Age doesn't pose detour for driver

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

What do most 14-year-olds do?

They watch a lot of television. Play the Nintendo games. Take in a movie or two and talk on the phone to a favorite person.

But not for Jimmy Branham Jr., son of Carol and Jimmy Branham of Martin. Life is filled with more thrills than all of that. At the age of 14 Branham became the youngest race car driver at Thunder Ridge when he teamed with his brother, Harry, and competed in last Saturday's UMP Open Wheel Modified race.

"Yeah, it is unusual," said Branham of his entering the race that pits men against men (err, boys). "I don't even have a drivers license yet."

But for Branham, it hasn't been a spur of the moment decision to be a race car driver. He has been at it for over a year now, but not as involved as he is now.

His father is the owner of the Salyersville speedway and the track was closed last Saturday because of the tremendous draw that Thunder Ridge has had. Rumor has it that the track will reopen but on Fridays.

used to run in the Bomber Division at the Salyersville track until they decided to enter the next level — the modifieds.

The Branham boys purchased their open wheel car last Saturday, the day that Branham would drive in his first modified race.

"I have no experience as far as driving in the open wheel modifieds," said Branham. "We had an old bomber and that is what I started with. This is my first time in a modified."

"We will take turns in driving our car," said Harry Branham. "Jimmy's going to drive tonight and I will the next week."

Referred to by many as "Little" Jimmy, he mounted his modified open wheel car and took his practice turns before the start of the heat races.

Once on the track and running with competition, you could see that at times he was unsure of himself, but at other times he looked confident going around the turns.

How did he feel?

"I was scared at first," he admitted following his first heat race.

The fear did not appear to bother him any as he lapped the field in the feature race only to see his car spin out with a

Floyd man to go before grand jury

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The case of a Toler Creek man charged with murder in the July 17 shooting death of his brother has been waived to the Floyd County Grand Jury.

At a preliminary hearing Wednesday in Floyd District Court, Judge Danny Caudill ruled that enough evidence was presented to establish probable cause that Jackie M. Ray, 45, was responsible for the death of his brother, Allan Tommy Ray, 41, of Lexington.

Kentucky State Police detective Larry Woods testified Wednesday that Jackie Ray told him he had shot his brother after the two had words.

"He said he asked his brother to leave (his home) and he wouldn't," Woods testified. "(Jackie Ray) said (his brother) came at him swinging and (Jackie Ray) pulled the gun out of his pants pocket and shot him."

Woods said that when state police troopers arrived at the scene, Jackie Ray was kneeling beside his brother in the yard holding what appeared to be a paper towel on the gun shot wound in Allan Ray's head. The handgun was lying in the yard at Jackie Ray's home, Woods said.

Woods testified that he found no signs on the hands of Allan Ray or Jackie Ray that the two had fought with their fists and that there was no evidence at the scene of a physical altercation.

Allan Ray died on July 18 at the U.K. Medical Center in Lexington.

Deadline drawing near to file for fall election

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

With four days to go until the filing deadline, two current school board members and a Wayland City Councilman have filed to retain their seats in November.

As of Thursday afternoon, district five school board member Phyllis Burnette Honshell and district one board member Dolores Smith filed with County Clerk Carla Boyd to be placed on the November ballot.

One other seat on the board, in educational district two, will also be on the ballot in November. Ray Brackett is the board member for district two.

In the Wayland City Council race, two seats will be on the ballot to fill unexpired two-year terms because two members of the council have resigned.

Curtis W. Tufts, a council member who resigned earlier this year and was reappointed to his seat, filed with the county clerk for re-election this fall.

Also, a seat on the Wayland council vacated by William Henegar will be on the ballot.

Boyd said Thursday that as of Wednesday no one had officially resigned their seat on the Wheelwright City Commission, although it had been announced that at least one commissioner would resign.

Luther Johnson Jr. announced last month that he would resign his seat

Martin swimming in water problems

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Although it was a different day and a different meeting, the issues discussed were the same at Wednesday's session of the Martin City Council.

Council has been trying for the past several months to figure out a way to get a handle on the finances of the city water department and, also, to hire a city attorney.

On the water issue, council is concerned about the number of delinquent customers and the amount of money owed to the city. They also claim that they cannot get accurate information about the financial condition of the department for the office manager.

Council is also concerned about an increase in water rates from Prestonsburg Utilities, which was passed several years ago. Council members said they were unaware of rate increases passed in 1988 and 1993 for water furnished to the city.

Martin officials purchase water from Prestonsburg Utilities for their customers.

Council is concerned because there was no adjustment in customer rates to compensate for the rate increase from Prestonsburg, which, coupled with the amount of money owed to the city by delinquent customers, has put the city in a financial bind.

Mayor Raymond Griffith said that he was unaware of the increase imposed in May 1993 and told council he was "trying to find out about it."

City clerk Johnnie B. Stephens told council that representatives from the Big Sandy Area Development District are recommending an increase in customer rates to offset the costs.

Councilman Alan Whicker said that council needed to know the financial condition of the department before an increase could even be considered.

"I'm not making any move to increase water rates until we know what we have in that department," Whicker said. "I won't never touch it until I know what we've got."

Libby Ratcliff, with Big Sandy ADD, recommended that council thoroughly review the records of the water department, as soon as possible, to determine the revenues and expenses of that office.

Whicker said that he "would not trust those books" in the water department and added that council would probably have to start from scratch to compile records. He also suggested that an office manager be hired for the water department.

Councilman Everett Akers Jr. continued to voice his concern about the situation.

"If we don't get a handle on the water system, we're not going to own it much longer," Akers said. "It's not our fault, but if we don't do something, it will be our fault."

Councilwoman Hazel Robinson agreed something needs to be done quickly.

"I don't care what we do, just hurry and get something done while I'm alive," Robinson said.

Council agreed to meet with Eric Ratliff, with Big Sandy ADD, to develop a proposal for an analysis of the water department's finances. A special meeting was called for Thursday, August 4 at 7 p.m. to discuss the proposal.

On the issue of hiring a city attorney, the mayor told council that lawyers James D. Adams II and Sheridan Martin declined the city's proposed salary of $300 per month for their services. The mayor said both attorneys wanted the city to include health insurance in their employment package.

I-66 needs federal money for Ky. design

Kentucky transportation officials have requested nearly $1 million in federal money to begin looking at the feasibility of building the Kentucky portion of a proposed national highway system.

U.S. Representative Hal Rogers has recently urged federal transportation officials to support the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet's $975,000 request for preliminary work for the Kentucky segment of I-66.

According to Rogers, I-66 would benefit the southern and eastern regions of the state.

"It is important to begin work as soon as possible," Rogers said in a letter to U.S. Department of Transportation Secretary Federico Pena and other federal highway officials. "The Kentucky segment of I-66 would provide numerous benefits to the southern and eastern region of the state, a region vastly underserved by the interstate highway system."

Kentucky Transportation Cabinet Secretary Don C. Kelly requested the funds in late June to continue moving forward on the I-66 project.

Tommy Franklin showed his Hometown Hero Award Wednesday to one of his many friends of Riverview Manor Nursing Home. Franklin received the award from WSAZ Wednesday.

Area volunteer is Hometown Hero

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

The folks at Riverview Manor Nursing Home know Tommy Franklin is a hero. After all, he brings sunshine and song into their lives.

On August 13, the folks living in the tri-state area of Kentucky, West Virginia and Ohio will also know that Franklin is a hero when WSAZ airs its Hometown Hero segment.

WSAZ's Randy Yohe filmed Franklin's volunteer work at the nursing home Wednesday and presented him with a certificate proclaiming him a "Hometown Hero."

Franklin captured the attention of the television station when his story appeared in the Progress edition of the Floyd County Times in June.

"I saw the story... It just jumped right out at me," Yohe said Wednesday. "The whole section was good."

Yohe said the WSAZ newsroom has a large stack of nominations for Hometown Hero. "In this day and age of hard news, bad news, taxes and drugs, people really look forward to the Hometown Hero series," he said.

Franklin's name was among that stack of nominations, said Roger Lyons, who heads the Hometown Hero project, and the Times' story confirmed the youth's dedication.

The Hometown Hero award honors someone who gives something back to the community, Lyons said.

Franklin, the son of Roy and Mary Franklin of Lancer, gives to the community by giving to the residents of Riverview Manor. He visits residents at the nursing home once or twice a week. During his visits, he performs on the piano, mainly playing old hymns. He encourages the residents to join him in singing gospel songs, such as "Amazing Grace," and "Just a Closer Walk With Thee."

Often, he brings gifts or birthday cards. He also visits the residents individually, sometimes reading the Bible to them or just listening to them quoting the Bible to him.

As WSAZ filmed the teen's work at the nursing home, Franklin chatted with nursing home resident, Alma Collins, 76. Collins' face beamed as she quoted Scripture while Franklin smiled and encouraged her when her memory faltered.

In a window near where the two sat discussing the Bible and also the youth's dread of the school days ahead, a framed certificate praised Collins' ability to bring light into the lives of others. The senior citizen was awarded a Certificate of Merit "for her love and friendship she gives to other residents."

Collins reached across the short distance between them and patted Franklin's arm. "I think it's wonderful what you do," she said.

The teen said there were many others who wanted to visit the nursing home, but they didn't know how to start, or didn't have time.

"You have to make that a part of your time," the youth explained, "Say you have to go to school, you have to

Wickes Lumber Company reports strong second quarter results

Wickes Lumber Company, one of the country's largest materials suppliers to building professionals, this week reported strong sales gains and a doubling of net income for the second quarter ended June 25, 1994. Company officials noted that its healthy performance in the second quarter resulted in a first half significantly better than last year's, despite a first quarter adversely affected by severe weather.

Second quarter net sales increased 13.7 percent to $259.3 million compared to $228.0 for the year ago period. Same store sales increased 14.2% over the second quarter of 1993. Net income recovered strongly from first quarter 1994 increasing to $7.4 million, or $1.21 per share, compared to $3.6 million, or $0.59 per pro forma share reported for the year ago period. The share numbers for 1993 are pro forma because of the Company's initial public offering in October of 1993.

For the first half of 1994, net sales increased 10.3 percent to $408.9 million from $370.8 million in 1993 and increased 10.7 percent on a same store basis. The Company's net loss for the first half of 1994 decreased to $1.4 million, or $0.22 per share, from a net loss of $3.2 million, or $0.53 per pro forma share, for the comparable 1993 period. The 1993 net loss was decreased by a one-time gain of $0.8 million related to the sale of excess real estate.

"Year to date performance is much improved despite our weather hampered results in the first quarter," stated J. Steven Wilson, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. "During the second quarter, we realized the expected productivity improvements our associates worked so hard to achieve. SG&A expenses excluding depreciation and amortization declined to 18.9 percent of sales in the second quarter of 1994 compared to 20.1 percent of sales reported for the year ago period." According to Wilson, the Company has spent much effort during 1993 and first quarter 1994 redirecting more of its resources to servicing its core customer—the building professional, upgrading its computer systems and investing in its delivery fleet.

Because of that increased focus on the professional, gross margins experienced some decline to 23.9 percent of sales for the second quarter compared to 24.5 percent for the year ago quarter. "More importantly," emphasized Wilson, "second quarter income as a percent of sales increased significantly from 4.1 percent in 1993 to 5.1 percent in 1994."

Wickes Lumber is one of the largest suppliers of building materials in the United States. The Company sells its products and services primarily to building professionals, as well as do-it-yourselfers involved in major home improvement projects. The company operates 124 building centers in 23 states in the Midwest, Northeast and South and six component manufacturing facilities that produce and distribute pre-hung doors units, roof and floor trusses and framed wall panels.

Kentucky native to head Rural Economic Development Center

Hilda Gay Legg, a former co-chair of the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has been selected director of the Kentucky Rural Economic Development Center (RDC) located adjacent to Somerset Community College.

The center will serve some 40 counties in southern and eastern Kentucky. University of Kentucky Community College Chancellor Ben Carr and U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers (KY-5) led the announcement and introduction of Legg at a morning press conference July 25 on the UK campus in Lexington.

Legg's appointment will be recommended to the UK Board of Trustees for approval at its August 16 meeting.

