Floyd grand jury names 25 in indictments

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Floyd County native who was sentenced to serve 30 years in a Georgia prison was indicted Tuesday by a Floyd County Grand Jury.

Harry Eugene Hale, 38, originally from Martin, was indicted on a charge of receiving stolen property.

In February 1993, Floyd County Sheriff's deputies and deputies from the Cobb County, Georgia sheriff's department searched Hale's Garth home and found several items believed to have belonged to Christoph Zahn, a Swiss traveler who has been missing since May 1992. Recovered from Hale's home were cameras and a camera bag, and an Amish quilt.

Last month, Hale was convicted in Cobb County of three counts of first degree forgery for using Zahn's Euro America credit card. He was sentenced to 10 years on each count to be served consecutively.

Also indicted Tuesday were five inmates who escaped from the Otter Creek Correctional Facility in Wheelwright earlier this year.

Michael Leland Ackerson, Larry Michael Rigdon and James Clayton Cox, the first three escapees from the minimum security prison, were charged with second degree escape and theft by unlawful taking.

Two other inmates, who escaped on a separate occasion, Harold Stewart and Christopher L. Gordon were indicted for second degree escape.

Other indictments handed down Tuesday, no ages or addresses available:

- Randal Salisbury, eight counts of first degree wanton endangerment;
- Larry Slone, eight counts of first degree wanton endangerment;

- Rick Williams, first degree trafficking in a controlled substance;
- Phillip Booth Sr., receiving stolen property;

- Reo Hamilton Jr., driving under the influence with three prior convictions within five years;
- Mark S. Hayes, driving under the influence with three prior convictions within five years;
- Keith W. Halbert, driving under the influence with three prior convictions within five years;

- Donald E. Bentley, third degree burglary;
- Alvin Perkins, third degree burglary and persistent felony offender;
- William R. Johnson, trafficking in a controlled substance and cultivation of marijuana;
- Terry McCutcheon, first degree promotion of contraband;

City raid nets two for pot operation

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Prestonsburg police officers raided a home at Westminister Street Tuesday morning and arrested two men for allegedly running an indoor and outdoor marijuana cultivation operation.

William Crandal Chapman, 21, of Prestonsburg, was charged with cultivating marijuana, more than five plants; and Jimmy L. Nelson, 22, of Prestonsburg, was charged with conspiracy to cultivate marijuana.

City police officers found eight marijuana plants growing on the hillside behind the Chapman home. Officers also found equipment in the home which is generally used in the cultivation of marijuana in indoor and outdoor operations.

Also, policemen found traces of marijuana throughout the Chapman residence. A small amount of cash was also seized in the raid.

Prestonsburg police sergeant Mike Omerod said Tuesday that police have received several complaints for the past several months about suspected drug activity. After an investigation, police executed a search warrant at the home.

Assisting in raid were chief Darrell Conley, officers Omerod, Mack Stewart, Ricky Conn, Gerald Clark, Danny Jarrell and deputy sheriff Greg Clark.

Tourism job may be next in shake-up

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

It appears that the position of tourism director for Prestonsburg could be the next position in the city administration targeted for change.

Council talked behind closed doors for approximately an hour at Monday's meeting about tourism director Fred James' job.

After the closed session, Fannin announced that no action would be taken on the closed-door discussion.

Under Kentucky's Open Meeting Laws, a public agency can go into closed session to discuss personnel only when it would lead to the appointment, discipline or dismissal of an individual employee.

Since Fannin took office in January, four employees in city administrative positions are no longer in their jobs.

Main Street manager Henry Mayo and Mike Meade, superintendent of public works, have been fired.

Earlier this month, police chief Greg Hall announced he was taking an indefinite medical leave of absence.

City manager Mark Wells left in February to pursue other career opportunities.

At a June 29 special meeting, council went into closed session to discuss city attorney Larry Brown. No action was taken at that meeting after the closed session.

The mayor announced at Monday's meeting that a special meeting would be held at 6 p.m., Thursday, July 14 to discuss pay scales and the position of Main Street manager.

In other action Monday, council: held first reading of an ordinance which will require new businesses that hook up to the city's sewer system to consent to annex into the city limits;

- received bids from Flo Bartrum and Michael Spears for a 1993-94 audit and referred those bids to the personnel and revenue committee;

- appointed Roy Ramey to the tourism commission to replace Dolores Smith who resigned;
- approved buying six new police cruisers and authorized the mayor to secure financing for the purchase; and
- authorized the mayor to seek bids for a new backhoe.

Councilman Hansel Cooley was absent from Monday's meeting.

Montgomery to headline Autumn Jam

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Where a father leads, the son will usually follow, and country music star John Michael Montgomery will follow his father's footsteps across the stage in Pikeville this September during Autumn Jam II.

John Michael Montgomery, a former Lexington resident whose songs "Life's a Dance" and "I Swear" have reached the top of the music charts, will headline Autumn Jam II, which is sponsored by Happy Mart, a division of Coleman Oil, and the Pepsi Cola Company. Montgomery's father, Harold, will open the nine-hour jam session at 2 p.m. Harold Montgomery was recently diagnosed with prostate cancer, and his one wish is "to play at a venue in Kentucky with his son," Doug Charles, a representative of Coleman Oil, announced at a press conference Monday in Pikeville.

That wish will come true Saturday, September 17, on the Pikeville High School Athletic Field during Autumn Jam II.

Another headliner appearing at the event will be Doug Stone, whose album "Doug Stone" reached platinum status. His albums "I Thought It Was You" and "From the Heart" reached gold status.

Others appearing on the Autumn Jam billboard will be Michelle Wright, Black Hawk and Floyd County's own Kentucky Opry.

Tickets for the event go on sale in Floyd County Friday, July 15, at the Harold Happy Mart. Pepsi will set up a booth at the store on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, from noon until 8 p.m. Or, tickets

Federal suit against board dismissed

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A federal lawsuit filed against the Floyd County Board of Education by three former school administrators was dismissed Monday by a federal judge.

U.S. District Judge Joseph Hood ruled Monday that state law gives the superintendent of schools the power to hire and fire employees and board members could not be held liable for those decisions. Hood's ruling added that the former administrators would have needed to prove that Floyd superintendent Steve Towler was acting on a board policy in order to hold them responsible for their actions.

Pete Grigsby Jr., Tommy Thompson and Wayne Ratliff sued the board last June after their positions in the central office were eliminated under a district-wide reorganization.

The three men also claimed that their due process rights were violated and that they were being retaliated against because they supported longtime board member James "Doc" Adams in the 1990 school board election.

Political newcomer Eddie Billips defeated Adams in 1990 and the three claimed in their lawsuit that after Billips took office, he ordered school employees to perform certain tasks and "unlawfully asserted authority over school grounds."

The lawsuit also alleged that

Billips threatened school administrators with termination and "acknowledged that he developed a system to rid the system of all administrators that worked in the home office."

Judge Hood ruled that board members were entitled to qualified immunity because of their official positions. He also ruled that the three men failed to show a constitutionally protected interest in their jobs and that

Grant will finance storm drains and sidewalk project

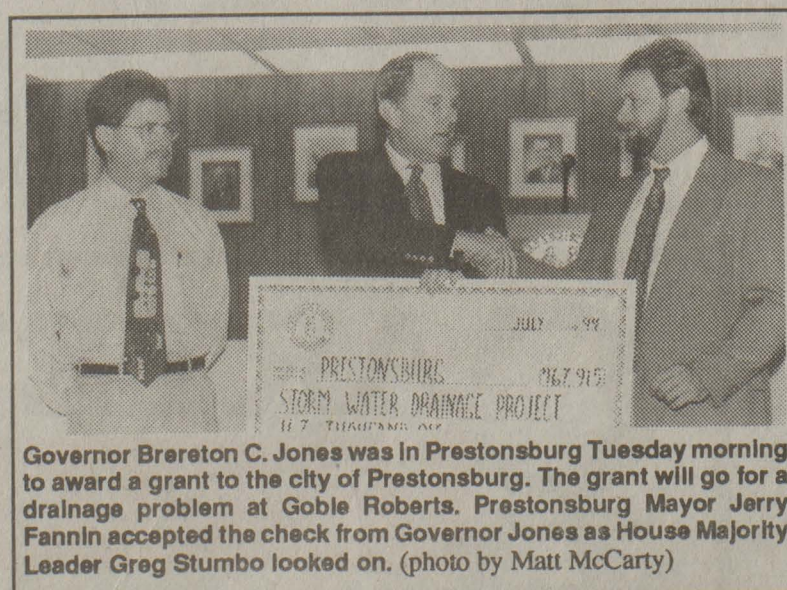

by Matt McCarty
Staff Writer

Governor Brereton C. Jones made several stops throughout the state the first part of the week, including a visit to Prestonsburg Tuesday where he announced that the city had received a Community Development Block Grant.

The grant, which was for $167,915, is for the city to install approximately 1.5 miles of storm water drainage pipe; construct 43 catch basins; and assist with the replacement of one mile of sidewalk at Goble Roberts.

"It is always a pleasure to announce a grant that will improve the living conditions of citizens," Governor Jones said.

Mayor Jerry Fannin said that the Governor Brereton C. Jones was in Prestonsburg Tuesday morning to award a grant to the city of Prestonsburg. The grant will go for a drainage problem at Goble Roberts. city began working toward the grant at the end of January and the city would begin construction "just as quick as I can get the check."

Fannin said the next step would be to advertise for bids for engineering work and that he hoped the project would be completed by the end of the year.

Governor Jones also made stops in Elkhorn City and Salyersville while in Eastern Kentucky to announce that those cities were also awarded grants.

Come this Friday it's buckle-up or pay up by Becky L. Meadows

KPA News Bureau Director

They're going to be looking for you.

Come July 15, if you're pulled over for a traffic violation or anything else and you're caught not wearing your seat belt, it could cost you up to $25. Friday, July 15, is the day the new state seat belt law goes into effect.

"I think this is the most important piece of highway safety legislation in Kentucky history," said Rodney Brewer, public information officer for the Kentucky State Police. "We will begin a vigorous enforcement effort when the law takes effect, and most other law enforcement agencies I've talked to intend to do the same."

Although police officers cannot, under the new law, stop motorists only for not wearing seat belts, officers who stop people for other violations can also fine people for not being properly restrained.

The July 15 deadline will cap years of fighting by those in favor of seat belt use to ensure Kentuckians buckle up when they get in their cars. The General Assembly tried in 1992 to pass mandatory seat belt legislation, but the measure failed. This time, some members of the state House and Senate who voted against the proposed law in 1992 voted for it, and it eventually passed.

The statistics speak for themselves, Brewer said. More than 83 percent, or nine out of 10, Kentuckians killed on highways are not wearing seat belts.

"Just by that statistic alone, I think

one can reasonably assume that seat belts greatly reduce your chance of being in a fatal accident," Brewer said.

According to a study by the Kentucky Transportation Center, almost 42 percent of Kentuckians already buckle up when they get in their cars. Brewer said if that rate can be increased to 70 percent, it would save more than 170 lives annually.

"You're 20 times more likely to be killed in a crash if you're not wearing proper restraints," Brewer said. "Wearing your seat belt is undoubtedly the easiest and most effective way to reduce your chances of having a fatal accident."

That's what some legislative leaders pointed out in their successful attempt in the 1994 General Assembly to get seat belt legislation passed. Rep. Bill Lear, D-Lexington, was one of the most outspoken proponents of the seat belt law.

"It's about time," said Lear, who has been either the primary sponsor or primary co-sponsor of seat belt legislation since it appeared in the General Assembly in 1988. "For the rest of the state, Friday is a big day." Lear said the seat belt law makes economic sense.

"Everybody is familiar with the personal costs, the lost lives and the ruined lives that result from failure of people to wear seat belts," he said. "A lot of people don't appreciate the economic costs. The failure of people to wear seat belts adds to the tax burden because a lot of public money goes to hospital bills and funeral bills and compensation for lost wages."

"Against the backdrop of all the health care legislation, this is probably the piece of legislation this past session that will have the most significant and immediate effect," he said.

Lear added the failure of people to wear seat belts also leads to higher insurance premiums for other people, because insurance companies have to pay out more money for the more severe injuries.

Despite reassurances from police and political officials, some Kentuckians remain afraid of not being able to get out of their seat belts if they have a bad accident. Brewer said the chances of that happening are miniscule.

"There are obviously some folks out there who have some misinformation," he said. "People think, 'What if I'm trapped and I can't get out because of a seat belt?' The number of times it happens is absolutely minute compared to the number of times a life is saved because of a seat belt."

Brewer said some people have developed the habit of not wearing their seat belts—a habit some just don't want to try to give up. He added the next generation, today's children, are being raised to wear their seat belts.

In addition to the new seat belt law, some provisions of the new state health care reforms will go into effect July 15. The most effective reforms, however, such as guaranteed coverage for anyone regardless of pre-existing conditions and the statewide health care purchasing alliance to purchase insurance at lower costs for Kentuckians, will not go into effect until July 15, 1995.

In the meantime, there are two provisions in the new health care reform law to help some people get coverage and treatment until 1995:

- Anyone who has lived in Kentucky at least a year can buy the same group insurance that state employees now have. This will let some people get around higher-priced individual policies.

- Doctors and hospitals cannot charge any person with family income below twice the poverty level more than Medicaid would pay for the care they're given.

can be reserved by calling 1-800-JAM-9994.

"Tickets are a hot item this year," Charles said, explaining that promoters have already received requests for tickets. Ticket sales will be limited to eight tickets per person, and will be sold on a "first-come, first-serve basis," Charles said.

"There will be no refunds," he said, "so if it rains, bring an umbrella."

Tickets are $35 for the golden circle (located near the stage), $25 for reserved seats on the field, and $15 for seats in the bleachers at the back of the baseball field. Side bleachers have been removed from the field.

Seating will be better at this year's event, Charles said, because the promoters have learned from last year's mistakes. He said the seating field had been redesigned, the stage was larger, and the sound system had been improved.

Charles explained that the sound system will be extended above the crowd, and will not interfere with the spectators' line of vision at the performance.

"There won't be any big obstructions... There's not a bad seat in the house," Charles said.

Proceeds from the ticket sales will be donated to local charities: Cardinal Hill Hospital, H.O.P.E. Inc. and Pikeville Methodist Neonatal Unit. About 269 Floyd County residents utilized Cardinal Hill's services last year. H.O.P.E. Inc. feeds an average of over 1,000 families free of charge on a monthly basis. H.O.P.E., located in Pike County, also distributes free clothing and personal hygiene items to students. Pikeville Methodist Hospital's Special Care Nursery made neonatal intensive care easily accessible to counties in the Big Sandy ADD region.

Coleman Oil and Pepsi have pledged $5,000 to each of the charities, Charles said, regardless of the jam session's intake of monies. He explained that big name acts can cost "well over $100,000 just to get them here." If proceeds are more than the promised $15,000, the funds will be distributed equally between the three charities, he explained.

- Garrell Compton, third degree burglary;
- Robert D. Bryant, two counts of receiving stolen property;
- Shawn H. Ousley, third degree burglary; and
- Kenneth Ray Webb, theft by unlawful taking.

The grand jury also handed down four sealed true bills.

Note: An indictment is not an indication of guilt, but a determination by a grand jury that a case merits further judicial review.

Hearing set for July 20 on plan for heating assistance benefits

A public hearing on Kentucky's plan for the 1995 fiscal year Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program Block Grant is scheduled for July 20.

The hearing will be conducted by the legislature's Special Subcommittee on Energy at 10 a.m. in Room 131 of the Capitol Annex in Frankfort.

Significant cuts anticipated in federal energy assistance funds and a greater draw on Energy Assistance Trust Funds because of last winter's severe cold have prompted the Cabinet for Human Resources to develop a "bare-bones" spending plan that would fund crisis heating situations only, said Social Insurance Commissioner John Clayton.

"For this coming winter, we expect to have no more than $14.9 million available for all heating assistance benefits for low-income families, and we may have to access the trust fund if federal funding is as low as we anticipate," Clayton said.

He said the state proposes to make $14.9 million available for the Home Energy Assistance Program to assist with heating crisis November through March 1995, regardless of the final outcome of the federal budget.

Last year the department provided $15 million for HEAP subsidies to avert heating crises, another $5 million for actual crises later in the bitter winter, plus an additional $1.8 million in emergency funds triggered by the bitter cold across much of the nation.

"So we have had to propose some adjustments with the cutback in federal funds; we could not afford to provide the subsidies available in past years. In the 1993-94 winter, eligible households drew $5 million in benefits during the subsidy phase alone," Clayton said.

The federal government has proposed cutting federal HEAP funds by as much as 50 percent, but state officials don't anticipate more than a 30 percent drop.

The state is proposing to keep its weatherization assistance benefits, much of which come from the same federal energy allocation and trust fund, at the same level, or around $9 million.

"Weatherization is prevention," Clayton said. Adding insulation and fixing or replacing dangerous and inefficient heating systems helps an average of 5,500 households a year stretch their heating budgets, while also boosting comfort and safety, he said.

He added that the department has put in place tighter controls over fuel vendor contracts and pricing and had few complaints this year.

"The cabinet is committed to having energy assistance available for our neediest families for as long as possible during the winter," Clayton said, "and we welcome help in the tough task of allocating dwindling funds."

The department has sent a questionnaire to about 1,000 local government officials, legislators and organizations representing low-income residents and expects to discuss the results at the public hearing, he said.

Your school needs you!

Education reform proponents are beginning to show some concern over reports that public support for KERA is beginning to wane.

At the same time, the Pritchard Committee for Academic Excellence is reporting that parental involvement in school affairs is well below expectations.

