the moment.

And they had better make darn sure they don't forget us come birthday, anniversary and holiday times.

Preventing trauma injuries

"Think first. Please, don't drink and drive," was the message trauma victim and college student Sean Shumate stressed to students during trauma prevention presentations at two Floyd County high schools recently.

Students at Allen Central and South Floyd high schools quietly listened as the six-foot-six Shumate gave a powerful and realistic view of life confined to a wheelchair. He has been wheelchair bound since injuries from a motor vehicle accident a few years ago left him paralyzed from the waist down.

The Morehead State University student's presentation alone was enough to convince most students of the seriousness of drinking and driving. But also included on the program were speakers from the University of Kentucky Medical Center's Trauma Prevention Program.

Students watched the film, "In Harm's Way," which featured trauma victims discussing how their lives have changed since they were injured. After the film, Robin Chung, an R.N. at the UK Medical Center, explained what trauma is and how it affects the brain, spinal cord, and other body organs.

Trauma or traumatic injury is the leading cause of death for young Americans. Young people ages 15 to 24 are at the highest level of risk, according to statistics. Also, nearly two of every three motor vehicle deaths occur in rural areas.

Students were told that there are no cures for injuries to the head and spinal cord, and that prevention of accidents, especially those caused by drinking and driving, is the key.

The Southeast Area Health Education Center in Hazard coordinated the program with the trauma team. The Southeast Area Health Education Center is a public health agency serving south-east Kentucky.

Kim's Korner

A year ago in this very space I wrote about my grandmother's death and how very hard it was to accept.

Time and time again I heard, "In time it will become easier to accept."

May 8 made a year of trying to deal with her absence and it is true there are times in which it is easier. However, this past Mother's Day was not one of those times. Maybe, because Mother's Day fell on May 8, and that date just really holds bad memories and maybe because I always saw her on Mother's Day.

My grandfather's doing much better now. At first I really worried about him a lot, too.

But, you would be amazed at the phone calls he receives from widows just to invite him to lunch or dinner for simple conversation.

Again, at first, when he'd tell me about these calls I'd see "red." I couldn't believe my ears.

How could anyone try and fill my grandmother's shoes? They need not even try for there is absolutely no way.

After talking about this subject with my mother and aunt 'till I turned blue, I've come to realize the loneliness and emptiness my grandfather deals with on a daily basis.

I don't want that! But, I don't want a replacement for my grandmother, either. I hear, "Nobody is trying to take her place, Kim."

But, that's the way it feels and it's really weird to feel that way.

You know, I can't answer why, it's easier to accept your parent's divorce and re-marrying someone else than to even think that my grandfather may one day find someone to marry—but it is.

Maybe because both parents are still here and there's no void to fill. I don't know.

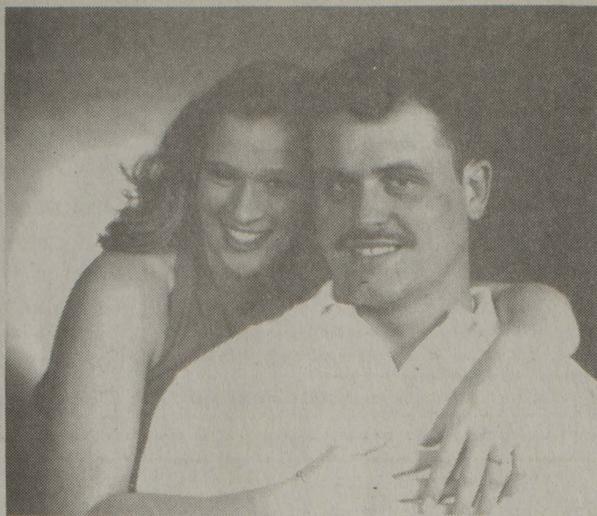

I do know I don't want these hateful, grouchy, feelings surfacing when it comes to my grandfather. He's all I have left. I want him to be happy while he is still here. God, it's so hard.

I've got to end. Sorry it's so depressing this week, but you readers know by now whatever mood I'm in is exactly what you read about.

Again, I'm sorry.
Till next week.

Oh well, since most folks nowadays just call me Clyde anyway, and since it apparently makes no difference to the teacher's retirement people, I don't suppose, after this long, it matters. I'll have to admit, however, it was a bit of a surprise to learn that I'm not who I thought I was. But, as ole Bob Shakespeare once said, "What's in a name, anyway? Sunshine Lines

by Beverly Carroll

Life comes full circle.