Rogers, who has spearheaded the effort to build the center, said the appointment of Legg gives the center "the experienced leadership we need to promote jobs and development throughout our region. Hilda's background and capabilities are the perfect match for this national model."

Chancellor Carr said the announcement concludes a seven-month search that attracted candidates from throughout the nation.

Legg will lead and coordinate the activities of the $14.6 million center, currently under construction in Somerset. The 89,500 square-foot center, expected to be completed in the fall of 1995, will promote cooperation among some 40 counties on economic development initiatives, including industrial recruitment, tourism promotion, education attainment, job training and agricultural diversification.

The center will house offices for existing and future development organizations, satellite television link-ups, state-of-the-art computer systems, a convention hall and conference rooms, UK College of Agriculture offices, an 800-seat theater and a Kentucky Educational Television (KET) production studio.

Legg, a native of Adair county, said the center will focus on developing projects that create jobs and improve life in every community throughout the region. "Our mission is to help the communities of this region develop themselves, using the experts and modern technology available through the Rural Development Center," said Legg. "There is no limit to what we can do."

As the Federal Co-Chair of the Appalachian Regional Commission, Legg was responsible for a $190 million budget used for creating jobs, building infrastructure, improving education and work force training and numerous other programs designed to help Appalachian communities in 13 states, including Kentucky.

In addition, Legg served at the U.S. Department of Education in Washington and also was a member of the faculty and administration of Lindsey Wilson College in Columbia. She currently serves on the Board of Trustees at Alice Lloyd College in Knott County.

Harry Branham said that there's no money to be made in racing, but it is fun.

"It's a good hobby for us," he said. "We like to work out with it and drive it."

Harry, who has played other sports, including football at Allen Central, says no other sport compares to it.

"I like it better than any other sport that I have competed in," he said. "We want to go to other places as a race team."

How did he rate his younger brothers performance?

"He did all right," he said. "He will get better at it. He just needs to pull in more on the turns."

Steve Francis of Ashland began his racing career at the ripe old age of 15. But he started in the prestigious Late Model Division. Today, Francis is third in the nation in points 10 years later.

But don't fret for this 14-year-old. His car will be back and fans will be seeing more of the youngster in the future.

make time for that. You have to make for certain things."

At one point during the filming, Collins turned to the camera and declared, "He belongs to us."

She told Yohe that she doesn't have any visitors because her family is "all dead and gone," and that the teen brought "Joy and a big smile" with him.

"He just makes you happy to see him," she said, with a smile that radiated the love and fellowship she feels for the youth.

Yohe likened the relationship between the residents of the nursing home and the teen to that of a family.

"He could be their grandson," the WSAZ newsman said. "That's what kind of companionship he has with them."

Yohe said it was "refreshing to see a 15-year-old young fellow come on out and give of his time, without asking anything back."

"A number of other teens who do too much cruising and partying could take lessons from Tommy Franklin," he said.

The Hometown Hero tribute to Franklin will air Saturday, August 13, during the 6 p.m. news. To nominate a Hometown Hero, write WSAZ at P.O. Box 2115, Huntington, West Virginia 25721.

Councilman Whicker suggested that the city readvertise for an attorney and councilman Akers suggested that the salary be increased to $400 per month.

Libby Ratcliff told council that they had to have an attorney by next month in order to close the bond sale on the city's $2 million sewer project. She added that there were a number of matters connected to the sewer project that they needed an attorney to oversee.

Mayor Griffith and council weren't too optimistic about the situation.

"We ain't got a lawyer and we can't get a lawyer," the mayor commented. "We've wore out two already and we're starting on the third."

"Can't we rent an attorney for one night?" Councilwoman Robinson asked. "Sometimes you can't be choosy and you have to take what you can get."

Council agreed to readvertise and increase the salary to $400 per month.

Councilman Denzil Halbert was absent from Wednesday's meeting.

The highway law enacted by Congress in 1993, ISTEA, made the I-66 corridor a high priority corridor, Rogers said. The House-passed National Highway System Designation Act of 1994 approves the southern and eastern Kentucky route of I-66. Once enacted, the Kentucky segment will become a part of the National Highway System.

Current law authorizes $8 million per year for feasibility studies on high priority corridors, which Rogers hopes to tap for the Kentucky I-66 planning work.

KET program examines rural Kentucky drive-ins

"Relax under nature's own canopy! Enjoy an evening's entertainment in the comfort of your car! Convenient! Time-saving! And there's no need to dress up!"

So beckons a familiar, deep-voiced announcer to the family pictured in their snappy convertible, circa 1950, in the first seconds of Dusk 'til Dawn: Kentucky Rural Drive-In Theaters, a look at several of the drive-ins still in business in small Kentucky towns. It airs on KET at 10 p.m. Saturday, August 6.

Rather than focus on the demise of the theaters at the hands of enemies that range from daylight savings time to the video industry, the documentary takes a close look at drive-ins that continue to operate successfully in rural Kentucky towns of Paris, Marion, Mount Sterling, Mayfield, and Irvington.

Producer George Maranville, who received a production grant from the KET Fund for Independent Production, talked with the owners and operators of these drive-ins about what they liked best and least about the business, the competition, their favorite stories, and the future of drive-ins.

"For owners and operators, there's a magnet that holds up to the drive-in business," claims Don Ford, owner of Irvington Drive-In, who has seen this cultural icon evolve from the only thing going in most small towns to just another entertainment option.

Ford, who says he can't imagine doing anything else for a living, has seen a return to more families at the drive-in.

"These same kids I used to get after with the flashlight are now here with their kids," he said.

Very Important Night combining birthday celebrations with talent spotlights

In honor of its thirtieth anniversary, Jenny Wiley Theatre has organized a "Very Important Night" to thank its generous contributors through the years.

In a special night of entertainment scheduled for Tuesday, August 2, that will begin with dessert and beverages at 7:30 p.m., a unique cabaret performance featuring this summer's cast will be highlighted by performances of scenes and songs from some of the most popular Broadway musicals of all time.

The resident actors of Jenny Wiley Theatre will have the chance to perform some of their favorite musical selections that they do not have the chance to perform regularly during the season. The musical cabaret, which is being titled "Broadway Show-Stoppers," will be composed mostly of Broadway musicals, including selections from Fiddler on the Roof, City of Angels, Beauty and the Beast, Phantom of the Opera and Les Miserables. Also the Youth Company and Apprentice company will be performing songs from The Sound of Music.

With such a wide array of parts to be performed, Eastern Kentucky theatre enthusiasts will get a chance to see some of their favorite Jenny Wiley actors in roles that will be fresh and new, both for the audience and for the performers, according to Bob Bogdanoff, director of this year's Peter Pan and The Gin Game.

"When we cast, we cast people for very specific roles" Bogdanoff said. "But, when you begin a cabaret show such as this, it gives everyone a chance to display some of their different ranges that they may not have exposed in their previous roles."

All contributors to the theatre will be presented with two free tickets to the showcase performance as a small token of appreciation for the consideration they have shown the theatre through its first 30 years. Additional tickets are available to the public at regular ticket prices—$13 for adults, $12 seniors and $7 students. Showtime for the August 2 performance will be 8:15 p.m. For additional information contact the Jenny Wiley Theatre box office at (606) 886-9274.

Lethal weapons 13

Guns don't kill people? Facts say otherwise

A bullet fired from a gun. Nothing more, nothing less.

That's what killed Ronald Lewis as he sat in the bedroom of his Aspendale Drive apartment. One bullet smashed through his draped window and struck him in the head.

Police suspect Lewis was the victim of random, aimless gunfire.

That makes him different from Sharon Givens, Bartt Mills, Timothy Lynch and the nine other homicide victims killed by guns in Lexington this year. (That total doesn't count Jay Chapel or Brandon Michael Stone Odom, two teen-agers found shot to death in a neighborhood park. It doesn't count Jeremy Stone, either, a 20-month-old whom police suspect was shot to death by his father, who then turned the gun on himself. Police haven't yet ruled whether these three deaths were homicides.)

Each of these cases is different. But all are similar in one way: All the victims died of gunshot wounds.

Gun enthusiasts and the National Rifle Association extol the bearing of arms as an uncompromisable right. Confronted with the rising toll of gun-related carnage, they respond with the motto, "guns don't kill people, people do."

Gun laws, they say, punish law-abiding citizens and won't stop crime.

If guns are taken away criminals will find another way to carry out violent crimes, whether it be with a knife or a baseball bat.

What will you do then, they say, outlaw cutlery and Louisville Sluggers?

But the rhetoric crumbles under the weight of reality.

So far this year, 13 out of 15 homicides in Lexington have been committed with guns. Obviously, a strong connection exists between guns and lethal crime.

In a society that often searches for the easiest way to do things, guns simplify the most terrible act we are capable of: murder.

It wasn't a knife or a baseball bat that crashed through Ron Lewis' window. It was a bullet. No one had to think or even make an effort to commit the act that took his life. All the killer had to do was pull a trigger.

The person responsible may never be caught. But while the identity of Lewis' killer remains a mystery, there is no question as to what killed him and twelve other people in Lexington this year.

The obituaries don't lie. Guns do kill people. Anyone who thinks otherwise is living in a dream world.

Reader says auger mining threatens the "Homeplace"

Editor:

Once again the homplace is under attack. In 1988 Kentuckians stated by an 82 percent vote that "Grandpa never intended to allow mining to destroy his land when he sold the minerals at the beginning of this century." This vote to adopt the broadform deed amendment should have stopped the 40 years of abuse from the mining industry.

But a recent threat to the homeplace comes from auger mining. Auger mining destroys water and buildings as the mountains fall into excavated coal seams. This form of mining has always been regulated and taxed as surface mining. However, Secretary Phillip Shepherd has recently allowed permits for auger mining without surface owners' permission. I believe his actions are in direct conflict to the broadform deed amendment.

Kentuckians For The Commonwealth has invited Secretary Shepherd to the coalfields to hear from people affected by auger mining. He will be in Hazard at the Gorman Center on Tuesday, August 2 at 1:30 p.m. to hear from people directly affected by auger mining without landowners' consent.

Everyone is invited to attend and let Phillip Shepherd know how you feel about protecting surface owners' rights. For more information, call KFTC at (606) 886-0043.

Nation has reason to feel fat, if not sassy

Our heads are as thick as our middles these days. We're told what is good to eat (the green stuff) and what is bad to eat (the delicious stuff), but we refuse to follow the rules. We're told to get off the couch, turn off the television and shuffle around the den a few laps, but we refuse to do it. Mostly, we're encouraged by advertisers to eat more food than we need.

So guess what? We're fat and getting fatter. The Centers for Health Statistics in the National Centers for Disease Control and Prevention delivered the unappetizing news this week. For 20 years, we held steady—about one-fourth of the adult population was overweight, defined as being 20 percent or more above a person's desirable body weight. Then, in 1980-91, the percentage of obese adults jumped to one-third of all adults. Call it the Feed Decade, because we certainly tied on the feed bag.

"The proportion of the population that is obese is incredible," Dr. F. Xavier Pi-Sunyer, a professor of medicine at Columbia University, said in The New York Times. "If this was about tuberculosis, it would be called an epidemic."

His message should trouble Kentuckians, who already had confessed to the Centers for Disease Control in the late 1980s that they had risky health habits. Those habits included staying overweight and leading a sedentary lifestyle, along with smoking and failing to buckle their seat belts. That 36-state survey caused Kentucky to land in the group of states with the riskiest health behaviors.

This week's announcement offered no startling revelation about what causes obesity. It's the same old story: a sedentary life style and too much food.

Those who would have us slim down for our health's sake hope the study will provide additional support for a massive national campaign against obesity. The nutrition education would counter the food messages that cause us to reach for the cookie jar.

The campaign sounds like a good idea. Until someone invents a recliner that burns as many calories as a Stairmaster, turning up the volume and the frequency of messages on sensible eating couldn't hurt.—Lexington Herald-Leader

New money—U.S. should change its change, too

Money never goes out of style, they say. But after 65 years of seeing Washington, Lincoln, Jackson, Hamilton and those (for most of us) less-familiar faces in virtually the same old greenback wardrobes, it's good to know the U.S. Treasury soon will be outfitting them in new threads—plus a watermark, colorshifting ink and other hard-to-duplicate features designed to frustrate a growing international army of electronic counterfeiters.