Do you see the connection between those two points?

If not, let us explain.

The fundamental concept for education reform involves the distribution of power away from central offices and to individual schools.

The idea is that schools will perform better for their students if decisions are made closer to home.

For that system to work, parents must take an active role in the process.

If they don't, they won't understand how the reform plan is supposed to work and, if they don't understand the processes, they are more likely to be suspicious of them.

It's basic human nature to distrust what we don't understand.

And, we humans tend to be creatures of habit.

We've become accustomed to sending our kids off to school with the faith that they would come home educated.

Involvement was cheering for the home team, attending the occasional PTA meeting, and visiting the school on annual Parents' Night.

That's not how it works anymore.

Fact is, it never worked very well that way.

That's why we have education reform in the first place.

Nowadays, parental involvement means hands-on participation in the administration of schools.

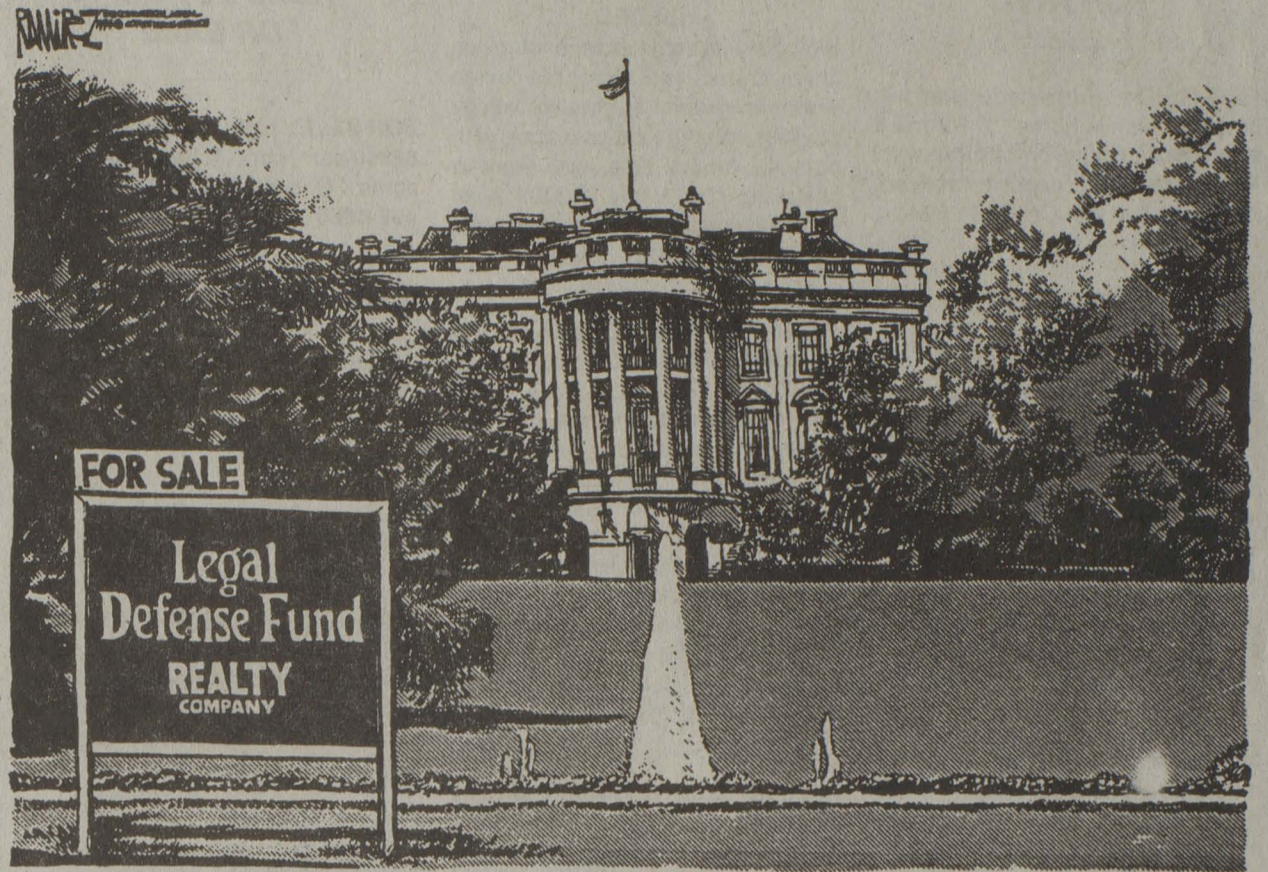

It means volunteering for various school committees, attending school-based council meetings, interacting with teachers and other parents and taking a personal interest in student activities.

Don't be frightened, though, by the magnitude of it all. It doesn't have to be a full time job.

What parent can't find an hour or two a week to make their child's education a front-burner priority?

And, regardless of your personal opinion of KERA, there's a lot to be gained by getting closer to your school.

Visit yours soon.

Girls coach says she did not resign

Editor:

I'm compelled to inform you that the spirit of site-based decision making is being undermined and the old days of personal agendas still reign with an iron hand. Although I have been the head coach for the girls basketball team at Prestonsburg High School for the past ten years, I had to learn through the "grape vine," that not only was my job posted, but that without my knowledge, I had resigned! I discovered this after a budget committee meeting on Thursday, June 16th.

The next evening, I attended the SBDM meeting to find out why I was not deserving of the notification that my job had been opened and why Ms. Trivette would allow people to believe I had resigned. When asked about the extra curricular openings, she replied, the athletic director and golf coach positions were through resignation. The girls assistant basketball coach was due to a vacancy but the head girls basketball and boys assistant basketball positions were opened by "me." She denied that she had acknowledged the fact that I had resigned at the Budget committee meeting even though, she allowed everyone to believe it was true.

Although I was willing to answer any charges against me publicly, she said it must be done in executive session. Her first accusation was that I had failed to keep the shirttails of my players in their uniforms. Since KHSAA has a rule regarding this that requires referees to handle the situation, the point is moot. The other charges were equally unfounded. Charges of this nature could be levied against any coach in the state but it's unlikely it would result in their job unless there was a hidden agenda.

I never thought I would have to explain my reasons for coaching but I am a living example of what hard work and ability can do for a person. I had several people take an interest in me when I was in high school, and because they gave me respect, I learned to respect them. A coach is someone who teaches kids how to become everything they can. To reach deep inside and strive to be their best. With this concept, they start thinking and making their own decisions, and they have their coach to field their questions and to fall back on. You help them to create their own lives and allow them to grow as people. And with their coach as their stepping stone, they become better players, better students, and better individuals. I have never lost sight of the fact that the kids are the reason I'm there!

Today, July 8th, I received a letter from Florence S. C., signed by Karen Trivette, naming Harold Tackett as my replacement. Even though applications were for "in house" (PHS faculty only), Jackie Day Crisp has been named as the boys assistant coach. This is curious, since he is not an employee or a teacher in this system. It is my belief that I am simply a scapegoat to bridge the gap for lack of harmony between the boys head coach and the former boys assistant coach (Harold Tackett). This is solely a decision of Karen Trivette. As I know, I have the full support of all other SBDM members! Is this really in the best interest of the girls program or the players? I doubt it!

The heat not just on O.J.

Editor:

Have we forgotten that other human beings count besides O.J.?

My car quit running Friday as I was coming into Prestonsburg and no one stopped to help. They didn't even look to see if I was alive. Anyone could see I wasn't sitting in a car with the temperature 96 degrees to get a suntan.

I was so red and weak, all I needed was barbecue sauce poured over me. If I was 60 or 70 years old I wouldn't have made it in that heat. Anyone who has a mother wouldn't want to see her passed by, not getting help. I hope it never happens to them.

A city policeman came by, but turned and never stopped to see if I needed any help. I could have been an escaped convict or casing the place to rob it, but out of 73 cars I counted, no one thought about stopping because all of their radio's were listening to the O.J. Simpson trial and how the heat was still on O.J.

We're not all robbers, murderers or drunks and that's why a lot of people don't stop to help. But in a public place with all that traffic, what could one person do when she doesn't have strength left to open a car door.

I would have cried if it wasn't so funny. I just didn't think that caring about another human being was out of style. The best way to get people or a policeman to stop is to have a beer can in your hand and start staggering—that will get their attention.

Coffee Break

It's reasonably safe to assume that we've hit for the cycle as far as experiencing Mother Nature's extremes goes so far this year.

We've been blitzed by a blizzard; quick-frozen by an ice storm; and hammered by a hurricane.

Yep, we had the foresight to plan our vacation to Florida's panhandle last week to coincide with the arrival of Alberto.

Alberto wasn't actually a hurricane according to the laws of meteorology...it was a "tropical storm"... but then we never studied law.

Anytime the wind blows hard enough for the tops of palm trees to touch the ground, it's a hurricane as far as we're concerned.

gest that 58 percent of all Kentuckians think that Governor Brereton Jones is doing a pretty good job.

Of course, about 58 percent of all Kentuckians are state employees, too, so what did you think they'd say to the pollsters?

Oh, alright. We exaggerated on that state employee bit.

But polls are a bit overblown, too.

After all, they arrive at their conclusions by asking just a handful of people to respond to surveys, then speculate that the results are representative of our entire population.

We'd be willing to bet that a good number of that 58 percent who said the governor was doing a good job don't know if the state capital is pronounced Lewis-ville or Louie-ville.

Effective this Friday, July 15, it will be illegal to fly through your windshield during a car wreck.

Mandatory seat belt-use laws take effect Friday, so buckle up.

Failure to do so increases your chances of being killed or seriously injured in an accident. As if that weren't enough, now you can be fined, too.

Well, the state Supreme Court has ruled that redrawing legislative districts around potholes and Republicans was illegal, so the General Assembly has to get out their Crayolas® and do it all over again.

Ironically, the state GOP, which was real upset when the redistricting was initially approved, is now the most upset over the court's ruling.

Why?

Because Republicans won legislative seats in several of the new districts that were thought to have been Democratic strongholds.

Back to the drawing board?

A week from today, Wednesday, 25 years will have passed since Neil Armstrong made the most famous footprint ever.

Wow. A quarter-century has passed since we've had some real American heroes to admire.

Doesn't say much for the way our world has turned in the meantime, does it?

Johnson expands its search for schools chief

The search for a new Johnson County school superintendent has widened to include the brother of embattled former Superintendent Frank Hamilton.

Orville L. Hamilton II, 52, a coal operator who was Johnson County school superintendent for nine years before resigning in 1982, was one of three local applicants added Sunday by the Johnson school board to a list of five finalists recommended by a screening committee.

Only one Johnson school employee—federal program director Larry DeLong—was among the five candidates recommended by the committee from a list of 44 applicants. But the Kentucky Education Reform Act does not require school boards to hire any of the recommended finalists.

"We just felt like we wasn't satisfied completely with the others and we thought we'd take a look at some more," board member Wade May said Monday.

Orville Hamilton said Monday, July 11, that he resigned in June 1982 with three years left on his contract because of a lengthy Kentucky State Police investigation of his administration.

Former Johnson County Commonwealth's Attorney Paul Deaton called a news conference in December 1981 to announce that a 31-page state police report had cleared Hamilton.

May said Hamilton and two others, Robert O'Bryan, principal of the Johnson County Alternative School, and Zella Wells, assistant principal at Johnson Central High School, will be interviewed today (Tuesday).

The five other applicants—DeLong; Charles R. Cooper, superintendent of Hickman County schools; Ceber Gilbert Jr., superintendent of Nicholas County schools; Phillip Satterfield, superintendent of schools in Adams County, Ohio; and Carla Kay Smith, superintendent of Monticello Independent Schools—were interviewed two weeks ago.

May said the board hopes to select a superintendent by Friday.—Lexington Herald-Leader

Suit dismissed against sheriff

A federal judge yesterday dismissed a lawsuit accusing Magoffin County Sheriff Chalmer Wireman of trying to drive a political foe out of the county.

Former county road foreman Billy Joe Howard claimed in a suit filed in January that a weekly newspaper ad taken out by Wireman implied he was a drug pusher. He said the ad backed up public statements Wireman allegedly made about banishing Howard from the county.

But U.S. District Judge Joseph Hood ruled that the ad "contains no explicit threats" against Howard. He also said Howard failed to state any federal constitutional claims against the sheriff.—Lexington Herald-Leader

Jacobs hearing delayed

A weekend competency hearing for former Death Row inmate Clawvern Jacobs has been postponed because a judge wants more information first, the prosecutor said Friday.

"A determination was made by Judge (John David) Caudill that there were matters that needed to be taken care of before we could go forward with the full-blown evidentiary hearing," Knott County Commonwealth's Attorney Randy Campbell said.

Jacobs, 47, of Malleie, is scheduled for a new trial August 15 in Floyd County in the September 1986 beating death of Alice Lloyd College student Judy Ann Howard.—Lexington Herald-Leader

Allen to rid city of stray dog problem

by Matt McCarty
Staff Writer

Allen city commissioners voted unanimously Monday to draft an ordinance to impose stiffer penalties on people who let stray dogs loose within the city limits.

If the ordinance is adopted, people who abandon dogs in Allen will face a $500 fine.

The abundance of strays in the city prompted the commission to vote to draft the ordinance after deciding it would be difficult to take all the strays to the animal shelter.

Commissioners said that sometimes there were as many as 25 stray dogs in the city.

Although most were optimistic that the ordinance would make people think twice before letting strays loose, commissioner Sharon Woods said that "later on down the road, just like everything else we try to accomplish, we'll vote it out."

Woods said that when someone is fined she wanted "to see the money."

Mayor Chris Waugh admitted it would be difficult to catch people abandoning strays, saying the city would need citizens to report the acts.

Waugh was hoping the threat of a fine would prompt people to abandon their dogs elsewhere.

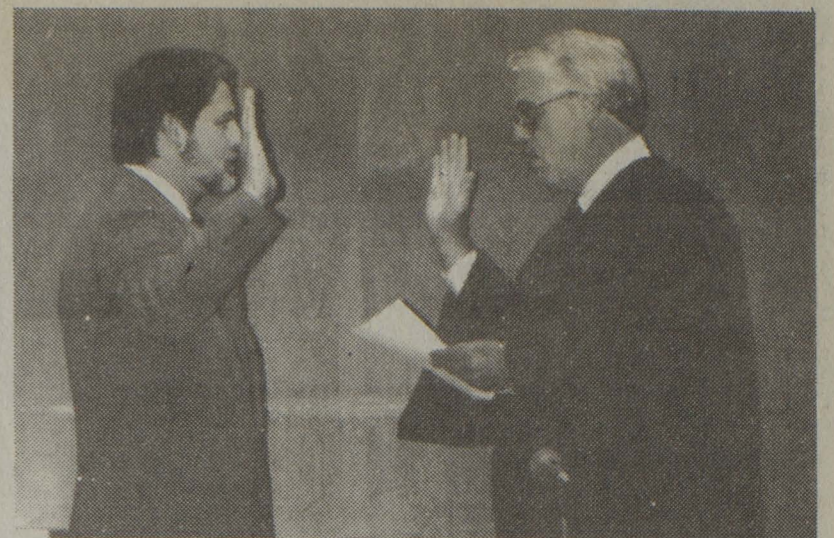

In other action, the commission: • decided it was necessary to try to put up guardrails and sidewalks on the road leading to Stumbo Park;

• determined some possible locations to place 35 mph speed limit signs; and

• voted to clean up the outside of the city hall building.

All commissioners were present.

Former mine inspector pleads guilty to federal charges of taking bribes

Former federal mine inspector Edward L. Kendrick offered no explanations Monday as he pleaded guilty to taking $800 from coal operators in exchange for not doing his job.

"I'm not standing here making excuses," Kendrick said after U.S. District Judge Joseph Hood read the charges against him. "I did exactly what you read to me."

Kendrick, 57 of Melvin, admitted taking $300 in April 1993 from an officer of Old South Mining Co. He also admitted taking $500 in February from the operator of an unnamed company.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Tom Self said the omission of the second company's name was intentional. "They cooperated with us," he said without elaboration.

In exchange for Kendrick's cooperation in the continuing investigation, Self has agreed to seek the dismissal of five other counts. Two are extortion counts involving another $500, and the remaining three allege he filed false reports to cover his activities.

Kendrick faces up to 17 years in prison and a $500,000 fine when he is sentenced November 1.

"He just regrets it happened," Kendrick's attorney, Ned Pillersdorf, said.

Inspector Clifford Crum's trial was to begin after Kendrick's rearrangement, but Hood rescheduled it for September 19 in Frankfort.

Crum, 58 of Allen, faces 15 years and a $250,000 fine for allegedly taking $200 from a coal operator. He was in the courtroom during Kendrick's hearing.

Suit

they never filed any state age discrimination complaint.

Grigsby, Thompson and Ratliff filed a similar lawsuit in Floyd Circuit Court claiming the reorganization was discussed in an illegal closed session. That lawsuit was dismissed by special Judge Stephen Frazier.

Under the central office reorganization, which was mandated by the state Department of Education, the positions the three men held were eliminated. Grigsby was employed as an assistant superintendent; Thompson was the assistant superintendent of finance; and Ratliff was the co-director of food service.

After the reorganization, Ratliff retired from the system; Grigsby was hired as a home bound teacher; and Thompson was not re-employed.

Where we stand by Albert Shanker, president American Federation of Teachers Noah Webster Academy

A key idea behind charter schools, the latest movement in education reform, is that many terrific opportunities to improve public education are lost because they are squelched by school bureaucracies. Charter school laws, which have been passed in 12 states and are pending in 9 or 10 more, are supposed to allow teachers and others the chance to establish public schools that are largely independent of state and local control. Supporters say that throwing away the rule book will unleash creativity and that fresh, new ideas developed in these charter schools will revitalize all public schools. But it's not so easy to draw the line between encouraging schools that have the freedom to experiment and ones where doing your own thing has nothing to do with improving public education.

