Retired Floyd nurse joins elite with national award

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

Jane Wallace touched many lives during her 35 years as a nurse in Floyd County. Although she retired 1976, her contribution to nursing has not been forgotten.

On Tuesday, Jane received a letter and certificate from Julia R. Plotnick, Chief Nurse Officer of the U. S. Public Health Service, notifying her that she had been awarded one of the highest honors in the nursing profession: The Chief Nurse Officer Award.

"It shocked me. It was unexpected," Jane, 83, said Wednesday. Overwhelmed at the national recognition of her work, she tried to deflect the glory away from herself. "All the nurses I worked with deserve this award. We all worked hard."

The recognition began last September when the Floyd County Times published a feature article profiling Jane and her career as a nurse. The article included her experiences as supervising nurse on a special health project in Floyd County for the United States Public Health Service in 1957 and her 19 years as a "traveling" nurse for the Floyd County Health Department.

Then in June, Dr. Rice Leach, state Commissioner of Health, came to Floyd County to meet health department personnel and Floyd County Board of Health members. At the meeting Dr. Leach sat beside Jane, who has been a member of the board for years, and they talked about her career in public health.

"When Dr. Leach left, he wanted the addresses of the board members to thank them," said Carol Holbrook, director of the health department. "I sent the addresses and I also sent the article (about Jane). He was impressed with Jane when he met her. He read the article and sent it

Board grades the grader

Editor's note: The following is the complete, unedited text of a board evaluation of superintendent Steve Towler, released by the board on August 1.

We, the Floyd County Board of Education, have met on numerous occasions over the past several weeks to evaluate the performance of Dr. Stephen Towler.

We believe that our students can achieve at a high level and we know in order for them to do that we must be as diligent and honest in our assessment as we can be. We know there are strengths and weaknesses and we have tried to judge those as best we can based upon our belief that our students can achieve at a high level.

Dr. Towler holds the most key position in our school system and because of that can affect our performance more than anyone. We want Dr. Towler to use this evaluation constructively to improve the district's performance.

The following is a list of things we want to emphasize even though most are included in the evaluation instrument:

We want the district removed from state intervention.

We want principals held accountable for instructional leadership and proper evaluation processes. We want the evaluation process to include a plan whereby the person being evaluated is given assistance for becoming more proficient as a teacher or administrator.

We want accountability to be a top priority with all personnel.

By October 15 we want each school to present, in writing, for Board approval, its measurable goals and objectives for the school year. The goals shall be related to the goals listed in KRS 158.645 and KRS 158.6451. In addition we want the goals and objectives to include significant parental involvement. By October 15 we also want each school to present, in writing, for Board approval, its plan for achieving its goals and objectives and the method for evaluating the achievement of the plan. By June 30 we want each school to present, in writing, its annual evaluation report to the Board. (Order # 8180)

We want the superintendent to demonstrate improvement in all areas where rating was below 3.

We want both the district's and individual school's financial audits to be void of deficiencies.

We want to see major improvement in our exceptional children's program.

We want the hiring process to be conducted fairly and objectively without discrimination and favoritism. We insist that we be diligent in obtaining the best.

We want to see major progress in moving construction projects along and in particular those in process - Martin/Maytown, site acquisition for Betsy Layne Middle School, additional property for Prestonsburg High School and South Floyd High School.

We will evaluate Dr. Towler's performance again on December 1 or as close as feasibly possible to that date to assess the progress being made.

The following rating scale was used in the Superintendent's Evaluation:

4 - Demonstrates excellence in every aspect of the performance responsibility.

3 - Demonstrates proficiency in both quality of product and timeliness of completion.

2 - Demonstrates minimal performance characterized by significant gaps in quality of product and timeliness of completion.

1 - Demonstrates unacceptable

City whittles delinquent tax list to a dozen

by Matt McCarty
Staff Writer

If you own a business in Prestonsburg and you have delinquent occupational taxes, you can probably expect a letter from the city council soon.

The discussion to mail out letters to those who still owe delinquent taxes comes after the Prestonsburg city council's finance and revenue committee met Thursday afternoon to discuss the delinquent occupational taxes.

The four man committee voted to bring the matter before the city council at Monday's regular meeting.

At Monday's meeting, the committee will request that the council ask city attorney Larry Brown to write a letter to the dozen businesses which still owe the city taxes.

Brenda Hayes told the committee that she had sent two letters to the businesses that had owed taxes, but now that figure is down to 12.

Hayes mailed one letter in April and one on June 15.

Committee chairman Estill Carter said that it may be a situation where the businesses don't "owe anything."

"It could be that not a dime is owed," Carter said, "but we don't have any proof of that."

Carter said that if a business did not make a profit, they don't owe any taxes, but the city still needs to see documented proof of that.

Barb said that the city collected nearly $30,000 from the other businesses that had owed delinquent taxes.

"We're doing this not to be harsh," Carter said, "but to be fair."

The committee also discussed ways to collect delinquent property taxes, deciding to ask the city attorney the process for hiring a delinquent tax collector.

Then the committee meeting shifted to discussion of salaries, or rather discussion on why they shouldn't be discussing them.

Carter said that the finance committee budgeted the money and now the rest was up to the personnel committee.

He added that he did not know who added salaries to the meeting's agenda.

The fire, police and dispatch departments are the only departments which have not had their hours and wages adjusted for this fiscal year.

It is likely that the topic will be addressed Friday at noon in city hall when the personnel committee meets to discuss personnel and personnel

Construction continues

Construction on the latter stages of new U.S. 23 began recently as Bizzark Construction was working at several different locations throughout the road, including this spot located about a mile past where the new road begins in Johnson County just off Highway 825. The road is expected to be completed to the mouth of Jennys Creek by the end of the year. (photo by Matt McCarty)

Too early to tell if surplus will revive building plans

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

The numbers suggest that Governor Brereton Jones was wrong about how much money the state would have left over at the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

Jones estimated that surplus revenues would total nearly $40 million at the close of the year.

The actual numbers are closer to $54 million.

In a press release issued Wednesday, the governor's office projected a $53.3 million surplus in unobligated revenues for fiscal 1995. That amount will be left over after expenses of nearly $35 million authorized during a June special session of the state's General Assembly to pay for state park renovations; increases to the state education department's SEEK program; and a $90 million contribution to a budget reserve trust fund.

How the extra funds will be spent has not yet been decided, Jones' press secretary Mindy Shannon Phelps said Thursday.

Much speculation centers, however, on the governor's proposal to bond nearly $300 million in capital construction projects, including the development in Floyd County of a new, 18-hole championship caliber golf course. Jones failed to win legislative approval for that ambitious building program during the regular and special sessions of the legislature this year, and Phelps said Thursday that the governor's office would take a "wait-and-see" stance on reviving the building plan.

"We have to determine first how much of this surplus will be recurring revenues," Phelps said. "We have a lot of money in the bank, but it's too early to say how it will be spent."

Bonding the full $300 million list of proposed capital construction projects would cost the state an estimated $30 million a year over a 20-year period.

Sentence is probated for convicted miner

A Wheelwright miner was found guilty last week of taking an unopened pack of cigarettes in an underground coal mine at Drift in May.

The Department of Mines and Minerals Board of Miner Training and Certification ruled that Daniel King violated state law by taking the pack of cigarettes into the mine.

In an order signed by Mines and Minerals Commissioner Burl Scott, the board suspended King's mine foreman certificate for two years, but probated all but one week of that suspension, provided that King completes a four-hour mine foreman's retraining course.

During an inspection of Eastern Kentucky underground mines in May by federal and state mine safety personnel, inspectors found an unopened pack of Kool cigarettes in King's lunch box at the Ebenezer Coal Company Mine No. 1 at Drift, according

Suspected gas leak forces evacuation of courthouse

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County Courthouse employees got an unexpected break from work Thursday afternoon when the facility was evacuated because of a suspected gas leak.

Deputy sheriff Homer Neeley and state police trooper John Hunt evacuated employees about 1:15 p.m. after several employees complained they smelled natural gas fumes.

Members of the Prestonsburg Fire Department responded to the scene and determined that there was no gas leak causing the odor.

Prestonsburg fire chief Tom Blackburn said he suspected the odor came from a propane truck which was parked beside the courthouse earlier Thursday to pump out two portable toilets which are being used by construction crews that are building a jail behind the facility.