Details of the proposed changes in U.S. currency design are still being worked out. But the first new, counterfeit-proof bills are expected to enter circulation in 1996, with the old bills being phased out as they wear out.

This is in urgent response to the growing popularity and sophistication of the electronic copying machine, which can do routinely what generations of highly skilled photoengravers never succeeded in accomplishing: print near-perfect copies of U.S. money.

By one estimate, $240 billion in phony bills will be seized this year—an amount equal to two-thirds the value of all legitimate U.S. currency now in circulation worldwide. Since fake $100s are especially popular among international money forgers, they will probably be the first to be printed with the new counter-counterfeiting features.

But if the U.S. Treasury is going to start changing the money, why stop with the design of bills? Why not make other long-recommended changes as well?

Why, for example, design a new $1 bill when the far better idea would be to do away with the paper dollar and mint a well-designed $1 coin instead—or even a $2 one? Just because the poorly conceived Susan B. Anthony $1 coin didn't take doesn't mean the country isn't ready for a $1 piece that doesn't look like a discolored quarter.

And isn't it about time to end all this talk about getting rid of the penny by finally getting rid of the penny? Not only is the copper coin virtually worthless by itself these days as a medium of exchange, but people keep hoarding them in piggy banks and Mason jars—causing periodic penny shortages and forcing the mint to churn out billions more virtually worthless pennies so people can stash them away as well.

None of this might do much to bolster the value of the dollar against the Japanese yen, but it would sure bring some sanity to a money system that is being rendered obsolete by a combination of inflation and modern technology.

Other countries have long ago taken comparable steps with their own currencies. With the 21st century looming, it's time the United States did so, too—as a matter of dollars and common sense.

Peeping Toms at the IRS

There was actually a time in the not so distant past when most folks believed the personal financial information they shared with the Internal Revenue Service would be treated as confidential.

The understanding was that bureaucrats eager to peruse your tax records out of idle curiosity, or for some more sinister unofficial purpose, would not have access to them. Remember the uproar when President Nixon's henchmen tried to use tidbits gleaned from tax files to manipulate his "enemies"?

The most disheartening aspect of the latest IRS snooping scandal is the ho-hum reaction of many taxpayers. "What else is new?" they ask. Under pressure from government and commercial information collectors, privacy is in full retreat.

The expectation of privacy may never have been fully warranted. Even before the computer, IRS functionaries surely rooted around in file cabinets in search of juicy information about their neighbors.

But hardly anyone these days believes government will honor its commitment to keep the snoops at bay, especially now that computers allow countless workers to poke into other people's business.

If, as many of us believe, a decent respect for privacy is one of the hallmarks of a civilized society, then clearly we're going backward.

It's reassuring that IRS chief Margaret Richardson has "zero tolerance" for unauthorized browsing in financial records. The agency's answer is $8 billion worth of computer improvements that will make the system more secure—assuming Congress supplies the money.

Meanwhile, you might just as well distribute your tax returns around the neighborhood—unless, of course, your old buddy down at the IRS office beats you to it.—Louisville Courier-Journal

Economic trends modestly encouraging

by Kenneth Eskey
Scripps Howard News Service

This being the time of year when school is out, traffic is light and families are getting ready to go on vacation, only the brave and the foolish are willing to make economic predictions.

The problem is that nothing seems to be happening. So how can you tell whether the economy is doing well, doing poorly or simply operating on automatic pilot until September?

Even the traditional summer rally in the stock market is expected to be something of a dud this year. "Analysts expect a summer rally, but nothing special," says The Wall Street Journal.

Some economic indicators are turning down, not up, and the conventional wisdom among forecasters goes like this: The economy will expand in the second half of the year, but not much. Higher interest rates will make it harder to buy a house or a car. Look for modest growth this summer and fall, maybe 2 percent.

With all due respect, the conventional wisdom may be wrong.

Despite much talk of a summer slowdown, the economy is healthy enough to maintain a 3 percent growth rate—or better—for the rest of the year. Here's why:

—The impact of higher short-term interest rates has been exaggerated. Houses are selling, and so are cars. New increases in short-term rates are unlikely, and long-term rates could come down a notch by the end of the year.

—The unemployment rate, while still too high, is down to 6 percent and could go lower. Companies that cut their work forces to the bone during the recession are rehiring to keep up with customer demand.

—Inflation is under control. The inflation rate has been 3 percent or less since 1991, no cause for alarm. The Federal Reserve Board likes to fret about an overheated economy, but signs of overheating are few and far between.

Not all forecasters are bearish. Business economists who work for corporations and banks are predicting 3.6 percent growth this year, the best since 1988. Forecasters at Indiana University expect 3.4 percent growth in 1994.

To some extent, the outlook depends on where you live.

California, especially Southern California, has been badly hurt by cutbacks in military spending. The statewide unemployment rate was 8.3 percent in May, well above the national average.

On the other hand, the jobless rate in North Carolina was only 4 percent in May, well below the national average.

Minorities, particularly young black men, have unacceptably high unemployment rates, mainly because teenagers with no skills have a tough time breaking into a labor market that demands basic proficiency in reading and computing.

But the unemployment rate for men over 20 and women over 20 ranges from 5.2 to 5.4 percent, an indication that most teen-agers do find jobs as they mature and get additional education.

The market for college graduates is modestly improved this year, with the emphasis on "modest." The graduate who expects to start at $50,000 a year, preferably in New York, Washington or San Francisco, is likely to end up at $25,000 a year in a small Midwestern city.

A law degree or an MBA is no guarantee of a good job, and the applicant who asks about pension benefits is a sure loser.

The best advice to the Class of '94 is this: If you get a decent job offer, take it. Having a foot on the ladder is better than sitting at home waiting for your dream job to come along.

Attorney to head Prichard committee

William McCann, a Lexington attorney, has been elected chair of the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence.

McCann, an attorney with Wyatt, Tarrant and Combs, was a member and then chairman of the Kentucky Council of Higher Education, serving on the council when it created the group which later became the Prichard Committee. He has also served as a member of the Kentucky Commission on Vocational/Technical Education, as a board member and president of the Kentucky Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, and in several other community and civic activities.

Wade May resigns county board seat

A Johnson County school board member has resigned his seat, meaning there will be an additional county board post up for election this November.

Wade May of Leander, who represented District Three, submitted his resignation Monday. It became effective at the end of Monday night's county board meeting.

May, whose resignation had been rumored for several months, gave no reason for giving up his board seat with two years left on his term. He could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

His exit from the board sets the stage for three county board races this November. Persons interested in running for the vacancy must file by next Tuesday, August 2.

State Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen will appoint a temporary replacement to serve until the November election.—Paintsville Herald

Ruling favors Johnson PVA

Johnson County Property Valuation Administrator Custer Picklesimer won a third battle last week in his legal battle to keep his job.

The Kentucky Supreme Court last Thursday upheld a temporary injunction issued by Johnson Circuit Judge James A. Knight prohibiting the state Revenue Cabinet from removing Picklesimer from office. The high court denied a motion by cabinet officials to review a Court of Appeals decision that had also upheld the injunction.

Justices unanimously ruled that Knight's February 8 injunction was proper and excused Picklesimer for filing his performance bond late.

"This is a victory for me and for the people in that the court upheld their constitutional right to elect the people they want to serve them," Picklesimer said Monday.

Picklesimer's case began in July 1993 when the Revenue Cabinet removed him from office for not performing a required number of property reassessments. Although he was re-elected last November, Picklesimer was not allowed to return to work.

He filed suit in January in an effort to get his job back. The Revenue Cabinet argued, among other things, that Picklesimer could not take office because he failed to post on time a state-mandated fidelity bond.

But Knight sided with Picklesimer, saying the late bond was excused "given the repeated assurances (from the Revenue Cabinet) that he would not be allowed to take office regardless of bond."

The judge also issued the temporary injunction permitting Picklesimer to take office pending a post-removal hearing by cabinet officials. The Supreme Court agree with both actions.—Paintsville Herald

Jones gives support for local golf course

In December, when John C. Kirk proposed putting an 18-hole championship caliber golf course in Martin County, he had the support of Martin County Fiscal Court and little else.

Seven months later, he has the support of Gov. Brereton Jones and the state park commissioner Mark Lovely, who met with Martin County Judge-Executive Kelly Callahan and Inez attorney John W. Kirk about the project.

What the governor finds so attractive is that the Kirk's proposal will not cost taxpayers any money. The course, which if approved and constructed, will be located near the Big Sandy Regional Airport. The course's construction hinges on the cooperation of the Pocahontas Land Corporation, which owns the property that would be most suitable for the course. The land, once leased by Cumberland Coal Company, has already been mined and reclaimed. County officials have been working on a dialogue with Pocahontas officials to try and get the 400 acres needed for the course.

"What would happen is that the county would get the property and we would lease it from them," Kirk said. We would build the course with our own funds. The county would lose nothing at all."

The state has commissioned about $1 million to survey the eastern Kentucky region for a suitable place for a Jenny Wiley golf course, which will cost some $6 million to build and will be funded by the taxpayers (the Jenny Wiley course is supported by State House of Representatives majority leader Greg Stumbo).

The Kirks are prepared to pay up to $5 million for the course's construction.

After Monday's meeting, Lovely tentatively agreed to help Kirk and county officials set up a meeting with Pocahontas officials about getting the acreage.—Mountain Citizen

RELIGIOUS LESSONS FROM RUSSIA?

by Stephen Whitaker
Pastor, Fitzpatrick
First Baptist Church

It was almost more than I could believe! This was Russia, the land of Lenin, Marx, and communism and yet a preacher from Kentucky sat amidst Russian believers in a Baptist church worshipping God together with them. I was in Penza, 500 miles from Moscow. Here the buildings look aged, even the new ones, and most locals live in apartments or log homes. Life is simple for most; no fast food, not many cars, and activities for entertainment are few. Yet they are proud of their culture and heritage. I've never heard the terms "famous" or "the best" applied to so many things.

However, in all honesty, we in America do have the best of modern technology and entertainment opportunities. But simultaneously it has become an anathema for us to break our self-encompassing schedules to take time to help our neighbor or to take our responsibilities to God and to the church seriously.

Russians are nothing if not serious, even about religion. I guess one becomes that way when a belief in God may land you in a labor camp or when you study a year of atheism in school. A Christian may be hard to find, but people willing to talk seriously about Christ will gather on the streetcorner. Worship of God may not be on everyone's list of possible weekend activities, but those who worship, do so from their hearts.

Perhaps in our search for "the good life" we have allowed ourselves to become too flippant concerning the real issues of life. We seek entertainment for our own benefit to help us forget about the serious problems that plague us. We play instead of pray, shop instead of share, take time for pleasure, but still don't please the Giver of life.

We were told they would teach us how to cry. My heart does cry now, not just for them but for us, who through our prosperity have left priorities for pleasure. "[For men shall be] lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness but denying the power thereof: from such turn away." 2 Timothy 3:4-5

Seventh-day Adventists Believe . . .

The Lord's Supper is a participation in the emblems of the body and blood of Jesus as an expression of faith in Him, our Lord and Saviour. In this experience of communion Christ is present to meet and strengthen His people. As we partake, we joyfully proclaim the Lord's death until He comes again. Preparation for the Supper includes self-examination, repentance, and confession. The Master ordained the service of foot washing to signify renewed cleansing, to express a willingness to serve one another in Christlike humility, and to unite our hearts in love. The communion service is open to all believing Christians.—Fundamental Beliefs, 15.

TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS

It's on everyone's tongues. Can O.J. get a fair trial? From what I've heard, he doesn't deserve one; however, this is America, and justice shall surely prevail.

From all indications, O.J. Simpson will receive a much fairer trial than any person who has ever gone into a courtroom. What lawyer would want to goof up? Particularly on national television. It will be fair all right because all America will be watching. Of course, this is just my opinion and everyone, literally everyone, has their own.

For example, I walked into a store last week and the first thing I was asked was, "Do you think O.J. Simpson killed his ex-wife?" Before I could reply, the man began recanting his theory of why he thought O.J. had been framed. When I finally got the opportunity to tell what I thought, he said that his wife was in agreement with me.

I am old enough to remember when O.J. first came on the football scene. Personally, I was a Broadway Joe Namath fan, but young O.J. won a lot of hearts, not to mention a lot of football games for his team. His personal life wasn't an issue with people who wanted a hero to admire. And after all, that was when wife-beating was "acceptable" behavior.

