Board okays raises; tables budget vote

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County school board members approved an across the board salary increase for school employees and created additional staff positions, but delayed adopting the district's 1994-95 budget.

At Monday's regular board meet-

August 2 is deadline for board filings

The filing deadline for the November general election is just under two weeks away and at least three elected offices will be on the ballot in Floyd County.

Three seats on the board of education in educational districts one, two and five will be up in November. The successful candidates in the fall will be elected to full four-year terms in districts one and two. The top vote-getter in district five will serve the unexpired term of former member Hattie Owens, which expires in 1997.

Other offices that could be on November's ballot include unexpired terms on the Wheelwright City Commission.

Commissioner Luther Johnson Jr. announced last month that he would resign his seat on the commission. County Court Clerk Carla Boyd said last week that no official notification of the resignation has been made to her office.

The filing deadline is Tuesday, August 2 at 4 p.m. to be on the ballot in November. Write-in candidates have until 10 days before the November election to file with the clerk's office.

For more information contact the county court clerk's office at 886-3816.

Wayland will need special meeting on water project

by Matt McCarty
Staff Writer

A lack of a quorum Monday at Wayland's city council meeting prompted Mayor Gene Mullins to call a special session Wednesday (today) to take action on a proposed water treatment plant.

The absence of Tommy Murphy and Tommy Robinson forced Mullins to call the meeting, which will begin at 7 p.m., so council can approve a resolution.

The resolution, if passed, will authorize Mullins to procure engineering services for the design and inspection of construction of the plant.

ing, the board approved giving a three percent pay raise to certified and classified employees.

Board member Brent Clark didn't agree with allocating this year's extra monies for employee pay raises.

"It seems like receipts went up by $2 million and we're giving that to the adults," Clark told the board. "I don't see anyone fighting for the children. Kids in trailers is an ongoing problem that we ignore. I feel for the kids that have to go to school in trailers. I'm the only one on this board that hasn't been a teacher."

The board also put a hold on pay raises for employees of the district's family resource and youth service centers until local and state officials give a report on how much responsibility the board has over those programs.

Board member Eddie Patton voiced concerns about large discrepancies in the pay for directors of family resource and youth service centers throughout the county. Patton asked for a report at the August meeting on the board responsibilities relating to the centers.

Also Monday, the board voted to add nine positions in the central office this school year. Positions created were: custodial trainer; technology assistant; writing/forensics assistant; staff secretary; four full-time substitute teachers; and a math consultant.

The board also met for almost two hours in closed session to discuss pending litigation and to continue their evaluation of superintendent Steve Towler.

Board chairman Ray Brackett announced after the closed session that the board will meet in special session July 25 to complete the superintendent's evaluation. Brackett said the board will meet at 7 p.m. in a "dinner meeting" at May Lodge and

Gunshot is fatal, brother is charged

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Toler Creek man will face a murder charge in connection with the shooting death of his brother during an argument Sunday night.

Jackie M. Ray, 45, was expected to be charged with murder Tuesday after his brother, Allan Tommy Ray, 41, of Lexington, died Monday afternoon. Allan Ray was shot one time in the head with a handgun.

State police allege that Jackie Ray shot his brother at approximately 8:30 Sunday evening during a fight at Toler Creek.

Allan Ray was taken to Pikeville Methodist Hospital and transferred to U.K. Medical Center in Lexington. He died Monday afternoon.

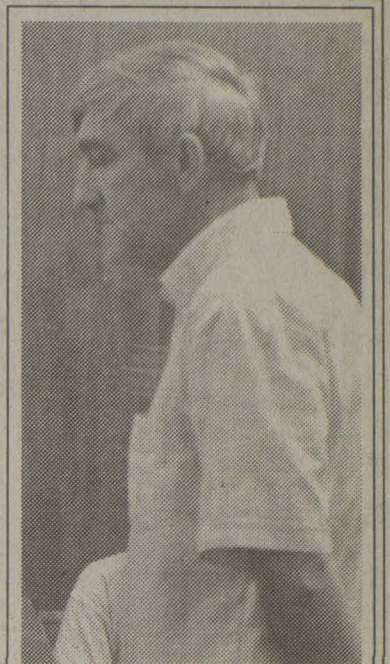

Jackie Ray was arraigned in Floyd District Court Tuesday morning on a charge of first degree assault. The charge was expected to be upgraded to murder later Tuesday.

Floyd District Judge Danny Caudill ordered Jackie Ray held without bond, saying that other charges were pending.

The shooting is under investigation by Kentucky State Police detective Larry Woods.

Also responding to the scene Sunday were state police troopers and deputy sheriff Ricky Newsome.

Jackie Ray, of Toler Creek, was arraigned Tuesday in Floyd District Court on a charge of assault for shooting his brother, Allan Ray, once in the head. Allan Ray died Monday afternoon, and charges are expected to be upgraded to murder. (photo by Susan Allen)

Fiscal court agrees to invest severance dollars in studies at Allen industrial site

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County's Fiscal Court agreed Friday to invest $50,000 to determine if a 36-acre site at Allen can be developed into an industrial park to relocate R & S Body Company and to locate a clothing manufacturing firm.

Darrell Gilliam, executive director of the county's industrial authority, asked court members Friday to commit $50,000 in coal severance tax monies for engineering studies on the Marshall Davidson property near Ivel.

The money will be used for archaeological, boundary and environmental surveys; to obtain a flood plain, sewer treatment plant and encroachment permits; and core borings.

Gilliam told the court that the clothing manufacturer will employ from 250-300 people.

The development authority took an 18-month option on the property last month and Gilliam told the court Friday that the option would not be executed unless the clothing manufacturer locates on the site.

Judge-executive John M. Stumbo told the court that engineering studies needed to be done before the property is purchased.

"We need to know what we're getting before we buy it," Stumbo said.

Magistrate Jackie Owens commented that he wanted to know how long any businesses which will locate on the site would commit to staying in the county and what type of tax breaks they would expect.

Gilliam added that approximately 600 applications have been submitted for the clothing manufacturing jobs and that the company is looking exclusively at locating in Floyd County.

Also Friday, Margaret Holbrook complained to the court about conditions at Stumbo Park at Allen. Holbrook, who submitted petitions with 600 signatures to the court, said the main concern of citizens using the park is the condition of the portable toilets. She said that the facilities are not cleaned often and that there are no handicapped accessible restrooms.

"Overall, (the park) is in very poor condition," Holbrook said. "(People from outside the county) said they have never been in a facility this bad. It makes Floyd County look bad. I don't like the way it's being run. It's poorly managed. Why employ 13-20 people and nobody works?"

Holbrook also asked why the park was operating on a cash basis accounting system and said she felt that not all the revenue generated from the golf course at the park was being turned over to the county.

Stumbo told Holbrook that the portable restrooms are supposed to be cleaned twice a week. He said that the county has tried for the last year to secure grants to build bathroom and concession facilities at the park.

County Attorney Jim Hammond told Holbrook that the county had to clear up some problems with state officials before bathroom facilities could be built at the park. He added that he believes those problems are almost resolved.

Magistrate Tommy Neil Adams told the court that he attended a meet-

Settlements reached in suits arising from Floyd suicides

Two local civil suits with national implications were resolved out of court Friday, July 15 in Floyd County.

At issue were claims by the widows of two Floyd County men that their husbands were driven to suicide after using a popular sleeping pill known as Halcion.

Prestonsburg attorney Ned Pillersdorf, who represented Delores Messer and Mary Ann Johnson, would not release details of the suit settlements, but said the Upjohn Company, maker of the commonly-used drug, had made a "fair and reasonable offer."

The Floyd County widows filed separate suits charging Upjohn with negligence in 1992. They claimed their husbands committed suicide the year before because the company failed to adequately warn of side-effects arising from the use of Halcion.

Billy Johnson, 59, shot himself once in the stomach on February 15, 1991 after allegedly developing a persecution complex because of the drug. His wife said he thought the CIA had a listening device in his IV needle.

Luther Messer, 68, shot himself in the mouth with a shotgun on October 7, 1991, three days after being released from a hospital where he was treated for an apparent overdose of Halcion. His wife's lawsuit alleged the drug induced "paranoia, confusion, dementia and other abnormal behavior."

The Messer trial was scheduled to begin August 29 in Floyd Circuit Court, with the Johnson case to follow on September 26.

Pillersdorf said Floyd Circuit Judge John David Caudill encouraged the litigants to settle the matter out of court because the trial was

Solid waste has non-meet, but makes time for public

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

When the roll was called, only one voice responded during a meeting Monday night of the Floyd County Solid Waste Commission. The lone voice belonged to chairman Mike Vance, who declared that the meeting could not be held due to the lack of a quorum.

Instead, Vance conducted a public comment session for several Floyd County residents were present who had planned to voice their complaints to the commission during the meeting.

Jean Hickman, Mary Zemo, Violetta Wright, and Maggie and Johnny Lafferty, representing Floyd County senior citizens, discussed several aspects of the new waste collection system that have senior citizens worried, including the lack of a senior citizen discount.

Vance told the group that the solid waste commission wants to implement a rebate system, once the county solid waste program has enough income to "meet the demands of keeping the solid waste system going."

"Once we know our income, month to month, we'll look at (a rebate system)," he said.

He also said he had received several complaints from area residents who were concerned about their bills. Some of those problems stemmed from two bills, one from the Floyd County Solid Waste System and one from Rumpke, Floyd Countians received in July. The bill from the Floyd County Solid Waste System was for service during the month of June, Dave Cooley, an employee of the waste system, said. Cooley explained that the county garbage collection system had billed at the end of the month, but that Rumpke bills in advance and also bills quarterly.

The $30 statement Rumpke customers received this month is for three months of service, Rumpke operations manager Ron Henke explained. If area residents have problems paying the fee, they can pay in one month increments, Henke said. However, the three monthly payments must be paid in full by the tenth day of the third month or the account will be in arrears.

Cooley advised customers to put their account numbers, which are located in the upper left-hand corner of the bill, on the bottom of the check, so their accounts will be properly credited.

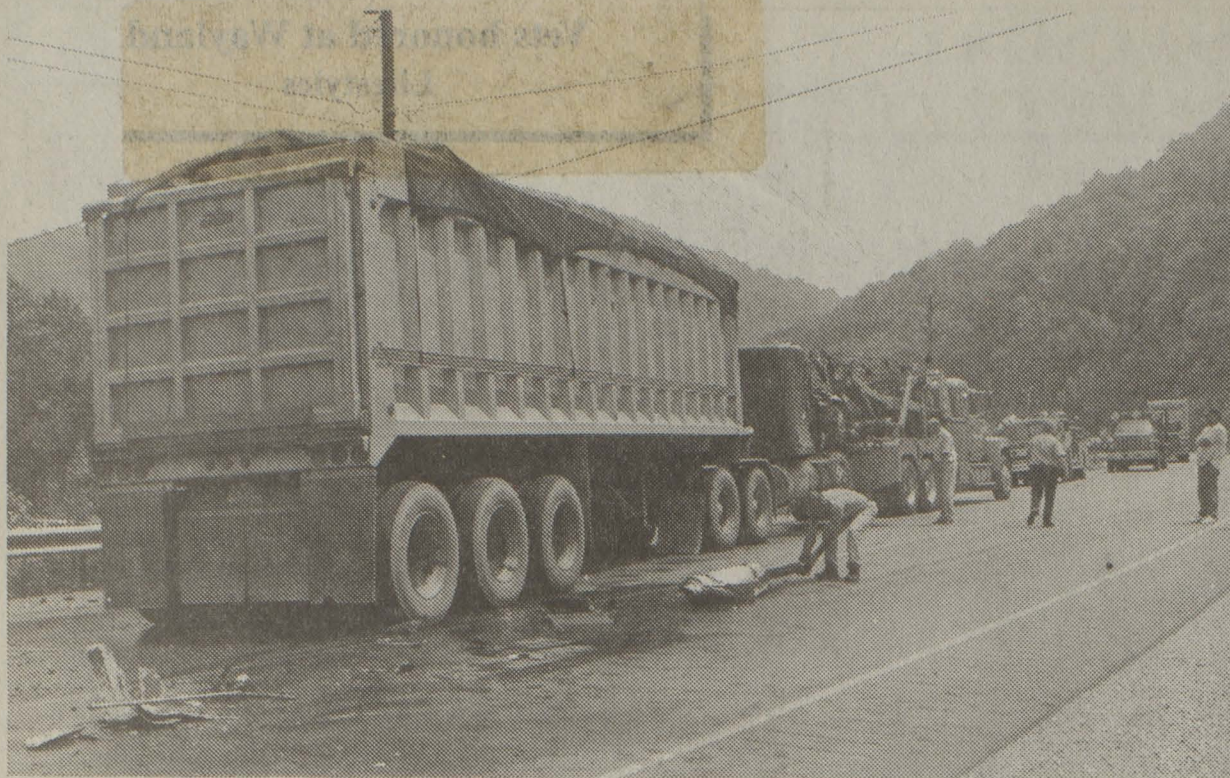

During the public comment session, Jean Hickman, who lives at Stephens Branch Road at Cliff, ex-

Coal trucks collide

Traffic was backed up for more than two hours Tuesday afternoon on old U.S. 23 at Auxier following an accident which happened around 12:15 involving two coal trucks and a car all traveling in the northbound lane. A car had stopped to make a left turn when one coal truck stopped behind it. A second coal truck, however, was unable to stop and swerved into the southbound lane to miss it, but it struck the trailer. No injuries were reported in the accident which was investigated by deputy Lloyd Powers. (photo by Matt McCarty)

Tourism director dons another hat

by Matt McCarty
Staff Writer

Two hats are better than one. So says the Prestonsburg City Council who named Prestonsburg tourism director Fred James as the new Main Street program director in yet another attempt to cut city costs. The consolidation of the two jobs, which was announced during a special meeting last Thursday, was made mainly because the position of Main Street director "falls right in line with tourism," Mayor Jerry Fannin said. "The positions of tourism director and Main Street (director) overlap anyway," James said, "because one of the goals of Main Street (director) is to try to develop the district into an area that can be more appealing and have value to tourists." The move will put a little more of a workload on James' back. "Freddie will be taking on a lot of new jobs along with some stuff he's already doing," Fannin said. In making the motion after the council returned from executive session where they discussed the matter, Administration/Personnel Committee chairman Robert Allen said that tourism "would not suffer as a result (of the move)." The council voted unanimously to approve the action.

James will receive $11,000 a year as Main Street director retroactive to July 1. During the meeting, council also approved pay raises for some city employees and said that other raises were still in the planning stage. The council approved raises for 14 employees at an average increase of 9.52 percent in the public works department. All the raises, which were accounted for in the budget, will be retroactive to July 4. Councilman Robert Allen said the council "knew we needed to adjust" and that the employees "deserve it." The city clerk and administrative assistant each received a raise of $904 annually. Councilman Billy Ray Collins and councilwoman Paula Goble were absent from the meeting.

pressed concern about a letter she received from Rumpke. The letter stated that Rumpke trucks will not enter private property to collect garbage, and that "all trash must be placed at curbside (within three feet) of the maintained county road nearest your house." Hickman said she was a senior citizen and was not able to carry her garbage the distance required. David Hall of Prater also said that he has no place to set his garbage at the pickup point, because a creek flowed on one side of the road and a cliff was on the other side. Henke clarified the letter, and told the group that in some instances Rumpke drivers walked 100 feet onto private property to pick up garbage for people who were disabled. Henke said concerned citizens should contact his office, and a Rumpke employee will be sent to look at the situation. "Each individual situation has to be looked at," he explained. "We'll work something out." Some of the senior citizens also praised Rumpke. Violetta Wright said she had missed putting out all her garbage for collection because Rumpke's pickup schedule was different than the previous one, but that the garbage truck had stopped on its return route and picked up her garbage. Another senior citizen said she failed to get her garbage to the road in time for collection, so she called Rumpke and the garbage truck came by the next day to pick up her garbage. "We want to be good neighbors," Henke said. Cooley also announced that Rumpke will offer additional services in the future, including rental of a "waste wheeler," cart; door-to-door pickup of white good items, such as refrigerators; and rental of dumpsters. Customers can call Rumpke and arrange for pickup of white items, however, items containing refrigerants must be free of freon and must be tagged, he said. After the discussion, Vance scheduled a special meeting of the commission for Thursday, July 21, at 5 p.m. in the Floyd County Annex. The agenda includes ratification of a service contract between the Floyd Fiscal Court, the Floyd County Solid Waste and Rumpke, and a discussion on the closure of the Floyd County Landfill.

expected to last over a month. As part of the settlement, the widows dropped claims against their husbands' personal physicians, Dr. Ira Potter for Messer, and Dr. Rodney Handshoe for Johnson. Pillersdorf said Mrs. Messer is still pursuing damages from Dr. Virginia DeGuzman, the physician who saw Messer at the hospital. Pillersdorf said the claim against Dr. DeGuzman was not directly related to Halcion.

Knife exhibition at Jenny Wiley Resort Park

If you collect knives and guns then the Jenny Wiley State Resort Park will be the place for you on August 27 when Jenny Wiley holds a knife and gun show. The show, which will last from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., will be co-sponsored by Yatesville Lake Fish and Game Club. The exhibits will mostly be from the Big Sandy Area, said Ron Vanover, of Jenny Wiley State Park. This will be the second show in four months and Vanover said that he "feels it can be a big event for this area." He added that he would like to have the show "at least three times a year." The show will feature knives, guns, and bows and arrows. For more information call 886-2711.

ing at the park with citizens on July 9 and he agreed that the condition and lack of bathroom facilities was a problem. He added that he felt there was a breakdown in communication between the park manager and citizens. The court did not address Holbrook's concerns regarding accounting for funds generated by the golf course. In other business Friday: • Callie Salyers asked when water service would be available to the Middle Creek area. Stumbo told Salyers the court had been working on the project for 10 years and they have not been able to secure a grant to run the water lines. • Solid waste commission chairman Mike Vance gave the court a report on the solid waste department. Vance said that the commission was concentrating on closing out the department and looking at ways to close the old landfill. Vance also asked for and received permission to employ a coordinator for the solid waste department. • Court members met in closed session to discuss pending litigation with the Cabinet for Natural Resources and potential litigation concerning the jail project. All members were present at Friday's meeting.

Floyd County children attend summer camp

Five boys from Floyd County attended the Kentucky Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranch the week of June 26-July 1st. Sheriff Paul Thompson, Floyd County made the arrangements for the boys to attend the camp.