As newborns and youngsters, we were dependent on others for our survival. As we matured we became caretakers. Our children and families depend on us. Oftentimes we were caretakers of our grandparents, and later, of our parents. Now, as senior citizens ourselves, we know by having watched others experience the aging process, the probability is high that we may once again be dependent on others for our own personal care and welfare.

Many find this part of life's voyage extremely frightening. It's not so much that we are afraid of growing old, but that we are fearful of what "old age" might have in store for "me."

We don't want to be forced to give up our freedom—the freedom to go and come as we want; to make decisions as we wish. We are hesitant to give to others what we invested a lifetime acquiring, so that we could be financially self-sufficient during our golden years. We don't want to think about the possibility of reaching that point where we can no longer make decisions for ourselves, where we are no longer in control of our own lives. We don't want to think about the possibility of our again having to be spoon fed and changed, completely dependent on others as we were at birth. And we sure don't want to think about the possibility of having to lie bedfast for years, in a vegetative state. But the fact is that this is oftentimes part of the aging process.

It's when we fear losing control of our lives and our faculties that we become scared. This fear is normal. Knowing that we are going to have to face something, but not knowing what that "something" might be, is often quite traumatic. This is why most senior citizens choose to ignore making advance preparation in regard to their final years. We simply don't want to deal today, with planning for what might happen to us tomorrow, should the time come that we no longer are capable of making personal decisions. We just don't want to think about this. And, yet, it is to our advantage to take charge now, while we are still physically and emotionally able to care for our own future needs. If we don't, somebody will make decisions for us. They could be decisions of which we would not approve.

There are many things that we can do now. Today we will consider one aspect of taking control of our own future.

Visit long-term care homes. Talk with the administrators. Ask the ratio of patients to caretakers. RN's? LPN's? Certified medical aids? Certified nurse aids? Bed makers? Housekeepers? Ask to see recent state inspection reports.

Talk with the social worker. Ask that resident rights be explained. Ask about the role of the ombudsman. Ask to see menus for the past several months. Ask to be given a tour. Keep attuned to what is happening around you as you walk through the home.

On the tour observe cleanliness of grounds and facility. Observe patient cleanliness. As you walk the halls, observe how long call lights remain on before a staff member comes to the resident's assistance. As you pass the rooms look for a "homey" atmosphere. Privately owned TV's, radios, VCR's, a favorite piece of furniture, family pictures, keepsakes and other memorabilia. Observe resident interaction. Ask to see the critical care unit. Ask again, the ratio of residents to caretakers in this unit.

Talk with the activity director. You just might be surprised. There is a lot more excitement to living in a good, highly respected, long-term care home than getting up, going to meals, reading the newspaper, watching TV, and going to bed. Watch the alert residents. Observe how the less alert residents are included in activities. Learn about activities made available to bedfast residents. Ask to see the monthly activity calendar.

Observe meal time. Observe shaven faces and nail care of male residents and hair and nail care of female residents. Observe cleanliness of dress. Notice how one's dignity is protected. Give special attention to interaction of staff with residents.

Visit other long term care facilities. Go through the same investigative procedures. Ask basically the same questions. After all, you are in the process of choosing your future home. The more informed you are about a home's operations and its personality, the more prepared you will be to make the right decision.

Once you have decided on a home you feel comfortable with, visit often. Get involved in the resident programs and activities. Volunteer. "Adopt" a resident. Become actively involved in the home you have chosen to be your future residence. Let your choice be known.

In next week's Sunshine Lines article we will discuss other preparations you can make now for your future.

GEORGE FIREBALL, A GREAT AMERICAN

I have this buddy who from time to time gets a little emotional. His name is George Fireball. I haven't known him long, but with this guy, if you're around him for more than ten minutes, then I'm sure you would agree that that is long enough. Now I don't mean to put George down, but his point of view is sometimes a little too harsh for some people. You see, he's a poet, but don't tell anybody that because you could have him on your front porch with a rubber hose and, believe me, you don't want that. I've often questioned his last name and often I've had a knot or two to rub on my head, so now I just take his word for it. As far as I know, George doesn't really have any friends and I congratulate him on this from time to time, after all, he has worked hard at it.

Anyway, he wanted me to take this chance to show you some of his work. Actually he told me to say that I wrote the following poem from something he said, but I just can't do that. Only one person could write this and that is George Fireball. Here is a poem he wanted me to add in this article.