Workers were allowed to return to work about 15 minutes after the fire department declared it safe. Several courthouse employees said they had been smelling the odor for most of the day.

on to the U. S. Public Health officer."

In a telephone interview Thursday, Leach said he was indeed impressed with Jane, "this dedicated nurse who is still active" and thought she should be recognized. Accordingly, Leach said he sent a photocopy of the article to Plotnick, a former colleague in Washington, D.C., with the note: "It would be nice if you would write her a letter in appreciation of all she's done."

On Thursday, when Dr. Leach was informed that Jane had received the Chief Nurse Award from Plotnick, he was ecstatic. "This award doesn't go to just anybody, but to people who demonstrate dedication in the area of public health. It's folks like her (Jane) that keep people healthy."

Jane figured that Leach was the "culprit" who nominated her for the award.

"Dr. Leach knew about this," she said. "What threw him for a loop is that at age 83, I'm still on the Floyd County Board of Health. I've never missed a meeting. I don't know how many years I've been on it."

On Wednesday when Jane visited the Floyd County Health Department where she worked until her retirement, she was greeted with hugs and some tears by health department personnel who were thrilled to hear she had received the elite award.

Carrie Branham, an LPN, who was one of the first to congratulate Jane, said, "It's wonderful a public health nurse from Eastern Kentucky was recognized. It's about time."

Holbrook said, "No one that I know of ever won or was nominated for this award, until now."

Tuesday runaway pleads not guilty

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Floyd County man who escaped from custody Tuesday while being escorted from the jail, pleaded not guilty to second degree escape charges Thursday morning.

Rodney Blackburn, 35, was placed under a $12,000 full cash bond at his arraignment Thursday by Floyd District Judge Danny Caudill.

On Wednesday, Blackburn also pleaded not guilty to charges of first degree criminal mischief; third degree arson; five counts of wanton endangerment; second offense of driving under the influence; and disorderly conduct. Judge Caudill placed Blackburn under a $42,500 or 10 percent cash bond on those charges.

On Tuesday, Blackburn walked out of the courthouse while he was being taken from the third floor jail to the first floor courtroom, along with 12 other prisoners being taken for arraignment. Blackburn slipped through the crowded hallway.

State police troopers and members of the sheriff's department recaptured Blackburn Tuesday afternoon at a home near the Pike/Floyd County line.

U of L seeks "glaucoma suspects" for blindness prevention study

The University of Louisville is seeking people between the ages of 40 and 80 who are at risk for glaucoma to participate in a study aimed at preventing blindness.

Researchers at U of L's Lions Eye Institute are looking for people with ocular hypertension, a condition that occurs when fluid builds up near the optic nerve behind the eye.

People with the condition are known as "glaucoma suspects" because they run a greater risk of developing glaucoma, one of the leading causes of blindness, said ophthalmologist Robert Fechtner.

About 1.5 million Americans with ocular hypertension now are being treated with costly medications that carry the potential of serious side effects, Fechtner said.

In this study, researchers hope to learn whether glaucoma can be prevented or delayed in ocular hypertension patients by treating them with the inexpensive prescription eyedrops normally reserved for glaucoma patients, he said.

Over the next two years, 1,500 patients will be tested at U of L and 20 other eye clinics across the United States. Patient follow-up will continue for another five years.

policies.

The community projects committee will meet at noon Monday, and the city council's regular meeting will be held at 6 p.m. Monday.

On the agenda for the meeting is the second reading of the water service ordinance, which would allow the city to service water within ten miles of existing city limits and, possibly, incorporate those areas without any objection.

The three committees will also report to the council Monday.

Carter, Robert Allen, Dick Clark and Billy Ray Collins were present for the finance committee session.

to Scott's order.

Freddie Moore, a mine safety analyst for the state, testified that he did not find a cigarette lighter or matches with the cigarettes.

King, who has had 15 years of mining experience, testified that the cigarettes were put in his lunch box by mistake by his girlfriend. King said he was unaware they were in his lunch pail.

King admitted that he had smoked in underground mines in the past, but denied he had smoked at the Drift mine.

Eight miners in several counties were cited for taking smoking materials in underground after the unannounced inspections.

SUPERINTENDENT STEPHEN TOWLER EVALUATION

August 1, 1994

BOARD

1. Prepares and submits to the board recommendations relative to matters requiring official action; placing before the board appropriate information to assist in the decisions - Average 3.00 (March 2.50)

Performance in this area is usually good. We would like to see more evidence given that recommendations have been well thought out - giving the board the results anticipated due to the recommendation and how success will be measured.

2. Advises on the need for new and/or revised policies and works toward appropriate implementation of existing policy - Average 3.00 (March 2.25)

Performance in this area is usually good.

3. Informs the board on programs, practices and problems of the schools

Average 2.40 (March 1.75)

Performance in this area needs improvement. The board should be informed before a program is turned down or approved. The board needs to be better informed about problem areas. The board would like to see evidence that we are regularly appraising, planning and making changes where needed to guarantee student success.

4. Interprets federal and state laws and regulations that relate to objectives of the schools. Specifically interprets requirements of KERA - Average 3.4 (March 2.75)

Performance is good in this area.

5. Facilitates both short and long term plans for the school district, serving as the main contact for local committees, the board and department of education - Average 2.80 (March 2.25)

We do see some improvement in this area. We still need to do a better job in moving construction projects along. The board would like to see planning and follow-up tied to excellent performance. We need to do a better job of informing students, personnel, and the community about plans and how we are progressing toward implementation of plans. We would like to see more evidence that we are really making an attempt to involve all segments of the school community in ways that will help move us forward.

Board total: 14.60 (March 11.50)

INSTRUCTION

1. All schools operating under the Floyd County Board of Education will meet or exceed the threshold established by KDE - Average 1.80 (March 2.00)

A significant number have not.

2. Conducts a continuous audit of the total school program and in concert with the deputy superintendent of instruction, recommends modifications to the board - Average 2.20 (March 1.75)

This area needs work. We want to see evidence that continuous audits are being done and that based upon these audits we are making the changes that will guarantee student success. We want to insure that evaluations are being done well. We want personnel to understand where weaknesses are and have a plan to correct such. We are very concerned about how we deal with poor performance.

3. Insures that major strands of KERA are coordinated at the central office level as verified by KDE and Annual Performance Report - Average 3.00 (March 2.25)

Performance is usually good in this area.

4. Organizes the research and follow-up requested by the board, staff and parents for program improvement. Presents a cost analysis to the board - Average 2.80 (March 2.50)

Board wants to see better leadership in this area, both in program improvement analysis and cost analysis.

5. Organizes the central office into a "technical assistance unit" whose main thrust is help to the school unit as requested and needed - Average 2.60 (March 2.38)

This area needs work. We would like to see more work done in the area of team building among our central office people and among central office and our schools. Technical assistance unit should be working very closely with our schools to help build upon strengths and correct weaknesses.

Instruction total: 12.40 (March 10.88)

FINANCE

1. An annual working budget will be prepared that meets federal and state mandates and reflects local input - Average 3.00 (March 2.50)

Would like to see more work done at school and community level.

2. The board, employees and community will be apprised of the financial condition of the district on a monthly basis - Average 2.60 (March 2.33)

There has been some improvement in this area. We need to work on how this is presented. Finance report needs to be projected on a screen at board meetings so the audience can follow along and we also need to present it so that it is easier to understand.

3. The adopted budget will be implemented with 100% of the line items being met or board approved modifications throughout the fiscal year - Average 2.25 (March 2.00)

This area needs improvement.

4. Working with the chief assistant for operation, deputy superintendent for instruction and director of finance make specific recommendations for immediate and long-term financial needs. Average 2.50 (March 2.50)

Work indicates very little long-term planning. We want to see a good analysis of the long-term needs of the district and a good long-term financial plan for addressing those needs.

5. A systematic accounting of funds for both individual schools and the total district will be maintained and verified by the annual audit - Average 2.50 (March 2.25)

We have made some improvement. We want this improvement to continue and definitely work with schools to improve their accounting practices.

Finance total: 12.85 (March 11.58)

PERSONNEL

1. Employs the most qualified applicants for board established positions - Average 2.80 (March 2.75)

We want this to be done as objectively as possible. We don't want favoritism shown to anyone.