The new gym at the Ranch is now complete so the Kentucky Sheriffs' Ranch campers did not have to worry about not getting to play because of rain. The eighty-five youngsters attending the first week of camp this year also were the first to enjoy the new look at the camp. The bunkhouses and kitchen/dining area have been completely refurbished with a bright and colorful paint job everywhere.

Ray Stoess, executive director of the Ranch, said he wanted to give the camp a more "home-like" atmosphere and felt the colorful surroundings would make the children feel more comfortable being away from home. Stoess also noted that sheriffs and deputies from all over the state are now transporting underprivileged children many, many miles so that they can have a vacation like everyone else.

The camp program has been improved as well. There are contests for the children each week, hiking, a comprehensive drug program conducted by Marshall County Deputy Sheriff George Sinclair, and plenty of healthful, nutritious food on the menu. "As you can readily see, the bright smiling faces are the only reward we at the Ranch, hope to attain each summer," stated Stoess. Over $300,000.00 has been spent in the past 15 years to make this continue to be one of the finest camps in America.

Anyone wishing more information about the camp or to register a child can call Helen Barter at 502/362-8660 or your local sheriff's office.

Democracy on the ropes

by Scott Perry

Democracy took one on the chin this week, and local officials throughout Kentucky are no doubt champing at the bit for their turn at the old punching bag.

Assistant Attorney General Thomas Emerson has issued an opinion that contends that Kentucky's Open Meeting Law doesn't mean what it says.

Emerson's opinion suggests that public agencies do not have to meet in places large enough to accommodate everyone who would like to attend the meetings.

That decision should be of particular interest to folks in Floyd County, who have argued for some time that the Floyd County Fiscal Court's meeting room is too small to allow public participation in the court's meetings.

Those complaints aren't legiti-mate, Emerson contends in his opinion.

Here's the clincher.

Attorney General opinions on issues concerning Open Meeting laws carry the force of law...until they are successfully challenged in court.

In this case, it appears that not only does the AG opinion carry the force of law, it has rewritten the law.

Kentucky Revised Statutes are perfectly clear on this matter.

Public agencies are required to meet at times and places that will accommodate public participation.

How anyone could decipher the laws to mean anything other than what they say is absolutely absurd.

It's just as absurd to give a state employee, which Emerson is, the authority to write new laws.

A rematch is in order.

Stay tuned.

$30 garbage bill creates a stink

Editor:
I am writing concerning the $30 garbage bill they sent in the mail.

We have already paid this month's garbage bill. I always pay for the month I use. A lot of people on fixed incomes have a hard time just paying, without having to pay $30 at one time.

The county will have more garbage on the roads than they'll know what to do with. People will throw it just anywhere.

It is a shame the way old people are treated. One thing is for sure, they all will have to stand before the Lord and give account for what they have done. I sure wouldn't want to be in their shoes.

No joy in Mudville, fair play sidelined

Editor:
I have seen a lot of things change for the worse during the last few years with sportsmanship here, but playing the game by the rules should never change.

Enclosed is a letter of written complaint given to the president and vice-president of the Beaver Creek Little League following a verbal complaint of the same situation.

One should first know that the 10 coaches of this league were the persons responsible for choosing the players for the "All Star" team. The winners of each division were allowed the most players on the team, with the other teams allowing a specific number of players decreasing according to their position in this league at the end of season play.

The Beaver Creek Little League has two divisions.—North and South. Each division has had its own "All Star" team representing the Beaver Creek League in the past. This year, supposedly to make the teams "more even," the teams were not made of players from each separate division. A few players from the North division were placed on a team with the other players from mostly the South division. (I personally was not aware of the change in North and South "All-Star" teams until my son and I attended practice.) If the roster of the Beaver Creek Blue Team was checked, especially for the last game played, you would find that the coach and assistant coach added new players from their regular season teams, many over the number specified for their teams, players that were not chosen to be "All-Stars" except by them on the day of the game.

What is this teaching our children about the sense of right and wrong and about fair play? What do you say to a child who has made it on his own to the "All-Stars," but is benched to players who were put on the team the day of the last game?

I think many parents agree with me about fair play not being part of the Beaver Creek "All-Stars" this year, but are afraid of speaking up. They are afraid their child won't get on next year, maybe might not get to play many innings, or will be put back out in the outfield again if they speak up for what is right or wrong. Coaches make mistakes. My son's chance of an "All-Star" season is gone because I did speak up and the coaches made serious mistakes to the wrong child this time. I, like any parent, was there to right a wrong that was being done to my child. My complaint was in vain. My child was embarrassed and belittled by what was happening to his "All-Star" career.

Calling all students of McDowell High!

Editor:
This is an appeal, but not the kind where you want something for nothing. This is an appeal to the people who attended McDowell High School between the years of 1934 and 1993. It is especially directed to the people who live in this area, but who have never participated in any reunions.

McDowell School has former students in all the states as well as in foreign countries. Many of them attend the reunions at a sacrifice in order to see schoolmates, to exchange life stories, to brag about their children and grandchildren, and to laugh about the occasion when they outsmarted the teachers or "got by" with something.
In a more serious mood, they speak of ones who have passed on. They also have to tell how mean Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Moore were for giving so much homework and for checking it so closely as well as supervising them so closely while loving them and defending them when they were in the right.

On Labor Day weekend the McDowell School community is having a giant "homecoming reunion." There is nothing formal about this affair. We want you to come and go as you please, or to join any group that interests you. The whole idea is to have a good time.

There is a $5 fee to pay for postage, stationery, food, and other miscellaneous expenses. Please send your contribution. This is our only means of discovering how many are coming. If you don't show up, we'll talk about you.

Help available?

Editor:
I want people to know that we have a place here in Floyd County that is called the Department of Child Welfare or Division of Social Service where we supposedly can call and get help for the abused and neglected kids.

In my case, I've found out from my own experience through this place since April that they're not worth a dime. As for the help and response, they never gave to this case.

If lives were at stake these kids would have been dead and buried before now. As for the workers in this social service department and the head district office in Ashland, they did not respond to me in any way to say this case was acted on or investigated.

In April, I made a report by phone to 886-1260. I then went into the office of social services in Floyd County two different times and reported it to two different workers and another person.

I never did get any one to call to say it had been investigated or not. I never could get to talk to the person over all of Kentucky's counties. I tried 3 or 4 times.

I called a month later and asked again if it had been investigated and I was told it had been investigated. The smart aleck person as well as told me to bug off and let them alone. They said maybe this child is happy.

I wish that person was in the child's shoes for just a week, then they'd know why I'm upset and angry. The

The superintendent selection process authorized by Kentucky's education reform laws has been rendered useless once again in Eastern Kentucky, where there's no business like school business.

In Johnson County, weeks of work and deliberation by a screening committee was tossed aside last week in a split vote by the board, which opted for a candidate not among those recommended by the screening committee.

You'll probably recall a similar situation in Floyd County a couple of years ago, when a screening committee went through the process of selecting a new superintendent. In that case, a candidate was chosen by the local board from the screening panel's list, but the choice was vetoed by state Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen.

In either case, the question that begs attention is obvious.

What's the point of having a screening committee in the first place?

The purpose of the law was to move away from old style politics and into a new era of objectivity in school leadership situations, but that apparently was a pipe dream.

Local boards aren't obligated to accept screening committee recommendations under that same law and Johnson County has put that loophole to work.

And, they've said to heck with the screening process along the way in a voice that's loud and clear.

Is it any wonder, then, with cases like these, why public confidence in education reform is taking a tumble?

If public involvement is, as the experts agree, a key element in the reform processes, there must be some assurance that recommendations from school councils and committees aren't subject to rejection with a simple wave of the school board's hand.

Otherwise, we'll find out real fast that everything old is new again.

Speaking of public confidence, the folks in Pike County must be measuring theirs against the news last week that a couple of influential elected officials are seeking judicial leniency for a confessed dope dealer.

Senator Kelsey Friend Sr. and his son, representative-elect Kelsey Friend Jr., have asked a federal judge to have mercy on William "Happy" Coleman, who pleaded guilty in May to charges related to trafficking in cocaine.

Now there's a curious approach to the war on drugs.

We encourage the sentencing judge to respond to these entreaties by just saying NO!

Lt. Guv Paul Patton has suggested that Appalachia could boost its struggling economy by developing "new towns."

The idea, Patton says, is to create growth centers by concentrating development in a few areas and building around a single industry.

Say, that has a familiar ring to it.

Do the names Van Lear or Wheelwright mean anything to you?

They were "one industry" towns a few years back, and look what happened to them when that one industry went belly up.

Owe your soul to the company store?
No thanks.

person also told me to go talk to a district attorney and this won't cost me anything. You can't talk to him if you can't find him or see him in his office or around the courthouse. Anyway I don't know of any good he has done for anyone but himself.

What are these people in these offices for the social service; if not to help us, what they are being paid for? If they're not helping, get out and let someone in these offices that can and will help people.

I've had I don't know how many people ask me, what are these people getting paid to do? Suppose you can tell them?

People in Floyd County, let's try to see what can be done to get help with the abused and neglected kids. In April, for three weeks, they published all this stuff about what to do to report child abuse and neglect to get help for them.

The same month they had on T.V. there were actual cases shown on child abuse and child neglect and sexual abuse and it showed how it was handled after it was reported and how the social services worked with the families to correct it.

I am glad that state was getting and giving help instead of some one just jotting it down on paper and nothing done. People in Floyd County, please help get something done to help the abused and neglected children. You never know what time you may need help and it will go without anything done except getting it jotted down and they'll holler it had been investigated and it hasn't.

A lady in Johnson County gave me more help then anyone in Floyd County. She works in Johnson County and I owe a special thanks to another lady who helped me through this trying time with the caring and consideration she gave to me and her moral support.

I hope this will make people more aware of what kind of workers we have in our social services department. They should either do their jobs right or get people that will help us Floyd Countians.

Enjoy exotic vacation without leaving home

Editor:

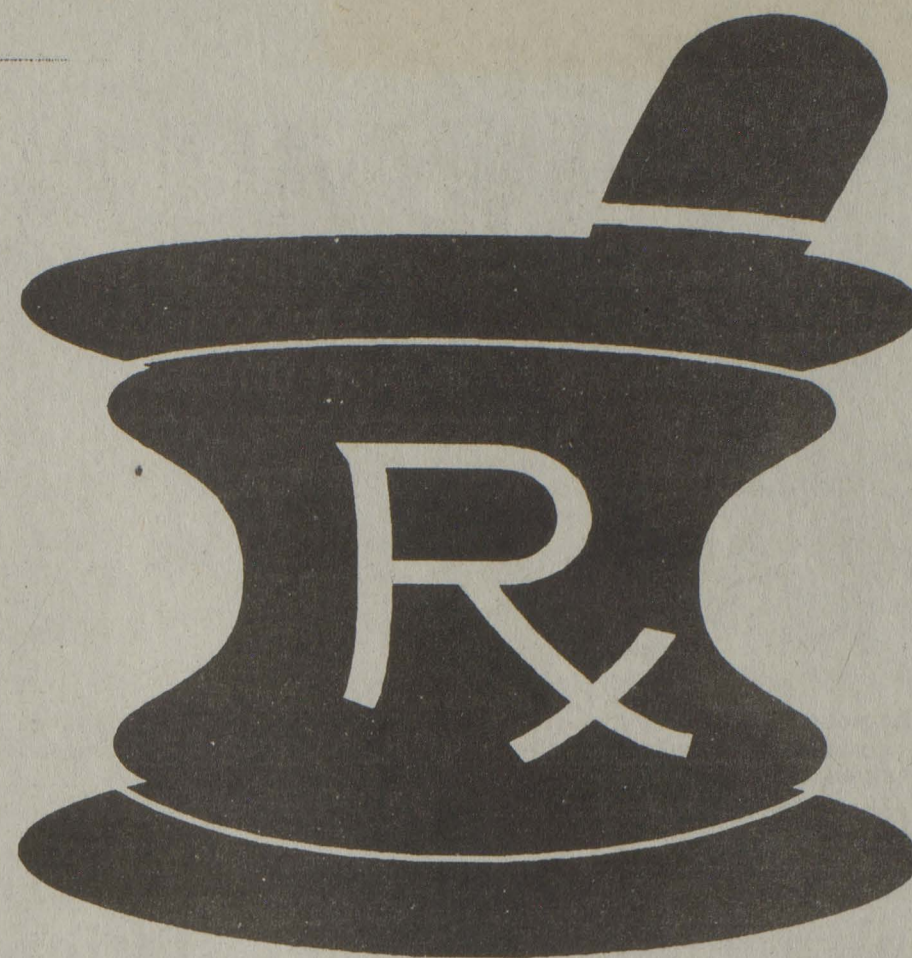

With economic times they way they are, and the financial condition much of Kentucky is in, the average family is doing away with "extras" such as vacations. It is, therefore, especially wonderful that so many families in the Prestonsburg area have been able to experience the customs and culture of an exotic, faraway country, by hosting a foreign high school student through the not-for-profit Academic Year in America program, sponsored by the AIFS Foundation.

Teenagers aged 15-18 come to Kentucky each year, for 5-10 months, and attend Prestonsburg area high schools while living with American families. These young folks arrive with their own health insurance and spending money, and have at least three years of English instruction under their belts prior to their arrival in the United States.

Kentuckians have enjoyed fabulous extended vacations without leaving their own homes. Families, either with or without children, get the opportunity to choose a teenager who best fits in with their lifestyle. What a wonderful opportunity to share Kentucky's traditions and values, and receive so very much in return! Families who open their homes and their hearts to an exchange student gain an inside perspective into the cultures, values and traditions of another country, and also gain a friend for life.

What a wonderful opportunity for families, both with and without children, to share Kentucky's culture and lifestyle with a young ambassador from abroad, and receive so very much in return! As Regional Director for Kentucky, I applaud the Prestonsburg area families who have hosted this year, and encourage interested families to contact me at 1-800-322-4678, ext. 5417.

Nineteen arrested for drug distribution

Eighteen Pike Countians and a juvenile were arrested last Friday as a result of an ongoing investigation of illegal drug distribution, the Kentucky State Police said.

The arrests, which began at 6 a.m. last Friday, were the result of an undercover drug investigation by officials at the Kentucky State Police Post 9.

Those arrested were Robert Johnson, 30, of Lookout, cultivating marijuana; Harry Slone, 46, Pikeville, trafficking in marijuana; Randy Shell, 36, Hellier, illegal sale of alcoholic beverages, two counts; Estill Bowens, 42, Hellier, trafficking in a controlled substance; Walt Thomas Moreno, 21, Hellier, trafficking in marijuana; Roger Johnson, 35, Lookout, cultivating marijuana; David Turnmire, 42, Kimper, illegal sale of alcoholic beverages, two counts, and two counts trafficking in marijuana; Betty Riley, 50, Regina, illegal sale of alcoholic beverages; Howard Kendrick, 64, Elkhorn City, engaging in practice of pharmacy; Dewey Ratliff, 18, Regina, cultivating marijuana; Della Swiney, 20, Pikeville, cultivating marijuana; Christopher Habern, 29, Pikeville, trafficking in marijuana; Lisa Helton, 28, Pikeville, trafficking in a controlled substance; Daniel Harris, 20, Pikeville, cultivating marijuana; Robert Earl Morley, 29, Pikeville, trafficking in marijuana and trafficking in a controlled substance; Lou Solomon Mullins, 31, Dorton, trafficking in marijuana; Julian Iricks Jr., 19, Pikeville, trafficking in marijuana; and Ronald Lee Ratliff, 30, Pikeville, trafficking in marijuana.

A juvenile was arrested for cultivating marijuana. More arrests are pending. — Staff report

Man in stable condition as result of shooting

Ben Howard Adams, 53, Mouthcard, is in stable condition after he was shot in the chest by his brother-in-law, Hubert Lee Grizzle, 40, Mouthcard, last Saturday at 10 p.m., the Kentucky State Police said.

Adams was at the home of his mother and began arguing with his sister when Grizzle shot Adams with a handgun, the state police said.

Adams was taken to Pikeville Methodist Hospital and was later transferred to the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington.

Grizzle was lodged in the Pike County Detention Center.

The case is under investigation by KSP detective Leslie Gannon and trooper Willie Herald. Members of the Pike County sheriff's department also assisted with the arrest and investigation. — Staff report

Knott man stabbed to death during fight with girlfriend

A 30-year-old Knott County man was stabbed to death by his girlfriend during an argument early Saturday, state police said.

The couple were at a house in Leburn when Kenneth Ray Thacker, 30, also of Leburn, went outside about 4:30 a.m. and returned with a tire tool, which he used to strike his girlfriend, Barbara Collett, several times in the face and head, police said. She then grabbed a knife and stabbed him, according to police.

Thacker was pronounced dead at the scene by the Knott County Coroner's Office. Collett was treated at Hazard Appalachian Regional Hospital and dismissed. No charges have been filed. — Lexington Herald-Leader

A Pike County grocery robbed

A Phelps grocery was robbed Monday morning by a man armed with a revolver.

According to a state police report, the man entered Darrell's Grocery on Smith Fork at Phelps at around 8 a.m. Monday and pointed a nickel-plated revolver at store owner Ernest Darrell Smith, 50, and demanded his money. The robber placed Smith in the store's bathroom, and left with an undetermined amount of cash.

The man, last seen walking out of Smith Fork, had on a white t-shirt, blue jeans and a dark blue cap with white letters. He was described as being 5'10" and 185 pounds, of stocky build, with sandy hair and a small bandage on his nose. The incident is being investigated as a 1st degree robbery by Kentucky State Police detectives Terry Thompson and Kenneth Slone, trooper Jeff Caudill and the Pike County sheriff's department. — Staff report

Kentuckians soon to reap benefits of health care reform legislation

by Becky L. Meadows
KPA News Bureau Director

If you have to think twice about going to the doctor because you can't afford a doctor's services and health insurance has been unavailable to you, you could now have reason to celebrate.

Friday, July 15 marked the kick-off of Kentucky's new health care reforms, and although the biggest part of the reforms is not scheduled to take place until July 1995, some important provisions that could help Kentuckians get health insurance in the meantime went into effect on the kick-off day.

A smile lighted Gov. Brereton Jones' face as he addressed the media at a press conference to talk about the new reforms.

"This is a day I have been talking about for more than well over a decade," Jones said. Jones has made health care reform one of the central goals of his administration since he took office as governor in December of 1991, and has seen it through an unsuccessful special session of the General Assembly last year and through intensive debate in the General Assembly before it passed this year.