This problem is already obvious in Michigan. Charter school legislation goes into effect this fall, and the first "school" out of the gate will be the Noah Webster Academy, which is nothing but a clever scheme to get public money for children who are already being educated by their parents—at home.

According to reporter Steve Stecklow's story in the Wall Street Journal (June 14, 1994), Noah Webster's founder, a lawyer specializing in home schooling cases, has signed up 700 students—mostly Christian home schoolers—for a school that is actually a computer network. The students will continue to study at home the way they do now, but every family will get a taxpayer-paid computer, printer and modem, and there will be an optional curriculum that teaches creationism alongside biology.

Does this actually fall within the Michigan charter school law? Barely. Stecklow quotes a Michigan state administrator who says it is "push[ing] the envelope...just about as far as you probably can." Critics had predicted that something like this would happen, and the response was that charters would be issued by school boards or colleges and they could be trusted to be responsible.

But Noah Webster's founder discovered a tiny, impoverished school district—it has 23 students, one teacher and a teacher's aide, and it nearly went broke a few years ago. It agreed to sponsor his school, and give it a 99-year charter, in return for a kickback of about $40,000. Based on current applications, Noah Webster, which is eligible for state funds to the tune of $5,500 per pupil, will get something in the neighborhood of $4 million of public money in the coming academic year.

Last year, Michigan suffered a big educational and financial crisis when the state decided to stop using property taxes to pay for education and had to scramble for other ways of financing its schools. The previous system gave a big advantage to wealthy districts, and the new one has provided some measure of equalization between wealthy districts and poor ones. Nevertheless, kids in wealthy districts are still getting more public money spent on them than kids in cities like Detroit. And now, the charter school law, which is supposed to be about using public money to test ideas that could improve education in troubled school districts like Detroit, is giving $4 million—for starters—to a group of people who are eager for public funds but could care less about public education.

Most charter school supporters genuinely believe that by trying out ideas that have been ignored in conventional schools, charter schools will improve public education. But this strategy won't work if the legislation permits these schools to be totally unconnected to the school district that sponsors them. Charter schools must have autonomy to get where they want to go, but they must also be part of a system that has a central purpose—and that means a system that has decided what kids need to know and be able to do.

But there are other supporters of charter schools whose real aim is to smash the public schools. Unless charter school legislation is carefully crafted and controlled, charter schools will not lead to improved public education. Instead, we will see the money used to pay for educating kids whose parents are already looking after their education at home or to finance what are really private schools. And all of this will take place without any public debate and totally out of the public eye—while other youngsters still struggle in school districts that need the kind of help charter schools are supposed to provide.

Local graduate attends summer program

Kevin Farthing of Martin is attending a six-week preparatory course at the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

Forty-eight selected high school graduates from across the state interested in a career in medicine or dentristry are participating in the Professional Education Preparation Program (PEPP).

Funded by the Council on Higher Education, PEPP addresses the problem of inadequate health manpower distribution in Kentucky by selecting students from counties the federal government has determined to have such shortages.

During the program, students will have the opportunity to work with medical and dental school faculty and students in clinical situations.

Program activities also include training in study skills and problem solving, and courses in chemistry and mathematics.

Elliott attends IFAL at UK

Frank Elliott, son of Vernon Elliott, of Floyd County, was one of 40 students that attended the Institute for Future Agricultural Leaders (IFAL), held on the University of Kentucky Campus in Lexington, June 26-30. The event was sponsored by the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation and the U.K. College of Agriculture.

The main purposes of the IFAL were leadership development and to expose the youth to the many possible career opportunities in agriculture.

Highlights of the week included speeches by Kentucky Farm Bureau President William R. Sprague and professional speakers Leo Mudd, Dale Thomas and Kay Sternberg. The youth attended sessions on speaking skills, adjusting to college, citizenship and goal setting. They also toured the U.K. Research Labs and Farm, the Toyota Plant and Pin Oak Horse Farm.

The students attending were selected by their respective county Farm Bureaus. All of them have just completed their junior year in high school, are in the top 25 percent of their class and have indicated a possible career interest in agriculture.

Spc. James Clark receives awards

Spc. James Clark of Prestonsburg, recently received awards during a logistics management evaluation maintenance inspection.

His M1A1 Main Battle Tank received a rating of "No Faults Noted." For his efforts, he received a certificate of achievement, company certificate, and a division coin.

He is married to Kathy Clark, daughter of Ronnie and Patsy Williamson of Prestonsburg.

Spc. Clark is currently stationed in Vilseck, Germany where he and his wife are serving a three-year tour. He is the son of Christine Baldrige of Prestonsburg and James B. Clark of Martin.

Photography class offered at PCC

Have you ever been disappointed by your attempts to take family photos or wished you could take pictures like magazine or newspaper photographers? Or maybe your new 35mm camera is just too complicated to understand. Prestonsburg Community College may be of some help.

A five-week summer photography course, taught by a professional photographer, is slated for Wednesday evenings from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Prestonsburg Campus beginning July 20. The instructor is Rhonda Simpson, chief photographer for Pikeville's Appalachian News-Express and regional director of the Kentucky Photographers Association.

Simpson will introduce participants to the basic use of cameras and lenses, the developing and printing of black-and-white photographs, and the use of camera accessories. She will also discuss her experiences in photojournalism and critique participants' work.

Simpson's works are well known in Eastern Kentucky. She won numerous awards from the Kentucky Press Association and the Kentucky Photographers Association. Her pictures have been used by the Associated Press, New York Times, and many local publications. She has also done promotional work for Jenny Wiley Theatre.

For registration information, call Robert Campbell in PCC's Office of Continuing Education and Community Service at 886-3863 Extension 241.

McDowell Resource Center summer activities

The center will be hosting an arts and crafts bazaar that is free to the public. Children must be accompanied by a parent. Anyone interested in setting up a table, please call 377-2678. Those interested in displaying crafts must come prepared to demonstrate one craft technique.

Two-day 4-H camp, July 20 and 21, will be held at the resource center. The camp is free for all children. Call to register.

Pam Patton, R.N., from the Floyd County Health Department, is at the center each Monday and Tuesday for sixth grade, kindergarten and headstart physicals. She also gives well-child exams, updates shot records, and gives T.B. skin tests. There is no charge for those with a medical card. Please bring a shot record with you. Call for an appointment at 377-2678.

Dr. Bellur from McDowell ARH is at the center each Thursday from 9 a.m. till noon. He will see children ages newborn-fifteen. Call for an appointment at 377-2678. There is no charge for those who qualify.

Vacation Bible School

St. Martha's Catholic Church will be presenting an ecumenical Vacation Bible School from 5-8:30 p.m., on August 8-12. A meal of thanksgiving will be served from 5-6 p.m., followed by classes and recreational activities. Children ages 4-12 will study "Come Along With Jesus: The Adventure Begins," a series from Augsburg Press. Adults will study "The Apocalypse: Understanding the Book of Revelation." Transportation is available. Registration for both the adult and children's courses is now underway. Call Teena or Brenda at 874-9526.

Ministry through music

Jon Stemkoski's Celebrant Singers, a fresh and dynamic Christian singing group from California, featuring ten singers with a twelve-piece orchestra, will minister through music, song and testimony on Thursday, July 21, at 7:30 p.m., at the MCA/Piarist School Gym on Route 80, Martin. Their 90-minute musical celebration includes sign language for the deaf. Mr. Stemkoski (or one of his associates) will bring a special message. The concert is sponsored by St. Martha's Church in Prestonsburg and St. Luke's Church in Salyersville. All seats are free, and everyone is encouraged to attend this inspiring service. For more information call 874-9526.

Site-based meeting

The McDowell site-based council meeting will be held Wednesday, July 13, at 5 p.m. The meeting is open to the public and will be held in the principal's office.

Island Bound Music sets sail with hit-charting crew

Prestonsburg native Julie Daniel is currently making a big splash in Nashville as a principal owner of Island Bound Music Publishing Company, which was officially christened and pronounced ready to sail into the music community, Tuesday, May 24.

Daniel is the former Julie Grant and is the daughter of Prestonsburg residents Leonard and Abigail Grant and the granddaughter of Mrs. Myrtle B. Allen.

Daniel, along with co-owners Brad

Daniel, who is her husband, and Bill Fiser, has purchased and restored a building at 12004 17th Avenue South which now boasts private writers' rooms and a state-of-the-art recording studio, which was added on to the building. Island Bound Music is a co-venture with Famous Music.

"I feel that Brad and Julie Daniel are two of the brightest and most creative talents in Nashville," Ira Jaffe, President of the Famous Music Publishing Companies, said. "It's always been my practice to work with people who have a hands-on philosophy and I'm looking forward to many successful years together."

The company's first hit from the new catalog, "Before You Kill Us All," is a top-ten Randy Travis single currently bulleting up the charts. It was written by the first songwriter signed to Island Bound, Max T. Barnes. Barnes, son of songwriter Max D. Barnes, is known for his number one single, "Love Me" (Collin Raye), as well as "Let Go Of The Stone" (John Anderson) and "Way Down Deep" (Vern Gosdin). The Collin Raye hit stayed at the number one spot for three consecutive weeks, and was nominated Song of the Year by the County Music Association in 1992.

"Island Bound was formed as an extension of what we learned with Dave Loggins at MCA Music," explained Brad Daniel, who, with Julie, successfully managed the songwriters at MCA prior to forming their own company. "Our concept was to hire a few great writers and surround them with an aggressive staff. Every step we've taken, from forming this company to buying this building, was done to insure that our writers can be in an atmosphere that maximizes their talent. We're very fortunate to be associated with a powerhouse like Famous Music."

Some of the other "great writers" are Bobby Carmichael, Leslie Winn Satcher and the legendary "Hobo" Jim Varsos, who have all recently joined Island Bound Music as staff writers. Carmichael's song, "If You Had A Heart," is on the upcoming John and Audrey Wiggins album on Mercury Records.

In business for only a few months, Island Bound Music has placed three cuts in addition to the Travis hit. Diamond Rio's first single and title cut from their new album, titled "Love A Little Stronger," was slated for release on May 2. Sammy Kershaw has recorded "Too Far Gone To Leave" on his new album and Jon Randall recorded "If I Hadn't Reached For The Stars" for his upcoming RCA album.

The publishing company is actively seeking two or three established songwriters to complete the writing staff.

Local students receive degrees from Eastern

Nine Floyd County students received degrees from Eastern Kentucky University at the end of EKU's spring semester.

Local EKU graduates include Martin V. Allen, Stacy Lynn Anderson, Charles Alan Bishop, Chris Allen Griffith, Jayne Elizabeth Hall, Carol Lynn Lafferty, Tara Suzanne McCoy, Robert T. Slone, and Kelly Wayne Williams.

Martin V. Allen of Winchester was awarded a bachelors degree in Industrial technology with a specialty in computer electronics. Anderson, of Richmond, received a degree in Communication Disorders. Bishop earned certification in advanced emergency medical care. Bishop lives in Prestonsburg.

Griffith, also a Prestonsburg resident, was awarded a bachelors in psychology and Hall was awarded a bachelors in performing arts. Lafferty received an associates degree in nursing. McCoy received a bachelors in agriculture/pre-veterinary. Slone, who lives at Blue River, was awarded a bachelors in sociology, and Williams earned certification in advanced emergency medical care.

More than 2,100 graduates and degree candidates were honored at the University's 87th spring commencement ceremony held Sunday, May 8 at Hanger Field. That number includes 864 December graduates who were invited to participate in the ceremony.

Faculty and administrators of the University's academic colleges were on hand, as well as thousands of family members and friends of the new graduates.

The commencement address was given by Warren Rosenthal, Lexington, retired chief executive officer of Jerrico Inc. Rosenthal also received an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Following the University-wide ceremony, each of the nine colleges sponsored receptions for new graduates at various campus locations.

Eastern's new degree-holders join more than 64,000 EKU alumni in Kentucky, the region and across the United States.

Eastern Kentucky University is a comprehensive university serving about 16,500 students on its 560-acre Richmond campus, throughout its 22-county extended service region, and beyond.

Children's Day observed at Drift Learning Center

The Drift Adult Learning Center held Children's Day for students and their children.

Activities were geared to the children's needs, but were mostly fun and games. Refreshments were also served.

Some of the students, children, and instructors attending were Ashley and William Stone, Charity Stone, Sandy and Christopher Stone, Linda Howell, Mitzi Crisp, Lou Ellen Stone, Judy Gayheart, Sandra Crisp, Ronald Stone and Pauline Howell.

The learning center is operated by David School.

Obituaries

Edwin P. Frasure

Edwin P. Frasure, 73, of Hueysville, died Saturday, July 9, at Lutheran Hospital, Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

Born December 18, 1920 at Langley, he was the son of the late Malcom and Minnie Ratliff Frasure. He was a retired miner and factory worker and member of the Estill D.A.V. Chapter. He was preceded in death by his wife, Gladys Jones Frasure.

Survivors include four daughters, Loretta Ousley of Martin, Margie J. Potter of Pine Top, Minnie E. Bodey of Garrett, Indiana, and Barbara Ann Hartman of Hudsonville, Illinois; one sister, Alva Frasure of Langley; 12 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be Wednesday, July 13, at 11 a.m., at the Hall Funeral Home Chapel with Ivan Amburgey and Don Pratt officiating.

Burial will be in the Duncan Cemetery at Hueysville under the direction of Hall Funeral Home.

Harriet Powell Wells

Harriet Powell Wells, 95, of East Point, died Thursday, July 7, at Highlands Regional Medical Center following an extended illness.

Born December 30, 1898 in Covington, Tennessee, she was the daughter of the late Albert and Grace Bell Powell. She performed with the original Vaudeville. She moved from Tennessee and made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Green Cawood of East Point. She was preceded in death by her husband, Thomas Henry Wells, November 7, 1985.

Private services will be held at a later date under the direction of Carter Funeral Home.

In Memory of MEREDITH ALLEN CONN

December 28, 1963-
July 12, 1993

A year has gone since your death. And it seems as though it is today that your life was taken. Some say you were in the wrong place at the wrong time. But your body and your blood will not leave my mind. How can a man live with himself when he has murdered for the 2nd time? Does life and God not mean anything to him? I pray each day our pain will get easier.

My only thoughts are: "Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord." (Romans 12:19)

ADA MOSLEY PASTOR

In Memory of MEREDITH ALLEN CONN

December 28, 1963-
July 12, 1993

It's been a year since you've been gone. And so much time has passed and gone. Someone once told me that time eases pain but as each day goes by, the pain in one's heart aches more and more. We are blessed with great memories that we once shared together. They will be in our heart for the rest of our lives. All our lives are not the same and so much has changed. The roads we traveled when we were kids, seem so far away. We miss you so much words can never say. You're in our hearts and minds each and every day. No one could ever take your place. Our family circle has been broken, just like the song you used to play and sing.

I hope someday we can see you again, our "Big Brother," Son and Father. We all love and miss you.

With love,
Your family & "Sissy"

Everyone Welcome!

Seventh-day Adventists Believe . . .

The church is one body with many members, called from every nation, kindred, tongue, and people. In Christ we are a new creation; distinctions of race, culture, learning, and nationality, and differences between high and low, rich and poor, male and female, must not be divisive among us. We are all equal in Christ, who by one Spirit has bonded us into one fellowship with Him and with one another; we are to serve and be served without partiality or reservation. Through the revelation of Jesus Christ in the Scriptures we share the same faith and hope, and reach out in one witness to all. This unity has its source in the oneness of the triune God, who has adopted us as His children.—Fundamental Beliefs, 13.

Prestonsburg 13-year-old Area 2 champions

Grant Castle scattered six Morgan County hits as the Prestonsburg 13-year-old All-Stars posted a 4-1 victory to win the Area 2 Senior League All-Star tournament at Paintsville this past Sunday afternoon.

Castle won for the second time in the tournament as Prestonsburg had to come back for the final game after dropping a 4-0 game to Morgan County earlier Saturday.

It was a double elimination format and Prestonsburg had to be beaten twice to lose the tournament.

Seth Crisp collected two hits for the winners, who found themselves down 1-0 after the first inning.

Morgan County scored when Wright led off with a walk and came home on abases loaded walk to Smith.

Prestonsburg tied the game in the bottom of the second as it scored without the benefit of a hit. Jon May walked and stole second and third before coming home on a passed ball.

Neither team could dent the plate until Prestonsburg took a 3-1 lead with two in the bottom of the fifth inning. Jesse Compton doubled with one out and came home on Nathan Leslie's double. Leslie scored on Crisp's base hit. Castle also had a hit in the inning.

Prestonsburg tacked on an insurance run in the bottom of the sixth on a one out walk to Dustin Crisp, a stolen base and Harris' RBI single.

Morgan County had a two out threat in the second inning, but Castle got Tepe to ground to third for the final out.

Again in the third, Morgan County mounted a threat, but Castle stayed tough and got Cantrell on a grounder and Gevedon to pop out.

Castle retired the side in order in the fourth and gave up a fifth inning base hit to Bell in the fifth. Morgan County went out quietly in the sixth and left two runners on in the seventh.

Bell was the losing pitcher going all the way for Morgan County. He allowed four runs on six hits. He fanned six and walked three.

Castle, in a complete game, gave up one run on six hits. He walked four and struck out four.

Prestonsburg will face the winner of the Area 1 tournament for the District Championship and the right to go on to state competition. The game will be played either Saturday or Monday in Pikeville.