2. Puts before building principals and councils qualified applicants to allow the SBDM process to work - Average 2.80 (March 2.66)

We want to see evidence that top candidates are recommended and that jobs are advertised widely. We need to be more aggressive in seeking out quality applicants.

3. Assigns and transfers employees in the best interest of individual schools and the total district - Average 2.80 (March 2.50)

Same as 1 & 2

4. Maintains an effective communication with employees - Average 2.80 (March 2.25)

This area needs work. Supervisory personnel need to get out in field and assess where weaknesses in communication exist and make necessary corrections. We want everybody in the system to know that a high level of performance is expected.

5. Conducts an appropriate investigation of unsatisfactory service and initiates appropriate action as a result of the building level principal's recommendation - Average 2.00 (March 2.00)

Additional development is needed in this area. The principal is the primary leader in the school and can influence the success of the school more than anyone and we would like assurance that the principals are doing appropriate evaluations and planning for improvement based on these evaluations. We expect our students to perform at a high level and in turn we expect personnel to do the same.

Personnel total: 13.20 (March 12.16)

OPERATIONS

1. Leads in planning with the board on both immediate and long-term goals for school facility construction and renovation - Average 2.80 (March 2.25)

We see improvement, but we still have problems getting projects off the ground.

2. Assures total compliance with federal and state regulations in pupil transportation. Works with the director of transportation to provide an efficient and safe system of pupil transportation - Average 3.40 (March 3.33)

We need to improve policy on field trip use.

3. Works with the director of food service to meet federal and state requirements in the food service program. Provides a nutritious and cost-effective breakfast and lunch program - Average 2.25 (March 2.75)

Recent audit showed some problem areas. We need to make sure we are in compliance.

4. Maintains board owned and operated facilities. Along with the director of facilities, provides a responsive and cost-effective system of facility maintenance - Average 3.60 (March 2.38)

We are making improvements in this area. This needs to be part of a good long-term plan so we know how and when we will address all the needs.

5. Along with the chief assistant for operations and the director of finance, oversees the total finance operations to assure total compliance with federal, state and local regulations - Average 2.80 (March 2.66)

We need to improve risk management policies - fleet insurance and worker's comp. Recent audits showed some problems.

Operations total: 14.85 (March 13.37)

Average 14.85 (March 13.37)

Board	14.60	(March - 11.50)
Instruction	12.40	(March - 10.88)
Finance	12.85	(March - 11.58)
Personnel	13.20	(March - 12.16)
Operations	14.85	(March - 13.37)
Total all:	67.90	(March - 59.49)

Home field advantage?

by Scott Perry

Darned if we don't feel like we're whipping a dead horse, but we can't help hoping that the critter is just playing possum and eventually it will wake up and come to its senses.

We're absolutely bewildered by the Floyd County Board of Education's persistence on developing athletic fields for two high schools while so many other pressing needs go unaddressed.

We've caught all sorts of hell from boosters over our criticism of the Allen Central track project, so we might as well spread the joy to Prestonsburg and South Floyd, where football fields are of the highest priority...as far as board members are concerned.

South Floyd has no football stadium, it's true, but Wheelwright's field isn't all that far away. Why not spend a little bit to fix it up instead of a whole lot to build a new one?

Prestonsburg has a field, a pretty nice one, too.

A whole lot of people got together a few years back, chipped in and built the stadium.

It's old, but that didn't stop the Blackcats from making the state finals last year.

We don't begrudge sports boosters their desires to have new, modern playing facilities, but using local bonding potential to build them could dramatically affect future building needs.

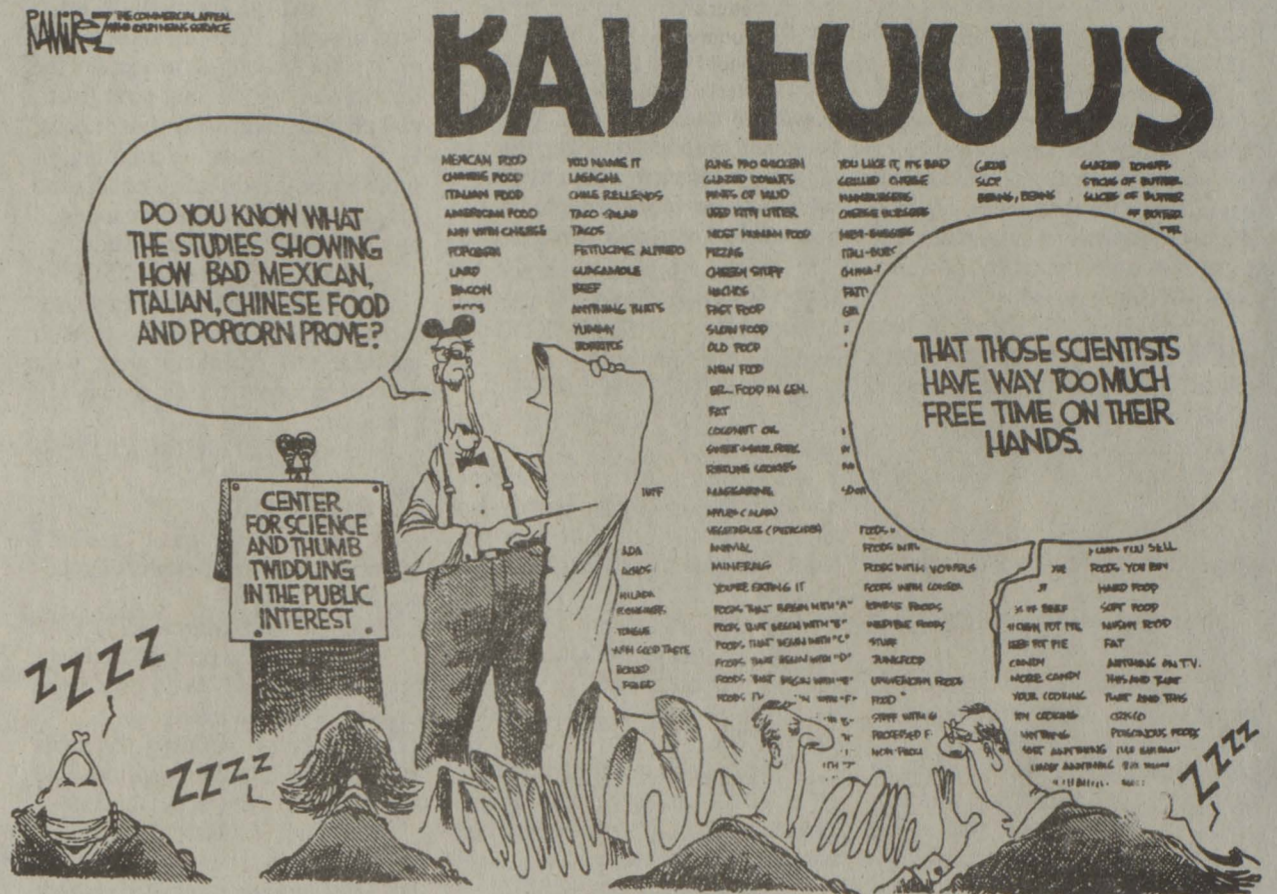

We've yet to see, for example, any board emphasis put on riding the system of the mobile "temporary" classrooms that dot just about every campus.

Most of the system's older schools have all the aches and pains that come with old age, and they need attention, too.

But there is just not enough money to do everything that needs to be done.

So the board must determine what is most urgent...new bleachers or adequate classroom facilities.

Is there any doubt which deserves the home field advantage?