OUTTA MY FACE

by George Fireball
It's all lies everything everybody say is a lie.
Nobody like you and nobody wants you so hit the streets and steal Alpo from Spot for all I care.
Your mommy dresses you funny.
I hope you drink bleach water and your eyes pop out of your head but I like you.
I would give anything to see both of your arms get blown off your stinking body but I love you.
If I see you on the streets I'll make sure to mug you, that's if I can stand to look at you long enough.
Why does everyone lie?
Because they don't want to tell you the truth, that your a piece of used Charmin and have one big green eye in the middle of your forehead that makes you look like a reject from a horror movie.

You're no fun. You just sit in the floor sucking on your toes and staring at the ceiling.

Did anyone ever tell you that you look like the elephant man?

Well, you don't but you do resemble a glob of his ear wax, honest to God.

I'll go now so I hope I never see you again.

Don't follow me because I can't feed you and my wife would hate you.

I can't blame her.

Now, I'm not going to apologize for George's poem, but I will say that you must forgive him and you should realize that I had no choice but to put this in here. I knew of no other way that I could show you the real McCoy. This may give you a good idea of what he's like. I would say that you will hear more from George in the future, so until then, prepare yourselves. You've already seen his good side.

Apple scab disease prevention and control

Failure to prevent primary apple scab infection now can lead to severe problems later. What can be done to prevent apple scab?

"Kentucky gardeners who are curious about growing apples in their landscapes are surely aware of scab disease," said John Hartman, Extension plant pathologist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "It is the most common and harmful apple disease, especially in wet, spring weather. This fungal disease not only spots leaves and defoliates trees, but also produces scabby lesions on fruits, often causing them to be misshapen or deformed."

Diseased leaves may show dark brown to black spots, be dwarfed and distorted, turn yellow and fall from the tree, he said. Fruit infection results in spots, uneven growth and distortion with cracking of fruit skin and flesh.

Apple scab is most damaging when leaves are so badly affected that they fall from the tree, Hartman added. This leaf loss reduces the crop. Although fruit scabs late in the season may merely cause surface spotting of fruit, early infections retard further expansion of the enlarging fruit. This will result in worthless produce.

"Early apple scab infections are clearly the most damaging," he said. "On developing leaves and fruits, they quickly produce lesions that give rise to secondary spores. In rainy weather, the infectious secondary spores cause still more infections and the deadly cycle continues unabated until season's end."

How can the cycle of infection and destruction be stopped? Most gardeners know that for a plant disease to occur a susceptible host plant and a virulent pathogen, in this case the apple scab fungus, must be present in a disease-favorable environment, Hartman said. Kentucky gardeners have several options available for dealing with apple scab.

First, there are many apple varieties such as Freedom, Liberty, Macfree, Jonafree and others that are immune to apple scab, he added. If planning new apple planting, use scab-resistant varieties. If susceptible varieties are already in the garden, plan to spray several times early in the season to block the scab fungus from initiating primary infections. Repeated fungicide sprays applied in spring just before, during and after bloom are critical for control.

In addition, rake up and destroy fallen leaves from last year which are a source of the fungus that caused the primary infections, he said. Remember, primary infections do the most damage to fruits and are the source of secondary infections which can debilitate the tree.

Finally, change the environment, Hartman said. The scab fungus only affects trees with wet leaves and fruit. Although rainy Kentucky spring weather can not be changed, thinning out the branches and nearby shading vegetation can reduce the length of time leaves are wet and thus the level of infection.

"Rainy weather this season has been favorable for scab development," Hartman said. "If apple scab is already appearing in apple trees, growers should take note of this and take preventive controls earlier next year."

For more information on apple scab control, contact local county Extension offices.

Neem tree oil protects ornamentals; fights fungi

by Hank Becker

An oil extracted from neem tree seeds covers ornamental plant leaves like a raincoat, stopping nasty fungi from infecting the plant.

Wind and splashing raindrops spread disease-causing spores of fungi. "If the spores can't adhere to a leaf, germinate and penetrate the leaf cells, they can't cause the disease," says Jim Locke, a U.S. Department of Agriculture plant pathologist.

Locke says numerous tests found that a spray of one-percent neem oil in water "gave hydrangeas, lilacs and phlox 95 to 100 percent protection against powdery mildew." Powdery mildew causes leaves to turn white and drop on the soil, where the spores can reinfect the plant.

A single spray was sufficient to protect the ornamentals from infection. Repeated applications at 7- to 14-day intervals provided disease protection without any damage to the plants.

On plants where mildew had begun to develop, the scientist says, "it was arrested, providing control comparable to each of three chemical fungicides."