Although many Kentuckians who have health insurance will not see the effects of the reforms for a while—effects such as lower health care costs—other Kentuckians will feel immediate relief, Jones said.

Highlights of the health care reforms and when they go into effect are as follows:

- * Commonwealth of Kentucky. This program allows any U.S. citizen who has lived in Kentucky at least one year to buy the same health insurance provided to state employees. People with pre-existing conditions or high-risk conditions such as heart disease cannot be turned down, but some plans have a six-month pre-existing condition waiting period.
- The health insurance plans include doctor visits, prescriptions, preventive physical exams, mental health and substance abuse and some dental and vision benefits, as well as specialty care and hospitalization. Individuals with no pre-existing conditions can expect to pay about $200 per month for coverage, while families will pay about $450. "This is not only a first step toward universal coverage for all Kentuckians, but also a huge assist for small employers shouldering heavy health insurance costs," Jones said.

Beginning July 18, information on Commonwealth will be available in every county in the state through the Cabinet for Human Resources local offices. Anyone interested in getting this insurance coverage can call (800) 295-8898. Businesses interested in providing coverage for their employees can call (800) 261-3661.

This provision expires July 15, 1995, when the Health Care Policy Board will have developed up to five different benefit plans to be offered by the new Health Care Purchasing Alliance.

- * Fee Disclosure. The Health Care Reform Act requires licensed health care providers such as doctors and hospitals to post fees in a conspicuous place easily accessible for patients. This provision went into effect July 15.

- * Discount Option Program. This allows low-income Kentuckians to see a doctor who participates in Medicaid or receive other medical services from Medicaid providers, and pay the same rate Medicaid pays. If your income falls somewhere between a family of four who makes less than $29,600, and an individual who makes less than $14,720, you may be eligible for a DOP card.

Beginning Sept. 1, Kentuckians can apply for a DOP card at any Cabinet for Human Resources local office, or they can call the Cabinet for Human Resources Office of the Ombudsman at (800) 372-2973. More information on this program will be available as the implementation date gets closer.

- * KenPAC expansion. KenPAC is a managed care program that requires about 304,000 Medicaid recipients to have a designated primary care doctor. Beginning in October 1994, pending approval from the federal government, KenPAC will be expanded to most Medicaid recipients and include aged, blind and disabled Medicaid recipients.

Any Medicaid recipient with questions about KenPAC can call (800) 820-1225.

- * Medicaid co-payments. The Health Care Reform Act requires some Medicaid recipients to make co-payments for some medical services. Co-payments will be $1-$3. Pregnant women, children under age 18 and recipients living in institutions will not be required to make co-payments, and those required to do so will be notified. This provision will go into effect sometime this fall.

- * Health Policy Board. Jones appointed four of the five members of the Health Policy Board required under the Health Care Reform Act. The members will have to be confirmed by the state Senate, but can begin work before confirmation, Jones said. Duties of the Board include establishing and supervising a health purchasing alliance (which is supposed to lower health care costs) setting up to five standard health insurance benefit plans to be offered by all insurance companies operating in the Commonwealth; collecting health data; collecting information on maximum provider charges for services and prescriptions; developing clinical practice standards for health care providers; and other duties specified under the Act.

then go into executive session to complete the evaluation.

"We will have a lengthy discussion on the superintendent's evaluation," Brackett said. "It is not fair (to do the evaluation) without ample time and fairness," he added in reference to the board adjourning after 11 p.m. Monday.

Brackett said no action will be taken at the July 25 meeting and the results of Towler's evaluation will be made public when it is complete.

In other business Monday:

- Floyd County Education Association president Patty Murphy and teacher Connie Gearheart gave the board a report on the teachers' and administrators' two-day retreat last month. Murphy said the two sides worked well together and came up with several suggestions to improve communications and the working relationship between the two.

- Superintendent Towler announced that school personnel who turn on vending machines in school before lunch is served will "go to jail." An audit of the federally-funded school lunch program showed that vending machine snacks were available to students prior to lunch being served.
- Ina Robinson and Mary Wallen asked the board to reconsider setting up matching fund accounts for high school athletic departments. Board member Patton, who first pitched the idea to the board, brought the issue back to the table, but the motion failed on a 3-2 vote. Chairman Brackett voted in favor of establishing such an account for the 1995-96 school year. Board members Phyllis Honshell, Clark and Dolores Smith voted against it. Patton proposed giving each high school $25,000.

- Floyd County Administrator Association president Pete Grigsby asked the board to re-establish the position of county-wide athletic director. Superintendent Towler suggested that one or two employees be named as district-wide coordinator of all extra-curricular activities. The board approved the request.

- The board awarded a hoisting contract for the Betsy Layne Elementary addition project to Martin Engineering. State officials gave the board the go-ahead to award the contract.

- The board approved raising the price of student lunches to one dollar. That represents an increase of ten cents.

- The board agreed to reschedule the August 15 regular meeting to August 22. That meeting will be at Melvin Elementary.

In Loving Memory of Johnny P. Hall

Johnny Hall, age 91, of Honaker, Kentucky was born June 8, 1903 to John Hall and Helen Johnson Hall. He was a member of the Old Regular Baptist Church for 62 years, Minister for 57 years and Moderator of Little Dove Old Regular Baptist Church for over 50 years. He worked in the coal mines for 31 years and was a merchant for 23 years.

He was preceded in death by three sisters, Virgie Hunter, Love Tackett, and Lillie Williams, as well as six brothers, Joe Hall, Ervin Hall, Press Hall, Jerry Hall, Tack Hall and Lonnie Hall.

He is survived by sisters Laura Yates of Sacramento, California, Effie Pacific of Belfry, Kentucky and Ettie Hunter of Printer, Kentucky. One brother survives, Bert Hall of Printer, Kentucky. Coming from such a large family he experienced many hard times but he learned to make the best of what he had. This is a trait he carried throughout his life.

He married Alice Stewart in 1922. She died in 1939. They had no children.

In 1939 he married Martha Boyd Conn who had six children of her own, Fred Conn, Aaron B. Conn, the late Woodrow Conn, Myrtle Hamilton, Eva Roberts and Alva Reitsma. From this union he gained 12 grandchildren who loved him dearly. He was then blessed with a child of his own, a daughter named Joanna. He loved and cherished her very much. Martha died in 1959.

In April of 1960 Johnny married his surviving wife, Frona Tackett Hamilton, to which he was married 34 beloved years.

She cared for him with an abundance of patience and love. Frona was a good companion to him. Her daughter Mazie Hamilton Tackett cared for him as though he were her own father. Mazie's daughter, Jan Tackett Hunt and her two daughters Rachael and Renee never knew another grandfather other than Johnny.

His daughter, Joanna, married and had two children, Sherry Tackett Kimbler and Ernie Tackett. They enjoyed spending time with him and appreciate the example he set for them to follow.

He has four great-grandchildren, Dale Kimbler, Brad Kimbler, Stacy Kimbler and Coby Tackett.

Everyone who knew Johnny has their own fond memories of him, but when I think of him, his hearty appetite comes to mind. He really enjoyed mealtime, especially when it was shared with friends. I remember the many times when I helped him in his garden. He would let me use the corn planter or lay out seeds in the rows. He also allowed me to shell corn and help put up hay in the barn loft. He would never just allow me to stand and watch. He always found me something to do.

He also taught me many things. Such as how to call the chickens and cows to come and feed, how to cure fresh pork, and how to kill and pluck a fresh chicken. He also taught me that the Bible was important. I knew this, because I watched him read it everyday as I grew up. I realized there must be a lot of good things in it, for him to read it that much.

Johnny Hall was a simple man who led a simple life. He will be sorely missed. I am honored to say he was my grandpaw. I speak for the rest of the family and his many friends when I say we are all proud to have been a part of his life. I would like to share a quote that I heard him use many times when he preached, "Yes, children, God is coming again—He is alive for evermore."

Written with love and respect, by his grandson, Ernie Tackett

Card Of Thanks

The family of Harold "Buck" Young wishes to gratefully acknowledge the thoughtfulness and kindness of friends, relatives and neighbors in the loss of our loved one. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers or spoke comforting words. A very special thanks to the Churches of Christ; preachers, Junior Kidd, Ronnie Samons and Bruce Coleman; all the beautiful songs that Junior and Christopher Kidd, Ethel Hamilton and Shirley McKenny sang. The Sheriff's Department for their assistance in traffic control, and the Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home for their kind and professional services.

ADA MOSLEY PASTOR

In Memory of JIMMY PENIX

Who passed away July 19, 1984

It's been ten years since you've been gone.

A million times we think of you, a million times we've cried,

If love could have saved you, you never would have died.

In life we loved you dearly, in death we love you still, For in our hearts you hold a place that nothing else can fill.

Each and every day that passes, you're always in our hearts,

God only knows how we miss you, but someday we'll never part.

We'll love you forever, Dad, Mom, Mandy, Lonnie & Priscilla

Card Of Thanks

The family of Roxie Ann Halstead would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone for their help in the loss of our loved one: those who sent food and flowers, or just spoke comforting words. We deeply appreciate you all. A special thanks to the Rev. Ted Shannon for his comforting words, the Sheriff's Department for their assistance in traffic control and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service.

THE FAMILY OF ROXIE ANN HALSTEAD

A Very Special Thank-You

Words cannot express our thanks to all those who helped upon the passing of our loving Dad, Arnold Eugene Tackett. Special thanks to all who sent flowers, food, and visited with kind words. We would especially like to thank the Old Regular Baptist ministers and all the members of the church for their comforting words, and being there for us during our time of need. Thanks to Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home for their kindness and professional services.

Seventh-day Adventists Believe . . .

By baptism we confess our faith in the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ, and testify of our death to sin and of our purpose to walk in newness of life. Thus we acknowledge Christ as Lord and Saviour, become His people, and are received as members by His church. Baptism is a symbol of our union with Christ, the forgiveness of our sins, and our reception of the Holy Spirit. It is by immersion in water and is contingent on an affirmation of faith in Jesus and evidence of repentance of sin. It follows instruction in the Holy Scriptures and acceptance of their teachings.—Fundamental Beliefs, 14.

MSU Big Sandy Campus plans registration and orientation dates

Morehead State University will host a Summer Orientation, Advising and Registration (SOAR) program at the MSU-Big Sandy Extended Campus Center on Thursday, July 21, for prospective students.

University representatives will be at the Center from 1 until 6 p.m. to answer questions about MSU's academic programs, financial aid and student housing. Registrations for fall also will be processed.

"We are providing services to students in our service region," said Charles Myers, MSU director of admissions. "On this day, graduate and undergraduate students may register for classes to be held on campus or at one of the off-campus locations."

Advisers from all academic areas will be available to assist students in their scheduling needs, Myers noted. "After deciding what classes they wish to take, students may complete the total registration process, including paying their fees and having an I.D. card made," he said.

Those who wish to attend the SOAR program should register with MSU's Office of Admissions or the extended campus center by Friday, July 15, so that adequate materials will be available. To complete the registration process, students will need to pay a $50 deposit fee which will be credited to their bill for the fall semester.

"If you are thinking about transferring to MSU or would just like some information about the University, we are making this opportunity available to you," Myers said. The agenda will be a "drop by" anytime occasion and no appointments will be necessary, he added. Students currently registered for fall classes will not be able to complete the drop/add process at this time.

Additional information is available by calling MSU's Office of Admissions at (606) 783-2000 or locally at (606) 886-2405 or toll free at 1-800-648-5372.

Harris wins late model feature at Thunder Ridge

Ison takes second in bomber division

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Nearly 7,000 racing fans jammed the Thunder Ridge facilities Saturday night as the first stock car races took place at the multi-million dollar facility.

There was a shortage of seats, parking spaces and almost food as cars streamed into the parking lot.

As fans arrived for the inaugural event, they found the track still being worked on but just being able to get in and finding a place to sit satisfied the die-hard fans.

The pit area was crowded as some fans wanted a closer look.

Veteran racer Paul Harris of Martin carved his name into the record books as he captured the inaugural Super Late Model feature race after battling long time foe Paul Davis of Martin County. The 25 lap feature was worth $3,500 to the Martin driver.

Another Martin native, Greg Ison, took second place in the bomber division after winning the pole position in the qualifying heat over Gary Combs.

Ison took the early lead in the race but when he ran in the dirt the lead exchanged hands with just six laps to go as Combs pulled in the lead.

"I went off on the dirt and he went under me," said Ison. "I did him the same way in the heat race. He got out of the groove and I got under him. But it was the opposite here (in the feature)."

Ison said that he was surprised at the condition of the new track.

"It was much better than what I expected," he said. "They will have a very nice place here when they get it all worked out."

The bomber division driver said it is just what Floyd County needed.

"I would have never believed this kind of racing would have come to Eastern Kentucky and Floyd County," he said. "But it's here and that's what I like to see."

Paul Davis drove deep into turn one as the green flag waved on the first ever Late Model feature at Thunder Ridge. Davis wrestled the lead away from Harris in turn one.

Harris pulled to the bumper of

Davis and the race was on as the battle began that would keep the fans standing.

After other attempts to pass Davis failed, Harris, on a daring move in lap 14, pulled ahead of Davis. Four laps later, Davis reclaimed the lead over Harris.

The dogfight between the two continued until a series of cautions slowed the field on lap 24. The momentary halt in action forced Davis, who was nursing a cut tire, to hand over the top spot as he went to the pits for repairs.

Davis rejoined the field at the tail end, Harris found a challenge from Larry Collins and Donald Runyon but held off the charge and scored the victory. Davis rejoined the ranks to finish fourth.

Harris won his sixth race in eight attempts this season, and Tony Halbert (crew chief) said that Harris was leading in the sixth race until something happened.

"We won our first five races at Perry County. In the sixth race Paul was leading through the first 32 laps of the race. We broke a pin shaft in the rear-in and was finished. It was a disappointing loss.

Halbert said the only other race that Harris did not win was at Salyersville, where he placed second.

"It's great," said Harris of winning the first late model feature at Thunder Ridge. "I won a race at Isom that paid $10,000 and this one just paid $3,500 but it feels just as good to win this one as the one in Isom.

"I'm from Prestonsburg, my home town, and it was a great win for us," he said.

Harris had taken the lead over Davis until the Martin County driver bumped Harris' car and took over the lead.

"He lofted a little bit there and I got around him," explained Harris. "Then he came back up and tapped me a little bit and got me upset. He got back around in front of me and I don't think I would have got back around him without that tire going out on him. There just wasn't enough laps left to overtake him."

Davis had to leave the track and go to the pit area. He returned to the race but later was forced to leave the track again.

Harris said that his car performed very well, but that was not unusual.

"It ran the same all night," he said. "But it's always a good performance. It may falter one out every 50 races. Tony (Halbert) does a great job of keeping the car in shape."

Harris said that he and his crew would rest Sunday and begin preparations for this coming Saturday night.

"Tony will wash the car on Monday and then look at the parts we need. We'll get them ordered, down here you have to order everything, and put it back together Thursday," said Harris.

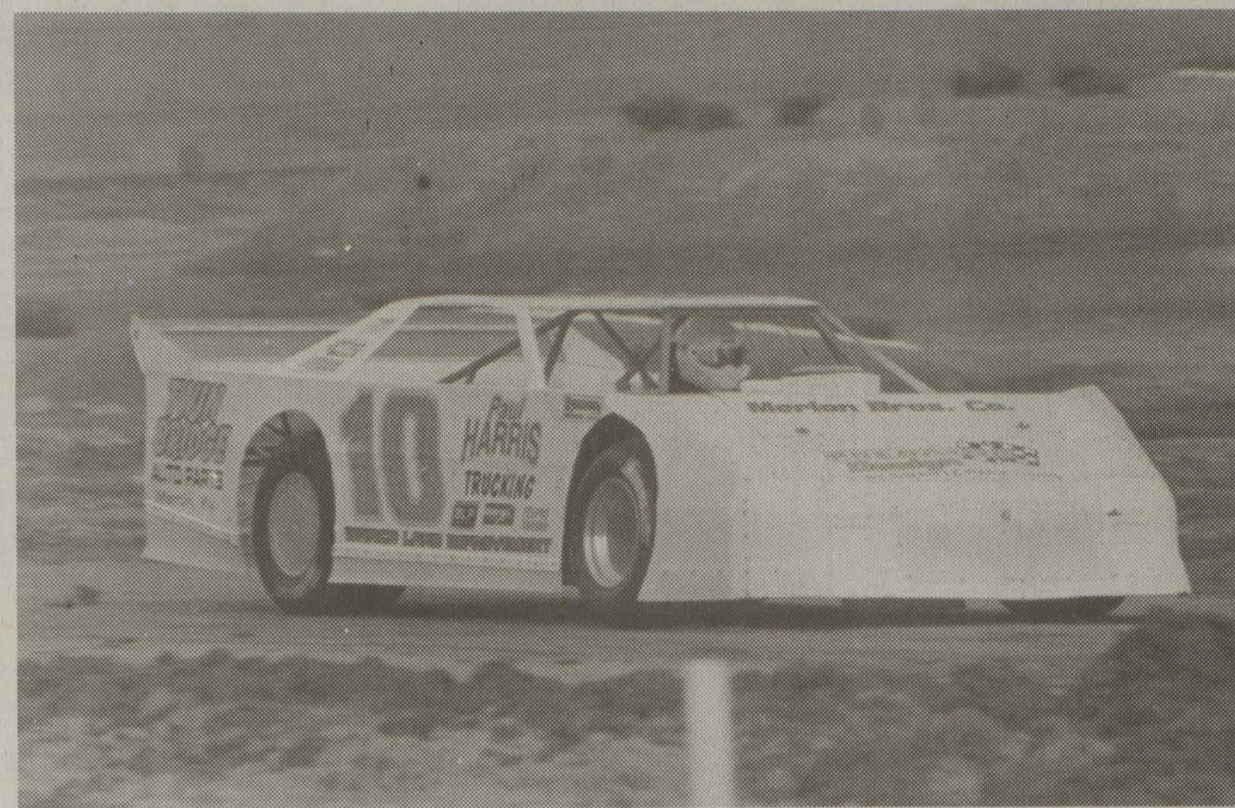

Kurt Hoffses, Leburn, appeared to be on his way to the feature victory in the United Midwestern Promoters (UMP) Open Wheel Modified feature, until he had to jump track to avoid a collision with a spinning lapped car.

Hoffses went off the number three turn and round the outside of the track and tried to return to the race. Although it appeared that Hoffses would be able to retain the lead, suspension problems from the crash brought his night to an abrupt end.

With Hoffses out, that opened the door for Anthony Adams, who hugged the bottom of the track to take over the lead on lap seven.