Wife-beating is not funny. In my opinion, to engage in it, one has to be the lowest form of human being. Most any man can overpower a woman. It is not an accomplishment. I rationalize it the way I do speeding. Anybody can drive fast, so what have you accomplished if you can go 100 m.p.h.? Keeping it on the road and avoiding an accident is the accomplishment. Similar to having children. Most people can have them, but the feat is rearing them to be responsible adults.

Maybe O.J. didn't beat his ex-wife. Maybe he didn't kill her. And maybe he has been framed, but what's worrying me now is that someone will find a hair on me that can be linked to the murder scene.

Seriously. Think of this. Maybe I touched a dollar bill that somehow ended up in Chicago. Coincidentally, the dollar bill was passed to O.J. in change at the hotel where he was staying. O.J. then carries the dollar bill back to L.A. where police confiscate the bill and test it for fingerprints. As a former state worker, my fingerprints are on record and they are traced back to me. The way the defense is making its arguments, this isn't as far-fetched as it sounds.

Honestly, folks. At the time the murders took place, I was home watching "My Life" with Michael Keaton and eating the super sized bag of Snyder's potato chips because I was P.M.S. At approximately 10:40, my husband started snoring and I turned up the video. About 15 minutes later, I put in the movie "Geronimo" and watched it until I fell asleep. I will swear, under oath, that the only time I was in Chicago was at the airport where we were laid over due to a storm. I think I'll keep a low profile until this thing is over.

THE TIMES' WEEKEND

Country sensation will be 'Kickin' it up' in Pikeville

John Michael Montgomery has proven that talent has a way of rising to the top. In a year that was notably tough on new artists, he became the only new million-seller to enter the highest ranks of country music in 1993.

It was a year he and his newfound fans will never forget. Country America Magazine put him at the front of its list of the class of 1993's new stars considered "Mostly Likely To Succeed." Entertainment Weekly's Alanna Nash listened to Montgomery's debut, "Life's A Dance", and wrote, "A star is born." And the Country Music Association's membership made him the only first-year contendeer for the esteemed Horizon Award.

Now John Michael wants to show what else he has in him. His second album, "Kickin' It Up," once again highlights the Kentucky-bred singer's gift at blending kicking honky tonk, uplifting contemporary country and emotionally effective ballads. But this time he turns up the heat and shows off the boisterous energy that has ignited fans at his live performances for the past year.

"There's a lot more of my rowdy, southern rock side on this album," Montgomery notes. "It's still got the traditional stuff and the kind of ballads that I love to sing, but it's also got a little more of an edge to it."

Of course, his gift for romantic understatement shines brightly, especially on the album's first hit single, the inspiring "I Swear." Of that song, John Michael says: "I like that song just as much as 'I Love The Way You Love Me.' It's a real positive, true-love song. It really gets down to what it's all about. It's the kind of song that people in love will identify with. And for those who want to fall in love, I hope it makes them think, 'That's the way I want to be someday.' Being a bachelor, I know that's the way it makes me feel."

Other songs sure to send lovers swooning include "Rope The Moon," "Oh How She Shines," "If You've Got Love," and the memorable Texas-styled waltz, "All In My Heart."

"I've been in love before," John Michael confides. "I know how good it feels when you're in love, and I know how it hurts when you fall out of love. The kind of love songs I like are the ones that make you feel good inside. They'll make you cry, but they're happy tears. I will always sing songs like that. People fall in love with the songs, and they keep coming back to them. If there's one thing that can be predicted in my career, it's that you can always look for those kinds of songs on my albums."

He also likes uptempo songs that make people feel good, too, especially the kind of energized tunes that motivate fans to get on their feet and forget their worries for awhile. Songs like the new honky tonk gem, "Friday at Five," or the jaunty "Full-Time Love," or the touching sentiment of "She Don't Need A Band To Dance."

John Michael Montgomery

"Those songs are what I call 'workingman's country,'" the singer explains. "I like to sing songs that relate to people's lives, and that relate to my life, too. I don't want to sing about something that someone else has been through but I haven't. Whatever the song is about, I have to feel that I've been there myself."

That's why he draws on songs that put a positive spin on the thoughts, feelings and actions that most people experience on a day-to-day basis. "I know what it's like to work every day and wait on that paycheck every week and to look forward to the weekend to come around," he says. "And I've had some heartbreaks and some heartaches, and I know how good love feels, too. Songs about those things are songs about everyday life. That's the kind of song I like."

"Kickin' It Up" bears out the camaraderie the singer and his producer Scott Hendricks enjoyed in the studio. It also shows off John Michael's commitment to powerful songs about everyday situations. John Michael's story is quickly becoming well-known: a longtime honky tonk favorite in his home region of Lexington, Kentucky, he grew up learning from his parents, both of whom were regional country performers. His father, Harold Montgomery, taught him guitar chords and persuaded him to join his family on stage as an acoustic guitar player and harmony singer.

After his parents' divorce, brother Eddie Montgomery replaced his mother on drums and John Michael began playing more guitar parts and occasionally singing lead. When his father decided to retire from performing for awhile, the band continued with John Michael as lead singer, Eddie as drummer and Tim Williams as bassist. Williams continues to play bass in John Michael's band today, and Eddie travels with them to help out on the road.

By the late 1980's Montgomery was a popular solo act in Kentucky, and the word eventually reached Atlantic Records in Nashville about this talented, lanky, blue-eyed singer who was knocking 'em dead in Lexington. A visit from an Atlantic executive led to a recording contract. With his platinum debut, "Life's A Dance," the rest of the world discovered what country fans in Lexington have long known: John Michael Montgomery is that rare singer who combines sincerity and tenderness with energy and courage.

"My music has already taken me further than I ever expected," John Michael says with characteristic humility. "My dream came true when they said they wanted to sign me to a record contract. Being a country music star was never in my mind, it was beyond my dreams. I still look at it that way. All I want is to be able to go out and do my shows. As long as people are there and they enjoy what I'm doing, I'll be happy. It's that simple."

John Michael Montgomery, will appear in concert in Pikeville during Autumn Jam II September 17. For tickets call 1-800-JAM-9994.

In letters to the Journal of the American Medical Association in May, two physicians referred to hundreds of their patients who had complained of bloating and upper abdominal discomfort and who had then been prescribed various ineffective gastrointestinal procedures. However, noting that among their patients with these complaints, the abdominal girth exceeds the pants size by an average of three inches, the two doctors labeled the malady "tight pants syndrome" and prescribed larger pants and suspenders.

— A January Reuters News Service story on Manuel Oliveira's ice cream shop in Merida, Venezuela, reported on his 567 flavors, including onion, chili, beer, eggplant, smoked trout, spaghetti parmesan, chicken with rice, and spinach. He said some flavors fail; he once abandoned avocado ice cream, and tossed out 99 pounds of it, because it wasn't smooth enough.

— The 58-year-old wife of Ethridge Leon "Bill" Carter died in April of a gunshot to the head in Heber Springs, Ark., the result, said Carter, of suicide. In 1992, Carter's second wife died of a gunshot, also self-inflicted, said Carter. In 1990, Carter's first wife drowned on a fishing trip the couple had taken by themselves.

— New York City police investigating a burglary at a debt collection agency in Queens happened upon a plastic case that contained 62 live Western diamondback rattlesnakes. Police said the three men who run the agency create souped-up vodka at $100 a pint to sell to Koreans in the neighborhood (floating snakes in the vodka to supply enhanced power).

— In November, a judge in Georgetown, Guyana, found Ronald Jonas guilty of punching his wife after she found him in bed with another woman and sentenced him to be "at her beck and call" for two weeks. "He is your slave," the judge said. "Anything you want him to do he has to do."

— In June, the Illinois Historic Preservation Agency and the Illinois Department of Transportation agreed that land near Edwardsville, Ill., containing Mississippian Indian remains about 1,000 years old, could be used as dirt for a new highway because the site was archaeologically not feasible to save.

LATEST HORMONE SURGES

— In February, a judge in Sydney, Australia, awarded $1.5 million against the driver of a car responsible for partially paralyzing Charmaine Johnston, now 35, in 1985. A portion of the damages was to care for Johnston's son, now 2, who the judge said was conceived as a result of Johnston's brain damage from the accident, which prompted her to act "impulsively and without judgment or thought of consequences" when an opportunity arose to have sex.

What do you say we take a look at some headlines? We did not make any of these up...

"TVA MAY BE INTERESTED IN BUYING BIG RIVERS"

Who knew they were for sale?

Bet the Arabs would like to buy one or two, too. Then they wouldn't have to tow in icebergs for drinking water.

"CLINTON COUNSEL DENIES WHITEWATER COVER-UP"

No, really?

Like the president's lawyer was going to testify that Clinton was guilty of unethical shennannigans.

"O.J.'S SON ARRESTED IN '92 ATTACK"

And he had a knife, too.

Could there be a genetic pattern developing here or has it just been a slow news week for O.J. addicts?

"MEDIA VISION SEEKS CHAPTER 11 STATUS"

We knew the media had tunnel vision, but this is worse than we thought.

"SIMPSON QUILTS POST WITH KNIFE FIRM"

CRITIC'S CORNER

FORREST GUMP

Hot off his Oscar win, Tom Hanks brings us yet another Academy Award winning performance in a movie that is sure to be a contender at next year's Oscar night. My only question is, why a summer release? I think Hanks' performance would be more easily remembered by the powers-that-be if it were still fresh. However, I'm sure it'll all come back to them when they start reviewing clips.

Forrest is an interesting character. With an I.Q. of 75, he still has an amazing philosophy of life. Because of his childlike perceptions, he is able to look at every experience of his life with a joy and wonder that is envious to behold. And his life is remarkable.

Gump may be dumb as the proverbial post, but he can run like the wind. Thus he becomes a college football star in Alabama (his home state). He goes on to serve in the Vietnam War, becoming a decorated war hero (he doesn't have the sense to be afraid). Because of his prowess at ping-pong, Gump is a key operative in the opening of China to the West. Incredibly, somehow, he becomes a successful millionaire entrepreneur and even manages to coach Elvis Presley on how to move when he sings along the way.

This is an incredible journey, punctuated throughout with Gump's own narrative. Hanks effects a wonderful, stilted Southern drawl for this which must have cost him untold hours of practice. In the end, it's so successful, you almost can't remember how Hanks really sounds!

Robin Wright portrays Jenny, Gump's lifelong love, although unrequited. If anything, she is Yin to his Yang. Where he is open and trusting and honest, she is manipulative and calculating. Yet, you see her through Gump's eyes, a victim of an abusive, alcoholic father and you can't help but feel sympathy.

The final scenes of this excellent film are what psychologists would probably call "closure." Gump returns to the boarding house where he grew up, at peace with himself and his life, and you are left weeping with the sheer poignancy and beauty of it all.

I can't find enough superlatives with which to describe this very brilliant movie. Suffice it to say, you MUST go see it. It is something Hollywood should do more of.

HOME TIPS

ORGANICANT CONTROL—For some reason this year, I had a problem with large black ants. They began swarming into our home and we couldn't seem to get rid of them. We bought all kinds of ant baits and traps but nothing worked. Personally, I hate the thought of sprays because of our pets and children. Also, most of the ants were concentrated in the kitchen where I prepare the food. I hated the thought of using chemicals in that room. In despair, my husband and I thought about hiring a professional exterminator.

When I happened to mention this to my father in a phone conversation, he told me to fill a spray bottle with white vinegar. He said whenever I see an ant, spray it directly with the vinegar and spray whatever surface the ants were on. I did exactly that and my father was right. The ants were eliminated and my home was once again bug-free. This sure beats using chemicals and spending money on an exterminator. Thanks, Dad! Diana A., Hopewell Jct., N.Y.

MORE ON VINEGAR—I have found another use for vinegar. I have oily hair and hair conditioners seemed to make it get dirty sooner.

I made a hair rinse using two cups of water and one cup of white vinegar. Shampoo and rinse as usual, then pour the vinegar and water solution on your hair. Do not rinse it out.

The vinegar smell will go away when your hair dries. My hair is soft and shiny and there were no tangles in it. Debra G., Levittown, Pa.