Locke says the oil, the first botanical product to exhibit fungicidal properties, has been field tested the past four years by the Floral and Nursery Plant Research Unit at the Beltsville, Md., Agricultural Research Center. "We're working now to discover how the neem oil protects the plant from infection," he says.

Against another disease, black spot, the neem oil did well in laboratory tests of roses. Locke says the oil "seems to delay infection by black spots—the number one disease of roses. As a result, rose bushes lose fewer leaves."

Neem trees are members of the mahogany family and are native to India. They require a frost-free climate and will grow in West Africa, the Caribbean, Australia, southern Florida, several southwestern states and Hawaii.

Locke says the botanical insecticides, Margosan-O and BioNeem, also come from neem seeds. Their active ingredient, azadirachtin, does not have fungicidal activity. He is testing the oil as a fungicide that may be commercially available in a year. (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture)

Protecting farmers in USDA reorganization

by Senator Mitch McConnell

Most people view farmers as stewards of the land, working the fields, tending their crops, and ultimately putting food on everyone's table. But what many people do not realize is that the average farmer also spends a great deal of time standing in lines, sitting in offices, filling out forms and talking on the phone, trying to cut through the miles of red tape created by government agriculture programs and regulations.

While red tape will always exist for farmers, a recent bill in the U.S. Senate should reduce it. On April 13, the U.S. Senate passed the Department of Agriculture Reorganization Act of 1994 by a vote of 98-1. After working with my fellow Agriculture Committee members to ensure that key provisions were included to protect Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation (ASCS) county and area offices, I voted in favor of this legislation.

The Senate bill to reorganize the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will streamline the 43 separate agencies and better coordinate the 250 individual programs under its authority. As it is presently structured, the maze of bureaucracy which farmers face at USDA leaves the department ill-prepared to fulfill its future responsibilities. However, we must make sure that these organizational changes do not occur at the expense of the quality of services provided to our farmers.

The Administration's original proposal included a section which permitted the Secretary of Agriculture to terminate, combine and consolidate county committees. The Administration also proposed combining the existing ASCS County Committees into one Farm Services Administration Committee. Under this proposal, each county or area committee would consist of five members. Three of those members would be elected by farmers and two would be appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture.

I strongly objected to combining county or area communities and to any changes in the way committee members are selected. As a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, I was able to ensure that the current county and area committee system will remain intact. While I was prepared to offer an amendment before the full committee to retain the current system, my amendment was adopted prior to consideration by the full committee.

It was extremely important to me to maintain the current system because it offers the maximum convenience and benefits to our farmers. The structure not only works well, it is a system that our farmers have understood and used for many years. Furthermore, allowing elected officials to appoint local members could undermine the concerns of farmers by politicizing these county committees.

Most of the complaints I hear from Kentucky farmers is that the paperwork is too excessive and USDA programs are too restrictive. The Department is simply too large, too complex, and too uncoordinated to adequately meet the needs of our farmers. The Senate version of the reorganization bill provides the direction, flexibility, and improved management to provide the best quality of services to our farmers.

If you would like more information about USDA reorganization, contact Senator McConnell at 120 Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510, (202) 224-2541.

Hope is itself a species of happiness, and, perhaps, the chief happiness which this world affords.

WOMAN'S HEALTH

HOW TO CHOOSE THE DOCTOR WHO'S RIGHT FOR YOU

By Richard S. Hollis, MD
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

local medical society.

If you are a member of a health maintenance organization or a participating physician program, you must select from a list of physicians who are part of that insurance network. You can call the network's membership services to find out where and when a physician attended medical school and whether he or she is board-certified.

On your first visit, have a list of questions ready for the doctor. Ask about fees, office hours and whether the doctor can be reached after hours, who fills in when the doctor is not available, and whether the doctor is board-certified and affiliated with a well-respected hospital. If it's a group practice, will you routinely see the same doctor? Will your care also be provided by other health professionals, such as physicians assistants or nurse practitioners?

Membership in professional organizations can provide additional information. For example, if your ob-gyn is a member of The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, that means he or she is board-certified in the specialty and is in good standing.

If you do not feel comfortable with the doctor, your search should continue. After all, you want to feel trust in the individual you choose as the guardian of a most precious commodity—your health.

CAL AND HEENAN FLEMING SHOOT IT OUT WITH THE LAW

Many man-hours went into the search for Cal and Heenan Fleming who were wanted for the ambush-murder of Bad Ira Mullins and four others at Pound Gap, on May 14, 1892.