Memorial service to honor sheriffs killed in line of duty

Editor:
At 10:00 a.m. central time, on September 10, 1994, the Kentucky Sheriffs' Association and Boys and Girls Ranch will host a memorial ceremony to honor Kentucky sheriffs and deputies who have been killed or wounded in the line of duty. The ceremony will be held at the Kentucky Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranch in Gilbertsville, approximately 20 miles east of Paducah. Mrs. Freda Kearns from El Cajon, California, will be attending the ceremony. Mrs. Kearns' father, Deputy Bill Miller, Magoffin County, was killed on December 25, 1951. Deputy Miller was making an arrest on a murder warrant when he was shot and killed. This ceremony will honor Deputy Miller as well as several other sheriffs and deputies throughout the state who were killed or wounded in the line of duty. The Memorial was originated by Ray Stoess, executive director of the Kentucky Sheriffs' Association and

Ranch and the inaugural ceremony was held on July 3, 1992. However, since that time, many of Kentucky's 120 county sheriffs have made us aware of others who have been killed or wounded in the line of duty. The ceremony on September 10, 1994 will honor those we were not aware of in 1992. Mr. Stoess has invited the President of the National Sheriffs' Association, Sheriff James Murphy of Newport, Vermont; National Sheriffs' Association Director, Sheriff Mearl Justus, Belleville, Illinois; U.S. Senator Wendell Ford; and Mrs. Susie Sawyer, C.O.P.S., Camdenton, Missouri to be the featured speakers. I would like to ask that anyone having information about any sheriff or deputy killed or wounded in the line of duty, to contact me at the Kentucky Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranch, P.O. Box 57, Gilbertsville, KY 42044—(502) 362-8660 with your information. We will make sure their name is included on the Memorial. Also, everyone is invited to attend the Memorial Ceremony on September 10, at 10 a.m., in Gilbertsville. You will be our honored guest when we pay tribute to these individuals. Helen Barter Executive Secretary Kentucky Sheriffs' Assoc. Gilbertsville, Kentucky

Baseball strike should be ignored by owners, fans

Well, it looks like it's going to happen once again. The professional baseball players have set a strike date for August 12 if they don't get their way once again. Personally, I would like to see the Major League Baseball Association just say, "Fine. Go ahead and leave and we'll find somebody else to play." Baseball players make an obscene amount of money for doing something that they love to do. I realize the commitment and time they put into baseball, which takes up practically most of their life as long as they play, but the amount of money they make is still ridiculous. Specialized surgeons and doctors who help save lives everyday don't even make near the amount of money that a baseball star makes, and they also devote most of their lives to their work. I would love to let some of the players work at a gas station or grocery store for minimum wage for a while and let them see how they like it. For once I would like to see both the owners and the fans just turn their backs if the players go on strike. American society would survive without baseball. It is only there as a source of entertainment, but in the past the players have gone on strike and everyone just buckled and gave them their way. I'm sure there are thousands of people who would be willing to sacrifice that much time to baseball for a lot less money. Sure, they wouldn't be nearly as good, but I think it would just make the game all the more interesting. Player's outrageous salaries have continuously driven ticket and concession prices up at games, so that now if you want to take your family, it will cost a small fortune. I think it is time to put a stop to it right now, and not back down this time. If the players want to strike, I say let them do so all they want and bring on the scabs until they feel like they want to come back and play.—The Big Sandy News

Defense of nepotism is as stupid as the practice itself
As expected, nepotism is getting the most discussion by city councils and fiscal courts as they attempt to draw up their state-mandated ethics codes. Hiring relatives for government jobs is as traditional in Kentucky as Wildcat basketball. Realizing this, our state legislators chose not to require local governments to ban the practice. So let's not expect a whole lot of officials' family members to be banned from courthouses and city halls across the state. As local officials begin drafting their ethics ordinances, several defenses of the nepotism practice have popped up. The most common is, we want someone we can trust, and whom can we trust better than our relatives? That excuse is rather lame. To suggest that family members of our elected officials are the only people who can be trusted with our tax money is an insult. We cast our ballot for the person who is best qualified and who can be trusted the most. In turn, we expect that official to hire honest, competent people. In some cases, the official's husband, wife, son, daughter, etc., is qualified for the job. Most times, though, little effort has been made to find someone outside of the family who is just as qualified or more qualified. Case in point: How many times have you seen an ad in the local paper seeking applicants for county road foreman, county treasurer, deputy sheriff, deputy county clerk, deputy jailer or any other county job? Probably the most important question in this debate is this: Are officials' family members hired because they are qualified for the job and can be trusted with the government's money, or are they hired because they need a job? We wouldn't have to be debating the nepotism issue if the answer to the first question was always "yes."—Paintsville Herald

Rain nor sleet nor... oh, forget it
by Dale McFeatters
Scripps Howard News Service
I may be alone in thinking this, but the dismal performance of the U.S. Postal Service is a good omen for the country.

It is a well-known axiom that the poorer the country, the better the mail delivery, and that a sure sign of incipient Third Worldism is an improving post office.

I don't need to tell you that there is an alarming amount of evidence that the United States is—or was—headed for Third World status: a wholesale disregard for the traffic laws; sidewalk teeming with peddlers and beggars; a laughably inept government; increasingly worthless money.

But now comes a survey that shows a letter in the nation's capital has only a 60 percent chance of arriving on time. Nationally, the chances are a mediocre 78 percent.

There's more good news: The Postal Service recently printed a picture of the wrong person on a first-class stamp, whose cost, by the way, will soon rise to 32 cents.

Meanwhile, the amount of unsolicited and unwanted mail continues to mount.

These are healthy economic indicators and should be a cause for optimism, not alarm: America is headed back in the direction of the First World.

Here's why truly first-rate mail service is an economic and social danger sign:

Despite heroic efforts by the most technologically advanced society on Earth—to automate post offices, the most effective and reliable way to sort the mail is by hand and to deliver it by foot.

The countries with the best post offices tend to have high unemployment and not much mail. In a tropical country, where the job alternative is field labor in the broiling sun, a chance to work inside, wear a white shirt and wield a rubber stamp is the very zenith of a career path.

Plus, since there isn't much mail, the actual work isn't all that hard.

In large parts of the world, junk mail is not a nuisance but a high honor. Dwellers in remote mud-hut villages where the average annual income is around $30 would be pleased and flattered to receive an LL Bean catalog offering to sell them a $300 tent or a Lillian Vernon catalog urging them to buy a set of ceramic garden gnomes.

You never hear of a Third World coup attempt by disgruntled postal workers.

I know what you're going to say next: But what about Europe?

In Western Europe, the mail service has been getting worse, and as prosperity comes to Eastern Europe, their service is getting worse too, even though the mail no longer takes the extra day necessary for the secret police to read it first.

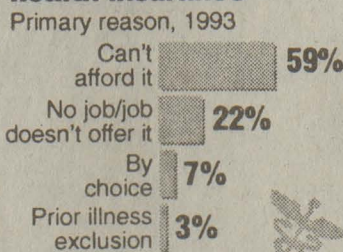

It is true, however, that European mail service is better than ours, but consider why: Their post offices are run as massive jobs programs heavily subsidized by the telephone system.

That's why in Albania, for example, it takes a letter only two days to go from Puke to Blinisht while it takes a phone call three days.

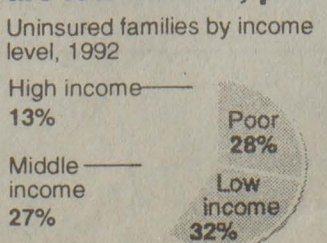

Another ruse to watch out for is the "Ministry of Post and Telecommunications." That means the government-run television network is subsidizing the mails by offering a prime-time lineup of such pulse-quickeners as a beet-growers' round table and the clog-dancing semifinals.

The smart and patriotic Washingtonian will poke around his empty mailbox and smile as he thinks, "I'm OK. You're OK. And the mail is in Peoria."

Lightning strikes three times for coal company workers!

Who says lightning doesn't strike in the same place twice? In the case of the Big Elk Creek Coal Company in Southeastern Kentucky, Lottery lightning has struck three times!

Eugene Day of Knott County won $100,000 playing the Kentucky Lottery's POWERBALL Saturday night. He's the third employee of the Big Elk Creek Coal Company to win a major prize. Two of his co-workers, James Sturgill of Hindman and Orville Miller of Bulan, have also collected big checks from the Kentucky Lottery. Sturgill won $100,000 playing Cash 5 in January 1992, while Miller won $1.4 million in Lotto Kentucky in January 1994.

Day says there's a coal truck operator at Big Elk Creek who won $25,000 playing the Kentucky Lottery's Banko scratchoff game.

Day's ticket was a quick pick, purchased for him by a friend.

"I gave my friend $5 to buy me a POWERBALL ticket," he said. "I went to her house to pick it up Saturday evening and she had two tickets, one she bought for herself and one for me. She asked which one I wanted and I said 'it didn't matter.' She decided to take the other ticket because she had picked the numbers on it. Turns out my Quick Pick won. I still can't believe it!"