A swing, a miss, a smile!

Beaver Red shortstop Ryan Shannon could only smile as he took a mighty swing at a pitch and missed. Shannon went all the way around after missing the ball. It was not all bad for Shannon as he collected three hits, drove in four runs and scored twice to help lead the Red team to a 12-10 win over Martin County in a marathon battle that lasted two days and ten innings. The game had to be called on Friday and resumed on Saturday. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Beaver Red wins marathon over Martin County, 12-10

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was called the greatest Little League game to be played in the Area 2 Little League Tournament.

It started on Friday night and ended Saturday morning.

It took four hours to complete.

But when it was all over at 11:26 Saturday morning, the Beaver Creek Red All-Stars had posted a hard earned and hard fought 12-10 win over the Martin County All-Stars.

Martin County went through five pitchers and Beaver Red used two. David Harless, the fifth hurler for Martin County, was tagged with the loss while John Mullins got the win in relief of starter Zack Layne.

When the two teams returned to the Paintsville Little League field Saturday morning at 11 a.m., Beaver Red was to bat at the start of the 10th inning (Little League is just a six inning game).

The two teams were knotted at ten after Martin County scored four times in the bottom of the ninth to tie the game at ten.

Rossy Crum came on in the ninth inning in relief of Charlie Speers. Harless started the 10th inning and was in trouble after facing the first three batters. He issued consecutive walks to Kyle Tackett, Patrick Martin and Henry Napier to load the bases.

He walked in the go ahead run when he missed on four pitches to the plate, sending Matt Howard to first and scoring Tackett, the go-ahead run, for an 11-10 game.

Ryan Shannon collected his third hit of the game when he singled home Martin with two out. Larry Mullins struck out to end the inning.

Mullins had no trouble in the Martin County tenth as he got Jonathan Weddington and Matthew Cline on strikes to end the game.

The fans were very much into the game and many were on the edge of their seats, those who could sit, while others had to stand. In the top of the ninth it appeared to be all over as Beaver Red scored four times for a 10-6 lead and with Mullins on the mound.

Two walks and a two-run triple by Shannon gave the Beaver Red team a 8-6 lead. Byron Hall then tripled home two runs for a 10-6 game, after Larry Mullins drew a walk.

But Mullins ran into some problems in the bottom of the ninth. He walked Waylon Perry to start the inning, but Kelly Click bounced in a force out of Perry. Speers singled and moved to second on an error in right field as Click scored. Cline singled to score Speers for a 10-8 game.

Mullins got Emsy Taylor on strikes for the second out, but walked Palmer Marcum on a 3-2 pitch to load the bases. Chad Howell then lined a base hit, scoring Cline and Marcum and tying the game.

King fans 11 as Beaver Red eliminates Wheelwright

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Nick King struck out 11 batters while John Mullins and Kyle Tackett drove in three runs each to help the Beaver Red All-Stars eliminate Wheelwright from the Area 2 Little League All-Star tournament 15-5 Thursday evening at Paintsville.

Beaver Red exploded for 13 runs in the first inning against starter James Walker, but Dusty Tackett came on to make it rough for the Beaver Creek team the rest of the way.

Tackett held the hard hitting Red team to only two runs on three hits over the final four innings.

Kyle Tackett belted a two run home run in the first inning while Byron Hall doubled home two runs. Ryan Shannon, who was perfect at the plate with four hits, had a two-run single. Shannon batted twice in the frame and singled both times.

Mullins collected three hits while Tackett had two. Matt Howard drove in two runs with a first inning double.

Tackett relieved Walker with one out in the first inning and 11 runs already in. He was greeted with a base hit by Mullins and Tackett's two run shot.

After the home run, Tackett was tough on the Beaver Creek team. He got them out in the second and third without any damage and allowed single runs in the fourth and fifth innings.

Tackett struck out seven batters in Fleming's two-run homer eliminates Beaver Creek Red

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Beaver Creek Red All-Star team has been in the midst of close encounters and marathon games.

But all that is history now as they were eliminated from the Area 2 Little League All-Star tournament in Paintsville Monday night.

Eric Fleming belted a two-run home run in the top of the sixth inning to erase a 3-2 Beaver Red lead and to send the Prestonsburg All-Stars to a 4-3 win.

Prestonsburg faced Morgan County yesterday to see who would face Harold-Allen-Prater tonight.

Beaver Red starter Ryan Shannon was breezing along with the one run lead but an error opened the door for the winning rally. John Dixon opened the sixth inning by grounding to Larry Mullins at shortstop. The ball skipped through Mullins' legs for an error. Fleming then blasted his home run that sent Prestonsburg ahead 4-3.

Beaver Red put together a two out rally in the bottom of the inning, but left the bases loaded when Henry Napier struck out to end the game.

Dixon made a great stop on a John Mullins ground ball for the first out and Robbie Holbrook stabbed Kyle Tackett's liner in right field for the second out.

George Hall, who started for Prestonsburg, gave up a base hit to Patrick Martin and issued back-to-back walks to Jeremy Hayes and Heath Scott to load the bases.

Prestonsburg manager Bobby Shepherd elected to bring in Gabriel

Prestonsburg to host youth football camp July 25-29

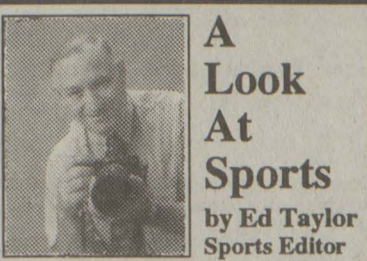

Prestonsburg head football coach Bill Letton and his staff will conduct a five day youth football camp at the schools football facility beginning July 25 and running through July 29.

The camp is open to all county youth and will be held in two daily sessions. The camp will be held from 8:30 until 11 a.m. each day for third, fourth and fifth grade students. From 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. the camp will be conducted for sixth, seventh and eighth graders.

Entry fee for the camp is $40 per camper. If more than one from one family attends, the cost is $75 for both. T-shirts and different awards will be presented at the camp.

For more information on the camp, contact Bill Letton at 886-8578 or 886-6430.

LITTLE LEAGUE ALL-STAR TOURNEY...

I have spent more time in Paintsville than I have at home over the past nine days in coverage of the All-Star tournaments that are presently going on.

The City of Paintsville and the league officials have done an excellent job of hosting this year's classic event — the Little League All-Star Tournament.

The early round matchups saw some blow outs like the 28-0 Paintsville win over the Beaver Creek Blue team or the Prestonsburg 22-3 win over Magoffin County.

Blowouts such as these are to be expected in the early rounds as most teams are not matched up to well.

Once the first round ended, there have been some exciting games. The 10 inning affair between Martin County and Beaver Red. The 3-2 win of HAP over Beaver Red in the first round. Prestonsburg's thrilling 4-3 comeback win over Beaver Red Monday night.

Tournament director Mike Brown has done a great job overseeing the event. While there have been some bothersome parents, it has mostly been a problem free tournament.

I must say the officials used during the tournament have been excellent. Walt Crace, Matt Williams, Shawn Williams and Darren Gamble have done an outstanding job of calling the bases as well as balls and strikes.

They have been on top of the game and have shown safety as the first concern for the kids. The foursome is to be congratulated for the excellent job they have done.

Mitch Kinner is the player agent and handles the eligibility of all the players as well as seeing that each player is treated right.

The whole tournament is fortunate to have someone like Lynn Fugate on the scorebook and scoreboard (at the same time). Lynn has done an outstanding job of not only keeping the score of each game, but also keeping the field in top notch playing condition.

Lynn has been at it for the past three seasons and has earned the respect of all those involved.

The facility is an excellent place to play such a tournament. The field is well taken care of and the grass is kept cut and the whole area cleaned.

Word is that the infield grass will be stripped this fall and new sod brought in. I didn't know the facility belonged to the Little League Association in Paintsville. I always thought it was a city facility.

You can see that the folks in Paintsville stand behind their Little League program.

Rain has forced the moving up of one day in the tournament. The finals are now scheduled for Thursday and Friday if necessary.

Two Floyd County teams remain as Prestonsburg and Harold-Allen-Prater are still alive (as of Tuesday).

All of our Floyd County teams have represented us well. To all the players and coaches and all involved in our kids here in the county, I just want to say thanks to you for your time and effort of working with the players.

Our high school teams have some excellent players heading into the system.

The Prestonsburg 13-year-old Senior League All-Star team won the Area 2 championship and will play at Pikeville for the District Championship either Saturday or Monday. Mike Castle has done an excellent job with this group of players.

The Floyd County Babe Ruth tournament is currently underway with the 15-year-olds playing at the Allen Park. The 13-year-olds started Monday night in Knott County. The 14-year-olds will start this Saturday at Johnson Cen-

Lot of good baseball is being played. The Big League district starts next week and Paintsville, the defending state champions, will host the state tournament beginning July 25.

CLAY WILL NOT RETURN TO PRESTONSBURG.

It has been officially announced that veteran Prestonsburg girl's basketball coach Bridget Clay will not be returning to the Lady Blackcats basketball program next season.

Clay was not rehired by the school, but will continue to coach girl's softball.

Former boy's assistant coach Harold Tackett has been hired to replace Clay at the helm.

Replacing Tackett as boy's assistant will be Jackie Day Crisp.

Clay said that she received a letter of notification from school principal Karen Trivette.

"I had a 5-0 vote of the site-base council," said Clay, "and still I didn't get rehired."

Clay said that she was disappointed by the action of Mrs. Trivette.

She is a former basketball standout at Prestonsburg and has been the school's girl's head coach for the past ten seasons.

Tackett began his coaching tenure at the Mountain Christian Academy before moving on to Porter Elementary in Johnson County. Tackett coached the junior varsity at Prestonsburg the past two seasons as well as the freshman program.

He had indicated earlier that he had no interest in the girl's job and had not planned to apply for it.

"I will probably just handle the freshman boys and coach cross-country," he said earlier.

The Prestonsburg's girls program will see several young but talented players return for the '94-'95 season. One of those players is multi-talented Jamie Clay, sister to the former coach.

COACH LETTON'S CAMP...

One of the finest coaches that I know, and that includes all sports, Bill Letton, will be conducting a youth football camp beginning July 25 at the Prestonsburg football field.

Coach Letton said that the camp is open to all county youth who wish to attend. All you young inspiring football players should take advantage of the camp. You're sure to get some valuable instruction that will help you down the road.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

Beaver Red

Beaver Red took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on RBI singles by Martin and Tackett. Martin County got three in the bottom of the inning with two coming in on Howell's two-run home run over the left field fence.

Martin County extended its lead to 5-2 with a two-run third. Speers grounded to shortstop, scoring Perry and Cline had his second hit, scoring Click.

Beaver Red narrowed the lead to one run with two in its half of the fourth. Shannon singled home a run and a run came home on Layne's ground ball to second.

Martin County reclaimed the lead with a single run in the fifth frame. Jonathan Weddington scored on Cline's third hit of the game and second RBI for a 6-4 game.

It was in the top of the sixth that Beaver Red tied the game at six as two runs scored. Howard walked and Shannon walked with one out. Larry Mullins struck out and Hall lined a base hit to left-center, scoring Howard and Shannon to tie the game.

Beaver Creek had several chances over the next three innings to take the lead, but could not dent the plate.

In the seventh, it had runners at second and third with one out, but left both runners stranded when Howard and Layne struck out. In the eighth, with runners at second and third and only one out, Holbrook got John Mullins on strikes and fanned Tackett to end the inning.

It was a bad game for John Mullins and Layne. Both struck out four times in the game and with key runners on.

However, both played important roles in the win. Layne started for the Beaver team and hurled a strong five innings. Mullins worked the final five.

Mullins struck out 14 batters in his five innings. He walked five while giving up four runs on three hits. Layne fanned eight batters, walked and surrendered six runs on nine hits. He walked two.

David Harless took the loss in one and a third innings. He allowed two runs on two hits. He walked four and struck out one.

Taylor started for Martin County and had to leave the mound after pitching the first six innings (a pitcher can only pitch six innings in a game). Taylor was impressive in the six innings he worked. He struck out 12 batters and walked five. He allowed five runs on six hits.

Kelly Click relieved Taylor and lasted two and a third innings before giving way to Speers. Speers pitched to only three batters striking out one and yielding a triple to Shannon and walking Mullins.

The game was a score keeper's nightmare as several players entered, left and reentered. But it was a fan's game and parents were kept busy shuttling soft drinks to the dugout to some tired and thirsty players.

Shannon finished with three hits and four RBIs for Beaver Red. Hall batted in three runs on two hits.

Cline collected four hits for Martin County and drove in three runs. Howell had four RBIs on three hits.

Kentucky Headhunters to perform at Bluegrass Games

The Bluegrass State Games is proud to welcome country recording artists, The Kentucky Headhunters, home to the Bluegrass when they perform as part of the Opening Ceremonies. Their performance will be at 8:45 p.m., July 29 in Lexington at Commonwealth Stadium. The Opening Ceremonies are free and open to the public. This year is the first year that a national entertainment act has been a part of the festivities.

"We are extremely happy to include the Kentucky Headhunters as part of our Opening Ceremonies this year," said Sam Dunn, Executive Director of the Bluegrass State Games. "To help celebrate the 10th anniversary of the Games, we wanted to give the participants and their supporters something special to look forward to this July. And with the Head-hunters being from Kentucky, we felt that their appearance would make the Opening Ceremonies even more exciting."

The Kentucky Headhunters originated in Metcalfe County around the early 1980's. The band's members are: Fred Young on drums, Richard Young playing rhythm guitar, Greg Martin on lead guitar, Anthony Kenney on bass, and Mark Orr singing lead.

"First of all, I can't say enough of how proud I am to be from the state of Kentucky," said Greg Martin. "There are only two things that makes me nervous; playing at the Grand Ole Opry and playing in Kentucky. But it's always good to come home to play for friends and family."

Since they came together as a band in 1986, The Kentucky Headhunters have been recognized by various organizations in the country music industry. They were the Academy of Country Music's Best New Group of the Year (1989); the County Music Association's Album of the Year (Pickin' On Nashville/1990), Producers of the Year (1990), and Group of the Year (1990/1991). They also won a Grammy award for Best Country Performance, Group with Vocal (1990). The Headhunters have also received awards from the Billboard Music Video Awards, the National Association of Recording Merchandisers, and the AMOA Jukebox Awards.

The group's first album, Pickin' On Nashville, (which also was a self-produced album) went platinum in 1989. Since then, The Headhunters have added two more albums to their list with Electric Barnyard in 1991 and Rave On! in 1993. Some of their hits include: "Walk Softly On This Heart Of Mine" (1989), "Dumas Walker" (1990), "Only Daddy That'll Walk The Line" (1991), and "Honky Tonk Walkin'" (1993).

Fleming

Shepherd to face Napier as Hall appeared to be tiring. The move worked as Shepherd got Napier on a looking third strike.

It was an outstanding performance for Shannon, who was penciled in as the starter when Nick King left the team the game before.

Prestonsburg got on the scoreboard first in the second inning for a 1-0 lead. Prater singled and Hall walked to start the second. Kyle Shepherd bounced back to the pitcher who tossed to third to force Prater. Shannon walked Holbrook to load the bases and Hall scored on Gabriel Shepherd's sacrifice fly to left field.

Beaver Red took a 2-1 lead in the second inning on a one-out walk to Martin and Jeremy Hayes' opposite field triple. Hayes scored on an over-throw at the plate.

Prestonsburg tied the game at two in the third inning as Dixon, who reached on a fielder's choice, scored on Prater's RBI single.

The Red team led 3-2 after it batted in the bottom of the third. Byron Hall reached on Fleming's error at third after two were out and he scored on a play at second base.

Hall struck out the side in the Red teams half of the fourth and he allowed a hit in the fifth before retiring the opposition.

Shannon had retired seven straight until Mullins' error at short in the sixth. Shannon went the distance for the Red team and struck out seven batters. He walked two.

Hall went five and two-thirds innings, allowing two runs on just three hits. He struck out nine batters and walked five.

The loss eliminated the Red team from the tournament.

Turn off O. J. and turn up the air conditioner, it's time to talk about hoops Turn off the O. J. hearing and turn up the air-conditioner, it's time to talk hoops.

The Kentucky Wildcats schedule for 1994-95 was released last week. Although games-for-TV won't be firmed up until later this month, director of athletics C.M. Newton said in an interview that "all our games will be on television."

UK's schedule has some interesting departures from last year's card.

The Louisville game becomes a New Year's day treat, at Freedom Hall instead of last year's Nov. 27 date. Excellent move. Some reasons why.

1. Wildcats and Cards will have played two exhibitions and several intersectional games beforehand.

2. Both teams will be better, improving the chances of a top quality game for brag-rights fans.

3. Will not distract media attention from the football team if Bill Curry's club earns a bowl bid.

4. Coffee shop coaches from Pikeville to Fulton will have an extra month to 'prepare.'

5. And, Bill Keightly has five extra weeks to sweat.

Other '94-95 schedule notables.

• Game of the year? Could be Sunday, Jan. 29 in Fayetteville, Ark.

• Intersectional headliners. Syracuse visits Rupp on Sunday, Feb. 5. One Sunday later UK plays Notre Dame at South Bend.

• Interstate games. Without fanfare Eastern Ky. and Morehead are dropped. Payday PR was starting to be outdistanced by charges of marshmellowism. Sacrificial replacements? Tennessee-Martin, Texas Tech and Marshall.

• Recruit investment. Anyone who believes Rick Pitino is not intent on recruiting Jefferson County harder, note: Wildcats play Indiana, Dec. 7; UofL; South Carolina, Feb. 1, in Freedom Hall.