The final eight laps held off challenges from the field to win the modified division. Adams collected $1,000 for his victory.

Racing resumes at Thunder Ridge this Saturday night with the UMP Modified, Late Model and Bomber divisions.

Victorious at Thunder Ridge!

Martin's Paul Harris drove his number 10 car to victory this past Saturday night winning the first Super Late Model feature race at Thunder Ridge and taking home the $3,500 prize money. Harris has been racing since 1980. Paul Harris of Martin stands beside his Late Model entry race car just before he took to the track at the new Thunder Ridge Raceway. Harris began his racing career at the old Martin track where he used to drive the water truck. His father was an avid race car driver. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Floyd County All-Stars hold off Carr Fork for championship

by Ed Taylor

Floyd County's all-star pitcher, Brandon Castle, struck again. For the second consecutive game he struck out 17 batters to help lead his team to a 7-6 win over Carr Fork and thus claim the championship of the Babe Ruth 15-year-old Baseball Tournament held at the Stumbo Park this past weekend.

Wesley Collins hammered a solo home run in the fourth inning for the local all-star team and received the sportsmanship award. Castle was chosen as the tournament's Most Valued Player.

Castle fanned 17 batters the first time his team faced Carr Fork in the opening round.

But despite the excellent pitching of Castle, Floyd County had to hold off a late seventh inning rally by the Knott County team to secure the win.

Floyd led 7-3 entering the bottom of the seventh when Carr Fork pushed across three runs, leaving the tying run stranded at second base.

Carr Fork led 1-0 after the second inning when Todd Stumbo singled, stole second and third before scoring on a wild pitch.

Floyd County forged in front with a five-run third. Joe Brewer hit Donnie Owens leading off the inning. Collins singled and Brad Kidd sent Owens home with a base hit. Castle then doubled in two runs and scored on Brandon Hicks' base hit. Hicks scored the fifth run on Steven Hamilton's two-out double.

Collins' home run in the fourth made it a 6-1 game and Floyd County extended the lead to 7-1 with a lone run in the fifth.

Carr Fork plated two runs in the sixth against Castle to pull to within four runs, 7-3. Ricky Moberly scored along with Corey Hall.

"We hit the ball very well," said Floyd County coach Tom Holbrook. "We had some throwing errors late in the game that allowed them to score. But this is a good hitting ballclub. It's the best one that I have ever coached."

That was quite a statement from Coach Holbrook as it is basically the same team he coached as all-stars when they were 13 and 14-year-olds.

This year's team made Babe Ruth history by winning the tournament when they were 13, 14 and 15-year-old all-stars. Coach Holbrook was the coach all three years.

"I just kept moving up with them," he said.

Crisp's three-hits lead Prestonsburg past Neon 11-5 in District All-Star Tournament

Grant Castle scattered seven Fleming-Neon hits and Seth Crisp collected three hits as the Prestonsburg Senior League 13-year-old All-Stars posted an 11-5 win over Fleming-Neon in the District All-Star Tournament at Pikeville Sunday evening.

Fleming-Neon came out of its Area Tournament without a defeat and must lose twice. Prestonsburg brought its one loss with them.

Castle went the distance for Prestonsburg, allowing five runs on seven hits. He struck out three and walked two batters.

Crisp was perfect at the plate after grounding to short to start the game. He doubled in the third and again in the seventh while singling in the fifth.

Jesse Compton didn't have a chance to hit as he walked all five times that he batted.

Neon led 1-0 after the first inning on J.D. Duty's RBI double. Prestonsburg took the lead with four runs in the third as it sent ten batters to the plate.

Castle started the rally with a lead off single and Crisp doubled behind him. Compton walked to load the bases before Nathan Leslie reached on a catcher's error that permitted Castle to score and tie the game.

With one out, Jon May walked to reload the bases and Dustin Crisp lined a base hit to score two runs.

Prestonsburg extended the lead to 5-1 with a lone run in the fourth inning. Crisp, who walked, stole second and scored on a ground out.

Neon pushed home two runs in the fourth to make it a 5-3 game. It had runners at first and second but Castle got Bevins to ground to second and Sexton to bounce back to the mound.

A four run fifth for Prestonsburg put the game in the win column as Neon could not generate any offense against Castle over the final two innings.

Floyd wins twice to advance to finals

The Floyd County Babe Ruth 14-year-old All-Stars took two steps forward to a tournament championship with one step to go.

Floyd County posted an 18-13 win over Carr Fork in game one and then edged Johnson County 7-4 in the second game Sunday afternoon.

Craig Johnson picked up the win for Floyd County in the first game with a route going outing. He allowed all 13 runs while giving up six hits.

Shannon Potter swung the hot bat for Floyd, collecting four hits. He singled in the first three innings, getting two hits in the eighth run third.

Both teams stayed close by scoring three times in the first and five times in the second to be tied at eight after two.

Floyd County sent 12 batters to the plate in the third inning while scoring eight times to lead 16-8. Brad Reynolds had a two-run double in the inning. Potter had two RBIs in the frame.

Carr Fork came back with three in its half of the third for a 16-11 game. Floyd extended its lead to 18-11 by plating two runs in the top of the fourth inning.

Dustin Everage started for Carr Fork and was the losing pitcher. He allowed 18 runs on eight hits. Daniel Bruce French pitched the final three innings and did not allow a run or a hit.

Both teams stayed close by scoring three times in the first and five times in the second...

In the second game Sunday, Floyd County defeated a good Johnson County team 7-4 behind the pitching of Chad Case. Case went the distance for the win and allowed four runs on five hits.

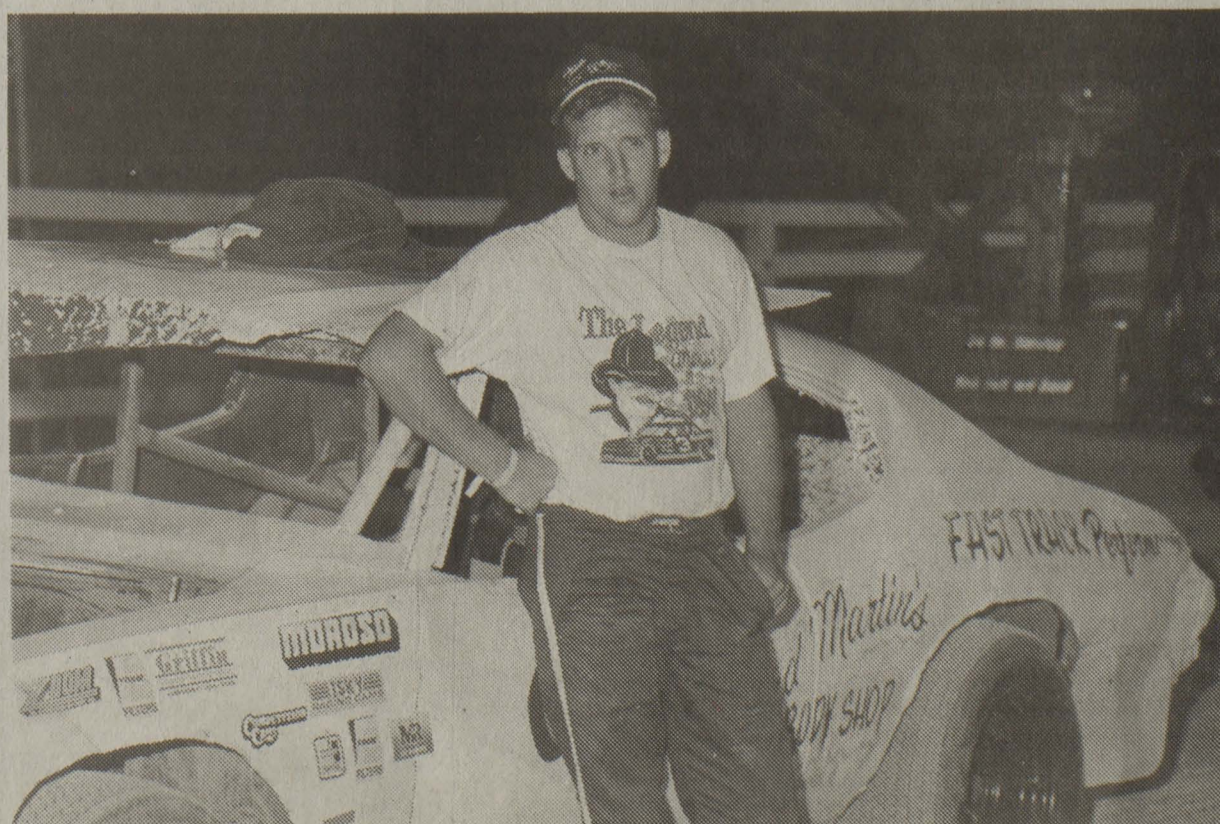

Johnson County took a 3-2 lead after the first inning. Floyd scored a single run in the second to tie the game at three and pushed across four in the fourth to lead 7-3.

Case gave up a sixth inning run to Johnson County to make it a 7-4 score. Case had two of Floyd County's eight hits.

Blake Skeens suffered the loss for Johnson County while going the full seven innings. He allowed seven runs on eight hits. He struck out five and walked four.

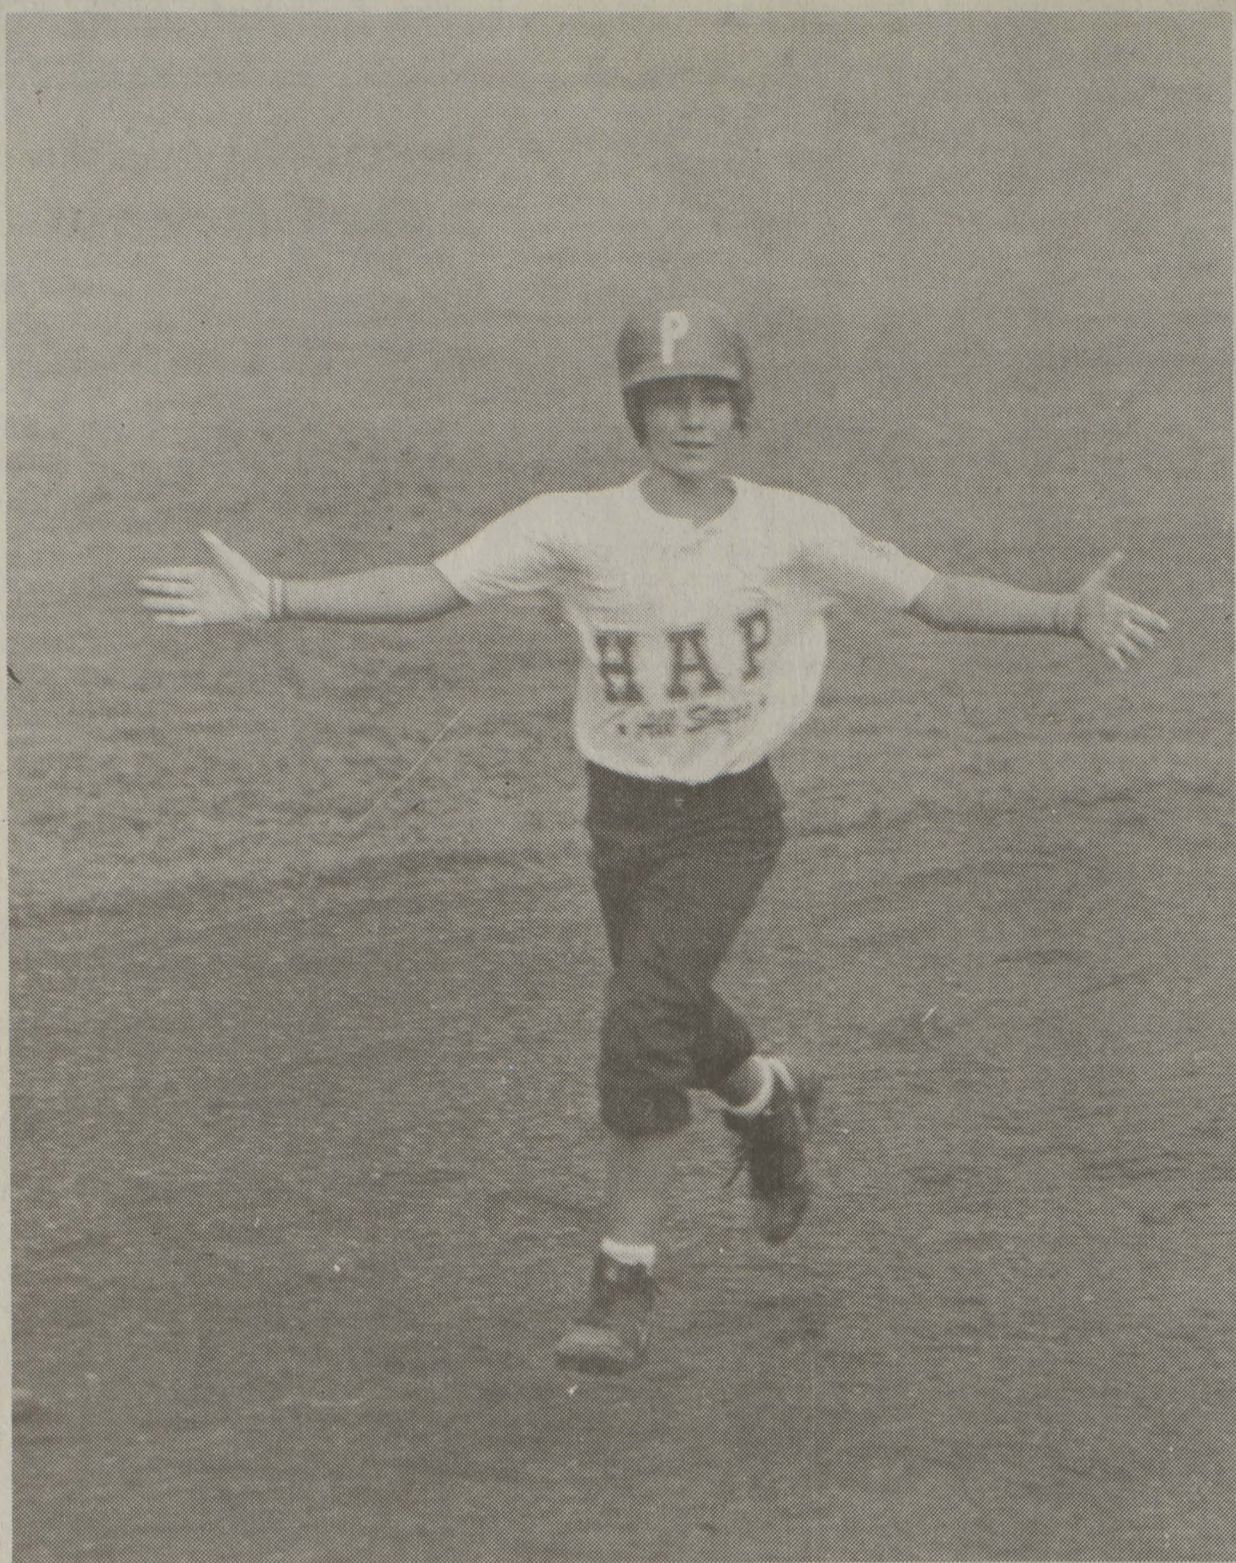

drew two out walks in the fifth and Castle was hit-by-a-pitch to load the bases. Crisp worked his way on with a walk that forced in Harris. Compton walked for the third time in the game, scoring Bentley.

Hall singled and scored in the sixth for Prestonsburg and Crisp, who doubled, scored in the seventh on Leslie's two-bagger.

Paintsville rolls in 17-0 win over HAP

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Any Little League all-star coach will tell you that once you reach the losers bracket of a double elimination tournament, that you had better have more than two pitchers.

Coach Randy Kidd, Harold-Allen-Prater All-Stars, ran out of pitchers when his team had to face a very strong Paintsville team in the championship game of the Area 2 Little League All-Star Tournament at Paintsville Saturday afternoon.

HAP took its lone loss into the finals in hope of pulling off an upset of the favored Paintsville squad. But David Stambaugh was a little too much and the three pitchers that Coach Kidd used was not enough as Paintsville rolled 17-0.

Paintsville defeated Area I winner Fleming Neon Monday in Pikeville to give Neon one loss and to move a step closer to the state tournament.

Bradley Brooks started for HAP on the mound and worked an inning and two-thirds before giving way to Josh Kidd. Brooks allowed five runs on four hits. Kidd went two and a third innings, giving up seven runs on seven hits. Anthony Tackett finished the fifth inning and gave up five runs on six hits.

With Paintsville holding a 5-0 lead in the third, Josh Cochran put the game at a further distance when he drilled a grand slam home run to make it 9-0.

Stambaugh was in complete control as he issued only two walks in the game and allowed HAP only two hits. He struck out nine batters.

Jonathan Howell had a first inning single for HAP and Aaron Swiger doubled in the second inning.

Josh Banks collected three hits for Paintsville and had two runs batted in. Cochran had two hits and four RBIs.

Paintsville led 1-0 after the first inning and extended the lead to 5-0 in the second. Three HAP errors opened the door for Paintsville.

Cochran's grand slam came off Kidd, who had retired the first batter in the inning. He walked Stambaugh with one out and Aaron Davis singled. T.C. Williams grounded to short to force Stambaugh at third. Mitchell Grim singled to load the bases and then Cochran went to straight away center field for the home run.

HAP defeats Prestonsburg
HAP found themselves down 3-0 to Prestonsburg in the second inning Friday night when the game was called because of rain.

The game resumed at noon on Saturday and Prestonsburg added two more runs in the second for a 5-0 score.

But HAP wasn't ready to say "uncle" and hit Prestonsburg with a seven run second for a 7-5 lead. The big blow in the second for HAP was Jonathan Howell's grand slam home run off the scoreboard in center field.

Scott Collins started for HAP and ran into the second inning difficulty before Howell came on in relief. Howell went the final five innings in earning the win.

George Hall started for Prestonsburg and suffered the loss working two and two-thirds of an inning. Gabriel Shepherd worked the final two and a third innings. Shepherd held HAP to a run during his stint.

Chris Prater walked with the bases loaded in the first inning to force home Neil Fannin for a 1-0 Prestonsburg lead. Hank Mullins, Prater and John Dixon had RBIs in the second inning as Prestonsburg scored four times. Robbie Holbrook had an infield base hit and Dixon singled home a run.

Bradley Brooks opened the HAP second with a single and Anthony Tackett walked with one out. Fred Gray and Josh Howell were safe on consecutive errors on the Prestonsburg defense.