— In March, Judy Amos of Dayton, Ohio, was watching the news on TV when word came that two planes had collided at Pope Air Force Base in North Carolina, setting on fire a third plane on the ground filled with paratroopers, and she knew that her son, Chad Van Cleve, was a paratrooper on exercise at Pope. Amos' grandfather, four uncles, her father, and her sister had all died in fires. Van Cleve was indeed assigned to the plane that caught fire, in which 20 were killed and 80 injured, but minutes before the crash, he had left the plane to take a restroom break.

The parade of athletes will begin following the fly-over by the Kentucky National Guard.

Following the Oath of Athletes, the torch arriving from Frankfort will be used to ignite the huge Bluegrass State Flame at Commonwealth Stadium.

A Look At Sports

by Ed Taylor

HAPPY BIRTHDAY WISHES...

A belated happy birthday wish goes to Terrance Mullins of the South Floyd Raiders. Terrance plays football, basketball and baseball for the Raiders.

Happy birthday wishes to a good buddy, John Ortega. John turned 14 yesterday (Thursday). He plays basketball at Adams Middle School and was a member of the Prestonsburg Senior League All-Star team.

SENIOR LEAGUE TOURNAMENT...

The Senior League and Junior League tournament is being held in Pikeville this week. I had a chance to make a couple dates and I was glad to see such a large turnout.

Teams from London, Louisville, Greenup County, Boyd County and other places converged on the Pike County city and were treated to an excellent tournament.

All those folks spent money in Pikeville. They stayed in their motels, catered their restaurants and bought their gas while doing their shopping there. They were a boost to the city's economy.

Too bad they couldn't come to Floyd County. But, then again we didn't get to host the state tournament. Why? Lack of proper facilities. Why? No one really cares!

ARE THE DRIVERS DISGRUNTLED?

Thunder Ridge Speedway is a great place. The facility is no doubt top of the line when it comes to housing the fans.

But it takes more than fans to make stock car racing a success. It takes drivers and cars.

Down in the pit area last Saturday night, I heard some grumbling over the way things are being handled. Things like the track not being up to par. The long delays in getting the events started.

The biggest complaint was the condition of the track.

But, the folks at Thunder Ridge assured the drivers that things would get better. Some drivers talked of going elsewhere with their cars.

The track is still in its infancy and drivers need to be a little more patient. Thunder Ridge will become the top racing facility for stock cars in Eastern Kentucky.

I enjoy going to the stock car races. I hope to do some driver profiles for future sports stories. But, I'm going to have to start taking my folding chair with me. I get tired standing so much.

CAN THE REDS HOLD UP..

While doing my column (Wednesday) I am listening to the Reds vs. Houston. Cincinnati at one time held a 31/2 game lead only to let the Cubs whip them twice.

Everyone agrees (including Jim Bowden) that the Reds are in dire need of another starting pitcher. John Smiley, Jose Rijo and Eric Hansen are not likely to get the job done. All three are inconsistent.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Take your kids to Sunday School.

A view of the upcoming football season; county athletic director

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

County needs AD...

There is talk around that the Floyd County Board of Education and the Superintendent, Dr. Stephen Towler, will appoint not one, but two Athletic Directors for the coming sports season.

I applaud that decision and it will be a welcome move. While they may not go under the title of AD, they will be working close with the county athletic council in overseeing the county extra-curricular activities.

One will be in charge of overseeing the high school programs while the other will direct the elementary programs.

While the move is a positive one, the persons put in the positions are very important. It should be someone that knows how to run an athletic program and has a desire to do so.

Just having someone in there to fill the position in name only will not work. It should be a person that knows the needs of the programs around the county.

The grade school system is of the utmost importance. It should have the stronger leader. Our grade school basketball program used to be second to none. It has dissipated in the past year and needs someone to give it a shot in the arm.

Under Denzil "Hoss" Halbert (former county AD), we were very strong here under his guidance. He established a system throughout the county that anyone would have been proud of.

I don't know who is in line to fill the positions but we need another "Hoss" Halbert in charge. Someone that is willing to give it all the time it takes.

I would like to see Pete Grigsby Jr. (hope he doesn't shoot me for this) get one of the two positions (preferably the grade school program). I think he would do a great job.

It was under his tenure as superintendent that the grade school program grew. He knows what it would take to build the system back.

My hats off to the Board of Education for their decision to bring back the AD.

Football season is around the corner...

The high school football practice season officially opens Monday and all four county high schools will be turning it up come Monday.

Some of the schools will be attending football camps in the first two weeks before returning to hit the gridiron with everything they have.

The season officially opens on Friday, August 26 and fans around the county are chomping at the bits to see it's for real.

Grid-o-ramas will be held the second week of August as South Floyd will host its on August 13. Betsy Layne will play in the Shelby Valley grid-o-rama on August 19.

All business!

Adam Hall was all business on the mound for the Prestonsburg 13-year-old All-Stars as he started on the hill against Louisville Tuesday night. Hall held a 3-2 lead until Louisville scored four times in the fifth inning for an 8-3 win. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Louisville "steals" 8-3 win over Prestonsburg

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Louisville Jeffersontown was aggressive on the base paths and Chad Peyton scattered five Prestonsburg hits to post an 8-3 win over the Prestonsburg All-Stars in state tournament play at Pikeville Tuesday night.

The two teams met in the finals of the winner's bracket.

Jeffersontown stole 13 bases and ran freely on the base paths to put runners in scoring position.

Prestonsburg starter Adam Hall threw as many pitches to first base than he did to the plate in hopes of keeping the fleet-footed runners close. The attention he gave the base runners interrupted the attention he needed to give the batters.

J-Town scored four times in the fifth inning to break open an otherwise close game. The two teams entered the fifth inning tied at two.

Hall was impressive in his outing early in the game. He had allowed only one hit, a first inning single by Todd England, through the first four frames. He walked a batter in every inning but seemed to pitch out of trouble.

He walked the lead off batters in each of the second and third innings, but left both stranded.

Louisville led 1-0 in the first when England scored on a bunt grounder to first base. Prestonsburg took the lead with two in the top of the second. Nathan Leslie singled to start the inning but was forced at second on Hall's grounder. Hall stole second and scored on Jon May's RBI single. May went all the way to third when the ball was fumbled around. He later scored on an error at first base.

Louisville tied the game at two in the bottom of the fourth without a base hit. A two out walk to Jason Oskins came back to haunt Hall as Oskins stole second and third to score on an error by catcher Dustin Crisp.

Peyton kept Prestonsburg off stride at the plate with a mixture of pitches. The left-hander had the local all-stars beating the ball into the ground for easy outs.

Impatience at the plate on Prestonsburg's part made it easy for Peyton. Several had worked the count to 3-1 only to take a swing at pitches out of the strike zone.

Hall appeared to tire in the fifth as he completely lost his control and a 3-2 lead. He walked four batters in

London rolls past Prestonsburg 10-1 in Senior State Tournament

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The London Bridge may not have fallen on the Prestonsburg Senior League All-Star team, but London South did Tuesday night as the two teams met in the winner's bracket of the State All-Star Tournament being played at Pikeville.

London exploded for seven runs in the seventh inning to hand the local all-stars a 10-1 setback.

The game was much closer in the first six innings as London nursed a 3-1 lead. But it was bottoms out for starter Jason Hackworth in the seventh as he could not find the strike zone.

Prestonsburg committed four errors to go with a hit batsman and two walks in the inning.

London starter Travis Clem had Prestonsburg swinging out in front of his pitches and fanned nine in the game.

But for Hackworth, after a shaky first inning, he settled down and pitched a strong game until the seventh. He struck out 10 batters while walking two.

After London dented the plate for two runs in the first, Hackworth allowed only three hits over the next five innings.

South took a 2-0 lead in the first off Hackworth. Whitney Weaver singled, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a passed ball. James Garland walked, stole second, moved to third on a passed ball and scored on Matt Sawyers two-out single.

Hackworth got the side in order in the second and allowed a single in the third. After a perfect fourth, Weaver singled with one out in the fifth, but Hackworth fanned Clem and Garland to end the inning.

London left two runners on in the sixth against the Prestonsburg right-hander.

While Hackworth was keeping London off the scoreboard, his team failed to generate any kind of offense as Clem was mixing his pitches.

Prestonsburg made it a 2-1 game with a run in the first. John Ortega lined a double down the left field line and Wesley Samons singled between third and short. With one out, Jeremy

Mud Creek Reds win three to close season undefeated

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Mud Creek Reds Pee Wee team won its final three regular season games to complete the season with a perfect 16-0 record in the Mud Creek Pee Wee League.

The Reds posted two shutouts over the Smurfs and defeated the Tigers 9-1.

In the first game against the Smurfs the Reds scored twice in the fourth inning to record a 2-0 whitewash of the Smurfs. Franklin Mitchell and Daniel Osborne hooked up in a pitchers battle with Osborne coming away with the win.

Osborne fanned eight of the 17 batters he faced while Mitchell struck out seven of the 22 he faced.

In the Reds fourth, Jason Hamilton led off with a triple and scored on Brandon Hall's base hit. Hall scored on Mason Hall's single.

Joe Hall had a third inning double for the Reds and Hall doubled in the second.

Casey Tackett doubled for the Smurfs in the first inning but was left stranded.

In game two, the Reds plated two runs in the first and added one in the third for a 3-0 shutout of the Smurfs.

Osborne was the winning pitcher for the Reds with Mitchell again on the mound for the Smurfs. Osborne got the game started right as he fanned six batters in the first two innings.

Osborne doubled with one out in the first and scored on Frankie Firestone's base hit. Firestone scored on Adam Parson's RBI single.

Parson's doubled in the second and scored the third run of the game on a base hit off the bat of J.J. Hamilton.

The Tigers fell 9-1 in the final regular season game. The Reds scored four times in the third to extend their 3-1 lead.

The Tigers held a brief 1-0 lead until the Reds scored twice in the first inning to take a 2-1 lead. They added a run in the second to make it 3-1.

Osborne hit a towering sacrifice fly that scored Ortega.

Prestonsburg stranded a runner in each of the first four innings. Prestonsburg wasted a lead-off double by Sammy Nelson in the sixth inning. Jeremy Osborne went out on strikes, reaching for a pitch outside the strike zone. Jason Blackburn skied out to center and Jason Osborne fanned.

Hackworth had two of the five Prestonsburg hits. He singled in the second and again in the fourth.

Hackworth was relieved by Jake Poston in the seventh with Poston throwing just one pitch to retire Robbie Deaton and end the inning.

Clem went the distance for London and allowed one run while scattering five hits. He walked one batter. He struck out the side in the seventh.

Hackworth fanned 10 and walked four. He allowed 10 runs on 10 hits. Both teams stranded five base runners. Prestonsburg committed three errors and London had one mistake.

A sliding May!

Jon May of the Prestonsburg 13-year-old All-Star team slid safely into third base Tuesday evening during tournament action. May picked himself up and scored on an overthrow at third base. Prestonsburg dropped an 8-3 decision to Louisville Jeffersontown. (photo by Ed Taylor)

SQUIRREL SEASON OPENS AUGUST 20

Kentucky's squirrel season opens statewide Saturday, August 20. This will be the first chance since the spring turkey season for hunters to return to the woods.

According to Jeff Sole, upland game program coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR), squirrel hunters can expect a good to excellent season this year. Squirrel populations are directly related to the volume of food available from the previous year. Last year, Kentucky recorded it's highest mast, or nut crop ever.

"There should be lots of squirrels this time, even though we had a pretty rough winter this time," reports Sole.

"We just want to remind hunters to remember their safety rules, remember to pick up their hunting license, and go out and have a good time," said the biologist.

Squirrel hunting is an excellent opportunity for veteran hunters to help youngsters learn how to hunt and handle firearms correctly. Before the season opens, adult hunters should familiarize a youngster with using a rifle or shotgun safely. Attending a hunter education course, offered free through the KDFWR year-round, is a superb way to learn more about firearm safety, hunter ethics and hunting laws. Persons born on or after January 1, 1975, are required by law to complete a certified hunter education course before going hunting.