It's been 20 years since Kentucky played three games in Louisville. In 1974-75 UK was 3-0 in Freedom Hall against North Carolina, Kansas and Notre Dame on the way to a 26-5 season and a berth in the NCAA finals. That brings us to another peculiarity. Kentucky lost to UCLA in the finals in John Wooden's last game, in San Diego.

The two teams have not played since, but will this Dec. 3 in the John Wooden Classic at Anaheim.

• Dec. 10—Rick Pitino's alma mater Boston U. visits Rupp.

• Former assistants dates. For

UK fans in northern Kentucky, Wildcats play Texas Tech at Riverfront Coliseum on the 17th. Tech is coached by ex-UK assistant James Dickey. On the 27th Marshall and rookie coach Billy Donovan visit Rupp Arena.

• Dandy season closer. LSU (and Dale Brown) at Rupp Mar. 4. Senior Day for Chris Harrison and Andre Riddick.

HUNCH DEPT.

If Louisville native Derek Anderson transfers to the University of Kentucky from Ohio State, as has been rumored in recent weeks, bet that Winston Bennett's presence on UK's staff has paid its first dividend.

It won't be the last.

Incidentally, Sports In Ky. paid Bennett a visit in his new office (down the hall from Pitino's) in Memorial Coliseum. With photos of his wife and children already in place, Bennett smiled and admitted he is "tickled to death to be here."

KY. HOOPS TRADITIONS AND '94-95 PROSPECTS

Psst. If playing Div. I hoops is the yardstick instead of being among who's who at a big time summer camp (Nike etc.), then someone trying to tell you Ky. high school hoops talent is down in recent years is talking through his hat.

A little research tells us 22 Ky. high schoolers in the last five years have, are now or will play significant roles for Div. I majors.

To wit: Dwayne Morton, Jason Osborne, Alvin Sims, DeJuan Wheat, Tick Rogers, Matt Simon and Brian Kiser at UofL; Anthony Epps, Chris Harrison and Scott Padgett at UK; Mike Fralich, Danyell Macklin and Eric Martin at Western Ky.; Derek Anderson at Ohio State; Darnell Burton at Cincinnati; Tony Pietrowski to LSU, and Greg Buckner to Clemson.

1991: Jermaine Brown, Mr. Basketball signed with Tennessee; 1990 Sergio Luyk (U-Heights) with St. John's. 1989: Mr. Basketball Allan Houston is with the NBA Pistons by way of All-America career at Tennessee; Travis Ford signed with Missouri then UK; and Mike Allen (Bryan Station) at SW Louisiana.

That's just Div. I.

The future? Kentucky's interstate highway system will be a hot track for college scouts the next four years. Aside from Ballard's Grabney, a pair of juniors to watch recruiters salivate over are 6-8 Lamont Barnes at Uni-6-10 Michael Lockhart at PRP.

Other potential stars: 6-7 sophomore-to-be LaRonzo Griffin, Louisville Central; 6-7 freshman Dennis Johnson, Harrodsburg; and 6-10 eighth grader-to-be Nathan Popp of versity Heights in Hopkinsville and Shelbyville.

Footnote: Of these Popp's development could be of keen interest to UK and UofL fans. The youngster is a lifelong Kentucky fan. But then so was 6-10 Shelby Countian Matt Simon, now a candidate-to-start next season at UofL.

READERS (RIGHT) WRITE

Scott T. Wesley, Louisville writes to contest a Sports In Ky. column item on high school girls' slo-pitch softball versus fast pitch being legislated in: "Why do people like you sell girls athletic desires and abilities so short? Was it not the right thing to do (to change) many years ago when girls evolved out of the dark ages of half-court, one-dribble-then-pass basketball?"

"(Critics said) girls can not run up and down the (basketball) court like boys do. Baloney! They always could play the same style as boys just not above the rim.

"It's the same situation with fast-pitch softball. Look at the rest of the country. Look at Little Leagues around the state that play fast-pitch. The girls play hard and well. It's the slo-pitch coaches around the state that are stonewalling. They don't know how to teach a girl how to 'windmill pitch' or to coach the fundamentals of baseball that apply to fast-pitch softball."

Wesley goes on, "People by nature resist change, but this resistance is costing girls in Kentucky college scholarship opportunities."

COMMENT: The point offered in this space had more to do with participation. And, the slo-pitch/fast-pitch issue represents an opportunity for the KHSAA to take the lead on an issue, canvass its constituency, see what high school girls prefer.

COMMENT II: Thank you for writing.

E.J. Milton, Dry Ridge writes about the KHSAA and Kosair's Ky. Athletic Halls of Fame: "I would like to nominate for both (halls) one who deserves it, Paul Jenkins (who) coached basketball and football at Male High School.

"Jenkins coached Ralph Beard, Gene Rhodes and many other fine athletes. And I believe he was an outstanding athlete himself with the Ashland Tomcats."

COMMENT: Milton is right. Letters like his brings renewed attention to Jenkins' contributions to Kentucky athletics.

J.G.R., Henderson writes about Rodney Dent: "You got down on Rodney Dent pretty hard after he was injured last season. I see you're back on the bandwagon now that he's been drafted by Orlando."

COMMENT: I was never down on Dent, but did point out that UK's 6-10 center never proved he could be effective against top teams (UofL, IU and Arizona) last season. Look it up.

RODNEY DENT

Rodney Dent's being chosen in the second round by the NBA Magic should come as no surprise considering today's technology and surgical techniques.

Physical therapist Marcee W. Hopper of Corbin works with athletes rehabilitating from knee and other surgeries and points out, "There's up to 90 percent recovery in nine months and he (Dent) is right on schedule."

Certainly Magic GM Pat Williams is not going to invest a draft pick without some reason for optimism that Dent has recovered and can at least carry Shaquille O'Neal's tote bag.

PARTING SHOT

Now that O. J. is in a courtroom, Jennifer Capriati's in rehab and Darryl Strawberry's in a Giants uniform, and the weather's hot, let's beat up on Tonya Harding.

More of the media herd was spewing sanctimony last month after Harding made a few bucks shilling for professional wrestling.

After the U.S. Ice Skating Association stripped Harding of her title the week before, The Sporting News was the latest to weigh in, condemn sports' newest little bad girl. Harding made a few bucks as a celeb manager for professional wrestler American Love Machine.

Certainly, no sports media-type in this country would sell his/her scruples for a few easy bucks. Right, guys?

And so it goes.

Have a point of view you would like to share? Write to Bob Watkins, Sports In Ky. P.O. Box 124, Glendale, Ky. 42740.

Long ball not kind to HAP All-Stars

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Paintsville Little League All-Stars played long ball with the Harold-Allen-Prater (HAP) All-Stars Monday night at the Paintsville field and came away with a 10-2 win, sending HAP to the loser's bracket where it will play tonight against the winner of the Morgan County/Prestonsburg game.

Josh Banks homered in the first inning for Paintsville and Jason Kinner blasted a three-run shot in the third to lead the Paintsville hit parade.

Kris Hall, who was so effective for HAP in the first game of the tournament, just couldn't get out of the third inning as Paintsville reached him for four runs.

Bradley Brooks replaced Hall on the mound and allowed three more runs in the inning, but was very effective the rest of the way.

Brooks blanked Paintsville over the final three innings. He pitched out of a bases loaded jam in the fourth and again in the top of the sixth.

Heath Castle picked up the win working the first five inning for Paintsville. His off speed pitches kept the HAP batters off stride.

Coach Randy Kidd was trying to inspire his team by giving instructions to stand up closer in the batters box in order to hit the dropping pitch of the left-hander.

Castle fanned 10 batters and walked one before giving way to Aaron Davis in the sixth inning. Davis got HAP in order in the bottom of the sixth inning.

It didn't take Paintsville long to put some numbers on the scoreboard as Banks belted a two-run shot in the first inning. Josh Cochran, who doubled in front of Banks, scored ahead of the second baseman.

Will Lauffer doubled after the Banks round tripper and he scored on Jason Kinner's base hit to give Paintsville the 3-0 lead.

HAP couldn't make any noise at all in the first two innings. Paintsville struck for seven runs in the third with the help of three errors. Kinner belted a three-run home run in the inning before Brooks came on in relief.

HAP got its only two runs in the fourth inning when Fred Gray reached on an error at first base. One out later Scott Collins drilled a two-run home run over the left field fence for a 10-2 score.

HAP could only collect one other hit over the final two innings and that came in the fifth when Justin Bartley singled. Bartley had two of the four hits that HAP collected. He got an infield hit in the first inning.

Banks and Kinner collected two hits each for Paintsville. Each had three RBIs in the win.

Hall suffered the setback going the first two and two-thirds innings. He allowed six runs on six hits, walked one and struck out three.

Brooks completed three and a third innings, giving up three runs on eight hits. He walked one and did not strike out a batter.

Stambaugh fans 12 as Paintsville edges Prestonsburg All-Stars 5-2

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

David Stambaugh had things going his way as he shut down the Prestonsburg All-Stars Sunday afternoon 5-2.

The loss dropped Prestonsburg to the loser's bracket. While taking the three run loss, Prestonsburg stayed close to the powerful Paintsville team as Kyle Shepherd kept his team in the game.

Shepherd suffered the loss but Prestonsburg left several runners stranded in the game.

The local all-star team avoided the shutout when it scored two runs in the sixth inning thanks to Eric Fleming's two-run home run.

Paintsville led 1-0 after the second inning on a double by Heath Castle and Aaron Davis' RBI single. It extended its lead to 3-0 with two runs in the bottom of the third. Cochran singled and scored on a ground out off the bat of Castle. Will Lauffer singled and scored the second run in the inning.

It was a 5-0 game after four. Mitchell Grim singled and scored on an error and Cochran's base hit. Josh Banks reached on an error sending Cochran home. Lauffer scored Banks with the third run of the inning.

Stambaugh had a no-hitter in the making until John Dixon singled in the sixth. Fleming followed with his home run to break up the shutout bid as well.

Wild pitch gives HAP win over Morgan County

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Bryce Holbrook uncorked a wild pitch in the bottom of the sixth inning with one out to allow the Harold-Allen-Prater (HAP) All-Stars to score a 6-5 win in the Area 2 Little League Tournament at Paintsville Saturday afternoon.

Josh Howell was settled in on third base, having moved there on a passed ball. Francis then let his fast ball hit in the dirt and skip past catcher Nencil Lindon with Howell coming in with the winning run. The play at the plate on Howell was close, but the ball rolled out of the glove of Holbrook, who was covering.

HAP had rallied from a 5-3 deficit to tie the score at five with two runs in the bottom of the fifth.

Bradley Brooks led off the sixth for HAP with a base hit after Jonathan Howell retired Morgan County in order in the top of the inning.

Josh Howell then bounced back to the pitcher who tossed to second to force Brooks on a controversial play. Aaron Swiger then bounced a base hit up the middle with Howell stopping at second base.

Lindon allowed a Holbrook fastball to bounce off his glove moving both runners up. Howell then scored on the wild pitch.

HAP took a 2-0 lead in the third inning on a two run single by Jonathan Howell. It extended its lead to 3-0 with a single run in the fourth. Brooks, who had singled with two out, scored on Swiger's RBI single.

Scott Collins, who started for HAP, looked to be in control of things with effortless first, second and third innings. But the bottom appeared to drop out for him in the top of the fourth inning as Morgan County sent 10 batters to the plate while scoring five times to take a 5-2 lead. Collins walked four in the inning. Zach Hamey doubled home a run and Lindon had a two-run single.

Jonathan Howell relieved Collins with two out and the bases loaded in the fourth. He fanned Scott Gevedon to end the inning.

Howell did not allow a run in the fifth and got Morgan County, one, two, three in the sixth.

In the HAP fifth, Josh Kidd was safe on a running bunt with one out.

Jonathan Howell then doubled, putting runners at second and third. Collins struck out, but Tyler Puckett's ground ball went through the legs of shortstop B.J. Benton, allowing Kidd and Howell to score to tie the game at five.

Howell was the winning pitcher in working two and a third innings. He allowed no runs while giving two hits. He struck out three and did not walk a batter.

Holbrook, in going the distance, suffered the loss for Morgan County.

Howell, Swiger and Brooks each had two hits for HAP.

Stock car racing comes to Thunder Ridge

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

While the harness racing season has started at Thunder Ridge, and on a very successful note, officials at the multi-purpose entertainment facility have announced another racing event coming to the Prestonsburg track -- dirt track stock car racing.

Dirt track stock car racing will become a weekly feature throughout the inaugural season every Saturday night beginning July 16. The three-eighths oval mile will host three of the most popular divisions in racing.

"Thunder Ridge is Eastern Kentucky's premiere entertainment facility and it will soon become the premiere facility for dirt track racing as well," said Chris Blair, Thunder Ridge Motor Sports Coordinator. "Our weekly program will feature our entry level modifies and the popular super dirt late models competing for one of the best payoffs in the Southeastern United States."

Each week the 35 lap super late model feature will pay a guaranteed $4,200 to start, with the winner taking home $2,500. The feature victory, along with qualifying and heat race awards, could see the weekly winner's earnings as much as $2,700 for a driver's efforts.

"Late model racing is one of the most popular forms of motorsports in America today, yet the average Saturday night field and purse have been in decline," said Blair. "The goal of Thunder Ridge is to provide fans with an exciting weekly late model show that they won't see anywhere else. It takes quality cars to provide that entertainment and the only way to get those cars is through an attractive payoff."

The incredible weekly racing program will draw fans to Thunder Ridge, but the immaculate facilities will keep them coming back. Stock car fans will be treated to the comforts of a covered grandstand, clubhouse restaurant, VIP suites, television monitors and several concession stands all located within the multi-million dollar facility.

"No other track in America will even come close to matching Thunder Ridge for family fun and entertainment," added Blair. "We will have something for everyone each Saturday night."

Fannin, Hall bat Prestonsburg past Magoffin County, 22-3

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Little League All-Stars pounded out 15 hits en route to a 22-3 shellacking of Magoffin County last Thursday evening in Little League tournament action at Paintsville.

George Hall and Neil Fannin collected three hits each to lead Prestonsburg from the plate. Fannin had two runs batted in and Hall collected three RBIs.

Chris Prater and Hank Mullins had two hits apiece.

Hall picked up the win, going the distance for Prestonsburg. He allowed three runs on six hits. He walked five and struck out five.

Starter Matthew Bailey wasn't around long as he lasted the first inning and a third before giving way to Brandon Huff in the second inning.

Bailey gave up six runs on four hits. He walked four and fanned two. Huff worked the remaining four and two-thirds innings and was ripped for 16 runs on 10 hits. He walked 12 batters in the game.

Prestonsburg led 1-0 after the first inning as Bailey looked sharp, striking out the side. But in the second inning, Prestonsburg sent 14 batters to the plate in scoring eight times for a 9-0 game.

Fannin, Prater and Hall doubled in the second inning with Hall and Fannin picking up RBIs. Huff came on in the second with one out and gave up three runs before retiring the side.

Magoffin County got on the scoreboard in the bottom of the second inning on a two-run home run by Bradon Shepherd. It was the second home run of the tournament for Shepherd.

Prestonsburg kept extending its lead with five runs in the third inning. George Hall had a two-run double in the inning. Fannin and Hank Mullins had RBI singles.

Shepherd collected his third double of the game in the sixth inning when Prestonsburg scored three times. Chris Prater had a double also in the inning.

Fishing with Scott Patton

Bass like other beings have so called reasons for reacting and or behaving in the manner which they do. I want to categorize and discuss the three main behavioral reasons bass strike. Keep in mind there are other reasons besides these three. Also the percentage of strikes you obtain from any one category will differ from myself and other fishermen as well. The reason for this will depend on your style as a fishermen, the baits you use, and the time of year you fish.

I have found, and feel that most everyone will agree, that the number one reason bass strike is to feed. These feeding bass I feel are also some of the easiest to catch. A hungry bass isn't too terribly particular. They are also very aggressive and strike hard therefore hooking themselves to a point that they're hard to lose. Bass feed for several reasons and even more conditions determine when they'll feed and for how long. A few examples of this are barometric pressure, cloud cover, or a warm up after a cold front.

The second reason a bass will strike is out of reflex. It's a natural reaction for any predator. The most important thing to remember to obtain a reflex strike is presentation of the lure. The bait must be in front of the bass to generate a strike of this kind. Imagine where you think the bass will be on a stump, for example, and throw the bait so it will go directly in front of its eyes. The main lures to use for a reflex strike are the crankbait and the spinnerbait.

The third most important reason a bass will strike a bait is out of anger. To generate a strike out of anger is to me one of the funniest reactions to get from a bass. One of the main lures to use to get an anger strike is a buzzbait. This very noisy and fast moving bait could make anyone or anything angry if provoked enough. You know when a buzzbait is hit, the bass' sole purpose is to make the aggravation go away.

Keep a positive attitude Keep casting, and Keep FISHING!!!

Shepherd's three-run blast powers Magoffin County over Beaver Blue

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Magoffin County All-Stars scored nine times in the third inning to post a 15-8 win over the Beaver Blue All-Star team in the second round of the Area 2 Little League All-Star tournament at Paintsville.

Brandon Shepherd hit his third home run, a three-run shot, of the tournament to lead the Magoffin County offense. Shepherd finished with two hits and three RBIs in the game. He homered in the first two games he played in.

Jeremy Francis picked up the win for Magoffin, working the first four innings. He allowed Beaver Creek two runs on four hits. He fanned four while walking three.

Josh Powers entered the game in the fifth inning to pitch the final two innings. Beaver Creek reached Powers for six runs on only one hit. He issued eight walks in the game.