POWERBALL is a Multi-State Lottery Association game played in 16 states (including Kentucky) and the District of Columbia. —staff report

Pike food stamp effort praised

If you're looking to cash in on food stamps you're not eligible for, don't try it in Pike County.

With an error rate of 1.97 percent, Pike County's Department of Social Insurance office had the best efficiency score of all the food-stamp programs in the country last year.

"We need other offices around the state to pay attention to details the way you do," Human Resources Secretary Masten Childers II said Monday as he presented the office staff with a plaque.

Social Insurance Commissioner John Clayton said the national error rate is about 8 percent. —Louisville Courier-Journal

Wreck kills driver, injures passenger

One Johnson County man was killed and another was seriously injured in a wreck this week. State police and Darrell Thomas Fannin, 18, of Paintsville, died at the scene of the wreck, which occurred about 3:10 a.m. on Ky. 40 at Meally, about 2 miles southwest of Paintsville. Fannin was driving east in a 1985 Pontiac when his car ran off the road in a curve, overturned and went over an embankment. A passenger, Mark Fannin, 20, of Paintsville, was taken to the Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center where he was admitted in serious condition.

The accident is still under investigation by trooper Scott Hazelette. —Lexington Herald-Leader

Prestonsburg team take business, food expertise to Martin County restaurant

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

Last month, three young Floyd Countians embarked upon the restaurant business in Martin County, and so far their venture has been successful.

On July 1, Jeff and Leann Cook and Tom Brown took over "Pappy's," a new country-style restaurant located on Route 3 near the junction of Route 645 bypass road just outside of Inez.

Today (Friday), Saturday and Sunday is the restaurant's grand opening. Leann, who is a licensed speech and language pathologist employed by the Floyd County school system, said that the restaurant "will have a peppy atmosphere this weekend."

The restaurant will be giving away prizes, and will offer new food items for its customers.

The road the three took to become restaurateurs began a few months ago when Pappy's former owners John and Loyce Kirk of Inez offered to lease the building to the trio. They took the Kirks up on the deal.

"Owning a restaurant is something Jeff always wanted to do," Leann said of her husband. "He enjoys cooking for people and entertaining at home. The Kirks gave us an opportunity we couldn't pass up."

While admitting they have never been in the restaurant business, Jeff, Leann and Tom, all graduates of Prestonsburg High School, definitely know what they like in restaurants when it comes to food, service and atmosphere. And they have incorporated what they like best in their restaurant, which they have renamed "T. Jay's."

The entrepreneurs have made other changes, too. Fast food and throw-away dishes are out at T. Jay's. The restaurant is a full-service, sit down and dine eatery where customers are the first priority, say the new owners. "We are totally attentive to all our customers," Jeff said. "Everything is made to order."

Pappy's specialized in country-style foods, such as soup beans, cornbread and other traditional Eastern Kentucky fare.

"We're kinda getting away from country food," said Jeff, who recently graduated from Eastern Kentucky University with a degree in economics. "Prime rib is our specialty...It's a complete menu from hot dogs to prime rib. We also have specials every day.

"What we are focusing on in our menu is very high quality products," he continued. "We focus on having the best quality food and meat in Eastern Kentucky. We special order our meat and hand cut it at our restaurant, and I can't imagine anybody doing any better."

Confident in their product, the three are aiming to lure diners throughout the region to T. Jay's and then have them come back as repeat customers. "We are one of the most regional restaurants in the area," said Tom, whose grandfather George Brown was the founder of Brown's Food Service. "We are 25 minutes from downtown Louisiana, Prestonsburg and Paintsville."

He added, "If we serve a consistently quality product for a fair price, people will respond."

T. Jay's, which also serves breakfast, is open at 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday. On Sunday, the restaurant closes at 8 p.m. Prices range from $1.88 for a hot dog, chips and drink to $15.95 for a rack of ribs dinner, which includes a salad, choice of potato, one vegetable and bread.

Floodplains and Wetlands Notice Early Public Notice

The City of Prestonsburg is considering construction of storm water drainage facilities in the Goble Roberts community within the City's corporate limits. Project elements include construction of 8,620 L.F. of storm water drainage pipes, as well as 43 catch basins, appurtenances, and 5,930 L.F. sidewalks. These improvements will address drainage problems throughout the community and divert storm water into the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River.

The project area lies within the 100-year flood plain. Project activities, by virtue of their type and scope, must be conducted in the 100 year flood plain.

Construction of storm water drainage will alleviate potential and/or documented public health and safety hazards associated with standing water created by lack of adequate drainage.

The City of Prestonsburg is interested in discussing alternatives to the proposed project and obtaining public comment regarding possible adverse impacts that could result from the project, as well as input regarding minimization measures which could be taken to lessen any such adverse impacts.

Please send written comments to Mayor Jerry Fannin, City of Prestonsburg, 31 S. Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, KY 41653. Comments will be received until Tuesday, August 23, 1994.

Weight management program at OLW

The next weight management session at Our Lady of the Way Hospital will begin on August 18. "Weightbusters," a comprehensive weight management program, is a 12-week program for the health-conscious person, which emphasizes the importance of nutritious diet, physical activity, behavior modification and stress management techniques. Rather than a "diet" approach, "Weightbusters" offers a long-range, healthy lifestyle approach. The program is directed toward people who have from 10-70 lbs. to lose and who have not found long-term, satisfactory results from dieting.

Since a pre-enrollment screening and a consultation with the dietitian are required, those desiring to participate in "Weightbusters" should call 285-5181, ext. 346, to register and schedule an appointment for August. This class has a limited number of openings.

Nurse-aide training

A nurse-aide training course is scheduled August 22-September 2, and an organizational meeting for the class will be held Wednesday, August 17, at 10:30 a.m. on the Mayo Campus in Paintsville. Participants must attend the organizational meeting to attend the course.

For more information, call 789-5321, ext. 246.

Floyd County students prepare for fall semester at Eastern Kentucky University

Approximately 140 Floyd Countians are expected to be enrolled when the fall semester begins at Eastern Kentucky University.

They will be joining nearly 16,500 students who are expected at EKV, the state's largest regional university, either at the main campus in Richmond or at one of the three educational centers in Corbin, Manchester or Danville.

For students returning to the Richmond campus, the most obvious change will be the ongoing work to renovate and expand John Grant Crabbe Library in the heart of campus. Also, fire and safety students will soon enjoy the new state-of-art Ashland Oil Fire and Safety Laboratory in EKV's law enforcement complex.

In addition to the physical changes, several academic programs have been modified as part of an ongoing effort to better meet the needs of students and potential employers.

Because of state budget cuts in recent years that have adversely affected all the state universities, some students will find fewer sections of courses offered and, therefore, may require more time to earn a degree than previously. Also, the Council on Higher Education approved tuition increases this year for all state universities.

However, opportunities for financial aid still abound at Eastern. Students can apply for grants, loans, scholarships, campus jobs or a combination of those programs. Total need-based and academic financial aid at EKV last year totaled about $40 million, or an average of about $2,400 per student.

Residence halls will open at noon Sunday, August 14, and wrap-up registration will be held Monday, August 15 and Tuesday, August 16. The "drop-add" period begins the following day and day and evening classes, on and off campus, begin as scheduled Thursday, August 18.

A member of the Baptist Church and a Kentucky Colonel, he has two children, Amanda Brooke and Joshua. The Salyers are now residing at Saltlick.

John C. Hall and sons, Tommy and John Hall Jr. of Hall Funeral Home of Martin, announced this week that Jack Salyers has joined their staff

Epsy launches effort to put running water in every home

Secretary of Agriculture Mike Epsy will host a rural water roundtable, Wednesday, August 10, at the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), Thomas Fern, Kentucky Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) State Director said today.

"The roundtable will launch 'Water 2000 — A Faucet in Every Home,' an Administration initiative to provide clean, drinkable tap water for every rural household by the year 2000," said Fern.

The roundtable, to be held in USDA's Jefferson Auditorium, in Washington, D.C. will bring together water utility experts from around the nation to identify the issues and solutions associated with supplying water to rural areas. The morning session, beginning at 8:30 a.m. (EDT), will include Epsy, USDA Secretary Bob Nash, and a panel of people who have been involved in providing water to rural America.