Josh Kidd roped a single to center field and Justin Bartley reached on a pitchers error to load the bases. The first pitch to Howell was deposited over the wall for a grand slam home run.

HAP added four more runs in the third for an 11-5 game. Kidd doubled home a run in the inning. Brooks also had a two-bagger and Bill Josh Kidd singled.

Howell picked up the win in five innings of work. He allowed just one run on six hits.

Prestonsburg stranded 11 runners on base, leaving the bases loaded in the first and second innings. Prestonsburg committed four errors in the game.

HAP left six runners on base and played errorless baseball.

Kidd finished with three hits for HAP. He collected two RBIs. Brooks also had a three hit night with a third inning double.

SMILIN' C.M. IT'S JULY AND UK-UOFL FOOTBALL IS IN THE AIR

"I don't care what they say about me as long as they're saying something." —Adolph Rupp (paraphrased)

It is July and basketball camps, uh, festivals, are swinging.

But C.M. Newton is smiling too. Even as the vicar of the University of Kentucky (apologies to Charles Wethington)—was taking one for State U. last week, reproving that Uncle Adolph's theorem still works.

Two months ago Kentucky football was in the news when a Louisville television station reported it would air the UK-UofL football game. When the deal fell through it was news again.

A month later, June 13, Newton sat in his office (under a large portrait of Rupp), and pondered the pitfalls of pay-per-view. "A decision has not been made yet, but philosophically, I don't like the pay-per-view idea," he said quietly. "I just don't think it plays well in our state."

Another story.

A man with canny instincts befitting one in his salary range, Newton knows that PPP profits weigh puny against the devotions of town and community loyalists. Hurler's Huddle families from Hazel Green and Lily are more than myth and contrived humor. They represent the incredibly lasting support for UK sports well after the money is spent and student body no-shows abandon the Cats to the Vols.

So, with no networks calling, Newton decided he would serve first those who buy season tickets (and pay $18 a ticket, $12 for end zone).

Second, in the absence of a Nirvana arrangement—statewide telecast on KET, free!—UK's AD would 'take one for State U.' He announced last week, there will be no live television and the reaction was predictable.

A Louisville TV rights vendor warned that Newton would rue the day. And, C.M. received a Singapore lashing from a righteous metro columnist unhappy with the decision because of the deadline pressure an evening kickoff would impose on (some) media-types.

Yet, Rupp's theory, that rhetoric in print, hot or not, is better than no rhetoric, was working.

Newton explained, "We tried the 8 o'clock kickoff for a couple of years to accommodate WHAS. We asked Louisville to consider moving up an hour so we could kick off at seven and that was not agreeable to them and I can understand that. But for our fans—with the guy in Madisonville and our fans in northern Kentucky to get home at a reasonable time—we decided to forget WHAS and concentrate on accommodating our fans."

"The 7 o'clock start the last two years has been great, a perfect time. People can still go to Keeneland, go to the game and get home at a decent hour."

"What I hear the Louisville TV people saying is let us service our people in Louisville, but that doesn't help us in terms of servicing our fans in Ashland."

So, Newton returned to Option I, pass on pay-per-view and accommodate season ticket holders and ticket buyers first, and sun himself in the good news, "This game is going to be just like the basketball game. Only difference is you're going to have 58,000 seeing it rather than 24,000 or 19,000 (in Freedom Hall). And it will be (available on) tape delayed (television)."

But there is one more difference. It is July and a September college football game's kickoff time and TV rights were being fussed over.

Next. This week, flanked by Bill Curry and Howard Schnellenberger, Newton showed up at a swanky Lexington hotel for a Monday midday press conference where a series logo and series merchandise were introduced to the media.

"It's time to start marketing the game," a UK spokesman said beforehand. "And the (series) trophy is really impressive as well."

Then the coaches talked football ... in July.

Postscript: I have this hunch.

September 2, 1995, scheduled kickoff for Game II in the UK-Louisville series. The game will be history already, having been moved back to Thursday night, Aug. 31, and played before a coast-to-coast audience on ESPN.

We will see. Meantime, C.M. is smiling and Adolph is right ... again.

UK WILDCATS' FUTURE IN MEM. COLISEUM?

C.M. Newton has long been unhappy with the University's lease arrangement with the Lexington Center's governing board for playing home games in Rupp Arena.

"Without a lot of hoopla and fa-fare, I want to continue to look at what point in time it would be feasible for the University to have its own on-campus basketball facility," Newton told Sports In Ky.. "It may be 30 years from now, but it's been 18 down there (Rupp Arena) and that's a long time."

"We've got to renegotiate a new lease. The current one is not favorable from our standpoint."

"Even with that aside, if you could build a coliseum and pay for it, like North Carolina did, then ... somebody is going to have to look at that. It might not happen in my time."

Memorial Coliseum? "It's not crazy to think you couldn't come in here and take the roof off this thing, expand it out and have a pretty nice place."

"I don't know if it could be done architecturally or not, but at least it ought to be looked at."

There isn't enough parking around the Coliseum.

"Is there any place to park at Rupp Arena? There's as much parking here at night as there are down there."

"This is the greatest place in the world to play basketball."

A YOUNG MAN'S DREAM

A letter came a few weeks ago from a University of Louisville football player. Stephen Grether is a walk-on.

A Trinity High graduate (and lifelong UK fan), Grether was not willing to give up his 'play college ball' dream after high school. Sound familiar?

"At one point I thought football was over for me after graduating Trinity and not being recruited," he wrote. "But I just believed I could compete against some of these guys playing Div. I football and I had to give it a try."

Knowing the odds and expecting the worst, the 6-0, 250-pounder decided to walk on at UofL.

"I thought I would be looked down upon. That's what you expect, but it didn't happen. They gave me a chance. I couldn't feel more comfortable," Grether said following spring practice where he saw combat at defensive end. "I love this place and I really feel at home. I'm going to school (pre-engineering). Whatever happens from here, it's been a dream."

Grether's goal? "I'm going to work hard at convincing the coaches that sometimes a big heart can mean more than just having a big body."

Stay tuned. There's this movie. Rudy.

'1-A' SPEEDY KNOWS WHAT'S AT STAKE

"This is the start of a special rivalry alright," UK's 1A quarterback Jeff Speedy said recently of the UK-Louisville game Sept. 3. "Great for the fans, but naturally we want to start this series off right."

Speedy, who goes into fall practice listed co-No. 1 quarterback with Antonio O'Ferral, added a familiar refrain for Kentucky fans, "Of course we want to get our season off to a good start anyway because with a schedule like we've got we're going to have to come out swinging from the opening bell."

And keep on swinging. After UofL, Kentucky plays (at) Florida ... Indiana ... South Carolina ... (at) Auburn.

PARTING SHOT

Has the popularity of the UK-UofL basketball series cooled off?

"Not at all," C.M. Newton says.

"It's as popular as ever. There is not some of the bad animosity there once was. You just don't have the craziness you once had which is healthy. But interest in that game is as high as it's ever been."

"That's the way we want the football series to be."

And so it goes.

Mariners give Ratliff look see...

Prestonsburg's Thomas Ratliff was so impressive in the past Kentucky All-Star baseball game that he received an invitation to attend a Seattle Mariners tryout camp in Versailles.

Ratliff received a letter from the professional club which said they were impressed with his abilities and asked him to attend the camp.

Allen Central cross-country...

Allen Central cross-country coach Dewey Jamerson is asking all Allen Central athletes who are interested in participating in cross-country to stop by the school's office and pick up their forms for physicals.

The forms may be picked up between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Practice will start on August 6 and both the forms and a copy of insurance must be turned in at that time.

Wheelwright Senior Games big success

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Just wanting to do something for the Senior Citizens inspired Mayor David Samons of Wheelwright to form the first annual Wheelwright Senior Citizens Games.

"I talked with Loir Curry (Wheelwright Center Director) and told her that I wanted to do something for the senior citizens," said Samons. "Months ago we began to talk about it."

Mayor Samons said that workers from the nearby prison helped in the clean up of the park area and the games themselves.

"They have been a big help to us here," he said of the prisoners. "About seven are here helping run the games."

"We're hoping that next year we can make it bigger and better. We want to have more games," he said.

The games were held this past Friday at the Wheelwright Park (next to the swimming pool) and all six Senior Citizens Centers were represented at the event.

"This is something we hope to make an annual event here in Wheelwright," said Mayor Samons. "We just need to figure out how to run the games."

The games went off smoothly and everyone seemed to enjoy the day. Contestants competed in softball, basketball, football, horseshoes, water relays and the very popular hog calling contest.

Trophies for the day's events were donated by various businesses in Wheelwright and the city provided the food of hotdogs, chips, soft drinks and good cold watermelon.

Approximately 200 senior citizens took part in the games. The oldest competitor was William Wilson of the Prestonsburg Center.

"I'm saving all my money and I'm looking for me a woman," said the 93-year-old senior citizen. "When we get married then we'll go to Wal-Mart and spend it."

Gertrude Lawson of the Wheelwright Center took her horseshoe pitching seriously. She aimed the shoe and threw a ringer her first time.

"I've never played horseshoes before," she confessed. "It's the first time since I was a little girl. I like the way they have fixed the park up here."

It's nice."

Lloyd Harless, 80-years-old, of the Prestonsburg Center, is a veteran games competitor.

"I won seven gold medals in the Big Sandy Games (back in May)," he said. "I think they should break these games down in age groups like they do there. When you get 80-years-old, you can't compete against the younger ones."

"Things like this are great to have," said Patsy Evans, director of the Prestonsburg Center. "I've been doing it for 17 years and it is just as good for me as it is for them."

Evans said that her center would be the location for the Health Fair this year which will be held on September 15.

"We have about 20 plus professional people come in and hold the fair," she said.

Plans have been made to take 12 winners in the Big Sandy Games to Elizabethtown for the state games on September 22.

"I think the more you have for them the better it is for the senior citizens," said Evans.

Floyd County Jailor Roger Webb was in attendance and presented a plaque to the Wheelwright Center for its "hard work in community improvements."

Mayor Samons indicated that money had been appropriated for the opening of the city's swimming pool for next season.

"We're sandblasting it now," he said. "Hopefully we can have it open for next summer."

The weather was cool for the games and the rain stayed away.

The relay race drew a large group as two heats had to be held. The top three in each heat then competed for the top three trophies.

On hand to check blood pressures and give cholesterol checks were members of the McDowell Regional Hospital.

"We have a first aid station set up here in case someone gets hurt," said Frank Goines, purchasing coordinator for the hospital. "We're here checking blood pressures and cholesterol. It's just all volunteer work through the hospital."

"Something like this is great," said

Goines. "It's great for all the community and everyone involved in it."

Many volunteers were on hand to cater to those from the centers. One was Marsha Johnson.

"I'm here with the Wheelwright group," she said. "I just help them with their drinks. I carry the drinks to those who can't come up here and get them."

Johnson said that she enjoyed working with the centers and that it helps the younger generation in communicating with the older ones.

"A lot of them can't do for themselves," she said. "By working with them, you get to know how they are and you learn by working around them."

It was a busy day at the Wheelwright Park and the way things went Friday, you can look for the games to return next year. Other centers are thinking about picking up on the idea.

Four man scramble to be held at Allen course

A four man golf scramble will be held at the Beaver Valley Golf Course, Stumbo Park, on August 12.

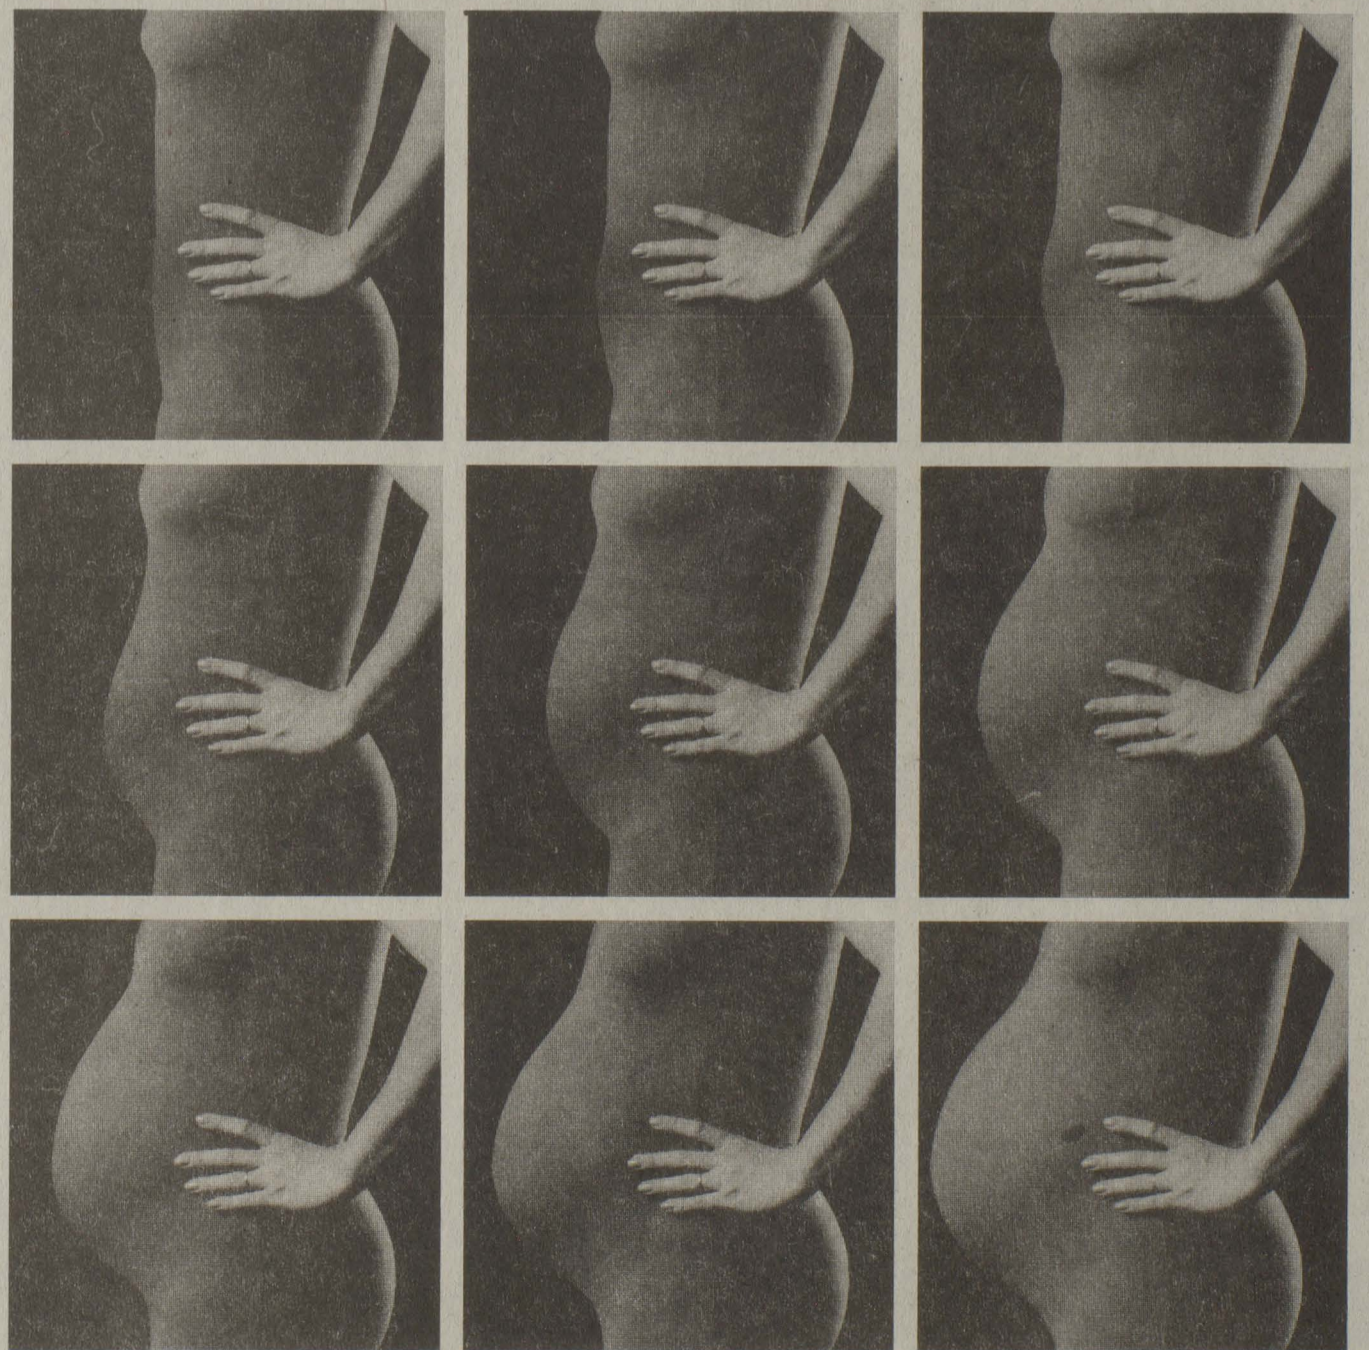

Proceeds from the tournament go to provide funds for the Allen Central baseball park.

Registration must be in by July 29. Entry fee is $25 per golfer with four players to a team. A,B,C,D players will be drawn.

The first place team will share 30 percent of jackpot and the second place finishers will share 20 percent of jackpot.

Golfers may sign up at the course's pro shop or they may contact Birchell Duff at 358-4564.

Our new suites are so popular, it takes nine months just to get in.

We're expecting our new maternity suites to attract quite a crowd to King's Daughters'. In fact, people start preparing almost a year in advance for a stay here.

You see, when we designed our maternity suites, we wanted them to be as close to a homelike environment as possible. In other words, warm, comfortable and relaxing. So instead of moving you to three different hospital rooms for each stage of the birthing process, we made sure you could remain in the same room during labor, delivery and recovery. With an attentive staff of physicians and nurses to care for you. And no one else to disturb your privacy. In each new suite, the latest in birthing equipment and technology is tucked discreetly behind cabinet doors.

And we've even included lots of little touches. Like tasteful interior decorating. And overnight accommodations for your spouse or support person.

If you're expecting and would like to see our new maternity suites, or if you'd like more information, call (606) 327-4546. We think you'll find them very much worth the wait.

Huntington shuts down Paintsville in tournament play

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Paintsville Big League baseball team went 2-1 in its second tournament of the season and advanced to the finals of the event where it faced a good Huntington team.