In August and September, hunters should concentrate their efforts early in the morning or late in the afternoon. Squirrels will be most active during these periods. Scouting before the season to find hickory and other trees that have ripe nuts early will save time on the day of the hunt. Trees with green hull shavings underneath usually indicate squirrels have recently been feeding in that tree. Hunters should also scout for green-leaf nests to help them locate squirrels when the season opens.

Kentucky's squirrel season is open Aug. 20 through Nov. 11, and Nov. 22 through Dec. 31. The daily limit on squirrels is six. KDFWR law enforcement officials strongly recommend that on Oct. 15-16, squirrel hunters wear an article of hunter orange clothing. The early muzzle-loading deer season will also be open Oct. 15-16, and hunters should make themselves as easy to identify as possible to increase safety.

Information regarding all Kentucky small game hunting seasons is available by contacting the KDFWR Information and Education Division, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601; phone (502) 564-4336. The 1994-95 Kentucky Small Game Hunting Guide is also available from hunting and fishing license outlets.

Prestonsburg Blackcats....

The Prestonsburg Blackcats will be looking for an encore season after advancing all the way to the state championship game last year. A lot of talent departed the Blackcats lair but there will be ample talent to start the refurbishing process.

Prestonsburg has an open date on its schedule, which is unusual, but after the first four games the Blackcats may need it.

No one plays as tough of a schedule as Prestonsburg and this year is no different. Coach Bill Letton has gone out of his way to make this year's schedule very difficult, but that's the way he likes to play it.

The Blackcats open with Class A power Pikeville in the Pike County Bowl as Hillard Howard returns to the helm of the Panthers. No one has to be told of the success of the Pikeville program and the Panthers will be growling this year.

Prestonsburg will also have their claws sharpened as they march up US 23 to face the Panthers.

Following a clawing battle with Pikeville, the schedule doesn't get any easier. It will be up the Mountain Parkway and Lexington where Prestonsburg will visit the Generals of Lafayette. Any Lexington school will be a challenge.

Playing district foe Whitesburg in the third week could very well be a deciding district battle to start with. The good thing about this game is that it will be played at home this year.

The Blackcats didn't get very many breaks last year at Whitesburg. Running back Seth Hyden went out before halftime of that game.

After a brief stay at home, the Blackcats will get back on the road in week four as they enter Pike County once again against Class 3A power Belfry. Coach Phillip Haywood's Pirates are expected to be a much improved team over last year's squad that fell at Prestonsburg 12-3. This is always a heated battle and will be no different this year.

The open date comes for the Blackcats in week five as they take time to nurse any wounds.

The final five regular season games will be against district competition.

Betsy Layne Bobcats

The Bobcats will be coming off one of their better seasons for a while after finishing 5-5 last year. Coach John Derossett's ballclub was very impressive at times and will return one of the best defensive lines this year.

The Bobcats open their season in a den of Tigers as they face Paintsville in the Big Sandy Bowl on August 27.

Betsy Layne will face county rival South Floyd on the road in the second week of the gridiron season.

Betsy Layne will only be home for four games and will play the remaining schedule on the road. They have an open date on October 14, but Coach Derossett hopes to fill that vacancy.

Again, the Bobcats will not be competing for a district title.

Allen Central Rebels....

Like the Bobcats, Allen Central will play only four times at home this year. The Rebels have been working hard in the off season for coach Glenn Reeves and the second year coach is very optimistic about the upcoming season.

Three of the first five games for the Rebels will be played on their home turf with four of the final five on the road.

New turf has been laid at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex. The field will also boost new bleachers, a press box and a concession stand.

Allen Central opens its season at home against the Cougars of Elkhorn City before playing Fleming-Neon and Pikeville on the road.

A showdown with Betsy Layne is scheduled for September 30 at Betsy Layne. Arch rival South Floyd graces the Rebels schedule for October 14 at Brackett Field.

South Floyd Raiders....

Coach Donnie Daniels Raiders will split their 10 game season playing half at home and half on the road.

However, unless a replacement can be found for Cumberland, who decided not to play South Floyd, the Raiders will have an open date on October 7.

The Raiders will open their season on the road at Magoffin County August 26 before returning home to host the Betsy Layne Bobcats.

South Floyd will then go on the road for three straight weeks before returning home to face Jenkins in a district match up.

The Jenkins game will be the first of four consecutive home games for the Raiders (providing a replacement is found for Cumberland).

It should be an exciting football season. It will be here quicker than you think. Get the warm clothing out and have the umbrellas ready. Football is around the corner.

On the grade school level...

The area grade school football league is looking to expand this year from eight teams to 13 this season.

Knott County, Johnson Central and Inez are hopeful of getting into the league schedule. Johnson Central could enter three teams.

In the planning stages is a season opening grid-o-rama involving all the schools. Should be a great grade school season.

In the Pop Warner League locally, the third and fourth graders will move from flag football to tackle football. Grades kindergarten through second will continue to play the flag format. The Pop Warner League is for Clark, Auxier, Prestonsburg and the Mountain Christian Academy.

the inning that appeared to be an easy one for him.

He retired Kevin Lococo on a routine fly ball to center fielder Seth Crisp then got Terry Campbell to pop to first baseman Kalen Harris. But he issued a walk to pinch hitter Derrick Shannon.

Shannon stole second and moved to third on a passed ball and scored when John Morel lined a 0-2 pitch to center field for a RBI single. After Morel stole second, England looped a fly ball to left field that left fielder Tojo Hamilton dropped for a two-base error.

Hall then walked Jerry Cecil and gave up a run producing single to Brandon Dietz. He issued consecutive walks to Oskins and Kyle Gardner to load the bases. Coach Jackie Day Crisp then brought in Grant Castle, who threw one pitch to retire the side.

Louisville added two more runs in its half of the sixth inning on a walk and two base hits.

Jeffersontown had 13 stolen bases in the game to Prestonsburg's one.

Hall struck out two batters in suffering the loss. He walked seven. His team committed three errors behind him and he allowed five hits.

Peyton fanned six batters and walked one in picking up the win.

Shopping For Insurance

(NAPS)—A growing number of consumers who can't afford an insurance advisor, but still want access to insurance that gives them more for their dollar, are applauding the creation of a toll-free number that lets them shop for the best price.

If you need life insurance but can't afford an advisor, use a service such as the Wholesale Insurance Network to shop for the best value.

Consumers who know the type and amount of insurance they want can call 1-800-808-5810. They will receive two quotes from among the 25 low-load policies offered by ten companies in the Wholesale Insurance Network, WIN, for short. Those who prefer can fax the request to 1-800-424-0909.

According to James M. Winge, chairman of Fee For Service, Inc., the parent company of WIN, low-load insurance is more consumer-oriented than traditional insurance because you build up equity right from the start. It differs from traditional insurance because it eliminates commissions and carries no hidden costs. Simply put, with low-load insurance, you can have the insurance coverage you need at a much lower cost and you still have access to your cash.

Scoring 100

Clark Elementary received a perfect score on an audit conducted by the state near the end the school year. The records showed all Clark students had up-to-date immunizations and exams, and the correct school forms were 100 percent completed. Pictured are Steve Norton (left), state immunization program specialist, Gary Coleman, immunization program specialist, and Jennifer C. Martin, R.N. health coordinator and district nurse. Martin said representatives of the Floyd County School Board and the Floyd County Health Department will be at all schools on the first day of school to make sure students have completed their immunizations and exams.

School entry requires proof of shots, exams

As parents prepare their children for the coming school year, health officials are reminding them to include up-to-date immunization certificates and medical exams on their check lists.

School entry is the first opportunity Kentucky officials have to make sure that children have shots required by state law. But children should have had most of the shots before their second birthday.

"Parents should remember that schools need the certificates at first school entry, but children need most of these shots while they are still toddlers," said Clarkson Palmer, M.D., communicable disease branch manager in the Department for Health Service.

Kentucky state law requires students entering schools for the first time, including pre-school, to have had immunizations against diphtheria, tetanus, polio, measles and rubella. Upon enrolling their children in schools, parents must present a certificate confirming the shots.

First-time students entering primary grades and up must also present a certificate proving that they have had a tuberculosis test within one year prior to enrollment.

Incoming sixth graders must have had two measles/rubella shots and a physical examination.

Parents needing shots, TB skin tests or physical exams for their children should contact their private physician or the health department in their community. These health professionals can also provide parents with the certificates necessary for school enrollment.

South Floyd teachers retire

by Candi Holbrook and Amy Carter

Three teachers, the assistant principal and his secretary wife, are retiring after this school year. Sally Miller, Barry Martin, Bobby Allen, and Bob Hall and his wife Shirley will be missed next year when the doors open for the fall term at South Floyd. Each of these educators have dedicated a great deal of his/her life to educating students. Each went through some rough times, but in the end they stuck by their students.

Mrs. Miller taught for twenty-nine years. She taught at Maytown, McDowell, and at South Floyd. She plans to do some writing after she retires. She also wants to travel, do some consulting work and spend a great deal of time with her husband, children, and grandchildren.

Mr. Martin often jokingly says that he spent half his life at McDowell School. He went to school there from the first grade to the twelfth and then taught there for twenty-nine years. Martin said that most of his time would be spent on outdoor activities. He and Bob Allen are outdoor enthusiasts who have appeared in national sporting magazines.

When asked what he planned to do after retirement, Allen seemed to have a real feeling for retirement because he said, "I plan to do absolutely nothing." Students at South Floyd have a feeling he will be on many adventures with Mr. Martin.

Bob and Shirley Hall won't be idle in their retirement either. Shirley said, "I'm hoping that we will be able to travel. We have been to New York, Colorado, New Orleans and other places a lot, but we haven't really gotten to see Kentucky all that much. I want to travel around and see Kentucky. Bob's going to be working as Coordinator for Computerized Programs of GED."

Teenagers returning to school face numerous problems: Tips for managing acne-prone skin

According to a recent study from the University of Michigan, teenagers growing up in the '90s face more "adult" stresses than any previous generation. The mental and physical pitfalls that can befall a youth have been multiplied by the damage that divorce, drugs and disease have caused. For this reason, problems that may affect a teen's identity are often ignored as parents focus more on their child's safety than self-image.

Yet, it's important to note that "minor" problems like appearance can also seriously affect a teenager's life. Acne can damage a teen's self-image and lead to both emotional and physical scarring. Understanding the causes and treatment of acne will help teens control additional problems.

The exact cause of acne is unknown. Nonetheless, many factors play a role, including physical and emotional stress, heredity, environment, hormones and some cosmetics and skincare products. As a result, there is not instant solution for the problem, and the degree to which it can be controlled is individual. However, treatments are available to manage the disease by reducing its severity.

Rated in grades from 1 to 4, acne can range from a few pimples to nodular or cystic acne. In most cases, teenagers with grades 3 or 4 should be under dermatologic care. Teens with grades 1 or 2 can often treat their problems with products that can be purchased at the drugstore. Whether a teen has grade 1 or 4, the treatment of acne must include a gentle and preventative skin-care regimen.

CLEANSING

Although teenagers often resist regimens of any kind, it's important for those with acne-prone skin to cleanse conscientiously. While acne is not caused by dirt, washing for face twice a day helps remove excess oil, bacteria and dead cells from the skin's surface. Acne cannot be "cured" a day before a big event; but it can be managed with proper care and gentle cleansers like Neutrogena Oil-Free Acne Wash, a gentle, alcohol-free facial cleanser that deep-cleanses without irritation.

If you or a teenager you know has a problem with acne, encourage him or her to select cleansing products that are not harsh to sensitive skin. Cleansing with harsh products or too vigorously can cause skin to become more inflamed, making it difficult to break the "break-out cycle."

MAKEUP

If you have acne-prone skin, it's okay to wear makeup, but make sure you select a water-based, non-comedogenic foundation. At the end of the day, wash off all makeup before going to bed.

BEAUTY SLEEP

A medicated overnight treatment, such as a new clean gel, Clear Pore Treatment from Neutrogena, can help, too. Clogged pores are a leading cause of skin-care woes, all this all-over face treatment is specifically designed to keep pores clear of everyday cloggers.

For more information an acne, consumers can request a copy of the Neutrogena brochure, The Intelligent Approach to Coping with Acne, by writing Neutrogena Acne Brochure, P.O. Box 45036, Los Angeles, CA 90045.