The audience and panelists will split into five groups for the afternoon session. Each of the groups will discuss one of the five topics associated with rural water development: needs assessment, financing; streamlining agency review; community empowerment, and environmental review.

The morning session will be televised live via satellite from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. (EDT) to various locations across the country. A delayed transmission will be transmitted from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. (EDT) on the same day. Both satellite transmissions will be broadcast in C-band and KU-band at the following coordinates: C-band - Galaxy 6 Transponder 12 (V), downlink frequency 3940

MHZ, Audio 6.2 and 6.8, KU-band-Galaxy 7-K Transponder 21 (V), downlink frequency 12110 MHZ Audio 6.2 and 6.8. Should there be any difficulty in receiving this transmission, call USDA Office of Communications at (202) 720-8559.

The Farmers Home Administration State Office has coordinated two downlink sites at Fayette County Extension Service, 1145 Red Mile Place, Lexington, and Hardin County Extension Service, 201 Peterson Drive, Elizabethtown. For those interested in watching the forum from one of these locations, contact the FmHA State Office (606) 224-7300.

Pontiki mine is winner in union election

After nearly a year of uncertainty, Pontiki Coal Corporation (Pontiki) has been declared the winner of the union representation election held on August 13, 1993. The United Mine Workers of America (UMWA) had petitioned in June of 1993 to represent the work force.

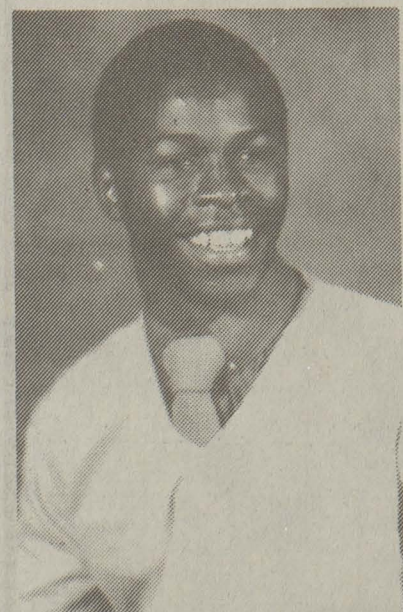

On July 29, 1994, the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) ordered that 23 ballots challenged by the UMWA during last year's election be opened and counted. Those ballots were opened and counted at NLRB Region 9 offices in Cincinnati, Thursday.

The final vote tally resulted in a tie of 101 yes, 101 no, which under current labor law means a defeat for the union. Since the UMWA did not object to Pontiki's conduct during the election, the results are final.

Pontiki's Vice President for Operations, Charlie Wesley, stated, "We have waited a long time for this vote count and we are very pleased with the outcome. The interests of fairness and democracy were served today, because every employee's vote was counted."

"We are very anxious to put the election behind us. This final election result signals an end and a beginning. It's the beginning of teamwork, ownership and a shared vision for a successful future. In an environment where every employee can represent himself or herself and work together in a spirit of cooperation, we are poised for success."

Sara Hopson

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME

According to my sister, media entertainment rooms are what's "in" this year in home furnishings. She and her husband enjoy touring Homearama's in the Northern Kentucky area and often get decorating and landscaping ideas from their outings, but this recent trip was out of their realm of imitation.

"You wouldn't have believed it, Sara. It's amazing what people are getting for a million dollars these days" my sister said sarcastically.

"You're kidding!" I exclaimed. "The home cost a million dollars?"

"All eight of them were in the $700,000 to $950,000 price range. That's as close to a million as you can get without going over the estimated retail price. The smallest one was 3500 sq. ft. and the largest was 5800. They were all sold, too."

"What was this year's feature?" I asked.

"Movie theaters." "In the houses?"

"The guide acted as though it was as normal as having a stove. She didn't bat an eyelash when she said, 'Why pay the expense of the price of a ticket and popcorn when you can watch movies in the comfort of your own home. Can you believe that! Six dollars and a $2.50 tub of buttered popcorn would have to be cheaper, wouldn't you think? But they don't call them theaters, they are called media entertainment rooms.'"

"I suppose for that price you could call them anything you wanted," I intoned.

"Some of the theater seats had vibrating machines built into them. My personal favorite had a parlor, library, living room, dining room, morning room/great room, sunroom, recreation room with kitchen, three bathrooms and a kitchen with Brazilian cherry floors with inlaid marble accents and that was just on the first floor. On the second floor was the master bedroom with coffered ceilings with recessed lighting with master bath that seats six and exercise loft. There were also two other bedrooms with baths and walk-in closets as well as an overlook bridge. Of course, this didn't include the basement where the media entertainment center was located."

"That sounds incredible," I sputtered.

"They were nice, but they didn't have any warmth. Even though the coffered ceilings with lighting were supposed to give a feeling of warmth and space. I kept thinking, I couldn't put my sister's Christmas gifts in this house. I mean, where would you put a duck centerpiece or a set of caroling pigs? In this house they would stick out like sore thumbs," she laughed.

"Yes, they would, but you could put them in the media entertainment room. It's usually dark in there."

"This year's homes were just too elaborate," my sister lamented. "The only redeeming value of our tour was when the guide read that Cincinnati Magazine stated 'the three best places to live in Cincinnati were in Northern Kentucky.'"

Our old Kentucky homes are still the best.

THE TIMES' WEEKEND

Vocalist achieving success with 'Wright' frame of mind

Autumn Jam

Michelle Wright will present her concert during Autumn Jam, sponsored by Coleman Oil and Pepsi, on September 17.

When Michelle Wright enters the studio to record an album, she goes in with only one purpose in mind. "The main thing for me is always the song and what it says," reveals the smoky-voiced singer. "I have to believe in the song's message. It has to be something that I feel strongly about. Everyone of the songs on my current album is very special to me."

For Now & Then, her latest album on Arista Records, Michelle found songs that tap deeply into powerful emotions: The Top 10 hit "Take It Like A Man," the valuable "Now & Then," and the painfully reflective "He Would Be Sixteen." Currently approaching double platinum status in her native Canada,

Now & Then propelled Michelle to superstar status there, and firmly established her presence in the U.S., as well.

"Success has been a twelve-year process in Canada," says Michelle. "It took a long time for people to get to know me, but that experience really prepared me for the American audience."

And the America audience loves her. For much of 1993 Michelle toured with Alabama and Diamond Rio: this exciting package is one of the hottest concert tickets in America today, showcasing Michelle and her music to an average of eight thousand country music fans each night.

Growing up in Merlin, Ontario, a small Canadian farming community, Michelle was bred on American music. She heard the rhythm and blues and Motown hits coming out of Detroit, just 45 minutes away. But especially she heard the strains of country music—on the air, in the house, everywhere she went.

"I was born and raised on country music," says Michelle, whose parents were both country performers. "It was all I ever listened to on the radio." She began touring and playing clubs right out of high school, and by 1988 she had released her first album in Canada.

Recognizing the massive potential contained in her husky voice, Arista made Michelle the third artist signed when the label opened its country division. Her 1990 self-titled debut album for the label paved the way for success in the United States, drawing raves from magazines including People, Cash Box and Country Music.

The release of the first Arista album also contributed to her high profile in the entertainment industry—she has been a mainstay at Canadian awards shows since then, including a four-year reign as the Canadian Country Music Association (CCMA) Female Vocalist of the Year, a title she still holds. Now & Then continues the momentum, and she's since added the Academy of Country Music (ACM) Top New Female Vocalist award list to her list of honors.

Michelle is currently in the studio preparing the next project with Grammy winning producer/engineer Val Garay (Linda Ronstadt, Jackson Browne, Kim Carnes), and is anticipating a release in early 1994. "I'm very excited to be working with Val," says Michelle. "We get along great, and I'm looking forward to the years of experience he will be sharing with me."

News of the Weird

by Chuck Shepherd

After a spirited debate at the Great Midwestern Think-Off on June 26 in New York Mills, Minn., the audience of professional and amateur philosophers officially affirmed, by 70-54, that life has meaning. Winning debater and sometime-fisherman Peter Hiltz argued that life has meaning even for a fish, prevailing over beekeeper Charles Carpenter, who maintained that life simply "is" and that life is beyond such a bland concept as "meaning." Each of the four semi-finalists received a medal of Rodin's "The Thinker" seated on a tractor.