Word finally came that they were back in Virginia terrorizing their neighbors near the head of Pound River.

The brothers escaped detection until their own dastardly deeds brought the posse to their door. Dr. M. B. Taylor, The Red Fox of the Mountains, had already paid for his part in the ambush—hanged at Wise, Virginia, on October 27, 1893.

A large posse left no stone unturned in searching for Cal and Heenan Fleming following the ambush-murder at Pound Gap, but the brothers had fled to West Virginia.

Cal and Heenan returned to the mountains, near Pound, in the spring of 1894 and took up hiding in a cave. Dressed in women's clothes, the brothers helped the family in the fields without being detected but after awhile they began lounging openly. They sat on the porch of their parents home and whittled on the road nearby.

Soon the Flemings returned to their former ways, harassing and stealing from their neighbors. They mocked the lawmen who guarded the jail and streets during the trial and incarceration of Talt Hall, tying red strips of flannel to their Winchester and parroted the lawmen's drills.

Cal and Heenan had the audacity to show up in Pound to vote in the countywide election for sheriff and county judge. Local authorities chose not to confront them but they took notice.

They notified authorities in Wise and the sheriff gathered a posse to go after the fugitives. The police-guard at Big Stone Gap was also called in. Everyone knew Cal and Heenan wouldn't give up easy.

The Flemings heard about the posse coming after them and took off across Black Mountain and went back into hiding. The captain and first lieutenant of the police-guard followed to find their location. He found them in a bitter confrontation with other outlaws in Kentucky. The lawmen decided to bide their time until things settled down. They surmised that they may be able to catch Cal and Heenan off guard later on, if they survived the predicament they were in.

Two weeks later, operating on a tip, the posse stormed the Fleming cabin at daybreak but found only a house full of screaming women and children. The Flemings heard about the raid and ran off an hour before.

The lawmen stayed and left scouts in the area in hopes of discovering the two brothers whereabouts. After a few days it started to pay off when they saw Ma Fleming carry a bag of provisions into a brushy area. She stood there tossing stones into the bushes, obviously trying to attract Cal and Heenan's attention.

When one of the rocks clinked against the Winchester which was held by one of the members of the posse, the old woman walked directly into their midst thinking it was her sons. The lawmen kept her prisoner throughout the night so she wouldn't warn Cal and Heenan of their presence.

As the posse closed in on the fugitives at dawn she burst from the posse, yelling, "Run down the holler boys! Run down the ...!" The sheriff sprang forward and, with hands firmly around her throat, stifled her warning.

Within minutes the Flemings were spotted in the bushes. Gooseneck Branham, Doc Swindall, Ed Hall and the others opened fire, forcing the two men to take shelter behind trees.

For nearly half an hour Cal and Heenan Fleming waged fierce combat, exchanging gunfire with the 22 members of the posse.

The end of the battle came when Branham shot Heenan in the shoulder. It knocked the gun from his hands and shook the hat from his head. Heenan fled the scene and signaled to Cal who followed close behind. Bullets from the posse whizzed by and one found its mark in Cal's back as the brothers vanished into the brush.

The members of the posse chose to stop and cook breakfast during the lull, instead of pursuing the wounded Flemings. They relished talking about the battle and took time to collect mementos such as Heenan's hat and gun which were found under a nearby tree.

The tree that shielded the brothers during the battle was rifled with bullets. The fugitive's dog, which had lain at Heenan's feet throughout the shooting, was caught and tethered to a tree.

Meanwhile the wounded Flemings paused to inspect their wounds at a nearby cabin.

"What'll we do?" Heenan asked, chomping on a biscuit despite the pain in his shoulder. "Will you be able to run for it? I don't wanna give up. They'll either hand us or shoot us, for shor."

"We ain't given up," Cal groaned. "But I can't make a run for it either. It's a'paining me to death."

"Let's take what we can and go into hiding," Heenan decided. "We'll go to the old hideout we had as kids, Cal. They'll never find us there."

Editor's Note: John Fox Jr., the famous writer, joins in the pursuit of the dreaded Flemings in Jadon's From the Mountains article next time. Gibson, a native of Eastern Kentucky, now lives in Harrogate, Tennessee. His writings, From the Mountains, are both historical and nostalgic in nature. Don't miss a single issue.

Take the aches and pains out of buying shoes

It is evident that even the most casual observer that this country is in the midst of a fitness explosion. American men, women and children of all ages, sizes and shapes are exercising for fun and recreation, for weightloss and for better health. May has been designated as National Physical Fitness Month.