The Paintsville team ran into a buzz saw as the Huntington bats rained hit after hit in an 11-0 shutout of the local team.

It was a gutsy performance for Brent Hamilton, who allowed 11 runs on nine hits. Paintsville collected seven hits with the base hits being shared between Barry Collins, Brent Adams, Chad Webb and Todd Tackett.

Paintsville was guilty of committing four errors in the game, which is very uncharacteristic of this team.

Paintsville posted a 13-2 win over Cattlesburg in the opening game that went only five innings. J.R. Melvin hurled five strong innings allowing only two runs on three hits. He fanned five and walked three.

The third inning was a big one for Paintsville as it pushed home nine runs to put the game away. Brent Hamilton had two hits in the game. Paintsville had eight stolen bases.

In the second tournament game,

Paintsville got past Morehead 6-3 to assure itself a spot in the tournament finals. Allen Central's Austin Shelton went the first six innings in picking up the win. Former Betsy Layne standout Barry Collins hurled the final inning.

Shelton struck out nine batters, allowing only three hits. He walked five. Collins was perfect in his inning of work. Mark Shortridge had the game winning hit with the bases loaded.

Paintsville hooked up with Huntington in game three and fell 5-1 despite a strong pitching performance by Jimmy Wayne Frazier. Frazier went the distance for Paintsville scattering five hits. Chris Bowlin had a solo home run to account for Paintsville's lone run and Mark Shortridge added two hits.

Coaches Paul David Brown and Johnnie LeMaster will now ready their team for next week's state tournament which will be hosted by Paintsville this year at the Charlie Adkins Field at the Paintsville Park.

Paintsville (21-14) is the defending state tournament champion, a title it also won in 1991.

Both coaches feel that their team has an excellent chance of repeating this year.

A home run hitting contest will be held with each team having a representative as well as a group of local celebrities joining in. In addition, there will be several prizes given away including Cincinnati Reds tickets.

Coaches Brown and LeMaster urge all area fans to come out and support the Paintsville Big League team which includes players from Floyd County as well.

Carrizo 11-110

Associated Designs-Eugene, Oregon

The Carrizo's Mediterranean style red-tiled roof and white stucco exterior brings images of sun and warmth to mind on even the coldest of winter days.

Corner window bays, accented by elevated columns, add an extra dash of spice to the home's Moroccan flavor. Identical columns in the Carrizo's interior support elegant arches that mark the entrances to the living room, family room and eating nook.

Arched, multi-paned windows in the entryway, study and living room add graceful lines to the exterior, while creating drama when viewed from within. The effect is most striking in the living room, which boasts a lofty 11-foot ceiling, a see-through fireplace, and arched entryways on two sides. (Nine foot ceilings throughout the rest of the Carrizo are a foot higher than the norm.)

The eating nook is on the other side of the fireplace. This combination of hearth, eating nook and kitchen serves as a magnet for family life, drawing everyone together at the beginning and end of each day. The range top is built into an angled counter extension, allowing cooks to converse with people in the nook as they work.

Amenities in the sumptuous master suite include a walk-in closet, spa, and twin vanities. The guest bathroom has a separately-enclosed water closet, allowing two people to use the bathroom at once.

The Carrizo is a single-level home, an attractive feature for individuals with impaired mobility.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $15 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, Ore. 97402. Please specify the Carrizo 11-010 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 150 home plans is available for $12. For more information call (800) 634-0123.

Everything is changing. People are taking the comedians seriously and the politicians as a joke.

Happy 18th Birthday "Bubby"

Love,
Beth

Cloudy days usually make bass more aggressive. Bright, sunny days may be great for suntanning, but cloudy, overcast days are better for fishing.

"Cloud cover seems to make bass much more aggressive," says Ron Shuffield of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff. "The bass move around a lot more and aren't nearly as spooky. In short, cloud cover makes them easier to catch."

When the sun is bright, says Shuffield, bass stay much tighter to cover and generally hold a little deeper on that cover, making lure presentation critical.

With cloud cover, the fish often suspend above the cover and readily come to the surface to hit lures. Other bass may be roaming and actually chase lures.

"That's why spinner baits and big, noisy topwater lures are such effective lures on cloudy days," Shuffield points out. "These are lures that produce a lot of noise and commotion, and bass respond actively."

"On bright, sunny days, the bass do not respond nearly as well so you have to finesse them with plastic worms and jigs, slowing down your retrieve and usually making several casts to the same target."

"When bass are aggressive, you can fish aggressively, using fast retrieves and simply trying to cover as much water as possible. Because some of the bass are moving, you actually have a much better chance for a strike."

What's really interesting, says the Johnson pro, is how quickly bass change their posture when skies become cloudy.

"Sometimes it's almost like someone flipped a switch," he says. "The bass quickly change positions and become more active."

"I've noticed the difference on days when the sky is filled with big, patchy clouds. When the sun is bright, the action slows, but let some big clouds shade the water a few minutes and the fish start biting."

"You can even see how bright light affects bass behavior in an aquarium," Shuffield continues. "In a large tank where the bass can swim freely in and out of cover, the fish will always be more active when the lights are turned off."

"When you turn the lights on, however, you can watch the fish swim toward the cover and stay there."

"Once you've actually seen this, it's easy to visualize it happening out on the lake when you're fishing. I always hope for cloudy days when I'm fishing."

NEVER-GIVE-UP-ATTITUDE ESSENTIAL IN PROFESSIONAL FISHING
Professional angler Mickey Bruce of Buford, Georgia, has always kept a never-give-up attitude when he's bass fishing, and recently he proved just how important such feelings can be.

Bruce, a veteran tournament competitor and a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff, weighed in an incredible 83 pounds, 12 ounces of bass during a tournament on Georgia's Lake Seminole, but his catching time was far shorter than his fishing time.

"On the first afternoon of competition, I only had one fish at 2:30 p.m.," he explained. "I only had 30 minutes left before the weigh-in when I found a school of bass, and then I caught 19 pounds before I had to leave."

The second day, Bruce weighed in a five bass, 26 pound, 12 ounce stringer, and added 18 pounds, four ounces more the third day.

"Then on the final day I lost the fish," says Bruce. "The weather had turned bad and the bass moved. At 2:00 p.m. with less than an hour remaining in the tournament, I did not have a single bass in the live well."

Even though he saw his potentially high place finish in the event slipping away, Bruce continued fishing and searching as hard as he could. Then, with just 15 minutes of fishing time remaining, he found the bass again and boated a stunning 20 pound stringer. He finished second in the tournament and won $30,000.

"I was the only person in the tournament fishing deep water," explained the Evinrude pro, "even though everyone else was catching bass shallow. Last year, I found fish deep when we fished Lake Seminole but by the time the tournament started, those fish had moved shallow and I never found them again."

"This year I felt at least some of the bass had already been shallow to spawn and may have returned to deeper water. I started fishing shallow like everyone else but I couldn't locate any fish."

"At 2:30 that first afternoon I basically started all over, and then on the final afternoon I just kept telling myself that every time I made a cast I was getting closer and closer to the fish and that eventually I'd find them."

Bruce believes he developed his never-give-up attitude during his fishing days at Lake Lanier, a popular impoundment north of Atlanta. It is a deep, clear water lake with bass famous for being fickle.

"Bass on Lanier move a lot," says

Bruce, "so you often have to spend a lot of time just looking for them. On really tough days, you have to convince yourself you are really learning something, even if you aren't catching anything."

"I didn't realize it then, but those years of having to fish that way were good preparation for tournament competition."

Evinrude and Johnson outboard dealers offer the Pro-Team Bass Vest, a personal floatation device (PFD) designed for bass fishermen. The vest features four pockets, adjustable sides, and a D-ring for attaching an emergency ignition cut-off tether.

Kentucky Rifles drop two of three to lowly Newark

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The pattern continues. The Kentucky Rifles split yet another doubleheader.

In their fifth doubleheader of the season, this one against the Newark Buffaloes, the Rifles continued their pattern of winning one and losing one. In the opener last Saturday night, the Rifles dropped a 3-2 decision to the lowly Newark team. The Rifles offense was very sluggish and starting pitcher Jay Hogue was the victim after a strong performance from the mound.

Kentucky came back and won the nightcap 4-0 over Newark. Newark won two of the three games.

Newark, according to the league stats, supposedly has the least effective staff in the Frontier League, but you could never convince the Rifles of that.

The Rifles rallied for two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning but it was too little too late in the one run defeat. The Rifles left the bases loaded in the seventh.

Hogue went the distance for the Rifles allowing three runs on six hits. Billy Bryce continued his torrid hitting with a two-for-four performance. Tucker Howard hit his third home run of the season as bright spots for the Rifles.

Bryce Gammon (4-0), ace of the Rifles staff, ended the Kentucky four game losing streak by going all the way in the win over the Buffaloes.

Homeplate umpire Wes Kenney was hit by a flying bat to start the second game and was taken to a local hospital after being attended to by Rifles trainer Alex Marcus and his Newark counterpart. Both trainers agreed that Kenney should be taken for x-rays. Kenney was reportedly doing well.

Gammon earned his fourth win and got his fourth complete game, leads the league, in a distance going performance. Gammon allowed just one run in the game — a solo home run — in the seven innings that he pitched.

The Rifles return home this week and will host the league leading Ohio Valley Redcoats tonight to close out a four game series. The Rifles then head on the road with a four game series against Erie. The all-star break will take place July 25 at Newark. The Rifles will stay in Newark for a three game set before returning home on July 31 to host Lancaster.

Game tickets are available at the Rifles ticket office.

Base hit up the middle!

AND SPOIL THE CHILD

There's no doubt about it. If things had been then like things are now, Muddy Branch—with its rows of little yellow houses and miles of railroad tracks; the only place in Kentucky where I was born and raised—would have been a penal colony instead of a coal camp.

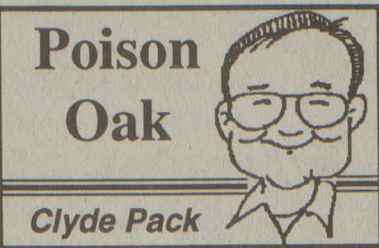

If police had handcuffed and toted off to prison every parent back then who ever whacked a kid, there wouldn't have been a jail in the state big enough to hold them.

I'm referring, of course, to what happened recently to the woman from Georgia who slapped her son in a supermarket for fighting with his older sister.

In case you've not been following the story, Lynn Kivi was arrested (and charged with child abuse) in the parking lot after a store employee called the police after seeing Kivi slap her nine-year-old son Chuck. I read one report that said that, if convicted, the woman could get up to 20 years.

In my opinion, there is abuse here all right, but it's not on the part of the mom. An editorial that appeared in the Colorado Springs Gazette Telegraph put it best when it said there was a "direct assault on the right of parents everywhere to raise children according to their own standards."

Amen to that!

It's not that I'm condoning child abuse, and I think those who actually abuse children ought to have to rot in jail. I'm just saying that it seems to me that in this case, the authorities overreacted a tad.

Of course, all this is a result of what I've been preaching all along about the monkeys running the zoo. Sometimes it seems like those who make the laws, who set the policies by which we are governed, have lost their senses. As we'd have said back in my Thealka days, they're nuttier than a fruit cake.

To be perfectly honest, it scares me, and apparently a number of other folks are also concerned because on the very same page of the newspaper on which I read the editorial about the parent from Georgia, was another editorial by Rowland Nethaway, a senior editor of the Waco (Texas) Tribune-Herald.

The gist of his piece was how, since the 1950s, violent crime has risen by 600 percent in America, and how drugs, gang violence and rape "by youthful predators have spread from the inner cities to small-town America."

"Another change since the innocent 1950s," Nethaway wrote, "(is that) the stigma of illegitimate

Commemorative stamp issued:

Veterans honored at Wayland

by Karen Jones Calhoun

From the Troublesome Creek Times

The month of June has been one of special recognition for World War II veterans in Wayland, a Floyd County community with many ties to neighboring Knott County.

Since June 7 was the 50th anniversary of D-Day, the United States Post Office issued a special commemorative stamp.

Wayland postmaster Genevieve Combs (formerly postmaster of Emmalena in Knott County) says she was anxious to find a way to mark the occasion for the many veterans living in Wayland.

Combs borrowed photographs from some of these patrons and arranged a wall display in early June.

Combs says she was away during the week of June 7, so she decided to wait until the end of the month to make a special presentation to veterans at Wayland.

Each veteran who stopped by was presented with a certificate praising Kentucky veterans which had been stamped with the new stamp as well as the June 7 postmark.

According to the "World War II in Kentucky" certificate, the state produced a disproportionate number of fighting men. Kentucky also entered the world of industrial growth because of World War II, with such effects as production of synthetic rubber products, for which Louisville became the world's largest supplier.

Seven Kentuckians won the Congressional medal of honor in World War II. The world-renowned photograph of Marines raising the American flag over Iwo Jima includes a native of Franklin County.

Along with the presentation, the post office staff also held a reception for veterans on Friday, June 24, serving drinks and snacks.

Visitors admired the display of local participants in World War II, exclaiming with amusement and delight when they recognized a friend among the young faces pictured.

"Around 25 World War II veterans, plus widows of others, still live in Wayland—a large number for such a small place," Combs says. "We were glad to be able to host a little celebration to honor them."

Several of these veterans stopped by during the day. At the time of the presentation at 11:30, four vets and the widows of two others shared memories in front of the photograph display.

Veterans like George Hansford, Daniel Lee, Eugene Decoursey and Curtis Tufts have their own unique perspectives on World War II.

The remembrances of such individuals are irreplaceable in giving greater understanding to younger generations of what the war was really like.

Husband, wife graduate from college

by Polly Ward

Times Feature Writer

Husband and wife Johnny and Darlene Endicott know what it means to overcome obstacles to get a college education.

This May, the Endicotts, who live on Buffalo Creek Road at Endicott, graduated from two different colleges. Johnny, 33, graduated from Morehead State University on May 21, with his master's of business administration degree.

Darlene, 29, graduated from Prestonsburg Community College on May 20 with an associate degree. She was also nominated to "Who's Who" and she made the dean's list.

Johnny had almost completed his master's, lacking one class, when he was shot in a hunting accident in 1990. "I was in bad shape," he said. The accident left him in a wheelchair for a year and a half. During this time of recuperation, he took the one class he lacked to earn his master's at the Morehead State University extended campus in Prestonsburg.

He said about completing his master's, "When I set an objective like that, I always finish. It's a matter of overcoming circumstances."

He has recovered from the accident to the point that he can walk with crutches, which is not unusual for him.

Due to a birth defect, Johnny was born with only one leg. Throughout his life he has used crutches or an artificial leg to get around. His lack of mobility hasn't prevented him from pursuing his interests and goals. He is an avid sportsman who hunts and fishes with the aid of crutches. One goal he has is "to do some writing" for outdoor magazines, he said. "I've got a book now that I'm working on about musky fishing."

In 1982, Johnny received his associate of arts degree at Prestonsburg Community College. In May, 1986, he received his bachelor of business administration and bachelor of arts and government.

Although Darlene had always dreamed of getting a college education, she dropped out of high school after her freshman year. After she and Johnny began dating, she earned her GED and in 1991 enrolled in Prestonsburg Community College.

"I always wanted to go to college, but I didn't think I could do the college work," she said. "After I got my GED and got married, Johnny encouraged me to go to school. He knew I wanted to go to college, and he said that if I always wanted to do something, I should do it."

The couple plan to move to Morehead in January where Darlene will be a student majoring in psychology and sociology at Morehead State University. Her goal is to start a counseling center for youth. "I feel like I can accomplish anything I set my mind to, if encouraged."

In the fall of 1995, Johnny plans to start a three-year doctoral program at the University of Kentucky. Then he said he would like to teach at a university or "maybe come back and work in county government and economic development. I'd like to make my degree work for the people in Floyd County."

INFORMATION HIGHWAY LEADS TO OLD FRIENDS

I hadn't heard from college friend H.B. since 1983, and I didn't know where my old work pal Al was living.

But both showed up in my bedroom one night via my home computer.

You never know who you'll meet on the information highway. Ten hours worth of American On line time came free with the home computer we bought last year. Maybe you've heard of American On line. Like competitors Compu serve and Prodigy, it's a pay-by-the-month service that brings the world to your fingertips.

And that's no exaggeration. You can absorb the latest world and national news, get airline and hotel rates, research an encyclopedia, check the weather in other states, gab about astronomy and politics with people all over the country, or pore over the latest nationwide job classifieds.

All that's fascinating and convenient. But the information highway didn't hook me until it took a more personal turn.

Like when I ran into H.B. and Al.

GETTING REACQUAINTED
The information highway hardly existed when H.B. and I worked on our college newspaper together in the early 1980s at Morehead State University.

We used computers to produce our school newspaper, but back then the casual access we have to them at home now—along with what we can get from them—was at best a science fiction reader's dream.

Neither of us could have guessed that a computer would reunite us a decade later.

I stumbled on to H.B. after researching how many on line subscribers had listed their occupations as being in newspapers.

You can also search the list by typing in a person's name. You can narrow the search even more by plugging in the hometown, a state or even a hobby the person might have.

The user name "HBE1" came up toward the end of a 200-person list. I called up the information he had put in the system about himself.

Sure enough, I knew him. I learned where he lived, that he was a newspaper editor and discovered some of his interests.

Seconds later, I started the electronic version of a two-page letter.

And what happened next is a big part of what sold me on traveling the information highway.

The letter went to him a thousand miles away over a telephone line.

Instantly. No stamp needed. No two- to three-day mail delay.

The next time he signed on, a computer voice would tell him he had mail.

He sent me the computer version of a four-page letter updating me on his life and the whereabouts of our college journalism colleagues as he knew it.

It's unlikely we would have made contact any time soon without computers.

Perhaps we never would have.

More reunions followed. I lost touch with my reporter friend Al about four years ago. We had worked together in Owensboro in the 1980s. I had no idea where he was now—until I found him among a list of on line members.

He's in Washington state. Before long I found other former co-workers, friends, a son of an old boss and even a distant relative or two to write.

It's fun to have another mailbox to check each day. You can read your "E-mail" over the computer or print it out on paper.

Thanks to computers, our friends always can be a few keystrokes away, no matter where we may go or live.

I like that.

A BIT OF DEJA VU

All this reminds me of my teenage days with CB radio, a now primitive forerunner to the information highway.

I would stay up until the wee hours to yak with people from all over eastern Kentucky with code names like "Dead Bird," "Green Onion," and "Rattlesnake." I called myself the "Superguard" in honor of a fantasy to be a great guard in basketball.