— In Dallas in June, a 63-year-old woman had a 156-pound ovarian cyst, representing about half her body weight, removed. Her surgeon said "several stout people" were necessary to get the tumor

Well, ain't this a marriage made in heaven? Lisa Marie Presley, daughter of His Highness The King, and Michael Jackson moonwalked down the aisle a couple of months ago to complete what must be a perfect union.

Both bride and groom are among the most sought after foxes of publicity hounds around the world.

Lisa Marie is famous because her dad died nearly two decades ago but he's still working in a doughnut shop somewhere in Michigan.

Michael Jackson is famous because he's the only guy in the world who can wear high water britches without being made fun of to his face.

Of course, if you've seen Mikey's hairdo lately you'll understand that you can't make fun of him to his face because you can't tell which side of his head his face is on.

Somebody ought to buy that guy a comb for a wedding present.

And another glove, too.

You'd think a guy with Mike's money could afford a decent haircut.

Lisa Marie has some dough of her own, too. About a hundred million or so.

Isn't likely this pair got married for money.

Must be love.

Or, maybe Elvis just wanted a grandkid.

Who knows?

Who cares?

Well, come to think of it, everybody cares.

Not necessarily about Mike and Lisa Marie's reasons for tying the knot, though.

Inquiring minds want to know if Elvis is going to turn up in any of the wedding pictures.

Caught in a trap, with no way out.

Hah!

We suspect this marriage is more of a business proposition than anything else.

Can you imagine the talent a child of this pair might have?

A star is born.

When little Elvis Jackson hits the stage somewhere down the road, the music world will no doubt be turned on its ear.

Hey, it's as easy as ABC.

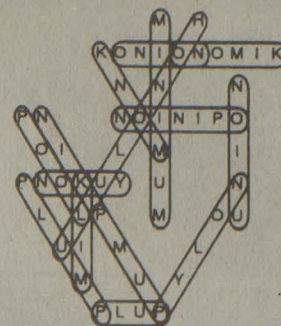

Gonna be a Thriller.

And I can't help, falling in love.aaaagain.

WMDJ rolls past Gamblers; Red Heat upsets Regina Supply

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Under some very pleasant playing conditions WMDJ radio, the defending regional Class C softball champions, scored six times in the fourth inning to mercy the Gambler's 18-1 in first-round action.

WMDJ has won the Class C regional the past two years.

"The weather has been great for playing softball," said tournament manager Kenny Conley.

It was a great night for Dale McKinney's ballclub as they opened defense of their title.

"They took a 1-0 lead on us and we came back with 18 in four innings," said McKinney. "Hopefully, we can keep it going."

The Gambler's held their only lead in the first inning when they scored the first run of the game for a 1-0 lead. The lead was short-lived as the local radio station crew plated four runs in the bottom of the inning for a 4-1 game.

Kevin Spurlock tripled home Todd Justice and Robbie Fraley in the first inning. He scored on Phillip Tucker's base hit. Tucker came home on Barry Hall's long triple.

Five runners crossed home plate in the second for WMDJ. McKinney walked but was forced at second by Justice. Fraley, Spurlock and Aaron Tucker had consecutive singles and, with two out, Hall and Brian Turner had RBI singles.

Three runs scored in the third for WMDJ and they put the game in the win column with six in the fourth.

The Gamblers went out in order in the second and third innings. They left two runners stranded in the fourth and went one, two, three in the fifth.

McKinney had a third inning triple for the local team. Phillip Tucker, Turner, Hall, Justice and Fraley had two hits in the game. Spurlock finished with two hits, including two triples.

Age doesn't slow Dickerson brothers

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Golf!
A great game!

Golfers are perhaps the most dedicated sportsmen in the world as rain, cool weather or the little lady of the house can't keep them from the golf links.

It's a great game because of the exercise it provides those who shun the golf cart.

Three days a week Fred L. Dickerson, 80, and James Dickerson, Sr., 85, head for the Beaver Valley Golf Course in Allen to play nine holes of golf. Fred has been playing the game for the past 42 years.

"I started playing and played for 25 years," he said, "and then laid off for 19 years. I came back and started playing two years ago."

Fred squares off with his brother, James, who hasn't quite been making the rounds as long as Fred.

"I started playing three years ago," he explained. "At my age I feel real good. But I don't feel like someone 16."

James recalled when he first started playing the game. "The first time I played golf I hated it. I thought it was the most stupid thing anyone could do."

"But the second time I played it wasn't as bad," he said. "I liked it better than I did the first time I played."

Dynamic Duo plays the links three times a week

The second time I didn't get as tired as the first. It was better both mentally and physically."

James said that the third time out on the links, he became, like everyone else, hooked.

"I'm still hooked. I love to play the game. It's good exercise for a person my age."

James said that his best game for nine holes was when he shot a 45 recently.

Fred and James are close and the golf course keeps them that way. Fred lives in Inez while James lives just off the Mountain Parkway and the two meet three days a week at the Allen course.

While Fred has the advantage in experience, James feels he is catching up in his game.

"I've got it over him in terms of experience," said Fred.

"But I beat him today," said James laughing. "I've beaten him two or three times. In fact, I've beaten them all."

James had shot a 46 in beating Fred by six strokes, but he confessed that wasn't the real Fred Dickerson.

"Fred's better than that," said James. "He was just a little off his game today. He didn't have a good night last night."

"I started playing golf with Adrian Collins and we played here at this course," explained Fred. "Back then they had the sand traps. I played a lot of golf at Paintsville, but I like this course."

"This course is good for older people," stated James. "Here you don't have the hills and bridges to bother with."

Fred believes that golf can contribute to longevity of life.

"Golf will make me live to be a 100 years old," said Fred. "It takes in all the exercise that my doctors want me to get."

The brothers have a third brother that plays the links more than them. "Our brother Dickey, who is 74-years-old and lives in Florida, plays seven days a week," said Fred.

Both have played the area courses such as Paintsville, Sugarloaf, West Liberty and Sandy Creek in Ashland.

James, though a short timer in terms of years playing, enjoys the opportunity to compete.

"Competition. That's what I like about the game," said James. "Beating the other guy."

"The doctors told me that I would live longer if I walked three to five miles a week. That I needed to exercise in order to live longer. Golf does that for me."

"I live alone and don't really have much to do," said James. "It allows me to get away from the house and meet some different and nice people. They have the nicest people here you would ever want to meet."

Laughing, Fred said that when he started playing the game, they told him that golf "was a sissy game."

"Well, we used to all play baseball, and golf seemed like a sissy game then," said James. "It's hard to train old dogs."

Besides hitting golf balls all over the links, James also spreads something else and that is the gospel as a United Methodist minister.

"I've been a minister for 41 years," he said. "I don't pastor a church now except to fill in at different places."

Fred's calling was a bit different and surprising.

"I was the one that started the old Fountain Corner Drug Store in Prestonsburg back in 1947," he said. "I was in the drug store business for 48

Rowe to help with Morehead State football program

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Chuck Rowe, of Prestonsburg, will be part of the coaching staff at Morehead State University this season as he received word that he would be working with Matt Ballard's team this fall.

"When I got home Tuesday night there was a message on the machine from Stevie Allen, who is at Morehead," said Rowe.

Rowe was considered for the position when he was recommended by Allen, who will be helping with the freshmen this year.

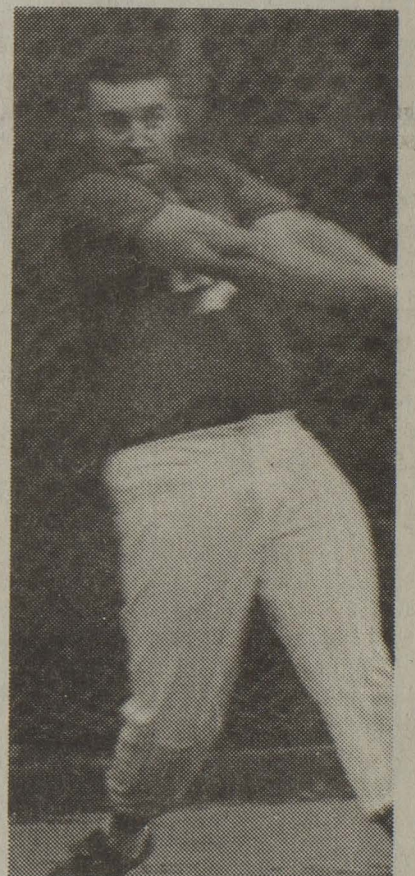

"I have to move on campus this Sunday because the freshmen report Monday and I have to be there," said Rowe. "Coach Ballard told me that I would be overseeing drills and other duties."