Jeremy Turner took the loss for Beaver Creek in a starting assignment. Turner had an easy first inning and gave up a run on one hit in the second inning before being touched for nine runs in the third.

Turner fanned five batters and allowed seven hits.

Brandon Click relieved Turner in the fifth and worked two and two-thirds of an inning. He allowed five runs. Jamie Mullins pitched one inning and allowed one run.

Magoffin County took a 1-0 lead on an RBI single by Brandon Huff.

Beaver Creek tied the game at one when Keith Crum doubled and scored on Will Bentley's run scoring single.

In the top of the third things began to come unraveled for the Blue team when two errors at third base opened the door for the flood of runs. Jason Back was safe on an error before Turner fanned Chris Ginter.

Nichlas Arnett singled and Matthew Bailey was safe on Jimmy Lee Stumbo's second error at third. Francis drove in one run and a run scored on Chad Basham RBI single. Shepherd then hit his third home run of the tournament.

Keith Arnett doubled home Huff, who had singled and he scored on Ginter's base hit.

Turner singled and scored Beaver's lone run in the third inning. He came in to score on Stumbo's double.

Magoffin County pushed two runs home in the fourth on a double by Arnett, his second, and a base hit by Ginter.

Four runs scored in the fifth for Magoffin County on a double by Bailey, a triple by Francis and Basham's RBI hit.

Beaver Creek added three runs in the fifth off Powers. He walked four batters and hit one in the inning. Beaver added its final three runs in the sixth inning on four walks, a single by Click and a hit batsman.

Beaver Creek collected five hits in the game. They stranded 12 base runners, leaving the bases loaded in the fifth and sixth innings.

Has big hit!

Beaver Red catcher Byron Hall lined a triple to drive in a run in the ninth inning of the ten inning affair against Martin County. The two teams played the marathon game in the Area 2 All-Star tournament in Paintsville. The game was called at 11:30 Friday night and resumed Saturday morning. Beaver Red won 12-10. Our new suites are so popular, it takes nine months just to get in.

We're expecting our new maternity suites to attract quite a crowd to King's Daughters'. In fact, people start preparing almost a year in advance for a stay here.

You see, when we designed our maternity suites, we wanted them to be as close to a homelike environment as possible. In other words, warm, comfortable and relaxing. So instead of moving you to three different hospital rooms for each stage of the birthing process, we made sure you could remain in the same room during labor, delivery and recovery. With an attentive staff of physicians and nurses to care for you. And no one else to disturb your privacy.

In each new suite, the latest in birthing equipment and technology is tucked discreetly behind cabinet doors.

And we've even included lots of little touches. Like tasteful interior decorating. And overnight accommodations for your spouse or support person.

If you're expecting and would like to see our new maternity suites, or if you'd like more information, call (606) 327-4546.

We think you'll find them very much worth the wait.

A vaulted family room and sunny kitchen are at the heart of the Allegheny, a mid-size family home designed for families who enjoy spending time together.

The kitchen is huge, as it expands the living area by the family room. Bay windows open up the nook, and four skylights bathe the area in rich, natural light. There's room here for the whole family to cook together. Counter space on three sides of the kitchen is augmented by a central work island capped with a chopping block. Other amenities include: a garden window, a pantry, an eating bar, and built-in appliances.

Most of the back wall in the family room is filled with sliding glass doors that open onto a large deck. Sliders to the left access a screened porch also accessible from the master suite.

The formal dining room can be totally closed off from the kitchen. It comes outfitted with a wide built-in hutch. The parlor is bright thanks to bay windows that fill most of the front wall. A stone fireplace adds warmth and charm when the weather turns ugly.

Entering the home, you step into a vaulted entry traversed by a second-floor walkway that overlooks both the entry hall and the family room. A powder room and utilities are just inside the door, and the French doors on the right open into the parlor.

The master suite is also on the main floor. It has a double vanity, walk-in closet, soaking tub, shower and private toilet. Three rooms are upstairs. Two share a bathroom, while the third has its own and a walk-in closet as well.

SMELL YOUR WAY TO HAPPINESS

If you've been acting funny lately, maybe it's because you don't smell right.

Or, perhaps I should say, you're not smelling the right things.

At least that's the theory that a Chicago neurologist, Dr. Alan Hirsch, has been exploring.

According to what I read in the paper, Dr. Hirsch is looking into the possibilities that the odors that people smell just might dictate the actions they take.

For example, high school calculus students in Portland, Oregon, performed better when they wore surgical masks containing a pleasant spring-time scent; shoppers paid more for items when the stores in which they shopped had pleasant odors; and another of his tests indicated that obese people lost weight—an average of 30 pounds over six months—because they sniffed inhalers that smell like Frito corn chips.

I guess whether or not Dr. Hirsch's theories have any real merit remains to be seen, but it sure is thought provoking.

Poison Oak

Clyde Pack

just see this catching on nationwide? (Stranger things have happened. Remember pet rocks?)

Can't you just see heavy set people running around popping inhalers in their mouths instead of candy bars?

Or how about one high school sophomore to another as the teacher passes out final exams on Shakespeare's Julius Caesar? "Got a pencil? Got any paper? Got an extra surgical mask?"

And what about the shopping aspect? Imagine a big banner hanging in front of a local department store: "Going out of business smell!"

Then, if the business really does go out of business maybe they can post an "Out of odor" sign.

Human behavior could be changed forever.

Want to quit smoking? Smell an ashtray.

Want to get rid of warts? Smell a frog.

Want to overcome the fear of heights? Smell a step-ladder.

Admittedly, it's a tad too early to really raise a stink over Dr. Hirsch's ideas, but perhaps his experiments might bear watching. Who nose? If they prove to be really true, not only could he soon be enjoying the sweet smell of success, but with all the improvements we could make in our lives, we too might come out smelling like a rose.

Or, in my case, Frito corn chips.

Lifestyles

Don't let expectations ground you

by Tom Benenson

Reprinted with permission from Flying, June 1994 issue

Nowhere is it written that there's a limit on how long a student may take to become a pilot. I took my first flight lessons in 1959 in a J-3 Cub, soloed in 1962 in an Aeronca Champ and didn't get my private license until 1972 in a Cessna 150. Thirteen years from first flight to ticket: 10 years from solo. Sure, there were interruptions—graduate school, the Army, the need to earn a living—but there's no expiration date on logged flight time. How long it takes you to learn isn't as important as how well you learn.

You are required to have passed the written test within the two years preceding the flight test, but that's to be sure you're familiar with any recent changes to the regs. The pilot skills required to control an airplane don't change. They may get rusty, but they don't get revised and rewritten the way the operating rules often do.

I was reminded how impatient students can get about their progress by a call the other day from my friend Civia. She had just passed her private pilot check ride, but it hadn't been easy for her. She had gone through a couple of flight instructors, a struggle with a lack-of-confidence attack, and all the normal delays that are typical at a busy controlled airport like Westchester County. Although she was thrilled she had stuck with it and laughed that her grandchildren were having a hard time convincing their friends that their grandmother had really become a pilot, she was embarrassed and apologetic that it had taken three years.

The most frequent question people ask about learning to fly is, "How long will it take me to solo?" They are reasonable questions and as long as the answers are realistic, there's no harm done: in fact, setting goals can speed up the learning process. On the other hand, setting unrealistic goals invariably leads to frustration and disappointment.

Don't hamper yourself with a drop-dead deadline. Don't wait two weeks before your parents' 50th anniversary and then decide you have to get your certification in time to fly home for the celebration. Don't announce to all your friends that you're going to solo in 10 hours or get your license in 40.

If, like me, you recall when chicken cost 29 cents a pound, you might remember when people did typically solo in 10 hours or less. It wasn't because they were better pilots back then, but because there was a lot less they had to learn about radio procedures, operating rules and airspace complexities before they could go out on their own.

Sure, some people learn quicker than others, but so what? Kids who learn to walk sooner aren't necessarily better dancers. If toddlers talk early it doesn't mean they'll have more interesting things to say. How quickly someone learns is not an indication of how well he or she has absorbed the information and is able to apply and correlate it to future lessons. Often it's just the opposite.

Learning plateaus, where students who have been making rapid progress suddenly stop improving or even regress are normal occurrences in the learning process. Instructors are familiar with these slips and slides that befall virtually every pilot scaling the learning curve, but students are not. When a student, who has great expectations for himself falls into a slump, he begins to be concerned that maybe he isn't cut out to be a pilot after all. It's difficult enough to persevere at something when you think you are not doing it well, but it becomes nearly impossible when you are convinced that what you perceive as your substandard performance could have dire consequences.

Don't be discouraged that you're not progressing as fast as you thought you would or think you should. It's natural to want to do well; to be able to boast to friends that you can fly by yourself; to celebrate your certificate with a victory lap around the pattern with the family that supported your efforts. But don't get too concerned about rushing the process. It'll happen when you're ready. You wouldn't want it any sooner.

If you want to set time targets, set yourself a goal of flying at least once a week or four times a month; set yourself a goal of spending an hour a week with the Airman's Information Manual or the POH for your training airplane. Set realistic goals, and when you meet them you'll feel good about your progress.

Civia spent three years getting her license, but during those three years she thought about flying, read aviation magazines, talked to other pilots, went to FAA safety seminars, experienced different seasons and weather conditions, and was constantly learning about flying. That wasn't time wasted.

If flying is fun—and that is why most of us do it—what's the rush? One of the steamship companies used to advertise that "getting there is half the fun." It's the same with learning to fly. Like time spent in a lover's arms, flying shouldn't be rushed. You don't get extra points for how quickly you do it, so relax and enjoy it.

For more information on flying locally call Twin Eagles Flying Club, Kirk Wells at 432-5948; or Darrell Maynard at 433-0043.

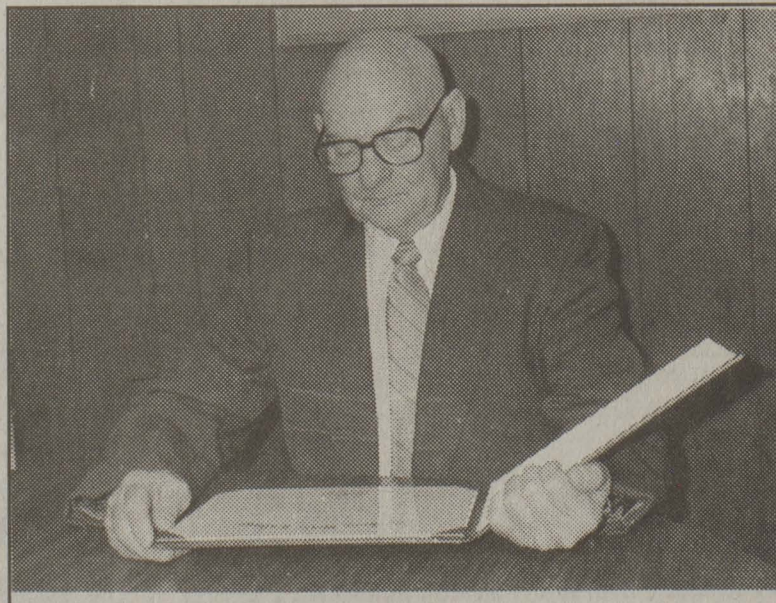

Grad completes mission after 26 years

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

In 1968, Richard Crisp decided he needed to go back to school. He had plenty to deter him. He was thirty-eight years old, married with two small sons, had a full-time job and only an eighth-grade education.

But Crisp, then a member of Betsy Layne Free Will Baptist Church, knew he was called to preach, and needed to further his education.

"I had up to three months in the eighth grade," Crisp said. "I saw a need to study further for the Lord's work. So I got my GED."

Richard Crisp

On Thursday, June 23, Crisp reached a major milestone in his educational journey. He received his bachelor of theology degree after 26 years of summer classes and correspondence study. To top it off, the 64-year-old resident of Banner maintained a 4.0 grade point average throughout his college career.

That is, except for his first summer school term. In the summer of 1968, Crisp took vacation time, plus one week of unpaid leave from his job at the natural gas compressor station at Maytown, to attend his first session of summer school at Moody Bible College in Chicago, Illinois. The term was a trial by fire for Crisp, who had no experience with college level work. "When I first started going, I made failing grades," he said. "I had never taken notes in my life. I had never written an essay. I came home after five weeks and had failed."

A less determined person would have given up. But Crisp was undaunted. The next summer, he went back to Moody Bible College, retook the classes he failed, and passed them all.

"I learned to take notes and to dig," he said. "When stuck, I would call the teacher and ask him, 'What exactly do you want for this?'"

Knowing he could succeed, Crisp continued his educational pilgrimage. For three summers he studied at Moody. Then he transferred his credits to a Free Will Baptist Bible college in Nashville, Tennessee and went six summer terms there. The next two summers after that, he attended Bob Jones University in Greenville, South Carolina. Next, he began correspondence work with a Bible college in Canada, and then a Bible college in Oklahoma. In 1989, at age 59, he earned a three-year Bible certificate.

After receiving his certificate, he immediately enrolled in Bethany Bible College in Dothan, Alabama. "I did correspondence work and got an associate degree in biblical studies in 1992. I finished that four-year program in three years with a 4.0," he said.

Earning the perfect grade average meant times of intense study. He took 36 hours a year. "In the summer, I would study four to five hours a night. In the winter I studied eight to ten hours a day."

From 1977 to 1989, he also had a radio program called "Gospel Light Radio Ministry," that kept him busy. He was also pastor of Sammy Clark Branch Free Will Baptist Church at Prater Creek, and then Katy Friend Free Will Baptist Church from 1981 to 82. He also did a lot of fill-in work as an evangelist when he wasn't pastoring a church.

After earning his associate degree, Crisp retired from his job and enrolled in a four-year bachelor of theology degree program at Dothan, finishing the program this spring in two and a half years.

He said that near the end of the theology studies classes, he had to complete a 10,000 word research paper. "I used two typewriter ribbons a month typing the paper. I wore out one typewriter and bought another," he said. "It took me about three months to do the paper. I read ten other books for research."

In the end, the efforts of a man who said he had never written an essay, paid off. "I got a A on the paper," he said.

Crisp isn't finished yet. He has already enrolled in a master's degree program at Bethany College and after he earns that degree, he said he will work on his doctor of ministry degree.

Crisp said that he gives credit first to the Lord for his success. "And second, I give credit to my wife Bonnie who stayed home and worked to take care of our two sons while I was away at school."

Crisp said that his studies have helped him achieve his goal of becoming a better preacher. "Whenever I preach, people say I bring out the subject so simply that any person can understand it."

He added that he hopes his story will encourage others who want to get an education, but are held back by their fear of failing.

"I think that there may be someone out there who was like me, with little education, (who can achieve his goals if he tries)."

'BUZZ' CUT SPURS
CRISIS ON HOME FRONT
I really didn't plan to join the Brotherhood of the Buzzheads.

My haircutter, Rita, gave me my usual good haircut. Short on the sides, short on top and combed to the side.

But after years of the same cut, not to mention looking at the same face with it, I needed a change in a big way.

"Let's just cut it all off," I suggested in a seizure of boldness.

"Are you sure Shelia (my wife) won't kill us both?" Rita said.

I couldn't lie. There was that danger.

But, I said, "It will grow back."

Rita's No. 4 blade and a couple of minutes later, a burr haircut looked back at me in the mirror for the first time since kindergarten.

The cut got a great first review.

"Daddy won't have to get any more haircuts now," my son, 4, told Rita and me.

But daddy nearly lost more than his hair.

I knew my wife would be surprised. I knew she would tell me how awful she thought it looked. But I didn't expect her to come so close to crying about it or to be upset for so long.

"I can't believe you would do something like this," she said. "It makes you look 30 years older."

I realized there might be something to what she said after our family dog barked at me.

"She doesn't recognize you," my wife said.

"Neither do I."

Cold shoulder treatment would have felt like a heating pad at that point. Don't blame us.

The cut wasn't really my fault or even my haircutter's fault.

My beard is to blame—or the lack of it.

Beards give men the instant ability to change their appearance. Tired of the same look? Try sideburns, a thin-line mustache or a close-cropped beard.

But I can't do any of them. And I've never been able to figure out why.

My father and brother practically have to shave twice a day. I had big plans for a beard and mustache when I was a teen-ager.

But here I am at 32 with less facial hair now than when I was 16. One can of shaving cream can last me five years.

The sad fact is, that without facial hair, your options to change your looks shrink fast. You can change your clothes, your glasses and your hair length.

That's about it.

I would have skipped the buzz cut if I could grow a thick mustache. And I would have saved myself some snide remarks, too.

One of my first friends to see the cut approached me with a serious look and a question.

"Were you at the airport last week?" he asked.

"No, why do you ask?" I said.

"Because it looks like a low-flying plane ran over your head."

OK, maybe I do look a little different right now than the picture with this column. You get a "buzz" haircut and everybody becomes a wiseguy.

Here's the short of what some people told me afterward:

"Did you have head lice?"

"When did you enlist?"

"Your head grew!"

"When did you hatch?"

"Did you lose a bet or what?"

"You going to the skinhead meeting tonight?"

"It's your summer 'do!'"

"You look like a junior high school football coach."

"Oh my gosh!"

And then there's my personal favorite: "You look like a college jock."

Imagine how proud that one made me, considering I wasn't much of a high school jock and have practically no athletic ability or inclination left.

Besides making me look more muscular and manly, this haircut is paying off. I'm saving big bucks on hairspray, although sunscreen costs are a factor now.

No hair dryer is needed. A single Kleenex does that job. If I decide to keep my hair this way, I probably won't need to buy shampoo again for 10 years. And there are subtle signs that all these benefits are seeping through my wife's defenses.