In most cases you couldn't reach people more than 100 miles away. And the small talk you made with others was highly superficial and usually didn't amount to much, although some folks became good friends.

Now I'm grown up in the computer age, but it seems like I've been here before.

I'm staying up until the wee hours again, my computer on line name is "Superguard" and I'm conversing with people who call themselves "Viper," "Indyrod" and "Gamin Elf."

Who would have thought it?

Amvets hold annual election

Amvets and Amvets Auxiliary Post No. 27, Martin, held their annual election in May. New officers were sworn into office by Adjutant Glenn Patrick.

The Amvets Auxiliary also raised money by road blocks and cooked dinners to help sponsor Jonathan Thornsby to the Olympics.

In June, the Amvets and Amvets Auxiliary Post No. 27 traveled to Owensboro for the state convention. Those attending were commander Ernest G. Burchett, Adjutant Glenn Patrick, Second Vice Eddie Chaffin, Morris Isaac, Ralph Stiltner and Bob Knight. Also attending were Auxiliary President Lana Chafin, First Vice Mary Davidson, Secretary Avean M. Green, Chaplin Yvonne Burchett, Liaison Dee Steffey, Sharon Mayo and Audry Hall.

The Amvets are getting ready for the Red, White and Blue Day celebration in Martin.

Miriam Rebekah Lodge hosted visit

Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 was host to the members of District 4 Rebekahs for the official visit of the Rebekah Assembly President, Juanita Ratliff of Frankfort.

She was accompanied by Waldean Hammons also of Frankfort.

The meeting was opened with Hope Whitten, noble grand presiding. Those receiving special recognition were past presidents: Waldean Hammons, Frances Fraley, Wilma Storey, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Mary Jane Bell, warden of the assembly, and Beverly Hackworth, district deputy, president of district 4.

The assembly president, Juanita Ratliff, was then escorted into the room as Beverly Hackworth sang her song "Precious Memories." The Honors of the Order were extended to Mrs. Ratliff and she was then seated at the right of the Noble Grand. Other visitors were then recognized from Inez, Paintsville, Louisa and Cynthiana.

The president was invited to speak, and she outlined her program for the year, listing her emblems, watchwords, awards, guides, projects, etc.

Prior to the meeting all members and visitors ate dinner in the dining room, which was decorated with the president's colors and flowers.

Miriam members present for this meeting were Hope Whitten, Wanda Elste, Beverly Hackworth, Lorena Wallen, Paulena Owens, Mary Zemo, Jean Hickman, Violetta Wright, Claudine Johns, Susie Clifton, Debbie Johns, Dora Johns, Belle Conn, Maxine Bierman, and Mabel Jean LeMaster.

At the close of the meeting all gathered around the altar and sang "Bless Be The Tie That Binds."

The next regular meeting will be July 19 at 7 p.m. in the I.O.O.F. Hall.

Reunion for Father's Day

Don and Carol Laferty of Morehead opened their home for a Father's Day celebration for Don's father, Jesse Laferty of Allen.

Those attending were Don, Carol and their son Neil; David and Cara Hall and son Nathan; Dean and Garnet Laferty and son Larry; Edith Burchett and Valerie Hale, all of Allen.

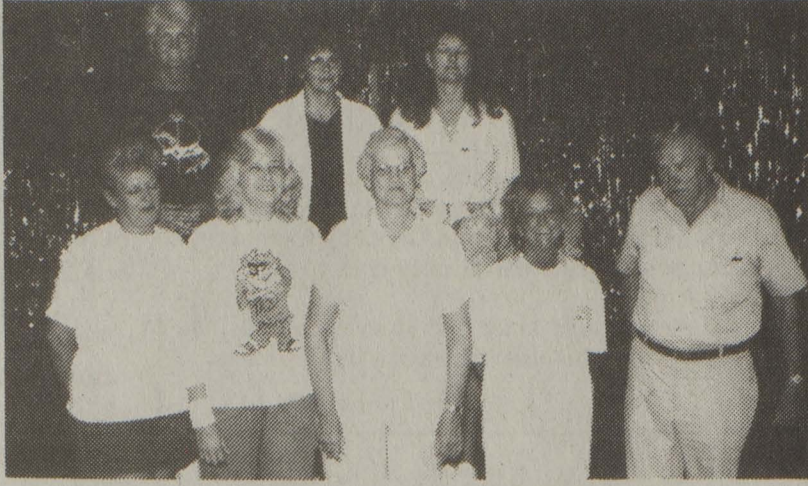

Chris and Lisa Hedges of Belfrey; Mike and Freda Cornett; son Mike Jr. and daughter Angie Clifton, of Pikeville; Roland and Jeanie Hill and daughter, Marjorie of Columbus, Ohio; Maxine Thacker of Wurtland; Jim and Cindy Thacker and daughters Jaime and Tara of Worthington; Herman and Hazel Laferty, of Clarkson; Denny Laferty, Candy, Crissie and Jason, of Owenton; Bill and Teresa Snapp and children, Jessica and Justin of Berea; Danny and Marian Adkins and daughter, Christy of Grayson; and of course, the guest of honor, Jesse Laferty, who is 90 years old.

Unable to attend, but called, was a daughter, Sarah Glennis Thompson and her family of St. Augustine, Florida.

Sharing birthdays

Betsy Layne senior citizens Fed Clark, Langley Clark and Laura Blankenship celebrated their birthdays in June at the Betsy Layne Senior Citizen Center.

New auxiliary officers

New officers elected in the Amvets Auxiliary were Mary Davidson, first vice president; and Scarlet Keathley, Avean M. Green, Wanda Symon, Yvonne Burchett, Glenda Adkins and Dee Steffey. Also pictured is Glenn Patrick, adjutant of the Amvets.

Attend convention

A father's 100th birthday

KFWC Drift Woman's Club holds installation

The annual installation dinner for the KFWC Drift Womens Club was held June 20, at 6:30 p.m. at the Salisbury Methodist Church.

Doris Lawson, president, welcomed members and guests.

The group joined in the Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag and reading of "Ten Commandments of Human Relations."

Following the blessing by Alice Kendrick, a covered dish dinner was served to members and guests with Irene Reitz, hostess.

President Doris Lawson read a thank-you letter from Stacy Shepherd for the $500 scholarship she received at South Floyd graduation.

A report on the plans for the 1934-1993 McDowell reunion was given by Geraldine Ward. Responses from letters sent out by the contact persons are arriving daily which will help with registration. Video tapes of each class will be shown on Friday night, Saturday, entertainment, fellowship, dance, gospel sing, and memorial service, Sunday.

Doris Lawson reported on her visit to South Floyd High School when she presented 28 honor certificates to the art students.

President Doris Lawson presented Alice Kendrick, KFWC finance chairman, who spoke on the student loans that are available from KFWC and the rewards of volunteering and membership in KFWC.

Installed were Ruby Akers, president; Doris Lawson, vice president; Jerri Turner, treasurer; Celia Little, recording secretary; Ruby Akers presented Doris Lawson a silver tray from the club for her outstanding service.

The next meeting will be July 18 with Mrs. Mildred Salisbury, hostess.

All officers are asking for the continued cooperation of all members and increased membership is one of their goals.

Members and guests enjoying the fellowship were Mrs. Geraldine Ward, Celia Little, Kathryn Youmans, Karen Slone, Doris Lawson, Roberta Luxmore, Cheryl Hall, Ruby Akers, Jerri Turner, Roney Clark, Mr. and Mrs. George Kendrick and Bobby Lawson.

teen-ager births disappeared some time after the government began rewarding that behavior. And why not when teen-age girls can get pregnant, drop out of school and be rewarded with food stamps, health care, child care, housing subsidies and other welfare programs equivalent to a working person's $25,000 salary?"

I don't know about you, but I'm sure glad I grew up then instead of now. I'm glad my hard-working, Christian parents cared enough about me to whack me when I needed it. I'm thankful to them every day of my life...that I made it to adulthood with not only all my fingers and toes, but also with their moral teaching rooted deep within me.

As the Colorado paper stated, "Parents who discipline their children should be encouraged, not arrested." Again, I say Amen.

THE LINGO GAP!

Forget age, gray hairs and wrinkles making you feel old, all you need is a full-fledged teen-ager living under your roof.

by Kim Frasure

The teen-ager under our roof thinks my language is way back there in the days of the caveman. For example, just the other night, while watching the tube, our keen-teen had control of the remote. Naturally we were tuned in to MTV.

Mick Jaggar was on and our daughter turns to me and says, "I like him, he's cool."

Totally dumbfounded that my child thinks 'ol Mick is "cool," I said, "Really, that man's got more mouth than a hog has a rear end."

"Mom," she sighed, "you are so weird."

Right, I'm weird and Mick Jaggar's cool.

Well, the very next video was Madonna. Our teen-ager hit the floor dancin' and singin' to the top of her lungs.

"Mom," my keen-teen says, "do you like Madonna?"

"Madonna, are you serious?"

I asked, "Why, that girl's cornbread is not quite done as far as I'm concerned," I told her.

"Hub," my daughter asked, looking puzzled.

"Oh, you know most folks say it's 'cause she's blonde," I continued, "but that's fake, too."

After Mick and Madonna, I'd had quite enough.

"Child, you are gonna have to change channels, that stuff you call music is makin' me as nervous as a long tailed cat in a room full of rockin' chairs."

My teen-ager rolled those big brown eyes in total disgust.

"You kill me with the way you talk," my teen said.

"Dah," I replied. "You watch your tone with me little girl, your apt to get your hind-end kicked right square up between your shoulders," I scolded.

"Ah," she gasped. "I'll call the child abuse hot-line," she threatened.

"Okay, little girl. Turn that a.c off, it's colder than a well-digger's butt in here," I said.

"Mom, stop it!" she screamed.

"Stop what?" I asked.

"For Heaven's sake, Ash, you crack me up!"

"Mom," I heard in that disgusted voice.

"Okay, okay, let's eat. Those white half-runners are ready and I'll guarantee you they'll be so good they'll make your tongue slap your brain plumb out of your head," I continued.

Boy, you should have seen the cold hard look I got after that one. Why, children it would've made the hairs stand straight up on the back of any neck.

It sure does put a wrinkle in my horn when my teen-ager thinks my lingo comes straight off the Beverly Hillbilly family truck.

I've tried my best to teach this child that you can't judge a book by it's cover.

And yes, I'll admit I've been known to flap my tongue so fast it covered my eye teeth and I couldn't see what I was sayin'.

But, I can assure you and my keen-teen, CMT beats the pieces out of MTV and her dear 'ol mom is not a few bricks short of a load like she often thinks.

So, no matter how over-the-hill she thinks I am, she's gonna have to get up pretty early in the morning to get one over on her 'ol mom.

Yeah, right, a teen-ager getting up early—now that's funny!

See y'all next week, ya hear!

Jenny Wiley tried to appear content with her life after a hodgepodge band of Indians kidnapped her in 1789. She wanted to earn their trust so that she might find an opportunity to escape.

Jenny often thought about Mary Ingles who was kidnapped similarly by Indians 34 years earlier. Ingles became a hero among the early pioneers after she escaped and survived in the wilds for several months while searching for her way back home.

"Oh, if only I get a chance to escape, I'll take the first opportunity," Jenny mused.

The Indians were treacherous adversaries of the early pioneers. The tribes fought a massive war among themselves years before in the land that would eventually become Kentucky. This fighting ended with the Indians living in Ohio and Tennessee with Kentucky relegated to a hunting ground.

As the pioneers came into the western part of Virginia and eastern Kentucky, an area called the borderland, they were fiercely attacked by bands of Indians from the north and south—plundering, burning and massacring.

The Harmans, Wileys and Sellards (Jenny Wiley's maiden name was Sellards) were among these early pioneers. Harman is a corruption of Hermann, the Prussian name which later evolved mostly to Harmon. The Harmans were outstanding frontiersmen and the fearless Mathias Harman, despite his smallish stature, became well known as an Indian fighter. The Indians learned to despise Mathias who they called "Short Devil with the Big Nose" for obvious reasons. He was a fierce competitor in hand to hand combat and he was a dead shot with the Kentucky long rifle.

The Harmans and Wileys lived in Tazewell County, in the western reaches of Virginia, but went on extended hunting forays along the Big Sandy River in present-day Kentucky. On one such trip they heard someone singing gleefully. Upon investigating they found Daniel Boone, alone, lying on his back in the leaves, singing for his own merriment.

During a hunt for bear along the Tug River in 1789 they were attacked by Indians and a fierce confrontation followed in which Mathias swayed the outcome in favor of the long hunters. Several were killed or injured. Lt. Walter Crockett informed Virginia Governor Randolph that "the Harmans behaved like heroes."

The Indians thought Mathias Harman was among those who were killed and proceeded to Walker's Creek to raid his cabin. They inadvertently raided the cabin of Tom Wiley instead, murdering his children and brother-in-law and taking his wife, Jenny Wiley, into captivity. Wiley was away at a distant trading post.

On the night of the massacre at the Wiley cabin, John Borders returned to the cabin late at night to see why Jenny and the children had not come to stay with her sister as they had indicated they would. After finding the bloodied corpses of the children, he awoke the settlers who prepared to follow the trail of the Indians at dawn.

Tom Wiley returned before day-break and became "crazed" after finding the carnage in his home and the absence of his wife and young son.

Mathias Harman arrived at the cabin soon after dawn. He found signs indicating that Jenny and her baby were alive and that they had been taken by an Indian party numbering about twelve. He determined that Tom Wiley would be of no value in his thoroughly distraught condition so he encouraged him to accompany a small band of men who look for signs of the raiding party to the south.

Soon thereafter Mathias and Lazarus Damron followed the true Indian trail with a party of men also numbering eleven. He surmised the trail the Indians would take but also verified the trail by watching for signs. They found several signs including an abandoned campfire and then came upon the body of Jenny's dead 15-month old. The men buried the young lad in a shallow grave.

The Tug River was flooded from its banks when they arrived. The Indians had swam across with Jenny not long before. Now very dark and wet, the men camped until the following morning. The signs ceased at this point because the Indians took to the wilds and made every effort to conceal their trail. On the banks of the rain-swollen Big Sandy River, Mathias reluctantly decided to discontinue the search.

The Harmans and others had "long-hunted" in this area each fall for several years and Mathias had decided earlier to build a station in the area. The men made a good start at founding Harman's Station at the mouth of John's Creek. The site was away from the Indian trail and Mathias hoped it would go undetected until the fort and several cabins were built.

The men then returned home. It had been three weeks since their departure when they followed the trail of the Indians and Jenny Wiley.

Tom Wiley and a smaller band of men made several excursions in hopes of finding signs of his Jenny. Having no luck he maintained hope that Mathias had rescued her. When the men returned without her, his hopes were dashed.

Jenny had been Tom's one and only love. His greatest pleasure in life was to be with her and his children but now he was without them.

"Oh, why did I go and leave Jenny and the kids alone," Tom opined. "If only I could return to that day, then my Jenny and the little ones would be back with me."

Purple-blue flowers bloom on new ornamental vine

by Doris Stanley
A new ornamental passion vine is ideal for home gardeners in the south-eastern states or in any warm, temperate zone.

Spectacular purple-blue flowers are a source of nectar and pollen used by butterflies, bees and hummingbirds. So the vine is a perfect wildlife food for gardens.

That's why Georgia's Nongame Endangered Wildlife Program joined the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Jerry A. Payne in introducing the vine called Byron Beauty. It was developed by Payne, who just retired from the USDA-Agricultural Research Service's Southeastern Fruit and Tree Nut Research Laboratory in Byron, Ga.

Byron Beauty is a cross between the tropical passion fruit and the maypop, a passion vine native to North America that grows as far north as Maryland. It has no special needs other than well-drained soil and a trellis, or other support, on which to grow, Payne says. Vines grow about 15 feet long.

have survived freezing weather."
Propagated only by cuttings, the ornamental has a flowering season of 120 days or more, depending on the date of the first hard frost. After frost, the vine dies back to the soil's surface to return again in the spring. (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture)

Appearing in early June, the flowers are about 4 inches in diameter and have an inner disc of deep purplish-blue petals and filaments, surrounded by an outer margin of a lighter shade of purplish-blue, circled by a crinkled fringe of white. Dark green, three-lobed leaves are as big as a person's hand, and green stems have a tinge of red.

"This ornamental doesn't foster buildup of any insect pest for any agricultural crop," Payne says. "Also, we've grown Byron Beauty as far north as central Georgia. Its roots

Ticks may lose free ride on deer

by Linda Cooke
White-tailed deer are wild about eating corn—and that's good news for researchers working to control ticks that spread diseases to people and pets.

One of the primary targets is the deer tick that passes along Lyme disease to humans. Deer ticks feed mainly on deer, especially the white tail in the Northeast where the largest number of Lyme disease cases—80 percent—are reported.

U.S. Department of Agriculture researchers in Maryland and Texas want to make the most of the deer's appetite for corn. They are putting out corn that's treated with ivermectin, a commercial systemic pesticide that kills ticks, but is harmless to deer.

"After deer eat ivermectin in corn, ticks on the deer stop feeding and die," says J. Allen Miller, an agricultural engineer with USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Kerrville, Texas. Miller and co-researchers designed a feeding station for enticing deer to eat ivermectin-treated corn.

Kerrville researchers found in field tests that the feeders kept a Texas ranch free of cattle ticks. Corn attracted elk, the tick carrier, and the ivermectin knocked out the ticks hitching rides on the animals.

Now, ARS scientists are seeing how the feeders will work in the Northeast, notably in suburban areas where white-tailed deer populations have increased.

Scientists in Beltsville, Md., are targeting the adult stage of deer ticks. "Ninetyfive percent of deer ticks' reproductive success is from feeding on white-tailed deer," says entomologist Edward T. Schmidtman at the agency's Livestock Insects Laboratory.

"We want to determine how many come to the feeding stations, how often, for how long and at what intervals," says Schmidtman.

He is implanting tiny electronic transponders in a small number of deer to record their presence at the stations and send the findings to a computer database. Infrared cameras will be used to monitor deer movement at night.

"Ultimately, treating deer to control ticks will be more effective in reducing tick density. That beats trying to find chemical sprays," says Schmidtman. (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture)

Nutrition Wise

by Karen Collins, M.S., R.D.
American Institute for Cancer Research

Q: Are migraine headaches related to diet?