But hand-in-hand with the increase in recreational athletics is a rise in exercise-related injuries, particularly to the back. At least 80 percent of the population will have a back problem at some point in their lifetime. Although most back pain and injury takes the form of a muscle strain or pull, the root of many aches and pains in the lower back may actually lie in the shoe.

"Many people purchase shoes simply for the look or the brand name," explains Dr. George H. Raque, Jr., a physician at The Kenton D. Leatherman Spine Center. "But if you choose the improper size or type of shoe, your back may end up paying the price."

Dr. Raque recommends following these tips when purchasing athletic shoes:

- Since your feet continually grow, always have your feet measured before buying new shoes.

- Look for leather shoes that easily conform to the shape of your foot. Choose ones that lace up and have good arch support.

- Never buy shoes that are too tight.

- Make sure the ball of your foot fits snugly into the widest part of the shoe.

- Check to see if your heel fits comfortably in the shoe with little slippage.

- Make sure you can wiggle your toes. There should be 3/8" to 1/2" between your longest toe and the front of the shoe when you are standing.

- Wear socks to absorb shock, but make sure they don't make the shoe fit too tightly.

- Try on both shoes and walk around to make sure they feel comfortable. Most people have one foot larger than the other.

Although there are shoes on the market for almost every sport, Dr. Raque assures there is no need to purchase them all. He says cross-trainers are excellent all-purpose activity shoes for the recreational athlete.

The Kenton D. Leatherman Spine Center of Norton and Kosair Children's Hospitals is one of the pre-eminent centers for research, diagnosis and treatment of spine disorders and injury.

Consolidated health systems names medical scholarship in honor of O.T. "Trigg" Dorton

O.T. "Trigg" Dorton, a member of Consolidated Health Systems Board of Trustees, was presented with a commemorative silver bowl marking his retirement from the board. Dorton, a resident of Paintsville was honored for his years of dedicated service to CHS. An annual medical scholarship is also being named in his honor.

Consolidated Health Systems, the parent company of Highlands Regional Medical Center, is a professional management corporation.

CHS offers services such as strategic planning and management for healthcare organizations, professional recruiting programs, human resources development, and management and disposal of regulated medical waste.

An innovative approach was taken by Consolidated to overcome the difficulty in recruiting qualified physicians to the area. Their solution to the problem is to bring back local people who are currently enrolled in medical school. Medical scholarships are offered to qualified student applicants with repayment secured through service for specified periods of time. This helps by allowing the medical student financial assistance for their education and provides the community with a source of qualified doctors to meet future healthcare needs.

The first two annual medical scholarships awarded were named in honor of Chalmer Frazier and O.T. Arnett.

HOME BUYING HINTS

Questions Every First Time Home Buyer Should Ask

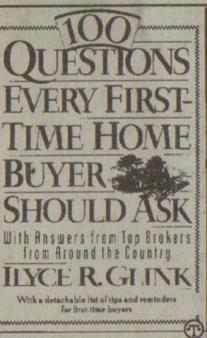

(NAPS)—The decision to buy a first home can often be scary and overwhelming. If you're like many of the more than 2 million Americans who will be buying their first home this year, dozens of questions race through your mind and yet no one seems to have the right answers. Can I afford it? Where should I look? How do I choose the right broker? How do I make an offer?

Fortunately, a recently published book by award-winning real estate writer Ilyce R. Glink helps to lead home buyers through the maze of purchasing property. The book, 100 Questions Every First-Time Home Buyer Should Ask ($14.00, Times Books), walks home buyer through every step of the process from teaching the language of real estate to helping them learn how to negotiate.

Glink provides the answers to questions such as:

"What do home descriptions in newspapers and real estate listings really mean?"
"What's the difference between an agent and a broker, and how do I find the right one?"
"How do I evaluate the costs of owning and maintaining a home?"
"What's the best way to identify what I need vs. what I like?"

Those who have read the book report that the question-and-answer format of the book allows for a comfortable blend of the investment issues and the personal preferences every Home buyers should be interested in seller financing because it eliminates potential red tape that could slow down the closing, says a new book that helps buyers find the home of their dreams.

The book covers all the home-buying quandaries, such as matching your means and wading through the intricacies of a closing. The questions are answered by top brokers from around the country. Experts believe that the book, which is available at bookstores around the nation, is an indispensable guide. It clarifies the jargon, keeps an eye on details, includes "tips" for negotiating a mortgage, and helps first time buyers land the home of their dreams.