She says she might even like the haircut in a couple of months.

Regardless, this experience has taught me something important: You've got to be your own person.

Be daring. Take control of your own looks. Do the buzz thing if you want to and let everybody else live with it. You can't worry about what people think.

Just make sure you check with your wife first.

INHALANTS, BRACES AND GLASSES—OH MY!

Remember the Wizard of Oz?

Remember when Dorothy, the Tin Man, and Scarecrow went down the road chanting lions, tigers and bears, oh my?

by Kim Frasure

Scary, wasn't it? Well not half as scary as inhalants, braces and glasses—oh, my my!

That's right. Many times I've heard folks say "If only children would come with a handbook." But they don't and we old fogies, otherwise known as their parents, have to do a whole lot of wingin' it. And boy am I here to tell you it sure gets rough sometimes.

Teen-agers, whoa, can they throw a parent for a loop or what? Seems like just yesterday our teen-age daughter was a toddler and back then when somebody would say "You look just like your daddy," she'd grin from ear to ear. Sometimes, people could even see a resemblance in me with our oldest, and back then that was okay with her, too.

Then one night, who knows what happened (I'm convinced we overslept a few years) but anyway, it's not okay our teen-ager looks like either of us.

Sure the spouse and I got real proud and convinced ourselves she got the best of both. Then that rude awakening, alarmed and she inheriting those darned ol' crooked teeth that had to be dealt with and right now!

Teen-agers have no idea of words like, "wait, later, maybe" and somehow "no" has taken on the meaning of maybe. I'm totally confused.

At any rate, this teen-ager of ours has a younger sibling who often thinks the older is soooo cool and so knowledgeable. And with three years difference one would think, as parents, we would get a break. Yeah, right! Like Linus in Charlie Brown cartoons, with the dust of gloom hovering above

The spouse and I are destined to have Mr. Murphy of Murphy's Law propped upon our shoulders. For in one week in this very household we've gotten inhalants, braces and glasses—oh, my!

I have to admit those braces sure do work. After only three days we could already see a big change which helped our souls a great deal, I'll tell ya!

Then the younger sibling had to have an inhalant which threw us in a tail-spin, and is a whole other story. And this very child also began complaining about her eyes.

Making the appointment was a breeze. However, I had no idea she'd end up with glasses fifteen minutes after her exam.

Yes, you read it right. Forget traveling 100-200 miles to get your glasses in an hour. Folks, you get 'em right here at home and Tiff got hers in 15 minutes. No joke!!

Nordin Eye Center examined this child, helped her select her frames, and placed them on her little face. Yep, in 15 minutes.

So, lions, tigers, and bears may very well be scary to some, but inhalants, braces and glasses are just as scary to parents...this parent anyway!

Part II

The other story!

Last Wednesday night I was ever so thankful the Hites family had been to McDonald's.

Once again, my accident-prone child, Tiffany, was taken off second base in the last all-star game at Pikeville.

Milky white, blue lips, gasping for breath, Tim Hites carried her to our truck. She was making an awful wheezing noise I'd never heard from one of my children before.

I knew she was hyperventilating, but what on Earth was this noise?

Bill Baird asked if she could have asthma and then more and more adults seem to think it sounded like an asthma attack, also.

Hyperventilating is enough to scare the daylights out of a mother, let alone a child who's experiencing it, without considering asthma may be causing this noise.

So many people were so kind and so helpful and I am very thankful. Brenda Humphrey, Pat Hites, Tim Hites, Bill Baird, Marsha Hackworth, Tish Lafferty (I hope

Adkins celebrates 83rd birthday

Belle Adkins, born on Independence Day, celebrated her 83rd birthday on July 2nd. Adkins, of Langley, was visited by her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Adkins, Jr.; granddaughter, Melissa; and Jan Walden, Melissa's friend. Ann Rowe also attended the celebration. Belle enjoyed receiving many gifts from her family and friends. She then enjoyed a fireworks display with her guests.

Optimist Club makes plans for volunteer projects

The Optimist Club of Floyd County held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday, June 28, at the May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Leonard Cieslak, president of the club, introduced the guest speaker, Linda Harvey of Lexington. Mrs. Harvey talked about several programs that have been done in Lexington to help people who were in need of food, clothing, household items, medical and dental services, hearing aids, legal services and financial help in paying heating bills and rent.

One organization she mentioned was the group Christians in Community Service. The group is strictly a volunteer organization with no red tape involved. Screening is done by social workers who can give eye witness accounts of what is needed.

She also talked about the Community Furniture Bank and the Mediation Center of Kentucky. All of these programs are working in the Lexington area and could be used in this county, Mrs. Harvey said.

The next meeting is scheduled for July 26 at 6 p.m. The location will be announced later.

For more information about the Optimist Club of Floyd County, call Cieslak at 377-6741, 886-0205 or Eric Lawson, 377-2553 or 452-4553

Maytown School holds 35-year reunion

Maytown High School Class of 1959 held their 35th-year reunion on July 9 at the Maytown School lunchroom.

The former classmates toured the old school and the gym. Pizza and snacks were served, and 50's music was played.

Among those attending were Steve Allen, Teddi Allen, Lilly Blizzard, Janice Davis, Zeda Martin, Ranaldo Frasure, Donna Gray, Claudena Hamilton, Ronnie Hayes, Ina Hensley, Charlene Johnson, Larry Logan, Paul Maggard, Lowell Martin, Ralph Martin, Darwin Prater, Edgel Ratliff, and Bonnie Spencer.

A plaque was presented to Brenda Sturgill in tribute to her late husband, Jerry, a former classmate.

Plaques were also presented to Edgel Ratliff, traveling the most miles to attend the reunion; Ralph Martin, for having the most children and grandchildren; Ronnie Hayes, for changing the most and Steve Allen, for changing the least.

The next reunion will be held on Labor Day in 1999.

Drift Adult Learning Center

Family Day at the Drift Adult Learning Center had a good turn-out and several families were represented, but the Stone family had the most numbers. Among those individuals attending were Ashley and William Stone, Christopher, William and Sandy Stone, Lexi and Troc Star, and Biser Ronald Stone. The center is sponsored by the David School.

Art classes

Four join PCC staff

When fall semester classes begin at Prestonsburg Community College on August 24, students will meet four new faculty members who will serve in the fields of biology, sociology, mathematics and counseling.

Thomas L. Vierheller, an assistant professor of biology, will have no trouble settling into these Eastern Kentucky hills as he previously taught at PCC from 1991 to 1993. Dr. Vierheller is returning to this area after serving as an adjunct instructor of Biology at LaRoche College in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He obtained his bachelor's degree from Marietta College in Ohio and his master's and doctorate degree from Ohio University.

Timmy G. Bremer, an instructor of mathematics, will be transferring to Eastern Kentucky from Liverpool, New York. Culture shock, however, shouldn't be a problem as Bremer has lived overseas, studying mathematics at the Ludwig-Maximilians-Universitat in Munich, Germany. Bremer obtained both his bachelor's and master's degrees from the State University of New York at Buffalo and is pursuing his graduate studies at Syracuse University in Syracuse, New York.

Bertie Kaye Oldham Salyer, an instructor of sociology, won't have as far to travel to the PCC campus. Salyer is a homegrown professional, coming to PCC from Salyersville. She obtained various degrees from Morehead State University, including a bachelor's degree in sociology/biology and two master's degrees in education and sociology.

The fourth new faculty member, Elizabeth M. Cole, will serve as a counselor at Prestonsburg Community College's Pikeville Campus. Cole is moving to Kentucky from Des Moines, Iowa where she was previously employed as the Director of Student Activities at Loras College. She has a bachelor's degree in English and a master's degree in Counselor Education/College Student Development, both from the University of Iowa.

Keene's Manufactured Homes has received Fleetwood Enterprise's prestigious Circle of Excellence Award.

Fleetwood Enterprise Inc. created the Circle of Excellence award in 1990 to recognize and reward those retailers nationwide who helped forge a new awareness of customer satisfaction within their companies and the manufactured home industry. This award-winning program has continued to grow and expand since its inception, and is now considered to be the "Oscar" of the manufactured housing industry.

To receive the award, a Fleetwood retailer must achieve a high percentage of positive Customer Satisfaction Index (CSI) ratings based on a minimum number of independent telephone or direct mail surveys on homebuyers after the sale is complete.

All Fleetwood retailers have the opportunity to reach this standard of excellence. The benchmark has been raised three times since the program began, and the number of retailers reaching the goal or beyond has also increased substantially since inception. One hundred eighty-two received the coveted award in 1990/91, with 302 receiving the honor in 1991/92, and 400 in 1992/93 and 350 in 1993/94. There were 100 new winners, 80 four-year winners and 70 100 percent winners in 1993/94. Overall, the Customer Satisfaction Index of this retail distribution network has improved by 21 percent since measurement began in 1990.

The Fleetwood Circle of Excellence Customer Satisfaction award continues to grow in significance and value; a standard by which others in the industry is measured. It is Fleetwood's ultimate goal to reach a 100 percent Customer Satisfaction Index.

Birth is announced

Dustin Tyler Morgan, son of former Floyd County resident Marcia Bentley and John Morgan, was born July 5. He weighed 6 lbs. 7.6 oz. and was 19" long.

He and his parents reside in Springfield, Ohio.

He is the grandson of Carl Bentley of McDowell, Marguerite Morgan of Springfield, Ohio and the late Minnie Faye Simpson and Bill Morgan.

He is also the great-grandson of Dixie Lawson of McDowell, and nephew of Beth Simpson Meade of Allen.

Cyrus to speak at August meeting

The Big Sandy Labor Management Committee will recess for the month of July, due to the weather, vacations, etc.

Ron Cyrus, Ky. AFL-CIO, will be guest speaker at the next meeting on August 16 at Jenny Wiley State Park. The group will partake of dinner and then attend the Jenny Wiley Theater production, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

As usual, dinner is Dutch treat, and tickets for the play are $11 each. Please mail ticket money as soon as possible, since the committee must pay 50 percent of the total cost of reservations. Twenty-four seats have been reserved.

Please try to be there a little early, as dinner starts at 6 p.m., and the play begins at 8:30.

I left no one out), you all were graciously kind.

Bill Baird, whom we had never met, kept a check on Tiff the entire game. It's not often in this crazy world of ours that total strangers show kindness and concern. Mr. Baird went out of his way and I thank him very much.

Tim and Pat Hites, as always, were there for us. This was not a first for them and they care so passionately. I am forever grateful.

Brenda Humphrey, you're wonderful, how fortunate we were to have you a part of our team. Marsha and Tish, "the runners." Tish running for water, Marsha, for help, I thank you!

Finding a paper bag was beginning to look scarce, and we needed one desperately for Tiff to be able to "rebreath" her own carbon dioxide. Plastic bags could be found by the handfuls.

Then Pat remembered the McDonald's bag in their van. Tim ran and got it and soon Tiff was calming and beginning to breathe more normal.

Still wheezing and complaining it hurt in her chest, I was thankful for that McDonald's bag!

How many times, as parents, when we ask our children, "Where would you like to eat?" and we hear, "McDonald's" and we parents, sigh, again?

Well, this is one parent who will never sigh again!

After fortunately having a brother who's a P.A. (Physicians Assistant) at the Asthma and Allergy Center check Tiff out, we now knew she has exercise-induced asthma.

Exercise-induced asthma usually results in athletes when they over-exert themselves. And if you've ever seen Tiff play in any sports event, you've seen her put forth 110 percent of herself.

In a 104 degree temperatures on a baseball field didn't help matters any, either. But, we're now equipped with an inhalant, carry a trustworthy McDonald's bag and go on.

Till next week.

Supplemental summer annuals for hay and pasture

Kentucky producers should consider the use of supplemental summer annuals for hay and pasture during dry, summer weather.

There are several options in Kentucky for supplemental hay or pasture in the form of summer annual forage plants, said Jimmy Henning, Extension forages specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

These include sorghum sudan hybrids, sudan grasses, pearl millet, foxtail or german millet, and soybeans. They will all produce some hay or pasture in about 45 to 60 days with some rainfall and nitrogen fertilization for the grasses, Henning said.

Sorghum sudan grass hybrids are rapidly growing grasses which produce a good quality forage if managed properly, he said. They have large stems which can quickly become tough and unpalatable if not managed properly.

"These are also much more likely to contain toxic levels of prussic acids than other summer annual grasses," Henning added. "Prussic acid is another name for hydrogen cyanide which can kill grazing animals under special conditions."

Sudan grass and sudan grass hybrids are generally not as coarse as sorghum sudan hybrids and are less likely to contain such high levels of prussic acid, Henning said. "Sudan grass usually produces lower yields than sorghum sudan grass hybrids," he said. "However, they also have smaller stems, don't grow as high, are easier to cut for hay and less prone to trampling under grazing."

Pearl millet is an annual grass with smaller stems and is generally leafier than a sorghum sudan grass hybrid, Henning said. One advantage of pearl millet is that it does not have the potential to cause toxic levels of prussic acid and will regrow after cutting or grazing.

Foxtail, or German, millet does not regrow after cutting, especially after a seedhead is formed, he added. For this reason, it is considered a one-cut summer annual.

"Soybeans can also be used as an emergency source of forage during dry conditions," Henning said. "The use of black bean soybean varieties, historically thought to be a haybean or forage bean, is generally not cost effective. Instead, use a full-season, late-maturing soybean to get good yields at a reasonable cost."

For more information on the use of supplemental forages, ask for the publication, "Producing Annual Grasses for Emergency or Supplemental Forage," (AGR 88) at your county Extension office.

Fruit: A step toward more vegetables

by Karen Collins, M.S., R.D.
American Institute for Cancer Research

Do you have trouble eating at least three servings of vegetables each day? If you're used to only a small serving at dinner, the switch to eating lots of vegetables takes a little work. One way to ease into eating more healthfully may be to eat more fruit. That's especially easy at this time of year when so many fruits are at their peak.

Health organizations such as the American Institute for Cancer Research recommend eating at least five servings of fruits and vegetables per day. A "serving" equals a half-cup of fruit or vegetables, six ounces of juice, or one cup of raw leafy greens. Eating more fruit can be a good first step to meet this health goal.

Fruits and vegetables supply many of the same nutrients. Both are good sources of dietary fiber. Many fruits are loaded with vitamin C, including cantaloupe and honeydew melons, grapefruit, kiwifruit, oranges, strawberries, raspberries, mangos, carambola (star fruit), and papayas.

The large amounts of beta-carotene (vitamin A) found in carrots and broccoli are a bit harder to find in fruit, but apricots (fresh and dried), cantaloupe, mangos, nectarines, papayas, and platinains (cooking bananas) are all good sources. Green leafy vegetables provide not only beta-carotene, but also folate, a B vitamin important for many aspects of health, including possibly lowering cancer risk. Fruits that supply folate include bananas, oranges, and cantaloupe.

Of course, this does not mean that you should give up vegetables and eat only fruit. Some vegetables provide minerals such as iron and magnesium that are not present in significant amounts in fruit. Research has identified several non-nutrient substances in vegetables that seem to inhibit the development of cancer that so far have not been found in fruits. The best insurance for meeting nutrient needs is to include both fruits and vegetables in your diet and to choose a wide variety of each.

But you don't need to feel that a meal is a nutritional flop without vegetables. Create a healthier diet by eating fruit plain or on cereal for breakfast, for lunch or snacks on the run, as a side dish for grilled fish or poultry, in salads—and, of course, for a cool summer dessert.

For a free brochure on fiber-rich foods like fruits, vegetables and grains, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to AICR, Dept. FI, Washington, D.C. 20069.

"Nutrition Notes" is provided as a public service by the American Institute for Cancer Research, Washington, D.C. 20069.

"Feelin' Great" offers a free, healthful cookbook

Looking for ways to eat right and still enjoy great-tasting food? Try the new "Feelin' Great" cookbook.

"We offer healthy versions of traditional favorites as well as some new dishes," said Karen Newton about the recipes she selected for "Feelin' Great in the Kitchen."

Newton is the book's editor and nutrition advisor for the Kentucky-produced health and fitness television series "Feelin' Great."

"We had a number of people requesting recipes, so the cookbook was a natural," said Newton. "It helps meet the show's goal of educating people about how to make healthy lifestyle choices."

The 32-page booklet includes 26 recipes, spanning the food spectrum of appetizers, main courses, side dishes and desserts.

Blue Cross Blue Shield of Kentucky is offering the cookbook to the public for free while supplies last.

"Feelin' Great" runs in 10 cities in Kentucky, reaching more than 70 counties. It began airing in October and will continue through the summer.

The show airs on WYMT-TV, Hazard.

The show is funded by Blue Cross Blue Shield of Kentucky, which supports the show as part of its efforts to educate the public about healthy lifestyle choices. The show is taped at Hammond Productions in Lexington.

The cookbook includes low-fat offerings such as Jambalaya, Unsloppy Joes, Taco Rice and Orange Beef Salad. "The oranges increase the body's absorption of iron in the spinach," said Newton about the salad.

Newton includes other nutrition facts, such as a "food guide pyramid" and a "recipe reviser."

The pyramid is the successor to the "four basic food groups" used for years as a guide to good eating. The new plan calls for a broad "base" of at least six servings per day of bread, cereal, pasta and the like.

Next come vegetables, at three to five servings per day. Near the middle at two to three servings are meats, eggs and nuts. At the top are fats, oils and sweets, which are meant to be eaten sparingly.

In the recipe reviser, Newton suggests replacing butter and oil in a recipe with applesauce, mashed bananas or baby food prunes to lower fat. Egg substitutes or regular eggs with fewer yolks are used instead of whole eggs.