A: The American Academy of Family Physicians suggests several diet-related tips for people who suffer migraines that might reduce the number of these headaches and their severity. Avoid alcoholic drinks (especially red wine) as well as nitrates and nitrites in preserved meats such as bacon, hot dogs, and deli meats. Avoid monosodium glutamate (MSG), too, which is found in many foods such as mixed spices or flavorings, dry bouillon cubes, soups and sauces, frozen or canned meals, crackers, and Chinese restaurant food (unless you order it without MSG). If you eat or drink foods with caffeine-related substances—coffee, tea, and chocolate—spread them out throughout the day and try limiting amounts. Eat regular meals (don't skip them), and exercise regularly. Stress-reduction techniques may also help. Migraines are quite different from other headaches, so discuss this condition with your doctor.

Q: There's been a lot of concern recently about E. Coli bacteria in meat, especially hamburger. If meat is frozen first does it kill the bacteria so that less thorough cooking would be safe?

A: No. Freezing does not kill bacteria, but merely slows down its reproduction so that the meat can last longer than in the refrigerator without spoiling. Even frozen meat, especially ground meats, should be thoroughly cooked for safety.

An English garden

The landscape of Alice Howard's home, located at the corner of E. Graham Street and South Lake Drive, was selected as the July Garden of the Month. The judges of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club liked the colorful mix of annuals and perennials in Howard's small front yard and window boxes. One judge said the yard reminded her of an English garden. The flower beds are planted with lilies, zinnias, daisies, phlox, petunias and other flowers. Alice (right) said her mother Virginia Howard (left) helps her with the garden. GREAT GRILLING FOR GOOD NUTRITION

Think of a good barbecue, and the delicious aroma of big steaks, plump sausages and sizzling hot dogs comes to mind. But does barbecuing mean abandoning all hope for a nutritious meal? Not at all! The health advice to eat a low-fat, high-fiber diet with less meat and more fruits and vegetables doesn't rule out barbecuing—it just takes a little planning to make great grilled meals that are nutritious as well as delicious.

Choose Low-fat Meats: Some favorite barbecue meats are very high in fat—ribs and hot dogs are two examples. However, if you only eat small servings of these as occasional treats, and usually grill lower-fat lean meat, skinless poultry or fish, you'll be eating for good health.

One way to reduce the fat is to trim all visible fat from meats and to remove the skin from poultry before grilling (poultry without the skin has about half the fat that it does with skin). And choose leaner cuts to grill, like London Broil, flank steak, loin pork chops, or try firm, thick-cut fish "steaks."

And don't let meats hog the grill: barbecued vegetables are delicious, either skewered for a traditional shish kabob with small pieces of meat, poultry, fish or shrimp, or by themselves, brushed with some fruit juice or barbecue sauce. Try grilling mushroom caps, green pepper, onion, cherry tomatoes, and summer squash like zucchini. Before skewering vegetables, dip them in very hot water first to keep them from splitting. If you are using bamboo skewers, soak the skewers for 30 minutes before skewering food to prevent them from burning on the grill. Or wrap vegetables in foil with a spoonful of water, juice or marinade, then put on the grill to cook for 10-15 minutes.

Make Delicious Non-Fat Marinades: Although many marinade recipes call for oil, using a marinade with no fat tastes just as good and is another healthy way to reduce the fat in your barbecue.

Popular marinade ingredients include vinegar, fruit or vegetable juices, wine, seasonings, and herbs. Sweet and sour sauces usually combine sweet ingredients, such as fruit juice or brown sugar, with tangier flavors like tomato paste or mustard. Taste as you mix to adjust ingredients.

Some delicious non-fat marinades for both meat and vegetables include:
—Italian Herb: red wine or red wine vinegar, crushed fresh garlic or garlic powder, tomato juice, freshly ground black pepper, parsley, oregano and basil, pinch of sugar.

—Caribbean Fruit: lime juice, pineapple juice, cayenne red pepper, and cider vinegar.

—California Gourmet: white wine, thyme, white pepper, and capers.

—Creole Spice: minced green pepper, minced onion, brown sugar, tomato paste thinned with water, red wine or red wine vinegar, black pepper, dash of hot pepper sauce.

To absorb flavor, food needs to marinate for at least one hour before cooking; some people marinate foods in the refrigerator overnight. If, after the meat, poultry or seafood has marinated, you want to use the leftover marinade as a table sauce, first boil it for at least 3 minutes to destroy bacteria that may have been present in the raw state during marinating.

Round Out Your Delicious Meal

Nutritiously: Serve your barbecued meats and vegetables with some whole-grain rolls, brown rice, and a salad with low-fat dressing. For dessert, you can even try skewering or loosely foil-wrapping some firm fruit chunks, like apple, pineapple, peach, and plum—and grilling them for a sweet treat.

SWEET AND SPICY SAUCE

The subtle sweetness and mild heat is excellent for chicken and ribs.

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 can (15 oz.) tomato sauce
- 2/3 cup cider vinegar
- 2/3 cup Apricot Polaner® AllFruit Spreadable Fruit

- 2 tablespoons chili powder
- 1 tablespoon spicy brown mustard

In a large skillet saute onion and garlic in melted butter until tender, about five minutes. Add remaining ingredients, heat to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 20 minutes or until thickened, stirring occasionally. Brush onto ribs or chicken during last 5 minutes of grilling. Makes about 3 cups (enough for six pounds meat).

PEACHY GINGER SAUCE

Peach and ginger are a must with chicken or pork. Brush onto chicken during the last 5 minutes of grilling.

- 1 jar (10 oz.) Peach Polaner® All Fruit® Spreadable Fruit
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 2 teaspoons dry rosemary
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger

In a small saucepan combine ingredients. Cook on low stirring frequently until warm and smooth. Brush onto chicken or pork during last five minutes of grilling. Makes about 1 cup (enough for two pounds meat).

MOUTH OF FIRE RUB

Not for the meek and mild

- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons coarsely ground black pepper
- 2 tablespoons minced garlic
- 1 tablespoon paprika
- 2 bay leaves, finely crumbled
- 1 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- PAM® No Stick Cooking Spray
- 3 pounds London broil

Combine first seven ingredients. Spray surface of meat with PAM No Stick Cooking Spray. Rub both sides of meat with spice mixture. Allow to sit 30 minutes before grilling. Grill as usual. Makes about 1/2 cup (enough for three pounds meat).

BARBADOS GRILLED PORK WITH PINEAPPLE SALSA

Marinated pork:

- 2 teaspoons finely shredded fresh ginger
- 1-1/2 teaspoons each allspice and curry powder
- 1/2 teaspoon each cayenne pepper and cinnamon
- 1/3 cup dark rum
- 1/3 cup lime juice
- 1/4 cup Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 6 lean boneless pork loin chops, cut 3/4-inch thick (approximately 1-1/2 pounds)

Pineapple Salsa:

- 2 cups diced pineapple
- 1/2 cup diced red bell pepper
- 1/2 cup sliced green onion
- 1 tablespoon each lime juice and canola oil

Combine ginger, allspice, curry, cayenne and cinnamon in a half-gallon pleated storage bag. Reserve 2 teaspoons spice mixture for salsa. Add rum, lime juice, Worcestershire sauce and brown sugar to spice mixture; seal bag and shake to blend.

Place pork chops in bag; remove excess air, reseal bag and turn to coat. Refrigerate 6 to 8 hours. Meanwhile, combine all salsa ingredients with reserved 2 teaspoons seasoning in quart-size Ziploc storage bag and refrigerate until ready to cook pork.

Remove pork from bag and discard marinade. Grill pork on grid over medium-hot coals, 4 to 5 minutes per side or until juices run clear, turning once. Serve with salsa. Garnish with lime wedges, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

HONEY-CITRUS GLAZED VEAL CHOPS

- Preparation time: 10 minutes
- Cooking time: 12 to 14 minutes
- 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 2 teaspoons grated fresh ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 4 veal rib chops, cut 1 inch thick (about 8 ounces each)

Stir together lemon juice, honey, ginger and peel. Place veal rib chops in utility dish just large enough to hold chops. Brush lemon mixture liberally over both sides of chops. Refrigerate, covered, 30 minutes while preparing coals. Remove chops from dish. Place chops on grid over medium coals, and grill 12 to 14 minutes, turning once for medium (160°F), or to desired doneness.* 4 servings. 186 calories per serving.

*To check temperature of coals, cautiously hold the palm of your hand about 4 inches above the coals. Count the number of seconds you can hold it in that position before the heat forces you to pull it away: 4 seconds for medium coals.

PINEAPPLE MILK DRINK

- 1 c. evaporated milk
 - 1/2 c. water
 - 2 1/2 c. pineapple juice
- Mix evaporated milk and water. Stir in pineapple juice slowly. Chill before serving. Makes 4 servings.

WHEN TO APPLY THE SAUCE

- Barbecued Meats—(cooked indirectly)—brush with barbecue sauce during the last hour of cooking.
 - Smoked Meats—brush with barbecue sauce during the last 30 to 45 minutes of cooking.
 - Grilled Chicken—brush with barbecue sauce during the last 10 minutes of grilling, turning once.
 - Fish—brush with barbecue sauce during the last 5 to 10 minutes of grilling.
 - Hot Dogs and Sausage—brush with barbecue sauce during the last 5 to 6 minutes of grilling.
 - Grilled Steaks and Chops—brush with sauce during the last 3 minutes of grilling (after the meat has been turned for the last time).

Slone places in Miss Teen USA pageant

Tiana Nicole Slone

Tiana Nicole Slone, 18-year-old daughter of Lowell and Carolyn Slone of Ligon, was a candidate for the Miss Kentucky Teen U.S.A. pageant, held June 18, at Murray State University.

She was one of 61 candidates who competed for the title and prizes valued at $10,000.

Miss Slone went through an extensive interview, swimsuit and formal competition. The field of girls was narrowed down to 12, including Miss Slone.

The judges then picked five girls for the final part of the pageant and, again, Slone was chosen. She was then chosen as third runner up in the Miss Kentucky Teen U.S.A. pageant. She won a diamond, sapphire and ruby ring, a large silver tray imprinted with her award, tee shirts and sweat shirts with the Miss Kentucky Teen USA logo, a caboodle, an image update modeling from Cosmo models, a large portrait from the pageant photographer, and various Hawaiian Tropic products.

For a stand-out resume, show growth in job responsibility

What makes the greatest impression on a resume? After skills and experience, two-thirds of managers in a recent national survey (67 percent) said they look for "growth in responsibility" when reviewing a resume.

The survey was developed by OfficeTeam, a national staffing service specializing in highly-skilled temporary office and administrative professionals. It was conducted by an independent research firm, which polled 150 human resources and other managers from the nation's 1,000 largest companies.

Respondents were asked: "Other than skills and experience, which one of the following is the most important information you look for when reviewing a resume?" Their responses:

Growth in responsibility	67%
Previous employers	15%
Stability	11%
Other/Don't know	7%
	100%

"Companies consider increased responsibility as an indication of a candidate's initiative and growth potential," said Andrew Denka, executive director of OfficeTeam. "Upward progression—from receptionist to executive assistant, for example—reflects a series of successful milestones and dedication to one's career."

He advised job seekers to look for positions that, when viewed chronologically, show steady growth: "Try to maintain upward momentum as you move along your career path. Even if increases in responsibility come in small increments over a long period, the professional development will be apparent."

Rob Hibray, OfficeTeam's regional manager for Kentucky, agreed that increases in responsibility make a candidate more marketable.

"Employers look for people who have put in the time and energy to rise through the various stages of career growth," he said. "It shows that the candidate is ambitious and forward-thinking—qualities that are highly desirable in an employee."

Retirees should be aware of pension offset rules

Jim Kelly

Social Security District Director For the Big Sandy Area

People who expect to receive more than one type of retirement pension should be sure they are familiar with how their Social Security benefits may be affected. There are several important rules to remember.

If you have earned both Social Security and a military pension, your Social Security benefits are not affected. You should call Social Security and ask for the factsheet, Military Service and Social Security. However, if you are entitled to both Social Security and a Government pension based on a civilian job not covered under Social Security, your Social Security benefit may be reduced.

There are two rules that may reduce your benefits. One, called "Government Pension Offset" applies only if you receive a Government pension and are eligible for Social Security benefits as a spouse or widow(er). This affects relatively few people and is explained in our factsheet, Government Pension Offset.

The other, sometimes called the "Windfall Elimination Provision," affects the way your retirement or disability benefits are figured if you receive a pension from work not covered by Social Security. This rule affects the person who spent most of his/her career working for a Government agency but who also worked at other jobs where they paid Social Security taxes long enough to qualify for retirement or disability benefits. People who worked in jobs where they didn't pay Social Security taxes, such as in a foreign county, may also be affected.

Before the law was changed in 1983, people in these situations received the advantage of the higher percentage of Social Security benefits payable to long-term, low wage workers under Social Security. A modified benefit formula now eliminates this windfall.

Here's how the formula works.

PEBES

Some surprises you don't need. If you're nearing retirement age, it's a good idea to get an estimate of what your retirement benefits will be. And it's easy to do. Just call 1-800-772-1213 and ask for a Request for a Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement form. You'll receive a short form to fill out and return by mail so you can get a complete run-down on what you can expect to receive from Social Security when you retire. Don't wait to be surprised. It's better to be prepared!

Some of my listings include a 4-bedroom home at Jack's Creek, and a 4-bedroom home with rental at McDowell.

American Way Realty

When we figure your benefits, we separate your average earnings into three amounts and multiply the figures using three factors. For example, for a worker who turns 65 in 1994, the first $370 of average monthly earnings is multiplied by 90 percent; the next $1,860 is multiplied by 32 percent; and the remainder by 15 percent. In the modified formula, the 90 percent factor is reduced. The reduction is phased in for workers who reached age 62 or became disabled between 1986 and 1989. For those who reach 62 or become disabled in 1990 or later, the 90 percent factor is reduced to 40 percent.

There are some exceptions to this rule. For example if you have "substantial" earnings in a job where you paid Social Security taxes, the 90 percent factor may not be reduced as much—to somewhere between 40 and 85 percent—depending on the number of years of substantial earnings. The modified formula also does not apply to survivors benefits and in certain other cases. In any case, a guarantee is provided to protect workers with relatively low pensions. It provides that the reduction in the Social Security benefit under the modified formula cannot be more than one-half of that part of the pension attributable to earnings after 1956 not covered by Social Security.

We also have a factsheet on this subject, called A Pension From Work Not Covered by Social Security. You may call 1-800-772-1213 to get this and other factsheets on the subjects I've discussed here.

ORDINANCE NO. 10-94

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY RELATING TO THE EXTENSION OF AND ADDITION TO CITY SEWER SERVICES TO UNINCORPORATED AREAS LOCATED NEAR THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG.

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg, in conjunction with the City's Utilities Commission, is desirous of expanding both the corporate boundaries of the City and City Sewer Services in order to make sewer service available to certain areas located outside the City corporate limits; and

WHEREAS, as a prerequisite to the expansion of any sewer service outside the city limits, whether existing or new, the City Council deems it to be appropriate to condition such expansion on the agreement of the property owner to consent to possible future annexation of the area so serviced, provided the area encumbered by the service meets all requirements of KRS Chapter 81A relating to the annexation of unincorporated territory;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT HEREBY ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, Kentucky as follows:

Item I: That any real property owner desiring either extension of new city sewer service, or an addition to a current "in-place" service to real property located outside of the city limits of the City of Prestonsburg, shall execute an Agreement with the city and the City Utilities Commission, that the property owner(s) waive(s) any objection to future annexation of the proposed area, should annexation of the area meet all of the requirements of KRS Chapter 81A. This agreement shall pertain to all unincorporated real property, whether the same actually adjoins the current corporate limits at the time of execution, or not. The Sewer Service Agreement and Consent to Annexation shall completely and accurately describe the real property subject to future annexation, and shall be executed by all property owners of record. Further, the Agreement shall provide that the consent given to annex shall be a covenant running with the land and shall be binding on all successors and assigns of the property owners.

Item II: The Sewer Service Agreement and Consent to Annexation shall include and shall also apply to unincorporated areas where sewer service is being installed for the first time, as well as areas where additional hook-ups are requested on an existing service.

Item III: That the agreement so adopted for use by the City of Prestonsburg and the City's Utilities Commission may include any such other language as may be necessary to achieve the purposes for which this Ordinance is adopted.

Item IV: Any action by a court of competent jurisdiction declaring any word, phrase, or section of this Ordinance to be invalid, unlawful or unconstitutional, shall not effect the remaining portions of this Ordinance which shall remain in full force and effect.

Item V: All ordinances in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance are hereby expressly repealed to the extent of such conflict.

Item VI: This Ordinance shall become effective immediately upon adoption and publication as required by law.

ADOPTED, this the 14th day of July, 1994.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT C. A. NO. 94-CI-00315 DIVISION II

Pikeville National Bank and Trust Company, as agent for Federal Home Loan Mortgage Company...Plaintiff

VS. NOTICE OF SALE Bruce E. Rice, Karen Freeman, Bob Music, Mearl Music, and Floyd County, Kentucky

By virtue of a Judgment and Order of Sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the July 12, 1994 Term, in the above styled cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 4th day of August, 1994, at 10:00 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, on a credit of thirty (30) days at the rate of 12% per annum, the following described property, to-wit:

A certain tract or parcel of land lying on Little Paint, Floyd County, Kentucky, and more particularly described as follows:

Beginning on a rock near the creek marked ++ a corner to Bill Music's line; thence with the creek up the creek 120 feet to a 3" iron post; thence in a Northwesterly direction through the yard and up the hill 293 feet to a 3" iron post; thence in a Northeasterly direction around the hill 120 feet to a rock marked + at Bill Music's line; thence down the hill with Bill Music's line 293 feet to a rock marked ++ point of beginning.

Excepted from this deed is the existing gas line easement to Bill Music's property and all gas, oil and all mineral rights.

And, being the same property conveyed to Bruce E. Rice and Karen Freeman by Bob Music and Greta Music, his wife, and Mearl Music, single, by deed dated January 9, 1993, recorded in Deed Book 364, Page 244, records of the Floyd County Clerk's Office.

This property is sold, subject to property taxes due Floyd County, Kentucky. The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be Thirty-Nine Thousand Three Hundred Seventy-One Dollars and Twenty Six Cents ($39,371.26), with interest thereon at the rate of 8.88% per annum, which is accruing at a daily rate of $9,578,5422, until Judgment and with interest thereafter at the contract rate until paid, including the costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commission for conducting this sale. The purchaser shall be required to assume and pay all real property taxes for the year 1994.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 14th day of July, 1994.
 James R. Allen,
 Master Commissioner
 Floyd Circuit Court