Study schools before choosing college

Deciding which college or university to attend is one of the most important decisions students can make, and with so many options for higher education available, it's easy to become overwhelmed. However, Steven Antonoff, Ph.D., educational consultant and former Dean of Admissions at the University of Denver, tells them not to get discouraged. With more than 3,000 colleges and universities in the United State alone, they shouldn't feel as if they will never find a school that they like.

To help students decide on a college, Antonoff has written The College Finder (Ballantine Books), which includes information about more than 1,000 colleges and universities. He recommends that they use his book as just one reference to find a school that fits their needs and desires.

Antonoff says that no colleges are equal or identical, but each can provide students with challenges and opportunities to grow—if they match the student's personality, intellectual readiness and interests. Besides the obvious difference of size, academic offerings and location, schools have their own ethic, culture and feel, and students should consider all of these aspects when making a decision.

Hoping to start young adults off in the right direction on the college path Antonoff provides 475 lists presenting various college issues, perspectives and possibilities. The topics range from academics, enrollment and the quality of education to social awareness, internationalism and athletics. The lists are organized by subject, allowing students to look up chapters that are relevant to their concerns.

To obtain information for his book, Antonoff visited colleges and talked with faculty members, administrators and students; surveyed more than 200 high school counselors and educational consultants; and reviewed college counseling files, college guidebooks and articles about higher education.

College choices continued to become more complex as schools become increasingly specialized. It is more important than ever for students to make informed decisions about their education, and The College Finder can get them started on the way to the school that is right for them.

The most massive single issue of a newspaper has been of the Sunday New York Times, which weighed 12 pounds and contained 1,612 pages, on September 14, 1987.

Welcome Back, Floyd County Students & Teachers. Have A Great Year!

Free tickets to U.K. games makes campus life bearable

by Beth Jones
Contributing Writer

After two years at Prestonsburg Community College, I transferred to the University of Kentucky in the fall of 1993. Next month, I'll begin, hopefully, my last year at UK.

Before I moved to Lexington, I heard many horror stories about going to school at UK. So, after a year of observation, I've decided to write about how things "really" are at school.

One of the main problems on campus is parking. There are far too few parking spaces for the hoards of students. Students living in the dorms probably have the fewest problems because they can walk to class. However, they may have to leave their cars parked at Commonwealth Stadium, which is located a long way from any of the dorms.

Students who live in the Greg Page Campus Apartments and commuters have the biggest parking problems.

Freshmen and sophomores can only get a "K" sticker. This sticker allows students to park at the stadium and ride a bus to classes. In theory, this set-up doesn't sound too bad. In reality, however, it doesn't always work. In the morning, the buses are overcrowded and many students can't make it to class on time.

Anyone with a junior standing or above can apply for a "C," or commuter sticker. A "C" sticker entitles a person to park behind Memorial Coliseum. Again, theoretically, this option seems wonderful, but does not occur in reality. There are many more stickers issued than there are spaces, so lots of students are late for class.

Another major problem concerns scheduling classes. U.K. uses a telephone registration system called U.K. VIP. This system allows a person to register for classes over the telephone. This system will be very efficient when it operates the way it is supposed to. However, it hasn't worked very well for me.

I have trouble getting my classes at the times I need them as well as just getting the class at all. I guess this is nobody's fault; it could happen at any school.

You probably think I don't like the University of Kentucky and can't say anything nice about it. That is not true. I really love the school.

First of all, I think there are some very good instructors at U.K. I've learned so many things in the past two semesters. My journalism teachers have been especially helpful and, believe it or not, interesting. I've had to study more than ever before, but I actually feel like I'm learning. What a concept!

Contrary to popular belief, I have not had to run to get from class to class on time. Most of my classes have been in the same area. I don't know if I'm just an exception or what, but I am happy to be able to say it, anyway.

I guess one of the best parts about attending U.K. is getting free basketball tickets. Yes, they're free; can you believe it? Last season, I sat in the tenth row (directly behind the bench) for four games. It was great. However, I sat about ten rows from the top for the Arkansas game. You can't win 'em all.

All in all, U.K. is a great school and I highly recommend it. So, see ya in class and "Go Cats!"

Summer orientation

Morehead State University recently hosted a Summer Orientation, Advising and Registration program for prospective students and their parents. Among those taking part in the activities were Pat and Carla Boyd of Eastern.

Twelve county schools qualify for state finals

By Patricia Watson
Coordinator
Writing/Language Arts Programs

"Where's my name?" was the query from many anxious faces as they watched the posting of invitations during the February 12th competition held at Johnson Central High School. Being listed as one of the top six finalists meant they had been judged the best of the day. Overall winners from the day would come in the form of six first place winners.

That was only the beginning! "I can't believe it!" was the resounding remark of fourth graders who defeated the bigger eighth grade competitors. Excitement abounded with these events as children became performers.

February 26th, elementary/middle school students from Floyd County returned to Johnson Central to compete in the largest regional tournament in the state. Twenty-three schools competed from throughout the region vying for title of regional

Lorrie Patton gets first place in state academic contest

by Geoff Belcher
Floyd County Schools

While Floyd County students are excelling in state and regional athletic competitions, they're also tearing up the boards in more academic pursuits, with at least one student clawing—or rather writing—her way to the top.

Lorrie Patton

Lorrie Patton, 14, an eighth grader at McDowell Elementary School, defeated approximately 85 other students from around the state to place first Saturday in the Governor's Cup Competition 1994 State Finals, English Composition category.

Patton is the daughter of Joy Patton and Floyd County Board of Education Chairman Edward Patton, Jr., of McDowell.

Patton is the captain of the McDowell Elementary Academic Team and president of the Beta Club. She plays saxophone in the school band; participates in the school Forensics program; is a cheerleader; and participates in the talented and gifted program with a 3.9 grade point average.

In previous English composition competitions, Patton placed first in the region and fourth in the district. She has placed in competitions in the last three years.

Other winners in the Governor's Cup Competition will be announced in the future.

Damron will be one of 207 students who will compete in the finals to be held at Transylvania University. The students represent 92 high schools in 59 counties.

Scholarships will be awarded to the first through third place winners in 10 academic categories. Individuals who win first place receive $2,000 and third, $850. Computer team members who win first place each receive $1,350; $950 for second and $650 for third. The scholarships may be used at any Kentucky college, university or post secondary school.

The 10 academic categories are: Computer problem solving (the only team event); Art 2-D; Art-3D; Music: Instrumental; Music: Vocal; Foreign Language; Mathematics; Science; Social Studies; and English Composition.

The top three state winners in each competition will be announced at an awards banquet at 6:30 p.m. March 21 at Marriott Griffin Gate Resort. Accommodations, awards, hospitality and transportation during the state finals are paid for by the Sweet 16 Academic Showcase.

To get to the state finals, students have placed in the top four places at regional competitions held earlier this year. Regionals were held at Morehead State University, Kentucky Wesleyan College, Georgetown College and Eastern Kentucky University.

About 997 students from 180 high schools in 100 Kentucky counties competed in the regionals.

Since U.S. Representative and former Lexington Mayor Scotty Baesler started the program in 1985, more than $570,000 in scholarships has been awarded to 550 students from 250 schools. The program is designed to recognize and reward academic talent and enterprise.

Community service by teenagers rewarded by scholarships

For high school seniors who are graduating this year, who will continue their education in a college, university, or vocational school next fall and who have volunteered their time and talents to service projects in their communities, the Christian Appalachian Project (CAP) will recognize them with its Community Service Scholarship.

CAP will award two or three scholarships in Floyd County this year. The recipients will be chosen by a committee of local citizens. The scholarship is for the first year of school only. It is sent directly to the student, and is to be used to pay for educational expenses such as tuition, books, room, or board.

The scholarship is given in recognition for the contributions young people make in time and talent for the betterment of their communities. Involvement in community service activities is the primary consideration for the choosing the recipients.

Students who are regular volunteers in hospitals, nursing homes, chambers of commerce, museums, or civic organizations; who participate in special service projects through a civic club, church, or school organization are encouraged to apply.

Applications and more information can be obtained from your guidance counselor, or by contacting Rose Price at Christian Appalachian Project, P.O. Box 1119, Martin, KY 41649, or at 285-5111. The application deadline is April 15.

Test progress is 'elementary' for schools

Susan Allen

Week's final test results restate officials offered no news for Floyd County schools in elementary schools. Some confusion over late last week because local officials have not received that information from testing officials in New Hampshire.

Assessment coordinator Phil Paige said Thursday that information for school districts was to be mailed from New Hampshire on Thursday. Paige confirmed Thursday afternoon that the published results were accurate except for Prater Elementary. Other than the inaccurate scores for Prater, Paige said the scores were much the same as reported late last year.

their backs apparently against budgetary wall, the Floyd Board of Education agreed in a Monday evening to explore a system that would offer individual schools flexibility to particular departments and how much they would be paid.

For instance, Towler added, in the area of management support, which includes school secretaries, clerks and library aides, a "money pool" would be allocated to an individual school. From that set amount of money, schools would decide their own staffing needs and spend the dollars accordingly.

Each school, the superintendent added, would have the flexibility to address its needs without being required to apply a standard system-wide formula.

"We're trying to give as many decisions about the expense of money to the schools," Towler told the board.

Make music a part of children's lives

Listening to music and participating in musical groups can help children become better listeners and develop musical intelligence. They also develop pride and a sense of accomplishment as young musicians. According to the Music Educators National Conference, parents can nurture their children's musical talents by listening to good music programs and recordings together, attending musical events, making music as a family and praising children for their musical activities and accomplishments.
 Listening to music, moving to music and playing musical games are best for small children and good for elementary students as well. By ages 5 to 8, many children are ready for one-on-one music lessons. Parents can help their children choose an instrument by consulting the school music teacher and by noticing what sounds their children enjoy most while listening to music.
 Often, parents don't know when their children should begin taking music lessons. Children can start piano lessons whenever they can sit on a piano bench and concentrate. Stringed-instrument study can begin very early if scaled-down instruments are used—preferably by 4th grade. Study of wind instruments should begin by 5th grade, according to MENC.
 When selecting an elementary school for their children, parents should look for:
 • Opportunities for students to participate in both choral and instrumental music starting in fourth grade.
 • Special experiences for gifted and handicapped students.
 • Instruction by certified music educators supplemented by classroom teachers.
 • Adequate textbooks, printed music, instruments, equipment, recordings and other music materials.
 • Music rooms that have adequate space, ventilation and light, as well as access to a good piano, risers, audiovisual equipment and a good sound system.
 • For more information about involving children in music programs, contact MENC, 1902 Association Drive, Reston, VA 22091.

Theodore

by Sevean Owens
5th grade student at Hazard

Editor's Note: Sevean Owens is the daughter of Ellery and Lavone Owens of Hazard. She is the granddaughter of Ernest and Vada Owens of Dwale.

Deep in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky there lives a bunny family. The family consists of 3 girls and 6 boys.

The bunnies names are, Almasue, Patty, Tommy, Carol, Donald Ray, Johnny, Terry, Paul, Arnold and the cutest little bunny of all was Theodore.

Theodore has brown hair and brown eyes that twinkled with excitement. One of Theodore's favorite things to do was going to school. When mama woke up all her children, Theodore was the first one dressed and ready to go.

Each day the bunnies have a long journey to walk. Along the way to school Theodore stopped to pick some flowers for his teacher. But he saw so many he didn't know which ones to pick. So he picked some of every color. He picked until his tiny brown hands could hold no more.

But when he looked up with his hands full of flowers his brothers and sisters were gone. Tears began to roll down his face.

He sat down and heard the bushes moving, a little raccoon appeared. The little raccoon said, "Hi why are you crying?" Theodore sadly explained his story. Don't be sad, said the raccoon, maybe I can help you find your brothers and sisters. As they walked through the forest the raccoon said, "my name is Popeye what's yours?"

My name is Theodore he replied. Do you have any hobbies Theodore asked?

"Yes!" I love to fish. Come with me and I'll show you my favorite place to fish. When they got there he had canepoles lined and hooked and ready for fun.

They sat down and started catching fish and Theodore lost track of time. All at once Theodore noticed the sun was going down. Far off in the woods he could hear voices getting closer and closer and when they got so close he knew it was his whole family looking for him.

He ran to meet them. They were so happy hugging and kissing him they promised never to run off and leave him behind again and to take better care of him.