Newton also states that 30 percent or less of all calories should come from fat. Each recipe in the cookbook includes dietary information such as calories per serving, percent of calories from fat, cholesterol and more.

Copies of "Feelin' Great in the Kitchen" may be obtained by writing to "Feelin' Great" at 173 Trade Street, Lexington, KY, 40510 with $1 for postage.

Feelin' Grated Slaw

Serving Amount: 1 cup
 Fat: 0.1 gm
 Calories: 105
 1 cup grated carrots
 1 cup Granny Smith apples, unpeeled
 2 cups grated jicama* (if unavailable, use 1 cup grated canned Water chestnuts and 1-1/2 cup each carrot and apple)
 2 tsp. minced garlic (fresh or from jar)
 1/4 cup apple cider
 1 Tbsp. cider vinegar
 2 tsp. Dijon mustard
 Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste

Combine the jicama, carrots and apples in a medium bowl and toss together well. In a blender or food processor, combine garlic, apple cider, vinegar, and mustard. Process until smooth; season to taste. Add dressing to the jicama mixture and toss to coat. Cover and chill.

*Jicama is a root vegetable with a sweet taste and a great crunch. Look for it in the fresh produce section.

Super Spud and Trusty Toppings

Serving Amount: 1 potato
 Fat: 4 gm
 Calories: 225
 (Select medium-sized baking potatoes with smooth skin and no signs of sprouts or green. Scrub well, prick skin with a fork and bake in a 450° oven for 45-60 minutes or until tender. Serve with topping of your choice.)

Broccoli Dijon Topping

10 oz. package frozen, chopped broccoli, cooked and drained
 2 Tbsp. nonfat mayonnaise
 3 tsp. Dijon mustard
 4 oz. lowfat Cheddar cheese, shredded
 4 medium potatoes (about 6 oz.) baked

Lower oven temperature to 375° and spray a shallow baking dish with cooking spray.

Combine broccoli, mayonnaise, mustard and cheese; mix well. Slit each potato lengthwise and push the ends to make an opening. Place the broccoli mixture evenly on top of the potatoes and place them in the baking dish. Bake, uncovered for 12-15 minutes.

Oven "Fries"

Fat: 3 gm per serving
 Calories: 125
 2 medium baking potatoes (8-9 oz.), scrubbed, unpeeled, cut into narrow wedges

Spices or taco seasoning mix
 Preheat oven to 450°. Spray a baking sheet with nonstick cooking spray and place the potato wedges on the sheet. Spray lightly with cooking spray and sprinkle with salt, garlic or other spices. (Or put the potato wedges in a plastic bag with taco seasoning mix and shake until well coated.) Place on baking sheet. Bake 20 to 30 minutes, turning potatoes several times, until they are crispy and golden.

Orange Beef Salad

Fat: 11 gm per serving
 Calories: 353
 3/4 cup orange juice
 3 Tbsp. white wine vinegar
 2 tsp. cornstarch
 1 tsp. honey
 6 cups washed and torn spinach
 3 oranges, peeled and sectioned
 1/4 cup thinly sliced red onion
 1 pound beef flank steak
 1 cup seasoned croutons

In a medium saucepan, over medium heat, cook and stir orange juice, vinegar, cornstarch, and honey until thickened; cook and stir 1 minute. Set aside to cool. Arrange spinach, orange sections, and red onion slices on 4 salad plates; set aside. Grill or broil steak 4 inches from heat source for 6 minutes on each side or until done to your taste, brushing occasionally with 1/4 cup dressing. Slice steak diagonally across grain in 1/4-inch slices. Arrange on prepared salad; top with remaining dressing croutons.

Seasoned Croutons

Serving Amount: 1/4 cup
 Fat: 1 gm
 Calories: 45
 2 tsp reduced calorie margarine
 1 cup spoon-size wheat biscuit cereal
 1/2 tsp. Italian seasoning
 Melt margarine in a nonstick skillet; add cereal and seasoning; cook and stir about 5 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool.

De-Stressor Smoothie

Serving amount: 1 cup
 Fat: 3.5 gm
 Calories: 346
 Combine the following ingredients in a blender and whip until creamy:
 1/4 cup nonfat milk
 6 apricot halves, canned in light syrup
 1 orange (peeled, sectioned, and seeds removed)
 1/4 cup pineapple chunks, canned in own juice or fresh
 1/4 cup wheat germ
 Ice (optional)
 Note: Try peeled, frozen chunks of banana to get creamy-smooth, fat-free blender drinks.

Sunshine Lines

"Love doesn't have to hurt..."

The heavy stove poker missed his wife's head by only a few hairs when it landed with a thump, leaving a deep impression on the wooden counter near where she was washing dishes...

A pre-teen grandson, yelled angrily, hollering obscenities to his aged grandmother, when it was taking her too long to get out of the truck. In anger he hastily slammed the door against her leg, breaking the skin, making it bleed...

A senior citizen cried profusely as she lifted her arthritic body off the floor following her husband having hit her repeatedly with his cane because she took too long to bring him a cup of coffee...

An old man, walking about slowly and crooked over, had bruises on his face and a cut above his eye. He explained that he had fallen in the barn where a cow then kicked him. Later it was learned that his middle age son became angry and hit him because he spilled the bucket of milk he was struggling to carry to the house...

A sprightly, arrogant older man, who shoved his wife, causing her to fall down the stairs, was in tears as the paramedics picked his wife's body up from the basement floor. "I'm sorry, Mama. I'm sorry, Mama. Why didn't you move like I told you to?" he kept repeating as they carried the gurney to the awaiting ambulance and on to the morgue...

Three grandchildren—a first grader, a pre-schooler, and a toddler, stood gazing—frightened and speechless, as their angry grandmother stood in the corner of the living room wielding a large butcher knife, threatening to cut their grandfather's throat...

To some reading today's article, you will find these incidents unbelievable. Those who have been abused in similar fashion will know all too painfully of what I write.

Abuse among senior citizens is far from uncommon. It is not uncommon that senior citizen husbands and wives become violent toward each other. It is quite common that they become victimized by the hands of their children or grandchildren. Unfortunately senior citizens feel they are forced to tolerate this cruelty. Sometimes they feel that they are too old to do anything about it. Or, they are afraid of what might happen to them, or how they would be further mistreated if they were to reach out for help.

What about mental abuse? Those forms of psychological abuse that strike the heart and mind without leaving a mark on one's body. Those psychological wounds? Those scars hidden from the eye? That anguish that goes undetected?

What about the abuse of neglect? An elderly parent or grandparent is often ignored, let alone, unattended. Too often one eats only when the supposed caretaker gets around to finding time to feed him or her without giving thought to the aged person's special dietary needs. And what about the bedfast? How closely are they monitored? Attended to?

What about financial abuse? One might think it doesn't happen. You'd be surprised to learn how many checks each month are endorsed, cashed, and spent by other than the senior citizen to whom they are issued. How can that be, you ask? Well, believe me, it happens—right here in Eastern Kentucky.

We have a lot of senior citizens who are abused in one form or another, every day, in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, and Pike counties.

But then there is Roy. Roy is in his mid-seventies today. He made a home for Mama and Papa until they died. Mama went to the hospital only a few days before she died. Papa died peacefully at home. There are thousands like Roy right here in Appalachia. But then there are thousands who weren't as fortunate as Roy's Mama and Papa. If you are one who doesn't have a "Roy" in your life, What can you do?

Senior citizen, there are many things you can do if you are a victim of abuse. There is help available. Here are some places you can call if you, or someone you know is being abused in one way or another: You can call the 24 Hour Crisis Line, provided by the Big Sandy Family Abuse Center at: 886-6025; a Mountain Comprehensive Care Center in your area; the Kentucky Department For Social Services at 1-800-752-6200, your local police or sheriff's department, a nearby hospital, your clergy, your physician, a friend or relative, or if you live in an area where you have 911, dial that number.

We, the Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens, sponsored by Legal Services in Prestonsburg, can help by contacting proper organizations to intervene on your behalf. Call 886-3876 or 1-800-556-3876. We are here for you, free of charge.

"Abuse...It Hurts At Any Age." Why suffer when there is help available? One thing you must not do is ignore it—that could be deadly.

Two Floyd students named to honors list

Amy Michelle Wilson and Marcha Leverm Wilson, students from Floyd County, were named to the Campbellsville College academic honors list for the spring 1994 semester.

The academic honors list recognize students who achieve a grade point average of 3.50 or above for the semester on a course load of at least 12 hours.

THE STORY OF JENNY WILEY, PART 2

by Jadon Gibson

Jenny Wiley, pregnant and with a 15-month old babe in arms, found it difficult to keep up with the band of Indians who kidnapped her after killing her brother and three of her children on October 1, 1789.

They pushed, pulled, prodded, and even carried her along for several days before an old Cherokee grabbed the youngster from her arms and bashed it against a tree, killing it instantly. Although devastated, Jenny knew her only chance at survival was not to give in to her emotions.

Without her infant she kept up with the Indians who sped along, trying to outdistance any pursuers. She thought about nightfall hoping that it would bring rest, but when darkness came their movement through the wilderness continued. In the middle of night she heard the gushing of a river, the Tug Fork of the Big Sandy River.

After talking among themselves and mentioning 'Harman,' two Indians held each of her arms as they all swam across the river. It came to Jenny as they swam that the Indians were concerned about Mathias Harman, who lived near her and Tom, what now seemed like ages ago.

She heard them mention the Harman name at the cabin and several times in their travel. Mathias Harman was well known as an Indian fighter and Jenny determined that they raided their cabin believing it to be his. Now they seemed to mention his name in fear of retaliation.

Jenny was thoroughly soaked and cold after crossing the river. Although the Indians paused to rest under a cliff until daybreak, they didn't build a fire for fear of detection. Until now they followed a common path but hereafter they traveled through rough terrain and made every effort not to leave a trace.

She was totally exhausted and dispirited but the Indians gave her dried venison and made her move along. Her unborn child started to become active and this became a growing concern.

"Tell 'bout old Skygusty," the old Indian said to Jenny when they paused to eat. He could tell that she didn't understand. "Tell 'bout Little Devil with big nose." Jenny then knew they were talking about their old nemesis, Mathias Harman.

Although Harman was small in stature, standing only a little over five feet in height and weighing about 130 pounds, he fought the Indians tooth and nail for years.

"Harman was in his cabin and he'll be on our tail," Jenny said, angering the old Cherokee.

When they arrived at the Big Sandy River, below the present site of Louisa, Kentucky, the two Indians again took Jenny's arms and the group swam across. After nine days of travel they reached the Ohio River where the Indians chanted "Oh-hi-yo, Oh-hi-yo."

The Ohio River was at flood stage so they hiked to the Little Sandy River and ascended it before camping at the Cherokee Fork of Big Blaine Creek.

The Indians directed Jenny to a cave which would become her home for several nights and where, on a cold night, she gave birth to her baby. Soon she was expected to perform various chores around the camp.

Jenny's trials were not over. Her captors informed her that her baby must undergo a "trial by water." They took the baby boy and headed for a large pool in a nearby stream with Jenny in close pursuit.

The baby, just a few months old, was placed on a crude narrow raft and pushed out into the water. If the baby was still the Indians would adopt it and raise it to be a warrior. If the infant cried or thrashed about in the water then it would die.

Jenny was livid. Unable to control herself she rushed, splashing, into the pond, grabbed her baby and attempted to run down the creekbank. It was useless as two of the warriors quickly overtook her, took her baby and returned to the site where the others waited.

The Indians were infuriated over the intervention and resumed the trial by tossing the infant into the cold water. The baby surfaced with a cough and cried out weakly before a warrior grabbed the baby boy and bashed him against a tree, killing him just as the old Cherokee had done earlier with Jenny's 15-month old.

Although imprisoned against her will under the most trying circumstances, Jenny persisted by biding her time. Surely some day, in some way she would be rescued or find some means to escape.

Editor's note: Read more about Jenny Wiley in Jadon's From The Mountains, next week in the Floyd County Times.

"A FAMILY DOCTOR IS THE MOST IMPORTANT THING"

"My whole family went to him. He's been our family doctor for about 20 years. He listens to what you have to say. When I went to him with the thyroidism I explained to him that I had three things that were bothering me: I couldn't concentrate, I was so tired that I couldn't stay awake and I was freezing to death. He said 'Okay, let's run some tests.' And I knew by that afternoon. . . I was on my way to recovery. It's been a year and I feel great. I have known him long enough to know he doesn't just treat me this way. . . He does this with all his patients. He listens, he's compassionate, he cares about you as a person. Surgical Oncology Clinic to open at Highlands

Outreach Clinic

University of Kentucky Surgical Oncologists (left to right) David Slone, M.D., Daniel Kenady, M.D., and Patrick McGrath, M.D., will open an Outreach Clinic at Highlands Regional Medical Center on August 3.

Daniel E. Kenady, M.D., Patrick C. McGrath, M.D., and David A. Slone, M.D., members of the Surgical Oncology Section of the Division of General Surgery from the University of Kentucky Medical Center will open a consultative Outreach Clinic in the Medical Offices at Highlands Regional Medical Center beginning August 3. Particular emphasis will be placed on head and neck cancer and complex oncologic cases such as liver or pancreas resection, sarcoma resection, and cases requiring complex reconstruction.

Surgical Oncology is the medical specialty that involves the surgical treatment of cancer. Surgical oncologists are familiar with the history of individual cancers and with the principles and potentialities of surgery, radiation therapy, chemotherapy, immunotherapy, and other new treatment modalities. The surgeon has a central role in the prevention, diagnosis, treatment and rehabilitation of the cancer patient.

Dr. Kenady is a Board Certified Surgeon and is a Fulltime Professor of Surgery at the University of Kentucky. He graduated from Georgetown University Medical School in Washington, D.C. He served his Internship at the Georgetown University Hospital; served a Residency in General Surgery at the Georgetown University Hospital; and a Residency at the Medical College of Wisconsin Affiliated Hospitals in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. He served a Fellowship in the Department of Surgery at The University of Texas System Cancer Center, M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, Texas; he also served a Fellowship in Surgery in the Department of Head and Neck Surgery at the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute; and he served as a Fellow and a Fulltime Clinical Associate in the Surgery Branch of the National Cancer Institute of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Public Health service with the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Maryland.

Dr. Sloan is an Assistant Professor of Surgery at the University of Kentucky Medical Center. He graduated from Medical School at McGill University in Montreal, Canada. He served his Internship at St. Mary's Hospital in Montreal; served a Residency in General Surgery at Montreal General Hospital and McGill University; and served a Residency in General Surgery-Endocrine Surgery Fellowship at the Royal North Shore Hospital and Sydney University in Sydney, New South Wales, Australia. He served a Fellowship in Surgical Oncology and a Fellowship in Head and Neck Surgical Oncology at the University of Texas M.D. Anderson Cancer Center in Houston, Texas. Dr. McGrath is a Board Certified Surgeon and a Fulltime Associate Professor of Surgery, at the University of Kentucky Medical Center. He graduated from Medical School at the University of Illinois Medical Center in Chicago, Illinois. He served his Internship and a Residency in General Surgery, at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond, Virginia. Dr. McGrath also served as a Research Fellow and as a Clinical Fellow at the Medical College of Virginia.

Appointments in the Surgical Oncology Clinic will be taken by surgical referral only. Clinic dates will be the first Wednesday of each month.

Furcolow receives medical fellowship

Dr. John Furcolow

John Furcolow, M.D., Internal Medicine Specialist at Highlands Regional Medical Center has been named a Fellow by the American College of Rheumatology in recognition of his special expertise in the practice of Rheumatology and for his role in establishing and serving as co-director of the Rheumatology Clinic at Highlands.

Dr. Furcolow and Dr. Mark Caruso, alternate weekly in the Rheumatology clinic, which is located in Highlands Medical Offices in Paintsville. Providing further expertise for more complicated and refractory cases are Dr. Richard Gill and Dr. Andrew Ruthberg, Board Certified Rheumatologists from the Lexington Clinic who rotate monthly in the clinic.

Rheumatology is the study of arthritis and other types of rheumatism (e.g. Lupus, the rheumatic fever, gout and a host of other diseases), their diagnosis and treatment.

Dr. Furcolow was Board Certified in Internal Medicine in 1986; named Medical Director of Oncology Services at Highlands in 1988; was Board Certified in Critical Care Medicine in 1991; and was named a Fellow in the American College of Chest Physicians in 1993.

In 1993 Dr. Furcolow created and became program coordinator (with Vicki Risner, R.N.) of the office of Continuing Medical Education at Highlands (the first of its kind in Eastern Kentucky to be certified by the Kentucky Medical Association). GOLF TIPS by Bob Murphy (NAPS)—Bob Murphy, five-time winner on the PGA tour and the 1993 Sr. PGA Rookie of the Year, offers golf tips to amateurs and professionals alike. Murphy, and the makers of Just For Men Shampoo-In Haircolor, the world leader in haircoloring, believe in enhancement whether it's your golf game or personal appearance.

stop the club quickly. You will hear the sound of a "THUD" (See Diagram 1). When you make a nice divot or impression with the lighter "SPLASH" action, you will be lofting the ball out softly.

2. Visualize the "SPLASH" divot, hear the "SPLASH" sound, aim about two inches behind the ball and "SPLASH" it out. (See Diagram 2).

3. Don't worry about taking too much sand as long as you make a full follow through and finish high.

4. Your club should accelerate through impact to insure a smooth swinging action.

Today's Tip
When I speak about hitting from a sand bunker I will use the term "SPLASH."
1. If you dig your club deep in the sand it tends to