"I'm real excited about going. I'll do whatever needs to be done."

Floyd County will have representation on the Eagles squad this season. Former Prestonsburg standout John Gilliam is a full time assistant with the Eagles' football team.

Dwayne Garza and Ryan Elliott, who starred for the Prestonsburg Blackcats last season, will be frosh at Morehead this season. With Allen and Rowe in camp, it is almost a full Prestonsburg staff.

The Eagles are attempting to become a non-scholarship program and Coach Ballard will be in his first season at Morehead replacing Cole Proctor.

A Look At Sports

by Ed Taylor, Sports Editor

• The Prestonsburg Blackcat football team has added another team to its 1994 schedule. Betsy Layne will travel to the Blackcats' lair on Saturday, October 3.

• Blaine Depoy, Allen, competed in his first ever Bluegrass State Games in archery and came home with a bronze medal.

• The dirt at the Prestonsburg football field is good for more than just football victories. We don't know who the farmer is that has the vegetables growing at the football field, but they sure know about farming.

• TRACK UPDATE: The Allen Central track and field facility is close to seeing the asphalt laid. Gravel has been hauled in and is ready to be spread. The kids around the county (yes, around the county) are looking forward, with excitement, to having a county track meet this spring.

• Aren't you proud of the way our county kids performed at the Games last weekend. I was so proud of them. I can imagine how their parents and coaches felt. We have some great kids in the county. I just want to see them all succeed in life.

• Golf and Cross-Country are our two fall sports in the county. They will get started in late August and early September.

• I saw Kenny Rice (Channel 36 Sports Director and former Allen Central student) at the Bluegrass Games Saturday. He was teaming with others in the three-on-three basketball. Kenny is well and looking good. He says he is getting old. Wow! Yet he can still play basketball. I always look forward to seeing Kenny at the Games. He's a fine young man.

Said Kenny: "We played this team from Martin County (Roger Harless, Jack Ward and Frank Baldrige) and we were getting three good shots at the basket but could not make it. They would get one and hit it every time. They killed us."

Time to retire from the courts, Kenny.

Kenny said that he looks for the Wildcats (Kentucky) to have a decent team this year.

"You pull for someone like Bill Curry that is a class person," said Rice. "They could win five or six games."

• Could there be a "new kid on the block" at Allen Central when school begins later this month? Could Johnny Martin's ballclub receive a boost?

• Here's some good news. Chuck Rowe was just doing what he was expected to do, which was to play softball Tuesday night at Archer Park. When Chuck, who will be attending Morehead State University this year, returned home Friday night, he received a phone call from Morehead asking him to help with the football program this year. He is elated and rightly so.

Chuck is a fine person and just an outstanding young man. I wish him the best at whatever he does. Some day he will make a fine football coach.

• Gary Hopkins is the new Athletic Director at Prestonsburg High School replacing coach Gordie Parido, who will concentrate on basketball this year.

Hopkins will do a good job for Prestonsburg. He is one of the finest tournament managers I have seen.

• I am constantly asked about the Prestonsburg football program this year. I just tell them they are going to be winners.

Since last year, all over the county, everyone is interested in another county team making a state playoff appearance.

Prestonsburg will no doubt have a quality team. But folks have to realize that a lot departed from last year's team.

• Fans are up in the air over the pending baseball strike a week from today. The players are finding less and less fans on their side.

It's a shame that the best season we have had in major league baseball for the past several years is about to be interrupted.

The players are very greedy and they do not have my support (they figure they don't need it). The owners know what it takes to run a business successfully and all are going to lose money this year.

Shut the ball park gates and let's play football.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Get the kids out of bed Sunday morning and take them to church.

Bad Boys edge Cyclones as regional softball tournament gets underway

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The 1994 C and D Regional Softball Tournament got underway at Archer Park Tuesday night as 24 teams entered the double elimination tournament.

The first game was a forfeit as Feds Creek failed to appear and the team of Vanover and Hall were awarded the 7-0 win.

On field one, the Bad Boys lived up to their name as they handed the local Cyclone team a 3-2 edging.

The Bad Boys plated two runs in the first and added a third run in the third to hold off a late seventh inning challenge by the Cyclones.

A walk to Doug Swisher and John Mills' double accounted for the first Bad Boys run. Lanny Cox singled home Mills to make it a 2-1 ball game.

The Cyclones took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first. Cory Reitz ripped a triple down the right field line and he scored on Chuck Rowe's sacrifice fly.

In the Bad Boys third, Cox walked and Maynard roped a single. Cox scored on Sexton's RBI single.

Rowe led off the seventh for the Cyclones with a base hit. With one out, Ronnie Goodman singled home Rowe for a 3-2 game.

The Cyclones had two runners on with only one out but Robbie Sexton skied out to center and Hopson popped to short to end the inning, stranding the runners. The Cyclones left two runners stranded in the fifth inning when Goodman and Sexton collected back-to-back singles with two out.

Reitz had two hits for the Cyclones as did Goodman. The loss drops the Cyclones to the losers bracket.

Red Heat over Spurs

The Red Heat, a team from Paintsville, turned up the heat on the Spurs and posted an 8-7 win, scoring the winning run in the bottom of the sixth inning.

The Heat collected five consecutive hits in the inning to plate the winning run.

The Spurs pushed across six runs in the first inning for a 6-0 lead. The Heat responded in their half of the first with three runs on a three-run home run for a 6-3 game.

Two runs scored for the Red Heat in the second to narrow the lead to one run. They went in front 7-6 with a two-run fourth but the Spurs managed to dent the plate once in the sixth to tie the game at seven.

Road Creek faces Wright Lumber

Wright Lumber sent 12 batters to the plate in the fifth inning while scoring eight times en route to a 14-3 win over Road Creek from Elkhorn City on field two.

Pete Castle and Steve Reid collected two hits each.

Four errors aided Wright Lumber's cause in the fifth inning. Reid opened the inning with a base hit and, with two out, Castle singled which was followed by a two-run error at second base.

Scott Stephens walked and Thomas Meade singled home a run. Two runs crossed the plate when Charlie Collins' fly ball was misplayed.

Wright's took a 3-0 lead in the first inning on a two-run double by Stephens. Stephens scored on a groundout.

Road Creek plated two in the bottom of the first for a 3-2 game and tied the game at three with a lone run in the second. Their final run came in the sixth on a solo home run.

Wright's Lumber got two runs in the sixth on a two-run home run by Kip Kidd. They added their final score in the seventh when Meade scored on Reid's base hit.

Free Pool Safety Kits

(NAPS)—Safety is no accident, especially around your swimming pool. To stay safely in the swim of things this summer, KUSS, Inc., a leading maker of vinyl swimming pool liners, offers free swimming pool safety kits to qualified pool owners. For a kit or more information, call this toll-free number: 1-800-880-7053.

KUSS advises that you heed these hints before swimming and diving this summer:

- Be sure your pool is designed for diving before you dive or allow others to dive.
- Supervise children and young adults at all times.
- Don't dive into unfamiliar bodies of water and never dive or slide headfirst into shallow areas of a pool.
- With an inground pool that is designed to accommodate diving, know the shape of the pool bottom and the water depth before you dive or slide headfirst.
- Don't run and dive.
- Don't drink and dive.
- When diving in a pool designed for diving, "steer up" immediately after entering the water by arching the head and arms back toward the surface.

If you are an owner of a KUSS vinyl swimming pool liner installed between 1980 and 1990, you are eligible to send for a free pool safety awareness kit, part of the company's new nationwide safety education campaign. The kit contains important easy-to-read safety literature and specially designed warning signs for around the pool area restating the hazards of unsafe swimming and diving.

KUSS-brand liners are identifiable by their distinctive border and bottom patterns. Your swimming pool service person or installer can determine whether you are eligible for the free safety kit based on your liner's individual serial number. To receive the kit, call 1-800-880-7053.