Theodore never forgot his adventure in the forest and his new friend Popeye the raccoon and often went back to visit him. They all lived happily ever after.

Help your child become a better student

The relaxing days of summer have come to a halt. The school bell has rung. And your child is finding it difficult to focus on his studies.

To start the 1994 back-to-school season off on the right foot, the Mead Corporation has developed the Five Star® Plan to help your child become a better student. Teach your child the following easy-to-use techniques and he should be on the road to better grades.

Be prepared: Make sure that, before your child sits down to study, he has all of the necessary materials—his textbook, workbook, paper and pencils. It is also important to have good reference materials, such as a dictionary, thesaurus, calculator, eraser and highlighter pens, nearby. By having all of the essential study materials, your child's concentration will not be broken by getting up and down to look for basic supplies.

Being prepared also means having a quiet, well-lit study place. Help your child select a comfortable, private place in the house where he can study regularly. Once he is familiar and comfortable with a study site, your child will be ready to study when he gets there. Although it is important that your child be comfortable, a straight-back chair at a desk or table is recommended so that he doesn't get too comfortable!

Be organized: Encourage your child to study only one subject at a time, with a break set after every hour of study. Help your child decide what he wants to accomplish in each study session and help him to set realistic goals by breaking down assignments into manageable pieces.

On a large project, consider working with your child to develop a study plan. Make a list of all his daily activities, including special trips such as going to the library. Consider buying your child a personal planner to help him organize his busy schedule. Mead's new No! Rules™ and Super Shades® Student Planners have daily planning calendars and ample space for notes, due dates, tests and other project deadlines.

Be involved: Encourage your child to read assignments ahead of time. This will make the material covered in class more meaningful.

Help your child keep his notes organized by explaining the importance of writing the date of each class at the top of the page, leaving margins for questions or comments, and leaving space between ideas. It is also helpful for your child to review his notes as soon as possible while the subject is still fresh in his mind. When your child has taken good notes and kept up with the required reading, he shouldn't have to cram for a test.

Be thorough: One effective method of ensuring that your child has covered the subject material thoroughly is the flash-card method. Make a set of study cards, using 3-by-5-inch index cards, that includes questions, definitions, important facts and ideas. On one side of the cards, write the question. On the other side, write the answer. Use a separate set of cards for each subject and quiz your child on the material.

Be positive: Most importantly, reinforce your child's studying habits by creating a positive attitude. Help your child relax about studying and don't push him if he has reached his limit. And last, but certainly not least, try to stimulate his interest in the subject by explaining how the subject relates to him and the things that interest him.

Keep these steps in mind when helping your child get focused on the new school year and the rest should fall into place.

Note: The Five Star Plan for better grades can be found in Mead's Five Star Student Daily Planner. It also includes additional study tips and helpful information on test-taking.

Kids' art

The classes are sponsored by the college and the Floyd County Library. The art lessons are designed for children ages seven to 12 to develop an awareness of art as a means of expression and communication. The classes are taught by Ralph Clark, founder of the Children's Museum of Art, also featured in the photo. Anyone interested in registering for the fall children's art program should contact the Floyd County Library at 886-2981.

Help kids make the grade as the school year begins

It's back to school for millions of American schoolkids...

After a lazy, hazy, fun-filled summer of playing from dawn to dusk, many kids have difficulty facing a whole new school year with all its pressures—choosing friends, making the team, teacher relationships, grades. Parents are required to listen to their kids, decipher their worries, hesitations, needs and wants, and provide the proper advice and counsel.

To make the transition from summer frolic to classroom studies a little easier, consider these tips for an A+ school year across the board.

- Wardrobe has to be functional and practical, but pay attention to the trends and the styles that are "in." Minor problems, like appearance, can seriously affect a teenager who is desperately seeking an identity. Therefore, parents must focus on their children's self-image as well. If it's all within good taste, give your child a little leeway when it comes to dressing. Although he doesn't necessarily have to be the trendsetter, the winning look plays a big part in boosting a child's self-esteem and motivating him to aim high and achieve.

- Give a little extra time, lavish a little extra attention, do a little coaching or whatever it takes to get your child turned on to school. Parents who don't have a positive outlook tend to breed contempt in their children. Ask your child to list his expect-tations and goals for the school year and, then, sit down and openly discuss each. See if there are any fears or reservations he may have about the upcoming year that you, as a parent, can help quell.

- Nurture and support your child in his studies, but don't hover over him. Promote good study habits in a friendly, positive tone, not in a nagging, aggressive one. Children respond more favorably to studying when they are encouraged, not pushed. Try to stimulate your child's interest in his subjects.

- Get involved. Keep regular contact with teachers and principals, and attend all teacher-parent functions. As a result, you will feel more connected to the education of your child, and will be better able to underpin the process.

- A child's success in school depends on his overall physical and mental well-being. Optimum health is the goal, and starting the year with a routine visit to the pediatrician or family doctor is a good preventative measure. Good nutrition is your child's lifeline. Whether cafeteria-bound or brown-bagging it, your child's lunches should be balanced and nutritionally complete. Again, the doctor can reveal the necessary information to help you get your child's diet in sync for a peak-performance school year.

Math education prepares students to face challenges

More than a century ago in the Industrial Age, businesses were looking for quick hands, strong backs and a shopkeeper's arithmetic skills.

But America and the world have changed dramatically since then. Now we're in the Information Age, and demands on workers have become more complex.

To prepare students to face the challenges of the world around us, the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics (NCTM) is implementing new standards designed to upgrade the teaching and learning of math.

Among the new standards now being used in the classroom are those that emphasize:

- Learning cooperatively instead of individually.

- Developing mathematical reasoning instead of memorizing formulas.

- Conjecturing, inventing and problem-solving rather than finding answers by rote.

- Connecting mathematics and its applications to the real world, rather than viewing math as an isolated academic discipline.

NCTM's vision of "mathematics for all" emphasizes math education as a creative way to reason, communicate and solve problems in everyday situations.

IN YOURSELF

A Successful Future Begins Today

Homework time: Time to put fears aside

The National Council of Teachers of Mathematics (NCTM) wants you to put your math phobia aside.

"There's nothing to fear about mathematics," says Mary Lindquist, NCTM president. "Your children will do better in school—and in life—if you help them enjoy the challenges of math and recognize how important it is in their daily lives."

Look at it this way: Math tells you how much to tip, how far you can travel on a tank of gas, how to halve a recipe, how to balance a check-book. Take advantage of these opportunities to discuss math with your kids.

According to NCTM, by making everyday activities into mathematical games, parents can help make the "mathematical connection" that will build children's interest in the subject.

Here are some hints:

- To build experience with sorting and classifying, have your child sort objects that are the same color, shape or size—buttons, for instance, or rocks, shells or coins. Even sorting laundry can help develop math awareness.

- Enhance calculating skills by letting your children clip grocery coupons and figure out how much money can be saved by using them. Remember to have them calculate double coupons, too.

- Work with your children to decide where you should do your grocery shopping. The decision could be based on price alone, or it could include such other factors as quality, service and convenience.

- Your kids will see another connection between math and the real world if you have them chart different routes to school and figure out which is fastest.

You'll find more ideas in the free brochure, Family Math Awareness Activities. For a copy, send a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope to NCTM, 1906 Association Drive, Dept. M-NU, Reston, VA 22091-1593.

Helping kids adjust to back-to-school days

by Cathie Burns, CPNP
NAPNAP President

When children return to the classroom after a long summer vacation, their initial school days are often spent in a "school daze."

This especially is true for younger children, as their attention spans must handle the transition from uninhibited outdoor fun to hours of focused concentration.

Here are some activities you can do to help your child get in the "learning mode."

- One week before school starts, put your child on a "school time schedule"—earlier bedtime, earlier rising time in the morning, and "quiet time" where your child sits at a table or desk and performs a sustained activity such as reading, writing or drawing.

- Have your child write a story about his or her summer experiences and read it out loud to the family. Older children can keep a diary or journal of their thoughts and activities throughout the summer.

And now some health tips:

- Make sure your child's immunizations are up-to-date. Most schools require full vaccination before admission.

- Always encourage children to wash their hands after using the bathroom, after recess, after sneezing or coughing or blowing noses.

- Remind your children to keep their hands out of their mouths—this is how germs and viruses often are spread.

Your local pediatric nurse practitioner (PNP) can help to guarantee a healthy and productive school year for your child. To find a PNP in your area, call the National Association of Pediatric Nurse Associates and Practitioners (NAPNAP) at 1-609-667-1773.

Morehead University offers new communications degree

For Morehead State University's Department of Communications, a state-mandated effort to eliminate academic program duplication systemwide, has served to strengthen the department's offerings.

"For MSU, it was the opportunity to provide our communications students with a broader, more diversified focus," said Dr. Judy Rogers, associate vice president for academic affairs and dean of undergraduate programs.

Four specific degrees in mass media-related programs as well as the non-teaching B.A. in speech/theatre were among those deleted by the Board of Regents at its June meeting.

"There has been some concern that we aren't offering media-related programs any longer, but that's just not the case," Dr. Rogers said. "We now will offer a Bachelor of Arts degree in communication with areas of emphasis in journalism, electronic media arts, advertising/public relations and communication. The electronic media arts has two options: production/management and news."

"The new degree was carefully developed by the faculty. It includes a core of required communication courses and related courses, plus those courses required for the student's area of emphasis," Dr. Rogers said.

"For example, among the courses required in the core is one dealing with the fundamentals of geography," she added. Others are basic courses in such areas as history and government.

"The restructuring of this degree program really translates into a stronger liberal arts background which is complemented by specific knowledge in the student's career field," Dr. Rogers said.

Whether the prime focus of a student's education should be in mass media courses or in a related field such as government or economics has long been debated, according to Dr. Janet Kenney, chair of MSU's Department of Communications.

"What the faculty has done is to create a program that offers answers to both arguments," Dr. Kenney said. "Students who choose one of the options under the B.A. degree in communication will be well-prepared for careers in today's world."

Students enrolling this fall will enter the new degree program while students already in the programs affected will have sufficient time to complete those programs.

In response to the Governor's Higher Education Review Commission, MSU is taking action on 35 degree programs which will result in elimination of 10 while the rest will be consolidated or merged into other programs.

School bell can signal stress for working parents

Once upon a time, going back to school each fall conjured up delightful thoughts of buying new clothes and school supplies, meeting old friends and new teachers.

The lifestyles of the '90s have added an unwanted wrinkle to America's back-to-school routine—stressed-out parents in search of quality child care.

"The latest U.S. census data show us that six in ten families today have the sole parent or both parents working outside the home," according to Barbara Reisman, executive director of the Child Care Action Campaign (CCAC), a national child-care advocacy group.

"Child-care resource and referral counselors across America typically see a lot of stressed-out parents at this time of the year," says Denise Nelson, community coordinator at the National Association of Child Care Resource and Referral Agencies (NACCRRA). "It's a real chore to pull together high-quality child care for either the school-age child or the preschooler."

In the fall, the headache is intensified for the working mothers and single fathers of the nation's 18 million school-age children, adds Reisman.

Counselors report that parents have a long list of concerns ranging from locating programs that coincide with parents' work schedules, to transportation, to licensing or to finding programs for children over ten.

Fortunately, there is help out there. For instance, thanks to more than $10 million in grants over the past seven years from retailer Dayton Hudson Corporation of Minneapolis, Child Care Aware provides a nationwide education program that includes a toll-free information line for parents. By dialing 1-800-424-2246, callers can learn of resource and referral counselors at local non-profit agencies in their communities. Counseling fees are either free or charged on a family's ability to pay, program officials say.

Child Care Aware is a cooperative effort of the National Association for the Education of Young Children and the National Association for Family Day Care in addition to the Child Care Action Campaign and NACCRRA.

The awareness program also has developed a five-step plan for identifying quality care and a checklist for parents to use as they shop for child care.

"We are extremely pleased to have the support of Dayton Hudson, one of America's largest retailers and corporate philanthropists, and its ongoing commitment to child care," said CCAC's Reisman.

Dayton Hudson, which had 1992 revenues of $17.9 billion and a 1993 corporate-giving program totaling more than $23.7 million, operates more than 850 Target, Mervyn's, Dayton's, Hudson's and Marshall Field stores in 33 states.
